

University Avenue Businessmen Oppose Change

By MARC FLAKE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A change from angle to parallel parking to facilitate the widening of University Avenue will hurt businesses along the route as badly as a similar change in the downtown parking affected businesses there, several men and women who operate stores across from Texas Tech said this morning.

"I'm hot," said Douth Hill, manager of the University Book Center at 1103 University Avenue. "One of the big fights we've had here is not having enough parking spaces to begin with."

Taking spaces away will "put everybody out of business," she said.

The longtime controversy over traffic on University Avenue ignited once again over the weekend when Texas Tech University regents and city officials agreed on a plan to widen the street. Although the plan does not affect the curb line on the business (east) side of the avenue, city officials say nevertheless that the proposal will call for a change from angle to parallel parking.

"I was here when they ruined downtown," said Jack Davis, who owns a western wear shop, adding the change from angle to parallel parking there put many people out of business.

Phil Sooter, manager of the Varsity Formal Wear and Varsity Cleaners, also said the downtown change had hurt businessmen in that area badly. He said he knew because he took over one downtown business after the change.

"One of the main troubles in this area is the lack of parking," said Burl Pigg Jr., owner of University Jewelry. "Downtown has gone to pot. There's going to be a disaster area here if they do this."

Davis said that several business owners would be gathering tonight at the home of Ted Rushing, who owns a building in the area, to discuss fighting the city in court over the proposed change.

Of the 12 owners and managers interviewed, only one said he wouldn't fight the parking change. R. A. Carson of Broadway Drug said, "We'll have to accept it."

Some of the owner managers seemed piqued that the city failed to notify them of the proposed change.

"When something is proposed, why is it the people most affected by it aren't asked for their opinion?" Pigg asked. "It's like they don't even care about the businesses here."

Davis said he thought the city was trying to sneak the plan through before

A theological student who says he is tired of being able to see the "filth" through his apartment windows expressed that discontent this morning to Col. C.G. Bartley, assistant Lubbock police chief.

Sam Durden, whose 1102 58th St. apartment is across from the Circle Drive-In Theater on South Avenue Q, handed Bartley a petition demanding the theater stop showing pornographic material. The petition was signed by 50 persons living near the theater, who claim the business is violating their rights and corrupting their children.

The theater management could not be reached for comment early this afternoon.

Durden, a former police vice officer in Florida and now a student of Lubbock's Sunset School of Preaching, also handed over 10 letters demanding a halt to the showing of X-rated material, including one from the management of the Ramada Inn, located just south of the big movie screen.

"I'll read them and then talk to our attorneys and see what they have to say," Bartley said after being confronted by Durden at the police station. The assistant chief told Durden he would also contact the criminal district attorney's office to see if the law will allow a solution to the problem of explicit sexual performances on the open screen, which can be seen by Durden, his family, neighbors and motorists passing by on Avenue Q.

"I won't guarantee anything, but I am aware of the problem," Bartley said.

The petition states: "We the residents of the 1100-block of 58th Street are fed up with the pornography in our neighborhood. We demand that action be taken in reference to the filth being shown daily at the Circle Drive-In Theater, 58th and Avenue Q. The theater screen is visible to motorists driving on Avenue Q and 58th Street."

Worst of all, and most important, the screen is visible to many of our own residents and children of the neighborhood.

Durden warned that if something is not done his group would strengthen its forces and possibly form a citizens against pornography committee. He added that they would not stop with the Circle Drive-In, but would establish a crusade to stop all pornography in the city.

Durden told a small group of reporters he sat on the curb Friday night and watched what was showing on the screen for about 45 minutes, "and I guarantee you, that was hard-core pornography."

FORWARDING HIS COMPLAINT — Sam Durden, right, a Lubbock theological student, presents a petition to Assistant Police Chief C.G. Bartley calling for Circle Drive-In Theater at 58th Street and Avenue Q to stop showing allegedly pornographic material on its screen. The petition was signed by Durden and 49 other persons. Miller To Challenge Water Board Vote

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Today's official canvass of votes cast in the Jan. 17 election held by the Lubbock County Water Control and Improvement District and the swearing in of two board members apparently will not be the climax of that election.

Lubbock pharmacist Dale Miller, a three-year veteran of the water district's board, said this morning he plans to contest the election.

Election results canvassed by the water district board this morning showed Miller lost his re-election bid by 18 votes to local fireman George Whitworth.

However, Miller said he suspects that some individuals who cast ballots in the election last month were not qualified voters.

According to Miller, 22 of the persons who voted absentee in the election are not included on the county's official registered voters list.

All 22 of the voters in question signed affidavits at the absentee polling place, swearing that they had lost or misplaced their voter registration certificate, noted attorney George Gilkerson, who accompanied Miller to this morning's board meeting.

Miller said he first became suspicious about the outcome of the election when he learned that an unusually large number of persons had voted absentee.

The vote canvass showed that 473 ballots were counted in the election, with 52 of them cast by absentee voters. In 1980, Miller said, a record 781 persons voted in the board elections, with 20 of them absentee.

The water control district board sets policy for Buffalo Springs Lake. Miller noted that the absentee poll was run by lake manager Jim Segrest and another lake employee.

A high percentage of the voters whose registration Miller is questioning are employees at the lake, Gilkerson noted.

Miller and Gilkerson said they would also raise several other questions about possible election irregularities in a contest suit that must be filed in district court here within the next 30 days.

One of those questions will deal with ballot security, Gilkerson said. "I'm just a little bit surprised at the lack of security on people's ballots," he added.

During the board meeting, Gilkerson noted that none of the steel boxes containing ballots from the Jan. 17 election were locked. State election laws require

Russia Hurls New Charges At U.S., CIA

MOSCOW (UPI) — The U.S. charge d'affaires was summoned today to the Soviet Foreign Ministry to receive a formal protest in the growing war of words between Washington and Moscow over global terrorism, informed sources said.

The move came just hours after the Soviet news media stepped up charges that the United States was the major terrorist power in the world and said the CIA was behind a series of assassinations, including the murders of President Kennedy and his brother, Robert.

The running Soviet attacks followed U.S. charges last week that the Kremlin was training, funding and equipping international terrorists and was bent on creating an international communist state.

Sources said acting U.S. Charge d'Affaires Jack Matlock was summoned to the Foreign Ministry to receive a protest note on the terrorism issue. U.S. spokesmen declined to comment on the report.

It was the second time Matlock was ordered to appear at the Foreign Ministry since President Reagan took office two weeks ago, and it marked another turn in the terrorism dispute.

The official Tass news agency, in commentaries Sunday night and today, said the Reagan administration was using the charges to launch "a new anti-Soviet hostile campaign."

The Soviet statement said George Washington and other American heroes were freedom fighters, but that they would be called terrorists if they were judged by the same criteria currently used by U.S. officials.

"Any allegations about the Soviet Union's involvement in terroristic activities represent a gross and malicious deception," Tass said. "They cannot but cause feelings of indignation and legitimate protest in the Soviet people."

In the first commentary Sunday night, Tass charged the CIA perpetrated the assassinations of the Kennedy brothers, Martin Luther King, former Congo leader Patrice Lumumba, Kwame Nrumah of Ghana, Chilean leader Salvador Allende and former Italian Prime Minister Aldo Moro.

But the news agency today omitted the Moro charge, possibly in response to quick denials from many Italian political leaders. Even the Italian Communist Party newspaper L'Unita chided the Kremlin in an editorial titled "Let's Stick to the Facts."

Radio Moscow today broadcast the Tass litany of international crimes allegedly committed by the United States.

Tass said the charges by the Reagan White House that the Kremlin is at the center of international terrorist activity are "unbridled slander... anti-Soviet psychosis."

"But if we discard the absurd inventions and turn to real facts," Tass said, "it will not be difficult to discover the center which controls international terrorism."

"It is an open secret that whenever various circles resort to terror in this or that area of the world, the tracks of the criminals lead to the United States, and first of all to the Central Intelligence Agency... which is the main center for the organization of terror, subversion and provocations."

The official Soviet agency's 1,600-word commentary traced a tale of relentless terror during the past 20 years, with all of the crimes allegedly carried out by the CIA. The article was a clear sign that last week's comments in Washington linking the Kremlin to terrorist groups worldwide enraged the Russians.

At a news conference last Wednesday, U.S. Secretary of State Alexander Haig accused the Soviets of "training, funding and equipping" international terrorists Thursday. Reagan said the U.S.S.R. was striving to achieve "world revolution and a one-world... Communist state."

Bell Scraps Bilingual Regulation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Reagan administration, seeking to "telegraph a message of change to the American people," today scrapped proposed rules that would make local schools teach foreign-speaking students in their native languages.

"I take this action for many reasons. The policies are harsh, inflexible, burdensome, unworkable and incredibly costly," Education Secretary Terrel Bell said in a statement withdrawing the proposed regulations.

"There is no quicker way to kill a civil rights law than to enforce it with heavy-handed misdirection, and I am sworn to uphold the law, not to kill it."

Bell told reporters the move "does not mean we are going to cop out on our responsibility as far as civil rights are concerned."

The regulations, developed under the Carter administration and fought bitterly in Congress, were set to go into effect in June. They would have required any of the 16,000 school districts in the nation that had more than 25 students with a first language other than English to teach the youngsters in their primary language.

Bell said it would have cost taxpayers $1 billion over five years to carry out the regulations.

He said the department will continue to operate under guidelines that require bilingual education. But those guidelines do not have the force of law, and he said the government will be "flexible" in its enforcement until it can write new rules not requiring bilingual instruction.

"We will protect the rights of children who do not speak English well," he said

Sale Helps Drop Food Costs Here

By DEBBI STALTER

An unusual number of price slashes in grocery items at a local supermarket has lowered the cost of half of the 16 items checked monthly by The Avalanche-Journal.

The February survey similarly shows a significant drop in the total bill of the items, which has come down from January's $25.77 to $25.03. The current bill is the survey's lowest since September of last year, when prices dipped to $24.66.

Thanks to three specials in effect at the store used in the survey, prices of eight items tumbled, representing the largest drop since August 1979. The total bill in July of that year was $21.13 and dropped to $19.24 the following month.

Taking considerable plunges this month were the prices of round steak, down from $2.59 a pound to $2.19, and coffee, on special at $2.29 a pound from last month's $2.69.

Bacon prices were down a hefty 45 cents from January, dropping to $1.53 this month from $1.98.

But these cost dips were almost offset by a hearty hike in the price of potatoes. A 10-pound bag this month costs the consumer $2.99, compared to $2.29 in January.

Although produce prices frequently reflect an up-and-down pattern of change, February's potato cost is the highest since The AJ began its monthly survey in March 1975.

Offsetting that jump, however, and contributing to the overall lower total this month was the cost of a can of whole green beans, which was on special at 33 cents, a five-pound sack of sugar, down from $2.79 to $2.75, a pound of all-beef frankfurters, down from $2.59 to $2.19, and the price of lettuce, down from 59 cents a pound to 39 cents.

Price hikes were felt in other items, including...

Iraq Takes Offensive In Kurdish Region

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Iraq said today its forces have launched an offensive deep into the heart of Iran's Kurdish highlands where separatist guerrillas have been fighting against Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime.

The Iraqi drive appeared designed in the short term to help Iran's rebellious Kurds in their battle for autonomy from the Islamic regime in Tehran. In the long term, analysts believed Iraq hopes to threaten Iran enough to force it to negotiate an end to the four-month-old war.

The government-run Iraqi newspaper Al-Gumhuriya quoted military officials as saying a coordinated Iraqi strike force, including tanks, artillery, armored vehicles and infantry units, attacked a string of Iranian positions in the snow-capped Kurdish highlands.

The paper said the attack extended at least 10 miles inside Iranian territory. The Iraqi commanders reported "heavy losses" among Iranian troops and said large numbers of weapons were captured or destroyed.

The enemy was seen fleeing from positions without even being able to evacuate the dead," the paper said.

The latest Iraqi offensive into the region coincided with renewed clashes between Kurdish tribesmen seeking autonomy from Tehran and revolutionary guards trying to retain the Islamic government's grip on the northwest province.

A spokesman for the Kurdish spiritual leader, Sheikh Izzeddin Hussein, was quoted as saying separatist rebels had taken control of the strategically important city of Mahabad, several miles north of the main Iraqi thrust into Iranian territory. Iranian artillery and air units were reportedly bombarding the city around the clock.

An Iranian military communique earlier quoted by the state-run Pars news agency said 497 Iraqi troops were killed over the weekend.

Iraq also reported similar clashes and "heavy enemy" casualties.

As the war entered its 133rd day, Iran and Iraq divided their energies between the battlefield and re-arming.

France confirmed Sunday it had delivered the first four of 60 Mirage F-1 fighter-bombers to Iraq and Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr said his country must produce its own spare parts for the war effort.

Iranian military reports also spoke of fighting with pro-Iraqi Kurdish insurgents in the Sanandaj and Baneh regions in the northwest.

The reports said several Kurdish rebels have been killed in clashes with Iranian troops and 200 sent word that they were ready to surrender.

Tehran radio said the Iranian high command set a Feb. 11 deadline for the anti-government Kurdish rebels to lay down their arms and give themselves up.

Iran warned it will "never forget" the sale of jets to Iraq by France, which harbored Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini during the Iranian religious leader's exile.

Iranian military communiques said most of the weekend fighting was around Abadan, Duzful, Susangerd, and Khorramshahr in the south, and Gilan Gharb, Qast Shahrin and Sar Pol-e Zahab in the north.

There was no immediate indication what — if any — steps Tehran might take against Paris. The French Foreign Ministry made it clear the contract for all 60 planes signed in 1977 will be honored.

Cartoon Voice Becomes DJ

TEMPLE (AP) — Boris Badenoff, the tiny villain whose plots against the mouse and squirrel heroes of TV's "Rocky and Bullwinkle" cartoons seldom bore fruit, has cleared out of Hollywood and moved to central Texas.

His hoarse, vaguely Russian voice occasionally pops up on KTEM Radio nowadays, along with his friends Astro, George Jetson's space-happy dog, Scooby Doo, another pooch that usually haunts Saturday morning television, and Mr. Arrax, a red, long-necked alien featured on several of the cartoon-version "Star Trek" episodes, to name but a few.

Raleigh, a Harvard University graduate who gave up a career in psychology because he thought it was too much like "a Jerry Lewis movie," said he still plans occasional visits to the West Coast for voice-dubbing sessions. The demand for character voices remains high, the pay is excellent and the work can be fun.

Sinatra's Daughter Weds

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Frank Sinatra couldn't be there, but his 32-year-old daughter Tina went ahead and married Beverly Hills businessman Richard Cohen, 44, in a quiet ceremony at her mother's house.

"Mr. Sinatra spoke to his daughter before the wedding, but was unable to attend because of an out-of-town engagement," said spokesman Lee Solters, who said the entertainer was currently appearing in Las Vegas.

The couple was married by Santa Monica Superior Court Judge Mario Clinco at Nancy Lambert's home, Solters said. Attending the ceremony Friday were Frank Sinatra Jr. and the bride's sister, Nancy. A friend of Cohen's, Leonard Gersh, was best man, Solters said.

There was no immediate word on the couple's future plans.

Artist Drawing Nuke Plants

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The Empire State Building and Egypt's pyramids aren't very controversial, and David Macauley made a name for himself with books illustrating their construction step-by-step.

Now Macauley finds himself sitting in his studio, wondering if pen-and-ink drawings of nuclear power plants could jeopardize his career.

Macauley is famous for books that illustrate the construction of great buildings, so the Tennessee Valley Authority offered him $25,000 to do about a hundred drawings of the hydroelectric, nuclear and coal plants the federal utility uses to produce power.

The 34-year-old artist says he took the job even though he thinks doing a book that involves a controversial issue could hurt him. The TVA has been concentrating heavily on building nuclear power plants, and plans 13 in the seven states it serves.

"I was having tremendous second thoughts," Macauley recalled recently. "But then I thought — they're not going to stop building this just because I refuse to make the drawings for this book.

"Perhaps a contribution could be made by me as an explainer of what they're doing."

Macauley's need to know every detail before doing a drawing leads him to take up to three days on each one, and he hopes the results will be "objective."

According to the company, the drawings are for a brochure that is a response to school teachers who requested information about the utility for their students. Completion of the brochure is set for this summer.

Officer Finds Own Stolen Car

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Police Officer William Fraser thought the 1974 Plymouth looked familiar.

When he pulled it over, police say, it turned out to be his own.

Fraser was on patrol last week when he spotted the car. Although the driver had what appeared to be legal title, it was Fraser's own auto, stolen from his home's driveway the month before, police said.

Officers arrested Glenn DeJarnett, 23, of Detroit and accused him of selling the car for $300 to the driver Fraser stopped.

DeJarnett now awaits trial in Detroit Recorder's Court on charges of possession of a stolen auto with intent to transfer title.

Marked Increase Seen In Peanut Butter Prices

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Peanut butter prices are giving grocery shoppers some sticky moments. An Associated Press marketbasket survey shows that the cost of the popular sandwich filling rose sharply during January, for the second month in a row.

Despite the peanut butter price surge, the overall grocery bill measured by the AP went up only two-tenths of a percent last month, thanks to declines for items like coffee, meat and eggs.

The peanut butter problems are caused by last summer's drought, which cut into the peanut crop and boosted prices. In addition, some consumers, apparently afraid they might not be able to buy peanut butter at any price, hurried to stock up and several stores surveyed by the AP were sold out last week.

"People heard about a peanut shortage and started hoarding," said a clerk in a Providence, R.I., store who did not want his name used.

The store was sold out of most brands of peanut butter. The only one available was a local brand at $2.09 for a 16-ounce jar. A month earlier, the AP found plenty of peanut butter, with national brands at $1.09 for 12-ounce jars.

The AP marketbasket survey involves a random list of commonly purchased food and non-food items. Prices of all items were checked at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and have been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. The list originally included 15 items, but chocolate chip cookies were dropped from the survey after the manufacturer discontinued the package size that had been used for the price check.

The latest survey showed that the marketbasket bills rose last month at the checklist stores in seven of the cities surveyed, up an average of 2.6 percent. The marketbasket went down in six cities, dropping an average of 2.7 percent. The overall January increase of two-tenths of a percent compared with a boost of half a percent during December.

There were fairly widespread decreases in meat prices during January — frankfurters, for example, went down at the checklist store in seven cities; pork chops dropped in five cities. Eggs declined in seven cities. In all, almost 30 percent of the items checked by the AP went down last month.

Families who had turned to peanut butter as an inexpensive source of protein because of last year's high meat prices were out of luck, however. The price of peanut butter went up at the checklist stores in 10 of the cities surveyed by the AP, with increases ranging from a low of 3 percent in Boston to a high of 60 percent in Los Angeles. The price went down at the checklist store in one city — Atlanta, which reported a 1 percent drop. The checklist stores in three cities were sold out of the brand of peanut butter normally used in the survey. During December, the price of peanut butter went up in nine of the cities surveyed. Other findings of the latest AP survey included:

— Marketbasket bills at the checklist stores at the end of January were an average of 14 percent higher than they were a year earlier.

— Milk prices went up at checklist stores in eight cities. Prices have been rising steadily because of higher government price supports. Another boost in the support level in April will mean more increases, despite an expected rise in production.

— Coffee prices are on the decline, down at the checklist store in eight of the cities surveyed by the AP.

	Dec.	Jan.
Up	34.6	28.0
Down	18.7	29.1
Unchanged	40.7	37.4
Unavailable	6.0	5.5

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes or comparable substitutes were used. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the overall total.

The AP did not try to compare prices from city to city — to say, for example, that eggs cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease — saying a particular item went up 10 percent in one city and 6 percent in another.

The USDA marketbasket issued each month is based on a complex set of statistics. The items on the AP checklist were:

chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, paper towels, coffee, butter, Grade A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar.

Reagan Administration Wants To Lower Public Expectations

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top presidential adviser declaring that the nation's economic doldrums won't disappear overnight, says the public may have expected too much, too soon from the Reagan administration.

"We would very much like to lower expectations if we could because we didn't get into this mess overnight and we're not going to get out of it overnight," James A. Baker III, the White House chief of staff, said Sunday.

Interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation," Baker said the administration hopes to bring the economy under control in a "reasonable period of time" with a comprehensive package that combines tax and spending cuts, regulatory relief and a stable monetary policy.

