Court Action Gives Green Light To Miller Creek Project

The dismissing of cases in Haskell and Knox County courts which had blocked development of the Miller Creek water project is good news to Haskell and neighboring towns of Rule, Munday and Goree.

The court action means that plans can proceed immediately toward development of the $3,800,000 program designed to provide a source of domestic and industrial water to the four towns comprising the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority.

In addition to meeting the needs of the four towns for domestic water, the reservoir when completed will make available an almost unlimited supply of water for industrial uses, an asset possessed by few towns in this section.

Directors of the Water Authority now face the monumental task of converting the project into a physical reality, a job that will likely require at least 18 months or two years for completion.

However, citizens of the four towns have the assurance that the goal of an adequate supply of good water is in sight and that their No. 1 community problem will soon be of the past.

Death Ends Long And Useful Life Of Jesse B. Smith

A long and useful life, dedicated throughout to friendliness to his fellowman and service to others, came to an end Sunday in the passing of Jesse B. Smith, one of Haskell's best known and best loved citizens.

His long life, extending over more than four-score years, was dedicated to being a friend to others, of service in whatever measure he could to all with whom he came in contact.

Recognition of his sterling qualities and the high esteem in which he was held was attested in the fact that the people of Haskell County had time after time honored him with public office. And in each trust he gave unselfishly of his time and talent to the fullest extent.

Despite his modest and unassuming nature it can truly be said that Jesse B. Smith never greeted a friend or stranger casually, but rather in the full warmth of genuine friendliness. His going means the passing of a friend to many in all walks of life.

Equitable Tax Appraisal

One of the first official acts of the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority will likely be setting up the tax rolls for the Authority. This will require the listing and assessing of all taxable property in the four towns comprising the Authority—Haskell, Rule, Munday and Goree.

Because of the many factors involved in determining an equitable standard of assessment for all property in the Authority, regardless of the town in which the property is located, directors will employ tax evaluation engineers to compile the tax rolls for the Authority.

By having all property on the tax rolls appraised by trained evaluation engineers, individual taxpayers will have the assurance that their tax bill is based on a fair and equitable appraisal of their property.

Many cities and other taxing agencies, including counties and school districts, have found the services of valuation engineers a satisfactory and profitable solution of the property assessment problem. Neighboring Stamford has used this method for years.

When the Water Authority's tax rolls are completed, and since they will reflect the same taxable property as the city tax rolls, a comparison of the two methods of determining assessments will be available. It should prove both interesting and revealing.

PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS

By A. PATE

The speaker at Friday night's Chamber of Commerce banquet, Jack Lacy, more than lived up to advance billing as an entertaining thought-provoking speaker and humorist. Seldom have we been privileged to hear a speaker who so thoroughly captivated and held the attention of his audience as did the Amarillo man in driving home the points of his message on the banquet theme "And Now Tomorrow . . ."

Every phase of the affair was in keeping with the high standard of the speaker. Decorations carrying out the banquet theme were novel and arresting and drew many compliments from guests and visitors, especially the painted backdrop on the auditorium stage. Praise is due each individual who helped in planning and staging the affair, including the HHS Home Ec girls and their supervisors. Without their help it could not have been the success it was.

A lion's share of credit also goes to the person we consider Haskell's most tireless worker in the realm of civic affairs, C. C. Manager Mrs. Roy Johnson. No detail was too small to receive her undivided attention, and no problem too great to solve in carrying out plans for one of the most successful affairs of its kind ever held in Haskell.

Speaking of banquets, Charles Swinson says that an uncle and aunt of his celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary recently. Beforehand, in planning for the occasion, some member of the family suggested killing a turkey. Charles said his uncle vetoed the plan. Said there was no sense in blaming a turkey for something that happened 40 years ago.

Some Haskell joker with time on his hands Thursday night had some of our residents confused and wondering just what was up until they finally decided they were the victims of a prankster.

Around 9:30 p. m. the telephone rang in the Troy Ashome. Troy, answering, was told: "We're checking the street lighting circuit. Will you please see if the street light in front of your house is burning?"

Being a fellow who's always willing to oblige, Troy went to the front door, checked on the light, picked up the receiver and told the caller, "Yes, sir, it is burning." "Then will you please try to blow it out?" came a voice over the phone as a click disconnected the call.

A few minutes later the telephone at the cashier's desk in the Texas Cafe rang.

The request was the same, and the lady obligingly stepped outside, came back and advised the caller the light was burning.

"How about the one in the center of the block on the south side of the courthouse lawn?" Suspecting a prank of some kind, the caller was advised he could do his own checking.

Snow and ice storms like the ones we've had recently always mean periods of rough and disagreeable work for employees of the maintenance department of the Highway Department.

