Farmers To Halt Protest

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The last two trouble spots on Poland's labor horizon cleared today when private farmers agreed to end their seven-week sit-in in the southern city of Rzesow and striking students in Warsaw and other cities ended their protests.

The farmers, who lost their bid for an independent union, settled early today for a compromise pledge of agricultural reforms aimed at putting the private farmers — who own 68 percent of Poland's farm land and produce 78 percent of its food — on a par with state farms.

Warsaw Radio said the government promised the farmers equal availability of credit and farm machinery as well as a government review of policies on farm prices, land management, and rural education, welfare and religious programs.

The accord also calls for a commission to study improvements in rural schools and development of nursery schools, the state radio said.

The farmers had sought authorization for an independent union like the giant Solidarity federation that represents an estimated 10 million industrial workers. The Supreme Court ruled they could not form a union because they were self-employed, and the government agreed to put through a law that would make a farmers' union possible.

The other continuing focal point of tension had been the university in Lodz, Poland's second largest city, where 5,000 students had been sitting in for 27 days demanding the right to form an independent union plus academic reforms.

Panel Grants Increase In Postal Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service today won approval to charge 18 cents to mail a first-class letter, 2 cents less than it wanted.

The new rate can take effect on 10 days' notice, but the Postal Service has not said when that notice will come.

The new rate, plus increases for other types of mail, were approved by the Postal Rate Commission, a tiny government agency that reviews Postal Service requests for higher rates.

Postal Rate Commission Chairman Lee Fritschler said the rates will bring the Postal Service about $1 billion less per year than the $3.75 billion it had said it needs.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger said last week the agency may need to ask for higher rates again later this year if the rate commission did not approve the full request.

Fritschler told a Senate subcommittee today the commission approved the 18-cent rate for the first ounce of a first-class letter and 17 cents per ounce after that.

On other classes of mail, he said the commission approved rates generally similar to those requested by the Postal Service.

The commission allowed a 12-cent charge for post cards, a penny less than the Postal Service wanted.

The approved increases amount to 9 percent for newspapers and books, 6 percent to 24 percent for advertising circulars and 3 percent for parcel post and book rates.

The commission expanded discounts available to business mailers who do preliminary sorting of their outgoing mail.

Fritschler said the new rates will be "anti-inflationary" and in keeping with President Reagan's goal in this regard.

The new rates "will generate the revenue necessary for postal operations without putting an undue burden on the people who pay postal rates," he told the subcommittee.

The commission eliminated a provision allowing the Postal Service to charge rates that would make up for deficits suffered in previous years. He charged the Postal Service with failing to use the money for this purpose in the past.

Fritschler said the new rates can stand for several years, depending on the rate of inflation and other factors.

The Postal Service asked for the higher rates last April, citing rising costs for labor and transportation. "If there is a villain in this story, that villain is inflation," Bolger said then.

In his economic address Wednesday, Reagan said the Postal Service "has been consistently unable to live within its operating budget. It is still dependent on federal subsidies.

"We propose reducing those subsidies by $632 million in 1982 to press the Postal Service into becoming more effective," Reagan said. "In subsequent years, the savings will continue to add up."

Under the Carter administration's proposed budget for fiscal 1982, federal subsidies to the Postal Service would have been $1.5 billion.

Sen. James Abdnor, R-S.D., chairman of the Senate appropriations subcommittee that oversees spending by the Postal Service, says he has been assured by Postmaster General William Bolger that the budget cuts don't threaten Saturday mail deliveries.

Abdnor said, in a news release Wednesday before Reagan spoke, that Bolger had "said that plans call for increased automation in the handling of mail to absorb any budget cuts the agency may have to swallow."

The Postal Service's proposed rate package, which would raise an additional $3.75 billion annually, also would include increases of 1.9 percent for mass-circulation newspapers and magazines, 17.7 percent for bulk-rate advertising mail and 8.4 percent for parcel post.

Nicholson Resigns As Pastor

The Rev. Robert Nicholson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church since 1971, has tendered his resignation to the session of elders of the church, who will present it for the congregation's vote Sunday morning following the 10:45 a.m. worship service.

Nicholson's resignation will be effective March 1 if the church votes to accept it. The pastor met with the elders Feb. 11 and requested the congregational meeting.

He also sent a letter Monday to church members announcing the upcoming vote and explaining his plans for the future. Nicholson could not be reached for comment as to why he was leaving, but he noted in the letter the session will allow him to remain under salary and in church housing for the next six months.

If the congregation rejects the pastor's resignation, the matter will be taken up by Palo Duro Union Presbytery for a final decision.

If they accept it, a long process of setting goals, electing a pulpit committee and interviewing and approving prospective pastoral candidates will ensue. That process could last up to 18 months or more.

Demos Cloud Budget Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan and his top economic strategists began today the tough job of selling a multi-billion-dollar mix of tax and spending cuts to Congress, where enthusiastic Republicans already were hearsing from prominent Democratic critics.

Reagan told news media executives in the White House East Room that "the (Summary of Reagan Budget On Page 14, Sec. C) people are ready" for his economic program, and he discounted widespread criticism from labor leaders. "Sometimes they're out of step with their rank and file," he said. "They were in the last election."

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan praised the president's proposals at the White House breakfast as "one of the most stimulating things to happen to the American economy." He and budget director David A. Stockman then carried the message to Capitol Hill.

Stockman, appearing before the Senate Budget Committee, urged Congress to approve Reagan's tax and budget cutting proposals "rapidly and as a package."

The two Cabinet officials testified barely 12 hours after the president recommended spending cuts of $41 billion for 1982 and tax cuts that would be worth $1.456 over four years ending in 1984 for a middle-income family of four.

Reagan, in office only 29 days, pronounced the government "somewhat out of control." He said his "program for economic recovery" would balance the budget, halve inflation and create 3 million new jobs by 1984.

"There is nothing wrong with America that we can't fix," he said Wednesday night in a nationally televised speech to a joint session of Congress. "The people are watching and waiting. They don't demand miracles, but they do expect us to act."

He proposed turning the nation away from policies of spending and regulatory control that have held way since the New Deal and practically dared his doubters in Congress to support him.

"Have they an alternative which offers a greater chance?" he asked. "And if they haven't, are they suggesting we can continue on the present course?"

But even Reagan's staunchest supporters conceded the president wouldn't get everything he wanted from Congress, where Democrats already were raising objections about the size of the budget cuts and the shape of the tax proposal. Though Republicans control the Senate, the Democrats retain a majority in the House of Representatives.

Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said he expects the budget cuts proposed in 83 separate proposals.

City Businessmen Back Reagan's New Program

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

President Reagan's proposals to cut government spending by $41 billion and to ease the tax burdens for businesses and individuals generally were well received by Lubbock's business and professional leaders.

There was some concern expressed that the president's proposed cuts in social welfare spending would adversely affect the progress being made by the nation's minorities — especially in the area of employment.

However, the overall reaction by most individuals interviewed today by The Avalanche-Journal was enthusiastic.

"Personally, I would like to see him have an opportunity to put his programs forward to see if they work," said local attorney and longtime Democratic Party official Ralph Brock.

Brock cited the landslide victory that put Reagan in the White House. "People wanted a change of direction," he said. "They wanted something different done from what was being done."

"He said the things I like to hear," observed Security National Bank president Doug Boren. "If he can get just some of the things through, I think it will be good for our country," the bank official added.

Boren expressed hope that Congress "will go along" with the president's far-reaching fiscal program. But he predicted that it would take some time — even if the entire program is approved — for most people to see any evidence that the economy has begun to turn around.

"I think we're in a heck of a shape, a whole lot worse than most people think," said Lubbock Cotton Exchange president J.L. Brett. "We've got to get it turned around," he emphasized.

Brett noted that the Reagan administration has not yet revealed specifics on its policies in the areas of farming and agribusiness. Those policies are likely to have the most direct effect on the financial problems faced by farmers, he said.

However, Brett added, Reagan's efforts to bring down interest rates should boost all areas of American commerce, including agriculture-related businesses.

Another agribusinessman, American National Cattlemen's Association president W.J. "Dub" Waldrip, said he agreed with Reagan's proposals. "I think it's pretty sound as far as I'm concerned," he said.

According to Waldrip, cattlemen are "tready to sacrifice some" if the president's program will cure inflation and put the nation back on a sound financial basis.

Dr. James E. Jonish, professor of economics at Texas Tech University, said the president probably will succeed in pushing through his tax cut proposals, which call for a $44 billion reduction in individual income taxes and a $9.7 billion cut.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE PLANNED

Local YMCA Battling Financial Problems

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Faced with red ink on its ledgers and a substantial loss in membership during the past year, Lubbock's YMCA is tightening its belt and seeking ways to attract new members.

The agency ended its 1979-80 fiscal year in October with about a $33,400 deficit on the books and was forced to obtain a loan to cover the shortfall.

However, Y executive director Bob Schreiner said he is confident the organization can overcome its current difficulties. "I feel very, very strongly there isn't anything here we can't handle," Schreiner emphasized.

Schreiner noted that the Y has had a series of ups and downs since first opening here in 1952. "You don't stick around for 29 years without being able to solve problems," he added.

The organization's problems started about two years ago, when approximately $10,000 had to be spent to replace a boiler, and a leak in the Y's Olympic-size pool cost another $10,000 to repair.

Hance Reports Cutback May Slow I-27 Project

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

LEVELLAD — U.S. Rep. Kent Hance said today that there is "at least a 50-50 chance" that Interstate 27 construction north of Lubbock and through the city will be set back by a proposed Reagan administration budget cut.

Interviewed prior to a morning speech at South Plains College, the Lubbock Democrat said how I-27 may be affected will not be known until proposals on specific projects are received in Congress a few weeks from now.

Hance said it is a possibility that the completion of I-27 between Amarillo and Lubbock and its $250 million proposed route through the city will be delayed an additional "four, five or six years" by the budget reductions.

Asked if he would oppose any more delays in the highway project, Hance said, "If it has to be cut to balance the budget, then I'll go along with it."

The newly seated member of the House Ways and Means Committee said voting for budget cuts in other congressional districts, while opposing cuts in his own 19th District, "would hurt my effectiveness" in Congress.

Hance spoke at 10:30 a.m. today at the college's performing arts theater before several hundred area high school students and junior college students. He spoke as part of the college Mahon Lecture Series, which is named after former longtime U.S. Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock. Hance's appearance here was part of a series of speeches across the congressional district.

Speaking in a raspy voice that he said was brought on by a throat infection, the 38-year-old representative noted in his speech that the Reagan proposals are for the 1982 budget and would have the effect of increasing the '82 budget by about $50 billion over the 1981 budget.

"I think he'll get close to everything he wants," Hance said. "They're asking for a home run and hope to get a triple or a double."

He said the Ways and Means Committee, which writes tax laws for the House, probably will approve income tax reductions at least close to the 30 percent cut.

The new report said consumer spending was actually higher than calculated earlier for the fourth quarter, but figures for business investment, for net exports of goods and services and for government purchases of goods and services all were lower than previously announced.

Other economic figures, announced a day earlier, showed that despite inflation, Americans are making and spending more money, making greater use of factory space and building more new housing.

The generally positive batch of three economic reports was released Wednes-

Auto Insurance Prices High In Massachusetts

BOSTON (AP) — Ten years ago, Massachusetts pioneered no-fault automobile insurance in hopes of slashing what were the highest premiums in the nation.

A decade later, a typical Boston driver with a two-year-old Chevrolet Caprice faces a $1,000 bill for coverage, while his counterpart in New York City pays $720, in Providence, R.I., $484, and in Manchester, N.H., $353.

Massachusetts insurance prices remain among the nation's highest. Did no-fault flop?

State officials and insurance executives say no-fault was a spectacular money-saver in its early years — and keeps premiums lower than they might be without it. But they say lately it has been weakened by inflation and soaring auto repair prices. And new insurance problems have cropped up — including a rise in car thefts.

Massachusetts long has been one of the most heavily regulated car insurance markets in the nation. It was the first state to make injury insurance compulsory, in 1927, and the first to empower a state commissioner to control rates.

Industry officials think this approach had a psychological effect on the public.

"People began to say, 'Well, if I have to have insurance, I might as well use it,'" said J. Paul Henderson, New England manager of the Insurance Information Institute.

By the early 1970s, Massachusetts drivers were filing injury claims at twice the national average. Premiums escalated. In 1971, the state introduced the no-fault law in an attempt to reverse the trend.

It works like this: if you are in an accident and your medical expenses are less than $500, you do not sue the other driver — you simply collect from your own insurance company. The idea is to keep thousands of small bodily injury claims out of court, cutting expenses for insurance companies and giving customers lower premiums.

Eventually, two dozen states adopted similar rules.

State officials and insurance leaders agree the law had a dramatic corrective impact here for several years. Over a five-year span, bodily-injury premiums dropped 45 percent. Without such a law, actuaries estimated the rates might have risen 63 percent.

Henderson says today's high premiums are not no-fault's fault.

"The principle of no-fault is working well in other states — and it's working well in Massachusetts in reducing the number of bodily injury lawsuits," Henderson says. "The premiums would be exorbitant without no-fault bodily injury."

Recently, however, injury rates have begun climbing again, jumping 15 percent in their latest rise. Insurance concerns say inflation has made the $500 floor for medical expenses insignificant. As a result, a new surge of lawsuits has begun to develop.

For the past four years, insurance companies have been trying to get the floor lifted to $1,000 or higher.

Southbridge Police Chief Bernard Fiorelli hopes the new shade will have a "soothing effect on violent people."

Formerly, cell walls were black on the lower half and drab "government green" on the upper half and custodian Gary Berthiaume said the old combination seemed to bring out the worst in prisoners, who frequently kicked the walls and scratched their names in the paint.

So far, officials say they are encouraged by the effect of the color change, which they say makes the cells more "pleasant."

The first prisoner detained in a pink cell was "very docile," Berthiaume reported.

"He said he wanted to get out as soon as he could before he started seeing pink elephants," Berthiaume said.

Travolta Receives Pudding Pot

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — An engraved pudding pot may not be what John Travolta always wanted, but that's just what the actor got on his 27th birthday.

The star of "Urban Cowboy," "Grease" and "Saturday Night Fever" received the man-of-the-year award Wednesday from Harvard's Hasty Pudding Theatricals.

"You found out it was my birthday, and I couldn't think of a better gift," Travolta said from the stage where Hasty Pudding players later opened their new show.

"My father said this is the most illustrious and prestigious school in the country," the high school dropout said. "I started to get nervous. I thought maybe he thinks I'm getting a degree."

"Do you think this could possibly go for credit?"

Celebrities Reveal Facts Of Life

NEW YORK (AP) — Knowledge was more blissful than ignorance for Bob Hope when a girl in Cleveland not only told the then-16-year-old about "it" but showed him, as well.

HOPE

Anita Bryant never formally learned about "it," but "after four kids, I guess I've learned."

The comedian and the singer are among eight celebrities who tell how they first learned the facts of life — and what they have told their own children — in the March issue of Good Housekeeping magazine.

Hope recalls being away from home too much to discuss sex with his children, but wife Dolores reported one son saying "Great, I can't wait" when told.

When one of Paul Newman's daughters needed stepmother Joanne Woodward's permission to get a birth control device, an open family discussion followed, Miss Woodward said.

And Shelley Winters, who got pregnant at 15½, said she thought it was "because I was a bad girl, not because I had had intercourse." She said she had an abortion and then organized over it for years.

She says she told her own daughter about sex at the age of 8.

Volcano Rains Babies In Northwest

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP) — Nine months ago, Mount St. Helens rained ash over northern Idaho, forcing residents inside. Now it seems to be raining babies, say Kootenai County Memorial Hospital officials.

