Generals Arrested In Spain

als were under arrest today and other military commands were being investigated as Spain's new premier began purging the armed forces of men implicated in the attempted coup four nights

Gens. Alfonso Armada Comin, the army's deputy chief of staff, and Luis Torres Rojas, military governor of La Coruna Province, were arrested Thursday. The Defense Ministry said Armada Comin was to become head of the military junta if the plot succeeded.

Gen. Jaime Milans del Bosch, commander of the Valencia military region who openly supported the rebellion, was arrested when the attempt collapsed

Military sources said Gen. Jose Leon Pizarro, head of the armored division in Valencia, was under arrest. A Defense Ministry statement on Thursday said only that he had been fired.

The ministry communique also said "other commands" were being investigated, that two more colonels were arrested, bringing to 33 the number of officers detained, along with 240 members of the Guardia Civil, Spain's paramilitary national police, and two civilians.

Another casualty was Defense Minister Agustin Rodriguez Sahagun, although there was no suggestion that he was involved in the coup plot. He was the first civilian defense minister since Generalissimo Francisco Franco overthrew the Spanish Republic in 1939, and he was the only member of Premier Adolfo Suarez's cabinet who was not retained by Premier Leopoldo Calvo Sotelo in the new Cabi net he named Thursday.

Another civilian, Alberto Oliart, was named defense minister.

Calvo Sotelo, who was confirmed as premier Wednesday and sworn in Thursday, promised a full and open investigation of the attempt to overthrow the four-year-old Spanish democracy. He named a special prosecutor to direct an investigation parallel to one already started by the military.

Led by Lt. Col. Antonio Tejero Molina, some 200 Civil Guard members invaded the Cortes, or Parliament, Monday night and took some 350 members of the lower house hostage as they were preparing to vote on the nomination of Calvo Sotelo to succeed Premier Adolfo Suarez, who resigned a month ago.

Armada Comin, who supervised King Juan Carlos' military training as a youth and was his chief military aide for a time, headed a delegation of generals that went to the king and tried to get him to support the rebellion

In a separate incident, an Iraqi Embassy car carrying the diplomatic pouch from Beirut's International Airport to the ambassador's office was hijacked on the airport highway by gunmen who walked away with the pouch, covering their escape with machine-gun volleys in the air. They shot no one.

The car chase and shooting took place a few blocks from the neighborhood where Jordan's charge d'affaires to Lebanon, Hisham Muhaissen, and his maid were kidnapped at gunpoint from his apartment Feb. 6. Neither has been

The Iraqi Embassy has been the target of frequent attacks, including rockets, since the Iran-Iraq war broke out more than five months ago. Iran's Islamic revolutionary regime commands a large following among Lebanon's 950,000 Moslem Shiites who make up the largest single sect in this half-Moslem, half-Christian Arab Mediterranean nation of 3 million people. Iran is Persian, not Arab.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, too, has a strong following among Lebanon's Moslem leftist groupings and the Iraqibacked Arab Liberation Front, one of the eight major guerrilla groups that make up Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization.

Lebanese police spokesmen were unable to determine whether today's car assassination was part of the ongoing war

ed States of using trade for "unseemly political ends," Premier Nikolai A. Tikhonov said today that the Soviet Union stands ready to improve economic relations with the United States. Another Soviet official said President Reagan would 'look stupid" if he let the El Salvador issue block a superpower summit.

Tikhonov also admitted "difficulties and shortcomings" in the Soviet economy, but lashed out at foreign attacks on the communist system.

Tikhonov, in a major economic policy address to the 26th Communist Party Congress, said Moscow wants to develop its trade first with those capitalist countries with a "constructive approach" to economic cooperation. This appeared to be a criticism of the United States, which has linked its trade policy to Soviet politi-which injured two persons at an Avalanche-Journal dinner party may signal the emergence "of another nut," Lubbock police said today.

Detectives, who believed the arrest of 36-year-old suspect Wednesday had wrapped up a series of sniping incidents that had terrorized the city, today said they had found no reason for the single gunshot which tore into A-J advertising director Carl Cannon's westside home and injured two A-J employees.

Felled by fragments of a large-caliber bullet were Cannon's 19-year-old secretary, Shannon Kennedy, and advertising salesman Bryce Cockerham 23 Both were hit when the bullet shattered upon hitting a window at the 2901 Bangor Ave. residence about 10 p.m.

Miss Kennedy, who was wounded in the neck, and Cockerham, who was struck twice in the back, were both in satisfactory condition today at Methodist Hospital

Authorities say they do not feel the perpetrator of the Thursday night shooting is responsible for the multiple snipings over the past two weeks. Lawmen say they feel sure the 36-year-old man arrested Wednesday is responsible for the past shootings, most of which occurred on or near the Clovis Highway

State Board Ends Abuse Of Medicaid Program

AUSTIN (AP) - The game ends Sunday for Texans who planned to join thousands of other elderly people who sold or gave away their property in order to become paupers and qualify for Medicaid-covered nursing home

The Board of Human Resources closed the loophole Thursday, complying with a federal law aimed at saving tax dollars. The nursing home benefits game was played this way: When mama headed to a nursing home, she sold her house or other property to her children at a greatly reduced price. In some cases she gave it away. The object was to eliminate assets and become "poor" enough to qualify for Medicaid, which pays medical and nursing home bills for the needy

"Numerous instances have been documented of individuals divesting themselves of substantial assets for little or no consideration one day in order to qualify for public assistance the next," said a board report.

A board survey showed elderly Texans sold at a loss or gave away $79 million worth of property in 1980 in order to "pauperize" themse

The loophole was plugged with a board policy that works this way: If mame sold her house for less than its fair market value, the difference would be "considered available (to mama) for 24 months after the sale or transfer took

The Commerce Department said the Index of Leading Indicators dropped by 0.4 percent in January, but the decline was less than half the revised 0.9 falloff recorded in December. The two-month dip followed six straight months of improvement in the index.

The closely watched composite of leading indicators had turned upward in June, accurately forecasting the recovery from last year's recession. The indicators had been negative from January to May last year, with the sharpest drop in April.

Federal Budget Deficit Climbs

WASHINGTON (AP) - The federal deficit increased $6.9 billion last month, bringing the total deficit for the first four fiscal months of 1981 to $40.4 billion, the Treasury Department says.

The Reagan administration is projecting a $54.5 billion deficit for the entire year, compared to the $55.2 billion deficit predicted by the outgoing Carter administration. The deficit for fiscal 1980, which ended last Sept. 30, was $58.9 bil-

Because tax revenue and government spending are not spread evenly over the year, the high total early in the fiscal year does not necessarily mean the yearly deficit predictions will be surpassed.

the next few years. In 1981 far-reaching cruises will check on the effects of man-made pollutant in the mid-Atlantic, examine tides and currents in the Bering Sea, and try to find out how the Pacific's restless thermal energy affects the world's weather.

Closer to home, vessels will take a detailed look at the ecology of Chesapeake Bay, test gear that might snare shrimp more efficiently in the Gulf of Mexico, and examine a sizable ocean ridge system off the California-Oregon coast.

The underwater ridge will be mapped by a new sonar system called "Sea Beam." Previously used only by the military, the system can map wide swaths of the ocean floor, reproducing the details in almost photographic clarity.

Still to come are voyages that may shed new light on the influence of the oceans on climate, the mining of deep sea imnerals, and the effects of worldwide pollution on the creatures in the

The ships that carry out this wide variety of chores are operated by the U.S. National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), which has 24 vessels, and the National Science Foundation (NSF), which has 25.

NOAA ships are used mainly for government-sponsored projects, while most NSF ships are used by academic and research institutions. NSF and other government branches such as the Navy, Geological Survey, and Department of Energy pay for operation and maintenance.

Among the NSF fleet is a tug that at one time ferried people to Alcatraz; an iron hull schooner, vintage 1923, with marble fireplaces; and a converted sports fishing vessel that once had an elevator and stairwells large enough to accommodate the cello played by the ship's original owner

Soaring fuel and labor costs and aging vessels needing major overhauls promise rough sailing ahead for both the NOAA and NSF fleets.

At leat one of NOAA's biggest oceangoing vessels may soon return to home port indefinitely, reinforcing the prevalent fear that oceanographers may increasingly have to turn to coastal projects instead of far-reaching deep-sea

The specter of a big ship layup haunts NSF, too.

"The academic fleet will be leaving scientists and projects at the pier this year," predicted Capt. Robertson P. Dinsmore, chief of operations at Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, which uses NSF vessels. His hope is that the big ships can continue sailing if schedules are cut back and periodic maintenance work is stepped up.

These forebodings were reinforced by

sional Office of Technology Assessment.

It seems inevitable that extended deep-ocean cruises requiring large crews will have to be curtailed," said project director Peter A. Johnson. "What worries us even more is the aging equipment and electronic gear on research ships that needs upgrading.'

Despite the stormy fiscal seas ranging around them, the people who serve the research fleet remain dedicated. Ronald Newsom, who commands one of NOAA's big ships, the Researcher, started his career with the old Coast and Geodetic Survey.

"At one time or another in the last 22 years, I've acted as a hydrographer, an oceanographer, a marine engineer, and an administrator," he said.

Back in the good old days, we did a lot of macho stuff. One stunt I won't repeat was swimming through the surf and breakers to place survey markers at the base of a 3,000-foot-high bluff off the coast of Molokai.'

Although desk-bound now, the commander of the NOAA fleet, Adm. Robert C. Munson, has had his own unnerving moments at sea. He has faced raging hurricanes — "everyone gets seasick" — malfunctioning equipment that wipes out experiments, and frustrating delays in

But nothing matches the time in the mysterious seaweed-laden Sargasso Sea when two port engines suddenly gave a violent shudder that threatened to tear them from their mountings.

"It felt like we had gone aground," he said. "I sent two divers overboard to investigate. They found nothing except a place just in front of the engines where the accumulated seaweed had been wiped clean.

"It appears that we had hit a sleeping whale. There was no damage to either whale or boat, but it gave us an uneasy hour or two until we learned what had happened.

Reporter Says Reagan Could Learn From British

And MYRON KANDEL Can the "new" economics of Ronald Reagan and his administration lead the United States out of the inflation tangle and into a new growth cycle? Or is Reagan just trying an idea that is already being tried in Great Britain, without much success?

Critics of the Reagan plan — cut taxes, beef up private industry, shrink the size of the federal government — say it will not turn the economy around. In fact, they argue, it could touch off an even wilder round of inflation than we've already had. And they point to the British experience as proof.

Supporters say it is unfair to compare the United States and Britain — that the problems are different, the two governments are starting from different stages in their economies and, besides, Reaganomics is not the same as Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's programs.

Andrew Neil has a pretty good view of both sides of the Atlantic. For the past two years, he has been covering American affairs for the British news magazine, The Economist (which unveils its new U.S. edition next week) - first following the presidential campaign and now as American Business Editor.

Vasectomy Suit Filed Too Late

AUSTIN (UPI) - A man who impregnated his wife twice after having a vasectomy might have had a case against his surgeon but he waited too long to file a malpractice suit, the Texas Supreme Court ruled.

The court said this week Daniel and Aurora Silva had two years to file a lawsuit after realizing the vasectomy was un-successful, but lost their rights when they waited more than four years.

Dr. G. Leroy Howe performed the surgery in Corpus Christi June 11, 1974. Two years later, Silva said a fertility test showed he was sterile.

Four days after the test, Mrs. Silva learned she was pregnant. She had an abortion, but discovered in March 1977 she was pregnant again after two fertility tests on her husband had produced conflicting results.

The 13th Court of Civil Appeals in Corpus Christi ruled the Silvas should have known on May 17, 1976, the date Mrs. Silva learned of her first pregnancy, that the vasectomy was unsuccessful. The couple had two years, under the statute of limitations, to file the suit but waited until July 11, 1978.

sons from the British, although he agrees that the two situations are not nearly identical. And he says he is nottoo optimistic that President Reagan can solve the economic problems of the United States because, so far, he is not even zeroing in on them.

"The similarity (between the two economies) stands up as long as you don't get into too many specifics, Neil told us. In broad terms, Mrs. Thatcher is trying to bring more private enterprise, less government and less taxes to the British, and Ronald Reagan wants the same thing. Both also got elected by the same sort of people - traditional conservatives and blue collar workers who were fed up with what in America the Democratic Party has done, and in Britain what the Labor Party has done.'

After that, though, he says the two countries part ways. "The point is that America has already found out what Mrs. Thatcher had to learn - that to say the way to control inflation is to control the money supply is a little like digging your hands into sand and watching it all slip through your fingers. If Mrs. Thatcher could take Britain to the position that the United States is in right now she would count that as a major right-wing success. In Britain, the government spends 45 percent of the gross national product (in other words, the government accounts for that much of all British output), while in the United States, the federal share is 22 or 23 percent. The rest is all private enterprise

Even though the Reagan administration starts with a more advanced understanding of the money-supply school of economics, Neil does not expect much success over the next four years.

"I don't think these things can be done in four years, especially by a President who has come in essentially unprepared, Neil explained. As I followed Ronald Reagan through the campaign I was amazed at how little he actually talked about inflation and how little he had in direct specific policies to deal with it. The way he got around it was simply to say that government causes inflation and government can solve it. There's a widespread conception that the size of the federal deficit is directly linked to what the inflation rate is going to be. I don't think there's any historical evidence for that whatsoever.

"Ronald Reagan may be about to make the same mistake that Mrs. Thatcher did," he addéd. "She said one of the major ways they would tackle inflation is by cutting government spending. But two things happened. That became a very difficult thing to do. All sorts of vested interest groups are going are cut. And then the American inflation to stop that from happening, including many of the right-wing vested interests. The big supermarket chains, for instance, aren't going to like it if food stamps has a hard-core wage-price spiral which gives an inflation rate of about 10 percent. Reagan, by saying he'll have nothing to do with wage-price controls, has no plan for tackling and eating into that inflation rate, just as Mrs. Thatcher's program has been thrown to the side by her failure to control public sector wages. So Reagan may discover that there is nothing he can do over the next four years to get the inflation rate under 10 percent because he has no policies tailored to doing it."

Trade Arteries Clogged

ALTHOUGH U.S. exports increased somewhat in volume last year, we've experienced drastic losses in overseas market shares—the one measure of export performance that really counts.

As a result, we've accumulated a deficit of about $150 billion in our export accounts since 1976.

Monthly deficits in our trade accounts have exceeded $4 billion at times during the period, a sum higher than any annual trade deficit before 1976.

Many explanations have been offered for the sharp reversal in our nation's fortunes in foreign markets. The most popular explanation for the imbalance is our heavy dependence on increasingly costly imported energy.

Another explanation holds floating exchange rates responsible and argues that our dollar has too long been over-valued, keeping the price of American goods artificially high

CERTAINLY, OUR nation's current export problems have no single source. The remedy to some of the problems, such as our dependence on imported energy, will not come easily or swiftly.

But that is not to say that we must continue to accept trade deficits as a way of life into the 1980s, especially when we consider that many of our problems are self-imposed.

traordinary tangle of export disincentives that threatens to remove us from serious competition in overseas markets.

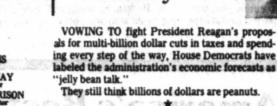

Despite recent efforts to streamline our nation's trade policies and mechanisms, American exports today are subject to controls and restraints imposed by at least five federal departments and more than 80 different agencies

OUR VITAL arteries of trade with other nations are clogged with a vast, uncoordinated mixture of contradictory and self-cancelling objectives and policies, laws and regulations. But all are self-inflicted and therefore capable of self-remedy.

Revising our tax policy with regard to foreign earned income would be the most immediate action that the U.S. could take to restore its standing in global markets.

That kind of action, however, would require a change in the attitudes of both the federal government and the private sector.

What is needed is a spirit of teamwork and cooperation, of mutual respect. Clearly, we do not have that now. Consequently, we are forfeiting the foreign markets where much of the nation's future economic growth is to be found-if our lawmakers have the will and the wisdom to find it.

This week's shooting of Detective Cpl. George Parramore, the senseless snipings at motorists here and other violent crimes remind all of us that the public and police can't feel safe on the streets

Something Stolen: "Where is Iran?" "Between Iraq and a hard place."

TODAY'S MAY BOUQUET goes to Texas Tech President Lauro Cavazos, who in effect told faculty members to spend more time doing their jobs than griping about their pay.

"I've had it up to my eyeballs on the issue of salaries," Dr. Cavazos told the campus chapter of the American Association of University Professors, a labor union-like group.

He correctly told the professors that raises should be distributed on the basis of merit, not across-the-board as the union mentality and the slackards would have it done.

"It's not easy to make decisions" on merit, the president conceded, but that's the only way to recognize and reward good work and build a better

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Heat's Off

Across the state, a great hue and cry is being raised over the alleged low pay of faculty mem-bers. There are indeed professional fields in which good teachers could make more money as private

But with the pay of full professors averaging something in excess of $27,000 for nine months' work, taxpayers would be delighted if they would at least not spend so much of that time griping

IN LEADING a peaceful revolution against oppressive government, Ronald Reagan couldn't have picked a better symbolic target than federal regulations over thermostat controls.

It would be hard to pick a more asinine intru-sion into the human rights of Americans than was President Carter's executive order telling them at what temperature to keep their workplaces.

The very idea of creating a whole bureaucracy of temperature takers to knock on doors and punish anyone who had set a winter-time thermostat at 66 instead of at 65 degrees speaks volumes about the over-regulatory mentality that plagues

IN PROCLAIMING an end to that 22-month-old idiocy, President Reagan also ordered a review of other "burdensome" regulations that have no place in a free society.

He gave his Vice President, George Bush, the job of heading a task force to plunge into the regu-latory thicket and chop down the parasytic bushes that are sucking the life out of the sturdy oaks of our economic system. He promised to end or modify those that he can by executive decree and to seek Congressional ac-tion on those which have been ill-advisedly man-

This does not mean that he will try to end all regulatory controls, only that he hopes to axe those that are counter-productive or too costly.

One of those would be akin to the obn thermostat controls: The federally mandated 55mph speed limit.

Except in a time of extreme gasoline shortages, this speed limit is an unwarranted usurpation of power at the federal level.

IT IS SYMPTOMATIC of the bankrupt philosophy that The Great Fathers in Washington should exercise control over every aspect of the bourgeo-

A peaceful revolt against such oppression can revitalize the American spirit even as it revitalizes business and industry, which now spends an inordinate amount of its time and resources complying with excessive regulations.

Let's hope that Reagan, Bush et al attack this War on Burdensome Regulations with zeal and a sense of urgency, lest we lose our last best chance for regaining control of our own government. The people should control government, not the other way around.

Louis Rukeyser:

Half Step In Right Direction

NEW YORK-It's time to give two cheers for Ronald Reagan's new economic program.

On balance, the President has correctly identified the major sources of our economic malaisetoo much government, too few incentives, too little growth-and has presented a program whose objectives deserve wide public support.

But having made so lucid a diagnosis, why in the world did he move so timidly in suggesting a cure? For, when all the initial partisan shouting is over and done with, what seems increasingly evident is that Reagan has taken what we might term half a step in the right direction.

AND HIS MOTIVE seems sadly familiar in the ill-starred realm of Presidential economic policymaking. It's politics-impure and unsimple what Reagan has proposed is very much less than what he knows the economy needs, though it happens to be about all he thinks a recalcitrant Congress will give him.

Before considering why that familiar reasoning may have been wrong in this case, let's focus on precisely where the Reagan program falls short economically.

First and foremost, on spending. Having appropriately discerned and spotlighted a cancerous growth of federal spending, the President proposes to treat it with a few light nicks.

the program wuld not reduce existing spending levels but only slow their growth to a rate roughly sponse is: Why? If spending has burgeoned out of control, why not chop it far more deeply? Instead, one by one, sacred cows were recog-grams, including some whose benefits go to many exempted from even the slightest axing. Even for-

The result is a plan for budget-trimming, that, even if it sailed through Congress undisturbed, would delay even the most optimistic projections

On the tax side, Reagan pulled fewer punches but one wonders why he backed off from the sensible plan to eliminate (preferably immediately, but at least in stages) the wholly artificial distinction between "earned" and "unearned" incomethe former of which is taxed at no more than 50

In the real world, as opposed to the arenas of social envy, this separation tells a high earner that he is better off spending (or sheltering) his income

In reality, "unearned" income is "twice earned"—and twice taxed. In the national interest, we should be encouraging the very things the tax code now penalizes.

The alibi for Reagan, of course, is that he made a realistic assessment of what was possible. Diehard critics would protest if Reagan sliced even one dollar from their wildest demands. How and tax changes an inflated, sluggish economy re-Indeed, it might now be excellent politics for

Sylvia Porter:

Save On Taxes By Being Repaid In Installments

NEW YORK-Of major importance to millions of you was the liberalization in 1980 of the installment sales rules-under which if you sell real es- 1981, a more favorable tate, your home, securities, or any other personal property at a profit, with some or all of the sales price to be paid in a future year, you don't have to pay immediate tax on your entire profit.

Instead, you include in income only that part of the gain attributable to the portion of the total price paid to you in that year.

For instance, say you bought a diamond ring for $1,000 which you now sell for $5,000, payable $1,-000 down and $1,000 a year for the next four years. This gives you a $4,000 profit.

IF YOU HAD to report the entire $4,000 profit in the year you sell the ring, you would be paying the tax due on your $4,000 capital gain, even though it will be another four years before you receive your full price of $5,000.

The installment sales rules prevent this. Since you will be paid only $1,000 a year, or 20 percent of the total price each year for five years, you report in income for each of those years only 20 percent of your total $4,000 profit, or only $800 a year.

This avoids the pyramiding of profit into one year. It defers tax until you receive payments. And it may shift taxable income into a future year when your tax rates may be lower.

Before the 1980 law changes, the use of the installment reporting method was hedged with a range of requirements.

THUS, YOU COULDN'T use the method if (1) you received more than 30 percent of the selling price in the year of sale or (2) there weren't payments to be made in two or more years, (3) the selling price was not more than $1,000 or (4) the selling price wasn't fixed or definite, such as where the final price was contingent on future

But as a result of the 1980 law amendments, restrictions (1) and (2) were eliminated for all of 1980. And restrictions (3) and (4) are not applicable to sales after Oct. 19, 1980.

Thus, when preparing your 1980 return, Don't Overlook The Changed Provisions! You may find that a sale you made in 1980 which did not qualify for installment reporting under the old law has been retroactively qualified for installment reporting-and that may give you a tax break.

BELOW ARE SPECIFICS of the new law, both for your own use in preparing your '80 return and to help you to structure a future sale properly, advises the Research Institute of America.

(1) You can sell real estate or personal property (except as a dealer in personal property) and take as much or as little payment in the year of sale as you wish.

Thus, if you sold land and received 50 percent of the sales price in '80 and a note from the buyer for the balance, payable in one or more years after '80, you can use the installment reporting and in-clude only half your profit in your 1980 return.

(2) You also can sell such property with one deferred payment. For instance, if you sold property in '80 but provided for the entire payment to be made in '81, you have an installment sale under the new rules even though there are no installments. Your entire profit can be deferred until

(3) The new installment rules also eliminated. for sales after Oct. 19, '80, the requirement that the personal property had to be sold for more than

(4) You may elect whether to report your profit immediately in full or instead under the installment reporting method.

A sale that can be reported as an installment sale will be treated as an installment sale unless you elect not to use that method-and under certain circumstances, electing not to use installment reporting can give you a better tax result.

(5) If you made a sale before Oct. 20, '80, that qualifies as an installment sale and you want to report it on the installment method, you must elect to use that method when you file your return.

If your deferred payment sale was made after Oct. 19, '80, you must report it on the installment method unless you elect not to use it.

(6) ANOTHER PRO-taxpayer change in these rules helps farmers particularly-though it also can help any of you who can use it. Farmers often make sales at the end of a year but provide payment is to be made in one or more subsequent

Where the buyer's deferred payment was secured by a letter of credit, the IRS and the Tax Court hold that the farmer's gain was taxable in the year of sale, not as deferred payments were received.

The new law provides that for sales after Oct. 19, 1980, the security given for the deferred payment sale is not a payment.

Flies In Appointment Ointment

WASHINGTON-From the point of view of those who want to see hard-core Reaganites holding the top jobs in the Reagan administration, the two flies in the appointment ointment are: E. Pendleton James, assistant to the President for personnel; and Dr. James Cavanaugh, special consultant on presidential appointments.

By all accounts, James is simply in a job over his head. His background is that of a corporate headhunter, that is, a person who hires business professionals. James' political naivete is astonishing.

Once, when James was discussing possible appointees to head the old U.S. Information Agency, now known as the International Communications Agency, someone proposed Bruce Herschensohn, who is an outspoken Reaganite conservative and who served at the USIA under Frank Shakespeare, another outspoken Reaganite

BUT, WHEN HERSCHENSOHN'S name came up, James dismissed it out of hand, suggesting instead someone with an "international image" like Walter Cronkite, or perhaps a prominent figure from the New York Times. Columnist Don Lambro quotes Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., a Reagan confidant, as saying of this idea "Hell, if (the suggestion of) Cronkite came up here, I would take care of that personally." Laxalt added that such a suggestion "would never survive the political input. In an interview, James talks a good game about loyalty to Reagan and his views and how "absolutely critical" this qualification is in determining who will or will not get a job in the administration. James told me:

"This is Gov. Reagan's administration and we're building a team around him that fits his philosophy and goals and if they (the job seekers) don't fit-they ain't coming in.

