Carlsbad Man To Face Trial In Wife's Death

A-J Correspondent CARLSBAD — Carlsbad druggist Johnny Volpato has been ordered to stand trial in district court for the Feb. 5, 1980, murder of his wife, Elaine, at the Corner Drugstore.

Magistrate Judge Donald Hallam of Hobbs ruled Friday that Volpato, 43, a city councilman and mayor pro tem of Carlsbad, will stand trial on the first-deof testimony here in Volpato's preliminary hearing to determine if there were sufficient evidence to bind him over for trial in Fifth District Court.

Defense attorney Dick Blenden, who unsuccessfully requested a dismissal of the murder charge against Volpato before Hallam ruled, speculated after the hearing that a trial date would be set sometime this fall. Volpato's bond of $100,000 was continued by the magis-

In his motion to dismiss, Blenden noted the court is required to find probable cause in ruling that the defendant should be bound for trial. He also pointed out a number of evidentiary inconsistencies, but noted such inconsistencies are not unusual when an individual has gone through a traumatic

Special prosecutor Ernest Carroll of Midland argued that Blenden "had ignored" all the scientific testimony by FBI agents, including the angle of travel of bullets that killed Mrs. Volpato and wounded the defendant. Carroll said there "is more than enough evidence to prevent a directed (innocent) verdict." Based on evidence provided by the New Mexico Crime Laboratory, as well as testimony from a Hobbs pathologist, there is "sufficient evidence to establish probable cause" to bind Volpato for trial, Hallam ruled after the attorneys' sum-

Morals Charge Cites Abernathy Official

ABERNATHY Chief of Police Jimmy Ray Williams was arrested and charged Friday with two counts of official oppres sion for allegedly subjecting two young women to sexual mistreatment while on duty earlier this month.

Williams, 34, turned himself in at the Lubbock County Sheriff's Office about 6 p.m. after being summoned by the Criminal District Attorney's office. The charge was filed against Williams after a week-long investigation by sheriff's deputies, Texas Rangers and investigators with the district attorney's office.

The police chief allegedly mistreated two Abernathy women in their homes March 2. He is accused of compeling a 20-year-old woman to submit to deviate sexual intercourse while acting in his official capacity and with compeling a 21year-old woman to disrobe before him.

The charge of official oppression is a Class A misdemeanor, punisha to a year in jail and a $2,000 fine.

Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford met with Lubbock County Sheriff Sonny Keesee and other officials before issuing the official summons for Williams and filing the charge against him. He also called the Abernathy city manager and mayor to his office to advise them of the allegations against their police chief.

Williams was booked into the Lubbock County Jail Friday evening, but was released on two personal recognizance

Holly's Widow Given Glasses

MASON CITY, Iowa (AP) - A district court judge ruled Friday that Maria Elena Holly Diaz should have the glasses which were the trademark of her late husband, rock music star Buddy Holly, who died in a plane crash 22 years ago.

Judge B.C. Sullivan said Mrs. Diaz is executor of the Holly estate and therefore is the rightful owner of all personal property of Charles Hardin Holly, including the glasses found in a courthouse basement last year. The glasses had been missing since 1959, the year Holly was killed in the crash of a small airplane shortly after it left the Mason City Municipal Airport.

Two other popular performers, Rit-chie Valens and J.P. Richardson, also were killed in the crash as was the pilot, Roger Peterson of Clear Lake.

The woman's husband, 70-year-old Herbert Feather, also was injured in the fire as he fought his way through a heavy blanket of smoke and pulled his wife from a couch in the shop's office. She apparently was asleep when the fire began.

Mrs. Feather was pronounced dead shortly after the 1 p.m. fire at Feather Printing Company, 2414 Clovis Road, by Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy. LeCroy is withholding a ruling in the death until receipt of the fire marshal's report.

He did not order an autopsy. Employees who said they smelled smoke just before 1 p.m. said the blaze had gained momentum by the time they reached the back office, adjacent to the printing complex.

Only One Answer For Terror

ALTHOUGH THE ordeal of the hostages held aboard a hijacked Pakistani jetliner in the Mideast is over, the repercussions from the incident aren't.

Not only did the incident, which dragged on for 13 days, again raise the issue of what to do about terrorists on an international level, but the role of avowedly Marxist countries in the hijacking.

The three main nations involved included Syria, which sought to help solve the problem, Lybia, which agreed then refused to accept the hijackers and their liberated former Prisoners from Pakistan, and the Soviet Un-

Moscow has denied the charge, but the evidence is that little was done to dissuade the terrorists during the five days the plane was parked at the Kabul airport.

As things finally turned out, Syria agreed to take, at least temporarily, charge of the hijackers, the freed prisoners from Pakistan which the terrorists had sought from the beginning, and the hostages were freed. At last reports, Syria was stuck with hijackers, prisoners and some passengers.

the issue, what to do about such incidents. One solution, of course, would be for all civilized nations to agree to a binding pact that would say to the world-including hijackers-that no nation would serve as haven for terrorists of any sort, no matter how they seek to enter. The pact, which could be broken only by the penalty of having all international airline service halted indefinitely, could be enforced if leaders of all nations so desired. Stricter security at foreign airports also is needed.

BUT, SUCH a solution is not likely in the near future.

In the first place, some of the nations involved in the latest incident, Syria, Lybia and Russia, all see political implications in terrorist attacks, usually implications with which they sympathize.

Secondly, even some airlines and prowestern officials argue it is better to "wait out" hijackers in hopes of saving lives.

And then there is, of course, those who sympathize with the terrorists. A young American aboard the Pakistani plane was quoted as saying she sympathized with the hijack leader until he shot a passenger in

It's too bad she, and others, have to learn their lessons the hard way. Terrorists have had only one goal, to impose their demands at whatever cost. And there is only one way to deal with such people, as the anarchists

NEXT FALL is going to be rough, finan- 000 a year, possibly lower. cially, for the nation's 11.5 million college students.

STUDENT AID CUT BACK

The College Scholarship Service estimates the average public four-year college costs $3,-400 a year, including tuition, room, board, books, and transportation.

The most costly universities (Harvard Stanford, etc.) already have broken the $10.-000-a-year barrier, incidentally

Meanwhile, with the cost of living racing ahead at 12.5 percent a year, the new administration is proposing to slash federal funds for higher education as it attempts to slow the inflationary spiral and balance the nation's budget.

The biggest federal free-money program is Basic Educational Opportunity Grants, or BEOGs, supposed to help students from lowand middle-income families

IN FY 80, which ended Sept. 30, Congress appropriated and the government spent $2.5 billion on BEOGs. In the current fiscal year, BEOGs are budgeted at $1.85 billion.

Unless an estimated $900 million is appropriated in supplemental legislation, BEOGs will be cut $400-to-$600 per student next fall, with maximum grants dropping from $1,800 to $1,200. Further cuts proposed by the administration would limit the grants to students from families with incomes below $25.

Guaranteed Student Loans, or GSLs, cost the Treasury $1.7 billion in FY 80 and look like they'll cost $2.5 billion in the current

Two years ago. Congress made it possible for a student to get a maximum of $2,500 a year in GSLs at an interest rate that's now 9

Reagan economists want to raise the interest rate according to a formula pegged to treasury rates, which means GSLs would cost 18-to-19 percent interest.

A STUDENT from a $20,000-a-year family exemplifies the squeeze, if he plans to go to a $3,400-a-year college in September.

He may get a $500 BEOG. He'd be expected to earn and save about $400 a year. His family would be expected to furnish $900, for a total of $1,800—leaving him $1,600 short.

In the past, such a student might have depended on a mix of work-study jobs and some state student aid or loans. These are being tightened, too.

Conclusion: Many students may have to get part-time jobs, drop out for a while or transfer to much cheaper hometown community colleges next fall.

Regardless, the message from Washington is: Don't depend on Uncle Sam. He's supporting too many folks already.

What's it for?" I asked him.

We want to change the name of the Bronx to El Salvador. Why El Salvador?

"We figure if we change our name we can get as much economic aid as El Salvador is getting. We worked it out that what Reagan is cutting out of the budget for the Bronx comes to exactly what he is putting into El Salvador. My good man," I said, "you can't compare El Salvador to the Bronx

You ever been there?" the man asked. "To El Salvador?"

'NO, TO the Bronx. We're the same size as El Salvador and we got as many problems as they

'But, sir," I said, trying not to get the man angry. "El Salvador is being threatened by 10,000 We got more than that in the Bronx. It's safer to walk in the jungles of El Salvador at night than it is in the parks of the Bronx. But your people get your arms right here in the United States. The guerrillas in El Salvador are being supplied by the Russians and the Cubans. That's why we're giving El Salvador aid and taking it away from you. I'm not too sure I follow that," the man said.

You mean just because our guerrillas in the Bronx can get any arms they want, right in this country, we're not entitled to American aid?"

THAT'S CORRECT. The $100 million is not aid for El Salvador, but a message to Russia and Cuba to keep their hands off Central America."

Well, why can't the people in Washington give us $100 million so it will be a message to the Soviets to keep their hands off the Bronx?

How come? They've seen it on television.

"That's why I want you to sign the petition, man. If we can change the name of the Bronx to El Salvador, maybe they'll want it, and then we'll get some of that money they're throwing at the people down there. "I don't believe the Russians can be that easily

"I KNOW they can't, but I figure the people in Washington can be. Hell I don't think there's a dozen people in the capital who know where El Salvador is."

"I think you would be better off, instead of changing your name to another country, if you changed it to a new weapons system," I said.

What are you talking about? "If you called the Bronx 'the MX Missile System. I could get you $30 billion, with no questions

'That's a lousy name for a borough." "It doesn't matter. The only real money that's going to be spent in this country for the next four years is going to be for armaments. If you have a sexy military name, you'll get all the money you "DO WE have to put the system in the Bronx?" "It would be nice if you did. Everyone wants the U.S. to have an MX system, but no one wants it in their own back yard. If the Bronx offered to put it there, the military would be very grateful to you, and reward you handsomely.

"So you think that's a better deal than changing our name to El Salvador?"

"I really do," I told him. "Giving El Salvador $100 million would be a one-shot thing. But they're going to have to pour money into an MX missile system forever

Why, they seem to whimper, wasn't America discovered early enough to produce the Sistine wander into their museums. I was sharing some masterpieces in the Mellon gallery with a teen-agr the other day when one of its keepers chastised a bunch of nearby kids for daring to talk about what they were seeing.

IF RONALD Reagan can find the time, he should have somebody check on the exclusivity of joints like the Mellon. Most of them seem to be run by people who are too impressed with their own elegance and tend to look down to their customers as creatures who just crawled out from under a big rock. I am reminded of an occasion when one of these exquisites was chatting with Mrs. Betty Ford about the masterpieces in the aristocratic Corcoran Gallery. Mincingly, he observed that "Of course this sort of thing is not for the masses." Mrs. Ford looked him in the eye. "Then maybe I shouldn't be here," she told him, every syllable encased in ice. Bless her heart. That sort of official attitude is the trouble with too many things concerned with

Reggie Jackson's batting stance THOMAS HART Benton, a pretty good brush man, once sent the haughtier art lovers into a tizzy by saying that paintings should be hung in saloons. and Co.'s watering hole, and a quick lecture on preciating the job Picasso did on that lady's left Benton's project got nowhere, but it remains a swell idea that maybe Nancy Reagan would spon-

Meanwhile, a pox on that joker who hushed up the kids at the Mellon show. His boss should take him aside and remind him that he's a guide, not a entific American, two economists (Eli Ginzberg of Columbia University and George Vojta of Citicorp/Citibank) dispute the notion that five out of six jobs are created by the private sector.

"The misconception," they say, "arises in part from the classification of such nonprofit institutions as Columbia University, the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Jet Propulsion Laboratory as private-sector enterprises and from categorizing the production of military aircraft by Lockheed Corporation and nuclear submarines by General Dynamics as private-enterprise activities.

These classifications are not exactly wrong, but neither are they clarifying.

THE AUTHORS would classify under "government sector" not only people on public payrolls but also those whose employment in the private sector derives from government purchases or grants to private sector enterprises.

When they add agencies such as TVA, state liquor stores, and municipal power plants, plus the private nonprofit sector, they say the not-for-profit sector accounts for more than one-third of the total employment and nearly a third of the gross national product.

Furthermore, they argue that it is erroneous to regard all investment and employment in that sector as a loss to the "productive" side of the economy. In recent decades, agriculture and the automobile industry have been "the movers and shakers of the economy.

FEDERAL RESEARCH and development in agriculture, and the agriculture extension service, have contributed mightily to productivity. (The land-grant college system was, at first, primarily a form of public investment in agriculture.) And the Eisenhower administration's interstate highway legislation of 1956 heightened the prosperity of the automobile industry.

Aircraft and electronics, like agricultural commodities, are important contributors to the nation's exports, and government expenditures for defense and space, research and development, and the education of scientists and engineers have underpinned these industries

Furthermore since World War II government has facilitated exports by providing $250 billion in foreign loans and grants.

The not-for-profit sector has served private-sector productivity as an investor in human capital defined as the "skill, dexterity and knowledge" of the population

IN 1950, EXPENDITURE on education was $8.3 billion. In 1979, it was $151.5 billion, of which all but $25 billion came from the government. Improved health, too, also improves the productivity of "human capital" In 1950, expenditures for medical care were $12 billion and consumers paid 80 percent. In 1980, expenditures were $240 billion, with government paying 40 percent and nonprofit organizations like Blue Cross paying most of the rest.

Now, government programs have made it painfully obvious that there is no direct correlation between the amount invested in schooling and the return in education; or the amount invested in medicine and the return in health. Furthermore, the fact that government and other institutions in the not-for-profit sector have put some of society's resources to productive uses does not mean that a portion of those resources could not have been more productively allocated by the "for-profit" sector.

Neither does it mean that the growth of the notfor-profit sector is benign phenomenon.

BUT THE large gray area where the public and private sectors mingle does not mean that the economy has long been connected with government in ways not envisioned by free-market doctrine, at least in its most pristine form.

Such doctrine suggests that government should have only a referee's role in society, strictly neutral about economic outcomes. But such a role is unimaginable.

The government has long been involved in promoting economic growth, and hence in shapng investment and consumption.

And any government must continually pick particular tax, property, trade, anti-trust, environmental educational and other policies from among a range of alternatives.

That is why Stockman's national seminar is not about the "science" of economics-but about the art of politics.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE:

At Fault

DALLAS—Every newspaper east of the Rio Grande keeps telling us California is setting up massive earthquake programs in preparation for "the big one" that's bound to come. But they don't make headlines in California.

