Minister Believes Mrs. Dwyer 'Framed'

HOUSTON (UPI) — A preacher who says he met Cynthia Dwyer while he was leading a group of clergymen to Iran speculated Monday she was framed by the same Iranian who approached him with what he considered a phony plan to free the hostages.

The Rev. Charles A. Moore of the Church of God in Christ said he met Mrs. Dwyer twice in Teheran in March 1980 and scheduled a third visit with the woman, who said she traveled to Iran to write the Iranian side of the hostage story.

Moore said an unidentified Iranian came instead of Mrs. Dwyer to the third meeting and suggested the use of force to free some of the hostages. Moore said Mrs. Dwyer later was arrested and charged with spying.

U.S. officials since have sought her release.

Moore said he was suspicious of the Iranian's proposal. He said the Iranian probably was involved in factionalism and wanted a hostage for publicity.

Second Autopsy In Alien Death Disputes Policeman's Testimony

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Results of a second autopsy in Piedras Negras, Mexico, has fueled a controversy that has raged since Hector Santoscoy, 25, was shot to death by a San Antonio policeman on Christmas Day.

Dr. Jesus Javier Salinas of Piedras Negras and Dr. Ruben Santos, former Bexar County medical examiner now living in McAllen, performed the autopsy on Santoscoy's exhumed body over the weekend in the Mexican border city.

Santos said the examination showed bullet entrance and exit wounds inconsistent with San Antonio policeman James Cammack's contention that he shot Santoscoy as the Mexican threatened him with a brick.

Cammack's attorney, Fred Semaan, said regardless of what any autopsy showed, his client was firing in self defense.

"Definitely, he could not have been raising his arm or facing Cammack when shot," Santos said Sunday.

The pathologist said one bullet entered Santoscoy's body at a 45-degree angle through the left side of his chest and exited in the rear part of his right arm.

"If Santoscoy had raised his arm (to throw something), the bullet would have missed his arm. Santoscoy was shot from the side and not from the front and was not raising his arm at the time of the shooting," Santos said.

Cammack said he shot Santoscoy, a burglary suspect, beneath a house where Santoscoy was hiding.

"I believe he (the Iranian) was the leader of a faction group and I believe they just grabbed her and arrested her to get some publicity," Moore said. "I don't believe they really felt she was a spy."

"I think she's a very intelligent, bright, sincere woman. I think she went to really report the Iranian side and she was hopeful that the American people would get the facts."

"I think that she was very naive in re-approach on me. I told the State Department when I returned. I believe that she was entrapped."

"I think that's probably the way he entrapped her. The papers are now saying that they made up a story about some attempt to get the hostages and she went along with it," Moore said.

"My point is he tried the same approach on me. I told the State Department when I returned. I believe that she was entrapped."

"I think that's probably the way he entrapped her. The papers are now saying that they made up a story about some attempt to get the hostages and she went along with it," Moore said.

"I think that she was very naive in relationship to friends she made in Iran," Moore said. "I think that she was very zealous and probably not as cautious as she should have been."

He told of one meeting with her in a Teheran restaurant.

"When she spoke of the atrocities that had been inflicted on Iranians, she wept very bitterly," Moore said.

"She cried so much so that people in the restaurant saw her crying. I was a bit embarrassed. She cried with tears flowing down her cheeks. This was the day after the aborted rescue mission."

Offshore Oil Output May Double

TULSA (AP) — World production of offshore crude oil will increase from 500,000 barrels a day in 1980 to 1 million barrels daily this year, the Oil & Gas Journal predicted Monday.

Most gains will be from non-Communist countries, which are expected to produce more than 12.4 million barrels daily, the Journal said. Comparable 1980 production was about 11.9 million barrels a day.

Industry and government officials say gains will be particularly notable in the Mexican and North Sea areas.

Petroleos Mexicanos, Mexico's state oil company, expects offshore production of 1.27 million barrels a day of crude oil and 800 million cubic feet of natural gas by December 1982, compared with 790, 700 barrels of oil and 356.5 million cubic feet of gas daily at the end of 1980, the magazine said.

Mexico supplies its own domestic needs plus a maximum of 1.5 million barrels of crude oil and 300 million cubic feet of gas daily for exports.

North Sea production was held to 2.14 million barrels daily in 1980 because of weather, labor and technical difficulties.

TIA Eyeing Continental Acquisition

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas International Airlines, the regional carrier that made a $35 million profit in an unsuccessful merger attempt with National Airlines, revealed Monday it hopes to acquire control of Continental Airlines.

The Houston-based airline said it had purchased 800,500 shares of Continental stock last Friday, boosting its total holding in the larger carrier to 1,459,200 shares. Texas International said it is planning a tender offer for a minimum of 4 million shares at $13 a share and might buy as many as 2 million more shares for a total of 6 million.

The potential $78 million offer apparently took Continental by surprise. Last Friday, Continental's proposed merger with Western Airlines was approved by a Civil Aeronautics Board administrative law judge, although the union still requires approval from the full CAB and stockholders of both companies.

In Los Angeles, Continental said it would study the Texas International proposal and has referred the offer to its independent financial and legal advisers for review.

The airline said there are many legal, financial and regulatory issues that have to be considered.

Earlier, Continental spokesman Bruce Plowman had said, "We were aware Friday someone had purchased a large amount of our stock; we weren't sure who. Now we know it was (Texas International), but that's all the response we have right now."

Continental, which primarily serves western states and routes in Mexico, is the nation's 10th-largest airline.

Senate Approves Bill Tightening Unemployment Benefit Rules

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators tentatively approved a bill Monday that would make it harder for a person to quit a job and draw unemployment benefits.

The bill was approved 20-9, but another vote is needed to send the measure to the House.

"This is not going to restrict anybody's benefits who is unemployed through no fault of his own," said Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, the sponsor.

Blake failed the first time he tried to bring the bill up, Jan. 28, because he could not muster enough votes. Gov. Bill Clements then submitted the bill as an emergency, which required fewer votes for debate.

"The governor did some research and found people drawing unemployment because they were tired of working or some other frivolous excuse," said Blake.

His bill would disqualify persons who voluntarily quit their jobs or who are fired for misconduct from receiving jobless benefits until they have had another job for at least six weeks at a wage equal to weekly benefits.

A fiscal summary showed that enforcing the bill, if it became law, would require 152 new employees at the Texas Employment Commission, costing $3 million a year. Employers would pay for it.

SALTWATER WEDGE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The movement of a saltwater wedge up the Mississippi River has been slowed, thanks to a slight rise in river flow, the U.S. Geological Survey reported Monday. The salt water moved upriver only one mile in the past week, to 61 miles from the river's mouth. A saltwater wedge develops when river flow declines and ocean water begins moving north on the river bottom, beneath the freshwater flowing downstream.

ANN LANDERS

Dad's 'Hobby' Could Upset Kids

Dear Ann Landers: As I write this letter I am wearing a skirt and blouse, silk underwear, a wig, make-up and high heels. I am a 30-year-old male, happily married and the father of two children. I have never had a homosexual relationship in my life and have no urge to engage in one. I just enjoy wearing women's clothes.

When dressed as a woman I am completely relaxed and totally at ease. Also the feminine side of my personality emerges.

As a woman, I do things any woman might do — straighten the house, cook, go to the supermarket or shopping for my feminine attire.

My wardrobe is extensive but not gaudy. Mostly skirts and blouses, dresses, underwear and high heels. I sleep in male pajamas. My wife understands my need to express my feminine feelings. We spend a lot of time together as two "girlfriends," shopping, "chatting," etc. I pass easily and do not worry about detection.

The children are usually asleep when I come home, so there is no problem there. But as they get older and stay up later, I would like to know how to explain to them that Daddy likes to wear women's clothes. A sensible answer is all I want. I am not asking for your approval. — R.P.

Dear R.P.: Stay in the closet as long as possible where your children are concerned. I see no useful purpose that could be served by sharing this information with them. It would only confuse the kids and possibly encourage them (if they are boys) to imitate Daddy. This you don't need. And they don't either.

Dear Ann Landers: Greg and I are engaged. He recently changed jobs and moved to another state. We see each other once a month, but we talk on the phone almost every other night. I used to believe the old adage, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder," but I'm beginning to have doubts.

Greg tells me he wants to sow some wild oats and have a last fling before he settles down for life. I respect him for being honest, but I think I'm woman enough for him and cannot face the fact that he wants to run wild for eight or 10 months — until I am able to join him. In other words, I don't want him messing around. Am I wrong to insist that he be true to me? — Miserable By The Mile

Dear Miserable: No man ever was true to a woman because she insisted on it. Greg's desire to mess around should tell you that he doesn't feel a sense of total commitment.

My advice is cool it, Toots. Inform "Wild Oats" that you want to date others — then do it. If what exists between you is the real McCoy, it will stand the test of time and distance. If it's not, better face up to the fact now.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 15-year-old daughter has been going with a boy of 19. He is a salesman who works on commission and makes good money.

Last Saturday was Emma's birthday. He bought her a fur cape that cost $600. My wife and I don't think she should accept it. Are we a couple of squares? — A Couple Of Old Fogies In Canada (Age 38)

Dear Fogies: A 15-year-old girl needs a fur cape like she needs a second row of teeth. Did she find that clown with a Geiger counter? Insist that your daughter give the cape back. It's too big a gift.

Parents, what should you do if your teenager is having sexual relations? Ann Landers' new booklet, "High School Sex and How to Deal With It — A Guide for Teens and Their Parents," give no-nonsense advice on how to handle this delicate situation. For each booklet, send 50 cents plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611. COPYRIGHT 1981 FIELD ENTERPRISES, INC.

dummy's ace, noted the fall of West's queen and East's deuce and decided that East held the king. So Stone led a club from dummy.

The play had been fast. Tobias is a fast player and East had not been thinking. He could beat the contract by playing either the jack or king of clubs, but he played the seven. Stone played low and West was helpless. If he played his ace of clubs and led back the 10, Stone's queen would become a winner. So he played his 10 first, took his ace, then had to lead a heart. Dummy's 10 spot now became the ninth trick.

Lung Association Fighting Back

By ANNE EVANS

Family News Staff

It is a common sight in magazines: the young woman and young man, both dressed in cool shades of green, sitting beside a softly flowing brook... the grass is green, the trees are full of green leaves... and the man and woman are both smoking cigarettes.

The message you are supposed to get from this ad is that smoking and nature go hand and hand.

Now imagine another picture, also in color. A man and woman are jogging through a forest. The grass is green, the trees are green, the man is wearing a sunshine yellow sweatshirt. The woman reaches down and plucks a beautiful yellow flower and inhales its fresh scent... The nature message is the same. What is missing in the second photo are cigarettes.

Until now, the glossy, polished cigarette ad campaigns steamrolled over "quit smoking" ads, showing that smoking was glamorous and natural.

But the American Lung Association is fighting back with the same packaging as cigarette companies. A new program, "Freedom From Smoking" has just been introduced by the Lung Association.

The program, which consists of two self-help booklets, was developed after four years of research by physicians, psychologists, educators and other specialists.

The first booklet, "Freedom From Smoking in 20 Days" provides a nuts-and-bolts, day-by-day approach to quitting smoking. The booklet causes the smoker to look at his smoking patterns to see why he smokes. He then uses these reasons to help himself quit cigarettes altogether. Ways to change and improve eating habits, reduce stress, assert feelings, and savor life all are highlighted in the manual as elements of a healthier lifestyle that is available to those who quit smoking.

