agreed with Conger's contention that he was denied due process during the events leading up to his dismissal.

The former Atkins Junior High teacher-coach was granted a hearing before the board after Supt. Ed Irons reassigned him to other duties. The reassignment was ordered following allegations by At-kins school officials that Conger used profanity with his team, made an obscene gesture at a passing car during practice and generally failed to obey the

The TEA hearing officer ruled that Conger was denied due process because he was not notified that the hearing might result in his termination. Conger was thus not afforded a meaningful opportunity to defend himself against the proposition that the conduct for which he was reassigned justified termination, the decision states. She added, however, that Irons did not abuse his power in reassigning Conger.

John Paul asked the nations to declare the disputed area a "zone of peace," free of "cannons, weapons and war preparations," and requested a response by the Jan. 6 religious holiday of the Epiphany. Leaders of other Latin American nations with their own border conflicts are watching with interest to see if the hemisphere's most serious dispute can be solved peacefully.

Chile and Argentina were just hours away from war in December 1978 in a dispute over the islands and territorial waters in the Beagle Channel area at the southermost tip of South America.

It involves far more than the rocky islands, populated by only a handful of frigid waters of the southern seas may hold oil and mineral riches rivaling those of the North Sea.

Argentina distinguishes carefully between Chile as a Pacific Ocean nation and Argentina as an Atlantic power, and both are concerned that eventual settlement of the Beagle Islands issue will have implications for large chunks of the Antartic continent that both countries

The dispute began in the early 1800s when the British captain of the ship Bea-gle discovered and charted the channel.

Sixty years later, in 1881, Argentina and Chile signed an agreement delineating control of the area. It assigned to Chile all islands south of the Beagle Channel to Cape Horn and west of Tierra del Fuego, and gave Argentina certain islands on the Atlantic side and eastern coast of Patagonia.

But disagreement on the actual course of the Beagle Channel kept the dispute alive

In 1971 the countries submitted the issue to arbitration by an international court named by the Britain's queen. In May 1977, the court awarded the three major islands of Nueva, Picton and Lennox to Chile, basically upholding the earlier treaties. But seven months later, Argentina's military government, headed by President Jorge Videla, rejected the decision because, as one source said, it 'didn't give one symbolic shred of one rocky island to Argentina.

When war appeared inevitable, the pope offered to mediate the conflict and, in January 1979, the Chilean and Argentine foreign ministers agreed to start talking in May.

AT ISSUE here are not only tapes and other records pertaining to the aforementioned Watergate, Vietnam and former Presidents, but anything else apparently which may make headlines.

While at least two leading Democrats say there is no concerted party effort to block Haig's nomination, the end result of the demand for all pertinent tapes and papers regarding the Watergate-Vietnam era serves another purpose.

That purpose is to plant in the public's mind that Haig is a product of the era rather than a man who may have helped chart some

In other cities, highway facilities have design flaws but our Loop doesn't even seem to be average. There is no consistency in the treatment of interchanges, each one being different from the last, and inadequate signage leaving the typical driver confused and bewildered.

There's a puzzlement at the Idalou highway crossing, for example, and Indiana Avenue doesn't even connect with the Loop at its north end—and getting on and off the Clovis highway at the Loop is a test of each driver's genius.

the Loop is a test of each driver's genius.

The four-lane facility grows more crowded by

If it please the powers that be, let's have an I-27 expressway from north to south across the city that will be wide enough and have well-enough de-signed and signed interchanges that it will serve us well at least until the first potholes appear.

Appeals is considering whether the state can require of its high school graduates, as a condition for receiving a diploma, that they be able to read, write and do elementary numbers. If that sentence puzzles you, read it again.

The situation is precisely as described. Four years ago the Florida legislature passed a law decreeing that, beginning in 1979, high school students would have to take a test

If reason had not fled its temples, the Florida requirement would be regarded as a model of moderation. But in this field of racial equality, reason has vielded to nuttiness Attorneys for black students have challenged the law, on the grounds that some of the black

THE SITUATION IN the high schools of Cleveland is loonier still. It appears that total enrollment is 35 percent white, 65 percent black, but The basketball teams were found to be entirely black. Last year only Collingwood, among the city's 14 high schools, had even one white player, and he spent most of his time on the bench. This ghastly imbalance naturally could not be allowed to continue. Dr. Donald Waldrip, court-appointed desegregation administrator, made the only decision that wisdom, liberalism and lunacy could contrive: He ordered each of the high schools to place at least two white players on their 12-member squads. As the Indianapolis Star remarked, the players don't have to be good, they just have to be IF CLEVELAND is good for a laugh, after a fashion, Louisville provokes a sigh. Several years

A little girl carrying a large package was walking down the street looking confused about her. "Can I help you, my child?" asked a kindly old gentle-

"Please, sir," she asked, indicating a cross street, "could you tell me if this is the third turn to the right?"

The city created "traditional" schools, where students would be intellectually challenged and discipline would be firmly enforced. Here scholarship would come first. These traditional schools were of course open to students of both races. Indeed, it was a court-ordered requirement that at least 12 percent of their enrollment must be black. Otherwise, "racially identifiable" schools might develop, and these would be constitutionally intolerable. The schools have been so successful that a waiting list of 4,000 applicants has piled up.

The city willingly would create additional traditional schools to meet the demand-but only 1 percent of the applicants are black. Thus the 3,960 white children must be denied admission, and unless fresh infusions of black children can be found, some of the existing traditional schools may have to be abandoned.

The result often is a craft that isn't suited to their personal needs or skills.

"Many businessmen make the same mistake when they go into the small microcomputers or minicomputers," says
Tony Gold, head of Lifeboat Associates,
Inc., which, despite its nautical name, actually is devoted to publishing and distributing computer software — programming materials.

Small computers cost anywhere from $350 to $20,000. There are so many makes and models, Gold said, it is not wise to buy one until you know exactly what you want it to do for you now and what you want it to do a year or so hence.

He said this means knowing in advance what kind of software you need to solve your problems or do the job in mind. The businessmen who ask for a software package before they decide on a computer have the happiest experiences, he said, noting that software costs are a larger factor than hardware costs in the small computer field.

Lifeboat, founded in 1977 by Gold and Larry Alkoff, provides standard packages of software for almost 100 different small computers and also sometimes tailors custom software packages for users.

That Lifeboat name came about when Gold, a graduate of Britain's New Castle University and Harvard Business School, needed a corporate name in a hurry for a real estate deal, a rescue craft so to speak. After the real estate deal was history he still had the charter and used it for the software company. "The name fits fine," Gold said with a grin.

Lifeboat has ridden a wave of fantastic demand for software as has the Burbank, Calif., firm of John Cappelletti Associates, headed by the San Diego Charger football player.

The shortage of good programmers writers of software - today is making them the most sought-after professionals in today's economy, Cappelletti said. Firms today can't hope to train their time, and since data processing work is on a project basis, companies find they need certain kinds of programmers for certain periods of time. Even large firms find it uneconomic to train for a shortterm project.

Cappelletti hires programmers and leases them as individuals or teams by any desired period of time.

Gold agrees the shortage of skilful computer programmers is the Achilles heel of the industry. Newspapers and trade magazines all over the country are filled with help wanted ads for program-mers who often are called "authors" in

Vorkers Get Bonuses

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sixty-five high-level career Agriculture Department employees were given Christmas bonuses totaling $336,000 as rewards for outstanding performance.

The employees, who received from $2,505 to $9,020, are members of the resource of t

On a given day one is apt to see stories on abuses of the communist system, flying saucers, black market activities and illegal printing presses.

In a country that prides itself on the over-fulfillment of goals, in which the typical literary hero combines every shining virtue, facts can have more zest than fiction. And little by little, the Soviet press is loosening up.

The newspaper Trud, which means labor, actually is building a reputation for investigative journalism, or the closest the Soviets get to it.

Trud will by 60 years old in 1981, and its deputy editor Valery Yermolayev says its editorial policy — "to congratulate those who work well and draw attention to insufficiencies" — has never changed.
"Sensationalism" is illegal under Soviet law, so there are no titillating accounts of the private lives of Politburo members. But if workers are concerned about flying saucers, then they will read about them, or at least be given a scientific explanation of puzzling phenomena.

"We are not limited to the narrow subject of unions," said Trud foreign editor Erik Alekseyev. "Workers are interested in everything - culture, sports, satire and humor.

Flying saucers are something in which people are interested, so we write about it. We do not try to avoid a sub-

Most of Trud's sensational stories come in dead-pan accounts of the misdeeds of enterprising Soviet citizens, couched in the form of morality lessons.

"Illegal Printing's Impressive Range: From Pulp and Porno to Black Magic,"

A certain G. Svistelin, a copy machine repairman, worked in cahoots with N. Ignatovich, who provided the libary. Together they turned a tidy fortune selling pirate copies of such titles as "Pirates of the Red Sea," "The Princess Heart" and "Passion and Soul."

They were caught, of course, which is where the moral of Trud's story comes

F. Mirzotayeva brought up to date Gogol's "Dead Souls," paying pensions into fictitious personal accounts of dead or imaginary people, Trud told its 121/2 million readers, almost all sudscribers. The embezzler made 5,000 roubles ($7,-500) in the first week, and with the help of other officials in her department managed to skim off the equivalent of $48,750 from one office in one year.

On a more serious level, Trud investigates alleged misdoings in factories and

Golan Heights Annexation

Not Foreseen By RICHARD C. GROSS

sue, if for no other reason than that world opinion will not tolerate a permanent Israeli takeover of the territory.

The cabinet decision not to support an annexation bill in Parliament emerged only two days after a stray Israeli shell killed three Syrian soldiers in Lebanon, embarrassing Israel to make public apologies to Damascus, its arch foe.

The move against annexation apparently was a further attempt to mollify the Syrians, though it certainly angered the 7,000 Jewish settlers on the Golan who have pressed for the territory to be made part of Israel proper, as Israel did in 1967 with Arab East Jerusalem

The world condemned Israel for annexing East Jerusalem and a far worse outcry by the international community could have been expected had the Golan annexation bill run its parliamentary course and possibly been adopted.

For the sake of internal politics in an election year, however, Begin's government served notice Israel does not intend to retreat from the Golan escarpment from which Syrian shells bombarded Israeli settlements prior to 1967, when the Golan was captured.

octors Say Bomb Greatest Threat To Health

BOSTON (UPI) - Albert Einstein was not sure when World War III would start - but he knew there would be no World War IV

"The splitting of the atom has changed everything save man's mode of thinking," he said. "Thus we drift towards unparalleled 'atastrophe."

The immortal scientist's warning has become part of the grafitti of the nuclear age. Hoisted on signs by demonstrators and drowned by other problems, its impact fades and life goes on.

But some new voices, concerned that people have become dangerously numbed to the consequences of nuclear war, have revived the message.

More than 3,000 hometown general practitioners and specialists, instructors and deans at prestigious medical schools and doctors with renowned institutions named after them are banding together to promote the idea that the bomb is the greatest threat to health the world has ever known.

"The absurdity of an atomic war is so obvious that we can't possibly allow it," said Dr. Jonas Salk, who heads the Salk Institute in San Diego.

'If we are so ingenious as to be able to solve all sorts of other problems, then we surely have the ingenuity to find a way to avoid war."

Salk, two Nobel prizewinners, six medical school deans and some 31 other leading American doctors make up the Boston-based International Physicians for Prevention of Nuclear War Inc.

Another Boston group with the same goal, Physicians for Social Responsibility, has 3,000 members nationwide.

"Psychic numbing," as one doctor called it, is what they're out to remove. "We feel there is massive denial of the consequence of nuclear weapons,' said Dr. James Muller, secretary of the international group and a Harvard heart specialist. "At some point deep down inside, people know the world could explode tomorrow. But you can't get up each morning and think that. It's like the patient who won't go to the hospital - nothing is done to prevent the disease. There is a tendency to think of nuclear weapons as just big guns with which we can defend ourselves," he said. "The problem is they're not. They're weapons of national suicide. Muller and other members went to

Geneva, Switzerland, earlier this month for an unprecedented meeting with three leading Soviet doctors, including Dr. Eugene Chasov, Soviet deputy minister of Both sides agreed doctors would be unable to care for the sick and injured after a nuclear attack - if there were any doctors left. They also agreed that money poured into nuclear armaments would be better used elsewhere.

"In this struggle we must unite all physicians, regardless of their political views," Chasov, who is now co-chairman of the group with Harvard's Dr. Bernard Lown, said in published reports after the

"If nuclear war starts, there will be huge losses of both American and Soviet

Muller admits it's possible Western doctors are being used by their Eastern colleagues. "But it's also possible the Russians are being doctors," he said. "You have to go with your feelings."

The international group plans its first full-scale meeting just outside Washington, D.C., March 19-26. Medical leaders from France, Britain and other countries have been invited. No specific goals will be discussed until then. But some of the possibilities, Muller said, would be to limit nuclear armament proliferation and then cut down existing stockpiles.

British doctors last month announced the formation of their own group, the Medical Campaign Against Nuclear Weapons. The French also are organiz-

In the United States, Physicians For Social Responsibility started unofficially in 1962 with publication in the New England Journal of Medicine of an article describing the effect of a nuclear attack.

Death, burns, blindness, tattered skin, eventual cancer and other wellknown horrors of nuclear war were repeated by Dr. Howard Hiatt, dean of the Harvard School of Public Health, during Senate hearing in June. Among the statistics: For every 1,700 injured survivors there would be one physician to attend

"Survival in the event of a nuclear war would be impossible," said Dr. He-len Caldicott, a leader of PFSR. "It's the final medical epidemic

State when Cyrus R. Vance was secretary, calls the national security adviser a 'rat terrier' and writes in the February issue of Playboy that the president should have told him to "shut up." It is the latest and perhaps the loudest shot yet fired in the bureaucratic war that has been going on between the State Department and the National Security Council, now headed by Brzezinski, since the NSC was elevated from obscurity in the Nixon administration by Henry A. Kissinger.

The council, formed after World War II, is the White House organization responsible for gathering and channeling intelligence and foreign policy information to the president.

The fight between the NSC and State reached its peak last spring when Vance quit as secretary in the wake of the failed attempt to free the 52 American hostages in Iran.

Brzezinski recommended the military mission be mounted and Vance opposed it. Carter chose Brzezinski's view, and the soft-spoken Vance submitted his letter of resignation after discovering that the raid had been approved at a meeting to which he had not been invited.

Though Vance indicated the raid decision was the chief cause of his departure, there have been persistent reports — which he has done little to dispute since leaving the administration — that he and Brzezinski were embroiled in a running battle for supremacy throughout their tenure in the Carter administration.

President-elect Ronald Reagan and his top advisers, dismayed by the furor surrounding Brzezinski, say the situation will be different in the new administration. The national security adviser's status will be downgraded, they say, with the secretary of state's office given primacy in advising, and perhaps more important, speaking for the president in foreign affairs.

