Freed 52 Return Home

Airport Sees High Drama Of Emotions

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Generations separate Claudia Johnson, wife of an army man, and 11-year-old Stacy Panzanaro, but together they said all that needed saying to sum up the Day the Hostages Came Home.

"They are finally on American soil and nobody will mess with them again," said Mrs. Johnson.

Stacy put her feelings into the sign she carried along the route the former hostages took to West Point: "Super Sunday: United States 52, Iran 0."

There were plenty such vignettes in these Catskill foothills, rich in the legend of Rip Van Winkle and the heroism of the Revolutionary War.

Such as: — The man kissing the ground as he got off the plane bringing the former hostages from Germany. And the airport official, Frank Tarbell, describing the scene, saying: "It was a Marine, but I could not see the name tag for my tears."

— The flagpoles with their flags at half-staff, a reminder on this day of joy that eight servicemen were killed during last April's failed rescue mission.

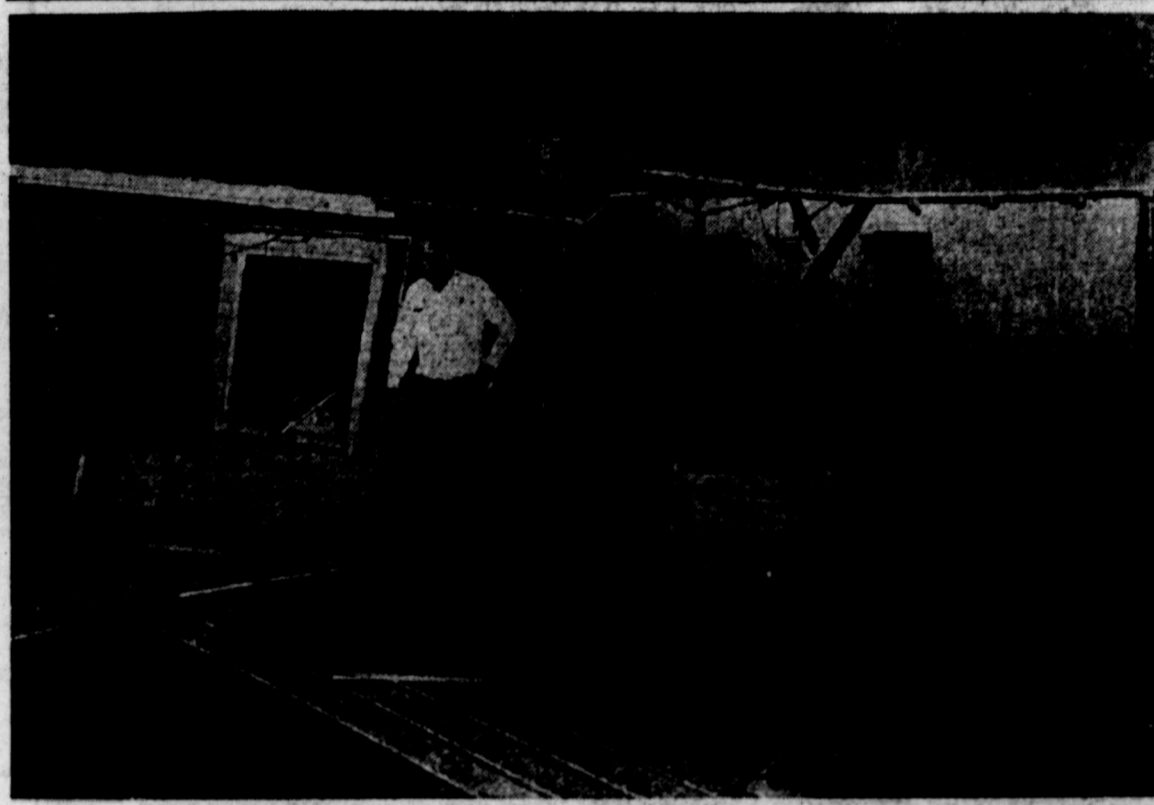

— The baby buggy decorated with American flags, its infant occupant swathed in a yellow blanket.

— The comment of Richard Brenner, 12: "To heck with the Super Bowl, we want to see that they're here."

— Airport staffers voting unanimously not to give any details of the reunion, keeping private what the hostages and their families wanted private. But Tarbell still managed to describe it: "There was an aura of love."

— After the first taste of freedom, after the first round of hugs, the hostages wanting to preserve the glorious moments: pulling out pocket cameras and

Daniel's Widow Cited In Death

LIBERTY (AP) — Vickie Daniel, who was hospitalized for shock for five days after her husband, former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., was found shot to death, has surrendered to police on murder charges.

Mrs. Daniel, 33, accompanied by her attorney, turned herself over to sheriff's deputies Saturday. Arraigned on murder charges in connection with Daniel's shooting death on Jan. 19, she was released on $50,000 bond.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Daniel's lawyer, Andrew Lannie, accompanied law enforcement officials to the Daniel home Saturday to look for a bullet from a warning shot the woman said she fired before the fatal shot that killed her husband.

Sheriff C.L. "Buck" Eckols said a hole was discovered in the attic, but no bullet was found.

Ever since their investigation began, police have said evidence found at the Daniel home in this southeast Texas town indicated Mrs. Daniel fired the shot that killed her husband. But District Attorney Carroll Wilborn Jr. had said the case would be referred to a grand jury without charges being filed.

Wilborn and Eckols declined to say why authorities changed their minds and issued a warrant for Mrs. Daniel's arrest on Friday.

Daniel, 39, son and namesake of one of the state's most prominent political leaders, was found lying face down in a hallway between the kitchen and carport of his house, dead of a gunshot wound. Investigators recovered a .22-caliber rifle and two spent cartridges from a bedroom.

Eckols said Mrs. Daniel called for an ambulance, crying "Price has been hurt." She was sedated and taken to a hospital in the same ambulance that carried the body of her husband. She left the hospital briefly at midweek to attend Daniel's funeral and was released on Friday.

Mrs. Daniel had filed for divorce Dec. 31, citing "a conflict of personalities with no hope of reconciliation." She also had filed for divorce in November 1976 but withdrew that petition within days.

Meanwhile, Harris County medical examiner Joseph Jachimczyk, who did the autopsy on Daniel, said a toxicology report showed Daniel had 0.003 percent alcohol in his blood when he died. But authorities said that was the equivalent of 1 1/2 drinks and well below the legal definition of intoxication, 0.01 percent.

Daniel served three terms in the Texas House of Representatives and was speaker in 1973-75. During his time in the legislature he ushered through the state's open meetings law and tougher regulations for financial reporting by lobbyists and candidates for public office.

His father was Texas governor, U.S. senator, state attorney general and a state Supreme Court justice.

Young Daniel made a bid to become Texas attorney general but was defeated in the Democratic primary. Recently, he worked as a lawyer and taught at Texas Southern University, South Texas School of Law and the University of Houston.

Crude, Gas Decontrols Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two of President Reagan's Cabinet officers are urging him to take a step that could hike gasoline prices by 12 cents or more a gallon but at the same time add up to $7 billion to the national treasury.

The immediate decontrol of prices for crude oil and gasoline — which Reagan could accomplish by executive order — might by some estimates cost consumers $10 billion between now and when controls on these prices would expire anyway on Oct. 1.

This could happen because decontrol would allow the price of domestic oil to rise to world market levels. While there are various estimates of the price of oil, the Department of Energy's is that the price of domestic oil averaged $23 a barrel in December while that of imported oil averaged more than $35 a barrel.

Gradual Lifting Ordered Then-President Jimmy Carter, expressing concern about increasing U.S. reliance on expensive foreign oil, ordered a gradual lifting of price controls imposed by former President Richard M. Nixon in 1973 and left in place amid skyrocketing oil prices.

Carter and the Democratic-controlled Congress moved in the summer of 1979 to phase out these controls, and the first controls were removed on Aug. 1, 1979. Congress also enacted the so-called "windfall profits" tax, which will cost the oil industry an estimated $227.3 billion in the 1980s.

Under Carter's phased decontrol plan, the government lid on domestic price rises wouldn't be removed entirely until Oct. 1.

But Reagan budget director David Stockman and Energy Secretary James B. Edwards have said they feel he shouldn't wait until then — that he should immediately take executive ac-

Staff Shortage Plagues Hunt For Illegal Aliens

By ED LEAL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

RESTRICTIONS on the methods of searching for illegal aliens by local Border Patrol agents while census information was being gathered have been lifted, but Billy Rowe, agent in charge of the Lubbock office, says arrests here will remain low until he gets a full staff.

Rowe said during the census count, arrests throughout the South Plains remained 75 percent below average because of a U.S. Attorney General's ruling prohibiting agents from entering businesses and residences without a warrant.

Rowe said such searches without warrants are normally the way most illegal Mexican aliens are apprehended.

"Normally we can catch three to four hundred illegals in a month," Rowe said. "But ever since last April or so, the only apprehensions we had were those that were picked up for minor offenses like public intoxication."

Under normal circumstances, Rowe said, when an agent was sent to an area city to pick up undocumented workers being held in an area jail, the federal officers also would check the businesses there before returning to Lubbock.

"What it was amounting to (with the search restrictions) was that we would get a call from Muleshoe, for instance, saying that they had two illegals in the jail there. Where normally the agent would have come back with a full load of illegals, he would come back with just those two," Rowe explained.

"So we were doing the same amount of work, but we just didn't see much results."

Contributing to the local offices woes last year was a limited amount of money for the office here throughout the summer months, Rowe added. "There was a time there when I told the agents they couldn't leave town because we just didn't have the gasoline for the trip," he said.

Consequently, apprehensions throughout last year remained much lower than usual. In September, 157 aliens were arrested and deported compared to 234 the previous September.

October arrests totaled 106 in 1980, while in 1979, the total reached 339. In November 1980, the apprehensions dropped to 73, an almost 80 percent decrease from the 361 arrests the previous year.

But earlier this month, Rowe said, his office — as well as others across the nation — were given the go ahead to resume normal arrest procedures. And the Lubbock office also recently received more operating money, he added.

However, he said, a lack of personnel still hampers the Lubbock office's efforts and probably will keep the number of illegal alien arrests below normal.

Rowe said the five-man Lubbock office is operating with from two to three men. One position for an agent has been

Freighter Sinks; 29 Men Rescued

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Norwegian rescue helicopters plucked 29 crewmembers from life rafts in the Atlantic Ocean, Sunday, after their Greek-owned freighter sank in heavy seas. Up to nine crewmembers were reported missing.

The rescued crewmembers were reported in satisfactory condition at a hospital in the coastal town of Sandnessjoen.

Coastal radio stations lost contact with the 70,341-ton ship, the Deifonos, around noon, shortly after it reported it was listing heavily in waves up to 32 feet high, said Thorbjorn Hoyedahl of the Norwegian Coastal Rescue Center.

A search for the ship was ordered immediately, he said, but the operation was delayed because the ship's radio operator had pinpointed the vessel's position more than 60 nautical miles north of where it actually was, off the Norwegian island of Vega.

Hoyedahl said the vessel's owners, Bacolitsas Naviera Co. of Piraeus, Greece, gave conflicting reports of how many people were aboard.

"We are continuing the search for as many as nine people because the first report from the owners said there were 36 men and two women on board," Hoyedahl told Norwegian Radio.

Quiet Reunions Set For Families

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — The 52 hostages came home, Sunday, home to the arms of their families, home to a nation's love. Home to America.

A presidential military jet called "Freedom One" carried the former prisoners of Iran to the warmth of reunion and the cheers of 200,000 of their fellow citizens who lined their route from Stewart Airport to West Point.

But one of them, Army Master Sgt. Regis Ragan, left immediately to fly home to Johnstown, Pa., to see his 69-year-old mother, Anna, who was hospitalized, Wednesday, after talking to him on the telephone, last week, from West Germany. She was placed in a coronary care unit because of what doctors described as a "stressful condition," and was reported in stable condition.

State Department spokeswoman Susan Pitman at West Point confirmed that Ragan, 38, had gone home. Asked if any of the other ex-hostages had left, she would only say, "I can't tell you that."

Maximum Privacy Arranged

By design of a sympathetic government, the hostages and their families were given the maximum privacy possible in light of a nation's eagerness to make their return heroic.

They checked into a tightly guarded hotel, the Thayer, inside the grounds of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, for their first night together since a swarm of Iranian militants overpowered the U.S. embassy in Tehran on Nov. 4, 1979.

President Reagan stayed at the White House to give the hostages and their families what they most wanted: the chance to talk to each other, alone.

First, however, Reagan met with the families Sunday morning in the White House to send them off. It was an emotional moment.

Tears in his eyes, the new president said, "Since we all didn't get to church this morning because of this (ceremony), can we just say, Dear God, thank You. Thank You for what You've done. And God give you the understanding and the patience that you'll need now with regard to this homecoming and get-together. Amen."

A great national welcoming, led by Reagan, is scheduled for Washington on Tuesday — a week after the hostages' release after 14 1/2 months in captivity.

With that will end a 14 1/2-month ordeal that humiliated superpower America and preoccupied the nation. For some of the hostages and their loved ones, the psychological scars will linger long.

This was the most dramatic homecoming the nation has seen since prisoners of war flew home from North Vietnam in 1973. For the hostages, the trip started early Sunday at the Rhein-Main Air Base in West Germany.

There was a somber moment, though, when the motorcade carrying the hostages and their families twisted through the Hudson Valley hills to West Point.

Eight Flags Flown At Half Staff

Eight flagpoles flew American flags at half staff, in memory of eight servicemen killed in a failed rescue attempt, last April.

As the hostages passed through the village of Highland Falls, a church bell pealed 444 times, once for each day in captivity.

Finally the hostages' long trip was over and they poured into the hotel, where assistant manager Lee Curtis put out a spread of iced shrimp, chips, dips, hors d'oeuvres and drinks — and left them on their own.

When the plane landed at Stewart Airport at Newburgh, N.Y., the first hostage off, a Marine, kissed American ground.

Eight more Marines followed, crisp in fresh uniforms, and each saluted America as he stood in the plane doorway.

Then came the others. A few of them had to be helped down the stairs of the ramp.

The pent-up emotion of the hostages' families had reached its limit and they flooded the tarmac.

"Thank God!" some cried. "God bless America!" Children grabbed onto their fathers' legs. The fathers lifted them into the air and cried. Kinfolk fell onto each other, hugging, crying, kissing and laughing.

Yellow ribbons were tied and pinned to everything and everyone.

The first reunion, which lasted a half hour, took place in an airport building. No television cameras were allowed to intrude.

Airport manager Frank S. Tarbell could not tell reporters later the name of the first person off the plane. "It was a Marine, but I could not see the name tag for my tears," he said.

As the jet flew here, it made radio contact with a civilian plane in the air. Said the pilot of the private plane: "Good to see you home, and welcome to your cargo."

Carter Gratified By Wiesbaden Meeting

Former President Jimmy Carter, at home in Plains, Ga., said he had his chance to greet the ex-hostages in Wiesbaden and would not go to New York.

"I had a chance to welcome them back to freedom ... That's been adequate and gratifying to me," he said.

Meanwhile, Former Deputy of State Warren Christopher, the chief negotiator of the deal for the release of the hostages, said Sunday on the CBS "Face the Nation" show that the United States should honor that agreement, despite the "vile and disgusting" treatment of the hostages by the Iranians.

The former hostages came back with tales of beatings, months in solitary confine-

Rape Attempt Tops Crime Line Search

CRIME LINE Inc. this week spotlights the early Jan. 17 attempted aggravated rape of a medical student at her north Lubbock apartment.

Officers were called to the apartment about 5:30 a.m. and they noted several blood spots outside the victim's door. The 26-year-old woman answered the door, her blouse drenched in blood. She said she had been stabbed by a man who woke her in her bed.

Although the man warned her not to scream and put his hand over her mouth, the victim's screams apparently frightened the man. He stabbed her several times in her chest area, then fled the apartment. The woman saw him run west from her home and south along the complex's west side.

Police believe the man entered her apartment after removing a window screen from the window next to the door of the second story apartment.

The suspect is described as a white male, possibly with curly hair, and wearing a dark colored ski mask.

Crime Line offers a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of the suspect. Anyone having such information is urged to call Crime Line at 741-1000. Informants may remain anonymous.

Crime Line is supported entirely by private donations. Tax-deductible contributions may be mailed to Crime Line Inc. at P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, 79457.

A $500 reward is offered for information leading to the arrest of a suspect believed to have committed an aggravated rape Jan. 18.

The victim told police she drove home about 3 a.m. Jan. 18, and a man forced her back into her car at knife-point. He drove the car east to the area of 66th Street and Utica Avenue, instructing her to remove her pants and underwear on the way.

He ordered the woman to lie

Peeling Of Bells Marks Hostages' Return Home

Associated Press Writer
With a joyous tolling of bells, ribbons in their hair and exuberant song, Americans celebrated Sunday as the 52 former hostages in Iran returned to their homeland and to their loved ones after 444 days in captivity.

For three minutes on Sunday afternoon, bells rang and sirens cried from Newark, N.J., fire trucks and fire stations to mark the former hostages' return. And more than 250 Newark fire fighters paused to observe one minute of silence for the eight American servicemen killed last April in the aborted mission to rescue the hostages.

Church bells tolled throughout Indianapolis at noon at the request of Mayor William Hudnut, who said: "And let the bells ring not just for the 52 former hostages but also for the eight men who lost their lives trying to deliver them from captivity."

In the midst of excitement over professional football's biggest game, the Superdome in New Orleans was decorated with a symbol that fans of either team could understand — an enormous yellow bow.

The National Football League also distributed an estimated 80,000 yellow ribbons to fans attending Sunday's game between the Oakland Raiders and the Philadelphia Eagles.

In Gardiner, Maine, Rotarians planned a bonfire with 444 Christmas trees, one for each day of the hostages' captivity.

In a special mass at St. Sebastian Church in Madison, Maine, Girl and Boy Scouts took down 52 yellow ribbons they had wrapped around the bell tower last Nov. 4 on the first anniversary of the embassy takeover in Tehran. On Thursday night a dozen churches in Millinocket, Maine, plan a symbolic burning of yellow ribbons.

In Chalfonte, Pa., 52 residents each tolled an antique fire bell. The mayor of Chalfonte, Andrew Stoler, rang the bell eight times — once to honor each of the men who died in the rescue mission.

Sunday was "Welcome Home to America Day" in Bucks County, Pa., and the county commissioners authorized the flying of a giant yellow ribbon at noon from the flagpole at the courthouse in Doylestown.

Mayor Glenn Knecht of Crawfordsville, Ind., scheduled a yellow ribbon burning Monday night to mark the end of the 444-day ordeal. Knecht ordered last Wednesday that all flags in the city be flown until the former hostages returned to American soil.

In Washington, Mo., the Missouri River city that claims former hostage Rodney Sickmann of Krakow, Mo., as a native son, the Chamber of Commerce decided last week to name Feb. 12 — Abraham Lincoln's birthday — "Welcome Home Day."

Sickmann, a 1975 graduate of Washington High School, will be honored by his neighbors with a parade and with a church service.

In Chesapeake, Va., home of former hostage Cmdr. Donald Sharer, Mayor Sidney Oman asked that yellow ribbons be displayed at all businesses and outside all homes until Feb. 1 to celebrate the hostages' return.

Ex-Hostages Receive Joyous Homecoming

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — For the sons and daughters, mothers and fathers, wives, sisters and brothers of America's hostages, a long odyssey to reunion ended in the rolling Catskill foothills on a sun-filled Sunday.

It ended privately, quietly, at an air terminal bedecked with yellow ribbon.

Three military planes brought 115 members of the families of the former hostages from Andrews Air Force Base near Washington to Stewart Airport, landing at five-minute intervals beginning at 1:10 p.m.

The plane bearing the former hostages arrived at 2:55 p.m.

The airport terminal — the site of the long-awaited reunion — was decorated inside with yellow ribbons, which came during the 14½-month ordeal to be a symbol of constancy. Ribbons were everywhere — wrapped around bannisters, around soft drink machines.

