FOR THE third time in four months, tempting to rape her.

Carlos Aguirre, 28, has been tried twice already on the charge of burglary of a habitation with intent to commit rape. His first trial resulted in a deadlocked jury, and the 40-year-sentence handed down by a second jury was overturned on the defense attorney's contention that jurors had discussed possible parole when computing his sentence.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan pledged Monday that the United States will maintain its 39,000 troops in South Korea, burying the former Carter administration's long-stalled plan to withdraw American forces.

"The United States has no plans to withdraw U.S. ground combat forces from the Korean peninsula," Reagan said in a communique following talks here with South Korean President Chun Doo-hwan.

In fact, a senior State Department official said it's possible that the United States could strengthen its forces in South Korea, if needed, although probably not ground forces.

Reassuring Words Reagan clearly used the occasion of Chun's official visit here to demonstrate the importance of South Korea in the administration's foreign policy and to reassure the Korean leader that the frictions that occurred during the former Carter administration won't carry over to the Reagan administration Reagan reaffirmed to Chun the United States' commitment to defend South Korea "against aggression."

Former President Carter had initiated a phased withdrawal of some U.S. forces from South Korea in 1979, and several thousand Americans were removed, despite expressions of alarm by the South Korean military.

The United States has had a large military contingent in South Korea since the Korean war ended in 1953.

However, the Carter administration put the withdrawal plan in "abeyance" after determining that there had been a major buildup of North Korean forces. The plan was supposed to be reviewed this year, but Reagan's statement made clear. Monday, that it's a dead issue for his administration.

Some Western diplomats here said they saw Haig's stance and Reagan's comment Thursday - that Soviet leaders reserve the right "to commit any crime, to lie, to cheat," — as legitimate expressions of American irritation with Soviet policies.

Others, however, believe that the escalating war of words will only aggravate Soviet-American relations already strained over, among other things, the presence of Soviet troops in Afghanistan.

They cite the prominent media play given the U.S. pronouncements. Moscow has also used diplomatic channels to complain to Washington.

The ranking American diplomat here. Charge d'Affaires Jack F. Matlock, was called to the Foreign Ministry last Thurs day to hear a protest over U.S. condemnation of the Soviet media's handling of the U.S.-Iran hostage crisis.

Squatter Bees Found Abuzz On Range

MIAMI (AP) - An old-fashioned range war is smoldering in the rich agricultural areas south of Miami, but - unlike the Old West disputes over roaming herds of cattle - this battle involves swarms of squatter bees.

For years, truckloads of honeyproducing bees have been trucked to South Dade County during the mild winters, but the annual influx now is reaching crisis proportions. according to resident beekeepers

Wisconsin and Michigan and parts of North Florida. The 'squatters" drop off their hives wherever they find suitable pastureland - using public right-ofway, utility company easements or private land.

They don't bother to ask the landowner's permission, while local beekeepers do.

"They're coming down here and basically taking our honey, and legally there's nothing you can do unless you own the land," says Spadola. He says the hives are pri-See SQUATTER Page 18

Grocery Bills' Relentless Climb Slows Slightly

By The Associated Press The first month of 1981 brought a little bit of relief to grocery shoppers, according to an Associated Press survey. which found that bills increased by only two-tenths of 1 percent during January. The news was not all good, however, Peanut butter prices surged for the second month in a row and milk prices continued their steady climb.

The AP drew up a random list of 14 commonly purchased food and nonfood items and checked the prices at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1. 1973. It has rechecked the prices on or about the start of every month since

The latest survey showed:

· The average bill at the checked stores at the start of February was 14 percent higher than it was a year earlier.

· During January the bill increased in seven cities, up an average of 2.7 percent, and decreased in six cities, down an average of 2.6 percent. In December the bill was up in pine cities and down in only four for an overall increase of about half a percent - more than twice the January rate of increase.

· Almost 30 percent of all the items checked decreased during January; the decreases outnumbered the increases by a slight margin. Coffee, eggs and frankfurters all declined in more than half the cities surveyed; chopped chuck, pork chops, tomato sauce and sugar dropped in about one-third of the cities.

· Rises in the price of peanut butter and milk soured the price picture. Last summer's drought cut the peanut crop and boosted prices. The AP found that peanut butter prices increased last month at the checklist store in 10 cities: during December, peanut butter went up in nine cities. Some stores were sold out

People heard about a peanut shortage and started hoarding," said a clerk in a Providence, R.I., store, which had only one brand of peanut butter, a regional one, available for sale

The rise in milk prices — up in eight cities during January - is due mainly to an increase in government support levels. The price support level is scheduled to rise again in April and the U.S. Department of Agriculture predicts that increases in farm milk and retail dairy product prices will follow.

Price increases in poultry and eggs also are ahead, according to economists at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y. Olan D. Forker, the chairman of the university's department of agricultural economics, said total meat supplies for 1981 are expected to be slightly smaller than those for 1980. "This means consumers will pay higher retail prices for poultry and eggs," Forker said. "However, higher feed prices, along with other rising production costs, will limit farm profits.

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes or comparable substitutes were used. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the total.

The AP did not try to compare prices from city to city - to say, for example, that eggs cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease - saying a particular item went up 10 percent in one city and 6 percent in

Items on the AP checklist were chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, paper towels, coffee, butter, Grade A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar. A 15th item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list when the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey

Cities checked were Albuquerque, Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Here is a city-by-city breakdown: ALBUQUERQUE: The market basket bill went from $23.14 to $23.33, up eight-tenths of a percent. Detergent, chopped chuck, orange juice, peanut butter and milk went up; tomato sauce, paper towels, eggs and frankfurters went

City Grocery Prices Drop

The February survey similarly shows a significant drop in the total bill of the items, which has come down from January's $25.77 to $25.03. The current bill is the survey's lowest since September of last year, when prices dipped to $24.66.

Thanks to three specials in effect at the store used in the survey, prices of eight items tumbled, representing the largest drop since August 1979. The total bill in July of that year was $21.13 and dropped to $19.24 the following month.

A theological student who says he is tired of being able to see "filth" through his apartment windows Monday expressed that discontent to Col. C.G. Bartley assistant Lubbock police chief

Sam Durden, whose 1102 58th St. apartment is across from the Circle Drive-In Theater on South Avenue Q. handed Bartley a petition demanding the theater stop showing pornographic material. The petition was signed by 50 persons living near the theater, who claim the business is violating their rights and corrupting their children.

A former police vice officer in Florida and now a student at Lubbock's Sunset School of Preaching, Durden also submitted 10 letters demanding a halt to the showing of X-rated material, including one from the management of the Ramada Inn, just south of the big movie to motorists driving on Avenue Q and screen.

"I'll read them and then talk to our attorneys and see what they have to say, Bartley said after being confronted by Durden at the police station. The assistant chief told Durden he would also contact the criminal district attorney's office to see if the law will allow a solution to the problem of explicit sexual performances on the open screen, which can be seen by Durden, his family, neighbors

Woodward ordered the jury to return to their deliberations Monday, but attorneys for both May and Hays agreed on an out-of-court settlement for their clients in the interim The plaintiff's attorney, Carroll Cobb, said Monday that he was not at liberty to disclose the actual amount of the settlement. Dr. Hays was reporesented by attorney Frank Murchison III.

Another jury attempted to decide the case in July 1980, but that trial ended in a hung jury as well.

The jury reportedly deadlocked 4 to 2 in favor of the defendant at the conclusion of the first trial.

Attorneys apparently decided on a settlement rather than face the prospects of trying the case a third time should another mistrial occur.

Tech Promotions Announce

Among the personnel changes made at the weekend board of regents meeting at Texas Tech University were 35 promotions in the various colleges on campus.

Those promotions included the advancement of one woman and 25 men to the rank of full professor. Although several women faculty members expressed concern to The Avalanche-Journal over the noticeable lack of women on the promotions list for various ranks from instructor to full professor, they were reluctant to be identified for fear of jeopardizing their own future promotion considerations.

However, they did refer to a report by the Tech chapter of American Association of University Professors last fall which noted that of 300 full professors at Tech, 14 are women — that is, 4.7 percent. That compares to the nationwide figure of 10 percent cited by the National Center for Educational Statistics for the academic year 1979-80.

But Dr. Jerry Ramsey, associate vice president for academic affairs at Tech, says the lack of women should not be cause for concern.

There's not nearly as many females in each category," he explained. The office of statistics and reports lists 378 women and 1,102 men on the Texas Tech facul-

"Traditionally the work force in higher education in many disciplines has been white males," Ramset said. "It takes a while to fill that pipeline. Ramsey noted that a change in academic rank usually includes a pay increase and that all such salary changes would become effective in the next academic year, beginning Sept. 1. The 17 promotions in the College of Arts and Sciences are for James A. Broderick, art department, from associate to full professor; J.M. Burns, biological sciences, from associate to full professor; Joe R. Goodin, biological sciences, from associate to full professor; John A. Anderson, chemistry, from associate to full professor; Jerry Lee Mills, chemistry, from associate to full professor; Claude Davidson, geography, from associate to full professor; Stanley Cebull, geosciences, from associate to full Professor; John E. Clopton, psychology, from assistant to associate professor; Jane L. Winer, psychology, from assistant to associate professor; George D. Lowe, sociology, from associate to full professor.

The College of Agricultural Sciences had five promotions: Ernest B. Fish, park administration and landscape architecture, from associate to full professor; Fred S. Guthery, range and wildlife management, from assistant to associate professor; Donald E. Orr, animal science, from assistant to associate professor; Carl R. Richardson, animal science, from assistant to associate professor; and James K. Wangberg, entomology, from assistant to associate professor.

Four promotions in the College of Business Administration were approved: David S. Kidwell, finance, from associate to full professor; Paul H. Munter, accounting, from assistant to associate professor; Larry M. Austin, associate dean of graduate programs and faculty member in information systems and quantitative sciences, from associate to full professor; and Karl Guntermann, finance, from associate to full professor Eight members of the College of Education faculty received promotions: Michael L. Angelotti, curriculum and instruction in secondary education, from associate to full professor; Paula S. Lawrence, curriculum and instruction specializations, from assistant to associate professor; Shamus Mehaffie, curriculum and instruction secondary education, from associate to full professor; John R. Nevius, early childhood and elementary education, from associate to full professor; Nina Ronshausen, early childhood and elementary education, from assistant to associate professor; David Welton, early childhood and elementary education, from associate to full professor; Welborn Willingham, education foundations services, from associate to full professor; and Michael Mezack III, higher education, from assistant to associate professor.

The College of Engineering also had eight promotions: Walter L. Calvert, architecture, from associate to full professor; Beverly J. Cheatham, architecture, from instructor to assistant professor; Donald J. Watts, architecture, from assistant to associate professor; Joseph E. Minor, civil engineering, from associate to full professor; Erich E. Kunhardt, electrical engineering, from assistant to associate professor; John J. Murray, electrical engineering, from assistant to associate professor; John F. Walkup, electrical engineering, from associate to full professor; and Larry B. Masten, engineering technology, from associate to full professor.

Richard W. Maxwell advanced from assistant to associate professor in the School of Law.

In the College of Home Economics, Myra J. Timmons, clothing and textiles, went from assistant to associate professor and Mary T. Riley, home and family life department, advanced from associate to full professor.

efeated Candidate May Contest Election

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Monday's official canvass of votes cast in the Jan. 17 election held by the Lubbock County Water Control and Improvement District and the swearing in of two board members apparently will not be the climax of that election.

Lubbock pharmacist Dale Miller, a three-year veteran of the water district's board, said Monday that he plans to contest the election

Election results canvassed by the water district board showed Miller lost his re-election bid by 18 votes to fireman George Whitworth. Miller, however, said he suspects that some individuals who cast ballots in the election last month were not qualified voters.

According to Miller, 22 of the persons

Miller said he first became suspicious about the outcome of the election when he learned that an unusually large number of persons had voted absentee

The vote canvass showed that 473 ballots were counted in the election, with 52 of them cast by absentee voters. In 1980, Miller said, a record 781 persons voted in the board elections, with 20 of them ab-noted that the absentee poll was run by lake manager Jim Segrest and another lake employee.

A high percentage of the voters whose registration Miller is questioning are employees at the lake, Gilkerson noted.

Miller and Gilkerson said they would also raise several other questions about possible election irregularities in a contest suit that must be filed in district court here within the next 30 days.

One of those questions will deal with ballot security, Gilkerson said. "I'm just a little bit surprised at the lack of security on people's ballots," he added.

During the board meeting. Gilkerson noted that none of the steel boxes containing ballots from the Jan. 17 election were locked. State election laws require the ballots to be kept in sealed voting

Since the election, the ballot boxes have been stored in a small storage room adjoining Segrest's office in the lake administration building.

Gilkerson was not specific about when the election contest suit would be filed, but noted that it must be filed within the next 30 days.

To void the outcome of the election. Miller must prove that enough illegal votes were cast to have changed the re-

PRO-IZED cottonseed is always treated with both a contact fungicide and the systemic fungicide Vitavax* to control seed, early seedling and soil-borne diseases, including Rhizoctonia solani.

Gustafson's PRO-IZED flowable cottonseed treatments are specially formulated with a chemical binder to virtually eliminate chemical dust-off. This means more chemical stays on the seed resulting in improved disease control.

Since cotton diseases, insects and soil conditions vary, Gustafson's PRO-IZED system is comprised of numerous chemical combinations tailored to your growing region. New options, including systemic insecticides and trace elements, will be available for the 1981 season.

New Players In An Old Game

IN FORECASTING the climate in which Ronald Reagan will function, it's important to recognize that more has changed than the White House and the Cabinet and who runs the Senate committees and the regulatory

What is equally important is that entirely different constituencies are now ascendant, and that means entirely different issues not only will be raised but thoroughly ventilated.

The initiative has changed hands all across Capitol Hill.

Thus, for example, there is no reason to expect another round of debate over labor law reform or common situs picketing, but there is every reason to expect serious efforts to amend the Davis-Bacon Act and to enact a lower minimum wage for teenage workers.

THESE ARE not, however, the kinds of issues that will decide the fate of the Republican Party in 1982 and thereafter-or whether the election of 1980 was only an interruption in Democratic control of our national direction or a first step in a new direction.

This is where the President himself is crucial because, uniquely, he has the power to set the agenda for the country, to lead the Congress and to lead the electorate. President Carter was able to accomplish the first of these, but he was never able to lead either the Congress or the country.

Whether Ronald Reagan can do so rests largely on the mix of his priorities and whether he recognizes which issues do indeed have the potential for affecting people's Abortion, the Equal Rights Amendment, busing, capital punishment are, of course, issues of high emotional content and overriding importance to some voters. But they are also essentially temporal issues that do not directly affect the way voters live-and that means they are not issues on which the Republicans can expect to build a majority.

