Rodeo Cowboys Face Final Round Tonight

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff
A CHUTE gate slammed open, a bareback bronc jolted into the arena and a thrill-packed, fast-paced third edition of the 39th annual ABC Rodeo was off and running.
Fans numbering 6,100 Friday cheered on the rodeo professionals aiming for a slice of a record prize of more than $24-

000. And man and beast tangled in three-night action which has grown progressively wilder since the opener and which promises a not-to-be-forgotten final round at 8 p.m. today in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

Bronc riders took their rounds in hard-fought battles punctuated with spills and thrills, while bucking bulls showed arena fans how the sturdy animals earned their tough reputations.

Even roping calves got into the battle against the cowboys, who are shooting for a $1,000 bonus in the Coors Chute-Out in addition to regularly posted prize money. Calves dodged, ran, danced, bucked and kicked free to frustrate the already plagued ropers.

And "King of the Road" Roger Miller, for the third night in a row, charmed the crowd with all the vocal and fiddle action fans came to hear.

Bucking bulls won back their fearsome reputation Friday with a 7-4 win over the cowboys, slamming the riders into the dust in rolling, twisting, stomping performances.

Haig: Poland's Red Split 'Dangerous'

Weekend Action 'Could Be Critical'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said Friday that events in Poland are coming to a head because of a "very dangerous, very bad" Communist Party split in which hardliners appear to be gaining the upper hand in that nation.

Haig called the situation "very, very serious" and said developments this weekend "could be critical."

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, meanwhile, vowed the United States would foreclose arms talks and join the European allies in a "concerted effort" to punish the Soviet Union for any attempt to crush Poland's independent labor movement.

Weinberger declined to go beyond vague statements about allied counter-moves, but when pressed by reporters as to possible military action, he declared: "I don't rule it in and I don't rule it out." He made clear, at the same time, that any Soviet intervention in Poland would dash chances for a revival of strategic arms negotiations. "It would be absolutely futile to sit down with a country that behaves that way," he said.

The State Department was known to have a list of standby sanctions that includes a complete break in trade and cultural relations and a campaign to gain worldwide condemnation of the Kremlin, if it intervenes.

Maneuvers Cited

Among warning signs, Haig said, is the continuation of Soviet-led Warsaw Pact military maneuvers, previously expected to have ended by now, in and around Poland. Haig also cited the "tensions associated" with Friday's four-hour "warning" strike by the independent labor federation Solidarity and the possibility of a general strike next week.

"There's a very major split in the party between hard-liners and soft-liners... I think there's a great deal of concern that this coming weekend could be critical," Haig said.

there was fighting, you know what comes next."

As for what the Polish army might do, he said, "I don't think anyone knows if they would resist or join" a violent labor revolt. "It might be mixed."

Of the assessment that Soviet intervention is neither inevitable nor imminent, Haig later declared that view is "influenced day to day and hour to hour by circumstances... clearly the tensions... are far more worrisome that at the time that statement was made."

On Thursday, President Reagan, calling the Polish turmoil "very serious... very tense," warned the Polish and Soviet governments against using force to crush Solidarity.

He declared in a written statement that the Soviets may be planning "to undertake repressive action in Poland." Such a step would have "a grave effect

New Strike Infuriates Moscow

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Solidarity paralyzed Poland with a four-hour national walkout Friday, then government and union bargainers spent the same length of time unsuccessfully trying to find a way to avert an unlimited general strike next week.

Officials of the big independent union said a government commission probing the incident blamed for the current crisis — the beating of three unionists in Bydgoszcz last week — presented a 13-page report at the bargaining session.

Talks Due Today

"We shall be studying it all night," Solidarity leader Lech Walesa said as he emerged from the talks with Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Rakowski. Both sides agreed to reconvene the talks today.

The four-hour walkout infuriated the Soviet Union, which attacked the union's leaders as political rebels sowing "chaos and anarchy." In Washington the Reagan administration warned of possible NATO countermeasures if the Soviets intervene and said this weekend "could be critical."

As Warsaw pact land, air and naval drills continued in Poland and neighboring countries, the East German news agency reported that Soviet, Czechoslovak, East German and Polish commanders agreed at a meeting to "deepen their commitment for military cooperation and the uncovering of every enemy of socialism." The agency did not say where they met.

Man Burns Self

A 65-year-old man in Jaslo, a town of 29,000 in southeastern Poland, doused himself with gasoline and set himself afire, apparently in protest against the union action. The official news agency PAP said Zdzislaw Kozioł was taken to a hospital with severe burns.

The agency said several letters were found on Kozioł, including one addressed to Solidarity asking, "Who authorized

Tech To Be Estate Beneficiary

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff
A SETTLEMENT is being worked out that will provide Texas Tech's Health Sciences Center with about 7,000 acres, mostly in Dickens County, from the estate of Paul and Eva Braddock. Tech regents announced at Friday's board meeting.

"We anticipate settlement shortly," said J. Fred Bucy, regents chairman. Attorneys for the parties involved have yet to finish the necessary paperwork.

Although Tech officials say they do not yet know the value of the property, conservative estimates place the worth at $1 million. Others say the figure should be closer to $1.8 to $2 million.

The general settlement came this week in 110th State District Court in Dickens between Tech's Health Sciences Center, the Methodist Home of Waco, Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, Braddock relatives, executors of the original will and the Attorney General of Texas — whom officials say is always involved when a contested will involves charitable groups.

The lion's share of the charitable portion of the division will go to Tech, according to those familiar with the district court settlement. The agreement reportedly provides that 70 percent will go to Tech's Health Sciences Center and 30 percent will be given to Methodist Home and Cal Farley's Boys Ranch.

Dr. Marilyn Phelan, legal counsel for Tech, said the details still are being worked out but she estimates Tech's share will be about 7,000 acres.

The land is mostly in northern Dickens County, near Afton, and includes mostly ranch land but also some farm land. Tech officials say they have not determined the specific purposes for which the proceeds will be used.

In other matters Friday, regents hiked parking fees approximately 18 percent for next year, named recipients of honorary degrees, endorsed an equal educational opportunity plan to encourage more minority enrollment and extended the boundaries of the Ranching Heritage Center.

Three new regents also were sworn into office by 137th District Court Judge Robert C. Wright. They are Anne Burnett Phillips of Fort Worth and Rex Fuller and John Birdwell II, both of Lubbock.

Because of her ties to the Ranching Heritage Center, Mrs. Phillips abstained from the vote on that matter. Regents extended the fence line of the 8.6 acre ranching site an additional 1.3 acres to provide room for the 6666 Barn, which was donated to Tech last summer by Mrs. Phillips.

Regents awarded honorary degrees to be presented at the May 15 commencement to Dr. Robert C. Goodwin of Gainesville, Fla., a former Tech president, and Alvin Allison, a Levelland attorney who is credited with helping establish Tech's Law School.

During Goodwin's presidency, 1960-1966, Tech's enrollment increased by more than 6,000 students, faculty almost doubled and extensive building programs were initiated. Tech also leaped from college to university status during that

Forecast Renewed For Blowing Dust

SOUTH PLAINS residents won a reprieve Friday from the predicted blowing dust, but that same gritty weather is forecast again today before fairer weather settles over the area early next week.

National Weather Service officials say today's winds should be out of the west-southwest at 20 mph, with some gusts in the 30 mph range kicking up dirt. Weather officials also have issued wind advisories for area lakes.

However, the sandy weather should dissipate by late afternoon or early evening, forecasters say, and the long range outlook calls for fair days.

Med Student Study Rift Said Resolved

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff
WASHINGTON officials have not had time to reply, but Texas Tech Health Sciences Center officials say the dispute between the administration and a review board concerning psychological tests administered to students has been resolved.

As The Avalanche-Journal reported in a copyrighted article Tuesday, the Health Sciences Center Institutional Review Board for the Protection of Human Subjects asked federal officials to rule on the matter.

Medical school officials said the tests were "totally voluntary" and a part of the "normal matriculation process"; the review board questioned both of those points.

Dr. George Tyner, dean of the medical school, said he met with the chairman of the review board, Dr. Maysie Hughes, and that the matter was resolved.

One of the disputes concerned the review board's original approval of the testing as a research project. Later administrators said it was not research. Dr. Hughes's committee asked for verification of the fact that the research had ended and the date it ended.

"The institution has declined to provide such verification and documentation," the review board said in its letter to the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services and the Office for Protection from Research Risks at the National Institute of Health.

Hughes, Tyner says, he told Dr. Hughes this week that the research portion of the project ended Sept. 1, 1979.

When asked why he did not provide the review board with that information originally — which probably would have prevented intervention by national officials — Tyner said he would have if he had been informed of the matter.

"I was out of town," he said, when the issue arose.

When Dr. Hughes was contacted for confirmation of the resolution of the matter, she declined to comment, saying she has not talked to any news media about the issue and adding, "I will not discuss it."

Suit Filed To Block Removal Of Hazardous Waste In Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department filed a civil suit Friday seeking to prevent the removal to Mexico of 803 drums of hazardous waste from a storage site in Hidalgo.

Federal sources, who declined to be identified because they were discussing a pending case, said that the government was still investigating allegations of a scheme to illegally dump U.S. hazardous wastes in Mexico.

The government's court papers noted that Mexican authorities had arrested a figure in the case on March 7 on charges of importing contraband chemical wastes and violating health laws.

Attorney General William French Smith said the suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Brownsville against Borden Inc., Uniroyal Inc., Diamond Shamrock Corp., Monochem Inc. and Inserv Inc. Diamond Shamrock is an international chemical corporation. Monochem is a Louisiana chemical manufacturer which is wholly owned by Borden and Uniroyal. Inserv is a Hidalgo firm engaged in transporting goods across the U.S.-Mexican border.

The suit charged the defendants with violating the Solid Waste Disposal Act in the shipping and storing of hazardous chemical wastes produced by Diamond Shamrock and Monochem.

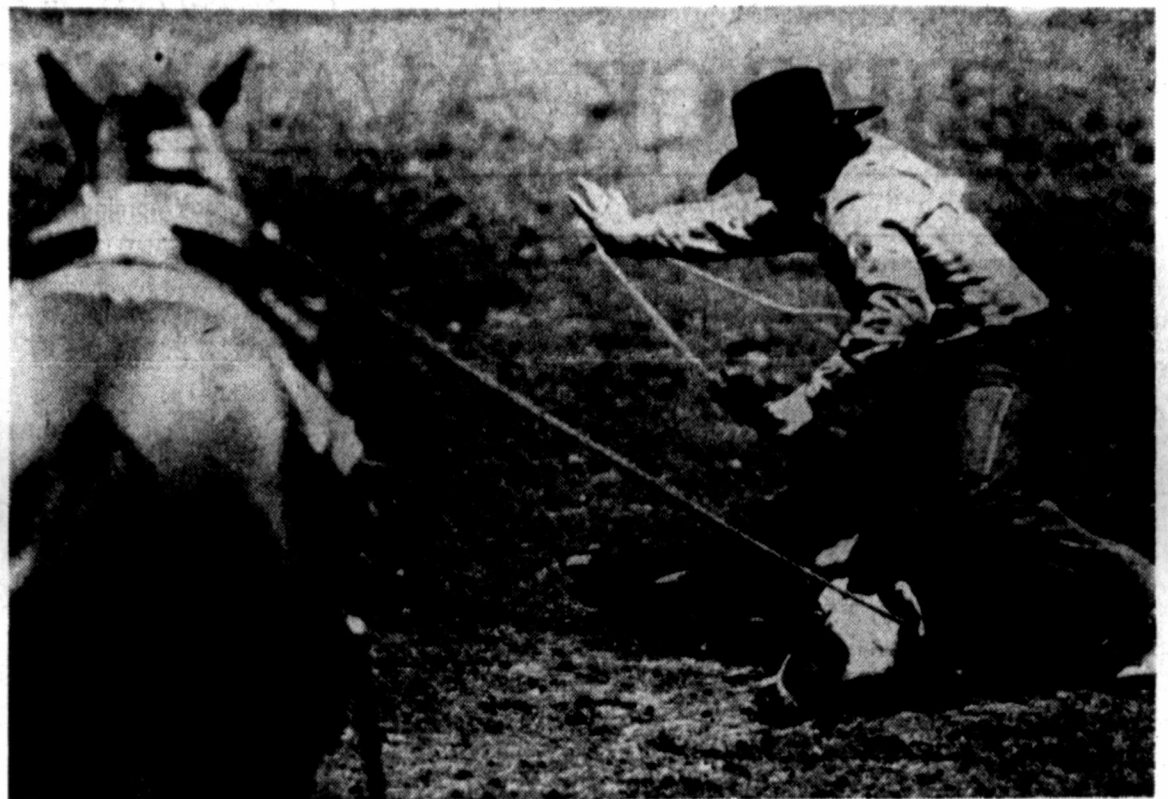

According to the government, Monochem shipped 529 drums of hazardous waste from its Geisler, La., plant to Inserv's warehouse in Hidalgo between Nov. 19, 1980, and Jan. 21, 1981. The government also said Diamond Shamrock shipped 80 drums of hazardous waste to Inserv on Dec. 15, 1980.

The suit said the wastes stored at the Inserv warehouse were believed directed toward Mexico. The government's court papers noted that on March 7, Clarence Nugent, operator of a mercury recovery business in Zacatecas, Mexico, who was associated with the export of wastes dispatched from the Inserv warehouse, was arrested in Mexico on the health and illegal importing charges.

The suit said Monochem shipped its wastes in violation of Environmental Protection Agency regulations and Inserv stored the material without an EPA permit.

The Justice Department filed the suit at the request of the EPA. Inserv officials in Hidalgo referred all queries about the case to their attorney, Reubin Cardena, in McAllen, but Cardena was out of town and could not be reached for comment. Legal spokesmen for Monochem in Baton Rouge were out of their offices and could not be reached immediately for comment.

Quartet Hijacks Honduran Airliner

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Four armed men and a woman hijacked a Honduran jetliner Friday carrying 87 other people, including two U.S. citizens, ordered it to land here and demanded freedom for 15 Salvadoran leftists jailed in Honduras.

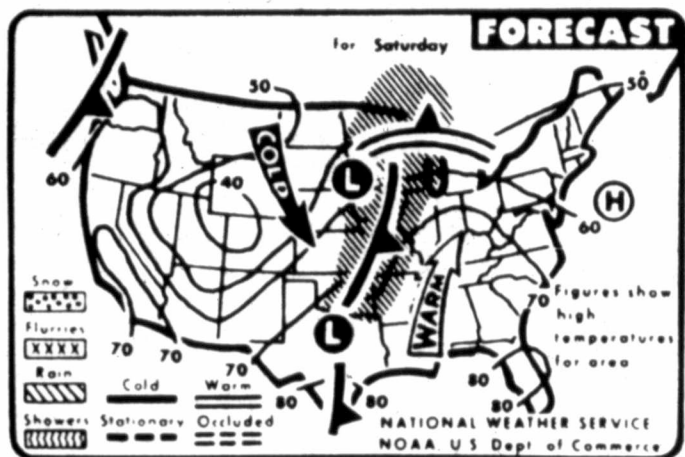

They later released 38 of the hostages from the New Orleans-bound Boeing 727 of the TAN-SAHSA airline. One of the men released was an American identified only as Mike Magger. His hometown was not given and the name of the U.S. citizen remaining aboard the craft was not revealed.

Honduran sources initially said it was believed 20 U.S. citizens were on the jetliner, but the Honduran Foreign Ministry said later information indicated there were only two. The hijackers, carrying pistols and submachine guns, allowed 28 women, six children and four men to leave the plane that was surrounded by troops of Nicaragua's leftist government.

Honduran Foreign Minister Col. Cesar Elvir Sierra, speaking with reporters in the Honduran capital of Tegucigalpa, said that left 43 passengers, the five hijackers and a crew of six aboard. He listed the crew as pilot Jorge Torre, co-pilot Dario Celaya, a flight engineer and three hostesses.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service Forecast for today predicts rain from northern Texas through Minnesota. (AP Laserphoto)

Snow Expected In Western Plains

By The Associated Press
A very slow moving storm brought heavy snow Friday to the central Rockies and central and southern Plateau.

The heavy, wet snow was expected to move into the extreme western Plains late Friday night and today.

There was significant snow over portions of New England, while other parts of that region had showers. There were also scattered showers from the central Appalachians to the middle Atlantic Coast.

Most of the nation had partly to mostly cloudy skies.

Temperatures around the nation at 1 p.m. CST ranged from low of 32 at Cody, Wyo., to a high of 83 at Laredo, Texas, and Fort Myers, Fla.

Widespread rain, showers and thunderstorms were forecast from eastern Texas and the lower Mississippi valley north to the northern Plains, upper Mississippi Valley and western Great Lakes. Continued snow was forecast over the eastern Plateau into the central Rockies and extreme western Plains. Rain was forecast in the extreme Northwest. Much of the eastern United States, as well as the far southwest and west will have mostly sunny skies.

Temperatures in the 80s were predicted for southern Texas and much of Florida, in the 40s and 50s from the Intermountain region across the central and northern Rockies, northern Plains, and Great Lakes, into the Northeast, and in the 60s and 70s in the rest of the nation.

Here is Friday afternoon weather in selected cities, as supplied by the National Weather Service.

—East: Boston 41 showery, Buffalo 50 fair, Caribou, Maine 39 snow, Charleston S.C. 75 fair, Cincinnati 56 fair, Cleveland 43 hazy, Miami 77 fair, Nashville 72 partly cloudy, New York 61 windy, Philadelphia 58 windy, Pittsburgh 43 hazy, Washington 66 cloudy.

More Risk Of Soviet Intervention Seen

MOSCOW (AP) — The nationwide strike in Poland Friday appears to have shaken the Kremlin's confidence that the new Polish regime can solve the country's crisis and increased the risk of a Soviet-led military intervention.

Western analysts here believe a military move could be the next step unless Polish leaders act quickly to restore order in the Warsaw Pact country that the Soviets regard as key to their own security.

An indication of whether the Soviets' patience has been exhausted after nearly eight months of labor turmoil may come Sunday when Poland's Communist Party is scheduled to hold a special session.

Western diplomats here said the Polish government could attempt to reassure the Kremlin then that it intends to take more forceful control by imposing martial law or arresting leaders of Solidarity, the independent trade union federation.

The official Soviet news agency Tass, in its coverage from Warsaw on Friday's strike, departed from previous policy of downplaying the effectiveness of strikes. Tass said the four-hour warning strike had a "paralyzing" effect on key sectors of the Polish economy.

Tass also noted that Solidarity's strike appeals were broadcast Thursday night on state television, a reference some Western observers took to mean Tass was suggesting Polish authorities have lost control of the media or are playing into Solidarity's hands.

Solidarity called the strike to demand the firing of those responsible for the beating of unionists last week in Bydgoszcz when security forces evicted them from a government building.

Some Western diplomats believe Solidarity's retaliation may be viewed by the Kremlin as an indication the government of Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski cannot crack down on the labor militancy without provoking new strikes.

The labor unrest in Poland has worried other Warsaw Pact countries, particularly nations whose economy is closely tied to production of coal and steel in Poland. There have also been recent reports of growing labor unrest in Poland's neighbors.

Warsaw Pact leaders issued a statement in December — when tension in Poland was last at its highest and the Soviets massed troops at Poland's border — proclaiming their confidence Poland could overcome its difficulties.

But that confidence was not reiterated on Feb. 23, when Soviet President

Analysis

Leonid I. Brezhnev told the 26th Soviet Party Congress "the pillars of the socialist state are in jeopardy."

Instead of expressing confidence that Poland could resolve its problems, Brezhnev blamed outside, Western interference for the trouble and said, "The working people of that country can firmly rely on their friends and allies. We will not abandon fraternal, socialist Poland in its hour of need."

Officials in the Reagan administration, like their predecessors in the Carter administration, have warned the Soviets of drastic consequences to East-West relations should there be a military intervention.

On Friday, Defense Secretary Casper Weinberger said the United States and its allies are considering possible measures should the Soviets intervene militarily, and refused to say whether that included military options.

Warsaw Pact troops are on maneuvers in Poland, East Germany and Czechoslovakia this month.

The Soviets could face the loss of hundreds of millions of dollars in trade with the West, worldwide condemnation and diplomatic isolation, were they to intervene.

With that in mind, the Kremlin is believed likely to pressure the Poles to act themselves before dispatching Soviet troops.

But one Western diplomat said, "When the chips are down, if the Soviets feel Communist Party control in Poland is being threatened, in the final analysis they will feel they have no other choice but to intervene."

"Once they believe their position is threatened," he said, "I'm not sure anything will deter them."

Short Course Openings Still Available

LEVELLAND (Special) — Openings remain available in aerobic dancing and small gas engine repair, two short courses being offered by South Plains College here.

Classes have begun, but registration is extended through Wednesday for the gas engine class and through Friday for aerobics.

Three Monday through Wednesday sections of aerobic dancing meet at 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 5:15 p.m. to 6:15 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday classes meet at 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 5:15 p.m. to 6:15 p.m. Instructors are Jeanette Spears, Bunny Perry and Pricella Contreras.

Classes meet in the college's women's gymnasium for six weeks. The cost is $20 per person.

A short course in the repair and maintenance of small gasoline engines meets 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Wednesdays for eight weeks in the SPC Ag-Shop.

The cost is $30, and the instructor is James Carroll, chairman of the agriculture, applied health and technology department.

More information about the courses is available by phoning South Plains continuing education division at 894-9611.

MEASLE STATISTICS

ATLANTA (AP) — There is not much risk of catching measles in a hospital or doctor's office, the national Centers for Disease Control announced Friday. The CDC said only 57 cases of measles — less than 1 percent of the reported measles cases in the nation in 1980 — were transmitted in medical settings last year.

Africans' Hand Out

DALLAS—The more you visit foreign lands, the more you discover that men—and governments—have lost their ability or will to provide for themselves. Almost every country in the world is in trouble—and looking for a handout from somebody.

Practically anybody will do: the United Nations, the World Bank, even an enemy country, if it has cash or corn. Welfare has become a global disease. It's a national crisis in the United States, England and the Scandinavian countries, where millions look to their government for food, housing, health care and survival.

It's worse in the less-developed countries, with almost all of them appealing to richer nations for billion-dollar loans to help them keep going, despite the fact that, once they get the money, it always turns out to be less than they need.

JUST BACK from three weeks in Africa—largely in Kenya, South Africa and Egypt—I found that everywhere I went, the news was of people in trouble. The kind of trouble that makes you bless a destiny that put you in the First World, even with all its problems.

The continent is suffering from the disastrous effects of war, drought, famine, greed, corruption, racism and political squabbling. From tribalism, language divisions and unfettered birthrates.

One to five million Africans will die of starvation or hunger-related diseases this year, and nobody seems to have any more idea of what to do about it than of the exact number.

Except beg for help. Entire cultures are becoming dependent on outside aid...400 relief agencies are working full-time in Africa...and the possibility that any country, except maybe South Africa, will ever become or remain self-sufficient seems dimmer with every crop failure.

THIS PUTS the multinational bankers on something of a spot. They realize that loans to Third World countries are all that keep those governments from financial collapse, but they also realize that their chances of repayment are about as good as a heavy annual rainfall on the Sahara. This has led them to do what one banker calls "come to grips in a formal way with the dynamics of world banking."

They have reached the point where they are seriously concerned with the enormous build-up in borrowed money in the past few years.

As of now, the official public debt of the less-developed countries has ballooned to around $405 billion. And $90 billion of that comes from U.S. banks.

Since the middle 1970s, they have been pouring money into the Third World, assuming that any defaults would be absorbed by the World Bank or the International Monetary Fund.

BUT THAT isn't how it's working out; no lending group has the financial muscle to guarantee loans that big.

So the banks are caught in the middle. They have to keep making the loans to prevent what they politely, if urgently, call "economic and social dislocations not known in the West since the Industrial Revolution."

But they're trying to figure out "more coherent" ways to manage their foreign debts.

"Coherent" is a word that does not fit well in almost any aspect of Third World finance, where presidents and dictators may come from tribal cultures more experienced in revolt than in industrial and technical development.

In many countries, they're so bogged down with wars, political intrigue and food shortages they lack the political will to make any long-range plans.

They have no interest, say relief agency officials, "in anything more than the day-to-day crisis."

True. Kenya's President Moi has just wangled a promise from India (which has a few problems of its own) for help in pressing the problems of the moment. Kenya needs one million tons of corn this year.

So does Uganda, whose agricultural program was destroyed when the Tanzanian army threw out the evil Idi Amin two years ago. So do Tanzanians, who won the war, but bankrupted their country.

SUDAN NEEDS $280 million and 160,000 tons of food to help it absorb the 500,000 refugees who fled there from the war in Eritrea, and Ethiopia is hoping the world will forget its Marxist sympathies and lend it $1.5 billion to meet the growing cost of Russian oil and arms.

Food aid is pouring in, but it's not enough. The money, Ethiopia hints, might help make it independent enough to kick the Russians out, the way Sudan and Egypt did.

And so it goes. Zambia and Zaire are short of food. Botswana, Mozambique and Rwanda are suffering. Zimbabwe, after an eight-year war, is dependent on other countries for corn...and corruption in Ghana keeps 10 million people hungry.

Meanwhile, the Sahara creeps southward by as much as 78 miles in the past 17 years. Rainfall is down by 25 percent, and Africa is holding out its bowl to the world.

Was the custom in Europe 350 years ago for fashionable gentlemen to wear outside girth straps, like carpenters' tool belts. And from the many hooks on them said gentlemen hung keys, purses, daggers, beads, nutmeg graters, whatever. Literary types, those few, dangled pens and inkwells from those belts. It was about this time, too, that one-eyed men who were rich enough to afford the best wore false eyes fashioned from gold or silver.

JOSEPH KRAFT:

My How Time Flies

WASHINGTON—After two months in office, the Reagan administration has started to lose definition and momentum.

The early focus on economic recovery has been blurred by foreign policy issues which have themselves been further obscured by disputes over small points.

ANDREW TULLY:

Evolution On Trial

WASHINGTON—We Americans suffer from all-outism. Moderation is scorned as ambivalent. We thrive on the thought of going whole hog.

All-outism was on display in a Sacramento courtroom the other day when a 13-year-old boy named Kasey Seagraves took the witness stand to complain that his public school teacher told him he was descended from an ape and that he should so state in all tests.

"Did your teacher tell you that evolution was absolutely true?" asked Deputy Atty. Gen. Robert Tyler, representing the state of California. "Yes," replied Kasey.

And what was Kasey Seagraves doing in a courtroom? He was a principal witness for plaintiffs against the state who claim that, by teaching evolution in public schools, California violates the religious beliefs of fundamentalist Christians and has established a "state religion."

WELL NOW THAT's a bit strong. The theory of evolution is a fact of history and thus cannot be ignored in any curriculum worthy of the name.

But if young Kasey Seagraves quotes his teacher honestly, she not only taught evolution but required her students to swallow it whole.

Teaching is telling kids things so they will get an education. It is not telling them they must form a certain opinion on a certain subject.

It is not, for example, telling them they must believe Lincoln was either right or wrong in freeing the slaves or that Jefferson was a mere man-about-plantation womanizer.

Public school teachers have a right to be atheists, Roman Catholics, or Buddhists. They don't have the right to demand that their students be atheists, Roman Catholics, or Buddhists—or Darwinists.

EVOLUTION, AFTER all, is still only a theory. That is to say, evolution has not been proved, however strong its arguments may seem.

Similarly, creationism—the Book of Genesis—is still only a theory, and so is Buddhism.

But the bottom line is that human beings have just as much of a right to embrace Creationism and Buddhism as to embrace atheism according to Darwin or other great or small thinkers.

That, of course, is why most schools instruct their students in both evolution and the history of religion.

The study of history would be inexcusably incomplete if it ignored the fact that Christianity changed the whole world politically as well as esthetically.

DARWIN, TOO, changed the thinking of hundreds of millions of people. Right or wrong, he was an enormous influence on the world.

You can't teach history completely unless you take special note of the impact of the theory of evolution.

The sad thing about the charge young Kasey Seagraves levels against his teacher is that he is claiming she violated his right to think for himself, to choose between evolution and Creationism or to make no choice at all. A classic example of all-outism.

Lightly Speaking

A reader tells about the family dog that got restless when it was left alone in the house. The owner discovered that by phoning the house now and then while she was away, and letting the phone ring a few times, it had a calming effect on the dog.

One of the neighbors who knew about the situation, happened to be in the house checking up when the phone rang several times. He lifted the receiver, panted several times and barked into the phone, then hung up.

DESPITE COURT RULING

At-Large Voting Makes Point

LUBBOCK'S at-large method of electing city councilmen appears to be constitutionally secure even though the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals has remanded a court challenge to Federal Judge Halbert O. Woodward for additional hearings.

