'Tribute To Freedom' Planned Here Thursday

By MARC FLAKE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock residents who may have sat longingly in front of their television sets this week watching events surrounding the return of the American hostages from Iran will get a chance to participate in a live celebration of the captives' return Thursday.

A "Tribute to Freedom" rally is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. to 6:15 p.m. in Buster Long Park, north of the South Plains Mall at 57th Street and Bangor Avenue.

It will include a fly-over by the Confederate Air Force, a military arms tribute by the Marine Corps Reserve, speeches by local students and the singing of American songs, according to John Boswell, organizer of the rally.

"We encourage banners, signs, flags and yellow ribbons by the millions," Boswell said at a City Hall news conference this morning. "We need this unifying experience more than just watching it on TV.

"This attitude of participation is one which affords us an opportunity to know in our hearts the joy of living in a free country," he said.

Because of the short timetable (President Reagan proclaimed Thursday as a National Day of Thanksgiving for the return of the former hostages on Tuesday) some of the planned events at the rally are tentative.

Local student body representatives, one from each high school, will give speeches on "what it means to live in a free country."

A band, hopefully the Tech varsity band, said Boswell, will be present to play what he termed "songs of the homeland."

If U.S. Rep. Kent Hance can return from Washington, D.C., in time, he will speak, and Mayor Bill McAlister will make a proclamation on behalf of the city.

The Confederate Air Force will make its fly-over in tribute to the eight servicemen who died in the failed rescue attempt to free the hostages last April, said Boswell.

The ceremony will end with the singing of "This Land is Your Land," he said.

At the news conference, McAlister said the city needed this kind of "unity of spirit." So far the only celebrations have been among members of churches and private organizations, while the rally will give Lubbock residents a chance to get the whole community involved.

He said the idea for the rally came from Boswell.

Returnees Heading For Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — And today they really go home.

Their 444 days of bondage in Iran are more than a week behind them, their decompression period is over, the official welcome in the nation's capital is a warm remembrance, and the 52 freed Americans are finally heading home.

open the White House to them and their families in a display termed "absolutely staggering" by L. Bruce Laingen.

The air of jubilation at the White House was tempered by a stern warning from Reagan that any terrorists ever again daring to seize American captives would face "swift and effective retribution."

Today, after most of them spent the night at a suburban Arlington, Va., hotel, the hostage heroes were dispersing to cities and small towns around the country.

They anticipated at least 30 days of vacation, although some expressed interest in returning to work sooner.

"Where's my next post?" asked Katherine Koob, one of the two women held in captivity for the entire 444 days, as soon as she arrived in Washington.

"If I had my choice, I'd repot back to duty tomorrow," said Marine Sgt. John D. McKeel, 27, of Balch Springs.

Several of the former hostages, interviewed after their big welcome, expressed mixed feelings about Iran.

On a video show, Miss Koob said, "No, I'm not ready to go back to Iran today or tomorrow or probably in the near future. But I think that under the right circumstances and for the right reasons, I could go back to Tehran. ... There are people in Iran I haven't seen and I would love to see, and people I would like to meet."

Barry Rosen, appearing on another show, said, "I don't want to hate the Iranians. ... I do despise what happened in Iran ... but I have too many fond memories of Iran. I have conflicting opinions of Iran."

Gary Lee said that, at first, he couldn't understand why the Iranians had taken over the embassy.

"We finally decided it's because this is what Iran wants. Iran wants America as its enemy and there was very little we could do."

Although most of the former hostages remained at the hotel, John E. Graves returned home to suburban Reston, Va., where neighborhood children gave him a candlelight welcome Tuesday night. "I can't believe I'm here, but I am," said Graves, 53, a senior foreign service inspector.

The homecoming will wait a little longer yet for Robert Ode, at 65 the oldest of the former hostages. He was admitted Tuesday night to an Arlington hospital suffering from pneumonia, bron-

PUC Slashes Bell's Phone Rate Boost

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Texas consumers can expect about an $8 million refund from Southwestern Bell in the near future as the result of a ruling today by the Public Utility Commission in Austin.

But a local spokesman for the phone company said the refunds probably won't amount to more than about $1 for most phone customers.

The PUC voted 2-1 this morning to grant Southwestern Bell a $114.2 million rate hike — only about one-third of the rate increase the company had requested last summer.

The commission ruled in favor of hearing examiner Phil Ricketts' report issued Jan. 6 that recommended the phone company be granted the $114.2 million increase.

Ricketts' rate package called for a nickel-per-month increase for residential service in most of the state's larger cities, which is expected to include Lubbock.

Southwestern Bell originally had proposed a $1.25 increase for home service.

PUC Chairman George Cowden and Commissioner Moak Rollins voted in favor of the hearing examiner's report, with some minor changes. But Commissioner Garrett Morris cast a dissenting vote, saying he was opposed to any rate increase.

"I would deny the rate increase — period," Morris said.

The telephone company had originally requested a $326.3 million statewide rate increase, saying that much of a hike was needed to provide Southwestern Bell with a 12 percent rate of return on its total investment in Texas.

At the beginning of public hearings on that request, however, the PUC staff said the company could justify an increase totaling only about $152.8 million.

According to local Southwestern Bell spokesman Jim Goodwin, the phone company implemented about a $150 million rate increase under bond last November. When that increase was implemented, Goodwin explained, it was with the understanding that Southwestern Bell would refund money to its customers if the PUC decided on lower rates.

The average rate increase for home phone users put into effect in November totaled about 80 cents per month, Goodwin said.

Today's split decision by the PUC commissioners will force the phone company to make the refunds. Goodwin said he was unsure at this point just how the refund would work, however.

"I don't know if it will be an actual refund or a credit on the customer's bill," Goodwin said. He indicated that credit on the bill would be the most likely way to achieve the refund.

Ricketts said that Southwestern Bell could make the refunds by crediting customer's bills for a three-months period. However, the phone company also must pay 10 percent interest on the total overcharges.

In most cases, Goodwin said, customers would have been overcharged only about 50 cents per month since the new rates were implemented in November. Counting the 10 percent interest, most

Reagan Lifts Price Controls Over Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today lifted the remaining price and allocation controls on petroleum, a step sure to lead to higher gasoline and heating oil prices.

Reagan said the controls had hampered U.S. oil production, "artificially" led to increased energy consumption, aggravated the nation's balance of payments problem and stifled technological breakthroughs.

(Texas Reacts To Decontrol; Story On Page 4, Sec. B)

"Price controls have also made us more energy-dependent on the OPEC nations — a development that has jeopardized our economic security and undermined price stability at home," Reagan said in a statement.

"Fears that the planned phase-out of controls would not be carried out for political reasons have also hampered production," Reagan said. "Ending these controls now will erase this uncertainty."

Angry consumer groups charge that gasoline and heating oil prices could rise by 8 to 12 cents per gallon over the next few weeks as a result of the decision, but administration officials said the increase would be more like 3 to 5 cents over the next two months.

The order, effective immediately, decontrols crude oil, gasoline and propane — the only petroleum products still under price controls.

Reagan said the elimination of controls "will also stimulate energy conservation"

"Ending price controls is a positive first step towards a balanced energy program — a program free of arbitrary and counterproductive contraints — one designed to promote prudent conservation and vigorous domestic production," he added.

If Reagan had not acted, the price controls would have phased out over the next eight months under a gradual decontrol program started by former President Carter in June 1979. That program already has removed price controls on about 75 percent of domestic crude oil.

Reagan pledged during the campaign to speed the process, saying oil companies had been shackled by price controls for nine years and higher prices would spur faster domestic production.

Consumer groups attacked the decision even before it was announced, charging Reagan's action awarded oil companies an "unacceptable windfall."

"It's nothing more than picking the pockets of consumers to further bloat oil company profits," said Ellen Berman, executive director of the Consumer Energy Council of America.

Preston Smith Gets Chairman's Post

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements today designated former Gov. Preston Smith of Lubbock as the new chairman of the Texas College Coordinating Board.

In announcing the designation, Clements praised Smith for "long service in state government and his dedication to higher education excellence."

Alexander's Attorney Rests Case

By KIM COBB
Avalanche-Journal Staff

ABILENE — Whether Billy Wayne Alexander Jr. will live or die depends upon the decision a Taylor County jury makes today after prosecutors and defense attorneys argue Alexander's punishment for the Oct. 5 capital murder of Department of Public Safety Trooper Jerry Don Davis.

Defense attorney Floyd Holder rested his case at mid-morning after questioning a Huntsville psychologist on the difficulty in predicting human behavior — specifically acts of violence. With the conclusion of testimony in the punishment phase of the trial, the jury was scheduled to hear final arguments at 1 p.m.

The jury will be asked to consider, first, if Alexander committed the offense deliberately and with the reasonable expectation that the trooper's death would result and second, whether Alexander can be expected to commit future acts of violence which would constitute a continuing threat to society.

All 12 jurors must answer yes to both questions to assess the death penalty.

Dr. Wendell Dickerson, a psychologist now in private practice in Huntsville, told the jury that violence is typically a kind of behavior that happens infrequently. He said that psychologists very often tend to overpredict violent behavior after making studies of an individual.

He stated that, in his opinion, the most accurate study used in predicting behavior was only 35 percent accurate. "Which means he's (the statistician making the study) wrong two out of three times."

He also mentioned several variables that are taken into consideration in predicting future violence. A person who began stealing at an early age, had several brothers and sisters in jail and dropped out of school exhibits three variables considered significant in behavior prediction, the psychologist testified.

"How many of those blew out the

Frenship School Head Defends Tax Structure

By PAT GRAVES
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A defense attorney in the Frenship Independent School District's suit opposing a public housing project grilled district Superintendent J. Weldon Bennett for more than 90 minutes this morning about the school's fiscal policies, attempting to show the project will not create a financial burden.

Hilton Howell, representing project developer Temple Management, suggested Frenship is grossly undertaxed and its property undervalued, and that the district's policy has been to keep taxes low and use temporary facilities rather than build new ones.

Although he admitted he had not checked the Texas Education Agency figures, Bennett claimed Frenship's taxes are about as high as any area district's.

Because of the 1979 Texas Legislature's mandate, all school district property must be reassessed at 100 percent of market value. Accordingly, Frenship's valuation has increased from $80 million in 1979 to $159 million in 1980.

Howell contended the tax revenue, based on an 80-cent per $100 valuation rate, had doubled to $1.2 million. Trustees lowered the rate from $1.85 after the valuation reassessment.

Bennett maintained Frenship had previously taxed property at half of 40 percent of its value. When Howell asked if he meant 20 percent, remarking that Frenship had quite a tax haven, Bennett said he was unqualified to answer because the taxing, in the past, had been handled by the county.

Frenship is opposing the 132-unit low-income housing project, claiming the tax-exempt development would cause a loss of revenue to the schools. Along with Temple Management, the district is suing the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Lubbock Housing Authority and the City of Lubbock to block the 24th Street and Frankford Avenue project.

Howell also contended Frenship actually could make a profit on the incoming students, because they may be eligible for federal impact funds if their parents work at Reese Air Force Base.

He figured the difference between the cost per student and the average impact payment to be $270 in the district's favor, and suggested that would not be such a great burden.

Bennett replied there would be no place for them. Howell said that was because the classrooms funded by a 1979

Heatly Seeking Pay Hike For Legislators

AUSTIN (UPI) — Rep. Bill Heatly, D-Paducah, has proposed an increase of 50 percent in the pay of legislators and a 66 percent increase in their daily expense allowance.

The proposed constitutional amendment would raise legislators' pay from $600 a month to $900 a month and their expenses from $30 a day to $50 a day. Per diem expenses are paid only for the first 120 days of the 140-day session.

The pay of legislators has not been raised since 1975, when the current levels were set.

Heatly's proposal must be approved by a two-thirds vote in each house, then be submitted to Texas voters for ratification.

Whether the Legislature will have its first major confrontation with Gov. Bill Clements will be determined by how the House votes today on an emergency pay raise for state employees.

The Senate has approved a bill by Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, providing an immediate 6.8 percent salary increase for the state's workers, but the House Appropriations Committee later — on a very narrow vote — amended it to 5.1 percent with a $50 minimum.

The House was scheduled to deliberate the emergency measure this afternoon.

Clements, however, made his intentions very clear on Tuesday. The governor, who had recommended only a 3.4 percent salary increase, said he would sign a bill calling for a 5.1 percent raise but would veto a 6.8 percent increase.

The governor first made the comments in Waco, then repeated them at an impromptu news conference at the Capitol. He had agreed to accept the 5.1 percent raise as a compromise after it became apparent a number of legislators preferred a larger increase.

"I will predict to you that 5.1 percent will come out of the House. I'll predict to you that it will go to conference committee. I'll predict to you that 5.1 percent will come out (of the conference committee)," Clements said.

"If it comes out 6.8 percent, I'm going to veto it."

The governor must sign an emergency pay raise bill by Saturday in order for the state employees to get the increase effective Feb. 1.

Doggett has said he will continue to push for the 6.8 percent salary increase.

Get Collections Off To Good Start

By SHARI LEWIS

Starting a new collection? Start right! From the very beginning, it's a good idea to sort your stuff so that things that are like each other are kept together (shells, say, lined up on a shelf according to size, or by family — whichever pleases you).

The reason for this is simple. Before you know it, you'll probably have a whole lot of whatever you choose to collect. If you can lay your hands on the thing you want when you want it, you'll get much more pleasure out of your hobby. Others will be impressed, too, and will respect what you're doing.

Decorate your room and your life with your "finds." Hang 'em. Shelve 'em. Of course, certain old delicate breakable treasures shouldn't be handled. Keep these things behind glass doors or covered with plastic — and out of bright light.

A super way to organize your collection is to have a 3-inch by 5-inch card for each piece. On it, put the name of the article, when and where you got it, from whom, how much it cost and where it can be found within your collection. The card should also tell if this special thing is related to another part of your collection. For example, a card all about your best string puppet might list all of the other marionettes in your collection, too.

And on each card, put the provenance of the time. That's its history, telling whatever you know about its age and who owned it in the past.

Springtime Bringing Problems

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Looking forward to the springtime of the year, when the administration will be two-months old and showing its first few blossoms, one sees also the ravages of winters past.

Which is to say that any new economic beginning, which every president offers, drags along economic debris that fouls the scenery and clogs the machinery. By this year's spring the burden should be obvious.

It will be a time when carmakers make perhaps their most intense sales effort ever, not just to move inventories from the lots but to remain solvent. For one, Chrysler, it is do or die or merge with another.

The problem, which includes General Motors and Ford to lesser degrees, and which concerns the economic fortunes of millions of Americans, is not of President Reagan's making, but it is his to deal with, for good or bad.

He didn't create high interest rates, for instance, but when the big sales push comes, so also may come costlier financing. The ingredients already are in place, just waiting to be activated by demand.

The car companies received a painful lesson from those rates last fall: when interest rose into high double digits, as they did, people simply postponed buying cars. The industry is interest rate-sensitive.

Now add in this situation: The after-tax buying power of American factory workers declined 4.8 percent last year because of inflation. That situation isn't changing; workers continue to lose buying power.

Considering these problems — rising interest and shrinking buying power — will buyers bail out the automakers? And if they don't, will Reagan be able to step in to help, if only to save his own programs?

Spring is also home-buying time, but the latest government figures show neither housing prices nor mortgage rates falling. Those housing people who claim to know say they're getting ready for a dismal year.

The dual problems of these two basic industries, affecting hundreds of other industries, provokes the question: Can the president avoid a recession? Especially with energy and food prices also likely to rise?

No doubt the Reagan needs no reminder of other calamities, natural and man-made, that seem to pile on when the economy is down. They hung over ex-President Jimmy Carter like a gray cloud. Reagan will have them; some of the industrial Northeast, for example, is running out of water.

Such a list of problems and potential difficulties isn't meant to deflower the spring. It's purpose is to paint a landscape a bit more real and less colorful than the roseate pre-inauguration perspectives.

Analysis

On that landscape is the likelihood of strong wage demands and even strikes (the coal miners have a March 27 deadline); resistance to cost-cutting (government payments to individuals, including Social Security, food stamps and medical care, surged from $45 billion in 1965 to $145 billion in 1980); and continuing, enormous federal budget deficits.

Perhaps the most formidable challenge may come from the impatience of people who will be asked to lower living standards while submitting to inflation, one of the main reasons why voters retired Carter.

Wasn't Reagan supposed to have freed people from this economic trap.

That's what he said, but now in the dusky light of mid-winter it is easily perceived he can't free anyone from the economic shackles with the twist of a key. He'll have to file the chains away. It takes time.

Religion Groups Get Most Contributions

NEW YORK (AP) — Religious organizations received nearly half the $43 billion Americans gave to charities and nonprofit organizations in 1979, according to a study compiled by Chemical Bank.

The report, released this week, projected that the total of annual contributions would increase to $47 billion in 1980 and to $67 billion by 1984.

The report, entitled "Giving and Getting," said $20 billion in contributions went to religious organizations during 1979.

Second Oldest Vet Turns 106

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — The nation's second oldest veteran is 106 this week and relatives say the reason for his longevity is his immunity to several infectious diseases.

But James Wylie Mahaffey did have to give up some favorite pastimes enjoyed in his younger days. After all, you can't smoke four pipefuls a day and drink scotch forever. He quit the nasty habits in his late 90s, said his daughter, Sybil Payne.

In 1898, army doctors noticed Mahaffey seemed to have a built-in immunity to yellow fever, so they used the 22-year-old enlisted man to minister to yellow fever victims during the Spanish-American War.

Mrs. Payne of Columbia, S.C., said "back during the big flu epidemic in South Carolina in 1918, everybody seemed to have the flu but him." She said he has exhibited a life-long immunity to most infectious diseases, even the common cold.

Mahaffey suffered a stroke a few years ago that has confined him to a wheelchair at the Veterans Administration hospital.

VA officials say Harry J. Chaloner, 106, of the VA's Bay Pines, Fla., nursing home is the only veteran older than Mahaffey, and just by a few months.

Department Predicts Rebound Of Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says profits and productivity in the U.S. steel industry should pick up around the middle of the decade.

The Commerce Department said the steel industry should rebound this year along with the rest of the nation's economy, but the comeback won't entirely make up for losses suffered last year.

In addition, the industry growth rate is expected to be less than 1 percent a year from 1979 to 1985, department officials reported.

'Shoot-To-Kill' Gaining Support

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Roy McMasters says he would rather play Russian roulette than go jogging in Terre Haute, where the police chief has just instituted a "shoot-to-kill" policy.

McMasters worries about jogging past a purse-snatching or a robbery in progress, and being mistaken for the criminal by a policeman quick on the trigger.

But he appears to be in the minority. Most of the 61,000 residents in this city on the Indiana-Illinois border seem to be supporting their police chief for his plan to crack down on criminals.

Chief Gerald Loudermilk, who announced the policy earlier this month, says an officer is trained to use his gun to kill, and should not be expected to wound or fire warning shots on the job.

At firearm testing sessions, which are taken twice a year by every officer including the chief, "you score your biggest points by hitting the trunk of the body (of the target.) That happens to contain the vitals," Loudermilk said.

"You can't expect an officer to train for 10 to 15 years shooting vitals, and then draw his gun on the spur of the moment and shoot someone in the foot," he said.

Loudermilk said a rising crime rate and concern for officers on the 115-member force prompted the new, tougher firearms policy.

"Under the old policy, there was always a question in a police officer's mind as to whether or not he would get in trouble if he used his gun," Loudermilk said.

He decided to issue the policy after two city officers failed to shoot a robbery suspect leaving a house, he said.

"They chased him down, and he dropped a fully loaded weapon," he said. "When I asked them why they didn't shoot, the only thing they could tell me is that they could have, but they didn't know whether they'd get in trouble. They didn't know whether we'd get sued.

"If my people are out there thinking like that, I'm going to end up with a dead police officer on my hands," Loudermilk said.

In Loudermilk's 19 years on the force, however, no Terre Haute police officer has been shot or wounded in the line of duty.

And crime may be up here, but the rate is one many other cities this size might envy.

There were four murders in 1980, up from three in 1979. Robberies almost doubled last year, to just under 150. There were 20 rapes and 67 aggravated assaults in 1980, compared with 14 rapes and 38 assaults in 1979.

But Loudermilk said he isn't taking any chances. Since he was made chief a year ago, he has collected $7,000 in private donations to form and outfit a special 30-member tactical unit. The unit, equipped with the most modern weapons, will be even tougher and more prepared for emergency than the riot squad it will replace.

That might be great news in some big cities, but in Terre Haute, the riot squad hasn't been used in years. The last time it was called out was 10 years ago, to help quell a racial disturbance on the Indiana State University campus, Loudermilk said.

Despite the contrast between the city's mild history and Loudermilk's tough talk, most response has been favorable. There has been some criticism, like that from McMasters, an inmate at the federal prison here whose comments were printed in the Terre Haute Tribune.

"What does a policeman do when a crime has been committed and he immediately sees someone who happens to be jogging by, getting his early morning exercise? I would rather play Russian roulette than go jogging in the city of Terre Haute," McMasters wrote.

"Who gave you the right to play God? " he added. "After you have pulled the trigger on your .357-caliber Magnum, and found your neighborhood jogger in the street or sidewalk, can you reverse your decision?"

Lena Casad wrote: "Policemen are trained to apprehend suspects, and suspicion of guilt is far from actual guilt. Most serious crimes in this state are not punished by the death penalty — i.e. rape, burglary, kidnapping and sometimes even murder."

OUR PLEDGE

We pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands; one Nation, under God, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

Rhetoric Versus Reality

EVEN IN YEARS when there is no presidential transition, too much emphasis is placed upon the federal budget proposed by the White House for the next fiscal year.

That's because the President's suggestions invariably are drastically reshaped by the scores of committees and subcommittees of the House and Senate.

In an inauguration year such as this one, there's usually even less justification for paying much attention to the outgoing President's unveiling of an elaborately detailed budget.

"OUR GOVERNMENT in Washington now is a horrible bureaucratic mess. It is disorganized, wasteful (and) has no purpose," Candidate Carter declared in 1976.

"We must," he added, "give top priority to a drastic and thorough revision of the federal bureaucracy and its budgeting system."

But after the fiery rhetoric fades, what can be done to cut the federal government down to size? Carter's budget offers a partial answer to that question because it stands as a reminder both of his limited success and of the political, economic and programmatic challenges faced by the new administration.

Consider, for example, the Coast Guard Reserve, an organization of barely marginal utility targeted for extinction by former President Nixon in one of his early budget proposals about a decade ago.

A determined lobbying campaign rescued the reserve from oblivion, and Carter has proposed an appropriation of more than $51 million—money that could be spent far more usefully on the active Coast Guard.

SIMILARLY, CARTER has proposed spending $175 million to finance the National Endowment for the Arts and almost $169.5 million to support the National Endowment for the Humanities, two organizations whose work represents a questionable expenditure of federal funds.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability was supposed to lead the battle against inflation, but it did little more than consume tax dollars.

Its work now is being scaled down, but almost $3 million is proposed to support it in the fiscal year beginning this autumn.

There are scores of similar items buried in Carter's budget. In some instances, he called for reduction or elimination of unnecessary services, but in other cases he perpetuated a pattern of unwarranted spending.

If Mr. Reagan can make the necessary cuts, he surely will be performing a service to his public.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Kenneth May

'On And On And...'

HIS PERSONAL nightmare growing out of the hostage affair with Iran, says My Neighbor Twice Removed, is that 14 months from now his TV set will still be blaring out: "Day 423: America's Freed Hostages."

★

It was wonderful that the Guv'ment flew the families of the released hostages to meet them at West Point Sunday. That way, there was somebody for them to talk to just as soon as the Super Bowl was over.

★

★

WHILE THE NATION is ringing bells and glowing with patriotism because "all" the hostages are home would be a good time to remember that they aren't, Max Rogers says.

"We still don't have an accounting from Vietnam of all the prisoners of war and those missing in action," the fire equipment salesman says.

He thinks at least as much concern should be shown by the government over the low-paid draftees who never came home from Vietnam as over the high-paid embassy personnel who voluntarily took diplomatic assignments in Tehran.

That's particularly true if and when it comes to ladling out money, others believe.

Rogers, whose mailing address is P.O. Box 3551, zip code 79452, would like to hear from others who share his concern over the status of POWs and MIAs about whom no accounting has been made.

The presumption is that many of these died in North Vietnamese prisoner of war camps, without ever seeing Jane Fonda there, although some undoubtedly died in battle and may never be accounted for.

★

MEDICAL researchers in Virginia have confirmed a theory to which we've long subscribed: Chemical-nutritional deficiencies are at the bottom of a lot of mental retardation.

Some children's brains just don't get enough common vitamins and minerals because of the way their bodies function.

In the latest study, mentally retarded children were given especially large amounts of vitamins A, D, C and E and several minerals, including magnesium and calcium, wire reports tells us.

The 16 children showed average IQ score gains of 10 points; two gained about 25 points. Gains diminished when the megadoses of vitamins were discontinued.

Other experiments will be needed to confirm the findings; meanwhile, family physicians should begin paying more attention to nutrition therapy for a lot of physical and mental conditions.

★

TEXANS PAID lower state-local taxes per capita than did residents of 40 other states in 1979, according to the Tax Foundation.

The per capita bite nationwide averaged $934 per person. In Texas, it was $749. Only nine states, mostly in the south, had lower per capita revenues. The lowest was Arkansas at $594.

Alaska had the biggest tax bite, as usual: $2,546 per capita. Even after Proposition 13, California ranked 10th at $1,058.

Texas looked even better—47th—in the amount of taxes paid per $1,000 of personal income. Texans paid $100, Californians $121, New Yorkers $166. The national average was $120.

Lower tax burdens and a booming economy are two reasons Texas grew by 26 percent in population during the 1970s while New York and other less enlightened states were losing ground.

★

"Water, properly distributed to highly productive soils, has to have a high priority to achieve" lasting world peace by providing adequate food and fiber to feed the hungry and clothe the cold, Joe Stanley says.

"Can anyone place a value," he asks, "on a full stomach, a warm body and an opportunity to succeed?"

★

ACCORDING to the Tulare, Calif., Advance-Register, "the time has come to reap the consequences of those luxurious tax cuts that have thickened the wallets of property owners since Proposition 13 became a reality."

In an editorial, the paper said the tax cuts mandated by a 1978 referendum created a time bomb that now is set to go off.

State treasury surpluses postponed the day of reckoning, it said, but that money has run out: "The well is dry and the drought has arrived."

Now, California and its local governments are faced either with finding new revenue or cutting services and the newspaper predicts that "lopping off fingers and toes won't save the patient in this case."

Holmes Alexander:

Ike Made Most Of The Least

WASHINGTON—Like any airplane journey, that Presidential administration is best when it can be called "uneventful."

Does a President have anything to do about that happy condition when nothing much happens? Yes, strangely, he does.

We can hardly expect that Ronald Reagan can run his course without turbulence and near-crack-ups considering his flying conditions, but this is almost what happened to another Republican President—Dwight D. Eisenhower.

If we can believe his forthcoming biography, W.B. Ewald's "Eisenhower the President, Critical Days: 1951-60," (Prentice-Hall), Ike not only had a relatively safe and easy flight—he arranged it that way.

THIS BOOK WAS ready for release during the campaign, but was withheld and will not appear until March when the new Chief Executive is firmly seated.

I have read the advance sheets and stand convinced that the author, who worked and lived closely with the whole Eisenhower family, knows that Ike was largely master of his Presidential fate. He accomplished this feat by a strong personality which the country never suspected, and by a military capacity for organization.

Ike was only a would-be artist, but his organizational apparatus began in the Oval Office with a hidden tape-recorder, controlled by a hidden switch, and a back-up mechanism in his proficient secretary Ann Whitman, also hidden in an adjoining room.

FOR EIGHT YEARS, hundreds of unknowing American and foreign visitors put themselves on record for future use by the President whose amiable face was a mask of candor.

Author Ewald morally disapproves of this sneaky information-gathering and calls it a "wart" on his hero's character. Part of Ike's genius of uneventfulness was to present the guileless and sincere front which concealed a ferocious temper and a cunning mentality.

He did not organize the luckiest break of his term, Stalin's death which came so soon; but Ike kept the peace when Hungary and East Germany revolted against Moscow, and a more rash President might have intervened.

He positively would lend no support or sympathy for the Franco-British attempt to seize the Suez Canal which Nasser had nationalized, thus sparing many Americans a senseless death in the sands of Egypt.

But his methods told him when to send Marines to Lebanon, and assistance to the Nationalist China defense of the Formosa Straits.

He was the contrast who stood between Truman rushing into Korea and Kennedy losing his nerve at the Bay of Pigs. Ike, for whatever combination of chance and sagacity, was pilot of the most uneventful flight in our time.

Things we may not have known about him are here revealed. He hated Franklin Roosevelt whom he saw playing "cruel" jokes on inferiors. He once had to carry a drunken FDR to bed and, much as Ike liked a drink or two, resolved never to be helpless during his years of national responsibility.

He despised Harry Truman and Jack Kennedy for weakening the country by unilateral disarmament.

There are a number of other revelations in this intimate biography. The reader, for instance will learn much about Ike's relations with Richard Nixon and Earl Warren, but nothing about Kay Summersby.

I hope the book will find its way to President Reagan's bedside table where he can read how it's possible to organize something that approaches an uneventful journey—which is the best kind.

the small society — by Brickman

Feds Take New Interest In Savings Bond Rates

NEW YORK—It is increasingly probable that the interest rate on U.S. Savings EE Bonds will be raised to an all-time high of 9 percent to maturity this spring—assuming no phenomenally-sharp decline in interest rates generally before then.

This boost to a 9 percent rate would be no more than a gesture toward justice for the millions of small investors in U.S. Savings Bonds and the more millions of you who regularly buy the bonds via payroll savings plans at the corporations for which you work.

You can, of course, earn far more than 9 percent today on other top-grade investments, short-term, intermediate or long-term.

THE RATE THE U.S. government has paid on its savings bonds has been cruelly out of line for years—a disgraceful shortchanging of the innocent investor and a dangerous pecking away at what is left of a sound public debt structure in the U.S.

Nevertheless, there are advantages in U.S. Savings Bonds that are in no other fixed-income securities, whatever their rates.

The fact that you can buy them in small, regular amounts through deductions from your paycheck is a form of "forced savings" that cannot be beat.

You'll save that money deducted from your paycheck for the simple, basic reason that you never get your hands on it.

YOU CAN ARRANGE through several methods to make the interest paid completely tax-exempt or almost so—and up to 9 percent tax-exempt is nothing to be sneezed at.

Their safety in absolute dollars cannot be surpassed—even though you have no guarantee about the buying power of the dollars.

My mail tells me that your misunderstanding about U.S. Savings Bonds is tremendous, as the following questions dramatize. Many of you aren't even aware that E bonds are no longer sold.

Q. What is the interest rate for EE bonds?

A. It's on a graduated scale that earns 5.5 percent, compounded semiannually, after the first year, and that increases to 7.5 percent at five years, and 8 percent at nine years. A new high rate of 9 percent at maturity may be announced in spring of 1981.

Q. WHAT HAPPENED to the E bonds?

A. The E bonds are still earning interest, the amount depending on when you bought them. In general, interest on outstanding E bonds for the first full semiannual interest period after Nov. 1, 1980 (when the rate was increased) will be from 5.5 percent for E bonds a year old to 7.5 percent for bonds held five or more years.

You can find out the current value of your E bonds by checking your local bank (most are authorized savings bond representatives) or by writing the Bureau of the Public Debt, Rm. 300, 1435 G St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20226 for a Table of Redemption Values.

Q. Is it true that very old E bonds—those bought during World War II—will stop earning interest soon? When?

A. All E bonds bought between May 1941 (their start) and April 1952 have an interest-bearing life of 40 years. A bond dated March 1945, for instance, will pay interest up to March 1985.

Thus, the very earliest any E bond stops paying interest will be May 1981, and then only those bonds bought in May 1941.

Q. Can I exchange E bonds for other government securities?

A. You cannot convert E or EE bonds into U.S. Treasury bills, notes or bonds, but you can convert them into HH Savings Bonds. HH bonds are face-value bonds (they cost full value at purchase) sold in denominations from $500 to $10,000.

THE MAJOR advantage of converting E or EE into HH bonds is to continue postponing payment of federal income tax on the interest you earned while they were in E or EE bonds. You will be subject to this payment when you cash in your HH bonds, presumably many years later.

