

Threat Of Redistricting Hangs Over Legislators

AUSTIN (UPI) — A new, more conservative Legislature begins its biennial 140-day session this week, and indications are that the lawmakers will be more businesslike in conducting their legislative duties.

The overriding concern when the state's 150 representatives and 31 senators convene at noon Tuesday will be political survival — redrawing of legislative and congressional district lines to reflect the 1980 census figures.

Speaker Bill Clayton said he is impressed with the new Legislature's plans for dealing with school finance. He also said the lawmakers will maintain Texas' "favorable business climate."

"But the issue that will undermine nearly every action taken by the Legislature this session will be redistricting," Clayton said.

Clayton is virtually assured of election to an unprecedented fourth term. Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, could still choose to be nominated in the speaker's race and force an open vote on the election, although Bryant has little chance of winning. If Bryant forces a vote, a camp favoring Clayton and one opposing him could develop on the first day of the session.

Some of the Legislature's best known names will be missing when Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby drop the opening gavels Tuesday. Sens. William T. Moore, D-Bryan, and A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, both were upset in the 1980 elections. Moore by a Democrat and Schwartz by a Republican. Both had been colorful adversaries for more than 20 years. In the Senate, Schwartz was known for parliamentary maneuvering and Moore was famous for impatience with details and long speeches.

The GOP will have 36 representatives and seven senators this session to join the state's only Republican governor in more than a century. But Clayton said he is optimistic the Legislature will avoid party-line collisions.

"I hope we can continue as we have in the past and shuck party politics when we make decisions affecting Texas," Clayton said.

The Senate philosophy should not change, despite the loss of Schwartz and Moore and the fact two more Republicans have been added. One more Republican could be added if Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, switches parties. Indications are he will make the change and run for lieutenant governor as a Republican in 1982.

Terrorists Sabotage U.S. Jets

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — The Machete Wielders, a leftist, pro-independence group, claimed responsibility for setting off pipe bombs that destroyed nine jet fighters and damaged a 10th early today at a base next to San Juan's international airport. Damage was estimated at $45 million.

A man called The Associated Press office in San Juan at 7:35 a.m. — 5:35 CST — roughly seven hours after the quick, well-planned raid on the Air National Guard planes at Muniz Air Base, and said the blasts were set off by the Machete Wielders, who also claimed responsibility 13 months ago for killing two sailors and wounding 10 other servicemen and a woman in the bloodiest attack ever on the military on this U.S. commonwealth island.

No one was hurt in the latest attack, which also damaged a pickup truck. Police also found and defused bombs in two other planes, and searched a Delta flight at the international airport, where a bomb was reported aboard, but found nothing, officials said.

"They have taken us out of combat for the moment," said Lt. Gen. Orlando Llenza, the adjutant general for the Puerto Rican National Guard, after viewing the wreckage at Muniz. "We have to re-evaluate our location here."

The base is near the Atlantic, and officers speculated that the attackers either came in by boat or over an unguarded bridge that is beyond the six-foot fence around the base.

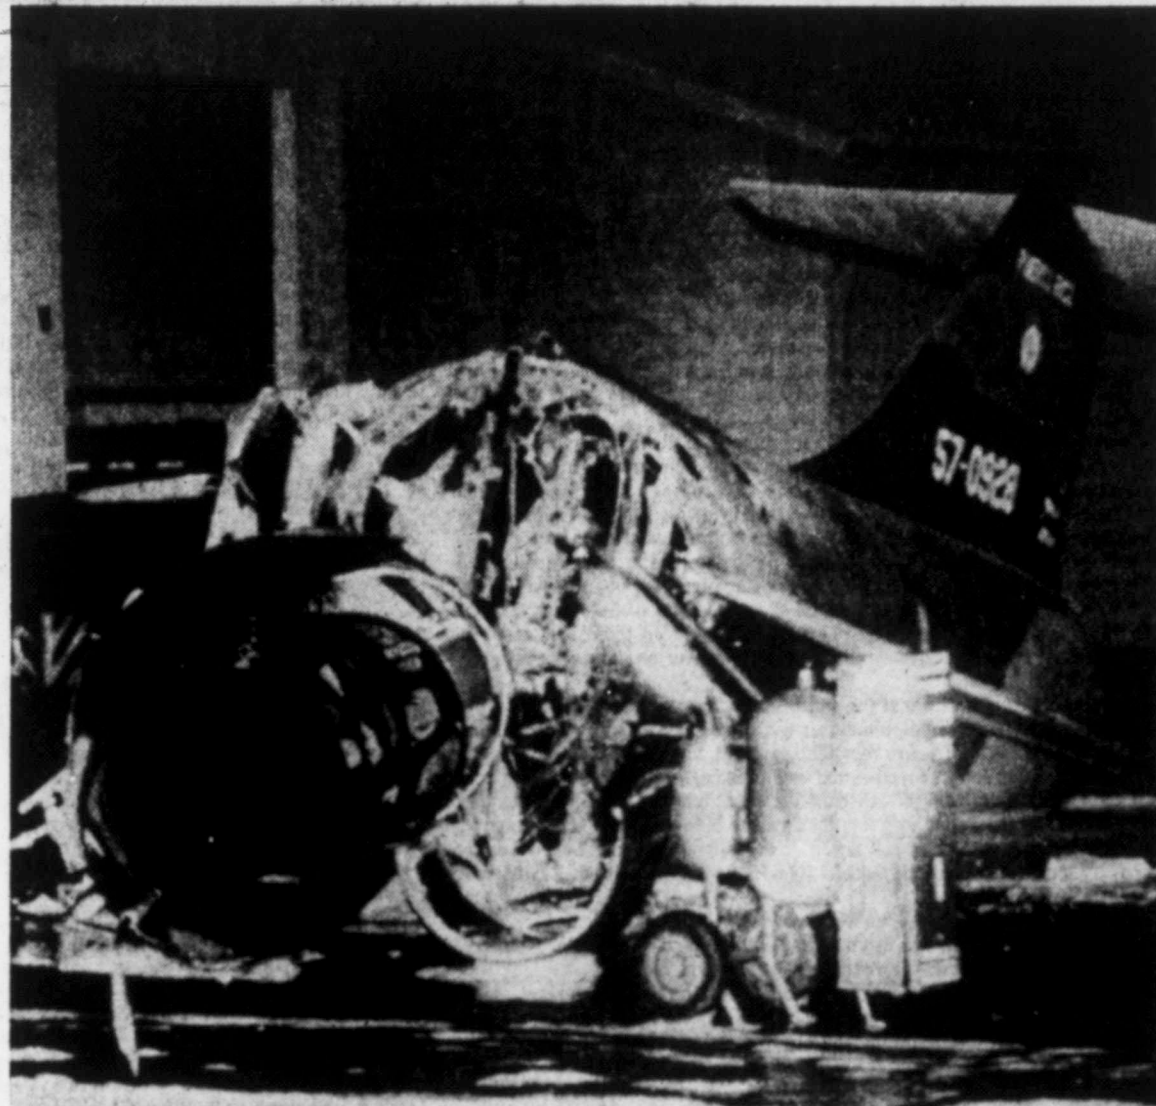

Two Air National Guardsmen and several policemen were on guard at the time. Officers said a 20-man security squad armed with rifles was being put in place around the clock.

"Obviously this was sabotage because they have found at least one bomb," Maj. Agustin Corea, the base services officer for the 156th Tactical Fighter Group, said. "They must have been prepared."

Asked whether the base had received threats, he said: "No, we have not been threatened, although we know we are a target because we are the military in Puerto Rico."

Eight A-7 Corsairs used as training planes and one older F-104 Starfighter kept as a trophy were destroyed. Corea said it appeared most of the bombs were placed or thrown into the air intake scoops underneath the noses of the planes.

The bottom of the air intake scoop of another Corsair was blown out, and the bomb that was found and defused also was in a Corsair intake scoop.

Judges Lose Battle Against Disclosure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to exempt federal judges, including the court's justices themselves, from a financial disclosure law.

The court, in effect, told six federal judges in the South they must publicly disclose how much money they have and what they own.

The justices, without comment, left intact rulings that federal judges are among those high-ranking federal officials who must comply with the Ethics in Government Act of 1978.

The six judges who challenged the law's application to them have not been required to file their financial disclosure statements for 1978 or 1979 until their Supreme Court appeal was acted on.

The Supreme Court's nine justices have made public their disclosure statements for each year.

In a busy day ending a four-week recess, the court, in other actions:

— Left intact a $350,000 libel award won by former San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto for a Look magazine article linking him to the Mafia. The court refused to hear arguments by Cowles Communications, the magazine's former publisher, that Alioto failed to prove the 1969 article was substantially false or was written with "actual malice."

— Agreed to judge the validity of a 47-year-old law allowing only the U.S. Postal Service to put things into mailboxes at private homes. An umbrella organization for civic groups in Westchester County, N.Y., sued the government in 1977 after being told it could not legally place pamphlets in letter boxes at private homes.

— Refused to review a ruling that struck down the murder conviction of a California teen-ager. The California court said the conviction was invalid because he did not first consult an adult adviser.

— Turned down an appeal by the estranged wife of comedian Redd Foxx who was attempting to get the couple's divorce proceedings moved from Las Vegas to Los Angeles.

In the case contesting judicial financial disclosure requirements, the six southern judges charged that the law violated the separation-of-powers doctrine and unnecessarily invaded their privacy.

The judges conceded that the law could require them to make financial disclosure to the federal judiciary's own ethics committee.

But they argued that public disclosure "will subject judges and their families to the threat of unnecessary political and social pressure, and will increase the threat of direct physical attack by disgruntled litigants or convicted criminals."

Key Iranians Hint Release Of Hostages

By The Associated Press
The Speaker of Iran's Parliament said today "all roads" are open to settling the hostage problem and that he expects approval of two emergency bills aimed at solving the crisis by Friday — four days before the inauguration of Ronald Reagan, who has warned he will conduct talks with a "clean slate."

In another action that could indicate progress, the prime minister's office today advised Iranian ministries, firms and individuals with claims against the United States to submit documents to substantiate their claims to a government "claims committee" within 30 days, according to the official Pars news agency.

Parliament Speaker Hojatoleslam Hashemi Rafsani told a news conference in Tehran that "There is nothing important in these bills that would necessitate a no vote. However, it depends on the discussion and the elaborations in the Majlis tomorrow."

Asked whether approval of the bills would lead to the release of the hostages by Friday, he said, "I can't predict when the hostages will be released, but we have opened all roads for settling the hostage problem. They will be released if our rights are met."

Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai also hinted of a hostage release, saying in a state radio broadcast, "According to available information, the issue is making progress. We are trying to approach it logically and doing our best to maintain the main line in our relations with American imperialism."

"At any rate, as long as we consider America as an aggressor in the world, we shall not retreat from our position. Even presuming that the hostages are released in the near future, we shall not abandon our main position, which is fighting imperialism and which emanates from the heart of our ideology."

The two emergency bills were introduced today by Iran's top hostage negotiator, Behzad Nabavi, who said in presenting the legislation, "If we do not reach a result by Jan. 16, it is not clear how the negotiations will continue with the new incoming administration."

President Carter has set Jan. 16 as the deadline by which a hostage agreement must be reached if the terms are to be put into effect before Reagan is inaugurated Jan. 20.

Reagan said Sunday he will start on the hostage problem and that he expects approval of two emergency bills aimed at solving the crisis by Friday — four days before the inauguration of Ronald Reagan, who has warned he will conduct talks with a "clean slate."

The Washington Post, quoting informed sources, reported that American negotiators are trying to draft an international agreement, to be signed by President Carter before Jan. 20 and legally binding on Reagan, setting down terms of a settlement for release of the hostages.

Nabavi said the first emergency bill asks the Parliament, or Majlis, to approve a third-party arbitrator to settle financial and legal claims between Iran and the United States.

The second bill asks the Majlis to nationalize the wealth of the late shah and his relatives, Nabavi said, a move that would make it easier for the United States to return the shah's assets to Iran.

After Nabavi announced the legislation, the Majlis went into closed session. A vote is scheduled on the two bills Tuesday.

Jury Sought In Trial Of Alexander

ABILENE — Capital murder defendant Billy Wayne Alexander traded his jail whites for a leisure suit and tie this morning in preparation for his short walk from the Taylor County Jail to Abilene's 104th District courtroom.

Trial began today for the 21-year-old Lorenzo man charged with capital murder in connection with the October slaying of Department of Public Safety Trooper Jerry Don Davis.

More than 200 prospective jurors were called for possible jury duty and by noon today the list had been narrowed to 86 qualifying panelists. Attorneys were to report back to the courtroom at 1:15 p.m. and then begin individual questioning of the remaining veniremen.

The 12 jurors ultimately selected will be sequestered in an Abilene motel for the duration of the trial, which observers estimate could take as long as three weeks.

Handcuffed and escorted by three Taylor County sheriff's deputies, Alexander arrived at the Taylor County Courthouse about 8:30 a.m. He has shaved the beard he was sporting at the time of his arrest, and his hair has been cropped to ear-length, but Alexander's mustache and long sideburns remain.

Defense attorney Floyd Holder's motion for a change of venue was granted after presiding Judge Robert C. Wright ruled that the suspect had received too much pretrial publicity in Lubbock to receive a fair trial. Wright moved the case to Abilene on the presumption that those counties immediately surrounding Lubbock also had been exposed to too much information relating to Alexander's case.

The publicity began with the discovery of Trooper Davis' body Oct. 5. He had been shot once through the right cheek as he sat in his patrol car, and Alexander's driver's license was still clutched in the dead man's hand.

Lawmen traced Alexander's flight through three states, and the suspect was arrested in Liberal, Kan.

Wright rejected a defense motion the trial be delayed in order to allow Alexander the opportunity to marry Elaine Hill, the suspect's longtime girlfriend.

Alexander took the stand this morning, admitting during questioning by Lubbock District Attorney John Montford that he wants to marry the 22-year-old Mrs. Hill in an attempt to keep her from testifying.

"That's because she gave some pretty incriminating testimony about you at your bond hearing, isn't it," Montford asked.

"Yes, sir," the defendant said politely.

"Then that's hardly a marriage case. See JURY PANEL Page 18

County To Seek Appeals Court

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A proposal to seek legislation that would establish a state court of appeals in Lubbock County today received unanimous support from the Lubbock County Commissioners Court.

And if the Texas Legislature agrees to designate an appellate court here, commissioners said they would be willing to furnish necessary facilities to house the court.

The legislative committee of the Lubbock County Bar Association has been working on a proposal for legislation that would create the court of appeals.

However, bar association spokesman Ralph Brock said the commissioners court's support was necessary or the proposal would go nowhere.

The closest appellate court to the Lubbock area is located in Amarillo, Brock said. He noted that more than 50 percent of the appeals cases heard by the Amarillo court come from the Lubbock area.

That situation places a heavy travel burden on local and area attorneys, he said, adding that some of those cases involved court-appointed lawyers paid for by the county.

Last November, Texas voters passed a constitutional amendment that not only changed the name of the former Court of Civil Appeals but also broadened the court's jurisdiction to cover criminal matters.

That change is expected to greatly increase the workload for existing appellate courts and probably will necessitate adding more judges, Brock said. He said the bar association feels this is Lubbock's "best opportunity" to have one of the appellate courts established here.

"But we don't know how the Legislature will react to our proposal," he added.

Brock said that there apparently is no opposition to the proposal from Amarillo attorneys and legislators. "We hope to solicit their support," he said.

In addition to furnishing a courtroom, Brock said, the county also might be asked to pay the salaries for law clerks to serve the appellate court. "But they work pretty cheap," he said.

County Judge Rod Shaw said the old federal courtroom located in the county's

Jurist Raps Bilingual Programs

TYLER (UPI) — Federal District Judge William Wayne Justice today ruled current bilingual education programs in Texas public schools are seriously flawed and ordered the state to expand the programs, a move that could affect thousands of Mexican-American children across the state.

Justice's ruling declared the three years of basic courses Texas public schools currently offer in Spanish are inadequate for many youngsters and he ordered parties in the 10-year-old suit to present plans to remedy the problem.

The judge's 67-page opinion follows a hearing on bilingual education held in Tyler in December 1979.

Justice's ruling stems from a U.S. Justice Department suit filed against Texas in 1970. In the original suit, the federal government accused the state and the Texas Education Agency of maintaining nine all-black school districts and failing to provide equal educational opportunity to minority students.

In November 1970, the state was found to be in violation of federal law, and was ordered to desegregate the nine school districts and submit a comprehensive plan to fix various inequities.

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans affirmed the 1970 desegregation order and issued a similar desegregation order, with some modifications, on July 13, 1971.

A year later, the American GI Forum and League of United Latin American citizens asked to intervene, contending the Texas Education Agency had failed to comply with court orders, and alleging the U.S. Attorney General had failed to adequately monitor the original desegregation order.

The Mexican-American groups were permitted to intervene, specifically with regard to a portion of the order citing the state with failure to meet special educational needs of non-English speaking children.

Justice's order today reiterated that original finding.

"Prejudice and deprivation remains a significant obstacle to equal educational opportunity" for Spanish-speaking children in the state, Justice wrote. "Both the language and the cultural heritage of these children were uniformly treated with intolerance and disrespect."

"In today's order, Justice declared the state has a duty to take necessary steps to overcome the special problems of Spanish-speaking students.

Toward that end, Justice ordered lawyers for both sides to meet before Jan. 29 to try and develop a plan to answer the problem. If the two sides agree, their

Hometown Honors Henry Fonda

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Henry Fonda's hometown folks decided to celebrate his career as an actor, but in the process they reminded him that he didn't always plan to make it a career at all.

Fonda, accompanied by his actor son, Peter, and another Omaha native, actress Dorothy McGuire, was the guest of honor of the Omaha Community Playhouse, where the 75-year-old actor began his career in the 1920s.

An estimated 500 people gathered Saturday at $50 a head for the tribute and fund-raiser.

The actor laughed as he was reminded by playhouse fund drive chairman R. Jerry Hargitt of some remarks he made in an interview in the Central High School Register of Oct. 8, 1926.

The article quoted Fonda as saying: "I don't intend to make acting my profession; it is just my hobby. It was thrilling at first, but the glamour has worn off."

Eyepatch Draws Top Bid

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A lavender evening glove cast off by Miss Piggy and a 24-karat gold-plated putter donated by former President Gerald Ford were among the top sellers at a charity auction benefiting the City of Hope Medical Center.

But it was the eyepatch worn by the late John Wayne in the movie "True Grit" that brought Sunday's top price — $14,000 paid by two Texas businessmen, said City of Hope spokesman Joe Broady.

Autographed Muhammad Ali boxing gloves, donated by actor Sylvester Stallone, were snapped up for $2,500, while a pair of boxer Larry Holmes' gloves sold for $750, said Broady.

Politician's Scheme Not Successful

CINCINNATI (AP) — Kelly Farrish figured he had a way to keep his name well-known despite losing an election for a seat in the Ohio Senate: He offered to pay 20 cents for each of his campaign posters returned to him.

But of 1,500 posters, he got back only 60 during the weekend.

"I'm a little disappointed," said Farrish, who lost to incumbent Republican Stanley J. Aronoff in November.

"I expected it would turn out better than this. I thought some high school kids would take them down," Farrish said.

He concedes that the project was a ploy to keep his name known. He wants to run for office again.

But "I feel like I owe it to the people to get them down," he said, adding: "The fact that it doesn't cost me much money now means that I have to go out and get them myself. It will take me far more than 20 cents a sign to pick them off poles and walls.

"And it's not as much fun as putting them up either — not as rewarding," he said.

Controversy Arises Over LTC Play Production

By WILLIAM D. KERNS
A-J Entertainment Editor

Lubbock Theatre Centre, already in the midst of a possibly fatal financial crisis, has also found itself embroiled in controversy concerning its production of "Throckmorton, Texas 76083" last August.

G.W. Bailey, a professional actor-director and former Lubbockite who came back to West Texas to direct the play, said Sunday that Theatre Centre board members had intimated that he and playwright Barry Corbin "had ripped off the city." He referred specifically to board member Jackie Goughly's reacting to the play's financial loss with, "We got took."

"If they didn't owe us the money," Bailey countered during a telephone conversation from his home in Van Nuys, Calif., "then why did they pay us? ... Maybe no one thought this would get back to me, but no way will I put up with slander in Lubbock. I started my career in Lubbock. I have friends in Lubbock. I was married in Lubbock. My children were born in Lubbock. I will not put up with anyone ruining my name in that city."

Delisa Rampy, one of the most active LTC board members, said over the weekend that Bailey and Corbin were paid "because we felt there had been a lack of communication between (then LTC executive director) Brad Williams and the board. We felt the fault in this lack of communication was more our fault than G.W.'s, and so we decided to write a check and pay them."

However, Miss Rampy insisted that at no time did the LTC board approve paying Bailey and Corbin more than the price of one round-trip airline ticket apiece from California to Lubbock.

The controversy stemmed from Williams saying he made financial commitments to Bailey and Corbin with the permission of (then LTC board president) Richard Talley — and Talley in turn saying that Williams had never approached him about financial arrangements until after the performances were over.

"According to Bailey, 'We had a verbal contract with Brad Williams. I mean, he called us and asked us to do the play. We didn't call them. I knew the Theatre Centre was having financial problems; it always has. But I told Brad that Barry and I both have families to support, and that we must at least have our expenses covered.'

"I worked for their standard director's fee, which I think was $500. That's three weeks work for $500, and I make twice that in one day working in television. We agreed to $10 a day for expenses, which is nothing. Barry had to be paid royalties of somewhere around $40 per performance. Barry was to get a round trip air ticket, and I was supposed to be paid enough to cover two round trip air tickets because I had to leave for four or five days to do a film in San Francisco.

"Also, we were to have cars provided in this. This was all agreed to by Brad Williams before we came out."

Williams concurred, saying, "That's what I offered them, and the president of the board (Talley) knew all about this. The only thing I did without the board president's permission was I told G.W. to rent a car. For the first week he was here, I was having to carry G.W. around wherever he wanted to go because he didn't have a car. He's a grown man, and deserved to be treated better."

"Talley knew about all this. I don't know if he told the rest of the board. But he knew. I asked him and he said, 'Yes, do it.' Now if the board wants to stick the blame on me, well that's fine. If they're looking for a scapegoat, I guess it's me. But it shouldn't be G.W. or Barry, because they were hired in advance. They didn't ask for anything more than they were promised."

Richard Talley, whom one board member thought had already moved to Midland, was located in Lubbock Saturday. He stated that Williams had never told him about any of the additional fees (beyond air fare) until after Bailey and Corbin had arrived in Lubbock. "Brad was told to proceed as far as paying for their plane tickets, but nothing else was approved."

Asked to comment further on Williams' conflicting statements and whether the financial failure of "Throckmorton, Texas 76083" influenced Williams' losing his position at LTC, Talley said, "I really don't want to talk any more about this. This is an internal problem, and shouldn't be discussed in the paper."

LTC board executive vice president Mike Hewitt said he was not present at the board meeting where the show was first discussed. "I really don't know what happened. I was at the board meeting afterwards, and Brad was there saying that he'd told Talley and Talley had approved expenses, and Talley was there saying that wasn't true. It's all a matter of who you want to believe. I don't know."

Miss Rampy, however, said, "It's still in the minutes of the first meeting that Brad should seek a contract on the basis of paying them only their airfare for one trip. We were not going to pay royalties, or a director's fee. There was a time problem in that the play had to be produced within four weeks, and evidently Richard Talley neglected to stay on top of it. He left it all up to Brad, and nobody checked up on it."

"But it's important that you know it says in our bylaws that nothing can be decided by the president alone. It must be approved by a vote of the board. And Richard had been a stickler for policy and procedures, so I don't believe he would give an OK without consulting the board. Also, Brad himself worked on those bylaws. So he should have been aware that Talley didn't have the power to simply approve payments on his own."

Meanwhile, Bailey also said that the entire situation had not been reported truthfully by board members. One board member had discussed a "major confrontation" taking place at the Lindsey Theater regarding payment, but Bailey elaborated, "That confrontation was over Barry's royalties and an additional $100 for me. That's all."

"We had already been paid the other money. I was told I would get the standard $500 director's fee, and Talley was just handing me a check for $400. He knew he owed us this money and he was just trying to weasel out of paying. So there was a cheap tawdry scene like something out of a John Huston movie, with me saying, 'OK, Talley. Give me my money.'

"If the man had any class at all, he would have written out a personal check. Barry and I are professionals, and it was just a matter of this man trying to duck out on paying us what was promised. It was more the principal than the money."

It was also reported that cars were rented for Bailey and Corbin; however, Bailey indicated that the car Corbin drove in Lubbock was donated by a car dealership and that "the car I rented was around the end of my stay. I didn't rent it for more than three to five days."

Regarding the airfare, Bailey said, "We even lost money on that. They said they'd fly us out there and proceeded to find the cheapest flights available, which left California around 4 a.m. So Barry and I told them we'd book our own reservations and they could reimburse us."

"We flew at higher rates simply because we didn't care to leave in the middle of the night. But when we got to Lubbock, we said it was OK to reimburse us at the lower rate. Also, Barry brought his wife with him and didn't ask for them to pay for her. And I brought my daughter with me, and didn't expect them to pay for that. Barry stayed with family and I stayed with friends."

Board members told The A-J that further bills for hardware and lumber came in after the show had ended, but Bailey said he didn't have the authority to charge things like that. "I may have charged about $8 to $10 worth of material at TG&Y, but that's it. I didn't want to look for that stuff. I wasn't the technical director."

