

Alexander's Penalty Pondered By Jury

By KIM COBB
Avalanche-Journal Staff
ABILENE — Jurors here who debated for almost eight hours Wednesday whether convicted capital murderer Billy Wayne Alexander Jr. will face a life prison sentence or death by injection for last October's fatal shooting of a Department of Public Safety trooper will try again today to decide the young Lorenzo man's fate.
At 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, jurors here told the court they believed Alexander deliberately shot DPS trooper Jerry Don Davis, but were deadlocked over whether Alexander would commit future acts of violence that would constitute a continuing threat to society if he were not sentenced to death.

An hour and a half later, that issue still remained unresolved, and presiding Judge Robert C. Wright sent the panelists back to the motel here where they have been sequestered since the trial began with instructions to return to the courtroom at 8:30 a.m. today to continue deliberations.

The issue of predicting violent acts of a person was a key point in defense testimony during the punishment phase of Alexander's trial here this week. And unless the panel unanimously agrees there is such a chance in the 21-year-old Alexander's case, the death penalty cannot be imposed.
Texas capital punishment laws require a jury to find that when Alexander shot trooper Davis the night of Oct. 5, 1980, he did so deliberately and with the reasonable expectation the trooper would die and that there is a probability Alexander would commit future acts of violence that would constitute a continuing threat to society.

Wright ruled a third question usually considered by jurors in a capital murder case — that of whether the defendant's action was unreasonable in response to any possible provocation — was not applicable in Alexander's case.

If the jurors unanimously answer the two questions "yes," Alexander will be sentenced to death by injection by the court. A "no" answer to either question by a vote of at least 10-to-2 will result in a life sentence for Alexander.
However, if fewer than 10 panelists vote "no" on either issue, the judge will be forced to declare a mistrial.
At 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, after more than six hours of deliberations, the eight-man, four-woman jury sent out a note announcing the panelists unanimously answered "yes" to the first question, but only two jurors voted "no" on the second.

The note announcing the vote, the second sent from the jury room since deliberations began, also informed Wright the jurors apparently were "hung" and were unable to reach a verdict. But

Bell Given Rate Boosts; Customers Get Refunds

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff
TEXANS WILL be paying slightly more for their phone service this year, but they also can expect to receive about $8 million in refunds from Southwestern Bell for overcharges during the past three months.
The Public Utility Commission voted two-to-one Wednesday to grant Bell a $114.2 million rate hike — only about one-third of the rate increase originally requested by the phone company last July.

That decision by the PUC will force Bell to refund an estimated $8 million in overcharges from a rate hike implemented by the company Nov. 11. But a local Bell spokesman said Wednesday the refunds probably will range from only $1 to $2 for most Lubbock residential phone customers.

"The impact (of the refund) will vary with individual customers," explained Bell public relations representative Jim Goodwin. He said the amount of refund will depend on the types and number of services a customer was charged for since November.
Included in the rate package approved by the PUC is a nickel-per-month increase in the access line charge for residential customers in the state's larger cities.
Residents of Texas' smaller communities can expect to see up to a 55-cent increase in the access line charges on their monthly phone bills. And household phone customers in medium-size cities will see monthly increases of about 30 cents.
Lubbock residents who have one standard rotary dial telephone will pay $7.45 for basic monthly residential service this year, according to Bell officials in Austin. Goodwin said he did not have any other specifics on the new charges, but said the local increase probably will fall in the 5-cent range.

State Panel Considers Tech Building Today

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff
TEXAS TECH University's request to build a $4 million Petroleum Engineering Building is one of $32 million in construction projects proposed by various state colleges which will be considered in Austin today and Friday by the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System.

The newest of the 18 board members, former Gov. Preston Smith of Lubbock, has already said he will vote in favor of the project. It will be the first board meeting for Smith. He was selected to chair the board Wednesday. His appointment to the board by Gov. Bill Clements was confirmed by the Texas Senate just three days ago.
"Cautiously Optimistic"
Although Tech officials are "cautiously optimistic" that the project will receive approval, they are prepared with an array of arguments to justify the construction in case the Coordinating Board staff recommends denial of the request.
"This is an emergency," Tech regent Joe Pevehouse said of the construction request. The Midland oilman plans to attend today's meeting and lend support if he is asked to give testimony. "The oil industry has a very serious shortage of petroleum engineers," he said. "The old building at Tech hasn't been changed since 1950." But with a larger, more modern facility, Pevehouse says, "We can double the output of graduates from Tech."

Built In 1949
Tech's existing facility, built in 1949, services 450 students majoring in the field although there were only about 50 majors when the building opened 31 years ago. The two-story structure contains one classroom and three labs. Officials say they are turning away students because of the crowded conditions.
Located near the Permian Basin which accounts for about 23 percent of all domestic oil production, Texas Tech has the only accredited petroleum engineering program in West Texas.
But the department's 1979 accreditation report "clearly stated that continued accreditation depended upon the provision of better facilities and laboratory equipment," according to Tech officials. The department's accreditation status will be reviewed once again next year.
If the Coordinating Board, which has the authority to grant or deny construction, See TECH BUILDING Page 14

In addition to the increase on access line charges, Goodwin noted, the phone company was allowed a 25-cent monthly increase in its charge for company-owned telephones. But the PUC eliminated Bell's 50-cent per month charge for extension phones.
Directory Assistance Upped
The commission approved slight increases for private lines used for Teletype or Dateline services. It also granted Bell a 5-cent increase on directory assistance charges. Customers still can have up to 10 free information calls per month, commissioners decided.
Bell sought no increases for long distance or pay phone services. Costs for those services will remain the same.
The new phone rates will go into effect within 30 days, but Bell officials already have said they may challenge the PUC's decision in court.
New Request Planned
Bell Vice President Paul Roth said the increase is insufficient and Bell would consider taking the matter to court. He also said the company would begin immediately preparing another rate hike request.
The phone company had asked for a $326.3 million statewide rate hike last year.

NO ARMS FOR IRAN — Secretary of State Alexander Haig cocks an ear to a reporter's question during a press conference at the State Department Wednesday. Haig said the Reagan administration would fulfill its obligations under the agreement that freed the Americans held hostage by Iran but will not sell military supplies to Iran and will not turn over equipment the Tehran government already has purchased. (AP Laserphoto)

Arms Sales Ruled Out By Haig

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig said Wednesday the United States will refuse to sell military supplies to Iran and will not turn over equipment the Tehran government already has purchased.
Making clear the Reagan administration will continue to view Iran with great suspicion, Haig also said American businesses should use the "most careful caution" in future trade with Iran.
Possible Reprisals
One State Department official, who asked not to be identified, said before Haig's news conference that the Reagan administration is examining a "whole list" of possible reprisals against Iran, including a new trade embargo, in the event the United States decides to retaliate for the long crisis over the American hostages.
Also on the list are a new freeze on Iranian assets, closure of the Iranian interest section attached to the Algerian embassy and the declaration of Iran as a country that supports international terrorism, which would prohibit it from receiving U.S. military equipment.
No Military Reprisals
However, military reprisals are not on the list. Top administration officials have said military retaliation could create a situation that would enhance Soviet influence in Iran, something they are very anxious to avoid.
Haig indicated the United States will abide by the terms of the agreements that freed the 52 American hostages, although he said U.S. officials will want to be sure the Iranians are living up to their obligations under the agreement as well.
"The United States government will fulfill its obligations in accordance with both international law and the accepted norms of domestic legal practice," Haig said at his first news conference as secretary of state.
Equipment Disposition
He cleared up one loose end not specifically covered in the agreements, which was the disposition of nearly $500 million in military equipment purchased but not shipped by the time the hostages were seized on Nov. 4, 1979. Then-President Jimmy Carter halted further shipments of the equipment in retaliation for the hostage seizure.

Hometown Welcomes Greet Ex-Hostages

By The Associated Press
THE FREED U.S. hostages started returning to their hometowns Wednesday, to the friendliness and familiarity of small-town America and to the people they grew up with. There were miles of yellow ribbons, hundreds of "Welcome" signs and even some apple pie from neighbors.
"This is the real homecoming day, coming back to your home neighborhood," Bruce Laingen, 57, told friends who crowded his front lawn in Bethesda, Md. "This sharing is a celebration of the feeling that this is the real end of the episode."
Laingen, who was charge d'affaires at the U.S. embassy in Tehran, then stepped up to an oak tree and tore off the yellow ribbon that had been tied there by his wife in November, 1979. Mrs. Laingen's action was copied across the country and yellow ribbons became the symbols of hope for the hostages' release.
The picture of life for the 52 Americans during 14½ months in Iran became clearer, meanwhile, as some of them gave details of their treatment — treatment that apparently varied widely and included beatings for some. The former hostages tried to sort out their feelings.

"I want to explore in my own mind what I think must have gone wrong... Lessons must be learned from this experience," said Moorhead C. Kennedy Jr., 50, as he walked through his house in Washington, D.C., pausing to touch familiar items.
Meaning Of Freedom
Former hostage Michael J. Metrisko, 34, of Olyphant, Pa., told a cheering crowd in front of the Lackawanna County Court House: "If it helped anyone at all to realize what freedom means, I think it was worth it."
Metrisko was greeted at the Scranton airport by Pennsylvania Lt. Gov. William Scanton III who said: "A native son has returned home to us, to the people who love him most."

Navy Cmdr. Donald Sharer, who once told his Iranian captors, "You're going to have to shoot me standing up, not lying down," confessed he wasn't as brave as he sounded at an impromptu news conference near his home in Chesapeake, Va.
Questions Glibness
If he'd thought the Iranians would shoot Sharer told a crowd of 500 people, "I wouldn't have been so glib about it."
The youngest freed hostage, 21-year-old Marine Sgt. Kevin Hermening, of Cudahy, Wis., said on his arrival in Milwaukee that he was pleased that his favorite baseball team, the Brewers, had acquired catcher Ted Simmons from the St. Louis Cardinals.
Hermening said he would be on hand to throw out the first ball at the Brewers home opener on April 16.
Frederick Lee Kupke, 34, of Francesville, Ind., got a key to the city when he landed in Indianapolis. Deputy Mayor Tom Henry said Kupke has long had "the key to our hearts." Kupke also was made

Reagan Scraps Last Controls On Oil Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan abolished the last federal controls on oil prices Wednesday in the hope that higher costs for consumers will force more conservation in homes and spur increased production by the industry.
As a result, motorists may pay 3 to 5 cents more a gallon for gasoline in the days ahead, said Energy Secretary James B. Edwards. Consumer groups said the increase could be as much as 12 cents a gallon.
Edwards said the impact on home heating oil prices would be minimal, if there was any at all. Energy Action, a consumer group, said heating oil prices could jump by more than 10 cents a gallon in February.
Edwards, a dentist by profession, readily admitted he did not know the full impact of Reagan's order and, at one point, said he was "a little confused" about some of the details.
"We did it because the president promised it in the campaign," Edwards said. "We think it's good for America, and we have certainly studied (it) to some extent. I'm the new guy on the block and I must admit I don't have all the statistical data at my fingertips that you may desire."
He said, for example, he did not know how much the industry might reap in additional profits, or how many additional barrels of oil might be produced as a result.
U.S. oil companies cheered Reagan's move. Paul Prema, manager of petroleum regulations for Standard Oil of California, said company executives were "ecstatic." Conoco Inc. said it "applauds See REAGAN Page 14

Economists Disagree Over Effects Of Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two prominent economists disagreed Wednesday over the effect of a personal income tax cut President Reagan has said he wants enacted. One said the bigger the cut the better while the other said such action could strangle the economy.

In an appearance before the Senate Appropriations Committee, Alan Greenspan, an economic adviser to Reagan and former chairman of the White House Council of Economic Advisers under President Gerald Ford, supported the so-called Kemp-Roth tax cut that the president has endorsed. It would reduce personal income tax rates by 10 percent a year over the next three years.

But Walter W. Heller, who was chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson, argued that the Kemp-Roth bill would only serve to spur inflation by creating a greater demand for goods and services than the economy could accommodate.

Elementary School Principal Chosen For Annual Award

The principal of Northwest Elementary School in Hereford has been selected by the Texas Classroom Teachers Association as Administrator of the Year for school districts with 5,000 to 10,000 students.

Charles W. Duvall is a 31-year education veteran who has served 12 years as a classroom teacher and has held his current position since 1961.

He received his bachelor's degree from Southwestern State University and his masters from West Texas State University. He did post-graduate work at Texas Tech University.

Duvall is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, the Texas Classroom Teachers Association and the National Educators Association, the Kiwanis Club and a Boy Scouts advisory committee.

The TCTA award for administrators in school districts with more than 10,000 pupils went to Lubbock schools' superintendent Ed Irons.

Those selected by TCTA will receive their awards during the TCTA state convention Feb. 19-21 in Houston.

The first patent for false teeth was granted on March 9, 1822, to Charles Graham of New York City.

Statement Of Intent To Change Rates

General Telephone Company of the Southwest, in accordance with the Rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of rates in Texas effective February 27, 1981.

The proposed changes in rates will affect all customer classes and are designed to increase the Company's gross annual revenue derived from local service by 23%.

A complete set of revised rate schedules has been filed with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and is available for public inspection in each of the Company's Business Offices in the State of Texas. A summary of the Company's rate filing has also been sent to the Mayor's Office of each affected municipality.

GTE GENERAL TELEPHONE

In other economic news Wednesday: President Reagan abolished the last federal controls on oil prices, hoping that the higher prices that will result will force more conservation in homes and spur increased production by the industry. The government says gas prices may rise 3 to 5 cents, but consumer groups say the increase could be as much as 12 cents a gallon.

The Commerce Department said a new surge in oil imports helped widen the nation's trade deficit in December, but the overall deficit for last year still showed improvement over 1979's figures. December's seasonally adjusted trade deficit — just under $3 billion — was $1.3 billion worse than in November.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan said the Reagan administration will ask Congress to raise the national debt limit by about $60 billion. The present limit is $935.1 billion, a figure Regan says will probably be exceeded in February.

Agriculture Secretary John R. Block said farm exports are so important to the economy that he foresees no serious opposition to efforts to increase shipments abroad, even if domestic food prices rise sharply this year.

The new administration intends to go along with $400 million more in loan guarantees to the Chrysler Corp. as long as there are prospects for the company's survival. Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis said Wednesday.

Heller also noted that Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker has said he favors enactment of a tax cut. If the tax cut comes first, Heller said, the Federal Reserve — the nation's central bank — probably would further tighten the supply of money and credit.

Enacting tax cuts without sufficient budget cuts would put Congress "on a collision course" with Volcker, Heller said.

"A tug of war between huge personal tax cuts and ever-tighter money would be unremitting bad news for the U.S. economy," Heller said. "Tight credit and high interest rates are already stifling business investment and housing. A new twisting of the monetary noose could strangle them."

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan had told the committee Tuesday, "This tax program cannot wait until budget outlays are reduced. If we promptly and certainly launch the right tax program, we can confidently look for real economic progress."

Islamic Nations To Expand Israel Boycott

TAIF, Saudi Arabia (AP) — The 37-nation Islamic summit ended Wednesday with endorsement of a "Mecca Declaration" to expand the boycott on companies dealing with Israel and to call for withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan.

Secretary-General Habib Chatti said the expanded boycott was part of the strategy designed to put pressure on the Jewish state, and its supporters, for an Israeli withdrawal from captured Arab territory.

The four-day conference also was expected to issue a final communique, in addition to the Mecca Declaration, plus individual resolutions on some issues such as support for the Palestinian cause and Afghanistan. Conference sources said texts of the resolutions probably would be released Thursday.

In a closing speech, Saudi Crown Prince Fahd reiterated the summit's denunciation of the "vile aggression" on Afghanistan and pledged support to "our brothers in the Moslem country until the usurper-occupier has vacated their homeland and their dignity and independence are regained."

The Mecca document, named after the birthplace of Islam where the summit held its opening session Sunday, declared:

"We are equally determined to engage in 'jihad' (holy war) with all means at our disposal, to liberate our occupied territories, to support one another in defending our independence and territorial integrity."

Saudi Foreign Minister Prince Faisal

asked if the oil weapon would be used to put pressure on Israel, said "oil is one potentiality for facing that enemy."

But he rejected the phrase "oil weapon" and other Saudi officials have said they have no desire to use their vast oil supplies as a political tool.

Chatti, of Tunisia, said in an interview with The Associated Press that "a boycott office will be set up by the Islamic Conference Organization and will blacklist companies... using the list of the Arab League."

The move was aimed at forcing Israel to withdraw from East Jerusalem and other Arab territories seized in the 1967 Mideast War and would expand the scope of the three-decade-old boycott office.

Instead of being limited to the 22-member Arab League, the blacklisting would extend to the broader Islamic world which has 800 million people.

Arab and Islamic boycott efforts have so far had little impact on Israeli policies toward the occupied Arab territories.

On Monday, King Hassan II of Morocco and Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat urged the summit to wage a holy war against Israel to regain Arab sovereignty over Jerusalem. Hassan characterized the holy war as a "moral and material struggle," as opposed to a call for military action.

Making Israel's first official response to the proposal, Prime Minister Menachem Begin said, "No jihad is going to frighten us." Speaking in Jerusalem, he said the divided city was "not in need of liberation." He added, "Jerusalem is already liberated and freed and one and indivisible, the capital... of our people."

Murder Sentence Appeal Rejected By Higher Court

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday upheld the murder conviction and 50-year sentence assessed Broderick Ware in the death of Robert Atkinson in Lubbock County Oct. 10, 1977.

Ware appealed the conviction on grounds his confession was admitted into evidence erroneously because it was obtained after he told an officer he did not want to make the statement, and that jury was not instructed properly regarding the testimony of two witnesses.

According to the court's opinion, Ware confessed to shooting Atkinson four times with a .22-caliber revolver after he and the victim became involved in an argument over who would drive a car.

Ware's confession, which says he, the victim and some companions had been drinking prior to the argument, also says he "stomped" Atkinson "several times" and also drove the car over the victim following the shooting.

CAMERAS IN COURTROOM

Coverage Of Trials Essential

BY A COINCIDENCE of timing, the Supreme Court has opened courtrooms to more camera coverage just as the nation's living-rooms were being filled with hour after hour of focusing on the released American hostages and their families.

This raises the question of just how responsibly the print and electronic media exercise their constitutional freedoms and just how much privacy is the right of persons who are in the public eye.

On the answer to that question may very well hinge the ultimate degree to which Americans remain well informed about legitimate public issues.

IN THE TRIAL coverage case, the Supreme Court held that states are free to allow radio and television microphones, cameras and still-photography in courtrooms without violating the constitutional rights of defendants to a fair trial.

This is, we think, a very proper and correct ruling. Done responsibly and unobtrusively, photographic broadcasting of trials does not disrupt the proceedings. Neither does it affect the outcome.

In the past, autocratic judges—especially those on the federal bench—have abused their power to limit access to trials and other proceedings to which the public has the right and the press the responsibility to be present.

This right, we concede, has on occasion been abused by some elements of the news business but there is nothing in the Supreme Court ruling to prevent a judge from demanding the same conduct and decorum from reporters as from anyone else.

On balance, democratic self-government is far more likely to survive excesses by private citizens exercising their rights than it is abuses of power by judges and other public servants.

WE ARE CONCERNED nonetheless by the excessive zeal displayed by sensational magazines, gossip columnists and even some members of the so-called straight press and TV networks in pursuing juicy personal tidbits about public figures' lives.

Does Jackie Kennedy Onassis really have to be dogged by an amateur photographer every time she leaves the house? Is it really any of our business whether the President and First Lady sleep in a double bed?

At what point are the former staff members of the American Embassy in Tehran, freed after being held hostage for 14½ months, to be freed from the incessant intrusion of cameras and questions into their personal lives?

The American public has an insatiable appetite for the titillating, the personal and even the bizarre tidbits about our leaders, our heroes, our entertainers and just plain folks who are suddenly and dramatically in the news.

But that doesn't mean it ought to be served up every lurid or irrelevant detail.

THE UN-UNITED KINGDOM

Labor Party's Foot In Door

A THIRD-PARTY movement is afoot in Great Britain because leftwingers are about to seize more control over the Labor Party, which has governed the nation about half the time since World War II.

Labor Party Leader Michael Foot is trying to stem the defections, but moderates are incensed that labor union leaders want to change the way in which the party's leader is selected.

That person becomes prime minister if and when the party regains control of Parliament.

AT A SPECIAL party conference over the weekend, the increasingly powerful leftwing set up a new electoral college in which the labor unions will name 40 percent of the members to choose a party leader.

The left-dominated local party units will choose 30 percent and the Labor Party members of the House of Commons, who heretofore have had sole responsibility for choosing their leader, will have only a 30 percent voice.

This action began to scare off the party moderates, four of whom immediately announced they were forming a "Council for Social Democracy."

M. STANTON EVANS:

Battle Lines Redrawn For Intelligence War

WASHINGTON—An unheralded but important addition to the Congress is a newly created panel of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary—the Subcommittee on Internal Security and Terrorism.

The newness is mostly technical, since Judiciary until a couple of years ago had a long-established subcommittee on internal security. This panel was phased out, however, when Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., became the chairman of the full committee.

Now that the Republicans are in charge, the internal security unit has been revived, renamed and placed under the chairmanship of Sen. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala.

A PECULIARITY of the campaign to abolish the old internal security group, and other internal security agencies of the government, was that it occurred in tempo with an upward surge of internal security trouble.

Among the difficulties neglected during this span have been a marked increase in the number of Soviet and other Communist bloc personnel on our soil, attempts by the Soviet KGB to cultivate contacts in congressional offices, extensive activity by Cuban intelligence agencies, the theft and purchase of official secrets, the dissemination of forged documents, and so on.

While all this was going on, leftward forces in our government were systematically abolishing, not only the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, but the House Committee on Internal Security, the internal security division of the Justice Department, and the Subversive Activities Control Board, while imposing crippling restrictions on the FBI.

