Farm Official Stresses 'Decent' Living Goal

ELIMINATING as much regulation as possible from the agriculture industry to insure a "decent" living for producers is a goal of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's newly appointed officials, according to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture C. W. "Bill" McMillan.

While the USDA under new leadership will be "pro-farmer," McMillan noted that President Reagan's push for a balanced federal budget and cuts in federal spending will have effects on everyone, including farmers.

He cited proposed user's fees for cotton classing and the elimination of target prices and deficiency payments as areas that may be a part of new farm legisla-

Under his jurisdication in the office of transportation and marketing, McMillan said a personal priority of his is to make food safety laws conform with today's technology

McMillan referred to the Delaney Clause, which restricts alleged carcinogens in food products to a certain parts per million. The assistant secretary said ultramodern scientific equipment now allows particles to be analyzed into parts per trillion, making virtually every food a suspected cancer-causing substance.

Also at the PCG meet, president Joe D Unfred of New Home told the audience of about 150 that the organization's slight voter turnout and producer attendance is a "serious malady Unfred advised the membership to work on policy differences through informed intelligent discussion then take workable solutions to the rest of the Cotton Belt and to Washington and "fight like a wounded tiger.

The PCG president likened the cotton industry to the Tower of Babel, but maintained High Plains producers could be "a people of one language and of one voice: a people to whom nothing imagined will be restrained.

No Intervention

In the Netherlands, a summit conference of the European Common Market again warned against any intervention. A closing declaration issued at the conference in Maastricht said Poland "has shown that she is capable of facing her internal problems herself" and "should continue to do so in a peaceful manner and without outside interference. It is also in the interest of stability in Europe."

Warsaw television and radio have been carrying reports of the military manevers that have included amphibious assaults by Soviet, Polish and East German troops on Poland's northwest Pomeranian coast and a paratroop drop and mock combat in the Warsaw military district.

Exercises Normal While the maneuvers have increased apprehension in Poland and the West. S. officials have noted that such exercises by the Warsaw Pact alliance are normal for this time of year.

The Polish news agency PAP said Tuesday that about 12 percent of the army reservists scheduled to join in the maneuvers were "released from taking part since their presence on the farms was regarded as essential." That would involve several thousand reservists

The Common Market leaders linked their warning against intervention with a pledge to "continue their contribution to the recovery" of the Polish economy. They noted "Polish wishes for extra food supplies" and said market members should "examine these wishes" and determine their "participation in this action as a matter of urgency.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington said the Poles need more than $1 billion to tide them over to July Kania, in his speech at a meeting with agriculture officials, said Poland's current debt to the West was $27 billion and we have to undertake more.

"Export is dropping because of decreasing production. This diminishes possibilities to buy food and increases our debts," he said.

Resignation Pushed The Avalanche-Journal he is "not planning to resign at this time. Pruitt was arrested at 2 a.m. March 6 in Brownfield and later that same day the commissioners requested his resignation. The following Monday, Pruitt entered a plea of "nolo contendere," or no contest, to the charge. He was fined $71.50 plus $3.50 in taxes by the city

Calling it "another sad page in Terry County politics," County Judge Chesshir said the commissioners are "acting in good faith, we hope it's right." He added that the matter is "out of our hands.

The commissioners met in executive session for a little more than 30 minutes before voting in open session to send the material to the Coordinating Council in Austin. Chessir said the documents are to be mailed this morning.

The nine-member council meets twice each year to take action on complaints filed but Judge Chesshir said he is unsure of when the next meeting is

Chesshir pointed out that the action taken by the commissioners stems from numerous complaints against Pruitt, beginning with his arrest April 19, 1979, at the Santa Fe Station restaurant in Lubbock. Lubbock police records show Pruitt was arrested at 2 a.m. after he refused to leave the restaurant and the owner of the business told police Pruitt

A PROPOSED bill to reduce the experience requirements demanded of candidates for Lubbock Criminal District Attorney passed unchallenged through the Intergovernmental Relations Committee Tuesday afternoon.

By a 7-0 vote, the committee recommended Senate approval of Tahoka Senator E.L. Short's bill which would reduce from five years to four the years of experience as a bar certified attorney now demanded of Lubbock candidates.

The bill next goes to the Senate floor for consideration, but Short said Tuesday night he probably will delay the bill until the House version arrives in the Senate to allow his constituents time to respond to the proposed change. He indicated that every attorney in Lubbock will receive a letter to explain the status of the bill and that they will be invited to respond to the proposed legislation.

Short's request for local reaction to the bill is in response to some complaints about the legislation by city attorneys. Lubbock County Bar Association Jan Fouts told The Avalanche-Journal last week that most attorneys probably agree in principal with the lessened requirements, but some are upset about the way the legislation was introduced.

Two staff members from the Criminal District Attorney's Office. Chief Administrator Hal Hensley and Felony Division Chief Travis Ware, attended Tuesday's hearing. Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford, who has said he takes no position in reference to the bill, said both Hensley and Ware would be docked a

the smaller amount but if bids are received on the full package, the lower amount "can be rejected" by the school board at the bid opening at 11 a.m. on April 23

The bond market "has improved dramatically since the bond issue at Hobbs received publicity in The Avalanche Journal." Ratliff said, in reference to an earlier A-J story. He said it may now be possible for the bonds to be bid at 8 percent interest or less, even though the state legislature recently approved legislation that would allow the interest rate on such bonds to rise as high as 12 per-

At the time voters approved the school bond issue, they were advised that the interest rate "should be nomore than 6 percent." However, Ratcliff says taxpayers will not face a larger tax bite if the bonds are sold at the 8 percent rate.

The maturity schedule calls for the bonds to be retired in 1989, but voters were told in September that the tax rate would drop during the last year of maturity. Under a higher interest schedule, the tax rate will not drop for the last year of the bond schedule.

"It's an expression of faith in the govsaid State Department spokesman William Dyess. He said the aid will be provided unconditionally for any economic purpose the Salvador government wants.

Dyess said the additional aid is "urgently needed" to finance essential imports of food, agricultural chemic als and industrial materials.

A Lubbock County jury sentenced convicted drug dealer Juan Flores Benites to a 50-year prison term Tuesday for a heroin delivery made to an undercover narcotics agent last summer — and then fined him $10,000, as well.

Benites, 45, was convicted of delivery of a controlled substance by constructive transfer shortly before noon Tuesday, and the jury returned to consider his punishment after the noon hour. The 'delivery by constructive transfer" charge means that the actual sale was not made by his hands, but through his ar-

It took the 140th District Court panel little more than 20 minutes to find Benites guilty, and about an hour to sentence him. A first degree-felony, the drug delivery charge carried with it a possible prison sentence of from five to 99 years.

The defendant was arrested along with 13 others last August in a major raid of suspected drug traffickers. Another suspect in that drug raid - Candido Rodriguez - was found innocent Tuesday afternoon by another jury considering the same charge as was directed against Bemites.

A 72nd District Court jury deliberated almost three hours Tuesday afternoon before acquitting Rodriguez of the charge of delivering heroin to an undercover agent through a confidential informant. The jury apparently believed the defense's arguement that the state's confidential informant - a known drug addict - was not a reliable witness.

In the Benites trial, prosecutor Mark McBride argued that Benites was trying to protect himself through his employees when he arranged a drug sale with an undercover narcotics agent.

McBride reminded the jury that Benites was the owner and operator of the El Monte Carlo Lounge, where the drug sale allegedly took place July 17. He recounted a Dallas narcotic agent's testimony that he had walked into the lounge with a confidential informant who told Benites she wanted to "score" some drugs.

Benites answered that he didn't have his car and that she should come back in an hour. McBride asked the jury to consider why Benites needed his car, and if it was possible that that was where he had

EDUCATION STILL GOAL

The Buck And Bus Stop Here

AS IS OFTEN the case, recent statements by administration spokesmen on forced busing, aid to education and other aspects of the school system have been drummed into something which wasn't said or intended.

As might have been expected, the comment by Education Sec. T. H. Bell that the Reagan's administration would not press for mandatory school busing just to achieve racial integration stirred all sorts of criticism.

Strangely, little of it came from the average black or white parents of students, parents who often have expressed more concern over what Johnny or Mary aren't learning these days than how they got where they are.

SEC. BELL made his position most clear in his statement.

The government, Sec. Bell observed, will not be pushing any new suits to achieve racial desegregation through busing. However, the outspoken official said, if local authorities prefer such busing, then that is okay with his department.

'If it is desirable and the local authorities feel that it is a good solution, then it ought to be left there," he added. However, he said, I think there's just too much strident interference into the whole education enterprise from the federal level."

Sec. Bell said he felt "there just have to be other approaches than busing in attaining ra-

"The problem with busing," Sec. Bell observed, "is at the end of the bus ride, you're still back in that racially-isolated neighborhood. What we ought to be doing is working more on excellence."

In that regard, Sec. Bell calling the academic system "really quite flabby," said the decline in student achievement is the most serious problem faced by American educa-

NO DOUBT Mr. Bell and President Reagan will come under increasing pressure in the weeks and months ahead to not abandon the "papa knows best" syndrome in educa-

But the fact is that not only a generation or more of minority students, but whites as well, have been in many instances left without the sort of education they deserved while far too much money and the spotlight have been expended on forced busing.

There is absolutely nothing wrong with integrated housing in America. It is a right and a system which most likely would do more for racial understanding than all the buses in the country. And the school system should never have been used in an effort to gain such a goal.

The school system is to educate all students equally, regardless of race, color or creed. Perhaps one reason the schools are "flabby" in this regard is that they lost sight of that primary goal.

PARENTS HAVE RIGHT TO KNOW

Minor Law Of Major Import

PARENTS' RIGHTS to rear their children without undue governmental interference won a significant victory this week.

The Supreme Court upheld a state law in Utah which requires doctors to notify a minor girl's parents "if possible" when she seeks an abortion.

The very notion that a teenager, living with and dependent on her parents, has a right to run her life without consulting them. had been promoted by an earlier Supreme Court ruling:

It had held that parents can not veto a minor child's decision to have an abortion. While that intrusion of state power into parent-child relationships was not affected, the latest ruling does restore some parental au-

IN ITS 6-3 DECISION, the high court made it clear that it was concerned only with dependent minor daughters, not with mature, emancipated women.

The Utah law makes physicians subject to a fine and imprisonment if they fail to notify parents that their daughter is seeking an abortion.

A 15-year-old girl had challenged the constitutionality of the statute, her lawyers arguing that it invaded her rights to "privacy" and damaged the confidentiality of doctorpatient relationships.

In ruling against her, the Supreme Court said the state has a legitimate interest in having such a law because of the emotional and other consequences of having an abortion.

AS APPLIED to immature and dependent minors, the statute plainly serves the important considerations of family integrity and protecting adolescents," the Court pointed

The decision does not make parental notification mandatory nationwide but permits other states to adopt similar laws.

This ruling was a setback to feminists and others who have sought to warp the constitution to make it an instrument for social change regardless of the impact on traditional family values and virtues.

"The Utah statute gives neither parents nor judges a veto power over the minor's decision." the Supreme Court said, but simply requires that a girl's parents be notified before she makes a decision that may affect her for years and which also may affect them. It was a good decision, as far as it goes

M. STANTON EVANS:

Wallace Claims He Saw Writing On Demo Wall

MONTGOMERY, Ala.-While the Republican Party is riding high these days on a new wave of conservatism, there is one prominent Democrat who can say he saw the whole thing coming.

Indeed, former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, who mounted new party and independent candidacies for President from 1964 to 1976, did more than see the conservative tide that was in the making.

By his persistent advocacy of populist anti-government and conservative themes, he was a powerful force in shredding old political alignments and creating new ones.

From his offices here in Montgomery, Wallace views the recent political trend with obvious satis-

THE THINGS that Reagan said in his campaign," Wallace asserts, "were things that we were saying back in 1968 and 1972. The threat of big government and heavy taxes, the need for reform of welfare, the need to shore up our national defenses

"We talked about the problem of crime in the streets, making people prisoners in their own homes, and that, unhappily, has become all too

We talked about the massive over-regulation of business, and labor, and the schools, and how the weight of the bureaucracy could bring our economy to a standstill. We said government should get off the people's backs and out of their

WHAT WAS MOST distinctive about the Wallace campaigns was that they probed the existence of strong conservative feeling in the Democratic Party-among the blue-collar workers, labor union members and others previously thought to be part of the New Deal welfare coalition.

Many of those voters who broke away from the old-line Democratic alliance in those campaigns obviously voted for Reagan last November.

"One difference between Reagan and myself." says Wallace, "is that I put greater stress on tax relief for the lower and middle income people.

There was a growing revolt among these taxpaying citizens, a perception that the income tax was unfair to them

"The middle class in this country are the people who pay the taxes, produce the goods and hold the country together. The middle class has to be

IN WALLACE'S view, the conservative majority that surfaced in the 1980 election was not merely forming in the latter '60s and early '70s but al-

'The message was getting through in 1972," he says. The record bears him out. In that election year, Wallace won outright in Democratic primaries not only in such states as Florida and Tennessee, which was expected by many, but in Michigan and Maryland, which emphatically was not.

Such vote tallies in the Democratic Party in nominally liberal states, combined with the conservative preponderance in the GOP, pointed to a latent conservative majority in the nation

But a number of factors-including the assassination attempt that crippled Wallace himself, the pragmatism of the Nixon Republicans and the fiasco of Watergate-served to distort the political process in the '70s and defer the emergence of the conservative coalition.

TODAY, DESPITE the paralysis that confines him to a wheelchair and causes him chronic discomfort, Wallace has not shut the door on a return to the political arena.

There is speculation that he might run for governor again, and a high degree of interest by the media in his activities. He says he has no plans to run again, but his statements don't preclude the possi-

In the future, Wallace believes, both political parties will be more conservative, with increasing numbers of Democrats moving toward limited government positions

"I'm not the only Democrat who saw these things," he says. "Others saw them in the past. and more will see them in the future.

according to one of his aides at that spy shop, is "hotly pursuing bodies." The "bodies" are needed in order to increase the number of CIA's underground agents abroad Good. Spy satellites which intercept official communications between potentially hostile governments, and America's arsenal of electronic eavesdroppers are doing their mechanical jobs superbly

But the old-fashioned human spy remains a necessity. There are some secrets that cannot be pilfered except by human beings.

That people-to-people approach to espionage was never better illustrated than in Iran, where some of the diplomats held hostage were charged with espionage. I hope they were

But whatever spying those diplomats did was peripheral to the chore of penetrating Iranian govrnment secrets.

THE ASSUMPTION is that any given embassy has at least a couple of intelligence operatives on its staff. So the host government watches every embassy staffer as closely as possible

All of which recalls the day I was having lunch with an American diplomat in a sweaty restaurant in Bonn

The lady was bright and knowledgeable, just the sort the CIA would want on its payroll. Naturally, of course. I didn't ask whether she was a spy for the running dogs of capitalism. But she knew her way around. When a customer was ushered to a nearby table, she greeted him with a friendly "Hello, Igor, what do you know?"

Igor replied with a grin and a shrug. The neighborhood KGB man," my companion explained, referring to the Soviet secret police-espionage shop. "He eats enough for two people. I asked her how she knew the guy was a spy. She laughed. "Oh, everybody knows that," she said. 'If you work for an embassy, you're working in a show window. Deadpan, she added: "If we had any undercover agents at our shop, I suppose the Russians would know who they were.

WELL, IF THE U.S. Embassy did not have any spies on the premises its boss should have been arrested for incompetence. Every member of the Soviet Embassy in Washington is a member, or under the influence of, the KBG. Likewise, the Communists usually can identify U.S. and other embassy intelligence officers in Moscow, Warsaw, etc. So the need is great for spies who are really undercover. Their value is in the fact that, because they operate secretly, the host government doesn't know what kind of stuff they're sending back home, whereas it can be pretty sure what kind of stuff embassy staffers pick up.

Thus Casey's campaign to recruit more operatives in the old-fashioned cloak-and-dagger mold. They're the men-and women-in the best position to ferret out the really vital secrets which are an espionage agency's meat and potatoes

GUERRILLA WARFARE between the Treasury and Transportation Departments over Japanese auto imports continued March 17 when a super-secret luncheon broke up in disagreement over whether to recommend a quota.

Deputy Treasury Sec. R.T. McNamar, upon returning to his office, told a meeting of his colleagues he could not brief them on the luncheon thereby insuring that the Treasury could not be blamed for any leak.

At that moment, he was handed a Dow-Jones ticker dispatch reporting that the meeting tilted toward a voluntary Japanese quota little more than a working day and night away...

There are all sorts of Aladdin Lamp's spots on what has become a shrinking globe, but for sheer fantasy and "a world-apart," India would have to rank near or at the top.

We were reminded of this the past few days during a visit by K. S. "Sandy" Sandanam, the genial director of the Indian Government's Office of Tourism for a five-state area, with headquarters in

Hardly a day passes but that the huge sub-continent of Asia, with its 658 million inhabitants, is not in the news, either because of its historic links with the past or its role among the modern and emerging nations of the Third World.