"For us to proceed with staffing people around him (Reagan) who don't meet this criteria would be fallacious. We fully intend that they'll be philosophically attuned to his objectives and policies. That has always been number one. If people don't meet this criteria their names will not go forward

THE ONLY PROBLEM with this assertion is that it is demonstrably not true. And one of the more blatant examples of the falsity of this statement is the role played by Dr. James Cavanaugh, the man who really runs President Reagan's personnel operation.

As he explained it to me in an interview. Cavanaugh had no contact whatsoever with Reagan until March of 1980 when he was asked to "help on some policy issues. During the 1970s, Cavanaugh, a Rockefeller-type

Republican, was a top presidential aide in domestic affairs for Nixon and Ford. The Dec. 13, 1980

Human Events quotes a White House aide who worked with Cavanaugh as saying: "Hell, Cavanaugh fought the conservatives on everything. He favored the consumer protection bill, the Legal Services Corporation, and all the Mickey Mouse noise and safety regula-

AS FAR BACK as eight years ago, Cavanaugh was giving conservatives fits. In the Nov. 23, 1973 Human Events, Howard Phillips (who now heads the Conservative Caucus) wrote, concerning the battle to defeat the Legal Services program:

"Cavanaugh...perceives his own role not as an advocate for any pre-defined policy, but as negotiator among those who hold opposing views.

By sensing shifts in power orientation and keeping his name out of print, he has survived and prospered at the White House. Ironically, Cavanaugh says "yes, I would think so"-that Howard Phillips would be one of the people who could speak most authoritatively about his own views. He described himself to me as "to the right of moderate but not on the right side" of the Republican Party. Cavanaugh says that if Reaganite conservatives see him as part of the President's appointments problem, this is "a very bad rap." He maintains that he's been looking at people's backgrounds and "we've knocked out a lot of people on the liberal side from consideration."

THE MAN WHO supported Gerald Ford in 1976 against Ronald Reagan continues:

"We have a very great responsibility to identify. people who were loyal to Reagan from the beginning as well as in 1976 and 1980. I laugh, interrupting Cavanaugh. I say: "But, you know, if what you said was really being applied, you wouldn't be in the job you have." Cavanaugh responds: "You're absolutely right." If Ronald Reagan is to head off the catastrophic possibility that his mandate for radical change may be subverted, he should immediately fire

Balloonists Still Eyeing Trip

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - Maxie Anderson and Don Ida, the American balloonists who went down in India while attempting an round-the-world trip, say they haven't given up hope of resuming their journey.

"We are trying to get helium from the United States by March 10. After that weather conditions will not be good for a launch," Ida said Thursday.

The duo set out from Luxor, Egypt, on Feb. 12 on what they hoped would be the first non-stop round-the-world balloon flight. Two days later, they landed in a remote village in northern India after the balloon reportedly failed to gain enough altitude to cross the Himalaya mountains.

If the two can obtain the helium, they would launch their 20-story balloon, the Jules Verne, from the western India city of Jaipur on a route across Burma, China, Japan and the north Pacific, Ida said.

Rather Dropping Charges

CHICAGO (AP) - Dan Rather says he stands by his story, but is dropping a disorderly conduct charge against a cab driver after what the CBS newscaster said was a wild ride down Lake Shore Drive.

Rather said in a news release Thursday that he was dropping the charges against Eugene Phillips because a "mounting schedule of reporting assignments" was getting in the way of the case.

Rather contended that during a Nov. 10 cab ride from O'Hare International Airport, Phillips was abusive, at first refused to take him to his destination and then refused to let him out of the cab and drove high speed down Lake Shore

Smith Failed To Disclose Role In Sinatra Case

WASHINGTON (AP) - During his confirmation proceedings, Attorney General William French Smith told a senator he could not say how he would advise President Reagan about being a reference for Frank Sinatra's application for a garning license. Now it has been disclosed that Smith handled the matter months before Reagan was elected.

Smith did not tell the senator that. Smith's spokesman, Tom DeCair, disclosed Thursday evening that Smith -Reagan's personal attorney at the time - telephoned the Nevada Gaming Commission last summer to say the Republican presidential candidate could not be a reference for Sinatra because their relationship was purely social.

Mr. Smith advised the commission that Governor Reagan could not act in that capacity because he had had no business relationships with Sinatra; that the relationship was entirely social and a pleasant one: and that Governor Reagan

Prior to Smith's confirmation hearing last month - before disclosure of Smith's call to the commission - New York Times columnist William Safire questioned how Smith would advise Reagan to respond to the reference request.

During the confirmation hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., sent 22 written questions to Smith, who told the committee he would answer in writing. Proxmire enclosed Safire's column with

Among the questions, Proxmire

asked: When the Nevada Gaming Control

Board checks Sinatra's reference by writing to President Reagan, how would you, as attorney general, suggest that the president respond?" The attorney general wrote back:

'As I am not familiar with all of the facts referenced by the question, I cannot say whether the matter is one on which it would be appropriate for the attorney general to render advice."

DeCair said Thursday night that he did not know what facts the attorney general was unfamiliar with or why he did not mention then that he had already dealt with the matter. "The question sounds prospective, about how he would act as attorney general," DeCair said.

A spokesman for Proxmire, who was the only senator to vote against Smith's confirmation, said Thursday night he would have no comment until studying Thursday's disclosure.

Earlier this month, Nevada Gaming License Commissioner Carl Dodge told the state gaming commission that Reagan had sent word through an attorney that he thought Sinatra was "an honora ble person who is extremely charitable and loval." DeCair said Thursday that Smith does not remember saying those words.

On Feb. 19, the commission voted 4-1 to approve the license for Sinatra, who lost his last one 18 years ago for allegedly associating with reputed Chicago crime figure Sam Giancana at a Lake Tahoe lodge and casino of which Sinatra then was part owner. Sinatra has since denied hosting or even seeing Giancana at the lodge. DeCair said Smith cannot recall having seen Sinatra's name in any Justice Department documents since he became attorney general. A federal grand jury in New York just expired after looking into allegations, disclosed in court documents, that Sina tra had been involved in skimming profits from a theater in Westchester County, N.Y. No charges were brought against

The loot that the boys had bundled up before their apprehension was a bag full of bubble gum, reports state.

After hearing an alarm had been triggered at the fast-food restaurant, officer C.L. Graham said he went to the scene and immediately saw a face disappear from a window. He said he circled around to the back of the building and saw a door ajar.

Graham said he threw open the door and heard movement inside. Reports state he then discovered the younger of the two intruders hiding behind a refrigerator. Seconds after the captured youth had said he was working alone, the other juvenile was spotted behind the cooler.

Concrete Floors Completed In New Jail

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS

Avalanche-Journal Staff Construction work at the new $4.8 million county jail today passed a major milestone with the final pouring of concrete topping for the facility's floors.

Workers were pouring and spreading approximately 800 square feet of the concrete topping this morning in the southest section of the jail's second phase.

"It's a pretty big milestone," commented general contractor H.R. "Doc" Bundock as he watched his employees carefully applying the concrete on the final portion of the floor.

According to Bundock, today's work climaxed his firm's efforts to complete nearly 40,000 square feet of concrete floors in the new jail.

The floors in the jail's first phase have caused major problems on the construction project, delaying its completion for more than a year and leading county commissioners to fire the original general contractor, Furr's Construction Co.

Cracked and loose concrete first began to show up in the jail's floors in late 1979, leading to the discovery that the facility's top and bottom slabs had failed to bond properly.

Representatives of Furr's contended that the problems with the concrete floors were caused by defects in the original design for the jail. The detention facility was designed by the local architectural-engineering firm of Maeker and

However, test results from the Portland Cement Association indicated possible problems in the cleaning of the facility's sub-slab and in the mixing of concrete for the topping. After terminating their contract with Furr's last September, the commissioners court hired Bundock's company to complete the problem-plagued first phase of the jail. At the time, Bundock already was serving as the general contractor for the jail's smaller second

One of the major tasks Bundock faced when he went to work on the first phase was the replacement of around 25,000 square feet of the concrete topping on the floors.

To date, Bundock said, only a few expansion cracks have been found in the concrete floors already completed. There's far less of that sort of thing than we're supposed to have." he added.

Some of the cracks that have appeared are in areas where the concrete topping is thicker than the two-inch slab specified in the construction plans, Bundock said.

In some areas, he noted, the top slab is more than three inches thick. According to Bundock, the reason the top slab is thicker in some places is because the sub-

However, Bundock said he doesn't anticipate any problems with the jail floors.

"The critical thing is to be sure the topping bonds with the base slab," the contractor explained. He said that the two slabs appear to have bonded correct-come up since the '50s," said astronomer Wallace L. W. Sargent of the California Institute of Technology, who will head the new survey team.

"It's almost impossible to take an hour exposure at Palomar today without having a plane track over the picture,"

The new northern sky survey will probe twice as far into space as the original one, requiring an hour's exposure per picture. Together with a similar photographic mapping of the southern skies, already under way in Australia and Chile, it is expected to result in the first complete atias of the sky.

The original survey, known as the National Geographic Society-Palomar Observatory Sky Survey, was carried out from 1949 to 1957 and was instantly heralded a "an astronomical bible" by observatories and universities throughout the world. Its 1,758 photographs of the sky — the first road map of the heavens still show astronomers where to point their telescopes today.

DR. LAMB

Aiming For Energy

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 18 years old and play a lot of tournament tennis. I just love it. Tennis is my whole life. I want to do everything I can to improve my game. I know a really tough match takes a lot of energy. So what should I eat before competition? What foods will give me the most energy when I need it? Should I eat a high-protein meal to increase my energy? How long before playing should I eat?

DEAR READER - There are lots of different opinions about food and athletics, but there are some basic athetes but there are some basic facts that you can follow. First, remember that if your food is not digested it cannot get into your bloodstream. And if it is not absorbed into your ctreulation, it will NOT provide any energy for you.

Food is not absorbed from your stomach. Alcohol is, but that is because it passes directly into cells, and cause it passes directly into cells, and it is not what you need for energy or ability in athletic competition - particularly competition that requires

To get any energy from food eaten before you play, it must be emptied from the stomach. That means a fatty meal of steak or other high-fat protein foods won't help. They may still be in your stomach after your match is

Solids are not absorbed either but must first be liquified in your stom-ach before they can be emptied. The bottom line is that any solids you eat a couple of hours before a game may not help much. Stay on a good balanced diet as a regular habit. Sweet liquids are most likely to be emptied by your stomach and absorbed quickly. A glass of orange juice is a good example. Fats slow the stomach's

There are many misconceptions about digestion. Most people do not realize that what they swallow is broken down before it is absorbed by the digestive process. To give you a better idea of the process, I am sending you.

ribs which tends to make his chest suck in. I can't describe it any better. He has always been rather shy about appearing without a shirt.

Is this anything to be concerned about? Can anything be done for him at this late date? The pediatrician who examines him never said anything about this thing about this.

DEAR READER - You are probably describing what we call pectus excavatum or funnel chest. There are several variations of this, but the breastbone (sternim) appears pushed in. This may be most pronounced at the lower end of the sternum.

In most cases there is no known reason for this variation and it seldom causes any problem physiologically. It can be disturbing psychologically.

In extreme cases it can restrict the movement of the rib cage and affect benefits.

breathing or compress the heart. re is such an extreme variation the deformity can be relieved by surgery. And when psychological reactions warrant it, surgery may improve the cosmetic problems.

Your doctor probably thought it was not affecting your son's health and chose not to make you or him unduly conscious about the variation.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Daniel
Patrick Moynihan, an old Washington hand, is fond of observing that for every

the sort that resulted in 14 months of captivity for 52 members of the U.S. embassy staff in Tehran.

The simple solution to that problem would have been for the United States to have gone to war against Iran. There is no doubt that this country could have made Iran pay dearly for its affront to the United States and its abuse of our diplomats.

Instead, we negotiated their freedom, trading Iranian money we had seized for American people they had seized. Except for the military men who died in the one attempt we did make to use force, there were no lives lost in the episode.

Now, perhaps, it is a good time for Americans to think about whether the Iran hostage episode was, as some have said, a national humiliation, or, as others contend, a vindication of diplomacy.

The reason such a thought process is timely is the clear inference many Americans took from the president's words. They will expect Reagan to send in the Marines the first time any American is molested in any other country.

But is that really practical? What if the next incident is the capture of Americans in Italy by the Red Brigades? That crowd certainly qualifies as terrorists, but unlike Iran and its "student" militants, there is no indication of collusion between it and the Italian government.

So what do we do - drop paratroopers on Rome? Or do we look at the situation on its merits and respond in the way that seems most likely to get our people out alive without giving in to ridiculous

Early Start Helps Win Nominations

By CLAY F. RICHARDS

WASHINGTON (UPI) - For those who have lost track of time, the 1984 New Hampshire presidential primary is just three years away.

While many are still sick and tired of the 1980 campaign, the next battle has already begun in at least two camps where there is a strong political belief you cannot start too early.

Political supporters of former Vice President Walter Mondale are making plans to file with the Federal Election Commission for a committee to explore a possible presidential campaign.

The technical action of filing would allow Mondale to raise funds to support his political activities. It also creates the skeleton of a campaign organization. Mondale has taken up residence in a Washington law firm and more than a dozen of his former top aides are staying around the nation's capital to prepare for what is an almost certain bid for the White House.

The other word of preparation for 1984 comes from no less a source than the man in the White House - Ronald Reagan

At the recent Washington Press Club 'Salute to Congress' dinner, Reagan had some advice for a freshman congressman who had complained that the inaugural balls were so crowded he had not been able to use the tickets he had purchased.

'Congressman, hold on to them," Reagan quipped. "They'll be good in four years

A little more explicit view of Reagan's plans came from his political alter ego. Lyn Nofziger, currently the White House political adviser

"We'll be back in three years with the same guy," Notziger said.

"If anybody has any doubts about Ronald Reagan not thinking down the road three to four years from now and are thinking 'oh boy. I'll run for president in 1984,' you'd better change your

The fact that Reagan will be almost 74 by the time of the next campaign does not bother Nofziger

"This man who just celebrated his 70th birthday doesn't look like it, sound like it or act like it," Nofziger said.

A review of recent political history shows that the road to the White House often begins four or even eight years ear-

Richard Nixon started right after his 1960 loss to collect the political IOUs around the nation that made him unbeatable when Reagan and Nelson Rockefeller challenged him for the GOP nomination in 1968

Jimmy Carter's term as governor of Georgia ended in 1974, giving him two full years to run for president unencumbered by a full-time job

After losing the 1976 nomination to Gerald Ford, Reagan spent the next four years on the chicken dinner circuit to secure the 1980 nomination.

So while it is still a long way down the road to 1984, Reagan and Mondale know the benefit of being the first on the track.

The option suggested here is for flexibility as opposed to slavish adherence to a simple slogan that might cause more problems than it solves or kill more people than it saves.

Jimmy Carter had that kind of flexi-

Thus, we could deplore Soviet perse-cution of its own dissidents and its rape of Afghanistan, but found that even so mild a response as a grain embargo and an Olympic boycott did not command universal national, let alone internation-al, support. That probably hurt Carter,

It probably is too much to ask politicians to quit agitating people with simple-minded slogans in election years. Our hope, rather, may be in the good sense of the American people, who have learned the hard way that the magic substance that claims it will absolutely, positively eradicate the worst of stains is only soap.

Americans own stock. And the NYSE study found that of the the 25 largest metropolitan areas, only two in California - San Jose and San Francisco-Oakland - had more than 20 percent of the population owning stock. The significance of the figures is open to doubt. Owning stock may make a person a capitalist by definition, but it does not make him rich. Nationally, the NYSE says the average stock portfolio in 1980 was just $4,000, down from $10,100

the growth in the number of younger, less affluent owners" and notes that the median age of stockholders dropped from 521/2 years in 1975 to 451/2 years in

But another reason may be that a significant number of wealthy investors got fed up with the stock market in the 1970s, when stocks performed poorly in comparison with such investments as gold and even old paintings.

The median household income stockholders is listed at $27,700, about 67 percent higher than the national median ncome: Five years earlier, the figure was $19,000, about 70 percent higher than the median income then.

The study was conducted during 198 based on interviews with more than 7,000 nouseholds, and the NYSE has been dribbling out the results since then:

While the national totals are probably close to accurate, the breakd states and regions have less statistical validity because the samples are smaller It seems unlikely that the number of areowners in Vermont really dropped from 108,000 in 1975 to 40,000 last year, the NYSE says.

Among the metropolitan areas, New York rose to the top in the number of areholders, 1.67 million, followed by Chicago at 1.34 million and Los Angeles Long Beach at 1.22 million. Industry Voices Opposition To Legislation

NEW YORK (UPI) - The commodities industry is gearing up to oppose leg-islation on tax straddles it says would severely curtail legitimate uses of the futures market and endanger the market it-

There certainly is justification in curbing abuses, going after straddles used specifically to avoid taxes," said an industry source who did not wish to be spreads by commercial users and produeers such as farmers, meat packers and metals dealers is throwing out the baby with the bath water.

The legislation has been proposed in he House by Rep. William M. Brodhead, D-Mich. Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., is going to introduce a similar bill in the Senate. He has met with leaders of commodity exchanges and has invited them to present a counter-proposal.

The House proposal has the full support of the Internal Revenue Service, which has been trying unsuccessfully in the courts since 1976 to prohibit deduction of losses on commodity straddles.

An IRS official admitted in a letter to Senator Moynihan that the legislation is so broad it "necessarily requires a change in the tax treatment of certain transactions that are entered into without predominant tax motivation."

The "butterfly straddle," a trading technique named because of its appearance on charts, gained notoriety when its ise by Merrill Lynch was questioned during confirmation hearings for Treasury Secretary Donald Regan, former chairman of the big brokerage house. In a normal spread a trader buys sil-ger, for example, for June 1981 delivery and at the same time sells silver for June 1982 delivery. The spread between the two reflects the price of silver plus interest rates. The risk is that interest rates, prices, or both will fluctuate.

That risk can be minimized (but not eliminated the industry claims) if at the same time one buys in the far out month and sells in the near month. The butterfly' trader loses or makes money dependng on interest rate fluctuations.

'The government claims there's no economic risk in spread trading and that claim is false," said another industry source in Chicago. "You can lose 100 percent of your capital in spread trading One exchange member went bankrup with a loss of $10 million on butterfly

He admitted the "butterfly" can be and probably is successfully used just to defer taxes

But he said by throwing spread trading in the same legislation "they're attacking an important function of the industry - to enable commercial users to transfer their inventory risk to the legitimate speculator.

An example of how farmers use the futures market would be a hog farmer who begins slaughtering in November nd must store pork bellies (bacon) for July delivery. It would be prohibitive to pay current interest rates for storage.

Zimbabwe Medicine Men Urging Chance At Traditional Courts

SALISBURY, Zimbabwe (AP) - Suspected witches could soon get a better deal in Zimbabwe

For centuries, tradition here has decreed that witches should be brutally put to death - clubbed, axed, stoned, burnt or buried alive.

But if Zimbabwe's 4,000 medicine men — and women — have their way, suspected witches will in the future have a chance to first prove their innocence before government-established tribal courts

The president of the state-backed Zimbabwe Traditional Healers' Association, Dr. Gordon Chavunduka, has urged the new black socialist government to scrap the old suppression of witchcraft act inherited from former white colonial

"Whereas traditional tribal courts agree that witches do exist, the formal courts say they do not," Chavunduka, who is also head of the sociology department at Zimbabwe University, says of the white-dominated judiciary that is guided by the 90-year-old act.

Chavunduka and other members of the association - a professional body of herbalists and spiritualists who resent being branded as "witchdoctors" - have urged the government to give newly created tribal courts powers to decide who is a witch and who isn't

Being identified as a witch is usually fatal for the hapless victim in Zimbabwe. and in most other African countries where even many educated blacks believe in witchcraft.

More than 300 cases of witch murders were heard in criminal courts here last

Most of the victims were old men and women, often related to the killers. Most of the accused believed they were justified in ridding the world of their evil vic-

The tenacious African belief in witchcraft is sometimes taken into account by courts, as extenuating circumstances Most witch-killers are jailed, instead of being sent to the gallows.

Under the existing suppression of witchcraft act, based on old English law, a witch-hunter can legally point the finger at a suspected witch. But it is illegal for the hunter to suggest the suspected witch has been responsible for death, illness, loss of property or any other mis-- the usual reason for witch-kill-

The association proposes that traditional healers should sit on tribal courts to decide whether a suspect is a witch or

"If the person is proven to be a witch who has caused a death or other evil, they should be put in prison," says Dorothy Ndhlovu, chairwoman of the Bulawayo branch of the healers' association.

"If they continue to use witchcraft to kill others after their release from prison the sentence should then be death. They should not be murdered, however. It should be a legal sentence.

How the courts could conclusively rule that a person was a witch remained unclear. "We just know." Cephas Movo. a witch-hunter, told a reporter in Bulawayo recently.

The traditional healers will probably get their way although there has been no official reaction from government.

People cheered and waved paper flags of the old Royal Cambodia as much for press and TV cameras as an elaborate welcome for the 69 year-old resistance

For the only credible non-communist force in Cambodia, press releases and TV coverage have become weapons as important as assault rifles in the fight against rival communist forces seeking control of this Southeast Asian nation.

Unlike the warring Soviet-backed Vietnamese and the Chinese-backed Khmer Rouge, Son Sann's National Liberation Front has no foreign power to supply guns, money and diplomatic sup-

Son Sann served as prime minister in 1967-1968 under Prince Sihanouk, who also is seeking an end to communist control of Cambodia. Son Sann says the traveling prince turned down a chance to lead the Front because of demands that he get rid of allegedly corrupt people close to him.

TEMPE. Ariz. (UPI) - Some male students asked to pose nude for Playgirl magazine were thrilled by the publicity and the money. Others balked at becoming beefcake.

This, after all, is the cultural descendant of an earlier age when an advertisement in a 1903 issue of Harper's Weekly touted the merits of the then-fashionable automat. "The whole operation of being served lunch and dinner," said the ad, 'takes about a minute."

Rudofky, a scholar-in-residence at the Smithsonian's Cooper-Hewitt Museum in New York City, and assistant Lucy Fellowes have included these and other domestic curiosities in a provocative exhibition here designed as a "salute to the unknown art of living."

His aim: to encourage Americans to reassess those taken-for-granted habits that regulate daily life, just at the time when we have second thoughts about attributing man's happiness to an unending supply of things he does not need."

Rudofsky also shares a concern of the late U.S. Judge Learned Hand.

"Our dangers," Hand warned, "are not from the outrageous but from the conforming . . . those who take their virtues and their tastes, like their shirts and furniture, from the limited patterns which the market offers.

Above all, perhaps, Rudofsky is a believer in the advice of C.C. Lambert-Carlovsky, director of the Harvard Peabody Museum, that "our understanding of other cultures tempers our arrogance in believing that ours is best."

"Did you realize," Rudofsky asks, that if Jesus were to visit this country, he would have to mend his ways?" At the Last Supper, as depicted by little-known but centuries-old mosaics and embroidery, he explains, Jesus and the apostles are shown reclining on couches around a table, the custom of affluent Jews and Romans of the day. As it turns out, the now-familiar versions of the meal as a more formal, sit-down affair were painted by later generations of artists to conform to the customs of their day.

"That should give some food for thought," says Rudofsky, who was titled his Cooper-Hewitt exhibit and companion catalog "Now I lay me down to eat" in recognition of the manners of the an-

"To our way of thinking, lying down to a meal connotes debauch," he says, urging the merits of the dining couch to be reconsidered.

surely pace upon eating, and the beneficial effect on the digestion is obvious," he contends, "since the stomach works best when it is not compressed." And, he adds, "what serene comfort compared to the indignity of the American lap

If that idea isn't enough for many to wallow, Rudofsky thinks it time to take a fresh look at several culinary customs that Westerners consider civilized, but which other cultures find downright bar-

"To most Orientals, the idea of attacking a plateful of food with heavy metal instruments is as absurd as chopping parsley with a guillotine," he says, and "since the flavor of their food is very light and subtle, they shun implements that give off a metallic taste, using chopsticks instead.'

The Cooper-Hewitt scholar is hardly reassured by another American custom, a traditional one often reserved for holiday guests.

'Only a few notches above cannibalism ranks our own practice of cutting up an animal's corpse right in the dining room," he complains. "It happens in the most enlightened company."

As for cannibalism itself, Rudofsky finds it curious indeed that certain Fiji Island natives eat everyday fare with their fingers, "while a roast of human flesh calls for the more formal fork," providing, perhaps, more food for Western thought.

The fork itself, Rudofsky points out, came into use in the West only a few hundred years ago, the first miniature 'pitchfork" arriving in America from England in 1633. Condemned by 15thcentury clergymen as "instruments of the devil," forks were damned as poor substitutes for God-given fingers.

Contrary to general Occidntal belief, Rudofsky contends that the utensils of people who manage without forks and knives are as a rule, anything but crude. usually combining practicality with elegance. "Most of them are worthy of being shown in our museums of art.'

The way Westerners sit is another source of bewilderment to the scholarauthor, who has been forming ideas for his study of man's daily habits during the last 30 or so years.

habit," he asserts, and "like smoking, about as wholesome

The more "form-fitting" a chair, the more detrimental it is to the occupant's health, he argues, not only to the spine but also, because of its tilt, to the neck, muscles and, when reading, even to the eyes. "Can anyone imagine a concert pianist performing in an easy chair? he asks. "Or horseback riding in a saddle with a backrest?"