Asked if he had charged long distance calls on Lubbock Theatre Centre's telephone, he said, "I honestly can't remember that far back. If there were calls to California, it could have been LTC business. It could have been them calling me and Barry or Barry's agent, or me calling Barry. But if they think I owe them money for using that phone, then why did they never pick up that phone and call me and tell me that?"

Meanwhile, Brad Williams insists he made no decisions on his own in regards to hiring Bailey and Corbin. "If I had it all to do over again, I wouldn't do anything differently," Delisa Rampy says this one specific show's problems are being overpublicized, in that the major problem today is still the possibility of LTC having to close. And Talley stands by his statement that he was unaware of any verbal contracts being made.

But Bailey, once extremely active in Lubbock theater, says that the Theatre Centre

Sibling Rivalry Increases With Braniff Action

DALLAS (UPI) — Brothers John J. and Albert V. Casey are an example of a sibling rivalry gone to extremes. When Albert was named to head American Airlines, John had to get one too.

Last week Braniff International named John as its chairman and chief executive officer, and suddenly the competition between the two airlines had something personal about it.

The brothers say they are close, but whenever they are together they don't talk about their respective jobs.

"We shouldn't and we don't," John said. "Socially we're very close, but we do not talk shop. We're both conscious of our competitive positions and that it just wouldn't be good business."

In fact, after the announcement that John had been elected to lead Braniff, Albert sent him a telegram wishing him success — as long as it didn't cost American any money.

John, 62, has the job of leading Braniff out of a severe financial crisis — a $77 million loss in the first three quarters of 1980 and a $615 million debt.

Seven years ago, Albert, 60, was chosen to lead American back from financial disaster.

By all accounts, Albert succeeded at American, a feat John says only increases the pressure on himself to do the same for Braniff.

"He certainly did a fantastic job there," John said. "I hope to be able to do the same."

Cuban Refugee Aimlessly Wanders City Streets

By ED LEAL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

On any given day, Jose can be spotted crossing a downtown street, sporting his usual attire: a once white, sleeveless sweatshirt over a tattered tweed overcoat.

A grease-smearing houndstooth vest with the words "I Love It" scrawled in ink across the back, multicolored plaid seersucker pants two inches too short, and a crooked tree branch he uses as a cane complete the outfit.

The strand of garlic buttons he used to wear around his neck to ward off evil spirits has since been discarded. He says it was a bit too far fetched for his taste.

The Cuban refugee has been in Lubbock since August and has been out of work for all but a month of that time.

Recently, local border patrol officials found Jose wandering the streets without identification. He said he wanted to return to Cuba. He eventually spent more than a week in the city jail, waiting for someone to figure out what to do with him.

Jose had long since lost track of the person who originally sponsored him out of the resettlement camp. Because he is a Cuban and cannot be returned to his home country, the immigration service could not initiate deportation proceedings.

And, because of the fashion in which he entered the country, Jose, like all the other recent Cuban and Haitian arrivals, is not considered a refugee or political exile and therefore not eligible for federal programs set up for such persons.

"In essence, all we do is tell them not to do it again if they get in trouble," says a local border patrol official. "But what will we do the next time it happens? Our people can't set up a procedure, because the state department set it up to begin with. Now they are the ones that have to make the decisions."

Local officials say that problems which arise with the Cubans locally are handled on a case by case basis.

"Every time I have a problem with one of these guys I call (the regional INS office in Dallas)," says one official.

"The U.S. government is kind of feeling its way along with this situation," explains Bill Chambers, director of the district INS office in Dallas.

"I think this is a very unique type situation," Chambers said. "There were 125,000 people dumped into the U.S. that were not your normal refugees. Outwardly it appeared that these were not people that were fleeing their country, but were kicked out."

In addition, he says that many of those who could be classified as criminals, mentally handicapped and sexual deviates would not have been allowed into the country under normal circumstances.

He says that in cases where a Cuban commits a crime for which he normally would be deported, he is imprisoned and deportation proceedings are initiated. But in cases such as Jose's, there is little that can be done.

And officials fear the situation will not improve any time soon.

Originally, the entrants were classified as "status pending" with the understanding that Congress would pass legislation giving the Cubans and Haitians some sort of status and outlining what would be done with those who did not successfully blend into American society.

The legislation was introduced in the last Congress, but no action was taken.

But the arrival-departure records issued the entrants expire Jan. 15.

INS officials have decided to extend the arrival-departure records until July 15, with the hopes that Congress by then will have passed legislation to give the Cubans some sort of status.

President Carter's Select Committee on Immigration and Refugee Policies is scheduled to present recommendations on the Cubans' status to Congress and the President March 1.

In the meantime, Immigration and Naturalization Service officials say there is little or nothing the government can do.

In Jose's case, a Catholic relief agency agreed to take responsibility for him.

But many like Jose remain on the street, searching aimlessly for some sort of help from the government that, as one Cuban put it, opened its arms but never embraced.

Immigration Service officials say that for a number of reasons, the Cuban/Haitian entrants are the subject of confusion among governmental agencies.

One factor, officials say, is the legal limbo in which the Cubans and Haitians find themselves.

"This is the first time in the history of the country that we have had people come directly to the United States and ask for asylum," said Janet Graham, public information officer for the INS in Washington.

She said that unlike the Cubans who entered the country early in the 1960s or the recent Indochinese entrants, the Cubans and Haitians were not screened and processed before being brought to the United States.

Consequently, they are ineligible for classification as refugees or political exiles. "At this point, they are considered Cuban/Haitian entrants, status pending," explains Mrs. Graham.

She said that Congress will have to write new legislation in order to classify them.

Lubbock Man Reports Robbery By Three Women

A Lubbock man said he was robbed by three women who reportedly beat and choked him after they left a club in the 1800-block of 19th Street shortly before midnight Sunday.

The suspects, who were apprehended early today, are suspected of taking $37 from Bill Leasure's wallet and pants pocket before forcing him out of their Cadillac in the 300-block of 17th Street. Leasure, 28, of 2714-B 44th St. suffered multiple facial wounds, but was not thought to have been seriously injured in the incident.

The victim told police that after he left the club with the women one of the suspects asked him for money and when he refused she began hitting him in the face. Another female in the back seat reportedly grabbed him by the neck and began choking him.

After rummaging through the man's pockets one of the suspects displayed a knife, reports state. However, Leasure was released without being seriously hurt after he told his assailants, "You got my money, now let me out of the car."

About 12:45 a.m., police spotted the suspects' car parked behind a pool hall in the 700-block of 13th Street and found fresh blood stains on the vehicle. After waiting for someone to unlock the parlor door, police officers entered and saw the women running out a back exit, according to reports.

The suspects, two 21-year-olds and a 23-year-old, were chased down near their car and all were booked into the county jail on suspicion of evading arrest and aggravated robbery.

In a separate incident, two men were arrested shortly before 5 a.m. today after they allegedly burglarized Kwik-O Foods at 1528 E. Broadway and made off with almost $200 in cigarettes.

An officer answering an alarm down at the business said he chased the suspects, ages 25 and 31, but lost them in the pursuit. However, both men were apprehended about 15 minutes later in the 1500-block of East Main Street and reports indicate the stolen property was recovered.

The men, who were jailed on suspicion of burglary and evading arrest, reportedly used heavy tools to break into the business.

Police officer J.S. Barker butted heads with a burglary suspect about 7:40 p.m. Sunday while questioning him about a break-in at the ACME Pawn Shop, 715 Broadway.

Barker, in his report, said he answered an alarm down at the business, found a front window broken and asked several men working nearby whether they had seen any suspicious persons in the area. One of the men said they had seen a person walking south from the store minutes earlier.

The officer said he found a man matching the description of a suspect in a pool parlor behind the business. Police said the man became "very excited" and began yelling after the workman identified him as the one he had seen.

Reports state the suspect got away from Barker's grasp and began running, but was halted after running into a parked car. The man, during a scuffle with the officer, allegedly hit Barker in the face with his head, then elbowed him in the stomach.

Barker said he regained custody of the 21-year-old Lubbock man after hitting him in the mouth and wrestling him to the ground. The break-in resulted in an estimated $145 in damage and stolen costume jewelry.

A man injured in a traffic accident about 5:50 p.m. Sunday became a suspect for possession of a controlled substance after he reportedly asked an EMS attendant in the ambulance, "Would you please hold on to my stash of marijuana so that the police won't find it?"

Police said they found a bag of "green, leafy substance" in the man's pants pocket at Methodist Hospital but did not immediately take him into custody because he was being treated in the emergency room.

A 22-year-old Levelland man told police he was robbed Saturday night by a man who lured him outside the South Plains Mall on the pretense of selling a set of tires.

Francis Pedro told officers he was in a store at the mall about 8 p.m. shopping for tires for his car. A man in the store, not an employee, told Pedro he had a good set of tires for sale, police said.

The man told Pedro the tires were on his truck in the mall parking lot, and Pedro went outside with the man, reports show. Once outside, the men were met by another man, who walked with them to the suspect's 1975 Chevrolet Blazer.

The man then said he had just moved to Lubbock and that the tires were at his 31st Street residence. When Pedro replied that he didn't want to go to the house the man demanded Pedro's money and threatened physical violence, police said.

Pedro said he handed over his wallet and the man removed $375 and returned it. The two men then got in the white-over-red four-wheel-drive vehicle and left the area, reports show.

The driver was described as white, about 25 years old, 5 feet 4, 140 pounds, with blond curly hair, wearing a green wool cap, a green coat, red and white shirt and blue jeans.

The other man also was white, about 25, wearing blue jeans and a denim jacket, Pedro told police.

The vehicle the men occupied bore Colorado license plates and was filled with camping equipment, police said.

In other activity, 20-year-old Diana Alcorte of 1505 E. Seventh St. told police a man shot at her car Saturday night at the intersection of Seventh Street and Oak Avenue.

Mrs. Alcorte said she was driving west in the 1500 block of East Seventh Street when the driver of a 1972 Pontiac Gran Prix shot at her from his car.

The man reportedly fired three shots as his vehicle was stopped at the intersection.

SPAG Board Members Will Get Briefing On State Legislature

By DEBBI STALTER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

South Plains Association of Governments board members will get a run-down Tuesday on what to expect from the Texas Legislature this session concerning regional councils of government.

The Legislative Budget Board has recommended a line item increase from $1.7 million to $2.3 million per year for fiscal 1982 and 1983. The increase will up assistance to metropolitan and rural regional planning commissions across the state, totaling 24 organizations.

For fiscal 1981, SPAG received about $56,000 in planning money. Executive Director Jerry Castevens said an announcement of exactly how much the local council will receive has not yet been made, but will depend partly on population shifts in the state.

The regional councils use planning money to make studies and plans to guide a unified development of their areas, eliminate duplication of spending by reviewing projects for funding and generally coordinate area development.

The South Plains council includes 15 counties. The board of directors meets monthly to conduct project reviews and discuss local, state and federal matters affecting their individual governments.

The concept of regional planning groups was initiated by enabling legislation in 1965. The South Plains association first met in September 1969, after its formation from the former Lubbock Metropolitan Council.

The participation of cities of more than 100,000 population in councils of government is being challenged in a House bill prefilled by Rep. Reby Cary of Fort Worth.

Cary, contacted at his home this morning, said he feels that larger cities dilute their minority representative vote by participating in the councils.

For instance, he pointed out, the Fort Worth City Council has two black members, however no blacks serve on the board of directors of the North Central Texas Council of Governments.

"We went to court to get single-member districts," Cary said, "and then they dilute the vote by adding another level of government (through regional councils)."

Cary said he specifically opposes larger cities participating in councils of government because much of their planning already is done by their local governments and should not require additional financial support from the councils.

Smaller cities, however, cannot afford to perform these planning tasks on their own, he said. Therefore, he is not opposing the participation of cities less than 100,000 population.

Cary's bill proposes to immediately eliminate cities of more than 200,000 population from participating, followed by the prohibition of cities of more than 100,000 in September 1981.

The SPAG board will review the bill in its executive committee meeting at 9 a.m., followed by a full board meeting at 10 a.m. at the association's conference room.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Kenneth May

Watt's On The Rind

FIGHTING confirmation of James G. Watt as Secretary of the Interior, environmentalists say they want to preserve western wilderness areas and see not one Watt of power developed on public lands.

President-elect Reagan told newsmen he didn't know "who these advisers are" who've been quoted as saying a tax cut might be postponed.

He should meet his nominee for director of the Office of Management and Budget, David A. Stockman, who said at his confirmation hearing, "whether you make the first (tax cut) installment effective Jan. 1 or June 1 or any other date, I don't think is very important."

One day after Stockman said a wage and price freeze would be a "catastrophe," Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of the congressional Joint Economic Committee, said wages and prices should be frozen for six months.

Well, the lines for and against catastrophe are clearly drawn!

TAXES EAT UP 45 cents out of every $1 you make, former Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr says, and that's going to climb to 63 cents within seven years unless the trend is stopped.

Carr was here last week with Howard Jarvis, the man who launched the successful Proposition 13 tax-cutting referendum in California.

Carr's Texas 13 organization brought the 78-year-old Jarvis to Texas for a statewide tour just in advance of the convening of the Texas Legislature.

Holmes Alexander:

Times Damns With Faint Praise

WASHINGTON—"O calm, dishonorable, vile submission!" Mercutio cried out. "Alla stoccata carries it all away."

Dare our actor-President suit action to this Shakespearean line? Redeem the country's honor in dead-or-alive vengeance for the Tehran kidnap? If so he would have the satisfaction of dumbfounding the Thunderer of U.S. media. The N.Y. Times got there first with pre-Presidential biography, and put it in the hands of reviewers just before Christmas.

At the guts of this hurry-up job, "Reagan, the Man, the President" (Macmillan), is the five-author slur that the 40th President is a fork-tongued campaigner, a two-faced bombaster and a slurred-down Falstaff.

The book is guaranteed not to give the country euphoria or the new President a swelled head and yet it can't be called a hatchet-job, worse luck.

IF IT WERE merely an anti-Reagan Dunciad, Americans could discount the fault-finding, and hope for Reagan to prove himself by deeds. In all honesty, this prejudgment of an untried President is factual and therefore scary.

The Times authors are star reporters and commentators who are incapable of calling anything but as they see it—Hedrick Smith, Adam Clymer, Leonard Silk, Robert Lindsey and Richard Burt. On the basis of what Reagan has said, he would have to whirl history 'round about. Some of us believe in faith that he can do it; but the Times reporters-commentators believe "the facts" are against any prognosis of a Reagan success.

By inference of his proposed Cuban blockade, his advocacy of naval escort of U.S. fishermen off Ecuador, his tough talk against the give-up of Taiwan and the Panama Canal, there is more than enough for expectation that our fighting forces will be called upon to fight, ready or no, as is invariably the case in a democratic society.

ON THE REAGAN drawing board for economic recovery are Kemp-Roth, the Laffer Curve, the supply-side emphasis and waste reduction in federal programs.

Whatever else, they challenge the Keynes-Roosevelt-Johnson economics that stand about us as their own monuments to failure.

Leadership is the indispensable quality in an American President. Lack of it doomed Jimmy Carter, Gerald Ford, Richard Nixon, Lyndon Johnson.

Display of it was the making of Harry Truman, Franklin Roosevelt, Theodore Roosevelt, Andrew Jackson.

Comment by the N.Y. Times authors of this book compare Reagan repeatedly with FDR's "jaunty, smiling self-confidence," with Leonid Brezhnev "who climbed to power in the provinces...and presided over the most determined, costly and successful buildup of armed strength," ple seem to have made up their minds on the basis of a paper record.

Now the case against Carlucci.

First there is the problem of his lack of defense experience. Weinberger himself has conceded that he, as defense secretary, will not know a lot about defense and needs to "learn a great deal more rapidly."

Carlucci may indeed be an effective and loyal policy administrator, but the No. 2 Defense slot is a policymaking post. And in this area, Carlucci's experience is nil.

NEXT, THERE IS the problem of Carlucci's views. They simply do not jibe with Ronald Reagan's—regardless of what Weinberger no doubt sincerely believes.

In an interview, Carlucci told me that he believed the CIA is "stronger today than three or four years ago" and that the present CIA director, Adm. Stansfield Turner, has made the CIA "stronger, but that's not to say I agreed with Turner on everything."

When I asked Carlucci to name a couple of things on which he differed with Turner, he declined, noting:

"One ought not to be measured by how vigorously he attacks his superiors." Carlucci also refused to criticize any of President Carter's policies.

NEXT: More problems with Carlucci's views.

Texas 13 wants state taxes and spending cut back and is petitioning for the citizens' right to get it done through initiative and referendum if the Legislature balks.

Claiming 50,000 members, Texas 13 doesn't face near the challenge he faced, Jarvis says, when he started the California movement with only 20 people.

HIDDEN TAXES—151 in a loaf of bread—lull people into blaming inflation rather than government for their economic problems, Carr points out.

Yet, after local, state and federal governments have taken their whacks, the average person has only 55 cents of each dollar earned left to spend.

The windfall tax on oil, Jarvis adds, is the single biggest tax increase in the history of man—and yet the public blames high gasoline prices on the oil companies or the Arabs instead of on Congress and the President.

SEN. RUSSELL LONG, D-La., has told him that the federal government is out of control, Jarvis also relates. He believes it never will be reined in unless tax rates are slashed.

The State of Texas, unlike the federal government, has lived within its means. Indeed, rather than an onerous deficit, the state enjoys a surplus.

Carr's group thinks the Legislature should cut taxes rather than find ways to spend that surplus, such as by building in higher operating expenses that will plague the state when oil tax revenues begin to decline.

Considering all the pressure groups that are camping out in Austin and Washington seeking more spending, it's good to have a citizens' organization pressuring for less spending and lower taxes.

We need to keep a balance. Beats going into the red.

INSTEAD OF paying ransom for our hostages, the United States should bill Iran for all the expenses we've incurred as a result of their kidnapping.

And these costs should be deducted before any funds are released to the Ayatollah and his international bandits.

We should deduct the salaries earned by the hostages during their captivity. We've had all 52 of them on the payroll for nearly 15 months without getting the benefit of their services—and their captors owe us for that.

Other expenses also should be billed against Iranian assets in this country, including the cost of training and sending that ill-fated rescue mission in after the hostages.

All of the costs of shuttling negotiators back and forth from the U.S. to the Middle East should be reimbursed by Iran.

The only exception we'd make to that would be that we wouldn't charge 'em for Ramsey Clark's trip immediately after our embassy in Tehran was seized.

Insane as the Iranian leaders are, they wouldn't have been crazy enough to send Clark on such a mission.

Davis-Bacon Fat In Fire

LABOR SECRETARY-designate Ray Donovan really has his work cut out for him. The New Jersey builder will attempt something that conservatives have been urging for years—repeat of two federal laws that require the government and its contractors to pay sky-high wages.

Business groups and conservative economists long have argued that no two federal laws are more inflationary than the Davis-Bacon and the Service Contract Acts.

Under these laws, the Labor Department must determine the highest prevailing wage in a given geographic area. The federal government and its contractors must then pay wages at (or above) that level even if people in that area will work for less.

AFTER EXTENSIVELY examining both laws, the General Accounting Office flatly declared them "inflationary" because they resulted in federal and federally assisted construction costing more than other contracts.

The Office of Federal Procurement Policy and the Office of Management and Budget wanted the laws modified; the Labor Department didn't.

An inter-agency task force formed two years ago to review both laws and to recommend any changes it found necessary appears, to have faded into the sunset without ever issuing a final report.

However, what is being called a final "working draft" of an initial report did emerge this week.

That document suggests a number of changes—including the elimination of the 30 percent rule, which permits the Labor Department to decide that a certain wage rate prevails even if only 30 percent of an area's workers earn that much or more.

The outgoing administration has been anything but supportive of watering down Davis-Bacon.

IN FACT, the Labor Department last January announced a series of proposals to "strengthen" both the Davis-Bacon and the Service Contract Acts.

Those proposals seemed in direct opposition to the task force's draft report. Reagan transition staffers said they will use its recommendations in modifying Davis-Bacon as a first step toward its repeal.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce, a leading spokesman for business on this issue, says it could live with Davis-Bacon if the task-force modifications are implemented.

Organized labor, meanwhile, has called the report "a major threat" and has vowed to fight to the end to prevent the law from being changed.

With Republicans controlling the Senate, the main fight on this issue will occur in the House—a battle that the incoming labor secretary says he's determined to win. Here's a toast—clink!—to his success.

WOODSMAN, DON'T SPARE THAT TREE

John D. Lofton:

Sluggers Take On The Sluggies

WASHINGTON—A fierce behind-the-scenes slugfest is going on here at this writing over the question: Who will be the new deputy secretary of defense? The outcome of this melee will tell a lot about who is really going to have the clout in a Reagan administration.

On one side of this donnybrook are the sluggies: Defense Secretary-designate Caspar Weinberger and Frank Carlucci III, a longtime personal friend Weinberger is said to want as his No. 2 man at Defense.

Since 1977, Carlucci has served Jimmy Carter as deputy director of the CIA.

ON THE OTHER side of this battle royal—as I have had it explained to me by sources I consider to be reliable—are the sluggers: several hardcore Reaganite members of the State Department and Defense Department transition teams: a large number of GOP senators (as many as 20), and virtually all the members of the so-called "Kitchen Cabinet," Reagan's inner circle of close friends who advise him on appointments.

All of the sluggies are said to firmly oppose Carlucci. The senators have so informed Reagan, and the "Kitchen Cabinet" has reportedly crossed Carlucci off the list of possible appointees to the second-highest Defense post.

So what's the story on Carlucci?

First, the case for him:

In an interview, Weinberger says that based on having worked with him day to day for five years (at HEW and OMB), he finds Carlucci to be an "extraordinarily effective" conservative Republican who is "loyal, patriotic" and who "carries out policies that are set."

WEINBERGER SAYS THAT Carlucci took "a leading role" in trying to strengthen the CIA, and that he testified repeatedly for a bill making the disclosure of a CIA agent's name a felony.

"This business that Carlucci helped on the SALT treaty is just 100 percent wrong," says Weinberger.

"But is Carlucci really a Reaganite?" I ask. Weinberger replies:

"Let me put it this way: He is a man who will carry out loyally the policy that is set and join in it. I have every confidence that he will be loyal and effective wherever he might be. You need not have just right thinkers, but right thinkers who can carry things out, too. And Carlucci is in that category."

Weinberger says that Carlucci has "all the qualities of an overt, long-committed Reaganite." He reiterates that he hasn't the "slightest doubt" about Carlucci's "feelings, his commitment, his philosophy or his effectiveness."

THE DEFENSE SECRETARY-designate notes that he's not sure how much opposition there really is to Carlucci, observing: "An awful lot of peo-with Kennedy's "way with words," and "closest of all to Dwight Eisenhower in tone, style and perhaps even outlook...the uncomplicated outlook of Small Town America, an unbounded faith in free enterprise...the judgment of businessmen and the citizen's disdain for the excesses of government."

Sylvia Porter:

Call For Deregulation Rings In Bell's Ears

NEW YORK—"Deregulation" has been embraced as a Reagan administration buzz word, but long before the new President takes office, it has spread deeply throughout our nation's $53 billion telephone industry.

And as a result, depending on your phone use and where you live, you could be paying relatively more or less for your 242 billion annual phone messages.

Here is what's happening:

- * Telephone charges are being "un-bundled" with equipment and services billed at their individual cost ratios.
- * Competing firms are being allowed to make and sell equipment and services to individuals and businesses.

There were roughly 175 million phones in the U.S. in 1979—129 million residence instruments, 46 million for business. But yearly revenues were split almost evenly—about $27 billion for each.

AT&T PUTS AVERAGE monthly costs per telephone at $27.87, up 34 percent from $20.73 in 1975. But per-customer rates project to about $31.42 monthly for residence users, $91.42 for businesses—with some industry giants paying millions a month.

What money-saving steps can you take in this period? Generalizations are difficult, for the industry is regulated both by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and by state regulatory groups.

But here are valuable tips, gathered from the FCC, the New York State Public Service Commission and the National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting, a Washington, D.C.-based organization.

(1) CONSIDER BUYING YOUR phone from an independent manufacturer, rather than renting from AT&T. Be sure the instrument is FCC "type-approved" and you tell your phone company you are installing it.

Be on guard: You still may have to pay the phone company a (usually lower) monthly fee, depending on local rules. You may have to have the phone company install it—or at least a jack-plug for your own installation.

Check the warranty terms on any instrument you buy. Bell won't repair it for you. But Bell does test your lines to check whether you have more instruments plugged in than you have registered with them. Obey today's laws until any changes are made.

(2) WEIGH DOWN-GRADING your service, which probably includes a quota of local-area "free" message units. If you make few outgoing calls, you may be entitled to lower "budget" rates under which all outgoing local calls are charged as made.

You might, though, be charged for such downgrading unless you switch when your local public service commission OKs a rate hike. Check your PSC.

(3) NEVER call person-to-person! These are "Operator Assisted," are most expensive, have high, three-minute initial minimums and rates apply 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

(4) Reduce all "Operator-Assisted" calls, such as credit card and reverse charge communications. They're cheaper than person-to-person but still are more costly than you need to make.

(5) DIAL STATION-TO-station direct. You often get lower initial minimums, such as one minute. But even a three-minute station call saves about 54 percent under person rates; shorter calls are bargains.

