

Longer Zip Code Use Voluntary, Official Says

By JOE GULICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Just when some people have finally memorized their five-digit zip code number, the U.S. Postal Service is about to expand the number to nine digits.

However, a postal service official visiting Lubbock said Tuesday the new "zip plus four" program is a voluntary plan which will offer better service at lower postal rates.

Doug Daniel, regional coordinator for the new program, said the new zip codes will add a hyphen and four numbers to existing zip codes. The first two of the added numbers will break down existing zip code areas to 100-grid sectors and the last two digits will narrow down those sectors into small areas that would be served by a single letter carrier, such as a block, one side of a block, a small building or a floor of a larger building, he said.

The new zip codes would only be used with first class letter mail that can be processed by machine and typed and computer-generated mail, Dennison said. At the present time, the system will not be set up to handle handwritten-addressed mail, he said.

When the mail using the code comes into local post offices, optical character readers will scan the nine digits and put on the envelope a bar code similar to the Universal Products Code currently being used on food items.

From there the mail would go directly to a machine that would read the bar code and distribute the mail to a specific area for delivery, Daniel said.

On business reply envelopes, businesses can print the bar code, thereby bypassing the need for the optical character reader, he said.

Daniel said the business community makes up 80 percent of the mail volume in the United States and 14 percent of the remaining volume is mail going back to the business community. For this reason, the new zip code program is obviously being aimed primarily at businesses, he said.

Computerized mailing currently makes up 40 percent of the mail volume, he said. In June, the Postal Service will loan tapes to businesses using computerized mailing lists. The tapes will be compatible with the computer organization of the business, Daniel said.

The cost of the new system will be $900 million when fully implemented, he said. The new equipment will make processing of five-digit zip codes more efficient, but the nine-digit zip codes can be processed even faster, he said.

Because the new equipment will save manpower costs, use of the nine-digit zip code would mean the post office would recoup 48 percent of its investment per year, meaning that the equipment would pay for itself in two years.

The new equipment processing the five-digit code would recoup only 22 percent of the post office's investment per year.

Daniel said the use of the longer zip code would enable the Postal Service to handle the mail more efficiently and hold costs down, avoiding future rises in postage stamp prices.

He emphasized that the Postal Service didn't plan to fire or lay off anyone to make room for the addition of the new equipment. Instead, it would take the place of employees who retire.

There are 79 million different addresses in the United States and every resident will be notified by letter sometime in mid-October of his new zip code number. Businesses that will be using the code will be notified earlier, he said.

The five-digit zip code program was introduced in July 1963, Daniel said. Zip codes are used on 97 percent of all U.S. mail, which has enabled the United States to have the second lowest postage rates — second only to Canada — in the free world, he said.

Library Hosting Workshop

The Mahon Library will sponsor a workshop from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. today dealing with library services to handicapped persons.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. for the workshop titled "Breaking the Barriers" conducted by the Texas State Library. The seminar is designed for librarians and others concerned with library services to the handicapped.

About 50 persons from as far away as Amarillo and San Angelo have preregistered, said Katherine Chapman of the city-county library staff. A few more can be accepted, she said.

Promotional materials will be available and special equipment such as a talking book machine and cassette player will be on display. Workshop participants also will be familiarized with handicapped persons' characteristics, collection development and pertinent federal legislation.

Dr. Kieth C. Wright, chairman and professor of the division of library science/educational technology at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro will lead the sessions. He is former head librarian at Gallaudet College, a widely known liberal arts college for the deaf. Patsy Castro and Linda Robinson of the Texas State Library in Austin will assist him.

Discussion topics include attitudinal barriers, public law on building accessibility, information sources, collection development, problems and trends for the '80s.

Among the objectives of the workshop will be identification of stereotyped attitudes toward handicapped persons, understanding the implications of handicapping conditions as they affect library services and suggesting ways to improve library collections to better serve handicapped persons.

Mahon Library is at 1306 Ninth St. Additional information is available by calling Katherine Chapman at 762-6411, ext. 2823.

Montford To Begin Case Against Murder Defendant Alexander

By KIM COBB

Avalanche-Journal Staff
ABILENE — Lubbock County Criminal District Attorney John Montford will begin his case today against capital murder defendant Billy Wayne Alexander Jr., working determinedly toward a death sentence for the 21-year-old Lorenzo man who is charged with the slaying of a Department of Public Safety trooper last October.

Attorneys seated the 12th and final juror Tuesday afternoon after more than seven days of interviews with 50 prospective jurors. The case was moved from Lubbock's 137th District Court to a courtroom here on a change of venue to escape the pre-trial publicity which has dogged Alexander since the body of Jerry Don Davis was found in his DPS patrol car Oct. 5, 1980.

Montford, prosecutor Yvonne Faulk and defense attorneys Floyd Holder and Dick Alexander were scheduled to meet at 8:30 a.m. today to examine several pieces of evidence outside the presence of the jury.

The panel was instructed to report at 10 a.m. today to hear the beginning of the state's testimony against Alexander.

The district attorney is expected to open his case with testimony from several DPS officers.

Attorneys agreed on the final juror after interviewing only four prospects Tuesday. The selection of 64-year-old Cleo Glaze and 45-year-old Ann G. Sanders completed the four-woman, eight-man panel. Jurors will remain sequestered in an Abilene motel for the duration of the trial which could last another week.

Glaze, a retired city maintenance foreman, was the first prospect interviewed Tuesday in Taylor County's 104th District Courtroom.

The oldest juror on the panel has toured the country on a motorcycle since his retirement, sometimes taking his wife along.

Mrs. Sanders, a 51-year-old graduate of Hardin Simmons University, works as a Baptist church secretary. She has three children, ranging in age from 23 to 14.

The other 10 jurors are:

- Jeanette Weitzel, a 45-year-old working mother with four children the approximate age of both the defendant and the murder victim.
- Joe Preston Goetz, a 38-year-old business office manager and father of three.
- Sandy Meador, a 23-year-old administrative assistant to the executive vice president of Abilene's Hendrick Medical Center.

- Rosemary Riojas, 20, a realty company secretary.
- Frank Carmichael, 21, a student and oilfield roughneck.
- Carol Ann Foster, a 42-year-old accounts payable clerk with an Abilene electronics firm.
- Jerry O'Bryant, 43, a forecaster with the National Weather Service who also writes a weekend hunting and fishing column for the Abilene Reporter-News.

- Billy Dan Vaughn, a 26-year-old desk clerk for the Mid-Continent Inn.
- Alvin Doyle Caulder, a 20-year-old WESTEX Drilling employee.
- Victor Tantillo, 36, a plant controller for a heavy equipment company.

Each of the jurors indicated to prosecutors that they could assess the death penalty for a capital murder conviction, although some conceded that they could vote for a death sentence with some hesitation.

With the beginning of testimony this morning, more than 150 witnesses for both the state and the defense will begin their journey to Abilene — some from as far as Liberal, Kan., where Alexander was arrested.

Police Force Code Of Conduct Revisions Studied By Panel

By JACK DOUGLAS

Avalanche-Journal Staff
 A committee is working to bring up to date the Lubbock Police Department's Code of Conduct, using suggestions from a recently completed study on "police discretion and rulemaking."

Capt. Bill Cox, head of the department's juvenile division and chairman of the committee, said no specific area of conduct is being looked at, but that the city is attempting to adapt, where it can, to possible changes stated in an exhaustive, 500-page report by the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations.

The study's product is entitled "A Resource Manual on Police Discretion and Rulemaking," which details "model rules for peace officers." The manual recently was received by the 12-man committee, which is scheduled to be in session at least a week.

Cox said early Tuesday no conduct changes have yet been made. "There's no reason for it other than to see where we stand," he said. "We're just going over the new one (manual), and adjusting that to fit the City of Lubbock."

The state commission proposes a series of rules to cover what it feels are the main problems in police work, including strict limitations on the use of deadly force. Under the commission's proposal, an officer would be prohibited from firing his gun unless necessary to save himself or another from death or serious bodily injury.

The prohibition is narrower than the state penal code, which permits an officer to shoot a fleeing felon.

In regard to high-speed chases, the commission recommends adopting a rule that "an officer's duty to avoid damage or injury to innocent third parties takes precedence over pursuit."