These are matters that need some looking into by the new internal security panel in the Senate.

ALSO IN NEED of careful inquiry is the broad-gauged campaign of people of varying motives to disrupt and paralyze the intelligence agencies of our government, and to render them useless in combating Marxist initiatives in such places as Iran, or Africa, or Latin America.

To get a picture of this anti-intelligence crusade and the motley crew engaged in it, the Senate panel might want to begin with a newly published staff report from a Washington foundation called Western Goals.

The foundation is headed by Rep. Lawrence McDonald, D-Ga., who has functioned as a virtual one-man internal security committee during his tenure in the House. The study has an introduction by Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, and an afterword by Lt. Gen. Daniel O. Graham, both experts in the matters under discussion.

WHAT THIS STUDY tells us is that a carefully orchestrated war has been conducted against our intelligence and internal security agencies, in concert with a broader campaign to weaken America's influence in the major theaters of global conflict.

Participants in this drama often pop up in isolated contexts and seem to have no connection to one another, but the links that tie them together are numerous.

Most people, for example, have heard of Philip Agee and his attempts to expose case officers working for the CIA. Few are aware of the assistance received by Agee from Communist Cuba, his appearance at propaganda forums in Havana, or his professed sympathy for Communist causes.

ALSO ACTIVE IN the anti-intelligence crusade, the report discloses, is the Institute for Policy Studies. A famous participant in IPS was the late Orlando Letelier, who, it turned out, was receiving money from Communist Cuba.

Involved in the campaign at other levels are the North American Congress on Latin America—an offshoot of the so-called New Left—the National Lawyers' Guild, the Fund for Peace, and numerous other groups and individuals.

On the evidence of this study, the efforts of these people have been lethally effective in damaging our intelligence agencies and manipulating public policy in such areas. The American people need to know much more about what they have been doing—and why.

"WHAT DOES REAGAN MEAN BY LOOKING OVER THE AGREEMENT—DOESN'T HE TRUST US?"

JOSEPH KRAFT:

Circle The Wagons

WASHINGTON—The burst of national joy set off by release of the hostages expresses a constant theme in American life. It is the theme of isolationism, and its re-emergence at this time shows how careful the new administration must be in its efforts to revive this country's influence in the world.

Mention isolationism, and people think of the dead past. There comes to mind the image of the scowling senator heaping curses on dirty foreigners. But isolationism can wear a smile as well as a frown. It has an enduring logic. It springs naturally from the American setting.

The United States is a continent that was made

HENRY J. TAYLOR:

Oil, Gas Pay Way

WASHINGTON—According to Norway's Undersecretary Minister of Energy Harold A. Norvik, Norway is trying to absorb oil and gas revenues. The goal is to give people the possibility to live and work where they wish.

The Norwegian Parliament has set an annual oil and natural gas production ceiling at 90 million tons. This is about 10 times Norway's own consumption needs. This limit still allows Norway to stretch its known oil and gas reserves well into the 21st Century.

Current production actually is still less than 50 million tons annually. However, even these low figures generate sufficient revenues and loans from abroad. And while most Western industrialized nations are experiencing an economic slowdown, Norway's real disposable income rose 20 percent.

CENTRAL BANK Director Martinus Haisen states, "Some serious-minded people advocate turning Norway into a Kuwait-style economy. They say why not let oil and natural gas pay for all goods from abroad? Why not dismantle uncompetitive manufacturing? Why not turn Norway into a service-style economy?"

The problem is that someday the oil and natural gas will run low and leave Norway with no replacement industry. Throughout most of the 1970s Norwegian industry was able to maintain virtually full nationwide employment.

Companies remained solvent with the help of the Oslo government, which heavily subsidizes private industries. Business leaders estimate that at least one-third of all industry is subsidized in one way or another by the government.

In mid-1978 a wage and price freeze was put into effect that partly restored Norway's industrial competitiveness abroad.

The list of government-subsidized industries includes not only those manufacturers that have been hard hit throughout Europe (for example, shipbuilding, textiles, metals, pulp and paper) but even some of the newer ventures like petrochemicals.

Businessmen complain that the labor market is Western Europe's tightest and most expensive. For one thing, unemployment is less than 1 percent. And too many Norwegians live in small, isolated, one-industry towns, which reduces the mobility of the labor force.

GOVERNMENT EFFORTS to use oil and gas revenues to stimulate new competitive industries ran into trouble. State and private enterprise combined to build the Rafnes petrochemical complex on Norway's west coast.

The venture contained a major economic justification in a guarantee to supply Rafnes with natural gas from the North Sea fields, free of transport charges and at rates below the world market prices for at least 15 years. But the projects costs have risen steadily, and its price tag is now over $1 billion.

Meanwhile the world's petrochemical market has stagnated, and Rafnes is now losing money. Experts are convinced that they probably would gain more by simply selling the natural gas abroad than by having the government formally taking over Rafnes.

into a country. That achievement has at all times been supremely absorbing. Americans are a busy, throbbing people. We are ceaselessly buying and selling, always learning and teaching, constantly on the move.

So why fritter away resources and energies in silly squabbles in faraway places? Better by far to cut entangling ties and be self-reliant at home.

That spirit came to the surface with all its force in the public reaction to the freeing of the hostages. Americans thought first and foremost of what was close at hand and individual.

There were the hostages themselves. There were steadfast wives. There were forlorn children and bewildered parents. For all of them, release was the end of an ordeal—an unmitigated blessing.

Inevitably, those who toiled to achieve that end felt elated. Predictably, those who reported the event became excited. Not surprisingly, those of us who watched were caught up in the excitement.

Understandably, the highest officials of the outgoing administration wanted to associate themselves with the event. Rightly, the new President, on being told of the release, said, "Thank God."

SO, BY THOSE degrees, the release of the hostages became a kind of national epiphany. It was almost as if we had won World War II all over again.

To criticize that reaction would be churlish. Still, those who think in terms of power discern a different reality.

The seizure of the embassy and of the hostages was an illegal and unprovoked offense. Iranian officials then used the hostages in a shameless way to promote themselves and jerk the government of the United States about as if it were a yo-yo.

Statesmen and countries dependent upon American protection repeatedly saw Washington throw down the gauntlet, and then back away. In the end, those who had humiliated this country were rewarded in a shabby payoff conducted in the atmosphere of a last-minute auction.

JUDGED FROM that point of view, the national rejoicing is a scandal. Instead of celebrating, Americans should have been thinking of the continued bad relations with Iran.

They should have been worrying about security problems in the Persian Gulf and the probability of another energy crisis. They should have been showing concern for the men who died in the failed rescue attempt.

They should have been fretting about the disastrous effect the payment of ransom will have on those who used to look to the U.S. for their security. Indeed, what was a day of celebration should have been a day of mourning.

Rightly or wrongly, however, those who think of national power do not hold absolute sway in America. Ours is not a country dominated by imperial yearnings, nor military pretensions.

There is no enduring majority for adventures in remote places—especially if they take a toll in blood and money, and when their purpose is not clear. On the contrary, the American people temper instincts of power with the isolationist impulse.

SO THE HOSTAGE experience defines in a deep way the foreign policy mandate of the Reagan administration.

There are limits to the enthusiasm for rebuilding forces and pushing other countries around. There are boundaries to the support for the projection of American political influence abroad and the application of economic muscle.

The new administration can assert itself abroad only after carefully counting costs. It must think hard about distances—especially psychological distances, as measured from Walla Walla, not Washington.

It must weigh interests and be sure they are transcendent. It must mobilize opinion for objectives that are well understood. And then, if it does decide for action, it must be absolutely certain to act effectively.

Overheard: "Giving up smoking is like the first week in a nudist camp. You don't know what to do with your hands."

JAY HARRIS:

A Lesson For All

JUST HOW deep goes the patriotism and emotion which the American people have displayed the past few days?

Have we stepped through another door from those dark days of divisiveness which marked the Vietnam War protests? Do we understand what the hostage crisis was all about, what it said about us, what it meant to others, start to finish?

Do we realize that as a nation we are only hours away from most of the world as the planes fly, and minutes as the missiles go, and that no matter how we try, never again will we be able to shut out that world, its myriad cultures, problems and the risks that go with it?

In brief, just what did the past few days mean, other than a sincere and intensely warmhearted outpouring of thanksgiving for the hostages and maybe Freedom itself?

AS THE euphoria of waving flags, yellow ribbons and smiling faces fade from the front pages and television, the "real world" will come back.

It will be a world of double digit inflation, a new President, a new Congress, even higher gasoline costs, taxes, sacrifices—who and how much...

The real world is one of apparently keeping our word as an honorable nation with one which has no honor. It is a world where terrorists still ply their bloody ways, mostly against the innocent, as close as El Salvador and even this nation's capital.

Can we translate the "good feeling" of the past few days into positive thoughts and actions? Or do we go back to emphasizing the fact that we are Republicans or Democrats, pro this or anti that, pouring out the same venom on one another we also saved for the Iranians?

IF THERE IS one lesson to come out of the massive show of emotion of the past week, it is the same one which we got a glimpse of during the 1976 Bicentennial.

It is that only when we think and act as Americans and what is best for the nation as a whole do we seem to present to ourselves and the world the image and beliefs which made us what we are.

Anything less is not enough. It was a feeling of unity that helped sustain the hostages, their families and to a great extent the country these past 14 months. We didn't welcome the hostages home with flags bearing stamps of some political party, some religious group, some racial or ethnic mark. The flags and yellow ribbons said one thing and one alone—"Welcome home! We're glad you're safe and free!" As Americans...

For the hostages, it was a faith in God and country, a yearning for Freedom—"to go where I please, think as I please, speak as I please," as one hostage put it.

AND WHAT of the future? What happens next in Iran? Where does the U.S., Soviet Russia, perhaps another revolution and anarchy fit in?

Some parts of the puzzle may already be emerging. Others will take time.

But on one point, President Reagan has made things clear which should have been U.S. policy long ago, that is any such action on the part of any terrorist group or nation condoning terrorist attacks on Americans or U.S. property in the future will bring "swift and effective retribution."

The world must learn, Mr. Reagan said, that while there are those who speak of limits to American power, there also are limits to our patience...

Much has been said the past few days about whether the agreement which President Carter and his people hammered out in the waning hours of his administration, should be honored. Where the pact does not conflict with the Constitution or American citizens' legitimate claims, including those of the hostages, then we should abide by it. Otherwise no.

AS FOR future U.S. relations with Iran, only time and events will tell.

It should be remembered that two of America's staunchest allies today, West Germany and Japan, once were our bitterest enemies.

But, the Mideast cauldron is a different place, with different people and problems.

Age-old religious beliefs, oil, the "black gold," and a set of standards—religious, political and economic—radically different from ours, pose problems which could explode into an atomic armageddon at any moment.

And posing the imponderable is the hulking form of the Soviet Bear, its fangs bared, its lair alive with bombast and bombs. Adding to the intrigue are nations and leaders from Israel, Egypt and Saudi Arabia to Iraq, Libya, Lebanon, and the supreme terrorist, the PLO's Yasser Arafat.

WHO SHOULD get the credit for freeing the hostages?

That is an impossible question to answer. President Carter, for all his past mistakes, including those which helped bring it all about, is due credit for his perseverance and patience.

President Reagan's role as statesman and tough guy no doubt spurred the Iranians to step up their negotiations.

Also deserving kudos are U.S. Undersecretary of State Warren Christopher and his Algerian counterparts, who played the role of "honest brokers" in the complicated deal.

And what of the 52 hostages themselves, and their families? For the most part, they handled themselves as real Americans, acted honorably, sacrificed much. What did it cost them? What did it cost the nation in prestige and national stature abroad?

Nor should it be forgotten that eight Americans died in a futile and ill-advised rescue mission, or that an ally and friend of three decades, the late Shah, paid a price. Perhaps that is the main lesson of the whole hostage ordeal. Freedom does have a price and only a nation and a people willing to pay that price may enjoy it...

Q. HOW LONG would it take a jet plane going 700 m.p.h. to reach the nearest visible star?

A. A million years, about. That would be Alpha Centauri.

Front Brings Chance Of Showers

A cold front expected to reach northern portions of Texas this evening will bring cooler temperatures and a chance of showers to the South Plains today, according to the National Weather Service.

A high pressure ridge combined with a surface trough along the Panhandle should keep today's high in the middle 60s. Friday's high is expected in the lower 50s, forecasters say.

The overnight low will be in the middle 30s and winds will be westerly at 15 to 20 mph.

Elsewhere, a powerful Pacific storm pumped high winds across California on Wednesday, heaping mounds of snow on High Sierra winter resorts, dumping rain on thirsty lowlands and apparently causing a fatal plane crash.

Snow also was expected to fall in Utah.

In Newhall, 30 miles north of Los Angeles, a twin-engine courier plane carrying bank checks crashed shortly after taking off in the teeth of gale-force winds shortly after midnight Wednesday, killing its pilot and a passenger, authorities said.

Frenship School Trial Recessed

By PAT GRAVES
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Testimony in Frenship Independent School District's lawsuit seeking to block construction of a $5 million housing project concluded Wednesday, but it will be several weeks before U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward issues a ruling on the case, which already has postponed the project for almost four months.

At that point was whether HUD considered all relevant factors, which Frenship claims includes schools. Temple Management attorney Hilton Howell replied only if an environmental impact statement was required. HUD officials said they were not required to assess school conditions or prepare an environmental impact statement because of the size of the project.

Howell maintained that despite Frenship officials' claims the district cannot accommodate the new students who will live in the project, only a financial burden had been raised in the case. Frenship trustees also contend the district will be deprived of needed revenues because the project will be tax exempt.

Attorneys now will file post-trial briefs in the case, with Frenship attorney Charles Galey's deadline set for Monday. Lawyers for the defendants — the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Lubbock Housing Authority, the City of Lubbock and project developer Temple Management — have until Feb. 5 to reply.

Woodward's ruling is expected during the second week of February. He also is considering a defense motion contending there is a lack of evidence HUD failed to comply with regulations in selecting the project site and asking for dismissal of the suit.

Wednesday, attorney Howell told the court the district's tax revenue for 1980-81 will double the previous year's total.

The judge told both parties during the 2 1/2-day trial the case centers on HUD's actions toward the school district. But he added he is not inclined to substitute his judgment for that of the federal agency.

Howell maintained that despite Frenship officials' claims the district cannot accommodate the new students who will live in the project, only a financial burden had been raised in the case. Frenship trustees also contend the district will be deprived of needed revenues because the project will be tax exempt.

Frenship has claimed HUD did not follow proper procedures in selecting the site and did not adequately consider the impact the 132-unit low-income project at 24th Street and Frankford Avenue would have on Frenship schools.

Galey has argued the HUD manual, which requires a statement including school enrollment, attendance, capacity and how they will be affected by a project, must be followed in HUD projects. The defense contended the manual does not have the force of law and failure to comply with its guidelines is not grounds to invalidate the project.

ABC Reports Swiss Involved In Release Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — A Swiss government airplane was on the runway in Zurich last April 1, ready to fly doctors to Tehran to prepare for the imminent release of the American hostages being held there by Iranian militants, ABC News said Wednesday.

In addition, ABC News said, cots had been delivered to the Iranian Foreign Ministry to await the transfer of the hostages from the U.S. Embassy as a step toward their release.

Hopes for the hostages' release were dashed by a combination of circumstances, including President Carter's failure to mention the right of Iran's parliament to decide the fate of the Americans in an early morning statement that day, ABC News said.

The disclosure was made in an updated version of "America Held Hostage: The Secret Negotiations," broadcast in prime-time Wednesday night. The three-hour ABC News production, first broadcast Jan. 22, was revised with information obtained since the release of the hostages.

ABC News broadcast selected segments of "The Secret Negotiations," including details of the Swiss connection, on its "World News Tonight" evening news program Wednesday.

"The Secret Negotiations," still being edited as air time approached, was not available for pre-screening.

The original production was broadcast Jan. 22 from 9-10 p.m. CST, and from 10:30 p.m. to its conclusion. ABC said it decided to rebroadcast the news special in prime-time after thousands of callers asked that the program be scheduled at a more convenient time.

Pierre Salinger, ABC News' Paris bureau chief and primary correspondent for "The Secret Negotiations," had returned to Paris before the decision to rebroadcast the program was made. He was summoned back to New York to help edit the revised program.

The updated version of "The Secret Negotiations" included interviews with several Carter administration officials prominent in the 14½ months of negotiations that led to the hostages' release.

These officials included Hamilton Jordan, the former White House chief of staff; Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell; former State Department official Harold Saunders, former White House counsel Lloyd Cutler, and former Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

In addition, the rebroadcast encompassed portions of a videotape recorded in the White House Oval Office by ABC News during the last hours of the Carter administration. The tape was retained by the White House, under an agreement with ABC News, and the segments broadcast were cleared by Carter administration officials.

And it included taped reaction by United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim to the allegation made in the initial broadcast that he was in "a state of panic" when he met with Iran's revolutionary council in Tehran early in 1980.

ABC News said in "The Secret Negotiations" that Waldheim was so shaken that he changed the terms of a plan the United States government had agreed on as a possible step toward the hostages' release. Waldheim vehemently denied that he had been panicked into altering the proposal, which ABC News said would have allowed for creation of a U.N. commission of inquiry only after the hostages release.

The commission ultimately was established to look into previous U.S. involvement in Iran, though without the condition that the hostages be released first.

Also included in the revised version is the text of a message which ABC News said apparently was prepared by the U.S. government for relay to the Iranians as a step in the negotiating process. The message did not reach the Iranian side because the intermediary, Egyptian journalist Mohammed Heikal, refused to make the relay, apparently because he felt the message would not be taken seriously.

The message, ABC News said, read as follows:

"The American hostages have served the purpose that Iran has wanted. They have served as a pretext to show the world dramatically the evils of the Shah's regime and the U.S. government's support for it. The hostages just are not needed any longer. The hostages will be released. Iran never intended to harm them anyway. The gesture dramatizes Islam's magnanimity and compassion. There was never any hatred for the American people, only the U.S. government. Iran and the Islamic Republic emerge as both victorious and morally supreme."

Salinger identified Saunders as the source of the message, a fact which the former White House official denied. Salinger continued:

"But the message exists. It was delivered to Heikal in Cairo by the same man Saunders originally used to persuade Heikal to act as an intermediary for the U.S. government.

ABC News also said in "The Secret Negotiations":

"The West German government played a vital role in the late stages of the negotiations, providing the key which unlocked the door for talks leading to the hostages' release.

"A Christmas 1979 plan to have the Iranians release three hostages as a gesture in good faith to Panama, where the deposed shah was living at the time, fell through because of premature disclosure of the plan by a French parliamentary delegation.

Freed Hostage Reveals 'Suicide' Escape Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before their release last week, some of the Americans held hostage in Iran were planning a desperate escape attempt — which they admit probably would have been a suicide mission.

Marine Sgt. John D. McKeel Jr., of Balch Springs, said about a half dozen of the hostages had planned to break for freedom with handmade weapons on Feb. 12 if they had not been released by then.

Asked if he thought the scheme would have worked, McKeel answered with a low-muttered, "No."

"I doubt that I could have gotten out of the country alive," said Army Warrant Officer Joseph Hall of Silver Spring, Md. "But I had gotten to the point where I was seriously thinking about it."

McKeel said the plotters included "about six of us ... a good many" of the Marine guard detail at the U.S. embassy in Tehran which was seized by terrorists Nov. 4, 1979.

The February deadline was set, McKeel said in an interview, because it would give the new president a few weeks to secure their release before they tried something more desperate.

McKeel said the group fashioned weapons "through secrecy. When they (guards) weren't looking, we did whatever we could and we hid them."

The weapons, McKeel said, included "Everything. We'd mixed detergent and kerosene, razor blades and pins and things of that sort."

With such crude weaponry, the group hoped to overpower their guards and escape immediate confinement. After that they would have to make their way out of Iran.

On the Larry King Show on the Mutual Broadcasting System, McKeel said the party hoped to reach the Greek border, but in an interview later he said they "had no idea" what they would do once free of their guards.

"We were just going to get out," McKeel said.

"I think I could have gotten out of my area of confinement," Hall said. "I don't think I could have gotten out of the country of Iran. I would have been shoeless, moneyless and unable to speak the local language."

Priest Admits Giving Hostage's Note To Captors After Meeting

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest who visited the U.S. hostages during their captivity said Wednesday that one of them slipped him a note to take back to America, but he handed it over to the Iranians because they demanded it.

Former hostage Charles Jones told the Detroit Free Press on Tuesday that he had secretly given a visiting minister a note detailing mistreatment of the captives "to let America know what was actually going on."

"This man immediately turned the note over to the students, our captors," Jones said. "He caused a lot of problems."

Jones did not identify the minister, but the Rev. Darrell Ruppier told The Omaha World-Herald that he probably was the one.

"I presume it was myself," Ruppier said when asked if he knew who the minister was.

"A note was handed to me during the April visit (to the hostages). I did not have a chance to read the note. As soon as the hostages were ushered out of the room, a student came up and said, 'Give me the note.' He must have seen (the hostage) give it to me."

Ruppier, although deploring the taking of the hostages, has been supportive of the aims of the Iranians who stormed the U.S. Embassy and held the 52 Americans for 444 days. After both of his trips to Tehran, Ruppier praised the treatment of the hostages.

Last week, when the freed hostages began telling of mental and physical abuse by the Iranians, Ruppier said he was appalled at the reports and found them hard to believe.

Ruppier said he didn't mention the note incident because he feared it might bring more worry to the parents of the hostage.

Increase In Soviet Oil Production Expected

MOSCOW (UPI) — Contrary to CIA predictions, the Soviet Union expects its oil production to increase and plans to keep petroleum exports to its East bloc allies at current levels, Tass said Wednesday.

The official Soviet news agency said Soviet oil production, which last year led the world at 603 million tons, was enough for its growing domestic demands as well as for sizeable exports.