U.S. Treasury marketable bills, notes and bonds do not have the tax-deferral feature of U.S. Savings Bonds. You must report the interest you earn per year and pay tax on it as you go.

Q. But the strongest point is the forced savings?

A. Yes! And since 25 percent of all Americans save nothing at all, this safe, simple, methodical method has a lot going for it.

James J. Kilpatrick:

FCC Eliminates Radio 'Static'

WASHINGTON—The Federal Communications Commission struck a blow for freedom a couple of weeks ago.

It abolished most of its own petty little regulations on radio broadcasting, and it took this step for the best of all reasons: The marketplace, the FCC concluded, can do a better job than bureaucrats can do.

For more than 50 years, dating from the Radio Act of 1927, the federal government has exercised authority over radio broadcasting.

That act mandated that stations were to be operated "in the public interest," and in 1934 the commission was created with power to define how the public interest should be served.

IN THE NATURE of things, this led inevitably to rules and regulations, to reports and records, to monitors and notices, and to all the paperwork on which bureaucrats thrive and businessmen expire.

Radio stations were required to undertake elaborate "ascertainment procedures," by which they would determine community issues in need of public discussion. The stations had to maintain comprehensive program logs.

Other rules dealt with the minutes and seconds that could be allocated to commercials. Still other regulations mandated minimum amounts of "non-entertainment programing."

With its order of January 14, the FCC scrapped almost all of these requirements.

From now on, said Chairman Charles D. Ferris, radio broadcasters "will be able to follow their own path in determining how to serve their community's needs and interests in ways that reflect the realities of today's radio market."

THAT MARKET IS remarkably active. At the last count, the commission had issued licenses to 4,575 AM stations and 4,358 FM stations. All but 1,086 of these are commercial stations that depend upon advertising for survival.

When the commission first proposed to abolish its rule on commercials (not more than 18 to 20 minutes an hour), protests were heard that many stations would broadcast commercials wall to wall.

The commission disagreed: "The quantity of advertising is generally so far below the guidelines as to demonstrate that competition and other marketplace forces, not regulation, most effectively restrict advertising loads."

THE SAME CONSIDERATIONS led to the commission's abandonment of old rules on non-entertainment programing.

In the past, AM stations were expected to devote at least 8 percent of their air time (and FM stations 6 percent) to news and public affairs. Most stations now exceed those guidelines.

In markets with seven or fewer stations, more than 80 percent of the stations now broadcast in excess of 10 percent news and public affairs. Listeners want news, weather advisories, traffic reports and the like.

It's good business to provide such information. No reason exists to believe that broadcasters will stop such services.

Neither is it likely that the broadcasters' new freedom will put a damper on ethnic programing.

More than 400 stations in 239 markets now cater to black audiences, and 139 of these provide "full-time black-oriented programing."

Other stations—270 of them—serve Spanish-speaking listeners. The marketplace has created a demand, and the marketplace will meet it.

Surely this is the right way to go about relieving the burden of overregulation at the federal level. The FCC is not abandoning its authority entirely.

WHEN LICENSES CHANGE hands, or new stations come into being, the FCC will continue to require statements on public interest programing.

The Fairness Doctrine remains in effect. Various technical requirements have not been lifted.

But the overall effect of the commission's order will be to promote diversity and responsibility among the radio stations. Doubtless there will be some abuses.

Freedom inevitably invites abuses, but such abuses are not likely to persist.

A station's failure to serve its audience, as Chairman Ferris remarked, "will result in economic penalties at least as severe as those the commission could impose."

Talk Of Trimming SEC Budget Meets Opposition

By CHET CURRIER

NEW YORK (AP) — Even some of the staunchest advocates of cutting back on big government were a bit startled the other day when advisers to President Reagan waved a scalpel in the direction of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Like any other regulatory body, the SEC, created in the 1930s to prevent the kind of financial chaos and abuses that helped lead to the Great Crash of 1929, has its critics.

Stockbrokers cried "disaster!" in 1975 when the SEC prodded their industry to give up fixed commission schedules in favor of open price-competition (although six years later Wall Street is anything but a disaster area).

Mutual fund managers often complain that the SEC has loaded them down with so many rules and regulations that they are barely able to compete with other kinds of financial-services companies.

But when someone starts talking about slashing the SEC's budget, and drastically changing its basic missions — as a report of President Reagan's transition team did — many Wall Streeters quickly change their tune.

"From what I can see, this report was badly conceived and badly done," said one top executive who requested anonymity.

"In my experience, these things are often written by people with a special axe to grind," observed another industry leader. "I don't think very much is ever going to come out of it."

The report itself acknowledges that the SEC has a history free of scandal, and a "deserved reputation for integrity and efficiency." But it also contends that the agency needlessly interferes with and hampers the functioning of the nation's capital-raising machinery.

"The SEC can and does raise artificial barriers in certain circumstances to the free accumulation and formation of capital . .. through regulations requiring excessive, unnecessary and continuing disclosure requirements," it says.

On that basis, the report suggests something close to a 180-degree shift in the emphasis of the SEC's mission. Rather than concentrating on enforcing securities laws as a kind of Wall Street police force, it says, the SEC should work to limit regulation of the securities industry, in order to create the freest possible environment for encouraging private investment.

"Encouragement of capital formation is a very desirable objective," said Arthur Levitt Jr., chairman of the American Stock Exchange. However, he said, de-emphasizing the watchdog role of the SEC could well reduce investors' confidence in the markets, and thus lead to precisely the opposite result.

A central figure in the debate is Stanley Sporkin, the chief of the SEC's enforcement division. The report suggests that Sporkin, a 20-year SEC veteran who takes his job very seriously, might have to be replaced.

With his activist approach, the 49-year-old Sporkin would not be a good bet to win many popularity contests on Wall Street. But if, as the agency's "top cop," he isn't universally loved on his beat, he has won plenty of respect.

The story is told that one financier who ran afoul of the SEC, frustrated by Sporkin's tenacity in running him to earth, paid him the grudging compliment: "Stanley, you're the best of the worst."

Says a securities industry executive who has known Sporkin for more than a decade, "If you're looking for someone to criticize Stanley, it isn't going to be me. He's a formidable investigator who performs a very important public service."

Congress' Campaign Funds Set Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Election Commission says candidates for Congress in the 1980 elections raised $240.1 million and spent $228.8 million. The amounts set records.

In the 1978 elections, House and Senate candidates raised $198.5 million and spent $198.2 million.

Democratic candidates for Congress raised $122.8 million and spent $117.3 million, and Republicans raised $116.4 million and spent $110.7 million, the commission said. Even so, Democrats lost control of the Senate and gave up 33 House seats.

'Carter Women' Seeking Jobs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jimmy Carter hired more women at the policy-making level than any U.S. president in history — a record Ronald Reagan appears unlikely to match.

Now the "Carter women" have re-entered the job market — some to find out if their high-level government experience can be translated into the bottom-line skills needed in the corporate world.

"If you look at the pictures of the new administration, its just a great sea of white male faces," says Anne Wexler, who was Carter's assistant for public liaison.

Wexler, "weighing a couple of offers" from private industry, says 22 percent of all Carter appointments to high-ranking, policy-making jobs were women, compared to 12 percent under former President Gerald Ford, the runner-up.

"It was fantastic," she says. "The president made a really strong effort to bring women in at very high levels throughout the government, undersecretaries, dozens of assistant secretaries, general counsels of five cabinet departments running staffs of between 150 and 300 lawyers each.

"Having women in on policy-making, having men working for women bosses, became the norm," she continued.

Women in middle-and high-level government posts jumped 17 percent under Carter, according to the Coalition for Women's Appointments of the National Women's Political Caucus.

In the Defense Department, middle-level women appointees leaped from 17 percent in 1976 to 40 percent in 1979, while those appointed to higher levels rose from zero to 10 percent, according to Coalition figures.

"We have submitted over 150 names of highly qualified women to the Reagan administration," says Coalition spokeswoman Janice Katz. "At this time the women have not been contacted. They have received form letters saying their resumes were received."

"From what we hear," Miss Katz adds, "women are not being placed in the structure. We cannot find out who is being hired."

Bette Anderson, appointed by Carter as the first woman undersecretary of the Treasury and recently elected to the board of International Telephone & Telegraph, says Reagan "to this point has made so few sub-cabinet appointments that I honestly cannot say" what his attitude on hiring women will be.

Meanwhile the Carter women — many with little or no experience in industry — face the task of translating their specialized expertise into marketable skills.

It may take them six months to a year to find positions, says John Schlueter, vice president and senior partner of Korn-Ferry International. The executive search arm has set resumes of 30 of the high-level women appointees to 100 of the Fortune 500 companies and 60 executive recruiting firms.

University Compared To Mythical Phoenix

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — If Alaska Pacific University had a team mascot, the school's president, Glenn Olds, thinks the most appropriate symbol would be a phoenix.

The tiny school not only does not have a mascot, it does not have any intercollegiate sports teams. But it does have the distinction of being the only private university in the United States to close and re-open in the 1970s.

The National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities says 141 schools, including Alaska Methodist University, closed during the past decade. Seventy-six new four-year institutions opened, but the Anchorage school — with a new name and a new president — is the only one to recycle itself.

Facing a $4.5 million debt, accumulated over its 17-year existence, and competition from a rapidly expanding upper-division curriculum at nearby University of Alaska-Anchorage, the school shut down in May 1976.

The only real assets remaining were a quiet, tree-lined campus of 140 acres and five buildings, most of them needing extensive refurbishing.

In mythology, the phoenix was a creature that arose from its own ashes. The similarities between the mythical bird and APU are a favorite analogy of the man presiding over the rebirth of the school, Glenn Olds, former president of Kent State University, philosopher, theologian, diplomat and government consultant.

Since his arrival in the fall of 1977, Olds has put together a flashy board of trustees, loaded with state, national and international heavyweights in fields ranging from religion to entertainment to industry.

Bolstered by strong ties to the private business sector, Olds last year launched a fund-raising drive that aimed to collect $3 million the first year and $7 million over the next three years.

A modest start to be sure, but one in keeping with the size and quality of school Olds is trying to build.

"Shoot, I had more money for intercollegiate football at Kent State than I had to run this entire school last year," Olds said. "The faculty in the Kent State Department of English was larger than the student body here when APU opened."

In September 1977, APU had a budget of $850,000 for its one full-time student and 91 part-time students. By 1980, the budget has grown to $3.3 million with 157 full-time and 270 part-time students, 31 from foreign countries.

Although that still pales beside the numbers at most of the country's public universities, Olds believes there is a lesson to be learned for private universities nationwide.

He says too many little schools have tried to become big schools without ever stopping to ask whether there was a virtue to bigness.

And the small schools all too often have tried to hide their religious orientation and perspective instead of emphasizing them as strengths and assets.

TWU's Policy Angers Student

DENTON (AP) — Men enrolled at Texas Woman's University are "very serious, very fine students" and are not a joke, no matter what a disgruntled would-be transfer student says, according to the school's president.

The complaint came from a 20-year-old DeSoto man, Eric Herman, who told a newspaper reporter he wants to transfer from Howard Payne University in Brownwood to TWU, for the Denton school's music therapy program.

But when he inquired at the admissions office about transferring, an employee told him he was ineligible "because I'm a guy," he told the Dallas Morning News.

He said the employee told him, "We have a lot of males who come here and we say it's not that they can't pass the entrance, they can't pass the physical."

"What perturbed me the most was their attitude that it was a joke because I was male," he said.

TWU President Mary Evelyn Huey said she could find neither a formal admission application from Herman nor the employee who, Herman claims, considered his inquiry a "joke."

"I'm sorry if he has been offended," she said. "I have not been able to find who said that, but certainly we do not take the young men at our university as a joke. They are very serious, very fine students and we take them very seriously."

She said Herman's only contact with the university, as far as she could determine, was an informal visit during the fall semester.

The university policy banning men from its general studies field is legal, under a 1972 amendment to Title VII of the Public Education Act that permits single-sex admissions at any college that "... from its establishment has had a policy of admitting only students of one sex."

Admission standards are "clearly set out in the university catalog," Mrs. Huey said, and are carefully explained to each of the "10 or 12" male applicants the university gets each academic year.

"This is the first one who has been apparently unable to accept our policy," she said.

"We try to counsel with these young men, as was done in this case. He was told he could complete his undergraduate work, then enroll in our graduate program.

Men are enrolled in the graduate school and health sciences division, but not to the undergraduate general studies division, a situation that is both legal and proper, she said.

"I'm very strongly in support of the notion that a woman's university is a proper thing," she said. "First of all, a woman is given a better opportunity to realize her full potential at a woman's university. Studies affirm and confirm this.

"On a single-sex campus a woman has a greater opportunity to participate in total campus life and assume positions of leadership, than at coed schools," she said.

"We have several students who transfered to TWU who have been discouraged because of the treatment they get at coed schools.

"I grew up on this campus. I never knew there was any question but that a woman could do anything she decided to do, and our students leave TWU convinced of that."

Closing Of Mississippi River Bridge Hurts Town's Economy

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis. (AP) — The closing of a Mississippi River bridge that linked this small town with two Iowa farming communities has cut the Iowans off from their hospital and is forcing some shoppers and commuters to take 60-mile detours, local officials say.

In addition, Prairie du Chien Mayor James Bittner says businessmen here tell him 50 percent of their trade comes from in and around the two communities on the Iowa side of the river. And he's worried about estimates that the year-long closing could mean $73 million in losses.

Bittner is hoping for disaster aid from the federal government, but said officials told him the prospects look dim because the problem is man-made and not natural.

"They're going by the book in handling this thing, but it's something that just isn't in the book," Bittner said.

"I said that if we secede from the union, declare war on the United States and blow up the bridge, then surrender and ask for help, we'd get it," he said, jokingly. "But because we're part of the country, we won't. It's very hard to understand things from our standpoint."

The problem began about a year ago when inspectors found a 4-inch crack in the tie girder that holds the arch of the Marquette-Joliet Memorial Bridge together. After a lengthy study, officials concluded that the flawed steel could give way under a heavy load or in extremely cold weather.

On Jan. 16, Wisconsin and Iowa transportation officials announced that the 6-year-old, 2,500-foot bridge would be closed within hours.

Marquette and McGregor, Iowa, with a combined population of about 1,500, are "suburbs" to Prairie du Chien, a community of 5,540. Many people live in one state and work in another. Residents of Marquette and McGregor shop in Prairie du Chien, where the area's only hospital is located.

The nearest bridge is 30 miles upstream.

Fabian Files Lawsuit For Slander

FABIAN

The film, based on the experiences of Forte's former personal manager, Bob Marcucci, is about a brash promoter who molds two young men into national stars. Forte, charging defamation of character and invasion of privacy, contends one of the two men is a representation of himself.

The lawsuit names Marcucci, who served as a consultant on the film, as a defendant along with United Artists and its parent company, TransAmerica, producers Gene Kirkwood and Howard Koch Jr. and screenplay author Edward DiLorenzo.

There was no immediate comment from any of the defendants on the lawsuit, filed Monday in Los Angeles Superior Court.

Under Marcucci's management, Forte, who grew up in Philadelphia, became a pop star in 1959 with such hits as "Turn Me Loose," "Tiger" and "Hound Dog Man."

Marcucci, who also managed Frankie Avalon, has described the characters in the film as composites.

Albert Recuperating At Home

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Former House Speaker Carl Albert is out of the hospital and will stay home to continue his recovery from a heart attack, a spokesman for Oklahoma Memorial Hospital says.

The 72-year-old Democrat from McAlester, who was released Tuesday, was in "good, stable condition," the spokesman said.

Albert was admitted to a McAlester hospital Dec. 30 after complaining of chest pains. He was transferred to Oklahoma Memorial Jan. 4 and several days later doctors confirmed he had suffered a heart attack in the McAlester hospital.

Albert, a coal miner's son, was House speaker from 1970 through 1976.

Films Nominated For Awards

The nominees are Redford's "Ordinary People" and Scorsese's "Raging Bull," plus Michael Apted's "Coal Miner's Daughter," "The Elephant Man," directed by David Lynch and Richard Bush's "The Stunt Man."

The winner of the guild's 33rd annual award will be announced at banquets in New York and Hollywood on March 14.

Nominations were made from among 6,000 Guild members.

Garner Claims Studios Cheated

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Actor James Garner says he'll "have to sue" to recover profits he says are due him from the popular television show "The Rockford Files," which he quit because of various injuries.

Garner charged in an interview in the March issue of Playboy magazine that Universal Studios cheated him out "a lot more than a couple of million" dollars.

Universal's legal department refused comment on the allegations.

Garner, 52, quit "The Rockford Files" in December 1979, midway through its sixth season. Universal filed suit against the actor.

He said he was supposed to receive 38 percent of the profits from "The Rockford Files" through his own company, Cherokee Productions.

But in 1979, he said, he received a cost-accounting sheet from a Universal employee showing the series had lost $9.5 million in its first five years on the air. He said he assumed a series that had been on the air so long and earned $40 million in rentals would be profitable.

Garner said he suffered a variety of physical injuries while filming "The Rockford Files" and during previous television and movie roles.

"I'd done 11 of the final 22 shows, but pain has a way of building up until it's unbearable," he said.

Mayor Running Out Of Shoes

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Edward Koch would surely acknowledge that the costs of running for public office can be steep, but he didn't expect that running for his health would put a dent in his wallet.

The Lighter Side Of The News

The mayor said Tuesday that his locker at a lower Manhattan health club has been broken into twice and his sneakers stolen on both occasions.

"That's a lot of money; I've now spent $90 in two years on running shoes," the mayor said after a City Hall news conference on another matter.

Koch refused to identify the health club, saying, "It's not the fault of the management."

Canada Scout Troop Bars Youth For Refusing To Pledge To God

BURNABY, British Columbia (AP) — Carlo Guerreiro doesn't mind pledging to serve Queen and country, but the 11-year-old can't find a religion that "makes any sense." And that means he can't join the Boy Scouts.

Carlo would like to join the 2nd Burnaby South Boy Scout troop, but refuses to take the Scout pledge with its traditional vow to "love and serve God." His stand has thrown local Boy Scout executives and human rights organizations into a quandary.

"The Scouts are dedicated to the mental, physical, social, and spiritual development of the boys," said Ted Hathaway, provincial executive director of the Boy Scouts. "If the boy couldn't take the promise, we don't have any alternative."

He blamed Carlo's parents for the controversy, contending that "children of that age aren't capable of making up their minds."

But Bob Clarke, Carlo's stepfather, said the decision was the boy's.

"He's an exceptional little guy. ... His mom and I think he's really something special in his temperament and his capacity for feelings. When he gives his word, he takes it seriously," Clarke said.

Carlo has nothing against God or religion, says his mother, Victoria Clark.

Boy Wins National Sewing Contest

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Robert Hyatt sewed up a national contest for seamsters with a zippered fleece-lined jacket and gray slacks. His competitors were given more to skirts, dresses and pantsuits.

Hyatt, 16, of Ridgefield, Wash., was the only boy entered in the contest. He says he said he enjoyed surprising boys and girls alike with his ability to sew. He defeated 52 female competitors from 27 states to win.

Hyatt modeled the jacket and trousers he created to win the junior division for youths aged 14 to 16, of the 36th Annual Make It Yourself With Wool national finals Monday night.

Hyatt said he does not expect any ribbing from his male friends because of his sewing prowess.

"As a matter of fact, it's kinda neat being the only guy here," said Hyatt, whose Copenhagen blue wool jacket with raglan sleeves was lined with acrylic fur. He used elastic casing for the sleeves and waist of his jacket and three gray wool stripes accented the sleeves and matched his Western-style wool slacks.

Hyatt said his sewing has not detracted from his other activities, pointing out he was co-captain of his school's football team and also is on the basketball, baseball, wrestling and track and field teams

"Mom is a sewing teacher and I began to notice how much fun the three of them (mother and two sisters) seemed to have sewing together...and well, I guess I wanted to get in on it," Hyatt said in explaining his interest in sewing.

"I don't have much time to sew, but it's fun occasionally to sew something and surprise people who think guys can only throw footballs," said Hyatt, who won a trip to Washington, D.C., and New York City, a sewing machine, set of luggage, steam iron and $500 scholarship and $500 bond.

"Most of the guys I know think it's neat I can do something girls do — maybe it is a form of reverse discrimination," he laughed.

Iowa Town Plans Concert To Remember Holly

CLEAR LAKE, Iowa (AP) — His death immortalized in the song American Pie by Don McClean — the lyrics say "The day the music died" — and considered a rock and roll pioneer, the late Buddy Holly will be remembered in a special concert next month at the last place he appeared before his death.

Four people were killed in a plane crash five miles north of Clear Lake on Feb. 3, 1959.

The wreckage was strewn over a farm field. It wasn't discovered that February morning until 9:30 a.m. The plane was last heard from at 1 a.m. shortly after takeoff.

Killed were entertainers Holly, 22, Ritchie Valens, 21, J.P. Richardson, 24, better known as the "Big Bopper," and the pilot of the aircraft, Roger Peterson, 23, of Clear Lake.

The three entertainers had just played the Surf Ballroom in Clear Lake the night before and were on their way to Fargo, N.D., for another appearance at Moorehead, Minn. Other members of the troupe were Dion and the Belmonts and Frankie Sardo and the Crickets, of which Holly, a native of Lubbock, was the singing star.

Most left Clear Lake by bus. But the stars had decided to fly because the heater in the bus was broken.

DR. LAMB

Vitamin C Controversy

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I've already had my share of colds this winter. One episode was the flu I think. Last year I took a gram of vitamin C every day and I had only two colds, but this year I have taken the same amount and it hasn't helped a bit. What can I do to prevent these miserable colds?

DEAR READER — You fell into the trap of assuming that the good year you had in terms of not having colds was because you took vitamin C. You might well have had a good year if you had rubbed snake oil on your nose daily. Your experience this year has taught you not to make unscientific premature conclusions.

The bulk of investigations by reputable scientists have failed to show that vitamin C prevents colds. A few think it may shorten or decrease the severity of symptoms — a view that is not universally accepted either. One of the early investigators who thought vitamin C might be useful, Dr. John Coulehan, writing for Postgraduate Medicine, September 1979, reviewed the published works and stated. "There is no reason to accept (the) contention that use of vitamin C in large doses can prevent most colds in most people or that vitamin C therapy can abort colds."

In any case, I have strong hopes that some of the new antiviral agents such as Interferon will be both cheap enough and effective enough eventually to enable people to obtain rapid effective relief from the cold, flu virus groups.

Meanwhile, what you do to avoid these contagious diseases is discussed in The Health Letter number 3-2, Colds and Flu Group, Prevention and Treatment, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

The basic principle is that it is a contagious disease. Avoid crowds and traveling to avoid the germs. Wear gloves to keep the viruses from getting on your hands and wash hands frequently. Do not touch your face or nose area. To prevent flu, the annual flu shots still provide one of the most effective ways of prevention.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have some extra flesh and loose skin under my chin. Now that I am 69 both have become wrinkled. If I could have this removed, it would help my looks a lot. I asked the county medical association how to contact a surgeon who does this, but where we live there isn't one. Can you tell me where I can get this done?

DEAR READER — First, the operation can be done. It is simple and it can improve a person's appearance.

Second, your letter reminds me how often people have difficulty in locating the right kind of physician for a specific problem. You were correct in contacting your county medical society. They should have told you to talk to your family doctor. You should have one who is familiar with your medical status whom you can count on.

The way to find a specialist in another area is to ask your family doctor to refer you to the proper place. After all, he will be the one to look after you when you get home so let him help you. That applies to people needing specialists not available in their community for whatever the problem might be.

Researcher Reports Vasectomies May Present Extra Risk Factor

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Vasectomies speed up the hardening of arteries that leads to heart disease in monkeys and may present an extra "risk factor" to some men, says an Oregon researcher.

Nancy J. Alexander of the Oregon Regional Primate Research Center in Beaverton, Ore., cautioned this week that the risk has not been proved in human males.

But, she added, a man who "exhibits many other (heart disease) risk factors might well want to wait" until more is known about any effects of the common birth control operation before deciding whether to have it.

Smoking, obesity and hypertension are among the factors that increase the risk of heart disease.

Miss Alexander told an American Heart Association seminar for science writers that studies done with two species of monkey indicated vasectomies cause complex immune reactions that "can accelerate atherosclerosis," the narrowing and hardening of blood vessels that sets the stage for heart attacks and strokes.

She said the National Institutes of Health are funding several large-scale studies around the country to determine whether vasectomies have similar effects on human males.

"Monkeys are not human beings and it may be ... that this effect will not occur in men," she said. "If I had to guess, I would guess vasectomy may be a risk factor for a certain percentage of the population and at the present time we cannot define that population."

A vasectomy is a simple operation in which the passage through which sperm cells travel is tied off, without interfering with normal sexual activity. The operation does not stop sperm production, so the cells accumulate and eventually break down inside the body.

The body's immune system apparently mistakes the broken-down material for an enemy and dispatches defensive cells called antibodies.

These anti-sperm antibodies are found in about half of all vasectomized men or male animals.

Miss Alexander said it is unclear why not all individuals produce them.

She said the antibodies apparently can damage the inside walls of blood vessels and eventually lead to atherosclerosis.

A pilot study involved 10 monkeys fed a diet overloaded with cholesterol. After six months, some of the monkeys received vasectomies, while others were given sham operations, she said.

When the animals were killed and autopsied 10 months later, Miss Alexander said, "There was significantly more atherosclerosis in the vasectomized group."

A second study involved 10 monkeys of another species that had been vasectomized nine to 14 years earlier and fed a diet almost free of cholesterol throughout their lives. They were compared with unvasectomized monkeys of the same age.

"We found no atherosclerotic plaques (clumps of fatty debris that clog vessels) in the thoracic aortas (a large chest artery) of control animals, but large plaques were found in seven of the 10 vasectomized monkeys."

She said atherosclerosis elsewhere in the body was "also considerably greater in the vasectomized monkeys."

"Our first question was, were you more likely to have more atherosclerosis if you were vasectomized and the second was, the extensiveness of it," Miss Alexander said.

"In both groups, we found that it was indeed the case," she said: Vasectomized monkeys are more likely to have atherosclerosis than those in control groups, and the atherosclerosis they suffer is likely to be more severe.

Lawyer Says Client's Prayers Answered

GRIFFIN, Ga. (AP) — An expectant mother whose religious objections to a Caesarean section operation were overruled by a Georgia court probably will not have to undergo the operation because of an extremely unusual change in her condition, doctors say.

Doctors examined Jessie Mae Jefferson this week and found that her placenta had moved so that it no longer blocks her birth canal. The shift will allow them to attempt a vaginal delivery of the baby, which is due to be born any time now.

The Georgia Supreme Court last week upheld a lower court ruling requiring the 29-year-old Mrs. Jefferson to submit to a Caesarean section if doctors determined it was necessary to save the life of her unborn child.

The Supreme Court gave custody of the Jeffersons' unborn child to Butts County authorities as a means of protecting the baby, which the court ruled is "a human being fully capable of sustaining life independent of the mother," Custody will return to the mother at birth.

The high court was told by doctors at a hearing last week that Mrs. Jefferson's placenta was blocking the birth canal and that without the operation, both the baby and the mother could die.

Dr. John Turrentine, resident in obstetrics and gynecology at Griffin-Spaulding County Hospital, said it was extremely unusual for a placenta to move as quickly and as late in a pregnancy as Mrs. Jefferson's apparently has.

He said the case appeared to be unique and probably would be reported in a medical journal.

Mrs. Jefferson's attorney, Hugh Glidewell Jr., said his client maintains the movement of the placenta meant that "her prayers had been answered."

"Who knows?" he said. "It moved, that's all I can say. It was there before, but after the hearing they did an examination and it's not there. Something moved it."

Defense Chief Airs Warning To Nation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger called today for a drastic re-arming of America, warning the current world situation raises the chances the nation may have to use its armed forces to protect U.S. interests.

"The international political climate continues to deteriorate and the prospects of our having to employ military force directly or indirectly to safeguard our interests cannot be dismissed," Weinberger told the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"The current condition of our armed forces is less than satisfactory ... (and) this state of affairs could not have come at a more inappropriate time," he said.

Gen. David Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, spoke at the same hearing of a "dangerous and unstable decade" ahead and said a critical gap exists between U.S. And Soviet military power.

Jones also cautioned that if the Soviet Union interferes with vital U.S. interests in the Persian Gulf, it could trigger a major confrontation between the two nations that would spread beyond Southwest Asia.

Weinberger said the Soviets have over the past 15 years "embarked upon a military buildup unprecedented in world history." Because of that, he said, the United States is behind in conventional and strategic power and readiness.

"We will spend whatever is necessary to improve our capabilities as expeditiously as possible," he told the committee. He outlined his two top priorities "in re-arming America" as follows:

"One is to improve the readiness of the forces in being. The other is to redress the imbalances that have developed between our strategic nuclear forces and those of the Soviets."

Weinberger and Jones testified on the fiscal 1982 defense budget, for which former President Carter request $196.1 billion — more than $25 billion over the 1981 figure.

In his annual "state of the military message," Jones urged Congress to approve production of the B-1 bomber, the proposed successor to the aged B-52 scrapped by the Carter administration in 1977.

Jones said the United States must improve combat readiness to meet threats to its oil interests in the Persian Gulf and elsewhere outside NATO. And he appealed for greater NATO cooperation to defend Europe against a Soviet attack.

"A key imperative for the 1980s will be to demonstrate that we have the power, the will and the wisdom to prevent these (U.S.) interests from being undermined by hostile forces," he told the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"We must have the capability to act when, where and how it serves our interests, not simply react to crisis at the point of attack."

Jones said, "In case of conflict with the Soviets, particularly in Southwest Asia, there would be no way for the West to match the weight of effort that the Soviets could hurl into a conventional battle."

Jones, criticized by conservatives for weakness because he went along with cuts in the defense budget that doomed the B-1, switched to a tougher stance certain to be applauded by the Reagan administration.

The committee, chaired by Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, long has pushed for a stronger U.S. defense posture, but has been overridden by a more liberal Democrat-ruled Congress.

The theme of Jones' overview on the U.S. military posture centered on the need to "re-arm America," as Weinberger said, because of growing Soviet military might during the past 15 years.

Jones said U.S. forces must be modernized to ensure "security and stability in what will surely be an inherently dangerous and unstable decade."

He said the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and its encirclement of Poland has "permitted the (Russians') velvet glove to slip somewhat, revealing an unmistakable view of the mailed fist ....

Strike Spreads Across Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — At least eight factories shut down in southeast Poland today in answer to a call for a general strike to support farmers seeking an independent union. More strikes were reported elsewhere in a surge of labor unrest.

Meanwhile, the leadership of the independent trade union Solidarity proclaimed a nationwide, one-hour warning strike for Feb. 3 in an apparent bid to reassert its leadership in the face of seemingly uncontrollable local protests.

In Warsaw, newspapers quoted a Politburo member as saying militant unionists "must be barred from participation in the management of Poland's socio-economic life." The member, Mieczyslaw Moczar, on Tuesday called for a purge of associates of former Communist Party leader Edward Gierek, deposed during last summers' strikes which he said they should have seen coming and acted to prevent.

In Rzeszow, 160 miles south of Warsaw, eight plants, including two that make aircraft and engines, shut down at 7 a.m. and all non-striking enterprises in the area observed a five-minute pause, their sirens wailing in support.

The strike called by the Rzeszow chapter of Solidarity, Poland's big independent labor union spawned during the summer protests, came after the government failed to send a delegation to discuss a delay in the registrating an independent farmers' union.

Some 300 farmers and peasants have occupied the headquarters of the now-defunct government unions there since Jan. 3 to press for a farmers' union and air other grievances. Lech Walesa, Solidarity's moderate leader, failed to prevent their strike call in talks Tuesday.

The Solidarity national presidium held a regular meeting in Gdansk and said it would begin negotiations with the government "at any moment" to avoid further strikes. The presidium also appealed to its local branches to stop the current surge of spontaneous regional strikes.

The appeal and the Feb. 3 strike call were seen as attempts by the national union leadership to regain control over local chapters which have conducted largely spontaneous strikes in recent weeks.

The Solidarity leaders were to meet in Rzeszow Thursday.

Some 10,000 students continued a sit-in at Lodz University, in Poland's second largest city, demanding more academic freedom and an end to compulsory classes in Marxism, and strikes were reported in Bielec, Jaroslaw, Bialystock, Katowice, Bielsko Biala, Zdunska Wola, Jastrzebie, Radom, Sieradz and Swidnica.