Through Wednesday, doctors had delivered 65 babies at the hospital in February — the ninth month after the devastating May 18, 1980, eruption of the volcano.

The hospital's 12-bed maternity ward has been filled to overflowing, and the mini-boom shows no signs of letting up, said hospital administrator Joe Morris.

The volcano even seems connected to the last rush of business at the hospital's maternity ward. "Ironically, our biggest month so far was last May when Mount St. Helens blew and we had 104 babies," Morris said.

Most Texas Congressmen Voice Support For President's Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many Texas congressmen are calling President Reagan's plan to slash federal spending workable and desirable, but there is at least one exception.

"I must reiterate that I'm really sorry that the president has declared war on the poor, particularly the working poor," Rep. Mickey Leland, a Houston Democrat, said Wednesday after Reagan addressed Congress.

Leland, the only black member of the state's congressional delegation, said such cuts as the ones Reagan proposed for food stamp and school lunch programs would have a devastating effect.

"I'm optimistic that we're going to get a significant coalition going to block some of the president's proposals," Leland said. "But I think we're going to lose in some significant areas."

Other Texas congressmen jumped in with praise for the president's program.

Rep. Phil Gramm, a College Station Democrat, said he was enthusiastic.

"I've been waiting for 10 years for a president to level with the American people about how severe our problem is," he said. "I think the president has done that and I'm going to support him."

Rep. Charles Stenholm of Stamford, who has emerged as the spokesman for a group of almost 40 conservative Democrats, said the mood on Capitol Hill generally is one of support for the president.

Woman Wins Medical Suit

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A woman who requested medium breast implants but received large size implants instead won a breach of contract suit against her doctor, but she will not receive a damage award.

The Indiana Court of Appeals, Second District, ruled this week Dr. Dale A. Davidson committed a breach of contract but does not have to pay Dorothy Cooper Meade damages.

The ruling involved a difficult decision — how large was "large."

The three-judge panel determined it to be 300 cubic centimeters by volume and 12 by 11 centimeters by area.

The court upheld a decision by the Marion County Circuit Court that Mrs. Meade was not entitled to damages, despite her complaint the large breast implants caused her pain and created stretch marks. The court said there was no proof the implants caused the pain and ruled she had the stretch marks before the operation.

Players Try To Get To 'Jungle' In Game

BY SHARI LEWIS

The circus usually comes to town only once or twice a year. Here's how you can play "Circus" any old time:

Have all of the players form a circle. This circle represents a cage. Now pick one player to be the lion, and put the lion in the center of the cage (in other words, that player stands in the middle of the circle). Choose another person to be the lion tamer. The lion tamer struts around the outside of the cage (in other words, walks around the outside of the circle).

Select one place in the room that you will call "the jungle."

The point of this game is for the lion to try to escape from the cage and get to "the jungle" without being caught. If the lion succeeds, he or she can stay safe in the jungle and that player can pick another person to be "lion." If the lion is caught, that player goes into the circle to help form the cage.

The trainer is the one who has to try to tag the lion before the lion reaches "the jungle." All those who reach safety in that jungle end up as winners!

Wednesday's Brain Twister: Do you know how to make a Cow Moo?

Answer: The secret is that you write the word "Cow" and then turn it over, complete the "C" so that it turns into an "O," and the word reads "Moo." (See illustration.)

Today's Brain Twister: The Rocky Mountains cross through a number of states. In which state are the highest mountains in the Rockies? (Look for the answer in Friday's Kids-Only Club column.)

You and the Law

Presented by the State Bar of Texas

Q: We had a tenant leave our rent home without notice, abandoning all their personal belongings. They skipped out leaving me with two bad checks, one for rent and one for the required deposit. How long are we required to hold their property before disposing of it?

A: A landlord is allowed by law to remove the contents of the home when the tenant abandons. The landlord should store the property safely for at least 60 days after which time the property may be sold, given away or discarded if the tenant has not claimed it. If the tenant does return and claim the property during this waiting period, the landlord must return all exempt property to the tenant. Non-exempt property may be withheld by the landlord pending payment of rent and other charges.

Q: When is it necessary to probate a will? Can I handle this myself? What would I have to do?

A: A will must be probated within four years from the date of death. You must produce the will and file an application in the county where the decedent resided.

You must report not only the facts of death, but the size and nature of the estate, the marital status of the decedent and the number of children surviving. The executor will be issued letters testamentary and can then proceed to probate the will. Necessary steps will include preparing an inventory and reporting to the appropriate taxing authorities.

Q: When my husband and I married two years ago, we moved into his existing house on his 300-acre cattle ranch. He has two children by a previous marriage. Because he has no will, I'm concerned that his children may run me out of the property if he should die. What would my legal rights be in this event?

A: Under the laws of intestacy your husband's separate real estate will pass one-third to you for your lifetime, two-thirds to his children. You will additionally be protected under Section 284, of the Probate Code so long as you elect to own and occupy the property as your homestead.

Q: My husband and I are divorced. He moved to another state and has custody of our 15-year old son. Am I liable for any damages my son may cause? Is it possible that I could file a statement that would release me from any liability?

A: Depending upon which state's law controls, your liability, if any, for your son's acts depends on the provisions for that state's laws and upon the nature of any custody you might exercise over your son. There does not appear to be any procedure under Texas law for filing a document which would release you from any liability for any damage your son may cause. You should consult a lawyer in the state where your son now resides to determine whether you have any liability for your son's actions.

Q: In the non-union company where I work, there is some question as to how many rest breaks an employee is entitled to during an eight-hour day and on days when an employee works overtime. What does the law say about the number and length of such breaks?

A: Neither Texas nor federal law requires that an employee be provided with rest breaks during regular hours or overtime work. Administrative interpretations of the Federal Labor Standards Act do require, however, that rest periods of twenty minutes or less that are given an employee must be counted as time worked for purposes of computing wages. The Federal Labor Standards Act regulations apply to most companies of any appreciable size, although there is a complex system of exemptions.

Send your questions to "You and the Law," State Bar of Texas, P.O. Box 12487, Austin, 78711. Answers may appear in columns in hypothetical terms, personal answers not possible.

Democrats Promise To Revise Reagan's Economic Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressional leaders say they will try to replace or reshape President Reagan's tax cut plan and pledge close scrutiny of his proposal to cut federal spending by $41 billion.

"We won't accept hook line and sinker the tax bill he proposed," said Rep. James Jones, D-Okla., chairman of the House Budget Committee.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill predicted there would be a revolution in the House if the budget proposals were handled as quickly as Reagan and his aides have indicated they would like.

"We will not be obstructionist," O'Neill said Wednesday. He said the proposed reductions would be fully examined by the House committees with jurisdiction over the affected agencies.

Members of both parties praised Reagan's effort to ease the nation's economic ills by proposing a comprehensive attack on excessive spending while at the same time seeking to reduce the taxpayers' burden.

"It's the only show in town," said Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who, like many other Democrats, promised that he would give the president's plan a fair hearing.

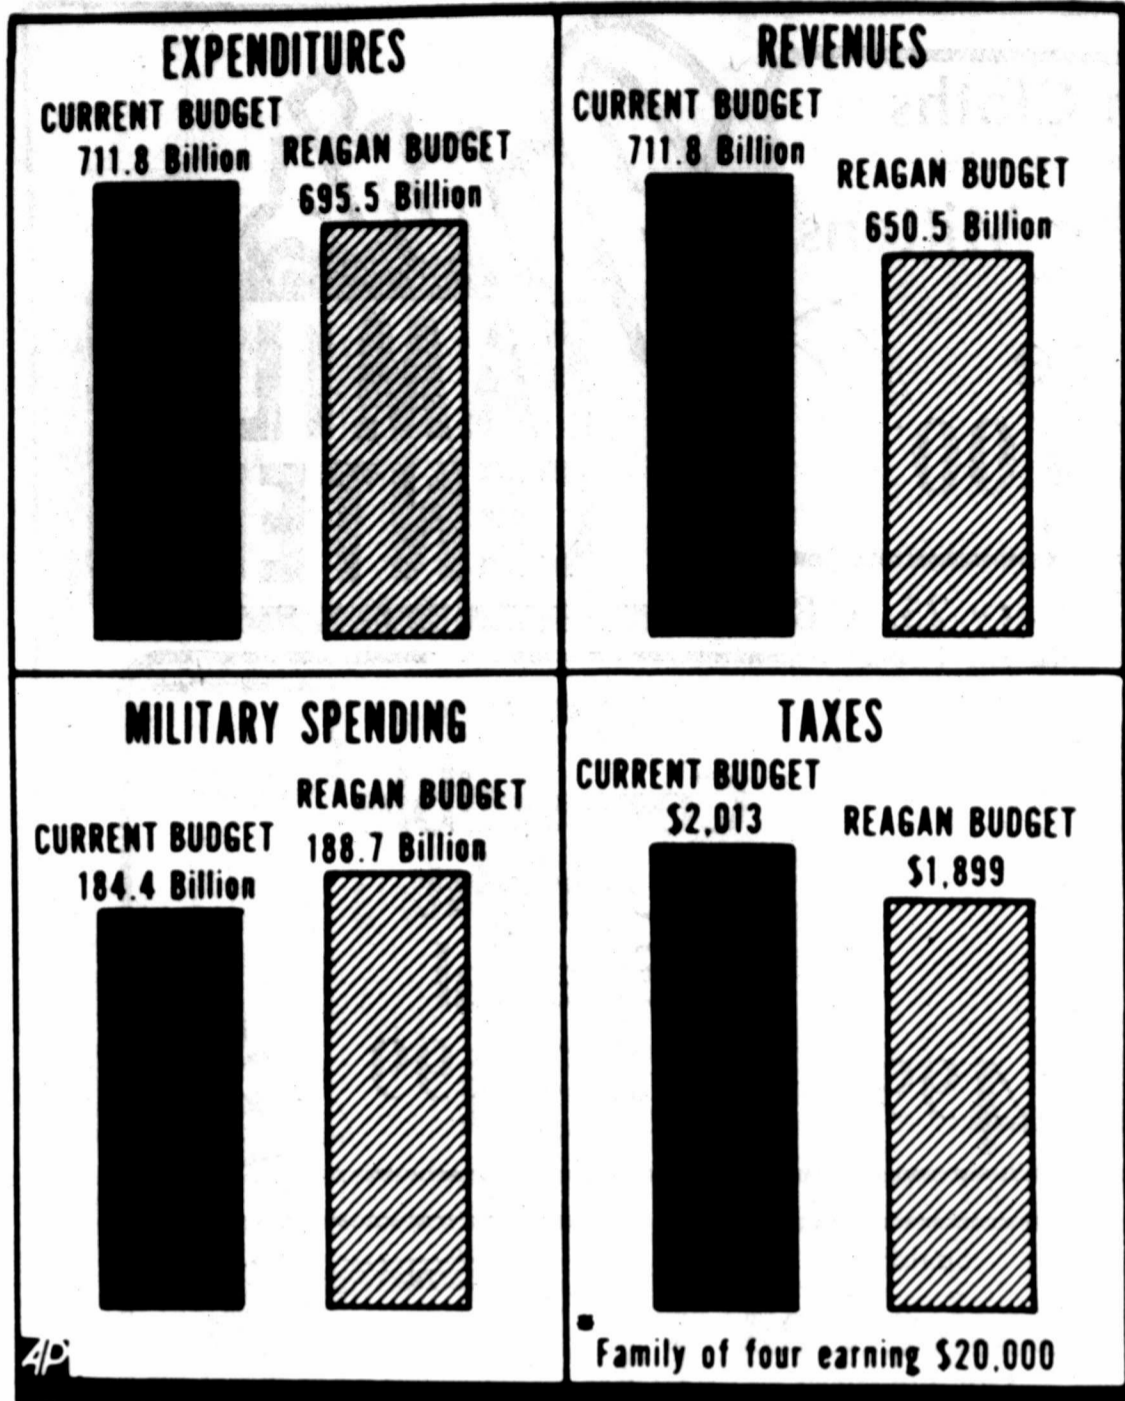

But the reactions of a broad sampling of House members and senators made it clear the president's program will not easily slide through Congress.

Senate Minority Leader Robert Byrd called Reagan's proposal to cut takes by about 30 percent across-the-board over three years "inflationary."

He said Senate Democrats would come up with their own tax cut proposal, but he declined to elaborate.

Others opposing the tax cut included Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore.; the Senate appropriations chairman, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; and Sen. Russell Long, D-La., the ranking Democratic member of the Senate Finance Committee.

The chairman of the finance panel, Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., predicted a "tough fight" in getting the tax plan through the Senate.

President Assigns Highest Priority To Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — Giving a U.S. military buildup overriding priority, President Reagan intends to boost defense spending by $169.5 billion through 1986.

This was shown Wednesday in a report devoted mainly to spelling out his intention to cut non-defense outlays severely.

Pentagon officials declined to provide details of increased weapons procurement proposals pending final Reagan approval of a 1981-1982 package to be unwrapped next week.

But it is known that the Reagan administration plans to move into a multi-billion-dollar development of an advanced bomber, take two battleships and an old aircraft carrier out of mothballs, build a new nuclear super carrier and other advanced warships and buy more warplanes, XM-1 tanks and other modern equipment.

The administration is expected to launch its program to "rebuild the nation's inadequate defense capacities" by asking Congress for substantial increases over former President Jimmy Carter's budget recommendations for this year and next.

Defense sources said Reagan probably will call for about $7 billion more than Carter's projected total of $171.2 billion in budget authority for the current year and an additional $26.4 billion over Carter's 1984 billion proposal for fiscal 1982, which begins Oct. 1.

These boosts in budget authority, if voted by Congress, will set in motion a "bow wave" of actual spending increases that will start slowly, then rise steeply and crest in the mid-1980s as the new gear is produced. Major weapons programs, especially ships and planes, take years to "spend out," as defense officials describe the process.

Therefore, according to Reagan's report, he expects actual defense spending in 1981 to rise by only about $1.3 billion in 1981 and $7.2 billion in 1982. Then, his chart shows, he anticipates defense spending jumping by $20.7 billion in 1983, by $27 billion in 1984, by $50.2 billion in 1985 and by $63.1 billion in 1986, when the spending total likely will hit well over $300 billion.

According to Pentagon sources, who asked not to be named, final decisions have not yet been made on a number of programs, but the following are just about set:

- About $2.5 billion in fiscal 1982 budget authority for development of a new long-range bomber to replace the B-52.
- More F-16 fighters for the Air Force and revival of A-10 close-support warplanes, whose production would have been halted by the Carter administration.

- Some $700 million for advanced procurement of material for a new nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.
- $500 million in fiscal 1981-1982 to restore the carrier Oriskany to active service and thus expand the Navy's resources for projecting air power.

Upper-Income Would Get Most Tax Relief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The small percentage of taxpayers with incomes above $40,000 a year would get more than 42 percent of the individual tax cuts recommended by President Reagan.

That change from most tax-cut bills in the recent past, which were targeted more toward the poor, is no accident. Reagan is aiming the tax benefits at those Americans who are in the best position to save and invest them in ways that would revitalize the economy.

The upper-income class that would benefit most, which includes less than 9 percent of all taxpayers, now pays more than 45 percent of personal income taxes.

age of 5.1 percent this year and by 27.3 percent when the program is fully implemented in 1984. The business tax cut, to be phased in over five years, starting retroactively last Jan. 1 would provide a faster tax deduction for investment.

Dividing the personal tax reduction among income groups, the poorest 45 percent of taxpayers, with incomes of $12,500 or less, would split 6 percent of the benefits. They now bear 4.8 percent of the tax load.