I just spent a week out there, reading the daily papers in three separate cities, and during that time there wasn't a line in any of them about what's cooking either under, or over, the tremu-lous San Andreas Fault.

It's funny. People in New York and Boston and Kansas City worry more about earthquakes in California than people in California do.

Nightclub comedians get belly laughs about landowners in Nevada becoming instant millionaires when California slides into the sea and turns their desert into thousands of miles of ocean-front of where the next big one is supposed to hit, says he never gives it a thought. And neither do any of his neighbors. And what's all this about "disaster warnings'? What it boils down to, I suppose, is a psychological defense, a game the residents play to fool themselves into thinking that if you don't look at

BUT ENGINEER-son, who lives smack on top

it, it will go away. As one who was born, as I am wont to tell anyone who will listen, in an earthquake, I played it, too, for almost 30 years. Quakes were part of our daily lives, but the blockbusters were too far apart to be scary. Besides, what could you do to prevent them?

Nothing, admit the folks in charge of disasters,

but there are measures that can be taken to elimi-

AND THE most important one is to convince an apathetic citizenry that a major earthquake is inevitable, and that when it comes it will be the worst natural disaster in the nation's history, leaving behind it all the devastation of a nuclear at-

Collapsing buildings will shower tons of glass and rubble into the streets...dams will break...bridges and highways will buckle...and vast areas will be left without electricity, gas, telephones, water, sewers, and police and fire protection. Citizens will be on their own for the first 72 hours

San Francisco and Los Angeles are the most dangerous spots. Geologists figure if the big one rumbles south along the Newport-Inglewood fault, it will hit with at least an 8.3 force on the Ri-

IF IT comes during a rush hour, it will kill 23,000 people, injure 100,000, and leave 250,000

A quake registering 8.3 on the San Andreas fault near San Francisco at 4 p.m. would kill 10,000 and injure 40,000. Out of 8,000 hospital beds in the city, 7,000 would be destroyed.

How, doctors ask, do you treat 40,000 wounded with no resources?

Faced with that prospect, both cities have accelerated their programs to upgrade disaster relief and warn the public to be prepared for the worst. Los Angeles has started a 15-year campaign to dered structurally unsafe in a massive quake. If the owners refuse (and they're violently protesting the $750 million it will cost), the city will compel landlords to reinforce buildings consihave the buildings demolished. THIS INCLUDES 4,000 commercial structures, 2,400 industrial buildings, 811 apartment houses, 268 hotels and 134 public buildings. Bracing them up (or tearing them down) will, say city officials, reduce the death toll to 1,500 and injuries to 8,000. If they did nothing, 8,000 would be killed and 34,000 injured.

Los Angeles is also distributing hundreds of thousands of "survival charts" showing residents how to turn off gas and electricity and where to go for shelter

And the Red Cross has been giving "disaster slide shows" to any church or social group that's willing to sit through their 10-minute program.

Both San Francisco and Los Angeles are readying a series of preparedness tests with simulated 'victims" rushing to medical facilities for help. and police and fire squads rehearsing various res-

WHAT'S ALSO worrying disaster planners is where to send the survivors. Evacuation from both cities would be difficult because of their geographic isolation: Los Angeles is tucked into a basin surrounded by mountains and an ocean, and San Francisco is blocked on three sides by water. If the quake stirs up a tidal wave, boats would be useless. Meanwhile, the sun keeps on shining and the easy-going natives keep on hoping this is all just

'Chicken Little" talk They remind you that while the geologists insist a massive earthquake is inevitable, they also admit it might not happen for 30 years-and what the heck, the odds on getting picked off by a California driver are worse than that,

L.M. BOYD:

Pass It On...

Q HOW DO animals sense oncoming earthquakes?

A. Nobody's sure yet. Could be they register changes in the magnetic fields affected by ground shifts. Or they feel vibrations unnoticed by less sensitive humans. Or detect gases released by foreshocks. When the science boys get that one figured out, they may be able to duplicate it with electronic devices, thus to predict quakes. That's the hope, at any rate.

Just about 98 percent of all the species that ever lived are now extinct, contend the science-minded

Historical footnotes from the 15th Century reveal that nuns in one of Germany's convents suddenly succumbed to the compulsion to bite one another, and for awhile there the order was plagued by teeth-marks. So ancient are such reports that you can't document them, sure enough.

But contagious hysteria does occur. In 1963, about 900 villagers in Uganda suddenly grabbed up white chickens, tucked them under their arms, and started to run. Those so smitten kept at it until they fell from exhaustion. In 1973. approximately 150 students and teachers in Berry, Ala., began to cry, yell, scream, vomit, and complain of numbness and terrible itching. Pentagon Announces Withdrawal Of Some El Salvador Advisers

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Pentagon said Friday it plans to withdraw 18 of the 54 U.S. Military advisers sent to El Salvador by July, and military sources said most of the remaining advisers will be out by September.

This plan will hold unless the situation in El Salvador shifts dramatically in favor of the leftist guerrillas because it should take six months or less "to get the job done" to train government troops to fight the insurgents, one source said.

Sources told United Press International the Pentagon does at present not plan to rotate the advisers in El Salvador, but to terminate their assignments by September. But they said rotation is an option that could be exercised if the situation warranted.

A Pentagon spokesman confirmed that "18 will be out by July," but said, We cannot now specify a timetable for doing so.'

the Lubbock case. Safety Board Urges Better Inspections

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Transportation Safety Board on Friday called for an improved inspection system to detect potentially hazardous worn ball-joint assemblies in the steering mechanisms of large buses and trucks.

The NTSB recommendations follow the investigation of a commuter bus accident that claimed 11 lives on Feb. 18, 1981, near Triangle, Va. The specific cause of the accident has not been determined, but the board said investivators found a steering system ball-joint worn to the extent that it may have caused steering linkage separation.

Heard is charged with conspiring with a Lubbock man to inflate the value of the florist shop with false invoices prior to burning it. The scheme was not carried

Heard was charged earlier this month in Houston an alleged scheme in which counterfeit gold Krugerrand coins were used to obtain bank loans. Attorneys for the Tascosa National Bank have filed suit against Amarillo builder David P. Merchant seeking the recovery of $270,000 in loans allegedly secured by the fake gold

Heard also faces two possession of a controlled substance charges in Amarillo. He was arrested on the Lubbock charge in Amarillo earlier this week where he posted a $20,000 surety bond and a $2,000 cash bond. The cash bond was ordered to insure that Heard would appear in Lubbock Friday.

Blalack ordered the return of the cash bond since Heard had complied with his appearance order. The case will now be handed over to a grand jury for possible indictment

Southwestern Bell Loses Court Decisions

Telephone Co. lost two court decisions Friday, one blocking further work an ex-perimental electronic information project and the other requiring the company to reduce the rates it charges telephone customers while its appeal in a $326 mil.

lion rate case is being heard.

District Judge Harley Clark ruled Ben was not entitled to continue collecting proceeds of a $152 million rate increase it implemented Nov. 11, 1980, and must instead reduce its rates to the $114.3 million level approved by the Public Utility

But Clark agreed to allow Bell to continue charging the higher rates for two more weeks while the company appeals his decision to the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals. If the company fails to file its appeal within 14 days, or if the appellate court rules in favor of the PUC, the company must immediately reduce the rates and begin refunding about $3 million monthly in unauthorized tates it has been collecting for the past four months.

CHAPPAQUIDDICK SALE MULLED EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) - The Chappaquiddick Island bridge, site of

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's 1969 car accident that claimed the life of a young woman passenger, should be auctioned off to save repair costs, a local official says. Selectwoman Edith Potter on Thursday proposed the sale of Dike Bridge, saying it needs $20,000 worth of repairs. Ms. Potter said Edgartown can't afford the work because of tax-cutting Proposition 21/2, which limits property tax income.

Death Of Bitterman Boosts Support For Program

A Wycliffe Bible Translators official in Dallas has said the recent kidnapping and execution of Chester A. Bitterman III by Colombian guerrillas has had the opposite impact expected by the terror-

Ron Olson, U.S. division council chairman and assistant to the vice president of the worldwide linguistic organization, said instead of inciting Colombians to revolt against their government and Americans living in their country, the affair aroused widespread support for Bitterman and the Wycliffe field operation known as the Summer Institute of Lin-to translate the Bible into unwritten dialects, of being a CIA front.

After the institute refused to leave the country and the guerrillas' demands to have a 21-page manifesto published were denied. guerrillas shot Bitterman through the heart March 7. He was buried the same day at the institute's field headquarters at Loma Linda, a village 300 miles southeast of Bogota.

Claiming M-9 leaders miscalculated the effect of the killing, Olson pointed out an investigation of the institute by the Colombian government, which has contracted with the linguists through 1995, turned up no evidence of CIA links.

Government Minister German Zea Hernandez said March 8 the institute's employees, about 120, could remain in Colombia. The army arrested more than 50 persons in a manhunt for Bitterman's killers, and more arrests were expected, Associated Press reports indicated.

Olson noted a prominent M-9 leader, who wants to run for the Colombian presidency, disavowed participation in the incident and labeled it the act of a

Marxists have been targeting us around the world," Olson stated. "It's not a conspiracy but the episode in Colombia is not an isolated incident."

Joyce Overholt, academic dean of the Summer Institute of Linguistics in Duncanville, a year-round training school where Bitterman studied in 1977, said his death has had a healthy, sobering effect on her and a lot of others. She said many Wycliffe personnel have examined their personal commitments to Bible translation and Christian principles. Prospective translators will do some serious thinking before going overseas in the future, she predicted.

Although she said most people are aware Americans are not automatically safe in foreign countries, Mrs. Overholt acknowledged, "Most of us thought we were immune, Iran changed all that."

Olson was uncertain what possible effect the Iranian hostage crisis might have had on the Colombian guerrillas. He characterized the M-19 leaders as Marxist intellectuals seeking a utopian sate, as opposed to the Iranians which he termed a mix of Marxism and the Muslim faith.

Although they have not had much experience dealing with terrorists, Olson said Wycliffe took the position a few years ago not to pay ransom for hostages. A female translator was held captive in the Philippines for three weeks before being released, Olson said, but Bitterman was the first Wycliffe hostage taken in Latin America.

The translation work is continuing in Colombia but at a slower pace, Olson noted. Extra precautions are being taken and security is tighter, he said.

At 6:30 a.m., Jan. 19, Olson said several guerrillas, one disguised as a policeman, broke into the institute's group house in Bogota and tied up its occupants. When they did not find director Al Wheeler, who lived at another location in the city, they took Bitterman, "possibility because he was more communicative." Olson speculated.

Security guards are now stationed at the Bogota group house, and Wheeler is accompanied by a guard 24 hours a day.

We're trusting God will turn this evil thing into something good," Olson commented Mrs. Overholt said Bitterman's death has had a big impact on Christian college students, serving as a challenge to them to make a full commitment.

PLAINVIEW - The school which began in 1908 as Wayland Literary and Technical Institute has changed so much in 73 years that now it has additional campuses as far away as Hawaii has decided it is time for another name change. Wayland Baptist College will become Wayland Baptist University on June 1.

Trustees have approved sweeping organizational changes as well, which officials say will better suit the needs of the church-affiliated institution.

"Wayland's position is to turn out graduates capable of entering various ministry roles not people just suited to work in the secular world," Eddie Owens, public relations director, says.

To meet that goal, the new organizational structure will abolish departments and feature divisions instead, add a fourth vice president to the administration, and appoint deans to head each of the three newly-structured colleges which are the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Christian Leadership and Applied Arts and Sciences.

Owens said two of those deans probably will come from promotions within the institution, but that the Christian Leadership dean will be someone from offcampus. He said officials want a person in that job who has a proven track record in education as well as ties to Southern Baptist circles.

Under the new structure each college will include three divisions. The College of Arts and Sciences will include divisions of languages and literature, mathematics and sciences, and social sciences. Applied Arts and Sciences will be comprised of divisions of business, education and health, physical education and

FORT APACHE, THE BRONX (R) Paul Newman, Ken Wahl, Edward Asner. (Police Drama) This is certainly one of the finest about New York's finest, or any police force for that matter. Based on truth, it is a look at the workings of the police in a Bronx precinct so wild it's nicknamed Fort Apache. And one cop --Newman - is faced with a terrible decision. This is first-rate film-making all the way. GRADE: A

LAST METRO, THE (PG) - Catherine Deneuve, Heinz Bennent, (Drama) Paris. World War II. The Nazis occupy the city and we watch as a theater tries to stay open. The theater's guiding spirit, a Jew, is hidden by his wife, the company's star, in the basement. And the show must go on. A promising plot, but director and co-writer Francois Truffaut lets it fall apart totally, with a preposterous love affair contributing mightily to the downfall. GRADE: C

POPEYE (PG) - Robin Williams, Shelley Duvall, Paul L. Smith, Paul Dooley. (Comedy with music) The comic strip hero is reborn, in a stylized version by Robert Altman that grows on you. The flimsey story is the weakest thing, but the acting (especially Shelley Duvall as Olive Oyl) is fine, the effects are fun and the music fits neatly. It's a pleasant romp. GRADE: B

RAGING BULL (R) - Robert De-Niro, (Drama) This is a film by Martin Scorsese that depicts the rise and fall of prize fighter Jake LaMotta. It is powerful, but always very self-conscius of its artistry; you never for moment forget you are watching a movie (and a performance by DeNiro) that is designed to be arty. Thus, it loses its punch. It is bloody and raucous, but never for a moment real. GRADE: B

Trial Not Expected To Affect Sales Of National Enquirer

of the National Enquirer, the popular tabloid under fire in court by Carol Burnett and on television by Johnny Carson, are taking the attacks in stride and say they don't expect the furor to have any impact on sales

The officials also say they believe their weekly publication is more reliable and respectable these days.

A Los Angeles jury is expected to begin deliberations Monday after attorneys make final arguments in Miss Burnett's $10 million libel suit against the Enquirer. Both sides rested late Thursday.

The week-long Burnett trial, based on a 1976 article that said a "boisterous" Miss Burnett argued with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in a Washington, D.C., restaurant, has drawn in other celebrity comment, upseting Enquirer defense lawyers.

Carson used his "Tonight Show" forum Tuesday night to blast the Enquirer as "liars," facing his television audience with the current edition that features a cover story bearing this headline: "Johnny Carson's Third Marriage Hits the Skids.

