A massive winter storm system pushed into the Southwest and Southeast sections of the nation today, triggering thunderstorms and a barrage of tornadoes in Texas and Alabama.

At least one person died and several others were seriously injured in tornadoes that raked Central and East Texas during the night, and a tornado slammed into a South Alabama school shortly after classes began. At least 40 persons were injured at the school.

A tornado ripped through a rural area 10 miles west of Huntsville in East Texas early today, demolishing several mobile homes and leveling a frame house.

Walker County officials said a teenaged woman was killed. She and three other persons were inside a mobile home off state Highway 30 about 3:30 a.m. when the twister blew out the sides of the structure.

The three other occupants, described as an 18-year-old man, a 45-year-old woman and a 6-month-old infant girl, were hospitalized with serious injuries, Walker County civil defense coordinator Billy Linville said.

Arctic Front Numbs Panhandle, Plains

An Arctic cold front with all the earmarks of a "blue norther" swept into the South Plains early today behind strong, gusty winds, dropping temperatures in Lubbock from a relatively mild 39 degrees at 8 a.m. to a chilling 20 just four hours later.

The worst still is to come, weathermen warned, with a low near zero forecast early Wednesday in parts of the South Plains. Lubbock is expected to record a minimum of 8 degrees tonight, with a high Wednesday only in the upper

Defendant Identified By Trooper

By KIM COBB Avalanche-Journal Staff

A Department of Public Safety trooper pointed to Charles Reynolds this morning as the driver of a Cadillac the officer found with a dead woman on its back seat last Labor Day.

Trooper Foy Goldston opened the state's testimony against Reynolds, 38, who is on trial in 237th District Court for the murder of 18-year-old Eula Jean Lewis. Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford hopes to convince jurors that Reynolds killed the woman by leaving her in the trunk of the car until she asphyxiated.

Goldston testified that he and several other DPS troopers were setting up a standard driver's license check on East 50th Street because of the heavy traffic running to and from Buffalo Lakes. He had looking back toward the west when he noticed a black-over-blue Cadillac start in their direction, but make a Uturn and head away from the DPS patrol car parked on the roadway.

Getting suspicious, Goldston got into a patrol car and followed the Cadillac west, approaching it from behind as the Cadillac got on the Loop 289 entrance ramp, he testified.

The trooper said he followed the Cadillac, with the patrol car lights flashing See DEFENDANT Page 16

Iran Claims 300 Slain

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Iran claimed today its troops and helicopter gunships killed more than 300 Iraqi invaders in Ilam Province in western Iran.

Iraq reported 163 Iranians killed as Iraqi forces pushed back an enemy counterattack aimed at dislodging the Iraqis from the foothills in the region.

The highlands command highway routes from the Iranian border to the Iraqi capital from the northeast and southeast. They stand at the northern end of the 300-mile battlefront.

Airs Farm Compromise Supreme Court ruled today that private farmers could not form the independent trade union they sought, but could form an association. The decision came after a government shakeup in which Defense Minister Wojciech Jaruzelski, regarded as a moderate, was named Polish pre-

The court ruling, an apparent attempt to find a compromise between the farmers' demands and Communist Party leaders who oppose a union of farmers, followed Warsaw Radio announcement of the end of a general strike in Jelenia Gora and suspension of walkouts scheduled in the Silesian coal mines.

In the complicated decision, the court said the case was out of its jurisdiction because farmers work on their own, privately-owned land and are therefore not employees of an organization. It sent the case back to a lower court.

Lech Walesa, head of the Solidarity independent trade union which backs the farmers' demand for a Rural Solidarity, called the decision a "draw." Asked by farmers if they should register as an association, Walesa replied, "of course."

The government shakeup came at a Central Committee meeting Monday. Jaruzelski replaces Premier Jozef Pinkowski, who took over in August at the height of nationwides strikes.

chief Stanislaw Kania warned that Soviet patience was wearing thin. He appealed to the Polish army to "guard our independence" and workers to "stop the anarchy." Kania urged farmers to ignore the call to unionize and "frustrate the designs of those who want to break agricultural self-government."

It was not immediately clear what effect the court ruling would have on the farmers, who had appealed to the Su-them a union charter. They had spoken of boycotting food supply centers if their demand was not met

About 5,000 farmers gathered outside the court listened to Walesa explain the decision.

Supreme Court Chief Justice Antoni Filcek said the case would be sent back to a lower Warsaw court and that the farmers' group could be registered as an

County Seeking Bids On Road Equipment

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Precinct 1 Commissioner Boyd Roberts says that road maintenance operations in his precinct have almost ground to a halt within the past month because of worn-out or inoperable equipment.

And according to Roberts, commissioners probably will have to spend around $250,000 to buy sufficient equipment to properly maintain the county roads in that precinct, which covers the southwest portion of the county.

Roberts claimed that he has faced ser-

Meek Afghan Resolution Drafted

And Leonel Gomez, the second-ranking official in the U.S.-backed land reform program, said the United States is risking involvement in another Vietnamtype conflict by supporting El Salvador's ruling military junta, which he called unpopular and corrupt.

"Leave it to us," Gomez said Monday.

State Department officials contend the junta is a moderate force, caught between right-wing extremists and Marxist guerrillas drawing support from Cuba and the Soviet Union.

Gomez' flight comes as another blow to El Salvador's land reform effort, which the United States has counted on to bolster the junta against opposition from left-wing guerrillas and more moderate groups.

Last month, Jose Rodolfo Viera, the head of the land reform program, was murdered along with two American advisers at a hotel in San Salvador, the capital of the tiny Central American nation. About 10,000 Salvadorans died last year in the mounting civil strife.

Bombs suspected to have been planted by leftists guerrillas destroyed two transformers Monday, cutting off electricity in Delgado, nine miles west of San Salvador, a police spokesman said. He

In an interview with The Associated Press, Gomez portrayed El Salvador as a police state where top military officials are allied with right-wing paramilitary groups in systematic terror against the civilian population.

While acknowledging that Marxists are involved in the civil war, Gomez, 40, said most guerrillas are people who are simply "fed up" with the military's corruption and repression.

"I think the majority of the people who are fighting on the left are there because they don't see any other choice," Gomez said. Regulation Drains Barrel

CONTINUATION OF the Iran-Iraq war into spring most likely will bring about a new round of gasoline allocations by major distributors and, according to a new report by the Department of Energy, increase the possibility of gas lines for U.S. motorists.

Crude-oil exports from Iran and Iraq since the outbreak of hostilities last fall have averaged no more than one-tenth of their previous 4 million barrels a day.

This has reduced the world's supply substantially.

When it became apparent that oil-production and oil-export facilities would be major targets of both warring parties, analysts predicted that major shortages and skyrocketing prices would result if the war stretched into

BUT THIS hasn't happened yet for a combination of reasons

First, other countries in the region have increased their oil exports by about 1.5 million barrels a day. Plus, the war began at a time when world oil stocks were at a record high and demand was at its lowest level in several years because of conservation and the weakened economies of many oil-importing

The large oil supply and cooperation among member countries of the International Energy Agency have kept the pressure off the spot market.

But aggressive purchases by France since November have forced up world oil prices. Now the experts at the Energy Department re-election to sit as visiting judges to try cases.

Critics raise a valid point: It'd be great for the say that several indicators point toward a worldwide oil shortage by late spring unless Iran and Iraq resume major exporting.

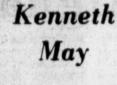

Their report notes that the oil surplus is only half of what it was last fall; it will disappear by April if the decline continues at its current rate.

THIS IS compounded by an unusually severe winter that is depleting home heating oil at a faster rate than had been expected; as a result, refineries will have to continue producing heating oil for a longer period before switching over to gasoline.

If a major worldwide shortage occurs in the spring, oil companies would be faced with the chice of acquiring additional oil at premium prices on the spot market or parceling out whatever supplies they have left to their customers.

Administration officials are aware that a major gasoline shortage is possible. However, those aides say that the chances of another 1979-style gas crunch were substantially reduced by President Reagan's lifting of controls on oil prices and distribution.

They think those controls exacerbated the earlier shortage and, unlike the experts at the Energy Department, have faith in the freemarket system and confidence in the private sector to equalize supply and demand.

GM Gives Birth To Twin Plants

JUAREZ, Mexico-The 19-year-old Mexican woman's hands wre flying, placing a series of co-lored wires unerringly in a black harness. Here, in this border city of old Mexico, she was working with awesome speed on what would soon be an "American" car.

I turned to her boss, General Motors plant manager Luis Ortega, himself one of the first Mexicans to rise so high in a U.S. operation. "Is she always this fast?" I asked.

"Well," he replied with a smile, "she's showing off for you a little. But she's one of our best

The lady had a right to show off. For, in this modern plant built to the latest U.S. specifications and opened less than three years ago, G.M.'s Packard Electric division is already producing three out of four rear-body wiring harnesses for 1981 Chevrolets, Pontiacs, Oldsmobiles, Buicks

AND WITH ONLY five complaints on 3.5 million harnesses shipped, the plant is producing what controller Robert S. Sudimack calls G.M.'s best quality in the world."

What's going on? Why are these significant parts of American cars (controlling stop lights, rear lights and fuel indicators) being assembled south of the border?

The answer, first, is that the G.M. Juarez operation is one of 510 so-called twin plants established by U.S. and other foreign firms in the last 15 years along the Mexican border from Tiajuana in lower California to Matamoros at the mouth of the Rio Grande River

They get that name because more than half are supplied by a twin U.S. facility located within 75

THEIR MOST SALIENT characteristic, however, is that the plants qualify as "in-bond" facilities -which means parts can be imported duty-free from the U.S. for assembly here.

On the return trip, U.S. Customs bills only for the "value added," most of which is labor.

While there are other arguable benefits, clearly the main advantage is low-cost Mexican labor. Even with a 31-percent jump this year in the minimum wage (including benefits) to $1.83 an hour, the U.S. increase to $3.35 means a large continuing differential.

Not unexpectedly, this has caused angry outcries from American unions-and demands for egislation banning such "runaway" operations.

The corporate response is interesting-and seems likely, given the present mood in Washington, to be persuasive. Basically, it's argued that plants located in Mexico would not otherwise be in Youngstown or Pittsburgh-but in places like Taiwan or South Korea.

In that case, they wouldn't be generating so much work for U.S.-based suppliers and finishers. As one of the top American experts on the program, Clinton A. Luckett of El Paso's State National Bank, puts it, "Actually, no jobs are 'exported'-on the contrary, jobs in the U.S. are

The companies in turn benefit, of course, by cheaper and speedier transportation than would be available from the Far East.

As for Mexico, while the jobs are obviously wel-ome in an area where male unemployment runs as high as 55 percent, there has been some tension in a traditionally "macho" culture because the plants are staffed 90 percent by women.

Juarez's dynamic industrial developer, Jaime Bermudez, told me he's trying to alleviate this problem by attracting heavier industries that will employ more men.

While grumbling is likely to continue on both sides of the border, the bottom line is that the twin plants, on balance, improve the economies of both countries. By now, like the teenager on the assembly line, they're entitled to smile and show

Private Labels Sew Up Generic Clothing Gap

NEW YORK-Even in this era of bloated prices made by manufacturers of widely-advertised national brands across the board, you as an individual consumer can actually still save 30 to more than 50 percent on a long, varied list of both necessities and luxuries-merely by buying the "private labels" that please you.