Meanwhile, Rep. James K. Jones, chairman of the House Budget Committee, called on Reagan to negotiate an arms limitation agreement with the Soviets as a means of bringing defense spending — and the federal budget — under control.

"I think as long as we're in an unlimited arms race with the Soviet Union, defense spending is going to increase," the Oklahoma Democrat said Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Baker said public expectations of the Reagan administration's ability to control the economy may have been too high.

But I think expectations are naturally going to be high because the American people are looking for hope, and they're looking for change, and they would like to see the economy change, and as rapidly as possible," he said.

In a poll conducted by the Gallup Organization in December for the U.S.

Chamber of Commerce, 25 percent of the respondents expressed confidence Reagan would be able to reduce government spending, cut taxes and balance the budget. The margin of error was 3 percent.

Chamber economists Richard W. Rahn and Paul A. Beardon said the public's pessimism about the economy may give the Reagan a longer grace period than usual to turn things around.

Reagan will reveal the specifics of his economic package Feb. 18 to a joint session of Congress, Baker said.

Appearing with Jones on "Meet the Press," Rep. Jack Kemp, author of a Republican-backed tax cut measure, said he expected Reagan to announce plans to go ahead with a 30 percent individual tax reduction over three years, retroactive to Jan. 1.

Gasoline Not Expected To Cost $2 Per Gallon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Decontrol of oil prices could shoot the cost of gasoline through the $2 barrier this year, but industry and government experts figure the increase probably won't be that high.

The effect of decontrol alone assuming no increase in the world price of crude oil would add 15 1/2 cents to the average pump price of a gallon of regular leaded gasoline during 1981, an Energy Department study forecasts.

The study, released late last week, projects retail prices will range from a low of $1.48 to a high of $2.23 by year's end when adjusted for factors such as crude price boosts, demand patterns and inflation.

A base projection falling between the high and low forecasts put the 1981 year-end price at slightly more than $1.80.

Assuming no other factors but decontrol and constant $35 per barrel world crude oil, the average price still would jump from $1.22 to $1.37 during the year, the study said.

The agency's "Short Term Outlook" study was based on information available before December 1980, thus missing the latest round of OPEC crude oil price increases and President Reagan's decision last week to decontrol domestic prices immediately.

But Murray Weidenbaum, chairman of Reagan's Council of Economic Advisers, said prices will reach the same levels by the end of the year under immediate decontrol as they would have under the gradual phase-out that would have ended Sept. 30.

Most experts believe the price-boosting effect of Reagan's move will be immediate, particularly with home heating oil, but that overall increases will be about the same as with gradual decontrol.

Consumer groups opposed to decontrol were warning of 12-cent hikes in gasoline and heating oil prices.

"I think that oil companies are going to raise prices in the short run," said Dr. S. Charles Maurice, head of the Texas A&M economics department. "But in the long run, decontrol can't possibly cause prices to be higher than they would otherwise be, because they're going to increase the supply of oil."

KIDS-ONLY CLUB

Youngsters Afflicted With 'Automobilia'

By SHARI LEWIS

Car crazy. That's what all the kids in my neighborhood are. Of course, here in Los Angeles, being without a car can really make you crazy, because we have almost no public transportation. No subways, too few buses. Only occasional bike paths.

So the young people develop a disease I call "automobilia." They talk about cars, dream about them and (until they turn 16 and can legally drive) collect parts of cars (such as old license plates), information about cars (such as owners' manuals, repair manuals, or copies of the "Blue Book Used-Car Price Guide" for each year).

They scratch around for advertising items used to sell cars (photographs, brochures or dealers' signs) or novelties — either with emblems of car manufacturers on them or in the shape of cars (such as key rings). They hunt for things that relate to one special brand of auto, they specialize in American or foreign-made cars or they look for what-have-you from cars that are no longer being manufactured. Some people add authentic models of cars to their collections, and colored post cards of those antique cars that are now in museums and private collections.

If you have a passion for cars, too, you'll find that car dealers are a good source for advertising materials, especially when the new cars come in and the dealers are dumping stuff about last year's models. You can also check junk-yards (look in the Yellow Pages), repair garages, and service stations. If there's a branch office of a car manufacturer nearby, call the public relations office.

Parts of old cars are expensive at swap meets and when bought through ads in magazines, but if your family drives into the country, hunt through junk shops you pass and explore the nooks and crannies of old barns.

Yesterday's Brain Twister: Christie Acree, age 10, of Lubbock, wrote: Can you guess what letters of the alphabet are: A vegetable? A noun? An exclamation? On faces? Something you do? A name?

Answer: P (Pea); B (Bee); G (Gee); I (Eye); C (See); J (Jay).

Today's Brain Twister: See if you can follow the curve around 1 or 2 by eyeballing it only — what you want to do is find your way out of the circle. Slaughter Sacred Cows

IF EVER there was any real doubt about it, it is now clear to all sides that if you want to stimulate growth through tax cuts, increase defense spending and control inflation, you have to make big cuts in other government spending.
And these cuts—whether reductions in actual spending or elimination of tax preferences—are going to draw blood from a lot of politically potent groups.

increase in defense spending, would be only about $25 billion, probably just a third of the federal deficit for that year with a modest tax cut and currently forecast economic conditions.
This doesn't mean that the fight to restrain government spending should be abandoned, or that certain areas of the budget terrain should be declared off-limits. But it does mean that Ronald Reagan's biggest job as President will be to wean many Americans from a set of benefits taxpayers can not afford to sustain.

THERE IS NO pretense in its budget that big savings can come from reducing fraud and abuse in social welfare programs. Nor are the proposed cuts concentrated on the poor and disadvantaged.
Heavy assaults are made on the preserves of some very powerful interest groups—veterans, farmers, the construction industry and state and local governments—to name a few.

THE INFLATIONARY biases in our economy are very strong. They are built into every high-priced mortgage loan, every generous wage contract, every stepped-up purchase or pricing decision and every one of the government programs we have come to rely upon.
And these vested interests in inflation are concentrated most heavily among the wage-earners that provided Mr. Reagan with his strongest political constituency.

And even so, the total savings projected for fiscal year 1982, after allowing for a hefty extinction.

John D. Lofton:

Parting Is Such Sweet Unsorrow

WASHINGTON—I missed Jimmy Carter's farewell address. It was not intentional. I just happened to be watching an old movie—"The Winning Team"—in which one Ronald Reagan plays a starring role as the great pitcher Grover Cleveland Alexander.

tor" of "single-issue groups and special-interest organizations" that are assailing the presidency. I think he meant the President himself.
In this past year's presidential contest, there was only one real single-issue group, only one real special interest. And it was called the majority of the electorate. They had only one single issue, only one special interest: dumping Carter.

BUT IN THE past four years, our principles and ideals have changed. What the 1980 election demonstrated was at least two things:
At home, the American people have become fed up with Big Government and high taxes. The former got bigger under President Carter and the latter got higher.

CARTER SAID THAT national weakness—real or perceived—"can tempt aggression and thus cause war." This from a man whose administration radiated national weakness.
On nuclear weapons: "There is no disagreement on the goals or the basic approach to controlling this enormous destructive force."

ONE MAN'S OPINION
Kenneth May DePressing Decorum

STATE REP. Bob Simpson, D-Amarillo, has introduced legislation to make politicians liable for civil damages if they lie about their opponent.
We can all look forward to the day when the successful politician will be the one who collected more in damages than he paid out.

Having gained experience from, and contributed to, that tradition, Barnhart should be especially effective in guiding highway construction and maintenance at the federal level.

lected and we've been pushing, for years already. Interstate money, incidentally, is earmarked and if it's not used here, some less-deserving city will soak it up.

For the third year in a row, American productivity declined in 1980. Which means wages went up faster than output. Which means the per-item cost went up. Which means inflation.
Which means, so what else is new?

Lubbock should not leave this to chance, though. It should be busy right now feeding Barnhart and Lewis the information they'll need to keep I-27 in the pipeline.

How's about appointing a Lubbockite to succeed Barnhart?

A ticker tape parade through New York City honoring the freed American hostages, led by Mayor Ed Koch Friday, typifies the kind of overblown emotion being poured out on the 52.

THE NEW CABINET chief said last week he hopes to finish within six weeks a study that will decide which Interstate segments should be canceled.

What is the world coming to? If the White House newspaper, TV and magazine reporters can't be left to their instincts to bay like jackals for the chance to ask a question, the younger generation will get a distorted view of the business!

TEXAN RAY BARNHART'S appointment as administrator of the Federal Highway Administration may have been a stroke of genius by President Reagan.

He had said earlier that controversial, stalled urban stretches should be finished quickly or withdrawn.

Pushing, shoving, yelling and generally being obnoxious is a part of the Great Tradition of the media in our Nation's Capitol, more especially since the camera crews showed up.

That department, virtually free of scandal for so these many years, has built one of the best if not THE best highway systems in the nation.

As the largest metropolitan area in the country without an Interstate expressway, Lubbock needs to get its message to Secretary Lewis: The delay here has been no fault of ours; we've been neg-

Holmes Alexander:

Forget Martin Luther King Day

WASHINGTON—Now if Ronald Reagan is as smart as a President ought to be, his first term won't end without putting a stop to this yammering about a national holiday for the Martin Luther King Birthday.

terans Day means little except to those who recently had reason to mourn their war dead. But there would be something for everybody if we lumped all these days, except perhaps the religious ones, into an American Hero Day.

with other revolutionaries like Douglas and Tyler. I am not economist enough to calculate how much productivity we could generate simply by working more and loafing less.

REAGAN COULD CAPTURE black Americans from their own leaders, from the Democratic politicians who have posed as their master race, and he could go a long way toward bringing American blacks and whites into an emotional unity, and the nation to an economic common effort that is novel to our history.

the small society

by Brickman

The President must pronounce and promote the idea, regardless of who formulates it. The idea is that a Martin Luther King Day be set aside, but that it be joined with other patriotic dates, and that this national day be dedicated, not to rest but work, not to reducing the output of man-hour labor—that is, productivity—but to increasing it.

Sylvia Porter:

IRA Best Tax Shelter Your Money Can Buy

It is an idea that will take much getting used to, but its logic will give it locomotion. If the President, with the support of Congress should name a Day of Heroes, we could have elevated ourselves and become intellectual and moral leaders of the thinking world, which is what we were at our Founding in 1776.

NEW YORK—An estimated 50 million American taxpayers are now eligible to open Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA)—the best tax shelter ever designed for and available to U.S. individuals in any tax bracket.

one time, you can budget small regular investments to your money market fund IRA. By so doing, you do not lose the tax deductible savings.

THE CELEBRATION OF Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays in the same month of February has long since lost any meaning. It has resulted only in the interruption of work and the loss of production that cuts into the national wealth.

Whether because of your apathy or ignorance, what this fundamentally means is that millions of you are voluntarily forfeiting tremendous tax benefits and the opportunity to build up hefty retirement income programs for your own welfare.

Under the tax law, you are allowed to take money out of your IRA when you are 59 and one-half years old; you must start taking your money out when you are over 70 and one-half years old.

Despite the sentiment that had accumulated about July Fourth, it is an anniversary that has lost significance down the years.

ALL YOUR INVESTMENTS in your IRA grow free of current tax, thus allowing your investments to accumulate at an extremely favorable pace.

Your goal should be to avoid withdrawing your IRA funds in a single payment and bunching the tax on the distribution in one year. By withdrawing your IRA over many years, the money generally will be taxed in lower brackets.

Ironically Labor Day means a non-laboring day to all who voluntarily observe it. The September holiday is one of compulsory idleness to businessmen who don't get their mail delivered to builders who the markets of construction locked tight.

To get this extra deduction, you must split the contribution evenly between the accounts of husband and wife, with $875 being contributed to each account.

* SINCE ALL IRAs offer the same tax benefits, your aim should be to select the most attractive investment for your account.

Columbus Day does not celebrate the discoverer of America, since we know that he never did. Ve-tor" of "single-issue groups and special-interest organizations" that are assailing the presidency. I think he meant the President himself.

Berry's World

Those of you who have IRAs probably are investing your IRA money in savings institutions or commercial banks. This is easy, it's safe and you're getting comparatively high rates of return.

Few of you are investing via money market funds, even though these are as safe as your savings institution or commercial bank instruments, are approved for IRA investment by the Internal Revenue Service—and may pay you much higher, more attractive returns. (Today, you can get an average of more than 16 percent on money market funds.)

Considering his own poor performance in domestic as well as foreign policy, it was not surprising that in his last talk to us, Carter chose to speak not as President of the United States but as "a fellow citizen of the world." After all, what is left to say in defense of the Carter presidency? It was a dismal failure.

There are advantages to choosing money market funds as the medium for your IRA money. Among them:

* MOST MONEY MARKET funds are part of a "family" of funds. The managers of money market funds also manage other mutual funds with different objectives—stock funds, bond funds, income funds.

Employees In Ohio Town Approve Wage Contract

STUEBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Police, firefighters and garbage collectors are back on their jobs in this Ohio River city of 27,000 after an eight-day sickout that saw a rash of crime reports.

The city and its three unions reached a contract agreement Saturday night, and workers began returning to their posts immediately. Within minutes, firefighters had received their first call, a garage fire.

Shelton Goodman, owner of the Herald Square Cigar Store downtown, said he's certain the city will recover quickly.

"I'm happy they got a nice raise and it's satisfiable, what they got. The workers and the city had been talking for several months and hadn't gotten anywhere," he said.

However, said City Council President Gerald DiLoreto, "it will take a while for the scars to heal. It's been very demanding, and there have been a lot of tensions, a lot of pressure from both sides." Some 290 of 350 employees began calling in sick Jan. 23 because of a contract impasse over wages.

Garbage began to pile up on the streets of some neighborhoods, and the community was forced to dump raw sewage into the Ohio River.

In the first days of the sickout, thieves ransacked several businesses and vandals broke out windows throughout the city.

Several downtown merchants hired private security guards to patrol streets in marked cruisers, while others armed themselves and slept in their stores.

Many residents and merchants said they supported the workers' requests for more money, but admitted they were nervous and scared. Pro-union sentiment here, strong because of the numerous steel and factory workers, was a major factor in that support, they said.

On Sunday, municipal workers already had begun to settle into their routines.

"It feels good," said firefighter Ron Millanti. "We're glad to be back doing what we're supposed to."

But Ric Blair, president of the firefighters' union local, attacked state laws which he said led to the sickout. The statutes prohibit binding arbitration between public workers and local governments.

"Until the state of Ohio or other states gives employees the right to binding arbitration, you're going to see harsh measures," Blair said.

Although the walkout is settled, Steubenville still faces fiscal troubles. Ac-ording to Mayor William Crabbe, the city operated in the black for the 10 years he's been in office, but a budget deficit is projected for 1981 if more money isn't found.

The city's unemployment, once below the national average, has risen above the average with the depression in the steel industry. The population has dropped 3,000 to 4,000 — more than 10 percent — over the past decade.

City Law Director John Mascio said he doesn't know yet how much the city will ask for or how much the raises will cost. Budget tightening and layoffs in some departments are being considered.

Congressman Refusing To Press Charges After Assault By Aide

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Rep. Albert Lee Smith, R-Ala., who needed five stitches in his head after a punch from an aide knocked him into a marble stairway, says he will ask federal attorneys not to proceed with charges today against two fired aides.

"I am disappointed in a man I had high hopes for," Smith said of Lige Richardson.

Richardson, who along with Pete Gresham was taken into custody for two hours Saturday, said he hit the freshman congressman in the mouth because Smith lied about jobs for minorities.

The two former aides are black. Smith is white.

The incident occurred at a federal courthouse here when the former aides were returning to Smith's office to discuss why they had been fired moments earlier.

Hitting a congressman is a federal offense. Authorities told Richardson and Gresham they wouldn't be charged until Monday. Smith said he would ask the U.S. attorney's office not to proceed with the charges.

Richardson was angry and "was acting irrationally and did not realize the consequences of his act," Smith said.

Richardson said he punched his former boss because "of the fact he lied to us."

The aides met with R.T. Gregg, Smith's administrative assistant, Saturday afternoon to discuss their involvement in Positive Action for Youth. The program tries to locate jobs for minority youths in an effort to combat youth gang problems.

Richardson said he and Gresham were told they were being fired for meeting, without authorization, with Birmingham Mayor Richard Arrington to ask for his support of the program.

Susan McElvey, Smith's press secretary, said the two aides were fired for repeatedly violating the congressman's rule that they were not to push programs without consulting him first. Smith learned about the jobs program from a newspaper article rather than from his aides, she said.

Weekend Blast Damages Hawaiian Mayor's Office

LIHUE, Hawaii (AP) — Federal agents will join the investigation of a bomb blast that ripped through the offices of Kauai County Mayor Eduardo Malapit over the weekend, a county spokesman says.

Malapit and other county officials have been the target of death threats in recent months for refusing to revoke building permits issued to developers of a controversial 500-unit condominium and hotel. County voters overwhelmingly approved a referendum in November which rezoned the Nukoli area for agricultural uses only.

Kauai Police and County Information Officer Ken Harding, however, refused to link the controversy with the bombing, discovered in a routine check Sunday morning.

The blast sprayed ball bearings through the walls, furniture and windows of Malapit's County Building office, Harding said.

Malapit was not on Kauai at the time of the bombing and was unavailable for comment Sunday, Harding said.

The Save Nukoli Committee, which has been spearheading the battle to halt the development, denied responsibility for the blast Sunday, saying "the act of destruction never had any place in our strategy."

Malapit has maintained that only the courts can decide whether the developers have a vested interest and the right to continue work on the project, which developers say has already cost more than $4 million.

On Friday, a circuit court judge in Kauai took under advisement several legal motions on whether to allow the developers to continue their construction work.

Attorneys for the Save Nukoli Committee have vowed to seek a jury trial on the issue if Circuit Judge Kei Hirano rules against the group.

Water From Spring Used To Flood Smoldering Bog

HAHIRA, Ga. (AP) — State crews were diverting water from a large spring today to flood a peat bog in hopes of dousing a smoldering fire that has been blamed for two deadly traffic accidents.

The Georgia State Patrol said a 10-mile section of Interstate 75 from Adel to Hahira was closed about 11 p.m. Sunday when smoke from the bog fire reduced visibility to almost zero. A patrol spokesman said the highway would be reopened today when visibility improved.

Harold Murphy of the state Department of Transportation said six bulldozers and a helicopter with a 350-gallon water bucket were used without success during the weekend to fight the fire.

"We have also brought in two pieces of irrigation equipment. We built a dike all around the area and we're now flooding the area," Murphy said Sunday. "We hope to have it entirely flooded in three or four days."

"Then we'll try to buy the area so we can keep it flooded," Murphy added. "This will keep the fire from erupting in the future and will return it to wetland so that wildfowl and wildlife can use it."

The highway, one of the main arteries to Florida, remained open Saturday night because easterly winds blew the smoke away from the highway. Cpl. W.L. Gordy of the Georgia State Patrol said.

But Gordy said the speed limit was reduced to 30 mph during the night.

Ship Evacuated Following Fire

CHINCOTEAGUE, Va. (UPI) — A fire in the engine room of a tanker 40 miles off the Virginia coast was extinguished, but officials fearing further hazards ordered 36 crewmen off the ship.

The 800-foot tanker Aikaterini was evacuated Sunday night following an examination of the smoldering engine room by a Coast Guard engineer, said Coast Guard Lt. Patrick Twiss.

Navy rescue teams put out the blaze Sunday afternoon and determined no evacuation was necessary, but the Coast Guard found "the engine room is still very hot and smoldering, especially in the electrical system, and the engine room is very close to the fuel tanks."

Twiss said a commercial tug from Norfolk would tow the Aikaterini to Newport News today, and was expected to rendezvous with the tanker between 4 a.m. and 6 a.m. EST.

Twiss said no injuries were reported in the undetermined blaze, but said the engine room was "pretty well burned out."

He said Navy rescue teams were evacuated to the USS Radford, a Navy destroyer.

The fire knocked out power on the Greek-registered ship and sent thick, black smoke spewing out over the Atlantic.

"The ship is powerless and we don't know the extent of the actual damage," he said, adding authorities would assess damage at Newport News.

The Coast Guard said the Aikaterini broadcast a may-day about 8:30 a.m. EST. A commercial tug in the area relayed the distress message to the Coast Guard.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

I think it's time we all stopped picking on the post office.

We've all done it. It's a cheap shot. And it's time we really addressed ourselves to the problems of the Postal Service and the options left to us. The simple fact is people are writing more letters than the post office can deliver.

