

Iran To Free American Writer

Expulsion Ordered By Court

By The Associated Press
AN IRANIAN court convicted jailed American writer Cynthia Dwyer on spying charges...

Dwyer said his wife would leave Tehran at 3 a.m. CST. Monday, on an Iranian flight due in Vienna at 8 a.m. CST.

To Meet Family
Dwyer said he and their three children would go to New York City, Monday afternoon, to wait for her arrival.

Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr told foreign reporters in Tehran that four Britons detained since last August on suspicion of being spies also would be freed.

They are businessman Andrew Pyke, medical missionaries Dr. John Coleman and his wife Audrey, and Jean Waddell, former secretary to the now-exiled Anglican bishop of Iran.

In Washington, State Department spokeswoman Anita Stockman said Mrs. Dwyer's travel plans would be determined by the Dwyer family.

The State Department had been informed that Iran wanted Mrs. Dwyer to leave the country immediately upon her release, she said.

Research For Stories

Mrs. Dwyer, an occasional writer for Humanist magazine who her husband says went to Iran to research the Iranian revolution for free-lance articles she hoped to sell, was convicted on four charges including "indulging in acts of espionage against the Islamic Republic of Iran," according to Iran's official Pars news agency.

It listed the others as: "establishing contacts with counter-revolutionary agents in order to mediate between them and other American agents; collaborating with an armed outlawed group in order to inform the former American hostages in Iran on the status of social and political affairs in Iran"

She was sentenced to nine months imprisonment and ordered deported from the country by the fourth division of the Central Islamic Revolutionary Court in

15 'BOAT PEOPLE' DROWN

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — A boat crowded with 53 Vietnamese refugees capsized near Kuala Trengganu and 15 drowned, police reported Sunday.

21 Greeks Die In Crush At Stadium

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — Locked wooden doors at a Piraeus soccer stadium collapsed under the crush of thousands of jostling fans, Sunday, killing at least 21 and seriously injuring 54 others, police said.

A police spokesman said ground staff at the stadium outside Athens had been detained and were being questioned about the incident, which occurred when 37,000 fans were leaving after a crucial first division game between local rivals Olympiakos and the visiting AEK Athens team.

Police counted 21 bodies and 54 people hospitalized, and about half of the injured were described by a doctor as seriously hurt.

Asphyxia Blamed

"They all died of asphyxia brought on by the pressure on their chests from people pushing from behind and piling on top," said a doctor at the Tzanneion Hospital near Piraeus, Athens' port.

Greek Premier George Rallis rushed to the hospital to visit the bedridden of the injured and console relatives waiting anxiously at the hospital gate.

He said later that the accident was "nobody's fault."

The dead included one young woman and a 10-year-old boy, the doctor said. The hospital corridors were lined with injured youths on stretchers.

A police spokesman said the double wooden doors, five feet wide, failed to open after the game, which was won 6-0 by Olympiakos to put it at the top of the Greek soccer league.

The departing fans piled down a narrow concrete staircase and into a curving corridor, cheering and celebrating so loudly that they could not hear the screams of the people in front, police said.

Door Closed

"We were coming down (an exit ramp), but the door was closed and we were squeezed tight with one person stepping on top of the next," said 14-

CONFISCATED CONTRABAND—Criminal District Attorney John Montford, right, called Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack early Sunday so that four suspect heroin distributors could be arraigned. Approximately $25,000 in cash, numerous weapons, ammunition, syringes and cutting paraphernalia were confiscated in the multi-agency undercover investigation that zeroed in on at least four suspects during the last two weeks. In the end, three Lubbock men, shown in the right panel, Joseph Eloy Chavez, front, Richard Cortez and Mauricio Garza Cardenas, were arraigned before the judge while Cpl. Patrick Nesbitt, left, and Patrolman Gaylon Lewis stand guard. A Denver, Colo., woman also was arraigned, and the suspects were charged with at least one count each of possession of heroin and possession with intent to distribute the narcotic. Arraignment Conducted For Four In Drugs Raid

By EVIE DAVIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A 32-YEAR-old Lubbock man arraigned early Sunday on suspicion of drug trafficking is believed by officials to be "the supplier who took care of all the (heroin) dealers in the (Lubbock) county."

More than 100 balloons of suspected cut heroin, nine ounces of the pure substance and a like amount of suspected cocaine, plus numerous firearms and ammunition and approximately $25,000 in cash were confiscated Saturday as the result of a multi-agency undercover investigation.

Three other persons, two men and a woman, also were arrested Saturday night, and the haul represents what authorities say is one of the largest amounts of narcotics recovered by lawmen in recent Lubbock County history.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack about 1:30 a.m. Sunday was Mauricio Garza Cardenas, 32, of 2905 Auburn Ave. The man, who was taken into custody about 6:30 p.m. Saturday at Fourth Street and Avenue X, has been charged with one count of possession of suspected heroin and one count of possession of the substance with intent to distribute. Blalack denied bond.

Following Cardenas to the judge's bench was Richard Cortez, 34, of 1918 E. First St. Cortez also is charged with possession of heroin and possession with the intent to distribute and Blalack denied him bond.

Joseph Eloy Chavez, 43, of 2212 Fifth St. is charged with two counts of possession of the narcotic and one count of possession to distribute. Blalack set bond at $250,000.

Mary Patricia Kadlubowski, 27, who lists a Denver address, is charged with two counts of possession of the drug and one count of possession with intent to distribute. Her bond was set about 1:55 a.m. Sunday at $100,000.

Details of the tri-agency investigation, spearheaded by the federal Drug Enforcement Administration and which intensified during the last two weeks, unraveled early Sunday when officers with the DEA, the Lubbock County Criminal District Attorney's office and the Lubbock Police Department hauled quantities of the confiscated contraband into the DA's office.

Suspects Followed

Agents indicated that they had "watched" the four suspects, plus a fifth "money man," board repeated commercial airline flights to and from Lubbock International Airport and Houston Hobby.

Seven Found Dead In Crashed Plane

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Workers recovered seven bodies, Sunday, from the wreckage of a twin-engine Cessna aircraft that crashed more than a mile north of Horace Williams Airport.

The aircraft, which had its landing gear down, clipped trees shortly after 7 p.m. Saturday, during a light rain and mist.

A highway patrol spokesman said four men, two women and an 8-year-old boy were killed. He declined to identify them pending notification of relatives in Panama.

The wreckage of the plane, registered in Miami, Fla., was found about 200 yards from a house on Homestead Road near the airport.

After hitting the trees, the plane traveled 500 to 600 yards before hitting the ground and flipping upside down. State troopers said its nose, an engine and parts of the wings were torn off by the impact.

U.S. Pilots Said Held By Laotians

SEATTLE (UPI) — A former Royal Lao Air Force pilot insists that 40 to 50 American servicemen who served in the Vietnam War still are being held captive by the Communist government in Laos, the Seattle Post-Intelligencer said Sunday.

In a copyright story, the newspaper identified the former pilot as Sayfa Phounsavan, who now directs the Lao Family Center Inc. agency in Seattle.

"The truth is that there are today 40 or 50 Americans, most of them pilots who were shot down over Laos during the (Vietnam) war, being held prisoner there now," said Sayfa.

He said his information came from the hundreds of Laotian refugees who seek services from his agency.

"The people coming to the Lao Family Center tell me that the Communists found many Americans alive in the jungles and have kept them," he said.

Sayfa predicted that the Americans being held captive in Laos will be used for several more years of forced labor.

"The governments there use the Americans to teach them how to fly the airplanes and helicopters abandoned in 1975," Sayfa said. "They are also being

Houston Intensifying Meningitis Scrutiny

HOUSTON (AP) — The entire student body and staff at a city elementary school will undergo vaccinations today as local and federal health officials have failed to find the cause of a statewide outbreak of meningitis.

An "unprecedented" six cases of meningococcal meningitis have been reported in one classroom at Dodson Elementary School. Results of throat cultures and blood samples taken from 150 Dodson teachers, students and relatives also were expected today.

A health department spokesman said the decision to vaccinate everyone in the school was reached late Saturday after a meeting among representatives of the health department, the Atlanta-based national Center for Disease Control and the Baylor medical school.

The decision was made, the spokesman said, because more than one in 1,000 people have been stricken — the criterion set by the medical community for use

Part Of City Hit By Power Outage

AN UNEXPLAINED electrical blackout caused approximately 2,500 Lubbockites to resort to candles or the like for light Sunday evening.

Southwestern Public Service Co. district manager Jake Webb said a breaker tripped in the Allen sub-station in South Lubbock causing an area from 46th to 82nd streets to be without power. Webb said the reason for the trip was not known but would be investigated this morning.

The manager said the area included persons in the SPS area from Indiana to University Avenues. The power was off from 6:02 p.m. to 6:42 p.m. Sunday, he said.

Ten people, including a Dodson student, have died in Texas from the disease since the beginning of the year. Fifty-one cases have been reported in the state.

Four of the deaths have been in Houston, the nation's fifth-largest city, and the 31st case here was confirmed Saturday.

A Baylor College of Medicine spokesman said the latest victim is a 5-year-old who was hospitalized at Texas Children's Hospital. The spokesman said the child was not a Dodson student but would not release further information.

Officials say they are puzzled by the cluster of six cases in a sixth-grade classroom at the school on Houston's south side.

The vaccine provides protection for at least a year against the disease, an inflammation of the covering of the spine and brain. This form of the disease — the most serious — is caused by bacteria.

The disease usually occurs in groupings at military bases, day care centers, within families or at homes for the elderly — anywhere people come in close contact for extended periods of time, said Dr. Carol Baker, a pediatrician at the Baylor College of Medicine.

She said such a cluster in a classroom is unprecedented.

Absenteeism was up 30 percent at the school as parents kept their children home last week.

Dr. Baker said at least four members of the afflicted pupils' families also have contracted meningitis.

Deputy City Health Director Robert MacClain said half of the Houston victims are under 15 years old, but the cases run in age from one month to 80.

Symptoms of the disease include colds, sore throats, muscle aches, fever and pink rash. If caught early, the death rate is less than 10 percent, but jumps to 50 percent if detected late.

Crime Line Seeks Slaying Solution

CRIME LINE Inc. this week spotlights the Jan. 30 murder of a Lubbock man at Lee's Lounge, 2810 Ave. H.

Police, called to the bar at 12:24 a.m., found a white male, later identified as William N. Rose, lying on the floor next to the bar with several people around him.

Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack arrived, pronouncing the man dead at the scene.

Some witnesses told police that someone opened the lounge door, shooting the man from outside the lounge. Others said they believed the man was shot from inside the building, and the rest claimed they saw and heard nothing.

Officers were unable to locate the murder weapon, believed to be of .22-caliber.

Crime Line offers a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the suspect. Anyone having such information is urged to call Crime Line at 741-1000. Informants may remain anonymous.

Crime Line is supported entirely by private donations. Tax-deductible contributions may be mailed to Crime Line Inc. at P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, 79457.

A $500 reward is offered for information concerning the Wednesday armed robbery of a motel attendant at 2401 Fourth St.

The victim told police at 4:41 a.m. that two Mexican males had held him at knife point while they removed all the cash from the office desk at the Rodeway Inn. They then ran east down the alley between Fourth and Fifth streets after locking the victim in the office.

The suspects are described as 18 to 25 years old, both wearing blue pants. One is 5 foot 3 to 5 foot 6, medium build with a black cap and light blue coat. The other is 5

Trooper Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Stevens of Tulia, has been in law enforcement since January 1965 when he joined the Lubbock Police Department. In June 1967, he was recruited as a state trooper. He has served in Denton, Gainesville and Dallas.

Stevens, a Tulia High School graduate, is married to the former Glenda Holman of Tulia. They have one son, Randall, of South Lake Tahoe, Calif.

Tulia Banquet Speaker Slated

A-J Correspondent

TULIA — Dr. Charles Allen will be speaker at the annual Tulia Chamber of Commerce banquet Feb. 16 in Ezra Jones Cafeteria on the Tulia School Campus.

Dr. Allen is pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Houston, which, with a membership of more than 12,000, is the largest Methodist Church in the world. His service each Sunday morning is televised over station KTRK-TV, and broadcast over KENR radio.

He was born and reared in Georgia, the son of a minister. He is a graduate of Young Harris College, Wofford College and the School of Theology of Emory University. Dr. Allen holds the degree of doctor of divinity from both Piedmont College and Emory University, and the degree of doctor of laws from John Brown University.

Dr. Allen is the author of 31 books, all best sellers in the religious field. He writes a column for the Houston Chronicle and other newspapers.

Time Magazine said of him: "The success story of Charles L. Allen is not the result of rafter-ringing oratory. He speaks simply, seldom raises his voice and uses few gestures. He emphasizes Christian daily living and prayer. He is inclined to say simply, 'You'll be happier if you live this way.'"

Banquet tickets at $10 each may be obtained by writing Box 267 in Tulia, Texas 79088 or calling 995-2296.

Several awards will be presented and new officers will be introduced. The banquet theme is "I Love Tulia."

Deaf Institute Slates Play

BIG SPRING (Special) — A three-act play, "Play of Our Own—III," will be performed by the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf at Howard College at 8 p.m. March 12-14 in the Howard College Auditorium in Big Spring.

Stephen Baldwin, author of the play and an instructor at the college, will produce and direct the play.

The storyline of the performance will follow the relationship of a hearing man, his deaf wife and her deaf parents. Off-stage readers will be used when necessary to help the hearing understand signed portions of the play.

The play, written in 1979 while Baldwin was studying under a National Theater of the Deaf Stipend in Waterford, Conn., premiered in Boston before a crowd of 600 the same year.

Baldwin, who teaches in the repertory programs division at SWCID, will make his professional acting debut in May in the Tony Award-winning play "Children of a Lesser God" in Dallas.

Admission is $2 for students, $3 for persons over 65 and $4 for the general public.

Coahoma Principal Bares Resignation

COAHOMA (Special) — Bill Easterling, principal of Coahoma High School, has announced his resignation effective the end of the school year, according to Richard Souter, superintendent of schools.

Easterling became assistant basketball coach of Coahoma High School in 1957 and held the head coach position from 1960 through 1964. He then became junior high school principal and later was principal for the elementary school.

The Coahoma Independent School District will be taking applications for the vacancy until March 2. Applicants should contact Souter at 915/394-4290 or at Box 110, Coahoma 39511.

Farm Groups' Members, Reagan Meet

SEAGRAVES — WIFE (Women Involved in Farm Economic) national President Nita Gibson of Seminole, along with representatives of 14 other farm organizations, met with President Reagan Friday in Washington for a roundtable discussion of farm problems.

All organizations represented at the meeting agreed to the lifting of the grain embargo to the Soviet federal budget cuts.

Atlanta Police Seek 18th Missing Child

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta police launched a search Sunday for another young black child who has vanished, hoping to find some trace of the boy before turning the case over to a special task force probing the deaths and disappearances of 17 black youths.

Meanwhile, volunteers who have been trying to help police solve the baffling cases scoured neighborhoods in suburban College Park for clues. And federal agencies began mobilizing to aid police in the investigation.

Public Safety Commissioner Lee P. Brown said the case of Patrick Baltazar, 11, was not immediately turned over to the special 35-member police squad because it was department policy for the missing persons unit to handle disappearances first.

"We receive six or seven reports of children missing every day," Brown said. "Missing persons investigates even if it is someone who ran away from home."

Brown said a picture of the Baltazar child was released to television stations late Saturday, and the commissioner said he hoped the broadcast would produce some information about the child's whereabouts.

Young Baltazar was reported missing Friday night, just one day after the body of Lubie "Chuck" Geter, 14, was found.

Only two of the 17 cases being investigated by the special task force involve children who still are missing. The other 15 black children, all between the ages of 7 and 15, have been found dead.

The youths all disappeared within the past 19 months. None of the cases has been solved, and police believe more than one person is involved in the slayings.

Fulton County Police Chief Clinton Chafin said many of the victims apparently were not forcibly abducted and went voluntarily. He said police are convinced the killer or killers probably were not successful in every attempt to lure children.

Medical examiner Dr. Robert Stivers said there was no evidence the Geter boy put up a struggle.

Police urged parents and children to report any attempts to lure a child into a car.

"We need to know if anyone solicited you for work," Chafin said. "Has anyone solicited you to do anything? It might be perfectly innocent, but then it may not be. Sometimes the most insignificant thing can put things into place and bring the whole thing together."

Several federal agencies have been directed to provide the city with more advisers, technical assistance and equipment to help in the investigation. Vice President George Bush announced Saturday the Justice Department will step up efforts to help solve the case.

The volunteer searchers have been combing several Atlanta neighborhoods for clues in the cases since last fall.

The body of one of the victims, 7-year-old Latonya Wilson, was found by volunteers during the first search last fall, but nothing significant has turned up since then.

Security Guard Killed By Miami Shoplifter

MIAMI (AP) — As horrified shoppers looked on, a preacher's grandson who counseled criminals by day and worked as a security guard by night was stabbed to death by a shoplifter who fled with an item that probably was worth less than $10, police say.

Gary Townsel, 26, was on duty watching for shoplifters at a J.C. Penney store in the 163rd Street Mall on Saturday night when he spotted a suspicious person walking out the front door. When Townsel pursued the suspect, a struggle ensued.

"I just didn't realize the guy was knifing me," Townsel gasped to Penney executive Arthur Branch after a woman shopper notified store officials. Branch found Townsel bleeding on the ground.

Branch, a friend and co-worker for four years, tried to assure Townsel he would be all right. But the young man, who had celebrated his birthday just last week and was married last spring, knew better.

"It's bad," he told Branch and then said he was dying.

A registered nurse in the crowd tried frantically to stop the bleeding. Dade County paramedics arrived and applied cardio-pulmonary resuscitation. But Townsel died shortly after arriving at a hospital.

"Gary was one of those people that you instantly liked," Branch said. Several distraught store employees were unable to continue working after the stabbing and were dismissed early.

Police later said the thief, who still was at large, escaped with an item probably worth less than $10. They refused to identify the item.

Inmates at the Beckman Mall Community Correction Center, where Townsel worked during the day, were upset and stunned at word of his death.

Townsel worked as a corrections counselor at the minimum-security, work-release institution for prisoners awaiting parole. He often would take the inmates to the shopping center, one of the largest in South Florida.

"He was fantastic, the most lovable guy you ever met," said Richard Drews, chaplain at the institution.

South Plains To See More Gusty Winds Today

If weather forecasters are on target, today's weather should be a carbon copy of Sunday's, which produced fair to partly cloudy skies for most of the day and a high temperature in the upper 60s.

The National Weather Service is calling for partly cloudy skies through Tuesday, with a high today in the mid 60s, and a low tonight in the mid 30s. The high on Tuesday is expected to reach the upper 50s.

Wind speed should pick up a bit more today. Sunday, winds were generally mild, about 13 mph or less. Today, weathermen expect gusty winds of 15 to 20 mph.

Elsewhere on Sunday, mostly cloudy skies were reported over parts of Texas from the eastern Panhandle to the upper Gulf Coast, with fair skies over most of the remainder of the state.

The Texas forecast calls for partly cloudy skies and warmer temperatures, with a chance of light rain or drizzle over parts of southwest Texas today.

The forecast for Wednesday through Friday in West Texas foresees fair skies and very cold temperatures for this area Wednesday. Partly cloudy skies and warmer temperatures are expected, along with a chance of scattered showers, Thursday and Friday.

In other parts of the nation, light snow and subfreezing temperatures are expected today for the Northern states. Temperatures are not expected to climb above freezing from the northern Rocky Mountains through the Dakotas and Nebraska, to northern New England.

Stony corals develop by absorbing calcium from seawater to build rock-hard skeletons. Some grow as much as three inches a year, reports National Geographic.

Middle-Aged Bandit Strikes Dallas Store

DALLAS (AP) — "The Big One," one of two middle-aged bandits believed responsible for at least 15 Safeway supermarket robberies during the past three months, has struck again — making off this time with $2,000 in cash, police said.

The latest robbery occurred Friday. The robber "had a tool he used to open the door (to the cashier's booth) and then he just walked in and pulled a gun," according to manager Jerry Garcia.

All the robberies, which started in November, have occurred at Safeway supermarkets in the city.

The two robbers — the other one is called "The Little One" — never have been seen together, but police believe they know each other because their methods of operation are similar. Most of the heists occurred on a Friday or Saturday night near closing time at stores near freeways, police said.

No one has been injured in any of the robberies.

Turbulence Marked Daniels' Unlikely Marriage

(EDITOR'S NOTE: It was an unlikely marriage, and friends never expected it to last. She was a little-educated Dairy Queen waitress; he was heir to riches and power. Death did them part.)

By MIKE COCHRAN

LIBERTY (AP) — Until that rainy night in January, few had ever heard of Vickie Daniel, and fewer still knew her.

At 33, she was short and shapely, very blonde and very private, and most remembered her as the bright, attractive waitress at the local Dairy Queen.

She eluded, perhaps shunned, public attention, unburdened by great riches and unencumbered by social and educational credentials.

At 39, Price Daniel Jr. also was very private, but prominently so. His was a name synonymous with Texas politics. He moved easily and elegantly through the corridors of power, a man of wealth and culture and political stature.

They were an unlikely couple, and more than a few thought so four years ago when they married, both for the second time.

Other than good looks, they appeared to have in common only a genuine desire for privacy.

Vickie's anonymity and Price's life ended shortly after nightfall on Jan. 19. She is charged with killing him with a single bullet fired from a bolt action .22 rifle.

The bullet entered his stomach and pierced the aorta, the body's main artery. He died in a river of blood on the floor of his beloved ranch home.

After nine hours of secret testimony, a grand jury indicted Vickie on Jan. 28.

Those are the known facts of an episode that stunned this quiet town of 10,000, near Houston, and this state, where murder is not at all uncommon.

A jury will decide the key issue of legal guilt or innocence, probably this summer. And perhaps it will unravel the mysteries surrounding Vickie and Price and pinpoint the forces that led them to this unusual and tragic alliance.

It was, friends said, a union doomed from the outset.

The first of four children, young Price entered the world in 1941 as the son and namesake of then state Rep. Marion Price Daniel of Liberty.