THIS LEAVES us with what we can just as arbitrarily call the real issues-those on which the former President failed and on which the voters invested their trust in Ron-

One is national security policy and the other is, of course, economic policy.

On the first, what Reagan has to manage is to convey a subjective impression to the electorate that the U.S. is both consistent and competent in world affairs. On the second, Reagan will be measured by more objective standards-the inflation rate, interest rates, unemployment, corporate profits, personal income, housing starts.

But there is no question about the voters' demand for a radical change in the running of the government. All Mr. Reagan has to do

DURING ITS first year in office, the Reagan administration will formulate national security policies which may determine the course of the United States role in international affairs for the remainder of this centu-

Therefore, the Reagan arms control policy should be clearly articulated at the outset so that no misunderstanding evolves as to its purposes, basic objectives, and role in U.S. defense strategy

One of those objectives, according to Heritage Foundation defense analysts, should be a new strategic arms control agreement

GIVEN THE magnitude of the task required in amending a treaty as flawed as the current SALT II Treaty, it is advisable to proceed directly with the renegotiation of an entirely new strategic arms agreement with the Soviets." the analysts write, stressing that the new treaty must meet the criteria of "equality, verifiability and conformity to mini mum acceptable U.S. strategic objectives.

Finally, modernization of NATO theater nuclear forces should proceed "unencumbered by restrictions on cruise missile ranges or on transfer of U.S. cruise missile technology, which were major deficiencies in the Carter SALT II Treaty and Protocol.

The researchers urge the new administration to make these changes in the SALT treaty, along with other suggested reforms in U.S. arms control policies, with "boldness and consistency.

For, as they point out, the new admini tration must make a clean break with the bankrupt security policies of the past four years not only to reassure the Congress but all of America's allies in the free world

ART BUCHWALD:

Publicity Hounds Hot On Trail Of Hostages

West Point had a line of people waiting to use it. There were not only newspaper people but press agents as well-anyone who wanted just a little piece of the hostages

The man inside the booth was shouting so everyne could hear him. "No. J.B., I haven't found anyone yet, but I'm getting close. I talked to the brother-in-law of one of the hostages, and he thinks we can swing it.

I know what you want, J B. You want a hostage to say on TV that the thing he missed the nost in captivity was Grandma Bonny Clyde's Hamburger Helper. Right. That's all he thought about during his ordeal.

I told the brother-in-law that. If the hostage says it, we'll give him a lifetime supply of Grandma Clyde's Hamburger Helper and a trip to Las Vegas to our next sales meeting.

LISTEN. J.B., there's an agency here trying to get any hostage to choose between Hero sausages and our hamburger helper. Will that hurt our campaign?

People were banging on the phone booth, Come on, you've been in there long enough.

The next man to get in dialed a number and said. Zack. I think I've got a hostage to tell his story exclusively to us for $10,000

I told him we'd write it for him, and all he'd have to do is pose for a picture with his arms tied behind a chair. He referred me to his agent.

What do you mean, how did he get an agent so fast? There are more agents up here at West Point than there are Army cadets. Hold page one open. Ill get back to you

Is Tony writing the story now? Good Tell him to keep going. If we don't get a hostage, we'll say we got it from an impeccable source." He hung up, and a woman went into the booth.

TERRY." SHE said, "it's Rhonda. Tell Arthur I talked to the aunt of one of the hostages, and she said she'd be happy if the Bickering Company put in an entire new sprinkling system for her lawn.

Tell Arthur to alert the media right away We'll hold the press conference as soon as the family gets back home. Tell George to stick American flags all over the lawn where the sprinkler system is going to be.

And try to get the school superintendent to give all the kids in town the day off I was fourth in line, waiting patiently

The next person in the booth said, "Ted, I'm still trying to give the lifetime gold pass for the Super-Orbit Roller Coaster to a hostage, but I can't get near anyone who will take it.

NONE OF the hostages seem to be very interested in a roller coaster ride at the moment. This is my problem. Almost everyone up here is trying to give a gold pass to the hostages for something

The National Football League, the Baseball Association, the circus people are all pushing gold passes, and it's not much of a story. Why don't we forget the gold pass and have a National Hostage Day at the amusement park?

Any member of a hostage family will be allowed on any ride free. We'll decorate the Ferris wheel with a large yellow ribbon. I thought you'd like it. Good. I'll spread the word up here right

The next person who went into the booth said, Al. NBC has just offered $250,000 for a mini-series on the hostages. CBS came back with $500,000 and ABC has offered $750,000. How high do we want to go?

YOU WANT to go to a million, but I have to sign up all 52 families! It's not easy, Al. Some of them don't want any publicity. They just want to get out of the limelight.

You'll settle for half of the hostages? OK, it's your money. I know you've got the American Embassy in Tehran set built already, but the State Department says it may not cooperate in the You'll build your own State Department on the lot? All right, I'll see what I can do. Have you got the cast yet?...You've got to be kidding? You really think you can get Vanessa Redgrave to play the Avatollah?

It was finally my turn. I called the Internal Revenue Service and got a man on the line. "I'd like to form the Society for the Protection of American Hostages in the United States, and I want to know if it's tax-deductible.

The man on the other end said, "Is this organization necessary? I replied. "You better believe it.

Eagle Forum Leader Offers Response To Recent Letter

Editor, Avalanche-Journal:

This letter is in response to the letter from Etta Solnick last week criticizing the Lubbock Eagle Forum and our bringing Norma Gabler here to speak on selection of textbooks in our state.

First of all, those of us in the Eagle Forum are also concerned about the quality of textbooks used in our schools; thus, our inviting Mrs. Gabler, As taxpayers, we buy the product—the textbooks; and as voters, we elect the Board of Education who ultimately must approve the books. Thirdly, the children in our schools belong to us the parents, not the state of Texas. These are the reasons for our concern and interest

The Lubbock Eagle Forum is interested in many issues. We are an educational organization of men and women who are interested in being more informed as citizens about how to participate in our government. We support the traditional values and Christian principles that in the past have made America the great nation she is today.

We support the Declaration of Independence and its fundamental doctrine that we owe our existence to a Creator who has endowed each of us with inalienable rights, and we support the U.S. Constitution as the instruments of securing those God-given rights.

Mrs. Solnick suggests we talked of humanities as pornography and that we must exile Shakespeare. Aristotle, Socrates, etc. That is inaccurate. During meeting we discussed Secular Humanism (with a capital H) which has nothing to do with the humanities of Shakespeare or Aristotle!

If Mrs. Solnick had not attended the meeting, I would know that her statements were from a lack of knowledge and information; however, that is not the case. She saw the 30-minute film defining Humanism and she received a copy of the Humanist Manifestoes I and II.

In the Manifestoes the Humanist philosophy is identified in which they do not believe in a Supreme Being, life after death nor absolutes. They support situation ethics, the right to suicide and euthanasia, abortion and transnational federal government. Textbooks are containing situation ethics and value clarification from a Humanistic point of view today.

In the past two years I have spoken in 35 area towns where I found that the majority of people believe in traditional values and Christian principles. Our Eagle Forum has nearly 200 local members and mailing list of over 2,000.

I believe the Humanists are the small minority with special interests, not those of us in the Eagle Forum. With the National Organization for Women, the largest feminist-humanist organization in America, getting 2,000 changes in our textbooks this year for their special interests, I believe the Humanists are the ones with subtle brain-washing techniques

He Opposes Added Powers For County Commissions

Editor, Avalanche-Journal:

Once again, the county commissioners in the heavily populated counties are trying to lay another layer of restrictive government on the people of Texas. As the size of the cities grows, their territory is getting smaller, and need for their services is getting less and less. Instead of reducing the size of their operations, they want to expand their powers to maintain their empire

This must not happen. We already have too many layers of government, too many bureaucrats intent on destroying the freedom to live our lives

Giving the county commissioners ordinance making powers will put the same or more restrictions on people who live in the country as those who live in the cities. In a city, where people are packed close together, some of the restrictions might be justified, but in the country we have space, space to be free.

Country living is the last frontier of freedom in this country. Ordinance making powers for county governments will destroy this freedom for millions of Texans. They will be telling us how and where we can build our barns and chicken houses. where our fences shall be, how many cows and horses we can have. And of course, they'll have to soak us with heavier taxes to pay the bureaucrats to enforce these restrictions.

Instead of giving county commissioners in heavily populated counties ordinance making powers, the legislature should be reducing their size and phasing them out. All their functions can be easily and more efficiently handled by the big city govresentatives told the Eagle Forum in an open meeting that they favored the constitutional amendment sponsored by anti-abortion groups. Now that the amendment has been introduced into the Congress, it is time to take a look at it, and raise some questions about the support expressed by our representatives. The "right to life" amendment is an unbelievable proposal that would take Big Brother government and Big Father churches right into the womb. The amendment would not only outlaw the birth control pill and IUD's, it would define the use of those methods as murder, punishable just like any real murder. The tiny minority of Americans who are fanatic enough to propose such a monstrous destruction of religious freedom go beyond "right to life." For example, a Congressman who spoke in favor of the amendment said on the floor of the House on Tuesday that divorce and remarriage are morally the same as murder. The same religious system that calls abortion murder also calls divorce and remarriage grievously sinful. Are we going to write such religious notions into the most fundamental law and impri son those citizens who refuse to accept it? I think we should not do that.

In my opinion our Lubbock representatives will betray American freedom if they support the amendment outlawing birth control. As the famous Reformation hymn says, "Our fathers, chained in prisons dark, were still in heart and conscience free..." Let us hope our Lubbock representatives oppose putting men of free conscience back in those dark prisons.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE: Tax Cut

Cutback DALLAS-The results are beginning to trick in-and guess what? That ballyhooed tax revolt o the '70s is turning out to be revolting.

Schools are closing...welfare programs are introuble...highways are full of potholes...and it takes a bit of tricky timing to check a book but of the local library.

All around the country, state and city governments are crying the blues over budgets that are running in the red. You remember the tax revolt (it was in all the papers), that national fuss voters kicked up a few

They pulled it off, too, much to the surprise of the politicians, who never dreamed the peasant could ever get together on anything long enough to upend the apple cart. IT STARTED in 1978 in California, birthplace p many a cockeyed philosophy, with the now-fa mous Proposition 13. Lo and behold, it passed and Californians went to the bank with $7 billio they would otherwise have paid in property taxes.

A thing like that doesn't go unnoticed, and tax payers all over the land began scrambling to ge the government out of their pocketbooks. Loo Some states went for outright tax cuts...others for a ceiling on state spending...others for rebates to

And everywhere taxpayers fell to their knees and praised the Laffer Curve.

Now the Laffer Curve, folks, is the econor theory that (to put it as simply as possible) the more you cut taxes, the more it stimulates business, which increases prosperity, which brings in enough government revenue to make up for what is lost in tax collections.

PRESIDENT REAGAN is a believer in the Lat fer Curve. That's why he's promising to get the federal government off our backs with a big cut in income and business taxes, beginning this very

He's hoping to give us as much as a 30-percent break before he's through, and if it works, you can spell tax relief l-a-f-f-e-r

Reagan, however, is adding a new twist. Along with the cut in taxes, he's planning to push through a big slash in government spending. He may be from California, but he realizes that when you take in less, there's less to spend.

That's something the governors of a lot of states neglected to take into account. Many of them looked at the hefty surpluses in their budgets and figured Proposition-13-itis wouldn't turn out to be fatal after all

And it hasn't in some states. Those with strong economic growth, like Texas, seem to be relative-

ALTHOUGH GOV. William Clements is no longer talking about a $1-billion-tax cut, and the residents of Dallas just voted down a property tax cut. Alaska is a special case. Thanks to the Prudhoe Bay oil bonanaza, they have more money up there than they know what to do with. State legislators have earmarked a record $1.3 billion for public spending, repealed income taxes, and voted to pay every adult resident thousands of dollars annually from a special $900-mil-

But most governors in the "lower 48" have more troubles than oil. Any surpluses they had before the tax revolt are dwindling fast, and they are now scrambling for ways to cut expenses Even California has nothing left of a surplus that once totalled almost $4 billion

GOV. JERRY Brown's new budget calls for restricting pay increases for state employes and reducing welfare and medical programs. The legislature is also thinking of repealing automatic cost-of-living raises to welfare mothers, the blind and the handicapped. Still. California has had unparalleled prosperity

But government, as with governments everywhere, has been slow to trim its spending, which was the very message the voters were trying to get And also, as with government everywhere, when cuts are made, it is the blind, the schools, libraries and public safety that are targeted, not the good, ol' boys around the throne

THE IDEA, you see, is to frighten voters into giving the money back.

Ohio, with a $500-million deficit, can't afford to keep its schools open full-time...Michigan, home of the automobile depression, is cutting everything...Minnesota, which cut taxes $711 million a year in 1979, is facing a $1-billion deficit...and Massachusetts (called "Taxachusetts" by the natives) just got a sharp rollback in property taxes at a time when Boston is begging for help to keep its commuter trains running.

As usual, the governors are rattling their tin cup at the White House door, forgetting, in their anxiety, who happens to be living there now.

A day-long kidnapping ordeal ended with the reunion Monday of a 5-yearold boy and the grandmother who had last seen him carried forceably out the front door of their home by a man claiming to be his father.

James Carl Johnson, 24, of Temple was in jail Monday night on a charge of kidnapping after he was arrested Monday afternoon by Lubbock Police Department detectives and uniformed officers. He is accused of taking Orintheus James Mitchell from his bed Monday morning as the child's mother and grandmother stood helplessly by

The child's grandmother. Willie Mae Berry, told investigators that Johnson had come to their 500 East Broadway home Sunday night, claiming that he was the child's father and that he wanted the boy. An examination of the youngster's birth certificate indicates Johnson is not the boy's father.

Mrs. Berry told investigators that she and her daughter - thie child's mother - heard a knock at the fourt door early Monday and that her daughter opened the door before she could warn her not too. Johnson pushed his way in as they protested and grabbed the child by the arm as he lay in bed. Mrs. Berry

Mrs. Berry told police she was afraid to struggle with Johnson for fear he would hurt the child.

'She wasn't thinking, so she just cracked it (the door)." Mrs. Berry said of her daughter. "He (Johnson) used to go with my daughter, but that doesn't

Johnson was arrested Monday afternoon at 1305 53rd St., where the child was discovered playing in the yard. Dets. Linda Ewing and Roland "Butch" Ralston, accompanied by officers Steve Stephens and L.W. Bullock, found the suspect hiding in a closet.

The child had apparently not been harmed.