If Westerners are to change their bad habits, they must, according to Rudofsky, first overcome the conventional thinking that floor-sitters lead a primitive existence, whereas chair-sitters enjoy a superior standard of living. Nothing," he says, "could be further from the truth."

Rudofsky reminds us that Plato conducted his lessons in ancient Greece without benefit of chairs, table or blackboard, but he also remembers John F. Kennedy's lament that changing the physical habits of millions of Americans is "far more difficult than changing their tastes, fashions or even their politics."

Continuing his scrutiny of Western creature habits, Rudofky pricks a pretension or two that Americans may have developed about their inventiveness and ingenuity, in this case concerning the trendy hot tubs that first Californians, and now others, find as mandatory for social gatherings as another generation considered the bridge table.

During the Middle Ages, he reports, the "convivial bath" was the site of such diverse activities as amorous meetings, family feuds, business deals and at least several assassinations. Then, too, "it was "cheerless" motions of getting clean. not unusual for wedding banquets to take place in the bath, with guests half submerged in water.' The luxury of bathing, however, should not be confused with the simple act of washing — "two different things entirely," says Rudofsky, regretting that

The combination of hot water, naked bodies and good food gave bathing a bad name in Puritan eyes, Rudofsky points out, although about this time Benjamin Franklin, admitting the addiction, said he enjoyed "a hot bath about twice a day, two hours at a time."

Group Gives Books To Ministries

The Lubbock chapter of B'nai B'rith, a Jewish men's organization, has pre-sented University Ministries a new set of the Encyclopaedia Judaica, a 16-volume work covering a vast spectrum of subjects relating to the Christian, Jewish and Muslim faiths

Published in Jerusalem in the early 1970's, the encyclopaedia details all aspects of the Jewish Biblical and post-Biblical tradition. Archaeology and the Holocaust are given major coverage, as well as other important areas.

The Rev. William Chapman, chairman of the Texas Tech Biblical Literature department, accepted the gift on behalf of University Ministries, a cooperative effort of several protestant denominations. He said he hoped students would seek the roots of Western faith by using the UM library's new acquisition, which is designed to facilitate study of the Judeo-Christian heritage and related sub-

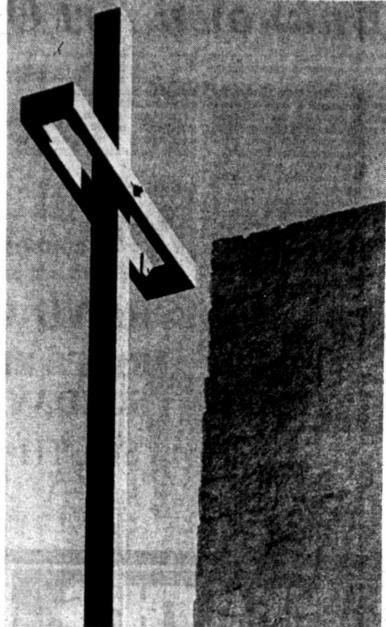

"While there is much that is unique and distinctive about our respective faiths," Chapman noted, "there is also much that underscores our interrelationship and mutual belief...This gift broadens our library considerably.'

In presenting the encyclopaedias, chapter president Robert Inselberg emphasized the coommon backgrounds and concerns, as well as history and scripture, that unite Jews. Christians and Muslims.

"Hopefully, the study of this common heritage will bring us closer together,' he said.

The volumes given by B'nai B'rith are to foster a spirit of better and deeper interfaith relationships, Inselberg indicated. He added that researching the groups' common roots could only improve their relations

"We are, after all, brothers and sisters," Inselberg stated. "The study of our mutual heritage will reinforce the human connection and concerns that we all

HOLY CROSS - Although it has sacred meaning for Christians today, there was nothing holy about the cross before Christ died on one nearly two thousand years ago. Then, it was simply one of the cruelest forms of execution devised. This modern cross, found at Christ's Church of Lubbock, 7807 University, also might seem to serve a dual purpose, since it appears to resemble a telephone pole. But whatever contemporary electronic messages it might carry are overshadowed by the timeless message of redemption the cross represents. (Staff photo by Jim Watkins)

Clinical Pastoral Education Program Gains Accreditation

(CPE) program of Methodist Hospital's chaplaincy services department has received seven years of accreditation by the Association for Clinical Pastoral Education Inc. in New York.

CPE supervisor Chaplain Tom Daugherty said both basic and advanced CPE programs were accredited. Methodist Hospital joins approximately 250 other U.S. training centers located in hospitals, pastoral counseling centers, prisons

CPE is an extension of the formal education process allowing preparation for or growth in ministry, primarily patient care. Daugherty said the program is open to laymen, clergy and seminary students.

Methodist Hospital initiated the accreditation process in 1975 when basic courses received provisional accreditation. Advanced were granted that same status in 1976. An ACPE team visited the hospital, reviewed the program and re-

Parents Urged To Learn More About Schools

Matthews Junior High School principal Jesse Garza urged a group of young Mexican-American adults and parents to get involved in school matters during a Feb. 20 panel discussion at Arnett-Benson Baptist Church. Garza encouraged parents as well as the public to visit their children's schools, but also stressed that education and discipline begin at home.

'Training For Service' was the theme of the meeting, which was sponsored by the young adult, single adult and career Sunday School departments of the church. Other panel members were Mrs. Julia Castro, an assistant vice president at Wilson State Bank, and Lubbock Police Detective Joe Nevarez Nevarez emphasized the growth of crime in Lubbock that has paralleled the city's economic and population growth. Pastor Paulo Garcia stressed the need for spiritual growth in individual lives as the solution to today's problems.

Following the discussion, American, Mexican, Italian and Chinese dishes, representing some of the cultures found in the United States, were served by Mrs. Rose Ibarra Martinez, Mrs. Liz Garcia and Lupe Castro.

Church Will Build Huge Banana Split

Templo Emanuel Assembly of God is going bananas and "splitting" their church

No doctrinal disputes or fighting factions are involved, however. Pastor James Plata said the idea is to promote the childrens' Sunday School by building a five-foot-long banana split.

The first five students enrolled in CPE in June, 1976. Since then, 45 men and women from several denominations have studied under the program, and six are currently enrolled Daugherty said the CPE curriculum brings the pastor or lay person with a special Christian commitment into supervised pastoral encounters with persons in crisis.

Four students are working in the Extended Basic CPE program 20 hours per week for 20 weeks, Jan. 6 through May 19. They are Lydia Choate, Dennis Lynn. Phillis Tallerico and Theresa Van Bib-

Mrs. Choate is a member of First Baptist Church and attended Trinity Bible Institute three years. She is a volunteer at South Park Hospital, primarily visiting the terminally ill and families of the deceased.

Dennis Lynn, a minister at Southside Church of Christ, is receiving academic credit toward a Master of Education Degree in counseling at Texas Tech University. He has a BA in sociology from Lubbock Christian College.

Sister Tallerico directs pastoral care at St. Mary's Hospital and is working on her third unit of CPE. She has a BA from St. Joseph College in Orange, Calif.

Theresa Van Bibber is a licensed preacher and director of Victorious Life Ministry with Crestview Assembly of God. She was a three year Texas Tech student and completed a two-year program at Trinity Bible Institute.

The other two CPE students are fulltime interns participating in a one-year, advanced, intensive training program designed for ministers and other professionals. They are the Rev. Pettigrew Hamilton and the Rev. Jude Krogol.

City Lawyers Respond To Minister's Charges

A-J Religion Writer The Lubbock Criminal Defense Lawyers Association has called a Lubbock minister's recent comments about the Billy Wayne Alexander murder trial appalling and a return to vigilante justice.

In a Feb. 20 letter to The Avalanche-Journal, association president Dennis McGill concluded that Caprock Church of Christ minister Grover Stevens' views would lead to the abolition of the U.S. justice system and several basic constitu-

McGill was responding on behalf of the association's board to a Feb. 14 A-J article in which Stevens labeled Alexander's Abilene trial "a travesty on society." He also charged Alexander's courtappointed attorney, Floyd Holder, a member of the lawyers association as well as the Church of Christ, was as guilty as Alexander because of his efforts to prevent the death penalty from being Stevens has long advocated capital punishment for convicted murderers. He first presented his Bible-based philosophy in sermon form on KSEL radio in March, 1974, and again on Oct. 12, 19 and 26, 1980. The sermon, complete with rebuttals to popular objections, also has been published in booklet form.

Stevens called for the death penalty in his eulogy at the Oct. 8, 1980, funeral of Department of Public Safety Trooper Jerry Don Davis. Alexander was convicted Jan. 24 of capital murder in Davis' Oct. 5, 1980, slaying, and was sentenced to life in prison Jan. 29. He began serving that sentence Monday when he was transported to Huntsville

In the article, Stevens predicted the sentence would invite more crime, blamed social decay on lack of criminal punishment and contended Holder had circumvented the law and thwarted jus-

McGill said in his letter that Stevens position would effectively eradicate the right to due process of law, to representation by an attorney, to the presumption of innocence and to trial by jury.

'He (Stevens) said Alexander should've gotten death," McGill noted in a telephone interview. "That eliminates the need for the jury system." McGill also took Stevens to task regarding his assertion that Holder, too, was guilty. He pointed out the minister failed to admit that a minister is as responsible for the sins of his parishioners as are the parishioners.

"Clearly, to state that the lawyer is as guilty as the defendant," McGill wrote, or the minister is guilty of the sins of his

Citing the Alexander case along with those of Philip Carey Brasfield and Clarence Alan Lackey as examples, McGill wrote that any criminal attorney has had to defend unpopular clients. But he maintained the lawyer's responsibility is to prepare a case requiring the state to show beyond a reasonable doubt that the accused committed the offense with which he is charged.

The state's burden, McGill explained, is to meet the standards necessary for the jury to impose a sentence. "He (Stevens) is shifting the burden from the state to the defense. The defense lawyer ought not to try his best, he's saying, but roll

McGill wrote that legal ethics require attorneys to defend their clients vigorously using all their skill, adding that anything less would dishonor and discredit themselves, their profession and the greatest justice system in history. The U.S. Supreme Court has held,

Numbers Support Bible Prophecy

If you're into numerology (the study of the Biblical significance of numbers), eschatology (the study of the Biblical prophecies about the end of the world), or if you saw "The Omen" or "Damien: Omen II," then you should ap-

It seems that in all the excitement and turmoil surrounding the release of the American hostages by Iran last month, no one bothered to notice the prophetic significance of several numbers involved in the crisis.

No one, that is, except Esther Mojica.

According to her brother, Butch Mojica of Lubbock, Miss Mojica, entirely on her own and with no prompting or assistance from any other individual, has discovered some inside information about the infamous "Antichrist."

He may appear this year. Now, before you turn the page, rest assured this is not a publicity stunt for the third movie in the "Omen" trilogy, "The Final Conflict." Miss Mojica, her brother says, has the figures to back it up.

Follow closely: start with the number of hostages (52); then add the number of days of their captivity (444); add to that subtotal the number of the president who effected their return (Jimmy Carter, you recall, was the 38th president), and the last two digits of the year (81). Finally, just to be on the safe side, throw in the number of states in the union (for all you die-hard confederates, that's 50), and guess what you come up symbolizing the Antichrist. The Mojicas feel this could indicate 1961 is the year the Antichrist rises to prominence and history begins moving toward its ctimax. Of course, well meaning sign-watchers have been wrong before, like those who've sold everything to wait for Christ's return, or the ones who thought Henry Kissinger was the An-

This is not to say Christians should not be alert to current developments and their possible impact on Bible prophecy. But if Butch and his sister are right, one question remains: is this the last of the Mojicas? Keep your Bibles open and tune in next week, folks.

THE GOLDEN RULE

Does Capital Punishment violate the Golden Rule?? The Apostle Paul did not think so, for he said, "If I be an offender, or have committed anything worthy of death, I refuse not to die", (Acts 25:11). Thus, I learn from an Holy Spirit filled, inspired, apostle of the Lord Jesus Christ and the greatest Christian who ever lived that some crimes are "worthy of death", and also, that if a Christian should commit such a crime -- worthy of death -- that he should "refuse not to die".

DOES GOD VIOLATE THE GOLDEN RULE?

Consider further the fact that God practices Capital Punishment. The flood, Sodom and Comorrah, Ananias and Sapphira, the final Judgment, etc. Also, those who teach the Rapture and Armageddon theory teach that Christ will SLAY or DESTROY all of the armies and nations of the wicked at His coming, and THIS is capital punishment in a dramatic way !! Does God and Christ act in "violation" of the

HOW ABOUT LIFE IMPRISONMENT ??

Is LIFE IMPRISONMENT in keeping with the Golden Rule? Just where does God sanction LOCKING A PERSON UP IN AN IRON CAGE FOR THE REST OF HIS LIFE? Or for one day, for that matter?? And, is such punishment in keeping with, or in violation of, the Golden Rule?? And where did society get such a "right". Will you answer, please? Ask your preacher, or the director of your conference. Friends, GOD'S WORD, THE BIBLE, teaches, "There is no power BUT OF GOD", (Rom. 13:1-4), or in other words, ALL the power or authority of the civil government is from God. The bord Jesus Christ said the same thing in John 19:10-11. When: Pilate said, "I have power to crucify thee", the Lord Jesus Christ answered, "Thou couldest have no power at all against me, EXCEPT IT WERE GIVEN THEE FROM ABOVE". Thus, we learn that the power to punish anybody for anything in any way is from God, and the same Scriptures also teach capital punishment. Note the words "crucify" and "beareth the sword". Both refer to capital punishment.

Thus, we see that capital punishment is no more a violation of the Golden Rule than life imprisonment, and really, that neither violate the Golden Rule at all. Furthermore, this answers the bare, and false, assertion that "society does not have the right to take another person's life"

Some people claim that they can match husbands and their wives in any large group. It is true that many couples seem to resemble each other the longer they live together.

Children often resemble their parents both in looks and actions. Although many times parents may hesitate to acknowledge it, children's actions, moods, speech and attitudes are often merely reflections of our own. We need not look into a mirror to observe our likeness. Watch the children. They are miniature replicas of us.

Among humans this tendency to imitate may not always be for the good. But the Heavenly Father wants His children to be like Him. He has given us an example to follow. Our lives should reflect the actions, talk and attitudes of Jesus Christ. The more time we spend worshipping Him, the better replicas of Him we become. That is a good reason for worshipping together this week.

Haig Pledges New Moves On Weapons

State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said today Cuba may be preparing to send substantial amounts of additional military equipment to leftist rebels in El Salvador.

Haig reaffirmed the administration' determination to deal with the problem of arms deliveries to El Salvador "at its source" but he again refused to specify what steps may be taken.

He was asked about the Salvadoran situation during a briefing to reporters

Clements Praises Two Bills

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements says he is pleased with progress made by two of his key measures in the Legisla ture, although one of them has been shunted to a subcommittee. Clements told a news conference Thursday he would sign a bill on licensing of low-level nuclear waste sites if it can pass the House in substantially the same form approved by the Senate.

This is just about what Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker Bill Clayton and I have talked about," Clements said.

The Senate bill was approved 30-0 Wednesday and sent to the House. It would let the Department of Health purchase land for radioactive waste sites, then lease them to private concerns for operation under strict state control. There would be a state fund for perpetual care of the sites

Clements also said he was not discouraged by a House committee sending his measure for legalization of wiretaps in drug cases to a subcommittee after a public hearing.

"I still think we will get the bill passed in its present form. It needs that kind of scrutiny," he said.

Clements also said he supported the Parks and Wildlife Department in its backing of a controversial bill that would ban the commercial taking and sale of redfish and speckled trout from coastal

Clements said he would not sign a series of bills introduced by Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, calling for elections to fill new judgeships created by this Legislature. Judge Puts Madam On Probation

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) - Madam Theresa Brown has been denied a new trial on a charge of aggravated promotion of prostitution and a judge has sentenced her to five years probation.

Despite Mrs. Brown's claim that she was pressured into a deal with prosecutors, District Judge James Barlow Thursday denied her request to change her "no contest" plea.

She had asked Barlow to remove her early February "no contest" plea and grant her a jury trial.

Barlow sentenced Mrs. Brown to five years probation, despite a prosecutors' recommendation of a three-year jail

Mrs. Brown's brothel was closed by San Antonio authorities last October, but controversy surrounding the house continued with publication of part of the madam's list of 3,000 clients.

El Pueblo, a bilingual monthly newspaper, last week published 19 names which reportedly came from a card file obtained at the brothel, although Mrs. Brown has said she could not confirm the printed names. Mrs. Brown testified Thursday that she decided to accept a plea-bargain arrangement because "I didn't have $10,-

She told the court that her former attorney, Rick Woods, relayed an offer from city Councilman Gene Canavan to pay her legal fees.

But Mrs. Brown said Woods told her "Canavan would withdraw the fee" if she insisted on a jury trial.

Immigration Report Assailed By Groups

WASHINGTON (AP) - A top-level commission's report calling for a crackdown on illegal immigration has come under immediate attack from Hispanic activists and civil libertarians.

The study, to be delivered today to President Reagan and to Congress, says the United States has definite limits on its ability to absorb large numbers of immigrants and refugees.

A coalition of public interest groups held a news conference before the report's release to offer alternatives to the Select Commission on Immigration and Refugee Policy's proposals for tighter enforcement. Rick Swartz, with the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, said the group wanted to emphasize that the select commission's report should not be regarded as the gospel. He said the coalition, calling itself the

Citibus Transfer Point To Cut Broadway Parking

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock motorists stand to lose as many as a dozen parallel parking spaces on Broadway to the Citibus temporary transfer point, but city and county officials do not feel the reduction will cause

City Manager Larry Cunningham estimated five or six spaces on each side of Broadway between Avenue H and Texas Avenue will have to be eliminated to allow Citibuses access to passengers. The city also plans to erect two shelters on each side of Broadway adjacent to the federal building and the County Court-

Cunningham said he anticipated no adverse effect on parking in the area and characterized the situation as nothing un-

"We don't like to inconvenience anyone to provide for a public need," he said, "but this always happens. It's a problem but the transfer point is temporary and off street parking is available.

The city manager termed the possible effects no greater than for any other business. County Judge Rod Shaw had no criticism of the decision, saying less parking would be available but that parking is never guaranteed anyway.

'There are times it's difficult to find a parking place (around the courthouse) but that's a problem anywhere," Shaw commented. "We have such small problems in Lubbock compared to other municipalities (e.g. New York City) we ought to be thankful we live in such a convenient place."

Shaw said when the new county jail is completed the temporary recreational facility for inmates just east of the courthouse on Avenue H will revert to county employee parking, along with another nearby lot. Cunningham emphasized the continued availability of on-and-offstreet parking in the area.

Although all street parking is public and city-controlled, Shaw said he appreciated Cunningham's consultation with him on the matter. He said it was the county's responsibility to cooperate to improve the convenience of Citibus routes. Cunningham maintained many people using the federal building already

Wilson said peak transfer point usage, which sometimes involves up to 100 passengers, is at 7:15 and 9:15 a.m. and at 2:30, 3:30, 4:30 and 5 p.m. The permanent transfer point is still under study by the transit board and staff.

Economic Problems Focus Attention On Future

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — You know things aren't well with the economy when so many people are thinking about the future, a future so ill-defined that you can peddle almost any conceivable type of forecast.

Blame it on the times. Many Americans have had their economic faith shaken, and even Ronald Reagan might have a time restoring it. They think something big is going to happen. They don't know what, but they want to be prepared for

In good times, it has been demonstrated over and over again, Americans are busy with the present, with making money, raising kids, running businesses, enjoying themselves, expressing them-

Some will say that the marketplace is hardly a measure of life's quality, but it is an indicator of sorts. And what it says is that people are postponing purchases, delaying enjoyments until tomorrow, when presumably things will be clearer Ask homebuyers or carbuyers.

Maybe times will be worse. You can have your pick of high-priced newsletters forecasting the advent of terrible times, of food shortages and rioting in the streets, of total economic collapse. They are full of advice on how to stop living: hoard food and gold, and hibernate.

In so acting, they become a forecast or a commentary themselves.

So long as they remain engrossed in the future you can be certain some form of economic distress remains. But when they begin returning to the present, you

City, Tech To Study Sale Of Coliseum

Avalanche-Journal Staff Possible sale of the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum-Auditorium to Texas Tech University will be the subject of negotiations between the city staff and university administrators, Mayor Bill McAlister announced Thursday after a City Council executive session.

"The coliseum-auditorium currently needs extensive remodeling and renovation," McAlister said. "A lot of it would apply to making it more advantageous for the Tech basketball program."

The university could do its own renovation and remodeling and turn the facility into a fieldhouse, benefiting the Tech athletic department, he said.

The sale also would be good for the cibecause the facility is operating at a loss and there is a duplication of services with the Memorial Civic Center, the mayor added.

Any sale would have to include a stipulation that Tech continue to make the facility available to the public, according to a consensus of the council members at the executive session McAlister said He said Tech probably would agree to the stipulation because administrators would want to get as much rental activity as possible

'The situation is similar to University Avenue," McAlister said. "Both bodies

The building is owned by the city, but the land upon which it is situatied belongs to the university. The mayor has long supported the sale of the coliseum to Tech and made it one of his shortrange goals during a council work session last month.

During that January work session, city officials also discussed formation of a citizens' advisory committee, and that 30member panel was selected by the council Thursday to prepare a five-year capital improvements plan for Lubbock.

Each council member and the mayor selected six members to serve with the chairmen of nine citizen advisory boards. McAlister said he would select a committee chairman at the next council meet-

During a public hearing Thursday afternoon concerning uses of about $2.7 million in federal revenue sharing funds, most Lubbockites who addressed the council favored expansion of the Senior Citizen's Center, 2001 19th St., which opened its doors Feb. 2.

The canteen van, which would be used to provide food for persons involved in disasters, is the group's most urgent necessity, Ahrens said.

Bondsmen Face Tougher Policy

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS

Avalanche-Journal Staff Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford warned local bondsmen Thursday they can expect a tougher policy on any future bail bond forfeitures here.

'We want to be fair across the board," Montford told the bondsmen. 'But there will be a general overall tightening of procedures.

"This may be a drastic departure from past procedures," the district attorney added, "but that's the way it's going

Montford's get-tough message on bond forfeitures came during the Thursday afternoon meeting of the Lubbock County Bail Bond Board, during which eight representatives of local bonding companies met with the five-member board for a review of the status of existing bond forfeitures.

Assistant District Attorney Yvonne Faulks told the board 224 felony bond forfeitures and 914 misdemeanor bond forfeitures have been called here since

Mrs. Faulks, chief of the district attorney's civil division, said the prosecutor's office has obtained final judgments on approximately $64,450 in felony bonds within the past week. Unless appealed, she said, those judgments will become final late next month.

As part of its stepped-up effort on bond forfeitures, she added, her officer has filed motions for summary judgments on another 60 cases. Hearings on those cases will be held March 13, Mrs.

The legal push on forfeitures cases is a relatively recent development, however. An earlier investigation on bond for feitures conducted by The Avalanche-Journal revealed a number of problems within the local legal system.

An article published Feb. 15 in The A-J noted the county has collected less than $4,000 on bond forfeitures during the past year. And most of that money came from forfeitures on misdemeanor bonds or cash bonds from the justice of the peace courts

In addition. The A-J found that no forfeiture cases were brought up for summary judgment hearings here during

But the problems with bond forfeitures date back to before Montford's term in office, according to 99th District Court Judge Thomas Clinton. "We never saw any final judgments before John (Montford) came in," Clinton said.

Clinton, a member of the bail bond board, also took issue with some county officials' contentions that the forfeitures should be producing more revenue for the county. "The bail bond was never intended as a means of the county making money," he said

sure that a defendant appears in court, Clinton said

However, Clinton told the bondsmen they could prevent some of their own forfeiture woes by checking carefully on court docket settings and maintaining better communications with their clients' attorneys.

'Don't mickey mouse us," Clinton arned the bail bondsmen.

Montford said his main priority in cases of forfeitures still will be to have the defendant returned for trial. But if a bonding company fails to get its client back into court, it will pay the forfeiture,

The bail bond board also will be taking a closer look at the collateral posted by all bonding companies which now have forfeitures.

Montford requested a list of each bondsmen's forfeitures and that list will be reviewed at the board's March meeting. The list will be examined, he said, to determine whether each bonding company's collateral is sufficient to meet the outstanding obligations.

If the board determines a company does not have adequate collateral, it can consider suspending the bonbondsman's license, Montford said.

the blasts, but two people living near the Alpine Butane Co. were hospitalized with minor burns. A volunteer fireman was taken to a hospital and treated for smoke

The explosions involved at least two and possibly three butane tank trucks parked in the company's lot. A witness said he spotted a leak in one of the trucks moments before the blast at 9:35 p.m.

Authorities evacuated homes and businesses within a 2-mile radius of the explosions and fire near the city's center. Authorities, who lifted the evacuation order about 5 a.m. today, urged residents to use caution in returning to homes and businesses. A considerable amount of butane vapor remained in the immediate

DEAR ABBY

Remembering Names Difficult

names! When introducing friends, I panic and draw a total blank, and just want to crawl into a hole.

Could this be inherited? For years, whenever my closest friend visited me, my father would come to my room and say, 'That girl is here.'

(He couldn't remember her name.) Don't suggest the technique of association. My neighbor, Mrs. Galssey, whose name I associated with "glasseye," I once called "Mrs. False Teeth."