(6) Call at "off" hours. A three-minute 5-11 p.m. station call can save 70 percent under daytime person-to-person rates.

(7) Talk less—or faster. A one-minute direct dial nighttime station call saves 94 percent off the person-to-person rate.

Bell System companies are printing lengthy money-saving tips in their directories and some tell you pertinent state laws. If yours does not, write your state public regulatory commission for facts. Also:

WRITE FCC, 1919 M St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20554 for "Owning Your Own Phone," free; NCCB, 1530 P St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005 for a 35-page booklet listing possible savings for heavy users of long distance via independent firms with computerized microwave "lines" to key cities, $3.50.

If your state has been sluggish about "un-bundling" service charges and admitting competition, urge your legislators to act for your benefit. (New York is rated progressive; Arkansas "backward.")

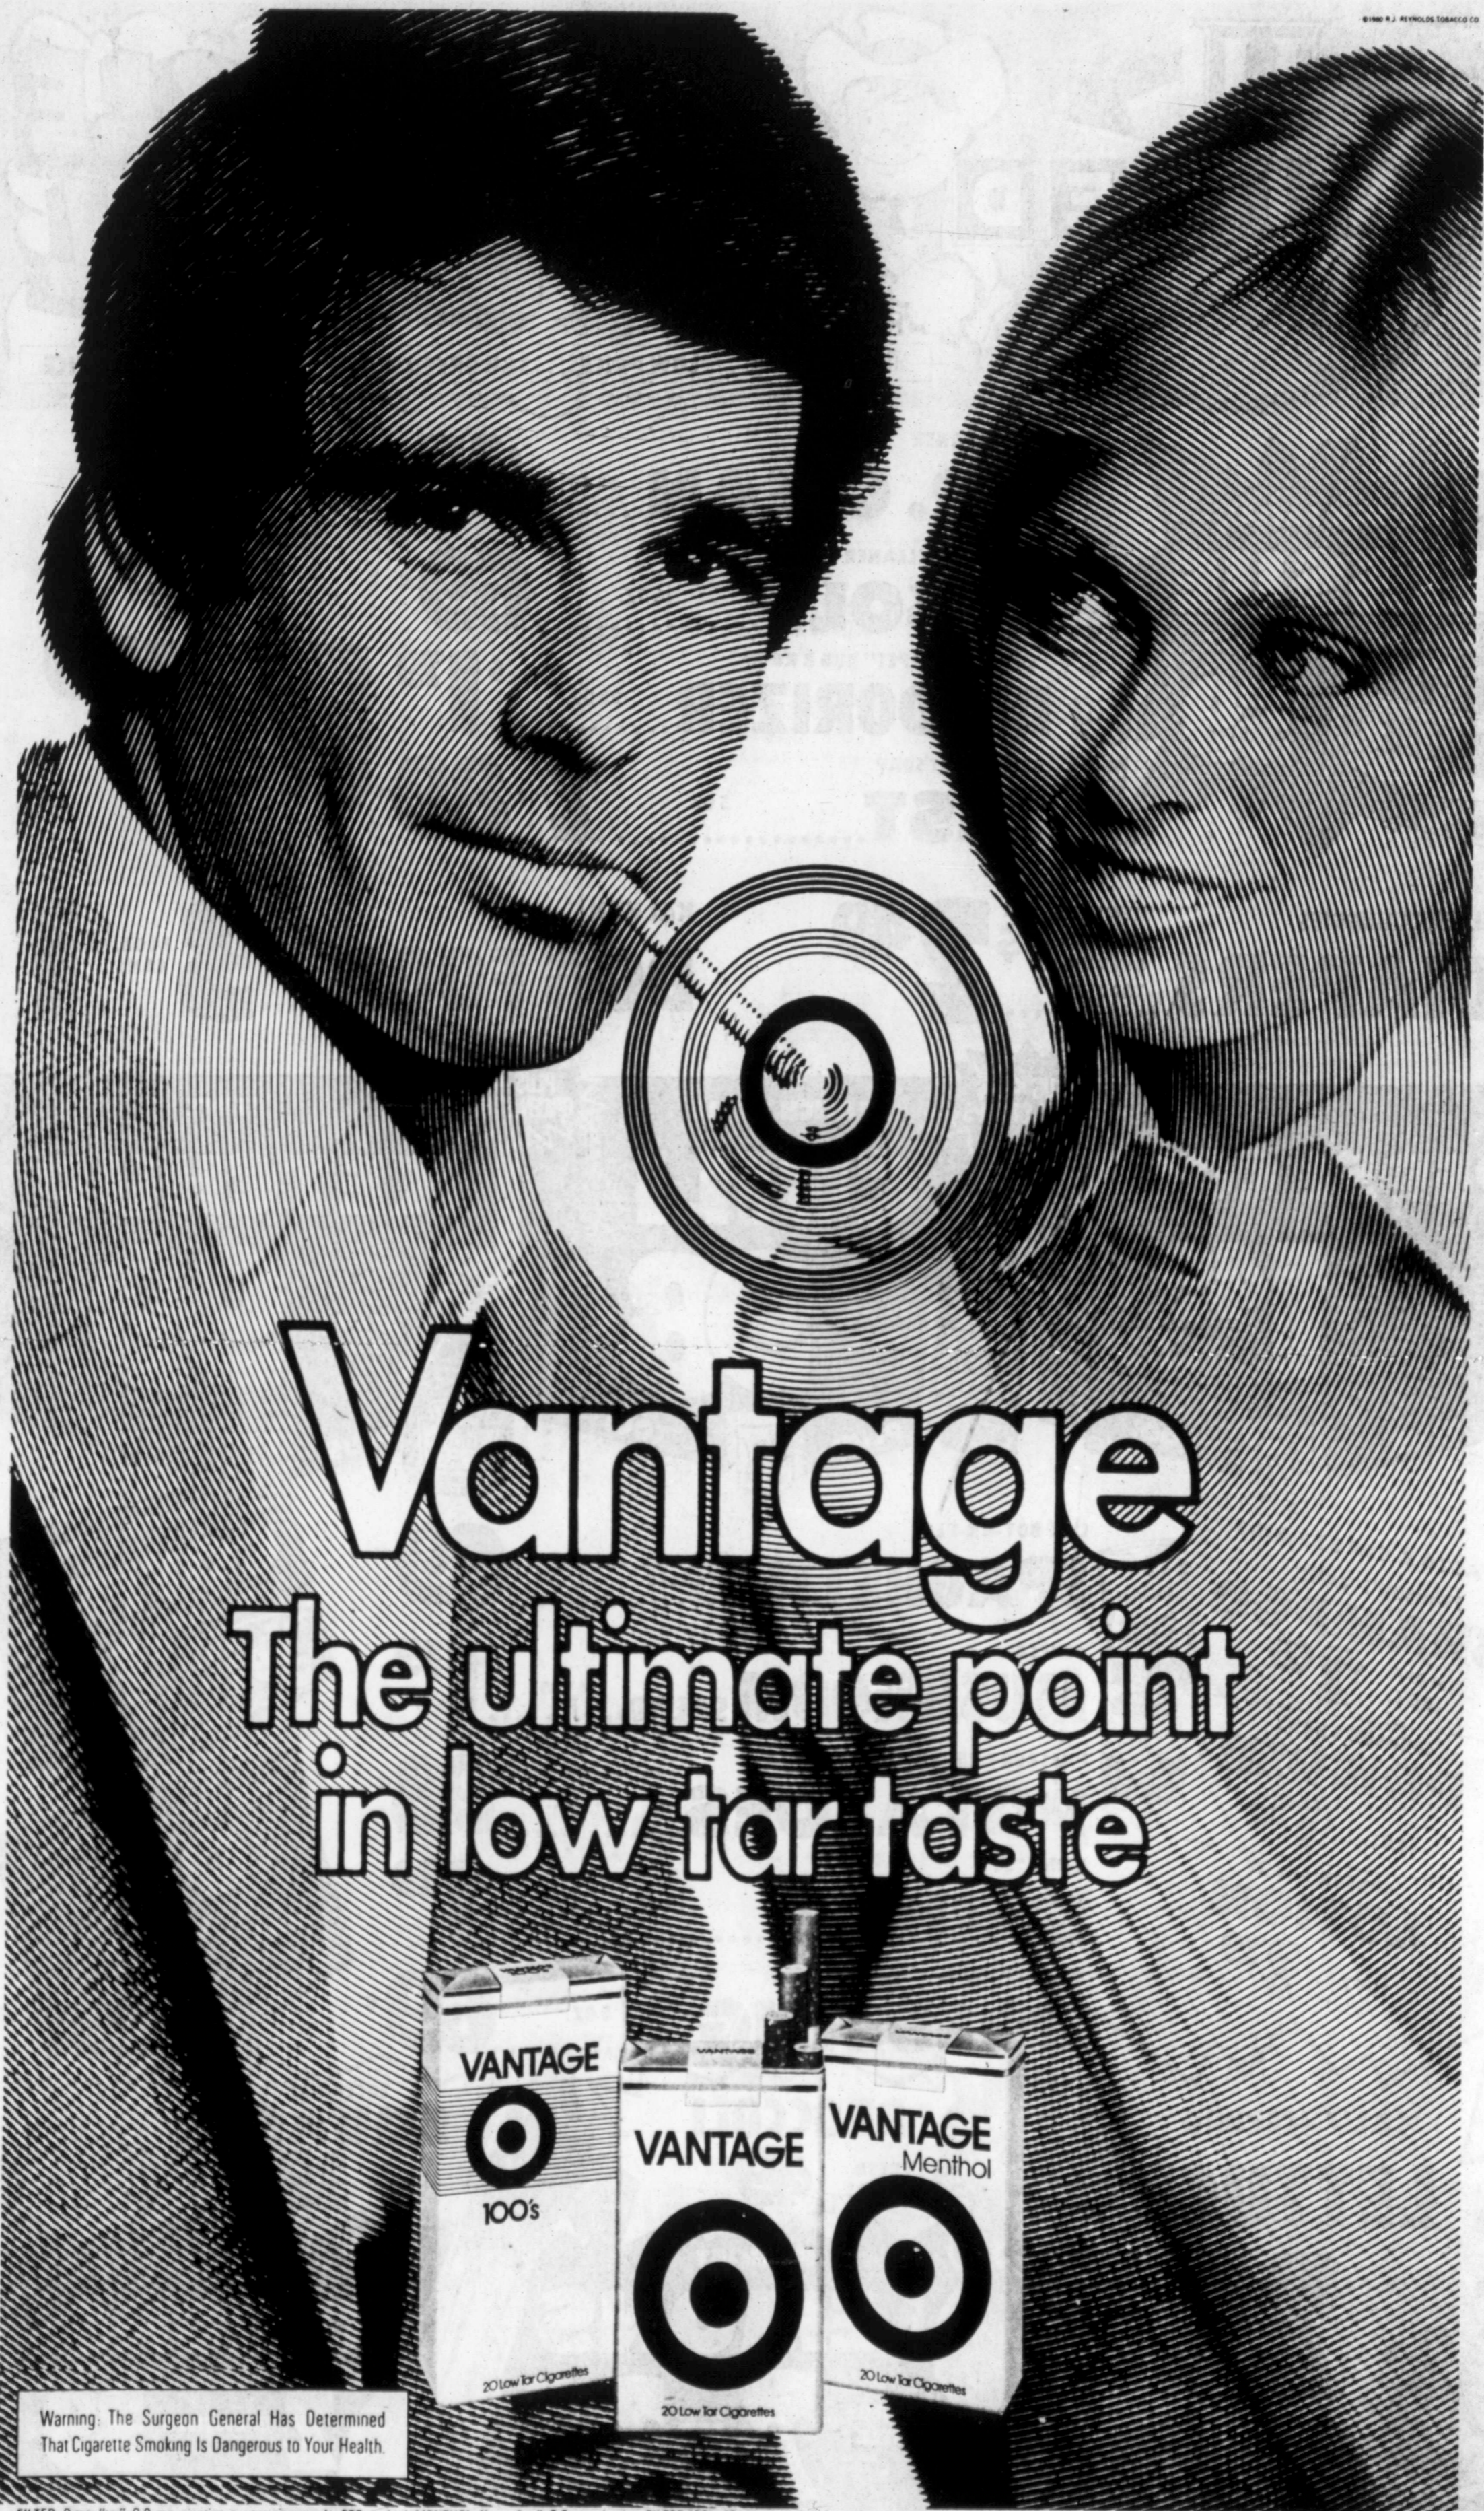

You deserve the right to plug in any properly-made piece of equipment that you rent or buy from Bell or anyone else—just as you now can plug a lamp into a socket. Demand it. You'll get it.

Reagan Seeking Quick Action On Tax Proposals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the federal budget "out of control," Ronald Reagan says he hopes to submit his top priority program of tax and spending cuts to Congress within a few weeks of his Jan. 20 inauguration.

News & World Report, the president-elect also said if President Carter cannot resolve the Iranian hostage crisis, the incoming administration will tackle it "with a clean slate."

ahead" — seeking to stimulate the economy with "tax cuts and spending cuts" — will be presented to Congress "as quickly as possible ... the first few weeks."

tacking government spending," said Reagan. "The budget is out of control."

Carter's Final Budget Proposal Shows Record Defense Spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's final budget, to be sent to Congress this week, calls for record defense expenditures of $196.4 billion and a federal deficit below $30 billion for fiscal 1982.

proval by Congress, will be more a Carter policy statement than a blueprint of actual spending and tax policy for the year beginning Oct. 1.

At the request of Reagan advisers, Senate Budget Committee staffers compiled a list of options to trim the 1981 budget by $25 billion to $30 billion and the new budget by $42 billion. Conservative economists and interest groups have been cranking out their own proposals on where to chop.

The president-elect said declaring an economic emergency — one option that had been considered by his advisers — might make things worse psychologically. "Our thinking is not to assume any special emergency powers, but to make people aware how serious the economic picture is," he said. "There's no one (who) can deny that spending is out of control."

Marine Takes Reagan's Place During Rehearsal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Darrell R. Gordon III solemnly pledged to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution as president of the United States.

the West Front this year from the traditional East Front location.

James Baker, who will be Reagan's White House chief of staff, said Sunday the new administration's budget cuts "will not be just on the social side, but across the board on a wide range of programs."

Asked about his controversial proposal to cut taxes by 30 percent over three years, Reagan said such a cut is only a "partial reduction of the tax increase that has been built in...it is a drag on the economy."

Gordon, a black Marine from Philadelphia, stood in the freezing cold on the West Front of the Capitol Sunday and took the oath of office as 40th president in a full-blown rehearsal of Ronald Reagan's Jan. 20 inauguration.

It provides a vista of the grassy Mall stretching from the Capitol to the Washington Monument and Lincoln Memorial, lined with government buildings, museums and art galleries.

Interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers," Baker said there has been a drastic deterioration of the economy in the past six months, particularly on the federal spending side.

Reagan said he will try to convince Congress to adopt his proposals in total — "that if you start taking one part out of it, you destroy the package."

As some 500 members of military bands, color guards and escorts stood by, the shivering Gordon — wearing a pair of cardboard signs alternately identifying him as "President-elect Reagan" and "President Reagan" — recited the words Reagan will repeat, promising "to the best of my ability to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States, so help me God."

After a second walk-through of the inauguration ceremony, with Maj. Tom Groppe administering the oath, inaugural committee co-chairmen Charles Wick and Robert Gray stood in for Reagan and Vice President-elect George Bush to review military units, then open the procession that will take Reagan to the White House reviewing stand.

Reagan, he said, will inherit the "worst economic mess in 50 years." Among Carter's suggestions for the year that begins almost nine months after he leaves office are a gasoline tax — unlikely to win congressional approval — and a one-year deferral of an 8 percent tax credit to offset higher Social Security payments. The deferral is intended to keep revenues up and trim the deficit.

The president-elect was at his Pacific Palisades home today, putting his affairs in order in advance of Wednesday's move to Washington. "Unless someone comes up with some better ideas," he said Sunday, his 15-minute inaugural address is complete.

The experience was "a little chilly," said the 24-year-old Marine, who is stationed with a crack ceremonial unit in Washington.

Carter also will issue new figures Friday showing current-year spending of more than $660 billion.

He also will recommend a substantial pay raise for top federal officials, an idea supported by the president-elect but which a top Reagan adviser last week recommended postponing in light of economic conditions.

In elaborating on his "clean slate" remarks, Reagan said he will not feel compelled to follow groundwork laid by Carter in negotiating with Iran.

The temperature was 8 degrees, and the wind bone-chilling.

This is a busy week for activities in Lubbock, and a fellow would be hard-pressed to decide which events are most worthy of attention!

BEST BETS

Thursday, the Green Thumb Garden Club, which works with the kiddoes at Balleger School, will have a program which they are calling "Little Sprouts" — teaching the kids to plant bean, alfalfa and other edible sprouts for spring salads. Mrs. A. Hernandez, Mrs. Dale Greaves, and Mrs. Jodie Howard, president, will be on hand to help this terrific bunch of youngsters.

Speaking of gardens, the Lubbock Council of Garden Clubs will have a workshop at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at the Garden and Arts Center, which is open to the public. Dr. H. Dale Pennington, area soil chemist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, will speak on management of soil fertilization for West Texas landscapes.

Tuesday's Lunch Bunch, at the Mahon Library at noon (bring a sandwich!) will hear from John Keith, on "Colored Gerstones for Investment."

And Spade & Hoe Garden Club will have its regular meeting Tuesday at 9:30 at the Garden & Arts Center. It will be guest day, and the special guests of the group will be the Braille Group. There will be a special observance of Arbor Day, with emphasis on the Texas State Tree, the pecan (did you know that?) Hostesses are Mrs. Edwin O'Conner and Mrs. Gee Echols.

South Plains Writers will meet tonight at the Garden & Arts Center (Georgia Booker must be having a busy week!) to hear from William Keras, entertainment editor of the Avalanche Journal. This organization always welcomes new members, potential members, and visitors to its meetings.

"Put your best foot forward," the importance and techniques of proper foot care for the diabetic, will be the subject of the regular meeting of the Greater Lubbock Chapter of the American Diabetes Association tonight at 7:30 at the Plains National Bank Building.

Dr. Dabney G. Harvey, a specialist in podiatry, will speak to this subject, which is so important to diabetics, and there will be questions and answer, free literature, etc. All interested persons are welcome.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

International Interest Group of University Women will meet Wednesday at 7:30 at the home of Dr. Lily Ching, 44608 9th, to discuss "Oriental Antics."

Recovery, Inc., a self-help aftercare group of nervous and formal mental patients, will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at University Ministries, 2412 13th. This will be the first regular weekly meeting of this group, which emphasizes self-help toward good mental health. Newcomers, visitors, family members are always welcome.

The Epilepsy Association of the South Plains will meet Tuesday at 7 at the second floor of Thompson Hall on the Texas Tech campus. Norma Favors, president, is happy to answer questions about this group; call her on 795-8839.

Junior 20th Century club will meet at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Lubbock Women's Club to hear from Tech's Dr. Wilkes Berry.

Lubbock Lioness Club will meet Tuesday, at the Lubbock Club Executive Suite for lunch.

The Knife and Fork Club will hold its regular meeting at 6:30 p.m. Thursday to hear Paula Bishop speak on wives of the presidents of the United States. Mrs. Bishop, who has done extensive research on the presidents' ladies, has developed a fascinating lecture on the personalities and contributions of the wives of presidents.

Somebody was asking the other day about Mothers of Multiples — whoever you are, here's your answer. The group will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Kathleen Kimbley, 8421 Gary, to plan programs for the coming year. If you need directions, call Susan Shelton, 797-7135.

Gordon McMillan of First Methodist Church will lead the meeting of the Lubbock Chapter of the American Guild of Organists when they meet at his church Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. M. A. K. Lodhi will address the Lubbock Branch of AAUW Saturday at 2 p.m., to discuss managing resources for tomorrow. A Tech professor, Dr. Lodhi is an expert on alternate sources of energy. The group meets at the Lubbock Women's Club.

Advice Column First Appeared 25 Years Ago In San Francisco

BEVERLY HILLS, CALIF. (Special) — Twenty-five years ago, on January 9, 1956, "Dear Abby" made her first appearance in the "San Francisco Chronicle." Today, with nearly 1,000 client newspapers, Abby's appeal and influence continue to grow.

—A midsummer, 1980 letter from "Tired, in Lincoln, Neb.," who confided to Abby she was tired of sex at age 50 and asked Abby to poll her readers to see if they agreed, drew 227,606 responses in three weeks (114,005 supporting the writer and 113,601 opposed). An additional 30,000 letters trickled in later.

—Since 1959, when Abby first wrote about "The Living Will," more than four million requests for the document are attributed to the column by Right To Die officials.

—A plea for "forgotten" U.S. soldiers in Korea last March brought 50,000 letters to the GIs.

—Abby employs eight full-time assistants and two shifts of senior citizens to open and sort the avalanche of mail.

As Abby celebrates the 25th anniversary of her column, and reflects on her achievement, did she ever anticipate becoming a national figure as "Abigail Van Buren" and recipient of millions of letters?

"No, absolutely not," responds the diminutive, 62-year-old wife of successful businessman Morton Phillips.

"I never went into this for fame — or money. I have nothing now materially that I didn't have before. I'm still the same person I always was, and the kindest thing people can say to me is that I haven't changed."

Only her views have changed. In 25 years of giving advice, she's altered her position, for example, on divorce (from "hang in there for the sake of the children" to "not all marriages are worth saving"); counseling ("I learned people need an objective opinion. Those close to you will just tell you what you want to hear"); and sex therapy ("I hesitated to recommend sex therapy until I went to St. Louis in 1966 to study first hand the Masters and Johnson method").

Why the changes? "I hope I'm more tuned in and knowledgeable than I was the day I started. I've had the great opportunity to learn from the experts in the various fields," says the woman whose words are read by some 65 million readers daily.

Abby, who grew up in Sioux City, Iowa, gives her husband much of the credit for her success.

"He's been my guiding light. He's been my live-in editor. I've never had a press agent or a business manager, with Mort I never needed one."

Abby is also proud of her staff. Katie Beal, her chief assistant, joined Abby two weeks after the column started. Four other staffers have been with her at least 21 years.

The mail and the column aren't Abby's only way of communicating help.

"If I think someone's suicidal or needs immediate help, then I call. I make at least a hundred calls a month. People are overwhelmed...they can't believe it's Abby calling," Abby says.

The first column appeared Jan. 9, 1956.

"I took the name Abigail from the Old Testament and Van Buren from the eighth president," she says. "I copyrighted the name and away I went."

"About 10 days later the publisher of the New York Mirror called and said he'd like to use my column, but that I'd have to be syndicated. In a matter of 30 days, I was in New York, Houston, Dallas and New Orleans. It took off like wildfire."

Abby gives approximately 100 speeches a year.

A recent trip to Jacksonville, Fla., drew this response from Jacksonville Journal Managing editor Dick Bussard:

"Our personnel director said your visit was the best single-event shot-in-the-arm to employee morale she has ever seen. And I agree! The personal attention and interest that you gave to everyone here has won you many new friends, as well as readers."

Does she plan to retire? In her 25th anniversary column, published Friday, she met the subject head-on: "Please don't ask me when I plan to retire. I have no such plans. I intend to continue writing this column just as long as my readers and the Good Lord let me."

Goren Bridge

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF © 1981 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠A2 ♥Q987542 ♦7 ♣953
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
 2 ♣ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Possession of a seven-card major is not, in itself, a license to bid at any level. Had North shown a minor suit in response to your one no trump, you would have introduced your suit at the two-level. Now that North has shown, at minimum, a six-card suit, we suggest you pass while you are still at a safe level. You have respectable support for partner's suit, but he might be void in your suit.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠A ♥J4 ♦AJ10872 ♣KQ98
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
 2 ♣ Pass 4 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Partner's rebid of four hearts is not a "drop dead" bid. With that sort of hand, he would have simply responded four hearts over your one diamond opening. Partner's actual sequence hints at slam, and you have a most suitable holding. You have first- or second-round control in all side suits, a ruffing value and decent trump support. Rather than tip off your holding by cue-bidding, we suggest a bold leap to six hearts. There are no guarantees, but it's difficult to imagine a hand partner might have that will not offer a play for slam. Checking for aces en route is also acceptable.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠Q84 ♥K103 ♦AQ65 ♣AQ8
 Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?

A.—We know that some scientists will come up with a convoluted method for describing this hand precisely. However, there is a much simpler bid available—three no trump. It says you have a hand with 4-3-3-3 pattern and 16-18 points. When a bid describes your hand so exactly, why not use it? Partner will know you have three-card spade support, and can judge whether to move or not.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠10762 ♥AK964 ♦K7 ♣J3
 Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one spade. What action do you take?

A.—Without the bid to your right, you would have opened the bidding with one heart. However, that does not give you the right now to overcall with two hearts. At that level you have no margin of safety because your suit isn't strong enough. Pass and await developments; you may be able to back into the auction later.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠AJ1065 ♥AJ83 ♦AK92
 The bidding has proceeded:
 East South West North
 3 ♣ 4 ♣ 6 ♣ 6 ♥ 7 ♣ ?

What action do you take?
A.—The enemy preemption has succeeded in turning this hand into a guessing game. Obviously, you have chances for a grand slam, but it's just as possible that you might have an unavoidable loser somewhere. Rather than choose yourself, pass and leave the decision to partner. The pass is forcing and tells your partner you are prepared to play a grand slam if he so desires. Therefore, it carries the implication that you do not have a club loser.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠93 ♥954 ♦K762 ♣A852
 Partner opens the bidding with one no trump. What action do you take?

