

FIERY CRASH — A firefighter directs a stream of water at a burning propane truck while a second truck continues to blaze following a deadly 2 p.m. crash Monday in northwest Lubbock County. The driver of the propane truck was dead at the site of the crash and the driver of the second truck, who rolled in the dirt to extinguish his burning clothing, died 6 hours later of burns suffered in the accident. Authorities blocked traffic at the site and held back spectators while firefighters waited for the blaze to burn itself out. The site was not declared safe until about 6 p.m. (Staff Photo by Dennis Copeland)

Fiery Collision Kills Truckers

By JACK DOUGLAS
Avalanche-Journal Staff
TWO TRUCKS, one containing highly explosive propane, burst into flames northwest of Lubbock Monday in a crash that killed the drivers of both vehicles. The blaze from the collision continued for four hours and pushed back firemen and onlookers because of the danger of an explosion. All traffic around the site was blocked off. While the driver of the fuel truck lay covered with a blanket several feet from the blazing trucks, firemen from Shallowater and Reese Air Force Base were forced to stand several thousand feet back waiting for the flames to die. Dead at the scene of the 2 p.m. collision at FM 2641 and Milwaukee (County Road 17), was Virgil Leroy "Chuck" Kennermer, 59, of 2105 28th St. At 4:50 p.m., rescue workers were able to cool the propane tank and remove the victim's body.

Rolls In Dirt
The driver of the second truck, Jose Santos Alaniz, 29, of 1913 Dixie Drive, died at 8:30 p.m. at Lubbock General Hospital. He suffered second- and third-degree burns over 99 percent of his body. A witness said Alaniz' clothing was burning as he crawled out of the cab of his tractor-trailer rig, but he was able to roll on the ground and smother the flames.

Department of Public Safety trooper Felix Garcia said it appeared Kennermer was traveling west on FM 2641 in the propane truck, owned by Townsend-Strong Butane Co., and Alaniz was northbound on Milwaukee in a Tex-Pack Express tractor-trailer rig when the collision occurred.

Tanker Overturns
Both vehicles came to rest in a field, with the tanker overturned and fire spewing from the tank area. Kennermer apparently was not burned, but was killed when thrown from the truck, according to DPS.

Firefighters extinguished the blaze about 6 p.m., a DPS spokesman said. Henry Edwards of Shallowater said he was traveling behind the truck on Milwaukee in a tanker carrying crude oil and could only see "a big ball of fire" upon impact. "It was all I could do to stop my rig," he said.

Jim Hoover, a member of the Red Cross disaster team, said he saw a burst of fire from his nearby residence and ran to the scene with his rescue kit. "I just saw this explosion, that's all," he said. Edwards and Hoover helped move Alaniz away from the accident and attended him until EMS paramedics arrived. Medical technicians and DPS troopers said they checked Kennermer and could find no vital signs, but were forced to back away from the fire before they could remove the body.

Loud Boom Heard
Olan Smith, who lives in a trailer house at 6001 34th St., said he was backing up his pickup to a vacant house across the street from the site of the collision when he heard a loud boom. "I heard a crash and saw fire everywhere," he said, adding that the flames at first reached as far as the unoccupied residence.

Pointing to the charred rig, Smith said, "I saw this guy in this truck crawl out the window. He was on fire. He dropped to the ground, rolled over and put the fire out."

Smith, as well as others at the scene, complained that the Lubbock Fire Department did not assist firemen from Shallowater and Reese, who were undermanned and ill-equipped to combat the raging blaze. Pointing to the tanker, Smith said, "Why won't the Lubbock

Abernathy Police Chief Suspended

ABERNATHY Chief of Police Jimmy Ray Williams was suspended with pay Monday night following his arrest last week on two counts of official oppression, a misdemeanor. Williams, 34, is accused of subjecting two women to sexual mistreatment while on duty earlier this month.

Abernathy's city council took the action during a meeting Monday night. Mayor J. Pete Thompson said the action will stand until the case is settled by the courts or the charges are dropped. Williams, 34 turned himself in at the Lubbock County Sheriff's Office about 6 p.m. Friday after being summoned by the Criminal District Attorney's office

THE CITY council won't be considering any ordinances concerning pornography as well as a stipulation that cities can't enact or enforce laws already included in the penal code, he said.

About 50 persons living in an apartment complex petitioned the city Feb. 3 requesting action against the Circle Drive-In Theater at 58th and Avenue Q.

Goals Enlarged
The group gained strength and eventually incorporated as Citizens Against Pornography. The intent of the group grew, encompassing not only the Circle Drive-In but all dealers involved in what the group says is pornography.

During its inaugural meeting, organizer Sam Durden told members he wanted to make sure city council members respond to the organization's demands.

"We will fire up the present city leaders, or the ones we elect next election," he said.

Sees Issue Avoided
Monday he said he was upset with what he says is an attempt by the city to avoid controversy.

He said he has received a similar response from a city police official who told him the police department will do nothing about the group's complaints until Criminal District Attorney John Montford tells them to.

"There are people down there (in city hall) who say 'we'd love to do something for you people but we don't have the

Med School Accused Of Research Abuses

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff
(c) 1981, Avalanche-Journal Pub. Co.
A REVIEW board at Texas Tech has accused the university's medical school of conducting involuntary psychological research on students and has ordered that the project be terminated.

However, medical school administrators claim the students' participation in the project was "totally voluntary" and that the issue has been "blown out of proportion."

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services in Washington, D.C., and the Office for Protection from Research Risks at the National Institute of Health have been called in as referees on the case.

Dr. Charles McCarthy, director of the OPRR, is expected to rule whether the regulations on protection of human subjects in research have been violated or whether the medical school can claim exemption from the regulations if such student information is a part of the "normal matriculation process."

No Decision Reached
McCarthy's assistant, Bill Dommel, told The Avalanche-Journal late Monday that his office had received the local complaint but no decision has been reached on the matter.

When asked about penalties for violations, Dommel said, "It depends on how grave the violations." He added that penalties could include withholding of future federal funding for research projects either for the individual researcher under question or for the entire institution. Salvadoran Rebels Say U.S. Reneged

Talks Claimed Set Up In February

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Salvadoran opposition leaders say the Reagan administration last month accepted, and then canceled, face-to-face talks with representatives of El Salvador's left-wing guerrillas.

State Department officials would say only that no date was ever fixed for such a meeting. One, who asked not to be named, said insurgent forces were now "floating" stories about canceled meetings as a propaganda ploy.

The opposition leaders, Fabio Castillo and Hector Oqueli, said the secret diplomatic effort collapsed Feb. 11, the same day the United States launched a media campaign charging Cuban and Soviet involvement in El Salvador's civil war.

Aid, Advisers
The administration concluded that public offensive by sending $25 million in military aid and 20 additional military advisers to help the ruling Salvadoran junta.

Asked whether there had been a plan to talk with guerrilla elements, State Department spokesman Don Mathes replied only that there had been "no meeting scheduled."

He offered no further detail, except to note the administration's previously stated position that any peace negotiations must be between "the parties in El Salvador."

In El Salvador, the guerrilla coalition announced that it would cease fire for 24 hours, today, to commemorate the first anniversary of the assassination of Salvadoran Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero.

Romero was shot through the heart by a lone gunman, last March 24, while saying Mass. Observers say the assassin probably was an extreme rightist.

Campaign Pressed
Military sources in San Salvador, the capital city, meanwhile said government troops pressed their 3-week-old anti-insurgency campaign, Monday, in rebel strongholds in the north and that "quite a number of guerrillas" were killed. The sources said the army patrols suffered "some casualties."

A source who asked anonymity reported heavy fighting in the area around Ciudad Victoria, 42 miles north of the capital. Residents also reported firefights around the northern towns of Las Vueltas, San Francisco, San Isidro and San Julian.

At the same time, in Washington, the State Department's top Latin American official said, Monday, that the "world-wide Communist group" is giving high priority to fomenting anti-American demonstrations because of the U.S. involvement in El Salvador.

"Everywhere, we see a well-orchestrated effort by the Communist parties and those associated with them to bring out the people, particularly young people, to demonstrate on this question," John A. Bushnell, acting assistant secretary for Latin American affairs, told a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee.

He said the Cubans also were using their news media to spread "the big lie," including assertions that there were more than 1,000 U.S. troops in El Salvador, instead of the actual 56 advisers.

However, he said, the propaganda has not been successful in sparking significant protests.

Castillo and Oqueli, diplomatic representatives of the insurgents' Democratic Revolutionary Front, discussed the administration's alleged withdrawal in separate interviews with The Associated Press.

Castillo said the United States and the front agreed on Feb. 9 for a meeting to take place in Washington at an unspecified later date. He described the proposed meeting as a chance for a "dialogue," not negotiations.

But he said the Reagan administration, which he claimed was to be represented by national security adviser Richard V. Allen, backed out of the agreement on Feb. 11.

On Feb. 12, American newspapers began giving front-page coverage to the administration's charge that the Soviet Union and Cuba were fueling the Salvadoran civil war with massive supplies of weapons to the guerrillas.

Allen was unavailable for comment, but his deputy, Bud Nance, said he knew nothing about a meeting.

Castillo and Oqueli said the United States also called off a planned meeting with a front official in the waning days of the Carter administration.

Oqueli said he was on his way to Tegucigalpa, Honduras, in January to meet with Jack Binns, the U.S. Ambassador to Honduras, when the United States backed out.

Western European and Mexican leaders have repeatedly urged a negotiated settlement to the Salvadoran civil war.

Californians Withdraw Bid For Soviet Help

MOSCOW (AP) — Planners of a California farm cooperative who came to Moscow seeking a bank loan have decided the Soviets "need the money more than we do."

The group drew that conclusion "from what we've seen of the economic situation here," Pedro Hernandez of Merced said Monday. "We'll be going back home next week feeling a lot more thankful for what we have," he added.

It was the first time in four years an American group is known to have shown a desire for financial aid from Moscow.

Residents of Vulcan, W. Va., population 200, told reporters in 1977 they wanted the Kremlin to finance construction of a bridge over the Big Sandy River. The West Virginia and U.S. federal governments had turned them down, and so did the Soviets after expressing amusement that the hamlet wanted aid from a Communist nation.

Hernandez is one of three members of the "Our Land Self-Help Corporation" who traveled here hoping to encourage Soviet investment in a planned farm cooperative venture for low-income workers in central California.

The Soviets "haven't shown as much interest as we expected," said the 32-year-old landscape designer, who also said he and his companions were struck by the relatively low standard of living here.

The Soviet state bank has not offered to meet the group, he said, although the Ministry of Foreign Trade scheduled a meeting for Wednesday to discuss the project.

"Our plan doesn't depend on getting a loan from the Soviets," said Hernandez. "American banks have shown lots of interest, and we are going to go with the best offer."

"Our primary aim now is to get a letter of intent from the Soviet Union to purchase some of our

Commissioners Mull Jail Staff Proposal, Delinquent Tax Woes

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff
KEEPING LUBBOCK County's new jail properly maintained and in line with minimum state jail standards probably will require the hiring of 29 more staff members, Sheriff D.L. "Sonny" Keesee told commissioners Monday.

However, several members of the commissioners court expressed skepticism about Keesee's manpower management proposal for the still uncompleted detention facility. One of their main concerns is the cost for the program, which is expected to add about $471,000 per year to the jail budget.

Another area of concern discussed by commissioners Monday was the county's delinquent tax situation. Financial records indicate the county is owed more than $156 million in back taxes, with some of those delinquencies dating back to 1939.

Computer Needs Cited
But before any major move can be made to collect on those overdue tax bills, county tax officials said they must have access to an on-line, computerized program for the delinquent tax rolls.

Commissioners agreed with Tax Assessor-Collector Frank Stuart that a computer program should be developed to handle the delinquent taxes.

They were far less agreeable, however, during their half-hour session with the sheriff.

Keesee and several members of his staff met with commissioners to discuss what the sheriff termed "certain deficiencies in the presently allocated positions for personnel in the jail budget."

Commissioners already have authorized a jail staff of 50 in the current budget, but Keesee said he believes it will take 79 employees to properly manage the facility.

County Officials Criticized
The sheriff also sharply criticized county officials for past practices he said caused serious problems for the old jail.

"It is the position of this office that we do not wish to burden the taxpayers of our county with one cent of unnecessary cost," Keesee said.

"But at the same time," he continued, "those taxpayers must be made aware that pinch-penny budgeting, severe supervisory shortages, lack of adequate manpower and no preventive maintenance were the conditions which led to the federal court decisions that ultimately forced the county to construct this $4.7 million dollar facility.

Shaw Takes Issue
County Judge Rod Shaw took issue with some of the sheriff's statements, saying that the commissioners court was not forced by the federal court to build a new jail.

"We were contemplating building the

New Allegation Of Spy Scandal Rocks Britain

LONDON (AP) — A new scandal rocked Britain's cloak-and-dagger high command Monday as Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher ordered a major investigation of a report that a former chief of counter-intelligence was suspected of being a Soviet "mole."

Government sources said Mrs. Thatcher ordered the probe "at the highest level" and that she would make a full statement in the House of Commons "at the earliest possible moment," probably Thursday.

Denied By Family
In an exclusive story Monday, the London Daily Mail alleged that Sir Roger Hollis, director-general of the M15 counter-intelligence service from 1956 to 1965, was believed to be a mole, or deeply implanted Soviet agent. Hollis died in 1973 and his family has denied the charges.

The government declined official comment on the spy scandal, which came only days after disclosures linking a former British high commissioner, or ambassador, to Canada, Sir Peter Hayman, to child pornography.

Full Report Asked
Mrs. Thatcher, attending a summit conference of the European Common Market in the Netherlands, was reportedly "surprised" by the allegations about Hollis.

The New Standard, an evening newspaper, said the prime minister messaged Cabinet Secretary Sir Robert Armstrong to her desk when she returns to London tonight.

Armstrong was told to get a copy of

Measuring Device Set For Tornado Studies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists trying to unlock one of weather's most savage secrets have developed an instrument station called Toto — and like Dorothy's dog, they hope, it will get run over by a tornado.

The idea is to find out exactly what goes on inside a twister, a problem that has plagued weather researchers for years.

But tornadoes rarely pass over stationary instruments. When they do, they destroy them.

Hence: Toto, the Totable Tornado Observatory.

At 7 feet tall and 400 pounds, it looks like a fat robot — and certainly far larger than its canine namesake in "The Wizard of Oz." But that's still small enough to be carried in the back of a fast pickup truck, explained the inventor, Alfred J. Bedard of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Chase teams now follow and study severe storms. "I realized that the chase teams can get very close to tornadoes, and if they had the proper unit, they could just put it out. So I decided to build one," Bedard explained.

Then, he said, the chase teams can drive to the area ahead of the tornado, "deploy Toto, and then leave."

"Our current (deployment) record is 15 seconds," he said, adding that with a tornado bearing down on you "that's probably a long time."

Basically, deployment consists of shoving Toto down ramps at the back of the truck. It has wheels on one side and blocks at the bottom of the ramp cause it to stand upright when it hits the ground. Once upright, it turns itself on.

Bedard says it can withstand winds of up to 200 miles per hour without tipping over. And when it does tip over, he added, it turns itself off. Winds in tornadoes have been estimated at between 100 and 300 miles per hour, but Toto will be the one to get the first good measurements, the scientists hope.

It has a special, pressure sensitive instrument for measuring windspeed, with no moving parts.

A tornado once ran over a regular weather bureau wind measurement device, Bedard said. "There were just a few pieces left," he noted.

So far there's only one Toto, developed and tested last summer, and it hasn't met a real tornado yet.

One squall line Bedard's team was chasing got away, but Toto did get some measurements on the edge of a major mountain storm.

Pleasant Weather On Tap For Area

Daytime temperatures reaching the 70s are expected for the Lubbock area at least through Friday, according to the National Weather Service.

On Monday the high temperature in Lubbock was 66 degrees, with a low of 31. There were clear skies over the Lubbock area Monday, and clear skies are expected again today over this area.

Increasing cloudiness is expected tonight, with partly cloudy skies predicted for Wednesday. The high today should be 70 degrees, with an overnight low of about 42 degrees. Wednesday's high is expected to reach the low 70s in the Lubbock area.