I've even tried making up little rhymes to help me remember, like: 'Maggie, "Maggie, her pants are baggy." Or, "Mary, Mary, her lip is hairy."

Help! It's embarrassing! GRACE IN FLORIDA

DEAR GRACE: Try this: When you are introduced to someone, if you didn't hear his name, ask immediately. Then address the new acquaintance by name immediately after you've met. And keep using his name every time you speak to him. When you depart, use it again.

When you see him again, if you have forgotten the name, don't agonize over it, simply say, "I'm sorry, what is your name?

This failing is not hereditary, it's universal. And the reason one "forgets" a name is usually because he didn't hear it in the first place

DEAR ABBY: I've been happily married for three years to a man who was married before. That marriage lasted for 14 years. The problem concerns his mother, who insists on calling me by his first wife's name. Afterward, she is embarrassed and apologizes. I can understand how this could happen early in our marriage, but, Abby, we've been married for three years, and she's still doing it!

This gives me the feeling that she doesn't really recognize me as her son's wife, or perhaps she wishes he was still married to his first wife. I was told she was very close to Wife No. 1, but hasn't seen her since the divorce.

I'm sure other second wives have had this problem, too. What's a good

One-Dish Meals Provide Quick, Easy Dinner For Hungry Skiiers

NEW YORK (Special) - Apres ski that glorious time when you're just off the slopes, exhilarated from the fresh air and vigorous exercise, ready to sit around a roaring fire and relax those happily tired muscles.

While you're enjoying that delicious feeling, you'll probably want to relish some hearty food. These unique "pies" are filling one-dish meals that can be made in advance and warmed up while you and your friends are thawing out. And their zesty taste comes from a wonderful surprise - there's a Spanish pimiento-stuffed olive in very bite!

For example, this Spanish Skier's Torte is a wonderful combination of rice, pureed tomatoes and cottage cheese packed around pimiento-stuffed olives and sweet — or hot — sausages. It's ideal for a ski weekend because you can bake it on Friday afternoon and serve it up on Saturday night. And it's loaded with good nutrition and great taste!

So is this Deep-Dish "Pizza" Pie. It's a pizza filling in a flaky pie crust and each piping hot bite features the tangy taste of a small Spanish olive. This too can be prepared in advance and friends will love the Spanish approach to an old Italian favorite.

So spice up your ski weekends with some hearty, nutritious and proteinpacked pies made with pimiento-stuffed

SPANISH SKIER'S TORTE (Makes 8 to 10 servings) 4 sweet or hot Italian sausages

- 1/4 cup water 1 medium onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced 1 can (28 oz.) tomatoes in puree 1/3 cup olive brine
- 1 tbsp.dried basil leaves 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups regular long-grain rice, uncooked
- 31/2 cups canned chicken broth,
- (213% oz. cans) 4 eggs
- 1 cup grated Parmesan cheese 1 carton (16 oz.) cottage cheese 1 package (8 oz.) large Spanish
- pimiento-stuffed olives (about 24 olives)
- Parsley and Spanish pimiento-stuffed olives for garnish

In a medium saucepan, simmer sausages and water covered 10 minutes. Pour off liquid and continue to cook sausages, uncovered, over low heat until evenly browned, turning often. Remove sausages and drain on paper towels. Drain off all but about 2 tablespoons fat from saucepan. Add onion and garlic; saute until onion is tender. Stir in tomatoes, brine, basil and pepper. Heat to boiling. Cover and simmer over low heat 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat.

In a large saucepan, combine rice, broth and 1/2 cup of the tomato mixture. Heat to boiling; cover and cook rice over low heat until tender and all the liquid is absorbed. Cool rice slightly. In small bowl, with fork, combine 3 eggs and Parmesan cheese. Stir into rice until well

Grease well a 9x3-inch springform pan. Spread about 2/3 of the rice mixture evenly over bottom and 2 inches up the side of pan, pressing firmly with the back of the fork. The bottom laver should be thicker than the side which should be 4-inch thick.

In medium bowl, combine cottage cheese, mozzarella cheese and remaining egg. Carefully spoon half of cheese mixture into rice shell, spreading to an even layer. Arrange 5 olives in center to form a ring in cheese layer then arrange sausages in a ring around the olives. Arrange remaining olives in a large ring around the sausages. Cover olives and sausages with remaining cheese mixture then carefully cover cheese filling with remaining rice mixture. Cover pan with foil. Bake in 350 F. oven 1 hour. Uncover, bake 10 minutes or until golden. Let stand 30 minutes on wire rack before removing side of pan. Garnish top with parsley and whole olives, if desired. Reheat tomato mixture to serve as a sauce with torte. Cut into wedges to serve

Rejection, Paranoia May Be Motives In Snipings

Avalanche-Journal Staff
Teddy Glyn Floyd's belief he had been rejected by a girl he knew in college four years ago may be the underlying force which led to the four sniping incidents of which he is accused, lawmen said Thursday.

Officials involved in the investigation into the apparent random shootings within the last two weeks also said Floyd displayed signs of paranoia. They said the man told them he began to suspect in the fall of 1976 he was being followed by motorists, often for months at a time.

The belief he was being followed might have prompted Floyd, who reportedly underwent two months of treatment at a Veterans' Administration Hospital in Waco about two years ago and has been

The rifle, as well as a .22-caliber pistol, were confiscated Wednesday night when Floyd was arrested at Carrow's Restaurant after a district attorney's investigator spotted his pickup truck in the restaurant parking lot.

"I saw a face staring at me and the li-cense plate was unbearable," one investigator quoted the suspect as saying during questioning Wednesday night.

Authorities believe that comment refers to the Feb. 12 shooting in the 3100 block of Clovis Road in which 4-year-old Cory Menton of Shallowater and his mother were wounded as she was driving the family car west along the highway.

The child was struck by what police believe was a fragment of a .223-caliber bullet that shattered the car's right front window. The youngster is being treated for the wound at Lubbock General Hospital. His mother, Vanessa, suffered a minor wound to the back of the neck, apparently caused when she was struck by flying glass, detectives said.

Police initially believed the weapon involved was a shotgun, but now say the extremely high-velocity bullet could have easily fragmented when it passed through the window. The fragmented bullet theory would explain why the youngster's father, Judge Menton Jr., was not wounded even though he was sitting in the right front seat, police said.

Floyd faces two counts of attempted murder in connection with the Menton family shooting.

A third attempted murder charge against Floyd accuses him of firing five 223-caliber bullets into Kay Hutcheson's El Camino as she was driving along Clovis Road, about two miles west of Loop

Authorities say that incident also may have been prompted by the alleged sni-per's feelings of rejection stemming from his infatuation with a woman he met while attending Tarrant County Junior College in Fort Worth in 1976. Police speculate Miss Hutcheson may have reminded the alleged gunman of the wom-an who apparently rejected him.

Charges were filed against Floyd in connection with Tuesday's shooting after DPS ballistic tests confirmed the four bullets found in Miss Hutcheson's vehicle were fired from the Ruger Mini-14 semiautomatic rifle found in the floorboard of Floyd's 1980 Ford pickup truck. Floyd purchased the rifle earlier this month at a Lubbock gun shop, authorities said.

The fourth attempted murder charge against Floyd stems from Carlisle resident Pete Trevino's report that a man in an old white Oldsmobile or Chevrolet car fired a pistol at him as he approached Clovis Road on Erskine Street Wednesday morning. Neither Trevino nor his car was hit by the shot, police said.

The Menton family and Trevino told officers they saw a second person in the gunman's vehicle, but police say they believe the man was alone.

"I think I would be confused if someone was shooting at me," Det. Capt. Wayne Love said.

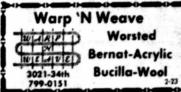

Floyd currently is unemployed but had worked at several nursing homes in Lubbock. The supervisor of one city nursing home said Floyd had been a "fantastic" employee who was "real, real kind to the elderly."

Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack has set bonds of $100,000 on each of the four attempted murder charges, $25,000 on the aggravated assault count and $5,000 on the UCW charge.

The aggravated assault charge was filed in connection with the last sniping incident, which occurred about 3:45 p.m. Wednesday on the Tahoka Traffic Circle. Louise Florence, 51, told police she was driving on the circle when a brown-andtan Ford pickup approached her vehicle and she heard what might have been a gun shot. She was not injured.

Floyd is being held in an isolated hospital ward cell on the first floor of the county jail. Bonds on the six charges against him total $430,000.

Joyce Ann Allen is accused of stabbing Taylor, 33, of 604 Beech Ave., outside the eastside Parkway Motel about 1:15 a.m. Taylor died a short time later at Lubbock General Hospital and Miss Allen was arrested about 30 minutes after the incident.

The Criminal District Attorney's Office has recommended bond be denied for Miss Allen, who remained in the county jail Thursday night

Taylor's girlfriend told police she watched Taylor's former girlfriend pull a knife or a pair of scissors from her purse and stab the victim in the chest during an argument between the two in the motel

The witness said she, Taylor and the former girlfriend had been drinking earlier in the evening and Taylor and the suspect got into an argument in the back seat of the car. The witness said she drove to the suspect's residence, which is at the motel, and that Taylor and the Taylor's girlfriend said the man and woman later left the motel room and were still arguing when the suspect pulled a sharp instrument from her purse and stabbed her former boyfriend. Reports state that while Taylor staggered to the car, an unidentified man ran to the assailant and handed her a gun.

The witness said she then heard what sounded like two gunshots. Police said the injured man managed to walk to the car, open the back door and fall in the seat. He reportedly told his girlfriend he had been hurt and asked her to take him to the hospital.

The driver said the woman ran to the car and fired one more shot. However, reports did not show that Taylor suffered gunshot wound

Taylor's death marks the fourth murder of the year in the city. Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy ruled the death a

Researchers Probe For Clues To Glaucoma

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY Avalanche-Journal Staff

If researchers can find out whether routine actions - such as sleep habits, timing and amount of food or liquid intake have some effect on the level of intraocular (eye) pressure, it may lead to more effective treatment of glaucoma.

That's one of the aspects of eye research that Dr. J. Mark Rowland is studying in a rabbit-filled laboratory at Texas Tech University's Health Sciences Center.

"Just as it has been discovered that high blood pressure can damage vital human organs, it is also known that abnormally high pressure in the eye - intraocular pressure - can destroy delicate structures necessary for normal vision," says Rowland a Fellow of the National Eye Institute. He is studying the matter in collaboration with Dr. David E. Potter in the medical school's pharmacology and therapeutics department.

Glaucoma is an eye disease characterized by increased intraocular pressure which may result in atrophy of the optic nerve and, consequently, blindness.

But before medical scientists can more accurately predict who will develop glaucoma and why, Rowland says more know-ledge is needed about how a healthy eye functions.

Getting accurate information on long-term eye pressure has been a problem, Rowland says, because a tonometer measures pressure for only the moment it is in use. One type of tonome ter is the device often used in routine eye exams - the tool that gives eye patients that "puff"-of-air-into-the-eye sensation.

Rowland maintains that the stress associated with repeated use of such devices - including the anxiety of going to an eye exam appointment - may "distort the normal picture of daily variations in eye pressure.

To solve those problems and provide constant monitoring of the eye pressure, Rowland consulted with Dr. Carter C. Collins at the Smith-Kettlewell Institute of Visual Sciences in San Francisco who has developed highly sophisticated electronic and computer devices for use in vision research.

Together, Collins and Rowland are adapting a remote telemetry device which allows Rowland to take constant eye pressure measurements on the rabbits in his lab

The measurements can be taken on the rabbits while they are asleep, without waking them. Rowland says such constant monitoring will provide him with data on the "peaks and valleys" in eye pressure.

For example, he notes, "If we find out that intraocular pressure is influenced by certain phenomena in everyday life such as sleeping or eating patterns, then that could greatly enhance the therapy of glaucoma.'

Preliminary studies indicate eye pressure in rabbits is lower in the day and higher at night — a situation which may be reversed in humans because, Rowland points out, rabbits are noc-

Among the aspects of eye pressure which Rowland and Potter, an M.D., are studying under the research grant funded by the National Eye Institute, are the effects of various daily lightness and darkness schedules, the effects of certain manufactured drugs and natural body hormones such as adrenalin on eye pressure and the effect manipulation of various nerves has on eye pressure.

Within the next year or two, Rowland says he should have some "pretty good ideas" on the correlation or lack of correlation between ocular pressure and those external stimuli he is

One possible outcome of the study, he notes, could be the discovery that some existing glaucoma drugs work better during the day than at night, or vice versa.

If researchers find out when pressure is normally at its peak, it may aid doctors in telling patients at what particular time of day to take their medication, he says, adding as an example, "It may be that a glaucoma patient is taking one kind of medicine in the morning, when he really needs another kind at.

Trying to locate the source of fluctuations in intraocular pressure and then learning how to control those variations is a prime objective. Rowland says, because knowing the answers to those questions may someday lead to the prevention, or at least better control, of glaucoma.

Advertising Executive Speaks At Tech

Contrary to popular belief, advertising agencies do not set consumer patterns, Henry J. Gerfen, president of the New York advertising firm Matthieu, Gerfen and Bresner, said Thursday during Mass Communications Week at Texas Tech University

"We explore the consumer patterns that exist and try to work our product into them." Gerfen said.

Gerfen, whose advertising agency handles advertising accounts which include Sedgefield Jeans, Hereford Cows, Seneca Apple Juice and Perrier Water. said advertisers should aim for a consistent message about their product through gant restaurants in this country since 1908. When we started our campaign to market the mineral water in 1976, the consumer thought it was a new thing. Our advertising concentrates on its ancient heritage in the limestone springs in France, and now it is widely recognized," he said.

Another advertising truth, according to Gerfen, is "You can't promise one thing and deliver another." When we first attempted to develop the public's interest in Perrier, we tried to bring it in as a soft drink. That was great until consumers tasted it, and it did not have the sweetness associated with soft drinks. That could have hurt more than helped." Gerfin said.

"Now Perrier is basically the 'drink to drink when you're not drinking,' the natural diet drink with no calories and the pure, natural drink without artificial carbonation or ingredients," he said Finally, Gerfen, said that "good competition is good for you, not bad.

He said his firm is somewhat disappointed with the failure of other mineral waters or imported waters to stay in the American market.

"If they had tried to sell their own merits, they would still be here and it would be good competition," Gerfen said

Gerfen praised the advertising program he toured at Texas Tech.

"Most of the students I visited with here know more about advertising than most applicants I interview," Gerfen said. "I'm not sure they don't know more than some of my account executives. It is really a terrific program."

Vickie Daniel Appears At Child Custody Trial

LIBERTY (AP) - Vickie Daniel, accused of murdering her husband, former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., appeared in court today as a custody battle over her two children got under way.

Mrs. Daniel's surprise appearance was followed by an announcement from attorneys for Daniel's sister, Jean Daniel Murph, that Vickie Daniel's first husband will be called to the stand in the

The Texas Supreme Court Wednesday, rejected a plea by Haynes that the custody hearing be moved from Liberty because Mrs. Daniel no longer lived there.

Mrs. Murph, executor of her brother's estate, claims Mrs. Daniel is an unfit mother because of psychiatric problems and an uncertain future.

Mrs. Daniel, 33, is charged with the Jan. 19 shooting death of her husband. She has admitted the shooting, but claimed it was self defense.

Haynes has asked State District Judge W.G. "Dub" Woods to postpone the civil custody case until Mrs. Daniel's murder trial is over. He also filed a motion Wednesday to have the report of a psychiatrist's examination of Mrs. Daniel permanently sealed.

Gordon McLendon, the man credited with starting the Top 40 format in radio, was inducted into Mass Communications Hall of Fame at a noon luncheon Thurs-

Inflation Bleeds Foundations

By JOHN CUNNIFF
WASHINGTON (AP) — Because of inflation and the law of the land, some of those wealthy charitable foundations established in the names of Rockefeller, Ford and 24,000 others are in danger of bleeding to death

If the law isn't changed, and if double-digit inflation persists, such institu-tions "will be required to spend them-selves out of existence," says Eugene Struckhoff, president of the Council on Foundations

They might not succumb immediate-They might not succume unmediately, but unless one or both factors are changed, he says, their steady decline as a factor in health, housing, education, the arts and other philanthropic areas is almost inevitable.

With rare exceptions, nobody seeks this liquidation, including the Congress that passed the troublesome law. No matter, the law exists, and it must be recognized. It is as real and onerous as

While the foundations can do little about the latter, they feel they can change the law. Bills seeking a change already have been introduced.

We feel we are making our case," said Struckhoff.

The foundations' plight arises from a provision that requires tax-free foundations to distribute each year the larger of (1) 5 percent of investment assets or (2) actual, realized, current income.

Foundation executives don't quibble with the first provision. They concede they exist to distribute money, and that they must do so to earn their tax-free sta-

Until recent years they weren't uneasy either about the second part — that requiring distribution of actual, realized, current income if it exceeded 5 percent of assets. Then came double-digit infla-

Because of inflation and accompany-ing high interest rates, the entire philosophy of investing has changed. Assets invested in stocks have yielded little. Investments in high-yield debt securities

It produces this situation:

Seeking to to defend itself against infiation — that is, to preserve its endowment and grant-making ability against shrinking buying power — a foundation might be inclined to invest in debt securities at 15 percent rather than in stocks. Common sense dictates such a move.

To do so, however, would bring a flood of "actually realized current in-come," all of which would have to be distributed. It couldn't retain any of the income as security against erosion of assets by inflation.

The alternative is to remain in a welldiversified stock portfolio and hope to build assets via capital gains (non-realized income). But blue chip stocks, as measured by the Dow Jones industrial average, are about where they were 15 years ago. Appreciation has been negligi-

Why, you ask, don't foundations forgo blue chips and hitch a ride on high flyers? Because to do so may be deemed a violation of the prudent man principle that requires guardians of trusts to invest

It creates a predicament, says Charles U. Daly, president of the Joyce Foundation. He contends that "independent foundations are in a trap."

He explains: "Heeding the prudent man rule, directors cannot preserve the long-term purchasing power or grant-making capacity of a foundation by tak-ing imprudent risks to pursue substantial capital gains in weak markets." Yet, Daly continues, "If these risks are not tak-en, regulation and inflation bleed away the ability to help."

The Foundation Center, which among other things studies foundation tax returns, claims the collective real value of foundation assets diminished from $18.6 billion in 1965 to $16.8 billion in 1977. In the next two years, Struckhoff says, another 11.6 percent was lost.

Why should the public worry? Of each charity dollar, the independent foundations account for only 5.2 cents. Their distributions in a year equal only a fraction of 1 percent of Gross National Prod-

"Why worry?" Struckhoff repeats. Because we are an alternative to government. We are the research and development money of the private sector. We are the 'change' money, the test money of the private sector. We can contribute to religions while government cannot."

In a published commentary, the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation adds historical reasons. "It was foundations that funded the development of both an effective yellow fever vaccine and polio vaccine," it observes. Foundations, it claims, made possible new cereal seeds that may have postponed or even ended the threat of a worldwide famine.

OPEC Production Of Oil Declines

NEW YORK (AP) — Daily oil production by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries dropped to an eight-year low of 26.8 million barrels in 1980, according to a trade publication.

The war between Iran and Iraq was a major factor in the 4 million-barrel-a-day dropoff, Petroleum Intelligence Weekly

The dropoff came despite a decision by Saudi Arabia to boost oil production by some 800,000 barrels a day to try to make up for the Iran-Iraq war losses.

Japanese Culture Seen As Trade Barrier

NEW YORK (UPI) - The Japanese cuture itself is the greatest non-tariff barrier for Americans trying to crack the Japanese market, says former U.S. Ambassador to Japan Robert S. Ingersoll.

Ingereoll is a member of a group that has identified sources of friction that interfere with economic relations between the two countries, which together account for 35 percent of the world's output and engage in almost 20 percent of the world's trade.

He stressed the need of voluntary effort on the part of Japanese purchasing agents, trading companies and consumers. He observed in an interview that the industrial structure of Japan is very tightly knit and closely organized.

Ingersoll, chairman of the Japan Society, a New York-based non-profit organization for promoting understanding between the two countries, said recent relaxation by Japan of tariffs on automobile imports and stepped-up efforts to buy automobile parts in the United States and Europe "have all come through the pressures from outside, and not through voluntary efforts." "They (the Japanese) ought to take some steps by themselves, rather than always being pressured into it under a threat of protectionism. Ingersoll has been American chairman of the U.S. Japan Economic Relations Group, an economic task force ap-

Iomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) One of the reasons you'll win the respect and admiration of your peers to morrow is that your behavior will be free of guile and pretense.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A difficult situation may arise tomorrow which could stymie your friends, but not you. The practical efficient manner with which you resolve it wins their respect.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The concerns of those you love will be very important to you tomorrow. You'll unselfishly put their needs above your own in matters where you have to make a choice.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're a good listener tomorrow. This asset could prove very beneficial when involved in discussions with persons whose judgment you re-

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Take advantage of any opportunities tomorrow to help persons who have been of assistance to you. Your good deeds may have a surprise

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You don't need a lot of people around you tomorrow in order to feel happy. Just you and your special some will be a large-enough crowd.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Working on creative projects tomorrow will give you a sense of fulfullment. It could be your favorite hobby, or something you do around home to add beauty and warmth.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In order to soothe your restless spirit tomorrow, make social arrangements with friends whose compa ny you truly enjoy. Don't invite business types.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you're involved in a situation that could add to your income or resources, it's best to follow through on it tomorrow, rather than postpone action.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have the ability tomorrow to bring the sunshine with you. Friends will recognize this when they notice how dull the gathering was before you made the scene.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Persons fond of you are likely to make an extra effort tomorrow to show you how much they care. You could receive kind words, and material favors as well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Romantically, tomorrow should be a lucky day for unattached Aquarians. Look your best for the party this evening. You could meet someone new and exciting.

February 28, 1961 Your possibilities for fulfilling a secret goal you've had for some time are very good this coming year. Dream on, but also take practical steps to make it a reality.

Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth

Retirement Deregulation Seen

NEW YORK (AP) - A "deregulation of retirement" may loom in the near future for this country, says an educator who has written the first American history of the subject.

"People come up to me and say, 'Oh, I didn't know retirement had a history,' says William Graebner. "They believe it's a given, that it always existed. They don't see it as a concept with a history in politics and economics.

An associate professor of history at the State University of New York at Fredonia. Graebner has written a book, "A History of Retirement." that traces the economic, political and social pressures behind retirement as an institution.

And for the first time, he says, contrary pressures are being exerted on the concept of retirement.

"This is a very divided period," he says. "A lot of businesses want mandatory retirement to remain for old-fashioned reasons. For instance, it leads to efficiency in the work force by removing the older, slower workers.

"But there is a growing element in business and corporations that believe forced retirement is an inefficient system because it categorizes people on their age, not their ability.

Another motivating factor is the economics of the nation's pension systems, Graebner says.

Yale University Press, Graebner examines the rise of the concept of retirement in the late 19th century. In 1860, for instance, only judges in some states were forced to retire. Twenty years earlier, about 70 percent of the white males over 65 were gainfully employed, Graebner

Thus, he notes, retirement is a relatively young institution.

It was not until the rise of corporate capitalism near the turn of the century that things changed. Then, Graebner writes, "for business, retirement meant reduced unemployment, lower rates of turnover, a younger, more efficient and more conservative work force; for labor, it was in part a way of transferring work from one generation to another in industries with a surplus of workers."

Retirement brought problems, though. The need for pensions evolved as better health care lengthened the average lifespan. Service-related military pensions were first granted in this country in 1861, while private retirement

Study Finds Energy Use Can Be Reduced

NEW YORK (UPI) - Energy consumption in a new home can be cut 50 percent and repay the owner for installing fuel-saving measures within five to nine years, a government-sponsored

"Given a payback period this short, energy conservation makes very good ' said Ralph Johnson, president of the NAHB Research Foundation, a subsidiary of the National Association of Home Builders, which did the research for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"Off-the-shelf products and materials are readily available for this purpose Their costs are rising, of course. But the cost of energy is rising even faster," Johnson said.

In the first phase of a two-part "Energy Efficient Resident Research and Demonstration Program," two essentially identical, single-story, three-bedroom homes were constructed side by side in Mount Airy, Md. One incorporated offthe-shelf energy-efficient materials, the other conventional energy systems

Two adults and two young children lived in each for a year. They kept the thermostat at 70 in winter and 78 in summer when air conditioning was used. Instruments measured the smallest differences in energy use.

The first home, called EER-1, included 70 energy-saving measures, installed at a cost of $5,382. Resultant energy savings would repay the owner in about nine years, according to the NAHB.

If some less effective measures were not included in the home, such as 'air lock' vestibules and a kitchen-family retreat cost-effective only in even of a power failure, installation would have been reduced to $2,927 with a payback period of 5.2 years.

EER-1 used 49 percent less energy than the comparison house over the oneyear period, with savings of $545 at current utility rates.

Some findings of the study are of interest to owners of existing homes. The most effective conservation measure in EER-1, for instance, proved to be a simple reduction in hot water temperature to 120 degrees from the 160 degrees maintained in the other home. This saved about 50 percent in heating costs. accounting for 28 percent of the total savings in the study

A heat pump for heating and cooling accounted for 22 percent of the total savings picture. In the conventional home, an electric furnace and air conditioning

Energy-saving appliances were deemed useful, producing 2 percent of the total savings

Exposure and the type of window glass also played a large role in contain-

Showing Of Porno Film Sparks Probe

MIAMI (AP) - An elementary school principal is under investigation by Dade County school officials for showing a "pornographic" film to school staff members in his office, officials say.