When roads and highways begin icing over, maintenance crews begin patrolling the highways, scattering gravel and sand on icy spots, keeping the roads open and helping motorists who become stranded. As a general thing, the worst weather conditions seem to prevail at night, keeping the crews out all hours.

This service is appreciated by the travelling public, but occasionally the highway employees come across the type of character who blames them for the road conditions, and expects de luxe treatment when he becomes stranded. Then, after he's pulled out of a ditch without cost highway workers get a grumble instead of thanks.

One night a few years ago, a severe snowstorm had clogged the highways and motorists were stranded right and left. Highway crews were operating almost a towing service in getting cars back on the roadway.

About 2 a. m. one of the crews came to a stalled Cadillac out on the Throckmorton highway. The irate driver inside the warm car rolled down one glass enough to angrily remark he'd been stranded there for 30 minutes, and where in the heck had they been.

Then as the shivering, half-frozen highway workers started to fasten a chain on the car bumper the car owner yelled "Don't scratch up that bumper, hook onto the frame under the car."

That was too much for the man with the tow chain, James Adkins, almost numb with cold as he told the driver inside the warm car: "Look, mister, we're trying to help you and other guys stuck on the road. But if you want this chain hooked on your car frame, get out and crawl under there yourself."

Needless to say, the chain was hooked onto the bumper.

Deputy Sheriff Garth Garrett learned a new slant on the way the mind of a drunk works.

He'd picked up a couple of dark-skinned boys the other night after they'd been hitting the bottle too often and too heavily. Carrying them to the courthouse, they were waiting for the arrival of the Justice of the Peace and Deputy Garrett asked: "Have you boys decided how you're going to plead?" "Well, suh, Mistuh Ga'th," one of the Negroes answered, "Ah's sho' drunk so Ah guess Ah'll jes' plead guilty." The other Negro after pondering the matter, came up with: "Mistuh Ga'th, Ah think Ah'll jes' plead unconscious."

Motorists Urged To Get Safety Check Now

The Texas Department of Public Safety warned motorists of the inconveniences of a last minute rush at safety inspection stations before the deadline, April 15. More than 3,000,000 of the 4,000,000 Texas motor vehicles have yet to receive their 1959 safety inspection stickers. In urging motorists to "do their safety shopping early" and avoid the rush at the 4,400 inspection stations, the safety department warned that those who fail to do so will be subject to traffic summons after April 15. The average cost of the safety inspection since the program began six years ago is $1.19 for needed repairs and $1 for the inspection fee.

Dallas To Open New Trade Mart On Feb. 22

A new concept in marketing for the Southwest and for the United States will be launched with the opening in February of the Dallas Trade Mart.

By giving the home furnishings and gift industries a single adequate location in which they can concentrate themselves in the Southwest, the Trade Mart and the Homefurnishings Mart which was completed last year bring a new era in wholesale marketing to the area.

The magnificent $18 million building, containing nearly one million square feet of wholesale showroom space, is another unit in the Master Market Center which is making Dallas one of the principal major regional markets in the country.

The Trade Mart will have its formal opening Feb. 22 in conjunction with its first major gift show. First tenants began moving into the building Dec. 20, less than seven months after construction of the giant building was begun.

The Trade Mart is the only wholesale merchandising building in the United States built around a glass-enclosed air-conditioned mall—one of the building's many features designed to make shopping a delight.

The mall is exotically planted with full grown trees, and has attractive pools mirroring the beauty of gardens hanging from bridges which connects the upper floors of the building.

The wide hallways of the showroom sections are constructed of concrete brick set in three-dimensional patterns and colorfully painted to break the monotony of long corridors. Showroom fronts are glass from ceiling to floor, giving full view from the hallways of the beautifully decorated and lighted showrooms which feature such appointments as walnut and burrip paneling, indirect lighting in the walls, fireplaces and gardens.

Three major gift markets, and potentially hardware and toy shows, are planned each year for the Mart which will be open for business every weekday.

In addition, the Home furnishings Mart's two week-long and nine two-day shows each year will benefit not only the furniture exhibitors in the Trade Mart but all the exhibitors.

Some 14,000 buyers from 14 southwestern and midwestern states, plus a healthy representation from New York, Ohio, South Carolina, West Virginia, Florida, Georgia, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming and Mexico already attend the Dallas markets.

The Trade Mart was designed by Dallas architects Harold Berry and Donald Speck and built by Trammell Crow, who also developed the Homefurnishings Mart and the Dallas Decorative Center.

Exterior of the four-story building is of pink and beige stone case in a geometric pattern designed exclusively for the Mart.

The entranceway is dominated by a 20x45 foot panel of filigree stonework which acts as a sunshade over a three-story glass balcony.

