Help Of Goodfellows Is Needed To Brighten Christmas In Many Homes

Between 40 and 50 families in Haskell and vicinity will be dependent upon the Goodfellows for any Christmas happiness which may be brought into their homes during the holiday season. Because of circumstances, these families will be denied any semblance of holiday cheer unless the Goodfellows can provide it for them. In turn, the Goodfellows are dependent upon the generous hearts of Haskell people in helping fill the Christmas baskets to be distributed to the less fortunate families in our community.

4 New Residents Are Listed Here During Week

Four families are included among the new residents moving to Haskell during the past week, the weekly survey of the Chamber of Commerce revealed. Cooperating with the C. of C., a committee from the Progressive Study Club contacts newcomers to Haskell and presents gift certificates which are a courtesy of local stores. Newest residents of Haskell are:

- J. S. Hancock, 206 South Avenue G.
- Borden Clifton, manager, Texas Seismograph, 405 North Avenue C.
- Charles Bates, 1205 North 12th Street.
- W. J. Kendrick, 905 North Avenue L.

Who'some food, candy, fruits, and a few toys where there are children in the families, are the principal items going into the holiday baskets the Goodfellows will distribute at Christmas time. You can become a Goodfellow by sending in a contribution today to help fill the Christmas baskets. Simply hand or mail your donation to "Goodfellows, c/o Haskell Free Press, Haskell." The full list of contributions received will be published in the newspaper each week. Donations through Wednesday morning:

- Merry Dames$5.00
- A Friend 1.00

Switch to Dial Phone Service Will Be Made Here Dec. 7

December 7 is "D-Day" for telephone customers in Haskell. After 1:05 a. m., customers in Haskell will be able to dial directly to any other number in town without the assistance of an operator. Robinette stressed the importance of knowing the correct new telephone numbers of the person you wish to call. This information has been supplied in the new directories that will be issued Dec. 7. As well as all local, personal and business calls, the numbers are listed for all emergency calls, such as the police department, fire department, ambulances, etc. The district manager advised all customers to make a special list of these numbers so that they could be readily found in the case of an emergency, and also requested that customers in Haskell inform their friends and business acquaintances out of town of their new telephone numbers, as this would permit a much more rapid completion of incoming long distance calls.

Mr. Woodall was driving a tractor to a farm a few miles east of town. He had stopped to have Clyde Mayfield of Weinert refuel the tractor with butane. After driving down the road 75 or 100 yards, Mr. Woodall lost control of the tractor, possibly when it struck a rut or some small obstruction. The vehicle crashed across a deep ditch and hit several small trees before coming to a stop. Mr. Woodall suffered a crushed chest and internal injuries, and multiple fractures of his left leg and left arm. Among the first to reach the injured man were Mayfield and Hollis Howard. Both were a short distance from the scene but did not see the accident. They summoned a Holden ambulance to bring the injured man to the Haskell hospital. Hall was dead on arrival at the Haskell County Hospital, where he was brought by an ambulance from McCauley Funeral Home in Munday. It was believed that a tire blew out on Hall's late model Mercury about the time he negotiated a curve about 200 yards from the site of the accident. C. E. Mayfield, who lives about a block from the highway, said he thought he heard a tire blow out immediately before the crash. Hall's car hit an unoccupied 1953 Mercury belonging to Eddie Ray Swanner. Swanner's car rolled over two or three times and came to rest against the H. D. Griffin home, about 60 or 70 feet from the point of impact. Mexican Bracero Shot As Climax To Beer Party

The victim, Cervantes Hernandez Refugio, about 23, was taken to the Knox City Hospital, suffering with bullet wounds in his shoulder. The injuries were not considered critical. Sheriff Bill Pennington, who joined in investigating the shooting, recovered a .22 caliber automatic pistol believed to have been used by Ochoa. Ochoa was being held in the county jail Monday afternoon. Charges will be dependent upon the outcome of the wounded Mexican's injuries, the sheriff said.