In a recent interview with the New York Times, Vance said, "It is of fundamental importance that there be only two spokesmen for the government on matters relating to foreign policy: the president of the United States and secretary of state." Though he did not refer to Brzezinski by name, Vance clearly had him in mind when he said, "any other arrangement leads to confusion."

Vance's successor, Edmund S. Muskie, has also refused to criticize Brzezin-

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hodding Brzezinski, he said, "We need constantly to work at the challenge of communication, identifying our respective roles and avoiding confusion in that respect." United Nations Ambassador Donald

F. McHenry, on the other hand, referred directly to Brzezinski when he said recently, "A person who has the job of coordinator, which I would perceive (the NSC director's) position to be, would do well to coordinate and leave the public role of foreign policy to the secretary of state and to the president."

Brzezinski himself has publicly said little about the bureaucratic battles.

Initially a low-profile job, the position of NSC director took on added stature during Richard M. Nixon's presidency, when Kissinger mounted foreign policy initiatives involving the Soviet Union, China, the Middle East and Indochina often without even informing Secretary of State William P. Rogers. Rogers even-tually resigned during Nixon's second term and was replaced by Kissinger, who held both jobs for a time.

The NSC-State competition has attracted the attention of Congress, too.

"I think we have developed a mischie-vous system that often leads to two secretaries of state," said Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, when Muskie was con-

New Showdown Between Labor, Government Looms In Poland

confrontation between Poland's independent labor movement and the communist government appears to be taking shape over the 40-hour work week.

The presidium of Solidarity, the nation's largest independent union with about 10 million members, was expected to give final approval today to a demand for a five-day, 40-hour work week with no reduction in pay.

The government, seeking a solution to the nation's grave economic problems, says the country cannot afford the 40-

Press Anticipates Begin To Resign Next Week

ister Menachem Begin will resign next week, setting the stage for early elections, possibly by this summer, Israeli newspapers predicted today.

Begin will quit unless a compromise is reached on salary demands by the nation's 58,000 teachers, and both Finance Minister Yigael Hurvitz and Education Minister Zevulun Hammer decide to stay in office, the papers said.

Hurvitz, seeking to cap an inflationary spiral that left Israel with the world's nighest inflation rate - 131 percent last year, has threatened to quit if the Begin government gives in to the teachers' demands for higher pay, while Hammer says he will resign if the teachers do not get salary hikes.

The resignation of either minister would almost certainly topple the government, and the newspapers said there was little hope a compromise could be

Israel is scheduled to hold parliamentary elections in November, but the balloting could be pushed up to the begin-

Nazis Accused Of Vandalism

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Jewish leaders say "trained Nazis" spray-painted swastikas and anti-Jewish slogans on the walls of the Simon Weisenthal Holocaust

The front and side of a memorial to Jewish victims who perished in Nazi concentration campus during World War II was also desecrated.

This is not the work of pranksters but of trained Nazis," a spokesman for the center said. "It's time we realize there are people in Los Angeles who hate, dangerous people."

Among the slogans written on the walls were "Death to the Jews," "Simon is a murderer" and "Jews beware, the SS is coming.

President-elect Ronald Reagan, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and Mayor Tom Bradley all sent the center messages of support ing Finance Corp. The bonds will be repaid as the loans are repaid.

The program is aimed at low-andmoderate-income persons who earn less than $40,000 per year, explained corporation president M.B. Smith Jr.

Under the program, Smith said, the maximum loan amount available is $80,-000. Participating lenders will provide loans up to 95 percent of the sales price

Burl Greaves, president of State Savings and Loan Association, said most lenders will require program participants to make "a good faith deposit" of 3 percent of the loan plus $200 at the time of the loan application.

The 3 percent deposit will be refunded when the sale of the house closes, Greaves said. Applicants who fail to qualify for the loan program also will have their deposit returned, but those who decide not to close the deal will forfeit their deposit money, he explained. Home buyers also will have to pay a 41/2 percent commitment fee, Greaves said. And either the buyer or the seller, or a combination of both, will have to pay the 41/2 points required under the loan guidelines, he added

The new loan program is expected to boost the city's flagging housing market during the next several months. "I imagine this weekend will be very productive for the Lubbock housing market," Greaves said.

To qualify for the below-market loans, Smith said applicants must take their sales agreement for a house, W-2 forms from 1979 and their 1979 income tax returns to one of the 12 participating lending agencies.

Those that are participating in the loan program are Briercroft Savings and Loan, First Federal Savings and Loan, First National Bank, Investors, Inc., The Loams and Nettleton Co., Lubbock National Bank, Mortgage and Trust Inc., Plains National Bank, Sentry Savings Association, State Savings and Loan Association, West Central Investment Corp. and West Texas Savings Association.

Because Texas law places a 10 percent ceiling on the interest that can be paid on bonds, some adjustments had to be made to the program to keep the rate below 10 is that the interest on loans made under the bond program is escalated after seven years in a "balloon note." Monthly payments are computed as if the loans would be paid in 30 years, but at the end of the seven-year period, the loans must be paid so the bonds can be paid off.

Smith said that borrowers can then independently refinance the house purchase or take advantage of guaranteed refinancing for the remaining 23 years at existing federal market rates plus one percent to pay for the refinancing.

Although the bonds have been sold to bond sale underwriters, there has not been enough time for the bonds to be rat-

Underwriters have until Feb. 15 to obtain ratings and sell the bonds to investors. If the bonds are not rated by then, Smith said that no more loans will be made and only loans to persons who have received full commitments will receive full loan funds.

But Smith is optimistic that situation will not occur because of Lubbock's stable economy and its history of good bond

Smith estimated that between 650 and 700 loans will be made with the bond funds within the next 90 days.

'Mr. Barnett did not withhold the lion's share of the information he had about the American intelligence community," said Assistant U.S. Attorney

"The most damaging information in the hands of Mr. Barnett, in the opinion of CIA analysts, was transmitted to the KGB," Queen added in the statement at Barnett's sentencing.

Kaufman told Barnett: "I am perfectly willing today to accept what you state, namely that you did not pass everything you knew on to the Soviets and you didn't do everything they asked you to

"Nevertheless, you did convey to them enough to get you $90,000. And, if everybody who had the kind of information you had, Mr. Barnett, takes it on themselves to pass on some of the information that they knew, then this country is in danger.

When he pleaded guilty last October in U.S. District Court here, Barnett, a 47year-old father of three from Bethesda, Md., who runs an import-export business, was described as a debt-ridden former CIA agent whose actions had sparked a KGB operation spanning three continents.

George Matava, a Justice Department lawyer, had described the allegations against Barnett, during the early stages of his trial last fall - before the plea bargain was reached.

Matava said then that the government would prove Barnett left the CIA in 1970 in hopes of making more money. He then failed as a businessman in Indonesia, Matava said, and, more than $100,000 in debt, turned to the Soviet KGB in 1976 to sell U.S. secrets.

Over the next 31/2 years, Barnett proved an indifferent Soviet spy, Matava said: He lied to the KGB, disobeyed or ders, failed to meet goals and was caught by the FBI.

But Barnett did reveal the names of 30 CIA undercover agents, several foreign CIA collaborators and details of a CIA undercover operation known as HA-BRINK, then "one of its highest priority operations," the government said.

Matava said HA-BRINK obtained manuals and parts from almost every weapon the Soviets had supplied to one nation - not named by Matava but identified by sources as Indonesia.

Because of Barnett, Matava said, the Soviets probably have issued tactical orders to counter the U.S. Navy's knowledge about how long Soviet submarines can stayed submerged

Soon after Barnett offered his services for $70,000 to the Soviet cultural attache in Jakarta, Indonesia, he gave information to an agent called "Dmitriy, who paid him $25,000, the government

Later, the KGB pressed Barnett to get back into intelligence work with the CIA or another government agency, Matava said, eventually paying him a total of

Judge, Girls Stay Away From Louisiana School

BUCKEYE, La. (AP) - Three white mately to rule on the question of whether girls, center of a long-running dispute over a desegregation order, stayed away from classes today at the all-white Buckeye High School, and the principal said they have been dropped from the rolls in line with a federal court order.

The three, Michelle Laborde, Linda McNeal and Ramona Carbo, had attended classes earlier this week under the personal supervision of state District Judge Richard Lee.

But Lee did not go to school today backing off from his open defiance of U.S. District Judge Nauman Scott, who started contempt proceedings Wednesday against Lee, school officials and the girls' parents and guardians.

Scott will hold a hearing next Thursday on why Lee and others disobeyed Scott's order that the girls should be bused 15 miles to another school where the student body is 54 percent black.

Lee's lawyers were at the country school today to watch as students arrived for classes. But the "Buckeye Three" did not arrive.

After class bells rang, Principal Charles Waites told reporters, "The girls did not come to school today. The guidance counselor checked and they did not attend their first class. Due to this, I will be dropping the girls following the feder-

He had said he would not enroll the girls unless someone was there to enattend class.

The small Alexandria-area Ku Klux Klan had said it would picket the school today, but no pickets were seen.

As school buses arrived, one radio could be heard playing a recording called "The Ballad of Judge Lee." The song, written by Robert Vernon and performed by Kirby Clark, was released Wednesday by an Alexandria-area country and western music company and was played all day on some local radio sta-

The parents gave custody of their daughters to friends in the new Buckeye attendance zone after Scott ordered 108 children in the seventh and eighth grades bused to racially integrated Jones Street Junior High in Alexandria, about 15 miles away.

Only 22 of the 108 Buckeye youngsters now ride the bus to Alexandria. The oth- ice ers attend two new private academies.

The Justice Department has asked Scott to fine Lee $1,000 a day and to impose $500-a-day fines on the parents, guardians, Waites, Superintendent Allen Nicholls and a local constable who accompanied the girls to classes Tuesday.

Lee's lawyer, Dan Alexander, said he expected the U.S. Supreme Court ulti-

Workman said only employment matters involving those of the ranks of vice presidents and coaches and higher officials have to be approved by the regents.

Workman said he was told during the meeting with Cavazos that the music department feels that a decrease in enrollment in the band has contributed to an overall decrease in students within the music department.

Killion argues that the enrollment in the entire department is not necessarily traceable to him, citing a decline in vocal classes with which he is not concerned.

Iraq Denies Foe's Claim

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - An Iraqi army spokesman claimed Iran's counteroffensive was "rapidly running out of steam." but Iran paraded nearly 500 Iraqi war prisoners in Tehran to back its victory claims and reported nearly 300 more Iraqis killed or wounded.

Iraq said its forces blunted the northern prong of Iran's counter-offensive, turning back Iranian troops trying to recapture Gilan e-Gharb, on the slopes of the Zagros mountains 330 miles southwest of Tehran. Baghdad Radio said the Iranian troops were retreating, leaving dead soldiers and wrecked tanks littering the snow-covered heights overlooking highways to the Iraqi capital, Baghdad. Iran said it was the Iraqis who were retreating at Gilan e-Gharb. Tehran reported intense hand-to-hand combat which is 20 miles east of the Iraqi border, into a "final graveyard" for Iranian forces if they continued their attack. No confirmation of the conflicting claims was obtainable since Western reporters were barred from the battlefronts. couch in the living room during the entire incident, reports said. The gunman was described as a tall, white male, 26 to 35 years old, with brown hair.

But Baghdad vowed to turn Susangerd,

In another incident, a man wearing only a coat and a woman's slip grabbed an eight-year-old girl walking home from school at 3:05 p.m. Wednesday and exposed himself to her.

The man desribed as a tall, white male with light brown hair, approached the girl in the 5900-block of Nashville Avenue, reports said. The man, who was standing near a silver or grey late model Monte Carlo, told the girl her mother was at the mall and wanted him to pick her up, police said

The girl told police the man drove into an alley where he relieved himself near a dumpster. Reports said the man let the girl go after he exposed himself to her, and the girl ran home to her sister, who called police.

In another criminal incident, two Texas Tech students told police someone broke into the rear garage apartment at 1617 Ave. Y between 5 p.m. on Dec. 19 and 4 p.m. Wednesday and stole $4,205 worth of goods.

Rodney Charles Logsdon, 24, and Donnie Dee Lewis, 20, told police they came back after Christmas vacation to find their apartment broken into through the window at the front of the structure.

Missing were a portable black-andwhite TV, 100 albums, two gold wedding bands, a stereo system and clothes.

Four persons reported having items stolen from their cars Wednesday night from the west parking lot of the fair grounds on the 800-block of Ave. A.

Bobby Lee Bethune of 7502 Ave. H was picked up by police at the Satellite Motel, 2921 Clovis Road after an anonymous tip, police said.

Lubbock police officer Mark Kirkpatrick said he had stopped at 19th Street and Avenue Q when the suspect, his right arm in a cast, jumped from the back of the car. Bethune's left hand was handcuffed to his belt, his seat belt was buckled and the door was locked when he managed to make his escape.

Reports state the handcuffed prisoner ran south and Kirkpatrick lost sight of him about a half block from 19th Street. Police converged in the area within minutes, but did not locate Bethune until Wednesday afternoon.

Bethune had been out on bond after being indicted for burglary of a habitation by a December grand jury. He, along with a 22-year-old companion, were apprehended after they were caught during what police said was a burglary at The Pavilion medical building at 3719 22nd

The district attorney's office has recommended that bond be denied Bethune who is charged with serveral other offenses. Bethune will be arraigned today.

In another incident, Beulah Fae Forster of 2407 E. 108th St. told police two televisions and a sewing machine valued at nearly $820 were stolen from her home between 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Wednes-

Avalanche-Journal Staff Area law enforcement officials today continued their investigation into the scale-tampering scheme which may have resulted in the loss of approximately $380,000 to the family-owned Lubbock Feed Lots on the Slaton Highway. Investigator Jerry Johnson of the De-

The scheme was discovered Wednesday morning by employees at the feedlot. It involved the use of a radio-controlled hydraulic device planted in the truck scale mechanism.

U.S. District Judge Robert M. Duncan ordered the state board to share equally with the Columbus Board of Education all expenses of remedying "unconstitutional racial segregation" in the city school district.

The city school board had asked the court to order the state to pay costs of implementing a citywide desegregation plan, contending that the school board

Ban On Boots

CHICAGO (UPI) - An unemployed auto worker says it was unfair for a junior high school to suspend his son because he can't afford to buy another pair of winter boots for the boy. Frank Pontanini of suburban Stream-

"I'll just have to go to court and hope the judge will understand the problem, said Pontanini, who was laid off from his job at International Harvester.

School officials have banned what are commonly called Colorado hiking boots from inside the school building because the boots apparently leave worse scuff marks than other shoes. Several other districts also have prohibited students from wearing the boots to class. Pontanini said his son received a pair of the botts for his birthday last October and has been wearing them since the weather turned bad. 'They're really a well-made pair of boots," Pontanini said. "I paid $50 for them. When you've got five kids at home you just can't afford to go out and buy new shoes because of a whim.

Stocks Adviser Has Profound Impact On Market

NEW YORK (AP) — His critics call him a "clown" and a "Wizard of Oz type," but few people can shake up the stock market the way Joseph E. Gran-

If there was any doubt about that, it was removed on Wednesday, after the Holly Hill, Fla., investment adviser recommended in his telephone "early warning service" that subscribers dump all the stocks they owned.