And you are doing precisely that—on a scale defying credulity and reflecting nothing less than a profound revolution in the product mix on retail store shelves the nation over.

Today's statistics are so spectacular that I suspect they will startle even those of you who have for years been devoted customers of "store brands," or "house brands," or "private labels," or whatever your preferred name for them.

* A FULL ONE-fourth of mass-market sales now involve items that come under the heading of private labels, a perpendicular rise in this area of sales in the past decade.

* The size of the private label market is estimated at $100 billion, a total which has been ballooning since the emergence of the new generation of generics sold "without frills" in plain wrappers has lured consumers with savings of 50 percent

And this is in the face of national advertising on brand-name products exceeding $55 billion in 1980 * In such food categories as frozen vegetables:

private labels have captured a 70 percent share of the market, according to studies made by Selling-Areas Marketing, Inc. (SAMI).

IN VITAMINS, PRIVATE label sales are approaching a 50 percent market share. In health and beauty aids, the retail industry estimates sales will escalate from 6 percent in 1980 to 13 percent

Of course, the prime force behind the upsurge has been and is the accelerating rise in our living

Private labels would have become ever more widely accepted in recent years as increasing numbers of consumers became more sophisticated in comparing brands and deciding on values and savings.

But not to this extent! The extra factor has been our search for savings without forfeiting quality. And while quality is an elusive term and to many customers a "brand name" is quality, American consumers have become generally aware that the same government standards govern private as well as brand names in most prod-

GRADE A CARROTS are basically Grade A carrots, no matter what the name on the can. A private-label manufacturer can back up a claim that his products are as good as (or in some cases better than) the nationally-advertised brand

An appliance manufacturer can offer guarantees on store-brand products that are equal to those

If you would guess that it is the lower-income consumer who favors private labels most because of the price savings: you would guess wrong. A majority of private label purchases are made by persons with incomes in excess of $25,000, reports the Simmons Market Research Bureau, Inc. This shopper is in a higher education bracket; is more knowldgeable, says the bureau, and is in search of quality at the best price. In contrast, the lower-income consumer wants the security of a national brand and shrinks from making comparison decisions that demand grappling wth quality standards THE LOWER-INCOME consumer is, as a result, to be the target of a new national campaign to be launched by the Private Label Manufacturers Association. In the words of LM President Ralph Selitzer: 'An educated consumer will be aware of true value: and not be influenced entirely by the imagery of a product, that is, the package design or the name on the box. A private label is not second

Not too many years ago, the private label on a product did cause a raised eyebrow, a question about quality, a statement of approval if the quality was found to be comparable. No longer.

The private brand is in the market competing as never before with the national brand on price, on quality, on inherent value.

U.S. AUTO : INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON-"November's election results jolted the pro-choice majority into political action to protect their beliefs." These are the words of Karen Mulhauser, executive director of the National Abortion Rights Action League.

At a news conference celebrating the eighth anniversary of the Supreme Court's landmark decision legalizing abortion on demand, Mulhauser, noting NARAL's increase in membership, said that this growth is "part of the new wave of prohoice political activity focused on state legislatures, where the real battles against a constitutional amendment (to ban abortions) may have to be fought.

Hmmmmm. Pro-choice. Interesting word. Seventeen times in its three-page press release NAR-AL uses this word. Pro-choice.

THIS IS THE word the pro-abortion crowd really likes to use to describe themselves. And who an blame them? Nobody likes to directly defend abortion. But the problem with the pro-choice rhetoric is that it is phony, it begs the question of what the abortion fight is really all about: the unborn child, whether it is alive and whether that life is worthy of some sort of legal protection. To hear the pro-abortion folks talk, you'd think choice is an absolute right. But it isn't.

You can say what you like about the relative merits of the arguments of the anti-abortion people vs. the pro-abortion people. But at least the anti-abortion people are talking about what is relevant: the unborn child.

One of the speakers at the press conference was Mary Crisp, a NARAL board member who used to be co-chairman of the Republican National Committee. Noting that Abraham Lincoln, the founder of the Republican Party, was a staunch advocate of individual rights, Crisp deplores the 1980 GOP platform's position against abortion.

SHE IMPLIES THAT Lincoln would have supported the pro-choice view. When a question wonders if Lincoln's position on individual rights might not have made him a defender of the unborn, Crisp replies:

'I don't think Lincoln would have gotten into the theological and moral question of when life is conceived. I think Lincoln would have granted this responsibility to the individual. See how contused the pro-abortion crowd is?

The question of when human life begins is not a theological or a moral one. It is a biological question. And I know of no medical authority who believes that human life begins at any time other than at conception. TALKING ABOUT THE conservative anti-abortion PACs which were so active in the 1980 election, she says: "What we're seeing today is the fear that their interests are going to override the rights of others. That's the danger point. And when they're highly funded it's destructive to the national interest. I'd like to see limits of what PACs can give to individuals. PACs just keep springing up. I think the reforms have become a liability.

Oh, really? I ask Crisp. Do you think the $380,-000 the NARAL political action committee spent in the 1980 congressional elections hurt the national interest? Well, she says, she was talking about those PACs that claim to be Republican. The NARAL PAC, says Crisp, is "legitimate." And further-more, "the fundamental line has to be when you try to override the rights of others and subordinate the national interest to the special interest." Ah, yes, the rights of others. When Crisp says these rights ought not to be overridden she is, of course, not talking about the rights of the unborn. Because, in Crisp's view, the unborn have no rights at all. At this point, Mulhauser jumps in to help Crisp. She points out that NARAL's PAC is set up on a "different principle" from the anti-abortion

"OUR PAC WORKS to support pro-choice can-didates rather than a disgusting opposition to in-

But Mulhauser's statement is hogwash. By sup-porting pro-abortion candidates, NARAL's hit list includes, at least potentially, every unborn child in the country

Indeed, NARAL's PAC does operate on a "different principle" from the anti-abortion PACs. The latter is pro-life. And Mary Crisp's views to the contrary notwithstanding, I do not think Abraham Lincoln would have been "pro-choice" any more than he believed slavery was a private matter between a slave and his slave-owner.

A 51-year-old Lubbock man told police a business associate became angry and attacked him Monday morning at a 34th Street warehouse.

Joe Bob Yates, manager of a carpet warehouse at 5278 34th St., said he and the suspect had been involved in an argument about contract wages.

Yates asked the other man to leave the warehouse, and the man started toward the door, then turned abruptly and struck Yates in the mouth, reports show. The manager was knocked to the floor, but the suspect then grabbed him by the shirt and struck him several more times in the face. Yates told officers he managed to hit the attacker, who suddenly said, "Let's stop this. I apologize." The assailant then put his arm on Yates' shoulders in an ap-

In other activity, police were investigating two business burglaries, each involving the loss of several thousand dollars worth of merchandise.

Goods worth an estimated $8,000 were stolen late Sunday or early Monday from McMillian Trucking Co., 3003 Slaton Highway, police said.

Owner T.G. McMillian told officers numerous cases of anti-freeze and motor oil, as well as 14 truck tires and a portable television, were stolen from the business between 4 p.m. Sunday and 6 a.m. Monday.

The missing items were removed from several trailer vans in a fenced-in area of the trucking firm, reports show. A portion of the chain-link fence had been pried open, and the locks on the various vans had been removed, police

The break-in occurred between 6 p.m. Saturday and 7:30 a.m. Monday.

In a separate incident, equipment worth $1,000 was stolen in a weekend burglary from Brown-McKee Inc., 1305 E. 42nd St., police said.

Shop foreman Fred Coleman told officers the missing items include a large quantity of "welding lead," two sets of gauges, two cutting torches and 150 feet of hose. Someone entered the building after noon Saturday by removing a sheet metal panel from the structure itself, police said.

The burglary was discovered Monday

History lessons that once focused on the brilliance of Einstein and the moving poetry of Emily Dickinson now have been infused as well with information about scientist Charles Drew and poet Nikki Giovanni - both leading black figures in their fields.

Those revamped history lessons are the signs of a growing movement in the Lubbock public schools toward "multicultural" education, said elementary consultant Eva Samples.

The trend is getting a boost for the second year from the local chapter of the national black sorority Alpha Kappa Alpha, which has donated to the district posters depicting famous black scientists.

The posters are second in a series that portray leading black Americans in different fields. Last year the group donated posters showing black writers.

The posters are aimed at promoting black history among all children and also show role models for young blacks, said Joan Crawford, a sorority member who teaches at Parkway Elementary School. The donations coincide with Black History Week this week and Black History Month that lasts throughout February

"I think the emphasis of Black History Week is to show that for so long blacks were left out of history. Now we like to think of all of us together," Mrs. Crawford said.

"I want children to see positive role models" through studies about black Americans, she said. "I try to focus studies on current figures too because children at this age need to see somebody

She noted that several years ago encyclopedias did not even cover black histor ical figures. "But everything's changing

now. We have newer sets that do." Mrs. Samples said that black history and history about other cultures now is being included throughout the Lubbock public school curriculum. "It's a multicultural approach." She and Mrs. Crawcultures is brought into such areas as political science, literature, language arts and science

In addition, the secondary schools in the district offer an American Cultures Studies course that covers the study of the American Indian, Mexican-American and black American cultures.

Mrs. Crawford said the study of black history also allows youngsters to learn the education and work that famous the education and work that famous black figures had to pursue to achieve in their fields.

And black history is applicable to children of all races, she said. "It's not just tunneled. It includes everybody."

"I teach them to think, 'I've got to work to do this. Those people didn't just "Mrs. Samples, also a member of the sorrity, said feedback from school officials on the posters has been positive. "I know they're widely used" even beyond Black History Month, she said.

Attorney Trying To Block Execution In Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Defense lawyer Richard Shapiro was going before the state Supreme Court today in an effort to block the execution of David Dene Martin, who is sentenced to die Friday in the electric chair.

If rejected, Shapiro said he would go into the federal courts in a last-minute effort to prevent Louisiana's first execution since 1961. The state high court already has ruled once in the case, deciding that Martin could be executed.

Shapiro's request for a delay was reected Monday by state District Judge Walter I. Lanier

The U.S. Supreme Court laid the groundwork for the execution last November when it refused, by a 6-3 vote, to hear an appeal of Martin's state court conviction.

On Monday, Shapiro failed to convince Lanier that Martin, who was convicted of killing four people in Terre-bonne Parish in 1977, did not have adequate legal counsel at his murder trial.

Shapiro, a lawyer for the Southern Prisoners Defense Committee, argued that Martin's trial lawyer spent only a brief time preparing a case with his client, did not gather enough evidence on Martin's history with drugs and despite heavy news coverage of the case failed to ask the trial be held in another part of

Meanwhile, state officials said they were preparing to carry out the death

"We have a court order which says that between 12 midnight and 3 a.m. on Feb. 13, Martin is to be executed," said Richard Crane, a lawyer with the state Department of Corrections.

"Unless we get an order which su-persedes that order, we will proceed. But we anticipate we will get another order before then, based on my conversations with Shapiro and my knowledge of the

LA MARQUE (UPI) - Terry Pride. an uncle of Cynthia Dwyer, a 49-year-old free-lance journalist convicted of spying in Iran, believes she was manipulated by a group in Iran, whose actions triggered her arrest

"Somebody duped her," Pride said Monday in an interview with the Galveston News.