ANN LANDERS:

How Should She Deal With His Affair?

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a dentist. He has been having an affair with his dental assistant. She is the same age as our eldest daughter, and it has caused me a great deal of pain.

This has been going on for over a year and I have remained silent, hoping he would tire of her - or she of him. So far, no sign of it.

I don't want to confront my husband with what I know because I'd like to keep our marriage together - in spite of the fact that I am sharing him. He is good to me and the children. We have a lovely home, a pleasant social life and take nice vacations. I have no intention of asking him to make a choice

Last week a boy in my son's eighthgrade class told him his father was fooling around with the nurse in his office. My son told his grandmother. She told my sister. Now both of them are pressuring me to tell my husband he must fire the woman. They also want me to talk to my son and his 13-year-old sister about

Dear Ann Landers: I am 23 years old and live with my mother. The other evening my boyfriend and I had an argument. My mother was not home when the fight started. In the middle of the yelling, Mom came in.

I suggested that we resolve the matter privately, and we left. Both my boyfriend and I believe it is not prudent to argue in the presence of others

When we returned, my mother asked me what the argument was about. I told her it was none of her business. She responded in a high-and-mighty tone of voice, "As long as you live under my roof, it IS my business.

Is she right? I have been seeing this young man for quite a while, and my mother likes him a lot. Please answer soon. We all want to know your decision. - N.Y. Daily News Reader

Dear N.Y. Reader: A 23-year-old woman is under no obligation to tell her mother what she and her boyfriend argue about - whether she lives under Mom's roof or not. So, cancel the guilt trip.

Singing, Drawing Help Reading Skills

By B.J. McFARLAND

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) - If little Johnny can sing and draw, chances may be good that he'll become a better read-

If Johnny doesn't sing or draw, then do-it-himself writing may be another answer to his ability to handle words.

These ideas on better techniques in teaching children to read are from Lee Jenkins, director of reading and elementary education departments at Oregon State University in Corvallis.

"A child who can sing 50 songs can read 50 songs," says Jenkins. "We need to tie reading and music together. After students have sung a song and know the words to it, then we can bring it out in print. And there is a whole world of discovery because the kids know what the words are already.

"There is so much reading that can come from music. Music certainly is not a subject that should be set aside because there isn't enough classroom time. It can be one of the major ways some children learn to read.

Giving children a beginning line such as "One dark and stormy night" for their writing will also generate ideas, Jenkins tive writers if they have a picture drawn first and they write about that. I can't prove this yet, but we currently are gathering evidence to show that if children can draw, they can learn to read. That applies to remedial readers, too. 'If they can draw, then the reading can come because they can draw and then they can write about their art. Then you can have them read about what they

Jenkins disagrees with reading experts who use poster or blackboard techniques involving simple sentences such as "the wet pet did fret" as a reading ex-

(they) believe it is simple for children to learn to read because the words have short 'e' sounds," he says. We're actually exposing our children in the first three grades to a new language. one they haven't had in their first six years of growing up, when we use little words and little sentences.

Jenkins says the "wet pet" becomes a foreign language.

'All the reading that parents have done for their children in the preschool years and all the talking they've done to get their children prepared for reading is

The professor says there are 166 phonetic rules and 45 exceptions to those 166 rules - And rules for the exceptions and exceptions for the rules for the exceptions. "Are we asking too much too soon of young children?" he adds.

'If we were to learn to read like we learn to talk, it would be a much simpler process. We don't get a bunch of rules in our preschool days on how to talk, but we pick it up.

Jenkins says the learning-to-read process could be simplified by having beginning readers write their own reading material

As an example, he cites: Stacy says girls go to college to get more knowledge. Boys go to Jupiter to get more stupider. By Sissy."

"That's from a painting," Jenkins says. "That's the kind of things that naturally come from kids. All the words aren't one syllable, and all the words don't have the same vowel sounds. But then, kids don't write like we expect them to

Jenkins says national studies indicate students using the write-your-own method "do no better, nor any worse" than other beginning readers in conventional

... what is important about this technique is that students' writing scores go way up after they've been writing their own reading material. Those skills test much higher, and when you test reading attitudes, you see a real difference. When beginners write their own stuff, they write about what they like. That's reflected in better attitudes toward writ-

Jenkins says he often hears the suggestion that if science, social studies, music and art were eliminated during the first three grades and students just worked on reading, students would then learn to read better.

"But that's not true," he says, "because when you ask kids what they want to write for their own reading, the major things they write about are science and social studies. We've classified words beginners like and 40 percent are from science. 22 percent from social studies, and 12 percent from fantasy.

Jenkins says he recalls his elementary teaching days, and the times when he would tell his class to put away the art, that it was time to do reading.

"Well, I wouldn't do that anymore. Art and music may be the very things some kids need to get their reading

Unique Medical Unit Treats Sick Animals

By REBECCA LaVALLY DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — Rudolph was

His doctor. Harold Parker, sat beside him and vigorously rubbed the 8-yearold's gigantic head.

Rudolph sprawled listlessly on a fluffy mat in a huge cage. A green plastic frog squatted within easy reach of his whiskered jaws.

"As long as you squeak that frog. old Rudolph is pretty happy." Parker said.

Then he took another look at the pa tient. "How are you doing there. Tiger?" Rudolph was not a tiger, but a fawncolored Great Dane who had undergone surgery for a twisted stomach at the University of California, Davis, School of Veterinary Medicine Nearby, a 12-year-old Doberman Pinscher named El Gato lay virtually motionless, recuperating from back surgery. El Gato, breathing through a respirator, was heavily sedated to knock out pain from the bandaged wound on his neck and back.

The hospital's intensive care unit, containing $50,000 worth of laboratory equipment and other gadgets identical to those used with humans, is the nation's leading center for 24-hour care of seri-

Begun in 1973 at the only veterinary chool in California, it treats 700 animals yearly. It boasts an 81 percent survival rate. Of the 25 veterinary schools in the country, its intensive care facilities are considered the most advanced and com-

The cost is heavily subsidized by the university, and, ultimately, California taxpavers. Owners pay only $35 a day for constant monitoring and specialized care of their animals

Maladies suffered by the dogs and cats range from injuries inflicted in auto accidents to post-operative stress from open heart surgery. Surgery upon an animal suffering from an accident, a weak heart or cancer can cost hundreds of dollars. Parker says the highest bill ever run up for a dog or cat was $3.500, paid by a man who wanted everything possible done to save his dog. The animal recovered after receiving dialysis treatments on an artificial kidney machine donated by the widow of a man who suffered kidney failure.

An intensive care unit for large animals such as horses and cattle is nearly complete and will be operative in a few thousands of dollars at the track Horses or even bulls with broken limbs are no longer routinely destroyed. Parker pointed out two horses standing quietly in slings in the school's stables or wards, as he calls them - with heavy casts on their legs. A bull reclined nearby with a cast on a hind leg.

The school, relying upon teams of professors, residents and 500 veterinary students, in 1980 cared for 10,000 large animals and 17,000 small ones.

Parker and others at the hospital refer to the animals as "patients" and talk about them the way any doctor would a sick human.

There are differences, of course, Parker says veterinary medicine can lag as much as 20 years behind medical care for humans - an irony, considering medical breakthroughs often are made with laboratory animals.

The school will not prolong an animal's life unless there is hope of recovery. Its dialysis machine is not used upon dogs or cats with irreversible kidney problems.

"We don't encourage the owners" when there is no hope. Parker said. "It's not fair to the patient and not rewarding to the owner.

Instead, those animals are destroyed. Others are "put to sleep" when their owners are unwilling or unable to spend the money required to save them. But many people, particularly the elderly, rely heavily upon their pets for affection and companionship. For them, the intensive care unit can be a godsend.

When their animals die, they die a little bit. too." Parker said. "When you save a patient for some older clients. you've done a mutually stimulating thing. It does a lot to bolster that person's will to live."

Some patients aren't easily forgotten either. One of them, Gabe, an Australian shepherd, was shot three times when he tried to protect his mistress from an intruder in her home. Parker said Gabe leaped at the intruder as he fired a gun in the direction of Gabe's owner. Two bullets went into the dog's head and another into his body. His spinal cord was nicked, partially par alvzing him. The dog's owner lived in Nevada, but local veterinarians urged her to take him to Davis. Gabe recovered completely after a six-week hospital stay. Parker, a full professor, joined the school's faculty several years after graduating in its first class in 1952.

Urine Test Gives Information On Gout

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My doctor had me collect my urine over a whole 24-hour period. I have gout. I presume this check was to evaluate that. But I was under the impression that uric acid is found in the blood of gout patients, and that uric acid is what is looked for. Why didn't he just do blood tests? - G.L.

You're right. Elevated uric acid in the blood is the hallmark of gout. But the blood level rises either because a person's body makes too much of the acid or because the kidneys do not filter enough of it into the urine. It's important to learn which factor is involved.

Urine testing tells just what is happening - whether too much uric acid is being made or if too little is being filtered. If too much is being made, there will be a high level in the urine, if too little is being filtered, there will be a low level in the urine. A high blood uric acid level would be expected in either case.

There is another reason for the urine testing; the results help determine the proper medication to use. For example, allopurinol stops the body from making the acid, so it is good for those whose bodies make too much of it. Another reason for the test stems from the fact that gout sufferers may develop kidney stones (when the accumulated uric acid, crystallizes). This is more likely to happen if the urine's uric acid is high. Thus the test of how much uric acid there is in urine helps predict the likelihood of one forming kidney stones. With advancing age, there is a shrinkage of the brain, just as there is of the muscle and bone. That sounds terrible, but it is inevitable, although the degree and progress of it varies widely among individuals. In fact, most people undergo this natural change without noticeable mental impairment When this shrinkage occurs prematurely, along with mental impairment, it is called Alzheimer's disease. The cause is unknown. It often begins with loss of memory for recent events and there may be peculiar behavior.

There is no specific treatment for this standing and realize that the changes of personality, mood and memory are no fault of the person. Directions For Converting Flat To Fitted

You are so kind about repeating information that we've missed or lost.

Please, will you repeat the instructions for making fitted bed sheets out of flat sheets? - Charlotte

How can I refuse? There are several ways to do it, some professional-looking, some just to get by. I'll leave the decision of which you want to tackle up to you.

Now, if you're carefree and want to get quick results, just take each corner of a flat sheet and tie it into a knot, tucking the knot under the mattress. Believe me. you can't tell it's there while you're sleeping.

If you want a nice finish to your sheets, then try Brenda Rhinehart's

Measure the length and thickness of each end of your mattress, plus four inches (two inches to tuck under for each

Then measure the width and thick ness of each side of your mattress, again allowing the four inches to tuck under Mark the flat sheet with these measurements exactly and trim to size. On each corner of the trimmed sheet, using the thickness of your mattress, plus two inches to tuck under, cut out a perfect square (example: if your mattress is four inches thick, cut a six-inch square). Sew the cut edges together wrong side out on each corner (it should resemble a shoe box when completed). For added reinforcement, use seam binding or doubled cloth on the seams.

Make a shirttail hem all around the sheet. Cut four strips of elastic six inches long and fold each in half, pinning one to the center seam of each corner.

Stretching the elastic as you sew stitch the elastic from center to end on each side, repeating at each corner. You now have a custom-made fitted sheet that will stay in place, and won't wrinkle on your bed.

As a little food for thought, you might want to make only one end of your sheet fitted, leaving the other end flat.

This way, you can switch sheets from top to bottom, thus making more even wear. When you use the sheet on the bottom, put the fitted end at the head. When you're using it for a top sheet, put the fitted end at the foot.

Neat, huh? - Heloise

'Jasmine' Offers Exciting, Upbeat Performance

-J Entertainment Editor

Jasmine, the nusical duo of Carol Schmidt and Michelle Isam, is proof petitive that pleasure can still be provided by unknowns. Not hat I expect Jasmine to stay unknown for

With rhythm rather than blood racing through their veins, Miss Schnidt and Miss Isam raised the roof Sunday night at the Tess Tech University Center theater, exploding with thrilling nusical arrangements, stunning an initially stuffy crowd ad providing one of the most entertaining and upbeat evening Lubbock has enjoyed in quite a while.

The concet was billed by Tech as a dinner showcase, attracting a seeningly older, more refined audience dressed in its finest for a catered chicken kiev dinner and, perhaps, a bit of supper club jazz music. But surprises were in store

Both Miss chmidt and Miss Isam are young, vivacious talents who hee looked to a wide range of contemporary artists to exand their repertoire. So along with "Seafood Mama" ard "In The Mood," they also performed tunes by The McGrrigle Sisters, The Roche sisters, Rickie Lee Jones, JonMitchell, Bruce Springsteen and Billy Joel.

No doot a large proportion of Sunday's audience had never ever heard those names before, much less songs by the artists It was music some may have purposely avoided, but Jasmie made the music accessible to everyone

Those arboring doubts saw them erased almost immedialely by the sheer charisma of Jasmine. Providing harmonies that bith stimulated and soothed, as well as truly fascinating and unique arrangements, the duo brought forth a sound much fuller than one might expect from just two instruments stripping away audience inhibitions and earning a standing vation at the show's conclusion.

Althoun Michelle Isam handles the brunt of the lead vos, accerning them with body language at the microphone, Carol Schnidt is the backbone, the foundation of Jasmine. Her work at the piano is as exciting as it is diverse, thoroughly effictive during both complex and more simple constructions. She is also that rarity: a musician who rarely appears to be concentrating on her music. She doesn't force the sound it simply flows from her fingertips.

With he left heel tapping out a beat and her right working the petals, her eyes are usually on Miss Isam, positively twinkling with anticipation. It's as though she is thinking of what the snger will do next, or how the upcoming verse will make the judience feel - and she's simply enjoying the mo-

Michelle Isam sings with power and a sense of style, although she'll add punctuation to the occasional musical statement through brass instrumentation. Her saxophone playing Sunday, however, was adequate at best, adding little to the show's impact. Instead, audiences were excited by the strength, the ferocity of her vocals which seemed to emerge from a never drained power source.

She could make vocal filler - the "do be bop bops," for example - actually complement accompanying piano chords

The best part of Jasmine's performance, though, is watching Michelle Isam and Carol Schmidt sing together. They would trade off verses with split-second precision, their timing always perfect, or sing together in perfect harmony - shades of old Simon & Garfunkel - on songs like The Roches' "Boat People." They knew which material suited their styles and their voices and, as a result, the evening provided no clinkers.

One moment they could be finger-snapping to Judy Garland's "Get Happy" and the next be dedicating a Sesame Street song called "I Want A Horse" to a young girl in the audience. Both were equally charming.