Waste in wood manufacturing has been cut to a large extent by using thinner saws. There is less useless sawdust.

'Don'ts' Listed To Help Firemen Get To Blaze

When the fire alarm siren sounds, don't call in to find out where the fire is. Firemen will be trying to get the same information.

Don't make a dash for the fire station. The fire truck comes out fast, is heavily loaded and is not designed for quick stops. It also has the right-of-way.

Don't follow the fire truck to the fire. You can only get in the way and delay some fireman who is risking his neck trying to get there in time to save somebody's life and property.

Don't fail to pull to the side of the street and stop when you meet a fire truck or hear one approaching. Wait a few minutes after the truck goes by before resuming your journey.

Don't turn into a street where firefighting equipment is busy. It may be necessary for the truck to make a fast dash after more water, or to lay lines to a hydrant.

Don't gang around a fire or the equipment when firemen are fighting a fire. They are concerned only with the fire and don't have time to look out for the safety of spectators.

Don't try to assist the firemen with hose or equipment at a fire unless requested. They are trained for their job and can do much better if left alone by amateurs.

Minutes count in fighting fires. Usually the first five to ten minutes determines whether a building is saved or lost. Don't interfere with those precious minutes.

The Navy's newest floating airfield, the aircraft carrier USS Independence, is equipped with two special food shaping machines that will automatically shape up 2,400 hamburgers an hour, coffee urns will make up to two gallons per minute, and automatic potato peelers are estimated to peel 1,000 potatoes an hour.

7-Step Cotton Program Helps Texas Growers

College Station—Texas cotton producers saved an estimated $50,000,000 in labor costs by harvesting approximately 2,000,000 bales by mechanical means during 1958. Too, reports Fred C. Elliott, extension cotton specialist, they saved another $14 million plus through the use of machines and chemicals for controlling grass and weeds in their cotton fields.

While the savings were being made, Elliott adds, they also set an all-time high of 387 pounds of lint an acre. The specialist credits the 7-Step Cotton Program initiated 13 years ago by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, as a major factor in the progress made by the producers of the state's most important crop.

The program, says Elliott, brought together on the county and state basis committees representing every segment of the cotton industry and all have worked to improve their industry. Since 1946 the average lint yield per harvested acre has been increased from 134 pounds to the 1958 record of 387 pounds.

Last year, county agents in 204 Texas counties assisted with various phases of the 7-step program. Elliott says that special emphasis was placed on the use of cotton burrs for soil improvement and also to reduce fire hazards. Burrs were spread on 9,735 farms in 129 counties. A few years ago most of the burrs were burned as waste.

Cotton followed phosphated legumes on 20,326 farms in 151 counties; barnyard manure was used on 7,685 farms in 151 counties to increase yields and defoliant or desiccant were used on 37,885 farms in 162 counties as an aid to mechanical harvesting.

In posting the $64 million plus savings in labor, cotton producers used 26,662 stripper harvesters and 1,831 spindle pickers in 133 and 78 counties respectively. The weed and grass control savings were made possible through the use of 44,496 rotary hoe equipped tractors in 157 counties and the use of spot treatment for Johnson grass control in 148 counties. Lateral oiling with post-emergence chemicals for weed control was used in 47 counties.

Elliott gives full credit to the 7-Step Cotton Committees and the county agricultural agents for the achievement record made under the program. The economy of the entire state has materially profited from the results of this cooperative effort, Elliott says.

them to eat. Their fence rows have multiflora roses. They are not cutting all the brush. They are leaving cover at the end of the turn rows. And they are careful in harvesting their crops, not to destroy nests.

In addition, many of them are planting birds. For example, there is a state bird farm at Tyler that produced several thousand quail each year. These are sold to landowners at a fraction of their cost, for restocking purposes.

Naturally if a farmer spends money for a few birds, he's going to provide adequate food and cover for them. As a result he'll have good shooting. He will be entitled to ask a fee from his friends in town to hunt on his property. After all when he goes to town he must pay for what he gets.

There still are some diehards. They think the yknow more about wildlife than the men who study it every day in the year and compare notes.

On the other hand, the experts admit they don't know everything, and there is a lot more to be learned. They are learning fast, however. And thanks to them, we are getting a brand of land management and hunter cooperation that will make hunting and fishing better each succeeding year.

The main street of Helena, Mont., was once named "Last Chance Gulch" by four discouraged prospectors. They decided to give up prospecting if they didn't find gold there. They found one of the biggest gold strikes in history.

Paint Creek . . . Community News

BY MRS. GENE OVERTON

The Paint Creek faculty was host Monday night to the Haskell County chapter of the Texas State Teachers Association. The dinner preceding the program and business meeting was catered by Nat's Cafe of Stamford and served by the Paint Creek Home Economic girls under the supervision of Miss Billie Boesher.