"She got involved in something that she shouldn't have gotten into. She was trying to help a group who was planning a counterattack (to rescue some of the U.S. hostages). She made several calls back to the states and was intercepted by the Iranians," Pride said.

Mrs. Dwyer, of Amherst, N.Y., was arrested May 5 in Iran on suspicion of spying. She was held for nine months in Evin prison until charges were officially filed against her last week.

Iran's revolutionary court convicted Mrs. Dwyer of spying and sentenced her to nine months in jail, retroactive to the date of her arrest. The court also ordered her immediate expulsion from Iran. Late Monday, Mrs. Dwyer's departure from Iran had been delayed because of passport problems. Pride declined to elaborate on his comments, stating his views were based on "second-hand information.

Tehran newspaper accounts at the time of Mrs. Dwyer's arrest reported she was accused of "collaboration with an armed group for the release of the hostages, attempting to lay groundwork for a new American attack

Body Temperature Range

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 62-

year-old male and retired. I do not get a lot of exercise. My temperature varies from 96 to 98 degrees F. I would like to know what makes it vary that much and if there is any danger from the variation. What can be done for

DEAR READER - That does sound a little low. The body temperature varies a great deal more than most people realize. It may vary three degrees in a 24-hour period. The low level is in the early morning hours when very few people take their tem-perature and the high point is in the late afternoon or early evening. This cyclical change is the diurnal cycle and is related to our sleep cycle and rmone secretion. We usually say that body temperature may vary from 96.6 to 100 F and still be normal. But it depends a lot on the individual and also on how the temperature is taken. Even the thermometer may not be entirely accurate. Skin temperature is lower than mouth temperature and that may be why you have given me a relatively low reading. You could have a bad thermometer, or, if you're taking your temperature by mouth, you may not be leaving it in long enough

I have discussed the various things that affect taking body temperature in The Health Letter number 7-6, Body Temperature and Fever, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. These factors include whether you have just taken a hot bath and even what you have eaten.

The body temperature is a good indicator of general health. But it is important to know that it can be above the magical 98.6 F and still be entirely normal, particularly in active young children in the evening. The low temperatures are more often associated with low metabolism. Check out your method with the information I am sending you and if your temperature persists on the low side, see your doctor. A low thyroid condition or being totally inactive may be the reason. But it could be just normal for you.

DEAR DR. LAMB - 1 am an 18year-old girl who has never been in the hospital and am what you might call sort of a hypochondriac. Every once in a while I get a slight pain where my appendix is. What do you think I should do? When I get the pain I don't double over or anything, although sometimes it almost gets to that point. I am deathly afraid of my appendix bursting or having to be tak-

DEAR READER - It probably is not your appendix but the next time you have such a pain you may want to see your doctor. The typical pain of appendicitis is preceded by fullness or loss of appetite and discomfort in the middle of the abdomen. The pain moves to the right lower side later. But all cases are not typical.

Your discomfort could be from gas. Gas pains can be so severe that they cause people to double up, and the cecum, the blind pouch at the end of the colon, is one place where gas is

If the pain occurs midway between your periods, it could be the pain associated with ovulation. Since it occurs midway in the cycle, it is often called mittelschmerz, meaning middle pain. But no one can tell you what yor pain is without a more detailed history and examination.

Puppets Need Stage For Performance

Did you get a new puppet as a present over the holidays? Or perhaps you spent your long winter vacation making some snazzy new puppets. Either way, your puppet will look best if you perform your puppet show on some kind of stage.

I always set the stage for Lambchop. She works in a darkened area with a bright spotlight circling her. The audience knows where to look. And she sits securely on my arm. Now, you don't need spotlights, but you do need a stage floor - a 'playboard" on which your puppets can sit, walk or dance, or behind which they can disappear! Here's a stage you can set in a second: Start with a folding table (maybe your folks call it a "bridge table"?). Stand the table on its side. Open the four legs for support. Lean the tabletop against the doorway, so that smooth, clean surface is facing the audience. Now you (the puppeteer) can duck down behind the table. Put your puppets on your hands. Hold your arms up over your head, and where they should - on your puppets as they play - because you've set the stage!

Stop Smoking' Plan Launched

Family News Staff

It is a common sight in magazines: the young woman and young man, both dressed in cool shades of green, sitting beside a softly flowing brook... the grass is green, the trees are full of green leaves... and the man and woman are both smoking cigarettes.

The message you are supposed to get from this ad is that smoking and nature go hand and hand.

Now imagine another picture, also in color. A man and woman are jogging through a forest. The grass is green, the trees are green, the man is wearing a sunshine yellow sweatsuit. The woman reaches down and plucks a beautiful yellow flower and inhales its fresh scent... The nature message is the same. What is

DEAR ABBY

Advice Works For Widow

DEAR ABBY: If you did nothing more in 1980 than what you did for me, you will have earned your place in heaven. I wrote to you saying I was the widow of a retired railroad man and that four years ago I had fallen in love with a fine gentleman who had a limited income. We wanted very much to marry, but if we did, I would lose my widow's pension, which I needed to survive. Because both of us were too old-fashioned to "shack up" as some younger couples do, we just went together, each maintaining a separate apartment, although living together would have made more sense.

You advised me to get in touch with Chaplain R.A. Masse in Lawrence, Mass., saying he would perform an "In God's Eye" marriage to accommodate people in our circumstances.

Well, I did. My gentleman friend and I went to see him, and, Abby, the ceremony he performed for us was every bit as spiritual as my very first!

Now I feel that God has truly blessed this union, and I can't thank you enough.
HAPPY IN PHILADELPHIA

DEAR HAPPY: I have heard from couples in Rhode Island, Florida, New York and Maine telling me that they, too, went to Lawrence, Mass., to be married by Chaplain Masse. He has recently eniisted the help of chaplains in every state of the union (and Canada) who will perform the same service. Interested parties may write to: Associated Chaplains, P.O. Box 1077-C, Lawrence, Mass, 01842, for information. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to say a few words about the "May-I-Borrow-Your-Husband-for-This-Dance"-type

There's a lady we know who never waits to be asked to dance. She asks other husbands to dance with her. And if that's not bad enough, she keeps them on the dance floor for at least three dances! And when the gentleman returns her to her own husband, she says, "Oh no, not

This lady is at least 60 years old, which is old enough to know better. I might add, there is nothing wrong with her own husband or his dancing, so there's no excuse for her actions.

DEAR ABBY: About the guy who nade love with his socks on: I'm reminded of the minister in a small lowa church who became enamored of the new, vol-uptuous, Parton-bosomed choir director. After three weeks of lusting after her, he could no longer stand it, so he gave in to his baser feelings, confessed his yearnings to her and invited her to sneak off with him to the basement. To his delight, she contessed to similar desires and readily accompanied him. But lo, it was too narrow and cramped to recline, so both; entangled in their respective choir robes, stood upright locked in loving embrace Then he expressed the worry, "I hope none of the congregation catches us doing this. 'Elegant Extra Of Life' Ideal To Give, Receive At Wedding

NEW YORK (Special) - Champagne! The very word means gaiety, happiness, celebration, romance, weddings.

What would a traditional wedding be without a champagne toast to the bride and bridegroom?

Authentic champagne from France is not only the traditional drink to serve during the nuptial celebratons, but there are also many related events before and after the wedding that call for the spar-kling liquor that Dickins described as "one of the elegant extras of life."

Here are some suggestions for serving champagne before, during and after the

BEFORE: Serve the bubbly at a champagne shower, or to bridesmrids and ushers after the wedding rehearsal. You can also serve it at an engagement party or at an intimate dinner for mem-bers of the families.

DURING: Toast the bride and bridegroom with champagne poured from the 9-liter bottle, called a Salmanazar, which contains a full case of wine and serves 60-The large bottle is a rarity, but can be obtained if ordered well in advance. And the empty bottle is a marvellous memento of the occasion.

AFTER: Champagne is ideal for a bon voyage party en route to a honeymoon, a candlelight dinner to end the glorious day or a wedding breakfast on the following day.

Champagne is also an ideal gift to give or to receive. A half-bottle is a nice touch attached to gifts given to the couple.

If you are very close to the bride or bridegroom, an important gift could be a case of the bubbly for future consump-

For the new bride who wants to relax and enjoy the meal with her guests, champagne is a perfect choice - even with a very simple meal. What should you buy?

Non vintage brut is the most versatile champagne. A blend of 20 to 30 wines, it can properly be served as an aperitif, throughout the meal, or at any time of the day or night.

Vintage and/or tete de cuvee champagnes are for super occasions — first an-niversary, Valentine's Day, etc.

A vintage champagne will bear the year on the bottle and a tete de cuvee will be easily recognized because it usually comes in a replica of an eithteenth century hand-blown champagne bottle. This is the top of the line, a luxurious wine made in vintage years from the first pressing only, and aged longer than other fine champagnes.
Rose Champagne is another interesting possibility. It is the traditional wine of lovers, and has been associated with romance. Valentine's Day and a tete-atete. A robust, fragrant wine, it goes well with red meat and game.

Here are some do's and dont's for rving Champagnes:

Use tall, elegant tulip or flute glasses which show the wine to its best advantage. The saucer type sherbert glass usually used is not recommended, because it dissipates the bubbles quickly and is awkward to hold. To open a bottle of champagne properly and safely, dry the bottle, remove the foil, untwist the wire muzzle and loosen it all around the neck of the bot-Hold the bottle at a 45 degree angle, pointed AWAY from you and your guests; grasp the cork firmly and turn the bottle, not the cork. The pressure will work for you and the cork should come out with a soft, gentle pop.

To store champagne, keep it on its side in a dark, cool place. The wine will keep its freshness about five years if stored properly.

Author Believes Toys Designed To Promote Strength, Dexterity

By ELLIE GROSSMAN NEW YORK (NEA) — Kids play. They always have, even in the cave days, some say, and there's no reason to think they'll ever stop.

"There must be a 'play' gene in us,"
Inez McClintock, co-author with Bernard Barenholtz of "American Antique Toys" (published by Harry N. Abrams, Inc.; $45), says. "You put four children together who've never played and before the morning is over, they're playing.". What's more, they're playing with the same types of toys kids played with in alien cultures, civilizations ago. "There always have been categories of toys through history: dolls, rattles, blocks, transportation toys . . ," Mrs. McCl; intock said.

'And some forms of tenpins," she adds. "The idea of throwing a ball and knocking something down has been around a long, long time. So has the tether ball where you have a pole with a ball attached to it by a string, and two child-ren bat the ball in opposite directions, trying to wrap it around the pole. When white men first came to America, the Indians were playing tether ball."

Toys really only change, they say, ac-cording to materials on hand and what people know about using them. For instance, says Barenholtz, "We went from toy fire engines in the 19th century drawn by volunteer firemen, to horsed rawn vehicles, to the automobile. An when the Wright Brothers flew, toy airplanes were made and still are. But we've gone from the bi-plane to the DC-10 and, now, the space ship.

We made toys first from wood, tin — the material of mass production, he says - then cast iron, which edged out tin. 'When we learned the technique of casting iron after the Industrial Revolution, tin toys began to diminish because you could produce cast iron so much faster. It was also a much heavier and better material for marketing.'