Pay Raise Issue Not Dead

Higher pay for legislators is an issue that's buried, but not dead. Voters buried it under a two-to-one avalanche of disapproving ballots when it was submitted as a constitutional amendment Nov. 4. But already there is talk of trying it again. It is being discussed both by those who supported "Amendment One" and those who fought hardest against it. Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo, leading spokesman for the opposition, has indicated he may submit a pay raise plan of his own next session. Hardeman attacked the recent proposal, not on the principle of better pay for legislators, but on the grounds that the amendment was a muddled conglomeration of too many things. State AFL-CIO, which worked for Amendment One, is plugging for re-submission of the annual pay question. AFL-CIO headquarters officials sent a letter to legislators expressing regret that the amendment did not pass and placing the blame on labor's favorite targets—business lobbyists and newspapers. Whatever the merits of the case, a lot of people in the state agencies in Austin are glum about the prospect of facing a disgruntled, pinch-penny Legislature next year. With the general revenue fund in the red, there's bound to be an effort to cut expenses. In addition, state employees fear, there'll be a feeling among lawmakers that "If we can work for peanuts, so can you."

Collect Personal Property Taxes

(The Wellington Leader)

The Canyon News speaks out editorially this week on a problem shared by every local taxing unit in this area, including Collingsworth: We have been aware for quite a while that some people do not bother to pay their personal property taxes to the county, school or city. And we knew in general that the delinquent rolls are fairly big. But we weren't prepared for what we saw when we looked at the delinquent personal property rolls in the last few days. The bare facts are that between five and seven or eight percent of the value on the personal property rolls goes delinquent each year. And that at the end of the year, only about 10 per cent of the delinquencies are redeemed. This leaves the total taxes due each of the three agencies quite large. For instance: About $18,000 goes delinquent each year on the Randall County rolls. And about $1800 is redeemed, leaving a balance of $16,200 still due. The figures for the school district and city are lower because their tax rolls are smaller. Personal property taxes, unlike real property taxes, are not collectable after four years. (Real property taxes go on and on, staying with the land until they are paid in full.) An inspection of the delinquent tax rolls shows the same names each year. And the same names show up on all three of the tax-agency rolls. It would create quite a shock and considerable unhappiness if the names of the delinquents were published. Some of the names belong to well-known people who generally enjoy a good reputation. We look at the situation this way. The three governments should ask that the delinquents pay up, or institute suit to recover the back taxes. Or, if the three governments refuse, they should cease assessing personal property taxes. We can think of no reason why the normal, law-abiding, self-respecting citizen should be assessed for personal property and pay year after year, and others be left off. Remember, if the tax stays delinquent more than four years it is written off. If everyone paid the personal property taxes each year, the county would have about $18,000 a year more, the city would have about $3,000 and the school about $8,000. We believe that personal property tax suits should be filed soon, and that those taxpayers who refuse to pay up should be held up in the bright light of public opinion through publication of their names.

PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS

By A. PATE

Within the space of a few days, on Dec. 7 to be exact, our telephones will be switched to dial operation.

Call us "old fogey" if you will, but we don't like it.

Automatic dial is modern, more efficient, the latest achievement in progress and all that, we are told. We can't dispute progress neither can we argue with electronic advances.

But we still don't like it. We're going to miss those friendly, courteous and helpful operators. That's another fact we don't like.

How can you fuss with an electrical gadget that merely gives out with a buzz-buzz or beep-beep when you demand to know why your call to Po-dunk hasn't gone through?

How will a cold, heartless mechanical device react in the middle of a winter night when a frantic voice says: "I need a doctor, please call anyone you can get." Or a frightened whisper: "There's a burglar in our house, tell the police to hurry." Or a desperate voice trembling with fear saying: "Get the fire department, quick; my house is afire all over." How will a mass of coils and magnets handle situations like these?

Exaggerated? No sir, a flat no. These exact emergencies have happened right here in Haskell, more times than one. And there've been other emergencies, too.