"The Soviet Union does not need foreign oil. It has sufficient national resources," said Tass economics writer Yevgeni Kuznetsov in an article entitled,

"Soviet Oil and Cias Lies." Despite its optimistic tone, the Tass article did not directly address the main conclusion of a 1977 CIA report predicting that by the mid-1980s, the Soviet Union would be a net importer of oil.

The article did, however, appear to offer a guarantee of sorts to its East bloc allies, and members of the Community for Mutual Economic Assistance.

"The Soviet Union will remain the only big industrialized state in the world which will not only be self-sufficient in energy resources, but will continue exporting them, in the first place to its partners — the CMEA countries," Tass said. That was essentially a restating of the promise made last year by former Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin at a Prague meeting of Community members. Soviet oil exports to those member nations between 1981-85 were nearly 400 million tons.

"Hey, it's the Texas Instruments Double Rebate"

It's simple. Buy any of the great Texas Instruments watches, calculators and learning aids listed in the coupon, and we'll send you a rebate check for up to $25. That's how you save once.

To save twice, just check any other TI product you might like to buy. We'll send you a mystery rebate certificate worth up to $1,000, good for a rebate on that product. So visit any participating store for more information, or use the form below. But hurry—this offer ends April 15, 1981.

TEXAS INSTRUMENTS INCORPORATED

Information and Official Rules

- You can save once, save twice and max get up to $1,000 in this unusual double-rebate offer from Texas Instruments Incorporated (TI). You can save once with a regular rebate on one of the listed TI products. You save twice with a mystery rebate certificate, the value of which may be redeemed by mailing it with proof of purchase from the TI product which you have shown a possible interest in buying by checking the appropriate box on the coupon.
- The mystery rebate certificate will be mailed to you along with your regular rebate check. If you request a mystery rebate certificate only, the regular rebate does not apply. See Rule #1.
- The mystery rebate certificate could be worth up to $1,000 (plus tax). The following bonus cash values are found on these certificates: $1,000 ($1,000), $400 ($400), $250 ($250), $100 ($100). All others have a $1 bonus value each. These values will be distributed at random among all mystery rebate certificates printed and dispensed by Marten Kane, Inc., an independent agency, throughout the promotion among all persons requesting mystery certificates whether with or without an initial purchase of a TI product.
- A mystery rebate certificate may be obtained without purchase by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to the following address. Please indicate which one of the TI products in the current rebate program you might wish to purchase, either in a letter or by marking the Double Rebate coupon. One mystery rebate certificate request per envelope please. All requests must be received no later than April 15, 1981. Send to: Double Rebate Offer, P.O. Box 725, Dept. MC, Lubbock, TX 79491
- All mystery rebate certificates may not be distributed or redeemed. The cash value amounts of those undistributed and unredeemed certificates will not be paid out. All mystery rebate certificates must be received for redemption no later than June 15, 1981. Mystery rebate certificates with bonus values of $400 or more must be sent via registered or certified mail.
- Offer open to all residents of United States, except employees and their families of Texas Instruments, its affiliates, agencies and Marten Kane, Inc. Void where prohibited. Tax on the liability of recipients of mystery rebate certificates.
- For the list of redemptions of mystery rebate certificates valued at $25 and more, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Double Rebate Offer, P.O. Box 725, Dept. W, Lubbock, TX 79491.
- Not responsible for mystery rebate certificates mis-addressed or lost in the mail.
- Certificates that are illegible or altered in any way are automatically void.

Possible Reprisals Against Iran Eyed

there will be no military equipment provided to the government of Iran, either under earlier obligations and contractual arrangements, or as yet unstated requests," Haig said.
The Defense Department reported that Iran has paid for about $457 million worth of U.S. military equipment that was not delivered. Most of the gear is spare parts for U.S.-built jet fighters, tanks, helicopters and other weapons sold to Iran before the overthrow of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.
The revolutionary regime now in control in Iran has not requested shipment of the equipment, and the subject was not raised in the long negotiations leading to the hostage release agreements, officials have said previously.

Haig said the United States might sell the equipment elsewhere and turn over the cash value of the equipment to Iran.
One State Department official said earlier that President Reagan appears to be able to avoid releasing the military equipment to Iran by claiming a legal technicality. "There is no obligation stated in the (hostage) agreement at any place to return specific military equipment," Acting Assistant Secretary Peter Constable told reporters.

Haig also said the administration had high on its priority list concern about the extent of Soviet involvement in training, funding and equipping international terrorists.
"I think it is clear we have been witness to an unprecedented, at least in character and scope, risk-taking on the part of the Soviet Union — not only in this hemisphere but in Africa as well," Haig said.
He said under President Reagan "international terrorism will take the place of human rights in our concern because it is the ultimate abuse of human rights."
Haig added: "It is time it be addressed with greater clarity and effectiveness by Western nations and by the United States."
Declare "Terrorist"
The secretary also said he would not rule out that a government like the present government of Iran could be declared a "terrorist government," which would bar it from normal U.S. trade and aid programs.
He said until the administration has decided the future trade relationship with Iran "in my view the most careful caution should be applied by American firms, large and small," which want to consider trading with Iran.
But Haig said he didn't want to discuss in a public forum any possible retaliatory measures the United States might take against Iran as a result of the taking and treatment of the 52 American hostages, who were freed on Inauguration Day, Jan. 20.
Iranian Attitude
"I would emphasize again that the period ahead is going to clearly demonstrate the nature and character of the Iranian regime's post-hostage return attitude," Haig said. "There are additional American hostages... and a host of other incurred obligations that make that question a little premature."
There are three U.S. citizens still in Iranian custody, including Cynthia Dwyer, an American free-lance writer from Buffalo, N.Y. The other two are of Iranian descent, and little is known about them.
While the possible actions against Iran are being considered, the official made clear in an interview that it doesn't mean that any one of them will be used. He also said there is not yet any consensus building around any of them.
Some Dialectic Embargo
The imposing of a new trade embargo or freezing Iranian assets again are regarded as "not kosher" by some, he said.
"There are lots of things the United States could do that would theoretically have an effect on Iran," the official said.
Whether or not the administration takes retaliatory action against Iran for its seizing of American hostages and the treatment it gave them, it will maintain a tough posture toward Iran for the indefinite future, the official said.
"This administration does not want to appear to be moving with unseemly haste toward normalization of relations with Iran," he said.
The official said he believes the administration will decide, following a review, that the agreement with Iran for release of the 52 American hostages is legal.
But he also said that doesn't mean it will have to keep its provisions for lifting the trade embargo and unfreezing Iranian assets in place indefinitely, perhaps even not for very long.

Tech Building Need Termed Emergency

tion at 11 state colleges, does approve Tech's request, the project would begin almost immediately.
The Tech board of regents will meet Saturday and among the agenda items is the appointment of a construction manager for the project if it is approved by the Coordinating Board.
The proposed $4 million two-story building would provide about seven times more space than the existing facility. Dr. John Bradford, dean of Tech's College of Engineering, says the space is needed because there has been a 520 percent growth in petroleum engineering enrollment at Tech in the last decade. The dean estimates that engineering enrollment at Tech will increase from the less than 12 percent of Tech's total enrollment in 1971 to approximately 20 percent of the university's total enrollment by 1984.

Construction, architect's fees and related project costs are estimated at $4 million, and would be paid by ad valorem money accredited to Tech before the ad valorem program ended. In addition, private industry will contribute about $1.5 million for modern laboratory equipment.
Bennie L. Franks, president of Sun Texas Oil Co. of Dallas, and one of the contributors, explained that the donation "is an opportunity for us to solve the engineering shortage."
Franks, noting the close geographic location of Tech to the oil-rich Permian Basin, said, "West Texas is a major reserve center in the world and that's why this school expansion (new building) is compulsory."
He also pointed out that today's technology requires more skilled personnel. "It takes more people today to acquire a barrel of oil," he said, explaining that there will be plenty of jobs available for all the petroleum engineering graduates expected at Tech.
Regent Pevehouse agrees. "My father started as a ditch digger to learn the oil business," Pevehouse said. "He started at the ground up. But you can't do that today."
Although Tech is prepared with an array of statistical data to justify its building request, Pevehouse is counting on first-hand evidence to win the case.
"We showed them the junky old building," he said of the existing facility which has been toured by several Coordinating Board members as well as Texas Gov. Bill Clements.
R.F. Juedeman, an Odessa oilman, is chairman of the Coordinating Board's campus planning committee which will consider Tech's request at about 1:30 p.m. today. The six-man committee will give its yes-or-no recommendation to the board Friday at which time a vote by the entire board will be taken.
Although Juedeman says, "I will reserve my decision until the very last argument," he also noted, "I feel optimistic" that the project will be approved.

Alexander Sentence Pondered

Wright instructed the group to continue deliberating.
The panel retired to the jury room at 2:23 p.m. after emotional final arguments by both Lubbock County Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford and lead defense counsel Floyd Holder. Holder argued Alexander had acted in haste and should be allowed the chance for rehabilitation, while Montford argued that "a rattlesnake doesn't deserve two bites."
His voice rising to a shout over the courtroom, Montford asked that the jury not feel any responsibility for Alexander. "He put himself here, now he must pay the consequences," Montford argued.
"I ask you under the evidence to send a message, right here, from this courtroom in Taylor County, Abilene, Texas, to send a message to every other contemplating, dope-beating, gun-toting pusher in the state of Texas. 'If you're going to commit the ultimate crime and kill the law, then you will receive the ultimate penalty,'" the district attorney urged the panel.
"I will not back off one inch from my statement to you that the State of Texas is seeking the death penalty," Montford added. "I hope first and foremost I can take you back to those late hours of October fifth when the trooper was senseless slain."
Points At Accused
"Every time you think of him," Montford said, pointing at Alexander, "I want you to think of that young officer lying in his grave."
Montford described Alexander as the kind of man who preys upon people "who are weak in spirit," referring to testimony that Alexander was a major drug dealer long before he shot and killed the highway patrolman.
"He has no remorse in his vocabulary — a rattlesnake doesn't deserve two bites."
The district attorney held before the jury a .38-caliber derringer, which, according to testimony, was smuggled into the Lubbock County Jail for Alexander's planned jailbreak.
"He hadn't even been fully fitted for jail clothes before he was talking about shooting his way out," Montford charged. "There's his calling card from within," he added, holding the derringer up before the jury which has seen three other guns admitted into evidence against Alexander.
Life "Not Valued"
"I don't think that officer's life meant a dime to him that night," Montford continued. "It got in the way of his selling a few measly pills."
Holder argued for his client after a 10-minute introductory argument from second defense attorney Dick Alexander.
"Now I'm not the lawyer, Mr. Montford is," Holder told the court, "but this case is not a pushing match between attorneys." Holder pleaded that the very evidence that Montford stressed as support for the death penalty — Alexander's heavy drug involvement — is the very reason the jury should let his client live.
Addition Confessed
Holding up a bottle of Dilaudid, a synthetic morphine substance Alexander has confessed addiction to, Holder asked the jury to think about the drug.
"This is the reason to understand they have not proved continuing acts of violence. When he acted, he reacted — and it was impulsive," Holder told the panel. "He did not set out to find Jerry Don Davis. They met by chance."
"And he cried," Holder continued. "Remorseless? Oh, you can go downhill pretty fast on that stuff," he said, holding the pill bottle before the jury.
"We know, historically, people can change," he added, describing Alexander as someone who had not exhibited criminal behavior as a youngster.
"Is this guy so hopeless? Is this guy so bad — is what he's going to do in the future so intolerable that we can't tolerate him?" Holder pleaded.

building would provide about seven times more space than the existing facility. Dr. John Bradford, dean of Tech's College of Engineering, says the space is needed because there has been a 520 percent growth in petroleum engineering enrollment at Tech in the last decade. The dean estimates that engineering enrollment at Tech will increase from the less than 12 percent of Tech's total enrollment in 1971 to approximately 20 percent of the university's total enrollment by 1984.
Construction, architect's fees and related project costs are estimated at $4 million, and would be paid by ad valorem money accredited to Tech before the ad valorem program ended. In addition, private industry will contribute about $1.5 million for modern laboratory equipment.
Bennie L. Franks, president of Sun Texas Oil Co. of Dallas, and one of the contributors, explained that the donation "is an opportunity for us to solve the engineering shortage."
Franks, noting the close geographic location of Tech to the oil-rich Permian Basin, said, "West Texas is a major reserve center in the world and that's why this school expansion (new building) is compulsory."
He also pointed out that today's technology requires more skilled personnel. "It takes more people today to acquire a barrel of oil," he said, explaining that there will be plenty of jobs available for all the petroleum engineering graduates expected at Tech.
Regent Pevehouse agrees. "My father started as a ditch digger to learn the oil business," Pevehouse said. "He started at the ground up. But you can't do that today."
Although Tech is prepared with an array of statistical data to justify its building request, Pevehouse is counting on first-hand evidence to win the case.
"We showed them the junky old building," he said of the existing facility which has been toured by several Coordinating Board members as well as Texas Gov. Bill Clements.
R.F. Juedeman, an Odessa oilman, is chairman of the Coordinating Board's campus planning committee which will consider Tech's request at about 1:30 p.m. today. The six-man committee will give its yes-or-no recommendation to the board Friday at which time a vote by the entire board will be taken.
Although Juedeman says, "I will reserve my decision until the very last argument," he also noted, "I feel optimistic" that the project will be approved.

Jurors Indict Mrs. Daniel In Slaying

LIBERTY (AP) — Grand jurors indicted the attractive blonde widow of former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. on a charge of murder Wednesday night, after a marathon nine hours of secret testimony.
The 12-member panel heard 19 witnesses, including Vickie Daniel's 11-year-old daughter by a previous marriage, and rendered its decision shortly before 11 p.m. Wednesday.
Mrs. Daniel, 33, charged last Friday with the Jan. 19 slaying, declined an invitation to appear before the grand jury — not uncommon for the accused.
She is free on $50,000 bond.
"The grand jury indicted Vickie Daniel for first-degree murder," district attorney Carroll Wilborn told newsmen minutes after jurors filed from their private chambers.
"I would anticipate the earliest possible trial date as May or June," he said.
He said the penalty upon conviction could range from five years to life imprisonment, and that she could get probation.
Authorities maintained the one-time waitress killed the socially and politically prominent Daniel with a single .22-caliber shot fired from rifle at close range.
Daniel, 39, son and namesake of a former Texas governor, died on the floor of his stylish Liberty ranch home, half an hour's drive from Houston.
Included among the 19 witnesses were investigators, hospital and ambulance personnel, a newsman, an accountant-attorney and family members of both the deceased and the accused.
The latter included Daniel's brother, Houston; his wife, Charlotte, and a cousin.
Larry Moore, Vickie Daniel's ex-husband, appeared before the panel for 25 minutes and was followed by his young daughter, Kimberly.

Haig also said the administration had high on its priority list concern about the extent of Soviet involvement in training, funding and equipping international terrorists.
"I think it is clear we have been witness to an unprecedented, at least in character and scope, risk-taking on the part of the Soviet Union — not only in this hemisphere but in Africa as well," Haig said.
He said under President Reagan "international terrorism will take the place of human rights in our concern because it is the ultimate abuse of human rights."
Haig added: "It is time it be addressed with greater clarity and effectiveness by Western nations and by the United States."
Declare "Terrorist"
The secretary also said he would not rule out that a government like the present government of Iran could be declared a "terrorist government," which would bar it from normal U.S. trade and aid programs.
He said until the administration has decided the future trade relationship with Iran "in my view the most careful caution should be applied by American firms, large and small," which want to consider trading with Iran.
But Haig said he didn't want to discuss in a public forum any possible retaliatory measures the United States might take against Iran as a result of the taking and treatment of the 52 American hostages, who were freed on Inauguration Day, Jan. 20.
Iranian Attitude
"I would emphasize again that the period ahead is going to clearly demonstrate the nature and character of the Iranian regime's post-hostage return attitude," Haig said. "There are additional American hostages... and a host of other incurred obligations that make that question a little premature."
There are three U.S. citizens still in Iranian custody, including Cynthia Dwyer, an American free-lance writer from Buffalo, N.Y. The other two are of Iranian descent, and little is known about them.
While the possible actions against Iran are being considered, the official made clear in an interview that it doesn't mean that any one of them will be used. He also said there is not yet any consensus building around any of them.
Some Dialectic Embargo
The imposing of a new trade embargo or freezing Iranian assets again are regarded as "not kosher" by some, he said.
"There are lots of things the United States could do that would theoretically have an effect on Iran," the official said.
Whether or not the administration takes retaliatory action against Iran for its seizing of American hostages and the treatment it gave them, it will maintain a tough posture toward Iran for the indefinite future, the official said.
"This administration does not want to appear to be moving with unseemly haste toward normalization of relations with Iran," he said.
The official said he believes the administration will decide, following a review, that the agreement with Iran for release of the 52 American hostages is legal.
But he also said that doesn't mean it will have to keep its provisions for lifting the trade embargo and unfreezing Iranian assets in place indefinitely, perhaps even not for very long.

"I think it is clear we have been witness to an unprecedented, at least in character and scope, risk-taking on the part of the Soviet Union — not only in this hemisphere but in Africa as well," Haig said.
He said under President Reagan "international terrorism will take the place of human rights in our concern because it is the ultimate abuse of human rights."
Haig added: "It is time it be addressed with greater clarity and effectiveness by Western nations and by the United States."
Declare "Terrorist"
The secretary also said he would not rule out that a government like the present government of Iran could be declared a "terrorist government," which would bar it from normal U.S. trade and aid programs.
He said until the administration has decided the future trade relationship with Iran "in my view the most careful caution should be applied by American firms, large and small," which want to consider trading with Iran.
But Haig said he didn't want to discuss in a public forum any possible retaliatory measures the United States might take against Iran as a result of the taking and treatment of the 52 American hostages, who were freed on Inauguration Day, Jan. 20.
Iranian Attitude
"I would emphasize again that the period ahead is going to clearly demonstrate the nature and character of the Iranian regime's post-hostage return attitude," Haig said. "There are additional American hostages... and a host of other incurred obligations that make that question a little premature."
There are three U.S. citizens still in Iranian custody, including Cynthia Dwyer, an American free-lance writer from Buffalo, N.Y. The other two are of Iranian descent, and little is known about them.
While the possible actions against Iran are being considered, the official made clear in an interview that it doesn't mean that any one of them will be used. He also said there is not yet any consensus building around any of them.
Some Dialectic Embargo
The imposing of a new trade embargo or freezing Iranian assets again are regarded as "not kosher" by some, he said.
"There are lots of things the United States could do that would theoretically have an effect on Iran," the official said.
Whether or not the administration takes retaliatory action against Iran for its seizing of American hostages and the treatment it gave them, it will maintain a tough posture toward Iran for the indefinite future, the official said.
"This administration does not want to appear to be moving with unseemly haste toward normalization of relations with Iran," he said.
The official said he believes the administration will decide, following a review, that the agreement with Iran for release of the 52 American hostages is legal.
But he also said that doesn't mean it will have to keep its provisions for lifting the trade embargo and unfreezing Iranian assets in place indefinitely, perhaps even not for very long.

Haig also said the administration had high on its priority list concern about the extent of Soviet involvement in training, funding and equipping international terrorists.
"I think it is clear we have been witness to an unprecedented, at least in character and scope, risk-taking on the part of the Soviet Union — not only in this hemisphere but in Africa as well," Haig said.
He said under President Reagan "international terrorism will take the place of human rights in our concern because it is the ultimate abuse of human rights."

Wildcat Strikes Paralyze Industry In Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Millions of workers stayed off the job Wednesday in spreading wildcat protests that have crippled industries throughout Poland. The nation's largest trade union accused the Communist government of creating "another dangerous crisis" by failing to live up to concessions won during last summer's widespread strikes.

The independent trade union Solidarity, in an apparent attempt to regain control over its local unions, also proclaimed a nationwide one-hour warning strike for next Tuesday.

At the same time, however, Solidarity urged an immediate end to the spontaneous local and regional protests and reaffirmed its willingness to open talks with the government.

Solidarity accused the government of

'Total Victory' Ordered By Khomeini

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini ignored a conditional peace offer from Iraq Wednesday and ordered Iran's armed forces to drive toward "total victory" in the Persian Gulf war, the official Iranian news agency reported.

Khomeini's remarks coincided with new efforts by an Islamic summit in Taif, Saudi Arabia to end the conflict that has developed into a war of attrition along the 300-mile front.

Pars said Khomeini met at his residence in Tehran with commanders of Iran's Islamic Revolutionary Guard corps and issued orders for "total victory."

A few hours earlier in Taif, President Saddam Hussein of Iraq told the Islamic summit that Iraq "is ready to return war-torn Iranian territory within a just and honorable solution of the conflict."

But he said "a solution must be based on the recovery of territorial and offshore rights Iran has usurped by force," an apparent reference to the Shatt al-Arab waterway that forms the border between the two countries.

Iraqi forces have conquered much of the Iranian side of the waterway in the fighting as well as portions of Iran's Khuzistan oil province.

Iran insists on withdrawal of all Iraqi troops from Iranian territory before any cease-fire will be considered.

Tunisia's Habib Chatti, secretary-general of the Islamic Conference Organization, said a mediation committee of six Islamic heads of state would make another attempt to explore chances of ending the Iran-Iraq war.

Iran boycotted the summit because Hussein was attending.

Iran and Iraq are Moslem nations, but the 36 million Iranians are mostly Persians and the 13 million Iraqis are predominantly Arabs.

Shortly after sending out his fighting orders, Pars said Khomeini dispatched his personal representative on Iran's Supreme Defense Council, former Defense Minister Mustafa Chamran, for a war council with President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr at his battlefield headquarters in Khuzistan.

Military communiques from Baghdad and Tehran indicated the war was bogged down in rain-soaked Khuzistan and in the snow-blanketed western highlands with neither side making a move to break the standoff.