An enjoyable program of songs was given by the Nine Teens, a group of nine teenagers from Haskell High School coached by Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bell and accompanied by Mrs. Bell. They sang "The House I Live In" and "All I Have to Do Is Dream."

Presiding at the business meeting was David Garlington of Rule, president of the county TSTA chapter.

The speaker of the evening was Curtis Cook, managing editor of the Wichita Falls Daily Times. Mr. Cook has visited every country in the world except Australia. In every country he talked with managing editors of the large city newspapers, and visited the schools. Last year he visited 30 nations. He told of the feeling each country had for the U. S. and which countries were really our friends. He discussed Russia, Holland, Porto Rico, Cuba, Alaska, etc. His main conclusion was that friendship with other nations cannot be bought with foreign aid and loans, but by friendship alone. Examples were our giving the Philippines and other small territories their independence, and granting statehood to Alaska, and in other ways, helping without making other nations indebted to us for money.

About 80 attended the meeting. This is the end of the first six weeks of the second semester and test week for junior high and high school students in Paint Creek.

Basketball season is over at the end of this week as far as district play is concerned. Our boys haven't won many games, but they were all inexperienced and will be better next year. Too, we'll have more boys in high school next year. The girls have won every game except one, and we are hoping to see them beat the Rochester girls this week. Whether they do or not, they will be in the play off with Rochester. They must win two out of three games to win district and go to Canyon for the regional play. These games will be on some neutral court, probably in the Haskell gym.

The team who has been thrilling the fans is our junior girls' team. They have won the three tournaments they have entered. Avoca, O'Brien and our own junior tournament. In fact, they have won 38 consecutive games. That includes last year's games and some the year before. Coach James Raughton is their coach and a mighty proud one. He also coaches our senior girls' team. Tonight (Tuesday) both teams play Rochester here at our gym and Friday, we play the O'Brien boys and girls here.

I wasn't paying close attention when Mrs. Emma Alston told me about her farm being in the corner of Haskell County. She said Throckmorton County is east of her, and Shackelford County is south, and she goes to church and trades in Jones County at Stamford, and she lives in Haskell County.

Mrs. John Guillet, who was injured in a highway accident Christmas eve had the cast removed from her leg last week. Mrs. Guillet is the former Floy West and was raised at Post. She taught at Post and for several years at Paint Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Vrzalik and Edwin have moved to Old Glory. Edwin entered the first grade there last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Overton Sr. were in Petersburg Sunday and Monday visiting her sister Mrs. Catherine Terry, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Moody and little daughter Melissa, of Quitman were here over the weekend to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moody and his grandmother, Mrs. R. L. Medford.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Overton were in San Angelo Sunday afternoon to see her sister Mrs. Lillie Wilson.

Jesse Mickler returned home from the hospital Saturday and is up and about.

At the regular meeting of the school board Monday afternoon (afternoon because of the teachers' dinner that night), Supt. Pat Morrison was re-elected for next year. We surely are proud of our Mr. Morrison and feel we have one of the best schools anywhere under his superintendency.

Joan Marr of Abilene spent the weekend at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Marr, Kenneth and Elaine. She finished her beauty training at the school in Odessa last month and took the state examination for beauticians in Austin Jan. 7th. She works now at Lola's Hair Fashion Shop in Merchant Park Shopping Center on North 14th and Grape. Paint Creekers if you are in Abilene you might patronize Joan.

Allen Isbell was a business visitor in Abilene last Tuesday and again Monday when he took Mr. E. Overton's calves to the sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Haynes were Anson visitors Tuesday when they visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Haynes. Mr. Haynes is still a patient in the Anson hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Griffith are the proud grandparents of a new grandson, Young Michael Berry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Berry of Stamford who was born at the Stamford Sanitarium Feb. 2. He has an older sister, Glenda Jean.

Joe Bob Earles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jodie Eares is attending ACC in Abilene this semester.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Montgomery left Friday to Pleasanton for a visit with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Carlos Montgomery. Carlos and Pat are to attend an occupational meeting in Corpus Christi and the Montgomerys are going to stay with their grandchildren Johnny Paul and April while their parents are gone.

Mrs. Hildred Patterson underwent dental surgery at the Haskell Hospital last Friday morning. She is home now, and getting used to some new teeth.

Carolyn Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Cook began training to be a beautician at the Scoggin School of Beauty in Abilene.

Miss Faye Griffith, student nurse at the Hendrick School of Nursing in Abilene was a home over the weekend to visit her parents Mr. and Mrs. B. Griffith, Jimmy, Brenda and Linda and to see her new nephew, Michael Berry.