The rule urges officers to weigh the seriousness of the offense against the possibility of getting somebody killed or seriously hurt. "In most cases that means getting close enough to read the license number (of a suspect's vehicle) and then letting the fugitive go his way," said Dallas councilman Steve Bartlett, who presided over preparation of the ACIR manual.

The commission also suggested action by the Texas Legislature, including adoption of:

- A state law requiring cities to provide liability insurance for their law enforcement officers.
- Statutory authorization for police vehicles to "run silent" when responding to certain emergencies, such as a burglary in progress, where the use of a siren and emergency lights — no required by law — would alert the perpetrators.
- The requirement that municipal judges be available around the clock to handle emergencies involving child abuse and other situations where law enforcement action cannot occur without a magistrate.
- And increasing the quantity and quality of minimum training for peace officers before receiving state certification, "specifically including instruction in high-speed pursuit driving."

Federal, County Officials Confer On Slaying Case

Federal officials met with the Lubbock County Sheriff's Department Tuesday in connection with the early November murder of Richard Grier Luster, investigating the possibility the case has a wider scope than just a local killing.

"We feel like this thing has the potential of being international," Sheriff D.L. "Sonny" Keesee said Tuesday.

Deputy Don Gass, heading the murder investigation, met with U.S. Customs officials. Keesee said his department also was to meet with state narcotics agents and the FBI in connection with Luster's murder.

Gass met with agents of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration last week, the sheriff said.

Gass would not be specific on what was to be discussed in Tuesday's meeting, but deputies have hinted that drug smuggling and gun running between the United States and South America may have played a part in the execution-style shooting.

Vernon Ray Gilmore, 31, and Samantha Davidson, both charged with the murder, were arrested Dec. 20 as they crossed the Canadian border into the United States at Blaine, Wash. Miss Davidson since has been released on bond, but Gilmore remains in jail in lieu of a $25,000 bond on the murder charge and bonds of $20,000 and $2,500 on charges of burglary and felony theft, respectively.

The 28-year-old Luster was found shot once in the side early Nov. 8 in his car parked in a caliche pit about 1 1/2 miles east of FM 1729.

Dry Lands Lecture Scheduled

Dr. Idris R. Traylor Jr., deputy director of the International Center for Arid and Semi-Arid Land Studies, will be first speaker for the five-part series, Arid Land and Human Responses Lecture Series, at The Museum of Texas Tech University.

"Definition and Distribution of World's Dry Lands" will be Traylor's topic for the first lecture at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the main gallery of the museum.

He will use slides of people and places to help define the dry lands and discuss their locations.

Iris Love, noted classical archaeologist who discovered the lost temple of Aphrodite in 1969, will lecture Feb. 10 at the second session.

She is excavating the ancient Greek city of Knidos located on the southwest coast of Turkey.

The series is sponsored by the West Texas Museum Association and the museum.

United Way Toasts Fund Drive Workers

Fund drive organizers and past officers of Lubbock's United Way were thanked by the organization in an awards ceremony Tuesday night.

The ceremony also marked the fund drive surpassing the $2 million mark and the installation of 1981 officers.

New officers include R.P. "Bob" Fuller, president; Clem Boverie, vice president; B.C. "Peck" McMinn, campaign chairman; Cliff Cummings, secretary-treasurer; Joe Minkley, budget chairman; Joe McKay, council chairman; and Jim Goodwin, public relations chairman.

McMinn formerly served as campaign chairman and was automatically moved to the president's post the following year.

New members of the board of directors welcomed into the organization Monday were Dr. Lauro Cavazos, Robert Greenhill, Rickey Childers and Jan Friedrich.

Recognized for their contributions to campaign efforts during 1980 were Ralph Sellmeyer, who served two terms as public relations chairman; budget chairman Robert Greenhill; community planning council chairman David Miller; Marjorie Kastman, outgoing vice president; J.C. Chambers, campaign chairman; and Joe Price, outgoing president.

A special recognition award also was presented to Kathleen Muller, the Goodwill Industries handicapped worker featured in the 1980 United Way campaign film.

Price and Mrs. Kastman also were honored as past officers of the organization, along with Cummings as secretary-treasurer; Chambers as campaign chairman; Miller as council chairman; Greenhill as budget chairman; and Sellmeyer as public relations director.

Mayor pro tem Alan Henry served as master of ceremonies for the event. Featured speaker for the occasion was Bill Gerton, regional vice president of Target Stores.

Gerton is a board member of the Plano United Way, was co-chairman of its campaign last year and will serve again this year in that capacity.

Weinberger Approved For Defense Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Caspar W. Weinberger won Senate confirmation as President Reagan's secretary of defense Tuesday less than six hours after Reagan's inauguration as president.

With many of its members still in the formal morning clothes they wore for the presidential oath-taking, the Senate voted 97-2 to make Weinberger the first confirmed member of the Reagan Cabinet.

Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Alan Cranston praised his fellow Californian, saying Weinberger understands "the need for economy in spending the large amounts of money we spend on national defense."

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., voted against the nomination, saying Weinberger was not ready to make a "clean break with the very policies of the past which have managed our military and international decline." Joining Helms in voting against Weinberger was Sen. John East, also a North Carolina Republican. Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., missed the vote. Nunn is out of the country, a spokesman said.

Helms also said he would oppose the nomination of Frank Carlucci as deputy secretary of defense, saying Carlucci's "talents reinforce Mr. Weinberger's weaknesses and obviate his strengths."

He told the Senate that Weinberger made a good record as a welfare and budget official in the Nixon administration but his "dedication to efficiency, frugality and sound management simply are not enough" to deal with "the national crisis ... of sheer survival" facing America.

"A secretary of defense who is principally preoccupied with removing waste would be driven by the logic of his position to eliminating his whole department," Helms said.

Helms spoke after Sen. John Tower, R-Texas and Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., warmly endorsed the Weinberger nomination.

Reagan signed the nominations of 17 Cabinet and top administration officials in a room off the Senate chamber soon after he took the presidential oath, beginning with Alexander M. Haig to be secretary of state.

Units of Reagan's inaugural parade were still marching past the Capitol when the Senate convened to begin the confirmation process, taking up Weinberger first at Reagan's request.

Weinberger's confirmation was expected. The Senate agreed to begin debating the Haig nomination after the vote on Weinberger, but was not expected to vote on Haig until Wednesday. Leaders of the Republican-controlled Senate hoped to zip through as many nominees by the end of Reagan's first few days in office as possible.

Fishing Fund Probe Nearing Completion

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Sheriff D.L. "Sonny" Keesee predicted late Tuesday that his department will wrap up its investigation of alleged irregularities in the county's road maintenance operations sometime today.

Keesee said he expected his deputies to turn over all their findings in the case to the Criminal District Attorney's Office this afternoon.

The investigation was launched last week after the sheriff's department received complaints from former Precinct 3 Commissioner Jim Lancaster of Idalou.

Lancaster charged that road crew employees at Idalou have accumulated a "fishing fund" for several years from donations they received for performing private road work and from the sale of county-owned scrap iron and batteries.

The former commissioner turned $444.20 over to Keesee, saying the money came from the alleged fishing fund.

Lancaster also questioned the legality of a 1978 transaction between the county and the City of Slaton. Slaton officials traded off a county bulldozer that had been loaned to the city by the late Commissioner Max Arrants.

Deputies assigned to the investigation spent part of Tuesday questioning Slaton officials and road crew workers from Precincts 2 and 4.

Commissioner Alton Brazell, who serves in Precinct 4, also spent about two hours being questioned by the deputies.

Following the session with deputies, Brazell said that many of the questions focused on the agreement reached by county and Slaton officials regarding a county-owned bulldozer that had been traded off by the city.

Lancaster has questioned the legality of the agreement for reimbursement on the bulldozer that was approved by the commissioners court.

Slaton officials paid the county $750, which was established to be the salvage value of the vehicle, Brazell said. Precinct 2 Commissioner Coy Biggs of Slaton gathered the information regarding the bulldozer's value, Brazell explained.

However, Lancaster has maintained that the county was cheated in the deal, claiming that the bulldozer was worth several thousand dollars.

According to Brazell, the county purchased the used bulldozer in 1970 at a total cost of $10,500. The only reason the vehicle was bought, he said, was so that it could be loaned to Slaton for use in that city's dumpground.

Brazell contended that using a bulldozer in a dumpground takes a heavier toll of the equipment. The commissioner said he doubted that the piece of equipment could have been worth very much money after seven years of use at the dumpground.