The article quotes unidentified sources who claim that Carson and his wife, Joanna, will split soon. One typical passage reads: "The Carsons are definitely getting a divorce,' declared a friend who talks regularly with Joanna.'

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. telephoned Miss Burnett on Thursday to wish her well in the trial. Enquirer attorney William Masterson later commented: "I wish the chief executive of the state of California would keep his opinions to himself and not exercise his First Amendment rights when the case is still on trial.

Nevertheless, Enquirer officials in their southeastern Florida offices here say they don't believe the trial or the involvement of Carson and Brown will affect their sales either way

We haven't increased the press run because of the trial." a company executive said this week, explaining that recent bigger runs were ordered to accommodate expected demand in response to regional TV advertising campaigns.

The executive asked that his name not be used because of the continuing Bur-

Haydon Cameron, the Enquirer's senior staff editor, said the tabloid takes pains to be accurate, using a team of legal researchers who review the copy to check for accuracy and potentially libelous statements

When we make a mistake, we make it before our 20 million readers. We have to try very hard not to make a mistake because we're totally naked in the public eve." Cameron said in an interview before the Burnett trial began.

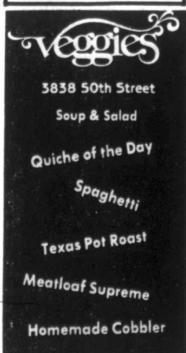

More than half the Enquirer's news tips, which Cameron said come from such sources as journalists, officials, servants and waiters, are tossed out be-

Besides the Burnett suit, the Enquirer faces $65 million worth of other libel suits. But editors insist tabloid is not the wild "screamer" it is often reputed to

"We are an escapists' newspaper, Cameron said. "We look for inspirational stories because one of our beliefs is that people are blitzed out by daily newspa-

"All they get is Iran, Afghanistan, the MGM fire ... last night's rapes and murders and deaths. At some point, you just don't want to read that stuff any more.

Typical Enquirer buyers, according to company research, are people between the ages of 18 and 49 with at least high school education who earn more than $20,000 annually. Women account for 54 percent of sales.

Since the mid-1970s, The Enquirer has developed a new "formula" that steers away from the psychic predictions and men from Mars.

In an average week, Cameron said, about 30 percent of the Enquirer is reserved for coverage of Hollywood and international celebrities. Other reports involve medical breakthroughs, suggestions for self-improvement or features about people overcoming odds.

${\bf `Captain \, Kangaroo' \, Cut \, For \, News \, Show}$ NEW YORK (AP) — "Captain Kan- both the depth of our news stories and garoo," network TV's longest-running children's program, will be cut from an hour to 30 minutes this fall to make room for an expanded "Morning" news program, CBS said Friday. 'Captain Kangaroo," now broadcast

8-9 a.m. EST, will move to 6 a.m. as part of the morning shakeup, CBS said.

In addition, the network said CBS News will produce a new afternoon series dealing with issues affecting the contemporary family that will include reports by Bob Keeshan, who has been 'Captain Kangaroo'' in the series he created and brought to CBS Oct. 3, 1955.

The changes to take effect Monday, Sept. 28, mean that "Captain Kangaroo" will be seen from 7 to 7:30 a.m. and 'Morning with Charles Kuralt" from 7:30 to 9 a.m.

The new series will be broadcast from 4 to 4:30 p.m. Kuralt now is seen from 7 a.m. to 8 a.m., followed by "Captain Kangaroo" from 8 a.m. to 9. Expanding the morning news show 'will allow us to remain a hard-news broadcast, but at the same time expand add new feature material and guest segments on subjects ranging from life styles to the arts to consumer reports," William Leonard, CBS News' president, said in a statement

CBS has maintained the hard-news approach for the "Morning" program, despite the relative success in the ratings of "Today" on NBC and ABC's "Good Morning America," both of which offer a combination of news and entertainment.

The new afternoon series, as yet untitled, "will use interesting stories produced in the field and lively discussion in the studio in a combination currently not available on daytime television," Leonard said. Keeshan said that "Captain Kanga-

Salinas Proposes 'Clean-Up Bill'

A-J Austin Bureau AUSTIN - Lubbock Rep. Froy Salinas has proposed legislation designed to clarify procedures for filing petitions requesting submissions of measures in a home-rule city.

Salinas described his House Bill 1429 as "more or less a clean-up bill." Clarifying the law governing the collection of signatures, submission of the petition and its validation, will "make it easier for both sides," Salinas explained.

The bill was proposed by the city secretary's office in Lubbock.

It would not apply to a local option election under the Alcoholic Beverage Code or to a petition authorized by a home-rule cith charter. The bill includes these provisions, Salinas said, to avoid conflicts with the code or a city charter.

The bill is awaiting action by the House Committee on Elections.

COTTON SHIPPERS SHOULD CONSIDER non-transportation costs before choosing between rail and truck movement, James Caron, agricultural economist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's office of transportation, told

They also should take a closer took at rail contracting, he said. Caron presented a quick overview of a six-month baled cotton transportation study to the TCA's committee on transportation and ocean freight. Andy Jordan, manager of marketing and processing technology with the National Cotton Council, said the NCC had requested the study because of anticipated changes in regulation and deregulation of transportation. Both the Staggers Rail Act and the Motor Carrier Act were passed in 1980 and Jordan said cotton shippers believe they don't now have the rate stability

One recommendation of the study was that, with high interest rates, cotton shippers should give more consideration to costs other than shipping rates.

SHIPPERS SHOULD CONSIDER CARRYING charges, the number of days involved in waiting for equipment to arrive, the time for loading and unloading and the actual time it takes to move the cotton, Caron said.

Administrative and marketing costs and expected loss of cotton because of damage also should be considered when deciding which is the best transportation mode, he said, adding that such costs increase the effective rates paid by shippers.

Caron said shippers also should look at railroad contracting, now that legislation for such contracts has been provided.

Contracts already filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission range from six months to 20 years, he said, although no cotton shippers have yet signed contracts.

Some shippers have agreed to increased rates, he said, in exchange for such provisions as guaranteed availability of rail cars. Appropriate penalties also may be included in the contract, he said.

WEST GERMAN ECONOMICS AFFAIRS MINISTER Otto Lambsdorff warned this week that if the United States sets an import quota on Japanese autos it will set off an international trade war.

Speaking to reporters in Washington, Lambsdorff said any agreement that sets a specific limit on auto imports is "not acceptable" to Germany and would lead to a whole series of protectionist moves by Europeans.

Almost immediately, he warned, Europeans would establish barriers on the importation of certain goods from the United States. This pattern would spread, he said

"If the United States signs an agreement with the Japanese, it would change the rules of the game," he said.

A presidential task force reportedly is considering recommending to President Reagan that he negotiate voluntary trade curbs from the Japanese to prevent congressional efforts to impose mandatory quotas.

COTTON FUTURES RECOVERED FROM EARLY losses Friday and soared the 200-point limit in spot May but backtracked to close an active session with a pared gain of 165 points in the front contract month at 88.05 cents.

Near July ended up 128 points at 88.85 cents and deferreds rose an average of 25 points, with December up 27 points at 82.65 cents. Volume was estimated

Floor sources said the rally was sparked in sympathy with strong precious metals and fueled by locals, whose buying triggered a series of commission house upside stops beginning at 86.90 cents in May.

The market fell off the highs on selling by a large Chicago-based commission house, which prompted locals to take profits on their long positions, market

Earlier, prices had lost as much as 87 points on local and commission house

GINNINGS OF 1980-CROP COTTON prior to March 1 totaled 10,772,266 running bales of upland and 101,976 bales of American Pima, the U.S. Census

A year earlier, ginnings from the 1979 crop were 14,165,664 bales of upland and 96,258 bales of Pima, the bureau said. Analysts said the total of 10,824,242 running bales of 1980-crop cotton translates to 11,115,225 480-pound bales and "should have no effect on the market." Open interest at the close Thursday totaled 30,217 contracts, off 1,458 on the day and off 3,104 on the week. There were 10,439 contracts open in spot May, off 1,535 on the day and off 3,178 on the week.

Market sources said traders during the week appeared to be liquidating May positions before first notice day on April 24. They also noted that some had been undoing spreads between May and later months.

THE MAY-DECEMBER STRADDLE TRADED Friday at 380-520 points, analysts said, and the settlement difference on the board at a 540-point premium on May widened from 399 points a week ago.

On the week, spot May gained 90 points, July advanced 115 points, October lost 16 points, and December dropped 51 points.

May ended at 330 points under the Liverpool "A" Index, compared with 440 points last week. The "A" Index at 91.35 cents was off 20 points on the week.

The nine-market average spot price on the base quality closed at 82.26 cents, up 92 points on the week. The nine-market average basis was 579 points off May, compared with 581 points a week ago.

A major mill was reported to be contemplating buying some of the certificated stocks taken on the expired March contract but there was no confirmation that a deal had been consummated.

IRAN HAS BEEN ACTIVELY BUYING TEXTILE goods from Japan as well as from other sources in Asia to cover tight domestic supplies because of the Gulf war, it was reported this week.

Japanese traders so far are said to have contracted to export 55 million square meters of cotton fabric and synthetic textiles to Iran for April-August shipment. Export dealings reportedly started late in January when Japan lifted economic sanctions against Iran following the release of U. S. hostages.

Iran also is reported buying about 25 million square meters from China, 30 million from Pakistan and 15 million from South Korea and elsewhere. Demand for textiles in Iran is estimated at about 600 million square meters but domestic production is believed to have declined to about 300 million, or about

Trading on Telcot, which quickened when futures ran up, totaled 7,400 bales on an average price of 66.04 cents, an average of 2,772 points over the loan, with a market difference of plus 75 points. Volume for the week was 15,747 bales, down from 33,032 last week

CHICAGO (AP) - Grain and soybean futures prices closed sharply lower Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade, and analysts attributed the declines to a U.S. Agriculture Department report on farmers' spring planting intentions.

Only oat prices were slightly higher The USDA said Thursday that farmers plan to plant slightly less acreage to soybeans this year than they did last year. But the figure was higher than market analysts had expected and caused selling today, with prices losing as much as 16 cents a bushel.

Despite USDA estimates that less acreage will be sown to corn and decrease corn production, prices fell as much as 63/4 cents a bushel. Poor export figures were said to pull corn prices low-

We still have a drought," one source on the trading floor said, noting that planting intentions could change because the USDA survey was taken too early for farmers to fully consider spring weather conditions. "If we get a lot of rain, then they are going to plow more corn and if we don't get a lot of rain they are going to plow beans

At the close, wheat was 512 cents to 1212 cents lower, the contract for delivery in March was $4.1412 a bushel: corn was 312 cents to 634 cents lower. March $3.5112 a bushel; oats were 14 cent to 214 cents higher. March $2.30 a bushel; soybeans were 91/2 cents to 16 cents lower. March $7,40 a bushel.

Cattle Futures Close Lower

By Reuters

CHICAGO - Cattle futures closed 55 to 150 points lower with distant April at the limit loss Friday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. All months posted new season's lows. Volume totaled 21,202

Futures recovered from the day's lows on evening up ahead of the pork reports and profit taking but ran into fresh selling. Traders cited weak cash beef and plentiful supplies of red meat including boxed beef. Sources also noted expecta tions that cash beef would ease further next week

Wholesale beef was unchanged to off 1 at 91 to 93 cents a pound, f.o.b. river points. Cash cattle were steady to off 50 cents with the best top $60.50 per hundredweight at at Illinois Direct. Slaughter totaled 120,000 head. About 15,200 head are expected on Monday at the maior terminals.

Feeder cattle futures closed 115 to 150 lower with expired March through May and October down the daily limit. All months fell to new season's lows. Sales totaled 4,296 lots.

Futures recovered slightly from the day's lows after March expired on light profit taking and evening up ahead of the pork reports but follow through was lack ing. Sources noted relationship to fat cattle which is cutting the demand for feeders. Weakness in cash beef and heavy stocks of boxed beef continue to weigh on the market.

There have been 171 deliveries thus far. Receipts at the major terminals are expected to total 500 head.

Hog futures closed 25 to 150 lower with distant February down the daily limit. December and distant June fell to new season's lows. Sales totaled 9,658

After paring early losses, prices slumped in thin mostly local trade. Outset selling stemmed from expectations of a bearish pig crop report and renewed weakness in the pork complex. Heavy slaughter and plentiful supplies of pork were also noted. Live markets were mixed to lower after falling to the lowest since June Thursday.

Wholesale hams were unchanged to off 4 at 61 to 68 asked cents a pound, f.o.b. river. Cash hogs were off 75 to up 25 cents with the best top $40.75 per hundredweight, Kill totaled 349,000. The major markets are expecting about 29.500 head on Monday

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reported hogs and pigs on farms on March 1 in 14 states totaled 50,105,000, 9 percent less than a year earlier. The number kept for breeding was 7,219,000. 11 percent less than a year ago and the number for market was 42,886,000, 8 percent less than a year ago.

Frozen pork bellies totaled 94.654.000 versus a revised 90.646,000 a month ago and 67,890,000 a year earlier.

Chicago Mercantile Exchange floor traders immediate comments on the pig crop report were bullish. All hogs, hogs kept for breeding and market hogs were all below early guesses. Traders felt futures could open limit up on Monday.

Floor traders initial comments on frozen pork bellies were neutral.

Pork belly (bacon) futures closed 195 to 200 lower with all contracts except spot March down the daily limit with sellers over. Sales totaled 5,651 cars.

Futures ran into renewed selling following further declines in cash product at noon. Heavy slaughter and storage stocks also weighed on prices. Initial losses reflected expectations of a bearish pig crop report. Evening up ahead of the pig crop and cold storage reports made for uneven trade at times.

Deliveries total 679 thus far. Wholesale bacon was unchanged to off 2 at 34 to 36 cents a pound, f.o.b. river.

Wildcat Strikes Close Mines In Six States

National Walkout Considered Certain

By The Associated Press

More than 12,000 coal miners ignored the pleas of United Mine Workers leaders and stayed off the job Friday, as wildcat strikes idled mines in at least six states in anticipation of a nationwide strike next week

"Once the talks broke down in Washington everybody just walked off the job," said Earl Ellis, a miner in Boone County, W.Va. "They said they weren't coming back until August.

Although only 50 miners stayed away from work in Virginia, state police said they were boosting the number of troopers in the coalfields.

'We're going to see that things are peaceful," said Capt. W.S. Hucklin, who declined to be specific about the number of troopers involved. "You don't know what's going to happen. You never know. We hope it will be peaceful."

strike, now considered a virtual certainty. The 160,000-member UMW mines about one-half of the nation's coal.