The elder Daniel would, in time, serve as Texas House Speaker, state attorney general, U.S. senator, governor, assistant to President Lyndon Johnson and as a justice of the Texas Supreme Court.

Price Jr.'s mother was Jean Houston Baldwin Daniel, a descendant of Sam Houston, twice president of Texas as an independent nation and later its governor.

As his father before him, Price Jr. attended Baylor University, received his law degree there in 1966, returned to Liberty to practice law and gravitated into politics.

"Price and his father were as close as two private people could be," a friend of young Daniel later remarked.

In that same pivotal year of 1966, Price Jr. married a rather feisty but sophisticated young lady named Diane Wommack, who sported political bloodlines of her own.

Diane was a descendant of Texas Gov. Thomas Mitchell Campbell, a name reflected in her only child by Price, Thomas Houston Campbell Daniel.

To the surprise of no one, Price Jr. sought and won election in 1968 to his father's old legislative seat, where he quickly earned a reputation as a "people-oriented moderate."

He was, by all accounts, hard-working and serious-minded, rarely aggressive and not at all inclined to a leadership role.

"He never sponsored any major legislation," recalled Rep. Gib Lewis of Fort Worth, one of Price Jr.'s closest friends. "He just served and stayed quiet and showed no urge to change the world."

At the time, the Texas Legislature enjoyed a well-earned reputation as a wheeling-dealing, fun-loving, often hedonistic band of mostly free spirits.

But Price Jr. did not fit that mold.

"He would sit around with two or three friends and have a drink or two rather than go out and party," recalled Carlton Carl, who served as Price's executive assistant.

"He was a very private person with very few really close friends."

Daniel embraced but never joined a colorful liberal coalition known as "The Dirty Thirty" which, with the curious turn of events, probably worked in his favor.

A political upheaval triggered by a Houston bank and stock fraud scandal led to the resignation of House Speaker Gus Mutscher and a public demand for legislative reform.

The mood, as one survivor put it, was simply to "throw the rascals out."

Following an unlikely series of events, Daniel emerged, as Lewis recalled, "as the proverbial knight in shining armor astride a great white horse."

Nor did it hurt, said Lewis, "that the old man went to bat for him."

Thus, young Price, again following in his father's footsteps, ascended to the awesomely powerful speakership in January 1973.

"The public was crying out for reform legislation and Price got it passed," said one colleague, who by no means considered all of it good.

Whatever, as Carlton Carl said, "Openness in government was the high mark of his reign."

Dispite his successes, Price Jr. failed spectacularly in his stated overall objective of ending one-man rule in the House and weakening the grip of business interests on legislation.

Nor was he any more successful when, as president of the 1974 Constitutional Convention, he sought to submit to the voters a new state charter to replace the one written in 1875.

He made powerful enemies among the legislators on the committee and, in the end, saw the constitution fall three votes short.

During his tenure as House leader, some said, the speaker's office could be "vindictive and devious," but the tendency was to blame Carl, not Price.

"I don't think there was any vindictiveness at all," Carl now insists. "We were aware we were playing hard ball, and that's the only way to play politics."

Usually mild-mannered, Price Jr. could indeed be wapsish.

He once berated labor leaders, earlier his allies, as "callous and selfish" and refused to apologize for calling some of the convention delegates "cockroaches."

Many attributed the strain of politics, the convention and the speakership for the break-up of his marriage. Others noted that Diane was remarkably quick to find solace with one of Price Jr.'s closest friends.

A reporter recently searched out Diane in Austin to discuss her life with Price. He was dismissed with a smile normally reserved for rodents, snakes and child molesters.

The divorce was final on Nov. 26, 1975, not long before Price surprised many of his colleagues by announcing as a candidate for attorney general.

At the time, he was back in Liberty, tending to his law practice and a variety of business ventures and living in his spacious home on the family's picturesque 3,000-acre ranch.

It was in Liberty that he met an attractive, softspoken blonde divorcee with two young children.

Her name was Vickie Carroll Moore and she worked at the Dairy Queen on North Main.

Born and reared for the most part in nearby Baytown, Vickie was the 10th of 11 children of a refinery worker who moved wherever his jobs took him.

She last attended high school in Waxahachie, south of Dallas, but apparently did not graduate.

As a teen-ager, she met and subsequently married Larry Dale Moore, a big, affable, not unhandsome East Texan by whom she had two children, Kimberly, now 12, and Jonathan, now 10.

They settled in a small hamlet outside Liberty, where Vickie worked at a movie theater during the latter portion of their marriage.

Recalling their nine years together, Moore labeled the union a "salty" one, with its normal ups and downs, "from one extreme to the other."

He described Vickie as "not really" quiet, "more the outgoing type." She was a "good mother" who, like himself, neither drank nor danced.

According to Moore, they spent much of their free time bicycling, playing tennis and hunting squirrels, rabbits and ducks. Said he:

"She was a good shot."

Their marriage lasted from 1967 until Aug. 16, 1976, not too long after Vickie met Price who, incidentally, was her lawyer.

A later attempt at reconciliation failed, and she and Price were married Nov. 1, 1976.

Court records indicate, and Moore confirmed, that the Daniels were not without problems early on. On Oct. 22, 1977, a month after Price declared his candidacy for Texas attorney general, Vickie filed for divorce.

"I spent 12 hours on the phone with her and Price that day," remembered Carlton Carl. "That situation happened because Vickie was politically naive and political campaigns are demanding."

"They place pressures on the best of marriages...and Vickie had never been close to politics before."

Carl thought Vickie "bright" if not overly educated, and though he considered her "emotional" he also believed that "she really loved Price."

Moore, who frequently visited the Daniel home to see his children, said Vickie was "more or less unhappy most of the time," that "she spent more time going out than staying there," and that she moved out of the big brick house several times.

"It was apparently a turbulent marriage."

The marriage survived the 1977 crisis but Daniel lost his attorney general's race to little-known Mark White. Most blamed the primary loss on over-confidence.

In May 1980, he cut Vickie out of his will.

Then, last New Year's Eve, she again filed for divorce, citing "conflict of personalities."

Both continued to live at the ranch home, but in separate quarters.

On Jan. 15, Price was served with divorce papers. Four days later, after a routine stint at his office, he returned home about dusk.

At the house were his two young sons by Vickie, Franklin Baldwin, 3, and Marion Price IV, age 1. Vickie's daughter Kimberly, 12, also was there.

Shortly after 7 p.m., Vickie telephoned Kersting Memorial Hospital and reported the shooting. She was hysterical, at one point throwing the phone down and screaming:

"Price, get up!"

Two emergency medical technicians and a newsman were among the first to reach the house. They described Vickie as "totally hysterical."

They said it took 20 minutes to restrain her, that she babbled in baby talk and repeatedly screamed, "He's OK, isn't he?"

Investigators found two empty cartridges and, after some confusion, discovered a hole in the ceiling and roof where the other bullet exited.

In the wake of the shooting, Vickie was hospitalized for treatment of "shock and hysteria."

Looking drawn and frail and largely unnoticed, she attended Price's funeral, but did not appear at the grave for his burial.

On that dreary, overcast day, Price was buried beneath three great oaks on the family's rolling ranchland along the "Governor's Road."

Later, after the rich and powerful mourners had left, a visitor stood at a fence, marveling at the dozens of floral sprays surrounding the grave.

Low Demand, Prices Cut Gasohol Sales

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Low customer demand, high cost and uncertain supplies of one of the ingredients have brought local sales of gasohol virtually to a halt, officials say.

"The glamor is off, the patriotic fervor gone," said C. William Swank, executive vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation Inc. "Gas shortages just aren't on peoples' minds anymore."

The first Ohio outlet to sell gasohol, a mixture of corn-refined ethanol and unleaded gasoline, was Franklin Landmark in April 1979. But Manager Jack Fling says sales have gone flat since then.

"It was a good product, but it reminds me of the Edsel," said Robert J. Strub, a field supervisor with Beaver Gasoline Co., which owns 136 Ohio and Pennsylvania services stations. "It came out before its time."

The company has stopped selling gasohol at its service stations.

Gasohol, where available, is 3 to 10 cents a gallon higher than unleaded gasoline. Ethanol often is in short supply, and some state officials fear federal subsidies for gasohol production may be eliminated as part of President Reagan's budget cuts.

"That would be a blow to us," Swank said.

The Farm Bureau is part of a consortium building a multi-million-dollar alcohol fuels plant at South Point, Ohio. Part of the financing comes from a $32 million federal loan guarantee. The Farm Bureau has committed itself to gasohol as a relief from foreign oil and a market for surplus Ohio corn.

Quake Rehearsal Scheduled

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ten years ago a "moderate" earthquake ripped through the northeastern edge of the city for 12 seconds, killing 64 people. The last killer quake toppled buildings and reminded Southern Californians of the lurking danger of life on a fault line.

On today, officials in a quake-proof bunker will coordinate mock emergency exercises in the wake of a temblor with the magnitude of 8.3 — powerful enough to unleash the destructive force of a nuclear attack.

Before the last aftershock subsides.

14,000 people would be dead and 55,000 critically injured. Airports, railway stations and ports would be closed. A quarter of all telephone lines would be down and 50 percent of all radio and television stations would be knocked out. There's a good chance survivors would be without electricity.

Today's disaster is only a paper quake but officials are preparing for "the big one" that seismologists say has a 50 percent chance of rupturing along the San Andreas Fault within the next 20-30 years.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. I am a senior citizen, with $10,000 in "surplus" cash and I have an academic question. What is the advantage of my investing this money in the stock market, when I can get 13 to 14 percent in 182-day savings certificates?

A. My dictionary defines academic question as "merely theoretical; having no direct practical application." Your query certainly doesn't fall into that category, because deciding what to do with your money is mighty important.

If the most important thing for you — as it is with most senior citizens — is to get the highest possible risk-free income, there is no advantage of buying stocks. Instead, you should keep your money in such things as insured savings certificates.

This column does not promote the idea that everyone should buy stocks. Some people should never buy stocks, because there is some risk involved in all stocks.

People who do buy stocks should do it with truly "surplus" cash they can afford to put at risk. They buy stocks with the expectation — "hope" might be a better word — that the total financial rewards, in the form of dividends and increase in value, will be greater than fixed-income investments.

Q. About seven years ago, I bought $1,700 of Series E, U.S. Savings Bonds. I now need the money and want to cash the bonds. Most of the bonds have my correct Social Security number on them. But one has a different Social Security number. How can I cash the bonds — including the one with the wrong Social Security number?

A. When you present the E bonds for redemption at any bank or other "paying agent" for U.S. Savings Bonds, simply point out the error and have your correct Social Security number written on that bond.

If any questions are asked, you can simply whip out your Social Security card.

However, it is interesting to note that, according to literature from the Federal Reserve Bank, "agents are not expected to verify the (Social Security) numbers being furnished." (OHE)

Q. A company in which I owned stock went into bankruptcy proceedings in 1972. It was declared bankrupt and the stock worthless in 1977. So, on my 1977 income tax return, I reported a capital loss equal to the price I paid for the stock.

In September, 1980, as the result of a suit by claimants, I received a check in settlement of stockholders' claims, plus interest.

Is the check I received subject to tax as a capital gain on my 1980 income tax return?

A. Report the amount of the settlement as a long-term capital gain. And report the portion of that check that represented interest on the settlement as interest income. The tax on a long-term capital gain, of course, is less severe than the bite on other taxable income.

I have to say you are one of the relatively fortunate people who held stock in defunct companies. Most investors with that unhappy experience never recover dime number one.

Q. The prospectus of a mutual fund in which I am considering investing states, among other things, that the fund's registration "will be subject to immediate suspension" in the state in which I live, if the fund does certain things.

If I do invest in this fund, what would be the consequences to me, if the fund's registration is revoked in my state?

A. The fund would then have to stop selling its shares in and to residents of your home state. But you would continue to own the shares you had already purchased.

You've run into one of the state regulations — known as "blue sky rules" — that are stricter in some states than others.

Most mutual funds are careful to observe the blue sky rules of all states. That paragraph you quote from appears in the fund's prospectus as a precautionary measure, in the interest of full disclosure.

Mr. Doyle welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

GARWOOD CASE SOBERING

POW Verdict Hard But Fair

THE CONVICTION of Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood, a tragic figure of the Vietnam War era, on charges of collaborating with the enemy should have a sobering effect on how future American prisoners of war are expected to conduct themselves.

A five-man military jury, every member of which served in Vietnam, found Garwood guilty of informing his enemy captors about his fellow POWs and of indoctrinating other captives as to the "virtues" of the National Liberation Front.

Garwood's lawyers never disputed the charge that he had collaborated with the enemy but argued that he had been driven insane after being captured as a 19-year-old jeep driver near Da Nang.

GARWOOD SPENT 14 years as a prisoner of war, staying behind when other Americans were released, but finally deciding to come home and face the charges against him in late 1979.

Witnesses against him said the young Marine told of having struck a deal with the North Vietnamese to secure his release after working with them for a time.

He would interrogate new POWs entering his camp, the court martial jury was told, trying to learn about their military units, their attitudes and any escape plans they might have.

Garwood also willingly served as an interpreter during political indoctrination classes, served as a guard escorting other POWs inside and outside the camp and suggested that they "cross over" to the enemy, according to testimony.

One former POW, who testified that Garwood had encouraged fellow captives to write propaganda statements for the enemy, admitted that he himself had signed such statements and given information to the enemy because he had found it "impossible to adhere to the code of conduct" expected of captured American servicemen.

GIVEN THE FACT, however, that America's reasons for fighting in Vietnam never were understood or supported by a large segment of the population, it is impossible to condone the actions of a captive who sides with the enemy against his own countrymen.

Some will view Pfc. Garwood as a traitor, others as a victim, but all can agree that his actions as a POW cannot be merely forgotten.

American fighting men who are taken prisoner in a future war, God forbid, are entitled to a definitive expectation of how they and their fellow POWs are to deal with the enemy and with each other.

We cannot compound the Garwood tragedy with a national tragedy that would let each man decide for himself how he will conduct himself without his actions being called into account if he is ever released.

PARTING (SHOT) GIFTS

Few Rocks Tossed With Roses

THE OUTGOING administration left its successor a little going-away present in the form of dozens of new regulations added to the books at the last minute.

In fact, so many agencies rushed to publish regulations in the final hours that the Federal Register of Jan. 19 was the largest ever.

On a normal day when Congress is in session the register runs 1,500 manuscript pages. In contrast, the pre-inauguration day issue ran close to 4,600 manuscript pages and the preceding issue of Jan. 16 was nearly 4,000 pages in length.

If many of these regulations have anything in common, it is that they were opposed by the incoming Reaganites.

For example, the Service Contract Act, despite the Reagan transition team's protests, was officially promulgated on Jan. 16.

THE ACT IS one of two that require the federal government and its contractors to pay their employees the highest prevailing wage rate in their area of the country.

The Reagan administration firmly opposes the SCA and the companion Davis-Bacon Act. Moreover, Ray Donovan, Reagan's choice for labor secretary, has made the repeal of both laws one of his chief goals. Yet the regulation was promulgated the weekend prior to the inauguration.

These were among the other agencies that published Eleventh Hour regulations:

* OSHA, a favorite target of the Reaganites, published three major standards, set formal hearings on another and added at least three minor regulations to its books in the final hours.

* HHS (the old HEW) issued more than a dozen of what a spokesperson termed "technical changes and rule responses to things passed by Congress."

* The FTC issued eight new rulings on products—not one of which would likely have been issued by the new administration.

It may take the Reaganites a year to remove some of the new regulations from the books. During that time, of course, it simply can refuse to enforce the new rules—but at the risk of incurring law suits from proponents. As a result it may take months to figure out what the Reagan predecessors did in their final hours on the payroll, as well as how to undo it.

It's not all that uncommon for outgoing administrations to try to get in a few last licks, but, as a longtime Federal Register employee noted, "It's never been on a scale like this."

ART BUCHWALD:

Parking Places Scarce As Demos In Congress

WASHINGTON—One of the biggest mysteries in Washington is that although President Reagan's administration has put a freeze on government hiring and Carter appointees have been summarily dismissed, and civil servants have retired, there are still no more parking places for government employees than there were before.

The Reagan people are befuddled by this. One Reagan official has been studying the problem and trying to come up with the answer.

"I have a theory, though I can't substantiate it, that many Carter administration people took their parking places with them when they left," he told me.

BUT THAT'S illegal, I said. "A parking place is government property."

I know that," he said. "But every time I go into a government garage there is a car in every place. The parking places all seem to be accounted for."

Maybe the Carter people lied to you about how many parking places were available in the first place. In that way they could have taken one with them—without your knowing about it."

I've thought about it, and I've asked the FBI to run a check on the Carter people to find out if they have a parking place somewhere else that doesn't belong to them.

But the FBI says they have no mandate to track down stolen parking places. Besides, there is nothing stamped on a parking place to indicate it is government property."

"MAYBE THE Carter appointees are still using their parking places in government buildings while they're job hunting," I suggested.

"We thought of that too, but unless the car has a Georgia license plate, we can't be sure if the vehicle belongs to one of us or one of them."

I tried to think of some other explanation. "I don't know if this could be the problem, but Republicans are more affluent than Democrats, and it's possible they aren't car pooling like the Democrats did. If every Republican drives to work alone, then you might be filling up three spaces for every one the Democrats used."

This got him very angry. "You would like to think that, because it fits your image of Republicans. But I know many Republicans who are willing to car pool. The only problem is they live in areas where it's very hard to find their own kind to pool with."

"WHY DOESN'T President Reagan freeze everyone's parking places?" I suggested. "That way, no one could get someone else's spot. If someone quits, retires or is fired, you could just put a limousine in its place."

"What kind of limousine?"

"The ones that are reserved for Mr. Reagan's friends when they come to town."

We might do that, but it won't solve the mystery of why, when you make the government smaller, the demand for government parking places is constantly increasing."

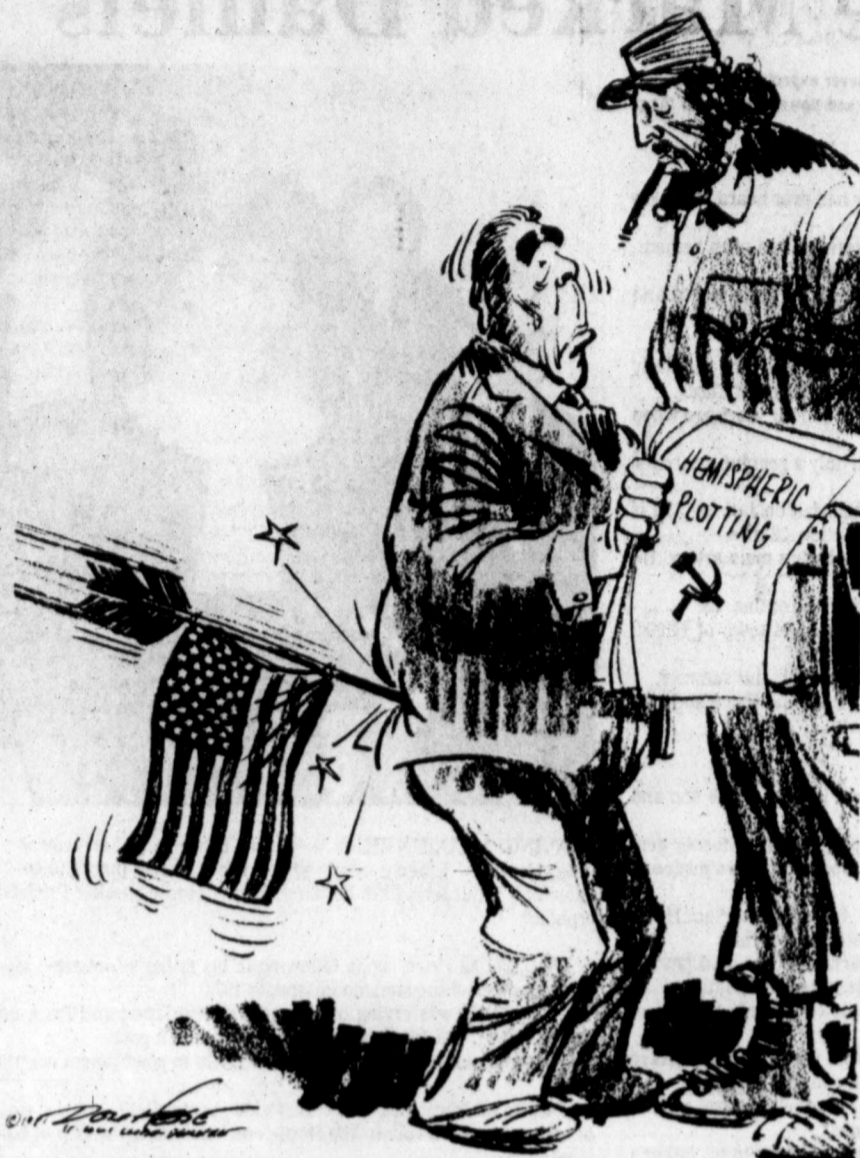

OK, I'll tell you why. When the Democrats controlled the government, there were so many employees that most of them parked outside in the streets. As you keep cutting down the size of bureaucracy, more and more employees have an opportunity to park inside. As soon as one department hears that another department has been eliminated, they immediately take over their parking places."

THAT MAKES sense, but why then aren't there more parking places available outside than there were before?"

"Those places are being taken up by lobbyists. Every time you have a new administration, you find a lot of lobbyists' cars around government buildings. They have to get to know the new people."

I hadn't thought of that," he said. "Then you don't think the Carter people took their parking places with them?"

Even if they did, I wouldn't be too tough on them. You may do the same thing with your parking place when you leave in four years."

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

A Place In The Chun

WASHINGTON—South Korean President Chun Doo Hwan's just-concluded visit here climaxed a triumph in secret diplomacy by the Reagan administration conducted out of an obscure downtown Washington office before the newly-elected President had assumed power.

Had it not been for President Reagan's informal intervention through his national security assistant, Richard V. Allen, Chun certainly would not have been Reagan's guest at Blair House.