Today, there's plastic, vinyl and whatever else battery-run and computerized toys are made of. And, wood, of sorts.

"Since wood is becoming so expensive," he says, "we're using pressed wood made of wooden chips and sawdust, a very substantial material."

Whatever their composition, toys re-veal other aspects of the nature of the society composing them.

"My theory is that playthings — things not specifically designed for play, which toys are — were developed to promote strength and dexterity in children," Mrs. McClintock said. "Like tether ball, for example. Toys, I think, reflect the values of the society. It's interesting that we have far fewer militaristic toys now than 25 years ago, although battle ships may still be popular. I think that's because concerned parents organized themselves into protest groups to which marketing people responded. I'm sure if you had the same group pusing war toys, they'd come back.

What won't return, probably, is the respect the country once had for "personal industry," she says. "Children used to play with miniature farm tools a rake, a hoe, small brooms. We had those until not too long ago, but then children were an integral part of the family. They had their responsibilities. To-day, you have to manufacture jobs for them such as taking out the garbage and I think children no longer feel important.

In the 19th century, too, the effects of personal industry were held dear and saved. Literally.

"A variety of mechanical banks were made," says Barenholtz, "and thrift was highly prized. We went from a barter to a monetary exchange society, from a child working in the field with no time for toys to an industrial period of mass production with people working in factories.

25-cent toy, you had to save 25 pennies. Toy banks are still manufactured, of course, but not fed as they were. "I gave my grandchlildren two of those applewith-the-worm banks. They tried them out once or twice and that was that," Mrs. McClintock says.

Still, that's to be expected in a society maintained on built-in obsolescence, she contends. "Why save? Children are brought up in an environment where a dress doesn't last for 25 years the way the old linsey-woolsey did. We throw out; we don't tuck away. And today's girl-child doesn't often hug a rag doll her mother stitched. She manipulates the arms of a Barbie doll which comes, if girl-child is vocal enough, with seasonal wardrobe changes, 'ice skates, $1,000 mink coat and a sports car," says Barenholtz. No opporutinity there to develop dexterity except, perhaps, in learning how to finger a charge card. Tomorrow's child won't even need to do that.

"Computerized toys also reflect the world children are living in," he says. You can order things on the phone that are recorded on a computer and deducted from your bank account. And when people finally have computer terminals in their homes, we'll end up with a very fat society — from just sitting."

Key Issues Of Estate Planning Discussed At Annual Seminar

COLLEGE STATION (Special) -Professionals engaged in estate planning were briefed on a number of key issues at a seminar at Texas A&M University.

The sixth Estate Planning Seminar featured such topics as advantages and disadvantages of incorporating a business, owning and transferring life insur-ance, gifts to minors, Amendment 9 regarding separate and community property, income taxation of estates and trusts, and special use valuation for farms and Special sessions were conducted on the Texas Inheritance Tax, valuation of minerals for gifts and estate taxation, tax planning and matters relating to the Internal Revenue Service.

A review of current events in estate planning opened the seminar, Dr. James Ahrenholz, economist in management with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, sponsor of the seminar, said. Program speakers were a host of lawyers, a law professor, Internal Revenue Service and life insurance representatives and bank trust officers.

Ahrenholz noted that of special inter-the topics dealing with Amendment 9 passed last November, which deals with separate and community property under Texas law, and special use valuation for farms and ranchers (Internal Revenue Code 2032 A) in light of recent tax regula-

Establishing a way to find jobs for Lubbock's disabled persons and offering ideas to bring the disabled society to "the good life" are two goals of the newly formed Community Partnership Program for the disabled in Lubbock.

Addressing the organizational meeting of the Community Partnership Program at Texas Tech, the chairman of the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped told the group that bad attitudes toward handicapped persons aren't held just by physically normal

Chairman Justin W. Dart Jr., himself confined to a wheelchair, said, "We beginning with those of us who are disabled - must act, must accept complete responsibility for our own lives, to control and mold our thoughts and actions toward a total, rational effort to maximize quality of life for the self and for all."

Dart said trying to develop real, often undramatic, changes in the daily thoughts of individuals are the ways to help ease the harshness often shown to handicapped persons.

The chairman also told the meeting that the number of disabled Americans is approximately 36 million, of which 60 percent of working age exist at near or below the poverty level.

Dart said handicapped persons are willing to work and just need the chance. He also said spending on disability has become a farce. "Federal, state, local and private spending on disability mostly devoted to the maintenance of non-productive dependence - has grown from $59.1 billion in 1970 to an estimated $210 billion in 1980. If present trends are allowed to continue, this situation, already a major contributor to public deficits and inflation, could become an uncontrollable socio-economic cancer.' Dart said.

Dart defined the problem toward not accepting disabled persons as one of avoiding the subject because of unpleasant implications.

The vast majority of individuals with disabilities, the weak, the different, the half-pitied, half-despised, half-members of every group, are the natural inhabitants of the lower regions of our social hierarchy and are firmly etablished as ev eryman's reliable inferiors, society's eternal children, "Dart said.

Dart explained disabled persons are taught through society that they exist as hoplessly impoverished and permanently outcast from "the good life.

The chairman added the disabled are looked at by other persons as "millions of relatively silent and invisible disabled Americans who exist in a state of unspoken but very real untouchability

Dart called on all disabled persons whether blind, unable to walk or unable to talk, to take a more active role in society and reject the stereotypes set for the handicapped.

The chairman also called for the newly formed Community Partnership Program to set up subcommittees to help handicapped persons find jobs. Also speaking before the group was W.K. Harvey, commissioner of the Texas Rehabilitation Committee, who offered suggestions for the actual structure of the committee. Noting that 1981 has been decreed the International Year for the Disabled by the United Nations, Harvey said, "The significant point at this time is that you are taking specific, local action, using the international year as a vehicle, to address a concentrated effort not only to make the community aware of a most important segment of its population - its disabled citizens - but to improve that segment's access to the opportunity to par-county is losing money, he maintained. With the additional personnel, Keesee estimated that the sheriff's department will generate enough revenue to cover the new employees' salaries and return between $40,000 and $125,000 to the county's general fund.

Keesee's promise to raise additional money for the county failed to sway Biggs, however. "I've bought so many money makers and money savers that I don't have any money left," Biggs said.

Commissioners Boyd Roberts and Franklin Dunn - the two newest members of the court - voiced strong support for Keesee's bid for five deputies and two secretaries.

Dunn said he did not view the request as a budget increase if the additional personnel could generate more revenue for the county.

But Shaw argued that the request was too large to consider prior to the county's regular budget sessions next summer. Shaw said he might consider adding two

The horse trading began at this point, with Keesee offering to cut his request by two workers. Shaw countered that would vote for that proposal if Keesee agreed not to bring any additional staff requests to commissioners prior to June

'Mail-Order' Minister Commits Suicide After Killing Family

TERRELL (AP) - Money problems and an impending prison sentence apparently drove a "mail-order" minister to sign a suicide note with his wife and daughters, kill the three of them, torch their house then lie beside their bodies and shoot himself to death, investigators

Ralph A. Simpson Sr., 57, a Southern Baptist minister; his partially paralyzed wife, Mildred, 50. and their two daughters - Pattie, 12, and Rebecca, 17 were found dead in Simpson's bedroom Monday when firemen arrived at the one-story frame house.

All four were lying side-by-side on Simpson's bed, all shot in the head with a .22-caliber rifle, said Police Chief Joseph Patton. The weapon was found near the bodies and the suicide note, which all four family members had signed, was found in the family car.

The one-page typed note read, in "We choose to die by our own

'The note said the money was gone," said Justice of the Peace L.T. Smith. "It said there was no other reason than things had not gone well (financially) with the father.

"Obviously the man was overcome by paranoia," said Patton. "This seemed like a planned thing - they all signed the note. I guess they gave up on the world."

Simpson was convicted of aggravated assault in August 1979 on charges he threatened a man with a deer rifle and was free on a $10,000 appeal bond at the time of his death, Van Zandt County court records show.

His son, Jim, 27, a car salesman in Terrell, said he had just moved out of the house three days before the killings - rebelling, he said, against a domineering father who would not permit his invalid wife to have visitors and kept his daughters out of public schools and away from neighbor children.

He said the prospect of a prison term may have been the compelling motive behind the killings. ... I think prison, to him, was just like death and he didn't want his family to face it without him," the son said. Another son, Ralph Jr., also lived away from home.

Smith ordered autopsies after concluding that the mother and daughters were homicide victims, but the father had taken his own life. He said the four signatures on the suicide pact appeared to have been written in different hands, with the two girls signing just their first names and the wife signing as "Mrs. Ralph A. Simpson Sr."

Smith estimated the time of death as between 5:30 a.m. and 6 a.m. Monday. "We have a witness who heard some shots about that time," he said.

Real estate agent Hardy Jones rented the house to the Simpsons and said Monday's events were the first indication that the family was having trouble. "He was quite a talker," Jones said of Simpson. "He seemed a little fanatical ... a religious fanatic. He quoted a lot of scripture and verse. He quoted the Bible and he believed it. In a small town like this, something like this is quite a shock."

Moving Expenses Deductible which not more than $1,000 is allowed

By RAY De CRANE (Seventh of 14 parts)

Several million Americans move every year. Not all of them, but a substantial number, have a valuable write-off of those expenses on their federal income tax return.

This is known as one of those "Adjustment to income" items on your tax return. As such, the moving expense adjustment is far more valuable than an ordinary deduction on your tax return.

Adjustments are subtracted from total income in arriving at adjusted gross income. It is after this operation that you have a choice of either itemizing your deductions or taking a way, you could have both the moving expense adjustment and also the standard deduction.

Such adjustments are eplored in detail in "Cut Your Own Taxes and Save," by Ray De Crane. To get your copy, send a check or money order for $1.50 (plus 50 cents postage and handling) to "Cut Your Own Taxes" co this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York 10019.

The move could have resulted from a transfer by your employer, from your finding a new job in another location, or from relocating your business in another community.

Two important elements are required in creating eligibility: distance and time.

The distance between your new job and your old residence must be at least 35 miles greater than the distance from your old job to your old residence. That's not a problem if you moved across the country. It could be a problem if you just moved across

On the time side, if you are an employee you must be employed for at least 39 months following the move. If you are self-employed, you must work in the same location for at least 78 weeks in the first two weeks.

If you meet - or expect to meet the two conditions, here is what you can charge off on your income tax: 1. The cost of moving your household goods. This could also include packing and crating, in-transit insurance and storage. 2. Travel expenses from the old to new location for all members of the family. This includes meals, lodging and transportation. If you go by plane, train or bus, charge actual fare. If you go in your car, you can charge a transportation allowance of 9 cents a mile plus parking and toll charges.

3. The cost of one pre-move househunting trip for every member of the

4. The cost of temporary quarters, enerally lodging and meals, for up to 30 days after obtaining work.

The costs incurred in selling your old residence and buying a new one. This includes real-estate commissions, closing costs, attorney fees, points charged on a mortgage if not deducted as interest and your share of the escrow fees.

There are no dollar limitations on 1 and 2 as long as they are fair and reasonable. The maximum allowed on the other categories is $3,000, of TASHINGTON (AP) - China is loosenig its internal controls while repressionin the other major communist power, te Soviet Union, is as bad as it's been in adecade, according to the State Departhent's annual human rights report.