As the market opened, it was inundated with sell orders that forced trading delays in more than 100 stocks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had soared past the 1,000 level Tuesday to its highest closing level in more than four years, abruptly turned around and plummeted.

By mid-afternoon Wednesday, the Dow was down more than 30 points. Even after a modest rally before the close, the Dow still showed a 23.80-point loss, to 980.99, wiping out a large portion of the nearly 41-point gain it had built up in the first three trading days of 1981.

Trading volume reached record levels of 92.89 million shares at the New York Stock Exchange, eclipsing the previous high of 84.08 million last Nov. 5, and 15.76 million shares at the American Stock Exchange.

Granville was not shy about taking responsibility for the drop. Reached by The Associated Press late Wednesday, he said it could be "totally traced" to him.

Hours before, the legions of investors and stockbrokers who make up his avid following - the "Granville groupies," as one Wall Streeter refers to them - had spread the word through the investment hopes of profiting from price declines — on those stocks that had gained the most ground in recent months. Many people clearly followed his advice.

By any standard of the established order on Wall Street, Granville is a maverick. His weekly market letter, which at last report had some 11,000 readers at a price of $250 a year, is regularly peppered with jibes at orthodox economists and money managers.

They are, in his description, "bag-- losers in the investment

DETROIT (AP) - U.S. automakers have closed the books on 1980 sales, their worst in 15 years, and only financially troubled Chrysler Corp. is crowing.

Chrysler reported Wednesday it grabbed 17.2 percent of the market for domestic models in the last 10 sales days of December, 13.4 percent for the month.

That was Chrysler's best showing for a month since 14.9 percent in September 1979 and its best showing for the a 10-day period since 17.8 percent for mid-August of that year. In all cases, sales were boosted by stiff price cuts through rebates to buyers.

"A good finish to a very tough year," said Jerry Pyle, Chrysler's vice president for U.S. automotive sales.

However, for the entire year, Chrysler's sales were off 28 percent and the five major domestic manufacturers were down 20 percent. Imports topped their 1979 record by 3.0 percent, giving foreign cars a bigger piece of the market than ever - about 26.5 percent compared with about 22 percent in 1979.

Combined import and domestic-make sales were 8,956,129 cars, a 15 percent drop from 1979's 10,528,168. The total made it the worst year for overall auto sales since 8,509,438 in 1975, when imports had about 18 percent of the market.

U.S. automakers accounted for 6,578,-309 cars - the lowest total since 5,556,-100 in 1961 - compared with 8,226,783 in 1979. Import sales were 2,377,820, up from 2,301,385 in 1979. As in 1979, Japanese makes accounted for four of every five imports.

Melodi, who will be 11 Jan. 20, has been a Reagan fan since before the Republican National Convention last year and was thrilled to get a letter from him this week. The letter from "The Office of the President-elect" says in part, "As the father of four, I especially value the thoughts and views of America's youth. I hope you will continue your interest in national affairs and strive to fulfill your responsibilities as an American citizen." It is signed, "Sincerely, Ronald Reagan."

The fifth grade student at Parsons Elementary School wrote Reagan Nov. 30 before her family moved here from Amarillo, congratulated him on winning the election and mentioned that her birthday would fall on inauguration day. Melodi said she decided she wanted Reagan to be president after the American hostages were taken in Iran.

'After Carter got our hostages in there, it scared me and I was afraid we were going to war again, and I didn't want that." she said. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lester of 9315 Elgin Ave.

Insurance Rates Attacked

AUSTIN (AP) - A national consumer group says Texans might be paying $222.3 million a year too much for their automobile insurance.

The estimate came Wednesday from the Washington-based National Insurance Consumer Organization, whose president, Robert Hunter, was to testify today before the State Insurance Board.

The board is conducting hearings on the extent to which it should apply insurance company investment profits toward holding down premiums charged for au-to, home and other kinds of property and casualty insurance.

NICO said in a statement that if Texas rates did recognize, dollar-for-dollar, the insurers' investment income, they would total as much as $222.3 million a year

Auto premiums in Texas total more than $1 billion a year.

"We have received hundreds of letters from Texas consumers. They are tired of paying out a huge portion of their income for insurance while the companies are making such huge profits,"

The House General Investigating Committee issued an 11-page report Wednesday saying the Purchasing and General Services Commission has wasted state money when it tried to get a bar-

Witnesses testified the commission made purchases on a bottom-line basis the low bid was accepted even if it meant more money in the long run.

"We've had some real serious waste of funds and time," said Rep. Richard Slack, D-Pecos, committee chairman.

The report on the purchasing commission was one of two issued Wednesday by the committee. A separate report on San Antonio College called for audits of all junior colleges.

Committee members had to go behind closed doors to gather testimony about the purchasing problems. Officials from several agencies testified secretly because they feared retribution from the purchasing commission, according to the

Such retribution could take the form of "delayed or restrictive purchasing practices," the report said.

Lack of communication between the commission and agencies led to the commission's ignoring of specific equipment requests. Agencies wanting equipment that went with existing equipment got stuck with non-compatible supplies, the report said.

Slack and Jim Vollers, committee counsel, said it was impossible to determine how much state money was wasted.

Commission policies on renting office space also were criticized in the report. The commission, again ignoring agency requests, approved leasing office space 'under circumstances wherin the cost of moving, reprinting of stationery, transfering communication equipment, and down-time to an existing state agency far exceeded any savings realized by a low-

Many of the problems cited in the report were also mentioned in a special audit done by the governor's office, which the commission already is implementing.

The governor's office also faulted the commission for unresponsiveness to state agency needs and called for some watering down of the competitive bidding system.

The report also cited complaints about the commission's handling of repairs to aircraft - "handled by the comwithout consideration of previous per-

Store Owner Mistakes Deputies For Burglars

WICHITA FALLS (AP) - A store owner and two Wichita County sheriff's deputies are glad their aim was worse than their reactions when they mistook each other for burglars in the predawn darkness and exchanged gunfire.

No one was injured in the shootout early Wednesday that resulted from the mutual case of mistaken identity.

A sheriff's spokesman said no charges would be filed against Bettie Jo Marshall, who said she was sleeping in the E-Z Food Store in hopes of catching burglars who had been breaking in.

Deputies Allen Hart and Darrell Bruce said they were on routine patrol when they noticed that the store, usually

"She said she could tell it was a yellow car, but she couldn't tell it was a law enforcement vehicle," said Capt. W.L. Burrow. "She couldn't tell who was out there, so she fired two shots" from her .38-caliber pistol.

Hart said he returned the fire when he saw a figure appear behind the store's counter.

Bruce ran back to the patrol car to call for assistance, and Mrs. Marshall called the police, whom she had told of well-lit after closing, was dark and a

A-J Entertainment Editor Lubbock Theatre Centre directors, faced with overdue bills and an apparent lack of enthusiasm from the community say they may be forced by the end of the month to close the doors of LTC's yearold downtown home.

"I can make a long story short real easily. What it boils down to is this: If someone doesn't bail us out, we're going to have to shut the doors," LTC board executive vice president Mike Hewitt told The Avalanche-Journal Wednesday

"There's no income coming in. We can't get support. We can't get people to Asked for a deadline, Hewitt explained that a new show would have to be east and funded by late January. "I guess we could wait until the end of January," Hewitt said. "We've sent letters to our creditors, explaining our situation and asking them to consider donating what we owe to the Theatre Centre...We haven't been able to pay the royalties for the plays we've performed since last spring. Hewitt added that all of the board members had approached what he termed Lubbock's "money people" many times, with the general reaction being "along the lines of 'why throw money down a bottomless pit?' It's a PR (public relations) problem. A lot of people have told us they had trouble the last time they worked with the LTC board, but then we find out that was 10 years ago. We're still battling that reputation."

Hoping to improve LTC's reputation and bolster support for the program, the company moved its base of operations in December 1979 from the dilapidated playhouse at 2508 Ave. P to the downtown Lindsey Theater.

Two Injured In Refinery Explosion

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) - Two explosions ripped through a petroleum refinery today, setting three gasoline tanks on fire and seriously injuring a company employee and a truck driver, officials

Officials at Southwestern Refining Co. said the explosion occurred when highly flammable vapors and liquid gasoline seeped through a leak in a tank that holds 66,000 barrels of gasoline. Duane Eckles, 47, of Corpus Christi, was in critical condition with burns over most of his body, said a spokeswoman at Memorial Medical Hospital. John Fernandez, 44, a truck driver from Rosharon, was listed in fair condi-spokesman for the refinery, a subsidiary of Kerr-McGee Refining Co. A nearby city recreation center opened immediately after the explosion and at least 30 people had taken refuge there by 5 a.m., officials said. Sager said company officials were not sure where the leak started or what ignit-

Sager said gasoline vapors continued to leak through a manhole on one of the tanks and firefighters were pumping gasoline out of the tank through one line and refilling the tank with water.

"As soon as the water rises above the leaking area, the fire will go out," Sager

Child Discriminated Against Because of Neglected Appearance

DEAR ABBY: My 5-year-old daughter, Penny, is in a gifted children's class in public school. She has a classmate, Randy, who is a handsome, kind little fellow, but Penny says no one likes him because he is dirty. She says he wears the same dirty jeans and T-shirt, his tennis shoes are holey, the laces untied, he never wears socks or underwear and he could really use a bath.

I told her that we like or dislike people because of the way they behave, not the way they dress, the color of their skin, the way they wear their hair or what church they go or don't go to. Penny likes Randy and has become his friend. (She's the only friend he has.)

mother a note telling her in a nice way that her son is being discriminated against because of his neglected appearance. I've also considered buying the boy some new clothes and underwear. Or should I just mind my own busines? May-

OPEN FOR SUGGESTIONS

DEAR OPEN: Because you know nothing about Randy's home life (he may not even have a mother), express your concern to Randy's teacher. A child who comes to school dirty, ill-clad and so obviously neglected needs help. School authorities are in close touch with agencies that provide assistance to abused and neglected youngsters. DEAR ABBY: I need your advice. I'm in love with a wonderful guy who work. He wants me to give it up. I'm a model (fashion and photography), and I've been told by experts that I have a great future in this field. Norman knew I was a model when we met and it didn't seem to bother him. Now he tells me that after we are married he doesn't want me to continue in this line of work.

Abby, I love modeling, but I love Norman too, and it's creating a terrible conflict within me. I don't want to give up my career, but I don't want to lose Norman. He's a very stubborn, possessive man who has given me an ultimatum either him or my modeling. Please help ing to marry this stubborn, possessive man, prepare for more ultimatums. His idea of a "model wife" is one who yields to his demands.

DEAR TORN: If you give up model-

DEAR ABBY: My husband insists upon sleeping in the raw. I personally have no objection to this, but he is also a sleep-walker. We have four children, including two teenaged daughters, and Ben house in his sleep. He has also walked outside on both the front and back porches in this unclothed state.

BEN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes. If you can't talk Ben into pajamas, try to talk him into the bottoms. (But settle for shorts.)

The bidding: South West North East 1 NT Pass 3 NT Pass Pass Pass Opening lead: Five of .

Mathematically, all finesses stand an equal chance of success. However, when faced with a choice of finesses, that does not mean it doesn't matter which one you take! Often, your choice should be predicated not so much on which would win, but on which you can afford to lose.

There was nothing unusual about the auction. After South opened one no trump, North might have probed for a 4-4 heart fit by employing Stayman. But he had no ruffing value and decided that his hand would play equally well in no trump, so he made the value bid.

West led the fourth best of his longest suit, and declarer captured East's ten with the jack. The play to this trick made it virtually certain that West held both the ace and queen of clubs.

Declarer could count eight running tricks, and the ninth trick could be established in either red suit via a finesse. However, it was not a toss-up as to which finesse declarer should take-he could not afford to let the danger hand. East, gain the lead. A club return from East would put the king of clubs under the axe and almost surely lead to the contract's defeat. Therefore, declarer ruled out the diamond finesse, for that could be taken only into the danger hand, in favor of the heart finesse, which could be taken with complete safety. Declarer crossed to the

Y.O. Ranch Observes Centennial

MOUNTAIN HOME (Special) - With disco duds stepping aside for cowboy chic, designers are hot in the saddle to turn out merchandise to meet the consumer demand of the "urban cowboy." Western designs by such as Ralph Lauren are easy enough to find, but authentic western goods - now that's a horse of a

However, there is one place rich with history that not only offers a line of authentic western products, they also have a site where you can visit to get 'em dirty and see what it's like to be a real cowboy.

The place is Y.O. Ranch (60,000 acres worth) in Kerr County and the goods are "Centennial Collectibles," a line of authentic western items commissioned by the ranch from some of the finest artists and craftsmen in the country to honor 100 years of ranching at the Y.O. This phenomenon, I guess you call it, about the cowboy is just unbelievable. I guess it's because I've lived a different lifestyle than most people. I first started working at Y.O. when I was six or seven and riding with the cowboys," says Charles Schreiner IV, whose great grandfather - Captain Charles Schreiner founded the Y.O. Ranch in 1880.

The Y.O.'s reputation for quality is much apparent in their new line of products which includes a wide variety from western art and jewelry to saddles, spurs, boots and a hat. Different from other western lines, Y.O.'s items have been designed to stress authenticity and an 1880's look.

The boots, a prime example, are probably the closest replica of a turn-of-thecentury boot that is being made today, at least according to Nacona Boot Company, the maker of Y.O.'s hand-crafted version. The only known "nostalgia boot," as Nocona calls them. Y.O.'s version was made as close to the 1880 cowboys' boot as possible. The only concessions are those that were made for comfort.

'The real cowboy wore boots for protection, similar to the reason he wore chaps," Schreiner explains. "Most often the boots were ordered through the mail by tracing your foot which made them even more uncomfortable, especially for walking, which is probably the reason that cowboys didn't like to get off their blends into the leather (in 1880, cowbovs didn't go for fancy stitchin'). Each pair is embossed with the Y.O. brand and bears a sterling collectors certification on the heel, with each pair numbered similar to an artist's print. The Y.O. boot is a limited edition with only 500 pair being made.

Y.O.'s full grain veal skin boots are also a little more expensive than the authentic version with the men's boot selling for $250, although Schreiner says that an Old West cowboy would often spend several months pay for a new pair of

And for the dude (and cowperson?) who wants to do it up right, Y.O. also has sculptured belt buckles (14K gold, sterling and bronze), a unique 1880's cowboy hat, leather cuffs, holster and dress spurs (really fancy - more like jewelry, Schreiner says).

A catalog of all Y.O. "Centennial Collectibles" will be available soon.

When we started planning for the Centennial a couple of years ago, we decided to commission these items and do a catalog. We hadn't planned on this craze for western wear but I sure don't guess it will hurt," Schreiner adds.

TI Executive Urges U.S. To 'Get House In Order'

Avalanche-Journal Editor

America must not only reassert its premier position in world economic and military circles, but in leadership at home, Mark Shepherd, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Texas Instruments, warned in an address in Lubbock Wednesday.