Korean dissident Kim Dae Jung would have been executed, U.S.-Korean relations would be at an all-time low and South Korea would stand as an outlaw nation in the eyes of the world.

Instead, Gen. Chun's regime has won legitimacy, its more moderate elements strengthened enough to plant hope for democratization ahead.

Reagan's mixture of determination and flexibility suggests he may not only restore tattered alliances such as the Korean link but possibly achieve more in human rights than Jimmy Carter's self-righteous approach.

When we visited Seoul last September, the situation looked bleak. Chun's most moderate advisers contended he could not bow to Carter administration public demands to spare the life of Kim Dae Jung, accused of subversion and sedition.

If he did, Chun's brief presidential tenure might end abruptly. Having just formalized his previous role as strong man of the military regime, Chun was dependent on the hard-line young colonels who engineered the coup that brought him to power. They would not tolerate losing face by surrendering to Carter.

CONSEQUENTLY, THERE is agreement in Korea that Kim would be dead today had President Carter been re-elected. Actually, the proposition there immediately after Nov. 4 was that Reagan's win also doomed Kim.

Jubilant colonels in Seoul toasted the Republican victory, rejoicing that troublesome Carter had been replaced by permissive Reagan who would give them a free hand on Kim Dae Jung.

They misread Ronald Reagan. He authorized Allen to leak a story that the President-elect opposed Kim's execution and believed it would harm U.S.-Korean relations. A news report quoting a "senior aide" to that effect appeared in the Nov. 18 New York Times.

It did not do the trick. Koreans well placed outside the government informed us that the colonels interpreted it as political posturing to protect Reagan from being blamed for Kim's death.

THE KOREANS told us Reagan must do more to prevent the execution before Jan. 20. But if he went public, Reagan's advice would have to be spurned, just as Carter's was, in order to save Chun's face.

The recommendation by these Koreans: a confidential letter to Chun from Reagan, delivered by an American or Korean businessman.

We relayed this information to the Reagan camp. A letter to Chun was quickly ruled out. So was any other direct activity by the President-elect.

Nor could he work through the State Department while Carter was President; starting Nov. 4, the Chun regime would not seriously discuss Kim with U.S. diplomats.

With Reagan's approval, Dick Allen started secret negotiations with Korean emissaries, most held in his private office at 16th and I Streets here. To guard against publicity that could have aborted the delicate process, nothing was said to the State Department.

ALLEN'S FIRST talks were held in November with Gen. Lew Byung Hyun, chairman of the Korean Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Allen was blunt: Killing Kim would do irreparable damage to South Korea's relations with the world, particularly Japan and the U.S.; hopes of reviving the alliance under Reagan would disappear.

In December, Allen stepped up the pace. He conferred twice with the man sent by Chun to Washington to represent him personally: the Korean Embassy's minister, Gen. Sohn Jang Rae. Allen extended Reagan's invitation to visit Washington immediately after the inauguration. Nothing was to be said publicly. Just before Christmas, Chun tentatively accepted.

That at least bought time. Having accepted the invitation, Chun could not permit Kim's execution before Jan. 20. Even if the death sentence were not commuted, Reagan could deal with the problem once he had taken office.

BUT THERE was realistic hope Seoul would grant clemency before Chun's trip, if only to avoid full-blown demonstrations in front of the White House against the Korean president (in contrast to the actual token protests).

Not until Jan. 20 did Reagan learn of Chun's decision to commute Kim's sentence to life imprisonment, quickly followed by his lifting of martial law. South Korea had opted for respectability.

The regime's moderate elements were strengthened, and the hard-line colonels dealt a severe blow. It was Ronald Reagan's triumph, accomplished without oozing preachments of paternalistic America that for four years have managed to undermine U.S. alliances while failing to improve human rights.

JAY HARRIS:

The Next Revolt?

THE DAY OF reckoning has come to the land of manana.

Throughout Central America and the Caribbean, the sound of death echoes with staccato regularity, in the cities and villages, in homes, consulates, even churches.

While the U.S. has been preoccupied with the Iranian hostage crisis and an election for the past year, the creeping fires of revolution have moved inexorably along America's southern perimeter.

With Cuba's Fidel Castro and his Marxist henchmen helping train and arm the hard-core guerrillas, the revolutionary firestorm which engulfed Nicaragua now threatens El Salvador and Guatemala. Could Mexico be next?

THE STORY OF what is happening on America's southern doorstep is not one fully understood or reported.

To many in the Developing and Third World, it is the story of the struggle of the peasants and working class to gain a decent livelihood, a piece of land of their own and "a breath of freedom."

This can be best accomplished, it is argued, by overthrowing the rightist military rulers, such as former Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza, and the ruling right-wing junta in El Salvador.

It goes without saying that this must be accomplished by a "native" uprising of "the people." What isn't said is that the leaders of such groups often have been trained in Cuba and are indoctrinated not only in how to make a persuasive argument for "land reform," Marxist style, but in the gentle art of how to ambush and terrorize.

IT ALSO GOES without saying that in many instances, it is pro-American governments which are the targets.

Also in each case, the charge that such governments are tools of the multi-nationals and international banking interests usually not only gets ample exposure in the country in turmoil, but in the press and on television in the U.S.

It is too bad that much of the story that is Central America and the Caribbean today has been told in a hit-and-miss, shallow manner. While there are legitimate reasons for reform, the other side of the coin, the role of the Marxists, also needs to be exposed.

The story of what Fidel Castro and his Marxist minions have done to Cuba, its economy, its jails filled with political prisoners and its more than 40,000 "hired-guns" who wage proxy wars for Moscow in Africa, is too often ignored.

BUT THE real story is how Castro in effect is still helping export Marxist-type governments throughout the region.

As might be expected, and as is the case from Angola to Afghanistan, neither Cuban nor Russian Communism has brought Utopia or even meaningful land reform, a buzz word with "liberation" movements, any closer. While it can be argued that both the ruling regimes, and the U.S., have failed to respond to the region's needs, there is no evidence things are any better under Castro-type "People's Republics."

It may be recalled that President Carter, after sending four House members to observe conditions in Nicaragua, pushed for a $75 million loan-grant to that nation. In order to make the U.S. taxpayer funds available, Mr. Carter had to say that to the best of his knowledge "the Government of Nicaragua has not cooperated with or harbors any international terrorist organization or is aiding, abetting, or supporting acts of violence or terrorism in other countries."

Despite much evidence to the contrary, the President made the statement on Sept. 12 of last year and some of the funds which Washington hoped would help bolster the more moderate business community in Nicaragua were released.

IN THE MONTHS since, Nicaragua has moved even closer to Cuba.

In El Salvador, the battle for control has intensified. In Nicaragua, the business community is all but immobile in its efforts to maintain a voice in the Marxist-oriented Sandinistas ruling junta.

In neighboring Guatemala, the fires of "liberation" burn ever nearer to what is definitely a pro-American land which depends heavily on U.S. tourism for its livelihood.

Of more importance, Mexico, deeply concerned with events to the South, has noticeably shifted to a more accommodating arrangement with both Cuba and Nicaragua. This includes, it is claimed, the sale of banned U.S. equipment to Cuba and oil to both nations.

And while President Reagan is making an obvious effort to repair bridges with Mexico, the problems, from Mexico's coziness with Castro to the influx of aliens into the U.S., aren't simple.

WHAT DOES all this portend for America?

The ultimate effects of a Marxist Bloc, even loosely drawn, on America's southern doorstep can't be calculated, in political prestige, military and economic significance.

Ironically, the revolutionaries, even those who want no part of Marxist aid or ideology, are playing into Moscow's hands. In a pattern all too familiar in many unstable areas of the world today, certain church elements aid and abet the unrest, often in the name of land reform and human rights.

But the real irony, according to Time and Newsweek, is that while El Salvador's land reform program, actively backed by the U.S., has created coop farms for 386,000 peasants, it is bitterly opposed by both the left and right, the former because it defuses Marxist promises and weakens its rural base, the latter because it takes land from the nation's 14 wealthiest families.

Obviously, the U.S. for too long has neglected the area. And while there have been some recent bright spots, including the Jamaican election, the overall picture is a grim one. Even in the land of manana, the U.S. may awaken to learn that not only tomorrow, but today is too late.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

At my age, there are few things that excite me anymore.

Laundry that smells fresh doesn't do it. Neither does unclogging my nasal passages or checking out the men's underwear ads at Ward's.

But when I read about a tour of Swiss chocolate factories scheduled to leave New York March 21 and return on March 29, I became quite dizzy and had to lie down.

You are either a chocolate disciple or you're not. If you are, you are shameless in your lust for chocolate. When a stranger unwraps a candy bar and throws the wrapper in a trash can, you will snatch the paper, bury your face in it and lick like something wild until there is nothing left.

You will forget your station at parties and run an unwashed finger around the bottom of the cake plate to get to the excess icing.

You will lie to your children and tell them you washed the pan you made the fudge in when in fact you have hidden it in the oven to eat later.

Worse, you will pilfer bits of chocolate that you have no intention of sharing with anyone. (On a vacation once, I hid a piece of chocolate in the lining of my purse and when the kids saw me chewing on it, I told them it was a laxative.)

You are basically quite disgusting.

As far as I can see, the chocolate tour is a real breakthrough in travel. I have felt for a long time that people have had it with fat angels on cathedral ceilings and statues white from pigeon droppings.

It's not too crazy to assume that soon there will be pub-crawling tours of Ireland, wine-tasting tours of France, and pasta tours of Italy. (Be still, my beating heart!)

But the Cadillac of tours is bound to be that select, elite group of pacemasters — the chocolate lovers. That rare breed of connoisseurs who leave New York each year as a single occupancy and end up nine days later as doubles. Those gutsy tourists who can finally come out of the closet where they've been eating cupcakes behind the storage bags and go public. Those fun-loving pilgrims who will bring elastic waistbands back into style. Who save their money all year to make the pilgrimage to Our Lady of Bad Skin.

And those who, when someone asks, "How did you find the Alps?" will answer, "It needs more sugar."

ANN LANDERS

Cancer Reports Upset Hysterectomy Patient

Dear Ann Landers: Last year at the age of 40 I had a hysterectomy. I felt fine after a few weeks and my life went back to normal — until I began to read all those terrible magazine articles.

Reports keep coming out that women who have had a great many sexual partners are especially vulnerable to cervical cancer. I was just sick when I read it for the first time. Now I am reading it more and more. This has made me feel ashamed when, actually, I have nothing to be ashamed of. I was married at 19, and my husband is the only sex partner I ever had.

In recent weeks this fact turned up both in Good Housekeeping and the Ladies Home Journal. What a stigma for those of us who have had to undergo this type of surgery, adjust to an early menopause and deal with the ever-present fear of more cancer.

Thank God, my husband is a loving, intelligent, trusting man. But what about the others who don't have husbands with these qualities? Please give them a word of encouragement, Ann. — Faithful Reader In The Bay Area

Dear Faithful: It is true that women who have had many sexual partners are more likely to have cervical cancer, but it does not mean every woman who had cervical cancer was promiscuous. You are living proof of this fact. So stop putting yourself (and others) in a bag where you don't belong.

Dear Ann Landers: Something occurred on a plane trip this week that disturbed me terribly. A young family sat in the seats ahead of us — parents plus babe in arms and a two-year-old boy.

The baby slept, but for the little boy the trip was just hell. He was tired and restless. The journey was a long one. The child became irritable and started to cry. His mother and father took turns slapping him for "misbehaving." Finally, the father shook the youngster as if he were a rag doll, plopped him on the seat and held him down until he cried himself to sleep.

We are a military family and have flown all over the world with our three children. We always carried storybooks and cuddly toys for them to hold while they were buckled in. It required very little effort, and our children were never a bit of trouble.

My husband was so upset by what he saw he asked me to say something to the child's mother before we got off the plane. I tried to get up the nerve but I was tongue-tied. If the occasion should arise in the future, what should I say? — A Reader From Fairfax, Va.

Dear Fairfax: I travel a great deal and have seen what you have described, both on planes and in airports. I have had no hesitation about saying to such parents, "Your child is not misbehaving. He is just overtired — like you. Please try to understand and be more patient."

Dear Ann Landers: I thought you'd like to know that the letter from the young man who was embarrassed about being "under-endowed" and signed himself "Rhode Island" created a sensation on the West Coast.

A Los Angeles columnist printed an item saying Milton Berle, who suffers from the same problem in reverse, wrote to Ann Landers and signed his letter "Alaska."

So now you are an overnight sensation. — A Gemini

Dear Gem: Gee, thanks. And to think it only took 25 years!

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (15 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Psychologist Believes Counseling For Couples Needed For Strength

By JACQUE HUTCHINS

Family News Staff
Lubbockites recently had the opportunity to learn more about the institution of marriage during a two-day seminar at the Lubbock Civic Center.

The "Family Affair Seminar" was conducted by J. Allan Petersen, founder and director of Family Concern, and Bruce Narramore, Christian psychologist and professor of Rosemead Graduate School of Psychology. The pair came here under the sponsorship of Lubbock Youth for Christ, local and area churches.

Petersen believes couples should become aware of possible problems ahead, working to more fully strengthen their marriages, instead of seeking avenues of help after the difficulties arise. He explained, "The seminar is not for people's marriages that are hanging on the edge, ready to fall apart." Because he feels it is good to prevent problems before they occur, these seminars are beneficial to couples contemplating marriage, newlyweds, singles and the whole family.

"People go into a marriage without any preparation. Now, some pastors insist that couples be counseled," Petersen said. He argues that counseling is important, but he does not necessarily advocate professional in-depth counseling. He does feel, however, that someone who has a personal background in dealing with marital problems, someone who has put some principals into practice, is qualified to assist.

"I wouldn't encourage anyone to share a serious problem with anyone, professionally or otherwise, who doesn't have their own act together," said Petersen, who has counseled hundreds of couples. Of the 20 million couples in the United States that are facing serious marriage difficulties, only five percent seek professional help from approved marriage counselors.

When choosing a counselor, he advises asking questions of the counselor first. "Ask the counselor what his basic feelings about marriage and divorce are," said Petersen.

He feels that it is vitally important to the children's development that parents have a good, strong marriage. As he explained, parents are setting patterns for their children to follow in their future marriages. "Parents must recognize their style of parenting," he states. "Whether they are lenient, strict or whatever." Adding, "The average parents do not know what their style is. They do what their parents did." But through the seminars, people gain hope. "We want people to believe that whatever their situation, it can be improved," Petersen said.

Petersen knows there is hope for maintaining a sound marriage. He has traveled extensively in every part of North America and many countries abroad, speaking in over a thousand cities and conducting 600 church and community campaigns and seminars. He has addressed denominational groups of all types, military conferences stateside and overseas, and scores of colleges.

Petersen also helps couples through his daily radio series.

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠KQJ52 ♠AQ65 ♣92 ♣K2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

3 ♣ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

What action do you take?

A.—You made a game try by bidding three hearts. Partner rejected it, in effect saying that he has a minimum raise and no help for you in hearts. If you now bid four spades, you are stating that your three heart bid was pointless. Pass.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠K3 ♠AK762 ♣973 ♣AJ5

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

3 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Game is a virtual certainty, but we do not think you should tamely bid four hearts and rule out all thoughts of slam. There are many hands that partner could have where a slam would be laydown, especially since you possess a key honor in his suit. No harm will come if, on the way to four hearts, you stop off to cue-bid four clubs.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AJ752 ♠J7 ♣AQ65 ♣94

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 ♣ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Since partner is a passed hand, you should not entertain any thoughts of game. Therefore, your concern is to come to rest in the safest part score. You now that you have a combined trump suit of at least seven cards if you play in hearts — but you don't know what the spade holding might be. Pass.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AQ103 ♠A7 ♣854 ♣J972

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has shown an excellent hand by reversing into hearts, and you could have great things in store, depending on partner's diamond holding. Flash the slam signal — jump to four clubs. A bid of only three clubs would sound like mere preference. Don't worry about bypassing three no trump — it's not your intent to play there anyway.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠762 ♠KQ5 ♣962 ♣AJ94

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♣ 1 ♣ ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Given the opportunity, failure to make a bid that describes your hand accurately is a crime. A bid of one no trump here shows a balanced hand with at least one stopper in the opponents' suit and about 8-10 points. Isn't that what you have?

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J6 ♠AK1072 ♣AK83 ♣85

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♣ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 ♣ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

What action do you take?

A.—As far as your partner is concerned, you could easily be void in spades because you have shown nine or ten cards in the red suits.

Therefore, he must have a pretty good spade suit to rebid it instead of taking a preference to one of your suits. The fact is that you have a very good hand for him — prime values and a filler in trumps. We would in vite game by raising to three spades.

Two Autograph Sessions Set To Kick Off Sale Of Book Detailing Hospital's History

"The First Sixty-Two Years, a History of Methodist Hospital, Lubbock, Texas," written by Louise Allen and Emil Carmichael, has been completed and will go on sale during two autograph sessions.

The 265-page, hardbound book with 150 photographs is priced at $10 plus tax.

The first autograph session will be Friday from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. in Hemphill-Wells downtown store. Another session will be Saturday from 1-5 in the South Plains Mall store.

Beginning Sunday the book will be on sale in the Auxiliary Gift Shop in Methodist Hospital.

The authors, both Lubbock residents, have chronicled the years of the hospital's continuous growth since it opened as Lubbock Sanitarium Jan. 1, 1918, in downtown Lubbock at Broadway and Avenue L.

"Methodist Hospital has a history of 62 years of exciting, progressive growth, years filled with interesting events needing to be recorded in book form," explains George M. Brewer, hospital president.

"A search for someone to write this history began as the hospital participated in the nation's Bicentennial with historical programs and exhibits in 1976 and again as the institution observed its 'Diamond Jubilee 60th Anniversary Year' in 1978. Two highly qualified writer-journalists, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Carmichael, members of the Methodist Hospital Auxiliary, volunteered their time and talents," Brewer continued.

The text covers the years of the hospital as Lubbock Sanitarium, Lubbock General Hospital, Lubbock Memorial Hospital and as Methodist Hospital. Photographs include several made inside the building soon after it opened in 1918. All names in the book are listed in the index.

The authors begin with a description of the Plains area as homesteaders arrived and created the setting for the hospital which has helped serve the health care needs of people of West Texas and Eastern New Mexico from the time a doctor would travel all night by horse and buggy to reach a patient to the time a patient's heart beat can be seen and heard on a television screen.

Chapters in Part I of the book are: Early Days in Lubbock Medicine, the In-Between Years, the Change Over (1953-1954), Time of Transition, Bricks and Mortar, The Impossible Dream (1970-1980), Running the Store, and Telling the Story.

Chapters in Part II are: Volunteerism, the Chaplaincy, Nursing, Educational Programs, and Patient Care Services.

The Appendixes include a complete description of the hospital a few weeks after it first opened; biographical notes on early physicians; information concerning the medical staff, board of trustees and donors, and an appendix describing experiences of Charles Sedberry during his 44 years as chief of the hospital.

Mrs. Allen retired as associate professor of journalism emeritus, Texas Tech University. She is the author-editor of "Line of Splendor," a history of St. John's United Methodist Church in Lubbock. She is the co-author of the textbook, "Radio and Television Continuity Writing."

She has written a regular column, "Lipstick Logic," for magazines and newspapers, and was information assistant and catalog editor for Texas Tech. She writes and edits newsletters for her church, St. John's, and the Lubbock Symphony Guild. She studied at Southern Methodist University and the University of Missouri.

Mrs. Carmichael retired as news writer for Information Services at Texas Tech after completing ten years with the university. She wrote general news and special assignments in music, drama and cultural events. For eight years, she was general news reporter and education editor of the Avalanche-Journal.

She has been a regional editor for the Portales, N.M. Tribune and author of the column, "Tales by Lantern Light." She has worked for newspapers in Amarillo, Canyon and Pampa. She is communications chairman at St. Matthew United Methodist Church.

She attended West Texas State University in Canyon and graduated from the University of Missouri.

LOOKING OVER WORK — Mrs. Louise Allen, at left, and Mrs. Emil Carmichael, at right, look over a copy of their book, "The First Sixty-Two Years, A History of Methodist Hospital, Lubbock, Texas." The book will go on sale soon.

CHRONICLES PROUD HISTORY

Labor Of Love Details Growth

By JEANNE LIVELY
Family News Staff
"The First Sixty-Two Years, History of Methodist Hospital, Lubbock, Texas," by Louise Allen and Emil Carmichael (Department of Development and Public Relations, Methodist Hospital, $10)

The proud history of Methodist Hospital has been chronicled by two local writers, Louise Allen and Emil Carmichael. Obviously, theirs was a labor of love in carefully researching each step in the development of Methodist Hospital from its earliest beginnings to the stature it now has become.

In reading this book, one is immediately conscious of the fact that as more people flocked to the fledgling town and county of Lubbock, so grew the demands of the new settlers for community services — particularly that of medical care.

Fortunately, as recounted by the authors, a few physicians were willing to sacrifice to come to the newly-opened county. Among them were Dr. William J. Hunt who came from Estacado and thought to be the first physician to practice in Lubbock; Dr. J.A. Pharr, who served as county physician and county officer (1900); and Dr. L.C. Wayland, who operated a drug store briefly but moved to Plainview in 1901 when he finished his medical training.

When Dr. M.C. Overton arrived in 1901, Dr. Pharr was the only physician in town. But Dr. G.S. Blake arrived later that year, followed by Dr. O.H. Westlake in 1904. In 1905 Dr. P.D. Reynolds arrived to practice in Lubbock.

To say these early-day physicians made sacrifices is putting it mildly. Although pioneer doctors practiced some from their offices, more often they made house calls in the homes of patients. Traveling by buggy or on horseback, armed with scores of bottles of medication in their little black bags, they might travel as much as 100 miles in any kind of weather to treat a patient and return to Lubbock.

Doctors also were frequently called out to see patients at ranches or line camps. Dr. W.L. Baugh, another early physician, usually carried three medical bags in his buggy — one for medicine, one for surgery and one for obstetrics. According to longtime physician, Dr. A.C. Surman of Post, "There was no prenatal care, and no Caesarian deliveries, so obstetric instruments were not very good."