Trybuna Ludu, meanwhile, carried a sharp criticism of the strikes, saying they perpetuated "economic chaos" in the country and noting that the social price of such strikes "is definitely too high, downright catastrophically high."

Frenship's Tax Policy Attacked

bond election have not yet been built.

Howell compared Frenship's $159 million property valuation with its $4 million bonded indebtedness and called the district a good prospect for bond sales. But Bennett said the district's residents feel they are saturated with taxes.

"You can't just throw out a bond election any time and get it passed," Bennett said.

Howell alleged the district had induced voters to pass the $3 million bond issue in December 1979 by operating Frenship's schools under overcrowded conditions.

Bennett denied that suggestion, and other trustees remarked during a recess that Howell had twisted the figures. One trustee disputed his claim that revenues had doubled, adding, "I need to refigure some things."

Howell also asserted Frenship, because of a past pattern of not allowing developments to be annexed into the Lubbock Independent School District, only wanted students from affluent homes in its schools. When Howell contended absorbing Lubbock's westward growth is not a burden for the district, Bennett replied, "It is if there's no place to put them."

The defense is attempting to prove the project will not have the adverse effects the school district anticipates. U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward has told attorneys he does not believe it is his function to substitute his judgment for that of HUD.

Bennett Tuesday outlined a variety of financial and facilities problems facing Frenship schools. City constant growth in the number of students over the past several years, Bennett repeatedly stated needs that were going unmet because of a lack of money.

He said hallways and even restrooms, as well as a gym that has never been used for recreation, have been converted into classrooms. He said the junior high needs $230,000 worth of repairs and that numerous supplies and programs are not affordable with the district's present indebtedness of more than $4 million.

Despite a new high school building program, Bennett said, if the present growth rate continues the students will still have to use barracks. He also said if only 75 new students enter the district through the housing project, Frenship would have to buy a $25,000 bus for which it does not have the money.

Woodward has told both parties he is primarily concerned with whether HUD acted capriciously toward Frenship, whether HUD considered all factors and whether an environmental impact statement was required. The opposing attorneys disagree over interpretation of HUD's manual and regulations on the subject.

Frenship is expected to rest its case today and Woodward has said he wants testimony to end this afternoon.

Phone Rate Hike Pared

refunds would total in the neighborhood of $1, he estimated.

Goodwin said he was not sure how much of a rate increase Lubbock will get under the plan approved by the PUC.

According to early reports from Austin, a five-cent monthly increase will be implemented for residential service in the state's largest cities, including Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Austin, Corpus Christi, Waco and others.

Goodwin noted that Lubbock is in the same rate group as Waco, so the nickel increase probably will be in effect here.

The approved plan calls for smaller cities to pay the largest increases. Customers in the smallest areas served by Southwestern Bell probably will see a 55-cent increase for basic service on their monthly bills.

Ricketts said he doesn't view his recommendations on rate increase "as overly burdening any particular group of customers at all."

Ricketts also recommended that the PUC deny Bell's proposal to utilize time and distance charges on the measured rate service provided by the company to about 3 percent of its customers.

Measured rate service was initiated in an effort on the order of the PUC to provide low cost telephone service to the elderly and others who make minimal use of their phones.

Goodwin expressed disappointment in the PUC decision this morning. "This will simply hasten the day when we return for rate relief," he said.

According to Goodwin, Southwestern Bell is charged with providing the highest quality in phone service for the state. However, the company must face the state's awesome growth in the past few years and the ravages of inflation in trying to provide that service.

Bank Drops Prime Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Marine Midland Bank, the nation's 12th largest commercial bank, today cut its prime rate by one-half percentage point to 19.5 percent, marking the first such reduction in the key corporate lending rate in three weeks.

Most other major banks are currently quoting a 20 percent prime, although analysts and bank economists say they believe a widespread drop in the prime may be in the offing.

"Banks generally are waiting for signs that rates will" take a sustained downward path before committing themselves to reductions in their own rates, said Alan Murray, an economist at Citibank, the nation's second largest.

The prime rate is what banks charge on short-term loans to their most creditworthy corporate customers. Other business borrowers generally are charged one or two percentage points above the prime. The prime does not apply to consumer loans but is watched as an indicator of trends in all kinds of interest rates.

chitis and exhaustion. He was listed in satisfactory condition and was not expected to be discharged before tomorrow.

With 6,000 guests spread out on the White House South Lawn, and a nationwide television audience watching, Reagan capped the freed Americans' first week of liberty Tuesday, saying:

"Your freedom and your individual dignity are much cherished. In the representation of this nation you will be accorded every means of protection that America can muster.

"Let terrorists be aware that when the rules of international behavior are violated, our policy will be one of swift and effective retribution.

"We hear it said that we live in an era of limits to our power," Reagan added. "Well let it also be understood there are limits to our patience."

Laingen, the charge d'affaires at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran when it was overrun by an Islamic mob Nov. 4, 1979, replied: "Our flight to freedom is now complete."

"Mr. President, I give you .... 53 Americans who will always have a love affair with this country and who join you in a prayer of thanksgiving for the way in which this crisis has strengthened the spirit and resilience and strength that is the mark of a truly free country," Laingen said.

Thousands upon thousands of people — 250,000 by one Washington police estimate — lined the former hostages' route to the White House from Andrews Air Force Base, where they flew after a two-day rest period with their families at West Point, N.Y. On their way from the White House to their hotel, they stopped at the State Department for another rousing welcome.

Government workers emptied out of office buildings along Pennsylvania Avenue, sidewalks were a sea of yellow ribbons, and a huge American flag hung over the avenue in an archway formed by the ladders of two fire trucks.

"We knew we would get a big reception, but I don't think any of us was really prepared for how wonderful it was," said Steven M. Lauterbach, 29, of Dayton, Ohio, who was an administrative officer at the embassy. "It just stunned us."

"The American people would never forget us or turn on us," said politial officer William J. Daugherty. "The Iranians tried to tell us they would, but we didn't believe it."

In addition to the 52 freed last week, Reagan invited to the ceremony Richard Queen, the hostage released last summer because of illness; 13 hostages who gained their freedom earlier; family members; relatives of the eight men killed in the aborted commando raid last April; the surviving members of the raiding party; six other Americans who escaped Iran with the help of Canadian officials; and government and congressional leaders.

"This closes the chapter for us," said the father of one of the men who died in the rescue raid.

Reagan's voice broke with emotion at one point when he was talking to the former hostages inside the White House.

The president gave each of the 52 just-freed Americans and Queen a miniature U.S. flag in a rosewood box, accompanied by a card he signed Tuesday morning in the Oval Office. He said each would be given one of the 53 flags that flew behind them on the White House South Lawn.

Alexander Trial Nearing Close

brains of a peace officer?" Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford asked the psychologist after Dickerson had talked about a study made on 200 people. "Wouldn't that be one of those variables?"

The psychologist, under further cross-examination by Montford, admitted that a jury — after hearing all the evidence in a case — is as qualified as anybody to predict future violence.

The psychologist also told the jury that he considered using a gun as part of a jailbreak an act of violence. But when asked by Montford if that action indicates a future threat to society, Dickerson answered, "It does not prove anything in my mind."

Holder rested his case at 9:55 a.m., calling only Alexander's elderly grandfather to the witness stand before the psychologist. As did many of Alexander's family and friends Tuesday afternoon, Alexander's grandfather testified that he had remembered his grandson as a good boy.

Presiding Judge Robert C. Wright indicated that he would allow the prosecution and defense 45 minutes each to summarize their arguments to the eight-man, four-woman jury.

Montford was expected to take about half of his allotted time before second defense attorney Dick Alexander opened the argument for the defense. Holder was then scheduled to finish the defense's plea for a life sentence before Montford concluded his argument for the death penalty.

In testimony Tuesday, jurors learned of a reported jailbreak scheme by Alexander, but weren't allowed to hear how the weapon allegedly smuggled into Lubbock County Jail for the convicted capital murderer was used by another inmate to commit suicide.

Presiding Judge Robert C. Wright ruled that though the smuggling of the gun into the jail was relevant to the state's case, testimony about the suicide probably would only inflame and prejudice the jury. Wright's ruling prompted Montford to unexpectedly end the state's case against Alexander at 3:40 p.m.

Testimony concerning the alleged December escape attempt was the final piece of evidence presented by Montford, who is seeking the death penalty for the 21-year-old Lorenzo man. Defense attorney Floyd Holder is expected to complete his side of the case today, after which jurors must decide whether to assess Alexander life in prison or death by injection for the Oct. 5, 1980, shooting death of Department of Public Safety trooper Jerry Don Davis.

Montford called a series of witnesses to the stand Tuesday to outline for the eight-man, four-woman panel how a .38-caliber derringer was smuggled into the Lubbock jail for Alexander's reported escape attempt.

A jail inmate told the panel that the defendant's longtime girlfriend Elainnia Hill smuggled the derringer into the jail two times before leaving the weapon a third and final time.

The prisoner testified he first heard a discussion between Alexander and Mrs. Hill concerning an escape plan soon after the defendant was returned to Lubbock County from Liberal, Kan., where he was arrested.

"He asked her to bring him a gun," the inmate said, adding that an earlier plan had been built around sawing through the bars with a "jeweler's string."

After two trips into the jail with the gun, Mrs. Hill finally arranged to leave the weapon on a third visit, the inmate told the court.

Jailer Scott Frederickson told the jury he found the gun on the third floor of the Lubbock jail Dec. 10, but Wright refused to allow testimony about the jail inmate who ultimately killed himself with the gun.

Lawmen recovered the weapon about 3:30 a.m. Dec. 10 after inmate Frederick Michael Myers apparently used it to shoot himself in the head. He was declared dead less than an hour later at West Texas Hospital.

Following the conclusion of the state's witnesses, Holder called Alexander's parents and several longtime friends as character witnesses.

"He's my son — I love him," Mrs. Alexander answered at one point after Holder asked her why she would have tried to help her son hide the car he was driving the night he shot and killed Davis.

She described her son as a hard worker up until about a year ago and a loving family member. Alexander went through the 11th grade at Lorenzo High School, she testified, and didn't move away from home until he was 19.

Alexander's father, Bill, also testified that he remembered his son as a normal boy who "never gave me any trouble."

He said he did remember paying a fine for his son once when Alexander had been picked up for fighting. He explained to the jury that several older boys had jumped the youngest Alexander boy, and Billy Wayne Alexander had intervened to protect his brother.

Bani-Sadr, Clergymen Battle For Power

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr and the conservative Islamic clergymen opposed to him exchanged more charges as their power struggle heated up.

Bani-Sadr claimed two plots to asssassinate him had been uncovered in the past two months. The militant Islamic mullahs charged that supporters of the Westernized, moderate president ransacked an office of their Islamic Republican Party.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, meanwhile, ordered Iran's armed forces today to continue the war against Iraq "until total victory" was achieved, Iran's official Pars news agency reported.

Pars said the 80-year-old patriarch of the Iranian revolution issued his orders during a meeting in Tehran with leaders of the Revolutionary Guards, a paramilitary organization that has fought the invading Iraqis alongside the regular Iranian armed forces.

Khomeini also heard reports from Iran's Supreme Defense Council on the progress of the war, now more than four months old, according to the report, but made no reference to the power struggle between Bani-Sadr and the clergy.

Writing in his Tehran newspaper Enghelab Islami Tuesday, Bani-Sadr said one band of plotters planned to shoot him Nov. 19, the Shiite Moslem holy day of Ashura, during a speech he was to make at a rally in Ahvaz, the beleaguered capital of Khuzistan province, where much of the war with Iraq is being fought. He said paramilitary units discovered the plot.

The president, who is commander in chief of the armed forces, said the army secret service reported a second plot on Jan. 14. His motorcade was to be attacked by rocket grenades during a trip to Ahvaz from the air base at Dezful, 75 miles north of the provincial capital, he said.

Although Bani-Sadr did not identify the plotters by name, he left no doubt that he meant Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai and his associates in the cleric-led Islamic Republican Party. He said that in both instances, the plotters planned to declare national mourning after he was killed. In case of the president's death, only the prime minister or Parliament, which is controlled by the IRP, has the power to proclaim national mourning.

From its side, the IRP charged that supporters of the president ransacked their party's office in Mashhad, in northeast Iran, chanting, "Close the nest of spies." The "nest of spies" is the epithet bestowed on the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by the young Islamic militants who seized it and its staff on Nov. 4, 1979, and held 52 of the Americans hostage for 444 days.

Although Bani-Sadr won the presidency by a landslide in a national election, the mullahs and their party won control of the Majlis, Iran's parliament, in a later vote and forced Bani-Sadr to accept their man Rajai as prime minister.

The two factions have been at odds ever since. Bani-Sadr objected to the seizure of the embassy and the hostages and tried to come to terms with the United States, but the hard-liners blocked him.

A truce in the power struggle prevailed during the first months of the war with Iraq, but his activities as commander in chief enhanced the president's standing and apparently gave him new confidence. This week, he renewed open hostilities with his political foes, charging that the hostage crisis they provoked was responsible for Iran's troubles.

Local Woman Robbed, Beaten

A Lubbock woman suffered a broken cheek bone and possible fractured jaw about 4 a.m. today when she was robbed and beaten by two men near the 2000 block of Parkway Drive, police said.

The 26-year-old victim said the men appeared from behind a hamburger stand, demanded money and began hitting her when she said she had none. The assailants fled after taking $45 from her coat pocket, reports state.

The victim, who was treated and later released at Lubbock General Hospital, described the suspects as black, about 28, and short.

In other activity, a 34-year-old Lubbock secretary said she was raped repeatedly by a man who grabbed her when she entered her apartment about 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The woman said that as she entered her kitchen the intruder grabbed her from behind, put his hand over her mouth and said, "Don't scream or I'll kill you and your dog."

Police said the man forced the woman to lie on a bed where he gagged her, tied her hands and placed a pillow case over her head.

The woman said that after the intruder raped her, he apologized, saying he "knew she was a sensitive person and that he had done a terrible thing."

After expressing h s regret, however, the man allegedly raped the woman again. She said the man remained in her apartment until about 8:25 p.m., telling her he knew her problems and wanted to help.

The woman told police the rapist fled after allowing her to go to the bathroom. The man was described as black, of medium build, between 18 and 25, and wearing a dark shirt and black coat.

Reports state that police questioned a man and woman Tuesday night after finding suspected marijuana and unidentified pills in their house, but later released them.

Authorities said they received an anonymous tip that marijuana and amphetamines were at the house, prompting them to get a search warrant issued by Justice of the Peace Charles Smith. The 22-year-old female suspect allowed officers inside, where they reportedly found 200 black capsules, a pink tablet, two bags of what was thought to be marijuana and paraphernalia.

The woman, reports said, told officers her 22-year-old husband was at a 19th Street club. Police said they found the man at the nightspot and confiscated 69 black capsules from his shirt pocket.

Reports indicate both persons were questioned, but neither was jailed. The suspected contraband, however, remained in police custody.

The officer called the city police station to find out why he was being sought and learned that a man had attempted to cash one of his personal checks.

Torres told police he had lost the checkbook 10 years ago. The personalized checks bore Torres' former address and an older-style telephone number with the "Porter" exchange, reports show.

The 24-year-old man was arrested about 10:45 a.m. at Newburn Meat Market, 1701 Parkway Drive, when he attempted to cash Torres' check for $365.

Owner Gary Newburn said he called Lubbock National Bank and discovered the account had been closed.

The suspect was jailed on suspicion of forgery and on two traffic arrest warrants, police said. Torres' checkbook was found on the ground outside the meat market.

In other activity, merchandise worth $2,636 was stolen from Shallow Waterbeds Inc., 3628 50th St., police said.

Manager Michael Ryan told police the burglary occurred between 7 p.m. Monday and 9:50 a.m. Tuesday. The intruder apparently broke a store window to gain entry.

Taken were two velvet bedspreads, a wooden night stand, five linen comforters, a color television, a floor lamp, a waterbed mattress kit, $20 cash and 14 sets of sheets, reports show.

Damage to the window and a display inside the store was estimated at $450, police said.

Appeals Court Upholds Murder Conviction In Area Shooting

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Court of Criminal Appeals today upheld the murder conviction and 50-year sentence assessed Broderick Ware in the death of Robert Atkinson in Lubbock County Oct. 10, 1977.

Ware appealed the conviction on grounds his confession was admitted into evidence erroneously because it was obtained after he told an officer he did not want to make the statement, and that jury was not instructed properly regarding the testimony of two witnesses.

According to the court's opinion, Ware confessed to shooting Atkinson four times with a .22-caliber revolver after he and the victim became involved in an argument over who would drive a car.

Ware's confession, which says he, the victim and some companions had been drinking prior to the argument, also says he "stomped" Atkinson "several times" and also drove the car over the victim following the shooting.

The appeals court affirmed the conviction, saying there was sufficient evidence to support the trial court finding that the confession was "freely and voluntarily made" and that said the two witnesses whom Ware wanted labeled as "accomplice witnesses" could not, on the evidence provided, have been convicted "as parties to the offense charged."

The appeals court, in reviewing the revocation of probation of Louis Kelley, said the indictment in the Lubbock County district court alleging theft of a purse was "fundamentally defective" because it failed to allege "any value of the stolen property."

The appeals court said that in this case, the district court found Kelley guilty of "Class A misdemeanor theft," but the district court would have had jurisdiction over this included offense only if its jurisdiction of the felony offense had been invoked properly.

The conviction was reversed and the indictment ordered dismissed.

The appeals court upheld the aggravated robbery conviction and 99-year sentence assessed Burton Russell Beadle in another Lubbock County case.

Beadle complained that the trial court erred in not requiring the prosecution to inform him of the "particulars of a 'deal'" made between the state and a witness, Carolyn Trussell.

Mrs. Trussell was the wife Jerry Wayne Trussell, who was charged with Joe Carroll Jackson and Danny Floyd with robbing the American State Bank of Commerce at Wolfforth along with Beadle.

Mrs. Trussell, after the robbery, was charged with "the offense of implements of escape," the appeals court reported.

"We agree," the appeals court said in its opinion, "that whatever promises are made to a witness in exchange for his testimony...would be relevant and important to a jury's determination of a witness' credibility."

"However, we hold that the failure to provide that information does not amount to reversible error when the accused fails to attempt to offer proof of the existence of any agreement," the court said.

NRC Approves Safety System

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new safety system at the Sequoyah nuclear power plant in Tennessee appears to be effective in controlling hydrogen gas buildup, but further study is needed, says a Nuclear Regulatory Commission official.

The NRC this week approved the operation of the so-called "igniter" safety system for one year while testing continues.

Harold Denton, director of the NRC's office of nuclear safety regulation, said the system "seems to have a lot of promise" as a means of controlling gas buildup. A NRC staff study concluded "that the operation of the Sequoyah igniter system for an interim period is appropriate."

Humane Society Slates Annual Meeting Friday

William R. Meade III, Gulf States Regional Office director for the national Humane Society, will be the featured speaker at the Lubbock Humane Society's annual meeting Friday.

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. in Room 101 of the Memorial Civic Center.

Meade, a native of Lynchburg, Va., became interested in animal welfare in 1969, when he was elected to the board of directors of the Lynchburg Humane Society. He served with that organization as treasurer, vice president and president.

As chairman of the legislative committee of the Virginia Federation of Humane Societies, Meade formulated the animal welfare model state law which was passed by the Virginia General Assembly.

In 1972, he accepted a full-time position as executive director of the Animal Welfare League of Arlington, Va. During his tenure, the organization built a model animal shelter and grew from 400 members to 10,000.

Meade assumed his current position in March 1979.

He has authored several Humane Society of the United States publications, including "Recommendations and Descriptions of a Prototype Animal Shelter" and "Carbon Monoxide Euthanasia for the Small Animal Shelter."

Meade has operated a planning and designing consultation service to assist organizations planning new shelters.

The local, public meeting Friday will also include election of officers, committee reports and presentation of awards to individuals who have contributed to the alleviation of animal suffering during 1980.

Official Offers To Resign Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles D. Ferris has volunteered to resign from the Federal Communications Commission if the White House allows him to keep his title of chairman until April.

Informed sources said Ferris, a 47-year-old Democrat who has chaired the commission for 3½ years, wants to retain the title until April, when he can begin drawing a government pension.

By resigning both his chairmanship and seat on the commission, Ferris would create a vacancy for President Reagan to fill. Ferris' seven-year term does not end until 1984.

While the chairman of the FCC serves in that post at the pleasure of the president, commissioners cannot be removed from the agency before the expiration of their seven-year terms.

Solons Make Spending Plans

AUSTIN (AP) — It's state spending bill time again.

You can tell that by the harried look on the faces of worried state agency heads as they scuttle from one legislator to another.

Before the 67th Legislature's regular session ends June 1 the 181 senators and representatives must decide how to spend more than $26 billion to operate state government the next two years.

And if this session cannot reach agreement on the money bill, it will be up to Gov. Bill Clements to call a special session to continue negotiations.

Actually, the final decision will be dictated by 10 lawmakers, five from each house, sitting around a conference table, probably in late spring.

The money spending process got underway several weeks ago when the Legislative Budget Board, made up of Senate and House leaders plus a professional staff, recommended spending $26.7 billion from all funds in the 1982-83 financial period. That was 20.7 percent over the current period.

The LBB budget also was $210 million more than expected state revenue for the next two years, according to current income estimates by Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Then last week, Clements recommended a state bugdet calling for expenditures of $26.2 billion, still 18.5 percent higher than 1980-81, but within expected state income.

Now, it is up to each house to take the the LBB budget, plus any recommendations it wants to consider from the governor, and write its own version of an appropriations bill.

The Senate Finance and House Appropriations committees already have started a long series of public hearings at which state agencies and interested citizens and groups may support or oppose specific parts of the proposed spending bill.

Sometime in the spring, maybe in late April or early May, the Senate probably will approve its version of a spending bill pretty much as it was drafted by its finance committee.

The House debate on its bill usually lasts several days and frequently a number of changes are made.

Each house will reject the other chamber's bill and the work of the conference committee starts. For many days, and nights, the 10 legislators, backed by squads of professional staffers from each house and urged on by the lieutenant governor and speaker, will try to iron out differences between the Senate and House.

When a conference committee agreement is reached, it still must be approved — but not changed — by members of each house.

If either house refuses to approve the compromise, it can be sent back to the conference committee for more negotiations.

And after the Legislature finally votes for a state spending bill, it has two more important hurdles — the comptroller and the governor.

The comptroller must certify there is enough state revenue in sight the next two years to cover the appropriations. This results from a state constitution provision that says state government must operate on a pay-as-you-go basis, no deficit budgets.

The governor can veto the entire appropriations bill and force the involved process to start all over again, but this is rarely done.

On the other hand, Texas governors frequently veto single items that are listed separately in the bill. He cannot reduce or increase an appropriation.

Captivity Described As Time To Learn

GREENVILLE (AP) — Angelo Strano knows what it is like to come home to America after months of captivity in a foreign land. He has been free 13 years, and has some idea of what is ahead for the 52 Americans just freed from Iran.

Strano, a Navy electronics technican, spent 11 months in a North Korean prison camp after his ship, the USS Pueblo, was captured in the Sea of Japan.

"Probably the best thing to do is treat the captivity as a learning experience," Strano said when asked what advice he would give the 52 former hostages. "Forget it happened and go about the process of living your life."

Strano said good can come out of hostage situations.

"Now that it's over, I'm kind of glad it happend because it gave me a chance to grow," he said. "I had a lot of time to think about my life. If you have an experience like that and if you put it in the past, use it as a learning experience and go on and live your life, it will be better because of it."

Strano was 23 and single when he and the other 82 crew members of the Pueblo were released on Dec. 22, 1968.

Some of the former Iranian hostages will have little trouble adjusting to life back in the United States, he said, while others will have difficulty.

"Those who are more mature will probably adjust more easily to the return home," he said. But it may be more difficult for the former hostages who are married.

He said married couples continually make adjustments to each other on a daily basis, but when they are separated for a prolonged period of time the changes have occurred without the daily adjustments.

The Navy isolated the Pueblo crew for about four months after the 1968 release so an official inquiry could be conducted. He said families of the crew members were not questioned by the media nearly as much as the families of the Iranian hostages.

"We didn't have the openness we have now, or the press didn't pursue the subject of the released prisoners of war as much as they are the Iranian hostage subject," he said. He added that he was interviewed just twice by local newspapers after he returned to his then home in Connecticut.

Since the Iranian hostage crisis began, Strano has been interviewed on ABC-TV's "Nightline" program, by U.S. News and World Report and by several Texas news organizations.

Some of the former Iranian hostages will have little trouble adjusting to life back in the United States, he said, while others will have difficulty.

"Those who are more mature will probably adjust more easily to the return home," he said. But it may be more difficult for the former hostages who are married.

He said married couples continually make adjustments to each other on a daily basis, but when they are separated for a prolonged period of time the changes have occurred without the daily adjustments.

The Navy isolated the Pueblo crew for about four months after the 1968 release so an official inquiry could be conducted. He said families of the crew members were not questioned by the media nearly as much as the families of the Iranian hostages.

"We didn't have the openness we have now, or the press didn't pursue the subject of the released prisoners of war as much as they are the Iranian hostage subject," he said. He added that he was interviewed just twice by local newspapers after he returned to his then home in Connecticut.

Since the Iranian hostage crisis began, Strano has been interviewed on ABC-TV's "Nightline" program, by U.S. News and World Report and by several Texas news organizations.

Hearing Impairments Occur For Many Reasons

By JOE GULICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The effects may go unnoticed at first because they are gradual. But all of a sudden, hearing things isn't as easy as it used to be. Words and sounds may have a "fuzzy" sound to them and it may seem like people are mumbling or slurring their words.

Some high-pitched sounds — like the ticking of a watch or high notes of a violin — may be impossible to hear. There may be a sensation of a continual ringing or hissing in the ears.

Hearing difficulties occur for a number of different reasons, and in some cases, they can be effectively corrected. There is no age limit for hearing impairments and children can suffer hearing losses just as adults do.

In order to have an understanding of types of hearing impairments, it is first necessary to understand the basic mechanics involved in hearing.

Sound causes vibrations, called sound waves, in the air. The outer part of the ear acts as a channel for sound waves, directing them into the auditory canal.

The auditory canal ends at the eardrum, which is a tightly stretched membrane that is like a drum in many ways. Sound waves hit the eardrum, causing vibrations.

Behind the eardrum are three small but vital bones referred to simply as the hammer, anvil and stirrup. The vibrations of sound waves hitting the eardrum cause the three bones to move back and forth.

The movements of those bones causes a stirring in the fluid of the inner ear. The inner ear ends in a small spiral structure (shaped somewhat like a snail) called the cochlea.

Consumer Update

Within the cochlea are thousands of sensitive cells which each have many microscopic hairs. Problems with those specialized hair cells can account for many hearing impairments.

The tiny hairs are immersed in the inner ear fluid, which fills the cochlea. When the vibrations on the eardrum trigger the movements of the hammer, anvil and stirrup, the resulting movements causes movement in the inner ear and a motion in the tiny hairs.

Movements of the hairs causes the attached cell to send a message to the brain, which then determines what the sound was.

All this seems like it would take a while, but it is actually almost instantaneous. When a person rustles this newspaper, his audio equipment will pick up the sound virtually as it happens.

When people have hearing problems, it means that somewhere along the road, there have been some problems. Some hearing impairments are corrected simply, some may require surgery and some may require a hearing aid to amplify sounds and aid in normal hearing.

According to the Food and Drug Administration, problems to the outer ear may include a large accumulation of ear wax that blocks out sound or an infection of skin tissues of the auditory canal.

In each case, a physician should be contacted. The ear wax can be removed and a physician can prescribe medication that should solve the problem of infection.

Problems in the middle ear may include infections, a ruptured eardrum or immobilization of the three tiny bones behind the eardrum, according to the FDA.

Middle ear infection require medication and, in some cases, surgery. A ruptured eardrum can occur from a number of causes and the hearing impairment is immediate. In some cases, a ruptured eardrum may heal naturally, but it may result in the formation of scar tissue, which will cause some hearing loss.

Some eardrum problems may require surgery and in some cases, the tiny

Mayor Says Long-Range Planning More Critical

By MARC FLAKE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Although the city has done a good job of short-range planning, long-range planning is more critical now to the city's growth than it ever has been, according to Mayor Bill McAlister.

The development of a better system of planning for municipal government will be discussed by the Lubbock City Council during a work session scheduled Friday at Buffalo Springs Lake.

The council will meet from 9:30 a.m. to about 3 p.m. in the Calvary Baptist Church Lodge to review what the city has done to fulfill the Chamber of Commerce's "Goals for the 70s" program and what the city can do to further the "Goals for the 80s" program, McAlister said.

The council also will formulate its own set of goals which the city staff can use for direction during the present decade, he said.

"Our first priority is water," he said. "We need to look at the Post-Justiceburg project in the short-term, and also at long-range plans such as the importation of water.

"We have a deep responsibility to make plans to allow Lubbock to grow in the next 40-50-60 years," he continued. "We are lucky to have had councils in the past that did some intelligent planning so we can handle growth now."

Another priority is the economic diversification of the city, he said. The economy now depends primarily on agriculture and Texas Tech.

"We need to bring industry to Lubbock," he said, adding that industry was not "lining up at the front door" to move to Lubbock.

The city must sell industry the idea to move here, without having to trade-off tax cuts or land donations to get them here as other cities have done, he said, adding these "give-aways" do make for tougher competition.

McAlister listed five personal goals he would like the city to pursue: the establishment of a Museum of Mexico, selling the Municipal Coliseum to Texas Tech, downtown redevelopment, transporta-

Texas Instruments Reducing Personnel

By DEBBI STALTER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Texas Instruments Inc., Lubbock's largest private employer, is in the process of phasing out about 100 positions at the firm before the end of February.

The cutback includes both salaried and hourly wage personnel and is being carried out to keep the number of personnel at the Lubbock plant in line with the quantity of business operations, said Chuck Nielson, public relations director.

The layoff began about 30 days ago as part of a gradual process of deleting the positions, Nielson said. He declined to comment on the method of selecting employees to be laid off.

Nielson also would not say how many employees already have left the company.

Nielson said the employees affected by the cutback possibly could be rehired, but would not comment on the likelihood of such an occurrence.

TI has an out-placement services department to help employees find alternate employment in cases such as this.

The 100 persons to be laid off represent a small percentage of those employed at the Lubbock firm. When the Lubbock plant was expanded in 1978 at its North Loop 289 and University Avenue location, an estimated 3,500 employees were expected to be working at the facility, not including a fluctuation of up to 1,000 more because of seasonal demands.

The firm experienced a similar cutback in January 1975 when the plant announced that 450 workers would be trimmed from the payroll. That action was part of a statewide layoff of more than 2,000 employees.

About 25 percent of TI employees here were asked last month to take mandatory, unpaid vacations between Dec. 24 and Jan. 4, according to a company statement.

Employees received regular vacation pay for Dec. 25 and 26 and Jan. 1, but the remainder of the time was taken out of each employee's accrued leave.

Employees at that time referred to the vacation as a layoff, although company officials in Lubbock and TI's headquarters in Dallas adhered to the statement that the time off was a holiday leave.

Cottonseed Oil Can Help Peanut Butter Supplies

AUSTIN (UPI) — Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown says stretching peanut butter with cottonseed oil could solve two problems: providing more protein to the world, and helping offset drought-caused peanut shortages.

During a Capitol news conference Tuesday, Brown gave reporters a taste of a peanut butter that was a mixture of 70 percent peanut and 30 percent cottonseed.

He said the concoction was made possible by the development of an edible glandless cottonseed by Texas A&M University researchers. Regular cottonseed, he said, is toxic and causes coloration, making it unfit to feed either humans or animals.

Brown also said the glandless cottonseed is 35 percent protein, twice as much as wheat.

He said a drought in Texas last year caused a 48 percent reduction in the state's peanut crop. Texas ordinarily is among the country's top peanut producers. The drop in peanut production has caused peanut butter prices to increase 40 percent, up to almost $2 for a 16-ounce jar.

Brown also said glandless cottonseed has been used to combat malnutrition in Central and South America. It is one of the major ingredients in incaparina, a mixture of cottonseed flour, soy flour, corn flour, calcium carbonate and vitamins. Incaparina provides the approximate nutritional equivalent of powdered whole milk at one-tenth the cost.

The agriculture commissioner said currently Texas has 35,000 acres of glandless cotton and will have about 50,000 acres next year.