Crowds of well-wishers and mobs of reporters were barred from the airport Sunday, but groups of children carrying American flags gathered on a hillside above the terminal to celebrate the former hostages' return. Others waved signs: "God Bless You," "Welcome Home."

In Highland Falls, N.Y., several thousand people lined Main Street, leading to West Point. Stacy Panzani, 11, of Peekskill carried a sign reading: "Super Sunday: United States 52, Iran 0."

By a five-point intersection in Vails Gate where the hostages were expected to pass, hundreds of people abandoned their cars and walked to get whatever view they could.

At the airport, a 20-foot inflated plastic replica of Pepsi Cola cans floated in the air bearing a banner reading, "Pepsi from Pueblo, Colo. welcomes Billy Galegos." He is a hostage whose father works for the soft drink firm.

On the route, some people sang a song to the tune of "Barbara Ann" whose words ran, "Bomb, bomb, bomb. Bomb, bomb, bomb."

But an opposite sentiment was expressed. One placard read: "We gave peace a chance and it works."

Most, however, simply said, "Welcome home." There were hundreds of those.

After their reunion inside the air terminal, the former hostages and their families would be bussed to the Hotel Thayer in West Point, N.Y., where they were scheduled to remain until Tuesday. Route 207, the main road to West Point from Stewart Airport was lined Sunday with cheering, flag-waving crowds. Trees, telephone poles, even twigs had been swathed in yellow ribbons.

Earlier Sunday, the families visited the White House, where President Reagan saluted them for their dignity and courage.

"Not only those who are coming home, but all of you, too — America has to be very proud of you," Reagan said.

He praised them for "the dignity with which you have borne this, the courage when all you could do was wait through the many disappointments."

Reagan said he would not travel with them to their reunion: "We feel very deeply that you don't need any outsiders. This is a moment for you and for them."

The families were treated to coffee and orange juice and mingled — exchanging hugs and kisses — with the president, first lady Nancy Reagan, Vice President George Bush and his wife Barbara.

Young children played with stuffed dolls under the State Dining room table.

Freed Hostages Cheered At West German Airport

RHEIN-MAIN U.S. AIR BASE, West Germany (AP) — Freed hostage Col. Thomas Schaefer stood at attention and blinked back the tears as he stared up at the huge American flag draped from the airport tower.

The band played "America the Beautiful."

Schaefer's eyes told the story of joy, relief, pride and gratitude he and the other 51 freed American hostages felt as they paused on the icy tarmac with jubilant well-wishers for a few minutes before boarding a silver-and-white Air Force jet for the final leg of the journey home.

The ex-hostages appeared to have shed much of the tension and exhaustion that showed when they arrived here Wednesday after a 13-hour flight from Tehran and Algiers. They had spent the last four days at the nearby Air Force hospital in Wiesbaden trying to shake off some of the effects of their 14½-month ordeal.

When the 52 stepped off the buses Sunday after the 25-mile ride from the hospital, a cheer burst from the hundreds of servicemen and their families who had gathered to say farewell.

Former hostage Malcolm Kalp waved a small American flag toward the crowd. Col. David Roeder snapped a crisp salute.

One of the two bands struck up "Tie a Yellow Ribbon," an anthem for the hostages, who wore yellow ribbons on their lapels or tied to their new blue flight bags.

Many in the crowd wore yellow too, and carried signs saying "You're Halfway Home, Baby," and "Freedom, the Weapon They Don't Have — Godspeed."

Their plane — a military version of a Boeing 707, which is part of the presidential fleet and has been dubbed "Freedom One" for this trip, awaited.

But the ex-hostages urged toward the crowd to clasp the hands of well-wishers and soak up the jubilation.

"We're greatly pleased, very gratified to the American people for all their support," said ex-captive William Daugherty of Ossining, N.Y.

"I can't say it. I don't have the words to express how good I feel," said Clair Courtland Barnes of Falls Church, Va.

"Great! It's fantastic! We're looking forward to getting to the States," shouted Barry Rosen of Brooklyn, N.Y., who was press officer at the American Embassy in Tehran when it was seized Nov. 4, 1979.

Suella Clark, from Corpus Christi, who teaches 9th graders at an American school in Frankfurt, said she came to the airport because the ex-hostages "probably felt pretty abandoned at times. Now they know they were never forgotten."

The former hostages mingled for 15 minutes, until a loudspeaker announced over the din of commercial flights at the adjacent civilian airport: "Ladies and gentlemen, board your aircraft."

Most of the ex-hostages turned to face the crowd at the door of the plane and waved or saluted. Bruce Laingen, formerly the top U.S. diplomat at the embassy in Tehran, raised a V-for-victory sign.

When the four jet engines began to scream to full power and the plane began to taxi toward the runway, the crowd let out a still-louder roar.

At 10:58 a.m. local time, 4:58 a.m. EST, after waiting for four commercial flights to take off, the former hostages were airborne.

Just under two hours later, they touched down for a stopover at Shannon International Airport in western Ireland, where they were greeted by Irish Prime Minister Charles Haughey and a crowd of about 1,000 well-wishers.

Hostages' Release Renews Memories

TREVOSE, Pa. (AP) — The release of the 52 American hostages has unleashed a flood of memories for former prisoners of war.

"I spent 416 days in POW camps in Italy and Germany during World War II," said LeRoy Burns, 62, of Morrisville, Pa., during a meeting of the Liberty Bell Chapter of the American Ex-Prisoners of War.

"I thought of the forced marches, the days without food, sleeping on the floor, my clothes locked away so I can't escape.

Burns' wife, Catherine, said her husband still thrashes in his sleep from vivid nightmares of his experience as a POW. The hostages' return has meant an emotional release for him, she said.

"I heard more about LeRoy's experiences in the POW camps since the hostages' release than in 32 years of marriage," she said during Friday's monthly meeting of veterans from German and Japanese POW camps.

Leo Killian carries more than psychological scars from his incarceration during World War II. A survivor of the infamous Bataan Death March and 3½ years in a Japanese prison camp, Killian still wears a body brace because his ribs were shattered.

Upon arrival at West Point, the ex-hostages were given soft drinks, liquor, iced shrimp and snack food — pretzels, potato chips and dip.

Tonight, they will have a "traditional Thanksgiving dinner" — turkey with all the trimmings.

The restaurant and bar at the hotel were to stay open for 24 hours a day for the convenience of the hostages and their families.

Lt. Col. Elliott Fishburne, the academy's treasurer, said the special guests would be permitted to eat in the hotel's 400-seat hotel restaurant or in their rooms during their stay.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. My wife and I have about $30,000 of Series E and Series EE, U.S. Savings Bonds, which we had intended to exchange for Series HH bonds when I retire in three years. As you have pointed out, by making that exchange, we would not have to pay income tax on the interest that has built up on the Es and EEs. We would then use the interest from the HH bonds, which is paid every six months, to supplement my pension and Social Security.

Now, however, we are thinking about cashing the Es and EEs, paying income tax on the interest and putting the money in either 182-day savings certificates or a money market mutual fund — both of which pay much higher interest than savings bonds.

Our income is approximately $24,000 a year. Would cashing the bonds be a good idea? If so, would it be wise to redeem about $5,000 a year, rather than all $30,000 at one time?

A. Depending upon your total exemptions and deductions, your present income probably puts you in the 24 percent federal income tax bracket. If you cash your Es and EEs, at least 24 percent of the interest you receive — the difference between the bonds' purchase price and the amount you receive when you redeem — will go to Uncle Sam.

There's no state tax on interest from E bonds or any other "debt obligation" issued by the U.S. Treasury.

Cashing all your Es and EEs in one year would put you in a much higher tax bracket.

You would have to get a much higher yield than the 8 percent at which Es and EEs are presently accruing interest to come out ahead with your new investment.

In these days of high interest rates, that can be done with 182-day certificates, money market mutual funds and a number of other investments.

Over the short term, cashing in your Es and EEs would be a good move.

But, no one knows what interest such things as 182-day certificates and money market funds will be paying in the future — much less three years from now.

We do know, however, that Es and EEs will be paying at least 8 percent. The recent increase to that rate was one small move toward returning sanity to the U.S. Savings Bond program.

All things considered, my advice is to hold on to your Es and EEs for the three more years until you retire. If the interest they pay at that time isn't competitive with what's available elsewhere, cash them in at about $5,000 a year. That will keep the tax bite small.

Q. Are the commissions I pay my broker when I buy and sell stocks deductible on my income tax return? Or must they be absorbed in the cost and selling prices?

A. For the vast majority of taxpayers, the commission is added to the cost price when you buy and deducted from the proceeds when you sell.

Say you buy 100 shares of XYZ common stock, at $20 a share, and pay $50 commission. Your cost — "basis," the tax people call it — is $2,050.

Say you sell those 100 shares, at $25 a share, and pay $60 commission. Your proceeds from the sale comes to $2,440.

You then have a $390 profit to report as a capital gain on your income tax return.

People who buy and sell stocks as a "trade" or "profession" can take commissions as itemized deductions, thus getting better tax breaks. But, unless you are in the securities business on a full-time basis, you'll have a mighty tough time convincing the revenuers that you should be allowed to do it.

Stern Measures Urged To Protect Diplomats

NEW YORK (AP) — Lloyd Cutler, an aide to Jimmy Carter who played a backstage role in the negotiations that freed 52 American hostages, proposed Sunday that the world agree to shun and quarantine any nation that ever again seizes another country's diplomats.

Looking ahead to ways to prevent another hostage seizure, Cutler and former Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie called for swift and automatic international recourse against any nation violating the rights of another country's diplomats.

"I think that any country which entertains that kind of option again in the future ought to be clearly aware of the consequences in terms of its relations with the rest of the countries of this planet," Muskie said.

He proposed that the world community halt trade and break diplomatic relations with any country that takes diplomats as hostages.

Cutler went even further. He suggested an international accord under which nations would close down their embassies in a country which sanctioned the taking of hostages and would expel that country's diplomats from their own soil.

He said the agreement should be triggered automatically once the World Court found that diplomats had been illegally detained by their host nation.

Cutler and Muskie offered their ideas as the 52 Americans, hostages of Iran for 444 days, flew home for family reunions at West Point, N.Y.

Both agreed the Reagan administration should honor the agreement which led to the hostages' release and both expressed confidence it would be honored.

Said Cutler: "We were not the weaker party in this negotiation, we were the stronger party...They have given back the hostages, we have only returned one-fourth of those assets to Iran." The United States froze about $12 billion of Iranian assets after the embassy takeover.

Muskie confirmed reports that, at least at the start, Carter felt some hostility from the hostages when, one day after relinquishing the presidency, he flew to Wiesbaden, Germany, to meet them.

"There was some tension at the outset," Muskie said, but it soon evaporated.

He said Carter "took full responsibility" for the decision to admit the dying former shah of Iran to the United States for cancer treatment despite warnings.

Senate Committee Head Advises Iran Punishment

By The Associated Press
The international community should "punish" the government of Iran for its seizure of American hostages, but military reprisal would be too strong a measure, Sen. Charles Percy, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a television interview Sunday.

Former Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie, in another television interview, said that in the future, the world community should halt trade and break relations with any nation that violates the rights of another nation's diplomats.

And Warren Christopher, Muskie's former deputy who served as chief negotiator for the hostage release, said that although he believes the Reagan administration should abide by the deal that freed the hostages, it will be "a long time" before U.S. relations with Iran return to normal.

Percy, an Illinois Republican who was interviewed on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press," expressed outrage over "the barbaric behavior" of the Iranian government and said it would "have to pay the price" for any mistreatment of the hostages.

PEOPLE PLACES THINGS

$10 Million Litters Yard

CHICAGO (AP) — Rose Strzycki returned to her South Side home from a senior citizens' party to find so many checks wedged in her bushes that her yard looked like a Christmas tree.

The 67-year-old Chicago woman spent several hours helping police pick up checks totaling more than $10 million that authorities say apparently dropped from an airplane.

"They were in my hedges, all over the yard, and the alley was cluttered with them. What a mess. I've never seen anything like that in my life," she said.

The checks, police said, were canceled, but even if they hadn't been Mrs. Strzycki, a widow with two daughters, says she wouldn't have kept all the money.

"I'm 67 years old and I'd only need a third of it. The rest I would hand out to people," she said.

The documents were from the Des Moines National Bank and were bound for the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co. in Chicago's Loop when they apparently fell from a plane, police said.

"I asked a policeman if I could keep one for $18,000 as a souvenir, but he took it anyway," she said.

Students Remember Jimmy

VISALIA, Calif. (AP) — After watching President Reagan's inauguration on television, fourth graders in a class here wrote down their thoughts to several questions posed by their teacher.

What do you think President Carter will be most remembered for?

Melissa Perkins: "I think for trying his best."
Jamie Miller: "For peanuts and a drunk brother."
What things do you think the new president should work to improve?
Raechelle Munoz: "He should make teachers get more money."
John Rains: "They might give children the same rights as grownups."
Would you like to be president someday?
Jamie Miller: "No, because I already have enough problems."
Raechelle Munoz: "I would because presidents are famous."
Kim Ralston: "No, because I wouldn't want to heat the White House."
Darin Poole: "No, I do not know how to say good enough speeches."

May Seek Presidency

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Moon Landrieu, former New Orleans mayor and secretary of Housing and Urban Development in Jimmy Carter's Cabinet, says he may run for president of the United States in 1984.

"I recognize that if I decide to run for the presidency, it will be a long, hard struggle but the opportunity is there," said Landrieu, a Democrat.

Landrieu, 50, returned to New Orleans on Thursday after serving the past two years as HUD secretary. He said his two terms as mayor and one term as president of the National Conference of Mayors gave him broad knowledge of the problems of urban America and a skill for working with government, business and labor.

Wants To Go Shirtless

CLEVELAND (AP) — Wendy O. Williams, the 28-year-old lead singer of the Plasmatics, thinks that female performers should be able to appear shirtless just like male performers.

But Cleveland police disagreed Thursday when they arrested the punk rock singer for allegedly pandering obscenity at a Wednesday night performance at a rock nightclub. She was released on $200 bond.

Patrolman Bob J. Singleton said Miss Williams at first appeared on stage wearing a cotton white top and matching shorts, but later performed nude and did a sado-masochistic dance using the microphone.

"Women should have the same rights as men," she said. "If a man took off his shirt, no one would arrest him."

Cheerful Solution Found

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — Carpet dealer Bill Morgan was a little upset when the city sent him a notice telling him to pay a $10.25 parking ticket that an employee incurred or appeared in court.

He sent the city a check for $10.25 with a letter that said: "After checking with my employees, no one will admit knowing anything about the parking ticket in question. After a thorough investigation I have come to the following conclusion: 1. One of my employees is lying; 2. Your employee made a mistake; 3. The wind blew the ticket away."

"With the possibilities reduced to the above three, I have further concluded that employees never lie, meter maids make no mistakes and the wind never blows in Chattanooga. Therefore, the mystery remains, 'Who done it?'"

Morgan wrote that he chose to pay the ticket, rather than options including staying out of Chattanooga and having supplies flown in from Atlanta, closing his business or disguising his truck and changing license plates.

Judy Carraway, a deputy City Court clerk, mailed Morgan's check back to him with a letter, received Friday, which said:

"After a thorough examination of your situation concerning the parking ticket in question, we find we have the following options: 1. Keep your entire check. 2. Keep the original $2 fine and return the court costs. 3. Return your check and keep your letter to cheer us up on rainy days."

"After careful consideration, we have decided to go with option number three," she wrote.

Clever Studying Church

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Mormon Church officials have confirmed that former Black Panther activist Eldridge Cleaver has reportedly been studying the Mormon Church.

They said Thursday night that the author and ex-convict has been visited by church missionaries in Menlo Park, Calif., and that he has spoken privately with Paul Dunn, a member of the church's hierarchy.

Long criticized for banning blacks from holding its lay priesthood, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints changed that policy in 1978 after church President Spencer W. Kimball said he received a revelation from God.

Composer Conducts Group

NEW YORK (AP) — "It used to be done in the old days," proclaimed Oscar-winning composer Carmine Coppola, "and if they could do it then, we can do it now."

Coppola conducted the 60-piece American Symphony Orchestra Friday night at the first of three screenings of Abel Gance's classic film, "Napoleon," at Radio City Music Hall.

"It hasn't been done since the advent of sound movies," said Coppola, who was asked to compose music for the 4½-hour silent film by his son, director Francis Ford Coppola, who revived the 1927 classic.

"It's kind of like conducting an opera," the composer said, "except in an opera you have more control because the dancers let you set the tempo. Here, the screen won't be looking at me for tempo, I have to look at the screen."

Reagan Letter Expensive

NEW YORK (AP) — A two-page handwritten letter in which Ronald Reagan defends singer Frank Sinatra has been sold for $12,500, a record for a letter by a living person, according to its auctioneer.

The letter, on Reagan's personal Pacific Palisades, Calif., stationery during the presidential campaign, was a response to a note in which J.T. Nevielle of McClean, Va., complained of Reagan's association with the singer, who has been alleged to associate with organized crime figures.

Mild Weather Expected To Continue

The mild weather of this weekend is expected to continue in the Lubbock area at least through midweek, according to the National Weather Service.

The forecast calls for generally fair skies through Tuesday, with high temperatures today near 60 degrees, and a high Tuesday in the mid 50s. The low temperature tonight is expected to be in the mid 20s.

Winds that were generally from the north and south at about seven mph Sunday will be light and variable today.

Sunday's temperatures in Lubbock ranged from a low of 35 to a high of 56. The high of 56 was one of the lowest high temperatures in the state.

Across the state Sunday, high cirrus clouds covered Texas during the afternoon as a weak cold front moved slowly through the Lone Star state. During the afternoon the front extended from southeastern Oklahoma to southwest Texas.

Temperatures in Texas on Sunday were warmer over the southern and eastern part of the state, reaching into the 80s, while West Texas had cooler temperatures in the range of 50 to 60 degrees in the afternoon.

There were a few light rain showers reported over the Permian Basin on Sunday, according to the weather service. But a spot check of Andrews, Big Spring and Lamesa revealed no rainfall through the late afternoon Sunday.

The extended forecast for West Texas calls for fair skies and warmer temperatures by midweek, with partly cloudy skies and a cooling trend later this week.

The highs in the upper 50s are expected for the Panhandle on Wednesday, turning to the mid 40s for the Panhandle by Friday.

For the period from Saturday through Feb. 4, the weatherman expects below normal temperatures and above normal precipitation in West Texas.

Student Dies In Car-Train Accident

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A 19-year-old art student who stopped her car on a railroad crossing when other cars blocked her from the front and the rear was crushed to death by a freight train when she apparently froze at the wheel, according to a friend.

Before she panicked, Dawn Dulock tried frantically to back her car off the tracks as the Florida East Coast Railway train approached at 35 mph. But the driver of the car behind her refused to move.

Police arrested the driver, Anthony Puerta, 26, of Pompano Beach, Fla., on charges of vehicular manslaughter, driving under the influence of alcohol and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Miss Dulock of Albany, Ga., was killed Saturday when the 100-car, northbound train smashed into her car at an intersection in the Fort Lauderdale suburb of Oakland Park. Her friend, Rhonda Axtell, also 19, jumped from the car and suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

Miss Axtell said she told Miss Dulock "you should never stop on the tracks" when Miss Dulock pulled her car up on the tracks. She said two cars were stopped at a traffic signal in front of their car, and another car pulled up behind them.

She said the crossing barricade had not come down, and they did not see the train immediately. Railroad officials, however, said a preliminary investigation indicated the signals were working.

"I yelled at her to put it in reverse, but when she did we hit the car behind us," said Miss Axtell. "He had at least a car length and a half of room behind him to back up."

SO FAR, PLANS GRADE A

Reagan Does His Homework

IT'LL BE A FEW more days before the full outlines of President Reagan's plans for dealing with the nation's economic shambles are announced, but his appointments and actions to date are encouraging.

Vice President George Bush was handed the job, for example, of directing a task force to "cut away the thicket of irrational and senseless regulations."

Reagan named Murray Weidenbaum, as expected, to head the Council of Economic Advisers. Weidenbaum, director of the Center for the Study of American Business at Washington University in St. Louis, is a leading critic of the cost of federal regulations.