Couples and individuals with annual incomes between $12,500 and $40,000 a year would get 51.6 percent of the tax reductions. Those Americans file 46.6 percent of the tax returns, and pay half the federal tax bill.

In his speech, Reagan pleaded with Congress to concentrate on the basic tax-cut bill and leave other tax issues for later in the year.

The president promised that when that task is done, he will propose a second tax bill to "index" the individual tax system, protecting wage-earners against inflation-induced tax increases; to eliminate the tax penalty against some married working couples, and to provide school tuition tax credits.

The individual tax reductions proposed by Reagan would involve permanently cutting income-tax rates by an average of about 5 percent this year, 10 percent in 1982, 10 percent in 1983 and 5 percent in 1984. Withholding rates would be slashed 5 percent this year, 10 percent each in 1982 and 1983 and 5 percent in 1984.

That adds up to the basic 30 percent, three-year tax-rate reduction that Reagan pledged throughout the 1980 campaign.

Similarly, the president honored his promise to recommend a business tax reduction aimed at stimulating saving.

Reagan used a nationally broadcast speech Wednesday night to outline the tax cut, which was a central theme of his presidential campaign. The tax reduction is part of a package designed to slow inflation and revitalize the economy.

The Democratic-controlled House Ways and Means Committee, which was reluctant to vote a tax cut last year, will get the first shot at the proposal. Although most lawmakers in both houses of Congress seem to favor a tax reduction this year, there is no assurance they will accept Reagan's ideas on how taxes should be cut and how the benefits should be divided.

The bill would cut individual taxes by $250 billion over the next 3½ fiscal years, business taxes would be cut by $61 billion during the same period.

If Reagan's plan is approved, workers would begin seeing the tax cut in the first paychecks they take home after July 1. Those checks would reflect a 10 percent reduction in withheld taxes.

A typical $20,000-a-year family of four would get a $114 tax cut this year and $1,592 in 1984. The saving over four years would be $4,171, or 27.8 percent. A single person at the $20,000 level would receive a $161 reduction this year, $881 in 1984, and a four-year cut totaling $2,293, or 28.3 percent.

Personal taxes would be cut an aver-

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Cry babies will have a depressing effect on you tomorrow, so seek out those who believe in making their own luck. Then you'll have a good time.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Fortunately for you, you have a good, logical mind that can overcome situations which become too emotional. Don't hesitate to use it tomorrow.

Troopers Boost Rate Of Arrests In Miami

MIAMI (AP) — Felony arrests and traffic tickets are up since 100 extra Florida Highway Patrol troopers hit town a month ago, new crime statistics say. Since the troopers arrived in Miami, felony arrests have jumped 40 percent and countywide traffic tickets are up by more than 20 percent from a year ago. The troopers were sent into South Florida amid a growing crime wave to handle the majority of traffic accidents in Dade County so local officers could concentrate on more serious crime. The troopers' stay ends next month.

Attorney General Raps Prison Suit Agreement

AUSTIN (AP) — A proposed agreement worked out by the state and lawyers for inmates who sued the prison system does not answer some of the bigger — and most expensive — questions about the way Texas punishes criminals.

Attorney General Mark White said Wednesday the proposed agreement, in the mail to a federal judge, who could veto it.

The agreement includes proposals to improve health care in the 30,000-inmate Texas Department of Corrections. There also are plans to improve solitary confinement procedures, work safety and care of handicapped inmates.

"This largely eliminates most of the emotional issues," White said at a news conference.

However, he acknowledged the proposal does not mention the "serious hard-money questions," including how many prisoners should be in a cell, how big cells should be, and where prisons should be built.

The civil rights suit was filed in 1972 by inmates who claimed their rights were being violated. U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice's opinion, issued in December, ruled in favor of the prisoners.

Lawyers for the state, the inmates and the U.S. Justice Department, which intervened on the prisoners' behalf, attempted to agree on ways to deal with conditions Justice said violated prisoners' constitutional rights.

The agreement reached on medical care was based largely on improvements already underway, including the construction of a prison hospital in Galveston. White said the hospital would give TDC the best prison health care in the nation, and would be the only such facility accredited by the American Medical Association.

The proposed agreement says TDC would prepare by June 1 a plan "which will assure that prisoners receive necessary medical, dental and psychiatric care from the moment of their arrival in TDC."

White said the plan would prohibit prisoners from giving medical treatment to other inmates, a practice condemned by Justice. TDC is asking the Legislature for money to hire 278 medical assistants.

Trial testimony included horror stories about prisoners dying because of poor medical care administered by inmates.

There also was testimony about prisoners who died after TDC personnel took away medicine the inmates brought to the prison. The agreement says, "No prisoner who arrives with medication and a prescription therefor will be deprived of that medication until a licensed physician has examined him and made a medical determination regarding...that medicine."

BBB Providing Help To Senior Consumers

By JOE GULICK

Avalanche-Journal Staff

In what may be the first action of its kind in the nation, the South Plains Better Business Bureau is organizing a Senior Consumers Committee aimed at educating the area's senior citizens to become more aware in their buying habits.

Bureau manager Alan Bligh is currently contacting volunteers from different areas of senior citizen interest, including minority interests.

Bligh said he is also hoping for community volunteers. "We'll have to have some senior citizens on the committee," he said.

Henry Huneke, chairman of South Plains BBB board of directors, in January listed the senior consumers committee as a major goal of the bureau in 1981.

Since the organizational process of the committee has begun, business and consumers have gotten behind it more than any other program in the last couple of years, Bligh said.

"That's something everyone is in accord with — something that needs to be done," he said.

The main thrust of the committee will be education, Bligh said. A primary objective will be teaching senior citizens to have good "buymanship," he said, adding that the term describes a person's efficiency as a consumer.

Older people are often the targets of unscrupulous itinerant salesmen who go door-to-door selling home improvements, health insurance policies or other things that aren't necessarily smart purchases. In some cases, such as the home improvements, the deals are out-and-out rip-offs.

Bligh said the South Plains area's problems are not any worse than the rest of the country's, but noted that the resources are here to combat the problem and that he and Huneke felt it was time to utilize those resources.

When the committee is formed, the first thing they will do is define the problem and decide what the situation is with senior consumers on the South Plains, Bligh said. From there, they can decide what their priorities are going to be.

He said he hopes they will get a senior citizen to volunteer as a "shopper," an individual who goes around to businesses comparing merchandise to the advertisements and making reports to the BBB. The local bureau has worked with "shoppers" before, but they have been Tech students, Bligh said.

He added that anyone interested in serving on the senior consumers committee or helping out in any way should contact the South Plains BBB at 763-0459.

REDFISH TROUT HEARING CROWD — Interested parties fill seats in the Senate chamber and gallery and crowd around the Senate Natural Resources Committee as they began a hearing Wednesday on legislation that would make redfish and speckled trout gamefish and thereby removing them from the commercial market. (AP Laserphoto)

Commercial Fishermen Offered Chance To Rebut Legislation

AUSTIN (AP) — Commercial fishermen have a week to plan their opposition to a bill taking redfish and speckled trout off the seafood market — and 2½ hours to present that opposition.

Sports fishermen and Sen. O.H. "Ike" Harris spent 1½ hours Wednesday blaming commercial fishermen for depleting the redfish and trout populations in Texas' coastal waters.

Chairman Tati Santiesteban of the Senate Natural Resources Committee cut off testimony just after 6 p.m. and told commercial fishermen they could make their case next Wednesday.

The turnout before the committee was the largest crowd of the legislative session as hundreds sat in the Senate chamber and gallery.

"You can hardly raise a mess of reds now around the bay," said W.E. Morrison, a sportsman who said he has been fishing since the turn of the century.

"These guys say they're 'farmers of the sea,' but they're really miners. They don't replenish anything," said Dick Ingraham of the Gulf Coast Conservation Association, another supporter of Harris' bill.

Also among supporters of the bill was former Sen. A.R. "Babe" Schwartz of Galveston, whose political defeat in November has been attributed by some to his stance last session on the "redfish bill."

More than 125 witnesses signed up against the proposal.

Harris, R-Dallas, said he was sponsoring the bill "at the insistence of the Parks and Wildlife Department."

He said he was convinced department statistics that show a declining population of redfish and speckled trout "are accurate, and the bill is necessary and proper."

Bob Kemp, fisheries director for the department, said redfish and speckled trout populations are declining "all along the Gulf Coast" — not just the Texas coast.

Hello, again! Because we've had some extraordinarily luscious desserts lately — and some of us are on diets — what do you say we have some main dish recipes this week?

But, this easy and delicious potato recipe is just too good not to print!

GOURMET POTATO PATTIES

(Submitted by Betty Moreman, Brownfield)

1 pkg. 3-oz. cream cheese (softened)
1 tsp. flour
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. paprika
1 tsp. dried parsley
6 tsp. shredded cheese
2 tsp. evaporated milk
1 tsp. minced onion
1 egg beaten
2 bricks frozen, shredded hash browns (thawed and separated)
Mix cream cheese, flour, salt, paprika, parsley and other cheese. Add milk and onions; stir until smooth. Gradually add egg; mix well.
Lightly grease skillet and fry as pancakes (1/4 cup each and spread to about 3 inches in diameter). Fry until golden brown.

Here is a very special recipe from Barbara Pinkert of Slaton.

PEPPER STEAK

(Serve with hot rice)

1- 1/2 lbs. beef round (2-in. thick)
3/4 tsp. meat tenderizer (optional)

Teen Years Crucial Period In Nutritional Development

NEW YORK (Special) — Your son's or daughter's teen years represent a difficult period: no longer a child, not yet accepted as an adult. It is a period of great physical and psychological, and often ignored nutritional needs.

The teen years are marked by physical growth, putting additional demand on needs for protein, carbohydrates, vitamins and minerals. These nutrients are needed daily to build healthy bones, muscles and organs.

Many teens may not be meeting these needs because:

1. Breakfast may be skipped or replaced with foods high in carbohydrates and fats and low in nutrients;
2. Lunch and dinner are often eaten "on the run" and away from home;
3. They become weight conscious and may eat very little, severely limiting the amounts of nutrients their bodies receive daily; and
4. Some vent their frustrations by overeating

3tbsp. oil
2 large Bell peppers
3 scallions with tops
1/2 cup celery
1- 1/2 cups bouillon
1 tsp. cornstarch
1/3 cup molasses
3tbsp. soy sauce
3/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. garlic salt
1- 1/2 tsp. ginger
2 tsp. lemon juice

Prepare vegetables: Bell peppers cut in 1-inch squares; scallions with tops sliced thin; celery sliced diagonally. Set aside.

Slice beef into thin strips. If needed, add the tenderizer. On high, heat oil in large skillet. Add beef and sear until red disappears.

Add prepared vegetables, stirring often. Cook 5 minutes. Blend cornstarch in bouillon. Add this and the remaining ingredients quickly, stirring often until boils and thickens slightly.

We'd also like to use Barbara's recipe that follows.

SHORT RIB RUSSIAN STEW

2 cups water
1 lb. short ribs (beef) or stew meat
1 onion
2 Bay leaves
1 parsnip
4 stalks celery
2tbsp. salt
1tsp. pepper
Mix above and on low heat, cook for approximately 2-1/2 hours. Remove bone from meat. Remove the cooked vegetables above and throw away.

Add the following and cook 1 hour.
1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
5 carrots, chopped
3 large potatoes, quartered
1 head cabbage, chopped
1/4 cup lemon juice
1tbsp. brown sugar
1/4 tsp. ginger, powdered
1tbsp. orange peel
2 large beets, diced (optional)
Serve stew with sour cream.

BEEF STROGANOFF

(Sent by Allene Hughes, Roaring Springs)

Cube 2 lbs. tenderized round steak and brown in a small amount of oil. Then, simmer until tender. Add a small amount of water, if necessary. (Note: You can use 2 lbs. ground meat, browned and crumbled.)

Add 2 cans golden mushroom soup and 1 8-oz. carton sour cream. Simmer for a few minutes and serve over hot noodles.

Forget we ever talked about diets and dieting... for those who have requested this recipe (also courtesy of Aliene), here is the recipe similar to that served by Furr's Cafeteria.

MILLIONAIRE PIE

1 15-oz. can sweetened condensed milk
1/3 cup lemon juice
1/3 cup chopped maraschino cherries
1/3 cup chopped pecans
1/3 cup crushed pineapple
1 8 or 9-inch baked pie shell, pastry or graham cracker
Whipped cream
Blend milk and lemon juice. Mix in cherries, nuts and pineapple. Spoon into pie shell. Chill 2 hours. Top with whipped cream before serving.

May we especially thank Ruth Pierce of Morton for taking the time to help out fellow neighbors who had difficulties with recent brandied fruit recipes. Here are Ruth's special tips and recipes.

BRANDIED FRUIT

To start the brandied fruit, use the following: 3 cups sugar; 1 cup pineapple; 1 cup cherries; 1 cup peaches and 1 package dry yeast. In two weeks, add: 1 cup fruit and 1 cup sugar (alternate pineapple, peaches and maraschino cherries).

Note: Ruth stores in an inexpensive clear, cookie jar. When using fruit, always allow 3 cups to remain in jar.

BRANDIED FRUIT COOKIES

1 cup oleo
2 eggs
1 cup white raisins (1 cup nuts may be substituted)
1 cup fruit, drained
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. soda
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
2 cups brown sugar
1/3 cup fruit liquid
2- 3/4 cup flour (more flour may be needed)

Always add some flour to fruit before adding fruit to other mixture. Drop by teaspoonful on cookie sheet. Bake 10-12 minutes at 350 degrees.

DEAR ABBY

Bar Manager Not Reason For Man's Serious Alcoholic Condition

DEAR ABBY: My husband is an alcoholic. He also had cirrhosis of the liver.

Last year he had a mild heart attack after drinking at his favorite bar, which is located in a shopping center near where we live. He goes there every day.

The manager of this bar gives my husband liquor on credit, so naturally that is where my husband always goes. I went there and told the manager not to give my husband any more credit because he was an alcoholic and it was killing him, but the manager said, "If I don't give him credit, somebody else will."

Abby, I think this is disgusting. That manager is killing my husband! What should I do?

is in the phone book. Please call now. It's free, and well worth trying.

DEAR ABBY: My ex-husband is coming to town to visit our children. He is now married to the woman who broke up our marriage. When he left me for her, he told me he loved this woman more than anything else in the world, and if he couldn't be free to marry her he would kill himself.

Listen to this: When he called to tell me he was coming here to see the children, he asked me to get him a "date" while he's here. Should I?

GLORIA

DEAR GLORIA: Yes. With a psychiatrist.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will correct the misstatement made in your reply to HASHIME SAITO. You said: "To our everlasting shame, approximately 100,000 decent, law-abiding American citizens were held in concentration camps for the duration of World War II. Their 'crime'? They were of Japanese descent." I was shocked and disappointed that you would use the term "concentration camps," since the connotation of the term is "death camp." To quote California Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, the world's leading semanticist:

"The use of the term 'concentration camp' when referring to the War Relocation Centers for persons of Japanese ancestry, is highly propagandistic and makes a mockery of what happened to the Jews under Hitler . . . It is a term used by a wolf-pack of young Japanese American dissidents who weren't even born during WWII."

LILLIAN BAKER, GARDENA, CALIF.

DEAR LILLIAN: Thank you (and all the others who wrote) for setting me straight.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THINKING IT OVER IN SALEM, N.J.: Think it over thoroughly. Money isn't everything.

Sometimes it isn't enough.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

DEAR IRKED: Don't blame the manager. The problem lies with your husband. If he hasn't tried Alcoholics Anonymous, he should. His very life depends on it. The bridge neophyte sees only the 13 cards he holds. In time, he progresses to a point where he learns to play the 26 cards in his side's combined holding. He really arrives as a player when he considers all 52 cards in the play of a hand.