Having already proved that the system has not had a discriminatory effect against minorities, the City should have no trouble defending the position that its adoption in Lubbock's pioneer days had no discriminatory intent.

Actually, the ultra-liberal appeals court appeared in its cryptic one-paragraph order to be miffed that the Supreme Court itself already has spoken to the central issue in the case.

The high court ruled in a case out of Mobile, Ala., that at-large city councils are constitutionally permissible unless challengers prove discriminatory intent.

THE LUBBOCK case was tried before that burden was placed on plaintiffs in such litigation.

Therefore, under previous Supreme Court interpretations, it seemed sufficient to prove that the effect, intentional or not, was discriminatory—and the 5th Circuit wasn't disposed to look too critically at the "proof."

Thus, despite the Supreme Court mandate, the appellate judges refused to accept City Trial Attorney Jim Brewster's compelling argument that Judge Woodward had gone into great detail and addressed the intent standard sufficiently—as indeed he had under any reasonable interpretation.

The 5th Circuit nevertheless ordered that the trial judge give the plaintiff's lawyers another opportunity to prove that the city's founding fathers had looked forward through the pages of history with a plan to discriminate against blacks and browns.

IN POINT OF fact, Lubbock was incorporated at about the time scandals were rocking ward-system cities across the country.

Alarmed citizens in more progressive cities were throwing out the ward-heeling politicians and adopting the at-large council-city manager form of local government. That system has, indeed, been far freer from scandal in the intervening years than the ward, or district, system has been in cities which have retained it.

Although the at-large system gives every person's vote the same weight regardless of race, opponents—especially black and brown politicians hoping to build a power base—have attacked it and demanded that cities be carved up into geographic districts.

MERITS OF THE ward system vs. the at-large system can be debated but it has been our position all along that choosing between the two is a democratic function of the people and that the federal courts abuse their power when they interfere with that basic human right of self-determination.

We were pleased, and mildly surprised, when the Supreme Court upheld that position in the Mobile case, which has a direct bearing on the one here.

West Texas Legal Services, a tax-funded entity, now can continue its efforts to have Judge Woodward's Lubbock ruling overturned but we're confident that the ultimate decision will be to affirm his findings.

As the evidence clearly established the first time around, the at-large system has been fair to all parts of Lubbock and has given us a generally scandal-free city government.

ALOHA, TAX REVOLT?

Good Idea Can Make Bad Law

VOTERS IN Hawaii already are having second thoughts about the tax-revolt amendment that they readily added to their state's constitution two years ago.

They are learning that good ideas locked into law as constitutional amendments can have some unexpected results and that what is easily done is not always so easily undone.

The amendment imposed a ceiling on state spending and required that surplus funds be returned to the taxpayers every two years.

The current problem results from the fact that Hawaii is one of the few governmental bodies operating at a surplus—at least for now.

The state's $179 million surplus is the product of a combination of factors, among them the spending ceiling, the higher tax revenues that have resulted from inflation and an increase in federal money for the state.

The spending ceiling has prevented state officers from making needed capital improvements in the state's schools, roads and bridges.

Although polls show that a large percentage of voters finds it counterproductive to give back money that could be saved for a rainy day and then ask them to approve bond issues for vital expenditures, the state's legislators are trying to come up with some equitable way to distribute the surplus.

They are finding that it is more difficult to refund taxes than collect them.

If the refund requirement were merely a statute, the legislature could pass a new statute to resolve the problem. Because the requirement is locked into the state's constitution, however, a constitutional amendment is required to change it—and enacting such an amendment would take several years.

Polls show that an increasing number of tax-revolters are no longer so sure that a constitutional amendment to limit spending is in their long-term best interest.

Their dilemma is an interesting development in the continuing battle for such an amendment at the federal level.

ART BUCHWALD:

Desperate Tech Student Is In A Class By Himself

WASHINGTON—With education tuition soaring, student loans being cut to the bone, and the 1980s baby boom coming to an end, many colleges are desperately looking for warm bodies to fill their freshman classes.

For the first time schools are advertising for students in newspapers, magazines and on television.

An advertising agency recently made a presentation to the board of Desperate Tech University, which had decided to spend a million dollars trying to attract students.

Honeybee, the account executive, said, "Gentlemen, our surveys indicate that today's students are interested in sleeping late, partying and not being bugged about their studies. We have to go after this market and persuade them to come to Desperate Tech."

"HOW DO you propose to do it?" a board member asked.

"First, we need a catchy slogan. How does this grab you? We show a TV commercial with John Belushi throwing food at his fraternity brothers, while they're teaching the science lab. A voice-over says, 'If you liked the movie Animal House, you'll love the real thing at Desperate Tech.'"

"Won't that put Desperate Tech in a bad light?" one of the board members asked.

"Gentlemen, we have to resort to a hard sell. Our competitors are offering free cars to the kids, two-week paid vacations in Fort Lauderdale, and remedial rock music classes."

"If you expect to get a share of the freshman market, you're going to have to top them. Now here is a magazine layout I believe has tremendous student appeal. As you can see, it shows a co-ed in a wedding gown in front of the student chapel.

"THE TEXT reads, 'I went to Desperate Tech to get an education, but I wound up with something much better—a husband. He is going into his father's oil business, and we will start married life on a 10,000-acre ranch just outside Dallas. If I hadn't gone to Desperate Tech I might have wound up working in a massage parlor. There are many men like Ted and you won't have any trouble finding 'Mr. Right,' if you just fill out the coupon on the bottom of the page!'"

Honeybee continued his presentation. "Now I think we should also go into newspapers in a big way—on the comic pages."

"Here you see a puzzle. It is a series of numbered dots and the copy reads, 'If you can connect all these dots to each other, and make a football player out of them, then you've passed your entrance exam to Desperate Tech. If you fail to do it, we'll permit you to take a make-up exam in next week's comic pages.'"

"WHAT ELSE do you have?" someone asked. "Well, this is another TV commercial. We show the president of the university standing in front of the administration, like Lee Iacocca does for Chrysler."

"He says, 'Desperate Tech is now offering the largest close-out sale in university history. We have to get rid of 100,000 college degrees by April 15. That's why we're offering $700 rebates to every college freshman who applies this month.'"

"Whether you're looking for a B.A. or a B.S., or just want to waste four years of your life, stop into one of our showrooms today and see why so many students are turning to Desperate Tech as an alternate to book-guzzling schools like Harvard."

Overheard: "Snap judgment has a way of becoming unfastened."

The old reprobate got married again only six months after his first wife died. Why? "I just couldn't get used to coming home and not having someone there to yell 'Where the hell have you been all night?'"

CIA Accused Of Faking El Salvador Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former CIA intelligence officer says in a magazine article that the spy agency likely fabricated information used by the Reagan administration to justify approval of military aid to El Salvador.

The author of the article, Ralph W. McGehee, said in a telephone interview he has no proof of any fabrication, but bases his accusation on his intimate knowledge of CIA and communist insurgent operations.

The article, written for the April 3 issue of The Nation magazine, was released as part of a court suit in which McGehee and the publication are challenging CIA deletions in the story.

McGehee submitted the article to his former employer because of a February 1980 Supreme Court ruling that said the spy agency could require its former employees to clear articles and books before publication. McGehee's lawyer, Mark H. Lynch of the American Civil Liberties Union, said this was the first suit challenging CIA deletions by a former spy agency employee who submitted an article under the Supreme Court guidelines.

The suit was filed Friday in U.S. District Court.

A CIA spokeswoman, Kathy Pherson, said the agency would have no comment. But she confirmed the now retired McGehee worked for the agency.

According to the upcoming Nation article, the CIA likely had a role in fabricating news stories and other information about communist involvement in the civil war in the Latin American country.

"Early probable efforts by the CIA to alter the reality of El Salvador focused around (news) stories of massive arm shipments being sent to Salvadoran leftists by the Soviets-Cubans-Bulgarians-Vietnamese-PLO-Ethiopians and Nicaraguans all combined in an international conspiracy against the United States," McGehee writes.

A second likely deception, he said, was publication of news reports about two guerrilla invasions of El Salvador. McGehee said he doubts either military action took place.

Public Against Reagan Decision To Send Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's decision to send military aid to El Salvador — his first major foreign policy initiative — is finding slim popular support. The White House mailbag, for example, is running 10-1 against the program.

The tepid support for Reagan's Salvadoran policies is also reflected in recent polls showing less than one-third of those questioned backing the president's decision to send more military aid and American advisers to help the ruling Salvadoran junta.

Key congressional offices are reporting similar trends. Capitol Hill aides say the flow of letters on El Salvador is "very heavy" with 85 percent or more of the mail opposed to Reagan's policies and many letters expressing fear of "another Vietnam."

The public skepticism about Reagan's stand on El Salvador contrasts sharply with generally strong backing for his economic policies and with his favorable overall performance rating.

Harold Heilsnis, a State Department official who monitors White House mail on foreign policy issues, said 25,000 letters had been received on El Salvador — "a very large number." He said they were 10-1 opposed to Reagan's decision to send military aid.

In the first test of its get-tough foreign policy, the Reagan administration sought to portray the war in El Salvador as "a textbook case of indirect armed aggression by Communist powers."

Accusing Cuba and other Soviet-bloc nations of funneling "massive" supplies of arms to the rebels, the administration sent $25 million in additional military aid to the junta and dispatched 20 more U.S. military advisers, bringing the total to about 54.

But the president has repeatedly stated that he does not intend to send U.S. combat troops or to allow the United States to be drawn into a Vietnam-style conflict in the tiny Central American nation.

Despite those assurances, the Gallup poll this week reported that two out of three Americans who knew about the war in El Salvador said they feared the conflict might become "another Vietnam." The poll also said fewer than one in five favored military aid to El Salvador.

A Los Angeles Times poll found similar results, with 38 percent of those questioned favoring stopping all aid, 32 percent supporting aid to the junta, 29 percent without enough information to decide and 1 percent favoring help to the insurgents.

dates. She will represent Lubbock Industrial Lions in the District 272 competition here April 16-18.

First runner-up was Nicole Webb, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.A. Webb of 3110 80th St. She is a freshman at Evans Junior High School. Second runner-up was Shelley Hudson, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Hudson of 5415 79th St. She is a sophomore at Coronado High School.

The girls were judged on the basis of personality, poise and beauty. The judges were Nelouise Canup, Trudi Lewis and David Evans.

The reigning queen was Tammi Frehulfer, 17, daughter of Shirley Frehulfer of 8609 Flint St. She is a junior at Coronado High.

HOOK 'EM HORNS — Former University of Texas Longhorn Coach Darryl Royal, left, tells actor Jim Garner, right, what to do during the filming of "Hangin' On," a two-hour NBC movie being filmed in Nacadoches. Garner says "The Coach and I have been friends a long time, and since I was in his territory, I invited him to do a couple of scenes. He is outstanding, he didn't flub either of his two speaking lines!" The show will air in late May. (AP Laserphoto)

Congress Delivers First Reagan Legislative Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, delivering President Reagan's first legislative victory in his campaign to slash the federal budget, gave final approval Friday to a repeal of an April 1 increase in dairy price supports.

Reagan is expected to sign the legislation early next week.

The measure, hailed as a savings both for government and consumers, was approved by the Senate on Friday by voice vote and with no debate. The House had passed the bill Thursday.

The Senate had approved a version of the measure Wednesday but its action Friday was needed because the House removed largely symbolic riders the Senate had attached. Those amendments expressed displeasure with a continued embargo on grain sales to the Soviet Union.

Administration officials estimate the bill, by eliminating the subsidy increase, will save the federal government $147 million this year and will spare consumers from paying an extra 7 1/4 cents for a gallon of milk, a dime more per pound of butter and 9 cents more for a pound of cheese.

Legislators from dairy-producing states have criticized the rollback as being unfair to farmers, but a number of them have acknowledged that the overriding political sentiment now is to fight inflation and cut spending.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., called the administration-backed measure "a Republican loyalty test and a consumers' vote for Democrats in the big cities."

Show, Supper In Tulia Today

A-J Correspondent
TULIA — The annual Tulia Kiwanis Club arts and crafts show and pancake supper is today from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. in the Tulia High School Cafeteria.

Only Swisher County residents are permitted to exhibit their work in the arts and crafts show. An auction will follow the show.

Tickets for all the pancakes you can eat and entrance to the show are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

Daniel Attorneys Assert Officials Prejudiced

LIBERTY (AP) — Price Daniel Jr.'s position in the community may have caused deputies investigating the former Texas House Speaker's shooting death to protect his name, attorneys for Daniel's widow suggested Friday.

"We're trying to show there was bias of motive in some of the things they were doing," said Andrew Lannie, an attorney for Vickie Daniel.

Mrs. Daniel, charged with murder in her husband's Jan. 19 shooting death, is battling a suit by Daniel's sister, Jean Daniel Murph, who is asking for permanent custody of the Daniels' two children, Franklin Baldwin, 3, and Marion Price IV, 1.

Her lead attorney, Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, grilled Liberty County Chief Deputy Clay Autrey in the 10th day of testimony in a child custody suit.

Haynes spent the morning hammering away at what he termed the "curiously uncommon treatment she (Mrs. Daniel) received" during the investigation that followed the shooting.

He suggested that Autrey did not bring his offense report from the shooting into the courtroom to keep Mrs. Daniel's attorneys from examining it.

"That's halfway true," Autrey said. "The other half is, I didn't want to give Mr. (J.C. "Zeke") Zbrank access to my offense report."

Zbrank represents Mrs. Murph in the custody trial.

Autrey testified a brown wooden box was discovered Jan. 22 at the Daniel residence during a search of the attic and, although sheriff's deputies took other items to Austin to be analyzed on Jan. 27, the box was not included.

Autrey said the box, earlier described as containing small specks of a green substance, was not taken to the Department of Public Safety with other items of evidence because "of the time involved to prepare it for transport."

"To prepare it, you just have to tape the edges, put it in a plastic bag and it's on its way, right?" Haynes asked.

"Yes sir," Autrey replied.

Autrey also said the box was not taken to Austin because they could get quicker results by sending it to the crime lab at Beaumont.

Big Spring Judge Gets Voodoo Threat Calls

By TOMMY HART
A-J Correspondent

BIG SPRING — For three consecutive nights this week, Howard County Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin has received telephone calls from a person who says the judge has been put under a voodoo spell because the bonds he set for a local murder suspect are too high.

Eduardo Maidique, a Cuban national who immigrated to the United States during the spring of 1980, was arrested late Tuesday on suspicion of murdering Linda Garcia, 26, and assaulting her sister, Martha Esquibel, 19, at their home here. Miss Esquibel suffered a fracture skull and a broken neck in the Tuesday night attack and is being treated at Odessa Medical Center.

Heflin set Maidique's bond on the murder charge at $100,000 and $75,000 on the aggravated assault charge.

"At around midnight for the past three nights, I have been getting a call from this woman who says that someone in town is trying to put a voodoo hex on me," Heflin said. "She told me Wednesday that the voodoo priestess, or whatever, had sacrificed a chicken to make the hex work."

Heflin said the caller, who expresses concern about his health, said she calls at midnight "because that's when the ghosts are up and about."

"She tells me that she has talked to missionaries and they told her it was against the law to put hexes on people," the judge said. "Then, she asked me how I'm feeling. I think it's just a psychological play, so I just tell her I'm sure feeling fine and I appreciate her concern."

Three Held In Sadistic Murder

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Bail was set at $250,000 each Friday for three white men accused of the sadistic murder of a young black student found hanging from a tree, while civil rights leaders from across the South gathered for the victim's funeral.

Police insist they have found no evidence that the slaying was racially motivated, but black residents of this old seaport were not convinced.

"I still maintain it was purely a racial attack on a black man which resulted in a lynching," Dr. Robert W. Gilliard, director of the Mobile chapter of the NAACP, said Friday of the death of 19-year-old Michael A. Donald.

District Attorney Chris Galanos cited "the gravity of this particular offense" in requesting the $250,000 bond for Ralph Hayes, 23, and brothers Jimmy Edgar 22, and Johnny Edgar, 26.

The black community was preparing a burial for Donald, a part-time technical college student who was found last Saturday dangling from a camphor tree on a residential street where one of the suspects often stayed.

Outstanding FHA Members Recognized At Banquet

Twenty-three outstanding HERO (Home Economics Related Occupations) members were recognized at the Area I Meeting of Future Homemakers of America Banquet Friday night. Lubbock and area high school students attended the banquet at the University Center Ballroom at Texas Tech and will reassemble today at the Municipal Auditorium for the FHA general session.

HERO honorees include Virginia Hood of Abernathy; Shelli Allen, Mark Gilbreath and Eric Justin, all of Amarillo High School; Tammy Bonner and Debbie Massey, both of Canyon High School; Janet Accurso of Caprock High School; and Traci Park of Crosbyton.

Other students cited as outstanding HERO members are Helen Hernandez of Dumas; Janet Sebesta and Leann Welter, both of Dunbar-Struggs; Eugene Dill of Estacado; Brenda Stahl of Friendship; Christine Lucero of Hale Center; Patricia Fitchett of La Plada; and Heidi Hunt of Levelland.

Also receiving the honor are Gloria Cabrera of Littlefield; Lisa Ann Alcoser of Lubbock High; Lori Hartline of Muleshoe; Lydia Lomas of Roosevelt; Sheryl Brewer of Stratford; Regina Porter of Tascosa; and La Cresa Carroll of Tulia.

About 300 chapter members from 50 area schools also received Encounter III Certificates at the banquet.

Following the banquet, FHA members attended the House of Delegates meeting and various workshop sessions.

Before leaving today, those elected as new officers during Friday night's House of Delegates session will be installed.

TASTY SHRUB

At least 22 animals eat sagebrush, according to a U.S. Forest Service study. In much of the West, it is the primary food and preferred winter forage for pronghorn antelope and mule deer. The pygmy rabbit builds its home where sagebrush forms a protective cover and uses the plant as its only source of food.

Marine Battalion Alert Proves Plenty Realistic

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — A battalion of Marines set up for military action in what one veteran sergeant called "the most realistic recall I've ever seen," and for the next 20 hours thought they might be going to war.

Some of the 1,000 Marines took a minute to telephone parents and say, "this could be the real thing." Across the nation, rumors flew among worried families.

"A lot of hostile wives called the base," a base spokesman said. "They thought we were going to Poland, El Salvador or what have you."

No indication whether it was or wasn't the real thing was given the men of the 1st Battalion, 1st Marine Division in a "no-warning callup" drill that began at 8 p.m. Monday and ended at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

All supporting units required for an attack force, including administrative and medical personnel, participated. A full colonel turned out in battle dress.

The commanding general, Maj. James L. Day, was first to act, returning unexpectedly to his headquarters at 6 p.m. after normal working hours Monday and calling his key staff officers together.

Two hours' notice was given the 25 percent of the Marines who are married and living off base. When they arrived at the base, supply-loaded trucks rumbled around them, medical teams were ready to give the shots needed for duty anywhere in the world.

"Sole surviving sons," including those with widowed mothers or dependent family businesses, and those with 60 days or less remaining in the military, were weeded out.

Shiny new weapons without ammunition were distributed.

"I got a brand-new 45-caliber pistol. Sure wish I could have kept it," said a gunnery sergeant with 21 years in the Marines.

"It was sure the most realistic recall I've ever seen," he said, asking not to be identified. "But, you know, morale was great. Everybody — and I mean everybody — was ready and raring to go."

Although drills are called as often as every three months, Master Gunnery Sgt. Dick Messall said he "never saw anything like this one — absolutely realistic in every way — and I've been here four years."

At 4 p.m. Tuesday, lieutenants serving as platoon commanders turned to their men and told them to turn their gear in. "OK, it's over," one barked out, for the conservationists return.

More Burros Spotted In Grand Canyon

GRAND CANYON, Ariz. (AP) — Hikers have spotted three wild burros grazing in the Grand Canyon just days after the Fund for Animals Inc. announced completion of its half-million-dollar removal of the small creatures from the canyon area.

The three burros were seen twice Monday in the Tonto Park Plateau area near the Colorado River. Roger Giddings, a park official, said representatives of the Fund for Animals agreed to return soon to capture them.

Giddings said he believes other burros are still in the park and will be fondled

Fund officials, at ceremonies attended by Gov. Bruce Babbitt, announced last week they had removed the last of nearly 580 wild burros from the canyon.

The rescue effort was mounted after park officials said they would have to kill the burros because they were destroying the fragile ecology of the canyon.

The burros are not native to the canyon but were brought in by gold miners more than a century ago.

Minister's Resignation Under Consideration

By PAT GRAVES
A-J Religion Writer

The next, and possibly last, installation of what could be called "The Bob Nicholson Affair" will unfold today when the Palo Duro Presbytery considers a recommendation regarding his Feb. 11 Resignation.

Because First Presbyterian Church's congregation rejected the resignation of its pastor, the Rev. Robert D. Nicholson, on Feb. 22, the presbytery must now decide his status.

According to a church member close to the situation, who wishes to remain anonymous, the recommendation under consideration is to accept Nicholson's resignation effective no later than Aug. 31, or sooner if Nicholson secures another position prior to that time.

There is also a provision for a possible 60-day extension of salary and parsonage privileges beyond Aug. 31. Clergymen and elders, (one each from every congregation may attend) representing the 67 churches in the 70-county presbytery, will assemble at 11 a.m. today at Grace Presbyterian Church to hear the proposal. It will be presented by the Commission on Ministerial Care, a First Presbyterian committee representing the congregation, and two members of the church's session of elders.

The presbytery could accept the recommendation, amend it, reject it or pass a counter-proposal.

If the recommendation is approved, the source said it would enable the church to proceed with goal-setting and other preliminary measures relating to the search for a new pastor. Although it is unclear as to when a pulpitory committee would be formed, should Nicholson leave, commission member Rev. Davis Price, pastor of Covenant Presbyterian Church, said the entire replacement process will take several months, perhaps longer.

Davis pointed out that, within presbyterian policy, the presbytery must have the final say in every dissolution or establishment of a pastoral relationship. He said the governing body will listen to input from all parties involved but would not speculate on its possible action.

"That's like saying how congress will vote," Price said. "There's no way to figure it out."

The recommendation was formulated last week by Nicholson, the commission, the congregational committee and session of elders. As he has in previous meetings regarding his status, Nicholson is expected to attend Saturday's session.

Although the church source said Nicholson, pastor of First Presbyterian since 1971, informed the congregation by letter he had decided at Christmas, 1980, to resign sometime in 1981, it reportedly was a group of elders who set things in motion.

Several elders approached the commission around Feb. 1, the source said, intent on obtaining Nicholson's resignation.

The minister was invited to attend the Feb. 5 meeting by the commission, and did so. He then met Feb. 11 with the session of elders, submitted his resignation effective March 1.

On Feb. 23, with what on church member termed the largest attendance at a morning worship service in recent years, a lively discussion of the subject transpired. Then the congregation voted approximately 3-2, an observer noted, to reject Nicholson's resignation and reaffirm his original invitation to become pastor.

That unprecedented action, plus the election of a four-member committee to represent the church, led to a March 16 meeting of the commission, Nicholson and the committee, which then presented its recommendation to the session of elders March 18.

Nicholson has refused to comment on the church's vote, and presbyterian officials have been reluctant to express themselves as to why the controversy arose.

Church members, however, have speculated that Nicholson's resignation stemmed from misunderstandings between the pastor and church officers, or that some elders felt his presence was detrimental to attendance and fund-raising.

The anonymous source summarized the cause of the episode by saying, "He (Nicholson) was planning to resign anyway; the elders just speeded it up."

Jewish Groups Criticize PLO, Vatican Meet

NEW YORK (Special) — Two Jewish organizations have criticized the Vatican for a March 18 meeting between its secretary of state and an official of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

In statements issued March 19, the American Jewish Congress said the action could threaten deterioration of Jewish-Catholic relations and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith termed the meeting ill-considered and poorly timed.

The congress's executive director, Henry Siegman, called the Vatican's statement on the matter bizarre. The Vatican had said the meeting was intended to acquaint the church directly with the PLO's views on the solution to the Arab-Israeli conflict.

"Can it be possible," Siegman asked, "that in all of these years the Vatican has not heard of the PLO's view that the resolution of this conflict lies in the destruction of Israel?"

He called the Vatican's solicitation of the PLO's views incomprehensible, and said the church should have instead condemned the Arab group.

A league spokesman labeled the Vatican meeting a cause for serious misgivings, adding it gave "these murderers and blackmailers a form of legitimacy and recognition that encourages more barbarism..."

First Baptist Sets Revival Services To Begin Sunday

Revival services begin Sunday at First Baptist Church with Dr. Gene Williams, evangelist, and gospel singer Price Harris leading the effort through April 1.

Sunday services will be at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Weekday services Monday through Wednesday will be at 11:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Lunch will be served during the 11:30 sessions.

Before entering full-time evangelism in 1967, Williams pastored churches in Texas, Louisiana and Alabama. He has led more than 800 revivals, 75 overseas, as well as Bible conferences, youth camps and pastors' retreats.

He is president of the Gene Williams Evangelistic Association, which claims to be the largest Baptist evangelistic association in the world. It completely supports more than 36 full-time evangelists working in foreign countries.

Harris, who served two churches as music minister during his collegiate career, holds a music degree from William Carey College in Mississippi. He worked with Calvary Baptist Church in Shreveport, La., until 1978, when he became a full-time music evangelist.

CHURCH BRIEFS

'Faith Alive' is the theme of the parish mission which will begin Sunday at Christ the King Catholic Church, 4011 54th St. Three Redemptorist priests will conduct the five services of the faith renewal emphasis. They are the Rev. John Broker, the Rev. Bob Curry and the Rev. Charlie Schraub. Services will be held Sunday through Thursday at 5:30 and 8 p.m. in conjunction with Lent. The public is invited to attend.

SPRINGLAKE (Special) — The Rev. Jim Wardor of Plainview recently assumed the pastorate of First Baptist Church in Roaring. Wardor was ordained last month in Seth Ward Baptist Church in Plainview, where he had been serving as youth director.

Word of Life Tabernacle, 1209 N. Ave. L and Kemper St., will hold a miracle-revival Saturday through April 5 featuring Houston evangelist Hector Michael, who has opened a Love Ministry office in Lubbock. Special music will be provided Saturday by Rejoice from Amarillo, and by church members during the rest of the revival. Saturday and weekday services will be at 7:30 p.m., with Sunday services at 9:45 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The church is located behind the Lubbock City-County Health Department building, and a nursery will be available.

The Rev. Phill Montgomery of Queen Roads Baptist Church in Pasadena has been assigned to San Pablo, Brazil, to conduct WIN schools and an eight-day preaching tour. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Montgomery of Petersburg.

Faith Temple, 501 34th St., will be in revival Sunday through Friday led by the Rev. Dan Chapman and his family. Pastor Rod Messer said Sunday services will be at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m., and weekday services will be at 7:30 p.m.

READY TO ROLL — Members of area United Methodist churches will be peddling for fun and profit May 2 as the Northwest Texas Conference rolls out a benefit bike-a-thon to assist persons in paying emergency medical expenses. Gearing up for the event are, from left, Rita Patterson of Abilene, chairman of health and welfare ministries; Conference Bishop Louis W. Schowengerdt of Albuquerque, N.M.; and District Superintendent Jarrell H. Sharp of Seymour.

Event To Aid Emergency Fund

A bike-a-thon project to benefit the Golden Cross fund supporting a ministry to people in medical emergencies is scheduled for May 2 with a goal to raise $50,000.

The undertaking is sponsored by the Northwest Texas Conference Council on Ministries of the United Methodist Church. Money will be contributed in the form of pledges made to bikers in a 100-mile bike-a-thon and in several 25-mile rides.

There will be two separate events in the project. A conference-wide bike-a-thon involving 100 bikers, each riding 100 miles on the same route, will start at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock at dawn.

After spending the previous night at Forrest Heights United Methodist Church in Lubbock, participants will be served breakfast before trekking through Ralls to Post and back.

The other event will be 25-mile rides organized by local churches. Each congregation will attempt to recruit 25 riders who will bike 25 miles each on a route of the church's choosing.

In both events, riders and organizers will recruit their own sponsors who will pledge to donate 10, 25, or 50 cents per mile to the bikers. All proceeds will go to the Golden Cross Fund.

The fund is dispensed through the ministries of doctors and hospital care at Methodist Hospital, under the direction of the chaplaincy department. Additional information about the bike-a-thons may be obtained from project chairman Rev. Bruce Parks of Tulsa, or any United Methodist pastor.

GOD'S SAX MAN — Gospel artist Vernard Johnson, a true master of the saxophone who soon will become the first black to earn a doctorate in musical arts from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, will perform at 11 a.m. Sunday at First Baptist Church in Tahoka. Following his concert the church will hold a pot-luck dinner and an afternoon of singing featuring several musical groups from area Baptist churches. Johnson, who blends humor and personality with a strong sense of ministry, plays a variety of Christian music with incredible power and grace. First Baptist, Tahoka, invites the public to attend its Festival of Praise Sunday.