"The market is out there and we'll be out in front. We're going to go into full production," Brown said. "There is not a communist country in the world that can feed itself and the Sun Belt is going to be counted on to help.

"The Bible says 'man cannot live by bread alone,' but the little boy says he can if he's got some peanut butter."

INCIDENT LEAD U.S. INTO WAR

The Cunard steamship Lusitania was sunk by a German submarine off the coast of Ireland May 7, 1915, killing 1,198 persons. The United States was neutral at the time, with Germany fighting Britain and France, but the incident set the course for U.S. entry into World War I two years later.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

On a flight from Washington to Phoenix recently a group of airline stewardesses were gathered in the kitchenette tossing a paperback back and forth.

Now I'm no fool. I knew they weren't reading a manual on how to flotate when your cushion springs a leak.

When I asked the title, one of the girls explained it was a book that was selling like hotcakes called "The Greatest Little Bachelor Book in Texas" by Sue Goldstein. It profiled 200 Texas bachelors, complete with pictures and phone numbers.

"Girls! Girls!" I said, taking the book from them. "How lucky you are to have me on this flight to save you from this immoral bit of exploitation. You don't shop for a mate in a Sears Wish catalogue. Love finds you when you least expect it."

"I mean, look here on page 289. Sugar Bear's idea of excitement is to play in a fountain after a formal dinner party. Do you know how impractical that is?"

"There's always Tedrific on page 221," said a little brunette. "He believes in soaking the dishes in his hot tub."

I grabbed the book back. "He also thinks ERA means 'earned run average.' Forget him! As a married woman of 31 years, I should read through this book and give you the value of my expertise on who would make a good husband."

"What do you think?" they asked as we touched down.

I looked at the volume that not once had touched upon the real pitfalls of marriage: Interstate Snoring, Premature Nodding Off, Howard Cosell Rash, Terminal Cheapness, Consistent Insensitivity, Extra-Marital Affair With Themselves, His Relatives for the Holiday Festival, and Do Something with the Kids Sing-Alongs.

"I think you could take your chance with any one of them. They've all got the main ingredient for a marriage . . . humor about themselves."

"Can I have my book back?" asked the stewardess.

I slipped her $5 and said, "I'll keep it, dear, for research. One never stops learning."

"Besides, I had all the good pages earmarked.

Retarded Citizens Sponsor Reading Program Locally

The Lubbock Association for Retarded Citizens (TARC) is sponsiring a "Read It! Read It!" program for elementary students to benefit retarded persons.

The project stimulates students to read, and will provide funds to assist the association in helping retarded people in the community.

Participants in local elementary schools will sign up "sponsors" who agree to pay so much per book read, and the student will agree to read at least ten books during the four-week project. Money donated by sponsors will benefit TARC.

There will be prizes for students who raise the most money through the project, and McDonald's has agreed to provide favors for participating students.

The program ends February 15. Participating elementary schools are Haynes, Maedgen, Overton, Parsons, Wheelock and Williams.

Persons who wish more information about the program should inquire at the school or call 793-3530.

DEAR ABBY

Former Wife's Joke Causes Rift In Couple's Relationship

DEAR ABBY: My husband's former wife, Velma, with whom we have remained on fairly good terms, invited us to her home for a party. She is now married to a very well-to-do man.

Velma told me it was going to be a costume party, so my husband and I dressed up like a couple of rabbits.

Imagine our surprise when the butler opened the door and ushered us into a room filled with men in tuxedos and women in stunning gowns! We felt like a couple of fools. Velma laughed and said she thought it was funny. I was very upset to have been made the butt of her joke, so I got myself a glass of punch and spilled it on her gown. Then I laughed and told her I thought it was funny. My husband isn't speaking to me, and he thinks I owe Velma an apology. What should I do?

A WIFE IN NEED

DEAR WIFE: Send Velma a bunch of carrots, and tell her you're sorry.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you because I am a very private person, but I have nowhere else to turn.

I've been married for 21 years to a man I'll call Bob. (No children.) Fourteen months ago was the last time we had sex. I've never been very interested in sex, but I enjoyed the intimacy of it. As I look back on our marriage, Bob never was overly sexy, but he performed. I thought we had a good marriage.

About the time our sex life stopped, Bob developed a friendship with a man. Their friendship grew from getting together, just the two of them, one evening a week, to spending weekends together. Last summer Bob spent his entire vacation with this man, excluding me. That's when I strongly suspected that he was gay. When I confronted him with my suspicions, he flatly denied it. I begged him to go with me to a counselor. He refused. I offered him divorce or separation. He wanted neither. He says he "cares for me," but he no longer "loves" me.

Abby, I still love him and don't want to give him up even if he is gay. I'm too embarrassed to discuss this with anyone I know. My heart is broken and I am desperate. Plase help me.

MASS. HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: It's unfortunate that you don't want to "give him up," because it appears that he has already given you up. You both need counseling, but you can't force it on Bob if he refuses to accept it. Please go for counseling without him. You desperately need to learn how to cope with a painful situation that is more common than you know.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: In our town when people are invited to a party, they are often asked to bring something to serve. My wife is famous for her delicious cakes, so that's what she usually brings.

At the end of the evening, if there is any cake left over, my wife matter-of-factly picks it up and takes it home. I am embarrassed, feeling that she should leave whatever is left for her hostess. My wife disagrees with me, insisting that the cake is "hers."

My question: What should happen to the leftovers when food is brought by the guests?

LOUISVILLE, KY.

DEAR LOUISVILLE: Unless it's clearly understood beforehand that everyone takes home his or her own leftovers, your wife should leave the cake for the hostess. It would seem an appropriate bonus for having had the party at her house and cleaning up afterward.

Opening lead: Queen of ♡.

Bridge is often a race between declarer and the defenders. Declarer strives to set up enough tricks to make his contract before the defenders can establish enough winners to defeat the hand. The race goes to the swiftest, and to lose a tempo could easily mean the loss of the contract.

After North had supported his suit, South's hand revalued to close to an opening bid. He might have probed for game with three clubs, which would have been forcing. However, the texture of his suit was so good that he decided to be a little aggressive and jumped straight to four spades himself.

After the lead of the queen of hearts, those declarers who live in a world where all suits break and all finesses succeed are likely to be defeated by good defense. Assume that declarer wins the opening heart lead and plays a trump. East wins the ace and shifts to a club. Declarer inserts the queen, but instead of gobbling up the trick with the ace, West allows declarer to win. Sooner or later declarer must take the diamond finesse. East wins the diamond and reverts to a club, and West scores two clubs to complete a one-trick set.

Declarer can make the hand if he realizes that time is all important here. Since his weak spot—clubs—has not yet been attacked, he is one step ahead of the defenders. He should win the opening heart in his hand and immediately take the diamond finesse. East can take the king and, in an attempt to catch up, shift to a club, but he cannot make up for lost ground. When West allows the queen of clubs to win, declarer cashes dummy's high diamonds, sluffing a club from his hand. Now declarer can afford to turn his attention to the trump suit. His only losers are one spade, one diamond and one club.

Texas Oil Companies Supporting Deregulation

By United Press International

The road to energy independence is being paved in part by President Reagan's removal of federal regulations limiting petroleum prices and allocations, Texas oil producing company spokesmen say, but consumers fear the independence may come at their expense.

"By moving up the scheduled phase out controls," said Gulf spokesman Sherry Zippay, "the administration gains valuable momentum in the effort to reduce our dependence on imported oil. Gulf believes that this is the strongest message that the United States can send to the rest of the world that it is seriously attempting to deal with its own energy problems through decontrol."

Reagan planned today to decontrol federal regulations limiting petroleum prices and allocations. The decontrol schedule originally called for the regulations to be lifted in October.

"Strong competition in the marketplace combined with continued consumer conservation, should minimize the impact on the price of gasoline at the pumps," Miss Zippay said.

Allen Cluck, spokesman for Houston Oil & Minerals Corp., a large independent operator, said decontrol would offer new profit incentives for oilmen to boost exploration, thus cutting dependence on foreign oil.

"It would cause an upward increase in oil prices, but that's not all that bad because of two things," he said. "One is that the controls are due to be lifted in October anyhow and there would be the increased revenues that would derive to the government and the oil industry between now and then but these revenues would be plowed back into more exploration, which in the long run is likely to cause a decrease in the impact on the general public.

"Domestic oil will be cheaper in the long run than foreign. You just flat out can't control either the availability or the price of foreign oil."

But salesman Charles Conlee of Dallas was concerned how much decontrol would cost him.

"It's one of those things I don't really understand," he said. "With the profits they (major oil companies) make, you just wonder why they need more. Like I say, I don't understand but there's one thing I know — it's going to cost me. Gas'll probably be $2 a gallon this summer. I dread it."

Liberty Sheriff Expects Daniel Indictment

LIBERTY (AP) — Liberty County Sheriff C.L. Eckols says he thinks it is "reasonable to expect" that a grand jury will indict the wife of slain former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel for murder.

"Based on the evidence we have," Eckols said Tuesday, "it is reasonable to expect an indictment to be returned tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon."

Vickie Daniel, 33, was charged last Friday with murder in the Jan. 19 death of her husband. She has declined to give a statement about the shooting to Eckols or District Attorney Carroll Wilborn.

She is not expected to appear at the grand jury meeting. She was arrested Saturday and is free on $50,000 bond.

She was released Friday from a hospital, where she had been since the shooting. Her doctors said she suffered from shock and hysteria.

"We've offered the opportunity in writing for Mrs. Daniel to appear (before the grand jury) and we've offered her the opportunity to present any evidence," Wilborn said. "We're just trying to be as thorough and as fair as we can possibly be."

Eckols, asked if he expected to see her there, replied, "Naw, if she's smart, she'll stay away from that grand jury."

Eckols and Wilborn said nearly two dozen persons are expected to testify before the jury panel.

Referring to reports that Mrs. Daniel had bruises, possibly enhancing a theory of self-defense, Eckols noted that it took three people to subdue the hysterical woman after the shooting.

"The only bruise she's got is when she fell on the Mexican tile floor. If she got any bruise, it was because of that fight ... three men couldn't hold her down."

Mrs. Daniel called for an ambulance after the shooting and screamed, "Let me go and you go help Price" when ambulance attendants tried to calm her.

Daniel was killed by a gunshot wound to the stomach. The 22-caliber bullet struck the aorta, causing him to bleed to death.

A shot was fired before the fatal one, Eckols said, and he and his men spent several days looking for the first bullet, which was fired as a warning shot.

One of the grand jury witnesses was expected to be Kimberly Moore, 11, Mrs. Daniel's daughter by a previous marriage.

Andrew J. Lannie of Baytown, Mrs. Daniel's lawyer, said the daughter witnessed an altercation shortly before the shooting but was in a back room at the Daniel home at the time of the shooting and did not hear any rifle shots.

Bill Buchanan, owner of a Liberty radio station, said he arrived at the Daniel home ahead of sheriff's deputies and found ambulance attendants trying to restrain Mrs. Daniel. He said it took about 20 minutes to restrain her.

Buchanan, among those subpoenaed for the grand jury, said Mrs. Daniel screamed for the men to leave her alone and help her husband, yelling over and over, "He's OK, isn't he?" He said it was apparent that Daniel was dead.

Lannie said Mrs. Daniel is still under a physician's care, is taking medication and still suffers from severe shock. The decision not to appear before the grand jury, he was, was a medical decision, not legal. .

Fishermen Unhappy With Federal Response

ROCKPORT (UPI) — Texas fishermen who came to the government for help against Vietnamese who disregard both custom and law in a fishing dispute have left empty handed, and bitter at the treatment they've received.

The word came down in a 20-minute meeting Tuesday that came to an angry end when the Justice Department said the law won't allow them to enforce local customs limiting the number of fishing boats in one bay, and the Coast Guard said it was uable to enforce licensing requirements the Vietnamese are breaking.

With those two announcements, 35 to 40 fishermen from several Gulf coast communities departed to plan their own strategy session for later in the week.

Since Vietnamese refugees were resettled along the coast four to five years ago, they have started competing with local fishermen.

The fishermen complain the Vietnamese have ignored local custom of limiting the number of boats fishing one bay — and the result has been that some areas have been overfished.

Efrain Martinez of Houston, representing the Justice Department's community reations division, told the fishermen that informal custom could not be officially enforced because it violated the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

The fishermen also complain the Vietnamese use fishing vessels in excess of 5 tons, which are required to have federal licenses. The Texans say, however, the boats are operating with only Texas licenses, similar to those issued pleasure crafts.

The Coast Guard acknowledged it was responsible for making sure licensing requirements were met, but said it did not have the manpower to enforce the law. A Coast Guard representative said boats at dock could not be boarded and cited, and that once at sea the Coast Guard was too busy to chase them down.

Shrimper Leon Bateman said the meeting was a waste of time and that coastal fishermen would meet to decide what to do about the Vietnamese.

Tension already is running high in several communities along the coast where Vietnamese and local residents compete for commerical fishing catches.

Earlier this month, officials said arsonists burned two Vietnamese shrimp boats at nearby Seabrook. At Seadrift, further up the coast, fisherman Billy Joe Alphin, 35, was shot to death Aug. 3, 1979.

Conferences Scheduled By Advertising College

The Lubbock Advertising College, a series of conferences devoted to the interests of business executives and advertising agencies, has scheduled the third session of its 1980-81 program at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the Texas Tech Mass Communications Building.

Organized by the Lubbock Advertising Federation and the Texas Tech University department of mass communications, each seminar lasts three hours and is designed to provide information on planning and producing more effective advertising.

The conference Thursday, titled "Writing and Producing Effective Radio and TV Spots," will be presented by William L. Hill, president and director of creative services, The Bloom Agency, Dallas.

Hill joined The Bloom Agency in 1960 as an art director. He was appointed senior vice president and creative director in 1965, executive vice president and creative director in 1970 and in August 1980 was named to his present position.

He is a graduate of the Kansas City Art Institute and School of Design and has been the recipient of numerous awards.

Before joining Bloom, Hill was associated with Mel Richmond Studio in Philadelphia and de Garmo in New York as an art director and worked on such national accounts as Chevrolet, Campbell Soups, Nabisco, Standard Oil and Kaiser Metals.

The Lubbock Ad College has scheduled its fourth meeting for March 26. That session, "Writing and Producing Effective Print Ads," will be conducted by Crume & Associates, Dallas.

Firms may send three persons to the two remaining conferences for a tuition of $80. Individuals may attend for $40.

Checks for the tuition should be made payable to the Lubbock Advertising Federation. Information may be obtained by calling Jim Goodwin at Southwestern Bell or Jon Wardrip at Texas Tech.

Council To Study Long-Range Goals

tion planning and public relations.

"Mexican people are a part of West Texas and they are proud of their heritage," he said, adding he has talked to the Mexican consul and expects the cooperation of the Mexican government. The museum would make a "great tourist attraction," he said, and could be located in the proposed Mexican-American downtown marketplace.

The Municipal Coliseum needs renovation to accomodate Tech basketball, the mayor said. The city cannot spend the money for such specialization nor can the university spend money on a building it does not own, he noted.

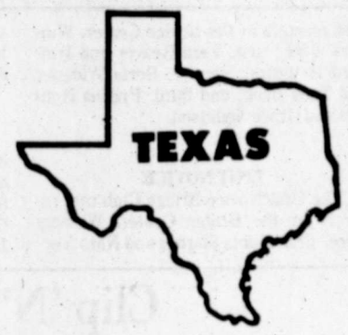
The redevelopment of the central business district already is being pursued by the private sector, he said. But he would like to see a downtown pedestrian mall established along Avenue J.

Transportaion planning is critical to the growth of the city, he said. "If we don't do some long range planning, we're going to be choking in our own traffic," he said.

Interstate 27 will provide the city with a good north-south highway, but McAlister said the city also needs to consider an east-west highway. One-way pairings of streets and the widening of others also are among his goals, he said.

A goal he stressed during his campaign for mayor and will continue to stress, he said, was that of city hall public relations.

"We have to reflect a strong, positive public relations — that city hall belongs to the people, not just the city staff or council," McAlister said.



Habits Of Big Cats Worry Park Rangers

ALPINE (AP) — The mountain lions in Texas' Big Bend National Park are getting bolder as the number of park visitors declines, and the behavioral change has park rangers worried.

Six mountain lions have been sighted within the past month, although no sightings have been reported in the last two weeks, even in areas normally frequented by tourists. None of the big cats have attacked, park officials said.

Hearing Loss Can Occur For Different Reasons

bones may be damaged also. In any case, a problem with the middle ear should prompt a swift visit to an ear specialist.

Problems in the inner ear may be the most serious, the FDA said. For a variety of reasons, the nerve mechanisms within the inner ear — the nerves which receive movements of the tiny hairs immersed in inner ear fluid — may be damaged. The result is called a "sensori-neural" or nerve impairment, according to the FDA.

When nerve damage occurs, a hearing aid may be required, but in other cases, a hearing aid will not be of much value. Experts should be consulted in such cases, the FDA warns.

Among the possible causes of nerve damage are birth defects, a high fever, the impact of a very loud sound and exposure over a period of time to sounds that are too loud and will gradually cause damage.

The latter problem is one that gives no particular warning, but is gradually causing a hearing loss. People who expose themselves to loud noises such as machinery, high velocity rifle fire or even loud stereos should consider ear protection or turning down their stereos — the alternative may be diminished hearing.

The FDA recommends that people with suspected hearing problems visit their family doctor first. He will be able to determine if the problem is a simple one he can correct or if an examination by an ear specialist is necessary.

The family doctor may refer the patient to an ear specialist. Such a specialist may be able to use medical treatment or surgery to correct or improve the problem and he may refer the refer the patient to an audiologist for audiological testing.

The Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009, has a free, 32-page book called "Facts About Hearing and Hearing Aids" that contains useful information about hearing impairments and the nature of hearing aids.

Top Stocks Of 1972 Fall On 'Favorite 50'

By CHET CURRIER

NEW YORK (AP) — Hopes running high among investors following Republican landslide victory in November ... stock prices near all-time peaks, with trading volume at record levels.

It may sound like a capsule description of the current mood of Wall Street. But actually it goes back more than eight years, to the end of 1972.

There are, it would seem, many similarities between the stock market then and now. But if the show is familiar, the cast of leading performers has changed radically.

At yearend 1972, according to records kept by the brokerage firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co., many of the stocks with the highest price-earnings ratios — and thus, by inference, the brightest promise in the eyes of investors — were consumer companies.

Topping the list, selling at 92 times earnings, was Sony Corp. The next five, in order, were Polaroid, at 90; MGIC Investment, 84; McDonald's, 83; Baxter Laboratories, 82, and International Flavors & Fragrances, 81.

Not far back in the pack were such consumer names as Walt Disney Productions, with a p-e of 76; Dr. Pepper, 69; Ponderosa Systems, 67, and Avon Products, 64.

In addition to an almost-unanimous concentration in providing products or services to consumer markets, these stocks have another thing in common. Over the next eight years, to yearend 1980, they all fell in price.

The declines ranged from a modest 0.7 percent for Sony to 80.2 percent for Polaroid, which tumbled from 126⅛ to 25, and 87.3 percent for Ponderosa, which went from 82½ to 10½.

All these fallen stars were members of the so-called "favorite 50," an elite group of issues which dominated the portfolios of many investing institutions until the great bear market of 1973-74 hit.

By the end of 1974, with the Dow Jones industrial average at its lowest level in 12 years, there was scarcely anything left that could be referred to as elite.

Since then, the market has recovered, and price-earnings ratios of favored stocks have risen again, although not to 1972 levels. But in today's "top 50" — Kidder, Peabody's monthly list of those issues with the highest p-e's — not a single one of the stocks named above appears.

Their places have been taken in large part by high-technology stocks whose names are little known to the consumer — Computervision, M-A Com, Tymshare, and GCA Corp., to name a few of the 22 "high-tech" issues on the list.

Energy issues like Helmerich & Payne, Western Co. of North America and Parker Drilling occupy a dozen of the remaining spots.

Aside from demonstrating that fashions can change radically on Wall Street, a comparison of the top-50 lists of 1972 and 1980 suggests a basic change in the way investors see the economic outlook. Quite evidently, they expect sluggish consumer markets in the early 1980s, at least in comparison to the activity they look for in the technology and energy fields.

If investors are ready to anoint a new "favorite 50," they presumably are convinced it will fare much better than the class of '72. An investment spread over that year's top 50 and held for eight years, according to Kidder Peabody's calculations, would have resulted in a price decline of 40 percent by the end of last month.

Man's Business Inspired By Trip To Garbage Can

NEWBERG, Ore. (AP) — Forrest Cockerum got his inspiration for his recent business venture from a garbage can.

He thinks Forrest Food Products-Newberg Insectary soon will be in demand by zoos throughout the West.

Cockerum is raising house-fly larvae for the pet-food trade, and has had interested feelers from both the Washington Park Zoo, for use as a protein source for the primates, and the San Francisco Zoological Gardens, he said.

The idea of raising larvae for food came to Cockerum when he was a student at Willamette University and shared a house with another student one summer.

His friend would not take the garbage out, so Cockerum left it for three weeks. When he lifted the lid, he found a mass of maggots and was so excited that he ran straight to the library.

"I thought, 'They're meaty little things. Pure meat. They grow fast, live on garbage. They must be worth something.' I had been going to college for seven years and was ready for a project."

Cockerum had taken some biology in college and began studying all he could about the house fly's cycle and uses for the larvae.

He has set up his business temporarily in a spare building at the Foothill Christmas Tree Farm.

The first supply of house flies was ordered from a laboratory supply house in North Carolina, but Cockerum now breeds his own.

"They're raised in an environmentally controlled adult habitat with incubators for the young," he explained.

He feeds the flies a secret preparation and collects eggs in four batches over a three-week period. The eggs are hatched and put into sterilized manure in plastic-lined ice-cream cans, where they stay throughout their larval development.

"The pupal stage is reached in six days to about 60 days by varying conditions," he explained. "You can control this, tune it like an electronic instrument."

Temperature, humidity and the density of larvae are all controls.

Cockerum removes the larvae from the manure when he is ready to ship them, but will not reveal the method. "They do you no good unless you get them out of the manure," he said.

Crisis Spawns Numerous Suits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the return of the American hostages, court activity is picking up in a host of legal disputes spurred by the Iranian crisis.

In U.S. district courts across the country, the Justice Department Tuesday filed requests for 30-day delays in cases involving an estimated 388 claims by U.S. banks and companies against Iranian assets that had been frozen.

On Capitol Hill, Sens. Robert Dole, R-Kan., and Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., introduced a bill to allow American citizens and corporations to sue a foreign government in federal court for compensation for injuries inflicted by government.

In Los Angeles, noted lawyer Melvin Belli said he may be filing a lawsuit for damages against Iran on behalf of unidentified hostage families.

Belli said he talked with representatives of the families several months ago. He said they recently indicated they wanted to wait at least two weeks before deciding whether to proceed with legal action.

And a New York doctor who suggested the cancer-ridden shah of Iran be treated in the United States has filed a $4 million libel suit against Science magazine in U.S. District Court in Washington for alleging he made a misleading diagnosis.

Dr. Benjamin H. Kean, who served as the shah's personal doctor for about eight months, charged in his suit that the magazine made "false, malicious and defamatory" statements about him.

The suit said the article, published Jan. 18, 1980, made a number of false statements, including that Kean "misread both the nature of the shah's illness and the capacity of Mexican doctors to deal with it."

Kean examined the shah in Mexico in September 1979, and served as his personal physician from October 1979 until last March 31, when he was transferred to the care of Egyptian doctors in Cairo.

Roslyn Mazer, Kean's lawyer, said Kean suggested to the U.S. government it would be "desirable" to treat the shah in the United States.

President Carter ordered the shah admitted for treatment in October 1979 — an action that triggered the seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and the hostage crisis.

Although the story was published more than a year ago, Kean told United Press International he waited to file the suit because "anything I did conceivably could be damaging to the hostage situation."

The Justice Department said its requested delay on claims was necessary to "allow the completion of President Reagan's review and all further actions necessary for implementation of the (hostage) agreement."

"The agreement that has been entered into and the implementing actions that have been and are to be taken will substantially affect the attachments of Iranian assets and claims by or against the government of Iran, its agencies and instrumentalities," the government said.

Former Hostage Did Not Believe Captors' Story Of CIA Actions

NEW YORK (AP) — Former hostage Richard Morefield, once U.S. consul general in Tehran, says he knew his captors were lying when they told him his wife had accused the CIA of keeping family mail from the captives.

Morefield, interviewed late Tuesday on ABC's "Nightline," said he did not believe the story because of "what I knew of the United States and what I knew of my wife."

After viewing a videotape of his wife arguing with the Iranian charge d'affaires over failure of the hostages to get their mail, Morefield said he was "proud" of his wife, Dorothea.

After her protest, he added, he started getting more mail and in the ensuing months got "90 to 95 percent of the letters that she sent."

This, he added, "meant that I could tell other people that things were going well."

Morefield and his wife, who are from San Diego, were interviewed in Washington after the hostages and their families were welcomed by President Reagan.

Morefield said he believed he was treated differently than other hostages, adding that he was "never formally interrogated ... always treated with respect."

He said he made it a practice "never to ask for anything that wasn't absolutely necessary," with the result that "when I asked for anything I usually got it."

One thing he got, he said, was badly needed medical attention for a fellow hostage, whom he did not identify. Another example, he added, was that when he and another hostage got into a "dispute," the Iranians "let us settle it ourselves."

Told that reports of disputes between hostages were new to Americans, Morefield laughed and declined to elaborate, except to say that "obviously there were tensions."

He also said his treatment by the militants "wasn't torture — in no way."

"I wasn't physically touched," he said, adding that his only physical injury was when he walked into a wall while being taken to the bathroom with a towel over his head.

Morefield said his experience as a consul in dealing with American prisoners abroad helped him face the long ordeal.

He said it made him aware that "the main thing was to get back in one piece and reasonably well."

Marines Had Planned To Attempt Escape

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four Marines held captive in Iran engineered an elaborate escape plan that would have been attempted on Feb. 12 had they not been released, said Marine Sgt. John D. McKeel, a former hostage.

"We already had plans made up and had everything we needed, and we were fixing to break out," McKeel said today in an interview on the Larry King Show on the Mutual Broadcasting Systems.

McKeel said the Marines planned to jump the Iranian guards, try to get their weapons and fight their way out. The plan, he said, was to head for Greece.

The Marines used razor blades and pens to fashion homemade knives and planned on mixing kerosene from the water heater and soap detergent to produce a makeshift bomb, he said.

"We had very many different types of weapons," he said. "If your let your imagination go wild you come up with something."

McKeel said they also had discovered where the Iranian weapons were being kept.

Although plans for the escape were made in June, while he was being held in an Iranian prison, the Marines decided not to implement them until after the presidential elections, McKeel said.

"We were going to give it until February because of the presidential election," he said. "We were going to wait until that and see what happened."

"Most of the Marines are trained in jungle survival, desert survival, things of that sort," he said. "We felt that if we could get out we'd be able to make it across the desert."

Carter Backs Reagan's Terrorism Stance

CRUZ BAY, U.S. Virgin Islands (AP) — Former President Carter welcomed President Reagan's warning to political terrorists and said, "I hope and expect I would have done the same thing myself."

Carter, his wife Rosalynn, daughter Amy and son Chip arrived here Tuesday to begin a two-week vacation at a rented, three-bedroom cottage at secluded Cinammon Bay.

Before leaving Americus, Ga., Carter told reporters that Reagan's warning that terrorists acting against representatives of the U.S. government will face "swift and effective retribution" was the correct stance.

"I think it is good for our nation to point out that the seizing of hostages would be met with a very strong reaction on our nation's part," Carter said.

"I think the president has done the right thing in this respect. It's a wise thing. I hope and expect I would have done the same thing myself."

Carter told reporters here he believed Iran had decided before the Nov. 4 presidential election that it had to free the 52 Americans.

"In my opinion there was a tremendous suffering by Iran because they continued to hold the hostages, and long before the election results came out, there was a fairly broad-based intelligence report from many sources to us that almost all of the Iranian leadership realized that they were suffering," he said.

"Why they chose the particular time (for the hostages' release) I don't know," Carter said.

Ex-Captive Hospitalized After Lengthy Ceremony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert C. Ode, at 65 the oldest of the former American hostages, was in a hospital intensive care unit today with "pneumonia and severe bronchitis," officials said.

Ode was reported in fair condition and resting comfortably at National Hospital in Arlington, Va., where he was taken Tuesday night, suffering from exhaustion, a fever and a cough. The pneumonia was discovered by examining physicians.

He was admitted at 7:15 p.m. EST after a long day that included a flight from New York state, a lengthy motorcade in Washington and an emotional White House reception.

Mary Shaw, a hospital spokeswoman, said Ode was being treated in the intensive care unit "for security reasons."

"He is currently listed in fair condition and the diagnosis is pneumonia with severe bronchitis," she said. "He is resting comfortably."

Ode is known as the "shoeless hostage." He returned from Iran wearing the same white windbreaker and other clothes he was captured in, except he came back in plastic shower slippers. He said his captors took his shoes and never gave them back.

A State Department veteran, Ode had retired and was in Tehran on a temporary assignment when the U.S. Embassy was overrun on Nov. 4, 1979. He had been there only a month.

USING ROBOTS

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — General Motors Corp. expects to use about 14,000 industrial robots in its factories by 1990, according to one of the automaker's experts who sees the machines as the salvation of the troubled U.S. auto industry.

Reagan Issues Stern Warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talking tough without specifying what action he might take, President Reagan is threatening "swift and effective retribution" if American diplomats ever again are taken hostage.

"It means what it says," Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig told inquiring reporters at a white-tie reception for the diplomatic corps Tuesday night. "It's studied ambiguity."

White House national security adviser Richard V. Allen said Reagan's warning, delivered at a welcome-home reception for the Americans freed from 444 days' captivity in Iran, had just the right tone.

"The president typically enunciates policy and the specific details would depend on the circumstance," Allen said.

During last fall's presidential campaign, Reagan said that had he been in the White House when the hostages were taken, he would have set a deadline of 48 to 72 hours for Iran to release them or face the certainty of very unpleasant steps in retaliation.

In his remarks Tuesday on the south lawn of the White House, Reagan told the returning Americans that "those henceforth in the representation of this nation will be accorded every means of protection that America can offer."

"Let terrorists be aware that when the rules of international behavior are violated, our policy will be one of swift and effective retribution," Reagan declared.

"We here have said that we live in an era of limit to our powers," he added. "Well, let it also be understood, there are limits to our patience."

Haig said any terrorist nation "would have to be impressed ... by the words of President Reagan when he said our patience is not inexhaustible and I think that's the mood of the American people."

Jimmy Carter approved, too.

"I think the president has done the right thing in this respect," the former president said as he left Americus, Ga., for a Caribbean vacation. Carter negotiated the release of the hostages just before leaving office eight days ago.

As for the agreement the Carter administration negotiated to free the hostages, Haig said the United States will "abide by the obligations of international law and our own law and intends to abide by our obligations. Clearly no one is pleased with the circumstances that brought the agreement about."

But Haig said he did not envision trying to re-establish diplomatic relations with Iran.

"Is it going to warm up? No," Haig said flatly.

Ambassador Redha Malek of Algeria, whose government helped negotiate the hostages' release, was extremely tight-lipped. A cigarette dangling from his mouth; he threw up his hands when reporters tried to question him, mumbling about the "efficacy" of remaining silent.

Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, whose government charged during a critical time in the hostage negotiations that the United States was preparing to attack Iran, also was silent.

Asked what he thought of the hostages' release, Dobrynin quickly moved away, muttering incredulously, "I am giving a press conference?"

Celebration Seen As President's Rallying Point

Analysis

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was Ronald Reagan's kind of day — a day of anthems and American flags, an old-fashioned Fourth of July transplanted to January, complete with fireworks.

As on the night of Reagan's inauguration, just one week before, an array of skyrockets burst over the monuments of American government, this time not for one man come to power but for 52 come home.

Hollywood could not have produced a better cast as a rallying point for a new president dedicated to the old virtues of patriotism and the individual.

At his inauguration, President Reagan spoke of all his countrymen as the real heroes of the land. Here in testament to that were 53 of them, including one released by Iran more than six months ago because of ill health.

"Mr. President," said Bruce Laingen, the ranking hostage-diplomat who spoke for them all, " ... I give you now 53 Americans who will always have a love affair with this country and who join you in a prayer of thanksgiving for the way in which this crisis has strengthened the spirit and resilience and strength that is the mark of a truly free society."