A.—With only two face cards and no five-card suit, we doubt that your combined holding will stretch to nine tricks even if partner has a maximum 18 points.

Therefore, there is no point in endangering the contract. Pass, and be content with a valuable partscore.

Fears Of Mortality Fate, Infant Woes Proving Unfounded

NEW YORK (Special)—Fears that the declining mortality rate among extremely premature infants will increase the number of children born with serious neurological problems are proving to be unfounded by current research, PARENTS magazine stated today.

The magazine noted that survival rates of over 70 percent are being reported for babies weighing between 1.6 and 2.2 pounds. These infants would not have survived ten years ago. With today's improved medical techniques and knowledge, "infants born as early as 24 weeks after conception now have a fighting chance," the current (January) issue of PARENTS stated.

"Additionally, research is indicating that while the number of tiny babies surviving is on the increase, such conditions as cerebral palsy are not increasing disproportionately, allaying fears that saving extremely premature infants would increase the number of children with severe neurological problems," said the magazine.

PARENTS, however, cited studies now under way that "are indicating that these preemies have an unusually high percentage of learning difficulties. But it is still too early to tell whether these will prove to be long-term, rather than temporary, problems."

I walked into Pat Walker's Figure Salon in Lubbock a few months ago, ready to try one more time to lose weight. I had tried everything else, even to having surgical staples put in my ears.

After my courtesy treatment, the counselor explained the Pat Walker figure correction program to me. When she assured me that the program was guaranteed, I felt I had finally found the solution to my figure problems.

When I began my program at Pat Walker's Figure Salon, I weighed 178 lbs. and wore a size 20 dress. Today I weigh 126 lbs. and wear a size 8 dress. My life style has changed completely because today I can do "skinny" things. I can't wait for summer so I can lounge around the pool in my new size 8 bikini!

Ed's Wagon Wheel Western Wear Begins Big January Clearance

January Clearance begins today at Ed's Wagon Wheel Western Wear, the big store at 5015 University Ave. providing western clothing for all the family, for work and dress-up, for the appreciated accessories and horse tack.
(Remember, after 14 years at a downtown location, Ed Barclay last summer moved to the new and expanded quarters in the all-new University Park Shopping Center just off 50th Street on University Avenue.)
One is urged to shop early for the outstanding values in the sale starting today. Following are specific savings included:
For Men
One group of men's suits is at half price, with all others at 25 per cent off. Men's long sleeve shirts are marked down, with one group at half price and all others at 55 off. Short sleeve shirts are $3 off regular price.
Men's blue denim jeans by Lee, Levi and Wrangler are $14.95, and the checked jeans in the same labels are just $5.95 a pair. Lee knit jeans, regularly price to $18, are sale marked at $7.95.

One group of black and canyon felt hats, regular to $65, is marked at $32.50 each.
For Ladies
One group of ladies suits is half price, with all others at 25 per cent reduction.
A blouse group is $7.95, with all others at 25 per cent off.
Square dance shoes by Coast, in gold, white and silver, are now $8.95 (not all sizes represented).
Children
All children's boots are half price!
Shirts: one group just $4.95 and all others 25 per cent off!
Suits: two only, size 10 cord, regular to $38, now $19.95, and one only size 18 denim.
Coats and Vests
Men's and ladies' down coats and vests are 25 per cent off, with polyester filled at half price. Leather jackets are 25 per cent off, and western sweaters are $39.95, with children's coats at half price.

Boots
Justin calfskin and bullhide boots, regular to $115, are now $69.95! Antelope ropers, regular $125, are now $75 (in bone color only). Justin patent leather browns and blacks, regular $125, are just $75 for the sale. Justin Seaturtle (regular and patchwork), not in all sizes, are now $125. Laramie calfskin 14-in. top, antique redwood, regular $139.95, are now $69.95.
Ladies Justin calf and Sanders bullhide boots, regular to $95, are now $49.95. Ladies Justin lizards in two colors, regular $189.95, are now $139.95. Ladies Justin patchwork seaturtle, three pair only, are at $125; and ladies Laramie calfskin, four pair only, regular $139.95, are now $69.95.
There understandably can be no refunds, exchanges or layaways on sale items.
Ed's Wagon Wheel Western Wear, 5015 University, with plenty of off-street parking, will be open this week from 9 until 9. Monday through Friday, and 9 until 6 Saturday.

Beauty, Comfort, Weather Protection, Savings Shown By Insulating Windows

Sure, storm windows and storm doors are ideal for winter. But think further: there are sandstorms ahead, and won't this protection be doubly appreciated then! Comfort is enhanced, and energy costs are lessened — in every season — by the products of Insulating Windows, Inc. 327 E. 74th St., phone 745-5768, in Lubbock.
The conscientious and capable folks there invite visits and inquiry about any aspect of their products and services.
Everything is custom made at Insulating Windows, Inc., with primary products including picture storm windows, patio sliding storm doors, aluminum replacement windows, storm windows and storm doors... and the recently published "economy storm window," referred to by some as "solar windows."

Yes, Insulating Windows, Inc., can provide the gassette (solar) windows at a substantial saving, and these can be very effective in "weatherization." (According to government reports, improper windows lose more energy than any other house component.)
Insulating Windows, Inc., serves superbly from its large facilities in Lubbock, at 327 E. 74th St., just south of Loop 289, with dealers including the Muleshoe Home Center in Muleshoe, and others in Brownfield and Sweetwater.
The storm windows manufactured by the firm, right here in Lubbock, provides 1 1/2-in. to 2-in. dead air space for energy efficiently, and attachment to existing windows enables 2 1/2 to 3-in. dead air space.

A vinyl bulb seal is featured, eliminating caulking for these.
A rubber seal is utilized for glass mold.
Storm doors are available with numerous options (2 lite or 4 lite).
"And one does not have to do the entire home at one time to get started on an energy efficiency program via way of storm windows. Let us measure your home, and then you purchase a few units (a room at a time, as example) if your financial planning finds this most advantageous.

Maxine's Accent January Sale Featuring Exceptional Values

It is January Clearance time at Maxine's Accent, in Briercroft Shopping Center!
For this one-a-year event, Maxine's not only is offering many racks at 50 per cent reduction, but also is arranging storewide reductions of 30 per cent and more off on all fall and holiday sweaters, coats including leathers, cashmeres, all-weather and fake furs; jeans, short and long dresses, sportswear, robes and gowns, and accessories. Also, reductions in the Designer Room include a few Ultra Suedes.
Beginning their twelfth year, Dr. and Mrs. Will Willingham especially invite their many friends and customers to come in for this storewide clearance sale.
Four years ago this February, the store was expanded to twice its original size, and a beautiful new "Designer Room" was added. Here, merchandise from top designers is displayed, and privacy is afforded the discriminating customer looking for uniqueness and many lines exclusive to Maxine's Accent.
Another situation merits special attention at this time:
An added venture for the store has been the association of Maxine's Accent with Pam Mahoney, noted furrier of

New York and Dallas. Mrs. Mahoney is bringing a $500,000 collection of exciting furs for an early February fur sale.
"Maxine and Pam extend a joint invitation for you to watch for specific dates and details to come by at that time and see this collection at most competitive prices before you purchase a fur."
Referring to the shop's current January Clearance, Maxine emphasizes:
"We've had a most enjoyable and rewarding 11 years in ladies and junior apparel here in Lubbock and have met with tremendous response not only from Lubbock but from many of the surrounding cities.
"We are happy to offer the exciting savings during the January Clearance, and we hope our many friends will be able to take advantage of these values."
The storewide reductions (30 to 70 per cent, remember) involve fall and holiday lines, long dresses and short dresses, beautiful mix-and-match sportswear for both juniors and misses, fall coats, sweaters, party looks, lingerie and accessories.
Outstanding Labels
Some of the lines are Pant-Her, Collegian, Lady Wrangler, Body English, Melissa Lane, Lilli Ann, College Town, Mollie Parnis, Strawberry Plant, Charlotte Ford designer jeans in corduroy and velvet; Harold Levine, Vera Maxwell, Halston and others.

Maxine has one of the most extensive collections of Ultra Suedes in West Texas, including coats, suits, jackets, skirts and dresses. New arrivals continually are noted.
The capable staff at Maxine's includes staffmembers Maxine Willingham; her daughter, Sharon Harris who is assistant manager; her mother, Mary McCollum; also Lue Ree McGee and Poppy Burnette. Part-time members include Diana Loveless, a Distributive Education student. Other occasional part-time staffmembers include Alice Scarborough.
Maxine is the fashion coordinator each year for Miss Lubbock, and she also assists other pageant entries locally in their wardrobe rightness.
Visa and Master Charge purchases are welcomed on both sale items and regularly-priced merchandise in the store where everything from the capable staff, the famous labels, the attractive decor, the management's devotion to fashion rightness and leadership, and currently the January Clearance contribute to the enviable Maxine's Accent image.

Storewide Sale Event Begins Today At 'The Cotton Patch'

Always appreciated at its convenient Hwy. 62/82 location in Idalou, the regionally-popular Cotton Patch comes in for special attention with its Storewide Annual Clearance beginning today.
 All fall and winter fashions are marked from a full 30 per cent to 60 per cent off!
 With this distinctive apparel center featuring junior and missy sizes, and with the discriminating selection... and now the sale prices... one should profit in an exceptional manner. No matter if the customer is a junior size 3 or missy size 16, owner and active operator Janis DeBusk of The Cotton Patch finds the stylish women of West Texas desire clothes with youthful styling, quality construction and attractive and practical fabrication. She buys with this progressive customer in mind. Whether the age is 16 or 60 customers of The Cotton Patch enjoy youthfully styled fashion, all in good taste.

Misses, Juniors
 Misses and juniors fashions are marked 30 per cent to 50 per cent off during the just-commencing sale. The following related observations are given:
 "From hand knits to crew necks, our sweaters are truly delightful. Plush velour tops and joggers are perfect for those chilly days of winter still to come.
 "Our toasty robes in velour, plush and velvet are made of luxurious fabrics which are delightfully easy to care for.
 "Velvet blazers with coordinating skirts, pants and blouse can be lovely additions to your winter wardrobe.
 "Coordinates in pastel pink and blue will take you into spring with ease.
 "Separate pants and jeans for juniors and misses include pastel corduroys, basics and trouser jeans.
 "Our gorgeous array of blouses includes soft georgettes, cottons, silks, plaids and oxfords.

Special Announcement
 "Girls' apparel, at 30 per cent to 60 per cent off for the sale, affords special bargains as we begin to clear out our children's clothing to make room for our expanding junior and missy stock.

AMONG SUPER SAVINGS—Janis DeBusk of The Cotton Patch calls attention to special savings in Elizabeth Arden skin care products (with The Cotton Patch stocking the complete line). The shop's annual clearance sale begins today, with the drastic price markdowns listed in the accompanying report.

"Look for such famous brands as Luv-It, Kelly, Wiggies, Her Majesty, etc., at marvelous savings."

"The new '81 will see The Cotton Patch specializing in junior and missy fashions exclusively. We look forward to this exciting change, providing you with the exceptional and unique in women's fashions."

Elizabeth Arden
 The entire line of prestigious cosmetics from Elizabeth Arden is available at The Cotton Patch. Trained specialists will help make your skin care and make-up selections.

 "Our January Elizabeth Arden skin care specials include four basic cleansing and moisturizing products at super savings."

Also, for fashion forecast and fashion availability, you are invited to read the weekly ads of The Cotton Patch on these pages.

The whole attitude of The Cotton Patch, easily reached at its Idalou highway location, is refreshing, with an expertise and stock that invites your trade and confidence.

Jones Patio & Casual Holds Annual January Sale, Relates Super Savings

The extraordinary Jones Patio & Casual, 3403 34th St., is conducting its always eagerly anticipated annual January Sale.

For this event, all indoor and outdoor furniture in the super selection is marked at 20 per cent off regular price!

(This includes new shipments.)
 Selected wall decorations are sale priced at 50 per cent off!

Yes, exceptional savings are posted, with this economy and the really impressive selection affording an opportunity not to be minimized.

For sofas, chairs, coffee tables, plant stands, occasional tables, mesh patio furniture, umbrellas, glass-top dining tables and more, Jones Patio & Casual has just the item for the decor and the season... and the pocketbook!

Looking ahead to spring and summer enjoyment, be sure to note the Sundrella all-aluminum umbrellas stocked at Jones Patio & Casual. These sturdy, beautiful units are 7 ft. diameter with vanes in lasting baked acrylic enamel colors. Automatically positioning for protection in high wind is one of the features, together with the polished aluminum tube protective rim, easy rotation to overcome sun angle, and choice of 23 colors!

Big 8 1/2-ft. vinyl umbrellas are available also. And umbrella bases.

Marking its third anniversary last year, Jones Patio & Casual in each year has grown, going "all out" to make for fun, utility and comfort in landscape and patio use. New lines are added consistently.

For Indoors, Outdoors
 "If you have never visited Jones Patio & Casual, we believe you will be excitingly surprised. Come in, browse and see the beautiful merchandise... it is a selection one just won't see everywhere everyday!"

Featuring indoor-outdoor, all-season ornamental elegance for timeless charm and beauty, the firm is really a

"showplace," and a visit there can be of added benefit during the current sale. (Note new spring and summer items just placed in stock.)

The big showroom, with more than 5,000 sq. ft. space, is chock full of selective merchandise, and the open display, easy access, off-street parking and other advantages make shopping there a real treat.

For new elegance in home or office, let Jones Patio & Casual enter the picture!

The firm is home-owned and home-operated, essentially as a family operation. Wilburn Jones and wife, Sonja, are owners, with Mrs. Jones active in the management, assisted by children Jana, Mark and Randy. (Wilburn owns Greer Iron Works, and custom construction of barbecue units, fireplace screens, log holders, fences, gates, etc. are among the specialties there, as is wrought iron and cast aluminum furniture.)

Vetral's Fashions Simplifies Savings In Half-Price Event

"Vetral's Fashions (in September Place) is conducting a fabulous January Clearance Sale."

Everything in the extensive stock is marked for this event at one-half price. It is just that simple!

"Individual Clothing for the Individual You" is the meaningful motto of Vetral's Fashions, since late summer located in elegant quarters at 3300-F September Place, 82nd Street at Indiana Avenue.

Sizes 4 to 20 are stocked, with custom sizes, half sizes, junior and missy wear on the racks.

Lingerie and sleepwear are included in the so-attractive stock.

Extensive Selection
Those long familiar with Vetral's recognize that new lines are added from time to time, with all merchandise carefully chosen to reflect Vetral's understanding of area preferences and the recognition of affordable fashion.

New lines include the Gilley Jeans, Ultra Suede Vera Maxwell dresses, Dana Point sportswear, Glen of Michigan, Thermo-Jac and Fem Form.

New spring merchandise is arriving, and is the prettiest ever.

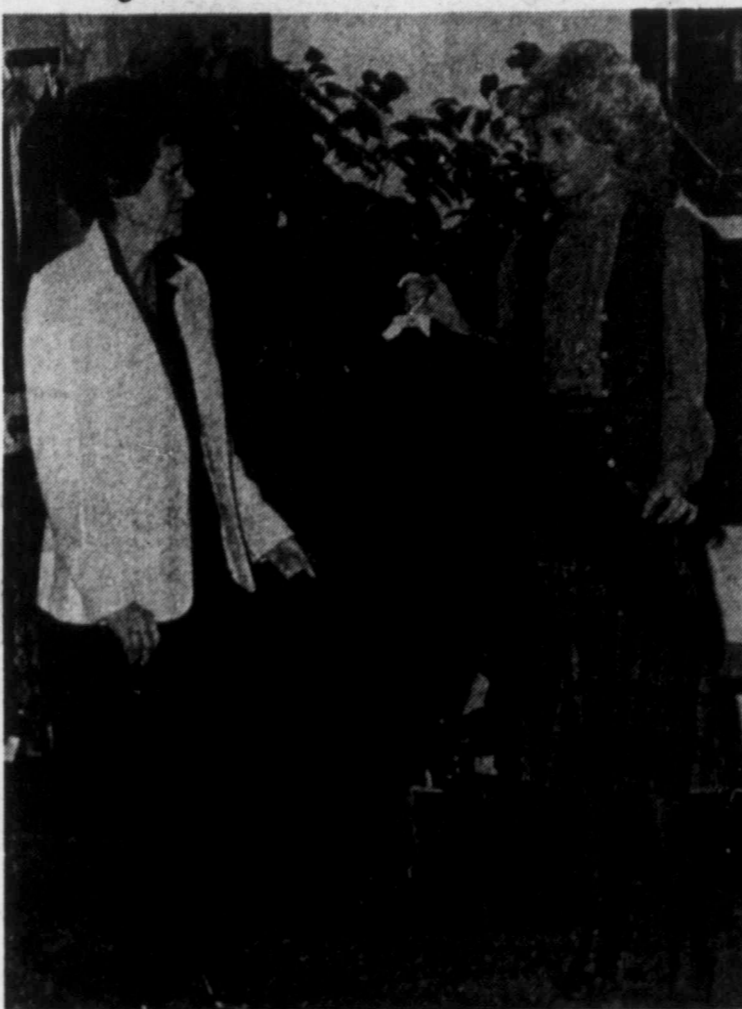

The half-price sale time is a most, most advantageous time to visit Vetral's, learning for the first time of its advantages or for renewing acquaintance with this veteran business.

'Longtime Friend'
Vetral's has long been a friend to the fashion-conscious and quality-conscious throughout the area, for eight years having served from its former home east of Lubbock near the Roosevelt School.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Davis established the firm there and have seen it progress from modest beginnings to the stature it now enjoys.

Vetral's Fashions still is a "family operation" in the main, with Mrs. Jimmy Davis or daughter Vicki always on hand to assure the personal touch.

The shop is truly beautiful and convenient. One wall of beautiful fabric features the Phoenix, with restful blue-grey color scheme throughout, and with deep carpeting and a unique merchandise display arrangement to enable maximum stock with an uncrowded atmosphere.

Visa and Master Charge purchases are welcomed.

"For gorgeous apparel, for acquaintance with the strikingly-beautiful Vetral's Fashions, for purchasing at half price during the January Clearance, we hope to see you at the Vetral's Fashions today or this week, and certainly before the sale concludes. Hours are 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

"Aren't you glad Vetral's is now in Lubbock, still conveniently reached from everywhere?"

M's Frame Shop Sets January Specials Including Groups From New Shipment

"Frames, frames, frames! Do we have frames!"

M's Frame Shop, 2159-B 50th St., has just received a new shipment augmenting an already-extensive stock and has made a further announcement:

"January Specials have been arranged, with such great values as selected groups of 12 x 16 frames for $7, and some 16 x 20 sizes for just $8! These are new arrivals, of the no-liner type especially appreciated for watercolor framing."

All popular frame sizes are stocked at M's Frame Shop, Lubbock's only exclusive frame shop.

M's Frame Shop opened early last summer and the public's response to its selection and pricing is most, most gratifying.

Standard size frames are stocked in the full size range appreciated by amateurs and professionals alike.

(Painters have found they can save appreciably in cost by adhering to the standard sizes.) M's Frame Shop has what one needs... from miniatures to the big 24-in. x 48-in. dimensions.

Ovals, Rounds

There are ovals and rounds, too, in the really impressive stock.

Margot Walker, owner and operator, founded the store in early summer, pledging specialization in economical frames that the average person can purchase without hesitation. It would seem she has been most successful in this effort.

Look at further advantages of M's Frame Shop:

Hours are 10 until 5, closed Saturday and Sunday. Opening at other hours can be arranged for special situations such as "coming in from out of town."

Economy, Quality

The stock is predominantly Mexico frames, beautiful, sturdy and economical.

Prices are clearly posted.

Artist discounts are offered.

(Actually, Margot believes she has the best prices in town.)

Special orders can be made when desired.

Both non-glare and single-strength glass is stocked and cut to order.

Blocking of needlepoint is another service.

Free window display is afforded for local artists. Check of space availability at early date is advised.

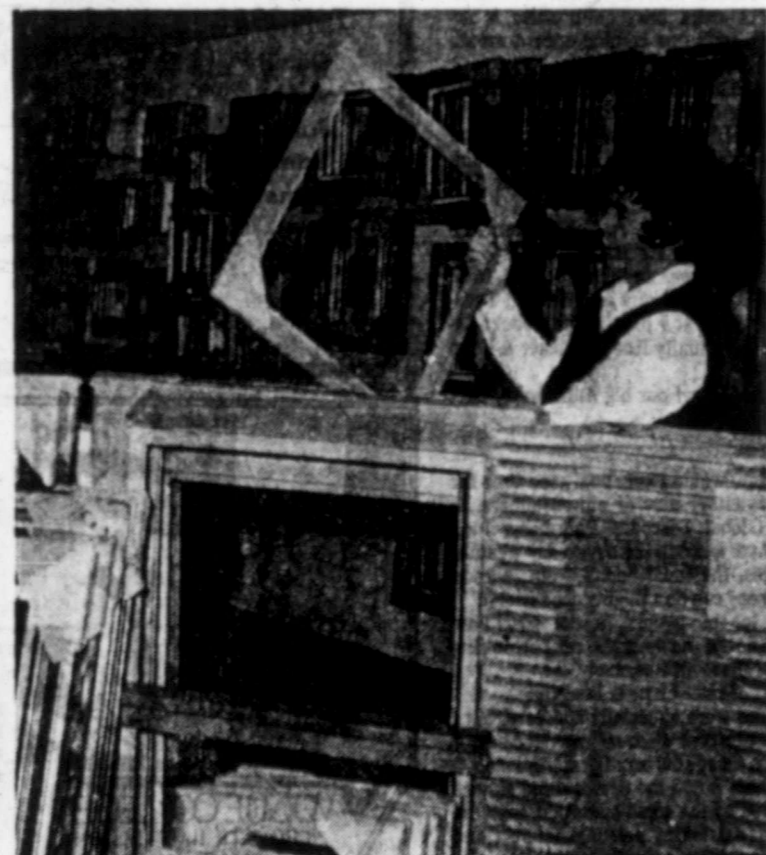

As a special customer consideration, M's Frame Shop has stocked metal art from Leon Givens, local artist known throughout the Southwest for his creations in brass and copper.

Personal Assistance

Margot Walker personally is on hand at M's Frame Shop to render a personal service, expressing her appreciation of trade and friendships.

With Margot's appreciation of people, with her recognition of frame needs for the artist, and with the extensive stock at economical pricing, M's Frame Shop is a most inviting place to patronize.

"May we have the pleasure of your early visit; we're at 2159-B 50th St., remember, phone 744-2340."

Business & Industrial Review

Spring Crest's Annual January Sale Affords Specific Savings

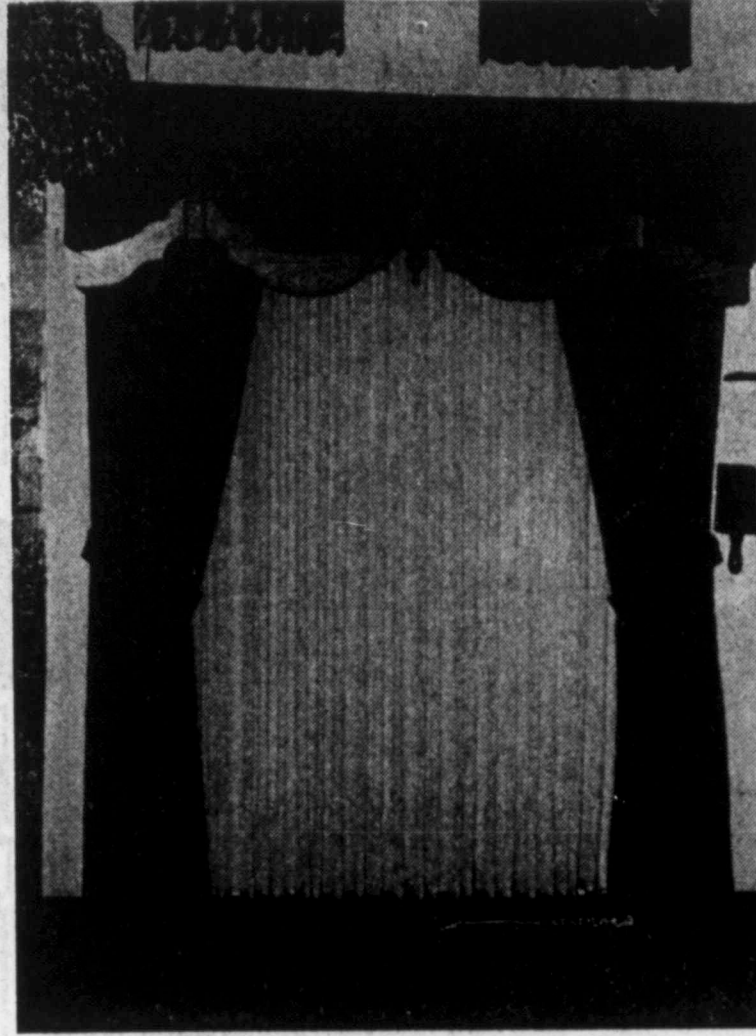

"Did you realize the big Annual January Sale is underway at Spring Crest Draperies?"
Exceptional savings are thus provided at Spring Crest at its 5302 Ave. Q location in Briercroft Shopping Center, Lubbock, and at the Spring Crest store, under same ownership, at 2613 Yonkers in Plainview.
"Come to either store... the one most convenient in your own situation, and profit by the following prices:
All fabrics are sale priced at 20 per cent off!