Shepherd, whose TI plant here is one of the city's largest employers, covered a broad range of problems facing the industrialized world and offered suggestions on ways to combat them.

The road into the 1980s will not be a smooth one," Shepherd told his audience of Downtown Lubbock Rotary Club members and guests. "It will take America a long time to undo the economic mess created during the past 15 years.

"Confidence in our government must be restored. We have had enough of bureaueratic imcompetence, wasteful spending and misguided welfare programs. Our faith in the ability of the American government to handle even our simplest problems has been shat-

"There is a yearning for leadership, to steer us over these rough roads. But, up until now, leadership has been in woefully short supply at all levels of

The Dallas executive, whose TI operations span the globe, said he felt that the nation was embarking on a new and more prosperous future and cited the 1980 election as promising "a renewal of the policies and commitments that made America the great nation that it is ... '

However, he warned that before "we can turn things around," the industrialized world in particular faces some major challenges, including the alarming rise of Soviet military power; accelerating inflation: the threat of severe disruptions in the international financial system; declining productivity; and a scarcity of available energy resources.

'Now, as in the past 35 years, the greatest threat to world peace is the Soviet Union," Shepherd said.

"In the past decade, the Soviets have engaged in an unprecedented arms buildup to back up their aggressive foreign policy. For most of the decade ahead, the Soviets could exploit what has been termed 'a window of vulnerability' when Russian power relative to the West will be at its peak.

'But the USSR is not waiting for itsmilitary machine to be fully in place before it acts; the wheels of conquest are already in motion.'

Shepherd pointed to Russian movements in Afghanistan, the turmoil in Poland through "use of proxies and puppets" and Russia's influence in Asia, Africa, Latin America and Southeast

Noting that Iran was "bordering on anarchy and diplomatically isolated while it holds the U.S. hostages," the TI official said Iran presents an attractive target for Soviet aggression. And he said Mexico, which he characterized as exhibiting some of the characteristics of prerevolutionary Iran, offers another opportunity for the Communists to weaken American power.

Shepherd also concentrated on the dangers of inflation, saying that "in the past decade, the major industrialized countries have experienced rates of inflation which are two and or three times as high as those prevailing in the 1960s.

And although he acknowledged the effect of rising OPEC prices, Shepherd said "rising petroleum prices should not receive a disproportionate share of the lame for inflation.

But he warned that "the rising level of dollar-denominated assets held by the oil exporting nations - $300 billion by the end of last year, and possibly $1 trillion by the mid-1980s - does represent a fundamental threat to international monetary stability

Shepherd also cited the financial instability of the less developed countries, the large Western loans to such nations as well as to the Soviet bloc nations and warned that "the Soviets could threaten default in order to blackmail America, and especially, Western European governments.

The TI official, whose company deals in heavy amounts of foreign trade, also said that "protectionism" carried to far could result in a backlash which would prove deterimental to U.S. interests and exports, including those of agricultural products.

Productivity, Shepherd said, is one of the major keys to restoring American superiority at home and abroad and in

"We must get our house in order by focusing on five fundamental issues," he warned. Those issues he cited are: establishment of attainable national goals and priorities; enhancement of U.S. power

tion; improvement of productivity growth; and a solution to the energy

"muddle through" as it has in the past on crucial issues, Shepherd urged the establishment of a Board of National Goals, with status similar to that of the Fed, but with no independent power of implemen-

He also urged major tax reforms, including those which "would encourage tion in the capital gains tax rate.'

Lack Of Support Threatens City Theater

deal. I've had the building appraised since then, and it was appriased at $210,-000. And the land's got to be worth another $100,000. If we had support we could turn this building into one they'd have to spend $2 million to duplicate.

"And we've got support from the Lindsey family. They've bent over backwards in trying to help us keep the theater. But I haven't had the heart to tell them that's not the problem. We haven't made our payments to them, and they're still helping. But we flat can't pay the bills. We don't need sponsoring. We need operating money.

Miss Rampy noted that there is one grant LTC may be eligible for — a $50,-000 grant from the National Endowment For The Arts. "But it's a matching grant. That means someone has to donate $50,-000 and they'll match that figure. No one's going to donate that much, evidently, since we can't even get them to come to the plays," she said.

To emphasize her point, Miss Rampy pointed out that Lubbock Theatre Centre's 1980 musical production, "On A Clear Day You Can See Forever," lost money for the first time in 10 years.

"In 1979, LTC performed 'Gypsy' at the old playhouse. And that musical made $5,000, despite all its problems. That's why we decided to schedule two musicals this season, to take advantage of their popularity," Miss Rampy said. 'But 'On A Clear Day' had a total of seven performances, and drew less than 500people total."

Lubbock Theatre Centre has also failed to make up the necessary funds through several special projects, including a large loss from a show which, on the surface, appeared to be LTC's biggest success: the August production of 'Throckmorton, Texas 76083'' by former Lubbockites G.W. Bailey and Barry Cor-

Board members agreed the show was 'supposed to be a benefit" to raise money for LTC, but that after the performances were over it was discovered no contract had ever been signed to that ef-

The result was the show, which drew the biggest attendance of any LTC production, made $3,200 in ticket sales but the LTC board ended up paying out more than $3,700.

Board member Kim Murchison said "That is absolutely asinine for a one-set show." Board member Jackie Golightly said simply, "We got took."

And attendance has fallen since then. "Obviously we were mistaken when we thought the old building was the problem. Complaining about the old building was just an alibi for not coming," Hewitt

However, one thing not losing support is LTC's Children's Theater, Hewitt stressed. Since going under the direction of Toni Cobb, Children's Theater has made a profit — "the most profit it's ever made," according to Miss Rampy. Sixty children are involved in theater classes and performances and all board members indicated that Children's Theater would not close even if LTC did.

savings, increase business investments and eliminate the double taxation on dividents, as well as making further reduc-

But Lubbock Theatre Centre is on its last legs unless a drastic change in attitude and financial status takes place in the next three weeks. Miss Rampy said, "The next play is 'Li'l Abner,' and that's going to cost $8,600 to put on. We flat haven't got it. And even if we did, we still have to pay off our creditors first.

'We haven't even chosen a committee to start working on next season's plays, which would begin in June, because we don't know how long we've got left. I guess what we're trying to find out now is whether the people of Lubbock want Lubbock Theatre Centre.

Zone Change Sought To Convert Old Drug Store To Game Room

By SYLVIA TEAGUE

Avalanche-Journal Staff An unofficial city landmark may become a game room if the Planning and Zoning Commission approves the zone change request of Harold P. Brown Jr.

Brown, representing Aladdin's Castle Inc., will appear at the commission's 7 p.m. meeting at City Hall to ask that zoning for the old Broadway Drug Store at Broadway and University Avenue be changed from local retail (C-2) to commercial (C-4) to permit a game room at that location.

Though the English Tudor building across from the Texas Tech University campus is remembered as Broadway Drug to many Lubbockites and former Tech students, the drug store was moved across Broadway this summer after the owner of the building increased the rent.

The building which had housed a drug store since the mid-1930s, has been vacant since Broadway Drug's move.

Also at the meeting commission members will be asked to approve a zoning change for a high-rise condomi project east of Loop 289 between 56th and 58th Streets.

Ray Chapman will ask the commission for a zone change from family apartment (A-1) to high-rise apartment (A-3). Chapman plans to build a 10-story condominium containing 200 housing units, most of them one-bedroom. The project will be designed to attract retired per-

Williams was tried on a first-degree felony murder charge, but after deliberating three hours and 44 minutes the panel found the defendant guilty of the lesser, included offense of voluntary manslaughter. The defense had argued that Williams acted in self defense or in defense of a third party.

Williams admitted from the witness stand Tuesday afternoon that he shot Sheppard, but told the jury that he killed the man to protect his girlfriend.

without being invited, she testified. Defense attorney Kevin Hart argued that if his client had not shot Sheppard, that Sheppard probably would have been on trial for murder this week - and that either Williams or Miss Zethellee could have been the victim.

That's the way Williams saw the situation, he told the jury.

Hart disputed the argument that Bradshaw also is requesting zone Williams should have called the police instead of shooting Sheppard, adding that his client simply didn't have time to hunt

eagan's Campaign Promises Appear Uncertain

Reagan gets closer to the White House, some of the promises he made on the campaign trail seem to be slipping far-ther and farther away from fulfillment.

Candidate Reagan hammered away at his intention to balance the federal budget. Now a key congressional supporter says that remains "a goal - but not the goal" of the incoming administration.

The president-elect and his advisers also have cast doubt on the fate of preelection plans to lift the Soviet grain embargo, dismantle the Energy Department and make a commitment to increase de-

Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., an economic adviser to Reagan, told reporters Wednesday he agrees with Treasury Secretary-designate Donald Regan that a balanced budget will not be possible until 1984 - and then only without outside shocks to the economy such as major increases in OPEC oil prices.

President Carter, in his 1976 cam-paign, also pledged to balance the budget by the fourth year of his administration

'I'm less concerned about a balanced budget than I am about getting the economy moving again toward full employ-ment without inflation," Kemp said. Regan told the Senate Finance Committee the government could wipe out the deficit by 1983 as the president-elect has promised if Congress will cut federal spending more than recommended - a course requiring tough political deci-

During his confirmation hearing Tuesday, Defense Secretary-designate Caspar Weinberger refused to be pinned down on specific increases in defense

"I don't believe in these fixed percentages," Weinberger said.

Bill Clayton Ready To Start Redistricting

AUSTIN - House Speaker Bill Clayton said today the U.S. Supreme Court's decision to allow the Census Bureau to release population figures will enable the Legislature to redraw congressional and legislative boundries this spring.

"I think we're back on schedule now," Clayton said at a Capitol news conference. "The Supreme Court has ruled that the census data be released. I think we can produce a bill.

A federal lawsuit against the Census Bureau by several cities and states had threatened the exclusion of redistricting preme Court ruled the census figures could be released, although the case will be litigated later.

Clayton also told reporters today that he might run for a fifth term as speaker of the Texas House

Clayton is expected to win an unprecedented fourth term when the House elects its presiding officer on Jan. 13, the day the 67th Legislature begins its 140day regular session

He disclosed he might be open to a fifth term while talking informally with reporters following a news conference about prospects for the upcoming ses-

Reminded that he had stated unequivocally in the past that his fourth term would be his last. Clayton answered with a grin, "I've made New Year's resolutions, too.

'All I am doing is looking at the 67th session. When I see how everything is rolling, I will make my decision on my future at that time," Clayton said.

Clayton said he had not decided on committee chairmanships, including the House Committee on Region, Compacts and Districts. That is the committee currently head by Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, and the one responsible for reviewing and analyzing redistricting legis-

"I'm not suggesting anything," the speaker replied when asked if Von Dohlen would not be named to continue as the committee's chairman.

Clayton said he thought committee assignments could be completed by late next week. He said the House would consider rules on Tuesday and receive a report by a special committee that is investigating the contested race between Rep. Al Brown, D-San Antonio, and Republican Alan Schoolcraft.

Schoolcraft defeated Brown in November, but the incumbent wants the race of property tax relief.

voided and a special election declared. Brown claims voting irregularities occurred during the Nov. 4 election.

"I believe we can move with the debates on rules and the election commit tee can have its report by Tuesday," Clayton said.

The speaker also said he was investigating the possibility of setting up a trust fund to help with declining natural resources in the future. Clayton has said the special trust fund, to be used especially to augment declining water resources in the state, should be set in lieu

Carter Proposes Salary Increase For Congress, Cabinet Members

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is recommending a 22 percent pay raise for Congress, Cabinet members and other top federal officials.

In making the recommendation Wednesday, the outgoing president said he realizes "the salaries already being paid these officials look very large to the average taxpayer.

But he said the people qualified for top government jobs normally are al-ready highly paid "and there is a limit to the financial sacrifices they can afford to

"Compensation levels today have fallen below the point at which they provide adequate monetary recognition of the complexity and importance of top federal jobs," Carter said in a written message to Congress. "The financial sacrifice demanded of top federal officials is becoming far too great."

The raise recommended by Carter would affect about 40,000 people. Cabinet salaries would go from $69,630 a year to about $84,000 and congressional salaries from $60,662 to $74,000. The salaries of top White House aides and thousands of other officials also would be raised by the same percentage.

And since the pensions of former presidents are linked to the Cabinet pay scale, Carter's own pension would increase along with those of former Presidents Ford and Nixon.

White House Chief of Staff Jack Watson and other administration officials reportedly cleared the proposal with members of President-elect Ronald Reagan's transition team. Reagan is expected to go along with the plan.

Top officials received their last pay raise in 1977, but most federal employees have received pay increases totaling 16.8 percent since then. As a result many lower ranking employees now make as much as their bosses and are due another 5.5

percent raise this year. The recommendation for a 22 percent raise for top officials is calculated to restore the relative salary differential that was in effect in 1977 when a rule went in-

'There wouldn't have been a Brilab (in Texas) if we had had a law like this, because they would have had to give me a check.'

Reporters asked Clayton what he would have done if Moore and Hauser had offered him a check instead of the $5,000 in cash.

'If it had been a corporate check on Prudential Insurance Co. it would have been simple, I couldn't have taken it," Clayton said

"If it had been a personal check on L.G. Moore, it probably would have bounced.

Autopsy May Determine Young Man's Identity FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) - An autopsy being conducted today could determine whether a body found in a recreation area is that of a young man whose disappearance may have led to the slayings of his wife, a friend and a detective, officials say. The body, found Wednesday with a gunshot wound in the head, was thought to be that of 22-year-old Larry Price, police said. It was discovered some seven miles from the spot where a farmer discovered the other three corpses stuffed inside a huge tractor tire. Price was reported missing Monday by his wife Jawana, 21, and detective Ray Tate, 34, was assigned to the case.

Tate wa' last heard from Monday evening after he, Mrs. Price, and a male friend of the Prices, Holly Gentry, 28, went to the Price's apartment. They were found dead, all shot in the head, the following day on an Arkansas River bottomlands farm near Van Buren.

Sources at his bribery-conspiracy trial say a Justice Department memo criticized convicted con man Mel Weinberg, hired to set up meetings, for "coaching" techniques used in a meeting with Sen. Harrison A. Williams, Jr., D-N.J., the only senator indicted in the undercover in-

Defense lawyer James J. Binns alluded to the memo when he cross-examined Weinberg on Wednesday. Weinberg acknowledged he was criticized for his conduct during a meeting with "a senator."

At a previous Abscam trial, an audio tape of Weinberg "coaching" Williams was played in an attempt to show how

Vacation Home Rental Gaining In Popularity

A-J Travel Editor

A castle in Morocco could be your next vacation home. Or you might select a villa on the French Riviera, or a cottage on England's famous Cornwall coast, or a cozy hideaway in the West Indies complete with a maid who will prepare your breakfast.

If these vacation homes sound as if they are the property of the very rich, you are correct. Sometimes, however, when the royal or the famous are not in residence, their properties will be available to short-term renters.