Church To Observe 'Faith Promise'

First Nazarene Church, 46th Street and Avenue Q, will observe its annual "Faith Promise" emphasis today and Sunday with special guest Rev. Marshall G. Griffith.

Griffith will address a western-style banquet at 7 p.m. today in the church's Bates Family Center, and speak in the 10:40 a.m. worship service Sunday.

The faith promise program encourages church members to give money above their regular tithes and offerings. This year's goal is $50,000, a church spokesman said, the congregation raised $30,000 above the regular budget in 1980.

The faith promise events are sponsored by the Nazarene Women's Missionary Society. Mrs. Harold Faith is president.

Griffith is president of Spanish American Seminary of the Church of the Nazarene. He and his wife are former missionaries to Nicaragua and Costa Rica. Griffith was appointed to the Texas seminary in 1974.

OPERATIC STAR TO SHINE — Christine Schadeberg will be guest soprano when the Chancel Choir of First United Methodist Church performs Mozart's "Requiem" at 7 p.m. Sunday at 1411 Broadway. Miss Schadeberg, who holds two master's degrees and has sung with major symphonies as well as the Wolf-trap Opera Program, is a noted opera singer and orator. For details on the performance of Mozart's last work, see Sunday's religion news page.

Gun-Toting Woman Seized At Crusade

MEXICO CITY, Mexico (Special) — A woman carrying a pistol who reportedly had planned to kill evangelist Billy Graham was seized by security men during the final service of a five-day crusade here March 12.

No information was available on whether the woman was arrested. Southern Baptist Press representative David Daniell said most of the 20,000 persons crowding the 16,000-seat Arena Mexico were unaware of the incident.

The crusade had encountered numerous difficulties from the outset, and the local organizing committee reportedly was amazed the crusade took place at all. As it turned out, Graham preached to overflow crowds each night.

Publicity and coverage of the crusade were hampered by Mexico's constitutional law on separation of church and state, and its ban on religious radio and television programs.

Also, the Mexican government withdrew its offer to allow Graham to preach in the 42,000-seat INDE Stadium four days before the crusade was to begin. But a last-minute publicity effort, coupled with extensive media coverage of the services, drew more than 95,000 persons for five nights.

While giving his Christian testimony at one service, Mexican House of Deputies member Jonas Flores was critical of government policies which he indicated were unfair to Christians.

"It is not right that the current political form puts communists on radio and television free while it denies evangelist Christians the same media to preach the word of God," Flores told the audience.

He added that if atheists can proclaim their doctrines, Christians have the right to proclaim theirs also.

Flores said President Jose Lopez Portillo's openness about religion, evidenced by his welcome of Pope John Paul II to Mexico in 1979 and other statements, has broken down many barriers, however. He called for prayers and government action to reopen communication channels for the Gospel's proclamation.

Graham met with Lopez Portillo privately after the Mexico City crusade.

By contrast, the evangelist's crusade in Villahermosa was broadcast live on radio and on a day-delayed basis on television. A total of 110,000 attended the three-day meeting, with 35,000 jamming a baseball stadium designed to seat one-third that number on the last two nights.

A Southern Baptist representative called the occasion "probably the largest gathering of evangelicals in one place in the history of Mexico."

More than 10,000 people reportedly made professions of faith in Christ or indicated an interest in the Gospel during the Mexico City and Villahermosa crusades.

Trinity Baptist Revival Set To Begin Sunday

Dr. Dan Kent will preach revival services Sunday through April 5 at Trinity Baptist Church, 2707 34th St., with Music Minister Randy Parsons leading music. Two Lubbock singer-composers, Tina English and Bill Gammill, will be featured as special musical guests during the week.

Sunday services will be at 8:15 and 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Services Monday through Friday will be at noon, with a luncheon served, and at 7:30 p.m. There will be no service on Saturday, April 4.

Miss English will sing during the Tuesday evening service. She has written numerous gospel songs for Word Inc. for the past nine years, and is an accomplished pianist and vocalist.

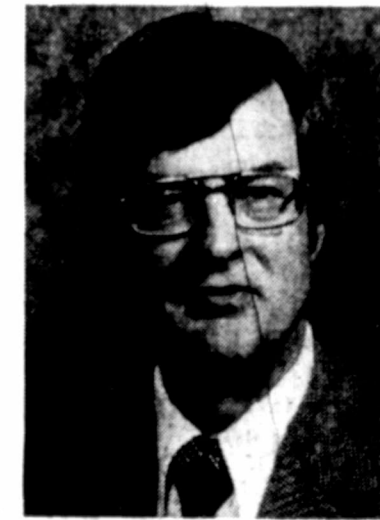

She began a solo career last year, opened for The Imperials at their November 1980 Lubbock concert, and has performed for several churches and other groups in Texas and in Nashville, Tenn. Her debut album, "Tina," is scheduled for a May release on Triune Records.

Bill Gammill is well-known in Lubbock for his commercial jingles, school assemblies and various appearances with many bands and artists. He has frequently accompanied The Maines Brothers and opened for B.J. Thomas during his 1978 Lubbock appearance. He will be featured Wednesday evening.

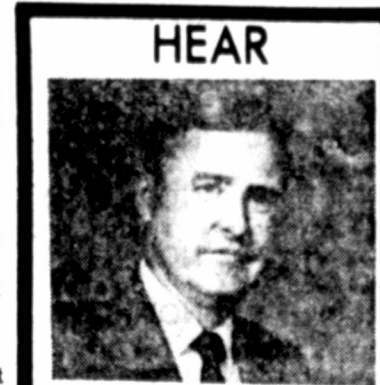

Gammill also is active in Christian music circles, having sung for numerous churches, banquets, retreats, revivals and other functions. The talented musician plays several instruments including piano, guitar and banjo.

Kent, former of Wayland Baptist College in Plainview, is a professor at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. He is a graduate of Baylor University.

Sunrise Church Of Christ Meetings To Open Sunday

The Sunrise Church of Christ will launch a three-day spring meeting series Sunday morning with the first of five sermons to be delivered by guest speaker Jim McGuigan.

A native of Northern Ireland, McGuigan is a graduate of the Sunset School of Preaching in Lubbock who returned to Ireland to direct religious studies for six years. He subsequently returned to Lubbock to teach in the Sunset school.

McGuigan is the author of a number of books encompassing biblical commentary and the approaches to Christian evidence.

Three meetings are planned Sunday, at 9:30 and 10:20 a.m. and at 5 p.m., at which McGuigan's topics will be "The Image of God," "The Stable" and "We Cannot But Speak."

On Monday at 7:30 p.m. his sermon is styled "The Gadarene Demoniac"; and at the same hour on Tuesday he will conclude the series with "At Simon's House."

David Howell is minister of the Sunrise Church of Christ, which is a mile north of Loop 289 on N. University Avenue.

FIND STRENGTH FOR YOUR LIFE — ATTEND CHURCH

GOD WANTED NO PUPPETS

It is called freedom of will. And it is one of the most exciting ideas in man's religious knowledge...

It is not that God doesn't care about human beliefs and behavior. In the Bible and in the life of His Son Jesus, God had made vividly clear His LOVE and His WILL.

But God wanted no puppets. So each of us has been endowed by the Creator with freedom of will. This way our faith is a vital response to God's love — not a mechanical reaction controlled by a puppeteer.

Remember this whenever God puts spiritual opportunity in your path. Like next week when you worship.

Lubbock Detectives Question Witnesses To Murder At Club

Lubbock police detectives spoke with several persons who were in the Dos Amigos Club when 32-year-old Rodolfo Romulo Gonzales was shot and killed, but by late Friday, no arrests had been in connection with Lubbock's eighth homicide this year.

Gonzales, of 1923 Ave. N, was shot three times inside the 2228 Clovis Road club about 1:15 a.m. Friday. He was pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace L.J. Black, who ruled the death a homicide and ordered an autopsy.

Detectives said their search for a man seen leaving the nightclub moments after the killing, reportedly swinging a pistol and cursing, was hampered because several persons they wished to contact in the case were unavailable Friday.

Three persons leaving the club while officers were at the scene were apprehended after officers discovered one club patron had a .32-caliber pistol tucked in her pants. However, Gonzales' wounds appear to have come from a .38-caliber weapon, a police spokesman said.

The 20-year-old woman who reportedly was armed with the unloaded pistol was jailed for unlawfully carrying a weapon and her husband, 21, was detained on traffic warrants. A man who was with the couple was questioned by detectives and later released.

That man told authorities he was in the nightclub during the shooting and he dropped to the floor when he heard gunfire. He said he saw a Mexican-American man, between 48 and 53, with neatly parted, collar-length hair and a mustache, walk to the back of the club.

"He was carrying a big black pistol in his left hand, swinging it down by his legs. He was cursing, but I don't know what he was saying," the witness told detectives.

The witness said the man went to his girlfriend, who was sitting at a nearby table and she grabbed his arm and said, "Let's go."

The man was still cursing and displaying the weapon when he and his companion walked out the front door, reports state. Another club patron said he thought he heard the man and Gonzales arguing outside earlier in the night.

Authorities received a call about 4 a.m. Friday from a man who said he knew something about the killing, but he hung up before a detective could talk to him. Police said when they attempted to call the number given to them, they got the bus station. An employee there said the man who had been at the phone had left seconds earlier in a pickup.

Police said Gonzales was shot three times, suffering wounds to the middle of the back, the upper chest and in the abdomen. A spokesman said it appeared the victim already was on the floor when he was shot at close range in the abdomen because that slug exited Gonzales' side and was found buried in the carpet next to the body.

Another bullet was found in the metal front door and a spent round was found on the floor about 20 feet from the victim. Authorities said it appeared all the shots were fired inside the nightclub.

Gonzales, who apparently was unarmed, was found by police lying on his back in the southwest corner of the club.

Detectives questioned numerous other customers at the club who said they heard the shots but did not see the gunman.

Services for Gonzales are pending with White Funeral Home of Tahoka.

The Tahoka native attended school in Jerry City, Ohio. He moved back to Lynn County in 1974 from Fostoria, Ohio. He had lived in and out of the Lubbock area since 1974. He was a Catholic.

Survivors include a daughter, Sophia Ann of Littlefield; four sons, Reynaldo, Rene, Randy and Rodolfo Angel, all of Littlefield; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gonzales of Tahoka; three sisters, Josie Villarreal of Ohio, Sophio Cantu of Fostoria, Ohio, and Emma Batson of Bowling Green, Ohio; two brothers, Ernest of Fostoria, Ohio, and Edward of Mineral Wells; his grandmother, Juanita Rodriguez of Junction; and a grandchild.

Littlefield Police Seeking Pair In Sniping Incident

A-J Correspondent
LITTLEFIELD — Littlefield police are investigating what may have been a pair of early-morning sniping incidents Friday by two men riding in a beige-colored car on the south and west sides of town.

Police said no one was injured and no vehicles or buildings were damaged in the incidents. Also, police have not been able to ascertain a motive.

"I hope it was just somebody trying to be cute or who was bored," said Sgt. Carolyn Boleyn. "I hope it doesn't happen again."

"We don't need Lubbock's troubles," she added, referring to several sniping incidents in the Hub City in February.

Police said the first sniping occurred about 4:45 a.m. Friday at 13th Street and Farwell in south Littlefield when a beige-colored automobile pulled up beside a man in his middle 30s.

The victim told police the occupants were Mexican-American males and that the passenger, who had a "big, bushy" mustache, fired two shots in an unknown direction.

Sgt. Boleyn said the shots were heard by police officer John Morgan who was on patrol about six blocks away.

No spent rounds were recovered by police, Mrs. Boleyn said.

The second incident occurred about 5:55 a.m. at Fifth Street and Sunset in west Littlefield, about a mile from the first incident.

A Littlefield woman and her teen-age son were leaving for work and school when a car described as beige over pale blue drove by, police said. One of the occupants allegedly fired one shot in an unknown direction, police said.

The shaken woman told police she saw the barrel of the gun and the fire from the weapon when it was discharged, but she did not know what kind of weapon was used, police said.

"We believe it's going to be a small caliber, bolt-action type (of gun) because there was a time lapse between shots in the first incident and because the woman could see the gun's barrel," Sgt. Boleyn said. Also, the sergeant said the weapon was probably of a small caliber because it "didn't sound like a high-powered rifle. It did not make a real loud noise."

"We've talked to both victims since the incidents, but they haven't been able to remember anything more," she said.

Sgt. Boleyn said the morning light might have caused the vehicle to appear pale blue, resulting in the slight differences in the descriptions. The car was described for police as possibly a large Ford, such as an LTD, built between 1970 and 1975.

Reputed Smuggler Gets Long Term

ALTON III (AP) — A reputed director of "The Company," called by authorities the largest marijuana smuggling operation ever busted, was sentenced Friday to 20 years in prison on racketeering and tax evasion charges.

James C. Dugan, 33, of Bethalto, had pleaded guilty last month to one count of racketeering and two counts of income-tax evasion after being named in a 42-count indictment.

Average Work Week Statistics Show Decline During February

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key gauge of the nation's future economic health declined slightly again in February, the government reported Friday. Economists called it one more sign of sluggish growth — or no growth at all — in coming months.

A drop in average hours worked by U.S. wage-earners and a rise in the layoff rate contributed heavily to the overall 0.3 percent decline in the Commerce Department's Index of Leading Indicators.

The index, which is designed to forecast basic trends of the economy, had fallen 0.6 percent in January and 0.1 percent in December after rising for six straight months in recovery from last year's recession.

Noting that the decrease was the third in a row, Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said, "while it should not be a cause for serious alarm, it does indicate a potential weakening and a slow-down in the growth of the economy."

The work-week figure may have been distorted somewhat by bad weather, he said. But he added that the new index, coupled with other recent economic indicators, should spur support for the "dramatic steps" in President Reagan's economic proposals.

Baldrige's comments were released by his office in Washington while he was in Chicago speaking to a world trade conference.

Among private economists, Sandra Shaber of Chase Econometrics in Bala Cynwyd, Pa., said February's negative labor figures were "particularly telling."

"It certainly signals that output has already dropped off, and we're in for some increases in unemployment," she said.

However, she also said her firm is still "not expecting any major downturn" this year. Instead, its forecast is for generally stagnant performance — accompanied by continuing relatively high inflation — in the second and third quarters of the year, followed by "modest recovery," partly spurred by expected tax cuts and increased defense spending.

David Ernst, a vice president with Evans Economics Inc. in Washington, saw even less to worry about in the new figures, which he said were "not tremendously significant."

If the average work week declines again in March, "then we'd need to start worrying," he said. "But I don't think these figures give cause for alarm."

The new Commerce Department figures showed six of the 10 leading indicators falling in February, with the work week decline — from an average of 40.4 hours to 39.8 — making the most impact.

The layoff rate rose from 1.3 percent to 1.4 percent.

The other four negative indicators showed poorer performance than in January for building permits, stock prices, inflation-adjusted money supply and inflation-adjusted contracts and orders for new plant and equipment.

White House Decorating Funds Contributions Up To $822,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new list of contributors to a fund to redecorate President and Mrs. Reagan's White House living quarters shows the total has grown to $822,641, including a $10,000 gift from Frank Sinatra, the White House announced Friday.

The new list, released late Friday afternoon, came a week after the White House reversed a decision not to identify the donors. The first compilation listed 209 individuals who gave $735,912 to redecorate the second and third floors of the executive mansion.

Friday's list showed more than 240 donors. The average, tax-deductible contribution was $3,427.

Release of a second list of contributors comes as the White House is under criticism by consumer groups and some members of Congress for accepting $270,000 from 23 individuals with oil interests.

The new list showed that between March 12 and March 26, 10 donors contributed $86,000 to the fund. Eight were $10,000 contributions.

Frank Sinatra contributed $10,000, as did Mrs. Albert D. Lasker, a New York art dealer. Jack H. Choate, of Hennessey, Okla., president of Choate Oil, also contributed $10,000.

Mrs. Reagan, who last month set a $200,000 goal for the project, said she appreciates the widespread public response.

"We are so grateful for the additional, unanticipated contributions..." she said. "The White House is America's most cherished living museum and I am committed to maintaining its historic integrity for future generations."

Peter McCoy, the first lady's chief of staff, has said the donors had "absolutely no political interest, no political motive."

The Associated Press reported earlier this week that Reagan confidante Holmes Tuttle, a member of the president's "kitchen cabinet" and himself a $10,000 donor, held two fund-raising receptions last month in Texas and Oklahoma that were attended by individuals connected with the oil business.

No More Salvador Aid Due, Weinberger Says

Situation Termed 'Encouraging'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said Friday that the United States has fulfilled El Salvador's requests for military and economic aid and no more is planned. "That's all that's wanted, all that's needed, and all we plan to do," Weinberger said during a breakfast meeting with reporters. He assessed the situation in El Salvador as "quite encouraging." As for the 54 U.S. military trainers and technicians assigned to the Central American nation, Weinberger said these advisers are in the war-racked country only on a temporary basis at the request of the government, which is being hard-pressed by leftist rebels. Discussing other matters, Weinberger said "the situation still looks pretty serious" in Poland, backed a $20,000-a-year tax exemption for military personnel, said the Navy may need an additional 70-

000 to 80,000 personnel over the next five years, and said there should be competitive bidding for construction of Trident submarines. "I think there would be some concerted effort" by the United States and its European allies if the Soviet Union moved to crush Poland militarily, the defense secretary said. He declined to be specific. Asked whether a Western military option was possible, he replied: "I don't rule it in and I don't rule it out." Top aides said later that an allied military response to a Soviet thrust against Poland is not a live possibility. They said Weinberger wants to keep the Russians guessing. Regarding tax breaks for the military, he said the White House Office of Management and Budget is considering a "very good proposal" for a $20,000-a-year tax exemption for military personnel.

Weinberger said such a tax break "would signal appreciation" by the American public for the services of more than two million Americans in uniform, and would help attract and keep quality officers and enlisted personnel. "Necessary For System" "It's necessary if we are going to preserve the volunteer system," he said. Weinberger said there have been estimates that the Navy will need as many as 70,000 to 80,000 additional personnel over the next five years to staff a bigger American fleet now planned by the Reagan administration. Previously, he has told Congress that possibly one or two more divisions may have to be added to the Army and that overall U.S. military manpower might be increased in coming years by several hundred thousand. Concerning the Trident submarine program, he said the Pentagon has instituted "very stringent" procedures to monitor construction of the new missile-firing submarines, now far behind schedule at the Groton, Conn., shipyard of General Dynamics Corp. Concerned About Trident The defense secretary said he is concerned with getting the Trident program "back on the road again," and that he has seen "some evidence" that the situation will improve. The Groton yard is the only building Trident submarines, something Weinberger obviously does not like. "We should try to get additional competitive bidding into this situation," Weinberger said, adding that "we have to have a strengthened industrial base." He hinted that, if necessary, the Pentagon might turn to foreign shipyards to build Trident submarines. He said "I'm not persuaded" that switching to a small Trident submarine design might be a solution to the construction problem.

Budget Cuts Spark Hot Senate Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate erupted into fiery debate Friday as Democrats, outnumbered and frustrated, clashed with Republicans over allocation of the billions of dollars in budget cuts sought by President Reagan. "I believe the poor of this country are being cruelly used in order to restore money for programs that have failed," Republican Leader Howard Baker said in an impassioned statement directed at Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. Baker spoke after Kennedy, the Senate's most prominent liberal, said Republicans were proposing to rearrange the cuts in a way that would "pit the poorest starving children of the world, of Africa and Asia... against American children and coming up with a pious answer that we're going to protect the budget. "If that is what the cost of fighting inflation is, it's unacceptable," Kennedy shouted, banging a fist on his desk. "I don't know anything in this amendment that says we're going to take food out of the mouths of children," Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kansas, shot back. The exchanges occurred on the second day of debate over a bill to force cuts of $2.8 billion from the budget for 1981; $3.6 billion next year and $4.7 billion in 1983. Baker originally had hoped to complete work on the measure by the end of the week, but his target has slipped until the middle of next week.

Rodeo's Final Round Set Here Tonight

Democrats Frustrated At issue when the rhetorical fireworks went off was a relatively modest proposal — in the context of a bill to cut spending by $87 billion. But it served to demonstrate Democrats' frustration at their inability to stop a Republican majority determined to slash billions of dollars from social programs. On votes of 87-9 and 70-26, Jesse Helms, R-N.C., won his proposal to take $200 million from the foreign aid budget and restore the money into domestic nutrition programs. Reagan proposed $1.6 billion in cuts for child nutrition, particularly school lunches. Democrats wanted $400 million of that restored. Reagan recommended a $1 billion cut in foreign aid. Lose Another Round Democrats lost another round later when a move by Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., to cut an additional $104 million from foreign aid programs and transfer it to veterans' health care failed, 48-44. Helms also said the Agriculture Committee, which he heads, would take $100 million from the "Food For Peace" program overseas and allot it to domestic nutrition programs over three years. Helms, one of the Senate's most powerful conservative members, said he made the proposal to reassure anyone who believed Reagan wanted to "cut nutrition programs" too deeply. But Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, another liberal, bitterly attacked Helms' move to transfer funds from foreign nutrition programs to American ones. "Crass Attitude" "What kind of concern, what kind of crass attitude is that?" he said. When Dole, a conservative who supports food stamps and other nutrition programs, complained about "tired liberal voices who got us into this (economic) mess," Kennedy retorted he was a "young Democrat who was proud to be associated" with the programs under discussion. And when Helms declared, paraphrasing Winston Churchill, "There's nothing more satisfying than to be shot at and missed," Sen. Donald W. Riegle Jr., D-Mich., replied, "I feel you've been shooting at the school children of America and you haven't missed."

Bomb Kills Two In San Salvador, a bomb planted in a car parked beside a museum exploded Friday, killing a woman and a young boy waiting at a nearby bus stop and wounding four museum employees, witnesses reported. They said chunks of the car were hurled as far as 750 feet and windows in the museum and the office of an international trade fair were shattered in the 8:45 a.m. blast. At least 10 other killings were reported in violence between left and right-wing extremists. Gun battles continued for the second day between army troops and leftist guerrillas in San Lorenzo, 40 miles east of the capital. Residents said the fighting took "many lives," but there were no official casualty figures. Military Aid Opposed In Washington, White House mail was said to be running 10-1 against military aid. Congressional mail also was reported loaded with expressions of fear of "another Vietnam." The United States, in addition to millions of dollars worth of military aid, has sent 54 military advisers to this Central American country. In Minneapolis, three Lutheran church groups charged that the Reagan administration has internationalized the struggle in El Salvador and "made it a battleground for its own political interests." The morning explosion was the second fatal bombing in 24 hours in San Salvador. Thursday evening, a car carrying three people exploded, killing the occupants and a nearby motorcycle rider. Terrorists Speculated Police speculated the victims in the automobile were terrorists killed by a premature explosion of their own bomb. A third bomb exploded under an overpass beneath a runway at the military airfield east of the capital but did no damage. Elsewhere in the capital bus owners threatened to shut down all routes if the government does not roll back a 53-cent-a-gallon gasoline price hike announced Thursday. They said fares would be doubled to 12 cents to offset the increases, which boosted the cost of high-test from $2.03 to $2.56 a gallon and of regular from $1.96 to $2.49. EMBASSY ATTACKED BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Gunmen fired at the U.S. Embassy from a speeding car Friday night in the second such attack this week, witnesses said.

Limited Strike Sweeps Poland; General Walkout Due Tuesday

(Continued From Page One) you to decide the fate of the country? Are you so blind that you don't see that by your proceedings you are leading to national catastrophe?" The warning strike began at 8 a.m. with the shriek of factory whistles. Transportation in Warsaw, the capital, immediately stopped. About 4,000 workers at the Huta Warszawa steel mill on the city's northern outskirts and 5,000 employees at the nearby Ursus tractor factory halted work. A Solidarity spokesman said coal miners in Silesia, factory workers in Wroclaw, Jelena Gora, Katowice and Lublin, and shipbuilders in Gdansk — the vanguard of last summer's labor protests — all joined the strike. Polish television showed workers closing the gates of the V.I. Lenin shipyards in Gdansk, idle textile machines in the central city of Lodz, and unfinished tractors on assembly lines in Ursus.

Walesa Hoped P.P. quoted Walesa as saying after the meeting that he was hopeful "some solutions which will be constructive" would be reached when the talks reconvene today. "We will have to make our stand precise," Walesa was quoted as saying. "That is why we cannot make a binding, final decision today. Naturally, tomorrow talks will be continued, for we must arrive at some solutions." Rakowski was quoted by the agency as saying, "I too am convinced that we should do all we can to reach an agreement which will restore order in the country and eliminate this rather dangerous conflict." Visits Factories Before going to the bargaining table, Walesa visited several factories to cheer on the strikers. At the Huta Warszawa mill the union leader appealed for support — but also for patience. "We don't want to overthrow the party," Walesa told the steelworkers. He said the union hoped to give Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski "some time to restore order."

Solidarity declined to estimate how many of its estimated 10 million members participated in the four-hour warning strike at factories, coal mines and shipyards. Analysts called it the biggest coordinated workers' protest in the 35-year history of the communist East bloc. "Democratic Reforms" "We strike to make clear to people there is no other way for Poland than through democratic reforms," a Solidarity bulletin said. "We strike to make clear to authorities that Solidarity is an irrevocable factor of Polish life." "We struck four hours today to give the authorities a chance to settle things so we don't have the strike for four weeks," the possible duration of the open-ended general strike Solidarity has scheduled to begin Tuesday.

Haig Sees Polish Red Split As 'Dangerous'

(Continued From Page One) on the whole course of East-West relations," the statement said, echoing the words of the Carter administration at the peak of the earlier strike. And in a thinly veiled warning to the Warsaw government, the statement said U.S. economic aid to financially troubled Poland would keep flowing only as long as Polish leaders try to talk out their differences with the workers and not resort to force. Called "Very Serious" White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes took note Friday that the warning strike had ended but said the United States continues to regard the situation as "very serious." In reply to questions, however, he said Reagan has had no direct communication with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev or other Moscow officials. Weinberger, in a breakfast session with reporters, said "there would be some concerted effort" by the United States and its European allies if Russia moved to crush Poland's labor movement. Weinberger said that despite the end of a four-hour protest strike in Poland, "the situation still looks pretty serious."

No Immediate Threat However, Weinberger said "I'm not aware of any specific troop movements" by Warsaw Pact forces that could be considered immediately threatening to Poland. At the same time, Weinberger credited the Russians with what he believes is a reluctance to resolve problems in Poland by military force. "I think they would much rather get what they want without going in," Weinberger said. Indicating that the administration's warnings are designed to deepen this perceived Russian reluctance to use drastic measures, Weinberger said "there is just a general feeling that if they realize that this would have serious consequences, they would refrain" from such acts. The Soviet Union has about 30,000 troops in Poland, and some of these — as well as Warsaw Pact troops in Czechoslovakia and East Germany — have been involved in the regional exercise.

Haig told reporters that U.S. concerns also have been heightened by serious economic problems in Poland, for which he said there are no quick solutions. A State Department official, who asked not to be identified, said the situation has grown "perceptibly worse" in recent days, and a U.S. expert on Poland, who also requested anonymity, said he and his colleagues were "preparing for a long weekend."

Nine Perish In Collapse Of Building

COCOA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A five-story waterfront condominium collapsed "like a house of cards" Friday, killing nine workers and leaving five missing — and one trapped alive under a heavy pile of debris, authorities said. Dozens were injured. "The earth shook and there was a big gust of dust," said Gary Whittaker, a reporter in WFTV-Orlando's office across the street from the Harbor Cay construction site in this Atlantic Coast resort town just south of Cape Canaveral. "It's all flat, except for about three stories of one elevator shaft." "We also have located a person trapped in the debris who is known to be alive at this time because he has had voice contact with one of the rescue workers," said Cocoa Beach Fire Chief Robert Walker. Thousands of spectators clustered around the site as Air Force bulldozers and Brevard County front-end loaders pushed away rubble so volunteers, using hands or small shovels, could search for the missing trapped under the chunks of cement, steel rods and crushed girders. Walker said five bodies had been recovered and that the locations of four more bodies had been pinpointed under piles of rubble. The crowd grew hushed after officials announced that sound-detection devices were being used to locate victims. Witnesses said 50 to 60 workers were on the project — about a dozen of them on the roof — when the accident occurred about 3 p.m. Two bodies carried out at about 7 p.m. had been buried in some 20 feet of debris. Utility trucks erected makeshift light poles as darkness neared. "Five thousand tons of bricks fall on you and there's not much chance. It's horrible," said Dr. Richard Weber, treating injured at the scene. "It's a complete disaster, five stories of cement, one stacked on top of another," said Hugh Flynn, desk manager at the Serv-Ur-Self Motel near the accident scene. "I was watching it pour when the floor just gave out from under me," said Mike Hocko, a foreman on the concrete-pouring crew working at the top of the five-story building. "I was overseeing several concrete finishers who went down with me," Hocko said. "I rode one of the (concrete) forms down all the way."