The President's choice for assistant secretary of the Treasury for economic affairs was Paul Craig Roberts, a Wall Street Journal associate editor, who advocates supply-side economics because "it relies on the growth of incentives, rather than the growth of the federal budget, to stimulate the economy."

MEANWHILE, the new President's transition team is reported to have called for drastic changes in the functions and purpose of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

If the recommendations are followed, the SEC will put more effort into encouraging capital formation and less into being an adversary of the business community.

A primary goal of the new administration, Budget Director David Stockman says, will be "to bring total federal credit absorption under control."

Last year, he explains, federal borrowing to cover the budget deficit and various loan programs accounted for more than 35 percent of the $348 billion raised in U.S. credit markets.

Can there be any question, with such a demand for government borrowing, why interest rates are so high?

Budget cuts and other elements of the soon-to-be-announced economic program will "provide a jolt to the economy. It will be a full-throttle, four-year plan without equivocation," Stockman promises.

IN THAT REGARD, the new assistant Secretary for economic affairs, Roberts, takes issue with those Reagan advisers who have suggested delaying deep tax cuts.

"Delaying the tax cuts 'because the deficit is too large' is a way of sending a signal that the administration doesn't have confidence in its own policy," Roberts says.

"Once that signal is sent, Congress and the Fed will have the administration on the run," he continues.

Reducing the income tax rate for individuals, Roberts adds, is non-inflationary if—as Reagan has proposed—the revisions are structured to eliminate "the work disincentives of the labor force and the saving disincentives faced by the general population."

The plan, then, is to encourage greater productivity—and, thus, higher tax revenues in the long run—while discouraging idle feeding at the federal trough.

It makes a lot of sense.

Handwriting On The Wall

JOHN HANCOCK'S bold signature on the Declaration of Independence is the country's most famous specimen of handwriting.

In fact, the term "John Hancock" has become a synonym for signature, as in "Put your John Hancock on this."

Little wonder, then, that the American pa-

CONSERVATISM

It's A Steal?

THE NEW TEAM in Washington hasn't even had time to unpack and get down to serious work, but already it is being credited with an influence extending far beyond the capital and government.

The Gray Letter, a weekly newsletter serving the antiques dealing and collecting community, reports that a "return to conservatism (is) apparent in every aspect of American life as the Reagan administration is launched."

It cites recent record prices at auction of some celebrated works. Such as $1.6 million for a Renoir, $1.7 million for a Winslow Homer. Not to mention the odd piece of furniture, such as the Philadelphia Chippendale sidechair that was something less than a steal at $60 grand.

That's conservatism!

Developers Didn't Heed Warning On Love Canal

WASHINGTON—The more we learn about Love Canal—the chemical dumping site outside Niagara Falls, N.Y.—the more it seems we have been sold a bill of goods.

First there were hysterical reports of awful health hazards from the seepage of chemical wastes at Love Canal, supposedly leading to birth defects and other fearsome consequences.

It turned out, on the analysis of Science magazine and a prestigious committee of health specialists, that these scarier charges were based on totally inadequate data, cobbled together in unscientific fashion.

Now there is another angle to the story, concerning responsibility for the problem in the first place.

WHATEVER THE health effects of Love Canal, we have been led to believe the guilty party was the Hooker Chemical and Plastics Corp.

The supposed lesson is that we need the government to protect us from such private malefactors. That the shoe is on the other foot is the convincing argument of reporter Eric Zuesse, writing in the current issue of Reason magazine. Zuesse went to Love Canal, looked up the records, and talked to the responsible individuals in the situation.

For one thing, Zuesse discovered, when Hooker Chemical began to use Love Canal for dumping back in the 1940s, it did so in keeping not only with the established guidelines of the era but within the guidelines presently enforced.

THERE IS nothing in the record to suggest that Hooker, in disposing of the chemicals, acted in an irresponsible manner.

Circumstances change, however, and the shift of population patterns created a new potential hazard.

As people moved into what had been a sparsely populated area, the Niagara Falls School Board triot's birthday (he was born Jan. 23, 1737) is popularly observed in some quarters as National Handwriting Day.

But what is there to celebrate?

The instruction and practice of handwriting, in the United States, at least, have fallen on hard times.

In part, the typewriter is to blame. Personal letters nowadays are at least as likely to be typed as handwritten.

The handwritten correspondence of many adults is almost—almost, not quite—as difficult to decipher as a doctor's prescription.

But now even typewriters are beginning to gather dust. A person wishing to get in touch with a friend or family member probably thinks first of the telephone.

A phone call costs more than postage on a letter, but there is no denying that it is quicker and more convenient than putting one's thoughts on paper and awaiting a reply by return mail.

So, National Handwriting Day may well be on the way to oblivion. Advances in printing and electronic technology are steadily eroding the cause of proper penmanship.

The day could come when someone says, "Put your John Hancock on this," and is answered only by a blank, uncomprehending stare.

THIS WAS in 1953. By 1957, says Zuesse, the company's warnings had apparently faded from the school board's memory, as the board moved to sell part of the land to private developers.

When Hooker heard of this proposal, it hit the roof, sending its attorney to two separate meetings of the board to protest, and firing off a letter noting the original restrictions in the deed.

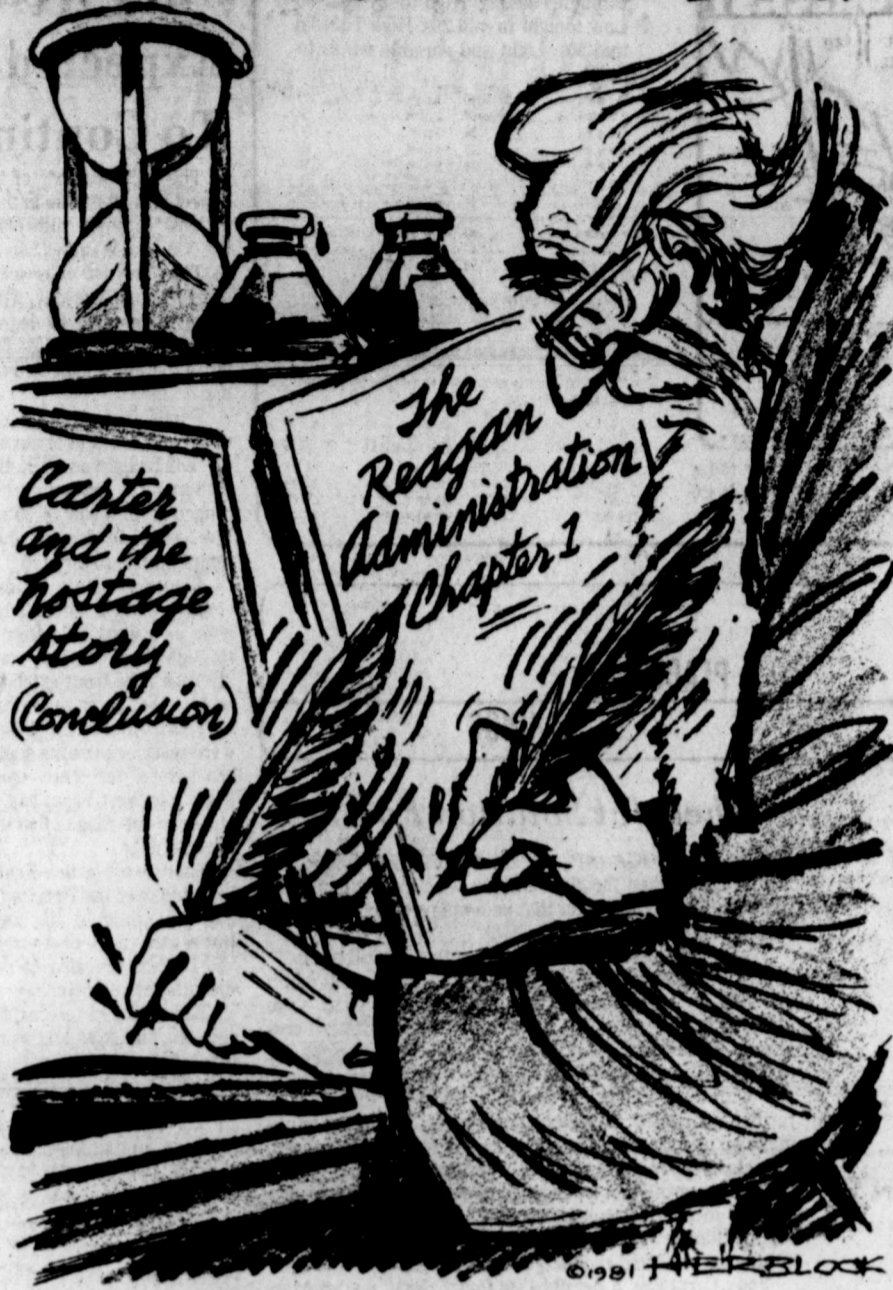

"We were thoroughly convinced," the letter said, "that should the property ultimately be used for any other purpose, the residues which had been buried therein might well have a deleterious effect on foundations, waterlines and sewer lines, and, in addition, we felt it quite possible that personal injuries could result from contact therewith."

DESPITE ALL this, the school board eventually unloaded part of the property to the city, and another part to a private developer. The city, meantime, began digging through the property to lay down sewers.

Later, the state of New York dug through as well to build a highway. The company's original fears, in other words, came true. Its warnings fell on deaf ears.

Responsibility for the invasion of the site rests not with private business but with the government.

The Clone Arranger

WASHINGTON—It would be nice if Swiss mice would get out of Swiss laboratories and back into Swiss attics where they belong.

Swiss scientists, not content with the quest for the perfect chocolate bar, have achieved the first cloning of a mammal: three manufactured (literally, "made by hand") mice.

Nuclei (containing the chromosomes that transmit genetic characteristics) from mouse cells were injected into fertilized mouse eggs, from which the original nuclear material was then extracted.

The resulting baby mice were genetically "engineered": They bore no relationship to the

ANDREW TULLY

Lest We Forget...

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Andrew Tully is on vacation. During his absence we are running some of his readers' favorite columns.)

WASHINGTON—On a fine day, with a warming sun in the cloudless sky, there were only seven people standing before the Tomb of the Unknown Soldiers in Arlington National Cemetery.

"They don't seem to come here anymore," said a man wearing a baseball cap and a Washington Redskins jacket. "I was 80 years old three days ago. I come at least once a month. Of course, I've got plenty of time now, but I think I owe it to them. They're well, like orphans."

The description had a certain aptness. For nobody knows the names of these three servicemen, one from World War I, one from World War II and one from the Korean War. Certainly their names were known once, but for reasons buried with them Sudden Death robbed them of their identities.

AND PERHAPS it is understandable that so few of us trouble to visit their crypts. War was never a popular exercise among Americans, and we have had too much of it in our lifetime.

The Unknown Soldiers' Tomb is inscribed: "Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God." It is a fitting inscription, for these men were fated to die for their country and thus the country is in their debt.

Perhaps they were heroes, men of gallantry and high courage, but what really matters is that they were human beings who had a right to live but who died because they were called upon to help fight a war.

Indeed, because a man is an Unknown Soldier he could have been any kind of a human being.

HE DIED in battle, but who can ever prove he was brave? Courage is a quality found in few men, and even those who have it in high degree often lose it in the violence of the battlefield. After all, a bullet can kill anyone.

An Unknown Soldier probably didn't want to fight, and may even have believed he looked silly in a uniform. He may have had a little fun with a foreign girl and drunk too much booze, but the odds are he yearned to be back home in Iowa or the Bronx.

When death suddenly arrived, the Unknown Soldier was not necessarily thinking about any crusade in defense of democracy. More likely, he was thinking about the luxury of a real bath before going to a real bed.

IDEALISTS ARE rare in a front-line company because it's hard to see a bright new tomorrow in the midst of today's hard realities.

You do not fire a machine gun burst for democracy's sake, but to destroy somebody who is trying to destroy you. You fight for survival, not for apple pie and next year's prom.

And that, it seems here, is the whole point of having an Unknown Soldier, lying there in his noble crypt. He is a symbol not of glorious victory nor of man's dedicated courage, but of something disturbingly simple.

He is the affidavit certifying the awful truth that to the Sudden Death which prowls a battlefield no man has a name.

mice from which the eggs came, or the "mother" mice which were caused to carry the eggs and bear the babies.

It is a long way up the hierarchy of life from mice to men, and it will be at least a very long time in the laboratory from cloning mice to cloning men. Nothing yet accomplished proves that the latter is possible.

But the Swiss accomplishment is another significant step down a road leading we know not where, a road down which many scientists, entrepreneurs and the others want to plunge.

The implications of such science are so momentous that science cannot be an absolutely autonomous enterprise, free from social regulation.

But regulation raises problems ranging from the practical and constitutional to the theological.

STILL, AS scientific interventions into reproductive processes become more sophisticated, "one must step aside from the casuistry of individual interventions and view the future possibilities and directions in aggregate and in the light of overall convictions about what the 'human' is."

"If the questions surrounding basic values are not asked, not asked seriously, not asked publicly, not asked continually, and in advance of the use of reproductive technologies, the danger is that we will identify the humanly and morally good with the technologically possible."

So says Father Richard McCormick, S.J., of Georgetown University, in a new volume of his writings ("How Brave a New World? Dilemmas in Bioethics").

THE DANGER he discerns is clear and present because, alas, "we are, corporately, homo technologicus."

The "cultural soil of our moral convictions" is the belief that "the best solution to the dilemmas created by technology is more technology." But consider the following.

In laboratories here and abroad, scientists are making progress at deciphering the disease mechanisms of some of the degenerative ailments that kill the elderly.

When great advances come, as they surely will, there may be a relatively sudden jump in life expectancy, with profoundly disruptive social consequences.

Consider the problems of the spirit and of household economics that may result, for the elderly and their children, if people retiring have, on average, two dozen rather than one dozen more years of life.

AS DR. LEON Kass of the University of Chicago says about the elderly, already "we have learned how to increase their years, but we have not learned how to help them enjoy their days."

And consider the economic and political problems that will result if the Social Security and private pension systems, many of which already are underfunded, find that they are based on actuarial assumptions that have suddenly been blown to smithereens by the biological revolution.

The problem of "inconvenient longevity" is paradigmatic of developed societies' distinctive "problems of success."

AND SUBSTANTIALLY increased longevity is just the sort of problem a society should seek to have. But that will not make it less of a problem, and probably sooner than even informed opinion expects.

Dr. Frank Ruddle, a Yale biologist, was speaking about the Swiss mice, but his words could have been spoken in connection with most dazzling developments of modern science:

"This came along a lot faster than many expected. The whole tempo of biological research is accelerating. All of modern history, but especially the history of modern science, conveys a sense—exhilarating to some, dismaying to others—of the sudden compression of time.

It is as though the governor on the engine of history has broken and the engine is revving higher and higher.

For several generations the following has been true, and for the foreseeable future it will be: In the race to match scientific virtuosity with moral understanding, it is always later than almost everyone thinks.

JAY HARRIS

A Tragic Drama...

THE ORDEAL may be over, at least the bars and tainted food, insults and threats and in some instances physical abuse.

But, the debate over the American hostages in Iran, who did what to whom, when, why and where will go on for months.

As more details of the hostages' imprisonment and efforts to free them continue to unfold, the nation and world is being treated to a plot and an entourage of characters, from President Carter on down, that would boggle the mind of a super "who-dun-it" expert.

Who finally turned the "key" that unlocked the doors in Tehran? Did UN Sec. Kurt Waldheim botch negotiations early in 1980, as ABC television reported, and Waldheim denies? Was there a plan afoot, sanctioned by the U.S., for the arrest—real or faked—of the late Shah in Panama?

In brief, what really happened?

SINCE THE 52 Americans stepped from the planes in Wiesbaden, Germany, near dawn last Wednesday, the stories of one of history's most bizarre incidents has been unfolding.

Along with stories of "barbaric" Iranian treatment of the hostages—from beatings to isolation to infested food to Russian roulette—has come charges and counter-charges.

As American anger rose over the weekend in reaction to the treatment of their fellow citizens, Iran officially denied the claims, and Moscow accused the U.S. of whipping up a frenzy to justify what it said was a Washington plan to ignore the release agreement.

The hostage story has everything, drama, intrigue, secret meetings, White House officials traveling incognito and seemingly working at odds, time mixups and that "plot" to have the Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi arrested in Panama, the ultimate irony had the U.S. acquiesced in it.

ONE OF THE more fascinating accounts of the hostage drama was presented the other night by ABC television.

In a three-hour special which the network said documented events which happened or reportedly happened, the network did something which television is uniquely able to do, but seldom does.

That is, present in chronological order an in-depth visual and verbal account of an important historical event where the viewer can see and hear those involved in the making of history, then make a judgment of his own.

Surprisingly, ABC played it pretty straight, with Pierre Salinger, a onetime White House press spokesman for President Kennedy, heading up the program.

Dubbed "America Held Hostage: The Secret Negotiations," the program covered the hostage drama from start to finish. Among the highlights was the report that it was the West Germans who finally helped get the talks off dead center in late August or September, and that at one point the Shah may have been in danger of actual arrest.

IT IS THAT aspect of the hostage drama that intrigues many, including ourselves.

While the late Shah was one of the main characters, he was not targets, in the drama, in the final analysis, he was all but a forgotten and tragic figure. He deserved a better fate and his story and that of his family is yet to be told in full.

Along with a lot of other details, No doubt as time goes on, most of the details will be filled in. Including the role President Carter, his White House chief of staff Hamilton Jordan, his legal counsel, Lloyd Cutler, and others played.

Much of it must have been a bitter pill for the President who came home from a trip to Iran on New Year's Eve of 1978 where he lauded the Shah's "island of stability," only later to in one way or another help hasten the downfall of the Peacock Throne. And U.S. prestige around the world in the process.

BUT, IT MUST have been even more bitter dregs for the man who heard those words from six such U.S. Presidents and to feel the last one had betrayed him indeed.

Even to the point of perhaps approving of his arrest, if not extradition to a fate worse than the one which soon claimed him.

Long before the hostages were freed, William Safire, the syndicated columnist, as well as others claimed that after the ill Shah had been forced to leave his New York hospital bed for Lackland Air Force Base at San Antonio, the Iranian leader had been told he could return to the U.S. if he would accept haven in Panama, since Mexico had summarily, and perhaps under outside pressure, blocked his return there.

THE SHAH AND his family indeed did go to Panama.

It was then that the wheels of intrigue ground ever closer. Safire charges that Mr. Carter sent an emissary to see the Shah with an offer of sanctuary provided he would do one thing—abdicate any claims to the throne in Iran, for himself or his family, and specifically Crown Prince Reza, who once lived in Lubbock.

Abdication would mean that the Shah's son would have no claim to the throne after his father's death. That was the only shred of hope left to the dying monarch. The Shah firmly rejected the offer. Later, when it appeared that he might be arrested and even extradited to Iran in a swap for the hostages, he managed to fly to the haven offered him by the only real statesman in the whole episode, Egypt's President Anwar Sadat.

It is a sad commentary and many questions remain. But, perhaps one of the most poignant and pointed was by one of the hostages when he reportedly faced Mr. Carter with tears in his eyes at Wiesbaden last week and asked: "Why did you leave us there so long?" It's a question all Americans must answer.

HEARTLINE: On the morning of Oct. 25, 1974, my wife of 30 years had a massive stroke that left her totally paralyzed on her left side. I was in a supervisory position at my job but I stopped work to stay at home and take care of my wife.

Sometime during the first year of taking care of my wife, I thought that if I could correspond with someone who was taking care of a stroke victim that it would be a big help to me, as it was a new experience. So I ordered two of your Pen Pal Lists and wrote a letter and had 50 copies made and sent it to a cross-section of the people on the lists. I thought that maybe four or five would answer and possibly one or two would be what I was looking for.

Would you believe that 48 of the 50 people answered offering me words of encouragement?

I could not write 48 letters so I wrote another letter and had 50 copies made and sent a copy to 46 of the 48 people who had answered my first letter. One lovely widow from Alabama and a nice gentleman from Massachusetts I answered personally.