At first the rental price may seem outrageous for a person of moderate income. An example would be a rental figure of $3,000 per week for a castle in Ireland. However, the castle will accommoits 20th year, AHA has amassed over 2,-500 listings.

Availability changes as homes are added to, or withdrawn from, the rental market. However, here is a sampling from my files of some of the residences that have been offered in the past by

Quinta da Allegria is a superbly restored 18th century country house set in the midst of Sintra, Portugal's royal hills. Behind the estate looms Prince Ferdinand's Palacio de Pena, Saracen fortress complete with turrets, gilded dome and glories of days gone by. The rental house sits in a vast parkland with fountains, terraces, mosaic tiled pool, and a tented dining pavilion. There's no need to go near the kitchen or broom closet; the Here's my favorite of the AHA listings. York Castle, one of the most fascinating homes in the world, can be your private domain for a month or more. Situated on the wall-enclosed plaza of the Casbah in Tangier, Morocco, the castle overlooks the Atlantic, the Bay of Tangier and the Strait of Gibraltar. Constructed in the 16th century by the Portuguese, York Castle was later occupied by the Duke of York, and then became a garrison for the Sultan's Black Guards and a prison for captives of the Barberry pirates. Now owned by a Parisian art connoisseur and socialite, Yves Vidal, it has been turned into a luxurious showplace.

Now, get this - five plushy living areas open to a mosaic reflecting pool which is the central focus of this sumptuous fortress. Atop is an Arabian Nights tented dining pavilion. The castle has a total of eight bedrooms and eight baths, and up to 12 persons can enjoy its Moorish luxury for just $18,750 per month which boils down to a very manageable $52.08 per person daily. York Castle is fully staffed, of course.

If vacationing in such a dream home, or a moderately priced getaway house, interests you, write to At Home Abroad, Inc., 405 East 56 Street, Number 6-H, New York, N.Y. 10022, or phone (212) 421-9165. A free folder on their service is available. For specific listings and color photos, there is a $25 registration fee. If you happen to be in New York City, there is no charge to visit the AHA office and look through the photo catalogues on date eight persons - that turns out to be about $53 daily per person. The daily price is a bargain when you check today's prices at a first-class hotel. And don't let the number of persons deter you from considering such a vacation home. Quite often the posh pads can be shared by several couples, or two or more families.

To give you a better idea of the bargain offered by that $53 per day castle (a minimum stay of two weeks is required) - consider this: The castle is a picturebook residence set on 500 acres bordering the Shannon Estuary. Rental of the gleaming white residence includes a resident staff, consisting of a cook, two housekeepers and gardeners.

Renting a castle, chateau or villa is becoming more popular as families discover the bargains available and the enjoyment of staying at a luxurious estate or exotic residence. To serve this market, there are a number of rental agencies with listings of foreign-based homes for rent. One of the oldest established comowner's chef, butler, two maids and lady housemanager provide every service. And the English-speaking chauffeur will take you touring locally in a Mercedes. Quinta da Allegria can accommodate up to 10 persons in its six bedrooms and five baths. It's an unbelievable bargain for only $8,750 per month - that comes to $29 per night per person.

On the tiny private Grenadine island of Mustique, West Indies, where the members of the international set come and go by private plane or yacht, one of At Home Abroad's listings is Princess Margaret's secluded hideaway, otherwise known as "Jolies Eaux." Designed by the late Oliver Messell, this four bedroom, four bath retreat with its new pool and sensational view of the sea is available for a week's stay or longer when Her Royal Highness is not in residence. The rate for this royal pad is 1,000 pounds a week (about $2,400 dollars) which includes the princess' cook and maid as well as use of the villa's jeep.

Statue Develops Bronze Disease

ROME (AP) - The equestrian statue of Marcus Aurelius, an ancient symbol of Rome's eternity, is being removed from the Campidoglio Square - a victim of the ills of the modern city.

The nearly 2,000-year-old statue is suffering from "bronze disease," a slow process of corrosion caused by prolonged exposure to polluted air. The same ailment afflicted the famous bronze horses of St. Mark's Basilica in Venice, three of which have been removed.

ear noises. After having an audiogram and an examination by an ear doctor, I was told I had a hearing loss in the high frequency range. The doctor told me there was nothing that could be done about it, that it was a common complaint with aging. I'm 64. He said I would just have to tolerate it and live

If you can imagine the sounds of bees buzzing, meat frying in the pan, water running, a snake hissing and loud pulsation noises happening all at once, that is what I am experiencing. I understand the word for this is tinnitus. Should I seek further advice? Can you help me in any way?

DEAR READER - Perhaps you should seek a second opinion. Ear noises may be caused from something simple, such as wax in the ears, which is probably not your case since you just had an examination. They can be caused by some medicines, including ordinary aspirin.

Sometimes they are associated with a hearing loss and if a suitable hearing aid is provided after careful matching with your special loss by an audiologist, it can eliminate the problem. The improvement in hearing makes you less aware of the annoying sounds.

Still others are not associated with a hearing loss and can be benefited by a tinnitus masker. This device provides constant sound to the ears that literally masks the annoying sounds. Not all audiologists are certified to dispense the tinnitus masker if it is needed.

The different things that might be done for people with ear noises are discussed in The Health Letter number 12-10, Help for Tinnitus - Noise or Ringing in the Ears. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. DEAR DR. LAMB - I have been experiencing a burning type pain on the left side of my chest for the past few years. I also find it difficult to breathe through my nose at times. I've had several complete checkups with EKGs but nothing is ever found wrong. Can you think of what may be causing these discomforts?

I'm 33 years old and have been a police officer for the past 10 years. I don't drink or smoke and never have. I don't drink excessive amounts of coffee or tea. I'm athletic, 5 feet 8 inches and 170 pounds.

There is a history of heart attacks within our family but not at a young age. Grandfather, at 73, and father, at 63, died of heart attacks.

DEAR READER - Chest pain from heart disease is usually neither burning nor sharp. It is more often a pressure or dull ache. Burning pains over the left chest are more likely to be related to anxiety-tension or muscle or skeletal problems.

Some doctors might think you have neurocirculatory astheniz, in view of your description and the absence of findings on your examination. That is a term used for symptoms of that nature noted in anxiety. They are sometimes seen in people who are exercising above their level of fitness such as trying to train too fast.

Why don't you eliminate all coffee tea and colas and try to relax a bit more and see if that helps. If not, you might want to investigate any psychological factors that may be causing you stress

Drugs Linked To Illnesses

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI) - A Yale University psychiatrist says marijuana and other hallucinogenic drugs can cause nervous breakdowns and prolonged mental illnesses in about 4 percent of the population.

Dr. Malcolm B. Bowers Jr., chief of psychiatry at the Yale-New Haven Hospital in Connecticut, emphasized marijuana is a mind-altering drug, although not of the same potency as LSD, mescaline, PCP and others.

Bowers said some of his patients, suffering from drug-induced psychoses, have taken such a casual attitude about marijuana that they neglected to mention it when he asked about their drug

Bowers told a University of Iowa Medical College audience this week his research indicates about four in 100 persons may have a "vulnerability" that could lead to mental illness if stimulated by any hallucinogenic drug. "The potential is there in some people, obviously not in everyone," he said. "As an environmental factor bringing about mental illness, drugs have been under-emphasized," he said.

Preventive Care May Cut Health Costs

NEW YORK (UPI) - Business packaging of preventive health care for millions is the answer to mushrooming medical and hospital costs, says Control Data Corp. of Minneapolis.

The company's Life Extension Institute division has created three such packages, has tested them on a voluntary basis among the $3.3 billion a year corporation's 58,000 employees, and now is marketing the plans to other companies on the basis of fees determined by the number of workers involved.

"The cost of health care in the United States has been mounting considerably faster than the inflation of money," says Lee F. Kremer, Control Data's vice-president for health services.

"Employee health care costs for business grew 86 percent in the last four years to $45 billion annually. General health care has soared from $27 billion in 1962 to $213 billion this year.

William D. Norris, Control Data's chairman, says rather bluntly that "society can't afford the cost of today's health care system" and only business has the resources to provide the initiative to "face squarely the need for basic modification.

Norris said "the present course of limited intervention by business and piecemeal regulation by government" work in the future because neither addresses the cause of the problem." He described this cause as "a highly fragmented delivery system, characterized by a professional autonomy and an absence of economic incentives for efficien-

Although Life Extension Institute, in its elder activities, provides a lot of medical services to executives, Kremer said Control Data is not going into the prac-

Instead they are based solely on preventive care to improve peoples' lifestyles and health habits. The three plans are complementary and a company can make use of one or all of them. They are intended to be strictly voluntary in operation and although computers are used, a cardinal principle is that individual records filed in the computer shall not be available to the personnel department or privacy must be maintained." The three plans are:

Compliance assistance, a service which monitors the health of workers and the work environment in relation to government criteria on toxic substances.

- Employee assistance, a 24-hour-aday referral and crisis managment system for the individual worker. It provides monitoring and counsel for physical, emotional and financial problems, physical symptoms.

- StayWell, which identifies health risks for individuals caused by their habits and lifestyles and provides education and "social support" activities. It is based on the assumption and evidence, Kremer said, that lifestyle and behavior have an enormous impact on health.

Kremer said only 2.5 percent of the huge public health bill now goes for dis-

Scientists Seek New Means Of Producing N-Fuel

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) - A big problem with producing nuclear fuel for electricity is that the fuel can become a cornerstone of nuclear weaponry.

Making nuclear fuel that does not lend itself to nuclear weapons is the object of research now underway at Monsanto Co.'s Mound subsidiary in suburban Miamisburg.

Scientists say they believe that producing nuclear fuel in a different manner than the current method can reduce proliferation of nuclear weapons.

In order to turn uranium into nuclear fuel, the uranium must be enriched, that is, boost the level of uranium-235, the isotope needed to produce nuclear energy.

Currently, uranium is enriched by a process called gaseous diffusion. To produce a nuclear weapon, uranium-235 must be further enriched to much higher levels. Scientists at Mound believe an enrichment process called chemical exchange is better than gaseous diffusion because it lengthens the period of time needed to reach those higher levels. The greater time span makes it possible to detect the production of weapons material," Mound officials say. "Thus, the control of any such production could be handled through international licen-

"This type of technology (chemical exchange) could prove important to countries which have no large energy resources and must depend upon nuclear power for the coming decades. Using chemical exchange could remove the barriers to their development of nuclear power, which is now hampered by proliferation considerations."

French nuclear scientists are pursuing the chemical exchange process, but Mound says it is the only U.S. research laboratory investigating the procedure.

"The chemical exchange process is more resistant to proliferation because it makes it harder to do what is necessary to proliferate," said Dr. Richard Vallee, in charge of the Mound research.

"It can make it harder by factors of two or more, and that is significant," he said. "The question of time and difficulty is important when considering what it takes for someone to produce a nuclear

Vallee also says enriching uranium through the chemical exchange process is cheaper than gaseous diffusion

WHAT YOU GET WHEN YOU CHOOSE

PLYMOUTH FRONT WHEEL DRIVE

11 billion miles of front-wheel-drive experience. Our front-wheel-drive technology is known in the industry. . We have more front-wheel-drive experience in small. fuel-efficient cars than GM, Ford. AMC, Toyota or Datsun. • We introduced an American-made, high mileage, front-wheel-drive car two years ahead of GM and three years ahead of Ford. • We have sold more small, fuel-efficient, front-wheel-drive cars in the U.S. than GM, Ford, Datsun and Toyota.

Outstanding overall est. mpg. Plymouth has more front-wheel-drive cars rated over 24 est. mpg than GM. Ford, Toyota, Datsun or VW. . Plymouth Ford, Toyota, Datsun or vv. has the highest projected overall mpg of any American car company brand.

Most front-wheel-drive choices in America. Plymouth has more 5-passenger frontwheel-drive car models than any other American automobile manufacturer.

Plymouth has the only 6-passenger front-wheel-drive cars in America. • Plymouth offers more front-wheel-drive choices under $6,000 than any other American automobile manufacturer.

Ease and economy of maintenance. Plymouth front-wheel-drive K-cars with the standard 2.2 liter Trans-4 engine incorporate ease-of-maintenance features, so you'll probably find your service bills lower than for your previously-owned vehicle. . Most routine maintenance can easily be done by the driveway mechanic. Electronic fuel control system.

Provides smooth engine performance during warm-up.
 Contributes to fuel economy. • Promotes good acceleration. Improves engine performance and moothness throughout the engine speed range.

belted radial tires.

 It helps control engine emissions—even before they leave the engine.

*Use the Est. MPG for comparisons. Your mileage may vary depending on trip length, speed and weather. Actual highway mileage will probably be lower.

You want a high price for trade-in. Learn how much more trade-in value your present car is worth here as we need useful cars such as your trade-in.

"This primitive family structure is probably what made it possible for human intelligence and social structure to evolve," he said Wednesday at a news

This "mating strategy" sparked other changes that became the "hallmarks of the human lineage," he said.

Lovejoy, an anthropologist and anatomist at Kent State University in Ohio, will present his theory in an upcoming article in the journal Science.

His idea developed as he studied recent fossil evidence countering the earlier belief that upright posture (bipedalism), the use of tools and increased intelligence developed concurrently. Fossils unearthed in Ethiopia indicate that bipedalism preceded the development of stone tools by some 1.7 million years.

TORONTO (AP) - When a man and Lovejoy's theory is that upright walkwoman stand before an altar, they are ing, with hands free for other tasks, deentering a relationship with evolutionary veloped so males could bring food back to a monogamous female during preg nancy and child-rearing. And the switch from polygamous living groups to monogamous pairs began when females stopped showing external signs of fertility, he suggested.

Until then, polygamous primates were able to mate with several females. each at the time she was fertile. When the clues to fertility disappeared, the advantages of monogamy outweighed the advantages of polygamy.

Males were increasingly drawn into the rearing of children, which encouraged a division of labor in which they 'provisioned" their females, he says. This arrangement put a premium on cooperation and communication, factors now believed to have been the driving forces for human intelligence and lang-

Lovejoy said the hominoids that now live in polygamous groups - chimps, gorillas and orangutans - have a high infant death rate and now are limited to Africa and Asia, while monogamous humans have spread worldwide.

Dr. Glynn Isaac of the University of California at Berkeley, moderator of the session, called the theory "plausible."

'Clearly at some point in human evolution there was this kind of change (to monogamy). What's unusual about Lovejoy's system is to put it at the beginning," he said.

McMullen warned that "there are going to be some bloody noses in this

A few months later, he and the mayor announced a Chicago Tribune reporter would be evicted from the City Hall press room after the mayor was angered by one of the paper's stories. The couple later changed their minds and allowed the reporter to stay.

In another scrap, a reporter for the Southtown Economist said McMullen had actually threatened to bloody his nose over something he had written. McMullen's political characterizations also were blunt.