We recall not too long ago when night operators reported a fire in a business building across the street from the exchange. Their prompt action enabled firemen to control a blaze that could easily have destroyed a block of business buildings.

We'll say for cool-headedness and devotion to duty our telephone operators are without equal.

Last spring a severe wind-storm, the worst in Haskell's history, hit in late afternoon. A tornado alert was out and a twister had been spotted near Rule, moving in the direction of Haskell. The town was deserted, everyone had sought the safety of storm cellars. Operators on duty in the local exchange had been alerted of the storm's approach and were instructed to leave the switchboards and stand against the walls of the building. But in the face of warning and apparent danger, they stayed at their post. We know that personally, because they kept us in contact with the hospital, the fire and police departments during all the storm.

Oh, we've had our run-ins with the operators. A red-headed one in particular, but this same operator and many others have gone out of their way time after time to be helpful. On occasions when we were sufficiently thoughtful, we thanked them for their help. Now we're saying thanks to every one of them again.

Yes sir, after Dec. 7 when we pick up the phone we're going to miss that pleasant, friendly, "Number, please?" And we don't like it.

Charlie Quattlebaum was exhibiting a 50-year-old relic the other day that had most people stumped when asked to identify the article. Charlie himself had to go back as far as his "barefoot" days in remembering the gimmick.

It was an old-fashioned spring-type bottle cap, the kind known as "soda pop." Instead of removing a cap from the bottle, you merely shoved the spring top down—and out spewed the pop!

Charlie found the ancient stopper and portion of a pop bottle in his garage the other day. He doesn't remember seeing one of the old-time bottle stoppers since he was a youngster. He wonders if anyone can tell with a year or so when this type of bottle capping went out of style.

This talk of "feeling an inner glow of righteousness" which comes to us after helping a stranger in distress is all for the birds a lot of times, according to Ray Lusk and Troy Ash.

Especially when your efforts to help are rewarded with a "cussing out" from strangers tanked up on hair tonic.

Near Weinert recently, Ray and Troy noticed a stalled car partly off the highway. Hood over the motor was raised and two men and a woman were milling around the vehicle.

Stopping to see if they could help, they were told by the woman, "Yeah, you guys can fix it, jush 'd—ignition, or fuel pump, or sumpin'" as she clumped into the back of the car.

Ray noted that the underside of the hood was coated with several years accumulation of oily dust, while the motor looked as if it had been given an oil-and-mud bath.

As Troy leaned cautiously over the motor and partly under the hood, Ray heard the woman mutter to one of the men who had joined her in the car: "If 'at so-and-so wasn't scared he'd get his d—hat dirty he could find the trouble!"

That did it. Ray and Troy told the trio in appropriate and understandable language of a destination for which they could head, either on foot or in their car if they could get it started!

Couple of used car salesmen, said to be from Breckenridge, who found quick sales for some of their slow-moving jalopies among migrant farm workers around Rochester, more than likely will revamp their repossession methods in the future.

A Negro cotton picker working near Rochester bought one of their old model cars, but was unable to pay the full down payment. He was given possession of the car anyway, since the dealers couldn't complete the title right then. After making several weekly payments, he still had no title, so he held off paying the down payment balance.

The "dealers" then took collection matters in their own hands. Stopping the Negro on a farm road, they demanded the car. The Negro demanded a title to the vehicle. Words passed as tempers climbed.

Stern measures were demanded, so the men started slugging the Negro, who squirmed and ducked and dodged—but stayed in his jalopy. Passerbys notified officers, and the law stepped in.

After all the details had been recounted in Justice Court, the car dealers learned their repossession tactics were in extremely bad taste and frowned upon by the law. To impress that fact, the aggressively-minded dealers were fined $44.50 each.

The Negro got off without a fine. He still had the jalopy, a few bruises and whelps, but no title.

A good many people drop all their money trying to pick up more.