Space Shuttle Passes Test CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A major test of the space shuttle Columbia was completed Friday with no apparent hitch, moving the orbiter a step closer to a maiden flight as early as April 10. Technicians visually checked the space shuttle's external fuel tank after the loading of 536,000 gallons of volatile, super-cold liquid oxygen and hydrogen and reported no conspicuous problems. Shuttle Operations Director George Page said an inspection team and personnel monitoring television cameras "did not see any change" in the 15-story, silo-like fuel tank. The explosive fuels were drained from the tank late Friday, and scores of specialists were to conduct a detailed physical inspection today and Sunday.

Tech To Be Estate Beneficiary

(Continued From Page One) Building is the Alvin R. Allison Court Room. He has contributed two law scholarships annually and established a loan fund for law students. Tech's Health Sciences Center also will grant an honorary degree to Sybil Harrington at its graduation ceremonies May 31. Mrs. Harrington, named Amarillo Woman of the Year in 1980, was cited by regents for her generous philanthropy. As president of the Don and Sybil Harrington Foundation, she gave funds last year to expand and equip a library at Tech's regional medical facility in Amarillo. Additionally, the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center is being built adjacent to Tech's medical facility in Amarillo. The center, regents say, will greatly benefit the medical school. In other matters, regents authorized taking bids for general construction of a $4 million addition to the Petroleum Engineering Building. Although that item was listed on the regents' agenda at their last meeting, Jan. 31, it was withdrawn from consideration. Regent James Snyder of Baird, chairman of the regents' campus and building committee, said he wanted to "clear up confusion" on the issue and stressed, "We intend to move on this." Apparently some contractors were upset with Tech's original plan to name a project director. When that controversy arose shortly before the Jan. 31 meeting, regents postponed action on the Petroleum Engineering Building. But that, in turn, frustrated the petroleum engineering department, which wanted to move as quickly as possible on the construction. Bids on the project can now be taken and regents are expected to award the construction contract at the next board meeting, May 15. Regents also authorized the receipt of bids for the installation of a passenger elevator in the Journalism Building at an estimated cost of $75,000. Gary Warren, a wheelchair-bound journalism major at Tech, attended Friday's board meeting to witness the award approval of the elevator. Warren said he has complained repeatedly about the lack of accessibility to the building. He added he is transferring to another college to complete his education despite the approval of the elevator because the completion date would further delay his educational plans. Medical students at Health Sciences Center will benefit from a change in tuition scholarship policy approved by the regents Friday. Previously all such scholarships were in the sum of $250. But beginning this fall, freshmen and sophomore students who meet financial need and academic requirements can receive $350 and juniors and seniors are eligible for $450. Jim Bob Jones, associate dean for student affairs at the med school, said the scholarships are limited to five percent of the school's enrollment, which means 17 students will be eligible for the scholarships in 1981-82 — five freshmen, five sophomores, four juniors and three seniors. Faculty development leaves were approved by regents for Dr. Wendell Aycock of the English department and Dr. John Walkup of the electrical engineering department. Two development leaves are allowed each year by the university to allow faculty members to pursue scholarly research. Recipients may take a full year's leave at half-salary or a semester's leave at full salary. Walkup will spend his leave at the University of Arizona's Optical Sciences Center working on using normal incoherent light to perform functions now possible only with laser or coherent light. Aycock will spend his leave in South America researching the presence of Shakespeare in 19th and 20th Century Spanish-American periodicals.

Lubbock Bus Station Employee Assaulted

An employee at the Lubbock bus station told police he was assaulted by a man he asked to move some seats so that he could wax the terminal's floors, according to police reports.

Jerry Lee Johnson said he was waxing the floor at the station about 1:45 p.m. Friday and to cover the entire floor, he had to move some seats. Johnson said that request apparently angered a helper, though, who began kicking and hitting Johnson.

Other employees pulled the angry man off Johnson, reports show, and detained him until police arrived. The man was not arrested pending formal filing of charges, reports state.

In other activity, Phillip Houghion of 4820-A 66th St. told police his home was burglarized between 7:20 a.m. and 1:55 p.m. Friday.

Police said entry was gained through the back door and all inside doors had been opened and the dresser drawers re-

Tentative Agreement Disgusts Striking Miners

By The Associated Press
 About 160,000 coal miners went on strike across the nation Friday, closing scattered non-union coal mines as well. The president of the United Mine Workers asked them to approve the "good money" in a tentative agreement, but miners in at least five states burned copies of the contract in disgust. Details of the agreement filtered down to the rank and file, which votes on the settlement Tuesday, and the terms sparked some controversy. The coalfields were generally calm, but there was one reported rock throwing incident at a non-union operation.

The strike began after the old contract expired at midnight Thursday, as miners continued a UMW "no-contract, no-work" tradition. The UMW has not reached a contract without a strike since 1964. In the record 111-day strike of 1977-78, the rank and file twice rejected contract settlements.

UMW President Sam Church ran into opponents of the tentative contract at meetings with miners in northern West Virginia.

"Mr. Church, you said you weren't going to shave until we got a contract," said one miner. "Your beard's going to be darn long before we take something like that."

Church was picketed by members of his own union as he arrived for a radio interview in Wheeling, W.Va. Miners from UMW District 6 in nearby Ohio carried signs saying "UMW Will Die in Sam's Hands" and "Sam Prefers Non-Union Coal."

To the south, in Charleston, W.Va., about half the 300 union officials at a District 17 meeting stormed out when the contract was explained.

Some burned copies of the contract in protest, starting a blaze put out by firefighters 20 minutes later. "This is what we think of the contract," said one miner as he tossed his copy onto the bonfire outside the meeting hall.

Miners in several other states, including Kentucky, Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania used the same gesture to register their distaste with the proposal.

Later, UMW legislative representative Frank Thurman predicted the contract would be defeated in District 17, the union's largest with 25,000 voting members.

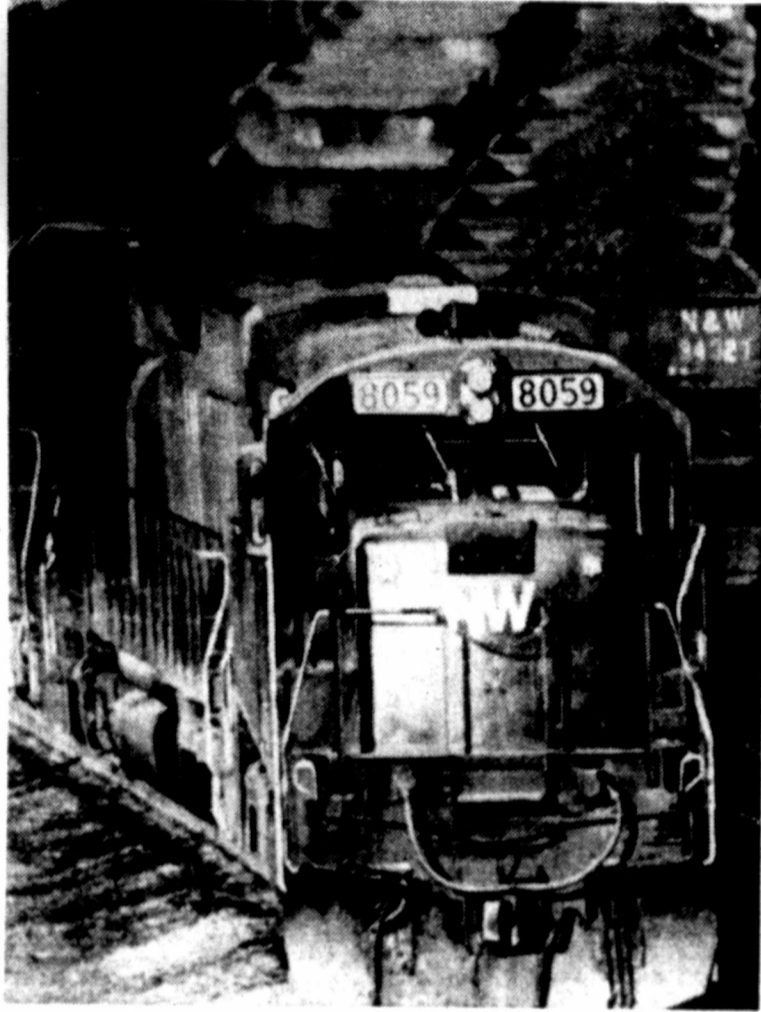

"And I'm not just talking about this district," he added. "I'm talking about everywhere. I'm getting negative comments from all over."

Officials in most of the 20 states where the UMW has mines reported no problems, and no strike-related injuries were reported. The UMW generally does not set up picket lines, but scattered groups of roving pickets appeared at non-union operations in eastern Kentucky and southern West Virginia.

Police said they were checking an unconfirmed report of a rock-throwing incident at a Marrowbone Development Co. mine in Mingo County, W.Va.

Unique Steer Set Pace For First ABC Rodeo Here

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

He was called Bob Cat Twister on the rodeo circuit because of his bobbed tail, his catlike movements and his energy which made him a real twister coming out of the chute.

Twice he made Ripley's Believe It or Not — once as the longest horned steer alive and then as the first educated cow brute.

He led every major rodeo parade in this country and Canada and also had a short career as a movie star. Today, he stands in life-sized bronze in metropolitan New York.

—And four decades ago, Bob Cat Twister (Bobby for short) was in Lubbock to help launch the first ABC Rodeo, performing in a temporary arena set up on the Panhandle South Plains Fairgrounds.

"Dad did everything on him you can do with a horse — make him kneel, lay down, play dead — and he roped calves off him, throwing through the horns," Buddy Reger recalled of the steer that launched his family into carnival and then rodeo business.

Reger, now an American Business Club member boosting the 39th annual ABC Rodeo which finishes tonight, was a trick rider and trick roper as well as pick-up man and clown in the first ABC event staged in October 1941 in conjunction with the fair.

The "biggest rhubarb" Reger ever saw — involving rodeo cowboys, carnival hands and anyone interested in a fight — occurred that year after a disagreement over rules and regulations which were just beginning to govern rodeo contests.

Today's show, he noted, is the 39th because of the absence of the event during a couple of war years when the cowboys were away at World War II.

Bobby's appearance in Lubbock was during his last few years as a performer while Reger, a veteran of 11 years of show business at age 16, was just beginning his successful career as a clown.

"He didn't jump the car at Lubbock," Reger said. "He'd refused and Dad didn't push him."

The steer was just another one of the calves in 1925 when Reger's rancher grandfather imported him among the others for a rodeo to celebrate the coming of the railroad to Buffalo, Okla.

"When we gathered them up to show, we couldn't gather Bobby," Reger said. "His horns had begun to grow and he was moving. We got him in Sun City, Kan."

When the Reger farm dried up in 1930, the family took to the carnival show road with Bobby, by then a 1,200-pound steer with U-shaped horns measuring eight feet, six inches tip to tip.

Reger's job was to do tricks on his pony to draw customers through the door at a nickel a peek at the strange animal inside.

"Then, Daddy started training him, feeding him Mother's biscuits."

A rodeo debut in Oklahoma attracted the attention of the rodeo's star, Ken Maynard, who lured the Regers to Hollywood for movies with Bobby.

From Hollywood, Reger's father, Monte, took the rodeo trail with his now-famous steer.

In New York, he was jailed for mistreating an animal until cowboys came to testify that the lanky steer was in great shape for its breed, a quarter Brahma and the rest longhorn.

And for six hours a day during the New York stay, Bobby posed for a statue that still stands in the New York Academy of Arts.

About the time Lubbock business men were considering a rodeo, the Reger family hooked up with some Oklahoma neighbors, the Beutlers, for rodeo productions.

They were all in the arena for the Lubbock show.

Though Bobby didn't jump a car, one of his most famous tricks, he did all the rest, including racing after a calf and then hauling back on the rope when his rider left the saddle.

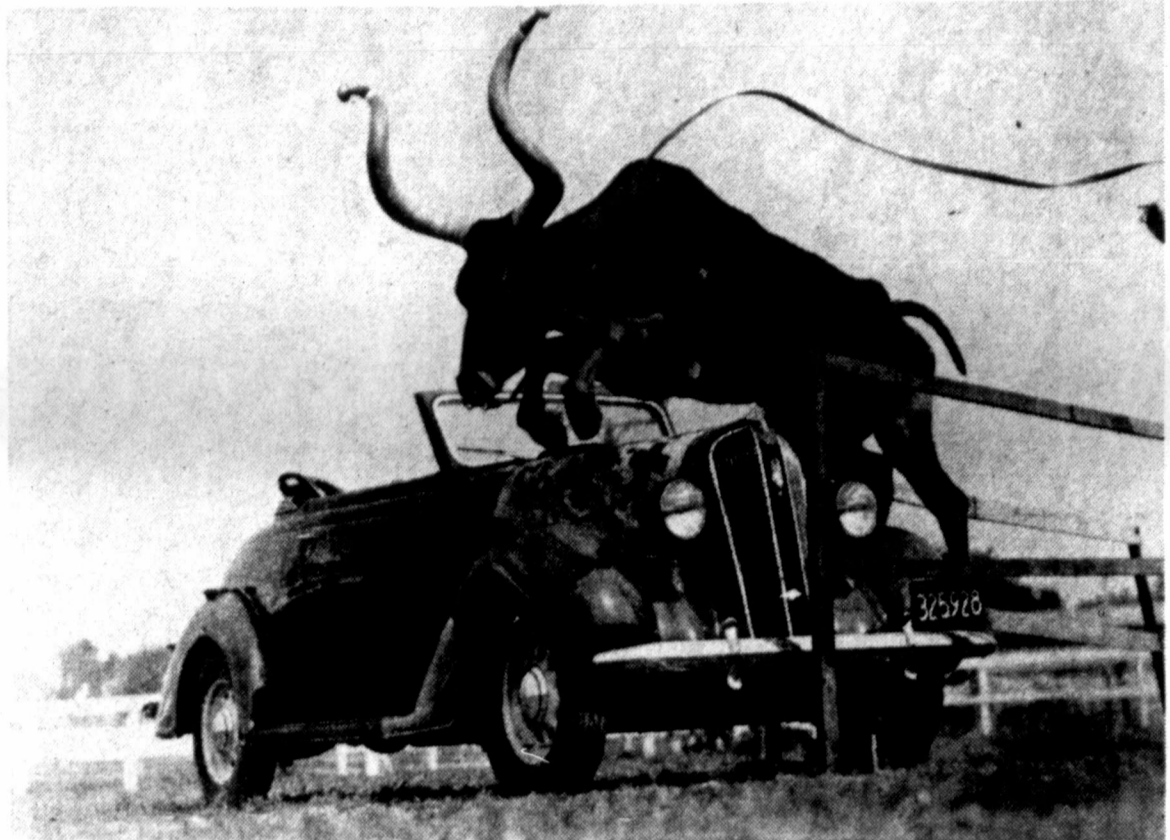

"He couldn't catch a fast Brahma calf," according to Reger, "but he could really handle the 1,300-pound steers."

Retired in Oklahoma, Bobby lay on a mound facing traffic, turning first one way and then the other, but always facing traffic and astounding passersby as he had in the show ring.

He was about 30, Reger believes, when he died, having an estimated age of seven when training began.

A three-part story on Monte Reger and his steer in the Quarter Horse Journal in 1970 brought the Regers letters and pictures from all over the world from people who had seen him perform.

And although Bobby is gone, he will be back in memory each time rodeo is on in Lubbock.

Silverton Artist Loves New Directions, Styles

A-J Correspondent

SILVERTON — Although Junis May Hutsell had to put 24 years of marriage, children and grandchildren between her first year of school and her recent years at West Texas State, she says the wait was worth it.

"I went back to college to make myself feel better, because I felt like I needed some credibility behind my art work and needed self-confidence and direction," the Silverton artist explained.

She attended WTSU for a year after her marriage to F. E. Hutsell on Sept. 1, 1952, but it wasn't until the fall of 1979 that she was able to major in fine arts, specializing in studio art.

Mrs. Hutsell has been interested in art for a long time, despite a grade school teacher's remark that she could not color well and who gave her a "C" to back of that evaluation. Since that time she has had numerous art teachers, including six well-known panhandle artists.

"To be an accomplished artist, you need to stick to one style," Mrs. Hutsell said, "but I wanted to experiment and see if I wanted to go in one direction. I love to do new things and use new styles. In college I got into sculpturing and I love it."

Besides sculpture, Mrs. Hutsell has taken classes in drawing, oil and acrylics and she is attending a watercolor class in Plainview.

"I still am not settled on a certain style but I am growing, learning and experimenting," she said.

When Mrs. Hutsell, grandmother of five, started back to school at WTSU, she was in the company of her daughter, Colleen (now Mrs. Robert Turnbow of Arlington), her son, Scott, and a nephew, Rick, who is from California. Her other son Mark owns a jewelry store in Childress.

"I love the kids at WTSU and miss them as I am not going to school this semester," she said.

A member of the University Art Club, she is also a member and former vice president of the Plains Art Association of Plainview, a member of the Amarillo Art Association and the Texas Fine Arts Association.

Her art endeavors have put her in great demand for a number of civic activities including paintings for floats, posters, banquet favors and even donating paintings for sale by charitable organizations.

When her children were in high school, Mrs. Hutsell was painting school owls on the gym floor, making posters and painting megaphones.

"Things haven't changed much," she says with a laugh. "Because Scott wanted me to design a T-shirt for him recently and Mark wanted me to do a poster."

Nuke Waste Hearing Draws Comments

By JOHN OTIS MEEKINS
A-J Correspondent

HOBBS, N.M. — "If it's so safe, why don't they bury the stuff under Detroit or some other eastern city?"

That comment by Hobbs rancher Larry Franklin seems to sum up the opinions expressed last week at the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant (WIPP) hearing in Hobbs.

The $635 million project proposes the burial of nuclear waste in the salt beds between Hobbs and Carlsbad.

A sparse crowd of less than 30 attended the hearing held at the Cimarron West here by the New Mexico Environmental Evaluation Group (EEG) designed to outline how the federally proposed project would affect the environment and lifestyle in southeastern New Mexico.

No one spoke in favor of the project at the hearing conducted by Dr. Robert H. Neill, director of EEG in Santa Fe, N.M.

Neill emphasized he was "not speaking in favor of, or against, the project." His mission, he said, was to explain potential dangers of nuclear waste when it is stored a half-mile deep in the salt beds, which he adds, "are very low."

The project is under the control of the Department of Energy and is the department's responsibility, according to Neill. He said he was merely giving EEG's independent evaluation of the health and safety aspects of the project.

A talk and slide show by Neill didn't appear to convince his audience of the safety of the proposed project and citizens' following questions apparently weren't answered to their satisfaction.

Sealed canisters of nuclear waste are resistant to corrosion, Neill said, and when they are buried a half-mile deep, radiation danger is almost non-existent.

Faye Linam Klein of Hobbs, who describes herself as a third generation Lea County rancher, took Neill to task about the possible jeopardy posed by the project to the recovery of potentially large amounts of natural gas in the area. Mrs. Klein told Neill, "You're just taking the easy way out by dumping the radioactive stuff here."

She added that she is alarmed at the prospect of having oil and water becoming unusable.

Franklin also told Neill he has gone to every WIPP meeting for the past three years and at each meeting, officials seek to prove "it's okay to bring the waste here." He added, "I'm scared to death

ANN LANDERS

Innocent Prank Proves Deadly

Dear Ann Landers: Many students read you. Would you consider reprinting this? It could save lives. Thanks a lot. — A Faithful Reader

Dear Reader: Here it is — and I should be thanking you.

THREE MINUTES
By The Christophers
Somewhere in a den, or perhaps hanging on a wall in a college dormitory — there is a sign that says STOP.

Somewhere in Pennsylvania, there are four newly sodded graves waiting for spring when perhaps someone will plant flowers.

In those graves are four people who were killed instantly on Aug. 21, 1980. The car in which they were riding collided with a tractor-trailer at a highway intersection in a nearby state.

The driver of the automobile was not familiar with the intersection. He did not know he was required by law to stop. The stop sign that would have warned him was stolen just before the crash.

Two of the four who were killed were children. Four others were injured. They will be haunted by the memory of that hideous crash for the rest of their lives.

It is possible that the person (or people) who stole the sign will also live with the agony forever. But no one knows for sure because the police don't know who took it.

Seemingly innocent pranks can have unforeseen and tragic consequences. "Fun" at the expense of others is a violation of the first principle of charity: "As you wish that men would do to you, do so to them." (Luke 6:31).

Holy Spirit, help me to develop a mature sense of humor.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is being written by six gals in the steno pool of a large company in Pittsburgh. A few weeks ago a woman moved up here from Alabama. The men flock around her desk like geese because they think the way she talks is "just darling."

We are fed up to here with the way she leaves "g's" off words and slurs over her "r's." In fact it's difficult to understand what she is talking about most of the time. She sounds ignorant.

Please suggest in your column that if the Southerners want to come up north they should learn how to speak English. We are signing this — Red, White And Blue Yankees

Dear Yankees: You sound green to me. With envy, that is. Give up, girls, you're fighting a losing battle. Those South-in-the-Mouth Magnolias go over big up north, especially with the men. So find something to admire about Dixie. The Civil War is over and we won.

CONFIDENTIAL to Don't Want My Wedding Ruined: The bridesmaid is married, isn't she? So what's the disgrace? You selected her because she was a close friend. Does her pregnancy make her less close? Welcome to the 20th century, lady. And tell your grandmother to go fly a kite.

Teaching your kids about the facts of life can be easy or awkward. Ann Landers' booklet, "How, What, and When to Tell Your Child About Sex" can spell the difference. Send 50 cents along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request, to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Eating Alone Easy As Cooking For Spouse

By JEANNE LIVELY
Family News Staff

Dr. Mina Lamb, professor emerita of the Foods and Nutrition department at Texas Tech University, said eating well nutritionally should not be any more difficult when individuals are alone than when they are preparing for and eating with spouses.

Speaking to the Widows' Network Sunday, the internationally-known nutritionist stressed general tips for helping all individuals — whether living alone or not — to enhance the quality of their lives.

"While I like the idea of eating a balanced breakfast, I know it is difficult for some persons to feel hungry in the morning. To these people I say one of the 'instant breakfast' products is the next best thing."

Otherwise, Dr. Lamb feels that individuals have the best chance of eating a balanced diet if they choose from a variety of foods.

"On one occasion I noticed a man doing his grocery shopping, and all he had in his basket were TV dinners. Of course, if that is all he ate... all of the time... then he might not get the nutrients he needs. But it seemed that the man's wife was only out of town for a short time, so I didn't have to be concerned about his diet."

Dr. Lamb stresses particularly the need for all individuals to have an adequate intake of ascorbic acid or Vitamin C. "It isn't necessary for you to buy canned fruit juice (unless you want it)," she stated, "when you can fulfill dietary requirements of Vitamin C in fruit, in season. Of course, almost any fruit you can think of is now available in grocery stores, whether in season or not."

The nutritionist said it is not necessary for individuals to have green and yellow fruits and vegetables every day but they should be eating them several times a week.

Dr. Lamb also believes all individuals should have an adequate intake of protein. While she does not approve of a vegetarian diet for children, she said adults can substitute meat by choosing from members of the legume family, nuts (stick to low fat nuts like almonds and filberts if limiting calories) and other foods.

Dr. Lamb lists the following as behavior risks in eating:

- Regular snacking or "grazing"
- Additives to foods including sauces, fats and sugar
- Salting before tasting
- Larger than needed servings
- Major emphasis on desserts
- Regular use of "heat and eat" products and mixes

- Eating as a major event of the day
- Concepts of a good food and of a good meal
- Excessive intake of a few or limited types of food

Individuals with balanced diets should not require synthetic vitamins with a few exceptions, Dr. Lamb commented.

Dr. Lamb said that besides the benefits of eating good, nourishing food as far as health is concerned eating is a social or diversionary activity.

"If you don't like to eat alone," she noted, "then don't. Invite someone to eat with you or find another person who is alone and invite the person to go out and eat."

"On the occasions you may have to eat by yourself, don't feel apologetic about eating in front of the television, listening to music or reading."

Other than nutrition, Dr. Lamb said an individual's health is influenced by, early life, activity (kind and amount), how much sleeping the person gets, recreation and whether the person avails himself of positive care (medical, psychological or dietary counseling if needed).

Regarding nutrition, Dr. Lamb explained it's better not to look back as far as prevention is concerned. Maintaining one's present health is more important, she emphasized.

The Lubbock Widows' Network is sponsored by the Lubbock Branch of the American Association of University Women. Interested persons should call either Marjorie Price, 795-1585 or Evelyn Pope, 765-8925.

Bridge

By Oswald Jacoby
and Alan Sontag

Last Saturday we discussed the situation when you, South hold, A Q 9 x x and dummy holds J 8 x x. The best play is to lead to the queen and finesse. This gets you five tricks if East (to your right) holds K K x or K x x and guarantees four tricks against any distribution.

With A Q 9 x x opposite dummy's J 8 x x, you also lead to your queen. If it holds and you are trying for five tricks it is an exactly equal play here to lay down the ace, which will now pick up five tricks if the king is singleton to your right, or to return to dummy to lead the jack, which will produce five tricks if the ten is now singleton to your left.

If you want to give yourself the best possible play for four tricks, give up the play for five and lead low back to dummy's jack-eight. If West shows out, play the jack from dummy and you can finesse against 10-x up to your ace-nine.

Let's look at A Q x x x opposite J x x. Your best play for the maximum is to lead to the queen, but it is not your best play if your only interest is to make sure of four tricks in the suit. If either opponent holds K 10 9 8, there is no way for you to get four tricks. If the suit breaks 3-2 you are sure of four tricks. Now suppose the singleton king is opposite 10 9 8 7, take the finesse and you will lose to the singleton king and later to the 10. But you have picked up the king.

Suppose you hold A x x x x opposite Q J x x. The play for the maximum is to lead the queen for a finesse. It will give you all five tricks just over 20 percent of the time. But if you want to take the best play for four tricks, lay down the ace. This gets you four tricks if the missing K 10 9 8 are in back of the ace. No play gets you all four if they are in back of the queen-jack.

Women Help Women Bridge Work Gap

By ALICE NOBLE
CHICAGO (UPI) — For women who have built their lives around a husband and a husband's income, sudden widowhood, divorce or separation can be a traumatic experience emotionally and financially.

A full-time homemaker who loses her spouse soon finds herself in a highly technical world in which she is totally unprepared to find employment.

That's where Moni Azibo and the Displaced Homemakers Program step in.

"We help mature women who have been homemakers — Sometimes with no outside work experience — bridge the gap between homemaker and successful employed person," Mrs. Azibo said in an interview.

"Most of our women are in their 40s or 50s, are widowed, separated, divorced or in the process of separation or divorce, and have not worked on a consistent basis for many years," she said.

"They now have to support themselves and may have either teen-age children or young adult children who depend on them."

Carol White, director of the Chicago center, said the program "was a demo model in its first year of funding and we developed a manual that could be replicated elsewhere. There are 400 to 500 programs across the country that do basically the same kind of thing we do. We get lots of inquiries about how to set up a program like this and everyone adapts it to their situation."

Mrs. Azibo said displaced homemakers are at a disadvantage in the job market because they do not know where to look for jobs or how to get them.

"There are several common denominators among displaced homemakers," she said. "But their greatest disadvantage is a lack of self-confidence, which is primarily what our program builds."

"We focus on helping them raise their self-confidence through assertiveness training. Then we help them to identify their values, especially as to what type of job or career planning to get into."

"Many of these women have to work and may have to take a clerical job to start with. But if they're really interested in accounting or a mechanical field, we encourage them to make long-range plans through our career planning section."

Mrs. Azibo, a counselor, said her staff tells the women what opportunities are available. The staff also helps with important aspects of job finding, such as how to complete job applications and how to perform well in an interview.

In a basic three-week workshop program, the women identify existing skills that can be applied in the job market. Optional classes give participants a chance to brush up on math, record-keeping and typing.

"Many shrug their shoulders and say, 'I can't do anything,'" Mrs. Azibo said. "But homemakers run the gamut from tutors to seamstresses to food buyers. Once we tag an area of expertise, they really start to move."

"We let them brush up on English and math, which if a woman hasn't used them since her high school days, she obviously has forgotten. We also have classes for those who did not finish high school."

Mrs. Azibo said her greatest success story concerns a woman in her mid-40s who had a prison record.

"The only thing she had ever done was domestic work," Mrs. Azibo said. "Then she went through our training classes and was initially hired as a file clerk, while still studying typing on her own. The company was so pleased with her, they soon promoted her to clerk typist."