The answer? We've got to stop writing like this. I have three children who not only anticipated the postal problems, but did something about it. During the years when they were in college, they limited their correspondence to three letters a year: (a) legal action by the university; (b) legal action by the bank; (c) annual begging and whimpering. We could all help by following their example and writing only when we have something startling to say.

Pride must be restored to postmen for what they are delivering. I mean it. The quality of mail has been going downhill for some time now. How do you think mailmen feel walking 50 miles a day to put a bundle of mail in your hands and having you stand there in front of them dropping "The Truss Digest" in the trash and complaining about the rest?

I firmly believe that mail addressed to "Occupant" should be kept at the post office and if people want it they have to show three I.D.'s and certification of sanity.

Abolish postcards from vacationers. This constitutes a large chunk of mail and people who are up to their ashes in snow do not want to hear from someone in Tahiti whose tan line is beginning to fade.

Let's stop giving the post office a bad time. If the ZIP code helps them hold postal rates down, let's give it a shot. This summer business leaders will be advised to add four more digits to the five-digit ZIP code we now have.

I say let's get rid of names altogether and go for the numbers. From here on in, you can call me 55585253. I've been called worse.

Besides, having no name will solve once and for all the forms we fill out that give you 1/16 of an inch-line to fill in your name and complete address.

And finally, let's get realistic about the postal rituals. Let's do away with all those funny little stamps they bounce on ink pads and stamp on letters and packages: Fragile, Hand Stamp, This Side Up, Handle With Care, Certified, Insured, Rush. They don't mean anything anyway. They're just for show.

And grow up, America, there is no phone at the post office. You've always known that. It's time to stop telling yourself that there is someone on another line dispensing information. It just rings to indulge you.

We play ball with the post office and who knows... maybe someday they'll put the drive-in mailboxes on the driver's side of the car.

News of and around the club circuit in Lubbock this week...

BEST BETS:
The League of Women Voters will have a general meeting Thursday in the community room of the new Godeke Library, 6601 Quaker. John Wilson will speak on Citibus. A soup and sandwich lunch will be served for $2. Brown baggers and non-eaters also are welcome, but if you do plan to eat the lunch, make reservations by calling 795-9718 or 795-8750. League Meetings are always open to the public.

The Lubbock Voter also reminds us that February unit meetings will not be held.
Our good friend Virginia Hodges reminds us that the Lubbock Rose Society will hold its first meeting of the new year Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Garden & Arts Center. The theme will be "Roses are for Everyone" and visiting speakers will be Mrs. James Whitson and Mrs. Ruth Carter.
Llano Estacado Audubon Society will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Garden & Arts Center, for a talk by Tom Blisard, retired Western Electric Company employee who, with his wife Evelyn, is an avid bird enthusiast and photographer. They will speak on birds and scenery of the Southwest, with slides of Corpus Christi, Arkansas, South Texas and Arizona and New Mexico.

The Association for Retarded Citizens meets Monday at Milam Children's Training Center, with election of officers and plans for the workshop to be held Feb. 28. Interested persons are reminded that only members can receive the newsletter of the organization. If you want to be placed on the mailing list, call Leslie Hendricks at 793-3530.

Officers of the 1981 Lubbock Arts Festival remind local performers that groups or individuals are being sought to participate in the Festival, scheduled for May 1-3. If you sing, dance, act, etc., call Nancy Hines, Festival Office, 763-4666 for details.

We visited the other day with the local Extension Homemakers Clubs, at Linda Pittman's invitation, and those ladies, who are always into so many interesting things, asked us to remind you that visitors and new members are always welcomed by all the clubs, listed in our club calendar each Sunday.

The National Organization for Women, (Lubbock NOW,) is planning a women's music fair for next Sunday from 2-6 p.m. at 2808 33rd Street. There will be a chance to listen to and order albums of women's music and support women artists. The public is invited.

Wednesday night readers meet at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Ouida Buzbee, to hear Merlie McCarroll review "Maria, the Potter of San Ildefonso," by Alice Marriott.

Lunch Bunch presents Floyd Turner of Orlando's Restaurant and Alternative Food Company, on "Rebound Exercise" Tuesday at Mahon. This series of lectures is open to the public; brown baggers are welcome and coffee is provided.

Lubbock Woman's Study Club meets Tuesday at 2:30 at the Women's Club. The program is "Winter Birds and the Spring Migration to our Area." Mrs. E. B. Alderson will introduce the speakers, Tommy and Evelyn Blisard, and Mrs. D. H. Mayfield, president, will preside. Members may bring guests.

Lubbock Chapter 537 of AARP meets Tuesday at 6 p.m. at the new Senior Citizen Center.

TAX SHELTERS
Take advantage of tax shelters — you don't have to be rich to shelter income from taxes. In fact, this year, the first $200 of dividend or interest is excluded from federal income taxes.

DEADLINES
Any information for a daily edition must be in our office two days in advance of publication.

Sunday edition deadlines are 5 p.m. the preceding Tuesday for articles with pictures and noon the preceding Wednesday for articles only. Only Friday and Saturday weddings will appear on Sunday; wedding announcements must run within five days of the event.

Engagement announcements must be submitted at least five weeks prior to the wedding date.

DEAR ABBY: Widow Jensen Never Got Over Her Shock

DEAR ABBY: IF LOVES TO MOVE were married to a petroleum engineer, as I am, she would soon lose her appetite for moving.

I recently completed my 72nd move! These moves have encompassed 17 foreign countries, three states and four Canadian provinces. To date, the record has been six moves in less than 11 months!

Each of our four offspring has attended over 30 different schools. Happily, none has suffered either academically or psychologically. I consider myself fortunate to have been able to spend two consecutive Christmases in the same house.

In the last 30 years, I have set up housekeeping in the bustling cities of the Far (and Near) East, in the steaming jungles of South America, and I've even pitched tents in the deserts of Saudi Arabia. I've braved native uprisings, revolutions, sandstorms, tropical floods and was left completely homeless twice through evacuations.

Small wonder my family and friends think I'm crazy, but were they to read LOVES TO MOVE, they would consider her to be totally insane! Sign me...
MOVIN' RIGHT ALONG

DEAR ABBY: LOVES TO MOVE is sitting on a gold mine! She should help others (for a fee) who hate to go through the hassles of packing and moving.

I don't think she's crazier than the men who buy a different car every other year, but I do think she's crazy if she doesn't use all that energy to earn money. If she doesn't live in a town large enough to make money helping people move, she can "move" to a bigger town. ALSO LOVES TO MOVE

DEAR ALSO: Move over for another reader who shares your view:
DEAR ABBY: Why do you think the woman who loves to move should have her head examined? Let her do her thing. And I think her husband deserves praise for understanding. I know people with sillier and more expensive hobbies. At least she is moving within the same city; that keeps the cost down.

We also moved a lot but always to another country — usually crossing an ocean. I'll bet lots of people thought we were nuts, but I enjoyed it tremendously.
LIESEL IN SEAL BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from LOVES TO MOVE made my day. My husband and I also love to move, but this is the first time we ever heard of anyone else who did. We've been married for 26 years and have moved so many times we actually lost count. (We even moved back into the same house three times!)

It's expensive and hard work. We're not young any more, and I hope our next move is to the cemetery.
CRAZY LADY

DEAR ABBY: LOVES TO MOVE answered her own question: "I'm never satisfied." I know how her children must feel, because my mother was also a mover. No sooner did we get settled in a new house when Mother found one she liked better. It was hard on us kids having to make new friends in a strange neighborhood.

I had a friend who had the same problem, only worse. Her mother moved 33 times in 14 years, and they never left the neighborhood! This friend's father woke up in bed with a neighbor lady one morning. His wife had actually moved two doors down while he was out of town, and she never told him about it. He came home in the middle of the night, let himself in the darkened house and went directly to bed. The Widow Jensen never got over the shock.

Your advice was perfect. LOVES TO MOVE needs to have her head examined.
HAVEN'T MOVED IN 35 YEARS

Dr. Elizabeth M. Whelan, ACSH Executive Director, stated "Mr. Califano's report on workplace cancer has been widely criticized in the scientific community for its flawed methods and erroneous conclusions. Unfortunately, when statistics are quoted often enough, they are accepted as fact and their origins forgotten. As a result of this investigation, we hope that consumers will develop a healthy skepticism for government pronouncements of impending disaster especially when the solution calls for increasingly restrictive regulation."

Cancer Estimates 'Exaggerated'

NEW YORK (Special) — The American Council on Science and Health (ACSH) announced the results of an investigation which concludes that government estimates of cancer in the workplace have been greatly exaggerated.

In the November/December issue of ACSH News & Views, author Ruth B. Schwartz notes that the majority of the scientists who prepared a government study suggesting that at least 20 percent of all cancers are work-related are no longer willing to defend their report. This study, which has never been published in a scientific journal, received widespread publicity when then Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Joseph Califano quoted its conclusions in a 1978 speech. However, when ACSH questioned the government scientists responsible for the report, only one was willing to defend its conclusions. The consensus among cancer experts is that five percent or less of all cancers are related to occupational factors, such as asbestos, vinyl chloride and other toxic chemicals.

Dr. Elizabeth M. Whelan, ACSH Executive Director, stated "Mr. Califano's report on workplace cancer has been widely criticized in the scientific community for its flawed methods and erroneous conclusions. Unfortunately, when statistics are quoted often enough, they are accepted as fact and their origins forgotten. Mind-Boggling Array Of Delectables To Be Shown In Houston

NEW YORK (Special) — Delectable and exciting. Two of the ways to describe the marvelous delicacies you will discover at the 6th Annual National Winter Fancy Food & Confection Show at Houston's Civic Center, Feb. 22-24.

One hundred sixty-six exhibitors, including eight foreign governments, are displaying countless fine foods to thousands of buyers who will decide what will appear on store shelves during 1981.

The annual show, sponsored by the National Association for the Specialty Food Trade and produced by the Cahners Exposition Group, promotes fine specialty foods, confections and gourmet cookware. But little promotion is needed because of the mind-boggling array of delectables that grace the show arena. A glimpse of what is to come...

Vie de France. The bread that's so French it hasn't learned to speak English yet is going to add ham and cheese croissants which will certainly prove popular.

Jos Poell of Hollands Mini-Cocktail Toast will be introduced by Jaret International.

Jacob's newly designed range of cracker items — creamcrackers, biscuits for cheese, Small Wafers, Cornish Wafers, as well as the exciting Fort's Oliver biscuits will be found with the wonderful products of Assorted Biscuits of America.

Liberty/Ramsey Imports has Craccottes, unlike any other cracker on the market. Airy, crispy and yet will not break or crumble.

The English Countr Cheese Council is promoting blue Cheshire Cheese, sim-lar to Stilton. It is an absolutely unique product in that it is produced only on one farm in all of England and no where else.

La Petite Francaise, imported French brie, is individually and elegantly wrapped in gold-foiled block and waiting for your inspection at Swissrose International, where you will also find Ziganka from Germany. It is a smooth, buttery cheese with just enough goat's milk for an intriguing taste experience.

Mozzarella made from Buffalo milk, both regular and smoked will be on hand at Crystal Food Imports booth. Don't forget to sample their Marscapone and goat cheese with truffles.

Hic-O-Ree naturally smoked pieces packed in vacuum pouches will give the consumer an opportunity to add hickory flavor to their favorite dishes.

There will be many tempting and new surprises—both domestic and imported. No wonder cheese consumption has more than doubled in the last 10 years.

Pate Forestier derives its name from the forests near Bordeaux. These wild mushrooms are hand-picked and Les Trois Petits Conchons marinate them in a mixture of white wine, cognac, Madeira wine and spices to give this pate an incomparable woody taste.

Another new offering at the same spot is Mousse Truffe. The truffles in their mousse are finely chopped to best diffuse their heavenly taste, which marries so well with the Pineau and Sherry wines.

Richter Bros./A&A Food Products will have Feyel Pate and Sanpareil Pate for your pleasure.

Lost Acres is introducing a full line of products in a new custom-made sixounce jar, including fine preserves, jellies and marmalades.

Nelsons of Aintree, imported from England by Richter Bros./A&A Foods, has expanded its line so that the seven most popular flavors of jam are available in 12 ounce jars. Acacia Honey from Hungary is something else new from the same importer.

Miel Remond — "A honey of a line" just arrived from France. It includes French Lavender, Romanian Lime Blossom, Spanish Sunflower, among other exotic tastes.

Speaking of Honey, Q-Bee Doo will be introduced by Queen Bee Gardens. It is an all-natural honey peanut brittle.

And how about Honey Hang-Up — a stained pine rack in two styles, featuring four four ounce antique style, cork-topped bottles of assorted honey.

How about Skinny Dip salad dressing with no oil or sugar. It has a tomato base with no preservatives added. Harm's Gourmet will also add a creamy, tangy dressing for salad and cole slaw without added preservatives.

Peggy Jane's Original Blue. This winner has been added to the successful line of natural salad dressings. It has a totally unique and superb taste.

Charlotte Charles has four new cheese dressings: English Stilton, Danish Blue, French Roquefort and Wisconsin Cheddar Cheese.

Rock Candy Christmas Tree ornaments may be found at Dryden & Palmer.

And Harry London's Candies tells us they are introducing its new secret product that everybody will be able to use. Can't wait to see what the creator of the Ultimate Pacifier has in store.

Lanzi Candy has a non-candy product: dry roasted coconut curls, a new all-natural treat from Costa Rica.

"Scandies" are Finland's national sweet and the favorite of Continental gourmets. They offer the rich taste of fine chocolates inside the enticing freshness of a cool mint candy shell. We can thank Atlanta for the Scandies and for bringing us from Switzerland Frigor and Cailier chocolates.

Kopper's is adding Cafe au lait Cordials, Ice Cordials, Strawberry and Creme Cordials and Cinnamon Butter Almonds to their famous assortment.

Cerreta Candy Company will introduce a new line of chocolate trophy bars. The bars are nine ounces of solid milk chocolate packaged in a mock wood grain trophy plaque box. Each has its own unique message such as, "You're My Ten".

And Redstone Foods, of course, will have Texas Jelly Beans along with their fine candies and snacks.

Van Cortland will have Dutch hot cocoa mix along with their fine 100 percent Colombian canned coffee.

New "looks" of GIFTEA will be featured by China Native Products.

In addition to the present line of four SUSAN'S TEAS, First Colony will be introducing SUSAN'S Tea Bags, including five new flavors: Tangy Apricot, Country Orchard, Lively Lemon, Really Raspberry and Strawberry Patch.

Liberty/Ramsey has two new Pomery Mustards in classic grey stone crock. Moutarde au Poivre Vert, an all-purpose mustard made according to a new formula and Moutarde de Lion which is extra strong.

Beaverton Foods will introduce new "Beaver" and "Old Spice" brands of four ounce sweet/hot mustard with honey. These will be found at the Jacob Hamburger booth.

Grosvenor Marketing Limited will have Fortnum & Mason products including mustards, chutneys and preserves.

German standards of fine quality will be on hand at C&J Willenborg and Richter Bros./A&A.

Burtens of Scotland's Highland Tea Tin Shortbreads will nestle among the goodies at Jaret International.

Liberty/Ramsey tells us the search has ended as they have Prince of Denmark Chocolate Chip Butter Cookies.

And, of course, Ferrara Foods & Confections will be there with their Danish Fairland Chocolate Chip Butter Cookies and Mount St. Michael French Butter Cookies.

A complete line of Grandma Golde Cookies including Oatmeal Raisin with Pistachio nuts and Chocolate Chips from Hills of Westchester.

NOT TO BE MISSED AT...

The H.G. Norton Co., — A.M. Looking Canning Company's new Bouillabaisse, China Bowl Trading Co., — New Chinese Cooking Wine from Hong Kong, Caviar & Fine Foods, Inc., — Chinese Beluga Caviar.

etc., etc., etc.

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A97652 ♥AQ8 ♦K52 ♣7
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Usually, we would unhesitatingly recommend rebidding your six-card major suit, but this hand is the exception. Your spades are hardly robust, but your support for partner's suit is excellent. In addition, a two spade rebid runs the risk that partner might pass when four hearts is laydown, or that you will be unable to convince partner of the quality of your heart support later in the auction. A raise to three hearts now seems to be the wisest choice.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AKQ3 ♥AQ107 ♦KQJ5 ♣6
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
Pass Pass ?

What is your opening bid?

A.—Normally, you would open the suit below the singleton—in this case, spades. Here, however, that might make it impossible for partner to respond with a weak hand containing a heart suit. To make it as easy as possible for partner to keep the auction alive, we would open one diamond. Take a demerit if you even thought about making a demand bid—that action is inconceivable with no five-card suit and only 21 HCPs.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK865 ♥A92 ♦K6 ♣J72
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass

What action do you take?

A.—First, get rid of all thoughts of game. Even if partner has a super-maximum 10 points, it is by no means sure that your combined assets will stretch to game. Once you have reached that conclusion the answer is obvious. You have balanced hand with useful cards in every suit. The fact that you have five spades is unimportant—pass.

Q.4—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ1063 ♥7 ♦K82 ♣J94
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♥ 2 ♠ ?

What action do you take?

A.—You are strong favorite to make a game—unless, of course, he hand is a complete misfit. But you do not have to run that risk because you have an alternative action available that could be far more rewarding. On defense, you should produce four tricks, possibly more. If partner also has reasonable defensive values, you could destroy East. The penalty could be juicy indeed. Double.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AKJ4 ♥83 ♦5 ♣KJ762
Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What do you respond?

A.—You have a hand that is strong enough for two forward-going bids, so there is no reason for you to distort your distribution. Start by responding in your longest suit and then bid your spades at the next turn, if it's convenient to do so. Anything but two clubs sends a demerit.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠10872 ♥AK963 ♣5 ♣AK9
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—A good hand has just become much better. You should flash the slim signal to partner as soon and as cheaply as possible—you can't be too aggressive because your trumps are weak. A jump shift to three clubs followed by a spade raise should get your message across to partner and still leave room to investigate without getting too high.

Women's Health Seminar Focuses On Drugs

Reproduction and drugs will be the major topics of discussion of the Third Annual Winter Seminar in Women's Health Saturday in El Paso.

"Almost anything a pregnant woman does can have an effect on her baby," said Billy D. Reeves, M.D., professor and associate chairman of obstetrics and gynecology at Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center. "We are so concerned with the use of drugs because certain drugs used during the stages of reproduction carry varying risks or benefits to mother and child."

The seminar is sponsored by TTUHSC

Departments of Obstetrics and Gynecology and Pediatrics. Sessions will be held at the Tech Regional Academic Health Center, 4800 Alberta St., El Paso at 8 a.m.

The conference is designed so that physicians, nurses, physician assistants and others interested in women's health can obtain and share information. Presentations will provide current perspectives on the relationship of drugs to human reproduction in all its phases and some of the cultural and social factors that lead to the use of drugs affecting reproduction.

Other discussion topics will include "Risks and Benefits," "Contraception, Preconception and Infertility," "Pregnancy" and "The Newborn."

A series of workshops on each discussion topic and a panel discussion will follow the lectures.

CITY PORK

2 lbs. boneless fresh pork shoulder picnic, cut in 1 1/2-inch cubes
2/3 cup fine saltine crumbs
1 1/2 tps. salt
1 tsp. paprika
3/4 tsp. poultry seasoning
1 large egg slightly eaten with 2 tps. milk
3 tps. shortening
1/2 cup chicken bouillon
Thread pork onto six 8-inch-long skewers. Mix crumbs, salt, paprika and poultry seasoning. Dip skewered pork into egg-milk mixture, then in crumb mixture. In a 12-inch oven-proof skillet in the hot shortening, brown skewered pork on all sides; add bouillon. Bake in the skillet, tightly covered, in a preheated 350-degree oven for 45 minutes. Continue baking, uncovered, until pork is browned and tender — 30 minutes longer. Makes 6 servings.

Hypnotized Rape Victim Yields Clues On Suspect

Lubbock police said hypnosis helped a woman frantic over being raped at her house Sunday describe her assailant to investigators at Lubbock General Hospital.

The hypnotized 21-year-old victim sketched a description of her assailant and the vehicle he fled in after attack, police said.

The woman said she was raped by a man who entered through her unlocked front door, jerked a pair of scissors from her hand and threatened to harm her if she did not do what he said.