Iraq reported an air raid by Iraqi fighter-bombers Tuesday on Iran's main oil loading terminal at the Persian Gulf island of Kharg.

A communique claimed extensive damage was inflicted on Kharg facilities and said Iraq was capable of striking at Iran's vital installations "wherever and whenever we decide."

Iran said the raiding Iraqi jets were driven off by Iranian air craft.

Safeway Profits From Celebration For U.S. Hostages

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Managers of local Safeway Stores were advised last week to tie yellow ribbons on plants, boost the prices $1.50, and urge customers to "celebrate the release of our 52 Americans" with a plant from Safeway.

Apparently the idea worked. One store manager who tried it said, "We sold them all."

A memo from the San Francisco division headquarters of the nation's largest supermarket chain advised stores last week that the marketing gimmick would be a good way to "clear out yellow bows you might have on hand," as well as to boost plant sales.

"Try a 'Freedom' display and capture extra sales by offering yellow bows on your plants," began the memo, written by Anna Frazier, nursery manager for the San Francisco division.

Louie Gonzalez, Safeway's manager of urban and public affairs, said he "regrets" the tactic.

"She got overzealous trying to market the plants," he said.

"It's a very competitive area, and you're always looking for an opportunity to boost sales," Gonzalez continued. "Unfortunately, she took the return of the hostages as a good way of promoting the plants."

Gonzalez defended the price mark-up, however, saying that decorated plants — such as those sold for Easter or Valentine's Day — are always marked up $1.50 over the price of undecorated plants.

"We try to provide products in our stores that are what customers are looking for," Gonzalez said.

Glossy paint is suitable for the kitchen because it withstands moisture better than flat paint and it can also be washed without damage.

putting the "brakes" on agreements reached after last summer's strikes including a five-day workweek, union access to the news media and the farmers' right to form unions.

"The new wave of regional and local strikes starting in mid-January is the result of the policies of authorities," Solidarity said in a communique. "Attempts to forego agreements plunged the country into another dangerous crisis." Since last fall, the unrest in Poland has raised the possibility of Soviet intervention by divisions poised on the border.

A Polish commentary written for the Soviet Defense Ministry newspaper, Red Star, lashed out Wednesday at what it called "crude interference" by the West and especially NATO, in the Warsaw Pact nation.

In Rzeszow, 160 miles south of Warsaw, at least eight plants, including two that make aircraft and engines, shut down at 7 a.m. All non-striking enterprises in the area observed a five-minute pause as sirens wailed in support.

Following a mass meeting at Philharmonic Hall in Rzeszow, Solidarity leader Lech Walesa spoke from a window to a crowd of about 1,100 people. He said, "We must be aware that it is the power of our movement that cannot be destroyed" by guns or tanks.

"Maybe there would be victims (in an open clash)," the union leader said. "If we have to pay a price we shall do, but we shall win."

Walesa also criticized the Communist government on a number of issues related to non-implementation of post-strike agreements. But he equally censured "some people" in his union "who are deciding on going on a strike in an easy-going way."

The strike called by the Rzeszow chapter of Solidarity came after the government failed to send a delegation to discuss a delay in registering an independent farmers' union.

About 300 farmers and peasants have occupied the headquarters of the now-defunct government unions there since Jan. 3 to press for a farmers' union and air other grievances. Walesa failed to prevent their strike call in talks Tuesday.

About 10,000 students continued a sit-in at Lodz University, in Poland's second largest city, demanding more academic freedom and an end to compulsory classes in Marxism.

Strikes also were reported in Bielec, Jaroslaw, Bialystock, Katowice, Bielsko Biala, Zdunska Wola, Jastrzebie, Radom, Sieradz, Swidnica and Ustrzyki Dolne.

Hobbs Assistant Golf Pro Buys School Bus Contract

A-J Correspondent

HOBBS, N.M. — A bid for the sale of the C.W. Martin school bus contract in Hobbs has been awarded to Hector Ramirez, assistant golf professional at the Hobbs Country Club.

According to terms of his bid proposal, Hobbs superintendent of schools Ellis Scott says Ramirez "is now free to negotiate for the purchase of the four buses involved" with C.W. Martin, longtime school bus contractor, who is retiring. Ramirez would be free to provide his own buses.

Gene Whitehead, a local businessman, was the successful bidder last November for the Eagle Bus Co. contract.

Eagle Bus Company had a fleet of 37 buses which operate on 32 school bus routes around the Hobbs Municipal School District.

Whitehead has not begun operation of the buses but expects to begin in early February.

The routes to be covered by the Whitehead operation average from 37.9 to 28.8 miles, according to Jim Stewart, director of school transportation.

The Martin bus routes extend mostly west of town with some of the buses traveling as far as the Halfway Bar on the Carlsbad Highway, about 40 miles west of the city. The four bus routes average about 100 miles, with the longest being about 123 miles and the shortest, which goes to Monument, measuring about 86 miles for the round trip.

Both Whitehead and Ramirez are expected to buy new buses, with five to be purchased by Whitehead and one by Ramirez.

Whitehead said new 59 passenger school buses will cost $30,000 or more each.

Nurse's Aide Course Offered

SNYDER (Special) — Western Texas College will offer a nurse's aide training course in Crosbyton on Friday and Saturday nights beginning Friday and continuing through Feb. 28.

Classes will meet at Crosbyton Clinic Hospital from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Fridays and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays. Sixty hours will be spent in classroom instruction. The class will be divided into 60 hours of classroom instruction and 60 hours of hospital work.

Students must be at least 18 years of age and able to read, write and comprehend English. References must be furnished before a personal interview with the instructor.

A tuberculin skin test and a stool culture must have been performed on the student within the past 12 months.

A fee of $90 will be charged for the course, including the textbook.

For more information contact Velma Clay, RN, in Crosbyton or the Continuing Education office at WTC, at 915-573-8511, extension 240.

'Aerobic Country' Offered

PLAINVIEW (Special) — Wayland Baptist College will offer courses in "Aerobic Country" in area communities through their Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, according to Sylvia Nadler, head of the PE department.

"Aerobic Country" is a rhythmic aerobic program which choreographs exercise to country and western music, Mrs. Nadler said.

High school students, college students and adults may enroll in the course, she said, but only high school seniors and above may receive college credit for the course. The program will be geared to each individual's capabilities and heart rates will be monitored throughout each class.

The $50 course offers one hour college credit. Persons wishing to audit the course will be charged $33. A $15 application fee will be charged credit students who are enrolling in Wayland for the first time.

Communities interested in the class may contact Sylvia Nadler at 296-5521.

Chamber Fete To Feature Cowboy Staffer

DIMMITT (Special) — Dallas Cowboy assistant coach Gene Stallings will be the featured speaker at the annual Dimmitt Chamber of Commerce Banquet at 7 p.m. Monday at the County Expo Building.

Stallings, an All-Southwest Conference offensive end at Texas A&M in 1966, was a student assistant coach at A&M before moving with Bear Bryant to Alabama as an assistant. He became head coach at A&M in 1965 and joined the Cowboys staff in 1972.

Also at the banquet, awards will be presented to the Teacher of the Year, the Citizen of the Year and the Citizen through the Years.

The Woman of the Year award, sponsored by the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, will be presented by Jean DuLaney and two other special awards will be presented during the evening.

New chamber directors also will be installed at the banquet.

The $7 banquet tickets may be purchased at the bank or chamber office. Reservations may be made at 647-2524.

Free Concert Set At Midland College

MIDLAND (Special) — Midland College will present a free concert at 8 p.m. Friday in the recital hall of the Allison Fine Arts Building.

Tony Sirianni, pianist, and Mary Karen Clardy, flutist, will be sponsored by the Musicians Club of Midland and the Texas Federation of Music Clubs.

Sirianni, an adjunct member of the Midland College music faculty for two years, was appointed assistant professor and Artist-in-Residence at Brevard College in Brevard, N.C., last fall. He was the grand prize winner of the 1980 Gershwin Competition.

Miss Clardy is a former member of the Midland-Odessa Symphony. She is assistant professor of flute at North Texas State University where she earned a Doctor of Musical Arts degree. She was a top prize winner in the 1978 Young Artist Competition of the National Flute Association.

The program will include selections by Bach, Bizet, Prokofiev, Jolivet and Enescu.

Treatment Offered Disabled Children

LEVELLAND (Special) — Free diagnosis, treatment and other services for a limited number of handicapped children ages 3 and 4 are available at the South Plains Handicapped Consortium.

Vernon Smothers, coordinator of the program, said services include diagnosis and evaluation, medical and dental treatment, visual treatment and aids, speech and hearing treatment, referrals, on-site teaching and travel to and from service sites.

Those seeking further information may contact Smothers in Lubbock at 742-1945 or call Walter Reed in Levelland at 894-3649. Or persons may write to South Plains Handicapped Consortium, P.O. Box 610, Levelland, Texas 79336.

STRIKES FEWER

LONDON (AP) — Britain's strike record in 1980 was the best in 39 years, the government said Wednesday. The Department of Employment said there were 1,262 work stoppages, the lowest total since 1941.

'Tribute To Freedom' Rally Set

By MARC FLAKE

Avalanche-Journal Staff

South Plains residents who have been wishing they could take part in the celebration of the return of the former hostages from Iran will be able to do just that this afternoon.

A "Tribute to Freedom" rally is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. to 6:15 p.m. today at Buster Long Park, north of the South Plains Mall at 57th Street and Bangor Avenue.

B METRO

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
Thursday, January 29, 1981

It will include a fly-over by the Confederate Air Force, a military arms salute by the Marine Corps Reserve, speeches by local students and the singing of patriotic songs, according to John Boswell, organizer of the rally.

Boswell began lining up the program Tuesday after President Reagan proclaimed today a national day of thanksgiving to honor the hostages' return.

Because of the short timetable, Boswell noted, some events remain tentative but late Wednesday afternoon, he was trying to confirm the appearance of the Texas Tech Court Jesters Stage Band.

Mayor Bill McAlister, who was contacted by Boswell Tuesday, also was attempting to confirm the appearance of U.S. Rep. Kent Hance.

Of the events which have been confirmed:

• A fly-over by the Confederate Air Force in honor of the eight servicemen who died in the failed rescue attempt.

• Jack Gauding, Panhandle Squadron Commander, said a group of at least four North American AT-6 "Texans" will perform the "Missing man formation" over the park out of a diamond formation.

The formation was used by pilots in World War II to honor pilots lost in action and consists of one of the aircraft pulling up and away during the fly-by, he said.

• Speeches from local student body representatives, one from each high school and from Texas Tech, on "what it means to live in a free country."

• A M-16 rifle salute by a contingent of five Marines from the Reserve staff here honoring the hostages and those who died in the rescue attempt.

Boswell urged the participation of everyone at a news conference at city hall Wednesday morning.

"We encourage banners, signs, flags and yellow ribbons by the millions," he said. "We need this unifying experience more than just watching it on TV."

"This attitude of participation is one which affords us an opportunity to know in our hearts the joy of living in a free country," he said, adding the ceremony will end with the singing of "This Land Is Your Land" by the crowd.

At the news conference, McAlister said the city needs this kind of "unity of spirit." So far the only celebrations have been among members of churches and private organizations, while the rally will provide a chance for the whole community to become involved, the mayor said.

Boswell refused to take credit for the idea, saying, "It's something that is stirring in the heart of every American."

FOREIGN OPERATIONS — Evans Junior High School Spanish students assist one another in the art of pinata-making. All that hard work won't be evident for long however, as the students plan to break their creations open at the end of the week. Local Legislators React To Pay Increase Proposal

By LISA PAIKOWSKI

Avalanche-Journal Staff

A proposal to raise state legislators' pay by 50 percent and expenses by 66 percent elicited reactions ranging from derision to support from local legislators polled Wednesday.

Meanwhile, a Senate bill calling for a 6.8 percent emergency pay hike for state employees ran into a stumbling block, with House members — including the two local representatives — instead approving a 5.1 percent salary boost.

State Sen. E.L. Short of Tahoka said he had not heard about the proposal by Rep. Bill Healy of Paducah for a substantial percentage increase in legislator pay, but predicted the measure does not have "one chance at all."

Healy's proposal is for a constitutional amendment which would have to be approved by a two-thirds vote of both houses before going to Texas voters for ratification. The amendment would up legislators' pay from $600 per month to $900 and expenses from $30 a day to $50. State legislators have not received a salary increase since 1975.

Short said he is "very satisfied" with current pay levels, adding he knew what the pay would be when he took the job. The senator noted that the state constitution provides that Texas citizens, rather than legislators, must grant its senators and representatives pay raises.

"I'm glad it's in the constitution," Short said, adding he wishes the same provision were in the United States Constitution. Federal legislators may vote themselves a salary hike.

But Healy's proposal met with far less opposition, and even some support from State Reps. Froy Salinas and Nolan "Buzz" Robnett.

"It's not so outrageous," said Salinas, noting that he would back the 50 percent figure. "You're only talking about 181 people at $300 (salary increase) a piece," he said, intimating the time is ripe for a pay boost.

He said he would approve the amendment, thereby giving "the people the opportunity to vote on it." But he said he does not know if that mandate would come from Texas citizens.

Robnett noted the recommendation is one of "a lot of suggestions statewide." But he said he would be "noncommittal" until he can arrive at a consensus among his colleagues in the legislature.

Robnett admitted that the raise "sounds like a heck of an increase" at first glance, but from "$600 to $900 is not a heck of a lot of money."

However, action on a pay raise for state employees has progressed somewhat, with the House and Senate arriving at two different designated salary increases.

The Senate approved a bill calling for a 6.8 percent emergency pay hike. But the House version, backed by Gov. Bill Clements, calls only for a 5.1 percent jump.

Short, who said the Senate measure passed 27-2, said he approved that bill. He explained the measure now will go back to the Senate, where legislators can concur or fail to concur on the House version. If they decline to approve that version, the bill will go to a conference.

rubber. But there was nothing he could do about it so why should he worry.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued with the ace. He then led the 10 of diamonds. East discarded the three of spades as dummy ruffed with the ace of trumps.

Now declarer drew trumps, cashed dummy's spades to discard his last diamond and the jack of clubs and conceded a trick to the ace of clubs.

"I ought to quit bridge," complained East. "One bad hand after another."

"Maybe you should take up the game and quit playing nullo," said West. "If you just kept yourself awake you would have beaten this game."

West was right. East had no reason not to trump his partner's ace at trick two so as to lead a club and set the hand.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

East had no problems in the bidding except a feeling of extreme nervousness when his partner bid two diamonds.

For all he knew the ace might fall right then, but there was no ace and when his opponents bid on to four hearts, East knew they were going to score game and

Readers' Exchange

By JEANNE LIVELY
Family News Staff

Like something different? Also, Reader's Exchange must get all the requests in (they've been omitted from the end of the column recently). So, ready!

Requests — J. Cantrell would like recipes for Beef Stroganoff and Pepper Steak.

Arlene Bryan of Ralls would appreciate a recipe for Monkey Bread. She wrote, "The one I had and lost came out in a regional magazine a few years ago. The bread was baked in a Bundt pan."

Jo Ann Keith of Guthrie requests a recipe similar to the cole slaw and dressing served by Jug Little.

Jewell Long, Post, would like the recipe for Peanut Patties that calls for one cup of cream.

If Reader's Exchange can't find the recipe for Microwave Divinity Candy that was printed recently, please send for Mrs. J.C. Steel of Post.

Somehow the brandy didn't get in the Brandied Fruit Topping recipe, dear reader send again!

Connie Benton wrote, "Several months ago a recipe was printed in Reader's Exchange for Oatmeal Pie. I have made the pie twice and it didn't set. But it tasted terrific. Is there any way to find out if the copy is correct, or if the pie should be baked longer? I am unable to see if it's done."

Here is the recipe as printed. Please write!

OATMEAL PIE

1 stick oleo
2 eggs
2/3 cup sugar
2/3 cup white corn syrup
1 tbs. brown sugar
2/3 cup oatmeal
1 tsp. vanilla
Melt oleo, beat in sugar and eggs. Add other ingredients. Pour into unbaked pie shell and bake for 1 hour at 300 degrees.

ALMOND BUTTER CRUNCH (Submitted by Lorene Dinwiddie)

1 cup (real) butter
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup finely chopped almond nuts
4 ozs. dipping chocolate
Combine butter and sugar and heat slowly, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved. Cook to hard crack state (310 degrees), stirring to prevent burning. Add 1/4 cup of the nuts and pour into buttered dish.

When cold, heat chocolate over boiling water and pour over candy. Sprinkle rest of nuts over chocolate. Break into small pieces. Makes 1-1 1/2 lbs.

HOMINY

(Sent by Mrs. V.L. Hicks)
1/2 gal. of corn (soak in crock or enamel pan overnight)

2 tbsps. lye
1 gal. water
Cook the next morning in the lye water (enamel pan), until all husks are off. Wash well, several times. Put in pints and pressure 10 minutes at 10 lbs.

Mrs. Delton Jones wrote: "I have had several requests for a cake recipe so I thought this might be a good way to get the recipe to them. This is a very pretty cake as well as delicious."

CHERRY DEVILS FOOD CAKE
1 devils food cake mix
1/3 cup cooking oil
1 can cherry pie filling
3 eggs

Mix all together and pour into a greased and floured tube pan. Bake at 350 degrees until done.

Turn cake upside down on plate. When cool, spoon cherry pie filling (1 can) on top of cake and fill the center (hole) with non-dairy whipped topping.

Verla Chaffin wrote, "I believe this is the best coffee cake or chocolate cake I have ever eaten. The recipe was given to me by a dear friend, who was a wonderful cook."

COFFEE CAKE

2/3 cups shortening
2 cups sugar
2 cups flour
1 tsp. soda in 1 tbs. hot water
4 egg whites, beaten stiff
1-1/2 tps. vanilla
3/4 cup cocoa
Pinch of salt
1 cup cold coffee
Cream shortening and sugar. Sift flour and cocoa together. Add alternately with coffee. Add salt and soda. Fold in egg whites. Cook at 350 degrees for about 35 minutes. Makes two 9-inch layers.

ICING

1/2 cup soft butter
2 tbsps. flour
2 egg yolks, beaten
4 tps. vanilla
5 tps. hot coffee
1 box powdered sugar
1/4 cup cocoa
Cream butter and egg yolks. Add sifted powdered sugar, flour, cocoa. Thin with hot coffee. Spread on cooled cake.

Here is Mrs. J.W. Olds' (of Sudan) recipe for something good to eat right now!

GREEN ENCHILADES

1 can cream of chicken soup
1 small can condensed milk
1/2 lb. processed cheese loaf
1 small can green chilies, chopped
1 lb. ground beef, browned and lightly salted
1 small can pimientos, chopped
1 doz. tortillas
1/2 lb. longhorn cheese, grated
1 cup chopped onion
Heat soup, milk and processed cheese in top of double boiler until melted. Add chilies and pimientos. Combine longhorn cheese, onions and meat.

Fill each tortilla with meat mixture. Roll tightly and place in long baking dish. Pour cheese sauce over top of tortilla. Cover with foil and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Two more requests — For Lorene Dinwiddie, please send recipes for baked filets of fish (similar to that served in Furr's Cafeterias).

Nancy Fielding says she could make Furr's Banana Split Pie (a similar one) if she had the recipe for Millionaire Pie.

Please send tips, requests and recipes to: Reader's Exchange, Lubbock Avian-Journal, P.O. Box 491, Lubbock, Tx. 79408.

The annual meeting of the Caprock Girl Scout Council was held Monday at the Lubbock Womens Club.

Highlighting the program was a presentation "Girl Scouting 1980s Style" by Mrs. Keith Strain, Mrs. John Mallory and Mrs. Billy M. Hall. Friends of Girl Scouts were recognized and service pins presented to adult Girl Scouts who have served 10 years or more.

The business meeting followed with election of new officers, board and nominating committee members and delegates to the national council meeting.

Dr. Harvey Joanning, chairman of the personnel services committee, awarded "Thanks Badges," the highest awards in the Girl Scout organization, to Mrs. Buster Owens, Littlefield; and Mrs. Frank Falbo, Lubbock. Mrs. Owens is former president of the board of directors, leader, fund raiser and field services chairman. Mrs. Falbo is a council trainer, former leader, field services chairman and buyer for Lubbock day camps for the past 10 years.

Plaques of Appreciation were given to long time Rio Blanco camp staff members and former campers, Sidney Sealy, R.N. and camp nurse; Laurie Walters and Gail Griffin Foote, unit staff; Glen Sugarek, waterfront; and Sherry Peel, assistant camp director, camp buyer and unit staff. These young women also have served the council as consultants, leaders and program trainers.

Plaques also were presented to Mrs. Georgia Mae Erickson, Crosbyton; Wanda Tyler, Plainview; Gary and Pat Oakley, Lubbock; and to Judge Robert Work and Bill Bennett, both of Crosbyton, who contributed special assistance for camp projects.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rangel, Lubbock, were awarded plaques for their support and leadership in the Robin Service Unit and for council-wide events held to familiarize families of Spanish-speaking children with facilities at Camp Rio Blanco.

Rev. Tommie Beck and the First United Methodist Church, Abernathy, received plaques for their support of the Abernathy Girl Scout program.

Certificates of appreciation were awarded public affairs directors at Lubbock television and radio stations for courtesies in public service announcements and to the Littlefield United Way for continuous fair share contributions to the council.

Renee Haarmeyer, Cadette Scout, Plainview, was recognized for having won two national Girl Scout photography awards in the 1980 Kodak contest. Renee earned a $50 bond and certificates of merit.

New officers elected to three-year terms on the board of directors included: Mrs. Seymour Evans, Lubbock, second vice president; Mrs. Merwyn Igo, Plainview, third vice president; and Loyd Rinehart, Lubbock, council treasurer.