In West Virginia, Gov. Jay Rockefeller estimated Friday that a strike would cost the state $10 million a month in tax revenues, with a far greater effect on the overall economy

West Virginia does not want a strike," Rockefeller said. "West Virginia does not need a strike.

Norfolk & Western Railway, a major Appalachian coal hauler, announced it would lay off 1,527 workers when the UMW's contract expires next Friday. The local's 2,300 members defied Barron's back-to-work order Friday and continued their protest over the suspension of six workers at U.S. Steel's Cumberland mine in Greene > Talks Collapse The wildcat strikes began after collapse of contract talks Tuesday in Washington and continued despite pleas from some union officials for workers to return to the mines.

UMW President Sam Church said at a Washington news conference Friday that he had failed in his attempt to revive contract talks with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, the industry's pargaining agent.

Church warned the impending strike could be a long one, appealed to the coal operators to return to the bargaining table and said he would continue efforts aimed at a resumption of the talks.

Demands Cited But B.R. Brown, chairman of the BOAC negotiating committee, said the industry would resume negotiations only when the UMW indicates its willingness to modify its demands.

Church urged the union's 160,000 members to stay on the job until March 27 and "make and save every dime they can" against the possibility of an even longer mine shutdown than the 111-day

Church said he was unable to persuade the industry's bargaining team to return to Washington for resumption of negotiations that collapsed early Tuesday. But he said "I will call them every single day" until that is accomplished.

10 Days For Vote Even if an agreement were reached before the current contract expires March 27. UMW procedures for ratification by the rank-and-file require 10 days. The UMW has a strong no-contract, no-

The most extensive wildcat strikes Friday were in Pennsylvania, where an estimated 6.000 miners were off the job. Some 2,000 were reported out in West Virginia, 2.300 in Alabama, 1.100 in Kentucky and 550 in Illinois. Most were were apparently protesting the stalled contract

Most of Virginia's miners were back at work Friday, and in Ohio, all UMW members were apparently at work, said UMW District 6 President Ed Bell

"I don't know of any strikes." Bell said. "We got everybody working today.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) At least 2,000 soldiers backed by heliern province of Cabanas in an effort to force them into a wall of waiting infantrymen, a top-ranking military source

The source, who asked not to be identified, said the counter-insurgency operation, apparently the largest to date, was designed to chase the guerrillas through the mountainous areas of Cabanas toward stationary armed forces in the province of Chalatenango. There was no way to independently confirm Alvarado Saravia's story. Both Nicaraguan and Cuban authorities have denied knowledge of help given to the Salvadoran guerrillas. Nicaraguan officials say they are not aware of any weapons shipments through their country.

Youth Fatally Stabbed; Teen Held In Probe

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Police late Friday were piecing together witness information in an attempt to discover a motive for the fatal stabbing of 15-year-old William Chappa Willie" Farias earlier in the evening.

Late Friday, a 16-year-old Lubbockite was being detained by police department venile division officers in connection with the stabbing of Farias, who died about 9 p.m. shortly after arrival at Lubbock General Hospital.

Found In Back Yard

Police discovered Farias, a single deep stab wound in the middle of his chest, about 8:50 p.m. lying in the small fenced-in back yard of a 6506 Ave. Q apartment.

Emergency Medical Services paramedics worked on the unconscious Farias at the scene, but attempts to revive him failed. EMS personnel said the youth was in full cardiac arrest before they reached Lubbock General. Additional medical attention at the hospital's emergency room also proved unavailing. and Farias was pronounced dead by doctors there

Ruled Homicide

Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy ruled Farias's death a homicide, the city's seventh of the year.

The young suspect was taken into custody at a 62nd Street residence about 30 minutes after the stabbing, when a police dispatcher reported a man had called the department and said his brother had just returned home and might have information on a stabbing.

Several of approximately 15 other juveniles who were at a party at the Avenue Q apartment also were being questioned late Friday. However, police said most of the young people were too upset to provide coherent information.

Knife Found Nearby

Police said Farias apparently was stabbed in the back yard area. He was found in the apartment's small yard, his head resting against the fence. Blood was found on a nearby sidewalk and on a light pole about five feet away, officers

A knife with a five-inch folding blade also was found in the yard, police said, but investigators were unsure late Friday whether it was the weapon with which Farias was stabbed.

Three Men Charged In Friday Robbery

Three men who allegedly robbed and beat a motorist early Friday following an exchange of obscene gestures have been charged with one count each of robbery.

Randy Dewayne Seale, 21, Armulfo Aubie Davila, 18, and Santiago Rodriguez. 19. were arrested a short time after the 1:50 a.m. incident after a Lubbock police officer saw the trio drive away from a local restaurant. They allegedly attacked and robbed Bobby Ivan Mears, 30. of 3302 Itasca St. at 38th Street and Avenue S

Mears, who suffered multiple injuries but refused medical treatment at the scene, said he was robbed of about $188 in property, including a watch, wallet, leather vest, belt and key rings.

Mears told police the suspects pulled to his vehicle at Fourth Stre enue Q and made an obscene gesture. Reports state the men began following the victim after Mears returned the sig-

Investigations Begin Into Space Shuttle Death

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Government and industry boards began investigations Friday into the death of a technician working on the space shuttle Columbia. Officials said the inquiries could take "weeks or months" but would not delay the maiden voyage in April.

Another technician remained hospitalized in critical condition, suffering from brain and lung swelling. In all, five workers were injured.

Officials from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and Rockwell International Co., the primary contractor, convened boards of inquiry to look into Thursday's accident, which followed a dress-rehearsal for the launch.

After an "all clear" was sounded, five technicians went into a engine compartment that had been filled with nitrogen to reduce fire danger. Officials said the 15-square-foot compartment should not still have contained nitrogen when the "all clear" was sounded.

One technician died, two were hospitalized and two others were treated and released. A security guard who tried to help the men was also treated and released. On Friday, the technicians who had been treated and released complained of fatigue and were sent home to

"The boards of investigation are meeting today to look at procedures and that kind of thing," Kennedy Space Center spokesman Mark Hess said Friday.

Officials said they have not determined why the "all clear" was given.

Childress Possibly Setting National Records

A-J Correspondent
CHILDRESS — Figures released by Mayor Walter Lockhoof indicate Childress may be setting national records for a city its Lockhoof said a recently completed a detailed account of the community's growth and federally funded projects over the past four years reveals several areas indicating rapid progress here.

"Childress is the only town in West Texas without oil or gas wells and under 10,000 in population that showed an increase in population during the past 10 years," Lockhoof said. Census figures put the city's size at about 5,800 residents, up more than 300 from 10 years ago. Lockhoof also reviewed a list of government grants totaling almost $3 million in funding for Childress during the past four years, with at least another $1.2 million slated to come in over

These federal grants have made a long list of desired and needed improvements reality in Childress, without costing the residents one penny," Lockhoof said. He attributed the grants directly to the efforts of a city counREGIONAL cil, which includes J.B. Holland, Bill Brown, Larry Moore, Charles Rogers and Pat Steed. "Without the progressive city council we have, the grants would not have been possible,' Lockhoof said.

Grants received during the past four years include HUD payments including $250,000 for water and sewer improvements; a $600,000 grant/loan to assist with rebuilding of Lancer Homes; more than $546,000 for remodeling of federal housing and another $800,000 for construction of new homes for persons qualifying for federal housing; and $357,000 to construct an underpass within the city limits.

'The Lancer loan/grant created 80 new jobs and saved 275 others and the underpass project will mean 104 new jobs in the assistance to make the grant possible," Lockhoof said.

The Lancer funding is to be paid back over a period of 20 years to the City of Childress and both the principal and the interest go to the city in the form of a grant for industry-related improvements. That sum will total $1.2 million.

The list of grants continues with H&HR funds amounting to more than $85,000 for the Childress Senior Citizens Center; FAA funding of $65,000 and a TAC grant of $6,000 for runway lighting at the city airport; a TDCA grant of $5,000 for a city employee handbook and salary schedule; FHA funding of $53,-000 for a sewer plant at the airfield; YCCIP monies amounting to $18,500 for park facilities on South Main Street; TDHT funding of $100,000 for paving; and a $10,000 TDPW grant for boat ramp improvements at the lake.

Lockhoof noted improvements in recent years included complete renovation of the city's trash collection system, trimming the sanitation department's payroll from nine men to only two and eliminating one of three trucks. The containerized trash system now in operation saves the city more than $6,000 per month he added

Also, extensive work has been done on sewer and water

"Of all the recent improvements, the only one that cost the taxpayers any money was street paving and then it cost only those whose property bordered a paving project," Lockhoof

He expressed appreciation to Lancer Homes, Childrens County's largest industry, for its recent donation of a new lounge for pilots at the airport. The facility, which cost $22,000, was requested by the city and donated by Lancer officals early last fall before the fire which destroyed the company's mobile home factory at the airfield. Other recent improvements at the airport include new runway lighting made possible by the grants; 10 T-hangars; the new Lancer factory under construction; and a new sewer plant, also built with grant funding and completed within the past

Lockhoof also pointed to the renovation of the city's park systems, including the building of new roads and paving of existing roadways in Fair Park last year and the completion of a new filter house, filter and deck at the municipal swimming

Ex-Clown Recalls Lifetime Of Rodeo Memories

By GERRY BURTON

Avalanche-Journal Staff Fighting mad, the Brahma bull hooked the barrel upside down and stood guard, waiting for the clown who had been chased into it to come out.

Inside, the scrunched-up clown was fast running out of air, but was too sure of his fate at the mercy of rodeo's ton of fury, pawing and snorting and waiting, to crawl outside.

That's just one of the tales of clowning, trick riding and trick roping new Lubbock businessman Buddy Reger is recalling from a lifetime of rodeo action. Reger clowned at Lubbock's first ABC Rodeo in 1941 and he's now promoting its 39th editions, to run here Wednesday through next Saturday.

The newest member of the Downtown Chapter of the American Business Club has family rodeo stories dating back to 1925 and which cover four generations and touch all rodeo greats including

"It wasn't a walking barrel," he said of the barrel in which he was trapped. 'It had a bottom and I had forgotten to knock the bung out. I was getting weak from lack of air until a couple of cowboys realized what was happening and chased the bull away.

Another time, a bull hooked the barrel and carried it around the arena on its horns with Reger inside, peeking out now and then to wave at the crowd as though it was all a big game.

Witness to that happening, if memory serves Reger right, was Wilbur Plaugher, "clown prince of professional rodeo." Plaugher will be performing at this year's ABC event, a longtime stomping ground for the veteran clown.

Clowning with Plaugher was a part of the 15 years Reger spent clowning.

At times, Reger has considered quitting the clown business. The first time such thoughts occurred were after a Texas prison rodeo performance when, while playing a convict in a barrel against a bull's horns, the bull caught Reger to the tune of six broken ribs, 50 stitches and a "busted" knee.

"I didn't wake up till next morning. I slowed down then, but when I got hungry I'd go back to clowning.

Hunger had a lot to do with the family getting into rodeo in the first place. A farm which dried up during the dust bowl days of 1930 precipitated the enter-

The first family rodeo was one thrown by his grandfather, a rancher, when the railroad came to Buffalo, Okla., in 1925.

Spectacular horns developed by a steer imported from Beaumont for that rodeo launched the second generation into the business. "The farm just dried up in 1930," Re-

Woman Right In Denying Hospitality To Dad What's In Store

Dear Ann Landers: Our widowed father began to see a lovely woman 18 months ago. My hus-band and I were sure that she and Dad would be married When they came to visit during the Christmas holidays they stayed in a hotel. We assumed they had separate rooms, but when we drove them back to the hotel, Dad asked her, "Do you have the key, or did you leave it at the desk?" Reference to "the" key made it clear they were sharing the same room. We were surprised at Dad's lack of Yesterday I received a call from Dad saying he and "Thelma" would like to come for the weekend. We recently bought a larger home and have a guest room now. Dad asked if he and Thelma could stay with us. I laughed and asked. "Did you two run off and get married?" He replied, "No, but if you are THAT narrow-minded we will stay in a hotel." I said I would make the reservations.

I told my husband about the conversation, and he backed me up. We have teenage children and would be uncomfortable having Dad and Thelma here in one bedroom. I confess I feel guilty denying hospitality to my own father, who has always been wonderful to me. What is your opinion? - Perplexed In Peoria

Dear Plexed: You are not denying hospitality to your father. You are simply saying, "We do not want you under our roof, sleeping with a woman to whom you are not married." This is your right.

Continue to be friendly and cordial, however. What your father chooses to do elsewhere is not your business.

Dear Ann Landers: I have written this letter four times and never mailed it. Is seems so childish. But I am particularly bothered by my problem tonight, so I am putting this one in the mailbox - come hell or high water.

I'm not a flighty teenager. I'm a grown woman of 26. The problem: My looks. I am not overweight - in fact, I'm on the skinny side. But my hair is awful, my nose has a hump and is much too long. My eyes are too close together, and mirror because I am so ugly.

Ever since I was a small child people have made fun of me because I look like a witch. When I was 14, I went crying to my favorite teacher. (Kids can be so cruel.) She told me not to pay any attention to them because I was beautiful on the inside and that is what counts.

I have only had three dates in my entire life. None of the fellows asked me out a second time. (Apparently they weren't interested in my beautiful insides.) Am I going to be miserable all my life because I was cursed with this ugly face? Please tell me what to do. - Depressed And Lonely In Dallas

Dear Friend: If good looks were the key to happiness, all the beautiful people would be ecstatic. We know this isn't true. In fact, some of the best-looking people are the most miserable.

Your low opinion of yourself is rooted in early childhood. I recommend therapy at once. When you feel better about yourself, plastic surgery for your nose might give you a lift. A hair stylist and a makeup lesson or two could do wonders to raise your morale. When you develop a measure of self-esteem, you will be able to reach out to others and they will respond. Your whole world will change, and you'll wonder why you didn't do it sooner. Good luck.

Confused about what's right and what's wrong in today's "new morality"? You're not alone. If you want honest, down-to-earth information on your sex questions, read Ann Landers' new booklet, "High School Sex and How to Deal With It - A Guide for Teens and Their Parents." causes condensation, which shows itself in the form of sweating windows and cold water pipes. The sweating (sometimes it freezes) takes place as warm, Relative humidity is the ratio of the amount of water vapor in the air to the total amount of water vapor the air can hold at a certain temperature. When the relative humidity is 80 percent while the temperature is 70 degrees Fahrenheit, the air contains 80 percent of the amount of water vapor that can possibly be held at that temperature. Obviously, if the temperature were 60 degrees or 80 degrees, the relative humidity would be different, since air at those temperatures can hold different amounts of water vapor from air at 70 degrees.

