

Arson In Lubbock Jumps At Taxpayers' Expense

By RICHIE D. REECER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

LUBBOCK residents, though they may not realize it, are already paying for the record number of deliberately set fires in the city in the last year. And the burden appears likely to become even heavier in the next two years as insurance rates begin to climb.

And fire investigators warn that although the frequency of arrests in cases of deliberate fires has increased with 80 incidents cleared last year, the incidence of arson may become even more frequent as the economy continues its slump.

"We've got to stop this thing one way or another," said Fire Marshal Robert Stokes. "It's going to require a conscious effort from all citizens."

In 1980, Lubbock firefighters responded to 597 deliberately set fires, Stokes said, compared to 490 such fires in 1979, an almost 22 percent increase.

Most of those blazes involved objects other than dwellings or businesses, such as fences, debris and garbage dumpsters, but Stokes points out that Lubbock taxpayers bear the brunt of minor fires as well as major ones.

"Every fire we have leaves some damage that somebody has to repair," the fire marshal said. "People have been lulled into a sense that, 'If it doesn't affect me, then it's not a crime,' but it does affect them."

City taxpayers foot the bill for some set fires in obvious ways, and they end up paying for others in not-so-obvious ways.

Arson investigators spent 2,483 man-hours last year probing 154 set fires, Stokes said. Lubbockites pay the salaries of the firemen and investigators, as well as the costs of buying and maintaining expensive equipment.

The more subtle costs involve the fire insurance premiums paid by Lubbock businessmen and homeowners, Stokes said.

Every fire recorded in Lubbock affects state-regulated insurance premiums, which are directly tied to the amount of insured fire losses in the city, Stokes said.

Insurance rates for each Texas city are determined by the ratio of insurance premiums received to the amount of insurance claims paid to policy holders.

For example, Lubbock property owners paid $8,187,798 in fire insurance premiums from 1975 through 1979, according to statistics compiled by the State Board of Insurance of Texas. Fire insurance claims totaling $4,225,047 were paid to property owners during the same time frame.

Insured losses were 51 percent of premiums paid during the five years, and fire insurance rates here remained the same.

If the ratio had dropped below 50 percent, Stokes said, property owners would have received a 5 percent discount on their premiums for the next year. If, however, the ratio was more than 60 percent,

No Quick Solutions Seen For Ailing U.S. Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Baker III, chief of staff in the Reagan White House, said Sunday that the economy will be the new administration's top priority, but warned that there will be no "overnight" solutions to the nation's financial troubles.

"The economy which this administration has inherited is the worst mess that we've seen in 50 years," he said in an interview on CBS' "Face the Nation."

"It has got to be the No. 1 priority of this administration."

Baker said President Reagan, in a televised speech to the nation, scheduled Thursday, will "explain to the American people where we are, how we got into this mess, and within a general framework, what the president sees as solutions to the problem."

situation overnight and we're not going to get out of it overnight."

Baker said that, so far, there was no timetable for putting into effect a 10 percent tax cut this year. "That decision has not been made as yet."

Meanwhile, Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., one of the authors of the Republican-backed tax-cut proposal, said he expected the president to announce plans to go ahead with a 30 percent tax cut over three years.

"I think it's going to be retroactive to Jan. 1," Kemp told interviewers on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Volcker said, "I don't think there's any question about it that you need large budgetary cuts in the tens and tens of billions of dollars... if you are going to aim for a balanced budget."

Intruder Shot By Resident

A LUBBOCK woman shot and wounded an intruder who had broken into her home Sunday night, but police were still searching for the man late last night after he limped away from the scene.

Jean Barree, 36, of 1923 Parkway Drive said she arrived home shortly after 10 p.m. and discovered someone had broken into her home. The woman then searched her home and found some of the family's belongings had been gathered together in an apparent burglary attempt.

Mrs. Barree woke her daughter, Gwendolyn McKnight, and her 3-year-old grandson, both of whom had been sleeping on a sofa in the living room. The women found a man standing in a bedroom closet with a quilt over his head, Mrs. Barree said.

"So I got my gun and shot him, and he dropped the quilt," Mrs. Barree explained. She said she then recognized the man, adding that he did not have permission to be in her home.

Mrs. McKnight then notified police and requested an EMS ambulance for the wounded burglar, whom Mrs. Barree was holding at gunpoint. The man had suffered a single .32-caliber gunshot to the left thigh.

But she said the man "worked his way" toward the front door and began walking away from the residence, his leg bleeding profusely.

Mrs. Barree said she did not want to kill the intruder because she knew him, but she fired several shots over his head in an attempt to get him to return and wait for police to arrive.

OIL PRICE RAISED
ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates (AP) — The United Arab Emirates raised the price of its crude oil by $3 per barrel retroactive to Jan. 1, the Gulf News Agency reported. It quoted the emirates' oil minister, Mana Saeed al Otaiba, as saying the increase to $36.56 per 42-gallon barrel was in line with decisions taken at the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries summit in Indonesia last December.

Peru Claims Win In Border Conflict

Conditional Cease-Fire Declared

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Peru claimed victory in its five-day border fight with Ecuador Sunday, and issued a conditional cease-fire order to its troops, saying they should stop firing "when the adversary adopts a similar measure and abstains from any act of aggression."

Ecuador denied Peru's claim and said a ground and air battle was continuing in the mountainous region where each country accuses the other of invasion.

Both sides claimed they had inflicted heavy losses, but no overall casualty figures were given. Ecuador acknowledged that two of its soldiers were killed in an air raid, Wednesday, and Peru reported that one of its soldiers was killed in fighting for one of three military outposts involved in the conflict.

Unless "Under Attack"
The Peruvian Foreign Ministry announced that Peru had ordered its troops to cease firing at 4:30 p.m. CST unless "they are under attack," according to a communique distributed by the government news agency ESI-Peru.

At about 7:15 p.m. CST, the news agency issued a revised communique that said, "Our forces have been ordered to cease firing when the adversary adopts a similar measure and abstains from any act of aggression."

There was no explanation for the change in wording.

The earlier communique also claimed that Peru had "taken full possession and control of its territory in the zone where the incursion was produced."

Ecuadorian President Jaime Roldos, who declared a state of emergency Wednesday, met with his military commanders at the Defense Ministry in the capital of Quito, and the ministry later issued a statement denying Peru's victory claims.

"The land forces of the Ecuadorean outpost, with aerial help, is repelling the attack with valor and energy," the communique said. It was the first time Ecuador had mentioned the use of its warplanes in the conflict.

"Heavy Losses"
The communique referred to the PV4 outpost, which Peru said it had captured at 5:40 p.m. Sunday. Ecuador acknowledged the loss of the larger post at Paquisha. It said the Peruvians suffered "heavy losses" in their assault on Paquisha and Peruvian air raids inflicted "some losses in Ecuadorean personnel."

The Peruvian government reported, Saturday, that Ecuadorean troops had been ousted from the outpost of Mallaco, about 12 miles from Paquisha on the Camana River.

On Saturday, Peruvian President Fernando Belaunde-Terry said Ecuador launched air strikes against one border outpost captured by Peru on Friday. He said Peruvian forces remained in control of the outpost but warned he would take "very grave measures if the air attacks were repeated."

The Ecuadorean military communique said Ecuadorean forces "are maintaining physical domination in that sector of the Cordillera of the Condor, and are capable of continuing to conduct operations which permit them to control the area, in spite of big numerical inferiority."

The fighting has centered around the three outposts in the Cordillera of the Condor, a mountain range about 800 miles north of Lima that tapers down into the western edge of the Amazon jungle. The area is inside Peruvian territory under terms of an internationally mediated agreement signed by the two countries in 1942 following a 1941 border war that left 500 dead and wounded.

Ecuador, which contends it signed the agreement under duress, abrogated the pact in 1951.

The four nations that helped negotiate the 1942 treaty and then guaranteed

French Start Delivery Of Fighters To Iraq

PARIS (AP) — The French government announced Sunday that it had delivered a consignment of Mirage F-1 jet-fighters to Iraq, which has been fighting a border war with the Iraqis since September, immediately issued a denunciation.

"The Iranian people will never forget this act by the French government," the Iranian Embassy in Paris said in a statement.

"It is difficult for us to imagine that France, whose leaders never miss an occasion to affirm their respect for liberty and democracy as well as their friendship toward all people, would go so far as to deliver arms of such importance to an aggressive and cruel country, such as Iraq."

Spare Parts Needed
Iran has been hard-hit by the war and is sorely in need of spare parts for its American-made equipment — withheld since the U.S. hostage crisis. Secretary of State Alexander Haig said Wednesday that no U.S. arms or military spare parts, including some $500 million worth of equipment already paid for by Iran, would be delivered.

Sunday's French Foreign Ministry statement did not say how many of the fighters were in the consignment or when they were delivered. It said just that the delivery was in accordance with a 1977 contract between France and Iraq.

In July 1977, the Baghdad government ordered 36 of the F-1s, following that up with an order for 24 more in December 1979. Delivery date was scheduled for February 1981.

On Saturday, sources at the Larnaca airport in Cyprus reported that 10 of the French-built jets had stopped there to refuel on their way to Iraq. The sources said Iraqi security men in civilian clothes took part in guarding the airport during the stop. On Sunday, reports from Cyprus said six more of the fighters refueled at Larnaca.

The Cyprus government claimed the planes were bound for Jordan.

King Hussein of Jordan has strongly supported Iraq in its 4-month-old war with Iran and has provided a wide range of non-military assistance, such as increased use of Jordanian ports, airports and supply routes.

The F-1s purchased by Iraq are capable of flying at about 1,700 miles per hour — more than twice the speed of sound —

Kidnappers Make Crime Line List

CRIME LINE Inc. this week the Jan. 24 aggravated kidnapping of a south Lubbock theater manager, apparently by men who believed he was carrying a large amount of cash.

The man said he carried the theater bank bags to the parking lot, but got a "bad feeling" when he saw a red van with two men inside parked next to his vehicle. He took the cash back into the theater, then returned outside to his vehicle when the van drove away.

He entered his vehicle, but it would not start. Then, a man wearing a dark ski mask opened the car door and pointed a large blue steel revolver at the victim's face. He pulled the manager from his car, forcing him into the back of the van face down.

The masked man struck the manager in the back with the gun, asking him threateningly for the money. Another man drove the van while the two tried to convince the manager to give them the money.

The men then called the theater to have the employees give them money. Finally, the men left the van and manager, who was tied with flex cuffs, in a south Lubbock parking lot. The van was found to have been stolen.

The armed suspect is described as an 18-to 25-year old white male wearing a dark coat and white-and-black tennis shoes. The other was a white male in his early 20s. He wore a dark ski mask, dark ski coat, dark pants and white-and-black tennis shoes. He had some type of police scanner.

Crime Line offers a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of the suspects. Anyone having such information is urged to call Crime Line at 741-1000. Informants may remain anonymous.

Crime Line is supported entirely by private donations. Tax-deductible contributions may be mailed to Crime Line Inc. at P.O. See REWARDS LIST Page 14

Satellite Receivers Cause Controversy

By LARRY SUTHERLAND
Avalanche-Journal Staff

An organization which supports the use of satellite monitoring equipment which allows individuals to receive television signals carried by the satellites says it may attempt legal action if scramblers are developed to limit the availability of satellite signals.

Fred Finn, an attorney with the Society for Private and Commercial Earth Stations (SPACE), said his organization is opposed to the development of signal scramblers, if such scramblers are used to block earth station reception of television programming — when the users of earth stations are willing to pay for the reception of the signals.

Earth stations are being sold for private home use to receive television signals beamed off satellites circling high over the equator.

Any action taken by the group could have an impact on residents of the South Plains area. A Lubbock man is marketing the receiving system and hopes he will find buyers in isolated areas of the region where normal reception of television signals is almost impossible.

Lubbock businessman Mike Shires is selling the earth stations at about $8,000 per system.

Shires has pointed out that even without the legal action, purchasers of the equipment could offer to pay signal providers for the reception of their signal.

And Finn said SPACE also has no objections to paying for programs beamed off earth stations.

But unauthorized reception of satellite signals concerns Home Box Office Inc., a major provider of current movies beamed off satellites and basically intended to be received only by cable television companies with whom HBO holds a contract.

A spokesman with HBO said the company has not permitted its satellite signal to be received by home-use earth stations, and is developing a scrambler device that will allow only its authorized customers to receive HBO programming.

"Right now nobody has scrambled the satellite signal," Finn said. "One of our big concerns is over who will be able to buy scramblers," he added.

Finn said court decisions to date have not ruled on the validity of earth station reception of signals such as from Home Box Office, but he indicated anti-trust court action could be instituted if scramblers were limited for sale only to certain reception companies, such as cable television operators.

"I think if they do go to a scrambler, there is still the issue of why won't they sell it to others" beyond just cable television, Finn said.

While a court case could take several months to resolve the issue of scramblers to block signals, Finn said an injunction filed in federal court may provide temporary relief for home earth station users, Finn said.

Finn did not go into specifics, but said SPACE will likely urge legislation in Congress "that recognizes the right of people to view in the privacy of their home programs sent over satellites."

Black Awareness Month Ceremonies Start Today

February is Black Awareness Month and black art, music, dance, drama and lectures on black history and race relations will be featured during the 11th annual recognition of black heritage at Texas Tech.

Dr. Lauro F. Cavazos, Texas Tech president, will speak at the 7:30 p.m. Tuesday opening ceremony at the Lyons Chapel Baptist Church, 1704 E. 24th St.

A proclamation by Lubbock Mayor Bill McAlister, music by the Black Voices and the Dunbar High School Choir and congregational singing of the national anthem will be part of the event.

The month is organized and sponsored by the Student Organization for Black Unity (SOBU), aided by students in Lubbock's four high schools and by Zeta Tau Zeta service fraternity, which will offer free mini-courses will begin at 10 a.m. today in the University Center Courtyard.

Guest lecturers will be Dr. Willard B. Gatewood Jr., distinguished history professor from the University of Arkansas, and Alvin F. Poussaint, M.D., associate professor of psychiatry at Harvard University and an expert in the field of psychopharmacology.

Gatewood will speak on "Black Aristocracy in the Age of Booker T. Washington" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Blue Room of the University Center. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Gatewood is author or editor of three books on black history. The Tech History

'Cajun Comedian' To Speak At Ralls

RALLS (Special) — Justin Wilson, nationally known "Cajun Comedian," will star in a one-man presentation at the Ralls Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture Banquet here Saturday.

Also during the annual event, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Ralls Elementary cafeteria, Cecil Caldwell's band will provide musical entertainment.

Special ceremonies during the evening include recognition of the members of the Ralls Volunteer Ambulance Service.

The public is invited to the banquet. Tickets may be purchased from the chamber board of directors or at the chamber office here.

Department will be Gatewood's host. His lecture will be sponsored by the Southwest Conference Humanities Consortium, an organization which provides distinguished speakers to member universities.

Poussaint will speak at 8:15 p.m. Feb. 17 in the University Center Theatre. Tickets are $2.50 for students, $3 for faculty and staff, and $3.50 for the general public. The lecture is sponsored by SOBU and the University Center Activities Committee.

Poussaint is author of "Why Blacks Kill Blacks" and is one of the nation's few authorities on black interethnic problems.

He was born in East Harlem, did pre-med work at Columbia College and received his degree at Cornell Medical College. He then studied psychiatry at the University of California at Los Angeles Neuropsychiatric Institute.

Courses offered on black culture during Black Awareness Month will include the history of black religion, cooking soul food, a black business seminar, black awareness at Texas Tech, history of jazz, black dance awareness, trends in black fashion, blacks in sports and disco roller skating.

Other activities for the month will include presentation of Act II of the play "A Raisin in the Sun" by the Estacado High School Drama Club at noon Feb. 13 in the University Center Courtyard.

A black art exhibit will be in the courtyard from 10 a.m. to noon Feb. 9 featuring works by students at Estacado and Dunbar High schools and by Dr. Delores Mack of the University Counseling Center.

Students from Dunbar High School Music Department will perform from noon to 1 p.m. Feb. 11 in the University Center Courtyard.

A Miss Black Texas Tech beauty pageant at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 23 in the University Center Ballroom will conclude events.

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A97652 ♥AQ6 ♦K52 ♣7

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♣ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Usually, we would unhesitatingly recommend rebidding your six-card major suit, but this hand is the exception. Your spades are hardly robust, but your support for partner's suit is excellent. In addition, a two spade rebid runs the risk that partner might pass when four hearts is laydown, or that you will be unable to convince partner of the quality of your heart support later in the auction. A raise to three hearts now seems to be the wisest choice.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AKQ3 ♥AQ107 ♦KQJ5 ♣6

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
Pass Pass ?
What is your opening bid?
A.—Normally, you would open the suit below the singleton—in this case, spades. Here, however, that might make it impossible for partner to respond with a weak hand containing a heart suit. To make it as easy as possible for partner to keep the auction alive, we would open one diamond. Take a demerit if you even thought about making a demand bid—that action is inconceivable with no five-card suit and only 21 HCPs.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK865 ♥A92 ♦K6 ♣J72

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♣ Pass 1 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—First, get rid of all thoughts of game. Even if partner has a super maximum 10 points, it is by no means sure that your combined assets will stretch to game. Once you have reached that conclusion the answer is obvious. You have a balanced hand with useful cards in every suit. The fact that you have five spades is unimportant—pass.

Q.4—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ1063 ♥7 ♦AK82 ♣J94

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♥ 2 ♣ ?
What action do you take?
A.—You are a strong favorite to make a game—unless, of course, the hand is a complete misfit. But you do not have to run that risk because you have an alternative action available that could be far more rewarding. On defense, your hand should produce four tricks, possibly more. If partner also has reasonable defensive values, you could destroy East. The penalty could be juicy indeed. Double.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AKJ4 ♥83 ♦95 ♣KJ762

Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What do you respond?
A.—You have a hand that is strong enough for two forward going bids, so there is no reason for you to distort your distribution. Start by responding in your longest suit and then bid your spades at the next turn, if it's convenient to do so. Anything but two clubs earns a demerit.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠10872 ♥AK963 ♦6 ♣AK9

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass 1 ♣ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—A good hand has just become much better. You should flash the slam signal to partner as soon and as cheaply as possible—you can't be too aggressive because your trumps are weak. A jump shift to three clubs followed by a spade raise should get your message across to partner and still leave room to investigate without getting too high.

Lab Analyzes Fat Content Of Fast Foods

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor
Everybody knows fast foods tend to be fatty foods. Now a government laboratory analysis shows just how fatty some of them are. Researchers using samples from three national burger chain outlets in the Beltsville, Md., area found the percentage of calories from fat ranged from a low of 21 percent in one brand of chocolate shake to a high of 75 percent for scrambled eggs from the same outlet. On a list of 51 items, 34 got 40 percent or more of their calories from fat. 11 of those, 50-75 percent of their calories from fat. None of the figures include condiments, which lab tests showed can add substantially to the total calorie count. For instance, the lab found the amount of mayonnaise normally added to a Burger King Whopper contained 159 calories; the amount of special sauce in a Big Mac, 105 calories; and the tartar sauce in a Burger Chef Skippers Treat, 81 calories.

