man of the Senate Budget Committee and Congress' top economist suggested surgery Wednesday on annual cost-of-living increases in Social Security benefits.

Although President Reagan has not recommended such a move, Sen. Peter Domenici, R-N.M., said he doubted the president "could afford to be critical" if Congress voted changes in Social Security cost-of-living increases as part of a package of spending cuts.

Changes such as those suggested would affect 10 million people or more a year and could cut spending by more than $3 billion in 1982 alone.

A final vote expected today would return the measure to the Senate for action on amendments added by the House.

Rep. Bennie Bock II. D-New Braunfels, the sponsor, said Texas is the 13thlargest producer of nuclear waste in the nation, generating 2.163 cubic meters each year. Hospitals and medical researchers generate 63 percent of the waste, he said.

But across the capital, Dr. Rivlin told Senate budget writers Congress should approve more than the $48.6 billion in spending cuts that Reagan is recommending so spending can be kept under control if the president's "optimistic" forecasts about inflation, interest rates and economic growth go unmet.

Tech's Faculty Senate Asks Cavazos Meeting

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY

Avalanche-Journal Staff
TEXAS TECH'S Faculty Senate agreed Wednesday to send a delegation to meet with university President Lauro Cavazos "as soon as possible" to discuss the "highly serious and grave situation" which led to the en masse resignations of all five Tenure and Privilege Committee members last week

As The Avalanche Journal reported in copyrighted article Saturday, those members resigned from the committee after the administration refused to call a complaint by a home economics teacher. That teacher alleged his academic freecould go into effect. dom had been violated when a decision was made to deny him tenure. Ben Newcomb, who was elected Faculty Senate president for 1981-82 at Wednesday's meeting and will take office this summer, noted the resigntion of the Tenure and Privilege Committee members is a "highly serious and grave situation." He made the motion to send a delegation to discuss the matter with

He said the group should "try to show the president we take this very seriously." Newcomb added. "I dislike the idea of burning bridges," but he also strongly urged the delegation not to compromise principles.

Throughout Wednesday's meeting, several Faculty Senate members made audible asides in reference to quarrels with the administration, including different interpretations of faculty handbook policies, low faculty morale and the belief by some that the administration ignores faculty input on policy matters.

Jacq Collins - one of the five Tenure and Privilege members who resigned from the committee last week - said faculty morale at Tech is lower than it has been in the 18 years he has been on the faculty.

When senators discussed the feasibility of creating a committee to handle academic freedom complaints which do not relate to tenure. Collins said such a committee should be under the jurisdiction of the Faculty Senate

"I think this sort of committee should stay out of the hands of the administration." Collins said.

Rod Schoen disagreed, saying, "I fail to see how it's a handmaiden of the unversity administration." Schoen pointed out that the majority of members of such a committee would be chosen by the Faculty Senate, which he said would take care of Collins's concern.

Others noted, however, that the president might or might not abide by that.

Clarke Cochran, newly elected Faculty Senate secretary for next year, noted some group needs to address the issue because. "The problem of academic freedom is getting so severe around here.

The senate agreed to form an Academic Freedom Committee comprised of three members chosen by the Faculty Senate, one student chosen by the Student Senate and a member of the university staff chosen by the four other members of the committee. The committee would report to the Faculty Senate, Student Senate and to the vice president for academic affairs. However, formation of such a university committee would need

Hall said contract renewals were based on seniority, in accordance with an emergency measure passed by the board at its last meeting on Feb. 24.

"If we based it on anything else but seniority, then that would leave a cloud on their record when the teachers apply for other jobs," Hall said.

Mrs. Wood agreed, saying, "Our legal advice was to base the contract renewals on seniority. It was the only way to keep us out of the courts." Hall said there were some teachers kept on who had less seniority than others, but the fields of instruction with fewer students were used as culling points, rather than who was hired last. "We renewed the contracts that each school

Violence Hikes Tension Among Polish Unionists past problems in calling for pay increases

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - A reported beating of four high school students by an anti-union squad raised new tensions in Poland Wednesday. The Reagan administration said in Washington, meanwhile, that it was "quite concerned" about forthcoming Soviet bloc maneuvers in and around Poland although there was no sign of an imminent Soviet invasion or show of force.

A spokesman for the Solidarity union chapter in Radom, 50 miles south of Warsaw and long a center of labor agitation, said the four students were reported beaten by four men who were tearing down Solidarity posters.

He said the students recognized one of the four as a local policeman and added that the union had appealed to the police to purge its ranks of such members. He said 300 parents, pupils and teachers were expected to meet later near Radom, which has been on strike alert since Monday over broad union demands for an end to alleged "oppression" of mem-

In Washington, State Department spokesman William Dyess said the key to the Soviet bloc maneuvers later this month is the level of troops that might participate. He said the United States is not yet in a position to judge how many that might be. The exercises were an-nounced Tuesday by Moscow and War-

The Soviet Union is committed under the Helsinki accords to give advance notification of all military manuevers involving 25,000 troops or more.

Dyess said notification is expected if the exercises pass that size.

Given the tense situation in and around Poland we are watching developments there very closely." Dyess said. A threat of Soviet military intervention has hung over Poland since late last fall.

Radom was the site of major worker riots in 1976 over meat price increases. Former Communist Party leader Edward Gierek rescinded the increases, but not before angry workers burned the local party headquarters.

In the wake of the riots, dissident intellectuals formed the Committee for Social Self-Defense to help arrested workers, forging a link between intellectuals and workers that had not existed before.

The union now is asking for dismissal of local officials responsible for attacks on workers in 1976 and for release of political prisoners, the Solidarity spokesman said

In a telephone interview, the spokesman said representatives from nearly 340 factories in the region would meet Thursday to endorse a list of 17 demands, many of which appeared aimed at settling old grudges. The union was to draft strike plans if the government failed to negotiate a settlement, he said.

The Radom workers are also asking that police buildings be converted into hospitals and schools and that a memorial be erected to victims of the 1976 riots who were beaten while in jails.

The demands also contain an echo of PATIENTS HELPED

Man Hits Jackpot Of $350,000 At Vegas Hotel

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - A man who lives 100 miles from the Atlantic City casinos has won the world's largest slot machine payoff - a $350,000 ackpot at the Las Vegas Hilton, a hotel spokesman said Wednesday.

Adam Gorr, a fireman from Millburn, N.J., hit the big payoff late Tuesday on one of the Hilton's "Pot of Gold" $1 slot machines, said Hilton spokesman Bruce Benke.

Gorr had "been playing the machine for quite some time" when he lined up four triple bars on the bottom line to win the maximum payoff, Benke said "I love slot machines." said Gorr. But I couldn't believe I had actually won until I saw that last triple bar fall into place, and when I heard the bells ring. I knew something had happened. I'm still in shock.

Hilton Hotels chairman Barron Hilton was in Las Vegas at the time and presented Gorr with a check for his winnings, he added.

The Las Vegas and Flamingo Hilton hotels have paid out more than $6.8 million on the Pot of Gold machines since they were installed about three years ago, Benke said. The last big jackpot was on Feb. 22 at the Flamingo Hilton when a player won

The purple stamp to be out next week, bearing a picture of an eagle and the letter B, will be worth 18 cents, the rate for first-class letters that takes effect March 22.

The Postal Service issued an A stamp three years ago when it found that it did not have enough 15-cent stamps on hand when the letter rate went up to that price. The same thing happened this year, when the Postal Rate Commission allowed the rate to go up only to 18 cents, instead of the 20 cents that the Postal Service wanted.

In addition, an 18-cent stamp bearing a picture of Elizabeth Blackwell, the first female physician in the country, is available at many post offices, the Postal Service said

Postmaster General William F. Bolger cautioned that the B stamp cannot be used on mail sent to another country. When some Americans did this with the A stamp, foreign postal officials complained.

Eventually, the supply of B stamps will be phased out and replaced by regu lar stamps, the Postal Service said.

"The longer a moving tornado remains on the ground, the more damaging to property and deadly to people it can Fujita explained. "I want to establish that the duration of tornadoes is the most important clue as to the risk of building homes, schools, hospitals, even nuclear power plants in certain regions."

The 10-year study, completed last month, concluded that twisters can be distinguished by their occurrence in Eastern or Western zones in the continental United States. The zones are divided by a line running northeast from eastern Texas into Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Fujita calculated with a computer the path lengths of all U.S. twisters since 1916, an inquiry he said has never before been undertaken.

The study found Western tornadoes are more numerous, but the Eastern variety travel - on average - twice as far on the ground. University researchers are still calculating the average length in miles of tornado paths in the two zones.

"People have traditionally used the. number of tornadoes as a measure of tornado activity," Fujita said. "But the to-tal path length left behind by tornadoes appears to be a better measure

He said the higher population density in the Eastern zone makes his findings important. "There are fewer tornadoes in the East," Fujita said, "so people may not be as aware of their danger as they are in, say, Oklahoma in the Western

Prognosticators Say Likelihood Of Rain 20 Percent For Area

More rain may be in store today for the Lubbock area, with officials at the National Weather Service setting the precipitation possibility at 20 percent.

Wednesday afternoon, a trace of rain fell over Lubbock and forecasters say occasional rain and heavy cloudiness is expected today for much of West Texas.

Today's high temperature should be in the upper 50s, with the low tonight forecast in the mid-30s.

Winds that were mostly from the south to southeast Wednesday at 10-14 mph, will be from the southwest at 10 to 15 mph today, according to the weather service.

Cloudy skies covered nearly all of the state Wednesday, with rainfall occuring over West Texas, the southwest part of the state and also over South Texas and along the coastal areas. Today's heaviest rain is expected to be concentrated over Southwest and South Texas.

The extended outlook for West Texas calls for fair skies Saturday, with scattered rain Sunday and Monday

Elsewhere, the southern Rockies got both rain and snow Wednesday and snow showers fell in the Northeast from Lower Michigan to the upper Ohio Valley and the northern Atlantic Coast states.

Rain showers fell from the Texas coast to the southern high Plains.

Skies were cloudy over the eastern Gulf Coast region, the lower Ohio Valley and much of the mid-Atlantic Coastal

Fair weather prevailed from the northern Plains through the Mississippi Valley and into the Tennessee Valley. Georgia and South Carolina. It was sunny and mild in the Plateau region and the northern Rockies

Temperatures at 1 p.m. CST ranged from 24 at Bradford, Pa., to 81 at Miami.

For today, showers were forecast in the lower Great Lakes region and across Texas to the western Gulf Coast. Light snow was forecast from Lake Superior to northern New England and New York. Widely scattered showers, with snow at higher elevations, was forecast across northern Arizona and northern New Mexico.

Highs in the 70s were predicted for southern parts of California, Arizona and

POLITICAL EARTHQUAKE TREMORS

Labor Party Split Portentous

FINALLY HAVING had more than they could take from leftwing extremists, 12 members of the British Parliament and nine Lords have taken the lead in breaking away from the Labor Party to form a new Social Democrat Party.

The immediate effect is to give the Conservative government of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher renewed hope of retaining control of Parliament in the next elections, which must be held no later than the spring of 1984.

What the Labor Party split underscores more than anything else, though, is just how far down the road of socialism—or worse—the labor unions have taken Great Britain.

GAINING 12 MEMBERS of Parliament on the day of the initial break, the yet-to-be organized Social Democrat Party became the third largest in that body, just ahead of the Liberal Party with its 11 MPs.

The group of 12 included two senior Cabinet ministers in the previous Labor government, former Foreign Secretary David Owen and former Transport Secretary William Rodgers.

Two other former ministers, Shirley Williams and Roy Jenkins, and nine lords also broke away from the Labor Party because "we are on the receiving end of a political earthquake."

to strip the party's MPs of the power to choose the party leader, who would become Prime Minister in the event of a Labor victory in the next elections.

The trade unionists, who favor widespread nationalization of industry, unilateral

AS HAS BEEN widely reported, the defections constitute the first major shake-up of British politics in 60 years. Conservatives now enjoy a comfortable 42-seat majority in the House of Commons and the Labor Party's force was cut to 256 by the initial defections.

Britain still has strong leftist sentiment, nonetheless, and unless Prime Minister nonetheless, and unless Prime Minister Thatcher can bring inflation down and reduce labor turmoil her party's continued control of Parliament is by no means certain.

Her job is much more difficult and com-

Her job is much more difficult and complex even than that faced in this country by President Reagan if only because Britain is much more socialistic already than we are and has a larger core of leftwing extremists.

Since what happens in Britain can greatly affect our own future, the upheaval in British politics is a phenomenon for concerned Americans to watch.

EPA GETS INTO ACT, TOO

CPSC Has Industry In Pickle

THE PLYWOOD, textile, furniture and paper industries may soon find themselves in a deep pickle all because the un-Reaganized Consumer Product Safety Commission wants to ban formaldehyde.

Although it has been in commercial use since 1889, the CPSC has decided that formaldehyde may be harmful to our health, and could result in all of us ending up just like those fat frogs we used to dissect in high school biology class.

The flap started earlier this year when the CPSC issued a proposal to ban formaldehyde foam insulation. If allowed to stand, the ban will kill the foam insulation industry, opponents say.

CPSC also is considering regulatory action affecting the plywood and textile industries, both of which are heavily dependent on the use of formaldehyde.

COMES NOW the Environmental Protection Agency, which doesn't want to be left out of the act, and already has put formaldehyde on its blacklist of suspected carcinogens. (All sorts of scary things are on the list, like, for instance, black pepper)

All this activity presumably is on hold under the new administration's regulatory freeze. But the professional bureaucrats are anxious to move ahead. And this would seem prudent if some sort of relationship could be shown to exist between exposure to formaldehyde and cancer in humans.

But that's not the case. A number of epidemiological studies involving exposure of morticians and workers in formaldehyde-producing plants to its fumes have all given the chemical a clean bill of health.

BECAUSE OF its funny name and foul smell, formaldehyde may not seem like something we should care much about. Yet, if the chemicals found in nature or synthesized by man were rated in their order of importance in everyday life, formaldehyde would rank near the top, according to the Formaldehyde Institute of Scarsdale, N.Y.

It is formaldehyde that helps keep the press in permanent press, for example. The bonding properties of its polymers make them essential for the economical production of plywood, particle board and furniture.

Materials and bonding agents containing it are employed in the casting of aluminum, iron and steel parts for autos, home appliances and industrial machinery. It also is used for insulation, helps paint bond to surfaces, and is used in the manufacture of floor coverings and as a carpet backing.

As the new administration zeroes in on the regulatory excesses of previous administrations, this one shouldn't go unnoticed.

M. STANTON EVANS:

Liberals Foment Fear Of 'Another Vietnam'

WASHINGTON—The people who keep warning us that El Salvador could be "another Vietnam" might well be right—if we allow them to turn it

The lesson we are supposed to draw from the Vietnam debacle is that it is wrong for the United States to assist a country threatened with Marxist insurrection.

This allegedly recalls the delusions of comnipotence which led us into quagmire and calamity in Indochina El Salvador, it is feared.

calamity in Indochina El Salvador, it is feared, could be more of the same.

The true lessons of Vietnam are in fact quite dif-

The true lessons of Vietnam are in fact quite different, but a number of them are applicable to the situation in Central America.

WHAT VIETNAM really proved is that when powerful elements in the U.S. set out to topple friendly governments subject to Communist aggression, insist on conducting warfare on a no-win basis, then undercut all hope of success by accepting and parroting the propaganda of the enemy, calamity is guaranteed.

All of this occurred in Indochina, and resulted in the total subjugation of that region by the Communists, just as we were assured it wouldn't. A lot of it has happened in Central America—and is happening now.

The most striking parallel is the effectiveness with which liberal-left forces in our government base succeeded in overthrowing rulers friendly to America—generating chaotic conditions made to order for Marxist revolution.

In Vietnam, the Communist war effort took a gigantic leap forward when high officials in the Kennedy administration conspired in the overthrow of South Vietnam's anti-Communist president, Ngo Vinh Diem.

DIEM WAS a strong nationalist leader, but Publicist and politicians in this country said he was "corrupt" and had to go. South Vietnam never recovered from the disorder created by this betray-

l Similar events have been unfolding in Central America As with Diem, liberal-left elements in our State Department succeeded in bringing about the overthrow of anti-Communist President Somoza in Nicaragua, on the grounds that he too was "corrupt," and having him replaced by the Marxist Sandinistas

We also forced a change of government, on the same grounds, last year in El Salvador.

The effect of these upheavals has also been quite similar to what happened in Vietnam. Nicaragua became a conduit and sanctuary for further revolutionary action against El Salvador and Guatemala.

The military junta installed with our support in Salvador: meantime, is having great difficulty holding things together, as did the military government that succeeded Diem.

FURTHER PARALLELS to Vietnam may be found in the whitewashing of the Communist side of the struggle of the struggle. In Vietnam, we were incessantly told by publicists for the left that the conflict was a "civil war" waged by South Vietnamese peasants against a dictatorial government, rather than aggression by Communist forces from the north. We now know that this protrayal was a complete falsehood.

Exactly the same kind of whitewash has been lavished on the Sandinastis and other Central American minions of Fidel Castro.

A strenuous effort has been made in the American media to depict them as idealistic democrats seeking reform, when in fact they have been armed and directed by Castro and are marching in lockstep with the Soviet Union.

So, there is reason to fear that Salvador might be another Vietnam' after all—meaning yet another country submerged by Communism, courtesy of the liberal left in the United States.

A wealthy businessman explained he had been divorced. "And the community property cost me plenty." he went on. "She'll live off the property and I'll live off the community."

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Import Report Retort

WASHINGTON—Late in the March 3 Cabinet meeting when Treasury Sec. Donald T. Regan lost his temper for the first time in the President's presence, the tide seemed to turn against efforts to infect the bloodstream of Ronald Reagan's free market policy with protectionism.