Two houses alongside each other can have widely varying relative humidities, because many factors affect the situation, some of which are the number of persons in each house, how much moisture their living habits generate and the so-called tightness of the structures.

The subject of high humidity is far more complex than that, with entire books being written on it. But you can go a long way towards solving the problem of condensation if you remember that it generally is caused because there is too much warm moisture in the house that cannot escape and is settling on cold surfaces. Hence, the formation of condensation on cold window panes. You must find a way to permit the moisture to get out of the house, either by the use of fans, vents, etc., or by trapping the moisture in a dehumidifier

Too much relative humidity and the resulting condensation foster mildew. The telltale signs are sweating windows. walls, cold-water pipes and toilet tanks.

HINTS FROM HELOISE:

Wood Furniture Needs Good Cleaning

Here's a question I get very often from you readers and, besides, it's a problem we all have from time to time cause we all have furniture in our

That stuff gets more and more expensive every day, especially wood furniture. And there's nothing prettier than a fine piece of wood furniture with a high gloss

Nothing's more detracting to our homes either than a fingerprint-covered piece of wood that's so dull and drab that no amount of polishing will bring out the shine.

That's because you've created wax buildup over the months with your weekly dusting that includes spraying or smearing on a wax coating.

According to furniture manufacturers, even the finest of wood furnishings can be washed with mild soap and water, if not done in excess.

But a good cleaning formula is one teaspoon of olive oil and one teaspoon of turpentine in a quart of warm water. Wet a clean, soft cloth in the forrmula and wring it out thoroughly. Rub down the furniture, then dry with a clean, dry cloth. Now you're ready to wax.

A good polishing wax formula is one third cup EACH of boiled linseed oil, turpentine and vinegar. You can't boil the linseed oil yourself, as it isn't the same.

You'll have to buy it already boiled at a paint or hardware store.

But, luvs, over-waxing of fine furni-ture should be avoided. Waxing once or twice a year is plenty enuff. Also, use this on natural woods only, not laminated or plastic-coated furniture.

Take good care of that expensive furniture and your great-grandchildren can enjoy it someday too. - Heloise

Properly-Used Crutches Don't Cause Pain

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a first year aches and pains. I started tossing darts skiier and got a leg injury. That's not my problem, really. What's bothering me are the crutches. My armpits are getting sore. I suppose I am not using them correctly. Any tips? - Miss E.D.

Crutches properly used should not do this. Were the crutches fitted for you? Here are the general rules:

- The armpit braces should be two to three inches below the armpits as you stand.

- The handgrasp bar in the middle of the crutch should be adjusted so that your elbow bends at about a 20-degree angle when you grasp it.

— The weight of the body should be borne mostly by the hands at the center

If you are letting most of the weight of your body hang from the armpit brace you are putting too much pressure there. This can damage nerves and blood vessels passing through the area. You need to have your crutches looked at to be sure of proper fit.

Too, there are special ways to use crutches, depending on whether weight has to be removed from an injured limb totally or only in part. You can learn this in a few minutes from a therapist

Dear Dr. Donohue: I got tremendous pain in the back of my thigh while jogging the other day. I don't have a clue as to why it happened, or what I did. There was a little swelling there. My leg still hurts. What happened? - S.J.

You very likely tore your hamstring muscle. The hamstring is the muscle on the back of your thigh. When your foot strikes the ground, the hamstring contracts. The more powerful muscle on the front of the thigh (the quadriceps) must relax as the hamstring contracts. If it does not, the hamstring contracts with greater force and is likely to tear. That is a muscle strain

If this happens again, ice the area immediately. Then the muscle area should be snugly wrapped to prevent swelling. but not so tight as to cut off circulation You should not attempt to resume full use of the damaged muscle until you can bend your leg without pain. A whirlpool will ease pain and promote healing.

When you resume jogging, pad and strap your hamstring muscle area for the first few weeks. Muscle tearing can be serious. Since I don't know how long you have had your pain or how severe the damage was I advise you to see a doctor

Dear Dr. Donohue. I can't believe this, but I have dart-thrower's elbow. After carefully avoiding all forms of athletic activity all my life, I hit on darts. I used to laugh at some friends who were heavily into this and who complained of and got hooked. Now my elbow is killing me and I'm not laughing anymore. If you can control your belly laughs long enough to help, I'd sure apprecate it. -

Who's laughing? There is a bursa over the bone at the back of the elbow. A bursa is a little bag filled with a small amount of fluid. It allows tendons and bones to come in contact without painful friction. Dart-thrower's elbow is inflammation of that bursa. You may notice some redness and swelling there. Sometimes the forearm muscles are sore, too. Bending the elbow is painful.

Give up the darts and rest your arm. When you start throwing again, ice your elbow for 15 minutes three or four times a day for the first couple of days. Then you can alternate with warm soaks. If you can tolerate aspirin, use that until any inflammation subsides. Of course, if your pain doesn't go away you should have your elbow looked at. You may have to take up tiddly-winks.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My girlfriend wants me to join an aerobic dance class. What is that? - B.D.

Aerobic dancing is just another form of exercise to put healthy stress on the

The crane was moved to the Avenue H side of Lubbock National Bank Tuesday, but the Hub City was sandblasted by the season's first dust storm (or "dusticane," if you will). Bus signs were erected and the southeast curb was painted, but the giant trash can and street barricades remained.

Then came "Return of the Crane" Thursday, at which time Dale Trumble said the roofers needed to remove more of the old roof. "They should be through tomorrow (today), but we've heard that before," he ventured.

The latest word, from assistant federal building manager Harold Kinney, is that the roofing contractor will be finished with the crane by Wednesday at the

In the meantime, while Citibus riders are "craning" their necks, transit officials maintain the mechanical monster is a benevolent one. Transit Coordinator John Wilson pointed out the system worked fine before with only two corners at Broadway and K, which he has recommended be designated the permanent transfer point.

"There haven't been any major problems to my knowledge," Wilson said. The buses are having to use more fuel without making more pickups, but it's mainly just an inconvenience.

"We don't like to do it," he added, "but what can you say?"

Well, perhaps Citibus should consider changing its slogan from "I ride Citibus, man" to "Crane, crane, go away/Come "C again some other day."

Wolfgang Sussin, a deputy leader of the International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis, reported on the study Friday in a speech at a regional seminar held by The Conference Board in connection with American Energy Week.

The report, which Sussin said was compiled by 140 scientists from 20 countries, forecast energy independence for the United States in 50 years if a rapid switch is made to coal and synthetic fuels derived from coal.

The institute is based in Austria and describes itself as a "non-governmental, multi-disciplinary research institution."
It was founded in 1972 by academies of science of 12 nations.

Among other predictions, the study

•Nuclear energy will grow to fill gaps in energy supplies of developed nations. The study said nuclear sources would supply 29 percent of the world's energy in 2030.

 Solar and other renewable energy sources will grow in importance, but not represent a major energy source.

The study also predicted increased energy conservation, particularly in industrial nations. Even so, the study projected energy consumption would be at least double 1975 levels in 2030.

Exxon Will Not Market Device

Side.

NEW YORK (AP) - Exxon Corp., which announced almost two years ago it had developed an energy-saving device that could save the equivalent of a million barrels of oil a day by 1990, said Friday it will not market the device.

Exxon said the device, which was to save energy by controlling the speed of electric motors, "could not be costcompetitive with alternate products under foreseeable con-

The Exxon statement, in a brief news release, was in sharp contrast to the ebullient announcement made by Exxon in May 1979, when it said the new technology offered promises of great energy savings.

That announcement was made at the same time Exxon announced plans to acquire Reliance Electric Co., a major manufacturer of electric motors and generators, for $1.17 billion. Despite Federal Trade Commission objections, the merger was completed.

Exxon doesn't have the manufacturing and marketing expertise to acheive rapid commercialization" of the device. Exxon Chairman Clifton C. Garvin Jr. said then. He said that was why Exxon decided to buy Reliance.

"We are dealing with a technology that we are convinced will result in a significant saving," Joseph Graves, a top Exxon official, added. Reductions of as much as 50 percent in the energy needed to run electic motors had been achieved, the company said.

At the time, some in the industry said the Exxon technology was not as innovative as the company claimed. Other companies are selling similar products now, although they have not made such large claims about energy savings.

The basic idea of the technology - called "alternating current sythesis" by Exxon - was to control the speed of electric motors. Those motors generally run at full speed even when all that speed is not needed.

Exxon said its device would cut the amount of electricity used by he motors by cutting the speed without causing loss of energy through heat, a problem that has plagued other But Exxon said Friday that its engineers had "concluded that large-scale production of product lines with the necessary level of reliability" could not be obtained at competitive costs. The company added that it is studying "alternative circuitry," but gave no details.

Test-Taking Skills Help Conquer Exams

By the Editors of Psychology Today

Meditation and relaxation techniques are in vogue for combatting many problems, including test anxiety - the jitters many people have when taking exams. But a recent evaluation shows that students may do better on exams simply by mastering general test-taking strategies.

At the University of Southern Mississippi, groups of 15 students who had high scores on a questionnaire that measures test anxiety were trained in four different ways. Students in one group learned meditation. In a second group, students practiced a technique for deep muscle relaxation.

A third group learned test-taking strategies such as concentrating on only one item at a time and marking harder items to return to later. In addition, they preticed giving "self-instructions," which other research has shown are used by effective test takers.

The self-instructions included telling themselves things like "I have plenty of time - read the question carefully," "I will perform well on this test because I am well prepared" and, to help control distractions, "I will think about that later - now back to the test."

Each group had five 90-minute training sessions, including an explanation for the treatment, practice in the techniques and a chance to use them on two standard tests that require people to unscramble 10 anagrams.

A fourth group received no treatment or instruction and simply practiced taking two anagram tests.

Later, on a final 10-item anagram test, the students who learned test-taking skills solved significantly more problems than did the students in the other three groups. They reported that they thought less often during the test about their level of ability, about how hard each item was and about how poorly they

When the researchers compared the cumulative gradepoint averages of the various groups for the term before the experiment with their grades for the term in which the experiment took place, the students who had learned the test-taking skills showed the most improvement.

The researchers note that "it may be time to give the phrase 'test anxiety' a respectful burial." Instead, says Karl Kirland and James Hollandsworth, counseling psychologists at the university, people should "talk about inadequate test performance in terms that more accurately describe what it is, namely, ineffec-

If we continue to treat test anxiety as an anxiety-based disorder rather than a skills deficit," the researchers warn, "we may actually be reducing the excitement that could be helpful when taking an exam.

On a related topic, an industrial psychologist at the American Telephone and Telegraph Company recently took her fellow psychologists to task for spending too much time trying to reduce employees' fear of their bosses.

Mary L. Tenopyr was quick to say that she was advocating "neither authoritarian concepts of management nor the excessive use of fear to affect

"However," she argued, "we must recognize that fear is a normal human phenomenon, a necessary by-product of any power structure, and probably essential to the proper functioning of any hierarchal organization.

Suspected Getaway Driver Faces Charges

The alleged driver of the get-away car involved in an eight-month-old convenience store robbery has been arrested and charged, several months after one woman has already been convicted for participation in the crime.

Laverne Davis, 29, of 2905 Ave. H was in Lubbock County Jail Friday on a charge of aggravated robbery. The criminal district attorney's office has recommended her bond be set at $25,000.

Barbara Ann Borgers, 19, was convicted of aggravated robbery Dec. 9 in the Aug. 7 hold-up of a Preston Milk Store at 1101 34th St. She was accused of threatening clerk Lanora Jo Baker with a butcher knife, and Crime Eye camera photographs taken during the robbery were used during the trial.

Miss Borgers received a 15-year prison sentence after Mrs. Baker told a 72nd District Court jury that she had struggled with the bandit and that her hands were cut during the struggle. Both cash registers were emptied, and the bandit escaped with about $96.

Sheriff's Capt. Dean Bohannon rereived a statement Tuesday that Miss Borgers had not committed the robbery

Keesee Submits Request For Larger Jail Staff

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS Avalanche-Journal Staff

Sheriff D.L. "Sonny" Keesee says it may be necessary to hire more staff to adequately man Lubbock County's new $4.8 million jail.

His major objective, Keesee said, is to meet the minimum state standards established by the Texas Commission on Jail Standards. But meeting those regulations may not be possible with the number of personnel currently authorized for the jail, he said

The sheriff plans to meet Monday with the county commissioners court to discuss his manpower management plans for the jail. And he probably will ask commissioners at that time to increase the jail staff.

Commissioners already have authorized a staff of 50 for the new detention facility. Salaries for the jail personnel will cost the county around $681,000 this year.

Keesee said he is reluctant to ask commissioners to hike the jail staff because it will cost taxpayers more money. To ask taxpayers to put more money into the jail division rubs against every fiber in my body," he commented.

But the sheriff said an increase probably cannot be avoided. "It's something that has been forced on us by the federal courts and state jail standards," he said.

One of his main concerns, according to the sheriff, is to be sure there will be enough personnel working in the new jail's booking and holding areas. In the old jail, he said, at least 70 percent of the facility's business occurs in those areas.

The holding area has the capacity to house 65 prisoners on a temporary basis, Keesee said. Under state standards, he said, there must be one correctional officer per 45 inmates. When the holding area is full, there will have to be two jailers assigned there around the clock.

Keesee said he is not sure whether personnel working in booking, the property room or other assignments could double as correctional officers at times when the holding area is full.

The sheriff said he is not sure yet how many additional staff members would be necessary at the jail. But Keesee said the staffing figures developed by his staff do not match the figures established in an earlier jail management plan.

There are indications, however, that Keesee is considering a request for a major increase in the number of jail em-

Commissioners Alton Brazell and Cov Biggs met Thursday with Keesee, jail administrator D.L. Young and Don Stapleton, chief administrator for the sheriff's department. The topic of that session was the sheriff's management plan for the new jail.

According to Brazell, the staffing fig-

The sheriff's request for more jail employees apparently won't have Brazell's support either.

"My initial reaction," he said, "is we're not going to be able to afford the number of people they say we need to operate the jail."