Scalpels, forceps, probes for bullets were among the doctor's stock-in-trade. Operations were often performed on a farmhouse kitchen table, with a saturated cloth of chloroform (usually) to anesthetize the patient.

Dr. J.T. Hutchinson, who came to Lubbock in 1909, walked to make house calls in town. On one occasion, Hutchinson was heard to complain that because of the wooden sidewalks with broken-out planks he had to carry a lantern to avoid breaking a leg!

Although the book is rich in anecdotes of these pioneer doctors, emphasis — and rightfully so — is on the developing medical facility that in time became Methodist Hospital as we know it today.

From its earliest beginnings when a forerunner was established in 1917 by Drs. O.F. Peebler, Arvel Ponton and J.T. Hutchinson to present time, the authors have amassed an enormous — and thoroughly accurate — amount of factual information which is interestingly written.

Thus, what more can this reviewer say in praise of a book "Dedicated To All Men and Women Who Have Contributed To The Establishment and Continuing Service Of Methodist Hospital, Lubbock, Texas."

CANCER WORKSHOP — The Lubbock Chapter of the American Cancer Society is conducting workshops in local high schools, teaching girls how to practice monthly breast self-examination as a precaution against cancer. Most breast cancers are found by the women themselves; breast cancer in teenagers is, however, extremely rare. Woman Suffers From Ailment That May Result In Hysterectomy

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.
Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been to three different doctors, and all of them agree that I have endometriosis. Will you please explain this? Is the final outcome always a hysterectomy? Also, what is the difference between endometriosis and endometritis? — Mrs. P.M.

The uterus is a hollow structure whose inner lining roughly resembles the fur inside a glove. This lining is the endometrium, and its role is to make possible the growth of a fertilized egg. It is this lining that is shed during the menstrual period. So long as this lining tissue is in the uterus only, all is well.

Endometriosis means that bits of it have found their way to places where they don't belong — the ovaries, the intestines, the bladder, for examples. That out-of-place tissue responds to the woman's menstrual cycle the same way the endometrium does in the uterus — by bleeding. And it also may respond with pain during the menstrual period wherever it is located. Rectal bleeding, for example, can occur if the tissue finds its way to the rectum.

Treatment is keyed to the extent of the displaced lining tissue and its location. You ask about hysterectomy (removal of the uterus). In women who have completed their families, this is very often done and produces a cure. Where there is extensive disease, the ovaries, too, may be removed. Surgery is not the only form of treatment, but it apparently is considered the best form for you. To your last question, endometritis is inflammation of the uterine lining tissue I spoke of. An infection can cause that.

This answer should also be of interest to the other women readers who have written asking me to discuss endometriosis.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What does a doctor need to know when someone telephones in a report of an illness? — S.L.H.

If time allows, it is best to take a few minutes before calling to get your facts together. It helps if the doctor has some specific information. This will help him judge the seriousness of your illness. Let's take a bad cold as an example.

"I feel warm and have a cough" is not much to go on. Specify how high the temperature has gotten and how long you have been sick, what your sputum looks like when you cough it up, whether you are able to carry on your usual daily activities. He will also want to know what medicines you have tried. If you call when he is not able to get your records (as at a hospital) refresh him on your previous health problems and the medicines you may be taking for them.

Have ready for him the phone number of a pharmacy in case he wishes to call in a prescription for you. The more specific the information you have, the better he can judge your need to be seen right away.

If you have a family doctor, make a note of his office hours. Save the routine calls for those times. I am thinking of calls for renewal of prescriptions, etc. Calls at strange hours come with the territory, but not all are important. A friend tells me he was called at 2 a.m. by a patient who wondered at what time his next day's appointment had been scheduled.

Dear Dr. Donohue: If you eat 100 calories of cheese or some other high-protein food and 100 calories of something high in carbohydrates (like pasta) will the carbohydrate food put more weight on or is a calorie the same any way you look at it? — M.M.

A calorie is the same, whether it be carbohydrate, fat or protein. A pound of feathers weighs the same as a pound of gold.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am just curious. We have shots to give immunity to some viruses that cause flu. Are some people born with that immunity already in them, and does this explain why some people never get flu? — Mrs. R.W.

People may be born with antibodies to some varieties of the flu virus. But the virus changes regularly, and no one has immunity to all the virus changes regularly, and no one has immunity to all the virus varieties. My only explanation for a person's never having the flu is luck.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My second toe

(next to the big toe) was cut off in a lawn mower accident several years ago. This was on the right foot. Since that time my second finger on my left hand feels constantly cold. It is miserable in winter. Is there any connection? — C.G.M.

None I can come up with.

You can lose weight if you really want to! The booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents. Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

playing ace and queen. Sammy was careful to drop the six under the ace and hang on to that tiny deuce. Then he cashed the ace and jack of diamonds while West got rid of a spade.

Alan: "It looked like the bad diamond break had doomed Sammy to defeat since he could not get to dummy's hearts, but he found a way to get there. He cashed the ace of hearts and ace-king of spades."

Oswald: "West had chucked a spade on the third diamond and dropped a heart on the second spade. Now Sammy threw him in with that carefully preserved deuce of clubs. West took two clubs, but had to give dummy the last two tricks to give Sammy his contract."

Alan: "Note that Sammy got help. If West had not cleared the clubs when in at trick two and merely led a red card, this end play could not have been developed."

HINTS FROM HELOISE:

Commercial Iron Cleaner Works Best

DEAR HELOISE:

Is there any simple way to keep the bottom of an iron clean? Certain fabrics leave a residue on the iron which then causes it to stick to the next piece being ironed.

I'm really hoping you can help me 'cause, believe me, ironing with a gunky iron is really a drag (in more ways than one!) — Mrs. Bess Rose

There are several things you might try but, to me, the simplest, easiest and most effective is to use a commercial iron cleaner to remove the gunk.

Just go to the notions-counter of any large fabric store and buy a tube of iron cleaner. It sells for around a dollar. If they don't have it, ask them to order a tube for you.

Follow directions on the tube and you'll be amazed at how fast the crusty buildup disappears and at how smoothly the iron glides afterwards.

To my way of thinking, this cleaner is an absolute necessity for those who sew and use fusible interfacing. I can't think of anything that sticks to an iron faster when accidentally touched with a hot iron. The cleaner will remove even this sticky stuff in a jiffy.

If you would like to try a home remedy rub a paste of baking soda and water on the bottom of the iron (when it's cool of course) or try silver cream or very fine steel wool. (Don't use steel wool on a non-stick coated iron).

Rubbing the hot iron over wax paper will sometimes help to reduce the drag of an iron if the buildup isn't too great.

The above suggestions should put the zip back into the iron. Now if we just had a magic formula to put some zip into us when facing that big basket of ironing. — Hugs, Heloise

ORPHANED SOCKS

DEAR HELOISE:

When my children were small, I always had just one sock of a pair put in the laundry, so I taught them to stuff one sock into the other after taking them off.

Result? No more "orphan" socks. Saved money, time and temper! — Mary Louther

ROLLING PIN CARE

DEAR HELOISE:

After using your rolling pin, wipe it off with a dry paper towel, then place it in a bread wrapper. Seal with twisties and stick it in the freezer.

The rolling pin will be "seasoned" and will not stick to the dough nearly as much, plus saving all that time in washing it. — Frances Brill

STORAGE IDEA

DEAR HELOISE:

I use my heavy grocery bags for keeping newspapers and magazines bundled after I finish reading them.

This keeps them easy to handle and read whenever there is a paper drive. No need to bother with tying them up.

The brown bags are neat looking and can be stacked up well. — Mrs. Pauline Drobnica

MASHING YOLKS

DEAR HELOISE:

When mashing egg yolks for stuffed eggs, etc., cut the hard boiled eggs in half and put the yolks in a large strainer. Use the back of an old spoon to push them through the strainer.

This is much easier, faster and leaves no lumps as when mashing them with a fork. — Janice Heimberger

MIRROR TIP

DEAR HELOISE:

To prevent a heavy mirror on the wall from hanging forward, place a small kitchen sponge under each corner at the bottom edge.

The mirror will hang at an equal distance from the wall, won't mar it, and the sponge will stay in place. — Judy Geerdes

Have a tip on the fine art of hanging pictures, shelves, anything? Send it to Heloise care of 235 E. 45th, New York, N.Y. 10017. She can't answer your letter personally but you can be sure she'll use the best hints received in her column.

Asthma Program To Inform Parents Of New Treatment

LEVELLAND (Special) — Lubbock pediatrician Dr. John Iaccone will discuss asthma and how it affects the family Feb. 10 during a preliminary Parents Night meeting.

The 7:30 p.m. session at the South Plains College Lubbock campus will kick off a free 10-week program for children ages 8-12 with asthma. Progressive exercises, games and education about the physiology of asthma are designed to give asthmatic children "self-help" skills on coping with the disease, according to Laura Flagg, coordinator of the SPC Lubbock respiratory therapy program. It is co-sponsored by SPC Lubbock and the American Lung Association of Texas.

"The Family Asthma program is not designed to take the place of medical therapy and supervision," said Flagg, who will be assisted in the program by SPC respiratory therapy students. "Children will need written permission from their physician to participate in the program."

For more information, interested persons should contact Flagg at SPC Lubbock, 747-0576 or 747-8111.

Soviets Attack U.S. Attention On Afghanistan

By The Associated Press
The Soviet Union declared Sunday that U.S. "imperialists and their yes-men" were trying to undermine the non-aligned movement by distracting attention to Afghanistan.

Moscow made the charge on the eve of the four-day conference of non-aligned nations in New Delhi, India. Key issues expected to be debated by the foreign ministers from about 90 nations are the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, Vietnamese troops in Cambodia and the Iraq-Iran war.

Government security agents in New Delhi distributed court orders Sunday night forbidding Afghan refugees from demonstrating during the conference. An Afghan spokesman said the refugees hoped to have the ban overturned in time for a march today when the conference opens. A declaration drafted by the host Indian government for consideration by the ministers reaffirmed the non-aligned movement's "struggle against imperialism, colonialism, neo-colonialism, apartheid, racism, including Zionism and all forms" of foreign aggression, occupation, domination or interference.

Before leaving Tehran on Sunday, Iranian Executive Affairs Minister Behzad Nabavi said Iran would ask the conference to condemn Iraqi President Saddam Hussein for his "aggression" against Iran, according to Tehran Radio.

Nabavi said Iran would ask the conference to suspend Iraq's membership until its forces were withdrawn from Iran. He rejected any suggestion of mediation by the conference, saying no such discussion could occur while Iraqi forces remained in his country.

Iraq's foreign minister, Saadoun Hammadi, also attending the New Delhi conference, said Iraq would respond favorably to any peace-making bid by the non-aligned nations, according to the official Iraqi news agency.

Last month, Iran refused to attend an Islamic Conference summit meeting in Taif, Saudi Arabia, because of Iraq's presence.

In Moscow, the Communist Party newspaper Pravda said U.S. "imperial-ists" were trying to steer the non-aligned nations from "the main highway of the struggle for peace and international security."

The article spoke of attempts to "forcibly impose on the non-aligned movement a discussion of the so-called Afghan question."

Pravda said that "under the flag of fighting terrorism, American imperialism is carrying on a global attack against the national liberation movement and against everything forward-looking and progressive in the world."

The Reagan administration has accused the Soviet Union of fostering international terrorism.

Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev, in a message to the conference for the movement's 20th anniversary Tuesday, expressed his support and made no mention of Afghanistan.

The Soviet Union moved about 85,000 troops into Afghanistan in December 1979 to support the Marxist regime in that country in its battle against Moslem rebels.

Immigration Officials Resume Crackdown Despite Protests

DALLAS (AP)—Despite protests from Hispanic leaders, U.S. immigration officials say they will conduct more raids on workplaces in search of illegal aliens. The searches, which were suspended last year to encourage census participation, resumed in Dallas last week.

William Chambers, regional director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, said Saturday the more than 500 illegal aliens arrested last week in Dallas already have been returned to Mexico.

Chambers said local agents have been directed to conduct more raids looking for alien workers.

At the request of the Census Bureau, the Justice Department placed a moratorium last March on on-the-job searches for illegal aliens. The ban was lifted in January, but Chambers said local INS investigators did not resume the crackdown until a week ago.

The raids drew criticism from Ruben Bonilla of Corpus Christi, president of the League of United Latin American Citizens.

"In order to mound up 500 people, they disrupt the work site, disrupt families, break up the family unit in many cases and, from a constitutional standpoint, they infringe on the rights of American citizens who are of Mexican origin," Bonilla said.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write to Heartline, 114 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45387. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.)

HEARTLINE: Last month, right before Christmas, our home was burglarized and many gifts we had for family and friends were stolen. At any other time, this would have been very upsetting, but because of the time of the year and the purpose for which these items were purchased, it was even more distressing. I don't ever want this to happen to me again. Could you please find out the advice of the experts in this field in making our home more burglar-proof? We would be very grateful and you can be sure that we would follow any advice to the letter. P.Y.

ANSWER: There are really three areas of consideration in making your home a less likely target for burglary. The first is to make your home less attractive and easy-looking to the burglar. Most burglars would rather not break into a home where he is in plain sight of neighbors and passers-by and has no place to hide. If you have bushes or trees concealing your doors or windows from view from any angle, prune them or remove them. Install and use an outside light at night. A 40-watt bulb near exterior doors provides security that is well worth the small added expense. Make your home appear occupied at all times. This can be accomplished by making sure that no mail or newspapers are allowed to accumulate. Consider installing a mail slot in your door instead of using a mailbox, or have neighbors pick up your mail and newspapers if you are going to be away from home. If you are going to be away for the evening, consider purchasing an inexpensive automatic timer to turn on lights in the house after dark. And always draw blinds or draperies at night and leave a nightlight burning in a different room each night. You can also use an automatic timer to turn a radio or television on and off when you are away.

Divide your age with care. Start a physical project. Do it easily today.
Charged at feeling. You are a good heart. You tend to boast.
Delay creation. Values. Your memory is sharp. Double-check everything.

Step 1 — Year of birth. Read down the left hand column to find the last number in the year of your birth then go across to the appropriate decade. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Earth Man Dies In Bailey Shooting; Relative Held

MULESHOE (Special) — A 75-year-old Earth man died at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock Sunday afternoon as a result of gunshot wounds sustained in an altercation here. A 66-year-old relative of the dead man was in custody following the incident.

Omer D. Kelton was pronounced dead at the hospital by Lubbock County Justice of the Peace L.J. Black, who ruled the death a homicide. No autopsy was ordered, and the dead man was transported to Ellis Funeral Home in Muleshoe, where services are pending.

According to Bailey County Sheriff Bob Henderson and Muleshoe acting police chief Jerry Hicks, the incident occurred shortly before 10 a.m. near the county courthouse. Henderson said the shooting stemmed from a long-standing feud between the men, believed to have begun several years ago in a dispute over a land deal.

Henderson said the men were in separate pickup trucks when the first shots were fired.

The sheriff said Kelton was driving on FM 214, apparently en route to church. "He had his Bible lying on the seat," Henderson said.

The assailant apparently drove near Kelton and fired shots at his truck with a .38 caliber revolver. The shots missed Kelton, but struck the truck window.

Kelton then drove his truck to the nearby sheriff's office and got out, apparently to summon aid from the law enforcement personnel.

Henderson said the assailant pursued Kelton in his truck, got out and fired three shots at him. Black said Kelton was shot in the head, side of the chest and shoulder. Henderson said at least one shot was fired after Kelton fell to the ground.

"He just came on in (to the sheriff's office) and sat down and told the jailer he had just killed a man," Henderson said of the suspect.

Hicks said city police arrested the suspect soon afterward.

Kelton was transported by Muleshoe Ambulance Service first to West Plains Medical Center here but subsequently was removed to the Lubbock hospital, where he died at 2:22 p.m.

The assailant is in the Bailey County jail awaiting arraignment, which may come today.

Closed-Circuit Jail Viewing Non-Sexist

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (AP) — This city intends to have police officers of both sexes monitor jail cells of males and females on closed-circuit television.

The city council last week authorized installation of TV cameras in four cells for females at a cost of $2,600 in the new municipal complex.

City Manager Samuel J. Addeo said a woman, Special Officer Cynthia Shebell, normally on the 4 p.m. to midnight shift, will be expected to watch men and women prisoners on a TV console, and male officers will monitor screens on other shifts.

CAREERS

By JOYCE LAIN KENNEDY

Dear Joyce: Could you tell me about finding a summer job working for the government this year? I'm a college student.

— T.R., Phoenix.
For federal jobs, apply early and often. Some application deadlines have passed; others are March 15 to April 15. You file your application at all the agencies where you would like to work, not a central clearinghouse. All summer jobs are very competitive. Two print information sources can help:

"Summer Jobs," Announcement 414, gives over-all rules. It's available from the United States Office of Personnel Management's Federal Job Information Centers. If you can't find a center, ask a librarian for help.

A roundup of opportunities nationwide is in the annual summer jobs issue of Federal Jobs, Box 1438, Leesburg, Va. 22075. A copy of this commercial publication is available for $1 while supplies last. Enclose a self-addressed label.

For other leads, check the mayor's office, the public job service and city and state civil service offices.

Other publications list vacation jobs in public and private sectors.

Writer's Digest Books, 9933 Alliance Road, Cincinnati, Ohio 45242, publishes the "Summer Employment Directory of the U.S. 1981," the "1981 Directory of Overseas Summer Jobs" and a directory new this year, "1981 Internships." If they're not in bookstores, write to the company for prices.

"Seasonal Employment" is a free booklet from the National Park Service, U.S. Department of Interior, Room 2217, 18th and C Sts. N.W., Washington 20240.

A number of summer internships for college students are suggested in several publications of the National Society for Internships and Experiential Education, Suite 601, 1735 Eye St. N.W., Washington 20006.

What about theme parks? In addition to being a cashier, guide or ride operator, students with performing talents can work in live shows. Auditions usually run from January to May; a list of possible employers is given in the "National Directory of Theme Parks and Amusement Areas," available only by mail for $2.95 from Pilot Books, 347 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10016.

Burger Criticizes Defendants' Rights

HOUSTON (AP) — Too much concern for the rights of criminal defendants may be nourishing America's growing crime rate, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said Sunday.

In a forceful speech to the American Bar Association, here, Burger said the nation's criminal justice system "at every stage cries out for change."

"Crime and the fear of crime have permeated the fabric of American life, damaging the poor and minorities even more than the affluent," the nation's top-ranking judge said.

"Like it or not, today we are approaching the status of an impotent society whose capability of maintaining elementary security on the streets, in schools and for the homes of the people is in doubt," he said.

Burger said statistics show that in 1980 there were more criminal killings among the 650,000 Washington, D.C., residents than among the 12 million residents of Sweden and Denmark.

"And Washington is not unique," he said. "From New York City to Los Angeles to Miami, the story on increase in violent crime from 1970 to 1980 is much the same."

Burger said that, as one part of the criminal justice system, the nation's courts must share the blame.

"To change this melancholy picture will call for spending more money than we have ever before devoted to law enforcement," he said. "And even this will be for naught if we do not re-examine our judicial process and philosophy with respect to finality of judgments."

"Nowhere Else"

He added: "The search for perfect justice has led us on a course found nowhere else in the world. A true miscarriage of justice, whether 20, 30 or 40 years old, should always be open to review. But the judicial process becomes a mockery of justice if it is forever open to appeals and retrials of errors in the arrest, the search or the trial."

ABA President William Reece Smith of Tampa, Fla., said the speech was "bold, courageous, and quite innovative."

Dorothy Samuels, director of the New York chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, criticized Burger for using the crime problem as a "political opening to push long-held views in opposition to procedural safeguards that protect all in society from illegitimate police activity."

Burger has long opposed the so-called "exclusionary rule" and other legal doctrines that do not allow criminal convictions to stand when mistakes, even technical ones, were committed by police or the courts.

No Protection

"Is a society redeemed if it provides massive safeguards for accused persons, including pre-trial freedom for most crimes, defense lawyers at public expense, trials and appeals, retrials and more appeals almost without end and yet fails to provide elementary protection for its decent, law-abiding citizens?" he asked.

More and better-trained law enforcement officers, a crackdown on pre-trial release of accused criminals, speeding up the trial process, limiting criminal appeals, and prison reform are needed, Burger said.

"What I suggest now ... is to survey the wreckage and begin a damage control program ... It is as much a part of our national defense as the Pentagon budget," he said.

21 Greeks Die In Accident year-old Dimitri Sigalas.

"As I was coming out, the door stayed shut and people started falling on each other. That's when I passed out," said Savvas Savvidis, 16.

Ioannis Ioannou, 18, who suffered several broken ribs, said, "I couldn't understand what was happening. I was on the way out and guys started tumbling on top of me."

"They were making such a row they couldn't hear the shouts of the people at the doors, and they couldn't see them because of the turn in the corridor," the police spokesman said.

When the doors gave way, those closest to the gate were crushed underneath the stampeding crowd.

Greek radio and television broadcast appeals for doctors and blood donors to go to Piraeus hospitals.

A similar accident occurred in 1971 at Ibrox Stadium in Glasgow, Scotland, when more than 60 fans were killed after a stairway collapsed under the weight of a crowd for a game between the two Glasgow soccer rivals, Celtic and Rangers.

and the union, the Warsaw regime said an investigation of Poland's most prominent dissident organization, the Committee for Social Self Defense (KOR), showed it was engaged in foreign-supported "anti-state activities."

Both actions came one day before a crucial meeting of the Communist Party Central Committee to discuss Poland's independent unions and "the shaping of their socialist character."

The official PAP news agency said KOR, many of whose members belong to Solidarity, "is supported by foreign centers of political subversion, which deliver all technical and financial means and support the anti-socialist activity of the organization."

Political Plot Claimed

Top government and Communist Party officials have warned with increasing frequency that "anti-socialist" elements in Solidarity were trying to turn the union into an opposition political party.

KOR leader Jacek Kuron, a frequent target of official attacks, has been a close adviser to Solidarity leader Lech Walesa, who has said the union would not permit attacks against KOR.