Mrs. Elmer Champion underwent minor surgery at the Haskell Hospital Friday and returned home Monday.

The Northern District chapter of Kotsa Lodge, Order of the Arrow, met recently in the Lions Club Hut in Anson. Joe Rosser Breed, vice chief of the Kotsa Lodge, presided during the organization and election.

Officers elected were: Culver Carney, Haskell, chapter chief; Joe Breed, Anson, chapter adult sponsor; Joe R. Breed, Anson, vice chief of Kotsa Lodge; Mike Blackman, Anson reporter; Mike Overton, Paint Creek, secretary; Johnny Eates, Rule, vice chief.

After the election, Chief Culver Carney appointed members to look for service projects in their respective towns that the Order might take part in to help their community. Their chairmen are Fred Hudson, Stamford; Mike Overton, Paint Creek; Joe Rosser Breed, Anson; Culver Carney, Haskell; Johnny Eates, Rule; Kenneth Baker, Albany. Service committee chairmen for the towns will be appointed later.

Haskell boys attending were Ken Stewart, Jeff Robertson, Ted Dement and Culver Carney. Mike Overton attended from Paint Creek. From Anson Joe Rosser Breed, Wayne Propst, Mike Blackburn and Joe Breed, chapter sponsor. From Rule Johnny Estes, Tom Whorton, Jackie Whorton, Jeff Lewis and Gary Woods, and from Albany Kenneth Baker and Sammy Bosnack.

We have the most interesting new resident in Paint Creek. He is Peter Chandor and he has moved his mobile home and 19 great Oreland Bull Mastiff dogs to his place here. His farm is on the new farm-to-market road across the road from the John Kuenstler place. Mr. Chandor is also going to be herdsman for Dr. David Ballard, since he doesn't live very far from Dr. Ballard's farm.

Mr. Chandor has had so many interesting experiences during his career in the British army during World War I and during his service in Her Majesty's army overseas. I have heard he is an authority on Shakespeare and may give some lectures at an Abilene college this spring.

We are honored to have Mr. Chandor in our community and we hope he likes us.

On Feb. 23, 1945 the American Flag was raised for the first time over the Japanese fortified island of Iwo Jima when members of the 28th Marines planted the Stars and Stripes on the highest point, Mount Suribachi.

Jimmy Vaughter Delegate To SMU Conference

Jimmy Vaughter, Haskell High School Senior was a delegate to the Senior Conference on Churchmanship on the campus of Southern Methodist University in Dallas Feb. 7 and 8. More than fifty carefully selected students from all sections of Texas were present for the Conference. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Vaughter. Since 1955 Southern Methodist University and the Highland Park Methodist Church in Dallas have co-sponsored the Senior Conference for the purpose of considering educational opportunities for future church leaders. The theme of the conference was the consideration of how the various professions and vocations, for which the individual is suited offer opportunities for devoted Christian service. Jimmy was nominated by the district superintendent of the Methodist Church as one of the outstanding high school seniors of his district.

"Tunnel of Love" Has Doris Day In Feature Roll

"The Tunnel of Love," the comedy about love in the suburbs sometimes described as a bedtime story for grownups, has been made into motion picture, following its long run success in New York and on the road, will show Sunday and Monday at the Texas Theatre. Doris Day and Richard Widmark play the suburban couple whose detours and hijinks have an air of hilarity if almost catastrophic results. Playing co-starring roles with Miss Day and Widmark are Gig Young, a detoured husband, and Gia Scala, as the social worker who operates above and beyond the call of duty. Elizabeth Fraser and Elizabeth Wilson repeat their original stage roles. Gene Kelly displays the same zip in directing as he does in acting in this, the first picture he has directed in which he does not appear. There are two opportunities for Doris Day to sing in the production: a title song, "Have Lips, Will Kiss in the Tunnel of Love," and "Run Away, Skidaddle Skidoo." She and Richard Widmark offer a surprise in their new comedy roles as Augie and Isidore Poole, a couple with a charming reconstructed barn in the suburbs but no baby in the bassinet.

In and Out The Tee-Pees

BY SUZANNE LANE

As the second period librarian, I have just finished reading this article published by the American Library Association: "The school library today can scarcely be thought of as the step-child it once was. At one time only the wealthiest schools could afford them, but now there is a library in almost every school. All but a fraction of one per cent of class room teachers feel that learning library skills should be an essential part of the education of every boy and girl in our school; and a healthy proportion feel a personal responsibility to assist in this development."

Our wonderful Haskell High School library has been through many changes this year. Many new shelves have been added to make room for the Dewey Decimal System of classification. The lovely new shelves, made by Mr. Overton and the shop boys, are made of oak. There is a card catalog and three cards are made for each book, a title card, another card and shelf list card.