Brazell also told deputies that the Slaton incident was not the first time that another governmental agency has accidentally traded off county-owned equipment.

Civic Center Rental Rate Hikes Approved

By PAT GRAVES
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Lubbock Civic Center Board voted Tuesday to recommend the City Council adopt six new rental rates and one revised rate for seven areas of the Civic Center previously unmentioned in the facility's policy manual.

Board Chairman Al Couch said the revisions will be over and above the center's regular rates, which will be reviewed by the city in February. He added the seven proposed amendments will be presented for council approval after that review.

The sole change calls for charging $2 per booth per day to exhibitors using the pedestrian mall area for displaying or merchandising in conjunction with an event in another part of the facility. The mall will not be rented separately, and registration and information booths would be excluded.

The current rate is $10 per booth per event, regardless of length. The remaining proposed rates are for areas which have been rented but for which there was no set policy because their use was not anticipated.

The new rental rates passed by the board are mezzanine — $150 with food, $300 without food; theatre dinner lobby — $50; grand stairway — $50; fountain plaza — $100; hospitality suite — $50; and the Civic Center parking lot — negotiable.

The mezzanine and theatre dinner lobby would be rented only when all other suitable space is booked. The hospitality suite still will be provided for larger events using the center.

The chairman of the house, maintenance and concessions committee, John Anderson, reported the group was studying a variety of equipment needs, many of which would be long-term expenditures, for the Civic Center and Auditorium-Coliseum.

Among the items being discussed are a computer system for the Civic Center which would handle liquor and supply inventories. Anderson said the committee will meet again to continue studying such items as parking, signs, lights, sound equipment, carpet replacement and cleaning, barricades and staging.

In other business, Couch read a letter to Anderson from State Rep. E.L. Short expressing his support for the board's desire to get a Lubbock representative on the Texas Commission of the Arts.

Board members became concerned last month when Anderson announced the commission had rejected all five of Lubbock's grant applications, including one to fund a series of summer musicals to have been produced by the Texas Tech music department.

At the December meeting Anderson said he sympathized with the commission because it had more than $1 million in requests but only $342,000 to grant. He added, however, that he felt at least one of the Lubbock projects should have been funded.

Anderson and other board members said they thought the rejection was a result of lack of area representation. Board member Bob Nash said it would require the influence of a major contributor to Gov. Bill Clements campaign to get a Lubbock voice on the commission.

Short said in his letter Lubbock needs representation on the commission and he welcomes suggestions. Six vacancies will occur in January. Lubbock has not had a commissioner since 1975.

At Anderson's suggestion, the board Tuesday referred to Civic Lubbock's booking committee a possible summer musical involving the Tech Music and University Theatres. Civic Lubbock is the board's non-profit counterpart for promotion.

Global Congratulations Extended To Reagan

By The Associated Press
 On his first day in office Tuesday, President Ronald Reagan received an offer of cooperation from Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev and a brief sermon on U.S.-Chinese relations from Premier Zhao Ziyang.
 "I am confident that the positive development of relations between the Soviet Union and the United States and their constructive cooperation in handling vi-and the fruitful international cooperation."

 While the Hungarian and Czechoslovak news agencies merely said Presidents Pal Losonczi and Gustav Husak sent telegrams of congratulation, the Romanian news agency Agerpress gave a full account of President Nicolae Ceausescu's telegram.
 It quoted him as saying it was his firm wish that relations founded on "peace, detente, collaboration and observance of national independence" would continue.
 The Yugoslavian news agency Tanjug said Reagan's "balanced" inaugural speech stressed that "peace is what the American people covet most" and noted he also declared "America will never surrender."
 The Canadian House of Commons unanimously passed a motion extending best wishes to Reagan.
 In London, the New Standard newspaper said in an editorial that Reagan has chosen economic remedies similar to those adopted by British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

 Zhao sent a congratulatory telegram apparently reminding Reagan to keep relations with the Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan unofficial.
 "During your tenure of office, the relations between China and the United States will continue to develop and the traditional friendship between our two great peoples will grow in strength steadily on the basis of both sides firmly abiding by the principles of the communique on the establishment of diplomatic relations between our two countries," he said.
 d'Estaing said, "At the moment of your accession to the presidency of the United States, I send you my warmest wishes for the success in your high mission. Words Of Slain Soldier Immortalized In Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — The patriotic words of an unknown barber killed in action in France during World War I were immortalized in President Reagan's inaugural address Tuesday.
 But the soldier, Martin Treptow, apparently is buried in his hometown of Bloomer, Wis., not in Arlington National Cemetery, as Reagan implied.
 Reagan closed his speech with a tribute to the heroes, buried under "simple white markers" in Arlington National Cemetery, who fought America's wars. He said:
 "Under one such marker lies a young man — Martin Treptow — who left his job in a small-town barber shop in 1917 to go to France with the famed Rainbow Division. There, on the Western front, he was killed trying to carry a message between battalions under heavy artillery fire."
 "We are told that on his body was found a diary. On the flyleaf under the heading, 'My Pledge,' he had written these words: 'America must win this war. Therefore I will work, I will save, I will sacrifice, I will endure, I will fight cheerfully and do my utmost, as if the issue of the whole struggle depended on me alone.'"
 Reagan concluded:
 "The crisis we are facing today does not require of us the kind of sacrifice that Martin Treptow and so many thousands of others were called upon to make. It does require, however, our best effort and our willingness to believe in ourselves and believe in our capacity to perform great deeds; to believe that together and with God's help we can and will resolve the problems which confront us."
 "And after all, why shouldn't we believe that? We are Americans."
 It could not be learned immediately where Reagan had read about Treptow's diary.

 There was some confusion when Raymond Costanzo, superintendent of Arlington National Cemetery, said Treptow had not been buried there. Costanzo, who had checked Treptow's records after an inquiry from a Reagan aide, said Tuesday he believed Treptow had been buried in Bloomington, Wis.
 However, officials at county and state veterans' offices and the State Historical Society of Wisconsin said Pvt. Martin A. Treptow, 24, was killed at Chateau Thierry in France on July 29, 1918, and buried in Bloomer, where an American Legion post bears his name.
 According to state records and an obituary in the Sept. 26, 1918, Bloomer Advance, Treptow was born Jan. 19, 1894, in Eagle Point, grew up in Bloomer and was working in Cherokee, Iowa.

Reagan Inaugural Address Presented

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is a transcript of President Reagan's inaugural address Tuesday.
 Senator Hatfield, Mr. Chief Justice, Mr. President, Vice President Bush, Vice President Mondale, Senator Baker, Speaker O'Neill, Reverend Moonaw, and my fellow citizens:
 To a few of us here today this is a solemn and most momentous occasion. And, yet, in the history of our nation it is a commonplace occurrence.
 The orderly transfer of authority as called for in the Constitution routinely takes place as it has for almost two centuries and few of us stop to think how unique we really are.
 In the eyes of many in the world, this every-four-year ceremony we accept as normal is nothing less than a miracle.
 Mr. President, I want our fellow citizens to know how much you did to carry on this tradition.
 By your gracious cooperation in the transition process you have shown a watching world that we are a united people pledged to maintaining a political system which guarantees individual liberty to a greater degree than any other, and I thank you and your people for all your help in maintaining the continuity which is the bulwark of our Republic.
 The business of our nation goes forward.
 These United States are confronted with an economic affliction of great proportions.
 We suffer from the longest and one of the worst sustained inflations in our national history. It distorts our economic decisions, penalizes thrift and crushes the struggling young and the fixed-income elderly alike. It threatens to shatter the lives of millions of our people.
 Idle industries have cast workers into unemployment, human misery and personal indignity.
 Those who do work are denied a fair return for their labor by a tax system which penalizes successful achievement and keeps us from maintaining full productivity.
 But great as our tax burden is, it has not kept pace with public spending. For decades we have piled deficit upon deficit, mortgaging our future and our children's future for the temporary convenience of the present.
 To continue this long trend is to guarantee tremendous social, cultural, political and economic upheavals.
 You and I, as individuals, can, by borrowing, live beyond our means but for only a limited period of time. Why then should we think that collectively, as a nation, we're not bound by that same limitation?