The study was done for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Science and Education Administration and supervised by research chemist Hal T. Slover at the USDA's Human Nutrition Research Center laboratory in Beltsville, Md. Slover said the three chains selected were chosen because their products are similar and because together they provide an estimated one percent of all the food eaten in the United States. In a telephone interview, Slover said the study was "very limited" because the centers' staff and budget wasn't big enough to handle a larger project. The study focused on the kinds and amounts of fat in fast foods and beverages, he said, because both nutritionists and consumers are highly interested in food fats. Although potatoes contain no cholesterol and extremely small amounts of fat, researchers found a french fry serving from any of the three outlets contained 12 to 13 milligrams of cholesterol, indicating use of animal fat for deep frying. Almost 50 percent of the calories in the fries came from fat. While fish and fish products tend to be low in fat and cholesterol count, the study found 602 calories, half of them from fat, in a BK Whaler with cheese, 470 calories, 46 percent of them from fat, in a plain BK Whaler, 447 calories, 48 percent from fat, in an MD Filet-Of-Fish; and 356 calories, 39 percent of them from fat, in a BC Skipper's Treat. All figures are for unadorned sandwiches. Condiments, as noted, can increase the calorie and fat count substantially. Other findings: *Except for fries, portion sizes were fairly uniform. Strict recipes or other guidelines are followed in preparing most other foods and beverages. Slover said. Researchers found about 30 percent difference in weight between the largest and the smallest servings sampled. *Nutrient composition of simple sandwiches such as burgers and cheeseburgers may be very different nutritionally from that of specialty sandwiches. For example, researchers measured averages of 270 calories and 40 mg of cholesterol in regular Burger King burgers, compared with 662 calories and 175 mg cholesterol in a Double Beef Whopper from the same outlet. McDonald's regular tested at 250 calories and 33 mg cholesterol, compared with 559 calories and 110 mg cholesterol for its Quarter Pounder. *Desserts were more consistent in nutrient composition. Burger King's apple pie contained 238 calories, McDonald's, 287, and Burger Chef's apple turnover, 269. *Among chocolate shakes, the range was 298 calories (BK), 340 calories (MD) and 352 calories (BC). The calories from fat in the three ranged from only 21 percent in the MD Shake to 27 percent in the BK and 31 percent in the BC. Slover said lab results indicated the main source of fats in the shakes was butterfat. "We need better data about the fats people eat," he said. Just getting data on nutrient content isn't enough, he said, because it's difficult to determine what they actually eat. Variations occur not just in food preparation methods, but also in eating habits and portions of meals thrown away.

Oswald: When a player jumps to three notrump there is a strong presumption that he wants to play the hand there and an even stronger presumption that he does not think much of having his partner take him out into a suit. Alan: Those presumptions did not affect South at all. He had a singleton diamond and asked his partner how anyone could expect him to pass three notrump when no one had ever bid diamonds. Oswald: North wondered if South could not have expected North to be able to handle the lead of either unbid suit, etc. Alan: The argument went on with neither partner realizing that South had compounded his poor bidding with really bad play. East had won the spade lead with a queen over jack and returned a trump. South had cashed his ace and king and started on clubs. He got one spade discard on the third club but West had ruffed and led a spade so the defense got three spades and one trump. Oswald: All South needed to do to make four hearts was to duck the first trump. Now East and West could not stop the flow of the clubs and South would have made game plus an overtrick in case the defense didn't grab a second spade immediately.

Arson In Lubbock Jumps At Taxpayers' Expense

cent. rates would have increased by the same 5 percent.

Lubbock policyholders have enjoyed a 5 percent credit in recent years, but several major arson fires in 1980 could cause those rates to jump. The insurance board will determine fire records based on insured fire losses in late March or early April, Stokes said.

The board, however, will consider only losses incurred through the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1980.

Two of the city's most costly fires — involving La Quinta Motor Inn, 601 Ave. Q, and the New West club, 4138 19th St.

— occurred after the Sept. 30 deadline. So property owners may not feel the effects of the fires until 1982.

Damages to the New West were estimated at $600,000, but Stokes said the insured loss on the contents and structure totaled $425,000. The Dec. 30 blaze is still under investigation, and Stokes said he expects arson and burglary charges to be filed soon. A suspect in that case was scheduled for a polygraph examination Friday but investigators said he refused to undergo the questioning on advice from his attorney.

The lobby of La Quinta Motor Inn was heavily damaged by an explosion and fire

Oct. 20, 1980. Damages there were estimated at more than $100,000.

With the losses from those two blazes alone totaling more than $500,000, Lubbockites stand a good chance of seeing higher insurance rates next year.

Stokes suggested several ways in which citizens can prevent set fires and save themselves and others a great deal of money.

"Jurors are not giving tough enough sentences (for arson)," he said. "Arson is one of the most heinous crimes there is. People die in fires."

Stokes said he feels arsonists should be charged with attempted murder if they set fire to a building occupied by people. Under Texas law, the maximum penalty an arsonist can receive is a 20-year prison term if no one is injured in the fire.

If someone is injured in a deliberately set fire, the arsonist could be sent to prison for 99 years or life, Stokes said. And if an arsonist kills someone by setting fire to a building, he could be convicted of capital murder and sentenced to death, the fire marshal said.

In addition to urging stronger sentences for convicted arsonists, Stokes said individuals can prevent small neighborhood fires by keeping the areas around their homes, particularly the alleys, free from garbage and other flammable materials.

The majority of vandalism fires in Lubbock occur when juveniles set fire to lawns, fences, garbage or other debris of ten found in residential alleys.

One Lubbock youth last year admitted setting countless blazes just for the fun of seeing the fire trucks rush to the scene. Last year, fire officials referred 27 juveniles to the Lubbock County Juvenile Probation Office because they purposely started fires.

Motives for arson vary, but the most common are insurance fraud and revenge, and Stokes feels the arson rate is "definitely" related to economic conditions.

"As money gets tight and harder to get, people start looking at what amount of insurance they have on a building," he said. Property owners realize they can make more money by torching their own home or business and collecting the insurance than by simply selling the property.

"But some people will do it for the money whether times are bad or not," Stokes added.

Labor Party Revolt Widens In Britain

LONDON (AP) — The British Labor Party's rebellious right wing, threatening to quit, drew new strength Sunday from an opinion poll showing a middle-of-the-road party would win a general election.

It was widely reported that former Education Minister Shirley Williams, a leader of the party revolt, would quit Labor's left-dominated national executive committee within days — a move likely to accelerate the formation of a new party.

A national opinion poll conducted for the respected liberal Sunday newspaper, The Observer, gave a Social Democrat Party a substantial lead over both Labor and the ruling Conservatives — the parties that have dominated British politics for 60 years.

The threat of a split followed the Labor Party's latest lurch to the left at a party conference. The more moderate Social Democratic stance is based on principles of gradual, democratic transition to socialism.

The Observer survey and a similar poll conducted for the independent Sunday Times both contained grim news for Conservative Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, some of whose aides have been gleefully watching Labor's unprecedented disarray.

The Observer poll of a nationwide sample of 1,079 voters showed that a Social Democrat Party in alliance with the small centrist Liberal Party would win 41 percent of votes, with Labor second at 32 percent and the Conservatives last with 25 percent.

Both polls showed that a new centrist alliance would take more support from the Conservatives than from Labor. The popularity ratings of Mrs. Thatcher, whose tight-fisted monetary policy has run into deep trouble, have been falling steadily since her May 1979 election victory.

Unemployment in Britain has almost doubled under the Thatcher administration to 2.4 million, the highest since the 1930's Depression. Inflation is running about 15 percent annually but wages have not risen. Industrial production has fallen 10 percent and interest rates are 15 percent and climbing.

Labor Stronghold Weakens

The Sunday Times poll, conducted in three north England Labor strongholds including the Stockton constituency of another Labor rebel leader, former Defense Minister William Rodgers, showed the Labor vote narrowly outstripping Social Democrat support in those areas.

Rodgers resigned last week from the Shadow Cabinet, a 14-member group of opposition Labor's senior spokesmen in Parliament.

Mrs. Williams, Rodgers, former Foreign Minister David Owen and former deputy Labor leader Roy Jenkins last weekend announced the formation of a Council for Social Democracy, an apparent first step to forming a new party.

The group has swelled to 11 Laborites, mainly legislators.

The rebels united after what they regarded as the last straw in Labor's move to the left since its election defeat — a special party conference vote last month that gave trade union leaders and extreme left-wing party officials the major say in choosing Labor's candidate for prime minister.

Labor leader Michael Foot, who is struggling to hold the party together, has pledged to try to reverse the decision. But this cannot be done until Labor's annual conference next autumn.

The choice of party leader — who becomes prime minister in the event of an election victory — was previously the sole right of Labor's 288 mainly moderate members of the 635-seat House of Commons, the elected lower house of Parliament.

Mrs. Williams and her colleagues have said privately they would like to postpone quitting the Labor Party until after May local council elections at which they expect potential defectors to be returned on Labor tickets.

But there is widespread speculation that the rebels will capitalize on the apparent groundswell of support that aides said was expressed in "thousands" of letters and phone calls, and break with the Labor Party before May.

Federal spending cuts "are going to have to be deep and they're going to have to be substantial," Baker said.

He said the dispute between Budget Director David Stockman and Secretary of State Alexander Haig over Stockman's proposal to cut back on the nation's foreign aid commitments was "not unexpected. These are tough calls."

The move triggered a message of concern to Haig from 10 Western European nations about the possibility that the U.S. government might renege on the Carter administration's pledge to contribute $3.2 billion to the International Development Administration.

Reagan has not yet received recommendations on the aid question, Baker said.

Kemp questioned about spending cuts in programs for the poor, said the reductions would not "attack the safety net under which we don't want to let the poor and the oppressed and the down-trodden fall." But eligibility requirements for social programs would be tightened, he said.

The New York congressman said it should be noted that the Reagan administration also is committed to reducing "subsidies for major businesses." He cited Energy Department subsidies for synthetic fuels plants as well as export-import loans.

Volcker, seen as a potential obstacle to the new administration's economic thrust, defended the Federal Reserve Board's policy of trying to clamp down on inflation by restraining money and credit supply.

The policy, which has resulted in high interest rates, will eventually work but "hasn't turned the corner yet," he said.

Asked what would lead him to soften his tough credit policies, Volcker indicated that the Reagan administration would have to bring the inflation rate down first.

"We don't intend to ease up in the sense of permitting more rapid growth in money and credit because that would reinstate the very problem we are trying to deal with," Volcker said.

'Fellow Officers' Nab Phantom

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — He fooled quite a few police officers and even an FBI agent or two, but state police finally solved the three-month-old mystery of the phantom trooper with red hair.

In fact, police said it was Donald W. Artrup's red hair, red mustache and red muttonchop sideburns that helped put an end to his fun impersonating an officer.

When he was arrested, Saturday, the burly Artrup told state troopers the stolen uniform and badge made him feel proud.

"It made him feel good and he was proud of it," officers said.

More Uniform Material Turned Up

A raid on the suspect's residence turned up a missing state police windbreaker, a shirt with sergeant's stripes and a rare solid silver badge fashioned in the shape of Louisiana.

"We got first wind of this guy in St. Bernard, where our man on the beat kept getting asked about the 'new trooper,'" said state police spokesman Wallace Gettys.

"We thought maybe he was a new recruit sent from Baton Rouge."

However, reports of his mustache and sideburns indicated the "trooper" knew little of regulations. The state police dress code forbids facial hair on uniformed officers.

In addition to the misdemeanor charge of impersonating an officer, Artrup was booked on a charge of possession of stolen property, which is a felony.

May Draw Blame For Complaints

Gettys said Artrup may be responsible for several brutality complaints against state troopers.

"We would like to be notified by anyone who came in contact with him so we can clear the air," he said.

St. Bernard sheriff's deputies and even an FBI agent who talked with the suspect in a bar believed him to be a real trooper.

"He was a pretty good con man," Gettys said.

The ruse finally went a bit too far, however, and led to Artrup's arrest. He was captured when he listed the state police on a job application as his most recent employer.

The pieces fell together when his prospective employer, an apartment manager in Metairie, La., checked the reference with state police. A recommendation was not what Artrup got.

No Quick Solutions Seen For Economy

Volcker said "I don't think there's any doubt that to make the kind of budgetary cuts that are necessary, we can't consider the so-called uncontrollable uncontrollable."

And that means you have to change some of the laws that govern eligibility or amounts of benefits through those programs that cover 70 percent or so of the federal budget.

Their calls for budget cuts were not opposed by Baker, who reiterated that the Reagan administration remains committed to reducing proposed fiscal 1981 spending by two percent. Fiscal 1981 started last Oct. 1.

Peru Claims Border Win

the agreement were the United States, Argentina, Brazil and Chile.

They issued an urgent appeal for a cease-fire, Sunday, following an overnight meeting in Brasilia, Brazil.

Peru and Ecuador have sent their foreign ministers to Washington, where they will seek support for their positions at an emergency meeting, Monday, of the Organization of American States.

Only After Victory

Earlier Sunday, Belaunde told reporters in Lima that Peru would accept a cease-fire when Ecuadorian forces were ousted from a third and final outpost.

ESI-Peru later announced, "Peruvian forces took possession at 4:40 p.m. CST of vigilance post PV4, completing the total possession and full dominion of national territory in the eastern slope of the Cordillera of the Condor."

Belaunde, who said Peru "would keep its eyes open" even after hostilities ended, spoke to reporters following a flag-raising ceremony at the National Palace watched by thousands of cheering and flag-waving Peruvians in the city's main square, the Plaza de Armas.

and attaining an altitude of 65,000 feet. The F-1 went into service in the French air force in 1973 and is used mainly as an interceptor. It has a range of 500-600 nautical miles.

Iraq purchased the French jets as part of its policy of diversifying the weaponry of its mainly Soviet-equipped army and air force. It was presumed that the new aircraft would immediately be put into service by Iraq in the war with Iran.

French government sources said Iran was told more than a month ago that the planes would be delivered as planned.

The Iran-Iraq war has placed the French government in a delicate position. While not wanting to offend the Iraqis, neither does it want to risk the ire of Iraq, which provided 24 percent of France's oil requirements last year.

In addition to the order for Mirage jets, Iraq had signed a number of other contracts for French military equipment long before the outbreak of the war, Sept. 22.

Still to be delivered are 100 AMX 30 heavy tanks, 50 AMX 10 light tanks, 40 Puma transport helicopters and 20 Gazelle light helicopters. France already had made delivery of 400 armored vehicles to Iraq before the war.

The Iraqis also have expressed interest in buying the Mirage 2000, the Alpha jet trainer and naval vessels from France.

60 Evacuated From Blazing Greek Tanker

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — Sixty people aboard an empty oil tanker off the Virginia coast were evacuated, Sunday night, as a fire in the vessel's engine room continued to smolder, the Coast Guard said.

The fire on the 800-foot tanker Aikaterini, located 40 miles east of Chincoteague, had been reported about 9 a.m., said a Coast Guard spokeswoman, Seaman Barbara Smith. The Coast Guard reported the fire was extinguished by late Sunday afternoon.

Shortly after 7 p.m., however, Coast Guard personnel from the cutter Unimak boarded the tanker and found the engine room "very hot." There were no flames but "a lot of smoke," said Coast Guard spokesman Patrick Twiss.

The engine room is in "close proximity to the fuel tank," Twiss said, so it was "determined there is a significant danger to the vessel. For that reason it was felt it would be wise to evacuate it."

Among those evacuated were the 36 Aikaterini crewmen and 24 Navy personnel from the destroyer Radford, which had gone to the scene.

The tanker crew was taken to the Unimak and the Navy personnel returned to the destroyer, Twiss said.

A firefighting party with equipment to disperse smoke and cool the engine room was preparing to board the tanker today, Twiss said.

The Greek-registered vessel left Philadelphia on Sunday for Aruba, in the Dutch West Indies, Miss Smith said.

The fire, which was contained in the tanker's engine room, knocked out the vessel's power, she said.

rain over north, south and east Texas during the morning. There was also some light snowfall over the north Panhandle for a few hours in the afternoon, according to the weatherman.

For later in this week in the Lubbock area, the weather service forecasts a gradual warming trend and fair skies.

The high on Wednesday is expected to reach the upper 50s, with a low in the upper 20s. The high on Thursday may get up to 60 degrees, with a low about 30.

No precipitation is expected through Thursday for this area, but the weather service extended outlook for Saturday through Feb. 11 calls for above normal precipitation. Near normal temperatures are expected for this period.

Charges On Terrorism Rile Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — The government-controlled Soviet press stepped up its criticism of the new U.S. administration, Sunday, accusing Washington of "playing a dangerous game" by alleging that the Kremlin supports international terrorism.

The tone of Sunday's commentary, taken with press criticisms of the previous two days, appeared to signal a substantially harsher Soviet stance toward the Republican administration.

"The kid gloves are definitely off," observed one Western diplomat here.

"Campaign Of Lies"

The Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda said administration charges of Soviet involvement in terrorism amount to "a campaign of lies and hypocrisy." The party daily also said U.S. policies are "dangerous to peace," and repeated an earlier Soviet charge that President Reagan has "deliberately distorted" Soviet foreign policy goals.

Pravda said the administration's comments on terrorism may be part of an "attempt to strike at processes of international detente, to justify the negative American stand toward limitation of strategic armaments and other measures aimed at relaxation of international tension."

Soviet leaders refrained from any criticism of the new president or his advisers after Reagan's election in November, even though Reagan had been sharply critical of the Soviet Union during the presidential campaign and the Soviets had characterized him earlier as a "knight of the Cold War."

Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev said Nov. 17 that any efforts Reagan made to improve relations between the two countries "will meet with a positive reaction on our part."

However, the series of Soviet press criticisms that began Friday seemed to suggest that the Soviets were willing to trade punch for verbal punch with Reagan and his advisers.

Soviet authorities regularly declare that a hard-line approach will have no effect on their actions and that "it is impossible to deal with Moscow from a position of strength."

Carter Aide 'Lie' Lashed By Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass on Sunday accused former U.S. presidential security advisor Zbigniew Brzezinski of a "crude and unpardonable lie" for reportedly saying Jimmy Carter averted Soviet military intervention in Poland early last December.

The Swiss newspaper Suisse reported Saturday that Brzezinski told a European business seminar last week in Davos, Switzerland, that Carter learned a Soviet airborne division was ready to intervene in Poland Dec. 7. The newspaper quoted Brzezinski as saying the move was called off after Carter, then president, sent a strong warning to Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev.

Tass called the report an "invention" and said it was an attempt "to divert attention from the West's attempts to interfere in the internal affairs of peoples' Poland."

A $300 reward is offered for information concerning fugitive Eddie Taylor, wanted for felony theft of services.