All woven woods and mini blinds are at a big 25 per cent price reduction, and Crestrand (the sheer alternative) at 25 per cent off, too!
"Quite possibly you have been wanting to move up to Spring Crest, and this month's sale provides a most inviting opportunity.
"Spring Crest wants you to have the finest in drapery treatments in your home at affordable price, now and for seasons to come.
Free estimates are featured, in every season, at Spring Crest, and there is a full assurance that each valued customer is completely satisfied with the latest in design and workmanship that are hallmarks of Spring Crest, "the finest in the industry."

Furthermore, aside from their beauty and simplicity, they are competitively priced.
Spring Crest Draperies of Lubbock and Plainview stocks a complete line of drapery fabrics.
A large line of decorator rods is stocked.

Warranty Unique
There is 10-year warranty on drapery hardware.
Only three to four week delivery time is involved for the custom made drapes.
Also available are woven woods, shades, shutters, custom bedspreads and the Classique metal blinds.

Registration for classes is underway, with early attention advised. Experienced sewers and quilters comprise the

"DOESN'T YOUR HOME DESERVE SPRING CREST?"

Drapery hardware is stocked for the "do it yourself" trade, too, with its simplicity lending itself to ease in installation.
Crestrand, the alternative to sheers (the elusive sheer that is different and popular) is stocked. It is beautiful, unique and thoroughly different.
BankAmericard and Master Charge purchase plans are welcome at Spring Crest.
And remember this:

"No matter what your style, Spring Crest can dress your windows better; these custom draperies add elegance to the most formal setting, but also can be the perfect finishing touch to a casual room. These unusual draperies are formed by threading a spring steel pleater through a narrow hem at top of the material. Result: a drapery that hangs beautifully with rounded, supple folds rather than the sharp, stiff edges of conventional pinch-pleated draperies."

Quilt Shop Begins Anniversary Sale, Tells New Class Schedule, New Fabrics

Three situations are of significant interest at this time at The Quilt Shop, home of quality fabrics, quilting supplies, classes, quilts and handcrafted gifts:

- (1) The Quilt Shop's Second Anniversary Sale begins today, extending through this Saturday, Jan. 17, with in-store specials that afford real savings on selected books, collector thimbles and many other items.
  - (2) A most interesting new instruction schedule has been announced to commence this month.
  - (3) New fabrics have arrived, swelling the already-large stock.
- Where is all this? At The Quilt Shop, 2253 34th St., phone 762-2822, in Lubbock, where Sharon Newman and a knowledgeable, helpful staff is on hand.
- Registration Underway
Registration for classes is underway, with early attention advised. Experienced sewers and quilters comprise the able staff.

Among instructors are Jackie Reis, Margaret Jordan, Donnie Little, Dee Moyes and Sharon Newman. These and others assure finest in instruction.
Schedule Told
In brief, the following classes begin soon:
Beginner, with basic quilting skills taught using traditional methods; six 2-hour sessions, with Tote by Jackie Reis and Pillow by Margaret Jordan, starting in late January and early February.
How to Quilt: Jackie Reis, one-hour session Jan. 26, with other sessions in February, March and April.
Quilt As You Go, five 2-hr. sessions, Donnie Little, first on Jan. 28.
Intermediate, a series of six 2-hr. sessions to help plan and make a whole quilt, Margaret Jordan, beginning March 5.
Superstar, intermediate level, sewing the Lone Star quilt top, five 2-hr. sessions, Jackie Reis, Jan. 29 for first class.

Medallion, making a quilt top for bed or wall in framed medallion style, Margaret Jordan, six 2-hr. sessions, first on Jan. 27.
Sampler, for the experienced quilt-maker, Jackie Reis instructing, twelve 2-hr. sessions, first on Jan. 15.
A Second Thursday Night for out-of-town or extra busy quiltmakers is arranged, with one coming once a month for a year. Inquire for details.
There are other classes at near dates including Machine Applique, Trapunto, Cathedral Window, Quick Quilt, Stained Glass and Restoration. Ask for the complete schedule with all details at The Quilt Shop, 2253 34th St.
A free slide show of quilts from the National Quilt Association summer show in Fort Wayne, Ind., and quilts from Lubbock quiltmakers will be held Tuesday, Jan. 20, at 7 p.m. in the Godeke Library Community Room, Quaker & Loop 289.
Don't forget our big Anniversary Sale underway!

For Purchasing Or Selling, Encore Proves Apt Solution

Encore at Ellwood Station — another way to beat the '80's!
Located in the old postoffice sub-station at 2611 Boston Ave., Encore is offering and implementing the concept that is sweeping the country in retailing clothing.
In these times of rampaging inflation, who wouldn't like to pick up a little extra cash just from the "all-too-often" necessity of cleaning out the closets! Or, why not select a new whole wardrobe or a special "one-occasion outfit" for a fraction of its original cost?
"You can do either or both at Encore with new consignments being received every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m."
Encore specializes in quality clothing for ladies and girls, which in many cases has never been worn.
"And... you can finally have that designer label you've always wanted, at an incredibly low price! At Encore we use the term 'gently worn' because all our merchandise is in excellent condition and must be so to be accepted for consignment."

"We invite you to come in and browse through our Ann Kleins, Geoffrey Beenes, Betty Hansens, Yves St. Laurents and many others.
"For those of you who are 'into vintage clothing' we have an excellent new consignment of late '40s and early '50s suits of wool gabardine, sharkskin and flannel, featuring the outstanding tailoring of that day gone by. And yes, they have shoulder pads.
"Truly, we have another way to beat the '80s... sell the things you don't wear and 'shop smart' at Encore at Ellwood Station, 2611 Boston. For more information, call 747-1320 and ask for Patty. All consignments are strictly confidential."
A new shipment from the wardrobe of Farah Fawcett is presented, including designer slacks.

Dura' Bilt Portable Buildings Sets One-Week Special Pricing

It is "First of the Year Savings Time" at Dura' Bilt Portable Buildings, 6415 Ave. H, phone 745-2891 (just south of the Tahoka traffic circle in south Lubbock). This means that throughout this week all buildings on the big Dura' Bilt lot are marked down with 10 per cent to 20 per cent price reduction.

Involved are some 30 units, in a size range from 6 x 8 to 12 x 32. A very good variety of sizes and styles is presented. Consistently providing "tomorrow's buildings at yesterday's prices", Dura' Bilt enables even greater savings during this one-week sale.

Bank rate financing is available. Custom orders are welcomed. Delivery is afforded. And hours are 9-5:30, Mondays through Fridays, with an earlier 2:30 p.m. closing on Saturdays.

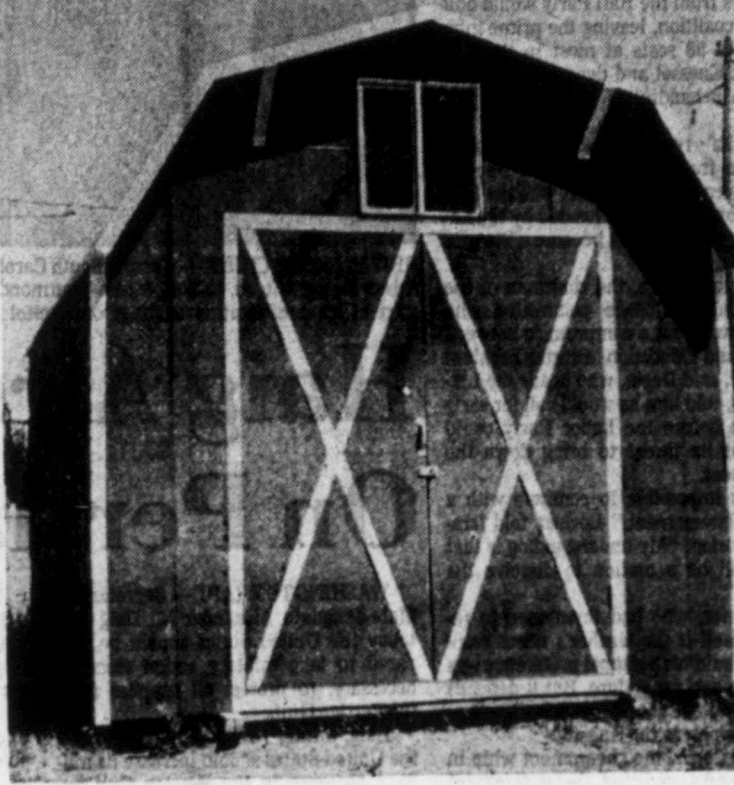

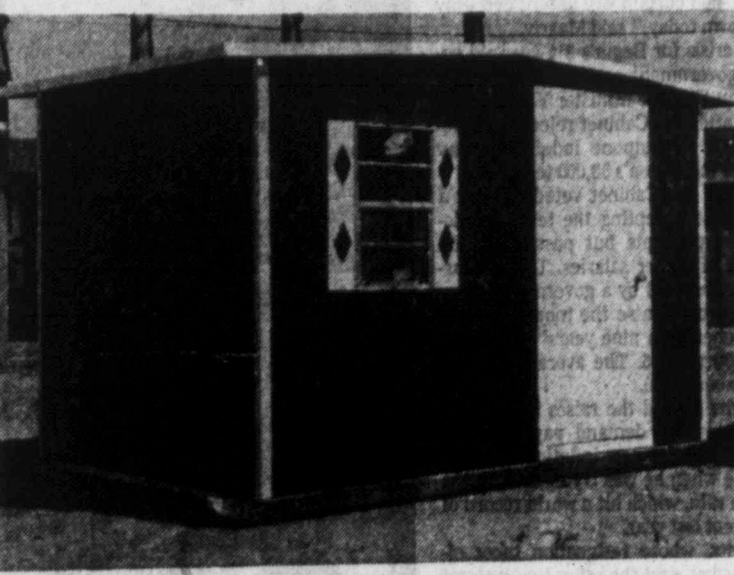

Dura' Bilt units, manufactured in Lubbock, include such features as: Top grade lumber for superior strength and durability. Sturdy steel roof, double lapped with a bead mastic sealer to insure against leaks.

Hardboard or Masonite siding including pre-finished which requires no painting and is rot free, available in wide color choices. Skids are treated for long life. There is aluminum trim with baked enamel color.

Maintenance-free aluminum vertical windows with screens are utilized. Glue-coated nails and rubber closures in eaves make Dura' Bilt buildings as leak-free and dust-free as possible. No expensive site preparation is necessary. Units are permanently portable.

Options, Too
Optional features of the buildings include custom-built designs; finished buildings with 3 1/2-in. fiberglass insulation, wood paneling, electrical wiring, carpet, tile or vinyl floor covering; fixed or regular glass windows, open beam or drop ceiling, shingle or composition roof, and modular buildings and on-site construction available.

"Check, Compare"
It is small wonder that owner John Fritz can heartily extend the invitation: "We invite you to critically inspect any Dura' Bilt Portable Building. Compare its appearance, its construction and its cost with any other portable building that approaches Dura' Bilt's level of quality. We are convinced you will choose Dura' Bilt with pride and satisfaction."

VERSATILE, PRACTICAL, AND ON SALE

Whether the need is a barn, lake cabin, well house, office, garage, add-a-room, backyard storage, hobby shop, guard house or other, Dura' Bilt either has the unit in stock or will custom design to fit your needs.

Briercroft Dance/Gymnastics Academy Providing Extensive Class Program

A tremendous program in dance and gymnastics is offered at the Briercroft Academy of Dance & Gymnastics, 50th & Q, phone 747-5850, with enrollment now being taken. Classes are resuming for the Spring Semester, and preparations are being made for the Spring Dance Revue. Rhythms in Dance, to be held at the Municipal Auditorium on Friday, May 15th. This program will consist of ballet, jazz and tumbling from ages 4 through adults, with a special children's Circus Production.

tion Number and a Jazz Production paying tribute to the Broadway musical, "42nd Street." There are openings at this time at the Briercroft Academy for adult ballet and jazz classes which are held once a week, it is pointed out. Wide Program
 The Dance Studio is under direction of Janis Geddes, artistic director of the Academy, in her 18th year there. The gymnastics programs, for all ages, are under direction of Linda Laceywell and Mac Laceywell, recognized leaders in their field. Elsie Jackson is business administrator of the 16-year-old Academy, marking 10 years of service here. Elsie, Janis, Linda and Mac are glad to explain all aspects and opportunities of courses at the Academy. In the gymnastics, classroom programs for all ages are afforded... kindergarten for tots that are walking to 3 years, with mother participation. Classroom activity starts with the 3-5 year range, with special equipment provided. All classroom children are invited to shows and tumbling meets throughout the year. Some of these shows are half-time at basketball games, at nursing homes and at the Arts Festival in the Civic Center. New class time for this semester 3-5 year-olds is 2:45-4: with school age at 4:50-5:30. This has been arranged because of busing, some students get home later. Also there are morning and late classes for working mothers. Competition teams include Class IV, III, II, and I. The teams travel throughout the state and region and in past years have proven to be one of the most successful teams in the West Texas area, winning honors in local, state and regional competition. Mac and Linda are head coaches for the competition teams, with Linda and her coaching staff handling the classroom program. They have many years experience, attend clinics and workshops, and stay abreast of new techniques of the sport. They offer the child a clean, safe environment for all levels activity. Janis likewise attends workshops throughout the nation, continuing her studies in ballet and latest jazz techniques. It is a highly qualified staff at Briercroft Academy of Dance & Gymnastics, 50th & Q, phone 747-5850. The achievements of its students reflects this quality.

Pauline's Sportswear No. 1 Unveils January Clearance

January Clearance begins today at Pauline's Sportswear No. 1 (at 312 University in the Town & Country Shopping Center). This means that every dress in stock is marked at a full one-half off! One can select from a very good choice of in-season wear. One group of skirts is marked at 30 per cent off for the sale. And there's a group of pants priced one-third to one-half off. Some sweaters and velour tops are still in stock, and these are drastically reduced to 50 per cent to 75 per cent off! Also... if one mentions this Pauline's Sportswear No. 1 announcement in the Avalanche-Journal, another full $1 off is given on any purchase during the sale!

with 12 new styles presented. Belts are going to be very popular this spring. Pauline's No. 1 prides in its wide size range, with a full line of junior dress sizes 3-13, a great assortment of misses dresses, sizes 6-20, and even a full choice in queen size dresses, sizes 14 1/2-24 1/2. Great for gifting the year around, for all the special occasions, are the purses, ceramics and afghans available through the store. The crocheted afghans and purses are made by Mrs. Affanell Patterson, mother of store owner Kathy Wagner; and the ceramics are by Dortha Woodard. Master Charge and Visa purchases are welcomed. No "seconds" are stocked, and this probably is surprising to some when the modest prices are considered. A low overhead, involving family operation of the store, the location out of the high-traffic area, volume buying power, careful buying and other factors make for exceptional savings. In the same location for 13 years, Pauline's Sportswear No. 1 for over two years has been under its present ownership of Kathy and Darrell Wagner, ably assisted in operation by Mrs. Patterson.

There's still more: Layaways are welcomed, even on the sale merchandise! Everything possible is being done to move the present stock to make room for the spring arrivals already coming in. (Now would be a good time to lay away for spring.)

Great Belt Selection
 A new line of belts has been added,

Begin Favors Early Elections In Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin said today he favors early elections, making it virtually certain that Israelis will go to the polls in June instead of November.

"The tendency by most of the ministers was for early elections. This is also my position," Begin told reporters after a special Cabinet meeting, called after the resignation of his finance minister Sunday stripped the Begin coalition of its majority in the Knesset, or Parliament.

Begin's ministers were to consult with their parties before convening another Cabinet meeting Tuesday or Wednesday to reach a final decision on elections, officials said.

If new elections are ordered, Begin would remain the chief of a caretaker administration until the new Knesset met and approved a new government.

The newspaper Maariv said Begin's advisers urged the adoption of legislation dissolving the Parliament and advancing the November election of a new legislature to June.

The opposition Labor Party, which is favored to win the election, said it would introduce the legislation if the government didn't.

"The last curtain will almost certainly come down today," said Maariv.

The crisis for Begin's 3½-year-old coalition government came to a head Sunday when Finance Minister Yigael Hurvitz quit after the Cabinet rejected his demand that it postpone indefinitely pay raises for the nation's 58,000 teachers.

Instead, the Cabinet voted 11-2 for a compromise accepting the teachers' demands in principle but postponing the payment of higher salaries. The increases, recommended by a government commission, would raise the monthly salary of a teacher with nine years' experience from $480 to $546. The average Israeli's wage is about $630.

Hurvitz argued the raises would spur other groups to demand pay increases that would fuel a new inflationary spiral at a time when he was trying to curb the inflation rate, which hit a world record of 131 percent last year.

Hurvitz, whose resignation takes effect Tuesday, said the other two Knesset members from the Rafi Party would bolt Begin's coalition, leaving the prime minister with 58 seats at most in the 120-member Knesset and dependent for survival on a handful of independent parties.

Hurvitz' resignation was the sixth defection from Begin's Cabinet since it took power in June 1977. It was the first Israeli government not headed by the Labor Party since Israel became a state in 1948.

Shlomo Lorincz, the chairman of the parliamentary finance committee who tried to work out a compromise between Hurvitz and Education Minister Zevulun Hammer, said Begin, who heads the Likud Party, told him he would call for early elections before the Labor Party could carry out its threat to bring down the government.

"It is impossible to continue with a limping government," Lorincz told Israeli Television. "My understanding is that there will be a motion to dissolve the Knesset."

Hammer, who had threatened to resign himself if the teacher's raises were blocked, said his personal preference was "that the cabinet endure. But it depends on whether the government can get honorable support in the Knesset."

Haim Corfu, the government whip in the Knesset, predicted the government could survive Hurvitz' walkout and said there was no need for Begin to resign or call for an early election. But he said he thought early elections were likely, adding, "There were governments that resigned over much less honorable issues than this."

All public opinion polls indicate the Labor Party will win a major victory in the next election, but the large percentage of undecided voters makes definite predictions impossible.

Begin was reported under pressure from hardliners in his Cabinet to hold on to power as long as possible so the government could complete its controversial program of settling Jews in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

The hawks, headed by Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon, fear a Labor government will halt Jewish settlement of the West Bank and will trade parts of it for peace with Jordan, paving the way for creation of a Palestinian state.

Meanwhile, a parliamentary committee posed another problem for the Begin government today when it voted to strip Religions Minister Aharon Abu-Hateira of his parliamentary immunity, clearing the way for his trial on bribery charges.

The House Committee of Parliament voted 144 with 3 abstentions. The full Knesset is to vote Tuesday and is expected to ratify the committee's decision.

Abu-Hateira, addressing the committee before it voted, said he did not mind losing his immunity because he wanted to stand trial and prove that the charges against him are "a political libel."

Salvador's Junta Retains Control

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Government troops claimed firm control of this Central American nation today, despite reports of scattered fighting against leftist guerrillas. Salvadorans, ignoring a leftist call for a general strike, went to their jobs, and businesses in the capital opened as usual.

Leftist guerrillas said weekend attacks, in which at least 100 people were killed, were their "final offensive" against El Salvador's moderate junta, but most of the dead apparently were guerrillas. The army acknowledged eight soldiers killed and eight wounded.

There was some shooting overnight in parts of the capital but no reports of casualties. Scattered fighting was reported in the interior, mostly to the north and east of the capital in San Vicente and Morazan provinces.

Military sources denied published reports that the towns of Santa Clara and San Esteban Catarina in San Vicente had fallen to leftist forces.

On Sunday the government imposed martial law, including a 7 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew, giving troops the right to shoot anybody on the street during the curfew who does not stop when ordered to do so.

A Sunday night broadcast on the national radio network said people who had to go out in emergencies could call the national guard and would be transported in Red Cross or Green Cross ambulances.

Constitutional guarantees have been suspended here since a state of emergency was decreed last March.

"You can see that the extreme leftist guerrillas did all they could do to make this their final offensive and they have failed," junta President Jose Napoleon Duarte told a news conference Sunday night.

The guerrillas announced their "final offensive" in weekend broadcasts from several commandeered radio stations and urged the public to support them by joining in a general strike today, but many Salvadorans ignored the call, packing public transportation in the capital on their way to work this morning.

One "Radio Liberation" broadcast said the guerrillas controlled at least 10 places around the country.

The Revolutionary Democratic Front, an umbrella organization representing most of the nation's largest leftist groups, said a provisional government and a "new army" would be established, but did not say when or where.

Guerrilla spokesmen recently vowed to topple the junta before the inauguration Jan. 20 of President-elect Ronald Reagan, who the leftists believe may provide the government with additional arms and aid to fight them. The leftists have promised "final offensives" in the past but there has been little or no violence from the day-to-day political violence that took an estimated 9,500 lives last year.

While claiming to control virtually all of the country, the government admitted its troops were still battling "a few small pockets" of guerrilla resistance.

One of the sharpest exchanges in the capital occurred in the slum district of Mejicanos.

County Bids For Court Of Appeals

office building adjacent to the court-house possibly could be used to house an appellate court. Federal revenue sharing funds possibly could be used to renovate that courtroom, he said.

"I think we would have the resources for it," Shaw said.

The area to be served by the appellate court, if it is approved by the Legislature, probably would extend to north of Hale County and southward to possibly include Gaines County. Brock said. He noted that Gaines County attorneys currently must travel to El Paso for appeals hearings.

The bar association plans to seek support of local legislators to push the court proposal through the Legislature.

Brock said support for the proposal also is being sought from Gov. Bill Clements.

In other business, commissioners passed a resolution thanking U.S. Rep. Kent Hance for delaying an Internal Revenue Service ruling that could have cost the county as much as half a million dollars in interest this year.

The IRS ruling would have prevented banks from listing interest paid to government agencies as tax deductions.

Through Hance's efforts, the ruling will not go in effect until at least May. Commissioners urged the Lubbock congressman to continue legislative efforts to have the ruling changed.

The ruling would have declared the interest earnings from state government certificates of deposit not deductible by banks if the CDs are secured by pledges of municipal tax exempt bonds.

City Finance Director Robert Masenale told City Council members last week the ruling would wreck the market for tax-exempt municipal bonds.

At 1:30 p.m. today, commissioners were scheduled to meet with Sheriff D.L. "Sonny" Keese to discuss more than $27,000 in budget increases the new sheriff has requested.

Truck Leaves Trail Of Nails

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) — A truck driver spilled most of his inch-long roofing nails on the San Diego Freeway and continued on his way, leaving in his trail more than 100 vehicles with punctured tires and a pack of irate motorists.

One driver found nine nails in a single tire and a company reported tire damage to 50 vans it uses for employee car pools along the freeway.

California Highway Patrolmen Friday said the nails spilled for a quarter mile along all lanes of the freeway.

One motorcycle rider spun out in the mess and suffered minor injuries. There were several other traffic accidents and cars were lined up for six miles for over two hours.

"People were trading names and license numbers all over the place," officer Gary Keller said.

East Battles Cold Wave, Fuel Problems

A—J News Services

The frozen East got another blast of frigid arctic air today, sending temperatures to more record lows from Florida to Maine in a winter that will be talked about for years.

The mercury was below zero across most of the northeastern fourth of the nation, including portions of the Ohio Valley, with Old Forge in the Adirondacks of New York reporting in at 43 below.

It was cold enough to jam the Cape Cod Canal with ice floes, cold enough to freeze parts of Chesapeake Bay, cold enough to threaten citrus crops in Florida and cold enough to drive hundreds of New Yorkers out of their heatless apartments into temporary shelters.

The National Weather Service said nearly two dozen cities from West Palm Beach, Fla., to Worcester, Mass., set new cold records for Jan. 12.

Among those reporting record sub-zero temperatures were Beckley, W.Va., -3; Harrisburg, Pa., -4; Hartford, Conn., -14; Newark, N.J., -1; Providence, R.I., -8; Williamsport, Pa., -12.

The citrus crops in northern Florida had a rough night with readings in the 20s, but winds probably prevented extensive damage to the fruit. Citrusmen were braced for a second assault tonight.

"We're kind of worried about tonight," said Ed Dean, controller of the Florida Citrus Mutual in Bartow.

The cold enveloped much of the eastern part of the United States as arctic air extended south to the Gulf Coast and northern Florida. In parts of the nation where the cold is an unexpected visitor, dipping temperatures brought tragedy and alarm.

But the Southwest continued to escape wintry January weather, although clouds and drizzle moved into West Texas and much of New Mexico.

Rainy weather will hang over Lubbock and the South Plains today and Tuesday, with a 20 percent chance of precipitation both days.

Temperatures will be in the low 50s today, near 30 tonight and in the mid-50s Tuesday.

Haig Airs Tough Views On Persian Gulf Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State-designate Alexander M. Haig said today the United States should be prepared to take military action alone, if necessary, to protect oil supplies from the Persian Gulf.

Haig, former NATO commander, said the United States should increase its military presence in the Persian Gulf because it cannot count on NATO to extend its defense role to the region.

He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the third day of his confirmation hearings that the United States must continue to "develop consensus" among its allies to protect oil supplies.

"Were that not to occur, I believe as a nation we must be prepared to act even unilaterally to ensure access to these vital interests," Haig testified.

Haig declined to take a position on whether the United States should try to establish bases in the gulf area, but said: "I think an increased presence by the United States military is necessary in the period ahead."