"She thought she'd never be able to do anything else in her life except domestic work."

The program handles about 30 women a month. Another hundred or so are on a waiting list.

The basic program, funded by the state and federal governments, is free to participants but $2 tuition is charged for skills classes "because if a person is putting something into it, they seem to be more committed."

The three-year-old program has been so successful, Mrs. Azibo was asked to write a book. She and former counselor Therese Unumb produced "The Mature Woman's Back-to-Work Book" (Contemporary Books Inc., Chicago $5.95 paperback).

"It's for people who are looking for jobs and also those presently working who are in the process of changing jobs or careers," Mrs. Azibo said. "I really feel that even teen-agers can learn from it."

She said the book offers several unique features, including exercises to help readers identify their values and a salary scale to convert hourly wages into weekly, monthly and yearly income figures.

"It's important to know and understand your values so you don't accept a job that goes against your basic values," she said. "And the salary scale lets the women know exactly what they're getting."

ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. John E. Gordon will celebrate their 64th wedding anniversary today from 3-6 p.m. Hosts of the open house celebration will be Mrs. Odessa Turner of Idalou, daughter of the couple, and Linda Stracener, granddaughter of the couple. The former Mary Etta Warnich and Gordon were married March 28, 1917 in Gordonville, Texas. They have lived in Lubbock since 1945. They have one other daughter, Mrs. Lou Starks of Palmer Lake, Colo. They have nine grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Public Speaking Tips Given By Toastmaster

By ANNE EVANS
Family News Staff

Public opinion can be shaped into anything you want, said Donald Bloyd, director of Postal Services and a member of Toastmasters Club.

Bloyd, who recently spoke at a Women in Communications seminar, said there are several guidelines to follow when speaking to the public.

"The biggest problem is speaking in a monotone voice," he said. To avoid monotone, use high and low volume to pull the audience into what is being said. "You can also use a fast and slow rate to build excitement," Bloyd said.

Before actually beginning a speech, rapport and credibility with the audience must be established. This can be done by the person introducing you or by Bloyd's favorite tactic, telling a joke about oneself to put the audience at ease.

During the delivery, don't use distracting gestures, Bloyd said. "We've all seen the pencil pointer, the hands in pockets, the eyeglass adjuster, and the person who has lost his hands behind his back." He explained that all gestures should be smooth and flowing. Both hands may be used in descriptive gestures.

"Eye contact is important," said Bloyd. "Don't look only at the floor, ceiling or notes. Find a few pairs of friendly eyes at first and then be sure you look at everyone."

Other things to avoid are drooping over the podium and rocking back and forth on heels. "Wear something you feel comfortable in," Bloyd said, "but be sure and dress appropriately for your audience."

Bloyd mentioned the painting of word pictures in a speech. "Select words to create pictures in the audience's mind." He said words at ninth grade level are best to use because they are easy to understand.

Don't read, memorize or give an impromptu speech, according to Bloyd.

Theories Not Totally Correct

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am concerned with red and white muscle fibers and bodybuilding. I know red fibers exert low tension, have high endurance, and work aerobically. White fibers exert high tension, have poor endurance, and work anaerobically. How does ATP muscle fuel fit in? I have also read that explosive strength is brought about by changing muscle tissue into predominantly white fibers. Red (slow) fibers change to white (fast) and muscles become more responsive. What do you think? — D.L.

I think I'm dealing with a kid who's really done some homework. The theories you outline are correct, but not completely.

There are, indeed, two kinds of muscles — one slow-twitch, the other fast-twitch. The slow-twitchers (your red muscles) do have potential for endurance, as in marathon running. They are called aerobic because they utilize their energy more or less directly through the oxygen we breathe.

The fast-twitchers (your white muscles) are, as you say, better for explosive strength. Thus they are more beneficial to a weightlifter, for example. They are called anaerobic because their energy is utilized anaerobically (without oxygen).

All muscle energy, however, derives from conversion of sugar into a fuel called ATP (adenosine triphosphate). The fast-twitch muscles burn this fuel without oxygen. So it would figure that they would be advantageous to a person who wants to develop explosive strength as opposed to endurance.

So far as I know, D.L., no one has ever shown that you can change a slow-twitch muscle (red) to a fast-twitch muscle (white) through exercise. However, and this may boggle your mind, there are two types of fast-twitch muscle fibers —

A and B. A's are faster than B's.

The B's can be transformed by exercise into A's. If you want to do this to enhance your fast-twitch muscle power you do so by rapidly and repetitively lifting low poundage weights. Heavy poundage weights and fewer lifts increase slow-twitch muscle power. Such technical aspects of training might eventually become important in determining who should be a sprinter and who a marathoner. I'm happy to learn that there is a scientific bodybuilder alive and well up in Alberta.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I'm interested in getting into super shape, so I am looking for good information on vitamins and which ones will help most. Can you help me? — B.E.

Why don't you stop this search for vitamin answers? You will find your answers in a balanced diet, not in a medicine chest full of bottles. If you want to know about vitamins, fine. The booklet "Vitamins: Facts You Need to Know" might be helpful. But you won't get any physical fitness dividends from it. You will learn that vitamins enter the health picture in a negative way — when a person is deficient or has difficulty utilizing them. Both situations are pretty uncommon. The booklet I mention is available by writing Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What exactly are hip pointers and why is this injury so common in football? — N.B.

At the beltline level of the hip you can feel a large bone. That is the iliac crest. A hip pointer is a bruise of that bone. The bruise causes the muscles attached to it to tear away. Hip pointers usually heal with no serious result, but healing may take up to two weeks.

As with most muscle-bone injuries, hip pointers should be treated immediately with ice and compression. Hip pointers usually mean that the player's protective pads are not fitting well or he wouldn't have gotten the bruise. So any team coming up with hip pointers needs new equipment or instruction in adjusting existing equipment.

Not all back pain originates in the back. In his newest booklet, Dr. Donohue explains the spine, its muscles and nerves and how you can help yourself avoid back problems or ease those you may already have. For a copy of the new booklet, "Backache and Spine Problems," send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Pat's Clusters With Coffee

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
MORNING COFFEE
Pat's Clusters

PAT'S CLUSTERS
This brownie-like cookie is said to be a recipe of Mrs. Richard Nixon's.
4 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1 large egg
1 1/2 squares (1 1/2 ounces) unsweetened chocolate, melted
2 cups coarsely broken walnuts

Stir together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter, sugar and vanilla, beat in the egg, then the chocolate, until blended. With a spoon, gradually stir in the flour mixture until blended. Fold in nuts. Drop by level tablespoons about an inch apart on lightly greased cookie sheets. Bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven until tops are set and bottoms lightly browned — 10 minutes. With a spatula, remove to a wire rack to cool. Makes about 2 1/2 dozen.

Crisis Intervention Workshop Scheduled for Professionals

By JACQUE HUTCHINS
Family News Staff

A Crisis Intervention Workshop begins today for public service professionals. According to Bob Wells, of CONTACT, the workshop was developed to train professionals from various public service agencies to help people in crisis situations.

Also it is expected to facilitate communication between professionals and various public service agencies and to encourage future communication and interaction among the groups.

The Workshop will consist of sessions to be held on three consecutive Saturdays from 9 a.m. until noon in the George M. Brewer Assembly Room in Methodist Hospital. Today's workshop begins with registration at 8:30 a.m.

Covered topics will focus on information necessary for the public service agencies to better deal with the emotional situations of crises and will be given by local professionals.

Today's topics will include The Belligerent Hostile Bystander, presented by the Rev. Tom Daugherty, director of Chaplain Services at Methodist Hospital. The Psychotic Individual by Kay Young, R.N. Methodist School of Nursing.

The April 4 session will include: Domestic Violence, given by James E. Madden, Ph.D. and Jeanie Henager, R.N. with VA Mental Hygiene Clinic. Crowd Anger and Violence also presented by the two.

The third session, April 11 will focus on The Passive Suicidal Person by the Rev. Robert Powell, with Crossroads Pastoral Counseling and Consultation Center, and The Dying Person also by Powell.

Madden, Wells and Mrs. Young were part of the planning committee for the workshop along with Jeff Young, EMT-Paramedic Training Chief, Lubbock Emergency Medical Services, and Judy Williams, R.N., Paramedic, Methodist Hospital Emergency Room Head Nurse. The group felt it was necessary to help set up a training program for Emergency Medical Technicians, professionals for CONTACT, Women's Protective Service, nurses and the police.

"I hope this will be a first step in getting people dealing with crisis, communicating with one another," said Wells.

Mrs. Young explained that although these professionals are trained well in the medical aspects, they do not receive enough information on how to deal with the emotional aspects. The sessions will help them deal with their own feelings.

The workshop is open to all public service professionals. For more information call CONTACT, 765-8393.

WORKSHOP COMMITTEE — A Crisis Intervention Workshop will begin today in the George M. Brewer Assembly Room of Methodist Hospital. Making plans for the three session workshop are, clockwise: Bob Wells, executive director of CONTACT; Judy Williams, R.N.; Kay Young, R.N.; and Jeff Young, EMT Paramedic. (Staff Photo)

Chocolate Garlic Recipe Featured

By United Press International

The Gilroy Calif. garlic festival contestant who submitted this recipe for chocolate coated garlic cloves calls them Sicilian Gems.

Mrs. Margaret Bucery of Palos Verdes, Calif., says they are a wonderful way to get your family to eat garlic and enjoy it.

If you don't like the results, don't blame us. With dark sweet chocolate commanding $4.50-$6 a pound, we couldn't afford to test Mrs. Bucery's recipe which appears in The Garlic Lovers Cookbook (Celestial Arts, $6.95, paper back).

The ingredients:
3 large garlic bulbs (about 30 cloves)
Ice water
1/2 lb. dark sweet chocolate
1 tbsp. Grand Marnier
Ground walnuts optional

Separate and peel garlic cloves. Soak in ice water to seal in flavor and juices while you prepare the chocolate. Melt chocolate in double boiler or fondue pot, add liqueur and blend well. Dry garlic cloves and dip in chocolate liqueur mixture until completely covered. Allow to harden, and serve on a small elegant dish at the end of the meal, with cappuccino.

"These are the 'piece de resistance' at the finale of a long and sumptuous Italian meal," Mrs. Bucery writes, adding that "They may also be rolled in ground nuts before they harden, but they are just as good plain."

Hospital Volunteers Honored At Luncheon

Lubbock General Hospital Volunteers were honored by the Lubbock County District Board of Managers and the Lubbock General Hospital Executive Officers at the third annual Awards Luncheon held recently at the Lubbock Women's Club.

Pins and hour bars were given to 91 members of the Auxiliary and Junior League of Lubbock. These members have given a total of 28,940 hours of volunteer service to the hospital.

Olive-Nut Spread Recipe Shared

DEAR FELLOW RECIPE BUFFS:

We have received many requests for a copy of an olive-nut spread we printed some time ago and, of course, it's our pleasure to be of help if possible.

So for those folks and others who might like to have the recipe for their files, we're happy to run it again. If you haven't tried this spread, grab your scissors and clip this column for future reference. 'Cause I think you're going to agree it's delicious. Here 'tis:

Mash 6 ounces of softened cream cheese (room temperature) with a fork, then add 1/2 cup mayonnaise. Blend well.

Stir in 1/2 cup chopped pecans and 1 cup chopped salad olives. (Notice the recipe calls for salad olives. Since they are to be chopped up anyway, don't spend extra money for the more expensive whole ones.)

Now, add 2 tablespoons of the olive juice and a dash of pepper, but NO salt. Stir well. This mixture will be slightly mushy, but it's supposed to be that way. Put it into a covered container and refrigerate for several hours and it will become firm.

This delicious spread is great served on very thin toast. Topped with shredded lettuce, it's super. Makes great finger sandwiches too for family fare or fancy parties. Keeps well in the fridge — that is, if you can find some way to hide it. Hugs till tomorrow. — Heloise

The applique will be stuck to the material and the excess plastic to the paper bag. The applique can now be machine stitched with no basting. Makes for a very neat job. — Dorothy Merritt

LONE SOCKS

DEAR HELOISE:

I have finally found out what to do with those extra socks that I can't find the mate to.

After I'm sure the washing machine has eaten their mates, I take the ones that are left and slip them over cans of spray cleaners, etc.

When I'm ready to use a particular product, I just slip the sock over my hand and clean away. — Esther Perez

PHOTO FILE

DEAR HELOISE:

Instead of putting our family snapshots in an album, I put them in envelopes, according to the year in which they were taken.

I write this date on the outside of each envelope. Doing this makes it more convenient than trying to pass an album around.

These envelopes fit very nicely in a shoe box. — Mrs. Wendell Nye

REMINDER LIST

DEAR HELOISE:

I keep a constant list of small projects, which need to be done, but are not urgent or regular duties. My list includes such things as: sort recipe file box, fill in scrapbooks, dust light fixtures, go through old magazines for recipes and articles, clean a cupboard, re-do address book, etc.

Then, when I have an extra half hour,

Education Department Issues Guide To Understanding Tests

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

True or false: The tests your children take tell you how well they're doing in school.

Answer: True. And false. It all depends on the kind of test, the way it is graded and the purpose it is used for.

The recent announcement of grading errors on two standardized tests taken by thousands of high school students demonstrates the importance of paying careful attention to the questions and answers and what they mean.

Critics say many of the exams are unfair. They say the tests are designed for middle-class students. They argue that poor children, particularly from minority groups, are penalized by their backgrounds and, in some cases, by discrimination. The critics also claim that the tests are not accurate in predicting the likelihood of success.

Much of the controversy has centered on admissions exams for colleges, universities and graduate schools and on minimum-competency tests used to measure high school students' skills in reading, writing and arithmetic. Basic aptitude and intelligence tests also have stirred arguments, however.

Efforts are under way to require testing companies to give students the results of the exams they take. The Educational Testing Service, which administers many exams for the College Board, has started providing this kind of information to some test takers and the disclosure policy led to the discovery of errors in marking mathematics problems on two separate exams.

To help parents understand the different tests and the reasons for them, the Department of Education has issued a 36-page guide, "Your Child and Testing." The guide is available, at no charge, from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 520J, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

There are two basic kinds of tests—the ones prepared by individual teachers to find out how much students are learning about specific subjects being taught and the standardized ones designed to show how students in a particular class, school or district are doing in relation to other students.

Standardized tests are the most confusing. There are two categories—achievement tests, to measure what a student has learned already, and aptitude exams, to measure the ability to learn in

SAT Test-Takers To Examine Results

NEW YORK (AP) — Starting next fall, students nationwide who take the Scholastic Aptitude Tests will be able to obtain copies of their tests and lists of correct answers.

The College Board, the association of high schools and colleges that sponsors the tests, voted Thursday to institute the policy, which the board had long resisted.

The policy is already in effect in New York State, where "truth in testing" legislation requires it.

The board's decision came in the wake of two incidents in which students discovered errors in tests sponsored by the College Board after gaining access to results. As a result, the developer of the tests, the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J., raised the scores of hundreds of thousands of students.

Students asking for the extra service will be charged a premium, as in New York. However, other dates will be scheduled for which the new service will not be offered.

In New York, the "truth in testing" law says the SAT can only be administered when questions and answers can be provided. As a result, there are only five test dates in New York state, instead of 12 as in other states.

College Board President George H. Hanford said the new service was intended to make the tests more open "in ways that do not compromise test fairness and quality, reduce services excessively, or add unnecessarily to cost."

In the past, the testing industry had argued that requiring testers to give away the correct answers after each test would increase costs and possibly reduce test quality since many more tests would have to be designed.

Hanford said student requests for the post-test answers have never exceeded 8 percent of those taking the test on a given date.

"The College Board has not altered its opposition in principle to government intrusion into the sensitive area of college admissions," Hanford said. "It continues to believe that voluntary action is preferable to governmental intervention, and has sought through such actions to react responsibly to expressions of public interest in test information."

the future.

Standardized tests are scored several ways. The simplest score is the raw number indicating how many questions were answered correctly. The raw score means relatively little by itself; it is usually compared to the raw scores of others who have taken the same test and the comparison is expressed as a percentile, a stanine or a grade equivalent.

A student's percentile rank shows what proportion of students scored higher than he or she did and what proportion scored lower. The percentiles range from one to ninety-nine. A rank of 70 means a student did better than 70 percent of all youngsters taking the test. It does NOT mean the student had the right answers to 70 percent of the questions. It is important not to place too much emphasis on a small difference in percentile ranks; a few points may not mean any actual difference in aptitude or achievement.

A stanine is a more general measure. Stanine scores run from one to nine and each stanine includes many percentiles. A stanine of six, for example, includes all students who scored between the 60th and 77th percentiles. Differences of more than one stanine may mean real differences in achievement or aptitude.

A grade-equivalent score shows whether a child's performance is better or worse than that of other students in the same grade. It should NOT be used to tell what grade a child should be in or what level of work he or she should be given.

More Therapy Set For Amnesia Victim

PEMBROKE PINES, Fla. (AP) — Doctors at a mental hospital said Friday they are pleased with the progress made by amnesia victim "Jane Doe," but they added she will require more therapy while she gets reacquainted with the family she doesn't remember.

Jane Doe was positively identified Thursday as Cheryl Ann Tomczek, 34, in a reunion with the family she hadn't seen since leaving Roselle, Ill., seven years ago. She was found naked and near death in Birch State Park in Fort Lauderdale last September.

Although she showed no signs that she recognized her mother, father, sister or brother, a photo album supplied by her parents did spark recollections about some "little things" in her past, her mother said.

"She did like a couple of pictures I had," her mother, Irene Tomczek, said Friday on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America." One of Miss Tomczek's favorites was a photo showing her as a young girl "when she had a little cowboy hat on."

"I'm very happy," Mrs. Tomczek said. "I assured her how much we love her. We discussed many things about the dogs she used to have when she was a little girl."

Dr. Jessie Kay, a psychiatrist treating Cheryl at South Florida State Hospital who also appeared on the program, said he was "really very pleased" with the way she tolerated the stress of the reunion.

"The calmest person, at least externally, was Cheryl," he said. During the reunion Cheryl formed a small group in the room with her brother and sister and "started to relate to stories from early childhood," Kaye said. "She didn't give any indication that she remembered — but she related with her brother and sister with emotional warmth."

Kaye said doctors would continue treating Cheryl at the hospital, concentrating on showing her photos of her childhood and giving her more private, personal contact with her family.

Reagan Called Anti-Women

NEW YORK (AP) — The Reagan administration is anti-women, and anyone who sees light at the end of the tunnel "is probably looking in the wrong direction," says the winner of a prestigious women's communications award.

The remark by author Letty Cottin Pogrebin, one of six women receiving Matrix Awards from Women in Communications at a luncheon Wednesday, was echoed by magazine publisher Gloria Steinem.

Miss Steinem said the president is "hostile" to the women's movement and "it is too bad that Reagan isn't here to observe all the talented women who attended the luncheon."

Other winners were Judith Daniels, founder and editor of Savvy Magazine; former White House consultant Letitia Baldridge, who owns a public relations firm; advertising executive Jane Brown Maas of Well, Rich, Greene, Inc.; and Peggen Fitzgerald, co-host of "The Fitzgeralds" on WOR-Radio in New York.

Ginzburg Misses Seminar

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — This week's Soviet-American relations seminar at Bates College was missing one former Soviet Thursday — dissident Alexander Ginzburg.

Ginzburg, who was to have delivered a speech Thursday night, decided not to leave France after officials told him they wouldn't let him return, said Bates spokesman Rick Denison.

Someone stole Ginzburg's passport and other travel papers Wednesday in Paris, where he lives, Denison said.

The U.S. Government was willing to allow Ginzburg to enter, but the French government told him they would not let him return to France without the papers, Denison said.

Ginzburg was stripped of his Soviet citizenship in 1979. He was convicted of anti-Soviet activities in 1977 and served more than two years in prison and in exile at a labor camp.

Man Loses Legal Fees

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter Bartok, son of the late Hungarian composer Bela Bartok, has lost a court bid for $1.3 million in legal fees and expenses in connection with a 22-year legal battle over his father's estate.

"He has not demonstrated to the court why it should take an extraordinary step and award legal fees to a layman for services he claims to have performed as an attorney," said Surrogate Marie Lambert, in dismissing the son's claim on the estate.

The elder Bartok, who would have celebrated his 100th birthday Wednesday, died in Manhattan 35 years ago, and the royalties from his music have been accumulating ever since.

The litigation began when Peter Bartok charged that the estate was not being handled properly by executors named by his father in a 1943 will. Claiming he was unable to afford lawyers, he represented himself before the courts from 1963 to 1975, winning court orders declaring certain disputed manuscripts of his father to be the property of his mother's estate.

He contended that executors of that part of his father's estate he did not inherit were to blame for the drawn-out lawsuit and should pay for his legal services. However, the surrogate said his mother had a lawyer of her own to protect the estate and that Peter's services in his role of attorney duplicated those of the regular lawyer.

Jelly Beans Get Okay

CHICAGO (AP) — President Reagan won't harm his health by eating Jelly Belles, the small jelly beans kept around the White House as presidential snacks, as long as he eats all his dinner.

That's the conclusion of Philip L. White, director of the foods and nutrition department of the American Medical Association.

An article in the Journal of the American Medical Association noted that some nutritionists and dentists have voiced concern that Reagan's love of jelly beans may encourage improper eating habits.

But the Journal noted that Jelly Belles contain sugars and starches essential to a good diet. It said jelly beans are no more harmful than other sugar snacks as long as they don't crowd other important dietary essentials off the jelly bean-lover's diet.

Juror Dismissed To Fish

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A prospective juror in Tennessee's clemency-for-cash retrial asked a federal judge Thursday to be excused because he wanted to fish with his father under a full moon.

The unidentified man told U.S. District Judge James P. Churehill that he planned to go fishing in Florida with his father in April.

Churehill said the man's request was "ridiculous" and that he would not excuse the man from jury duty.

Miss Pring won the judgment Feb. 20. She claimed a Penthouse story about the

Carter To Visit Texas

JIMMY CARTER

LADY BIRD

Betty Tilson, an aide to Mrs. Johnson, said the former president "wants to see what U.S. Park Service has done" with the ranch.

The Carters are scheduled to arrive in Austin Wednesday afternoon and go immediately to LBJ Ranch, 85 miles west of Austin, where they will spend the night.

On Thursday, the Carters will visit the LBJ Library and the LBJ School of Public Affairs in Austin. They plan to leave Austin after lunch Thursday.

The LBJ Ranch is under the administration of the U.S. Park Service but Mrs. Johnson still spends part of her time there and often entertains at the ranch house. She also has an apartment in Austin.

Sinatra Lawyer Claims Libel

NEW YORK (AP) — If you call a lawyer a "mouthpiece," you could be damaging his reputation, a federal judge has ruled in a libel suit filed by Frank Sinatra's lawyer.

U.S. District Judge Morris E. Lasker refused to dismiss Milton "Mickey" Rudin's case against Barron's Weekly, ruling that the term mouthpiece is "often used to refer to an attorney for organized crime."

Rudin is suing Barron's publisher, Dow Jones & Co., for printing a letter of protest by him under the caption "Sinatra's Mouthpiece."

In court Thursday, Rudin cited Oxford's English Dictionary at a hearing to support his argument that the term "mouthpiece" is defamatory. Dow's lawyers responded by quoting from Webster's Third International, which defines a mouthpiece as a "spokesman."

Rudin claimed that slang interpretations of mouthpiece mean a criminal lawyer, an unscrupulous criminal lawyer or a lawyer in sympathy with the underworld.

"It could be reasonably found at trial that Dow used the phrase in precisely the same manner in which Dow concedes that it may be defamatory, by associating Rudin with a person whom the jury might find to be unpopular, namely Sinatra," Lasker said.

Rudin, a resident of Santa Monica, Calif., who has an office in Beverly Hills, wrote a letter to Barron's after it published an article on Nov. 27, 1978, which was critical of a group stock purchase by Sinatra, Rudin and others. The letter was published on Jan. 15, 1979.

From Hospital To Robbery

HARROGATE, Tenn. (AP) — Nine days after giving birth, Jeanann Robertson, wife of Tennessee state Rep. Mike Robertson, decided it was time to get out of the house. But she didn't count on quite so much excitement.

On a visit to a local drug store Thursday, Mrs. Robertson walked into an armed robbery.

Authorities said as soon as Mrs. Robertson walked into the store, one of three men armed with handguns grabbed her and shoved her into a room with several other customers and store clerks.

No one was hurt, and the robbers escaped with several hundred dollars in cash.

"It's been a rough couple of weeks," Robertson said Thursday night as his wife, 27, rested at their Cumberland Gap home. "But she's feeling pretty good now."

Mayor Declines Response

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Tom Bradley says he won't "respond to or dignify" a remark by ex-mayor Sam Yorty that black voters are "racist" because they vote for black candidates.

Yorty, who is challenging Bradley's bid for a third term, said Tuesday: "The black people are really racist. They vote for black people because they are black."

"I will not respond to anything that you associate with Sam Yorty," Bradley said Wednesday when asked about the comment during a news conference of AFL-CIO unions representing 800,000 workers that were endorsing him.

A Bradley aide, Bob Kholos, commented that Yorty used racial appeals so often in campaigns against Bradley in 1969 and 1973 that "they are no longer newsworthy."

Bradley, the city's first black mayor, lost in challenging incumbent Yorty, who is white, in 1969. He unseated Yorty in 1973.

LOS ANGELES — Best buddies Maureen Reagan, daughter of President Ronald Reagan, and Judy Carter, daughter of former President Jimmy Carter, enjoyed a mirthful moment recently at Maureen's Los Angeles home during a photo session. Pictures were being taken to illustrate an article Judy wrote about their friendship for the March issue of Redbook magazine. (Judy, who is married to Jimmy Carter's oldest son, Jack, is a contributing editor to Redbook.)

The two women got to know each other while campaigning for the Equal Rights Amendment. Judy recalled: "When my daughter Sarah was born, Maureen came all the way from California to Georgia to see her. She also let it slip to Sarah's big brother that she had once appeared in a very small part on 'The Incredible Hulk,' which was all she had to do to gain a permanent fan in our household."

What's up in TV?

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC News endured a reversal of sorts in preparing to cover the space shuttle launching at Cape Canaveral, Fla., when workmen set the network's anchor booth facing the wrong direction.

The steel frame for the two-story, movable platform was in place when the mixup was discovered Tuesday, an ABC News spokesman said. Two big cranes were summoned to twirl what was designed as the booth's open end toward the launch pad, the spokesman said.

ABC dismantled its anchor booth at Cape Canaveral after the end of the Apollo program in the early '70s, while CBS left its platform in place. NBC is building a new booth for the space shuttle launching, scheduled now for early April.

A liar's look at a Python

By Ann Ferrar

Don't believe a word of what follows. Graham Chapman, of Monty Python fame, has just published a book, "A Liar's Autobiography" (Methuen). Jolly tricky, that one.

Graham Chapman

Who cares, you inquire? A silly question to ask Master Chapman, a licensed medical doctor-turned-comedian (right-o) who's risen from the depths of alcoholism, played the central figure in a feature-film parody on the life of the Lord, publicly admitted his homosexuality, made fun of everyone and everything from Prince Charles to the "Star Spangled Banner" — and endeared himself to millions on both sides of the Atlantic in the process.

Well, endeared may not be quite the proper word, but it's close enough for a description of an admittedly chronic liar.

Chapman's book careers sharply from reality to fantasy, the latter of which is often just as revealing as the former. The essence of "A Liar's Autobiography" is summed up in two sentences, found in Chapter Nought: "Do you know, last time I was in Paris I really did ring up Jean-Paul Sartre and Simone de Beauvoir answered the phone... Or was that a sketch?"

Chapter Nought chronicles Chapman's struggle with the bottle, and is all the sadder for its humor. He goes on to trace his pre-Python days at Eton and Cambridge, where he joined the exclusive Footlights Club and met fellow-future-Python John Cleese. If you can manage to dissect fact from fiction, the rest is history.

Chapman's writing style is occasionally trying, especially in the ridiculous footnotes and pseudo-stream-of-consciousness passages, but on the whole he's delightfully chatty and full of Pythonesque Britishisms. In this respect the book is almost lyrical in its own right — and bloody entertaining as well.

Not to be read on a subway, doctor's office, bank line or other close-quartered public place where people will gape if you let slip an involuntary chuckle. But then, you're not supposed to believe a word of this.

Lecture Set On Astronomy At Wayland

PLAINVIEW (Special) — Dr. George O. Abell, one of the country's foremost astronomers, will be lecturing classes and the public on the Wayland Baptist College campus here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Abell, a professor of astronomy at UCLA, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in room 110 of the Moody Science Building. At 11 a.m. Wednesday, Abell will speak to the Wayland student body during regular chapel activities.

In addition, he will present lectures during several Earth science classes.