The man is described as a 26-year-old white male, 5 foot 11, 126 pounds with black hair and blue eyes.

Information concerning fugitive Robert Parra, wanted for felony theft, will bring a $300 reward from Crime Line. He is described as a 39-year-old Mexican male, 5 foot 6 and 140 pounds with black hair and brown eyes.

A $300 reward is offered for information concerning the Tuesday burglary of a home in which loss was estimated at $1,350.

Police were called to 3708 Ave. E about 6:20 p.m. Tuesday, where the victim said the rear door to his home had been kicked open. Taken was a J.C. PEOPLE PLACES THINGS

More College Students Using Federally Guaranteed Loans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Inflation has raised the incomes of families whose sons and daughters entered college as freshmen this year, but significantly more students are borrowing to finance their schooling, a national survey of the class of 1984 reports.

Results of the 15th annual survey of entering freshmen conducted by UCLA and the Washington, D.C.-based American Council on Education were announced Saturday.

The study found today's freshmen are more supportive of women in traditionally male-dominated professions — and likely to produce more women graduates in these professions — while generally accepting many of the values of the women's liberation movement.

Sixty percent of the students — the highest ever in the survey's history — described themselves as "middle-of-the-road." Support for legalizing marijuana fell, while support for busing to achieve school desegregation rose.

Questionnaires were completed by 187,124 entering freshmen at 355 two-and-four-year institutions, and the results were adjusted to reflect the views of 1.7 million full-time freshmen nationwide.

The share of freshmen whose parents make at least $25,000 a year rose 4.4 percent to 42.8 percent, while those with income below $10,000 fell 1.3 percent to 14.6 percent.

But more freshmen than ever before — 30.9 percent — have federally guaranteed student loans, up from 13.2 percent last year and double the 1978 rate of 10.4 percent.

Some 27.2 percent of the women in this year's freshman class said they planned a career in business, engineering, law or medicine — an increase over a record 25.9 percent set last year and up 400 percent over 1966, when only 5.9 percent were pursuing such careers.

In contrast, the percentage of men seeking professional careers has changed little over the 14 years, from 48.9 percent in 1966 to 49.7 percent in 1980.

A record-93.3 percent of all students said they agreed that "women should receive the same salary and opportunities for advancement as men in comparable positions," while support for the view that "the activities of married women are best confined to the home and family" fell 1.6 percent, to 26.6 percent.

Ten years ago, 47.8 percent said a woman's place was in the home.

"These trends, no doubt reflect the continuing influence of the women's movement on the attitudes and aspirations of our young people," said UCLA professor Alexander W. Astin.

"It's almost like the values underlying the women's movement, which were considered liberal or left, are now considered mainstream values," he said.

On other topics:

Some 79.8 percent of the freshmen advocated more government action on the environment and energy conservation, up from 73.8 percent a year ago.

Guitarist, Church Drop Suits

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Guitarist Gabor Szabo has dropped a $21 million suit charging the Church of Scientology with embezzling his money, kidnapping and harassing him and the church has dropped its suit charging Szabo with fraud.

In a telephone interview Friday from Tucson, Ariz., where he is appearing, Szabo said he dropped the suit a week ago because "I found it too time-consuming and I couldn't concentrate on my career." He said he stood by his original allegations.

The church filed a countersuit in March 1980 charging Szabo with fraud. As part of the settlement, that suit also was dropped.

Szabo filed suit a year ago saying the Church of Scientology had taken over his career and his life after he sought help from their drug treatment program.

He had accused the church of inducing him to sign a personal management contract with Artists International, a company that he said was an arm of the church and more concerned with using Szabo's name to win converts than managing his career.

He alleged the company had charged him 26 percent of his gross income, but failed to account for or pass on to him money he earned.

In a statement, the church said Friday that in depositions Szabo had retracted his charges that threats, physical force and restraints had been used.

"We expected Mr. Szabo to ask for a settlement soon after his admission that the earlier charges he had made were false," the Rev. Douglas Smith said in the statement. "It saddens me to see an artist fallen on hard times, but that wasn't really justification to extort money from us."

Youth Fools Train Officials

NEW YORK (AP) — A 15-year-old who piloted a subway train through lower Manhattan after the regular motorman became ill and left the train in the young boy's hands "even fooled the conductor," police say.

"The kid stopped at all the stations," Transit Authority Police Capt. James Costello said Friday after the boy and the motorman were taken into custody.

Transit Police said Carl Scholack, 46, a subway motorman for 13 years, turned over the throttle of his IND "E" train to the youth about 11:25 p.m. Thursday and got off the train at 34th Street and Eighth Avenue.

The youngster, identified as Darius McCullom, then took the train to the end of the line, the World Trade Center, where he was apprehended as he prepared to take the eight-car train on the return trip to Queens.

Scholack reboarded the train at 34th Street and later was charged with reckless endangerment, endangering the welfare of a minor and endangering property, police said. Detectives said he should have radioed a supervisor to arrange for a substitute motorman.

Officials said they became aware of the problem after a witness at the 14th Street station reported seeing "a very young person" operating the train.

The youth, who authorities said had learned about the subway system by hanging around the train yards, was charged with being the unauthorized operator of a subway train. He was released to his parents.

Congressman Hit By Fired Aide

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Rep. Albert Lee Smith says he is "disappointed" in an aide who punched him in the mouth after the congressman fired him in a dispute over a minority jobs program.

The Alabama Republican said the blow made him fall backward on a marble staircase at the federal courthouse building where the incident occurred Saturday night. He was treated briefly at St. Vincent's Hospital and told a reporter he received five stitches on the back of his head but was not seriously hurt.

Lige Richardson, who admitted punching Smith, and Pete Gresham, another fired aide, were taken into custody and held for about two hours by the U.S. Marshal's Office before being released, according to R.T. Gregg, administrative assistant to Smith.

Smith, who was elected to his first term last November, later said he was "disappointed" in Richardson, but said he would ask the U.S. Attorney's office not to press charges. It is a federal offense to assault a congressman.

Richardson said he punched Smith because "of the fact that he lied to us."

He said that minutes before the altercation, the congressman had told him and Gresham that they had been fired because of their involvement in a program designed to provide jobs for young people.

Richardson said he and Gresham had been called in to meet with the congressman to discuss their involvement in a program called Positive Action for Youth, a program which tries to locate jobs for minority youths.

Richardson said he and Gresham were told they were being fired for meeting, without authorization, with Birmingham Mayor Richard Arrington about the program earlier in the week.

Gregg said the two were dismissed because they had pushed the program as Smith's representatives after being told not to.

Playwright To Meet Sadat

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Playwright Arthur Miller is expected to meet Egyptian President Anwar Sadat this week along with other figures prominent in Egypt's cultural life.

Miller, who arrived Saturday, said in a statement to the Middle East News Agency that Sadat's efforts to secure peace with Israel were "great," and he expressed hope that such efforts would lead to a "just and genuine" peace in the Middle East.

"I was looking forward a long time ago to undertake this visit," the agency quoted Miller as saying.

Miller is the author of "Death of a Salesman," "The Crucible" and other plays.

Man Writes Check In Granite

DOVER, Del. (AP) — The clerk of Dover Magistrate Court VII paid a Virginia man's $30.50 speeding ticket after deciding his check — etched on a 40-pound slab of pink granite — would make a good conversation piece.

"We're keeping it as a memorial, we'll put fresh flowers at one end and a lighted candle at the other," said clerk Margie Nolette.

"When we first lifted the package we thought it was a case of someone paying a ticket in pennies again," she said Friday after receiving James McBride's check.

McBride, a Norfolk, Va., tombstone maker, said the $5.40 postage was well worth the satisfaction he gained protesting a ticket he got for exceeding 55 mph on U.S. Route 13 near Camden, Del., on Jan. 17.

McBride recalled he once protested a Virginia sales tax by writing a check in stone. "They kept my check and a couple of years later the sales tax was repealed and I got a refund," he said.

Mrs. Nolette figures she got a real bargain for $30.50 because a local stonemason told her the slab was worth $225.

"You can be sure this is one check that won't bounce," said Magistrate John Green.

Tax Evaders At Halfway House

NEW YORK (AP) — The owners of a defunct disco that was once among New York's most chic are back in New York at a halfway house after spending nearly a year in jail for tax evasion.

Steve Rubell and Ian Schrager, former owners of Studio 54, were sent to Phoenix House in Manhattan, where they'll be allowed weekend furloughs and weekday outings until 11 p.m. They are to be freed April 17.

Rubell and Schrager were released from the federal prison camp at Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Ala., late Friday night and flew directly to New York.

They were sentenced to 3½ years in prison and fined $20,000 each on Jan. 18, 1980, for evading more than $400,000 in income taxes for cash skimmed from receipts at their 54th Street disco palace, once a favorite hangout for the city's stars.

Rubell and Schrager began serving their sentence on Feb. 4 at the Manhattan Correctional Center and were moved in July to Maxwell, a minimum-security camp.

Studio 54 closed when its liquor license expired Feb. 28, and since then it has been the scene of private parties without alcohol. A Warner Bros. movie, "So Fine," is being filmed there.

An agreement to sell the club to businessman Mark Fleischman for $5 million was signed last May, but the deal hasn't been consummated because a liquor license hasn't yet been approved.

Opry Star Wants Radio Station

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Grand Ole Opry singer Ernie Ashworth is making a bid for ownership of a radio station in Alabama.

Ashworth, best known for his 1963 country music hit, "Talk Back Trembling Lips," has filed a request with the Federal Communications Commission to purchase radio station WTCB in Flomaton, Ala.

Lawford Trial Delayed

BOSTON (AP) — Actor Peter Lawford's 25-year-old son, Christopher Kennedy Lawford, appeared briefly in Boston Municipal Court on a heroin possession charge, but after three minutes the case was continued at the request of the defense.

Young Lawford, a nephew of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., had pleaded innocent to the charge at arraignment Dec. 15. The case was continued Friday to Feb. 13.

Attorney Alan Chapman said he had just taken the case and asked for time to study it.

Lawford, dressed in a tan suit, tie, button-down shirt and cowboy boots, said nothing during the session. Free on personal recognizance, he left immediately with Chapman.

The first-year Boston College Law School student was arrested Dec. 13 after police stopped his car.

Jogging Rule Unpopular

SEATTLE (AP) — Walk, jog or run, stroll with the kids or romp with the dog around Green Lake, and chances are you're going the wrong way, a city Parks and Recreation Department study shows.

Park rules for the paved track around the nearly circular lake call for walkers, joggers and runners to move clockwise and for roller skaters and bicyclists to go counterclockwise.

However, the study released Friday shows that 76 percent of the joggers and 80 percent of all those on the three-mile track "nevertheless prefer to travel counterclockwise."

Anderson To Teach Seminar

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — John Anderson, the unsuccessful independent presidential candidate, will serve as a visiting professor at the University of Illinois beginning Feb. 16.

Peter Hay, dean of the College of Law, said the former Illinois congressman will teach a twice-weekly seminar for one month.

Hay said Anderson's lectures will cover congressional rule-making, the War Powers Act and campaign financing legislation. Anderson also will give two public lectures, but the dates have not been announced.

Anderson represented the 16th District in Northern Illinois for more than 20 years as a moderate Republican and ran for president as an independent candidate in 1980.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Q. In 1944 or 1945, I purchased a war bond for each of my children and myself. We recently had a fire at home, which destroyed everything. Is there anything that can be done about the bonds?

A. It's a proud boast of the U.S. Treasury Department that any lost, stolen, mutilated or destroyed U.S. Savings Bond will be replaced by a duplicate with the same issue date.

Or, after establishing satisfactory proof, you and your children can collect the bonds' redemption values — the original purchase prices, plus accrued interest.

Here's the procedure you must follow:

Write the Bureau of the Public Debt, 200 Third St., Parkersburg, West Virginia 26101. Give all the information you can about the bonds — including their serial numbers, if you know them.

If that fire left even charred fragments of the bonds, send them along in your letter.

The Treasury will send you Form PD 148. Fill it out and return it to the Bureau of the Public Debt.

Then wait. Over the years, letters to the column have indicated that getting duplicates for lost savings bonds is far from the world's fastest process.

You will be able to speed things up if you have the serial numbers. Anyone who owns savings bonds is wise to keep a record of the numbers in a safe place, apart from the bonds. A better move is to keep bonds and all other securities in a safe deposit box.

Q. Didn't I read in your column some time ago that a bank can only "request" that a person give his or her Social Security number when cashing U.S. Savings bonds?

A. When was the rule changed, so that a person must give his or her SS number when cashing savings bonds?

A. On July 1, 1980, not too long after the item you recall appeared in this space. Evidently, some people weren't going along with the "request." So, the rules were tightened.

Social Security numbers, of course, are used as taxpayer identification numbers. When fed into the Internal Revenue Service's computer system, the numbers allow the revenuers to catch people who redeem Series E bonds and "forget" to report the interest on their tax returns.

Q. My wife and I are both 28 and have a combined annual income of $30,000. We have $3,000 in a regular savings account and we put $50 a month into U.S. Savings Bonds through the payroll savings plan where I work.

A. We are considering putting $1,000 of our savings account into a money market mutual fund and putting our next income tax refund — about $1,000 — into a growth mutual fund. After that, we would put the $50 a month into the growth fund, instead of savings bonds.

Q. Do you consider our plans to be prudent?

A. For a young couple, building their finances for the future, your plans have to be counted as quite prudent.

You'll take on no real risk by moving money from the savings account to the money market fund. And you increase the yield on that money, substantially.

The move into the growth fund will carry with it risk and, hopefully, greater financial rewards. You seem to be in a position to take on a moderate amount of risk.

My advice is to do what you are considering. And stick to your steady investing program. Don't let future ups and downs — especially the "downs" that invariably come along — deter you.

DOYLE welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Ex-Hostage Tells Of Escape Attempt

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Former hostage William Belk says he tried to escape from his Iranian captors in December 1979 and made it to the top of the wall around the U.S. Embassy compound before a guard opened fire and drove him back inside.

Belk, a 44-year-old foreign service communications officer, described the adventure in a copyright story in Sunday's editions of The State.

He said he was being housed in one of two residences on the embassy grounds when, on Dec. 23 at about 11 p.m., he wriggled free from torn sheets tying his hands and quietly cut through a screen on the window of his upstairs room, climbing onto the roof.

Belk said he had hoped to leave under the cover of darkness, but "much to my chagrin, I found out that the lights to the compound that embassy workers had not been able to get working in recent days were on. It was lit up like a stadium and here I was sitting on top of a building."

He crawled to a courtyard where students were walking around in small groups.

"I decided the only thing I could think of to get out of the courtyard was to act like a student," Belk said. "I had a sweater, so I pulled it up over my head and I pretended to put it on and started mumbling away. I walked right out behind five other students."

He ducked around a building and was confronted by a female guard with an automatic weapon.

He edged closer and she commanded him in Farsi to stop. Belk wrestled with her and grabbed the magazine from the weapon as she fired two shots.

Belk said he broke loose and had made it to the top of the wall when an armed patrol spotted him and opened fire.

"I was shook up from the running and the excitement and I stumbled on top of the wall, fell back into the compound and hurt my leg. I couldn't run any further and I couldn't get back on top of the 12-foot wall so I tried to hide as well as possible."

The militants converged on him. "I thought that was it. I don't think your mind allows you to be afraid at particular times. I wasn't scared," said the former Marine.

Belk said he was slapped around by the militants, then taken back to his room and blindfolded. Later, they brought someone to check his leg. Then three others came and charged Belk with having CIA connections.

"Then the son-of-a-gun kicked me in the leg. I thought that was uncalled for," Belk said.

"He said the people who try to escape get shot and that's where he pulled the weapon trick on me. He pulled a .45, put it to my ear and clicked it. I wasn't about to beg him. If they were going to do it, they were going to do it."

Belk said if he had made it over the wall he would have headed for the mountains.

For the next 10 days Belk was kept in solitary confinement. He said he kept busy with mental exercises, such as planning the landscaping for his home in West Columbia.

"I also invented a child's game. I call my game 'Hostage.' I wrote Parker Brothers about it. I've got the game firmly in my mind. I haven't drawn it out. I had the rules written out (in Iran)."

After 10 days, Belk was allowed to have books, and he read a lot of them. His favorites were works by Ernest Hemingway and Joseph Conrad.

Hostages Were CIA Agents, Reports Say

LONDON (UPI) — Documents found by Iranian militants who stormed the U.S. Embassy in Tehran Nov. 4, 1979 named three Americans there as CIA agents and gave a rare glimpse of the tricks of the spy trade, the Observer reported Sunday.

Observer reporter Ian Mather said he was among a handful of Western journalists in Tehran at the time of the takeover to receive photocopies of the documents which appear to show the three seized as hostages — Thomas Ahern Jr., Malcolm Kalp and William Daugherty — were CIA employees.

Ahern, 47, of McLean, Va., was a State Department political attache sent to Tehran in June 1979. Kalp, 42, of Fairfax, Va., was economic and commercial officer at the embassy; and Daugherty, 33, of Ossining, N.Y., was a defense liaison officer assigned to the political section of the embassy.

None of them was available for comment on the report.

Mather said he saw the original documents being photocopied. He also said he had a photocopy of eight pages of instructions to "Timmermans" on how to activate a fake passport and vaccination certificate.

The Iranian militants claimed they found a fake passport in Ahern's desk, with the American diplomat's picture on it but in the name of of Belgian businessman Paul Timmermans.

Mather says the documents suggest Charge d'Affaires L. Bruce Laingen knew the CIA was about to launch a new offensive in Iran and that the embassy had considered helping agents of the shah's secret police, Savak.

But "(the documents) do not demonstrate that the Americans were seeking to undermine the Iranian revolution," Mather wrote. "Neither do they justify the taking of hostages or the subsequent maltreatment of them."

"They do explain why a group of un-sophisticated militants, obsessed with hatred of the United States and believing that CIA plotting lay behind all Iran's troubles, should have convinced themselves they had uncovered a 'nest of spies'."

One document sent by Laingen to the State Department in Washington said efforts were being made to limit knowledge of CIA activities in the embassy.

'Bitter' Viet Veteran Dies In Shootout

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP) — The wife of a Vietnam veteran who was killed in a shootout with police says her husband was despondent over the welcome given to the hostages who returned from Iran.

Gary Cooper, 34, was killed by gunfire Friday night during a siege at his apartment building in this northern Indiana steel-making town south of Chicago.

"He was bitter because these people (the freed hostages) were made national heroes and they might be given $100 a day for every day they were in Iran," Cooper's wife, Barbara, said Saturday.

"He called them plain kidnap victims. He wanted to know what was being done for the Vietnam veterans."

Cooper, a former Marine who spent three years in Vietnam, was laid off from his job as a welder at a factory in Hammond last May and had been unable to find work, his wife said. The factory has closed.

Lake County Coroner Albert Willardo said Cooper was shot twice by handgun fire. There were conflicting reports of the incident.