Indicative of the audience's response was that to a song called "Honey, Kiss Me With My Clothes On," from Gilda Radner's Broadway revue. Obviously unfamiliar with the material, the audience chuckled at first at the lyrics, but Jasmine soon brought forth the sincere innocence and nearnostalgia of the song. The crowd soon quieted, and one man near me expressed his surprise at the conclusion to a companion with, "Gee, I really liked that."

He wasn't alone. Mind you, Jasmine has a few minor kinks to work out. The brass needs to be treated as necessities, not luxuries. A couple songs would be equally effective without the closing "da do bop bop" lyrics. The piano speaks effectively alone and, in fact, an instrumental or two might add something positive. And most obvious Sunday, the duo needs to work off some of its nervousness about performing before strange

Miss Schmidt seemed comfortable only when playing she'd tinker at tunes from "The Wizard Of Oz" or even Christmas carols during setups - and both recognized that their spoken reparte failed.

Nevertheless, Jasmine is extremely gifted, extremely entertaining and deserving of much bigger audiences. Sunday saw them play to a sellout of 160 in an unusual seating situation. University Center activities advisior Tom Diehm is already trying to bring the women back to play another dinner showcase this summer but, in actuality, these two deserve to be playing alone on stage before a packed audience in the 1,-

In fact, Jasmine is one of the few acts I enjoyed so much as a reviewer that I'd be willing to pay to see them again the very next night. Performers like that don't drop by very often. I can assure you.

Jasmine has recorded an album, which is available presently by mail order only. Copies can be obtained by mailing a money order for $8.37 (the price covers the LP, tax, postage and handling) to Jasmine Album, 225 S. Meramec, Suite 500, Clayton, Mo. 63105.

CBS affiliate in the women's home town of St. Louis. It was obviously a career boost for Jasmine, so one can't fault the women for expressing their excitement. However, one CAN blame the TV crew for disregarding the fact a Lubbock audience had paid to see a concert performance.

The TV crew asked Jasmine to repeat a song played earlier in the evening, at least temporarily stripping the show of its spontaneity, and actually stood in front of customers at

I was impressed by Jasmine. I was not impressed by the professionalism of the St. Louis TV crew.

Accused Held Incompetent For Trial

A-J Correspondent CHILDRESS - An 18-year-old hitchhiker accused of murdering a Louisiana man last October in Childress County has been found mentally incompetent to stand trial for the crime.

Paul Chavez, a former California resident with no permanent address, is accused in the stabbing death of Felton Galiano, 25, of Gallianno, La. on Oct. 22, 1980. Officials said Chavez, also known as Paul Coast, was a passenger in Galiano's

Tech Repairs Added To Emergency List

Gov. Bill Clements has added $126,000 in repair funds for Texas Tech University to his emergency appropriation list, according to Jesse George, aide to Sen.

E.L. Short (D-Tahoka). George explained that this means the request could be acted on within the first 30 days of the legislative session which began Jan. 13. In submitting the bill, Short called the repair money an emergency situation. The lump sum would cover three separate items. Tech asked for $85,000 to repair damage to the Pantex Farm and Reef Cattle Research Center caused by a tornado on Oct. 30, 1979. Officials want $2,952 to repair damage to Tech's Administration Building caused by a fire Dec. 31, 1979. The rest, $40,102.25, would be used to repair damage to the Lubbock campus caused by a severe windstorm Aug. 3, 1980.

By RAY De CRANE (Second of 14 parts) If you have been expecting a tax refund because of all those campaign promises of a tax cut last fall, forget it. Income taxes almost certainly will be lowered - in 1981. Any reduction in that tax bill will not be apparent until you file your tax return next This is going to be a transition year, a year of adjustment.

for the Internal Revenue Serv-

In a year when there is substantial change in tax law, the error rate on returns shoots up. That's what happened last year. as taxpayers wrestled with a new tax form and greatly re-

The tax forms and the tax laws are little changed this year. As a result, IRS is hoping for a big improvement in the number of errors that delayed the processing of 7 percent of all the returns filed a year ago.

vised tax laws.

What changes have been made will affect relatively few of the estimated 95 million taxpayers who will be filing returns this year.

For your copy of the 1981 edition of "Cut Your Own Taxes and Save" by Ray De Crane, send a check or money order for $1.50 (plus 50 cents postage and handling) to "Cut Your Own Taxes" c/o this newspaper. P.O. Box 489, Radio City

Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. It provides up-to-date information on the few changes that have been made in the tax law. Among the changes is an increase in the permitted deduction for auto expenses.

For the business use of an automobile, the taxpayer may now claim an optional mileage rate of 20 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles of business driving. After that, the rate is 11 cents a mile. A year ago, the comparable allowances were 18 1/2 cents and 10 cents.

If you used your car in connection with deductible charitable activity, as part of your allowable moving expenses or as part of your allowable medical expenses - such as driving to and from doctor's offices or the pharmacy - the mileage rate has been upped to 9 cents from the 8 cents permitted a year ago.

For salespeople and others who use their personal cars in their business activity, the higher optional mileage allowance still might not be advisable to

It is always possible to claim the actual cost of such car expense. This takes into consideration annual depreciation and the costs of gas, oil, repairs, insurance and related expenses. The way inflation has hit the cost of cars, gasoline, repairs and insurance, a higher allowance might still be obtained by tabulating your actual cost in-stead of claiming the standard mileage rate.

The most accurate method of finding out which is best for you is to work out the figures both ways and then elect the option that gives you the greater deduction.

Higher Interest For Foreigners Okayed

AUSTIN (AP) - The Senate Economic Development Committee voted 6-1 Monday for a bill allowing banks to charge 30 percent interest on loans to some foreigners. Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, sponsored the measure that he said would enable Texas banks to "compete with Mexican banks, which have much higher rates of interest. The proposal applies to non-resident, alien people and to businesses "not organized under the laws of the United States or one of its states."

As you know, the prime (interest) rate has been much higher than Texas allows." Max Mandel of the Laredo National Bank told the committee. "This law would allow Texas banks to compete with other banks in these periods of high interest rates.

He said the current state ceiling on interest rates was not effective, because "large banks with foreign branches can just book the loan through Nassau (The Bahamas).

"Obviously, this is mere subterfuge," he said.

Asked if the possibility of charging 30 percent interest for loans to foreigners would make banks ignore local customers. Mandel replied:

Absolutely not. This law would have absolutely no adverse effect on local borrowers. It would just let us do it (charge high rates) in an open and above-board

Sen. John Wilson, D-La Grange, disagreed and voted against the bill.

Computer Firm business Reports Gain In Earnings

DALLAS (AP) - Texas Instruments Inc. said Monday its 1980 fourth-quarter earnings jumped 16 percent to $53.9 million; or $2.32 a share, from $46.5 million. or $2.03 a share, in the year-earlier peri-

The Dallas-based manufacturer of semiconductor equipment also reported a 23 percent gain in profits for the year to $221.2 million, or $9.22 a share, compared with $172.9 million, or $7.58 a share, in 1979. Sales totaled a record $4.07 billion, up 26 percent deom 1979's $3.22 billion.

For the fourth-quarter, sales jumped 20 percent to $1.09 billion from 906.1 million a year earlier.

The company said roughly 60 percent of the increase in 1980 sales resulted from volume increases, excluding new products.

The remaining 40 percent was divided evenly between sales of new products and revenue from price increases, the company said in a year-end letter to shareholders.

TI said it had reduced the work hours of about 17 percent of its international workforce of 90,000.

The cutback, announced in December. was blamed on "softening in demand for certain TI products." The work curtailment is expected to last at least through March, and further cutbaacks may be made.

"Semiconductor operations experienced significant growth and improved profit from operations in 1980," said Chairman Mark Shepherd Jr. and President J. Fred Bucy in a letter to stockholders. "Margins in the fourth quarter, although at levels below those of the first half, were supported by strong performance in bipolar integrated circuits

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Q. I own 30 shares of stock in a company that operates a chain of drug stores. The company reported "record earnings of $1.734,000, or $1.45 a share, for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, compared with $1.682,000, or $1.42 a share, a year ear-

I get a dividend check from the company every three months. Each of the last four checks was in the amount of $3. That gives me $12 a year. Since the company is paying $1.45 per share. I should think my 30 shares would return $43.50 a year in dividends. Is my reasoning

A No. because the company is not paying $1.45 per share in dividends to its stockholders. There's usually a big difference between earnings per share and dividends per share.

The earnings report, which you quote correctly, showed that, in its latest fiscal. year, the company had a net profit equal to $1.45 on each of its "outstanding - owned by stockholders.

The $1.45 per share was what the company had earned from its year's operations, after paying all expenses and

Like most companies, however, the one in which you own stock did not pass all $1.45 per share along to stockholders in dividends. Few companies pay 100 percent of their earnings in dividends.

Instead, most companies "plow back" part of their earnings' using the money to buy new plants and equipment - thereby expanding its business. When this is done right, it makes the company more valuable and increases future earn-

It seems to have worked with the company you named in your letter. Although earnings have been erratic over the years, they have increased recently. As a result, dividends have been raised to double what they were five years ago.

Q. I participate in an employee savings plan which can be rolled over into an individual retirement account (IRA) when I retire this year. Can I roll over this retirement money into an IRA with several mutual funds in which I now invest? If so, how do I arrange for a custodian or sponsor?

A Almost all mutual funds sponsor IRAs One of the rules is that the trustee for an IRA may be a bank, a savings and loan association, a federally insured credif union or "an individual approved by the Internal Revenue Service." Most mutual fund organizations have received IRS approval to assume that function. So, just contact any of the funds in which you are now investing. They'll be happy to take your IRA account. Things will work out easier if you place your IRA money with one mutual fund organization which has a group of funds.

By rolling over your retirement fund into an IRA you'll postpone paying taxes on that money. You can then take the money out gradually during your retirement years. Because you will probably be in a lower tax bracket, that should greatly reduce your tax bite.

Q. My company's profit-sharing plan gives me some choices on types of investmately nine more years.

Rather than invest in short-term government securities and other fixed-income investments, it seems to me this is a good time to choose to have my money put in a fund investing in common stocks. Do you agree?

A. Your choice would be my choice. With nine years to go to retirement. you should be thinking about buying things that, hopefully, will grow in value for your retirement nestegg.

My bet is the common stocks will accomplish that, better than fixed-income investments such as bonds.

But, you should be aware that there's usually more risk in common stocks than in such things as U.S. Treasuries. The final decision on whether or not to take on some risk has to be yours.

Few Changes In Tax Law — Yet Parking Disputed Avalanche-Journal Staff

University Avenue

Contrary to what University Avenue shopkeepers contend, a change from angle to parallel parking along the east side of the street would be safer, according to city officials.

The longtime controversy over University Avenue traffic surfaced Saturday when Texas Tech Regents endorsed a plan to widen the street. The widening plan is expected to go before the city council Feb. 12

Although the widening plan does not affect the curb line on the east side of the avenue, it does call for a change from angle to parallel parking in front of businesses that line that side of the avenue.

Assistant City Manager Jim Blagg said Monday the change has nothing to do with the widening but is aimed at making driving conditions safer for mo-

A correlation between accidents and angle parking exists that indicates angle parking is hazardous, that more people will use the outside traffic lane if they don't have to worry about cars backing into traffic and that it is "much more dif ficult" to obtain federal funding for a street widening project if it includes angle parking. Blagg said. The Federal Highway Administration considers angle parking too hazardous, he noted. Saturday and Monday, when businesses along the avenue were contacted for comment by The Avalanche-Journal. owners and managers said they expectmore wrecks because of the change and that the alteration will make the outside lane useless.

But the remark that was most common was that parallel parking would decimate an area already strapped for park-

One of the big fights we've had here is not having enough parking spaces to begin with," said Douthi Hill, manager of the University Book Center, adding that taking spaces away will "put everybody out of business." "I was here when they ruined downtown," said Jack Davis, who owns a western wear store, adding that the change from angle to parallel parking there put many establishments out of Phil Sooter, owner of the Varsity Formal Wear and Varsity Cleaners, also said the downtown change hurt businessmen in that area badly. He said he was aware of the problems because he took over one downtown business after the change.

"One of the main troubles in this area the lack of parking." said Burl Pigg owner of University Jewelry. "Downtown has gone to pot. There's going to be a disaster area here if they do

Davis said that several business owners planned to gather Monday night at the home of Ted Rushing, who owns a building in the area, to discuss fighting the city in court over the proposed

Of the 12 owners and managers interviewed, only one said he wouldn't fight the parking change. R.A. Carson of Broadway Drug said, "We'll have to ac-

Some of the owner/managers seemed piqued that the city failed to notify them of the proposed change.

"When something is proposed, why is it the people most affected by it aren't asked for their opinion?" Pigg asked. 'It's like they don't even care about the businesses here.

Davis said he thought the city was trying to sneak the plan through before the businesses had time to react.

Most of those contacted said there was no business group to help fight the change, but that the controversy may help revive interest in such an organiza-

Mayor Bill McAlister said Monday that a letter was being delivered to store owners affected by the change, inviting them to meet with city officials on Thursday at a public meeting room at the liorary. Store owners who received the letter were emphatic about their intention

Under the street-widening plan, there would be three northbound lanes and two southbound lanes on University from Fourth to 16th streets. After 16th Street, University Avenue would become six lanes - three in either direction. The proposal also calls for fewer left turn lanes onto University Avenue for traffic traveling from downtown toward the campus. For traffic northbound on University Avenue, there will be only three intersections - at Broadway, Sixth and 15th Streets - available for left turns into the campus.

Except at those intersections, all of University Avenue between Fourth and 19th streets will be divided by brick medians and shrubbery plantings.

Senate Votes To Remove Ceiling On Trade Penalty

AUSTIN (AP) - The Senate voted Monday to remove the $10,000 ceiling in civil penalties the state may recover under the Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act.

A proposal by Sen. Lloyd Doggett also would extend from two years to three years the time the state has to file suits under the act.

Doggett, D-Austin, said Attorney General Mark White had asked for the extra time because complaints often can be settled out of court.

T-Bill Interest Drops Again

WASHINGTON (AP) - Interest rates on short-term Treasury securities continued to slide Monday, dropping more than one-third of a percentage point for the second week in a row, the government reported.

The average discount rate on 26-week Treasury bills declined to 13.735 per cent from the 14.121 percent of a week earlier, the government said after its weekly auction. The new figure is the lowest since the 13.182 percent reported

The average rate on 13-week Treasury bills dropped to 14.657 percent from 15.199 percent the week before. Monday's level was the lowest since the 13.601 percent of Jan. 5.

As a result of Monday's auction, banks and thrift institutions may pay up to 13.985 percent on six-month money market certificates, beginning Thursday. The present ceiling on the $10,000-minimum-deposit certificates, which are linked to the 26-week Treasury rate, is 14.371 percent.