The victim, living near the Texas Tech University campus, said she was sitting on the sofa about 4 p.m. when the man appeared. After taking the scissors, the intruder ordered the woman into a bedroom where he allegedly raped her.

Police said the woman suffered multiple bruises to the face and chest during the attack.

Following the rape, the man was seen leaving the residence, traveling west down a back alley on a large, black motorcycle. The man was described as a tall, heavy Mexican-American, between 26 and 35, wearing a dirty, gray sweatshirt and faded blue jeans. He had long, curly black hair, a beard, a scar on the upper lip and thick body hair, according to the description.

In a separate incident, police today were looking for a man who allegedly caused a traffic accident at 18th Street and Avenue X about 9:45 p.m. Sunday, then drove off leaving two injured women behind.

Kathern Ann Berry, 32, and Sandra Diana Dunn, 37, both of Lubbock, said the man ran a stop sign at the intersection and rammed their vehicle. Both women were treated at Methodist Hospital for minor injuries and later released.

The women said that before driving to the hospital they followed the man to a nearby restaurant parking lot where he stopped. They said the man told them he did not want the police called and drove west on 19th Street.

The motorist was described as a white male, about 25, with blond hair. He reportedly was traveling in a 1979 green Hornet, which police say will have damage to the right front end.

Raul Garza, 18, of 2828 Bates St. said he was shot in the arm about 9:30 p.m. Sunday while sitting in a parked car at Auburn Street and University Avenue.

Garza said he was talking to friends in another car when one of three men in a car behind him shot twice, one of the small-caliber bullets hitting him in the arm. The victim was treated and later released from Methodist Hospital.

An 18-year-old man was arrested about 10:30 p.m. Sunday after he allegedly was caught stealing a woman's purse in the Red Raider Club, 6025 Ave. A.

Police said they stopped a man on traffic violations about 12:20 a.m. today in the 5800 block of Temple Avenue, and arrested him for alleged disorderly conduct and public intoxication after they discovered he was lacking his pants.

Browning Ferris Industries on 30th

Street reportedly was burglarized between 2:30 p.m. Sunday and 3:30 a.m. today, resulting in a loss of about $11,000 worth of tires.

After filling his car with gasoline and buying a pack of cigarettes, a young man produced an automatic pistol and robbed a North Lubbock convenience store early Sunday morning.

Keith Gorham, the 19-year-old clerk at the 7-Eleven store at 313 N. Detroit Ave., told police the suspect came in the store shortly before 2 a.m. Sunday and paid for a quantity of gasoline.

The man then went back out to the store's fuel pumps, filled up the his car and came back inside the store, Gorham told police.

The man then requested and paid for a pack of cigarettes. As Gorham was getting the man's change, the customer drew a black small-caliber automatic pistol and said, "And all your money, too."

Gorham said he gave the man all the money in the cash register, and the robber returned to his car and drove away.

The suspect's older-model vehicle was last seen westbound on Colgate Street, reports show.

A Crime Eye camera in the store was activated during the robbery, and police have sent the color film to a professional processor.

The suspect was described as Mexican-American, 20 to 23 years old, 5 feet 10 to 6 feet 1, with dark shoulder-length hair. He was driving a midsize or Chevrolet car, police said.

In other activity, two Lubbock policemen and a motorist escaped injury Saturday night when a apparent sniper opened fire on them in the 1000-block of Ijalou Road.

Reports indicate Officers L.W. Casey and Malcom Mosely had stopped a pickup truck on the street about 10 p.m. when the unseen gunman fired 6 shots at them.

In his report, Casey said he parked his patrol car in front of the motorist's pickup, and Mosely stayed behind the vehicle. The two officers and the unidentified motorist were standing behind the pickup when a projectile passed near their heads and landed in a field near the street.

Casey, Mosely and the motorist then crouched behind Mosely's car. Casey said they heard a small-caliber gunshot, then another, followed by the sound of a bullet striking the pavement near the patrol car.

A fourth shot was fired over the vehicle, Casey said, followed by two more which seemed to have been fired from a greater distance than the previous shots.

Several other officers converged on the scene, but the gunman was not located, police said. Neither of the officers nor the motorist were injured in the incident.

In a separate incident, Minnie Bell Travenia told police she accidentally rammed her car into an East Second Place residence Saturday night because a man was chasing her and attempting to shoot her.

The woman's car crashed through the wall of a house at 1712 E. Second Place about 11 p.m. She was not injured.

The woman said she lost control of the vehicle because a black man in a 1974 Chevrolet Monte Carlo was chasing and shooting at her. After she crashed into the house, the suspect drove away slowly, police said.

Reports do not state who lived at the residence, but no injuries were indicated.

Legislator Eyes Parole System Change

AUSTIN (AP) — State employees went to work today at a higher pay rate, thanks to the Legislature, and lawmakers turned their attention to crime and punishment.

The passage Thursday of an $86.8 million pay raise for 170,000 state employees was the main accomplishment of the Legislature in its third week of a 4½-month session.

Gov. Bill Clements signed the 5.1 percent increase Friday, and employees will get the pay raise at the end of February.

On the Senate agenda today was a proposal by Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, to reorganize the state pardons and parole system.

Farabee's bill designates parole commissioners as state employees who would be selected by the three-member Board of Pardons and Paroles. The six independent commissioners are now appointed by the governor, chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court and presiding judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals.

The bill also provides $4 million to $5 million for local "halfway" houses for parolees to ease crowded conditions in state prisons.

An aide to Sen. Bill Meier indicated the Eulless Democrat was not ready to bring up his bill to finance $9 million-a-year in local anti-crime grants by increasing court costs.

Thirteen other measures were on the Senate calendar.

A House parliamentary maneuver has prevented state representatives from considering any proposal except those designated by the governor as emergencies.

A House committee, however, was scheduled to hear Clements' bills increasing punishment for sexually abusing children and redefining aggravated rape.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, was prepared to ask the Senate State Affairs Committee to raise the mandatory retirement age for governmental employees from 65 to 70. The minimum age for a state job would be lowered from 21 to 18.

Doggett's bill also states no Texas shall be denied employment by state or local governments "solely because of age." Exceptions are provided for law officers and firefighters if the department head feels their age would prevent them from doing their jobs.

Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, had a bill before committee to create a group insurance program for public school employees that would be administered by the Teacher Retirement System of Texas.

On Tuesday, a Senate committee has agreed to consider a resolution by Sen. Walter Mengden that asks Congress to initiate an amendment to provide for the election of federal judges, who are now appointed for life.

Mengden, R-Houston, said in his resolution federal judges "have made incredible and outrageous decisions... including the outlawing of prayer in schools and the advancing of the rights of criminals over those of law-abiding citizens."

If federal judges had to stand for election, Mengden's resolution said, "they would be less autocratic and less irresponsible in their decisions."

Letter Emerges As Key Factor In Diet Doctor Murder Trial

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) — A rambling letter Jean Harris wrote on the day she allegedly killed "Scarsdale Diet" Dr. Herman Tarnower emerged today as a key factor in her dramatic murder trial.

The 10-page letter, which Mrs. Harris wrote and mailed before she drove five hours from her Virginia home to the doctor's Purchase, N.Y., estate last March 10, has been the object of a major legal battle.

Two days after Tarnower's death, defense lawyer Joel Aurnou scooped it from the Scarsdale, N.Y., post office just minutes before investigators from the district attorney's office arrived.

After preliminary legal wrangling, the state Court of Appeals ruled in December Westchester County Judge Russell Leggett had the power to turn the letter over to the prosecution.

But by then, prosecutor George Bolen, who was to resume his cross-examination of Mrs. Harris today, had rested his case and could make no further use of the document until the Aurnou completed his case.

On Friday, while cross-examining

Mrs. Harris, Bolen asked her to describe the letter. He said it reflected her "state of mind" as she got her affairs in order and prepared for the drive to New York.

Bolen asked to see the letter and Leggett gave him the weekend to study it.

There was no mention of the letter today as Bolen resumed his deliberate, painstaking cross-examination of Mrs. Harris, who appeared drawn but in good spirits.

Bolen asked her about her responsibilities at previous jobs and the pressures they put upon her, apparently seeking to establish her temperament in the years before the shooting.

Referring to Mrs. Harris' statement last week that she took pills because she "feared running out of energy," the prosecutor asked, "How long did you feel that way?"

"For about the last 35 years," she replied.

"I'm an overachiever, Mr. Bolen," she responded.

Mrs. Harris, headmistress of the Madeira School of Girls in McLean, Va., at the time of the murder, ended her fourth day on the witness stand Friday by saying she knew her version of how she shot Tarnower was "hard to believe."

Her defense is that the doctor, her lover for 14 years, died trying to stop her from committing suicide. The prosecution claims she shot Tarnower in a jealous rage.

On the night of the murder, she said, "It was important to me for Hy not to know I was suicidal that night. I had led a private life and I wanted to die a private death."

Out-Of-Court Settlement Reached In Medical Suit

Parties involved in a federal malpractice suit pending since 1977 settled out of court over the weekend rather than face the prospects of a second hung jury.

Bob May, an airline flight controller now living in Miami, Fla., filed suit for $1.17 million in March 1979 in connection with the death of his wife a year earlier. May, widower of Stephanie May, claimed his wife died of pulmonary emboli or blood clots closing vascular passageways in the lungs because of negligent treatment by Dr. John W. Hays four days before her death.

The jury began deliberations in the case shortly before noon Saturday in U.S. District Court, but announced at 5 p.m. that they were hopelessly deadlocked. Presiding Judge Halbert O. Woodward ordered the jury to return to their deliberations this morning, but attorneys for both May and Hays agreed on an out-of-court settlement for their clients in the interim.

The plaintiff's attorney, Carroll Cobb, said this morning that he was not at liberty to disclose the actual amount of the settlement. Dr. Hays was represented by attorney Frank Murchison III.

Another jury attempted to decide the case in July 1980, but that trial ended in a hung jury as well.

The jury reportedly deadlocked 4 to 2 in favor of the defendant at the conclusion of the first trial.

Attorneys apparently decided on a settlement rather than face the prospects of trying the case a third time should another mistrial occur.

Students Mark Catholic Schools Week

Christ the King Elementary and High School are observing National Catholic Schools Week today through Friday with a variety of activities.

Students and teachers conducted a prayer service at 8:30 a.m. today, and student essays on ethnic backgrounds were judged.

Tuesday has been designated "Red and White Day" as students will dress in their school's colors. At 9:30 a.m. Tom Kawecki, Sunday School and religion director of Christ the King Catholic Church, will speak.

Students will dress in clothing reflecting their ethnic heritages on Wednesday. Classes will be dismissed at noon for a teacher appreciation luncheon sponsored by the Catholic Home & School Association. At 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Richard Peterson will speak to parents on drug abuse.

Christ the King co-pastor, the Rev. Ron Krisman, will speak at 9:30 a.m. Thursday on Catholic schools and parental involvement. An open house for the public as well as parents will be held until 3 p.m. Art work and essays will be on display, along with a "heart tree" containing photographs of students, which will be visible all week.

Marshal's Office Hurt By Freeze

BROWNSVILLE (UPI) — President Reagan's freeze on federal hiring may hit the U.S. Marshal's Service in the Southern District of Texas in a spot that already is sore.

The backlog of fugitive warrants is growing, but the number of sworn deputies to serve the warrants has decreased by one-fourth during the last several years.

Southern District officials had hoped to hire five more deputies this year, including one for Brownsville, but the president's freeze on hiring all but dashed hopes of filling the jobs.

The Southern District, a triangle that extends from Houston, to Brownsville to Laredo, has a particularly high fugitive rate because of its rural and urban makeup and its proximity to the Mexican border, said Thomas Kupferer, chief of enforcement operations for the U.S. Marshal's office.

"We have 232 people in Brownsville

Six People Injured In Apartment Fire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Six people were injured, one critically, and 30 others were left homeless after fire swept through a two-story apartment building, fire officials report.

The fire broke out about 6 a.m. Sunday in the wood-frame building south of downtown. Thirteen companies of firefighters fought the blaze for more than 20 minutes before it was extinguished, said Fire Department spokesman Ray Walker.

Jesse Moffet, 41, was in critical condition, suffering from smoke inhalation and burns on his back and face. The cause of the fire was under investigation.

Clements' Liaison Staff Pushing Pet Projects

AUSTIN (AP) — A new legislator commented the other day that Gov. Bill Clements seems to have more assistant coaches than the Cowboys' Tom Landry.

There's no indication Clements conferred with the super-organized Landry, but the Republican governor does have a legislative liaison staff larger than previous Texas governors.

After Clements' first experience with Texas lawmakers in 1979, he claimed a good batting average in pushing through some of his program. However, some of his pet projects, such as initiative and referendum and wiretapping, failed. The Legislature approved giving him more budget control, but voters turned that down.

This session, with a probable hot re-election race ahead in 1982, Clements wants to be sure his legislative program of close to 100 measures gets proper consideration.

A small task force of experienced staffers has been assembled, with each one assigned to lobby with legislators for specific issues. In times of crisis, the entire group can be mobilized to concentrate on one measure or vote.

The staff meets two or three times a week, mostly with Clements, to discuss progress and any problems.

Clements, in a departure from his 1979 actions, will be taking an active lobbying part with legislators. There will be weekly lunches with small groups of legislators, presided over by Clements.

In addition, there will be numerous one-on-one conversations between Clements and lawmakers vital to his plans.

In the 1979 session some legislators complained that a bank president could see Clements any time, but that legislators seldom got a chance to talk with him.

The day-to-day contact with legislators is done by three former lawmakers — former Reps. Jim Kaster of El Paso, Hilary Doran of Del Rio and Bob Close of Perryton. Kaster has been with Clements since taking office. Doran, a Del Rio businessman, joined the staff in 1979 and returned for this session. Close became a staff member several weeks ago.

David Dean, the governor's general counsel and head of the Criminal Justice Division, will play a big part in pushing Clements' anti-crime package. He already has appeared as a witness at hearings on reorganization of the Board of Pardons and Paroles and will play an active part in the other bills, including wiretaps for drug control.

Tobin Armstrong, wealthy South Texas rancher who is Clements' appointments secretary, works with the Senate in getting approval of the approximately 650 gubernatorial appointments made since 1979.

Paul Wrotenbery, director of budget for Clements, heads the governor's efforts to gain more control over the state spending bill.

In previous years, governors have presented their budget recommendations and sat back to see them largely ignored by the powerful House Appropriations and Senate Finance committees. This year, Wrotenbery was invited to appear before both committees and explain why Clements' recommendations should be considered.

Congress May Snag Hike In Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan didn't want to have to ask for an increase in the national debt ceiling in the first place. Now it looks like Congress will deny it to him, at least at the outset.

Scores of Republicans, longtime opponents of higher debt ceilings, may vote against the president.

The prospect is Reagan will suffer the political indignity inflicted on Jimmy Carter when he was president: defeat of a debt increase bill on the first vote, followed by 11th hour passage.

The debt ceiling increase is one of only two major orders of business on Capitol Hill this week. The other is a Senate vote scheduled Tuesday on confirmation of Raymond Donovan as labor secretary.

When the debt ceiling votes comes, many chuckling Democrats are likely to join balking GOP lawmakers, just to enjoy the spectacle of watching the Republican discomfort.

A source in the GOP leadership said only about 50 of the 191 House Republicans have promised to vote for the ceiling, and it will be almost impossible to gain a majority unless Reagan takes a personal hand in lobbying.

House Republican leader Bob Michel conceded last week that a majority of GOP votes "would be pretty tough to come by."

Reagan reluctantly asked for the $49.9 billion increase in the debt ceiling because the current limit — set to last through Sept. 30 — will be inadequate to meet the government's borrowing requirements after Feb. 18.

The ceiling has become almost meaningless as an economic tool, because it merely allows borrowing to pay debts already incurred. Failure to raise it has no effect on the budget, but can cause temporary havoc in the bureaucracy.

Republicans have made political hay with the debt ceiling over the past few years, voting against it as a bloc and forcing reluctant Democrats to support the Democratic president to pass it.

Now the shoe is on the other foot, and many Republicans are snared by their campaign vows to oppose further debt increases.

"There are 45 to 50 members on my side who aren't going to vote for a debt increase, period," said Michel.

The Donovan nomination has sparked controversy because of allegations linking him with organized crime.

The New Jersey construction executive has denied the allegations and the FBI said it found no evidence to support them.

The Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee last week recommended confirmation on an 11-0 vote, but five Democrats voted "present," saying there still were doubts about the allegations.

The five, including Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., ranking minority member of the committee, released a report Saturday in which they said Donovan had not been cleared of anything.

"The Federal Bureau of Investigation has been unable either to corroborate or to disprove the many serious charges against Mr. Donovan," the Democrats said.

Bank Drops Prime Rate

NEW YORK (UPI) — Morgan Guaranty Trust, the country's fifth-largest bank, today lowered its broker loan rate to 19 percent from 20 percent. A major Michigan bank cut its prime rate a half point to 17 1/2 percent.

Michigan National, a holding company for 25 banks that ranks 35th in size in the nation, has been offering an 18 percent prime rate since last Dec. 19 when it reduced the rate from 21 percent.

Stanford C. Stoddard, Michigan National chairman, said in a telephone interview that while his is primarily a consumer bank, business loans "have increased a bit" since it posted the lower prime rate in December.

"Sure, our earnings have suffered, they're down about 10 percent from last year," Stoddard said. "But we're based in a state where unemployment is high and the economy is troubled. We're hoping that our stand will keep some pressure to bring rates down."

In addition to that, the audit showed that the Reagan campaign exceeded the $14 million national spending limit on the primaries by $77,387.82.

Under the Watergate-inspired campaign reform act, a candidate cannot spend in any one state an amount greater than 16 cents times the voter age population of the state. The limit is not a problem in most states, but is critical in New Hampshire, the site of the nation's first primary.

In 1980 Reagan scored a key victory over George Bush in New Hampshire — reversing the outcome of the caucuses the month before.

The audit found several major con-

Mercury Dips To Frosty 13 In City, 7 At Dimmitt

A-J News Services

Arctic air spilled southward across the Midwest into Texas today, as genial January became frigid February on the South Plains. Temperatures fell to 13 degrees in Lubbock this morning and even lower in the area.

The forecast is for a Groundhog Day high in the mid-40s this afternoon, a low tonight in the low 20s and a high Tuesday near 50.

Overnight low temperatures over the South Plains included 7 at Dimmitt, 9 at the Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge, 10 at Olton and Silvertown and 12 at Morton, Muleshoe and Spur.

Fair skies are forecast for today and Tuesday, with variable winds of 5 to 10 mph today and tonight becoming southwesterly at five to 10 mph Tuesday.

In Punnxsutawney, Pa., a groundhog known as Punnxsutawney Phil poked his head out of his burrow at dawn today, saw his shadow and disappeared for what is now expected to be another six weeks of winter.

Lubbock's Prairie Dog Pete also got a good look at his shadow as a brilliant sun helped take some of the keen edge off wintry temperatures this morning.

Winter took a vacation in January, however, as the average monthly temperature was 41.7 degrees, or 2.6 degrees above normal, the National Weather Service reported today.

Its highest reading of the month was 76 on Jan. 24.

The month was dry as well as unseasonably warm, and its precipitation total, .32 of an inch, was .23 below normal.

Lubbock and the South Plains remained dry Sunday night as rainstorms brewed downstate. Statewide reports included .87 at Beaumont, .61 at Galveston and .23 at Houston.

The extended West Texas forecast calls for fair skies and a slight warming trend Wednesday through Friday.

Farther to the north, arctic winds gusting across the Plains and Great Lakes states piled newly fallen snow into large drifts and turned rain-soaked roadways into treacherous ice today. Alabama cleaned up from gale-force winds that uprooted trees and knocked out electricity.

At least nine highway fatalities were blamed on icy roads — four in Iowa, three in Nebraska and two in Pennsylvania.

In Salt Lake City, a cross-country skier rescued from a weekend avalanche in Utah's Big Cottonwood Canyon died without regaining consciousness.

Daniel A. Lafave, 30, of Salt Lake City, was ski-touring with two teen-age boys near Cardiff Fork when he apparently triggered a snow slide. It took rescuers nearly one hour to locate Lafave's body, buried beneath 5 feet of snow.

A winter storm that left a blanket of snow over Colorado's mountain and prairie areas created treacherous driving conditions and resulted in an avalanche warning for backcountry travelers.