Haskell Man Returns To Arkansas For First Visit In 70 Years

When Iron Pearsey of this city decided recently that he would visit his boyhood home back in Arkansas after an absence of 70 years, he had no idea that his return would result in the splash of newspaper publicity he received. The following article is from the Nov. 18 issue of the Hot Springs, Ark., Sentinel-Record: Iron Pearsey of Haskell, Texas, was 13 years old when he first visited Hot Springs. That was 70 years ago. He came back last week for the first time. "This sure has grown into a nice town and I don't plan to wait another 70 years before my third visit," the transplanted Arkansan declared. "Maybe next spring I can return for some fishing on the new lake (Ouachita)." Pearsey is now 83 years old. It was in 1888 when he ventured to Hot Springs from Star City with his family. They came in a covered wagon and spent six weeks visiting his mother's brother, Edd Reason Halsell, who lived on a farm on the Ouachita river. The property since has become part of Lake Ouachita. He also recalls visiting the then thriving towns of Bear and Crystal in Garland County. Standing out most vividly in his memory of their first trip was the old wooden observatory tower atop Hot Springs Mountain. It was replaced in 1906 by the present steel observatory. Pearsey remembered that you could see the moon through a telescope atop the tower, which was about 75 feet high. Shortly after the Hot Springs visit his mother died, and he and his sister went with an older half brother, Will Pearsey, to Texas. He said his trip west in a covered wagon in 1888 took over two months over muddy roads where at times the wheels sank to the hubs. His trip back last week over paved roads required about nine hours. Pearsey, his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Pearsey, and great-grandson, Jeff Robertson, all of Haskell, Texas, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hill in Hot Springs. Pearsey is a half brother of Mrs. Hill's father, Rese Wright. He also visited a half sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Harvey, who celebrated her 74th birthday last April 21. Among other relatives he saw were first cousins, Mrs. Della Reed 83, and Perry Halsell, 76, of Mountain Pine; and Edd Halsell; children of his uncle, Edd Reason Halsell; and a great-granddaughter, Mrs. Frank Cline. Pearsey had lost all contact with his mother's relatives until this past summer when Mrs. Cline contacted him while trying to learn something of the early family history of the Halsell family. When he found out he had relatives still living here, he made plans to come. He visited the tower, Happy Hollow, the Alligator Farm, and some sites he remembered from his first trip 70 years ago. Buffalo which once frequented this section were killed out in the 1870's.

Winds Demolish Brooder House On Peiser Farm

Reports of destruction caused by last week's windstorm continue to come in from various sections of the county. Willie Peiser, farmer and poultry raiser living in the Mattson community, lost his large brooder house, together with 2,100 of the 2,800 baby chicks he had only recently received from a hatchery. The building was a complete loss, and Peiser will be unable to salvage any of the material from the ruined building in rebuilding the brooder house. Tornado winds buckled both ends of the structure, splintering and wrecking it completely. Peiser had just finished attending to the chickens and had left the brooder house when he saw the storm coming. He threw himself down beside a butane tank and escaped injury.

Hogs Bring Best Prices If Sold At 200-225 Pounds

Hog producers can help the marketing situation by going to town with their animals when they reach the top weight of 200 to 225 pounds. E. M. Regenbrecht, extension swine husbandman advises hog feeders against marketing overweight animals. No practice, he says, has a worse record for weakening the market. If hogs are fed beyond the top weight of 200 to 225 pounds, more than two-thirds of the additional gain will be fat. Too, points out the specialist, more feed will be required to make each pound of gain to say nothing about market penalties for the extra fat. The problem of dealing with overfinished hogs doesn't end at the market. The packer must trim and merchandise the fat which is already a burdensome surplus. Too, many times the retailer must do more trimming on the cut to make it acceptable to the consumer. By marketing hogs at the correct weight, Regenbrecht says the overall marketing situation will be improved which includes the maintenance of top prices.

Disappearance Of Man Thought Drowning Victim Cleared Up

Mystery surrounding the disappearance last Dec. 29 of Fritz Seyfarth, 30-year-old petroleum engineer, under circumstances indicating he had been drowned in Lake Stamford has been cleared up, State Ranger Byron Currin of Vernon and Haskell Sheriff Bill Pennington said this week.