 We must act today in order to preserve tomorrow. And let there be no misunderstanding — we are going to begin to act beginning today.
 The economic ills we suffer have come upon us over several decades.
 They will not go away in days, weeks, or months, but they will go away. They will go away because we as Americans have the capacity now, as we have had in the past, to do whatever needs to be done to preserve this last and greatest bastion of freedom.
 In this present crisis, government is not the solution to our problem; government is the problem.
 From time to time we have been tempted to believe that society has become too complex to be managed by self-rule, that government by an elite group is superior to government for, by and of the people.
 But, if no one among us is capable of governing himself, then who among us has the capacity to govern someone else?
 All of us together — in and out of government — must bear the burden. The solutions we seek must be equitable with no one group singled out to pay a higher price.
 We hear much of special interest groups. Well, our concern must be for a special interest group that has been too long neglected.
 It knows no sectional boundaries, or ethnic and racial divisions and it crosses political party lines. It is made up of men and women who raise our food, patrol our streets, man our mines and factories, teach our children, keep our homes and heal us when we are sick — professionals, industrialists, shopkeepers, clerks, cabbies and truck drivers. They are, in short, "We the people," this breed called Americans.
 Well, this administration's objective will be a healthy, vigorous, growing economy that provides equal opportunities for all Americans with no barriers born of bigotry or discrimination.
 Putting America back to work means putting all Americans back to work. Ending inflation means freeing all Americans from the terror of runaway living costs.
 All must share in the productive work of this "new beginning," and all must share in the bounty of a revived economy.
 With the idealism and fair play which are the core of our system and our

Bar Soap Works Better Than Scouring Powder On Cabinet Tops

DEAR HELOISE:
Here is a tip I learned from a cabinet-maker... Instead of cleaning stains from laminated cabinet tops with scouring powder, use a bar of soap. Rub it on the stain and leave the soap on for a minute or so, then wash off. If the stain persists, repeat process. — Anne F.

LETTER OF WARNING

DEAR HELOISE:
One icy morning, a few years back, I was running late for work and my husband was late for class. The car windshield was covered with ice, so my husband poured warm water over it and down both door windows. I dropped him off at class thinking what a smart guy I had but, when I got to work, the doors had frozen shut and I had to wait until the heater did its thing to get out. — Jean Hilton

I did not want to put a "do not disturb" sign on the door — they are so unfriendly — so I hung a big fluffy pink nylon net ball on the doorknob to get the message across. They thought it was a great idea. — Lillian Applegate

This seems to give him a bit more self-confidence and the whole new experience is not quite so unpleasant. — Mrs. George Nelson

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:
If your family has to move, and your children will have to attend a different school, here is a suggestion:

It seems to make the first day in the new school go a little better if the child is allowed to pick out something new to wear for the occasion.

But he's a lot smarter now, and still a great guy! — Heloise

HATED CHORE

DEAR HELOISE:
Seems the job I dislike the most, the one I put off, is making the bed. It's so easy to just close the door and forget it! But, comes bedtime, it's a different story! I hate to crawl into a tumbled-up bed!

So, I found if I make the bed before I get dressed, my housework is done before I start!

Also makes dressing easier as I can lay out (more smoothly) on the made-up bed what clothes I will be wearing, jump in the shower, dress, and leave the bedroom with a smile. — Lois Vasacek Worked for me on a purple stain I had on my counter top.

However, I must strongly urge that you never, under any circumstances, use scouring powder on a laminated counter top. You will eventually remove the glaze and then you'll have a problem on top of problems.

Instead, baking soda is good to use to remove the stains. Or, a very mild solution of chlorine bleach. (One tablespoon to quart of water). Rinse well with clear water after using. — Heloise

Reagan Reads 'Peanuts' To Unwind After Concert

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the day that he became the 40th president of the United States, one of the first things Ronald Reagan did, with the help of his staff, was to search for the funnies.

It was sometime after midnight, his mood was sky-high after a gala inaugural concert. Back at Blair House, the president-elect, fewer than 12 hours away from becoming president, wanted to read his favorite comic strip, "Peanuts".

Once the search was completed successfully, according to an account by James S. Brady, the new White House press secretary, Reagan read a series of newspaper advertisements wishing him good luck and stayed up late to watch a televised rerun of the gala concert he had just seen at a sports arena. Thus began Jan. 20, 1981, for the new president. The sky was streaked with pink and purple over the White House as Reagan awoke at 7:30 a.m. and downed a breakfast of orange juice, Sanka and Danish pastry.

A mood settled over the second floor of Blair House, the guest quarters diagonally across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House where the Reagans were staying. It was, said Brady, "subdued, pensive," one of "subdued excitement," as Reagan spent all his time with his family.

The theme throughout the day was one of celebration, interrupted only briefly for business.

A telephone call from President Carter interrupted what Brady called "a family morning" at 8:31 a.m. and Reagan was given an update about the hostages in Iran, who were mentioned only briefly throughout the morning, and not at all in Reagan's inaugural address.

And 54 minutes into his term, Reagan performed his first official act: He signed a memorandum ordering the heads of the federal departments and agencies to freeze all government hiring, permitting only rare exceptions to maintain vital services. This is designed to reduce the size of the federal payroll, and fulfills a campaign promise.

Minutes later, in an ornate room near the Senate chamber where presidents once signed legislation into law, he signed the documents formally submitting his Cabinet nominations.

It was in a service at St. John's Church, an Episcopal church across Lafayette Park from the White House, where the 52 hostages were first mentioned during a ceremony.

The Rev. Billy Graham, delivering a prayer for the Presbyterian Reagan, seated with the new first lady in a middle pew, said, "we could not pray today without praying for the hostages and their families."

But where ever Reagan came into contact with reporters, questions about the hostages were asked.

Coming out of Blair House for the first time, he relayed the words he had gotten from Carter: "The plane's at the end of the runway."

But after noon, after he had taken the oath of office, after Jimmy Carter became former President Carter, the official announcements came from President Reagan.

"The word we have is that both planes (carrying hostages and their belongings) are airborne," he said one hour into his presidency.

And then, with a glass of California wine in his right hand, he announced at a luncheon in the Capitol's Statuary Hall: "Some 30 minutes ago the planes bearing our prisoners left Iranian air space and are now free of Iran. So we can all drink to this one."

He left the Capitol to review a military honor guard, puffing out his chest and standing ramrod straight at attention while an Army band and a life and drum corps passed, and then he began his route home at the head of the inaugural parade. He walked into the White House, finally his home after a 12-year effort, entering by the South Portico at 3:47 p.m.

All along the parade route on Pennsylvania Avenue, the president and the new first lady stood in their limousine, which bore inaugural license plate number 1, and waved at the crowds. But they ducked back in the car as it passed the J. Edgar Hoover Building, housing the FBI headquarters, where anti-Reagan demonstrators were perched on the sidewalk.

"Let Them Eat Mink," said one sign, an apparent reference to Nancy Reagan's fur coats.

Ancestral Home Marks Inauguration

BALLYPOREEN, Ireland (AP) — The citizens of this normally sleepy village, birthplace of Ronald Reagan's ancestors, paraded through the pouring rain behind pipe and drum bands Tuesday to mark his inauguration as U.S. President.

Then they headed for what used to be called John O'Farrell's bar — now "The Ronald Reagan" — to toast County Tipperary's most famous son, a few times removed.

"It's a great day for the Irish," chanted O'Farrell outside the pub, the Stars and Stripes billowing from a pole atop the building.

Local dignitaries looked on as the 250 villagers, joined by an estimated 4,000 other celebrants in their Sunday best, danced through the two-street village in the downpour.

The streets were a collage of colored bunting. The 150 students of the two local schools were given the day off and lined the streets waving miniature American and Irish flags.

The village band played the Irish national anthem, but there was an embarrassed silence when they bungled "The Star-Spangled Banner." Lamented red-faced bandleader John O'Brien: "We never learned it. We don't get much call for it down here — or we didn't."

O'Farrell organized Tuesday's festivities after Hugh Peskett, senior genealogist from Debreit's Peerage, the Who's Who of Britain's bluebloods, walked into his pub, ordered a glass of stout and told the tipplers that Reagan's great-grandfather was a local boy.

"We couldn't believe it," O'Farrell said. "We thought the Englishman was joking."

Villagers searched for a living Reagan relative here, but O'Farrell said Ballyporeen's last link with the new First Family died 15 years ago.

The locals hope Reagan will accept an invitation to visit the ancestral cowpatch and discover his roots like John F. Kennedy, who made a triumphant tour of the Ould Sod in 1962.