Regan was furious that Transportation Sec. Drew Lewis's move to restrict Japanese auto imports was dominating the Cabinet session without chance for rebuttal, and succeeded in postponing further consideration.

But beyond procedure, he accused Lewis of endangering President Reagan's economic program by injecting the protectionist germ.

by injecting the protectionist germ.

More than the auto industry is involved in this first pitched battle within the Reagan Cabinet.

ANDREW TULLY:

Look At 'em Now

WASHINGTON—As usual, Hubert Humphrey was the compassionate human being when I asked him what he thought of Jimmy Carter's interview with Playboy magazine in the fall of 1976.

Humphrey, the liberal's liberal, sighed. 'I'm sorry for him, of course,' he said. "He got carried away with the atmosphere of the times when he said he had looked on a lot of women with lust. He was talking about permissiveness, not freedom."

And that is a problem that is still with so many otherwise honest liberals. Were he still alive, Hubert Humphrey would read with approval a new book by Oscar Handlin called "The Distorting of America," published by Little Brown & Co.

HANDLIN, A Harvard history professor, writes of the difference between such liberal giants as John Dewey and Oliver Wendell Holmes and those who today preach a "liberal" agenda.

He finds today's crop wanting for transforming "the most influential liberal attitudes from a hard, often painful, array of commitments into a soft comforting bundle of sentiments."

People who are liberals or who want to understand liberalism should buy and read this book.

Handlin recalls the early days of the 20th Century when "progressive proposals included measures to free individuals and groups from irrational restraints inherited from the past and serving the interests or prejudices of the privileged..."

HE MENTIONS discrimination and censorship.

But the liberals of John Dewey's generation never believed that success in those efforts would lead to the disappearance of all restraints and responsibilities.

Instead, as Handlin puts it, those liberals "expected the elimination of the old to make room for new, voluntarily generated relationships...with standards of behavior even stricter than in the past

Free speech would promote sober discussion and high literary art while discouraging pornography.

But Handlin finds that the dream vanished with the tidal flow of material objects that swept across the American landscape after 1950. The abandonment of old restraints too often meant the abandonment of all restraints."

HANDLIN WRITES about "individuals devoted to mindless egocentric hedonism (who) spared little thoughts for what they owed their neighbors. Little-used faculties shrank from the intellectual effort needed to distinguish between the freedom to publish 'Ulysses' and the freedom to exhibit 'Deep Throat'

So, if Junior wants to sneak in to see an X-rated movie, it's part of his learning process, a pound of "fulfillment." If Mama and Papa go in for group sex, they are employing the "New Freedom" to love as many people as possible.

When the wife of a Congressman poses seminude for a girlie magazine, she's making a political statement.

But, enough An attack of Cotton Matherium

cal statement.

But, enough. An attack of Cotton Matherism threatens. Read Oscar Handlin's new book. He's a man of reason, not a prude.

The President's economic policy-makers believe their goal of shrinking government interference, from taxes to food stamps, cannot be achieved if Reagan now takes this way of bailing out Detroit. Such a bailout is a Carter administration legacy.

Such a ballout is a Carter administration legacy.

Seven days before he left office in January, lameduck Transportation Sec. Neil Goldschmidt released a report calling for what now is advocated by his Republican sucessor: reduction of Japanese exports, in return for which the United Auto Workers (UAW) would scale down demands.

Supervising the Transportation Department report was Dr. Charles Swinburn, a career civil servant who in September 1979 became deputy assistant secretary for policy and international affairs.

Although the President on three occasions has exhorted Cabinet members to remove such civil servants from policy-making on grounds that "you can't trust" the permanent government, Lewis did not downgrade Swinburn.

LEWIS, A millionaire business consultant and Pennsylvania Republican leader, embraced the Swinburn report. "The bureaucracy has completely captured Drew Lewis," snorts one critical colleague.

He certainly seemed on the brink of capturing the President. While the economic policy team was drafting the President's program, Lewis was building support for auto import-limitation.

That was made clear at the March 3 Cabinet meeting when 35 minutes were set aside for discussion of Japanese auto imports. Lewis opened with a 15-minute pitch for cutting down imports.

Special. Trade Representative William Brock and Commerce Sec. Malcolm Baldridge followed in support of Lewis. Labor Sec. Ray Donovan was just about to join the chorus when Don Regan angrily interrupted to note that the Cabinet meeting was to adjourn in just two minutes and the opposition had been given no chance.

Regan made clear the views he shared with budget director David Stockman and chief economic adviser Murray Weidenbaum: Government interference to save the automobile makers at the expense of consumers inevitably will breed similar pleas for special government help at the consumers' expense for other troubled industries, such as savings and loan institutions.

If once embarked on corporate welfare, how can Reagan be tough on welfare for the poor?

THE TRANSPORTATION Department civil servants see a constricted world of declining automotive demand, where the all-protective state must intervene.

Whereas Lewis sees reduced imports as bait for labor restraint, his opponents within the administration think such collaboration between labor, business and government smacks more of Benito Mussolini than Ronald Reagan.

They feet cracking down on Japanese imports

They fear cracking down on Japanese imports may inhibit growing realization by trade unions that their own labor contracts contribute to non-competitiveness of U.S. industry.

That these contentions are heard was shown when Brock, breakfasting with newsmen March 4, backed down considerably from his advocacy in the previous day's Cabinet session. White House chief of staff James Baker opposes Lewis.

Presidential counselor Edwin Meese, a master of hiding his cards, was passing notes to the President critical of import restriction during the March 6 meeting with auto-state governors.

WHY, THEN, would avowed free trader Reagan still be interested in the Lewis plan? Partly because he sympathizes with auto companies burdened by past government regulation and taxation.

But he also worries about surrendering Republican gains among blue-collar voters and about his own campaign promise in Michigan Sept. 3 to impede the "deluge" of Japanese auto imports.

But Reagan's own private polls show that government compulsion forcing Americans to buy Chryslers instead of Toyotas and thereby putting the UAW wage scale on the consumer's back would be exceedingly unpopular.

Seldom in history has the tempting palliative of protectionism proved either economically or politically effective—a lesson his economic policy-makers hope the President remembers.

What It's About...

MUCH ADO has been made in recent years

about "the good old days..."

For better or worse, the expression is supposed to bring back visions of quiet times, a more leisurely pace, less crime in the streets, old romances, less government and peace of mind of a

And maybe somewhere back there, we did have most of those things in varying degrees. But, as with most memories, we tend to remember the happy times and forget what went with them.

Sometimes what went with them was hard, harsh work, inefficient tools, poor working conditions, illness for which there were no miracle drugs, a need for help from someone, even the government. In brief, "the good old days" may not have been all that good...

WE THOUGHT of some of these things the other day when we came across an item in the Farmland News, the publication of Farmland Industries with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.
Written by one Bob Karolevitz of Mission Hills,

S.D., it was entitled "Reluctant 'Homesteader'
Not Ready To Pull Plug on the 20th Century..."
"Nostalgia is a disease they haven't found a pill for yet," Bob starts his treatise.

"If my wife had her way, I'd be writing these comments on a parchment scroll with a goose quill pen. Probably by the flickering light of hand-dipped candles, too," he adds.

Mr. Karolevitz, it seems, has become the victim of the Nostalgia craze. His wife, like so many others across the land, has got caught up in it.

ALL OF A sudden at our house, we're looking at life through a rear-view mirror," Bob laments.

"And until some other spirit lures my distaff partner away from her 19th century madness, it looks like I'm in for a liberal dose of the Good Old Days," he says.

It all started, the put-upon-husband says, when his wife watched a television documentary that dramatized the relaxed pace of living seven or eight decades are.

eight decades ago.

Since then, he notes, the television set has stood unplugged, he has been shaving with a straightedge razor—and bleeding profusely—and putting up with a lot of other gadgets and gizmos of another time, another place...

"TURNING BACK the calendar is not necessarily all bad," Karolevitz says.

"I like the idea of passenger trains, three-cent postage stamps, doctors who make house calls, taffy pulls and basket socials, blacksmith shops, horse-drawn ice wagons, a ktichen with a yeasty homemade bread smell, pretty girls in calico, surreys with a fringe on top and fishin' holes without water skiers...

"When you look rearward through rose-colored glasses, the view is always delightful. I've tried to explain to Phyllis, however, that the days of yore had a few minor drawbacks, too.

"For instance," he says, "I can't plug my electric blanket into a kerosene lamp, the 8-track tapes won't play in the buggy dashboard, the outdoor john in January is inhumane, washboards don't have a rinse cycle, a lap robe doesn't have an adjustable heat control and you can't get instant replay on a crystal set.

"WHEN I THINK about the Good Old Days on a farm." Karolevitz notes, "I break out in a cold

"Frankly, I like power augers, three-point hitches, automatic wagons, air-conditioned cabs, my trusty electric pump jack and our cozy indoor bif-fy." he notes.

"She can retrogress all the way back to 1400 B C., if she likes, just so long as she doesn't cancel our next gas delivery and pull the plug on our BEA line.

Despite my recitations of practicality, though, I don't think I've dampened Phyllis's ardor for the past in the least. She still believes we should get our vitamins (which nobody ever heard of in 1900) from our own hand-milled whole wheat bread.

"She argues that no television (which nobody ever heard of in 1900) is a wonderful excuse to read a good book. And she is convinced that atomic energy (which nobody ever heard of in 1900) will never replace horsepower, candlepower, elbow grease or windmills."

And then the put-upon-husband drops "the bomb." He says he told his wife when she switched from pantyhose to a whalebone corset and starts using a buttonhook to fasten her calfhigh shoes, then he'll know she's serious. "She smiled slightly and went right on operating the motorless butter churn."

WELL. MAYBE that's overdoing the Good Old Days bit somewhat. But, it says something about us as a nation and people today.

Deep down, it's not the gadgets and gizmos that really make life what it is or isn't. Certainly, the electric blankets, razors, supermarkets that never saw a cow and pre-packaged this and that make it easier. And no one really wants to give that up.

Not do we want to go back to the days when di-

Nor do we want to go back to the days when diseases which now can be prevented or controlled ran rampant, when just existing sometimes was the major worry of each day.

But, we find it significant that millions each year seek the quiet and solitude of the mountains and rivers, the oceans and parks, of places untouched by the modern day sound and tury, rushing traffic, confrontations, soothsayers, electronic and otherwise.

Maybe, in the final analysis, what we really are seeking when we peek back at the Good Old Days is a sort of peace of mind which somehow we associated with those times when life, while sometimes harsh, nevertheless offered its own reward in self achievement, self esteem and a good feeling about oneself and nation....

Cardiac Symptom Criteria Important

BOSTON (AP) - A closer look at the symptoms of a heart attack victim may tell doctors whether the patient should be discharged or kept under the specialized care that could save his life, a new

"Having guidelines can be very important," said Dr. George E. Thibault, assistant chief of medicine at Massachusetts General Hospital. "Lack of them results in hospitals transferring out (of coronary care) some patients who will soon unexpectedly develop serious and often fatal complications.

The most reliable tip-off to a chronic heart problem is the recurrence of chest pains a day or more after a patient's admission to a cornonary-care unit, said the hospital's study, published in Thursday's Medicine.

Other symptoms suggestive of later complications are lungfluid sounds, called basilar rales, especially when accompanied by chest pain; at least one hospitalization-in the previous year; and a history of chronic, obstructive lung dis-

The study said most patients returned to a coronary-eare unit had chest pains either suggestive of a new heart attack or an extension of the first heart attack. For others, severe dysfunction of the heart's main pumping chamber, the left ventricle, and heart-rhythm disturbances forced the patients to return.

If a patient had recurrent chest pains and lungfluid sounds, he stood a 55 percent chance of readmission to coronary care, the study said.

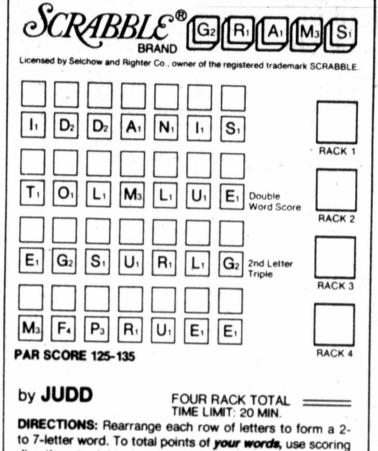

The researchers at Massachusetts General said their findings can be used a yardstick to find which patients will need longer stays in coronary care.

The study showed that 12 percent of the patients who survived their initial stay in one coronary care unit had to be readmitted within three days of discharge after they developed complications. Of those who came back, more than one-fourth died in the hospital.

The two-year study was conducted by the hospital's Medical Practices Evaluation Unit and involved 485 patients who survived their first stay in coronary care.

The principal author of the study was Dr. Daniel E. Singer, clinical and research fellow in medicine at Massachusetts General.

One study found that 36 percent of the people admitted to a medical center suffered illnesses directly resulting from the drugs, therapy or diagnostic procedures they received. Doctors at another hospital reported that surgical mistakes can be expensive and even fatal for patient.

Both studies were conducted at Boston hospitals and published in Thursday's issue of the New England Journal of Boston University Medical Center followed the progress of 815 patients admitted to two hospital floors over a fivemonth period found that 290 - 36 percent - suffered illnesses or disorders resulting from their care. "The risk incurred during hospitalization is not trivial," the Boston University report concluded.

The study, directed by Dr. Knight Steel, found that most of the illnesses resulted from adverse drug reactions, falls or procedures such as cardiac catheterization, intravenous therapy and urinary-

Chevrolet Division Reveals Technology Of Engine Assembly

MORAINE, Ohio (AP) - General Motors Corp.'s Chevrolet Motor Division will use microwave sensing devices to calibrate assembly of its new 6.2-liter diesel engines. Chevrolet General Manager Robert Lund said Wednesday.

Lund called the use of microwave devices a major breakthrough in diesel engine technology. The new diesel engines will be available in Chevrolet's 1982 light trucks and sport vehicles, and possibly on future passenger cars. Lund said.

We feel we are making history in the automotive industry," Lund said at the official unveiling. "This is a tremendous step ahead in diesel emissions control."

The microwave device, which can determine the maximum length of a piston stroke, will make calibration of the new engines more precise, and therefore reduce exhaust emissions, he said.

"It solves a riddle as old as internal combustion itself - where, exactly, is top dead center on a piston engine?" Lund said. "And it paves the way for the use of efficient diesel-powered Chevrolet pickup trucks under the most stringent 1982 emission standards anywhere in the Drug reactions included irregular heartbeat, low blood pressure and mental problems. Other common disorders were pneumonia and infections.

A review of surgical mistakes, directed by Dr. Nathan P. Couch, was conducted at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital and concluded that errors resulted from overoptimism, needless haste and an urge for perfection on the part of doctors.

Doctors found 36 operating-room mistakes among 5,612 surgical patients. Eleven patients died and five who went home eventually suffered serious physical impairment. The mistakes added an average 42 days onto their stays in the hospital at a combined cost of $1.7 mil"Every surgeon or other physician making decisions about surgical management should become more conscious of personal fallibilities," they wrote.

Staying ahead financially has always been a race. But the 80's present new, tougher challenges.

At First Texas Savings, we have ways to beat the 80's. Like our 26-Week Money Market Certificate. It offers the maximum rate allowed by law for maximum yields on amounts from $10,000. Rates for new certificates are set weekly and are good for the entire term.

Sure, our 26-Week Money Market Certificate is a good investment, but it's also a no-risk investment. Your money is insured up to $100,000 by a federal agency. And your deposit is backed by First Texas' over 1.6 billion dollars in assets.

Best of all, at First Texas Savings, your money is always available. Penalty on early withdrawal is 3 months' interest  and only on the amount withdrawn. And as a convenient reminder, you will be automatically notified prior to renewal.

Also ask about our 21/2-Year Money Market Certificate.

So, before you put your money anywhere, remember: Others may keep you even in the 80's, but First Texas Savings will keep you ahead. March 12-thru March 18

Federal regulations prohibit compounding of interest on 26-Week Money Market Certificates. Annual yield assumes reinvestment of principal and interest at maturity at the same annual interest rate However, the annual interest rate is subject to, and likely to, change at maturity.

Recent federal regulations require principal reduction if sufficient interest does not exist

Mother Keeps 'Part Of Son' Alive Via Heart, Lung Transplant

CHULA VISTA, Calif. (AP) - The mother of 15-year-old Robert Smith, whose heart and lungs were given to a dying Arizona woman, says she made the decision to keep "a little part of ay son"

"My little guy isn't here anymore, but his heart is still there." Ofelia Jones said in an interview. "I really wanted his eyes and his heart to be transplanted. He had such beautiful blue eyes, and I knew his heart was very strong.

In a four-hour operation, Mary D. Gohlke of Mesa, Ariz., was given the boy's two lungs and heart Monday at Stanford Hospital in Northern California. She was taken off a respirator on Tuesday and her condition was described Wednesday as satisfacory

Robert left home in Chula Vista last Friday night, riding on the rear of a bicycle pedaled by his best friend, Freeman

The boys were going to visit Robert's girlfriend. But a few minutes from home, police said, their bicycle was hit from behind. They said James R. Downs, 20, of Chula Vista was booked for investigation of felony drunken driving and released Saturday from San Diego county jail on $2,000 bond.

Committee Gets Water Amendment

A-J Austin Bureau AUSTIN — The House Committee on

Constitutional Amendments Tuesday referred to subcommittee a proposed constitutional amendment, sponsored by House Speaker Bill Clayton, that would set up special trust funds for financing water projects and retiring state indebtedness.