On other issues, Haig said the United States should maintain its support of South Korea, which he said had rebuilt its economy, but declined to take a position on whether America should sell sophisticated F-16 jet fighters to Taiwan.

When Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., asked whether Haig would support the plane sale, Haig replied, "If you had said defensive aircraft I would feel more easy." He reserved any further comment, except to say the United States already is obliged to supply Taiwan with defensive military equipment.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., the committee chairman, said the Republican majority on the panel hopes to complete action Wednesday on the Haig nomination.

The path to quick action on President-elect Ronald Reagan's choice of Haig was cleared under a Senate compromise that also threatens to keep Watergate smoldering after he is sworn in.

Under the compromise, Percy issued a subpoena Sunday night for logs and the index to 100 hours of taped conversations between Haig and then-President Richard M. Nixon in mid-1973.

Senate confirmation hearings began today on two other Cabinet nominations, New Jersey construction executive Raymond Donovan as labor secretary and former South Carolina Gov. James B. Edwards as energy secretary.

The Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee released documents indicating that a Teamsters Union local in New York placed a "ghost" — who is paid but does not show up for work — on the payroll of Donovan's construction company for seven months ended in mid-1978 "as a price for labor peace."

It was not immediately known if Donovan, who did not refer to the documents in a briefing opening statement, knew of the alleged arrangement.

Edwards testified that "we need to sustain and increase our use of nuclear power." He said the workings of the marketplace were more important in meeting the country's energy needs than regulations, which he said should be reviewed to determine which are "necessary, valuable, appropriate and cost-effective."

Republicans on the Foreign Relations Committee agreed to subpoena the index so the committee can determine whether any of the tapes themselves are relevant to Haig's suitability for the top State Department job. In return, Democrats agreed not to delay his confirmation hearings.

The deal cleared the way for Haig to be confirmed by the Senate as soon as President-elect Ronald Reagan is inaugurated Jan. 20.

While Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker noted there "is no way you can undo a confirmation," the Democrats presumably would try to force Haig's resignation if the tapes turned up proof of illegal conduct.

The tapes, covering May 4 to July 18, 1973, include a June 4 conversation in which Haig, as White House chief of staff in the climactic days of Watergate, advised Nixon he could answer questions by saying "you just can't recall" details.

In his opening statement Friday, Haig denied he was telling Nixon to "pretend not to recall something." Rather, Haig said, he was advising Nixon to review the facts instead of relying on his memory.

Court Order's Impact In City Still Clouded

By LISA PAIKOWSKI

When the call for expanded bilingual education in the state goes out to local school districts, Lubbock will be ready — but only if the programs do not extend beyond the elementary grades.

Federal Judge Wayne Justice today ruled that Texas must beef up its bilingual education offerings, but the extent of his order will not be known until attorneys in the lawsuit contesting the current state bilingual program present plans to remedy it.

Currently, bilingual education for limited English-speaking students is mandated in grades kindergarten through three. If the new plan calls for programs in all of the elementary grades, the Lubbock school district can comply with the order fairly easily, said Lucy Gutierrez, director of bilingual education here.

She explained that federal Title VII funds already provide bilingual classes for students in grades kindergarten through six in five "target" schools here. Those five schools are in predominantly Mexican-American areas of the city.

This is the last year the federal funds will continue to support that expanded program, she said, but the Lubbock school district will continue to provide the teachers and the district will keep the materials the federal monies provided.

So, in the target schools, "we're pre-ty well set," she said, adding that even if programs were mandated for all schools through sixth grade, Lubbock already will know how to set them up. "Ours are already under way."

Mrs. Gutierrez said required bilingual education will be more of a problem for other cities that never have had programs beyond the third grade. "But we knew we had to have them (the programs) in other grade levels for some students."

But a problem could arise if bilingual education is mandated even beyond the elementary grades. In fact, the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund has asked Justice to order bilingual programs all the way through the 12th grade. Such a move would be in direct opposition to the philosophy held by Lubbock educators that bilingual education should be a transitional, not a maintenance program.

Mrs. Gutierrez said the goal of the Lubbock bilingual program is to absorb limited English-speaking children into the mainstream after intensive bilingual studies through the third grade. Some students will need bilingual education beyond that point, but they should not need it all through their school years, she said.

In spite of Justice's lambasting of the state bilingual program, Mrs. Gutierrez said the bilingual plan here "has been very adequate. It has taken time and there still are changes to be made, but we're meeting the needs of the students."

ceived in love, isn't it," Montford intoned.

"Yes, sir, we love each other," Alexander replied.

Mrs. Hill has been jailed in Lubbock for several weeks on a charge of providing implements for escape after allegedly smuggling a gun into the jail on the presumption that Alexander could use it to escape.

The gun was discovered by another inmate, Frederick Michael Myers, who used the weapon on himself.

Holder has subpoenaed as a prospective witness Lubbock's Trinity Church layman Ken Meeks, who is expected to testify that he helped Alexander find God in the Lubbock County Jail. Meeks baptized the young Lorenzo man behind jail walls in November.

But it could take as long as a week to 10 days before any testimony is heard in the case. Observers have speculated that jury selection — considered crucial to this case — will be a time-consuming process.

Dunbar-Struggs Seeking To Boost Recruitment

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Dunbar-Struggs magnet complex was a trendsetter providing a unique approach to education in Lubbock in 1978. But a year later, LEAP, the Lubbock High School exemplary program came along and the spotlight was on the new kid in town.

Now Dunbar-Struggs and district school officials are hoping to redirect some of the public's attention to the high school that was a key tool in the revival of desegregation here.

"Our advertising is low and recruitment is low," said Martha May, counselor at Dunbar-Struggs. "So many other things have been developing and LEAP (Lubbock Exemplary Academic Program) was one of those that shifted some of the emphasis."

School officials, she said, are counting on the assistance of counselors and teachers at other schools to drum up support for the magnet school. In addition,

Mike Bennett, public relations coordinator for the district is in the process of developing a pamphlet on the Dunbar-Struggs program.

But school officials do not resent the attention paid LEAP, nor do they feel Dunbar-Struggs courses are in competition with the special offerings at Lubbock High, Mrs. May said. The competition, she explained is for advertising, not necessarily for students.

In fact, she said, the students drawn to Lubbock High LEAP courses are not always the same students who would be interested in the Dunbar-Struggs curriculum. But she recognizes that publicity is needed to keep interest in a project alive. And in the case of Dunbar-Struggs, that interest is imperative because the magnet set-up is required through the federal court integration order.

Although the student population has lagged only slightly, Mrs. May said the school particularly is in need of students interested in fine arts courses. "We're not attracting the new students in those classes," she said.

Fine arts classes include advanced watercolor painting and commercial art for career-minded art students and a jazz-rock laboratory for serious musicians. Piano labs also are offered for beginner and advanced students.

Mrs. May admitted there has been an emphasis on the vocational courses at Dunbar-Struggs, but "it's not just a vocational high school," she said, adding that she does not believe recruitment in that area has hindered recruitment for the other classes.

School officials also understand they still are fighting a reputation held by some that Dunbar-Struggs is still the "ghetto" black school and is located in a dangerous part of town. "We run into that problem," said Dunbar-Struggs principal Roy Roberts.

In fact, the school now has more Anglo students, although the minority population at about 58 percent still outnumbers the Anglo enrollment which stands at about 42 percent.

The only way that inaccurate reputation can be dispelled, Mrs. May said, is through publicity and visits to the school by parents and students.

She noted that Dunbar-Struggs can offer "special and unique things" to Lubbock high school students, including individualized attention because of a small student-teacher ratio and an improved chance for leadership because of the small school population.

"It's smaller and more intimate," she said, adding that "All of our students know the principal. We have an unusually concerned faculty."

She added that the same academic curriculum as that at the other high schools is offered and "standards are just as high."

Students who have transferred to Dunbar-Struggs generally have not regretted their decision, she said. "We have no problem winning their hearts."

She said many of the commuter students hold student offices and are involved in other extracurricular activities. She suggested that students interested in attending Dunbar-Struggs next semester (which begins Monday) or next fall can check with school counselors about the program.

Also, she said parents and students are welcome to visit the school and its personnel anytime. Visitors can make an appointment, "but I don't want to give the impression we have to clean up our act. They can come any time."

Vehicle Rams House; Teen Shot

By RICHIE REECER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

LEVELLAND — A 71-year-old Levelled man shot and killed a teen-ager in his living room Sunday morning after the youth allegedly drove a pickup truck into the man's house and began beating his 63-year-old wife.

The 16-year-old Levelled boy died about 7:30 a.m. at Cook Memorial Hospital here after suffering a single gunshot wound to the upper chest, according to Levelled Police Chief Ted Holder.

The youth was fatally wounded about 7:15 a.m. after a late-model Ford pickup he was driving crashed through the living room wall of the elderly couple's home.

When police arrived at the residence, they found a Mexican-American youth lying on the living room floor and the pickup "all the way inside" the room, Holder said.

The vehicle, which had been reported stolen earlier in Smyer, was eastbound on Eighth Street when it ran through a stop sign at West Avenue, according to police reports.

The driver then swerved to the right to avoid hitting another car, traveled across West Avenue and crashed into the house, police said.

The driver got out of the vehicle and was confronted by the woman. He then allegedly began striking the woman on the head and face, Holder said.

The woman's husband entered the room, and the youth "turned on him," police said. The man then fired a single shot from his .357-magnum revolver, wounding the teen-ager in the chest.

The woman suffered a severe laceration on the back of her head when she fell during the scuffle, Holder said. She also received other bruises and cuts on her face and arms during the assault.

The man and woman both were admitted to Cook Memorial Hospital for observation Sunday morning and later were released.

No arrests were made, and Holder said the case probably will be submitted to the Hockley County Grand Jury for its consideration.

Authorities took into custody two boys, ages 14 and 15, who reportedly were with the other teen-ager when they stole the pickup. Police said they were led to the youths' Levelled residences about 9 p.m. Sunday.

Holder said the vehicle was reported stolen about 4 a.m. at Smyer. Sheriff's deputies and Levelled police had pursued the pickup after the theft, but the driver eluded them.

The vehicle was not being pursued when it struck the couple's home, Holder said.

Private Rites Scheduled For Actor Richard Boone

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gruff, craggy-faced Richard Boone, who inspired a spate of Western dandy TV heroes when he starred as the sophisticated, card-carrying hired gunslinger of "Have Gun, Will Travel," will be cremated and memorialized at private services, officials say.

Boone, who died Saturday of throat cancer at the age of 63, once said he couldn't understand why he was frequently cast in movies as a menacing outlaw, such as John Wayne's adversary in "Big Jake" and "The Shootist."

Beulah Bondi Dead At 92

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Character actress Beulah Bondi, who made a career out of playing cantankerous or kindly old ladies, died Sunday at the Motion Picture and Television Country House and Hospital. She was 92.

Miss Bondi was admitted to the hospital 11 days ago for treatment of broken ribs she suffered in a fall at home. A hospital spokeswoman said her death was due to pulmonary complications.

For one of her more recent appearances, on a 1977 segment of "The Waltons," she won an Emmy Award.

Local Woman Found Dead At Residence

Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalock today was withholding a ruling in the death of a 62-year-old Lubbock woman who was found at her house shot once in the chest.

Camille Hogan Molioveczek was pronounced dead at the scene of her 2208 40th St. residence about 8:30 a.m. today after she was found sprawled on her kitchen floor. A handgun was found next to the body.

Blalock said he estimated the woman died Wednesday afternoon.

Government Warns Against Cigarette Additives

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With scientists divided over whether health risks to smokers are reduced by using cigarettes low in tar and nicotine, the government today warned additives in those same products may cause cancer.

Surgeon General Julius Richmond, in his annual report on smoking, said evidence shows less tar reduces the risk of lung cancer, but not necessarily of tumors, heart, lung or pre-natal disease.

He also warned additives that enhance the flavor and taste of cigarettes low in tar and nicotine may cause cancer, but said a conclusive judgment cannot be made because the industry is not required to identify the additives.

"Some additives available for use are either known or suspect carcinogens or give rise to carcinogenic substances when burned," Richmond said. "The use of these additives may negate beneficial effects of the reduced tar yield, or might pose increased or new and different disease risks."

With the additive threat unknown, he said, "the tar yield of cigarettes currently being manufactured probably cannot be used as a precise measure of current smoke exposure risk, nor can it be compared quantitatively with the smoke exposure risk of older higher tar cigarettes."

William Toohy Jr. of The Tobacco Institute, an industry trade group, called the report "markedly candid in pointing out the lack of knowledge about and needs for scientific research on major diseases which have been statistically associated with smoking."

He called it "more moderate in tone" than previous reports and said the industry is spending millions of dollars on research in areas Richmond discussed.

Since 1968, the average tar content of cigarettes has dropped 32.2 percent, Richmond reported. But he said machines used to test cigarettes may not adequately measure the harmful substances smokers inhale.

Richmond said the smoking segment of the population has dropped from 40 percent to 32.5 percent since 1964. One-third of all smokers use low-tar cigarettes in the belief they are less harmful, he said.

In testimony to Congress in 1966, federal researchers concluded lower levels of tar in cigarettes generally lessened damage to a smoker's health. There was not enough evidence to apply the findings to specific diseases.

That broad conclusion helped create a widespread assumption that smokers who could not or would not quit were better off with a low-tar product.

But Richmond said studies show that assumption is correct only in pertaining to lung cancer. There is no evidence less tar cuts down on other illnesses, including heart disease that kills the largest number of smokers.

"It is not clear what reductions in risk may occur in the case of diseases other than lung cancer. The evidence in the case of cardiovascular (heart) disease is too limited to warrant a conclusion, nor is there enough information on which to base a judgment in the case of chronic obstructive lung disease," he said.

"In the case of smoking's effects on the fetus and the newborn, there is no evidence that changing to a lower tar and nicotine cigarette has any effect at all in reducing risk."

Richmond added there is no evidence "to prove or disprove a decreased occurrence of cancers of other sites in humans who smoke low-tar and nicotine cigarettes."

But he said evidence shows smokers who use filtered cigarettes run a lower risk of cancer of the larynx than those who do not.

Marrow Donor Not Related To Recipient

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A British mother of five, the chief weapon in a battle to save the 10-month-old victim of an often fatal bone disease, left England today en route to Cleveland, where she will donate marrow for a first-time transplant.

Sylvia Smith, 31, of London, was expected to arrive late today and will undergo a week of testing before a Jan. 20 operation to remove about a half-pint of bone marrow from her hips. The marrow will be injected into Kamran Fazili of Williamsville, N.Y., who suffers from infantile malignant osteopetrosis.

Dr. Peter F. Coccia, acting director of pediatric hematology at Rainbow Babies' and Children's Hospital, said it will be the first time such a procedure has involved a donor who is not related to the receiver.

Mrs. Smith's bone marrow was matched to the baby boy's through the Anthony Nolan Bone Marrow Transplantation Registry in England.

Coccia performed the first successful bone marrow transplant for osteopetrosis — also known as marble bone disease — in Minnesota in 1978. The patient, who was then 5 months old, received a transplant from a sibling and is still healthy.

"We're doing something that hasn't been done before," the doctor said. "Some people might even say that what we're doing is outlandish, but I think the chances (of the boy's survival) are a hell of a lot better than if we did nothing."

Kamran Fazili's parents are both physicians who came to the United States from India about 10 years ago. The illness was diagnosed when the child was 3 months old, and the case was then referred to Coccia.

Doctors tested the immediate family, including one sibling and relatives in India, as possible donors, but there were no matches suitable for transplant.

"Because this baby's disease is fatal and the progression is rapid, we knew that it was imperative that we begin an immediate search for an unrelated donor," said Coccia.

The registry has on file 37,000 volunteer donors who have agreed to travel anywhere for transplants, but this will be the first time a member of the registry has gone overseas.

Mrs. Smith, a first-time donor, said, "I'm getting a bit frightened ... sort of like butterflies in my stomach."

Marble bone disease is characterized by bones that are so dense there are no spaces in them for the production of marrow. Severe anemia, increased infection risk and bleeding result from lack of marrow production.

As the disorder progresses, it causes blindness and deafness because the bones in the skull press on the cranial nerves. Death usually occurs in infancy or early childhood.

Prison Drug Test Records Missing

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Records detailing the 1967 Holmesburg Prison drug experiments with a dangerous component of the herbicide Agent Orange have reportedly vanished, along with the identities and fate of inmates who were guinea pigs.

The Philadelphia Inquirer said Sunday the Environmental Protection Agency has been searching in vain for the prisoners used in experiments with dioxin, a powerful suspected carcinogen.

Described by a Harvard University biochemist as possibly "the most powerful carcinogen known," dioxin was part of many herbicides, particularly Agent Orange, a defoliant used during the Vietnam War which some veterans blame for genetic defects in their children and deadly brain tumors.

Under a $10,000 contract from Dow Chemical Co., Dr. Albert Kligman, a University of Pennsylvania dermatologist, conducted experiments on Holmesburg prisoners to determine a minimum safe dose of dioxin, public testimony in November 1979 revealed.

Testimony also showed Kligman used Holmesburg prisoners for tests of mind-control and skin-hardening drugs from 1964 to 1968 under a contract between Penn and the U.S. Army, the Inquirer said. Earlier in 1979, the newspaper reported Kligman used inmates for drug tests commissioned by the CIA.

Kligman, 64, was unavailable at his home or office for comment.

The newspaper said Kligman, prison and city officials and spokesmen for Dow Chemical Co., which manufactured dioxin, have told the EPA Records that could identify the prisoners involved in the dioxin tests "no longer exist."

charges of defrauding federal agencies.

In 1971, a federal grand jury indicted the Rev. Philip Berrigan and five other people, including a nun and two other priests, on charges of plotting to kidnap then presidential adviser Henry Kissinger.

In 1976, the U.N. Security Council voted 11-to-1 to seat the Palestine Liberation Organization for its debate on the Middle East. The United States cast the only dissenting vote.

GENERAL MOTORS

Earl Scudday Now It's Next Year

INCONSISTENCY HAS BEEN the trademark of the Dallas Cowboys this season, so perhaps it was inevitable that they would stumble somewhere on that long, rocky road leading to the Super Bowl. There was no way, really, that the 'Pokes could come out breathing fire and doing everything right for four games in a row.

Earlier this year, Dallas coach Tom Landry remarked that the odds would be against the wild-card teams because of the extra game involved. Sure enough, the Cowboys lost two defensive regulars — linebacker Mike Hegman and free safety Randy Hughes — in that battle for survival against the Los Angeles Rams. Hegman was a key man and might have been able to stop some of those runs by the Eagles' Wilbert Montgomery Sunday in that outdoor deep freeze at Philadelphia.

We never will know. But little Wilbert ran for miles through the area where inexperienced Guy Brown was subbing for Hegman. Oakland overcame the obstacles as a wild-card entry to reach the Big One, true. The Raiders also had a better defense all year than the Cowboys and did not have the ups and downs in performance that plagued the 'Pokes. The Oakland bruisers are going to be tough at New Orleans, for sure!

EVEN WITH A MEDIUM linebacking corps and an epidemic of sloppy tackling, the Dallas defense played well enough to win for the first three quarters. The Eagles were making lots of yardage, but not many points. The Philadelphia made a quick six on the second play of the game, then couldn't buy another score as their kicking game misfired and the 'Pokes got tough on their own goal line.

It was ironic that rookie James Jones, who helped the Cowboys so much this season with his gutsy kick returns, was the first to falter and open the door for an Eagle victory. His fumble on a punt return in the third quarter gave the Eagles field position and a new surge of enthusiasm.

Then when Tony Dorsett continued to play drop-the-ball, the Cowboys had no chance at all.

QUARTERBACK DANNY WHITE is going to get some criticism for his performance, too. Not so much for what he did, but for what he did not do. He didn't make a disastrous mistake, but he didn't make any really great plays, either.

Danny cannot be blamed for his fumble when blind-sided by an Eagle defender, and it certainly was not his fault that receivers — especially Dorsett — kept dropping the ball. But he didn't show the type of leadership that can rally the troops in the face of adversity, and those soft lobbs of his risked interception time and again.

The important factor now is how Landry evaluated Danny's performance, for the game and for the season. If Landry still thinks No. 11 is his quarterback for the 1980s, then second-teamer Glenn Carano probably will ask to be traded.

But if Landry has doubts about White, then he may put the job up for grabs at training camp next summer.

IT IS A SHAME, from a Dallas viewpoint, that the season had to end in cold and windy Veterans Stadium. The 1980 Cowboys achieved a lot, under difficult circumstances. Just six months ago, none of the pro grid experts thought the 'Pokes would be competing for the NFC championship in January.

Remember the remark by a Washington assistant coach last March when Cowboy superstar Roger Staubach retired? "They (the Cowboys) are just like us, now!" he chortled.

Well, not exactly. The Redskins bombed out and their coach got fired, while the Cowboys were winning 12 regular-season games and two rounds in the playoffs.

The biggest disappointment for Dallas was losing to the doggy New York Giants at midseason. That was the tilt where White had five passes intercepted and the 'Pokes literally gave the Giants a 38-35 win.

That awful lapse eventually cost the Cowboys their NFC East crown and the home-field advantage in the playoffs.

THE SEASON IS OVER for the Cowboys, but the top men in the organization soon will be back at the ol' drawing board getting ready for next year, which really is this year. After a brief vacation, the coaches will break down all the game films and analyze plays and performance.

Landry will make a complete evaluation of his players and assistant coaches, too, and no one is spared. There could be some changes before next July.

While Landry is not one to reveal his inner thoughts, he has to be concerned about the Cowboys. He tried hard to rebuild the defense to a championship level this year, but fell short. His lads never did really shut down a major foe.

The 'Pokes need to draft a couple of quality young defensive players, but picking 25th will not give them a shot at the household names. Landry may have to gamble on some unknowns with potential.

Landry is confident his young cornerbacks, Steve Wilson and Aaron Mitchell, will continue to improve. If Hughes and Charlie Waters return in good condition, then the defensive secondary should not be the problem it was this season.

OFFENSIVELY, THE BIG questions concern White and Ron Springs, who did not set the NFL ablaze at fullback. Landry must now decide whether to leave Ron, a tremendously talented runner and pass-catcher, at that position or move him back to tailback with Dorsett.

White, as mentioned earlier, may face a challenge from Carano. But that is six months away. Right now the disappointment of the loss to the Eagles grips the whole Dallas organization.

To come so close to the big prize, then fall short. Only time can ease that sting.

Razorbacks Refuse Back Seat

By United Press International
The Southwest Conference basketball photo that is emerging in the darkroom this year is starting to look like something pulled out of a time capsule.

It has a very familiar appearance. Just a few years ago, it was, that the Arkansas Razorbacks were the most awesome thing around in these parts — threatening to win a lot more than just the Southwest Conference championship. And it was at the same time that the Houston Cougars, throwing a full-court press at people and running up and down the floor at high speed, were causing headaches as well.

Seems like old times. The Cougars and Razorbacks tangle a week from tonight at Hofheinz Pavilion.

ALLI MENDS FENCE
ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali has settled with a neighbor to his Deer Lake, Pa., training camp who sued him in federal court for cutting down 13 chestnut oaks and Canadian hemlocks on the neighbor's property. Ali settled out of court for $10,000, according to Philadelphia attorney Edward F. Silva, counsel for Wayne R. Platten of rural Orwigsburg, Schuylkill County. Platten claimed the cutting ruined his privacy.

and it is currently the most anxiously awaited event in the Southwest Conference.

"I thought, at times, we were awesome," said Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton after his team had demolished TCU Saturday night in Fayetteville, 85-51. "Early in the game we played as well as we have all year."

Arkansas jumped in front of that one, 29-8. Houston, meanwhile, was blowing opening a close game early in the second half to run away from the suddenly downtrodden Texas Longhorns, 91-71. Sophomore guard Rob Williams scored 40 points.

Houston (3-0) and Arkansas (2-0) were joined by Baylor (2-0) as the only unbeaten teams after the first full week of conference play. Texas Tech, which handed Texas A&M its third straight league loss Saturday night, is 2-1.

Arkansas will have a chance to add some salt to the wounds of the Texas Longhorns (0-3) tonight in Fayetteville. The Longhorns and Razorbacks will meet in a game that will be seen in most large television markets around the country.

The Razorbacks' other game this week will find them traveling to Baylor Saturday afternoon for a regionally televised affair.

And what of Texas A&M — the team that won its first seven and appeared ready to fulfill its pre-season promise? The Aggies have lost five in a row, the last three of them being inside the SWC to TCU, Baylor and Texas Tech.

Aggies' coach Shelby Metcalf, after seeing his team let an eight-point lead slip away against the Red Raiders in the Municipal Coliseum Saturday night, seemed strangely optimistic.

"We played hard and much better," said the A&M coach. "I can live with this."

Plunkett's Star Guides Raiders

SAN DIEGO (AP) — It was, for the most part, the defense which got Jim Plunkett and the rest of the Oakland Raiders as far as the American Conference championship game.

So perhaps it was fitting that Plunkett took the opportunity early Sunday to say to the defense: "Thanks, guys. Take a break."

For a moment, it seemed as though they were taking Plunkett at his word, relaxing a bit too much. For a moment, it seemed that for every bolt of lightning thrown at San Diego, the Chargers would throw one back.

But if the Oakland defense bends a lot, it rarely breaks. And after an instant of agonizing miscalculation, it settled down, bent here and there, gave up points here and there — and held together.