Today's winds are expected to be southerly at 10 to 15 mph.

The extended outlook for the South Plains calls for partly cloudy skies Thursday through Saturday, with somewhat cooler temperature likely Saturday. Highs in the 70s are expected around this area through Friday, possibly cooling to the 60s on Saturday.

Reagan Postpones Farm Bill Unveiling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration notified Congress on Monday that it will not be ready to unveil its new general farm bill this week as had been planned.

No specific reasons were given, but Agriculture Secretary John R. Block said later there had not been enough time to complete work on the legislation.

Block was scheduled to appear before the House Agriculture Committee on Tuesday to lay out the administration's bill to succeed the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977, which expires this year.

Block also was scheduled to do the same thing on Wednesday before the Senate Agriculture Committee.

CROSBYTON PROJECT UNIQUE

Solar Bowl Fills Energy Gap

THE CEREMONIES marking the first solar steam-generated power for commercial purposes at Crosbyton are more than just symbolic.

The fact clouds marred the opening program takes nothing away from the project.

The 65-foot solar collector dish and the other advanced equipment which made it all possible signal another step in this nation's efforts to find other sources of energy.

The fact is that Texas Tech University, the city of Crosbyton and the government all were partners in the project in a manner which was necessary under the circumstances to get things off the ground as it were.

IN THE YEARS ahead, private industry, along with Universities such as Texas Tech, may be able to expand upon the project.

The Crosbyton unit is a prototype which can provide service to about 15 homes. Should funds from Congress or other sources be made available, a much larger system could be built, one large enough to provide much of a city the size of Crosbyton's needs.

While other model solar systems have utilized computers and movable dishes, the 65-foot fixed mirror solar bowl near Crosbyton is different.

The bowl, covered with 430 trapezoidal mirror panels, is tilted 15 degrees to the south for optimum exposure to the sun. It then reflects sunlight to a receiver-boiler and water is pumped through special tubing and converted to steam by the reflected sunlight's intense heat. The steam then is used to turn a conventional turbine attached to an electric generator.

"Once the steam is produced with the right temperature and pressure, it is just a matter of using standard equipment to produce electricity," project Director John D. Reichert of Texas Tech says.

AMONG THOSE due major credit for getting the Crosbyton solar project off the ground is Dr. John Bradford, dean of the Texas Tech Engineering school.

Dr. Bradford along with other project officials and citizens at Crosbyton demonstrated their teamwork in putting the project together without undue delay.

The Tech officials also are to be commended for making studies of other means of generating energy, including methods now in use in the Republic of South Africa in which oil is extracted from coal.

The U.S., with some of the world's largest coal reserves, could well utilize the ultra-modern methods used in South Africa, which has pioneered in this phase of energy research.

In the meantime, some day in the not distant future, the project at Crosbyton may serve as a beacon for the nation's multiple search for all sorts of energy goals

HANDWRITING ON WALL

Terror Never Takes Holiday

THE RINGING declarations of war against terrorism have shifted public attention away from the grim reality that the U.S. is unprotected against attack from international gangsters and outlaws.

Supposedly the mechanisms to fight terrorism both at home and abroad are to be found in a special section of the State Department and in FEMA, the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

In the case of the State Department, its efforts to date have been marked by low priority status, a small budget and understaffing. As for FEMA, its fight against terrorism is suffering from neglect and indifference.

THE AGENCY was established two years ago as a merger of the duties formerly assigned the Office of Emergency Preparedness in the White House, the civil defense program in the Defense Department, the national fire administration in the Commerce Department, and the federal insurance administration in the old Health, Education and Welfare Department.

However, FEMA's existence as an independent agency has hampered its efforts to deal with emergency situations, according to Edwin Feulner, president of The Heritage Foundation. The history of emergency management in the U.S. is one of response, not anticipation, observes Mr. Feulner.

It is not a popular practice to play Paul Revere. But the handwriting on the wall indicates we would be ill-advised to allow the status quo to continue with regard to FEMA.

THE AGENCY is one of the few in the entire bureaucracy to which the public should be able to look with hopeful anticipation when contending with paralyzing storms, fires, blizzards, or political terrorism.

The administration has an opportunity to chart a new direction for FEMA by upgrading its independent status to that of an integral part of the White House.

"The U.S. is operating on borrowed time with respect to another disaster or major crisis," warns Feulner. "Emergencies cannot be scheduled at the most convenient time."

Despite official Washington's pronouncements about the willingness of the U.S. to combat terrorism in theory, we are in practice no better equipped to deal with that problem than we are with many other potential crises. FEMA isn't ready and neither is the nation.

ART BUCHWALD:

Tax Cuts Discriminate Against Non-Taxpayers

WASHINGTON—The biggest debate going on now over President Reagan's economic proposals is whether his across-the-board tax cut of 10 percent a year for three years is fair to everybody.

I have found a class of Americans who believe that it isn't.

I sat next to a man at dinner who was discussing Reagan's tax cuts and felt that people like himself had been ignored. He was a builder and real estate man of great affluence.

He said in principle he was for Reaganomics, particularly where it concerned the eliminating of federal government controls on business and cracking down on environmentalists and welfare cheaters.

Where he differed with Reagan, Stockman & Company was in their tax policies.

"BUT YOU" will be getting a 10 percent cut like everybody else," I told him.

"No, I won't," he said.

"Why not?"

"Because I don't pay any taxes at all."

"How come?"

"I've been able to write off all my interest, plus my depreciation and take losses on my buildings, so I haven't had to pay taxes for five years."

"That's marvelous," I said. "It seems to me that's better than getting a tax cut of a lousy 10 percent."

"Don't you see?" he said. "People like myself are really being discriminated against. We don't get anything back from the Reagan tax cut plan."

"BUT IF you don't pay taxes, why should you get anything back?" I asked.

"Because Reagan says his tax cut plan is fair to everybody in this country. Why should we suffer just because we're smart enough to figure out legal ways of not paying any taxes?"

"I'm sure someone must have an answer to that question," I said. "Are there many people in your predicament?"

"There are hundreds of thousands in this country. We don't make a big deal of it, so that's why we're being ignored. I have a friend in the oil business who, because of depletion allowances, hasn't paid taxes for 10 years.

He has four kids in college and keeps up three homes, a boat and a private airplane. The inflation is killing him, but does the government care?"

"Hell no."

"Their attitude is to just take care of the taxpayers and let the ones who don't pay taxes fend for themselves."

"BUT YOU" people have loopholes and tax shelters and other sources of income that the average taxpayer doesn't have available to him. Maybe that's why you were left out of the Kemp-Roth plan, I suggested.

"That still doesn't make it fair. If it wasn't for people like myself, nothing would trickle down to the middle and poor class."

"How do you suggest wealthy people who don't pay taxes be put on an equal footing with those who do?"

"We should get tax credits against the day when some of us may have to pay taxes. Suppose a Marxist left-wing Congress decides to do away with our loopholes, and we wind up having to pay our share of the tax burden? Where are we going to get the money to do it?"

"YOU'LL PROBABLY have to sell your tax-free bonds," I said.

"Exactly. The very bonds that most of us have set aside for our old age. Look, we're not the only people who don't pay any taxes."

"The poor don't pay taxes either, and yet Reagan says he's putting a safety net under them so they won't get hurt. Why won't he put a safety net under us as well?"

"I can't speak for the President," I said. "Maybe he feels you people should make it on your own."

"I could tell he was hurting when he said, 'The really rich get it in the neck every time. If it wasn't for our lawyers and accountants, we wouldn't have a friend in the world.'"

Knowledge In History No Simple Thing, He Asserts

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: I read your column (Feb. 23) on the teaching and learning of history in the school.

Illiteracy throughout the last century and during the earlier part of this century was high in the U.S.; the difference now is that despite our compulsory, government supported and controlled education system, functional illiteracy remains high, and as people like Jefferson pointed out, a Democracy can not endure in an uninformed, ignorant society.

Examples of ignorance of history about I've been known to ask groups of all ages when did the English invade the British Island take over a major portion of the British land area. It seems appropriate that "educated" speakers of English should know when the English language was introduced into what became known as England, but young or old, they do not.

To understand a culture the invaded peoples must be understood. To understand England the Celtic aspect must be realized. And as well, to understand American society the invaded Indian cultures must be understood. A fantastic capacity to deny reality, through historical ignorance, and thereby misunderstand itself, marks American society.

Perhaps the height of ignorance is displayed concerning the central figure of our religion. I have asked groups of college students and college graduates what was the spoken language of Jesus. I have received answers like Yiddish. This tongue was a high German dialect, with Slavic borrowings, used by European Jews during the Middle Ages and up until the present.

When informed that Aramaic was the spoken language of Jesus, the less ignorant are prone to say that Aramaic is "about like Hebrew." But no one knows how it is not like Hebrew, a distinction which is all important for proper understanding.

When we leave the subjects of America, England, and Christianity, the ignorance is only magnified. The Mongols of the Middle Ages are "Chinese guys on horses." The vital significance of people escapes the products of our educational systems. The enormous impact on history of the medieval non-Chinese peoples called Mongols is totally lost.

Whether we are speaking of facts and dates or of theories and significances of historical phenomena, the people who emerge from our American schools are sadly uninformed or misinformed. An enormous amount of money has gone into our educational system, but the results were and are poor. Democracy does not endure in an ignorant society.

Writer Sees Vicious Cycle As Reagan 'Also Misses'

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: In an interview published Friday, Feb. 27, in The Dallas Morning News, "Former President Gerald Ford said that President Reagan inherited more serious economic problems than the high unemployment that faced Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1930s."

So let's compare the records: In the 1930s, FDR inherited a bankrupt economy; thousands of banks were closed; 30 percent unemployment; millions of able-bodied men could not find jobs; many sold apples on street corners; others would gladly take a job that would pay 10 cents per hour. FDR actually saved the capitalistic system.

In 1981, President Reagan inherited an economy that had 9.7 million people working at the highest wages in history: $3.35 to $17 per hour.

President Ford didn't solve America's most pressing problems because he couldn't, so the voters decided to trade him in for Jimmy Carter. President Carter didn't solve the problems either, so frustrated voters turned Carter out in the hope that President Ronald Reagan can work some miracles.

When President Reagan fails to solve the basic problems of high wages, high prices, high interest rates, high service call charges, high mortgage rates, high gas prices, the cry for a change will again rise from the electorate, so in 1984, the voters will trade him in for someone else to try to solve the nation's basic problems.

Lubbockite Sees Huge Saving If Forced Busing Halted

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: I believe the majority of American people are behind our President.

Most Americans want to get 100 percent from our tax dollars in running our government. Paul Harvey says if we stopped busing in our nation it would save about what 700 oil wells produce in one year.

I am against busing our children across town because at the end of the bus ride the child is still back in that racially isolated neighborhood. What we should work toward is more excellence in our school system. Why doesn't our school board speak up against busing?

Spur Reader Sees Area MX As Threat And Mistake

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: The announcement that a San Francisco firm has been awarded an $11.8 million contract to begin planning the MX Missile System in Clovis, N.M., is a tragic thought for the people in West Texas and the Panhandle.

The very thought of making the beautiful Panhandle of Texas, with its rich farm and ranch lands a "dust bowl" and destroying hundreds of homes and displacing thousands of good people plus the catastrophic dangers to our water systems in Lake Meredith, Red River, Lake Texoma, Running Water Draw, beginning near Clovis and draining into White River Lake, near Spur where I live (14 miles from lake) and running into the Brazos watershed which fills Possum Kingdom—is an awesome contemplation I just cannot take!

Calling all Senators and Representatives! Please don't let this happen!

Reagan Switch From 'Social' Spending Lauded By Reader

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: I would like to respond to the article in the March 11 morning paper concerning the emphasis that Mr. Reagan is now putting on federal spending, i.e., switching from "social" spending to military build-up. I am all for it!

"Government has no business in the 'social' arena. We have let this build up to the point that practically everybody is dependent on some form of federal hand-out. This is not good, and it needs to be changed, and the sooner the better."

The article that appeared on the front page tried to give the impression that this switch is bad, using "social" spending terminology in a positive vein and when referring to military spending, it made reference to the Pentagon, and not the good of America, which is really the case.

And to comment on another article, again on the front page of Wednesday's paper, this one about the National Weather Service, and the possibility of Mr. Reagan's budget cuts reducing the office here to a reporting facility and eliminating the forecasting function, let me just say that I think there would be no great loss here. I sincerely believe that the media, especially the television broadcasting stations, can do a more than adequate job of weather forecasting.

This is just another area of our total environment that government needs to vacate. Most people are not aware that there are private weather facilities, and that they do a very good job of weather reporting and forecasting (and usually more accurately than the NWS). As in most other cases, let's get government out and let private enterprise handle these things. Government should protect us from foreign powers and arbitrate disputes between states, and that's all, period!

Mr. Reagan is heading us all in the right direction.

So They Say...

VIRGINIA PAYETTE:

Subways In Hole

DALLAS—President Reagan, who "commutes" to work by federaling downstairs, is swinging the red lantern at federal aid to mass transit, a warning signal that Uncle Sam can't afford to play Casey Jones any longer.

He's turning the throttle over to the mayors and governors who have been featherbedding on government subsidies for years, and they are less than thrilled. They don't even have a union card, forhevvinsakes.

Reagan wants them to look upon his budget cuts as an opportunity for them to reassert their state and local privilege of figuring out how to move the citizens from home to job and back each day without massive federal handouts.

How the mayors look upon it depends on what kind of shape their transit system is in and what kind of plans they had to build new subways, bus lines or commuter trains. Most of them feel they've been trapped in a derailment.

THE WHITE House cuts, which are expected to call for a substantial slash in operating subsidies, comes at a very bad time for city officials.

Rising fuel prices and expensive union settlements have pushed the cost of mass transportation to budget-busting heights. Especially in areas already reeling from tax revolts.

What commuters pay covers less than half the costs, leaving cities like Boston, New York and San Francisco struggling with what they call "catastrophic deficits."

Without federal help, they wail, their systems face financial collapse.

The cuts are extra painful because they come right on top of another bitter blow dealt by Reagan even before he took office.

IN THE last few hours of the 96th congress, he used his clout to kill a $25.5 billion transit aid bill the Democrats tried to slip across during the lame-duck session. It took a four-hour filibuster, but Reagan forces managed to block it.

What happens next is anybody's guess. Nobody questions that mass transportation is essential to the working life of every big city, but nobody seems to have any good ideas about how to pay for it.

San Diego thinks it has, but it won't know for sure until sometime this summer when it opens its new Tijuana Trolley, so called because it runs through downtown and on to the Mexican border.

What the Tijuana Trolley has going for it is that it's cheap. And it's cheap because it will run along tracks that are left over from an earlier line.

THE WHOLE 16-mile system including cars and stations will cost only $86 million, and the state is financing that with gasoline taxes, not help from the boiler-stokers in Washington.

Similar systems could work in other cities: Pittsburgh, Newark, Philadelphia and Boston never bothered to dig up their old-time trolley lines.

Portland and Buffalo did, but they're laying new ones. And Detroit, Denver, San Jose and Sacramento are thinking about it.

San Francisco is a special case. It has its famous cable cars, but they're 113 years old and falling apart.

Jimmy Carter promised city fathers the government would pay 80 percent of the $60 million it will cost to keep the little cars clanging uphill, and a committee (including who else? Tony Bennett) is trying to raise the rest from private donations.

BUT THAT was B.B.C. (before budget cuts) and nobody's sure if Reagan feels as affectionate toward the cable cars as Jimmy (and umpteen million tourists) do. Meanwhile, BART is in big trouble, too.

That's the space-age, computer-controlled Bay Area Rapid Transit, trumpeted on its completion eight years ago as the ultimate in commuter systems.

At the moment, it's the ultimate pain in the neck, run by electronic gremlins that refuse to open doors, like to pull cars out of stations without any passengers, and sometimes won't run at all.

BART's general manager admits its "shortcomings are substantial," but nothing "tens of millions of dollars and many years" couldn't correct. After the President's budget message, San Francisco commuters figure they'll be wrestling the gremlins for a while.