Depositors choosing 2½-year certificates — requiring smaller deposits — can earn 12 percent at thrift institutions and 11.75 percent at commercial banks. These yields are at their federally controlled ceilings.

The discount rate on short-term Treasury bills understates the actual return to an investor because a portion of the price is refunded at the time of purchase. The actual return, or investment rate, came to an average of 14.97 percent on 26-week bills and 15.43 percent on 13-week bills at Monday's auction.

Complaints Against Tech Under Scrutiny

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY Avalanche-Journal Staff

Teams from two federal government offices are on the Texas Tech campus this week to investigate separate discrimination complaints.

Dennis Good from the Albuquerque office of federal contracts compliance program of the U.S. Department of Labor is reviewing the complaint of Mexican-American law school students and also gathering information on the university's affirmative action compliance.

Also, a team from the civil rights office of the U.S. Department of Education is investigating a complaint filed by a woman alleging job promotion discrimi-

"We'll be gathering information on things to either substantiate or disprove the complaint," Good said of the law students' allegations.

Seven organizations submitted the complaint concerning university practices to both the education and justice departments last spring, but the case is commonly referred to as the law students' complaint.

The complaint alleged discrimination in recruitment, hiring, pay, promotion and tenure of faculty, administration and staff, and in the admissions policies of the graduate schools.

One statistic cited in the complaint was that of 574 students enrolled in Tech's Law School at the time the complaint documents were drafted none were black and 3.8 percent were Mexi-

Julio Llanas, director of Tech's Affirmative Action office since late last summer, said he has no predictions on what the investigation will reveal. "It's just to find out how well the university is practicing its committment to affirmative action," he said, adding that, "The president has made it clear to them and to me and to everyone else that we will comply with the law.'

The other complaint being investigated, by civil rights representatives, is in regard to Llanas's post. A woman on the Tech staff has alleged discrimination in the hiring of Llanas.

Frenship School Files Post-Trial Brief

Avalanche-Journal Staff The Frenship Independent School District, in a post-trial brief filed Monday afternoon, argues the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development was arbitrary in its site selection for a contested public housing project, and did not allow developers free and open competition in bidding. Frenship attorney Charles Galey attacked HUD site selection for preselecting the 24th Street and Frankford Avenue site, just inside the Frenship boundary, failing to follow its own regulations and conducting no studies on the project's impact on Frenship schools. When the trial phase of Frenship's suit adjourned Wednesday, U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward allowed Galey to file his final arguments in written form by Monday. Defense counsel have until Thursday to respond, with Woodward's ruling expected to come sometime next week.

Frenship filed suit to permanently halt the project Sept. 23, 1980, naming as defendants HUD, Temple Management, the Lubbock Housing Authority and the City of Lubbock. Although Temple and the LHA signed a $5 million construction contract Sept. 30, 1980, only grade leveling work has been done at the site near Lubbock Christian College.

Based on testimony by Temple project planner Tim Kirkscey, the Frenship brief asserts the true reason HUD reject-proved Temple's revised proposal was because all Temple sites were inside Loop 289.

Frenship points out the LHA did not have the subjective loop criteria, and that the rejected sites have been zoned by the city for development.

HUD did not comply with its own regulations, the brief claims, when it failed to explain to the LHA why its site choices were rejected. Frenship contends an agreement was not reached between HUD and Temple because there was no communication or mutuality, but admitted the defense would dispute that claim.

Frenship said the LHA accepted HUD's arbitrary site choice under the worst duress, and referred to testimony by former LHA board member Cathy Morton and a letter introduced as evidence from former Mayor Dirk West. Both expressed concern over the possible loss of Community Development funds if HUD's advice was not taken. West referred to HUD's attitude as an "ever present threat.

Frenship also argues the Temple sites should have been disqualified by HUD on the basis of its own regulations for two reasons: 1) the two sites were originally rated poor but changed to adequate and HUD's handbook requires automatic rejection for a poor rating; and 2) HUD regulations require rejection of a proposal if it does not contain a map showing the project's relation to existing schools.

Galey's brief further calls HUD's actions arbitrary for not making the LHA responsible for the planning and development of the project, as it says regulations specify, and for deciding the 96-unit lowincome project would not adversely affect Frenship schools without making any studies on the question.

Quoting a HUD economist's testimony, the Frenship brief maintains HUD's school evaluation was subjective and based solely on district superintendent J. Weldon Bennett's Dec. 20, 1979, letter. That document called a sudden influx of students a hardship, but Galey asserts HUD arbitrarily construed other comments in the letter to be favorable over-

Finally, Frenship says bidding on the project should begin again since HUD has no way to cure its arbitrary and capricious actions. This would allow for equal proposals to be submitted, the

Frenship also asks no work be allowed at the site and no money paid by HUD to the LHA until those two agencies determine procedures to gather reliable data on the relevant factors pertaining to the project's impact on the school advice to anyone traveling alone in China: be patient, be adventurous and don't forget to pack your 1940s dancing shoes.

RICK O'SHAY

WHEEOOO! AH SHORE CAME

Because the Chinese prefer tourists to see the country in groups, it's difficult to get an individual travel visa. But the extra red tape to go it alone is worth the While no official figures are available, group tours average about $100 a day per person. But individual tourists can easily get by for about $50 a day, with the add ed luxury of doing what they want when they want to do it.

Consider the luxury of walking along the Great Wall in Peking and having only Chinese in your pictures, not hordes of tourists blocking your view and spoiling the atmosphere.

And what about the delicious thought of sleeping late one morning and not feeling guilty about skipping a trip to Shanghai's Industrial Exhibition Hall. Or eating only one 10-course Chinese meal instead of the usual two.

Unlike many other Communist countries. China puts few restraints on where tourists can wander and there is almost no feeling of being under surveillance. The bureaucracy often seems impenetrable but perseverance usually pays off with taxi drivers, airline officials, the China Travel Service and all other au-

The first obstacle is getting a visa. If you have friends living in China, they can invite you. If you're a businessman interested in trade, you can get a visa from the government corporation handling line of work. The foreign ministry and education ministry also arrange visas for some academics, students, technical experts and VIPs

Once in China, getting around is not difficult - except for businessmen. The foreign and education ministries almost always give the OK to the Public Security Bureau for their guests to travel, a process that usually takes about two days for Europeans and Americans.

But Westerners doing business with China say the government corporations are more reluctant to let their business guests travel, possibly because they don't want to lose a sale to a competing corporation in another city or province. With travel permit in hand, anyone traveling alone can then decide to go by train or plane and make his or her own transportation and hotel reservations. This can be difficult, especially in late spring and fall, which are the height of the tourist season Obviously, speaking Chinese makes sightseeing infinitely easier. But non-Chinese speaking tourists can also get around without much difficulty, especial ly in big cities, if they've got the proper sense of adventure. Taxi dispatchers in all major hotels speak English and can list the sights you want to see and shops you want to visit. Many guidebooks and the China phone book now have the names of major locations in English and Chinese, so all you have to do is show the taxi driver the book and point. Taxis are reasonable and it's easy to get around on buses if you have the time Two hours of sightseeing in Shanghai could cost anywhere from $6 to $15, depending on the distance and waiting time. The longest bus ride would cost

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day finds you tied down to uncovering some perplexing conditions from which you can gain many benefits in the future. Plan the future wisely.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Keep rooted to present routines and avoid trying to find new outlets for best results at this time.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Keep promises made and gain the respect of others. Avoid spending money on the new and untried. Be logical.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't come to any agreement in the morning if there is the slightest bit of doubt. Strive for increased happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you study well any responsibilities you want to assume in the future. Know where you are headed LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study your financial status well and don't go overboard on matters of amusements. Work is the key to success now. VIRGO (aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study what your personal desires are and steer clear of a negative-thinking family tie who could spoil things for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Forget the frivolous for now and spend more time on matters that could give you more security in the future. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make sure you follow through with promises made to others and gain their goodwill. Attend a social affair tonight SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Listening to and following the edicts of influential persons is wise today and you get ahead faster. CARPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have new and practical plans that could give you more benefits in the future, so stop wasting precious time AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Postpone meetings with friends and get busy meeting important business commitments. Relax at home tonight. PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Take extra steps and be of more assistance to associates for mutual gain. Fine day for communicating with outsiders. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...he or she will be one of those clever young persons with much organizational ability and should be given a chance to express this quality early in life. Cartoon Character Voice Temple Deejay TEMPLE (AP) - Archvillain Boris excellent and the challenge can be fun.

Badenoff, the pint-sized nemesis of "Rocky and Bullwinkle" television fame. has found a new line of work spinning discs in this Central Texas town.

With him are Astro, the Jetsons' space-happy dog: Scooby Doo, another semi-literate pooch on Saturday morning TV; and Mr. Arrax, a red, long-necked al-ien featured on several of the cartoonversion "Star Trek" episodes, to name

But the arrival of all these famous characters resulted in a population increase for Temple of only one person.

He's Bob Raleigh, a Harvard University graduate who did the voices for those and other Hollywood cartoon characters but who now has left Southern California

Raleigh said he still plans occasional weekend visits to the West Coast for voice-dubbing sessions - the demand for

"When they need a voice for a talking cucumber, you just have to sit there and imagine what a cucumber would sound like." Raleigh, 36. said during a recent break from his duties as morning "jock" at KTEM radio.

But Raleigh's new home is Temple long way from Hollywood.

"I'm tired of moving," said Raleigh.
"The people are nice here, and that's good for me now.

Raleigh obtained a degree in psychology and worked in that field, but decided it was too much like "a Jerry Lewis movie" for his tastes, so he began writing comedy material for various entertainers, including George Carlin.

He said he wandered from Boston to Atlanta to Los Angeles, tried unsuccessfully to fire up his own comedy career.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Violin virtuoso Jascha Heifetz spent his 80th birthday in seclusion on Monday, but public radio and television stations nationwide celebrated the event with special broadcasts.

Heifetz, who made his Carnegie Hall debut at the age of 16 in 1917, has left his hilltop home only sporadically for public appearances since retiring in 1974. Those appearances have been to promote pet ecological causes, to campaign for implementation of the emergency telephone number 911, to demonstrate his smogless electric automobile, or to show off one of his students at the University of Southern California, where he has taught since 1962

The last birthday Heifetz celebrated was his 50th, which "started early in the morning and lasted until quite late in the evening." Heifetz told a reporter last

"I said then that was it, and I think I have kept my word," said Heifetz, recognized as one of the greatest violinists of the century. He was unavailable for comment on Monday.

Chrysler Workers Back New Pay Cut

DETROIT (AP) - United Auto Workers union members at Chrysler Corp. have voted by a 3-to-2 margin to take another pay cut, removing one more roadblock to final approval of $400 million in government loan guarantees to the No. 3 automaker, the union said

Chrysler said in a statement: "Once again, the UAW and its members have led the way ... The favorable vote benefits everybody associated with Chrysler, most especially the workers.

Workers will lose at least $46 weekly due to the vote.

Mare Stepp, the union's vice president in charge of Chrysler matters, said 26.942 workers voted in favor of a revised contract that drops the average wage by 13 percent starting in March. Some 18,-859 workers voted against the contract.

The margin of approval - 59 percent was far less than the 68 percent who voted in October 1979 in favor of the current contract, which puts workers behind their counterparts at other Big Three companies for the first time. In January 1980, when the UAW swallowed further concessions to help establish the loan guarantees. 79 percent of the workers gave their approval to the pact.

Stepp said the favorable vote of 58 percent was a "reasonable vote to ex-to recent company figures. The UAW gave the eligible total as 120,000. There 10,000-worker discrepancy.

"If any company thinks this is an opportunity to take advantage of UAW members and the gains they have won over the years, they are in for a shocking surprise," Stepp said.

We did what we did at Chrysler because Chrysler was on the edge of bankruptcy. I imagaine the same rule, the same principle would apply to General Motors (Corp.)

He did not mention Ford Motor Co., which along with GM said it would ask the UAW to re-open contracts if Chrysler won more concessions.

The major obstacles Chrysler still faces before it can obtain the additional guaranteed loans include approval by banks and the Canadian government.

The banks are being asked to take partial payment on some loans and to convert others to preferred stocks, while the Canadian government is being asked to accept smaller investment in Canada than the company promised a year ago.

Stepp told reporters "we understand" that lenders have accepted the concessions. A Chrysler spokesman who asked not to be identified said Stepp probably referred to approval by a lenders' committee which was reported earlier or to a recent statement that no lenders were objecting. "We do not have all the documents in hand yet but we anticipate no problems," the spokesman said, repeating earlier assurances.

Under the proposal accepted by the workers, the average Chrysler worker will earn $3 an hour less by September 1982 than his counterparts at GM and

The chief sacrifice approved by the Chrysler workers was the elimination in March of cost-of-living allowances earned since September 1979 - $1.15 an hour in December and estimated to reach $1.37 in March - and a freeze in base wages, currently averaging $9.47 an day" as it was 30 years ago.

Those measures were estimated to save $450 million, with other provisions bringing the UAW total to $622 million. Similar measures from other workers were to save $161 million more.

"We have not abandoned, nor do we intend to abandon, the concept of COL-

A." Stepp said. Without the adjustment, workers will lose $46 per 40-hour workweek, based on December's cost-of-living adjustment of $1.15 an hour.

Among the measures accepted by Chrysler to soothe the union's pain was a committment to negotiate a profit-sharing plan that would give workers at least 15 percent of all profits over 10 percent of new worth. The provision means nothing at the moment, for Chrysler will not make money until 1982, according to government estimates.

Profit-sharing is a benefit "we feel is a viable one. No doubt you'll see it in other contracts. We think it will stand on its own and not be traded off for COLA."

In voting among the four categories of workers, all of which had to show approval, the results were:

-Production and ma ers, 22.223-17.228, or 56 percent in favor. -Parts depot workers, 605-405, or 57

-Office and clerical workers, 1,994-421, or 83 percent.

-Salaried engineering workers, 2,120-746, or 74 percent

The Brazilian Foreign Ministry had announced earlier in Brasilia that the combatants agreed to accept cease-fire observers from the four countries. They had guaranteed the Rio de Janeiro Protocol that delineated the unmarked frontier after the Peruvian-Ecuadorean war in 1941, which left some 500 soldiers dead and wounded.

But Ecuador abrogated the treaty in 1951, saying it had signed under duress and it granted too much territory to Pe-

Diplomats of the four guarantor nations had been meeting in Brasilia since Sunday night, and they announced the cease-fire arrangment after a 20-hour marathon session.