To make a long story short, my wife died last year and the Alabama widow is now my wife and the gent in Massachusetts is still a good friend. Thanks-H.U.

ANSWER: Yours is only one of hundreds of letters we have received

Anyone wishing to receive full information about our Pen Pal Club should write to Heartline, American 60 Club, 114 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Please send a long, self-addressed and stamped envelope.

HEARTLINE: I am on Medicare, although I have never used it. I have a few questions I would like to ask my Medicare carrier. Where can I get the address of my Medicare carrier? R.Y.

ANSWER: You can get this address by phoning your local Social Security office.

SEWING FOR CHILDREN — In an effort to provide lower priced children's clothing to the public, Roxanna Carroll, left, started her own business which is comprised of clothes she and others sew at home. Woman Sells Clothes She Makes Herself

By FRANCES LOWE
Family News Editor

A cottage industry is money-making work that one can do at home, with native skills. It is a natural for a woman who must be at home with small children.

Roxanna Carroll is a local woman who is trying to build a small business around the skill, possessed by many mothers of small children, of making children's clothes of the best quality, to sell at or below the cost of fine retail clothing for youngsters.

Roxanna, who has two children and is expecting another one soon, has sewn all her life. She has made clothing for herself, her husband, her children and her own family. She tried for a time to work as a seamstress for local families, but found that it paid very little and was inconvenient.

Then she tried making clothes to sell through a local consignment shop. But hers were the only new clothes in the shop, and in a neighborhood full of older families, with few small children, they did not sell very well.

She grew discouraged, she says, and for a while "I just packed everything away in boxes and forgot about it. I had a big investment in fabric, trimmings and thread. But I decided that there was no future in it."

Then she decided to try again. She reasoned that there were many young women like herself with a real talent for sewing, and she knew that the cost of clothes for children was prohibitive for many families. She decided to form a cooperative of women, and open a shop where they could sell the things they made.

She rented a small building on west 34th Street, near Coronado High School and Terrace Shopping Center, and advertised for members. The cost was $15 per month, which is intended to pay the cost of rent and utilities for the building. After joining, the woman can sell anything she makes in the shop that is primarily for children. Sellers set their own prices, although Roxanna advises them on the best price and the cost of other, similar items in the shop.

The store has attracted a small but steady clientele, and the things sell well enough so that Roxanna has added a line of soft sculpture, made by one of her women, some pillows, dolls, and other soft items for babies, a line of Barbie doll clothes, and some wood toys made by a local craftsman.

She is, however, always on the lookout for new inventory, and looking for women who are skillful with the needle to join the fledgling enterprise.

She judges the merchandise brought in on consignment, and hopes to provide only the best constructed and finely made items for sale to the public. She thinks that the enterprise not only can provide an outlet for women who are skillful with a needle, but a real service to the public in the form of fine children's clothes at a reasonable price.

Starting a business, as Roxanna Carroll has learned, is not an easy task. But she believes that she has something to offer that is unique to Lubbock, and that this is one "cottage industry" that can benefit both the home seamstress and the consumer.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

Some people get very depressed about their age. I cannot understand this. You are only as old as you feel. Everyone knows that.

Someone pointed out to me the other day that Shirley Temple became a grandmother. They are obviously talking about another Shirley Temple and not the same one I know. The one I remember who sang and danced to "On the Good Ship Lollipop" would only be about nine or ten years old now.

Then someone said they read in the paper where the government made a mistake and sent a draft notice to Mickey Mouse at Disneyland. A spokesman said they were going to notify the government of the error and that Mickey was 52 years old now and served in World War II. It should be obvious to everyone as it is to me that they are talking about two different Mickey Mouses (Meecees? Mices?). The one I remember is a rodent and the government would have remembered if they had made a uniform for him during World War II.

People just don't stop to figure things out. My mother called the other day and said, "Quick! Look at Lucille Ball's daughter on television. She's in a new movie." I turned it on and there was this tall, beautiful woman mother thought belonged to "I Love." I told her not only was it a biological impossibility, but Lucy has red hair and this girl was a brunette.

There's a group of people out there who just can't stand it when you remain young at heart. There's always someone who will butt into a conversation and say, "Did you know Eddie Haskell, that rotten kid on 'Leave It to Beaver'?" He's a policeman now.

Or someone in a beauty shop will try to frost your hair naturally with a smart remark like, "Sandra Dee is 39 years old now. I heard it from an unimpeachable source."

Don't get the wrong idea. I don't expect the world to stand perfectly still year after year. I know that your old tires give way to parking lots and old boyfriends have faces that extend all the way back to their coat collars, but you have to keep it in perspective.

Last night my husband turned a page of the paper and said, "The Atlanta airport is finished."

Which Atlanta? I asked defensively.

The one in Georgia.

You're lying! I said. "The Atlanta airport has been under construction for 35 years. It was all something we took for granted."

Well, it's finished!

People just can't stand to see me happy and well-adjusted. Next thing you know, someone will tell me Little Orphan Annie has grown eyes and sings on the New York stage!

Resource Book Answers Problems Of Consumers

WASHINGTON (Special) — Have you ever had a problem with a local store, a product or service, or even with the Federal government? If you are like 69 percent of our population you probably do not complain. Perhaps it was because you were too busy, felt it wasn't important enough or just didn't know how or where to complain.

Because we feel it is so important for consumers to know how and where to complain, we have prepared the Consumer's Resource Handbook, which is available, free to all consumers.

If you've ever wondered how your savings are protected, who assures that the food you eat is safe and wholesome, or what the requirements are for shipping mail-order merchandise to you within a reasonable period of time, this free booklet answers these and hundreds of other questions that frequently come up.

The handbook is also packed with useful information for consumers on such topics as advertising, banking and credit, food and nutrition, energy, housing, health care, warranties, automobiles and much, much more. It describes the Federal, state and local government agencies that handle these matters, tells you how to get in touch with them, and what kind of help or information they can provide.

Useful tips are given in the handbook on how you can increase your chances of being a satisfied customer in the marketplace by comparison shopping, receiving product testing magazines, checking out warranty provisions, and taking other steps to insure that you are getting the most of your money before you sign on the bottom line.

To help you in the "art of complaining," step-by-step procedures are given on how to have a complaint or problem resolved satisfactorily. For instance, the handbook says first to clearly identify the problem and determine what you think would be a fair settlement, such as refunding your money, or exchanging or repairing a product. Then go back to the person who sold you the product and state the problem and what action you would like taken. If this person is not helpful, ask to see the supervisor or manager. Don't forget to bring along any documentation that substantiates your complaint, such as a sales receipt, repair order, warranty or cancelled check.

If your complaint is legitimate and you've presented it well, the firm is most likely to settle the problem with you at this stage. After all, most businesses are responsible and want to make sure you're satisfied so that you'll return and shop again. But sometimes you'll have to go a step further.

If the store where you bought the product cannot help you, if the company operates nationally, or if the product is a national brand, write a letter to the company president or corporate consumer official. The handbook cites sources found in most libraries that can help you find out what company makes a particular product and who the corporate officials are. These sources include the "Thomas Registry" which names thousands of products and their manufacturers, and "Standard and Poor's Register of Corporations, Directors and Executives" which lists 37,000 U.S. business firms.

When writing a firm you should be very careful to write a clear, well-constructed letter that outlines the problem, gives details about the purchase, and asks for some action or settlement within a reasonable period of time. Attach copies of your sales receipts, warranties and other documentation, and keep the original documents along with a copy of the letter for your records. A good letter will get the attention it deserves. The handbook contains a sample complaint letter which highlights the type of information that should be included and how it should be presented.

Even after you've written the company, sometimes you still may not be satisfied. In those instances you may want to seek help from a third party. The handbook identifies some of these outside sources of help and explains what they do and how to locate them. Included are media "action lines" operated by local radio and TV stations and newspapers; Better Business Bureaus; Federal, state, county and city consumer offices; small claims courts; occupational and professional licensing boards; and complaint mediation programs such as consumer action panels run by the automobile, furniture and major appliance industries.

I'm sure you'll find the "Consumer's Resource Handbook" informative and helpful and a useful manual to keep right next to your phone. For your free copy write to Handbook, Consumer Information Center, Dept. 635, H. Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Polyp Removal Simple With Colonoscope

By PAUL G. DONOHUE, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been told by my doctor that I have multiple polyps of the colon. Can you explain this condition? What causes a polyp? Is there treatment besides surgery? What would surgery entail? What about food absorption afterward? — M.E.

The intestine is a long tube with two major sections — the small intestine (first part) that absorbs food, and the large intestine (colon) where water is removed and stool formed. The inner surface of the intestine has a skin-like lining. Polyps are growths from that lining.

Polyps can be as small as a wart or big as a small mushroom. Most single small polyps produce no symptoms. Numerous polyps may bleed. But the most important fact about polyps is that they may become cancerous. Please note that I say MAY. We do not know why polyps form in some people. I'm afraid I may have simplified the topic of polyps almost to the point of error.

As to removal: To begin with, polyps have to be considered on an individual patient basis. Since the advent of the colonoscope, which makes removal quite simple, many doctors feel that all polyps should be removed routinely. The colonoscope is an instrument that can be passed through the entire length of the colon to snip off polyps. With multiple polyps, removal is advisable, however, because the chances of malignancy developing from them are greater.

Also, there is a rare genetic disorder that produces hundreds of polyps in the colon. With this, the entire colon often must be removed. Colon (large intestine) polyps do not interfere with food absorption, which, of course, takes place in the small intestine.

I do not know exactly what kind of polyp problem you have, so I cannot be precise in telling you what approach is most appropriate for your case. I can say that people lead active, healthy lives even without their colons, should that surgery become necessary.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 80 years old, and last year I fell and broke my arm. The doctor operated and I didn't go to sleep. I felt everything and heard every word they said. When they couldn't wake me they said, "Elizabeth, open your eyes," and I tried, but I couldn't. They said, "Move your fingers and toes," and I couldn't do that either. I heard them but could not talk. Anyway, they thought I was dead. They called my son, grandson, priests, nuns and others to help. Then it seems it was all quiet. I think I was really dead, if that is possible.

The next morning, the doctor came to see me and gave me a card and said, keep this with you night and day, as you are allergic to the anesthetic. The card has these words: Cholinesterase deficiency. What makes me have this deficiency? — E.B.

During many operations, a drug is used to relax the muscles. This makes the surgery easier to do. That drug is quickly swept away by an enzyme called cholinesterase. It is like a chemical vacuum sweeper. A very few people lack this enzyme. They are cholinesterase deficient. If they are given the muscle relaxer their muscles stay paralyzed well after the drug has been stopped. Eventually, the drug is broken down by the liver, but that takes some time. Why you have this deficiency is not known. It may be inherited.

P.S. You weren't dead. Be sure any doctor you consult in the future sees your card.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would you please give me some information about a disease called mycosis fungoides — its treatment, etc.? — B.A.

This is a fairly rare skin condition. In illnesses of the lymph nodes, the nodes become enlarged because of an increase in the number of certain white blood cells — the lymphocytes. With mycosis fungoides, these same white blood cells accumulate in the skin. At first, the parts affected look like eczema or psoriasis.

The telltale changes in the skin appear later, sometimes years later.

The diagnosis is made by examining a bit of affected skin under a microscope. The treatment depends on the stage of illness. When only the skin is involved, chemotherapeutic drugs, like nitrogen mustard or mechlorethamine are applied to the area. Sometimes oral chemotherapy is used.

For a better understanding of colitis and other intestinal ailments, their causes and treatment, write to Dr. Donohue in care of this newspaper, for a copy of his booklet, Colitis and Kindred Complaints. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

A HUG CAN SAY "I LOVE YOU" IN A VERY SPECIAL WAY.

HINTS FROM HELOISE:

Easy-To-Make Newspaper Logs Save Money

DEAR HELOISE: This is written with a guilty feeling... Sometime ago, you told us how to make newspaper logs for the fireplace and just how to treat them. I put the clipping away for future reference and have hidden it from myself. I've looked for two weeks and failed to find it. Is it effrontery to ask you to print it again? — Old Man in His 80s

Not in a million years, dear heart. Besides, we get letters from many, many other readers requesting the very same thing. With energy costs being what they are, this is one way we can trim down a bit — mostly all you are going to spend is a little of your time — and conserve a part of our resources as well. So, for you and all the other dear folks who are interested in this project, here's what to do: Stack the folded newspapers about one inch high, alternating the folded side and the leaf side. Roll the stack as tightly as possible, making a log about five to six inches in diameter. Tie the papers at each end with wire or cut both ends out of a can which fits the roll and slip this metal band around the papers. Don't use cord or string as it will burn, allowing bits of burning paper to either go up the chimney or be blown into the room. You can burn these logs as is, but if you soak them with water, then let them dry thoroughly before using, they will burn longer. (Summertime is best for this.) Also, if you would like to add a little spice to your life, give the logs a bit of color and sparkle when burning by adding the following ingredients to the water before soaking the papers: Mix two tablespoons lime with two tablespoons vinegar. After this mixture foams somewhat, add it to a half gallon of water. Into this mixture, pour two tablespoons dietic salt (salt substitute) and one tablespoon bluestone. The chemical term for bluestone is copper sulfate or blue vitriol. It is available from chemical companies, livestock feed stores, hardware stores, etc. If you need more than a half gallon of this solution, double or triple the "recipe." Soak the rolls three to four weeks if possible, and keep the solution out of the reach of children. When completely dried, the treated logs will give off a myriad of colors while burning and will dazzle you with their brightness. You can sit around the fireplace basking in their glow, relishing the fact that you haven't spent a small fortune for those beautiful logs. That in itself is almost enough to keep you warm. 'Til tomorrow... — Heloise

PLANT LIGHT DEAR HELOISE: You can give plants extra light indoors by cutting a piece of cardboard the size of your window sill and covering it with aluminum foil. The window sill is protected from stains, so clean-up is easier. My plants and I both liked this idea last winter. — F.J. Morris

DEAR HELOISE: When baking frozen or homemade bread, you can cut it while it is hot by using an electric knife. It will slice a perfect slice every time and the bread will not be squashed. — Laura Stauffenberg

SEWING STORAGE DEAR HELOISE: To store sewing paraphernalia such as a tape measure, elastic, cards of rick-rack, trims, etc., hang a shoebag close to the sewing area. Everything will be neatly sorted — sure beats digging through sewing machine drawers. — Karen Massey

Send a super sewing hint to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. She can't answer your letter personally but, sure as you can never find the scissors when you want it, she will use the best tips received in her column.

Goren Bridge

BY CHARLES I. GOREN AND OMARSHARIF 1981 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold: ♦KJ102 ♥76 ♠952 ♦AQ6 Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond? A.—What artist looks like a reasonably good hand withers somewhat under close scrutiny. One major flaw is the 4-3-3-3 pattern, which means there is no ruffing value present. Then the concentration of spade honors could represent a slight duplication of values — if your partner has A-Q, the knave is a wasted card. All in all, a simie raise to two spades adequately describes your hand.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold: ♦A6 ♥1042 ♦AJ63 ♦KQ The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass 4 ♥ Pass ? What action do you take? A.—There must surely be a slam here and we vote for the value bid of six hearts. We don't think that there is room to find out whether partner has all the key cards we need to make a grand slam. However we award full marks if any move beyond game provided you intend bidding slam even if partner makes no further forwardgoing move.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold: ♦J83 ♥97 ♦84 ♦AK10762 The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♣ Pass 2 NT Pass ? What action do you take? A.—Even if your club suit produces five tricks, there is no guarantee that partner's hand is good enough to yield four more before the opponents have collected five. However, we wouldn't pass. We would bid three spades, and would be delighted if partner goes to game in either spades or no trump.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold: ♦K1072 ♥6 ♦AKJ632 ♦AK The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass ? What do you bid now? A.—You have an enormous hand in support of spades. Since all your values are in prime cards, no spade raise will do your hand justice. Make a jump shift to three clubs. That maneuver is perfectly safe, for if partner raises clubs, you can always return to his spades without increasing the level of the auction.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold: ♦K1072 ♥6 ♦AKJ632 ♦AK The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass ? What do you bid now? A.—In terms of strength, your hand is worth a jump rebid of three diamonds. However, that bid is tactically incorrect — it could result in missing your best spot. Bid one spade. There is no reason to bypass a fair four-card major and, in view of the potential misfit, you are not strong enough to jump to two spades. If partner passes one spade, in all likelihood he also would have passed a jump to three diamonds. But at least you will have given yourself every chance to reach the right contract.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold: ♦AK95 ♥982 ♦753 ♦AK4 The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East 1 ♠ Dble. 3 ♣ Pass ? What action do you take? A.—Partner does not have a good hand. On the contrary, a jump raise over a double shows a weak distributional hand with little or no defensive value. If you realize that, then you must also see that the hand offers no prospect for game. Pass. Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics for this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. Oswald: "Here is another play problem. North wins Stayman to see if South has a four-card major suit and then bids a proper six notrump." Alan: "A quick count shows South that he has 11 top tricks and he can get the twelfth in either minor suit. He wants to try to guard against the chance that West will hold the queen of clubs and both missing diamond honors while retaining all other options. He can and does find a safety play to insure 12 tricks." Oswald: "He takes his second high heart at trick two and starts on the spades. Both opponents follow to the three leads so South takes dummy's ace and queen of hearts while discarding two little diamonds. All hearts and spades are now accounted for." Alan: "Note that South does not cash the fourth spade. He would squeeze himself if he did. He simply leads a diamond to his nine." Oswald: "West is in with the jack and must give South his twelfth trick. It should be noted that if East held both the king and jack of diamonds, South would have made seven." Study Says Consumers Feel Bread More Than 'Freebies' With Meal

By EANNE LESEM, U Family Editor

The bread restaurant puts on its tables and uses sandwiches can make or break its reputation with patrons. If bread doesn't live up to their expectations, they seldom complain, a recent study shows but they are less likely to return to the restaurant.

Many consumers questioned tended to think foodservice operators mostly regard bread at bread products as freebies given away with meals.

The consumers consider bread a good food in its own right, not just something to fill you up should be chosen, they said, to complement other food.

The study was commissioned by the Wheat Flour Institute, whose 55 members produce about 87 percent of the flour milled in the United States. It was conducted by Ritchie Research Associates, of Chicago, and Orman Guidance Research, I. of Minneapolis, in consultation with the institute and the market research staff of International Multifoods. The institute is the educational division of the Millers National Federation.

Institute director Joan Reynolds said more than 80 restaurateurs have asked the institute for bread merchandising ideas as a result of the survey findings.

Over 40 percent of the same ones necessary, she said in a telephone interview — so asked for nutritional data on bread although consumers' interest in that fact evaporates when they eat out.

They guard bread served at home mainly as an implement to hold sandwich fillings or to sop up gravy. In a restaurant, their main interests are flavor and good timing.

Consumers indicated great disappointment with restaurant breads at all three meals and almost all types of eateries. They found plenty of room for improvement even in higher priced table service restaurants.

Most of the 3,244 persons who returned questionnaires agreed that bread sets the tone for the meal — it's an early indicator of the quality of the food to follow. Participants were chosen to reflect the American population as a whole.

Among the turn-offs they mentioned were bread baskets carelessly tossed onto tables; the kind of store-bought bread served daily at home, cold bread or, at any rate, bread not warm enough to melt soft butter; and paper napkins instead of cloth napkins in the breadbasket.

They said they wanted quality in bread, but also said they were embarrassed by crumbs from top quality, crusty French or Italian loaves scattering all over the table when they tried to break off portions.

Many want a variety of breads with dinner, but they ranked quality above quantity.