South had a difficult rebid. He did not want to jump in clubs because that would bypass three no trump, and a rebid of three clubs would show a far weaker hand. Two no trump, despite the diamond weakness, represented a fair compromise.

West led the five of diamonds, and declarer saw a chance to win three tricks in the suit. He played low from dummy. Unfortunately, East produced the king and shifted to a heart. Declarer ducked, West won the queen and returned the suit, forcing out the ace as East played low.

Declarer crossed to the queen of diamonds, which was allowed to win. He repeated the finesse, but now West won the king. Declarer had four good clubs in his hand and no way to reach them. Even though he eventually scrounged up two spade tricks, declarer was held to seven tricks—two spades, two hearts, two diamonds and a club.

Before playing to the first trick, South should have realized that, in the overall concept of the hand, one diamond trick more or less wasn't going to make any difference. The key suit was clubs, and it was essential for declarer to protect the entries to his hand.

Correct play at trick one was for declarer to insert dummy's diamond queen. If this held the trick, declarer could start on clubs and set up the suit while he still had the ace of hearts as an entry. If this lost to the king, the jack of diamonds would become a second entry to the South hand, and the defenders could eliminate one entry but not two. Declarer would, therefore, be able to collect all the club tricks due him and thus come to at least nine tricks.

SEXY EYEGLASSES

To look sexy in eyeglasses, give extra special attention to your eye makeup. Use more than you would without glasses but keep it soft and well blended—your lenses will magnify any harsh colors or too-thick lines. For an unusually pretty look, try matching your eyeshadow to your frame color. For example, if frames are blue, use a few different tones of blue shadow, with the darkest nearest your lashes and a pastel as highlighter on the eyebrow.

Culottes Back In Style

You may not like them, but just wait — they'll grow on you. It's sportiness at its best. It's the look of a skirt with the comfort of pants. The culotte is back — bigger than ever. No longer do they have the smooth, sleek lines of a few years back. These have pleats, gathers — and large legs. Catch them in solids or plaids, and you've got a spring wardrobe staple. Before you say "I'll never wear those", try them on. You'll be surprised at the comfort and ease when wearing culottes. Now you don't have to stick to the suit look all summer, and if you just don't like to wear shorts, culottes are for you.

Instead of a tailored blazer with your culottes, add a relaxed cardigan jacket for a cool, polished look. For sporty, go with denim for culottes or pedal pushers. They're a different look in shorts, and they cover up figure flaws. For casual dressiness, the culotte comes in crayon plaids to mix and match a variety of your summer pieces. And don't forget the shoes — an important part of the overall culotte look. Don't wear your strappy sandals, but on the other hand, don't try tennis shoes, either. Choose a flat loafer or low-heeled summer sandal for the best culotte shoe. Remember, sporty is the secret.

THE NEW SUIT — It's the fashion answer to the great debate of pants versus skirts. This checkered plaid culotte gets you through the spring and summer in cool styling. Team it with an unconstructed jacket, and you've got a new suit.

THE SHORTER CULOTTE — It's the culotte look with shorter length and smaller legs. This one's in denim, for you to wear as much as you wear your jeans. Anyone can wear this look, and if you have figure flaws, no one's the wiser.

Strong Families Promote Prosperity Of Countries

WASHINGTON (Special) — Strong families are very important to the strength of nations, said Nick Stinnett, a University of Nebraska social scientist. "There is a pattern in the rise and fall of great societies such as ancient Rome, Greece and Egypt. When these societies were at the peak of their power and prosperity, the family was strong and valued. When family life became weak, when the family was not valued, the society began to deteriorate and eventually fell," Stinnett said. Stinnett cited six qualities of strong families found in a survey of 130 urban and rural families in Oklahoma, in 350 families in a national study and 180 families in South America. Members of strong families, the studies showed, expressed a great appreciation for each other and built each other up psychologically. They spend considerable time together, had good communications patterns, a high degree of commitment to each other, were religious and dealt positively with crises. Stinnett is chairman of the University of Nebraska's Department of Human Development and the Family, a part of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources. He made the comments during a meeting at the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Each of us likes to be with people who make us feel good about ourselves. We don't like to be with people who make us feel bad," Stinnett said. "As psychologist William James said 'the most important need of all is the need to be appreciated.'" "Strong families structure their lifestyles so they can spend time together," Stinnett said. "It did not just happen. They made it happen. And this togetherness was in all areas of their lives — eating, recreation and work." He said good communication between family members is closely related to spending time together. "It's hard for people to communicate if they do not spend time with each other," he said. Stinnett said family members surveyed did not always agree with each other. "They get mad at each other but they get conflict out in the open and they are able to talk it over, to discuss the problems." Another characteristic of a strong family, according to the survey, is the ability to deal with crises and problems in a positive way. "They managed to look at the situation and see some positive element — no matter how tiny — and to focus on it. It may have been, for example, that in a particular crisis they simply had to rely to a greater extent on each other. They were able to unite in dealing with the crises instead of being fragmented by them." Stinnett said strengthening family life should be one of the nation's top priorities. He said a National Symposium on Building Family Strengths will be held May 13-15 at the University of Nebraska.

Spaghetti Dish Makes Most Of Appliances

NEW YORK (Special) — Today's menus have been developed for on-the-go people who have little time to spend cooking, yet enjoy the pleasures of dining at home rather than eating out. Make the meal on occasion. Serve food in an Italian restaurant atmosphere by simply setting out a checkered tablecloth and attractive candles. On to the menu! Spaghetti with Meat Sauce is an all-time favorite. Now you make the dish in 15 minutes by using kitchen appliances to the fullest. While the spaghetti is boiling, the sauce ingredients go together in the food processor, then into the microwave oven to heat. Tossed greens with an oil and vinegar dressing, chunks of bread and wine are natural for this menu. Offer fresh fruit for dessert.

Egg noodles and fish are good food mates. Follow our directions for Stuffed Fish Fillets with Noodles for another 15 minute wonder. Garnish chilled tomato juice with a lemon wedge to begin. Have green beans (canned or frozen) with the seafood and pasta. Fresh pear halves with a dollop of yogurt are a refreshing dessert.

When you serve pasta, remember you are serving good nutrition. It is recommended we increase our carbohydrate intake and pasta is one of the best sources. Elbow macaroni, spaghetti and egg noodles supply niacin, thiamine and riboflavin along with iron. Pasta is a low fat, low sodium, easily digested food.

Here are our recipes. Note directions are given for those who wish to cook conventionally as well as those who prefer "appliance cookery".

SPAGHETTI WITH MEAT SAUCE
(Makes 6 servings)
12 oz. spaghetti
Salt

LIVES OF WOMEN
The Baltimore Gerontology Research Center believes that married women who are financially secure, intelligent, sexually active, with three children and long-lived ancestors enjoy the longest life spans.

4-5 qts. boiling water
1/2 lb. beef chuck, cubed
1 can (16 oz.) stewed tomatoes
1 small onion, halved
1 clove garlic
1/4 tsp. oregano
Dash pepper
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
Gradually add spaghetti and 1 1/2 tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

While spaghetti is cooking, chop beef with cutting blade in food processor. Put beef into 1-quart microwave-proof casserole. Cover and microwave 2 minutes, stirring after 1 minute. Drain off drippings. Process tomatoes, onion, garlic, oregano and pepper in food processor until smooth. Add to meat with tomato sauce. Cover and microwave 5 minutes, stirring after 2 minutes. Add salt to taste. Serve over spaghetti.

Conventional method: Use 1/2 pound ground beef chuck. Chop onion and garlic. Crush tomatoes with a fork. In large skillet, saute beef, onion and garlic in 1 tablespoon oil 5 minutes, stirring often. Stir in tomatoes, seasonings and tomato sauce. Simmer uncovered 10 minutes.

STUFFED FISH FILLETS WITH NOODLES
(Makes 4 servings)
8 oz. med. egg noodles (about 4 cups)
Salt
3 qts. boiling water
1/2 lb. mushrooms
1/4 cup diced Swiss cheese (about 1 oz.)
1 small rib celery
1/4 small onion
3 sprigs parsley

1 slice white bread
1 tsp. butter or margarine
1/4 tsp. pepper
4 sole or flounder fillets (1 lb.)
1/3 cup dry white wine
1 can (10 3/4 oz.) condensed cream of celery soup
1 jar (4 oz.) chopped pimientos, drained
Gradually add noodles and 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

While noodles are cooking, process, until finely chopped, mushrooms, cheese, celery, onion, parsley, bread, butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt and pepper with cutting blade in food processor. Place one-fourth vegetable mixture at end of each fillet. Roll up and fasten with toothpicks. Place fillets in microwave-proof baking dish. Pour in wine. Cover and microwave 3 minutes. Turn and microwave about 2 minutes more or until fish is just tender. Pour cooking liquid into small microwave-proof container; add milk to make 3/4 cup if necessary. Stir in undiluted soup and pimientos. Cover and microwave 2 minutes.

Stir 1 cup sauce into noodles; mix well. Place noodles on serving platter, top with stuffed fillets. Serve remaining sauce with noodles and fish.

Conventional method: For stuffing, finely chop mushrooms, Swiss cheese, celery, onion and parsley. Crumble bread to make crumbs; combine with vegetable mixture, butter, pepper and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Mix in 2 tablespoons of wine in recipe above. Place fillets in small baking pan; pour in remaining wine. Spread filling on fillets as above. Cover and bake in 350 degree oven 25 minutes or until fish is done. Pour off cooking liquid; add milk if necessary to make 3/4 cup. In small saucepan, combine mixture, undiluted sop and pimientos. Heat to serving temperature, stirring occasionally.

Lubbock Car Dealership Provides Training In CPR For Employees

By JACQUE HUTCHINS
Family News Staff

Many people are becoming certified in cardiopulmonary resuscitation, a life-saving technique administered to heart attack victims. But few individuals have taken as intense interest as Larry Corbell, president of Don Crow Chevrolet.

Corbell has instituted a program for all his employees to become CPR certified. West Texas Hospital will provide, in conjunction with the American Heart Association, the training necessary for the 55 employees to be certified.

The company president previously owned a car dealership in Slaton, where one of his employees died of a heart attack while at work. Corbell explained that because of everyone's inability to help the victim, he wanted to know what to do if the situation ever happened again. "We went through a situation where we were helpless to help. We were afraid to help because we didn't know what to do without causing more harm," said Corbell. After the tragedy in Slaton, Corbell saw to it that all his employees were certified. After coming to Lubbock he felt the same should be done. "We have too many employees that are of the age where that type of circumstance could happen again," said Corbell. For three consecutive Saturdays the employees that have not been previously certified will listen to lectures, view films and practice and demonstrate the technique.

Wanda Walser, director of community relations at West Texas Hospital, explained that it takes eight hours to be certified in CPR. "This is the largest class we have ever worked with," said Mrs. Walser. "We teach CPR classes at the hospital and we have teams that go out and teach the business people."

In addition to CPR the teams also teach a technique to help choking victims. She explained that this service is free to the public. The classes are usually taught the second Tuesday of each month at the hospital from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Mrs. Walser explained that in order to be certified one must demonstrate the ability to perform CPR. The instructors demonstrate CPR using a "dummy" named Ruscuscianne. "She's the model used to practice on. A printout is read from the number of breaths to see how well the person giving CPR is doing," said Mrs. Walser. The director explained that the technique is very simple to learn. Interested persons may call the hospital at 765-9381, Ext. 464, or 115. Corbell stated he would assist local businesses in providing information for implementing the program. Interested business people may contact him at 794-4000.

Second Murder Trial Scheduled

Philip Carey Brasfield, whose capital murder conviction for the 1977 slaying of Johnny Turner Jr. was overturned by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, will be retried on the lesser charge of murder April 20 in Amarillo.

District Judge William Shaver, who will preside over the case during the trial, instructed First Assistant District Attorney Jim Bob Darnell to issue an order Wednesday setting the trial for late April. The trial will fall just more than two years after Brasfield was assessed the death penalty by a Wichita Falls jury in 1978. But the appeals court ruled last February that evidence presented in the punishment phase of Brasfield's trial had not been sufficient to warrant the death penalty and that the wording in the indictment against Brasfield had been defective.

By omitting four words — "against Johnny Turner Jr." — in the indictment, prosecutors failed to adequately apprise Brasfield of the charge (capital murder) against him and the indictment should have been dismissed, the court ruled. The Turner child was named in the indictment as the murder victim, but not as the victim of the alleged kidnapping which constituted the capital murder charge.

necessary for Brasfield, a Lubbock County grand jury re-indicted him in July 1980 on the lesser charge of murder. Shaver ruled that Brasfield's new trial should be moved from the Lubbock on a change of venue.

New Events Added To Wurstfest

SLATON (Special) — The 11th Annual German Sausage Festival will have a new look this year, with a funfest and dancefest added to the regular wurstfest which draws lovers of German cooking from all over West Texas.

The dancefest, set for 9 a.m. Friday in St. Joseph's Hall and featuring Don Turner and His Humpah Players, already is a sellout for its premier performance.

All other events take place Sunday in St. Joseph's Hall, with the sausage-and-trimmings meal scheduled for 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., and St. Joseph's School for the funfest of games, country store and auction.

More than three miles of sausage, prepared according to a recipe more than 200-years-old, will be made by parish members Thursday, noted Jerry Kitten, president of the Home School Association and member of the St. Joseph's School board.

Part of the 6,500 pounds of German sausage will be put aside to be the main event at Sunday lunch, sided by mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, green beans, sauerkraut and homemade bread and cake. The remainder will be weighed and wrapped to be sold by the pound at the school Sunday.

All proceeds from the wurstfest and activities will benefit St. Joseph's school, providing a third of the school budget.

The funfest begins at 11 a.m. at the school, with games for all ages and a big country store full of homemade goodies and handmade crafts. An auction of donated items gets underway at 2:30 p.m.

Meal tickets are $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for those 10 and under, with take-out plates also available. Sausage will be $2.50 per pound.

Plan Deductions To Reduce Taxes

By RAY DE CRANE (Last of 14 parts)

The Internal Revenue Service makes it tantalizingly tempting for people to take a standard deduction instead of individually itemizing their deductions on their income-tax return.

The standard deduction — now known as the "zero bracket amount" — greatly simplifies and speeds up the filing process.

Easy to use? Yes. Most economical? Not necessarily.

Instead of taking the easy way out with the standard deduction, try, instead, to take advantage of the tax system and use it for your own gain.

You take advantage of it by trying to shift deductions from one year to the next. In doing so, you alternate your habits.

In one year, you take the standard deduction. That's the year you have eased off on your deductible items.

The next year, you itemize. In that year you will pack in as many deductions as possible.

You can't beat the system unless you know the rules. The rules allow a standard deduction of $3,400 for a married couple filing a joint return and $2,300 for single taxpayers.

For your copy of the 1981 edition of "Cut Your Own Taxes and Save" by Ray De Crane, send a check or money order for $1.50 (plus 50 cents postage and handling) to "Cut Your Own Taxes" c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Consider the case of a married couple whose deductions usually total about $3,000 a year. Instead of itemizing, they elect the standard deduction of $3,400 and figure they come out ahead. But do they?

Let's closely examine their situation. Over a two-year period, they spend $6,000 for deductible items. Wouldn't it make sense if they could shift $1,500 of those deductions from one year to the next?

If they could, they would have $4,500 in deductions in one year and $1,500 the next. We haven't increased their spending, just changed their habits. Over a two-year period, the deductions still total $6,000.

But in the year in which they have $4,500 in deductions, they itemize. They claim the full $4,500. In the next year, when they only have $1,500 in deductions, they take the $3,400 standard deduction.