Debreit's researchers, aided by an Irish government team, announced last November that Michael O'Regan, the President's great-grandfather, was baptized here in 1829. There was no indication where along the way between 19th century Ireland and 20th century America the "O" was dropped and the "a" inserted into the president's family name.

Michael left Tipperary during the Great Potato Famine of 1845-48. He went to London and married 22-year-old Catherine Mulcahy in 1852. Six years later, they crossed the ocean.

Debreit's also said Reagan is descended from Brian Boru, an 11th century Irish king and national hero. Researchers said Reagan's family tree goes back to a nephew of Boru, killed fighting Viking invaders in 1014, who belonged to the Reagan's of Munster.

The locals of Ballyporeen unabashedly hope Reagan's roots will bring prosperity to this tiny village nestled under the Galtee mountains.

First Lady Near Tears During Rite

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nancy Reagan said she came close to tears during Tuesday's inauguration ceremony.

The first lady, dressed in a brilliant red suit, looked solemn and intense as she held a Bible while Chief Justice Warren Burger administered the brief oath of office to President Reagan.

The family Bible had belonged to Reagan's mother, Nellie.

Speaking to reporters shortly afterward in the Capitol rotunda, Mrs. Reagan said the ceremony carried out before a huge crowd stretching out to the Mall had nearly brought her to tears.

She also said Reagan had not rehearsed his inaugural address with her before delivering it.

"I never heard the speech before," Mrs. Reagan said, adding "I just thought it was a wonderful speech."

Asked what kind of first lady she would be, she gave a one-word reply: "Myself."

For Mrs. Reagan, 57, Tuesday marked the culmination of more than 15 years of devoted support to her husband's political career, through two terms as governor of California and his 1976 and 1980 presidential campaigns.

Earlier, she had starred opposite Reagan when he played a World War II submarine commander in the 1950s movie, "Hellcats of the Navy."

Mrs. Reagan's wool outfit in red, her favorite color, stood out brightly amid the pageantry of the inaugural ceremony, held for the first time on the West front of the Capitol.

Rosalynn Carter wore a spice-colored merino wool suit and a taupe shearing lamb coat.

For inaugural festivities Tuesday evening, Mrs. Reagan had a one-shoulder beaded gown and white satin coat. The coat and gown later will be presented to the Smithsonian Institution, to be displayed in its collection of first ladies' inaugural gowns.

President Reads Soldier's Pledge

 when he enlisted in 1917. He was a messenger in Company M, 168th Infantry, 84th Brigade, 42nd Division, known as the Rainbow Division.

The Advance quoted this account from the Cherokee Iowa Democrat, which in turn had copied it from another newspaper, The Saturday Blade:

"On the day the Yanks went across the Ourcq and up the hill, Pvt. M.A. Treptow of Iowa ran his last race from the company to the battalion. He had almost reached his goal when a machine gun dropped him. Later in the pocket of his blouse, they found his precious diary."

James Hansen, research librarian with Wisconsin's State Historical Society, uncovered another account of Treptow's heroism and the impact of his diary in a regimental history, "Story of the 168th Infantry," written by John H. Taber in 1925.

Taber wrote: "Shot down by a spray of bullets just as he reached his platoon commander with a message, Pvt. Martin A. Treptow of Company M left behind him another message that was as effective against the enemy as a score of machine guns. In a little blood-stained book found in his breast pocket, he had painstakingly copied: 'America shall win the war...'"

Outgoing President Sees End Of Hostage Ordeal

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter left office a free man. By his own unceasing efforts, the burden that weighed down his final year in the White House was lifted and the outgoing president could anticipate a measure of the public gratitude he so often was denied.

Yet, it was sadly characteristic of the long national ordeal of the American hostage crisis that its resolution included one more petty cruelty.

Carter yearned to tell the nation before he left office that the hostages were free.

The diplomatic and economic pressures, the threat of military action, the political changes in the United States and Iran, the repeated frustrations — all the efforts over so many months finally seemed to be bearing fruit and offering Carter that last-minute consolation prize.

But it was not to be. The clock ran out. One last unexplained delay kept the 52 Americans on the ground at Tehran Airport until 33 minutes after Ronald Reagan had been sworn in as Carter's successor.

Whether the delay was a deliberate move by the Iranians to hold up release of the hostages until Carter was out of office may never be known.

But Carter will survive the disappointment and he will have the satisfaction of flying to Wiesbaden, Germany, to welcome the hostages to freedom. He will undertake that mission not as president, but as the personal representative of President Reagan.

For Carter, resolution of the hostage crisis, even if the timing fell short of his last hope in office, sends him into private life with a good start at gaining the public affection Americans traditionally lavish on former presidents.

Americans are kind to their former leaders, even those they reject.

Sometimes the process is slow. But even Richard M. Nixon seems to be emerging from the cloud under which he left office. Gerald R. Ford held the affection of Americans even while they rejected his bid for election to a four-year term in the White House.

Carter left office at 56, a relatively young man for a former president. In the days after his landslide defeat by Reagan, Carter disavowed any interest in regaining the presidency or even in playing a strong role in the Democratic Party.

But Carter is a strong-willed, ambitious man who feels he was misjudged by the American people, that he suffered because he was willing to take on tough problems and that he was victimized by events beyond his control, such as the takeover of the American Embassy in Tehran on Nov. 4, 1979.

Now, he will have a chance to examine his term in office, to write his own version of that period, and to watch his successor try to deal with the domestic and international crises that bombard the presidency.

How he will emerge from this period of contemplation is hard to predict.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. My husband and I purchased a summer home 23 years ago. Needless to say, the property has gone up in value. We are considering selling it and buying another summer home, for considerably more than the selling price of our present vacation home.

Will we have to pay capital gains tax on the profit from sale of our present summer home, even though we won't have the money in our pocket?

A. Indeed, you will. Even though you won't "pocket" the money, or put it in your bank account, the profit from the sale will be subject to tax as a capital gain — the same as the sale of stocks or any other "capital assets."

It's when you sell your "principal residence" — the home in which you normally live — that you can postpone or pay no tax on the profit.

When you sell your principal residence and buy a more expensive home, you can postpone the capital gains tax on the sale of your former home. You can do this, every time you buy a more expensive principal residence.

If you are 55 or older and have owned and lived in your home for at least three of the five years, you are entitled to a "once-in-a-lifetime exclusion" from federal income tax of up to $100,000 of the profit on the sale of your principal residence.

But these tax rules apply only to the sale of a principal residence — not to vacation homes or other second residences.

Q. You advise people who have 182-day savings certificates at banks and savings and loan associations to have the interest from their certificates credited to their savings accounts each month, to earn more interest — 5.5 percent.

Wouldn't it be better to leave the money in the 182-day savings certificates, which pay much higher interest?

A. No, because federal regulations prohibit the compounding of interest on 182-day savings certificates — better known as "money market certificates" or "MMCs." Many banks and S&Ls call them "six-month certificates," but their terms is 182 days, a shade less than half a year.

If you put $10,000 in a 182-day certificate and don't arrange to take your interest out every month, you'll get all your interest when the certificate matures — at the rate specified when you bought the certificate.

But, you put $10,000 in a 182-day certificate and specify that you are to receive your interest each month, you'll have the use of parts of that interest for five, four, three, two and one months. If you put that interest you receive to work on earning more interest — even in a savings account — you'll come out ahead.

Some banks and S&Ls have arrangements to automatically transfer interest each month from 182-day certificates to savings accounts. Some don't. That's one of the reasons this column keeps stressing, "Shop around."

Q. Some companies have both preferred stock and preference stock. What is the difference between the two?

A. There's no real difference. Preference stock is just another name for preferred stock. A company can use either term.

Both preferred stock and preference stock are entitled to receive dividends before the company pays dividends on its common stock. Dividends on most preferred and preference stocks are at fixed rates that never change — unless the company gets into financial trouble. Dividends on a company's common stock, on the other hand, can be raised, lowered or omitted — depending upon the company's profits.

DOYLE welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column. Address inquiries to Doyle, 235 East 45th St., New York, N.Y., 10017.

Mart Falls For Reagan

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices tumbled Tuesday after Ronald Reagan was sworn in as the nation's 40th president and the American hostages were flown to freedom after 444 days of captivity in Iran.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, up 85 at noon when Reagan took office, fell rapidly after that and closed down 20.31 at 956.68.