ACTUALLY, INDIA, the world's largest Democracy, long ago emerged from the past. Today, as one of the leaders of the "nonaligned" nations, it plays an all-important role in one of the key areas of the world. The fact that it has been able to retain its past, which can be traced back some 5,000 years in some instances, and meld it with the atomic age, not only adds to its importance but enhances its role as an unusual place to visit.

Because of this, it behooves Americans to understand more about not only India, its Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, but the people and the history of a land that has played such an important role in mankind's past.

TODAY, FOR many, India is still a land of mystery, wealthy Maharajas, the beautiful Bengal tiger, the Taj Mahal, striking and colorfully dressed women, ancient statues and monuments, the monsoons and teeming millions.

Maharajas are now in short supply, but the rest of it, and much more, is all there. And because it is, tourism in India is growing.

In the past year alone, India played host to more than 800,000 foreign visitors, about one-eighth of them from the U.S. That marked a 4.6 increase over the 764,781 who visited the nation in 1979. Not surprisingly, tourism is now the fourth largest foreign exchange earner in India, making jobs for thousands and aiding the nation in many other ways.

Recently, under the guidance of the veteran government service official, Mr. K. K. Srivastava, the new director general of the Department of Tourism for the Government of India, New Delhi,

TO MOST visitors, India's fascination may be steps have been inaugurated to bring even more visitors from the U.S.

found in its burgeoning cities.. There is Old and New Delhi, the nation's capital, with its marriage of the ancient and modern, including top-rated hotels. And there is Bombay, the bustling port on the west coast, a brief flight or drive from many of India's more intriguing places of interest. And there is Calcutta, a melting pot on the east coast, Kashmir in the shadows of the Himalayas in the north. Agra and the marble monument to love that is the Taj Mahal, and nearby, Jaipur, the Pink City and its ancient citadel of Amber. But to really know India, one must go into its countryside, its villages where more than 80 percent of the population lives. There, in small towns of a few hundred and sometimes a million, India of the past exists, seeking to retain the best of yesterday, making use of the present, from transistor radios to better grain and farming practices.

BUT, IT IS India of the bazaar, the temples, the tiger, lion, elephant and exotic birds that intrigues most of those who visit.

Each region of India has a character all its

From the Bay of Bengal on the eastern edges of India and Calcutta and Madras, one can travel inland to such old-new cities as Bangalore and Mysore in the state of Karnataka to Bombay in the west, and to the state of Rajasthan to the south-

Possibly no region of India includes so many paradoxes of the nation as does the desert state of Rajasthan, not far from Agra and the Taj Mahal. It is in Rajasthan that nearby Jaipur is located.

Here in the midst of an arid area may be found forest glens, lakes and mountains, each craggy peak seemingly crowned with a rugged fort straight out of some Arabian nights story. Temples from the Eighth Century still stand amid medieval ruins and turreted marble palaces and beautiful gardens.

THE STATE of Rajasthan has been a land of princes, with a proud history of men and women who lived passionately but who followed without question a high and severe code of conduct.

Today, here as in much of India, there are new dams, industries and farm machinery. At the same time, one may find the bullock and the hand-operated tools of hundreds of years past

Rajasthan, like other parts of India, also shows off nature at its best, with flaming sunsets, the tiger, panther, deer, wild boar and birds which migrate from such distant places as Siberia and Japan. India, it should be noted, has set up special game preserves in an effort to protect its endangered species of animals and fowl

But, most of all, India is people, the Hindus, the Moslems, and any number of other life styles and religions. It is more than an ancient land seeking its way in a modern world.

Perhaps Mahatma Gandhi said it best when he observed: "I do not want my house to be walled in on all sides and my windows stuffed. I want the. cultures of all lands to be blown about my house as freely as possible. But I refuse to be blown off my feet by any

Jump In Fuel Price Prods Living Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite moderating food prices, a huge jump in gasoline and fuel oil rates pushed the nation's cost of living up last month at an annual rate of 12.1 percent, the government said

The latest figures, while not wholly unexpected, reversed the somewhat encouraging performance of the previous month. The annual rate of inflation had slowed to 9.1 percent in January, the lowest level since last summer.

At the White House, press secretary James S. Brady said of the increase in inflation: "You have got to give the patient the medicine before he starts to get well," a reference to the president's proposed economic program.

The Labor Department said a worker with three dependents saw spendable earnings erode 1.5 percent in February.

The department reported that all consumer prices advanced by 1 percent last month. However, the index edged up only 0.3 percent after subtracting fast-rising energy prices.

Gasoline surged 6.6 percent, the largest one-month increase in a year. Fuel oil costs jumped 8.5 percent. The acceleration was due primarily to President Reagan's decontrol of domestic oil and to recent price increases by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, said Labor Department economist Pa-

However, that doesn't tell the entire story, said a government economist, who asked not to be identified. "With decontrol, oil companies saw an opportunity to raise prices, even with a glut of gasoline," he said. "They used decontrol partly as a rationalization.

Administration officials say gasoline 10-12 cents since Reagan's Jan. 22 order to lift all remaining controls on domestic Jackman said most of the impact from decontrol has worked through the economy, and price increases should subside in coming months as people drive less and spring brings warmer weather. "We're already seeing some price cut-backs in March," Jackman noted.

That view was echoed by Murray Weidenbaum, chairman of Reagan's Council of Economic Advisers, who told Congress he foresees more stable energy costs as soon as next month.

However, that promising news should be frustrated by a resurgence in food and housing costs - the same items that have helped moderate inflation in early 1981, Jackman said.

Grocery store food prices were unchanged last month, after declining at a seasonally adjusted 0.4 percent clip in January, the department said. Prices for fresh fruits and vegetables, due partly to the January freeze, did go up, but meats, poultry, fish and eggs declined sharply, down 2.1 percent in February.

House prices, meanwhile, fell 1.2 percent and mortgage interest costs "rose substantially less" than in recent months, the department added. The inflation rate at the consumer level is particularly sensitive to changes in the government's measure of house purchase costs. A number of economists complain that although a small percentage of Americans buy new houses each month, price rises in this category overstate the real inflation rate while price declines understate inflation.

"I don't really see a great deal of change in coming months," Jackman said, because price rises for some necessities will cancel out improvements else-

Food prices may hold stable "one, or perhaps two more months," he said. However, by April or May, consumers should expect a "fairly sharp escalation," particularly in the cost of meats, Jackman reported. The Agriculture Department is predicting a 10 percent to 15 percent jump in all food prices in 1981. On the housing front, mortgage rates - already at record-high levels - should advance even further in the Consumer Price Index, reflecting recent increases in Veterans Administration and Federal Housing Administration rates, Jackman Weidenbaum, testifying before the Joint Economic Committee, said continued double-digit inflation will assure sluggishness through spring and summer.

Attendant Testifies In Custody Trial

LIBERTY (AP) - An ambulance attendant testified Tuesday that Vickie Daniel told him she got a gun to scare her husband, former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., but it fired accidentally and killed him.

"I asked her what happened," said Oscar Cantu, 19, an emergency medical technician with the Liberty Fire Department. "She said they had an argument and he went upstairs to get some pot or something. She said she went to get a gun to scare him. She said he came down the stairs and said, 'Oh, no,' and the gun accidently went off.

Bombs Dropped By Mistake

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) - A jet on a routine training mission inadvertently dropped a pod containing six 25-pound unarmed practice bombs and two missiles into a forest six miles from a small community, Holloman Air Force officials announced

No one was injured in the incident Monday, Air Force officials said, nor was there was any explosion or fire.

Base information officer Lt. Andy Bourland said a two-seat T-38B training jet from Holloman accidently dropped the practice bomb dispenser around noon.

Bourland said the dispenser, which carried bombs and two training rockets, fell off the plane and landed in the Lincoln National Forest between Tularosa and Ruidoso about «ix miles south of the small community of Bent.

He said the accident apparently was due to a "malfunction."

The bombs contained spotting charges and rocket propellants and were not armed, he said.

Explosive ordnance disposal experts from the 49th Equipment Maintenance Squadron located the bombs and missiles at 4 p.m. Monday

Anniversary Of Churchman's Death Marked In El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) - Church bells tolled Tuesday and leftist guerrilla guns fell silent in memory of a slain archbishop. But the day was no dif-spect - the corpses of dozens of people were found dumped along city streets and country roads.

Roman Catholics throughout El Salvador celebrated special Masses for Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero, who was assassinated one year ago while saying Mass

Because of the church's liberalizing influence here, it is widely suspected the assassin, who is still at large, is an extreme rightist.

A leftist guerrilla coalition announced a 24-hour unilateral cease-fire, but military spokesmen said the U.S.-backed junta's anti-insurgency operations were continuing in the north and east.

Masses were said every hour at the San Salvador Cathedral and other major churches in the capital - in other towns and cities less frequently. Groups of less than 100 worshippers attended each service at the main cathedral, filing past

The bodies of 38 unidentified civilians killed during the 24 hours ending at dawn Tuesday were found around the country, a police spokesman said.

In Lebanon, the leader of the Salvadoran Communist Party charged the United States with being "solely responsible" for the continuing civil strife here.

Shafik Jorge Handal, a member of the guerrilla coalition and a guest of a Marxist Palestinian group in Beirut, said, "The people of El Salvador are capable of solving their own problems without

In Washington, the Reagan administration announced Tuesday it will give El Salvador an additional $63.5 million in economic assistance this year to help strengthen its war-scarred economy, subject to congressional approval.

The increase would raise to $126.5 million the amount of economic aid provided by the United States this year, double the amount President Jimmy Carter wanted. The Reagan administration, in an effort to stem rising communist influence in Central America, is also providing military assistance to the civilian-military junta that took power after an October

1979 coup against Gen. Carlos Humberto Romero's rightist regime. Fifty-four American military advisers are here training government forces.

In weekly homilies for more than a year, Romero condemned violence from both the left and right. He urged social reform and better treatment for the poor in a nation dominated for centuries by a handful of conservative landowning fam-

Wife, Child Held Worth $12,800

BALTIMORE (AP) - The Maryland Criminal Injuries Compensation Board has awarded $12,800 to a newspaper editor whose wife and unborn son were killed by a woman who was target-shooting with a pistol.

Board Chairman Joseph M. Pickens said Monday that Thomas M. Townsend had sought $58,000 from the board, which gives crime victims cash awards according to damages they suffer.

Townsend, editor of the Carroll County Times, also has filed a $6.8 million civil suit against Barbara Jean Langley and three companions who were targetshooting with her Nov. 24, 1979.

Marion Townsend, who was eight months pregnant, was shot to death while she was riding in a car driven by her husband.

Mrs. Langley, convicted of man-slaughter in the Townsend case, is serving two concurrent 17-year prison terms.

The boundary between the United States and Canada was set out when the Treaty of Paris was signed in 1783.

Inmate Writes Note ToSheriff

Imagination is alive and well - even in the Lubbock County Jail.

An inmate, apparently frustrated that he is still in the slammer, thought he would try a different approach this morning and sent jail administrators a note with a card attached.

The card read: "Chance this card may be kept until needed or sold. GET OUT OF JAIL FREE." However, Sheriff D.L. "Sonny" Keesee said crime is no game of monopoly

Keesee said that at least the prisoner's request was unique and polite. The inmate's accompanying message said, Dear Captain. I am in tank 3-4. Please take the enclosed card as payment to be released. Respectfully, (the prisoner's last month in Big Spring, according to re-

The men ages 20 and 23 were arrested Tuesday when the stolen vehicle was spotted by officer Roger Hearron at Fourth Street and Avenue O.

In his report. Hearron said he was westbound on Fourth Street when he saw the 1976 Buick Regal. He radioed for assistance, he said, and the vehicle was stopped near the intersection

Local police had been alerted to be on the lookout for the car, which was stolen in Big Spring Feb. 8. Big Spring authorities indicated the men in the car might be armed, but a search of the vehicle revealed no weapons, police said.

The pair was arrested without incident and taken to the Lubbock County Jail. Lubbock detectives also planned to question the suspects in connection with a burglary here, reports show.

Some 545 gallons of oil and 13 industrial tires were stolen within the past few days from Case Power and Equipment. 3302 Slaton Highway, police said.

The tires and oil, contained in 91 fivegallon cans and three 30-gallon drums, were stolen from a fenced area of the business between 5 p.m. Friday and noon Tuesday, manager Norman Rishel told

The monetary loss was estimated at $7.634.19, reports show

Items valued at $1,015 were stolen in the past week from a storage building at 4602 Englewood Ave., police said.

James Hendrix of 5613 Emory St. who rents the building, told police the burglary occurred between 5 p.m. March 17 and 10:30 a.m. Tuesday. Taken were an air compressor, an acoustical speaker, a window-mount air conditioner and two pairs of bolt-cutters; police said.

The padlock on the door had been cut, police said, and at least three other storage units at the same address had been entered in the same manner, but

Lubbock police said today they have cracked a small car theft ring made up of two 16-year-old boys who were apprehended about 8 40 p.m. Monday after they allegedly took a vehicle from the Brunken Toyota dealership on South Loop 289.

Dealer Calvin Carl Brunken contacted the Lubbock County Task Force after he received information that keys had been taken from two cars on his lot and that the vehicles were to be stolen Monday

Det Lloyd Brown said he parked his unmarked car in the used car lot about 7:30 p.m. and after about an hour's wait saw the teen-age suspects drive onto the lot. He said he saw one of the boys jump from the car, enter a late-model Mazda RX-7 and drive off, with his accomplice following behind.

Police converged in the area and stopped the youths in the 5100-block of 69th Street Reports state the boys attempted to run from officers, but were caught and taken into custody

Authorities said the suspects had in their possession keys for two cars at Brunken Toyota, four vehicles at Pioneer Lincoln-Mercury and one car at Montgo mery Motors. Police said the boys appar ently would steal the keys after being al lowed to test drive the vehicles while posing as prospective buyers. Investigators said several vehicle

Weapon Recovered At Shooting Scene

Lubbock police Tuesday recovered a 9mm, semi-automatic pistol in a house where Franklin H. Payne, accused of attempted capital murder, was trapped March 8 by lawmen after he allegedly fired a 45-caliber machine gun at a pursuing police officer.

Minnie Galloway, who was not at home when the fleeing suspect broke into her 3403 36th St residence, said she the weapon about 9 a m. today

Investigators have not confirmed the pistol belongs to Payne, but Mrs. Galloway assured police the weapon was not hers. An 18-round clip was found next to the handgun

Police were attempting to lift fingerprints from the gun.

Payne, who remained in the Lubbock County Jail, is accused of shooting at a police officer after attempting to rob Betty Jean Hensley, 56, and her 20-yearold daughter. Lisa, at their 3506 37th St home about 10 a.m. that Sunday

His alleged accomplice. Edward Eugene Peterson, 27, remained at large today. Police said Payne was heavily armed when he surrendered, and additional weapons were found in Mrs. Galloway's residence following the fracas.

'Reunion' Delayed For Amnesia Victim

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) -Officials at South Florida State Hospital have indefinitely postponed plans for a meeting between a female amnesia victim and a suburban Chicago family looking for a daughter who has been missing

Hospital officials said the woman, called Jane Doe, is afraid she will have to leave with people she does not know.

'She doesn't understand that she can tell them to get lost," said hospital spokeswoman Jackie Dale. "We can't convince her that she just doesn't have to

"She doesn't want to meet anyone.

She is scared to death of the unknown. She said Jane Doe, a woman believed to be in her 30s, "was totally withdrawn" after learning about the possibility she might be the daughter of a Roselle, Ill., couple. The woman spent all day Sunday in bed with covers over her face, Miss Dale said.

"There are no plans to bring anyone

${f Broadway Parade\ Scheduled\ To\ Open\ ABC\ Rodeo}$

By GERRY BURTON Avalanche-Journal Staff

Forty-five groups, with interests that range from rodeo royalty to antique cars, will parade west on Broadway at 3:30 p.m. today, leading the way to the Lub-bock Municipal Coliseum and the opening ceremonies of the 39th annual ABC

At 8 p.m., the first round of topnotch professinal rodeo begins, with 334 cowboys and cowgirls signed up for a try at the rodeo prize pie to be divided at the Saturday finale.

Stepping into the entertainment spotlight each night will be "King of the Road" Roger Miller, winner of 11 Grammy Awards in a two-year period and composer of more than 300 songs.

All the chills and spills of bigtime rodeo are on tap with top rodeo contestants from the ranks of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association on hand for all four performances.

Highlighting arena action today will be the first Coors Chute-Out, staking the reputation of world champion calf roper

Mengden Town Hall Meet Set Thursday

State Sen. Walter Mengden of Houston, one of the chief proponents for initiative and referendum in Texas, will visit Lubbock Thursday to hold a town hall meeting

The meeting, which will be chiefly a question and answer session for the public on initiative and referendum, will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Coronado High School cafeteria, 3307 Vicksburg

Other issues Mengden is working on include strengthening law enforcement, prayer in public schools and right to work laws

President William McKinley was fatally wounded Sept. 6, 1901, by Leon Czolgosz and died eight days later.

draw of a calf.