The announcement of the attorney general's investigation of KOR came shortly after union and government officials resumed talks in Jelenia Gora on a Solidarity demand that an Interior Ministry rest house in the southwestern industrial province be turned into a public hospital until one is built in 1984.

Solidarity leaders, fresh from winning the ouster of four allegedly corrupt officials in Bielsko-Biala with an 11-day province-wide strike, had threatened to stage a similar general strike today in Jelenia Gora over the rest house issue.

The talks recessed after two hours so government negotiators could confer with Warsaw, and Walesa in a telegram to Interior Minister Gen. Stanislaw Milewski said a decision to call off the strike depended on an agreement.

Besides the threatened strikes in Jelenia Gora, Solidarity branches in four neighboring provinces have called a two-hour protest strike for Thursday unless agreement is reached by then.

A government team led by Deputy Administration Minister Jan Jablonski met with the national Solidarity leadership, which earlier met in extraordinary session in an attempt to resolve the crisis.

Crucial Week Foreseen

The negotiations came at the start of what is expected to be a crucial week of reckoning for Poland.

Besides the Communist Party Central Committee meeting set for today, the Supreme Court is expected to rule Tuesday on the legalization of the Rural Solidarity farmers' union, and the Parliament is to begin a two-day session, Thursday.

Solidarity's deputy national chairman, Andrzej Gwiazda, called on local chapters all over the country to stage a one-hour strike at noon today to show support for the Rural Solidarity movement.

Workers at factories in the southeast town of Rzeszow, where talks between a government commission and Rural Solidarity militants broke down Saturday, said they would stage a token 15-minute demonstration in support of the farmers. Solidarity officials in Lublin said about 50 selected factories in five eastern provinces would stage hour-long warning strikes.

Solidarity has threatened other strikes if Rural Solidarity is not legalized. Activists in Rzeszow say peasant supporters plan to converge on Warsaw for the Tuesday court session to press the issue.

Strike By 300,000 Poles Slated Today

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Last-minute talks between the government and the Solidarity union collapsed Sunday, and a union spokesman said a general strike by up to 300,000 workers in southwestern Poland would take place as planned today.

A Solidarity spokesman said the on-again, off-again negotiations in the southwest province of Jelenia Gora "were broken off and postponed without indicating when they would be resumed again."

"That means that tomorrow we will go on strike as it was planned previously," he said.

"It means confrontation," he added.

He said about 450 factories, as well as public transport and other services, will be affected.

Other strikes and protests were planned today in eastern and southern Poland in support of a Rural Solidarity independent farmers union.

Tehran, Paris said.

The court ruled that the prison term begin last May 5 — the day she was arrested by revolutionary guards at her room in the Tehran Hilton Hotel.

Hunt For "Agents"

Iranian militants had announced a nationwide hunt for American "agents" they believed were linked to the aborted hostage rescue mission, 10 days earlier, and Tehran newspapers said Mrs. Dwyer was accused of spying for the CIA. The report never was confirmed officially.

News of Mrs. Dwyer's imminent release came first from a spokesman at Tehran's Evin Prison, where she has been held. The report was confirmed by the State Department and by Swiss officials who represent U.S. interests in Iran.

Swiss diplomats in Tehran said they were still discussing Mrs. Dwyer's case with Iranian authorities and could not confirm that she would be expelled Monday.

According to a report in the Iranian newspaper Ettelat, the prosecutor at Mrs. Dwyer's trial last Wednesday implied she had known in advance of the failed April 25 U.S. commando raid.

Fictitious Plot

Ettelat, the only Iranian newspaper to give an account of the trial, quoted the prosecutor as saying she was drawn into a fictitious plot hatched by revolutionary guards who made up a story about an armed band of students who wanted to free the hostages; that she agreed to help and tried to obtain guns and radio equipment to contact the United States.

Mrs. Dwyer's husband, chairman of the English Department at the state college in Buffalo, N.Y., has maintained throughout his wife's imprisonment that she was not a spy, that she was sympathetic to the Iranian revolution and went to Iran because she felt the U.S. news media were providing a one-sided view of Iranian events.

The day after his wife's trial, he said she had been the victim of a "clear-cut case of entrapment."

FOREIGN INVESTMENT UP

NEW YORK (AP) — Foreign investment by American manufacturing companies increased by more than 50 percent from 1979 to 1980, according to a report released Sunday by The Conference Board.

BONDS SET—Mary Patricia Kadlubowski, 27, of Denver, Colo., stands before Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalock early Sunday, charged with possession of heroin and possession with intent to distribute the narcotic. Joseph Eloy Chavez, 43, of Lubbock was arraigned moments earlier, and the judge set their bonds in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. The man and woman both were arrested about 7 p.m. Saturday at the culmination of an intensified undercover investigation by the federal Drug Enforcement Administration, the Lubbock County Criminal District Attorney's office and the Lubbock Police Department. (Staff Photos by Milton Adams) erring around the Auburn Avenue house and two apartments on 18th and Fifth streets, agents followed three 1979 Ford Thunderbirds almost non-stop the last two weeks.

Agents finally stopped a green Thunderbird, registered to an Arlington woman but driven by Cardenas, at the intersection of Fourth Street and Avenue X about 6:30 p.m. Saturday. Officers confiscated the balloons of suspected cut heroin, each of which sells on the street for $30, from the vehicle.

Cardenas was taken to the downtown DEA office, where agents arrested him at 8:30 p.m., then booked him at the Lubbock County Jail five minutes later.

Warrants for the other three persons were issued, and Chavez and Miss Kadlubowski were arrested about 7 p.m. at 4304 18th St., Apt. 6. Confiscated at that address were two 30-caliber semi-automatic rifles, three .380-caliber Beretta automatics and several other guns.

Included in that haul were 310 rounds of .223-caliber bullets, 330 30-caliber rounds, 100 380-caliber rounds, 206 357-caliber rounds and three 25-caliber rounds.

Other agents moved to 1912 Fifth St., Apt. 4, where Cortez was arrested about 7:30 p.m. Saturday. Officers there confiscated about nine ounces of what they believe is pure heroin and nine ounces of suspected cocaine. Authorities said the white powdery substances are believed to have originated in Mexico.

Sources indicated Cardenas was taken into custody Saturday possibly as he drove to Lubbock International Airport to board a commercial flight to Houston. Those sources added that the other three were arrested possibly as they readied for similar flights.

But a chain of surveillance on a fifth suspect, believed to be a "money man," broke as the man reportedly boarded an already crowded commercial flight to Houston. Officers reportedly contacted federal DEA agents at Houston, but heavy metropolitan traffic there prevented agents from reaching the Houston airport before the man slipped through the Soviets Push Anti-U.S. Propaganda

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union, pressing its verbal campaign against the new Reagan administration, charged Sunday that America's leaders were mounting a "massive attack" against detente and that what it called U.S. "military hysteria" was encouraging a return to the Cold War.

Moscow Radio commentator Boris Andrianov told citizens that "the representatives of the new Washington administration, judging by their public statements, are unleashing a massive attack on the policy of detente."

"Washington is clearly taking a path aimed at violating the equilibrium of forces in the world and attaining military superiority for the United States and its allies," Andrianov said.

Hours later, official Soviet television showed film footage of U.S. battleships and combat aircraft preparing for missions as an announcer told viewers that "military hysteria" in the United States was encouraging a return to the Cold War.

The harsh treatment of the United States by the government-controlled media indicated the Soviet Union plans no concessions to win favor with the Reagan administration.

The Reagan administration has postponed its original plan to lift the grain embargo against the Soviet Union.

Information concerning a Thursday business burglary will bring a $300 reward from Crime Line.

Police went to Submatic Irrigation Systems at 8:40 a.m. Thursday, where the victim told them burglars had broken in between 6 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday morning.

Taken was an olive briefcase containing assorted papers and a Smith and Wesson blue steel .22-caliber automatic model 61 pistol, serial number B-59248; a 50-foot oxygen hose and torch; an 18-inch long and 12-inch wide tool box with assorted tools; a five-gallon Army-type gas can, two desk calculators and two portable hand calculators. Loss was estimated at $1,200.

A $300 reward is offered for information concerning fugitive Mary Alice Gutierrez, wanted in connection with two counts of forgery. She is described as a Mexican female, age 62 to 63, 5 foot 3, 110 pounds with black hair and brown eyes.

Information concerning fugitive James David Bridgers, 27, will bring a $300 reward from Crime Line.

Described as a 5 foot 9 white male with brown hair and blue eyes and weighing 137 pounds, he has been filed on for organized crime.

PIG ROAST?—Firemen with the Roosevelt Volunteer Fire Department doused a Sunday afternoon blaze that destroyed a home and at least two vehicles parked nearby at a cluster of hog pens on FM 2641 just west of Boys Ranch Road in north-east Lubbock County. Firemen were about to contain the 4:25 p.m. fire from the surrounding pens filled with hogs, some interested, some oblivious. The owner of the home, the ruins of which smoldered for at least an hour, was undetermined late Sunday. (Staff Photo by Milton Adams) crowds, sources indicated.

The man reportedly carried a briefcase that officers believed carried an undetermined but presumed large sum of money.

Saturday's raid represents the culmination of 1981's first major narcotics investigation. A similar investigation completed last August resulted in the arrests of about 15 persons, most of whom were charged with delivery of heroin.

Evidence gathered in Saturday's investigation is expected to be presented to a state district court grand jury which will convene this week, a spokesman for the district attorney's office said Sunday.

Arrested Trio Suspected In Area Thefts

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A cooperative effort by law enforcement agencies to stop a burglary ring believed operating in at least four South Plains counties climaxed Sunday night with the arrests of three suspects.

The trio was stopped about 8:30 p.m. while leaving a rural residence in the northwestern part of Lubbock County. The men allegedly had kicked in the front and back doors of the home, about a mile south of FM 1294 and a mile east of North Frankford Ave.

When stopped, the men reportedly had in their van a stereo, television set, antique china hutch and silver taken from the home.

"This is a coordinated effort among Texas Rangers, Lubbock Police Department and Lubbock County Sheriff's Office," explained Sheriff D.L. "Sonny" Keesee in describing the move on the suspected burglars.

According to Keesee, one of the men was booked into the county jail Sunday night. He said the other two were released pending filing of charges.

"It looks like we're going to clear up burglaries in several surrounding towns and counties," Keesee said.

The sheriff said the trio is believed to have operated in Lubbock, Floyd, Hale and Crosby counties.

He said all enforcement officers had received "confidential information" regarding the possibility of a burglary of a rural home Sunday night on the county's northwest side. Acting on that tip, he said, officers were looking for the burglary suspects when their van was spotted.

Keesee said a concentrated effort would be made beginning today to locate items taken in other burglaries in which the trio is believed to have been involved.

Sayfa said that in the decade before the Communist Pathet Lao army swept into control of Laos in April 1975, he flew rescue missions for American fliers shot down over the Ho Chi Minh trail inside Laos.

During this period, the CIA trained and armed groups of Hmong tribesmen and other Laotians who helped in the jungle search for the downed Americans.

Sayfa said it is these searchers who are gathering in his office with their persistent reports of surviving American prisoners.

PBS Proposing Plan For Pay Network

NEW YORK (AP) — The Public Broadcasting Service is proposing a "Grand Alliance" partnership with the nation's top cultural and educational institutions in a pay TV network that would reach an estimated 360,000 families in its first year.

The Public Subscriber Network would feature performances by major orchestras and theater, dance and opera companies, as well as video-visits to museums and daytime programs produced by educational institutions, said Lawrence K. Grossman, PBS' president.

Family subscribers would pay from $10 to $13 a month for the service, with the sale of clustered, institutional messages to corporate underwriters supplementing the income from subscriptions.

The proposal is being reviewed by PBS stations, and will be presented to the system's directors next month. The system would start operations in 1983.

Reporters were briefed Friday about the plan, which is being announced on today.

At least three other pay-cable cultural networks already have been announced, including an independent operation called Bravo and systems supported by CBS and ABC.

Grossman noted that the CBS and ABC cable enterprises are advertiser-supported, and said, "We're putting the economics on a different basis. By virtue of the market and our close relationship in the past with that market, we will have a substantial advantage going in."

"It's a very do-able project," he said. "We're projecting a small but passionate and intensely loyal audience that will be willing to pay for our programs, as they pay for tickets to the Metropolitan Opera or the Joffrey Ballet."

Proposal of the "Grand Alliance" comes with government support of public TV on a steady decline, when inflation is taken into account. The Corporation for Public Broadcasting, which distributes federal and other funds to PBS and public TV stations, received $152 million from the federal government in fiscal 1980, and will get $162 million in '81.

A task force assembled for President Reagan's transition team concluded last month that the CPB should be abolished after 1983. There has been no official reaction to the report from the administration.

Many stations, however, already have begun to seek alternative means of support, like the sale of programs and services. For instance, New York's WNET, one of the system's major producing stations, unveiled in November a reorganization plan aimed at creating a pay-as-you-go operation.

The WNET plan envisioned income from the sale of cassette, cable, video disc and over-the-air subscription services — sources not traditionally associated with public television.

Grossman said public TV stations and the cultural and educational institutions involved in the Public Subscriber Network would be limited partners in the venture with a nonprofit corporation affiliated with PBS, but organized separately, as the general operating partner.

Stations would be asked to make capital contributions of about $20,000 each in the new network, while cultural institutions would invest about $5,000.

Eastwood Movie Tops $55 Million

BURBANK, Calif. (Special) — Warner Bros. "Any Which Way You Can," starring Clint Eastwood, has grossed a phenomenal $55,022,262 in five weeks and five days in release.

The film is now at the Fox Fourplex in Lubbock.

The film is slated for its next major break on Friday in 1500 theatres, followed by a major drive-in break on April 10.

"Any Which Way You Can" also stars Sondra Locke, Geoffrey Lewis and Ruth Gordon. The film, which was produced by Fritz Manes, was directed by Buddy Van Horn and written by Stanford Sherman, based on characters created by Jeremy Joe Kronsberg. Robert Daley served as executive producer.

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES Easing Taxes For Retirees

By RAY DE CRANE
(Sixth of 14 parts)

Some pension or profit-sharing programs give employees the option of receiving a lump-sum payment at retirement time instead of monthly pension checks for life.

If such a lump sum — which could amount to $100,000 or more for long-time employees — is used in some way by the employee, there is a sizeable income-tax consequence. All of the money becomes taxable income in the year it is received.

But there is a way to shield the money from any immediate tax while creating a tremendous investment opportunity for the recipient. This is done by making a rollover contribution to an Individual Retirement Account. This must be done within 60 days of receiving the lump-sum check.

When this is done, no tax is paid on the lump-sum settlement in the year in which it is received. Furthermore, all the earnings on the IRA are shielded from any income tax until withdrawals begin.

A full explanation of tax-sheltering options is provided in "Cut Your Own Taxes and Save," by Ray De Crane. To order your copy, send a check or money order for $1.50 (plus 50 cents postage and handling) to "Cut Your Own Taxes" c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Next: Moving expenses.

To qualify for this special rollover treatment, the lump sum must be from a qualified pension or profit-sharing program. In addition, it must be received as a result of one of these situations: the employee has retired or terminated his employment, the pension or profit-sharing plan has been terminated, or the employee has passed age 59 1/2 or had died and the surviving spouse is making the rollover.

A rollover works to its greatest potential if the employee can leave the money untouched for several years. At today's high interest rates, the funds in a rollover account can double in less than six years.

At age 70 1/2, the employee must start to make withdrawals from the IRA at a rate insuring that over the employee's life expectancy, or over the combined life expectancies of a husband and wife, the account will be exhausted.

In a typical example, the author has seen a rollover account grow from $120,000 to $285,000 in only nine years. Then, during the withdrawal phase, while compounded interest still did its work, a total of more than half a million dollars was withdrawn from an account that had only $285,000 in it when withdrawals began.

Next: Moving expenses.

Neil Diamond: His New Facet Is Acting

By MARY CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

Neil Diamond says, "One of my goals in life is, I want to try as many things as I can."

His current new thing is a movie-acting debut, in "The Jazz Singer" (now playing in Lubbock at the South Plains Cinema).

Diamond's parents, who saw one of the gala charity previews in December, liked it. Diamond says, "My father loved the idea that Laurence Olivier was playing his part. He thought it an excellent choice."

Al Jolson made "The Jazz Singer," the first talking picture, in 1927. He played the son of a cantor who wanted to be a black-face minstrel singer. Diamond says, "The songs he sang were famous before the film. He did all of his popular songs." Diamond hasn't seen Danny Thomas' remake of 1953.

Diamond plays Yussel Rabinovitch, son of a cantor, played by Lord Olivier. He wants to be a pop singer, Jess Robin. Diamond wrote 11 songs, five with Gilbert Beaud.

One of them, "Love On The Rocks," was number six and climbing on the best-selling chart of Dec. 27. "The Jazz Singer" soundtrack was number eight and climbing on the best-selling album chart of that date. Both are on Capitol Records.

Lord Delton, then head of EMI, attended a Toronto concert Diamond gave about three years ago. After it, Diamond says, "He came backstage and said, 'I want YOU for The Jazz Singer.'"

"I chickened out at least twice. Just fear of the unknown."

Diamond didn't take acting lessons but, until filming started in January 1980, he cornered every actor he knew and asked questions. And who gave him the best advice?

"Olivier. He told me I shouldn't be afraid to make a fool out of myself." Diamond says that helped him be less stiff.

"He sings in the film. His first question to me when we met was, 'would I teach him to sing the songs and help him with the songs. I said I would if he would help me with the acting.'"

And who benefited more from that trade? Diamond says, "Well, he is not singing professionally now and I am acting professionally, so I guess I got the better of it."

Diamond says, "He made acting easier for me because he was so good and experienced that I kind of felt very much at ease after the first couple of days of work."

"It's very easy to blend into the wallpaper, also. He tends to dominate and overpower. I had to be careful of that. The scenes themselves were a real pleasure to do because he was so good and he brought me up to that. Well, not up to his level. He made me look good."

Diamond says he sang the second duet of his career in "The Jazz Singer" with Lord Olivier. The first was "You Don't Bring Me Flowers" with Barbra Streisand.

"That came about by accident, about two years ago. I had recorded it. She heard it, liked it and recorded it. She did it in the same key and used the same arrangement. We started getting tapes from disc jockeys who had edited the two together. We loved it so we decided to go in the studio and do a duet right."

Diamond wrote "You Don't Bring Me Flowers" after he had bumped into TV producer Norman Lear at a party. Lear asked if he had a brilliant song Lear could use as a theme for "All That Glitters," a comedy about sex-role reversal in business, with women as executives and men as secretaries.

Diamond wrote a one-minute version, with Marilyn and Alan Bergman, a torchy lament to be sung by a man. Lear didn't like it so Diamond made it longer.

One idea for a future film for Diamond is based on the lyrics of that song, starring him and Miss Streisand. There also is talk of a sequel to "The Jazz Singer." His next movie effort probably will be "Death At An Early Age," in which he'll play a teacher in Boston in the late 1960s. He'll be happy not to have the responsibility for writing and performing songs as well as acting.

Diamond is now working on his next album and "getting itchy" to tour in early 1981. He doesn't repeat Jolson's "You ain't seen nothin' yet." But he does say, "I haven't written my opera yet."

Concert Time Corrected

The William Westney and Emilia Simone concert with the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra will begin at 8 p.m. today and Tuesday in the Civic Center Theater, not at 8:15 p.m. as previously reported. Ticket information is available by calling 762-4707.

Business & Industrial Review

WELL CONVERSION ACCLAIMED — Paul Drake of Lubbock Electric Co. is pictured with a unit after conversion to electricity. Note the compact V-belt drive for trouble-free operation, and the elimination of oversized engine.

Well Conversion To Electricity Minimizes Costly 'Down Time'

"Convert from engines to electric motors and minimize down time. Lubbock Electric, 1108 34th St., has custom-built, adjustable motor bases that will mount on your gearhead, giving you a compact, economical drive for your wells."

The experts at Lubbock Electric Co. can supply a base, motor (either new or rebuilt), drive, pumping panel, and wiring to replace engines on irrigation wells. Irrigation work can be done much more easily and efficiently if preparation has been made to put all irrigation equipment into operating order before the irrigation season starts; one then can be irrigating instead of repairing!

Lubbock Electric Co. has a stock of vertical hollow shaft pump motors, pumping panels and large industrial motors. It is the farmer's answer to all his irrigation needs for the 1981 crops.

Lubbock Electric Co. carries a complete stock of industrial power supplies and equipment in the electrical and mechanical field. Their stock includes a complete line of V-belts, sheaves, sprockets, power tools, fuses, bearings, flat belting, conveyor belting, air compressors and many other supplies.

They stock the following lines of new motors: Baldor, Century, Delco, Emerson, General Electric, Louis Allis, U.S. Motors, and Square D starting equipment.

Lubbock Electric carries a large stock of used motors for the convenience of its customers for exchange or loaner purposes. When a motor is needed in an emergency, they are ready in a moment's notice.

Lubbock Electric Co. also offers 24-hour service by expert repairmen who will repair or service equipment anywhere at any time. Lubbock Electric Co.

men have years of experience as well as periodic factory training.

"Lubbock Electric Co. is in business to stay. The men that work here know their future depends on your patronage. They also know that your patronage demands a just and honest effort at a just and honest price. They are depending on you and they ask that you depend on them."

Service — service through which the customer benefits most of all — is the watchword at Lubbock Electric Company.

"The number to call in your emergency is 744-2336."

SIGN-UP DEADLINE ARRIVES

B & I Pages Aid Buyer, Seller In Presentations

It is deadline time! Today is the announced final date to arrange for participation in the Business and Industrial (B & I) pages of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal during the spring and summer months ahead.

Next Monday begins a whole new series of presentations on these pages, including messages from businesses and services long represented in these columns and from others utilizing these pages for the first time. Will yours be included?

To get full details and to complete arrangements, see an Avalanche-Journal retail advertising salesman, or call 762-8844 (Extensions 334, 306 or 313) and a representative of the advertising department will explain the program in full, helping plan a schedule of comprehensive presentations in stories and pictures, together with ads that week after week carry their impact.