Members-at-Large elected were: Mrs. Eddie Lewellen, Plainview; Stephen Henry, Levelland; Beverly Taylor, Abernathy; Jesse Garza, A.B. Watkins, Clearwater; Mrs. Ted Sisco and Henry A. Knight, Lubbock.

Mrs. H.L. Kinnison, Mrs. Steve Anderson and John Mallory were elected to serve on the nominating committee.

Prior to the council meeting, the board of directors previewed a slide show presented by Mrs. Craig McDonald, Ralls, and the newly-formed "Green Team," describing the council's financial structure. Plans include presenting the show to service units in the 18-county area.

Mrs. Nolen Swain, president of the board of directors, presided at both board and council meeting. Approximately 150 persons attended the luncheon.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY PAUL G. DONOHUE, M.D.
Dear Dr. Donohue: Our son had two concussions 17 years ago when he was in high school. Since then my wife has coddled him. She says he tires easily because of the concussion. I say bunk. Athletes and others have concussions and live normal lives. I would like to get him out of the house and on his own. I don't feel it is good for him or for us to have him pampered. — M.C.

Concussion results from a head injury. We usually think of it as implying a loss of consciousness. And that is true if we define consciousness as the ability to recall ongoing or past events. The person does not have to be out cold. Loss of memory and headache are the hallmarks of concussion.

The brain has suffered injury; there's no doubt about that. But the seriousness of injury depends on how much damage was done. No concussion should be taken lightly, but most people recover from one without difficulty. (In athletics, two concussions in any one season should certainly call for a professional decision as to whether the person should continue in contact sports. That again depends on the seriousness of the concussions and the damage done. Repeated injuries to the brain can lead to permanent damage.)

As for your son, I agree with you. Your wife may be being far too protective. Any permanent damage to the brain can be detected by a good examination, perhaps a brain wave test. So first see that your son does not have permanent damage. If none is found, he won't need this great protection. He is not in danger of sudden death from another concussion. His tiredness and lack of ambition are difficult to relate to a concussion 17 years ago if there were no permanent damage.

After a proper examination, urge him to get moving. He may be in more danger from maternal overprotection than from two concussions 17 years ago.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 50 years old and have had attacks of angina pectoris, for which I am being treated. I want to get a little exercise in and thought perhaps the isometric kind would be best to avoid attacks. Is this a good idea? — H.H.

That is not a good idea. Isometric exercise is not recommended for persons with heart or circulation conditions. A good example of why not appeared in one of the journals that crossed my desk recently describing so-called airport angina. The specific case involved a man who complained of being free of angina attacks until he had to carry his suitcase through airport lobbies. The conclusion was that the isometric exercise (the passive pressure from the suitcase load) added to the kinetic exercise (in walking) were sufficient to swing the balance and produce the attack.

Whatever type of exercise program you undertake should be with the approval of your doctor who knows your present status firsthand. The condition is discussed in depth in the booklet How to Handle Angina Pectoris. To order a copy, write me care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My elderly mother has decided she needs mineral oil, as she remembers her mother taking it in her later years. She feels this will help relieve her constipation. I have heard the oil is not a good idea. Can you please advise? — Mrs. G.G.

It is probably not a good idea for her to use the mineral oil. That can interfere with the absorption of the very important vitamins A, D, E and K. It is doubtful, anyway, that the mineral oil will have any beneficial effect on her constipation. She should be examined to attempt to learn the source of that problem.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can smoking cigarettes cause sleeplessness? — N.N.

Apparently so. In one study it was shown that non-smokers placed in pleasant sleeping quarters fell asleep about 30 minutes after lying down, while smokers took an average of 48 minutes. Some insomniacs get up and smoke a cigarette, hoping that will help them. On the basis of such studies, they may actually be worsening their plight.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Why is finding out the sex of the baby in the womb consi-

Party Honors Oldest Resident

By FRANCES LOWE
Family News Editor

Birthday parties at John Knox Village are always fun. Once a month, the residents plan a celebration for all those in the village who have birthdays that month. Always there are special decorations, refreshments, entertainment, and a toast to the birthday boys and girls.

January's celebration was rather special. One of the people honored was Jessie Williamson Mirick, 98 years young, and the oldest resident of the village.

Mrs. Mirick, who has lived at the village since 1976, but who lived for most of her life in Amarillo, was given the customary birthday greetings, and Art Carnahan, executive director, presented her with a corsage.

Her daughter, Dorice Myers, who also lives at the village, then exhibited to the guests a small tintype photo of Mrs. Mirick, taken 80 years ago when she was a young woman in Athens.

Mrs. Myers explained that the custom at that time was for a young woman to have her picture taken and mounted with a pin on the back, to present to the young man to whom she was promised. The fellow wore the pin on his lapel, signaling to the world that he was "taken."

Mrs. Myers recounted a story of her mother and the tintype. "Mother had an aunt who was so like her that they were often taken for twins. She was a little older than mother, and had made her choice of a young man and pinned him."

"Another young man had selected Jessie — Mother — but had received so little encouragement that he did not even know about the aunt. He saw the aunt's pin on the man of her choice. Feeling rebuffed, he became furious and rolled up his sleeves. Only the intervention of on-lookers prevented a bloody fight."

After the party, another resident came up to Mrs. Myers and commented, "Last night I got out my father's and mother's wedding picture, and saw for the first time that he was wearing mother's tintype picture. I had never noticed it before."

Mrs. Myers has become so interested in the story of the little tintypes, that she is interested in meeting other people with antique tintypes they would like to share.

Country Modern Decor Pleasing Solution

By MARIE CANNING
Family News Staff
Contemplating a remodeling project? Deciding on what style of decor is best can be difficult. The country look is cozy and charming. But it doesn't have much to offer in the areas of efficiency and practicality. The contemporary look is sleek and functional. But it can be a bit sterile. A combination of the two styles offers an easy, eye-appealing solution. Interior designers of a large home furnishing company did just that with a kitchen and adjoining family room. They dubbed the decor, "country modern."

To create this new style in decor, the designers intertwined contemporary architecture with predominate colors in country decorating. Contemporary architecture is clean, simple and functional. A center island of three rectangular sections on wheels, used in the design, best illustrates this idea. The surfaces are all wipe-clean and there's plenty of storage. The wheels fold up into a compact cube. The sections are hinged together and open up into three letter-shaped configurations: an S shape, an L shape and a U shape. For the country ingredient, the designers used four colors to complete their look. The colors were reddish brown, teal blue, wheat and black.

To start things off, a "ceramic tile" floor of wheat and cinnabar (reddish brown) was selected. The floor serves as a unifying element. By being used throughout the space, it ties the family room and kitchen together. In the family room, the floor is topped with a wheat-colored, or honey-beige, area rug.

The kitchen cabinets were two-toned, using sky blue accented with bands of deeper teal blue. The center island was colored teal on the outside and sky blue on the inside and on top.

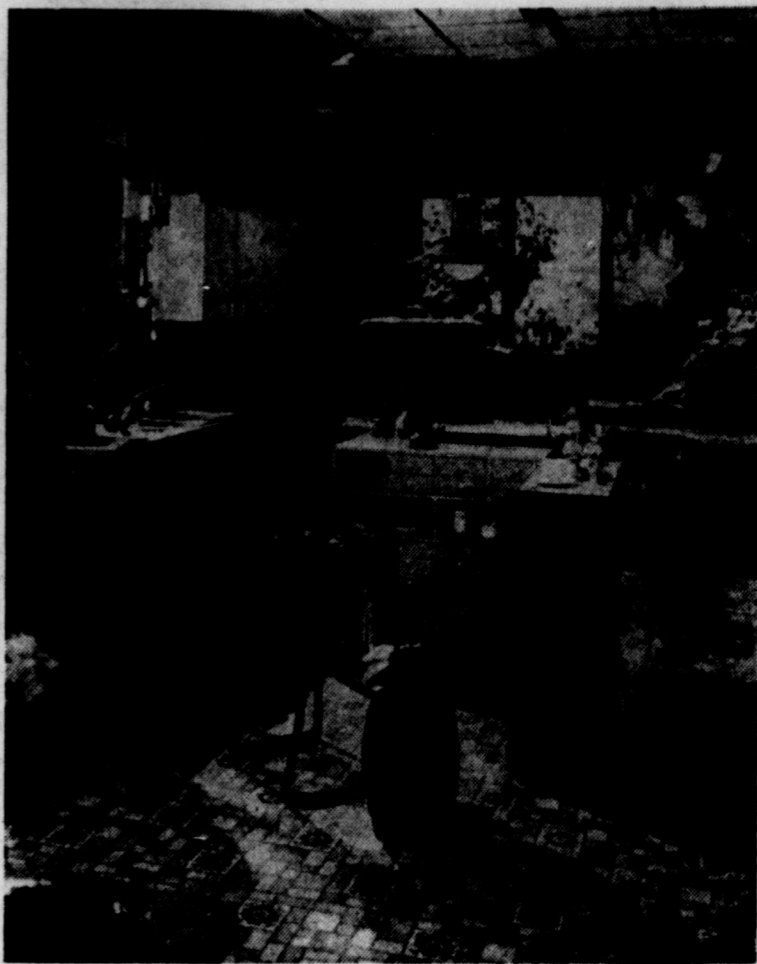

Adding more country to the contemporary room, teal, sky blue, wheat and cinnabar were combined in a floral wallpaper pattern with matching fabric for the family room chaises and window shades.

Rounding out the color scheme, black appears in the onyx kitchen appliances — range, refrigerator and dishwasher.

Bits of Americana were strategically placed around the area — reed baskets, spice boxes, weather vanes, tinware, a miniature log cabin, pottery and earthenware — to give an additional country touch.

To echo the contemporary flavor of the architecture, a chrome hanging lamp was placed over the center island in the kitchen.

The finished product — a cozy, practical living area.

ANN LANDERS:

Finances Worry Owing Wife

Dear Ann: My husband and I are having a disagreement about our finances. I say we are in trouble. He says we are just fine. Since we don't know any experts on this subject, will you please check with yours and let us know how we are doing? We are a family of four. My husband makes $25,000 a year. We have two cars, both paid for. We owe $7,000 on our house, $3,000 on some resort property, $4,300 on various loans and $1,200 on our credit card. (Our credit card balance is $200 over limit.)

Ann, I am against all debt but in this day and age it is almost impossible to be debt-free. Should I relax about our situation, or do I have reason to be concerned? — Cash Only, Please

Dear Cash: I don't have to check with anybody to know you are in trouble.

You are paying interest on $15,500 in loans, running two cars and have two kids to feed, clothe and educate. You don't mention any savings, so I assume you have none.

For heaven's sake, go to the bank where you do business and sit down with an advisor. (This service is free.) Get on a pay-back and savings program before you find yourselves so deep in debt you will never get out.

letter — the guilty party will know who he is:

You Skunk: I hope you had a peaceful sleep the other night. It's hard to imagine how you could after what you did. I watched you pull to the side of the road, open the door and shove your dog out into the cold. Then you nonchalantly drove away as if you had just dropped off your garbage at the dump. You probably think some kind soul picked him up. Well, no such luck.

Your pet wandered into the traffic hoping to make it to the other side. He shuttled between lanes, not knowing which way to go. Cars swerved and horns blared as other motorists tried to avoid hitting him. He was struck by one car and then another. Still alive, he dragged himself a few yards before he was mercifully put out of his pain when a third car struck him.

My children, who saw the whole incident, were horrified. They kept asking, "Why did that man let his dog get killed?" I couldn't give them an answer. We wept together as we moved the dog to the side of the road.

People like you make me sick. — Disgusted And Furious

Dear Friend: Here's your letter. Thanks for saying it.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is for the girl with the "terrible posture" whose mother drove her crazy. The poor kid came from a family of military — West Point graduates, Marines — the works. They probably beat her down and tried to get her to conform to the rigid standards they were accustomed to. Like most young people, the more they harped the more she rebelled.

I would like to suggest that parents urge young girls with poor posture to take ballet lessons. They can start at any age. It will strengthen the muscles all over the body. (Did you ever see a ballet dancer who slouched?) Girls don't want to look like tin soldiers. They want to appear feminine and graceful.

I hope you will find room in your space to print this and get the word out. Thanks so much. — Concerned Grandmother With Experience

Dear Grandma: I found the space — and here's your letter. Thanks a heap.

HINTS FROM HELOISE:

Freezer Space, Dishes Saved

DEAR HELOISE:
When making a casserole for the freezer, spray the dish (ovenware) with non-stick vegetable spray, then line the dish with foil.

When frozen, remove the food from the dish and wrap tightly in foil or place in a plastic bag. Replace in the freezer.

Less freezer space will be required for storage and the dish is available for other cooking.

When ready to bake, the casserole can be slipped right back into the original dish without thawing. — Opal Temple

Smart hint! Especially considering most of us don't have an abundance of ovenware dishes. And, don't you hate to need one and find it's in the freezer? Thanks for a real winner, Opal. — Heloise

SEWING BUTTONS

DEAR HELOISE:
Before sewing on a row of buttons, place each one exactly where it belongs and hold it there with a strip of clear, sticky tape.

After the first few stitches through buttons are made, rip tape off, then continue sewing. — Tiny W

LETTER OF LOVE

DEAR HELOISE:
My friend, Barb, never ceases to amaze me with her knowledge of how to stretch money and make do with what she has.

I told her she should share some of her secrets with you and she said that's who she gets most of her ideas from in the first place! — Teri Dougherty

You're a real sweetheart for taking the time to write and for sharing a giggle. Together we'll all knock this inflation thing down to size yet! Hugs to both you and Barb. — Heloise

NYLON NET

DEAR HELOISE:
Nylon net again...

I found using a square of nylon net, instead of a sponge, to clean a spot on one's carpets or upholstered furniture does a much better and quicker job. It makes more of a suds and less water and doesn't get the carpet or whatever as damp. — Mrs. N.M. Dixon

SPRAY BOTTLES

DEAR HELOISE:
I think I have found the solution to the problem of spray-type bottles that have a too-short spray tube.

Take the cap and plunger off and just slide a flexible plastic straw over the existing tubing. Make sure the elbow of the straw is near the bottom.

Put the whole thing back in the bottle and you can use the cleaner down to the last drop. — Mrs. Z

BE PREPARED

DEAR HELOISE:
I keep a supply of postal cards in my purse — ready to copy addresses and/or requests for information, or to enter contests, etc.

Saves re-copying the info later and less chance of mislaying the item. Saves on postage and envelopes too. — Mrs. Eva Pedersen

FOR THE BLIND

DEAR HELOISE:
I learned in nursing school an easy way to help anyone, including a blind person, remember which side of the top sheet goes up on a bed. We were taught the smooth side of the hem always goes next to the patient, or occupant.

Therefore, if the sheet is a print which is fainter on one side, that wrong side faces the bedspread and the pretty side faces the sleeper. — Lois Henry

Bill Amendment Attempt Fails

A-Justin Bureau
AUSTIN — State Rep. Froy Salinas, D-Lubbock, Wednesday failed in an attempt to amend legislation providing for an emergency pay raise for state employees to ensure sufficient increases for employees at the lower end of the salary scale.
Salinas' amendment would have altered Senate Bill 1 to provide an across-the-board pay raise of $100 for all state employees. That bill, as passed by the Senate, would provide for a 8.8 percent pay hike, with a minimum increase of $50.
The House Wednesday passed an amended version of that bill to provide for a 5.1 percent increase, with a $75 minimum.

"I was trying to make sure that the folks who need it (the pay increase) the most, those at the low end of the scale, get enough," Salinas said. He added that his amendment was particularly aimed at helping employees of the Lubbock State School, where turnover has been high in recent months.
Salinas' amendment was tabled by a vote of 74 to 67, but Salinas said the amendment, sponsored by Austin Rep. Gonzalo Barrientos, increasing the minimum increase to $75 will help solve the problem he was trying to address.
Lubbock Rep. Nolan "Buzz" Robnett voted in favor of Salinas' amendment, but Brownfield Rep. Jim Rudd voted to table it.

Proposal Draws Mixed Reactions

committee to resolve the differences, he said.
Short noted the governor and both houses of the legislature agree that a total state employee salary raise over the next biennium should total 14 percent.
"They just disagree on what they want to give now (the first part of the biennium)" he said, explaining that the emergency hike will be included in the 14 percent total.
Robnett, who voted for the 5.1 percent increase, said the House battle Wednesday over the bill included the presentation of "a lot of...emotional speeches." He said he believes the 5.1 figures is "reasonable," adding Clements has promised to veto anything over that amount anyway.
Salinas approved the 5.1 hike but supported a $100 across the board pay raise which would benefit workers on the lower end of the pay scale.
But he said the 5.1 figure is not a bad one because it guarantees a $75 minimum raise which will help out low-salary employees. The Senate's 8.8 percent proposal included only a $50 minimum.
The state representative noted that "the Senate's version of the bill would cost $110 million compared to the $93 million that would be spent for the House measure.

'Idolmaker' Marcucci Still Looking For Stars

By WILLIAM D. KERNS
A-J Entertainment Editor

Robert Marcucci is now recognized on the West Coast as the president of Romar Records, a joint venture with MGM Records and reportedly one of the industry's fastest growing young labels. But in reality, Bob Marcucci is still doing the same thing that made him famous and rich 20 years ago.

He's looking for stars. Two decades back, Marcucci's was the hand guiding singers like Frankie Avalon and Fabian to pop star status. Today, he's busy talking about a movie based on his life, "The Idolmaker." Contacted at his Los Angeles office, he explained that he fed information to both the writer and director throughout filming, which is why he's given screen credit as a technical advisor. "No one is ever totally captured on screen," he said, "but this movie is the essence of Bob Marcucci."

Asked if he really got that much of a thrill out of being in the background, molding stars but never sharing the public glory, he said, "It's the greatest satisfaction one could have in the entire world. Aside from the birth of my children, I've experienced no better thrill."

But the music industry has changed a lot in the past 20 years, and Marcucci has noted the transformation. In the first place, it's tougher to get new records played on the radio these days. "There's all sorts of new rules and regulations," he noted, "whereas in 1959, say, you could press a few thousand copies of a record on Monday, distribute them yourself on Tuesday and have radio stations playing them the same day."

Of course, one way record producers and managers accomplished this was by offering bribes to disc jockies, which is even pointed out in one scene in "The Idolmaker." So to what extent was Marcucci involved?

Pointing out once more that the film is but a fictionalized biography, he answered, "Payola was a big part of that era. There's no denying that. But I didn't bribe the jocks with money. I guess my form of payola was that I would agree to take the artists and do the record hops. That's what I did."

Another change, if only to a small extent, is the importance placed on a star's physical appearance. Marcucci's character in the film, brilliantly portrayed by Ray Sharkey, states more than once that teen-agers didn't want blondes or sexually threatening singing idols. They wanted dark-haired men who were cute, adorable faces to stare down at them from posters on bedroom walls. It was "the look" Marcucci sought in the 1950s and '60s.

But now Marcucci says there's a difference between "a look" and being "good looking."

"Check out your stars today. A lot of times, the most important thing is charisma. Like I just saw Bruce Springsteen again in the 'No Nukes' picture. Nobody's really going to call him good looking, but he's loaded with charisma. Jackson Browne's the same way. What you're looking for is a 'look' that's distinctive. Like John Travolta is just good looking, and Robert Redford is great looking — but they both stand out."

"And what about Charles Bronson? He's not pretty, but people are going to remember his face."

The film shows the Marcucci character pretty much single-handedly transforming raw talent like Tommy Dee and Cesare (actually Frankie Avalon and Fabian) into musical success stories. Both eventually rebel against their manager, just as Avalon and Fabian left Marcucci in real life. But asked what the singers' reactions were to the film, the former manager said only, "I don't know their reactions."

"We haven't kept in contact. But I sure don't see anything degrading in the film that should upset them."

Still, Bob Marcucci did experience a little personal introspective pain while watching the finished film. He's happy the picture was made, but still noted, "It's very difficult to relive your life again, to see parts of yourself that you didn't like. It was painful to watch certain scenes, like the one in which Cesare comes home, because that was very close to what happened to me. I saw a part of me that I didn't like, a part of me that is no longer with me."

"I never really believed I was using my boys just to advance myself, but I guess maybe we were both using each other. I know we weren't using each other maliciously, though."

"I guess all managers are stage mothers to an extent: pushy and protective. And there is a vicarious thrill in seeing your boys become big stars, too. But things have changed. I've changed."

At least in some ways. Bob Marcucci is still in the business of discovering, selling and creating stars — and he refused to let the interview end without insisting that I provide his office address. "Tell everyone out there who thinks he has talent to send me a resume, a picture and a tape, addressed to Bob Marcucci at P.O. Box 69506, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. I'm serious."

Told he would probably be swamped with starry-eyed letters and cassette tapes from country, rock, folk and even punk singers, Marcucci just laughed. "That's great. That's what I want. Do you think all the stars come out of LA? No way. There's a lot of talent in untapped markets, and the secret is in locating these people. Right now, I wouldn't be surprised if there was a lot of talent just waiting to be discovered in West Texas."

You get the picture. Bob Marcucci is forever on the lookout for another idol worth creating.

The Mann Fourplex will offer its final two screenings of "The Idolmaker" tonight. The theater is surprisingly pulling the picture after just one week's run, but at least one other local theater manager has said he plans to try to bring it back as soon as possible.

AN ADDED NOTE: Showplace Six will offer a sneak preview of "The Competition," starring Richard Dreyfuss and Amy Irving, at 9:15 p.m. Friday. Patrons can pay to see the early screening of Robert Altman's "Popeye," then stay to see "The Competition" free of charge.

"The Competition" will not open its commercial run at Showplace Six until Feb. 13.

THE SUPERMARKET SHOPPER

By MARTIN SLOANE

DEAR SUPERMARKET SHOPPER — Some mothers with young children don't think it is worth their time to start couponing and refunding. But even with babies in the house, I find these activities to be very worthwhile.