"A Lifetime of Freedom From Smoking" is designed to help the smoker reinforce and maintain his new non-smoking lifestyle. The main problem with quitting smoking is that a large percent of quitters go back to smoking within a year. This second booklet deals with this problem.

Glossy and colorful, the booklets include many articles, quizzes, and tips on quitting smoking. The photographs are well-made and plentiful.

This is definitely a program designed with the smoker in mind. All the old excuses for not quitting are discussed at length in the booklets, and pleasant alternatives are given to substitute for smoking, such as rewarding yourself with a new shirt or participating in a sport you have not played before.

When ordering the "Freedom From Smoking" materials, a contribution of $5 to the Lung Association is requested to cover printing and handling costs. Contact the American Lung Association of Texas, 7701 North Lamar Blvd., Suite 104, Austin, Texas, 78752 or call 512/458-2500.

Side Effects Of Drug For Disease Expected

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.
Dear Dr. Donohue: My grandson, age 23, has Crohn's disease. The medicines he is taking (under doctor's direction) are sulfa and Prednisone. He is experiencing all the side effects and does not seem to be improving. Would you have any suggestions that might be helpful? — Mrs. L.G.

Crohn's disease is a serious inflammation of the lower portion of the small bowel. Because of its location (where the small intestine empties into the large) it may be more troublesome than other forms of colitis. Only when the mystery surrounding the cause of Crohn's disease has been solved will doctors be able to give a person specific treatments for it.

In meantime, we are forced to rely on steroids, sulfa drugs and a few non-drug therapies to control matters. Your grandson's side effects are to be expected. Once the inflammation is controlled the steroid dose can be reduced and in time may be discontinued. The side effects will then leave.

Some doctors are experimenting with alternate drugs for Crohn's. Although these are not ready for general use, their day will come. The non-drug treatment I mentioned involves putting the intestinal tract at complete rest for a while. In a few individuals, when circumstances warrant it, nutritional needs can be met at this time by giving them food through a vein. This can be done at home if hospitalization is impractical. It cannot be done for all cases of Crohn's disease. I mention it to let you know that there is much work being done on this illness.

I understand your concern and your grandson's resentment toward an illness that strikes so many young adults in their most productive years. Keep in mind that Crohn's disease does respond to treatment and that many famous people have led productive lives in spite of it (President Eisenhower comes to mind).

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a problem with high blood sugar, usually around 170-200. I am a male, elderly and weigh 160 pounds. But all I am told is to watch the sweets. Is there any medication for this? What is it that I should not eat? — E.E.L.

A blood sugar of 170-200 is moderately high, but not dangerously so.

There are pills to lower blood sugar, but if you can accomplish it with diet, so much the better. There is a little more to it than just watching the sweets. You have to know how many total calories are best for you to have every day. Then those calories can be divided among protein, fat and carbohydrates (sweets). This takes a good deal of explanation — more than I can effectively give you here. Why not have your doctor call a dietitian in your town? The dietitian can arrange the doctor's suggested diet for you, but it may take more than one visit to get the hang of it.

I don't know if your 160 pounds makes you overweight because you don't give me your height or describe your build. If you are overweight, it will help to lose. Your diet might be a bit less restrictive when your ideal weight is attained. For more on this, see the booklet "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." For a copy, write Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Enclose 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can a hernia be cured the way the enclosed literature says it can — without belts, straps or surgery? Most doctors advocate an operation as the only way to stop a hernia. — R.M.

I read the material you sent, but there was no explanation in it of how the therapy being sold works to stop a hernia. A hernia is like a bulge in an inner tube that is pushing out through a tear in the ROSEMONT, Ill. (Special) — More than four hundred years ago, Montezuma drank fifty pitchers of it each day from golden ceremonial goblets. In the 17th century it was worth its weight in gold, and ten beans of it would buy a slave. It's cocoa, and more is consumed in the United States than anywhere in the world.

The cocoa we drink, however, bears little resemblance to chocolate, the cold, bitter "cocoa-water" which Spanish conquistadors were served in Aztec palaces. Finding the bitter, reddish-brown brew far too strong, the Spaniards returned home with the precious beans, added honey, spices and vanilla, and the resulting mixture was instantly a popular and well-guarded secret among their countrymen. They managed to hold on to their monopoly until the mid-1600s, when a Spanish princess married a French king, and with her to France went the secret of cocoa. Soon Europeans and American colonists were drinking cocoa the same way we enjoy it today — hot and steaming, mixed with milk and topped off with whipped cream.

Cocoa and its delicious counterpart, chocolate, come from the bean of the cacao tree, an evergreen that flourishes only in tropical climates. After being harvested and cleaned, the beans are roasted to remove the shells, resulting in bean fragments called nibs. The nibs are ground and friction liquifies the cocoa butter, which constitutes about 54 percent of the bean.

A rich, dark liquid remains, which can be processed two ways. The melted cocoa butter can be squeezed out of the liquid by hydraulic presses, leaving behind a compressed cake to be crushed into a fine powder — cocoa. Or, the liquid can be rolled to grind the nibs to a very fine powder, then passed into large tubs to aerate the liquid and grind the particles even further, a process called conching. It is then poured into molds and cooled to form chocolate.

A Chocolate to Please All Tastes
Altering the processing of the nibs has given us a variety of chocolate types. The Swiss conch the liquor for as long as seventy-two hours to produce the velvety, smooth chocolate for eating, thereby creating milk chocolate. The Dutch in the East Indies treated the nibs with alkalis for a darker, richer product with a finer aroma, Dutch Chocolate. And there's German's sweet chocolate, the quality, snack-type bar named not for the country of its origin, but for Samuel German, the man who first formulated it.

While most commercial cocoa beans are dried in large plantation sheds, tradition rules in hundreds of Indian villages where the beans are grown. There the purple beans are spread on cowhides on the village streets, where they are ceremonially "danced" by the men of the tribes. The dancing of the beans is a ritualistic, barefoot, shuffle which polishes the beans to a high gloss. When they have been "danced" to a sufficient shine, they are sacked and sent to the factory, where they are graded and blended much like coffee. Cocoa beans, like coffee beans, differ from region to region.

A Drink of Many Flavors

Cocoa and chocolate are good sources of energy and as such have been important parts of diets throughout history. Adding milk to cocoa makes an already nutritious food even more so. For four cups of old-fashioned hot cocoa, combine one-fourth cup each cocoa and sugar. Gradually stir in one-half cup water, bring to boil one minute. Add three and one-half cups milk and heat to serving temperature (do not boil). Add one-half teaspoon vanilla extract and serve immediately. For a change, add one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon and one-eighth teaspoon nutmeg with cocoa-sugar mixture, or one to two tablespoons grated orange peel with milk. Two tablespoons instant coffee added to cocoa-sugar mixture makes a delicious mocha cocoa.

For a special occasion, try this rich chocolate drink as a desert. The recipe may be prepared ahead of time and stored in the refrigerator up to one week. To make enough mixture for 15 to 20 cups of hot chocolate, combine one six-ounce package semi-sweet chocolate pieces, one-half cup sugar and one-third cup water in a heavy saucepan. Heat over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is smooth. Remove from heat; cool to lukewarm. Stir in one-half teaspoon vanilla extract. Whip one cup whipping cream until stiff peaks form; fold into chocolate mixture, and chill. To make a special dessert chocolate beverage, spoon one heaping tablespoon chocolate mixture into a cup; add hot milk and stir until smooth. Serve with not-too-sweet cookies for a warm nutritious dessert.

The role of cocoa and chocolate has not been limited to that of palate pleaser. Only nobility among the Aztecs could afford to buy cocoa beans, but rations were provided for warriors free of charge because the drink relieved fatigue. Pioneers found cocoa more full-bodied and nourishing than tea and coffee, and French children eat their bread with chocolate instead of butter. Mountain climbers carry chocolate regularly, and it is found routinely in military rations.

But for the average person who doesn't climb mountains or battle gold-hungry conquistadors, cocoa still has an important place. By the fireside, at breakfast or for a nourishing snack, try a frothy mug of milky cocoa with a dollop of whipped cream or a scoop of ice cream. It's history in a mug!

VITAMIN LOSS

To prevent loss of vitamins in fresh vegetables, use a sharp blade when trimming, cutting or shredding. Loss of vitamins A and C occur when vegetables tissues are bruised, says Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Also, losses occur when fresh vegetables are held too long before serving.

ire wall. Fix the tear in the tire and the inner tube can be held in place. Surgical repair does the same thing for the hernia.

This does not mean all hernias require an operation. Circumstances, such as poor health of the patient, may make it necessary to wear a truss as a second-best way to keep the bulge under control. If you find out what the advertised lasting relief is, let me know. I'm interested. I am highly skeptical, to say the very least. Major medical breakthroughs are not usually made known in this way.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Could arthritis and ear noises be related? I am 59 years old and take Bufferin for arthritis pain. Recently, I have started having the ear sounds — L.J.H.

There may be arthritis changes that are affecting the ear structures. But there also may be a connection between the Bufferin you take for your arthritis and your ear noises. A side effect of too much aspirin is a ringing in the ears. Bufferin is a buffered aspirin. Maybe all you need is an adjustment in your dose of the Bufferin.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I visited a doctor for a checkup and he ordered an EKG.

After seeing the results he told me I had a damaged, enlarged heart. Is it possible for the doctor to determine the condition of a heart from an EKG? — M.K.

Yes, and that's the reason for the EKG. It can tell much, such as enlargement and if the heart is getting sufficient blood. Experienced doctors can practically write a book from the few squiggly lines of EKG paper that reflect the vagaries of an individual heart's performance.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Fabric Interpretations Stun Paris Crowd

By SUZY PATTERSON
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — Romance, exotica and dream-like images wove in and out of Paris couture shows recently as Ungaro and Lanvin showed different versions of opulence in their stunning interpretations of fabric.

Ungaro took a more daring tack, piling on more lace, bows, ribbons than ever over fabulous silks, bringing the house down with his frothy finale.

Skirts in airy silk crepes were short to the knee, but the mini just wouldn't go with all this decor, which often included different flowers, plaids, piping and solids in the same outfit.

As a live string trio played Mozart and Boccherini in the 18th-century palace where Ungaro intrepidly mixed up plaids with lame-edged jackets, yokes in a different silk, with filmy ruffled blouses underneath.

Not content with just silk prints, Ungaro currently turns out jacquard silks or light laces that are re-embroidered.

Lines are sometimes hard to decipher, but shoulders are definitely emphasized by puffiness, jackets are cinched at the waist, sometimes very long, sometimes yoked with a tiny salute to military dress jackets. And skirts or dresses are invariably very full, flared or pleated.

His headgear is strictly for effect. Coiffeur Alexandre planted nylon wigs with Danish pastry knots on models' heads, and these were topped by black plastic bubble crowns on big squares or circles.

Ungaro's day look works best in all the mixes of black and white but it would intimidate most women. For evening, the romantic lace dresses with shepherdess sleeves, the extravagant hues of flowery-lame Chinese silks might thrill anyone who would like to look like a Na-bab's wife.

To get the Ungaro effect, just try to find one of those opulent luminescent shawls with tassels, drape it over anything, but preferably a dress just as rich. Or dip in the grab bag for the most exquisite laces to edge with lame, decorate with appliqued flowers and pearls, mix with silk for a tunic over a full skirt and top with a pointed shiny white Thai deity's crown.

It's vaguely Oriental, but mostly Ungaro.

And who wears these frothy things? Bianca Jagger and Marie-Helene de Rothschild to name two. There they were in plain, velvet, lace and ribbons in the front row. And Jagger couldn't wait to go backstage after the show, perhaps to order her new wardrobe.