"These pages have a record of proven benefit to advertiser and customer alike. You, too, should benefit. Your own story can be told effectively, prominently, professionally and correctly on these pages in the activity-packed season ahead. Don't be left out; get full details now!"

"Haven't you said, in your own situation, that 'next time I'm going to be on the B & I pages'?"

Possibly your business associates have reported to you the effectiveness of this message medium, and readers often have expressed their appreciation and enthusiasm regarding the informative stories and ads.

"So... let's get down to business; now is the time to act!"

"Your business or service can be featured in pictures and stories in the unique B & I section, but only if action is taken before deadline.

Effectiveness of the program is proven. One businessman wrote: "We feel the article was excellent and we truly appreciate the time you devoted in emphasizing the points we felt needed extra attention."

Another actually reported: "The ad alone resulted in a $40,000 sale that made the cost insignificant."

And there are other testimonials; these are not isolated expressions of satisfaction.

"Cater Caddy" is another of the popular innovations of Southern Sea, the home-owned Lubbock firm affording still other services through its various departments... Southern Sea restaurants at 10th & Q and 73rd & Indiana, a superb catering service, new banquet and meeting room facilities at the Commander's Room, and good food and service without exception.

One rightfully can expect great things from Southern Sea... such as its delicious fried chicken, fish and other items on a thoughtfully varied menu, etc., and the "Cater Caddy" fits in handsomely with this concept of consideration.

Western Sizzlin Steak Houses

Proving 'Out-Of-The-Ordinary'

"Have you, too, discovered that Western Sizzlin Steak Houses in Lubbock are delightfully and deliciously out of the ordinary?"

Yes, the food is extremely good... at Western Sizzlin Steak Houses, 5202 50th St. and at 8301 Indiana Ave. This "goodness" and a lot of other factors contribute to the popularity and success of the establishments.

The following are random observations about why Western Sizzlin should be a regular habit with you, too!

Have you enjoyed one of the big 2 1/2-lb. baked potatoes? Yes, the so-good potatoes are "big," and the smallest a whopping 14 oz.!

Western Sizzlin in Lubbock (with R. L. 'Bob' York as local franchise owner) buys and cuts its own beef, with over a half million dollars worth purchased for the restaurants here during the year.

Total Control Process
Curtis Davis, with a deserved reputation throughout the state, has been with the Lubbock firm since its opening and is manager of the meat department of both city facilities. Davis supervises the cutting and trimming of the steaks here, emphasizing total control from purchase to serving. Only USDA Choice steak is served; every piece is weighed, every piece is inspected four times in the process from cutting to serving! None is frozen; storage is in coolers to retain the desired moisture.

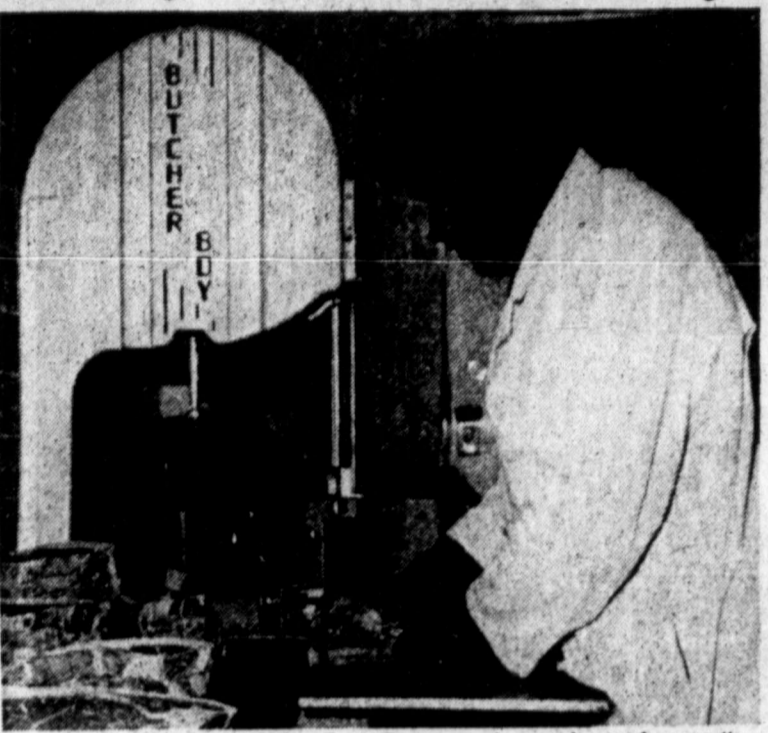

And what salads! Total quality control extends to this area of the food picture, too, at Western Sizzlin Steak Houses, with the salads prepared fresh daily. Sanitation is a foremost consideration, and not by accident. Work areas are hosed with 180-degree water nightly.

Customer-Oriented
Customers are invited to fill out the cards made available for comment regarding all aspects of the firm's food and service. York personally studies all submitted cards to better serve the customers whom he terms "the greatest." Any indicated problems are corrected immediately.

Prices at the Western Sizzlin Steak Houses in Lubbock invite comparison, too. For good food and good service, without exorbitant cost, one couldn't ask for more.

Luncheon and dinner hours are observed seven days a week.

Staff Excels
Skilled, dedicated management, together with a large staff of loyal and otherwise fully qualified staffmembers, round out the picture of the firm's capacity and record for service. Among the management staff, whose expertise and support made it possible for York to become involved in community affairs and attain honor as Lubbock's Restaurateur of the Year by the Texas Restaurant Association, are Lee Hertel, Jo Davis, Michael Schmidt, Lucy Scott and Tim Oakley.

HEADS MEAT DEPARTMENT — Curtis Davis supervises purchase and preparation of the fine beef served at the Western Sizzlin Steak Houses in Lubbock, exercising close supervision in a 'total control' concept of food preparation at the facilities probably best known for their USDA Choice steaks and giant baked potatoes.

With all this, it is small wonder that customers notice the "difference" at Western Sizzlin, "Lubbock's most popular family restaurants."

Furniture Restoration, Refinishing Repair Included In Expanded Service

The antique collector has a new friend at Finish-Off Stripping Center, 1922 Ave. E! New associate Don McBrayer is now directing expansion of services at Finish-Off to include complete furniture restoration, repair and refinishing.

McBrayer brings 20 years experience in professional refinishing to the business. He is the fifth generation to have followed in the family piano refinishing business. He explains that he began his involvement in furniture renovation as a youngster working alongside family members refinishing pianos.

"A 1929 picture is the earliest photograph of the family that I have. It shows 'McBrayer Brothers' painted on a 1925 Model-A and Model-T trucks used for the business, and grandpa, uncles and great uncles standing beside them." That picture was taken in Tullia, he pointed out. McBrayer has the 80-year family tradition behind his personal experience.

With his early introduction into refinishing work, McBrayer branched out into other related areas. His extensive experience includes designing, building and training personnel for commercial workshops. Besides completely rebuilding pianos, he worked fashioning the wooden frames for custom-designed harps commissioned worldwide.

For Unusual Jobs, Too
From such a diverse background, McBrayer gained varied experience and knowledge enabling him to tackle even the most unusual furniture renovation jobs. He is familiar with foreign as well as domestic finishes. He specializes in the difficult-to-achieve lacquer finishes. The various skills demanded by the numerous types of renovation have familiarized him with a broad scope of equipment, tools, materials and techniques.

He now brings his expertise to Finish-Off Stripping Center to offer a unique opportunity for Lubbockites and area residents to obtain completely professional and knowledgeable furniture restoration. The professional services provided through Finish-Off are particularly important to preserve the full value and beauty of any antique piece.

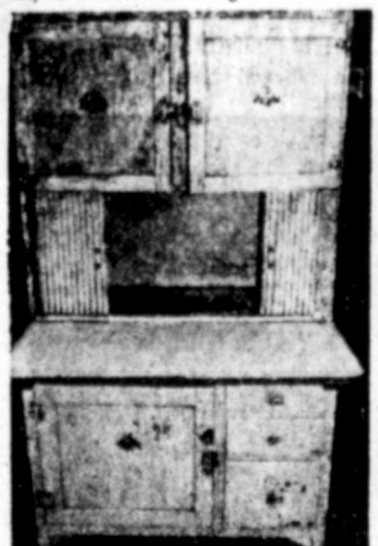

An antique enthusiast himself, McBrayer takes pride in the antiques he has collected during his travels. His quality craftsmanship and appreciation for antiques assures his restoration work will enhance and protect their integrity. He points out that when necessary, any rebuilding, replacement, repairing and even duplicating hand-carved details will be executed with greatest care.

'Let Us Help'
"If you have an article given up as hopeless because of fire damage, broken or missing pieces, or whatever — call 747-3938 to consult with Don and to get his suggestions. Or, bring your items by Finish-Off at 1922 Ave. E. Pick up and delivery are available. Regular shop hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, or you may call and arrange a time for your convenience."

The same fine services offered the do-it-yourselfer are still available at Finish-Off where their unique stripping process safely and thoroughly prepares almost any surface for refinishing.

VERTICAL BLINDS STRIKINGLY BEAUTIFUL, FUNCTIONAL

A & J Blind & Shade Shop Tells Variety In Products, Services

Vertical blinds were never more beautiful, practical and desired!

These beautiful blinds, in a great choice of colors and fabrics, can be yours at special low prices, thanks to A & J Blind & Shade Shop, 1917 19th St., phone 762-4013.

Of course, A & J Blind & Shade Shop has lots of other products and services, too, such as window shades and shutters by Joanna Western, the ever-popular mini-blinds, laminated shades, draperies, woven wood shades, venetian blinds and venetian blind repair.

The whole story is that in improving and redecorating the home in any season, A & J Blind & Shade Shop can be of valued service.

Not only is the firm a bonanza for quality and selection, but owner-operator Julius Ysasaga likes to save money for his customers whenever possible.

For whatever need at A & J Blind and Shade Shop, one is invited to call or come in for free estimates that are gladly given.

Quick service on draperies is one of the several advantages there.

Famous-brand lines are the rule in every product, including such familiar and respected names as Kirsch.

The shop continually has the greatest variety in window shades one could imagine, with over 50 colors in beautiful fabrics and patterns. For fullest enjoyment of the home — this spring and summer and for seasons to come — let A & J Blind & Shade enter the picture!

Deborah's Stages Storewide Sale Before Closing Business

Deborah's is going out of business, and the related sale underway affords bargains seldom seen.

It is a rare opportunity for the customer, with fashion dresses, sportswear, coats and accessories marked to move at 70 per cent to 85 per cent price reduction!

Everything must go. Much of the stock already has been cleared, but if one is fortunate enough to find desired size and style among items still on the racks, a once-in-a-lifetime purchase saving is enabled.

All this is at Deborah's, 4513 50th St., in Sunshine Square.

Some short style fur coats, sizes 8-12, are available.

Some long coats, sizes 8-14, still remain.

Fantastic bargains in every department are a fact, with limited choice still enabled from the respected lines and smart selection for which Deborah's is noted.

No layaways can be arranged, of course, and all sales are final in this quitting-business gesture.

The urgent word is to come in at very earliest opportunity, as the store will be closed just as soon as the stock is moved, out, and the unheard-of bargains assure that there will be a greatly diminished selection each day.

in an all-new home (since late December)."

Yes, the Bledsoe Insurance Agency that dates its service from back in 1975 now serves from modern, enlarged and convenient quarters in the Megaron Bldg., 8212 Ithaca, just a few short blocks from the former offices on 81st Street.

"As proud as we are of our new home, the emphasis, however, still is on the 'service' rendered — in every insurance need for business, industry and the individual. Whatever the insurance problem or need, we hope you will consider assistance from the Bledsoe Insurance Agency where a knowledgeable staff wants to know you and work with you. On hand to serve are Jean Bledsoe and Gene Knight, agents; Kathy Voss and Carol Holmes, customer service representatives; and Patsy Webb, bookkeeper.

"Many of our customers have relied upon us since our modest beginnings back in August 1975. Humbly appreciative of your trade and of the way you have spread the word about our service, we look forward to continuing assistance in every insurance need. We know we can help.

"It is people such as you, our valued friends and customers, that has enabled our growth.

"We welcome old and new customers alike, and we want to prove to you that our capacity and desire for service can profit for you as it has for others. Don't forget our location, one block west of the 82nd-Indiana intersection, and one block south, at 8212 Ithaca.

"May we have the pleasure of your visit or your call (phone 792-6293); we think you'll appreciate the manner in which we have designed our entire operation seemingly just for you and your particular insurance need."

NEW GENERATION IN EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS
DS Agency Affords Local Sales, Service Of Dictaphone Systems

"Good-bye dictation; hello Dictamation, the executive communication center that replaces your dictating machine!"

Yes, in one handsome, compact unit, Dictaphone has thrust executive communication into the 80's, and in Lubbock and area there is the DS Agency, Inc., exclusive dealers here for Dictaphone by Pitney Bowes, affording latest units including the Ansafone, the Thought Tank executive communications system, and micro-mini and standard cassettes, etc.

Located in Lubbock at 1304 Ave. O, phone (806) 762-8361, the DS Agency affords both sales and service for Dictaphone ("really a household word") right here on the South Plains.

A representative stock of the newest equipment is kept on hand, and both purchase and lease plans are made available.

Patty Simon and Beverly Harbough, sales representatives of the DS Agency, are glad to work with you as an individual or business in explaining the capabilities of Dictaphone and helping plan its use in your own particular operation.

Sales, Service
Service after the sale is a big item enabled by the capabilities of the Lubbock DS Agency.

Thought Tank
The Thought Tank System 192, as example provides 90 minutes recording time, automatic playback/editing, continuous loop of magnetic tape, complete privacy and secrecy, phone-in adapter, multi-media transcriber, expansion capabilities, centralized control and other capabilities. The Thought Tank is great for such heavy use as hospitals, as example.

Ansafone
The Ansafone 747 professional telephone answering system is a unique combination of modern styling and highly advanced technology. All basic functions are controlled with a feather touch, and the built-in microprocessor logic control enhances performance and reliability. Professional features include automatic gain control, voice activation circuitry to control message length, variable length announcement cartridges, two-way telephone conference recording and isolated remote microphone recording for professional announcement messages.

Dictamate
The new series Dictamate is available too, involving the smallest mini-cassette dictating unit ever made by Dictaphone, lightweight and compact enough to fit in one's pocket, yet affording top quality sound and 30 minutes of recording on each mini-cassette!

Whatever the unit from Dictaphone, provided by DS Agency, Inc., one can be assured of the benefits of advanced technology and the related sales and service right here from Lubbock.

"To learn more about our products and service, and how they can make it easier for you to do business, call now at the DS Agency, Inc., 1304 Ave. O, phone 762-8361. Let us work for you as we have for others for maximum office productivity and convenience."

Cruz's Bicycle & Lawnmower Repair, At New Address, Tells Special Prices

"Don't let the weather fool you, it is time to think 'yard care'!"

Yes, it is time to look ahead, getting one's mowers and related items in readiness.

Specials posted throughout remainder of February at Cruz's Bicycle & Lawn Mower Repair make the job easier and certainly more economical when it comes to having the mower checked and put in readiness by professionals.

Specials Listed
Note these specials posted by Cruz who now occupies a home just west of the city:
Engine tune-up, regular $32.50 (3 hp and 3 1/2 hp) now just $20 plus parts, including cleaning engine and even bottom of mower.
Blade sharpening and balance for 20, 21, 22-inch blades, regular $4, now $3.
Sharpening of all reel type lawn mowers, and adjusting, for 18, 20 and 21-inch sizes, regular $25 but now $17.50!
Where is all this?
New Location Emphasized
It is at Cruz's Bicycle & Lawnmower Repair Shop that has moved lock, stock and barrel from its former 4204 1/2 W. 19th St. location to three miles west of the Lubbock city limits, phone 795-4331. Look for the big two-story yellow building, well marked with the Cruz sign, located two blocks south and about one block east of the Levelland Highway — Reese AFB road intersection and traffic light. Easily-spotted signs clearly point the way to the big Cruz building.

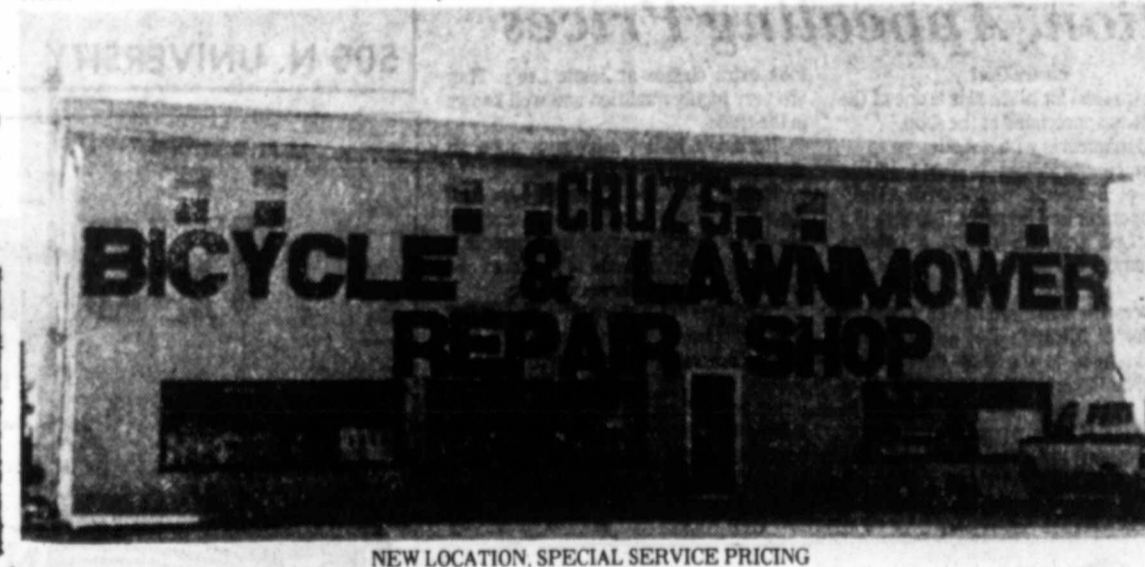

(Cruz Ramirez, owner and operator, points out that not only is the shop easy to reach and find, but it is out of the city limits, enabling tax savings that are passed on to the customer.) It is well worth the drive, he likes to prove!

Look at these other specials and benefits of immediate interest:
Scalper Blades
Scalper blades and springs are stocked.
Used mowers are for sale, from $39.95 up, and used edgers are $69.95 and up.
One used Moped is for sale at a very economical price, as is a miniature car that must be seen to be really appreciated.
Mini-bike parts and engine parts, tires, tubes, accessories, bicycle parts, tubes and tires and wheels are among items stocked.
Also there are Greenbrier 20-in. and 22-in. gasoline mowers on the floor, as well as 3 hp and 5 hp tillers and a 5 hp lawn blower.
Some used bicycles are available.
Cruz's Bicycle & Lawnmower Repair Shop is authorized factory service dealer for Briggs & Stratton and Tecumseh motors.
Factory-trained mechanics are on the job.
Cruz Ramirez has years and years of experience in the field. Actually, with more than 30 years experience, he came to Lubbock in 1964, working as a mechanic for some time at another firm, then opening his own business that has grown and prospered enabling his establishment of the present operation just west of town.

Cruz started out in the business of "serving the public" as a Western Auto employe in Midland, and there he later owned his own shop for eight years. He is factory trained in both the mower and bicycle field and continually keeps up to date in new methods, new models, products and service techniques as a factory authorized dealer.

Whether for the above quality products and services, or others (such as key making, etc.), Cruz has a wide following, a full selection and a sincere desire to serve.

Pick up and delivery service is available.
There is lots of parking space right at front of the building.
Visa and Master Charge use is welcomed.
Above all else, don't forget the location: turn south at the Reese traffic light on the Levelland Highway and follow the signs the short distance (two blocks south and one east) to the big Cruz's Bicycle & Lawnmower Repair Shop where February Specials afford a great incentive to prepare for beautiful lawns this summer.

Bookbinding & Bible Repair Continuing Despite Fire Loss

Bookbinding & Bible Repair, victim of extensive fire damage last Thursday morning, is open for business. Moises Perez, owner, emphasizes, "Through no fault of our own, fire spreading from an adjacent business caused unfortunate and considerable damage to our firm, especially in the central work area of the building. We regret any inconvenience to our appreciated customers. We regret any damage to which some of the books and bindings were subjected; our loss in equipment also is regrettable. We are doing everything in our power to serve the customer as in the past, restoring damage when possible and remaining open in normal business hours, still carrying on our business. We are glad to report that most items in our keeping were not damaged by the fire, and we invite customers who have left books for work here to come in at earliest convenience to check if any damage was incurred and to work with us in this unfortunate situation. As in the past, Bookbinding & Bible Repair, at 2235 34th St., pledges to all that we will give our best in every job or problem or project that you entrust to us. We treat your projects as our own, serving your personal interest. Please bear with us until we can operate full speed ahead again in our every operation. In the meantime we are turning out every job just as rapidly as possible, and still in an efficient manner to which the customer is entitled."

Bernice's Hair Fashions Emphasizing Abilities, Location, Appealing Prices

The best of beauty care is just as near as Bernice's Hair Fashions, 2107 Knoxville Ave., phone 795-2604. This situation is even more significant when it is recognized that really affordable prices are the rule there, in every season. Permanent waves at Bernice's are from $16 to $27, including haircut, shampoo and set. Permanent waves for all types hair and all pocketbooks are the assurance. Our everyday low prices are from $6 up. If you get a set for $6, your haircut is only $5 (rather than $6 if haircut only). Blow dry and set is $7.50. Don't these prices appeal? Especially so when the quality of the work is considered, it can be emphasized.