Without those elements coming into play, one expert said, "It is hard to see a way out of the present impasse."

He suggested the decisive point will not come until early March.

"Intellectually, I believe that the Soviets will see how disastrous intervention could be and they will pull back," one official said. "In my guts, I have this feel-

Members Of Cabinet Told To Stop Leaks

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, concerned that administration debates are being aired in public, has told Cabinet members in firm language to keep their policy arguments private.
"The Cabinet should not be a sieve and things that people say in there should remain in that room," White House press secretary James S. Brady said Monday. "People should be able to discuss and express their opinions without having them repeated on the street."

Deputy White House press secretary

Larry Speakes said Reagan expressed his opinions about news leaks in "firm but not angry" tones at last week's Cabinet

Exactly what he said hasn't leaked. but Speakes said the president "did express some feelings that we should definitely do our debating among ourselves."

News leaks of White House secrets have been a perennial problem for past presidents, and Reagan has been no exception in his first three weeks in office. The Washington Post reported that Brady and other Reagan aides tried unsuccessfully to trace the source of leaks.

In recent days, a compilation of budg-et-cutting proposals prepared by David

A. Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget, was circulated by the administration on Capitol Hill and quickly became public.

There also was a news report that Reagan had decided at last week's Cabinet meeting to continue the Soviet grain em-bargo, although official spokesmen main-tained no decision had been made.

And there were stories of conflicts between Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger over deploying the neu-tron weapon and between Haig and Stockman over cutting foreign aid.

The budget proposals on which Reagan is working have been the subject of the most leaks, although Brady said that wasn't surprising.

Speakes said Reagan recognized that differences among Cabinet members occasionally would "break out in the open" and was not asking them to refrain from expressing their views publicly on var-

There have been other indications the new administration may be trying to clamp down on open press coverage of White House activities:

As for Mrs. Reagan's restoration project, her staff director, Peter McCoy, said there were "little things that have gone neglected for a number of years' and need attention in the White House, Blair House and a small government guest home that faces Lafayette Square.

Blair House "needs work," McCoy house a half-block from the White House where the Reagans stayed before the inauguration and where foreign dignitaries stay. The nearby guest house on Jackson Place also needs refurbishing, he said. McCoy said he didn't know how the first lady would go about her restoration project, but he said he doesn't think she will ask Congress for money to underwrite the project.

"I think she feels quite strongly that these are national treasures and that when foreign dignitaries come to stay in this case it would be Blair House that it should to a certain extent be a home away from home. And it should be in good repair.

McCoy, interviewed in his office on the second floor of the East Wing, pointed out water stains on the wallpaper.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The bright lights were on, the cameras were rolling and the Senate chamber looked like the stage for a remake of "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

But nether Mr. Smith nor any of the 100 real senators was there Monday. Instead technicians and chamber of-

Television networks, which have a stake in the outcome of any Senate decision to put itself on camera, aided the inhouse technicians in brightening the dull browns and blues of the chamber.

Tests were to continue while Congress remains in recess.

The House has been televising sessions for two years, with the gavel-to-gavel proceedings available on a cable network and on monitors in Capitol offices. The real use for the public, however, comes when the commercial networks take "bites" of the floor action for the evening news.

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Stock Prices Drift Lower In Trading

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices drifted lower in modest trading today, with concern growing after one major bank's move to cut its prime lending rate was not followed.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 1.79 points to 945.39. Monday's 5.12-point slide ended four consecutive days

Declines held a 7-4 edge over advances in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., the nation's fifth-largest bank, cut its prime lending rate on Monday 19 percent from 19.5 percent. But this morning, No. 2 Citibank annouced its prime rate would remain unchanged at 19.5 percent, and other major banks also have yet to match Morgan Guaranty.

'As long as no one follows Morgan Guaranty down, the market is going to be wary," said Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. Gordon also said the stock market is in "kind of a holding pattern" as it awaits President Reagan's economic address to Congress next week and looks for indications of how much of the plan will be ac-

The NYSE's composite index of all of its listed common stocks fell 0.22 to 73.83. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down 0.68 at 345.91.

Big Board volume reached 15.98 million shares over the first two hours, compared with 16.40 million in the same period Mon-

Renewed speculation of prospects for a glut in world oil supplies and a leveling off of oil prices sent oil stocks tumbling Monday, and the slide continued among many major oil issues today.

Exxon, the most active issue. was down 1/2 at 72% in trading that included 50,000 shares changing

But Standard Oil of California was up 11/4 at 921/4, and Texaco gained 1/8 to 39%, while Gulf fell 1/4 to 38%: Atlantic Richfield slid 1 to 57%; Conoco dipped 11/8 to 601/8; Occidental Petroleum, which reported lower fourth-quarter earnings, dropped % to 30%; and Mobil declined 1/s to 70%.

Active issues included International Business Machines, down 36 at 631/s: Boeing, up 1/2 at 361/s: American Telephone & Telegraph, down 16 at 52%; and Trans World. down % at 20%.

Homestake Mining, which reported reduced fourth-quarter earnings, fell 11/2 to 551/2.

Sterling Drug fell 1/4 to 211/4 after a Federal Trade Commission administrative law judge said the company had no reasonable basis for claiming Bayer Aspirin was more effective than other aspirin.

Dollar Down; Gold Rises

LONDON (AP) - The value of the U.S. dollar retreated against most major currencies today in foreign-exchange trading in Europe. Gold prices rose amid rising political tensions in Poland and fears of possible Soviet interven-

The dollar sunk to 2.1365 West German marks, from Monday's closing rate of 2.1440. The U.S. currency scored its lone gain against the British pound, with sterling falling to $2.3400 from $2.3425 on Monday.

Here is how the dollar was faring against other currencies at mid-morning, compared with late Monday: 1.9365 Swiss francs, down from 1.9438; 4.9285 French francs, down from 4.9375; 2.3140 Dutch guilders, down from 2.3238; 1.011.50 Italian lire, down from 1,-

Dealers said the dollar may have been weakened by signs that U.S. interest rates may fall from their current high levels. On Monday, a major New York bank cut its prime corporate lending rate by one-half percentage point to 19 percent, the lowest among major U.S. commercial banks.

Refineries Raise Wholesale Prices

Shell Oil Co., Atlantic Richfield Co., and Sun Co. raised wholesale fuel prices by as much as 4 cents a gallon in the continuing price surge that has boosted the average U.S. pump price by 10.2 cents a gallon in a single month, an analyst says.

Since President Reagan lifted price controls on domestic crude oil and gasoline Jan. 28, more than 35 wholesale price increases for gasoline and heating oil have been made by large U.S. refiners.

Analysts said the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries' recent 10 percent rise in crude oil prices and the oil industry's attempt to recover costs it was unable to pass along to the consumer last year also were responsible for the steep price runup.

The nation's average pump price jumped by 10.2 cents a gallon to $1.32 a gallon on Feb. 6 from $1.22 a gallon on Jan. 9, the Los Angelesbased Lundberg Letter said Monday. Wholesale gasoline prices rose by 10 cents to $1.08 a gallon over the same period.

Shell Oil Co. dealers in Massachusetts said Monday they had been notified by Shell - the 3rd largest U.S. gasoline marketer - that its wholesale gasoline prices were going up 4 cents a gallon.

Arco, the No. 8 marketer, lifted all grades of gasoline by 2 cents a gallon east of the Rockies and by 2 to 4 cents a gallon west of the Rockies, depending on grade and class of trade.

Sun, the No. 10 gasoline marketer, boosted its wholesale gasoline prices by 2 cents a gallon in New York state — with the exception of the metropolitan New York City area — and by a penny a gallon in

Judge Rules Bayer Claims Misleading

WASHINGTON (AP) - The maker of Bayer Aspirin had no rege sonable basis for claiming the product was more effective than other aspirin, a Federal Trade Commission judge found today.

Administrative Law Judge Montgomery K. flyun said Sterling
Drugs Inc., maker of Bayer Aspirin, Bayer Children's Aspirin, Vanquish, Cope and Midol, touted the products with a series of misleading claims.

In an order expected to be appealed to the five-member commission, he ordered Sterling not to make effectiveness claims without reliable scientific evidence to back them up.

Hyun said his order is necessary because "consumers will conti to be misled by (Sterling's) advertising representations regarding effi-cacy or safety or quality" of the non-prescription drugs taken as pain However, Hyun turned down requests by FTC lawyers for an order requiring Sterling to buy new ads correcting the old ones. The judge said the evidence was not enough to show the ads "played a significant role in creating or reinforcing a mistaken product image."

Sterling said after the decision its ads "appropriately and accurately reflected the scientific data." It said it would appeal to the five commissioners and said it was confident the FTC would agree that it documented the superiority of Bayer Asprin and Bayer Children's Asprin Hyun also ordered that future Sterling ads say when aspirin is an ingredient and not refer to commonly known ingredients such as aspirin and caffein by unfamiliar names. Many people do not know that Vanquish, Cope and Midol contain aspirin, an important fact because many people cannot tolerate aspirin, the judge said.

Agriculture Leaders Promoting Exports

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Agribusiness leaders want to convince the American people that in the long run, acceleration of already record U.S. farm exports will lower, rather than increase, food prices.

Other advantages to the U.S. economy, the leaders said Monday in outlining an export strategy, would be a stronger dollar, more jobs and a strengthened international position for the United States.

The plan, entitled "U.S. Export Strategies for the Eighties," was unveiled at a conference of U.S. agricultural leaders and experts who would like to increase exports to the maximum feasible level and educate the American public as to the advantages of farm exports. The conference was coordinated by the Agriculture Council of America, a Washington-based umbrella group organized in 1973 to communicate agriculture's story to the general public.

The export advocates said in the short term, sudden increases in overseas sales might raise food prices, but noted higher prices encourage farmers to increase capital investment and adopt the latest production practices

"This, in turn, means greater efficiency, more production, and over a period of time may result in a relatively lower level of consumer spending on food," they said.

As exports increased 21/2 times during the past decade, the tage of disposable income Americans spent on food declined from 18. percent to 15.9 percent, they said.

Some Consumers Hail Utility Restriction

AUSTIN (AP) - A Public Utility Commission examiner's recommendation of tighter rules on utility cut-offs today won partial praise from consumer groups that asked for the regulations

Mark Zeppa proposed a rule Monday that would give a consumer the right to block an electricity cut-off for 60 days because of illness or the likelihood of sickness. Zeppa's report will be considered by the three-man PUC at a Feb. 25 hearing.

The rules were sought by Consumers Union and the Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now. Carol Barger, CU's attorney, said the recommendations "go a long way toward fulfilling" PUC's responsibility to consumers who get utility service from mo-

However, ACORN attorney Stephen Gardner said, "The heating examiner should have gone farther in a few respects."

Gardner complained that Zeppa did not endorse an ACORN proposal that would have guaranteed a hearing before a utility service

Treasury Bill Rates Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) - The interest rates paid by banks and thrift institutions on six-month money market certificates will rise Thursday to their highest rates in three weeks as a result of the latest Treasury bill auction.

The maximum rate on the certificates, sold in denominations of $10,000 and up, will rise to 14.680 percent from the current level of

That rate is tied to the discount rate at auction of the six-month Treasury bills, which rose to 14.430 percent Monday from the previous week's 13.735 percent and was the highest since Jan. 19, when the rate was 14.471 percent.