It wasn't Reagan's crisis; it was Jimmy Carter's. Indeed, Reagan the campaigner had at times raised it as an issue against the president he defeated. But it was Reagan's celebration.

Carter was gone, on the way to a Virgin Islands vacation he would rather not have had time for, far from the ceremony of homecoming he so dearly wanted to convene at his own White House.

Actually, the freed hostages honored by Reagan and the nation's capital Tuesday were 52 Americans who happened to be standing in the wrong places at the wrong time, on Nov. 4, 1979, when Iranian militants seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. To say so does not detract from the valor they showed in the 444 days of captivity that followed.

Laingen said he didn't feel like a hero. But they were all honored as heroes, Reagan's kind of heroes, ordinary people bearing — and overcoming — extraordinary stress.

"I can assure you that we're prepared to go out and become rank-and-file common citizens again," Laingen said.

To such rank-and-file citizens, Reagan had dedicated his inaugural address. That inauguration was a national ceremony, too, but it was a celebration of party as well as country, a day for Republicans returned to power.

Tuesday's homecoming celebration knew no political party. It was for Americans. That made it a second, special inauguration for the Reagan administration.

Never mind that the hostage liberation was negotiated by Carter's administration, or that Reagan has yet to firmly commit his government to all the terms of the agreement that got them out. Those were details, set aside for this day.

Reagan's inaugural address, once deemed by his aides a likely vehicle for a stern warning to Iran, made no mention of the hostages or their captors. On Tuesday, there was no mention of anything else.

Warning there was, exactly the kind of warning candidate Reagan had said he would have issued had he been in the White House when the hostages were taken. Reagan the candidate said he would have told Iran to release them or face the certainty of very unpleasant steps in retribution for their capture.

He said that as president, in more general terms, Tuesday. "Let terrorists be aware that when the rules of international behavior are violated, our policy will be one of swift and effective retribution," Reagan said. "We hear it said that we live in an era of limit to our powers. Well, let it also be understood that there are limits to our patience."

Muskie Defends Carter's Handling Of Crisis

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Former Secretary of State Edmund Muskie says critics of the Carter administration's handling of the Iranian hostage crisis offered no solutions and few fresh ideas during the 444-day ordeal.

"Maybe there were better ways (to resolve the crisis)," Muskie said Tuesday night. "They don't seem to have occurred to anyone during that period."

"I'm sure they'll occur to some people now that it's over," he said.

"If we didn't do it as efficiently as possible, who cares?" Muskie told about 2,500 people at Trinity University. "We're all better off."

In his first speech since leaving office last week, Muskie threw out prepared remarks dealing with under-funding of the diplomatic corps and foreign assistance and instead defended former President Jimmy Carter's handling of the 444-day hostage crisis.

He said he knew of no Republican ever suggesting a better way of handling the situation after the rescue attempt failed and the hostages were dispersed, virtually ruling out any military action.

"Immediately we suspended trade, cut off oil purchases from Iran, imposed trade sanctions, froze Iranian assets in excess of $8 billion, and eventually in May, after I became secretary, we were able to persuade our allies and friends to impose trade sanctions and those imposed a heavy cost. By Iran's own estimate, the trade sanctions raised the cost of imports by more than 25 percent."

Muskie said the trade sanctions, coupled with the Iaq-Iran war, proved to be the deciding factors that forced the Ayatollah Khomeini to set the four conditions which were bases of the final agreement.

Asked to respond to President Reagan's Tuesday statement that any such future incident would be met with swift and effective retribution, Muskie said he agreed and that was what was done in the Iranian situation. He discounted that Reagan was referring to military force.

"He (Reagan) has obviously used words that would require definition. I expect that the reaction would depend upon the circumstances, as it did in this case."

Federal Government Cautions Americans To Stay Out Of Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is warning Americans to stay away from Iran, even though the ban on travel there was lifted with release of the American hostages.

The U.S. government's ability to protect anyone who gets in trouble in Iran is "very limited," State Department spokesman William Dyess said Tuesday. Among the dangers, he said, is the possibility that Americans could be "detained without charge."

"The State Department strongly urges U.S. citizens to avoid travel to Iran," Dyess said.

The Reagan administration had considered reimposing the travel ban, but Dyess said officials opted instead for the warning, which carries no penalties.

Dyess said the advisory applies to all Americans, including reporters, although it was issued partly in response to inquiries from businessmen.

The agreement that led to the release of the 52 American hostages also lifted the trade ban with Iran, but Dyess said the State Department was advising businessmen to "go slow."

The Justice Department, meanwhile, asked 25 U.S. District courts to delay for 30 days any action on claims against Iranian assets. During that time, no one will be prosecuted for delays in transferring assets to Iran as required by the hostage release agreement, the department said.

The delays are necessary to give the Reagan administration time to review the pact, which was signed by former President Carter, the department said in statements of interest filed with the courts.

The Justice Department said the delay also would give the government time to prepare Treasury Department regulations and "possible further executive orders" to implement the deal.

In another legal matter, attorney Melvin Belli said he will decide whether to file suits against Iran on behalf of a number of former hostages and their families after he talks to the freed Americans.

The hostage release agreement promised there would be no such suits.

Dyess said the review of the agreement was ongoing and a report on the overall treatment of the hostages may be forthcoming. Some of the former hostages have complained that reports of torture during their captivity were exaggerated.

ABC Will Rebroadcast Updated Hostage Special

NEW YORK (UPI) — ABC will swallow the revenue loss from three prime-time hours of programming tonight, pre-empting all of it just to showcase Pierre Salinger's hostage special in an updated repeat.

The network has reason for pride. It's also the way a network wins the horse race — be the prize the Nielsens or the news "beat."

(The special will be telecast locally from 7 to 10 p.m. on Channel 28.)

It could be argued that the story of 52 American hostages, held and abused for 14 hateful months in Iran, shouldn't be treated as a horse race, but people do love a contest and smart television accommodates people.

In that context, ABC appeared to be ahead by a length nearing the finish line this week, with its competitors thundering neck-and-neck down the electronic track toward a narrow place and show.

From the taking of the Tehran embassy in November 1979 to release of the hostages last week, all three networks have spent small fortunes and vast man hours in a bid to report the story first and best. All have had their moments.

NBC was the first to break the story last year that six Americans had been smuggled out of Iran by members of the Canadian embassy. The peacock network also was first, on Jan. 18, with news that a deal for the hostages' freedom had been struck, and first, in an interview with hostage Lloyd Rollins, to report Iranian militants had played Russian roulette with captive American women.

CBS was first, on Jan. 20, in an interview with former hostage Richard Queen, to reveal the torment of mock firing squads. Queen stayed on to become an articulate on-the-air consultant for CBS, supplying analysis few others could have given, while Charles Kuralt supplied a steady "Morning" torrent of color from hostage families.

But Pierre Salinger and Barbara Walters finally were the pair to beat.

Miss Walters, in an interview Monday with third-ranking embassy hostage Moorhead Kennedy, was the first to reveal that one still unnamed hostage had attempted suicide.

ABC Paris bureau chief Salinger uncorked his dynamic bit of journalistic spadework Jan. 21 when he documented behind-the-scenes negotiations for the hostages' release as a web of confusion, blunder, double-dealing and general pigheadedness on the part of officials from many quarters.

The report drew so many cheers — CBS's own Walter Cronkite reportedly called ABC News President Roone Arlege to say the 14-month production effort was "the greatest show in television history" — that ABC took the nearly unprecedented step of canceling tonight's entire prime-time schedule to repeat it.

Only U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, depicted as an inept go-between who "panicked" and fumbled his mission to Tehran, cried "libel."

Salinger was unperturbed.

"We are not backing down from what we said," he said Tuesday. "We are adding a segment on Waldheim's denial, plus some other things he's said in other contexts ... I started my career in journalism in 1942, so this is not new, but of all the stories I've ever worked on, this is the greatest."

It had to be. Networks are notoriously lockjawed when it comes to discussing money — probably, as retired CBS Broadcast pioneer Fred Friendly recently put it to UPI, because they make "embarrassing" amounts of it — but the commercial loss involved in pre-empting three prime-time hours is not petty cash.

Disney Park Planned For Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — Disneyland, which 25 years ago pioneered a new form of amusement park, is soon to be recreated yet again — this time in a Tokyo suburb. It is the company's first overseas venture.

After a recent ground-breaking ceremony, Disney officials pledged that the 600-acre facility, located on a tract of reclaimed land in Tokyo Bay, "will be second to none."

The park is scheduled to open in the spring of 1982. Officials estimated it would attract 10 million visitors a year, about the same as the original Disneyland in Anaheim, Calif.

With some 35 million people living within a 50-mile radius of the site, Disney executive Dick Nunn said he could not think of "a better place to build a park."

At a press conference, he noted that two million Japanese had visited Disneyland or Disney World in Florida. Quoting a recent survey, he said the two leisure centers topped the list of "most desired place to visit" for Japanese travelers going to the United States.

The Tokyo park will be divided into five major theme areas: Adventureland, Fantasyland, Westernland, Tomorrowland and the World Bazaar. But essentially it is patterned on the American formula.

"Basically, we're importing the Disneyland notion from the United States and adding a few things Japanese," commented Kishio Vamada, managing director of Oriental Land Co., Japanese partner in the $460-million venture.

The site has the usual attractions, Cinderella's Castle, Tom Sawyer's island, a pirates' pavilion and Peter Pan's flight, but there is nothing on the blueprint to suggest a strictly Japanese theme had been considered.

Under terms of the agreement, Disney will be responsible for the design and master planning of the park, as well as construction and operational guidance. In return, Disney will receive a percentage of the gross revenues from admissions, rides, food, beverages and merchandise.

Oriental company officials said Disney would get about a 10 percent cut. Admission fees have yet to be decided, they said, but insiders said a $13 entrance fee was a figure under consideration.

If 10 million persons visit the park as expected, transportation is likely to prove a major headache, although officials believe they can cope with crowds by providing a rail link and shuttle bus.

"We're confident of success in this project," Disney president Card Walker said, adding that the facility will never be completed because "we will continue to add attractions as long as there is imagination in the world."

He noted the leisure industry always seems to survive recession periods, pointing to 1979's attendance at the Disney World site in Orlando, Fla., which attracted a record 13.5 million visitors.

Third World Increasing Oil Demand

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Increasing demands for oil by Third World countries may cut potential exports to the United States and other industrialized nations by close to 69 percent, an oil expert says.

The managing editor of "Energy Detente," Trilby Lundberg, whose father Dan Lundberg publishes the respected "Lundberg Letter" oil industry analysis, said this week the growth of oil use in the Third World puts 3.2 billion people in danger.

Third World countries have imported an energy-intensive lifestyle that requires cars, air conditioners and power-consuming appliances — all of which consume a lot of oil, Miss Lundberg said.

Projections show Third World consumption eating into potential exports, Miss Lundberg said, "decreasing availability to industrialized countries by as much as 68.9 percent by the year 2000."

In the last decade alone, she said, energy demand in underdeveloped countries has leaped from 8.4 million barrels per day to 19.6 million barrels per day — an "imposing" 8.9 percent increase per year.

Of the 120 Third World nations today, 92 must import petroleum, 28 export it and 13 are in OPEC.

But a study by the Secretariat of OPEC completed last year projects that a number of its member nations "are running the risk of becoming net importers of fuel during the 1990s," she said.

Industrialized countries, including the United States, she said, must consider how much traditional suppliers will be able to provide to the Third World, and how much oil will remain at home for their internal consumption.

"Exporters' own needs will certainly top their list of priorities," she said.

"By the year 2000, consumption could reach 16.8 million barrels per day, or the equivalent to current U.S. consumption," Miss Lundberg said.

In one projection, the possibility is measured against possible OPEC exports, which could fall from 29.2 million barrels per day in 1980 to 12.2 milion barrels per day within 20 years.

"That reduction is about equivalent to closing the Persian Gulf today," she said.

With the consumption ethic prevailing, she said, Indonesia and Nigeria's 350 million people could consume more crude than their countries produce by the year 2000, making the two nation's oil importers. Also Algeria and possibly Ecuador, Gabon, Iran and Iraq could be burning their entire production by that time, she said.

Reed Stars In Newest Good-Old-Boy Show

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Here's the budding television star now, rushing to the saloon table in sweatshirt and shades, launching straight into a pitch for his new TV show; it's an inspired monologue, equal parts Hollywood hype and sweet redneck trash:

"My, my, my," says he, of his TV character, J.D. Reed, "Ol' J.D., he likes the Flyin' Tigers and takes shots at the establishment, he's John Wayne. He's the everyday dude's Robin Hood, he's a coward. I wear this Civil War Confederate Cavalry hat that has been in the family since 1865. He's the ugliest, funkiest, raunchiest, crap-shootin'est dude you'll ever see ... But he's real.

"I'm standin' there with my belly hangin' out and my shoulders stooped and I'm listenin' to that J.D. and, son, I tell you, he's real. He's a charmer. He'll charm you, but not with that ugly face, he won't. He's got to have real bullets. I tell you, we eat it up and get into it. It's throwin'-babies-up-in-the-air time. It's me, I promise you."

Yes, it is. J.D. Reed, protagonist in CBS' new entry in the redneck derby, "Concrete Cowboys," is played by Jerry Reed, who was right there when Hollywood discovered redneck chic. You'll remember that Reed, singer of such hard rolling near-classics as "Amos Moses," "When You're Hot, You're Hot" and "Tupelo, Mississippi Flash," played Burt Reynolds' truck driving pal in "Smokey and the Bandit" and again in "Smokey II."

As is the way in this vale of creativity, those prototypes birthed a collection of TV imitations, including "B.J. and the Bear," "Sheriff Lobo" and "Dukes of Hazzard." Next fall, director Hal Needham, who made "Smokey," will borrow from himself with yet another good-ole-boy squeal-out fest, "The Stockers," for NBC (this is the show that brings Terry Bradshaw's retirement from football).

Anyway, "Concrete Cowboys," which begins Feb. 7 on CBS, is described in the publicity sheets as "a down-home, foot-stomping, pull-out-the-stops adventure yarn replete with all the trappings; hair-breadth escapes, unusual chases, elaborate con jobs, good ol' boy humor and production values second to none."

Oh. One of those.

J.D. Reed will sort of roam around the country with his partner, played by Geoffrey Scott, occasionally stumbling into circumstances that will allow a Jerry Reed song. "See, J.D. plays the guitar, so if they get in a bind he can do a quick sit-down gig for butterbean money."

In forwarding "Concrete Cowboys," CBS is hoping to right things on Saturday night, where "Freebie and the Bean" and "Secrets of Midland Heights" were both trounced, and canceled. It's a night that belongs to ABC's "Love Boat" and "Fantasy Island," especially tough for a new show. Reed is unmoved by the evidence.

"It don't matter where they put us," he says, "if it's time, it's gonna happen. Ain't nobody got nothin' to say about it if it's right — just look out and talk about what's comin' behind. This guy's right; the time is right."

"I know everything's against us," he adds, "but don't mistake me for someone who gives a damn about what's against us. I don't."

San Francisco Bay Attracts Producers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "It seems like in Los Angeles they look for you to fail," said film producer Saul Zaentz. "But up here everybody wants each other to succeed."

And that, he said, is one of the main reasons why the San Francisco Bay area can claim to be a new Mecca for the motion-picture industry.

Zaentz, co-producer of the Academy Award-winning "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," is part of a new breed of producers at the cutting edge of an industry rooted for years in the glamour and big money of Hollywood.

The list of northern Californians making movies is impressive. At the top is a triumvirate including Zaentz, George Lucas of "Star Wars" fame and Francis Ford Coppola, the larger-than-life director of the "Godfather" movies.

Other producer-directors like Mike Ritchie ("Semi-Tough" and "The Island"), John Korty ("The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman"), Phil Kaufman ("The Invasion of the Body Snatchers") and Carroll Ballard ("The Black Stallion") have solidified the Bay area as a formidable challenge to Los Angeles.

"The work atmosphere ... has always been more conducive to freedom," said Zaentz, a long-time northern California resident who headed Fantasy Records' rise in the '70s and now heads Fantasy Films.

"Film people have to go to New York and Los Angeles because that's where the big money and the big action are," he said. "But if they had their choice, they'd probably live in San Francisco."

Korty, who also produced the Academy Award-winning documentary, "Who Are The DeBolts and Where Did They Get 19 Kids?" said he chose to live and work in northern California despite knowing it might cost him.

"I was once dropped by an agent who told me there wasn't much he could do for me if I didn't move to L.A.," he said. "But there was never any question about my taking his suggestion."

Zaentz recently opened an $11 million state-of-the-art production center at Fantasy's headquarters in Berkeley. The seven-story building includes a one-of-a-kind automated sound-mixing board in a million-dollar sound studio, and a preview theater with its own space-age mixing board that would make the biggest Hollywood mogul drool with envy. Lucas has ambitions that include a kind of filmmaker's retreat on 2,000 acres just north of San Francisco.

The project, which he estimates will cost more than $20 million, will include a big main farmhouse and facilities for editing, screening and special effects, plus a computer center.

Former Boxing Champ Discusses 'Raging Bull'

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jake La Motta may have been a raging bull during his brutal days in the prize ring, but today the ancient battler is as placid as storied old Ferdinand the bull.

Subject of one of the screen's most abject anti-heroes in "Raging Bull," the ex-champ, soft-spoken and tired-eyed, acknowledges he's not the same man so brilliantly depicted in the film by Robert De Niro.

La Motta, who could take a punch better than any fighter in memory — he was never knocked down in more than 100 fights — gives no sign of being punchy.

Accompanied by his eldest son, Jake, Jr., La Motta is winding down three years of his association with "Raging Bull."

The 58-year-old former middleweight champion, nattily dressed in a three-piece gray suit, was in Hollywood to talk about the picture. His weight hovers near 160, his old fighting form.

La Motta began work on the film with director Martin Scorsese in 1977 when the script was still being ironed out. It is based on Jake's 1970 autobiography. He will remain on the film's payroll until he completes the promotional tour.

"Bobby De Niro and I spent a year working together before the picture started," La Motta said. "He trained more for the part than I thought was necessary. He worked out every day from April of 1977 to April of 1978.

"He studied my old fight films hour after hour. He boxed more than 1,000 rounds with me alone, plus many more with other fighters.

"I told him when we were in the ring to go all out, not to pull his punches because he couldn't hurt me. I was never hurt in the ring. I never felt pain. I psyched myself into not feeling pain.

"But Bobby gave me four black eyes over the year. He damaged my nose and did $4,000 damage to the caps on my teeth. And he fractured a rib. I gave him some good shots, too. And he took them well.

"When the picture started, Bobby fought exactly in my style. Exactly like I did. And he's so good he could fight professionally right now. Not that he'd be champ. But he can handle himself in the ring like a pro."

Jake was a bloated 220 pounds when he and De Niro began working out. In his quest for verisimilitude, De Niro gained 60 pounds during the course of the film to portray Jake accurately in his later years.

"When Bobby gained all that weight, I asked him, 'Do I look as bad as you?'" Jake recounted. "When he said yes, I went on a diet and lost 60 pounds while he was putting it on. All in all, I lost 5,000 pounds during my career."

Jake is portrayed as an unsympathetic Neanderthal throughout most of "Raging Bull," an uncompromising, brutal low life who beats his wife and brother and throws fights for the mob. On screen he is an uncouth slob, a sadist.

Most people would sue United Artists, Scorsese and anyone else connected with the picture, claiming defamation of character or libel. Certainly it would seem unlikely a man thus depicted would cooperate with the film's production.

Jake shrugged with resignation and said, "When I saw the finished picture, I said, 'Yes. That's the way it was.' I don't like the way it was, but I can't deny it. The film is almost 100 percent on the nose.

"I don't enjoy seeing myself up there. The picture ends in 1964 and I wasn't the same man I am today. During my fighting career I worked at being vicious, mean and cruel.

"That's the attitude I had to take to become a champion. I talked myself into it over a period of years. It worked for me. I became champ. And I spent more years afterwards talking myself out of being that brutal raging bull.

"In a way, I'm the champ again, 30 years after I lost my title" La Motta said, grinning.

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

It happened several days before the inauguration when President Reagan and Vice President Bush paid a courtesy call on the Third Branch of Government, visiting briefly with the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court in his chambers. As they walked into the adjoining Justices' conference room to sign the court's guest book, the former California governor was interested to see Bush take his pen in his left hand. "Look," he exclaimed to the Chief Justice, — "a southpaw!" The half-hour visit concluded with coffee and tea.

Las Vegas Connection's Newsletter publishers and editors, Red and Gennie McIlvaine, believe it is high time to give credit to some of the unsung heroes of the tragic MGM fire, headed by the Nellis Air Force helicopter pilots who rescued guests off the MGM roof, evacuating the dead and injured to the back parking lot. Also the paramedics and off-duty nurses who volunteered their aid the minute they heard about the fire.

And the Metro firefighters and guests and visitors of the other hotels and the medics who closed their offices and volunteered themselves and staff for the duration, donating their clothing, extra beds, comfort, rooms and board, including Mike Gaughan and his Barbary Coast Hotel directly across the street from the inferno.

The husband and wife report the Barbary closed its casino for three hours — and in their memory the only previous time casinos ever interrupted the action was the day President Kennedy was buried.

Incidentally Mac Davis, headliner at the MGM at the time of the fire, was safely away from the hotel at Engelbert Humperdinck's home. Lonnie Shorr, his co-star, not so lucky, was stranded on the balcony like so many other guests and was rescued by firemen late in the morning.

A happier bit of Vegas News: MGM is working feverishly to reopen the disaster area by mid-summer with additional rooms and putting close to 5,000 employees back to work. It's a harbinger that the citizens of Las Vegas aren't taking this knockout blow sitting down but are getting quickly off the canvas. And, as Howard Cosell might summarize from ringside, that should put all previous rumors of a crippled economy to rest.

Send your questions to Hy Gardner, "Glad You Asked That," care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 19620, Irvine, Calif. 92714. Marilyn and Hy Gardner will answer as many questions as they can in their column, but the volume of mail makes personal replies impossible.

Officials Fight Over New Chief

BELMONT, N.H. (UPI) — It started out as an argument over the hiring of a new police chief. In the end, one town official got two black eyes and the other an assault charge.

Selectman George Condodemetraky was scheduled to appear in court this weekon the misdemeanor charge, punishable by a maximum of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Witnesses said Condodemetraky and Selectman Alfred Davis came to blows over the town's hiring of a new police chief. Davis ended up with two black eyes and numerous facial cuts.

Television Movie Recreates Ordeal Of American Soldier

By KENNETH R. CLARK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Living the horror — and James Thornwell has lived it for 20 years — is bad enough. Watching it recreated as a film for television was almost more than he could bear.

"I can't watch with a detached point of view — with objectivity," he told UPI in a telephone interview. "It's just something I can't do. Watching the filming, before I'd know it, I'd be caught up in the moment — reliving it. I flash back. I go back there to Orlean and I come apart."

Orlean, France, is where Thornwell — then a bright, cocky, young black soldier with a college degree in his future — was broken by American intelligence agents who suspected him of stealing classified documents from the Army communications center in which he worked.

The Army never had a shred of evidence against Thornwell and subsequently dropped all charges against him. But before it was over, agents for the Counter Intelligence Corps badgered half a dozen "confessions" out of their victim before deciding to turn him into a guinea pig in the testing of a new "truth serum."

The truth serum was LSD. They had tested it before on volunteers, but Thornwell was the first ever subjected to LSD surreptitiously and the trip — spurred by a concerted campaign of terrorism and brutality — was a bad one.

Following a general discharge from the Army, Thornwell wandered through a succession of jobs and two marriages, unable to maintain any of them. His psychiatrist, Dr. Paul Berg, said his "mental tapes" had been erased. Thornwell still has flashbacks and presumably will continue to have them as long as he lives.

For years, the Army hid the truth of what had been done to Thornwell under the stamp of "Top Secret," but the truth came out, first through his lawyer's demand under the Freedom of Information Act, and finally, in March 1979, in a segment on CBS's "60 Minutes."

In Dec., 1980, with even the Army admitting the treatment Thornwell received at the hands of the CIC was "unconscionable," Congress awarded Thornwell $625,000, the highest congressional compensation ever made to an individual.

Now Thornwell's horror story is on film.

"Thornwell," co-starring Glynn Turman in the title role and Vincent Gardenia as the silk-and-venom chief CIC agent, will be broadcast tonight at 8 CST by CBS, and disappointing as it turns out to be as a television docudrama, its point is chillingly made: You don't have to live in a police state to find the Gestapo at your doorstep.

Thornwell's story is made to order for a film thriller. Unhappily, the CBS version, dragging through interminable flashbacks and aimless conversation, tends to be preachy in dialogue and stilted in plot line. Only the fact that it is true redeems it. For Thornwell, it constitutes another rare break in a life that has not had many.

He said he does not know yet if the film will add any money to his government compensation, but he hopes it will.

"Money is only important as far as my children are concerned," he said. "Money is important. It pays bills. I hope to make some more and I think I will."

Is he bitter over the wreckage the Army made of his mind and his life?

"When you live as long as I've lived and suffered as much as I've suffered, you try not to be," he said. "I don't have time to be bitter. I couldn't have survived if I'd been bitter.

"I may not be happy with what happened to me, but history will run its course."

Programming Consultant Says ABC's Future Prospects Dim

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Herb Jacobs, a TV prognosticator worthy of attention if for no other reason than his delightfully crude delivery, foretells ill for one of his biggest clients, ABC.

"If figures don't lie," Jacobs recently told a convention of California broadcasters, "ABC should have more to worry about than NBC."

Jacobs, a programming consultant whose clients include ABC's five owned-and-operated television stations, emphatically stated his belief that NBC President Fred Silverman is drawing more negative criticism than he deserves.

"He's still the most capable and the most dangerous competitor in the business," Jacobs said. "But bad news makes good copy and it's always been fashionable to kick around a so-called genius."

Having already kicked a genius today (my Tommy Lasorda doll) and not anxious to appear unduly fashion-conscious, I'll pass comment on that observation.

Anyway, Jacobs went on to make a solid point about a possible ABC-NBC struggle for second place that has less to do with Silverman's esteemed skills than with ABC programming failings.

Jacobs pointed out that only 29.5 percent of ABC's prime time shows are drawing 30 percent or more audience shares, a level considered safe from cancellation. And, he says, prospects for ABC's future are dim, based on that network's current schedule.

(By the way, ABC was to have made a couple of minor schedule changes, including the insertion of "Foul Play" into its Monday lineup.)

On Monday, Jacobs predicts, ABC will fall on its face without "Monday Night Football." ABC's "Dynasty," described by Jacobs as "yet another nighttime soap," will not hold off NBC's movie entry. CBS owns the night with "M-A-S-H", "House Calls" and "Lou Grant."

On Tuesday, which has been an ABC fortress, Jacobs reckons NBC will move to the top (it's a weak night for CBS) because NBC's "Sheriff Lobo" is "low-brow enough to steal" audience from ABC's "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley." ABC's other Tuesday entries, "Three's Company" and "Too Close for Comfort" are fading.

ABC owns Saturday night with "Love Boat" and "Fantasy Island," and should breathe a little life into "Charlie's Angels" by moving it to Saturday. Jacobs predicts better things for NBC's "Gangster Chronicles" and 'Walking Tall" than seem supportable. That latter show made its premiere to 28 percent of the audience, compared to a 37 share for ABC's "Love Boat," which played opposite it.

Sunday is CBS' strongest night. Jacobs thinks NBC's entry of "CHiPs" and a movie is good for second place.

So, as Herb Jacobs sees it, ABC is a network in trouble. NBC is on the rise. And "the gloating press, sneering security analysts and carping critics" won't have Fred Silverman to kick around any more.

Hmm. I wonder if ABC has any geniuses?

Author Ponders Senate Race

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Novelist Gore Vidal, who has urged voters to stay away from the ballot box to protest the American political system, says he may ask Californians to elect him to the U.S. Senate.

It was disclosed this week that Vidal, author of "Burr," "1876" and "Julian," was seriously considering running for the Senate seat held by S.I. Hayakawa, who plans to seek re-election.

Vidal, a Democrat, said he hasn't voted since the 1964 presidential election, but registered Jan. 14 to vote in California for the first time. He lives in Los Angeles but has spent much of his time in Italy.

Vidal, the grandson of the late Thomas Gore, a four-term U.S. senator from Oklahoma, was asked during a recent visit to Redlands University why he was contemplating office if he does not vote and urges others not to vote.

"I think the system doesn't work at all," Vidal said. "I'm hoping that if the less than 50 percent who are registered to vote, vote in the next national election, the election will lose its legitimacy."

IF A NATURAL DISASTER TOMORROW HOW LONG WOULD YOUR FOOD SUPPLY LAST?
Experts recommend that you store a year's supply of food for everyone in your family. But frozen or canned food must be consumed within a certain time or deterioration sets in.
Well, we have the answer: Mountain House freeze dried food.
It stores for many years. Not only that, but you'll love the taste, the great variety, and the ease of preparation.

1981 DATSUN TRUCKS. MORE POWER. LESS GAS.

The secret is Datsun's revolutionary NAPS-Z engine. It's a 2.2-liter hemi-head powerplant that gives better mileage and over 18% more torque than last year's engine. Every 1981 Datsun truck has it. Take your pick and take a test drive. You've got to try it to believe it.

Li'l Hustler with standard 5-speed transmission

27 EPA EST MPG / 36 EPA EST HWY

Remember, use estimated MPG for comparison. Your mileage may differ, depending on speed, weather and trip length. Your actual highway mileage will probably be less.

SAD COWBOY — Five-year-old Chase Deadman stands at the gate of the stable where he kept his Shetland pony before thieves stole it two weeks ago. Chase said, "I wish Apple had been ugly so nobody would have taken him." A new rash of horse thefts has gotten horse owners in the Dallas area so angry that some are arming themselves with guns and some horsemen fear the owners will end up shooting each other. (AP Laserphoto)

Angry Horse Owners Consider Forming Vigilante Groups

GARLAND (AP) — Back in the days when Texas was a wild, young part of the American West, a convicted horse thief was a rare man — usually because ranchers made sure he didn't live long enough to stand trial.

Times may have changed since then, but 13 horse thefts in the past two weeks have angry horse owners in this Dallas suburb arming themselves and thinking about forming a modern day "posse" to deal with the "varmits."

But the vigilante mood of the equine enthusiasts has had dangerous drawbacks, says one stable owner.

"It's a powder keg," said Bill Taylor of the Lazy J stables here. "Two women were out checking their horses and they almost shot each other the other night."

"Horse owners and horse traders are real proud people," adds Garland police Det. Jackie Waggoner. "They buy a horse when it's a small colt and raise it for years and years and years. When it gets stolen, they don't like it one bit."

Waggoner said police have increased their patrols around corrals and horse pastures and are "following every lead we can get our hands on" in an effort to catch the culprits responsible for the thefts.

Seven thefts were made from two stables inside the Dallas city limits, four of them at the Diamond Eight Stable on Monday. One of the missing animals was a $10,000 cutting horse, said Garland police officer John Hamilton.

The stable padlock was cut and the four horses, valued at a total of $18,000, were stolen sometime before dawn. They included a mare and a Shetland pony that belonged to a 5-year-old boy, Chase Deadman.

"There's no way to put a monetary value on a Shetland pony that belongs to a 5 year old," Langley said. "Stealing a horse is not like kidnapping a person, but it's the very next thing to it."

But Langley said reports that stable operators and horse owners plan to organize vigilante-style protection groups are bad news.

Added Taylor, "It's getting to the point we've got to get calm, cool and collected and let the police do their job."

But even people like Taylor and Langley, who disapprove of horse owners carrying guns, get worked up over horse thieves.

"When we finally catch one of those low-down, thieving, conniving rascals that would steal a 5 year old's horse," explained Langley, "he posts bond and beats us back to the house. They slap their hands and turn them loose."

"I'm not saying I want retaliation. I want justice."

"One of the things these folks are not thinking about is the legal ramifications if they carry a gun and shoot someone, an innocent person," said Garland policeman Larry Rollins. "Not only could the person who was shot file a damage suit, but there could be criminal charges, too.

"And if some people form patrols, they should realize that if anyone sues one of them that he can sue everybody. The legal problems could be staggering.

"It would certainly be better if they just gave us a call and let us handle it."

One difficulty for the police, however, is the ease with which a horse thief can dispose of the evidence — at a packing plant.