Tuesday's lecture will deal with cosmic catastrophes and the origins of the universe. Admission is free.

Abell's appearance on the Wayland campus is part of the American Astronomical Society's Shapley Visiting Professor Program.

A graduate of the California Institute of Technology, Abell, 54, has been a member of the astronomy department at UCLA since 1956, having served as department chairman from 1968-1975. He has been a visiting professor in the Shapley program since 1963.

Abell recently was featured on the Public Broadcasting System program, "Nova," for his work with galaxies. A lecturer at observatories all over the world, he has been a consultant to various space agencies including the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, the Douglas Aircraft Corp., and Space Technology Laboratories.

Electrical Blaze Causes Blackout

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Fire in underground electrical wires caused a blackout Friday in a four-block downtown section of New Bedford.

Initial reports of an explosion prove incorrect, but police cordoned off the area after the buildup of underground gases popped several manhole covers. There were no injuries.

The fire was reported at about 4 a.m., and the streets were reopened by 9 a.m.

Officials of Commonwealth Gas and Electric Co. were unable to pinpoint the cause of the power failure, which was in the same general vicinity as a 1977 underground blaze that caused explosions and an evacuation of the downtown business district.

Lamb County May Regulate Research

LITTLEFIELD (Special) — The Lamb County Commissioners Court will consider an order regulating seismograph research in the county when it meets here at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

The order will be placed in the court's minutes to instruct Geophysical Research that it must get the permission of property owners along roads in the county before it can insert the small explosive charges into the ground. County officials say some owners have complained that the research was continuing but without their permission.

At Tuesday's meeting, the commissioners also will discuss fees for use of county equipment, accept a letter of approval from the Texas Health Department for the county dumpground, hear a proposal from the West Texas Bluegrass Association and review a request from Tad Carlisle to do a survey for a new communications system in the county.

Local attorney Paul Yarbrough also will speak with the commissioners about a land development project near Littlefield.

Other business to be considered by the court includes review of the county's time deposits, payment of utility bills, appointment of representative to the State Library Association and review of advertisements for bids for auto liability, general liability and workman's compensation insurance.

Basque Soldier Dies In Spain Shootout

MADRID, Spain (AP) — A Basque soldier being investigated for suspected connections with ETA separatists, was killed in a shootout with paramilitary civil guards 35 miles north of Madrid on Friday, police said.
 A civil guard was hospitalized with severe chest wounds, they said.
 Military sources said Jesus Urbien Orbeago, 21, deserted his barracks Thursday at the start of an investigation prompted by suspicions he was linked to the radical branch of the Basque separatist organization ETA.

New Courthouse Windows May Save Energy

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock County Commissioners are hoping to cut down on their utility costs at the courthouse by installing insulated window units throughout the building.

The project, which is about one-third complete, is costing the county around $141,500. However, Commissioner Coy Biggs said the windows are expected to pay for themselves through savings on courthouse utility bills in less than 10 years.

County officials contracted with Lubbock Glass and Mirror Co. to install the new window units. All windows at the courthouse should be covered within about two months, according to company manager Delbert Sanders.

Sanders explained that the sealed units are composed of two pieces of glass with air space between them. A reflective coated glass is on the outside, he noted.

The insulated units reduce the amount of cold that can penetrate the window, Sanders said. In the winter, Sanders said the units would stop the cold from getting into the courthouse. And during the summer months, he said, the units should reduce the amount of air conditioning that escapes through the windows.

The new window units already have been installed over all windows on the first floor of the courthouse. Work is underway on the windows located on the second and third floors.

However, the cost effectiveness of the insulated window units has failed to impress some employees at the courthouse. Since the windows went up, there has been a lot of grumbling among the workers.

"They're all right on the days when the sun is shining," observed one employee. But on days when the sky is overcast, she said that the window's darker tint gives everything a "gloomy look."

Similar complaints were voiced by other workers employed by the county.

According to Sanders, some employees also have complained because the new units prevent the opening of windows at the courthouse when offices get too hot.

Courthouse officials frequently experience problems with heating and cooling the building, Biggs said. He noted that some areas of the courthouse may be sweltering when other areas are at the right temperature.

And one of the hottest spots on occasions is the commissioners courtroom on the first floor. "But we've always had that problem, even before the windows were installed," Biggs said.

Sanders said it will be more cost effective for county officials to keep all windows closed.

Biggs said he was at first opposed to installing the insulated window units. However, the commissioner said he is now "convinced" the windows will curtail costs on utilities.

Openings Into Bat Cave At Carlsbad To Close

CARLSBAD, N.M. (Special) — Two man-made openings which were drilled into the bat cave portion of Carlsbad Caverns in the early 1900s are being closed by the National Park Service for safety reasons and to restore natural environmental conditions in the area of the cavern used by the bats as a maternity roost.

Although the 170-foot-deep shaft openings have been fenced and signs have been put up warning of danger, Park Superintendent William Dunmire said the openings have posed a potential hazard to visitors who ignore the warnings and barriers.

Also, researchers studying factors affecting declines in the cavern's bat population have recommended the man-made openings be sealed to restore the natural air flow and temperature conditions in the bat roosting area where thousands of female Mexican free-tail bats give birth to their young each summer.

The man-made openings apparently were not the most important factor in the bats' decline because research has shown that pesticide residue, combined with the stress of drought and migration, is the principal cause of past bat die-offs, Dunmire said. However, researchers believe restoration of the natural conditions will produce a more favorable situation for the bats, he said.

The openings which are being closed were drilled into the cavern before it became a national park for the purpose of removing large deposits of bat guano. Six different companies mined the guano over a 20-year span, shipping most of it to California where it was used as fertilizer in newly established citrus groves.

Between 1906 and 1926, visitors entered the cavern through one of the two shafts, riding in a large bucket attached to a hoist powered by a gasoline engine. Park officials point out that the historical aspects of the shaft openings will still be shown and interpreted to visitors with signs and exhibits and possibly through a future reconstruction of the hoist frames over the holes that historically were covered with wooden platforms containing trap doors. The only difference is that now there will be a reinforced concrete plug below the platform rather than a 170-foot-deep hole.

Nuclear Waste Hearings Held

about it and 1 in 100 percent against it. Jack Hardin, longtime Hobbs resident, argued the nuclear material first was used for war purposes. "I'm 100 percent against it, the only ones for it are the war mongers, politicians and millionaires," he said.

Bob Gallagher, city fire and ambulance director here, questioned Neill on how close his organization would work with the city of Hobbs on the transportation of nuclear waste into this area. Neill said EGG "would watch the activities going on at WIPP like a hawk."

A chart shown to the group by Neill showed the amount of radioactivity at the proposed site at the time of closing to be 7,900,000 curies, which would diminish to 540,000 curies within 1,000 years. He defines curies as a measure of radioactivity.

Another chart shown by Neill indicates the amount of mrem radiation absorbed each year by population in the area. Natural background would be at 130 mrem; medical X-rays at 72; smoking from 2,000 to 8,000; fallout at two television at 04; and occupational, such as workers at the dump site and other atomic projects, at 210 mrem.

One person expressed concern about the possible loss of an estimated $44 million in minerals if the project site is developed. Neill said no mining of any kind would be allowed at the site. However, he added, there is a possibility minerals could be taken out by slant drilling.

Neill told the audience it would "be great" if nuclear products were like oil, where every drop is utilized in one form or another.

Several hearings on WIPP have been held here in the past and large numbers of local residents, businessmen and legislators have shown up to voice their support for the proposed project, which would create a large number of new jobs in Carlsbad and Hobbs.

The U.S. Virgin Islands — purchased from Denmark in 1917 — have flown seven flags in the course of their history.

Seamstresses Receive Awards For Creations

Top sewing awards were presented at the annual "South Plains Fibers-Naturally" sewing contest Thursday at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Contestants competed in garments of cotton, wool or mohair they had sewn within the past three months. Suits, dresses, jeans, pantsuits and sportswear were modeled in three age divisions of competition.

The event, which featured 68 contestants from the South Plains, was held in conjunction with Agricultural Awareness-Appreciation Week. Winners received cash awards at the Taste of Texas banquet Thursday night.

Adult division winners were Ruth Hargrave of Lubbock, first place; Candy Creel of Lubbock, second and Regina Henley of Childress, third. Teen division winners were Melissa Gholson of Pecos, first; Nancy Castator of Lubbock, second and Jamie Franks of Lubbock, third. Young teen winners were Gaye Preston of Wolforth, first; Sharla Blay of Brownfield, second and Shelly Sain of Muleshoe, third.

Entries were judged on fashion, fabric and pattern, design elements, accessories, overall appearance and clothing construction.

Judges were Kay Caddell, textile research associates at Texas Tech University, Vicki Chance, sewing instructor at Bernina Sewing Studio, Janey Eureski, model and instructor at Robert Spence School, Ann Evans, Family News reporter at the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, Carmen Morrow, associate dean of home economics at Texas Tech, Bobbie Pennington, manager of Rachael's Fabrics, Jim Stewart, farm director at KFYO radio, Johnny Wells, associate farm director at KRLB radio, and Laverne Young, Natural Fibers 1978 adult winner.

Becky Saunders, area clothing specialist of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Amarillo, was in charge of the contest. Assisting were Brenda Becknell, owner of the Robert Spence School, Melissa Gore, South Plains Maid of Cotton, Linda Pittman, Lubbock County Extension Agent, John Anderson, Food and Fiber Institute, Bob Etheredge, Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, the Agriculture Committee and Women's Divisions of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Drama Competition Winners Announced

Top winning plays in District 4A Zone 2 One-Act Play competition Thursday night were Southland High School's "Livin' De Life" and McAdoo High School's "The Death of the Hired Man."

Best Actor was David Farquhar of Southland and Best Actress was Becky Curry of McAdoo.

The All-Star cast consisted of Patton

Spring High School students Arando Mayo and Kathy Baxter, Gary Simpson of Motley County High School, McAdoo students Lance Harris and Lynn Gaskins and Dennis Becker, Cindy Courtney and Cynthia Wheeler, all of Southland.

Geneva Alvis directed "Livin' De Life" and Byron Shaw was director of "The Death of the Hired Man."

SPC Student Seeking Presidency Of Group

LEVELLAND (Special) — Three South Plains College students are eligible for competition at the national Office Education Association meeting in Corpus Christi May 2-5, and another student will run for a national OEA office.

The student seeking the national post is Debbie Atkinson of Spur, who was elected state reporter at the recent state conference in Waco. She is the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ray Atkinson of Spur and is a legal secretary major and a 1980 graduate of Spur High School. She won fourth place in secretary I competition at the state meet.

Students eligible for competition are Tresa Davis of Cone, who took first place in medical secretary; Jeri Bales of Littlefield, who won third in clerk typist II; and Angel Flores of Plains, who took third in extemporaneous impromptu verbal communications. The three were entrants at the Waco conference.

Approximately 1,500 participants from 15 states will be represented at the Corpus Christi meet. SPC members will serve as part of the Texas Courtesy Corps.

A South Plains secretarial science major, Miss Davis is the 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Davis of Cone and a 1979 graduate of Rails High School.

Miss Bales, 18, a medical secretary major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bales of Littlefield and a 1980 graduate of Andrews High School.

An office occupations major, Miss Flores is the daughter of Martin Flores of Plains and a 1980 graduate of Plains High School.

Entering open competition at the nationals will be Miss Atkinson; Melanie Marsh of Crosbyton, who took fourth place for the college's chapter activities of the year; and Deanna Moore of Dimmitt, who won fourth place in receptionist at state.

Miss Marsh, 19, a secretarial science major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayburn Marsh of Crosbyton and a 1980 graduate of Crosbyton High School. Miss Moore, 19, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moore of Dimmitt and a 1980 graduate of Dimmitt High School.

Since 1969, the South Plains OEA chapter teams have won state sweepstakes once, chapter of the year four times and been in the top three spots in some phase of competition every year.

The first commercial shipment of American coal was recorded in 1758. It was 32 tons from Virginia to New York.

NEW RELEASES

THE FINAL CONFLICT (R) — Sam Neill, Rossano Brazzi, Lisa Harrow. (Melodrama) This is the third — and, let's hope, last — chapter in the saga of Damien, begun in "The Omen." Now he is mature and ready to fulfill his evil mission, to destroy the newborn Messiah. This sequel pontificates and preaches; and where it intends to be frightening, it is laughable. The whole thing must be the work of the devil. GRADE: D

GENERAL RELEASE

CHARLIE CHAN AND THE CURSE OF THE DRAGON QUEEN (PG) — Peter Ustinov, Lee Grant, Angie Dickinson (Comedy mystery) Ancient proverb: He who forgets script is caught with plots down. The idea to bring back the old Oriental sleuth was a good one, and Ustinov is a dandy Chan. But they simply forgot a decent story line. The result? This is a pretty bland Chan. GRADE: C

EYEWITNESS (R) — William Hurt, Sigourney Weaver, Christopher Plummer. (Mystery) The team that brought you "Breaking Away" switches gears in this story of a New York janitor who witnessed a murder — at least everybody thinks he witnessed the murder. It takes a bit too long to get going and there are a few too many loose threads and red herrings, but this has some fine moments, good lines and interesting people in it. GRADE: B

DOGS OF WAR, THE (R) — Christopher Walken, Colin Blakely. (Action adventure) A first-rate version of Frederick Forsyth's thriller about the mercenaries who try to take over a corrupt Idi Amin-like African country. Great action sequences and some fine touches of the bizarre, but it's all marred by the fact that Walken, a fine actor, is much too young to play the supposedly veteran mercenary who commands the operation. GRADE: B

FORT APACHE, THE BRONX (R) — Paul Newman, Ken Wahl, Edward Asner. (Police Drama) This is certainly one of the finest about New York's finest, or any police force for that matter based on truth, it is a look at the workings of the police in a Bronx precinct so wild it's nicknamed Fort Apache. And one cop — Newman — is faced with a terrible decision. This is first-rate filmmaking all the way. GRADE: A

LAST METRO, THE (PG) — Catherine Deneuve, Heinz Bennent. (Drama) Paris. World War II. The Nazis occupy the city and we watch as a theater tries to stay open. The theater's guiding spirit, a Jew, is hidden by his wife, the company's star, in the basement. And the show must go on. A promising plot, but director and co-writer Francois Truffaut lets it fall apart totally, with a preposterous love affair contributing mightily to the downfall. GRADE: C

RAGING BULL (R) — Robert DeNiro. (Drama) This is a film by Martin Scorsese that depicts the rise and fall of prize fighter Jake LaMotta. It is powerful, but always very self-conscious of its artistry; you never for a moment forget you are watching a movie (and a performance by DeNiro) that is designed to be arty. Thus, it loses its punch. It is bloody and raucous, but never for a moment real. GRADE: B

SPHINX (PG) — Lesley-Anne Down, Frank Langella. (Drama) In her search for the well-concealed tomb of an ancient pharaoh, a beautiful young Egyptologist (Down) runs afoul of black marketeers dealing in antiquities, and falls in love with a mysterious Egyptian official (Langella) who may not be what he seems. The narrative line is undecipherable and cliché-ridden, and the love story is strictly no-sparks. Though filmed on location in Egypt, it's all pretty forgettable. GRADE: C-minus

Journalist's Spy Charges To Be Probed

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said Friday she has ordered a security probe into where journalist Chapman Pincher got the information for his treachery charges against Britain's secret services.

Government sources said that evidence will be collected with a view to possible prosecution of Pincher and his informants under the Official Secrets Acts.

Pincher, a defense specialist who will be 67 Sunday, alleged in his new book "Their Trade is Treachery" that the late Sir Roger Hollis, head of the MI-5 counter-intelligence agency in 1966-65, may have been a Soviet agent. Extracts from the book appeared in the Daily Mail.

Pincher said after Mrs. Thatcher's statement that he will not name his informants and that any investigation of him will be "very ill-advised."

He added: "I am not worried about it at all. I have taken the greatest precaution to make sure that there is nothing in this book which could prejudice current or future security operations."

Mrs. Thatcher in a House of Commons statement Thursday denied Pincher's allegation that "there was a strong prima facie case that MI-5 had been deeply penetrated over many years" and that Hollis had been named "as the likeliest suspect."

In what was seen as a bid to reassure Britain's allies following Pincher's sensational claims, she added there is no evidence of any current deep Soviet penetration of Britain's security services, plagued by major defections and scandals since World War II.

Former Labor Prime Minister Sir Harold Wilson, who ordered an inquiry on Hollis in 1974, the year after the MI-5 chief died, said Friday it was impossible to be sure Hollis had not been a Soviet spy.

The 1974 inquiry was conducted by Lord Trend, a former Cabinet secretary. Wilson said Trend's unpublished report found no conclusive evidence that Hollis was a spy, while making clear that "it was impossible to be 100 percent sure."

Mrs. Thatcher has now ordered two intelligence service inquiries — the Chapman probe and a top-level Security Commission investigation into the security services that she announced Thursday in her Commons statement.

Pincher's allegations against Hollis and other figures attracted attention around the world.

In Canada, the Progressive Conservatives suggested that Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau helped the British cover up information alleging Hollis was a Soviet spy.

Allan Lawrence, former Solicitor General in the Conservative government of Joe Clark, suggested Trudeau was briefed by Wilson in 1974 about Hollis. Trudeau said he could not recall such a briefing, but Solicitor-General Robert Kaplan confirmed Thursday that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Security Service was warned in the mid-1970s that Hollis may have been a Soviet agent.

Besides Hollis, Pincher also named: •The late Tom Driberg, a legislator, member of the national executive of the Labor party for 23 years and party chairman in 1957-58.

Pincher said Driberg, an admitted homosexual who became Lord Bradwell after being granted a peerage by Wilson, was a double agent working for the Soviet KGB and MI-5. Pincher said Driberg had no access to state secrets but betrayed potential blackmail material to his intelligence masters on the sexual tastes and liaisons of political colleagues and friends.

•Charles Howard Ellis, Britain's No. 3 intelligence officer at the end of World War II, who died in 1975.

Pincher said that Ellis worked for both the Soviet Union and Nazi Germany. Ellis was best known for war-time service as second in command to Sir William Stephenson, who headed joint British-U.S. intelligence in New York during the war.

Stephenson, 85, who lives in Hamilton, Bermuda, Thursday denied Pincher's allegation against Ellis, saying "this is an absolutely false charge."

Government sources said the Chapman probe probably will be carried out by MI-5 itself.

Britain has no constitutional guarantee of press freedom and the sweeping powers of the Official Secrets Acts enable the government to classify almost all its affairs as an official secret if it wishes. Conviction can lead to long jail terms.

The Security Commission will cover "all those with access to classified information" and those who could be vulnerable to blackmail by Soviet agents because of "character defects."

Several of the men named over the years in Britain's long-running security scandals are or were homosexuals.

The Security Commission probe will be headed by 73-year-old Lord Diplock, a senior judge. He will chair a three-man panel chosen from among the seven members of the commission. The commission was set up in January 1964 after a sex and security scandal involving War Minister John Profumo.

Programs To Aid Deaf Students

BIG SPRING (Special) — The Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf of the Howard County Junior College District has received approval to begin six vocational-technical programs for deaf students.

The programs are general business, dental hygiene, drafting and design technology, electrical-electronics technology, auto body repair and automotive technology.

The programs will be taught self-contained at the SWCID campus, except for the auto body and automotive technology courses to be housed temporarily at Howard College facilities. For the spring 1981 semester, 50 students are enrolled in one of the technologies, with 17 students in designated technology majors, said Fred Roy, college programs development specialist at SWCID.

In addition, the institute has started a self-contained freshman level course of study in general business. The two courses offered this semester include introduction to business and business math. These two courses have a combined enrollment of 25 students.

The six programs were approved Jan. 9 in Austin by the Texas Education Agency's post-secondary education program review committee.

INMATE TAXATION

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Maryland prison inmates, including those on death row, would have to pay $29 a day for their incarceration under a bill pending in the state Legislature. The Senate gave preliminary approval Thursday to the bill.

Stolen Oilfield Property Found

A-J Correspondent
LOVINGTON — Stolen oilfield property valued at some $10,000 has been recovered, according to Lea County Sheriff Ralph Wrinkle.

Wrinkle said Paul Mallory, chief criminal investigator for the sheriff's department, traveled to Seminole, where he interviewed a 24-year-old man being held in the Gaines County Jail on a rape charge involving a Hobbs woman.

Wrinkle said the suspect told him and Mallory that while working for someone else, the suspect sold 10 wrist pins in Denver City for $200.

The sheriff added that when he and Mallory called on the man who had been described as the purchaser, he "was delighted" to return the stolen items.

The purchaser then loaded the items into his truck and brought them to Lovington, Wrinkle said.

Mallory said there may be no charges filed against the man being held in Seminole in connection with the theft of the oilfield property because of the more serious charges facing him.

Two of the wrist pins have been identified by Truman Auld of Mobil Oil Co. as having been stolen from an oilfield pumping unit on State Road 529 last August. Their value was placed at $1,800.

Other items, according to Mallory, appear to have been taken from units stored at a Phillips plant near Buckeye in March of last year. They were valued at from $754 to $1,078 each.

Severe Wildfire Season Expected By Agencies

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (Special) — Federal and state land management agencies in Arizona and New Mexico are anticipating a severe wildfire season that will have to be handled with reduced manpower, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture Forest Service.

The moisture content in forest and range fuels is far below normal, said Jim Hickman, director of aviation and fire management for the service's Southwestern Region.

The spring rain and snow showers we've been receiving so far are too little and too late," he said. Drought conditions vary from moderate in most of the region to severe in the north-central

Nearly all communities where Neighborhood Watchers have been organized to keep an eye on possible wrongdoers have reported a decrease in crime mountains of New Mexico. Hickman said visitors to the public lands are being urged to use extreme care with all fire. He added that moderate fire danger conditions can be pushed into the extreme range by a few hours of wind.

However, federal budget reductions will mean fewer firefighters, he said. "Part of this can be overcome by greater cooperation among land management agencies, but we also must ask the public to help by being more careful," he said.

Since Jan. 1, Arizona national forests have reported 39 fires with 37 known caused by man. New Mexico has reported nine fires, all believed man-caused.

Cooperating agencies include the forestry departments of both states, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Bureau of Land Management, the National Park Service and the USDA Forest Service.

ROSE SPECIAL OF THE WEEK:

MIRANDY. This vigorous plant grows to medium height and has huge, dark red blooms with rich full fragrance. This AARS winner regularly sells for $6.25 and is now available at our special price of ...$4.95

Hello, I'm Country Gardner. I'm here to introduce you to our new look at Country Gardens (formerly Kershner Nursery), as well as give you timely garden and landscape tips especially for the Lubbock area.

My landscape tip this week is for you to plant your balled and burlap trees as soon as possible. Because these trees can be transplanted with a minimum of shock during the cooler months, now is the ideal time. You can also begin to get the roots established so that your trees will be better able to stand the heat of summer. Be sure to use ferti-lome root stimulator as an extra boost for healthy root growth. We are currently featuring live oak, red oak, pinyons, and yaupons. We have extra large specimens of these as well as our own home-grown trees.

Take advantage of our special on Redbud trees this week! These trees were home-grown in our own fields, carefully tended and expertly dug. They bloom in early spring and have beautiful purplish-pink blooms. Prices start at ...$27.50

Underpass Groundbreaking Ceremony Set

By SHIRLEY ANDERSON
A-J Correspondent

CHILDRRESS — U.S. Rep. Jack High-tower and Fort Worth and Denver Railroad President Alfred E. Michon will be among dignitaries attending groundbreaking ceremonies here today for a railroad underpass, which has been in the planning stages for eight years.

The ceremony is scheduled for 4:30 p.m. today on the south side of Armstrong Park in the downtown area. After the ceremony, a reception the visiting officials is scheduled from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the First Federal Savings and Loan here. A dinner at Smith's Chaparral Restaurant will complete the day's activities.

The underpass is to be built in the area of Main and Commerce streets downtown and will connect the north and south sides of the city. The lighted structure will include lanes for two-way traffic and pedestrian space. In addition to providing a safe crossing for traffic, the underpass also should solve problems now faced by emergency vehicles attempting to answer calls to the south side of town.

The underpass is expected to be in use by mid-summer.

When work on the underpass begins, it will be the climax of more than eight years of work by city officials to make the project a reality.

Calling the event a "red-letter day" for Childress, Mayor Walter Lockhoff credited the participation of Fort Worth and Denver officials as a key factor in the success of the project.

"The type of grant awarded Childress to construct the underpass required fund-matching," Lockhoff said. "Local funding for community expansion had to be pledged on a ratio of $5 locally for every grant dollar received."

"Fort Worth and Denver met that requirement with a million-dollar-plus expansion in their Childress engine repair shops," he said.

Besides helping to make the underpass a reality, he added, the railroad created more than 100 jobs with the shop expansion.

Lockhoff said the need for an underpass within the city limits has become critical in recent years with the increasing number of coal trains stopping daily for crew changes. Each train blocks all crossings for an average of 15 minutes.

Within two years, the mayor estimated, an average of one coal train every 40 minutes will stop here.

The project in its original form required a conventional concrete underpass, costing between $1.5 million and $2 million. But funding attempts for the concrete underpass failed, Lockhoff said.

Last summer, however, Fort Worth and Denver officials presented to the City Council plans for a new type of underpass now use in several states.

The new plan calls for construction of an underpass much like a giant steel culvert. Construction is rapid and cost is much less than a concrete structure, the mayor said.

The first and only application for federal funding for the new type of underpass went to federal officials early last fall and was approved before the end of the year. The funding amounted to more than $360,000.

SILVER SPUR AWARD — The Texas Division of the American Cancer Society has received the Silver Spur Award for 1980 from the Texas Public Relations Association (TPRA). Cotton-Dust Proposals Get Positive Response

By KATHLEEN HARRIS
Avalanche-Journal Farm Writer
Spokesmen for High Plains cotton producers and agribusinessmen Friday hailed the Reagan administration's attempt to relax federal cotton-dust standards in textile mills.

Such an action, if successful, could help to assure a stronger market for the millions of bales produced annually on the High Plains, they said.

With 95 percent of the costs of the proposed standards expected to fall on textile mills, area cotton industry officials fear many of the factories would switch to synthetic fibers instead of spending millions of dollars to develop technology and equipment to filter the air.

"The rules don't apply to dust produced from any other materials," noted Farmers Cooperative Compress manager Rex McKinney. "The cheapest way to comply is not to use cotton."

"If the mills can win the case, we can keep the markets that we've worked to establish over the years," McKinney said.

Other phases of the cotton industry, such as gins, warehouses and classing offices, have been successful in efforts to make the standards inapplicable to their operations. But the easing of regulations at the processing level will be to no avail, sources said, if there is no market for cotton.

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. executive vice president Don Johnson said Reagan's action, if successful, could be a "major victory" by enabling textile mills to more easily use cotton in their operations.

"The unreasonable cotton dust standards could have serious effects on cotton if the regulations are imposed," Johnson said. "The action could be a very positive step for the industry."

The new standards, written by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, are to take full effect next year unless blocked or changed.

U.S. Department of Agriculture analysts said the administration's decision to relax the cotton-dust standards is expected to result in increased future domestic cotton consumption.

The effort probably will have the greatest impact on many of the smaller firms, which would have been forced out of business, the USDA analysts said.

Many of the bigger textile mills already have modernized their facilities to comply, at least partially, with the standards proposed four years ago by the Carter administration, they said.

The USDA analysts said there will be a "positive factor" in domestic cotton consumption resulting from the changes.

"Relaxation of the rules may improve mill use of cotton from the current levels (5.9 million bales this crop year and 6.5 million bales last season)," they said.

"But we would have to know the precise new standards before estimating the specific impact," they said.

While labor unions long have favored the strict cotton-dust rules, the textile industry and farm and allied groups have opposed the regulations.

probably will receive considerable opposition from persons who believe in weather modification and see the county wide procedure as a guarantee of no more hail suppression.

The bill is awaiting a hearing before the Senate Natural Resources Committee.

Sarpalius also has introduced three other bills dealing with the powers of county government.

Senate Bill 936 would allow counties to own and operate a street transportation system. Miss Bailey said the bill is designed to help disabled persons in outlying areas get around. An interim Senate committee and the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation have recommended such a measure, she said.

Hail Suppression Vote Sought

A-J Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Hail suppression efforts would have to receive countywide approval under legislation proposed by Sen. Bill Sarpalius, D-Herford.

Under current law, a permit for weather modification may set "target area" boundaries not necessarily along county lines. Only voters residing within the target area are eligible to vote on whether to grant a permit.

Sarpalius' Senate Bill 875 would change this procedure to a county-by-county basis.

An aide to Sarpalius, Karen Bailey, said some county commissioners have requested a return to the proposed procedure after complaints by constituents that their land is affected by modification for which they had no vote.