The committee referred House Joint Resolution 33 to a subcommittee to be named later after hearing more than four hours of testimony for and against the measure.

At the rate the population of Texas is growing. Clayton said, the state will have to look to sources outside of Texas to meet the demand for water by 2025. HJR 33 would set aside the necessary funds to be able to meet those crises as they come in the future," Clayton said.

Under HJR 33, surplus funds not appropriated by the Legislature for the biennium for which they are available would be divided equally between the water trust fund and the fund to retire state indebtedness.

The water fund would be used for water development, conservation and quality (including flood-prevention work) by making loan guarantees on bonds issued by local governments.

Once the money in the other fund are sufficient to eliminate the existing state debt, then half of the surplus funds would be used to establish another special fund to be used for other purposes as authorized by a two-thirds vote of the Legislature.

Assuming an annual surplus of $200 million, the funds in the trust fund could be used during the next 20 years to guarantee loans up. to $23 billion for water projects, Clayton said.

The measure was supported by both the West Texas and South Texas Chambers of Commerce, the City of Round Rock and Water Inc., an organization working to develop plans for importing water to West Texas

"We see HJR 33 as a vehicle to accelerate the development of water in the state so we would have a better position for negotiating for importing water,' said Duncan Ellison of Lubbock, executive director of Water Inc.

The measure was opposed, however, by representatives of the League of Women Voters and the Lone Star Chapter of the Sierra Club, who argued the use of such "dedicated" funds does not give the Legislature the flexibility essential for wise management of state

Stuart Henry, an Austin attorney representing the Sierra Club, said his organization is not opposed to full development of the state's water resources as long as it is done wisely. "We're not convinced (HJR 33) is needed," Henry said, adding that existing water resources are not being utilized in the best manner.

Clayton, however, described the measure as "an innovative proposal" that will be something "each of us can be proud of in the years ahead.'

one major disadvantage.

People in 47 states can use UPS to send packages into Texas.

But people in Texas can't.

The reason is that UPS does not have what's known as intrastate authority here. We're not permitted to pick up a package in Texas and deliver it in Texas.

This is a major disadvantage for Texans who make their living by sending goods to customers in Texas. In effect, it prevents them from supplying their customers as promptly or as economically as their competitors in other

To overcome this handicap, several Texas firms actually spend extra time and money trucking their parcels to UPS facilities in other states. UPS is then permitted to take the parcels back into Texas for distribution.

The Texas Legislature is now discussing a bill which would clarify the authority of the Texas Railroad Commission (the agency that regulates transportation matters) to consider requests such as ours to provide service from and to all points in Texas.

We teel this bill would be a step forward. We'd like to see it pass, and we'd appreciate your support if you agree with us, a note to your Senator and Representative in the Texas Legislature could be very helpful

Parents Filing Suit Against Car Drivers

The parents of a Texas Tech architecture student who was killed in an Aug. 6, 1980, car accident are suing the drivers of the car in which their son was riding and the car which struck him broadside for a combined $350,000.

Stephen F. Fellows and Alice B. Fellows, the parents of deceased student Stephen D. Fellows, filed suit in 137th District Court Wednesday claiming both Richard Allen Kay and Allyson Genice Kernal were negligent in connection with the accident in which Fellows died. Fellows was a passenger in Kay's car, the suit notes, which collided with the car driven by Miss Kernal.

Fathers Fail To Carry Parental Weight 💿

COLLEGE STATION (AP) - New fathers today are talking more about participation in the daily care of their infants, but when diapers are wet, it's still Mom who does more of the changing, says a Texas A&M University researcher.

Dr. Candida Lutes, associate professor of psychology, conducted a study of parental attitudes toward their babies both before and after birth. She and graduate student Jacquyn Walters also studied infant behavior at birth and its implications for parenting.

The expectant fathers, she said, exressed a great deal of interest in their babies. They said they planned to change diapers, bathe and feed baby, Dr. Lutes

But after baby was born, most of the fathers did not perform at the rate they

'Checking back with the parents after baby was two months old, we found that 81 percent of the fathers were changing wet diapers and that 68 percent were changing dirty diapers. Some 53 percent of the fathers were feeding baby in the day and 32 percent were doing the job at night. Only 23 percent of the fathers were actually bathing baby," she said.

"On the other hand, 100 percent of the mothers were doing the primary care jobs. Prior to birth, many more fathers said they would do them," Dr. Lutes

The one activity in which fathers and mothers reported equal time spent with the baby was in social interaction - playing and talking, she said.

Prior to the birth of baby, mothers

Creationist Requirement Considered For Schools

Okaloosa County school officials are trying to determine the best way to get the biblical version of creation taught alongside the theory of evolution in high school biology courses.

Superintendent Max Bruner Jr. said a 1975 federal court order forcing Okaloosa County school officials to stop conducting daily prayers and Bible-reading sessions in classrooms could pose problems.

Bruner said a plan will be presented to the Okaloosa County School Board, which must approve curriculum changes, in April or May. 'Since we're under court order not to have Bible-reading or prayer in school, we'll have to consult our attorney to make sure that we don't violate the federal court order," said Bruner last week. Last Friday a California state judge ruled that evolution can be taught in that state's public schools only as one theory of creation, and should not be presented The plan has strong backing from a local Moral Majority group, which says students should be given instruction in creation "as a matter of choice" but denied they want to use the public schools as a vehicle to impose their own religious beliefs on others. State education officias said at least

Meanwhile, 11 members of the Guardian Angels, a youth group from New York, arrived to teach Atlanta youngsters how to protect themselves on the streets. The group, which patrols New York's subways keeping the peace, had planned to hitchhike until their train fare was paid by a benefactor.

Relatives of 13-year-old Curtis Walker gathered at New St. John Baptist Church on the city's east side for the funeral of the boy whose body was found Friday floating in the South River in suburban DeKalb County

A medical examiner said Walker, who had been missing since Feb. 16, had been asphyxiated. He was the 20th black child found slain in Atlanta in the last 20 months. One other child is missing.

Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown, meanwhile, announced a compromise between Atlanta police and oth-

ing the cases

Police in DeKalb County, where three bodies have been found, had resisted guidelines proposed by Atlanta police under which the city's special task force would have authority to handle all child deaths investigations regardless of where the body is found.

Brown said the compromise will make the task force the "coordinator" of the investigations of all slain black children in the area.

Busbee said he hoped the $200,000, along with the proceeds from the benefit concert by Davis and Sinatra, would be used to keep the investigation going at full speed. The governor also said he would continue efforts to secure federal aid for the probe.

Jackson said total receipts from Tuesday's concert are expected to exceed $200,000, including $145,000 from ticket

City officials have said the 20-month investigation has cost more than $1 million so far, with expenses mounting at the rate of more than $200,000 a month.

The three-hour concert drew a sellout crowd of 4,600 people, some of them dressed in blue jeans and others in evening gowns. They paid $25 or $100 to at-

Meanwhile. authorities say 1,549 children were stopped by Atlanta police for violating the city's 7 p.m. curfew in February, but only 10 were arrested. The curfew ordinance, passed in response to the slavings, bans children 14 and under from Atlanta's streets between 7 p.m. and 6 a.m. and provides prison sentences of up to one year and fines of up to $500 for the parents of any child found violating the curfew.

In the only case brought to court, a Municipal Court judge Clint Deveaux declared the law unconstitutional, but his ruling has no effect on any other court.

In other developments Wednesday:

•State Rep. Tyrone Brooks announced plans to introduce a bill making fraudulent fund-raising a state crime. He said the legislation was prompted by the arrests last week of two men charged with fraudulently collecting funds in connection with the child slayings.

•Members of the Georgia Senate wore green ribbons to show their concern over the killings. Lt. Gov. Zell Miller called the ribbons a "symbol of life.

Anti-Crime Group Arrives In Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) members of the Guardian Angels, an anti-crime youth group from New York City, arrived Wednesday and said they would help teach Atlanta youngsters how to protect themselves in the face of the city's string of child slayings.

"Our mission is not ... to come here and help hunt the killers," said spokes-woman List Evers. "We are here on a humanitarian outreach mission. If we can prevent one more black child, one more teen ager from being lost, we will have accomplished our purpose."

The 11 members of the group, aged 18 to 26, arrived by train from New York wearing their trademark red berets and white T-shirts emblazoned with an eye surrounded by eagle's wings.

Some of the Angels wore green ribbons, which have become a nationwide symbol of concern over the deaths and disappearances of 21 black children in the Atlanta area.

The group's trip was paid tor by a New York garment manufacturer. The Angels, who patrol subways in New York, had originally planned to hitchhike the 850 miles to Atlanta.

Miss Evers said membership in the Guardian Angels taught New York youngsters "to serve as a psychological deterrent to crime

Each individual has the responsibility to look out for one another. That is the way it was 40 or 50 years ago," she said.

The group's goal is not "to start a Guardian Angels group in Atlanta," but to teach young people how to protect themselves and each other, Miss Evers

She said the Angels will go "where young people hang out" and will contact community groups to offer assistance. They will be working independently of police and city officials, she said, although police have been informed of the

Believing he had inside information, Bowen sought to make his strike.

As Sullair climbed sharply and steadily, an acquaintance with the company told Bowen the mid-January price of $71 a share was too high. I began to pray that the price of the stock would come down," he recalled,

U.S. Decides To Sell Airplanes To Saudis

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Reagan administration, trying to discourage Soviet expansion in the oil-rich Persian Gulf. has decided to sell Saudi Arabia four highly advanced radar command planes and to build up an Egyptian airfield near the Red Sea, sources said Wednesday

The sale of the sophisticated jets to Saudi Arabia, at a cost of about $400 million apiece, could give the Arab monarchy the capacity to oversee Israeli air movements to a range of 500 miles. The decision, however, is designed to shield Saudi Arabia against any potential threat from the Soviet Union, Iraq or South Ye-

Faculty Senate Seeks Meeting With Cavazos

Current Faculty Senate President Roand Smith said he has received numerous telephone calls from faculty members who were upset about Cavazos's remarks at that AAUP meeting Smith said it indicates to him there is a general faculty morale problem

Several senators also were upset with plans for a new faculty evaluation format planned by Cavazos. They referred to an irticle in Tuesday morning's Avalanche Journal in which the president discussed the new system

Those who spoke up at the meeting said they objected to any changes made without faculty input

Panze Kimmel, newly elected vice president of the group for next year, said her college (the College of Education) already has a "rigorous system" of faculty evaluation. "We are pleased with the procedure we have." she added.

Senators unanimously agreed to voice their objections to Cavazos. Smith was asked to convey to Cavazos the sentiment that the faculty wants input on policy matters affecting the faculty.

David Potter M.D., chairman of the Executive Committee of the Faculty Council at the Texas Tech Health Sciences Center - the medical school's faculty organization - also attended Wednesday's meeting. "We're no happier (about it) than anyone else." Potter said of the new evaluation format outlined in The A-J article.

Potter noted that the medical school faculty group will discuss the evaluation format when the group meets this afternoon When asked after Wednesday's meeting whether today's medical faculty meeting is open to the public and news media, he said, "No

The American presence is regarded as a safeguard against use of the planes in an Arab-Israeli conflict. The theory is that would not be permitted because it could expose Americans to Israeli fire.

The sources, asking not to be identified, said the decision was final except that Congress had not yet been notified. Ultimately, under the law, Congress would have to give its approval to carry out the AWACS sale

The still-secret agreement with Egypt to build up Ras Banas, near the Red Sea, at an estimated cost of $1 billion would also provide American access to the improved facility. This adds to the ring of military installations in Kenya, Oman and Somalia the United States began to construct under former President Jimmy Carter after the Iranian revolution and the Soviet thrust into Afghanistan.

Reagan Ends Canada Visit

Administration's Economic Program Defended

OTTAWA (AP) - President Reagan ended a two-day visit to Canada with a promise Wednesday to revitalize the United States' economy, regain the respect of its allies and oppose "Soviet adventurism around the earth."

In a televised speech before the Canadian Parliament, the president confessed that "the United States in the last few years has not been as solid and stable an ally and trading partner as it should be."

But he said his "near-revolutionary" economic program, submitted Tuesday to Congress, is intended not only to solve domestic problems but "to restore the confidence of our friends and allies in what we are doing.

He told Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and his other Canadian hosts that a stimulated U.S. economy will produce millions of new jobs, many of them in Canada

Differences Acknowledged

The president's speech to Parliament, interrupted repeatedly by applause, climaxed a visit in which both governments openly acknowledged their differences but expressed a common determination to find solutions.

Reagan stopped at the U.S. Embassy in Ottawa on his way to the airport for a five-minute visit that evoked memories of American hostages in Iran. Speaking generally of the American diplomatic corps, he told embassy personnel that as president I can promise you that we will do all in our power to help and protect you in your line of work.

On his return to the White House Wednesday afternoon, the president said, "It was a very fine meeting, really. I think we established the basis for further working together. We were very pleased and I think they were, too. A very heartwarming experience.

Fish War Not Expected

Trudeau said that despite "deep disappointment" over U.S. withdrawal of an East Coast fisheries treaty governing conservation and division of fish stocks, the neighboring nations had assured each other "there will be no fish war."

The joint willingness to keep trying to reach some sort of agreement on the fishing issue, which has taken on national political significance in Canada, seemed symbolic of Reagan's brief visit to the Canadian capital. The problem wasn't solved, but both sides seemed pleased they could still talk about it.

A variety of other major disputes, involving environmental matters, energy policy and foreign affairs, came up dur ing the visit, but no breakthroughs had been expected and none was announced.

In his Parliament speech, Reagan stumbled over his text and inadvertently dropped a reference to their problems. but the White House said he stood by the material he had skipped

Part Of Text Dropped "We have never hidden our disputes," he had intended to say, "but we have always found room for their resolution. The issues upon which we still seek agreement should therefore proceed down the same path of cooperation, negotiation and mutual understanding. Reagan aide Mike Deaver said Reagan stumbled over a portion of the text he had edited by hand and then could not

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Canadian External Affairs Minister Mark MacGuigan held a news conference at which they were peppered with questions about Canada's opposition to S. military aid to the government in El

Haig and MacGuigan sought to gloss ver the issue of arms aid, stressing that Canada and the United States hoped for a political rather than a military solution to the civil strife in that Central-American country.

Junta Called Best Hope

We consider that the Duarte government (the civilian-military junta) is now the best hope and has been for this pluralistic process which we hope will proceed with early elections in El Salvador, Haig said.

MacGuigan, responding to the same question, agreed that "the existing government is probably the most feasible channel through which the people of El Salvador can realize democracy, and we are most heartened by the fact that that government has recently committed itself to free elections in 1982.

Asked if the Canadians had succeeded in persuading him to cut off or reduce military aid to El Salvador, Haig replied that the U.S. "attempt to rectify the military imbalances that have been the consequence of the massive influx of Cuban and Soviet and Eastern European-supplied armaments ... is going to continue at a modest level."

"I don't anticipate it'll go much beyond that," Haig said.

MacGuigan and other Canadian ministers expressed satisfaction the United States had given assurances it would continue commitments made by the Carter administration to:

 Complete a natural gas pipeline from Alaska through Canada and into the lower 48 states before 1985.

- Conduct cooperative cleanup operations to reduce pollution and revitalize the Great Lakes.

- Pursue technical studies leading to eventual control of air pollution that could threaten crops and forests on both sides of the border. The Canadians concern that so-called "acid rain" might increase with growth of coal-fired power plants and industries.

The Canadians said that although the new administration's assurances contained no guarantees of solutions, there was an easing of fears in Ottawa that Reagan's proposed budget cuts and policy changes would scuttle projects of critical importance north of the U.S. border.

Before boarding Air Force One to return to Washington, Reagan witnessed the signing of two bilateral agreements by Haig and MacGuigan. One extends the North American Air Defense Agreement for five years. The other will provide additional millions of dollars annually in Social Security and pension benefits to people who live and work in both the United States and Canada.

Before he left, Reagan also paid a courtesy call on conservative opposition leader Joe Clark. The president and his wife Nancy each planted a silver maple tree near the government guest house where they had stayed overnight.

"I'll be back when it needs pruning," Reagan said after shoveling a few scoops of dirt over the roots of the six-year-old

Reagan has avoided proposing changes in basic Social Security retirement benefits, placing the program inside a "safety net" for the needy.

Domenici said he had not discussed possible changes with Budget Director David A. Stockman.

But he said any change in Social Security presumably could mean Congress would have to cut less from other programs to meet the president's overall $48.6 billion target for cuts.

"I don't think the president could afford to be critical" if that happened, he

That student's monthly payment would be $161 instead of $127. Education Secretary T.H. Bell told a House education subcommittee.

The Guaranteed Student Loans are now free to students while they attend classes. The Reagan administration wants them to pay the 9 percent interest from the start.

They would have an option to pay that interest while still in school, Bell noted. The student who borrowed $2,500 a year for four years could pay $225 a year in in-

Bennett also said enrollment figures, which are up 200 students over last year's count of 2.386, will be larger for the following school year, when a proposed federal housing project in that west Lubbock County district is completed.

Frenship had fought the federal project, arguing the district already has too many students, that the base for taxes will be taken away and the district was not consulted before approval of the project. U.S. District Judge Halbert O Woodward, however, refused to grant Frenship officials' request that the project be blocked.

Big Spring Approves Pact With City Firm

BIG SPRING (Special) — The Big Spring City Commission has decided to execute an agreement with the Lubbock engineering firm Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, which will oversee various street, water lines and sewer improvements here during the summer.

Bennett Reeves, president of the firm, provided some background on the company, which was formed in 1945, for council members Wednesday

We are primarily a civil engineering firm, and in 1928 we decided to operate only in West Texas," Reeves said. "We will begin the design phase of the program soon, at a maximum cost to the city of $18,000. After that, we will negotiate fees in the way that the city finds most advantageous.