Steamboat Springs reported about 15 inches of snow and Franktown 7 inches. Ski areas generally received 4 to 6 inches.

Blowing snow was reported over the eastern half of Iowa today and gale warnings were in effect for the Great Lakes and along the mid and north Atlantic coast.

Most of those contacted said there was no business group to help fight the change, but that the controversy may help revive interest in such an organization.

Mayor Bill McAlister said this morning a letter was being delivered to store owners affected by the change, inviting them to meet with city officials on Thursday at a public meeting room at the library.

Rolfer Offers To Treat Pig

DENVER (UPI) — If rolling is good for humans, it's good enough for Ken Wiltse's 3-month-old pig.

Miss Piggy's mother sat on her when she was a baby, leading to a spinal disorder that has made it increasingly difficult for her to walk, Wiltse said.

Initially, man and pig hiked about a mile a day, but Miss Piggy began having trouble and now she can only drag her hind legs behind her.

"She'll get up to 300 pounds. I can just see me picking her up and setting her on the couch," said Wiltse.

One of Wiltse's neighbors, however, has a possible solution. He's offered to apply his talents as a rolfer. Rolfers try to loosen knotted muscles through a technique that, in humans, is aimed at getting the person to let go of pent-up emotions.

Following the canvass of election results, Whitworth and board chairman Max Wiser were sworn into office by the board's attorney, Elmer East.

At East's suggestion, the district board agreed to hold the $100 monthly fees for office for Whitworth and Wiser until a district court has decided the outcome of the election.

Gilkerson was not specific about when the election contest suit would be filed, but noted that it must be filed within the next 30 days.

To void the outcome of the election, Miller must prove that enough illegal votes were cast to have changed the results.

The street-widening proposal, which is expected to go before the City Council Feb. 12, affects University Avenue from Fourth to 19th Streets. City officials say the widening is needed to improve traffic flow on the busy thoroughfare.

Under the plan, there would be three northbound lanes and two southbound lanes on University Avenue from Fourth to 16th Streets. After 16th Street, University Avenue would become six lanes — three in both north and south directions.

The proposal also calls for fewer left turn lanes onto University Avenue for westbound traffic traveling from downtown toward the campus. For traffic northbound on University Avenue, there will be only three intersections — at Broadway, Sixth and 15th Streets — available for left turns into the campus.

Except at those intersections, all of University Avenue between Fourth and 19th Streets will be divided by brick medians and shrubbery plantings.

Since the election, the ballot boxes have been stored in a small storage room adjoining Segrest's office in the lake administration building.

Miller said he would request that the absentee voting box be removed from the administration building to the county courthouse or another agreed upon location.

Peru, Ecuador Seeking Truce

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Peru and Ecuador each called for a cease-fire after five days of skirmishing along a disputed stretch of their Andean border, but each reiterated its claim to the territory and demanded that the other recognize it.

Peru asserted Sunday night that all Ecuadorean forces had been driven from Peruvian territory and said its troops "have been ordered to cease firing when the adversary adopts a similar measure and abstains from any act of aggression."

Several hours later, Ecuadorean President Jaime Roldos called for a cease-fire that "respects the territorial integrity of Ecuador." His government admitted the loss of one of its three military posts in the remote, mountainous area, but claimed ground and air fighting was continuing for another one.

Both governments sent their foreign ministers to Washington for an emergency debate by the Organization of American States today on the border flareup.

In Brazil, the ambassadors of the United States, Argentina and Chile met with Brazilian officials to seek ways to end the conflict. The four countries negotiated an end to the 1942 Peru-Ecuador border conflict.

The two neighbors on the northwest coast of South America have been squabbling over 70,000 square miles of territory in the Condor mountain range for more than 40 years. In 1941, they fought a war in which there were more than 500 dead and wounded on both sides. In 1942, the treaty negotiated by Argentina, Brazil, Chile and the United States awarded the territory to Peru, but in 1951 Ecuador claimed it signed the agreement under duress and abrogated it.

Peru's objective in the fighting that began last Wednesday has been to wipe out the three military posts it said Ecuador established in the area last month.

"Peruvian forces took possession at 4:40 p.m. CST of vigilance post PV4, completing the total possession and full domination of national territory on the eastern slope of the Cordillera of the Condor," Peru's official news agency said Sunday.

Ecuador acknowledged the loss of its larger Paquisha post, but claimed its ground and air forces were repelling the attack on PV4 "with valor and energy."

The Peruvian government reported Saturday that its forces had driven the Ecuadoreans from the third post, Mallalco, about 12 miles from Paquisha.

Each side has claimed it inflicted heavy casualties on the other, but so far Ecuador has acknowledged only two of its soldiers killed while Peru has admitted to one.

Washington (UPI) — A government audit showed today that Ronald Reagan's primary campaign made more than $200,000 in illegal expenditures — much of it by exceeding the legal spending limit in the New Hampshire primary.

If the Federal Election Commission adopts the audit results, the Reagan campaign will have to repay the illegal expenses to the government.

The audit showed that the Reagan campaign exceeded two federal spending limits.

Former OSHA Head Fears Axing Of Regulations

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The former head of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration said in Lubbock today she fears President Reagan could take a "meat ax" approach to eliminating formerly set OSHA standards, but added the American people must let the government know their stand on the issue.

Eula Bingham, assistant secretary of labor under the Carter administration, said at a news conference this morning she does not believe the new president will be "deliberately destructive" toward OSHA, but admitted she fears a sudden reversal of some regulations passed under the former presidency.

Miss Bingham, who is in town to speak under the sponsorship of the Texas Tech University College of Engineering, said she believes under her tenure the agency was successful in dropping some regulations, but said she did not take a "meat ax approach." The standards were "phased out," not just suddenly cut, she said. But the former OSHA director said the people of the United States are responsible for letting the government know how they feel about moves that will affect them. "I believe it is up to the people in this country to say what they want and expect out of the federal government," Miss Bingham said, adding that she believes politicians are responsible to their constituents.

She also spoke of the problems that will be facing American workers during the current decade. "Chemicals will remain a problem in the 80s," she said, but attributed part of the concern to the "failure of workers frequently to know the chemicals he or she is working with."

Miss Bingham said she has "never believed" the federal and state governments alone could eliminate all the hazards in workplaces. "The workers should be able to identify the hazards in our workplaces," she said, adding that both employers and workers must fight dangers together with the tools provided by agencies like OSHA.

The three-year director of OSHA, now teaching at the University of Cincinnati School of Medicine, said another concern for workers in future years is the design of equipment and work areas that will fit their needs and prevent accidents.

She said there is research going on now in Europe into the causes of accidents. "People believe the carelessness of workers causes accidents. But many times it's the work practices and the design of the job, not the worker."

The United States "has not come to grips" with the fact that equipment should be designed to fit the physiological needs of people, Miss Bingham said. "The Europeans are way ahead. They understand the importance of designing a drill or jackhammer that doesn't vibrate or cause muscular-skeletal disease."

Indeed, she said, the Europeans "are going to outcompete us," noting that "people are going to buy tools that are not noisy, that don't vibrate. If we don't think it's important in the United States, we're going to be pressured into believing so" by European advances, she said.

Miss Bingham also reviewed the strides OSHA made under her direction, particularly in the refocusing of OSHA activities away from nitpicking regulations toward serious threats to the lives of American workers.

She said the agency had "a fair amount of success" in that redirection effort, but said she regretted not being able to recruit as many professionals to assist in the agency as she wanted.

Miss Bingham explained she put a premium on the hiring of professionals such as physicians and engineers, to eliminate the bureaucrats, continuing a trend begun just before the Carter administration. She added that she hopes the Reagan administration will continue that trend.

"It's very important in terms of recruiting qualified persons who understand occupational safety and or health," she said.

Miss Bingham was scheduled to speak at 4 p.m. in the Electrical Engineering Annex at Texas Tech. She is the third speaker in the Halliburton Distinguished Lecture Series in the College of Engineering.

Reagan Vows To Keep South Korea Forces

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan pledged today to South Korean President Chun Doo-hwan that the United States would not reduce the level of its troops in South Korea or the Pacific.

"We shall maintain the strength of our forces in the Pacific area," Reagan said as he and the South Korean leader finished a White House meeting.

Standing outside the White House with Reagan at his side, Chun said: "President Reagan gave me firm assurances that the present level of U.S. military forces in Korea will be maintained."

Reagan promised that the United States would maintain similar alliances with the Pacific nations as will "our European allies."

Chun, arriving at the White House shortly before 11 a.m. EST in a driving rainstorm, was greeted by the president and by Vice President George Bush, who escorted Chun inside for his hour-long meeting with the president.

Chun's visit is intended to symbolize a return to normalcy in Korean-American relations after four years of friction over human rights and other issues during Jimmy Carter's tenure as president.

Carter began a phased withdrawal of U.S. ground troops in 1977, but the process was suspended in 1979 after North Korea's military capability was found to be greater than had been believed.

The suspension was subject to review this year, but officials, asking not to be identified, said Chun was expected to receive assurances there will be no further troop reductions. There now are about 40,000 U.S. troops in South Korea.

Chun's visit here caps an unusually hectic period of political activity in South Korea. Over the past two weeks, Chun has invited North Korean leader Kim Il-sung to visit Seoul, commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of opposition leader Kim Dae-jung and lifted some restrictions imposed on political activity after the 1979 assassination of President Park Chung-hee.

American officials said Chun's visit will enhance his prestige internationally and in South Korea, where he is expected to receive a mandate for a seven-year term in indirect presidential elections later this month.

Seven full-page advertisements heralding Chun's arrival appeared in the first 20 pages of today's editions of The Washington Post. The advertisements were placed by Korean Air Lines, the U.S.-Korea Economic Council, and several South Korea-based businesses.

The visit also was aimed at restoring international confidence in the South Korean economy, which declined in 1980 after several years of high growth.

Last year was one of the most difficult for South Korea since the Korean War ended 27 years ago. Aside from economic decline and political uncertainty, there were violent anti-government demonstrations during the spring.

Relations with Washington were strained when Chun consolidated his power.

Launch Of Space Shuttle Delayed Again

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The launch of the first space shuttle, already running two years behind original plans, will be delayed at least a month beyond its scheduled March 17 date.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington confirmed the delay, after The Associated Press learned about it from sources at Kennedy Space Center here.

The sources said the latest delay was due to a problem with the insulation of the external tank, which will feed the orbiter Columbia's three main engines during flight and orbit.

A cork-type material is used for insulation of the external tank's aluminum skin. Space agency officials said that during the tanking operation last week, some of the insulation panels were separated from the skin of the tank.

Inside the tank is one container for liquid hydrogen, which is minus 400 degrees Fahrenheit, and another container for liquid oxygen, which is minus 297 degrees, officials said. When the first fueling of the tank was conducted last week, officials found an area of about 50 square feet in the forward section, where the tank attaches to the Columbia, in which the insulation came loose, or "de-bonded."

As an emergency measure, engineers have put a cargo netting with nylon bands over the area and attached them to each of the two solid rocket boosters on the vehicle. There is a solid rocket booster on each side of the external tank.

During flight, the panels must be firmly attached to the tank to protect it and the fuels inside and thus insure the engines will run properly.

Officials were trying to determine how much further damage might be discovered or caused during a flight itself.

Spokesmen said it wasn't known whether flight readiness firing tests scheduled for Feb. 10 would be postponed. Those tests are considered critical in determining the date of launch because it will be the first time all three engines are fired together in clusters. Most officials believe it could take several efforts to complete the tests.

If a test firing is aborted, it could take from two days to two weeks to stage another.

The winged, three-rocket Columbia is the first of four shuttle spacecraft designed to replace the one-shot rockets currently used in the U.S. space program. Once in operation, the shuttles, which will glide back to Earth for re-use, will carry satellites into orbit and will be used for manned orbital missions and various scientific experiments.

Earlier technical problems, particularly with installing the thousands of thermal tiles on the spacecraft's exterior that will protect astronauts from the searing heat of re-entry, have pushed the shuttle behind schedule.

Ella Grasso Reported In Critical Condition

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Former Gov. Ella T. Grasso, whose battle with liver and intestinal cancer forced her to leave office, was semi-comatose and in critical condition today, a hospital spokesman said.

"Her vital signs are still stable, but her overall condition has deteriorated," James Battaglio said Sunday. "When she is awake, she is lucid. However ... she has slipped in and out of a subconscious state."

The 61-year-old Mrs. Grasso, who has been in Hartford Hospital since early December, began to worsen early Sunday.

Battaglio said she awoke at 8 p.m. and recognized members of her family, then slipped back into a "comatose state."

The former governor's husband, Thomas, and two children, James and Susanne, were at her bedside most of the day.

Before Mrs. Grasso's condition worsened, doctors had planned to conduct her fifth session of chemotherapy later this week.

Repair Funds Added To Bill

Gov. Bill Clements has added $126,000 in repair funds for Texas Tech University to his emergency appropriation list, according to Jesse George, aide to Sen. E.L. Short (D-Tahoka).

George explained that this means the request could be acted on within the first 30 days of the legislative session which began Jan. 13.

In submitting the bill, Short called the repair money an emergency situation.

The lump sum would cover three separate items. Tech asked for $85,000 to repair damage to the Pantex Farm and Beef Cattle Research Center caused by a tornado on Oct. 30, 1979. Officials want $2,952 to repair damage to Tech's Administration Building caused by a fire Dec. 31, 1979. The rest, $40,102.25, would be used to repair damage to the Lubbock campus caused by a severe windstorm Aug. 3, 1980.

Woman Wounds Intruder During Alleged Burglary

Lubbock police said a 24-year-old man shot while allegedly burglarizing a house Sunday night appeared at Lubbock General Hospital where he was listed in serious condition today with a .32-caliber gunshot wound in the left thigh.

A hospital spokesman said the injured man came to the emergency room about 12:15 a.m. today. The man, who had not been charged early this afternoon, was not immediately identified.

Jeann Barree, 36, of 1923 Parkway Drive said she arrived home shortly after 10 p.m. and discovered someone had broken into her home. The woman then searched her home and found some of the family's belongings had been gathered together in an apparent burglary attempt.

Mrs. Barree woke her daughter, Gwendolyn McKnight, and her 3-year-old grandson, both of whom had been sleeping on a sofa in the living room. The women found a man standing in a bedroom closet with a quilt over his head, Mrs. Barree said.

"So I got my gun and shot him, and he dropped the quilt," Mrs. Barree explained. She said she then recognized the man, adding that he did not have permission to be in her home.

Mrs. McKnight then notified police and requested an EMS ambulance for the wounded burglar, whom Mrs. Barree was holding at gunpoint. The man had suffered a single .32-caliber gunshot to the left thigh.

But she said the man "worked his way" toward the front door and began walking away from the residence, his leg bleeding profusely.

Mrs. Barree said she did not want to kill the intruder because she knew him, but she fired several shots over his head in an attempt to get him to return and wait for police to arrive.

NM Prisoners Say Another Riot Will Not Occur

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — A year after a bloody riot that claimed the lives of 33 inmates, survivors of the violence insist it won't happen again.

But little has been done to address the problems that sparked the prison takeover last Feb. 2-3, inmates say, and inmate attacks on other prisoners go on.

In addition, some prisoners worry that younger inmates — those who never saw the mutilated bodies and pools of blood — seem attracted to the excitement of a melee.

"There won't be another riot," prisoner Donald Winfield, 27, said in a recent interview. "The guys who went through it before wouldn't go through something like that again."

"The new guys, they think it's all cool. 'Yeah, let's riot.'"

On the eve of the first anniversary of the riot, authorities reported all was calm at the prison south of Santa Fe.

Outside the penitentiary, about 100 people took part in a weekend observance, marching in silence and listening to anti-death penalty speeches.

One of the 12 guards held hostage by the rioting inmates, Larry Mendoza, drove past the prison Saturday, stopped briefly and said he was "happy to be alive and free."

All of the hostages were released. But a year later, none is employed, an apparent effect of being shaken by their treatment at the hands of their captors.

Many of the inmates who died during the 36-hour takeover were believed, rightly or wrongly, to be "snitches" who informed on fellow inmates in return for favors from the guards.

Nine inmates have so far been indicted in two slayings, and officials say as many as 125 may be named in indictments before the investigation is over.

Prisoners say that except for a reduction in the population — from 1,156 at the time of the riot to the current 544 — little has been done to address such grievances as harassment and brutality by guards, lack of educational, vocational or recreational opportunities and poor quality food.

Taxpayers Bear Burden Of Rising Arson Rate

By RICHIE D. REECER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock residents, though they may not realize it, are already paying for the record number of deliberately set fires in the city in the last year. And the burden appears likely to become even heavier in the next two years as insurance rates begin to climb.

And fire investigators warn that although the frequency of arrests in cases of deliberate fires has increased with 80 incidents cleared last year, the incidence

"Every fire we have leaves some damage that somebody has to repair," the fire marshal said. "People have been lulled into a sense that, 'If it doesn't affect me, then it's not a crime,' but it does affect them."

City taxpayers foot the bill for some set fires in obvious ways, and they end up paying for others in not-so-obvious ways.

Arson investigators spent 2,483 man-hours last year probing 154 set fires, Stokes said. Lubbockites pay the salaries of the firemen and investigators, as well as the costs of buying and maintaining expensive equipment.

The more subtle costs involve the fire insurance premiums paid by Lubbock businessmen and homeowners, Stokes said.

Every fire recorded in Lubbock affects state-regulated insurance premiums, which are directly tied to the amount of insured fire losses in the city, Stokes said.

Insurance rates for each Texas city are determined by the ratio of insurance premiums received to the amount of insurance claims paid to policy holders.

For example, Lubbock property owners paid $8,187,798 in fire insurance premiums from 1975 through 1979, according to statistics compiled by the State Board of Insurance of Texas. Fire insurance claims totaling $4,225,047 were paid to property owners during the same time frame.

Insured losses were 51 percent of premiums paid during the five years, and fire insurance rates here remained the same.

If the ratio had dropped below 50 percent, Stokes said, property owners would have received a 5 percent discount on their premiums for the next year. If, however, the ratio was more than 60 percent, rates would have increased by the same 5 percent.

Lubbock policyholders have enjoyed a 5 percent credit in recent years, but several major arson fires in 1980 could cause those rates to jump. The insurance board will determine fire records based on insured fire losses in late March or early April, Stokes said.

The board, however, will consider only losses incurred through the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1980.

Two of the city's most costly fires — involving La Quinta Motor Inn, 601 Ave. Q, and the New West club, 4138 19th St. — occurred after the Sept. 30 deadline. So property owners may not feel the effects of the fires until 1982.

Damages to the New West were estimated at $600,000, but Stokes said the insured loss on the contents and structure totaled $425,000. The Dec. 30 blaze is still under investigation, and Stokes said he expects arson and burglary charges to be filed soon. A suspect in that case was scheduled for a polygraph examination Friday but investigators said he refused to undergo the questioning on advice from his attorney.

The lobby of La Quinta Motor Inn was heavily damaged by an explosion and fire Oct. 20, 1980. Damages there were estimated at more than $100,000.

With the losses from those two blazes alone totaling more than $500,000, Lubbockites stand a good chance of seeing higher insurance rates next year.

Stokes suggested several ways in which citizens can prevent set fires and save themselves and others a great deal of money.

"Juries are not giving tough enough sentences (for arson)," he said. "Arson is one of the most heinous crimes there is. People die in fires."

Stokes said he feels arsonists should be charged with attempted murder if they set fire to a building occupied by people. Under Texas law, the maximum penalty an arsonist can receive is a 20-year prison term if no one is injured in the fire.

If someone is injured in a deliberately set fire, the arsonist could be sent to prison for 99 years or life, Stokes said. And if an arsonist kills someone by setting fire to a building, he could be convicted of capital murder and sentenced to death, the fire marshal said.

In addition to urging stronger sentences for convicted arsonists, Stokes said individuals can prevent small neighborhood fires by keeping the areas around their homes, particularly the alleys, free from garbage and other flammable materials.

The majority of vandalism fires in Lubbock occur when juveniles set fire to lawns, fences, garbage or other debris often found in residential alleys.

One Lubbock youth last year admitted setting countless blazes just for the fun of seeing the fire trucks rush to the scene. Last year, fire officials referred 27 juveniles to the Lubbock County Juvenile Probation Office because they purposely started fires.

Motives for arson vary, but the most common are insurance fraud and revenge, and Stokes feels the arson rate is "definitely" related to economic conditions.