Keesee is hoping to meet sometime today with Commisioners Boyd Roberts and Franklin Dunn. Both ment supported tghe sheriff's earlier requests for staff

Locust Bean Gum May Help Lower Cholesterol Level

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Locust bean gum, an additive commonly used in ice cream, may cause dramatic reductions in blood cholesterol - and could become a weapon against heart disease, a heart researcher says.

Dr. James Zavoral said 28 patients on a diet rich in locust bean gum had their blood cholesterol levels drop by an average of 10 percent after four weeks and 20 percent after eight weeks.

Researchers believe that even a 4 percent reduction for the average person would improve chances of avoiding hardening of the arteries, said Zavoral, who presented his findings Thursday at a meeting of the American College of Cardiology.

"What we have is exciting in that it has a potential application for the general public," said Zavoral, a University of Minnesota specialist in childhood heart problems.

The only side effect found so far, he said, "was intestinal gas."

Reagan In Controversy About Want Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Secretaries Where Are You?" ask the Sunday classifieds, and Ronald Reagan wonders, too, why so many people are unemployed when the papers are full of help-wanted

Earlier in the week, Reagan noted to a group of congresswomen that in last Sunday's New York Times "there were 45½ pages of help-wanted ads, and in the Washington Post ... there were 33½ pages." He added that "these were jobs calling for people of every range that you

"How does a person in any one of those skills justify calling themselves unemployed, where there's a fellow spending money and saying 'I've got a job, come fill my job?'" Reagan Asked.

Alan Greenspan, an economist who agrees with Reagan on most things, said he knows why so many people are out of work while so many employers are advertising for help.

The reason, said Greenspan, is that society has gone overboard in making joblessness painless.

Two other economists say Reagan is reading too much into the classifieds. Whether the economy is booming or dragging, they say, some people will be out of work and some jobs will go beg-

Most of the ads the president saw, like the one in the Post asking for secretaries, were for workers with skills that are in great demand. Others were for draftsmen, nurses, engineers, and computer programmers.

These ads seemed addressed to people already working, not to the jobless.

To lure programmers away, for example, System Automation Corp, of Silver Spring, Md. offered, as well as pay, "tuition reimbursement, profit sharing, free parking and unlimited growth potential."

These weren't jobs for those without skills or experience. The Post carried only three ads for dishwashers. Ads seeking houseworkers were outnumbered by sit-

Greenspan, a Reagan administration adviser, said the conclusion he draws from the classifieds is that unemployment compensation programs allow workers to be too choosy

The point the president was making is that there are far more unfilled jobs than there should be if everyone were willing to take jobs where were a shade under or different from their previous job or what they were looking for," Greenspan told a reporter. "We've gone too far in unemployment insurance and have gotten beyond the original con-

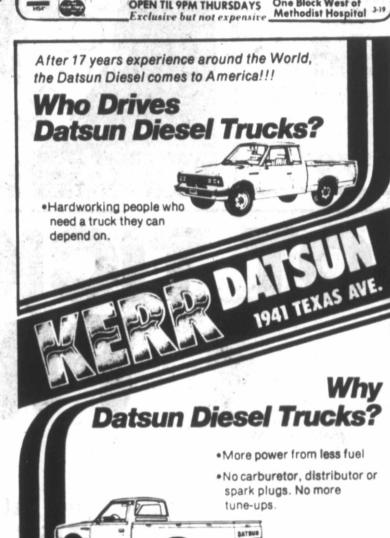

Sar Levitan, a labor economist, disagreed. He said Reagan made a mistake by assuming "that people are like interchangeable parts - anybody can fill any

'Many of the people looking for jobs are not qualified for the jobs that are advertised," Levitan said. "Even during the depth of the Depression there were job vacancies."

PARIS (AP) - The guillotine, once called the "national razor" and the official instrument of execution for an estimated 4,600 people since the French Revolution, may become an issue in President Valery Giscard d'Estaing's re-election campaign. France's highest appeals court Thursday night upheld the death penalty for Philippe Maurice, 24, who was sentenced Oct. 28 for killing a policeman in a parking lot shoot-out in Paris' Latin Quarter 15 months ago. An execution date has not been set

The ruling places the fate of the convicted killer in the hands of Giscard d'Estaing, who will be asked before the May 10 runoff election to decide whether to set aside the death sentence. Maurice's attorneys said they will file their request with the president early next week.

Although not a proponent of capital punishment, Giscard d'Estaing has said he does not think it is the appropriate time for the French Parliament to consider abolishing the death penalty and that he would honor his obligations to the end of his term

Giscard d'Estaing apparently is mindful of alienating a law-and-order majority in France. A recent poll indicated 63 percent of French citizens favor keeping the death penalty

His main presidential challenger. Socialist Party chief Francois Mitterrand. has said he is against capital punishment.

France is the only European country that still enforces the death penalty and Maurice, one of five men on death row, could become the first person to be beheaded since 1977. The other condemned are still waging court appeals of their sentences.

The presidential Elysee Palace has remained quiet about whether it would decide Maurice's appeal before the elec-

Giscard d'Estaing opposed the death penalty in his 1974 campaign and since taking office has reprieved four condemned murders and allowed three others to be executed.

Evolution Directive Issued

TOLEDO. Ohio (AP) - The Washington Local school board has voted to send teachers a directive declaring that evolution can be taught only as a theory.

The policy adopted Thursday says teachers are free to introduce students to other theories on the origin of mankind, including scientific creationism.

The policy was patterned after a re-cent California court decision on the subject, said Kenneth Bishop, school super-

"It is not enough to give teachers the freedom to teach other theories without giving them the books or training to allow them to teach those theories," said Eleanor Dougherty, a spokesman for a group that began discussing the issue with the school board more than a year

Bishop said the school board's resolution reflects a "very cautious" attitude. It was drawn from the March 6 order of a superior court judge in Sacramento, he

In that case, Judge Irving Perluss said the theory of evolution could be taught.

Angry Taxpayer Gives IRS 42,000 $1 Bills who says the Internal Revenue Service was "underhanded" in the way it assessed taxes against his farm staged a paper protest Friday - paying the $42,-000 tab in $1 bills.

"I wanted to pay in pennies, but the Federal Reserve Bank told me they didn't have enough in Oklahoma City, said David Rout of Logan County.

Local IRS officials estimated it would take three cashiers four to six hours to count the money.

Rout had two armed guards accompany him and the four large money sacks crammed with cash, then stood patiently at a cashier's window while the tedious counting went on. Rout said the IRS notified him just last week that his farm, which the IRS included as part of his father's estate, was subject to seizure if a 1973 estate tax bill

"If I had been notified in 1973, I might have paid it," he said.

He also contends the farm, given to him several years before his father's death, is not part of the estate.

"I thought what they did was underhanded, so I decided to pay in currency,

Rout said the state had tried to assess him $13,000 in estate taxes in 1976, but he appealed the ruling to the Oklahoma Tax mmission and won

IRS spokesman Bob Duerbrouck said federal regulations prevent him from commenting on Rout's tax case.

Police Try Bicycles MEDICAL LAKE, Wash. (AP) - In Medical Lake

wrongdoers should be worried about bicycles.

Police Chief Bruce Randall says officers in this resort community of about 3,500 have taken to silent 10-speed bicycles to foil vandals and thieves.

With mostly gravel streets like we have you can hear a prowl car coming several blocks away." Randall said. "An officer on a bicycle can ride right up to the scene before anyone knows the police are there."

Even the chief does his stint on "silent patrol" along with his officers. "We got a few strange stares from some residents when the police officers started riding around town on bikes, but they have been well accepted by the public, and we think the bikes will really prove useful.

The department dished out $450 for the two bikes, an amount Randall says is more than justified by savings in gas-

And if the chief has his way, traffic offenders this summer will be wary of anyone riding a bicycle - he plans to use plainclothes as well as uniformed officers on silent patrol

Special Delivery Passenger

ROCHESTER, M.Y. (AP) - A man in a hurry to catch a plane to Africa, backed his car through terminal doors at the Rochester-Monroe County Airport, wheeled past a snack bar and stopped by a baggage area, sheriff's deputies said.

Gregory Stevens, 25, of Rochester was charged with disorderly conduct and third-degree criminal trespass. He was held without ball pending arraignment after Thursday night

Nobody was in that area of the terminal at the time, and nobody was hurt.

Deputies said the only damage to the terminal, other than the doors, was tire tracks and motor oil on the floor.

"I still can't see how he fit through those doors," said Sgt. Anthony Baldassare. "It must have been a very tight

Thatcher Makes Commercial

TOKYO (AP) - Mark Thatcher eldest son of British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, arrived here for the filming of a television commercial for a brand of British Scotch whisky, a Japanese liquor importer said Friday.

Cutty Sark Scotch Whisky, Japan said Thatcher, 26, who arrived Thursday night, will appear in a 30-minute commercial for Cutty 12. It will be shown by all five Japanese commercial television networks for about six months starting in June, the company

Thatcher operates an advertising consultant firm in Australia, according to the liquor importer

Couple Wins Bridge Match

DETROIT (AP) - Robert and Helen Blakey of Columbia, Md., became the first married couple ever to win the North American Grand National Open Pairs bridge tournament, a spokesman for the sanctioning American Contract Bridge League says

The Blakeys amassed 489 points in 58 hands of bridge during Thursday's championship rounds to win the 1981 title, said Robert Bonomi, a spokesman for the league which serves as the governing body for bridge tournaments throughout the continent

Bonomi said 60,000 pairs of bridge players were entered in the Grand National Open, which began in August at various locations throughout North America. Seventy-eight pairs competed in the semifinals which began in Detroit on Wednesday, he said.

Gulls Hold To Schedule

CAPE MAY POINT, N.J. (AP) - San Juan Capistrano has its swallows and Hinckley has its turkey buzzards, but springtime in Cape May Point means the laughing gulls have come home to roost.

And, as at every vernal equinox, the laughing gulls returned to Cape May Point on Friday - right on time, sort

A few of the familiar laughing gulls, also known as larus atricilla, arrive in Cape May County before March 15, according to naturalist Peter Dunne, director of the Cape May Bird Observatory. Over the next month, more than 3,000 laughing gulls will arrive from warmer climates, usually Florida, and breed in Cape May's salt marshes, Dunne-said. The laughing gull is familiar to summertime beach-goers because of its distinctive cry.

"They generally go ca-ca-ca-ca-ca-ca-ca-ca-keoow. That's nine ca-s," he said. "It's quite not a ha-ha, but it's as close as you'll get in gulldom.

Laughing gulls have slate-black heads, thin white rings around the eyes, red bills and underparts of off-white.

Nelson Named 'Indian Of Year'

NELSON

ANADARKO, Okla. (AP) - Country music singer Willie Nelson will be the 1981 American Indian Exposition "Indian of the Year" and will lead the opening-day parade here on Aug. 24, exposition organizers say.

Nelson will be the guest of honor that night in ceremonies at the fairgrounds, but he's not expected to sing, said Myles Stephenson, exposition pres-

This year marks the 50th anniversary of the exposition, which runs through Aug. 29, Stephenson said.

Sled Dog Record Broken

NOME, Alaska (AP) — Rick Swenson of Eureka broke the Iditarod Sled Dog Race record by nearly two days Thursday as he drove a seven-dog team to an unprecedented third victory in the marathon test of mushers and their animals.

No other musher in the nine-year history of the long race over the Iditarod Trail, an old gold rush freight-and-mail route to Nome, has ever won it more than once.

Swenson's time for the 969-mile run was 12 days, 8 hours, 45 minutes and 2 seconds, almost two days better than the previous record of 14 days, 7 hours, 11 minutes and 51 seconds set by Joe May of Trapper Creek a year ago.

The 31-year-old Swenson finished with seven dogs, but started with 17. His victory this year was worth $24,000, double the first-place money in 1980.

Swenson won the Iditarod in 1977 and 1979, and came in a close second in 1978

Bluegrass Singer Recovers

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Bluegrass musician Bill Monroe, who has undergone sucessful colon surgery, will probably resume performing in late April or early May, his agent says.

Known as "the father of bluegrass music," Monroe, 69, was released from Nashville Memorial Hospital on Tuesday. His surgery was March 9.

Monroe developed bluegrass music in the late 1930s. He is a member of the Country Music Hall of Fame and a regular performer at the Grand Ole Opry

Ransom Offer For Biggs Reported

LONDON (AP) - Brazilian police said Friday they are officially investigating the disappearance of Great Train Robber Ronald Biggs and a British newspaper reported that it had received an offer to ransom the fugitive for $1.3 mil-

Biggs, 51, was sentenced to 30 years in prison for his part in the $7 million "Great Train Robbery" in 1963. Two years later he escaped to Brazil, where he could not be deported because of a legal technicality.

At first Brazilian police said they considered Biggs' disappearance on Monday a publicity stunt. But on Friday, Brazil's Federal Police said they were treating the incident as a kidnapping and were searching for four British subjects in connection with the alleged abduction

The Sun, a London tabloid, said it received the ransom offer from a London publisher acting as agent for a British-led kidnapping squad.

The newspaper said it knew the name of the agent but did not identify him. Nor did The Sun say whether it would consider paying the ransom for Biggs, who was reportedly being held aboard a yacht

The newspaper, owned by Australian publisher Rupert Murdoch, said the agent "revealed that the sole reason behind the kidnapping was to pick up a fortune from newspapers and film rights."

Witnesses at a Rio restaurant told police they saw three Anglo Saxon-looking men grab a man resembling Biggs on Monday, stuff him into a waiting van and

During his exile in Brazil, Biggs had been involved in various prome schemes related to news stories and books about his crime and his escape. A book telling Biggs' life story apparently will be published next week in Britain and other English-speaking countries.

Until last year, Biggs had the protection of a Brazilian law that prohibits the deportation of a foreigner with a dependent Brazilian child, even though the foreigner may be in this country illegally. Biggs has a 6-year-old son, Michael, who is automatically a Brazilian citizen because he was born in Rio. The Brazilian mother no longer lived with Biggs.

The law was repealed last year but no action was taken against Biggs, who was required to report to the Federal Police

Trichinosis Traced To Wildlife Feast

ATLANTA (AP) - An outbreak of trichinosis in Barrow, Alaska, has been traced to a dinner of whale blubber, seal meat, raw fish and frozen grizzly bear meat, the National Centers for Disease Control reported Friday

Eight of the 12 people who attended the dinner last December caught the parasitic disease, which causes diarrhea, nausea, muscle aches, fever and muscle swelling, the CDC said. Improperly cooked meat is generally the source of the parasite

CLOWNING AROUND — Buddy Reger, who is helping promote the 39th annual ABC Rodeo to benefit the capital improvement fund of Lubbock Boys' Clubs, was trick riding and roping and clowning at the first ABC event held here Much of the clowning involved tangling with the larger rodeo stock, such as angry bulls, but Reger found that occasionally he got a chance to deal with smaller animals, like the hungry piglet

In the 1940s, the Regers - father, son and daughters - began working for the Beutlers, who have produced ABC Rodeo for three generations.