"Our offense did the job in the first half and gave us a nice cushion," linebacker Ted Hendricks said after the

In a season marked by disabling injuries that sat him down for all or part of seven games, Montgomery erased the memories of all the aches and pains Sunday.

He slashed his way to 194 yards and led the Eagles to a 20-7 National Football Conference championship victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

Here were the Eagles, bruised and battered, playing for the championship for the first time against the playoff-toughened Dallas Cowboys. Philadelphia had looked ragged a week ago against weak-sister Minnesota. Dallas looked brilliant against tough Atlanta.

The Cowboys were favored and it seemed no one believed in the Eagles — except themselves.

All week long, coach Dick Vermeil expressed concern about the mental condition of his team. He said he could not read it. But on Saturday, he thought he saw a breakthrough.

"I thought last night you could sense an air of confidence that we could win," said Vermeil. "Today, I felt that the squad just knew it could win. And when you have that kind of confidence and belief ..."

The confidence got a big boost early. On Philadelphia's second play from scrimmage, Montgomery slashed his way 42 yards to a touchdown.

"The play was designed to go through left guard and tackle," he said. "I cut it back to the right and I had a great hole. It's the kind of play you read on the run. The quarterback gives you the ball deep enough to make your move. My first thought was to cut it back."

Tackle Stan Walters knew right then and there that Montgomery was headed for a special day.

"He made a 90-degree cut back," said See COWBOYS FALL, Page 2

Dorsett Accepts Sorry Fate In Wake Of Defeat

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — It wasn't one of his better days and nobody had to tell that to Tony Dorsett. He knew it and said so himself.

"I'll take a lotta blame for this loss," said the Dallas Cowboys' star running

SHORT ON SMILES — Dejected Dallas running back Tony Dorsett sits alone in the dressing room after the Cowboys' 20-7 loss to Philadelphia in the NFC title game Sunday in Veterans Stadium. Dorsett rushed for only 41 yards and was guilty of a key turnover. (AP Laserphoto) back of Sunday's 20-7 NFC championship playoff defeat at the hands of the Philadelphia Eagles. "It'll be something that will be with me a long time."

Dorsett fumbled twice and missed a perfectly thrown fourth-quarter pass by quarterback Danny White that conceivably could have put the Cowboys back in the ball game. His second fumble in the third quarter, with the Eagles in front only 10-7, was scooped up by Philadelphia's All-Pro linebacker, Jerry Robinson, who ran it 22 yards to the Dallas 38. Six plays later, they scored their second touchdown, went ahead, 17-7, and that really was the ball game.

"In my opinion, that fumble was the turning point of the game," Dorsett said. "I'll try to get over it and prepare for the 1981-1982 season because it's over and done with now."

One writer in the crowd around him suggested Dorsett, who was limited to 41 yards in 13 carries, was unnecessarily shouldering too much of the blame for the Cowboys' failure to reach the Super Bowl for a record sixth time. He listened and looked as if he might be tempted to agree.

"I've never had to put it on myself," he said. "I don't know why I'm doing it now. But that fumble was a big play. I'm man enough to stand up to it."

Dorsett's fumble early in the third quarter came after he had taken a pitch into the left side for four yards. Herb Scott, the Cowboys' guard, recovered that one.

But the Cowboys never really recovered after Dorsett dropped White's on-the-money peg to him on third-down-and-three-yards to go with the ball on Philadelphia's 39-yard line early in the final quarter. Dorsett was all by himself on the 32 when he dropped the pass that came not too long after his fatal fumble.

"When you do two back-to-back like that, it hurts the ball club," said the Cowboys' fourth-year speedster. "If I caught the ball, we would've had a first down. I didn't catch the ball. You know how I felt? I felt like using my hands as claws, tearing up the turf and burying myself right then and there."

Dorsett has been playing football for 15 years, ever since he was in the seventh grade, and although Sunday was a bad day for him, it wasn't his worst, he said. "I've had a worse day," he recalled, without specifically naming it. "I like to think of myself as a pressure ballplayer. Today was just one of those days I didn't come through. The thing that hurts most of all is that we were so close to the Super Bowl and now, unfortunately, we'll be at home watching the game on TV."

Standing in front of his locker with a towel draped around his midriff, Dorsett never hung his head talking to newsmen. He was a gracious loser, wishing the Eagles the best of luck in the Super Bowl and paying particular tribute to his opposite number with the Eagles, Wilbert Montgomery, who scored Philadelphia's first touchdown on a 42-yard run less than three minutes after the game started and totaled 194 yards in 26 carries.

"Montgomery had a super day," Dorsett said. "I'm happy for Wilbert. Especially with all the injuries he had this year. He showed me he came to play. He had a great day. I hope he has a great day in the Super Bowl so he can win it for the NFC."

Bergey, Bunting Cherish Victory

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Maybe because he has been with the Philadelphia Eagles seven years now and never made it to the Super Bowl before, you couldn't blame Bill Bergey for feeling he wanted to tell the whole world how good they were.

The Eagles' big, bearded linebacker was anxious for everyone to know it, to share at least some of the inner exhilaration and satisfaction he felt, and the first one his gaze focused on, as he was coming off the field at Veterans Stadium with the rest of Philadelphia's defensive unit during the third quarter of Sunday's NFC championship playoff with the Dallas Cowboys, was their veteran linebacker, D.D. Lewis, trotting onto the turf the other way.

"We got this one today," Bergey called out to Lewis, laughing happily and slipping in the needle a little. "You guys aren't going to the Super Bowl this time."

Lewis' lips tightened.

"Go ahead, celebrate," he said acidly, thinking Bergey might be doing so a bit prematurely, since there was still more than a quarter left to play and the Eagles, who were to be the ultimate winners, 20-7, were up by only three at that point.

Tony Dorsett had fumbled for the Cowboys on the previous play and Jerry Robinson, the Eagles' All-Pro linebacker, had recovered the ball and run it back 22 yards to the Cowboys' 38. Six plays later, the Eagles were to play their lead to 17-7.

John Bunting, another of the Eagles' linebackers, one who made a remarkable comeback with them after undergoing extensive knee surgery in 1978, heard the brief exchange between Bergey and Lewis as he also was coming off the field following Dorsett's fumble.

He had never before spoken to Lewis, for whose ability he has tremendous regard, and at that particular moment he didn't want him to get any kind of misimpression about his buddy, Bergey, whom he knew was only letting off a little natural steam.

"God, this is a crazy game, isn't it?" he said to Lewis.

"That's what makes it so great," answered the Cowboys' 35-year-old linebacker, his voice softening. "That's why I love it."

John Bunting, a 30-year-old native of Portland, Maine who earned his degree in education at the University of North Carolina and played his customary solid game Sunday against the Cowboys, understood Lewis perfectly. He loves the game, too, and like so many of the other Philadelphia players, that's what made the frustration of losing so difficult to bear during a season like 1972, when the Eagles managed to win only two of their 14 games, or in subsequent years when winning four games was the best they could do.

"Even at a time like this, you can't forget those years," Bunting said, reflecting on those depressing times as he sat in one of the cubby holes inside the Eagles' dressing quarters while most of his teammates were celebrating their victory over the Cowboys and their impending first visit ever to the Super Bowl two weeks from now.

Dallas Fans Respond To Heroes' Return

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys left the bitter cold and memories of Philadelphia behind Sunday night and received a warm welcome from 2,500 fans who didn't seem to mind they were 20-7 losers to the Eagles in the National Football Conference title game.

Adults and children — waving banners and pennants and insisting "We're No. 1" — stood for about two hours in 40-degree weather, waiting to greet their heroes at Dallas' Love Field.

Perhaps the youngest well-wisher was 5-year-old Jessica Taylor of Dallas. Perched atop her father's shoulders, blond-haired Jessica clutched a red silk rose that she had brought to give to defensive tackle Randy White.

"I cried when the Cowboys lost," she said. "I cried when they left, too (for Philadelphia Friday afternoon)."

She was unable to present the rose to White, but she gave it to Dallas Cowboys' cheerleader Vicki English, who promised to pass it along.

The players deboarded from their blue and silver chartered jet and went immediately to their families, some acknowledging the noisy, fenced-off crowd.

But Cowboys' president and general manager Tex Schramm, who called the reception "tremendous," walked along the fence, talking with the fans, signing autographs, and doing a bit of cheerleading himself.

Most of the loyalists said they thought the Cowboys had an outstanding year, especially after the retirement loss of quarterback Roger Staubach signalled a rebuilding year.

Security guard Robert Miller's statement that "Danny White did a mighty fine job this year" seemed to capture the fans' sentiments.

Thirteen-year-old Ray Sauseda Jr. had an intriguing theory why Dallas lost its bid for a sixth Super Bowl appearance.

"I think they were just tired of winning," he said. "They wanted to give the Eagles a chance to go to the Super Bowl. Drew Pearson has caught so many passes he's just tired of catching them."

Ray's older sister, Elizabeth, 16, said she lost $50 on the game but didn't care.

"It was worth it to bet $50 on the Cowboys," she said. "I don't care if I lost. I still love the Cowboys."

Troy Martin, 18, Dallas, defended the Cowboys, saying, "They weren't used to the weather ... and I think the blue jerseys were a jinx."

But his friend, Carolyn Weaver, said, "They just got overconfident."

Mickey Martinez of Dallas, who said he has missed just two Cowboys' games since 1960, figured, "They thought Wilbert Montgomery was going to be hurt a lot worse than he was. I wanted to help the Cowboys in some way, so I just came out and support 'em whenever I can."

Bundled up in a blue Cowboys' blanket and toboggan hat was Dallas resident Audrey Schreier, author of the book "What You Need To Know About Football But Are Afraid To Ask."

A devoted fan of fullback Robert Newhouse, Miss Schreier said she was "planning to pay $250" for a Super Bowl ticket. "I'm glad we're here to welcome the Cowboys back home tonight (Sunday)," she said. "But I'm sorry I have to come back here tomorrow and turn in my airplane ticket for New Orleans. And I regret that in my book I wrote that the Philadelphia Eagles were the team to watch this season."

One entrepreneur used the opportunity to sell Cowboys' pennants, but many of the fans had brought along homemade signs hailing their favorites.

Cowboys Fall; NFC Title Goes To Eagles

Walters, "not 45 the way he had been. With his knee injury and his leg not stable, he couldn't make his full cut. Today, he did."

Walters recalled a play last week against the Vikings. "I was blocking for Wilbert. He cut behind me, but he only cut 45. He ran right into me and the man I was blocking and we all went down. That didn't happen today."

Montgomery, who later ripped off 55 yards with an almost identical play, said his runs Sunday were a throwback to his college days at Abilene Christian.

"That's the kind of cutting, slashing runner I was in college," he said. "That was my style of running in college. I was more of a cutting, slashing runner there. But my first year in the NFL, I was so scared of Dick Vermeil because he was so demanding and he didn't believe in my kind of fancy running."

"And, I'm a lot stronger runner, now."

Dallas came back to tie the score with a 68-yard 10-play drive in the second quarter. It was the only time all day the Cowboy offense was able to move the Eagle defenders.

Before halftime, Philadelphia had an apparent touchdown nullified by a penalty and two field-goal attempts misfire. The score still was 7-7 but the Eagles had lost so many opportunities that it only seemed a matter of time before Dallas would catch up with them.

The Cowboys, however, never did.

"We had a good chance to win the game at halftime," said Dallas coach Tom Landry, "and going into the third quarter, I thought we would win. We just had to play well and avoid turnovers, but we didn't."

Halfway through the period, Dallas quarterback Danny White was sacked by Carl Hairston and coughed up the football. Dennis Harrison recovered at the Dallas 11 and Tony Franklin kicked a 26-yard field goal for a 10-7 lead.

On Dallas' next series, Tony Dorsett fumbled and Jerry Robinson recovered for Philadelphia, giving the Eagles the ball at the Cowboy 38. Montgomery ripped off 11 yards on three carries, Leroy Harris went for 12 and a pass from Ron Jaworski to Rodney Parker went for six more. Then Harris carried for the final nine and a touchdown.

Suddenly, it was 17-7. But the fourth quarter still was ahead and Dallas' comeback tradition was on the minds of most of the Eagles. Except for linebacker Bill Bergey.

"It was never in doubt," he roared, hugging his 5-year-old son, Jake. "You said this morning, 24-14 and you're right more than you're wrong."

Jake was on target again Sunday.

Montgomery's 55-yard gallop set the tone, even though the Eagles got no points on that particular series. Philadelphia nailed down the victory with a ball-control offense that held onto the ball for almost 11 of the final 15 minutes. Franklin's 20-yard field goal finished off the Cowboys and sent Philadelphia into its first Super Bowl ever.

Linebacker Frank LeMaster can't wait.

"My ring finger's itchy," said LeMaster. "I want that big rock."

He and the rest of the Eagles get their shot at it Jan. 25 in New Orleans.

Oakland's Strong Effort Beats Back San Diego

End of Chargers' threat No. 1.

No. 2 took just two plays to materialize — Fouts' 12-yard pass to Charlie Joiner to the Oakland 48 and the bomb to Joiner in the end zone.

If Fouts could throw for 48 yards, so could Plunkett. He did, to Cliff Branch on a third-and-19 at the Oakland 15. Four plays and two penalties later (including a pass interference call against cornerback Ray Preston worth 21 yards), Plunkett was in the end zone with a hook slide.

And barely two minutes later, with 1:35 to go in the opening quarter, the Raiders were in the end zone again on Plunkett's rocket to King, who had beaten Preston easily.

It went to 28-7 when, seven plays after Hendricks recovered Mike Thomas' fumble, Mark vanEeghen picked up three of his game-high 85 yards on a touchdown run through a cavernous hole on the right side.

"You can't spot a team like Oakland that many points," said Glen Edwards, San Diego's free safety. "You can't fall that far behind and expect to catch up all that easily."

But they nearly did. Fouts found Joiner again on an 8-yard TD pass just before halftime, then Rolf Benirschke kicked a 26-yard field goal and Chuck Muncie swept six yards for a touchdown in the third period, and suddenly Oakland's lead was down to 28-24.

"I had a good feeling then," said Don Coryell, the Chargers' coach. "When we came back like that, it meant just one more good play, one more turnover, and a touchdown would put us in the lead."

It never happened. Chris Bahr kicked a 27-yard field goal as the third quarter drew to a close and a 33-yarder early in the fourth period.

When Benirschke kicked a 27-yarder of his own with 6:52 to play, the spread was seven points again. One more shot and Fouts' howitzer arm could tie it.

He never got it. With 6:43 to play, the Raiders started on their own 25. "We knew what we had to do, just get a few first downs at least, so Ray Guy could pin them in a hole," said vanEeghen. Guy, whose 71-yard punt earlier in the game had broken Tom Yewcic's record of 68 yards in an AFC title game (that 1963 AFL game, again), wasn't needed. With vanEeghen chewing up 31 yards on that final drive, the Raiders crunched their way to the San Diego 22 when the clock read 0:00.

From that 65-yard deflection bomb to the little 6-yard flip to Arthur Whittington which kept that final, clinching drive alive, Plunkett almost was perfect. Fouts had 336 yards, but it took him 45 attempts (22 completions) to get them. And Plunkett was a precise 14 for 18 passing for 261 yards. More important, the quarterback with the silver No. 16 on his chest exploited the Chargers all game long. He called a near-flawless game and the Raiders played as flawlessly. They didn't give the ball up once.

"They said Jim was washed up," said Branch. "But he was stuck with teams that didn't have talent. He brought us leadership. And also he wears the same number George Blanda did."

"The ghost of Blanda is still with us."

Michalka Cites Unpredictability Of 5A Outcomes

By RUSS PARSONS

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
If you looked at the sports pages Wednesday morning, spilled your coffee and said "What the hey," Joe Michalka knows exactly how you feel.
After all, it was Michalka's Monterey Plainsmen that dropped that 59-48 game to Palo Duro, a team that everybody was sure they'd beat.
"Everybody's wondering what happened to us against Palo Duro," Michalka said. "Well, let me tell you. They shot 12 of 14 in the fourth quarter. That's 86 percent. That's pretty good shooting."
"We led by 13 at halftime in their gym and — lo and behold — they came out and did the same thing to us. They got the momentum, they got the shots from the outside that they didn't get in the first half."
That game might have raised a few eyebrows down here in Lubbock, what with Monterey's 15-6 record and all, but up in Amarillo the Dons are building quite a reputation.

In fact, they were 11-4 after that victory over Monterey with the only losses being to El Paso Eastwood and Hanks (in overtime) at the El Paso Invitational, a four-pointer to Plainview and a two-pointer to Hereford.
Monterey, prior to the Palo Duro debacle, had dropped Permian, Canyon, Midland, Borger and Estacado.
But that one loss, or those six losses in combination, aren't bothering Michalka that much. Friday night his club beat Odessa 67-35, a team it had struggled to beat 36-26 in the first round of the Caprock Invitational.
"Last night we moved the ball well," he said. "Last night I was really proud of how we played. We played 10 kids in the first half."
"You know, we've played Odessa twice now and they've got big players. And that coach told me that they'd lost seven games by one point or in overtime (OHS stands 4-14 now). They can play ball."
Rather than look at the season as one game after another though, Michalka would rather step back and look at the big picture — look for a pattern.

"We had a little slump there but we're starting to shoot the ball well against the zone now," he said. "We haven't played but two man-to-man teams all year. Our zone offense has really picked up now, but we were shooting pretty poorly in the middle of the season."
And when the Plainsmen aren't hitting their shots, that's really bad because they usually wait until they're right under the bucket to put the ball up.
"Contrary to what people think, we don't stall," said Michalka, whose club has scored under 40 points three times this year. "We just take percentage shots."
And as a result, folks who face the Plainsmen like to back up to the basket, see how many bodies they can jam into the key.
"Everybody's going to run a zone on us," Michalka said. "Lubbock High might run a man on us for a quarter or two, but..."

And speaking of those Westerners, they beat that same Palo Duro squad Friday night by 57-56, climbing to 9-11 on the year. That means behind the 15-6 Plainsmen, Coronado is 10-11, Lubbock High is 9-11 and Plainview is 9-12.
"Hey, the district is real even," Michalka said. "Plainview got some sophomore transfer who's really playing well. Coronado's got the biggest team in the district. And Lubbock High, I'll tell you what, they're coming. They've got five great kids. It's going to be a balanced race."
Only Hereford is significantly behind the other teams. The Herd has managed only a 4-16 mark so far but seven of those decisions were by seven points or less.
"I've seen Hereford play four four times now and they shot the ball every time. I'd think their record would be better," Michalka said. "If they're not shooting well, I can see where they'd be in trouble though."

of the city's four 4A squads — boys' and girls' teams from Dunbar and Estacado — played a combined total of eight games and, as a group, came away with a sorrowful 1-7 record. Not exactly a good indication with district races still in their early stages.
Granted, the competition last week was nothing to sneer at — Dimmitt, Midland High and Monterey among others — but the lone win was posted by the Dunbar girls, a crucial 55-41 district victory against Borger on Tuesday.
The victory was the Panthers first in district this season, evening their 1-4 record at 1-1, good for fourth place. The Panthers turned a three-point halftime lead into a comfortable margin with a 24-5 third-quarter scoring burst.

But Friday night they were the victims of low scoring, managing only five points in the first period while Dimmitt scored 16 enroute to a 60-50 triumph.
"We just had a real bad first quarter," Dunbar coach Jim Washburn said.
While the Dunbar girls split their outings, all three other city 4A teams went 0-2. The Dunbar girls fell to Morton and Dimmitt, the Estacado boys to Midland High twice and the Estacado girls to Monterey and Levelland.

UNM Loses Tournament; NCAA Convention Opens

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — It has not been an easy debut season for University of New Mexico basketball coach Gary Colson, and Sunday the NCAA made things a little more complicated for him.

Meeting in Miami Beach at its annual convention, the NCAA's Executive Committee announced the University of New Mexico would not be allowed to host the West Regional of the 1982 basketball tournament.
The loss of the tournament will put an estimated financial dent of about $1.3 million in Albuquerque's economy and further handicap Colson's efforts to rebuild the school's basketball program into a winner.
The NCAA committee voted to move the 1982 West Regional elsewhere because New Mexico's basketball program will still be on probation in March of 1982. That probation was announced five weeks ago by the NCAA and bans New Mexico from participating in any post-season tournament.
Still, UNM will be allowed to keep the 1983 "Final Four" championships.
Also on the NCAA's agenda are women's athletics and a host of recruiting proposals. They are certain to dominate meetings and discussions today as the NCAA officially opened its 75th convention.
Buttons popped up throughout the Fontainebleau Hilton Hotel Sunday amid heated debate over the most divisive issue facing the assembly, the National Collegiate Athletic Association's entry into women's sports.
"NCAA — make love, not war — ALAW," said buttons worn by officials of the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, who are staunchly opposed to what would be a revolutionary change in the governing structure of the NCAA.
"NCAA is for women," countered proponents of the plan.
A complex package of proposals to be voted on Tuesday would bring women into the governing structure and another related amendment will have Division I schools voting whether to sponsor championships in 19 women's sports.
Also being considered and hotly debated are proposals to set recruiting seasons in football and basketball, create a uniform signing date for letters of intent and restrict freshman eligibility.

Air Force Says Gaps In Defense Radar Part Of Calculated Risk

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Soviet bombers could attack major American cities undetected because of gaps in the nation's outmoded radar network, but the Air Force says holes in the system are simply part of a "calculated risk." The Daily News of Los Angeles Sunday reported the North American Air Defense Command's radar network is so outmoded that Los Angeles, San Francisco, New York and Washington, D.C., "could be flattened" by manned nuclear bombers before interceptor aircraft could get off the ground.

"The gaps are there, no question about that," said Maj. Rosemary Kitchen, spokeswoman for NORAD's regional headquarters at Luke Air Force Base near Phoenix, Ariz.

"They are calculated, a calculated risk, if you will," she said. "The chances of a low-flying plane coming through are very, very slim because of the distances involved and where they have to come from."

"It would be a very unusual aircraft. The odds are so very slim — that an aircraft could come in over the ocean at such low altitudes. By the books it's possible, on paper it's possible, but it's not likely."

The newspaper said sources within the command also confirmed that sizable gaps exist in the radar network surrounding the United States and Canada. Charts presented at a NORAD briefing at Luke AFB revealed that aircraft flying below 1,000 feet could easily penetrate U.S. airspace, the paper reported.

"We have said for a long time that we have gaps in the system," said Del Kindshi, another NORAD spokesman. "It's nothing new."

But he added, "There have been many times we detected Soviet aircraft in international water and they have never penetrated our air space."

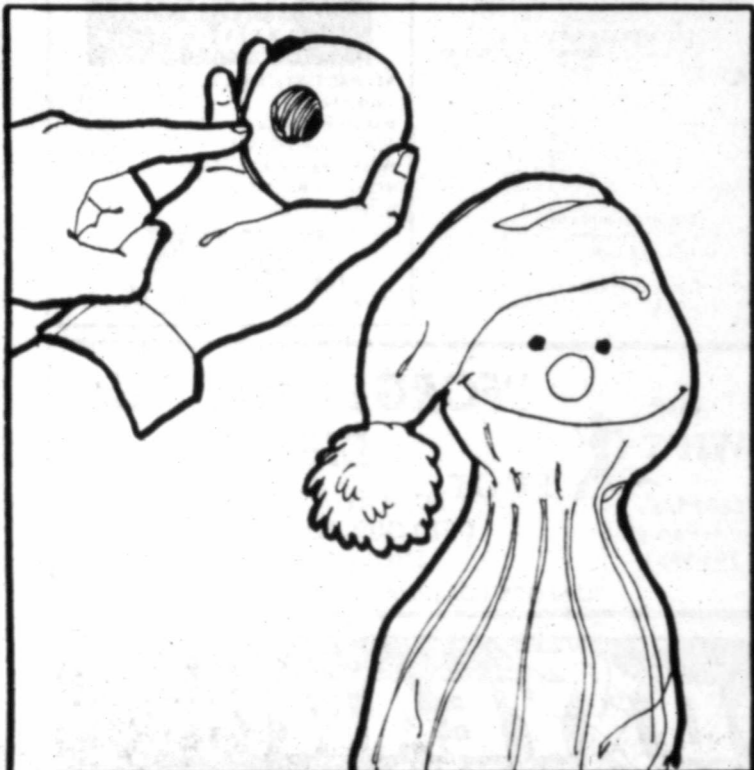

Air Force sources told the newspaper that even if a lowaltitude plane was detected, there would not be enough time for U.S. defenses to react because it takes so long to identify a plane.

In addition, the newspaper said, Air Force sources confirmed the existence of two extremely large high-altitude gaps, both at least 500 miles long — one over the panhandle of Alaska and the other over northeastern Canada — that have absolutely no radar coverage.

"The basic thrust of the whole thing is, it's true," Brig. Gen. Thomas Sawyer, commander of the 26th NORAD Division, told the newspaper. "There are gaps in our radar system."

Sawyer said the system was "adequate" to perform its "peacetime" function of policing the airways — making sure U.S. planes, civilian and domestic, comply with the law. But he added that the existing ground radar system is not capable of detecting every military airplane that might try to evade it.

Miss Kitchen noted that some of the gaps are "places with absolutely no civilization." "It's unlikely they'd come across that way," she said.

Ball, Sock Make Funny Puppet

By SHARI LEWIS

If you've got a ball that has lost its mate, you've got what it takes to make a funny puppet.