"The big deal is that they can get 60 cents a pound, on the hoof, at a packing house for shipment to Europe where they can eat horse meat," said Hamilton.

"Any horse that's walking is worth from $550 to $1,000 because they are getting 60 cents a pound at the meat market," Taylor agreed.

Farmers Union Leader Plans Strategy

By KATHLEEN HARRIS
Avalanche-Journal Farm Writer

Newly-elected Texas Farmers Union president Mike Moeller stopped in Lubbock Tuesday for what he termed "preparations for a legislative program primarily on the Washington level."

Moeller, who plans to "mobilize family farmers and ranchers to assure that Washington lawmakers hear from the countryside as they write new multi-year farm legislation," is holding press conferences across the state to announce his strategy.

The TFU leader plans to culminate his blitz across Texas with a policy dialogue session with Rep. Charles Stenholm of Stamford and congressmen from other states on Feb. 21 at the Cisco Junior College in Cisco.

If that session is successful, Moeller added, more such farmer meetings will be planned.

The 33-year-old Moeller said TFU is mainly concerned with the price support program, disaster program and embargo policies.

"Prices received for commodities should be established high enough that a farmer or rancher can stay in business," Moeller said. "Price supports have not kept up with inflation."

He said the disaster program has been good for Texas farmers and enabled many of them to stay in business. The organization, he said, will "fight hard for the disaster program."

While not advocating that the U.S. president's "hands be tied," Moeller said, the TFU believes embargoes that must be imposed should include a halt to shipments of all products, not just farm commodities. He also said the new farm bill should include specific provisions on prices in the event of an embargo.

Moeller said the TFU is "pleasantly surprised" by many statements made by John Block, new secretary of agriculture, and hopes that Block's opinions will prevail throughout the Reagan administration.

"Instead of (agriculture) committee staff members, congressional aides and admini tration economists writing such critical legislation, we're making every effort to get the folks whose livelihoods are affected to provide their input now so that the farm community doesn't find itself simply responding to the law after it's already adopted," said Moeller about the upcoming meetings.

Joe Hays of Tahoka and Bryant Implement and Anderson Rock Pickers of O'Donnell took the reserve grand champion steer on a bid of $850. Shanna Edwards of O'Donnell Future Farmers of America exhibited the animal.

A bid of $600 from Joe and Ode Brewer of O'Donnell took the reserve grand champion barrow. O'Donnell 4-H member Casondra Brewer showed the hog.

Floor bids were $44.50 for barrows from TAMDA, $66.50 for steers from Lubbock Stockyards and Lowe and Miller, and 50 cents for lambs from Moffitt Lamb Buyers of San Angelo.

Showmanship awards were given to Scott Brewer of O'Donnell 4-H for steers, Jody Woodard of Tahoka 4-H for lambs and Debbie Daniell of Wilson FFA for barrows.

Herdsman awards were presented to Todd Pebsworth of Tahoka 4-H for steers, Jody Woodard for lambs, and Denver Merryman of Tahoka FFA for barrows.

The Lynn County Livestock Association also recognized Lyndell Wood of Tahoka for his aid in getting a concrete floor installed in the county barn.

He has spoken to groups across the United States and is described as a man with "down-to-earth philosophy and clean humor."

Nominees for directors of PCA are Keith Young and D. C. Jefferies, both of Gaines County for Place I; Dalton Redman and C. T. Seaman, both of Cochran County for Place II.

TEXAS ROUNDUP

Sales Of Texas Homes Reduced By 15 Percent

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Sales of existing homes in Texas dropped 15 percent during the first three months of 1980 over previous years, according to a study by the Texas Real Estate Research Center.

"After monitoring housing sales for seven years from reports submitted by 32 metropolitan area multiple listing services, we are able to conclude that the coldest months of the year are a buyer's market," said Dr. Arthur Wright, research economist for the center at Texas A&M University.

"People are reluctant to move during this period, and since many families are tied to an area during the school year, the greatest amount of activity occurs during the summer recess," he added.

Wright also reported that sales prices for homes during the colder months are less than during the summer months.

Wright said the figures were adjusted to account for inflation.

During the seven year monitoring period more than a half million existing homes were sold in Texas.

Punishment Debated

LIBERTY (AP) — A state court jury deliberated punishment Tuesday for a wealthy rice farmer convicted in the August 1978 murder of a prominent Liberty County developer.

Jurors deliberated 2½ hours Monday before returning the guilty verdict against John Lovell, 40, in the shooting death of Frank R. Duke Sr.

Lovell could receive from five years probation to life in prison, said District Attorney Carroll Wilborn.

Duke died from two shotgun blasts to the chest at the farm he had leased from Lovell about 3½ miles east of Hardin.

Duke's widow, Barbara, burst into tears and hugged her oldest son, Frank R. Duke Jr., after the verdict was read. "Justice has finally been done. Now I can bury my husband," she said.

Lovell was first tried for murder in June 1979, but a jury failed to reach a unanimous verdict.

During the trial, a 24-year-old undocumented alien employed by the Duke family testified he saw Lovell jump from his truck and deliberately shoot Duke twice.

However, the witness said, he did not come forward until the second trial because he "didn't have any papers" and was afraid of Lovell.

Patient Doing Well

HOUSTON (AP) — An 11-year-old leukemia victim who received a bone marrow transplant is "doing well" in the isolation unit at Texas Children's Hospital, a hospital spokesman said Tuesday.

Bryan Deermer received the transplant bone marrow from his sister, Michelle McGinn, last week after doctors decided it probably was his only chance for survival, the spokesman said.

Doctors said the youngster, who has battled the disease since he was 3, has "a little fever" but is doing well.

The youngster must remain in isolation about six weeks because the treatment lowers his resistance to the disease, doctors said.

Suspect Arrested

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Police arrested a man Tuesday in connection with the robbery of the Commercial National Bank in Texarkana earlier in the day, the FBI said.

William Kell, special agent in charge of the FBI in Arkansas, said Jimmie Lee Hughes, 33, of Lodi, was arrested at a motel in Texarkana about 13 minutes after the robbery occurred.

U.S. Attorney James A. Goutensohn of Fort Smith authorized the filing of a complaint charging Hughes with the bank robbery and also with the interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle.

Formal charges will be filed Wednesday morning, Goutensohn said. He recommended bond of $15,000 on the robbery charge and $5,000 on the stolen vehicle charge.

Hughes was held in the Texarkana City Jail on Tuesday.

Kell said a man armed with a handgun entered the bank about 1:30 p.m. and took a substantial amount of money.

The man then fled in a car, Kell said.

The bank robbery was the fifth in Arkansas this year, Kell said.

Charges Filed

BEAUMONT (AP) — Attempted capital murder charges have been filed against a man involved in a weekend shootout with Jefferson County deputies that left one man dead and another wounded.

Morris Edward Cleveland, who lives in a rural area west of Beaumont, was charged with attempted capital murder in connection with the Sunday incident. He remained in jail Tuesday under $50,000 bond.

Officials say they still have not positively identified a man killed when deputies spotted a stolen car and a gunfight erupted.

A teen-age girl and another man in the car have been released, officials said.

Woman's Body Found

HOUSTON (AP)— Authorities say the body of a Houston hospital pharmacist has been found in a wooded area near the Astrodome, her feet tied to a tree, her hands bound, her mouth gagged.

Police said Tuesday that Mary Dianne Berry, 24, had been missing since Sunday when her car was found abandoned near Missouri City.

Officers believe they have the photograph of a man who may have abducted the young woman. They said the picture was taken automatically early Monday morning when the man withdrew $1,000 from Mrs. Berry's account by using her credit card at an automated bank teller machine.

Investigators said the cause of death has not been determined.

Guillot said a fresh dent was found on the rear bumper, indicating the vehicle may have been struck at a nearby intersecion and Mrs. Berry was abducted when she left the vehicle to check the damage.

Winter Storm Threatening South Plains

A-J News Services

A massive winter storm in the western United States continued to lumber eastward today, posing a threat of colder weather and a possibility of rain or snow for the South Plains.

The storm, which has been bringing rain to California and snow to the western mountains, is not expected to make itself felt in the Lubbock area until late Thursday.

Meanwhile, fair and warm weather should continue over the area, with highs of near 70 today and in the middle 60s on Thursday. Tonight's low is predicted to be in the upper 30s, slightly warmer than this morning's minimum of 28.

Southwesterly winds of 5 to 10 mph this morning were expected to pick up to 10 to 15 mph this afternoon and continue through Thursday.

The long range forecast calls for colder weather and increasing cloudiness on Friday, with a chance of rain and snow over the weekend.

As the winter storm continued its eastward progress, winter storm warnings in the mountains of California were downgraded to travelers advisories. To the east, a winter storm warning was issued for today in western Wyoming.

Travel advisories also were continued from the Cascade and Siskiyou mountains in Oregon southeastward through northern and central Nevada and for late today and tonight across the northern mountains of Arizona.

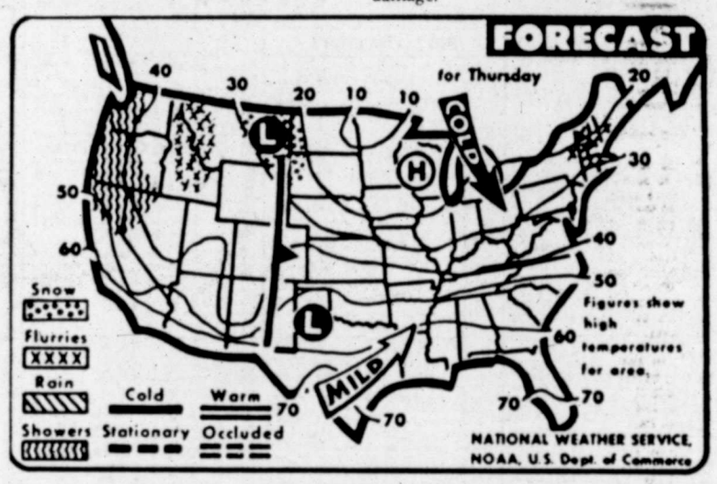
The storm is expected to move into Colorado tonight, prompting a winter storm watch for the Rockies in that state.

Elsewhere in Texas today, dense fog blanketed most of the Gulf Coast, reducing visibility to near zero and prompting the National Weather Service to issue a travelers advisory for motorists and boat operators from Houston to Brownsville.

The fog was expected to lift by midmorning in the coastal areas, leaving skies mostly sunny across the state.

Early morning lows ranged from the mid-20s in the Panhandle and northern South Plains to the 50s in far South Texas.

Today's forecast called for a slight warming trend, with afternoon highs in the 60s and 70s statewide.



WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for Thursday predicts showers for northern California, Nevada and the Northwest. Flurries and snow are predicted in Idaho, Montana, the Dakotas, New York and New England. (AP Laserphoto)

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Stock Prices Up Slightly In Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices edged higher today as momentum from the previous session slowed.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 0.77 to 950.26 in the first two hours of trading, following on the heels of a 10.58-point gain on Tuesday.

Advances outnumbered declines by a 7-5 margin, among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Energy stocks had led Tuesday's rally, with investor interest stemming from the Reagan administration's announcement that it would order removal today of the remaining oil price and allocation controls that would otherwise have expired in September.

Among today's prices, Exxon was down ⅜ at 77¼ after gaining 1⅞ on Tuesday when it reported a slight decline in its latest quarterly profits.

Analysts said the market was anticipating a decline in the prime corporate lending rates charged by major banks.

Shortly after the market opened, Marine Midland Bank announced a half-point reduction in its prime to 19.5 percent. The prime has been stuck at 20 percent at most big banks for about three weeks.

The NYSE's composite index rose .14 to 75.33.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.32 at 345.73.

Dollar Posts More Gains

LONDON (AP) — Bullion prices steadied today following sharp declines in the past week, while the dollar scored fresh gains against most major currencies on foreign exchanges in Europe and Asia.

The dollar gained another pfennig to 2.0775 West German marks in European trading, up 7 pfennigs from a week ago and the dollar's best performance since mid-1978. There are 100 pfennigs to a mark. The dollar had closed Tuesday at 2.0640 marks in European trading.

In Italy, where the dollar has been hitting new highs daily, it surged again today to 982.50 lire from 972.50 on Tuesday.

Student Shot Down After Terrorizing Sorority

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI) — A University of Arkansas freshman terrorizing a sorority initiation dinner at gunpoint, apparently because he had been spurned for a date, was shot and killed by police in front of about 100 coeds.

Some of the women attending Tuesday night's dinner at the Delta Delta Delta sorority house giggled until they realized the young man was serious about shooting.

Police said they tried to talk James Taylor, 19, of North Little Rock, into surrendering, but opened fire after he aimed his shotgun at sorority members in the sorority's dining room.

Witnesses said Taylor parked his car in a lot behind a row of sorority houses and pulled a shotgun out of the back seat. A resident of a nearby sorority house saw the gun and called city police, who notified campus security.

"He knocked on the door, and since it was right in the middle of initiation dinner, a house boy had to let him in," said sorority member Mary Lee Hewitt of Springdale, Ark. "He walked in and was holding the gun on his shoulder, like something out of the Army.

"He motioned to the girl he'd asked for a date to come over to him. Some of the girls were giggling because they didn't know whether to take it seriously."

The house boy, Mitch Lyons, a senior from North Little Rock, tried to talk Taylor into putting the gun outside, witnesses said, but Taylor refused.

"The house boy went over to him and told him he could stay in the house if he'd put the gun outside, but he said, 'Nope, there's going to be some shooting tonight,'" Miss Hewitt said.

At about that time, three police officers, all armed with shotguns, entered the front door and two other armed policemen entered the house through a back door, police said.

Two coeds shut a partition separating the sorority members in the dining room from the foyer where Taylor stood. Some crawled under tables, Miss Hewitt said.

Police confronted Taylor in the foyer and he aimed the gun at them momentarily, university officials said. Then he walked to the partition, flung it open and pointed the cocked shotgun at sorority members who were scurrying out of the room, Miss Hewitt said.

The girls sought cover and police opened fire, hitting Taylor in the head and chest, university officials said. He was pronounced dead at Washington Regional Medical Center.

Garwood Judge Rejects Motion

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — A military judge today refused to reverse his dismissal of charges that Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood deserted in Vietnam and tried to persuade other American soldiers to throw down their arms.

Prosecutors this morning asked Col. R.E. Switzer to reverse his Tuesday ruling and allow the charges to stand against the 34-year-old Indiana native, who still stands accused of collaborating with the enemy and physically abusing a fellow prisoner of war in Vietnam.

As lawyers for Garwood objected to the move by prosecutors, Switzer said he would not change his mind about the dismissal.

However, the judge said he had incorrectly stated his decision on Tuesday when he said some charges against Garwood were dismissed. He said he should have stated he was granting a defense motion to acquit the Marine of those charges.

In announcing the dismissal, Switzer said he felt "sympathy for the accused."

His surprise ruling came on a routine defense motion calling for dismissal of all charges against Garwood, who spent almost 14 years in Vietnam after disappearing in 1965.

In addition to the multi-count collaboration charge, Garwood still faces a decision by the five-officer jury on an allegation that he physically abused Army Pfc. David N. Harker by striking him in the ribs. Switzer dismissed a charge that he verbally abused a second POW.

Conviction on the collaboration charge, viewed by the prosecution as the most serious of the allegations, could result in life imprisonment and forfeiture of the $147,000 in back pay credited to Garwood's account during his stay in Vietnam.

Switzer said in an interview later that his action in allowing the other charges to go to the jury "does not mean that I feel the accused is guilty of the remaining charges."

In the courtroom, Switzer told attorneys: "I do have sympathy for the accused. I have a great deal of empathy for him, having led men in combat in my early years."

Prosecutors would not comment on Switzer's actions, but defense lawyer Vaughn Taylor said, "Justice is happening."

In calling for dismissal of the charges, chief defense lawyer John Lowe compared Garwood's treatment at the hands of the Viet Cong to that of the Americans held hostage in Iran. He noted that hostages had been shown on film telling of their humane treatment, but now talk of brutality and mistreatment by their captors.

"The symptoms they have described could very well be Bobby Garwood talking," Lowe said.

The defense maintains Garwood suffered from a mental disease that had been aggravated by physical and mental torture by the Viet Cong and that the illness developed in Vietnam to the extent that Garwood was not aware of any criminality in his actions.

The solicitation charge dismissed by Switzer had accused Garwood of using a bullhorn to try to persuade American soldiers to give up. The prosecution never presented any testimony that Garwood took part in such appeals.

The verbal maltreatment charge specified that Garwood told Army 1st Sgt. Richard F. Williams, "I spit on you and all people like you disgust me" and "You're in the military only for the retirement, blood money made off Vietnamese."

Several POWs testified that Garwood wore the uniform of the North Vietnamese, carried a rifle for his captors, served as an interpreter and took up the cause of the enemy.

374 People Listed As Missing, Dead In Indonesian Disaster

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A total of 374 people were listed as dead or missing today in Indonesia's worst maritime disaster, the sinking of a passenger ship that caught fire in the Java Sea, a government spokesman said.

The spokesman said 762 survivors had been picked up from the storm-tossed sea and were being brought to port by rescue ships. He said 87 people were confirmed dead and 287 were still missing from the Tampomas 2, which sank Tuesday.

Bad weather in the Java Sea hampered the search, and most or all the missing were believed dead.

The 2,420-ton Tampomas caught fire Sunday during a trip across the Java Sea from Jakarta, the Indonesian capital on the northwest coast of the island of Java, to Ujung Pandang, the capital and chief port of the big island of Sulawesi (Celebes) 1,000 miles to the east. F. Habibie, secretary to the director general of sea communications, said there were 1,054 passengers and 82 crew members aboard.

The ship sank about 220 miles from Ujung Pandang. Meanwhile, Habibie's office in Jakarta received incorrect reports that the fire had been put out, the ship taken in tow, and all aboard were safe.

Habibie said survivors were being taken to Ujung Pandang and to Surabaya, on the northeast coast of Java.

He said a large-scale search by ships and planes was under way in the Java Sea, but the weather was still bad. Heavy seas prevented rescue ships from getting alongside some of the bodies that were sighted, he reported.

The government sent 13 ships and five planes to the area, and the aircraft dropped 60 rubber dinghies into the sea. But the crews reported seeing no one in the dinghies and no life jackets dotting the waves.

Shipping sources speculated the fire broke out in one of 166 cars that was being carried by the Tampomas.

The passengers apparently were jammed together on deck while the crew fought the fire for more than 24 hours. Habibie said when the ship started to go down, the crowd "panicked at the last moment. And although they had life vests on, they were all too close to one another, and in that kind of cramped situation anything can happen."

He added that many of them must have been too tired and weak to fight to save themselves.

Psychologist Testifies About Abuse

HOUSTON (AP) — A noted psychologist testifed Tuesday that Kathleen Sandiford, on trial for the murder of her physician husband, was one of the most severely abused women she had ever encountered.

Leonore E. Walker, the author of the book, "The Battered Woman", told a state court jury that Mrs. Sandiford had suffered as much as a prisoner of war or an Iranian hostage.

Ms. Walker said the woman, accused of shooting to death Dr. Frank Sandiford on the night of Jan. 29, 1980, "was losing her will. He had terrorized her and brainwashed her in a way that she believed he had total control."

Mrs. Sandiford, 41, is accused of murdering her husband at their fashionable River Oaks home.

Dr. Sandiford was a widely-known heart surgeon and worked with Dr. Denton Cooley.

In earlier testimony, the defendant said her husband believed he would replace Dr. Cooley if the famed surgeon was killed.

Mrs. Sandiford testified her husband traveled to Italy to "get a gun from the Mafia."

She said she tried to talk her husband out of the plan to kill Dr. Cooley and wanted to warn the internationally-known chief of the Texas Heart Institute.

"But," she testified, "her husband told her if she warned the surgeon, 'the Mafia will take care of you.'"

She also said Dr. Sandiford "took Valium. He ate Valium. He would have discussions with himself. He would become angry with himself. He became preoccupied with death."

The defendant is accused of shooting her doctor husband five times with a .357-caliber Magnum revolver. She has claimed self-defense and said on the night of the shooting her husband came up the steps to the bedroom and "he had a tennis racket and he said, 'I'm going to get you.' I saw his eyes. then I don't know what happened."

Bank Establishes Fund For Victim Of Cancer

A fund has been set up at First National Bank to help meet mounting medical costs facing the family of a 9-year-old Lubbock boy suffering from cancer.

The fund for Burton Chain of 1903 10th St. was established by family friends.

Burton has undergone three operations for malignant melanoma. The disease has developed into a tumor that now covers close to three-fourths of his neck area.

Interferon treatments given to the boy at M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston at first seemed to help the boy but later proved to be unsuccessful, said his local physician, Dr. Suat Cheng Fang.

Dr. Fang said the boy's grandfather died of the same disease several years ago.

Donations may be added to the fund through any teller at First National or may be mailed to the bank, marked on the envelope to the attention of Dorothy Smith. Checks should be made out to the Burton Chain fund.

Donations of clothing or food will also be accepted at Bethel Assembly of God, where the boy attended church.

Donations of juice and shirts that snap closed, rather than have to be pulled over the head, will be especially useful to the boy, friends said.

More information may be obtained from Bobby Stargel, 745-3380, or from Rev. Raymond Junker at Bethel Assembly of God.

Texas Heritage Project Panel Member Named

John A. Anderson, executive director of the Food and Fiber National Institute of Achievement Inc., has been named to the Business Association Advisory Council of the Texas Heritage Project.

The project is sponsored by the Texas Historical Foundation and the Texas Historical Commission and is funded by the Moody Foundation.

It is a movement to encourage a return to traditional values. Highlighted in the effort is old-fashioned Texas patriotism, Texas pride and appreciation of the heritage of Texas.

This includes work to renew active observance of Texas Heritage Days, traveling exhibits featuring Texas heroes, development of history as a tourist attraction and assisting Texas history teachers.

Anderson will be connected with a major THP goal, that of recognizing outstanding achievements and lasting contributions of the "Builders of Texas."

A "builders of Texas collection to 1942" will be housed in the Texas State Library and Archives, honoring "outstanding Texans who...used their talents, abilities and individual initiative in opening up new areas of economic enterprise...and who are notable examples of achievement under the freedom of opportunity of enterprise and profit system, Texas Style."

Anderson, a Massachusetts native who adopted Texas after military service at San Antonio, came to Lubbock in 1965 and joined the staff of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce as conventions manager in 1969.

In 1972, he was heavily involved in the creation of the Lubbock Bicentennial program which included formation of the Food and Fiber National Institute.

In 1973, Anderson, upon his return from Group Study Exchange Program in Finland, became associate executive director of the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission of Texas in Arlington. He traveled throughout Texas organizing community bicentennial programs.

He then joined the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration as deputy regional director with responsibilities in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

With the close of bicentennial activities, Anderson became assistant to the director of the Institute of Texan Cultures at San Antonio. He returned to Lubbock in 1979 as Institute director.

He was selected to participate in the "Leadership Lubbock" program and was appointed to the Civic Center Board and to the advisory committee of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce Water Institute.

Anderson also is working with the South Plains Ag Appreciation and Awareness Week set for March.

The initial meeting of the THP business association advisory council is set Thursday in Austin.

Owner Will Sell Title To Southfork Ranches

AMARILLO (AP) — An Amarillo businessman who has tied his fortunes to the success of the television program "Dallas" is proving he's no J.R. Ewing.

Van Harlow wants to sell Southfork Ranches Inc. Not the actual ranch where Jock, Miss Ellie, J.R., Sue Ellen and the rest of the TV Ewings hate each other weekly — just the name.

Harlow applied to the Texas Secretary of State to form a company known as Southfork Ranches Inc. about three months ago. He won approval and has placed an advertisement in the Wall Street Journal for two Fridays in a row.

The ad says:

"Southfork Ranches Inc., a Texas corporation. Accepting offers for the corporate shell named Southfork Ranches Inc."

Offers to date — zero, says Harlow.

"I just thought someone might want the use of the name," he said, admitting that he may have waited too long to make his move. "I should have advertised it when the 'Who Shot J.R.' craze was in progress," he said.

Harlow's income is derived from oil and gas, ranching and real estate, and the Southfork ploy was merely a lark, he said.

"I'm surprised that Southfork has never been incorporated," he said. "We put our ranch under a corporate name. A lot of people do, and I'm surprised more ranches don't incorporate for tax reasons."

An official in the Secretary of State's office in Austin confirmed that Harlow's claim to the name is valid.

Harlow said it cost him $10 to file for the name, but he expects to sell it for about $2,000. He also warns there will be an attorney's fee of about $200 to transfer the name to the new owner.

"We'll run the ad one more time and, if we have no offers, we'll keep the name and use it some way," said Harlow, adding that he also checked into the possibility of acquiring the name Ewing Oil Co.

Christmas Trees Used To Help Rebuild Dunes

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND (AP) — A group of 300 Christmas trees have come a long way from evergreen plantations and family living rooms to help rebuild the sand dunes devastated by Hurricane Allen.

If all goes as planned, the 300-foot-long row of scotch pines and douglas firs will catch the sand and restore the landscape left flattened by the storm in August.

"The dunes are the first line of defense," said Jack Rickner, Cameron County extension marine agent who proposed the project at Andy Bowie County Park.

Hurricane Allen's 12-foot tides in August leveled many sand dunes and sent the ocean rushing across the narrow island into the bay.

"There was quite a bit of beach loss in several places where washouts occured," said Rickner. "We needed some way to build back some of these dunes."

He rejected picket fences and other ideas as too costly. County agents along the upper Texas coast had experimented successfully with Christmas trees.

"Two-hundred were donated by a Christmas tree lot that had many leftover," Rickner said.

Raiders Head For Hogs

By CHUCK McDONALD
Assistant Sports Editor

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — The Arkansas basketball media guide — a guady, expensive looking brochure — features a four-page, full-color photo section that chronicles in lifelike tones the glories of the Hogs' past.

No one likes to be featured in the oppositions' highlight film, but that's just what the Red Raiders did on this trip to the hills a year ago. Arkansas humiliated Tech by an 84-60 count here in a game that was never, never close.

Tonight, the Raiders will seek to: (a.) avoid a repeat performance of that debacle; (b.) snap a four-game losing streak; and (c.) win their first Southwest Conference road contest of the season when Tech and Arkansas battle in a 7:10 p.m. tipoff at the Barnhill Arena.

The Raiders, fresh off losing their first home game of the season (a 58-48 loss to SMU Monday), will bring a 3-4 league slate and 9-8 overall mark into the contest. The Razorbacks, who not long ago lost three straight league contests, are surging again after back-to-back wins and are 4-3 in SWC action. Overall the Hogs are 13-6.

The Razorbacks, like the rest of the soap-opera SWC, have lived a strange existence. After winning its first two league games by a combined total of 76 points, Arkansas suddenly dropped three straight league games to Texas, Baylor and Houston.

Strange? Considering that the Hogs had never lost three consecutive league contests since Eddie Sutton arrived seven years ago, it was a mind-boggling occurence. Remember this is a team that Sutton has coached to four consecutive NCAA playoff appearances, three SWC titles and two second-place finishes.

But whatever was bothering the Hogs seems to have disappeared. Arkansas has rebounded with a Saturday win over Texas A&M and a Monday night victory over the Rice Owls.

"We had some problems with our guard play," conceded Sutton, "but I think we're playing smarter now."

In fact, some Hog insiders admit that what Tech is currently going through is the same situation that Arkansas struggled with 10 days ago. One loss can lead to a lack of confidence which leaves a team ripe for another defeat, which further erodes confidence, etc.

Arkansas, a team loaded with talent, still relies primarily on the steady play of 6-10 junior center Scott Hastings. The big man from Kansas leads Arkansas with a 15.6 points per game average and ranks among the conference leaders. In Monday night's 57-52 win over Rice, Hastings poured in 21 points and dominated the backboards.

But when people talk about Arkansas basketball, usally the first name that crops up is that of 6-2 senior guard U.S. Reed. Although Reed has suffered through some unexpectedly hard times this year, he's a spectacular leaper and an exciting player to watch. Reed is the team's second leading scorer with a 14.2 ppg average.

Rounding out the starting five for Sutton are fowards Keith Petersen (6-6, jr., 8.4 ppg) and 6-6 Brown, who will be starting only his second game of the season. The other guard is 6-4 sophomore Darrell Walker, another exceptional leaper who's scoring 13.6 a game.

"Arkansas has the best guards in the conference," says Texas coach Abe Lemons. "They've got guys on the bench I'd love to be starting."

Among those are 6-4 senior Mike Young (a shooting specialist) and 6-2 freshman Ricky Norton.

The Arkansas game plan is simple, really — the Hogs press you from one end of the floor to the other on defense and run a patient, patterned offense on the other end.

Tech is expected to counter with its starting five of Clarence Swannegan and Ben Hill inside along with Jeff Taylor, Steve Smith and Bubba Jennings outside. Swannegan's status isn't certain since he sprained a knee in pre-game warmups prior to the SMU contest and wasn't at full speed Monday night.

RAIDER CAGE NOTES: Tech is the only SWC school to own a series lead over Arkansas (29-21) but the Raiders built that advantage by winning the first 16 meetings between the two schools ... Of late, Arkansas has owned the Raiders, winning the last nine in a row ... The last Tech victory came in 1976 when the Raiders defeated Arkansas 70-63 in the SWC post-season tournament ... Discounting a 19-point UA victory in the '79 tournament and last year's 24-point romp, there has been only a 19-point difference in the other 12 games between Sutton and Tech's Gerald Myers ... Taylor continues to lead the Raiders in scoring but in the last 10 days, every scoring average on the team has slid downwards ... the game will be broadcast in Lubbock over KFYO radio (790 AM) ...

Cowboys & Indians, Among Others

IT HAS TAKEN TWO MONTHS for the Lubbock Christian College basketball team to acquire a John Copeland personality. The first-year Chaparral head coach has shaped a squad — lacking in both size and quickness — into one whose impoverished 6-16 record blurs other positive indicators.

Two months elapsed between LCC's 78-74 loss to Eastern New Mexico University and last Saturday's handsome 73-69 victory over the McMurry College Indians.

The Chaps' performance in the ENMU game was not less than shabby: Copeland's offense appeared disjointed and his defense seemed confused. In retrospect, the LCC women's team of Dave Simpson easily might have been regarded as the better-coached of the two Chap squads.

Also in retrospect, it must be pointed out that Copeland faced a myriad of obstacles, almost all of which have been successfully scaled in the interim.

They were A) the replacement of Kevin Wharton and Keith Gardner, the finest inside tandem in LCC basketball history; B) the conversion from last year's fast-break offense of coach Larry Hays to a decidedly deliberate approach; C) the reliance on five Chaps (Jim Steensma, Brian Fortner, Gary Norris, Larry Holt and Keith Money) who played either secondary roles or no role at all in last year's 17-18 campaign.

Copeland since has maximized the contributions of Steensma and Fortner, who have given the team a viable inside game and are rarely outplayed around the basket despite being regularly outsized and outjumped. Also, guards Bruce Carver and Bill McGee have learned to tailor their shot selections to an offensive-rebounding situation that no longer benefits from Wharton and Gardner.

In addition, the LCC defense compensates for any deficiencies in quickness by positioning itself well and competing fiercely throughout a game.

AGAINST THE INDIANS, THE CHAPS played the finest game — from start to finish — that I've seen in the two seasons I have covered LCC basketball.

The team's main negative trait, one which has been overcome only in the McMurry win, is the tendency to go to pieces while attempting to hold a lead late in a game. Perhaps this is the players' fault; perhaps it is Copeland's. Perhaps it is a combined weakness. Future years will offer proof.

Copeland next needs to demonstrate an ability to recruit and, then, to cultivate that talent. The recruitment of quality athletes is no assurance of a coach's skill at handling that quality.

Many college coaches, in fact, find themselves intimidated by individual talent and function better with a lesser caliber of player who is more responsive to instruction. The Ivy League, for years, has recruited basketball players on this principle...

TOM LANDRY DOES INDEED MAKE the Dallas Cowboys' world go 'round. A glance at the 1980 statistics of "rookie" quarterback Danny White and the 1978-79 compilations of Roger Staubach builds an interesting case.

Quiz time: Choose which of these three sets of Cowboy quarterback stats belonged to White in '80, and which two are Staubach's.

1) 267 completions in 461 attempts; 57.9 percent; 3,586 yards; 27 touchdowns;
2) 260 completions in 436 attempts; 59.6 percent; 3,287 yards; 28 TDs;
3) 231 completions in 413 attempts; 55.9 percent; 3,190 yards; 25 TDs.