But one of Reger's most exciting mis haps didn't come on the arena floor - it happened at a racetrack while trick rid-track before they could stop him," he said of the horse. And the stunt that almost ended Re-

ger's life as well as his riding came after he had settled into the horse sale-barn business The "good bucking horse trade" re-sulting from "snaky" horses coming through the sales turned up a horse which didn't buck with Reger's son, who had "been to Jim Shoulders' rodeo school" and tried out potential buckers. Instead, it bolted straight across the arena into the fence In an attempt to save another young rider who "froze" to the rigging on the same horse instead of bailing off. Reger slammed his horse into the runaway and had the "horse wreck" of his career against a metal fence. Slow to recover from resulting paralysis, Reger was "scared to death to get on a horse." But he forced the issue alone in a round breaking corral to best the fear Then he tackled relearning to

"I could swing a rope and rope a dummy, but when I tried cattle, my equilibriguess I can rope as good now as ever."

That "wreck" ended for all time his rodeo competition, which had included riding broncs and bulls as well as roping, bulldogging and acting as pickup man for others. He does do a little team roping

Once only what he termed a Sunday morning Christian, Reger will be among the biggest boosters at the Cowboy Camp Meeting in Lubbock Municipal Coliseum on the eve of the ABC Rodeo

And though his rodeo help next week will be behind the chutes, he will be right up front at the Cowboys for Christ meeting headed by Plaugher.

'Progressive' City Council Praised

An entire new park was constructed with federal funding at Scott Lake on the southwest side and that project provided summer jobs for 18 high school students, the mayor noted. A neighborhood park is near completion in the area of the water tower, he added, and both Kiwanis and Litle League ball fields received city renovation and new poles and lights were installed at the football field.

Recent city projects included demolition of several condemned buildings, including the old Texas Hotel, the old jail

Heading Lockhoof's priority list of accomplishments is a tax cut this year, the first since World War II. He explained economy measures resulting in the cut included streamlining city labor operations to cut the payroll from 62 to 41 employees.

'And we are trying to keep salaries of the city employees we do have in line with cost of living. More and more employees must meet state standards of certification and it is important we keep our certified workers if possible," Lockhoof said.

He also listed recent improvements in both the police and fire departments.

The five-man fire force includes four certified Texas firemen, equipment was increased from three pieces to six and we updated the radio and portable paging systems for both paid and volunteer firemen," the mayor said. "These improvements lowered our key rate 34, which in turn lowers the cost of fire insurance for every resident of the city.

Midland Man Indicted For Death Of Grocer

MIDLAND (Special) - A 34-year-old Midland man has been indicted by the Midland County Grand Jury for the March 12 shooting death of a grocer here.

Lee Roy Jackson was indicted Wednesday by the March term grand jury for the shooting of William Isaac Dennis, 61, of Midland at the victim's convenience store, Bill's Drive-In Grocery. Dennis was shot once in the chest.

Jackson also was indicted for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. He remains in Midland County Jail in lieu of a $50,000 bond set for the murder indictment and $20,000 for the stolen car charge

Midland detective Ron Aaron said authorities began looking into Jackson's alleged involvement in Dennis' death after police received a call that he allegedly stole his mother's car and a 38-caliber pistol The pistol and car were recovered when Jackson was arrested in Benton, Ark., on auto theft charges and returned to Midland by city police, Aaron said.

Police "at first assumed" the shooting occurred during a robbery. Aaron said. However, police later found nothing was taken, he said. There is no reason at this point in

District Attorney Vern Martin said Jackson is scheduled to be placed on the trial docket in mid-May.

Strange Object 'Hangs In Sky' Near Abilene

ABILENE (AP) - A luminous object appeared to hang in the sky west of this West Central Texas city about 7 p.m. Thursday before it disintegrated into a sparkling shower of debris, witnesses told the Abilene Reporter-News.

The display bore a resemblance to the break-up of Skylab over Australia in 1979. photographs showed. But the identity of the object, estimated to be 60 to 200 miles from Abilene, remained a mystery

Spokesmen said the object was not observed by personnel at Dyess Air Force Base or the McDonald Observatory near Fort Davis

Dave Harmon of the National Weather Service Office in Abilene said he knew of no reports, and city editor George Foulsham of the Midland Reporter-Telegram said he had received no reports of sightings in the Midland area

Mrs. J.C. Farmer of Hamlin, however, said she and her husband saw the object clearly, sometimes through binoculars, on a trip to check an oil well near their town. She said they watched the "unusually bright" white object for about 20 minutes before her husband noticed "sparks coming from it

She said it left a vertical "smoky trail" of debris that faded from view before reaching the horizon. The luminosity of the object remained steady before it broke up, she said

She and her husband saw a faint red glow at the bottom of the object before it disintegrated into a fireworks-like display of light, she said

Abilene Reporter-News photographer David Kent, who photographed the object using a tripod and a 600-millimeter telephoto lens on the newspaper building's roof, offered a similar description.

Kent, who went to the roof after receiving several calls about the object, said it was difficult to discern with the naked eye

director of the San Antonio River Walk Association; Dr. Doug Ann Newsom, chairman of the department of journalism at Texas Christian University; and WICI Southwest Regional Vice President Pam Johnson of Austin. Hance Addresses Group At Communication Meet

By JEANNE LIVELY

Avalanche-Journal Staff U.S. Rep. Kent Hance predicted President Reagan will get most of the budget cuts he's proposing. "The public has a different attitude today than anytime I've seen in 10-15 years," Hance told an audience of wornen communicators who are attending a two-day regional meeting of Women In Communications, Inc.

Explaining he'd visited with a national columnist not long ago who was convinced people are for a "conservative welfare state" but are conservative only until the time welfare cuts affect them, Hance said he agrees with the viewpoint to a certain extent

"Those who have come to see me in Washington since President Reagan's announcement of his budget have said 'We all support the president... think he has a lot of good ideas. But about the cuts in our area, we don't think we should have them since we have such a good program," Hance said.

Hance added the nation's biggest problem today is inflation. "The big fight is over how you define inflation and how you bring inflation under control.

Hance noted that President Reagan sent Congress a budget that started out at close to $41 billion but now is $48 billion.

"There may be some additions, but I wouldn't expect more than $1 or $2 billion more (in addition to the original budget cuts proposed)," he said. "But I have people who write saying 'vote for all the president's programs. Yet, I am convinced that some of these letter-writers have no idea as to what is in the pro-

"First of all, if President Reagan gets all the budget cuts he asks for (1982 budget), his budget for 1982 will be $55 billion more than what former President Carter's budget is this year. So, you have to keep that in mind.

If he still gets everything he asks for, still spending $55 billion more, the cuts are cuts in momentum and cuts in trends, but the really big impact will be in the '83-'84 budget.

'That's what President Reagan is trying to do is to break the trend. The trend has been for programs to grow and Hance said Reagan faces the same problems Carter did in that 76 cents out of every dollar goes for entitlement programs which are voted by Congress, mandated and have to be appropriated.

'We don't vote on those," Hance emphasized. "The only way to vote on those is when the Congress goes in and repeals the entitlement law and makes it a yearto-year appropriation, which we should do. I've always believed in looking at appropriations on a year-to-basis.

Again stating his belief the president will get "almost all the budget cuts he's asking for," Hance said he'd be surprised

NEW ORLEANS - Led by the early scoring of center Greg Cook and late points by guard Ethan Martin, Louisiana State University took a commanding first half lead and continued to roll, dominating Arkansas, 72-56, in the NCAA's Midwest Regional basketball tournament Friday night.

LSU, which finished the regular season ranked fourth in the nation, meets Wichita State Sunday for the regional championship and a trip to the Final Four in Philadelphia. Wichita State eked out a 66-65 victory over cross-state rival

Kansas in Friday night's opener. LSU is the highest ranked college bas-ketball team left in the NCAA playoffs after a rash of early upsets. Arkansas was ranked 20th and was only one of three teams which beat LSU during the regular

> INDIANA 87, ALABAMA-BIRMINGHAM 72

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. - All-American Isiah Thomas scored 27 points and muscleman Ray Tolbert added some late fireworks that powered Indiana to an 87-72 victory over Alabama-Birmingham Friday night in the Mideast Regional semifinals of the NCAA basketball tour-

Indiana will face St. Joseph's (Pa.) Sunday for the Mideast title.

Thomas hit eight free throws in the fi-nal 2:46 and added a breakaway layup with 39 seconds to play, and the Hoosiers were one step closer to their fourth NCAA title. Randy Wittman added a career-high 20 points for Indiana.

Wittman scored four points to help Indiana outscore UAB 12-4 in the early part of the second half and help the Hoosiers break away from a 42-37 halftime lead.

Alabama-Birmingham had pulled within three points when Craig Lane scored the first basket of the second half, but over the next 4:46. Indiana opened an 11-point lead, 54-43, by scoring 12 of the next 14 points. Wittman had a pair of jump shots in that stretch and Jim Thomas, coming off the bench, also scored four points.

Tolbert, a 6-foot-9, 225-pound center, iers, including three stuff shots, one of them part of a three-point play that gave Indiana a 73-60 lead with 6:34 left. Tolpert scored 17 points for the night.

Then, the All-American Thomas took over. Forced to foul, the Blazers sent Thomas to the line four times in the final : 46, and he hit every foul shot.

Trailing 27-23 with 8:03 to play in the first half, Indiana outscored UAB 15-4 in a 4:11 stretch and the Hoosiers never looked back. They led 38-31 after a 15foot jumper by Thomas with 3:19 to play in the first half, and the Blazers' Cinderella story for this season was on its way to being over.

The Blazers, who got here with a 69-62 victory over Kentucky in the second round of the tournament, tried to play run-and-gun with Indiana, but fell miles short. The decision left both ninthranked Indiana and UAB with 23-9 reWICHITA STATE 66, KANSAS 65

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff AUSTIN — Keith Kitchens had a big smile on his face. He was happy, no doubt about it. But it was easy to see that his mind was hard at work because the long journey to a state championship is not over, yet.

Only Gladewater Sabine, the state's top-ranked team and defending champion, stands between Shallowater and its first championship. Sabine whipped Bartlett 65-51 to earn its state finals berth.

It will be the Mustangs' first trip to the state finals. The state championship game will tip off at 2 p.m. today. But being new to the state finals is not all Kitchens is worrying about.

"Sabine is so big," Kitchens said.
"They're not very quick, but that height overcompensates for their lack of quickness. I never thought we would be quicker than anybody at the state tournament, but they're a lot bigger than us.

We're going to have to keep them off the offensive boards," Kitchens ex-

4-D—LUBBOCK AVALANCHE-JOURNAL—Saturday Morning, March 21, 1981 Estacado Girls Planning To Hit Regular Stride

Avalanche Journal Sports Staff
Last week it was the Estacado boys who traveled south for a little introduction to fair-weather track and field. This week, it's the girls' turn.

The Matador boys managed a strong econd-place finish at the Odessa Invitational last week, trailing Andrews by some 18 points. The girls, on the other hand, headed north for the Deaf Smith Invitational at Hereford and finished Still, that was better than any other city school could manage. Monterey fin-ished 27 points behind the Mats and Lubbock High was well out of the running.

We did fair," was coach Cayleen Caddell's flat assessment. "I was pretty well pleased. We had some false starts that I wasn't too excited about; we had one in the 100 and one in the 200. We started it. Stephanie Peoples could have won it probably."

Miss Peoples was a state qualifier last season in the event with a 26.0 clocking. The winning time at Hereford was a 26.9. "The times weren't all that great,"

Miss Caddell said. "But that was only our second meet of the year, so I'm not too As it was, Estacado's Mary Nell Harris won the 100 hurdles with a 15.6 and Kim Britt won the 400 meters in 61.7. In addition. Estacado finished second in the 400 meter relay at 51.6 and picked up a couple of more points in the 100 as Janet Gray turned a 12.7.

But this week might be a different story. For one thing, the Matadors are going to be competing against teams from regions with a little fairer climes than Lubbock. For another, city schools just finished spring break and Miss Cad-dell isn't real sure just who will show up

"It's going to be touch and go, I haven't seem them all week," she said, covering the second reason first. "I don't know what team I'm going to have, I don't know how many will show up.

"Two or three key kids probably won't be going," she said. "It's spring break, I guess it depends on how many make it back and I have no idea about

For the first point, competing against schools from down south, Miss Caddell said: "I think their weather gives them a big advantage. They have six weeks of good weather to practice before state while we have two or three. "I think they have a head start of at last three weeks on us. Just look at the competition around here, it's not what it

those girls come from Houston and Austin and San Antonio. Those girls are competing while we're still getting warmed

All of which adds up to a less than sunny prediction

'We'll probably finish about like we did last week," Miss Caddell said. "We won't win it because we don't have that much depth. Hopefully we'll be in the top three, but I would be satisfied with fourth. If not, we know we have a lot of work to do.

The Coronado girls are also heading south with the Estacado crew. The Mustangs finished well at the Amarillo Invitational last weekend, winning four events. Shelley Johnson took blue ribbons in both the 3200 meters and 1600 meters, Veronica Cavazos won the 800 and Thelma Minton won the 200.

The city's other three teams, Monterey, Dunbar and Lubbock High, will head for Canyon for the Canyon Invitational.

and Estacado will go to Big Spring while Coronado and Dunbar head for Plain-eight points from Robert Sanders, six from Willie Johnson and two each from Joe Maldanado and Tommy Garland to outscore the Wildcats 18-14 in the final eight minutes to pull out the victory.

That offset an outstanding performance by Archer City's Darryn Schearmire, who scored 10 points in the fourth quarter to finish the game with 29.

Sanders also hit 29 points, while Johnson added 18 points, 10 rebounds and six blocked shots. Garland also pulled down

With 2:28 to play and Shallowater down 50-49, Johnson, who was eight for eight from the field, popped in a 10-footer to give the Mustangs the lead for good, 51-50. Johnson grabbed a defensive rebound at the other end and hit another short jumper after getting a feed from Garland to make the score 53-50 Shallo-

Two free throws by both Johnson and Sanders, sandwiched around a pair of Schearmire field goals, gave the Mustangs the victory.