ALSO UP in the air (in more ways than one) is Los Angeles' ambitious plot to build a "people-mover" elevated over three miles of downtown traffic.

It would cost $175 million, making it one of the costliest-per-mile transit projects in history. Financing, of course, with an 80-percent federal grant if Reagan doesn't nix that, too.

The money-short mayors no doubt are aware of what's doing in India, where 3,000 men and women are digging a 10-mile subway through Calcutta by hand.

That's right. For the past 10 years, crews have been crawling in with hoes and shovels and hauling out baskets of clay on their heads.

Of course, they're only halfway through, but they work at "bargain rates"—$1.25 to $2.50 a day. Unfortunately, subways can't be imported.

Almost 1,000 people a year in New York City are treated for human bites.

Sir Alexander Fleming of England discovered penicillin in 1928. He wanted to give it to humanity. He thought it would be more widely distributed, if it weren't all tangled up in legalities. So he declined to patent it. His generous notion didn't work. The pharmaceutical houses wouldn't touch it. It wasn't patented, so they couldn't arrange a corner on it. The U.S. Government then produced it secretly so much was it needed during World War II. Finally, it got out to the people. Nobody knows how many thousands of people died in those 11 years from 1929 to 1940 because no drug maker could get sole control.

Burnett Suit Against Paper Nears Jury

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carol Burnett's lawyer, saying there was "clear evidence of fabrication" in a National Enquirer article, asked a jury Monday to "hit them where it hurts — in the pocketbook," by awarding substantial damages in her $10 million libel suit.

Lawyer Ed Bronson said in closing arguments that the item, describing an alleged run-in with Henry Kissinger at a Washington restaurant, libelously implied the entertainer was drunk.

Outside the courtroom, Miss Burnett said she already had "won a moral victory, and that's all we wanted. No matter what happens, I haven't lost."

"The first victory was getting the publication into court... and I think we've put a reasonable doubt in the minds of people who shell out money for this publication. They shouldn't pay for a pack of lies," she said.

Miss Burnett added she was glad the trial was near an end.

"I feel as if a big boulder has been lifted off my shoulders. I feel good."

The item that prompted the suit said that at Washington's Rive Gauche restaurant in 1976 Miss Burnett argued loudly with the secretary of state, "traipsed" around "offering everyone a bite of her dessert," spilled wine on another diner and "started giggling and apologizing."

Bronson, pointing to a blurb of the article, told jurors that "the clear implication is she was intoxicated."

"There can be no question this article is false and defamatory. I submit to you there is clear evidence that there was fabrication at least to some degree in this article."

He read excerpts from trial testimony to show that National Enquirer writers were unable to totally confirm the article before it appeared March 2, 1976. He argued their actions constituted "reckless disregard for the truth," which must exist to prove libel against public figures under California law.

"We have to prove that they did disregard the truth by clear and convincing evidence," Bronson said. "I think we have."

Bronson asked jurors to make their own decision on how much money to award Miss Burnett for her mental and emotional distress.

"We know there has been no devastating damage to Miss Burnett's reputation, (but)... there has been an intangible loss to her."

"Make sure it's enough to wipe the slate clean for Carol."

For punitive damages, intended to deter future publication of similar articles, Bronson asked jurors to award at least $1.5 million, the estimated annual net profit of the National Enquirer, according to testimony.

He urged them to "make an award big enough against this corporation to carry the message back to Lantana, Fla., that it is time to stop."

"To deter a corporation, you have to hit them where it hurts — in the pocketbook."

The jury was expected to begin deliberations today.

Two jurors were sent home last week after they disclosed they knew about comments made by "Tonight Show" host Johnny Carson. He had called Enquirer writers "liars" for reporting his marriage was on the rocks and challenged the Enquirer to sue him.

One juror was dismissed for undisclosed reasons, reducing the panel.

which originally included 12 jurors and two alternates, to 11 during the trial. In civil trials, 12 jurors are not required. Nine votes are needed for a decision.

On Friday, Judge Peter Smith removed three codefendants, leaving the Enquirer as sole defendant in the suit. He dismissed accusations against editor Iain Calder, gossip columnist Steve Tinney and a distributor, ARA Services Inc.

Cowboys For Christ To Gather Today

A cowboy camp meeting, featuring gospel singing and rodeo cowboy testimonials, launches rodeo activities at 7 p.m. today in Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

Sponsored by the Cowboys for Christ chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, the camp meeting coincides with the 39th annual ABC Rodeo, which opens at 8 p.m. Wednesday with "King of the Road" Roger Miller in the entertainment spotlight.

Many of the 334 rodeo contestants entered in the ABC event which runs through Saturday in the coliseum are expected to be in Lubbock in time for the FCA meeting.

Heading up the camp meeting will be ABC's favorite clown, Wilbur Plaugher, who helped found the FCA cowboy chapter a number of years ago.

There were seven cowboys at Plaugher's first Cowboys for Christ meeting held back when oldtime rodeoers were a rough lot and the young contestants went along with the image.

Since then an FCA meeting is part of many of the big rodeos.

The "clown prince of professional Rodeo" comes to the camp meeting from an FCA gathering at Silverton headed by another cowboy chapter founder, Walt Arnold.

The meeting is open to everyone with no admission charged.

Tickets for ABC's 39th annual show to benefit the capital improvement fund of Lubbock Boys' Clubs are $5 for general admission and $7 for reserved seats with a $1 discount for the Wednesday and Thursday general admission tickets.

Advance tickets are available from western wear stores, Dunlap's and Hemphill-Wells in the South Plains Mall or from the ABC Headquarters trailer on the northeast corner of the mall parking lot.

YOUR HOSPITAL GUARANTEE OF SATISFACTION

The CARE Program

GUARANTEE OF SATISFACTION

There's nothing more irritating than being billed for service that you didn't get, or only got halfway. That's why you will like The Care program. If you are not satisfied with the services and care you get you do not have to pay them. This innovative program provides refunds to patients reporting justified grievances to the hospital administration within 24 hours of a particular incident. The conditions of the money-back program stipulate that if a patient is dissatisfied with any service rendered, including nursing, food service, house-keeping, emergency care, and services in any ancillary department, he is asked to report the matter to administration. If, upon investigation, the complaint is found to be justified, the "no charge" guarantee will be effective, and the patient's account will be credited with an appropriate amount representing the normal patient cost for that service.

Due to the nature of human illness, the CARE Program cannot guarantee the results of a patient's medical care or the services rendered by physicians or dentists. Also, it cannot be guaranteed that a patient will not have to wait when more seriously ill patients must be treated first.

Story Of Toxic Shock Syndrome Recent In Medical Research

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.
(Yesterday, I responded to a question from Mrs. R.R., who asked how doctors track down diseases. Today, I conclude my response.)

I was discussing germs and how some live in and on our bodies harmlessly until they get into body areas where they do not belong, with resulting illnesses. Strep throat and boils were two examples.

Mrs. R.R. asked specifically about the recently publicized toxic shock syndrome. On the time scale of medical research, the detective story is rather recent.

In 1978, a physician noticed some child patients developed a red skin rash along with quite low blood pressure. They were infected with a staph germ that made toxin (poison). The toxin caused a rash along with the blood pressure drop. He dutifully reported his findings to the public health authorities.

Two years later another physician noted a similar illness in seven women patients. The symptoms were so unusual that health authorities began working together to see if there was anything else in common between the illnesses of the women and children. It was found that these women were infected with the same staph germ, staph aureus.

Meanwhile, other cases of women with the same symptoms began turning up. Their cases bore further tantalizing resemblances to the others. The inference was made that these women had staph infection, and from the same type of germ that made the poison that lowered blood pressure in the children.

The problem now was to find the source of the women's infections. The site was not obvious. Solving this problem was part of the drudgery I referred to earlier as being so much a part of medical detective work.

It required many hours of interviewing the women, probing to see what was common in their experience. It was determined that most of them became ill during or shortly after their menstrual periods and that most used tampons. It only remained to learn how all this happened.

The guess was that certain super-absorbent tampons had so dried out the vaginal tissue that tiny ulcers formed there. It was further postulated that these ulcerations provided a convenient entry for the staph-produced toxins into the bloodstream, producing the symptoms. This is where matters stand today.

The toxic shock syndrome typically begins with fever, vomiting and diarrhea, all due to the poison released by the staph. Within 72 hours, blood pressure drops and a diffuse pinkish rash appears, which can be mistaken for the flush of fever. The women complain of skin or muscle tenderness. Temperature rises above 102 and skin of the palms and feet begins a dandruff-like shedding within two weeks.

Women who suspect toxic shock syndrome should see their physicians promptly. They should stop all tampon use until their status is evaluated and the presence of the specific staph germ confirmed or ruled out by lab tests. It is now recommended that women using tampons change them frequently and not use them continuously day and night during their menstrual periods.

overtrick. We call it silly because only a hog wants to risk game for an overtrick. South led a low diamond and carefully ruffed with dummy's 10 of trumps. Then he led the jack and let it ride for a finesse. The finesse worked and South was ready for operation overtrick. He led dummy's eight of trumps and covered with his nine. If East had held the trump king, South could have ruffed his last diamond with dummy's last trump and made that overtrick. Unfortunately for South and poor North, West proceeded to produce the king and lead a third trump. Now South had to lose his last diamond and was down one.

Spring has finally arrived and it's lawn green-up time. Spring lawn preparations should be underway soon! An important step to a healthy lawn is correct restoration practices following winter.

The first step in bringing a lawn back to life is the removal of unwanted thatch. This should be done just before growth starts in the spring. The accumulation of leaves, grass clippings and various organic materials known as thatch has an undesirable effect. Moisture and nutrient penetration are decreased and root development is of a shallow nature in lawns with thatch layers. Removal of this layer can be accomplished by dethatching machines built for this purpose and available at many rental businesses. Also, a common garden rake will remove much of the thatch as will a lawnmower lowered to scalping height and operated over the lawn.

Another step, that of aeration is not required but may help increase of soil compaction. Aeration increases the exchange of carbon dioxide and other toxic gases between the soil and the atmosphere. Coring or grooving-type aeration machines usually will aid compacted soil.

A third and very important part of this procedure is fertilization. A complete fertilizer should be applied in spring to encourage good growth of roots and foliage. More in-depth information concerning fertilization of home lawns can be obtained from the county Extension office.

Low Maintenance Landscaping You may be the proud owner of a new home and faced with the challenge of developing a new landscape. It is not as awesome as it sounds though, if you remember a few tips.

The downfall of most home landscapes is the lack of maintenance. It is practically impossible to maintain an attractive landscape without a few hours of care each week. However, a garden or landscape, which requires unnecessary and expensive maintenance, can become a real headache to the average homeowner. This is why a minimum-maintenance landscape is so important.

It is possible to have an attractive and functional landscape which meets the needs of the family without becoming a Saturday slave to it. But maintenance should be considered in the planning stages of the landscape development rather than as an afterthought. If possible, plan your landscape in advance and be certain to have a definite purpose and place for every plant, tree, shrub or other feature you use.

Here are some do's and don'ts to think about in establishing a low maintenance landscape.

- Do eliminate as many "frills" as possible. A good design is based on simplicity, so use only those things that do definite jobs in the landscape, and don't just plant for the sake of variety.
- Do keep the yard free of ornaments and even trees and shrubs except for those absolutely needed. Do avoid a scattered arrangement of flower beds and garden accessories. A cluttered yard requiring a lot of hand-edging and clipping can become a maintenance nightmare.
- Don't try to grow grass in areas too shady, too dry, too wet or too steep to be mowed safely. Use groundcover plants in these areas and select plants requiring little or no maintenance.
- Don't line walks and driveways with unnecessary plants or place plants so close to the house that they can't be maintained.
- Do select plants carefully, considering their ultimate size (height and width).
- Don't use fast growing plants which will require constant pruning.
- Do use mowing strips or edges along walks, flowerbeds and around trees and shrubs. These will reduce mowing and edging problems and create a much neater landscape.

• Do use mulches to minimize watering and reduce weeds in flower and shrub beds.

And last, but not least, don't confuse low maintenance with no maintenance.

There is an old Wall Street expression that "the Bear gets a little, the Bull gets a little, and the Hog gets nothing."

South found himself in four spades after a Stayman sequence. He won the second club with his king and promptly led three rounds of hearts to discard his last club. Then he led a diamond to his king and West's ace. West led a third club.

South ruffed and cashed his queen of diamonds. He had lost two tricks and could afford to lose a trick to the king of trumps since he was now ready to ruff his last two diamonds.

Unfortunately, he was a match point player in a rubber bridge game and made a silly play to try to score an

FLORENCE SUTTON LOST OVER 124 POUNDS AND 143 INCHES

Since I started Pat Walker's I have lost 124 lbs. and 143 inches. A lot has happened since my first picture appeared in the paper. I have lost more weight and I have even lost a 1/2 size in my shoe size. Needless to say, I feel and look like a different person. On one occasion a person both my husband and I know wasn't going to speak because they thought my husband was with somebody else. This person is amazed at the change I have made. I made a New Year's Resolution to do something about my weight problem. I think I have kept that resolution. I have tried a number of diets but the Pat Walker routine is one I could live with the rest of my life. The biggest thrill I get is shopping for clothes and being able to pick and choose. When you wear a size 24, you don't have much choice, but size 8 you have a better selection. If you have a weight problem this is the place to come.

Natural-Fitting Pant Fashions Fit Comfortably

Natural fibers have brought about the design of natural-fitting pants, very comfortable and very fashionable. Although these pants don't LOOK natural, just try them on — the fit is superb.

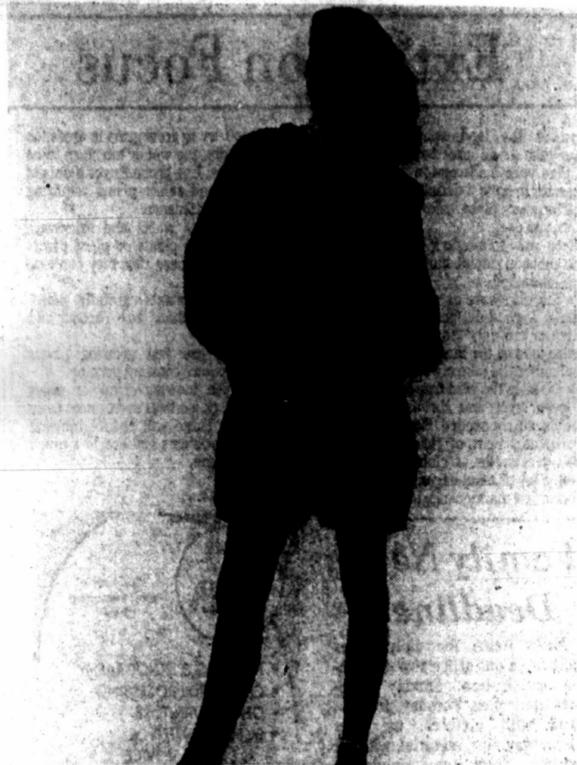

Bern Conrad designs such pant shapes for spring. He puts new pant proportions in action in cotton and cotton knit, and teams them with shapely boatnecks and camisoles.

He starts with cotton sheeting in big, slouchy shapes for comfort. Try khaki pants, voluminous-to-the-knee, then tight. Conrad pushes them up to mid-calf and adds a khaki and grey striped cotton knit boatneck with dolman push-up sleeves. The whole look is pulled together with a big sash and red brocade slippers.

If you're really in the mood for "big," go with a full-blown khaki cotton parachute jacket with button-out lining. Hooded and full at the waist and legs, Conrad uses it two ways. At the beach as a romper, wear lots of pastel shell jewelry, in the city, team it with cotton sheeting drawstring pants.

Cotton gabardine takes on controlled fullness in eye-catching grey mixed with white. A tapered elastic waist pant has side-zip insets in white to match a pristine white sleeveless snap-front blouse with pleated yoke and stand-up collar.

Think all the fullness in the leg is too much for you? Just try it and see. The comfort may surprise you.

BIG FOR SPRING — Bern Conrad designs a parachute jacket that can become a romper for the beach. The big hood, drawstring neck, waist and hem add controlled fullness to this fashion look. Use shell jewelry with it for a touch of softness.