Frank DeLaurier, principal of Devon Aire Elementary, said one of his aides found the unlabeled video tape on the grounds of the school.

"Five minutes of it were viewed" in his office before the tape was destroyed, DeLaurier said

"It's a security investigation I was interviewed and asked not to discuss it prior to the outcome of the investigation. If it's going to come out bad, it's going to come out bad. But I'm not going to say anything more," DeLaurier said.

'Obese' Inmate Held For Smuggling Dope

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A "real fat" prisoner has been booked on a charge of possession of LSD after he allegedly smuggled about 1,000 doses of the drug into Jefferson Parish Prison by concealing them in the creases of fat around his belly, authorities said. Seven inmates took doses of the hallucinogen, but deputies said this week it was unclear whether they took it voluntarily or were given doses in their food without their knowledge.

"I don't know whether we will see the 'deregulation of retirement' during the Reagan administration, but I expect so. Some people, for instance, want the Social Security eligibility age raised to 68."

In his book, which was published by plans date from 1875.

Yet, by 1932, only 15 percent of the

ing energy costs. Southern exposure was judged best for windows because of the solar heat gained during the day. Heat loss at night indicated the need for insulated draperies or shutters. Double glazed glass - it should be triple in cold climates - was found to reduce energy bills especially if used with a large roof overhand or other shading > from summer sun. The EER-1 home also demonstrated the need for careful caulking and sealing of all holes and joints.

Fluorescent lights were found to be four times as efficient as incandescents.

The ideal shape for an energy-conscious home was determined to be a rectangular, one-story design with a small exterior surface. Surfaces could be reduced by lowering ceiling heights, which accounted for a 7 percent savings in energy costs, according to findings.

One definite energy loser was the fireplace. Even with glass doors and a tight fitting damper, it contributed nothing to the savings plan. Without these features, it proved to be an energy waster.

EER-2 - a bi-level home to be completed this summer in the second phase of the program - will use and test energy-saving techniques expected to be common in the coming decade, including an advanced form of passive solar heating, a rock bin to store surplus heat, a roof shaft for natural summer ventilation, and an earth-source heat pump to obtain heating and cooling through a closed loop inserted in a well.

American work force was even potentially covered by those plans, Graebner says, and only 5 percent was receiving bene-

Police pensions were common in municipalities by 1900 and teachers' by 1920 - the same year that the Civil Service Retirement Act was passed, Graebner Railroad workers secured a federal ension in 1935, the year that Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Social Security Act.

Graebner notes that FDR's aides were worried about the Social Security Act. They were concerned that Social Security expenditures might pass $1 billion

Its shortfall in 1976 was more than five times that figure as "corporations, labor unions and insurance companies ... keting retirement as a consumable commodity" in the post-World War II years, Graebner says.

The 37-year-old native of Chicago whose first book, on coal mine safety, won the Frederick Jackson Turner Prize in 1975 - doesn't believe the concept of retirement can be easily changed.

"People are so conditioned to wanting to retire," he says, "especially to those who remember the Depression.'

Graebner says that many popular publications reinforce the conception of retirement, "conjuring up this very pleasant vision, which may or may not be

"It will take some time to change that notion. People are going to want to retire for awhile.

Speaker Candidate Cites 'Sour Grapes'

AUSTIN (AP) - Conservative Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, says sour grapes explain the criticism he has received for the blitz that put him ahead in the 1983 House speaker's race.

His critics wish they were in his frontrunner's shoes, Lewis said Thursday.

The scramble started Monday when Speaker Bill Clayton announced he would retire from the Legislature after this term. Until then, he had spoken of seeking a fifth term as speaker in 1983.

More than half a dozen representatives are in the race, thinking about it or being touted by colleagues. Lewis, chairman of the House Intergovernmental Affairs Committee, said Thursday he has pledges of support from over 80 House members in the speaker's race and added, "To me, it is over."

The 150 House members, by majority vote, elect the speaker, whose immense power derives from his ability to steer legislation to passage or certain defeat.

Lewis, D-Fort Worth, was nailing down pledges when Clayton made his announcement. He said his blitz for support is about finished Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City, chair-

State Senate Passes Bill Aimed At Physicians Who Push Drugs

AUSTIN (AP) - The Senate has approved a "war on drugs" bill calling for swift punishment of doctors and other medical professionals who push pills ille-

The bill would automatically suspend a health professional's license upon conviction of a drug-related felony and would automatically revoke the professional's license when all appeals have been exhausted.

Appeals Court Upholds Ruling On Alien Law

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A federal appeals court has granted a "summary affirmance," upholding a ruling that a Texas law excluding alien children from public schools was unconstitutional.

Assistant Texas Attorney General Susan Dasher said the state will appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court. Texas had already asked the Supreme Court to hear a similar case involving the enrollment of illegal aliens in the Tyler school district

The decision by the 5th U.S. Circuit but was not issued publicly. It was simply one line added to the court record. granting a government motion.

The motion by the U.S. Department of Justice's said that a similar case already had been decided by the 5th Circuit and there was no point in arguing this one further.

The three-judge appeals court panel

At issue was a ruling in U.S. District Court in Houston, saying the Texas law excluding "undocumented alien children" from public schools violated their constitutional right of equal protection under law.

The doctrine of equal protection applies to everyone under a court's jurisdiction, regardless of whether they be citizen or alien, the court said.

Texas argued that forcing it to admit all alien children would overcrowd schools, especially in border towns, force up school costs and decrease the quality

However, the federal court said Texas children had no right to a certain level of educational quality which would justify excluding alien children from the

He also said Texas could not cite the extra cost as a factor

Texas argued that the decision would add 110,000 alien children to the public schools. The judge said he felt that 20,-000, the figure cited by the department of Justice, was more believable

Ex-Chief Urges Budget Support

DALLAS (UPI) - Former President Gerald Ford says there is no way to gloss over the fact that America is in for a rough number years until it straightens out its economic problems, and advises there is no way to avoid even more belt tightening

Speaking at the Society of Petroleum Engineers meeting Thursday, Ford urged the public to support President Reagan's proposed budget cuts and to demand their congressmen go along.

"Don't write your Congressman and tell him you support the overall plan, but that funds should not be cut from this or that program," Ford said. "We, my friends, are in a very tough spot and it requires each and every one of us to sacrifice, to tighten our belt

"Reagan inherited the most precarious, unstable economic situation since the Depression days of the '30s, and if we don't do something to resolve the problems, the results could be worse than the

The radio commercials that began with Chiles saying, "I'm Eddie Chiles, chief executive officer of the Western Co. of North America, and I'm mad," will be replaced next week with the millionaire saying he is glad about the way America is heading under President Reagan.

"You're not still mad are you, Eddie Chiles?" the spots begin.

"Heck no. I'm glad," drawls Chiles, who procedes to tell listeners he is "excited about the new direction our country is taking.

"Finally our leaders have their priorities straight," says Chiles, who previously blasted the "liberals and socialists" for destroying all that is good in America

"This nation will stand tall again" and although it won't be easy and will take some time, "by pulling together we can do it," Chiles says in the commercials, which will be aired by about 500 stations in 14 states.

The new attitude does not mean Chiles has given up his criticism of big government. He once said he wanted the federal government to do only three things: "defend our shores, deliver our mail and leave us the hell alone.

He is a great defender of the free enterprise system.

'We're not actually giving up the 'I'm mad' thing," Frank Godfrey said. "If we need it again we can always come back to

The new campaign will not be devoted entirely to the "I'm Glad" theme, but that series will begin next week or the following Monday, Godfrey said.

And MYRON KANDEL

How's this for a corporate dilemma? You're one of the country's largest companies and the exterior walls of your 60story headquarters building in New York City are literally crumbling away. Millions of dollars in repairs are needed and some people would like to move to a more fashionable midtown location or out to the suburbs. But the structure is one of the world's most famous buildings and, besides, it bears the company's name. What do you do?

That was just the problem faced by F. W. Woolworth Co. half a dozen years ago. Its historic building — the world's tallest when it was built in 1913 - was losing parts of its terra cotta facade and Gothicstyle ornamentation due to the ravages of man-made pollution, as well as the natural elements of wind and rain. In addition, many of its 3,000 windows needed replacing.

The company carefully considered the alternatives, called in a team of architects and engineers to conduct a study and then decided to stay where it was, across from City Hall Park, and give the Woolworth Building a thorough overhaul. The project is entering its final stage and the total price tag is being put at $19 million

"That's money well spent," says John L. Sullivan, Woolworth's senior executive vice president. "We consider New York the major headquarters for merchandising. This is where the action is. And we have a terrific location, near all transportation and just a stone's throw from the financial and banking centers of Wall Street."

"Besides," he added, "it's a one-of-akind building with high visibility. We consider it part of the heritage of the company, as well as of the city - just as F. W. Woolworth's original variety store idea is part of Americana."

The rehabilitation cost - $16 million of which is going to refurbish the facade stone by stone and most of the rest for windows - is 40 percent more than the $13.5 million total original cost of the building. The structure was entirely paid founder of the five-and-dime-store chain. In these days of soaring mortgage rates and highly leveraged construction projects, that itself is a remarkable part of the building's history.

Despite the heavy outlays for restoring the structure, some benefits already have resulted from the installation of the new double-glazed aluminum-framed windows. Fuel costs for heating and airconditioning the building have been cut by about 20 percent, according to Philip Ridgeway, Woolworth's vice president in charge of construction. Street noises have also been muffled.

The aesthetic benefits are even more obvious. Most of the scaffolding that surrounded the building's tower - which was modeled after the Victoria Tower of the Houses of Parliament in London in recent years has now been removed. And long gone is the netting that was needed to keep pieces of its turrets and gargoyles from falling to the street.

Befitting his humble origins and the original price level of his stores, Woolworth was known as a tight-fisted man when it came to money. He squeezed the nickels and dimes spent on the project. But when it came to both the lobby of the building and his own 24th-floor office, he threw parsimony to the winds.

The three-story entrance arcade is lined in marble, decorated in gold leaf and has a brightly colored mosaic ceiling and huge frescoes representing "commerce" and "labor." The vaulted ceiling and the indirect lighting give the lobby a religious appearance and, indeed, shortly after it was built, a noted clergyman of the day dubbed it the "cathedral of commerce.

Woolworth's own office was decidedly secular, however. It was unabashedly modeled after the Empire Room in Napoleon's palace at Compiegne and furnished and decorated even more lavishly, all of which he described in great detail in a letter to his stores in 1914.

All this grandeur proved too rich for the tastes of more recent Woolworth chief executives, and they moved the furniture into a separate museumlike set-

"People have a hard time accepting that humor existed in Vietnam," Foster said. The cartoons, he said, use humor as bait - a cushion to deal with what it was over there.

Foster, an intense man who mixes a sense of humor with serious convictions about the problems resulting from the Vietnam War and the difficulties of its almost 3 million veterans, said Americans have "got to look at the wound," and the book is "a vehicle to draw the country's

Two-thirds of the proceeds from the book, which Foster published at his own expense after selling his house, are going to Vietnam veterans' groups, who have responded strongly to the volume.

It took Foster himself eight years after he returned from Vietnam to resolve what he said was the "alienation, anger and survivor guilt" that afflicted him.

Foster said he plans to continue promoting "The Vietnam Funny Book" until he sees some change in the country's attitude toward Vietnam vets, even though he said he would rather get back to painting.

The reason, he said, is that the Vietnam cartoons give him "an opportunity to effect social change, and that's the bottom line of art anyway.

Auctioneer's Delivery Important

By LINDA ST. THOMAS

hsonian News Service Mun'a, dol'ha two, dol'ha ree, and a four, four, four, savin, eight'a, nine. Sold.

It may be easy to recognize the tobacco auctioneer's chant; the problem is figuring out exactly what it all means.

A literal translation of the above would go like this - "One, dollar two, dollar, three, four, seven, eight, nine. Sold (to) American (Tobacco Co.)." Yet getting the message across is only half

Wheelchair Bandit Held

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) - Police did not take long to catch the wheelchair bandit who rolled off with $900 he claims his bank owed him.

James E. Blair, 32, was apprehended less than 50 yards from a Bank of America branch robbed last week. Police said the paraplegic told them he took the money because he was owed $920 in in-

They said he rolled his wheelchair into the bank shortly before closing time and waited his turn in line. When he got to the window, police said, he demanded $900 immediately.

"Put the money in a bag or you're in big trouble. I'm not kidding," a teller was told. Money in hand, Blair wheeled out of the bank. Police caught up with him less than 50 yards away. Bank of America spokesman Bill Brannigan confirmed that Blair had an account at the branch office, but would not say whether any interest was due Prosecutor Richard Beard said he still considered it a robbery. The suspect, Beard said, must have known the money the teller was giving him wasn't an interest payment.

Blair was arraigned on bank robbery charges this week and jailed in a special cell at the Santa Clara County Jail in lieu of $150,000 bail.

'MAKING LOVE'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Michael Ontkean, Kate Jackson and Harry Hamlin star in "Making Love" for 20th Century-Fox. It concerns a young professional couple whose marriage is jeopardized when the husband explores his homosexual attraction for another man.

Whether he's selling dishes or hogs, any good auctioneer is doing several things at once. He's announcing bids, listening for the next highest offer, sometimes watching for non-verbal signals and constantly assessing the mood of the

The auctioneer's delivery, for example, is nearly as important as the content of his sales pitch. The tobacco auctioneer's spiel is fired off at a pace that is at least 10 times as fast as the average conversational speech. Besides moving along the day's sales, this speed helps create a bit of marketing excitement. General auctioneer Victor Richardson is said to have set a record in New York with his chant of 888 words per minute. The average bid-caller whizzes along at about 340 words per minute.)

Today, just about everything can be and is sold at auction: personal property, industrial and farm machinery, horses, tobacco, fine art, new and used cars, livestock and commerical and industrial real estate. In fact, whether held in country barns or the rarefied atmosphere of in ternational auction houses, bidding has become big business - so that some retail antique dealers now feel threatened by the ever-increasing popularity of auction sales.

Whatever their product, many professional auctioneers spend years practicing. a sales pitch, often acting as an apprentice or helper with an established auctioneer before beginning their own careers. One such self-made man is Edward "Ned" Murrow, 62, of Shepardstown. W.Va., who became a livestock auctioneer "late in life," at the age of 37, after years of raising cattle.

"I remember spending about six months recording my own voice and playing it back until I got the sounds I wanted." Murrow said. "I had been to auctions all my life but I had never done one myself.'

When he started, there were only three people working a huge two-county region of West Virginia. Like other auctioneers, Murrow had one specialty - livestock - but later branched out to sell real estate, furniture, horses, farm equipment and antique cars.

"I can sell anything," Murrow says, 'just give me the items, a platform, a microphone and a good crowd and I'll guarantee you some fast action. Once I sold a cemetery already full, for about $100."

Murrow was one of the auctioneers at the Smithsonian's 1980 Festival of Amerpitchmen, street criers and auctioneers recently demonstrated their considerable verbal skills and also shared trade secrets with Festival audiences.

The best-kept secret, it seems, is that the auctioneer doesn't always know what he is saying. His chant, or roll, as it's called in the business, consists of the prices or bids mixed in with filler words, okes and a few asides to the audience. The filler phrases, such as "will you give" or "do you want them at," as well as price series, become so routine that the auctioneer is not consciously aware of what he's saying at any given moment.

"The chant is our basic tool of the trade," says Buford Evans, president and founder of the Nashville Auction School and an old bid-caller himself. "Once you get the number brackets down pat, then you worry about increasing your speed and chopping up the filler words. Unfortunately, after just a few weeks of practice, a good auctioneer learns to butcher the English language.'

There are as many different chanting techniques as there are auctioneers. Some are musical and others sound like machines." Evans says. No chant is exactly the same as another, even when delivered by the same auctioneer, because he's always changing his tempo, volume, inflection and word combinations to suit the occasion.

What's not a secret about the profession is that it requires non-stop talking. While the average auctioneer's time on the plaftorm will be about two hours, some auctions may take up to 12 hours a herculean task for most vocal cords. To prevent hoarseness or laryngitis, many auctioneers rely on breathing exercises, use a microphone, sip lukewarm water while working (cold water makes the voice raspy), suck on lozenges, avoid the wind and wear scarves on cold days.

Most professional auctioneers care for their voices the same way singers do, by learning to talk "from down here," Evans says. Using diaphragm muscles helps avoid straining the delicate vocal cords. And like a good singer, Evans and other auctioneers practice this breathing until it becomes natural.

But nowadays, it takes more than ican Folklife in Washington, D.C., where strong vocal cords and an entertaining chant to make a successful auctioneer. He needs to know about fees and commissions, state license laws, advertising, sales contracts, catalogs or circulars, signs, setting up for a sale and, most important, the value of items he sells.

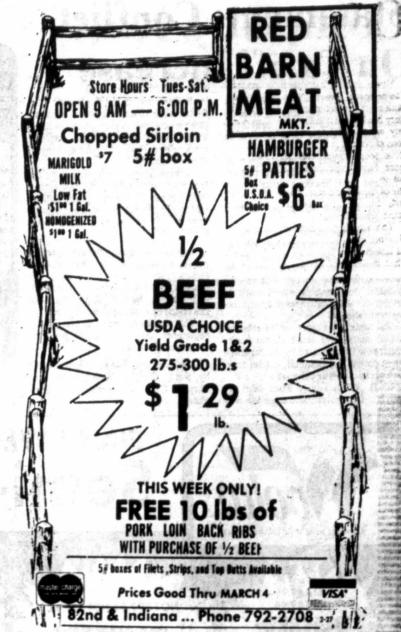

In addition, many auctioneers are specialists in one or more fields - the sale of property, fine arts or livestock. The field of tobacco auctioneers, however, is unique in that its practitioners only sell tobacco. They must have a full knowledge of the product and, because they work exclusively with professional buyers, must be on the alert.

"It's a very demanding job, both physically and mentally," Buford Evans says. "These auctioneers walk up and down the aisles continuously, calling prices and recognizing bids as they go along, sometimes more than $2,000 worth of tobacco in 60 seconds. It's nonstop activity.

Whatever the specialty, every auctioneer knows how to take bids. At today's country auctions and estate sales, people usually communicate their bid to the auctioneer by voice or by raising numbered cards. The auctioneer recognizes the highest bidder and closes the sale either by announcing the buyer's name or number or by describing the buyer -'sold to the lady in the hat

Taking non-verbal signal bids, the old wink-of-an-eye, tug-on-the-ear routine, is another matter. Many auctioneers, especially in the fine arts field, where buyers wish to remain anonymous, can recall a mix-up of complex bidding signals.

One of the most famous occured in London in the mid-1960s when a wellknown collector bid on a painting in accordance with his pre-auction agreement. The agreement was given to the auctioneer like this ... "when he is sitting down, he is bidding. If he bids openly, he is also bidding. When he stands up, he has stopped bidding. If he sits down again, he is not bidding unless he raises his finger. Having raised his finger, he is bidding, until he stands up again." Understandably, the auctioneer lost track of those signals somewhere along the line, and the painting went to the second-high-

Statements Conflict On Tariff Increase

DETROIT (UPI) - A Ford Motor Co. marketing analyst says there is evidence domestic automakers are benefitting from last year's huge tariff increase on imported trucks.

That contradicts statements from Japanese automakers who are fighting the tariff and say it has done virtually nothing but increase prices.

There is much self-interest in both positions.

The Japanese want to continue to export trucks at the comparatively low tariff levels they enjoyed for years. Ford is asking for temporary restrictions on Japanese automotive imports and seeking evidence that controls would work to protect domestic automakers by enhancing their sales

The argument rages over the relatively new market for small pickup trucks which now is dominated by the Japanese but soon will see U.S.-built entries from each of the domestic automakers.

L. R. Windecker, a Ford sales researcher and analyst, said after the new tariff was enacted last September, "Industry truck volumes followed the same pattern and the import share declined. That is clear indication that domestic truck sales did benefit from the change," Windecker said.

In announcing a lawsuit before the U.S. Court of International Trade against the tariff hike, Toyota's top U.S. Official said the tariff "has provided virtually no benefits for the domestic truck indus-

Toyota and other Japanese automakers for nearly a decade imported small pickup trucks without cargo bxes. The box was added to the cab-chassis unit after it reached the U.S., and customs duties on the cab-chassis were 4 percent.

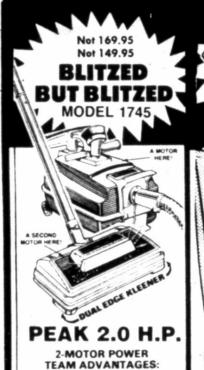

That was increased to 25 percent last September, requiring sizable price increases on those units.

The Japanese-built units also are sold by Ford, General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. under their own nameplates.

To Gain

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices gained more ground today as the market continued its weeklong rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 30.72 in the past four sessions, added another 3.84 to 970.65 by noontime.

Gainers outnumbered losers by close to a 2-1 margin in the midday tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The market's sharp rise since the beginning of the week has been attributed to no single news development.

Analysts say investors, especially investing institutions, have apparently grown more optimistic as they study President Reagan's economic program, announced on Feb. 18.

Today the government reported that the index of leading economic indicators declined in January for the second month in a row.

However, the news was seen by some observers as positive in that it suggested an easing of upward pressure on inflation and interest Eastman Kodak led the active list, up 11/2 at 793/4. A 750,000-share block traded at 801/2.

MGIC Investment, which raised its dividend, gained ¼ to

The NYSE's composite index rose .29 to 74.68. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .52 at 336.83.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 25.45 million shares at noontime, against 25.94 million at the same point Thursday.

day's closing rate of $2.2282.

The pound's decline has been traced to expectations that the Bank of England would cut the minimum lending rate, at which commercial banks make loans, from its currrent 14 percent level.

Such a reduction, expected March 10, would erode the pound's investment appeal, dealers say.

Keesee Defines Two Programs

general public is being confused with a proposal to create a Lubbock County force of volunteer deputies, Sheriff D. L. "Sonny" Keesee said

In a 10:30 a.m. news conference, Keesee said his office has been flooded with more than 500 telephone calls and visits because the two programs have been confused.

"The sheriffs' association drive has nothing to do with the volunteer deputy program," he said. He said the sheriffs' group sent 25,000 letters to Lubbock County alone. The letter asks a $20 one-year membership fee in return for a magazine subscription and automobile decals. Keesee noted that the volunteer deputy program will be considered by county commissioners next week. It would authorize Keesee to put 25 unpaid volunteers on his staff, and it would require the volunteers to undergo 75 hours of law enforcement training and provide their own equipment. A number of applications had been received before the sheriffs' association letters began arriving in the county, the sheriff said.

CAB Panel's Action Boosts Bid By TIA

HOUSTON (UPI) — A unit of the Civil Aeronautics Board has given Texas International Airlines an important boost in its effort to buy controlling interest in Continental Airlines and block Continental's proposed merger with Western Air Lines. TIA, a Houston-based regional carrier serving 14 Southwestern states and Mexico, wants to pursue its own combination with Los Angeles-based Continental, the nation's 10th largest airline.

The decision Thursday by the Bureau of Compliance and Consum-er Protection of the CAB — recommending CAB approval of a trust to vote TIA's Continental stock against the Continental-Western merger - prompted one airline analyst to say TIA now has a "better than even chance" to win the fight for Continental.

TIA announced Feb. 13 it had bought 9.5 percent of Continental stock and was ready to buy more. Last Monday, TIA announced it would try to buy up to 49 percent of Continental, a percentage observers said was adequate to block the Western merger if the CAB allowed TIA to vote its holdings against. On Thursday, the CAB Bureau of Compliance and Consumer Protection said TIA's unprecedented voting trust proposal "represents an acceptable approach to the handling of this particular hostile takeover attempt." "I think it's very significant," said an analyst, who declined to be named. "It doesn't bind the CAB in any way, but preliminary decisions work within CAB policy and should be working with the same sorts of guidelines the board will be working with.

"I would give TIA a better than even chance."

LA Lawyer Named Demo Party Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) - Los Angeles lawyer Charles T. Manatt took over as Democratic national chairman today, pledging to bring the party back "to its senses" and overcome Democrats' embarrassing 1980 election losses. New York committeeman Joseph Crangle, the only other remaining contender for the job, withdrew on the eve of the vote to give Manatt election by acclamation in a show of party unity. Manatt, chosen at the first post-election meeting of the Democratic National Committee, warned that Democrats must struggle to overcome last year's Republican gains that saw Ronald Reagan elected as president and a GOP takeover of the Senate.

We have been out-conceptualized, out-organized, out-televised, out-coordinated, out-financed and out-worked,

"So what are we going to do?" Manatt asked. "We are going to bring the greatest party in the history of the country to its sense recapture the initiative in ideas and organization and planning.

"We are going to set aside ego, turf and private personal demands that divide us from our common grounds and common dedication,

Three Die In Police Chase

AMARILLO (AP) - A high speed chase ended in death for a woman, her young daughter and the driver of a stolen car that raced through a red light at an Amarillo intersection and slammed three cars. Jeanie Morris, 32, of Amarillo and her daughter Teresa, 4, were pronounced dead at the scene Thursday. Both had been thrown from a car hit broadside by a stolen vehicle driven by Kennard Harris of Palestine, said police spokesman Stan Kruljack.

Harris died en route to a Amarillo hospital, Kruljack said. The chase began when officers spotted a Thunderbird which had been reported stolen earlier Thursday.