Seyfarth is alive and was in California a short time ago where he made application for a job with a major oil company, the officers have learned. "We are positive of the identification," the officers said.

Seyfarth's mother, who lives in Houston, also has told officers she "had information through friends" that her son was living.

And Seyfarth's divorced wife, who with the couple's two children live in Enid, Okla., reported to officers a few weeks ago that her former husband had been seen in that city, Sheriff Pennington and Ranger Currin said.

As far as local officers are concerned Seyfarth's present whereabouts are immaterial, since there are no charges pending in connection with his disappearance, Sheriff Pennington declared. However, Seyfarth had been listed as a "missing person" in the February 1958, bulletin of the State Department of Public Safety.

Seyfarth, believed to have drowned in 12 to 18-foot water, was the object of an intensive week-long search by several hundred volunteer workers.

In the early stages of the rescue attempt, a U. S. Air Force helicopter from San Angelo joined in the search and made several low level flights over the lake.

Searchers working in relays dragged the lake area day and night for seven days before the rescue efforts were narrowed to a schedule of daily patrols. The search was finally abandoned after several weeks.

Seyfarth was a petroleum engineer employed by Katz Oil Company near Knox City. A boating enthusiast and frequent visitor at the lake south-east of Haskell, he had gone there in the afternoon of Dec. 29 to retrieve a capsized sailboat he had left moored to a permanent buoy in the lake about 100 yards from shore.

When last seen about dusk, he was in a rowboat pulled up beside the capsized skiff. His car and trailer, together with some personal effects was still at the lakeside the following morning, creating apprehension that he had drowned. The rowboat, still tied to the skiff and buoy, contained wrenches and pliers, along with a bolt that had been removed from the skiff's mast.

After being advised of her son's disappearance, Seyfarth's mother came from Houston, and a brother, a U. S. Air Force officer stationed in England, returned on emergency leave to be with his mother here during the search.

In addition to search of the lake waters, local officers joined by State Rangers Currin of Vernon and Gene Graves of Sweetwater made an intensive investigation of circumstances in connection with Seyfarth's disappearance.

One angle of the case for which officers could never find a satisfactory explanation, developed in Abilene four days after the engineer's disappearance. Officers learned that on Jan. 2 a telephone call to the Abilene airport requested plane reservations for a "Fritz Seyfarth" from Abilene to Dallas. Two hours later the reservation was cancelled in another telephone call. Officers checked into the incident thoroughly but were never able to identify the caller.

WEEKEND VISITORS

R. M. (Bob) Cousins and youngest son, "Bimbo" spent the weekend here visiting in the home of their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Al Cousins and with friends. Mr. Cousins is assistant warden at the State Prison system's farm near Rosharon.

It takes a raft of friends to keep some people afloat.

Twister Damages Buildings On Howard Farm

Property damage of between $3,000 and $4,000 was caused by a small "twister" which hit the O. L. Howard farm east of Rule last week during the severe wind and rainstorm which was general over this section.

The twister hit about 5:45 a. m., and completely demolished two poultry houses located about 100 or 150 feet from the Howard home. An REA electric transmission line pole was twisted off at its base and fell, almost striking the house.

A short distance away, a telephone pole was blown down, falling across a brooder house and damaging the roof of the structure. Twisting winds also damaged two trailers and a tractor near the farmhouse, and ripped metal covering from a cellar door near the house, Howard reported.

Howard, who raises poultry in addition to farming, said the storm killed 23 hens and 21 baby chicks in his flock of about 1,300 birds.

Paint Creek . . . Community News

BY MRS. GENE OVERTON

Let us bow our heads, Paint Creek, and gratefully thank God for such a bountiful year. Not in a long time have we had such crops of wheat, cotton and maize as we have had this year. Patches of corn, peas, beans, melons and pumpkins were raised right in the fields, and anybody who took the trouble had a wonderful vegetable garden. We are dryland farmers, but we have had God's own irrigation system. Our cattle stood knee deep in pasturage, and our stock tanks and creeks were full all summer.