ANN LANDERS

'Easy' Answer Draws Response

Dear Ann Landers: You were much too easy on that nitwit with a cold who kissed her grandson on the mouth. My parents gave our five kids colds, the flu and strep throat all through their growing-up years. Now they are infecting our grandchildren.

The problem is, the folks get bored after being ill for a few days, so they come over to brag about their high fevers and recount their visits to the doctors' offices. They cough all over the house, kiss everyone hello and goodbye and leave.

My parents always have considered visiting sick people in the hospital prime entertainment. If they knew somebody's name, that was excuse enough to go. While visiting victims of their mindless do-gooding, they pick up all sorts of super-germs and carry them home for recycling.

Ann, please lay it on those dim bulbs. When children have to miss school with colds, earaches, etc., because thoughtless relatives want to show their "love," it's time for Ann Landers to step in. — Sick Of It All In Virginia

Dear Sick: Ann Landers doesn't step into situations she considers hopeless. If you haven't been able to make a dent in all these years, it's a cinch I can't. Your parents must be in their late 70s by now and they aren't about to change.

Please read on. The next letter might be of interest.

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to say a word to that Canton woman who was doing a slow burn because her mother-in-law came over with a cold and kissed her baby on the mouth. The next day the baby developed a fever and a cough. Then the whole family got it.

I would be thrilled if my mother-in-law would kiss my child anywhere. The woman is cold and stand-offish — my children are afraid to go near her. She hands them a check at Christmas time. This is the way she expresses "grandmotherly love."

I would be glad to trade a few colds for a loving relationship any day in the year. Sign me — Frozen In The Carolinas

Dear Frozen: I won't attempt to defend the "iceberg," but very often "cold" people were given the chill early in life by those closest to them. They are afraid to show affection for fear of additional rejection. So they keep their distance, appear to be arrogant or "stuck-up," but in reality they feel unloved and are lonely.

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column you encouraged men to buy their wives personal gifts, like perfume, jewelry and satin nightgowns, instead of dishwashers and vacuum sweepers. You meant well, but that advice sure wasn't for everybody.

My ex-husband had a heart of gold. He loved to buy me expensive presents. For our fifth wedding anniversary he came home with an enormous diamond ring. I made him take it back because I knew darned well I would be ducking the collection agency for months to come. I would have been thrilled if instead he had brought me a few bills marked "Paid in Full."

After 14 years we split because he couldn't resist buying on credit and I couldn't stand being hounded by bill collectors.

Please tell people these matters should be settled before marriage. — Too Soon Old, Too Late Smart

Dear Too Late Smart: Your letter ought to be included in every handbook for marriage preparation. Thanks for writing.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611. COPYRIGHT 1981 FIELD ENTERPRISES, INC.

HINTS FROM HELOISE:

Save By Freezing Leftovers As Sandwich

DEAR HELOISE:

Save time, money, energy and food! Whether you pack lunches or not when you are clearing the table after a meal, make a sandwich from that leftover piece of meat or cheese, spoonful of baked beans or whatever.

Wrap for freezing. Carry in your lunch sack frozen and it'll be thawed by lunch.

You've saved using and washing a refrigerator container, calories by not snacking on leftovers later that evening, and money by not throwing out food. You've contributed to a nutritious lunch varied your menu and, best of all, when they're frozen, you don't have to eat to-day's leftovers tomorrow.

If you don't pack a lunch, you can enjoy that sandwich some day when you don't have time to cook. — Flossie Walls

Now that's killing two birds with one stone. One chore I dislike is having to do something with leftovers. — Heloise

CHILD'S PLAY

DEAR HELOISE:

This is an old trick to appease the little ones when sharing — be it a piece of candy bar, cake or what-have-you.

Let one of the children do the dividing of the goodies and let the other one get first choice.

It's amazing how even the sizes of the pieces will be. — Mrs. Albert Karas

True! And did you ever see how long it takes them to divide it, too? Such care and precision! — Heloise

PRACTICE, PRACTICE

DEAR HELOISE:

Wanting to be of help when my neighbor had surgery on her foot, I lent her my crutches. Jokingly, I told her to practice on them before she had the surgery.

Little did we realize how important it is to practice beforehand, if possible. Her surgery was very complicated, more so than had been anticipated, and she suffered a great deal of pain.

When she was able to use the crutches, she was unaccustomed to them and that added to her suffering.

There is a trick to it, so if you know ahead of time you'll be needing crutches, it doesn't hurt to practice. — Judy Taylor

MAKESHIFT BROILER PAN

DEAR HELOISE:

Those little aluminum broiler pans have gotten pretty expensive, and they last only a short time.

I've found a good substitute. I stretch a piece of aluminum foil tightly over a metal pie plate, seal it at the rim of the plate and punch holes in the foil with a fork.

Works just fine for broiling a couple of beef patties, a chicken breast, etc. for my husband and me. And cleanup's a whiz. — Frances M. Peffer

SAVE THOSE NYLONS

DEAR HELOISE:

Another good use for old nylon stockings or pantyhose is to cover a wire clothes hanger.

Tie a knot where the wire joins together at the hook of the hanger, then wrap the stocking around and around, splitting the very end of the stocking far enough up to tie a secure knot.

Continue wrapping stockings around until the hanger is completely padded with the desired thickness. If you use pantyhose, cut the pantie part off first.

These hangers are wonderful for sheer blouses or clothes that might slip off the hanger or get snagged.

Keeps slacks from getting creased too. — Mrs. Laura R. Hannah

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

THERE WAS A LOT MORE GOING ON last week than appeared on the surface, says a cotton futures market analyst.

And cotton futures on three different days traded in a range of more than 200 points. A market which seemed to teeter on the brink of destruction in mid-week ended with a bang.

The planting intentions report, released by the U. S. Department of Agriculture after the close Thursday, "was a figure not much worth waiting for," he observed.

Budget cutting at the USDA took some of the punch out of the figures, he noted, pointing out that the industry basically is looking at the same acreage as last year.

"We are on the verge of entering into the initial phase of a weather market," the analyst said, "and the forecasts that we read all call for average rainfall and temperatures."

WITH LAST YEAR'S CROP DISASTER fresh in everyone's mind, traders will be alert to any indication that crops might get off to a less-than-ideal start.

"We do think the weather looks good," the analyst said, "and field work is well advanced."

However, he noted, there is a moisture shortage in the central belt that no one can turn a back on. For instance, Memphis, for the three-month period beginning Dec. 1, received rainfall of 6.8 inches, 46 percent of normal.

"We don't think anyone can be complacent about crop prospects," the analyst said.

No statistic is more intriguing than that of the projected carryover, which seems to be getting smaller and smaller every week.

Last week's export sales report showing net new business of 84,100 running bales for the current marketing year certainly was more than most people were looking for. And the next one could have some surprises.

IN ANY CASE, $ 525 MILLION RUNNING bales have been sold for the season. It now would take weekly sales averaging only 36,250 bales to reach the 6 1/2-million mark in statistical bales for the 1980-81 marketing year.

"We think the big uncovered position is in the Far East, not here, with most of the fourth quarter requirements not yet purchased by Korea and Japan," the analyst said.

"We think at least 600,000 bales must be bought by Asia and that Europe is good for another 500,000 bales. If there is no more to be done, I don't see prices going anywhere."

But what about the Chinese?

"That's not a problem that's going to go away," the analyst said. "If they are through, our market is probably through. If they have another big bite left to take, say a prayer for the shorts."

Taking a look at U. S. shipments, in the past six years for which weekly sales reports have been made, the largest percentage of exports achieved by this date was 59.1 percent of the total for that season. And that was done during the last marketing year.

AT THAT RATE, U. S. SHIPMENTS WOULD total 6.3 million running bales this season or 6 1/4 million statistical bales.

"If that doesn't seem possible, remember that it would take only 114,000 bales a week to reach 6 1/4 million statistical bales," the analyst commented.

"In any case, we are flirting with a carryover of 2 1/4 million bales or less."

The season promises to be a battle down to the wire.

Final ginnings, released after the close Friday, converted to an unofficial 11,115,225 statistical (480-pound) bales, compared with the USDA's January estimate of 11,124,500 bales.

The analyst described the crop estimate as "an excellent piece of work by the department." The ginnings report was around 100,000 bales shy of what most analysts were expecting.

WITH CURRENT NEEDS MOSTLY COVERED, mills last week continued to limit cotton purchases, the USDA reported in a weekly review.

Buying was restricted to a light volume of cotton to fill gaps in stocks or cover recent product sales. Some mills fixed prices on earlier purchases.

Excessive inventories of either raw cotton or unsold goods were being carefully avoided. Market softness continued to plague a fairly wide range of textile products.

Mill sales of goods for third and fourth quarter delivery remained sluggish. Yarn sales were erratic with demand generally weak. Some yarn mills reported an increase in stocks owing to delays in orders for shipment.

A number of popular apparel constructions continued to experience market weakness. Industrials and household products remained slow movers.

Mills with slower selling products were running on shortened work schedules.

COTTON FUTURES BACKED AND FILLED in moderately light, late turnover Monday with prices ending mixed.

Spillover selling from precious metals resulted in slight declines in nearby with spot May down 20 points at 87.85 cents and July off 10 points at 88.75 cents. Deferred contracts added 25 to 30 points.

Analysts said locals, who largely dominated the session, sold long positions, prompted in part by weakness in precious metals.

A large Chicago-based commission house and a New Orleans trader were on the buy side in the quietly traded session, analysts said.

"We feel the market held very well under the pressure from the gold market," one analyst said.

BOWATER CORP. ANNOUNCED FROM LONDON that it has reached an agreement in principle to sell its cotton and other fiber trading interests to Car-gill, Inc., at a price in excess of net value.

A Bowater spokesman was quoted as saying the net value of the interests is about 12 million sterling. The interests form the greater part of Bowater's Ralli Group, which has an office in Lubbock.

Bowater said a contract between the two firms is being negotiated and added: "It is hoped that completion will take effect on June 1."

Private crop sources said up to 4 inches of rain during the past week or so in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and Coastal Bend prevented many growers from resuming cotton planting last week.

The official state weekly crop report Monday said 6 percent of the Texas crop has been planted, against 8 percent a year ago and 7 percent on the average.

There were delays in some areas due to wet fields, the report noted, adding that some fields in the Valley and the Coastal Bend will have to be replanted due to cold soil temperatures or wetness.

FARMERS IN THE SOVIET UNION'S MAIN cotton growing republic of Uzbekistan have begun planting several weeks early, the official Soviet news agency Tass was quoted as saying Monday.

The agency said planting of the cotton crop, which usually begins in April, already had started because of encouraging weather forecasts and improved techniques.

The Soviet Union harvested a record cotton crop last year, the USDA has reported, while other agricultural crop outputs were disappointingly low.

India's state-owned cotton corporation will buy 7.95 million bales from the domestic market in the current season ending Aug. 1, a corporation official was quoted as saying.

The Press Trust of India (PTI) quoted the official as saying the corporation was carrying stocks of 2.55 million bales from the previous season.

Officials estimate cotton production this crop year at 8.2 million bales, up from 7.7 million last season. Cotton consumption is estimated at 7.41 million bales, the official was quoted as saying.

NICARAGUA'S 1981-82 COTTON CROP is projected at 400,000 bales (800 pounds net weight), up from 315,000 estimated for the current season, the USDA's attache responsible for that country said in a field report.

The report said exports in the upcoming season are forecast at 380,000 bales, up 80,000 bales from the current marketing year.

It said the government plan calls for cotton area in the 1981-82 season of about 126,000 hectares (one hectare equals 2.471 acres) but added that a more realistic figure is 118,785 hectares.

To reach that lower figure, the report said, the government should announce by mid-April the amount of financing that will be available for crop inputs and harvest labor.

Trading on Telcot totaled 3,479 bales on an average price of 88.79 cents, an average of 2,745 points over the loan, with a nil market difference. Producers weren't offering much cotton at prices merchants were willing to pay.

Some High Plains producers have expressed an interest in forward contracting but the December futures price is believed to be at least about three cents below a level at which 1981-crop contracting might begin to be done.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Fears that dry conditions in the Midwest could decrease crop production helped lift grain and soybean futures prices sharply Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade, analysts said.

Prices opened mixed to slightly lower, with demand slackening from foreign buyers because of the rising value of the U. S. dollar in world currency trading.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. The value of the American dollar has been going up sharply against the values of other currencies in recent months. Many people who live in the United States receive payments from other countries in the foreign currencies. They are being badly hurt by the unfavorable exchange rate.

This, of course, is only a small part of the story. Goods manufactured in the U.S. cost more abroad, as a result. Exporters are hurt. To me it looks like manipulation. What are your feelings on this?

A. Just the opposite of yours. You're probably going to be very unhappy when I wave the flag and say I'm all for a strong U.S. dollar. Without a strong currency, a nation is in big trouble.

The dollar now buys more yen, marks, francs, pounds and most other foreign currencies than it has in quite some time. That's great. I'm happy and would like to see the dollar even stronger.

Sure, the strengthened dollar is hurting some people — including, I suspect, you — who receive income in fixed amounts of foreign currencies. And it does make U.S. exports more expensive in the world market.

But, when the dollar went down against other currencies, just about all Americans were hurt. Members of the Armed Forces and other U.S. citizens living or traveling abroad were clobbered.

Bail-Jumping Charges Filed

Alleged drug kingpin Cosme Ramirez Tijerina has been charged with felony bail jumping for failing to make a November court appearance in connection with his indictment for delivery of a controlled substance.

Tijerina, 50, was arrested in August during a major drug bust that resulted in the roundup of 14 suspected drug traffickers. Tijerina's bond originally was set at $400,000 on three different counts but later was reduced by a district judge to $240,000 — $80,000 on each count.

He was to appear in 99th District Court Nov. 21, 1980. The bail jumping charge has been filed because he did not appear for that court setting, as agreed upon under the terms of his bond.

An Edinburg police officer reported seeing Tijerina and another man involved in a scuffle Nov. 20 at Edinburg. One of those involved in the struggle identified himself as a bondsman, the Edinburg officer said, and pointed out the other man as Tijerina.

However, Tijerina escaped from the officer's police car on the way to the police station, he said.

ENVIRONMENTAL EMERGENCIES
 CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois set another record last year for the number of "environmental emergencies" involving spills of hazardous materials or oil. The spills totaled 885 in 1980, 121 of them in Cook County, said John Renkes, supervisor of the Emergency Response Unit of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency. He said 30 of them were "major" accidents.

Secretary Testifies At Custody Hearing

LIBERTY (AP) — Pam Locke, a former secretary to the late Price Daniel Jr., testified Monday that Vickie Daniel once accused her of having an affair with the former Texas House Speaker because, "he likes young girls with blonde hair."

Mrs. Locke, 19, testifying in a child custody suit involving Mrs. Daniel's two young children, said Mrs. Daniel also had accused another secretary, Mary Cain, of adultery with Daniel.

The trial started its second week with only 11 jurors after Annie Mae Searles, 58, was dismissed by Family Court District Judge Sam Emison Jr., who said Mrs. Searles had become "disabled."

Courtroom observers interpreted Emison to mean that she had been dismissed on legal grounds rather than because of a physical ailment.

Mrs. Locke was the eighth witness to take the stand in the suit filed by Jean Daniel Murph, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Daniel, who is charged with her husband's Jan. 19 fatal shooting.

Mrs. Locke, brushing her long blonde hair nervously with her hand, said Mrs. Daniel accused her of adultery in October 1979.

"Vickie came right out and asked if Price and I were having an affair and I said, 'No,'" Mrs. Locke testified. "She said Price liked young girls with long blonde hair. I perceived that as an accusation."

A short time later, Mrs. Locke said, Mrs. Daniel made a similar accusation about Mrs. Cain.

"She (Mrs. Daniel) wanted me to watch Mary Cain's house because she thought they were having an affair," Mrs. Locke said. "I didn't say anything. I just listened. And I didn't do it."

Under questioning by Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, Mrs. Daniel's attorney, Mrs. Locke said she had seen Daniel's car in front of Mrs. Cain's home "a couple of times."

Mrs. Locke's voice shook and she appeared to be on the verge of tears when she testified about going to Daniel's office on the night the former state legislator was slain.