In a discussion of the city's mineral rights in the Big Spring Industrial Park. the council learned that a survey of the property there is 90 percent complete. The council also agreed to hire John Ferguson, local attorney, to draw specifications for bids on the rights once the survey is completed.

Local property owners approved more than $10 million in improvement bonds in an election held in 1980.

The relationship remains "special." and the Canadian leadership worked hard to lay out a warm official welcome for the president and his wife Nancy in blustery Ottawa.

But the Canadians also greeted Reagan with a list of complaints about American action or inaction on numerous environmental and economic issues. Ey the end of the talks Tuesday, Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau was unable to announce specific U.S. concessions on any major items.

Three-Way Meeting Sought By Nations

MEXICO CITY (AP) — U. S. President Reagan and Canadian Prime Minis ter Pierre Elliott Trudeau have agreed to seek a three-way meeting with Mexico to discuss common problems, but the Foreign Ministry said Wednesday it would have no comment until a formal invitation is made.

The Canadian and U.S. leaders met Tuesday in Ottawa and told reporters they were disposed to such a tripartite

A U.S. official said the idea was Tru deau's and that Reagan heartily agreed.

Among the items that have been suggested for such talks would be fishery rights and immigration matters.

Reagan said he and Trudeau had discussed bilateral issues "squarely, in an atmosphere of frankness and understand-

Diplomatic words left many Canadians deeply dissatisfied, however.

Air Force One was barely off the ground Wednesday, carrying Reagan back to Washington, when the House of Commons fell into angry debate over U.S.-Canadian relations.

One after another, lawmakers from the opposition Progressive Conservative and New Democrat parties peppered Trudeau's Liberals with questions about what concrete steps were taken toward resolving U.S. Canadian disputes.

All the Liberals could offer were the assurances of a "continuing dialogue."

We don't want to hear any more rhetoric about discussions!" fumed Progressive Conservative member Otto Jelinek at one point.

The U.S.-Canadian argument embraces many areas: FISHERIES

With Reagan standing behind him, Trudeau reiterated Canada's 'deep disappointment" at Reagan's scrapping of a fully negotiated, bilateral fisheries agreement that would have provided for the management and sharing of fish resources on Georges Bank, off the East Coast. The pact had been blocked in the Senate because of the opposition of New England fishermen. The Canadians fear that without an agreement U.S. fishermen will deplete the fish stocks.

to more cross-border air and water pollution, particularly from the acid rain that is produced by U.S. coal-burning plants and falls onto Canada. Again, Trudeau had no specific plan of action to show from the Reagan talks.

The Canadians have begun building their leg of a great pipeline that is to carry Alaskan natural gas south to the lower 48 states. But they now fear that the Alaska portion may never be built because the private financing needed is slow in coming. City Council To Discuss Fire Calls In County

Avalanche-Journal Staff

The possibility of reinstating fire response outside the city limits will be discussed by the Lubbock City Council during its regular meeting today at 9:30 a.m.

Although no action will be taken on the subject, Mayor Bill McAlister said he would be asking the council to consider making the county commissioners an offer to resume city fire service for major fires in Lubbock County.

The city halted county fire response in September 1976 when the county commissioners failed to agree to a new contract that would hike fees for those calls from $506 to $1,250 per

The commissioners wanted to pay only $400.

A second "flat fee" offer of $62,500 was made in September 1977, but the commissioners refused to accept it either. The fee was based on the estimated total cost of 50 calls at $1,250 each. Any calls over that number would be charged at the same rate

The county has paid rural volunteer fire departments $275 per call for about four years. VFD representatives have repeatedly told the court the fee was not enough to pay for the cost of

McAlister said city firefighters would not be used on minor calls such as car or grass fires, but would be an available reserve if rural firefighters found they could not handle a fire out-

At least one county commissioner has expressed interest in such an agreement.

Boyd Roberts has talked to some of the council members about it and may have made the initial moves in the matter. said assistant city manager Jim Blagg.

A new set of rates has been prepared at the mayor's request, but Blagg said he could not make them public before the council had a chance to see them.

He did say they would be higher than the $1,250 figure offered in 1977 In other major business, the council will consider the issuance of $9 million in electric revenue bonds to finance two Lubbock Power and Light expansion projects.

Each project will cost an estimated $4.5 million. The first, an expansion of the transmission system, is broken up into three priorities: the expansion of the Co-op, Chalker and Vicksburg substations to meet peak-season needs at an estimated cost of $1,250,000.

The project also includes the construction of a transmission line from 50th and East Loop 289 to Power Plant Number 2 on the north side of the city at an estimated cost of $3,050,000; and the improving of LP&L computer facilities and substation remotes at an estimated cost of $220,000.

The expansion of the distribution system will be a three-year project, with an estimated cost of $1.5 million per year, to continue providing service to new areas and older areas that are now seeing development.

According to city officials, the revenue bonds can be paid off without raising the utility company's rates.

The revenue bonds do not require an election, nor will they commit city tax funds to their financing, officials maintain. In other business, the council will consider a revision of the present ordinance concerning taxicabs and other vehicles for

The need for the revisions is to clear up some inconsistencies, clarify the difference between a taxicab and a limousine and set standards for both types of services which conduct business at Lubbock International Airport.

Attention to these needs became evident after a small oneman limousine operation started up here last September and several others began operation last October. One service, utilizing an antique Model A Ford is "doing fantastic service at the airport," according to one city official. Although the city staff has prepared its own ordinance, Sexton Enterprises, which runs the local Yellow Cab service, has compiled its own set of rules. While the city proposal would put more regulations on the taxicab service, the Sexton Enterprises proposal places more restrictions on the limousine services. Jim Sexton and his attorney are scheduled to meet with the city council at the meeting to discuss the company's disagreements with the proposed ordinance. According to a staff report to the council, the major difference between the two proposals is the definition of a limousine. While the taxicab company would like to limit the definition to vehicles transporting passengers from the airport only, the city ordinance would allow limousines to operate anywhere in

Other areas in dispute are the cost of the taxicab permits, See CITY COUNCIL Page 5

The commissioners court agreed to purchase three uniforms for each deputy this year and two uniforms for each bailiff. In addition, all 44 employees will receive one replacement uniform annually for the next four years.

Those new uniforms will cost the county $90 each for a total bill this year of $11,160. The annual cost for replacement uniforms during the next four years will run about $3,960.

However, Keesee noted that the county currently pays each member of his force a $15 monthly clothing allowance - even though there is no mandated official uniform for the department.

In a year's time, the uniform allowance amounts to $180 per employee. Paying that monthly allowance to all 44 staff members at the sheriff's department would cost the county around $7,920 an-

The Parks and Recreation Board Wednesday accepted a staff recommendation to bail out financially leaky Mae Simmons Swimming Pool by making it free to the public.

Recreation Superintendent Jim Underwood told board members it would be cheaper to let people swim free at the pool than charge admission, which generated less than $900 during the summer of 1978, the last time the pool was open. That summer, the pool operated at a $7.-400 loss

Parks Director John Alford said the only adverse effect of the policy change might be reducing the number of customers at George Woods pool, at East Erskine Avenue and Zenith Avenue, which charges admission. But Underwood said the crossover, if any, would not be significant.

"It (George Woods pool) is a money loser already." Alford said. "We might try the free swim idea there later on if this plan (at Mae Simmons) works."

In other action, the board approved a request by the Dunbar-Struggs chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes to hold a fund-raising bicycle race March 29 on Canyon Lakes Road east of Quirt Avenue. BEEF JERKY

Cut beef or venison into thin strips, about 1/4-inch at most. (Meat is easiest to slice if it is partially thawed.) Make sure to remove all fat from slices.

Place strips in a glass cake pan. Using a basting brush, brush with liquid smoke Use liquid smoke sparingly but make sure each piece gets some.

Season the strips with seasoning salt Then sprinkle a little bit of sugar. Add pepper and regular salt.

After one layer of strips has been completed, start again laying strips crosswise. Pan should have 3 or 4 layers in it.

Let pan sit for at least 4 hours. Then place the strips on the oven rack - not in a pan - and not touching each other.

Newer Treatment For Acne May Help Teen

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My grandson lives with me and has a a severe acne on his face and back. He has been treated, but with no results. He abstains from chocolate and colas, which we've heard may cause acne. He was taking medicine for it, but that gave him stomach trouble, so the doctor ordered it discontinued. I would appreciate anything you can tell me about newer treatments for acne. -

Unfortunately, we have no universally-successful treatement for acne, but new ones keep emerging. They work on some and don't for others. This is frustrating to both dermatologists and acne patients

I would like to tell you about a newer treatment, which might or might not be applicable for your grandson since his present and past treatments have not helped. I just ran cross it. It seems helpful, especially where the usual drying techniques fail or aggravate the acne. It has met with successs in some young

The face is gently washed twice daily with a fat-free soap (Cetaphil), then dried with a soft cotton towel. A skin-softening cream (Eucerin) is applied before showering, bathing or swimming. The cream is later removed with the Cetaphil. Then at night before retiring tretinoin cream (a Vitamin-A substance) is applied to the acne pimples, after which the softening cream is again applied. Two or three times during the day a gel of benzoyl peroxide is dabbed onto any new pimples. There are variations. The vitamin-A cream can be used n conjunction with antibiotics (taken by mouth), or antibiotic creams themselves can be used. For most, acne treatment is a trialand-hope proposition. When one cure doesn't work, you search for another. For serious acne, it is best to consult a dermatologist. He can evaluate your grandson and the treatments suggested.

I have just read three recent articles on acne. There is no proof that diet affects the course - even chocolate, greasy foods, pizza and the like. I am not encouraging your grandson, or anyone, to eat those foods, but am simply saying that there is a lack of scientific evidence to implicate foods as a cause of acne. However if a youngster notes a flare-up of acne after eating a particular food, then it should be eliminated, of course. For other tips about this problem, see the booklet "Controlling Acne, Blackheads and Pimples." For a copy, write Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, III. 60611, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have osteoarthritis in my right knee. I had x-rays and now am advised that I require surgery. The doctor mentioned microscopic surgery. Can you give me some idea as to what this is and what it might be used

A word about osteoarthritis. It is not like rheumatoid arthritis. The kind of joint inflammation occurs for reasons that remain a mystery. Osteo, on the other hand, is due in part to the fact that as we age we do not replace the cushioning lining of the joints the way we did when we were younger. Because of the great abuse to which the knee is subjected during our lifetimes, that joint is most often affected by osteo. It can be disabling, though. I am sorry you have to have it at all, but it is well that it is confined to one

Now about the surgery. You use the word "microscopic." I am guessing that the doctor wants to look inside your knee with an instrument called an arthroscope. Sometimes with osteo, little calcium deposits break off and flat around in a joint. These "loose bodies" can be removed with an arthroscope, avoiding major surgery. Now, remember, there are any other, more major surgical procedures that are done for person with osteoarthritis, all the way up to joint retry to be more specific.

Dear Dr. Donohue: How much caffeine is in coffee as opposed to cola drinks? Can caffeine cause blood pressure to rise? - Mrs. L.M.

ANN LANDERS

Weathermen Split On Region Classification

Dear Ann Landers: My grandson asked me a question I couldn't answer.

Maybe you can. He wanted to know why the weathermen on national TV refer to Indiana as the "Midwest." I agree with him that Indiana is Mideast.

As a former teacher I recall we showed our pupils a map that divided the states according to the Mississippi River. The states along the Pacific were the Far West. The plains states of Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas were the Midwest. The states east of the Mississippi were the Mideastern states. The Atlantic Coast states were the East. No way could Indiana be considered the Midwest.

I wonder what people in California think when they hear such statements. Please comment. - O.M. Of Syracuse,

Dear O.M.: I called John Coleman, whose friendly, down-home weather commentary is heard on ABC ("Good Morning, America"). John said, "I've had many complaints about how I refer to various regions of the country, so I try to stick to the guidelines of the National

I then called Willard Scott, the jovial, sunshiny weatherman who does his lively number on NBC's "Today Show." He said, "People from Indiana think of themselves as Midwesterners - not Easterners. I refer to Indiana as the lower part of the Ohio Valley, part of the Great Lakes area or the middle Mississippi Valley. Hoosiers do NOT consider themselves Easterners.'

F. Gordon Barnes, the golden-voiced meteorologist of CBS News, said, "I think this problem dates back to the time when there wasn't much west of the Rockies. Although Indiana is in the Eastern time zone, it is definitely considered part of the Midwest. I can tell you that the people who live in Indiana resent it when they are called Easterners.

So, if they are still using those old maps in the Syracuse schools, maybe they'd better invest in some new ones. Thanks for writing.

DEAR HELOISE

My daughter has a blouse which is white with blue stripes. After washing it, the stripes faded and left blue spots on

Do you have any suggestions as to something I could use to get the stains off? The blouse is 100 percent nylon so it would have to be something which wouldn't hurt the fabric. — K.K

Try soaking the blouse in a weak solution of liquid chlorine bleach, detergent and warm water. No, the bleach won't hurt the fabric - or most any other fabric for that matter - IF you follow directions on the bleach bottle.

Before you rush off to grab pencil and paper and deluge me with protests let me tell you of a few experiences I've had re-

A friend accidentally washed a sweater which was made of a blend of synthetic fibers with a yellow crayon. She tried to remove it with a prewash spray, which usually takes crayon out, but this time,

I suggested she try bleach in the wash water and the sweater came out good as new. Didn't hurt it one little bit.

I washed a white T-shirt with red binding on the neck and sleeves which was made of a 50-percent blend of synthetic fabric.

I failed to remove the clothes from the washer as soon as they finished washing and the red faded all over the T-shirt as well as some other things.

It was no problem however, as I simply re-washed the clothes, adding bleach to the water and every trace of the red was gone on every garment.

I've removed stains from colored fabrics of many descriptions using bleach, the exceptions being acetates, silk and wool. Never use bleach on these. It also will turn spandex yellow, but otherwise doesn't hurt it.

While I'm not trying to promote bleach, dear hearts, I sometimes gather from your letters that you shy away from it unnecessarily, being afraid that it will ruin this or that fabric

You therefore let stains, which otherwise could be simply and easily removed just by adding a little of the stuff to your load of clothes, get the best of you.

A word of caution, however. Always follow directions on the bottle exactly and don't fall into the trap of thinking if a little works well, a lot will work miracles. In this case, it just isn't so! - Heloise

A $100 FACTORY REBATE

Install Gas Air Conditioning now, and you'll not only be cool the first day this spring . . . you'll save a cool $100! Buy before May 1st and you'll receive a $100 rebate direct from the factory . . . plus you can defer monthly payments until May, too. But $100 and deferred payments are not the only reasons for installing Gas Air Conditioning.

Gas Air Conditioning Systems are very energy efficient. They now use less gas energy because the constantly burning gas pilot has been replaced with a new pilotless ignition system. Pilotless ignition saves gas, and saving gas will save you money.

Gas Air Conditioning is also very dependable. It's built to last and last with no loss of cooling capacity. Hand-crafted of sturdy stainless steel components, Gas Air Conditioning has fewer moving parts and no compressor to wear out or break down. That means less wear and lower maintenance costs. And to prove its dependability, Gas Air Conditioning gives you the longest warranty - the 10year "No Sweat" limited warranty twice as long as all others.

Gas Air Conditioning. It's energy efficient. It's designed to lower maintenance costs, to lower operating costs. Gas Air Conditioning will save energy and that will save you money. And when you combine Gas Air Conditioning with adequate conservation measures, like caulking, insulation, storm doors and windows, you'll save even more.

But don't wait too long. The $100 rebate ends May 1, 1981. Call now for a free home cooling survey and cost estimate. There's no obligation.

Manufacturer's limited warranty covers all defects in material and workmanship on the sealed refrigeration unit for ten years from date of installation of the air conditioner when it is installed in a single-family residence. All other parts are warranted for one year from date of

Are supermarket shoppers getting smarter?

You bet they are! Here are just few of the smart-shopping experiences that readers have recently written to me about:

Patti Smith of Painted Post, N.Y., found Liquid all on sale for $1.38. The regular price at her store is $1.69.

Her supermarket doubled her 50-cents coupon, which brough the cost down to just 38 cents. She rounded third base for a "home-run" when she sent in the net-weight statement for a $1 refund!

Martha Geier of Glenview, Ill., bought two 25-pound bags of Hero Dog food priced at $6.95 each.

She handed the checker two $2 coupons, which the store doubled. That brought the cost of the two bags down to $5.90.

Later she sent in the two weight circles from the bags for a $2.50 segund. The 50 pounds of dog food cost her only $3.40.

Mrs. Geier is definitely one of our supermarket heroes.

Shirely McCrary of LaVergne, Tenn., purchased three boxes of Duncan Hines Cake Mix on sale for 69 cents each. She had a $1 coupon, which brought the total cost down to $1.07.

Then she used the proofs from the packages to obtain a $1.25 refund from Duncan Hines

"I had three beautiful cakes and made a profit of 18 cents," she says. "My husband is now convinced that I'm a smart shopper." She certainly is! Betty Somers of New Hyde Park, N.Y., bought four Celeste pizzas priced at

$5.56. The cost came down to $3.56 when the store doubled the value of her four 25-cent coupons When she got home, she popped a pizza into the oven and popped the four

Universal Product Codes into an envelope to request the Celeste $2.75 refund. That brought the cost of the pizzas down to only 81 cents. But she didn't stop there. On the back of one of the pizza boxes she found another refund form offering $1 in return for 4 net-weight statements. Refunders such as Betty say that you should "never throw a package away until you have used it at least twice. Roberta Roberts of Chicago found Swanson's Canned Chicken on sale for 79 cents. It usually cost 85 cents at her supermarket.