Police said they were called to the scene to break up what they called a domestic dispute. They said Cooper was armed with a shotgun and refused to come out of his apartment.

A gun battle erupted after Cooper's 8-year-old son, Craig, came out of the building, officials said. It wasn't clear whether the child had been held hostage or who fired the first shot.

Mrs. Cooper, however, said she was at work when the incident began and came home to talk her husband out of the apartment. She said she didn't go into the apartment.

"I begged the cops not to hurt him," Mrs. Cooper said afterward. "They never gave him a chance. It was total chaos. They told me that if he didn't put his gun down, they were going to shoot him."

Police said Cooper had fired the shotgun into a tree in the back yard of the apartment building late Friday night. Neighbors called police who found him barricaded in his apartment, police said.

Violence Still Plagues Riot-Torn Penitentiary

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Inmates are still killing each other at the New Mexico State Penitentiary, one year after 33 prisoners died in one of the most brutal uprisings in U.S. penal history.

Millions of dollars have been spent to repair the prison, investigate the riot, prepare prosecution and defense of prisoners charged with riot crimes and pay for studies on how to improve the system.

Yet prisoners say that except for a reduction in the population — from 1,156 at the time of the Feb. 23 riot to the current 544 — little has been done to address the grievances that sparked the violence. These include harassment and brutality by guards, lack of educational, vocational or recreational opportunities, and poor quality food.

And attacks by inmates on one another have not abated, either.

On Sept. 18, George Saavedra was found in his cell stabbed to death. About a month later, Apolinar Paul Moraga was knifed to death in front of witnesses in a recreation yard.

On Dec. 17, Theodore John Quintana was found dead in his cell from what was determined to be a cocaine overdose. His death is not being treated as murder, but Santa Fe District Attorney Eloy Martinez said his office is "not satisfied" that the overdose was voluntarily injected.

Four days before Christmas, Ricardo Tafuya was found dead in his cell. Evidence indicated he had been strangled, a prosecutor said.

And on Jan. 24, the prison was locked down after stabbings and other disturbances had left one prisoner critically wounded.

"At night, it's safe because the doors are locked," said inmate Gilbert Trujillo, 25, a resident of Cellblock 5, where prisoners with reputations as informers are housed. Trujillo said in a recent interview that he wouldn't dare take a nap during the day, when cells are open.

Like Trujillo, many of the inmates who died during the 36-hour takeover were believed, rightly or wrongly, to be "snitches" who informed on fellow inmates in return for favors from the guards.

Corrections Secretary Roger Crist said it is a recognized fact of prison life that violence continues for a year or more after a riot. Incidents "certainly aren't welcome, but are expected," he said.

"Following a riot situation, there is a degree of uncertainty. Staff is unnerved, inmates are unnerved," said Crist, adding a "mammoth amount of change" is in the works.

Contributing to the uneasiness is inmates' knowledge that some of them will be charged with riot crimes — in some cases, death penalty offenses.

Not only are prisoners fearful of being indicted, they also are worried about which of their fellow inmates might testify against them, Crist said.

To date, nine inmates in two groups have been indicted for two murders. One of the nine has already pleaded guilty under an agreement to testify against his former co-defendants. He was sentenced to life imprisonment immediately after he entered his plea and is being held at an undisclosed location.

Deputy District Attorney Dick Baker said 78 riot crimes cases are under investigation. Many involve several defendants, and District Attorney Martinez said as many as 125 prisoners may be indicted.

In June, state Attorney General Jeff Bingaman released a report on the riot, confirming that prison administrators had forewarned of serious trouble and listing a number of security lapses.

Mara Taub of the Coalition for Prisoners' Rights described the post-riot period as a time of "more harassment and more death." She attacked proposals to build new prisons as "more of what didn't work — more security, more prisons, more people in prison."

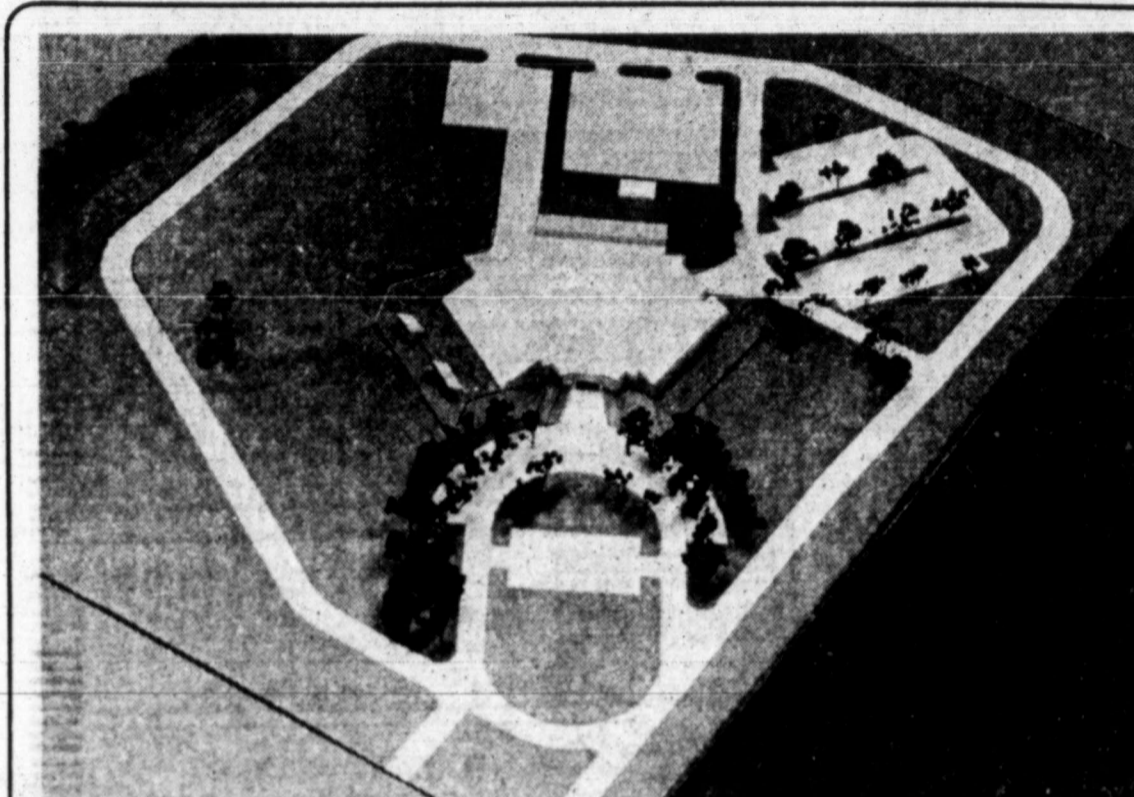

Miss Taub rejects the word "riot" for the events of Feb. 23. It was an "uprising," she said. "We think that people were reacting to the way they were being treated. How would any of us have reacted if we were treated that way?"

To commemorate the anniversary, about 30 organizations staged a program over the weekend, culminating Sunday with a speech by the national coordinator of Amnesty International's project to abolish the death penalty.

Inside the prison, Crist said no special security measures were in effect. He said he expected inmates to engage in "sober reflection" during the anniversary.

Tech Ag Dean Optimistic About Proposed New Plant Stress Lab

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Increasing the reliability of agricultural production on the Great Plains — including the development of drought-resistant grain and fiber crops — will be the goal of a proposed multi-million dollar U.S. Department of Agriculture Soil Moisture and Plant Stress Laboratory.

The Texas Tech University board of regents approved the preliminary design plans Saturday for the structure which would be built, if funded by Congress, on Tech land bordering 19th Street, west of the School of Law.

Dr. Samuel E. Curl, dean of Tech's College of Agricultural Sciences, later this spring will testify before the agriculture appropriation subcommittees of both the U.S. House and Senate on the importance of the proposed research facility.

"If we can bring that kind of research thrust to this area it will be of great benefit to our agriculture producers," Curl said, noting that "over half of the economy of the South Plains area is directly tied to agriculture."

Although the proposed lab would be of special significance to the South Plains and West Texas, officials say the facility would aid agricultural production in all the Great Plains states including Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, Wyoming, the Dakotas and Montana. Four states with major dryland farming areas, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and California, would also benefit from the research, officials say.

A committee of scientists from the U.S. Department of Agriculture found Lubbock the "ideal" location for the lab because Tech's agricultural research centers already are located on each of the three kinds of soils that are typical of the western half of the Great Plains. Those soil types are sandy, mixed and hardland.

All of the Great Plains states, which includes more than 160 million acres of crop land, are faced with drought problems and declining water tables.

"In this area of course we do have a real problem with drought conditions," Curl said. "The whole idea of the research lab is to develop varieties of plants which will be drought tolerant."

Drought tolerant plants could have a major impact on the agricultural economy because officials note that localized droughts affect parts of the Great Plains almost every year.

USDA estimates of yield comparisons between 1972 and 1973 (good years) and 1975 and 1976 (drought years) for eight Great Plains states show a total loss of $3.25 billion in production.

"Crop research areas that may be investigated in the laboratory will include drought tolerance, water stress and photosynthetic response, plant nutrition, soil-water management, seedling establishment and vigor, genetics and breeding, weed control and cultural management," Curl said.

The dean said research will focus primarily on cotton and grain sorghum, but that scientists also will examine other plants that can thrive under West Texas agricultural conditions.

Suggestions from area farmers will be welcomed, Curl said, noting that, "We always want input from them so we know the problems facing West Texas agriculture."

If federally funded, the lab would be staffed by more than 20 USDA scientists and additional technicians.

Tech would benefit because those scientists would also be adjunct members of the agriculture faculty, although their salaries would be paid by Congress.

"This means they would work with our graduate students," Curl said, noting that it would be a big boost to the graduate program in agricultural sciences at Tech.

The first scientist from the USDA group already has an office at Tech. He is Dr. Bob L. McMichael, a plant physiologist, who holds an adjunct appointment in Tech's department of plant and soil science.

The USDA already is funding the second year of a plant stress program at Tech. Curl said the research deals with the effect of lack of moisture on plants.

Congress allotted $800,000 for initial program planning and architectural design of the research facility in 1978. Since then the government has appropriated additional money for the plant stress research now being conducted at Tech.

"Hopefully the entire project will be fully funded soon," Curl said.

Rape Law Revision To Be Discussed

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements' attempt to undo a rape decision that "outraged Texans" goes before a House committee today.

In fact, the governor's anti-crime program will be the big attention-getter in the 67th Legislature's fourth week.

The agenda looks like this:

— Clements' bill to set up halfway houses for parolees and restrict the independence of the six parole commissioners probably will get Senate floor action today or Tuesday.

— The House Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence will hold a hearing Tuesday on the governor's bill raising penalties for sexually abusing children and revising the law on aggravated rape.

— On Wednesday, the House Inter-governmental Affairs Committee will hold a hearing on Clements' bill giving local governments control over distribution of pornography to minors.

The parole bill would make the commissioners employees of the three-member Board of Pardons and Paroles rather than independent state officials.

Board members often are outvoted by commissioners, who work at the prisons and interview candidates for parole. If passed, the bill probably would reduce the number of parole recommendations.

David Dean, the governor's general counsel, said the aggravated rape bill is needed because of a 1979 Texas Court of Criminal Appeals decision.

Aggravated rape differs from ordinary rape in the degree of violence and the possible punishment, up to life imprisonment compared with a maximum 20 years.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals reversed an aggravated rape conviction in 1979 even though the 24-year-old victim was beaten up and dragged naked down a gravel road. The court said the rape was not "aggravated" because the rapist did not display a knife or gun or inflict "serious bodily injury."

"Texas was outraged by that decision," Dean said.

Clements' bill would enable a jury to convict for aggravated rape if the victim's unrefuted testimony established she feared for her life or thought she was in danger of serious injury.

Dean said a WFAA-TV series in Dallas on sexual abuse of children prompted Clements to ask the Legislature to raise the maximum penalty from 20 years to life.

"Judges and juries now have no ability to deal harshly with someone who commits these crimes," Dean said.

Texas Tech University Faculty Members' Tenure Approved

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Twenty-eight Texas Tech University faculty members received tenure Saturday when their names were approved by the board of regents.

The board action, which took less than a minute, marks the end of a lengthy evaluation process which began at the department level at the beginning of the fall semester.

Faculty members serve a probationary period, ranging from three to seven years, before acquiring tenure. Normally the tenure evaluation process begins in the teacher's sixth year of employment.

Each faculty member under consideration for tenure is evaluated by tenured peers in his or her department, then by the department chairman, a tenure committee from within the individual colleges on campus, the college dean, the dean of the graduate school, the vice president for academic affairs, the president of the university and the board of regents.

Tenure is a continuing appointment that assures a faculty member's employment may be terminated only for "adequate cause." Those causes include gross neglect of duty, moral turpitude, retirement or "unavoidable termination" because of financial exigency or change in academic programs at a university.

Twelve teachers in the College of Arts and Sciences received tenure: Robert W. Cosgrove, English; Ulrich Goebel, German and Slavic languages; Ralph H. Atkinson, health, physical education and recreation; James E. Brink, history; Jerry C. Hudson, mass communications; William Westney and Ron A. Pellegrino, both from the music faculty; Roger C. Schaefer, political science; Jane L. Wiener and James R. Clopton, both of the psychology faculty; Forrest A. Newlin, theater arts; and Curt Hamre, speech pathology and audiology.

The College of Agricultural Sciences had seven tenure appointments: Fred S. Guthery, range and wildlife management; Norman W. Hopper, plant and soil science; William P. Morrison, entomology; Donald E. Orr and Carl R. Richardson, both from the animal science faculty; Arthur Stoeker, agricultural economics; and James K. Wangberg, entomology.

Tenure endorsement in the College of Education went to these five faculty members: Dee LaMont Johnson and Paula S. Lawrence, both in curriculum and instruction specializations; Nina Ronshausen, early childhood and elementary education; Jerry Willis, education foundations services; and Michael Mezack III, higher education.

Three faculty members in the College of Business Administration and also three in the College of Home Economics received tenure. They are David S. Kidwell, finance; Paul Munter, accounting; and Lane K. Anderson, accounting; all from business administration and Albert W. Gustafson, family management, housing and consumer science; Julian E. Spallholz, food and nutrition; and Paul E. McGhee, home and family life; all from home economics.

Two tenure endorsements went to the School of Law for James W. Bowers and Richard W. Maxwell.

Six faculty members, ranging in rank from instructor to associate professor, received tenure in the College of Engineering. They are Beverly J. Cheatham and Donald James Watts, both in architecture; Uzi Mann, chemical engineering; Erich E. Kunhardt and John J. Murray, both in electrical engineering; and Clarence E. Teske, engineering technology.

In addition to the 28 tenure announcements, there were 35 promotions. Of that total of 63 personnel changes, 19 persons received both tenure and promotions simultaneously.

FULL FACILITIES NOW IN LUBBOCK, ODESSA, AMARILLO

Western Clarklift And Supply Continues Tradition Of Growth

Throughout its history, the record of Western Clarklift & Supply, Inc. has been that of service, quality in every product, and continued growth.

Affording finest in materials handling equipment, every operation and every department of Western Clarklift & Supply is geared to serve.

Graphic example of this growth and service is the recent establishment of its Odessa facility, a complete service establishment affording new and used equipment—sales, parts, rental, and allied lines from its 2410 Marco Ave. location in Odessa, phone 915-563-4832.

A full-operation Amarillo facility is on the job, also, at 6640 Canyon Drive in Amarillo.

The Lubbock-based operation serves in Lubbock from its modern and expanded quarters at 118 East Slaton Road, phone 745-4201.

With these three locations, Western Clarklift & Supply, Inc. offers right-at-home service throughout the Panhandle, South Plains and Permian Basin.

With a dealership in Lubbock since the early '40s, and with the present Clarklift organization here incorporated in '71, Western Clarklift has been tested and proven time and again, with an enviable record posted in every department.

The Lubbock facility, easily reached, and prominently marked on the Slaton highway, involves some 14,500 square feet under one roof, including a big 7,250 ft. service department. The parts department occupies 2,250 square feet.

A special room is equipped with latest training aids, with the emphasis on product knowledge for staff personnel, with customer-oriented presentations including mechanical training and safe driving.

Located on more than two acres of property, the Lubbock Western Clarklift & Supply building is functionally attractive, inside and outside, primarily of steel construction with finish including exposed aggregate concrete panels.

Joe Bob Johnston is president, with Danny Johnston as sales manager, and with Don Keller and Ray McGee branch managers of the Amarillo and Odessa facilities respectively.

It seems that Western Clarklift & Supply has recognized and provided all the elements necessary for meeting materials-handling lift truck needs. The product needs no introduction to those recognizing and appreciating quality and performance.

Western Clarklift, this year marking its 10th anniversary, is big enough and is close enough to the customer to serve rapidly, efficiently and economically.

Add to the full parts supply and impressive stock the situation of a well-manned staff dedicated to customer service, and one correctly can conclude that Western Clarklift's image and record of reliability is no happenstance.

So why shop around when there is one firm in West Texas, the Western Clarklift & Supply, Inc., that traditionally measures up, progressing with the area and its industry.

Whether your business involves warehousing, wholesale, compress, manufacturing, lumber, processing, meat packing or many other operations, a lift truck likely is indispensable. Let Western Clarklift & Supply assist from its Lubbock, Odessa or Amarillo locations.

Remember, bigness is more than size at Western Clarklift; it is a way of serving you, the valued customer.

Business & Industrial Review

CHEVROLETS BY THE SCORES FOR FURR'S — A major leasing contract has been signed between Modern Chevrolet Co. and Furr's, Inc. for added auto and truck units for Furr use throughout the Southwest. Shown at signing of the contract are (standing) Gordon H. Rose, Modern Chevrolet president; Jan Friederich, Furr's, Inc. president; Dewey Womack, Furr's fleet administrator; and Doc Davis, Modern's leasing manager; and (seated) Robert W. Rose, Modern's vice president and general manager; and Clyde Waddell, Furr's vice president.

Modern Chevrolet, Furr's, Inc. Ink $1-Million-Plus Contract

Modern Chevrolet Co., at Avenue Q & 41st Street in Lubbock, salutes Furr's Inc. and proudly makes joint announcement with the Furr's organization of a contract signing involving excess of $1.25 million for leasing of 140 new passenger cars and trucks for use by Furr's managers and sales personnel throughout the Southwest.

The 24-month contract was recently signed in the Furr's general offices here, with all units to be delivered by Modern's Lubbock facilities.

Representing Modern Chevrolet at the signing ceremonies were Gordon H. Rose, president; Robert W. Rose, vice president and general manager; and Doc Davis, leasing manager. Furr's participants were Jan Friederich, president; Dewey Womack, fleet administrator; and Clyde Waddell, vice president.

Gordon Rose, in congratulating the Furr's ownership and management, pointed out some significant contributions of that firm throughout the region, stating that he is glad to "contribute to the Furr's image of quality and service" with the added use of Chevrolet units from Modern.