Agent Testifies At Drug Trial

A Dallas narcotics agent told jurors Monday afternoon how he arranged and completed a deal for the purchase of drugs in the El Monte Carlo Lounge last summer in the first day of Juan Flores Benites trial for delivery of heroin.

Benites is charged with delivery of a controlled substance by constructive transfer for allegedly participating in the sale of three balloons of heroin to an undercover Drug Enforcement Agent. The defendant was arrested along with 13 others last August in a major raid of suspected drug traffickers.

The 140th District Court jury heard the narcotics agent describe how he and an informant approached Benites in his lounge about 5:45 p.m. about buying some drugs. Benites told them to return in an hour because his car wasn't there, the agent testified.

The narcotics agent returned without his informant about 7:15, and was given three balloons of heroin by a waitress at Benites club, he testified. He placed the balloons in his pocket and told Benites goodbye, the agent told the court.

Testimony was scheduled to continue at 9 a.m. today in Judge William Shaver's courtroom.

Coal Agreement Reached; Mine Union Chief Sees Acceptance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Mine Workers and the soft coal industry tentatively agreed Monday on a contract calling for wage and benefit boosts of 36 percent over the next three years; and the union's president said he was willing, if others are, to call off a strike already scheduled for Friday.

UMW President Sam Church declared "we've got a decent contract ... I think our membership will accept it."

Church said shortly after the two sides reached agreement that the union's 160,000 members likely would be on strike for four or five days — starting with the expiration of the present pact at 12:01 a.m. EST Friday — while the new pact undergoes ratification. That process ordinarily takes 9 or 10 days.

But later in the day, Church declared that "in view of the contract and the package, I think it would probably be better for us to go ahead and work ... I can't see anything positive happening by having a four-day strike that you really wouldn't need to have."

Church added, however, that he does not know if the union's 39-member bargaining council would be willing to seek an extension of the old contract during the ratification process, something the union traditionally has balked at. "I don't have the authority to do that," he noted, but "I would be willing to go along with it if the rest of the board did."

He cautioned, too, that the coal industry would have to agree to retroactivity for the interim period, and had not yet been approached about that possibility.

The UMW, which has followed a strict no-contract, no-work policy, has struck over every contract since 1964.

Church said the union won major concessions from the 130 coal companies represented by the Bituminous Coal Operators Association in the area of working hours and pensions.

A settlement seemed far from sight when bargaining collapsed here last Tuesday, triggering wildcat strikes at some mines and a prediction by Church that the walkout starting Friday might last even longer than the 111-day shutdown of 1977-78.

CBS Morning News Show To Expand

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS, bidding for a bigger portion of the largely untapped early daytime TV audience, will expand its "Morning" news show this fall by 30 minutes. But industry sources say the move probably won't immediately affect the competitive balance in the period.

"Morning with Charles Kuralt" will maintain its hard-news character opposite "Today" on NBC and ABC's "Good Morning America," both of which mix entertainment and information. And if recent broadcast history is any indication, the expanded CBS show is more likely to attract viewers who now don't watch morning television than to win them away from the rival programs.

"I doubt it," said Gene F. Jankowski, president of the CBS Broadcast Group, when asked if the realignment, to take effect Sept. 28, would tip the scale in favor of "Morning."

"I think we've carved a niche as the only network providing news throughout the program, and I don't see any need to change that. We've been increasing our audience right along, and I think that will continue," Jankowski said.

CBS's early-morning realignment means "Captain Kangaroo," network TV's longest-running children's program, will move from its present 7 a.m. CST slot to 6 a.m., and lose a half-hour. "Morning" will run 7:30 to 9, with "Today" and "GMA" on the air 7-9 each weekday morning.

The schedule juggling is designed, at least partially, to appease affiliates who have demanded a more competitive lineup, and Jankowski said reaction from stations in the 49 hours after the announcement was overwhelmingly positive.

The three competing early-morning programs, combined, attract viewers from less than 15 percent of the homes in the country with television. In prime time, that level increases to about 50 percent, and it is primarily from the difference that CBS hopes to build the "Morning" audience.

The model for CBS is the success of "Good Morning America," which premiered Nov. 3, 1975, and built a competitive audience from scratch, while both "Today" and "Morning" continued to add viewers.

Through the first 10 weeks of 1981, "Today," which premiered Jan. 14, 1952, averaged 6.1 million viewers per minute, to 5.8 million for "Good Morning America" on ABC. "Morning," between Sept. 15, 1980, and Feb. 8, 1981, averaged about 3 million viewers for the 7:30-8 a.m. part of the program.

"I really don't foresee any kind of negative effect on 'Good Morning America,'" said Squire D. Rushnell, the ABC vice president in charge of the program. "It seems to me what has been happening is that we have all been presenting alternatives, and that won't really change by adding a half-hour to the CBS show."

Steve Friedman, executive producer of "Today," said, "Good Morning America" is our competition, and "Morning" is not, and will not be until they hit us straight up," both in time and content.

Broadcasters Favor Lottery Licensure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Broadcasters and their government regulators Monday endorsed a proposal to grant television station licenses by lottery, but black media representatives and a consumer group opposed it.

Robert E. Lee, acting chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, who said he spoke for a majority of the five-member panel, said licensing decisions are "nothing more than an educated guess" under the present competitive system.

Dale N. Hatfield, acting assistant secretary of commerce for communications, also backed the proposed change during testimony Senate hearing. FCC Commissioner Abbott Washburn said he also favors it, although only to resolve cases which are deadlocked after competitive proceedings.

Vincent T. Wasilewski, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, said the proposed legislation "will put an end to a chaotic and expensive process" for licensees and taxpayers.

Gene P. Mater, senior vice president for policy of CBS Broadcast Group, said competitive hearings, which go on for an average of three years, are "unnecessary, onerous and burdensome."

Pluria W. Marshall, chairman of the National Black Media Coalition agreed that comparative hearings are too costly but said costs could be reduced by simplifying the standards and relying on paper hearings instead of live witnesses.

"These methods should be tried before giving up entirely and resorting to a roll of the dice to select a public trustee," Marshall said.

Polish Union Votes For General Strike

BYDGOSZCZ, Poland (UPI) — Ignoring union leader Lech Walesa's warnings and the possibility of Soviet intervention, the Solidarity union, early Tuesday, voted to stage a national strike to protest police beatings of labor activists in Bydgoszcz.

Walesa threw up his arms and stalked from the meeting hall after the vote to call the strike had passed. The other national leaders of Solidarity could not agree on a date for the action and instead postponed that vote until later Tuesday.

Some independent observers felt the interval could give time for the union leaders to cool down and re-evaluate the decision.

Walesa had appealed for moderation to avoid an open and possibly bloody confrontation with the government.

Walesa told the union delegates that "rumors have reached me that a state of emergency could be introduced (by the government) tomorrow."

"The question is whether or not we can avoid full-scale confrontation," said Walesa, who has been at the helm of the workers' movement since the strikes in August.

The union national coordinating commission drew up a seven-point resolution during the stormy, 10-hour emergency session held to formulate union policy in the face of a tough government position over the police beatings.

The resolution also declared the union's willingness to resume talks with the government as planned, Wednesday, in an attempt to defuse the worst national tension since the mass strikes last August.

It said also that should the government impose a curfew or state of emergency, the 10 million-member union would "automatically" begin a general strike throughout the country.

As the union's national coordinating committee met into the early morning hours, Soviet-led Warsaw Pact forces apparently extended maneuvers in and around Poland until the end of the week, and Deputy Prime Minister Mieczyslaw Rakowski warned that the country's fate was in the balance.

Tough Stance

The Solidarity meeting was called to formulate policy in the face of the regime's tough stance over last week's police beatings of union members in Bydgoszcz and came one day after union and government negotiators held what Walesa described as "very sharp" talks in Warsaw.

Solidarity leadership member Marian Jurczyk said the meeting, during which delegates got into shouting matches, would result in "life or death" decisions for the union.

A nationwide strike alert, set after the police attack last Thursday injured at least 20 people and sparked the worst crisis since the strikes last August, remained in effect.

Walesa lashed out at militant locals for "guerrilla-like operations" and warned, "If this state of things continues, the authorities will not exercise full control over themselves and we cannot exercise full control over ourselves."

Intervention

A member of the union's presidium, who asked not to be identified, confirmed that Rakowski raised the possibility of Soviet intervention to restore order during the union-government meeting, Sunday.

Walesa appeared to address that when he told union delegates that "rumors have reached me that a state of emergency could be introduced (by the government) tomorrow."

"The question is whether or not we can avoid full-scale confrontation," said Walesa, who has been at the helm of the workers' movement since the strikes in August.

Walesa who, by threatening to resign, won a promise that there would be no protest strikes prior to the start of the crucial session, called on the union for "full responsibility" and said "the time has come to make great decisions."

Still declaring faith in the intentions of Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski, Walesa said, "Jaruzelski will not be able to introduce order unless we declare our help."

Against Premier

Walesa had earlier said the police attack against unionists who refused to leave a local government building appeared to part of a campaign to discredit Jaruzelski.

Bydgoszcz Solidarity chief Jan Rulawski, who was one of three people hospitalized with injuries suffered in the attack, said the incident "offended" the union and "humiliated" the premier and his government.

But Rakowski was reported to have told Walesa, Sunday, that the government was not afraid of a general strike and that bloodshed "probably" could not be avoided.

The union-government talks were to resume, Wednesday, but that might not happen if a strike is called, the union official said.

Between 3,000 and 4,000 people had gathered outside the hall where the delegates met, but they drifted away as darkness fell over the city.

Fiery Crash Fatal For Two Truckers

Fire Department came out. That's endangering lives. That's plumb stupid." Shallwater Fire Chief Floyd Epperson said he did not ask for help from Lubbock. "The highway department did, but I didn't," he added.

The Lubbock Fire Department has for several years been instructed by city officials not to answer calls outside the city limits because of concerns over liability and the lack of a contract with Lubbock County.

Two small water tank trucks were at the scene, but they were of little help.

Traffic Blocked

When firemen and troopers arrived, they stood only a few hundred feet from the accident, apparently not realizing the potential danger. But before the blaze was contained, all persons were told to move 3,000 feet away and traffic was blocked from all directions.

Dalton Strong, vice president of Townsend-Strong, who arrived early with owner Sam Strong, said the two tanks on the truck had a capacity to hold 1,400 gallons of propane, but it was not believed that Kennimer was carrying a full load.

The executives said the dead man had been an employee about 20 years and that he apparently had just made a delivery at a nearby campground before being involved in the collision.

Funeral services for Kennimer were pending late Monday with Franklin-Bartley Funeral Home.

Services for Alaniz were pending at Henderson-Singleton Funeral Home.

San Angelo Men Shot While Fishing

MERTZON (AP) — Irion County authorities have detained a suspect in the slaying of two San Angelo men whose bullet-riddled rowboat was pulled from a creek Monday.

The bodies of David James Adams, 32, and John Barnard, 34, both of San Angelo, were found about 7:30 p.m. Sunday. One body was found on the bottom of the creek, the other in the boat.

The victims' addresses were not immediately known.

Sheriff Delmon West said a suspect was in custody and was being questioned but he would not elaborate.

Nor would authorities speculate on a motive in the shootings. Fishing equipment was found in the boat.

Senior Citizens Get Exemption Increase

Stuart noted that delinquent tax records from 1939-70 were manually prepared and require manual maintenance.

The tax office also has a computerized supplement on delinquent tax records from 1971-75, he said.

All delinquent tax records from 1976 to now are kept in bound volumes prepared by the computer, Stuart said. However, he added, those records also require the manual posting of payments or deletions.

This hodgepodge of tax records would make it almost impossible at the present time for commissioners to initiate a full-scale collection effort, Stuart said.

He emphasized the need to develop a computer program to handle delinquent taxes this year. Beginning in 1982, Stuart said, the delinquent tax rolls must be updated annually.

Commissioners instructed Stuart to meet with data processing director Bill McCullough to formulate a proposal for the delinquent tax rolls. McCullough is expected to report on the proposal at commissioners' next meeting.

In other business, commissioners approved a $4,500 increase in the homestead exemption the county grants to senior citizens.

Individuals 65 and older have been eligible for a $3,000 homestead exemption on their property since 1973. The county's low assessment ratio — 40 percent of appraised value — has enabled many older persons who own only a small amount of property to avoid paying any county taxes, Stuart said.

However, a new state tax law wipes out all assessment ratios for taxing purposes beginning this year. Stuart explained that the county will have to assess for taxes at 100 percent of appraised value.

"If we leave the exemption at $3,000," Stuart said, "then these elderly people who have not been paying any taxes will be subject to a tax this year."

Commissioners agreed to increase the homestead exemption to $7,500 to give the elderly "the same break" they have had in the past.

Spy Scandal Probe Set In Britain

the book by Daily Mail defense specialist Chapman Pincher, which raised the allegations against Hollis, according to the Evening Standard. The book is to be published later this week.

Pincher, writing in the Mail, said Hollis may have been Britain's "most damaging spy in history." He said Hollis was investigated in 1970, five years after his retirement, about the 30 years he spent at or near the top of MI5, but "never cracked."

In 1974, a year after Hollis' death, former Cabinet Secretary Lord Trend was secretly called out of retirement to reinvestigate the matter, the Daily Mail said.

After a three-week study, Trend found that Hollis was a "likely suspect" and had "provided unconvincing answers to his interrogators" during 48 hours of questioning, it said.

Trend, reached at his home in Oxford, declined to comment.

Pincher says, incidentally, that Hollis was the intelligence officer sent to Canada in 1945 to interrogate Soviet defector Igor Gouzenko on infiltration of Britain's security services.

"Reading his reports many years later, it was found that on his return to London he had reported the minimum amount of information to the department about this most valuable defector," Pincher says.

Opposition Labor party legislator Dennis Canavan said in the House of Commons Monday night that the Hollis affair "seems like yet another cover-up by the establishment."

"If it is true, it is quite appalling," Canavan said. "There is a great deal of public concern about the way in which our so-called security services are operated, especially after the Blunt scandal."

Canavan was referring to former Royal art historian Anthony Blunt, publicly exposed in 1979 as having passed information to the Soviet Union during World War II.

Blunt was given immunity from prosecution in 1964 in exchange for information on three other British spies, Donald MacLean and Kim Philby, now living in the Soviet Union, and the late Guy Burgess.

Penal Code Blocks Curbs On Theaters

laws," said Durden.

"If they haven't got the laws to do anything how did they arrest those five people last month?" he asked, alluding to a raid on theaters by a special task force of police, sheriff's deputies and criminal district attorney investigators.

"We're not going to satisfied with this bone," said Durden. "We want something done about this consistently and regularly."

Durden said the city of San Antonio conducts daily raids on theaters and bookstores that allegedly violate state pornography statutes. The same could be done here, he said.

Irked By Excuse

The prevention and prosecution of violent crimes would not be hindered by such raids, he maintained.

That excuse is just a "cop-out" for people who don't want to do anything about the situation, he said.

"Those people downtown act like they own those theaters," said Durden.

"If they have a policeman driving around singing for two hours why can't they do something?" he asked in reference to a story in Sunday's Avalanche-Journal concerning a sheriff's deputy who had left his radio microphone in operation while on patrol.

Quotes Sheriff

Durden said his group doesn't expect any help from the sheriff's office either. According to Durden, Sheriff "Sonny" Keesee told his group during its March meeting, "We can close those places down if you show us you want it done."

However, no action has been taken by that office either, he said.

Keesee's statement proves there are laws on the books which can be used to rid Lubbock of pornography, Durden said.

However, law enforcement officials point out that each film shown by a theater must be considered by a jury before it can be declared obscene.

Court Findings Noted

Also, according to Supreme Court decisions, until the film is judged obscene, no injunction can be issued to prevent the theater from showing the material.

The Supreme Court also has ruled that theaters cannot be closed by law enforcement authorities for consistently showing films judged to be obscene.

Durden said officials could use a federal law, the Rico Statute, which is primarily aimed at organized crime, but also deals with interstate and intrastate shipment of pornographic materials.

If local officials continue to be inactive about the issue, Durden said, his group will, as a "last resort," ask an outside agency to investigate why the district attorney's office refuses to follow up on citizen complaints.