Now they have received $7,900 in deductions in two years instead of the $6,800 they had been claiming.

Do they save money on their taxes? Of course they do. Is it easy to do. It takes a little planning, but it is time well spent.

Here are some ideas: No one would propose delaying surgery on a "hot" appendix, but some forms of cosmetic surgery and optional dental work easily could be delayed a few months to move them into another year.

There are many opportunities in the category of taxes. In many communities, it is possible to make four real-estate tax payments in one year and none the next. You would naturally make four in the year you are itemizing and none in the year of the standard deduction.

That final estimated tax payment for state and local income taxes generally is due in January. Move the payments up to December if you want extra deductions that year.

And time your purchase of a new car for the year you are itemizing. Then you will have that additional sales-tax deduction.

Certainly charitable contributions present the perfect opportunity for an alternating-years system. In the year you are itemizing, be overly generous. In the year of the standard deduction, hold back on your giving.

Over a two-year period, you will be just as generous as you have always been. No one will be cheated. You will just be changing your habits.

Timing is of the essence in this type of program. But it can be done and the rewards can be great.

You never heard of getting a discount on your income taxes? This is a way to do it!

Judge Considers Gilmore's Lower Bond Request

By KIM COBB
Avalanche-Journal Staff
A state district court judge is considering murder suspect Vernon Ray Gilmore's motion for reduced bond in connection with a recently filed auto theft charge — but the judge already has informed attorneys a high bond for a man facing several felony charges may not be unreasonable.

Gilmore was indicted for the Nov. 7 slaying of Richard Grier Luster, 28, of Spicewood. Luster's body was found on a sloping road leading to a caliche pit near Lake Ransom Canyon.
However, Gilmore and Samantha Jane Davidson, who also is charged with the murder, fled to Canada before they could be taken into custody. The pair was arrested in late December in Washington at the Canada-United States border as they attempted to return to the United States.

In connection with the murder charge, a bond of $250,000 was set but that amount was ruled excessive by Judge John R. McFall, who reduced it to $25,000.
Gilmore later was charged with an unrelated burglary and his bond set at $20,000 for that offense. District Judge Robert C. Wright ordered that bond reduced to $12,000.

When Gilmore was charged last Tuesday with stealing a Jeep, bringing to four the number of separate felony charges the suspect faces, his bond was set at $25,000.
Gilmore's attorney, Danny Hurley, filed a motion to have his client's bond for the most recent charge reduced early this week.
First Assistant District Attorney Jim Bob Darnell argued in Judge Denzil Bevers' court Wednesday that "$25,000 is not too high for this individual." He cited the numerous charges pending against Gilmore as well as his flight to Canada as evidence that "this is an individual who would not return for trial if let out of jail."

Hurley accused the district attorney's office of "oppressing" his client through the repeated filing of charges against him. And he argued that an oral statement reportedly given by Gilmore and admitting the Jeep theft should be ruled inadmissible in considering the man's bond.
Bevers interrupted Hurley's summary to say that the district attorney's office is obligated to file any charges they feel are warranted against an individual.
"I guess that's the key, your honor," Hurley answered, "whether or not the state has proved the charge is warranted."
Hurley pointed to co-defendant Samantha Davidson, who was released from the county jail after posting a court-reduced bond and who was present in the courtroom audience. Miss Davidson faces many of the same charges, he argued, but has shown up for each of the legal preliminaries which have come before her trial.

Bevers informed Hurley and Darnell that he would take the matter "under advisement" and offer his decision at a later date, probably Friday. He warned the attorneys that the court's general opinion is that when facing multiple charges, a man perhaps has a better reason to run and that a higher-than-normal bond may be justified.

Montford Promotes Assistant, Names New Attorney To Post

Assistant District Attorney Travis Ware has been named Felony Division chief for the Criminal District Attorney's office, replacing former chief Richard Howell, who is leaving the office to accept a private practice position in Dallas.
Ware, 31, a 1978 graduate of Texas Tech Law School, practiced law with District Attorney John T. Montford before he took office in January 1979. As felony chief, Ware will be responsible for supervising all felony-related work in the office. Howell, who has served as felony chief since Montford's first day in office, begins work in Dallas in March.
Mary Ann Wiley, who was graduated from St. Mary's Law School in 1973, was sworn in as an assistant district attorney

Wednesday morning to fill the gaps in the office left by Howell's departure and the loss of attorney John Tabor more than a month ago. Tabor left Lubbock to accept a position in the Odessa district attorney's office.

Montford said Wednesday he feels lucky to have hired Miss Wiley. The Lubbock attorney worked in the district attorney's office from 1973 to 1977, leaving the job for a stint in private practice.
"I'm glad to have her back on this side," Montford said, adding that Ware would serve well as the new division chief because of his intense attitude toward work and his thoroughness.
However, Montford took advantage of the staff changes to repeat his plea — often made before the commissioners court — for higher salaries for prosecutors. Montford said the recent changes in the office single out the tremendous turnover his office faces because he cannot afford to pay his staff competitive salaries.

"I just can't compete, financially, with the open market," Montford added. With six months experience in the Lubbock office, the district attorney pointed out, Tabor left for work in a smaller town at a much higher salary.
Montford also noted he is also in the process of hiring a new misdemeanor attorney, which should bring the office back up to full staffing level.

Board Approves City Cab Ordinance

The Lubbock Airport Board Wednesday night gave its approval to a new city ordinance requiring taxicabs and limousines to post their rates.

The approval was for a portion of the ordinance dealing with the airport. As outlined by assistant city attorney Angela Adams and city administrative assistant

Ricky Childers, both limousines and taxicabs would be required to post their rates showing fees charged to and from the airport, with the provision possibly extending to taxicabs everywhere in the city.

The ordinance also requires limousines to be bonded and insured. Limousines operated by motels and hotels would not be covered by the requirements, although the airport board would be free to provide rules of operation while at the airport.

Adams said hotels and motels, which do not charge for the service for guests, are exempt because, "It's pretty close to a private person picking someone up."

The ordinance, which will be considered at the Feb. 26 council meeting, would not address specific charges for transportation to and from the airport.

The board also approved a request by Jim Ridpath to reduce the amount of space his aviation school leases at the airport. Ridpath said a reduction in flight school training will allow the space reduction of 865 square feet, a portion of which may be used in the future by the Federal Aviation Administration.

The board action, which will require final approval of the city council, means a reduction of $297 a month in rental payment. His lease expires in 1982. Approval of the space reduction is pending an OK from airport director Marvin Coffee, who will look into its feasibility.

The board also gave its go-ahead to having the FAA take over operation of a visual approach slope indicator and related navigational aids. The FAA had requested authority to operate the devices.

Officials Investigate Plastics Firms Fire

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Fire officials were investigating a $2.5 million blaze that destroyed two plastics product companies and slightly injured two firefighters.

Toxic smoke from burning plastic hampered fire fighting efforts as flames raced through Gable Plastics Inc. and ABS Tanks Inc. this week in this Orange County city about 35 miles south of Los Angeles, said Battalion Cmdr. Richard Keller.

Senior Citizens

Bligh said the committee is the first bureau committee of its kind in the country, as far as he knows. Because of Bligh's experience in working with chambers of commerce, his bureau is more committee-oriented than most bureaus, he said.

He hopes to have representatives of Texas Tech, the City of Lubbock, local retirement homes, private senior citizens clubs and other areas of senior citizens interest on the committee, Bligh said. Among those who have agreed to serve on the committee are Dorothy Dailey, supervisor of the senior citizens program for the city, and Gail House of the consumer science department at Tech, he said.

ABC Leads In Ratings Competition

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' "Dallas" won the prime-time ratings race for the 12th time in 15 weeks, but ABC got a boost from a family drama of another sort — "East of Eden" — and won the networks' competition for the first time since December, according to A.C. Nielsen Co.

The concluding two installments of ABC's three-part "East of Eden," based on John Steinbeck's novel, finished among the four top-rated programs in the week ending Feb. 15, with Part II on Monday night runner-up to "Dallas."

ABC had five shows in the Top 10 to four for CBS and one for NBC, and the push from "East of Eden" contributed to an average rating for ABC of 20.8. CBS was second at 19.1 and NBC third with 16.9.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the period, 20.8 percent of the nation's homes with televisions were tuned to ABC.

ABC and CBS tied for the No. 1 position in the week ending Dec. 28, and ABC last won the three-way race unchallenged in the week ending Dec. 7.

CBS remains the dominant network for the season so far. The rating for "Dallas" was 30.6. Nielsen says that means of all the nation's TV-equipped homes with television, 30.6 percent saw at least part of program.

NBC, which had finished second to CBS four times in the previous six weeks, had three of the week's five lowest-rated shows.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated programs:

- 1: "Dallas," with a rating of 30.6 representing 23.8 million homes, CBS; "East of Eden," Part II, 28.1 or 21.9 million, ABC; "Dukes of Hazzard," 27.3 or 21.2 million, CBS; "East of Eden," Part III, 26.4 or 20.5 million, ABC; "Little House on the Prairie," 25.4 or 19.8 million, NBC; "M-A-S-H," 24.8 or 19.3 million, CBS; "60 Minutes," CBS, and "Three's Company," ABC, both 24.3 or 18.9 million; and "Too Close for Comfort," 23.5 or 18.3 million; and "Hart to Hart," 22.8 or 17.7 million.

6,470-Year-Old Mummy Unearthed By Chinese

PEKING (UPI) — Chinese archaeologists have unearthed what is probably the oldest mummy in the world — the 6,470-year-old body of a young blond-haired woman, official reports said.

The body was found last year at the site of the ancient city of Loulan in the remote and arid Xinjiang region of northwest China where caravans to Europe later passed, the official People's Daily said.

Reports said the woman's blond hair was intact, drooping to her shoulders.

Archaeologists described the face as coldly shimmering but beautiful, with large eyes and muscles that were still elastic.

"If the 5,000-year-old mummies of Egypt were acclaimed as the world's oldest, then the Loulan woman should count as even older," the People's Daily said.

The woman, who apparently died at a young age, was wearing clothes and a hat made of leather. She was on her back, lying on a platform fashioned of willow planks. The nose was large and the lips thin.

Researchers said the extremely dry weather of Xinjiang apparently was the reason the body was so well-preserved, since no special embalming techniques were used as was done with Egyptian mummies.

Reagan's House Still For Sale

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rough economic times predicted by President Reagan are also making it more difficult to sell Reagan's $1.9 million home in Pacific Palisades.

Vera-Nell Olney, vice president of Coldwell-Banker Co., said this week only about six "carefully screened" potential buyers have been shown the 11-room, ranch-style home since it went on the market 10 days ago.

Mrs. Olney blamed the slow response on a "wait-and-see mood" by potential buyers.

"The economic forecasts have affected the whole general market," Mrs. Olney said. "I think we would have had more showings of the Reagans' home, but people are waiting to see what will happen about the economy."

Mrs. Olney said those wishing to see the home are being carefully screened to ensure they can afford the steep price tag.

"People do like the property," she said. "But people have to fit into a home and we haven't quite gotten that combination. People like the home for the same reasons the Reagans built on that property almost 30 years ago — the privacy, the beautiful view of the ocean and cool breezes."

Peanut Oil Studied As Fuel For Buses

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — At $2 a gallon for fuel, the cost of running two full-size campus buses at the University of Georgia is not exactly peanuts.

But university researchers hope to show that using peanut oil as an alternative to gasoline will one day prove to be an idea whose time has come.

Dr. John Goodrum, associate professor of agriculture, said the oil is basically the same as the peanut oil sold in supermarkets.

It is mixed with diesel fuel because it tends to congeal if used by itself in cold weather, but can be used straight in warm weather, Goodrum said.

"It generates a lot of energy compared to alcohol," he said. "It can be poured directly into diesel engines and performs adequately in mild weather."

The peanut oil "smells good, it smells like cooking."

San Antonio To Commemorate Alamo Heroes Day

By TED J. SIMON
A-J Travel Editor

"I call on you in the name of Liberty, of patriotism and everything dear to the American character to come to our aid, with all dispatch." Thus wrote William B. Travis, lieutenant colonel and commander of a small band of men holding an insignificant building against an army of devastating strength. Travis and his men were defying the Mexican president's dictatorial rule in Texas.

The letter dispatched from San Antonio (Feb. 24, 1836) continued, "The enemy is receiving reinforcements daily and will no doubt increase to three or four thousand in four or five days."

Aid never came for Travis and his 182 companions that fought a delaying action from the Alamo, a former chapel of the San Antonio de Valero Mission.

Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, president of Mexico and general-in-chief of the Mexican Army, had personally taken command of his disciplined and experienced troops to crush the rebels and traitors at the mission.

On the morning of March 6, the defiant band in the Alamo died to the man. Santa Anna's loss was estimated by some observers at 1,600 men. There are varying figures on the size of the Mexican forces, the number of Santa Anna's casualties, and even the exact number of Alamo defenders that died. But, there is no doubt that the men who fought and died while defending the Alamo gained precious time in the battle for independence from Mexico.

The Alamo has been referred to as the shrine, altar and cradle of Texas liberty. However, many visitors to the site in downtown San Antonio are surprised by the small size of the structure and the interior's stark simplicity. The visitors soon learn that the building was not constructed to be a fortress or impressive house of worship — its purpose was to serve as a small chapel. The building was never completely finished and was in disrepair from time to time. The structure was selected for a place to make a stand because it had the thickest walls to withstand bombardment from cannon. There are several places where today's visitors can see the thickness of the walls.

Except for artifacts and memorabilia, the interior appears much as it did before the siege. When you walk into the chapel there is a small room to the right

Lee Templeton in "Cannon Boy of the Alamo."

Although the defenders died to the last man, some persons (mostly women and children) that witnessed the final moments inside the Alamo were spared by orders of Santa Anna. Most historians rely heavily on the personal recollections of Mrs. Susannah Dickinson, wife of Lt.

came from a nearby stand of cottonwood trees — the trees were called "alamos" in Spanish.

Most historians today attribute the name to a site in Mexico. It is recorded that after the mission era ended in Texas, a Spanish cavalry moved into the abandoned San Antonio de Valero mission for a time. The cavalry came from Alamo de Parras in Mexico; consequently the former mission became known as Pueblo del Alamo. The mission site eventually was referred to as "the Alamo." Travis' letter of Feb. 24 was headed: Commandancy of the Alamo.

Early on the morning of March 6, 1836, the Alamo fell, and Santa Anna said of the battle, "It was but a small affair." One of Santa Anna's officers remarked, noting the number of Mexican casualties, "Another such victory and we are ruined."

March 6, Alamo Heroes Day, will be commemorated in San Antonio with an afternoon ceremony in front of the Alamo. Students from a military school will carry flags representing each state or country from which an Alamo defender came and their names will be read aloud.

It is proper that all of the names of the defenders be known. They shared the final glory of their better known comrades — James Bonham, James Bowie, David Crockett, and William Travis.

The poignant letter from Travis during the siege noted: "If this call is neglected, I am determined to sustain myself as long as possible and die like a soldier who never forgets what is due to his own honor or that of his country." Travis would have appreciated these words by the English novelist George Eliot (1819-1880) — "Any coward can fight a battle when he's sure of winning; but give me the man who has pluck to fight when he's sure of losing. That's my way, sir; and there are many victories worse than a defeat."

of the front doors, and another room to the left. One room served as a confessional and the other was the baptismal room. James Bowie of Tennessee died inside the baptistry. He was bedridden with his famous knife and a brace of revolvers on his lap when the Mexican troops surged into the building. It is reported that Bowie killed five of the enemy before he was bayoneted.