Kruljack said several police cars pursued the Thunderbird which raced through downtown Amarillo at speeds exceeding 70 mph. The chase ended when the stolen vehicle hit the Morris car, careened into two parked cars and hit a utility pole, Kruljack said. He said the stolen vehicle was "pulling away" from police at the time of the collision and that officers "were within department policy" concerning such pursuits when the accident occurred. No police officer was injured in the chase.

Travel Workshop Offered

The right and wrong about travel for those in work or study abroad will be explained at a Saturday travel workshop at Texas Tech Univer-

Don Walker of Tech's international programs office will discuss airfares, where to stay. Amtrak and other aspects of travel, as well as giving information about study abroad programs at various universities in Europe Topics ranging from customs, tips and passports to health information for international travel will be covered and pamphlets will be distributed concerning those subjects.

Free of charge and open to the public, the workshop will begin at 1 p.m. in the Lubbock Room of the University Center. Also available will be information about programs that Texas Tech offers, including the anthropology department's New Mexico dig and the classical and romance languages department's annual field study in Mexico.

Those interested in more information may contact University Center Programs at 742-3621.

And MYRON KANDEL

The pounding being taken by the bond market is signifying a resounding lack of confidence in the Reagan administration's hopes to bolster the economy by a combination of federal spending cuts and lower taxes.

Wall Street is worried that - political realities being what they are - taxes will be reduced, all right, but spending cuts will be harder to achieve, even though the President has vowed that the two measures must go hand in hand.

As a result, bond traders and economists have nightmares about staggering budget deficits, dwarfing even those of the Carter administration. What's particularly disturbing is that the warnings are coming from all sides of the political and economic spectrums.

Arnold X. Moskowitz, a well-respected conservative economist with Dean Witter Reynolds Inc., contends that if the administration goes ahead with the Kemp-Roth plan for 10 percent cuts in personal income taxes over three years, the federal budget deficit could hit $117 billion in fiscal 1982 and $129 billion in years; 2. his skepticism about the ability of the administration to accomplish spending reductions of the size it's talking about, and 3. the virtual certainty of an increase in defense spending.

He bases this dire view on three key factors: 1. the cumulative nature of a 10

The inflationary impact of budget deficits of this size would be enormous, Moskowitz says, since large government borrowing requirements would be added to private credit demands resulting from the economic recovery he sees occurring in the second half of this year.

For these reasons, he expects the 1982-83 tax cuts to be scaled back dramatically by the Reagan administration.

Similarly opposed to significant tax cuts right now is Wall Street's reigning interest-rate guru, Henry Kaufman of Salomon Brothers. He has been urging the President not to cut taxes until federal expenditures are substantially reduced.

Another warning about huge budget deficits has come from Sen. William Proxmire. Noting that the administration is talking about a $30 billion rise in the defense budget, the Wisconsin Democrat estimates that if such an increase is accompanied by a 10 percent cut in personal income taxes, even a $40 billion reducin non-defense federal spending in fiscal 1982.

Such a deficit, he asserts, could push the inflation rate to close to 20 percent and produce a bank prime loan rate of at least 25 percent.

Proxmire is calling for more and deeper budget cuts and says the $50 billion in spending reductions the administration has been talking about for the 1982 fiscal year, which starts next Oct. 1, are far too feeble to do the job.

These warnings come in stark contrast to the President's insistence that he still hopes to balance the budget by fiscal 1983 even though the chairman of his own Council of Economic Advisers, Murray Weidenbaum, is now talking about accomplishing that only in 1984.

One reason for Wall Street's alarm is that Jimmy Carter used to talk about balancing the budget, too, only to produce a deficit of $59.5 billion in fiscal 1980 which ended last Sept. 30. Wall Street economists say the money markets won't easily forget what happened to those promises - and to bond prices - as the budget deficit-fueled inflation sent interest rates shooting up to unprecedented

"The bond market is in a state of panic over the huge Treasury financings that will be needed to pay for the large deficits," Moskowitz told us. "And there's the additional fear that the financing will actually be done by the Federal Reserve through an easy-money policy, which would lead to rampaging

Kaufman sees the prime rate topping the record 21.5 percent it shot up to last December and he predicts that the consumer price index will hover between 13 and 15 percent this year, much the same as last year's figure, but well above administration forecasts.

Moskowitz, however, thinks interest rates will decline as the economy weakens in the second quarter. He predicts that the prime rate will fall to 14 percent by this summer

Pest Management Organization Sought

COLLEGE STATION (Special) - Organization and identification of research, extension and regulatory needs for the next five years is the goal of the Texas Statewide Pest Management Plan.

The 1980 plan is a revision of the 1974 plan developed at the request of the Texas Pest Management Association, said Dr. Ray Frisbie, integrated pest management coordinator for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service

The plan was highlighted at the recent Texas Integrated Pest Management Conference at Texas A&M University

"The revised plan includes more commodities but the biggest change is that it is interdisciplinary," explained Frisbie. "It does not center on controlling only insects but also includes weeds, plant diseases and nematodes

The plan is currently in the final draft stage and is being reviewed by TPMA. commodity organizations, individual farmers and private consultants.

Their suggestions and ideas will be incorporated into a final document of about 200 pages that will be a joint Extension Service and Texas Agricultural Experiment Station publication," Fris-

Cotton Belt attended the recent Cotton Inc. annual producers' meeting here and reviewed the organization's achievements over its 10-year history.

Cotton Inc. president Dukes Wooters welcomed the cotton producers by reporting that the CI research and promotion efforts "have arrested the 15-year decline of cotton's overall market share and created for the producer sales of more than $2.5 billion that would have been lost.

"Cotton Inc. developments in production equipment and systems have brought savings to producers estimated at a quarter of a billion dollars in less than a decade," he added.

During briefings, the producers heard company researchers and marketers report on current programs expected to cut production costs and bring new mostlycotton and all-cotton products into the marketplace.

After the briefing and tour of facilities here, cotton producer Robert Whatley of Odem, Tex., commented, "I've been very impressed with what I've seen here. I saw a tremendous amount of research going into cotton that is going to help me in marketing my cotton in the years to

Cotton Inc., the fiber company of American cotton producers, conducts a program of research and marketing. Using producers' per-bale assessments, the company works to cut production costs and expand markets for cotton. It is governed by a board composed of cotton producers from the 14 cotton producing

Most of the producers came to Raleigh on a Thursday night and spent Friday touring nearby textile mills where they saw baled cotton turned into yarn and then into fabric. Saturday morning they received a briefing on CI activities in the past year and an overview of the decade from Wooters and other officials of the six research and marketing divi-

In the afternoon, producers toured Cotton Inc. research facilities.

From agricultural research vice president J. K. "Farmer" Jones, the cotton growers heard about the successful development of trailer dumping equipment that will make centralized moduling economical for producers who cannot justify individual ownership of module builders.

Jones described other equipment developed by textile and agriculture researchers that will enable producers to recover fiber lost in the ginning process and upgrade its value for the non-woven industry. Jones estimated that 300,000 bales per year could be recovered through the process to help expand that market for cotton.

Jones highlighted research efforts on boll weevil eradication, budworm/ bollworm control, drought-resistant cotton, planting seed vigor, hybrid cotton, cover crops with minimum tillage or no-tillage, and salt tolerance.

"Our 1981 effort will emphasize weed control, tillage effects, cover crops, varieues, the effects of planting dates on crop development, insect population dynamics, double cropping, nitrogen requirements, and chemical applications," Jones reported.

"Our goal is to reduce input costs, increase profits, and improve the quality of the seed and the lint " he added

David W. Cox, vice president of economic research and development explained how the economists work to refine their analysis of cotton supply and demand to give producers a picture of market dynamics to help them make their marketing decisions.

Hal E Brockmann, vice president of textile research and development, detailed how Cotton Inc. develops new varns, fabrics and finishing processes that can then be shown to textile mills to encourage them to use more mostly-cotton or all-cotton fabric.

He explained how textile researchers had successfully adapted durable press

Producer Director Election Slated In Parmer County

BOVINA (Special) - Parmer County cotton producers and agribusinessmen will elect a producer director to Plains Cotton Growers. Inc. at a 7 a.m. breakfast meeting on Thursday, March 5 in the Bovina Restaurant.

Announcement of the election comes from JeDon Gallman of Friona, Parmer county businessman director to the 25county cotton organization. W. L. Edelmon of Friona, who had served as producer director to PCG since 1965, was killed Jan 13 of this year in a truck-pickup acci-

Each of the counties in PCG territory has two directors, one a businessman and the other a cotton producer. They are elected on alternate years for two-year terms Each is eligible for re-election every second year

All producers and businessmen are invited to the meeting. However, under PCG by-laws, only current dues-paying members of PCG will be eligible to be elected a director or to vote in the election This provision of the by-laws will be fully explained at the meeting.

A member of the PCG staff will conduct the election, give a review of current and planned PCG activities and answer questions about the organization and its objectives.

RALEIGH, N.C. (Special) — About treatments for use with all-cotton sheets, 200 cotton producers from across the "with the result that now two of the larg-"with the result that now two of the largest sheet manufacturers, J.P. Stevens and Dan River, have all-cotton, easy-care sheets on the market.

The producers visited the fiber processing center where baled cotton can be converted into yarn for test purposes. In the textile product research center they saw various kinds of knitting equipment on which the yarn is converted to fabric, which can then be dyed or finished for fire retardancy or easy-care in other labs in the center.

J. Nicholas Hahn, executive vice president and formerly vice president of sales/marketing, told the producers that knit wear is one of the target areas.

He announced that Sears is introducing a whole line of women's all-cotton and mostly-cotton knit wear, being marketed as the Cheryl Tiegs collection. He flame-retardant fabrics.

The expanding uniform market is another targeted area where cotton is having success, he said, with both Eastern Airlines and one of the nation's largest hospital supply and management companies adopting mostly-cotton uniforms for some of their personnel.

Robert J. Boslet, vice president of marketing services, explained how the cotton seal is used to help create a favorable image of cotton among consumers and to increase sales of American-made cotton products.

Donald S. Kleckner, vice president of international marketing, described the growth in markets for textile products in Asia and Europe and the importance of American cotton producers competing with foreign cotton producers, as well as synthetic fiber producers, to win those markets

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

THE REAGAN ADMINISTRATION DISAGREES with many of the basic recommendations in a wide-ranging report on the structure of American agriculture that was issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture just before former President Carter left office, says Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Richard

Lyng told a farm group in Washington this week that the two-year structure study, which was to have formed a basis for 1981 farm legislation proposals had Carter been re-elected, implied a much larger role for government than the Reagan administration foresees

Specifically, Lyng said the report called on the government to "implement a social program in agriculture" aimed, among other things, at increasing help for small and so-called medium-size farmers Lyng said the new administration prefers to let the marketplace be the main influence on farm size THE CARTER STUDY ALSO SUGGESTED farm estate taxes that would have been "confiscatory," Lyng said, while the new administration wants to see estate taxes lowered

Lyng was one of the witnesses at several days of hearings on the report which began Thursday before the House Agriculture Subcommittee on Forests, Family Farms and Energy.

While the administration rejects the larger government role the report recommends, Lyng said, it does not feel that all the information in the study is Lyng, 62, was sworn in as the USDA's No. 2 man earlier this week. He said at that time he would try to serve as an "alter ego" to Secretary of Agriculture

MEANWHILE, A STATE DEPARTMENT OFFICIAL last week said the Reagan administration's basic philosophy is that the grain marketing system should be left in the hands of the private sector and that a liberal trade policy provides the benefits.

Michael Calingaert, deputy assistant secretary of state for international reources and food policy, said the administration does not believe as a general rule that it is in the U.S. interest to enter into bilateral agreements.

Such pacts limit flexibility to take advantage of changing market conditions, he told a meeting of the U.S. Feed Grains Council at Cypress Gardens, Fla.

Bilateral agreements represent unnecessary government interference in the grain marketing system and may result in lower earnings than might have prevailed in the absence of such pacts, he said.

Therefore, he said, bilateral agreements will be limited to "exceptional cir-

The prospect of large grain imports by the U.S.S.R. and China raise broad policy questions, he said.

Calingaert said the government will be wrestling with how best to encourage exports to those markets while protecting the United States from huge and unexpected purchases in tight supply periods. Future international agricultural policy with those countries also will cause review of benefits or drawbacks of the dependence of the U.S.S.R. and China on U.S. grain and U.S. dependence on their markets, he said.

In addition, he said, policy makers will have to consider whether U.S. grain exports should be used politically - either to augment bilateral ties or as a symbol of U.S. opposition to particular actions.

COTTON FUTURES CLOSED AN EXTREMELY quiet, 5,500-lot session near the lows Thursday with losses of 174 points in spot March at 88.35 cents and of 52 points in near May at 90.60 cents.

New-crop months were off 20-30 points. Analysts described activity as locally dominated, especially in an afternoon drop to the day's lows, but noted some early trade buying. A background bearish factor, analysts said, was anticipation of the weekly export report, which was released after the close. Relative weakness in spot March was attributed to notice-period long liquidation. Speculators were on the sidelines, analysts said, because they were torn between bullish market talk of a potentially short supply of tenderable and certificated cotton available for delivery on futures and the reality of declining prices.

The 88-point trading range, basis May, was described as unusually dull, in line with sluggish export sales and domestic cash markets.

ANOTHER 40 DELIVERY NOTICES were issued, including 20 by one trade firm and 18 by another. The week's largest receiver, which stopped all the notices issued Wednesday, got 32 of the 40. A floor source said the large receiver-stopper earlier this week conducted an ex-pit exchange of 1,000 contracts with a Memphis-based firm, selling 1,000 Mays and buying 1,000 Decembers, and had conducted similar exchanges with other companies last week Some analysts said this probably has little market significance, especially at

Open interest at the close Wednesday totaled 34,550 contracts, off 520 for the day. A total of 503 contracts remained open in spot March, off 145.

Certificated stocks totaled 50,504 bales as of Wednesday, up 1,176 bales, with 3.196 awaiting review and none awaiting withdrawal.

NET NEW U. S. EXPORT SALES were 59,300 running bales during the week ended Feb. 19 for current marketing year delivery, the USDA reported.

South Korea purchased 30,700 bales, followed by Taiwan with 11,500 and Japan Sales for the 1981-82 marketing year totaled 4,700 running bales to Japan,

Thailand and Taiwan

The 1980-81 export commitment — undelivered sales plus shipments — was 5,345,100 running bales. Cumulative sales for 1981-82 delivery were 79,400 run-

Shipments for the week at 89,400 running bales, with 5,500 going to China, brought the export total for the season to 3,218,300 running bales, compared with 4,243,900 a year ago.

Cottonseed oil sales totaled 8,500 metric tons during the week, with India

Telcot's volume Thursday was 3,849 bales, which brought an average price of 68.31 cents, an average of 2.873 points over the loan, with a nil market differ-

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) - Grain and soybean futures prices closed mostly lower Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Traders noted weather forecasts showing major grain and soybean growing areas are in for some needed rain in the next few days.

Prices wwas supported somewhat by export news. Mexico is expected to complete a tender next week for 915,000 tons of corn and 753,000 tons of corn or sorgh-

Forecasts said storms will bring moisture to winter wheat crops and on unplanted corn and soybean fields. Weather beneficial to crop yields and supplies is

At the close, wheat was 41/2 cents to 6 cents lower, the contract for delivery in March was $4.511/4 a bushel; corn was 11/4 cents to 21/2 cents lower. March $3.571/4 a bushel; oats were 11/4 cents to 11/2 cents higher. March $2.26% a bushel: sovbeans were 81/2 cents to 10% cents lower, March $7.371/2 a bushel.

Serious Crisis Seen In Water Supply

By ROBERT L. HANEY Texas Agricultural Experiment Station

The nation is facing a water crisis in a few years time which may be more severe than the present energy crisis, according to Dr. Jack Runkles, director of the Texas Water Resources Institute

This developing water crisis in Texas and the Southwest will be the severest in the nation, Runkles says, unless we plan now for ways to alleviate it.

A growing population, burgeoning industry, and an increasingly thirsty agriculture are the main factors contributing to the developing problem.

Texas presently is exceeding the safe and firm yeild of both ground and surface water resources by about 2.1 million acre-feet per year and is using about 7.1 million acre-feet of ground water per year, more than is being recharged by

"In short, we're literally mining our water resources." Runkles says, "and they are going to play out in a few years or become exorbitantly expensive.

We have two major options for preventing a devastating water crisis. One of these that's been widely discussed is for

Maid Of Cotton Planning Tour Of Red China

MEMPHIS (Special) - Karie Ross will be the first Maid of Cotton to travel to the People's Republic of China as part of her worldwide tour to promote U.S. cotton, the National Cotton Council announced.

Chinates, the purchasing organization for all raw cotton used in China, issued the official invitation for Miss Ross to visit, March 26-29.

This cotton marketing year. China is already committed to purchase more than 1.5 million bales of U.S. cotton. This is almost one-quarter of all cotton to be exported from this country and makes China the largest single customer for American cotton. Last year, that nation imported more than 2 million bales of S cotton

In China, the Maid of Cotton will have meetings with textile industry and government officials. She will be accompanied by John Maguire, Cotton Council International (CCI) Far East director.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Foreign Agricultural Service and CCI cosponsor her promotional activities over seas. March 26-May 20

In addition to China, Miss Ross will visit Japan, Korea, Hong Kong, Singapore. Thailand, India, Italy, and Spain. From March 1 to 15, she will visit major cities in Canada.

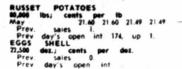

In each country, the Maid of Cotton will meet transportation, finance, and retail leaders as well as those in government and the textile industry to highlight the benefits of U.S. cotton and encourage its importation.

Her visit to Japan will highlight the 25th anniversary of CCI's cooperative advertising with the Japan Cotton Promotion Institute and will be marked by special receptions and promotional activi-

Miss Ross is a 21-year-old senior journalism major at the University of Oklahoma and a native of Clinton, Okla. She was selected 1981 Maid of Cotton in Memphis in December and will have met with cotton industry leaders across the Cotton Belt and important legislators and government officials in Washington, D.C., before her trip to China

FIRST FLAG CHANGE

The first change in the flag of 13 stars adopted by the Second Continental Congress in 1777 came in 1795 with the addition of Vermont and Kentucky to the Union. Congress passed and President Washington signed an act specifying a flag of 15 alterate red and white stripes and 15 white stars on a blue field. In 1818 Congress established the present basic design - 13 alternate stripes representing the original states and a star for each the state to pursue importation of water from other parts of the country. The second is for the state to adjust water use so as to live within the available water re-"For the next few decades, perhaps the more realistic option is to pursue an active program of conservation and reuse of water and to develop technology to further improve the efficiency of utilization of present water resources. "Our food supply will be imperiled first by shortages since both industry and urban areas can outbid agriculture for

"In fact, in the past decade we've already seen many farms shut down for a time in the Pecos region because of rising energy costs that made irrigated farming unprofitable.

"Fortunately, many are back in production now because of revised energyefficient management practices developed by cooperative efforts of the Experiment Station and the Extension Service," he said.

The Pecos example is only a forerunner of things to come, Runkles contends, unless a sustained high-priority coordinated-research effort is launched in the near future.

Water limitations we must learn to live with, but if we devise strategies of conservation re-use, and high efficiency, we can postpone the developing water shortages or alleviate their effects

For example in agricultural irrigation, research has developed the Low Energy Precision Application (LEPA) system which provides for significant improvements in energy and water conser-

If the LEPA system were fully implemented on the sprinkler-irrigated acres in the High Plains, it would result in a $1.5 billion savings to those farmers during the next 20 years.

And it would extend the expected useful life of the Ogallala Aquifer by at least 10 years.

Associated with the LEPA system is the development of row-damming as a method to conserve and prevent run-off of natural rainfall. Substantial increases in crop yields have been obtained in both cotton and grain sorghum, using the rowdamming system on dryland crops.

If this row-damming technology were applied to the dryland cotton and sorghum acres in the High and Rolling Plains of Texas and Oklahoma, it would bolster farm income of the region by $87.5 mil-

Off-farm benefits which would accrue each year to agribusiness, as a result of the increased crop production, would amount to $297 million

Water conservation technology needs to be developed for the urban sector, Runkles says, to provide for the expected increase in population over the next few

signs of slowing. Conservation of water, primarily outside the home, would halve the need for additional water supplies by the year

New technology for reusing water within and outside the home combined with such conservation could limit the need for additional water to only about 25 percent by the end of the century.

Such water conservation in the urban area would reduce the expected competition among industry, agriculture, and municipalities for the limited water re-

In addition to development of new technology for urban water water conservation and reuse. Runkles says new research thrusts are needed to develop technology for (1) integrating LEPA and farming operations to conserve energy and water: (2) improving rainfall utilization on dryland through use of drouthtolerant crops, row-damming, water harvesting, growth regulators, and remote sensing of soil moisture; (3) using industrial and municipal effluent water for crop production; and (4) using water of high-salt content for crop production.

If we effectively coordinate state and regional efforts of conservation and highefficiency utilization, Runkles says, we can postpone and soften the effects of the myriad of demands on one of our most precius natural resources, water

COMMODITIES

By Mike Stevens Merrill Lynch Commodities

THERE SEEMS TO BE SOME INCREASE in the level of confidence of speculators for the long side of grains and oilseeds. We hear of some professional traders who follow seasonal trends and historical patterns who are planning for an impressive price advance beginning late February and extending through March. Most likely, they will get a good following of both speculators and commercial traders.

The weaker dollar last week did stimulate a little European buying but the volume was not large. Those interests are mostly buying only for near term needs, while waiting for either more dollar weakness or a decline in carrying charges. They are following the traditional pattern of not buying very much ahead when carrying charges are wide. But that dose not mean that prices will not move up, even without active forward buying by Europeans. It has happened before.

We expect at least some commercial support in the next few weeks and probably beginning this week as Poland should begin some major purchases. Just last Friday the U.S.S.R. finally signed documents authorizing Poland to use $1.1 billion worth of hard currency credits for imports of needed materials from the West. Most of this will be for food and feed - and will include soybeans, plus various proteins and some fats and oils. News of this agreement came out months ago, but it was not signed until last week when Russia apparently decided that the political unrest in Poland had sufficiently quieted.

The lack of any movement on the U.S. government position on the U.S.S.R. embargo issue has disappointed the market. Even though tranquility has been restored in Poland, there now is the constraint that communist countries are supplying arms to rebels in Central America. So until that issue is oversome, the embargo may stick. Meanwhile, it appears that Russia has proceeded to buy soybeans and products from South America for the April-July period.

NOT LONG AFTER TRADERS GAVE UP most hopes for a quick lifting of the Soviet grains embargo by President Ronald Reagan, overtures from the Kremlin and responses in Washington have suddenly begun to make things look brighter for the grain trade.

Not long after accusing the United States of inciting unrest in Poland through Radio Free Europe, and making public a resounding anti-U.S. reply to U.S. positions, normally expressed in private talks, the Soivet Union has in a somewhat startling move proposed the two superpowers smoke the peace pipe, or at least discuss doing so in a summit meeting. Indeed, the cold East-West relations were dipping to new lows before the week began, and without warning, the ailing Soviet President Leonid Breznev decided the summit talks might be advantageous

On top of that, Agriculture Secretary John Block told some Kansas farmers Tuseday that if the Soviets behave for some time, the embargo question might be more easily answered.

In a colloquiallism that U.S.S.R. diplomats may find difficult to grasp, Block said, "If they can clean up their act a little bit," the embargo might be ended. The vagueness of the statement might conceal more than it reveals, particularly when on considers that a lot of specifics will have to be spelled out before anything happens on the embargo. Taken at face value, however, Block's words appeared to indicate that future Soviet foreign policy will determine how well that country eats.

THE HOG SLAUGHTER RATE FOR THE past two weeks has continued to move downward and also average weights have become a little lighter, indicating that we just might be headed into a period of lighter hog slaughter. This could have a tendency to improve price.

The product market has been in a downward trend with the loin market leading the way, off about $12 in the last two weeks. At these lower levels we seem to be experiencing better movement of the pork product.

After a week of extreme cold termperatures and snow storms, the Midwest is once again returning to spring-like weather - which may have a tendency to move the fall hog crop to market during the months of March and April. If we have a reduced supply of cattle coming to market in the late spring, we could see fairly strong hog prices into the early part of the sum-

THE 1981 U.S. PROSPECTIVE PLANTING report will be issued March 19, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The USDA's survey of farmers planting intentions for most crops will be made as of conditions on March 1, rather than April 1 as originally planned.

The acreage estimates will be as of March 1 for 36 states, combined with ate taken as of Jan. 1 for 12 couthern st tions of 16 southern states were released, but USDA will update information in the March 19 report for Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas.

PRICE DIFFERENTIALS BETWEEN DIFFERENT months in the same commodity are a constant challence to both the speculator and commercial traders. Very seldom does a day pass that a question concerning the price alignment does not arise. In order to calculate the cost of carrying a storable commodity over a period of months, one must take the following factors into account: (a) the value of the contract as represented by its price; (b) the current prime rate plus 1 percent; (c) fixed storage costs that are inherent to the physical space that a commodity occupies when stored. Once these factors are known, the question of determining how much of a premium a more distant contract can go over a nearer one is readily attained (i.e. the full carrying charges).