Last week a local store to double the value of coupons. I purchased $111.04 worth of groceries for only $40.06.

My savings weren't over since I was able to send for several refunds with the box tops and labels I got from this shopping trip. One of these refunds helped to bring the cost of 24 jars of Beechnut Baby Food down to only $1.08.

This is the kind of savings that any young mother would appreciate. — Wendy W. from Akron, Ohio.

DEAR WENDY — I hope that every mother concerned about the high prices of baby food and disposable diapers will stop complaining and start couponing and refunding.

There is a steady supply of valuable coupons and refund offers on these two important products. As your letter shows, a smart shopper can really take advantage of them.

Obtaining 24 jars of baby food at net cost of only $1.08 is an accomplishment that is certainly worth working for.

DEAR SUPERMARKET SHOPPER — With turkey prices so high, I didn't think that I could stretch my budget far enough to afford one last Thanksgiving. So, I pleasantly surprised when a friend brought me a turkey.

How could I repay such a generous act? I thought about it for a while and then began going through my refund forms. I soon found a cash refund that required a proof from the turkey and another from a product that I already had.

It was a tremendous pleasure to put my friend's name and address on the form, knowing that she would be surprised with a $2 refund for her kindness — Miran from St. Paul, Minn.

DEAR MIRAN — Thank you for a beautiful letter illustrating one of the many ways in which refunding can be meaningful to us.

RUNAWAY LAUNCH
SEATTLE (AP) — A Coast Guard helicopter and patrol boat were searching Wednesday for two men who apparently took a Navy motor launch in Elliott Bay, rammed a Coast Guard boat and another vessel and then smashed into pilings on Harbor Island. "We're unsure if they jumped into water before impact or what," said Coast Guard officer Bob Helle. He said a helicopter was called to help a 41-foot Coast Guard boat search the West Duwamish Waterway.

Administration To Review Soviet Grain Embargo

By Reuters
WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture John Block said President Reagan's cabinet will review the U.S.S.R. grain embargo, probably next week. Block said the question of the grain embargo came up earlier this week at a cabinet meeting in which Edwin Meese, counselor to the president, suggested that the National Security Council consider future grain trade with the Soviet Union.

However, Block said he argued that the question should be considered in a broader forum, with opinions from all members of the cabinet.

"I have not changed my mind about the embargo," Block said at his first press conference since taking office. "It is doomed to failure and needs to be lifted, but I don't know how or when."

Block promised that the question of the embargo will be dealt with swiftly by the Reagan administration but he said he could not predict how long it will take to develop a new policy.

He acknowledged that there were different perspectives within the cabinet concerning the embargo. At his confirmation hearing, Secretary of State Alexander Haig expressed doubt that the embargo would be lifted.

Block said he did not expect a decision on lifting the embargo to be made at next week's cabinet meeting but added an agreement might be developed on how to handle the question.

"There is more to it than saying, 'You all come on over and buy what we have,'" Block said.

The secretary was asked if he would have veto power over possible future embargoes. He said he expected to have an adequate, full and fair hearing on any trade matters.

"I will strongly argue that any future embargoes will be under the most extreme circumstances and will include everything," Block said. "I do not expect to (make the argument)."

On other matters, Block said the Reagan administration still is aiming for a four-year farm bill to replace current legislation, which expires this year.

Block said he realized it will be a tight squeeze to get a four-year bill because of other pressing business, in cluding cutting the cost of government, but added that he intended to try for a four-year bill.

The secretary said the highest priority of the whole Reagan administration is to bring government spending under control.

He said he was not sure if the target price concept will be maintained in farm programs and added that the normal crop acreage provision will not be maintained.

"The program (normal crop acreage) puts restrictions on planting decisions," Block said. "I would like to let the marketplace work, providing more freedom for farmers to make their own planting decisions."

Responding to other questions, Block said farm programs will not be gutted in the administration's drive to cut costs. But all programs are under review and costly programs, such as the dairy program, the growth in the Farmers Home Administration, the Rural Electric Administration program and food programs, will be closely scrutinized, he said.

The food programs are an area where there appears to be room for some contraction, he said, adding: "We want to provide assistance for the truly needy but costs in the program have to be controlled."

Block said soil erosion and land use is a major concern but said the federal government cannot provide all the answers.

State governments need to get more involved in controlling erosion and providing guidance for efficient and acceptable land use, with the federal government helping to strengthen programs related to best management practices for lands, he said.

Further research will be needed to provide efficient food production to meet the growing demand expected in the coming years, Block said.

"We need to maintain research to improve farming techniques," he said.

Block said he is not opposed to alcohol fuel programs and the announcement this week of a hold on current and future funds for the alcohol loan program resulted from an apparent need for an investigation of previous loans.

"They (alcohol fuels) have a place," he said. "They need to be given a chance to help us as we try to find substitutes for petroleum products."

The secretary said he generally opposes bilateral agreements concerning agricultural trade. He said he could understand the agreement with China but finds it harder to justify the pact recently concluded with Mexico.

There is a potential for growth in U. S. farm exports, he said, specifically citing Far East countries — especially South Korea, Indonesia and China — as well as East European and South and Central American countries.

Block said he is a firm believer in the free trade concept, where market forces set the level of trade.

He was asked if he expected the United States to recapture its former share of trade with Iran.

"Now that the hostages are home, he said, the United States will have to work out its relations with Iran."

"Eventually trade (between the United States and Iran) will pick up but I can't tell when," he said.

Area Producers Attend Farm Bureau Meeting

Four area producers attended a Texas Farm Bureau legislative and leadership conference this week in Austin.

Wendell Barrick of Abernathy, Earl Foerster and Milton Piwonka, both of Slaton, and Thurman Neill of Idalou were among more than 700 TFB leaders from across the state to attend the event.

The group met with the Texas House Agriculture Committee chairman Leroy Wieting of Portland and Speaker of the House Bill Clayton of Springlake.

American Farm Bureau president Bob Delano told the participants the main problems of the 1980s will be energy, inflation, depleting water supplies, transportation, taxation and agriculture's declining political influence.

Delano said he believes the grain embargo will be gradually lifted by mid-1981 if the Soviets do not invade Poland. He also said the disaster program will probably be continued through an act of Congress because of its "political popularity."

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

A NUMBER OF HIGH PLAINS COTTON industry officials were elected to leadership posts in the National Cotton Council at the NCC's 43rd annual meeting this week in Atlanta.

Robert H. Squires of Lubbock is the new president of Cotton Council International, the overseas division of the NCC. He is in charge of export sales for the Plains Cotton Cooperative Association.

C. L. Boggs, Lubbock cooperative executive, was elected treasurer of CCI and Rufus Grisham, also of Lubbock, was named a new director. Frank Jones, Lamesa cotton grower, was re-elected to the CCI board.

Jones also was elected secretary of the NCC's Producer Steering Committee. Returned as chairman of the committee was Carl Weiler of Laveen, Ariz.

W. B. Criswell of Idalou was chosen as a regional director from the Southwest to the producer group and also was elected by the producer caucus to the NCC board. W. E. Bonham of Roswell was named a member of the Producer Steering Committee from New Mexico.

ALSO ELECTED TO THE FULL NCC BOARD were Dixon White of Lubbock, representing cottonseed crushers, and Rex McKinney, also of Lubbock, representing cooperatives.

Jerry Harris of Lamesa was elected chairman of the Texas unit of the NCC and Adolph Hanslik of Lubbock was named secretary. Eugene B. Smith Jr. of Dallas is vice chairman.

The New Mexico unit is headed by Ralph Hackey of Rincon, chairman; Don Russell of Roswell, vice chairman; and Wesley McClendon of Deming, secretary.

President of the NCC in 1981 will be Mississippi cotton producer Frank M. Mitchener Jr. He has been council treasurer for the past two years and formerly was chairman of the Bale Packaging Committee and The Cotton Foundation.

Mitchener, of Sumner, Miss., has served on the International Cotton Advisory Committee and the United Nations Committee on Trade and Development.

He succeeds Herman A. Propst of Anson, who now is NCC board chairman. Replacing Mitchener as treasurer is Lloyd Cline of Lamesa.

STRONG SUPPORT FOR A MARKET-ORIENTED farm program was voiced by Propst in his final address as head of the industry organization. He told the convention that decisions by council delegates could well determine the type of farm policy they will operate under through the mid-1980s.

"We can either choose a cotton program that allows producers the freedom to respond to market signals in making their planting decisions," the Texas Low Plains grower said, "or we can choose one that puts planting decisions in the hands of government and lets government determine our acreage and market price."

Propst said his own account books have convinced him that the market-oriented system is preferable, even though he is among farmers who have experienced disastrous crop years because of drought or other weather-related problems.

"That's something no farm program can truly solve," he added.

The retiring council president warned industry leaders to resist any efforts for a simple one-year extension of the 1977 farm act, pointing out that this would bring new farm legislation to the floor of Congress just before the 1982 elections.

"WE KNOW FROM EXPERIENCE THAT an election eve is no time to write a farm bill," Propst said. The NCC leader also reminded delegates of the necessity for maintaining a unified position on farm policy decisions.

"If we go into Washington divided and unable to agree among ourselves on what we want, we're apt to be saddled with provisions that are designed to fit wheat and other grains but simply won't work well at all for cotton," he said.

He also urged a redoubling of efforts for full implementation of the 1977 farm act's Title XIV, which he said provides the framework for achieving adequate agricultural research but has never been totally put into effect.

Propst said council economists see a strong possibility of an average cotton offtake of 13 million to 14 million bales in the next five years.

"But only three times in the last 15 years have we produced as much as 13 million bales," he said, "and only twice have we produced 14 million."

PROPT URGED "WHOLEHEARTED" industry support of President Reagan's efforts to bring inflation under control, acknowledging that actions will be required that will be unpopular in certain quarters.

"If we don't get the problem of inflation behind us, then it doesn't make any difference what kind of goals we set for the future or what kind of policies we pursue," he added. "During this difficult period, we in the cotton industry must resolve to be good citizens."

Reviewing activities of the past year, Propst hailed the securing of more than $8 million in total cotton dust research funds for fiscal 1981 as a major accomplishment. He noted that this was more than double the funding of a year ago.

"If we persist in our all-out support of this research and if we see it through to a successful conclusion, as I am sure we will, then history will record this as another landmark decision by a resourceful people," he said.

While a Supreme Court decision regarding the Occupational Safety and Health Administration's unreasonable cotton dust standard is expected this summer, Propst said, the industry must stick by its own decision of last year to pursue a lasting solution to the dust problem through accelerated research.

Dimmitt To Host Corn Growers Association Meet

A-J Correspondent
DIMMITT — Dimmitt will host the eighth annual meeting of the Texas Corn Growers Association Friday with an lineup of public officials, agricultural experts and others associated with the corn industry.

"Marketing for High Prices" will be the convention theme, and the emphasis will be on exports, gasohol production, market research, and the farm policies of the Reagan administration.

Growers from throughout the North Texas corn region will be here to meet with federal and state officials, international grain traders, industrialists and experts in agricultural economics, marketing, transportation, cost analysis, irrigation management, entomology, legislation and research.

YOU'RE PULLING MY LEG — Harlem Globetrotter star Twigg Sanders got a lift from teammates and trainer Ron Stjernholm during a recent performance. The Harlem Globetrotters will perform at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Lubbock Coliseum. Tickets are on sale at Sears, Furr's Family Center, all Flipside Records locations and the Coliseum box office.

Brooks' 'By The Book Blues' Fails To Impress A-J Critic

By WILLIAM D. KERNS
A-J Entertainment Editor

Much has been made of a Washington Post music critic calling Lonnie Brooks "the most exciting new talent in blues." But during his second of three sets performed Tuesday night at Fat Dawg's, the blues guitarist seemed distracted and uninspired, showing a lot of talent but generating very little excitement.

One listener, perhaps accurately, described the set as "by the book blues, something fast and something slow," but there just wasn't enough feeling behind it.

I arrived at the club at 11 p.m., and an intermission was already underway. It was at least 40 minutes before Brooks' four-piece band took the stage and soloed for almost 15 minutes. Then at nearly midnight, Brooks was introduced and, after a short demonstration of his guitar prowess, he took time out to introduce the members of his band. They then took turns doing more solos, including a lengthy drum set which almost put me to sleep.

Already it's after midnight. I've been at the club for more than an hour, the band's been on stage for 30 minutes and Brooks has yet to really start performing.

However, there followed two songs from Brooks' excellent 1979 LP called "Bayou Lightning." The first, "In The Dark," was a powerhouse display of blues guitar, earthy vocals and stage savvy. A relatively slow number, it concentrated more on mood than flash, actually introducing us to a man and his cheating woman before setting Brooks free to fire off impressive guitar shots.

The entire band played as a tight, solid unit, magnifying each possible effect.

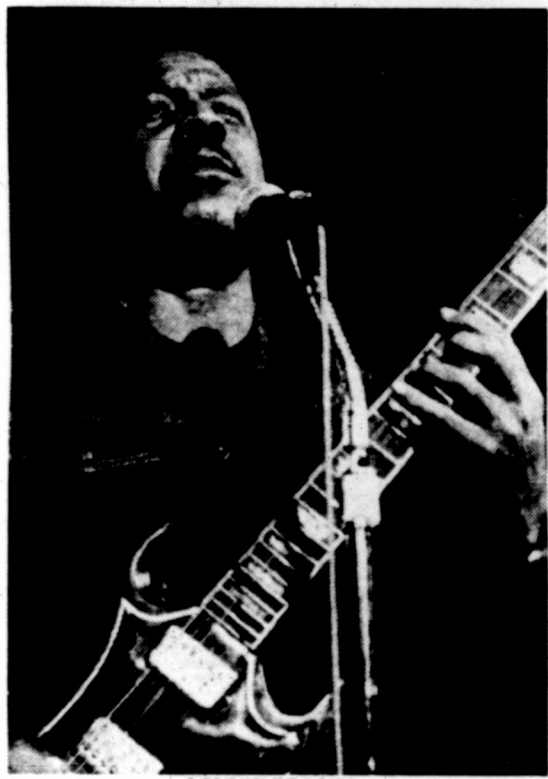

On "Watchdog," Brooks started with a high energy performance, but then became more interested in playing only to special friends at a table next to the stage. He seemed to ignore the rest of the audience in favoring this one table, and in a club already as small as Fat Dawg's that's dangerous. Walking into the crowd or sitting at the table while playing guitar had no effect whatsoever, since he immediately became a lost figure.

The club had no spotlights with which to follow him.

And then, surprisingly enough, the set was over. Brooks announced another intermission, and made his exit via a fine rendition of rock and roll's "Whole Lotta Shakin' Going On." It was only 12:25 in the morning.

Now no one would be foolish enough to deny the talent of Lonnie Brooks, nor of backup musicians like bassist Harlan Terson or electric guitarist Bob Lewis. But if the second set Tuesday was indicative of his whole show, then this acclaimed master of Chicago blues was shortchanging his fans. He wasn't on stage long enough, and he never really worked at involving his entire audience.

One friend at the club told me when I walked in that the last set is always the best set at any show. But on Tuesday I was, frankly, too disappointed in what I'd already seen to stick around for more. The third set might have been brilliant, but by the end of the second I was no longer willing to take the chance.

Tech Employee Charged With Misconduct

A former Texas Tech University maintenance employee Wednesday was charged with official misconduct in the reported December construction of a gasoline tank which he is accused of converting to his own use.

Homer James Phillippe, 38, of Wolf-forth, former Tech assistant superintendent of planned maintenance, is accused of having a gasoline tank valued at $150 built Dec. 2, 1980 in the university machine shop and then installing it on his pickup truck.

The criminal district attorney's office recommended that bond be set at $2,500.

Child's Brutal Death Poses Painful Questions

By WAYNE SLATER
 QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — Alan Madden was pummeled for perhaps four hours before he died, at times with fists, at times with a wooden club wrapped with gauze and labeled "The Big Stick." He was 5 years old.

Police found his frail body on the living room floor, his blond hair red with blood, his hands bruised from trying to deflect the blows.

"Probably he did something an average little kid does, write on the wall or something. That's all it takes," said a former social worker who had urged that the shy kindergartener not be returned home because she feared "there's going to be a dead kid."

Alan died Jan. 10. His mother and a boyfriend are charged with murder. But since his death, talk has centered not so much on those who may have killed him, but on those who did not.

"On the uncle, who now says he would have told anybody about the bruises he saw — but nobody asked."

"On the school principal, who went through all the proper channels when Alan came to kindergarten with blackened eyes."

"On the assistant state's attorney 100 miles away, confident that when investigators lay the blame they'll find 'everybody did their job' by the rules in his county."

"On neighbors who say they never heard the screaming."

"On the judge, who says he was shown no evidence of child abuse before he ordered Alan returned to his mother last August.

"The whole system should be torn apart to find out what went wrong," said state Rep. Mike McClain, who's called for an investigation of the Department of Children and Family Services, the state agency responsible for abuse cases.

Alan, described by a grandfather as "a sweet kid," got lost in the bureaucracy, falling victim to a tragic series of reports never forwarded, questions never asked, evidence never given.

His mother, Pam Berg, quit high school, married a sometime factory worker named Gerald Madden and was still in her teens when daughter Tina was born seven years ago. She was dark-haired and attractive, and reportedly had a fiery temper and a habit of holding lighted cigarettes out for Tina to touch.

"When I asked her why she did that, she said it was to teach her not to grab for lighted things," recalled former Knox County Deputy John Mackey, who investigated bruises on Tina's back and buttocks in 1975.

The Madden marriage ended shortly after Alan was born, each parent accusing the other in court of beating the children. In truth, "They took turns beating on those kids," said the former social worker, who asked that her name not be used.

"I remember little Tina waking up with nightmares screaming 'Don't, Mommy, don't!' I saw bruises that were suspicious on those kids and was very much against either parent getting the kids," said uncle Charles Kruger, who kept Alan and Tina for several months in 1976 hall and asked that he docket the case. "He said, 'Yes, yes, contact the state's attorney.'"

It was the mother who finally got it on the docket. She returned from Colorado a couple years ago with a new boyfriend, a new daughter named Nichole and, she said, a new interest in her two older children.

Hearings were held. The former deputy wasn't called to tell what he knew. The uncle wasn't asked about abuse. Problems in the past were either blamed on the father or not discussed at all.

"She was very neat looking. She said she was going to school," said Richardson, whose hearings dealt only with the mother's interest in the children, where she would live and how she would pay for food and clothes.

"The definition of a parent in our society is someone who owns a home, needs to have some education and has some interest in their children. And she met the qualifications," said the former social worker.

Last August, Alan and Tina were returned to their mother, who was living with James Crain, 26. In October, on the day of the kindergarten class photograph, Alan came to school with his face so bruised he couldn't be in the picture. Principal Rick Baldwin alerted the local DCF's office.

"He was such a shy, quiet little kid," Baldwin said. "I couldn't see any reason to be mad at him, much less beat him."

Baldwin later called the DCF's again. A neighbor, hearing screams, called police, but everything was kept confidential, filed away. "Keeping the family together is our primary goal," said Tim Morrell, local DCF's supervisor.

In December, just three weeks before Alan was killed, the Quincy office mailed a routine report to Richardson. It said the family was doing fine.

Hundreds came to the funeral, strangers mostly. His mother was in jail, his father somewhere in California. Tina, who investigators say was told to watch TV while her brother lay dying on the floor, was back in a foster home, as was Nichole.

Relatives didn't claim the body, which would have required they pay for the funeral, so the town donated a new set of clothes and a plot beneath a stand of evergreen trees in Graceland Cemetery.

Alan was buried with his teddy bear in a small blue coffin donated by strangers.

BEATEN TO DEATH — Alan Madden sits on the lap of his sister Tina in a 1976 photo. His body was found at home Jan. 11. He had been pummeled for hours, the last in a series of beatings he suffered during his brief life. Relatives who had neglected him in life, abandoned him in death, and the community of Quincy, Ill., donated a coffin and cemetery plot for his burial. (AP Laserphoto)

Talking Cars Stressing Politeness, No Nagging

CARSON, Calif. (AP) — There's little doubt that cars are going to be talking to you in the near future. Peter Harris just wants to be sure they don't nag.

Harris is national product development manager for Datsun, which has just introduced a car with a soothing feminine voice which says "Please turn off the lights" when a driver opens his door and hasn't.

"You have to tailor this to be informative," Harris said. "The car should not tell you what to do, but should tell you what happened so you can react in whatever way need be."

Although "Please turn off the lights" is the Datsun 810's entire conversational repertoire, Harris says people are likely to hear more from their cars in the near future.

"There is certainly a lot of talk in government about making cars safer," Harris says, adding that when the company wondered what could help the driver be as safe as possible "we realized that a vocalized warning would be a super way to go."

He says it is not a new idea: "The military has used this sort of vocalized backup in some of its fighter aircraft."

But Harris says Datsun doesn't want its cars to chatter.

"We want to restrict this to safety-oriented things," Harris said, adding that voiced warnings might also be useful for security, as in "Please take the keys" or potential damage, as in "The oil pressure is dropping."

Initial customer reaction to the voice feature of the 810 has been very positive, Harris said, and other "sensible" sentences may be included on forthcoming Datsun models.

The 810, a luxury sedan or station wagon which costs about $10,000, delivers its light reminder from a baseball-sized device in the dashboard that houses a tiny record and needle.

"I honestly cannot tell you why they did it that way," Harris said, referring to the Tokyo engineers who developed the micro-turntable. "It's a little record with a needle on it. They found this was the best way to go at this time. It is a recorded voice. It is not synthesized."

When Harris told a psychiatrist about the talking car, he got a mixed reaction.

"He expressed some horror at first and we got chatting about it and his advice was that one has to be very careful how the cars talk to you," Harris said.