Our community has grown too, with young couples coming back to farm who want to raise their children in the country, and who want to farm because they love farming.

Our school is the best it has been in a long time with an increased enrollment, and a wonderful faculty. So let's be humbly thankful this Thanksgiving season.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Overton, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Overton and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Montgomery were in Dallas Monday to spend the day with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Montgomery. Mrs. Montgomery is in Baylor Hospital taking three weeks of treatment. She was able to spend last Sunday in Grand Prairie with her daughter, Mrs. Boyd Cathey, Mr. Cathey and Elizabeth.

Mrs. Seth Burt of Odessa has been here the past two weeks visiting her parents in Haskell and she spent one afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Mack Earles. Mrs. Burk is the former Mrs. Manuel Gunn.

Recent visitors in the Bill Tate home were Mrs. Tate's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Barton from Abilene.

Mrs. Pat Morrison and Marcia Jo, Mrs. Bill Tate, Mrs. Howard Montgomery and Mrs. Gene Overton shopped in Abilene last Wednesday. Mrs. J. B. Doty lost her father Lee Z. Watts of Avoca last week. He died Thursday at the Stamford Sanitarium. He was buried on Friday in the Spring Creek Cemetery. Mr. Watts was 71 years old, and had farmed in the Avoca area since 1904.

Mr. and Mrs. Doc Raughton were in Robert Lee last week where they helped their daughter's family move to San Antonio. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sims, Karen and Boxer will live in San Antonio where Ray has accepted the position of assistant county agent of Bexar County. This is considered one of the best jobs in the state for an assistant agent, and we know Ray will do a wonderful job. Bexar County has so much livestock and Ray is a specialist with cattle. He has been herdsman for several big ranches over Texas, and while he was working on his degree at Texas Tech, he was herdsman for the Tech cattle. While serving as assistant agent at Robert Lee, his boys took many of the ribbons on their club calves at the West Texas Fair in Abilene.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brewer were injured in a car accident near Snyder over the weekend and both are patients in a Snyder hospital, but we couldn't find out how badly they were hurt.

The storm week before last did considerable damage in the community, and all over the county. At the O. G. Houston farm a window was blown out of the kitchen, two hen houses were blown over, Mrs. Houston's chickens and turkeys were killed, a mesquite tree was blown down, and flying timber broke the valve on all their butane tank and they lost all their butane. An oil field worker who lives in a mobile home near the Houston oil well had a terrible time. The house blew over on the side where the door was. The butane line was broken and he couldn't get out. So he just opened the window and waited until help came.

The FFA girls, with their chapter sponsor, Miss Billie Basher, entertained their parents, their Chapter Mothers and Fathers, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fischer and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Bean with a Thanksgiving dinner Tuesday night at the Home Ec. Cottage. The table was decorated with the Horn of Plenty and fall fruits, leaves and flowers. There was a short program and then a business meeting.

Guests in the Paul Fischer home on Wednesday evening to help Mrs. Fischer celebrate her birthday were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peiser Mr. and Mrs. Mueller and children, Mrs. Annie Peiser and Mrs. Emma Puschel, all of Mattson. Gene and Mike Overton and Willie Lee Medford were in College Station Saturday where they saw the Aggie freshmen and the Texas U. freshmen play their annual charity football game. If the Aggie fish win, the freshmen in the corps of Cadets get to have their hair longer. This year's freshman class will have short burr haircuts until May.

The community will have its college students during the holidays and we parents can hardly wait. I, for one, must stop this news and get to cooking.

In and Out The Tee-Pees

BY SUZANNE LANE

As Henry Ford once said, "A good teacher . . . is a good sign post." This certainly proved true when the Haskell High School Indians turned out in full dress for the book review Monday night. "The Last Stitch" by William L. Crothwait, M. D., was reviewed by Mrs. Arlos Weaver. The book review was sponsored by the O. W. L. Club.