Peru had asked the four guarantors to mediate the dispute rather than the Organization of American States. But Ecuador took the issue to the OAS.

The foreign ministers of both countries flew to Washington for an emergency debate by the OAS Monday.

In often heated debate at the OAS session, Ecuadorean Foreign Minister Alfonso Barrera and his Peruvian counterpart, Javier Arias Stella, accused each other's governments of aggression.

At times during the 90-minute exchange, the two ministers engaged in personal attacks, with Barrera demanding Arias Stella abandon his "arrogant position" and Arias Stella saying the Ecuadorean had resorted to "inadmissable insults.

Barrera accused Peru of rejecting a number of Ecuadorean proposals for ending the conflict and Arias Stella said Ecuador signed the 1942 agreement of its own free will and now was trying unilaterally to renounce it. Ecuador made clear before it formally accepted the cease-fire that it was not happy with the situation. The chief government spokesman. Orlando Alcivar. called Peru's conditional cease-fire an ignoble maneuver" and said it was "a trick to present Peru" in the OAS meeting "as a peaceful country and not as the aggressor. The Peruvian armed forces joint command said Sunday that it seized the last of the border posts at 5:40 p.m. and the Foreign Ministry said a conditional cease-fire order was given Peruvian troops about then.

But the wording of the Peruvian cease-fire left open the possibility of renewed fighting. It said, "Our forces have been ordered to cease firing when the adversary adopts a similar measure and abstairs from any act of aggression.

Ecuadorean President Jaime Roldos said in a bitter national TV and radio broadcast. Sunday night, that he would accept a cease-fire that "respects the territorial integrity of Ecuador: Let there be a cease-fire, but let aggression be

By the Education Department's own estimate, the rules would have added $176 million to $592 million to the annual ost of operating public schools.

The scrapping of the proposal will prevent Texas school districts from being orced to extend their programs nine grades, but still pending is a ruling on the matter by a judge in Tylor

Grand Jurors To Study Two Actions

newed by the grand jury The investigation of the alleged slush and in the Precinct 3 road maintenance shop will not be presented to the grand ury until March, Montford said. He noted that more investigation is needed con-erning the amount of money collected. Sheriff's deputies initiated the investigation of the precinct shop in mid-Januin after former commissioner Jim Lanaster of Idalou turned over an envelope ontaining $444 20 which Lancaster harged was part of the fishing fund

In a written deposition, Lancaster harged that the Precinct 3 road crew had accumulated the fund over a several ear period. He claimed the money came partly from the sale of county-owned scrap iron and batteries and partly from donations the crew received for performing extra road work.

Lancaster said he had held the money ance June 1979. But the former commissioner has never explained why he did not turn the money over to authorities

The allegations were substantial enough to warrant the referral of the matter to the grand jury." Montford Anytime there are allegations conerning the conversion of public property to private funds, the grand jury should review the case. Montford said "I'm going to ask them to call it like they see

he added The sheriff's department also investigated Lancaster's claims that the county was cheated in an agreement with Slaton officials about a bulldozer loaned to that city in the early 1970s

In 1977. Slaton officials mistakenly traded off the bulldozer and later reimbursed the county $750 for the vehicle. Lancaster maintained the bulldozer was worth several thousand dollars at the time it was traded. Montford said he is still reviewing the investigation of the bulldozer transaction and has not made a decision regarding

Secretary Bell's decision may have some impact upon the case in which we currently are involved," said Texas Attorney General Mark White. "We are waiting for reaction and clarification from the U.S. Department of Justice bemake any further fore we can

Albert Shanker. American Federation of Teachers president, said last summer that the rules would be "an unmitigated disaster (that) threatens the fabric of American education." Monday, he said he welcomed Bell's decision. "It will allow school districts to get on with the job of teaching children English without the federal government standing over their shoulder," he said. Many Limited In English

Under Mrs. Hufstedler, the education agency reported that more than 3.5 million children have limited English proficiency and that 70 percent are Hispanic.

The agency estimated that 1.3 million of them would score below 40 percent on standardized tests and thus qualify for the proposed bilingual instruction. The rules would have required schools to set up bilingual classes when it had 25 or more students from one language group within two grade levels. Where there were fewer than 25 such students, schools were to provide bilingual instruction through one central school, tape recordings or bilingual teachers serving several schools.

In December, the Carter administration ended a four-year dispute with Fairfax County, Va., and approved its $2 million program for teaching English as a second language, although that program would not strictly have met the proposed federal regulations.

Bell said that was a step in the right direction, but that the rules were still too inflexible. "The next thing you know, we'll have one federally prescribed way to teach reading and writing." he said. "I just think we've got to avoid that

Not Abandoning Rights He said school officials should not interpret his action to mean the department is abandoning civil rights enforcement. "No school administrator should misread this action as an invitation to discriminate against children who face language barriers," he said. But he also said. "I would like to use this regulation, symbolic of many of the ills that have plagued the federal government and this fledgling department, to telegraph a message of change to the American people. We will produce fewer and more reasonable rules and provide a more civil serv-

Bell said the department will continue for the moment to use the guidelines issued by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Office for Civil Rights in 1975.

But Bell said he will interpret those guidelines flexibly. The guidelines, which were never published as a regulation, call for bilingual and even bi-cultural instruc-

Gambling Debts Cause Altercation; Two Jailed

An altercation over gambling debts erupted in gunfire Monday afternoon, and both men involved were jailed after police were asked to intervene

A 28-year-old man was arrested shortly after 5 p.m. and jailed on suspicion of aggravated assault and attempted aggravated robbery. The 23-year-old man he allegedly was shooting at also was booked into the Lubbock County Jail on traffic arrest warrants, police said.

The incident apparently began when the two men were involved in a dice game at an undetermined location. The victim had won some money, and the suspect offered him a ride home, said Cpl. Pat Nesbitt.

However, instead of driving to his companion's home, the suspect took the man to the 3000 block of Municipal Drive and demanded money

The victim told police the suspect claimed he owed him money from previous debts. The men then began fighting, and the victim told officers the suspect fired two shotgun blasts at him as he ran toward the a nearby warehouse.

The suspect was arrested outside the warehouse after police arrived at the scene. Nesbitt said. A 410-gauge shotgun was recovered

A routine check revealed warrants for traffic violations had been issued for the victim's arrest. The man told officers he didn't really mind going to jail because the other man couldn't shoot at him

The victim was later released from custody, but the alleged gunman remained in jail Monday night.

In other activity, a 14-year-old boy was referred to the Lubbock County Juvenile Probation Office for allegedly stealing bicycles for his friends on a consignment basis

Officer Mike Rocap said the youth was "taking orders" from his friends and stealing bikes that met their specifications. The boy was stealing a bicycle per week and selling them to acquaintances for a flat rate of $10 each Coincidentally, the boy's parents had he refused to get a haircut, police said. The parents took the youth to the police station Sunday after he brought home a stolen bicycle. Rocap said.

More than $1,000 was stolen early Monday morning from Orlando's Restaurant, 2402 Ave. Q. police said.

Owner Loyd Lee Turner told police $1,016.48 in cash and checks in a bank bag was removed from the restaurant sometime after 11 p.m. Sunday

The burglar entered through a skylight in the roof and pried open the door to a room in the establishment, reports show. The thief apparently knew the exact location of the money, police said.

The man was described as a tall, heavy Mexican-American, between 26 and 35, wearing a dirty, gray sweatshirt and faded blue jeans. He had long, curly black hair, a beard, a scar on the upper lip and thick body hair, according to the description.

In a separate incident, police Monday were looking for a man who allegedly caused a traffic accident at 16th Street and Avenue X about 9:45 p.m. Sunday. then drove off leaving two injured wom-

Kathern Ann Berry, 32, and Sandra Diana Dunn, 37, both of Lubbock, said the man ran a stop sign at the intersection and rammed their vehicle. Both women were treated at Methodist Hospital for minor injuries and later released.

The women said that before driving to the hospital they followed the man to a nearby restaurant parking lot where he stopped. They said the man told them he did not want the police called and drove west on 19th Street.

The motorist was described as a white male, about 25, with blond hair. He reportedly was traveling in a 1979 green Hornet, which police say will have dam-

Garza said he was talking to friends in another car when one of three men in a car behind him shot twice, one of the small-caliber bullets hitting him in the arm. The victim was treated and later released from Methodist Hospital.

An 18-year-old man was arrested about 10:30 p.m. Sunday after he allegedly was caught stealing a woman's purse in the Red Raider Club, 6025 Ave. A.

Police said they stopped a man on traffic violations about 12:20 a.m. today in the 5800 block of Temple Avenue, and arrested him for alleged disorderly conduct and public intoxication after they discovered he was lacking his pants. Browning Ferris Industries on 30th

Citibus Passenger Facility Made Eligible For Federal Funding

Senate Votes To Remove Ceiling On Trade Penalty

AUSTIN (AP) - The Senate voted Monday to remove the $10,000 ceiling in civil penalties the state may recover under the Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act.

A proposal by Sen. Lloyd Doggett also would extend from two years to three years the time the state has to file suits under the act.

Doggett, D-Austin, said Attorney General Mark White had asked for the extra time because complaints often can be settled out of court.

the panel shift the capital assistance however, that the City Council could opt funds, revenue sharing or use city general fund money, if available

"If costs are involved (in securing a downtown transfer point) this approval simply starts the funding process in case the council wants to use Urban Mass Transportation Administration funds," Wilson explained.

He added the council members could still change their minds about which direction to take. The estimated cost for the building alone is $220,000. The federal capital assistance grant provides $480,-000, which also can be spent on shelters, signs and other amenities

In recent weeks, the council and transit staff have discussed several possible sites for the transfer point, which would provide an indoor waiting area for bus riders where they could make change and buy refreshments.

Wilson said the optimum location would be on Broadway between Avenues J and K, because 83,000 bus trips a year occur there. Lubbock's transfer point, where all bus routes converge, is Broadway, so Wilson and his staff are considering sites all along that street. The council has discussed the feasibility of locating the transfer point at the former John Halsey Drug Store at Broad-way and Avenue K, in a blocked-off area of Avenue J or at the new transit facility under construction at 801 Texas Avenue.

If the transfer point is not on Broadway, Wilson said, costs for the site will increase. He added it is not uncommon for more than 50 riders to be waiting for a bus on Broadway at J or K, with as many as 100 there at times. Committee members also received copies of a population and economic growth projection report prepared by Frank Osgood Associates of Dallas. The study is one of 10 information segments the panel will use to update transportation plans during the next two years.

Committee member and city planning director Jim Bertram said Osgood predicted an approximate two percent an-nual growth rate for Lubbock's economy and an increasingly diverse industrial base through the year 2005. Bertram said Osgood did not have 1980 census figures available for his re-search, but still was optimistic about Lubbock's economic future despite population figures which were not as high as expected.

The report will not be available to the public until after board members review it and register their approval or disapproval within the next three weeks.

Words Can't Describe SWC Cage Race

ALL THE WORDS HAVE ALREADY BEEN USED.

All the cliches used to describe the unpredictable have been milked to the point of predictability. Zany. Wacky. Wild. Crazy. Weird. Strange. Unbelieva-

I have grown tired of them. They no longer carry any weight in these inevitable discussions on the Southwest Conference basketball season. Thusly, in any further discussion of the SWC, the league picture will simply be referred to as that ZWWCWSU race. At least until the termination of this column.

That will save my fingers untold hours and spare your eyes of seeing in print, for the umpteenth time, the words zany, wacky, etc.

So. Round Two of the ZWWCWSU race picked up Saturday night on the same note as the first haif ended. Houston, supposedly the league's best, lost to Tech which had looked for a long time like the league's worst.

Texas A&M. which was supposed to be the best team in the SWC but then went 1-7 in the first round, romped all over Baylor as well Saturday night. That gives the Bears a rather checkered career. Baylor was supposed to be mediocre at best, started the season terribly, then won five straight league games and was alone in first place. That fifth win a 69-61 decision over Tech produced one of the most awesome halves of basketball witnessed in the ZWWCWSU SWC in a long time.

Baylor's win over Tech, it seems that I penned the phrase: "Disbelievers had best step aside. The Baylor Bears are for real.

Wrong again. Baylor has now lost four in a row and many feel they're washed up. Disbettevers may step to the front and claim their prize: a night in Waco, but it'll seem like a lifetime.

"THE CONFERENCE MIGHT'VE GOTTEN LOUSED UP on the first night of the season and it might just stay that way," says TCU coach Jim Kil-Killingsworth adds the familar refrain: "All the lower teams have gotten a lot better than they were a year ago.

If I had a quarter for every time I've heard that line this year. I could play pinball for the rest of my life. Cynics, and there are more than a few, claim that rather than the lower teams getting better, the top teams are getting worse.

"You know," said Baylor coach Jim Haller, "the football race has been the same way the last couple of year and everybody always says it's because there are so many good teams in the Southwest Conference.

"But when we have that kind of balance in basketball," laments Haller, "everybody says it's because nobody's any good.'

Probably, the bottom teams are a little better this year, while the caliber at the top isn't quite what it was a few years ago. In addition, I think the caliber of coaching has improved in the SWC. There's a lot more chess-playing between coaches than there was in the past.

"WE'RE SEEING ALL KINDS of defenses, zones, presses and more teams are playing conservatively now." assesses Tech's Gerald Myers. "As far as the race is concerned I think it's going to stay about the same. . . fairly unpredictable. because the team's are so evenly matched.

Myers, who's got more nerve than I, said he expected Arkansas to wind up winning the conference with A&M finishing strong

Even though Houston is still in first, Arkansas is playing pretty good and Arkansas has the best schedule," said Myers. "I feel like they're going to win

Talking about his own team, Myers is still bubbling over Monday's win over

"I was certainly pleased with the determined frame of mind we had against Houston," said Myers. "It had been a long haul around here the last two

What's ironic about the Raiders' win over Houston is that Tech dropped a pair of games in its five-game skid that it never should've lost. The first was a 52-50 OT loss to Rice that the Raiders literally gave away and the second was a 58-48 unexplainable loss to SMU

The Mustangs, who talent-wise may be the worst team in the conference, are the only team to leave Lubbock with a win this year. Take away those two losses and Tech would be 6-3 and in second place rather than 4-5 and tied for fifth. But Myers refuses to dwell on those defeats.

It's just all part of this ZWWCWSU year.

"IT GOT TO THE POINT AFTER THOSE five losses where I was wondering if we'd ever win another one;" said Myers. "So we got a win now and I'm not looking back at all at what might've been.

What the Raiders are faced with now is the outside hope of landing a thirdplace bye into the conference tournament in San Antonio. If Tech finished 9-7 it most likely would be good enough for third.