B & I Pages Aid Buyer, Seller In Presentations

Today commences the final full week in which to arrange for participation in the Business and Industrial (B & I) pages of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal during the spring and summer months ahead.

To get full details and to complete arrangements, see an Avalanche-Journal retail advertising salesman, or call 762-8844 (Extensions 334, 306 or 313) and a representative of the advertising department will explain the program in full, helping plan a schedule of comprehensive presentations in stories and pictures, together with ads that week after week carry their impact.

"These pages have a record of proven benefit to advertiser and customer alike. You, too, should benefit. Your own story can be told effectively, prominently, professionally and correctly on these pages in the activity-packed season ahead. Don't be left out. Get full details now!"

"Haven't you said, in your own situation, that 'next time I'm going to be on the B & I pages'?"

Possibly your business associates have reported to you the effectiveness of this message medium, and readers often have expressed their appreciation and enthusiasm regarding the informative stories and ads.

"So... let's get down to business; now is the time to act!"

"Your business or service can be featured in pictures and stories in the unique B & I section, but only if action is taken before deadline just a few days away."

Effectiveness of the program is proven. One businessman wrote: "We feel the article was excellent and we truly appreciate the time you devoted in emphasizing the points we felt needed extra attention."

Another actually reported: "The ad alone resulted in a $40,000 sale that made the cost insignificant."

And there are other testimonials; these are not isolated expressions of satisfaction.

Yesterday's Dolls Today Affords Unique Selection

Several announcements are of special interest at Yesterday's Dolls Today (at 2610 Salem Ave., in Cactus Alley), already well recognized as a very special and different kind of shop.

Jean Aaron, co-owner of the shop since its founding in 1979, is sole owner, continuing the exceptional service and tremendously different stock for which the facility is noted.

What is Yesterday's Dolls Today? In brief, it affords selection from antique and collectible dolls and toys, classes in porcelain doll making, all the supplies for doll making, restoration and repair, and an inventory hard to match in antique dolls, reproductions of antiques, dolls from Germany, etc.

"Little People" Additions An added and new supply of the delightful "Little People" has arrived. These sought-after creations of Xavier Roberts are "stitch born" at Babyland General Hospital in Georgia, and made available... not "for sale" but "for adoption!"

Yes, these lovable dolls come with birth certificate, adoption papers, registry by name, and even a birthday greeting to follow on their first birthday!

No two of these soft sculptures are alike. (Be sure and see the new "Ears" baby just arrived.)

Old Toys Bought, Sold Some may not realize that toys, such as old trains, dishes, vintage buggies (some even a century old), wind-up toys, reproductions of fondly remembered toys, and other toy items are stocked.

Jean emphasizes that she is interested in buying bisque antiques and collectibles, old wind-up toys, etc. that fit in with the concept of the shop.

Stocked also are the Softworks dolls made in New York City, locally made collectibles including musical clowns, etc., other unique dolls great as conversation pieces and as collector items, etc. There is a constant "turn over" in stock at the popular Yesterday's Dolls Today, in Cactus Alley, and one is encouraged to visit often to keep abreast of the "new" and the "different."

Dollmaking Supplies Dolls are in stock from $6 to those worth hundreds of dollars.

All related supplies for dollmaking are stocked, including wigs, imported glass eyes, the shoes, socks, clothing, china paints, brushes, etc.

Costumes for the dolls in stock are thoroughly researched to provide authentic dress of the period.

As we say, "where else but Yesterday's Dolls today can all this be found!"

Items here cannot be found in "just any store."

MOISES PEREZ MARKS 5TH ANNIVERSARY

Bookbinding And Bible Repair Owner Expresses Gratitude

"This is not an advertising message; it is simply our way at Bookbinding & Bible Repair of saying 'thanks' to God and to you as we arrive at our 5th Anniversary.

"As we summarize the causes that are behind our continued existence as an institution, permit us to depart from the cold facts that are normal in any kind of business. We want to give tribute to whom the credit is really due, to our God. He is the One that has kept us alive even during the difficult times we have been through; and you, our customers, as instruments of God (yes, as angels) have been sent to help us in every struggle to survive.

Appreciate Service Opportunities
"Doing business is very hard in times such as these. Even so, we like to continue our line of work, not just as a business, but as a service to the community."

"Many of you, our customers, have expressed gratitude for our existence in such phrasing as 'we are glad you are here,' and 'your services are needed.'"

"We thank you for this kind of support; we promise to all of you that we will give our best in every job, or problem or project that you entrust to us in the future.

"We believe you know our quality of work; you have demonstrated confidence in our abilities and have confided to our hands some near impossible tasks, and you have been satisfied and have spread the word of this trust to others.

"Many thanks, we again repeat: we will do our best not to disappoint you and we will treat your projects as our own, serving your personal interest."

"You Are Special"
"We invite you to visit us, coming with confidence that you will be served as someone special, because you are special! And your work is something special; we treat it exactly that way."

Moises Perez founded Bookbinding & Bible Repair, 2235 34th St., phone 765-6761, exactly five years ago, specializing in restoration of any book related item while rendering a vast number of other services.
"Check the following outline to see if one or more of our services can be utilized in your own situation.

- (1) Books rebound or restored;
  - (2) Restoration of Bibles that are out of use because of their condition but that can be rebound and re-used again and again;
  - (3) Binding of favorite magazines such as special years of the National Geographic Magazine, or any other professional or hobby magazine or journal;
  - (4) Blank books for special occasions;
  - (5) Restoration or rebinding of antique photo albums and pictures;
  - (6) New bindings in elegant leather for special letters or documents that should be preserved;
  - (7) Restoration of heirloom family Bibles for family records and future memories;
  - (8) Lamination;
  - (9) Spiro ring bindings, and
  - (10) Name imprinting in gold.
- "Our phone is 765-6761, and our address at Bookbinding & Bible Repair is 2235 34th St., across from the clock at First Federal Savings & Loan."

Beauty, Comfort, Weather Protection, Savings Shown By Insulating Windows

Sure, storm windows and storm doors are ideal for winter. But think further: there are sandstorms ahead, and won't this protection be doubly appreciated then? Comfort is enhanced, and energy costs are lessened — in every season — by the products of Insulating Windows, Inc. 327 E. 74th St., phone 745-5768, in Lubbock.

The conscientious and capable folks there invite visits and inquiry about any aspect of their products and services.

Everything is custom made at Insulating Windows, Inc., with primary products including picture storm windows, patio sliding storm doors, aluminum replacement windows, storm windows and storm doors... and the recently publicized "economy storm window," referred to by some as "solar windows."

Yes, Insulating Windows, Inc., can provide the gassette (solar) windows at a substantial saving, and these can be very effective in "weatherization." (According to government reports, improper windows lose more energy than any other house component.)

Insulating Windows, Inc., serves guberly from its large facilities in Lubbock, at 327 E. 74th St., just south of Loop 289, with dealers including the Muleshoe Home Center in Muleshoe, and others in Brownfield and Sweetwater.

The storm windows manufactured by the firm, right here in Lubbock, provide 1½-in. to 2-in. dead air space for energy efficiency, and attachment to existing windows enables 2½ to 3-in. dead air space.

A vinyl bulb seal is featured, eliminating caulking for these.

A rubber seal is utilized for glass mold.

Storm doors are available with numerous options (2 lite or 4 lite).

Brunken Toyota Growth Linked To Product, Services, Staff

During the past 11 years, Brunken Toyota has developed a reputation for quality and service that still is on the grow.

With only 12 Toyota models to offer and with 15 dedicated employees, the dealership in 1972 moved to its present South Loop 289 and Slide Road location. In these past nine years, Brunken Toyota has expanded to 32 employees and 39 Toyota models, with a Wholesale Parts Division headed by Ron Wynn, shipping nationally, a 13-day, award-winning Service Department with Deloris Ward at the helm, and full Machine Service.

In 1980, Brunken ranked in the top 20 for sales volume of the 132 dealerships in the five-state Gulf States Toyota region.

Growth With A Reason
Ray Pipkin, sales manager, attributes much of the dealership's success to being a single-line dealership carrying a high inventory of quality Toyota cars and trucks, and the availability of parts and service. Currently the parts fill rate for Toyota is 97 per cent. Another factor, says Pipkin, is that Toyota strives to improve current products and introduces new features and technology to benefit the consumer. An example of this Toyota Total Economy goal is the Corolla, the "Number One Selling car" (not just import) worldwide. The combination of value and fuel economy appears to be the foundation of its popularity.

With such a reputable product to represent, the sales force must be equally as qualified and knowledgeable of the car-buying public's needs and desires. Brunken Toyota has assembled just such a sales team.

Teamed To Serve
Clif Cole, a lifetime resident of Lubbock, has over 35 years in the car business and is a four-time winner of the Toyota Sales Society. He was "salesman of the year" in 1972, '73, '76 and '77. As a graduate of Texas Tech, he also spent 17 years as a dealer.

Jerry Crockett, as a former manager, has nine years experience. He also has made the Toyota Sales Society while at Brunken.

Jerry Eitter has over 21 years in the automobile business, with experience in credit, insurance, public relations, sales management and sales, and is a winner of Toyota's Sales Society. While with Chevrolet, he was a member of the Legion of Leaders and the Truck Honor Sales.

Othman Khneim, born and raised in Nazareth, Israel, came to Lubbock in 1967 and graduated with a degree in engineering at Texas Tech in 1971. He has been with Brunken Toyota since '77.

John Godyn has three years service with Brunken. His experience includes used car management and service department, as well as sales.

Dickie Jackson, salesman of the year in 1973, has 11 years experience in the auto business. He also has the Toyota Sales Society honor.

Curt Kuykendall, formerly with an electronics firm, has six years in car sales and won numerous awards in domestic car sales before joining the Brunken team.

Howard Whitefield, a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, has over 25 years experience in automobile sales in the West Texas Area. He was recipient of a number of General Motors Corp. awards before coming to Brunken.

During his eight years with Brunken Toyota, Sales Manager Ray Pipkin has been used car manager, salesman of the month, a member of the Toyota Sales Society and has won a variety of other awards and trips. He is a former Redbud Lions director and served with the 1978 Boy Scout drive.

"These men work hard, individually and as a team, to keep abreast of the new products and information to better serve Brunken Toyota's valued customers. Before you make a decision on a new or used car, we believe you'll want to visit with one of Brunken Toyota's knowledgeable sales team members."

SOLUTION TO PACKAGING NEEDS — The Southwest Forest Products Lubbock facility efficiently serves a wide area, with equipment and manpower recognized for the several specialized capabilities involved. Shown here is a skilled staff group at one of the operations in the Lubbock plant. Carton taping units and printer-slotter machines are among these installations.

Southwest Forest Industries More Than Manufacturer Alone

"Serving all your packaging needs is no idle claim by Southwest Forest Industries. Lubbock's only manufacturer and designer of quality shipping cartons." The Southwest Forest Industries Container Division Lubbock facility at 506 E. 44th St., phone 747-4341, has served admirably since its opening here back in 1968, with equal appreciation extended the customer of every size.

Southwest Forest Industries does more than just furnish you a box! The capable staff, right here in Lubbock, has a very, very good track record in evaluating one's need and preferences, and then doing something about it... pronto!

Charging for the product only, Southwest Forest Industries is glad to come into one's business or industry, surveying the product to be packaged, determining the best way to pack or ship (with consideration to storage, transportation, stacking needs, etc.), taking a professional approach that even includes preparation of graphics.

Yes, all this is available, right here at home.

Aside from the quality of the corrugated containers, the convenience of such a source has proven of prime benefit to area van and storage firms, meat packers, agriculture, manufacturing industries, etc.

Southwest Forest Industries is a long-established and nationwide diversified paper and lumber manufacturing company, actually a fully integrated forest products company, with its own forests, mills and all. National headquarters is Phoenix, Ariz., with Bill Franke, corporation president, a former Texan reared in south Texas and once living in Lubbock.

Actually the sprawling corporation had its origin in East Texas, beginning as a small lumber company.

In the Lubbock plant, said one of the best equipped units of its type in the industry, some stock containers are available, with most business involving custom-made containers.

Raw corrugated blanks are brought in from the firm's El Paso plant, with the custom designing, cutting, scoring, etc. at the Lubbock 30,000 sq. ft. facility with its related special machines.

Walter M. Haas is general manager in Lubbock, marking 10 years in the industry and two years here. Assisting is a staff of 15 or more on regular basis, with Hal Hill as sales manager, and Walt Cochran as production manager.

"Service" is the big item afforded at Southwest Forest Industries Container Division in Lubbock, with customers mainly within 200 miles of the city thus afforded fast, economical and near-by supply of their corrugated container needs. Men are out in the territory on regular basis to assure fullest customer attention.

"Whatever your need in design and manufacture of corrugated containers, in modest or large quantities, we believe you will find Southwest Forest Industries, 506 E. 44th St., phone 747-4341, in Lubbock, affording a very tangible benefit. We've been around a long time, and we invite you to ask others about our service and our capabilities; we welcome opportunity of serving you in your own particular needs as we have for your friends."

Lubbock Bearing Service Voices Thoughts On American Benefits

Patriotism, an outpouring of thanksgiving, awareness of the benefits of just being an American... aren't these great feelings!

Events of recent days, with their unbridled expression of emotion, bring home to us a new recognition of the benefits we enjoy, together with challenges and responsibilities for the future.

We're glad to be a part of great America!

Just as an honorable Golden Rule guideline can work at every level of society and government, so this principal 'can and should' work in the business community of which we at Lubbock Bearing Service, Inc. are a member of longstanding.

"As we expressed on these pages at beginning of the new year, we are a firm not only appreciating friendships and blessings of the year past, but we are looking forward to service in a new year which we hope the very best for each of you."

Lubbock Bearing Service, Inc., at 1619 Ave. F, in the big facility it has occupied since 1960, conducts wholesale and retail business, selling throughout the Nation from its stock that is believed one of the largest in the entire Southwest.

It is a complete power transmission house, carrying anything needed on mechanical drives, with some 60 lines represented.

Bearings are stocked for every need. Most likely the very part needed is in the computer-controlled stock, but if not, the item is readily available, and the "old fashioned service concept of business" assures immediate attention to the customer's needs.

"This old fashioned service by folks you likely long have known and trusted is one of the greatest things a business firm can have going for its operation, we believe."

Such a situation exists at Lubbock Bearing Service, Inc., established back in 1958 but as of August 1979 completely family owned and directed.

No Newcomer

Buck Reedy, president, was one of the business' founders back over two decades ago. He heads the present operation, together with Floyd Wilson as vice president and Linda Wilson as secretary-treasurer.

Reedy and Wilson have assembled a staff that is known in the trade to be truly outstanding, knowing parts, inventory and the true meaning of service.

Randy Biggers is assistant store manager, with Jerry Bailey and Loyd Deen also on the staff.

The entire group is dedicated to best meeting the needs of the customer, whether a dealer, industrial user, manufacturer, farmer, etc.

Reedy and Wilson are longtime area residents and know from experience the multiple needs of area industry, agriculture and other business when it comes to bearings, belts, sprockets, chains, etc. for all types farm machinery, the power transmission items and related products.

ECHOES SPIRIT OF THE TIMES — Shannon Wade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wilson of the Lubbock Bearing Service, Inc., poses in apparel and setting most appropriate at this time of renewed attention to American patriotism and benefits as emphasized in the accompanying comments.

FOR GOOD MEAT, BEST PREPARATION — Willis Watts and Greg Watts of Red Barn Meat Market are shown in the montage here emphasizing the three-step cooling process and really modern facilities at the 82nd & Indiana market where beef is sent from initial aging cooler to a second room for cutting and finally to placement in the cases for customer comparison, selection and purchase.

Quality, Price, Top Selection Appeal At Red Barn Meat Market

For those of you who like to eat well and economize at the same time, Red Barn Meat Market, 8112 Indiana, can be your best friend!

Yes, it still is true at Red Barn Meat. A half of beef (U.S.D.A. Choice) Yield 1 and 2, still is $1.29 per pound!

Purchase of beef and pork cuts at this time could be a very wise move. Red Barn Meat Market owner Willis Watts points out:

Prices are sure to get higher, and I really believe now is the time to buy freezer beef and save. We like to help you hedge against short supplies and high prices, we like to save money for our customers just as we like to provide the finest meat!

Greg Watts, son of owner Willis Watts is now actively associated in the business, and both emphasize that there is a difference "in meat quality and meat preparation, and for this difference an eye-opener awaits at Red Barn.

Reports on these pages previously have pinpointed the many superior aspects of the market's operation, service and products, but special emphasis again is directed to the meticulous process involved in bringing to the customer the very finest in beef — at Red Barn Meat Market.

Not one, but three, coolers are utilized.

First, beef is brought into the aging cooler where it is kept a minimum of 10 to 14 days, with longer aging when requested by the customer.

Then, the meat is taken into another cooler where it is cut for placement in the cases.

So finally one observes, compares and selects from the cases, last of the three cooling operations.

Not just some of the beef, but all of the beef sold at Red Barn Meat Market is subjected to this process for greater customer satisfaction.

"We urge you to look for the grade on the beef you buy," is the further suggestion from this veteran butcher. All beef made available at the Red Barn Meat Market is U.S.D.A. Choice corn-fed cattle. Also, it is yield graded, we just will not buy anything above a "2" yield, meaning that we maintain the best of quality and still keep the fat content as low as possible. In addition to this, we also age our cattle, adding to the flavor and tenderness.

All cattle are from feed lots in the Hereford area.

This quality in every product, plus the across-counter service by knowledgeable staffmembers, is just part of the convincing story that unravels at Red Barn Meat Market, a logical place to trade!

Whether reason for a visit here this week is to stock up the home freezer, to secure meat for a special dinner, to pick up convenience-type items or just to browse and select where you know quality comes foremost, shopping at Red Barn Meat is a rewarding experience.

A lengthy service case is noticed upon one's entry to the spacious market. In another area, a self service case is provided.

Then, as further service, convenience type items (necessities for picnics, barbecues, etc.) are stocked, including milk, bread, chips, sauces, cookies and more.

Watts and his most capable staff take pride in introducing the customer to this "better and complete service market," a description to which a lot of area residents have attested since the market's opening in mid-1976.

The South Indiana market was planned and functionally designed to not only be attractive, but to be convenient, efficient and thoroughly service oriented.

Watts opened this big market in May 1976, as the largest independent retail meat market in all West Texas, comprising about 4,275 sq. ft. floor space under roof, plus a large parking apron with access from both Indiana and from 82nd Street.

It is neat, sanitary, attractive and easy to reach from just about anywhere!

A full variety of beef, pork, poultry and fish is stocked, the public has found. As a complete service market, orders for special cuts are welcomed, and full quarters, halves and full beaves are available.

A full line of cheese is stocked. Master Charge and Visa are accepted.

From the spacious service area one can see through expansive glass windows into the processing room, noting the efficiency of the butchers and the firm's devotion to cleanest quarters possible. Seventeen art pieces by Bill Leftwich are tastefully arranged on the service area walls.