If we were to ask ourselves which of the four seasons of the year we like best, perhaps the Indians would say "autumn" because it brings football and holidays. Autumn is also the season of thankfulness. It is a golden close of a glorious year when God's bounty has blessed us with plenty for which we offer thanks.

Since the smoke signals have gone up that the Thanksgiving holidays will start this week, the chiefs, squaws, maidens, and braves of HHS are mindful of the many things for which they should be thankful.

The maidens and braves are especially thankful for their school; for their fully equipped class rooms; the fine faculty; and good buildings. For all of these things, and many more, we are truly grateful.

VISITORS FROM OKLAHOMA

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Carothers and daughter Penny of Swink, Okla., spent last week visiting relatives in Haskell, Rule, and Rochester.

Salvation Army, Red Cross, Aid Storm Victims

Things looked mighty bleak for Mr. and Mrs. Pablo Soto and their eight children last week after a severe windstorm had destroyed all their possessions when the storm demolished the small house in which they were living at Weimer.

Then the local units of the Red Cross and Salvation Army came into the picture.

Advised of the plight of the Mexican farm family, the two agencies provided immediate help for the storm victims.

Clothing, including shoes, socks, underwear, dresses, pants and jackets were purchased for all members of the family, the sum of $141.50 being expended for this purpose alone. Also provided were blankets and bedding, and a quantity of kitchen utensils, along with a large assortment of groceries.

In all, more than $200 was expended for relief of the migrant family.

Red Cross and Salvation Army expressed their appreciation to merchants, who gave liberal discounts on purchases made for the unfortunate family.

It will be a matter of time before the greens and fairways are considered in excellent playing condition, but the course will be playable on the opening date. Since there are still some details to be completed, members and other interested persons are asked to "pitch in and do the job" before opening date set for the course.

Store Window Unveiling

As a prelude to the parade, Christmas windows in Haskell stores will be unveiled Thursday evening, Dec. 4, and all stores will remain open until 8 p. m. to enable the public to inspect the displays of Christmas and holiday merchandise featured this year.

An added holiday feature, beginning Thursday evening, Dec. 4 and continuing each Thursday night until Christmas, merchants will award attractive prizes to the person guessing nearest to the retail cost of merchandise displayed in store windows.

Boxes will be placed in each store where customers may leave their estimates along with their name and address. Prizes worth up to $5.00 will be given the winner on the morning following each day's contest.

In connection with this Christmas feature, the stores will remain open for evening shoppers on Dec. 11 and Dec. 18.

Christmas Gifts of 300 Silver Dollars

Beginning Saturday, Dec. 6, $300 in silver dollars will be given as Christmas presents to persons who have registered cars in Haskell County. Newcomers or those who do not own cars can register for the awards by leaving their names at the Chamber of Commerce.

Awards amounting to $100 in silver dollars will be made Saturday afternoon, Dec. 6, Dec. 12 and Dec. 20.

In charge of this event to be held on the courthouse lawn, will be Tom Bartfield, Roy Johnson and Barney Frazier.

As an added feature during the holiday season, Philip Spain will play Christmas music selections from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. each Saturday afternoon until Christmas.

Plans for the Santa Claus Parade and a varied holiday program of awards and entertainment have been arranged under the supervision of Mrs. Byron Frazier and Loraine Johnson of the C. of C. retail trade committee.

LOCAL SECRETARY HONORED

Delegation of 25 From County At State Farm Bureau Convention

Haskell County was well represented at the state convention of the Texas Farm Bureau in Corpus Christi last week, with a delegation of 25 Farm Bureau members and wives in attendance.

At the convention H. W. Smith, local president, reported that the Haskell County Farm Bureau ended the 1958 year with 806 active paid-up members.

Mrs. Gene Tonn, secretary of the local organization, was given recognition by the Blue Cross, Blue Shield Director W. R. McBee for having enrolled more Blue Cross members during the year than any other county group. She was given an attractive prize for this achievement, and was also recognized for her efficient handling of the group payments and other details.