Perhaps the area that impresses the most is an alcove-type room that contains a number of flags. The flags represent the states and foreign countries where the Alamo defenders originated. Included in the state flags are Tennessee, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts and Ohio. Foreign flags are from Denmark, England, Germany, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales. Fifteen of the Alamo defenders hailed from England, and 10 came from Ireland. Four of the heroes were from Scotland.

It should be noted that eight of the defenders were Mexican-Texans. Gregorio Esparaza had a brother fighting with Santa Anna's army. John, a Negro slave who's last name is unknown, also died in the Alamo. The youngest defender to die was Billy King, a 15-year-old farm boy manning a cannon. His story is told by Almaron Dickinson, an Alamo defender.

Several books give reliable accounts of the events leading up to the siege, plus a day by day account of the battle. Persons interested in the saga might read "A Time to Stand" by Walter Lord, "13 Days to Glory" by Lon Tinkle, and "The Alamo" by John Myers. Young readers may prefer "Remember the Alamo!" by Robert Penn Warren, "We Were There — At the Battle of the Alamo" by Margaret Cousins, and Templeton's "Cannon Boy of the Alamo." The books are available at the Mahon Public Library in Lubbock.

In addition to the historical items within the Alamo itself, the adjacent Long Barrack Museum has many interesting artifacts. Visual aid machines recreate the history of the Alamo. Youngsters usually show an interest in two dioramas depicting the final hours of the siege of the historic chapel. Originally the Long Barrack Museum was the living quarters, dining hall and kitchen for the priests.

Another nearby structure houses a souvenir shop with items pertaining to the Alamo, the struggle for independence, and Republic of Texas history.

How did the Alamo, a religious structure, get its name when missions, churches and chapels are named to honor saints? Originally the structure was known as Mission San Antonio de Valero. Some persons believe the Alamo name

City Celebrates Birthday

San Antonio — the Alamo City — is a special blend of beauty, history, and progress. The features will be emphasized when the city celebrates its 250th anniversary, March 5 through 9.

The five-day celebration will have a two-fold importance. It was on March 5, 1731, that three of the city's Spanish missions were transferred from East Texas and re-established at sites along the San Antonio River. Then on the morning of March 9, 1731, several families of Canary Islanders arrived at the site of the Presidio San Antonio de Bexar. By royal decree of the King of Spain, they founded the first civil municipal government in Texas.

Tennis, Everyone?

MONDAY'S "EVENING OF TENNIS" exhibition held at The Lubbock Racquet Club was a truly memorable event for both Lubbock tennis fanatics and its sponsor, Texas Tech Women's Athletics.

The mixed doubles match which featured Anne Smith and Warren Jacques against Beverly Bowes and Pancho Walthall was by far the best tennis this city has ever seen, or will have the opportunity to experience for a long time.

The mixed doubles exhibition sent everybody home spellbound. It showed those who have been trapped in West Texas all their lives that there really is a level of tennis they have been deprived of seeing until now.

The exhibition was very well run. The Tech sponsors printed programs while The Racquet Club furnished an umpire (who more than did her job), a complete crew of linesmen and two sets of ball girls.

It was a tight match throughout, but ended just as it began — with Anne Smith holding serve with ease. Everybody wanted to see just how good Anne Smith — the sister of Texas Tech's Sue Smith and the No. 1-ranked professional women's doubles player in the world — actually is. Now they know — she's the best.

They also wanted to see their favorite junior, Beverly Bowes, slug a few more winners past disbelieving opponents. They saw some of those, too.

One thing the fans didn't expect, but got anyway, was umpire Ginalu Hamilton getting into the act. The players were hamming it up early in the match, but only until Mrs. Hamilton let them know she was all business. She called several foot faults (the least noticed violation in tennis) to the players' disbelief. Though it was an exhibition, Mrs. Hamilton was not about to let it get out of her control.

ANNE SMITH'S COACH, JACQUES, was the typical old, but not over-the-hill coach, who lets his female partner carry him through the match (who could blame him?). Anne Smith and her coach won the match 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, but had a minor struggle in doing so. However, be it player, ball-girl, spectator or promoter, nobody went home a loser. Nobody left the edge of his or her seat all night long.

Anne Smith, a 5-4, 115-pound 21-year-old from Dallas, was her usual awesome self — blending an unreal power game, featuring booming serves, strong ground strokes from both sides and an overhead that made everyone stare in wonderment, with a dazzling display of sharp angles and touch from her volleys.

Miss Bowes also showed she could hit with power, but lacked Anne Smith's experience. Yet, after the match, Anne Smith said of her female counterpart, "Beverly is really a tough young player. I was really impressed with her." Quite a compliment coming from the top doubles player in the world.

Still, Miss Bowes' expressions following the match showed she was not satisfied. She, like all other champions, will settle for nothing less than victory.

"We just didn't want to get embarrassed," Walthall said after the match. "When you play against a Wimbledon champion, you just do your best to make a showing. We just did the best we could."

Walthall and Miss Bowes made an excellent showing, and with a few breaks, could have won.

"I would have liked to have gotten more balls in play," Walthall added. "I didn't have any trouble seeing (like many have in the dimly lit club), but I did have a little trouble adjusting to the speed the balls were traveling. I guess it's the fact we were playing indoors. We always play outdoors (at St. Mary's Hall in San Antonio where Walthall is the head tennis instructor) and use extra-duty balls. The combination of those two things made it seem like the ball was going through the air faster."

IT ALSO MAY HAVE BEEN THE power with which Anne Smith was hitting the ball. She hit several overheads that had the crowd of 200 oohing and ahing. One of those ferocious shots bounced into the crowd sitting some 50 feet above the playing surface.

Those who know of the pressures that face a professional tennis player appreciate Anne Smith's participation even more. She defaulted her first-round doubles match of the Avon Championships of Houston to fulfill her obligation to the exhibition.

"I had no choice but to default," Anne Smith said of her predicament. "I'm sitting right here and I'm supposed to be on the court in Houston."

"My sister goes to school at Tech. I've been planning this for about two months and when I was in Chicago, coach Bowes and Beverly kept us, so I was really happy to come and do it."

"... is really unbelievable that they cannot postpone that match; that they can't move it to another day. There are eight teams playing in the tournament. How many days is it going to take to play eight matches? No more than three, but we (Miss Smith and her partner Kathy Jordan, the No. 1 team in the world which won the Wimbledon and French Open doubles titles in 1980) have to play Monday night. I asked them when the first-round winners play again and they said, 'Friday or Saturday.' So they can just ... keep it. I'll get fined for it. I had a good time to-night, though."

When asked if she was psyched up for the match, she answered, "Hey, that's my office out there — the court. That's my job, my work. I have fun doing other things including tennis, but it's still my work. I thought I played pretty well, but Warren couldn't see the ball. I wanted to wring his neck."

IT WAS QUITE A HOMECOMING for the Smith sisters, who rarely see each other any more. That's not to say they don't have a good sister-to-sister relationship.

"We've always had a close family," Anne said. "I think my brother (Roy) and Sue were closer because I — from the age of 12 — was traveling a lot. I had to sacrifice a lot for my tennis career. I didn't go out to party when I was young and now it's worse. I'm only home three months out of the year, so it's tough."

Sue, a freshman who plays for Tech, says she's often introduced as "Anne Smith's sister," as a joke. "I just say she's my sister. I'm real happy for her, she's earned it."

The sisters say there was never any competition between them because they've always played on different levels. But that's not to say both are not fine players. Sue, with partner Joanne Walko, plays No. 3 doubles for the Raiders.

"Sue has other things to do with her life," Anne says. "I think she's set on physical therapy and I'm happy for her."

Both sisters agree they're pretty close considering how little they see of one other. "We can talk to each other about anything," Sue says.

So not only will the "Evening Of Tennis" keep Lubbock tennis enthusiasts on a high for quite a while, it also brought a pair of sisters heading in opposite directions together again.

Tech Rakes In Blue Chips

By NORVAL POLLARD
Executive Sports Editor
Jerry Moore made his first football recruiting campaign at Texas Tech a memorable one Wednesday by signing 21 high school prospects, including five of the state's most prized running backs, and one junior college transfer to national letters of intent.

National letter-signing day proved to be a fruitful one for the Red Raiders as they managed to keep every player who signed a Southwest Conference letter last week, outlasting Oklahoma for Greenville running back Robert Lewis and outdoing Nebraska for running back Jerry Zachery of Midland.

Those five running backs — Lewis, Zachery, Ansel Cole of San Antonio Jay, Gerald Bean of Houston Yates and Ronnie Thomas of Victoria Stroman — were Tech's biggest catch of the 1981 recruiting drive. They give Moore the fastest group of freshmen runners ever assembled at Tech.

The Raiders also recruited well in several other areas essential to Tech's success on the gridiron in the near future, namely linebacker, defensive line and tight end.

Tech landed two excellent linebacker prospects in Tony Pullins of Houston Alldine and William Harris of Stafford Dulles.

The Raiders' haul of defensive linemen included Sid Chambers of Burkburnett, Tim Crawford of Houston Kashmere and unheralded Willie Johnson of Shallowater.

Tight ends Mark Gold of Round Rock and Buzz Tatom of Richardson are both big, strong, fast and considered to be among the state's finest.

Tech's other 10 signees include quarterbacks Rusty Roark of Monahans and Keyvn Williams of Houston Lamar; running back-linebackers Wayne Dawson of Temple and Joe McMeans of Jayton; offensive linemen James Martin of Klondike and Scott Davis and Don Oberdieck, both of Plano; wide receiver Troy Smith of Amarillo Palo Duro; and defensive linemen Hasson Arbubakr, a transfer from Pasadena (Calif.) City College, and Joe Walter of North Garland.

Moore picked up the Red Raiders' recruiting effort Jan. 6, two days after he was hired to replace Rex Dockery as Tech's head coach. Dockery resigned Dec. 16 to take over as head coach at Memphis State. It was feared that Tech's recruiting effort would suffer irreparable damage during the three-week layoff between the coaching change, but Moore and his staff proved otherwise Wednesday.

"We missed out on three weeks, but we came back strong," said a relieved Moore Wednesday afternoon. "We missed out on a few players, but it could have been a heck of a lot worse. It certainly was no disaster. We really did well with running backs." Nine of Tech's 21 prep recruits — Lewis, Zachery, Bean, Cole, Williams, Gold, Smith, Chambers and Pullins — were named to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram's Top 100 list. Seven — Lewis, Zachery, Cole, Thomas, Tatom, Pullins and Chambers — were members of Texas Football's Top 90.

Red Raider athletic department officials announced Wednesday that former SMU quarterback Layne Walker of Clovis, N.M., and former New Mexico running back Mark Williams of El Paso, who both transferred to Tech at midterm, will be eligible to compete this fall.

National signing day went pretty much as expected in the Southwest Conference, but TCU made several big strides in its effort to escape the conference cellar by outwrestling two Big Eight schools for a pair of high school stars.

Texas signed all but one of its SWC signees, including the Port Arthur Jefferson foursome of quarterback Todd Dodge, wide receiver Brent Duhon, running back Don Holloway and defensive

Raider Women Face Tourney Struggle With WBC

DENTON (Special) — The Texas Tech women's basketball team will be battling more than just the odds when it faces the Wayland Baptist Flying Queens here today in the opening round of the TIAAW State Tournament at the North Texas State Coliseum.

The Raiders, seeded sixth in this eight team field by virtue of an 11-16 season mark, will go against WBC, seeded third with a 17-8 record, at 4 p.m.

The odds hardly favor the Tech crew in this afternoon's affair since the Queens have already defeated the Raiders three times this year, most recently on Feb. 10 by a whopping 98-69 margin. Coach Donna Wick is worried about Wayland's dominance over the Raiders and hopes the recent whipping won't have a negative effect on her club.

"This is a brand new game and we have nothing to lose," said Miss Wick.

"If we play like winners, we'll walk away on top."

The champion of the TIAAW tournament will automatically advance to the 12-team SALAW Regional Championships in Nacogdoches in March.

In the 1981 TIAAW State Tournament that will run through Saturday here, Stephen F. Austin is seeded first, the University of Texas is ranked second, Houston fourth and Baylor fifth, with SMU and Texas Women's University finishing out the bracket.

SFA plays TWU at 8 p.m. tonight, Houston and Baylor meet at 2 p.m., Texas and SMU tip off at 6 p.m., with WBC and Tech slated for a 4 p.m.

Tech will open with its regular starters. Freshman Carolyn Thompson, leading the team in scoring and rebounding, will be at the post with 6-0 junior Kathy Freberg and 5-11 Tammy Anderson at the forward spots with 5-8 sophomore Gwen McCray and 5-9 junior Reina Cherry at the guards.

Miss Thompson is scoring at a 20.9 per-game clip and Miss McCray is averaging another 12.1 a game.

The Tech team narrowly advanced this far in the tournament as the Lady Raiders escaped a strong second half rally by Texas A&M before pulling out a 71-70 win Saturday night.

Coach Wick will again concentrate on her team's defensive play against Wayland and expects to employ a man-to-man defense against the Queens.

"This will have to be an all out effort," said Miss Wick. "We have got to take chances, hope those chances pay off for us and execute to perfection."

Nebraska Denied As Big Eight Recruits

By The Associated Press
Nebraska coach Tom Osborne is pretty much used to getting what he wants, as evidenced by the Cornhuskers' stellar recruiting campaign of a year ago.

But not always, as illustrated by the scene that took place in Kansas City on Wednesday.

"To be truthful," he said, "I was getting so many phone calls and my mother was getting so much hassle, I just did it to get it over with."

The James defection, along with Osborne's cancellation of a formal announcement of Husker signees, hinted that Nebraska's 1981 recruiting efforts paled in comparison with last year.

fort, landing blue-chipper Lawrence Hardin of West Orange, Texas, who is expected to play safety for the Barry Switzer Sooners.

But the Sooners were also jolted by a couple who got away. One was guard Clay Miller whose father is a law professor at Oklahoma. Miller, one of the nation's top line prospects, signed with Michigan.

rell, who signed a Big Eight letter with the Cowboys last week, Wednesday decided to go to Tennessee. And quarterback Anthony Guiley of Dallas signed with Texas Christian after picking OSU last week.

Kansas' biggest catch was star fullback Harvey Fields of Arkansas City, Kan., who rushed for 4,311 yards in three seasons. Fields, also an outstanding line-backer, said he picked KU because of its architectural engineering program.

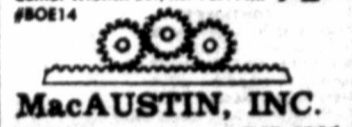

MU's big prize was Chris Erickson, a scrambling quarterback who rushed and passed for 2,700 yards as a senior at Park Hill in Kansas City. The Tigers also signed quarterback Warren Seitz of Topeka, Kan.

Kansas State landed Iosefatu Faraimo, a high school All-America running back from Vista, Calif., and Mike Wallace, a wide receiver and defensive back from Fort Worth.

Osborne journeyed from Lincoln to sign standout high school linebacker June James to a national letter-of-intent to play football for the Huskers.

Instead, he watched along with Texas coach Fred Akers in James' home as the blue-chipper from Southeast High School signed instead with the Longhorns.

"All along it was Texas," said the Missouri all-stater, who last week had signed a Big Eight letter-of-intent with Nebraska. "I liked both places a lot. I could have gotten a good education at both."

Wednesday was the first day recruits could sign the binding national letters. James was asked why he had signed the conference letter with Nebraska.

Another was Lakewood, Colo., product Mark Gann, who signed with Notre Dame. His brother, Mark Gann, played at SMU two years ago but transferred to Oklahoma and the Sooners had expected to make it a Gann twosome.