The cowboy roping and wrapping his calf in the lowest time today when Cooper competes, will win $250 and a chance at the ABC championship — which carries a Coors' $1,000 prize. Cooper chose the ABC event for his Chute-Out, one of the total championship Chute-Outs slated

Unreeling its first round, just before Miller takes control of the coliseum, will be the ABC beard-moustache competition. No prior registration is necessary to enter the two categories — Most Becoming and Anything Goes. Grand champion will be named Saturday.

The parade will form at Avenue E on Broadway and move west on Broadway to Avenue X, north to Sixth Street and on west to the coliseum.

Riding point, right behind an American Business Club color guard, will be Texas Tech President Lauro Cavazos, parade marshal, followed closely by Lubbock Mayor Bill McAlister and Miss Lubbock Belinda Moreland.

Heading up a bevy of beauties and a host of riding clubs will be ABC Rodeo Queen Shelley Harris and the Texas Tech Red Raider Leading the sheriff's posse contingent will be the award-winning Scurry County Sheriff's Posse and Junior Sheriff's Posse with others from Lamb, Terry Dawson and Eddy Counties.

Keeping the rodeo spirit alive along the parade route will be Wilbur Plaugher, the clown prince of professional rodeo. and Bob Romer, the Bull Dancer. Both will be on hand all week to entertain rodeo fans and watch out for the safety of rodeo contestants

Other groups include Pi Kappa Alpha Texas Tech Raiderettes, Raider Red. Saddle Tramps, West Texas Raiders, Wagon Wheel Saddle Club, Abernathy Riding Club, Texas Battery, Abernathy state championship girls basketball team, Arch Lamb's wagon loaded with Lubbock Boys Club members, T.I.M.E.-DC

Royalty riding in the parade will be Gina L. Burns, National Miss College Rodeo; Julie Johnson, American Association of Sheriff's Posses and Riding Clubs national queen; Melette Blackwell, AASPRC District 1 queen; Teresa Mudgett. AASPRC District 2 queen; and Melissa Gore, South Plains Maid of Cotton.

In the AASPRC group will be its president, Junior Oates.

Topping the list of ABC Rodeo offi-cials will be Don Stringer, rodeo chairman, and Tom White, president of the Downtown Chapter of the American nual show to benefit the capital improve- Barret of North Platte, Neb., will be in ment fund of the Lubbock Boy's Clubs.

Setting the pace early in the ranks willbe the Khiva Kart Patrol and the South * Plains Antique Car Club.

A part of ABC parades since the benefit began, the Beutler family, stock producers of longstanding with ABC, will be represented by Bennie Beutler, third generation to furnish tough rodeo stock for the Lubbock show.

Also back at the scene of its past successes will be the Owens Country Sausage six-pony hitch and wagon.

Council Okays Coal Pact; Strike Looms

Mine Workers bargaining council approved on avote of 21-14 Tuesday a new three-year contract with the soft coal industry. But it made no effort, as the union's president suggested, to sidestep its proud "no-contract, no-work" tradition to avert a nationwide strike set for Fri-

Haig also said he is dissatisfied that after two months in office, the Reagan administration has been unable to establish clear lines of authority in foreign policy decision-making.

In his prepared remarks, Haig reaffirmed that Reagan has indicated to him that "the secretary of state -- and his department — shall be the general manager of foreign policy."

Later, however, Haig conceded that he wasn't consulted about a reported White House decision to name Bush head of a new structure for national security crisis management

He made it clear that if the Post account was correct, he believes the White House acted improperly in not consulting f Bush is being appointed without the knowledge of the secretary of state. Haig said, "that would pose another set of problems." Asked earlier Tuesday about Haig's dissatisfaction, Brady said, "I don't know that he is unhappy." Once portions of Haig's congressional testimony were read to him, Brady replied, "You should ask him with he's not fully satisfied." Asked if the president shared Haig's complaint about the way foreign policy is being handled, Brady said, "I have no way to characterize that.

= Informal Agreement
Brady also disclosed that an informal agreement had been reached among Haig, Allen and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger to exchange copies of their speeches before they deliver them.

The arrangement comes on the heels of a weekend speech by Allen in which he criticized "outright pacifist sentiments" in Europe and the emergence of the contemptible 'better red than dead' slogan of a generation ago." Brady was unable to say for certain on Monday whether the administration agreed with Allen's speech. On Tuesday he said the administration concurred.

Haig's comments strongly suggested that the Reagan administration is facing the same kind of internecine struggle for control over foreign policy that has plagued a succession of administrations.

They also reflect widespread resistance by other bureaucratic power centers to Haig's attempts to establish himself as the administration's foreign policy management The selection of Bush ensures White House control in this area. In addition, Bush was seen as a logical choice for the assignment in light of his broad foreign policy experience, which has included such posts as American ambassador to the United Nations, head of the U.S. liaison office in China and director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Under the Carter administration, national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski was given responsibility for crisis

First assistant District Attorney Jim Bob Darnell, who would meet the fiveyear requirement, also is expected to run for the office if Montford decides not to repeat his term.

Montford explained that should anyone in his office actually declare themselves a candidate, they would be asked to resign upon filing for the office so as not to disturb office operations.

Hensley told the Senate committee there are only six counties in the state with the five-year requirement and that he believes it is not needed. A state district judge is only required four years ex-. perience. Hensley testified, while other counties' district attorneys often have no experience requirements.

The Lubbock office was the first criminal district attorney's office forced by its enabling legislation to meet such a requirement, Hensley added. Of the 33 criminal district attorney's offices statewide, he said, only eight have any experience requirements at all.

pected to broach with the leadership the possibility of seeking an extension of the current pact, in order to keep 160,000 UMW members on the job during the 9or 10-day ratification process. But no formal proposal was made, according to sources who asked not to be named.

At a news conference later, Church was asked why he did not broach the subject of contract extension.

"They (the bargaining council) were tired and when the vote was over they were gathering up their paraphernalia and it didn't seem like a good idea at this

Strike Certain

Church, citing the union's no-contract, no-work tradition, said, a strike 'will occur' when the current contract

Church declined to discuss what led 14 members of the bargaining council to vote againist the contract, saying, "I don't want to get into yes and no votes

Church, however, did predict the rank-and-file UMW members will approve the pact by a margin larger than the 3-2 endorsement of the bargaining council. He said, "It's a good contract... It's going to show that the United Mine Workers is a strong and stable union that the nation can depend on."

Church said it was the first time since the UMW constitution was adopted in 1973 that the bargaining council approved a tentative contract on the first

Negotiator Pleased

Asked about the margin of approval, council member and contract negotiator Tom Gaston of Kentucky said "There are some people who won't vote for anything. I'm pleased with the way it went.

Gaston said he felt the opposition was based on the union's willingness to give up a longstanding contract provision which compelled coal operators to pay a royalty of $1.96 per ton into the UMW pension fund for purchases of non-union

Gaston said that "if we just go out and tell it like it is, the members will accept" the new contract.

Joe Phipps, also from Kentucky, said "There was not that much adverse discussion of anything. There was no pointby-point criticism

Short Strike Seen

When the settlement was announced Monday. Church said a short strike was certain because of the no-contract, nowork tradition.

Later in the day, however, he said: "I think it would probably be better for us to go ahead and work. I can't see really anything positive happening by having a three or four-day strike that you really wouldn't need to have

Only during World War II - when the nation was critically in need of coal have union miners worked after their contract expired.

Church said he didn't know whether the bargaining council would agree to extending the current pact. "I would agree to go along with it if the rest of the board did, and providing the operators would say for these four or five days (starting Friday) everything would be retroactive," he said.

Deadline Impossible

A strike seemed virtually assured when contract talks collapsed here last week, thus making it impossible for any new pact to be ratified, including a vote by the rank and file, by the Friday dead-

At the outset of talks, Church, who has steadfastly maintained he didn't want a strike, had union members polled to determine whether they would consider working under a contract extension. The results of that survey, the union's journal said, showed opinion was deeply divided, and Church didn't push the idea. Some UMW leaders in the eastern and midwestern coalfields already have expressed opposition to the change in union strategy, while others have embraced it. The tentative settlement features an increase in wages and benefits amounting to 36 percent over three years, substantially less than the union's target.

On a host of other issues, however, the union won major concessions from management. These included the industry's retreat on attempts to put mines on a seven-day production schedule and the We've got to get these school kids back to BCOA's efforts to overhaul the existing pension system

Male Draft Argued In High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) - Requiring young men, but not women, to register for the military draft and to serve when called may be ill-advised - but it's constitutional, the Reagan administration told the Supreme Court on Tuesday.

When we defer to Congress, we defer to its right to be wrong." Solicitor General Wade McCree, the administration's highest-ranking trial lawyer, told

The 80-minute argument before a packed courtroom, including some spectators who showed up eight hours early to get a seat, was McCree's last chance to convince the justices to salvage the Military Selective Service Act, the nation's registration and draft machinery.

Discrimination Ruled A three-judge court in Philadelphia ruled last year that the 1949 law harbors unconstitutional sex discrimination.

If the Supreme Court agrees, Congress will have to come up with a new law that includes women - or forego draft registration and a draft altogether

The justices were expected to take their preliminary vote on the issue in a secret conference Tuesday afternoon The task of writing opinions probably will postpone announcement of the court's decision until sometime early next summer, late June or early July.

Questioning from the bench was more spirited than usual, as all nine justices participated in firing questions at McCree and Philadelphia lawyer Donald Weinberg, who successfully challenged the law in the lower court.

Deference To Congress "This is a matter where great deference should be paid to Congress' determination" of how to raise "an effective army expeditiously," McCree contended.

He added that because of the military policy excluding women from combat, drafting women would cut down on the military's flexibility during times of war or preparing for war. Justice William J. Brennan Jr., perhaps the court's most liberal member. pressed McCree hard on why women's exclusion from combat roles should preclude their draft liability.

'Is there evidence that (drafting) women would negatively affect (raising an effective army)?" he asked. "Women could be used in other capacities."

Argues Court Wrong

McCree, again under aggressive questioning from Brennan and Justices Thurgood Marshall and Potter Stewart, argued that the three-judge court was wrong when it applied a heightened level of judicial scrutiny in studying the draft

Under a landmark 1976 Supreme Court decision, laws treating men and women differently cannot stand if they do not serve an "important government interest" and are "substantially related" to that goal.

That standard is more stringent tuan the "rational relationship" standard applied most often but not as stringent as the "compelling government interest" used when persons are treated differently because of their race, religion or na-

"Rational Relationship"

McCree contended that in cases of naonal defense — such as the federal government's constitutional right to raise an army - the "rational relationship" test should be used.

He said the government's concern with combat readiness was a rational reason, for requiring only men to register for the draft

There has been no military draft since 1973, and from 1975 until last year was no registration. Then-President Jimmy Carter reinstated draft registration in the wake of the Soviet Union's 1979 invasion of Afghanistan, and since then more than five million young men have registered.

They were required to do so after Brennan postponed the effect of the three-judge court's ruling.

Weinberg, making his first appear ance before the high court, disagreed with McCree over the level of judicial scrutiny required - often a crucial factor in such cases.

But even if the court were to use the 'rational relationship' test, he said, the law still should be struck down because of the military's "failure to show the need to exclude women.

Tenure Controversy Topic Of Meeting

istration refused to allow a special hearing panel to consider the case of a home economics teacher who has been denied tenure The Faculty Handbook states that if a faculty member alleges that a tenure denial is based on factors violative of his academic freedom, then his complaint shall be given "preliminary consideration by a faculty committee. The Tenure and Privilege Committee believes it is the faculty committee referred to in that policy.

But Tech's legal counsel Marilyn Phelan disputes that interpretation in a memo obtained by The A.J. Her opinion on the matter is that the group does not have jurisdiction because the handbook policy says only "a faculty committee" without specifically naming it as the Tenure and Privilege Committee.

Faculty members, however, point out that previous editions of the handbook did specifically name the Tenure and Privilege Committee with that duty. Administrators say they do not know when or why that reference was dropped from

Minutes of Tenure and Privilege Committee meetings show that the group was upset with the administration's contention that it did not have jurisdiction over the case.

According to the minutes of the committee's last meeting March 4. "...the administration made no such contention at any time during the past approximately eleven months that this Committee has worked with this case, and during which time administration officials attended the meetings of this Committee pertaining to such case.

The Tenure and Privilege Committee also noted at its last session before disbanding that the "first time" the administration mentioned the group's lack of jursidiction was after the committee called for a special hearing panel, which they say operates much like a court

In one of his few public statements on the controversy. Cavazos recently said that he won't deal with tenure issues on a piecemeal basis, but that instead he has asked the academic affairs office to review the tenure policy "in totality."

Navy Says Burro Kills To End; Amory Vows To Pursue Suit

vy said Tuesday it may not have to slaughter any more wild burros following a second round of kills at its China Lake weapons center, but conservationist Cleveland Amory said he will go to court sue to to make sure.

The Navy said sharpshooters had to kill 267 burros during the weekend because too many were left after 381 were shot March 7 and 8. The Navy says the burros wander onto he base and endanger the weapons center's aircraft area.

A car struck and killed a burro on state Highway 178 just outside the center's boundary March 18. The car was wrecked but its driver suffered only minor injuries, the Navy said.

School Officials Prepare For Asbestos Search

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock public school officials this week will intensify their search for asbestos in the schools through re-inspection of facilities, followed by analysis of any suspicious materials by the state health department, a school administrator said

Ronnie Gooch, assistant superintendent for business affairs for the school district, said each school building will be visually inspected for ceilings that have 'blown-on acoustical materials." The samples will be sent to the Texas Department of Health for detection of asbestos, a known cancer-causing agent.

Gooch said the district recently received a letter from the state commissioner of education advising districts to begin compliance with federal regulations in detecting asbestos in school running on a "tight schedule" for detection and remedy of any problems, because analysis of samples will take about eight weeks. Since repairs must be made during the summer, inspections must begin soon, he said

School officials have been conducting their own informal investigations off and on since suspicion of asbestos in schools began drawing national attention. The most recent investigation turned up 11 schools with fibrous ceiling materials. But school officials held off on submitting samples for analysis pending some direction from the state.

Gooch said schools will be reinspected this week to make sure officials are 'on safe ground" in their detection and sampling procedures, which are specifically outlined in federal regulations.

said that the state submitted a plan late last year for asbestos detection and removal to the Department of Education. Texas schools now must adhere to guidelines published in the Federal Register. he explained.

He said that districts may send samples of suspicious materials to the state health department or to a private laboratory. The health department or the school district then must report the status of their inspections and testing to Gooch said priority for repairs will be placed on asbestos-containing ceiling fibers that are friable - that can be crushed in the hand. Areas containing those fibers, he said, probably would be encapsulated or covered with a sealer. The sealant then would be coated with another kind of acoustical material.

said, would be to encapsulate all areas containing asbestos fibers, whether friable or not. He said he hopes that step will be included as a part of the maintenance department's regular painting schedule. Jones explained that the school district must consider four factors in evalu-

Proportion of material exposed.

ating sampled material Condition of the material

- Friability Total asbestos content.

Each of those factors is weighted, he said, through a formula so that the samples are given a guidance number. The higher the guidance number, the more dangerous the material

If a substance is tagged with "a real high number where it's a real dangerous situation," it will have to be dealt with immediately, he said. According to federmaterial must be blocked off, warning signs must be posted and the PTA noti-

Jones said the regulations for removal or remedy of problem areas have not been published yet in the Federal Register but that the situation is addressed through Environmental Protection Agency guidelines. Thus mandates for remedies are rather "blurry" right now, Jones

But he added in a dangerous situation "the assumption is that there would be enough pressure brought to bear" to have the problem remedied

The danger rating of a substance also would determine what repairs would be necessary, Jones said.

For example, if asbestos is contained high on a ceiling and there is no water damage or deterioration, the area could be encapsulated, he said. But if the probkid could poke a stick at it," it probably should be removed. "Removal is a very expensive process," Jones added.

He said during an interview last year that the cost of removal would be born by the school district. Gooch also said that any charge for testing, which probably would be "minimal," and the cost of encapsulation probably also would be absorbed by the district.

He said he has no idea how extensive an asbestos problem the school district might have, but estimated the cost of encapsulation would add up to about $1 per square foot of affected area.

Areas that may contain asbestos primarily will be in auditoriums, cafeterias and hallways, said Gooch. He said he probably will know by next week how many schools will be affected by health

Interest Rate Hike Bill Under Attack

By BOB CAMPBELL Avaianche-Journal Staff

A bill allowing Texas lenders to charge up to 30 percent interest probably will pass, but opponents are mounting a campaign to dilute it as much as possible with amendments, Jim Hightower, president of the Texas Consumer Association in Austin, said Tuesday.

The former Railroad Commission candidate said in a news conference at Lubbock International Airport that some lenders need an increase, but that rates allowed by the bill are excessive.

Jesus threw the money-changers out of the temple, and now we know where they went." Hightower said. "They went to Austin

Noting that the bill already has been approved by House and Senate committees, he said "the skids have been greased" for its passage, but said his group has been successful in marshalling opposition across the state.