GASOLINE MARK SET

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second straight reporting period, the United States has set a record for gasoline supplies, the Energy Department said Monday. The DOE reported that gasoline stocks stood at 286.9 million barrels for the four-week period ending March 13, up 1.1 million barrels over the previous record set for the period ending March 6. Energy officials said these figures are 3 percent higher than levels at the same time last year and should assure adequate supplies for the summer driving season barring any unforeseen cutoffs of foreign supplies.

CONVICTED — Joseph Paul Franklin is shown being led from the U.S. District Court building in Salt Lake City where he was convicted and sentenced to two consecutive life terms in prison on two federal counts of violating the civil rights of two young black joggers by shooting them to death as they left a public park. After being sentenced Monday, Franklin rushed the bench, denouncing the judge and prosecutors. Marshals wrestled him to the floor and handcuffed him after the outburst. (AP Laserphoto)

Electronic Equipment Reported Stolen From Local Residence

Electronic equipment and several other items were stolen last week from the 8507 Knoxville Ave. home of William Hawkins, according to Lubbock police.

The goods, valued at almost $4,500, were stolen from the residence between Tuesday and Thursday, while Hawkins and his wife were out of town, reports show.

The break-in was discovered by a friend Thursday, but a report was not made because the friend was not sure exactly what had been stolen, police said.

Someone entered the house by breaking a window and removed a Texas Instruments home computer system and accessories, four electronic calculators, a language translator, two color televisions, a videotape recorder, five videotapes, a 22-caliber lever-action rifle, a tool box and assorted tools and a hunting knife.

A witness reported seeing a solid brown four-wheel-drive vehicle parked in the driveway of the home about 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, police said.

In other activity, a Datsun 280ZX worth about $10,000 was stolen during the weekend from the used car lot at Brunken Toyota, 5117 S. Loop 289, police said.

The 1979 black car was stolen between 6 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. Monday, sales manager Ray Pipkin told police. The keys to the vehicle were discovered to be missing Friday.

A 26-year-old woman told police a teen-age boy who lives next door to her has been exposing himself to her as she leaves for work each morning.

The woman said she had noticed the boy watching her from his house as she left home every morning for the past four weeks. When she left her residence Wednesday morning, the victim said she saw that the teen-ager was standing in front of a window in his home and was wearing no clothes.

She reported the incident to police when the boy again exposed himself Monday morning about 6:30.

A Lubbock man lost a large amount of blood and was in serious condition Monday after being assaulted by a man who barged into his ex-wife's residence while the victim was visiting, police said.

Andy Martinez, 24, of 410 Ute St. suffered multiple injuries and was in Methodist Hospital's intensive care unit.

Martinez told police he was visiting a female friend about 12:05 a.m. Monday when the woman's former husband forced his way into the residence and kicked him in the head. The woman said she saw the intruder pull something from his clothing, possibly a gun, and begin beating her friend about the head.

Reports state Martinez broke free from the assailant and ran to his brother's house, where police were found him about a half hour later.

Investigators said the woman's walls were splattered with blood and a woman Monday said there was a large pool of blood near her residence. Police said they believe the blood came from Martinez as he was fleeing to his brother's house.

Reports indicate the woman was not hurt by the suspect. No arrest had been made by Monday.

In other activity, authorities were looking for two men who allegedly robbed the Ham's Food Mart at 7901 University Ave. about 10:45 p.m. Sunday and made off with a meager $25 in loot.

Attendant Bennie Keck, 17, said he was cleaning up when the pair entered the store. The teen-ager said one suspect told him "to go about your business. We're going to rob you."

Hospital's Financial Turnaround Lauded

By DEBBI STALTER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

After presenting a preliminary audit report showing Lubbock General Hospital's 1980 operations $2.8 million to the good, auditors for the county teaching hospital had some cautionary predictions for the coming year in view of Reagan administration cutbacks.

Auditor Gene Neiswander of the accounting firm of Ernst & Whinney told hospital district board members Monday the hospital's financial turn-around since last year has been "very remarkable," in particular noting that patient service revenues and collection rates at the hospital had increased greatly.

Neiswander also pointed out that tax collections in November and December were up $600,000 to $700,000 from the same period last year, contributing to the improved financial picture.

But Neiswander board told members to beware of Reagan plans to slash Medicaid reimbursements to hospitals. He also remarked that although Reagan has said Medicare funds would not be touched, he feels that program may be in jeopardy, too.

Neiswander pointed out, however, that Lubbock General has a reasonably low financial load tied up in Medicare and Medicaid reimbursements, which total 23 percent of its patient revenues.

He said that although the hospital will feel the effects of a cutback, the loss will not be as substantial as that for some other hospitals his firm audits. He noted one client hospital in which the federal programs totaled 63 percent of patient revenues.

Concerning Lubbock General's audit, Neiswander said the collection rate at the hospital was substantially higher than other public hospitals audited by the firm.

The teaching hospital reported a collection rate near 70 percent for 1980, according to hospital finance director Charley Trimble.

Hospital administrator Jake Henry Jr. said that although the hospital has improved its collections, he also attributes the higher revenues to the low indigency level in Lubbock County.

Earlier Monday, hospital district administrative committee members heard a report from emergency room medical director Dr. John Farquhar.

Farquhar pointed out areas of improvement he plans to initiate at the hospital since recently taking over the emergency room post. He said his objectives include not only providing quality care for all patients but development of service and continuation of faculty-staff programs in areas of medical treatment, nursing and associated duties.

Farquhar has set down requirements for state board certification and continuing education for emergency room personnel which he hopes to have completed by the end of 1983. He has also put cardio-vascular resuscitation, including the instigation of training sessions in rural areas, at the top of his priority list, he said.

BONE FOUND IN TREE

UMATILLA, Ore. (AP) — A human thigh bone wedged in a tree has baffled police, who searched through the weekend and found no other bones in the area, officials said Monday. "This is causing us all kinds of problems," Police Chief Eldon Olson said. "It could be anything from a homicide to a missing person. We need the rest of the body."

"Where's my two pocket shirt?"

Because that's what you'll hear most. The name is Mr. California, and it's for those who really want a two pocket shirt... and no other will do. Mr. California designed the shirt with everything a man likes... fit, comfort... and, two pockets. They made it of permanent press polyester and cotton... (Who likes to iron anyway?), with nine colors available (melon, pink, powder blue, white, maize, beige, toast, lilac, pastel green). It's easy to make sure there's always a Mr. California in the closet... then, you can name it, "Oh, here's my two pocket shirt!" Sizes S-M-L-XL (20.00) Men's Department Downtown, South Plains Mall

Norval Pollard The Honeymoon Is Over

FOR PLAYERS AND COACHES ALIKE, THE LONG WAIT ENDS TODAY.

The three-month honeymoon between Texas Tech head football coach Jerry Moore and the Red Raider gridgers comes to an end this afternoon at 4 when coaches and players take to the field for the first of 20 spring practice sessions. Moore was hired January 4 to replace Rex Dockery and rejuvenate the ailing Tech football program. Moore, busy hiring a coaching staff, recruiting and organizing his plan of attack during his first three months in Lubbock, spent little time evaluating his new players. He didn't want to prejudice himself one way or another toward any player. He wanted to give each squad member an equal chance to prove or disprove himself.

Thus, the honeymoon period — greetings, smiles, handshakes, etc. Today, though, the new couple starts life together in earnest.

"We're really anxious to start," Moore said Monday. "I know the coaches have been itching to get going for some time, and I think most of the players are also anxious to start."

"The main thing is to try to get the kids in the right slots," Moore continued. "I haven't had a chance to see a lot of film of our players so it will be a learning experience for everyone."

MOORE AND HIS ASSISTANTS HAVE THEIR WORK CUT OUT FOR THEM. In addition to evaluating the returning Raiders and finding out just who can play where, Tech coaches will install new offensive and defensive schemes. The I formation will replace the veer as Tech's bread-and-butter offense, and the pro-style 43 defense takes the place of the 52 the Raiders have utilized for as long as most fans can remember.

The new Tech coaching staff inherits a relatively experienced squad. Fourteen starters (seven offensive and seven defensive, as well as punter Maury Buford and placekicker John Greve) return from 1980's 5-6 team. Despite the large number of veterans, Moore must plug some big holes.

The major concern at this time is the defensive line. The lack of proven trenchmen is the main reason behind the switch in defensive alignments. Junior Gabriel Rivera is the only proven lineman back. Tech coaches must find both a starting tackle to line up next to Rivera and some quality backups to stack behind the front line.

The offensive line is another big question mark, especially with the retirement of tackle Robert Caughlin (back injury) and tight end Kevin Kolbye (personal reasons). Finding a capable backup signal-caller is also a priority.

THERE ARE STRONG POINTS, TOO. THE TECH PASSING GAME was awesome at times last fall, and the versatility of the I formation should make the passing attack even more of a threat. Quarterback Ron Reeves is a proven passer. Receivers Renie Baker and Jamie Harris put some excitement back in Tech's attack.

There is an abundance of solid linebackers and defensive ends. Seven running backs with varsity playing time will contend for starting berths. The secondary returns five players who started at one time or another in 1980. Although the Raiders are starting fresh, Moore doesn't have to begin from scratch.

Because the actual season is still some five months down the road, the significance of spring training is often diminished by players and fans. But the next five weeks are crucial to the Raiders and the success, or lack of success, they achieve this fall.

"This is where you establish yourself," said David Knaus, a former all-conference defensive lineman for Tech and a member of Moore's defensive coaching staff. "A lot of players don't really realize the significance of spring practice and don't understand what it can mean to them. They look at it as work — and it is work — but it's also a critical learning period... a time to learn the fundamentals of a position and a time to learn how to be physical on the football field."

"IT'S A LOT OF HARD WORK AND NOT MUCH FUN — I USED TO COUNT the days until it was over — but it's where a player makes his presence felt," continued Knaus, who will coach the Tech linebackers. "It's a chance to make an impression."

"The bottom line is that it's where you earn a position," chimed in Rodney Allison, Tech's former star quarterback and a part-time offensive coach on Moore's staff. "Fighting for a position is what spring practice is all about."

As Knaus pointed out, Tech's 1981 spring workouts will be a learning experience for all but may be a little tougher for the vets.

"The older guys, who are used to a completely different system, will have to concentrate just as much as the young guys," declared Knaus. "They not only have to learn new offensive and defensive schemes, but they have to familiarize themselves with new coaches, new personalities."

Today, those new personalities begin the task of giving the Red Raiders a new personality. That of a winner.

Floyd Bags TPC, Bonus

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The thought of the biggest payoff in the history of golf — a total of $322,000 — was very much in the mind of veteran Ray Floyd when he won a sudden-death playoff for the title Monday in the storm-delayed Tournament Players Championship.

"I'd be lying if I said I wasn't thinking about the monetary reward," Floyd said after scoring a winning par on the first playoff hole to beat Curtis Strange and Barry Jaeckel.

Strange and Jaeckel had missed the green and each missed a par-saving putt of between five and six feet.

"When Jaeckel missed his, my caddy said to me, 'We may not have to go any more holes,'" Floyd said.

"Then Curtis missed..." And Floyd was looking at a one-foot putt for par. 12 inches for $322,000.

"I hadn't thought much about the putt," Floyd said. "It was pretty routine."

"Then Curtis missed and all of a sudden the cash register started ringing and I had to back off and think about it a little."

He tapped it in for his 14th career victory and his second in a row. He won $72,000 from the total purse of $440,000 for this annual championship of golf touring players.

He also collected $250,000 in bonus money. The sponsors of the Inverrary Classic, Doral-Eastern Open and the TPC arranged the huge bonus for a player able to win two consecutive titles in the three Florida events. Floyd won Doral last week.

"I really haven't had a chance to give much thought to what I'm going to do with that much money," Floyd said, then grinned. "But I'm sure my wife can handle it."

Floyd was six shots off the pace when the storm-delayed final round began in cool, cloudy, breezy weather. He started about a half hour in front of the other contenders, fired a no-bogey, 4-under-par 68 and got his 72-hole total of 285 on the board early.

He took a brief break in the clubhouse, then went to a television tower to watch Jaeckel and Strange finish their regulation play.

"I thought for sure one of those boys would birdie 18 (a par-5 finishing hole) and win it all," Floyd said. "But they gave me a chance and that's all I could ask for."

Strange didn't really have a chance. He missed the green and had to work hard for the par that completed a round of 70 and a tie with Floyd at three under.

Then it was Jaeckel's turn. He put his third shot about six feet above the cup and needed that for the birdie that would win it outright.

And he left it one turn of the ball short, dead in the heart of the hole. "I just hit a terrible putt," Jaeckel said. "It was never in. I wasn't nervous or excited. I just hit a bad putt."

He, too, made par and Floyd, on the TV tower, suddenly was looking at a playoff.

"My only thought was, 'Don't break a leg getting down off the tower,'" Floyd said.

He didn't. And when all three missed the green on the playoff hole, Floyd's chip to about a foot of the cup set up the winning shot.

Strange and Jaeckel each collected $35,000.

Miller Barber, Jim Colbert, Bruce Lietzke and Jim Simons tied for fourth at 287, two shots back.

Tulsa Continues Tourney Surge

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Paul Pressey scored 20 points, 11 down the stretch, to pace Tulsa to a 89-87 victory over West Virginia in the semifinals of the National Invitation Tournament Monday night.

Pressey was held scoreless in the first 12 of the second half but his basket at 7:50 cut the West Virginia lead to 72-69. The 6-foot-5 swingman scored again to make it 78-77 and his three-point play with 4:25 remaining in the game gave the Golden Hurricane an 80-78 lead and also fouled out West Virginia captain Greg Nance.

Diego McCoy, a 6-2 sophomore guard whose previous career high was 18 points, scored 30 for West Virginia to keep them in the lead most of the game. His last basket, with 15 seconds to go, cut Tulsa's lead to 89-87, then Tulsa's David Brown missed two free throws with eight seconds remaining to give the Mountaineers a final chance to send the game into overtime.

But Greg Jones, West Virginia's leading scorer during the regular season, missed a 20-footer at the buzzer to preserve Tulsa's triumph.

After leading 44-40 at halftime, West Virginia went on an 11-5 run to take a 59-53 lead, then a basket by McCoy with 10 minutes to go gave the Mountaineers their largest lead, 70-63.

Greg Stewart scored 19 points and Mike Anderson 15 for Tulsa, while Nance followed McCoy for the Mountaineers with 22.

There were six lead changes in the early minutes of the game, then a 13-2 run helped West Virginia to a 21-11 lead with 13:03 to go.

But a three-point play by Pressey sparked a seven-point run by Tulsa that shaved the margin to 21-18 less than a minute later. Mike Anderson, a six-foot guard, scored 10 of Tulsa's next 20 points to give the Golden Hurricane a 38-37 lead with 4:32 to go, but West Virginia responded with seven straight points before Ty Nilsson's basket for Tulsa left the Mountaineers with their 44-40 lead at halftime.

SYRACUSE 70, PURDUE 63
Dan Schayes, although severely hampered by an injured ankle, scored three points and pulled down two rebounds in the final minute Monday night to help Syracuse defeat Purdue 70-63 to advance to the finals of the National Invitation Tournament.

The Orangemen will meet Tulsa in Wednesday night's championship game.

Schayes injured his left ankle in practice Monday afternoon and he limped noticeably during the game, often failing to get to the offensive end when Syracuse got the ball.

The 6-foot-11 Schayes, son of former Syracuse Nationals pro great Dolph Schayes, hit a tie-breaking basket with a minute to go to give Syracuse, 22-11, a 63-61 lead it never relinquished. Schayes also hit a free throw with 30 seconds to go to give the Orangemen a 66-63 advantage, then pulled down two rebounds that led to easy baskets by Eric Santifer and Leo Rautins in the final moments.

Rautins and Santifer were Syracuse's leading scorers with 19 and 18 points, respectively, while Schayes finished with nine points.

PURDUE (63)
Morris 42-210, Searce 74-418, Cross 62-214, Edmonson 43-511, Walker 22-24, Barnes 0-0-0, Ebert 0-0-0, Stallings 1-0-2, Kitcher 1-0-2. Totals 25-18-43.