Owner-operator Willis Watts has been a Lubbock resident 13 years. He was born and reared in West Texas and appreciates the area residents' recognition of quality meats and quality service.

For a revelation in superior products and service, a complete service market provided by "your kind of folks", a visit to Red Barn Meat Market, 82nd & Indiana, is heartily recommended. Likely such visits will become a habit for your better eating!

MIAMI (AP) — After his day's work at the People Self-Help Center in the riot-scarred Liberty City neighborhood of Miami, Johnny Jones gets into his luxury car and drives home to a quiet evening in a predominantly white suburb five miles away.

Just last year he led a far more public life — as the $58,400-a-year superintendent of Dade County public schools, the nation's fifth-largest system, the lone black member of the exclusive Orange Bowl Committee and a University of Miami trustee.

All that changed with the so-called Gold Plumbing Caper, in which Jones and a colleague were convicted of trying to use school funds to buy deluxe plumbing fixtures for his Naples, Fla., vacation home. Some fixtures — ordered but never delivered — were gold-plated.

"I try to stay in the background now," said the 47-year-old Jones, who rose from a shoeshine boy in the cotton and tobacco center of Greenville, N.C., to one of the nation's leading black educators.

He no longer travels the lecture circuit and has resigned from the Orange Bowl Committee and the university board of trustees.

"I helped a lot of people when I was superintendent, but now after this crisis, some of them don't return phone calls," he said.

Despite the setback, Jones remains active. He's completed 287 pages of the manuscript for a book on the criminal justice system and is working at the People Self-Help Center and at the Dade County Courthouse to improve conditions in Liberty City.

Jones is a leader in a drive to reorganize the neighborhood as a separate municipality within the county. The center — sponsored by the Congress of Racial Equality — ultimately is intended to offer a variety of services, including job training, legal aid and language classes for Haitians.

CORE has asked Jones to step down from his $25,000-a-year job as director of the center, saying he hasn't produced. But Jones, who took the job in October, says he hasn't had enough time for results.

"I still want to go back into education, but it would be some place in the Caribbean — Jamaica, Haiti, the Bahamas. I've even thought of opening up my own private school," he added.

A Miami jury last April found Jones guilty of trying to use nearly $9,000 in school funds to outfit his vacation home. He was convicted in October of witness-tampering and perjury solicitation, but was acquitted in the same case of a charge that he accepted some $70,000 in kickbacks from a Baltimore reading consultant who had sold Dade County a remedial program for underprivileged children.

Jones was sentenced to three years in prison and four years probation and fined $5,000. Dade Circuit Judge Thomas Scott also ordered him to spend 400 hours a year in public service work during probation.

One of Jones' former fraternity brothers, principal Solomon Barnes, was accused of ordering the deluxe plumbing for a non-existent class. Barnes was found guilty of second-degree grand theft and sentenced to the maximum five-year prison term.

Both men are free pending appeals. In his 12-year rise to power, Jones became known as an eloquent advocate of Dade County schools who wore well-tailored suits and corrected grammatical errors in memos from subordinates with a red pen.

His appeal stretched beyond the black community — a Spanish-language radio station honored him with an award in May 1977, and the City of Miami proclaimed June 18, 1977, Johnny Jones Day.

In sentencing Jones, Scott reproved the educator for violating the public trust and betraying those who had looked up to him.

Jones has defenders. "Johnny has been victimized by people who did not have good intentions," said William Perry, a school administrator and president of the Miami chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

And Jones has retained his confidence. "I don't know what I want," he said. "But I know I want the best of all worlds I grew up that way."

NEW YORK (AP) — Stone tools half a million years older than any previously known have been dug from the banks of a desolate East African gully and appear to provide the earliest evidence of human technology, scientists say.

The tools, believed to be at least 2.5 million years old, were found with fragments of animal bone at what may be an ancient campsite.

The discovery has not been formally made public in scientific literature, but those involved agreed to discuss their work with The Associated Press after it was mentioned at scientific conferences.

Scientists who have studied them say the tools are similar to — but much older than — primitive tools found at other African sites that have previously been regarded as signaling the dawn of human culture.

The discovery of tools and bones together provides the earliest evidence of the shift in diet that occurred when our ancestors included meat in an otherwise vegetarian fare, scientists said.

More importantly, they may be the first evidence of human cooperation, group behavior and the concept of a "home."

The tools, found at Hadar in the desolate Afar region of northeastern Ethiopia, consist of 48 stone cutting flakes, some of them razor-sharp, and three fist-sized "choppers."

They were found by the International Afar Expedition, a French-American team led by Maurice Taieb of the French National Center for Scientific Research (CNRS) in Marseille, Yves Coppens of the Musée de l'Homme in Paris and Don Johanson of the Cleveland Museum of Natural History.

"The basis for the date is that the rock strata in which the artifacts were found was situated immediately above a volcanic ash horizon dated to around 2.8 million years," Johanson said.

The tools were unearthed in 1977, but it was not until a geological survey of the area last year that their antiquity was proved.

"There doesn't seem to be any question now that these are dated at 2.5 million years or possibly older. This would make them the oldest evidence of cultural practices of the early hominids by more than half a million years," said Jack Harris, an archaeologist at the University of Pittsburgh.

Previously, the oldest known tools were from the Omo River in southern Ethiopia and were made just over 2 million years ago. Tools of nearly that age have been found in Tanzania and Kenya.

In December, 1976, French archeologist Helene Roche spotted scattered stone implements on the surface near a seasonal stream known as the Gona River. The site is 5 miles from where the expedition had earlier found fossils of 3.5 million-year-old pre-human ancestors.

The next month, Harris led an excavation that turned up the buried Hadar tools. Their date was established by geologists Bob Walter of the University of Toronto, James Aronson of Case Western Reserve University, Taieb and Jean-Jacques Tiercelin of CNRS.

In addition, paleontologist Michel Bédou of the University of Poitiers, France, studied a tooth found in sediments explored by Helene Roche and concluded it came from a type of elephant that lived 2.5 million years ago.

In a sense, the discovery of the tools deepens the mystery of human origins because they are considerably younger than the fossil hominids, or human ancestors, found so far at Hadar.

"It raises the question of who was making these artifacts," said Harris, "since we've got no hominids in that time horizon."

And the tools are a half million years older than Homo habilis, the first member of the genus Homo (which includes man) and our first ancestor to show an enlarged brain suggestive of higher intelligence.

"This concept of a home base is a possible example of group behavior. They may have been bringing food back to a central location to be shared," he said.

2.5 Million-Year-Old 'Campsite' Yields Earliest Known Tools

NEW YORK (AP) — Stone tools half a million years older than any previously known have been dug from the banks of a desolate East African gully and appear to provide the earliest evidence of human technology, scientists say.

LISTENS TO SENTENCE — Former Dade County School Superintendent Johnny Jones in court as he is sentenced to three years in prison and a $5,000 fine for his role in the "Gold Plumbing Caper". Today, along with their natural function of protecting fingers and toes, nails are important adjuncts to grooming. Well cared for nails are polished, trimmed, cleaned and, in the case of many women, colored in good taste. Avoid ingrown toenails, particularly of the big toe, by cutting the nail straight across. When fingernails and toenails have been cut to the desired length, they should be smoothed with a file and the cuticle gently pushed back. Everyone should have and use a few simple manicure implements.

NFC Dominates Pro Bowl, 21-7

HONOLULU (AP) — Eddie Murray, a rookie from the Detroit Lions, kicked four field goals and quarterback Steve Bartkowski threw a 55-yard scoring pass to Atlanta teammate Alfred Jenkins Sunday to lead the National Football Conference to a 21-7 Pro Bowl victory over the American Conference.

The NFC, winning its fourth consecutive Pro Bowl and sixth of the last seven National Football League all-star games, turned in a fine defensive effort against the AFC's potentially explosive offense. Led by Tampa Bay linebacker Lee Roy Selmon and Dallas tackle Randy White, the NFC defense held the AFC in check all day.

After the NFC had taken a 9-7 lead at intermission, Bartkowski gave his team some breathing room when he threw a pinpoint pass to Jenkins, who raced down the sideline and hauled in the ball on the dead run some 45 yards from the line of scrimmage.

Murray padded the NFC advantage with his fourth field goal, a 36-yarder, late in the final period.

Both the touchdown and the final field goal were set up when Los Angeles linebacker Jack Reynolds stopped Buffalo's Joe Cribbs on fourth-and-1 plays.

The AFC's only score came on a 9-yard pass from Cleveland's Brian Sipe to Stanley Morgan of New England in the second quarter.

That put the American Conference ahead 7-3, but Murray, who had kicked a 31-yarder in the opening period, hit two more field goals in the final two minutes of the first half.

White's recovery of Sipe's fumble led to Murray's second field goal, another 31-yarder. Washington's Joe Lavender intercepted a Sipe pass a minute later to set up a 34-yarder by Murray.

The NFC's final score late in the game came on a safety when the AFC was called for a holding penalty in the end zone.

Murray, a 5-foot-10, 170-pounder out of Tulane University, was named the game's Most Valuable Player as he helped the NFC gain a 7-5 advantage over its rival conference in the series.

He missed tying Garo Yepremian's seven-year-old Pro Bowl record of five field goals when a 37-yard attempt with just 22 seconds remaining hit the cross bar. Murray also missed a 37-yarder in the first quarter.

The game was marred by errors as the AFC was penalized nine times for 74 yards and the NFC 10 for 60. There were also a total of three fumbles lost and four interceptions in the game played before an Aloha Stadium record crowd of 50,360.

The NFC defense was particularly successful in shutting down the AFC's rushing game, holding league-leading runner Earl Campbell of Houston to just 24 yards on eight carries. The AFC rushing game totaled just 65 yards on 22 carries.

Bartkowski completed nine of his 21 passes for the winners, for 173 yards and the one NFC touchdown. Ron Jaworski of Philadelphia, Bartkowski's backup, was six of 16 for 47 yards.

Sipe, the NFL's top-rated passer last season, completed 10 of 15 throws for 142 yards, but was intercepted twice and lost the ball on a fumble.

Subs Spark East To NBA Victory

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Reserves Robert Parish and Michael Ray Richardson led a second-half flurry that enabled the East to build a 16-point lead and hold off a West rally Sunday for a 123-120 victory in the 31st National Basketball Association All-Star Game.

The East, which went ahead to stay 61-58 on Julius Erving's three-point play closing out the first half, scored six of the last eight points of the third quarter to increase its advantage to 97-88 going into the final period.

Richardson, who had three points and an assist in the last minute of the third period, scored two quick baskets in the final quarter and Parish added a pair of assists as the East went ahead 107-91 with 9:54 to play. Parish's second assist came after he had blocked a shot and set up a slam dunk by Cleveland's Mike Mitchell that brought a roar from the capacity crowd of 20,239.

The East led 113-99 with seven minutes to go before Kareem Abdul-Jabbar helped the West pull within three points on four different occasions, the last at 123-120 on a basket by George Gervin in the final minute.

The East failed to score on its next possession and the West took over with four seconds left. But after a timeout, Jack Sikma's try for a three-point field goal bounced off the back rim and the final buzzer sounded before the West could get off another shot.

Nate Archibald, the sparkplug player-maker of the Boston Celtics, was voted the game's most valuable player. Archibald contributed nine points and nine assists to the East victory.

Erving, the mercurial forward of the Philadelphia 76ers who was the leading vote-getter in the fan balloting for All-Star starting berths, led the East with 18 points. Parish, the center who has been so much a part of the Boston Celtics' success this season, added 16 points. Eddie Johnson of Atlanta also had 16, Mitchell finished with 14, and Richardson, of the New York Knicks, had 11.

Paul Westphal of Seattle and Dennis Johnson of Phoenix led the West with 19 points apiece.

Archibald had two big baskets in the final period, including one with 2:17 to play, giving the East a 121-116 edge that the West was unable to overcome.

The victory was the fifth in the past seven games for the East, which leads the All-Star series 20-11. And it raised Coach Billy Cunningham's record in these games to 3-0, making him the second winningest coach in All-Star history behind Red Auerbach, who coached seven winning teams.

The crowd was the second largest in All-Star history, behind only the 31,745 who attended the 1979 Game at the Silverdome in Pontiac, Mich.

The loudest cheers during the pre-game introductions were for Mitchell of the Cavaliers, the only player for the host team participating in the game. Mitchell was added to the squad when Dan Roundfield of Atlanta, who had been voted to a starting berth, was unable to play because of calcium deposits in his right knee.

The West missed its first five shots before getting untracked and taking the lead with an 11-2 spurt. Gervin, the most valuable player of last year's All-Star Game, had a pair of baskets in that surge, including a dazzling reverse layup off a feed from Walter Davis that gave the West an 11-6 lead after 3 1/4 minutes.

With Westphal scoring 10 points in eight minutes, the West built a 27-19 lead late in the opening period. But the East bounced right back with a 23-6 surge that included eight points by Parish to go ahead 42-33 with 7:06 to go in the second quarter.

Then, Dennis Johnson got hot and scored 12 points in the remainder of the period as the West twice pulled in front by one point. But Erving grabbed an offensive rebound and laid it in backwards over his head with four seconds left, was fouled on the play by Sikma and sank the free throw, giving the East a 61-58 half-time lead.

Dennis Johnson was the leading scorer in the half with 13 points, all in the second quarter. Parish was the East's top scorer in the half with 10 points.

Erving began the second half just the way he ended the first, with an off-balance shot that resulted in a three-point play. The East led by as many as eight points midway through the quarter, but the West closed to 91-86 before Parish and Richardson led the East on its decisive 16-5 spurt.

Mrs. Palmer Wins LPGA Tournament

DEERFIELD BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sandra Palmer overcame two bogeys on the back nine and shook off a challenge by Amy Alcott Sunday for a two-stroke victory in the Ladies Professional Golf Association's $100,000 Whirlpool Championship of Deer Creek.

In her first victory on the LPGA tour since 1977, Mrs. Palmer had to fight a strong, unpredictable wind.

"This means a lot to me," she said as she accepted the $15,000 check for winning the first event of the 1981 season. "I didn't think I'd ever win again."

Mrs. Palmer, in her 18th year on the tour, shot a 75 over the 6,280-yard, par-73 Deerfield Country Club Course and finished 72 holes at 284, eight under par.

Miss Alcott, the 1980 U.S. Open chamption and holder of last year's low scoring average of 71.51 on the tour, started the day 3-under-par after being lost in the park for three rounds.

Miss Alcott was only two strokes behind when she reached the 16th. Palmer was in trouble behind her after losing four strokes on the 11th, 12th and 13th holes.

But Mrs. Palmer regained composure and finished with five pars. Alcott had one more chance to catch the leader — at the 18th where she would have had to sink a 35-foot putt for an eagle-three.

"I was aware of this," Miss Alcott said. "But she was still behind me on the course and I tried to put the ball close. But it rolled down the hill ten feet past the hole. I missed this one, too, and three-putted."

Her 70 gave her a 72-hole total of 286, six under par.

Miss Alcott won $9,800 for second. Tied for third at 287 were Janet Coles, Patty Hayes, Kathy Whitworth and Bonnie Lauer. Miss Coles had missed a 12-foot putt at the 18th to take a bogey and share third money.

Watson Birdie Evens Crosby

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Tom Watson birdied the 18th hole and moved into a tie with Brad Bryant for the lead Sunday in the rain-delayed second round of the $225,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

Watson, golf's dominant figure and Player of the Year for the past four seasons, dropped a 22-foot putt on the final hole at Pebble Beach almost an hour after the national television cameras had ended their coverage for the tournament.

"That finished off a pretty good round of golf," said Watson, who shot a 3-under-par 69 and had a 2-round total of 136, eight shots under par.

The tournament's opening round, lashed by a series of storms, was rained out both Thursday and Friday. Officials decided to cut it to a 54-hole event, ending with an 18-hole round Monday.

Since three courses — Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Spyglass Hill — will be played in the final round and there's no way of knowing which course may produce the winner, CBS chose not to televise the final round.

Watson is opening his 1981 campaign here. Bryant, a non-winner in his third year of PGA Tour activity, shot a 67, also at Pebble Beach.

A single shot off the leaders' pace were Jerry Pate, Ben Crenshaw and John Cook, the 23-year-old former national amateur champion who held the first-round lead. Cook slipped to a second-round 71 under bright, sunny skies at Pebble Beach. Crenshaw had a 70, also at Pebble. Pate had a 68 at Cypress Point and had an advantage in that he plays Pebble Beach Monday. The other leaders must take on Spyglass Hill, the toughest of the three courses.

"Gosh, I don't know how to attack that," Crenshaw said.

"Pate is the actual leader," said Watson.

Bob Clampett, a 20-year-old rookie, and Greg Powers were next at 138. Clampett shot a 71 at Spyglass, Powers 71 at Pebble Beach.

Jack Nicklaus moved into contention with a 68 at Pebble Beach. He was playing with former President Gerald Ford as his amateur partner and drew the biggest part of the gallery.

Nicklaus was tied at 139, three shots back, with Hale Irwin, Andy Bean and Barry Jaeckel. Jaeckel shot 68 at Pebble Beach. Bean had 69 at Spyglass and Irwin 69 at Pebble Beach.

Bryant has had respectable performances in his two previous pro seasons, each time just missing the list of the top 60 money-winners.

Only some poor last rounds have kept him from winning.

Watson had an erratic effort that included six birdies and three bogeys. He bogeyed the 13th and 14th, each time missing a short putt, and fell one stroke back about the time the television cameras cut away. But his bold putt on the last hole lifted him back into a share of the top spot.

"It went in on the fly," Watson joked. "It hadn't hit the back of the cup, it would have gone five feet by."

Tech's Mays Finishes Second In Times Herald 880 Event

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Tech track star James Mays outran several world class sprinters to finish second in the Open 880-yard run behind SMU's Sammy Koskei with a time of 1:52.26 Saturday night in the debut of the Dallas Times Herald Invitational Indoor Track Meet.

Many of the eventual crowd of 11,766 were still outside Reunion Arena, battling a massive traffic jam, when Stanley Floyd stumbled out of the blocks in the first heat of the 60-yard dash trials.

But if track fans missed Floyd's world record of 6.04 seconds, he happily supplied them an instant replay a half hour later, matching the effort in a win over Mel Lattany of Georgia and Harvey Glance.

"I think I should have run faster. I got a horrible start in the first race because I stumbled out of the blocks, and I stumbled again right before I got to the finish. It took two-tenths of a second off my time I think," said the young man now considered the world's fastest human.

A sore groin muscle bothered him in the finals "but I was able to hold on to win. It was the best field I've ever run against indoors. This was the same field we had in the Olympic Trials. It wasn't a race to make a mistake in," said Floyd.

The former Auburn freshman, now at Houston University, said he can run much better than he did Saturday night.

"I've run a 5.3 hand timed, in practice, and that comes to about 5.6 electronic. So when the season gets a little further along, no telling I won't be too surprised with anything I can do. I may just beat my world record by lots more," said Floyd, who ran unattached since he won't be eligible at Houston for another year.