"As money gets tight and harder to get, people start looking at what amount of insurance they have on a building," he said. Property owners realize they can make more money by torching their own home or business and collecting the insurance than by simply selling the property.

"But some people will do it for the money whether times are bad or not," Stokes added.

B Local State
Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
Monday Evening, February 2, 1981 of arson may become even more frequent as the economy continues its slump.

"We've got to stop this thing one way or another," said Fire Marshal Robert Stokes. "It's going to require a conscious effort from all citizens."

In 1980, Lubbock firefighters responded to 597 deliberately set fires, Stokes said, compared to 490 such fires in 1979, an almost 22 percent increase.

Most of those blazes involved objects other than dwellings or businesses, such as fences, debris and garbage dumpsters, but Stokes points out that Lubbock taxpayers bear the brunt of minor fires as well as major ones.

Kidnapping Of Theater Manager Highlights Crime Line List

CRIME LINE Inc. this week the Jan. 24 aggravated kidnapping of a south Lubbock theater manager, apparently by men who believed he was carrying a large amount of cash.

The man said he carried the theater bank bags to the parking lot, but got a "bad feeling" when he saw a red van with two men inside parked next to his vehicle. He took the cash back into the theater, then returned outside to his vehicle when the van drove away.

He entered his vehicle, but it would not start. Then, a man wearing a dark ski mask opened the car door and pointed a large blue steel revolver at the victim's face. He pulled the manager from his car, forcing him into the back of the van face down.

The masked man struck the manager in the back with the gun, asking him threateningly for the money. Another man drove the van while the two tried to convince the manager to give them the money.

The men then called the theater to have the employees give them money. Finally, the men left the van and manager, who was tied with flex cuffs, in a south Lubbock parking lot. The van was found to have been stolen.

The armed suspect is described as an 18-to 25-year old white male wearing a dark coat and white-and-black tennis shoes. The other was a white male in his early 20s. He wore a dark ski mask, dark ski coat, dark pants and white-and-black tennis shoes. He had some type of police scanner.

Crime Line offers a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of the suspects. Anyone having such information is urged to call Crime Line at 741-1000. Informants may remain anonymous.

Crime Line is supported entirely by private donations. Tax-deductible contributions may be mailed to Crime Line Inc. at P.O.

Box 2000, Lubbock, 79457.

A $300 reward is offered for information concerning fugitive Eddie Taylor, wanted for felony theft of services.

The man is described as a 26-year-old white male, 5 foot 11, 126 pounds with black hair and blue eyes.

Information concerning fugitive Robert Parra, wanted for felony theft, will bring a $300 reward from Crime Line. He is described as a 39-year-old Mexican male, 5 foot 6 and 140 pounds with black hair and brown eyes.

A $300 reward is offered for information concerning the Tuesday burglary of a home in which loss was estimated at $1,350.

Police were called to 3708 Ave. E about 6:20 p.m. Tuesday, where the victim said the rear door to his home had been kicked open. Taken was a J.C. Penney AM/FM eight-track player, two speakers, a silver series model SS1450 Bowman A/FM cassette, a 12-gauge shotgun, two pellet guns, a miniature grandfather clock and assorted toys, sheets and bedspreads.

Texas Senators Praise Oil Deregulation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both Texas senators, long considered staunch supporters of the energy industry, are applauding President Reagan's decision to remove oil price controls eight months early.

"This reaffirmation of the basic nature of the free enterprise system is a major milestone on the road to energy independence," Sen. John Tower, the state's Republican senator, said in a statement.

He called it a signal that Reagan intends to get the United States economy back to a healthy track without delay.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, a Democrat, told reporters it was good energy policy to remove the controls because oil production will be stimulated over the long term.

He said the nation would have been better off if the price controls had not been put into effect in the first place.

"I frankly believe it will lead to an increase in conservation," Bentsen said about Reagan's decision, announced Wednesday.

The senator said evaluating the decision as economic policy was a tougher question, because it would be inflationary in the short run.

"When you decontrol prices, there is always some economic pain that takes place," he said.

Tower said the Reagan administration by its action recognized "the fundamental and unavoidable fact that it costs money to explore for energy in today's world. Much of our remaining oil reserves can be acquired only through expensive processes, and we cannot expect industry to obtain that oil unless its expenditure can be recovered."

Did Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, the veteran San Antonio Democrat, threaten to bolt the Democratic Party if he denied the chairmanship of the House banking subcommittee on housing that he was in line to get?

Gonzalez, who was named chairman of the banking subcommittee on housing and community development Tuesday by a healthy margin of 15-7, claims his message was distorted.

"I never use that kind of tactic. I never address myself in that fashion to the speaker," Gonzalez said about the reported threat. "I never threatened anybody that way. ... As Sam Rayburn used to say, I'm a Democrat without prefix, suffix or apology."

What the congressman said he did say, at a closed Texas delegation lunch meeting, was that the issue about whether he got the subcommittee chairmanship had been brought to the local level by his opponents.

Gonzalez said therefore he would be undercut in his own district, and as a result the staunch Democratic vote there would be trimmed as well, if he were denied the chairmanship.

"Look, if I'm shafted," Gonzalez said he told his colleagues: "You will in effect have kicked me out. You will compel me to interpret that no other way back home other than as a repudiation of me as a Democrat."

He added that he went out of his way to emphasize that he would always be a Democrat.

Rep. Jerry Patterson, a fourth-term Democrat from California, was Gonzalez's opponent for the chairmanship.

TI Income, Sales Rise

DALLAS (UPI) — Texas Instruments reported record net sales of $4.1 billion and record net income of $212.2 million for 1980.

TI Chairman Mark Shepherd Jr. and President J. Fred Bucy Sunday said net sales increased $850.6 million — 26 percent — over 1979 while net income increased 23 percent. Earnings per share were up 22 percent to $9.22.

Shepherd and Bucy said increased supplies in the computer parts industry have caused price problems.

"These market conditions are likely to prevail well into 1981 and together with greater depreciation of expenses, will mean increasing pressure on semiconductor profitability," they said. "This outlook has caused us to implement reduced work schedules in certain opportunities, as announced in December 1980."

(TI, Lubbock's largest employer, recently announced the layoff of about 100 employees in the company's Consumer Products Division here.)

FULL FACILITIES NOW IN LUBBOCK, ODESSA, AMARILLO

Western Clarklift And Supply Continues Tradition Of Growth

Throughout its history, the record of Western Clarklift & Supply, Inc. has been that of service, quality in every product, and continued growth.

Affording finest in materials handling equipment, every operation and every department of Western Clarklift & Supply is geared to serve.

Graphic example of this growth and service is the recent establishment of its Odessa facility, a complete service establishment affording new and used equipment sales, parts, rental, and allied lines from its 2410 Marco Ave. location in Odessa, phone 915-563-4832.

A full-operation Amarillo facility is on the job, also, at 6640 Canyon Drive in Amarillo.

The Lubbock-based operation serves in Lubbock from its modern and expanded quarters at 118 East Slaton Road, phone 745-4201.

With these three locations, Western Clarklift & Supply, Inc. offers right-at-home service throughout the Panhandle, South Plains and Permian Basin.

With a dealership in Lubbock since the early '40s, and with the present Clarklift organization here incorporated in '71, Western Clarklift has been tested and proven time and again, with an enviable record posted in every department.

The Lubbock facility, easily reached and prominently marked on the Slaton highway, involves some 14,500 square feet under one roof, including a big 7,250 ft. service department. The parts department occupies 2,250 square feet.

A special room is equipped with latest training aids, with the emphasis on product knowledge for staff personnel, with customer-oriented presentations including mechanical training and safe driving.

Located on more than two acres of property, the Lubbock Western Clarklift & Supply building is functionally attractive, inside and outside, primarily of steel construction with finish including exposed aggregate concrete panels.

Joe Bob Johnston is president, with Danny Johnston as sales manager, and with Don Keller and Ray McGee branch managers of the Amarillo and Odessa facilities respectively.

It seems that Western Clarklift & Supply has recognized and provided all the elements necessary for meeting materials-handling lift truck needs. The product needs no introduction to those recognizing and appreciating quality and performance.

Western Clarklift, this year marking its 10th anniversary, is big enough and is close enough to the customer to serve rapidly, efficiently and economically.

Add to the full parts supply and impressive stock the situation of a well-manned staff dedicated to customer service, and one correctly can conclude that Western Clarklift's image and record of reliability is no happenstance.

So... why shop around when there is one firm in West Texas, the Western Clarklift & Supply, Inc., that traditionally measures up, progressing with the area and its industry.

"Whether your business involves warehousing, wholesale, compress, manufacturing, lumber, processing, meat packing or many other operations, a lift truck likely is indispensable. Let Western Clarklift & Supply assist from its Lubbock, Odessa or Amarillo locations.

"Remember, bigness is more than size at Western Clarklift; it is a way of serving you, the valued customer."

Cater Caddy Southern Sea Innovation Makes For Easy, Delicious Luncheons

"Cater Caddy" is the time-saving and money-saving answer for business luncheons, club luncheons... or any occasion when you are getting together for lunch.

"Cater Caddy" is another of the popular innovations of Southern Sea, the home-owned Lubbock firm affording still other services through its various departments... Southern Sea restaurants at 10th & Q and 73rd & Indiana, a superb catering service, new banquet and meeting room facilities at the Commander's Room, and good food and service without exception.

Still More Coming (Watch for the salad bars soon to be offered at each Southern Sea!)

One rightfully can expect great things from Southern Sea... such as its delicious fried chicken, fish and other items on a thoughtfully varied menu, etc., and the "Cater Caddy" fits in handsomely with this concept of customer consideration.

"Call us the day before and we'll have your meals ready for you to pick up in the easily handled Cater Caddy. Choose from the wide menu or any one of the three delicious buffet-type meals.

The Cater Caddy is so convenient that it easily can be carried and will fit on the car seat.

With Cater Caddy, one has a choice of seven entrees: chicken, fish and chicken, barbeque, chicken bits, roast beef, ham and turkey.

It all can be summed in this: "If you're getting together for lunch, call us today and we'll make you a hero!"

Simply call 799-2099. Southern Sea owners Robert and Priscilla Sims have been prominent on the Lubbock restaurant scene for over six years as founders and owners-operators of their own establishments. They serve superbly at each location and in each department and with every service, folks have learned.

"Once you have relied upon Southern Sea for any of its services, you will discover the reason your friends and neighbors probably already have the Southern Sea habit!"

Modern Chevrolet, Furr's, Inc. Ink $1-Million-Plus Contract

Modern Chevrolet Co., at Avenue Q & 41st Street in Lubbock, salutes Furr's Inc., and proudly makes joint announcement with the Furr's organization of a contract signing involving excess of $1.25 million for leasing of 140 new passenger cars and trucks for use by Furr's managers and sales personnel throughout the Southwest.

The 24-month contract was recently signed in the Furr's general offices here, with all units to be delivered by Modern's Lubbock facilities.

Representing Modern Chevrolet at the signing ceremonies were Gordon H. Rose, president; Robert W. Rose, vice president and general manager; and Doc Davis, leasing manager. Furr's participants were Jan Friederich, president; Dewey Womack, fleet administrator; and Clyde Waddell, vice president.

Gordon Rose, in congratulating the Furr's ownership and management, points out some significant contributions of that firm throughout the region, stating that he is glad to "contribute to the Furr's image of quality and service" with the added use of Chevrolet units from Modern.

Furr's Inc. operates in 35 cities throughout the Southwest, with a $450 million gross sales.

Involved are 72 supermarkets, 22 convenience stores, some 5,000 employees, and units including the Farm Pac meat plant, Farm Pac dairy, Frost Bakery, green house and Hester Office Center.

Annual payroll of the Furr's organization is in excess of $60 million.

B & I Pages Aid Buyer, Seller In Presentations

Today commences the final full week in which to arrange for participation in the Business and Industrial (B & I) pages of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal during the spring and summer months ahead.

The Furr organization operates over 450 rolling units, driving over seven million miles per year!

To get full details and to complete arrangements, see an Avalanche-Journal retail advertising salesman, or call 762-8844 (Extensions 334, 306 or 313) and a representative of the advertising department will explain the program in full, helping plan a schedule of comprehensive presentations in stories and pictures, together with ads that week after week carry their impact.

Furr's now is spending over $8 million remodeling 35 supermarkets, and its program for supermarket remodeling in '81 involves an additional $4 million.

"These pages have a record of proven benefit to advertiser and customer alike. You, too, should benefit. Your own story can be told effectively, prominently, professionally and correctly on these pages in the activity-packed season ahead. Don't be left out; get full details now!"

More than 100,000 customers per day are served by Furr's, it is reported.

"Haven't you said, in your own situation, that 'next time I'm going to be on the B & I pages'?"

The Furr organization operates over 450 rolling units, driving over seven million miles per year!

Possibly your business associates have reported to you the effectiveness of this message medium, and readers often have expressed their appreciation and enthusiasm regarding the informative stories and ads.

Get the picture? Modern Chevrolet, Inc., (since 1955) and Furr's, Inc., each are on the job, serving superbly in a manner contributing to the customers' service and to the benefit of the communities involved.

"So... let's get down to business; now is the time to act!"

"Your business or service can be featured in pictures and stories in the unique B & I section, but only if action is taken before deadline just a few days away."

Several announcements are of special interest at Yesterday's Dolls Today (at 2610 Salem Ave., in Cactus Alley), already well recognized as a very special and different kind of shop.

Effectiveness of the program is proven. One businessman wrote:

"We feel the article was excellent and we truly appreciate the time you devoted in emphasizing the points we felt needed extra attention."

Jean Aaron, co-owner of the shop since its founding in 1979, is sole owner, continuing the exceptional service and tremendously different stock for which the facility is noted.

Another actually reported:

"The ad alone resulted in a $40,000 sale that made the cost insignificant."

And there are other testimonials; these are not isolated expressions of satisfaction.

What is Yesterday's Dolls Today? In brief, it affords selection from antique and collectible dolls and toys, classes in porcelain doll making, all the supplies for doll making, restoration and repair, and an inventory hard to match in antique dolls, reproductions of antiques, dolls from Germany, etc.

Business & Industrial Review
Many Thanks on our 5th Anniversary
USE OUR BOOK BINDING SERVICES.
MOISES PEREZ MARKS 5TH ANNIVERSARY

Bookbinding And Bible Repair Owner Expresses Gratitude

"This is not an advertising message; it is simply our way at Bookbinding & Bible Repair of saying 'thanks' to God and to you as we arrive at our 5th Anniversary.
"As we summarize the causes that are behind our continued existence as an institution, permit us to depart from the cold facts that are normal in any kind of business. We want to give tribute to whom the credit is really due, to our God. He is the One that has kept us alive even during the difficult times we have been through; and you, our customers, as instruments of God (yes, as angels) have been sent to help us in every struggle to survive.
"Appreciate Service Opportunities
"Doing business is very hard in times such as these. Even so, we like to continue our line of work, not just as a business, but as a service to the community.
"Many of you, our customers, have expressed gratitude for our existence in such phrasing as 'we are glad you are here,' and 'your services are needed.'
"We thank you for this kind of support; we promise to all of you that we will give our best in every job, or problem or project that you entrust to us in the future.

"We believe you know our quality of work; you have demonstrated confidence in our abilities and have confided to our hands some near impossible tasks, and you have been satisfied and have spread the word of this trust to others.
"Many thanks, we again repeat; we will do our best not to disappoint you and we will treat your projects as our own, serving your personal interest.
"You Are Special!
"We invite you to visit us, coming with confidence that you will be served as someone special, because you are special! And your work is something special; we treat it exactly that way."
Moises Perez founded Bookbinding & Bible Repair, 2235 34th St., phone 765-6761, exactly five years ago, specializing in restoration of any book related item while rendering a vast number of other services.
"Check the following outline to see if one or more of our services can be utilized in your own situation.

(1) Books rebound or restored;
(2) Restoration of Bibles that are out of use because of their condition but that can be rebound and re-used again and again.
(3) Binding of favorite magazines such as special years of the National Geographic Magazine, or any other professional or hobby magazine or journal;
(4) Blank books for special occasions;
(5) Restoration or rebinding of antique photo albums and pictures;
(6) New bindings in elegant leather for special letters or documents that should be preserved;
(7) Restoration of heirloom family Bibles for family records and future memories;
(8) Lamination;
(9) Spiro ring bindings, and
(10) Name imprinting in gold.
"Our phone is 765-6761, and our address at Bookbinding & Bible Repair is 2235 34th St., across from the clock at First Federal Savings & Loan."

Beauty, Comfort, Weather Protection, Savings Shown By Insulating Windows

Sure, storm windows and storm doors are ideal for winter. But think further: there are sandstorms ahead, and won't this protection be doubly appreciated then! Comfort is enhanced, and energy costs are lessened — in every season — by the products of Insulating Windows, Inc. 327 E. 74th St., phone 745-5768, in Lubbock.
The conscientious and capable folks there invite visits and inquiry about any aspect of their products and services.
Everything is custom made at Insulating Windows, Inc., with primary products including picture storm windows, patio sliding storm doors, aluminum replacement windows, storm windows and storm doors... and the recently publicized "economy storm window," referred to by some as "solar windows."

Yes, Insulating Windows, Inc., can provide the glassette (solar) windows at a substantial saving, and these can be very effective in "weatherization." (According to government reports, improper windows lose more energy than any other house component.)
Insulating Windows, Inc., serves superbly from its large facilities in Lubbock, at 327 E. 74th St., just south of Loop 289, with dealers including the Muleshoe Home Center in Muleshoe, and others in Brownfield and Sweetwater.

The storm windows manufactured by the firm, right here in Lubbock, provide 1½-in. to 2-in. dead air space for energy efficiency, and attachment to existing windows enables 2½ to 3-in. dead air space.
A vinyl bulb seal is featured, eliminating caulking for these.
A rubber seal is utilized for glass mold.
Storm doors are available with numerous options (2 lite or 4 lite).

Brunken Toyota Growth Linked To Product, Services, Staff

During the past 11 years, Brunken Toyota has developed a reputation for quality and service that still is on the grow.
With only 12 Toyota models to offer and with 15 dedicated employees, the dealership in 1972 moved to its present South Loop 289 and Slide Road location. In these past nine years, Brunken Toyota has expanded to 32 employees and 39 Toyota models, with a Wholesale Parts Division headed by Ron Wynn; shipping nationally; a 13-bay, award-winning Service Department with Deloris Ward at the helm; and full Machine Service.
In 1980, Brunken ranked in the top 20 (for sales volume) of the 132 dealerships in the five-state Gulf States Toyota region.
Growth With A Reason
Ray Pipkin, sales manager, attributes much of the dealership's success to being a single-line dealership carrying a high inventory of quality Toyota cars and trucks, and the availability of parts and service. Currently the parts fill rate for Toyota is 97 per cent. Another factor, says Pipkin, is that Toyota strives to improve current products and introduces new features and technology to benefit the consumer. An example of this Toyota Total Economy goal is the Corolla, the "Number One Selling car" (not just imported) worldwide. The combination of value and fuel economy appears to be the foundation of its popularity.

With such a reputable product to represent, the sales force must be equally as qualified and knowledgeable of the car-buying public's needs and desires. Brunken Toyota has assembled just such a sales team.
Teamed To Serve
Clif Cole, a lifetime resident of Lubbock, has over 35 years in the car business and is a four-time winner of the Toyota Sales Society. He was "salesman of the year" in 1972, '73, '76 and '77. As a graduate of Texas Tech, he also spent 17 years as a dealer.
Jerry Crockett, as a former manager, has nine years experience. He also has made the Toyota Sales Society while at Brunken.
Jerry Etter has over 21 years in the automobile business, with experience in credit, insurance, public relations, sales management and sales, and is a winner of Toyota's Sales Society. While with Chevrolet, he was a member of the Legion of Leaders and the Truck Honor Sales.
Othman Khneim, born and raised in Nazareth, Israel, came to Lubbock in 1967 and graduated with a degree in engineering at Texas Tech in 1971. He has been with Brunken Toyota since '77.
John Godyn has three years service with Brunken. His experience includes used car management and service department, as well as sales.