Declines outnumbered advances by a 3-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange issues. Some analysts said the drop reflected disappointment in Reagan's inaugural speech, in which he said the nation's economic problems have taken decades to accumulate.

“They will not go away in days, weeks or months, but they will go away,” he said. “Now that the hostages are out, and the inauguration is over, there's not much the market can hang its hat on,” said Charles Jensen, an analyst with MKI Securities.

“What is left are the problems of high interest rates and inflation.” One high interest rate decline rapidly on Tuesday. The federal funds rate, charged on loans between banks, fell to 17 percent from above 19.5 percent without any intervention by the Federal Reserve, economists said.

Top Saints Officials Quit

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — With Bum Phillips reportedly just hours away from being hired to coach the New Orleans Saints, the team's general manager, Steve Rosenbloom, and the vice president of player personnel, Dick Steinberg, resigned Tuesday.

In a brief statement, they did not say they were leaving because of Phillips, but a front-office fight over control of player personnel had been widely reported.

When Phillips was coach at Houston, he was a general manager with control of personnel.

In the Saints organization, Rosenbloom — through Steinberg — was to have had complete selection of players through the draft.

The resignation statement said: "We came to the Saints with a mutual understanding and agreement in philosophy with the ownership on how to construct a stable winning organization."

"It has been apparent for some time that there exists a difference of opinion regarding how these goals should be approached. Under these circumstances, we feel that this decision is the best for all concerned.

"We do not feel that further comment on the situation is necessary."

Rosenbloom joined the Saints after 1979's 8-8 record, the team's best ever, and before this year's skid to 1-15. He said his job was never in jeopardy but joined with owner John Mecom in firing coach Dick Nolan with four games left in the season.

The looming conflict between Phillips and Rosenbloom was often cited as a possible sticking point that had to be smoothed before Phillips could be hired.

But the problem was brushed aside in public statements, though Mecom did say last week that he was not totally happy with Rosenbloom's comment that the 8-8 record was "cosmetic."

Mecom has not announced that he is going to hire Phillips.

The Houston Chronicle reported Tuesday, however, that Phillips will sign a five-year contract — perhaps as soon as Thursday.

It had been generally expected that Mecom would announce the hiring of Phillips while the national sports press corps was gathered in New Orleans for the Super Bowl.

Mecom could not be reached for comment, but he said Monday that Phillips was 99 percent sure to be the next New Orleans coach.

No news conference has been scheduled to announce the new coach.

Rosenbloom grew up in the NFL, son of the late Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the Baltimore Colts and later the Los Angeles Rams.

After his father's death, the control of the Rams passed to Rosenbloom's stepmother. They had personal differences and Rosenbloom left Los Angeles and joined the Saints.

The Chronicle quoted Saints owner John Mecom as saying Monday he had "decided on Bum" and an official announcement will be made as soon as he confers with Pete Rozelle, National Football League commissioner.

Mecom said he had been unable to reach Rozelle, who reportedly was in Washington for President Reagan's inauguration.

The Chronicle quoted Phillips as saying: "Anybody can do good in one place. I'm looking forward to the opportunity to do good in two places. I've said it a million times, but that's what Don Shula did in Baltimore and Miami. Now John Mecom has given me the opportunity to do it."

Phillips was fired after the Oilers lost to the Oakland Raiders 27-7 in the wild card game of the American Football Conference championship playoffs.

The announced reason for the firing was a difference of opinion over whether he should have an offensive coordinator. Phillips had a career record of 59-38 with the Oilers.

Eagles' Smith Planning To Play, But May Not Say Much About It

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Charlie Smith, Philadelphia's broken-jawed wide receiver, will almost certainly play Sunday — and Eagles' quarterback Ron Jaworski says Smith's presence could be pivotal in the Super Bowl against Oakland.

"We're definitely going to need him in there," Jaworski said Tuesday, "because we've been playing the last couple of weeks with only two wide receivers and it's made my job a lot tougher. So it's a real plus to have him healthy. He's worked out somewhat the last couple of weeks and I'm sure he'll be ready."

Coach Dick Vermeil said he was "pretty sure he'll be in there Sunday."

Super Bowl XV

Charlie Smith is the kind of person who, if I went to him and said, "You're starting," and he felt he'd be a detriment, he would not start. He'd say, "Coach, I'm not ready. Start Rodney Parker." That's the kind of person Charlie is. Right now I think he's ready.

Since being knocked out of commission during the final regular-season game against Dallas, Smith has been only a spectator in the Eagles' playoff victories which put them in this National Football League championship game. His workouts have been limited, his participation eliminated.

"I feel like I'm ready to play now," he said. "I've lost some weight, I've lost some strength. Maybe I'm not 100 percent, but I'm ready. My timing is off and I haven't practiced all that much, haven't played in I don't know how long (almost a month). I'm trying to get my timing back, my rhythm. I guess if I play I'll be a little off, but it'll be all right."

On Tuesday, while Jaworski, Vermeil, wide receiver Harold Carmichael and most of the other Eagles were engulfed by the swarming news media here, Smith reclined on the sideline in the Louisiana Superdome, almost unnoticed.

With his jaw wired shut and a web of rubber bands blanketing his teeth, he finds talking difficult, even tiring, and making himself understood is a chore. But Smith, a Baptist and a deeply religious man, accepts the fate which has befallen him in this, his seventh pro season and his first shot at a title.

"I've been depending on the Lord for a long time," he said. "So I'm gonna keep leaning on Him and pray that it's His will that I'll be able to help the team."

"It's not all that frustrating, being out the way I've been. It's like my nephew told me, 'Maybe the Good Lord's just giving you a rest.' I'd never thought of it that way. So now I can feel comfortable about it and, come Sunday, if I'm meant to play, that'll be fine. And if it comes that the coach decides not to use me, that's fine, too."

"I know I've played a long time to get here and now it looks like it'll be taken away from me, but look at Moses; he spent all those years wandering but he never crossed over to the Promised Land."

"Even though I haven't been able to play, I've still felt very much a part of this team," Smith went on. "I didn't get put on injured reserve or anything and I hear the guys when we're working out, how they're pulling for me. The guys know I wish I could be playing."

Vermeil said he sensed not so much frustration on Smith's part as disappointment, "but he's very loyal and he realizes in this business you've got to take the good and the bad. He's going through a negative phase in his career right now, but he'll come out better for having experienced it. That's one reason why I hope very much he'll start."

So, of course, does Smith, no matter how much he shrugs off his status.

"This could be my last chance to play in the Super Bowl," he pointed out. "This is it! This is the World Series. Every baseball player wants to play in the World Series. Every football player's dream is to play in the Super Bowl.

"You look at a great player like O.J. Simpson. O.J. would've given his right arm to play in a Super Bowl. He never got the chance I'm getting."

Smith doesn't seem to think his presence will make all that much a difference in the Eagles' offense. After all, he said, Parker caught four passes against Dallas in the National Conference championship game.

"I think the Raiders have to be worried about Rodney," Smith said. "But then, you know they're always going to double-team Harold. Who're you gonna double up on — Harold or Rodney or me?"

Three Celtics Join East All-Star Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Three members of the Boston Celtics are among six players added by coaches to complete the East roster for the 31st annual National Basketball Association All-Star Game to be held Sunday, Feb. 1, at the Coliseum in Richfield, Ohio.

Forward Larry Bird, center Robert Parish and guard Nate Archibald were selected by the coaches along with forwards Marques Johnson of Milwaukee and Bobby Jones of Philadelphia and guard Michael Ray Richardson of New York.

Previously chosen in fan balloting were forwards Julius Erving of Philadelphia and Dan Roundfield of Atlanta, Chicago center Artis Gilmore and guards

Reggie Theus of Chicago and Eddie Johnson of Atlanta.

The appearances by Erving and Archibald will be their fifth in NBA All-Star competition, the most among East players. While Theus and Parish will be making their initial appearances in the game.

Philadelphia's Billy Cunningham, who has a 2-0 record in All-Star competition, including a 144-136 overtime victory a year ago, will coach the East squad while John MacLeod of Phoenix will make his All-Star debut on the West bench.

The complete roster for the Western Conference team will be announced today.

Super Bowls Traditionally Draw Big Ratings

NEW YORK (AP)—The high drama of the Super Bowl is right up there with other box-office television biggies.