SYRACUSE (70)
Brown 8-0-16, Rautins 8-3-19, Schayes 2-3-9, Moss 4-0-8, Santifer 6-8-18, Kerins 0-0-0, Ward 1-0-0-0. Totals 29-12-20-70.
Halftime — Syracuse 37, Purdue 32. Fouled out: Brown, Total fouls — Purdue 20, Syracuse 20. A — 14, 955.

Carthel, Chaps Open Workouts

By ERIC GALE
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Yes, it is baseball season at Lubbock Christian College. Everyone knows that.

It is also spring football season at LCC. And no one knows that better than head coach Don Carthel.

"This will be a matter of teaching," Carthel said Monday, as he prepared to hold a team meeting of approximately 100 veterans and transfers, and then distribute practice uniforms.

The LCC program, 1-18 in its first two seasons, begins to count down its quota of 20 spring workouts at 3 p.m. today. Carthel and company have a maximum five weeks in which to conclude practices. According to the pre-practice timetable, only interference by bad weather would bring the fifth week into play.

Sessions will run Monday, Wednesday and Friday, from 3 until 5:30 p.m., and Tuesday and Thursday, from 3 until 5.

As is a rule in the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association, of which LCC is a member school, no contact is permitted at any time during the spring. Thus, there will be no hitting of any kind, no wearing of pads, and no intrasquad game.

"We'll be throwing the ball a bunch," Carthel said. "The lack of contact will inhibit our running game so we'll work mainly on the fine points of the passing game."

"New offensive sets will be introduced," Carthel added. "My staff and I will implement the pro-I and slot-I (offenses), and the split-6 defense to the best of our ability. We'll also continue with weightlifting for a half hour three days each week. We're still a long way from being as strong as we need to be."

Most positions are there for the taking, Carthel believes, but adds that "everything is going to open up again next fall when the freshmen get here. The players who are with me this spring will have the inside track, and it will be tough for a freshman to start, but there will be some spots available."

Carthel does not envision spring practice as an opportunity to introduce his overall organization and basic philosophies. All that has been done, he says.

"Our guys know me and they know what to expect," Carthel said. "They know to hustle and they know to be on time."

Projected Chap strengths in the early going include inside linebacker Mike Chatham, former Estacado High School star and transfer from Eastern New Mexico University; running back Terry Drake, and defensive backs Pat Randolph, Dennis Price and Kevin Johnson.

Carthel will be assisted by Stan Calfey, Dub Manis, Mark Morgan, redshirt Mark Windham, Bruce Dean and Steve Cargil.

Red Raiders Host NAIA Power

Three-fourths of the Texas Tech pitching rotation is slated to see action today when the road-weary Red Raiders play host to NAIA powerhouse Southeastern Oklahoma State in a nine-inning game at 2 p.m. at Tech Diamond.

The Raiders, 15-10 overall and 0-3 in SWC outings following a nine-day road trip to Austin and Edinburg during which they dropped eight of 11 games, will use starters Kyle Fahrenthold, David Carroll and Robert Bryant against the Savages in preparation for this weekend's conference series with Baylor in Waco.

"We'll use all three pitchers because they have to throw again Friday and Saturday," Tech coach Kal Segrist said. "We don't have enough time for any one of them to throw a complete game (today) and come back this weekend."

"Kyle will throw the longest because he won't pitch again until Saturday. Red (Carroll, who will pitch Friday) will get in some work and so will Tweety (Bryant)."

The left-handed Fahrenthold is 5-1 with a 3.23 ERA. Carroll has a 4-1 record and 3.48 ERA while Bryant is 2-1 with a team-leading 2.83 ERA.

Right-hander Ron Gilbreath, 4-0, is expected to start for the Savages, 19-1 this season and the second-ranked NAIA squad in the country. Southeastern Oklahoma participated in the NAIA World Series last season and has dropped only a 6-5 decision to Oral Roberts this year.

The Raiders will be trying to break their second three-game losing skid of this season and reverse their fortunes of the past 10 days.

During that period, the Raiders dropped three conference games to Texas, finished second to Kansas in the Jody Ramsey Tournament in Edinburg and lost a pair of games to Seton Hall.

"We reacted without as much maturity as we'd have liked," Segrist said of the losses during the spring-break action. "We're a young team and we broke down several times due to inexperience and immaturity."

Six Tech starters are hitting at or better than .300.

TAIWAN ENDS FEUD

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The two-China dispute that has been a thorn in the Olympic Games for years was resolved Monday when Taiwan signed an agreement to end the bickering. Taiwan will be eligible to compete, beginning in 1984 at the Los Angeles Olympics, with a new flag, new emblem and new name.

AP Writer Favors North Carolina

By JOHN NELSON
Associated Press Writer
The stage lights come up, and the curtain rises on the final act. We have lived through the drama, the comic interlude. We recognize the pathos, the tragedy and the triumph. Now, it is time for the climax. The players are well enough known, members of the traveling minstrel shows from Louisiana State, Virginia, North Carolina and Indiana. So, finally, after four months of preparation, it's time for the finals of the NCAA college basketball tournament. Soon, we will know the heroes and the goats. We will know the winners and the losers. And, after the curtain falls for the final time on the 1980-81 season, we will know the champions.

In the preceding acts, we saw Louisville, last season's champion, emerge from a 2-7 season-opening slump to the championship of the Metro Conference, only to lose to Arkansas in the second round of the Midwest Regionals on a half-court shot by U.S. Reed.

We waited patiently for last season's All-America forward, Albert King of Maryland, to cut a mighty swathe through opposing players. He failed, as did Maryland, losing by 35 points, 99-64, to Indiana in the second round of the Midwest Regionals.

We wondered if this would finally be the year for Ray Meyer at DePaul. He had the talent, but he lacked the inspiration. DePaul, then top-ranked, succumbed to St. Joseph's, Pa., 49-48, in the second round of the Midwest.

We supposed we'd never see the day that Oregon State's Steve Johnson, a 6-foot-10½ scoring machine, would play 30 minutes. He continued to get into foul trouble, and we never did. We lost our last chance when the Beavers lost to Kansas State, 50-48, in the second round of the West.

We knew there would be a Cinderella team in this year's tournament, and there was. St. Joseph's. This year, though, she never got her slipper off. She may have turned the head of the handsome prince by beating DePaul, but Indiana sent her home wearing both shoes with a 78-46 loss in the Midwest title game.

So, now, we're down to four. No one could be surprised at the teams. After a spate of upsets in the subregionals, four of the nation's Top 10 teams fought their way into the finals, each playing its best basketball of the season.

The first Final Four game pits LSU, regular-season champion of the Southeastern Conference, against Big Ten champion Indiana. The other semifinal is an all-Atlantic Coast Conference affair, matching regular-season champion Virginia against ACC tournament champion North Carolina.

For those of us that might miss the final act, let's pick 'em.

LSU VS. INDIANA — Durand Macklin, 6-7, and Howard Carter, 6-6, make the Tigers strong up front, and guard Ethan Martin, it is said, is quicker than a card shark. But Kentucky proved how beatable LSU can be if you play defense, and no team in the country can do it better than Bobby Knight's Hoosiers. Ray Tolbert and Landon Turner will hassle the LSU front line until it looks like a brain wave scan, and the Tigers will have absolutely no advantage with Martin against Hoosiers All-American Isaiah Thomas. Let's say Indiana by four points.

NORTH CAROLINA VS. VIRGINIA — Terry Holland's Cavaliers defeated North Carolina twice during the season. Does anybody beat Dean Smith's Tar Heels three times in one season? Center Ralph Sampson, 7-4, will be a factor in Virginia's favor, but Jeff Lamp always has been the key to beating the Cavaliers. If Lamp plays forward, like he's been doing, he'll have a rough night against the Tar Heels' front threesome — Al Wood, James Worthy and freshman center Sam Perkins. That means, Tar Heels by three.

That leaves us with Indiana vs. North Carolina in the title game. This may be the year of destiny for Dean Smith, who has yet to win an NCAA title in five trips to the Final Four, but destiny does not win ball games.

Wood, Worthy and Perkins will. It should be an interesting defensive struggle — Knight vs. Smith. They may be the two best defensive coaches in the country. Knight with his man-to-man and Smith with his multiple zones.

Let's call it "D-Day" and let's say North Carolina by five.

FLIPPED OUT — Florida A&M long jumper Calvin Cook turned a few heads over the weekend with his unorthodox style during the Sunshine Relays in Tallahassee, Fla. Cook turns a complete flip, forcing his body forward. Cook finished third in the competition with a jump of 23-4 Sunday. (AP Laserphoto)

Coaches Name All-Tourney Picks

AUSTIN (AP) — Leonard Allen and Michael Jaco of champion Port Arthur Lincoln and the Vittatoe brothers — Vince and Vern — of runner-up San Antonio Marshall made the Class 5A boys' all-state tournament basketball team announced today.

The fifth player on the 5A all-star team was Willie Ashley of Fort Worth Dunbar.

Dallas Roosevelt, the pre-tournament favorite, lost in the semifinals to Marshall and was not represented on the 5A all-tournament team.

In Class 4A, Donald Mickens and Andre Bouttee of champion Beaumont Hebert were unanimous all-tournament selections. Ken Walling and David Harbin of Canyon and James Stern of Waxahachie completed the squad.

Bouttee, a 6-foot-2 senior, was the leading tournament scorer with 53 points and top rebounder with 31.

There also were two unanimous choices in 3A — Larry Haynes of Altair Rice, the champion, and Merritt Williams of Powderly North Lamar. The other selections were Earnest Fields of Rice, Ricky Herring of Perryton and Jimmy Smith of Van Vleck.

Johnny Humphrey and Mark Johnson of champion Gladewater Sabine and Charles Smith of Bartlett repeated from last year as all-tournament selections, and Humphrey was a unanimous choice this year in 2A. Darryn Shearmore of Archer City and Robert Sanders of Shallowater also made the team.

Hezekiah Carter, Clint Thomas and Al Jackson of champion Snook dominated the Class 1A all-tournament team, which included Jay Don Powell of Henrietta Midway and Danny White of Avinger. Carter made the team for the second year in a row.

Car Crash Claims Cyclist

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — Mike Hailwood of Britain, 10 times world motorcycle racing champion, died Monday of severe head injuries suffered in a weekend car crash in which his 9-year-old daughter was killed.

The 40-year-old champion, who retired in 1979 after a 21-year career, never regained consciousness after the Saturday night accident, said a spokesman at Birmingham Accident Hospital.

"He died naturally from the result of his injuries and there was no question of a machine being turned off," the spokesman added in response to questions about whether Hailwood could have survived on life-support machinery.

Hailwood's wife Pauline, a former actress, was at his bedside when he died.

The couple's daughter Michelle was killed instantly in the crash but their 6-year-old son, David, survived with minor injuries.

Known to his fans as "Mike the Bike," the shy, balding Hailwood was the son of a millionaire motorcycle dealer who gave him his first chopper when he was just five years old.

Hailwood was 21 when he first won the world championship. After 12 years on motorbikes, he switched to four-wheel racing in 1969 and drove in Formula One for the Surtees and McLaren teams.

He was awarded the George Cross for his courage in pulling Swiss driver Clay Regazzoni from a burning car after a smashup in the 1973 South African Grand Prix.

A year later, an accident at the German Grand Prix at Nurburgring left Hailwood with a broken right leg. He returned from racing for four years but made a triumphant comeback — this time back on two wheels — by winning the 1978 world motorcycle title.

In all, he won more than 1,000 races including a record 14 victories on the Isle of Man circuit.

Mason's Rights Possibly Violated

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Two state investigators who questioned former University of Arizona football coach Tony Mason twice about alleged false travel vouchers admitted Monday they didn't first inform him of his constitutional rights.

Officers Kenneth Johnson and Warren Cottrell of the state Department of Public Safety testified in Pima County Superior Court in connection with a defense motion that an alleged confession by Mason not be admitted into evidence in his pending trial.

Mason faces charges of conspiracy, filing false claims and theft. He and six ex-aides were indicted by the statewide grand jury. Mason's trial is scheduled to begin May 8.

He allegedly confessed to taking $5,000 to $6,000 from the university for phony recruiting trips, according to the investigators' reports. In all, according to the indictment, the university provided reimbursement for more than $13,000 in "trips" that were verified by receipts of airline tickets that had not been bought or used.

Baseball Opener Moves Election Up

NORWOOD, Ohio (AP) — Opening Day is a major holiday in Cincinnati, home of the oldest club in professional baseball and site of the traditional major league season opener.

Some schools even excuse pupils for the afternoon if they have a note saying they're going to the ball game.

But suburban Norwood school officials evidently didn't look at their calendar when they scheduled a special levy election for April 8 — when the Cincinnati Reds open the major league season against the World Champion Philadelphia Phillies.

The Opening Day game is always a sellout, and this year even President Reagan will be at Riverfront Stadium.

The Norwood school board, realizing the heavy competition and fearful that supporters of the proposed 9.6-mill levy might go to the game rather than vote, have moved the election up a day to April 7.

Richardson Nabs NBA Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael Ray Richardson was named National Basketball Association player of the week for the period ending March 22, the league announced Monday.

Richardson, a 6-foot-5 guard, led the Knicks to an unbeaten week. In New York's four victories, he scored 101 points, shot 612 from the field, hit five of 10 three-point attempts, grabbed 31 rebounds and had 45 assists.

With starters Ray Williams and Campy Russell sidelined last Saturday, Richardson had his best game of the season with 27 points, 15 rebounds and 19 assists in a 119-105 romp over Cleveland.

Richardson, the first Knick to win the honor this season, edged out Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Los Angeles, David Greenwood of Chicago, Alvan Adams of Phoenix, Cliff Robinson of New Jersey and Kent Benson of Detroit.

Macklin Expected To Play Saturday

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — A sore finger will be an inconvenience to Louisiana State University forward Rudy Macklin against Indiana on Saturday, but not a disaster, said Jordy Hultberg, an assistant coach at LSU.

Macklin took a stiff pass on the end of the little finger of his right hand with eight minutes to play in LSU's 96-85 victory over Wichita State in the Midwest Regional championship game on Sunday.

Macklin is left-handed. The finger was dislocated at the first joint, and a three-stitch cut was opened.

"He's fine," Hultberg said before Monday's practice session.

"The X-rays showed no broken bones or torn ligaments."

He said the team's leading scorer will be in the lineup Sunday.

"When there's something this big at stake, you can just forget the pain," Hultberg said.

GIRLS' ALL-SOUTH PLAINS SELECTIONS

Swiftettes Dominate 1A Squad

By RICHARD DAY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

It's become an annual occurrence that the Nazareth Swiftettes win a state title and dominate the basketball awards ceremonies and this year is no exception.

The Swiftettes rolled to their fifth consecutive state championship two weeks ago as their girls proved to be the most talented ones around.

In winning his third straight title since arriving on the legendary Nazareth scene in 1978, coach Joe Lombard has a 109-4 record in three seasons. He is this year's All-South Plains Class 1A Coach of the Year and his prize players, Lori and Sharon Gerber, are the Class 1A All-South Plains Co-Players of the Year.

Other members of the prestigious squad include Roxanne Birkenfeld, also of Nazareth. Lisa Wood of Sudan, Sherrie Seaton of Lazbuddie, Bunni Zabielski of Matley County, and Talley Griffin of Borden County.

"Hey, coaches are only as good as their players," Lombard said humbly. "I accept the honor on behalf of the players. It's really been great here at Nazareth and I hope we can continue the tradition. It's getting tougher year after year because more teams are out to beat us."

Only two of the Swiftettes' 38 opponents this past season were able to achieve that feat.

"Early in the year I felt we had the talent to win the state title again," Lombard said. "This could have been the best team we've ever had at Nazareth."

The Gerber cousins were one of the main reasons Nazareth was such an outstanding team this season. Lori, a 5-8 senior, led the Swiftettes in scoring by averaging 18 points per outing, and Sharon averaged 17 while playing both inside and outside positions. Both earned all-state tourney honors. Sharon is also a senior.

Miss Birkenfeld is the best shooter in the area according to Lombard. She was successful on 60 percent of her field goal attempts and averaged 12 points per game. The 5-6 junior also averaged five assists per game.