Dickie Jackson, salesman of the year in 1973, has 11 years experience in the car business. He also has the Toyota Sales Society honor.
Curt Kuykendall, formerly with an electronics firm, has six years in car sales and won numerous awards in domestic car sales before joining the Brunken team.
Howard Whitefield, a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, has over 25 years experience in automobile sales in the West Texas Area. He was recipient of a number of General Motors Corp. awards before coming to Brunken.
During his eight years with Brunken Toyota, Sales Manager Ray Pipkin has been used car manager, salesman of the month, a member of the Toyota Sales Society and has won a variety of other awards and trips. He is a former Redbud Lions director and served with the 1978 Boy Scout drive.
"These men work hard, individually and as a team, to keep abreast of the new products and information to better serve Brunken Toyota's valued customers. Before you make a decision on a new or used car, we believe you'll want to visit with one of Brunken Toyota's knowledgeable sales team members."

Southwest Forest Industries More Than Manufacturer Alone

"Serving all your packaging needs is no idle claim by Southwest Forest Industries, Lubbock's only manufacturer and designer of quality shipping cartons." The Southwest Forest Industries Container Division Lubbock facility at 506 E. 44th St., phone 747-4341, has served admirably since its opening here back in 1968, with equal appreciation extended the customer of every size. Southwest Forest Industries does more than just furnish you a box! The capable staff, right here in Lubbock, has a very, very good track record in evaluating one's need and preferences, and then doing something about it... pronto!

Charging for the product only, Southwest Forest Industries is glad to come into one's business or industry, surveying the product to be packaged, determining the best way to pack or ship (with consideration to storage, transportation, stacking needs, etc.), taking a professional approach that even includes preparation of graphics. Yes, all this is available, right here at home.

Aside from the quality of the corrugated containers, the convenience of such a source has proven of prime benefit to area van and storage firms, meat packers, agriculture, manufacturing industries, etc. Southwest Forest Industries is a long-established and nationwide diversified paper and lumber manufacturing company, actually a fully integrated forest products company, with its own forests, mills and all. National headquarters is Phoenix, Ariz., with Bill Franke, corporation president, a former Texan reared in south Texas and once living in Lubbock. Actually the sprawling corporation had its origin in East Texas, beginning as a small lumber company. In the Lubbock plant, said one of the best equipped units of its type in the industry, some stock containers are available, with most business involving custom-made containers. Raw corrugated blanks are brought in from the firm's El Paso plant, with the custom designing, cutting, scoring, etc. at the Lubbock 30,000 sq. ft. facility with its related special machines. Walter M. Haas is general manager in Lubbock, marking 10 years in the industry and two years here. Assisting is a staff of 15 or more on regular basis, with Hal Hill as sales manager, and Walt Cochran as production manager. "Service" is the big item afforded at Southwest Forest Industries Container Division in Lubbock, with customers mainly within 200 miles of the city thus afforded fast, economical and near-by supply of their corrugated container needs. Men are out in the territory on regular basis to assure fullest customer attention. "Whatever your need in design and manufacture of corrugated containers, in modest or large quantities, we believe you will find Southwest Forest Industries, 506 E. 44th St., phone 747-4341, in Lubbock, affording a very tangible benefit. We've been around a long time, and we invite you to ask others about our service and our capabilities; we welcome opportunity of serving you in your own particular needs as we have for your friends."

Lubbock Bearing Service Voices Thoughts On American Benefits

Patriotism, an outpouring of thanksgiving, awareness of the benefits of just being an American... aren't these great feelings!

Events of recent days, with their unbridled expression of emotion, bring home to us a new recognition of the benefits we enjoy, together with challenges and responsibilities for the future. We're glad to be a part of great America!

ECHOES SPIRIT OF THE TIMES — Shannon Wade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wilson of the Lubbock Bearing Service, Inc., poses in apparel and setting most appropriate at this time of renewed attention to American patriotism and benefits as emphasized in the accompanying comments.

Just as an honorable Golden Rule guideline can work at every level of society and government, so this principal 'can and should' work in the business community of which we at Lubbock Bearing Service, Inc. are a member of longstanding. "As we expressed on these pages at beginning of the new year: we are a firm not only appreciating friendships and blessings of the year past, but we are looking forward to service in a new year which we hope the very best for each of you."

Lubbock Bearing Service, Inc., at 1619 Ave. F, in the big facility it has occupied since 1960, conducts wholesale and retail business, selling throughout the Nation from its stock that is believed one of the largest in the entire Southwest. It is a complete power transmission house, carrying anything needed on mechanical drives, with some 60 lines represented. Bearings are stocked for every need. Most likely the very part needed is in the computer-controlled stock, but if not, the item is readily available, and the "old fashioned service concept of business" assures immediate attention to the customers' needs.

"This old fashioned service by folks you likely long have known and trusted is one of the greatest things a business firm can have going for its operation, we believe." Such a situation exists at Lubbock Bearing Service, Inc., established back in 1958 but as of August 1979 completely family owned and directed. No Newcomer

Buck Ready, president, was one of the business' founders back over two decades ago. He heads the present operation, together with Floyd Wilson as vice president and Linda Wilson as secretary-treasurer. Ready and Wilson have assembled a staff that is known in the trade to be truly outstanding, knowing parts, inventory and the true meaning of service. Randy Biggers is assistant store manager, with Jerry Bailey and Loyd Deen also on the staff.

The entire group is dedicated to best meeting the needs of the customer, whether a dealer, industrial user, manufacturer, farmer, etc. Ready and Wilson are longtime area residents and know from experience the multiple needs of area industry, agriculture and other business when it comes to bearings, belts, sprockets, chains, etc. for all types farm machinery, the power transmission items and related products.

FOR GOOD MEAT, BEST PREPARATION — Willis Watts and Greg Watts of Red Barn Meat Market are shown in the montage here emphasizing the three-step cooling process and really modern facilities at the 82nd & Indiana market where beef is sent from initial aging cooler to a second room for cutting and finally to placement in the cases for customer comparison, selection and purchase.

Quality, Price, Top Selection Appeal At Red Barn Meat Market

"For those of you who like to eat well and economize at the same time, Red Barn Meat Market, 8112 Indiana, can be your best friend!"
Yes, it still is true at Red Barn Meat: A half of beef (U.S.D.A. Choice) Yield 1 and 2, still is $1.29 per pound!
Purchase of beef and pork cuts at this time could be a very wise move. Red Barn Meat Market owner Willis Watts points out:
"Prices are sure to get higher, and I really believe now is the time to buy freezer beef and save. We like to help you hedge against short supplies and high prices: we like to save money for our customers just as we like to provide the finest meat."
Greg Watts, son of owner Willis Watts, is now actively associated in the business, and both emphasize that "there is a difference" in meat quality and meat preparation, and for this difference an eye-opener awaits at Red Barn.
Reports on these pages previously have pinpointed the many superior aspects of the market's operation, service and products, but special emphasis again is directed to the meticulous process involved in bringing to the customer the very finest in beef... at Red Barn Meat Market.
Not one, but three, coolers are utilized.
First, beef is brought into the aging cooler where it is kept a minimum of 10 to 14 days, with longer aging when requested by the customer.
Then, the meat is taken into another cooler where it is cut for placement in the cases.

So, finally, one observes, compares and selects from the cases, last of the three cooling operations.
Not just some of the beef, but all of the beef sold at Red Barn Meat Market is subjected to this process for greater customer satisfaction.
"We urge you to look for the grade on the beef you buy," is the further suggestion from this veteran butcher. All beef made available at the Red Barn Meat Market is U.S.D.A. Choice corn-fed cattle. Also, it is yield graded; we just will not buy anything above a "2" yield, meaning that we maintain the best of quality and still keep the fat content as low as possible. In addition to this, we also age our cattle, adding to the flavor and tenderness.
All cattle are from feed lots in the Hereford area.
This quality in every product, plus the across-counter service by knowledgeable staffmembers, is just part of the convincing story that unravels at Red Barn Meat Market, a logical place to trade!
Whether reason for a visit here this week is to stock up the home freezer, to secure meat for a special dinner, to pick up convenience-type items or just to browse and select where you know quality comes foremost, shopping at Red Barn Meat is a rewarding experience.
A lengthy service case is noticed upon one's entry to the spacious market. In another area, a self service case is provided.
Then, as further service, convenience type items (necessities for picnics, barbecues, etc.) are stocked, including milk, bread, chips, sauces, cookies and more.
Watts and his most capable staff take pride in introducing the customer to this "better and complete service market", a description to which a lot of area residents have attested since the market's opening in mid-1976.

The South Indiana market was planned and functionally designed to not only be attractive, but to be convenient, efficient and thoroughly service oriented. Watts opened this big market in May 1976, as the largest independent retail meat market in all West Texas, comprising about 4,275 sq. ft. floor space under roof, plus a large parking apron with access from both Indiana and from 82nd Street.
It is neat, sanitary, attractive and easy to reach from just about anywhere!
A full variety of beef, pork, poultry and fish is stocked, the public has found. As a complete service market, orders for special cuts are welcomed, and full quarters, halves and full beeves are available.
A full line of cheese is stocked.
Master Charge and Visa are accepted.
From the spacious service area one can see through expansive glass windows into the processing room, noting the efficiency of the butchers and the firm's devotion to cleanest quarters possible. Seventeen art pieces by Bill Leftwich are tastefully arranged on the service area walls.
Owner-operator Willis Watts has been a Lubbock resident 13 years. He was born and reared in West Texas and appreciates the area residents' recognition of quality meats and quality service.
For a revelation in superior products and service, a complete service market provided by "your kind of folks", a visit to Red Barn Meat Market, 82nd & Indiana, is heartily recommended. Likely such visits will become a habit for your better eating!

1981 DATSUN TRUCKS. MORE POWER. LESS GAS.

The secret is Datsun's revolutionary MAPS-Z engine. It's a 2-2 liter hemi-head powerplant that gives better mileage and over 18% more torque than last year's engine. Every 1981 Datsun truck has it. Take your pick and take a test drive. You've got to try it to believe it.

L7i Hustler with standard 5-speed transmission

Remember, use estimated MPG for comparison. Your mileage may differ, depending on speed, weather and trip length. Your actual highway mileage will probably be less.

Vietnam Vets Protest Attention Given Hostages

By United Press International
Former hostage Frederick Kupke says he can well understand the anger of Vietnam veterans over the red-carpet treatment being given the 52 Americans returning from Iran.

"I sympathize with them," the Rensselaer, Ind., resident said Sunday in response to demonstrations by Vietnam veterans during the weekend. "I was in the service from 1966 to 1970. Nobody ever thanked me for that."

In Indianapolis, a march by Vietnam era veterans symbolized the growing bitterness of ex-soldiers across the country at the ticker-tape parades, gala celebrations and heroes' medals given the freed hostages.

Former serviceman Gary Cooper, apparently despondent because he and other veterans were not given a similar grand greeting, was killed in a shootout with Hammond, Ind., police.

Indianapolis veterans — including one man confined to a wheelchair from his tour of duty — marched on a route that included yellow ribbons for the former Iran hostages and held a brief memorial service for the eight soldiers killed in the aborted Iranian rescue mission.

A placard carried in the march declared: "Welcome back. What were we ... Nothin'?"

Former captive Paul Lewis of Homer, Ill., says the Vietnam veterans were probably more heroic than the former hostages.

"They made a great sacrifice and I don't think it was appreciated as much as it really should have been," Lewis said. "I think there are more heroes that came back from Vietnam than people realize."

"They served their country. They would just like to be acknowledged."

New Yorker Barry Rosen, who took 52 yellow ribbons off a fir tree in his in-laws Brooklyn home Sunday, agreed.

"We don't feel we are heroes," he said. "Every American would have done the same thing. What we tried to do is to symbolize dignity and the Iranians couldn't handle that."

"I feel for the Vietnam veterans," he added. "I consider themselves the real heroes. They fought in open battles."

Rosen, press attache at the U.S. Embassy where it was seized by Iranian militants, said he hoped the return of the hostages would end the cynicism brought on by the Vietnam war.

"I would like to see Americans stay together — be together. We've spent too many years breast-beating ourselves," he said. "It's a new future for America."

Perhaps former hostage Gary Lee of Pasadena, Calif., said it best for everyone: "Now we're back, so let's take down the yellow ribbons, but let's not forget the red white and blue. Let's go back to work. We're Americans and I'm proud of every one of you."

But the celebrations continued and Air Force Capt. Paul Needham of Bellevue, Neb., and Marine Sgt. Johnny McKeel of Balch Springs were among many former hostages who felt uncomfortable in the limelight.

Needham used a welcome home ceremony Sunday to announce plans for a monument in Bellevue to honor all prisoners of war, soldiers missing in action and all who serve their country.

"The monument will stand as a tribute and reminder that freedom is not free, and must be purchased again by each generation," he said.

McKeel said he "never was the hero type."

"I still don't consider myself a hero," he said. "When I joined the Marines, I signed an oath that I would go anywhere in the world and that's what I did."

Celebrations were planned in Detroit today for Charles Jones, the only black among the former hostages, and Tuesday in Rochester, N.Y., for Col. Thomas E. Schaefer, and suburban Redford Township, Mich., the home of Army Staff Sgt. Joseph Subic Jr.

Former Captive Tells Of Escape Attempt

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — Former hostage William Belk says tried to escape by scaling the 12-foot wall of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran under fire from Iranian guards, but stumbled and fell back into the compound, injuring his leg.

Discussing his escape attempt in a copy-right interview in The State newspaper Sunday, Belk said he had freed himself from the torn sheets binding his wrists and ran into a courtyard where some students were walking.

But he was noticed by a female guard,

As he ran to scale the wall, other Iranians fired at him.

"I was shook up from the running and the excitement and I stumbled on top of the wall, fell back into the compound and hurt my leg. I couldn't run any further and I couldn't get back up on top of the 12-foot wall so I tried to hide as well as possible."

But he was discovered.

When the militants found him, he said, "they manhandled me and slapped me in the face." After taking him back to his room, where he was blindfolded, they later came to check his injured leg.

"Then the son-of-a-gun kicked me in the leg," Belk said.

"He said people who try to escape get shot and that's where he pulled the weapon trick on me. He pulled a .45, put it in my ear, and clicked it."

While he says his worst moments as a captive in Iran came following his attempted escape, he said his deepest hurt is for the eight Americans who died trying to free him.

"I'm just honored that these men would give their lives trying to free us," said Belk.

Newspaper Says Documents Cite Three Americans As CIA Agents

LONDON (UPI) — Documents seized by the Iranian militants at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran named three of the American hostages as CIA agents and revealed a grab bag of spy tricks including how to doctor passports, the Observer newspaper says.

In New York, Time magazine also reported the capture of the documents, which appeared to show that Thomas Ahern Jr., 47, Malcolm Kalp, 42, and William Daugherty, 33, were CIA operatives. Time said the documents gave the militants "a treasure trove of information."

"The contents of most of most safes were ... destroyed by fire-producing grenades," Time said. "But not all. Those in the offices of Charge d'Affaires Bruce Laingen, the embassy's highest ranking official and Michael Metrinko, a political officer, were captured intact."

Observer reporter Ian Mather said he was among a handful of Western journalists in Tehran at the time of the embassy takeover on Nov. 4, 1979, to receive photocopies of the documents indicating Ahern, Kalp and Daugherty — were CIA employees.

Ahern of McLean, Va., was a State Department political attache sent to Tehran in June 1979; Kalp of Fairfax, Va., was economic and commercial officer at the embassy, and Daugherty of Ossining, N.Y., was a defense liaison officer assigned to the political section of the embassy.

Mather, the Observer correspondent, said he saw the original documents being photocopied.

He also said he had a photocopy of eight pages instructions on how to activate a fake passport and vaccination certificate in the name of a Belgian businessman, Paul Timmermans.

Johnny McKeel Remains Uneasy About Hero Role

BALCH SPRINGS (AP) — Johnny McKeel Jr. knows why his family, his neighbors and several thousand strangers turned this small Dallas County town upside-down to welcome him home.

But the 27-year-old Marine staff sergeant still is not at ease in the role of hero, and is "a little embarrassed" by all the attention he has received since Jan. 20 when he and 51 countrymen were released from their 14-month captivity in Iran.

"I never was the hero type," McKeel still insists, after participating in several events symbolizing the end of his captivity.

He cut down the tattered flag that flew over his parents' house, untied the dozens of yellow ribbons that adorned the McKeel front yard, sat through a news conference attended by every available local politician and rode in a welcoming parade that took most of Saturday morning.

"I went to downtown Dallas the other day in civilian clothes and walked into a building and before I could get to the elevator I was mobbed," he said, admitting he remains slightly bewildered by all the fanfare.

"I still don't consider myself a hero," he said. "When I joined the Marines, I signed an oath that I would go anywhere in the world and that's what I did," he said.

"I understand the sacrifices made in Iran have brought the American people together. I hope it stays that way. People take things for granted. They don't stop to think how lucky they are to have the necessities of life."

In addition to being deprived of necessities, McKeel said his Iranian captors tied him hand and foot for 42 days of solitary confinement, threatened him with execution, made him stand naked in the cold with a rifle pointed at his head and told him his mother had died.

"The treatment of the hostages varied on who you were and what position you held in the embassy," he explained at a news conference. "They accused me of working for the CIA." ... The Iranians tried to break our morale and spirit."

He denied Canadian reports that he had seen Iranians cutting off the hands of the eight U.S. soldiers killed during the April rescue attempt.

"I did not actually see any of that. The reporter misunderstood me. I made no comment of that nature," he said.

After the festivities, McKeel said he was going to take a vacation until his next military assignment, and would not say where he was going to rest.

As his eldest sister put it, "He'll be all right once he gets hid out. And he's already picked his hiding place."

LAOTIAN PROTEST
BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — An estimated 10,000 people demonstrated in the Laotian capital of Vientiane to protest the deaths of two Laotian boatmen apparently shot by Thai soldiers, witnesses said Sunday. Laos has lodged a formal complaint with Thailand over the incident, which occurred last Tuesday on the Mekong River. The Laotian Foreign Ministry said two boatmen were killed and three wounded when Thai troops fired on a cargo boat traveling on the Lao side of the river boundary separating the two countries.

Today, along with their natural function of protecting fingers and toes, nails are important adjuncts to grooming. Well cared for nails are polished, trimmed, cleaned and, in the case of many women, colored in good taste. Avoid ingrown toenails, particularly of the big toe, by cutting the nail straight across. When fingernails and toenails have been cut to the desired length, they should be smoothed with a file and the cuticle gently pushed back. Everyone should have and use a few simple manicure implements.

A Shift In Power

JUST WHEN IT SEEMED that National Football Conference partisans were doomed to six more months of jibes and jeers from the AFC faction, following the American win in the Super Bowl, along came the annual all-star tussle in Hawaii to even things up a bit. Never did the Nationals need that Pro Bowl victory more than they did Sunday.

You have heard all the boasts of AFC superiority, of course. Everyone this side of Hong Kong has heard them, without the benefit of electronic amplification or radio transmission. Everything about the AFC is bigger and better, followers assert.

Especially their mouths, NFC fans mutter. The American Conference uses its domination of the Super Bowl as the foundation for claims that it is the best. Eleven of the 15 Big Ones have been won by the AFC. Green Bay of the NFC took the first two, then Dallas won SB VI and XII. Otherwise it has been AFC all the way.

Still, there is one factor to be considered in this comparison. Until the merger of the NFL and AFL in 1970, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Cleveland were stalwarts of the senior loop. But all agreed to move into the American Conference at the time of the merger to give the league numerical equality in both branches.

Then Baltimore beat Dallas 16-13 in the first Super Bowl after the merger and the guys from the AFL said, "Ain't we great!"

THE AFC DID have something to brag about when Don Shula built the Miami Dolphins into a powerhouse in 1972, though, and Pittsburgh — long one of the doormats in the NFL — used a lot of high draft choices and the coaching of Chuck Noll to reach the top of the mountain in 1974.

Dallas' Tex Schramm, who tells it like he sees it, uses the Steelers as an illustration of his theory on how the AFC gained its superiority over the NFC. The American circuit had so many weak teams in the late 1960s and early 1970s, Schramm declares, that they got most of the top draft choices and the potential superstars.

The records support this explanation by Schramm. Pittsburgh posted a dismal record of 2-11-1 in 1968, so the Steelers got to draft Mean Joe Greene early in the first round.

The next year, under Noll's direction for the first time, the Steelers did even worse with a 1-13 mark. But the reward for that inept performance was the No. 1 choice in the 1970 draft, which turned out to be quarterback Terry Bradshaw!

They also nabbed defensive back Mel Blount in the third round and were on their way to the top.