All of these changes make our library the biggest "cultural center" in school.

More students use the library than any other place on the reservation. All the librarians are being trained to help all of the students use the library. We are thrilled that we have a "center of learning." We want and need so many things to make our room more attractive. Things like a magazine rack to display all of our good magazines, a newspaper rack, a new colorful paint job for the walls, and new shades for the windows.

We got an urge to make things a little finer after reading about all the good work being done in San Angelo. We may be limited financially, but not in energy!

Before College Day, this spring, we want the library to get a new "face lifting." Just now we're planning to put a few pot plants and a pot or two of ivy around to give us a little more cheerful surrounding. We've even heard it rumored that if the library can be completed the public will be invited to an "open house" sponsored by the Owls Club. Come and see our HHS Library. See you in seven moons.

were 23 persons fined for killing spike bucks; 15 for killing doe deer; 13 killing deer in closed season. Numerous other minor violations also were recorded.

The 715 persons arrested by game wardens during December paid fines totaling $20,925.78 and court costs of $1280 for a total of $22,205.78.

Among the cases made by the wardens, there were 15 dismissals and 15 who served jail sentences. In two cases fines were suspended. Three defendants were found not guilty.

Fence Jumpers Head List Of Game Charges

Trespassing continues to be the principal violation committed by hunters, according to the monthly arrest report of the director of law enforcement of the Game and Fish Commission. During December, 1958, there were 129 hunters who "crawled over the fence" to hunt on private property.

Night hunters, however, came a close second, with 124 arrests. The night hunting arrests were heaviest because of deer hunters who insisted on getting their venison with the use of headlights.

Next in line of violations were hunters and fishermen who failed to get their licenses. There were 103 such violations, with 58 hunters involved.

Most of the other hunting violations involved deer. There

Death Of Mrs. Mary Oates Removed Early Leader In Women's Civic Work

Mrs. Mary A. Oates, who died recently, was among the pioneer civic and church workers of Haskell, one of the leading women in the organization of mothers to help with the school problems of the small community and active in other church and civic affairs.

The following brief review of some of her activities was written by Mrs. C. L. Lewis of the Haskell Magazine Club.

With the passing of Mrs. Oates, her friends—and they were many—realize they have lost a true and faithful friend; also the whole community, which she loved and served so faithfully, realize it has lost a valuable citizen.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church. She loved her church and was one of the most faithful workers in the different organizations of the church: The Woman's Society, the Sunday School and in any place where her services were needed. A few years ago she was honored at a Mother's Day program at the church for being the oldest mother present.

She was the first president of the Mothers Club, known later as the Parent Teachers Association. She devoted many years to this work and her encouragement and sound advice helped the teachers and students of the school over many rough situations.

She was a life member of the Magazine Club and had held many offices and served as chairman on many important committees.

Mrs. Oates was true to her convictions, if she believed herself to be in the right she stood firm, even though she had to stand alone.

During World War I she was county chairman of the knitting committee. She was one of the five women of Haskell Red Cross workers, having spent the required number of working hours in the Red Cross room, received a badge of merit from the U. S. Government. She was also a faithful Red Cross worker during World War II. She carried on a correspondence with "her boys" while they were in the service, many of whom were childhood playmates of her grandson Dan, and they always affectionally called her "grandmother" and remembered her by always sending greeting cards on appropriate days.

During the great depression of 1933-34, when want and misery were abroad in the land, the government sent out food and material for clothing for the needy. A county chairman for the distribution of the material for clothing was needed. Mrs. Oates was appointed and served faithfully and well. The work room was on the third floor of the county court house, and Mrs. Oates climbed those stairs never missing a day from her work, where she spent long hours performing the many duties required of her, receiving no remuneration whatsoever.

Before her marriage Mrs. Oates taught school in Pok County. Ex-Governor William P. Hobby was one of her pupils.

The love that the people of the community had for her was demonstrated during her three years as a shut-in, by visiting bringing flowers and dainty food, and reading to her after her eyesight failed. She was deeply appreciative, as were her children, for the love and affection shown and for making the days brighter.

May her many friends look beyond the shadows and see another glorious and saintly presence added to the rejoicing hosts about the Eternal Throne, and let their convictions be: "I cannot say, and I will not say that she is dead. She is just away.

With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand, she has wandered into an unknown land, and left us dreaming how very fair.

It needs must be since she lingers there.

And you, oh you, who the wildest yearn, For the old time step and the glad return, Think of her still the same. I say, She is not dead. She is just away."

Egg Production, Price Outlook For 1959

Egg production in 1959 is expected to exceed that of 1958 due to increased rate of lay and a large number of layers and potential layers now on the nation's farms.