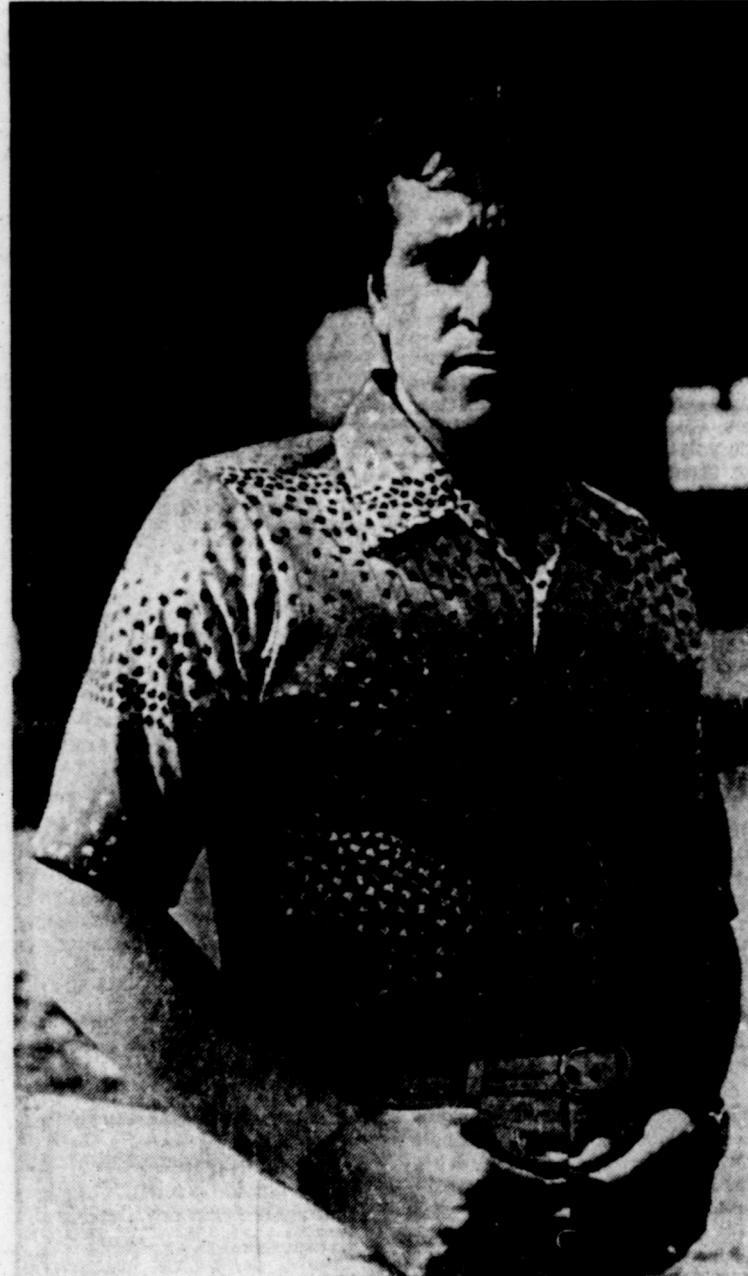

The long-standing European custom of charging for bread has few fans among Americans, although 56 percent said they wouldn't mind paying extra for a truly appealing specialty type such as garlic bread, popovers or hot muffins.

While people may not hesitate to ask for a "doggie bag" for leftover steak or other expensive entrees, the study indicated they are embarrassed to ask for a bag for bread, although they are very pleased when one is offered automatically.

Asked to rate bread served at seven different types of outlets, they put that of higher priced table service restaurants first. Employee cafeterias and commercial airlines tied for last place — barely inside the positive half of the rating spectrum.

Consumers were asked to choose their favorites among 40 different types of bread products, ranging from sliced white bread to salines, and including pita, or pocket, bread, Texas toast, tea, baking powder and southern style biscuits, scones and rum buns.

The top 10, in descending order of popularity, were garlic and French breads, blueberry muffins, cornbread, crescent, soft and cinnamon rolls, and nut, Italian and sourdough breads.

Book Gives Helpful Tips For Renovating Homes

WASHINGTON (Special) — There it stands. An old house surrounded by large trees and well-grown shrubs. Inside there are big rooms and high ceilings the way you like them. And the price is really good. But it will need some work.

To help consumers decide whether an older house is worth fixing up, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has published a booklet called Renovate an Old House? For your copy, send $1.00 along with your name and address to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 206H Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Before you make any decisions, inspect the house very carefully. You have to spend some time to recognize clues to problems that aren't obvious at the moment.

Start in the basement. Is the foundation good? Some minor settling is normal and can usually be fixed by re-leveling floor joists and beams. But if you notice settling and cracking of the foundation walls in a number of places, beware. This could indicate the need for major foundation work, a very expensive proposition.

See if the basement is damp. If possible, check it both during good weather and after a heavy rain.

With the point of a knife, check the wood in the beams and joists. If the wood is easy to poke or a section comes out with very little resistance, chances are there is decay. And mud tubes going from the ground to the wood mean termite trouble.

Throughout the house, try doors and windows to see if they open and close easily. Jamming probably indicates uneven settling.

Look at the ceiling and walls for water spots, the signs of a leaking roof, vapor through the walls, or gutter and downspout problems.

For the mechanical parts of the house, you'll probably want an electrician, plumber and heating specialist. It is not uncommon for an old house to need new plumbing, wiring and heating systems, and the costs must be added to the total.

When you know what work must be done, get estimates. Add this cost plus about 15 percent for slippage to the price of the house. If the total is about the same or below the prices of similar houses in the same area, you have a good buy.

ANN LANDERS

Daughter Concerned Over Poses For Artist-Father

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 15-year-old girl. Although my father has a full-time job, he is basically an artist and a good one. I have been posing nude for Daddy for two years and enjoy it. He cannot afford professional models on his modest salary, and Mom doesn't pose for him anymore. She got fed up with it a few years ago.

Dad never touches me when I'm working with him and never makes pornographic sketches of me. It's all very respectable. The reason I am writing to you is because Mom says a daughter should not stand stark naked in front of her father. I know of some famous artists and photographers who have used their daughters as models, and nobody thought it was indecent.

A girlfriend saw one of Daddy's paintings at an exhibition recently and recognized me. She had a fit. The first words out of her mouth were: "How could you? Weren't you ashamed?"

I see nothing wrong with working with my father and consider it good training because I plan to pose for at groups and schools when I leave school. If strangers will see me with nothing on, why can't my father? — Suzi

Dear Suzi: Obviously something about this bothers you, or you would not have written to me. Perhaps it's your mother's negative attitude, or the fact that your friend "had a fit."

Whatever it is, I think you'd better not pose nude for your father anymore. I realize you are not bothered by the moral aspects and view it as a professional job, but it makes you defensive and uneasy — so cut it out, honey. Dear Ann Landers: I have been married for 33 years to a quiet, soft-spoken man. He was gentle and good to me, and I loved him with all my heart. We raised three fine children. We never had much of a social life — which was a sacrifice for me because I like being around friends. I always believed my husband preferred to spend his free time with the family and wasn't the outgoing type.

Last week, out of the blue, he told me he never took me anywhere because he knew I was a tramp before we were married and he was afraid of some of the men he worked with, or members of his lodge, might remember that they had slept with me. He also said I laughed too loud and talked too much and my lack of refinement was an embarrassment to him. No, he doesn't want a divorce. He just wants me to know why, all these years, we never had a social life. I am heart sick and crushed. There is absolutely no truth to his accusations. Please help me understand. I feel as if my world has collapsed. — Desolate In Missouri

Dear D: Sounds as if the problem isn't you — but him. I suspect a few shingles have dropped off the roof. If possible, get him to have a neurological examination. Sometimes a small, imperceptible stroke can cause startling personality changes.

Dear Ann: My husband is one of those people who is never wrong. Whenever he flops or pulls a boner he says, "That was no mistake, it was an experience." Please think of a good put-down for me. — Ellie In Natchez

Dear Ellie: I admire his attitude. If he sees his failures as something positive, don't knock it. We need more of his kind.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." For a copy, mail 50 cents and a long, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Betty Morris, president of West Texas Hospital Auxiliary, has announced that organization's annual membership drive. The auxiliary is seeking men, women and young people with a few hours to spare a week who can do some of the work which means so much to doctors and patients at the hospital.

The same, of course, is true for other hospital auxiliaries, and if you have a sympathetic way with people and a few hours to spare, your favorite hospital would welcome your help.

Our friends at the Lubbock Humane Society have announced the annual meeting at 7:30 Friday at the Lubbock Civic Center (Room 101). Speaker will be William R. Meade III, director of the Gulf States Region of the Humane Society of the U.S. There also will be election of board members. Can't speak highly enough of this group, or the work they do for the animals of Lubbock, they need our support.

Surviving Young Kids Discussed At Seminar

By JACQUE HUTCHINS
Family News Staff

The Continuing Education Department and the Department of Home and Family Life in Home Economics recently held a "Building Healthy Families Workshop." The workshop was designed to give a fuller understanding of children and of oneself in the family relationship.

Connie Steele of the Home Economics Department spoke on "Surviving Young Kids." She presented some rather "unknown" facts regarding infants, which are important in understanding the development of children. With the knowledge of these facts, she believes that rearing children can be made easier.

For example, she stresses the importance of parents understanding their own values in relationship to rearing their children. And in projecting these values, she feels it is essential for parents to use their five senses in communicating with their children.

"Caring for children is an important part of the human race if we are going to survive," said Steele. "You must observe children so you can learn about them."

Caring about children must coincide with learning about children. She suggests that parents actually observe their children at play to comprehend growth patterns and to "be aware of how the child is feeling."

But you must touch them and love them, she explained, before they can be turned to other objects, such as for play. "It is feeling of trust that they get from the parent that allows them to turn to other objects," she said.

In the children's learning years, she stresses that it is important to know their capabilities. Until age 18 months, for example children have no concept of gravity, she explained. Therefore parents must understand that children do not realize how easily a glass of milk turns over or that when they let go of their spoon it will flop. Understanding the child's capabilities in learning to eat can help parents survive this learning process.

She also believes survival is made easier when children are able to participate in the preparation of their meal. In researching her ideas, she observed children while eating. Several children would not eat carrots. But when they cleaned and cut up the carrots with a plastic knife the following day, they did indeed eat the vegetable without coercion.

Children as a whole progress at about the same rate. Two-year-olds should not be expected to learn to tie their shoes, because they haven't developed the capabilities as yet. Five-year-olds have not yet learned the concept of straight, as in drawing a straight line. Taking these facts into consideration can help parents teach the children more efficiently.

In surviving kids, she stressed to see, hear, feel, smell and taste what is happening. "Survival will make you and your child the fittest," she said.

Tunisia Cuisine Offered

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine And Food Writer

Restaurants featuring the cuisine of the Middle East are not uncommon in America, but North African dishes are a rare sight.

Thus Gerard Krief and his wife, Maggy, attracted considerable attention last May when they opened a bistro named Le Petit Dominique in New York City. It features North African fare with the emphasis on Tunisia.

The Arab people of North Africa's coast, which is known as the Maghreb, have a culture all their own, and that extends to the kitchen.

Gerard Krief, who shares the cooking with his wife, spent his childhood in Tunisia, where his parents owned a restaurant, so he is well grounded in that unique cuisine. Before coming to America, he and Maggy ran a restaurant in Paris with the same name as the New York place.

"Tunisian cookery differs from that of other North African countries in that it's more spicy," said Maggy. "An example is a beef sausage which we make ourselves. It is loaded with garlic, hot pepper and coriander."

Another example is the house special, couscous, which is popular in Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia. Couscous is a fine cereal served with chicken, lamb, beef or fish and a variety of vegetables. The Tunisian variety is the hottest, spiced with ginger and chili pepper.

"So many Algerians now live in France that couscous is almost a national dish there," said Pierre Steinitz who helps run the New York restaurant.

One typical Tunisian dish is a form of cpe known as "brick." It has a variety of fillings, including tunfish, meat and potato.

"When I first made bricks in my grandmother's kitchen about we used to make the pastry ourselves," said Maggy. "Here we use the same overing as the Chinese egg roll, which can be bought prepared."

Maggy says she prefers serving American patrons to French. They are less fussy and our food is more of a novelty to them," she said.

Here's a recipe for a desert brick the Kriefs serve.

- 8 egg roll skins (available in most supermarkets)
 - 8 tbsps. applesauce
 - 8 tbsps. walnuts
 - 3 cups vegetable oil
 - 4 tps. granulated sugar
 - Powdered sugar for dusting
- For each brick, place 2 egg roll skins on a flat surface so they overlap about 2 inches. In center of egg roll skin place 2 tablespoons applesauce, 2 tablespoons walnuts and 1 teaspoon granulated sugar. Fold egg roll skins over and with spatula place brick in pan with hot oil and cook 2 minutes or until brown. Flip over and brown other side. Remove and dust with powdered sugar. Serves 4.

PUFFY OMELET

4 eggs, separated
1/4 cup water
1/4 tsp cream of tartar
1/4 tsp salt
1 tbsb butter

Beat egg whites with water, salt and cream of tartar at high speed until stiff but not dry, or just until whites no longer slip when bowl is tilted. Beat egg yolks at high speed until thick and lemon-colored, about 5 minutes.

Fold yolks into whites. Heat butter in 10-inch omelet pan or fry pan with oven-proof handle (to make handle ovenproof, cover completely with aluminum foil) over medium-high heat until just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Pour in omelet mixture and gently smooth surface. Reduce heat to medium. Cook slowly until puffy and lightly browned on bottom, about 5 minutes.

Lift omelet at edge to judge color. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 10-12 minutes, or until knife inserted halfway between center and outside edge comes out clean. To serve, loosen omelet edges with spatula. With a sharp knife cut upper surface down center of omelet but do not cut through to bottom of omelet. Fill if desired. Tip skillet. With pancake turner, fold in half and turn out onto plate with a quick flip of the wrist. Serve immediately.

Reagan Aides Urge Oil, Gas Decontrols

 tion to lift the controls. Reagan himself called for decontrol during the fall presidential campaign.

Inflation Is Threat
 What has apparently held up immediate action, called for as well by the Reagan transition team on energy, is the question of how much it would add to inflation and at what point.

Immediate removal of all controls likely would hit gasoline first. But one consumer advocate says decontrol also would give "an economic jolt" to prices on a whole range of products, from food shipped by truck to synthetics and plastics made with petroleum. It also could force up the cost of Social Security, which is tied to the Consumer Price Index.

There is an argument, however, that gasoline prices would not shoot up immediately — fueling the other price increases — but that the government would still gain as much as $7 billion in tax revenues.

"Price Sensitivity"
 Dan Lundberg, owner of a firm that surveys gasoline prices nationwide, points out that retail dealers are now charging more than 8 cents below the amount the remaining gasoline price controls would allow them because of "price sensitivity" — that is, the market won't bear a higher price.

"Decontrol in effect is not going to be able to overcome buyers' sensitivity," he said. Lundberg does not expect gasoline prices to stand still, of course, but he said the generally accepted figure of a quick 12-cent-a-gallon hike is "unrealistic."

From the point of view of government revenues, ending controls on gasoline is not as important as wiping out those on domestic crude oil.

Everyone expects its price to go up, and that is what would produce added federal revenues — from "windfall profits" tax and corporate income taxes — an attractive proposition to an administration trying to trim a deficit-ridden federal budget.

An Energy Department estimate says complete decontrol — only about 30 percent of domestic oil remains under price controls even now — would add .03 percent to .06 percent to the Consumer Price Index, which grew at annual rate of 12.4 percent during 1980.

Ed Rothschild, director of the consumer group Energy Action, argues that waiting until October would give people "some time to adjust."

Quick Jump "Best"
 The counter argument, put forth by the Reagan transition team, is that one large rise could contribute less to inflation than a series of drawn out smaller ones.

The question of how much prices might rise is not the only subject of argument.

One government economist studying decontrol, who asked not to be identified by name, noted that while increased revenues might amount to $6 billion to $7 billion, government costs would rise too.

Along with the possible hike in Social Security, the economist noted the amount the government would be paying more for oil for its Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

As for the rise in the price of gasoline — which Lundberg says now averages almost $1.25 a gallon nationwide for all grades — estimates range from under a dime up to 15 cents.

Lundberg also cautions against taking all the predictions too seriously.

One illustration of the riskiness of predicting can be seen in the government's original projections at the beginning of oil decontrol in 1979.

At that point, the Congressional Budget Office estimated that in 1982, the first full year of decontrol, consumers would have to pay at least $12.2 billion because of the lifting of controls.

The economist studying decontrol says that cost to consumers now may amount to $50 billion to $60 billion yearly.

Jailbreak Attempt Via 'Copter Fails

NEW YORK (AP) — An armed man and woman Sunday hijacked a helicopter to the roof of a federal detention center in Manhattan in a foiled jailbreak that sparked an inmate insurrection lasting almost four hours, authorities said.

Several of 20 inmates in a caged-in recreation area on the roof of the 12-story Metropolitan Correctional Center held an unarmed guard hostage and locked him in a washroom before they surrendered, Warden Dale Thomas said at a news conference.

Authorities said they were investigating whether the plot was an attempt to free a prisoner jailed on narcotics charges, but they did not identify that inmate.

The helicopter landed at 10:15 a.m. on the chain-link roof of the caged-in area, but the hijackers were unable to cut through the quarter-inch wire, Thomas said. They took off five minutes later and forced the pilot to land at Manhattan's West 30th Street heliport, where police said they escaped in a waiting Cadillac driven by another woman.

All of the inmates on the roof surrendered and were taken into custody shortly before 2 p.m. No shots were fired and no injuries were reported in the four-hour incident.

Thomas identified one of the inmates under investigation in connection with the incident as Robert Wyler, convicted leader of a large East Coast drug ring. He did not name any others.

The incident began at 7 a.m. when a woman wearing a maroon jogging suit rented a helicopter from Island Helicopters, a Long Island commuter and sightseeing service at Teterboro Airport in New Jersey, Thomas said.

She flew with the pilot to the East 34th Street heliport, where they met another woman who joined them for breakfast. One of the women then flew back to Teterboro to pick up the man, the warden said.

Authorities speculated the second woman remained in New York in the getaway car, which later was found abandoned.

Anthony Amanzio, general manager of Island Helicopters, said the man and woman first offered the pilot money to land on the roof of the detention center.

"Then they placed a sawed-off shotgun to his head and told him it no longer was a request," he said.

The pilot, who was not identified and who declined to speak to reporters, landed the chopper atop the recreation cage. The woman used an aluminum chain-link ladder to lower herself and unsuccessfully tried to cut through the mesh, Thomas said.

She returned to the helicopter and watched the pilot while her accomplice also tried in vain to cut the mesh. The two then forced the pilot to try to break the cage by bouncing the aircraft on it. When it became clear that the attempt would not succeed, they tossed a gun through the cage and took off, prison officials said.

When the inmates holding the guard hostage realized they could not escape, another inmate picked up the gun and tossed it to a lower ledge, Thomas said.

"Once the weapon was on the ledge, it was in our observation at all times and not accessible to the inmates," he said. Inmates told authorities they wanted to surrender by calling them on a telephone in the recreation area, he said.

More than an hour later, the inmates, waving white flags, were brought off the roof one-by-one and frisked. All were back in custody by 1:50 p.m., the warden said.

Authorities said they were unable to clear the roof sooner because they didn't know if the prisoners were armed and did not want to send any guards up.

CRASHES KILL THREE, HURT 15

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — Three people were killed and 15 were injured in traffic accidents, Sunday morning, when fog and dense smoke from a smoldering swamp fire cut visibility to zero along a 10-mile section of Interstate 75, officials said. State Department of Transportation officials said the stretch of highway, about 15 miles north of Valdosta, was closed about five hours but was reopened by late morning.

Alexander's Sentencing Next Step

ABILENE (UPI) — Billy Wayne Alexander, convicted of the shooting death of a Department of Public Safety trooper, faces a sentence of death by injection or life imprisonment.

Alexander, 21, was found guilty of capital murder Saturday by a jury that deliberated less than three hours. The sentencing phase of the trial begins today and could take most of the week.

Lubbock County criminal district attorney John T. Montford, who has said all along he will seek the death penalty, said he has numerous witnesses to call during the punishment phase of the trial.

The late trooper's mother, Joyce Davis of Lubbock, said she hoped a death penalty sentence would serve as a deterrent for future criminals.

"I wouldn't want any other officer's family to go through this," she said.