THE OTHER ALSO-RANS in the AFC also were grabbing off more than their share of the blue-chippers. In 1969, a wretched Buffalo team had the first pick in the entire draft and selected Southern Cal's O. J. Simpson. Poor O.J. He wanted to play for the Rams or Cowboys, but he was hauled off in chains to Siberia East.

In 1971, AFC New England was the worst and got the best, Stanford quarterback Jim Plunkett. Buffalo bounced right back with a 1-13 record, though, and won the right to draft first in 1972. The Bills took heralded Notre Dame lineman Walt Patulski.

Houston grabbed the top spot in 1973, taking Tampa's controversial John Matuszak. Tuz had trouble finding a happy home in pro football until he arrived at Oakland, however.

Meanwhile, Dallas had only one pick off the top over a 20-year span. A trade with Houston gave the Cowboys Ed Jones in 1974. Other swaps also brought them a chance to pick second in 1975 and 1977 — deals that resulted in the selection of Randy White and Tony Dorsett.

All of which proves how important those guys at the top of the draft list really are. White, Jones and Dorsett have been instrumental in keeping the Cowboys in a challenging position.

FORTUNATELY FOR THE National Conference fans, their doggy teams have been getting the superstars who, in recent years, had been going to the AFC. Some of the brightest prospects — Steve Bartkowski, O. J. Anderson, Lee Roy Selmon, Ricky Bell, Phil Simms, Vince Ferragamo, Billy Simms, James Lofton and Junior Miller — already have achieved recognition and acclaim throughout the league.

When the NFL drafts again in late April, the National Conference will get a lion's share of the top talent, barring trades. New Orleans and the New York Giants are scheduled to pick first, followed by a couple of AFC clubs. But then come St. Louis, Green Bay, Tampa Bay, San Francisco and Washington, all of the NFC.

That will give the Nationals seven of the top nine picks in the draft and should help to equalize competition.

Meanwhile, the National all-stars keep winning the Pro Bowl and proving that they can field at least 36 players as good, or perhaps better, than the AFC can suit up. That will have to suffice until Dallas wins another Super Bowl.

Confusion Reigns: Watson Ties For Crosby Lead

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament, which usually leads the PGA Tour in spectacular scenery and coveting seals, is almost certain to top the season in confusion this time.

For example, there's John Cook. Only after he'd finished play late Sunday did he discover that he had but one more round to play. He thought there were 36 holes yet to go.

And there's CBS. The confused finish — which will have players completing their rounds today on six different greens on three different golf courses — proved too much of a logistical problem for the network.

So, after providing national television coverage of the first two rain-delayed rounds of the famed tournament, they packed up and left the Monterey Peninsula to the seals playing on the rocks in Carmel Bay, the soaring seagulls and the players, 168 pros and a matching number of amateurs. There will be no national TV coverage of the final round.

There's also the question of who's leading going into the last round. By the numbers, it's Tom Watson and Brad Bryant, with 36-hole totals of 136, eight shots under par.

Not so, said Watson. "The real leader is (Jerry) Pate." Watson said.

Pate has a 137 total, but also an advantage. He will complete the tournament at Pebble Beach. Most of the other leaders have to play their third and final round at Spyglass Hill, which Ben Crenshaw says is "two shots harder than the others. It gives everybody the willies."

"Pate has that course behind him," Watson said. "If we get good weather, he certainly has the advantage."

Watson, the outstanding performer in the game and golf's Player of the Year for the past four seasons, got a share of the lead when he rammed in a 22-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole at Pebble Beach, about an hour after the TV cameras had ended their coverage of the tournament late Sunday afternoon.

That finished off a 3-under-par 69 and tied Watson for the numerical lead with longshot Brad Bryant, who is seeking his first title in three years of PGA Tour activity. Bryant birdied his last three holes, also at Pebble Beach, for a 67.

Tied with Pate at 137 were Crenshaw and Cook. Both played their second round at Pebble Beach. Crenshaw shot a 70 in sunny weather with gentle breezes. Cook, a 23-year-old former national amateur champion and the first-round leader, took a 71.

"I thought we had two more rounds to play," he said, a puzzled look on his face.

But there's only one. A series of storms washed out the first two days' play Thursday and Friday and prompted officials to cut the tournament from 72 holes to 54. The purse was reduced from an announced $300,000 to $225,000.

MOSES WINS TRACK MEMORIAL. PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Steve Prefontaine Memorial Award for America's track and field athlete of the year will go to 400-meter hurdler Edwin Moses. The Prefontaine award, named after the former University of Oregon distance star killed in a car crash five years ago, is a new addition to the Bill Hayward Banquet of Champions.

Defense Sparks NFC Win

HONOLULU (AP) — Detroit Lions' rookie Eddie Murray was the Pro Bowl Most Valuable Player by virtue of his four field goals, but members of the National Football Conference defensive unit made most of the difference in the game.

With Tampa Bay's Lee Roy Selmon, Dallas' Bob Breunig and Los Angeles'

Jack Reynolds among the standouts, the NFC defense held the potentially explosive AFC offense in check in Sunday's 21-7 National Conference Pro Bowl victory.

"Our secondary did a great job and gave the defensive line time to get to the quarterback" said Selmon, who logged four tackles and had two of the NFC's four quarterback sacks.

The NFC held Houston running back Earl Campbell, the NFL's leading rusher the past three years, to just 24 yards on eight carries. The entire AFC running game netted only 65 yards on 22 attempts and the American Conference passing attack was generally ineffective.

NFC coach Leeman Bennett of Atlanta lauded the entire defense and added: "I was particularly pleased with the defensive play of Charlie Johnson, Randy White and Rod Perry."

"There was some outstanding play from both teams' defensive secondaries."

The Eagles' Johnson was in on seven tackles. Dallas' White recovered a fumble that eventually led to one of Murray's field goals and Los Angeles' Perry figured in five tackles.

Murray hit field goals of 31, 31, 34 and 36 yards. He missed on a pair of 37-yard attempts, the last hitting the crossbar with just 22 seconds left to play.

"I watched the Pro Bowl on television last year and at that time, I wondered if I could even make it in the NFL, much less the Pro Bowl," said Murray. "This is the highlight of my rookie year, and it's a nice way to cap off the season. I just hope I'll be back again."

The other NFC scoring came on a 55-yard touchdown pass from Steve Bartkowski to Atlanta teammate Alfred Jenkins, and a safety when the AFC was called for holding in its own end zone.

"Playing well in the game meant a lot to me, particularly since I had gotten into the game when Tony Hill was hurt," said Jenkins, a replacement Pro Bowler who was the contest's leading receiver with three catches for 91 yards.

"I wanted to prove I belonged on the field. It's a great way to end a great year."

Although it gave up 21 points, the AFC defense turned in a good effort. Kansas City safety Steve Barbaro saved a touchdown when he recovered a fumble by Philadelphia quarterback Ron Jaworski in the AFC end zone, and also intercepted a Jaworski pass.

The AFC's lone score came on a 9-yard pass from Brian Sipe of Cleveland to New England's Stanley Morgan.

"We just weren't very artistic," said AFC coach Sam Rutigliano of Cleveland. "I just hope I'm not the first Pro Bowl coach to get fired."

Table with columns: American National Conference, AFC, NFC. Rows: First downs, Rushes-yards, Passing yards, Return yards, Passes, Punts, Fumbles-lost, Penalties-yards.

RECEIVING — AFC: Jefferson 3-48, Butler 2-22, Pruitt 2-3, Cripps 1-52, NFC: Jenkins 3-91, Andrews 2-17, Lofton 2-31, Carmichael 1-36.

Teamwork Highlights NBA Stars

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Perhaps you can consider it a tribute to the selfishness of the players. Or a tribute to the defenses of both teams.

But the fact remains, in a game laden with stars, no one emerged as the clear-cut standout of Sunday's National Basketball Association All-Star Game, which the East team won 123-120.

"We played team ball today," said East guard Michael Ray Richardson, representing the New York Knicks. "We had some one-on-one moves, but they were in a team concept."

No one for either team could crack the 20-point barrier. Paul Westphal of Seattle and Dennis Johnson of Phoenix shared scoring honors for the West with 19 points apiece, while Julius Erving of Philadelphia had 18 to lead the East.

"These guys' attitudes are beautiful," said Philadelphia's Billy Cunningham, now undefeated in three All-Star coaching appearances. "They have the ability to adapt to any situation. I just thought the overall attitude was great."

Echoed West coach John MacLeod of Phoenix. "Billy and I talked before the game about how it's a pleasure to watch these guys play — guys you usually coach against, and now you have them on your team."

About 200 media representatives voted veteran Boston guard Nate Archibald most valuable player in the game — even though Archibald scored only nine points. His nine assists and his playmaking earned him the honor.

Celtic teammate Robert Parish, who had 16 points and a game-high 10 rebounds, was runner-up in the MVP balloting.

But the favorite of the 20,239 fans in attendance — representing the second-largest crowd in the 31 years of NBA All-Star play — was Cleveland Cavalier forward Mike Mitchell, who scored 14 points.

"I thought Michael played exceptionally well for his first game, and being at home," said Cunningham. "He showed he belonged out there today."

Mitchell was added to the East team after Atlanta's Dan Roundfield had to drop out because of calcium deposits in his right leg.

"You just have to feel great when you hear cheers like I did," said Mitchell, who received a standing ovation when he entered the game in the second quarter. "It makes you excited, and it made me want to play great."

The West took a 27-23 lead after one quarter behind 10 points from Westphal. But Mitchell's eight second-period points helped the East jump on top 61-58 at the half.

Guard Eddie Johnson of Atlanta then scored nine of his 16 points in the third quarter as the East expanded its margin to 97-88.

A Mitchell stuff on a fast-break pass from Parish gave the East a 16-point edge, its largest of the game, with 10 minutes remaining.

Walter Davis of Phoenix and Los Angeles Laker Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, however, led a West surge that cut the deficit to three at 119-116 with just over three minutes to play. Hoops by Archibald and Eddie Johnson maintained the East edge, and a last-second West three-point attempt by Seattle's Jack Sikma went astray.

The victory gave the East a 20-11 margin in the series and made Cunningham the second-winningest coach in NBA All-Star history behind Red Auerbach, who coached seven winners.

Angry Ex-Ram Talks Contract With CFL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Quarterback Vince Ferragamo, who has played out his contract option with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, plans to meet in Toronto Tuesday with Hamilton Tiger-Cats' owner Harold Ballard to discuss playing in the Canadian Football League.

"I'm very serious," Ferragamo said Sunday. "At this point, Canada is my only opportunity. People think I'm using this for bargaining (with the Rams) but I'm not."

Ferragamo said that when nine dissident Rams came to terms with the NFL team last week, he also was offered a contract, although he said the Rams actually offered him more money at one point in the 1980 season.

Asked if his differences with the Rams are irreconcilable, Ferragamo said: "I don't think they're gonna reconsider and I know I'm not."

According to the Los Angeles Times, the Rams offered Ferragamo about $250,000 a year. If Ferragamo signs with another NFL team, the Rams would have to be compensated under NFL rules.

"...no one wants to lose two No. 1 draft choices," he said of what another NFL team might have to give the Rams for signing a player of his stature.

Ferragamo led the Rams to the 1980 Super Bowl and was one of the top-rated quarterbacks in the league last season.

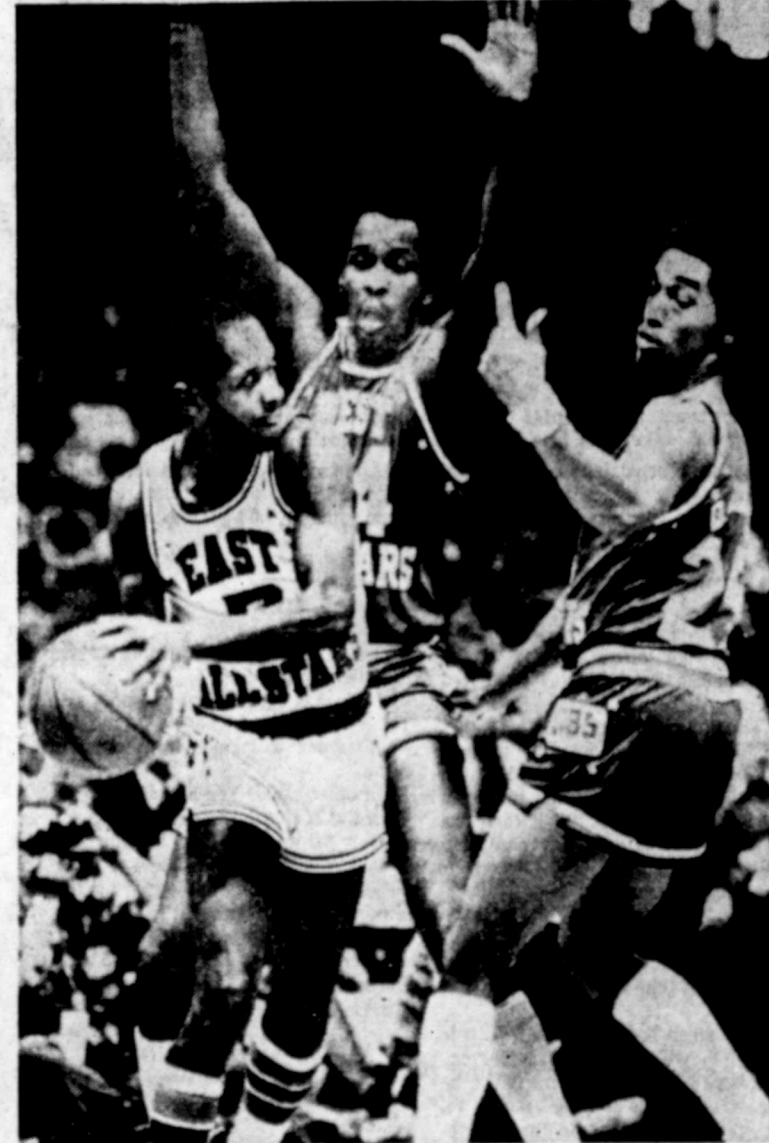

Ferragamo's agent, Dave Fishof, said in an interview with ABC Radio in New York Sunday that two negotiating sessions with Rams' general manager Don Klosterman have gone nowhere and both sides are still far apart in contract talks.

Fishof said that the $52,000 salary Ferragamo received last year was "ridiculous. He isn't looking to be paid a million dollars a year, but he is looking to receive a contract comparable to the top four quarterbacks in the National Football League."

Fishof said that, when Ballard offers a contract, he will out of courtesy meet with Klosterman for a possible counter-offer.

"It might sound goofy, but I could sign this week," Ferragamo said of his trip to Canada with his wife Jodi. "Something may even happen overnight. I might play up there if I get a good offer, and I know what a good offer is."

"When I get back to town later in the week, I may be a Hamilton Tiger-Cat. Everyone knows there is no such thing as free agency in the NFL. The only place it truly exists is in Canada," Ferragamo added.

Hair Studied As Repellent

AUSTIN, Colo. (UPI) — Two scientists are trying to learn whether human hair can be an effective repellent to deer, rabbits or elk.

Drs. Kenneth Yu and Matthew Rogowski of Colorado State University say the really good stuff is the dirty, greasy hair swept from the floor of barbershops. The perfumed and shampooed locks from beauty parlors are worthless.

Yu and Rogowski want to see if the hair, rolled into loose balls and hung in mesh bags, will repel or frighten animals that nibble at the bark or eat tender branches of orchard trees.

So far this year, little data has been gathered because the mild winter kept the game in the high country. There has been one instance, however, in which a row of trees decorated with hairballs was avoided, while an unprotected row nearby was severely damaged.

Yu said that if the experiments are successful, a synthetic odor could be developed that could be sprayed onto trees.

He and Rogowski are working on other repellents, including urine, estrogen and butyric acid — which is an ingredient of human perspiration.

Glue Sniffing Hike Seen In Maryland

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — An growing number of Maryland youths are getting high by sniffing glue, paint thinner and other products that could damage their health, according to a survey of 35,000 children.

The study done by the state Drug Abuse Administration says 15 percent of the 8th graders surveyed admitted getting high by sniffing such products. The report said it was providing only "conservative estimates" of the number of youthful inhalant abusers.

The incidence of sniffing appears to decline as children get older, the study said. Only 7.7 percent of 12th graders surveyed admitted to inhalant abuse, as compared with 12.3 percent of 10th graders.

DAA Director Richard L. Hamilton said many inhalant abusers may drop out of school before reaching 12th grade.

'Ordinary People' Tops Golden Globe Awards

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Ordinary People" proved extraordinary and "Coal Miner's Daughter" turned out to be a jewel as the Hollywood Foreign Press Association presented its 38th Annual Golden Globe awards.

The awards Saturday night held few surprises, but did cast the limelight on young new stars Timothy Hutton and Nastassia Kinski and on perennial favorite Gene Kelly, whose special award was greeted with a standing ovation.

"Ordinary People" won best film, best director for actor-turned-director Robert Redford and best actress for Mary Tyler Moore, plus awards to Hutton as supporting actor and new male star.

"Coal Miner's Daughter" took best comedy-musical film honors and earned a best actress statuette in that category for Sissy Spacek.

Robert De Niro scored as best dramatic actor for his performance as boxer Jake La Motta in "Raging Bull" and Roman Polanski's "Tess" won best foreign film. "Tess" star Miss Kinski won new female star.

The multi-Emmmy winning Miss Moore, who made her dramatic film debut in "Ordinary People," thanked Redford "for his inspired and inspiring direction and for believing that there was part of Beth in me."

Said Miss Spacek of her acting award: "There's a cowboy named Jim Shoulders who once told me, 'I'd rather have a little luck than all the ability in the world.' I agree with him tonight."

Kelly's standing ovation came as he collected the Cecil B. De Mille award for distinguished service to film from an old-time hoofing pal, Van Johnson.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't let negative, early happenings discourage you tomorrow. Lady Luck has her eye on you and she'll be there to give you the necessary shove at the finish line.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're a very keen observer tomorrow and you can learn a lot by watching how successful friends operate. Later, find ways to repeat their methods.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You are likely to be lucky tomorrow in situations which others start, rather than with things you initiate. Chances will play a big role in events.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Creative or artistic efforts you can share offer you the greatest opportunities for success tomorrow. Two heads are better than one.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something you are presently doing which may only be a hobby could turn into a second source of income. Look for markets.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you're unattached, this could be an exciting day when someone you thought was merely interested in you as a friend displays deeper intentions.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's not likely you'll have problems getting help tomorrow on a new project in which you're involved.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Not only are you a good organizer tomorrow, you have the knack to make what you do seem fun.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It may be necessary to take a calculated risk tomorrow in order to enhance your security.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be lavish with your praise to the deserving tomorrow. Worthy recipients will cherish your compliments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your possibilities for material gain are better than usual tomorrow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Perhaps more so than usual tomorrow, it's important to look your very best if you are going someplace where you can meet new people.

The U.S. Army and its advertising agency are red-faced over a punctuation problem.

It all started when the Army embarked on a multimillion-dollar campaign to attract top-quality, high-intelligence recruits to counter the image of a service filled with unskilled volunteers.

One of the ads prepared by N W Ayer ABH Intl. for the campaign included a headline with some misplaced punctuation. There was a comma where there should have been a question mark and a question mark where there should have been a period.

The advertisement says the Army wanted young men and women "eager to learn ... tomorrow's skills."

Some of today's skills, though, apparently escaped whoever wrote the ad's headline. It reads: "Why should the Army be easy, Life isn't?"

The ad and a story about the upcoming

"Be all you can be" campaign appeared late last month in Advertising Age, a trade publication.

"We did not plan for that to happen," Tom Evans, a spokesman at the U.S. Army Recruiting Command at Fort Sheridan, Ill., said Thursday. "It is hopefully just a passing ripple in the tide."

Inadequate Funding Blamed For Plight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The financial plight of the Los Angeles school district is due to inadequate state funding, not mismanagement by the school board, two fact-finding panels have concluded.

The panels, which represent the district and its two employee unions, recommended what they called "relatively drastic" measures to allow an 8 percent pay increase for the district's teachers.

The report, released Saturday, traced the $60,000-pupil school system's financial maladies to state funding increases of 2.5 percent when inflation was running at 12 percent.

The report disagreed with claims that school board mismanagement had created the financial problems. Some board members have come under fire for not closing low-enrollment schools, but the report said closures would not make up for lost funding.