The discount rate on three-month bills rose to 15.397 percent from 14.657 percent the previous week and was the highest since 15.595 percent on Jan. 19.

Actress Alters Views On Gun Control Issue

NEW YORK (AP) — The first time Sally Struthers ever fired a handgun, she dissolved in tears, but on camera a short time later, she shot to kill and set her movie character up for a murder charge.

In the interim between her real introduction to firearms and the filming of "A Gun in the House" for CBS, her view of survival in a feral world was changed. Before the role, the very idea of handgun ownership was abhorrent. Now she's not so sure.

"I think my soul - whoever I am this time around - is very peace-oriented, she said in a telephone interview from her Los Angeles home. "I'm very sensitive to other people's feelings ... very non-violent ... violence of any kind makes me sick at my stomach."

Yet violence becomes the central issue of life and death for the character she portrays in the CBS movie. (The movie airs Wednesday at 8 p.m., CST, on Lubbock Channel 13 KLBK-TV).

In the film, she plays the wife of an airline pilot, frequently left alone to brood about her helplessness in the face of increasing crime in her neighborhood. Finally, she buys a gun for self defense and when two thugs break in, she uses it, One of them falls dead, the other flees and she finds herself charged with murder by a district attorney who refuses to believe her story.

To prepare for the role, Miss Struthers, who had never held a gun of any kind in her hand, turned to police at El Monte, Calif., for instruction on the firing range. They started her with a .22 caliber pistol, then graduated her to a .38.

I sent the first bullet down the range and I put the gun down and started to she said. "I was like an 'All in the Family' episode. I really looked like all those times when I cried and went 'Wahhh!' It was that stupid, but I couldn't help it."

Miss Struthers stuck with her firearms instruction and, with growing familiarity, was able to handle a gun on the film set without panic, but she said in three and a half weeks of shooting, she was "never totally comfortable, even though I knew it was loaded with blanks.

be able to make a blanket statement and say that all the weapons in the world should be dumped in the sea, but that's very naive ... Criminals will always buy, make or steal weapons.

"I do, however, having made this film, think it should be mandatory that anyone who purchases a gun have to take 25 hours of a gun-handling course from a police academy."

Miss Struthers prefers alternatives to firearms in self-defense - mace, tear gas, even a baseball bat. And Kung Fu which she is studying. She also intends to take the gun-handling course, but she wouldn't say the film that turned her thinking in that direction should turn everyone's thinking the same way.

'The message is the last line of the movie, when Detective Campbell hands a revolver back to me in front of my house and says, 'I'm obligated by law to return this to you," she said. "And I turn to him and say, 'Do I have to take this back?' And the last line of the movie is, 'you have to do whatever you think is

But Clayton indicated Monday Rep. Gene Green, D-Houston, had to convince enough members to have another vote to suspend constitutional rules for the House to begin serious action.

Under the statute four-fifths, or 120 of the House's 150 members, must vote to suspend the rules in order for the lower chamber to conduct committee hearings during the first 30 days of the sessions, or from passing legislation during the first

Reagan talked to state and county officials Monday and had them extolling his ideas by day's end.

As Richard Hodes, a Democratic state representative from Florida, said: There seems to be an approach by this administration which we hope will be supported by the Congress for the development of a new federalism in America an opportunity for the states to again become genuine partners in government in the United States."

Hodes said Reagan assured the group he favors block grants of federal aid to states, ending the categorical grants that effectively forced local governments to spend money as Washington saw fit.

The 15-year-old runaway was not one of the two missing black children whose cases have been turned over to a special police task force investigating a series of slayings and disppearances.

The task force planned to question Lee Manuel Gooch today to see "if there's any truth to his statements," a spokesman said.

A state legislator, meanwhile, drafted a bill to give the governor authority to create a state commission for coordinating police investigations into the slayings or disappearances of 17 black children in the past 19 months.

Rep. Johnny Isakson, R-Marietta, today planned to introduce the bill that would provide sweeping powers for dis-

Interim Official At Tech Announces Resignation

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY Avalanche-Journal Staff

The resignation of an interim vice president at Texas Tech University puts pressure on the development job search committee to "move expeditiously" a spokesman said this morning in the wake of George M. Fielding's announcement he is leaving March 1.

Fielding, 38, was named interim vice president for development and university relations last Oct. 15 after former development vice president Dr. Clyde Kelsey Jr. was asked to step down by President Lauro Cavazos.

Fielding has been named vice president of Petrophysics Inc., a geophysical exploration computing service in Hous-

He said there was no animosity involved in his decision to leave Tech after serving eight years in the development office, but rather that a former college classmate simply made him an attractive business offer he couldn't refuse.

"I feel this opportunity is one I couldn't afford to turn down," Fielding said, explaining that it was a natural direction to get back into the private sector because, "All of my education was in business administration and related subjects."

Cavazos named a search committee last November to screen applications and nominations for the development post and chose Dr. John R. Bradford, dean of the College of Engineering, as chairman of that committee.

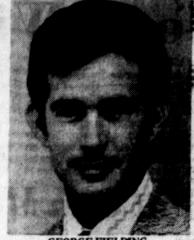

"I think Mr. Fielding's resignation will force greater urgency upon the ac-tions of the committee," Bradford said, adding that, "If we have someone by mid-summer we will be fortunate.'

Aide Says Hinson Will Quit

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Rep. Jon Hson of Mississippi, the second Republican House member to be arrested on a morals charge in six months, will yield to heavy pressure from party leaders and resign, an aide says.

Hinson, hospitalized for strain after pleading innocent last Thursday to a charge of attempted sodomy, has kept silent as Republican leaders in Congress and in Mississippi have intensified calls for his resignation.

But Marshall Hanbury, his administrative assistant and one of the few persons allowed to visit Hinson in Washington's Sibley Hospital, said Monday he does intend to resign.

"I have talked with Jon and there is presently no indication of when the resignation will come," Hanbury said. "We are simply saying he intends to resign."

There was no concerted pressure last ear on Maryland Republican Robert Bauman to resign after his arrest Oct. 3 for soliciting sex from a teen-age boy. But it was late in the session and Bauman lost his bid for re-election a month

Mississippi Republicans said they supported Hinson's re-election last November after he admitted being arrested on a morals charge in 1976, but denied he was a homosexual.

"I think the party was fooled," said Mississippi GOP chairman Mike Retzer, who had rallied Republican support for Hinson's successful re-election cam-

Prosecution Files Reply In Garwood Proceedings

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (UPI) -Marine Corps prosecutors today filed a written response to a defense motion asking a military judge to throw out Pfc. Robert R. Garwood's conviction for collaborating with the enemy in Vietnam.

The contents of the response, which was several pages long, were not immediately disclosed in court. The courtmartial was recessed briefly to allow the defense to study the reply.

Garwood's attorneys pressed for a judgment of acquittal" Monday, saying there was insufficient evidence to support a guilty verdict and that the Marines have now "sent a message to the troops" that turncoats will not be tolerated.

A jury of five Marine officers convicted Garwood last Thursday of collaborating with the Viet Cong by wearing their uniform, standing guard over American POWs and helping indoctrinate and in-terrogate other prisoners. He was also found guilty of assaulting an American

WASHINGTON (AP) - Gen. David C. Jones has survived a campaign by some Republican conservatives to oust him as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger told The Associated Press on Monday that President Reagan has accepted his recommendation that Jones complete his term, due to end in a little more than 16

"General Jones will remain on in the normal course," Weinberger said.

He added that the president agreed with him that Jones' retention "really wasn't an issue.'

Some conservative Republicans who backed Reagan for the party's presidential nomination sought to make Jones an issue as long ago as last summer.

Led by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., the on conservative group accused Jones of too eadily supporting Carter administration et Union. They criticized him, too, on grounds he did not fight hard enough for the B-1 bomber, which Carter scrapped conservative group accused Jones of too readily supporting Carter administration policies which they contended weakened the country.

Jones drew fire from this group because he supported the Carter adminstration's push for ratification of the Panama Canal treaties and the SALT II nuclear arms limitation agreement with the Soviin 1977.

Removal of Jones by the new president would have been unprecedented. Former defense secretaries James Schlesinger and Harold Brown both warned against such action, saying it would "politicize" the highest military post in the U.S. government. Senior military officers and retired officers who were less than enthusiastic about Jones' performance opposed the idea of retiring him before his term was

Jones, who served as Air Force chief of staff in the Nixon, Ford and early Carter administrations, has acknowledged he is "a team player" but has argued "that is the best way to get things done and to have influence" within an administration.

Replying to critics who claimed he failed to press for production of the B-1 bomber. Jones said in 1978 that "we fought hard; we made our case but the decision went against us."

As for his support of the disputed Panama Canal and SALT treaties, Jones has said both were "clearly in the best interests of the United States."

The GOP conservatives who opposed Jones circulated reports last summer that he had promised, in return for Senate confirmation to a second two-year term, to quit if Reagan won the presidency. Jones flatly denied making any such offer, and he was confirmed by the Sen-

After Reagan's election, the anti-Jones faction among Republicans re-newed their attack and predicted Jones would be removed by the new president and replaced by a senior officer more in step with Reagan's positions on defense.

Since the Reagan adminstration came to power in January, Jones has sounded bolder in his support of major increases in defense spending and called for deployment of an advanced bomber as a top priority objective.

Rail Gun May Revolutionize Weaponry

DOVER, N.J. (AP) - A magnetic gun that brings the technology of the sling shot into the space age can already fling a projectile four times faster than the U.S. Army's best gun, and could be a boon to nuclear energy research, an Army scientist says.

Scientists at the Picatinny Arsenal are working on the experimental magnetic launcher, known as the rail gun.

"Right now the rail gun technology can already contribute greatly to the solution of energy fusion, and work where other experiments have failed to produce energy sources," Dr. Harry Fair Jr., chief of propulsion technology at the arsenal, said Monday.

launch flights of aircraft and create ultrastrong welds of metal, Fair said.

The gun being studied at the Army Armament Research and Development Command, unlike an explosive rail gun developed in California, operates by passing a powerful electrical current through two copper rails. The magnetic field that is created by the current pushes forward a projectile between the rails.

Arsenal scientists expect to have a 15foot-long rail gun developed by Westinghouse Corp. delivered later this year.

A rail gun developed by the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory in New Mexico and the Livermore Laboratory in California relies on a smaller power source and explosives" to compress the magnetic field, Fair said.

The rail gun being studied here has fired a projectile more than 20,000 feet per second, which is about four times faster than a bullet fired from the Army's best rifle. Fair said.

The theoretical foundation for the gun was laid with experiments by Norwegian scientists in 1900, and was advanced by German technicians during World War II.

Problems remain, but much progress has been made since the modern rail gun was built in the mid-1970s by scientist Dick Marshall at the Australian National University, Fair said.

Marshall was trying to use his device to achieve impact fusion for use in electrical power generation.