Another view of India was from Lanvin, where designer Jules-Francois Crahay used exquisite sari silks and showed a few draped dresses and narrowed Indian pants.

But that wasn't his whole story. He got a big hand from an audience for his understated elegance for daytime. The classic outfits in pastel shades of cream, butter yellow and sea green looked very wearable with their gathered dirndl skirts and wide-shouldered jackets.

And innovation is the handkerchief jacket that hangs drapely and loose in front over a scooped-out Peter Pan collar on the blouse. Crahay kept most skirts knee-length, but went quite short in a draped one lifted by a knot at the waist. The top featured a Nehru collar and elbow-length sleeves for daytime, a tight bodice — or bustier one — for evening.

This latter line might be called "ouch" as it cinches in and puffs out the models' skimpy bosoms. But it does look pretty with big puffy skirts or culottes in fabulous flowered light sari silks threaded throughout with lame.

For freer spirits (and busts) Crahay also showed puff-sleeved, full dresses in dotted Swiss. Another innovation is a kind of squared-off top with kimono sleeves, pulled off one shoulder, bowed at the waist, with a full skirt folded over into a petal, sometimes over narrow pants.

The favorite evening color here was red in the stunning lame fabrics, and even the bride wore it, dolled up line an Indian princess.

Norwegian Designer's Spring Collection Centers Around Polo

By SUZY PATTERSON
AP Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP) — Prince Charles might not choose you as his future queen, but he'll surely notice if you wear a Per Spook outfit. Polo, the sport of kings, was the theme of Spook's spring haute couture collection shown recently.

This young designer from Norway is the latest comer to be accepted into the Paris inner sanctum of high fashion. He's an original who goes his own way, dropping skirts to a dignified mid-calf, bucking the tide of rising hemlines shown at other designer houses.

It's a very "Deauville" line, suitable for the races as well as the Polo Club, with pencil-slim lines, lots of white varied by jockey colors and bold patterns in blousy tops. The long skirt is almost hobbled, making tall girls look even taller. The pleated skirts are tucked close at the hip, and then flare-out split-way-up the back.

Top his daytime look with a stiff net jockey cap or a scarf-wrapped British colonial sunhat, and you've got the essence of Spook, who chose a completely clean line devoid of clutter.

Spook tends to emphasize one big idea, and here the horsey theme is worthy of Eddie Arcaro. All those stripes, diamonds and numbers (always three, for some reason) on shirts with puffy sleeves, plus plenty of horseshoes and scattered polo ball are enough to amuse us between races or chukkers.

Spook also borrowed jodphurs to shape the sleeves, lacing them up tapered wrists. Other ideas included big rounded sleeves on short jackets, and a huge taffeta coat, with a little buckle at the inverted pleat down the side.

If it's pants you're after, Spook brought out lots of pedal-pushers in pink and white, with easy tops, and short-shorts, all harking back to the equestrian theme.

Most outfits were in supple fabrics like crepe-de-chine or very soft wool, which made them look fluid. Evening wear tended to be understated, and often in satin. A siren-red version with laced-up "jodphur" sleeves was handsome hugging the body and flaring well above the ankle. And if bloomers are your thing, Spook offers them in puffy white organza, with sparkling tops.

Hanae Mori is another favorite for understated elegance, and her couture collection was no exception.

As at Spook, white was the big spring "color." But Mori's skirt lengths are in short to the knee. The collection has lots of the details that make couture so expensive — plenty of ruffled collars, braid and ruffles throughout.

Mrs. Mori's evening wear as usual was sexy and intriguing, soft silks and chiffons often printed with exotic jungle themes, and shimmering with lame weaves.

At the end, several fashion journalists awarded the "golden thimble" prize for creativity to Lanvin's designer, Jules-Francois Crahay.

He was not at the party to accept, and rumors of his malcontent with Lanvin were spreading. The house's clothes operation is now being taken over by the perfume branch. But a spokesman for Lanvin scotched the issue, saying "We're sure he'll stay."

These awards came, local Jaycee-Ettes feel, because of their dedication to making Lubbock a better community.

Jayceettes, who believe that together they can make a difference, are 45,000 young women between the ages of 18 and 35 who provide individual development and leadership training to young women who, in turn, use that training to improve their communities.

Nationally, the organization supports such programs as Muscular Dystrophy, governmental affairs, St. Jude's Hospital, Project Concern, and Runaway Hotline.

The local women are active in programs such as the South Plains Children's Shelter, Lubbock State School, Meals on Wheels, South Plains Multiple Sclerosis Society and Easter Seals, as well as the Texas Jaycee Campus.

The last is a college for severely handicapped students, and is a special project of Lubbock Jaycee-Ettes.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Chemist's Solution Fantastic

DEAR HELOISE:

For a very economical, fantastic window, mirror and appliance cleaning solution, mix one pint rubbing alcohol with 10 pints water, then add two drops of liquid dishwashing detergent.

Mix well and place in a spray bottle. Use as you would any glass-appliance cleaner.

This formula was given to me by a co-worker who is a chemist. I find it does a very good job of cleaning and doesn't leave streaks.

Also the solution is much more economical than bought cleaners. When you compare the cost, you'll find the savings are considerable. — Evalyne Sheppard

True, and the cleaner really does work very well. As you said, it left no streaks but it was a little harder to wipe off than bought cleaners.

This can be remedied by adding one part alcohol to five parts water but, of course, the savings would be a little less — but still substantial. Thanks for writing. — Heloise

SO THEY WON'T STICK

DEAR HELOISE:

My mother offered me a solution to sticky marshmallows in a bag.

She added cornstarch, shook the bag very well, and worked the outside of the bag a little with her fingers (bag still closed).

No marshmallows stuck together and they are like new again. Shake off the excess cornstarch before using the marshmallows. — Mrs. J.A. Jones have been so proud of the fact that I am such a good cook. My husband has thanked his lucky stars many times for marrying me. We enjoy a variety of foods and are willing to try new and different dishes.

You can only imagine my embarrassment when I recently found out that the tough skin on the hams I had been serving was actually a paper protector.

I just had to share this laugh. Just goes to show that sometimes we are not as great as we think we are. I just love your column! — Terri Little things have a way of humbling us on occasion. But, if it's any consolation, I'd wager many of us "more experienced" cooks have done this more times than we'd care to admit. Anyway, thanks for sharing a chuckle. — Heloise

SHARP POINTS

DEAR HELOISE:

I just discovered a new and easy way to sharpen the lead of a dull pencil when you either don't have a sharpener or just want to sharpen the lead point and not the whole pencil.

Just use an old emery board, rotating the pencil lead back and forth across it.

Works great, giving the lead a real sharp point without wasting any of the pencil. — Betty Ann Svendsen

Fantastic! Just lay the pencil on its side and, using a small amount of pressure, rub gently. Works every time! — Heloise

A MONEY SAVER

DEAR HELOISE:

You asked for money-saving ideas. Here's mine...

I buy a package of chicken necks — about 12 in a package — add a little water, a small can of tomatoes, a carrot or two, an onion, and any leftover vegetables.

We have a lovely pot of chicken soup and the necks to nibble on as there is quite a bit of meat on them.

My husband and I have a nutritious meal which is very easy on the budget. — Millie Freitag

SCENT FOR LINENS

DEAR HELOISE:

For a feeling of luxury, place two or three sections of perfumed clothes dryer sheets under each side of your pillow protector and a few under the mattress cover. (This of course, if you aren't allergic to the sheets.)

The fragrance will last for weeks and softener sections can still be used in the dryer. — Jen Lafreniere

City Gasoline Prices Rise Following Decontrol

By DEBBI STALTER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Following an average price increase of 10 cents a gallon for gasoline across the nation, the Lubbock market stayed close behind with an approximate 8-cent price jump reported here since President Reagan instigated price decontrols.

The increases have hit Lubbock consumers gradually, with average 4-cent markups showing up at the pumps in each of the past two weeks.

And, at least two distributors here are predicting retail prices will hit at least $1.50 a gallon by this summer.

Gas buyers are already paying in the $1.20 to $1.44 range, with the price depending upon whether the purchaser uses regular or unleaded fuel and self-or full-service.

A survey by The Avalanche-Journal of 10 local service stations points out that consumers can save considerably by filling up their own tanks. Prices for self-service regular grade gas usually ranged in the $1.20 to $1.27 a gallon range, while buyers who let someone else do the work can expect to pay in the $1.29 to $1.33 category.

Full-service, unleaded gasoline, the most expensive, hit the $1.44-a-gallon mark this week at a University Avenue station. However, those who look farther can pay as low as $1.29 a gallon for the same fuel.

Both Reagan's price decontrols and OPEC price increases have contributed to a national price jump since Jan. 1.

Retail prices, averaged for all four grades of gasoline, went from $1.22 to $1.32 since the first of the year, according to oil market analyst Dan Lundberg.

The rise reflects increases by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, retroactive to the first of the year, and President Reagan's decision to lift oil price controls ahead of schedule, Lundberg said.

Lundberg's staff had projected prices of $1.45 a gallon by the end of the year without decontrol and OPEC price boosts. Now, he said, "It looks like the end of the year will get here sooner than we had thought."

The trend will hold true in Lubbock, say two wholesalers.

"There's no question about it," said Nelson Hall, vice president of Benton Oil Co.

Hall said that although many factors will contribute to the gas market fluctuations, $1.50 a gallon will not be an unexpected price by mid-year, nor will $1.65 a gallon by the end of 1981.

Both Hall and distributor Jim Ince of Ince Oil Co. feel that because of the competitiveness of the Lubbock market, prices should stay in a comparable, if not lower, range with the rest of the nation.

"You're not going to find anybody scalping anyone," Ince said.

He noted that Lubbock gas prices will be high in any consumer's terms, but the local competition should result in an eventual tapering-off of pump prices.

Hall said competition all over the state is normally strong, with Texas suppliers realizing a lower profit margin than other areas of the nation.

Hall pointed out that the number of unbranded, independent retailers in Lubbock adds greatly to the rivalry for customers.

Analyst Lundberg said prices have been rising rapidly since the decontrol order, but those on the West Coast were increasing slower than those in the East.

"It won't be possible to know what really happened until the dust settles, which may take a month or more," the letter said.

Gasoline dealers have increased their gross profit margin by two-tenths of a cent per gallon, Lundberg said. He added that retail operators are taking 9.15 cents a gallon profit.

The city with the lowest price increase in the Jan. 23-Feb. 6 survey period was Salem, Ore., with an increase of 6.6 cents per gallon, Lundberg said. The greatest increase was recorded in El Paso, up 10.3 cents to $1.32 a gallon.

Here are price increases for selected cities in the period Jan. 9 to Feb. 6:

—Albuquerque to $1.35.99, an increase of 10.1 cents.

—Boston to $1.33.98, an increase of 9.12 cents.

—Chicago to $1.42.60, an increase of 8.21 cents.

—Los Angeles to $1.35.43, an increase of 7.6 cents.

—Miami to $1.35.99, an increase of 9.5 cents.

—San Francisco to $1.37.53, an increase of 7.94 cents.

—Seattle to $1.33.97, an increase of 6.92 cents.

Hunts To Get Bonehead Award

DALLAS (AP) — The Bonehead Club of Dallas Monday named Nelson Bunker Hunt and Herbert Hunt Boneheads of the Year for the millions of dollars they won and lost in the 1980 silver market.

The Hunt brothers will be presented with the award at noon Friday at the Lakewood Country Club.

The club said the Hunts, the first double winners, also were double boneheads because not only did they emerge second-best in the volatile market but they also allowed themselves to be blamed for the entire fiasco.