Under the tournament format, the first place team draws a bye to the finals and the second-and third-place finishers are awarded spots in the semis. But, to finish 9-7. Tech would have to win five of its last seven games.

Mission Impossible starts tonight in Fort Worth when the Raiders seek road win No. 1. It continues Saturday when Tech tries its luck in College Station.

But, right now, that third-place finish looks like a longshot.

Even by ZWWCWSU Southwest Conference standards

Red Raiders Visit TCU

By CHUCK McDONALD

Assistant Sports Editor FORT WORTH - Texas Tech will put a pair of streaks, one as impressive as the other is unimpressive, on the line here tonight when the Red Raiders meet Texas Christian University.

Something will have to give. It will be impossible for the Red Raiders to prolong both strings any longer.
First of all, the Raiders are 0-6 on the road this season, including an 0-4 South-west Conference mark. On the other hand, Tech has come out on top of TCU in the last 18 meetings between the two schools. Ideally, the Raiders would like to stretch that win streak to 19 in a row and break out of the road blues that have haunted them the last two seasons.

Both Tech and TCU bring 4-5 SWC slates into tonight's game at Daniel-Mey-er Coliseum, scheduled for a 7:30 p.m. tipoff. The game will be broadcast on KFYO radio in Lubbock.

If the 10-9 Raiders are ever to win a road game, it would appear this would be the best place to start. In fact, Daniel-Meyer was the site of Tech's last victory outside the Hub City (discounting two tournament victories on neutral courts) The Raiders handed TCU an 84-65 defeat here last year. While the Raiders are fresh off an impressive 81-70 victory over league-leading Houston, beating TCU won't be easy. The Frogs took Tech right down to the wire in an earlier meeting in Lubbock, which the Raiders won 57-54

So both coaches, Gerald Myers of Tech and Jim Killingsworth of TCU, downplayed the significance of either Tech's win streak over TCU or the Raiders' inability to win on the road.

"Has Tech really won that many in a row on us?" asked a laughing Killingsworth. "Well, they must've cheated us out of a couple of 'em then.'

And told of Tech's troubles away from home, Killingsworth was equally unimpressed

Well, as I remember, they sure didn't have any trouble down here last said the TCU coach. "They bombed us right out of the gym.

"We're not going to be worried about any win streak," said Myers, "and we're not going to be thinking we've got some kind of road jinx or can't play on the

"It's not something we're going to talk about," added Myers, "I don't even think I'll mention it."

Myers did say he'll do plenty of talking to his squad about Frog guard Darrell Browder, the SWC's third-leading scorer with a 20.2 average. To stop TCU, Tech must shut down Browder.

"TCU played us a very close game here, and we realize we've got to play them smart," said Myers. "We've got to do a good job on Browder.

Killingsworth reports that his team has seen a box-and-one zone defense with special attention on Browder in its last eight games. Myers, while not disclosing any game plan, says there are other ways

"I don't think you have to resort to a box-and-one," said Myers. "We've got some pretty good defensive players."

Myers said that 6-9 senior forward Ralph Brewster, who got his first starting assignment of the season in Monday's 81-70 win over Houston, will open against the Frogs as well.

"He's earned it," said Myers, "and he did a great job against Houston.

That means Tech will put a considerably larger lineup on the floor tonight than the Raiders did in their earlier meeting with the Frogs. At the pivot will be 6-6 junior Clarence Swannegan with 6-6 senior Ben Hill operating at the other forward spot. The Raiders will have 6-4 Jeff

Like a character in an ancient play, the Monterey girls hover in the wings as the lesser actors in District 4-5A grapple through the first night of the conference's second half.

Beset with problems of their own namely a mononucleosis bug — the Plainsmen take the night off while Coronado hosts Plainview and Lubbock High travels to Hereford.

On the boys' side, the Coronado-The Mustangs are 1-1 in conference play with a win over Hereford Tuesday night and a double-overtime loss to undefeated Monterey in the league opener.

Plainview has struggled similarly and stands 2-1. The Bulldogs beat Lubbock High 74-65 in the opener, but came up three points shy of the Plainsmen before trouncing the Herd 69-52 last Friday half of district play decided the first-half championship. It's now up to the remaining teams to regroup, but, first, they must go through a little squabbling In a district that already has three 20-game winners with at least four contests remaining, it's no secret the competition is going to be stout.

Hereford, now 21-3 with two losses in the first round of district play, will try to get one more win out of the way tonight when it hosts Lubbock High.

The Westerners have struggled all year and are now 5-17 after failing to win a game (or even come much closer than 20 points) in the first round of district. The last time the two teams met, Hereford emerged with a 67-30 victory.

The other girls' game may be a tad-more exciting. Plainview beat Coronado 62-45 the first time they met and the Mustangs could only manage one win in the first round (against Lubbock High). but coach Miles Johnson isn't ready to "I feel like we played a couple of good quarters against them (the Bulldogs) the last time," he said. "We just had a six-or eight-minute letdown that cost us the ball game. I'm looking forward to it." The Mustang girls have more talent than their record might indicate - it's just tough being the fourth-best team in a district as strong as 4-5A.

Coronado's big girls, 6-0 Patti McFerrin and 5-9 junior Leanne Wade, are as good as any in the city. Miss McFerrin is now averaging more than nine rebounds a game while Miss Wade is scoring at a 12.4-point-per-game clip.

But Plainview has Gay Hemphill - at 6-0, perhaps the most dangerous player on the South Plains. She is averaging 18.8 points and 10.5 rebounds a game.

The Coronado boys are fairly well stocked with talent, too. They just haven't seemed to find the combination that can give them the consistent four quarters it takes to do better than their 12-13 record.

Team him with Lee Carter (13.5) and Ritchie Norrell (8.2 rebounds) and supply them with a supporting cast that includes catquick guard Alton Jackson (who scored 17 against Monterey) and the Bulldogs should be doing better than their 12-14 record.

But that figure, 7-under-par, was only good to place him in the playoff, which shifted some five miles down the Monte rey Peninsula coast to Pebble Beach.

Cook holed a 10-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole and Irwin scored from four feet. Thompson bogeyed after missing the green. Irwin had a birdie oportunity from about four feet and missed it. That sent them to the third hole with daylight dwindling. Irwin missed the green and Cook put his approach only four feet from the flag.

Irwin chipped on and missed a sixfoot putt for par. Cook failed on his birdie attempt, but made the par putt from about 18 inches and had his first pro title. "I got in my own way out there," lr-

"I do want to congratulate John. He is one of the fine, nice young new players on the tour and the first win is so important. He deserved to win.

Irwin, playing with Jack Nicklaus and former president Gerald Ford, rallied on the back nine at Spyglass Hill for a 2-under-par 70 that placed him in the playoff. But he didn't know if for more than an hour after he'd finished. 'There weren't any leader boards out there and I didn't know where I stood in the day," Irwin said.

Crenshaw, the last man out there, had the lead alone until he 3-putted for bogey on his 16th hole at Spyglass and dropped back to the group at seven under par. He finished with a 70.

Tom Watson, golf's dominant force over the last four seasons, had the lead alone much of the final round and once enjoyed a 3-shot margin.

But Watson, making his first start of the season, three-putted three times and hit one in the water to play his back nine at Spyglass in a struggling 40.

Chaps Work Over Sul Ross

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

The Lubbock Christian College basketball team lived within its means Monday night in the LCC fieldhouse.

The Chaparrals could not afford to be wasteful or spendthrift, not with a record of 6-18. Economy was the watchword as the Chaps streamlined a 67-60 Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association victory over Sul Ross State.

This was a game in which LCC regularly compensated for various shortcomings. One of those was represented by 6foot-6 forward Jim Steensma, who is half of coach John Copeland's inside attack but missed his third consecutive game with the flu

That left 6-4 Brian Fortner as a man alone against the Lobos' corn-fed front

"Sul Ross scares me on the boards." Copeland said, "but we matched up fairly well against them. We never did let

LCC used a game plan that took no chances and no indiscriminate shots. The Chaps demonstrated patience-plus in running an offense that had running as the last thing on its mind. Copeland saw no sense in entering a fast-paced transition game with the Lobos.

He bequeathed control of the boards to the big, beefy Lobos; his Chaps regulated the flow of the game.

We were trying to be a little more deliberate than usual," Copeland said, We did what the defense let us do. We moved the ball around and took advantage only when there was an opening."

The first half saw neither squad emerge with an advantage. The Lobos led for the majority of the 20 minutes but never by more than five points.

LCC finally tied the score 32-32 at the buzzer on a 20-foot basket by guard Keith Money. The second half was close and of good quality for nine minutes, or until the Chaps' Rick Murdock scored underneath to give his team a lead it would not

LCC outscored Sul Ross 11-2 during the next three minutes as seven points by Fortner, a layup by Money and two free throws by Bruce Carver enhanced the margin to 55-44 with 7:39 left.

It was then that LCC resorted to its delay offense, a risky proposition considering that Chap leads have not held together during implementation of this strategy in past games.

"That delay was either gonna break us or win the ball game," Copeland said.
"We ran it pretty good tonight. We showed some confidence in it. It got us into a free-throw shooting game, and that's what we wanted.'

LCC handled the ball well down the stretch and hit eight of 10 free throws during the final 2:12. Sul Ross never seri-

LCC Women Up TIAA Record

The Lubbock Christian College women's basketball team would have been in deep trouble against most opponents Monday night in the LCC fieldhouse.

The Lady Chaps played well only occasionally but, on this occasion, the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association foe was Sul Ross State, no ordinary team.

The Lady Lobos, who have yet to win a game this season, are the weak sisters of the TIAA and did little to improve their posture during a 57-47 LCC victory.

The Lady Chaps, meanwhile, did little to improve anything but their record, which is now 4-2 in the conference and 9-12

LCC had played inconsistently enough to lose to a sharper opponent. Coach Dave Simpson knew it - and didn't like

"This did not please me," Simpson said. "I don't think we were up for this game. We did not play with intensity. I think we had it in our minds that 'Yeah. we can beat these girls

LCC had indeed defeated Sul Ross 70-53 one week earlier in Alpine, and led Monday night 30-15 on a pair of free throws by Debby Pitchford with 4:26 left in the first half. The Lady Chaps etched a 34-23 halftime advantage but it soon fell victim to a combination of inept and uninspirational basketball early in the secfective shooting by SRU - which was saved only by its remarkable offensiverebound total of 34 - and led 52-43 on a layup by Darla Lynch with 7:06 to go.

'Sul Ross will fight you to the end," Simpson said, "and when we gave them a chance to get going like that, we risked losing. We didn't execute well offensively: by and large, we didn't execute at ter Eric Heiden, who set five Olympic records while winning five gold medals in the 1980 Winter Olympics, received the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union's prestigious Sullivan Award Monday night as the nation's outstanding amateur athlete

The 22-year-old Heiden, who had been a finalist for the honor in 1978, finished first in voting by more than 2,000 persons nationwide

The 10 finalists had been selected by the AAU in December. Voters were asked to consider demonstrations of leadership, character and sportsmanship in addition to athletic ability while voting for their three top choices.

Red Raiders Avenge Loss

The last time these two teams met the Oklahoma Sooners made layups until they were blue in the face and Texas Tech had been run out of Norman, Okla., on the short side of a 69-56 score.

But in Monday night's rematch in the Municipal Coliseum, the Lady Raiders managed to shut down the OU inside game and came out on top of a 79-70 score. For Tech, in its final regular-season home appearance, it was indeed sweet revenge. The Sooners had brought a 15-7 mark into the Coliseum while the Techsans were only 8-15 heading into the contest

Oklahoma is an outstanding team. said Tech coach Donna Wick, "and they didn't play as well tonight as they did up there. On the other hand, we played much better than we did against them last time

The difference was that we did a much better job on them defensively." added Miss Wick. "Last time they kept throwing that lob pass inside and getting lavups. This time we got some weakside help and were able to shut that play off."

Offensively. Tech was led once again by freshman center Carolyn Thompson who, after scoring only eight points in the first half, exploded in the final 20 minutes to finish with 27 points. Sophomore Gwen McCray had 20 points and 12 rebounds to lead all players and Tammy Anderson was also in double figures with

The game stayed close early but Sabrina Schield ripped the nets with a pair of back-to-back cannons to vault Tech into a 22-22 tie midway through the opening half. The Raiders quickly pulled away after that

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Former University of Arizona runner Thom Hunt broke the American record for a 10-kilometer road race Sunday with a time of 28:11, or 13 seconds better than the 1979 Greg Meyer mark. Bill Rodgers finished the Runner's Den race in second place with 28:51, and

Coed, Former WSU Cagers Reveal Illegal Actions

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - A former Wichita State coed says head basketball coach Gene Smithson arranged and paid for her to have an abortion after she became pregnant by a star player, The Kansas City Times reported Tuesday.

The newspaper said in a copyright story that the young woman, who was not identified, had the abortion at Smithson's urging on Jan. 18, 1980, at the Wesley Medical Center in Wichita. In a related story Monday, The Times said four former WSU basketball players said they received more than $4,500 in gratuities from coaches and college boosters during the past three years.

Richard Williams, of Hollywood, Fla., who was dismissed from the team a year ago for a curfew violation, and three others said they received thousands of dollars in cash, clothes, airline tickets and "forgiven" loans during the period.

The newspaper also said Jo Ann Carr. mother of Wichita State star Antoine Carr, moved her family into a $62,500 home and bought two new cars after her son joined the team in 1979. Acquaintances told the newspaper the family had been living in near poverty before her son signed to play for the Shockers.

In Tuesday's story, The Times quoted the former coed as saying "It's all a bad memory for me now." She said she was pressured by the coaches to undergo the abortion and that after she decided to do so, the coaches stalled until the player's mother threatened to pull her son off the team unless the pregnancy was aborted. The player was not identified.

The woman said she never paid for dled all the arrangements. She said that after the abortion, the coaches warned her to tell no one and promised to pay her hush money and place her in a job in a Wichita bank The Times said hospital documents obtained without the woman's assistance confirmed the abortion was performed. It said Dr. Terry A. Tracy signed the admission record as the attending physician. The record notes she was from nine to 10 weeks pregnant. There was no notation on the document identifying who paid for the medical fees. The doctor, through his secretary, refused to discuss patient information.