Tech Contends For Prep Flashes

By NORVAL POLLARD Executive Sports Editor

Texas Tech's 1981 recruiting effort showed early signs of a better-than-expected yield Monday with the verbal commitments of four players regarded to be among the top 100 schoolboys prospects in Texas by Southwest Conference

Those four - Temple running back Kenneth Davis, Burkburnett defensive tackle Sid Chambers, San Antonio Jay running back Ansel Cole and Amarillo Palo Duro wide receiver Troy Smith - each voiced intentions of attending Texas Tech this fall. All four are expected to sign Southwest Conference letters of intent with the Red Raiders Wednesday, the SWC's official signing date.

Also verbally committing to Tech Monday were Mona-hans quarterback Rusty Roark, Stafford Dulles linebacker Williams Harris and Jayton running back-linebacker Joe

Tech now has received verbal commitments from 13 recruits. Round Rock tight end Mark Gold, Richardson tight end Buzz Tatom, Houston Kashmere defensive tackle Tim Crawford and linebacker Adrian McDowell and the Houston Lamar passing combination of quarterback Kevyn Williams and wide receiver Rodney Clay made verbal commitments to Tech and new coach Jerry Moore. As of Monday evening, Tech remained strong in the recruiting race for several more of the state's outstanding schoolboys. They include blue-chip linebacker Gary Spann of South Oak Cliff, Midland running back Jerry Zachery, Borger quarterback Shawn Harrington, Houston Yates running back Gerald Bean, San Antonio Jay running back-linebacker Anthony Beverly, Greenville running back Robert Lewis, Midland Lee offensive lineman Keith Brown, Bay City defensive lineman John Mote, Dallas Roosevelt defensive lineman Ronnie Williams, and Lubbock Estacado defensive back Jerry Gray.

Gray's Estacado teammate Kelvin White, one of the state's most heavily recruited running backs, made his deci-

The 6-1, 185-pound White, generally regarded as the best running back prospect in Texas before missing most of the 1980 season with a knee injury, was believed to be leaning toward Texas A&M before his visit to Oklahoma over the weekend. White said Oklahoma is "my kind of place."

There were several other surprise announcements as the SWC recruiting campaign entered its final hours Monday

Richardson Pearce defensive tackle Ray Childress, the No.1 blue-chip player in Texas according to SWC coaches, verbally agreed to sign with Texas A&M. Childress had said he would not make a decision until after basketball season, but apparently changed his mind. The Aggies outlasted Texas and Nebraska for the 6-6, 245-pounder.

Defending SWC champion Baylor landed verbal commitments from two of the state's best linebackers. Houston Westchester's Alan Jamison and Texas City's Kevin Hancock both cast their lots with the Bears. Jamison was believed leaning toward A&M, and Hancock was rumored to be headed to Texas.

The decisions made in the next 24 hours could decide the difference between an average and excellent recruiting sea-

Spann, a 6-1, 205-pounder, is considered one of the top 15 players in the state. He has reportedly narrowed his choices to Tech and TCU. TCU may be in the lead because high school teammate Anthony Gulley, a highly sought quarterback, is leaning toward TCU.

One UCLA recruiter called Zachery, a 6-2, 195-pounder who broke his leg during the second game of the 1980 season, "the best running back prospect in the country." The Red Raiders don't have to worry about UCLA claiming Zachery, only Texas A&M. The Aggies reportedly have verbal commitment from Zachery, but the fight is far from

Bean, a 6-0, 185-pounder, is still being courted by Oklahoma. Beverly, a 6-1, 200-pounder, said he'll attend either Tech or SMU. The 6-0, 180-pound Lewis, like Bean, is still being wooed by the Sooners. Houston and the Raiders are still in the running for Mote's services. It's Tech and Rice battling for Williams. Virginia Builds Lead In Poll

Virginia, which rallied from a 16-point deficit en route to an 80-79 overtime victory over then-No.11 North Carolina, retained the No.1 position in The Associated Press college basketball poll today, increasing its lead over runnerup Oregon State from 10 to 28 points.

The Cavaliers collected 43 of 62 firstplace votes and 1.221 of a possible 1.240 points in the balloting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. The Beavers, who defeated both California and Stanford last week, received 18 first-place votes and 1,193 points.

Last week, Virginia, 20-0, collected 35 first-place votes, while Oregon State, 19-0. was tabbed No.1 on 26 ballots. All 62members of the poll voted this week.

Aroused LCC Team Whirls Past Trinity

Technical assistance often is alluded to in the making of movies and so it was enlisted to help the Lubbock Christian College basketball team defeat Trinity University 70-64 in a Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association game Monday night in the LCC fieldhouse

This game was a fight to the finish even though the fighting began with 8:43 remaining in the first half. That's when LCC forward Larry Holt and Trinity's David Nentwig were ejected for throwing elbows and, in Nentwig's case, a fist, during a disagreement over rebounding position beneath the Chaparral basket.

Nentwig landed the lone punch of the melee. It glanced harmlessly off Holt's cheek, but other Trinity volleys - of the finesse, basketball variety - had struck

The Tigers executed a patient offense and shot well to assume a 31-21 lead on Gary Schero's basket with 3:07 left in the half. The Chaps, who had lost 10 of their previous 12 games, were without sufficient funds to balance the Tigers' bank-

Center Brian Fortner, who scored 15 of his game-high 20 points in the first half, had been the Chaps' saving grace

Until, with 2:42 showing, Trinity's Jack Inselmann was called for a foul and, in turn, overreacted verbally and was handed a technical. And, when Trinity's bench caused an uproar immediately thereafter, a second technical was thrown in for good measure.

LCC's Bruce Carver hit all four of the technical shots, plus both sides of the one-and-one. When added to Fortner's layup, the Chaps had managed to whittle the Tiger lead to 31-28 in the space of 25 seconds. Increased productivity. "We battled back," LCC coach John Copeland said. "We wanted to win this one bad enough. Those technicals were important, too, but I thought we'd get to them sooner or later, anyway. I was not in a panic stage at that time. The Tigers, who had generally outperformed LCC through the first half, had only a one-point 33-32 halftime lead to of this game already had arrived.

"Trinity doesn't have great size, but they're physical," Copeland said. "We evened that up in the second half. We had to play hard, keep the pressure on, and that's what we did. The Chaps took the lead, once and for all, on Gary Norris' 15-footer with 8:44 left in the game. The score was 55-53. And LCC effectively controlled the game — the final Chap home appearance of the season - through to its conclu-LCC led 59-58 when Carver scored from the baseline. Rick Murdock hit a rebound basket and Keith Money added a free throw for a 64-58 lead with 2:30 left. The Chaps were in the midst of a wellhandled delay offense and the Tigers never again moved closer to the lead than four points.

It was a strong finish at home to what otherwise has been a mediocre Chap season, one plagued by injuries and periodical mechanical breakdowns.

"It feels good to end here like this," Copeland said, "but we've played a lot of real competitive games at home this year. Considering all the sickness and injury we've had, I'm real proud of the way we stayed together.

The Chaps are 4-5 in the TIAA, 8-20 overall. Trinity is 1-8, 7-13.

Mark Herrmann Having Trouble Wooing Pros

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) - The greatest passer in the history of major college football is having a tough time convincing the professional scouts he can do many of the same things in the playfor-pay set.

Mark Herrmann hopes to follow such former Purdue quarterbacks as Len Dawson, Bob Griese, Mike Phipps and Gary Danielson - he has shattered all their records - into the pro ranks, but he isn't sure just where he stands.

Herrmann doesn't have the rifle arm of a Terry Bradshaw or the scrambling ability of a Fran Tarkenton. National Football League teams want their quarterbacks to fire the ball like it was shot from a gun and be able to evade a heavy pass rush, as well.

"The pros haven't said too much to me so I don't really know their feelings. I've heard I might be the second or third quarterback drafted. It kind of varies with different scouting services," Herrmann said over the weekend as he was honored at the annual awards banquet of the Walter Camp Football Foundation.

Herrmann has heard all the doubts about his arm. The gangly 6-foot-4, 190pounder is the first to admit he can't throw the ball through a car wash without getting it wet.

"I think I make up for it with accuracy, consistency, those kind of things,"

His 1,218 regular-season passes, 717 completions and 9,188 yards are all NCAA major college records. Three winning bowl games - including a 22-for-28 performance against a highly rated veteran Missouri secondary in the 1980 Liberty Bowl - left him just short of the 10,-000-yard mark. But Herrmann does it with finesse rather than bazooka shots.

Wise, Old Owls Call On Raiders

By RAY GLASS

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Both Texas Tech and Rice will be playing on its "favorite" court tonight when the Red Raiders play host to the rising Owls at 7:30 p.m. in a crucial Southwest Conference game in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum. For Gerald Myers' Raiders, 5-6 in SWC action and 11-10 overall, the return home following Saturday's 65-52 thumping by Texas A&M on regional television gives them a chance to use a little more of their home-court magic.

Tech is 9-1 this season in Municipal Coliseum and, perhaps more importantly, 4-1 in league encounters at home. But don't tell that to the Owis, 6-4 and 10-12. who seemingly play well anywhere but their own Autry Court.

The fourth-place Owls are the SWC's hottest road bunch with a 4-1 record away from home. And, except for a last-second game-winning shot by Baylor, Rice would be a perfect 5-0 while using the visitors' locker room.

Topight's game will be carried live on KFYO radio with Jack Dale doing the play-by-play and Keith Samples adding

"We have been maybe the most con-sistent road team in the conference," Rice coach Mike Schuler said between practice sessions Monday. "I felt we should have beaten Baylor in Waco. We had them by one point with six seconds to go before they threw the ball in at the

"I really don't know the answer (to why we're able to win on the road). For some reason we've played really well on the road," he said.

Myer may have an explanation, though. "I think the reason they are a really good road team is they are so experienced. They have experienced players who've been there before," he said. Chief among the Rice players is 6-foot-5 junior Ricky Pierce, the key to Rice's 52-50 overtime victory over Tech earlier this season in Houston. It was Pierce's jumper from deep in the left-hand corner along the baseline at the buzzer that provided the winning margin and it was his 20 points, eight in the overtime period, that kept the Owls

"They have a great player in Pierce. He's worth over 20 points every night and he's there when you need somebody to go to when you need those points. But he's not a one-man tearn," Myers said.
Other likely starters for Schuler and the Owls include 6-9 sophormore Kenny Austin (10.8 points per game), 6-5 sophormore center Donald Bennett (5.8 ppg), 6-5 junior guard Bobby Tudor (7.7 ppg) and 6-3 freshman guard Tyrone Washington (4.6 ppg).

"In order for us to still have a chance to finish first in the conference, this is a must-win game for us," Schuler said. "And I still say that whoever wins the conference will have four losses."

"The success at home is something if you get to taking for granted that can work against you," Myers said. "We have to go out and play hard and play good

Rice's overtime victory in Houston was due in part to a zone defense that had one player dogging Tech freshman Bubba Jennings while the other four Owl players stayed in a zone. Jennings was limited to three field goals but the Owls won't necessarily use the same strategy

"I really don't know if Tech has seen that (defense) since our game," said Schuler. "But I'm sure they've done some things in practice to hurt that defense. Maybe against us was the first time Bubba had seen that defense."

"You never know what to expect," Myers said of the possibility of seeing that particular alignment tonight. "It's just a defense you've got to face. You might be able to handle it and you might not. We won't be surprised to see it

The 5-10 Jennings, who averaged 19 points a game last week as the Raiders split against TCU and A&M, is one of three probable Tech starters averaging in

The other guard slot will be filled by 6-4 Jeff Taylor, scoring at a 13-point clip. Clarence Swannegan, a 6-6 junior with a 12.9 scoring average, will be . one forward across from 6-6 senior Ben Hill. Ralph Brewster, the 6-8 center whose reintroduction into the starting unit spurred victories in two of the last three games, will probably start in the middle.