Street Name Petition Falls Short Of Goal

Avalanche-Journal Staff

The committee requesting a name change for Quirt Avenue to Martin Luther King Boulevard has come up short of the required number of signatures on a petition filed at city hall last month

The committee needed 3.510 signatures to require an ordinance to be prented to the city council or the charter

However, only 3,349 signatures were verified of 5,291 submitted, according to the City Council agenda packet released Tuesday.

The city secretary's office received the petitions on Feb. 10 and has been verifying and rechecking the validity of the signatures since then. The controversy over the street name change has had a long and tumultuous

In December 1979 about 50 people showed up at city hall to request the change. The council in office at the time refused, saying that current city ordinances required all streets east of Avenue A to be named after trees

The council was apparently surprised by the fact that "Quirt" is not a tree Blacks and Mexican-Americans said they resented the name "Quirt," which means a whip

Council members agreed that the name should probably be changed, to something like Airport Drive or Skyline Drive

They were adamant the street not be named after a person, maintaining it could cause a landslide of street name changes honoring people

However, according to a city study, four large cities which did comply with requests for naming a current city street after the slain civil rights leader did not have any other name change requests.

The cities in the study included Houston, Austin, San Antonio and Corpus When new council members were elected in April 1980, the issue was renewed. However, the result was about the same, with the council voting to name Yellow House Canyon Lake Number 6 after Martin Luther King

A member of the Human Relations Commission, which had made some of the initial moves in the street naming controversy, said he wasn't pleased that a tributary of a cesspool would be named after him

In December 1980, Vera Newsome, Pat Nickell, Eric Strong, Rose K. Wilson and Gloria Ynguanzo filed a letter of intent to initiate a petition drive in favor of an ordinance for the street renaming.

The cost of the project has been estimated at $7,107

60-Year-Old Man Holds Intruder At Bay With Cane

Getting older doesn't mean a person can't fight back - sometimes it's just the methods that change

When 60-year-old Ted Gentry opened his door March 14 to a distraught young woman who said she needed to call the police, he soon found that he also was facing a knifecarrying man who was threatening to kill the woman.

After kicking in the locked door to ened the retiree with the weapon and demanded money

Gentry didn't budge. He forced the intruder to back right out the door holding the young man at bay with his aluminum cane

Fidel Padilla was charged Tuesday with burglary of Gentry's home

The criminal district attorney's office recommended Padilla's bond be set at $10,000 for the offense

Constable Sought For Precinct 2

Lubbock County Commissioners agreed Monday to appoint a constable in

The Precinct 2 constable's post has been vacant since the death of longtime constable Allen Meurer of Slaton. And Slaton Justice of the Peace Arvin Stafford asked the commissioners court to seek a replacement for Meurer.

Commissioner Coy Biggs noted the commissioners court already has received applications from three persons interested in the job According to Biggs, commissioners will continue to accept applications for the post until April 13. Commissioners will review all applications and appoint a replacement when they meet at 1:30 p m that day, he said

The mothers of bridegrooms, vice presidents of the United States, and mistresses all share a common image: they smile and keep their mouths shut. In the past, it has just been understood that each knew the ground rules and each would stay in his respective place. he had one

Now it seems that one of them is to become an endangered species: Mistresses

When you think about it, you wonder why it has taken them so long to see that marriage rarely occurs between three dissenting adults.

Maybe one of the things that made mistressing so attractive was the romantic novel. Who among us - if given a choice - would not have opted to be Lily Langtry, dressing up all day and playing naughty while her married counterpart ironed all those lousy ruffles, bathed the royal dog, waxed the castle, was in three carriage pools, brushed floor-length hair took minuet lessons on Tuesdays and fought the vapors all winter.

The job description of a mistress was a simple one: be loyal, jump on the master's lap the moment he came home watch him eat and drink, never go out in public with him, listen to his problems. make no demands, and go crazy anytime vou get a present.

I don't know who was the first mistress to realize that this described her poodle to a T. but when she did. mistressing began to fall off considerably

A lot of things are cutting into their numbers. Women today arettoo practical for it. It's just not an equal opportunity employer. Why should misunderstood husbands have a place to go after dinner and a misunderstood wife gets stuck ironing in front of the TV?

There are no Social Security or retirement benefits, and besides, no one is impressed with infidelity anymore. The titillation level has peaked and stabilized.

Also, several thousand mistresses were lost in one year alone when the wives of the men they were living with invited them into their kitchens, crawling with dishes, laundry and kids, and an nounced. "Just think. One of these days. all of this will be yours

Lately. I've noticed mistresses have become less subservient than their masters would want them to be At a wedding ceremony in Rio de Janiero, a priest was just about to ask the important question of the couple, when a pregnant woman waddled out and announced she had been living with the bridegroom for ten years. A riot followed in which she was rushed to the hospital and gave birth to an eight-pound, two-ounce son

Had the vice president been there, he would have just smiled

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:

A sheet of paper, a pencil, a few quiet moments and a cup of coffee are the start of my work list for the week.

This multi-purpose list saves gasoline, time, wear and tear on the car - and me and endless small frustrations.

Keeps me from forgetting things and gives me much satisfaction as I complete each job and cross it off, rather than running off in many directions (or trying to)

Those items left on the work list at the end of the week are the seed for the next week's list. As the week progresses, needed grocery items are noted on the

I am never at a loss mornings as to what I need to accomplish for the day. -Chandler Smith

PACK IT PROPERLY

DEAR HELOISE:

When traveling, if you pack each garment in your suitcase in a separate, clear plastic bag, you can easily without getting the other items in your suitcase out

The air that is retained in the bag helps to prevent wrinkling too. Serves as sort of an air cushion.

I usually buy jumbo-size food storage bags for this purpose. You also could save the bags in which the clothes you buy are sometimes packaged. - Wilma

SEPARATING EGGS

DEAR HELOISE:

Don't panic when you need to separate egg whites from the yolks if you are not adept at using the shells to do this.

Just pour the egg into your cupped hand, using your fingers as a strainer to catch the yolk. Works every time. - Mrs.

MAKE A COMFORTER

DEAR HELOISE:

If you have two or three worn-out blankets lying around and hate to throw them away, stitch them together and make a warm comforter. Cover them with a pretty cotton print.

You'll have a warm comforter which will give years of added service to those blankets. - Treba Jensen

DO YOU CROCHET?

DEAR HELOISE:

Make covers for your balls of crochet thread or other needle work yarn out of aluminum foil. Punch a hole in the foil to pull the end of the thread through.

Not only does the foil jacket keep the thread clean in your sewing basket but prevents it from becoming unwound and tangled. - Marcia Howard

Disabled Persons Honored In 1981 By United Nations

WASHINGTON (AP) - With 1981 designated as the International Year of Disabled Persons, organizations and individuals all over the country will be participating in the United Nations-proclaimed observance.

More than 1.400 communities, the governors of all 50 states and 280 national organizations are working with the U.S. Council for IYDP, according to Alan A. Reich, council president.

Each of the communities, which have joined the council as Community Partners, is developing a program to meet the needs of local disabled persons. In every case, the aim of the community is to provide opportunities for disabled citizens to participate more fully in community life - to work, be educated, shop, go to church, visit parks and theaters, just like everyone else," Reich Disabilities are not necessarily hand-

Fresh Bread Stretches Budget

By JEANNE LIVELY Family News Staff

Of all foods, none is quite so welcome as hearty, fresh home-baked breads!

Aside from the fact the aroma of homemade bread baking in the kitchen is irresistible to most people, homemade bread is a budget-stretcher. In contrast to current bread prices in stores, you can make a loaf at home for mere pennies.

And wouldn't it be nice to know the ingredients of the bread you're serving to your family and just how fresh the bread

Here is just a sampling of tried-andtrue favorites

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD 3 cups warm water

14 cup honey 2 tbsp. yeast

4 cup oil

3 tsp salt 4 cups whole wheat flour

speed for 5-10 minutes or until gluten develops a "stringy" texture. Add 4 more cups of whole wheat flour, more or less, to make a light or soft dough.

Knead. Note: You can easily get too much flour in whole wheat bread

Let rise until double in size, then knead and make into two large or three small loaves. Let rise again until double, then bake in 350 degrees oven 30-40 minutes. Bread is done when it sounds hollow when thumped.

LIGHT BREAD

2 pkg. yeast 2 cups warm water

21/2 tsp. salt 1/2 cup dry milk

2 eggs 1 tbsp. oil

5-6 cups flour

Mix and beat 2 minutes. Add one-half of the flour, then I cup at a time. Knead 5 minutes. Let rise until double in bulk three times: after the third time, shape for buns or loaf. After it has risen. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes.

CALIFORNIA POLKA-DOT BREAD

11/2 cups seedless raisins 11/2 cups water

I slightly beaten egg 1 cup brown sugar

2 tbsp. salad oil 1 tbsp. grated orange peel (optional)

21/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour 1 tsp. salt

2 tsp. baking powder

about 60 minutes until done

1/2 tsp. soda Set oven at 325 degrees. Combine raisins and water; bring to boiling. Cool to room temperature. Mix next 4 ingredients. Stir in raisin mixture. Sift together dry ingredients; add. beating well. Pour into greased 81/2 x 41/2 x 2 2-inch loaf pan. Bake at 325 degrees

Disease Therapy Individualized

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My husband finally consulted an M.D. and he confirmed my suspicion of several years - Parkinson's disease. He is now on Sinemet and is gradually improving, but still has trouble tolerating the medication. It has reached the stage now that we feel the time has come to permanently close his office. Incidentally, he is 68. Damn it, too

A friend suggested the other day that she'd heard or read that Parkinson's can be related to a previous serious illness. Well, it rang a bell. In May 1944, at military disembarkation area, my husband was sent home to me (an R.N.) with a 104 degree temp. He was yellow as gold. You know the symptoms — yellow fever.

I had to nurse him to health to be ready to sail for the South Pacific in three weeks. In 1953, the symptoms recurred and he spent several weeks in the hospital and was discharged with 30 percent disability.

Now - do you have any knowledge of this possible connection to his Parkinson's disease? With your practicality which we like) and your access to new information. I'd love to hear from you. -EW.RN

The reasons why Parkinson's disease develops are still shrouded in mystery More and more is being learned about it every day. We do know that people with Parkinson's are not making enough of certain brain chemicals. But why that happens has not yet been explained I know no connection between yellow fe-

Following World War I (not World War II) there was a worldwide epidemic of an infectious brain disease - encephalitis. Many of the people who survived that illness developed symptoms later in life that resembled those of Parkinson's disease. As you and your doctor-husband know, with Sinemet (combination of carbidopa and levodopa) therapy has to be highly individualized, especially when also used in conjunction with levodopa alone. Failure to do this can account for many unpleasant reactions.

Dear Dr. Donohue: When would you recommend use of mineral oil to help a person with constipation problems? My doctor tells me not to use any. - R.S.

Mineral oil (liquid petrolatum) is a derivative of petroleum, hence is not absorbed or only to a very small degree. Its chief effect in constipation would be in softening the fecal contents. Unfortunately, when you weigh the pluses and minuses of mineral oil use, the verdict is balanced toward the minuses. It can, for example, interfere with the intestine's absorption of important food fats and also can reduce absorption of certain vi-

Because it is so poorly absorbed by the intestinal tract, some of it can reach the rectal area causing anal itching. So, I have to agree with your doctor. There are more effective and less troublesome products to ease constipation than mineral oils. And, as I've noted before, proper dietary bulk alone can be the answer for

Dear Dr. Donohue: It may not sound like a big problem; but I have a wart that won't go away. It doesn't hurt, but the sight of it makes me sick. How can I get rid of it? -F.L.

Most warts disappear in about two years. So if you have had yours awhile and have a bit of patience you may not have to do anything. If you are really bothered, there are a number of ways to remove a wart, depending on where it is or how many there are. Freezing with liquid nitrogen is often a good way. Caustic agents - cantharidin or salicylic acid - can be painted on. Or the wart can be cut off. There is no single best approach. think if I were not being physically bothered by a wart I would wait to see if it would go away

Dear Dr. Donohue: In reference to the item about lemons. I am a dentist. Three years ago, an eight-year-old girl appeared in my office. Her teeth were all disced out at the occlusal surfaces. The deciduous teeth were nearly destroyed and the permanent molars had lost a good deal of enamel

I had never seen this before and the history of this child was that she sucked on lemons. She would go through five or six lemons a day. The acid, of course, acted on the enamel and the destruction was rampant. The acid had not only attacked the enamel surface, but had destroyed differing amounts of dentin to produce deep decay in the permanent molars (one has been extracted). The child was in good health otherwise and there apparently was no systemic effect from this habit. — R.H.G., D.D.S.

Researchers at Texas A&M University said earlier this year that they had tested the air on a Pacific island so remote it was chosen as the site of the first hydrogen bomb test. They found toxic chemicals - not from the bomb test, but from hexaclorobenze, which causes cancer in animals and is a byproduct of more than a dozen manufacturing processes. The conclusion: There is "no place on Earth you can go without finding HCB."

According to the assistant personnel director, the professional must have these traits: dependability, enthusiasm, curiosity, decisiveness, harmony, professionalism, competitiveness. These are the traits of leaders, she said, traits that are to be emulated.

But how is the professional personality developed? The same as any other traits, believes Mrs. Harmon, "It is a composite of background and experiences And that's where the problem lies for women. she said.

Women are less likely when starting out to bring to the same job setting the understanding and skills that men bring. that they have acquired from their background, their experiences and their boyhood. said Mrs. Harmon.

One reason men may be more equipped to move into management, said Mrs. Harmon, is the man's participation in sports. Until recently there have been no team sports for women to become involved in. But men have been sports-oriented all their lives. "In team sports you learn a very valuable lesson - team effort and hard work," Mrs. Harmon said.

The correlation between sports and management have given males and edge over females when working up the ranks to executive. Through sports men have learned attributes of team spirit which coincide with attributes of an executive. As Mrs. Harmon explained, in team sports you learn to cooperate to get the job done. You learn to "stay on the team" and "work within the group." Hopefully," she said, "by the '90s. women will learn through competition, it will become second nature."

DAILY COTTON CONSUMPTION IN FEBRUARY fell 13.3 percent from rear-earlier levels, the U.S. Census Bureau reported this week. This was the ninth consecutive month of declines from year-earlier levels.

Daily consumption was 21,988 running bales, compared with 25,355 in February 1980 and revised daily consumption for January 1981 of 21,773 bales.

The daily rate last month was the second lowest for February since records were begun in 1944. The lowest February on record was in 1975 at a daily rate

At a seasonally adjusted annual rate, cotton consumption in February was 5.565 million bales (480 pounds), down 13.1 percent from the February 1980 rate of 6.406 million and down 3.4 percent from the January 1981 rate of 5.762 mil-

Cotton accounted for 24.3 percent of total fiber consumption in February, according to the National Cotton Council, down from 25.1 percent in February 1980 and down from 24.8 percent in January 1981.

THE DECLINE IN COTTON'S SHARE in February reflected higher prices for cotton in recent months and from last year as compared with man-made fiber prices, said Bill Crawford of the NCC. One major bedsheet mill recently increased the synthetic content in its cotton blends to improve operating efficiency, Crawford said.

Mill sources said the report contained no surprises. They said they expected the March consumption figures to show continued declines from year-earlier

The seasonally adjusted annual rate for man-made fiber consumption in February declined 9.6 percent from year-earlier levels to 17.077 million 480pound bale equivalents, NCC figures showed. It was down about 1 percent from the January level of 17.249 million bale equivalents.

Total fiber consumption in February on a seasonally adjusted annual basis was 22.898 million bale equivalents, down 10.4 percent from the February 1980 rate of 25.561 million.

MILL SOURCES BLAMED CONTINUING weakness in textile markets, particularly those for denim and corduroy, for the cotton consumption declines

The weakness has led to operating reductions and temporary plant closings, mich have reduced mill demand for cotton, they said.

High interest rates continue to be the primary reason cited by mill sources for the textile industry slump and lower cotton consumption.

In addition to the overall economic slowdown caused by the high rates, mills were keeping raw cotton inventories in check to avoid higher carrying costs

ECONOMIC TROUBLES IN THE AUTOMOBILE and housing industries have reduced industrial and home furnishing textile deamand, mill sources said, and have been a big factor in declines in both cotton and synthetic con-

Consumption likely will continue to fall before it improves, they said Despite recent reductions by major banks in the prime lending rate to 17 percent, most mill sources said a prime rate of 12-15 percent would be needed to trigger improvements in the textile industry

Even if the prime fell to those levels soon, however, textile industry recovery would take time, they added. Most mill sources said a business turnaround would not occur until the third quarter of this year.

If the current consumption trend continues until the third quarter, 1980-81 cotton consumption would not reach the U.S. Department of Agriculture's estimate of 5.9 million bales, given the latest seasonally adjusted annual rate of 5 565 million bales

RECENT HIGH WINDS AND BLOWING DUST across the High Plains depieted surface soil moisture and caused severe wind erosion in some areas, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said this week.

Dryland wheat on the northern High Plains needs additional moisture, the service said. Wheat there is beginning to joint.

Extensive spraying for greenbugs and aphids was underway in the Low Plains when wind conditions permitted.