Miss Wood hit an average of 18 points per outing this season as Sudan seriously challenged Nazareth for the District 5-1A championship. Sudan was one of the teams to defeat Nazareth this season, in pre-district play.

Miss Seaton scored an average of 17 points a game. Miss Zabielski led Matley County into the regional playoffs by averaging 16 points per game.

Miss Griffin was one of the area's leading Class 1A scorers, averaging 20 points a game. She led Borden County to a 30-2 record and a near upset of Nazareth in the Region I tournament semifinals.

Matadors, Mustangs Post Diamond Wins

Victories, no matter how many a team has on its record, aren't always pretty. Just ask Hodie Garcia.

His Estacado Matadors whipped Palo Duro 14-6 at their home field Monday afternoon, but never seemed to be able to put the game out of reach. Why? They committed four costly errors, one of which allowed two Don runs to score.

"We made too many errors," Garcia said. "They were all mistakes we shouldn't be making. But they're physical ones and can be worked out."

In the only other prep action Monday, the Coronado Mustangs, like a strong West Texas wind, blew away the Caprock Longhorns 20-4 for their eighth straight victory.

What the Mats didn't lack, however, was the ability to score runs.

They put the Dons down 1-2-3 in the top of the first inning and exploded for six runs in the bottom of the frame by combining three hits, a hit batsman, a base on balls and two Palo Duro errors.

The Dons struck for two in the second, one in the third, two more in the fourth and one in the sixth to stay in the game. But the Mats stayed comfortably ahead by scoring one in the third, two in the fourth, four in the fifth and one more in the sixth.

"Yeah, we had a lot of offense," Garcia said. "We've been scoring a lot of runs lately but those errors are really hurting us."

The game's winning pitcher was Hector Limon. He allowed five runs in his five innings of work before giving way to Peter Lara. Lara limited the Dons to one run in two innings.

The game's hitting star was Wayne Dotson, who went three for four at the plate, including two consecutive inside the park home runs.

The Matadors will be back in action today when they travel to Hobbs, N.M. to play the Eagles in a 5 p.m. game. Garcia plans to use Dotson and Joe Benevise on the mound.

Coronado used 18 hits and 10 Caprock errors to amass their highest run total of the season while Terry Richardson limited the Longhorns to nine hits. He also walked three and struck out two in running his record to 2-0.

Brian Brock and Richardson each went four for five in the game with five runs batted in. Brock also scored four runs.

The victory increased Coronado's record to 8-1 for the season. The Mustangs will host Snyder today at 4 p.m. at the Coronado Field. Coach John Dudley expects to start Brock on the mound.

In other city action today, Monterey will put its 11-2 record on the line at 4 p.m. when it plays Canyon in a road game. Dunbar will try to break its five-game losing streak on the road against Ector at 4 p.m. and Lubbock High will be playing its first game in almost a week when it entertains Snyder at 4 p.m. at Mackenzie Park.

MHS coach Bobby Moegle, fresh from winning his 600th career game, will have Travis Walden handling the pitching chores today. Walden has a 2-1 record this season.

"We're actually playing better than I thought we would this season," Moegle said of his Plainsmen. "We're a pretty sound team. We're not spectacular, but we're as good as anybody we've played so far. We could just as easily be 13-0 as 11-2."

Canyon is going through a transition period since its basketball team just finished playing in the state tourney last weekend. Five Eagle baseball starters were on the court when the rest of their teammates were on the diamond practicing last week.

Dunbar will be out for revenge against Ector when it travels to Odessa today. The Panthers dropped a double-header to Ector 10-2 and 14-3 10 days ago. Those setbacks started the Panthers' five-game skid.

We're at a low point right now and Ector is looking tougher and tougher all the time," coach Jerry Lee said Monday. "We battled tough in the Snyder Tournament last weekend, but a few bad innings lost it for us. We could be 5-3 instead of 3-5 right now. You have to be patient, you can turn a 1-22 team around overnight."

Ryan Leads Astros To Win Over Bosox

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — Alan Ashby drove in the winning run with a fourth-inning single Monday to give the Houston Astros a 3-2 exhibition baseball win over the Boston Red Sox and break a six-game losing streak.

Ashby drove in Jeff Leonard who had singled in Dave Roberts, then stolen second. Terry Puhl opened the Houston scoring with a first-inning solo home run off Boston starter Frank Tanana.

Winning pitcher Nolan Ryan allowed only one hit and one unearned run in four innings.

"If we can eliminate the little mistakes, we can be competitive. The kids are still battling and have confidence in themselves."

The Lubbock High Westerners are also having their problems, both with their opponents and the weather. They have had three games and an entire tournament rained out.

"We've been hitting better the last few games," coach Bart Hernandez said Monday. "We're also throwing strikes and if we can continue to do that we'll be fine. Things are shaping up, but we need consistency."

"It was encouraging to split that double-header with Estacado last week. Estacado has a fine team. Levelland beat Estacado in the Snyder Tournament last weekend, so we're going to have to be hungry to win."

BASEBALL
AMERICAN LEAGUE
 BALTIMORE Orioles — Sent Larry Jones, Don Weichel and Tom Rowe, pitchers; Dave Huppert, catcher, and John Shelby, outfielder, to their minor

Royals Rip Rangers

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Hal McRae pounded a three-run homer in the fifth inning to break a 1-1 tie and lead the Kansas City Royals to a 5-1 romp over the Texas Rangers in exhibition baseball here Monday night.

McRae's blast came off Texas starter and loser Ferguson Jenkins and drove in Willie Wilson, who had singled ahead of McRae, and U.L. Washington, who had walked.

The Royals had scored in the first inning when Wilson tripled and scored on an infield grounder, and Texas tied the score on three straight singles in the fourth, scoring Pat Putnam.

Kansas City's last run came on a ninth-inning Clint Hurdle home run.

Tulia Needs Games

TULIA (Special) — The Tulsa boys' and girls' basketball teams seek opponents Dec. 4, Dec. 8 and Jan. 8, and Nov. 20 or Nov. 21. They also need teams to complete respective fields for the Tulia Tournament Dec. 17-18, and boys' and girls' teams for the school's seventh-grade tournament Contact Twila Whitten or Ronnie Latham between 1:45 and 3:30 p.m. at (806) 995-4142.

An open letter to Lubbock from John J. Casey, Chairman of Braniff

Our employees have voted for Braniff.

Now we ask for your vote.

As you have read, our union employees have given Braniff a vote of confidence by agreeing to invest 10% of their pay in the future of the airline.

Our management people are also contributing 10% of their wages to share in Braniff's future. I myself am taking no pay.

Many of our suppliers have volunteered to reduce their profit margins or fees by 10%.

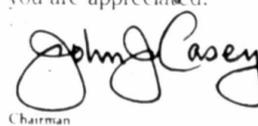

Now we need a vote of confidence from you, our passengers. We ask you to fly Braniff.

schedules to Dallas-Fort Worth and beyond to almost every major city in the nation and across our borders to Mexico, South America, Canada and Britain.

We ask for your vote of confidence by making your reservations on Braniff for next month and the rest of the year as well as this week and next week.

Thank you... you are appreciated!

 Chairman
 Braniff International

And there are plenty of reasons to fly Braniff — bargain fares, reliability, comfort, excellent

"JIMMY THE GREEK" would give odds that you couldn't find a three bedroom, two bath home that takes into McQueen Park for under $100,000. He would lose. We've got one that's in excellent condition. Beautiful landscaping and outdoor lighting. Lots of charm for only $95,000. Contact us today.

"HOMEST ABE" would like this little house. It has three bedrooms, two baths with a very large den. The home has been freshly painted and has storm windows and doors. Call for details. $36,950 on the 10 1/2% BOND MONEY. If you act now, FHA for the details.

"BANKER JOHN" says he will take $43,500 for this three bedroom, two bath home and he will make you a 90% loan at an interest rate below 10%. This home has good earthtone carpet, fireplace and built in kitchen appliances and it's in a good neighborhood. Please call this private number for details 792-4396

"CRAZY SHIRLEY" wanted a house that has three bedrooms, two baths with a big living den and fireplace. She said that it had to have excellent landscaping, a tennis court, and a swimming pool for under $100,000. If you see her, tell her we've found one in Quaker Heights and she can join the club members club for tennis and swimming and the same financing will please her.

84. Houses LOVELY 3-2-1, newly carpeted and custom drapes. A lot of extras. $44,950. Call 799-8346. Appointment only 2:15-5:30pm.

Talking Tombstone Marketed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It bothered Stan Zelazny that everybody at funerals has something to say except the deceased, so he invented the talking tombstone.

The tombstone, which will play a 90-minute recorded message from the deceased, can be yours for a mere $10,000. It's solar-powered, too.

"We guarantee it for two generations — 40 years," said Zelazny, 37, a manufacturing engineer in Sunnyvale, 40 miles south of San Francisco.

"A father can pass on the accumulated wisdom of his years or leave advice for his loved ones," he said.

But perhaps the idea is one whose time has not yet come. So far his Fidelity Monument Works, which was formed to market the talking tombstones, has had one customer — Zelazny.

Communist Blasts Reagan

NEW YORK (AP) — Gus Hall, the American Communist party leader, said Monday that most of the world is fearful and angry at President Ronald Reagan's policy on war and peace.

Hall, who just returned from a five-week visit to the Soviet Union where he attended the Communist Party's 26th Congress, said, "the world views the huge military budgets in the U.S. as a military mania."

He told a news conference that the next several weeks "will determine whether the world will be forced by the Reagan administration into a pattern of deadly new arms race, a race for new systems of mass murder."

Hall, general secretary of the Communist Party U.S.A., said this country "has never been more out of step with the rest of the world than today."

He also said the administration's proposed budget cuts "will cut deeply into the standard of living of the people" and pledged to "support the demonstrations that the people will stage to show their opposition."

Baseball Changes Election

NORWOOD, Ohio (AP) — The Norwood school board scheduled a $9.6 million tax vote for April 8, but baseball got in the way.

The date is the opening day of the major league season and one of the biggest holidays in Cincinnati, where the first professional game was played in 1869.

Many businesses close and some schools even excuse pupils for the afternoon if they have a note saying they're going to the game.

School officials in suburban Norwood evidently forgot about opening day when they scheduled the election the day the Cincinnati Reds open the season the world champion Philadelphia Phillies.

The board, apparently fearful that supporters of the proposed levy might go to the ballgame rather than vote, moved the election up to April 7.

Ex-Hostage To Retire

ATLANTA (AP) — An Atlanta radio station reported Monday that Col. Charles Scott, one of the Americans held hostage in Iran will retire from the U.S. Army after more than 31 years' service.

WGST Radio quoted unnamed sources as saying Scott, 48, would announce his retirement at a news conference Tuesday following a tour of the the Veterans Administration Hospital in DeKalb County.

An Army spokesman, Russ Weiskircher, said the Army would have "no comment" on the radio report.

The soldier had arrived in Tehran in September 1979, only a few weeks before Iranian militants stormed the U.S. Embassy. He had served an earlier tour in Iran as a Mideast affairs specialist and also served in Vietnam.

Video Game Record Set

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — Gregory Petermann has registered an unofficial world record of over 17 million points in the electronic video game Asteroids. He quit after 35 hours, too tired to go on.

Petermann, a pre-medical freshman at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, said he kept alert during the weekend marathon by listening to records, talking with his assistants and "drinking a lot of soda."

Singers To Testify

NEW YORK (AP) — The phrase "star witness for the prosecution" will take on a new meaning when several rock 'n' roll performers testify this week at the tape counterfeiting trial of Sam Goody Inc. and its top executives.

The defendants are accused of stealing hundreds of thousands of dollars from popular recording artists — including the Bee Gees, Paul Simon, Paul McCartney, Olivia Newton-John and Billy Joel — by selling counterfeit tapes of their recordings to unsuspecting customers.

Defense lawyers tried to block personal appearances by the stars, claiming their presence would unduly influence the jury and would disrupt the trial.

But U.S. District Judge Thomas C. Platt ruled Monday the stars could appear because their appearance was needed to show the artists had personal knowledge of the fair market value of their recordings.

Prosecutors said their first "star" witness may be called Wednesday or Thursday to tell the court about the economic loss because of the alleged crime. They didn't say who it would be.

Admiral McCain Dead At 70

WASHINGTON (AP) — Admiral John S. McCain Jr., commander in chief of U.S. Pacific forces at the height of the Vietnam war, died Sunday of a heart attack, a family spokesman said.

McCain, 70, died aboard a military aircraft returning from Europe, where he had been participating in awards ceremonies and conducting other business.

Funeral services with military honors, followed by burial in Arlington National Cemetery, will be held Friday. McCain will be buried next to his father, who also was a four-star admiral.

From 1968 to 1972 McCain was commander of all U.S. military forces in the Pacific, including the troops then fighting in Vietnam. His was the single largest military command in the country's history, including more than a million soldiers, sailors and airmen and covering 85 million square miles.

McCain's son, Capt. John S. McCain III, was a prisoner of war in Hanoi for five years during the Vietnam war. Capt. McCain is now assigned as Navy liaison officer to the Senate, a job his father once held.

Admiral McCain graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1931 and was a submarine commander during World War II. Prior to taking the Pacific command, he was commander of naval services in Europe in 1967-68 and served as military representative to the United Nations in New York for two years before that.

Bob Hope Receives Award

DENVER (AP) — As actors Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Fred MacMurray and Jimmy Stewart crowned "Thanks for the Memory," Bob Hope received the prestigious National Artists Award in a star-studded ceremony here.

The 77-year-old entertainer got the American National Theater and Academy's award during a celebration Sunday at the Denver Center for the Performing Arts.

Members of the Denver Center Theater Company presented a selection of songs from Hope's shows and films, and actresses Eugenia Rawls and Virginia McKenna, and performer Theodore Bikel paid tribute to Hope.

Bogus Witches Hurting Craft, Real Ones Say

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Members of at least a dozen witches' covens in New Jersey say they do not fly on broomsticks, worship the devil or sacrifice animals.

The witches claim their religion has been maligned by pseudo-practitioners who maim and kill animals, charge exorbitant healing fees or steal corpses from graveyards.

None of the witches quoted by The Courier-Post of Camden in its Sunday and Monday editions would give their names, citing fears of retribution from frightened friends and neighbors.

"We're not monsters," said a mother of eight and grandmother of two.

"Those involved in the craft are literally afraid for their lives," said another unidentified witch. "They're not only afraid that some fundamentalist Christian is going to come and burn their house down, but they're also afraid of their friends thinking that they're horrible."

"There are teachers, chemists, secretaries, writers, shrinkers, and housewives — suburban people you would never suspect practicing the craft," said Margo Adler, a witch and a reporter for National Public Radio in New York.

Witches claim the publicity surrounding such cases as one involving four self-proclaimed members of a Middletown coven awaiting trial has harmed their religion. The coven members have been charged with extorting $5,100 from a Cherry Hill woman in January for a cure for diabetes and with nearly 200 counts of cruelty to animals during coven ceremonies.

"I've never killed anything in my life except maybe a cockroach," said Lady Jacqueline. "And I've never taken a knife to anything but a pomegranate during a ceremony."

Witches charge no fees to participate in their covens. And just as in other religions, there are ceremonies for marriage, divorce, birth, death and communion, the witches said.

Conservative estimates of the number of practicing witches in the United States range from 20,000 to 50,000, while others say the number of witches is closer to 100,000, the newspaper said.

Members are primarily white and generally from middle-class backgrounds. At least 25 percent of the witches interviewed by The Courier-Post were former Catholics or Jews who enjoyed the rituals of their former religion but not the dogma.

"I went to Catholic school but I was kicked out in the first grade," said a South Jersey witch. "The nuns would beat me with a ruler. They would beat me until my knuckles turned red and then they would tell me to pray. I would start to cry. I was put out of school for crying too much. Is that religion?"

Negative Poll Rating Not Affecting Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says an unprecedented negative poll rating for a 2-month-old administration is having no effect on policy decisions.

The 24 percent disapproval in a recent Gallup Poll probably results from an economic program "designed to change the direction of government," White House Press Secretary James Brady said.