F. Z. Beanblossom, extension poultry marketing specialist, reports the number of pullets on farms in January 1, 1959, is likely to exceed the number of a year ago by about 10 per cent. In the south central states which includes Texas, on Nov. 1 pullets not of laying age exceeded by 35 per cent the number of a year ago. A larger monthly production is expected, Beanblossom says, through the late summer of 1959. By that time, the number of layers will begin to reflect the chick replacement hatch in the spring of 1959 which is unknown at this time.

As for egg prices, the specialist says indications point to a downward trend during the next six months. Prices early in 1959 are likely to be lower than those for a year ago. The small holdings of storage shell eggs, however, is likely to soften this price drop and by late summer or early fall, Beanblossom sees a chance for prices to improve depending upon the flock replacement situation. Prices for the last 3 months of 1958 should about equal those for the same period in 1958.

Beanblossom points out that improved breeding, management, feeds and commercial flocks have not only increased the number of eggs per layer, but have also resulted in a much more uniform year-round level of production. Eggs for the family table utilize about 74 per cent of the total national production. Farm families and keepers of backyard flocks use about 15 per cent of the total production and these eggs never enter commercial trade. About 5 per cent of the eggs produced are used for hatching purposes and 6 per cent are broken commercially for use as liquid, dried or frozen eggs.

Valentine Day Had Origin In Pagan Custom

St. Valentine's Day has long challenged historians to explain how a Christian saint became identified with a pagan custom of exchanging tokens of love.

The answer may be simply that somebody got his ABC's mixed up.

The research department of The World Book Encyclopedia points out that at one time the letters "v" and "ig" frequently were interchangeable in popular speech.

Among the Normans, the word "galantin" referred to a lover of the fair sex—probably a wolf, according to present-day termology. But the word often was pronounced "valentine."

By a natural confusion of names, the Christian martyr was established as the patron saint of sweethearts, and his name was given to the Roman festival at which young men and women chose partners for the coming year.

Some historians argue, however, there is another explanation for giving the name St. Valentine Day to the Roman holiday.

Haskell Man In Group Discussing Farm Problems With Lawmakers

A. M. Turner, who returned last week from a trip to Washington, D. C., with a group of Texas farmers and members of the Farmers Union, reports that his week's stay in Washington was highlighted by transmission of the President's farm message to Congress and by further developments on Capital Hill looking toward passage this session of a new major farm bill.

Meantime, at the urging of the Democratic leadership, lawmakers from farm districts studied a number of bills already introduced to improve farm income. Two under special consideration were the comprehensive all-commodity Farm Income Act (H. R. 2490) put in by Rep. Lee Metcalf (D.-Mont.) and the Agricultural Income Equalization (direct payment) Act (S. 306) introduced by Sen. Herman Talmadge (D.-Ga.). In an open letter to Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson (D.-Tex.), Pres. James G. Patton of the National Farmers Union has suggested that some combination of the two aforesaid bills would be an acceptable new approach. It would thus have as its framework a comprehensive system of commodity programs, empowering farmers to keep market supplies in reasonable balance with needs and providing parity income deficiency payments when and as needed. Such a combination, wrote Patton, would be adapted to agriculture generally, with all its types of farming, and it would provide full income support up to the output of the family farm. Moreover, it would expand domestic consumption and greater use of the U. S. farm surpluses to promote economic development.

In talking with their Congressmen, members of the four-state delegation likewise referred to the need for farm income improvement through more effective supply control and consumption expansion, supplemented as necessary by deficiency payments. They also discussed rural electrification and power transmission issues and the wider use of surplus foods through special milk and school lunch programs and through more extensive export assistance under Public Law 480.

In connection with the overseas distribution discussion, the delegation noted that Rep. W. R. Poage (D.-Tex.), vice-chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, had introduced a bill authorizing credit disposal of U. S. farm surpluses to assist economic development abroad. Under this bill, the importing countries could make 10-year contract with a repayment period of as long as 40 years. Any purchases thus made, however, would have to be in addition to usual imports from friendly nations. The U. S. Secy. of Agriculture would be required to offer other exporting countries and opportunity to participate in any supply programs developed under the authority.

The Farmers Union organization has asked Congress to consider a permanent PL 480 program, involving up to $3 billion per year of sales for foreign currencies and up to $500 million in direct donations for foreign relief. Members of the delegation also urged their Congressmen to support the permanent extension of the schools, non-profit summer special milk program for camps and child-care centers and of some form of the food stamp plan for needy families. They expressed opposition to attempts to impose heavier interest and tax burdens on cooperatives, including rural electric and telephone units.

In visits to the Department of State and of Agriculture, the delegations heard reports on the current world situation and on some of the latest farm research efforts.