Republican Gov. James R. Thompson was looking out for his own interests in opposing the mayor's plan to close the city's lakefront airport, McMullen declared. Thompson uses the airport often in his travels between Springfield and

When there was no controversy to comment on, McMullen's comments sometimes stirred some. When the mayor was asked during a morning news conference last year if she was happy with a press release her husband had written as his first official act, he interjected: "I wrote it lying (in bed) right next to her. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which fell 23.80 on Wednesday, was off another 6.74 at 974.15 by noontime today.

Losers held a slight edge on gainers in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Trading slackened off from Wednesday's record pace.

Wednesday's sharp drop came after a well-known investment advisor, Joseph Granville of Holly Hill, Fla., advised his clients to sell all their stocks. More than a hundred issues were delayed in opening as a result of the wave of sell orders that hit the market. By the close, trading volume on the Big Board had reached 92.89 million shares, breaking the old record of 84.08 million set last Oct. 5.

Today the Dow Jones industrials edged up a point in the first hour. But shortly afterward the market yielded to renewed selling Among actively traded blue chips, DuPont rose 1/8 to 431/4 and Union Carbide gained % to 53%. But International Business Machines slipped 3/4 to 683/4, and General Motors lost % to 461/4.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .45 to 76.84. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 1.19 to 337.90.

Chrysler Action Expected Soon

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) - The Chrysler Loan Guarantee Board will make "some kind of decision" on the carmaker's applica-tion for $400 million more in loan guarantees before President Carter leaves office, the head of the United Auto Workers union predicted to-

Timing is crucial to Chrysler's fate because the company is rapidly running out of cash: A UAW vice president on Wednesday quoted the company's top finance officer as saying "judgment day" was at hand. Arriving for the second day of negotiations at Chrysler Corp.'s headquarters on a proposed $600 million wage freeze, UAW President Douglas Fraser said Treasury Secretary G. William Miller, who chairs the loan board, had "made it fairly clear to me they're going to reach come high of decision before they leave office."

some kind of decision before they leave office."

Fraser said he was "confident" Miller's recommendation to his two colleagues on the board "will be in favor."

Chrysler has said it hopes for at least conditional approval before the Reagan administration takes office Jan. 20. Miller has said the final decision eventually will come under the board's chairmanship of his replacement as Treasury secretary, Donald Regan. There is a 15-day waiting period between board approval and the time that Chrysler can get money.

On Wednesday, after the first day of talks on the wage freeze,
UAW Vice President Marc Stepp said the company described itself as 'up against the wall on timing" in its efforts to win more loan guaran-

Exxon, Mobile Raise Heating Oil Price

By The Associated Press

Exxon Corp. and Mobil Corp said today they are increasing whole-sale prices of home heating oil and diesel fuel as much as 2 cents a gallon after similar moves earlier in the week by several other large

"We're seeking to recover costs," said John Flint, a spokesman for Mobil, which also announced increases in wholesale gasoline and jet fuel prices.

Industry spokesmen say the rising costs include increases in foreign oil prices and the gradual lifting of domestic crude oil price con-trols in the United States. Analysts said the heating oil price increases were likely to be passed on to consumers.

Industry sources said, meanwhile, that Britain apparently has decided to raise North Sea crude oil prices $3 a barrel. The sources said the move will raise the cost of a 42-gallon barrel of Britain's main grade of oil from $36.25 to $39.25.

Britain supplies about 1 percent of American oil needs, and a price rise has been expected following increases of $3 to $4 per 42-gallon barrel by three African countries whose oil is similar in quality to that

Trade Surplus Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's current account - the broadest measure of economic transactions abroad — should register a sur-plus of about $10 billion in 1981, a high-ranking Treasury Department official predicted today.

That would about double 1980's expected surplus, said Assistant Treasury secretary C. Fred Bergsten.

The current account measures not only merchandise trade, but also services, foreign aid, loans to foreigners, the movement of U.S. gold abroad and such payments as pensions to Americans living

Bergsten predicted that the nation's merchandise trade deficit in 1981 will continue to narrow by some $2.5 billion to about $22.5 bil-

More Banks Cut Lending Rate

NEW YORK (AP) - Two major banks today lowered their prime lending rates to 20 percent, leaving their rates still above that charged by Chemical Bank.

Chase Manhattan Bank of New York and First National Bank of Chicago lowered their rates from 20.5 percent. Chemical, another major New York bank, cut its rate by one percentage point to 19.5 percent on Tuesday but no large banks have followed its lead.

The prime rate is what banks charge on loans to their most credit-worthy corporate customers, with other commercial and industrial borrowers paying more.

how to raise babies. I guess she isn't all that informed. When Desi and I were infants, there was always plenty of help in the house and very competent nurses. "But I'm raising this child myself.

When I ask Mom a question about the baby, she says, 'I don't remember. Grandfather Desi also is elated about Desi and Lucille were the Ricky and Lucy Ricardo of TV's first super sitcom, "I Love Lucy." Their travails and madcap antics - usually involving neighbors Ethel and Fred Mertz - were a tradition which is being perpetuated in reruns in hundreds of cities, towns and hamlets around the country.

America was fascinated when both Lucille and TV's Lucy became pregnant back in 1953. The country awaited the arrival of their son, Desi Jr., quite probably the most publicized birth in TV history.

Although Desi and Lucille were divorced in 1960, and both subsequently remarried to others, they remain friends and, naturally, share great pride in their first grandchild.

Both grandparents, however, are not deliriously happy that Lucie and her husband, actor Laurence Luckinbill, will be making their permanent home in Manhattan. Luckinbill works mostly in the theater. Lucie who starred on Broadway last year in "They're Playing Our Song."

Moore Brings Six Assistants To Tech

By NORVAL POLLARD Executive Sports Editor

Less than three days after being named Texas Tech's head football coach, Jerry Moore has assembled a staff and sent his assistant coaches on the recruit-

Moore, the former North Texas State grid boss named to replace Rex Dockery as coach of the Red Raiders Sunday, made a quick trip to Denton Monday afternoon to consult his assistants. He returned Wednesday morning with six members of his old Mean Green coach-

Moore also announced Wednesday that Jim Bates, Tech's defensive coordinator and secondary coach in 1980 under Dockery and one of six finalists interviewed by school officials to replace Dockery, will remain with the Raiders in the same capacity.

Tech's new offensive staff will consist similar positions on Dockery's staff. Tech's new staff held its first meeting Wednesday afternoon to discuss recruiting and assign areas of recruiting responsibility. Moore met with his assistant coaches again Wednesday night before many of them hit the road to try to catch the Raiders up on recruiting. Tech's 1981 that fruit. recruiting effort has been at a relative standstill since Dockery's resignation Dec. 16.

Even before Wednesday's first staff meeting, Bates, Slayton and James made a visit to Estacado High School to call on a trio of athletes Tech is very high on: Kelvin White, Jerry Gray and Kenneth Cade. Moore has made it clear that Tech will concentrate on recruiting West Texas prospects.

Dockery waited three weeks for Bates to make a decision on whether to stay at Tech or go with him to Memphis State as defensive coordinator. Bates said Wednesday it was a difficult decision, but he went with his heart.

"My first love right now is Texas Tech," declared Bates. "I've recruited a lot of players on this team, and they haven't picked the fruit yet, so to speak. I want to be with them when they pick

"I'm elated to be staying at Tech, but I also felt bad for Rex because he waited," Bates added. "We're very close friends, he showed great patience and he made me a tremendous offer, but my decision was from the heart.' Bates, generally regarded as the most successful recruiter on Dockery's staff, will continue to recruit the Dallas-Fort Worth area and Oklahoma City.

James will be recruiting the Houston area. West and Ritchie are expected to handle the West Texas recruiting duties. The other recruiting areas were still being discussed Wednesday night.

Ritchie, 25, quarterbacked Texas A&I to three consecutive NAIA Division I national championships in 197, '75 and '76. He is a graduate of Mineral Wells High School. He was assistant backfield coach at Texas from 1977 through 1979.

Krischke, 28, was an all-state performer in track and football at Houston's St. Thomas High. He played three seasons at SMU as a wide receiver. Krischke was named SMU's recruiting coordinator in 1975. He was an assistant and recruiting coordinator for one season (1976) at Michigan State, and held the same positions at Oklahoma State during the 1977-78 seasons before joining Moore at

James, 30, played as a running back and wide receiver at Langston (Okla.) University. He signed a free agent contract with the Packers before beginning his coaching career in 1973 as an assistant at his alma mater, Okmulgee (Okla.) High. ltimatum, Award Occupy Earl

HOUSTON (AP) — Witt Stewart, trying to negotiate a $1 million per year contract for Earl Campbell with the Houston Oilers, says Campbell would be valuable to the Oilers even if he became injured and couldn't play for two years.

"He would still mean something financially to the team," Stewart said Wedneday, explaining Campbell's demand for a new contract, although his present contract was rewritten by the Oilers last February.

"Just like when O.J. (Simpson) went to San Francisco, he took some class with him," Stewart said. "People would come out to the games just in hopes of seeing him run the ball twice '

Campbell ran the ball a National Football League record 373 times for 1,934 yards last season for his third straight league rushing title. Stewart said if the Oilers continue to refuse to renegotiate Campbell's contract that currently pays him $500,000 annually including bonuses, the all-pro running back will ask to be traded or sit out next season.

'There are no loopholes," Stewart said. "The Oilers can renegotiate Earl's contract, trade him or Earl Campbell can't play pro football for the next five years." Campbell, who has five years remaining on his current contract, did not attend the news conference called by Stewart to discuss Campbell's demands and has declined all interviews that include questions about the contract dispute. Oiler general manager Ladd Herzeg said last week the Oilers would not renegotiate Campbell's contract "under any circumstances." After giving Campbell a new contract last year, the Oilers said they would not renegotiate anymore player

The policy led to problems when linebacker Robert Brazile walked out of training camp when the Oilers refused to renegotiate. Tight end Mike Barber was a camp holdout before signing his contract.

Stewart said many Oiler players are unhappy with their salaries and Campbell sees himself as a standard-bearer in breaking the club's policy of not renegotiating contracts.

"A lot of players went to Earl during the season and told him the only way he would get anything done was to go in on Thursday and threaten not to play on Sunday," Stewart said.

"Now he feels kind of like the captain of the ship and, if he can help himself, he will be helping some of the rest of the players too."

But, while Stewart worries that his client's public image will be painted as that of a spoiled and greedy pro football player, there was nothing tarnished about Campbell's image in the voting for The Associated Press Offensive Player of the Year. Campbell was the runaway winner, earning votes from 43 of the 84 ballots cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters. Cleveland quarterback Brian Sipe was a distant second, polling 26 votes. San Diego quarterback Dan Fouts got seven votes and Charger receiver John Jefferson had six. No other player got more than two votes. "We didn't want to have a family feud or air our wash in the press," Stewart said of the contract stalemate. "It's hard for the fellow making $15,000 or $18,000 per year and paying $12 to see an Oiler game to understand that Earl wants more. We understand and respect that."

Stewart said Campbell, who wants a $1 million per year salary over six years, is only trying to protect his family.

"Running backs in the National Football League have a short career span," Stewart said. "Earl has been unhappy with his contract and he feels he has to make a stand for his family. If some people get upset, he hopes they understand."

"I don't start out each season to gain more yards than I did the year before," Campbell said. "More than anything else, what I do depends on the people I play

Campbell declined comment on new Oiler coach Ed Biles' plan to give him more rest next season by diversifying the Oiler offense.

Dallas' White Keeps Luncheon Date With Media

DALLAS (UPI) - For an hour each day at the Dallas Cowboys' practice field, he players are free game.

Writers and broadcasters swarm over the site during the lunch hour, grabbing n interview here and an opinion there.

And when it comes time for the playoffs, the scene is often chaotic - just as it was Wednesday around the locker of quarterback Danny White.

"I'm tired of all this," said backup quarterback Glenn Carano in a good-nared manner as he tried to work his way through the crowd and reach his locker.

"It seems to me this crowd was right over there last year," said White, pointing to where Roger Staubach once hung his gear in the locker room.

The quarterback is always at the center of attention and White has certainly been no exception for the Cowboys this year. The attention intensified after last Sunday's comeback win over Atlanta in which White hit Drew Pearson with two touchdown passes in the final four minutes.

It was the first time White had railled the Cowboys in the final minutes of a playoff game and the comparisons with Staubach quickly arose.

So what did White feel in his first "Roger Staubach situation?"

Hobbled Eagles Practice, Mend

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles are in sunny Florida licking their wounds in preparation for Sunday's showdown with the Dallas Cowboys for the National Football Conference title and a berth in the Super Bowl.

The Eagles' biggest hurts are at flanker, where rookie Rodney Parker is the one survivor. Charlie Smith, having his best year ever with 47 receptions, is out ith a broken jaw suffered in the regular-season finale against the Cowboys.

Backup Scott Fitzkee, who was out most of the season with a broken foot, rebroke it in the Eagles' 31-16 playoff victory over Minnesota last weekend.

The nationally-televised game begins at 1 p.m. Sunday at Veterans Stadium.

The Cowboys trailed Atlanta 24-14 going into the fourth quarter, but drove down the field three times for three touchdowns and a 30-27 victory. Their last three drives covered 217 yards on 19 plays - an average of 10.9 yards per snap.

"Hey, they're at their offensive peak right now, no question about that," said Eagles' linebacker Frank LeMaster. "(Danny) White has come a long way and they have those great receivers and offensive line. I'm concerned about that, but I'm not going to go into the game concerned. We can play defense, too, you know."

"We're going to have to do a good job of ball control to keep the pressure off our defense," said Eagles' tackle Stan Walters.

But against us (in December, when the Cowboys had to win by 24 points to win the division from the Eagles under the tie-breaking formula), against the Rams and against Atlanta in the fourth quarter, the Cowboys were playing from behind," Walters said.

They were in a desperate situation each time and it's easier to open up and play loose when you're doing that," Walters said.

'That won't be the case (Sunday). We'll go in even - none of this 24-point cushion junk. And I think it will make a difference in the way both teams approach

"That wasn't a Roger Staubach situation," White said. "It was a 'we were be-hind in the final two minutes,' situation. It happens to all quarterbacks."

White, unbeaten as a playoff starter, will lead the Cowboys against old foe Philips :

"It is easier for the teams to prepare for this game because we know each other and pretty well," White said. "We know what they like to do in certain situations and you can prepare for it.

But the intensity will be at a higher level for this game than it was the other times we played them. Our emotions are going to be a lot higher, I know."

Because there is such a familiarity with Philadelphia, and vice versa, what

Phillips Leads Candidates; Holtz May Compete

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Team owner John Mecom Jr., said former Houston Oilers' coach Bum Phillips is the leading candidate for the coaches' job with the New Orleans Saints, but the job won't include the general manager's duties. "Obviously, right now, Bum is my heads-on favorite, so to speak," Mecom said Wednesday after the second meeting with Phillips in two days.

cided against interviewing George Allen for the job. 'We don't want to adopt his philosophy," Mecom said.

Allen, who took Los Angeles to the NFL playoffs twice and Washington to the Super Bowl, had been one of the names most frequently mentioned as a possible successor to Dick Nolan as coach of the Saints.