Oklahoma also got Illinois' player of the year, running back Alvin Ross of Aurora, Ill., and two other highly regarded ballcarriers, Freddie Sims of Tucson, Ariz., and Steve Sewell of San Francisco.

Oklahoma State signed Eddie Goodlow of Altus, Okla., the state's best running back prospect, but again the big story was those they didn't get.

teams were from the Mideast and we had to space them out."

Additionally, Duke said teams that were sent far away from home last year might again face the same problem this year.

"We aren't going to take into consideration what happened last year," Duke said.

A computer will be used by the committee to select the 22 at-large teams in the 48-team field (26 clubs have automatic bids as league representatives).

Duke indicated the committee would meet March 2-3 in Chicago to award the television rights for the tourney in future years. He said NBC, which currently has the rights, and CBS are the finalists in the bidding, which may reach upwards of $10 million.

Big Ten Bosses Crow; NCAA Sets Format

A-J News Services
Some Big Ten basketball coaches say they expect five conference teams will wind up in the NCAA tournament and would be surprised if there's a tie for the Jeaguet title.

"Since the NCAA has gone to a 48-team tournament format, they must take five teams from the Big Ten," Iowa coach Lute Olson said Tuesday. "Anybody who doesn't think five teams should go doesn't know what he's talking about. This is the best conference in America."

Olson, Bobby Knight of Indiana and Lou Henson of Illinois were interviewed by telephone by the Chicago Basketball Writers Association.

Knight, whose Hoosiers lost to Iowa at Indiana earlier in the season, doesn't see any team capable of pulling out at this stage of the season.

"It's too late for that," said Knight. "I don't see any team breaking away. The race will go right down to the end." Illinois plays Michigan tonight and a victory will put the Illini in a second-place tie, still one game off the pace set by Indiana and Iowa.

"If we win those two we'll be 10-4 with four to play and two at home," said Henson. "Yes, I think that would get us in the NCAA. But I think the Big Ten should send four teams to the NCAA and possibly five. And any Big Ten team in the tournament has a chance to go all the way."

Meanwhile, NCAA tournament committee chairman and Big Ten commissioner Wayne Duke said that the NCAA is determined to avoid overloading one region with highly ranked teams and again will send schools hundreds of miles away to avoid imbalance.

Duke said when the committee meets next month to organize the tourney, schools will be shipped out of their region in order to guarantee a balanced field.

Last year, the committee was criticized for sending teams such as DePaul, which normally would have played in the Mideast, to Tempe, Ariz., for the regionals. The top-ranked Blue Demons were eliminated by UCLA in the first game.

"We have three priorities. One is to get the best field possible; two is to make sure the brackets are evenly balanced; and three is to try to get geographic integrity," Duke told the Chicago Basketball Writers luncheon Tuesday. "I would have to say the second priority of balance takes precedence over the third."

Duke said the talent-rich Mideast region probably will again have the bulk of the top teams this season — and some of the better schools will be sent to the Far West, Midwest or East regionals.

"Traditionally, the Mideast has the strongest teams. Even with the UCLA years it was that way," Duke said. "Last year I think three of the four top-seeded

Narrow Escape Helps Uplift Stumbling Hawks

By The Associated Press
It has been a sour season for the Atlanta Hawks, defending champions of the National Basketball Association's Central Division, but it became just a mite sweeter Wednesday night.
With center Steve Hawes scoring eight of his game-high 24 points in the fourth quarter, the Hawks edged Indiana 99-96 after dropping their first four meetings with the Pacers.
"It's a good win for us because we've lost 14 games by three points or less and 22 by five or less," said Atlanta coach Hubie Brown. "It's really been frustrating, but we're still going to try and salvage something out of this season yet."
Atlanta had one final scare before its road victory over Indiana was secure. A three-point shot by Indiana's Johnny Davis at the buzzer spun in the basket... and then rolled out.

The game was tied three times in the final period before John Drew, who had 14 of his 20 points in the first period, made a layup with 5:39 remaining to put Atlanta ahead for good. Mike Bantom was high for Indiana with 17.
76ers 111, Pistons 97
Julius Erving scored 13 of his 24 points in the fourth quarter as high-flying Philadelphia came from behind to defeat lowly Detroit. Steve Mix's layup with 10:52 left put the 76ers ahead to stay, 81-79.
They held the Pistons to two points for the first 4:59 of the fourth quarter while scoring 17 and building a 93-81 lead. The Pistons twice led by 11 in the third period.

"It was a struggle, but we finally won the game going away, and we're happy to win it," said Erving. "I can't understand how Detroit has won only 15 games this season."
Kings 114, Celtics 113
Phil Ford sank a 20-foot jumper as time ran out to give Kansas City the victory. Two free throws by Robert Parish with one second left gave the Celtics a 113-112 lead, but the Kings, who trailed by as many as 17 in the first half, called time out to set up the final play. Sam Lacey tossed the ball from the midcourt line to Ford, and he gunned in the game-winner. Ford led all scorers with 28 points, 20 in the second half, and Parish paced the Celtics with 26.

"Sam did a good job of getting the ball to me from where he was at," Ford said. "We feel as long as we have time on the clock, we can do something."
Raved KC coach Cotton Fitzsimmons: "I don't want to put (Bob) Cousy down, I don't want to put (Tiny) Archibald down, I don't want to put any play-making guard down, but I think Phil is the most exciting player today and he may be the most exciting player ever."
Knicks 105, SuperSonics 103
Ray Williams' two free throws with 19 seconds left gave New York its ninth victory in its last 10 games. The Knicks trailed 94-84 with 7:30 to play before rallying behind Williams, Michael Ray Richardson and Bill Cartwright. Richardson, who scored 10 of his 19 points in the fourth quarter, tallied eight as the Knicks outscored Seattle 19-6. Cartwright led all scorers with 21 points and Fred Brown paced Seattle with 20.

Warriors 103, Bulls 100
Purvis Short scored 19 points in the third period to pace a Golden State comeback. Short finished with 29 points, all but four in the second half.
Nets 110, Cavaliers 108
Mike Newlin's jump shot with 1:17 left lifted New Jersey to its fourth consecutive triumph but only the 19th in 63 games overall. Geoff Huston scored seven points for Cleveland.

JOLTING GEOFF — Cleveland's Geoff Huston, former Texas Tech guard, has his shot blocked by high-jumping Edgar Jones (42) of New Jersey during NBA action Wednesday night in Piscataway, N.J. The Nets won 110-108. (AP Laserphoto)

Steinbrenner Warns Of Strike Overtones

By The Associated Press
New York Yankees' owner George Steinbrenner says he wouldn't blame the American public for being "turned off" by baseball if the players strike.
Steinbrenner, speaking Wednesday at a luncheon of the Wahoo Club, a Cleveland sports booster organization, said major league club owners are "more unified and more prepared" for a strike now than at any time since he's been affiliated with the sport.
"I don't think a strike is going to help anybody. I wouldn't blame the American public for getting turned off," he said to a crowd of about 700 people.
Talks between owners and the Major League Baseball Players Association have been hung up regarding the compensation a team should receive after losing a player through free agency.
If the issue is not settled by March 1, the owners can implement their own plan and players will have until the end of May to call a strike, according to an agreement signed with owners last year.
Steinbrenner took a shot at the director of the players' association, saying Marvin Miller's stance on the compensation issue "could be a Waterloo" for him.
Miller wants baseball fans to know that major league players aren't asking for anything more than what they already have under their basic agreement with the club owners.
"Usually, the fans get the impression that the players want something," Miller said Wednesday, discussing the possibility of a strike.
"The fans always want to know, 'What do the players want now?' The answer is that the players want nothing," Miller said.
The players want to keep the current free-agent rule allowing compensation limited to an amateur draft choice. Owners want compensation from a team signing a premium free agent in the form of a major league player not listed on a protected roster of 15 players. Premium is defined as a free agent chosen in the re-entry draft by at least eight clubs.

Negotiations on the question have stalled, and owners are expected to implement their proposal Friday.
That could lead to a player strike. Such a decision would be made when player representatives meet Wednesday in Tampa, Fla.
Ray Grebey, head of the clubowners' Player Relations Committee, said there has been "little or no progress" in attempts to settle the compensation issue, and he added, "Realistically, the probability of a negotiated settlement is unlikely."
He said his committee would meet the Friday deadline for announcing whether the owner's compensation plan would be implemented.
Grebey said he did not think the compensation issue is one that can justify a strike.
"The next move is up to the players. If the owners implement the compensation procedure... we won't have any more demands. We have what we want in the contract."
Players contend the owners' proposal, awaited since last May, would reduce the value of free agents.
"We found out — with a great deal of pleasure, I might add — we were more valuable than we thought we were," said Bob Boone, National League player representative. "Players are subject to the marketplace. When the market goes down, our salaries will go down."
While stopping short of promising a strike, Boone did say the players will not accept the owners' proposal as stated.
"We would never stand still for that," he said.
Miller refused to predict a players' strike, saying that the owners themselves will dictate the next move.
"I think they are well aware at the moment that there is no war," he said of the owners. "The players can't generate a war. The owners know that if they shoot first they are running the risk of starting a war."

Red Sox Lose Hope Of Retaining Fisk

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox were set to go back into the trade market today in search of an experienced catcher to replace Carlton Fisk, a nine-year veteran lost to free agency one week ago.
The Red Sox bid to re-sign Fisk reached an apparent impasse Wednesday with general manager Haywood Sullivan's announcement the club would open trade talks with other clubs to try to obtain "catchers and other players."
Sullivan waited hopefully, but finally in vain, throughout the day for a call from Fisk or his agent, Jerry Kapstein. The Red Sox' general manager and co-owner finally gave up, saying the club would try to trade for another catcher.
Sullivan said that Fisk and Kapstein had rejected the club's latest offer Tuesday night in a telephone call. However, Sullivan had held out hope that Fisk and Kapstein were looking for more time before making a decision.

Sullivan said the latest proposal was a four-year guaranteed contract with performance bonus clauses under which Fisk could "earn as much as any other catcher in major league baseball" during the four-year period.
Darrell Porter, who went the free-agency route after playing out his contract with Kansas City last season, became baseball's highest-paid catcher Dec. 12 when he signed a five-year contract for $3.5 million with the St. Louis Cardinals.
Fisk, 33, rejected an offer of a three-year guaranteed contract, with a fourth year optional, and incentive clauses which would have been worth a total of $2.47 million earlier this month.
Then he won free agency when he went to arbitration, contending successfully that the Red Sox canceled out an option year of a contract signed in 1976 by failing to mail him a new agreement before the Dec. 20 deadline.

UCLA's Brown Denies Talks With Nets

NEW YORK (AP) — Saying he fits in best in the collegiate coaching ranks, Larry Brown, head coach at UCLA, has denied night that he has been offered a job with the New Jersey Nets.
"I feel my style is best suited to the college game," said Brown, former coach of the Denver Nuggets of the National Basketball Association, adding that he hoped to stay in college basketball at least for a couple of more years because he is not "mentally ready" to return to the pros.
The report that Brown, who is in the second year of a two-year contract at UCLA, had been offered the job with the Nets appeared in the New York Post Wednesday. Reporting from Los Angeles, Post writer Peter Vecsey attributed the report to a source close to Brown.

However, Brown told ABC Radio by telephone from Berkeley, Calif., where INDIANS WAIVE SANGUILLEN
CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians have placed catcher Manny Sanguillen on waivers, for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release, the American League club said Wednesday. The Indians obtained Sanguillen, 36, from the Pittsburgh Pirates last fall. Sanguillen started his big league career with the Pirates in 1967 and spent all but one of his major league seasons in Pittsburgh, hitting .299 there.

the Bruins play California Thursday night, that the story was not true.
The Post had reported that Brown had met with Nets' president Joe Taub and Alan Cohen, Nets' board chairman, after the UCLA-Notre Dame game Feb. 8 in South Bend, Ind.
Brown, who led UCLA to the NCAA final last season, reportedly was offered the job on his terms — he would have full power and would be able to name his own general manager.
The Nets have been interviewing prospective coaching candidates and will continue to do so through the season, but have said they would make no decision until the season ended.

Murder Charge Hits Ex-UCLA Gridder

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A former UCLA football player, selected by his team as the most inspirational player, has been arrested for investigation in the stabbing death last October of a Los Angeles man, police report.
Billy Don Jackson, 22, surrendered Wednesday to detectives in West Los Angeles and was booked in connection with the murder of Mark Bernolak, 28, of the Brentwood area.

Blooming Rose Establishes Readiness For 1981

By The Associated Press
When Pete Rose blows into town, it's like a fresh breeze off the ocean.
The little guy with the Prince Valiant hairstyle and unquenchable enthusiasm is so natural, so basic, so uninhibited that it's hard to believe he's for real in a game being inundated with pompous millionaires.
Pete got up before daylight Wednesday, caught a plane from Philadelphia to New York and arrived a half-hour late for a breakfast news conference at which the Mizuno Corp., of Osaka, Japan, unveiled some of its bizarre ideas for moving baseball into the space age.
"It's a long way to come for breakfast," he grumbled good-naturedly, then added: "I've been roasted so much this winter I feel like a chicken."
Rose got hooked on Japanese equipment on his visits to the Orient with the Cincinnati Reds. Before long, he was using their bats, shoes and gloves — for a princely sum, of course.

"They're really smart guys, dedicated, got brains that are hard to believe," he said. "I don't see how they lost the war."
The 39-year-old first baseman of the world champion Phillies said he expected to play out the final two years of his four-year, $3.2 million dollar contract and perhaps go a couple or three more.
If not, he hinted that he might wind up his career in Japan.
"They offered me $1 million, taxes paid," he said. "Ordinarily, I'd go through hell in a gasoline suit for that kind of money, but I got other plans."
One of those plans is to overtake Stan Musial as the National League record holder in number of hits. He needs only 74, which would give him 3,631. Then only those two other iron men — Ty Cobb (4,191 in the American League) and Hank Aaron (3,771 overall, including 3,600 in the NL) would be ahead of him.

Mizuno presented Rose with a rose-colored bat with which to pursue his goal. He will be swinging it on opening day.
"I can't hit home runs, I'm not going to beat out anybody in runs-batted-in," the peppery old warhorse said. "I don't have much speed and I don't throw all that well, but I don't need to, playing first base. I have to try to excel in areas that fit my talents — most games, singles, doubles, runs scored."
No one realizes more than Rose his physical drawbacks. He is a stocky 203 pounds. He will turn 40 April 14. As he says, he is not fast or possessed of a lot of natural skills.

His forte is durability, a wealth of dedication and determination, a faculty to get along with teammates, his bosses, public and press. On the field, he is able to isolate himself in an invisible booth and to squeeze every ounce out of the rugged tools God has given him.
"People ask me if I'm going to catch Ty Cobb in hits (4,191)," Rose said. "I don't look ahead that far. Who knows how long I will be playing?"
"I remember Sparky (Sparky Anderson, former manager of the Reds) once told me that it didn't make any difference how much money a man had, how many records or how much fame, when those reflexes go you might as well cash it in.

"So I take care of my body. Baseball — it's men playing a kid's game. You have to play it like a kid, you have to love it if you don't want to grow old."
Pete said he never tried to be a hero in spring training. Instead, he prefers to work himself into shape slowly to be at his peak when the season opens.
"A year ago, Dallas (Green, Philly manager) left me, Bob Boone, Mike Schmidt, the whole starting infield back in camp while the team went to play an exhibition game. Dallas got chewed out by the commissioner (Bowie Kuhn), who told him he must always use his best players. How are you going to develop young players like that?"