Nevada Casinos' Earnings Total Nearly 2.4 Billion

CARSON CITY (AP) — Gamblers dropped nearly $2.4 billion in Nevada casinos during 1980, giving the clubs a 12.4 percent gain over the previous year and dispelling some gloomy revenue predictions.

Gov. Bob List, while optimistic, says he wants to see sales tax figures — expected this week — before he can say the state's economy "is bouncing back vigorously."

Year-end figures for 1980, compiled by the Nevada Gaming Control Board and released Saturday, show the clubs collected nearly $2.4 billion in taxable gross revenues. The state's slice in taxes was $125 million.

List said he was pleased with the total figures in light of problems such as the temporary closing of the Aladdin hotel-casino in Las Vegas, the devastating fire at the MGM Grand in Las Vegas.

The governor's budget projections call for a 12 percent gain in gaming revenue in fiscal 1981-82 and a 14 percent increase in 1982-83.

List said the renewed willingness of tourists to spend money for recreation and travel in Nevada could mean "the economy is generally becoming optimistic."

Tech Student Leaders Flay Tuition Hike

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Dire consequences, including a decline in enrollment, are forecast by student leaders at Texas Tech if the legislature supports a proposed 100 percent tuition hike at state colleges and universities.

"The cost of education has risen tremendously and students cannot be expected to bear another over-burdening increase in the cost of their education," warned Jeff Williams, vice president for external affairs in Tech's Student Association, at a Monday news conference.

Williams cited a survey he said indicated that 17 percent of the student body would be compelled to drop out of school if tuition were doubled. He conceded, though, that the survey also showed that 82 percent said that the tuition increase would not impose a hardship on them.

The Tech student government body will be joined by like organizations from North Texas State University, Texas A&M, the University of Houston and other schools this weekend to plead their case in Austin with state officials.

Although Williams opposes any increase in the existing rate of $4 per semester hour, he admits that legislators believe some increase is almost inevitable.

Figures from the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, point out that Texas tuition ranks 46th-lowest among all states for resident students and 25th-lowest for non-resident students.

But while the Coordinating Board staff points to that statistic as a blight, others see it as a point of pride and have vowed to keep Texas tuition rates low.

One of those vocal supporters of maintaining low fees is Marshall Formby of Plainview, a veteran member of the 18-member Coordinating Board.

He believes that the only way to provide educational opportunities for all is to keep costs affordable to all income levels.

Echoing similar sentiment is the Tech Student Association, whose leaders point to a survey of 500 students as evidence of their dire predictions.

Williams said the survey indicated three "adverse reactions" if the 100 percent hike is passed:

- Fewer course hours would be taken by students.
- Students may have less time to study if forced to spend more time working to pay for college.
- Some students — the survey indicates 17 percent — say they would be forced to drop out of school if the tuition is doubled.

But those who support the tuition increase, including the Special Committee on Higher Education Financing in Texas, say the state can't shoulder the education cost burden any longer.

They say that in 1967 it cost the state $634 per year to educate a full-time student and that today it costs $2,738, yet tuition rates have remained relatively unchanged since 1967.

Other costs, however, including room and board, books, transportation and fees, have escalated.

That's why Williams says, "These increases have made it extremely difficult for students to obtain a college education, and a tuition increase would further heighten the difficulty, and in some cases make it impossible to acquire a college education."

The student group also opposes two other fee hikes proposed by the special financing committee: that medical school tuition be raised from $400 per year to $3,600 per year and that dental school tuition be raised from $400 to $2,500 per year.

Although the student association survey indicated 17 percent of the 500 students polled said they would be forced to drop out of school if tuition doubled, the survey also indicated that 82 percent would have no hardship if tuition doubled. In addition, 71 percent said they would take the same course load and 81 percent said that they are not working their way through college and would not be forced to if tuition increased.

Group Established Here To Assist Disabled Persons

By NEAL FARMER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Establishing a way to find jobs for Lubbock's disabled persons and offering ideas to bring the disabled society to "the good life" are two goals of the newly formed Community Partnership Program for the disabled in Lubbock.

Addressing the organizational meeting of the Community Partnership Program at Texas Tech, the chairman of the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped told the group that bad attitudes toward handicapped persons aren't held just by physically normal persons.

Chairman Justin W. Dart Jr., himself confined to a wheelchair, said, "We — beginning with those of us who are disabled — must act, must accept complete responsibility for our own lives, to control and mold our thoughts and actions toward a total, rational effort to maximize quality of life for the self and for all."

Dart said trying to develop real, often undramatic, changes in the daily thoughts of individuals are the ways to help ease the harshness often shown to handicapped persons.

The chairman also told the meeting that the number of disabled Americans is approximately 36 million, of which 60 percent of working age exist at or below the poverty level.

Dart said handicapped persons are willing to work and just need the chance. He also said spending on disability has become a farce. "Federal, state, local and private spending on disability — mostly devoted to the maintenance of non-productive dependence — has grown from $59.1 billion in 1970 to an estimated $210 billion in 1980. If present trends are allowed to continue, this situation, already a major contributor to public deficits and inflation, could become an uncontrollable socio-economic cancer," Dart said.

Dart defined the problem toward not accepting disabled persons as one of avoiding the subject because of unpleasant implications.

"The vast majority of individuals with disabilities, the weak, the different, the half-pitied, half-despised, half-members of every group, are the natural inhabitants of the lower regions of our social hierarchy and are firmly established as everman's reliable inferiors, society's eternal children," Dart said.

Dart explained disabled persons are taught through society that they exist as hopelessly impoverished and permanently outcast from "the good life."

The chairman added the disabled are looked at by other persons as "millions of relatively silent and invisible disabled Americans who exist in a state of unspoken but very real untouchability."

Dart called on all disabled persons, whether blind, unable to walk or unable to talk, to take a more active role in society and reject the stereotypes set for the handicapped.

The chairman also called for the newly formed Community Partnership Program to set up subcommittees to help handicapped persons find jobs.

Also speaking before the group was W.K. Harvey, commissioner of the Texas Rehabilitation Committee, who offered suggestions for the actual structure of the committee.

Noting that 1981 has been decreed the International Year for the Disabled by the United Nations, Harvey said, "The significant point at this time is that you are taking specific, local action, using the international year as a vehicle, to address a concentrated effort not only to make the community aware of a most important segment of its population — its disabled citizens — but to improve that segment's access to the opportunity to participate more fully in all the activities of our society."

Harvey cited as examples of what the committee could do as development of a parking ordinance reserving spaces for disabled persons, elimination of sidewalk curbs at street crossings and routine provision of interpreters for the deaf at all public meetings.

The state commissioner also suggested communicating with other cities on problems and solutions for Lubbock, explaining, "A problem that would be unique to someone in Lubbock might be an old problem for someone in Houston."

More than 80 communities now have the program just started in Lubbock, Harvey said, and are able to help other cities in their needs for the disabled.

Harvey said the local chapter needs to work with the state and national organizations behind the International Year of Disabled Persons, but the most important factor for the success of helping others is a home base.

"The local level is where the problems are and where they must be attacked. We can, hopefully, at the state and national levels, provide support and certainly encouragement; but when it is all said and done, the ultimate action must occur within the community."

Oil Issues Lose Big

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market retreated Monday with oil issues among the big losers...

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which opened higher, fell 5.12 to 947.18 by the close of trading...

Declines outnumbered advances by a 3-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said that despite several optimistic signs that inflationary pressures were easing, large investors sat out the session and the early rally fizzled.

Big Board volume totaled 38.33 million shares, against 45.82 million Friday.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

THERE'S AN OLD CHINESE SAYING: "Confucius says sell on good news."

A cotton futures analyst says last Friday was a good example of how right he was.

"The market spent much of the week anticipating confirmation of large export sales," the analyst remarked. "But remember what happened following the report of the 534,000 bales that greeted us just before Christmas?"

"After that report was out, the market suffered 10 cents. There is a difference today. The statistical situation is tighter, the price level is lower, and we don't suggest another 10-cent break. However, it was a ratty performance."

Also, that report showing the high weekly export sales of this marketing year was released during a holiday period (at noon on Christmas Eve, a Wednesday), when the futures market was closed.

Merchant offering prices strengthened as they stepped up their purchases of spot cotton before the futures market reopened the following Monday. This tended to alleviate whatever need there might have been on the heels of the report to buy futures immediately.

SPECULATORS WERE DISAPPOINTED WHEN futures ended with what many viewed as a modest advance of about a cent in the spot month — which settled 85 points below the session's high — on the first trading day after the report before dropping the limit the next day.

Be all that as it may, the market reacted to last week's export report of new cotton marketing year sales of 336,700 running bales — second high of the season — by settling 117 points lower in spot March and 184 points lower in May.

Why this poor performance? "Nothing is new," the analyst said. "Business is poor and getting worse and that has to have its day in this market," he added, mentioning various shutdowns and slow-downs at major mills.

"No one who listens to President Reagan can hear any promise of an immediate cure for our problems," the analyst said, "and the prospect of some belt-tightening cannot escape the notice of cotton traders."

Maybe cotton traders should be somewhat schizophrenic.

"THE STATISTICS OF THE MARKET are very bullish," the analyst suggested.

"Who can argue very much with this set of numbers: crop — 11 1/4 million bales; exports — 6 million bales; domestic consumption — 5 3/4 million bales; carryover — 2 1/2 million bales?"

"It's fair to suggest that if the market breaks enough to generate additional large export sales, we will have an extremely tight situation this summer."

"If the weather is not accommodating, the market will be explosive. However, all of this is far from a sure thing. The market could prove quite a test of risk measurement."

At the halfway point in this marketing year, export sales have reached 5.1 million running bales or 5.3 million statistical (480 pounds) bales. This compares with 8.4 million running bales a year ago, when season-long exports were the largest of modern times.

"INTERESTINGLY, ENOUGH THE SECOND half of last season saw us put only another 450,000 bales through the books and onto boats," the analyst said, "and the second half of this season will have some tantalizingly slow periods."

He compared U. S. cotton's standing with major customers as compared with a year ago. The comparisons (with year-earlier figures in parentheses): Western Europe — 511,000 bales (532,000); China — 1,542,000 (3,560,900); Hong Kong — 161,000 (167,000); Japan — 873,000 (1,469,000); Korea — 848,000 (1,149,000); Taiwan — 297,000 (750,000).

"I am not going to try to estimate how much needs to be bought in the second half of the season, but I doubt whether price will permit reaching more than the 6-million-bale mark," the analyst said.

"This market is hard on the nerves, but we would prefer to try to have some room to be a good buyer near the lower end of this well-defined trading range, while not having too bold a hope for much higher prices unless the weather plays the devil's role."

COTTON FUTURES CLOSED A QUIET SESSION down the 200-point limit in spot March through July Monday, with December off 135 points at 81.65 cents.

Analysts said prices were depressed because of an exodus of speculative long position holders, who became frustrated with the market's failure to muster a significant rally after a seemingly bullish export report late last week.

Selling ideas were reinforced by weaker grain prices and bearish chart patterns, analysts said. They said they knew of no fundamental reasons for the cotton decline.

Heightened Soviet-Polish tension, which traders believe might lead to a total grain embargo against the Soviet bloc, prompted aggressive general long liquidation in the grain pits, sources said, as did reports Monday morning of widespread price protection in wheat, corn and soybeans.

The cotton market had been expected to open slightly lower on carryover selling from Friday but there had been some belief that a further decline might be limited following new prime rate reductions.