Shallowater had jumped out to a 13-6 lead in the opening four minutes but, beset by turnovers in the next four minutes. trailed 16-15 as the first quarter ended.

Schearmire outscored the entire Shallowater team in the second period, 11-10. as Archer City opened up its largest lead of the contest at halftime, 30-25.

Shallowater committed 20 turnovers in the game which directly led to 12 Wildcat points, but the 17 Archer City miscues were converted into 15 Shallowater

"We had a lot of turnovers in the first half because we had a hard time adjusting to their (the Wildcats') changing defenses," Kitchens said.

"I just told them (the Mustangs) that they were outhustling us, and we weren't hungry enough," Kitchens added. "You've got to be hungry down here (at the state tournament); you can't just play well.

"In the second half, we cut down our turnovers, played good defense and shot

After hitting only 43 percent of their field-goal attempts and 56 percent of their free-throw tries in the first half, the Mustangs improved by hitting 51 percent of their outside shots and 57 percent from the line in the final two quarters.

During the playoffs, Kitchens said his team has played head and shoulders above what it did during the regular season. Today, looking above their heads at the shoulders of the Sabine Cardinals. the Mustangs will have to continue that improvement to win their first state

In Class 5A, Michael Jaco swished a free throw with three seconds remaining in overtime Friday night as Port Arthur Lincoln edged Fort Worth Dunbar 60-59 in the semifinals.

It was the second one-point victory in the 5A semifinals as Reggie Simmons drove nearly the length of the court and scored on a bank shot with 12 seconds left in the game to give San Antonio Marshall a 74-73 triumph over favored Dallas

Lincoln, making its first appearance in the state tournament, erased a 37-30 Dunbar halftime lead and went ahead by eight points about three minutes deep in the final period. Dunbar rallied to tie the game at 55-55 in just over two minutes and regulation play ended 59-59 as Mecheal Jackson missed a shot from the corner at the buzzer

Lincoln's 6-foot-8 Leonard Allen controlled the tip in the three-minute overtime and Lincoln using two timeouts, stalled until Jaco leaped high for a jumper from the left side of the basket

Jaco missed the shot but was fouled by Zol Singleton with three seconds left. With the Dunbar spectators screaming, Jaco missed his first free throw but the second one went through without touch-

Robert Hughes Jr. the Dunbar coaches son, missed a desperation heave at the Jaco, a 6-1 senior led all scores with 27 points. Willie Ashley had 25 points for Edmonson finished with 19 points while Cross wound up with 13 and Walker 11. Cross, favoring an injured ankle had only two points in the first half.

Duke, now 17-13 for the season, was led by guard Vince Taylor with a career high 25 points. The Blue Devils were playing without their leading scorer, forward Gene Banks, who broke his wrist in Duke's first-round NIT victory over North Carolina A & T.

Injury Benches Stargell

By Associated Press
The Pittsburgh Pirates got some bad news Friday concerning Willie Stargell's injured knee - but it could have been much worse.

Stargell was examined by a specialist in Lansing, Mich., who said there is torn scar tissue in the veteran's left knee.

Dr. Lanny Johnson, who operated on the knee last August, said the injury is "minor" and benched Stargell for three weeks, which would put him back in the lineup a week into the season

Johnson said Stargell will be allowed to run and throw, but he cannot hit while recuperating.

On the field in Bradenton, Fla., the Pirates beat the Chicago White Sox 3-1 as Jim Bibby, who won 19 games last year, pitched four scoreless innings. Steve Nicosia tripled and Dave Parker doubled in runs for Pittsburgh.

In other games, rookie Mike Witt blanked San Francisco on three hits through the first five innings as the California Angels beat the Giants 3-1 for their seventh victory in a row. The 28-year-old Witt, a 6-foot-7 right-hander with only half a season of AA minor league experience, has not allowed a run in eight innings this spring.

Joe Simpson, Bruce Bochte and Dave Edler drove in two runs apiece to lead the Seattle Mariners to their fifth straight triumph, 9-5 over the Milwaukee

After Steve Cargil reached on a eaeezzaexax an error, a Jimmy Durham sacrifice bunt moved the runners into scoring position. Billy Montemayor drew an intentional walk to load the bases and DBU reliever Mando Femus heaved a wild pitch to score Mackey and make it a 7-6

Still in the fourth frame, Leland Creel drew an intentional walk to once again load the bases, and Craig, up for the second time, drove in the tying run wiht a ground out.

Dallas Baptist had taken a quick 4-0 lead in the top of the second when Ed Bailey lashed a 3-2 pitch over the fence in left-center and Jeff Johnson had sent anmann's three-run home run with one out in the bottom of the seventh inning lifted Kansas to a 4-3 win over Texas Tech Friday and gave the Jayhawks the championship of the Jody Ramsey Tournament

Heinemann's dramatic shot off Tech starter Mark McDowell, 0-1 with the loss, gave Kansas revenge for Thursday's 4-3 Raider victory and a 4-2 tourney record. Tech finished second with a 3-3 mark while host Pan American, after losing to Kansas 5-1 Thursday night, finished 2-4.

The Raiders close out a disappointing spring-break road trip today with a re-match against Seton Hall at 2 p.m.

In the final game of the week-long tournament, McDowell was coasting along with a 3-1 lead on a three-hitter after six innings. Juan Ramon opened the Jayhawks' half of the seventh with a walk and was forced at second on Brian Gray's ground ball while Gray beat out the throw to first.

gained an early 1-0 lead when Kansas scored one run in the bottom of the first inning. Joe Heeney and Russ Blaylock hit two-out singles before Ramon singled to drive in Heeney.

But Tech sent McIntosh to the showers in the fifth inning. First baseman John Grimes opened the inning with his third home run of the season and, one out later, shortstop Mike Wooten connected for his first four-bagger of the

Moegle Shoots For 600th Win

Monterey coach Bobby Moegle, the winningest coach in Texas prep history, will be going after win No. 600 today when his Plainsmen host Odessa Permian in a 1 p.m. twinbill at Lowrey Field, and Coronado coach John Dudley will be seeking to test his club's mettle when the Mustangs host Midland Lee, also in a 1 p.m. double-header, at the Coronado

Moegle's Plainsmen are 9-2 on the year and fresh off a second place finish in the Midland Tournament of Champions. Dudley's Ponies are 7-1 on the season and coming off of only two days of practice since dumping Permian twice last

In other city action, Lubbock High will be in Pampa competing in a one-day round-robin tournament against Dumas, Borger and Pampa, while Estacado and Dunbar continue play in the Snyder

Moegle said he plans to start Nathan Swindle in the MHS opener and come back with Mike Reed in the nightcap. Dudley says he'll go with Bryan Brock and Dean Jackson against Lee - in no particular order - and he'll use Jay Lindstrom in relief if neccessary. In first-round action at the Snyder tournament on Friday, both Dunbar and Estacado dropped into the losers' brack-et. Dunbar fell 7-6 to the host Snyder Tigers and had the tying run thrown out at the plate in both the sixth and seventh frames, while Estacado fell 9-5 to An-

in a second-round game at press time. Estacado will meet the winner of the Odessa Ector-Brownfield game at 9:30 a.m. today. The Matadors will bring a 6-2 slate into that game.

"We played 11 games in 11 days," noted Monterey's Moegle. "We just got more baseball than we were ready for at Midland. When we lost (Steve) Coleman on the second pitch of the third game it really put a strain on our pitching staff.

"But I think I may have found a couple of kids I hadn't counted on," added Moegle, "so maybe it'll work out for the

And Moegle added that he had no plans for a celebration on the possibility of winning his 600th career game.

Dudley's Mustangs have won seven straight games since dropping their sea-son opener against none other than Mid-land Lee. Today the Mustangs will get two chances to avenge that loss against the Rebels. "I'm sure the kids are looking forward to that," said Dudley, "but historically we haven't played well after spring break. And we've only had two days practice since last Saturday.

Trailing 7-3 to the host Snyder Tigers, Dunbar pushed across three runs in the bottom of the fifth to make it a 7-6 ballgame and then had the tying runner thrown out at the plate in both the sixth and seventh frames as SHS escaped with

Three Raiders Run In UT Triangular

AUSTIN — Fresh from the second all-America finish in his career, Texas Tech's James Mays will take aim on the NCAA outdoor 800-meter qualifying time here today. Mays and three other Red Raiders have received special per-mission to run in the University of Texas triangular Saturday, even though Tech is not one of the meet's official participants.

"We are going to Austin solely for the purpose of trying to qualify for the NCAAs," said coach Corky Oglesby. "Mays and Owen Hamilton of Texas should hook up in a great 800 meters."

Joining Mays will be Edwin Newsome in the 400 meters, Greg Rolle in the 400-meter hurdles and Thomas Selmon in the long jump.

Mays is coming off a spectacular third-place finish in last weekend's 880-yard run at the NCAA Indoor Track and Field Championships in Detroit. Mays was clocked in 1:54.74 in the finals, beating Richard Ouma of Farleigh-Dickerson in a photo finish. Ouma was a fourth-place finisher in last summer's Mos-

"James ran exceptionally well, even though his time was not good," Oglesby said. "It was a very small, slow track."

Even though he ran the prelims and finals on Friday, Mays came back the next day after a long flight to win the 800 meters in the Fort Worth Recreational in a time of 1:49.85. He is unbeaten in three starts at the 800-meter distance this spring outdoors.

Jury Rules In Favor Of Kush

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A jury found in favor of former Arizona State University football Coach Frank Kush Friday in the first phase of a $2.2 million civil suit filed by ex-Sun Devil punter Kevin Rutledge.

The Maricopa County Superior Court jury of six women and two men had deliberated about eight hours before returning the verdict.

Kush didn't change expressions when the verdict was read. He received a series of congratulatory pats on the backs and handshakes and told reporters later he was "definitely elated." Rutledge declined comment.

The decision came after the jury reported it had agreed on the issue of scholarship misrepresentation but was deadlocked on the other question—whether Kush actually had slugged Rutledge.

Judge Thomas Kleinschmidt then told the jury he would accept a majority of five of the eight jurors, and the jury went back for another attempt to agree. The result was a 7-to-1 vote in favor of Kush on the misrepresentation issue and 5-to-3 on the decision that Kush didn't punch Rutledge.

Earlier Kleinschmidt had said it would take a majority of six to reach a ver-

Price Of Gold Climbing, U.S. Dollar Steadfast

NEW YORK (AP) - The price of gold soared in late trading Friday, closing in New York above $540 an ounce for the first time since January as concern mounted over labor problems in Poland. The dollar was steady

"It was just one-way trading. It would not go down," said a New York gold trader. "In the last half-hour it was up

Gold for delivery this month closed Friday at $541 an ounce on the Commodity Exchange Inc. in New York, up $30.40 on the day. In later trading, Republic National Bank quoted a price of $540 an ounce, up $30.

In Poland, the independent union Solidarity called a national "strike alert" as a result of what it said were police beatings of 23 union activists.

The action endangered Poland's fragile labor peace at a time when Warsaw Pact nations led by the Soviet Union are conducting military maneuvers in Poland and neighboring countries.

Gold has benefited in the past from renewed fears of a Soviet intervention in Poland, and the reports were credited with causing the wave of buying Friday.

Most of the surge came after the close of European markets. Gold closed in London at $516 an ounce, up $7.25 from Thursday's closing price. In Zurich, Europe's biggest bullion market, gold finished Friday at $511.50 an ounce, up $2.

The increase ended a week that saw gold rise above $500 for the first time rapidly declining U.S. interest rates.

The dollar stabilized late Thursday, and finished Friday with relatively small changes in light trading. "It looks as if interest rates are at least pausing for breath on their way down," said a New York currency dealer. Interest rates rose in money-market trading Friday.

Late New York dollar rates Friday, compared with late rate Thursday, included: 2.0630 West German marks, up from 2.0623; 4.8725 French francs, up from 4.8700; 1.8800 Swiss francs, down from 1.8830; 208.05 Japanese yen, down from 208.65, and 1.1786 Canadian dollars, down from 1.1840.

In New York, the British pound dipped to $2.2550 from $2.2758 the previous day. In London, the pound fell to $2.2632 from Thursday's closing rate of

In Tokyo, the dollar closed the week in heavy trading at 208.55 yen, up from 207.90 Thursday

Nation's Money Supply Makes Marked Increase

sure of the nation's money supply increased more than expected in mid-March, and Wall Street analysts said it could stall or reverse the recent decline in interest rates.

The Federal Reserve Board reported Friday that M1B - a measure of funds available for immediate spending, including cash in circulation and deposits in checking-type accounts in financial institutions - rose $2.1 billion in the week ended March 11, to a seasonally adjusted $421.8 billion

The report was released after the close of trading on the New York Stock Exchange, but bond prices tumbled 1 point, or $10 for each $1,000, after it came out. Bond prices fall when interest

The Fed said the nation's basic money supply, known as M1A and including cash in circulation and non-interest-bearing checking accounts at commercial banks, was unchanged from the previous week at a seasonally adjusted $365.7 bil-

Maury Harris, a money-market economist at the investment house of Paine. Webber, Jackson & Curtis Inc., said that

Street expectations, one week's figures alone would not change the long-term outlook for continued declines in interest

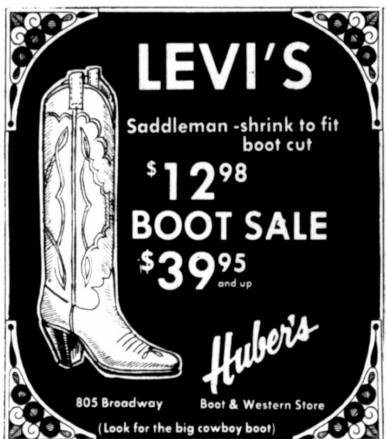

But a continued trend of these numbers would mean that rates would turn around and up," Harris said. "What these figures mean is that the recent decline in interest rates will come to a pause right now

Robert Sinche, an economist with the brokerage house of Bear, Stearns & Co., said. "It is possible rates might turn up a

Since peaking at 21.5 percent in late December, the prime lending rate has fallen as low as 17 percent at major money-center banks, although most banks are quoting a 17.5 percent prime rate.

The interest rate on federal funds short-term loans of uncommitted reserves among banks averaged 14.13 percent in the week ended Wednesday, down from 15.53 percent the previous week and off sharply from the record 20.06 percent average in the first week of the year.

Banks have been lowering their prime lending rate because of reduced costs of funds and slackening loan demand.