Miss Bailey acknowledged the bill

Positive Self-Image Taught Lubbock Elementary Students

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

While adults are pulling their own strings, looking out for number one, getting rolled and trained in est, the young folk too are experiencing the search for a positive self-image.

Indeed, the philosophy of positive thinking is being utilized in three elementary schools here through a pilot program known as Aware.

But the Aware teaching therapy does not appear to be just another in a long line of Me-Decade therapy fads. The ongoing program not only promotes the attainment of a healthy self-image among youngsters, but also of respect and regard for other people and their differences.

Counselors and teachers at all elementary levels except the first grade are combining specific games and exercises with a general attitude and teaching style to instruct students at Hardwick, Bozeman and Parkway elementary schools in positive thinking.

What the teachers and students ultimately stand to gain by practicing the Aware philosophy in school, the project's promoters explain, is better student performance. "If you have a good self-concept, you will do well in school," said Hardwick third grade teacher Sue Thomas.

And teachers and counselors involved testify the program has succeeded over a period of time in making youngsters feel better about themselves and others and in making students more sensitive to the differences in other people. It even has lightened the load of discipline problems, they report.

Eva Samples, elementary social studies consultant for the Lubbock public schools, explained that the multiple aims of the two-year-old program include improvement of students' ability to solve social problems "without getting into fights and negativism. We stress positiveness."

The first step in the process of molding students' attitudes takes place on the first day of school, Mrs. Samples said. Students get acquainted with one another.

One of the strategies for getting to know classmates is the Aware Circle. The students' and teacher's names are put into a box and each person must then pick a name and say something positive, or at least neutral about the person they've chosen. Even a remark like, "She has blue eyes" qualifies, as long as no negative comments are thrown out.

Another popular game, said Mrs. Thomas, is the Car Wash. A child who needs an ego boost or perhaps is celebrating a special day such as a birthday is seated in front of the class. Each classmate then must pass by and say something complimentary about the student in the place of honor.

"In five minutes a child who has had such a bad day is just beaming," Mrs. Thomas said. Her students "beg" to play the game, she added. She admitted that students are reluctant at first or embarrassed and may not be particularly sincere about their comments. "But with practice and with thinking, they get over that," Mrs. Thomas said. "Eventually they begin to mean it."

"If they start out thinking positive, they'll say something positive," Mrs. Samples added.

Sometimes students and teachers play a game where they take turns telling the class something personal about themselves. The exercise is strictly voluntary, however, and students are not pushed to open up. Teachers say the game has made students aware that their instructors are human too.

"It's important to introduce ourselves. It's important we share something personal with them," said another Hardwick third grade teacher, Jimmy Day.

And when the students are aware teachers have problems too, they understand and accept their elders more. Mrs. Thomas reported, "If you make mistakes or you're not feeling well, if you stop and tell them, they accept and understand it."

Aware aids youngsters in understanding their own and others' feelings too, participants said. "We let them understand it's all right to be angry," Mrs. Samples explained. "We all feel sad or frustrated sometimes. But we help them to deal with things in a positive kind of way. We give them constructive ways to cope with anger."

Thus the Aware teachers practice "positive discipline." They claim it works.

"A lot of people act up because they feel bad about themselves," said Georgia Smith, Hardwick counselor. So in dealing with a behavior problem, "We let them (students) know it's the behavior that's bad, not the person," Mrs. Samples said.

Frenship Students To Compete In Choir Festival

WOLFFORTH (Special) — The Frenship High School Chorus will compete against 90 or more groups during the 1981 Six Flags Over Texas Open Choral Festival.

The chorus, under the direction of Winifred Bailey, will face similar groups from across the state and elsewhere in the competition.

The Open Choral competition will be held April 30, May 1 and 2 at the McFarlin Auditorium, Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

Sponsored by Six Flags Over Texas in Arlington, the Festival includes four musical competition areas: Marching Band; Open and Invitational Band; Invitational Orchestra and Choral Festival. More than 200 groups are expected to compete in the five festivals.

Top groups in the Festival will be selected by such nationally known judges as Frank Pierson, University of Iowa; Howard Nicari, Vanderbilt University; and Dr. R. Lynn Whitten, University of Colorado.

Mental Games May Help Sick Children

By the Editors of Psychology Today

This is a game called "Mother." Let's imagine she's standing right in front of you. In your mind, give her a hat... All right, now have her riding in a car... Have her riding in a spaceship to the moon...

According to a new study, chronically ill children can reduce their anxieties by playing fantasy games like that with their mothers. Such games seem to have a beneficial effect on healthy children, too.

As part of a study on how children cope with stress, Melissa Ramirez Johnson, a psychologist at the University of North Carolina School of Medicine, sought to explore the anxiety that accompanies such chronic diseases as cystic fibrosis, hemophilia and spina bifida. She recruited 26 children with those diseases, and, for comparison's sake, 26 healthy children. All were between the ages of 5 and 9.

For eight 15-minute sessions at home during a two-week test period, half the children in each group and their mothers played fantasy games like "Mother," all taken from a collection called "Put Your Mother on the Ceiling." The other half played with their mothers using blocks or games of skill and chance.

At the beginning of the test period and again at the end, Johnson measured the children's anxiety levels using a standard questionnaire that asked them to think about the "last few days" and to say yes or no to whether they had experienced such things as "my hands are sweaty," "I cry a lot," and "my heart beats fast."

The chronically ill children had been more anxious than the healthy children at the beginning of the study, but by the end, the ones who played fantasy games were as low in anxiety as the healthy children who played the games. The ill children who fantasized were significantly lower in anxiety than the sick children who played the other games, whose scores did not change at all. And the healthy children who played the fantasy games showed a similar, though less marked, pattern of greater stress reduction when they played the fantasy games.

If the boss's office door is open, the boss is likely to be a woman. In fact, a survey of 68 male and 102 female managers in manufacturing, retailing, banking, insurance, and university administration in the northeastern United States shows that women are more likely than men to encourage interruptions by their staffs and to encourage staffers to call them at home during evenings and weekends. They are less likely to have their secretaries screen out staff requests to see them.

Judged by such criteria, the female managers in the study were twice as accessible to their staffs as the men were, according to the study's director, Natasha Josefowitz, a professor of management at San Diego State University.

Josefowitz collected her data from 50 organizations by having students at the University of New Hampshire (where she used to teach) shadow one male and one female manager each for two or three days, noting the manager's behavior on a standard checklist. Many of the men considered themselves accessible but were not perceived as such by their subordinates, a problem few of the women had. Yet many of the female executives complained of being continuously interrupted while they were trying to work. Few of the men made similar complaints.

Josefowitz speculates that female executives may be more open than men because, as a distinct minority in the corporate world, they are less secure than men and therefore more anxious to please. Another possibility is that they feel unable to say no to subordinates because they fear being seen as rejecting.

Male managers, on the other hand, may be less accessible and caring because they are afraid that if they show concern, male colleagues will think they are not "tough minded."

Imbalance in either direction, Josefowitz says, is likely to make managers less effective than they might be.

Legislation May Require Disclosure Statements

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — State Rep. Nolan "Buzz" Robnett, R-Lubbock, has introduced legislation to require persons operating a retirement village or other facilities providing care for the elderly to disclose information about its corporate structure, financial status and other information.

House Bill 1012 would require an operator of such a facility to file a disclosure statement with the Texas Department of Health before offering to sell or selling a life-interest or long-term lease in the facility.

In Lubbock Friday, Robnett said the bill was prompted "by some who lived in nursing homes who came to me with some concern that they had been unable to find out the financial standings of the homes."

"I'm not at all inclined to regulate most industries," Robnett said, "but I think disclosure of their financial condition is reasonable for the peace of mind of people who live there."

Information required would include the name and address of the facility and of any affiliated parent or subsidiary corporation or partnership; information concerning incorporation; a statement of whether the facility of an affiliate, parent or subsidiary is a religious, non-profit or proprietary organization; information concerning the identity and experience of persons affiliated with the facility; financial information of the facility and any parent or subsidiary; a feasibility study; and other information.

The bill has been referred to the House Committee on Human Services.

SHIP SEIZED

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland (AP) — The Greenpeace conservationist ship Rainbow Warrior, seized by Canadian fisheries officers off Labrador early Wednesday, was escorted into St. John's on Friday by the Canadian research ship Baffin. Officers seized the Rainbow Warrior after two Greenpeace members from the ship attempted to use paint to mar the fur of seal pups and thereby save the animals from hunters seeking the valuable pelts. The two were arrested.

Lubbock Physicians To Be Honored During 'Doctors' Day'

Physicians throughout the city will be honored Monday in observance of National Doctors' Day, commemorating the occasion when Dr. Crawford W. Long first used ether as an anesthetic agent in a surgical technique.

Lubbock General Hospital's professional staff will be treated to a breakfast

Plainview To Honor Handicapped

A-J Correspondent
PLAINVIEW — The handicapped will be recognized here with "Handicap Focus Week" beginning Sunday and continuing through April 4.

Sponsored by the Handicap Association of Plainview, the week will be highlighted April 4 with a speech by State Rep. Pete Laney and entertainment from 10 a.m. to noon at the north side of the courthouse.

The entertainment will include the Wayland Band and the Plainview High School Pop Singers.

To commemorate the International Year for Disabled Persons, there will be a "Wheel-A-Thon" on a downtown street. The event will include 10 teams of three people each in a relay in which one member will be blindfolded and required to carry a package to the next team member who would be on crutches. The third member would be in a wheelchair.

Participants will be timed to determine the winners and to illustrate the difficulty handicapped persons sometimes face, said Adam Cuevas, member of the sponsoring group.

Participants will include city and county officials, officials from the school district, Wayland Baptist College, local service clubs and the Boy Scouts.

Part-Time Irish Soldier Killed

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Two young gunmen shot and killed a part-time soldier of the Protestant Ulster Defense Regiment here Friday, police said. He was the third UDR man killed in this British province this year.

John David Smith of Belfast, a 25-year-old bachelor who joined the UDR in 1978, was off duty when the gunmen shot him in the head as he walked out of a store, a police spokesman said.

Suspicion immediately fell on the mainly Roman Catholic Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army, which has been fighting for nearly 12 years to drive the British from mostly Protestant Northern Ireland and unite the province with the mostly Catholic Irish Republic.

buffet in the hospital cafeteria and West Texas Hospital will sponsor a luncheon for physicians and spouses at the Lubbock Club.

St. Mary of the Plains Hospital is planning a coffee from 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. so doctors there can eat breakfast and visit with hospital officials.

Red carnations, which have been named the official flowers for the observance, either will be pinned on as boutonnieres or placed at various hospital stations at most of the Lubbock facilities.

National Doctors' Day has been observed annually since 1933 to commemorate Long's discovery and to recognize the professional service America's physicians give to their communities.

In "A History of Medicine," Long is credited with performing a memorable operation using ether for the first time in a surgical procedure.

Long originally began considering using an anesthetic during surgery after attending a public demonstration on the effects of nitrous oxide. His only knowledge of the colorless gas at that time was its use during "ether frolics" he attended while a medical student at in Pennsylvania.

Long noted that although his companions in the "frolics" were interested in the exhilarative results from inhaling the gas, he found bruises on his body after the parties — from injuries he could not recall sustaining.

This result prompted him to ask a patient to inhale ether before the physician removed a small tumor on the patient's neck. Prior to the surgery, on March 30, 1842, Long soaked a towel in ether and rendered his patient unconscious after holding the towel to his face.

Long continued use of ether in minor operations, hoping to later use it in a major procedure.

But, according to his first medical student, "Owing to the prejudice and ignorance of the populace, Dr. Long was prevented from using ether in as many cases as he might have."

Floydada Doctor, Wife Receive Certificates Of U.S. Citizenship

By MARIE HARRIS
A-J Correspondent

FLOYDADA — For two naturalized citizens, Floydada is the place to call home in the United States.

Dr. Seung Kook Hong and his wife, Eunice, are native Koreans. But Feb. 5, they became Americans when they received their certificates of citizenship.

A surgeon, Dr. Hong began practicing in Floydada near the Caprock Hospital in July 1979. Two months later, the couple applied for citizenship and more months of studying American history and government began.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Hong grew up in Seoul, Korea, and Mrs. Hong graduated from Ewha University, the largest women's university in the world. She received a degree in elementary education and taught school for a year in Korea. She received computer programming training in Los Angeles, Calif., in 1969-70 and then went back to Korea to marry Dr. Hong March 6, 1971.

The young doctor attended medical school in Korea and served his internship and residency in general surgery at Severance Hospital, founded in 1896 by an American missionary.

He joined the Korea Army as a medical officer, serving 40 months, including a year in the medical corps during the Vietnam War.

The couple and their oldest daughter, 9-year-old Susanna, came to the United State in July 1974. They lived in New York City for five years where he had general surgery training at Jamaica Hospital.

The Caprock Hospital staff sponsored a celebration for the new citizens when they returned to Floydada, with guests being served a cake decorated like an American flag. Dr. Hong received a western hat and Mrs. Hong was presented a western blouse from the staff.

Each family member has an English name, taken from the Bible. Dr. Hong's name is Samuel, which most West Texas friends find much easier to pronounce than Seung. In New York Dr. Hong used just his initials, S.K., and he explained to one person the initials stood for "South Korean, of course."

The Hong family, which includes 5-year-old Esther, now are all citizens of the United States. Susanna, who was born in Korea, automatically became a citizen when her parents did, but Esther was the first U.S. citizen of the four when she was born in New York City.

The Hong's are members of the First United Methodist Church and he is a member of the Red Cross. He plays tennis and racquet ball for recreation and likes to hunt and fish. The girls are taking violin lessons and like to take a break from practice with a swim at the Plainview YMCA pool. Mrs. Hong plays piano and Esther is taking lessons on that instrument as well.

The Hong's are adapting to life on the South Plains and intend to be "real West Texans."

Briscoe County Drilling Begins

A-J Correspondent

SILVERTON — Oil exploration has begun in Briscoe County with the drilling of a wildcat well on the Clyde and Jim Saul Ranch southeast of here.

Drilling is scheduled to go to 6,000 feet on this project, which was reported to be below 4,500 feet this week. Several other locations also are scheduled for drilling in the coming months.

The 50-star flag of the United States was raised officially for the first time at 12:01 a.m. on July 4, 1960.

Court Says Custody Ruling Discriminated

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Alabama Supreme Court ruled Friday that legal presumptions favoring women in child custody suits are unconstitutional because they discriminate against men.

The ruling strikes down a long-held standard in Alabama law that "all things being equal, the mother is presumed to be best fitted to guide and care for children of tender years."

The court declared that this "tender years presumption" represents an "unconstitutional gender-based classification which discriminates between fathers and mothers in child custody proceedings solely on the basis of sex."

In an opinion written by Associate Justice Hugh Maddox, the court said, "By requiring fathers to carry the difficult burden of affirmatively proving the unfitness of the mother, the presumption may have the effect of depriving some loving fathers of the custody of their children, while enabling some alienated mothers to arbitrarily obtain temporary custody."

The court's ruling reverses a lower court's decision granting a Calhoun County woman, Alice Beth Clark Devine, the custody of her two sons, 8-year-old Patrick and 5-year-old Timothy.

A circuit court in Calhoun County awarded Mrs. Devine custody of the children in 1979 even though it acknowledged that either Mrs. Devine or her estranged husband, Christopher P. Devine, would be "a fit and proper person" to be vested with the children's care.

The Alabama Court of Civil Appeals upheld that ruling. But Friday's 7-1 decision by the Alabama Supreme Court sets it aside and orders the appeals court to reconsider its ruling.

LAUNCH HIJACKED

ZAMBOANGA CITY, Philippines (AP) — Heavily armed Moslem separatists hijacked a motor launch in the southern Philippines, stripped its passengers of cash and valuables worth $26,700 and escaped, the military said Friday.

One crewman was beaten in the Wednesday attack near the Tawi-Tawi island group close to the Malaysian state of Sabah.

Computer Estimates Chance Of Death

ATLANTA (AP) — It won't replace the family doctor, but a computer program that estimates an individual's chance of dying within the next 10 years may prompt Americans to live healthier lives, the national Centers for Disease Control said Friday.

In its Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report, the CDC said about 31,000 people participated in a series of health fairs across the nation last year where they filled out questionnaires about their health habits and vices.

Computer analysis of the answers told them their probability of dying within the next 10 years.

Although the scientific reliability of the questionnaires has not been tested, indications are many deaths could be prevented in the next 10 years if the participants altered their life-styles, the report said.

"What we've got here is one of the promising new health education instruments that has come along the pike, and we're trying to make it available and to sharpen its scientific credibility," said Horace Ogden, director of the CDC's Center for Health Promotion and Education.

"In effect, it's holding up a mirror to a person's own health and saying, 'Okay, these are my lifestyles and these are the consequences. These are what I'm doing to myself and if I change that one, it says my likelihood of surviving and prospering will increase.'"

The health fairs at 300 sites in 11 cities in April 1980 were sponsored by local community organizations. The computer programs have been used before, but the health fairs provided the largest body of data available, the CDC said.

Participants were asked questions about smoking, drinking, seat-belt use and exercise habits; medical questions about blood pressure, cholesterol and history of chronic bronchitis or emphysema; and family history questions about suicide, diabetes and cancer.

Researchers at the UCLA School of Public Health are now "looking at the credibility and validity of the science on which the risk factors are based," Ogden said. "Can the present method be strengthened and improved? They're seeking a more solid scientific proceeding." Researchers also are trying to adapt the program to the special health problems of the poor, blacks, Hispanics and youths, Ogden said. Health fair participants were predominantly white, middle-class people, he said.

Ogden said the strength of the program is that it gets people to look critically at their life-styles.

"It personalizes statistics in a way that dramatizes the problems for somebody," he said. "There is a little gimmickry to it. It's sort of neat to get a computer printout that is your life, it's got a lot of appeal to it."

Blockbuster movies! Film classics! Musical extravaganzas! The best in sports! All on inexpensive RCA VideoDiscs.

Enjoy what you want to see—when you want to see it—right on your own TV set with RCA VideoDiscs.

You get up to 2 hours of entertainment on a single disc. So you can enjoy blockbusters like Rocky and The Godfather. Classics like Citizen Kane and Casablanca. Entertainment extravaganzas for every taste—from Elton John to the Royal Ballet. Historic sporting events like Super Bowl highlights and Muhammed Ali fights. Your RCA dealer has a complete catalog of all the programs you can choose from. And more titles are being added all the time.

You get a picture that's crisp, clean and stable because the RCA VideoDisc plays directly into your TV. So there are no ghosts. And no weak pictures because of a weak signal.

It's all made possible by the RCA-developed CED capacitance electronic disc system which uses a stylus-mounted electrode to extract picture and sound information from the grooves on an electrically-conductive disc.

RCA's computer-controlled system with tangential tracking arm, constant-speed turntable and durable diamond stylus is designed for maximum precision and sharp, vivid picture quality.

Easier to operate than a record player.

1 Slide sleeve in and remove. 2 Switch lever to "play"

Loading the RCA VideoDisc player is simplicity itself. Just slide the sleeve into the player, remove the sleeve (the disc is now inside the player), switch the function lever to "play", sit back and enjoy the show.

You never actually see or touch the disc itself because it always remains protected in its sleeve except when in the player.

Convenient operating features.

Visual Search—so you can go backward or forward at about 16 times normal speed to find a favorite scene.

Rapid Access—so you can go either way even faster while a digital readout indicates elapsed time.

Pause Button—lets you interrupt play at any time and start again where you left off plus many more features for simple, reliable performance.

'Maturing' Indiana Faces Biggest Test

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Indiana Hoosiers are a maturing team, says coach Bobby Knight, and they will receive their sternest test of the season Saturday when they meet fourth-ranked Louisiana State in the semifinals of the NCAA college basketball tournament.

Indiana, ranked ninth, and LSU meet in the first semifinal game. Fifth-ranked Virginia and No. 6 North Carolina, both of the Atlantic Coast Conference, play in the second game to decide the participants in Monday night's championship contest.

"Our team has been in a year-long maturing process," Knight said at a news conference following his team's brief workout at the Spectrum. "They're not mature yet. That's down the road. We still make some mistakes, but it's been enjoyable to watch the team grow, not just stay in the same place."

Indiana, 24-9, got to the Final Four with three very impressive victories, including a 99-64 romp over 18th-ranked Maryland in the second round of the Midwest Regional. After the Hoosiers got off to a 7-5 start this season, including losses to Kentucky, Notre Dame, North Carolina, Clemson and Pan American, few would have suspected that Knight could build a title contender.

"When we got off to that 7-5 start, we were playing some pretty darned good teams," Knight said.

One of the keys to Indiana's improvement has been the improvement of sophomore guard Isiah Thomas.

"We've seen great growth in Thomas," Knight said. "He was a little reluctant last year and at the beginning of this year to assume control of the team. Some of the other kids were older than he was, but we wanted him to take the leadership role."

Thomas, an All-American, will matchup with LSU's Ethan Martin, who like Thomas is a fine ballhandler and a capable scorer. LSU's strength, however, is along the frontline, where 6-foot-7 senior forward Durand Macklin has excelled. Macklin led the team with 16.7 points per game and also was LSU's top rebounder, grabbing 10 a game.

"LSU is a very quick, very strong team," Knight said. "They have all the physical attributes a good basketball team has to have. They're good individually and as a team."

Asked to analyze the similarities between Thomas and Martin, Knight said: "They're both black. I picked that right up. They're both quick, and they're both team players. They both work very hard, and they're very good ball players."

Both LSU, 31-3, regular-season winner of the Southeastern Conference, and Indiana have had injuries. Macklin jammed the little finger on his right hand — he is a left-handed shooter — and Indiana guard Randy Wittman has a sore leg. Both are expected to play.

Knight is the only coach here who has ever won an NCAA title. Led by Quinn Buckner, Scott May and Kent Benson, the Hoosiers swept to the 1976 title in Philadelphia, trouncing Michigan 86-68 in the championship game.

"The team we had five years ago was an excellent team," Knight said. "There aren't many teams that were better than that one. The problem is, you keep looking at a team like that as an eventual goal, but each team has different players. Isiah and Ray (Tolbert) are not Buckner and Benson."

By CHUCK McDONALD
Assistant Sports Editor

LEVELLAND — Okay, let's play a little guessing game. Today's Texas Tech Invitational Track and Field meet will be held in: a) Lubbock, at Tech's R.P. Fuller Track; b) Lubbock, at Tech's R.P. Fuller Track; c) Lubbock, at Tech's R.P. Fuller Track; d) Lubbock, at Tech's R.P. Fuller Track.

If you went with the obvious — Tech Track — you are a logical soul but much too trusting. And if you went with b or d, well, those were the sentimental favorites but there was a problem getting the pole vaulters through the metal detectors at the airport.

That leaves us with c, the correct answer. Welcome to South Plains College, home of the Texas Tech Invitational.

It's a long story, involving last week's minor hurricane that halted work on the Tech facility and left the TTU invite a meet without a home. To the rescue stepped SPC athletic director and track coach Clint Ramsey, offering Tech track coach Corky Oglesby the Tech facilities.

So there you have it. The Tech Invitational will go off today as scheduled with the field events beginning at 11 a.m. and the running prelims at 11:30. Only difference is that the meet will be here at the SPC track.

Despite the change of sites there will not be any change in the level of competition as Oglesby and his Red Raiders will welcome seven University Division schools and four Junior College Division teams.

The University field will consist of Wayland Baptist, Abilene Christian, West Texas State, Angelo State, Eastern New Mexico, Lubbock Christian and Tech. Competing in the JC Division will be Odessa, Garden City (Kansas), Ranger and co-host South Plains.

"It should really be a good meet," said Oglesby, his enthusiasm undiminished by the late change. "And hopefully the change in tracks won't keep the fans from coming out to watch the races."

WBC coach Gary Goodin also spoke highly of the Tech Invitational.

"The field is very strong," said Goodin, "every event has a national caliber athlete. It should be a good test for everyone there."

"Abilene Christian and Angelo State should battle it out for the team title." See ACU, ANGELO STATE Page 7

City Girls' Teams Open Action In Lubbock Invitational Track

The Lubbock Invitational, featuring 14 girls' track teams from across West Texas, gets underway this morning at the Coronado High School track.

Besides the five city schools, Amarillo High and Tascosa, Abilene High and Cooper, Canyon, Plainview, Big Spring, Levelland and Hereford will also be in attendance.

The discus and long jump finals are set for 10 a.m., the shot, triple jump and high jump finals will kick off at 2 p.m. and track finals will be run at 2:15. Admission to the finals is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

While the girls stay in town, the city's boys will head south to three different meets. Coronado, Monterey and Lubbock will go to the Hobbs Invitational-Dunbar is slated for the Canyon Reef Relays in Snyder and Estacado is running at the Seminole Invitational.

But you don't have to go any farther than West 34th Street to find plenty of good track. Competing for those 14 teams are several girls who rank among the state's top times and most of the girls who hold the area leads in their events.

The 100 meters should shape up to be a good race as both Nettie Gilbert from Tascosa and Coronado's Cheryl Hall are ranked among the state's leaders. Miss Gilbert has a best of 12.25 while Miss Hall is in at 12.28. In addition, Tascosa's Dorothy Washington has turned a 12.37.

Louise Jays from Hereford is ranked among the state leaders in the 800 with a 2:20.60, some five seconds faster than her closest competitor on the South Plains.

Plainview has a pair of state leaders in Gay Hemphill and the 800-meter relay team. Miss Hemphill, whom most people will remember as a basketball standout, also has the third-best distance in the shot put this year at 41-9 3/4. That's four feet better than the next-best throw on the South Plains.

The 800-meter relay team is also the best around, having turned a 1:45.4 to rank 11th in the state.

It is tough to pick a favorite for to- See CITY SQUADS Page 7

Groh Takes Wake Forest Post

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Wake Forest defensive coordinator Al Groh, a member of Rex Dockery's Texas Tech coaching staff during the 1980 season, Friday was named to replace John Mackovic as Demon Deacon head football coach, school athletic officials announced.

Mackovic left Wake Forest earlier this week to become quarterback coach of the Dallas Cowboys.

Groh, 36, joined the Wake Forest staff on Jan. 19, a month after Dockery's resigned to assume the head coaching job at Memphis State.

Groh is the 29th head coach in Wake Forest history. In addition to his service at Texas Tech, he served as an assistant at the U.S. Military Academy, North Carolina and the Air Force Academy.

"When Coach Mackovic resigned Tuesday morning, Wake Forest had to determine if there was a coach on the current staff who could take over the program," Wake Forest athletic director Dr. Gene Hooks said during a news conference.

"After interviewing each of the coaches separately, it became apparent that Al Groh would be a popular and wise staff selection," Hooks added.

Groh said he was "very excited and very pleased with the opportunity." He said he looks forward to continued success with the Wake Forest program.

"Our players are being contacted and I will meet with them as they return from their spring break," Groh added.

Gilbert Moves Into Lead

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Veteran Gibby Gilbert scrambled to a no-bogey, 5-under-par 66 and took the second round lead Friday while some of golf's greater names fired and fell back in the $300,000 Sea Pines-Heritage Classic.

Gilbert, a 40-year-old winner of three PGA Tour titles, put together a 36-hole total of 135.

That's seven shots under par for two trips over the 6,650-yard Harbour Town Golf Links, which Gilbert called "a thinking man's golf course. You can't just go out and hit it. You have to think your way around."

And while Gilbert's mental processes were gaining some help from his putter — he one-putted 10 times, once or an eagle — such outstanding performers as Tom Watson, Masters champ Seve Ballesteros and Ray Floyd fell victim to the subtle demands of the tree-lined little layout on this resort island.

Watson, the first-round leader with a 66, went nine shots higher to a 75 and was at 141. His problems were twofold: no birdies and a triple-bogey 7 on the 10th hole, where he first drove out of bounds to the right and then hit into the water on the left.

"Actually, I didn't play much different from yesterday," Watson said. "The difference was that yesterday I had 23 putts, today I had 31."

"Just one of those things," Floyd, winner of the last two tour titles, took three to get out of a bunker on the 14th and made triple bogey 6. He had a 74 that put him at 143.

Ballesteros lost a total of three shots to par on the 10th and 11th and finished with a 73 and a 141 total.

Jerry Pate, a playoff loser in this tournament a year ago, moved into second place at 137, two shots back. He had a second round 68. Hale Irwin, twice a winner of the U.S. Open and twice a winner here, again had to fight his way back from a double bogey to remain in contention. He did it with birdies on the last two holes, giving him a round of 70 and a 138 total. That tied him with Fuzzy Zoeller.

Lubbock's Jeff Mitchell improved two strokes from Thursday's 73 and qualified for the final two rounds with a 144 total.

Three Golfers Lead LPGA Kemper Open

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP) — Successful veterans Pat Bradley and JoAnne Carner and virtual unknown Martha Hansen were deadlocked at 4-over-par 146 after Friday's second round of the $175,000 Women's Kemper Open.