AFTER OPENING 70-100 POINTS LOWER, the market by mid-session was down the limit in nearby. The selling was initiated by commission houses in general, one analyst said, with the trade fairly quiet.

What activity the trade did participate in, he said, was in the form of scale-down buying, believed to have been mostly mill-fxing.

Meanwhile, the USDA reported in a weekly report that domestic mill buying remained light last week. Mills continued to receive cotton from earlier purchases and a few fixed prices.

Many mills have their needs covered into the second quarter. A few mills inquired for cotton for early summer and later shipment but little buying occurred.

Most mills remained cautious about adding to cotton stocks and generally were not buying unless the purchases could be supported by product sales. Numerous segments of the textile market continued to experience a generally soft tone.

Sales yarn, industrial fabrics and some household products were described as slow movers. Apparel such as blue den and print cloth and fabrics for athletic wear continued to sell readily, the report said, while corduroy remained slow and denim sales slowed.

FORWARD CONTRACTING OF THE 1981 CROP by growers belted through the end of January was less active than in the two previous years, the USDA reported. About 4 percent of the prospective plantings had been booked, compared with 14 percent through January 1980 and 7 percent in 1979.

These estimates were based on the January planting intentions report and informal surveys made by the cotton division of the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

Growers in South Central states were the most active in contracting and had booked more than 11 percent of their expected crop. More than 4 percent of the crop in the Southeast was sold ahead, about 3 percent in the Far West, and about 1 percent in the Southwest.

Texas growers had sold 1 percent ahead, compared with 7 percent in 1980, 5 percent in 1979, an insufficient amount to count in 1978, 10 percent in 1977, and 2 percent in 1976.

The great bulk of the 1981-crop acreage contracted in the state is reported to have been in South Texas, with hardly any volume of significance on the High Plains.

THE NATIONAL WEIGHTED AVERAGE PRICE received by farmers nationally for upland cotton during the 1980 calendar year was 73.30 cents per pound, according to the USDA's Economics and Statistics Service.

This is above the 1980 target price of 58.40 cents. Current legislation provides for deficiency payments to be made to producers if the price received by farmers during the calendar year is below the target price.

The weighted average price was 58.90 cents in calendar 1979, 55.10 in 1978, and 56.20 in 1977.

Trading on Telcel slowed drastically to only 1,929 bales, which brought an average price of 65.23 cents, an average over the loan of 2,778 points, with the market difference down 150 points. There was broad downward pressure on the different qualities.

The daily volume was the lowest since Nov. 6, when it was roughly the same. That was before the 1970 crop had begun to move to market in volume.

Chemical Company Agrees To Clean Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Occidental Chemical Co. reached agreement with the government Monday on a program to clean up underground water contamination near a California pesticide and fertilizer plant.

The agreement, submitted for court approval in Sacramento, Calif., will require Occidental to clean up and contain hazardous chemical wastes that have leached into the water supply around its Lathrop, Calif., plant.

Peanuts Effective Nitrogen Converter

By ROBERT L. HANEY
Texas Agricultural Experiment Station
The peanut is one of the most effective of that group of plants with the strange ability to remove needed nitrogen from the air and convert it to the plant's uses.

Scientists at Texas A&M University are seeking the cause of this ability with the aim of encouraging the trait in the peanut and perhaps transferring it to other plants.

Soaring costs of fertilizers, many of which are derived from petrochemicals, has given increased impetus to research on any plant with the capability of nitrogen fixation.

Though even some of the grasses have been found to have this ability to a limited extent, the most active group of nitrogen-fixing plants is the legumes, with a diversity of types such as the clovers, soybeans, peanuts, cowpeas, mesquites, and bluebonnets.

"In comparison under controlled, identical conditions the peanut was found to be 1 1/2 to three times as active as the cowpea or siratro at different nodule ages," said Dr. Dipankar Sen, research associate who performed this research with Dr. R. Weaver, soil microbiologist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

"It's well known that nitrogen fixation in the root nodules of legumes is the result of complex interactions between the legume host and a type of bacteria, called rhizobia," according to Sen.

"It's also recognized that certain strains of bacteria are more effective with certain legumes than others; the bacteria within the root are modified to bacteroids and fix atmospheric nitrogen, which becomes available to the host."

"While the effectiveness of the nodules is usually determined by the bacterial genotype, some plant genes are known to modify the ability of the bacteria to infect or produce effective nodules."

It is not known to what extent or how plants actually influence bacteroids. But the bacteria in peanut nodules undergo very drastic changes and look very different from bacteroids of other legumes hosts.

To determine the likely effect of such modification on nitrogen fixation, peanuts, cowpeas, and siratro (a tropical forage legume with small seed and leaves) were inoculated with six different strains of Rhizobium of the cowpea cross-inoculation group and compared for the nitrogen fixation activity of their nodules and the nitrogen accumulated in their tops.

Three of these strains are known to be very effective on cowpeas (n15, 176A38, and TAL11) and two on peanut (T1 and 201). Strain 32H1, used in a previous study, was also included. All six strains of Rhizobium produced effective nodules in the cowpea and siratro. In the peanut, strain n15 produced ineffective nodules and strain 176A38 did not induce nodulation.

Therefore, complete comparisons were restricted to plants inoculated by four rhizobial strains.

Nitrogen fixation activity was much higher for the peanut than for either cowpea or siratro, even when inoculated by the most effective strain of Rhizobium.

Nitrogen accumulated in plant tops, per unit of nodule mass, represents a better measure of the performance of nodules in fixing nitrogen when plants are grown in nitrogen-deficient nutrient solution. These values were also much higher for peanuts.

In most cases, siratro and cowpea values were about the same. Bacteroidal protein content was lowest for peanuts and does not explain the higher nitrogen-fixing ability of peanuts.

"The results show," Weaver says, "that the superiority of the peanut over the cowpea in nitrogen fixation is not restricted only to modulation by strain 32H1. Moreover, the peanut had a similar degree of superiority over siratro."

"Though the cowpea and siratro differ in many characteristics, their nitrogen-fixing activities per unit module were quite similar."

South Texas Test Spraying Eyed In Fruit Fly Warfare

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — Scientists battling to save the California fruit industry from the Mediterranean fruit fly could base their next move on recent test spraying in South Texas.

Fruit fly infestation in some California counties threatens the state's multi-billion-dollar agricultural industry. State and federal officials have considered aerial insecticide spraying as a last resort if other methods do not succeed.

Preliminary results of the simulated pesticide spraying here shows aerial spraying from high altitudes might work, a government official said Wednesday.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture had planned to test spray the insecticide Malathion from 1,000 feet in the Lower Rio Grande Valley in January to check the chemical's drift from that height.

The chemical usually is applied at 300 to 500 feet but county officials in one California infested area say they will refuse flight permits for low-altitude spraying.

However, the USDA decided to substitute ethylene glycol, commonly used as antifreeze, for Malathion in the tests after local residents objected, said Harvey Ford, a deputy administrator with the USDA in Washington.

Ford said ethylene glycol has a similar weight density to Malathion.

Government scientists sprayed the chemical at a former Air Force base in a largely unpopulated area north of Mission one day last month. The base houses several USDA research agencies.

Researchers had planned to spray above a more populated area near Progress, 45 miles to the southeast and two miles from the Rio Grande. The river supplies local drinking water.

Ford said local worries about the pesticide spraying were unwarranted.

"Malathion is probably one of the most highly-used insecticides in the world. The amounts that would be put on an area would be just over two ounces per acre, which is very low," he said. "As far as problems to humans (from the chemical), to our knowledge there are none," he said.

Robin Alexander, an attorney with Texas Rural Legal Aid, said researchers would have had no control over the chemical's drift from 1,000 feet.

"It seemed to us it would have been crazy to spray from that height because it was in a populated area and near the river where people get water," he said.

"We don't have a medfly problem here," she said. "I guess they thought they could use us as guinea pigs."

Ford said South Texas was chosen because the USDA has a fleet of planes located here for research programs. He emphasized no decision has been made on whether to use aerial spraying in California.

"Based on preliminary data, we could successfully put out the pesticide at 1,000 feet and control its drift," he added.

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain and soybean futures prices fell sharply Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade in what traders said was a market moved partly by weather forecasts and partly by political news.

Each commodity fell as much, or almost as much, as it is allowed to in a day's trading.

Traders said there was heavy selling in the face of increasingly tense relations between Poland and the Soviet Union due to labor unrest in Poland. The situation tended to create fear there could be an expanded embargo of U.S. grain.

Analysts also noted that a storm was expected to dump rain and snow in parts of the winter wheat belt — a development beneficial to yields and supply and therefore negative for prices.

Traders said buying by commercial interests was not heavy enough to outweigh selling by local traders and a large multi-national house in corn and soybeans.

Hundreds Receive Meningitis Vaccine

HOUSTON (UPI) — Public health nurses, Monday, vaccinated more than 700 students and faculty at Dodson Elementary School, where five sixth-graders have been stricken, one fatally, with contagious meningitis.

Children lined up class-by-class in the school library, early Monday, and completed the inoculations within 90 minutes. Nurses planned to return Tuesday to vaccinate about 100 children who lacked parental authorization papers.

"It didn't hurt at all. I took it like a man," Terrance Mark, 7, told classmates waiting in line for their shots.

"I wasn't too scared and it didn't hurt," said LaKeisha Bickham, 8, wiping tears from her eyes.

Officials said the number of confirmed cases in Houston had risen from 30 to 32, with no new deaths. Spokesmen said that, citywide, the disease has been confirmed as the cause of three deaths since Jan. 1. It was suspected as the cause of a fourth death.

Doctors said Monday they had confirmed new cases of meningitis in a 5-year-old at Fondren Elementary School and a 47-year-old man. They said the two new confirmed cases and a suspected case in a 10-month-old child living in suburban Tomball did not appear related to the Dodson cases.

The five Type C meningitis cases at Dodson were clustered in one sixth-grade class. A 12-year-old girl died Jan. 31, one day after she began exhibiting symptoms of the disease. Her four stricken classmates are recovering.

Type C meningitis, an inflammation of the membranes surrounding the spinal cord, is caused by bacteria and is contagious with prolonged contact. Symptoms include high fever, headache, vomiting, stiffness and mental confusion. The disease is generally treatable with antibiotics if caught in time but can lead to hearing loss as well as death.

Unusual Clustering

Health officials were particularly concerned about the "unprecedented" clustering of cases at Dodson.

Dr. Robert MacLean, deputy director of the Houston Health Department, said the risk of further spread at Dodson appeared low, but the vaccinations were decided upon as a precautionary measure.

"Since we were dealing with Type C, for which there is a vaccine available, experts decided that in the interim we would take this precaution," MacLean said.

The Health Department director, Dr. Judith Craven, said the vaccination will become effective within a week and its immunity would last a year. She said there would be no side effects from the injection.

Geri Konigsberg, spokeswoman for the Houston Independent School District, said mass vaccinations were not planned for any other school.

Public health investigators, including a team from the U.S. Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, were trying to unravel the mystery of how the disease spread at Dodson. They said it had clustered at military bases and nursing homes, but never in a single class in a school.

Doctors said Monday that throat cultures taken from 1,350 students, teachers, family and friends showed a 10 percent rate of persons carrying the bacteria in their throats without being infected. A spokesman said that rate was normal.

Blood tests taken from 150 selected pupils were still being evaluated.

MacLean said the generally wintertime disease appeared to be more common this year nationwide. He said Houston last year experienced 35 cases of meningitis all year.

Kidnapping Fires Mideast Tensions

nappers by cutting all approach roads to Muheissen's residence "to facilitate the escape of the attackers who drove past three (Syrian) checkpoints without problems."