Alexander was convicted of killing trooper Jerry Don Davis, 25, last Oct. 5, when Davis stopped Alexander for driving a stolen car at speeds up to 100 mph. The suspect fled the state after the killing and eventually was arrested in Liberal, Kan.

During his trial, Alexander's defense attorneys claimed the shooting was accidental, that Alexander had seen Davis empty the .357 magnum found in the defendant's car, but that it discharged accidentally when Davis handed him the gun and told him to put it on the dashboard of the trooper's patrol car.

Those claims were supported by a seven-minute videotape interview made by a liberal police, which District Judge Bob Wright allowed the jury to see.

"I'd seen him unload it," the crying suspect said on tape. "I thought it was empty. I did not pull the ... trigger. I'll swear on a Bible. I'll take a lie detector or anything. I swear I did not mean to kill that officer."

The videotape conflicted, however, with a police confession Alexander subsequently signed.

down before forcing intercourse with her, the woman said. He then drove back to her apartment complex, telling her to place her head between her knees and wait five minutes before moving.

The suspect is described as a white male, 18 to 25 years old and 5 foot 7 to 5 foot 9. The thin man with a gruff voice wore a blue coat, blue pants and brown gloves. He had black hair.

Information leading to the arrest of two rape suspects will bring a $500 reward from Crime Line.

The victim told police she drove to a friend's home, parking in the alley south of the complex at 15th Street and Avenue V. She said a vehicle that drove through the alley paused, and a man jumped out, grabbed her and dragged her to the back seat.

The men told the woman they had a gun, and they showed her a folded knife. They told the woman, essentially, "We're from Post, and we like to scare people."

They arrived at Mackenzie State Park, and the three walked through a stone structure. They ordered the woman to sit by a tree before one removed her clothes. She was raped by both men.

The suspects, both described as Mexican males, 18 to 25 years old with black hair, drove a 1977 or 1978 two-door black-over-maroon Monte Carlo or Cutlass Supreme. One was heavy and wore a blue and yellow coat with an orange shirt and blue trousers. The other, thin, wore a black coat and blue pants.

A $300 reward is offered for information leading to the arrest of fugitive Keith Rex Ellis. Charged with auto theft, he is described as a 28-year-old white male, 200 pounds with blond hair and blue eyes.

Information leading to the arrest of fugitive Curtis Gene Henington, charged with auto theft, will bring a $300 reward from Crime Line.

He is described as a 22-year-old white male, 5 foot 10 and 150 pounds with brown hair and hazel eyes.

Quiet Reunions Set For Families

 ment, mock executions and various other forms of physical and mental abuse by their Iranian captors.

In another television interview, Lloyd Cutler, who served as counselor to Carter, proposed that as a means of preventing another embassy takeover, all nations should agree to isolate any country that ever again seizes another nation's diplomats.

The nation soon will have an opportunity to hear of the hostages' ordeal in their own words. A voluntary news conference has been scheduled for Tuesday morning, before the Washington ceremony.

The 200,000 spectators gathered along the 15-mile route from Stewart Airport to West Point. Cars and trucks were decorated with banners reading "We love you," and "We missed you," and one featuring a peace symbol declaring "We gotcha back."

Children were scattered on the hillsides, tying balloons to every available spot. Trees, telephone poles and mile markers along the route were festooned with yellow ribbons.

Cheering Crowd At Rhein-Main Airfield
 The Americans, some of them wiping back tears from an emotional send-off, had left a cheering crowd of well-wishers at the Rhein-Main airfield at 10:58 a.m. local time, 3:58 a.m. CST.

They spent nearly two hours on the ground at Shannon Airport in Ireland and did some shopping at the airport's duty-free shop while their plane was refueled. They then took off at 1:40 p.m., 7:40 a.m. CST, for Stewart Airport, where they arrived at 1:55 p.m. CST.

In Ireland, Prime Minister Charles Haughey gave crystal glass bells to the men and perfume to the women.

After being freed by Iran on Tuesday in exchange for Iranian assets frozen in the United States at the start of the crisis, the hostages were flown to Algeria and then on to Rhein-Main. From there, they went to the U.S. military hospital at Wiesbaden for medical checkups and "decompression."

Returning from Wiesbaden, Sunday, many of the ex-hostages laughed and waved to the crowd of some 2,000 people who turned out despite the chill to see them off.

Military bands struck up "Tie a Yellow Ribbon" as two blue buses carrying the former captives pulled up to the silver VC-137 jetliner that would carry them home.

As the hostages lingered, shaking hands and chatting with the crowd, an official announced over the public address system: "Ladies and Gentlemen, board your aircraft."

A yellow ribbon was draped on the door of the plane, dubbed "Freedom One" by the Air Force. A military version of the Boeing 707 commercial jetliner, the plane is a sister ship of Air Force One and was drawn from the presidential fleet, based at Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland.

Some were tearful as the former hostages boarded the plane.

As the last of them stepped aboard, the band struck up "America."

Mao Widow's Death Sentence Suspended

PEKING (AP) — The most publicized trial in the history of Communist China ended Sunday with a suspended death sentence for Mao Tse-tung's widow, who was dragged from the courtroom screaming denunciations of China's present leaders.

Jiang Qing, 67-year-old widow of the nation's founder, was sentenced to die but given two years to reform before the sentence is reviewed. She was convicted of persecuting thousands, plotting to overthrow the government and tyrannizing the people during the 1966-76 Cultural Revolution.

Her nine codefendants also were found guilty for their activities during what is now officially referred to here as "the decade of turmoil." One, former vice premier Zhang Chunqiao, also was given the suspended death sentence. The others, some of whom have been in custody for almost 10 years, were sentenced to prison terms ranging from 16 years to life.

In London, the Nobel Prize-winning human rights organization Amnesty International characterized the trial as unfair and appealed to the Chinese government to commute the two death sentences.

When Jiang Qing heard the word "death" in the sentencing, her mouth twisted in rage and she began screaming at the 35-judge special court. The judge's next words gave her a two-year reprieve to repent through labor.

National television showed her struggling with two women bailiffs who snapped handcuffs on her and, moments later, seized her by the arms and the back of her neck and marched her out of the courtroom at No. 1 Righteousness Road.

She could not be heard clearly on television, but Chinese sources present at the trial said she shouted "Down with revisionists headed by Deng Xiaoping." "It is right to rebel" and "Making revolution is no crime." They said she tried to lie on the floor to resist expulsion, her third since proceedings began Nov. 20.

Deng, who was purged twice during the Cultural Revolution, is now China's most powerful leader. Chinese sources indicate Jiang Qing may owe her life to him.

There was no word on what type of labor Jiang Qing and the 63-year-old Zhang, reportedly afflicted with cancer, would be assigned.

There is no appeal. The sentencing came nearly one month after the last trial session Dec. 29. Chinese sources reported a high-level controversy in the past weeks over whether to execute Mao's widow.

They said Deng argued against execution, contending it could make a martyr of Jiang Qing, who reportedly defended herself throughout by invoking Mao. The conviction of his wife necessarily reflects on "The Great Helmsman" himself and although China's present leadership has criticized Mao's "mistakes" it has carefully avoided any implication he may have committed a crime.

At the Dec. 29 session, prosecutor Jiang Wen declared that all Chinese "are very clear that Chairman Mao was responsible, so far as his leadership was concerned, for their plight during the Cultural Revolution and he was also responsible for failing to see through the Lin Piao and Jiang Qing counter-revolutionary cliques."

Since then, criticism of Mao has diminished and his quotations have been appearing more often in ideological articles.

Mao's former secretary Chen Boda and five former generals were convicted of "fatal persecutions" and plotting with the late Defense Minister Lin Piao to kill Mao and seize power in 1971.

Chen, 76, was sentenced to 18 years. Huang Yongsheng, 70, former armed forces chief of staff, and Jiang Tengqiao, 61, a former air force political commissar, both were sentenced to 18 years. Wu Faxian, 65, former air force commander, and Li Zuopeng, 66, former navy political commissar, were given 17 years. Qiu Hui-zuo, 66, former director of the army's logistics department, was sentenced to 16 years.

Most were arrested shortly after Lin was reported to have died in a plane crash in 1971, after his plot against Mao was foiled. Time already served will count against their sentences.

In Sunday's two-hour final session, Jiang Hua, president of the special court, and other judges took turns reading a 14,000-word judgment.

The judgment held Jiang Qing responsible for all offenses committed by her "Counter-revolutionary clique" or "Gang of Four," specifically "of endangering the People's Republic of China, working to overthrow the government and tyrannizing the people."

It said Zhang, who remained silent throughout the proceedings against him, "caused extremely grave harm to the state and the people."

 vacant for several months, and Rowe said he has received no indication as to when it will be filled.

The staffing problem, he explained, is because vacancies are filled by other Border Patrol agents who are reassigned to the Lubbock office and he has no authority to try to alleviate the problem himself. Rowe added that President Reagan's recently announced freeze on federal jobs will not affect the Lubbock agency, because the position to be filled existed before the freeze was announced.

In addition to the unfilled slot, Rowe said, the detention officer assigned to the the Lubbock office has been temporarily stationed with a federal prison in Atlanta, Ga., now being used to house Cuban refugees.

"So until our manpower problems are solved, I really don't expect the situation to improve too much," Rowe said, adding that his office has been receiving an increasing number of complaint calls because so many undocumented workers are going unnoticed.

"We get those sort of calls all the time, but we have been getting more of them lately," he said. "But there just hasn't been a whole lot we can do about the situation."

Kidnappers, Car Thieves Sought

Lubbock police Sunday were seeking two men who kidnapped the manager of a Lubbock movie theater and left him bound inside a van after an unsuccessful robbery attempt.

Doug James Lightner, 37, manager of the Showplace 6 Theater at 6707 University Ave., was found about 2 a.m. Sunday inside a van at 2310 70th St., police said. The man's hands and feet were tied, but he was able to gain the attention of a passerby, who notified police.

Lightner told police two men in ski masks abducted him from the theater parking lot about 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

The manager said he was carrying the theater's bank bags out to his car when he saw the red Dodge van occupied by two men. Lightner told officer he had a "bad feeling" and took the money back inside the theater.

He then came back outside as the van was moving away, reports show. Lightner said he then got in his car, but the vehicle wouldn't start.

One of the masked men, armed with a large blue-steel revolver, then opened the car door and forced Lightner into the van, where he was made to lie face-down, police said.

The man then asked Lightner where the money was and threatened to kill him if they did not get the cash.

A second masked man was driving the van, and the men drove around a short while attempting to convince Lightner to give them the money, police said.

The driver then stopped and phoned the theater, reports show. An employee at the theater told police a man called and told her to carry the bank bags out into the parking lot. The man also said the manager had been kidnapped and warned the employee not to call police.

After the unsuccessful attempt to get the cash, Lightner said the men drove to 2310 70th St., and both abductors left Lightner, hands and feet tied, lying in the rear of the van.

Before leaving, the men told the manager not to get up or they would kill him, police said. After a while, Lightner said he managed to open the van's side door with his feet and yell at the passerby.

The subsequent investigation revealed that spark plug wires on Lightner's car had been removed, preventing the vehicle from starting.

Det. Ronnie Goolsby said the men may have been involved in several recent car thefts in Lubbock and in similar robbery attempts in other cities.

The van the men occupied had been stolen Saturday from University Dodge, 7007 University Ave., police said.

Both abductors were white, in their early 20s and well-educated, Lightner said. Both were clad in dark ski jackets, dark pants and dark ski masks.

British Labor Party Faces Rift

LONDON (AP) — In what could signal the first fundamental re-alignment of British politics in nearly 60 years, four leaders of the opposition Labor Party's right wing announced formation Sunday of a "Council for Social Democracy," the apparent precursor of a social democrat party.

Former Labor Cabinet ministers David Owen, Shirley Williams and William Rodgers joined with Roy Jenkins, a former deputy Labor leader, in announcing the formation of the council and a platform similar to those of social democratic parties in other western European countries.

"For those who have given much of their lives to the Labor Party, the choice that lies ahead will be deeply painful. But we believe that the need for a re-alignment of British politics must now be faced," their statement said.

While not officially announcing their break from the 80-year-old Labor Party, Mrs. Williams said, "We are almost inevitably on our way out."

Observers predicted the social democrats might wait until after local elections this spring to formally split.

The rightwingers moved following the stunning victory for Labor's leftists Saturday, when a special party conference stripped Labor's mainly moderate legislators of their right to elect the party leader. The leader of the party that wins parliamentary elections becomes prime minister.

The conference at Wembley, near London, voted for a new electoral college dominated by trade union bosses and the mainly left-wing local party branches.

Jenkins, Owen, who was foreign secretary in the Labor administration defeated by Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Conservatives in 1979, ex-Education Secretary Williams and former Defense Secretary Rodgers described the Wembley conference as "calamitous."

Labour leader Michael Foot, a onetime leftwinger now struggling to hold the party together, appealed to the rightwingers not to quit.

"I want to keep everyone who is in the Labor Party in it," Foot said in a radio interview. A new party "is going to do nothing but injure the other parties," he said.

Labour supplanted the Liberal Party as one of the two major British political organizations in 1922. Since then, power has been wielded by either Labor or the Conservatives in what is in practice a two party system.

The new social democrat group said it would announce shortly a list of backers. Analysts predicted that up to 20 of Labor's current 268 legislators in the 635-member House of Commons could defect.

Apart from the group's leaders, five Labor backbenchers were at Owen's East London home Sunday evening, where the group announced its formation.

The Liberals, who have only 11 seats in Parliament, expressed cautious hopes of an alliance with the new group. Liberal leader David Steel said "it should be possible" for Liberals and the new group to discuss forming "a constructive partnership either inside or outside Parliament."

The platform announced by the new council called for a mixed economy, a comprehensive welfare state "without stifling enterprise," and a strong British role internationally, in the Common Market and NATO.

Labour has lurched sharply leftward since the Conservative victory and is bitterly divided between right and left both over control of the party machine and policy.

At its annual conference in Blackpool last autumn, where trade union leaders controlled nearly 90 percent of votes, leftwingers pushed through votes for unilateral disarmament, withdrawal from the Common Market and widespread nationalization.

EXXON OFFICE SYSTEMS PRODUCTS CAN WORK FOR YOU, TOO

DS Agency Offers Local Sales, Service Exxon Office Systems

"Making it easier for you to do business" is the whole service and concern of the DS Agency, Inc., serving from Lubbock, Midland and Amarillo as agents for Exxon Office Systems throughout West Texas.

Located in Lubbock at 1304 Ave. O, phone (806) 762-8361, the firm's Midland number is (915) 684-8646.

Local sales and local service is thus assured.

Lease, sale and rental of the Exxon systems is enabled through the DS Agency headed by the brother team of Doug and Sam Ward and established in 1979.

Into the Exxon Office Systems products go the most advanced technologies in information processing, communications and storage, it is pointed out by the Lubbock firm that takes pride in providing these products from Exxon, the world's largest corporation.

Attention is directed here, in brief, to four Exxon products contributing measurably to more efficient ways for you to do business... easier and faster:

Qyx

Qyx, "the intelligent typewriter," has electronic modules that let one add memory, display or communications, enabling Qyx to get smarter without getting bigger! In brief, it is a great electronic memory typewriter. Its cost efficiency is remarkable.

Vydec

And there is Vydec, "the most complete line of display word processing systems in the world; yes, in the entire world." Just introduced is the Vydec 4000 series, the first 19-inch two-full-page display word processor. The 4000 lets you work with up to 6,000 characters on the screen at one time!

Qwip

Also vital among the Exxon Office Systems products are the Qwip facsimile machines that speed paperwork across town or cross-country in just two minutes! Because Qwip is used with your telephone, sending copies from "here" to "there" is as simple as dialing your destination.

Zilog
Zilog, Inc. makes highly flexible microcomputer systems that can use five high-level languages... so Zilog microcomputers have the versatility for a broad range of business and industrial applications at a very low cost.

All this is available from DS Agency, remember, right here at home, with local sales and local service emphasized.

"To learn more about our products and services, and how they can make it easier for you to do business, call now at 762-8361 in Lubbock, or 684-8646 in Midland. Shouldn't these breakthroughs in increased office productivity work for you, too?"

HUCO Products Providing Full Stock Housecleaning Supplies

HUCO, at 101 Sherman, just off the Clovis Hwy, near downtown Lubbock, supplies the best in janitorial equipment and related needs for the home... just as it does for business and industry.

"Housewives, isn't it great to have available all the needed cleaners, spot-ers, floor finishes, etc., just like the professionals use, right here in a supermarket type display in Lubbock at HUCO Products Co?"

Furthermore, a knowledgeable sales staff, specialists in the cleaning supply category, is on hand to offer professional suggestions. They know their business and can be of exceptional assistance to you who want your home to look its best.

For carpet care products, cleaners, strippers, disinfectants, aerosols, waxes, polymers, dressings, seals, finishes, paint removers and more, one can select with ease from the supermarket type display in the big, attractive showroom at HUCO.

For attention to windows, carpet, floors, terrazzo, brick, hardwood, bath and shower fixtures, garage areas and all, HUCO Products Co. has a quality selection of products.

Do you need a de-greaser for the garage? HUCO has the finest!

Drain opening compounds are stocked, too; these are a "must" for any home.

Colored paints for garage floors are stocked; a great aid in maintaining neatness of the premises.

De-icing compound is stocked, too... don't go through winter without this protection.

When it is clean-up time in home, office, industry or whatnot, why settle for less than products from HUCO?

Record of Service

Robert Hughes is HUCO president; and George Hughes is the president of the parent Hughes Services, Inc. which has over a quarter-century service record.

Also on hand at HUCO are Ken Strange, Don Edwards, Delton Fortenberry and Jack Boydston, sales; and David Mitchell and Eddy Williams in Midland, all experts on gym finishes, sanitation supplies and methods.

HUCO serves 56 counties... from the Oklahoma border to Midland and Odessa, from New Mexico to Wichita Falls, from its Lubbock home base.

Hughes Services, Inc. serves enviably in a 120-mile radius of Lubbock, with Hughes crews on the job around the clock.

(Products stocked by HUCO have been utilized in Hughes' own business cleaning and maintenance services, with only the finest, proven by trial, put on HUCO shelves.) The service, integrity and capacity for service of each firm is a matter of record.

'COUNTRY HEARTH BREADS—GET THEM TODAY!'

Rainbo Country Hearth Breads Introduced Today Regionally

In keeping with its devotion to "quality you can taste," Rainbo Baking Co., Lubbock, today is introducing an added line of variety breads throughout its region.

"Country Hearth Breads" are being introduced today, available in four delightful varieties: (1) Old Fashion Buttermilk, (2) 100 per cent Stone Ground Wheat, (3) Seven Whole Grain, and (4) Bran 'N Honey bread.

What is so great about Country Hearth Breads? They are whole grain products baked with the finest ingredients available, using (1) natural whole grains and (2) no artificial preservatives throughout the entire line!

In addition, to insure maximum flavor and quality, Country Hearth Breads from Rainbo are baked an average of 26 minutes per loaf, about 50 percent more than standard pan breads, and all varieties are baked in the wide pan.

"Country Hearth Breads in most cases contain a much higher percentage of whole grains to flour weight. Example: many variety breads contain between eight and 12 per cent, while Country Hearth contains between 12 and 26 per cent whole grains to flour weight. Country Hearth Breads represent a softer whole grain bread than is generally available today, too."

Characteristics Pinpointed

Check these specific characteristics of each Country Hearth variety:
 The Old Fashion Buttermilk Bread tastes like it was made in a country kitchen! By blending the flours of five different grains (wheat, rye, corn, soy and oatmeal) and adding buttermilk, makes this product a light, moist bread variety that is a real family favorite.

The 100 per cent Stone Ground Whole Wheat bread involves stone grinding the wheat and adding it back in its whole form (wheat flour, wheat bran, wheat germ, wheat gluten) giving excellent nutritional values. In addition, by adding corn sugar, honey, molasses and raisin juice, this product has the old fashioned taste and flavor the consumer is looking for today.