She had a coupon good for 50 cents on the purchase of two cans. When the store doubled its value, the total cost of the two cans was only 58 cents.

And she used the labels to request a $1 refund. Smart shoppers who combine advertised supermarket specials with discounts from coupons and refunds reap savings that most shoppers only dream

Dr. John D. Reichert, a Texas Tech University professor "adopted" by the citizens of Crosbyton, and the culmination of the project's goal to produce electricity for sale

Several hundred persons, including U.S. Rep. Kent Hance and U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm, are expected for the March 20 ceremony marking the commercial sale of the power to some of the residents here.

If the sun cooperates better than it did Wednesday, the six-or-seven-minute film clip will show the 65-foot collector. dish as it is moved by computer to the best position to collect the sunlight and how the solar power is used to create steam for a turbine which in turn produces electricity.

The electricity will be carried from the site through Lighthouse Electric Cooperative's power lines to the City of Crosbyton power system. The power then will be used by residents of the southern part of the city.

Rex Wheeler will serve as the citizens' representative and will present a token check as payment for the power at the 2 p.m. ceremony next Friday

The fixed-mirror concept being used at the Crosbyton site is believed to be the only one in the United States, although a similar project is being used in France. Dr. Reichert has visited France to view that project and researchers from France have been in Crosbyton as recently as a couple of months ago

The project's ultimate goal is to have 10 200-foot dish collectors to produce the solar energy

Witnesses Describe Multiple Stabbings

By KIM COBB

Avalanche-Journal Staff A parade of witnesses repeated the same story in 72nd District Court Wednesday afternoon as they described how Sherman Ray Morrison turned a knife on a group of people last fall, leaving four different men with stab wounds.

Morrison. 25. is on trial for the Sept. 20 attempted murder of 7-Eleven clerk Roy Harrison Lamon, Lamon was stabbed repeatedly outside the convenience store at 19th Street and Avenue X when he reportedly approached Morrison after the defendant allegedly already had stabbed one man.

The jury is expected to hear one more state's witness this morning before de-fense attorney Phil Gamble begins his client's defense.

Jaycees Scheduling Rattlesnake Event

BIG SPRING (Special) - The annual Jaycees Rattlesnake Roundup here is set for March 27-29 in the Howard County

An arts and crafts display will be held in conjunction with the roundup.

The JayCees say they will pay top dollar to the three persons catching the most pounds of snakes, to the individual bringing in the longest and shortest snake and to the roundup participant who captures the snake having the most

Art show hours will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday March 28 and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. March 29. The entries will register and start weighing in snakes March

Prosecutor Hollis Browning called Texas Tech sophomore Suzette Stubblefield to explain what may have set off the stabbing incident. Miss Stubblefield testified that she and three friends had stopped at the 19th Street 7-Eleven about 11 p.m. before heading for a party. When she got out of the car, Miss Stubblefield said, her car door struck the door of the car next to her as it also was being opened. Morrison got out of the other car, she said, and asked her "what she was trying to do.

A woman in the back seat of Morrison's car told her Morrison was drunk. Miss Stubblefield testified, and advised her not to worry about it. Miss Stubblefield said she got out of the car, stepping under Morrison's arm which was resting on her car, and walked in to the 7-Elev-

A few minutes later one of her friends came into the convenience store screaming, she testified.

Miss Stubblefield's companion, Troy Lowden, told the court he was in the car when Morrison spoke to Miss Stubblefield. After she went inside the store, Lowden said, Morrison jumped into the front seat.

Lowden told the court that when he asked Morrison what he was doing in Miss Stubblefield's ear, Morrison reached over the back seat and put a knife to his side. The two men struggled and, according to Lowden's testimony, his fingers were cut while trying to avoid Morrison's pocket knife.

Lowden ran into the convenience store asking that someone call the police, he recalled. It was after he was inside the store that he saw another one of his

Lowden described how his friend fell victim to Morrison's pocket knife before escaping from the attack and how Morrison pounded on the front glass door of the 7-Eleven, trying to get in.

Store clerk Lamon took the stand and told the court he ran outside the store. armed with a heavy link chain, just after Holmes was stabbed, but Morrison took the chain from him as he walked out the door. Morrison then began stabbing him, Lamon recounted, and he received wounds in the head, shoulder, arm and back of his shoulder before he managed to get back inside the store.

Midland oil producer Glenn Cope also was called to the witness stand and explained how he had been leaving a restaurant across the street from the 7-Eleven when he looked up and saw a man getting stabbed. By the time he crossed 19th Street, the man Cope later learned was Lamon had already made it back into the conveniene store, Cope said.

It was then that Morrison turned toward him, reached around him and stabbed Cope in the back, the Midland man testified

Bob Smith, a patron at a neighboring pizza restaurant at the time of the attacks, testified he left the restaurant when he saw the man he identified as Morrison attacking one of the men. He took Cope to the hospital, where the Midland resident was treated for 11 stab wounds, Smith told the jury.

Although Morrison has been charged in connection with all of the stabbings, he is on trial this week for only the attempted murder charge in connection with Lamon's injuries. The offense of attempted murder is a second-degree felony, punishable from two to 20 years im-

Proposed Resolution Rejects MX In Texas

A-J Austin Bureau AUSTIN — The Senate Committee on State Affairs gave unanimous approval Wednesday to a resolution by Hereford Sen. Bill Sarpalius, calling on Congress to reject a Pentagon proposal to build part of the MX missile system in Texas.

The measure, labeled Senate Concurrent Resolution 53, notes that the MX would require the relocation of approximately 500 West Texas families as well as removing "many acres of highly productive land" from agricultural use.

Congress has resolved that the MX should be built "on the least productive land available that is suitable for such purposes" the resolution states. The Department of Defense has proposed building the entire system in Nevada and Utah or splitting the location between those two states and Texas and New Mexico.

The resolution also calls attention to a Department of Defense report stating that splitting the system would cost an additional $3.475 billion.

Sarpalius asked the committee to place the resolution on the Consent Calendar, which would virtually assure Senate passage. However, Chairman Ray Farabee of Witchita Falls decided the resolution should go before the full Sen-

Carol Burnett Begins Legal Battle Against 'Enquirer'

Carol Burnett took her seat in a courtroom Wednesday as a trial began in her $10 million libel suit against the National Enquirer — a case she said has plagued her like "a 5-year-old toothache."

Miss Burnett, who claims the tabloid defamed her in a gossip column item al-leging she had a drunken run-in with Henry Kissinger in a Washington restaurant, said she planned to sit through ev-ery day of the long-awaited trial. The names of such luminaries as Kissinger and MCA president Lew Wasserman appeared on a list of prospective witnesses submitted to jurors. Others were Enquirer owner Generoso Pope and Miss Burnett's husband-producer. Joe Hamilton.

The $10 million includes $5 million in general damages and $5 million in punitive damages.

"I was lied about," she told a crowd of reporters and cameramen outside the courtroom. "I think a lot of people talk about suing, but they don't have the patience. Thank God I have the patience. The patience has paid off."

Miss Burnett has become a symbol for a growing group of entertainment figures who have sued the Enquirer in recent years in what they say is a battle son, who represents the Enquirer. Masterson said the Enquirer printed a retraction saying the article describing alleged bizarre behavior by Miss Burnett was untrue - a move which the newspa-

Masterson said there would be three key questions in the trial: "Was the item itself defamatory? Was the retraction clear, and did Carol Burnett suffer from the article?"

Whatever the outcome, the launching of the trial itself seemed to be enough to put Miss Burnett in high spirits. "I waited five years for this trial," she said. "It's been like a 5-year-old tooth-ache. I'm very relieved that we've finally gotten it into court. "I feel like 'Rocky' in the movie. I've stayed the course," she said.

Attorneys began questioning prospective jurors who were expected to be asked whether they would be prejudiced in favor or against Miss Burnett because

The article over which the popular actress is suing appeared in the March 2, 1976, edition of the tabloid. Her attorneys said she found the account of an alleged drunken run-in with the former secretary of state particularly objectionable because she is a non-drinker and has worked to combat alcoholism, which afflicted both her parents.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Q. The Treasury Department still pro-claims U.S. Savings Bonds as good in-vestments, in advertisements and other promotions paid for by the taxpayers. I consider this unethical.

As you have pointed out, old Series E bonds will reach final maturity and stop accruing interest 40 years after their issue dates. Owners of old E bonds will then have to pay federal income tax on the accrued interest.

Can the new secretary of the U.S. Treasury reverse the previous secretary's ruling on this?.

A. Yes. Donald Regan, the new Treasury secretary, can do that. Hopefully, he'll do it soon. Time is running out. The oldest Series E bonds are now scheduled to reach "final maturity" and stop accruing interest in May.

This all results from the "Blumenthal blunder," which has just about destroyed the U.S. Savings Bond program. On Jan. 10, 1979, then-Secretary of the Treasury W. Michael Blumenthal decreed that no additional extended maturities would be granted on old E bonds. As a result, millions of Americans who had planned to hold their E bonds until retirement time are faced with the

New York Votes Milk State Drink

"It's better than motherhood," said Marty Markowitz, D-Brooklyn.

He borrowed the wooden cow from Borden Inc. of Menands, local distributor for the dairy company because he "just wanted to show my wholehearted support of the measure.

There aren't many cows in my district.

Milk is New York's top agricultural product, worth $1.5 billion a year.

To make the beverage the state drink would require action by the full state senate and assembly and Gov. Hugh Carprospect of paying income tax on their E bond interest while they are still working and are in high tax brackets. Is it any wonder that U.S. Savings Bond sales have plummeted. As things now stand, the purchase of a new Series EE bond carries with it a fat future tax

Donald Regan can change that, with the stroke of a pen, and get the savings bond program back on track.

Q. How will the Internal Revenue Service catch people who don't redeem their old Series E bonds, after the bonds reach final maturity.

A. The IRS won't be able to "catch" those people, until the bonds are redeemed. When you redeem an E bond, you have to provide a Social Security number. The number and the amount of accrued E bond interest is then fed into the revenooers' computers, which is supposed to match the information against individual income tax returns.

The rub is that, as things now stand, you will be required to report and pay federal income tax on the accrued interest for the year in which an E bond reaches final maturity whether you cash the bond or not.

It's a cinch that many, people won't cash E bonds at final maturity. The bonds will just lay around collecting dust and no interest. Q. I sold 100 shares of stock on Dec. 23 and received payment on Jan. 7. I sold 150 shares on Dec. 29 and received payment on Jan. 8.

Should the profits from the two sales be reported as capital gains on my 1980 or 1981 income tax returns.

A. Assuming that both sales were handled in "regular way transactions" as most stock trades are report the Dec. 23 sale on your 1980 return and the Dec. 29 sale on your 1981 return.

Because of the five-business-day "delivery rule," sales at a profit through Dec. 23 go on your 1980 return. Any profitable sales on and after Dec. 24 go on your 1981 return.

Here's a kicker. Sales at a loss through Dec. 31 go on your 1960 return.

Ah! Tax rules. The watchword is

Alexander Bail Edict Stands, Court Finds

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has upheld a Lubbock County trial court order denying bail to Billy Wayne Alexander Jr., who was charged with capital murder:

Alexander has since been convicted by an Abilene jury and is currently serving a life sentence at Buntsville for the October 1980 murder of State Trooper Jerry Don Davis of Slaton.

Alexander sought bail in December 1980 after jail officials refused to let him take a blood test in connection with an application for a marriage license. Alexander had planned to marry Elainnia Maria Hill in a ceremony to be performed at the Lubbock County Jail.

The trial court denied the request to be released on bail pending the Jan. 12 trial and Alexander appealed claiming an unconstitutional restraint of his liberty beyond the restraint needed to insure his security and appearance for trial The appeals court rejected that contention however, stating it could not consider his constitutional claims because there was no evidence Hill was free to marry her. 'It is far from clear that Mrs. Hill is free to marry petitioner, she having a husband whose marriage to her appears not to have been dissolved," the court said.

Mrs. Hill's divorce decree has since come final.

The court also upheld the Lubbock become final. County conviction of Alfred Lendrew Lusk, who was sentenced to 20 years in prison for robbery."" Lusk was convicted of the Nov. 16. 1977, robbery of Tommy's Drive-In and W. Carroll. He appealed the case contending the prosecuting attorney had made improper jury arguments and that the evidence was insufficient to support the verdict.

The appeals court, however, rejected those contentions and ruled that no reversible error had been committed.

Panel To Quiz Reagan Nominee On Funds Cut For Oil Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) - A House subcommittee voted Wednesday to subpoena a high-level Reagan administration nominee to explain his role in what one congressman called "a $7 billion giveaway to the oil companies.

The House Government Operations subcommittee on energy voted 6-2 on party lines to order R. Tenney Johnson, now a special consultant to Energy Secretary James B. Edwards, to appear before the panel. The subpoena may now be issued upon the signature of the full committee chairman, Rep. Jack Brooks,

Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., the subcommittee's chairman, said congressmen want to question Johnson on his role in the administration's decision to cut funding by some 80 percent for the department office that is trying to collect an estimated $7 billion in alleged oil company

The official who headed the office during the Carter administration already has testified that cut would destroy any effort to to prosecute the oil companies.

Paul Bloom, the former special counsel, told the panel the major oil companies have been eager to settle the cases out of court to avoid lengthy and expensive court cases. The budget cuts signal the oil companies they needn't bother settling because the department will not press the cases, he argued.

Johnson, who reportedly participated in the budget decision, had been scheduled to testify Wednesday. Instead, Moffett was presented with a letter from Edwards saying the secretary had ordered Johnson not to appear.

Edwards noted that President Reagan has announced plans to appoint Johnson as the department's general counsel. "In my judgment, it is not apropriate for him to appear ... until and unless he is actually confirmed by the Senate and appointed by the president," the energy secretary said.

Instead, the committee heard testimony from Barton R. House, acting administrator of the department's Econom-

Gas Dealer Charging $2 Not Sorry

CORONA, Calif. (AP) - Ken Warbrick is charging $2 a gallon - the highest price in the country - for the top grade of gasoline at his service station, and he said Wednesday he's not sorry.

"I don't know if what I am doing is right or wrong. But if I am going to continue to give good service, somebody is going to have to pay for it," said the 33year old ex-Marine.

He said his Chevron station, 50 miles east of Los Angeles, hasn't lost customers because of the high price, and he 'can just about guarantee" other service stations will follow suit.

Nationally, prices for unleaded supreme average $1.50 a gallon in full-service stations and $1.455 at self-service stations, says oil industry analyst Dan Lundberg, who confirmed Wednesday that Warbrick's price was "absolutely the highest in the nation.

Show To Feature Plainviewan's Magic

The South Plains Lions Club will present the magic of the Fred Story Revue at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Civic Center Theater, according to Mel Pope, Lions Club president.

Proceeds from the show will help sponsor the South Plains Lions Boys' Club and will help the club purchase eye glasses for needy children, Pope said.

Story, a Plainview native and a graduate of Texas Tech, has been involved in magic for more than 40 years years. He has been performing his magic acts since his high school days and has traveled to 30 states putting on his show.

The memos, written to his superiors within the department, argued that the the administration proposal to cut funding for the Office of Special Counsel to $6 million next year "will signal DOE's reluctance to follow through on existing identified violations and will seriously weaken DOE's position in negotiating

He asked for $44 million for the office, saying "a more drastic budget cut ..

House did not disavow the memos Wednesday, saying he had argued with President Reagan's budget cutters but my recommendations were not taken. I failed to be persuasive

However, he said the $6 million would allow a few important cases to be pursued and that Edwards had promised him that the department would pursue the overcharging cases in future years.

That contention drew open scorn from subcommittee members, who noted the Energy Department may be abolished during the Reagan administration.

The budget has nothing to do with this," said Rep. Tom Lantos, D-Calif.

State Solons Seek Tax Exemption

over in their attempt to exempt independent oil producers and royalty owners from the windfall profits tax. A bill to exempt the first 1,000 barrels of oil a day pumped within the United States by an independent producer was introduced Wednesday by Reps. Kent Hance, a Lubbock Democrat, and Tom Loeffler, a Republican from Hunt.

Among the 179 congressmen signed on as co-sponsors were 19 other members of the almost solidly pro-oil Texas

The only Texans not sponsoring the bill were Rep. Bill Archer, a Houston Republican who had introduced a similar measure of his own, and Reps. Mickey Leland of Houston and Henry B. Gonzalez of San Antonio.

Both Leland and Gonzalez are Democrats from inner city districts who generally follow a course different from the rest of the Texas delegation on energy issue

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, have introduced a similar bill in the Senate to exempt independent producers and royalty owners.

In the last congressional session, the exemption passed the Senate but did not survive a House-Senate conference

Hance said the exemption would provide an incentive for dependents to drill more exploratory wells, They have a proven track record that they are serious about using additional profits to help solve the energy crisis," he said in an accompanying statement. "We should be providing incentives and encouragement for them to continue this amazing record."

The West Texas congressman added that most royalty owners depend on their royalty income for "day-to-day liv-

He said the bill was introduced as a backup position because it appears that President Reagan does not plan to recommend any major changes in the windfall tax on domestic

Hance earlier had called for a repeal of the windfall tax, imposed under former President Jimmy Carter to claim part of the revenue headed for oil companies as a result of decontrol of domestic prices. The tax is expected to bring in more than $220 billion to the federal treasury over a decade.