In a speech to the Jordanian Parliament, Badran had called on other nations with embassies in Lebanon to demand better protection or pull out if it is not provided.

The anti-Syrian Christian Phalangist radio said it had received so many conflicting telephone calls from people claiming to hold Muheissen that it temporarily halted broadcasting the claims.

But before it gave up broadcasting the various communiques, the radio quoted a caller as saying that the 48-hour deadline against Muheissen's life would not be extended.

The caller said he represented the "Eagles of the Revolution," a group that Jordan has charged is really a shadowy extension of Syrian army intelligence. Other communiques purporting to be from the same group and broadcast by Damascus Radio have denied responsibility for the kidnapping.

The radio said the caller gave no proof that he actually had Muheissen, 42, and officials admitted they had no way of knowing if the call were genuine.

Whatever the identity of Muheissen's kidnapers, the explosive implications of his abduction reverberated throughout the Arab world, raising fears that the underground Arab war being waged in Beirut since 1975 was about to escalate.

In another sign that appeared to bear those fears out, Abdel Salam Simaan, a Syrian national carrying a diplomatic passport, was shot and killed Sunday by unidentified gunmen in Kuwait.

It seemed clear from the circumstances of Muheissen's abduction that whoever kidnapped him either wanted to inflame already existing tensions between Syria and Jordan or take advantage of them to point the finger of blame Syria's way.

Jordan, which almost went to war with Syria late last year, wasted no time in noting that Muheissen's abduction occurred within close sight of a Syrian peacekeeping checkpoint.

"Syria has stripped Lebanon from Lebanese sovereignty and turned the country into a jungle full of gangsters," Badran said, referring to the role of Syrian troops in Lebanon since its 1975-76 civil war.

Palestinian sources said Muheissen had good relations with the Palestine Liberation Organization and was an important figure in the ongoing dialogue between PLO chief Yasser Arafat and Jordan's King Hussein.

They speculated his abductors may have wanted to spoil those contacts.

Atlanta Death Data Probed

mar Mathis, 11, and Darron Glass, 10, still unaccounted for.

Several Atlanta City Council members joined relatives and friends of Lubie "Chuck" Geter Monday at the funeral for the 14-year-old, whose body was found in a strip of woods in South Atlanta Thursday. Geter, who was strangled, was the 15th fatal victim in the string of missing and slain black children.

Henry Adams, Geter's Murphy High School counselor, said during the funeral at Second Mount Vernon Baptist Church that he remembered Geter as a youth "with a twinkle in his eye and a smile that made him instantly likeable."

Dr. Robert Stivers, Fulton County Medical Examiner, said he believed three other children's deaths not being investigated by the special police task force should be added to the list.

Stivers said he believed the deaths of 10-year-old Aaron Wyehe, 15-year-old Patrick Rogers and 14-year-old Cynthia Montgomery ought to be made part of the 18-month-long investigation.

Rights File Cites Soviet, South Korea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department's annual human rights report, Monday, depicted a world where violations are rampant and cited the Soviet Union and South Korea among nations where the rights climate deteriorated in 1980.

By contrast, the State Department was somewhat hopeful of China's movement toward a more open system and said Poland's current political and economic problems are in a way a reflection of its "relatively open society."

Besides the Soviet Union and South Korea, major human rights violators included Cuba, Bolivia, South Africa, and all nations engaged in war or civil war, the report said. Human rights improved in Argentina, Chile and Brazil, it said.

Iran Not Included

Iran was not included among the 157 nations in the 1,139-page report because of the sensitive nature of the hostage negotiations, still going on as the reports were drafted in late 1980.

The Senate foreign relations and House foreign affairs committees, which released the report, said an analysis of the Iranian situation will be published soon by the State Department.

The report said there were decreases in disappearances, tortures, and of abuses and inhuman and degrading treatments of political and other prisoners.

But this improvement was offset by "major human rights violations" in countries engaged in war and civil war. El Salvador and Guatemala were cited as a prime examples of the latter.

In general, the State Department said, "1980 saw little overall change in the status of political and civil freedoms in the world ... (as) governments continued wholly or partly to deny these rights to the majority of (their) people."

The reports also cited setbacks in economic rights and in such specific areas as child labor, forms of slavery and forced labor, genital mutilation of young females and discrimination against migrants and guest workers in some industrialized nations.

Regarding the Soviet Union, the State Department cited its invasion of Afghanistan as a prime example of the Kremlin's increasing "intolerance for activity deemed incompatible with Communist Party control and national security."

"Soviet practices in Afghanistan which violated human rights have included the reported use of lethal chemical weapons, 'trick' explosives and indiscriminate bombing and terrorizing of the Afghan population."

The report also said Soviet repression of domestic human rights activists in 1980 was "as severe as any since the beginning of the human rights movement a decade ago."

Sheriff Gets Approval To Hire New Employees

ing with "a skeleton crew," but he said the department could live with that number of employees.

Annual salaries and benefits for the five additional employees will cost the county $72,568, according to County Auditor Dale Gallimore.

Commissioners also agreed to purchase one more car for the sheriff's department at a cost of about $8,100.

In addition, the commissioners court authorized the purchasing agent to take bids on three more cars, a 14-passenger van, emergency lights and sirens for the cars and one radio set.

Brazell said he wants to see the cost of all the equipment proposals before deciding whether to purchase them.

Only one of the sheriff's requests was a total failure. He had asked commissioners to authorize the expenditure of about $25,000 to purchase nine new radar units for the Department of Public Safety here.

According to Keesee, the updated radar equipment should provide the county increased revenue from traffic tickets.

But Brazell argued that the state has the responsibility to purchase equipment for DPS. "If enforcement of the 55 mph speed limit drops down," he said, "the state is going to lose a lot more money than we are."

Commissioners are scheduled to meet again at 1 p.m. Wednesday to interview applicants for county engineer. The engineering post has been vacant since Dec. 31, 1980, when former engineer Herschel Girod retired.

SUBMITS RESIGNATION — Polish Premier Jozef Piekowski, left, has submitted his resignation to the Communist party's Central Committee which will propose that he be replaced by the Polish Parliament with General of the Army Wojciech Jaruzelski, right, the official news agency PAP, said Monday. Polish Premier Quits As Workers Strike

Soviet Union and other socialist countries would be fought by "all political forces in our country."

He added, however, that Poland has "enough will and the possibility to solve properly our internal problems" without outside assistance.

In Bonn, the West German government's chief spokesman, Kurt Becker, described a threat of Soviet military intervention in Poland as "great" and "undiminished." U.S. intelligence officials in Washington have reported Soviet and East bloc troops massed near Poland's borders.

In Washington, a spokesman for the U.S. State Department, which has been watching the Polish situation closely, said the department would have no immediate comment on the prime minister's resignation.

The Soviet news agency Tass in Moscow charged that the independent trade union Solidarity recently has stepped up "subversive political agitation" to undermine the role of the Polish Communist Party. The dispatch from Warsaw said Solidarity leaders had incited strikes before a meeting of the Central Committee "under the pretext of increasing pressure on the authorities."

Walesa Accused

East Germany's official news agency ADN, in Berlin, described the latest Polish strike as a "counter-revolutionary action" and accused labor leader Lech Walesa of orchestrating it.

The Jelenia Gora workers called their strike when talks with the government broke down over their demand for access to a local resort and clinic reserved for party and government officials.

A spokesman for Solidarity said Walesa had come to Warsaw, where government officials and union leaders were discussing the protest.

Reports from Jelenia Gora said the strike affected most enterprises in the surrounding province, and one Solidarity source said as many as 100,000 workers could be involved. The spokesman said the strike would continue until a solution was worked out with the government.

The Communist Party criticism of Solidarity was the strongest since the union was formed last year. The party leaders, however, appeared to rule out the use of force to solve the crisis, and Barcikowski called for "permanent contact" with the union.

KOR Attacked

In an unprecedented attack, using the names of the men he criticized, Deputy Premier Tadeusz Grabski struck out at the dissident Committee for Social Self-Defense, or KOR.

He spoke at length to the Central Committee about people he said "aim to curb or deform the process" of building socialism, and who are preparing the ground "for future political parties of anti-socialist orientation."

Party leaders have lashed out at dissidents before, but Grabski's speech naming KOR leader Jacek Kuron, and members Adam Michnik and Antoni Maciejewicz was unprecedented for a meeting of the Central Committee.

rate in a number of years. The family had not lived in Terrell for long, he said.

Neighbors said the family was "quiet" and generally kept to itself. Sharon Haley, who lives near the Simpson home, said she occasionally saw Ralph Simpson but that he rarely spoke and she did not know the other family members.

She said she did not think the girls attended public school.

Fire officials said the blaze did minor damage to the front part of the house and was quickly brought under control.

Patton said an autopsy has been ordered on the four victims to determine the cause of death.

Leaking Gas Forces Dallas Evacuation

DALLAS (AP) — A gas leak Monday morning forced authorities to evacuate about 100 blocks in a semi-industrial area just south of downtown, police said.

A strong wind quickly dissipated the gas, however, and people were allowed to return to their homes and businesses within a half hour of the 9 a.m. incident, authorities said.

Fire department spokesman Vickie Robinson said that had it not been for the wind the gas "would have stayed low to the ground and any kind of flame would just set that off. It never got real, real dangerous ... but the potential was always there," she said.

An 18-wheel truck at the Proctor & Gamble plant backed over a four-inch pipe, rupturing it and sending natural gas spewing into the air, she said. Firemen kept water on the leak until Lone Star Gas Co. could turn off gas flowing into the pipe, she added.

TEXAS MARINE SLAIN

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — An autopsy report released Monday indicated that Marine Pfc. Terry M. Gunther, 25, of Fort Worth died of gunshot wounds to the head and chest and that he also suffered a stab wound. Gunther's body was found late last week by hunters in a wooded area.

The weather service forecast a chance of light freezing drizzle or snow for the Panhandle last night and warned of high winds today in the mountains of south-west Texas.

The extended outlook for West Texas calls for partly cloudy skies and a warming trend Thursday through Saturday.

Commissioners' Action On Fire House Questioned

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

County commissioners Monday awarded the county's two-year depository contract to Lubbock National Bank, even though the opening of bids for that contract was not included on their official agenda.

LNB, which has served as the county depository for the past decade, submitted the only bid for the contract.

County Auditor Dale Gallimore said no other bank has bid on the contract during the years he has worked for the county. However, Gallimore added, the county has the most favorable depository agreement of any local governmental unit.

Under the terms of that contract, the county can earn 8 percent interest or the current money market certificate rate, whichever the county deems most beneficial, on time deposits up to $100,000.

Explosion Dusts Building With PCB

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — A state office building here will be closed at least through Friday as workers try to clean out PCB-laden soot that dusted the building in an explosion last week.

Officials said Monday the soot was found on desks, floors and in curtains in the 18-story government building downtown.

An explosion early Thursday in a utility room spewed an oil containing PCBs, polychlorinated biphenyls, a suspected cancer causer. Soot spread into the building, where 750 people work, through ventilation systems.

The soot also got into the adjacent Binghamton City Hall and Broome County Office Building.

Interest rates for deposits topping $100,000 go up to 10.8 percent or 115 percent of the current U.S. Treasury bill rate.

County Judge Rod Shaw said he saw no problem in the commissioners' action on the bank depository.

Shaw said he inadvertently left the depository contract off the agenda, but he noted that the bid opening was advertised in The Avalanche-Journal.

However, commissioners also took action on another issue that failed to appear on their agenda — which apparently violated the Texas Open Meetings Act.