Another world record followed only minutes later in the same race in the women's division. Alice Brown sizzled to a 6.62 time in the finals.

"The track was pretty fast, just like everybody said. After the first few steps, I felt like I had the race pretty well under control because I knew I was in the lead," she said.

Houston McTear had set the old men's record of 6.05 seconds in Madison Square Garden in 1978, while Lyudmila Storozhkova had established the women's mark of 6.63 seconds two years ago in a U.S.-Russian meet in Fort Worth.

Reunion Arena director Jack Beckman spent $110,000 in having the track constructed. After seeing two world records in the first hour, meet director Ted McLaughlin was elated.

"But if we hadn't had a surveyor come in this morning and measure the track, I'd be pretty worried right now," McLaughlin said.

An American record tumbled in the women's long jump, where Carol Lewis of the Willingboro Track Club leaped 21 feet 7 1/2 inches, almost three inches beyond the record set by Martha Watson in 1973 and tied in 1976 by Cathy McMillan.

Englander Keith Connor, a sophomore at Southern Methodist University, praised a vocal, appreciative crowd for his triple jump of 56 feet 1/2 inch, the longest leap ever in America.

"This was a very responsive crowd, and that's what makes for a good track meet. When you get a crowd cheering after every jump, it makes you work that much harder. I've been jumping in the 56-foot range for two years, but I've had this luck lately with my bruised heels. This is only the second meet I felt I could jump without worrying," Connor said.

Pro Bowl Fans Honor Famers

HONOLULU (AP) — George Blanda, Willie Davis, Jim Ringo and Red Badgro were honored at the halftime of Sunday's Pro Bowl for their election into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

The four had been announced Saturday as the newest members of the Hall.

Blanda, whose career spanned 26 years with the Chicago Bears, Houston Oilers and Oakland Raiders, was elected in his first year of eligibility. Both Davis and Ringo were members of Vince Lombardi's great Green Bay teams in the 1960s. Davis was a devastating defensive end and Ringo an ironman center for the Packers.

Badgro, who played in the 1920 and 30s, became at 78 the oldest man ever elected to the Hall.

The former greats received a rousing ovation when introduced to the sellout crowd of 49,800 at Aloha Stadium.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

College Cage Scores

Table listing college basketball scores across various conferences: EAST, MIDWEST, SOUTH, SOUTHWEST, FAR WEST, and Principia Tourney. Includes team names, scores, and game details.

SWC Cage Race Remains Wild

By The Associated Press
The Southwest Conference opened the second half of its wild and zany season Saturday night and nobody flew the cuckoo's basket. Again, it was like somebody out there was flipping a coin to determine the winner.

Houston will try to hold its lead Tuesday night when SMU comes visiting in a televised match. SMU beat the Cougars in triple overtime in Dallas. In other games Tuesday night, Rice is at Baylor, Texas Tech is at TCU, and Arkansas is at Texas.

Stanford 84-66; No. 6 Wake Forest trimmed Marquette 83-60; No. 7 Kentucky topped Georgia 71-68 in double overtime; No. 8 Notre Dame tripped South Carolina 94-84; No. 9 Utah edged 15th-ranked Brigham Young 60-56, and No. 10 UCLA defeated Oregon 75-69.

Notre Dame. Tom Chambers scored 22 points, including two key foul shots with 18 seconds left, leading Utah past Brigham Young in a battle of Western Athletic Conference front-runners. The victory improved the first-place Utes' record to 8-0 in the league, compared to BYU's 6-2.

The defending champion and cellar-dwelling Texas Aggies awakened from their coma of four straight losses to crush Baylor 84-59 and knock the Bears into fourth place with a 5-4 record. Texas, which had been upset by Southern Methodist in overtime at the Super Drum, returned the favor with an 83-63 flogging of the Mustangs in Dallas.

The victory extended the nation's longest Division I winning streak to 23 games over two seasons and set a school record with 18 consecutive triumphs this season. Oregon State, meanwhile, raised its overall record to 17-0 and 9-0 in the Pacific-10 Conference, downing Southern California 55-48.

Frank Johnson triggered a second-half rally, leading Wake Forest past Marquette. Johnson, who scored 19 points, was the catalyst in a spurt that carried the Deacons to an 11-point lead midway through the second half.

SWC Cage Standings table. Columns: Team, W, L, Pct., All Games. Lists scores for various teams like Baylor, Arkansas, Texas Tech, etc.

Rice — yes, that other school in Houston — slipped smartly into second place with a 6-3 ledger on the strength of a 58-54 nail biter over TCU. Arkansas, holding down third place with a 5-3 mark, was idle.

Lamp collected 20 points to become the No. 9 all-time scorer in the Atlantic Coast Conference and played what Coach Terry Holland called "one of the finest all-around games he's played."

The Demon Deacons had a 42-32 rebounding advantage over the Warriors. Jim Master put Kentucky ahead to stay with a shot early in the second overtime, then hit two clinching free throws with 18 seconds left to lift the Wildcats past Georgia.

Miss Navratilova Wins Avon Tourney. CHICAGO (AP) — Top-seeded Martina Navratilova defeated second-seeded Hana Mandlikova of Prague in straight sets Sunday, 6-4, 6-2 to win her fourth consecutive Avon championship tennis tournament.

Wright scored 24 points and had 17 rebounds. Smith became A&M's all-time leading scorer with a 20-point night. He added 11 rebounds.

OU, 15-7 this season, are expected to start forwards Erin Schreiber (17.7) and Lynn McCarty (11.1), guards Janet Gagny (15.9) and Ladanah Sanders (3.8) and center Molly McGuire (15.9).

Red Raiders Seek Revenge. The Texas Tech women's basketball team will be looking to snap a two-game losing skid and avenge a loss when it hosts the Oklahoma Sooners tonight at 7:30 in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

Each player held her service in the first four games of the second set. But when Miss Mandlikova double-faulted, it set the tone for Navratilova, who proceeded to win the next four games going away with several vicious forehand smashes and deadly placement shots just out of the reach of Mandlikova.

Coach Dave Simpson's Lady Chaps will open with forwards Cindy Bigham and Jo Ann Phillips, center Darla Lynch and guards Debby Pritchard and Sherry Brown.

Lubbock Christian Hosts Sul Ross. The Lubbock Christian College men's and women's basketball teams engage in Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association games with teams from Sul Ross State at 7:30 p.m. and 5 p.m., respectively, today in the LCC Fieldhouse.

Aguires Leads DePaul To Victory. CHICAGO (AP) — Mark Aguirre scored a team-leading 18 points and led sparked one of two tremendous, game-breaking bursts in the second half that carried third-ranked DePaul to a 91-69 college basketball victory over Syracuse Sunday.

Today's match was the fourth meeting between the two Czechoslovaks. Miss Navratilova, currently ranked No. 3 in the world, beat Hana in the finals of the Amelia Island, Fla. tournament, but lost out to Hana in semifinals of the Mahwah, N. J. tournament and in the round of 16 at the U.S. Open, all during 1980.

Tanner Tops Fibak For Tournney Title

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Seventh-seeded Roscoe Tanner took his first step in an attempted comeback from an off year when he beat Wojtek Fibak of Poland 6-2, 7-6, 7-5 Sunday to win the $250,000 U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis Championships. The 29-year-old Tanner earned the $45,000 first prize with his straight set triumph in the best-of-five match against the Polish national sports hero.

Early in the second half, the Blue Demons scored 16 unanswered points, and they later went on a demoralizing 20-point spree that put them ahead 83-47 with 5:37 left. That 33-point lead was their greatest of the game, and DePaul Coach Ray Meyer then let his bench run out the clock.

Coach Dave Simpson's Lady Chaps will open with forwards Cindy Bigham and Jo Ann Phillips, center Darla Lynch and guards Debby Pritchard and Sherry Brown.

Aguires Leads DePaul To Victory. CHICAGO (AP) — Mark Aguirre scored a team-leading 18 points and led sparked one of two tremendous, game-breaking bursts in the second half that carried third-ranked DePaul to a 91-69 college basketball victory over Syracuse Sunday.

Each player held her service in the first four games of the second set. But when Miss Mandlikova double-faulted, it set the tone for Navratilova, who proceeded to win the next four games going away with several vicious forehand smashes and deadly placement shots just out of the reach of Mandlikova.

Sick Plainsmen Win First Half Title

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 Just when the Monterey girls had cleaned up the first-half of District 4-5A play, old Mom Nature decided to make things interesting.

The Plainsmen's 88-31 whipping of Lubbock High Friday night gave MHS a perfect 4-0 record the first time around the loop. With three of four second-half games at home, it looked like maybe Tim Tasker and his bunch could begin to breathe a little easier, even with two other 20-win teams in the conference.

But then the wild card popped up. A pair of starters have been confirmed as having mononucleosis and now two more girls join the list of suspects.

The two sure cases are seniors Kris Ethridge and Tracy Muehlbrad. Those are two of Monterey's top three scorers, accounting for an average of 25.6 points a game.

What's worse, junior scoring machine Kamie Ethridge is also suspected of being caught up with the illness. Add in her 18.8 points a game and there's 43 of the Plainsmen's 81 points.

Of course, things aren't nearly that bad yet. Both Kris Ethridge and Miss Muehlbrad played against Lubbock High Friday night. Their effectiveness was limited (they combined for 13 points) but they were there. "The only thing we're worried about right now is if they don't get better," said Tasker, coach of the ailing Plainsmen. "If they get any worse they might have to lay out."

"We've had flu before but never anything like this. Mono's wierd. You can feel OK one day and then the next you're flat on your back."

But they're not flat on their backs yet. And now Tasker is having to face up to a statement he made a couple of weeks ago, back before the district season started.

Before the conference-opening game with Hereford, Tasker said "(Coronado coach) Miles Johnson said last week he thought the team that won district would have at least one loss. I think a team will win it undefeated."

"I still believe the team that wins the first round can win every game."

Now that his team has clinched the first round, how does Tasker feel about that statement?

"I guess I'm going to sound a little bit like Ronald Reagan, but the way I meant it was just for the first half," he said. "I said somebody was going to go undefeated in the first half."

Uh, right coach. "Well, it's not impossible (that somebody could go undefeated), but it's certainly not very likely. Anybody can get beat. Hereford can come down here and get after us and we could very well have to have a playoff."

"Besides, that wasn't so much a prediction as a way to approach the district race," Tasker continued, backpedalling furiously.

"Some teams say they can afford to lose one. We didn't want to go to Hereford and say it's OK to lose, we'll pick it up later. It's the same thing this time. "We cannot afford to lose to Hereford at home. That is no way to start the district season."

And, fortunately for the Plainsmen, they have an open date Tuesday before they host Hereford on Friday. That may give the ailing girls time to get back to full speed. Tasker says that is a necessity.

"We don't feel like we're that loaded," he said. "We've got a real good basketball team but we're not that overabundant of talent."

"We don't have five all-district players like last year. On this team everybody has a role to play and if everybody sticks to their roles and contributes when they can instead of when they can't, we'll be OK, even with the illness."

On the men's side of the court, Monterey has all but wrapped up the theoretical first-half title, standing 3-0 with only 3-21 Hereford standing in the way. Of course, since the men are playing a straight round-robin this year leading up to a post-season tournament, that doesn't mean very much.

Elsewhere around the area, up north in District 3-5A, the Amarillo girls have clinched the first-half title, rolling undefeated through the schedule. On the boy's side, district co-favorite Palo Duro, opened to a stunning 54-44 loss to Tascosa.

In 5-5A, down south, the San Angelo girls wrapped up their first-half title and have already won the first two games of the second-half. They now stand 22-1 on the year.

As far as the southern boys are concerned, Midland High has wrapped up the first-half title with a 6-0 mark. The closest team behind is San Angelo, now 4-2.

Panther Girls Stumble On Trip

By RAY GLASS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

The Dunbar girls' basketball team began a four-game district road swing Friday and promptly stumbled against the easiest of the four schools, losing 58-55 to Borger.

The Bulldogs, one of District 1-4A's weakest squads with a 6-16 record prior to the Dunbar game, had lost six consecutive district games before turning back the Panthers and making their district-title hopes all the more slim.

"We just had a bad game. We didn't play that bad but Borger was playing above its head. Their coach had the flu and didn't come to the game. As hot as they were, they could have beat any body," Dunbar coach Jim Washburn said. "It was one of those games that we might as well not have gone to."

The loss dropped the Panthers into the district cellar along with the 0-2 Levelland Lobos, who got blitzed by the hard-charging Brownfield Cubs.

Brownfield has won its last three games since losing to Canyon on Jan. 20 and is tied with the Eagles for first place with 2-0 records. Canyon won the first-half of the district race with a 6-0 record while the Cubs were 2-4.

But the Cubs, following a road game in Dumas Tuesday, finish the season with three home games, including the season ending game with Canyon in two weeks.

ers with a 1-0 record, Dumas is 1-1 and Estacado, which was idle Friday, is 0-1.

Brownfield also has one of the surprise boys' teams. The Cubs continued to win last week, downing Estacado and Levelland at home and are 3-1 in district, tied with Borger for second only one game behind the 4-0 Canyon Eagles. The Cubs are the newest team in the district but have managed a 17-6 season record.

The Matadors are all alone in fourth at 2-2, following by Levelland, a disappointing 2-3. Dunbar at 1-4 and Dumas at 0-4.

Snyder and Ector tied for the boys' first-half title in District 2-4A on Tuesday but the two teams had opposite luck on Friday.

Area Cage Scene Changes Like Weather

By RICHARD DAY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

High school basketball has a habit of changing as drastically as the weather. The district races can be rolling along at a calm pace when suddenly average teams rise up and rain on the contenders' parades.

This time last week there were 34 teams with perfect league records in the 24 area 3A, 2A and 1A districts. There were also 30 teams with a goose egg in their win columns.

One week later, however, both those numbers have decreased to tighten the races. There are now 23 teams with perfect records and 19 still without a district victory.

The Childress Bobcats, rolling along with a 21-2 record and a No. 5 state ranking, were the hardest hit this week. District foes Abilene (69-63) and Tulia (59-48) took turns grinding the Bobcats into submission. Childress is now in third place in the 3-3A race with a 3-2 record.

Slaton and Tahoka were tied for the District 4-3A boys lead with 3-0 records last weekend. But Tuesday night the two teams met in Tahoka to settle the score. The Tigers came out on top 62-58 and remained undefeated Friday night by defeating Roosevelt 89-36.

Vega and Bovina played to determine who was the best in District 3-2A Tuesday night and the Mustangs came out on top to break the tie at the top. Bovina is now 6-0 against league opponents and 17-

3 overall, while the Longhorns, a regional finalist a year ago, fell to 5-1 in 3-2A play and 21-3 for the season.

Spur was tied with Shallwater for the 4-2A leadership, but dropped two close games during the week. The Bulldogs lost second place and its game to Lorenzo Friday night to complete a disappointing week.

In the District 7-1A boys' race, Motley County and Patton Springs were tied for the lead after one league game apiece. But a 98-47 victory by Motley County over the Rangers Friday night settled that.

The Dimmitt and Muleshoe girls were tied for the 2-3A lead with 2-0 records last week, but both fell to 3-1 by week's end. Muleshoe clipped the Bobbies 48-45

Tuesday night, but turned around and lost an overtime thriller to Friona Friday night by a score of 44-43.

In District 6-1A there is now only one team at the top after having a pair of undefeated teams there a week ago. Suddown, with a 5-0 mark against league opponents, is now alone at the top after topping Whitharral, 4-1, out of a first-place tie Friday night with a 47-43 win.

The Guthrie and Motley County girls met to see who was best in District 7-1A Tuesday night. Both entered the game with 1-0 records, but Guthrie settled it with a 60-48 win.

With even more contenders clashing this week the district races will grow even tighter. Before it's all over, it could be anybody's race.

Musician Not Ordinary 'Gig-Hopper'

POINT CLEAR, Ala. (AP) — No one stands more in awe of Jack Normand than his own son.

"You might have noticed," Glenn Normand said, shaking his head, "that Jack does not take a drink. He does not smoke. He has a savings account. He can get credit. He has held the same job for 31 years.

"Does that sound to you like a professional musician?"

No, especially one weaned on music, not to mention sin, in the night spots of

New Orleans where Jack Normand learned to play the piano before he was grown enough to reach the pedals.

Still, it is conceivable, if remarkable, that even a musician might dislike whiskey, dislike smoke, legal or illegal, and dislike debt. And if he worked where Jack Normand has worked all those years, which is sort of like Paradise, why change?

More remarkable than the man's behavior is his family, or band, as it were.

Every one of Jack and Genevieve

Normand's offspring — David, Glenn, Jeanine, Robert and Laurie — every toe-tapping one of them is a musician.

So when Jack sits down at the piano in the dining room of the Grand Hotel (an apt description, as well as a name), there is no telling, from night to night, who his accompanists might be.

Shall Glenn play the drums tonight, David the bass? Vice versa? Shall Robert bring a trumpet, Jeanine a clarinet? All play, at minimum, piano, drums and bass. They learned those instruments about the time they learned to tie their shoes.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to make sure you don't act in an impulsive manner. Show others you are able to turn potential difficulties into new opportunities. Be logical.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Use particular care in motion today and avoid possible trouble. Be sure to keep those promises you have made.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Use good sense in the handling of finances and be exact with facts and figures. Be careful of your reputation.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take care you don't waste valuable time over something insignificant or you could lose out where it counts the most.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You get poor advice from a trusted adviser now, so use your own good judgment for best results.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid being with friends who are highly sensitive and cultivate those who are more stable. Avoid a group affair.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't jeopardize your good name in any way now and stay out of trouble. Your creative ideas need expression now.

As other siblings trade household chores, the Normands trade musical chores. They are a band of interchangeable parts. Midway through a long night, bored with the instruments they are playing, they switch.

At one such three-way shuffle, their distracted father glanced over his shoulder from the piano bench.

"Musical chairs?" he muttered.

If Jack Normand's way of going, as they say about racehorses, is not that of the caricatured gig-hopper, bloodshot nightclub musician, neither is his way of looking.

He is short, nearly bald. He is 63. He has the shape and the face of a Toby mug. He has small, thick hands, the kind you are more likely to see around here on an oyster shucker than a pianist.

Heartline

EDITOR'S NOTE: Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write to Heartline, 31 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: Will lost documents (employee service record) disqualify an ex-railroad employee (now retired) from receiving retirement benefits from the railroad? Will the railroad consider a verification statement from a coworker in establishing eligibility? My service with the railroad was performed between 1929 and 1935. G.H.

ANSWER: The Railroad Retirement

Board did not begin operations until 1936. When a rail employee claims service prior to 1937, the board must contact the former employer to verify the service from the railroad's records.

If the pre-1937 service cannot be verified from the employer's records, statements from two individuals who have personal knowledge that the employee performed the service in question may be accepted by the board.