Once so naive he said he would play baseball for nothing and would like to be buried under third base at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium, Pete has experienced a rude reawakening.
Asked if he thought the owners deserved more consideration in their face-off with players on the compensation issue (more equitable return for players lost in the free-agent draft), Rose said:
"I can only talk from my experience. The Reds decided they didn't want me any more. They told me to get lost. If they didn't want me, why should they get compensation?"

Dooley Accepts Georgia's Post

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Georgia football coach Vince Dooley, who directed his football team to the national championship last season, now is in charge of the university's entire athletic program.
Dooley had shared the position of athletic director with Reid Parker since July 1979, when Joel Eaves retired. Dooley said he has asked Parker to remain at Georgia for another year as a consultant.
In announcing the changes Wednesday, Dooley also named his former Auburn teammate, Lee Hayley, as an associate athletic director at Georgia. Hayley resigned earlier Wednesday as athletic director at Auburn.
Hayley's availability was the main reason the change was made now, Dooley said, because the complex world of college athletics today makes it impossible for one person to handle both the athletic director and head football coach jobs.
"As long as I'm totally involved in coaching, there is no way I can give all my attention to the position of athletic director," Dooley said.
Hayley will assume his new duties July 1, but will begin working on a limited basis here within the next few weeks. He will take over many of the responsibilities currently being handled by Dooley and Parker.

Terry Metcalf May Return

TORONTO (AP) — Terry Metcalf says he would rather stay with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League than return to the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League.
"I don't know if I'm leaving the Argos for sure," Metcalf said in an interview Tuesday following newspaper reports he had been given permission by head coach Willie Wood to look for work in the NFL.
"I'm just looking around the NFL."
"But I doubt very much that I'd want to go to St. Louis. I think I'd rather try Toronto again before going to St. Louis."
Metcalf played out his option with the Cardinals in 1978 and signed a multi-year contract with the Argos. St. Louis has first refusal rights on the running back if he returns to the NFL. If any other team offers Metcalf a contract, the Cardinals could obtain his services by matching the value of the contract.
Joe Sullivan, the Cardinals' general manager, said Tuesday the club would consider matching any offer Metcalf receives from another NFL club.
Metcalf, 29, starred with the Cardinals from 1973 to 1978 but has not fulfilled the Argos' expectations. Toronto missed the CFL playoffs last season, during which Metcalf gained 554 yards on 140 rushes. He was also used as a pass receiver and as a punt and kickoff returner.

Staubach Recalls Henderson's Ways

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Roger Staubach says that former Dallas Cowboy teammate Thomas Henderson often acted strangely, but the former quarterback said he never realized drugs were behind the character changes he witnessed.
"I saw the change I wasn't aware of it (Henderson's drug use) specifically," Staubach said Tuesday.
Henderson, who joined Dallas in 1975 as a rookie, recently admitted that he had developed an expensive cocaine habit while a linebacker in the National Football League. He was fired during the 1980 season for hammering it up in front of television cameras and is currently undergoing treatment for the cocaine habit.
"The symptoms were there," Staubach said, explaining that Henderson's emotions "changed from day to day."
Staubach said he ignored the linebacker's emotional ups and downs, because "He was really flamboyant anyway."
"We were friends in the locker room, but I did not see him socially," Staubach said.
Staubach said he became aware of Henderson's "change of character" after Dallas won the Super Bowl in 1978. He said most people had attributed the change to the new-found success Henderson had after that game.
"It's a great shame, because he's a tremendous athlete," Staubach said. "It cost him a year and possibly his career."
Henderson ended up playing on specialty teams with the Houston Oilers this year, but was waived at the end of the season.
Staubach, who retired following the 1979-80 season, was in town to address a local businessmen's club.

ZBA Tells Motel To Change Sign

By DEBBI STALTER

Avallanche-Journal Staff
A sign erected at Grand Motel at 21st Street and Avenue Q will have to be changed to conform to city standards...

The sign in question projects nine feet above the canopy.
Motel owner J.C. Thakker told board members the location of the sign was vital to attracting business to the recently opened motel...

Thakker said he had gone to great expense to renovate the building and if board members did not allow him to obtain more business by leaving the sign perpendicular to the building as it now is, he would go bankrupt.

Board members, however, informed the motel owner he had not used all the possible sign locations that would comply with city codes.

The board unanimously denied the request to leave the sign in its current location, but instructed the zoning administrator to give the motel four months in which to comply with the code.

Administrator Jerrel Northcutt informed the board before the final vote that a number of businesses along Avenue Q which do not comply with the sign ordinance will be notified to do so within the next 10 months.

Another denial of a request came out of today's meeting when Leland Fellows Jr. of 2518 30th St. was refused approval to erect a ham radio tower and antenna at his home.

Neighbors concerned about television and radio reception interference previously wrote the city zoning office in opposition to Fellows' request, and two spoke out at the meeting against the proposal.

Dick Bruns of 2515 30th St. said that although he realized the service ham radio operators can provide in emergency situations, he feels the erection of the tower would decrease property values in that area.

He also said the tower would be a detriment to the landscape.
And, even though Fellows told the board he had done everything possible to filter out television interference, Bruns disagreed, saying CB towers have a reputation for causing transmissions to be picked up by radios and televisions.

Another neighbor said evidence working in her yard and told the board, "I don't want that thing hanging over my head every time I look up at the sky."

Fellows, a licensed journeyman electrician, planned to erect a 54-foot tower with an additional 7-foot antenna, which would violate city height requirements.

The board also turned down a request to allow Der Flughafen bar at 4706 Fourth St. to expand into an adjacent building which would double the club's size.

Although board members did not discuss reasons for denying the request, the zoning staff had recommended that the board vote against the plan.

The staff noted that the bar is located in a C-2, or local retail district, under a legal non-conforming status. Bars opened after the zoning rule came into effect must be built in C-4, or commercial, districts.

The board approved locations of Fox Photo drive-up stations at 2720 Quaker Ave. and 4931 Brownfield Highway, on parking lots of Furr's and a United supermarkets, respectively.

However after the vote was taken, board members Jim Mertes and Bill Maloy noted that they were concerned about Fox Station Photo Products' methods of locating its drive-ups.

Maloy said that Fox has always operated its facilities well, but said he would dimly view Fox's practice of waiting for a shopping center to be built and then asking for a variance to locate a station on the parking lot.

He questioned whether Fox would attempt to locate its stations adjacent to other buildings in a future shopping center.

Fox representatives at the meeting said such a location would not be advantageous to their operations as a drive-up facility.

Brothel Suit Moved To Federal Court

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Attorneys for the newspaper El Pueblo to publish succeeded in moving from state to federal court their battle to publish names of influential men who allegedly patronized a local brothel.

A hearing had been scheduled this morning in state court on whether a temporary restraining order preventing El Pueblo from printing a "trick list" should be made permanent.

But attorney Jesse Botello announced the non-profit monthly newspaper had filed a petition to remove the case to federal district court because the newspaper's First Amendment rights—freedom of the press—were at issue.

Botello said the petition automatically transferred the case from state to federal jurisdiction.

State District Judge James Onion, who issued the temporary restraining order forbidding columnist Armandina Saldiva and the newspaper from publishing the names, had scheduled the hearing today to determine if his order should be made permanent.

Stock Prices Drop After Rally Fails

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock prices headed lower today after an early rally fizzled, an indication that Wall Street was not overjoyed with President Reagan's economic program. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which has gained 15.53 points the past two sessions, including 7.42 Wednesday, was off 4.86 points to 942.23 around noon EST. It had been ahead a point at the outset.

Declines led advances, 715-497, among the 1,679 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Big bond volume amounted to about 18,700,000 compared with 18,150,000 traded during the same period Wednesday.

Brokers said investors were trying to gauge how much success Reagan would have in guiding his program of tax cuts and spending reductions through Congress. Legislative leaders say the measure faces a long debate.

On the trading floor, Eastman Kodak, a 45/8-floor winner the previous two sessions, was the most active NYSE-listed issue, off 1/4 to 73 1/2.

The company earlier this week reported sharply higher earnings.

El Paso Co. was the second most active issue, off 1 1/2 to 20 1/4. Talks to negotiate a natural gas contract between El Paso and Algeria broke down despite government assistance.

U.S. Steel was the third most active issue, up 1/8 to 28.

Prices were higher in moderate trading of American Stock Exchange issues.

Gulf Oil of Canada was the most active Amex issue, off 1/4 to 21 1/4 in trading that included a block of 1,920,000 shares at 21. Energy Minerals followed, unchanged at 10 1/2. United Realty Trust was third, up 1/4 to 15 1/4.

DR. LAMB

Bad Breath Can Come From Bloodstream, Lungs

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — When I eat something that has been spiced with garlic I tend to have garlic breath for two to four days afterward. I can't taste it or smell it, but my husband has me convinced that it's very much there. I am very conscientious about brushing my teeth and tongue so I don't think that's the problem. I do avoid garlic when I can now, but sometime I don't know it has been used in a food. Is it possible that the garlic remains in my stomach for that long? Is there anything I can do?

I know this happened frequently until we figured out what was going on. I'm generally quite healthy. Having never heard of a problem similar to this I would appreciate any information you could send me.

DEAR READER — It is a far more common problem than you think. Most people think bad breath means there is some problem in their mouth — and that certainly can be one cause. That is why a person with a bad breath problem should have a dental examination.

But a surprisingly large number of people don't realize that a lot of bad breath comes from the bloodstream and the lungs. Breath mints and mouthwash will not reach those odors.

Garlic is a good example and it is similar to alcohol in this regard. The chemical that causes the scent is in your bloodstream, not in your stomach. As the blood flows to the lungs, the chemical vapor passes out with the air you exhale. That is the basis of the alcohol breath test.

You can brush your teeth all day and it will still be there from your bloodstream until the chemical causing the odor is eliminated from your body. Some chemicals that cause bad breath can be manufactured by your own body.

I have discussed the main causes of bad breath in The Health Letter number 9-4, Halitosis: The Breath Problem and What To Do About It, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read in the paper about a man living to age 112. The man had said the secret to his longevity was that he ate raw eggs and poured a cup of salt in his bath each day. I was interested in the statement about salt. Is soaking in salt water considered healthy?

DEAR READER — It is not likely to do you any good and not likely to do you any harm. The effects of soaking in salt water are strictly local on the surface of the skin. It will not help what is inside the skin, and that is where the action is which determines one's longevity.

You read strange statements about one individual and why that one person lived a long time. It usually does not mean anything. The good studies of groups of people show that longevity is based on heredity, a good diet that keeps them lean and other good habits. However, some people live a long time in spite of their bad habits — which does not prove a thing.

New Drug Found To Be Effective Pain Killer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Research to control pain has gained momentum in recent years and much of it is based on new medications aimed at interrupting the sequence of events in the body that produces pain.

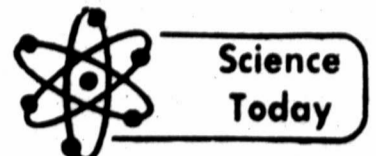

The federal Food and Drug Administration last fall approved for general use a new, non-narcotic oral pain killer that appears to make nerve endings less receptive to a painful stimulus.

This apparently is done by lowering the levels of hormone-like substances called prostaglandins, which are formed when tissue or cells are injured. Prostaglandins, scientists believe, sensitize nerve endings to pain-producing substances and thus help send a message of pain to the brain.

Aspirin and acetaminophen, two widely used non-prescription pain killers, also work by inhibiting the body's production of prostaglandins.

The Medical Letter, an independent non-profit newsletter for doctors, reviewed a variety of studies and concluded that the new drug is more effective than aspirin.

The drug is known as zomepirac sodium and is called Zomax by its maker, McNeil Pharmaceutical, Spring House, Pa. It is available only by prescription.

Science Today

The Medical Letter said zomepirac sodium, approved by the FDA for relief of mild to moderately severe pain, has no apparent potential for addiction but does cause stomach bleeding similar to that caused by large doses of aspirin.

The newsletter said zomepirac may prove to be preferable to oral narcotics for occasional moderate pain not responsive to aspirin. But the Medical Letter said zomepirac's safety and continued effectiveness for long-lasting chronic pain remain to be determined.

It said the drug is no substitute for morphine in cases of severe pain.

Zomepirac is not recommended for children, pregnant women or nursing mothers.

The Medical Letter said a 16-state survey of 730 retail pharmacies found that the average cost of Zomax, available in 100-milligram tablets that can be halved, is about 30 cents each.

The drug begins to take effect about 30 minutes after it is taken and reaches its peak pain-killing activity at about two hours.

For mild pain, the newsletter said, the drug can be taken in 50-mg doses every four to six hours.

The Medical Letter said two dental studies compared zomepirac with other pain killers for relieving pain caused by the surgical removal of impacted molars. One study found 50 and 100-mg doses were more effective than 650 mg of aspirin. Another study found zomepirac in 50 and 100 mg doses was at least as effective as 60 mg of codeine plus APC (aspirin, phenacetin and caffeine) tablets.

A third study found zomepirac in 100-mg doses more effective than codeine and codeine with APC in relieving pain following several kinds of operations including hysterectomies and hernia repair.

Another study of post-operative patients found that 100-mg of zomepirac was more effective than 8 mg of morphine. Still another study found 100 mg of zomepirac as effective as 16 mg of morphine injections following a variety of operations.

Officials Cite Arson In Condominium Fire

WEST HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Authorities say an arsonist was responsible for a $2 million fire that started at an unfinished condominium complex and spread to two neighboring apartment buildings, forcing 22 people to flee.

One woman suffered minor burns in the pre-dawn fire this week.

"It's definitely arson," said Los Angeles County sheriff's Sgt. George Galeener, adding that a sheriff's arson-explosive detail was investigating. The American Red Cross was assisting evacuees.

Roll Call Votes Of Lawmakers Reported

Roll Call Report Service
WASHINGTON — Here's how area senators were recorded on major roll call votes immediately before the current presidential birthdays recess. There were no House votes.

DEBT CEILING — The Senate passed, 73 for and 18 against, and sent to the President a bill (HR 1553) to raise the temporary national debt ceiling $49.9 billion, from $95.1 billion to $95 billion. This should enable the government to pay its bills through Sept. 30, at which time the debt is expected to crash $1 trillion.

Supporter Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, said, "I am going to hold my nose as hard I can and vote for it so that I can support President Reagan's long-term economic recovery plan."

Opponent William Armstrong, R-Colo., noted the 180 degree turnaround from previous years when most Democrats supported the debt hike and most Republicans opposed it. He said that explains why "the American people think that the inmates have taken over the asylum around here."

Senators voting "yea" favored raising the debt ceiling to $95 billion.

Sens. Pete Domenici, R, and Harrison Schmitt, R, Lloyd Bentsen, D, and John

'DES DAUGHTERS'
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Daughters of the estimated 2 million women who took the estrogen diethylstilbestrol (DES) while pregnant may have smaller wombs than is normal, according to research by Yale radiologists. Ultrasound examination showed 18 DES daughters to have smaller uteri than those of a control group. Three of the women had abnormally-shaped uteri with a T structure.

Tower, R, voted "yea."
LOWER CEILING — By a vote of 52 for and 41 against, the Senate tabled and thus killed a Democratic amendment to increase the debt ceiling by $27.9 billion rather than $49.9 billion. This occurred during debate on HR 1553 (see preceding vote).

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kansas, a supporter of killing the lesser hike, said he had never seen Democrats so concerned about holding down deficit spending. He said, "We understand the game that is before us."

Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., an opponent of tabling, said the $27.9 billion hike would enable the government to pay its bills until April. At that time, he said, President Reagan's economic program would be more in focus and Congress could more accurately decide how high the ceiling should be raised.

Senators voting "yea" favored a $49.9

billion, rather than $27.9 billion, hike in the debt limit.