Tiffanys Due $5 Million Tax Credit

NEW YORK (AP) - A state senator says Tiffany and Co. is not a charity case, and the state should revoke a $5-million tax credit that has been given to the Fifth Avenue purveyor of mega-buck brooch-

But Tiffany's chief executive says his company's gilt-edge reputation is irrelevant. He says Tiffany is contributing needed jobs to the city and deserves the state's help

'All we've done is follow the law," Henry Platt, Tiffany chief executive, said in an interview Wednesday. "Maybe there should not be this kind of program. That's not for me to decide, because I did not write the law.'

The tax credit - awarded last November by the state's Job Incentive Program - reduces the state income taxes of the world's most famous jewelry store by about $504,000 a year in each of 10

As a result, the company, which had sales of about $100 million last year, will pay but $300,000 a year in state income axes, according to state Sen. Franz Leichter, a Manhattan Democrat.

The Tiffany tax credit shows that the Job Incentive Program was badly flawed and so sloppily administered that it has become a multimillion-dollar giveaway,

William Redman, executive deputy commissioner of the state Department of Commerce, which administers the program, was in meetings and unavailable for comment.

The purpose of JIP is to attract new businesses and to persuade firms already in the state to remain or expand

Two years ago, Tiffany pondered expanding its operations and moving manufacturing, mail order and other departments elsewhere, according to Platt. He said New Jersey, with its lower rents, was attractive, and the firm already had a silver plant there.

Eventually, the company decided to add three floors to its Fifth Avenue building and hire an additional 170 employees. but Platt says that would not have happened "without this incentive."

It was done at a time when New York was bankrupt and business was leaving the city. The governor and the mayor were asking businesses to invest in the city." said Platt, who succeeded Walter Hoving as Tiffany's top man on

"We went out and invested in New York City. We went out and created new jobs," he said, adding that through increased real estate and other taxes. Tiffany's may end up paying more taxes than ever before

However. Platt wasn't complaining His company had a record year last year with sales increasing by 25 percent. The company, owned by Avon Inc., did not release its profit figures, but in the past company officials have said the firm's profits usually run about 6 percent. KNIFE IN THE CHEST — An X-ray of an unidentified 38-year-old Seattle man shows a table knife in the man's chest cavity. A surgeon removed the knife after a 5^{1} ₂-hour hunt last week. The knife, used in an attempt to dislodge the pill, apparently slid through the throat into the chest cavity. (AP Laserphoto)

Man Swallows Knife While Dislodging Pill

SEATTLE (AP) — A man who attempted to use a table knife to dislodge a pill stuck in his throat somehow got the knife lodged in his chest cavity where it took a surgeon $5^{1}z$ hours to recover it, doctors said Wednesday.

Dr James M. Hanson said he was called to Swedish Hospital on March 1 when the emergency room crew saw the knife on a chest X-ray.

The 38-year-old Seattle resident, whom the hospital would not identify, had taken an aspirin-like pain-killer. But the pill stuck in the back of his throat and was burning.

The man tried to rinse the pill down and to dislodge it with his finger before trying the knife.

Hanson said the man persisted in working the knife deeper in his throat finally went to the hospital, he neglected to mention the missing knife.

Hanson first tried to reach the knife with an alligator clamp on the end of a tube down the food pipe.

"We then assumed that the knife had passed on down into the stomach," the surgeon said. A small incision was made in the abdomen and Hanson reached in and felt around. Still no knife.

Another X-ray showed the knife, with the handle end down, in the right side of the chest cavity.

"When we opened the chest, it was just sitting there free in the cavity," he said

The knife apparently went down the back of the man's throat between or alongside the windpipe and esophagus and into the chest cavity. No organs, nerves, muscles or blood vessels were pierced.

The patient went home last weekend, Hanson said

Consumption Of Coffee Linked To Cancer

By DANIEL Q. HANEY

BOSTON (AP) — People who drink a cup or two of coffee a day are nearly twice as likely as non-drinkers to get cancer of the pancreas, and coffee drinking may cause more than half of the 20,000 deaths a year from this disease, a Harvard study concludes.

But the researchers said that although they found a strong link between coffee drinking and the fourth most common fatal malignancy in the United States, there was no proof that coffee actually causes the disease. They stopped short of advising people not to drink it.

The researchers found no association between tea drinking and pancreatic cancer, suggesting that caffeine — the stimulant found in coffee, tea and some colas — was not a factor.

Spokesman David Kuhnert at the National Coffee Association in New York said the trade group's own animal research had found no correlation between coffee drinking and any form of cancer.

The Harvard researchers found that people who drink up to two cups of coffee a day have 1.8 times the risk of cancer of the pancreas as non-drinkers. The risk grows to 2.7 times normal for those who drink three cups or more.

The coffee association estimates that the average American over age 10 drinks two cups of coffee a day.

The pancreas is a gland behind the stomach that produces digestive juices and contains cells that make insulin. When this organ becomes cancerous, the outlook is poor, because the disease often is advanced by the time it is discovered. The American Cancer Society says that less than 10 percent of the victims survive for five years.

Dr. Brian MacMahon, the study's director, said the researchers felt that if people were concerned about a possible link between coffee and pancreas cancer. "they should know there is at least a suspicion of this. But I don't think it's time to put on the missionary role yet."

MacMahon is head of the epidemiology department at the Harvard School of Public Health. The study was published in Thursday's edition of the New England Journal of Medicine.

"This association should be evaluated with other data," the researchers wrote. "If it reflects a causal relation between coffee drinking and pancreatic cancer, coffee use might account for a substantial portion of the cases of this disease in the United States.

"If the distribution of coffee consumption in our control group reflects that in the general population ... we estimate the proportion of pancreatic cancer that is potentially attributable to coffee consumption to be slightly more than 50 percent."

MacMahon said in a statement that the association with coffee should be confirmed in other studies before too much effort is put into identifying a specific causative agent or ingredients."

He said similar studies should be performed by other investigators. Then a more detailed investigation should be made into the duration of coffee use, the strength of the brew, whether it was perked or instant and what was added to it, he said.

"If these things confirm the association, it would be time for animal studies of specific ingredients," MacMahon said.

The doctors based their findings on interviews with patients at 11 large hospitals in the Boston area and Rhode Island. They obtained data about the smoking and drinking habits of 369 people with pancreatic cancer. Then they compared this with information from 644 patients hospitalized with other diseases.

"A strong association between coffee consumption and pancreatic cancer was evident in both sexes," they reported.

The researchers had set out to see if there was a link between this form of cancer and cigarette or alcohol use. They said they were surprised by the association with coffee.

Like earlier studies, this one did find a weak association between cigarette smoking and cancer of the pancreas. But smokers also often drink coffee, and when coffee drinking was taken into consideration, the smoking link was not sig-

"This little piece of lead killed that man," Ware argued, holding before the jury the slug taken out of Gutierrez during an autopsy. "This little piece of lead came out of this man's gun.

"And that's law and order as this man sees it," Ware added.

The prosecutor asked that if the jury did not believe any of the state's testimony, to believe the testimony of young Jose Hernandez.

"You can believe a lot of things agout this," Ware told the jury, "but really and truly, are these people lying?"

Defense attorney Lane Arthur compared Ware's summation of the testimony to a geologist, artist and cowboy all seeing the Grand Canyon for the first time. He argued that the prosecutor and he remembered the testimony a bit differently.

There's nothing in the charge that indicates a person has to be in actual danger to defend himself, Arthur said, just that it appears he's in danger.

nificant statistically. The researchers found no link between alcohol use and pancreas cancer."

And they did not speculate about how coffee could possibly cause cancer.

They noted that Mormons and members of other religious groups that shun coffee have a low rate of pancreatic cancer. And they cited a recently reported case in which this cancer occurred at the same time in a husband and wife who regularly added coffee syrup to ground coffee before percolating it.

Kuhnert said the use of the hospital patient control group may not have reflected the dietary habits of the general population. He also said MacMahon study was limited because it only questioned cancer victims and control group members about a handful of substances, including coffee.

Documentary Film To Recount Saga Of Expedition To Moon

draws an intriguing parallel between a professional football team's quest for the Super Bowl and the United States' space program that ultimately landed two men on the moon.

"There were so many aspects of the NASA project that were similar to professional football - the team effort, dedication to purpose, planning and training," Sabol says. "And the story line planting the flag on the moon, it was like the winning coach holding the Super Bowl trophy over his head.

It didn't take Sabol long to agree to produce and direct a documentary film on the space program, from its beginnings to the lunar landing July 20, 1969 "The Greatest Adventure: The Story of Man's Voyage to the Moon," became the first non-sports documentary ever produced by Sabol's NFL Films.

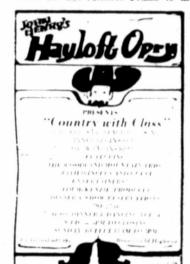

"The Greatest Adventure" will be offered stations in the Public Broadcasting Service network Sunday night, a highlight of the system's "Festival Nights" fund-raising campaign, which continues through March 22. As with many public television programs, air date and time will vary

There was another reason that it appealed to me," Sabol says of "The Greatest Adventure." "I don't think any other filmmaker in the business faces the challenge we do - to make films out of something millions of people have already seen. We have to give a new perspective to something familiar to most people

NFL Films, created by Sabol's father nearly two decades ago, records on film every play of every National Football League game for subsequent broadcast on news programs and in highlight shows. Highlights broadcast at halftime on ABC's "Monday Night Football" come from NFL Films.

In addition, NFL Films, which Sabol says is like the 29th team in the league the other 28 share in the profits - produces a year-end highlight film for each

"I have this idea," he says, "that because so much of the flight was on TV. that took away from the heroic image of the thing. Here were these men walking on the moon, and they cut away for a cat food commercial. This was man's greatest adventure, and television dealt with it as a flat news story. They didn't give it the necessary schmaltz.

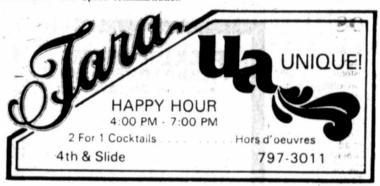

"What I had in mind was an adventure story, and a romantic story. I didn't want to make a film about the technology of the space program," Sabol says.

There is, indeed, an NFL Films style, which accentuates the grace and drama of professional football with original music and deft composition. And Sabol says that expertise was applied to "The Greatest Adventure.

Sabol used film taken by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration during the early stages of the space program, as well as the flight itself, "The photography was great," he says, "but they never saw it as a romantic adven-

We do not know at this time how destructive this pest will be because no one in this country has had any experience with it," said Dr. Lorin Krusberg, a biology professor at the University of Marvland. "The infestation appears to be widespread and heavy in all four fields sampled." The fields are in Kent County in the state's primarily agricultural Eastern Shore

The researchers said they did not know how the nematode got here, but noted that it could be carried from place to place in small amounts of soil, dust silt or in tiny amounts of dirt eaten by

'Palmerstown' Series Keeping Alex Haley Busy dent Carter told me the same thing hap-

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - These days Alex Haley can be found not at his home typewriter but in a cluttered office on the movie lot where David O. Selznick filmed "Gone with the Wind" 42 years ago.

The author of "Roots" is executive co-producer of "Palmerstown," a television series which is returning to CBS Tuesday, March 7-10. The show had a trial run last year, drawing critical acclaim and respectable ratings, though not strong enough to make the network's fall schedule.

We've made 10 new shows, and I think there much stronger than the first seven said Haley. "You learn so much by doney these shows. We started from scratch, and it's hard to get every-thing right the first time. "When sorman (Lear) and I first worked on the concept for 'Palmerstown,' we dised about portraying two families — white, one black — in a small Southern town 45 years ago, centering on the two boys of the families. The thrust of the first shows were the

"This is not to criticize those shows. but I do believe that focusing on the boys may have revealed an inherent weakness. Boys can only do so much. They can't go slugging people or have a car chase -not that we would do those things, any-

"The emphasis of the new season has been more on the adults and on the boys' teen-age siblings. I think this has given us more powerful shows emotionally as well as physically. I believe the show is now ready to give across-the-board competition to the most successful shows in tele-

After writing for most of his life, Haley turned producer as the result of a party conversation with Norman Lear, the TV dynamo.

"We mutually liked each other at the start," recalled Haley, 59, "and we started talking about the possibility of doing something together. I admitted that comedy was foreign to me, but he mentioned that he would like to be associated with a dramatic series.

We talked about our respective boyhoods and how much we enjoyed being boys. I said I felt that the South as a region had been slim pickings on television: most of the things had been caricatures of both races. Both Norman and I agreed that the culture of a small town and the relationship between the races could sustain a show

For Haley the relationship was epitomized by his friendship with Kermit Anthony, a white boy who lived across the street in Henning, Tenn.

We could not have been closer, Kermit and I." the author recalled. "Every Southern town, no matter how segregated, had this kind of couple. And always about the time of puberty, society draws them apart.

When Kermit was 11, he and I were sitting in the persimmon tree behind my grandmother's house. He said to me, Pretty soon I'm going to be old enough so you'll have to call me 'Mister.' Within two weeks our friendship had been reduced to no more than an embarrassed nod when we met on the street. Presi-

Documentary Uses 'Candid Camera' Prostitution

ROME (AP) - Using the "candid camera" technique, a team of women filmed customers in a prostitute's bedroom in an extraordinary documentary for the state run television.

The hour ong program will be shown Thursday night under the title "A.A.A. Offresi" (A.A.A. Available) after the newspaper advertisements taken out by prostitutes in Italy.

With the consent of Veronique, a 30year-old French prostitute in Rome, the troupe filmed her with her unknowing customers from behind a two-way mirror and wired the bedroom for sound.

But as a concession to privacy, the customers' faces have been covered and their voices partially distorted to prevent identification.

The program is a followup for the six women in the team who previously collaborated in another talked-about docu-

Officials of the state RAI-TV say they expect the program to set off a controversy but hope it will lead to a serious look at prostitution in Italy.

In 1958 parliament passed a law shutting down the legal houses of prostitution, but newspapers in major cities daily carry advertisements by prostitutes on the classified page under such headings as "social relations." The more "As" in the ad, the more expensive the girl.

Soliciting is banned, but prostitutes in cars cruise fashionable streets in Rome, Milan and other cities or ply their trade on street corners.

In the past few years several legislators have suggested repealing the law banning bordellos, but parliament has not taken any action. There is also a new problem of transsexual prostitutes - men who have had sex-change operations. This week they voted to "strike" to protest the Italian law which refused to recognize them as

'Amazed' Glenn Ford Still Going Strong

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Says Glenn Ford: "Noel Coward once told me, 'You will know you're old when you ceased to be amazed.' Well, I can still be amazed.

One of the things that amazes him is the fact that he will be 65 on May 1. That age marks retirement for a lot of folks, but Ford exhibits no evidence of even a slowdown after 42 years in films, minus wartime years served in the mil-

Californians see and hear him daily as a TV spokesman for a local savings and loan, following the oversized footsteps of John Wayne. Ford will be seen in two features this spring: "Happy Birthday to Me," directed by W. Lee Thompson ("The Guns of Navarone"); and "Virus," a disaster movie costarring George Kennedy, Bo Svenson, Chuck Connors and Robert Vaughn.

Both were made in Canada under the film development program. Since he was born (as Gwyllyn Ford) in Quebec, his presence in the cast adds to the points needed to qualify for tax-shelter backing of Canada-made movies. This despite the fact that Ford is a U.S. citizen. "Once a Canadian, always a Canadian" seems to be the system.

"Cynthia (his third wife) and I will be in Bali on my birthday," Ford remarked, "but not because I want to avoid it. Age never worried me." Nor should it. The creases are a bit deeper, but the face still has a slightly boyish look, especially with his Marine-issue haircut.

Glenn Ford was a product of the big-studio system, the passing of which he laments. He worked in 44 movies during his 17 years at Columbia Pictures. "I had no problem with Harry Cohn," said the actor of his late, hard-driving boss. "I wish we had 10 Harry Cohns running the movie business today. "I remember paying a visit to Harry when my contract was up. He was kinda sad when he said, 'Bill Holden has left the studio, Rita Hayworth has left, now you're going. All of the old gang has gone. You know why we always got along together, Glenn? Because you were never afraid of me.

Ford has made a total of 222 features, which he figures is some kind of record in today's Hollywood. He was asked which films he remembered most

"Oh I don't know, there were so many of them," he said. Thinking a bit, he named "The Blackboard Jungle," "Gilda," "Cowboy," "3:10 to Yuma," "The Sheepman," and "The Gazebo

They may not have been the best pictures I did, but they're the ones I remember most fondly because of the people involved," he added. "People like George Marshall, who directed six pictures with me, and Debbie Reynolds.

In fact, all of the Ford memories are mellow. He even enjoyed his TV series 'Dade's County," in which he played a modern-day western sheriff for two seasons, posted good ratings but was canceled by CBS during an anti-violence wave. Said Ford: "I think the powers lost their head. One executive told me if the series could have lasted one more season, it would have gone on and on.

Ford played a rural preacher in a short-lived 1975 series, "The Family Holvack." He remarked: "I enjoyed that one because of working with Julie Harris. Of all the leading ladies - and I've worked with some fine ones - I could say that she was the greatest actress.

Miss Harris urged Ford to do a play with her. He declined.

"I appeared in 55 plays before I got into movies," he said, "but I don't think I could get through an opening night now. I think it's good to know one's limitations. I would like to do what Jack Lemmon does — go back and forth between films and theater — but I'm not quite prepared for it." He pondered for a moment, then: "Still, I could do it.

Electronic Industry Urging Deregulation

By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Let's hear it for the electronics revolution! Hip, hip, deregulate!

America is on the threshold of a new age. (Honest, folks, this time it's for sure.) It will draw people together, drive them apart, improve their minds, rot their brains, enrich their lives, leave them barren. Depending on whom you're listening to.