However, the minimum requirement for entitlement to an annuity under the Railroad Retirement Act is 120 months of rail service. Such months of service need not be consecutive. The service you claim in your letter comes to 84 months, assuming that you worked in every month of the period claimed. Therefore, you would not be eligible for an annuity under the Railroad Retirement Act as you do not have the 120 months of required service.

A railroad employee who performed rail service after 1936 but did not meet the 120-month requirement would have their railroad retirement credits transferred to the Social Security Administration, to be used in the computation of whatever benefit would be payable by that agency. However, the Social Security Administration does not give credit for any type of work performed before 1937.

Whether any type of employee benefit other than a railroad retirement annuity would be payable to you by your former railroad employer is a matter outside the jurisdiction of the Railroad Retirement Board. You would have to contact this employer directly for any information regarding this.

HEARTLINE: Do I need a Social Security number to receive wife's benefits from Social Security? C.G.

ANSWER: Yes. If you do not have one, you must apply for a number when you file your claim for benefits.

For further complete information on the Social Security program, order Heartline's Guide to Social Security. To order, send $2 to Heartline, Dept. SS, 14 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. (Music Productions. All Rights Reserved.)

GI Couples Marry For More Money

FORT BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Low-paid soldiers eager to snare extra housing allowances are marrying other GIs at this military base, despite Army warnings that the platonic setups are full of pitfalls.

As women serve in greater numbers in the Army and in the same units as their male counterparts, "contract" or "convenience" marriages are multiplying. Typically, the military couple lives in legal matrimony off-post until discharge or reassignment, drawing the extra-quarters allowances allotted by the Army.

One soldier who went through a convenience marriage said he knew of five other such GI couples at Fort Benning. The private, who asked to be identified only as Jack, said his marriage didn't even last until his discharge date. The couple was divorced within nine months, partly the result of a dispute over marital fidelity.

Jack said he and his future wife, Linda, became friends after both were assigned to a medical detachment at the reservation outside Columbus.

"We hit it off right on the spot," Jack said. "I needed money and she needed more money." He said he also had grown tired of the restrictions of barracks living.

By marrying and moving into a $210-a-month apartment on the Chattahoochee River, the couple received about $400 monthly on top of the base military pay each drew.

Jack and Linda each received a monthly housing allowance of $101, plus "separate rations" — food money authorized for military personnel living off-post.

According to Maj. Lou Thompson, a legal affairs officer at Fort Benning, such convenience marriages could lead to all kinds of legal complications. Should the wife become pregnant, the husband is liable for child support. In many states, the husband is responsible for his wife's debts.

Step 1 — Year of birth. Read down the left hand column to find the last number in the year of your birth then go across to the appropriate decade. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B, this will be used for Step 2.

	1910-19	1920-29	1930-39	1940-49	1950-59	1960-69	1970-79
P	0 27 2 83	11 24 A22	14 A17	8 3	A13 21	26 88	5 15 A4
E	1 5 0 4	A1 13 27	A19 25	16 A15	10 6	A10 22	28 46 7 18
I	2 82	1 6 A21	14 29	B16 26	18 A12	11 8	B7 30 A3

	6 B14	6 15 A10	19 5	85 3 27	A1	16 17	B15 0 6 215
	7 A12	7 18 A7	20 7 A3	5 30	A21	17 19	A17 7 9 2 52
	8 A9	8 20 B4	21 9	A0 6 32	B18	18 21	A14 3 11 89
	9 A6	10 22	A2 23	12 A20	7 1	A16	20 24 A11 4 13

Step 2 — Month of birth. Find the corresponding numbers for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by a B, your month numbers would be 8 for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

	Jan	Feb	March	April	May	June	July	Aug	Sept	Oct	Nov	Dec
P	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
E	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24
I	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36

Step 3 — Day of birth. Enter your day of birth three times in the figure chart, once each for Physical (P), Emotional (E) and Intellectual (I).

Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's biorhythm readings.

Wagering Over Telephone Due Boost From TV

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A distraught city official cornered a local cable TV executive recently to complain. Seems he had heard that subscribers could place bets on races televised from a local harness track and have their betting losses added to their monthly cable bills.

It turned out that the official was wrong, but it is a common misunderstanding, says Keith Lucas, Louisville-area vice president of CPI Inc.

Lucas's cable system will televise races from Louisville Downs beginning Thursday. At the same time, the track's president and general manager, William H. King, will introduce a revolutionary "bet from your home" wagering system, Call-a-Bet.

Confusion occurs over one major selling point for Call-a-Bet: a bettor can sit in the comfort of his home, bet by telephone and then watch the race on cable TV. But Lucas is quick to point out that his cable system is not in the horse-betting business.

"We are offering (the races as) a sporting event," he says. "You do not have to get Call-a-Bet to see the races. All our subscribers will get a chance to watch that programming."

"Call-a-Bet would happen whether the races are on TV or not," he adds. "TV gives it more publicity than otherwise, but a lot of people will be watching the races and not be on Call-a-Bet."

"What we're going to do is show, on a taped basis, the first eight races at Louisville Downs, then show the last two live," says Lucas. "At some point in time, we plan to go live from Louisville Downs for all the races. It could be this (spring) season, but it probably will be the summer season (June 29-Sept. 21)."

The cable TV company will absorb the cost of delivering races to its subscribers, and Louisville Downs will pay for producing the telecasts as further inducement for people to subscribe to Call-a-Bet.

Small Business Bill To Be Introduced In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation aimed at revitalizing the U.S. economy by giving significant tax breaks and other incentives to small businesses is to be introduced this week in the Senate.

The bill also contains proposed across-the-board corporate tax reductions for all businesses, regardless of income.

Supporters hope that eventually most — if not all — of the new pro-business bill will be written into the Reagan administration's tax-cut package, said Jim O'Connell, an economist for Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn.

Weicker is chairman of the Select-Small Business Committee, which will hold hearings soon to air the financial woes of small business and the need for tax relief. His bill will be introduced Tuesday.

"Basically, we want to open the eyes of the tax-writing committees," explained O'Connell. "We want to convey to the administration and Congress that we would like a tax bill that gives a little edge to small businesses."

Competition for attention from the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means committees will be intense, however. Many senators and special-interest groups will try to nail their pet tax proposals onto Reagan's tax-cut package, expected to come before Congress in a few weeks.

In a "Dear Colleague" letter asking for Senate sponsors, Weicker said that inflation, soaring interest rates and stagnant growth are having a devastating impact on small and medium-sized firms.

"Unless specific legislative action to open the capital lifeline is taken as a matter of urgent priority," Weicker said, "many smaller businesses will be unable to survive and many others will be forced into retrenchment at the very time our nation desperately needs their contribution to employment and productivity growth."

Much of the bill is based on recommendations of the 1980 White House Conference on Small Business. In its report, the conference said that "investment dollar for investment dollar, small companies produce far more jobs and as much as 24 times as many innovations" as larger corporations.

The new legislation — designed to improve the ability of small businesses to attract outside capital — would provide a 10 percent tax credit of up to $1,000 per person for investments in new stock issued by businesses with a net worth of less than $25 million. None is provided now.

Other provisions include:

— A capital-gains tax reduction, intended to make small business investments more attractive by providing better tax treatment on eventual profit from the sale of stock.

— A capital-gains "rollover." Gains from the sale of an investment in a small business would not be immediately taxed if reinvested in another qualifying small business within 18 months.

— To reduce the "onerous burden of gift and estate taxes" on small business, an increase in the present estate-tax exemption from $175,000 to $600,000.

— Establishment of an unlimited gift and estate tax marital deduction.

— A reduction of corporate tax rates for all businesses. Small business would be favored, however.

Under the bill, the proposed tax rate would be 15 percent on up to $25,000 in taxable income; 17 percent on $25,000 to $50,000 income; 25 percent on from $50,000 to $75,000; 30 percent on from $75,000 to $100,000;

35 percent on from $100,000 to $150,000; 40 percent on from $150,000 to $200,000.

and 44 percent over $200,000.

The present rates range from 17 percent to 46 percent, the highest rate applying to all income over $100,000.

The measure also would permit employees to exercise stock options without tax consequences, as compared to the present requirement to pay ordinary income tax on "spread" between option price and market price. Employees would be eligible for capital gains treatment when the stock is sold with option price being cost basis.

Co-sponsors of the bill include Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., and Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., both members of the Finance Committee; and Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., ranking minority member of the Small Business Committee.

Federal Loan Program Costs Soaring

WASHINGTON (AP) — Worried federal officials are trying to apply the brakes to the Guaranteed Student Loan program, whose costs have soared at an alarming rate in the past four years and are expected to exceed $2 billion this year.

As recently as 1977, the government was spending $331 million to subsidize low-interest loans for 1 million college and graduate students.

But that was before interest rates soared. The government now is paying a record 18 percent interest to banks, state agencies and non-profit lenders to make the loans.

And demand for the loans exploded after Congress in 1978 lifted a $25,000 family-income cap and made the subsidized loans available to all students, regardless of wealth.

The Department of Education reports that some 2.3 million students borrowed $4.3 billion last year in 7 percent loans. The government pays all the interest while they attend school; afterwards, the former students pay 7 percent and the government pays the rest.

Congress last year raised the interest rate on new loans to 9 percent, but also made parents eligible to borrow for the first time at 9 percent. Parents must begin repaying interest while their child is in school, however.

The education agency expects 3.4 million students and 2.3 million parents to borrow $5.7 billion next year. Unless the interest subsidies are checked, that will cost the government $3.3 billion — more than it costs to give outright Basic Educational Opportunity Grants averaging $1,000 apiece to 2.6 million students.

The program has come under a bipartisan barrage of criticism.

The Carter administration, in its final days, proposed in its fiscal 1982 budget to end the interest subsidy while students attend school, limit students to borrowing no more than they need after counting other financial aid and an expected family contribution, and make parents pay market rates — currently 18 percent — for their loans. That would save $1 billion.

The Reagan administration also has signaled its intention to cut back on the loan subsidies, but has not revealed how.

Secretary of Education Terrel H. Bell said at his confirmation hearing on Jan. 15. "We have to put some kind of restraint on the guaranteed loan program because it is growing so enormously. ... Maybe we do not need interest subsidies for the wealthy in the program."

Until 1978, students whose family income exceeded $25,000 could not get the interest subsidies. The Carter administration proposed lifting the lid to $40,000, and the cap was scrapped entirely after then-Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., presented Census Bureau evidence showing that only a small percentage of students came from families earning more than $40,000.

Education Department officials concede, however, that the program would be faced with soaring costs if the income cap had been kept at $40,000 or even $25,000.

Student-loan experts in the Department of Education say that lifting the income cap was only one of three factors in the cost increase.

In August 1979, Congress removed a 12 percent lid on the interest rate the government pays, in an effort to make the loans attractive to banks at a time when other interest rates were soaring.

Another factor was that the government has sponsored the growth of state agencies as direct lenders under the program.

"I don't think anyone anticipated it would skyrocket quite as much as it did," said Bill Dingledein, a budget analyst for the department. "The economy had a lot to do with it."

Lawrence E. Gladieux, executive director of the College Board's Washington office, said, "It's a little bit of a monster."

"Some kind of change is in store. Something to limit the subsidies and to target them on the neediest students is sure to come," he said.

The education agency says that despite the attractive terms, less than 25 percent of all eligible students now are taking out the loans, which can range up to $3,000 a year for undergraduates and $5,000 for graduate students.

The loan program dates back to 1965. Through last Sept. 30, almost 15 million loans had been made for a total of more than $21 billion. About 52 percent were still outstanding; the rest have been paid back by the borrower or by the government due to student default.

The default rate currently is about 11.5 percent.

Proxmire's Stand Firm On SEC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire said Sunday he will oppose "with every means at my disposal" any Reagan administration nominee to the Securities and Exchange Commission who agrees with proposals to reduce the agency's enforcement powers.

Proxmire, the ranking minority member on the Senate Banking Committee, said the proposals, contained in a report by transition advisers to President Reagan, would reduce the SEC "to a toothless tiger."

In a letter to Reagan, Proxmire said the recommendations would destroy "the no-holds-barred public interest position" of the SEC that has created worldwide trust in U.S. capital markets.

"Because I feel so strongly about the transition report," the Wisconsin Democrat said, "I will have to oppose with every means at my disposal any nominee to the SEC whose views reflect the recommendation of the transition report."

The report, made public last week, called for an overhaul of the SEC, including a 30 percent cut in its $77 million budget over the next three years. The panel urged that the SEC redirect its activities from enforcing securities laws and business regulation to encouraging increased private investment.

Ironically, the transition team said the SEC "appears to be a model government agency." Nevertheless, it said the Reagan administration should do everything possible to eliminate "unnecessary regulatory activities ... and artificial barriers to accumulation of capital through (SEC) disclosure requirements."

The SEC is an independent agency, with policies established by a five-member commission appointed by the president. The principle control over the agency by any administration is through appointees to the commission.

By law, the commission consists of two Republicans and two Democrats, plus the chairman, who is of the same political party as the administration. Chairman Harold M. Williams, a Democrat, is to step down March 1.

The head of the SEC's enforcement division, Stanley Sporkin, has the reputation of being a tough, independent civil servant who has cracked down on corporate abuses. With civil service status, he cannot be fired without cause, but can be transferred to another job.

Foreign Tourists Invading Black Ghetto

NEW YORK (AP) — A convoy of buses rolls up Central Park West, carrying 250 French tourists to what movies and magazines back home have described as a land of colorful ritual, exotic beverages and dynamite action.

They are going — Sacre Bleu! — to Harlem.

Shunned by outsiders since heroin

New Drug May Help Weakened Children Fight Chicken Pox

BOSTON (AP) — A new drug to help children with cancer or other serious illnesses battle chicken pox infections became available nationwide Sunday, state officials said.

The drug — shunned as financially uninteresting by commercial manufacturers — was made by the Massachusetts Biological Laboratories Division of the state Department of Public Health and distributed through the American Red Cross.

While chicken pox in healthy children often is not serious, it results in death 7 percent of the time and pneumonia 25 percent of the time when it strikes children with cancer or other medical problems that reduce their natural immunity to disease, state health department officials said.

In three years of tests, the drug VZIG, Zoster Immune Globulin, or VZIG, reduced the severity of chicken pox infection by 75 percent in children under age 15 who have reduced natural immunity to disease, the health department said in a statement.

The state decided to produce the drug because commercial manufacturers were not interested, said laboratories director Dr. George F. Grady, whose staff developed VZIG in conjunction with the Sidney Farber Cancer Institute in Boston and the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

There are certain products like VZIG that can only be used for a very special purpose," he said. "And, although the large commercial manufacturers do not find it financially in their interest to produce such a product, the need remains."

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER

Germany's unconditional surrender of all land, sea and air forces became effective May 8, 1945, at the end of the European phase of World War II.

and violence began to poison its bloodstream after World War II, the world's most famous black ghetto is an increasingly popular sight for foreign tourists.

Harlem civic and business leaders say the tourism revival is explained by the Manhattan neighborhood's international reputation as a center of black culture, history and politics.

But that's not the whole story.

"While we're showing them Sugar Hill (elegant blocks where the likes of Duke Ellington and Thurgood Marshall have lived), they're whispering, 'When do we see the slums?'" said Nicole Toussaint, an interpreter who has been helping to lead tours through Harlem for three years.

"They've all heard about how bad crime is here, and they want to be able to go back home and say 'I went to Harlem,'" she said.

These days this badge of courage can be acquired with relative ease and safety, thanks to Penny Sightseeing Tours. Owned and operated by blacks, Penny Sightseeing conducts narrated bus tours of Harlem in several languages.

Many tourists are attracted by Harlem's wild and woolly image, admits tour leader Neldra Zeigler, who was born and raised in the district. "They're not aware of the Harlem Renaissance or anything like that," she says. "When they see Sugar Hill, they don't believe they're even in Harlem."

Although 95 percent of Penny's charted tours this winter have been for foreigners during the summer — when there are three tours a week — the number of Americans has steadily increased. Last summer, about half the 100-goers were American, many of them white, said Miss Zeigler.

And if it's slums they want, slums they get. Abandoned buildings, trashy streets and tenements with facades marred by "no loitering" signs and rusty fire escapes.

The bus moves past a graffiti-covered statue of Washington and — Alors! — Lafayette on Morningside Avenue, the storefront that once housed the Pillar of Fire Church of Christ's Disciplines has been gutted by fire.

But soon visitors pass the white frame house that Alexander Hamilton called home, they walk around the mansion where George Washington set up headquarters during the Revolutionary War.

The bus passes the Apollo Theater, a now-dormant symbol of the sweet pre-war days when lovers of music and fun flocked uptown to the Cotton Club and the Savoy.

And for that old-time religion, the tourists are dropped off at the Mt. Olive Baptist Church. Inside — a neon cross hangs over the altar — the tourists are greeted by a confident young black woman.

"It's cold outside but in our hearts it's warm," she smiles. "Try to loosen up a little bit. Clap your hands, stamp your feet."

Anne Vicenti, a Parisienne, doesn't need to be told twice. Soon she is clapping along as the choir runs through a lively set of gospel songs, some traditional, others funky and rock-influenced.

After about 20 minutes the visitors file out as the choir sings "When the Saints Go Marching In." The plate is passed, and each visitor gets a vigorous handshake.

CAREERS

By JOYCE LAIN KENNEDY

Dear Joyce: Is there a difference between equal pay for comparable work and equal pay for work of comparable value?

—R.G. Worcester, Mass.

Yes. Because they see depressed wages for women as inherent in sex-segregated job classification systems that reward men's work at higher pay rates, feminists are shifting their goal from "equal pay for equal work" to "equal pay for work of comparable value."

The controversial philosophy — one which critics say would be impossible to administer should it become public policy, as well as being the epitome of arrogant government intrusion in private business — could become the explosive sex discrimination issue of the '80s.

Let's define terms. Comparable worth means equal pay for work of comparable value. It means, for instance, deciding how a traditionally female job such as teacher should be paid relative to a traditionally male job like engineer. In this concept, the pay rate is based on the job's worth to the employer as opposed to external market values.

The comparable worth approach essentially would require an employer to set up standard and unbiased job evaluation plans. These plans would be based on specific job worth criteria, such as skill, effort, responsibility and risk. Each employer would define the criteria. Since value, like beauty, is in the eye of the beholder, establishing the criteria would make for lively discussion.

Comparable worth differs from equal pay for equal work, such as giving the same compensation to two clerks who basically do the same job. And it differs from equal pay for comparable work, such as teachers of women's physical education and teachers of men's physical education.

Although the idea of comparable worth goes back at least to New Deal days, its recent visibility has been sparked by two powerful federal agencies — the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs. Even if the Reagan administration directs the agencies to back off, the issue may not go away.

Rallying activist troops to change systems that pay nurses less than tree-trimmers is the National Committee on Pay Equity in Washington, D.C. Its founding convention last fall drew 130 representatives of women's and civil rights groups, unions, research centers and public interest law firms.

Whatever happens, it seems certain the Supreme Court ultimately will be asked to rule on comparable worth.