Allen's philosophy, frequently expressed, is that "the future is now." He is noted for trading draft choices — including choices he had already swapped away for established veterans.

Phillips emergence as the favorite also increased the odds against Lou Holtz. coach of the University of Arkansas, who said Wednesday that he considered the Saints' job a plum and would have to consider any offers from Mecom.

Mecom also said he foresaw no conflict between his future coach and general manager Steve Rosenbloom. Rosenbloom is in charge of personnel with the Saints, working through Dick Steinberg, whom he hired from Los Angeles shortly after joining the Saints before last season.

"I am not out to replace anything but a head coach," Mecom said Wednesday.
"Burn and I have talked about that."

The two are scheduled to talk again before the week is over.

Mecom said he is going to take his time picking his eighth head coach in the 14-year history of the franchise.

In a vote taken among the league's coaches, Knox was named on 13 ballots. Dick Vermeil of Philadelphia had five votes and Leeman Bennett of the Atlanta Falcons had three.

The sporting weekly Wednesday also named its first NFL All-Star team, as chosen by 50 writers across the nation. The squad is dominated by the AFC,

Brian Sipe of Cleveland, with Walter Payton of Chicago and Earl Campbell of Houston at running backs. The wide receivers are John Jefferson of San Diego and James Lofton of Green Bay, with the

Chargers' Kellen Winslow at tight end. The offensive line consists of Houston's Leon Gray and Atlanta's Mike Kenn at tackles, New England's John Hannah and Cleveland's Joe DeLamielleure at guards, and Pittsburgh center

Philadelphia assistant coach Dick Coury was interviewed by Rosenbloom Dec. 23 and was believed to be a favorite for the job until Phillips was fired a week lat-

udge Reveals Content Of Arizona State Errors

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Boosters and athletic officials at Arizona State University offered football prospects and players cash, cars, land, loans, meals and easy academic credit, according to documents released in court despite secrecy pleas by the school and the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

A basketball recruit was offered free use of a new Lincoln Continental for an evening, and track coaches also broke rules in contacts with track recruits on several occasions, according to the documents, which formed part of an NCAA probe that found 30 violations of NCAA

Two ASU officials also received cash from the boosters, according to the fiveinch high stack of papers released by Judge Stanley Goodfarb of Maricopa County Superior Court in reponse to a freedom-of-information suit brought by the Mesa Tribune and Tempe Daily

The NCAA placed the school in suburban Tempe on two years' probation last month, saying evidence upheld 30 of its 80 original allegations.

Football Agent Lists Wrongs

BOSTON (AP) - Player representative Howard Slusher says the level of ethics among many other agents has deteriorated so much that he's winding down his own business to concentrate on his law

"The abuses are blatant," he said. "Players are being paid off. Coaches are being paid off. And everybody knows about it, but nobody does anything.

"Last year, three-quarters of the players picked in the first round of the football draft signed with an agent before the middle of the football season. All it takes is for a couple of guys to spend enough money and they can pick up half the first-round players.'

Slusher, who represents several New England Patriots players, didn't identify any agents or players he said were abusing the system. His comments were published in an interview in today's Boston Herald American.

"In order to compete with some of these people who want to represent players, I'd have to do some things that I never have done and never would," he said.

"I don't want to give a football player a Mercedes in his junior year of college for the right to represent him when he's a senior." he said. "I don't want to give him a credit card or pay him off in cash. Yet, that's exactly what's going on these days. How often? How often does Carter make little liver pills? That's how often.

"Things have changed in the eight years I've been dealing with athletes," he said. "Some things have improved, but the ethics involved have definitely gotten

MOB Registration Continues Today

Two more dates remain for registration for the Monterey Optimist Baskethall (MOB) season this week.

Boys in grades three through eight may sign up today at Wilson Junior High from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. or Saturday at South Plains Mall from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Plans to include ninth graders in the program were temporarily suspended by the MOB board of directors because of Interscholastic present University League regulations. Under UIL rules, a ninth grader who participates in such a program is ineligible for varsity competition as a sophomore. That UIL rule is now in litigation.

More than 800 boys are expected to sign up for the MOB basketball season, which begins play at the end of the junior

LGB Registration Slated Today

The Lubbock Girls' Basketball Association will hold its first day of registration today at Evans Junior High from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

A second date for registration will be held Saturday at the South Plains Mall from 10 a.m. through 6 p.m. Players in grades three through nine may participate in three divisions: third and fourth grades; fifth and sixth grades; and seventh, eighth and ninth grades. Ninth grade girls may participate if they have not played, or will not be playing, high school varsity basketball. Players in the third-and fourth-grade division will be assigned to teams. Those in the other divisions will have tryouts and will be drafted to their respective Registration fee is $20, with each additional girl from a family eligible to play for $10 In the 1963 Rose Bowl, Ron Vander

Kelen of Wisconsin passed for 401 yards against Southern California.

Some of those named in the allega-tions have denied some or all of the charges. Others have refused to comment. Still others have confirmed some of the allegations.

A number of recruits were given up to $20 each with which to gamble at dog racing tracks here, while football players were shown how to sell complimentary tickets at inflated prices, according to the

Some of the charges that the NCAA upheld, such as those involving free meals or the occasional use of a car or gasoline credit card, did not appear to involve much money.

But one charge substantiated by the NCAA was said to involve $660 in cash given by an athletic representative to a football player who used it to pay tuition costs even though ASU did not count the money in totalling its athletic scholarships. The NCAA said ASU listed the youth as a non-scholarship player even though an assistant coach had arranged for him to get the money

The NCAA also said another member of the football team, Gary Bouck, had received $1,060 from Rick Lynch, a Phoenix-area drag-strip owner described in the documents as president of the Fallen Angels, an unofficial booster group. The school did not deny that charge.

da responded, "Safeguards must be taken to assure that the Fallen Angels and like groups are no longer involved with individual athletes or coaches

Another document said Riki Gray, former Tucson resident now a junior li-nebacker at the University of Southern California, was offered land, and money to develop it, if he would play football and graduate from ASU.

The man alleged to have made the offer, Nap Lawrence, was described in the documents as a Tempe businessman, friend of the Gray family and an ASU athletic representative.

ASU also was cited by the NCAA for allowing players to qualify academically by claiming credit from Rocky Mountain

ESPOSITO TO RETIRE

NEW YORK (AP) - Phil Esposito, the second leading scorer in National Hockey League history, was expected to announce his retirement today to become an assistant coach with the New York Rangers, it was reported Wednesday night. Esposito, 38, holds the NHL record for most points and goals in a season - 152 points on 76 goals and 76 assists in 1970-71 set while he was with the Boston Bruins. He is in his sixth season with New York.

Alleged Tech Coach Finalist Likes Wake Forest

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) - John Mackovic insists that "I haven't applied for a job since I've been a head coach," but that hasn't stopped him from becoming the most wanted man in college football.

In the last two seasons, at least 16 major football institutions have approached Wake Forest for permission to talk to Mackovic - and one of them asked three

Things have reached the point where Mackovic's name is mentioned promi-nently for just about any head coaching vacancy. Just last Sunday, newspapers reported that he would get the Texas Tech job. A few hours later, someone else was

"I've turned down all job offers in the last two years, and there have been several," Mackovic said Wednesday at the annual convention of the American Football Coaches Association. "Several other schools called and said, 'Are you interested?' But I said, 'No, thanks.' I could have moved if I'd wanted to.

The constant rumors have caused Mackovic "some real problems. It's hurt our recruiting a great deal and people feel I don't like Wake Forest, which I love. I've been listed as the leading candidate or a top candidate or a finalist, which gives the impression that I'm going to accept, if offered. Most people think all I want to do Even though Mackovic turned Wake Forest around in his first head coaching job — his 1979 club became the third team in NCAA history to go to a bowl after losing 10 games the previous year - the school is not one of the traditional national powers and there are plenty of better-paying jobs, even in the Atlantic Coast

"A lot of people feel that if I did a good job at Wake Forest, which didn't have a good program, that I could do the same for their program," is the way Mackovic explains his overnight popularity.

Besides, the 37-year-old Mackovic — he looks 27 — is personable and articulate and has demonstrated the ability to put together a winning program at a place where everyone said it couldn't be done. Wake Forest's eight victories in 1979, Mackovic's second season, were the most in 35 years.

Since graduating from Wake Forest, where he was a quarterback and the ACC total offense leader in 1964, Mackovic has been an assistant at his alma mater, Miami of Ohio, Army, San Jose State, Arizona and Purdue. He was assistant-head coach at Arizona and Purdue.

Mackovic never has hesitated to have his quarterbacks — including record-breakers Mark Herrmann at Purdue and Jay Venuto at Wake Forest — put the ball in the air, which makes for exciting, wide-open football. "I've always coached quarterbacks and I've always passed the ball," Mackovic said. "I moved away from option football at Arizona in 1975, when I became intrigued with the success that LaVell Edwards was having passing at Brigham Young. That's me; that's what I want to be."

Swannegan Muscles Up Raiders

Assistant Sports Editor
For awhile there last spring, it appeared that Texas Tech's 1980 basketball recruiting haul hadn't been much to get After all, the Raiders signed only one

incoming freshmen - 5-10 guard Bubba

Jennings - and only two big men in junior college transfers Ricky Guy and Clarence Swannegan. But now, 11 games into the season, coach Gerald Myers' recruiting class of 1980 keeps looking better and better. Everybody knows about Jennings, Tech's long-range bomber who has steadily improved his per game average to its current 11.4 figure.

As for the 6-6 Swannegan, well, his rather imposing 225-pound figure has given the Raiders a new-found dominance underneath the boards.

In Tech's first two Southwest Conference contests, "Daddy Swann," has been a wrecking crew. In the Raiders' 89-79 win over Texas Saturday he dropped in 18 points and hauled down nine rebounds while aiding a Tech defense that just about nullified 6-10 LaSalle Thompson.

And Tuesday night, in a tough 73-70 loss to the Houston Cougars, Swannegan did everything humanly possible to keep the Raiders close. He scored 20 points his best in a Tech uniform - and completely dominated the backboards, again pulling down nine.

No one else on either team had more than five boards to his credit.

For his play, Swannegan is The Avalanche-Journal Player of the Week.

After two league games, Swannegan best on the team leads the club in SWC scoring with an 18.5 average and is hitting 53.6 of his shots from the field.

'Clarence played well in the last two games," said Myers. "He did a good job against Houston but I think he's had some other games this year where he did just as well for us.'

Throughout the season, Swannegan has been a steadying force for the Raiders who occasionally looked lost on the court. For the season he's averaging 12.9 a game and pulling in 8.3 rebounds -

Razorbacks Snap Alaska's Pipeline

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (UPI) - Guards Darrell Walker and U.S. Reed combined for 44 points to pace the Arkansas Razorbacks to a 92-58 victory over Alaska-Anchorage Wednesday night.

The Hogs employed a quick man-toman defense and a rugged zone press to build a 3919 lead with 3:13 left in the first half and a 45-31 advantage at intermission. Walker and Reed destroyed the Alaska zone defense with 23 and 21 points, respectively.

Oakland's Hayes 'Intercepts' Defensive Award

DEFENSIVE ACE - Oakland defensive back Lester Hayes, a former star at Texas A &M, is the NFL's Defensive Player of the Year, it was announced today. (AP Laserceptions were a principal reason for the Oakland Raiders' return to the playoffs, was named today The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Year for the 1980 National Football League season.

Hayes came within one interception of tying the NFL's single-season record set in 1952 by Dick "Night Train" Lane when he played for the Los Angeles

He also has intercepted two passes in each of the Raiders' two playoff games, paving the way to victories over the Houston Oilers and Cleveland Browns and putting Oakland into the American Conference championship game, one step away from the Super Bowl.

Hayes, a four-year pro, received 26 of 84 votes cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and sports broadcasters, three from each NFL city. His team-mate, linebacker Ted Hendricks, was second in the balloting with 18 votes.

The other players receiving more than two votes were Dallas defensive tackle Randy White with eight, safety Nolan Cromwell of Los Angeles, seven, and New England linebacker Steve Nelson, Atlanta linebacker Al Richardson and Buffalo nose tackle Fred Smerlas, three

Along with his 13 interceptions (he also had four nullified by penalties), Hayes had 43 regular-season tackles, nine assists, three quarterback sacks, 25 pass deflections and two fumble recoveries. Hendricks had 66 tackles, 19 assists, 91/2 sacks, three interceptions, 16 deflections,

Rebuilt Raiders Utilize 'Poise, Pride' Principle

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders are just one victory away from a return trip to the Super Bowl, the pro football summit they conquered four years ago.

"I forget what I felt like four years ago," fullback Mark van Eeghen said when asked to compare the team's attitude now with that in the days leading up to Super Bowl XI.

The Raiders and Chargers will play Sunday in San Diego for the American Football Conference title and the right to face the NFC champions in Super Bowl XV. Four seasons ago, Oak-land beat the Pittsburgh Steelers 24-7 for the AFC crown and trounced the Minnesota Vikings 32-14 in the Super Bowl.

"There has been an almost complete turnover in the team since then," van Eeghen said, noting one reason it seems like more than four years to him. "A lot of guys were traded — Kenny Stabler, Dave Casper, Phil Villapiano and others some retired and some were injured. There must be only nine or ten of us left who played in that Super Bowl."

Ten is the number, and only seven of those players started van Eeghen, wide receiver Cliff Branch and linemen Gene Upshaw, Art Shell and Dave Dalby on offense, and defenders John Matuszak and Ted Hendricks.

"But even though the players change, we seem to stay the same, do the same things we always do. I think that's true,"

Mary Hubbard, Hewritt Dixon and Clem Daniels.

"We're still the Oakland Raiders. The 'Pride and Poise' wears off and stays with you," he added, referring to the team Chargers' coach Don Coryell says the Raiders' success this year was no surprise to him.

"You make changes to replace one person with someone a little better. That's what they've been doing all along. It's no secret," Corvell sald this week.

The Raiders made the playoffs with an 11-5 record this season, after missing two straight years by finishing 9-7, with a team including many new faces.

"A lot of them were young players, too, like Matt Millen and Kenny King," noted coach Tom Flores. Millen, a rookie from Penn State, became a starting linebacker after Super Bowl veteran Monte Johnson was injured last summer. King, the running back acquired in the trade which sent safety Jack Tatum to Houston, earned Pro Bowl recognition in his second NFL season.

We have 24 players on this team with four years experience or less. That says something for our future. We're not peaking or close to it," said Burgess Owens, the free safety whose eight years of experience makes him one of the Oakland old-timers

Hearing Begins In Phils' Probe READING, Pa. (AP) - A lawyer for three men accused of illegally obtaining amphetamines by using the names of Philadelphia Phillies' players says his clients obtained the drugs at the players' request. Attorney Emmanuel Dimitriou made the statement

Wednesday at a preliminary hearing for Dr. Patrick A. Mazza, the team physician for a Phillies' minor league affiliate; Robert Leon Masley, 54; and his son, Robert M. Masley, 24.