No one said it would be easy. . .Interceptions, a dead giveaway, have been omitted.

White's passing statistics, which appear No. 2 in the above listing, compare not only favorably but in some cases surpass Staubach's figures. Only in number of interceptions — Staubach tossed 16 in 1978 (No. 3 above) and 11 in '79, while White was the victim of 25 last season — is there a disparity. And that probably is a function of experience more than anything else.

It means one of two things, or both: 1) that Staubach, too often called the "greatest quarterback in NFL history," may have been nothing more than the most overrated robot in NFL history (who really believes in the "greatness" of a quarterback who never called a play in his life?), and 2) Landry, every bit as essential to the Cowboys' success as Vince Lombardi was to the Green Bay Packers', does not develop talent so much as he programs it...

HOW THE MIGHTY HAVE FALLEN: John Rauch, who coached the Oakland Raiders against the Packers in Super Bowl II, now coaches high school football in Florida...

Monterey Girls Close In On First-Half Crown

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Well, it hasn't been easy, but the Monterey girls have just about wrapped up the first half of the District 4-5A season.

The Plainsmen scored 12 of the game's last 14 points to eke out a 64-58 win over Plainview at home Tuesday night and, combined with a last-minute 54-49 win over Hereford earlier in the year, gives MHS a one-game lead with only one game left. And that contest is against 5-16 Lubbock High Westerners Friday night.

Both teams held four-point leads several times in the fourth period as the momentum whip-sawed back and forth with pendulum-like regularity.

But before the Monterey stands could quiet down, Plainview ran off eight straight, four coming from Gay Hemphill, to go up 54-50 with 4:22 to left.

Tracey Muehlbrad broke Plainview's string with a bucket at 4:12 but then the Bulldogs' Cindy Black hit both ends of a one-and-one to go back up by four.

And that's when the Plainsmen cut loose. Kriss Ethridge wrapped a pair of field goals around a bucket by Miss Muehlbrad, the last coming at 3:05 to put the Plainsmen back up by two.

Gay Hemphill knocked in a turnaround jumper from eight feet out to tie the game again at 58 with 1:35 left but that was the last gasp for the Bulldogs.

Andrea Moore gave MHS an advantage with a free throw at 1:28 and missed the second, but little Molly Hasie grabbed the rebound. She passed it to Miss Moore, who was again fouled with 1:19 left.

She missed both tries this time, but again it was Miss Hasie, a solid four inches shorter than Plainview's Miss Hemphill, who grabbed the loose ball.

Miss Muehlbrad kicked in a short bucket this time, putting Monterey up 61-58 and then, after Plainview missed on its trip downcourt, Kriss Ethridge made both ends of a one-and-one with :53 showing to all but ice the game.

The game was billed as a showdown between Plainview's Miss Hemphill and Monterey's superb guard duo of Kriss and Kamie Ethridge. Indeed, that's pretty much the way it turned out. Those three players accounted for 66 of the game's122 points.

Kriss Ethridge was high for the game with 24 and Miss Hemphill scored 22 (16 in the second half) and grabbed 16 rebounds.

"We're improving on Hemphill," said Monterey coach Tim Tasker. "We held her to 22; she usually gets 30 against us.

"Really, she did a real good job, but the last three minutes of that game was probably some of the best basketball I've seen as far as any Monterey basketball team.

"The big keys were Molly Hasie on the boards and Tracey Muehlbrad coming in and hitting three big baskets in the fourth quarter even though she was in foul trouble.

"And of course we've got the Ethridges. I know that without the Ethridges we wouldn't be the ballclub we are and we wouldn't be here right now."

Dumas Tops DHS Girls

Dunbar rebounded from nine-, eight- and five-point leads but could not overcome a 13-point deficit as Dumas silenced the Panthers 61-52 in a district girls' game Tuesday in the DHS gym.

The Panthers spent most of the evening fighting back to even against the Demons but six consecutive points by Stacey Frische midway through the final period put Dumas up by 13, guaranteeing the win.

Dumas is 1-0 in the second half of the 1-4A race and 18-7 while the Panthers slipped to 0-1 and 12-10.

Dunbar trailed 14-5 with three minutes to play in the opening period but scored the final seven points of the quarter and trailed 14-12 entering the second period.

They fell behind twice before halftime, at 23-16 and 29-21, but once again went on a tear, scoring eight consecutive points to knot the score at 29 before Dumas managed a 30-29 halftime lead.

The Panthers matched Dumas bucket for bucket and were trailing 52-45 with 4:13 to play in the game when Miss Frische hit two free throws and scored twice on fast-break layins to bloat the lead to 58-45.

"I thought we played a good game tonight," Dunbar coach Jim Washburn said. "It takes a lot to come back from a 12-point lead and we just couldn't manage it."

Cynthia Hardaway kept the Panthers close for much of the game, scoring 15 points in the first half and finishing the evening with 22, including 14 of 15 free throws. She also had 16 rebounds but fouled out with one minute to play.

Plainsmen Struggle Past Bulldogs 56-53

After blowing leads of seven, six and five points at various points in the second half, Monterey edged Plainview 56-53 for "just another" District 4-5A win.

The Plainsmen, who were pressed to double-overtime by Coronado in their conference opener Friday night, needed every break it could get in edging the talented Bulldogs.

"Every win in district is sweet, but what worries me is that we're winning a lot of close ones," said MHS boss Joe Michalka. "You know, we're 20-6 on the year right now, but I don't know if we like 'em close or what.

"We really played well in spots but in spots we were real spotty," he explained. "I don't know if every team we play gets up for us so high or what.

"At times we really played well. I was really pleased there at times, but then we made so many turnovers. And they were turnovers in bad spots, in crucial moments."

The last of Monterey's trick vanishing leads came with 4:50 left when a Gary Hodges bucket put the Plainsmen up 46-41. But then they let Plainview score six straight to regain the lead.

Super sophomore Gil Wright popped in one at 4:43, Lee Carter made a steal and a layup at 4:15 and then Jerry Walker made both ends of a one-and-one at 3:56 and — voila — the Bulldogs were up 47-46.

But that's when 6-7 post Ian Hyslop came back alive for Monterey. Hyslop, who scored 18 points and pulled down 12 rebounds while dominating the first half of play, scored his third and fourth points of the second half with 3:40 showing and then made a bucket at the 3:09 mark to put the Plainsmen up 50-47.

Walker and Plainsman Billy Breedlove swapped points to make it 52-49 at the 2:14 mark and then it was almost a minute and a half before either club could manage another point.

But the Bulldogs tied up Breedlove for a five-second count and won the jump at 1:16 remaining and Alton Jackson connected at the :58 mark to pull Plainview within 52-51.

It appeared the 'Dogs got another big break when Wright tipped the ball off a Monterey player with :48 left for a turnover, but then he was called for walking when he tried to turn to the bucket with :39 remaining.

Still, the Plainsmen couldn't ice the game. Breedlove was again tied up in the forecourt, but this time MHS won the tip and, with :19 left, Hodges was fouled driving the baseline. He made both ends of a one-and-one to all but put the game out of reach at 54-51.

Hyslop was the game's high scorer despite getting only six points in the second half. He wound up with 24 points and 15 rebounds. Joining him in double figures for Monterey were Breedlove with 12 and Hodges with 11.

Plainview was led by Jackson, who finished with 17, and Wright, who wound up with 12.

Coronado Boys Roll Past Herd

HEREFORD (Special) — Four Coronado Mustangs scored in double figures Tuesday night as the Lubbock school rolled over the host Hereford Whitefaces by a 61-42 count.

The win upped Coronado's District 4-5A mark to 1-1 while lifting the Ponies to 12-13 on the year.

Hereford is now 3-20 and 0-1 in league play.

The game was even for exactly when one quarter as the two schools finished the first eight minutes of play with Coronado holding a slim 10-8 lead. But the Mustangs exploded early in the second period and outscored the Herd by a 20-5 count, leaving it 30-13 at the intermission.

Any Hereford hopes for victory went up in smoke during the third stanza when the Ponies outscored their hosts 17-14 to increase that bulge.

Cody Love paced the Mustangs with 14 points, Robby Garner added 11 and John Lord and Mark Sobsle each had 10. Alan Wartes was the only Whiteface in double figures with 14 points.

Panthers Break Pattern, Survive Demon Attack

By RAY GLASS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Like a repeat of so many other frustrating evenings in the last two months, Dunbar was right on track after three quarters against Dumas Tuesday.

The Panthers had squandered a 15-point lead and was teetering on the edge of the tube, clinging to a 48-47 lead. To make matters worse, three of the Panthers on the floor had four personal fouls and another had three.

Dunbar was ripe for another collapse and notch in the loss column.

But don't tell that to Tyrone Young or Ralph Bryant. The two Dunbar 6-foot-3 underclassmen played the entire fourth period with four fouls apiece and combined for 14 points as the Panthers pulled out of a seven-game losing skid with a 68-63 victory over the Demons.

Young and Bryant each had a field goal in the final period but, more importantly, hit 10 of 10 free throws to keep pace with Dumas and preserve the lead late in the contest.

Young, a sophomore, finished with a team-high 16 points and 10 rebounds while Bryant had seven points, all in the final eight minutes, and four rebounds.

Dunbar moved out of the district 1-4A cellar with the win and is now 1-3 in conference play and 6-17 overall. The Demons filled the slot that DHS vacated, falling to 0-3 and 12-9.

"It's really hard to say how this win will affect the team," Dunbar coach Joe McWilliams said. "We haven't had one (a victory) in a long time. I'm hoping it will build some confidence for us."

The Panthers looked full of confidence in the first 4:30 of the game as they almost blew the visitors back past Amarillo. Guard Roland Comacho stole two passes and hit the Panthers' first five points as Dunbar roared to a 15-2 lead with four minutes to play.

They led 17-4 with 3:45 to play before Dumas closed to within nine points, 23-14, at the end of the first period.

The Panthers kept the pressure on in the second period, gradually moving to a 39-24 lead with 2:14 before halftime. But Dumas scored nine consecutive points and Dunbar led 40-33 at halftime.

Once again, however, the third-quarter hex hit DHS and the Demons twice tied the score in the third period, at 45-45 and 47-47, before the Panthers managed a one-point edge entering the final quarter.

"It wasn't the fact that we weren't playing good basketball," McWilliams said of the third-period slip.

Turon Patterson, who had 10 points in the Panthers' first-period explosion, finished with 15 points before fouling out with 7:05 to play. Comacho added 11 and Barry Pillow managed 10, all in the first half.

Dumas' 6-foot-5 post player Mark Payne led all scorers with 21 points but fouled out with 1:39 on the clock. Rogers had 18 for the Demons.

EHS Lead Disappears

BROWNFIELD — The Estacado Matadors watched a 10-point halftime lead disappear into thin air here Tuesday night as the Brownfield Cubs clawed their way to a 72-67 District 1-4A victory.

Estacado led 22-12 after one quarter and owned a seemingly safe 40-30 halftime margin but the Cubs came roaring back to dominate the final 16 minutes of play. The Matadors fall to 12-12 on the season and 2-2 in league play with the loss while Brownfield is 16-6 and 2-1.

Dirk Bush ripped the nets for 22 points, hitting eight of 10 free throws, Ralph Rodriguez tossed in 19 and Brent "Hack" Wilkes added 16 to fuel the Cub comeback.

James Barnett paced the Matadors with 20 points, all from the field, and Rodney Guyton added 13 for Estacado.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — It rained on the Oakland Raiders' parade, but nothing could dampen the spirits of the team that beat the odds — and the Philadelphia Eagles — to claim the world champion's throne.

"They can't take anything away from us now because we're No. 1 in the world," Rod Martin, the linebacker who intercepted three passes in Sunday's 27-10 National Football League title victory, told the thousands of fans who jammed Oakland streets Tuesday to cheer their heros.

"It's great of you all to participate in celebrating the great victory we had Sunday. It's fabulous," said quarterback Jim Plunkett, the Super Bowl's Most Valuable Player. Plunkett showed up for the parade along with most of his teammates, although the club did not make participation mandatory.

Several players did not return to Oakland from New Orleans on Monday, heading instead for their homes around the country and for Hawaii, where the Pro Bowl game will be played Sunday.

Several of the team's cheerleaders, the Raiderettes, said they would not attend the festivities because of an incident Monday at the New Orleans airport. However, it couldn't be determined whether any actually boycotted the parade.

The Oakland Tribune reported in Tuesday's editions that most of the cheerleaders, except the "few with Raider boyfriends," were forced off the team's plane as it was preparing to depart for Oakland.

"They all laughed at us," said one Raiderette, who was not identified. "They treated us like we weren't part of the organization. They could have asked us off professionally. I'm not going back. Neither are some of the others. I'm through being a Raiderette."

After being driven in a motorcade along city streets Tuesday, players and coaches spoke at a rally at City Hall. Mayor Lionel Wilson praised the Raiders for bringing their second Super Bowl title back to Oakland, but he also reminded the crowd that the city will continue the fight to keep the team.

Al Davis, the NFL's most controversial team owner, "is still in New Orleans and won't be back for two or three days," Al LoCasale, the team's executive assistant, said.

Davis served notice to the NFL last March that he intended to move the Raiders to the vacant Los Angeles Coliseum for the 1980 season. He has been blocked so far by court decisions and also by other NFL owners, who voted against the proposed franchise move.

The Raiders' fight in Oakland is mostly with management of the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum. Davis charged that the Coliseum Commission refused to cooperate over the years when the Raiders asked for improvements they believed were necessary.

Meanwhile, Raiders Kenny King, Lester Hayes and Cliff Branch confirmed that they were told they would be killed if they played in the game Sunday at New Orleans.

. . . While Even Second Place Provides No Warmth In Philly

"At halftime there was just an eerie feeling, an eerie, quiet feeling," said Vermeil, who led the Eagles to their first Super Bowl appearance Sunday and watched them lose 27-10.

"There was that faraway look in a lot of people's eyes. I think that all of a sudden, there was a feeling of shock," he said.

"The other thing," Vermeil said, "was that the Oakland Raiders never allowed us to get excited. You start the ball game a little bit tight. You move the ball, but then they get moving. They get a broken play for an 80-yard touchdown.

"And when you get behind and are losing, sometimes you get too concerned about catching up. And, hey, there's no guarantee we're going to get back there. I'd like to believe we can. I'd like to believe the players feel they can.

"But right now, I just can't pinpoint anything for why we played like we did," he said.

"No, I don't think being there for the first time was any factor," he said. "We just, for one reason, or another, didn't handle the total situation as well as we should have. That is from my standpoint on down.

"When a team plays like we did, with the disappointments we had, we must have done some things wrong," he said.

"I really feel let down, disappointed in myself. I feel we let down the community a little bit. They were so excited about us going down there.

"As I said when we took off, there are a million of those Philadelphia fans going down there with us, and they're all Eagles.

"And Mr. (Leonard) Tose (Eagles owner), at this stage of his life. There's got to be a question of whether we can make it back to the Super Bowl for him. I feel we let him down. I want him to be around the next time we get there, but who can be sure?"

"I'd say they should be remembered as a character team. An intense team, a team that was tough and together. We just didn't quite get the job done when we had an opportunity to win a world championship."

Wynegar To Sign With Twins

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Butch Wynegar reportedly will sign a five-year contract today with the Minnesota Twins, placing him among the highest paid catchers in baseball.

The Twins called a news conference for this afternoon and, according to the Minneapolis Tribune, Wynegar could become the highest paid Twin ever. That would mean a salary around $500,000 per season.

The 24-year old Wynegar, who became the Twins regular catcher in 1976 at the tender age of 20, has a lifetime batting average of just .256, but is considered one of the best defensive catchers in the American League with a rifle arm.

The York, Pa. native was the A.L. Rookie of the Year in 1976 and has played in the All-Star game in both 1976 and 1977. His 1976 appearance put him in the history books as the youngest player ever to participate in the mid-season event.

Wynegar and Minnesota shortstop Roy Smalley both filed for arbitration on Monday, but the Twins have been eager to sign the two young stars rather than let them slip away as free agents, which has been the team's history over the years.

Smalley, 28, told the Tribune yesterday that he has been talking with the Twins and that negotiations have become "intense."

In Orlando, Fla., The Twins' winter training site, owner Calvin Griffith said: "I think we are very close with both of them. We're talking with lawyers now. We're getting it squared away. I'll wait until tomorrow for the surprise."

Wynegar, who will turn 25 in March, refused to comment on the deal. He has said a number of times that he wants to remain with the Twins and that he enjoys playing in Minnesota, where he met his wife, Gretchen.

Wynegar's attorney, Ron Shapiro, said the contract negotiations between his client and the Twins could mark the beginning of "an era of good feeling" with Calvin Griffith.

Admittedly, Griffith has not had that feeling with many of his employees in recent years. Bill Campbell, Larry Hisle, Geoff Zahn, Dave Goltz, Mike Cubbage and the late Lyman Bostock are among the many players who have left the team to sign contracts with other teams after playing out their options.

And Rod Carew, probably the Twins' greatest player ever, was traded two years ago to California after angrily saying he would never sign another contract with Griffith.

Tuesday Griffith would not admit that he is changing his philosophy on signing free agents, something he is stubbornly against. But he did shed some light on the reported deal.

"I wouldn't say it's a change," he said. "I just think these two (Wynegar and Smalley) are more valuable to us than other players in the past."

Wynegar reportedly was paid about $100,000 last year; Smalley about $230,000. Both will be in the option years of their contracts in 1981 and could become free agents next November.

Ram QB To Try CFL?

TORONTO (AP) — Harold Ballard and Vince Ferragamo bumped into each other by accident during a recent Toronto Maple Leafs road trip to Los Angeles, and owner Ballard came away suitably impressed.

Ballard admits his latest project is to lure the Los Angeles Rams quarterback north to play for his Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Canadian Football League.

"I wasn't going to say anything about this, but I talked to Ferragamo in LA and I was definitely impressed," said Ballard, who frequently travels with the National Hockey League's Leafs. "But I don't want anyone to mistakenly think I was tampering with him.

"I just said 'hello' and 'goodbye,' I just wanted to meet the man. Just say I accidentally bumped into him on Hollywood Boulevard.

"I read in a story a while ago that he wanted to meet me. But I didn't discuss dollars and cents or a contract or anything like that."

It's no secret that Ferragamo is unhappy with circumstances in Los Angeles. He said by telephone from LA Tuesday that joining Hamilton "is a strong possibility, a lot stronger than it was even a week ago, and I'm not just saying that as a threat."

"It's just that I have doubts about the Rams."

Ferragamo doesn't become a free agent officially until Sunday and an agreement between the two leagues states specifically that there can be no contract negotiations until such time as a player gains free-agency status.

Asked about his talk with Ballard, Ferragamo replied:

"I don't remember. I might have talked to him, but I don't think it was about football. If Harold said he saw me, I guess he knows what he's talking about. Maybe we talked, maybe we didn't. I'm really not sure."

Ballard wasn't happy with the Ticats' operation last year despite getting to the Grey Cup championship. He wasn't too high on quarterback Dave Marler of Mississippi State, nor was he impressed by Coach John Payne. Ballard didn't renew Payne's contract and signed Frank Kush, former head coach at Arizona State.

"I want the Grey Cup so badly I can taste it," Ballard said. "And the only position where I think we have a deficiency is at quarterback.

"If we can get Ferragamo, I'm sure we can win the whole thing. Actually, if I could get both (Tom) Clements and Ferragamo, I'd pay both of them top dollars to play for me — within reason of course."

Chances of getting Ferragamo seem more likely than obtaining Clements's release from the NFL's Kansas City Chiefs. Clements, the former Ticats quarterback who signed a multi-year deal with the Chiefs last season, still has four years to go on that contract.

Chiefs General Manager Jim Schaaf denied Tuesday by phone rumors that Clements was about to be released despite the fact the former CFL star is getting top dollar while sitting on the bench most of the season.

Schaaf admitted he was aware of the situation and confirmed Clements had requested his release, but said there was no move on the Chiefs' part to acquiese. He did not rule out the possibility of a trade to another NFL team.

Ferragamo, on the other hand, is a much more desirable commodity once he goes into free-agency status because of the league's compensation rules.

Ballard said Ticats General Manager Ralph Sazio had been sent to Los Angeles to bid for Ferragamo's services. No one at the Hamilton office was aware of Sazio's whereabouts.

Ram QB To Try CFL?

Ballard admits his latest project is to lure the Los Angeles Rams quarterback north to play for his Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Canadian Football League.

"I wasn't going to say anything about this, but I talked to Ferragamo in LA and I was definitely impressed," said Ballard, who frequently travels with the National Hockey League's Leafs. "But I don't want anyone to mistakenly think I was tampering with him.

"I just said 'hello' and 'goodbye,' I just wanted to meet the man. Just say I accidentally bumped into him on Hollywood Boulevard.

"I read in a story a while ago that he wanted to meet me. But I didn't discuss dollars and cents or a contract or anything like that."

It's no secret that Ferragamo is unhappy with circumstances in Los Angeles. He said by telephone from LA Tuesday that joining Hamilton "is a strong possibility, a lot stronger than it was even a week ago, and I'm not just saying that as a threat."

"It's just that I have doubts about the Rams."

Ferragamo doesn't become a free agent officially until Sunday and an agreement between the two leagues states specifically that there can be no contract negotiations until such time as a player gains free-agency status.

Asked about his talk with Ballard, Ferragamo replied:

"I don't remember. I might have talked to him, but I don't think it was about football. If Harold said he saw me, I guess he knows what he's talking about. Maybe we talked, maybe we didn't. I'm really not sure."

Ballard wasn't happy with the Ticats' operation last year despite getting to the Grey Cup championship. He wasn't too high on quarterback Dave Marler of Mississippi State, nor was he impressed by Coach John Payne. Ballard didn't renew Payne's contract and signed Frank Kush, former head coach at Arizona State.

"I want the Grey Cup so badly I can taste it," Ballard said. "And the only position where I think we have a deficiency is at quarterback.

"If we can get Ferragamo, I'm sure we can win the whole thing. Actually, if I could get both (Tom) Clements and Ferragamo, I'd pay both of them top dollars to play for me — within reason of course."

Chances of getting Ferragamo seem more likely than obtaining Clements's release from the NFL's Kansas City Chiefs. Clements, the former Ticats quarterback who signed a multi-year deal with the Chiefs last season, still has four years to go on that contract.

Chiefs General Manager Jim Schaaf denied Tuesday by phone rumors that Clements was about to be released despite the fact the former CFL star is getting top dollar while sitting on the bench most of the season.

Schaaf admitted he was aware of the situation and confirmed Clements had requested his release, but said there was no move on the Chiefs' part to acquiese. He did not rule out the possibility of a trade to another NFL team.

Ferragamo, on the other hand, is a much more desirable commodity once he goes into free-agency status because of the league's compensation rules.

Ballard said Ticats General Manager Ralph Sazio had been sent to Los Angeles to bid for Ferragamo's services. No one at the Hamilton office was aware of Sazio's whereabouts.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — It rained on the Oakland Raiders' parade, but nothing could dampen the spirits of the team that beat the odds — and the Philadelphia Eagles — to claim the world champion's throne.

"They can't take anything away from us now because we're No. 1 in the world," Rod Martin, the linebacker who intercepted three passes in Sunday's 27-10 National Football League title victory, told the thousands of fans who jammed Oakland streets Tuesday to cheer their heros.

"It's great of you all to participate in celebrating the great victory we had Sunday. It's fabulous," said quarterback Jim Plunkett, the Super Bowl's Most Valuable Player. Plunkett showed up for the parade along with most of his teammates, although the club did not make participation mandatory.

Several players did not return to Oakland from New Orleans on Monday, heading instead for their homes around the country and for Hawaii, where the Pro Bowl game will be played Sunday.

Several of the team's cheerleaders, the Raiderettes, said they would not attend the festivities because of an incident Monday at the New Orleans airport. However, it couldn't be determined whether any actually boycotted the parade.

The Oakland Tribune reported in Tuesday's editions that most of the cheerleaders, except the "few with Raider boyfriends," were forced off the team's plane as it was preparing to depart for Oakland.

"They all laughed at us," said one Raiderette, who was not identified. "They treated us like we weren't part of the organization. They could have asked us off professionally. I'm not going back. Neither are some of the others. I'm through being a Raiderette."

After being driven in a motorcade along city streets Tuesday, players and coaches spoke at a rally at City Hall. Mayor Lionel Wilson praised the Raiders for bringing their second Super Bowl title back to Oakland, but he also reminded the crowd that the city will continue the fight to keep the team.

Al Davis, the NFL's most controversial team owner, "is still in New Orleans and won't be back for two or three days," Al LoCasale, the team's executive assistant, said.

Davis served notice to the NFL last March that he intended to move the Raiders to the vacant Los Angeles Coliseum for the 1980 season. He has been blocked so far by court decisions and also by other NFL owners, who voted against the proposed franchise move.

The Raiders' fight in Oakland is mostly with management of the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum. Davis charged that the Coliseum Commission refused to cooperate over the years when the Raiders asked for improvements they believed were necessary.

Meanwhile, Raiders Kenny King, Lester Hayes and Cliff Branch confirmed that they were told they would be killed if they played in the game Sunday at New Orleans.

Branch, a wide reciever, and King, a running back, scored all three Oakland touchdowns and left the field with Hayes with only two minutes remaining in the game as a security precaution.

. . . While Even Second Place Provides No Warmth In Philly

"At halftime there was just an eerie feeling, an eerie, quiet feeling," said Vermeil, who led the Eagles to their first Super Bowl appearance Sunday and watched them lose 27-10.

"There was that faraway look in a lot of people's eyes. I think that all of a sudden, there was a feeling of shock," he said.

"The other thing," Vermeil said, "was that the Oakland Raiders never allowed us to get excited. You start the ball game a little bit tight. You move the ball, but then they get moving. They get a broken play for an 80-yard touchdown.

"And when you get behind and are losing, sometimes you get too concerned about catching up. And, hey, there's no guarantee we're going to get back there. I'd like to believe we can. I'd like to believe the players feel they can.

"But right now, I just can't pinpoint anything for why we played like we did," he said.

Vermeil discredits the first-time jinx and jitters theory as why the Eagles folded on the field.

"No, I don't think being there for the first time was any factor," he said. "We just, for one reason, or another, didn't handle the total situation as well as we should have. That is from my standpoint on down.

"When a team plays like we did, with the disappointments we had, we must have done some things wrong," he said.

"I really feel let down, disappointed in myself. I feel we let down the community a little bit. They were so excited about us going down there.

"As I said when we took off, there are a million of those Philadelphia fans going down there with us, and they're all Eagles.

"And Mr. (Leonard) Tose (Eagles owner), at this stage of his life. There's got to be a question of whether we can make it back to the Super Bowl for him. I feel we let him down. I want him to be around the next time we get there, but who can be sure?"

Vermeil said he'd like the Super Bowl Eagles to be remembered "for the things that got us there."

"I'd say they should be remembered as a character team. An intense team, a team that was tough and together. We just didn't quite get the job done when we had an opportunity to win a world championship."

Wynegar To Sign With Twins

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Butch Wynegar reportedly will sign a five-year contract today with the Minnesota Twins, placing him among the highest paid catchers in baseball.

The Twins called a news conference for this afternoon and, according to the Minneapolis Tribune, Wynegar could become the highest paid Twin ever. That would mean a salary around $500,000 per season.

The 24-year old Wynegar, who became the Twins regular catcher in 1976 at the tender age of 20, has a lifetime batting average of just .256, but is considered one of the best defensive catchers in the American League with a rifle arm.

The York, Pa. native was the A.L. Rookie of the Year in 1976 and has played in the All-Star game in both 1976 and 1977. His 1976 appearance put him in the history books as the youngest player ever to participate in the mid-season event.

Wynegar and Minnesota shortstop Roy Smalley both filed for arbitration on Monday, but the Twins have been eager to sign the two young stars rather than let them slip away as free agents, which has been the team's history over the years.

Smalley, 28, told the Tribune yesterday that he has been talking with the Twins and that negotiations have become "intense."

Clark Griffith, Twins' vice president, said Tuesday about Wynegar: "I'm optimistic. I'm optimistic something will happen within 24 hours."

In Orlando, Fla., The Twins' winter training site, owner Calvin Griffith said: "I think we are very close with both of them. We're talking with lawyers now. We're getting it squared away. I'll wait until tomorrow for the surprise."

Wynegar, who will turn 25 in March, refused to comment on the deal. He has said a number of times that he wants to remain with the Twins and that he enjoys playing in Minnesota, where he met his wife, Gretchen.

Wynegar's attorney, Ron Shapiro, said the contract negotiations between his client and the Twins could mark the beginning of "an era of good feeling" with Calvin Griffith.

Admittedly, Griffith has not had that feeling with many of his employees in recent years. Bill Campbell, Larry Hisle, Geoff Zahn, Dave Goltz, Mike Cubbage and the late Lyman Bostock are among the many players who have left the team to sign contracts with other teams after playing out their options.

And Rod Carew, probably the Twins' greatest player ever, was traded two years ago to California after angrily saying he would never sign another contract with Griffith.

Tuesday Griffith would not admit that he is changing his philosophy on signing free agents, something he is stubbornly against. But he did shed some light on the reported deal.

"I wouldn't say it's a change," he said. "I just think these two (Wynegar and Smalley) are more valuable to us than other players in the past."

Wynegar reportedly was paid about $100,000 last year; Smalley about $230,000. Both will be in the option years of their contracts in 1981 and could become free agents next November.

Astros Ship Continues Course On Stormy Seas

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

Former Houston Astros President and General Manager Tal Smith went job-hunting today, Al Rosen woke up from a good night's sleep and millionaire shipbuilder John J. McMullen was still sailing smoothly as captain and primary authority of the Astros.

That series of events became clear Tuesday night when Smith, fired Oct. 27 in an unpopular move by McMullen, said he had been told he would not be rehired as had been widely rumored.

"I was advised last Friday that certain developments that transpired at last Thursday's meeting precluded my returning to the club," Smith said. "There was an agreement made by one of the directors to the effect that he would support McMullen on my dismissal."

McMullen denied however that any decision had been made concerning Smith.

"The issue at hand, I guess, is will the new board of directors hire Tal Smith back or not," McMullen said. "The board hasn't been legally formed yet. Am I being too technical for you?"

When McMullen fired Smith and replaced him with Rosen, 25 Houston based limited partners in the Astros ownership voted to dissolve the partnership and reorganize under a corporate structure.

McMullen agreed in an out of court settlement Nov. 24 to go along with the reogranization with the authority to be divided among three men, McMullen, Jack T. Trotter and Herb Neyland.

It was thought that Trotter, one of the limited partners angered by Smith's firing, and Neyland, who hired Smith and an outspoken fan of the former general manager, would overrule McMullen and bring Smith back when final corporation papers were signed.

Under Smith's guidance, the Astros rose from a last place team to the National League Western Division championship last season.

Alborn Offered Pact

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University football coach Ray Alborn, one of only four coaches in the history of the school to be offered a contract, has not signed a three-year pact extended to him by Athletic Director Augie Erfurth early this month.

Alborn, whose Owls finished with a surprising 5-6 record after being picked to finish last in the Southwest Conference last season, received a verbal three-year contract on Jan. 6 and was presented with a copy of the deal on Jan. 16.

Erfurth said Tuesday that the two men haven't been able to discuss the contract, however, because of Alborn's recruiting trips.

"We have given Ray a copy of the contract and he's looked at it," Erfurth said. "We don't see any problems in him signing it, it's just a matter of us getting together when he's in town."

Erfurth said he hoped to talk with Alborn Friday.

"I usually see Ray only on Saturday's when he brings recruits in to visit the campus," Erfurth said.

Alborn said last week he was having an attorney examine the contract but was not ready to comment.

Only three other coaches in the school's history have been offered contracts.

Bill Peterson signed a three-year contract in 1971 but left after one year to become head coach of the Houston Oilers. Al Conover, Peterson's successor, signed a five-year contract but he resigned under fire and the final two years were paid off.

The 1980 Owl football team, playing one of the toughest schedules in the nation, capped their season with a stunning 35-7 victory over defending Southwest Conference champion Houston. zRice University President Dr. Norman Hackerman said following the season that Alborn had never asked for a contract and that his salary was probably at the lowest SWC range.

LCHS Boys Dump Chiefs

FRIONA (Special) — The Lubbock Christian High boys' basketball team used a balanced scoring attack that featured three players in double figures to take a 61-57 victory from the Friona Chieftains here Tuesday night.