Commissioners voted unanimously to authorize the purchasing agent to take bids on a building to house fire equipment for the Roosevelt Volunteer Fire Department. The county will loan the department around $25,000 to construct the building, with the funds to be repaid through fire calls.

Precinct 2 Commissioner Coy Biggs of Slaton proposed the action during the meeting, and a spokesman for the Texas Attorney General's Office indicated that the action may have been illegal.

Quoting from the 1975 attorney general's ruling on the extent of notice required by the open meetings act, a staff attorney referred The Avalanche-Journal to the ruling summary.

The summary says in part, "Notice of a meeting of a governmental body must be sufficiently specific to apprise the public of the subjects, which will be discussed."

General phrases such as 'new business,' 'old business,' 'regular business,' 'routine business' and 'other business' which may come before the board will not comply with the act.

"Action at a meeting which is not held in compliance with the open meetings act is subject to judicial invalidation."

Shaw maintained that commissioners conducted all business at public meetings. If there were any reason to question the action, Shaw said, anyone could contest it.

In other business, commissioners turned down a grievance committee recommendation to award Precinct 2 Justice of the Peace Arvin Stafford a 49 percent pay raise for the year.

Stafford told members of the court that his workload has substantially increased since he took office in 1971. He asked that his salary be raised to approximately $20,000 — the amount now paid peace justices working inside Lubbock.

Commissioner Boyd Roberts said he was opposed to a pay increase for Stafford until county officials again work on their 1982 budget. "Elected officials know what their salary is going to be when they are elected," Roberts said.

Biggs abstained from the motion to deny Stafford's salary request.

Tech May Land Several Blue-Chippers

By NORVAL POLLARD
Executive Sports Editor

Texas Tech's 1981 recruiting effort showed early signs of a better-than-expected yield Monday with the verbal commitments of four players regarded to be among the top 100 schoolboys prospects in Texas by Southwest Conference football coaches.

Those four — Temple running back Kenneth Davis, Burkburnett defensive tackle Sid Chambers, San Antonio Jay running back Ansel Cole and Amarillo Palo Duro wide receiver Troy Smith — each voiced intentions of attending Texas Tech this fall. All four are expected to sign Southwest Conference letters of intent with the Red Raiders Wednesday, the SWC's official signing date.

Also verbally committing to Tech Monday were Monahan quarterback Rusty Roark, Stafford Dulles linebacker Williams Harris and Jayton running back-linebacker Joe McMeans.

Tech now has received verbal commitments from 13 recruits. Round Rock tight end Mark Gold, Richardson tight end Buzz Tatom, Houston Kashmere defensive tackle Tim Crawford and linebacker Adrian McDowell and the Houston Lamar passing combination of quarterback Keyyn Williams and wide receiver Rodney Clay made verbal commitments to Tech and new coach Jerry Moore.

As of Monday evening, Tech remained strong in the recruiting race for several more of the state's outstanding schoolboys. They include blue-chip linebacker Gary Spann of South Oak Cliff, Midland running back Jerry Zachery, Borger quarterback Shawn Harrington, Houston Yates running back Gerald Bean, San Antonio Jay running back-linebacker Anthony Beverly, Greenville running back Robert Lewis, Midland Lee offensive lineman Keith Brown, Bay City defensive lineman John Mote, Dallas Roosevelt defensive lineman Ronnie Williams, and Lubbock Estacado defensive back Jerry Gray.

Gray's Estacado teammate Kelvin White, one of the state's most heavily recruited running backs, made his decision known Monday by announcing he will attend Oklahoma.

The 6-1, 185-pound White, generally regarded as the best running back prospect in Texas before missing most of the 1980 season with a knee injury, was believed to be leaning toward Texas A&M before his visit to Oklahoma over the weekend. White said Oklahoma is "my kind of place."

There were several other surprise announcements as the SWC recruiting campaign entered its final hours Monday night.

Richardson Pearce defensive tackle Ray Childress, the No. 1 blue-chip player in Texas according to SWC coaches, verbally agreed to sign with Texas A&M. Childress had said he would not make a decision until after basketball season, but apparently changed his mind. The Aggies outlasted Texas and Nebraska for the 6-6, 245-pounder.

Defending SWC champion Baylor landed verbal commitments from two of the state's best linebackers. Houston Westchester's Alan Jamison and Texas City's Kevin Hancock both cast their lots with the Bears. Jamison was believed leaning toward A&M, and Hancock was rumored to be headed to Texas.

The decisions made in the next 24 hours could decide the difference between an average and excellent recruiting season for Tech.

Spann, a 6-1, 205-pounder, is considered one of the top 15 players in the state. He has reportedly narrowed his choices to Tech and TCU. TCU may be in the lead because high school teammate Anthony Guley, a highly sought quarterback, is leaning toward TCU.

One UCLA recruiter called Zachery, a 6-2, 195-pounder who broke his leg during the second game of the 1980 season, "the best running back prospect in the country." The Red Raiders don't have to worry about UCLA claiming Zachery, only Texas A&M. The Aggies reportedly have verbal commitment from Zachery, but the fight is far from being over.

The 6-5, 210-pound Harrington was all set to commit to Tech late last week, but that was before TCU entered the picture. Harrington confirmed that he would either attend Tech or TCU, saying he might not make a decision until Friday.

The battles for Bean, Beverly, Lewis, Mote, Williams and Gray all appear to be between Tech and one other school. Brown still lists Tech, Oklahoma, Rice and Nebraska as possible choices.

Bean, a 6-0, 185-pounder, is still being courted by Oklahoma.

Owls Happy To Be 'Home'

By RAY GLASS

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Both Texas Tech and Rice will be playing on its "favorite" court tonight when the Red Raiders play host to the rising Owls at 7:30 p.m. in a crucial Southwest Conference game in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

For Gerald Myers' Raiders, 5-6 in SWC action and 11-10 overall, the return home following Saturday's 65-52 thumping by Texas A&M on regional television gives them a chance to use a little more of their home-court magic.

Tech is 9-1 this season in Municipal Coliseum and, perhaps more importantly, 4-1 in league encounters at home. But don't let that fool you, 6-4 and 10-12, who seemingly play well anywhere but their own Aultry Court.

The fourth-place Owls are the SWC's hottest road bunch with a 4-1 record away from home. And, except for a last-second game-winning shot by Baylor, Rice would be a perfect 5-0 while using the visitors' locker room.

Tonight's game will be carried live on KFYO radio with Jack Dale doing the play-by-play and Keith Samples adding the color commentary.

"We have been maybe the most consistent road team in the conference," Rice coach Mike Schuler said between practice sessions Monday. "I felt we should have beaten Baylor in Waco. We had them by one point with six seconds to go before they threw the ball in at the buzzer."

"I really don't know the answer (to why we're able to win on the road). For some reason we've played really well on the road," he said.

Myer may have an explanation, though. "I think the reason they are a really good road team is they are so experienced. They have experienced players who've been there before," he said.

Chief among the Rice players is 6-foot-5 junior Ricky Pierce, the key to Rice's 52-50 overtime victory over Tech earlier this season in Houston.

It was Pierce's jumper from deep in the left-hand corner along the baseline at the buzzer that provided the winning margin and it was his 20 points, eight in the overtime period, that kept the Owls aloft.

"They have a great player in Pierce. He's worth over 20 points every night and he's there when you need somebody to go to when you need those points. But he's not a one-man team," Myers said.

Other likely starters for Schuler and the Owls include 6-9 sophomore Kenny Austin (10.8 points per game), 6-5 sophomore center Donald Bennett (5.8 ppg), 6-5 junior guard Bobby Tudor (7.7 ppg) and 6-3 freshman guard Tyrone Washington (4.6 ppg).

The Raiders own an imposing edge against Rice in Lubbock stretching back to 1958. Since then the Owls have won only twice in Municipal Coliseum, the latest being two years ago. That streak, combined with Tech's success at home this season, would seem to indicate an easy Raider victory.

"The success at home is something if you get to taking for granted that can

Smith Levels Charges Against Bank Manager

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Harold Smith, the boxing promoter missing amid charges of a massive bank embezzlement, appeared Monday to be close to resurfacing.

Smith continued to use the telephone from an undisclosed location and television and radio stations received tapes that sportscasters believed were made by the missing promoter.

There was even a suggestion that Smith would countersue Wells Fargo Bank, which named him in a $21.3 million embezzlement suit last week. But Paul Caruso, a lawyer who had said he would probably represent Smith, was unavailable for comment.

Smith told another promoter Monday he would be resurfacing shortly. Sam Glass of Tiffany Promotions said a man he believed was Smith called him and said he would be "resurfacing within four days."

Glass told The Associated Press he spoke on the phone with Smith and the "conversation was that the stated allegations against him are untrue."

Smith also said he will return with "$12 million he can deposit so that the promotion can take place," Glass said.

Tiffany Promotions was to be a co-promoter with Smith in a four-bout show in Madison Square Garden Feb. 23. That show, in which the purses were to total $8.1 million, fell apart after Smith and two other MAPS officials were named in the Wells Fargo suit.

"From certain things he said to me I knew it was him," said Glass. A man identifying himself as Smith dropped off tape cassettes at various radio and TV stations Sunday night.

"I appeal to the media to go to the Miracle Mile branch of the Wells Fargo Bank and question the manager Gene Kawakami. It is there that you will find the beginning of what I guarantee is one of the biggest cases of fraud, embezzlement, illegal loans and kickbacks involving numerous branches and personnel within the Wells Fargo Bank system," said the voice on a tape left at radio station KABC.

KABC said it was apparently identical to a tape left at KNBC-TV, where sports-caster Stu Nahan identified the voice as Smith's.

Wells Fargo spokesman George Caulfield said Monday that Kawakami was not at the bank branch Monday "because it would have been disruptive because of all the press."

Kawakami has hired an attorney who advised him "not to be available," Caulfield said.

Streaking Plainsmen Aim For Mustangs

By RUSS PARSONS

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
The last time Monterey and Coronado played, the Mustangs jumped to a 10-point halftime advantage and then folded to lose in double overtime.

Plainsmen coach Joe Michalka doesn't plan to let that happen again — the first-half rout, that is.

"I think our seniors were just a little tight," he said of the first encounter. "We didn't execute as well as we needed to execute and we just didn't shoot very well."

"I assume this time we'll have a more relaxed attitude. We'll shoot a little better."

That could be construed as a mighty warning, but the Mustangs don't really need anything of the kind at this stage of the season.

Their loss to Lubbock High Friday night drops them to 1-3 on the year and 12-15 on the season. But more ominous, Coronado has lost six of its eight games since the first of the year.

And those two wins were over Amarillo High (9-14) and Hereford (3-23). Neither one are the kinds of victories you'd want to pin your best hopes on.

Monterey, on the other hand, is riding an eight-game winning streak, including victories over every team in the District 4-5A.

Since losing to Amarillo Palo Duro on January 6, the Plainsmen have found a way to win every game.

Of course, sometimes they had to look mighty hard. Besides the overtime triumph over Coronado, Monterey beat Dunbar by four, beat Amarillo High by one, beat Plainview by three and Lubbock High by six.

"The last six or seven games we've been playing pretty well," said Michalka. "I think our defense has been good for us. We've been playing very good defense in spots. Really, our defense has been pretty consistent."

"We try to put pressure on our opponent's leading scorer. We've been real fortunate putting pressure on the kids we wanted to."

"Of course sometimes another kid comes up and scores above his average, but we just go out there and do what we like to do."