One-hundred-channel TV sets, video cassettes, video discs, two-way communications, home computers, neighborhood TV. direct satellite-to-home broadcasting are all here. That is, they'll be here once Congress and the Federal Communications Commission deregulate the industry and unleash this cornucopia of technology.

The annual UCLA Communications Law Symposium looked into the subject for two days recently. A general consensus of the participants (over minor but vocal opposition) was that the Reagan administration must deregulate the broadcast industry - and let free enterprise take care of the rest.

It was a meeting that was sometimes confusing as speakers slipped into jargon and peppered their messages with technical gobbledygook. The air was filled with words and expressions like "circular polarization," "downlink" and "gigahertz." (Gigahertz? Only when you laugh.)

Deregulation also would strip away layers of cumbersome regulation designed to foster public service. Rep. Al Swift, D-Wash., said such rules actually inhibited public service because they made it so easy for broadcasters to dodge their obligations. He said he plans to introduce legislation that would set up a system by which broadcasters would be encouraged to earn "points" for community service

One question common during the symposium was who would have access to this multiplicity of channels? Specifically, what means would be taken to ensure the rights of ethnic and political minorities to be heard?

tive images. Tyrone Brown, a former FCC member, said he's concerned about blacks and minorities finding their voice. He said the time has come to increase the number of television outlets by means of low-powered stations to serve small communities and neighborhoods.

Seattle Mayor Charles Royer, chairman of the committee on cable franchising for the National League of Cities, said the cities may require that cable systems provide public access channels. Some cable companies already provide such services.

Richard Wiley, a Washington lawyer and former FCC chairman, said President Reagan has a unique opportunity to facilitate these changes. Reagan will appoint four members to the FCC in his first six months in office - a majority of the seven-man commission.

Wiley said. "I believe the Reagan administration will look with favor on the new technology. I believe the concept that we are being over-regulated is accepted by the people. In fact, most people hope they don't get all the government they paid for.

Noting the deregulation of cable by the FCC. Wiley said traditional broadcasting was being treated like an unfavoted child. "The traditional media." he said, "should be freed to participate in the new technology. The rules against cross-ownership may be unnecessary and

Geller said the nation's 9,000 radio stations cannot be relied on to provide cultural programming or service for the blind. "You have to turn to public radio for that," he said. He proposed that broadcasters be taxed a small fee to support public radio

Television sets in the future will be modular. Video disc players and home computers will plug right in. Want to add a new movie channel? Punch the right button on the box attached to the set and you get the channel automatically. You also get the bill - automatically. The likelihood is that in the future customers will pay plenty for television - with most of the bucks going for the hardware. That worries Mel Harris, a senior vice president for Paramount Pictures, which will be supplying programs. "It's the principle of paying for the pipe rather than the piper, and that causes me concern," he said.

So, sit back, relax, watch one of 100 channels or fiddle with the home computer. Better yet, plug in that game module. It's time to make earth safe from invaders from space. Zap! Zap!

Three days, all expenses paid, in Philadelphia might sound like the punch line of an old joke. But for the nation's college basketball elite who begin play in the NCAA tournament tonight, there's nothing funny about spending some time in the City of Brotherly Love.

The Spectrum, an arena hard by the refineries of South Philly, will host the semifinals and championship game of the 43rd annual tournament March 28 and

The trek to the Final Four starts in Providence, R.I.; Dayton, Ohio; Austin, and Los Angeles. It continues Friday night in Charlotte, N.C.; Tuscaloosa. Ala.: Wichita, Kan., and El Paso.

The top four seeded teams in each of the East, Mid-East, Mid-West and West regions get first-round byes - and a step toward the National Collegiate Athletic Association title. They enter play with regional quarterfinals Saturday and Sun-

Georgetown, representing the Big East Conference, features backcourt wiz-

All-America. The Hoyas were knocked out of their conference tournament in the semifinals, but coach John Thompson says: "We deserve to be here. We didn't get here by accident." James Madison won the Eastern College Athletic Association South.

Princeton, which won the Ivy League title with a playoff victory over Penn Monday night, is best known for its aggressive zone defense. The Tigers will also need all of the offense they can muster, however. Brigham Young, runnerup in the Western Athletic Conference and the nation's 16th-ranked team, is led by All-American Danny Ainge.

In the Mid-East, Creighton (21-8) goes against St. Joseph's, Pa., (22-7) and Tennessee-Chattanooga (21-8) takes on Mary-

Creighton, the Missouri Valley Conference champion, is led by Kevin McKenna, averaging 15.7 points a game. St. Joseph's, winner of the Big East Conference, boasts an attack led by Bryan Warrick, with a 13.7 average.

Maryland, runnerup in the Atlantic Coast Conference, features a balanced attack with four players - Albert King, Buck Williams, Ernest Graham and Greg Manning - scoring in double figures. Eric Smith, averaging 17.2 points, is the big man for Tennessee-Chattanooga, the Southern University Conference winner. Lamar (24-4) plays Missouri (22-9) and Arkansas (22-7) goes against Mercer (17-12) in the Mid-West.

A year ago. Lamar bounced highly regarded Weber State and Oregon State out of the tournament. This time around, the Cardinals, led by senior guard Mark Olliver, are looking to avenge a regular-season loss to Missouri, the Big Eight regular season champion.

Arkansas is the regular season Southwest Conference champion and will be facing a bit of an unknown quantity in Mercer, the Trans-America Conference winner playing in its first NCAA tourna-

The West opens with Kansas State (21-8) vs. San Francisco (24-6) and Wyoming (23-5) vs. Howard (16-11).

Wyoming also is making its first NCAA appearance and the 17th-ranked Cowboys have the region's No.5 seed after tying Utah for the WAC championship. "I think it's remarkable where this program has gone in just three years,' said Wyoming coach Jim Brandenburg. "I think our NCAA appearance can be the start of a very strong program here." Howard, from the Mid-Western Athletic Conference, is led by James Ratliff, averaging 18 points and nine rebounds.

Kansas State is in its 15th NCAA tournament, more than all but three other schools. The Wildcats lost to Kansas in the finals of the Big Eight tournament, but coach Jack Hartman feels his team has "enjoyed an excellent season, one certainly to be proud of." San Francisco earned an NCAA berth by beating Pepperdine Monday night for the West Coast Athletic Conference title. The Dons are one of the highest-scoring teams in the country, averaging 84 points a game.

give up - I told my wife, 'Well, that's another year gone," Big John Mize said Wednesday after being tardily notified that he had been elected to baseball's Hall of Fame along with a pioneer of the Negro Leagues, Rube Foster.

'I was hopeful because people calling me yesterday, saying this might be my year. I was in the house, listening to the 12 o'clock news, and when there was no announcement I got up and went out in the yard to move some lumber,' he added by telephone from his home in Demorest, Ga., 90 miles from Atlanta.

"I'm just sorry that it didn't come earlier. My mother, Emma, is in the hospital after having both legs removed with five operations and she had always looked forward to seeing me in the Hall

"Last year would have been fine. But now she just recognizes me and doesn't realize what's going on any more than the man in the moon.

Mize and Foster were elected by the Veterans Committee, which reviews those players who fail to receive the honor in the normal 20-year period by the Baseball Writers Association of America following a five-year wait after the players' retirement

The announcement was supposed to come at noon, EST, but the Veterans Committee broke up shortly after 12:30 and there was a delay in getting the message to Mize at his Georgia home. "They had the wrong phone number - a 5 at the end instead of 6 - so when I didn't hear it on the radio or get a call, I

NBA 'Hardship' Draft Often Risky For Collegians

By The Associated Press To turn pro or not to turn pro: that is the question.

Whether 'tis wiser to take the money and run to the National Basketball Association, or stay in school and polish one's skills in the more sheltered atmosphere of college life.

That's the choice more than a few undergraduates will have to make between now and April 25, the deadline for declaring their eligibility for the NBA draft

Among the best-known undergraduates, two-time All-American forward Mark Aguirre of DePaul, a junior, is reportedly leaning toward turning pro. Kevin Magee, the All-American from Cal-Irvine, is said to be another possibili-mores are now expected to stay in school. The same goes for Isiah Thomas, the flashy Indiana point guard. But if any one of those three changes his mind, the pros would welcome him with open arms and an open checkbook.

Any undergraduate who wants to be

April 25 declaring his intentions. It's a gamble, because as soon as the application is filed, the player forfeits his remaining college eligibility. In return he gets no guarantee, since until the draft is held he can't be sure with which club he'll end up. Not even the best prospect can command a guarantee, since the coin flip between conference tail-enders to determine which club gets the first pick in the draft won't be held until after the April 25 deadline.

Some players have taken the plunge and come up big winners, cashing in on the big money of pro basketball one year or more sooner, an important factor in light of timited number of earning years playing four years of college ball: Magic Johnson, Julius Erving, Moses Malone, Adrian Dantley, George Gervin, Alvan Adams, Campy Russell, Bernard King, Lloyd Free, Maurice Lucas and Darryl Dawkins, to name a few.

But others who elected to turn pro early — it 9equently, and mistakenly, called "going hardship," a vestige of the days when undergraduates had to provide proof of financial hardship in order to become eligible, a practice that is no longer necessary - failed to make the grade. For them it was a bad gamble. Another year in a good college program might have prepared them for the NBA, but instead they elected to roll the dice - and they came up snake eyes.

Pondexter? Fly Williams? Cyril Baptiste? Tom Payne? Raymond Lewis? Williams? Cyril David Brent? Johnny Neumann? All turned pro early but never made the

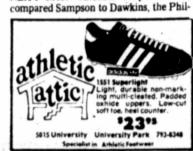

For others, like Bill Willoughby and Brad Davis, it has been a struggle.

Willoughby, who jumped to the NBA straight out of high school, had bounced around with several teams and was out of basketball, working as an assistant manager of a fast-food restaurant, before he got another shot at the NBA this year. Davis had been released by four teams and was playing his basketball in Alaska for the minor-league Anchorage Northern Knights before getting picked up by the desparate Dallas Mavericks.

This year's draft would obviously be strengthened by the addition of a bluechip undergrad like Aguirre, who would make up for the loss of several players who would have been seniors this year but already went the pro route - with mixed results. Magic Johnson has already played on an NBA title team and Cliff Robinson of New Jersey and Wes Matthews of Atlanta are considered stars of the future, but DeWayne Scales has seen only limited duty as a New York reserve and Jeff Ruland spent the winter playing in Europe.

The Boston Celtics tried to talk Sampson into turning pro a year ago, but he opted to stay in school. The 7-foot-4 Virginia pivotman was also the subject of much discussion this winter, but he was recently visited by Los Angeles Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and advised to stay in school.

Abdul-Jabbar, six-time winner of the NBA's Most Valuable Player award,

NBA straight out of high school. Malone and Willoughby are the only other high-schoolers to go straight to the pros.

"Darryl never really learned to the game," said Abdul-Jabbar. "The suttleties — they're lost on Darryl. I'm not criticizing him; it just took him a long time to understand what's happening.

Dawkins, drafted out of Medgar Eve ans High School in Orlando, Fla., got little playing time in his rookie year, which he called "the worst year I've ever had in basketball. It hurt to sit. Some of my game drifted away."

One reason he didn't play very much was his immaturity: he once ran a zig-zag pattern out to center court during introductions in a darkened arena, then explained, "I just wanted to see if I could fake that spotlight out."

But his playing time gradually increased, and last year he took over as the team's starting center and helped the 76ers to the playoff finals. Although he's still not as consistent as Coach Billy Cun ningham would like, Dawkins has proved from year to year and says he to

Boys Begin Regional Tourneys

By RICHARD DAY

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff The boys' basketball teams on the South Plains will square off Friday and Saturday to determine who'll be making that glorious trip to Austin for state competition in this weekend's regional tour-

The Region I Class 5A tourney will be held at Midland College, the 3A and 2A tournaments in the Coronado High School gym and the Texan Dome on the campus of South Plains College in Levelland will host the Class 1A event.

In the only area Class 4A game to decide who will go to state. Canyon will play Cleburne in the Wichita Falls Ryder High School Gym at 8 p.m. Friday.

In the 5A tournament semifinals, Midland will play Fort Worth Dunbar at 6:30 p.m. Friday and Pampa will take on

Estacado Sprint Ace White Begins Proving His Point

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Kelvin White's times at the Lubbock Invitational track meet last Saturday did a whole lot more than just win two events for the Estacado Matadors. They served notice to Texas athletics that White is back.

After injuring a knee before the first game of the football season, White dropped in the eyes of some recruiters from the top running back in the state to just another hurt halfback.

And, though he avenged some of that downgrading by signing a national letter of intent with the University of Oklahoma (the boys north of the Red River), old Kelvin might just have a little something to prove down here.

At Saturday's meet, the first of the

Puhl, Astros Enjoy Acquired Respect

COCOA. Fla. (AP) - Houston outfielder Terry Puhl set a league playoff record with 10 hits in 19 at-bats against Philadelphia last October in the National League Championship Series.

"I suppose we've received more attention since last year but I don't think any of us thrives on attention. Puhl said. "We do thrive on the sense of respect accorded us now. It makes us play better but it has to make us work harder too, because everyone will be gunning for us this year mates, the 6-1, 190 speedster captured both the 100-meter and 220-yard sprints. Not only did he win the events, he whomped the field. In the 100, he turned a 10.4. eclipsing his own meet record of 10.5, equalling his career best in the event and beating the second-place finisher by a full nine-tenths of a second. In the 220, he clocked a 22.9, winning the event by six-tenths.

Both times were also the highs in the Class 5A division, not just the 4A in which he competed. In fact, White's 100 meter time was six-tenths better than the 5A winner.

"It kind of surprised me." said his coach, Percy Hines. "I didn't expect him to get down that low at his first meet. If he improves, I think a 10.2 is in reach for him. He says that's what he's going to

'That'd be right there with the rest of the state. The state record is 10.0, a 5A kid ran that last year. Last year the best in 4A was a 10.4. I think old Kelvin can get down in 10.2. maybe better. I don't know. For sure, its realistic to say 10.2.

And White isn't shy about admitting his coach is right.

"That's what I want to do. I want to show them I still have my speed," he said. "They backed off, but I kept my head up. I didn't think everything was gone just because they didn't want me."

Of course, a state track title or two would probably do just that. But White has an extra incentive to run down there at Austin. It's no secret the University of Texas was his first choice of schools before the injury

"Yeah, he's really looking at getting back to Austin to run in the state meet, said Hines. "That might have some special significance. Texas is one of the schools he thinks backed off of him, they recruited him pretty high before he got hurt. And. well, running on their track might have some special significance.

But the last word has to go to Kelvin: 'I want to let them know just what to expect when I get the ball for OU

Hall of Fame immortal. "He had a great pair of eyes. He didn't try to hit the ball with his behind," added Musial, a member of the Veterans Committee

Mize will receive his award at the annual Hall of Fame ceremonies in midsummer in Cooperstown, N.Y. The hon-or goes posthumously to Foster, who died Dec. 9, 1930, after a remarkable career as a player, manager and founder of the Negro National League.

Foster, possibly more than any other single man, is given credit for refining Negro baseball and paving the way for Jackie Robinson to break the major league color barrier in 1947 with the Blacks eventually would have got into the major leagues anyhow, but it came a lot sooner just because of Rube," said Buck O'Neill, a longtime player with the Kansas City Monarchs and now a Chicago Cubs scout. O'Neill is the new black member of the Veterans Committee.

"He was a stickler for character. He was a great pitcher, a great manager and executive and it was he who dignified the Negro Leagues to the point that their players ultimately were accepted by the major leagues," O'Neill said of Foster.

Foster, whose given name was Andrew, was a native Texan born in Calvertin 1879. He was an imposing figure at 6-4 and 200 pounds, a fastball pitcher who regularly blew the ball past opposing batters. His playing career ran from 1897 to 1926 with such clubs as the Chicago Union Giants, Cuban X Giants, Philadephia Giants, Chicago Leland Giants and Chicago American Giants.

He became player-manager with Chi-cago Leland in 1910. He managed through 1926, meanwhile founding the Negro National League which disbanded in 1932. Foster got his nickname, "Rube," from teammates after he had defeated the great Rube Waddell and the Philadephia Athletics in an exhibition game in the early 1920s.

The Veterans Committee does not issue a vote count, but it provided a list of personalities who were prominent in its balloting.

They included such players as Fred-die Fitzsimmons, Joe Judge, Hal Ne-whauser, Vic Wills, Glenn Wright, Charley Grimm, Smokey Joe Williams, plus umpire Bill McGowan and the late owner of the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers, Walter O'Malley.

Seminole Cage Team Placed On Probation

SEMINOLE (Special) - The Seminole High School boys' basketball team was placed on probation by the District 6-3A executive committee recently for violating UIL practice rules.

The Indians will be penalized during the 1981-82 school year, but the penalty does not mean they cannot compete for the district championship or inpost-season playoff games.

The rule, only recently instituted, says "there shall be no organized or formal basketball practice for a contestant or a team and there shall be no interschool scrimmages or games played during the five consecutive days, Dec. 23-27. When the 27th falls on Thursday, the dates will be adjusted to Dec. 22-26 to allow holiday tournaments to be held

Caffey did not hold any formal practices during the time in question, but the 6-3A executive committee believed the intent of the rule was to not use the high school gymnasium at all for any public school basketball activities during that time.