The Owls and the Raiders are currentin fourth and fifth place, respectively,

The last time Monterey and Coronado played, the Mustangs jumped to a 10point halftime advantage and then folded to lose in double overtime.

Plainsmen coach Joe Michalka doesn't plan to let that happen again the first-half rout, that is.

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff The District 1-4A boys' race begins anew tonight with all seven teams sporting 0-0 league records. But for Estacado and Dunbar, the second-half title chase begins on the not-so-friendly road.

Estacado takes on Borger at 7:30 p.m. while Dunbar travels to Brownfield, also for a 7:30 p.m. game. The Mat and Panther girls' teams, both eliminated from the district race, meet the Bulldogs and Cubs in 6 p.m. contests.

The Estacado and Dunbar boys' teams won a combined total of one district road game in the first half of the race - a 65-61 Matador victory over the Panthers - and are facing tough homecourt teams

Borger lost only one district game at home the first time around as did Brownfield. And the Bulldogs have dominated Estacado at home.

"Borger is usually pretty secure up there (at home)," Mat coach J.J. Wood said. "We've never beat them in their gym since we began playing in the same district but they've never beat us in our gym either.

"We have to get some momentum going in order to win the game. We have to get up and down the court and hit those short jumpers because we don't have a real strong inside game.

'Borger doesn't have to worry about defending our post men like we have to worry about theirs. But they have to worry about our outside shooting." Wood

Estacado's 6-foot-2 post Rodney Guyton had scored in double figures for the first five district games, including 12 in the Mats' 72-69 defeat of Borger Jan. 16. but went scoreless with only one rebound before fouling out midway through the third period Friday against Dumas.

The Mats' other leaper, 6-4 Danny Boyd, has yet to score in double figures in a district game. Wood was so dissatisfied with the play of his post men at one point during the season, he experimented with using forwards James Barnett and

Jerry Gray in those positions. Borger, on the other hand, is getting excellent play from its 6-6 senior pivot man Gregg Belton. He is averaging 22 points and 10.2 rebounds each game and had 17 points and 10 rebounds the last time the teams met. Shawn Harrington, also 6-6, pulled down 10 rebounds and tossed in 12 points in that Matador victothreat from the outside, averaging 16.5 points a game.

Guard Scott Hunt is the main Borger

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Four more of Oklahoma's hottest football prospects - and one of California's best high school backs - have pledged themselves to the Oklahoma Sooners.

Oklahoma State, though, apparently will pick up the state's two best-known ball carriers - Eddie Goodlow of Altus and Kelly Cook of Midwest City.

Daniel Wallace, a 6-0, 195-pound linebacker from Paris, Texas, said he intends to sign letters with OU. Tulsa received a verbal agreement form Jimmy Summers, a running back and linebacker from Class A state champion Hobart.

Sports In Brief

Mays Qualifies For NCAA Field

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (Special) - Texas Tech's James Mays earned a berth in the NCAA Championships by placing second in the 880-yard run in the Oklahoma City Invitational Indoor Track Meet Saturday.

Mays, who was clocked at 1:51.91, beat the qualifying time by only .11 seconds, set a Tech indoor record in the process.

Greg Lautenslager was a third-place finisher in the mile run with a time of 4:13.1. Thomas Selmon was fourth in the long jump with a leap of 24 feet and 1/4 inches. Edwin Newsome, running in the 400-meter dash, finished fourth with a time of 49.51. In the preliminary heats, Newsome ran a 49.27. Greg Rolle ran a 1:13.03 in the 600-yard dash which was good for sixth place.

ton elementary school have forced health officials to launch a detailed investiga-tion into a meningitis outbreak that has killed 10 people and afflicted at least 77

More than 1,500 throat cultures and 150 blood samples were taken last week from students, their families and teachers at Dodson Elementary School, where one student has died from meningococcal meningitis and five more have been

Health investigators had hoped the tests would pinpoint the source of the deadly and contagious disease. However, results released Monday showed nothing unusual, said Dr. Ralph A. Feigin, chairman of pediatrics at Baylor College of

"Blood samples showed there are no more positive cases and the throat cultures indicated that 10 percent of those sampled are carriers," Feigin said. 'That's no greater than is seen in a nor-

Feigin said health officials must conduct a "detailed investigation of the bac-teria of the ill students" in an effort to determine whether one person transmitted the disease.

Hoping to curtail the unprecedented outbreak, physicians and nurses vaccinated 764 of 850 students, teachers and staff employees Monday at the predominantly-black school in a low-income area.

Houston Independent School District employees also sent more than 400 letters to parents of Fondren Elementary School students Monday, explaining a 5year-old kindergartener had contracted However, health officials said, no vaccinations are planned at Fondren, located in southwest Houston.

Meningitis is an inflammation of the membranes covering the brain and spine, and the meningococcal form - the most serious - is caused by bacteria.

In Texas, 10 people have died and at least 77 others have been stricken by meningococcal meningitis, said Jan Simons, surveillance coordinator for the Texas Department of Health in Austin.

Miss Simons said her office received reports of 23 of those cases Monday. That figure will continue to rise as reports are received by mail from city and county health departments, she said.

Doctors from Baylor and the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta will spend the next two weeks analyzing data, hoping to determine why the disease appears to have concentrated in Houston and why the national incidence of meningitis this year is up 32 percent from the compara-ble period last year.

In Houston - the nation's fifth largest city — four people have died and 32 stricken since Jan. 1, said Dr. Robert A. MacLean, deputy city health director. There were a total of 35 cases reported in confirmed cases Monday but later removed a 10-month-old girl from their list. The girl, from Tomball, was flown to Houston Sunday exhibiting symptoms of the disease but her trouble has not been confirmed as meningitis, doctors now

Groups Suggest Ways To Rectify Texas Prison System Problems

United Press International

It's been nearly two months since a federal judge ruled the nation's largest prison system is guilty of massive viola-tions of inmates' constitutional rights, and attorneys this week must suggest ways to rectify the problems in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Although all the parties involved in the 8-year case refused comment as the deadline approached for an agreed reform order, it appeared today would pass without a group decision. When U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice in December found the TDC guilty of the violations, he set a Feb. 10 deadline for attorneys to hammer out an agreement on how to resolve the situation. And he said if no agreement could be reached, attorneys would have until Feb. 15 to submit separate to convey the pernicious conditions and the pain and degradation which ordinary inmates suffer within TDC walls," Justice wrote. "The relief to be granted in this case will require many changes in the TDC's operations."

As of Monday night, there were 30,023 inmates in the system's 18 units - nearly 5,000 more than five years ago - with 2,-000 of them temporarily sleeping on mat-

"I just wish they would agree on an order," a spokeswoman for Justice's Ty-ler office said Monday, indicating she thought it unlikely.

Attorneys for the plaintiff inmates, the state of Texas and the intervening Justice Department met last month in an attempt to reach an agreement.

'We've agreed that none of us will comment until something is filed," Jus- finally issuing his ruling Dec. 12, 1980.

tice Department lawyer David Vander-hoof in Washington told UPI via tele-phone Monday. "Obviously nothing is going to be filed on the 15th, which is a Sunday, or the 16th, which is President's

In San Francisco, the attorney for the plaintiff inmates told UPI: "I hate to do this to you, but I can't talk about it.

We've agreed."
Meanwhile, Attorney General Mark White in Austin spent more than an hour in telephone conference with all sides

Justice's Dec. 12 ruling came in a lawsuit originally filed by inmate David Ruiz, later combined with a lawsuit by inmate O.D. Johnson and finally extended into a class action.

Justice heard 159 full days of testimony in the case in late 1978 and early 1979.

Officials Studying Work Release To Reduce Inmate Overcrowding

program the Texas Department of Corrections will adopt in April is one of several plans mentioned in a staff report listing ways to ease the overcrowded conditions in state prisons.

TDC Director W.J. Estelle said Monday the work release program would allow 2,500 inmates to work and live outside prison walls. Prison officials will ask the Legislature for $1 million to run the program for two years.

The work release program was one of several plans mentioned in a TDC staff of 29,000 - the nation's largest. U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler has said crowded conditions cause many prison problems.

The staff report mentioned plans which could reduce the prison population by 3,000 to 6,000 inmates. However, the writers of the report said the programs could cost more than keeping the in-mates in prison. Board member Harry Whittington of Austin said the board would hear more about the programs at its March meeting here. The report includes a plan to transfer 2,900 mentally retarded inmates to Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation facilities.

'That number is just about how many inmates are sleeping on the floor," said Whittington. "But I'm sure Mental Health and Mental Retardation is overcrowded too."

TDC suggestions include two types: "diversion methods" which would re-

The transfer of mentally retarded inmates (prisoners with an IQ under 69) to MHMR is listed as a diversion measure.

Whittington anticipates opposition from parents of residents of MHMR state schools. However, he said it is unrealistic to make retarded prisoners work under the prison rules.

They are taken advantage of. I'm sure it happens. It happens in the free world," said Whittington.

Another diversion method would allow 200 to 300 inmates convicted of nonviolent sex crimes to be switched to a psychological treatment program. In-mates convicted of DWI also could be transferred to special programs, the re-port said. That would include up to 125 prisoners, according to the report.

As many as 1,000 prisoners could be released if legislators approved a "subsidized shock probation" system, said the report prepared by TDC staff members Harold Williamson and Charles Smith.

Other possible inmate reduction pro-grams mentioned in the report include sentence commutation, "maximizing" good time awarded prisoners, and increased use of work furloughs.

An agricultural employer is subject to the minimum wage during all of 1981 if during any one calendar quarter of 1980 he used more than 500 man days of agricultural labor.

Those who used fewer than 500 man days in all quarters of 1980 are exempt from the minimum wage in 1981.

A "man day" is defined by the U.S. Department of Labor (USDL) as any day during which an employee performs agricultural labor for not less than one hour.

Although ginning employees are normally classified as agricultural labor, cotton gins operate under a different set of rules

Cotton gins are entitled to a 14 workweek period during which employees must receive overtime pay only for em-ployment in excess of 10 hours in a day and 48 hours in a workweek. During the remainder of the year, ginning employees must be paid overtime for hours worked in excess of 40 per week.

A workweek, according to the USDL, is any period of seven consecutive days in which an individual has been engaged in any agricultural labor on one or more days, provided he worked at least one hour on some day during that period.

Farmers should also keep in mind, PCG points out, that the social security tax rate as of Jan. 1 increased from 6.13 percent to 6.65 percent. Under current law the rate will rise to 6.7 percent for 1982 through 1984, then escalate to 7.05 percent for 1985 and 7.15 percent for 1986. Without further legislation the rate will top out at 7.65 percent The employer is required to deduct social security from the employee's wages, match the amount deducted and submit the total to the Internal Revenue

Although it may have a minimal impact on its cotton producer and agribusiness members, PCG also notes that the minimum wage and overtime requirements in 1981 apply to domestic service employees such as maids, cooks, gardeners, yardmen and even babysitters if they are employed on a regular basis.