The Eagles, 15-9, had a 52-35 lead going into the final quarter and had to hold off a charge which saw Friona, 5-13, outscore them 22-9.

Mark Neill of Friona took leading scorer honors with 28 points and teammate Robert Caballero added 16. But that was no match for Barry Sikes' 14, Pat Phelan's 13 and Scott Phelan's 10 points.

LCHS outshot the Chieftains from the field, hitting 23 field goals to 20 for the hosts, but were outshot at the charity line 17-15. Free throw shooting has hurt the Eagles all year long, but on this night it didn't matter.

Jays Ink Mayberry

TORONTO (AP) — They're calling it a contract to beat all contracts when matched against what other Canadian professional teams have paid their athletes, but big John Mayberry wants its contents kept secret.

The Toronto Blue Jays announced Tuesday they had signed the slugging first baseman to a four-year, multi-million dollar deal, "which, on an annual basis, will make him the highest paid athlete ever to play for a team in Canada."

On a request from Mayberry, the American League baseball team refused to divulge the amount involved, although it's been the policy this year for the Blue Jays to reveal salary terms of all major league players' contracts.

Speculation is that the deal amounts to $3.2 million with bonuses included, or about $800,000 a year.

Blue Jays president Peter Bavasi, asked how Mayberry's contract ranked with other players on Canadian-based professional teams, said: "We checked it out. On an annual basis, no one is close."

Mayberry, 30, hit a club-record 30 home runs in 1980 and drove in 82 runs. He was eligible to become a free agent at the end of the 1981 season.

Mayberry was an AL All-Star with Kansas City Royals in 1973 and 1974. He had a career high 34 homers and 106 RBI with the Royals in 1975. Obtained by Toronto for cash in 1978, he hit 22 home runs in his first seasons and in 1979 belted 21 homers, had 74 RBI and batted .274.

Cards Eye End Of Woes

By The Associated Press

Now that the Louisville Cardinals have regained their shooting eye perhaps they can start to see daylight at the end of the tunnel.

College basketball's defending national champions finally put it all together Tuesday night, shooting 57 percent — their season average was only 46 percent — in trouncing Providence 71-55 at Louisville. The victory still left them under the .500 mark at 7-8.

"If we can just shoot and be relaxed we will be a good team," said 6-foot-6 forward Derek Smith, who led the Cardinals with 24 points, 12 rebounds and four assists.

Louisville isn't thinking Top 20 thoughts just yet but four ranked teams were in action and all won, although No. 14 Maryland had to come from seven points behind in the final three minutes before egding Pittsburgh 69-66 in overtime.

Meanwhile, eighth-ranked Notre Dame crushed Cornell 80-57, No. 16 South Alabama downed Jacksonville 55-48 and No. 20 Connecticut whipped Massachusetts 98-64.

In winning for the fifth time in its last six starts, Louisville connected on 28 of 49 shots from the floor.

"That is what you have to have," said Coach Denny Crum. "The problem is we haven't been consistent. We would play well but shoot badly and couldn't get the parts together."

The Cardinals took command of the game with a 13-4 burst early in the second half — they shot 61.5 percent after the intermission — to open a 49-33 bulge. Smith had help from Jerry Eaves, who accounted for 19 points on 9-of-13 accuracy.

"My touch is coming back just as the team as a whole is shooting better," Eaves said.

Notre Dame had no trouble with Cornell as John Paxson scored 15 points, Tracy Jackson added 14 by making seven consecutive shots and Kelly Tripucka had 13. The Irish trailed 10-6 before the Jackson-Paxson show sparked a 12-2 burst with four points apiece.

"We played without intensity early in the game," said Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps, who cleared his bench in the second half. "They hit some shots and we didn't do the right things defensively inside."

Cornell's Tom Miller thought the Irish could have named the score.

"I think Digger backed off on us a little bit and I appreciate that," he said. "We're not a very talented team. I think our kids will learn something in playing a team like this."

Albert King and Greg Manning rescued Maryland in regulation time and Buck Williams, held to seven points in the first 40 minutes, hit six in overtime to propel the Terrapins past Pitt.

Maryland trailed 62-55 with 2:56 left but King hit a bank shot and a three-point play and Manning's baseline drive tied the score with 1:27 to go. Williams put the Terrapins ahead to stay with a basket one minute into overtime and added a pair of free throws a minute later.

King was Maryland's high scorer with 23 points and Manning added 19 while Pitt got 17 apiece from Sam Clancy, Dwayne Wallace and Lenny McMillian.

"We came back and won. That's one thing we did good tonight," said Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell, who noted his team was fortunate that Pitt missed some crucial free throws in the closing minutes. "We fouled right and they missed them," he said. "We were just lucky. If they had made them, we'd have lost. It was our night; it wasn't theirs."

Ed Rains scored four of his 18 points on late free throws to help South Alabama turn back Jacksonville in a Sun Belt Conference game. After trailing by as many as 11 points, Jacksonville pulled within one early in the second half but four points by Tony Hafley gave South Alabama some breathing room.

Mike McKay and Chuck Aleksinas scored 18 points apiece to lead Connecticut over Massachusetts. The winners broke a 24-24 tie by scoring 15 consecutive points late in the first half, with McKay getting eight of them.

Elsewhere, Gene Banks' 18 points led Duke over Rutgers 53-51. Tulane shaded Cincinnati 65-60 in a Metro Conference game behind Joe Holston's 17 points, Western Carolina squandered a 14-point lead before overcoming Tennessee-Chattanooga 76-70 in Southern Conference action and Michael Jackson and Charles Bradley combined for 40 points as Wyoming stopped Nevada-Las Vegas Rebels 71-66.

Oilers Hire Coach

Callahan, 48, replaces Joe Bugel, who was named Monday as offensive coordinator of the Redskins under new head coach Joe Gibbs. Callahan spent three years as a Redskins assistant to Coach Jack Pardee, fired two weeks ago.

The Oiler coaching turnover started New Year's Eve when owner Bud Adams fired head coach and general manager Bum Phillips and named Biles as his successor.

Phillips was named head coach of the New Orleans Saints on Thursday and three of his former Oiler assistants, King Hill, John Paul Young and Wade Phillips, followed Phillips to New Orleans.

The status of two other Oiler assistants, Andy Bourgeois and Bob Gambold remained unclear.

Biles also must name offensive and defensive coordinators. Former Baltimore head coach Ted Marchibroda has been mentioned in connection with the offensive job.

Biles said he had talked at the Super Bowl with Dick Nolan, fired late last season as the Saints' head coach, concerning the defensive coordinator's job.

Callahan said he saw films of Houston's first four games of the 1980 season before making his decision to join the Oilers.

"Everyone knows Leon Gray is one of the premier linemen in the entire NFL but I was also impressed with those other guys," Callahan said.

"Ray is a highly dedicated man and I have received nothing but solid recommendations from people around the NFL that I spoke to regarding him," Biles said. "Another thing about Ray is the strong praise he received from some of his former players. That means a lot."

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Prices for soybean and grain futures except wheat closed higher Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Traders said forecasts for percipitation in some winter wheat growing areas had some negative impact. Prices recently rose on the reasoning that the lack of moisture in those regions could reduce production.

Artificial Heart Implant Plan Wins Approval

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Artificial hearts could save thousands of lives by the end of the decade, but for now they will be used only in life-and-death situations because recipients must remain confined to their homes, University of Utah surgeons say.

A university subcommittee gave approval Tuesday to a plan to begin implanting polyurethane artificial hearts in human patients. There have been only two other artificial-heart implants in history, and in both cases the patients quickly died.

The plan must have government approval. A candidate for the operation has not yet been selected, but the person would be a heart patient who would die "unless the heart is implanted," said Dr. Ernst J. Eichwald, subcommittee chairman.

Under current technology, recipients must remain connected to breadbox-sized compressed air machines that drive the heart. The two six-foot-long air tubes can't be unhooked.

However, within the decade, biomedical engineers at the university's Artificial Organs Divison hope to perfect a fully mobile battery pack that could be worn as a vest or a belt. The batteries would have to be replaced with recharged batteries once or twice a day.

Once a mobile power supply is available, the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute estimates that from 17,000 to 50,000 people per year could be implanted with artificial hearts. That could help get around the problems of heart transplants, which have been limited to 30 to 50 a year in the United States by the limited supply of organs and problems of rejection.

The university's Review Committee for Research with Human Subjects gave Dr. William C. DeVries approval to begin the surgery, which will follow seven months of study and 20 years of experiments in Utah in which progressively more sophisticated artificial hearts were implanted in calves, sheep and ponies.

Anniversary Of Tragic Ship Collision Observed

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — One year ago today the Coast Guard cutter Blackthorn, with a homesick crew of 50, cast anchor for Galveston after four months in drydock repair. But before the ship could clear Tampa's harbor, disaster claimed the lives of 23 of its seamen.

The tiny buoy tender collided head-on with a huge oil tanker at the mouth of Tampa Bay. Within minutes, the cutter rolled over and sank, taking nearly half the crew to the bottom of the cold, murky shipping channel.

A six-ton granite monument has been placed within sight of the channel where the tragic crash occurred last Jan. 28. The eight-foot tall marker is inscribed with the names of the Coast Guardsmen who went down with their ship.

Coast Guard Commandant John B. Hayes flew from Washington to dedicate the monument during a commemorative service today at Blackthorn Memorial Park.

That night, the 180-foot Blackthorn was headed out to sea. The 585-foot Capricorn, 30 times heavier, was coming into port with a load of oil for a power company.

Suddenly the ships, closing at 2,500 feet per minute, rammed head on. Sparks lit the sky and metal tore like tissue paper.

The tanker's six-ton anchor lodged in the hull of the cutter. The chain pulled taught and the vessels churned wildly through the water, locked together. The Blackthorn heeled and went under.

— His deck officer, Lt. j.g. James R. Ryan, an inexperienced sailor who was guiding the ship before impact, faces lesser disciplinary proceedings;

— The Blackthorn, raised from the bay, has been scrapped;

— The Capricorn, still seaworthy after the accident, has been patched up and is back in service;

— And lawsuits are pending totaling more than $42 million.

A Coast Guard Marine Board of Inquiry and a panel from the National Transportation Safety Board, two investigative bodies who sat in joint hearings for 41 days, have come to differing conclusions as to what caused the collision.

Testimony indicates the collision happened around mid-channel about three-quarters of a mile from the Sunshine Skyway Bridge

Officers of each vessel blamed the other during the three-months of hearings. Each said the other was off course, had strayed across an imaginary center line in the channel and into the path of the oncoming vessel.

Crewmen said the ships didn't see each other until just a few mintues before the collision, partly because a brightly lit Russian cruise liner that had moved down the channel ahead of the Blackthorn had momentarily blocked the line of sight between the ships.

There was confusion, too, from each side over whether proper whistle signals were sounded to indicate a passing pattern.

Sepel told investigators that moments before impact, he took command from Ryan and ordered a sharp right turn. But he said the tanker then turned into the Blackthorn.

The tanker pilot, Eugene Knight, said he had ordered a left turn, thinking he would miss the cutter with an unusual starboard-to-starboard pass instead of trying to keep it to his left, as normally required by marine traffic "rules of the road."

The Marine Board said both vessels had to share the blame for failing to stay to the right.

The board also cited mutual failure to sound navigational whistles at the proper times and mutual failure to establish radio contact.

Sepel's court-martial was recently announced by Adm. Paul A. Yost, who said there was no presumption of guilt.

"This is an opportunity for a fine officer to defend his actions," said Yost, commander of the 8th Coast Guard district which included Sepel's command.

White Wants Strict School Conduct Code

AUSTIN (UPI) — Discipline problems must be detected before students leave elementary school or it is probably too late, Attorney General Mark White said.

"We can't build prisons big enough and fast enough, so we need to have the effective crime prevention of bringing up young people to understand the law," White said.

"If we don't get early detection of the problem by fourth, fifth and sixth grade, it's too late. These lessons need to be taught in a loving way with compassion, but with firmness and sternness."

As he put the finishing touches on a statewide student code of conduct which he expects to approve in two weeks, White remembered his own schooldays. The state's chief law enforcement officer was never exactly kicked out of school, but he said he received some shape-up or ship-out warnings.

"I'm an expert on both sides," he said, referring to the classroom discipline problem he believes is growing in the state. "I'm not so old that I don't remember what it was like when I was growing up. Thank goodness, I had a strong principal in high school."

White is working on a discipline checklist which he said will bring traditional "support-system" values back into the state's public schools.

A generation ago, when students were reprimanded, parents supported the teacher's decision, he said. Teachers today often must take the blame for unacceptable student behavior, because the types of relationships between students, parents and school administrators have become more detached.

White said this is caused by a variety of societal factors, including more single parent families, a growing divorce rate, and the courts' attitude toward juvenile discipline.

Citing about six court cases which tell school officials "how hard you can spank a child, if witnesses are needed and how many," White said teachers have become immobilized.

"We're trying to show that court orders have not suggested that you can't discipline," he said. "We want to wipe out the indecision in so many people's mind. If the students in the classroom sense the teacher is immobilized they'll run the teacher around the room.

"You can't expect a teacher to keep up with daily matters and practice law when they're supposed to be teaching."

The finished code will be distributed to 1,100 school districts. It may be adopted on a voluntary basis in each school district and involves no legislation.

A rough draft of the code shows rules dealing with general disruption, including vandalism and assualts upon school personnel and other students, and with possession of alcohol and drugs on school premises and at school functions. In addition, the code outlines procedures for administering discipline.

Workers Suspended For Failure To Take Action In Abuse Case

QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — Social workers failed to heed warnings that 5-year-old Alan Madden was being abused before he died Jan. 10 from a beating, a state official says.

Gregory L. Coler, director of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, announced Tuesday that two administrators in his department were being suspended and a third demoted following a departmental investigation into the case.

Disciplinary action also is being considered against six lower-level employees in offices in Quincy and Galesburg, where the boy was born, Coler said.

Alan's mother, Pam Berg, 24, and a boyfriend, James Crain, 26, have been charged with murder in the child's death.

His family refused to claim his body, but townspeople donated a coffin, a tombstone and a cemetery plot and 300 showed up for the funeral of the shy, blond boy.

"The viciousness and brutality associated with the Alan Madden death is almost incomprehensible and I share the community's emotion," Coler said.

Coler said an agency investigation showed workers either ignored or failed to respond properly to reports in recent months from police, school officials and a clergyman that Alan was being abused.

Coler said the agency's last chance came the night before Alan died, when a social worker, alerted that the boy had missed a week of school, failed to investigate.

"If she had, she would have found him starved two days and with a broken rib," said Coler.

"There is not any fatal flaw in the design of the child protection system in Illinois," Coler said. "But a number of people in DCFS and outside the agency failed to use the system."

Coler said the most serious violation of department regulations uncovered by a week-long internal investigation was the frequent failure by the Quincy office to notify Springfield when it received complaints of battered children. He said a computer is kept in Springfield to record such reports of abuse and alert officials to repeat cases.

Suspended were Tim Morrell, child protective services supervisor of the Quincy office, and William Sheppard, field services supervisor for the region. Ralph Hanebutt, the regional administrator based in Springfield, was relieved permanently of his duties and reassigned.

Police Subdue Gunman With Tear Gas

CADILLAC, Mich. (UPI) — A man whose wife summoned police to protect her from his beatings staged an eight-hour standoff at their downtown apartment, firing shots at officers until they subdued him with tear gas early today.

No one was injured and area residents, who were evacuated when the drama began, were allowed to return to their homes.

The suspect, Andrew Harris, 21, surrendered about 1:45 a.m. EST after about 25 to 30 police officers, including a state police SWAT team, lobbed a half dozen tear gas cannisters into the second-floor apartment.

Harris, who had barricaded himself in the building, came out the back entrance of the house and police grabbed him.

He was held in the Wexford County Jail and faced arraignment in 84th District Court today on felonious assault charges, a police spokesman said.

Police Chief Lyle Reddy said Harris' wife came to the police station Tuesday afternoon and told officers her husband had beaten her. The woman requested an officer accompany her to the apartment so she could get some of her belongings.

"She was afraid to go in," said Reddy. He said officer Ron Hofstra went to Harris' home around 5:30 p.m. and was met on the steps by Harris, who was armed with a shotgun.

The SWAT team was flown to the scene by helicopter from Lansing and a second SWAT team in Holland was notified it might be needed as a support unit, police said.

Reddy said Douglas Dedeurwaeder, 33, who lived in an adjacent apartment, managed to escape around 9:30 p.m. but another man, John Scholten, 71, remained trapped in the building until around 12:40 a.m. today.

Atlanta Mayor Requests Assistance From Reagan

ATLANTA (AP) — After ordering that children 15 and younger be off the streets by 9 p.m., Mayor Maynard Jackson has turned to President Reagan and Gov. George Busbee for help in solving the deaths and disappearances of 17 black children.

The investigation has cost the city some $500,000. Jackson said in telegrams pleading for whatever "additional resources might be made available" by the state and federal governments.

"The children of Atlanta are under attack. Fourteen have been murdered and three are missing, all black and all poor," the mayor's telegrams said.

"The Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, several immediate counties and the Atlanta police are engaged in a massive effort to solve the problem, but the state of affairs is acute."

Jackson asked for separate meetings with Busbee and Reagan "at your convenience to discuss this crisis."

A spokesman for Busbee said the governor probably will meet with Jackson "early next week." No response had been received from the White House by late Tuesday.

Although Jackson did not ask specifically for money, his spokesman, Angelo Fuster, said the mayor was concerned about the escalating costs of the investigation, which now involves a special task force of at least 35 officers.

Fuster added that the Georgia General Assembly is considering legislation authorizing a grant of $100,000 to Atlanta to help defray the costs of the inquiry.

Earlier Tuesday, Jackson imposed a 9 p.m. curfew in hopes of preventing further violence.

He imposed the curfew through executive order because the city's temporary 11 p.m. curfew had expired, he said. The order will be effective until the City Council can act on a proposed ordinance making the curfew permanent.

Meanwhile, police continued their search for clues in the case of 15-year-old Terry Lorenzo Pue, the latest victim. All of the victims have been between the ages of 7 and 15 and all but two were boys.

Pue's body was found Friday morning in suburban Rockdale County. Officials said he had been strangled, probably Thursday night.

Employees of a fast-food restaurant told authorities Pue spent last Wednesday night there, chatting and drinking hot chocolate.

His mother, Helen Pue, said she last saw her son Wednesday afternoon when he left home to go play basketball. She said she had warned her son that "that killer was going to get him and choke him because he liked to stay out so late."

She said her son had told her he "wasn't going to be scared off by no killer."

Siamese Twin Girls Die After Surgery

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Nine-day-old Siamese twins died after a day-long operation in which doctors partially separated them only to discover the girls' hearts were fused, says a spokeswoman for Vanderbilt Medical Center.

The twins, Samantha Dawn and Marie Lynn Self, were joined from the top of the sternum to the navel. They died late Tuesday after about nine hours of surgery, said Ginger Carnahan.

The babies' parents, Katherine Self, 18, and Roger Self, 19, of Maryville, were unavailable for comment after the deaths were announced. It was Mrs. Self's first pregnancy.

Dr. James O'Neill, who led the surgical team, said the twins "were just not able to survive."

"We were able to do the majority of the abdominal area until we realized there was a problem above that couldn't be fixed," he said.

Miss Carnahan said the babies' hearts "were found to be completely fused, and this proved to be uncorrectable."

The Selfs agreed to permit an autopsy, Miss Carnahan said. Funeral arrangements were pending.

The full-term babies were born by Caesarean section Jan. 18 at the University of Tennessee Memorial Hospital in Knoxville.

They were immediately moved to the Vanderbilt facility where a 15-member medical team performed extensive tests to try to determine what organs the infants shared.

Tests showed the twins had separate stomachs and reproductive organs, but shared a large liver. The heart fusion didn't show up in the tests.

Stockman May Request Debt Ceiling Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — As a congressman, David A. Stockman took pride in voting against raising the limit on federal debt.

Now that he has been confirmed as President Reagan's budget director, one of Stockman's first chores may be persuading Congress the debt limit should be increased.

That irony was not lost Tuesday as the Senate unanimously approved Stockman's nomination as director of the White House Office of Management and Budget.

Now that Republicans control the Senate and the White House, it might be fun for Democrats to sit back and watch the GOP back away from its traditional position that raising the debt ceiling amounts to "busting the federal budget," observed Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C.

Also approved unanimously by the Senate Tuesday was the nomination of William J. Casey as CIA director. Casey served in the Office of Strategic Services, the CIA's forerunner, during World War II and headed the Securities and Exchange Commission during the Nixon administration. He also managed Reagan's 1980 campaign.

The Senate will vote Thursday on approving Jeane Kirkpatrick as U.N. ambassador. The same day, the Labor Committee is expected to endorse Raymond J. Donovan to be labor secretary and send that nomination to a Senate vote.

Stockman, a two-term Republican congressman from Michigan, was roundly praised by senators for his integrity and intellect. But he was criticized by several Democrats as being rigid, simplistic and so zealous in his desire to cut federal spending that he might throw out the bad with the good.

Hollings said the "chicken-lickin,' sky-is-falling rhetoric" by Stockman and other House conservatives made drafting a budget compromise very difficult in the past.

"I hope he will just cool it a little while and start working with us" toward compromise, Hollings said. "Otherwise, the blood on the floor could well be his."

Under current law, the federal government may borrow no more than $935 billion. But the debt is expected to top that mark within two or three weeks, meaning that unless the ceiling is raised, the government soon would run out of borrowing authority.

Thus, the Reagan administration will have to ask Congress for a higher limit — perhaps as much as $995 billion to last through next October. And as budget director, Stockman would have to explain why.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Stockman should be praised — not condemned — for voting against budget deficits and ever-higher borrowing authority.

Haig Asserting Role As Policy Spokesman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alexander Haig, his State Department inner circle almost assembled, is moving quickly to assert himself as the administration's foreign policy general manager and spokesman.

Haig, who today held his first formal news conference as secretary of state, has brought together the key members of his sub-Cabinet level of policymakers. Although only his deputy, William Clark, 49, of California, has officially been announced, most of the Haig team already is at work at the State Department.

Haig accepted Clark, a close friend of President Reagan's, as deputy secretary in what appears to be a trade-off: one important post for a political appointee in exchange for the freedom to appoint professionals to other high-level posts.

The typical member of the Haig team is in his early 50s, with wide experience at the State Department or the National Security Council staff and no particular political coloration. Some of the key members are:

—Walter Stoessel, to be undersecretary of state for political affairs. A career foreign service officer and former ambassador to Moscow and Bonn, Stoessel worked closely with Haig in Europe, when Haig was commander of NATO forces.

—Laurence Eagleburger, assistant for Europe. Most recently U.S. ambassador to Yugoslavia, Eagleburger is energetic and bright enough to have survived and prospered under Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, as Haig himself did.

—Nicholas Veliotes, assistant for the Near East and South Asia. Currently U.S. ambassador to Jordan, Veliotes is another career officer who has served as a political counselor in Israel. He has not yet been approved by the White House.

—John Holdridge, assistant for East Asia. The first resident U.S. representative in China and fluent in Mandarin, Holdridge worked with Haig on the National Security Council staff under Kissinger.

—Chester Crocker, assistant for Africa. Another former National Security Council staffer, Crocker has been director of Georgetown University's African studies program.

—Richard Burt, director for politico-military affairs. Until recently national security correspondent for the New York Times, Burt formerly was an officer of the influential International Institute for Strategic Studies in London.

President To Meet With Jamaican Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is meeting with Jamaican Prime Minister Edward Seaga, whose election five days before Reagan's own triumph last fall was regarded as a strategic plus for the United States in the Caribbean.

Reagan's choice of Seaga to be the first foreign head of government to visit the Reagan White House is a measure of the high esteem with which the 50-year-old Jamaican Labor Party leader is held here, American officials said.

Seaga planned 2½ hours of talks with Reagan today followed by a meeting with Treasury Secretary Donald Regan. Separate afternoon meetings with the House and Senate foreign relations committees also were scheduled.

At a White House reception Tuesday night, national security adviser Richard Allen said Seaga was a "brilliant and innovative leader" and his visit was significant "in that he is first."

"We think he's just new in his administration and the president is new in his and they should get to know each other," Allen said, adding that Seaga is a "positive force in the Caribbean. He's demonstrated that democracy can thrive."

After Seaga's victory last October, the Carter administration moved quickly to help him overcome the massive economic problems he inherited from the leftist government of Prime Minister Michael Manley.

The day before President Carter left office, a $40 million U.S. aid allotment was signed in Kingston. Seaga also laid the groundwork for close ties with the Reagan administration during two visits to the United States between Reagan's election and his inauguration.

He met with Secretary of State Alexander Haig and other members of the Reagan inner circle. He also hosted a dinner for White House chief of staff James Baker III when Baker was on vacation in Jamaica during Christmas week.

Seaga, who studied business at Harvard, has ingratiated himself with the new administration by expelling Cuba's ambassador to Jamaica and generally dismantling the web of Cuban-Jamaican relationships established during the Manley era. At the time of Seaga's election last fall, there were some 500 Cubans working on various projects in Jamaica, according to U.S. officials, who asked not to be identified.

Under Manley's leadership, Jamaica's economy declined for seven consecutive years. Seaga is relying heavily on the United States, Great Britain and Latin America's two oil powers, Venezuela and Mexico, to get the country back on a sound economic footing.

During his visit here, Seaga is expected to seek expanded bauxite and textile exports to the United States.

Young Reagan Aides Paid Well Despite Inexperience

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some youthful aides in the Reagan White House are finding more than glamour and excitement in their new jobs. They're drawing handsome pay checks as well.

Douglas Bandow, 23, and Kevin R. Hopkins, 26, for example, are paid $37,871 each as special assistants to the president for policy development. Both are aides to Martin Anderson, President Reagan's chief domestic policy adviser.

Of the approximately 60 administration officials whose salaries have been made public, Bandow and Hopkins are among about a half dozen who are in their 20s and are being paid from $27,000 to $38,000 despite little experience outside the Reagan presidential campaign.

Bandow, a 1979 Stanford Law School graduate, defended his salary on grounds it is roughly the same as a starting attorney's at a Wall Street law firm. And he noted that he has been working 14-hour days, including weekends.

"I personally feel confident that I'm earning it — with my education, my experience on the campaign, and the hours I work," Bandow said.

Hopkins, who graduated from William Jewell College in Liberty, Mo., in 1976, said he probably would be making more money if he had pursued the "sure path" of an economics career instead of going to work for Reagan four years ago.

"Plus, we work regularly 80 hours a week," he said. "If you figure it on the basis of hours worked, we don't make more than the fellow who delivers your mail."

Hopkins said he left a graduate program in economics to work as a volunteer for the Citizens for the Republic, a conservative political action committee then headed by Reagan. After joining the Reagan campaign in 1978, he said, he earned $10,000 to $12,000 a year.

"I see it (the White House job) as an end-of-the-road thing for all the hard hours I put in," he said.

Auto Executives Fight Proposed Safety Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the final days of the Carter administration, safety official Joan Claybrook set in motion the machinery for as many new auto safety regulations as time would permit.

Now, in a changing atmosphere with the Reagan administration, auto executives are stepping up their fight not only to block Miss Claybrook's last-day efforts but possibly to roll back auto standards already on the books.

Their best bargaining chip has become the deeply depressed state of the U.S. auto industry, which lost an estimated $4 billion last year because of poor sales. The automakers claim the various regulations cost them millions of dollars a year and contribute to their financial plight.

Executives from the top three U.S. manufacturers — General Motors, Ford and Chrysler — were presenting their arguments against excessive government regulation to a Senate subcommittee today.

Sen. John C. Danforth, R-Mo., the subcommittee chairman, indicated he will have a friendly ear, saying the U.S. manufacturers are "struggling to remain competitive and profitable" and Congress must examine the extent to which the government is impeding them.

Miss Claybrook, the most active administrator the National Traffic Safety Administration has had, initiated proposals for four new auto regulations during her last days on the job:

—A rule requiring front ends of cars to be designed to minimize injury to pedestrians.

—A rule requiring manufacturers to conduct their own crash-worthiness tests and post the results on auto stickers.

—A requirement that the industry install devices that would warn a motorist the auto's tire pressure is too low.

—A new fuel-consumption standard for light trucks and provisions that would allow the existing standard for cars to be increased if it is determined that higher standards are feasible.

SAC Begins Test Of Readiness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hundreds of manned bombers and a Minuteman missile are being used in what the Strategic Air Command calls the biggest and most comprehensive test of U.S. ability to retaliate after a nuclear attack.

None of the 800 SAC B-52 or FB-111 bombers involved in the 20-day exercise will carry nuclear weapons, the Pentagon said in announcing the test this week.

One or two Minuteman missiles, capable of hitting targets in the Soviet Union, will be fired from Vandenberg Air Force Base near Los Angeles into the Pacific test range, SAC said. The United States will notify the Soviet Union before the launch, it added.

Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles were fired during similar exercises in 1980 and 1979, a SAC spokesman said.

Dubbed "Global Shield '81," the test involves 100,000 people at more than 70 sites in the United States and on Guam, SAC said. The maneuvers began at 8 a.m. Monday.

The exercise comes amid intense debate among military and political planners over the vulnerability to Soviet attack of the U.S. ICBM force, deployment of the MX ICBM in hide-and-seek shelters in the West and whether to revive the B-1 bomber as a replacement for the 20-year-old B-52 fleet.

Elements of the Navy, the Marines, the Air Force Reserve, the Air National Guard and Canadian forces will participate with SAC in the exercise, SAC said.

At one point, more than 400 aircraft across the United States will scramble simultaneously, and "air and missile crews will receive simulated orders to execute strikes against hypothetical enemy targets," SAC said.

The exercise assumes SAC aircraft — the massive B-52 and swing-wing FB-111 — and ICBMs will survive a nuclear attack and be able to retaliate. Plans and procedures "designed to heighten the probability that SAC aircraft will survive during wartime conditions" will be tested, SAC said.

"Global Shield has been constructed to realistically measure SAC's response to a set of pre-planned events leading up to a simulated attack on the United States," SAC said. "We hope to demonstrate that we can continue to meet the challenges of keeping our aging aircraft flying under realistic wartime conditions, which will be simulated during the exercise."

The Strategic Air Command said the exercise "bears no relationship to any aspect of current international developments."

Gas Prices Per Gallon Up 5 Cents

NEW YORK (AP) — The average retail price of gasoline in the United States has jumped nearly a nickel a gallon since OPEC's last round of crude-oil price increases began in mid-December, an industry analyst said Tuesday.

Dan Lundberg, publisher of the Lundberg Letter, a Los Angeles-based trade newsletter, said his survey indicated the national average retail gasoline price was $1.2719 a gallon as of Sunday, up 2.28 cents since Jan. 19 and up 4.47 cents since Dec. 19.

The latest gasoline price increases also reflected the lifting of price controls from domestically produced oil, Lundberg said in a telephone interview.

The controls started to expire last January and are set to run out by the end of September, but David Stockman, director-designate of the federal Office of Management and Budget, was quoted by The New York Times today as saying he believes the lifting of the controls is "fairly imminent."

The newspaper said President Reagan might decide to end the controls "in the next few days," either by executive order or through a combination of directives and legislative proposals to Congress.

The trade publication Petroleum Intelligence Weekly has estimated the lifting of price controls could raise retail gasoline 5 to 10 cents a gallon. But the Energy Department has reported the country's largest refiners already have amassed nearly $30 billion in gasoline production expenses they have not passed on to consumers.

The Lundberg Letter surveys about 14,000 filling stations nationwide. Results of the latest price survey, prepared for delivery to a chamber of commerce meeting in San Diego Tuesday, were provided to The Associated Press.

Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil exporter and the supplier of 8 percent of U.S. oil needs, raised its price for a barrel of crude oil by $2 on Dec. 15. There are 42 gallons in a barrel.

The 12 other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries subsquently voted to let the average price of the cartel's oil rise about 10 percent, to a maximum of $41 a barrel. World crude oil prices have risen more than 150 percent since the Iranian revolution cut that nation's oil output sharply in late 1978.

The United States obtains about 40 percent of its oil from abroad. Half its imports come from OPEC.

According to Lundberg, the average wholesale price of gasoline rose to $1.0360 this week from $1.0128 Jan. 19 but the average dealer's profit margin fell to 8.96 cents from 9 cents a gallon. He said that weak demand has left dealers unable to pass on all their added costs.