Start with a regular rubber or styrofoam ball. Cut a hole that's big enough for your pointer finger. If you are working with a solid rubber ball, pull out bits of rubber until you've made a resting spot for your finger.

Slip the ball onto your pointer and push the ball up into the heel of an old thick sock (a knee or sweat sock is best).

Don't shove the ball all the way up into the toe of the sock, because that part will become your puppet's stocking cap (sew a pom-pom to the toe, to make it look more like a hat).

For eyes, a nose, a mouth and other details, glue or sew buttons, sequins or bits of felt to the sock where the ball is filling it out. You might like to use a thick strand of wool to form a smiley mouth, as I did on my puppet.

As you bend your pointer finger, your puppet will nod. As you turn your wrist, your little pal will look around. And if you press your thumb and middle finger out against the sides of the sock, your funny puppet will develop little arm bulges — not much good for picking things up, but fine for waving "hello."

Friday's Brain Twister: In the British army, regiments of all-tail soldiers are called the Grenadier Guards. How did they get their name?

Answer: In the 15th century, the tallest soldiers were picked for the job of throwing hand grenades (the word came from the French word for "pomegranate"). Tall men were chosen because they could see better. The Grenadier Guards no longer do this work!

Today's Brain Twister: A man bought a pair of shoes for $14 and gave a $20 bill in payment. The shoe salesman asked a neighbor to change the bill and gave the man $6 in change. The neighbor returned the bill, saying it was counterfeit. The shoe salesman gave him good money for the counterfeit. How much did the shoe salesman lose on the transaction? (Look for the answer in Tuesday's Kids-Only Club column.)

Deaths due to diseases of the cardiovascular system, the heart and blood vessels, have been increasing in proportion to the effectiveness with which medical science is able to prevent deaths due to other causes. A leading authority has said that "There has been a great increase of disease in young adults and those of middle age within the last half generation. There is actually a greater increase in the middle years between thirty and sixty than in later years. Here lies the challenge, presented mostly by such conditions as hypertension and coronary atherosclerosis."

...THE WORK IS HARD, BUT THE GOALS ARE REALISTIC AND THE REWARDS ARE FANTASTIC...

Al Castner began our management program in April 1979 and rapidly progressed to an assistant manager. He was promoted to cafeteria manager in Phoenix, Arizona in January 1980. He is just one example of the potential with Furr's Cafeterias.

Furr's Cafeterias, Inc., is now expanding its Management team to keep pace with the rapid growth of our Cafeteria chain. This growth ensures that opportunities as assistant managers, cafeteria managers, and higher level positions will be available.
 We are hiring qualified candidates into our Management Training Program, and we want men and women who will put forth maximum efforts toward a rewarding career with us. Candidates should be willing to relocate occasionally during their career.
 The starting salary for manager trainees, based upon background and experience, has a range from $10,400 to $14,400. As your career progresses and your responsibilities grow, you can expect a rapid growth in earnings. Assistant managers can earn from $18,000 to $28,000 per year, or more. Cafeteria managers can earn from $24,000 to $60,000 per year, or more.
 Benefits include group medical plan, retirement plan, special manager's life insurance program, paid vacations, and free meals while on duty.
 Furr's Cafeterias, a subsidiary of K mart Corporation, is one of the nation's largest cafeteria chains with over 75 units in prime locations throughout 8 southwestern states. So, if you want to work hard where your efforts will really pay off, Furr's Cafeterias has the program for you.
 Please apply in person to:

Crime Line Seeks Tips On Narcotics Robbery

Crime Line Inc. this week spotlights the Dec. 26 aggravated robbery of a South Lubbock drug store, in which money was shunned in favor of narcotic drugs.

A witness at Raff and Hall drugstore at the 50th Street and Boston Caprock Center told police the suspect entered the store about 8:35 p.m. and handed him a note at the front register.

The note read, "Give me all your morphine and dilaudid, give it to me, I don't give a damn, and hurry."

After being told that only the pharmacist could retrieve drugs, the suspect moved to that employee and held the note so that he could read it. The suspect, who later told police the robber ignored cash on the counter, took the drugs and fled through the east front door into the shopping complex.

The suspect, who took drugs valued at $55.92, is described as a slender white male, 15 to 25 years old, 5 foot 7 to 5 foot 11 with a blond mustache and brown hair. He wore sunglasses and a cap.

Crime Line offers a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of the suspect. Anyone having such information is urged to call Crime Line at 741-1000. Informants may remain anonymous.

Crime Line is supported entirely by private donations. Tax-deductible contributions may be mailed to Crime Line Inc. at P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, 79457.

A $500 reward is offered for information concerning the Dec. 24 robbery at a convenience store in which a masked man escaped with $174 in cash.

The victim told police the man entered the Handy Hut at 924 Slide Road about 12:30 a.m. as she was mopping the floor. She said she thought nothing unusual of the mask, since temperatures outside were low.

As she asked the man if he needed assistance, he pointed a dark revolver at her, saying, "This is a stick-up."

After unsuccessfully trying to open the cash register, the masked man ordered the clerk to move to the machine and do so. He then removed the money before fleeing out the front door. He ran east and around the north side of the store.

He is described as a 16 to 25-year-old thin white male, 5 foot 10 to 6 foot 1 tall. He wore a red and blue mask and light gray shirt and blue jeans.

Information concerning a theft in which more than $10,000 in cash and property were taken from a Slaton home will bring a $300 reward from Crime Line.

The victim told police that between 3:30 and 5:10 p.m. Dec. 30 a "strange" man came to the side door of his home asking to check the fuses. After being told the home had no fireplace, the strange man returned to a vehicle in which another man was waiting.

The two men returned shortly, stating they were exterminators, at which the victim allowed the strange man inside while the other checked for termites outside.

The victim said he stayed with the strange man, but was unable to watch the second man who had since entered his home. The victim later discovered that several items were missing from his home, including $700 in cash.

Also taken were various pieces of cut glass, a silver medallion, a gold and pearl ring, 20 gold Mexican pesos and a gold chain.

The suspects were described as 25-year-old white males, both 5 foot 8 and 145 pounds, one with black hair and the other unknown as he wore a baseball cap. He also wore a western shirt and blue jeans.

A $300 reward is offered for information concerning the Jan. 5 burglary of a car in which the hood was taken.

The victim told police that between midnight Jan. 3 and 10:30 a.m. Jan. 5 someone apparently backed a pickup truck to the fence of Brunken Toyota at 5117 Southwest Loop 289. The fence was unbolting to gain entry to the lot.

The suspect removed the hood from a 1970-model Chevell SS black and red two-door. Value of the hood was estimated at $350.

Information concerning fugitive Tommy Lee Burford will bring a $300 reward from Crime Line.

He is described as a 6 foot white male, 190 pounds with brown hair and eyes. The man with large tattoos on both arms has been charged with burglary and forgery.

A $300 reward is offered for information concerning fugitive Feliciano Hernandez Jr., who is wanted on suspicion of burglary. He is described as a 29-year-old Mexican male, 5 foot 10 and 155 pounds with black hair and brown eyes.

11 Unattended Children Perish In Fire At Home

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (UPD) — A pregnant, unmarried mother of 12 was held in jail today for leaving 11 of her children alone to go dancing — only to return home and find them dead in a fire.

"I'm not sure there are any type of charges that can be filed. But a woman who has 11 children and isn't home at 2 a.m., something should be done," St.

Clair County Coroner James Radden said.

A gas space heater apparently sparked the fire early Sunday in the family's two-story home in a rundown East St. Louis neighborhood. The children — all under the age of 11 and including two sets of twins — were trapped inside.

The mother, Virginia Williams, who was out with her boyfriend, turned up later at the hospital and the morgue to identify the burned bodies of her children. She was arrested and faces possible child neglect charges.

Neighbors said Miss Williams often left her children unattended and had been investigated by the state Children Family Services agency.

The coroner said he was told Miss Williams, who is 28 and unemployed, has another child living with relatives or friends in Missouri. She is also three months pregnant.

Radden said the woman was "reluctant to say where she was" during the fire, but apparently had gone dancing with her boyfriend. Although no man lived with her, the coroner said the boyfriend was father to seven of her children.

"I certainly want to question her as to where she was and the situation at the house," Radden said. "We will schedule a coroner's inquest into the deaths. Anyone with any information will be subpoenaed."

In another major fire, searchers in Keansburg, N.J., found five more bodies Sunday in the rubble of the burned-out Beachview Rest Home, raising the death toll from last Friday's blaze to 29. One resident was still missing.

The children who died in the Illinois fire were identified as Jeannet, 11; Angel, 9; twins Carl and Caressa, 7; Tracy, 6; Anthony, 5; Will, 4; twins Kattie and Kitty, 3; James 2; and Lottie, 10 months. All were said to have the last name of Williams.

Mike McCray, a neighbor, said when the fire broke out about 2 a.m. Sunday, he and several other men attempted to enter the burning home and finally kicked in a rear door.

"I heard a little screaming," said McCray, 25. "It also sounded like foot-steps trying to get to the door. But the fire was too bad, and no one came out."

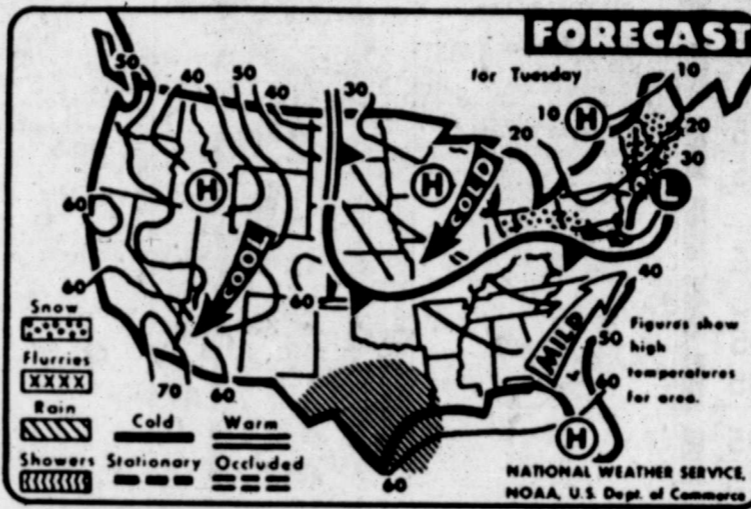

The coroner said the fire, which apparently started in a gas space heater, had engulfed the house by the time firemen arrived.

"One (child) was found in a hallway, he apparently was trying to get out," Radden said. "The rest were in bedrooms. All suffered second- and third-degree burns, but we think the cause of death was smoke inhalation."

The house is in a rundown residential area of the city. The house next to the Williams' already had been demolished and several other houses on the block have been destroyed by fire.

Radden said he was investigating reports that the Fire Department, which is involved in a controversy over layoffs, was late in answering the fire alarm.

Mayor Carl Officer has reduced the city budget to meet the payroll, forcing the layoffs of 18 Police Department employees and 20 Fire Department workers.

Lubbockite Hoping To Market Private Satellite Dishes

By LARRY SUTHERLAND
Avalanche-Journal Staff

For $7,995, Mike Shires can have a television addict watching the "King of Kensington" on a home television set.

If this all seems a bit odd, and you wonder why you've never heard of the "King of Kensington," it's because the program originates with the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

Shires eagerly demonstrates on his home television set how he can receive microwave transmissions from a Canadian television satellite 23,000 miles above the equator.

By adjusting his channel selector, or with minor physical adjustments to a parabolic dish earth station just outside his home, Shires can receive in clear color and sound dozens of broadcasts beamed off of nine satellites circling the globe at the same speed as the earth, thus keeping in constant contact.

Shires is attempting — so far unsuccessfully — to sell the earth station and related microwave conversion equipment in the Lubbock area.

"I've gotten about two or three calls a week and four out of 10 calls are serious prospects," Shires said. "All the serious buying people are beyond the range of cablevision and some are where there is no television," he added.

"My intended market is out in the country," Shires said. This may be fine for a farmer or rancher who is beyond the regular cable TV scope, but home-use earth stations are no delight to cable television firms, nor many of the providers of satellite television programs, such as Home Box Office.

The legal status of Shires' operations, and the use of private earth stations to receive copyrighted programming, is open to question, according to pay television and Federal Communications Commission officials.

Also, purchasers of earth stations for private use may soon find it impossible to receive signals from Home Box Office. A pay television spokesman said technology is being developed to scramble the signals when sent over satellites — and it would take a descrambler at a cable television firm to assemble a clear signal. With such a system, providers of signals sent over satellites could insure that only certain microwave receiving equipment can pick up the signal, such as a cable firm that has paid for the service.

"Our position is that it is a violation of federal law and possibly a violation of state law to pick up and receive Home Box Office and Cinemax" except for those the company authorizes, said HBO attorney Eric Rayman, contacted at Rayman said HBO and Cinemax (which provide movies for television) are "private protected signals" essentially limited to cable television subscribers. In Lubbock, the HBO service costs $9.50 a month through Lubbock Cable TV.

Rayman said there have been at least 10 suits filed by pay television operators alleging unauthorized "pirating" of television signals. Such suits have not yet been filed over private use of home earth stations receiving these signals.

Bob Mazer, an attorney with the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, said using earth stations to receive satellite television signals from HBO and similar providers is illegal without permission of the sender or, in the case of the "super stations" like Channel 17 in Atlanta, the satellite company.

"It's an invasion of the copyright," Mazer said, and the earth station reception also violates Section 605 of the Federal Communications Act prohibiting unauthorized reception of transmissions. Nevertheless, Mazer said there is nothing illegal about selling or owning earth stations, and "as a practical matter you couldn't enforce it."

Mazer said a solution to the matter may come in scrambling the television signals or in levying a license fee on the purchase of future earth stations for home use.

A spokesman for one of the "super stations" who asked not to be named said providers of satellite signals in effect do not become involved in fighting cases involving home earth station use. The spokesman said any legal actions likely would be taken by local cable television operators as a criminal violation of "theft of services."

Spokeswoman Sondra Morris of the Federal Communications Commission office in Dallas said that agency used to require licenses for earth stations, but stopped the practice in October 1979. She said the FCC does advise purchasers of earth stations that they should get permission from the signal providers to receive programming or they may face civil suits.

Shires has sought permission from the signal providers and he thinks it is right to pay for receiving special limited programming from satellites.

"My personal view is that I would like to pay the program suppliers. The intent is not to rip off the provider but to get the programming. I advise people to contact individual program suppliers and offer to pay," Shires said.

In Lubbock, James Brown, general manager of Lubbock Cable TV, said, "We cannot prohibit someone from buying an earth station. But we can insist that that particular person have a contractual obligation with both the pay television suppliers (such as HBO, Cinemax and Showtime) and the distant signal stations (such as Channel 17 in Atlanta)."

"If he does not have contractual agreements, he is in trouble," Brown said.

Shires' limited operations may not raise the concerns of Lubbock Cable TV, as long as Shires sells his systems only to customers who cannot be served by Lubbock Cable TV. Shires has made no sales yet, but says he is working on details of a deal with a small cable television firm.

Brown said his company has contacted HBO about the recent establishment of an earth station at Camelot Village Mobile Home Park. That station receives signals that the cable firm provides its subscribers.

Van Ness, owner of the mobile home park, said he has contracted with HBO and other signal providers to legally receive the satellite communications and in turn provide it to park residents for a fee.

The whole question of unauthorized reception of satellite television broadcasts may seem relatively unimportant now, because the cost is so high for the earth station and related equipment.

But the future points to much lower costs to directly receive satellite communications. Roger Herbstreit, an engineer with the science and technology office of the FCC, said improvements in earth station technology and in satellites will likely bring the costs down. "In less than 10 years I would expect the prices will be down to a few hundred dollars," he said.

One development he and Shires point to is a possible new COMSAT satellite able to send relatively high-power microwave transmissions that will not require such sophisticated equipment to receive signals.

"What we're talking about now is really the first stage of a whole new kind of home entertainment...the look of television in the next 10 years is going to change tremendously," Shires said.

But for now, pay about $8,000 for an earth station and its related equipment and you can watch Canadian television — and virtually everything else.

Members Of Solidarity Moved By Polish Police

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — In the first reported use of force against the Solidarity union, police evicted about 60 members of Poland's independent labor confederation from a sit-in and the government warned sternly of "limits" to the new freedoms.

Warsaw Radio, in a report on the eviction monitored in London today, said there was no violence, but gave no other details of the eviction of the 60 Solidarity members from a government building in the southern town of Nowy Secz.

"There are limits to the renewal process. The law must be respected," the official party newspaper Trybuna Ludu warned.

In another indication the government was hardening its line against Poland's growing labor movement, the official Communist Party daily Trybuna Ludu sharply criticized dissident Jacek Kuron as wanting to "liquidate the leading role ... of the Communist Party" — and for the first time identified Kuron as a legal adviser to Solidarity.

Trybuna also criticized workers who stayed off the job Saturday in support of Solidarity's unilaterally declared five-day work week. "Saturday showed that the road taken by some is a road leading to nowhere," the newspaper said.

The government's tougher tone was set in a speech Saturday by Communist Party leader Stanislaw Kania who indicated the government was opposed to allowing private farmers to register as an officially recognized union.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

- CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In matters where more than one person tries to be the boss, little is apt to be accomplished tomorrow.
- AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Others are likely to talk about the good deeds they intend to do tomorrow, but you will be the one to perform.
- PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A proposal made to you tomorrow may look like a good proposition on the surface, but it requires further scrutiny.
- ARIES (March 21-April 19) Guard against a tendency to be too ambivalent tomorrow, both in business and in your dealings with people.
- TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Getting off to a sluggish start could create a series of problems for you tomorrow.
- GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone you promised to do something for you tomorrow could disappoint you by not taking his or her commitment seriously.
- CANCER (June 21-July 22) In career situations tomorrow associates may not treat you the way you expect to be treated.
- LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A great deal more time tomorrow is likely to be spent on figuring out how something should be done instead of rolling up your sleeves and getting to it.
- VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Situations controlled by others could create headaches for you tomorrow. All will come out OK in the long run.
- LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You may find yourself in a position tomorrow where you will have to make a difficult decision.

China Delaying Death Sentence

PEKING (AP) — China's rulers have delayed sentencing Chairman Mao Tse-tung's widow while they decide whether she should be executed for treason, Chinese sources said today. They reported Deng Xiaoping was one of the few opposed to her execution.

Most of China's leaders, the sources said, favor the death penalty for rebellious Jiang Qing, who dared her prosecutors to take her life.

However, Communist Party vice chairman Deng and Chen Yun favor a suspended death sentence for the 67-year-old widow of the man who led China's communist revolution. They argued that she should be spared because she is Mao's widow, because she is elderly and because execution would make her a martyr, the sources said.

Jiang went on trial before a special court last November on charges of treason, murder and persecutions during the Cultural Revolution, the 1966-76 decade of purges and political turmoil.

Her conviction and sentencing were expected Saturday, but the sources said the ruling was delayed while China's top leaders prepared a formal reassessment of Mao himself. Jiang Qing had defended herself by saying she acted on Mao's orders.

Red Brigade's Demands Not Fulfilled

ROME (AP) — The Red Brigades' death deadline for a kidnapped judge expires tonight, but most major newspapers refused to heed his wife's appeal to meet the terrorists' demand for publication of their propaganda.

"A man's life surely is worth more than a couple of newspaper pages," Judge Giovanni d'Urso's wife, Franca, said in a note delivered to the papers by relatives.

All the major papers except the Socialist Party daily Avanti refused to budge from their joint decision a week ago not to submit to the terrorists' "blackmail." But Rome's biggest paper, Il Messaggero, said it might reconsider and put out an extra containing the statements if it "determined with certainty that the release of Judge d'Urso depends on the publication of the statements in our newspaper."

"The death watch for Giovanni d'Urso continues," a Rome radio station's newscast began.

Many people called newspapers and police stations to ask if the judge's body had been found.

The Red Brigades kidnapped d'Urso, 49, on Dec. 12. They threatened on Saturday to kill him in 48 hours unless the major daily newspapers published "manifestos" written by more than 80 imprisoned members of the terrorist organization. Police authorities said they took the death threat seriously.

Mrs. d'Urso's appeal was endorsed by the Socialists.

Coroner Criticizes Investigators

ATLANTA (UPI) — A medical examiner says he has tentatively identified the skeletons of two children, but charged investigators were so sloppy in collecting evidence that he could not immediately confirm the remains as two of Atlanta's five missing black children.

Dr. Robert Stivers said investigators went back Sunday to the area where the skeletons were found and discovered 11 more teeth and a sternum, or breastbone, missed by about 200 officers moving shoulder-to-shoulder through the area Friday.

Saying the remains should be positively identified by today or Tuesday, Stivers refused to confirm investigators' suspicions about the identity of the remains.

Eleven black children have been killed in Atlanta over the past 17 months, and five other children are missing.

The medical examiner said photographs of the clothing found clinging to some of the bones would be shown to the families of the five missing children for possible identification.

Stivers complained that federal and state authorities mishandled the crime scene and left important evidence behind that might identify the skeletons as two of the five missing black children.

"One of those skulls found Friday) only had four teeth, and they didn't have enough for an identification from dental records," Stivers said. "By going back to the scene, they found enough to come up with something someone can recognize."

"Dr. (Saleh) Zaki was at the scene of the skeletal remains, and true to my own predictions, they found 11 more teeth and some more bones and a sternum important to the case," Stivers said. "So those idiots really did mess us up."

Stivers said investigators had reconstructed the mouths of the victims in a "facsimile" of a smile and had used a photograph with the subjects smiling to make an identification.

Stivers said an agent from the FBI and the Georgia Bureau of Investigation broke the law Friday by disturbing the crime scene without permission from the medical examiner's office.

Stivers complained that the investigators "screwed up after their careful documentation by putting everything into 37 bags, creating the most monstrous jigsaw puzzle and they missed the most important part — the sternum and the teeth."

DR. LAMB

Cough May Be Symptom

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
 DEAR DR. LAMB — My mother has had a cough for the past two weeks. At first I just thought she had a cold, but it seems to be hanging on longer than I think it should. She doesn't seem to have a fever. She doesn't seem to be sick in any other way. She doesn't smoke so it is not a cigarette cough. I was wondering if I should take her to a doctor or not since she doesn't have a fever. The cough medicines that I have bought for her don't seem to have helped much.

DEAR READER — By all means take your mother to a doctor. People tend to forget that a cough is a symptom and there are a lot of other things besides a cold that can cause a cough. Let me give you one example, heart failure. If the left side of the heart begins to fail, it may cause fluid to accumulate in the lungs. This can cause shortness of breath and a cough. Sometimes the problem is thought to be pneumonia until a careful examination is done and the real cause of fluid in the lungs is discovered.

Still another cause is cancer. Fortunately, most people with a chronic cough have some other problem, but it illustrates the serious problems that may underlie what seems to be a simple cough from a cold.

Many people are confused about when to see a doctor for a cough so I will repeat here the four basic rules included in The Health Letter number 8-10, Cough: How And When To Treat It. 1) If your temperature is over 102 degrees Fahrenheit or if fever persists over three days — see your doctor; 2) If you have pain other than a mild headache or sore throat — see your doctor; 3) If you have excessive weakness or prostration — see your doctor; 4) If your cough is more than 10 days duration, even if you feel fine — see your doctor. I'm sending you a copy of that issue. Others who want a copy can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Incidentally, not all coughs should be suppressed. It is sometimes beneficial to loosen up a cough and clear your airways.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My 5-year-old son has had swollen lymph glands behind the ears, in the neck and now in the groin. I need to know more about this condition.

DEAR READER — The lymph glands are part of the lymphatic circulation. Lymph is a clear liquid and contains many lymph cells which are a variety of white blood cells important in fighting infections. The lymph circulates in tiny vessels similar to blood capillaries. This network is all over your body and eventually drains into the large veins near your heart.

The lymph vessels enter lymph glands. Here the lymph is filtered. Lymph cells are produced here, too. Infections are localized by trapping bacteria inside the lymph glands. Hence if you have an infection in your finger, the bacteria are apt to be trapped in the lymph nodes under your arm. So infections that result in increased action of lymph nodes or trapping germs cause them to enlarge and sometimes to be sore.

If there is generalized enlargement of nodes or the cause is not known then it is very important to have an examination. They can enlarge in some serious generalized diseases. Those in the neck often enlarge in response to simple sore throats, particularly in children.

Suspect In Slayings Found Hanged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Private letters and legal papers, but "nothing like a suicide note," were strewn in the jail cell where a man accused in six "Freeway Killer" slayings was found hanged, officials said.

The body of 23-year-old Vernon Butts, who also was a potential witness against another defendant in the series of Southern California slayings, was found Sunday in his high-security cell in the Men's Central Jail near downtown Los Angeles.

He was hanging from a towel wrapped around his neck and attached to a towel rack.

"We're certain" it was a suicide, said Lt. Jerry Minnis.

"There were no inmates in the area at that time of night," he said. "All of the inmates are locked down. Only three people have keys to that room."

The prisoner was not known to be suicidal, sheriff's Deputy Ralph Martin said.

Minnis said one letter found in Butts' cell indicated he was upset about the release last week of preliminary hearing transcripts detailing his confession to police of his part in the slayings.

Butts was checked by a deputy 40 minutes before he was discovered. Minnis said it appeared Butts had placed the towel over the towel bar, tied the ends together, "then lowered himself into the noose by getting into a kneeling position."

Jailers and a doctor were unable to revive Butts.