The psychiatrist told Harris that "the car is one of the last bastions of solitude where somebody can go and escape from other people. For example, if you had a fight with your lady that morning, you certainly don't want to jump in your car and have that nagging you as well," Harris said.

Auto Show Fueled On Hope

MAUMEE, Ohio (AP) — Clay Hepler watched workmen roll out a broad red carpet on the exhibition hall floor, smiled a wide salesman's smile and declared it was a good time to be pushing new cars.

"We're going to bring the folks right down this red carpet and into the hall — into this atmosphere of bright, shiny, beautiful cars," he said.

Such optimism pervades the Toledo Automobile Dealers Association annual new car show, which opened Wednesday.

Dotting the exhibit hall were small signs that urged: "Keep Toledo Rolling — Buy a New Car Now" — a reminder that high interest rates, declining U.S. car sales and rising prices were aggravating an 11 percent unemployment rate in a city linked to the auto industry's fate.

Hours before the opening, Hepler, executive vice president of the association, looked on as finishing touches were put on the wares of some 30 dealers.

Glistening wheels were polished. Gleaming hoods were waxed. Even tires were washed clean of the last traces of grime. The odor of new cars filled the air.

Hepler knows the problems of the auto industry. But he says dealers have driven over the roughest.

"I'm looking forward to an upswing this spring. I really am," he said. "One of the biggest problems we've got today is that most people think the prime interest rate is the rate they have to pay for a car. It isn't."

"Prices are as low now as they're ever likely to be. And there are so many people who haven't bought cars for so long. Right now, half the cars on the road are over seven years old."

Tons Of Paper To Greet Hostages

NEW YORK (AP) — Computer cards, print-out sheets and other assorted paper — including 100 miles of now-rare ticker tape — will flutter down from office buildings on lower Broadway on Friday as New York pays its unique tribute to 23 former hostages.

But were it not for a Norwalk, Conn., firm, New York's welcome to the returning Americans would not be what Mayor Edward I. Koch has promised: the biggest ticker-tape parade in New York history.

Technically, it would not have been a ticker-tape parade at all.

Ticker tape has been in decidedly short supply since the mid-1960s when Wall Street financial houses discarded their old tickers for computerized electronic price displays and video screens.

So earlier this week Trans-Lux Corp. trucked 100 miles of yellow and white ticker tape from its Connecticut headquarters to Koch's office.

That tape, along with all the other paper, will shower down on the parade route as the former hostages ride through a section of lower Broadway known as "Hero's Canyon."

Many people who saw the great, pre-computer, ticker-tape parades for heroes like Lindbergh, MacArthur and Glenn say it won't be the same, since cards cannot duplicate the "blizzard effect" of ticker-tape streamers and punch-outs.

Even if today's office workers had ticker tape to throw, many of them would be frustrated by the fixed windows in modern office buildings.

Actor Discovered Own Handicap While Filming 'Inside Moves'

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's easy to look lame," said David Morse, who makes his film debut in "Inside Moves" as a crippled bartender with aspirations of becoming a professional basketball player.

"Looking like I knew how to play basketball was another matter," said the lanky 6-foot, 4-inch actor. "I was always terrible in sports."

Although basketball is a major element in the film, the heart of the story involves Morse's character, Jerry, a young man who discovers you don't have to be physically disabled to be crippled.

"I think one of the most attractive things about playing that character," said Morse, "was that it gave me something to put my own life up against. I learned I'm handicapped. Like Jerry, my handicap is more emotional than physical and comes across in relating to friends. I guess I have a little growing up to do."

When Morse heard from director Richard Donner that he had been picked to co-star with John Savage in "Inside Moves," he was "quietly terrified." It was the break he had been working toward, but he reacted cautiously.

"When I met Donner I was feeling very defensive," Morse recalled. "I'd been through a number of these things and you get so you just don't want to believe anything. I carried an attitude around of 'it doesn't matter,' convinced that nothing's going to happen. You go through a lot of years of this stuff before anything happens."

At 27, Morse has been a struggling actor for nine years. As soon as he graduated from high school in Hamilton, Mass., he entered a local stock theater company. The following year, he moved on to the Boston Repertory Theatre, where over a six-year period, he appeared in more than 50 roles.

Eventually, he mustered the courage to move to New York. But instead of working in theater, he spent the next two years studying drama with William Esper.

Like many up-and-coming entertainers, Morse started working as a bartender in a Manhattan night spot to support himself. That's what he was doing when he won the role in "Inside Moves."

"I find it a little hard to go back there now," Morse said. "It's not because they're not all good people because they are. Most of them are actors and writers and this is their dream, what they're working for."

"On one hand, it's wonderful to have it happen and be able to share it," he added. "But at the same time it puts something between you and them."

That something is spelled "success" and it creates distance wherever it appears, separating those who have it and those who don't.

"I don't feel successful," Morse interjected. "I'm not even sure what that means. You could say I'm a success because I got a break. But it has nothing to do with work. It's luck.

"There are thousands of people who work their butts off for years and they'll probably never get a break," he said. "Who knows why it happens to one person and doesn't happen to another?"

MX Lecture Slated On Campus At Tech

"A War Without Winners," a short film concerning nuclear war, plus a lecture on the proposed MX Missile System will be presented at 7:30 p.m. today at Texas Tech's University Center, Room 207.

The program, sponsored by South Plains Alternative Resources Coalition, will feature Dr. Michael Wenzler of Lubbock's MX Action Group. The coalition asks a donation of 25 cents.

School of Chiropractic in Davenport, needs more cadavers.

"When you've got 16 students crowded around one cadaver, it's hard to get anything out of it," said the state Senate's only chiropractor, Charles Miller, D-Burlington.

Two years ago, the Palmer school started a program urging people to donate their bodies to science.

PEOPLE PLACES THINGS

Pleads Guilty In Beating

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Robert McKeage has pleaded guilty to charges that he beat and kicked actress Melonie Haller after escorting her to a party at the Southampton mansion of producer Roy Radin last spring.

McKeage, a 42-year-old businessman, pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of second degree assault before Suffolk County Judge James White. He was expected to be sentenced to a year on probation starting March 16.

Miss Haller, who played a "sweathog" on the "Welcome Back, Kotter" TV series, charged she was raped and beaten during the weekend party.

No rape charge was filed. Last fall, Radin pleaded guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possession of a weapon and was fined $1,000 and placed on three years probation. His fiancée, Toni Fillet, and Karen Tracy of San Diego, pleaded guilty to misdemeanor charges of harassment.

Photographer Catches Reagan

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — While the rest of the Joffrey II Ballet Company dances, Ronald Reagan sidesteps interviews.

But the 22-year-old son of the president was unable to escape a campus photographer Monday at Miami University. She managed to get a shot of the aspiring dancer atop a washing machine.

As security was being tightened for an evening performance by the student company, Karen Lynch, a yearbook photographer, spotted a few men doing laundry in her dormitory basement. They were practicing pirouettes on the concrete floor while the clothes were being washed.

One turned out to be young Reagan, who obliged Miss Lynch by posing on a washing machine holding a box of detergent.

"It's exciting to have the son of a president in our company," said Maria Grandy, the company's associate director. "But he needs a certain privacy to keep his sense of career. He's just one of our dancers, and we need to coach him and protect him."

Mrs. Humphrey To Marry

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Muriel Humphrey, 68-year-old widow of former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, said Wednesday she plans to marry businessman Max Brown, a former high school classmate.

Mrs. Humphrey, who served briefly in the U.S. Senate after being appointed to succeed her late husband, said in a statement that the private ceremony would take place next month with only immediate family members attending.

Mrs. Humphrey, who visited her hometown of Huron, S.D., last September, grew up in the same neighborhood as Brown, who now lives in Lexington, Neb. They attended elementary and grade school together, graduating from Huron High School in 1930.

Brown's sister, Dona, of Huron, said the two never dated in high school but had remained good friends. "Our families have kept track of each other over the years," she said.

Both Mrs. Humphrey and Brown are widowed. Hubert Humphrey died Jan. 13, 1978, and Brown's wife, Vera, died in May 1979.

Governor Has Son

GOV. BOND

COLUMBIA, MO. (AP) — Gov. Christopher Bond and his wife, Carolyn, have announced the birth of their first child, Samuel Reid.

"I'm delighted," said the governor, who was in the delivery room Monday night with his 39-year-old wife.

Samuel, who weighed 7 pounds, 6 ounces at birth, is the couple's first child. He was not due until Feb. 22.

Mrs. Bond and the baby were in satisfactory condition at the University Medical Center, a spokesman said.

Fire Dispatch Inadequate

CLIFTON PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Town officials say they need a centralized fire dispatching service and they especially need it on Tuesday afternoon.

When a car caught on fire at a local supermarket Tuesday, the alarm was answered by the Mechanville Police, who activated Clifton Park's fire siren.

But when Clifton Park volunteer firemen got to their station and learned the fire was several miles away, they called the Saratoga County Sheriff's Department in nearby Ballston Spa. The Saratoga department operates a fire control office for the county.

At the scene, the Jonesville fire truck met the Clifton Park truck.

By the time they got there, though, the fire was out. A quick-thinking supermarket employee had extinguished the blaze. No one was hurt.

No Bucket Seats?

BONN, West Germany (AP) — A local firm has shipped two $50,000 custom-made falconing cars, equipped with padded thrones, to the Saudi Arabian royal family, it was reported Tuesday.

Built by the Miesien Company, the vehicles are equipped with special seats "tailored to the posterior proportions of the King (Khalid)," a company spokesman was quoted as saying by the General Anzeiger newspaper of Bonn.

The right arm rest of each royal seat is a bit lower than the left, because the king is said to prefer leaning to his right. Each sand-colored "falcon wagon" is also equipped with a padded, jute-covered perch that will accommodate 14 hunting birds.

Cottonseed Butter Developed

AUSTIN (AP) — There may be a peanut butter shortage, but don't despair. Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown has the answer: cottonseed butter.

Last summer's drought devastated the peanut crop, prices shot up and supplies of peanut butter dropped. But after 20 years of research, Texas scientists came up with cottonseed butter.

"This solves the peanut butter crisis," Brown said. "Texans will not have to stand in line to buy peanut butter."

Brown passed out samples of the gooey, sticky stuff at a news conference Tuesday. It tasted like the real thing.

Most cottonseeds have dark specks in them — glands — that contain a toxic pigment. The seeds are widely used as a food extender and additive after the pigment is removed first.

Glainless cottonseed kernels can be boiled and eaten as a vegetable, texturized and used as a meat extender or roasted as a snack with a "pleasing nutty flavor."

NBC Fails To Tackle CBS In Race Despite Super Bowl

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's prime-time broadcast of the Super Bowl football game was a runaway winner in the ratings competition for the week ending Jan. 25, but CBS made it seven weeks in a row as the No. 1 network with four of the five highest-rated shows.

Super Bowl XV, won by the Oakland Raiders over the Philadelphia Eagles, registered a rating of 44.4, eight points higher than the score for the runner-up program, CBS' "Dallas," figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

Nielsen says that means of all the nation's TV-equipped homes, 44.4 percent saw at least part of the football game on NBC.

The rating for the Super Bowl was lower than the 46.3 registered by CBS' broadcast last year of Super Bowl XIV between Pittsburgh and Los Angeles.

CBS' rating for the week was 20.2, to 19.9 for NBC and 18 for ABC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute, 20.2 percent of the homes with television were tuned to CBS.

CBS leads the opposition for the season to date by a substantial margin, nearly two full points by its own standard, seven-tenths of a point by NBC's. CBS and ABC claim the season started Oct. 27, NBC says it began Sept. 15.

CBS' "Evening News," meanwhile, reported its highest weekly rating in 11 years, 19. Ironically, the previous high, 19.5, was recorded in the same week of January 1970.

Nearly as impressive as CBS' run as the No. 1 network is the fact NBC now has been second in the ratings three times in the last month, after nine straight weeks in third place.

NBC had two other programs in the Top 10 in the most recent survey, including the Super Bowl post-game show in sixth place and "Little House on the Prairie" tied for seventh.

A special edition of ABC's "20-20," "America Held Hostage: The Secret Negotiations," was ninth in the standings, with the highest rating for the program this season — 24.6.

ABC scored with the "All-Star Inaugural Eve Gala," broadcast the evening before President Ronald Reagan's inauguration, 13th in the ratings, and with an episode from the new series "Dynasty," tied for 19th place.

A CBS News special on the release of the American hostages in Iran, "The Hostages are Free," was No. 18.

Four of the week's five lowest-rated programs were episodes from new series, and the fifth was a movie, "Oklahoma City Dolls" on ABC, No. 65. NBC's "Flamingo Road" was 63rd, followed by "Hill Street Blues," also from NBC, the ABC movie, CBS' "Secrets of Midland Heights" and "NBC Magazine with David Brinkley."

The week's 10 highest rated programs:

Super Bowl XV, Oakland vs. Philadelphia, with a rating of 44.4 representing 34.5 million homes, NBC, "Dallas," 36.4 or 28.3 million, "Dukes of Hazzard," 29.1 or 22.6 million, "M-A-S-H," 26.3 or 20.5 million, and "Trapper John, M.D.," 25.6 or 19.9 million, all CBS; Super Bowl Post-Game, 25.5 or 19.8 million, NBC; "The Jeffersons," CBS, and "Little House on the Prairie," NBC, both 24.8 or 19.3 million, and "20-20," 24.6 or 19.1 million, and "Love Boat," 24.2 or 18.8 million, both ABC.

The next 10 shows: "Three's Company," ABC; "House Calls," CBS; "All-Star Inaugural Eve Gala," ABC; "The Waltons," CBS, and "Real People," NBC, tie; "Fantasy Island" and "Hart to Hart," both ABC, tie; "CBS News Special: The Hostages are Free," and "Barney Miller" and "Dynasty," both ABC, tie.

Tech Schedules All-Night Recreational Event

The Texas Tech Recreational Center is sponsoring an "all-nighter" from 9 p.m. Friday to 6 a.m. Saturday at the Tech Recreation Center, according to John Bowsly, assistant director of Recreational Sports at Tech.

Basketball, volleyball, slam dunk and racquetball tournaments will take place throughout the all-nighter, Bowsly said. He said other activities such as roller skating races, a gold fish catch in the swimming pool and archery also would be scheduled.

Table games and a mechanical bull will be available to those attending the event, Bowsly said. He added that Tech athletic clubs will be displaying their particular sports throughout the evening.

Movies featuring John Wayne and Roy Rogers will be shown at the center along with "The Wackiest Ship in the Navy."

Local sporting good stores will display their merchandise and KSEL radio will be on hand to award some prizes, Bowsly said.

Tech students may participate in the activities if they hold a Tech ID. Visitors must pay $2 if accompanied by a Tech student.

Fund Established To Aid Victim Of Cancer

A fund has been set up at First National Bank to help meet mounting medical costs facing the family of a 9-year-old Lubbock boy suffering from cancer.

The fund for Burton Chain of 1903 10th St. was established by family friends.

Burton has undergone three operations for malignant melanoma. The disease has developed into a tumor that now covers close to three-fourths of his neck area.

Interferon treatments given to the boy at M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston at first seemed to help the boy but later proved to be unsuccessful, said his local physician, Dr. Suat Cheng Fang.

FREEDOM BID
MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — An armed Czechoslovak border guard fought his way through fortifications and heavy snow to reach West German territory where he sought political asylum, the Bavarian border police said Wednesday.

Dr. Fang said the boy's grandfather died of the same disease several years ago.

Donations may be added to the fund through any teller at First National or may be mailed to the bank, marked on the envelope to the attention of Dorothy Smith. Checks should be made out to the Burton Chain fund.

Donations of clothing or food will also be accepted at Bethel Assembly of God, where the boy attended church.

Donations of juice and shirts that snap closed, rather than have to be pulled over the head, will be especially useful to the boy, friends said.

More information may be obtained from Bobby Stargel, 745-3380, or from Rev. Raymond Junker at Bethel Assembly of God.

Flight Reservation Procedures To Change

Beginning Sunday, Continental Airlines will change reservation and ticketing requirements as well as reinstate two flights, according to Tom O'Donnell, Continental's city manager.

O'Donnell said Super Saver reservations and ticketing requirements of 30 days before departure will be lowered to four days. A 25 percent and 35 percent fare reduction is available for those who make their reservations and buy tickets ahead of time.

Continental's 7:31 a.m. flight to El Paso, super coach fare, is being reduced from $37 to $25 one way, O'Donnell said. The 5:10 p.m. flight to Albuquerque is being reduced from $74 to $60.

JANUARY WHEEL SALE

No. 1855-1981 SWB PICKUP, 5-speed
SALE PRICE $5997⁰⁰

1981 DATSUN TRUCKS. MORE POWER. LESS GAS.

The secret is Datsun's revolutionary NAPS 2 engine. It's a 2-liter hemi-head powerplant that gives better mileage and over 18% more torque than last year's engine. Every 1981 Datsun truck has it. Take your pick and take a test drive. You've got to try it to believe it.

Lift Huster with standard 5-speed AMF for 27/36 (EPA EST MPG) (EPA EST HWY)

Remember, use estimated mpg for comparison. Your mileage may differ, depending on speed, weather and trip length. Your actual highway mileage will probably be less than the estimated mileage.

Appraisal Of Ireland Not Taken Humorously

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Irish ire flared Wednesday when an American diplomat's private, less-than-diplomatic appraisal of life here was splashed across the front page of the Irish Times.

The Irish are "a people with too much human nature — violent and compassionate — for their own good," said Robin Berrington, cultural affairs and press officer at the U.S. Embassy, in a letter not meant for public consumption.

"Ireland has food and climate well matched for each other: dull," said the embarrassing epistle, which Berrington's office mistakenly sent to the Times along with a publicity handout about U. S. President Reagan.

U.S. Ambassador William Shannon, trying to smooth ruffled feathers, said, "The Irish are famous for their sense of humor and I think I shall have to rely on it in this instance."

But many were not amused. A government source described Prime Minister Charles Haughey as "disappointed and concerned." A headline in one evening newspaper read "Dull Irish Starts Diplomatic Row" and the National Tourism Council and the Irish Hotels Federation issued statements critical of the letter.

Berrington, of Cleveland, Ohio, is wrapping up a 2½-year tour here and heading for a post in Japan. In the letter he wrote he had turned 40 "a few months ago." He confirmed he wrote the letter but would not comment on it other than say its release was "a mistake — it

Denver Selected For Program

DENVER (AP) — Denver is one of 11 American cities selected for study by "SUCCESS," a computer program designed to help motorists save fuel and cut pollution, officials say.

The program was written at Britain's Transport and Road Research Laboratory. Officials of the U.S. Department of Transportation are seeking to learn if it will work in this country.

EVOLUTION FLAP
LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — A committee appointed because of complaints that a teacher was advancing the Bible-based theory of "scientific creationism" has recommended that the theory not be taught until its legal ramifications can be studied and a curriculum developed. The recommendation is to be considered next Tuesday at a meeting of the school board in this East Bay community.

Stolen Art Returned, Suspect Apprehended

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — An art collection that includes three priceless gold-and-jewel-encrusted Faberge eggs commissioned for the Russian czars was recovered in Minnesota after a private investigator arranged a $250,000 ransom, officials said Wednesday.

A suspect was taken into custody Tuesday after the money drop and a high-speed chase, and the FBI reported the ransom for the art works stolen last Oct. 22 from the Paine Art Center in Oshkosh also was recovered.

"We're elated," said art center spokesman Jean Peters.

Center officials described the Matilda Geddings Gray collection, including the eggs decorated by Peter Carl Faberge, as priceless. Other stolen items included a 17th-century Nuremberg Easter egg, a perfume flacon and an imperial cigarette case.

Center director Ralph Bufano said he had been permitted to inspect the stolen goods before Reliance Insurance Co. put up the $250,000 left at a designated location.

John Pietro Manelli, 37, of Crystal, Minn., was arrested and charged with assault on a federal officer in connection with an attack before the auto chase began, the FBI said.

"Found in his possession was $250,000 which was allegedly paid for the return of this collection," the FBI in Minneapolis said in a statement. The agency said Manelli was to be arraigned before a U.S. Magistrate "in the near future" and that the case would be taken before a federal grand jury next week. It declined further comment.

However, John McMillan, a New York private investigator, said he had made arrangements on Monday for the ransom. He did not disclose how the collection came to his attention.

The collection was brought to Oshkosh from New Orleans about a month before the burglary. It was to have been displayed through December.

Police said the items were taken by burglars who pulled a lock off a door in the basement of the art center, and bypassed an alarm by short-circuiting it.

Museum officials said another alarm went off when the intruders set off electronic monitors within the building and police arrived a minute later, but the burglars were gone.

The three imperial Easter eggs created by Faberge dated from 1893, 1895 and 1912.

In 1870, Faberge inherited his father's jewelry business in St. Petersburg, now Leningrad, and soon developed an international reputation. Besides the czars, he was patronized by royalty throughout Europe.

Shannon said after talking with Berrington Wednesday: "I love everything about Ireland, especially including its weather, but I cannot guarantee the opinion and emotions of my colleagues."

Bob Chalker, head of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce in Ireland, said: "Most Americans living here would not agree with what he (Berrington) says."

Cross Burned In Yard Of NAACP Leader

BEL AIR, Md. (AP) — A 4-foot cross was burned in the front yard of the new president of the Harford County National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the first cross-burning in the county since the late 1960s.

Joseph Bond, who was inducted Jan. 18 as president of the local NAACP, said his wife found the burning cross at about midnight Tuesday. Mrs. Bond also answered a telephone call from a man who asked, "Did you get the message..."

ARKANSAS OUTSCORES TECH BY 25 POINTS

Hogs Humiliate Raiders

By CHUCK McDONALD
Assistant Sports Editor
FAYETTEVILLE — You'd have to go all the way back to the 1950-51 season when Oklahoma City defeated Texas Tech 37-33 to find a lower scoring output from the Red Raiders.