Wheat conditions statewide rated 11 percent excellent, 41 percent good, 34 percent fair, and 14 percent poor. On the northern High Plains, conditions were 18 percent good, 55 Percent fair, and 27 percent poor.

Sorghum planting is in full swing in the Blacklands. Wet fields and high winds have slowed planting and some late-seeded fields will have to be replanted. In South Texas, some fields are up to a good stand.

Corn fields are up to a good stand in south and southcentral areas. Wet fields have slowed planting

COTTON FUTURES CLOSED A FAIRLY QUIET, erratic session Tuesday in the bottom end of the day's trading range, down 20 points to up 20 points.

Spot May lost the most at 87.65 cents and new-crop months were unchanged to up 20 points, with December up 9 points at 83 cents.

Analysts said the locally dominated market had gained as much as 65 points in early sympathy with strong gold prices. It fell back when May's 88.50-cent resistance level could not be pierced. Trade selling helped to send prices to the greatest losses of 50 points before local buying lifted them from the lows. Commission houses were on both sides of the thin market, analysts said. Continued bearish sentiment in current marketing year months was attributed to sluggish cash business.

ACTIVITY REMAINS EXTREMELY QUIET, with business at both the producer level and the mill level at a virtual standstill," one analyst said.

The market appears to lack any sign of direction, he said, both from technical and fundamental standpoints. Speculators held 47.8 percent of the long positions at the end of last week, up from 43.7 percent the previous week, and 53.9 percent of the shorts, up from 48 9 percent. This left them 6.1 percent net short. Hedgers had 39.9 percent of the longs, up from 33.9 percent, and 33.9 percent of the shorts, up from 28.8 percent. Straddles showed a big drop to 12.1 percent of the open positions from 22.2 percent. It appeared, analysts said, that liquidation of straddles was largely responsible for the percentage figures being higher in all other categories.

FRANCE WILL IMPORT 849.150 BALES (480 pounds) of cotton in 1981-82, down from 853,740 expected to be imported this season, a U.S. agricultural attache has reported from Paris. The attache recently reduced his estimate of France's 1980-81 cotton imports by 18,360 bales because of sluggish textile activity. He said the general situation of the cotton industry is not very good. Unemployment has increased between 20 and 30 percent since September in the weaving sector and this now is starting to affect the milling sector, he said The French cotton industry is much concerned about the competition in the

Grain Loan Rate Hikes Urged

WASHINGTON (Reuters) - U. S. Department of Agriculture officials said the USDA is urging that the wheat loan rate be raised to $3.20 a bushel and that the corn loan rate be increased to $2.40 a bushel for the 1981 crops

The officials however, warned that the proposed increases have yet to be approved by the White House and by the Office of Management and Budget, an agency that has resisted any boost in loan

The biggest impact from the higher loan rates would be the resulting rise in the release and call levels under the farmer-owned grain reserve program, the officials said

If adopted the higher loan rates would result in higher release and call levels for the 330 million bushels of wheat now in the reserve, the officials

But the higher loan rates would have little impact on corn in the reserve as the call tevel already has been reached and farmers have until April 15 to repay the loan or to forfeit the corn to the govern-

An increase in the basic loan rates for the 1981 crops would result in a hike in the special, supplemental loan rates for grain in the reserve to $3.50 a bushel for wheat and $2.55 a bushel for corn, the of ficials said.

The Carter administration had proposed that the 1981 loan rates would be no less than $3 a bushel for wheat and $2.25 a bushel for corn.

But Secretary of Agriculture John Block has argued for a moderate increase from those levels.

The officials said the proposed levels of $3.20 for wheat and $2.40 for corn were used in calculating the budget projections for the USDA. For the 1981 target prices, the USDA is unsure whether to leave the rates unchanged from the 1980 level or go along with small increases proposed by the Carter administration, the officials said.

LCC Team Cops Wins

The Lubbock Christian College crop judging team has finished the contest season with several team and individual wins, according to Kirk Martin, LCC agriculture instructor.

The three-man team of senior Brian Miller, senior Jim Gregory and junior John Esslinger finished third at the Southwest Regional Crops Contest at Canyon and 10th at both the Kansas City American Royal National Contest and the Chicago National Contest.

All other teams competing with LCC were land-grant colleges and universities. Martin noted.

Miller, a Yuma, Ariz. native, placed second in plant identification at the Kansas City contest. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Miller of Yuma.

Gregory, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rance Gregory, is from Girard and Esslinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Esslinger, is from Vincetown, N. J.

The LCC crop judging team is cosponsored by Growers Seed Association of Lubbock and Anderson Grain Corp. of Levelland.

Appeal For Death Stay Turned Down By Judge

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - A state judge has refused to postpone the execution of convicted murderer Robert Wayne Williams, one of two men condemned to die next Tuesday in the elec-

District Judge Frank Foil Tuesday rejected an appeal by Williams's attorney that the execution be put off until a full hearing can be held on the appeal.

Foil also rejected the request for a

The next avenue of appeal is the state Supreme Court, and Williams's lawyers are expected to appeal.

Williams is one of two people scheduled to die in the state's electric chair in the early-morning hours of March 31. It would be the first executions in the state

Foil presided over the trial of Williams, convicted of first-degree murder in the 1979 shotgun slaving of a Baton Rouge supermarket security guard. He signed the death warrant.

Timothy Baldwin, convicted of beating an 85-year-old woman to death, is the other man scheduled to be electrocuted at Louisiana Penitentiary at Angola.

In Williams's appeal, filed by lawyer Richard Shapiro. 13 reasons were cited. including ineffective assistance of Wil liams's counsel, insufficient evidence that two aggravating circumstances were involved in the offense and insufficient jury instructions

Shapiro also said the sentence death in the electric chair - is disproportionate in light of the circumstances.

"We are asking for a stay of execution and asking the judge to hold an evidentiary hearing about new information brought to light," said Nancy Goodwin, a spokesman for the Southern Prisoners' Defense Committee

Controversy Centers On Condemned TOKYO (AP) - The court-ordered Today's retrial of a convicted murderer who has lived three decades on Japan's Death Row has revived a drive to curb police and prosecutorial powers left over from the post World War II occupation. The High Court of Takamatsu, a city in western Japan, has upheld a 1979 district court decision ordering a new trial for Shigeyoshi Taniguchi, 50, who was sentenced to death in 1951.

The Takamatsu prosecutor's office decided last week not to appeal the ruling. Taniguchi thus becomes only the second Death Row inmate in modern Japanese history to win a retrial. No date for the new trial has been set.

Libertarians have complained for years that powers given to Japanese authorities in the postwar overhaul of the country's laws, especially the power to block reopening of criminal cases, led to abuses of the rights of accused and convicted persons. Critics say prosecutors don't want to admit past errors for fear of losing face.

The Justice Ministry also has resisted pressure to overhaul the retrial procedure, but the Taniguchi case could help force the issue into the open. Already the order for Taniguchi's retrial has won praise from major newspapers. The Asa- iguchi's trousers.

hi Shimbun said. "It is now necessary to take into account the trend shown by the judgment and reconsider wholly this legal system of the past."

Taniguchi was arrested in 1950 on charges of stabbing to death Shigeo Ka-gawa, a 63-year-old rice dealer, and stealing the equivalent of $36. He confessed to the crime, then retracted the statement and claimed innocence. Nevertheless, he was sentenced to death by hanging in

Taniguchi has fought for a new hearing every since. In 1976, the Supreme Court sent the case back to Takamatsu District Court in 1976, which ruled last year that Taniguchi was entitled to a

Upholding that ruling this month, the High Court said there were doubts about tests which found traces of type O blood, the same as the murdered man's, on Tan-

ed States, but there is no significant movement here to do away with the practice. What movement does exist is small and poorly organized.

One reason may be that the subject is shrouded in official secrecy, with little attention paid by news media. The Justice Ministry says 26 people are on Japan's Death Row, but other statistics are virtually unobtainable.

Japanese read with interest of the debate over capital punishment in the Unit-

Unofficial figures in 1977 indicated more than 500 people have been hanged since the war's end — most in the early years, after which executions tapered off sharply. There were 116 in 1948, according to the figures, 62 the next year and far fewer in each year since. The last reported one was in 1979.

The executions are not announced and many go unnoticed except by family members called to collect remains.

Taniguchi's case is one of several that have been the subject of recent court rulings. Not so fortunate was Sadamichi Hirasawa, at 88 said to be the world's

Hirasawa, a well-known painter here, has made 16 appeals for a retrial but has been rejected every time, most recently in December. In almost every case of this kind the defendant signed a confession after arrest and then claimed innocence in court. Critics say the pattern indicates Japanese police use heavy-handed methods

Police officials refuse to discuss the subject other than to deny the use of physical coercion.

Hirasawa told backers that after days of isolation and accusations by police, he readily signed whatever they put in front

Over the years, the rights of accused have improved. Search warrants are required, and physical torture is not com-suggest? V.K., Reading, Pa.

Employment for elevator constructors - also called elevator mechanics moves up and down with the construction industry. But if you can enter service and repair work, the other branch of the field, you can look forward to regular

Workers who belong to the International Union of Elevator Constructors average base pay in the range of $12 to $15 an hour. With overtime, the money can be splendid; one hears stories of $40,000 plus in a good year for construction

Beginners need a high school diploma or equivalent and must be 18 or older. Since the number of would-be trainees exceeds training institute and knows electricity and electronic theory has an edge. An so does the applicant who has a friend in the union.

This trade does not offer formal apprenticeshiop. Instead, an industry training program lasting three to four years begins when you are hired by an elevator contractor or manufacturer, or by government agency or business large enough to do its own elevator work.

You learn your craft through on-job training and classroom study. For the first six months or so, you are a trainee, handling tools and heavy equipment for an experienced mechanic. Next you become a helper and usually a qualified elevator constructor within four years. Some states and cities require elevator mechanics to pass a licensing exam.

Although elevator mechanics in construction earn higher pay than those one the service end, they're outside getting rained on or worse; they can fall or be electrocuted. This is a job in which to keep your wits about you.

Even in service work alertness is essential. How would you like to repair one of those glass bubbles thast shinny up the exterior of a 50-story hotel? The risks are clear, but there is a lowdown side to this occupation: Elevator mechanics also install, maintain and repair escalators, moving sidewalks and materi-

The best opportunities are in the Sun Belt states, although elevator construction jobs in the Northeast are said to be picking up after an uncomfortable past five or six years.

Arrests May Solve Numerous Robberies

Avalanche-Journal Staff Authorities believe a series of robberies in 12 cities across two states have been cleared with the arrests of three Albuquerque, N.M., men - two of them former policemen in that city. Police believe two aggravated robberies and two attempted aggravated robberies in Lubbock in December and January, in which only about $200 in cash was taken, could be solved. They are awaiting information from Farmington, N.M., which might aid in clearing those

A definite mode of operation used in the more than 35 robberies and burglaries, as well as a vehicle stolen in Albuquerque and believed used in the Lubbock crimes, has provided the link between the suspects and the holdups in at least four cities.

The trio suspected in the Lubbock incidents remained in New Mexico's San Juan County Jail late Tuesday. Two of the men were being held in lieu of $100. 000 bond each, while the third, on probation in New Mexico, is ineligible for bond, said Farmington Det. Capt. Don Rodgers.

There still may be other arrests." Rodgers added. "Albuquerque police are working with us on this and we have two

One of the suspects was fired from the Albuquerque police force in 1976 after he and another officer were reportedly were found driving a stolen car containing stolen property from the home of a man they had arrested the previous night. The other former officer served on the Albuquerque force from 1964 to 1972.

District Attorney Paul Onuska said each of the three face initial charges of one count of second degree larceny, possession of controlled substances, possession of burglary tools and conspiracy to commit armed robbery.

Detectives here first spoke with Albuquerque police in regard to the robberies when a four-wheel drive vehicle believed used in at least two crimes here was traced to the New Mexico city where it was reported stolen. Lubbock police are investigating the possibility the men are connected with at least four reported offenses here, the first a robbery at a Long John Silvers fast-food restaurant in mid-December in which the two bandits escaped with about $200 in cash.

Both the suspects carried black walkie-talkies when they robbed the business at closing time, reports state, and the robbers were fast and efficient, becoming threatening when orders were not followed promptly. In this robbery, police said, the two employees were ordered into a back storeroom after handing over cash and were told to wait 15 minutes before calling police.

Another holdup believed connected with the suspects occurred in mid-January and was the first of two endured by the 37-year-old manager of the Showplace Six movie theater.

Again, the two men described to police struck at closing time, but they were unsuccessful in this heist. The manager told police he saw two men in a Blazer or similar vehicle follow him as he left the theater parking lot. They rammed his car with theirs but the manager continued to the bank with $8,000 in receipts collected

The Blazer followed the manager to the bank, pulling in front of him, but the employee decided against stopping and fled with the men chasing him by car. A city patrolman spotted the suspects vehicle the next day at the Sundial Apartments in south Lubbock and detectives watched the vehicle for 78 hours. Although no one returned to the truck, a computer check revealed it had been stolen in Albuquerque.

Two weeks later, the theater manager said he was the victim of another robbery wary manager returned his bank bag to the theater safe when he spotted the suspects in the parking lot before he left.

The suspects, both wearing ski masks, kidnapped the man and drove him eventually to a 70th Street adress before leaving him bound in a red van they abandonded, according to police. The man told police the would-be robbers had some type of police scanner in the van.

Another incident occurred between the robberies when the manager of a Furr's Supermarket here told police two men driving a Blazer-like vehicle followed him home after he left work one night. The man, however, never was approached by the suspects, police said.

Authorities began piecing the crimes in Farmington, Albuquerque, Amarillo and Lubbock together late March 18 when one of the suspects was arrested near a Furr's Supermarket in Farmington. A patrolman had spotted two men, both wearing ski-masks and "behaving suspiciously," at the grocery store that night, police said. But the men ran in opposite directions, and police there were able to arrest only one.

A .357-caliber pistol was found behind a generator near the store and an automatic pistol was found in a dumpster, Rodgers said.

Police Thursday utilized a search warrant to check out a redish-brown van found in the Furr's parking lot, Rodgers said, noting, "We found crystals for scanners for 10 ro 12 cities in the van." He added that the Dodge was "real fancy

The other two suspects were arrested Friday night in Albuquerque by police there after Farmington authorities obtained arrest warrants for them, Rodgers

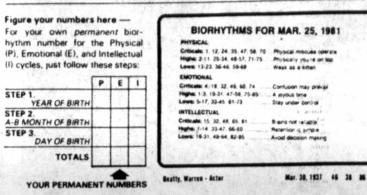

A preliminary hearing is scheduled for 2 p.m. today for the first supect arrested, Rodgers said. He said the other two are scheduled for preliminary hearings at 9 a.m. Tuesday in magistrate Rodgers said the three men are being investigated locally in connection with three armed robberies and three commercial burglaries, including one in which $95.000 worth of jewelry was taken from a store.

In addition to the Lubbock crimes, authorities also are investigating 30 robberies in Amarillo involving similar modes of operation, Rodgers said

Suspected Great Train Robber May Face Return To Prison

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (AP) -Authorities Tuesday awaited Scotland Yard's fingerprints of Ronald Biggs to confirm that a man they have in custody here is Britain's fugitive Great Train Robber. If he is. Britain says it will seek to put him back in jail after 15 years of freedom. The 51-year-old Biggs, who escaped from prison in 1965 and has been living in Brazil, was carried feet first out of a Rio de Janeiro restaurant last week in what friends said was a kidnapping. The man claiming to be Biggs was arrested Monday on a drifting yacht off Barbados on which he was under guard.

British press reports said former members of Britain's crack anti-terrorist unit, the Special Air Services, had abducted Biggs, hoping to sell their story for a large price. Photographs in British newspapers appeared to leave little doubt that Biggs was the man arrested in Barbados after the yacht on which he was held by five Britons broke down.

Barbados has an extradition treaty with Britain, which wants Biggs for the 1963 robbery of a London-Glasgow mail train in the English Midlands. The robbery by Biggs and 14 other men nettec. 2.63 million pounds, then worth $7.2 million, and at the time the world's richest cash haul. Most of the money was not recovered.

The robbery was eclipsed in 1976, according to the Guinness Book of Records, when guerrillas blasted vaults of the British Bank of the Middle East in Bab Idriss, Lebanon, and escaped with an estimated $20 million to $50 million

Biggs was sentenced to 30 years in prison. He first went to Australia after his escape

As the man believed to be Biggs sat in a Barbadian jail, authorities took into custody John Miller, who has identified himself as a director of the security firm Point Blank that has claimed responsibility for abducting Biggs and bringing him here by plane and two-masted yacht. Miller was not charged with any offense, police said. He has been in Barbados since the weekend, apparently awaiting the arrival of the vacht.

In London, a dispatch from Barbados said Miller was also known as John McKillop and the security firm was named as Single Point Security Ltd. It offers security to rock and film stars, businessmen and others who could be targets of terrorists, according to Miller. He said most employees have military back-

Reporters saw police take rifles off the yacht when they towed it into Bridgetown Harbor Monday evening.