Just because a nearer month is at a discount to a more distant one does not necessarily mean that it has to gain relative to the back months as a bull market develops. This was a maxim held by many commodity traders for a long time. But the markets of the last two years have completely done away with that perception of spreads. ("In fact, in the bullish markets that we had in grains, livestock and cotton that began last summer and lasted well into the late fall and early winter, the spreads actually widened out as the markets moved up. So we have had a situation where bull markets developed and the bear spreads worked. (In gold and silver spreads, as the market moves up, the back months are in fact expected to gain on the nearer ones because the cost of storage is higher as the metal to be stored increases in value. Also, interest rates have always been the predominant factor in these

What can one attribute this spread behavior to? (That of bullish markets and bearish spread action?) The answer is threefold: First: The interest rate factor is becoming more and more of the dominating determinant of spread behavior, even in the agricultural and livestock markets. Secondly: This type of spread action is the market's way of saying that there aren't any shortages now, but several months in the future there might be. And finally perhaps the widely written-about and publicized tight supply situation that supposedly is a fact of life in several markets may not be the case in reality.

COMPUTER-MADE FUTURES TRADING decisions have become a powerful enough market force which some market experts watch as closely as supply-demand or other more traditional price influences.

Just as a larger-than-expected crop report, a prime interest hike or a pattern on a price chart can trigger buying or selling, computer-triggered trading generates enough trading volume to significantly move market prices. When these computers catch a trend they can move hundreds of thousands of dollars into futures in one day," according to Bruce Kamich, technical analyst with Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith Inc. "They can bend a market out of shape.

No one has yet documented precisely how much futures trading is computer directed. But some researchers are finding preliminary indications that on certain days, when buy or sell signals are especially strong, computer trading may account for as much as 50 percent of the volume in a futures

Not wishing to be thought boring, Tasker is taking a different approach with his cagers at the tourney in Midland this year. The Monterey coach is confident and he isn't afraid to show it. He says his club is going to press tonight's 6 p.m. opponents, El Paso Irvin, right into lems with us and I don't say that about too many teams," Tasker said. "They like to throw the long pass to break the press and I think we have at least two girls who might be able to cover it.'

Tasker might have good reason to be so confident. His Plainsmen endured one of their worst shooting nights of the season last Monday night but still came out ahead of Amarillo High 66-62 for the bidistrict championship, earning their third regional tournament berth in the last four years.

In that contest, as in most Monterey games, the Plainsman press was the key factor. Monterey forced the Sandies into 30 turnovers and scored 23 points as a di-

According to folks out El Paso way, handling the press is one of Irvin's strong points. They say that the Rockets have four good ballhandlers and a couple of good outside shooters.

That's not exactly the way Tasker sees

"We saw them play Slaton to a ninepoint game (one of Irvin's two losses on the year) and it helped a lot," said Tasker. "Slaton has a different kind of press than we do - they run a zone - but it still helps because I feel they'll do basically the same thing against us.

"I think they're going to have some problems, I honestly do. They have one good ballhandler and that's it. They do have a couple of good scorers, but they don't have anybody bigger than us - we don't have to deal with the problems we had with Amarillo High.

Irvin's point guard is 5-7 Erica Roberson, a senior who is averaging 9.0 points game. Holding down the other guard position is 5-7 Laura Geurin, a senior putting in 10.7 points each contest.

Surprisingly, the Rockets don't get much taller. At forward Irvin starts 5-7 Maria Linggi (13.2 points, 8.1 rebounds) and 5-7 Vera Ray (7.2 and 8.5) and at post the Rockets sport 5-11 Donna Schneider

Tasker. "El Paso has one 5-10 girl, they might list her at 5-11. But she's not big and physical or anything like that, I think we'll match up real well with them."

Monterey counters with a lineup that includes 5-4 guards Kriss and Kamie Ethridge - the heart of the Plainsmen's buzz-saw press - 5-6 forward Tracey Muehlbrad, 5-7 forward Molly Hasie and either 5-10 Alayna Gilmore or 6-1 Andrea Moore at post.

Kriss Ethridge, who was the city's player of the year last season and also made the first-team all-state squad, has been troubled of late by mononucleosis. Against Amarillo High, though, she appeared to be on the road to recovery, scoring 16 points and coming through with some great assists. She is averaging 15.4 points a game on the year.

Her younger sister Kamie was named to the all-state tournament team last season and made second-team all-state. This year she's even improving on that. So far she has connected on 215 of 416 field goal attempts for a 19.6 points-per-game aver-

Two other Monterey girls are hitting over 50 percent of their field goals. Miss Monterey's leading rebounder is Miss Moore, a junior. She's pulled down 168 boards this year. Miss Muehlbrad is second with 140 and Miss Gilmore has 134 rebounds on the season.

Despite his confidence about his team's chances against Irvin (which finished the regular season 29-2), Tasker is peddling a little softer when he talks about the rest of the tournament field.

In the 8 p.m. game tonight, Lewisville (28-8 and a 61-37 bi-district winner over San Angelo Central) will face Fort Worth Dunbar (24-4)

'We've for sure got a tougher regional this year," Tasker said. "Last year we kind of came away shaking our heads. We couldn't believe those scores.

Lewisville is the only team other than the Plainsmen to return from last year's tournament. Last year it lost in the first round to Arlington High, the team Monterey beat 79-49. In their first round game, the Plainsmen killed El Paso Co-

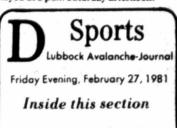

"Lewisville's score against San Angelo really impressed me," said Tasker.

Muehlbrad is averaging 8.6 points on 110 "Central really had a good ball club; we of 212 attempts and Miss Gilmore is clipsaw them play."

"This year's regional has got to be better than last year. But I think Irvin is going to have to look at that El Pasoscore from last year too. That's got to bother them.

Irvin split with Coronado during the regular season and beat them in the district playoff. The championship contest will be played at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon.

No Rest For The Weary

IT'S SIMPLE TO TELL the difference, the girls explained, between a boys' basketball trophy and a girls' basketball trophy. The gold-or silver-plated figure atop the simulated wood columns on the girls' model has its arms outstretched, in a defensive position, while the boys' figure is invariably shooting. It's that easy.

That's the authoritative word from members of the Lubbock Christian High School girls' basketball team. And they should know, being the two-time defending Texas Asssociation of Private Schools' state champions. But more than that, the LCHS girls brought in a haul of trophies this season, including several with arms

You had to be an authority on the symbols of success in order to separate the girls' from the boys' trophies when both LCHS squads got together Wednesday for picture day with this season's awards. The gathering was impressive.

Two state tournament trophies, first place for the girls, second place for the boys; the four-foot second-place trophy from the Eagles' own girls' tournament; the Christian Athletic Trophy permanently retired this season by the boys; a pair of first-place trophies from the Christian Schools Tournament and the Sweepstakes trophy from the same tourney (for the boys' and girls' teams with the most combined points); two trophies from the South Plains Rotary tournament and one Colorado City tourney apiece.

THOSE 11 MAJOR trophies, along with a horde of individual awards, took up a good deal of room in the team photos. But impressive as the scene was, it will be quickly forgotten in the seemingly endless preparation for "next season. Next season will begin Monday for the returning LCHS players with the beginning of off-season workouts. And the pressures and problems associated with running successful basketball programs were foremost on the minds of LCHS coaches Dale Pectol and Don Walker as they watched the photo session.

There are holes to fill due to graduation. The spring conditioning workouts have to be planned and schedules have to be ironed out. New uniforms have to be decided upon and ordered.

"Nothing comes with winning the state championship for us as far as the school is concerned," said Pectol, whose girls' team set a school record with 24 victories in addition to winning its second state title

'We have a good crop of junior varsity players moving up," said Walker, who took the Eagles to the championship game during his first year. "We have three or four 6-foot to 6-2 guys in the ninth and 10th grade who may help us. And we have a ton of guards in the ninth grade. In two years we'll be as strong at guard as we were this year. We're in a position to look for at least three or four more good

PECTOL AND HIS returning players are in much the same situation but with the added weight of being the defending state champions. And next season it will be the two-time defending champions.

I guess the pressure is on for next year," Pectol said. "The kids are already talking about next year. And after we won the title, we got some hints about returning from the officials.

"It's pressure that was in my head as soon as that thing (the title game against Abilene Christian) was over. It's harder for most kids the third time than the first. It was different this season, it didn't feel the same. We just did what we were expected to do. We want to win a third title and we plan on doing it.

As if they didn't have enough to do — with their teaching duties, six-week tests and preparing for off-season workouts - Pectol and Walker's week of rest and relaxation has been cut short this weekend.

As coaches of two of the eight finalist teams in the state tourney, Pectol and Walker are obligated to help coach the TAPS All-Star games son College in Dallas.

Pectol, who coached the winning West girls' team last year, will get the same assignment for Saturday's 6:30 p.m. game. His 12-member squad will include three of his own players - seniors Brendell Baker and Glenna Jeffreys, and sophomore

Walker is the head coach for the boys' West team and will have a pair of his players - Pat Phelan and Mike Hill - for the 8 p.m. contest.

Borger, Canyon To Settle Title

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

The idea of a district tournament to determine the 1-4A boys' basketball champion is sounding better and better to Estacado's J.J. Wood

For Wood and four other district coaches, the league race ended at least a week ago and the Levelland-Estacado and Dumas-Brownfield games tonight are meaningless in determining the league champion.

The second-half race and overall 1-4A title hinge on the Borger-Canyon game while the other teams will be playing for overall records and the fun of it.

"I'm going to see if we can't get a tournament, too," Wood said at Wednesday's press conference after listening to the city's 5A coaches discuss next week's 4-5A post-season tourney.

Although he was half-joking, Wood's suggestion would keep the final 1-4A games not involving the contenders important because the teams would be jockeying for favorable first-round posi-

As it is, Estacado will play host to the Lobos at 7:15 p.m. and Dumas travels to Brownfield for a 7:30 p.m. but all the interest will center around the Bulldogs-Eagles clash in Canyon at 7:30 p.m.

Both Canvon and Borger are 4-0 in the second half of the district race. Canyon won the first half with a sparkling 6-0 record and an Eagle victory would give them the title outright.

A Borger victory would most likely set up a playoff game between the schools, assuming both win their final district games of the season against

Brownfield and Dunbar, respectively. "It'll be a big game," Borger coach Duane Hunt said earlier in the week "Canyon's got a good team and we've got

Borger, 28-3 overall, is ranked third in the state among 4A teams and has won five consecutive games since losing to Canvon 57-43 at home in the first round on Feb. 3. The Eagles are 23-8 overall and have a 12-game winning streak on the line

Borger missed a lot of buckets and we pressured them into a lot of things

Jody Richardson said of the Eagles'14point victory when the teams met earlier in the month. "We held (Gregg) Belton and (Shawn) Harrington down and they couldn't do what they normally do. It's going to be a barnburner tonight," he Belton and Harrington, both 6-foot-6 seniors, solidify the inside game for the Bulldogs. Belton is averaging 21.3 points and 10.6 rebounds a game while Harrington contributes eight points and 7.4 boards a contest. Wood's Matadors, 2-2 in district and 15-15 overall, are looking for at least a split in their final two games to finish the season at .500. After tonight's game with Levelland, 3-2 and 16-10, they travel to Dumas on Tuesday. "The only things we have to play for are the seniors and the record," Wood said. "Levelland is kind of in the same boat as we are. They really don't have anything to play for except school pride and a good record." Tonight will be the final home game for Estacado seniors James Barnett, Kenneth Cade and Jerry Gray. The 6-2 Barnett leads the squad in scoring, averaging 23.5 points a game. Cade, the Mats' point guard, averages 16.7 points a game

Levelland will be playing its final game of the season tonight and 6-8 senior post Dwight Phillips (16.8, 16.3) will play his final high school game despite a cracked bone in his left arm.

During the 1980-81 season, the Lubbock Christian College basketball team tread upon a banana peel of illness, injury, new player combinations, and the almost guaranteed instability of a coaching

It was the first year of head coach John Copeland, who had assisted Larry Hays for two years previous and including the 1979-80 campaign that saw LCC qualify to the District VIII post-season tournament for the only time in school

Copeland had wished to make the tournament participation a tradition but that will have to be postponed, at least

There were enough positive indicators - despite a sagging record that Copeland had hoped in preseason would hover around .500 - to warrant opti-

Chief among them is the return next year of seven of this season's 10 key performers, plus a recruiting effort currently in progress, that Copeland expects may alter the face of his second Chap

"I'll be hanging out in Canyon, Clarendon and Borger quite a bit in the next few weeks," Copeland said Wednesday, declining to recite names of prospects while still suggesting continuity in the recruiting campaign that began months

"We have got to have inside depth," he added. "We need depth on the boards. Even though we were small, we were able to rebound with some good rebounding clubs, but I don't know how we

"If we can recruit a guard good enough to compete for a starting job, we're gonna get him. Plus, we'll recruit any big men we feel can support us."

LCC's entire baseline played out of position to compensate for the lack of a dominant big man last year. Six-foot-four Brian Fortner, who played center despite being a forward by trade, shared inside duties with 6-6 Jim Steensma, who does his best work from the perimeter, not around the basket.

Fortner easily was the team's most valuable player, averaging 11.3 points and 8.3 rebounds per game, respectively. He will return next season along with Steensma, forwards Kevin Cooper and

Key graduation losses are represented by guard Bruce Carver, who led the team in scoring with 16.0 points per game, forward Rick Murdock, who rebounded well and always contributed a good floor game despite being only 6-2, and forward Gary Norris, who averaged 10.0 points per game even though he tailed off dramatically as a scorer during the final six weeks of the season.

"The best thing we've got going for us is that is that all our guys know what to expect of each other." Copeland said. They're confident knowing what the other guy is capable of doing

LCC finished 4-6 in the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association and three of ose victories occurred at home against McMurry, Austin and Sul Ross.

"I feel best about beating the three best teams in our conference," Copeland said. "That showed what we could do at the top of our game and when we had people healthy. I also felt like there were

"It was an enjoyable year," he said.

Insurance May Become Baseball Strike Issue

NEW YORK (AP) - Major league baseball club owners are having problems with strike-insurance policies, a development which could help the players get coverage for a threatened walkout, The New York Times said today.

Quoting insurance-industry sources, the Times said some of the underwriters involved in the owners' $50 million insurance plan had until recently been unaware that baseball's bosses could unilaterally implement a free-agent compensation plan.

Once the underwriters learned of the provision, the Times said, some became skittish, and this could threaten $40 million worth of strike coverage. Of the threatened amount, $15 million in coverage had not even been placed with underwriters by insurance brokers, as of Thursday, the paper said.

The Times also said that the players's association had tried to line up its own strike insurance, but had not succeeded.

'The owners did a good job of making it hard for the players to get insurance, an industry source said. "They took out

Matthews' Deal Falls Through

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) -Have bat will travel.

That's the newest sign hung out by Atlanta Braves' outfielder Gary Matthews. who first rejected a trade to Cincinnati, then said he would accept it.

The trade fell through finally on Thursday, and Matthews remains a member of the National League Braves under orders from owner Ted Turner to ride the bench.

"I'm anxious to go, anywere," Mat-thews said Thursday. "Elsewhere, I at least will be able to play. That makes more sense than sitting and watching guys play who are not as good as I am."

There is a distinct possiblity Gary will open the season with the Braves," said the team's vice president, Al Thornwell. "We certainly are not going to give away a bona fide major league player. There has been some interest around the league about Gary, including teams that haven't been mentioned previously.

Matthews' agent, Bruce Church, said the trade to Cincinnati may have fallen through because of ineptness in the Braves' front office.

There has to be a certain amount of skill in putting one of these things together, and the Braves have a great deal of difficulty dealing because top management of other clubs is hesitant to deal with them," Church said.

'It's a distinct disadvantage to the Braves because with them, there is no guarantee the names (of players involved in possible trades) will be kept secret," their insurance last October and used up the market.'

The Times' source added, however, that should the owners lose some of their insurance, "the players might be able to get something. The owners last week announced they were unilaterally implementing a plan whereby teams losing free agents would be compensated by teams which sign the The players' union voted Wednesday to strike May 29 unless a compromise can be reached. The players say the owners' plan would effectively end free-agent movement.

Ray Grebey, head of the owners' player relations committee, denied any problem with the strike coverage.

"I met with the brokers in my office yesterday (Wednesday) and there's absolutely no problem," Grebey said. "As far as I know, there are no problems. The insurance is in full effect.'

The Times said the owners' $10 million policy, on which the premium has been paid, has a 153-game deductible, about 12 days worth of games. It would then pay $100,000 a game to a maximum of 100 games, after which the threatened $40 million coverage takes over.

Meanwhile, major league umpires said Thursday they would support the players "in every way.

'All of baseball will suffer if an accord is not reached by May 29," said Richie Phillips, counsel for the Major League Umpires Association.

"On the other hand," he continued in a letter to Marvin Miller, head of the players' association, "all of baseball will benefit tremendously when the people who run this great game realize that they can no longer engage in the abuses of the past and can no longer circumvent the aws of this land."

Eyewitness Testimony Charges Kush In Punching

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - A former Arizona State University football player, who says he saw ex-Sun Devil coach Frank Kush punch punter Kevin Rutledge during a 1978 game, testified Thursday that he didn't tell anyone about it because "it wasn't that big of a deal."

Steve Chambers, however, said he was told by a university booster who 'wanted to get back at Kush" that his eye-witness account of the incident was "a knock-out punch that could get Kush fired within a week."

Chambers, a senior offensive tackle for Arizona State in 1978, told a Maricopa County Superior Court jury that Kush had Kevin by the face mask and was shaking it back and forth, then punched

Kevin with his right hand. Rutledge, who now plays for the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, is suing Kush and other parties for $2.2 million in damages. He claims Kush split his lower lip with a "knuckle-punch" after a 26yard punt during Arizona State's 41-7 loss to Washington Oct. 28, 1978, in Seattle. Rutledge also alleges that Kush and ex-Sun Devil defensive secondary coach Bill Maskill harassed him into quitting the team in 1979 and forfeiting his schol-

Kush has denied both charges.

Under direct questioning Thursday afternoon from Rutledge's attorney, Robert Hing, Chambers said he had come off the field following a third-down situation and was getting a drink of water when the alleged incident occurred.

"I was 15 feet away from them. I had a clear view," Chambers said. "He hit him with a punch between his chin and lip. It was a quick punch that moved Kevin's head back.

For the jury, Chambers demonstrated the blow three times on the open left palm of defense attorney Michael Gal-

Gallagher first offered to have Chambers hit him in the face in the manner he had seen Kush hit Rutledge. But Chambers declined, saying: "I don't want to hurt you.

Chambers said the knuckle on the index finger of Kush's right hand was bent when Kush made contact with Rutledge. Chambers also said the punch didn't appear to be the "sweeping upper-cut" that Rutledge has described in previous testi-

In addition, Chambers added that the punch from Kush was not full-force and didn't seem to be a malicious act although "Coach was very upset."

Chambers added that "it looked like he (Kush) was trying to wake him (Rutledge) up so he would get going and per-

Kush's "wake-ups" included helmetapping and face mask grabbing, Chambers said. Kush has testified the tactics were "not unusual" for him, but said he "can't ever recall touching Rutledge" in the game in question. Chambers testified he didn't tell anyone of the Kush-Rutledge altercation "until after the lawsuit came out in the newspapers" Sept. 4, 1979. The first person Chambers said he told was Rick Lynch, a Phoenix-area drag strip operator who often gave Arizona State football players summer jobs. "Lynch told me I had a knock-out punch." Chambers testified "He said:

Pro Teams Offer Programs To Help Troubled Athletes Cope

stress factor of the modern athlete.) By The Associated Press

Athletes are loved for their bodies, not their minds

Bandages, medicine and whirlpools mend physical injuries. But emotional problems - the ones associated with job pressure, celebrity and lifestyle - are more difficult to pinpoint and treat. Some teams and leagues are trying.

In the North American Soccer League; fines paid by the players for various infractions go into a career counseling program. The National Football League, major league baseball and the National Basketball Association provide confidential contacts in rehabilitation centers for athletes seeking help for alcohol and drug problems.

Some individual teams are seeking help for their athletes, with the realization that a contented player often is a better performer. Some offer counseling for emotional problems. A few are making available programs to prepare athletes for life after sports.

The players associations in some sports are providing counseling and going after the leagues to do more.

Larry Fleisher, executive director of the NBA Players Association, said: "We're all learning. We're seriously considering something jointly with the league on a counseling program."

Fleisher said it's possible such programs might become a collective bargaining issue.

The policy of the major leagues is still largely disciplinary where drugs and alcohol are concerned. Quite simply, they tell their employes not to use drugs.

The NFL and NBA have elaborate inventory procedures to make sure that team physicians and trainers don't get carried away in dispensing drugs. They all hope to prevent a recurrence of the 1973 scandal in which Dr. Arnold Mandell was found to be overprescribing pep pills for some of the San Diego Chargers. Baseball's Los Angeles Dodgers were the first team to initiate a company-wide alcohol rehabilatation program.

Former Dodger Don Newcombe, a reformed alcoholic, has visited most of mafor league baseball's teams to talk to players about help for alcohol and drug dependence. He was instrumental in getting Bob Welch of the Dodgers and Darrell Porter, then of the Kansas City Royals, to admit their alcoholism. Both spent time in The Meadows rehabilitation program in Arizona.

Newcombe has traveled extensively for the Department of Health and Human Services. He took his message to two dozen baseball clubs during spring training last year. Only Billy Martin, manager of the Oakland A's, locked his doors to Newcombe.

But Newcombe has found that athletes with problems, like other troubled people, are reluctant to seek the help available.

"People don't really listen until they reach road's end. They want to live their own lives," said Newcombe. "We went to Bob Welch because we were concerned about his health. Darrell Porter. too. He had reached the end of his rope.'

Chester Marcol, a pro football kicker, went on a drinking binge last year after being released by the Green Bay Packers. Shortly thereafter he admitted his alcoholism and went to a rehabilatation center. He said the public admissions of Porter and Welch and entertainer Dick Van Dyke made it easier for him.

"You can't go into the closet and hide you've got to get it out of your system," Newcombe said. "It's part of the therapy. The athlete must be stronger than the ordinary guy. He's exposed to the public. He lives in a fish bowl. It's hard for him to hide anything. But once he whips the demon, why should he?

"He can influence a lot of people just by example. No telling how many weak body in baseball has a problem, he can call me," said Welch.

Dr. Kenneth Greenspan, director of the center for stress-related disorders at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York, says it is crucial in counseling to play down hero-worship.

"That's the last thing they need. That's often part of the problem to begin with. Athletes compete in a very intense, high-pressure, exposed market. They're so idolized that they begin to think that none of the rules pertain to them, that they're bigger than life."

Eventually, a big source of anxiety for athletes off the field can be concern about what they will do after their sports careers. Many have left sports with no plans for their futures.

"You'd be amazed how many wives have called me because they were concerned that their elite ex-athletes could do nothing more than sit in front of a TV sucking a beer for 16 hours," said Dr. Bruce Ogilvie, a prominent consultant to several teams. "They had become para-

Here the impetus is from the unions. But again the players are expressing limited interest

"It's a difficult task to get a 23 or 24year-old to understand it's all going to end in a couple of years," said Fleisher

The NBA union has an agreement with the Educational Advisory Service in Philadelphia for education and career counseling. "It's important because the average lifespan in the NBA is 3.9 years, so you're then talking about 26-year-olds looking for jobs who aren't properly prepared." said Fleisher.

The NFL's Management Council cosponsored a career-counseling program with the football union in 1978, but pulled out two years later. "It wasn't a lot of money, but there was only 5 percent participation," said Rusty Martin, a spokesman for the Management Council. The clubs just felt the money would be better spent at the club level.

In hockey, the Philadelphia Flyers work with EAS and have a model careerguidance program. Since September, the Flyers have sent half their players to the service. "They're the first team to pick up the tab to provide career counseling, even for the guys who've been traded, said Dr. James Johnston of EAS.

In the past five years, 15 to 20 percent of the NBA players have talked to EAS, Johnston said

EAS is not an employment agency. We're a combination of academic and career counseling," Johnston said. "We do interest testing, psychological testing and aptitude testing, then review what their academic level has been. If a guy wants to be a college coach, for example, we explain that it's normally a faculty position and requires a degree.

We talk to them about the job interview process. We tell them how to dress and not to curse. We give them mock interviews so they can be ready for certain questions," said Johnston. "We try to bring their expectations to realistic levels without crushing them.

ternalistic attitude and try to place players in jobs. "Finding jobs is not enough; finding careers is what you want to do. Greenspan of Columbia Presbyterian says the real task is helping athletes recognize their worth as individuals, as distinct from their public identities.

"Someone might come to me with newspaper clippings and I'll ask: 'Is that you? I won't show a lot of interest," said Greenspan. "I'll try to get them to focus on the here and now and not yesterday."

Democrats Propose Interest Rate Reductions

WASHINGTON (AP) - Democrats on the Joint Economic Committee, offering the party's first alternative to President Reagan's program, are urging a oneyear tax cut just large enough to offset higher Social Security taxes and immediate reductions in interest rates.

The Democrats maintain that a big. three-year, across-the-board tax cut like Reagan wants probably would spark another round of inflation.

Republicans on the congressional study panel accused Democrats of turning their backs on new ideas and advocating shopworn policies that got the nation's economy into its present state.

The positions were spelled out Thursday when the committee issued its annual report on the economy. In contrast to 1979 and 1980, when the panel unani-mously agreed on a report built around stimulating investment and saving, the committee was so split that the 10 Republicans issued one report and the 10 Democrats another.