Miss Bradley, the first-round leader at even-par 71, carded a 75 on Friday while Miss Carner, the second-leading money winner in Ladies Professional Golf Association history, had a second-round score of 71.

Miss Hansen, who has earned just $24,023 since joining the LPGA tour at the beginning of 1978, had a 70 over the demanding 6,134-yard, par 36-35-71 Mesa Verde Country Club course.

Four players were bunched at 147 and another four were grouped at 148 halfway through the 72-hole tournament that offers a top prize of $26,250.

At 147 were defending champion Nancy Lopez-Melton, who had a 72 Friday despite bogeying five of her last seven holes; Debbie Massey, who fired a 3-under-par 68 Friday, the best round of the tournament through two rounds; Shelley Hamlin, who followed an opening-round 78 with a 69; and Joyce Kazmierski, who followed a 72 with a 75.

GIRLS' ALL-SOUTH PLAINS SELECTIONS

Competitive District Tops Class 5A Team

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche Journal Sports Staff
It is a mark of the quality of girls' basketball in this part of West Texas that Monterey, the eventual state champion, had a tougher time in district than it did in the regionals or in the state tournament.

Sure, the Plainsmen were pressed to a one-point victory in the state championship by fired-up Duncanville, but they actually lost a game in district and were fortunate to win three others.

In addition to the 63-59 loss to Plainview, Monterey had to come from behind to beat Hereford both times the teams played and had to struggle mightily to beat Plainview in Lubbock.

So it's not surprising that five of the six girls named to the 1981 Avalanche Journal All-South Plains team from Class 5A come from that competitive District 4.

In all, three teams from the conference won more than 20 games as Plainview recorded a 24-8 mark, Hereford went 24-5 and Monterey finished 31-2.

The Plainsmen, of course, took top honors as Kriss and Kamie Ethridge, who scored 43 percent of MHS' points over the season, were named the team's Most Valuable Players and coach Tim Tasker, who has taken his team to the state finals in each of his two years as a head coach, won Coach Of The Year honors.

Following Monterey on the team is Hereford, who placed both forward Terri Harkins, a 5-7 senior, at one outside position and post Louise Mays, a 5-8 senior, on the team.

The other two positions on the six-player squad went to Amarillo sophomore Carmen Wynn, a 6-0 sophomore, and Plainview's all-anything Gay Hemphill, a 6-0 senior post.

What more can be said about Kriss and Kamie Ethridge? Both are returners from last year's all-South Plains team and Kriss was the 1980 player of the year. Kamie led the team in scoring in 1981 and was second on the South Plains with a 20.9 average.

Kriss, who played the district season with mononucleosis and a sinus infection, finished the year with a 9 average but dished out an incredible 257 assists. Word out of Monterey is that she has signed a letter of intent with the prestigious University of Texas and has been selected to play on the North team at the high school all-star game this summer.

Sister Kamie, only a junior, will probably have to wait only a year to earn those honors.

Miss Hemphill, who reportedly has signed with Wayland Baptist College, was the area's leading scorer with a 25.2 point per game average and was second in rebounding with 10.6 a game.

The leading rebounder in the area was Miss Wynn, a tremendously talented sophomore who dominated the Amarillo scene. She averaged 12.9 boards a game and scored at a 16.3 average for a team that finished the regular season 21-6 and lost to Monterey by a narrow 66-62 count in bi-district.

Miss Mays, apparently the town favorite in Hereford, made up for her lack of height with great quickness and averaged 13.2 points a game. Miss Harkins, who scored most of her points from the outside, was just back of her at a 12.1 clip.

Included in the Herd's win total this year are victories over Dimmitt and Plainview, the last one a 54-46 overtime win in the final game that cleared the way for Monterey to creep past Plainview into the district champion's throne.

CLASS 5A ALL-SOUTH PLAINS
Outside — Kamie Ethridge, Monterey, 5-4 Sr.; Kriss Ethridge, Monterey, 5-4 Jr.; Terri Harkins, Hereford 5-7 Sr.
Inside — Gay Hemphill, Plainview 6-0 Sr.; Carmen Wynn, Amarillo 6-0 Soph.; Louise Mays, Hereford 5-8 Sr.
Co-Players Of Year — Kriss and Kamie Ethridge, Monterey
Coach Of Year — Tim Tasker, Monterey

AP Names Sampson Top College Cager

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ralph Sampson, the 7-foot-4 Virginia center, said he was thrilled to be named The Associated Press' 1980-81 college basketball Player of the Year, but there was something he wanted even more.

"I'd give it up in a minute to take home the national championship in a few days, and individual awards are secondary to team awards," said Sampson.

Sampson was not present at the ceremony to name him as recipient of the Adolph F. Rupp Trophy, an award sponsored by the Commonwealth Athletic Club of Kentucky, because it could not be worked into his schedule of preparation for the 1981 NCAA championship round.

Virginia, ranked fifth in the country, takes on sixth-ranked North Carolina Saturday in the semifinals.

"Winning college Player of the Year is something I had set as a goal during my four years at Virginia," Sampson said in a prepared statement, "and the fact that I have been recognized this early in my career is great."

Sampson, who averaged 18.2 points and 11.5 rebounds a game, received 26 votes from the panel of 62 sports writers and broadcasters that cast ballots. Mark Aguirre of DePaul, last year's winner, was second with 19 1/2 votes, followed by Danny Ainge of Brigham Young with six, Steve Johnson of Oregon State with 4 1/2 and Isiah Thomas of Indiana with three. Three players — Kelly Tripucka of Notre Dame, Durand Macklin of Louisiana State and Rob Williams of Houston — received one vote apiece.

Sampson was the third sophomore to receive the trophy since its inception in 1961. Bill Walton of UCLA received the award twice, in 1972 as a sophomore and again in 1973.

Miller Garners Coaching Award

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Oregon State coach Ralph Miller says it all was invented before he came on the scene, but he's glad to accept the honor of being The Associated Press' 1980-81 college basketball Coach of the Year.

"I created nothing new, and I haven't changed anything either," Miller said Friday of the offensive and defensive strategies he learned as a player in the late 1930s at Kansas University.

"Most of the ingredients — the offensive theories, the defensive theories — of playing basketball, and most of the methods for teaching ballplayers were invented before 1940," the 62-year-old Miller said.

"The game is very simple... players are still learning to play basketball the same way as their fathers."

Miller received 26 of 62 ballots cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters chosen to select the best college basketball coach of the 1980-81 season.

Miller led the Beavers to their second consecutive Pacific-10 Conference crown, compiling a 26-2 record that included a 50-48 loss to Kansas State in the second round of the NCAA tournament's West Regionals.

Miller is the third winningest active coach in America with 512 victories.

Babe Ruth Registration Begins

Signups for Babe Ruth League baseball are scheduled for 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., today and again April 4, at South Plains Mall.

Babe Ruth, which features leagues for 13-15 year-olds and 16-18 year-olds, has been in existence in Lubbock since 1969, and nationally since 1945. It is the largest baseball program for teen-agers in the world.

"This program has good value. It teaches teamwork and it's also a good chance to have fun in the summertime," local Babe Ruth president Bill Sanders says.

Starting dates for this year's baseball are June 1 for 16-18s, and May 9 (tentative) for 13-15s.

Registration fee is $20 per player.

Babe Ruth sponsors three World Series each summer. In addition to age divisions 13-15 and 16-18, there is a separate Series exclusively for 13-year-olds. This year's Series are slated for Johnstown, N.Y., Aug. 15, for 13-year-olds; Mobile, Ala., Aug. 22, for 13-15s, and Lawrenceburg, Tenn., Aug. 22, for 16-18s.

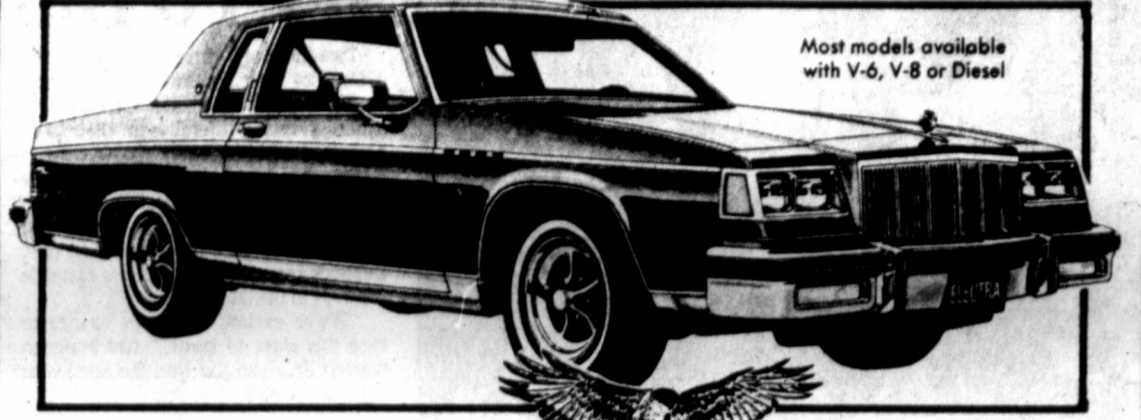

Regional tournaments decide berths in each World Series. Lubbock's teams are members of a five-state regional that includes Oklahoma, New Mexico, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas, which is divided geographically into three divisions.

This year's regional tourneys are scheduled for Aug. 1 in Pampa for 13 year-olds; Aug. 8 in Pine Bluff, Ark., for 13-15 year-olds, and Aug. 8 in Del Rio for 16-18 year-olds.

Pony League Slates Late Registration

The Lubbock Pony League (formerly Southwest Pony League) will conduct late player sign-ups Tuesday, March 31 at Evans Junior High School Cafeteria from 6:30 to 9 p.m. for 13-and 14-year-old baseball players.

Player try-outs will be Saturday, April 11 at Maxey Park. If you are interested in managing or coaching a team, you may also sign up at this time, or contact Mickey Sims at 792-4975 or 762-8800.

Also on Tuesday, players interested in Colt League or Southwest Little League who missed the earlier registration will be able to sign up as well.

Loop 289.

All proceeds from the races and donations collected during the afternoon of go-kart racing will be turned over to the Texas Boy's Ranch.

Part of the day's schedule includes races among members of the Lubbock media. Media members will race three at a time with the winner of each race advancing to a main event and the opportunity to win a trophy.

Time trials are set to start at 11:30 a.m. Racing begins at noon. There will be no admission charge, but spectators will be asked to donate to the Texas Boy's Ranch.

Karting enthusiasts can catch a glimpse of some of the karts to be used in Sunday's races and some of the fastest of the little machines in this part of the country today at the South Plains Mall. Karts will be on display throughout the mall all day.

Two Lubbock Racers Set To Defend Titles

Two Lubbock drivers will open the defense of their Southwestern divisional championships in Sports Car Club of America racing literally in their own back yard this week end.

Scheduled at the former Webb Air Force Base in Big Spring are two days of SCCA-sanctioned racing, the first in West Texas since a race meet was held over Lubbock International Airport's east-side runways in the late 1950s.

"We're excited about the chance to race this close to home," said Malcolm Garrett Jr., who has won the Southwest title three consecutive years.

"In recent years our Texas racing has been at Texas World Speedway at College Station," Garrett noted. "We hope to develop the Big Spring race into an important part of SCCA's southwestern schedule."

Garrett campaigns a Datsun 710 sedan in the sanctioning body's GT-2 division. Lubbock's other representative at Big Spring will be David Elle, who last year won Southwestern division GT-3 honors in a Datsun 210 after a second-place finish the previous year. Garrett, incidentally, has performed much of the engine work on both cars, and his own machine finished first in every divisional race last year.

This week end's race, styled the Prairie Dog Regional/National, already has attracted entries from seven states other than Texas — including New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, California, Colorado, Arizona and Louisiana — and the lineup includes four other 1980 Southwestern and Midwestern divisional champions.

Garrett estimated that 150 cars would be in competition during the two scheduled races, a regional event Saturday afternoon and a national event Sunday afternoon. Both are to begin at 1 p.m.

Racing will be over a closed 2.5 mile course incorporating a parallel runway and taxiway at Webb, with two mile-long straights linked at either end by serpentine portions of the course.

Cars in the open wheel classes probably will attain speeds in excess of 200 mph in the straights, while sedan class racers will peak in the 165-mph range.

he added, "and it could be a real fight for third."

One of the meet's highlights should be in the University Division 800-meter run as two of the premier half-milers in the country will be entered. Tech's James Mays, who recently received All-America honors in the indoor season, will be facing WBC's Joel Ngetich, who is undefeated outdoors and an All-American himself.

The race will be a rematch of the indoor season where Ngetich, from Kenya, defeated Mays, of Hereford, in the Oklahoma City Invitational with a time of 1:50.8 to the Tech senior's 1:51.6 effort. Ngetich owns a Wayland school record in the event with a 1:47.2 he set at the Border Olympics earlier this month.

"Saturday's race should be one of the best half-miles in the state," Goodin said. Ron Caten, another WBC All-American, ran a 1:51.5 two weeks ago and will also be entered.

"James has really been running well outdoors," said Oglesby, "but Ngetich has the top two times in the world this season in the 800-meters outdoors. So James will really have to run well to beat him and we could see a very fast time."

In addition to Mays, the Raiders will field a full contingent for this meet. Oglesby also has high hopes for long-jumper Thomas Selmon, Edwin Newsome in the 400-meters, Greg Rolle and Dean Crowell in the hurdle events, Howard Loftis in the pole vault, Bert Torres in the steeplechase, Nick Pirkle in the high jump and Phil Buescher in the discus.

LCC will build its hopes around dis-ance runner Kyle Smith. Smith and Sam Motari are also entered in that featured 800-meter. The Chap tracksters captured four firsts in their last competition, that being a triangular meet with Sul Ross and McMurry, with Smith winning the 1500 meters and three mile run and finishing in a dead heat with teammate Motari in the half mile.

Wayland will bring 17 men to the meet including junior all-American James Fort who'll run in the 400 and in the relays.

And Eastern New Mexico, fresh off a victory in the ENMU Invitational on March 21, will also send a full squad. Leading the way for the Greyhounds will be junior Birch Rodriguez of Clovis, N.M. Rodriguez came away from the ENMU meet with high point honors by winning the 10,000 meter run, the 5,000 and the 3,000 meter steeplechase. He finished second in the 1,500 meter run.

And that's a good day's work.

day's meet, but Plainview, Coronado and Tascosa should all be right up there.

Plainview, in addition to Miss Hemphill's standard in the shot and the 800-meter team's time, holds area leads in the 1600-meter relay. It's 4:11.8 is better than second-place Hereford (4:13.1), Coronado (4:15.5) or Monterey (4:20.8), all of which will be running today.

Coronado, in addition to Miss Hall's 100-meter time, has Thelma Menton in the 200 (an area leader at 26.75) and Patie McFerrer in the high jump (an area co-leader at 5-3).

And as for Tascosa, well, they ran smack up against the Mustangs at the Amarillo Invitational two weekends ago, winning the meet with 210 points. Coronado wound up with 134.

The key factor for the Rebels in that victor was depth. Tascosa won five of the 13 events but Coronado won four and both teams took five seconds. But when it came to fourth and fifth places, the Rebels held a 10-5 advantage.

The Mustangs fared a little better the next weekend in the Big Spring Invitational against powerful Abilene Cooper. Coronado finished fourth, also trailing Estacado, with 54 points. Cooper had 78 for second and Estacado was third at 57. Also, Big Spring ran a tight fifth with 52 points.

Also, Estacado's Kim Britt has the area's best 400 time at 61.75.

Kingman Signs $3.5 Million Deal

By The Associated Press
 Dave Kingman is about to become the richest player ever in New York Mets pinstripes, and Bill Buckner will remain a Chicago Cub for at least a little while.

The Mets and Kingman agreed to terms Friday on a three-year extension of his contract which reportedly could earn the slugging outfielder $3.5 million in salary, bonuses and incentives. That would surpass the club's previous record, a five-year, $3.15-million package signed by pitcher Craig Swann last year.

Kingman was traded to the Mets last month after feuding with the Cubs over renegotiating his contract, and the Cubs appeared to be on the verge of dealing another disgruntled star Friday.

But General Manager Bob Kennedy said late in the day that a deal to send Buckner to Los Angeles had fallen through because relief pitcher Joe Beckwith, who would have moved to the Cubs with third baseman-outfielder Mickey Hatcher, had returned to Los Angeles from the Dodgers' Florida training camp because of an eye virus.

"So that's that. No deal," Kennedy said. "Our interest in the transaction has come to an end."

Buckner, a second baseman, was last year's National League batting champion with a .324 average.

The Minnesota Twins pounded out 20 hits, including three each by Greg Johnson, Rick Sofield and John Castino, and beat the Dodgers 13-2. Ken Landreaux added a triple and drove in three runs.

John Mayberry's two-run single and Barry Bonnell's home run paced the Toronto Blue Jays to a 5-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. Darrell Porter homered for the Cards.

Ray Knight and Joe Nolan drove in two runs apiece, leading a 16-hit attack, as the Cincinnati Reds walloped the Kansas City Royals 10-3. Nolan hit a two-run homer and Dave Concepcion added a solo shot.

A ninth-inning single by rookie Rufino Linares gave the Atlanta Braves a 4-3 victory over the Texas Rangers. Linares, batting for pitcher Rick Miller, knocked in Glenn Hubbard with the winning run.

The Cleveland Indians beat the Oakland A's 9-4, as Juan Bonilla drove in three runs with a single and a double. Rick Waits pitched six innings of three-hit ball for the Indians.

Tim Raines had four hits and Rowland Office three to lead the Montreal Expos to a 4-2 victory over the Houston Astros. Montreal's Jerry White slammed a solo homer in the ninth.

Kim Allen scored the winning run on an eighth-inning wild pitch as the Seattle Mariners beat the Milwaukee Brewers 4-2. Richie Zisk singled with one out and was replaced by Allen, who stole second.

moved to third on a fly ball and scored on the wild pitch by Balor Moore to break a 2-2 tie. Brad Gulden hit a solo home run for the Mariners in the ninth.

Tom Griffin pitched two-hit shutout ball for six innings and Charles Davis ripped a two-run homer to lead the San Francisco Giants to an 11-0 romp over the San Diego Padres. Griffin struck out three and walked three.

Three hits apiece by Mike Squires and Rusty Kuntz led the Chicago White Sox past a Pittsburgh Pirates split squad 6-1.

Plainsmen Maintain District Golf Lead

HEREFORD (Special) — The Monterey Plainsmen owned a narrow two-stroke lead over the Coronado Mustangs heading into Friday's third-round play in the District 4-5A golf tournament and after 18 holes, little had been settled.

Both Monterey and Coronado had rounds of 314 at the Hereford Country Club to leave that two-stroke margin intact. The MHS A team owns a 947 total while the Mustang A squad is at 349.

Coronado junior Gilbert Moreno was the low medalist again, firing a 73, and he stretched his district-leading total to six strokes at 223. Mustang teammate Rick Alexander turned in a 74 on Friday and was second to Moreno at 229.

Next week the golfers will return to Meadowbrook for the fourth round of play.

Team Totals: 1. Monterey 314-947; 2. Coronado 314-949; 3. Monterey B 335-973; 4. Hereford 325-976; 5. Plainview 334-988; 6. Lubbock 332-1002; 7. Hereford B 328-1012; 8. Coronado 350-1018; 9. Plainview B 389-1144; Lubbock B 446-1273.

Hans Christian Andersen

The Great Storyteller

International Children's Book Day

Have you read "The Ugly Duckling," "The Princess and the Pea," "Thumbelina" or "The Emperor's New Clothes"?

These are four of the best known of Hans Christian Andersen's 168 fairy tales.

These stories are famous the world over. They have been translated into so many languages that they are among the most widely read stories on earth.

International Children's Book Day will be celebrated on April 2, Andersen's birthday.

INTERNATIONAL CHILDREN'S BOOK DAY

Early Life

Andersen's life was much like a fairy tale. He was born in Odense, Denmark, in 1805. The family was very poor. His mother was a washwoman, his father a shoemaker.

Young Hans left school and home at the age of 14 to seek his fortune in Copenhagen.

He wanted to become an actor. Although he was not a success, he did meet a rich man who became his sponsor and sent him to school.

Andersen began to write plays, novels, poems and travel books. He was very surprised that his fairy tales were what made him famous not only in Denmark, but in other countries.

His Personality

Andersen loved attention, especially that given him by royalty. He was very ambitious and enjoyed his success. He was sensitive and became upset when someone wrote anything bad about his books. Andersen was sickly and a worrier. Although he traveled a great deal, he often arrived at the station hours before the train was to leave.

Andersen was a deeply religious man. Because of his very humble beginnings, he was a thrifty man all of his life.

His Loves

Andersen proposed to several women but was rejected by all of them. When he died in 1875, he was carrying a letter from his first love, a woman he had met more than 40 years before. As he wished, the letter was burned unread.

Andersen reminds us of one of his most famous characters, the Ugly Duckling. In spite of his lonely life, he was able to write some of the most magical stories of all time.

Sailors Study Sailing on a Tall Ship at Sea!

The Danmark is 196 feet long. It has three masts and 26 sails. The student sailors learn to put them up and take them down by crawling up the ropes. The main mast is 130 feet tall.

The sailors sleep in shifts in hammocks. They must learn how to live in tight quarters and get along with fellow crew members. They also have to wash and mend their clothes!

For many years, way back to the time of the Vikings, Denmark has been famous for sailors.

Today, this tiny country, almost surrounded by water, trains new sailors by teaching them how to sail an old ship.

The training ship Danmark is a floating school for young men ages 15 to 18.

The young sailors sign on for a six-month cruise. They study to become officers on cargo-carrying ships.

Although the Danmark has engines, the young men learn how to sail it without using them.

They must also learn how to keep the vessel "shipshape," to stand watch and to follow commands.

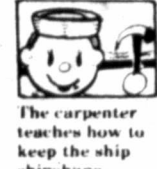

The ship sails to many interesting places far from Denmark. It visited Washington, D.C., not long ago. Many people stood in line for hours to go aboard and see what sea life was like many years ago.

For good luck, most of the sailors wear an earring in one ear. There are many stories about how this custom started. One is that you can't get into heaven without one!

The carpenter teaches how to keep the ship shipshape.

The steward or cook teaches how to cook in the galley.

The wireless operator teaches how to use the radio.

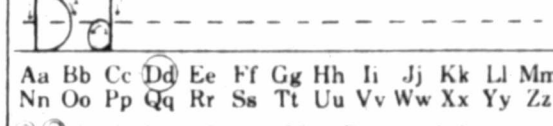

The sailmaker teaches how to mend the sails.

ALPHA MICE

What sounds do you hear at the beginning of all these words?

This is how you make the letter D:

Aa Bb Cc Dd Ee Ff Gg Hh Ii Jj Kk Ll Mm Nn Oo Pp Qq Rr Ss Tt Uu Vv Ww Xx Yy Zz

Look through your Mini Page and the rest of your newspaper for words starting with D.

ALPHA BETTY

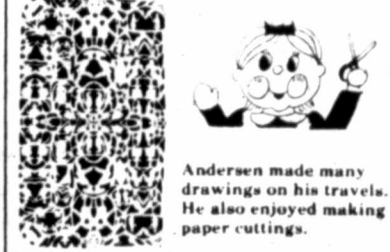

Here's an Alpha Betty tongue twister. Can you read this sentence describing some things and activities in the picture?

Doctors don't deliver delicious desserts to dainty dancers during diets.

Hans Christian Andersen considered himself ugly all his life. He was tall and skinny and had a long nose.

Andersen made many drawings on his travels. He also enjoyed making paper cuttings.

The Award

The Hans Christian Andersen Awards are presented every two years to an outstanding living author and an illustrator who have contributed the most to children's literature.

This worldwide award is based on everything the author has written, not on just one book.

The United States has had three winners: Meindert De Jong, 1962; Maurice Sendak, 1970; and Scott O'Dell, 1972.

CASEY COUNT'S COLOR BY NUMBER

Color the picture of a boy and a landscape using the numbers provided.

Alexander the Great

This marble head of Alexander shows how he probably looked in his youth. The nose has become damaged through the years.

Alexander the Great of Greece was a superhero who lived over 300 years before Christ was born. He lived so long ago that we really don't know a lot about him. We do know that as a little boy he tamed an Arabian horse that his father, King Phillip II, had planned to put to death because it was so wild. Alexander rode that horse for many years. He even named a city after him. Alexander was a great soldier. Many of the military ideas that he invented are used today. In his short life of 32 years, he conquered the largest empire ever known and thinker Aristotle. He encouraged the work of artists, authors and scientists. More important, he brought Greek ideas and the Greek language to the lands he conquered. "The Search for Alexander" is an art exhibit that is now at the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. through April 5. It displays 175 pieces of art from Alexander's time.

A gold crown with oak leaves and acorns was made to be worn by royalty at ceremonies. It was found in the box above. It might have belonged to Alexander's father.

GUS GODSPORT'S REPORT

Supersport: George Brett

Last baseball season, George Brett, the Kansas City Royals' third baseman, posted a batting average of .390. This was the highest average in big-league baseball in 40 years.

Before that, Brett was a well-known star. He is a super infielder and hitter. He is only 27 years old and already has two American League batting titles.

He is popular with fans everywhere. He is single and lives in a suburb of Kansas City. His brother, Ken, is a pitcher for the Royals.

For use by teachers and parents at home and at school. For use with issue: The Great Storyteller. All ability groups.

1. Give the children Hans Christian Andersen's books as you can find and put them on display. Ask the children to read the Hans Christian Andersen books.

2. Ask the children to illustrate their favorite Andersen fairy tale.

3. Pre-reader and beginning reader:

1. Read the story to the children and talk about the story.
2. Point to the word "Andersen" and ask the children to circle it.
3. Ask the children to circle the numbers on the page.
4. Look at the picture by the famous artist Maurice Sendak. Ask the children to tell why they think the children are laughing.

4. Reader:

1. Pretend that you had a chance to interview Hans Christian Andersen. What questions would you ask him?
2. Find Denmark on a world map.
3. If you were to nominate your favorite illustrator or author for a medal, whom would you pick and why?
4. Write the story of the Ugly Duckling in your own words.
5. Alphabetize the words that describe people, places or things. Make a list of all the adjectives that you find in the story. Make up your own sentences using these words.

COMPLETE STOCKS ON NYSE, AMEX

Loss Shown In Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market recorded its second straight loss Friday, cutting short the Dow Jones industrial average's latest rally past the 1,000 level.

Selling was blamed on rising interest rates and concern over the tension in Poland. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 10.98 to 994.77, just two days after hitting an eight-year high of 1,015.22. For the week, the average eked out a 1.98 advance.

New York Stock Exchange volume slowed to 46.93 million shares from 60.37 million Thursday.

Oil, auto and precious-metals stocks were among the session's most notable losers. The oil group, which rallied earlier in the week after a protracted decline, came under renewed pressure. Mobil lost 1 3/4 to 66 3/4 as of the 4 p.m. close in trading that included several 100,000-share blocks. Exxon dropped 3/4 to 69 1/4. Standard Oil of Indiana 1 1/4 to 72, and Superior Oil 3/4 to 22 1/4.

In the auto sector, General Motors was down 1 1/2 to 52 1/2. Ford Motor dropped 1 to 23, and Chrysler was off 1/4 to 6 1/4.

Precious-metals issues weakened as the price of gold dropped more than $15 an ounce to $529.30 on the Commodity Exchange in New York. Homestake Mining fell 1 1/2 to 59 1/4. ASA 2 to 54 1/4. Dome Mines 2 to 88 1/4, and Campbell Red Lake 1 1/4 to 54 1/4.

Twentieth Century-Fox tumbled 6 1/4 to 55. On Thursday Marvin Davis, the Denver oilman, withdrew his bid to acquire the company.

Avco dropped 1 1/2 to 26 1/4 and Meaux 2 1/4 to 24 1/4, both on company reports of lower quarterly earnings.

As the session passed, analysts said traders were becoming increasingly concerned over the situation in Poland. Secretary of State Alexander Haig said his department was keeping a "moment-by-moment" watch on the situation.

The market's weakness also was attributed to unfavorable interest-rate news. Open-market rates had been declining until a little more than a week ago, but since then they have reversed course and moved upward.

On Friday afternoon Security Pacific National Bank of Los Angeles responded to that reversal by raising its prime rate from 17 to 17 1/2 percent, only three days after it had lowered it to 17.

The daily tally on the NYSE showed two losers for every stock that gained ground, and the exchange's composite index dropped .84 to 77.59.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials was down 1.88 at 152.75, and S&P's 500-stock composite index lost 1.62 to 134.66.

At the American Stock Exchange, Tubos de Acero de Mexico was up 1/4 to 21.