The Nation, a Barbados newspaper, said that police and customs officials were trying to trace an unidentified boat which reportedly collected a large parcel from the yacht, named Howcani II, shortly before it entered Bridgetown Harbor

Brazil allowed Biggs to live there openly, free from extradition, because he is the father of a Brazilian child. He was required, however, to check in weekly with police

Many Murders Accompany Mob Reorganization

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bullets and bombs have sent a string of reputed mob bosses and lieutenants to early graves in a violent, year-long reorganization of organized crime here

The latest target was Philip "Chicken Man" Testa, 56, torn apart when a bomb loaded with inch-long finishing nails and shotgun pellets blew out the four-foot concrete-and-brick front of his South Philadelphia home before dawn on March 15.

"He looked like he went through a giant paper shredder," a police officer

Testa, distinguished by a bulbous nose that sat like a fat strawberry on a pock-marked face, was the seventh victim of persons unknown since the local alleged godfather of them all, Angelo Bruno, 69, was blown away by a shotgun blast as he sat in a parked car outside his home March 21, 1980.

That first assassination, still unsolved, triggered a year of blood and mob vengeance that still has prosecuting crime-busters puzzling over a new question from an old tune: "What's breaking up that old gang of mine?"

Has war erupted between the New York and Philadelphia crime families for control of the lush casino territory in Atlantic City, N.J.?

Was the Testa killing, unusually violent for a typical mob hit, a byproduct of Irish Republican Army vengeance?

G. Michael Brown, director of the New Jersey Division of Gaming Enforcement, is certain this violent year is just part of the struggle to take over crime-related interests in casino businesses.

"These murders show that the mob considers Atlantic City worth fighting over," Brown said. "But they also demonstrate no faction has control.

"The wonderful thing about organized crime work is you can say almost anything." George Parry, chief of the Philadelphia district attorney's organized crime section, said.

An FBI source, who earlier this year helped in an investigation that led to Testa's indictment with nine pals on federal racketeering and illegal gambling charges, and who asked not to be identified, was just as candid: "We just don't know what is going on yet. Except they know, of course, about the executions that followed Bruno's:

•April 18: Two Bruno lieutenants in North Jersey, Antonio "Tony Bananas" Caponigro, 67, and his brother-in-law, Alfred Salerno, 64, were found in the trunks of two abandoned cars, their bodies stabbed and riddled with bullets.

Caponigro allegedly controlled the waterfront rackets for "the family" while Salerno acted as his bodyguard. Shredded $20 bills were stuffed in Caponigro's body openings, a vulgar mob sign that he was too greedy.

•Sept. 19: Bruno's cousin, John "Johnny Keys" Simone. 69, allegedly in charge of the gang's numbers rocket, was shot and killed. He wore an expensive suit but no shoes

Oct. 30: Frank Sindone, 52, a Bruno associate reportedly in charge of loansharking, was shot twice in the head. His blanket-wrapped body was stuffed in garbage bags and dumped in an alley.

•Dec. 16: Roofers leader John McCullough. 60, boss of the city's toughest construction union and a close Bruno friend, was shot six times in the kitchen of his home by two men who gained easy entrance by carrying Christmas flowers.

And now Testa, Bruno's reported handpicked heir, whom some investigators say was locked in a power struggle with McCullough and may have ordered the labor leader's assassination to protect the lucrative Atlantic City turf.

One investigator said if !RA sympathizers believed Testa had McCullough wiped out, they would use their own brand of swift justice "by leaving a bomb at Testa's doorstep.

The pipe bomb is the hallmark in the IRA arsenal," said the source, who was quoted anonymously in the Philadelphia Bulletin. "McCullough supported the IRA ideologically and financially. He was loved and respected by known IRA operatives in this city. This is where the heat of the investigation is centered right

There just doesn't appear to be a logical successor. Testa's killing was a surprise, 'said the FBI source.

A communique carried by the official Iranian news agency, Pars, said the Koukalan post, 2.5 miles inside Iraq was completely destroyed by the attack

An earlier military communique broadcast by Tehran radio claimed Iranian forces completed the recapture of the Chagholvand chain of hills in western Kermanshah province. It claimed 800 Iraqi troops killed in three days of fighting and 80 captured.

Iraq claimed its forces killed 132 Iranian soldiers on all war fronts in a 24hour period ending Tuesday night, and conceded 13 Iraqis killed.

Neither side's claims could be verified. Both Iran and Iraq have banned foreign journalists from daily battlefield reporting since the war broke out Sept. 22. Iranian television recently quoted

Bani-Sadr as saying the suggestions of the Islamic Conference mediators "contained useful items" and met Iran's demand for a withdrawal before talks be-But we need explanations about

A more moderate view comes from Khomeini's representative on the Supreme Defense Council, Ali Khamenei, who said in a telephone interview that Iran left the door open to further visits by the mediation teams.

European Tour Project Praised By Committee

By LISA PAIKOWSKI Avaianche-Journal Staff

Fundraisers and the solicitation of contributions could be employed to absorb the cost of a controversial trip for students to Europe, according to a committee appointed to evaluate the public school course which offers the trip.

The eight-member committee praises in a written report the entire LEAP (Lubbock Exemplary Academic Program) magnet project at Lubbock High as well as the western cultures course and European tour offered in the LEAP curriculum.

Committee chairman Joe McKay will present the panel's appraisal of the course to the school board at 7:15 a.m. Thursday. But Supt. Ed Irons said trustees are not expected to take action then on the suggestions contained in the report.

The citizens committee was appointed by school officials in January to review the class curriculum, the trip and the cost involved in sending the students to Europe because of public controversy over taxpayer funding for the tour. School taxpayers will pay a $44,256 bill for this summer's excursion.

LEAP counselor Nancy Phillips, who served as a liaison between the school district and the committee during its deliberations, reported earlier that school officials "tried to be very careful to be sure" to get an objective panel of "committee the school officials" tried to be very careful to be sure.

munity-minded" individuals.

Committee members interviewed students who completed western cultures during the first year of LEAP in 1979, students currently enrolled in the class, parents of western cultures students, the teacher of the course and several other school district officials.

The ad hoc committee report states that LEAP "is expensive in terms of dollars but cheap in the results it achieves. Some parts of the program are more expensive than others. When one looks at the cost of the western cultures course, one must look at it as a part of the whole." As a portion of the district a 1980-81 operational budget of more than $46 million, the cost of the trip breaks down to 32 1/2 cents per $100 of school taxes, the report says.

The committee "uanimously recommends" that western cultures and the field trip be maintained as part of LEAP, according to the report, but offers suggestions for cost-cutting measures

Members suggest a "contingency fund" raised through western cultures class projects such as food fairs and dramatic and musical presentations. They also recommend the school district encourage donations from civic groups and individuals, particularly alumni of the termine whether some can be eliminated and recommends that the district continue to send only two adult sponsors on the

A 25-student limit on course enrollment also is proposed by the committee "so that the cost of the trip can be maintained at a reasonable level." In addition, committee members echo the suggestions of some parents in recommending that spending money, passports and lunch money be supplied by students rather than the school district. One parent, says the report, stated his son thought he would be looked on as a "freeloader" because cost to the student has been minimal.

The report cites the results of a questionnaire submitted to 32 past and present western cultures students, revealing that 16 students said they could have paid one fourth ($500) of the cost of their trip if they had been asked; 11 stated they could pay some, but not as much as $500; and two students said they would not want to absorb any cost except for spending money.

The survey indicates that eight students would not have signed up for the course if the trip was not offered and 14 said they would have taken the course if the tour was not included.

In addition, students interviewed said they would be willing to participate in a fund-raising project for the tour.

Parents interviewed said they felt "it was time for the academically bright student to be rewarded just as the athletically gifted student is," according to the report. Western cultures students must have a 3.5 grade point average, no grade below a B in social studies since the seventh grade, high standardized test scores, approval of a LEAP committee and the recommendations of all junior teachers and counselors. They also must commit themselves to a three-year social studies honors program that culminates in western cultures.

The report states that students said they were better informed, "more appreciative of the arts," more aware of the impact of history on American culture and more interested in learning in general following the course. But the appraisal also cited some negative aspects of the trip.

Students said they had too much free time and would have prefered to tour more of the landmarks they had studied. Many suggested the tour be limited to four instead of six countries. They also criticized the quality of some hotels and their locations.

Committee members also touched on the controversial subject of bids for the excursion. They suggested bids be developed so that out-of-town and local travel agents have an "equal opportunity to prepare a bid." If there are comparable bid proposals, preference should be given to the local agency so that tax money will remain in the city, they suggest.

School officials have been maligned for their handling of the bids, with Envoye Travel owner Sigrid Carter accusing them of favoring an out-of-town firm. Diane Mitchell, an Envoye employee, is a member of the evaluation committee.

The panel also suggests that bid specifications be developed through input from the course instructor. The committee found that last year's trip included stops unrelated to course studies and that the teacher had not been consulted about the itinerary.

Trustees also will consider Thursday which days will be selected for students and teachers to make up three school days lost this school year because of snow. Irons would not disclose the administration's proposal but said the make-up days either will have to be on Saturdays or will have to be tacked on at the end of the year.

The board also will decide whether to contract next year with the Lubbock County Tax Appraisal District for collection of school taxes.

The board will meet at the Administration Building, 1628 19th St.

TICKETS STILL AVAILABLE — Sales have been steady, but tickets remain available for Marcel Marceau's 7:30 p.m. Thursday performance at the Municipal Auditorium. According to recent interviews, this tour of the United States is probably the French pantomimist's last visit to this country as a solo artist. Tickets may be purchased at Hemphill-Wells at South Plains Mall and the Texas Tech University Center ticket booth. Call 742-3810 for prices.

Special Designed Units To Be Built In Hobbs

A-J Corresponde

HOBBS, N.M. — Construction of a 63unit apartment complex at Good Samaritan Village, designed for the elderly and handicapped, will begin by April 1

John Malley, administrator of the Hobbs facility, said the loan for construction of the 50.687-square-foot facility, amounts to $2.458.725 to be paid off in 40 years at 9 1/4 percent.

The loan was approved by the Dallas office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Malley said nine apartments are designed specifically for the handicapped while the other 54 apartments will feature specific designs to cater to the needs of the elderly.

Each apartment will have 566-squarefeet of space and each kitchen area will include a stove, oven, refrigerator and garbage disposal. Each apartment will be carpeted and draped. Laundry facilities will be located on each floor.

Located on the northwest corner of the existing Good Samaritan Village lot,

Honolulu, meaning "sheltered bay" in Hawaiian, was first visited by two British ships in 1786, eight years after Capt James Cook discovered the Hawaiian Islands the facility can house 126 persons, although Malley already has received 180 residency applications

Architect plans were drawn by BWB Associates. Inc., of Memphis, Tenn., and contractor will be Ed Cillessen of Cillessen Construction Co. of Albuquerque

Police Seek Pair In Clovis Theft

CLOVIS, N.M. (Special) — Authorities were searching Tuesday night for two men who robbed a convenience store here of an undetermined amount of money shortly after 11 a.m. (MST) Tuesday, police said.

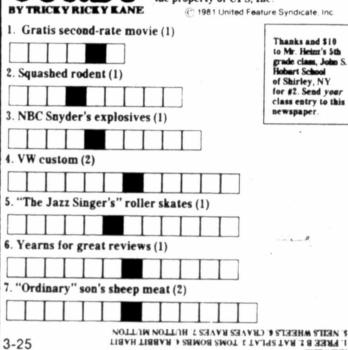

The men, one black and the other Mexican-American, entered the Allsup's store and demanded all the money from the cash register, said Clovis Police Capt. C.C. Pyle

The men left the scene in a large red car, possibly a Ford, Pyle said. Neither of the robbers displayed a weapon, but they kept their hands concealed in their pockets during the incident, he said.

The black man was believed to be about 6-feet-1 and had reddish hair, Pyle said. Both men were said to be in their

"JIMMAY THE GREEK" would give odds that you couldn't find a three bedroom, two bath home that faces into Waggoner Park for under $100,000. He would lose!! We've got one that's in excellent condition. Beautiful landscaping and outdoor lighting. Lots of charm for only $90,000. Confact us foday.

"HONEST ABE" would like this little house. It has three bedrooms, two baths with a very large den. The home has been freshly pointed and has storm windows and doors. FHA has appraised this home at $37,590, but the owner says he will sell it at $38,950 on the $1.05% BOND MONEY, if you act now. Call for the defails.

"BANKER JOHN" says he will take $43,500 for this three bed-room, two bath home and he will make you a 90% loan at an in-terest rate below 10%. This home has good earthlone carpet, a fireplace and built-in kitchen appliances and it's in a good neigh-borhood. Please call this private number for details. 792-4396,

"CRAY SHIRLEY" wented a house that has three bedrooms, two beths with a big living den and fireplace. She said that it had to have excellent [andscaping, a tennis court and a swimming pool for under $70,000. If you see her, tell her we've found one in Quaker Heights and she can use the club membership for tennis & swimming and the "sane" financing will please her.

"KELLYE, THE BRIDE" needs to see the brand new honey-moon cottage-we have at 3109 95th Street. It features three bed-rooms, two beths, a roomy living den with skylights and dining area you'll see. 11.05% BOND MONEY available on this non-PLUS "MOW" Warranty You'll like it too. Call us for additional information. WARMEST CONGRATULATIONS, KELLYE.

GUIDE By BILL DOYLE

Q. When some stock I owned was trading at $24, I placed a stop order with a broker on 200 shares at $22.50. There was a big sell-off in the market and price of that stock slid from $24 to $21.50.

My 200 shares were sold at $21.25. I feel this was poor performance by the broker of my stop order. Should I be more forgiving?

A. Yes. And, when you understand the procedure of a stop order, you proba-

A stop order is an order that becomes "market order" - to sell at the best available price - as soon as the stock reaches a certain price. When you placed your stop order, you instructed the broker to sell those 200 shares - at whatever price they would bring — once the stock hit $22.50. When the stock did drop to $22.50, your 200 shares were sold. The best price available was $21.25. That's what you

It is a bit unusual for a stock to trade at $21.25, immediately after trading at $22.50. But that can happen - especially on days when stock prices in general go into a major slump.

Q. An Internal Revenue Service publication states that dividends paid by money market mutual funds from the interest those funds collect do not qualify for the "dividend exclusion.".

Literature from a money market fund states, "For 1981, up to $200 ($400 for joint returns) of the fund's income dividends will be elgible for such dividend.received exclusion

Which statement is correct? A. Both, because they're talking about different tax years.

On your 1981 income tax return - the one you must file by April 15 - you cannot exclude dividends from money market mutual funds. But you'll be able to on your 1981 return, because of a change in the tax code.

From 1980 and recent previous years' returns, each taxpayer has been allowed to exclude - and not pay income tax on - the first $100 of dividends he or she received from most U.S. corporations. For a married couple filing a joint return, the exclusion has been $200 - providing that each spouse receives $100 of dividends or that they owned stock jointly from which $200 of dividends were received.

Dividends from money market funds have not been eligible for that exclusion, because those funds pass on to shareholders interest the funds collect from debt securities - such as U.S. Treasury bills and certificates of deposit

The rules change with the 1981 tax

The exclusion becomes $200 ($400 for joint returns) and includes not only dividends but also interest.

Q. Are U.S. Treasury bills safer investments than insured savings certificates issued by banks and savings and loan associations? How does the safety of AAA and AA-rated mutual funds compare with Treasury bills? A. Technically, Treasury bills are safer than insured savings certificates. In practice, however, the two are equally There is no such thing as an "AAA and AA-rated mutual fund. Some mutual funds invest in bonds with AAA and AA ratings. But that doesn't endow the funds with those highquality ratings. The market values o shares of mutual funds investing in longterm bonds can rise or fall, depending upon the ups and downs of interest rates That brings some risk into the picture.

Q. I have literature from a money market fund, which accepts minimum inestments of $500. Since I don't have thousands of dollars to invest, would this be considered a safe investment?

A Yes Money market funds invest in short-term debt securities. So, you run practically no risk of losing any money. Dovle welcomes written questions but he will be able to provide answers only through the column. Address inquiries to 235 East 45th St., New York, N.Y.,

Sentencing Delayed For Protesters At Pantex Plant

AMARILLO (AP) - A federal judge has postponed sentencing for six protesters at a nuclear weapons assembly plant until she reviews presentencing and probation reports.

The six, who climbed a security fence around the plant, each face a maximum sentence of one year in jail and a $5,000 fine for their trespassing convictions. The protesters, saying they were on a pilgrimage for prayer and peace, were arrested at the Energy Department's Pantex Nuclear Plant near here Feb. 10. They were charged with criminal trespass after they climbed the plant's chainlink fence, then sat down and prayed. They were found guilty Monday in the court of U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson

Vincent Scotti Eirene, Ladon Sheats, Mary Springer Froese, Stephen Douglas Clements, Kathleen Jennings and Larry Rosebaugh refused to post bond or hire attorneys for their trial.

Sheats said in his closing remarks to the jury that the plant, where nuclear weapons are assembled, is "immoral." He also said he hoped the jurors' grandchildren would not have to ask them, "What did you do when the bombs were being made? Rosebaugh told the panel that the protesters didn't break the law "with guns. We just did something to get a little attention The jury had been told to disregard political and religious arguments.