On the first night of the convention, an appreciation program was held in honor of J. Walter Hammond, past president of the state organization. More than 1,200 delegates and Farm Bureau members attended the general sessions and the resolution committee meeting when state policies for 1959 were recommended. One of the convention highlights was the state-wide contest to select a young woman as Farm Bureau Queen. Named for this honor was Camille Johnston of Mercedes, Texas, in District 3.

Among convention speakers were Hon. Ferrell Smith, Mayor of Corpus Christi; Chas. B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau; State Commissioner of Agriculture John C. White; and J. H. West, Texas Farm Bureau president. Attending from Haskell County were Messrs. and Mmes. Henry W. Smith, C. H. White, R. V. Hagle, Fred Kipling, Thurman Rice, Elmer Boedeker, A. R. Eaton, Felix Mullino, Howard Sloan, C. H. Herren, L. B. White, Mrs. Irdie Branton, Bill Lawson and Felix Klose.

Hugh Williams, 82, Pioneer Resident Of Rule, Dies

Funeral service for J. H. (Hugh) Williams of Rule, prominent pioneer resident of Haskell County, was held at 2 p. m. Sunday in the Rule First Baptist Church, with the Rev. Rodney C. Dowdy, pastor, officiating.

Mr. Williams, 82, who built the first house in the town of Rule, was found dead at his home about 8:30 a. m. Saturday. Death apparently was caused by a heart attack.

Burial was in the Rule Cemetery under the direction of Pinkard Funeral Home of that city. Masonic rites were conducted at the graveside.

Born Nov. 5, 1876, in Falls County, he had lived in the Rule area about 60 years. For the past 12 or 15 years he had served as junior sergeant-at-arms for the Texas House of Representatives.

He still was living in the house which he built about the time the town was established, though the house had been added onto and remodeled. Mr. Williams is survived by two sons, Jay Williams of Temple and Lanham Williams of Vernon; three sisters, Mrs. Claude Mitchell, Mrs. Ruth Norman and Mrs. Durwood Chatham, all of Marlin; five grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

O'Brien Voters Approve $50,000 Bond Issue

Two propositions in a $50,000 bond issue for construction of a water system in the town of O'Brien carried Saturday by a vote of 36 for and 2 against. The issue consists of $35,000 in tax bonds and $15,000 in revenue bonds.

The tax bonds will mature in not more than 35 years and will bear interest of not more than six per cent. A tax will be levied sufficient to pay all interest as it accrues and the principal as it matures.

The revenue bonds will also bear interest of not more than six per cent and will be paid from proceeds from the water system.

Film Highlights Of Jarrin' John Shown Rotarians

Members and guests of the Rotary Club enjoyed one of the best programs in months last Thursday, when a film showing highlights in the career of "Jarrin' John" Kimbrough was shown at the club's weekly meeting and luncheon in the Texas Cafe.

The film, entitled "Texas In Review" was made available through courtesy of Humble Oil Company. Parts of the film portrayed action scenes during the Haskell man's football career at Texas A&M College where he ranked All-American in 1939 and 1940. Also shown were scenes made in Haskell, and of Kimbrough's family in their daily activities.

Kimbrough had been invited to be a guest of the club at this meeting but was in Houston and could not attend. Rotarians voted unanimously to extend congratulations to Kimbrough on his recent selection for the Texas Hall of Fame.

Special guests at the Rotary meeting were Wayne Ammons, president of the HHS chapter of Future Farmers, and State FFA President Bill McDowell of Whitewright, who was visiting the local chapter.

Dana Smith, talented HHS student, was pianist for the club sing-song led by Thos. B. Roberson.

Other guests and visitors were HHS Coach Ray Overton Jr., and Rotarians Hubert Bradshaw, J. R. McDaniel, Wade Watts, Jim West Jr., Jim West Sr., Alton King and Bernard Bryant, all of Stamford; Manford Reid and Herb Barker of Rochester and Rufus Alexander of Olney.