Bran 'N Honey Bread is an old fashioned recipe blending the natural fiber of wheat bran with the natural sweetness of honey. It makes a delicious bread with wholesome, sweet nut-like flavor and natural nutrition to be enjoyed by all ages.

Seven Whole Grain Bread is the result of blending all of Mother Nature's natural grains in their whole state into one loaf of bread! The addition of honey, molasses and raisin juice provides the natural sweetness that makes the eating of this product a veritable delight. The seven natural whole grains are wheat, rye, barley, soy, corn, oatmeal and rice.

"We invite you to discover, today, why Rainbo is so excited about the Country Hearth Breads we are introducing in your favorite grocery or supermarket," is the sincere word from Harry Hoopes, president of the Rainbo Baking Co. of Lubbock.

New Ownership, Miniatures Make News At Cactus Alley 'Little Shoppe'

With The Little Shoppe in Cactus Alley long recognized for its selection of miniatures by the thousands, for its so-called hobbyist, for the amateur and avid miniature collector alike, one could hardly expect more!

(1) The stock is the most extensive ever, appreciably increased even in the past few weeks.

(2) Re-arrangement of the already-attractive shop makes for better display and greater customer convenience; and here's the big announcement:

(3) Nancy Caswell has been announced as new owner!
 Nancy, a most, most knowledgeable miniature enthusiast and collector, actually has been in The Little Shoppe, working hand in hand with Norma Bartley, since September.

Norma Bartley, who founded The Little Shoppe back some 15 years ago on 34th Street and pioneered the concept that has made the shop outstanding throughout all the Southwest, is most enthusiastic in introducing and recommending Nancy as new owner.

Record Of Growth

"I have loved the associations the shop has afforded me through the years," Norma emphasizes, "having many customers that have remained throughout the years, from the first location to the Cactus Alley move about 12 years ago when I became first tenant here, and on through the growth that even last year saw the shop moving to a new location within the Alley to enable doubling of size. Through these years the shop evolved from primarily a consignment shop of hobbies, arts and crafts to the stature it now enjoys as headquarters for miniatures—the delightful furnishings, the doll houses, the shadow boxes, the kits, even a veritable lumber yard for the miniature enthusiast!"

"It has been a real pleasure serving and working with each of you," Norma adds, "and I still will assist Nancy and those who rely upon The Little Shoppe, in any way possible. It is without reservation that I recommend Nancy Caswell as the new owner who also has your interests at heart."

Nancy is an area native, returning here after several years absence. Formerly living at O'Donnell, she is a graduate of O'Donnell High School and counts many friends throughout the area.

Invitation Voiced

"Come in and meet Nancy or renew acquaintance with her, and learn of all afforded in The Little Shoppe, still significantly "different" in Cactus Alley, 2610 Salem Ave., just south off the Brownfield Highway in Lubbock. We know you'll like what you find... from miniatures never before seen or presented in this area to the help that only a qualified devotee can give. Nancy is glad to assist in any way possible, glad to work with folks who appreciate the unusual, the pretty and the intriguing.

"The Little Shoppe comes through, stronger than ever."

THE CARPET STORE WHERE YOUR DOLLAR BUYS MORE

One-Of-A-Kind Tuftwick Sale Enables Special Opportunity

For final January Clearance, it is a "One-of-a-Kind" Sale underway at Tuftwick Carpet, Inc., Brownfield Highway at Slide Road in Lubbock.

During this event, one actually can save 30 per cent to even 60 per cent on many carpet patterns from leading manufacturers, the Tuftwick management reports.

Aside from the short rolls, remnants, discontinued patterns and some other carpet marked at this drastic price reduction, Tuftwick has further good news for the quality-conscious and cost-conscious customers of the region.

All in-stock carpet, other than sale items, is sold at the old price — without the increase that has come with new orders from the manufacturer.

Present Advantages Cited
So, whether selecting from the special sale one-of-a-kind opportunities or from other stock carpet, the wide word surely is to "buy now, during the Clearance at Tuftwick, and continue to depend on the firm that takes pride in selling at $3 to $5 per square yard under suggested retail, no matter the selection, no matter if just arrived in stock, no matter if sale time or not."

"Holding the price line" to the fullest extent possible in every transaction is a way of business at Tuftwick.

One is invited to bring room measurements on the very first visit, and the Tuftwick staff will gladly figure the carpet amount necessary.

"There's no need to have a 'let down' after the first of the year; it is a great time to ready the home for spring entertaining and family enjoyment . . . and Tuftwick aids even further with the low prices and increased selection."

There are special "bonus buys" in carpet from Milliken, Lees and others. Check within the store for these exceptional values.

Add to this that Tuftwick advertises easy terms, no money down, and up to 36 months to pay, and the idea comes through clearly and forcefully, that Tuftwick Carpet, Inc., wants your business! Visa, Master Charge and GE Major Purchase Cards are welcomed.

Likely more consideration is being given at this time to the advantages of home remodeling than in some years.

And in this vein, it is evident that new carpeting should be a major acquisition in making the home beautiful, livable and more energy efficient. Let Tuftwick assist in the related savings.

Whatever the selection in the very large stock, including full rolls, short rolls and remnants, one can save by purchasing from Tuftwick at this time.

One must surely see the new rolls arriving from such famous mills as Lees, Milliken, Philadelphia and Horizon. Seldom has there been such a variety of fabrics and colors and patterns. All the fabrics received by Tuftwick are treated for static and soiling, with either Scotchgard or Teflon.

A really great selection of Antron (the best Dupont nylon) is noted.

With the quality of workmanship, with fine materials and beautiful new patterns, more for the money in carpet is provided than ever before, the folks at Tuftwick welcome the opportunity to explain and prove.

Hal, Arvil, Nancy, Beth and Cy all will be glad to assist in any manner possible. They know carpet, and they know that satisfied customers are the biggest asset a firm can have.

All labor is guaranteed.
"Longtime recognition of Tuftwick Carpet, Inc. as a headquarters for attractive pricing, utmost in value, and always a wide selection is a matter of general knowledge."

Storkie's Continues Sale

"Storkie's at 34th & H, the maternity and baby shop that Lubbock and area shoppers are talking about, continues its January Sale!"

There are good buys and many mark-downs in the maternity and baby departments, as the January event continues in order to make room for spring merchandise arriving daily.

In the maternity department, one will find sizes from 4 to 24 and a complete lingerie department including panties, slips, regular and support hose, girdles, nursing bras to 44F and washable nursing pads and nursing smock tops and nursing dresses.

"If you are a nursing mother, Storkie's invites your comparison of nursing bras. We have a fantastic bra with excellent support for $8.50. This bra really has been well received."

There always is a good selection of maternity apparel, a wonderful selection of pants and jeans and plenty of mark-downs in dresses and tops. It is a great time to take advantage of close-out fall merchandise.

Stock up for the little ones: girls 3-6X, boys 0-4T, with quality merchandise at truly affordable prices. Many items are marked down and reduced for the remainder of the month. A 10 percent discount on any regular price item not already marked down in the baby department is posted.

Layaways, Visa and Master Charge purchases are welcomed.

"We at Storkie's are grateful for our many new customers, not only in Lubbock but those coming from area towns as result of hearing from their friends about Storkie's, located in the Family Park Center, just next door to Anthonys."

"If you like a good selection and prices you can afford, Storkie's is for you. Owner Faye Spoth and staff are anxious to serve you and save for you, at 34th & H, phone 747-8331."

Fifth Wheels From Pharr Seen Solving RV Convenience, Quality, Cost Needs

"Pharr RV's, Inc., 1702 Clovis Road in Lubbock, can be quite a friend . . . whether you want to relax and see the sights close to home or prefer the rugged mountains, the seashore or backwoods adventures."

"For practicality, convenience, beauty and just plain fun, there's likely nothing else like the '81 Coachmen QuinStar/Caper XL Fifth Wheels!"

And Pharr has these Fifth Wheel Units in stock, in 28 to 35 ft. lengths, both new and used, to provide the best selection of these he has ever had.

If desiring a full-size recreational unit (RV), then the Fifth Wheel seems made to order, easily pulled by the pickups of one's preference.

"Don't fret about small units or small autos: solve the vacationing, travel needs with a Fifth Wheel, lots of other people are doing it!"

In outlining the good supply of '81 Coachmen units on the lot, "the No. 1 seller in America," Pharr points out some features of the Fifth Wheels, in particular:

QuinStar features a one-piece seamless aluminum roof that is easy to maintain and it is watertight. Rugged tubular steel frames and the galvanized metal underbelly combine for strength, safety and further all-weather protection.

"It is the perfect combination of convenience and luxury."

Pharr's not only has these units, but stocks many other quality RV units and provides quality service for the region.

New and used Class A motor homes are on the big lot.

Park Models
And the park models (8x35 trailers) also by Coachmen.

Rentals
Rentals of motor homes and small travel trailers (even small enough to be towed by the small cars) is a big department of Pharr's RV's.

RV storage is one of the several services afforded.

Parts, accessories and service are all available.

A good selection of RV units always is maintained at Pharr's, at its clearly-marked and easily reached facility near downtown Lubbock, at the Amarillo Highway-Clovis Road "Y," 1702 Clovis Road.

"Pharr wants to help you enjoy travel and vacation opportunities in every season and for years to come. Why delay; discover upon your own visit and inspection how Pharr can make your week-ends, vacations or retirement a whole new experience without exorbitant cost."

SIGN-UP TIME

B & I Pages Aid Buyer, Seller In Presentations

"Sign-up deadline is near for participation in the Business and Industrial (B & I) pages of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal during the spring and summer months ahead.

See an Avalanche-Journal retail advertising salesman, or call 762-8844 (Extensions 334, 306 or 313) and a representative of the advertising department will explain the program in full, helping plan a comprehensive schedule of presentations in stories and pictures, together with ads that week after week carry their impact.

"These pages have a record of proven benefit to advertiser and customer alike, and remember, your own story can be told effectively, prominently, professionally and correctly on these pages in the activity-packed season ahead. Don't be left out, get full details now!"

"So let's get down to business, haven't you said, in your own situation, that next time I'm going to be on the B & I pages? My business associates have reported the effectiveness, and readers have expressed their enthusiasm for the informative stories and ads."

Now that time is here, together with its opportunities.

3217 34th St., phone 792-5166, recognizes that a properly merchandised home is a sold home, and they direct all efforts accordingly.

"If you are impressed by a million dollar sales figure, then you most cer-

"Your business or service can be featured in pictures and stories in the unique B & I section, but only if action is taken at soonest possible time.

"These messages can be featured only if arrangements are made now, so don't find your firm or service omitted from the B & I pages."

"Those interested in being represented through these factual stories and pictures for the first time, or as a continuation of former rewarding schedules, should call 762-8844, Extension 334, 306 or 313, and a representative of the advertising department will assist to the fullest.

"We want to work with you in every way possible" is the sincere message from the owners at Insulating Windows, Inc.

"We want you to save every cost; we want you to keep out the cold of winter and the heat of summer... and we want you to be protected against the sandstorms sure to come!"

If the consideration is beauty, economy, quality, health, investment, design or service, then Insulating Windows, Inc., phone 745-5768, at 327 E. 74th St. should enter the picture.

tainly will be doubly impressed by the million dollar service afforded by each of the capable staff at Edwards and Abernathie!"

Much could be said about advisability of purchasing a home at this time, of the numerous services offered by Edwards and Abernathie in such transaction, and regarding the particular qualifications of each hand-picked staffmember. However, this week the firm just wants you to know of their interest; they want you to see their pictures, recognizing them as staff with your interests at heart, recognizing them as the representatives who sold that house across the street that you noted was on the market such a short time!

Edwards and Abernathie Real Estate excels in creative financing and descriptive advertising. They understand the terms of "value" and "price" with the salesperson assisting in a price and value brought to nearest possible equal in the eyes of the lender. They understand value factors such as cash equivalent value, insurable value, stabilized value and market value, knowing how the same figure sometimes could apply to each, in other situations varying greatly.

In any event, Bernice Turquette and staff go all out in working with buyer and seller making home sales and purchases easier and most desirable for all.

Whether the primary concern is saving in cash, in securing a home for immediate occupancy upon transfer here, for location elsewhere, for upgrading one's living accommodations, or whatever, Edwards and Abernathie at 3217 34th St., phone 792-5166, is on the job to meet the need... in a most commendable manner. Bernice and the staff are glad to offer apt suggestions to both purchaser and seller, all working toward a mutually rewarding transaction.

Oklahoma City Hall Of Fame Future Shaky

DENVER (AP) — The National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center will remain in Oklahoma City for the time being while a committee studies its problems and proposals to relocate it.

The Hall's board of directors met here Saturday and appointed a special committee to review the situation.

"At this time, there are no plans to move the Hall of Fame from its present location in Oklahoma City, but we are discussing that possibility," said board president Ed Rutherford.

The $40 million Hall of Fame, which opened in 1965, attracted 245,000 visitors in 1980, but for years the facility has battled with Oklahoma City officials to upgrade the neighborhood in which it is situated.

Rutherford said the eight-member committee, made up of board members and headed by E.L. Gaylor of Oklahoma City, would work with Hall of Fame director Dean Kraker in seeking solutions to the problems but also would study alternatives, such as moving the facility to another of the 17 western states that have made informal offers of becoming the hall's new home. The committee hasn't set a target date for reaching a final decision, Rutherford said.

"We've had 40 or 50 offers of relocation from cities in all 17 states," Rutherford said following the board's executive session here.

Rutherford, whose group held its meeting in Denver because of its central location to the states served by the Cowboy Hall of Fame, confirmed that he had met with Colorado Gov. Richard Lamm.

"Colorado hasn't offered anything specific because we aren't in a position at this time to discuss a move," said Rutherford. "I listened to what the governor had to say about Colorado's interest in having the hall if it is moved."

The board also heard remarks Saturday from Abe Hesser, Oklahoma's tourism and recreation director, who emphasized the intention of the city council and Chamber of Commerce to keep the facility where it is. Hesser also presented a preliminary plan for making an area surrounding the hall a state park, which some Oklahoma City officials believe would ensure that the shrine remains in its present location.

"We discussed the state park idea, but at this stage it's just a possibility," said Rutherford, who lives in Brawley, Calif.

Other states mentioned as possible relocation sites include Texas, California, Oregon and Wyoming.

Movie Set Remains Unsold

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — The ranch where Ronald Reagan appeared in TV's "Death Valley Days" and Richard Boone slung a gun in "Have Gun Will Travel" hasn't attracted a high enough offer to make it worth selling, its owner says.

Sue Schilleman, a Phoenix real-estate broker and investor who has owned Apache land since 1977, said the high bid of $400,000 at an auction Saturday was well below her minimum asking price of $750,000.

"I'm not going to accept the offer," she said. "It would cost a million dollars to rebuild, not to mention all the antiques and history that go with it."

The high bidder, Richard Mankin of Tempe, Ariz., was up against only three other bidders, and two dropped out early. There were about 350 spectators at the resort hotel here where the auction took place.

Mankin was not informed of the decision immediately and could not be reached for comment.

Tony Serro, president of First Realty Auction Sales Inc., said he still is optimistic about sales prospects for the 1880s-style town built specifically for movie productions.

"There's a group from New York trying to put something together by Monday, and, of course, we don't want to discount Mankin," Serro said. "He could still raise his price."

This is Serro's second crack at selling a town.

In December, he found a buyer for Navajo, a northern Arizona town with a cafe, gas station, store and motel. It sold for $600,000.

Miss Schilleman, said she decided to sell because she is "neither a promoter nor a manager, and it needs promotion badly."

Modern-Day 'Mountain Men' Hold Convention

JUSTICEBURG — From the Rocky Mountains to the Tennessee hills to the Rio Grande fur trappers gathered for the first Panther Rock Rendezvous 15 miles west of here.

Buckskins and pelts began appearing in the caprock canyons Friday with the last black powder rifle blasting out late Sunday.

Marksmanship with rifle and tomahawk tried the eye while the "yellow skirt dance" to bagpipe and fiddle tested the agility of the feet during rounds of competition wound through some loud swapping sessions.

Hudson Bay blankets, Hawkins rifles and tomahawks were among the trade goods in Pierre's Hole, which also ran a little undercounter modern trade in Panther Rock T-shirts.

Colorado trappers came in the traditional buckskins and fur caps while their West Texas counterparts stuck to sombreros and returned to boots after one tortuous day in moccasins.

There were squirrel rifles, muskets and buffalo guns sending echoes bouncing off red canyon walls as competition began for marksman of the rendezvous, an honor won by John Ferrell of Brownfield, who took home a Kentucky rifle as prize.

Over at Pierre's a "gen-u-wine Hawkins greener" was going for "$200 or two bobcat pelts" while a lively swap involving beadwork, red fox pelt and black powder pistol kept the crowd going both days.

The Hudson blankets, Pierre explained, originally had been marked with stripes to indicate how many beaver pelts would buy one, but today the two-stripe blanket is small and the four-stripe is a double.

Top swaps of the rendezvous included a bear claw necklace, a "spotted pony" (Appaloosa) and a Shetland-cross mule that carried a bundle of buffalo hides into camp.

Johnny Seay of Cleburne, holder of a gold record from former singing days, limbered up his guitar for campfire singing at night and Kid Marley of Tennessee highlighted the weekend with a Cowboys for Christ church service for mountain men and their families.

"Rocky Mountain Dave" Smith of Trincher, Colo., received a Bob Moline drawing for coming the greatest distance.

And, as lingering black powder rifle enthusiasts spent their last rounds at the targets, one reluctant mountain man took his final look at the rendezvous grounds with several passes of his aircraft before heading home.

Plans for next year already were being made as camp was broken and mountain men of today headed back for civilization 15 miles away.

Moslem Leaders Launch Summit Without Iran

MECCA (AP) — Leaders of 37 Moslem nations and the Palestine Liberation Organization opened a three-day summit Sunday in this Saudi Arabian birthplace of Islam with a prayer asking Allah to "help the Moslems cleanse Jerusalem of the Jews."

Sheik Abdullah al-Khalifa, a Moslem religious leader, chanted the opening prayer in the vast courtyard of the Grand Mosque of Mecca, Islam's holiest shrine. Crown Prince Fahd of Saudi Arabia then opened the summit called to confront the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan and Israeli occupation of Arab east Jerusalem.

The Iran-Iraq war, formerly the summit's top priority, was downgraded on the agenda Saturday after a five-man delegation led by conference Secretary-General Habib Chatti failed to persuade Iran to attend. Iran is boycotting the talks to protest the presence of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein.

"I appeal to you to close ranks and mobilize your potential to save the parts of the Islamic body that are agonized by Zionist (Israeli) occupation in Palestine and the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan," Fahd, representing Saudi King Khaled, said in his opening address.

Palestine is the historic region on the Mediterranean Sea comprising parts of modern Israel, Egypt and Jordan, also known as the Holy Land.

The summit is expected to condemn the Soviet presence in Afghanistan despite opposition from Syria and South Yemen, both of which have treaties of cooperation with the Soviet Union.

King Khaled, host of one of the most extravagant summits in history, greeted the robe-clad delegates of the 42-member Islamic conference with traditional Arab kisses as they arrived on the red-carpeted steps of the Grand Mosque.

Four kings, four sheiks, 21 presidents, eight representatives of heads of state and PLO chairman Yasser Arafat are attending the summit on behalf of the world's 800 million Moslems.

The opening ceremonies were televised live to dozens of countries in the Middle East, Africa and Asia in an effort to inspire Moslem solidarity, conference officials said.

Telephone Calls Add Mystery To Atlanta Deaths

ATLANTA (AP) — Two telephone calls from a man claiming to be Atlanta's child killer at first were dismissed as a hoax. Now, with the discovery of a 14th victim near a site the caller named, investigators are re-examining the phone messages.

"It's too fantastic a coincidence," one law enforcement official said.

But Rockdale County Sheriff Vic Davis said Sunday there is no connection between the calls and the discovery Friday of the body of 15-year-old Terry Lorenzo Pue in suburban Conyers. The Atlanta boy had been missing since Wednesday.

"We're letting key people in our community listen to the tape and hopefully they'll be able to recognize the voice," Davis said. "But nothing the guy has said has really led us to believe he's the killer other than the fact" the body turned up beside a road the caller had mentioned, he added.