Sweeping through the first half of district play as they did, talk has arisen that the Plainsmen could possibly walk through the entire district schedule undefeated.

"We'd have to have a lot of luck. I guess you'd say," Michalka said. "Things would have to fall in the right direction for us to do that. We just take one game at a time and we don't like to look ahead, but if we can put certain things together and play well, I think we can play with

Matadors, Panthers Seek Wins On Road

By RAY GLASS

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
The District 1-4A boys' race begins anew tonight with all seven teams sporting 0-0 league records. But for Estacado and Dunbar, the second-half title chase begins on the not-so-friendly road.

Estacado takes on Borger at 7:30 p.m. while Dunbar travels to Brownfield, also for a 7:30 p.m. game. The Mat and Panther girls' teams, both eliminated from the district race, meet the Bulldogs and Cubs in 6 p.m. contests.

The Estacado and Dunbar boys' teams won a combined total of one district road game in the first half of the race — a 65-61 Matador victory over the Panthers — and are facing tough home-court teams.

Borger lost only one district game at home the first time around as did Brownfield. And the Bulldogs have dominated Estacado at home.

"Borger is usually pretty secure up there (at home)," Mat coach J.J. Wood said. "We've never beat them in their gym since we began playing in the same district but they've never beat us in our gym either."

"We have to get some momentum going in order to win the game. We have to get up and down the court and hit those short jumpers because we don't have a real strong inside game.

"Borger doesn't have to worry about defending our post men like we have to worry about theirs. But they have to worry about our outside shooting," Wood said.

Estacado's 6-foot-2 post Rodney Guyton had scored in double figures for the first five district games, including 12 in the Mats' 72-69 defeat of Borger Jan. 16, but went scoreless with only one rebound before fouling out midway through the third period Friday against Dumas.

The Mats' other leaper, 6-4 Danny Boyd, has yet to score in double figures in a district game. Wood was so dissatisfied with the play of his post men at one

Chaps Begin Baseball Season

A mixup in scheduling dates will see the Lubbock Christian College baseball team open its 1981 season against Texas Southern with a double-header at 1 p.m. today in Chaparral Stadium.

LCC had been slated to begin its season against UTEP Thursday in El Paso before returning home to meet Texas Southern Sunday and Monday, but Southern officials phoned late Monday afternoon to announce that they and their baseball team were boarding a team bus for Lubbock.

According to LCC sports information director Walt McAlexander, Texas Southern had misinterpreted the schedule.

Chap coach Larry Hays will debut today without many of the mainstays of last year's World Series' entry. Those graduated Chaps include first baseman Tim Leslie, second baseman Steve Brigante, third baseman Kenny Toney, outfielders Tommy Inman and Richard Bowles, and catcher Bob Nottebart.

New LCC starters are first baseman Leland Creel, a transfer from the University of Texas; freshman third baseman Ricky Pinkerton, from Monterey High School; catcher Billy Montemayor, transfer from Hill Junior College; left fielder Randy Ledbetter, freshman from MHS; center fielder Joe Moon, transfer from Hill JC; right fielder Chet Feldman, transfer from Ranger JC; and designated hitter Jeff Craig, transfer from McClelland (Ark.) JC.

This game was a fight to the finish even though the fighting began with 8:43 remaining in the first half. That's when LCC forward Larry Holt and Trinity's David Nentwig were ejected for throwing elbows and, in Nentwig's case, a fist, during a disagreement over rebounding position beneath the Chaparral basket.

Nentwig landed the lone punch of the melee. It glanced harmlessly off Holt's cheek, but other Trinity volleys — of the finesse, basketball variety — had struck bullseyes.

anybody in this part of the country. And just what is it that the Plainsmen like to do?
"First we play good defense and get on the offensive and defensive boards," said Michalka. "If we can get on the boards I feel like we'll be OK."
"Of course the other team will be in a zone and we'll have to shoot a few jump shots. But we've been shooting well lately. But of course, every once in a while we get in a little slump."
In another key District 4-5A boys' game, the Lubbock High Westerners, riding a two-game loop winning streak, host Plainview.

ly after Lubbock High fouled out its big men.
In girls' contests, Monterey hosts Coronado and Plainview plays at Lubbock High.
The Plainsmen, winners of the first half of District 4-5A play, have already trounced the Mustangs twice, taking an 85-45 win early in the season and a 66-47 decision in their first district encounter. Monterey now stands 24-1 on the year and is rated No. 1 in the state. Coronado is 12-13.
Plainview stands 22-7 to Lubbock High's 5-19. In the last meeting between the two, the Bulldogs walked away with a 58-34 win despite playing without star Gay Hemphill.
Girls' contests get underway at 6 p.m. and the boys' games follow immediately.

Hale Center-Ralls Girls' Clash May Decide District 4-2A Race

By RICHARD DAY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Most teams are only expected to play a couple of really big games in the course of a season, but tonight when the Hale Center girls travel to Ralls to take on the Jackrabbits, it will be their second straight emotionally draining affair.
By defeating New Deal Friday night, the Owls moved into a tie for the District 4-2A second-half championship with Ralls. A Hale Center victory tonight would force a playoff for the district title with first-half winner New Deal. A Ralls win would make the season-ending New Deal-Ralls clash take on a new meaning. A Lion victory in that game would give them the district title outright.
But back to tonight's shootout. It was set up Friday night when the Owls held New Deal's big guns, Vickie Teal and Melissa Mayo to 10 points each, and won 33-32. At the same time, Ralls was rolling over Lorenzo 76-45.
Last Friday's win over New Deal isn't going to mean anything unless we beat Ralls Tuesday." Hale Center coach Kathy Harston said. "We'll have to be ready just like we were for New Deal. We beat Ralls by only eight points when we were playing at home the first time."

Miss Harston is hoping to have her top scorer and rebounder, Rhonda Lockett, back. Miss Lockett missed the New Deal game, but little Kerry Madden who is some seven inches shorter than Miss Lockett filled in admirably.
"Kerry was starting her first game on the varsity and really played well," Miss Harston said. "She scored five points, didn't have any turnovers and played good defense."
But Miss Harston says Miss Lockett's her best defensive player. She's also averaging 13 points a game this season.
"We responded very well to Rhonda not playing Friday night," Miss Harston said. "We slowed our game down even more than usual and Kim Black hit some clutch outside shots for us. Sherry Nivens and Stacy Holly did a great job on Teal and Mayo too, but it took a total and shot well to assume a 31-21 lead on Gary Schero's basket with 3:07 left in the half. The Chaps, who had lost 10 of their previous 12 games, were without sufficient funds to balance the Tigers' bankroll.

Center Brian Fortner, who scored 15 of his game-high 20 points in the first half, had been the Chaps' saving grace until then.
Until, with 2:42 showing, Trinity's Jack Insemann was called for a foul and, in turn, overreacted verbally and was handed a technical. And, when Trinity's bench caused an uproar immediately thereafter, a second technical was thrown in for good measure.
LCC's Bruce Carver hit all four of the technical shots, plus both sides of the one-and-one. When added to Fortner's layup, the Chaps had managed to whittle the Tiger lead to 31-28 in the space of 25 seconds. Increased productivity.

"We battled back," LCC coach John Copeland said. "We wanted to win this one bad enough. Those technicals were important, too, but I thought we'd get to them sooner or later, anyway. I was not in a panic stage at that time."
The Tigers, who had generally outperformed LCC through the first half, had only a one-point 33-32 halftime lead to show for their labors. The turning point of this game already had arrived.
"Trinity doesn't have great size, but they're physical," Copeland said. "We evened that up in the second half. We had to play hard, keep the pressure on, and that's what we did."
The Chaps took the lead, once and for all, on Gary Norris' 15-footer with 8:44 left in the game. The score was 55-53. And LCC effectively controlled the game — the final Chap home appearance of the season — through to its conclusion.

LCC led 59-58 when Carver scored from the baseline. Rick Murdoch hit a rebound basket and Keith Money added a free throw for a 64-58 lead with 2:30 left. The Chaps were in the midst of a well-handled delay offense and the Tigers never again moved closer to the lead than four points.
It was a strong finish at home that otherwise has been a mediocre Chap season, one plagued by injuries and periodic mechanical breakdowns.
"It feels good to end here like this," Copeland said, "but we've played a lot of real competitive games at home this year. Considering all the sickness and injury we've had, I'm real proud of the way we stayed together."
The Chaps are 4-5 in the TIAA, 8-20 overall. Trinity is 1-8, 7-13.

EHS, DHS Face Tough Road Dates

point during the season, he experimented with using forwards James Barnett and Jerry Gray in those positions.
Borger, on the other hand, is getting excellent play from its 6-6 senior pivot man Gregg Belton. He is averaging 22 points and 10.2 rebounds each game and had 17 points and 10 rebounds the last time the teams met. Shawn Harrington, also 6-6, pulled down 10 rebounds and tossed in 12 points in that Matador victory.
Guard Scott Hunt is the main Borger threat from the outside, averaging 16.5 points a game.
Barnett and Kenneth Cade led the Mat scoring machine, averaging 22.3 and 16.3 points an outing, respectively. Guyton is contributing 10.6 points a game while Gray is the leading rebounder, averaging 10.7 boards per game.

Borger finished the first half of the league race 4-2 and in second place behind the 6-0 Canyon Eagles. Estacado, after a quick 2-0 start, took a nosedive and finished 3-3 and tied with Levelland and Brownfield for third. Borger is 2-3 overall while EHS is 13-13.
Dunbar, which won only one of six first-half district games, will visit the surprise team of the district season. Brownfield, competing in its first season in District 1-4A, won three of its first four games, including upsets of Estacado and Levelland.
But Dumas and Borger gave the Cubs a taste of reality in the final two games and Brownfield finished tied for third. The Cubs are powered by seniors Dirk Bush and Ralph Rodriguez.
Bush, 6-3 forward, is scoring at a 20.1 clip and averaging almost 12 rebounds each game. The 6-1 Rodriguez is averaging 10.6 counters each game.
Dunbar, fueled by a crop of sophomores and juniors, is 6-19 on the season. Junior point guard Roland Comacho is the Panthers' leading scorer, averaging 11.5 points a game.
Both the Dunbar and Estacado girls' teams are 0-3 in the district's second-half competition and have no hope of catching league-leading Canyon.

Tonight Dunbar, 12-12 overall, will have to contend with the Class 4A area leading scorer in Brownfield's Marcy Holladay. Miss Holladay, who missed Friday's game with Borger because of the flu, "will probably play tonight" Cub coach Galen Brnovak said.
Miss Holladay is averaging 23.1 points and 12.1 rebounds a game for the Cubs, 3-1 and 16-11, one of only two teams with a chance to overtake the Eagles. In order to force a playoff with Canyon, the Cubs would have to beat Dunbar tonight and Canyon of Friday and then have Estacado upset the Eagles next Tuesday.
The Mats, 12-14 overall, face the 1-2 and 7-18 Bulldogs in a game that will probably have no bearing on the district outcome. The Mats dumped the Bulldogs 53-40 earlier this year.
WESTERNERS NIP MUSTANGS
Becky Dominguez scored both goals Monday at Lubbock High's girls soccer team defeated Coronado 2-1. The win moves LHS to 3-2-2 for the season, while the CHS squad finishes its year with a 1-2-4 mark.

MUSTANGS TOP WESTERNERS
Coronado's soccer team defeated Lubbock High Monday by a 4-2 score. Brian Paine scored two goals and Jeff Kelleys and David Barnett added one apiece for the Mustangs, now 7-0-1. Michael Johns scored both goals for the Westerners, who fall to 2-3-1.