Foundlings Attract Adoption Queries

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) - Hundreds of people have contacted hospital officials in hopes of adopting twin baby boys found in a garbage bin over the weekend.

Both infants, believed to be 4-daysold, were in good condition Monday as the Montgomery County Children's Services made plans to put the children up

"We have a long waiting list for infants, more than a year," said Susan Sacksteder, director of community sevices for Children's Medical Center in Dayton. "We have very few white infants who become available for adoption.

"At this point we have more people vaiting for infants than we ever have infants available.'

Two boys found the infants on Saturday after hearing noises while playing near a garbage dumpster at Shenandoah

Weather Still Major Factor In Plane Crashes

WASHINGTON (AP) - Weather continues to be a major factor behind fatal airplane crashes despite technological advances in recent years, officials of the government's accident-investigating agency said Tuesday.

James B. King, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, told a House subcommittee that in the last half of the 1970s weather was a cause or factor in 52 percent of the fatal air carrier accidents and in about 40 percent of fatal crashes by private or corporate air-

Those accidents took 4,000 lives during the five-year period.

Despite the strides made in improving weather reporting and radar. King said, those percentages have remained "essentially constant" for many years.

"While many of the general aviation accidents involve pilots with relatively low experience who proceed into adverse weather and get in over their heads ... a significant number ... involve highly experienced pilots flying aircraft capable of flight through most adverse weather conditions," he said.

Morever, he said, "highly trained air carrier pilots also have become statistics when confronted with severe thunderstorms or severe windshear." a sudden change in wind direction and speed that can throw a plane out of control.

King said a time lag in updating and relaying critical weather information to pilots has been identified by the safety board as a major problem, and he said his agency has recommended changes to the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Weather Service.

He said that "never was the need for improvement" in timely weather reporting shown as when a Southern Airways DC-9 jetliner flew into a severe thunderstorm on April 4, 1977, lost engine power and crash-landed in New Hope, Ga. The accident killed 72 persons, nine of them on the ground.

While the FAA began implementing some of the safety board's recommendation for better dissemination of weather information, "we were dismayed and concerned" when an Air Wisconsin turboprop plane crashed last June 12 near Valley. Neb., under "strikingly similar" circumstances, King said.

That accident, which took 13 lives was the only fatal air carrier crash in the United States in all of 1980, he noted.

Rep. Elliott Levitas. D-Ga., chairman

tation investigations subcommittee, asked why the weather factor has been so high in airliner crashes given the technological progress.

A safety board investigator, John Ferguson, said there were more aircraft in operation, more deadlines to be met by pilots and more sophisticated equipment aboard planes in which crews may place too much confidence for delivering them safely through bad weather.

King said the safety board has made 102 weather-related recommendations to the FAA since 1968, of which about half were accepted. The FAA has rejected about one-quarter of the rest and has not decided about the others, he said.

King said the FAA is deeply concerned about safety, but he faulted the agency for lagging in the research and development and other "forward-looking" areas, saying "bureaucratic inertia" may be partially to blame.

Congress Eyes Controversial Loan

WASHINGTON (AP) - A $290 million loan from the U.S. Export-Import Bank to an airline owned by publisher Rupert Murdoch — a loan that has been a subject of controversy for more than a year - is getting a new going-over from Congress and other federal officials.

The loan is to help Australia's Ansett Transport Industries, which is owned by Murdoch, buy 18 Boeing jets, including five wide-body 767s at interest rates a shade over 8 percent.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has asked for a congressional investigation of a part of the deal that would channel loan credits to the airline for support services, pilot training and publicity rather than just for the planes. Proxmire plans to talk more explicitly about his plans Thursday, with one option being a request that Congress extend the 30-day period in which it can veto the deal which won final Ex-Im approval on March 5. In the meantime, a Treasury Department spokesman said Tuesday that a government advisory council is also going over the support-services part of the loan although "nobody is saying this is a dirty practice or illegal." "These things all cost money, and apparently they're factored in" to some Ex-Im Bank loans, said the spokesman, Robert D. Levine.

The council apparently was not aware of this fact; they thought the money was just for the airplanes," he said. So the group, which must approve Ex-Im loans over $30 million, is taking a new look

The council includes representatives from Treasury, the Federal Reserve

Board, the departments of commerce and state, the U.S. trade representative and the chairman of the Ex-Im Bank.

A little more than a year ago, a number of senators, mostly Republicans, were harshly criticizing initial Ex-Im approval of the loan, noting that it came nine days after Murdoch met separately in Washington with then-President Jimmy Carter and Ex-Im chairman John Moore and six days after The New York Post endorsed Carter's re-election efforts. Proxmire said during hearings on the loan that Congress had found no evidence of wrongdoing, but he also said he was concerned about the "series of coincidences" just before its approval.

The Ex-Im Bank's purpose is to help U.S. companies compete with foreign firms for export contracts, using federally subsidized loans to make U.S. trade more attractive to overseas buyers.

Moore told Congress last year that the loan to Ansett was necessary to sweeten the Boeing deal enough so that the Australian company would buy American jets rather than planes from Airbus Industrie, a European concern.

The Reagan administration has proposed severe cutbacks in the Ex-Im Bank's budget, saying a major part of the bank's help goes to big companies such as General Electric, which would build some of the aircraft engines in the Ansett deal, and Boeing - companies the administration says can hold their own in world markets without federal help

Critics of the cutbacks say Ex-Im's efforts are vital to help U.S. exporters compete with foreign companies which benefit from subsidies by their governments

Court Says Broadcasters Choose Programming

WASHINGTON (AP) - If a radio station drops your favorite program, it's no use griping to the federal government.

the Supreme Court said Tuesday The Federal Communications Commission, which regulates the airwaves, has no legal responsibility to make a station keep a popular show on the air just to satisfy its fans, the court said in a 7-2 decision The majority agreed with the FCC that "reliance on the market." meaning the broadcasters judgment of listener preference. "is the best method of promoting diversity in entertainment for

The decision was one of five handed down a few hours before the court heard arguments on one of the most significant and controversial cases it must face in this term - the question whether it is an unconstitutional form of discrimination to draft men and not women.

Lines of people hoping to watch the draft debate had formed outside the imposing court building by early morning. although the outcome of the one-hour de bate would not be known for months

The court's broadcasting decision stemmed from decisions in the U.S. Cirouit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, which required the FCC to review changes in the format of entertainment programming when a radio station's license is reviewed or transferred

The appeals court said the FCC should determine whether the public interest would be served by a format change

The FCC with power to refuse a broadcast license, thus was cast in a role as program director — a role to which it objected as strongly as the broadcasters.

The Supreme Court opinion, written by Justice Byron R. White, harked back to the 1969 decision upholding the FCC'S 'fairness doctrine' requiring broadcasters to air opposing views on major public

Although observing that the interests of the people as a whole were promoted by debate of public issues on the radio. White wrote, we did not imply that the First Amendment grants individual listeners the right to have the comfavorite entertainment programs

By NORVAL POLLARD Executive Sports Editor

The Texas Tech Red Raiders, a bit rusty after a four-month layoff since the end of the 1980 season, opened their 1981 spring football training with a 2½-hour workout Tuesday afternoon.

Head coach Jerry Moore, taking the field with the Raiders for the first time since he was hired Jan. 4 to replace Rex Dockery, said he expected much of what he saw during the first of 20 spring practice sessions.

"It was pretty much what I expected for a first spring practice," Moore said. "The players were a little hesitant at times, but that is because they are not really familiar with our audibles at the line of scrimmage."

"A couple times I noticed guys getting a bit frustrated because they missed an audible or forgot an assignment," Moore added. "But they would pick it back up when someone broke one or made a good

Moore acknowledged that his staff put the Raiders through a tough workout and was pleased by the overall effort and response of the squad.

"I'm not worried about effort," Moore declared. "These kids will give you 100 percent effort.

"It's just a matter of learning an entirely new system. I think by Saturday we'll have a better idea of what we have because the players will have a better idea of what's going on."

Moore plans to conduct the first major controlled scrimmage of spring Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

The Raiders continue spring drills today at 4 p.m. Tech will work out Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursday and scrimmage on Saturdays. Tech's spring training ends April 25 with the annual Red-Black game

TulsaGunsFor NIT Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Coach Nolan Richardson will be looking for his second national basketball tournament title tonight when he takes his Tulsa Hurricane into the championship game of the National Invitation Tournament against Syraelise

Richardson, whose Western Texas Community College team went 37-0 and won the national junior college championship a year ago, is in his first season at Tulsa, which was 8-19 in 1979-80 and 25-7 this season.

Just four years ago he was coaching in a high school at El Paso, where he once led a team with no player over 5-foot-11.

"Getting ready for this game and preparing for junior college and high school championship games is no different." Richardson said Tuesday. "It's just that there are more people around when you come to New York."

Tulsa advanced to the final game with an 89-87 victory over West Virginia, while Syracuse defeated Purdue 70-63.

"We feel we'll be playing Syracuse in their own back yard," said Richardson. "Fan support could be a big factor."

Richardson brought four players from Western Texas to Tulsa, and all four have played key roles in the Hurricane's turnaround

"When I heard coach Richardson was bringing four players with him from junior college, I didn't know what to expect." said senior forward Bob Stevenson, the lone holdover starter from last year. "Then I saw we would have more talent than we had at any time since I've been here, and I realized my role would change."

Greg Stewart, a 6-9 center and Paul Pressey, a 6-5 swingman, were Richardson's blue-chip transfer stars.

Stewart, the leading scorer in the regular season with a 15.2 average, scored 19 in the triumph over West Virginia, but Pressey is considered to have the best chance to make it as a professional.

Pressey runs the team offensively, averaging 10 points per game, and makes Tulsa's pressing defense work. Richardson calls Pressey 'my rubber band man' because of his long arms and quick hands.

On Monday, Pressey scored 20 points, including 11 in the final eight minutes, and had an NIT-record seven steals against the Mountaineers.

Rucker, Red Raiders Cannibalize Savages

By RAY GLASS

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Texas Tech treated Southeastern Oklahoma State to a West Texas roasting - complete with strong winds - Tues day as the Raiders cannibalized the Savages 21-15 on shifting Tech Diamond.

Catcher Kevin Rucker led the Tech barrage that feasted on four Savage hurlers, pounding out 17 hits, including four doubles and two home runs, while running up highest Raider run total in 26 games this season.

Rucker, a junior from Carlsbad, N.M., started the pounding with a twoout grand-slam home run in the bottom of the first inning and, before the ninerun marathon ended three hours later, he added a double and drove in seven runs, matching his total for the season.

Joining Rucker in the offensive show were third baseman Jimmy Zachry (four hits, three RBI and three runs), left field er Bobby Kohler (three hits, four RBI and four runs), and first baseman John

But Tech won its 16th game of the season only by outscoring Southeastern Oklahoma. The Savages hammered 16 hits of their own and scored eight runs in the final two innings to make the final score respectable.

The Raiders led 18-7 entering the top of the eighth inning, but the Savages, ranked second among NAIA schools. raked Derek Hatfield for eight runs on four hits and four walks before the final

Hatfield was the last of four Tech pitchers as Raider coach Kal Segrist gave his starters a brief workout in preparation for this weekend's SWC series with

Kyle Fahrenthold worked the first three innings for Tech and was followed by David Carroll, Robert Bryant and Hatfield, who each worked two innings.

Our pitching was better than theirs but we kind of let down defensively. Rucker said. "But the wind had a whole lot to do with the outcome. Everything and three more singles. was just jumping out today. You just had to find an alley or find a hole and the ball took off.

Rucker's first inning blast which, aided by the wind, landed across 6th Street beyond the left-field fence and bounced off the Municipal Coliseum wall on two hops, came after a Savage error, two walks and a single by Kohler and gave Tech a 4-1 lead.

"It was a fastball," Rucker said of his 420-foot shot, his first of the season. "I kind of thought he (the Savage pitcher) would throw it again because he was having a hard time finding the plate."

Southeastern's pitchers gave up 11 walks and a pair of Savage errors in the first three innings led to seven unearned Raider runs

Jeff Harp's two-run single highlighted a three-run third for Tech. Southeastern scored five runs in the top of the fifth off Carroll on a pair of singles, a three-run home run by third baseman Gary Sharp

Tech scored six times in the bottom of the inning, for a 15-7 lead, as 11 Raiders

The Lubbock Christian College baseball team, ranked ninth in the nation in this week's NAIA poll, hosts Southeastern Oklahoma, rated second nationally. in a double-header at 1 p.m. today at

Chaparral Stadium. LCC, 22-15, has made marked improvement in the past two weeks, or ever since coach Larry Hays made significant lineup changes

Those changes included five defensive maneuvers that have added speed to the Chap outfield where Jimmy Durham and Karl Mahan now patrol center field and right field, respectively Also, improved second-base play has come from Scott Lockwood and Gary Hix. Third baseman Lewis Stephenson, a converted shortstop, and new shortstop Oscar Cardenas, still are adapting

"I'm happy with the last 14 games Havs said, pointing out that LCC has won 13 of those. "We've done a good job and I like the attitude that's started developing. There are things to be encouraged

We'll throw our two best against Southeastern but I still don't know who that is." Hays said. "I still like Noel Delgado and Gordy Gesell.

Delgado has been LCC's only consistent pitcher this season, while Gesell, who has forfeited his assignment as the team's No.1 catcher to take the mound is flawless in nine innings of work, he has yet to allow an earned run

We need Gordy to catch but he's just too valuable a pitcher." Hays said

Delgado and Gesell will start today The series concludes with a single game at 1 p.m. Thursday at Chaparral Stadium

The recent 13-game winning streak of the Lubbock Christian College baseball team was fueled, in part, by the pinchhitting of Mitch Mackey.

Mackey, who had five hits in eight atbats and all as a pinch-hitter last week, is the LCC athlete of the week, it was announced Monday.

Mackey's week included a triple. home run and seven runs batted in.

State Finalist Lions Head Class 2A Cage Stars

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

First-year coach Jan Averitt-Whisenhunt and her two most outstanding players. Vickie Teal and Melissa Mayo, who led New Deal to the girls' state basketball tournament finals, head the 1981 Avalanghe-Journal Class 2A All-South Plains Team.

The other members of the prestigious squad are Christi Adams and Lavonne Brumley of Forsan, Rhonda Lockett of Hale Center, Ramona Melton of Ropes and Melinda Denham of Springlake-

Mrs. Whisenhunt, who retired from coaching immediately after the state tourney, coached at Shallowater in 1980. Upon her arrival at New Deal, however, the Lions became a new team.

After reaching last year's regional finals and losing to state runner-up Panhandle by two points, the Lions ran to a 29-6 record and a state tournament berth this season. Mrs. Whisenhunt thus earns the All-South Plains Coach of the Year

"I give all the credit to the girls," Mrs. Whisenhunt said. "That's the best had teams where I had to get behind them and push all season long, but my players and I made our goals together. worked together to achieve them and had a lot of fun doing it. We went a long way and though we didn't go all the way it's a great way to end a coaching ca-

Miss Teal repeats as the Class 2A All-South Plains Player of the Year. The 6-0 senior post averaged 24 points (62 per-cent from the field), 16 rebounds and five blocked shots per game in the regular season and was even more outstanding in the playoffs.

She averaged 20 points per game in the Region I Tournament and 25 points in state competition and earned all-tourney honors in both.

Miss Mayo, a 5-10 junior, made last year's All-South Plains second team. She averaged 18 points per game during the regular season while playing on a tender ankle. She reinjured that ankle in regional action, but scored 18 points as the Lions defeated Forsan 42-40 in the regional finals for a berth in the state playoffs. Miss Mayo was an all-region selection while averaging 17.5 points per playoff game.

Misses Adams and Brumley were also all-region selections. Miss Adams, a 5-8 senior, led the Buffalo Queens to their perfect District 5-2A record by averaging 20 points a game and added 37 more in the regional tourney. Miss Brumley, a 5-6 senior, ran the Buffalo Queens' precision offense as they recorded a 25-4 record this season. She scored 13 points in Forsan's two regional playoff games.

averaged 13 points per outing this season as the Hale Center Owlettes took New Deal down to the wire for the District 4-2A championship. She poured in 17 points in the league championship game against the Lions.

Tracy Wiley, Ralls' 5-9 junior post, led the Jackrabbits with 17 points per game while they battled Hale Center and New Deal tough for the 4-2A championship.

Melinda Denham, a 6-0 junior, put in

Ainge Wins Eastman Award

NEW YORK (AP) - Danny Ainge played hooky from the Toronto Blue Jays' baseball training camp Tuesday to accept the Eastman Award as college basketball's "Player of the Year."

Twish I could have been to camp earlier," said the slender high-scoring forward who paced Brigham Young to the Eastern Regional final of the NCAA playoffs before bowing to Virginia.

"I was supposed to be in Dunedin

(the Blue Jays' Florida training quarters) on Monday if we lost. But I got permission to delay it so I could receive this trophy and play in the all-star game Sunday during the NCAA finals in Philadelphia.'