It is doubtful spending cuts can be made quickly and deeply enough to off-set the stimulus the tax reduction and higher defense spending would bring,

In other developments Thursday:

- Reagan's economic advisers said they are committed to hold spending in fiscal 1982 to $695.5 billion, even though that means $3 billion to $6 billion in cuts above the $41.4 hillion already announced by the president.

- Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan said a proposal to raise the federal gasoline tax from four to six cents a gallon has been ruled out by the president.

- Regan indicated the administration may not push for "indexing" taxpayers brackets so inflation does not automatically kick them into higher tax brackets. He said the president proposed that when the common assumption was that inflation would continue at present high rates for years to come. But Regan said the administration plans to chop inflation substantially in the next few years.

Inflation, Runaway Spending Threaten Presidential Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) - No matter how furiously President Reagan's budget cutters hew away at federal programs, they can't seem to keep up with the hydra-like growth of government spending.

As his recent predecessors in the White House learned, Reagan is discovering that actual federal spending keeps outrunning the best-laid budget plans

Unlike the experience of his predecessors, however, Reagan expects to succeed in holding the line.

In 10 out of the last 12 years, actual spending exceeded the original budget plans by amounts ranging from $300 milion to $48 billion.

Government spending during the past two years, for example, is expected to run $87 billion higher than the Carter administration estimated in its original budget plans. That would be more than the entire federal budget for 1958.

The main culprit for the ballooning budgets has been inflation, the very affliction that Reagan's cuts are supposed to help alleviate.

Presidential plans also have gone awry as a result of changes made by Congress, which tends to increase spending before giving final approval to a budget.

Last week, Reagan proposed $41.4 billion in budget cuts to limit spending to $695.5 billion for fiscal 1982, which begins Oct. 1. This week he learned that up to $6 billion in additional cuts would be needed to stay within his limit the money to pay day-to-day expenses

overall or about $25 a month

By July, when the government makes its next projections, spending is likely to be up again, and that means another round of cuts

Reagan's first round of proposed cuts which Congress may approve only in part - caused shouts of pain from special-interest groups ranging from poor people threatened by restrictions on social programs to corporations threatened with reductions in federally subsidized loans. "There's no question but this next round of cuts is going to be a lot harder and more painful," said one official at the Office of Management and Budget. And it's going to become progressively Reagan and his budget director, David A. Stockman, insist that - recent history not withstanding - they can and will keep a lid on federal spending.

"You bet we can," Reagan told reporters Thursday when asked if he thought he could find new cuts to hold Stockman made a similar pledge in testimony before the House Appropriations Committee.

Former President Carter also pledged throughout his term to rein in federal spending, but in the end relented to increases blamed on inflation, sought by special-interest groups and approved by Congress. We have a dynamic society that has been demanding more from its government," said the budget official, who would not speak for attribution. "There are always unexpected disasters requiring federal aid, new programs that are adopted by Congress even as old ones are reduced, and certainly inflation has a lot to do with it.

Reagan has vowed to be different. He is committed to reducing the government's presence in society and turning a deaf ear to the shouts of opposition from Congress and the defenders of those affected by the budget cuts.

ard Gives Final Approval For Chrysler Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) - Chrysler Corp. won final federal backing today for $400 million in new loans to stave off bankruptcy. The approval came as the company reported the largest annual loss in American corporate history, $1.71 biltion for last year.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, chairman of the three-man Chrysler Loan Guarantee Board, said the panel agreed today that Chrysler has met conditions set out in an agreement tentatively approved by the board last month, when it was headed by former Secretary G. William Miller.

Chrysler lost $235 million in the fourth quarter, to top the 8-day-old record loss of $1.54 billion reported by Ford Motor Co.

Chrysler, the No. 3 automaker, said its loss for the year included "unusual

Sales for the year fell 23 percent from $12 billion to $9.23 billion. Sales of cars and trucks worldwide fell 32 percent. from 1.8 million to 1.23 million last year.

The company's auditors, Touche Ross and Co., said they could not say whether the 1980 financial statements were presented fairly "because we are unable to determine whether or not the use of generally accepted accounting principles applicable to a going concern is appropriate in the cirsumstances.

In his letter to shareholders, Chrysler Chairman Lee A. Iacocca said, "Given a modest upturn in the economy, some moderation in interest rates, and the expected improvement in the rate of car and truck sales, we look forward to dra-matically improved results for 1981."

Thanks to rebates of 7 percent off the sticker price, Chrysler's U.S. car sales have improved since early December compared with the previous year, while other producers saw declines.

Other companies now are offering promotion incentives of their own and analysts say Chrysler's share of the market for domestic makes could decline from its current 11.6 percent to the 9.1 percent projected in plans submitted to the loan board for 1981. Those January plans forecast a loss of $253 million fo 1981, followed by growing profits in sub-agreement, which was all but settled while Jimmy Carter was still in office.

Calling Chrysler's prospects for sur-vival "reasonably good," Regan said it is now "clearly the sole responsibility of Chrysler's senior management" to put the company back on its feet. He also re-newed the government's urging that the company find a merger partner to bring in more needed money.

Final approval follows six weeks of tough negotiations in which the struggling No. 3 automaker gained financial concessions from the company's work-ers, suppliers and creditors. The bankers, who held out the longest, agreed only this week to write off millions of dollars

Company officials have said the last major problem in winning the guarantees officially approved a revised agreement between Chrysler and more than 100 creditors to which the company owes more than $1.1 billion

Published reports indicated a key part of the agreement called for payment of about $68 million of that debt within 30 days. Several New York banks reportedly demanded quick payment of at least that much out of fear the company would soon go under - even with the new cash infusion - and the banks would end up with nothing.

Regan would not be that specific, but said the agreement calls for Chrysler to make a "down payment" on its debt in

The company has conceded it badly needs new cash to stay afloat and that it has virtually no chance of raising any large amount without federal guarantees of eventual payback.

Chrysler already has received $800 million of the $1.5 billion in loan guarantees authorized by Congress in December 1979. Company officials have said they will not seek the other $300 million.

An earlier version of the latest agreement, tentatively approved by the loan board last month, called for Chrysler to pay off $500 million of its debt at 30 cents on the dollar over a year's time, beginning later this spring.

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - A lone military helicopter returned to base from a daylong search today without finding a trace of 17 military personnel missing in the crash of a U.S. Air Force plane in the South China Sea, a Navy spokesman said.

Town Finds Flood Relief To Be Mixed Blessing

HAMILTON, Wash. (AP) - Residents of this tiny Skagit County town are finding that a federal program for flood relief could be as much of a disaster as the floods that periodically sweep through their community.

Last Dec. 26, the Skagit River spilled over a dike and forced evacuation of almost the entire population of 280.

Twenty-three residents carried feder al flood insurance and 17 of them suffered enough damage to be eligible for a home buy-back program to compensate for the flood damage. The catch is that in order for the 17 residents to be eligible for the buy-back program, the town of Hamilton, because it is in a floodway, had to agree to a moratorium on new construction. And, if the applications are approved, the 17 damaged homes - representing about 20 percent of the town's housing and property tax base - would be demo-

Hamilton Mayor Tom Hooper appreciates the needs of flood victims who would benefit from the buy-back program, in which the federal government buys a home and then demolishes it. But he doesn't like the idea of losing tax revenue for the city's water supply system, roads, street signs and lights, and salaries for city workers.

The town conceivably could annex land outside the floodway, where homes could be rebuilt. But Hooper sees this as an expensive proposition that would take under the flood insurance program as well. For example, Hamilton is free to rebuild a dike to its pre-flood condition, but is prohibited under its agreement with the government from strengthening its flood protection, Steele said.

Bear Grease Predicts Weather

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) -Some people depend on the TV weatherman's predictions. Others watch the clouds, sniff the air. Then there's Gordon Wirnsatt. He looks for rain and snow in jars of bear grease

Wirnsatt, who calls himself "The Bear Grease Kid," admitted he has been laughed at. But he says that does not bother him because he laughed himself when he fist was told about it.

"I got it from a state game warden back in the '30s," said the 65-year-old semi-retired land developer, who has lived in the Mayhill-Cloudcroft area of south-central New Mexico since 1927.

He said the game warden killed a bear, rendered the fat and put the grease in jars. He gave jars of grease to Wimsatt and others, and told them they could use the grease to predict the weather, like the Indians did years ago.

'My immediate reaction was, 'Ha,

"Wimsatt said. But after the game warden, who had learned the practice from his father, demonstrated he could "read" the grease and predict moisture changes, Wimsatt said he began experimenting with the method.

He also began researching the practice, which he said he discovered had been used by the Mescalero and Jicarilla

Apaches. They did not have glass for jars, but were able to use the bladders of large animals, he said. After scraping, the bladders were translucent so the Indians could see the oil they had put inside.

Although he still uses bear grease, Wimsatt has been experimenting with other types of animal fat. Over the years, he said, he has had "somewhere from 90 to 100" jars of oil.

He said other oils he has found will work include chicken, turkey, turtle, mountain lion and seal. He also said he has one jar of a bear and seal mix that

Experiments with oils from other animals such as cow, deer, hog and lamb have failed, he said. "I'm not saying others won't work, I just haven't got the oth-

The fat has to be rendered at a fairly low heat and taken care of correctly for it to work," he said. "The oil that comes out of the fat is the same thing as when you fry bacon in the morning.

Wimsatt said he keeps the jars in the south windows of his house.

They have to be exposed to that outside atmosphere to work right. They do need outside air and my windows give it to them," he said, laughing.

He said that depending on the weather, patterns form in the oil, or it gets lighter or darker. For example, he said, when the oil turns darker, it's going to

"For some unknown reason it works," Wimsatt said. "I can't answer why. I just know it does.

Nation's Governors Lack Clout

WASHINGTON (AP) - That resolution the nation's governors adopted the other day endorsing President Reagan's budget-cutting aims is worth just about as much as the paper it was written on.

It doesn't say much since the governors disagreed about what they were agreeing to. And they won't be voting on federal spending anyhow.

Reagan knows the routine. He used to be a governor himself.

One of the political frustrations of the office goes with the fact that while governors are the heavy hitters at their state capitals, their collective clout in Washington isn't much.

They've been trying for years to change that. "The next 60 days, 100 days, is going to be one of the most crucial times in the history of our country for the future of federalism," said Gov. James B. Hunt Jr. of North Carolina.

Hunt, a Democrat, said governors should be working hard in Washington over that period to make sure that any overhaul of the federal budget is in keeping with the needs and rights of the

"If we don't do the job these next several months, the nation is going to get hurt very badly," he said.

One of their opening ventures in that undertaking was the qualified endorsement of the Reagan program. Two of the 27 Democratic governors dissented. One Maine, said the National Governors' Association was writing a blank check, endorsing a program even before the Republican administration spells out all the sweeping.

"We share with the administration the belief that federal expenditures must be brought under control," the governors declared, "and we are prepared to accept budget cuts."

Then a reservation, adopted at Democratic behest:

"But we will vigorously oppose any attempts to shift costs to state and local taxpayers." Republican governors said

Reagan has said his ultimate goal is to shift those costs, and at the same time have the federal government relinquish to the states the revenue sources to pay for them.

That's easier suggested than done Besides, if such shifts did occur, it would fall to the states - the governors - to propose reinstatement at the state level of taxes previously levied from Washington. And imposing taxes is one of the less palatable tasks for any politician, a governor included

Nonetheless, Gov. Bruce Babbitt of Arizona, a Democrat, said that's what should happen. He said such federal programs as aid to public education, transportation and law enforcement should be uprooted from Washington and transplanted to the states. In exchange, he said, the federal government should take over the entire welfare program.

'Governors ought to have the fortitude to say these are our responsibilities, and we're willing to pay the bill," Babbitt said. There was no rush to join him.

"Cuts ought to be cuts," said Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California. 'They shouldn't fall back on state and local taxpayers because then it is a shell game. ... There has to be a recognition that certain costs are inexorable and they shouldn't be shifted to state or local government.

Brown said he supports the idea of cutting federal spending. But he said a tax cut isn't a tax cut if what Washington gives back the states have to take away again

"It is a red flag, it is a danger,"

"Our support for this resolution cannot be interpreted as endorsing any of the specific budget cuts that the president has so far proposed," said Gov. Brendan Byrne of New Jersey, like Brown a Democrat. He described most of the domestic social programs targeted for cuts as efforts to help the needy, not the greedy

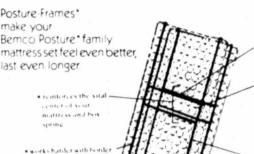

All of that prompted Republican Gov. Pierre S. Du Pont IV of Delaware to say he felt as though he were back in Con-

Drama Centers On Presley's Romance was the reason I finally decided to leave

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Elvis Presley's last serious romance will be compressed into a two-hour TV drama Sunday in "Elvis and The Beauty Queen," an insight into the singer's affair with Linda Thompson. Linda, Miss Tennessee in the 1972 Miss Universe Pageant, was Elvis' live-in mistress for five years. The couple broke up a scant eight months before his death in August 1977.

Now the wife of 1976 Olympic decathlon champ Bruce Jenner, Linda served as consultant for the NBC-TV drama of her years with the famed rock and roller.

Linda would make an ideal poster girl attesting the physical virtues of southern womanhood. She is blonde, statuesque, beautiful and beguiling enough to convince you she frets about losing her "good girl" status by moving in with Elvis.

Of the people close to Elvis, including his 13 companion-bodyguards, popularly known as the Memphis Mafia, no one was closer to Presley during his final decline than Linda, a native of Memphis her-

They met when Linda, a 22-year-old Elvis fan, visited the gates of Graceland, Presley's mansion, hoping to get a glimpse of the star. A couple of his bodyguards convinced her to join them and meet Elvis at a midnight movie.

It was a common enough practice. Presiey's gang had only to go to the gates to harvest any number of naive girls from whom Elvis took his pick as bed partners. The rejects fell to his companions.

Even Linda admits that Presley probably bedded more sweet young things than Errol Flynn and Casanova com-

But Linda, who says she was a virgin-al creature when she met the singer, held out for several months - a strange and rare phenomenon to Elvis. Eventually, however, she acquiesced and moved into

Linda, thoroughly in love with Elvis, was showered with jewels, expensive designer gowns, furs and automobiles. But she had nowhere to go and no one to see her in all the finery.

As Presley's mistress, she became a virtual prisoner in Graceland and an anonymous presence when traveling with Elvis to Vegas or other personal appearances - always surrounded by the Memphis Mafia and their groupies

"We met in July of 1972 and by November I was living in Graceland," Linda said. "I was kept out of sight. When we flew anywhere, it was in one of Elvis private planes. I used the garbage entrances to hotels and rode freight eleva-

"I became a recluse by association with Elvis. But I was young and in love. People ask me if I didn't mind losing my privacy. Privacy was all we had.

"He demanded total loyalty. I occasionally was allowed to visit my parents. But even that was difficult because we stayed up all night and slept all day. In a sense it was like being a prisoner. I escaped relatively unscathed

Elvis only once. That was in Las Vegas Twice we had dinner in restaurants after they'd closed to other customers for the night. I lived in lonely luxury. But my sense of humor saw me through.

Elvis had his own projection room for movies in Graceland. But just to get out of the house sometimes we'd go to the Memphian theater after it closed to see new movies with the Memphis 13 and their dolls."

Elvis remained faithful to Linda for the first year of their relationship, she says, adding that it was probably a lifetime record for Presley. But then he began fooling around with other girls, most of them groupies.

Linda says she understood Presley's needs for sexual and spiritual encounters with other women. She didn't like it but there was nothing she could do.

"He was a paradox," Linda said. "In many ways he was an angelic little boy, dear, sweet and loving, who never grew up. Then again he could be mean, vicious and nasty. Part of it was the drugs, part of it was his basic nature.

"Elvis had a curious moral objection to illegal drugs. In five years I saw him smoke grass only once. I think he tried cocaine once. All his drugs were legal prescriptions. He didn't want to break

Story Of U.S. Hockey Team's Victory Not Suited For Movie

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) - I wonder when it occurred to ABC that making a big TV movie out of the U.S. hockey team's startling win in last year's Olympics might not be the "natural" it seemed at the time.

Perhaps it was when someone realized that a whole lot of dramatic conflict would have to be contrived to make the thing acceptable to an audience widely indifferent to hockey. Or, perhaps it never occurred to ABC at all, which would explain this three-hour blimp of a movie, "Miracle on Ice," to be broadcast this

You can't blame ABC for trying, real-After all, that network covered the Olympics and had film of an event that sent chills of pride down the national

But it turns out that some things that happen in this life are not perfectly suited to TV drama (surprise!), and the Olympic hockey victory is one of them. Witness "Miracle on Ice."

For 21/2 hours, Karl Malden (playing U.S. Coach Herb Brooks) and his team of young actors struggle through the business of trying to create dramatic mountains out of molehills, or hockey pucks, if you will. Malden goes on and on about the nasty Ruskies, and since none of our Olympians was one-legged or blind or on parole from San Quentin, much is made of goalie Jim Craig's poverty and the fact that his mother had recently died. The presence of athletes' agents is even called upon to help pass some of the those national experiences meant to be savored in the quiet of individual memory; movie makeup and camera lights distort the moment.

The delight of that happy Olympic gift was that it was unexpected, delivered in the night by unheralded strangers.

America was just sort of sitting there, watching itself being pummeled, perhaps idly wondering about the hostages in Iran or the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, when ABC sportscaster Al Michaels said. in effect, "Hey, look what I found here. Some American kids are doing good."

We glanced over, and sure enough, there was a little something to be proud of. And the best part, somehow, was that we didn't have to earn that good feeling by following the team's devolpment and fretting over its chances and such. Now ABC is asking us to pay.

The folks at ABC's "Fridays" show are delighting over the windfall hype that has come their way this week after guest host Andy Kaufman's on-camera "fight' at the end of last Friday's show.

Kaufman, a bit of a strango on stage, departed from the show's script and tangled with the show's script supervisor-announcer, Jack Burns, in front of the cam-

sault-on-propriety humor that Kaufman's known for, and indeed, sources on the show admit that the "fight" was

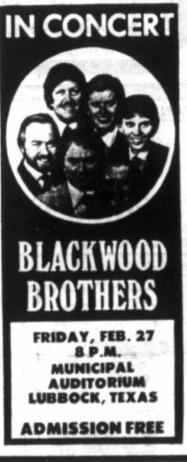

What wasn't expected was the attention that's been accorded the gag. Pick-ing up the ball, one "Fridays" publicist called the other day to quietly suggest that "Fridays" producer John Moffitt just might be available for comment on the matter. I'll bet he is. In the meantime, releases were distributed saying that Kaufman had "no comment at the present" - but he'll be on tonight's show to give his side of the

By VERNON SCOTT HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Western duds, country music, drawls and good old boys are all the rage these days, and wallowing in the glory of it all is Claude Akins, a man ahead of his time.

His name alone is redolent of squeaking fiddles, weathered faces, yokel patois and down home values.

As the star of NBC's "Lobo," in which he plays a hick sheriff from Georgia's outback assigned to special duty in Atlanta, Akins can gawp at tall buildings and wonder at sleek ladies and indoor plumbing with the best of 'em.

Providence quarried Akins from a block of Americana. His Cherokee ancestry is clearly chiseled into his strong face. He's broad-shouldered and barrel-chested. The timbre of his voice rivals Mount Akins, morever, is the quintessential square in the best sense. He is a Godfearing man who has been married to wife Theresa for almost 30 years.

But until recently, Akins was type cast as uncouth characters. Good old boys, for the most part, were depicted in TV and movies as rednecked bigots, criminals, racists and all-purpose heav-pecially Southerners, did not unite to fight the image, not even to appeal to the ACLU as other groups or minorities almost certainly would have done.

So Claude spent a large share of his acting career playing rube heavies in the likes of "The Caine Mutiny" and "From Here To Eternity," or clodhopper comedy roles in movies and episodic TV.

Claude, however, should never be mistaken for the characters he plays. Although he was born in the hamlet of Nelson, Ga., Akins was reared in Bedford, Ind., and attended Northwestern University. He is a sophisticated man in many respects whose early background included Shakespeare.

He came to Hollywood in 1950 after starring in "The Rose Tattoo" on Broadway.

"They made a heavy out of me right away," Akins said good-naturedly.

"I guess my size and my face con-vinced them I would make a good menace. I didn't mind. Even when I played the worst sort of villain I tried to sneak in some good qualities so the people would

New Shows, ABC's Decline Sustain Silverman

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Since the moment of his ascendency to the top of NBC in June 1978, the matter of Fred Silverman's descent has been an inspiration to TV industry observers.

That the fall would come was considered inevitable. The question was when, and how spectacular it would be.

The conjecture has been a natural byproduct of the situation: Silverman, the wizard, could not possibly have lived up to his billing (or his $1 million annual sal-

So, the rumors. They cooled a bit last fall when RCA, NBC's parent company, renewed Silverman's contract in a show of confidence. But continually laggard ratings for the network's prime time pro-

MINISERIES NOW FILMING

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Ali MacGraw will play the role of Natalie Jastrow in the 16-hour ABC miniseries "Winds of War," now filming in Europe. The role of her uncle, Aaron Jastrow, will be played by Lee Strasberg. Robert Mitchum makes his television debut in the series as Pug Henry and Polly Bergen plays his wife, Rhoda. The cast and crew is currently in Zagreb, Yugoslavia, and moves to Rome next week. The filming, under the direction of Dan Curtis, is reported to be slightly ahead of schedule grams and, especially, a change at the top of RCA have stirred new talk of a Silverman demise

Silverman has more than once stoked the fires himself. There was the splashy flop, "Supertrain," which quickly tarnished the Silverman image; then he promised last year to have the network No. 1 by Christmas. When he failed there, Silverman set for himself another public ultimatum — springtime or bust.

And so it is said that Silverman's fate will be decided this spring, probably in March, when the RCA board convenes. Many reckon the NBC president will get the boot, basing their contentions on the so-so performance of Silverman's do-ordie schedule (the programs on the air now) and on the departure of RCA Chairman Edgar Griffiths, who has been Sil-

But the question remains, beyond Silverman, who? One story holds that ABC news and sports chief Roone Arledge has been or will be offered the job. Another theory holds that RCA, jaded to magic,

the network. These theorists forward the name of Robert Mulholland, currently president of the NBC Television division. It should be noted that yet another possibility remains — Silverman may come through. In fact, I have the feeling that he will remain at NBC long enough to fashion at least one more fall lineup at that network

Two factors will carry Silverman through at least this Spring:

First, Silverman's current schedule will continue to perform just well enough to raise doubt over the wisdom of his re-

He has a broader base of hits than ever before, with "Little House on the Prairie," "Lobo," "Real People,"

"Diff'rent Strokes" and "Quincy" perthe executive corps already assembled at forming as well as or better than expected. And three of NBC's new shows, "Brady Girls," "Harper Valley" and "Barbara Mandrell" are winning their time slots with some consistency

While "Walking Tall" has proven a ratings failure in addition to being a tasteless, exploitive abomination, three other new shows, currently low-rated, show signs of life. Foremost among them is "Hill Street Blues," the best new show of this season, which is beginning to attract word-of-mouth trade. "Nero Wolfe" and "The Gangster Chronicles" also have possibilities.

The second circumstance benefitting

Silverman is ABC's decline. That development would allow (indeed, has allowed) Silverman to claim big gains on ABC - which, when portrayed as NBC's improvement rather than ABC's decline, has some PR value. With some help from ABC, Silverman line will be summer, when Thornton Bradshaw assumes the chairmanship of

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

Questions still pour in concerning tragic John Lennon.

Here are some answers:

The official cause of death of the unforgettable former Beatle was "blood loss due to gunshot wounds." Variety talfied approximately how many units of Lennon records were sold since he was murdered on Dec. 8, 1980 and estimated more than 10 million. And Circus magazine comes up with a list of John and Yoko films that remain unreleased. They include "Rape," "Two Virgins," "Smile," "Honeymoon," "Self-Portrait," "Apotheosis '69," "Let It Be Up Your Legs." "Fly," "Imagine," etc. The couple married in March of '69 in Gilbraltar. And the original name of the Beatles when formed was "The Silver Beatles."

Another tidbit: John Lennon was born in Liverpool, Oct. 9, 1940 and in '57 entered the Liverpool Art College. Yoko, since the sudden loss of her man, has shown by her dignity what he saw in her when others, including so-called "friends" ridiculed the loyal, smart and well-educated wom-

And it was Buck Owens, several years ago, who publicly announced he was shopping for a wife and received thousands of proposals (mit photos). "The most amusing proposal," he said at the time, came from a fellow in Philadelphia who wrote: "Let's dispense with the sexual discrimination. I can make you as happy as any woman can. WNET has produced a dazzling "Gala of Stars 1981," taped at New York's famed Carnegie Hall in conjunction with the hall's 90th birthday, for airing in most PBS markets on March 22. The event is well-named. (The show will be air at 7 p.m. on Lubbock Channel 5, KTXT-TV.)

Beverly Sills is hostess for an evening in which stars range from Itzhak Perlman and Marilyn Horne to Liza Minnelli and Victor Borge. In one of the few nonclassical numbers, Minnelli tears her way through "But the World Goes Round" and "New York, New York," which she practically has made her theme song.

Borge, who has added a stooge in the form of Sahan Arzruni to his comedic act, is as Borgian as ever, and Gelsey Kirkland is fluid grace, dancing "The Dying Swan," which composer Camille Saint-Saens originally created for the great ballerina Anna Pavlova.