And you'd probably have to go back to when Dr. Naismith first started knocking the bottom out of peach baskets to find a stranger game than the one that transpired here Wednesday night at Barnhill Arena.

But you'd only have to take a backward journey of about 12 months to discover the last time Red Raider coach Gerald Myers was given the heave ho.

When the smoke finally settled, when Arkansas had laughed its way off the court with a 60-35 Southwest Conference victory under its belt, when Myers hit the showers, a few basic unpleasantries stared the Raiders right in the face.

Tech has now lost five in a row (no Myers-coached team had ever dropped more than three straight before this season), the Raiders are 3-5 after one round of league play and they are still seeking their first conference road victory.

For the Razorbacks, the report card shows nothing but good grades. The Hogs moved to 5-3 in SWC play and 14-6 on the season, while Tech falls to 9-9.

The way the SWC has treated the game of basketball this year simply defies description, but what happened here Wednesday was strange even by current standards.

It was 22-15 Arkansas at the half and with 9:06 left in the game it was a 35-22 contest. The closest Tech would come in the second half was 40-28 on a pair of Clarence Swannegan free throws. Finally, with Tech trailing 50-32, Myers exploded.

Freshman Bubba Jennings was stripped of the ball near midcourt and Myers, who'd been simmering all night, ran out to the center circle calling for a foul. He got one quick technical but refused to leave and earned two more before he finally left the floor after a lengthy discussion with referee Denny Bishop.

"U.S. Reed hit Jennings on the arm and they didn't call it. That was the straw that broke the camel's back," said Myers. "It started on the first play of the half when they knocked Jennings down and got a dunk."

"It's hard to get the ball inside to the post when it's a wrestling match."

But Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton felt Myers' technicals were caused by his own team's ineffectiveness.

"Coach Myers got a little excited towards the end and I know how he feels," said Sutton. "He's just frustrated with his team."

Following the outburst, substitute Mike Young hit one of two free throws and Arkansas' only walk-on on the roster, Eugene Nash, hit three of the six technical free throws to make it 54-32. The game was all over.

"I think our team will start back," said Myers. "We're down as low as we can go. We're flat on our backs."

While the Raiders were hitting only 12 of 30 field goal attempts, the Hogs did little better as they connected on 21 of 53 efforts. But the Raiders turned the ball over 22 times to Arkansas' 13.

The Raiders, who had faced seven straight zone defenses, simply couldn't handle the Hogs' man-to-man pressure.

"You have to give Arkansas' defense credit," said Myers. "We have not had that much problems with turnovers this year, we were a little rusty against the man-to-man."

No one on either team did much scoring in this 1940-style game. Scott Hastings led all scorers with 12 points, six of them coming at the line. Two other Hogs, Darrell Walker and Reed, each added 10.

Swannegan had 10 for Tech and Jennings, who looked like he was being used as an Arkansas punching bag, had nine.

Down by seven at the half, Tech narrowed the gap to 22-17 on a Swannegan jumper. But six straight points for the Hogs put it away at 28-17.

Arkansas steadily increased that margin as it took the Raiders nine minutes to score five points. By that time it was 30-20, and, in this game, 10 points was simply too much for Tech to overcome.

The first half was one of the stranger exhibitions ever seen on any court. For Arkansas it was a matter of shooting often and missing often. For Tech, it was a matter of rarely shooting, thus rarely scoring.

The Hogs managed a 22-15 intermission lead but only seven free throws for the hosts put either team over the 20-point mark at the conclusion of the half.

Unbelievable as it sounds, the Raiders attempted only six shots in the first 13½ minutes of play. The Raiders tried to be patient, but most of the time they ended up turning the ball over before getting a chance to shoot.

Arkansas, dominating the backboards and the flow of the game, but missing repeatedly, finally broke a six-minute scoreless spell when Walker stole the ball and raced downcourt for a slam dunk.

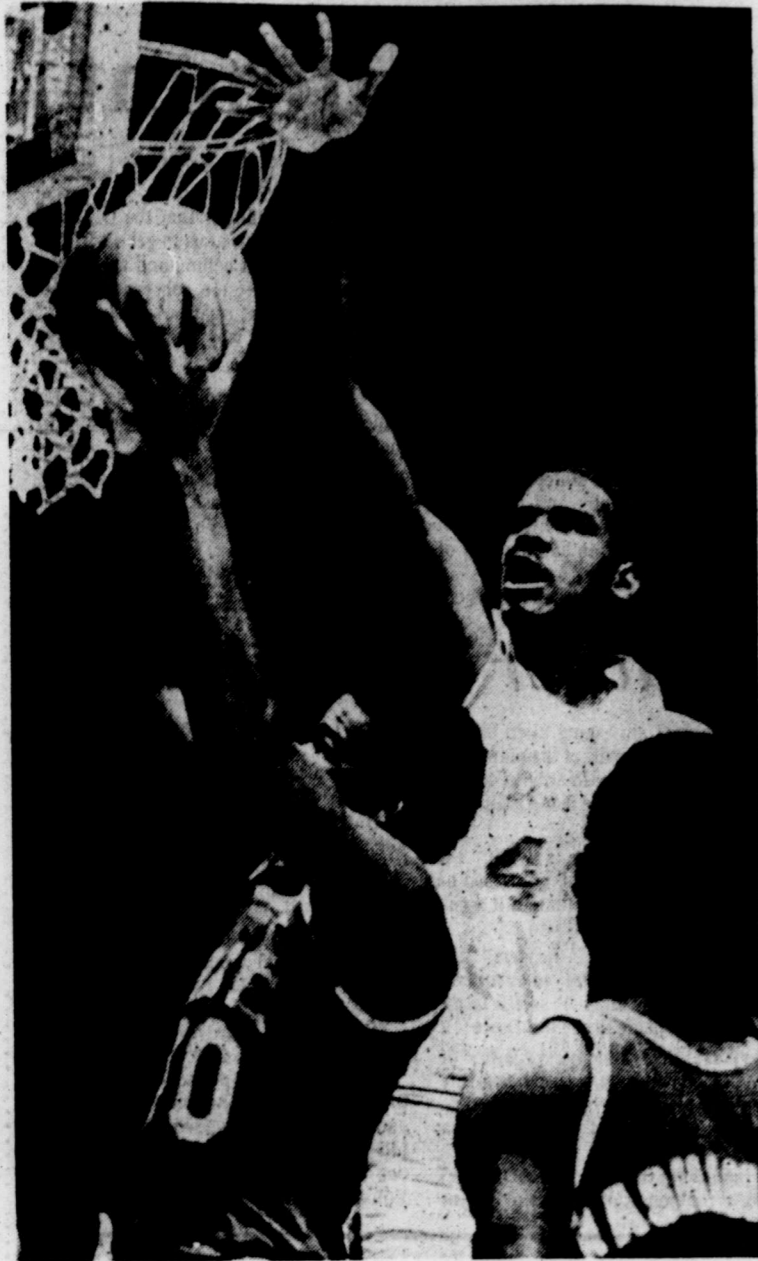

That made it 14-9 with 7:32 left in the half and Tech called a timeout. The Raiders hit three of seven attempts prior to intermission as Jennings connected twice from long range.

Fearless Frogs Burn Baylor

By The Associated Press

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texas Christian guard Darrell Browder bowled over a tight Baylor zone defense for a game high 20 points while the Horned Frog defense shut down Terry Teagle in the second half to post a come-from-behind 58-50 victory Wednesday in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum.

Trailing by as many as seven points in the first half, TCU surged from behind to even the Horned Frog conference record at 4-4 and improve its overall mark to 7-11. Baylor dropped its third straight game and now stands 5-3 in Southwest Conference play and 10-8 overall.

HOUSTON — Houston's Rob Williams pumped in 33 points from the outside and Clyde Drexler produced 18 more with an acrobatic inside game to lead the Cougars to a 76-71 Southwest Conference victory over Texas A&M Wednesday night.

The victory boosted Houston's SWC record to 7-1 and improved their league lead over Baylor, which lost to Texas Christian 55-50, to two games. The Aggies, meanwhile, dropped to a 1-7 SWC standard, losing for the ninth time in their last 10 games.

Rutledge Remains On Witness Stand

PHOENIX (AP) — Football punter Kevin Rutledge continued on the witness stand Wednesday, detailing his reasons for filing a $2.2 million lawsuit against former Arizona State University coach Frank Kush, the school and others.

Rutledge, 21, described a pattern of physical and mental abuse he said Kush inflicted on him in so he would give up a scholarship at the Pacific 10 Conference school. He played for the University of Nevada-Las Vegas last season.

Rutledge said his punting during the 1978 season "was not very good," but attributed this to lingering injuries from a traffic accident.

He claimed Kush split his lip with a punch on the sidelines after a 27-yard punt in Arizona State's 41-7 loss to the University of Washington.

Kush has denied it.

Rutledge said Kush grabbed his face mask and swung his head from side to side before delivering a right-hand blow. The coach repeatedly called him "gut-legs," Rutledge said.

He said Kush, now coach of the Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Canadian pro football league, often slapped players' helmets and grabbed their face masks.

"That wasn't something unusual," Rutledge testified. "If not to me it occurred to my fellow players all the time."

He said Kush had slapped his helmet and grabbed his face mask "at least five to 10 times" between August and October in 1978.

Hemorrhage Claims Prep Wrestler

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — High school wrestler Craig Stritzel, who collapsed during a match last week, died of a brain hemorrhage, a Monroe County coroner ruled Wednesday.

It was a subdural (brain lining) hemorrhage — something which you might find in a boxer — but there was nothing to link it to his last bout," Dr. Nicholas Forbes said of the death Tuesday of the 18-year-old Williamson High School athlete.

Forbes, who performed an autopsy, said Stritzel had no congenital defect but apparently suffered a head injury which created the conditions aggravated by wrestling.

"It's very rare, yet we do know it can happen," he said.

The victim had no external injuries, Forbes said.

The captain of the wrestling team at his Wayne County school, Stritzel was wrestling against an opponent from Marion High School in a 126-pound match Friday when he suddenly stopped, held his head and was unable to return to the mat after an injury timeout. He eventually lost consciousness.

Carano Undergoes Wrist Surgery

IRVING (AP) — Glenn Carano, backup quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys, has undergone surgery on his right wrist for removal of a bone chip, a club spokesman says.

The operation was performed Wednesday by team physician Marvin Knight at Muenster Memorial Hospital in Muenster, Texas.

Carano will be discharged Friday and will wear a splint on the wrist for a week. The chipped bone resulted from an injury Carano suffered while in junior high school more than 15 years ago.

Super Bowl XV TV Rating High

NEW YORK (AP) — Super Bowl XV, the Oakland Raiders' 27-10 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles, averaged a 44.4 rating for the four-hour telecast on NBC and became the 15th highest rated show of all time, according to Nielsen figures released Wednesday.

The rating, which measures the percentage of all TV households that watch a single program, put Sunday's game in a tie with Super Bowl XI, between Oakland and Minnesota, for fourth place among the National Football League championship games.

Super Bowl XV averaged a 63 share, which measures the percent of TV homes tuned in to a single program against all households watching TV during that time period.

Last year's Super Bowl (Pittsburgh-Los Angeles on CBS) had a 46.3 rating and a 67 share. The all time Super Bowl record of a 47.2 rating was achieved by Dallas-Denver, Super Bowl XII, on CBS.

Eagles, Trojans Enter Tournaments

The Lubbock Christian High School girls' basketball team has already split a pair of games this week but the Eagles have only begun a hectic schedule which includes four games in the next three days.

The LCHS girls' — along with their male counterparts — compete in the Christian Schools Tournament today through Saturday in Abilene's Moody Coliseum.

While LCHS will be busy in Abilene, both Christ The King squads are scheduled to compete in the TCIL district play-offs in Wichita Falls beginning Friday.

Pectol's Eagles, 15-10 for the season, won the TAPS tournament last season en route to winning the state title. But LCHS will be without Sherri Speice, who injured her ankle early this season, and Jill Towns and Brendell Baker are not 100 percent, coach Dale Pectol said.

The six-team tournament is divided into one day of round-robin play with the four top teams advancing to a regulation single-elimination tourney.

Both LCHS squads are grouped with Dallas Christian and the Christian Academy of Oak Cliff for today's round-robin games. The Eagle girls play Dallas at noon and Oak Cliff at 4:30 p.m. The LCHS boys meet Dallas at 1:30 p.m. and Oak Cliff at 6 p.m.

The other group includes Fort Worth Christian, Abilene Christian and Midland Christian.

Christ The King will compete with Alamo, Sacred Heart and Notre Dame in round-robin action to determine district boys' and girls' champions. The Trojan girls' team meets Alamo at 10 a.m. Friday, followed by Sacred Heart at 3 p.m. Their final game is against Notre Dame at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

The Trojan boys battle Alamo at 11:30 a.m. and Sacred Heart at 4:30 p.m. Friday and Notre Dame at 3 p.m. Saturday.

The boys' and girls' squads with the best records at the end of the four games advance to bi-district competition Feb. 6 or 7.

Vermeil Voices Disappointment

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Eagles coach Dick Vermeil says he feels disappointed in himself, the more he thinks of his team's defeat in Super Bowl XV Sunday.

"I really feel let down, disappointed in myself," Vermeil said some 48 hours after the 27-10 loss to the Oakland Raiders in the Superdome at New Orleans.

"I feel we let down the community. They were so excited about us going down there," Vermeil said.

Vermeil also talked about 65-year-old team owner Leonard Tose.

"At this stage of his life there has to be a question of whether we can make it back to the Super Bowl for him. I feel we let him down. I want him to be around the next time we get there, but who can be sure," Vermeil said.

Vermeil insisted that he wasn't taking the blame for the Eagles' poorest performance of the season. But his words indicated that he did.

"I'm not taking the blame. Everybody lost. My contributions to reaching the game were distorted in part by the fact the Eagles had never won (the Super Bowl) before. But if you're going to take the credit when a team wins, you've got to assume some of the responsibility for not getting it done."

There is one facet of the pre-game scene that hasn't been given too much attention. That was the Eagles' week-long stay at an inn just across from the airport. Vermeil and his players have shunned excuses, which may be the reason for dismissing those living conditions.

Maybe the players wore their helmets to bed — it had to be the only way to shut out the continual airplane noise. And, if that wasn't enough, there was a train in the back of the inn that blew a horn long and loud enough to wake Rip Van Winkle.

It isn't an excuse, because Oakland played excellent football and probably would have won under any circumstances. Those living conditions, however, were not conducive for athletes attempting to prepare mentally and physically for the biggest game of their lives.

Vermeil said his team had the look of a loser at halftime.

"... I think that all of a sudden there was a feeling of shock, a feeling of we lost it," Vermeil said.

"The other thing is that the Oakland Raiders never allowed us to get excited. And when you get behind and are losing sometimes you get too concerned about catching up. But right now I can't pinpoint anything for why we played like we did."

Vermeil said he hoped people would remember this team for the way it got to the Super Bowl.

"It should be remembered as a character team, an intense team that was tough and together. We just didn't quite get the job done when we had an opportunity to win a world championship," Vermeil said.

Setup Could Jeopardize Walker's Eligibility

ATLANTA (AP) — A plan to set up an insurance agency for All-American Herschel Walker of the University of Georgia could jeopardize the freshman tailback's eligibility to play football, according to an NCAA official.

Last week, a group of Georgia alumni said it was working on a plan to set up an insurance agency for Walker next summer.

But officials of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the governing body of collegiate sports, said the plan could place the 18-year-old's three remaining years of eligibility in jeopardy.

David Berst of the NCAA's enforcement office said Tuesday he has discussed the situation with Georgia coach Vince Dooley.

Dooley said he met Wednesday with some men involved in a proposed company.

"I do feel that these gentlemen are acting in good faith and their motives honorable," Dooley said. "However, I do have some concern about the company and therefore, I am asking them to submit in writing the details of the plan."

Dooley said he would submit all details to the NCAA to see if the plan is legal.

"We haven't said it is within the rules. We haven't said yes, but based on what I know about the situation it won't be within the rules," Berst said.

"As I understand it," he said, "the basic idea is to organize an insurance company around Walker. It seems to me that's using his name to sell insurance."

Berst said that would be in violation of the NCAA constitution, which has a rule stating that an athlete cannot be paid to "advertise, recommend or promote" a product or service.

In addition, the rule states that an athlete's compensation for employment may not be influenced by "the publicity, reputation, fame or personal following of his athletic ability."

Bob Newsome, owner of an automobile dealership in Walker's hometown of Wrightsville, who is one of the originators of the plan, said the idea may be scuttled.

"It might not take place. There are a lot of details to be worked out," he said.

Walker rushed for 1,616 yards last season, eclipsing the previous record for a freshman of 1,586 yards set by Tony Dorsett of Pittsburgh in 1973.

The 6-foot-1, 220-pounder, who helped the Bulldogs to the national title and an undefeated season, capped off his spectacular year by rushing for 150 yards and two touchdowns in a 17-10 victory over Notre Dame in the Sugar Bowl.

Phillips Adds To Staff

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Bum Phillips, new coach of the New Orleans Saints who lost his job in Houston because he refused to hire an offensive coordinator, hired an offensive coordinator for his new team Wednesday.

King Hill got the job. He was the quarterback-receiver coach at Houston under Phillips.

The appointment was one of five announced by Phillips, who said he was hiring an offensive coordinator this time because it is a different situation than he faced in Houston.

"We have assembled a staff from several different backgrounds and that is why King Hill will serve as offensive coordinator," Phillips said in a statement.

"He will organize and coordinate the workload of the other three offensive coaches."

The other appointments, including one other brought from Houston:

— John Paul Young, linebacker coach. He held that same position with the Houston Oilers from 1978-1980 and also had worked with Phillips from 1963-64 at Texas-El Paso.

— Willie Zapalac, defensive line coach, moves to the Saints from Buffalo where he also coached the defensive line.

— Harold Richardson, special teams coach, comes to the Saints from North Texas State where he was defensive coordnator.

— Joe Spencer, offensive line coach, joins the Saints after six seasons with the Kansas City Chiefs.

Storms Threaten Crosby Start

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A series of Pacific storms, producing what has come to be known as "Crosby weather," lashed the Monterey Peninsula and threatened to disrupt today's start of the 40th Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

The first of two fronts swept over California's central coast Tuesday, and dumped about two inches of rain on the three courses used for this famed event. The courses were flooded. The waters reached into the pro shop at the Pebble Beach Golf Links. Pools and puddles formed in bunkers and in low-lying areas of the fairways.

ripped limbs from trees which knocked out power lines to more than 1,000 customers.

The courses were closed to practice Tuesday and opened only half the day Wednesday when sun broke through briefly in the morning.

But the U.S. Weather Bureau warned that the sunny period was merely a lull between storms. Another major, larger, probably wetter storm was expected before today's start of the 72-hole tournament.

"If we get another one like the last one, we're probably out of business, at least for Thursday," said Jack Tutthill, tournament director for the PGA Tour. He toured the courses, Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Spyglass Hill, Wednesday and found them "not too bad. Spyglass is probably the worst. They're wet, but they're playable — right now. If we get more rain, well, we'll just have to wait and see."

In any event, Tutthill said, so-called winter rules would be in effect, with players allowed to lift, clean and place balls in the squishy, soggy fairways.

Jack Nicklaus, who will play with former president Gerald Ford as his amateur partner, flew down to the desert at Palm Springs Wednesday to find a practice facility. He was scheduled to return for his tee-time Thursday at Cypress Point.

The format calls for the 168 pros, each with an amateur partner, to play one round on each of the three courses before the field is cut for the final round Sunday at Pebble Beach.

"It's going to be 'Mud City' out there," said Tom Watson, the four-time player of the year and leading money winner who is opening his 1981 campaign in this, one of his favorite tournaments.

"I'm pleased with the way I'm swinging the club. I'm eager to get started," Watson said.

Other standouts include defending champion George Burns, Andy Bean, Phoenix Open winner David Graham, Jerry Pate, Johnny Miller, Ben Crenshaw and Lon Hinkle, a runner-up in two of three starts this year.

Another Steeler Calls It Quits

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Defensive end Dwight "Mad Dog" White, an original member of the Pittsburgh Steelers' "Steel Curtain" defense, announced Wednesday he is retiring from professional football.

"I have gotten more out of this game than I ever expected. I'm a conservative person and I don't want to push my luck," said the 31-year-old White, who joined the Steelers in 1971 as a fourth-round draft pick from East Texas State.

White, hampered by injuries the past two seasons, wore a gray three-piece suit as he also announced he had accepted a position as an account executive with the Pittsburgh brokerage firm of Bache, Halsey, Stuart, Shields.

He is the third Steeler to retire since the 1980 season ended, joining Rocky Bleier and Mike Wagner.

Mart Drops In Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market edged lower Wednesday, deflating a one-session rally, as investors turned cautious amid mixed economic signals.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which gained 10.58 points on Tuesday, dropped 6.91 to 942.58.

Energy issues, which helped fuel Tuesday's short-lived rally, turned lower as the Reagan administration issued its long-awaited order lifting controls on domestic oil prices.

Some analysts had expected oil stocks to gain from the decontrol move — as indicated by their advances Tuesday when it was disclosed that Reagan would issue the order Wednesday.

But Larry Wachtel, an analyst at Bache Halsey Stuart Shields Inc., said investors were spurred more by the anticipation of decontrol than by the action itself.

Wachtel said the energy stocks were hurt by a report from Tass, the Soviet news agency, that the Soviet Union expects an increase in its domestic oil production.

Among energy issues, Texaco was alone in showing a gain for most of the day, but ended the session down 1/4 at 41 1/2 in active trading. It had been up more than 5 points earlier in the session after announcing that its chemicals unit was forming a joint venture company with a subsidiary of U.S. Steel.

NEW YORK (AP)—Wed's national prices for New York Stock Exchange listed stocks, as of 4:05 p.m. Eastern time, are consolidated for securities also traded on other markets.