A rare athlete who starred in three sports - baseball, basketball and football - in his Eugene, Ore., high school, the 6-foot-4 Ainge said after much deliberation he decided on the baseball course as a career although pro basketball probably offered a quicker early reward:

'It was a decision I made with my wife, Michelle," he added. "I enjoy basketball but I prefer the leisurely pace of baseball. There is not all that pounding up and down the floor as in basketball.

I have to think my knees will last longer and I will have a longer career. Besides, my wife said she wanted me to be able to play with my children when I get older." The Ainges, who were college sweethearts, have a 15-month-old daughter. Ashlee. versatile. 22-year-old athlete

Mustangs, Tigers Battle To Tie

The Coronado Mustangs and Snyder Tigers battled for three hours and eight full innings Tuesday at the Coronado Diamond, but were still unable to determine a winner.

The game was called due to darkness with the score tied 7-7.

In other city games, Lubbock High smashed Levelland 16-2. Dunbar whipped Ector 12-2, Monterey crushed Canyon 12-0 and Estacado blasted Hobbs

"We deserved what we got," a disappointed coach John Dudley said after the game. "We made a lot of mental mistakes and our base running was awful. We weren't impressive at all today. We had no problem yesterday (beating Caprock 20-4) . I guess it was just too easy yesterday. I hate to lose and I hate games like this. Snyder just put more pressure on us than we put on them. I guess we were lucky to even come out with a tie."

Coronado was behind from the start as Snyder pushed single runs across in the first two innings and two more in the fourth. But back-to-back three-run innings in the fourth and fifth gave the play. But the Tigers came back with runs in the sixth and seventh to force the game into extra innings. The Mustangs put two runners on the base paths in the bottom of the eighth. but were unable to drive them in. Jerry Foster walked and was gunned down by Tiger catcher Neil Evans and Jay Lindstrom reached base on an error by the shortstop but was forced at second base for the last out of the game.

Lubbock High got plenty of heavy hit-ting to back up Bobby Balch's three-hitter and recorded its third win of the year, a 16-2 count over Levelland.

The Westerners pounded out 12 hits against two Levelland pitchers. Four Lubbock High batters had two hits or more. Balch himself was 2-of-2 with two runs scored and an RBI, Lupe Vasquez was two of three with two runs scored and an RBI. James Jackson was 1-of-3 with two runs and two RBI and Rudy Robles was two of three, scoring three runs. In addition, Anarlo Adami came on in the third inning to belt a two-run triple in his only at-bat.

Angelo Blanco went the distance on the mound and aided the Dunbar cause with a two-run double as the Panthers took a surprising 12-2 win over the Ector

ger Homers Sink Pirates 5-4

The Associated Press

Despite committing six errors, the Detroit Tigers defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4 in exhibition baseball Tuesday thanks to two-run homers by Richie Hebner and Lou Whitaker.

Dave Parker homered for the Pirates, who got two runs in the second inning as Stan Papi committed two errors and Duffy Dyer one for the Tigers. But Whitaker homered following a Dyer walk in the fourth and Hebner connected in the fifth with Steve Kemp on base.

Both Tigers home runs came off Pittsburgh ace Jim Bibby. Jack Morris went seven innings for Detroit.

The New York Yankees used a 16-hit explosion for a 15-6 romp over the Atlanta Braves. Bucky Dent, Bob Watson and Rick Cerone each had three hits and the latter pair each drove in three runs. Graig Nettles chipped in with a homer

A pair of rookies paced the New York Mets to a 1-0 victory over the Boston Red Sox. Mike Howard tripled in the eighth inning and scored on Butch Benton's sacrifice fly for the game's only run.

Boston's Dennis Eckersley pitched hitless ball for the first five innings. Pat Zachry, Ed Lynch and Jeff Reardon combined on the shutout for the Mets.

Alfredo Griffin's two-run, inside-thepark home run in the second inning helped the Toronto Blue Jays top the Montreal Expos 14-10 as each team collected 15 hits. Griffin, who also had a double, drove in three runs, scored three, stole a base and drew a walk as the Blue Jays built an 11-1 lead by the sixth inning and then hung on.

Larry Herndon singled, doubled and homered and Ed Whitson combined with Gary Lavelle on a seven-hitter as the San Francisco Giants beat the Cleveland Indians 8-1. Whitson gave up one run, a homer by Pat Kelly, in six innings. Lavelle held the Indians scoreless on three hits through the final three innings.

The White Sox routed the St. Louis Cardinals 17-2 as Russ Kuntz drove in six runs. He had a three-run homer and a two-run triple Cincinnati outslugged Los Angeles 10-6 in a sloppy game in which the teams combined for nine errors, three by Dodger shortstop Pepe Frias.

Jose Cruz drove in two runs and four Astros pitchers combined to shut out the Minnesota Twins 5-0. Bob Knepper; Joaquin Andujar, Frank LaCorte and Joe Sambito allowed the Twins just two sin-

Terry Bulling collected three hits, including a two-run triple, and Richie Zisk and Gary Grey slammed homers to lead the Seattle Mariners to a 9-2 swamping of the California Angels. The Mariners had

Wayne Gross belted a grand-slam home run of Jim Slaton in a five-run A's fifth as Oakland rallied to beat the Milwaukee Brewers 9-7.

Leon Durham's three-run homer highlighted an eight-run second inning as the Chicago Cubs outlasted the San Diego Padres in a wild 12-11 game. San Diego's Mike Phillips tripled twice and drove in four runs while Terry Kennedy had three hits and three RBI.

In night games, the Philadelphia Phillies took on the Baltimore Orioles and the Texas Rangers played the Kansas City Royals.

earned the right to dream of one of baseball's most remarkable achievements — becoming the No.1 hitter in the National League.

Rose, who will be 40 years old April 14, needs just 74 hits to pass Stan Musial as the all-time NL leader in career hits, a goal he'll reach early this season un-

"You don't play for records," Rose said recently at the Philadephia Phillies spring training camp.

"But records are part of the incentive that keeps you going when you're my age. The most important incentive thing. . . should be to try and play in the

Rose has been in five World Series, including last year as first baseman for the Phillies. He has the reputation of a winning player, a guy who would run through fire to reach home plate safely. If he passes Musial, only Hank Aaron, who got some of his hits as an American League player, and the all-time leader, Ty Cobb, will rank above Rose on the career hit list. Musial has 3,630, Aaron 3,771 and Cobb an incredible 4,191. Rose, with 185 hits last year, is at 3.557.

Knight Says Hoosiers Need Strong Play Inside Against LSU

ana's offense is run by sophomore guard Isiah Thomas, but coach Bobby Knight says the Hoosiers have to get strong play from their big men, Landon Turner and Ray Tolbert, to be successful.

'If Turner can mature, he could be awfully tough up front," Knight said of the 6-foot-10 junior who has been inconsistent at different times this season.

"I had to bench Turner," Knight said. "There was a game I was going to bench (6-9 senior) Tolbert, but (reserve Steve) Bouchie got sick and couldn't play.'

Except for Tolbert, Indiana's starting lineup is made up of underclassmen, whose steady improvement is responsible for the Hoosiers' late-season surge that carried them to the Big Ten Conference championship and to the NCAA Final Four a4Philadelphia Saturday.

Indiana, 24-9, plays Louisiana State, 31-3, and Atlantic Coast Conference rivals North Carolina and Virginia tangle in Saturday's two semifinal games. The winners meet Monday night for the championship.

Thomas is Indiana's scoring leader. The 6-1 All-American has averaged 18.3 points and 11.3 assists in Indiana's three tournament games so far. Tolbert, the center, is the Hoosiers' top rebounder, is second in scoring and led the Big Ten in field goal percentage at .626.

Since Knight restored Turner to the starting lineup, the Hoosiers have won all seven games they've played. The Thomas-Turner-Tolbert trio has averaged 58 points a game and shot .628 from the field during that stretch.

"Landon is a lot like our team," said Knight, who has used 11 different starting lineups until settling on Thomas, Turner, Tolbert, 6-6 guard Randy Wittman and 6-8 forward Ted Kitchel. "He is in the process of maturing just like this Indiana's early troubles. "To be a conteam is in the process of maturing. I tender, you have to win inside. But we don't think we are anywhere near our

were able to stay in the Big Ten race by Knight, who is taking an Indiana team into the Final Four for the third time in nine years, said the preparation for Louisiana State won't be any different than for any other opponent. "People talk about the underdogs and the favorites, but it really makes no difference at all," Knight said. "We don't prepare differently in terms of what outside people say. We'll look at LSU's defense and offense and probably bring in some of our players individually to look at the things they do."

LSU is "very quick, and with that quickness they have excellent strength," Knight said. "They're a talented team and can come at you in different ways. They don't really lack anything it takes to be a good team.

Wolfpack Coach Picks Tar Heels Over Cavaliers

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - The semifinal matchup between fifth-ranked Virgi-nia and sixth-ranked North Carolina in the NCAA Tournament Saturday could be viewed more as an extension of the Atlantic Coast Conference season than a bid for the national collegiate basketball championship.

The Tar Heels and Cavaliers square off at 2:30 p.m. in Philadelphia, just after the first semifinal game between Indiana and LSU at 11:30 a.m.

And who better to judge the outcome of an ACC duel than an ACC coach - one who has lost to both teams this year?

But North Carolina State coach Jim Valvano doesn't let his analysis stop with the two ACC teams. He's more than willing to pick both teams that will end up in the Monday's championship game. "I think Carolina will beat Virginia and Indiana will beat LSU," Valvano said after studying the situation. "But after that, I'm on hold. I'm going to wait on the Indiana-Carolina game."

Valvano said he believes that while all four teams are on an "upbeat. . . Carolina is playing its best basketball of the year. (Sam) Perkins is playing so well. They're on a roll.

"They've settled into that routine. Their inside play is fantastic. They've got a great blend of inside-outside play. Also, defensively they've got their act together. They're playing a half-court game and doing it as well as anybody in the coun-

Of course, Valvano doesn't think Virginia is going to roll over and play dead, especially since it still has All-America 7foot-4 center Ralph Sampson. Plus, the Cavaliers already own two comeback victories over the Tar Heels this season, coming back from 13-and 16-point defi-

"I can't see Virginia beating them three times," Valvano said.

Demise Of Premiere Promises Better Programming For Pay-Cable Systems

By TOM JORY

NEW YORK (AP) - The covers of the program guides distributed for March by the three major pay-cable networks were strikingly similar, indeed identical: Marlon Brando's red-orange visage copied from the movie poster for Francis Coppola's "Apocalypse Now.

"It was all because of the Premiere holdback," says Jim Miller, vice president for program planning an administration for Showtime, No. 2 to Home Box Office in the pay-cable market. 'Apocalypse Now' was really the only big movie available for March.

With Premiere no longer in existence" Miller says "I believe you are going to see strongmr programming in the months ahead.

Four major movie studios - Columbia. Universal, Paramount and 20th Century-Fox - along with the Getty Oil Corp., announced last April creation of a satellite network, later called Premiere. that would have exclusive use, for nine months, of motion pictures produced by the consortium.

The three existing pay-cable systems. Showtime. HBO and The Movie Channel. rely heavily on films produced by the major studios, and the formation of Premiere very quickly clogged the motion picture pipeline to their subscribers.

On New Year's Eve, two days before Premiere was to begin service, U.S. Dist. Judge Gerard Goettel, in Washington, granted a Justice Department request that effectively put Premiere out of busi-

"Any product that had not been sold before Premiere was announced was held back." says Showtime's Miller. "That put us in a position where we were getting nothing from the four studios. You're going to see these films showing up on May schedules

Though both Showtime and HBO have diversified their programming to include theatrical as well as concert-style entertainment, comedy series and some sports, their schedules remain heavy in current motion pictures. And the competition to be first - or at least simultaneous - in the presentation of a box-office hit is intense.

Films generally are made available to all satellite pay services at the same time. "There are some movies," says Miller. "that are sold exclusively, generally on a pre-buy basis. That means the HBO or Showtime will invest in a movie. before production.

HBO, for instance, invested in the production of movies like "Flash Gor-"Tribute" and "The Jazz Singer. while Showtime, in the same manner, acquired "Love at First Bite" and "When a Stranger Calls" on an exclusive basis.

We are not big believers in pre-buy-ing," Miller says. "You have a lot to lose, and very little to gain.

The time lapse between a movie's theatrical distribution and its release to pay TV varies, often with the box office popularity of the film. "Star Wars." a movie that still attracts crowds to the theaters, has not been made available for pay TV: "Hopscotch," "Escape to Kill" and "Dressed to Kill," three more recent films, are scheduled for pay TV distribution in April.

Showtime recently announced licensing agreements with two of the studios formerly aligned with Premiere, Columbia and Paramount, which will bring titles like "Kramer vs. Kramer" and "Stir Crazy" from Columbia and "Star Trek" and "Urban Cowboy" from Paramount to the service, some as early as May.

Showtime's competitors are sure to go after the same films, but Miller says

Apparently Bonnie and Joe have suc geeded. As one fan said aFter their St. Patrick - Day performance at the counin and western-style Palomino Club here. They could have been singing. Praise Chairman Mao' with that music and I would have liked it.

But it's God that Bonnie is praising. I started out singing in church That's where I got the uninhibited spiritual expression that I've used in all my songs. she said

In fact, she said. "If the audience didn't listen to the words, they couldn't tell the difference

With Delaney and Bonnie and Friends she recorded "Never Ending Love," and other 1960s hits. She co-wrote "Superstar." with Leon Russell: "Let it Rain," with Eric Clapton, and blended her voice with Three Dog Night, Little Feat and the Allman Brothers

In 1976, she ended up separated from her husband, hiding out on the Allmans' farm in Georgia, an alcoholic At one point she nearly committed suicide and even had the shotgun pointed into her mouth, she said

I said OK Lord. I'm serious If ever vou've revealed yourself to me. reveal yourself now Because I can't take anymore." she said "The Lord gave me a vision of my daughters reading headlines about me killing myself. So I called the hospital and quit drinking.

New Method Of Financing Sought For British Broadcasting

NEW YORK (AP) — George Howard was in this country not long ago, for his first visit since taking over in August as chairman of the British Broadcasting Corp. Howard said seven months ago his main objective would be a new and more sensible method of financing for the BBC, and money still was on his mind.

An annual fee charged owners of TV sets in Britain is a primary source of income from the BBC and, said the 60year-old chairman, "The last two license fee decisions were both inadequate.

'The last time, we got 34 pounds (about $78) instead of the 41 we had asked for, and as a result, we had to impose cuts of 130 million pounds ($299 million). of which 90 million was from capital and 30 million from programing.

The cuts in spending were protracted over a two-year period. Howard said. 'It's a lot of money, and we produce a hell of a lot of programming," he said. We may not have the biggest output in hours of any television organization in the world, but I think we certainly make far more programs than anybody else."

The last license decision was 15 months ago, and will expire in November. He said he intends to ask parliament for a license fee of about 50 pounds -

The only thing that can destroy the BBC is inadequate license fee decisions in the future. We can stand up to competition from anybody," he said, apparently referring to the growing prominence of Britain's independent networks.

Domestic manuevering aside - the license fee, after all, is only one source of income, albeit an important one - it would appear the BBC has become a bit more aggressive in the international marketplace in the last several months.

Just before the end of the year, the BBC shifted its primary - and longstanding - emphasis in this country from public television to a newly formed pay-cable network called RCTV. RCTV. run by Arthur Taylor, the former CBS president, will have first option on the entire BBC product for the next decade for a reported $5 million a year.

In addition, the BBC's 15-year distribution relationship with Time-Life Films will end in a matter of weeks when the American company leaves the business.

Ironically, during the recent conven tion of the National Association of Television Program Executives - the year's major syndication marketplace - Time-Life did land-office business with a couple of BBC productions, "Not the Nine O'Clock News" and "Training Dogs the Woodhouse Way " A good percentage of the new sales were to South American

Howard recently spent time in Peru and Brazil, and he indicated what the recent sales seemed to confirm - that the South American market.

'It was perhaps fortuitous that the Time-Life thing folded when it did," said Howard, a member of the BBC board since 1972. "Time-Life made no effort to sell in South America, and while we had the deal with them, there was nothing we could do about it. Now we can.

In addition, he said, the BBQ now is thinking actively about satellite, cable and the rest of it," and has stepped up the sale of books and other program-related material.

He noted, however, "Even if we make 50 million pounds from that, it's still only 10 percent of our expenditure. The BBC, most prominent in this country as the source of public TV series like "The Forsythe Saga" and much of the "Masterpiece Theater" fare, has established a reputation for excellence. The tail's never going to wag the dog." said Howard, noting the possibility that a desire to increase income could conceivably affect quality. "Our people are too deeply steeped in the tradition of good programming to allow that to hap-

Howard took pains to assure American audiences that the BBC will remain a familiar presence on public and commercial television, despite its new relationship with RCTV.

Coproduction arrangements forged before the RCTV deal - the BBC supervises production, others help pay the bills - will be completed, he said, and the material sold on the open market. The Mobil Corp., for instance, announced recently it had purchased "The Borgias," a 10-part BBC-Time-Life production, for broadcast in this country next season.

"I think some people have assumed we are opting out of our commitment to PBS." the chairman said. "That is not