Lustra Curl Lustra Curl for black hair is one of the specialties appreciated at the shop. And manicures with hot oils. Bernice Sturdivant is the longtime owner of Bernice's, with Barbara Huffman, operator and manager. Barbara is a Jessie Lee graduate and is a veteran staffmember of Bernice's. Skilled Staff Others on hand are Heien Cross, a graduate of Mickey's Beauty Academy, who has been in the shop about three years. She is very capable in all kinds of beauty work and takes special pride in the Lustra Curls and permanent waves. Newest of the elite staff are Marie Newberry and Linda Simmons. Both are Isbell Powell graduates, and Marie also took extra classes at Jessie Lee's. They are very highly qualified and well known in the trade. Bernice's Hair Fashions is open six days a week. Remember the location, at 2107 Knoxville, just a half block south of Methodist Hospital, an address especially appreciated by residents of that area and by hospital personnel, visitors, etc. The present winter climate and the weather changes (often from day to day) call for special attention to hair care and beauty needs. Right? Consequently we direct your attention to the superb capabilities and attention at Bernice's Hair Fashions where the coffee pot always is on and where a friendly, casual atmosphere prevails."

Woman Arrested After Shooting

A 31-year-old Lubbock woman who shot a man in the chest late Saturday was arrested and booked at Lubbock County Jail on suspicion of attempted murder.

Samuel Martinez Rodriguez, 34, of 1111 41st St. Apt. B was in satisfactory condition late Sunday at Lubbock General Hospital with the single gunshot wound, his condition upgraded from critical Saturday night.

Police arrived at the injured man's home about 10:35 p.m. Saturday to find one witness speaking loudly and another holding the victim's head in his hands, reports state. One of the witnesses pointed to a third person in the room, saying that she shot the victim.

That woman told investigating officers that she and Rodriguez had been arguing all day. She said he "pushed her around," and she pulled a .22-caliber pistol from her underclothing and shot the man.

Police arrested the woman and transported her to the county jail.

A 38-year-old north Lubbock woman told police she was assaulted by a man upset after he was told he was "dead man's territory."

The woman said the 28-year-old suspect drove to her home about 3:30 p.m. Saturday, telling her that another man had held a gun to his head Friday night at the Rose Hotel. He told the woman he wanted a money order from her so that he could buy a weapon with which he could "get even" with his assailant.

She refused, and the man hit her about her head with his fists, she said. He then threw her to the floor, demanding she give him diamond rings to sell. She again refused.

The man, who carried a lock blade knife, finally left the home, police said.

Police arrested a 19-year-old east Lubbock woman after she allegedly set fire to a wooden desk in the lobby of Lubbock County Jail.

An officer in the lobby to book a prisoner said he noticed the woman sitting behind the desk playing with a styrofoam cup, a cigarette pack, a cigarette and some matches. The woman left just before a deputy sheriff yelled "Fire!"

The deputy and policeman chased the woman across Main Street, arresting her and booking her at the jail on suspicion of criminal mischief.

Kenneth Neal Becknal, 44, of Route 10, Lubbock was treated at West Texas Hospital for a possible broken nose and loose teeth; then later released.

The man told police he was at the Honky Tonk Club at 4800 Ave. H when a man told him to "shut up." Becknal claimed he was not causing any trouble, after which the suspect struck him in the face. The fight gravitated to outside the club, where the victim was thrown to the ground and hit repeatedly.

In other activity, a "very belligerent" man was stabbed several times in his back sometime early Sunday.

The 37-year-old east Lubbock man was found wounded on the front porch of 3513 Teak. He told police in an interview at Lubbock General Hospital's emergency room that he had been stabbed by "some guy" at a cafe, but he refused to relate details.

The man was treated, then released.

A 22-year-old woman told police she was assaulted by her common law husband when he became angry because she was not home when he got out of jail.

Though he had held a "big stick" he punched her only with his fists about her head.

Erwin Roberts, a builder, told police property from a new vacant home at 4420 88th St. had been stolen. Taken was an antique brass ceiling fan worth $350 to $400 and a brass ceiling light fixture worth $250. Burglars had kicked in the back door to gain entry, causing about $100 in damage.

Police said all the home's breakers had been turned off, adding that wide tire prints were discovered in the back yard dirt.

SAC Aircraft Respond To 'Simulated Attack'

OFFUTT AIR FORCE BASE, Neb. (AP) — Responding to a "simulated attack" on the United States, the Strategic Air Command launched about 400 bombers and tankers Sunday in the largest SAC air operation in 35 years as part of its Global Shield '81 exercise.

Over 400 unarmed B-52s and FB-111 bombers and KC-135 tankers took off in less than 10 minutes in response to a mock attack on the United States as a part of the annual no-notice Global Shield exercise," said Col. Mike McRamey of SAC headquarters here.

The exercise tests base security, communications procedures, precision navigation for bombers and SAC's command and control procedures, McRamey said, "making sure we can communicate effectively and clear with bomber and tanker force. If we can't talk to them, they can't do much."

The exercise is geared to "threats that we think the other side is capable of delivering against us," McRamey said.

"We don't specifically label anybody as an enemy," he said of the scenario. "We look at what we consider the biggest threat we have — it's pretty obvious where it comes from."

He stressed that "this no way related to a real-world situation. This is strictly an exercise and strictly unarmed."

The operation took place on the 13th day of the exercise, which is expected to last approximately another week, McRamey said.

The unarmed aircraft were provided with coded launch orders but did not carry coded "execution" orders, he said. Such orders could only be provided by the president or his designated representative.

The planes took off under minimum interval takeoff procedures, between 12 to 30 seconds apart, he said.

"Each aircraft then proceeded to an airborne exercise holding point to await a positive and verified execution signal to either proceed to the target or to return to their recovery bases," McRamey said.

The operation was controlled by SAC headquarters and involved all SAC bomber and missile bases. Planes also were dispersed to some civilian airports, bases for other commands, such as the Tactical Air Command, and other "places where we can operate our aircraft from," he said.

When the launch order was given, the planes were on the runways with the crews aboard, McRamey said. "They're given only a few minutes to launch all the aircraft before the (mock) attack would hit their base."

Getting the planes airborne, he said, "increases the chance that the aircraft would survive an attack on their home base... (and) 'increases our readiness position to attack assigned targets from an airborne forward position.'"

In the event of such an attack, SAC likely would get advance warning from "radar and other sources," McRamey said.

He stressed that there would be no retaliatory attack "unless we got the positive strike order from the president or his designated representative. We would not do it ourselves."

Don't Grow Up To Be An Aggie

COLLEGE STATION — SHELBY METCALF doesn't read the newspapers any more. And, unless he can help it, he doesn't watch the news.

It's not that the Texas A&M basketball coach isn't glad to have the former hostages back from Iran, or that Ronald Reagan's new economic package doesn't thrill him; rather its those sports pages he's trying to avoid.

"I guess," said Metcalf recently, "that we've got more unopened papers at our house than anyone else."

It's getting to be a fire hazard.

A&M, of course, was the team predicted to win it all in the Southwest Conference but after winning its first seven games of the season, A&M lost nine of the next 11 and took over last place in the league picture.

Then last Saturday night, the Aggies of old returned and A&M exploded for an 84-59 win over the Baylor Bears. A week later, on regional television, the Aggies whipped Texas Tech 65-52.

But even in victory, there was more bad news for the Aggies.

Terminal turmoil, unending unrest, has set in here on the Texas A&M campus.

And if Metcalf did muster the courage to take a peek at sports sections across the state on last Monday, he would've seen all the gory details on the fall of Tyrone Ladson and Maurice McDaniel splashed across the front pages.

TYRONE, TYRONE, WHAT EVER WENT WRONG?

I don't know, but it's possible that many of the Aggies' troubles can be directly traced to the spotty play of Ladson, a senior, who was supposed to fill the void left by departing guards David Britton and Dave Goff. Down the stretch, when the Aggies have lost more than a few this year, Ladson has been prone to loft an ill-advised brick or commit a costly turnover.

The week preceding the Baylor game, Ladson missed two practices and later told coach Metcalf that he had an ankle injury. Metcalf discovered on his own that Ladson had not, in fact, been to the trainer or the team doctor and had no injury.

While Metcalf cleared the bench in the Aggies rout of Baylor, Ladson was the only player who didn't get in the game. He wasn't even at the game.

For a brief time, it was reported that the senior was off the team. Then Metcalf said he'd been reinstated, but probably wouldn't play for the remainder of the season.

For Ladson, it'll be a disappointing finale to a disappointing career. As a senior he led his Brooklyn Canaris High School team to a national championship and a 24-0 record.

Very highly sought, Ladson signed with Kansas State but lasted only a year before transferring to A&M. For three years Ladson has been tabbed as the man to run the Aggie show. They're still waiting for him to pan out.

ALSO KICKED OFF THE TEAM LAST WEEK, then reinstated, but assured his playing time would be minimal for the remainder of the season is the 6-8 McDaniel.

Remember, McDaniel is the sophomore transfer who earlier this season replaced 6-11 Rudy Woods who allegedly flunked out of school.

McDaniel may be another one of those guys, like Ladson and like Woods, who find living up to the advance billing a difficult task.

McDaniel was an all-stater at Temple High School but elected to sign with the University of Florida of the Southeastern Conference. As a freshman he was named the SEC newcomer of the year.

Something went wrong. And McDaniel came back to Texas and transferred to A&M, where it seems all the broken hearts go.

So when Woods couldn't cut the mustard in his Principles Of Officiating course and flunked out of college, McDaniel was ready to step in — since he became eligible with the start of the spring semester.

Really, whispered some Aggie followers, it was just as well that Rudy flunked out. Maurice is better. Maurice is a player.

Woods by this time had already established himself as one of the biggest disappointments since Bill Walton signed on with the San Diego Clippers. As a high school senior, Basketball News called him, "the most highly coveted big man in the country."

At 6-11, Woods was indeed coveted. But his statistics tailed off sharply from his freshman to sophomore seasons and they'd gotten even worse during this, his junior, year.

BUT BACK TO MCDANIEL. Woods' heir-apparent in the once feared A&M Wall, wasn't completely happy with the way things were going against Baylor last Saturday.

Sure, the Aggies were winning big, but something wasn't right. At one point, after taking an inbounds pass, the 6-8 McDaniel elected to dribble the ball up-court himself and jack one up when he approached the free throw circle.

The only problem was that Metcalf had already ordered up a play of his own and it didn't include turning over the ball-handling duties to the 6-8 post man. So McDaniel was yanked from the game while Metcalf and assistant coach Barry Davis went over the rudiments of basketball with him. Then Metcalf told McDaniel to get back in the game.

McDaniel refused. Metcalf was confused. He told McDaniel to check back into the game. Again, McDaniel refused.

Observers at the A&M-Baylor clash said that Metcalf's neck became a fiery red and he simply turned and walked away from McDaniel who slunk to the end of the bench.

Afterwards, McDaniel chucked his shoes in the trash and left the locker room without showering.

"I guess if you throw your shoes away, that means you don't want to play anymore," said Metcalf.

Then came the Monday rumors that McDaniels and Ladson were off the team, then they were back on, then rumored off again.

Finally, Metcalf declared that both were still on the squad for the time being but were not likely to play much for the rest of the season.

THE IRONY OF THE SITUATION is that with these two guys on the bench, and Rudy Woods safely tucked away in a junior college, the Aggies played their best basketball of the season.

"It's just beyond my realm of understanding how A&M could play so well," said Baylor coach Jim Haller, after the Aggies had destroyed his squad. "They were just awesome."

And the Aggies beat the Red Raiders Saturday — on television no less — and got through the week without somebody else quitting. Shelby Metcalf may do something about clearing those papers out of the driveway after all.

Lietzke Takes Golf Win

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Bruce Lietzke converted a 5-foot birdie putt with his cross-handed style and won a sudden-death playoff on the second extra hole Sunday for the $45,000 first prize in the Wickes-Andy Williams San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

Lietzke had to outlast Ray Floyd and Tom Jenkins to become the first two-time winner of the young season on the PGA tour. He won the Bob Hope Desert Classic with a record score last month.

Lietzke, Floyd and Jenkins all birdied the 72nd hole of regulation play to finish with scores of 278, 10 shots under par on the 7,002-yard South Course at the Torrey Pines Golf Club.

Lietzke, five shots back with eight holes to play, came out of the pack with a final-round 68, his 14th consecutive round of par or better this year.

Floyd, who counts the Masters and PGA national championship among his 12 career victories, just missed an eagle putt that would have won it on the final hole of regulation. He tapped in for a birdie and a closing 71. The long-shot Jenkins, whose only previous victory came six years ago in Philadelphia, had a closing 70.

They went to the 15th tee to start the playoff.

Jenkins missed the green and bogeyed. Floyd and Lietzke had two-putt pars, each just missing on a bogey.

On the 16th, a par-3, Floyd put his tee shot on the green but far from the hole. Lietzke threw a high shot in the drizzling rain to within five feet of the dripping flag. Floyd, who lost a playoff to J.C. Snead in this tournament six years ago, missed his birdie putt and Lietzke, the left hand over the right, dropped it in.

It was the seventh victory of his career and marked the first time he'd come from well back to win.

Jenkins and Floyd each collected $22,000 from the total purse of $250,000. George Burns, who led most of the way over the final 18 holes of regulation, finished one shot out of the playoff. He had to birdie the last hole for a 71 and a 279 total. Also at that figure were Gary Hallberg and Jeff Mitchell. Hallberg had a 67, Mitchell 71.

Craig Stadler, who had shared the 54-hole lead with Floyd, struggled to a 73 and was tied at 280 with Jack Renner and Jim Simons. Renner had a closing 70, Simons 71.

Johnny Miller, once within a single stroke of the top spot, incredibly four-putted the 15th hole for a double bogey that dropped him out of it. He had a 71 and a 281 total.

Tom Watson, the 1980 winner here, never really got in the multiple-man title-chase. He had a closing 73 and a 285 total.

Stadler, Floyd, Burns, Miller, Hallberg, Lietzke and Jenkins all led or shared the lead at one time over the last round, and Burns led by three at the turn. But he bogeyed three of four holes beginning on the 11th and dropped back.

Lietzke, three shots back when the day started, immediately double bogeyed and appeared out of it. He missed the green and then three-putted the first hole.

"Any thought I had of winning left my head right then," he said.

But he got the two strokes back by the turn, then played the back in 32, including a two-putt birdie from 35 feet on the final hole, the one he had to have to gain the playoff.

Oilers Add Nolan To Coaching Staff

HOUSTON (AP) — Dick Nolan, a proponent of the 4-3 flex defense, has been named defensive coordinator of the Houston Oilers under coach Ed Biles, who helped pioneer the 3-4 defense.

There won't be a conflict, however, as to which defense the Oilers will use next season.

"There will be no change in our defensive scheme from last year," Biles said after hiring Nolan Saturday night. "If you're asking about the flex, no, we won't be going to it."

Nolan, 48, who employed the complicated flex at New Orleans last season before being fired as head coach, said the Oilers defense has been successful with a three-man front, "and you don't ever change success."

"Ed's done a great job with the defense. I hope to maintain the level he's established. Any ideas I have will go through him."

Biles said he reached agreement Saturday night in New Orleans with Nolan, a member of the Dallas Cowboys coaching staff from 1962 to 1968.

Nolan was head coach with the San Francisco 49ers from '68 through 1975, taking them to the playoffs three times and earning National Football Conference coach of the year honors in 1970.

Nolan became linebacker coach at New Orleans in 1967 and was named head coach in 1978. The Saints finished 88 two seasons ago, but Nolan was fired last season when the team lost its first 13 games in a row.

Biles, who replaced former Oilers coach Bum Phillips last month, has two positions still open on his staff for a linebacker coach and a defensive line coach.

NBA ROUNDUP

San Antonio Wins Texas Battle

By The Associated Press
SAN ANTONIO — James Silas and George Gervin scored 27 points apiece Sunday to ignite sluggish San Antonio and help the Spurs salvage a 102-98 victory over the upstart Dallas Mavericks in a foul-ridden NBA contest.

The fired-up Mavericks jumped to a 35-21 first-quarter lead, outshooting the Spurs 71 percent to 35 percent, and San Antonio had to battle from behind twice to keep intact its record 15-game home winning streak.

Dallas led by as many as 18 points early in the second quarter until Silas reeled off 16 points, including a layup that tied the score at 54-54 at the halftime buzzer.

Gervin hit eight points in the third period but San Antonio could get no farther ahead than eight and led 75-72 entering the final quarter.

The lead changed hands twice and the score was tied twice until the Spurs went ahead to stay with 2:54 left on a tip-in by George Johnson.

Dallas, paced by 14 last-quarter points from Marty Byrnes, cut the margin to two points three times in the last two minutes but time ran out on the Mavericks.

Jim Spanarkel, Scott Lloyd and Bill Robinson led Dallas scorers with 15 points each.

Celtics 123, Clippers 107
BOSTON — Substitutes Rick Robey and Kevin McHale combined for 26 second quarter points to spark Boston to a 15-point halftime lead, and the Celtics rolled on to crush the San Diego Clippers 123-107 in the NBA Sunday.

Robey scored 14 points and McHale had 12 as Boston rallied from a 34-31 deficit after the first period to take a 64-49 halftime lead.

Leading 50-44, the Celtics scored the next 9 points, never led by less than 13 the rest of the way and booted to a 98-67 advantage after three quarters.

Pacers 124, Pistons 101
PONTIAC, Mich. — Louie Orr and James Edwards scored 21 points each as the Indiana Pacers breezed to a 124-101 victory over the Detroit Pistons in NBA action Sunday afternoon.

Indiana trailed 14-13 in the first quarter, but surged to a 31-26 lead by the end of the quarter as Edwards scored seven points. He added nine more, while Orr scored six, as Indiana went ahead 67-51 at the half.

76ers 102, Lakers 99
PHILADELPHIA — Julius Erving, Maurice Cheeks and Darryl Dawkins each scored 16 points and Caldwell Jones grabbed 18 rebounds as the Philadelphia 76ers snapped the Los Angeles Lakers' seven-game winning streak Sunday with a 102-99 victory in the NBA.

With Jones controlling the backboards, the 76ers had seven players in double figures and a 17-point lead late in the third period, but had to hold off a Los Angeles rally that cut the margin to just one point with 1:26 remaining.

Bucks 128, Bulls 109
MILWAUKEE — Junior Bridgeman poured in 27 points, 19 in the first half, and Quinn Buckner added a season-high 26, leading the Milwaukee Bucks to a 128-109 NBA victory over the Chicago Bulls Sunday.

The Bulls, playing their third game since Friday night and their fifth in six days, were led by David Greenwood with 20 points.

Knicks 116, Nets 102
PISCATAWAY, N.J. — Campy Russell scored 24 points to lead the New York Knicks to a 116-102 victory over the New Jersey Nets Sunday before a crowd of 8,925, the largest ever at Rutgers Athletic Center.

All five Knick starters scored at least 17 points apiece, lifting New York to its fifth straight triumph.

Warriors 107, Jazz 101
OAKLAND — Lloyd Free scored a season-high 39 points for the Golden State Warriors, who blew an 18-point lead before rallying to beat the Utah Jazz 107-101 Sunday.

Adrian Dantley, the NBA's leading scorer, had 37 points for Utah and teammate Darrell Griffith added 31.

Bobsledder Jim Morgan Dies In Action

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP) — American bobsledder Jim Morgan died here Sunday from injuries sustained in an accident during the third heat of the World Four-Man Bobsled Championships.

Morgan of Saranac Lake, N.Y., suffered a severe throat cut when the No. 1 sled of the U.S. team overturned at the final banked curve of the Olympic track of Cortina.

Dr. Paolo Bellando Randone of the Codivilla Hospital at Cortina said the U.S. athlete was already dead when he reached the clinic.

Other members of the U.S. team, Jeff Jost of Burke, N.Y., and Paul White and Randy Bielski, both of Towson, Md., suffered slight contusions and bruises in the accident.

Morgan, who was the driver of the U.S. team, repeatedly bumped his helmet against the icy wall after the sled overturned, and the leather lace around his neck caused the fatal wound, his teammates reported.

Morgan, 33, remained in the sled for several minutes, bleeding from the cut, after the sled crossed the finish line upside down.

A doctor tried first aid treatment, then the athlete was taken by ambulance to the Codivilla hospital in this Italian resort.

The accident occurred at the same bend where the U.S. No. 2 sled, led by Bill Renton, crashed during Saturday's runs. The U.S. No. 2 quartet suffered minor bruises and withdrew from the race.

Morgan and his teammates, in 10th place after the first two heats Saturday, were the last team to come down the 1,700-meter long Olympic track on the third run of the four-heat competition.

They apparently took the final curve too high, bounced down and overturned on the final straight.

Bielski, the brakier of the U.S. No. 1 team, remained in the sled trying to comfort Morgan while doctors and nurses gave first aid. He broke into tears as the driver was taken away on a stretcher.

"You can hardly be seriously injured in an accident like this one. Jim was unlucky," said Bielski, who had a bruise on his neck.

One organizer, who declined to be quoted by name, said helmet laces sometimes proved extremely dangerous for bobsledders "when you hit the walls with the helmet and your head is pushed backwards."

Racing resumed after the accident and the East German team of Bernhard Gernshausen, Henry Gerlach, Martin Truebner and Hans Juergen Gerhardt won the four-man bobsled title.

It was the second straight gold for Gernshausen, who also had won the two-man championship seven days ago.

Lubbock High Cage Team On A Tear

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 At first, it was a kind of game. Last year when Lubbock High won its first two contests, people were quick to point out that the Westerners had already tied the previous year's win total.
 Folks said the same thing this year. First Lubbock High dumped San Angelo in the Caprock Tournament to win its eighth game — the same as last year's total — and then when they beat Estacado 71-67 in early January for their 10th win — the same as the last two years combined.
 Then there were other things, like when the Westerners won their first district game in three years last Tuesday or when they beat Coronado Friday night — the first time in three years they'd knocked off their cross-town rival.
 But somehow, by the time Friday night's 54-47 win had sunk in, the sarcasm was gone from the record-keeping. That win was a big one.
 It was the first time since 1971 that the bunch from 19th Street had managed to win back-to-back district contests.
 That's not just some idle statistical oddity. That is a definite sign of the kind of improvement the club has made in the last three seasons.
 The fact is the Westerners have recorded the highest win total of all but eight of their seasons in the last 25 years and the third-highest since 1967.