Only the famous 'Who Shot J.R.' show on "Dallas" and the final episode of "Roots" reached more households than last year's Super Bowl between Pittsburgh and Los Angeles. According to Nielsen figures, "Dallas" was seen in 41.5 million homes, "Roots" in 36.4 million homes and Super Bowl XIV in 35.3 million homes.

Super Bowl XIII (Pittsburgh-Dallas) ranked fourth and Super Bowl XII (Dallas-Denver) was fifth before "Gone With the Wind" One and Two. In all, eight Super Bowls rank in the top 25 of all-time rated shows.

The game's hold on the public has been captivating right from the start. Super Bowl I in 1967 was so big a prize that both CBS and NBC demanded it — and got it — in the merger settlement between the National Football League and its rival, the American Football League.

But because of CBS' inside position with the NFL, CBS handled all the production aspects of the game.

"The cloak-and-dagger stuff was straight out of a spy film," said Chet Simmons, former president of NBC Sports and now head of ESPN, the all-sports cable operation. "It was like talks with the Soviets. All that was missing were the CBS and NBC flags on the table."

Curt Gowdy and Paul Christman did the game for NBC. Ray Scott and Jack

AP Sports Analysis

Whitaker split the play-by-play chores for CBS, with Frank Gifford handling the full 60 minutes of commentary.

"All week long, Paul and I would appear on the 'Today' show and the 'Tonight' show, anything to promote us," said Gowdy, now a CBS broadcaster.

"The network even ran spots plugging Gowdy-Christian as the best team."

Green Bay, the NFL's team, beat Kansas City 35-10, and CBS won the ratings war 22.6-18.5. NBC, with the less-prestigious league and the smaller season ratings, claimed victory by not losing by the five-point spread set by TV oddsmakers.

NBC did lose out on the second half kickoff, but no matter. Game officials called a do-over, and there was another kick. NBC missed the first one because it was late coming out of a commercial.

"We weren't ready," said Scotty Connal, executive producer of NBC's Super Bowl I coverage and now vice president of ESPN. "That couldn't happen today. There's a coordinator on the field who won't give up the ball until TV's ready."

Although TV has always made the Super Bowl a special event, it wasn't until Super Bowl IV that all the pre-game hoopla and parties began to rival the game. According to Gowdy and Whitaker, the New York Jets' stunning upset of Baltimore the year before had turned the game into a happening.

"In Super Bowl IV, it was the first time I was aware more attention was paid to the parties and other things besides the game," said Whitaker, who has done seven Super Bowl broadcasts.

Gowdy also has done seven broadcasts while CBS and NBC have alternated the game ever since the first one. He called the Jets' 16-7 victory over the Colts in 1969 "my most memorable game."

"The Super Bowl might have been over if the Colts had beaten the Jets in another one-sided NFL victory. There was a lot of talk about it," said Gowdy. "But with the Jet win, the AFL demanded to have the same number of teams, rather than a 16-10 alignment in favor of the NFL. The most dramatic thing was the instantaneous change in the public which realized the AFL players weren't from Upper Slobalkia."

"And NBC profited from the Jets winning. They raised commercial rates the next season because they had the champs."

Gowdy said he was heavily criticized for telling the audience that the game was historic.

"I said: 'Ladies and gentlemen, you're sitting in on one of the most historic upsets in sports. You're also sitting in on a game that can change the future and thinking of professional football,'" Gowdy recalled. "The score was 16-0 at the time."

"People said I was gloating. But I really meant that. Time has borne that out."

Gowdy credits his partner, Al DeRo-gatis, with the greatest pre-game call in Super Bowl history. "As the two teams spread out for the kickoff, he said: 'If the New York Jets gain 100 yards on the ground, the Jets will win.' He called it perfectly. NBC let him go later because they said he wasn't funny enough," said Gowdy.

For Gowdy, the next game, matching Minnesota and Kansas City, was the last of the romantic AFL-NFL battles.

"After Super Bowl IV, when the AFL had won two years in a row convincingly, the excitement of comparing the young kids on the block against the burly bullies had faded away," Gowdy said. "From then on, it was all the same thing — a corporate happening, one gigantic party."

Super Bowl V, the Baltimore-Dallas "Blooper Bowl," was the last game that didn't reach a 40.0 rating, falling just short at 39.9 (24 million homes). A rating measures the percent of TV homes watching. All 14 games have done well in the ratings, and it doesn't seem to matter which team plays — the Super Bowl transcends everything. For many people, it's the only game they watch all year.

Sunday's Super Bowl XV between Oakland and Philadelphia on NBC has its sights on the Super Bowl rating record of 47.2 (34.5 million homes), set by Dallas-Denver in Super Bowl XII. Super Bowl XIII between Pittsburgh and Dallas had a 47.1 rating (35 million homes), followed by last year's 46.3 (35.3 million homes) for Pittsburgh-Los Angeles.

A special Nielsen study, commissioned for last year's game, revealed that 3.7 million fans outside the normal Nielsen homes survey watched Super Bowl XIV in hotels, restaurants, bars, country clubs and dormitories.

Whitaker, covering the Phoenix Open for CBS, will be one of the non-household viewers watching from his hotel. Gowdy will be vacationing in Palm Beach, Fla., watching with his wife, relaxing with a cool drink and analyzing with a keen eye.

"I was fortunate to be in on the birth of an American tradition," said Gowdy. "But I won't miss being there. I have no desire to go to New Orleans and get caught in crowded elevators."

Jury Selection Completed In Jackson Case

DENTON (AP)—A jury of 10 women and two men has been selected to hear the murder trial of Terry Wayne Williams, charged in the shooting death of North Texas State University football player Bernard Jackson.

After the jury was selected Monday, Dr. Lloyd White, the pathologist who performed the autopsy on Jackson, testified the running back died of a single gunshot wound to the chest.

The case is being heard by State District Judge Sam Houston.

Writers Honor Area Gridders

A total of eight South Plains area football players were honored on the 1980 All-State Class 2A and 1A teams announced by the Texas Sportswriters Association.

Five players made the squad in the smallest division while three more made it in Class 2A. All but two of the players came from one of two schools.

Valley took the team honors, collecting four first-team picks in Class 1A, while Springlake-Earth had two players honored in Class 2A.

Leading the way for Valley, as usual, are the hard-running pair of James McNary and Ray Williams. Williams, the Avalanche-Journal's Player of the Year in his division, was honored at linebacker while McNary was picked at running back. Williams stands 6-0 and weighs 205 pounds while McNary is a diminutive 5-8 but weighs 180.

The Vikings compiled a 13-1 record and advanced as far as the state semifinals before falling to Rankin. They also had two more players selected in linemen Kirby Chandler (6-0, 170) and Michael Dowd (5-8, 160).

The only other area player selected to the team was Jayton's super-linebacker Joe McMeans, a three-time all-South Plains honoree. McMeans is a 6-2, 215-pounder.

Valley had as many players as any other school in the state. Falls City, which fell to Valley View in the semis, all-so had four, while the state champs could manage only two selections.

Making up Springlake-Earth's contingent on the squad are linemen Mike McCarty and Loren Taylor. Both are sizable specimens, going 6-2, 250 and 6-5, 220, respectively.

The only other area player on the squad was Vega's Rick Jones, a 5-8, 160-pound defensive lineman.

Raiders To Face Tough Trinity

By RICHARD DAY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Starting the new season off with a victory to set the tone for a successful record is the aim of all athletic teams. An opening win can instill the confidence needed to carry the squad through the entire season.

So why is the Texas Tech women's tennis team playing Trinity, last year's No. 3-ranked squad in the nation, in its season-opener Saturday?

"I think it's encouraging that a team of this caliber is coming here to Lubbock to play us," Tech coach Mickey Bowes said recently. "We want to compete on a national level to gain experience that will lead us to that level."

The Red Raiders played Trinity last fall and fell by an 8-1 score. Regina Revello and Peggy O'Neil, playing in the No. 2 double position, came up with the lone victory, beating Kim Wilson and Lea Elliot, in a third-set tie-breaker.

Bowes doesn't expect any miracles that might lead to a Tech victory — in the match that begins at 5 p.m. Saturday at The Racquet Club — as he considers the excessive talent of one of the country's perennial front-runners.

"We have one girl with a previous national junior ranking and they (the Trigers) have six," Bowes said.

For the Tigers, Felicia Raschiatoro is ranked No. 8 in the 18s in the final 1980 standings. Louise Allen is ranked ninth, Lea Elliot is 29th, Kim Wilson is No. 44 and Amy Olmedo is ranked 64th.