The newspaper said the player acknowledged his former girlfriend's pregnancy and abortion, but said the coaches never knew of the situation. The player also denied the WSU athletic department financed the abortion. "They didn't pay for nothing." he said. "I paid for it I gave her the cash and she took care of

He's 27 years old (did some time in the U.S. Army) and actually played on the same high school team as NBA star Otis Birdsong. Bridges was a year ahead of Birdsong. . While Taylor leads the Raiders in scoring for the season, it's been Swannegan and Jennings who've paced the team in league play. Swannegan has been scoring at a 12.6 clip in SWC action while the little freshman from Clovis, N.M., is right behind with a 12.4 average. . . In addition to the scoring figures, Swannegan has 113 minutes o playing time in nine SWC games and Jennings has 112 - the top two figures on the squad. . After Saturday's amazing 33of-36 free throw shooting performance, Tech has now hit on 109 of 142 free throws in SWC play. That's 76.8 percent. Taylor's 10-for-10 free throw effort was the best by a Raider since Greg Lowery hit 12 of 12 in 1972 against TCU. SWC Cage Standings

Sports In Brief

Williams Receives SWC Honor

DALLAS (AP) - Rob Williams, the 6-2 guard whose long-range bombing propelled Houston into first place, has been voted Southwest Conference bas-ketball player of the week by SWC coaches.

Williams scored 77 points as the Cougars won two of three games last week to take the lead away from Baylor. The sophomore from Houston Milby increased his conference-leading scoring average to 25.1 as he also had 10 assists and six rebounds in victories over Baylor and Texas A&M and a loss to Texas

Ricky Pierce of Rice, Virdell Howland of Texas, and Ralph Brewster of Tech.

Pierce had 42 points and 20 rebounds as the Owls took over undisputed possession of second place, one game behind the Cougars.

Wright brought down 17 rebounds and scored 24 points in the Aggies' 84-59

Brewster was the key in Tech's 81-70 win over conference-leading Houston.

Howland was the force in Texas' 83-63 win over SMU, scoring 29 points and

The El Paso senior scored 15 points and recorded seven rebounds in the game.

Williams' strongest competition came from Rynn Wright of Texas A&M, Biles said Marchibroada, who is still earning $150,000 annually on his Colts salary, simply wanted too much money.

"I didn't think it would be fair to my other assistants to have one guy making significantly more than anyone else," Biles said. "And there's no way you can keep something like that quiet."

With Marchibroda dropping out of the picture, Cleveland offensive coordinator Jim Shofner, who formerly coached at TCU, apparently became the top candidate. Shofner is scheduled to visit Biles Thursday. Biles said he made the decision on his own concerning Marchibroda and not because of any pressure from Oiler owner Bud Adams. Former New Orleans Saints coach Dick Nolan and Atlanta linebacker coach

Doug Shively are candidates for the Oilers' defensive coordinator job. Nolan interviewed with Biles last week and Shively is scheduled to visit here Thursday.

Biles currently has a three-man staff including Bob Gambold and Andy Bourgeois from last year's staff and offensive line coach Ray Callahan, who signed with the Oilers last week.

Mecom Wanted Royal To Coach Saints

HOUSTON (AP) - New Orleans Saints owner John Mecom Jr. says he tried to hire another legendary Texas coach - former University of Texas coach Darrell Royal - before naming former Houston Oiler coach Burn Phillips to coach the Saints. However, Mecom told the Houston Chronicle Monday, "Darrell couldn't bring himself to leave the University of Texas and especially Austin. Mecom, who fired Dick Nolan during the Saints' 1-15 season, contacted Royal before Phillips was suddenly fired by Oilers owner Bud Adams Dec. 31.

Mecom said he told Royal that philosophical differences were coming to a breaking point with former Saints general manager Steve Rosenbloom

feiting his scholarship.

"I told Darrell he could resolve those difference by coming to the Saints," Me-com said. "I told him I wanted him to come and help. He could have both jobs (head coach and general manager) or ei-

Rosenbloom resigned from the Saints Jan. 21 and Phillips was named head coach and general manager Jan. 23.

Mecom said Royal recommended Nebraska's Tom Osborne for the job but when Phillips was fired the former Oiler coach became the favorite for the job.

Mecom said the Saints had asked to speak to all five Oiler assistant coaches concerning jobs with the Saints. Oiler general manager Ladd Herzeg said the Saints only asked to speak with three Oil-

Rutledge said he suffered a pulled hamstring muscle while he was running the sprints - an injury he says affected his play when he went back to punting in the ensuing weeks

Kush allegedly punched Rutledge following a 26-yard punt in Arizona State's 41-7 loss to the University of Washington Oct. 28, 1978, in Seattle.

Rutledge said Kush criticized his punting "on many, many occasions" and grabbed his face mask "as many as 10 times" in the days leading up to the Washington game.

On the kick prior to the one in question, Rutledge said Washington was penalized for roughing the kicker and one Huskie player "hit me on the (left) leg still on the ground during my followthrough." His lawyer, Robert O. Hing, sought to show the court that the play may have shaken Rutledge up enough physically to cause him to shank the next punt - the one which sparked Kush's alleged attack.

Prep Cager To Attend Georgetown

BOSTON (AP) — Patrick Ewing, one of the most highly touted high school centers in years, ended months of speculation Monday by announcing he would play college basketball at Georgetown University.

Reading from a prepared statement at a news conference, the 7-foot senior praised the academic and athletic programs and coaches of the schools that re-

Speaking nervously, he said that after considering all the possibilities, "my decision is to attend Georgetown University."

Mike Jarvis, Ewing's coach at Cambridge Rindge and Latin High School, detailed the reasons for Ewing's choice of the Washington, D.C. school, a member of the Big East conference with a 13-8 overall record this season.

"No.1, Georgetown is away from home, but yet it's not too far and Patrick liked the idea of going away to school," Jarvis said. "From his visitations at the schools, he felt the most comfortable on the Georgetown campus and in the Georgetown community

Jarvis also pointed to the academic programs at Georgetown and said, "I think only one of the players that has played under (basketball coach) John Thompson has failed to graduate."

Drip Irrigation Boosts Hawaii Sugar Cane Yield

"HONOLULU (UPI) - Hawaii's biggest sugar producer has both saved enormous amounts of water and dramatically increased crop yields by adopting drip ir-

With sugar prices at a premium, the method is a double winner.

Since the traditional furrow watering system required great quantities of water, the firm, Amfac, tried drip irrigation on an experimental basis beginning in

But by 1980, four years after Amfac adopted the drip method in 7 percent of its sugar canefields, it has become clear the biggest benefit in the conversion is increased yields.

Amfac, with 21,700 acres planted in sugar, presently has 3,068 acres under the new system. Because of its incredible success. Amfac plans to expand drip irrigalion to 16,000 acres by 1984.

The benefit of drip irrigation is not in water conservation when it comes to the amount of water used. But it does mean better use of water," said Gary Pothero, Amfac's drip irrigation expert.

It is precisely the efficient use that is leading to "the canes growing faster and bigger," said Pothero.

The system allows the water to seep into the ground at a constant rate, which means the plants are being supplied with the water they need at any given time,' he said. "The same amount of water is still being used, but every drop is absorbed into the plants. Nothing is wast-

In this sense, drip irrigation does conserve available water supply compared to the traditional furrow system.

With the furrow method, the cane was flooded at specific periods. The cane was fed too much water and was left without any between floodings, he said. It caused the cane to go through periods of starvation, leading to stunted growth. The new method gives the plants the right amount of water consistently.

Drip irrigation is an intricate system of tubing installed mostly undeground. A large tube distributes the water to the fields. A smaller tube, linked to the master tube, surfaces every six feet where a water control is installed.

The final and the smallest tubes are attached to the controls and laid along the rows of cane on the surface of the ground. The tubes are flat and two-chambered with ant-sized holes, where water seeps through.

Drip irrigation, pioneered by and widely used in Israel, still is in an experimental state in Hawaii, said Pothero.

Amfac recently began a new experiment to eliminate the clogging - a completely underground water system. The water is purified at the source and filered to the fields without ever coming to he surface until the final stage.

New Vaccine May Reduce Cattle Plague

The incidence of shipping fever, a plague of the cattle industry and particulraly feedlot operators, may be greatly reduced by a vaccine being developed at Texas Tech University. Dr. Clarence L. Baugh, associate professor of biological sciences at Texas Tech, is doing research on a combination vaccine that combats the most common bacteria involved in the shipping fever and provides cattle a high degree of immuinity against several dangerous bacteria species in one treatment.

San Angelo veterinarian, Dr. W. H. Wohler is assisting in the project by providing Baugh with tissue and serum samples from feedlots throughout the state. Samples taken from animals which have died from pasterellosis and salmonellosis, the two most common forms of shipping fever found in Texas.

Wohler often brings the samples personally from feedlots in Pecos, Hereford and other areas, traveling by plane. Baugh meets the veterinarian at the airport and quickly takes the sample to his Texas Tech lab, where he begins streaking for culture growths. By the next day he can have the shipping fever bacterium

"Wohler is getting the advantages of a laboratory, and I am getting the advantage of having somebody in the field," Baugh said.

The three main organisms the researchers are battling are Pasteurella multocida. Pasteurella hemolytica, and Salmonella typhimurium, bacteria which cause either death or significant weight loss in cattle.

Cattle become susceptible to infection by these organisms after stress, especially during shipping.

Baugh's combination vaccine contains these three bacteria, and others. Animals injected with small doses of the dead bacteria develop antibodies in their blood stream that produce immunity against later infection by those bacteria.

Field observations showed that Baugh's combination vaccine, prepared as a water in oil emulsion and injected subcutaneously, was highly successful in preventing shipping fever. The treatment reduced the incidence of the disease from 30 or 40 percent to 4 percent or less, and reduced deaths from as high as 10 percent to 0.9 percent or zero.

Baugh and Wohler have not found significant differences in the occurrence of different types of shipping fever in different parts of the state. They attribute this fact to a common source of the disease.

"Most of our cattle are coming through sale barns in the southeastern part of the United States," Baugh said. They pick up the same diseases.

The vaccines Baugh is using are not new, the researcher pointed out, but a product that combines them in one emulsion is unique. The vaccine is being marketed only in Texas as Poly-Bac B. Texas Vet Lab, Inc., is funding Baugh's re-

Wohler and Baugh published experimental data on the shipping fever vac-cine in the November 1980 issue of 'Modern Veterinary Practices.'

Farmers Urged To Check Germination

Cotton farmers who are planning on saving seed from their 1980 crop should be sure it is high in germination and low in free fatty acid.

'Most farmers check germination closely but may not be aware of the importance of the free fatty acid content," Dr. James Supak, area cotton agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said.

"Free fatty acid is a by-product of seed deterioration so its content in seed should not be more than 1 percent," Su-

Seed exposed to long periods of wet weather prior to harvesting or subjected to poor storage after harvesting will gen-erally have a high acid content, indicating considerable seed deterioration, the specialist noted:

The acid content of cottonseed may be especially important on the protein of the crop that was drought stressed and was still in the fields or in modules during the snow and rain this fall, explained

Cottonseed delinting plants commonly use the 1-percent level of free fatty acid as the breaking point in saving or re-jecting seed for planting purposes, he

"Seed with a high acid content often shows a high germination test, initially, but these seed will deteriorate rapidly in storage and germination will drop," explained the cotton specialist. "Of course, a low acid content does not insure top quality seed. Immature seed may be low in free fatty acid content.

Supak advised producers against saving cottonseed for planting that has 1.5 percent or more free fatty acid. Seed delinting companies can assist producers in obtaining an acid test on their planting seed. Numerous laboratories in the state also are equipped to check the acid content of cottonseed, the specialist said.

"Have your seed tested and if the free good, vigorously growing stand.

fatty acid is not a serious problem, store in a dry location," Supak recommended "The use of high quality planting seed is very important in getting a crop up to a

SLOW CLEAN-UP

LA PORTE (AP) - Workers hampered by strong winds say it may take another week to complete clean-up of an oil spill caused by a collision in the Houston Ship Channel. Dave Reineke of Crowley Environmental Service, the prime cleanup contractor, also said another two weeks may be needed to clean the oil from Galveston Bay beaches.

Cattle Futures Close Lower

By Reuters

CHICAGO - Cattle futures closed 90 to 150 points lower paced by June through December at the daily limit on reduced sales of 20.316 cars Monday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. Those contracts also posted new season's lows. Lack of buying interest and depressed cash beef at noon fed general liquidation and scale down stops. Pressure from the start in deferreds refelcted the cattle inventory report. Some spillover selling from the deferreds weighed on nearby contracts and offset bull spreading.

Deliveries total 44 thus far. Wholesale beef was unchanged to off 1 at 92 to 95 cents a pound, f.o.b. river. Cash cattle were off $1 to up $1 with the best top $63 per hundredweight. Slaughter totaled 116,000 head. About 13,100 head are expected today at the major markets. Feeder cattle futures closed down the daily limit of 150 across the board with sellers over. Volume totaled 1.678 con-

Scale down stops pressured by the cattle inventory report and lower cash beef at noon pressured prices. Selling came from all quarters.

Cash feeders were off $1 to up $2 with the best top $90 at San Antonio. Receipts at the major terminals are expected to total 1,600 head today. Hog futures closed 35 to 137 lower paced by July on sales of 9.047 lots.

Selling stemmed from long liquidation and spillover from other meat pits. The possibility of steady to lower cash hogs today also induced selling. Offset was the firm pork trade at noon. Deliveries total 25 thus far. Wholesale hams were unchanged to up 1 at 65 bid to 6712 cents a pound, f.o.b. river. Cash hogs were steady to up $1.50 with the best top $43.50 per hundredweight. Kill totaled 353,000 head. The major markets are expected to total 27,500 head today. Pork belly (bacon) futures closed 147 to 200 lower paced by July and August at the daily limit. Volume totaled 7,613

Prices slumped on heavy scale down stops and spillover selling from the cattle pits. Some pressure stemmed from ex-pectations of steady to lower cash hog prices today. Nearby contracts recovered from lows at the close on their discount to cash.

Deliveries total 97 thus far. Wholesale bacon was unchanged to up 2 at 50 to 56 cents a pound, f.o.b. river.

First notice day for the March contract is Feb. 23, now - less one holiday -13 trading days away.

COTTON FUTURES CLOSED A SLUGGISH session Monday below the day's best levels, with pared losses of 80 to 105 points in current marketing year

Spot March fell 80 points to 88.55 cents and new-crop December dropped 82 points to 83.35 cents. Estimated volume was 6,000 lots.

Analysts said prices declined on commission house selling and local liquidation, which triggered stops below 90 cents, basis near May. Further pressure came from some trade selling in spot March, although other members of the trade joined speculators as light buyers, they added.

Most bearish sentiment was attributed to sympathetic selling with weaker ecious metal prices and to slow weekend export business in a market described as lacking fresh fundamentals. Open interest going into the session at a market total of 32,078 lots was up 261 from the previous business day, the first daily increase in nine consecutive ding sessions. Analysts noted with interest a 242-lot increase in spot March 10.10,546 contracts.