The man claiming to be a child killer made his first call to Rockdale authorities on Jan. 8, a few days after another boy, Lubie "Chuck" Geter disappeared. The caller said a body could be found along Sigman Road in western Rockdale County — about 25 miles from the general area where other bodies had been found.

The man also warned that if he were not caught, he would commit more crimes, police said. Authorities said he called a week later and repeated his message. He has not called since.

More than 75 officers combed areas along Sigman road the next day, but nothing was found and the call was dismissed as a hoax.

The body of the Pue boy, who was strangled like several other of the victims, was found Friday beside Sigman Road, about three miles south of where police had searched two weeks earlier. Pue had last been seen two days before, waiting at a bus stop in Atlanta.

Pue's body "was not discovered at the points indicated by the anonymous caller, so no connection between the two is believed at this time," Davis said.

But other investigators say the publicized calls may be linked at least indirectly to the latest child slaying.

"The person who called may have generated enough publicity to prompt the killer to move out to this area," said Roland Vaughn, police chief in Conyers, 25 miles from Atlanta.

Fulton County Police Chief Clinton Chafin offered another theory: "The more law enforcement pressure that is applied from the inner city, the more likely it is that he (the killer) will have to move out."

Police say more than one killer is probably responsible for the 14 slayings of black children.

Poliomyelitis is an acute, infectious and occasionally crippling disease caused by a virus organism. It can affect those of all ages, but children from one to sixteen are more likely to develop it than adults. For unknown reasons, older children and young adults appear to become infected more frequently now than formerly. It appears that about half the cases cause paralysis while the other half are nonparalytic. It is also most prevalent during the summer months. If you have children, make sure that they receive all their immunizations. It is one of the best gifts that you can give. A gift of health.

Safeguarding your family's health is of paramount concern to all parents. One way of providing protection for your children is to see that they faithfully take a daily vitamin. Vitamins provide the necessary nutrients required by the body to keep it functioning and growing properly. GLOBAL DISCOUNT PHARMACY carries a complete line of fine quality vitamins. PLUNKETT DIRECTS OAKLAND'S 27-10 SUPER BOWL WIN

Hungry Raiders Feast On Eagles

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Oakland's Jim Plunkett wrote a storybook and record-book ending to his remarkable comeback season Sunday with three touchdown passes — one of them an 80-yarder — that propelled the wild-card, renegade Raiders to a 27-10 Super Bowl XV victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

Plunkett, named the game's Most Valuable Player, threw scoring strikes of 2 yards to Cliff Branch and a record 80-yard play to Kenny King in the first quarter. Those two, and Branch's 29-yard touchdown catch in the third quarter, gave Oakland, a team torn between two cities, its second Super Bowl triumph. And it made the Raiders the first wild-card team to win the National Football League championship.

It was also the ultimate triumph for Al Davis, the owner of the Raiders, the man NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle called "an outlaw," who rescued Plunkett and so many of his teammates from the ash heap.

The game was also a tribute to the 52 former hostages, who returned to the United States after being held captive in Iran for 444 days earlier in the day. The Superdome wore a gigantic yellow bow, the players wore a yellow strip of tape on their helmets, the field officials wore yellow stripes on their sleeves and most of the crowd of 75,500 wore yellow ribbons.

It was, from the opening minutes, the kind of game the Raiders thrived on during the 1980 season and again during the playoffs, when they were underdogs each time. It was a game of instant opportunities for them and blown plays by the Eagles, a team without a championship since 1960, a team making its first Super Bowl appearance.

Philadelphia quarterback Ron Jaworski was intercepted three times by linebacker Rod Martin — a Super Bowl record by the Raider reclamation project — and completed 18 of 38 passes for 291 yards. Oakland played a nearly flawless game.

Plunkett, sacked eight times by the Eagles in their 10-7 regular-season victory over Oakland in Philadelphia, received virtually air-tight protection this time. He completed 13 of 21 passes for 261 yards and was trapped behind the line just once.

With the exception of Tony Franklin's 30-yard field goal in the second period, the first half belonged to the Raiders. On the third play of the game, Martin stepped in front of John Spagnola, swiped Jaworski's first pass of the day and ran the ball 17 yards to the Philadelphia 30-yard line.

Two running plays and an offside call against Eagles middle guard Carl Hairston gained 11 yards, then Plunkett passed for 14 more to Branch, who was slanting unguarded across the center of the field.

Twice Plunkett called on Mark van Eeghen to run it into the end zone, but the bruising fullback gained only three yards. So Plunkett went to Branch again and the wide receiver, sandwiched between linebacker John Bunting and cornerback Herman Edwards, caught the scoring pass with 6:04 gone in the game.

With running star Wilbert Montgomery being stopped almost in his tracks on play after play and with Jaworski's passes still off target, the Eagles went nowhere with their second possession. Neither did the Raiders.

Then came one of those drives that tells you just which team is destined for victory.

Philadelphia, with the ball on its own 37-yard line following Ray Guy's second less-than-awesome punt, moved to the Oakland 40, thanks in part to Jaworski's 13-yard pass to Montgomery.

On third-and-10, Jaworski unloaded a bomb toward the right corner of the end zone. Rodney Parker, sharing a wide receiver spot with Charlie Smith, who was playing with a broken jaw, ran away from cornerback Odis McKinney and safety Burgess Owens to catch the ball. But it wasn't a touchdown.

Harold Carmichael, the other wide receiver who was expected to be a pivotal force in this game, had been in motion on the play. And when he cut forward an instant before the snap of the ball, he drew a penalty, wiping out the potential tying score.

One incompletion later, the Eagles gave up the ball. Three plays after that, the rout was on.

On third-and-4 from the Oakland 20-yard line, Plunkett dropped back, then scrambled out of danger to his left. He threw to King, being guarded around the left sideline by Herman Edwards. The Eagles cornerback tried for a deflection, got only air, and King got the ball at the Eagles' 39.

Sixty-one yards later, King had a touchdown and a Super Bowl record and the Raiders, with nine seconds remaining in the opening period, had a 14-0 lead.

The 80-yard touchdown pass play surpassed by five yards the old mark set by Baltimore's Johnny Unitas and John Mackey in Super Bowl V and matched by

Mustangs 'Fall' To Monterey In Late Rounds

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

If the game had been boxing instead of basketball, the Coronado Mustangs could probably have managed to escape with a draw Friday night.

The Ponies punched, pummeled and just flat pounded Monterey in the first half, taking a 22-10 lead at the intermission and looking simply super in doing it.

Coronado, it seemed could do little wrong that night. Their big men, sturdy on defense all year, came up with enough sagging strength to nullify Monterey's talented 6-7 post Ian Hyslop and their wings, the team's two leading scorers, punched in 18-footers like they were in a schoolyard game of horse.

Hyslop went into the locker room with one point and didn't score at all until 4:36 remained in the half when he sunk the second of two foul shots. Robby Garner and Cody Love, on the other hand, looked like they didn't even want to leave the floor after the first 16 minutes. Love had scored 10 and Garner eight, and it was clear that they were on a roll.

Well, maybe that was the problem — they did hit the bench at the half and when they came back out, something was missing.

The Mustangs, who had scored back-to-back buckets no fewer than four times in the first half, couldn't manage it just once after intermission.

And Monterey, which spent the first half epitomizing that old cliché "Couldn't hit the ocean from the end of a pier," ran off some startling strings, connecting runs of six twice and four once.

In the end, it was that one run of four that made the difference. Trailing 40-38 after Coronado took a quick bucket in the second overtime, Monterey's Hyslop and Gary Hodges put together back-to-back trips to the foul line and made all four shots to save the win.

To put that feat into perspective, Monterey only made six of 11 charity shots on the night — two of seven minus the clinchers.

And that tells you just about all you need to know about the contest. In the clinch, Monterey came through while Coronado stumbled.

"Oh, we played so poorly in the first half," said Monterey coach Joe Michalka. "Of course they had something to do with it, but I think we were just a little tight."

"About the only thing we did well in the first half was get on the board. But if you're going to shoot 20 percent, like we did, there's lots of boards to get."

The win was a big one for the Plainsmen, not only because it opened District 4-5A play, but because it came on the home court of one of the top teams in the loop.

"I knew we could battle back but I didn't know how far," said Michalka. "Guard Eddie Coulson hit four long ones and that helped."

Indeed, boomers by the little guard proved the key in the second half as one capped a six-point run that pulled Monterey within 26-20; another closed MHS to 32-28; another to 34-32 and still another tied the game at 36 with 40 seconds left to send it into overtime.

Another big key for the Plainsmen was Hyslop. Though he wound up with only 11 points — well below his average — he scored 10 in the second half and was a dominating figure inside. He couldn't have cleaned the boards any better with a stepladder and a bottle of Windex.

But, despite taking the Plainsmen to two overtimes and despite the MHS hos-tales, there wasn't much use in consoling Coronado coach Barry Armwine after the contest.

"I'm a little disappointed, yeah," said Armwine. "There isn't much you can say after one like that and we've had a lot of them at this school."

"We played one of our better first halves of the year and we played well when the score was tied or when we were behind. The only time we didn't play well was when we were in the lead."

"I think that's something you do sometimes in that kind of game though, instead of being really intent on your game, you're hesitant and you stand around and then you lose your aggressiveness."

The win leaves the Plainsmen 19-6 on the year, within falling-down distance of their third straight 20-win season.

Coronado, on the other hand, falls to 11-13 on the year.

But there is now rest for the Plainsmen. They host Plainview (11-13 and a 74-65 winner over Lubbock High Friday night) Tuesday night.

Area Cagers Follow Pattern

By RICHARD DAY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

A glance at the South Plains area district basketball races reveals one thing — the strong are getting stronger and the weak are not making any serious bids to upset the front-runners.

Last week's results prove this theory to be true, but not totally.

There are 34 teams with perfect league records among the 24 districts on the South Plains, while 30 teams are winless against league foes at the present time.

The District 3-3A boys' race has two teams with unblemished records in Childress and Tulia. The Bobcats, ranked fifth in the state 3A rankings, are 21-2 this season and a half-game ahead of Tulia in the league standings. Tulia is 3-0 in district and 17-3 overall.

The girls' 3-3A race also has two teams tied for the lead with perfect records, one of them being Childress, again. Abernathy, 15-7 overall and 3-0 in district play, is tied with the Bobcats, who are 18-6 for the year.

Slaton's boys' and girls' teams are tied for the lead in their respective races. The boys, 9-10 but 3-0 against 4-3A opponents, are tied with Tahoka which has a 14-4 season record.

The Tigerettes, the state 2A champions the past three seasons, are alone at the top of their competition. One game behind are Cooper and Post with 2-1 records.

Three teams are tied for the lead in the 3-2A boys' race. Vega, ranked fourth among Class 2A teams in the state, has a 20-2 season record, while Bovina and Springlake-Earth are also undefeated in 3-2A play. Bovina is 14-2 and Springlake-Earth 15-6 overall.

The Springlake-Earth girls are also 4-0 in district, but are alone at the top of the 3-2A race, one game ahead of Farwell.

Shallowater and Spur have perfect 4-2A boys' records, but the Mustangs are one-half game ahead, having played one more game. Shallowater has a 10-5 season record, while Spur is 14-6.

The New Deal girls are back on the track to a trip to post season play with a 7-0 record in district play. The Lions, 17-4, are one game ahead of rival Hale Center and two ahead of surprising Spur.

Morton, the state's third-ranked team in the 2A rankings, is a game ahead of No. 9-ranked Stanton and two ahead of defending district champ Seagraves in the 5-2A boys' race. The Indians, 6-0 in league play and 15-8 overall, have beaten both Stanton and Seagraves this season.

Forsan's girls are riding high with a 6-0 district record which puts them two full games ahead of second-place Stanton. Forsan has a 17-3 record this season.

The Nazareth Swifts and Swiftettes are boasting unblemished records against their respective 5-1A foes, and both are alone in first place. The Swifts, who fell just short of a state championship a year ago, are 6-0 in district and 18-3 overall, while the Swiftettes, winners of four consecutive state titles, are also 6-0 against league opponents, but 22-2 this season.

The Whiteface boys, 2-0 and one game ahead of Sundown in the 6-1A chase, have a 14-6 season record. In the 6-1A girls' district competition, Whitharral and Sundown are tied at the top with identical 3-0 marks.

Motley County and Patton Springs are fighting for the 7-1A boys' leadership after one night of district play. The Matadors have a sizzling 19-2 season record, while Patton Springs is 6-15.

Like their male counterparts, the Motley County girls are also tied for the 7-1A leadership having won their first district game. Guthrie, 15-2 this season, is also 1-0 in district play. The Motley County girls have a 13-5 season record.

In the 8-1A boys' race, Smyer is alone at the top with a 4-0 mark, 1 1/2 games ahead of second-place New Home. For the season, Smyer is 18-2 and New Home is 11-6.

The District 8-1A girls' race is headed by Wilson, whose 3-0 record against league opponents is 1/2 game better than second-place New Home. Wilson has a 13-4 season mark.

The only district without an undefeated team is 9-1A where Wellman and Klondike are battling for supremacy with 5-1 records.

Over in the 9-1A girls' race, however, Borden County is flying along with a 7-0 district mark and boasts the best record of any team on the South Plains.

Canyon Cagers Dominate 1-4A

By RAY GLASS

Estacado and Dunbar spit "the event" but Canyon came away with the telling victories last week in District 1-4A boys' and girls' basketball action.

The Matadors and Panthers each won one varsity game when the teams met in the first half of their annual two-game cross-town series Tuesday before a screaming, standing-room-only crowd in the Dunbar gym.

Dunbar won the girls' contest 55-47 before EHS captured its third consecutive boys' game dating back to last season, 65-61.

But while the Dunbar-Estacado rivalry produced a pair of grab-the-bleacher-and-hang-on thrillers, Canyon emerged as the front-runners on both sides of the district at week's end.

Lyndon Hardin's Eagle girls continued their mastery of district squads with an easy 79-39 demolishing of the Matadors Friday. The victory gave the Eagles a 6-0 conference record and undisputed claim to the district's first-half title.

Levelland finished a game back at 5-1, followed Dumas (4-2), Dunbar (3-3), Brownfield (2-4), Estacado (1-5) and Borger (0-6).

The win, bolstered by a pressing, swarming, full-court defense that forced 40 turnovers by the Mats, put the Eagles squarely in line to grab the second-half title.

Only one team came closer than 12 points in district competition against Canyon. Dumas lost 43-40, but four of the Eagle victories were by 22 points or more.

"Someone is going to have to knock off Canyon," Dunbar coach Jim Washburn said last week. "And that's going to be difficult. They (the Eagles) do everything right. They do not do anything great but they do not make mistakes."

The Canyon boys' team, meanwhile, grabbed sole possession of first place Friday when it defeated Estacado 62-55 in the Mats' gym. The Eagles are now 2-0 in district while Estacado fell to 2-1 and into a three-way tie for second place.

Borger and Levelland are both 2-1. The Bulldogs dumped Levelland 60-46 and Dumas 66-55 to rebound from a conference-opening loss to Estacado.

Levelland came back from the loss in Borger to blast Dunbar at home, 66-55. Brownfield is all alone in fifth with a 1-1 mark while Dumas (0-2) and Dunbar (0-3) are in the district cellar.

Estacado won the boys' contest with Dunbar despite a red-hot first quarter by the Panthers. DHS ripped off a 23-8 lead after the initial eight minutes of the game and continued to lead 33-23 at halftime.

But the Mats outscored the hosts 20-8 in the third period for a two-point lead and put down a Panther rally in the final stanza to temporarily remain undefeated in district play.

But Canyon ended that glory ride with clutch free-throw shooting Friday, hitting seven of 10 charity tosses in the final two minutes to preserve the win.

Washburn said his Panther girls were "having a lot of fun" after downing Estacado before a home crowd. The Panthers forced 39 turnovers with their full-court press and held the Mats to four points in the second quarter to gain the margin of victory.

Dunbar's fun ended Friday as Levelland triumphed 74-67 in Levelland. The Lobos finished only one game behind the Eagles but face an uphill battle to gain the second-half title and force a playoff with the Eagles.

The Lobos have to play four of their six remaining district games on the road and begin the second round Tuesday at Canyon. They will face the conference lightweights, Estacado and Borger, in Levelland.

The Monahans girls' squad is the cream of District 2-4A. They are 21-1 for the season and 3-0 in the second half of the district race after capturing the first-half title with an 8-0 record.

Andrews, Odessa Ector and Snyder share the boys' lead with 6-1 marks.

RICK O'SHAY

PARIS READS THE LETTER HIPSHOT GAVE HER THE NIGHT BEFORE...

"...AND SO, I'M ASKING YOU STRAIGHT OUT-- WILL YOU MARRY ME?"

"YOU'RE THE ONLY WOMAN I EVER ASKED TO BE MY WIFE. I AIN'T SAYING I'D BE ANY PRIZE AS A HUSBAND."

"I'M SAYING YOU'RE THE WOMAN I LOVE, AND WILL ALWAYS LOVE."

CATHY

WHAT HAPPENED WHILE I WAS IN THE KITCHEN?

THE MAN WITH THE MISTY HAZEL EYES PASSED TO THE GUY WITH THE GORGEOUS LIPS.

THE ONE WITH THE CUTE SEAT STOLE THE BALL AND SHOT IT OVER TO THE GUY WITH THE GUSTENING MUSCLEY SHOULDERS.

THEN THE GUY WITH THE FABULOUS JAW TOSSED BACK HIS AUBURN HAIR, AND PASSED TO THE GUY WITH THE GREAT LEGS WHO SMASHED THAT BABY IN FOR A SCORE!!

WHAT ARE YOU SO MAD FOR? I'M STARTING TO LIKE THIS SPORT.

By CATHY GUISEWITE

DICK TRACY

THE AMAZING SPIDER-MAN

PETER FINALLY MEETS AUNT MAY'S NEW BOARDER.

ISN'T HE AS HANDSOME AS I SAID OTTO?

HE'S A FINE-LOOKING LAD MAY.

"OTTO?" MAY I DON'T BELIEVE IT!

WHAT'S WRONG DEAR? CAT GOT YOUR TONGUE?

MY POOR TRUSTING AUNT HAS A CRUSH ON THE WORLD'S DEADLIEST CRIMINAL!

AND I CAN'T DO ANYTHING WITHOUT REVEALING WHO I REALLY AM!

HE'S A DEEP THINKER, A COMMENDABLE TRAIT, MY SWEET!

By STAN LEE & JOHN ROMITA

PRICILLA'S POP

IT'S HOPELESS! I'M RETURNING THE SLINKY NIGHTGOWN I BOUGHT.

WHY?

I PUT IT ON AND SURPRISED BERNARD WHILE HE WAS WATCHING TV LAST NIGHT.

AND...?

HIS EYES GOT LIKE SAUCERS AND HIS NOSTRILS FLARED. AND I THOUGHT, "OH, WOW!"

BUT THEN I FOUND OUT HE WAS SUCKING ON A SUPER-MENTHOL THROAT LOZENGE.

By AL VERMEER

ARCHIE

HEY, JUG, I HEARD A DYNAMITE JOKE! IT SEEMS THIS VAMPIRE MEETS HIS FRIEND IN THE STREET...

AND HE SAYS THAT HE'S BEEN FEELING DROUNSY EVER SINCE HE DRANK SOME TRED BLOOD!

HA... HA... THAT'S OUTTA SIGHT!

ARCHIE, INSTEAD OF TELLING DUMB JOKE, YOUR TIME WOULD BE BETTER SPENT STUDYING.

YES, SIR!

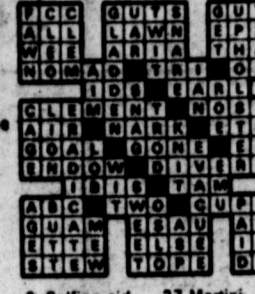

AND THAT REMINDS ME OF A FUNNY STORY... IT SEEMS THIS VAMPIRE MEETS HIS FRIEND IN THE STREET...