Tech's Revello, a sophomore from Manhasset, N.Y., is the lone Raider ranked in the national top 100.

Also making the trip with their Trinity teammates will be Michelle Luntz, a sophomore from San Antonio, and Lubbock senior Kathy Kuhne.

Miss Kuhne, 21, graduated from Monterey High after having won district championships in 1975, 1976 and 1977. She was the No. 1 player for the Plainsmen and was named the team's most valuable player each of her three years.

Going into action for the Raiders will be Miss Revello, Miss O'Neil, Jill Crutchfield, Kathy Lawson, Cathy Stringer and Susan Mangum in singles. The three doubles teams will be Revello-O'Neil, Crutchfield-Lawson and Joanie Walko and Sue Smith.

Trinity isn't the only nationally-ranked powerhouse on the Raiders' tough spring schedule. SMU, New Mexico State, the University of Texas-Permian Basin and North Texas State — Tech's second opponent which will be here next Saturday — will be the top teams making trips to Lubbock. In away matches, the Raiders will be facing TCU, the University of Texas, last year's No. 1 team, USC, in the first round of the UT Invitational Tournament, and more exceptional teams in the Arizona Invitational and SMU Invitational Tournament.

The competition will be fierce, so don't expect Tech to come up with a record like their 12-9 fall mark. It will be a long spring for the Raiders, but the experience they gain from it will enable the team to surprise some people in the future.

Franklin Plans To Enjoy Superdome

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "I don't think place kickers are a strange breed," Tony Franklin said in reply to a query. "I don't consider myself strange. I'm just like any other athlete."

In the next few moments the Philadelphia Eagles' slight, mustachioed specialist proceeded to tell how he learned to kick by watching Jan Stenerud on TV and found out he had greater length and accuracy by booting the ball bare-foot.

A bachelor, he said he kept a couple of Amazon parrots in his pad, let them sit on his shoulder and rubbed their stomachs as he would a purring kitten.

"They're like babies," he explained.

Then he told how he got in Dick Vermeil's doghouse by arbitrarily pulling an on-side kick against Tampa Bay last year against his coach's orders.

He was hit with a $100 fine for every game played in the 1980 season, accounting for a $1,600 indemnity.

"I want you to be able to remember it every week," Vermeil told him at the time.

Now, with the Super Bowl game against the Oakland Raiders coming up Sunday, the 5-foot-8, 182-pound graduate of Texas A&M is not brooding over his punishment.

"I felt some pressure in the middle of the season — that's why I had a slump," he said Tuesday in the Superdome where both teams dressed for a press photography and interview session.

"I couldn't let it eat me alive. I began working harder. I discovered I was pressing too much, jumping at the ball and missing by a few inches kicks that I made a year ago."

Franklin hit on 16 of 31 field goal chances compared with 23 of 31 in 1979. However, he converted all 48 extra point attempts.

The 24-year-old Texan denied — as some critics claim — that he has lost accuracy and distance since his college days, when he booted 15 field goals from over 50 yards, three over 60 and had one of 65 yards.

"I don't worry about the on-side kick incident," he said. "You can talk to coach Vermeil about that. I am in a better frame of mind now. When I go out there, I think I can make anything from anywhere."

In two games in the Superdome, Franklin has a 6-for-6 record. "It's great," he said, "72 degrees, on artificial turf, indoors, no wind. You can't beat that."

The Eagles place-kicker, who boots soccer style, said he doesn't pamper his right foot and never has had it stepped on by a cleated rusher.

Raiders Say Experience To Help In Super Bowl

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Oakland Raiders believe their edge in Super Bowl experience will pay off against the Philadelphia Eagles.

"It should help us, but I'm not going to say why. Philly could use my answer," defensive lineman John Matuszak said Tuesday before the Raiders held their first workout of Super Bowl week.

He is one of 11 current Raiders who played on the Super Bowl championship team of four years ago. A 12th player, starting cornerback Dwayne O'Stein, was with the Los Angeles Rams in last year's Super Bowl.

Gene Upshaw, who will be playing in his third title game Sunday, offered one tip to Philadelphia's first-time entry. It involves the National Football League's Friday night party, the elaborate annual affair which this year is being held at a riverfront New Orleans hotel.

Upshaw's advice: Forget it. "That party's not for players. It's for (NFL commissioner) Pete Rozelle and 3,000 (really 5,000) of his close personal friends, and it costs the league $10,000. You never see a player at the party," Upshaw said. "We'll have our own party." Upshaw went to his first Super Bowl as a rookie with Oakland's 1967 American Football League champions, who lost to the NFL champion Green Bay Packers in Miami.

Al Davis, managing general partner of the Raiders, recalled: "We were an awful green team, hadn't even been in the playoffs before that Super Bowl."

"We treated it like a college bowl game, and it wasn't."

"That's right," said Upshaw. "I even watched the halftime show."

He and Art Shell, senior members of the Raiders' roster now, have made it a point to tell younger players what to expect this week.

"Some of our players have never been asked for interviews, and this week they might be asked questions by people who can't even speak English," Upshaw said.

When they went to Pasadena to face the Minnesota Vikings in Super Bowl XI, the Raiders were prepared. John Madden, then head coach, got valuable advice from several fellow coaches, such as Miami's Don Shula, about how to handle the hectic Super Bowl week.

"It's definitely going to be easier for us this time. It was pretty easy four years ago, too, because Big John had everything all set up," said Shell, a 13-year veteran tackle.

"Tom Flores was with us then as an assistant coach, so he knows how it was done," added Shell.

Flores confirmed that he is following almost exactly the Super Bowl-week schedule of four years ago. It includes curfews for the players, starting Tuesday night.

"Having Super Bowl veterans on the team is one hell of an advantage," said Mike Davis, one of the younger Raiders.

"They have experience and knowledge that can help every one of us."

"We know what to expect and how to keep our concentration on football even through the distractions, and there will be a lot of distractions."

The Raiders don't go overboard by treating the Super Bowl as super serious, Davis added.

"That's characteristic of this team," he said. "We'll stay loose, because if you get too uptight, you're never able to produce."

Eagle Lineman Peoples Still Plays Young Game

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Don't tell Philadelphia Eagles' offensive guard Woody Peoples that football is supposed to be a young man's game.

Peoples, 37 years old, is an integral part of the offensive line of the National Football Conference champions who will take on the Oakland Raiders in Super Bowl XV here Sunday.

Peoples just shrugs his shoulders when he's asked what he's doing in the trenches at his age.

"I know that a lot of people have said I was washed up three or four years ago," said Peoples, who played semi-pro football in 1965.

"People have a tendency to feel that I can't get the job done. But age is an individual thing," Peoples noted Tuesday after a workout in the Superdome.

"I can honestly say I've played great football this year," boasted the 260-pound player who helps open those big holes for running backs such as Wilbert Montgomery.

"Contrary to public opinion I'm not run down. I feel good physically and mentally. I can't explain it. God just blessed me physically," he said.

Peoples says that despite his advanced age for the tough game of professional football, he doesn't find it any tougher.

"I play because I enjoy it. Sometimes I moan and groan but I enjoy it," Peoples said. "I just do what I have to do, try and improve as the season goes along."

Peoples isn't expecting any picnic against Oakland.

"I have a great amount of respect for the Raiders. If they weren't a fine team they wouldn't be there Sunday," Peoples declared.

"They're a very physical team," he recalled from the Eagles' 10-7 triumph over Oakland in the regular season.

"They try to keep you from running the middle. They have the biggest linebackers I play against. But I'd rather play a team of this type than one that features finesse."

"The only thing I'm thinking is to try and correct the things I did wrong in the first game. I'm watching those films even to improve on the things I did right."

Peoples observed.

If anyone doubts Peoples' durability, he has played in no less than 13 games per season — except 1976 when he was injured — since he joined the San Francisco 49ers in 1968.

Peoples, who signed with the Eagles as a free agent in 1978, immediately won a starting job, and has played in 30 of 32 games since.

After all the frustrating years, how does the "old codger" feel reaching the Super Bowl?

"To me it's just another football game that has the words 'Super Bowl' attached. I prepare the same way I usually do."

As for the Eagles being uptight because it's their first Super Bowl appearance, Peoples laughs.

"We're loose, confident, concentrating on what we have to do. We came here not just to be here but to win," Peoples said.