Mazza, who is team physician for the Reading Phillies, was charged last November with writing 23 prescriptions for 2,630 doses of the drug using the names of eight persons associated with the 1980 World Series winners. Masley and his son, an assistant clubhouse manager for the minor league club, are charged with getting the prescriptions filled at four local pharmacies.

Mazza allegedly used the names of pitchers Steve Carlton, Larry Christenson and Randy Lerch; first basman Pete Rose; outfielder Greg Luzinski and his wife, Jean; retired catcher Tim McCarver and Sheena Bowa, wife of shortstop Larry Bow-

Rose, Christenson, McCarver, Mrs. Bowa and Mrs. Luzinski were among the witnesses who testified at the hearing Wednes-

Rose. Christenson and McCarver said they had never been examined by Mazza or obtained prescriptions through him or

Mrs. Luzinski denied obtaining drugs through the physician, but when Dimitriou asked her if her husband had requested di-et pills, she admitted she had seen some "green pills" in the

"I saw them at home, but I didn't know who was taking

"Didn't you ever receive pills from Masley for your husband?" Dimitriou asked. "Two years ago, behind home plate you received some from him for your husband and you put them in your purse, don't you remember?' 'No," Mrs. Luzinski replied.

"Isn't it a fact your husband used your name on the prescriptions so it wouldn't become widely known?" Dimitriou

Mrs. Luzinski denied it.

The pharmacists who filled the prescriptions testified that the younger Masley usually brought the prescriptions in during times of exhibition games between the Phillies and the Reading Phillies, or when members of the major league team were in town on promotional visits.

Mrs. Bowa described the younger Masley as "a friend of

She said Masley had visited the couple occasionally at their home and once stayed with them for a week in Florida

She denied, however, that she had ever obtained drugs or prescriptions through the doctor or the Masleys.

Friends and supporters of Mazza and the Masleys became upset during the testimony of the wives and major league stars,

i Battles Time To Get License

HONOLULU (AP) - Former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali is fighting against time to renew his Hawaii boxing license so he can face John L. Gardner in April

Ali, who must obtain the renewal before he turns 39 Jan. 17, went before a special meeting of the state Boxing Commission Wednesday.

But the meeting ended before it could get under way because the state had not received the required 72-hour notice.

The commission will meet again Jan. 13 to rule on the renewal application, which was filed by Harold Smith, executive director of Muhammad Ali Professional Sports, Inc.

Smith, who said MAPS also was considering staging the fight in either New York or Puerto Rico, said a Hawaii bout would be held at Honolulu's Blaisdell Center Arena sometime in April. Under Commission rules, a fighter cannot be issued a license after his 39th birthday. If Ali's request for a renewal is granted before Jan. 17, however, he will be allowed to box in the state through

Earlier Wednesday, Ali, who was battered into submission by Larry Holmes in October's World Boxing Association heavyweight title bout, was examined by Honolulu physician Richard You, who found the former champ "in good physical condition."

Ali, who weighed in at 240 pounds, said he would get down to 230 for the fight with Gardner without the use of thyroid medicine, which he claimed left him weak and physically unfit to meet Holmes.

Trade Rumor Involves NBA's Thompson, Lakers

DENVER (AP) - A Denver Nuggets' spokesman has denied reports that the club is attempting to trade David Thompson to the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Los Angeles Herald Examiner reported this week that the Nuggets offered Thompson to the Lakers for guard Norm Nixon and the 1982 first-round draft choice which Los Angeles acquired from Cleveland a year ago. The Lakers reportedly offered Jim Chones and $1 million.

"I don't see how we can make any trade when we're going through an owner-ship change," said Denver spokesman Tom Hohensee. "I don't know anything about this reported trade. I would be surprised.'

Hohensee said if negotiations between the Nuggets' owners and New York businessman Peter Gilbert fall through, "then the lines for trade will be open Hohensee quoted Nuggets' president and general manager Carl Scheer as saying Tuesday that the team has talked about trading several players in the past two months. "But we'd have to have the permission of major players like Dan Issel and David Thompson, and we haven't talked to any of those players about being trad-

In response to trade rumors, Lakers' owner Jerry Buss denied that any formal offers have been made, at least through him. But he did admit that the Lakers have an interest in the 6-foot-4 Thompson.

"It is true that we are interested in David Thompson," Buss said, "but you can pick out another player on another team and say the same thing. Singling Thompson out, though true, I think is misleading."

WAC Studies UNLV's Bid

DENVER (AP) — For the time being, the University of Nevada at Las Vegas' application for membership into the Western Athletic Conference has been placed on the back burner.

The WAC Presidents' Council voted Wednesday to place UNLV's application on inactive status. The action, which effectively means Nevada-Las Vegas is denied membership at least for now, took place during a conference call of the nine WAC presidents and was a followup to a Dec. 19 meeting in San Diego.

Dr. Edward Jennings, president of the University of Wyoming and the coun-cil chairman, said the council found that 'condition No. 3 — institutional control as prescribed by the NCAA and the WAC - as set forth in the council's resolutions regarding application for membership by UNLV has not been met."

As a result, Jennings said, UNLV's application was placed on inactive status mediately and members of the conference were instructed to "adjust their athletic schedules with UNLV accordingly." The resolution passed 8-0 with the Air Force Academy abstaining, since UNLV's application and the conditions for membership were set prior to Air Force's admittance to the WAC last July. UNLV applied for WAC membership in May 1977. At that time, the criteria for membership placed on UNLV included attainment of NCAA Division I football status, adequate football and basketball facilities, and complete compliance with NCAA and WAC rules and policies. The school's application will remain on inactive status with those of several other institutions and can be made active at any time by mutual agreement. The presidents did commend the outstanding work and dedication of UNLV president Leonard Goodall in his interactions with the conference.

Boxer Aaron Pryor Adjusts Outlook

CINCINNATI (AP) - Junior welterweight champion Aaron Pryor is working out again but said he is going to be more careful of his friends after he was shot by

"There's a new Aaron Pryor because of that. The new Aaron Pryor is more on the ball now. I know what people to have around me," said Pryor. He has resumed workouts for his upcoming bout with Saoul Mamby, the World Boxing Council junior welterweight champion.

Pryor refused to press charges against the girlfriend he said shot him during an argument but admitted he was frightened by the incident.

He said a bullet penetrated his forearm but caused no damage.

ERA Ordinance Judge Suggests

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) - In a bid to lure back convention business lost by boycotted resort hotels, the Miami Beach city commission unanimously moved toward adoption of its own "Little Equal Rights" ordinance.

Commissioner Alex Daoud, who introduced the ordinance, predicted it will have a grass roots "steamroller effect" toward winning ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.

The proposed ordinance will become law if passed on second reading at the next commission meeting, Jan. 21, Daoud said.

Florida is among 15 states under a convention boycott organized by the National Organization for Women because its Legislature has refused to ratify ERA. NOW says more than 500 groups have refused to hold conventions and meetings in Florida because of the boycott.

Attorneys Continue Prison Negotiations

HOUSTON (UPI) - Attorneys ordered by a federal judge to remedy Texas' overcrowded prisons say they will talk as long as progress is being made, but there is doubt a Feb. 15 deadline can

Justice Department lawyer David J.W. Vanderhoof, who met Wednesday with inmates' attorney William B. Turn-er and Assistant Attorney General Ed Idar, said later "it would be inappropriate" to detail the negotiations.

Justice did not issue a final order requiring specific actions, but ordered lawyers on both sides to meet and present him either agreed or opposing remedy proposals by Feb. 15.

Texas Attorney General Mark White says that deadline might need to be extended because preparation of proposals could take longer. Wednesday's private meeting was the first of what was expected to be a series.

The case, brought by TDC inmates eight years ago, was tried in Houston in a year-lone trial that ended in December. Justice, while refusing to order spe-

Measure Under Attack From Black Colleges

While the state waits to hear if it is in compliance with a federal mandate to eliminate separate higher education systems for blacks and whites, officials at two predominately black colleges exwith their schools.

Rep. Foster Whaley, D-Pampa, says he will file a bill to close down Texas Southern University and Prairie View A &M, and compel the students and faculty to "integrate" into majority-white state colleges.

Whaley said his plan would satisfy federal officials and save "Texas millions of dollars by doing away with two universities the state can do without '

That plan, however, drew sharp criticizm Wednesday from Melvin Hollis, TSU's vice president for development. "I can't think of anything that would guarantee federal intervention quicker ... than the proposed bill," Hollis said. Holis was joined by Texas A&M system chancellor Frank Hubert, who helps govern Prairie View.

Burglar Alarm Buyers To Pay $25 For Permit

MIAMI (AP) - Miami city officials, responding to police complaints that false burglar alarms waste too much time, have ordered business owners and residents who want to have an alarm to buy $25 permits and submit the devices

Police say they're fed up with re-sponding to false alarms, which they esti-mated at 23,000 in 1980. But residents don't like the new ordinance.

We estimate it requires at least one patrol manhour to respond to each false alarm," said Sgt. William Nelson of the burglar alarm unit. "Last year, that meant 23,000 patrol manhours. Now the (burglar alarm) industry is indicating they're going to triple their business in the next three years. At that rate we would soon be in the 100,000 false alarm

The permit ordinance was approved Nov. 26 by the Miami City Commission and went into effect Jan. 1. It requires alarm holders to pay $25 for a permit to be issued by police and have their device inspected by the city building depart-

Failure to obtain the permit could result in a fine up to $500 and a year in jail.

And, police said, in extreme cases, they could refuse to respond to unlicensed

"In cases where a person asks for assistance, we must respond," Nelson said. But the law says we don't have to answer a ringing bell."

Presented by the State Bar of Texas

Q: I was issued a ticket for driving without a valid driver's license. I had left it at home. My fine was $70. Wasn't this fine a bit stiff? I thought that if you produced the license in Court the charge would be dropped.

A. The fine you received was high, but setting of fines is solely within the discretion of the hadrened was high.

A: The fine you received was high, but setting of fines is solely within the discretion of the judge and he may impose this amount. As to your other question, no, there is no requirement that the ticket be dismissed once the license is produced. This is again in the Judge's discretion, and in some areas it is common practice. It is not, however, the law.

Q: My birth certificate shows no middle name, and my first name is in Spanish. My Baptism certificate from two years later, however, shows first, middle, and last names, all in English. Now that I'm married, I use my English first name and my husband's last name. Please help me: Once and for all, what is

A: You are using the normally accepted names presently by using first, maiden initial, then married. Your legal name, however, is the one on the birth certificate plus your husband's last name. If you want to change your name and clear up the confusion, you may file such a suit in District Court. The changes will be approved as long as you show you are making no attempt to escape any legal obligations.

Q: My husband has been married before. When he and his ex-wife separated, she went out and charged up a storm at several department stores. When my husband refused to pay her bills, it damaged his credit rating. Is there any way he can get his good credit back without paying bills that are not his?

A: As a general rule, a husband and wife are both responsible for any debt incurred on a joint account regardless of who made the charge. Even if the Court allocates this debt to one spouse or another at the time of divorce, each is responsible until the debt is paid. Your husband may be able to improve his credit rating by explaining the situation to the stores and asking to have his credit report corrected.

Q: My husband and I are divorced. We have a 10-year old son who lives with me. My ex wants the boy to go and live with him, but my son wants to stay here with me. At what age may a child refuse to go with his father?

A: To change custody, the father must file a Motion to Modify, showing a material and substantial change in circumstances; that to retain Mother as Managing Conservator would be injurious to the child's welfare; and that Father as Managing Conservator would be a positive improvement.

Concern Arises Over Use Of IDB Financing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Concern is mounting that tax-exempt industrial revenue bonds have been corrupted from a sound way of building communities and creating jobs into an out-and-out tax-dodge.

Misuse of these bonds is estimated to drain off anywhere from $800 million to $2 billion a year of tax revenue from federal, state and local governments.

First issued in 1936 by a Mississippi community, industrial revenue bonds are both corporate and municipal bonds, issued as tax exempt securities by a municipality, county or state authority, but backed by the credit of and paid for by the corporation that uses the facility built with the money.

Such bonds enjoy lower interest rates, typically two-thirds to three-quarters of that on regular corporate bonds, saving the corporation large sums of money in interest, but costing the government more in lost taxes. Critics say it would be more economical to subsidize job creation with outright government grants.

Congress, concerned at the revenue loss, in 1968 denied tax exemption to any Industrial Development Bond of more than $5 million and the figure was raised to $10 million in 1979.

to $10 million in 1978.

The Congressional Budget Office sounded the alarm again last summer at a meeting of the Municipal Finance Officers Association convention, reporting on a study it was conducting.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., are seeking legislation to curb such abuses as the use of revenue development bonds to finance a porno parlor and a bar with topless waitresses among other bizarre ventures turned up in the CBO study.

On the other hand, New York City's Industrial Development Authority has leaned over backwards to avoid the slightest semblance of abuse, insists Deborah Ferolito, the deputy director.

The New York IDA's motivation is somewhat different from that of other communities. It issues revenue bonds not so much to bring industries into the city as to keep existing firms from leaving.

In the last four years, Miss Ferolito said, the IDA has saved 10,000 jobs in companies that otherwise would have fled, and has created 7,000 new jobs by enabling local companies to expand or modernize. She said at least 110 companies have been induced not to leave the city.

The New York IDA thus seems to have just about succeeded in stemming the city's industrial job drain. It has confined revenue bond issues strictly to industries, so no commercial applications are even considered. Only one out of four serious inquiries actually results in a revenue bond issue loan.

Of 40 issues totaling $140 million in 1980, Miss Ferolito said, only five were for completely new ventures.

However, she said, from now on there probably will be more applications from businesses wanting to move into the city and from new ventures because various groups in the city are pushing the matter.

For example, Brooklyn Union Gas. Co has been circularizing the country with literature about the advantages of New York, and particularly Brooklyn, for new ventures — the transportation, domestic and export opportunities, market and financial facilities, as well as the public financing help available.

An article in Dun's Review pointed up another dubious practice in Pennsylvania, Illinois and Virginia communities of floating revenue bonds to finance business ventures in other communities.

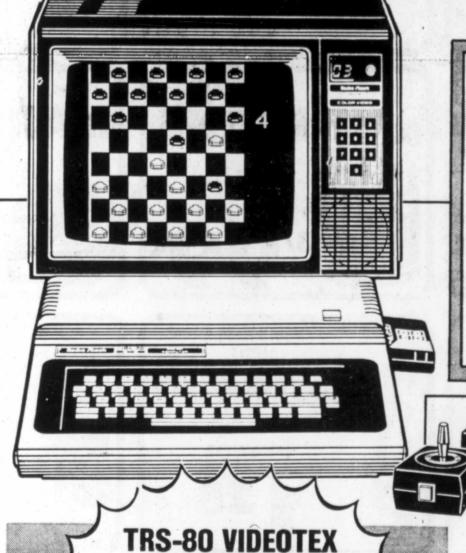

ness ventures in other communities.

The magazine said such loans are extremely profitable to banks. The local banks take the bonds into their portfolios and this allows them to make more loans in proportion to their deposits than they otherwise would be permitted.