Mr. Turner says his visit to Washington impressed on him the value of strong organizations to keep Congress and administrative officials advised of farmers' problems. He reports that many of the people in official Washington showed keen interest in viewpoints brought direct from the country by such means as the Farmers Union bus trips.

For 1959, Mercury's got what the other new cars forgot. For example, Mercury's new car that remembers "the man in the middle."

Other new cars still have that big tunnel-hump in the center of the floor. The "6-passenger" models are only comfortable for 4 passengers. Center-seat passengers with their legs doubled up. But Mercury has cut the hump in half—shrunk it into a flat. Seat cushioning is deep and soft. There's solid, stretch-out comfort wherever you sit.

Residents In Sweden Since 1957, Haskell Family Home For Visit

Mr. and Mrs. Payne Hattox and children, Tommy and LaVerne, have returned from Stockholm, Sweden, and plan to spend several months in Haskell and this area.

Since going to Stockholm in May, 1957, Mr. Hattox has been working in behalf of the Church of Christ. He helped establish a congregation in Stockholm and has been serving as minister.

A former business man here, during which time he also served as City Alderman several years, Hattox disposed of his business interests to become a minister in the Church of Christ.

During the time the family has lived in Stockholm the two Hattox children, Tommy, 14, and LaVerne, 12, have attended Swedish schools and speak the language without difficulty.

Mr. and Mrs. Hattox also have mastered the language to the extent that the minister preaches to his congregation in their native tongue.

He says the Swedish people are intelligent and enterprising. They are very friendly to Americans, and take pride in boasting that they rank next to the United States in national progress.

ing a county-wide property appraisal, which he said would require several months to complete. This plan is being followed by numerous counties, including Taylor, Howard, Ector, Wilbarger and others in this area.

In every instance, Prichard said, property owners and taxpayers have expressed approval because of the more equal distribution of taxes.

During the discussion, several expressed their endorsement of the proposed county-wide appraisal program, with no opposition being voiced against the proposal.

County officials explained that the matter is merely under study at this time, with a definite decision due later.

County Judge Alvis and several of the Commissioners pointed out that a cooperative program might be worked out through which the county and each city and school district in the county could share costs of the initial survey. Each taxing agency would pay a proportionate part of the cost on the property within the boundaries of the respective taxing units, it was explained.

Report On Camp Sweeney Drive Given Lions

A report on progress to date in the fund raising campaign for Camp Sweeney, summer camp for diabetic children, was given at the meeting and luncheon of the Lions Club Tuesday at noon in the Texas Cafe.

Max Bentley, Abilene, well-known retired newspaperman, told the club that 77 Haskell givers had contributed $684.50 in the current drive. Bentley, one of the owners and former managing editor of the Abilene Reporter-News, now devotes most of his time in helping the Southwestern Diabetic Foundation, which operates Camp Sweeney.

The Abilene man has been here helping Lions in the campaign, in which Haskell Jaycees are co-sponsors.

Lion Theron Cahill, program chairman, presented an interesting film, "African Rhythm." It depicted the history of Africa, portraying native customs and particularly the music and dances which reflect the way the people live. In some of the scenes, Liberian dancers were pictured performing their ritual dances while on eight-foot stilts.

Africa, or Liberia, is fast becoming a modern country, and has several large cities which were shown in the film.

Rule is located at the highest elevation of any town in the county, 1,672 feet above sea level. Sagerton is next, 1,635 feet, while Rochester is at 1,601, Haskell 1,553 and Weinert 1,532 feet elevation.

Life Insurance Speaker's Topic At Rotary Club

Life insurance can be considered "money for future delivery," Ferrell Coston of this city told Rotarians in a classification talk at the weekly meeting and luncheon of the Rotary Club Thursday at noon in the Texas Cafe.

Coston, employed by Shell Oil Company here, is also representative for one of the Southwest's largest life insurance companies. He explained the various types of insurance and told of many forms in which insurance could be used, to create estates, form trust funds, provide income for a family, retirement, etc.

In the business session, President Tom Barfield appointed a nominating committee composed of Haskell Stone, Henry Withers and Robert Wheatley to select a slate of club officers for the coming year.

Members also voted to enter an attendance contest with Rule and Rochester Rotarians, with the loser to entertain the winners at an inter-city feed in Rule. The contest will run through March and April.

Mayor Ira Hester gave a brief report on progress to date on the Student Council center now under construction.

Members were reminded of the approaching District Conference in Fort Worth. Concluding the business session, members selected the name of "Rotary Roundup" for the club's weekly bulletin.

Club pianist Mrs. Ruth Withers was accompanied for an excellent sing-song by Joel Wilson, Abilene Rotarian who