 If they can get the same results from the second half of the district season that they did from the first, their win total will jump to No. 6 and, if they can win all four of their conference games remaining (a scary, though not impossible notion) they would jump all the way to No. 17.
 Is Craig Wells surprised at this kind of turnaround?
 "No, not really," said the third-year coach. "I feel like we have got some kids playing for us now who have been with us for three years.
 "That's no accident. Our kids have worked hard. Now I think they're reaping the benefits of some of that hard work back in April, all of that running around the track and lifting weights."
 Wells is also quick to point out that the change isn't limited to his varsity. His sophomore team beat Coronado Friday night for the first time in three years.
 "This is a program thing," he said. "Our JV is doing better, our entire program has improved. It's not just our varsity."
 In Friday night's win over Coronado, the Westerners battled the Mustangs evenly until, with 2:20 remaining, Kirk Cole put them up 48-44.
 That's when things started slipping away from CHS. They only made three points from that point on. Meanwhile, Lubbock High was trooping to the free throw line, sinking six charity shots to cinch the victory.

 In all, Lubbock High hit 20 of 35 free throws while Coronado shot only eight times, making three.
 "I think that has a lot to do with the fact we made them play our style of play," Wells said. "When you run up and down the floor like we do there are going to be a lot of reaches and charges."
 "The tempo of the game is just going to cause calls like that. I think that's one big reason for our win, too. We played our temp of ball game and our tempo calls for fouls like that."
 But Wells refused to say that the foul calls were the main reason for his team's victory.
 "After looking at our stats, we only shot 33 percent from the field, the difference had to be the boards," he said. "According to our stats, we outrebounded them 52-37. Boards would have to be the difference."
 "I think our position had a lot to do with it, plus our shot selection had a lot to do with it. We didn't shoot real well and we didn't hit a lot, but when we shot the ball we had people under the boards."
 Of course, even if Lubbock High were to win the remainder of its games, the district's regular-season championship would be far from won. Monterey has already beaten everybody in the loop once. "Two losses could win it," conceded Wells. "But we're going to have to beat everybody else and have some luck from people like Plainview beating Monterey."

 Wells refused to speculate on the long-term implications of Friday night's win, a victory that pushes the Westerners into third place in the district race with second-place Plainview coming to town Tuesday.

 "It's hard to say just what that win meant. We won't really be able to tell until just before the district tournament," he said.
 "But as far as our confidence goes, it was a very important game. It shows us we can perform and play with anybody in the district."
 "The kids realized that we hadn't won a district game in three years, no doubt about it. That's one reason we went out and played so hard up at Plainview, but our emotions just got the better of us. Against Monterey the first time we played so hard too, but we just didn't play that well when we had to."

 "That's why this win was so important. We beat Hereford, but we were supposed to beat them record-wise. But when we beat Coronado, a team we weren't supposed to beat, that helps our confidence a little bit."
 "We knew we'd have to play good defense to beat New Deal," Miss Harston said. "The key was shutting down Vickie Teal and Melissa Mayo and we did. I thought that if we could hold them to 15 points each we would win. Well, we held them to 10 each, did a super job on the defensive boards by limiting them to one shot each time down the floor and slowed the tempo down, and we won. I knew when we lost Rhonda we'd have to slow our game down even more because New Deal likes to run."
 "Kim Black hit some clutch outside shots and Sherry Nivens and Stacy Holly did a great job defending against Teal and Mayo. It took a team effort to beat New Deal, who was ranked second in the state at the time."
 The last time the Owls played Ralls it was in front of their home fans. They won by five points. But tonight the Owls will have to travel to take on the Jackrabbits, who have a 19-8 record and are led by two of the top scorers in the area, Evelyn Bean and Tracy Wiley. Going into Friday's game, Miss Bean was averaging 12 points per outing and exploded for 37. Miss Wiley's average was 16 per game and she hit in the Jackrabbits' 76-45 pounding of Lorenzo.
 With a victory over Ralls Tuesday night, the Owls will have more than earned the 4-2A second half title. Beating New Deal and the Jackrabbits in consecutive games is almost too much to ask of any team.
 If only Rozelle could see it. He'd be smiling from ear to ear.

Girls' 4-2A Race Tight

By RICHARD DAY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, he who dreams of divisional races that go down to the final game and even then are left to minute statistics to determine the winner, would love the latest look of the District 4-2A girls' basketball race.
 There are two teams — Hale Center and Ralls — tied for the second half lead and New Deal, the first half winner, only a game behind them. So, essentially, the 4-2A race is so tightly knotted that any of three teams could represent the district in post-season play. It's really a shame all three can't go to the playoffs.
 New Deal, a regional finalist last year, cruised through the opening half of its district schedule with a perfect record, but dropped a 33-32 thriller to rival Hale Center Friday night to fall into third place.
 "Rivalry isn't strong enough a word for what happens when New Deal and Hale Center get together," New Deal coach Jan Wisenbent said. "There is more than that between us. There's a certain tenseness between us and we just froze up (Friday night). It really hurt to lose to Hale Center, but we don't plan for it to be the end of our season. We're going to start all over Monday morning."
 The Lions' season is far from over. They have a 20-5 record, and after winning the first half championship, will at least be assured of a playoff for the league title.
 The two teams on top of the second half standings — the Owls of Hale Center and the Jackrabbits of Ralls — will play Tuesday night in the Ralls gym. If Ralls wins and New Deal defeats Ralls in its last regular-season game, New Deal would be in a tie with Ralls for the second half title and would win the district title outright. A Hale Center victory Tuesday night would force a district playoff between it and the Lions. Both of these cases will hold true only if all three teams win the remainder of their league games. Teams like Spur, which has a solid claim for fourth place and plays New Deal Tuesday, would like nothing better than to play spoiler and move up in the standings as well.

 "Our victory over New Deal isn't going to mean anything unless we beat Ralls Tuesday," Hale Center coach Kathy Harston said. "We'll have to be ready for them just like we were for New Deal. We beat Ralls by only eight points at home and New Deal didn't beat them very badly at home either. We just have to beat Ralls Tuesday night."
 In their victory over New Deal Friday, the Owls were playing without Rhonda Lockett, a 5-7 post who is averaging 13 points per game this season. It would be a tremendous boost for Hale Center to have her back, but Miss Harston is not putting all her team's chances on her return.
 "Rhonda is our best defensive player and we believe in her, but we played hard enough to beat New Deal without her," Miss Harston said. "We responded well to her absence Friday night and we can do it again if we have to."
 Kerry Madden, starting her first varsity game, replaced Miss Lockett and though she's seven inches shorter, performed admirably. Miss Madden scored five points, did not turn the ball over and, according to her coach, played good defense.

 "We knew we'd have to play good defense to beat New Deal," Miss Harston said. "The key was shutting down Vickie Teal and Melissa Mayo and we did. I thought that if we could hold them to 15 points each we would win. Well, we held them to 10 each, did a super job on the defensive boards by limiting them to one shot each time down the floor and slowed the tempo down, and we won. I knew when we lost Rhonda we'd have to slow our game down even more because New Deal likes to run."

Canyon: Class Of 1-4A

By RAY GLASS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 The Canyon Eagles have made 1981 the year of the high-flying bird and threaten to make the District 1-4A basketball races a joke unless someone intervenes. And quick.
 Canyon has won the district's first-half title among both boys' and girls' teams and neither squad has lost a league ball game this season.
 The Canyon girls who are 9-0 in 1981, have won 10 consecutive games and, sporting a 4-0 district mark, should wrap up the crown this week and advance to bi-district play against 2-4A powerhouse Monahans.
 The surprising Eagle boys wrapped up the first-half title last week with victories over Borger and Dunbar, are 7-2 since the new year began and are in the drivers seat to represent 1-4A hopes in the playoffs.
 "Canyon's got it made. If they lose all six games in the second half, they still get to play the winner of the second round for the district title," said Estacado coach J.J. Wood.
 The Eagles stumbled through the Caprock Invitational Tournament during the holiday recess, scoring only 25 points in a loss to Monterey before edging Midland Lee and Dunbar.
 But, after losses to Amarillo High and Pampa that lowered their record to 11-8, the Eagles have gone on an 7-0 tear and have won all their district encounters by at least six points.

 "They (the Eagles) have their Mr. Outside (Kendall Walling) and their Mr. Inside (Butch Bearden). They just have a good team. The biggest surprise is they have come on together. I think we (other coaches) just thought Levelland and Borger had better teams," Wood said.
 Wood's Matadors finished the first round in a three-way tie for third place with Brownfield and Levelland at 3-3. Borger was second at 4-2 while Dunbar and Dumas were tied for sixth at 1-5.
 All seven teams have three home games and three road contests during the second half of district play and the home courts were the place to play during the first round.
 District teams were 14-7 at home and 7-14 after the first 42 games. Canyon, of course, was 3-0 both at home and on the road. Levelland was 3-0 on its own hardwood but 0-3 after getting off the bus. Borger, Brownfield and Estacado were all 2-1 in front of their own fans.
 "I still think the district race is anyone's ball game," Wood said. "Levelland seems to be fixing to make a their move. There are similarities between Levelland and us. We both tapered off after starting decent. But Levelland, and Borger, are capable of beating anyone."

The outlook is no so cheery for 1-4A girls' teams, unless you're aligned with Canyon. The Eagles travel to Brownfield on Friday before closing out the regular season at home with Estacado on Feb. 17.
 The Eagles' margin of victory in 10 district games has been eight or less only four times and their average margin of victory is 19.6 points.
 Brownfield and Dumas, both 3-1, have the best chances to force a playoff against Canyon but the Eagles would have to lose both of their remaining league games for either the Cubs or Demons to have a chance at forcing a play-off game.
 Monahans, 6-0 in 2-4A and 25-1 overall, is the favorite in the southern girls' battle. Monahans is on a 20-game win streak and has won 14 consecutive district games. It has only two district contests remaining, but one is against Sweetwater, 5-1 and the only team with an outside chance of claiming the second-half crown.
 The District 2-4A boys' race is nearing the midway point in the second half with Snyder and Andrews leading the pack. The Tigers are 3-0 while the Mustangs are 2-0 but, more importantly, Snyder shared the first-half title with Odessa Ector. The Eagles have fallen on hard times since then and are in a four-team tie for fifth at 1-2.

Miss Little Wins LPGA Title

NORTH MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sally Little won the $125,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association's Elizabeth Arden Classic in a sudden-death playoff Sunday when Judy Rankin hit into the water on the third extra hole.

Miss Little shot a 4-under-par 68 over the final 18 holes to jump from eighth and tie Miss Rankin and JoAnne Carner, who each shot par 72, at 5-under-par 283 after the regulation 72 holes.

All three LPGA veterans started sudden death with birdies on the par-4, 335-yard 16th hole of the 6,211-yard Turnberry Isle layout.

Miss Carner, who was tied with Miss Rankin for the lead going into the final round at 211, dropped out with a bogey on the par-3, 132-yard 17th hole.

Then, on the 485-yard 18th, Miss Rankin landed 100 feet farther from the pin than Miss Little and gambled, trying to hit her third shot over a lake. It went in the water for a two-stroke penalty. Little played the hole conservatively for par.

Her playoff victory was worth $18,750. The 17th was disastrous for Miss Carner during regulation, too. Ahead by two strokes, she took a double bogey to fall into the three-way tie.

Donna Caponi hit a 1-over-par 73 to finish fourth at 285, a stroke ahead of Pat Bradley. Nancy Lopez-Melton, who had shot par-72 in the first two rounds and 69 in the third, hit six bogeys and a double-bogey in what she called the "weirdest" round of her career for a 75, tying Dale Lundquist and Jan Stephenson at 288 in sixth.

Patty Sheehan was ninth at 289 and Judy Clark 10th at 290.

On the 16th, Miss Little had to make a tough shot to stay alive. She drove behind a tree, then tried to chip in front of the pin and have the ball roll up the hill.

but it went eight feet past the hole.

"I don't think I could make that putt again," she said. "It was the toughest eight-footer I've ever had to make."

Lopez-Melton got three of her last bogeys on the last four holes as she finished the round with seven pars, one eagle and three birdies.

"I was up and down," said the 1978 and 1979 LPGA Player of the Year. "I was playing good, but I couldn't score. I hit some good shots, but the results weren't consistent. It was like a dog chasing a car — you keep taking chances and you finally get hit."

Youngster Earns NHL All-Star Position

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The kid who'll be in the Wales Conference net is 20 years old with hardly a whisker in sight. Last year at this time, he was playing with and against fellow teen-agers for the Sudbury Wolves' junior team in Canada.

By comparison, the guy manning the Campbell Conference goal is a wizened veteran, although this is merely his fourth professional season and second in the National Hockey League.

Neither coach is worried, however, about the inexperience of rookie Don Beaupre of the Minnesota North Stars or St. Louis Mike Liut, the starting goaltenders in the league's 33rd All-Star Game in the Forum Tuesday night at 9:30 p.m.

"Beaupre deserves to be starting," said Scotty Bowman, the general manager of the Buffalo Sabres and coach of the Wales team, which has won the midseason hockey classic all five times it has been held under an inter-conference format. "He's done a terrific job for the North Stars and he doesn't look like a rookie out there."

The 25-year-old Liut, meanwhile, was the league's winningest goalie in 1979-80, his first NHL season after two fair years in the wide-open World Hockey Association, hardly a goaltender's haven. This season, until he was injured on Jan. 10 and forced out of the lineup for three weeks, Liut was the main force in the revitalization of the Blues, the NHL's most improved team.

"I can't argue with his record or the way he plays," noted Campbell Coach Pat Quinn, the bench boss of the Philadelphia Flyers. "He's a first-rate goalie all the way."

Beaupre showed his youthful enthusiasm in reacting to his selection as an All-Star.

"It's a terrific honor and a bit of a surprise," said Beaupre, a 5-foot-8, 150-pound peppery netminder. "I was surprised the voters would go for a rookie."

"One year, you're playing in the juniors and wondering about being drafted. The next season, you're playing regularly for one of the best teams in the National Hockey League. Then, you're an All-Star."

"He sure is an All-Star," said Buffalo Coach Roger Neilson. "I'm usually non-committal when it comes to discussing players other than our own, but that kid is no normal goaltender. Some players have inborn talent and I think he's one of them."

So, apparently, is Liut, who finished third in the 1980 All-Star voting for his position. But he is far from awed at being an All-Star.

"In no way does it say that I'm the best of the best," said Liut. "I don't assume that. Maybe it's an acknowledgment that I'm one of the better players, but the selections leave out a guy like Tony Esposito, so you have to keep things in perspective."

"Being an All-Star is not one of the things you dream of when a boy. It's one of the fringe honors you pick up in the course of your career."

Try telling that to Don Beaupre.

Wiretap Case Settled

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Reputed Mafia boss Joseph Bonanno Sr. has agreed to a $6,000 out-of-court settlement in a suit he brought against two former Arizona Drug Control District agents, Bonanno's lawyer says.

The lawyer, Donald Bayles, said he expected a request to dismiss the suit would be filed today in U.S. District Court here.

The suit stemmed from what Bayles said was an illegal wiretap of Bonanno's phone calls in the summer of 1977.

Bonanno, 76, filed the suit in February 1978 against Edwin Richards and James Liddiard.

Bonanno sought $1,000 in civil damages from the investigators, payment of court costs, and a court order prohibiting disclosure of the contents of the recorded calls.

Richards and Liddiard could not be reached for comment on Bayles' statement that they had each agreed to pay $3,000 in full settlement while not admitting to any legal liability.

Bird Gets Fiberglass Beak

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — Paul the pelican has a designer beak — a fiberglass protusion to replace a portion of his beak lost when the nosy bird got too close to an angry jaguar at the Salisbury Zoo.

The big cat took a swat at the North American white pelican and broke the top portion of lengthy beak.

Zoo officials decided there was no hope for the upper beak and removed it but then were confronted with a dangerous situation — Paul could not eat by himself.

Zookeeper Jim McNeal took on the responsibility of hand feeding the 25-pound bird, while doctors at the National Zoo in Washington mulled over how best to fit Paul with a new beak.

"It's been done before, but not often enough for it to be common," said zoo director George Speidel.

Performance Canceled

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mikhail Baryshnikov, unable to put any weight on his left foot after spraining a toe, canceled two performances with the American Ballet Theater on the advice of doctors.

Baryshnikov, the ballet company's principal dancer and artistic director, sprained his toe while warming up backstage just before a Saturday matinee performance of "Giselle" at the Los Angeles County Music Center, a music center spokesman said.

He was unable to perform for the matinee and canceled a scheduled appearance in the same ballet Sunday night. Another dancer was to take his place.

It wasn't immediately clear whether the Russian-trained dancer would be able to dance as scheduled later this week in San Francisco.

BARYSHNIKOV

Actress Sued For Kiss

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A devout Moslem in India's Uttar Pradesh state has filed a lawsuit against teen-age actress Padmini Kolhapure for publicly kissing Britain's Prince Charles, the Hindustan Times reports.

The prince got a surprise kiss on the cheek from Miss Kolhapure last December when he visited the set of a Hindi-language film at a Bombay film studio. Charles seemed unruffled by the incident.

Ansar Ahmed, who described himself as a "culture-conscious citizen of Meerut," said in his suit that Miss Kolhapure had "denigrated Indian culture and womanhood by kissing in public."

He also accused the actress of having "tried to gain cheap popularity by planting a kiss on the prince," the independent newspaper reported Saturday.

Ahmed's petition in the court of magistrate Akhtar Husain of Meerut, 43 miles east of New Delhi, pleads for legal action against Miss Kolhapure under two sections of the Indian penal code that cover "obscene acts (including kissing) in public places."

Kissing is not allowed in Indian films.

Nude Ice Sculpture Cubed

MCCALL, Idaho (AP) — An ice sculpture of a naked boy, copied from the famous Manneken Pis statue in Brussels, Belgium, and entered in a local contest, has been reduced to ice cubes by order of Mayor Bill Evans.

People complained, officials said. The chairman of the McCall Winter Carnival said it was "tacky."

So on Friday afternoon, just before the ice sculptures were to be judged, a front-end loader drew up to the statue, which depicted a boy urinating a stream of ice into a fountain.

"The driver pulled right up on the sidewalk and smashed it all to hell," said Wayne Lemoine, who entered the statue in the contest.

Lemoine said Carl Whitaker, a McCall barber who sculpted the piece, did a lot of research to make the entry a good copy of the well-known statue.

The grand prize went to a sculpture called "A Star is Born," depicting a fetching young icewoman dressed in a light-fitting, low-cut dress, posing in front of a movie cameraman.

"We think it was pretty... narrow of them to smash our statue, then give first prize to that one," Lemoine said.

Carnival Chairman Max Pelham said the winter carnival is a family affair and he did not want to set a precedent by accepting a nude figure.

'Murderous Slashes' Seen

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former presidential candidate Barry Commoner says colleges and universities will have to find alternate ways of raising money to duck what he says may be "murderous slashes" in federal spending under President Reagan.

"To think of no alternative is a step toward fascism," he said in a farewell address to students and faculty at Washington University on Friday. Commoner, a member of the school's faculty since 1947, leaves this month to join the faculty of Queens College in New York.

Commoner, an environmentalist and the standard bearer last year for the Citizens Party, has been director of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems at Washington University since 1965.

Bus Project Expected

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York Gov. Hugh Carey, traveling in Asia, says an unidentified Japanese company has agreed to launch an experimental bus-assembly project somewhere in New York state that could put Japanese buses on the streets "by Passover."

Speaking to reporters by telephone from Hong Kong, Carey said Saturday his visit to Japan could yield "jobs in the thousands" with the location in the state of a bus plant and a tool plant run by Okuma Machinery Works.

Passover is the fourth week in April. Carey, a guest of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corp., arrived here Saturday after a week in Japan on tour to promote investments in New York. He spent Sunday cruising Hong Kong harbor in a boat.

He returns home Tuesday. The governor told reporters in New York by phone that he saw a Japanese garden that rivals Brooklyn's botanical gardens, but he said he saw nothing there that was "better than Brooklyn."

Antique Valentines Displayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A fresh exhibit of antique Valentines proves that while Cupid's guise may change with the times, his aim has been unerring.

The Smithsonian Museum display — "Won't You Be My Valentine" — shows off nearly 200 years of European and American Valentine's Day cards. The oldest cards are the most elaborate, festooned with flowers and layered with paper lace.

Scantly clad, winged Cupids were a favorite theme of early Valentine makers, who portrayed nymphs driving carriages, rowing boats and leveling their arrows at unsuspecting young lovelies.

Steam Bath Ritual In Northwest Town

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP) — Rural America traditionally may have met over a pickle barrel in the general store. But in Astoria — much like Rome and Athens of old — folks meet in the steam bath.

Since the 1920s, residents of this coastal northwestern Oregon town have headed to the public bath to cleanse themselves, to philosophize, to chat.

It's a weekly social gathering as routine as going to church, says Mike Frech, manager of Union Steam Bath — the only remaining public bath in the small town built by Scandinavian immigrants early in the century.

"I've done this every week since the place opened, and I enjoy it," said one patron. "You lose about 10 years off your age going through this."

Union Steam, also known as "The Bullpen," was constructed by Kaarlo Koskela in 1928. At the time, there were more than 50 baths in the town to serve residents who didn't have showers and tubs at home, according to Koskela's son, Elmer Koskela.

"They used to call it 'John Warren's Bullpen,'" said the younger Koskela. Warren was a football coach at Astoria High School in the 1920s and brought his players to the steam bath after practice to relax sore muscles.

A major fire swept Astoria and burned most of its baths in 1922, but many of the baths were rebuilt before World War II, when they became popular with some 5,000 soldiers stationed nearby. As business dwindled after the war, so did the number of baths until only Union Steam was left.

Union Steam got a boost in the early 1960s when Astoria Bridge was built nearby. The seven hot steam rooms were just the answer for dirty, tired construction workers.

But mostly Union Steam caters to local residents, many of whom have known each other through the baths for more than 50 years.

The heart of Union Steam is a 20-by-8-foot room of marble and tile called the men's public bath. It is here that affairs of the city, and sometimes the world, are sifted, shifted and decided upon.

On a recent Friday afternoon, three of the regulars, in their 50s and 60s, held court on the three-tiered benches, clothed only by the thick steam fog.