Several members of the Indians' varsity squad were in attendance, along with Caffey. Although the gym was open for public use, the committee found the school in violation of the rules

According to Seminole Independent School District Superintendent Dean Skiles, the committee interpreted the rule to mean that the gyms were to be shut down completely during the five-day

Raiders Sign DHS V-Ball Star Cynthia Hardaway

Cynthia Hardaway, the most valuable player in District 1-4A at Dunbar High School this year, inked a national letter of intent with the Texas Tech volleyball team Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Hardaway, a three year all-district selection at Dunbar, is the first vollevball recruit to sign with the Raiders this spring. Miss Hardaway's middle blocking and hitting talents paced Dunbar to a second place regional finish in the 1980 regionals where she was named to the all-region team.

'I'm very excited about coming to Tech," said Miss Hardaway. "I hope I

Academically, Miss Hardaway ranks 20th in her senior class with a 3.46 grade point average while playing volleyball and holding the postion of editor for the Dunbar vearbook.

"I feel that Cynthia will add tremendous depth at the middle blocking position," said Tech coach Janice Hudson. Cynthia has the potential to become a truly talented volleyball player. She has the desire to be one of the best.

Tech is fortunate in signing Miss Hardaway." added the Tech coach. We're excited that we can boost our program with a native Lubbockite."

The 6-1 middle blocker middle blocker is the first of several recruits the Raiders hope to sign. Tech was 46-16 in volleyball last season.

Miss Hardaway was coached at Dunbar by Debbie Deaton.

Reed, Monterey Chill Big Spring first when Monterey third sacker Steve the fourth and seventh, the Monterey good, I thought we'd struggle a little bit By CHUCK McDONALD

Assistant Sports Editor
For coach Bobby Moegle, there wasn't a lot spectacular about win No.

Heck, his Monterey Plainsmen had scored three runs before they'd even recorded a single base hit and coasted to any easy 9-1 victory over the Big Spring Steers in the bitter cold at Lowrey Field Wednesday afternoon.

But for junior pitcher Mike Reed, there was nothing routine about it. For Reed it was his first mound start of the season and he lasted the entire seven innings - yielding only two hits and was never in serious trouble.

Monterey raises its early season slate to 6-0 with the win while the Steers slip to 2-4. In the only other scheduled game involving city schools, rain forced the postponement of the Lubbock High-Amarillo Palo Duro contest.

Three times Reed retired the Steers in order and in three other frames he faced only four batters. Only once, in the fourth inning, did Reed's control get away from him and that's when he lost his shutout. Still, he finished with five strikeouts while giving up only a, pair of bases on balls.

"Mike would be starting for a lot of other teams," said Moegle afterwards, "but we've got three pretty good seniors in front of him so he hasn't got to pitch

"He's a control pitcher and today he had pretty good location except for one inning," added Moegle. "He pitched about like I expected him to."

Leading 8-0 heading into the top of the fourth. Reed had his only breakdown. He walked the leadoff batter and then centerfielder Mark Warren reached Coleman's diving stop forced Tommy Rodriguez at second.

But a hit and run single - the first hit off Reed - by Lupe Ontiveros moved Warren to third and, after a ground out, he scored on a wild pitch by Reed. But that was it for the Steers. Close the Monterey, meanwhile, scored three runs in the bottom of the first on the strength of two walks and three Big Spring errors. Scott Reid, Darrell Kitten and Travis Walden - Monterey's first three batters - all came across in that initial frame as the Steers booted the ball around the infield.

The Plainsmen got three more tallies in the second frame but this time they had three hits to go with them. After Shawn McClain reached on an error, Scott Reid singled and Darrell Kitten executed a perfect hit and run single to score McClain.

Coleman, who's two doubles were the only extra-base hits by either team, ripped a fast ball up the middle that scored two more runs and left him on second where he stayed.

The scoring parade continued in the third for Monterey. David Faulkner led off with a walk, went to second on a wild pitch and third on a passed ball. After Brian Barbee was issued a free pass, No. 9 hitter McClain ripped a single to left that scored Faulkner. Barbee eventually came across on a ground out.

That made it 8-0 after three innings and the only questions that remained to be answered were: a.) would Reed get his no-hitter, b.) would the game be called on the 10-run rule, and c.) would anyone freeze to death in the stands.

But Reed was touched for singles in bats cooled off and the game ended in a merciful hour and forty minutes - evervbody lived:

The game's only other run came in the sixth inning when Coleman crushed his second double to deep left field, went to third on a fly out by Nathan Swindle

"We're further along than I thought we'd be at this stage," said Moegle afterwards. "To be 6-0 at this point is pretty and scored on a ground out by Reed.

early but our pitching has been pretty good for us. 'We really haven't had a bad pitching performance yet."

And the Plainsmen got a dandy on

WBC Flying Queens Open Regional Tournament Action

PLAINVIEW (Special) — After taking almost three weeks off, the Wayland Baptist College Flying Queens will finally get back to cage action this weekend when they join eight other teams for the AIAW Region IV Tournament in Nacog-

The Queens, 19-9 on the season, will meet Southern University for the first time ever in today's 3 p.m. quarterfinal contest in the Stephen F. Austin State University Coliseum.

Coach Cathy Wilson's team earned an automatic berth in this weekend's meet by finishing third in the state tournament early in February. That was good enough to be seeded fourth in this week's event.

Other first-round pairings will match top-ranked Louisiana Tech against Oklahoma at 9 p.m., third-seeded Stephen F. Austin against Northwestern at 5 p.m. and second-seeded Texas against Oral Roberts at 7 p.m. today.

Today's game will be broadcast in Plainview by KATX-FM with Tom Hall bringing the play-by-play.

A victory in today's quarterfinals would insure the Queens of a full three games in Nacogdoches, including a likely semifinal matchup with the powerful Lady Techsters of Louisiana Tech. Friday's game would be at 9 p.m., preceded by the other semifinal between the remain-

The third-place and championship games are set for 7 and 9 p.m., respectively, on Saturday.

The Flying Queens will be making the trip to Nacogdoches at less than full strength, as several players are nursing injuries or illness.

Senior Janie Denton, who missed three full games with a knee injury and got in on only five minutes of the team's 68-63 win against Houston in its last game, is still not 100 percent.

In addition, sophomore Terri Henry injured a shoulder during workouts Monday and is questionable at best for today's game. Two other post people -Kelly Braisher and Betty Brown - are five-inning pitching stint this early in saring training is rare, but Detroit Ti-gers nurier Jack Morris made the most of Wednesday, allowing only one hit in a 9-3 Actory over the Chicago White Sox.

Morris allowed one unearned run, in the fourth inning when Les Fiilkens dropped Mike Squires' windblown fly for a two-base error and Wayne Nordhagen singled him home. Nordhagen later hit a two-run homer for the White Sox.

Meanwhile, the Tigers jumped on Britt Burns for five runs in the first two innings, three of them on a homer by Torn Brookers. Stan Papi and John Wockenfuss each had three hits and two RBI for Detroit.

The Tigers' split squad also was successful against the Boston Red Sox as Richie Hebner collected four hits - a homer, double and two singles - and drove in three runs in a 6-4 victory.

Former Michigan football star Rick Leach slammed a homer and a single for scored ahead of Brouhard's blast off Mike Stanton.

Al Oliver's double and Buddy Bell's single drove in three runs in the fifth inning to give the Texas Rangers a 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees. Texas had to stifle a New York rally in the ninth, when the Yankees scored two runs and had two baserunners with two outs before Tucker Ashford grounded out to end the game

Rookies Jerry Manuel and Rick Engle, the winning pitcher, delivered sacrifice flies in the fifth inning to help the Montreal Expos to a 4-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Ed Miller's run-scoring single in the top of the 14th inning gave the Atlanta Braves a 3-2 victory over the Kansas City

Rookie outfielder Mike Patterson hit a tie-breaking homer and Brian Doyle stole home in the fourth inning to lead the Oakland A's to a 6-4 victory over the Taivo Whales of Japan.

The Tokyo Giants beat the Minnesota Twins 7-2 as Kenji Awaguchi slammed two triples to drive in three runs. Former New York Yankee Roy White also had triple for the Giants.

Floyd Favored At Doral Open

MIAMI (AP) - There's a decided foreign flavor to the $250,000 Doral-Eastern Open Golf Tournament but a hometown boy could be the man to watch.

"I'm really playing very, very well; excellent," said Ray Floyd, the defending champion whose home only is a few miles from the 7,065-yard, par 72 Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club, site of the 72-hole event that gets started Thursday

The veteran Floyd, in fact, probably is playing as well as he ever has.

In six previous starts this season, he has been 12th or better five times. He's already won $49,912 and comes into the defense of the title he won in a playoff with Jack Nicklaus last year with his game very obviously reaching a peak.

"I'm driving as well or better than I ever have," said Floyd, who counts the Masters and PGA among his 12 tour victories. "My putting may not be as consistent as I'd like it to be, but, overall, this is the best I've played this early in the season

And there's a reason for it, Floyd

"Always before I'd take a break at the end of the year, and I'd go to California just trying to play my way back into shape," he said. "I worked more on my game over the winter this time and had my game in shape when I went out west. It makes a big difference," he said.

points for Drake, and Pop Wright con-tributed 16 points, all in the second half.

TOLEDO 91, AMERICAN 83 DAYTON, Ohio — Harvey Knuckles and Mitch Adamek, accounting for a to-tal 49 points, led Toledo to a 91-83 basketball victory over American on Wednesday night in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament.

Knuckles tallied 29 points for Toledo. while Adamek scored 20. Both had 10 rebounds.

Knuckles set a school record of 632 points for the season, breaking the previous record of 608 set by Tom Kozelko

American jumped to a quick 6-0 lead early in the game, but Adamek grabbed a rebound and sank a basket with 13:43 left in the first half, giving Toledo a 10-8 advantage that the Rockets never gave up.

American, trailing by up to 16 points in the second half, surged ahead to cut the advantage to eight with several minutes left. But the Rockets exploded with eight points with 61/2 minutes to go, adding 16 more points as American tallied only 22 to end the game and fell to 24-6 overall.

American, led by Ed Sloane with 24 points and Mark Nickens with 23, hit on 31 percent of its shots in the first half and 45 percent for the match. Toledo shot 50 percent and 51 percent, respectively.

Toledo. 21-9. plays the winner of the Duquesne-Michigan game.

TEXAS-ARLINGTON 71

MOBILE, Ala. - Senior forward Ed Rains slammed home the final bucket with one second remaining as South Alabama defeated Texas-Arlington 74-71 Wednesday night in the first round of the National Invitational Tournament.

Rains was the game's leading scorer with 26 points.

The victory moved the Jaguars into the second round of the NIT against Georgia on Monday night in Athens.

Georgia advanced Wednesday night with a 74-60 victory over Old Dominion.

Rains, the all-time South Alabama scoring leader and Sun Belt Conference player of the year, hit the final shot after turnover by the Mavericks had given South Alabama the ball with four seconds left. Texas-Arlington was stalling for a last shot after a traveling call against Rains with 27 seconds remaining The Jaguars set up at mid-court and Rains broke free in the front court. He carried the ball to the goal where he slammed home his 26th point.

CITY BOXERS FALL FORT WORTH (Special) - Dusty Price of Levelland won a unanimous decision over El Paso's Jesus Bariz here in the opening round of the Texas State Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament Wednesday night. However, Price was the only area boxer to advance. Lubbock's Gilbert Castillo and Brad Bingham both lost in the first round.

THE REAGAN ADMINISTRATION THIS WEEK proposed to charge cotton growers for cotton classing inspections to help reduce the fiscal year 1982

Under the FY 1982 budget revisions released this week by the White House, the administration agrees with former President Carter's proposal that cotton and tobacco growers should begin paying for the grading and inspections conductted by the Agricultural Marketing Service.

The revisions do not offer precise fees for such services. Some believe, however, that the figures will be similar to those proposed by Carter: $1 per bale for cotton and 45 cents per hundredweight for tobacco.

Reagan's budget cuts went deeper than Carter's in proposing legislation "to cover the full federal cost" of supervising grain inspection and weighing activities but no details were given.

Total savings from the proposed inspection fees would be $25 million, according to the Reagan revisions.

AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH AND EXTENSION program funds will be increased $13 million in both budget authority and outlays in the proposed FY 1982 U. S. Department of Agriculture budget, the administration announced

This is one of the few areas other than defense spending that received "favorable treatment" in Reagan's budget-slashing program. No breakdown was released to outline which programs would receive the increases and it wasn't known whether any additional funds would be spent on research into cotton dust and its relationship to byssinosis or brown lung. Secretary of Agriculture John Block has said several times that agricultural research would be a top priority of the Reagan administration.

The administration believes that increasing farm productivity should be an important part of the federal government's agriculture policies," the White House said.

LEGISLATION WILL BE PROPOSED BY THE administration to eliminate the waiver of first-year interest charges on farmer-held grain reserve

The proposal, which requires congressional approval, would reduce outlays by $80 million in FY 1981 and by $167 million in FY-1982, according to adminis-

The administration said it plans to reduce costs by charging interest on all loans at least equal to the U.S. Treasury's cost of borrowing. Former President Carter in December signed a bill that contained a provision waiving interest fees on reserve loans but said he hoped Congress would

The White House said total net outlays for price support programs will decrease by $21 million in FY 1981 and by $300 million in FY 1982.

However, the administration said the rescheduling of Poland's debt service payments, originally due for payment in March through June, will boost outlays by $88 million.

THE CURRENT STORAGE LOAN FACILITY program will be curtailed in FY 1981 and phased out by FY 1986 if Reagan's budget proposals are passed by

"There is currently more than adequate storage capacity for current and future crop years," the White House said.

The USDA's budget outlays on this program would be reduced by $25 million in FY 1981 and $100 million in FY 1982, the administration said.

Under current law, the federal government provides loans, not to exceed $100 million, to farmers for 75 percent or more of the cost to build or renovate storage and drying facilities.

MEANWHILE, SECRETARY BLOCK SAID this week that loan rates will be raised for some 1981-crop commodities but he would give no details about the size of the increases or to what commodities they might apply.

Block was asked at a press conference if his suggestions for higher commodity loan rates had been approved by the Office of Management and Budget. OMB director David Stockman has come out against higher loan rates.

The secretary said only that "we're still working on it." He said an announcement on loan rates will be made soon.

Block also said details of the Reagan administration's proposals for the 1981 farm bill be ready to present to Congress by March 20. He said details still are being discussed within the administration.

COTTON FUTURES RECOVERED FROM SHARP early declines, including a limit loss in spot May, to close an active session Wednesday up 10 to 170 points.

Near May gained the least at 87.12 cents and December advanced 94 points to 82.60 cents. Volume was estimated at 10,000 contracts.

Analysts said the market bounced up in the afternoon when a large Chicagobased commission house, which has been widely identified with cotton's recent steep decline, stopped selling and became a light buyer.

The rally was extended by trade and local buying, including short covering, which triggered upside stops beginning with May's break through the 86.60-cent level, they said. Mill fixations also were noted.

Floor brokers attributed the early slump to commission house selling, which triggered downside stops starting at 86 cents in May. Some analysts said prices bounced up from the lows on mill fixations and other buying, possibly reflecting overnight export business.

THE MARKET WEDNESDAY "REPRESENTED a classic case of speculator versus the trade and the trade won," one analyst commented.

'It was quite a significant day in that we once again found a price level at which the trade was interested in doing business," he added.

'One note of caution is that in order for there to be a decent move to the upside the trade must show support again," he said. There were mixed opinions on whether significant new business would be cotton yarn production by an average of 15 percent in the April-June quarter from the level in January last year, the Japan Spinners' Association said. The decision came at a meeting of the presidents of member spinners of the association. About 100 spinners will join in the cartel but Nisshin Spinning Co., one of the biggest in Japan, is refusing to join, insisting on free competition.

The association will seek the Fair Trade Commission's approval for the cartel by around March 20. A voluntary production cutback of about 10 percent on the average has been made by the Japanese spinning industry for more than six months.

But the nation's cotton goods inventories topped the crisis level of 800,000 bales at the end of last November, partly due to the continuing inflow of low priced cotton yarns from South Korea, the association said. COTTON PLANTING STARTED IN THE LOWER Rio Grande Valley last week and activity in South Texas will increase as fields dry, the joint agricultural weather facility of the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Commerce said this week

In a summary of the weekly weather and crop bulletin, the agency said warm temperatures were favorable for early planting. Rain delayed planting in Arizona while California growers prepared and seeded plantbeds.

Private estimates on plantings in the Lower Rio Grande Valley seem to be ranging mostly from around 250,000 to 300,000 acres, down from 378,000 last year. The dominant range appears to be 275,000-290,000 acres There has been market talk this week about a newspaper report, quoting a large Memphis-based merchant, that additional sales of old-crop cotton to million estimated last month and with the year-earlier level of 21.5 million. Global exports were estimated at 19.7 million bales, against 20.1 million last month and 23 million last season. Mill use was forecast at 65.6 million bales, compared with 65.8 million last month and 65.7 million last season. World imports were estimated at 19.8 million bales, down from 20 million last month and last season's 22.9 million. The production estimate was 65.2 million bales, unchanged from last month and slightly below last season's 65.7 mil-

Trading on Telcot quickened appreciably on broad-based bidding led initially by a Dallas-based merchant. The volume was 8,718 bales and the average price was 66.01 cents, an average of 2,727 points over the loan. The market difference, which was off 25 points at one time, ended up 75 points and some lots were traded as much as several hundred points over that. Most qualities sold well before the day ended.

Cattle Futures Close Lower

By Reuters

CHICAGO - Cattle futures closed 80 to 150 points lower with October down the daily limit Wednesday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. Other months ended near day's lows on sales of 18.815 cars.

Futures continued under general selling pressure and spillover influence from limit down pork pits. Only thin evening up was cited late. Sources noted a general bearish attitude toward commodities and lack of constructive news. Cash beef was steady at noon but sources felt the market had a weak undertone.
