Worthwhile Recognition

The Rotary Club's plan to give appropriate recognition to Haskell's most courteous sales person is a worthy undertaking and one which we endorse 100 per cent.

A stranger's first impression of a town is based largely on the treatment accorded when he goes into a store or stops at a service station.

Naturally, a clean, modern and attractive store with well arranged displays of merchandise, always makes a favorable impression and attracts prospective customers. But all of this can be nullified in a matter of seconds by careless, inattentive treatment of a customer, particularly if it is their first visit to the store.

We believe we're near the mark in saying that Haskell is fortunate in having so many friendly and courteous sales people in our local business establishments. To them is due much of the credit for Haskell being a popular trading center for an increasing territory.

To give them the recognition they deserve is the purpose of the Rotary Club's program. It deserves wholehearted support.

Impetus To Johnson Candidacy

It is more than a year until the day when the next President of the United States will be elected, but in Texas, the race is on. From now until Nov. 8, 1940, may well be a year of the most feverish political activity the state ever has known.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn fired the starting gun by calling for an all-out campaign to win the Democratic presidential nomination for U.S. Sen. Lyndon Johnson. Rayburn called for Johnson-for-President organizations in every county in Texas.

A campaign kick-off by the man who has often been called "Mr. Democrat" gave enormous impetus to the activities of Johnson supporters. Pro-Johnson clubs, rallies and editorials blossomed over the state. Gov. Price Daniel and the state executive committee had previously pledged support.

Speaker Rayburn's sponsorship also makes exceedingly difficult the position of Texas' liberal wing Democrats who have been cool toward the senator since the convention hassles of 1936.

In 1932, Rayburn championed the liberals in their battle against a conservative party leadership working for Isenhour. But the same group, now the Democrats of Texas Club members, will have to fly in the face of their old friend, Rayburn, if they decide on open opposition to Senator Johnson this year.

Some DOTers have pledged Johnson support. But Mrs. R. D. Randolph, leader, refused to commit herself on grounds the senator has not declared himself a candidate.

Candidate or not, Senator Johnson is whizzing around Texas for personal appearances, scheduled at the rate of more than one a day in the months ahead.

Facts and a Question

Tax Foundation reports that more major tax changes, 111 in number, have been made by the states which held legislative sessions this year than in any year in postwar history.

Needless to say, the great majority of the changes—87—involved tax increases. An additional 12 involved the imposition of new taxes. There were, by way of contrast, just five tax reductions and just one repeal of a tax.

The tax increases ran a considerable gamut—corporate and personal income, general sales, gasoline, tobacco and liquor. Looking at the matter money-wise, the Foundation says that governors in 31 states proposed tax increases totaling almost $1.5 billion in their messages to 1939 legislatures.

Well, so much for the facts. The question now is—what are the American people, who ultimately have the last word, going to do about it?

The hunters soon jumped a coyote, the hounds running the wolf two hours and fifteen minutes and cornered the animal in Mr. Hunt's hogpen. Mr. Hunt was awakened, and thinking the dogs were after his hogs, he ran out and began hollering and the coyote tried to make another break for freedom and ran in the house and was captured behind a trunk. All present said it was the largest coyote they had seen killed in West Texas.

PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS

By A. PATE

Returning to Haskell last week for the first time in 26 years was J. F. (Ferris) Morrison and wife of San Francisco, Calif., and a married daughter from Fort Worth.

They were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Meador during their overnight stay, and Ferris and Virgil, old-time cronies, stayed up most of the night recalling incidents (and escapades) of their younger days.

Virgil recalled the time, on a fishing trip, when Ferris conveniently developed a "sprained ankle" after their team of mules had strayed off during the night with the result that Virgil had to walk several miles searching for the missing animals before the party could return home.

Ferris countered by recalling that Virgil once organized a "snipe hunt" and talked his friends into permitting Ferris to have the honor of holding the bag near a lantern while they drove the snipes toward the light. Ferris still remembers that after waiting for several hours he finally made his way through numerous mesquite thickets and back to town.

An item in the "50 Years Ago" column of The Free Press tells of an amusing incident during a coyote hunt, still a favorite pastime in this section.

A pack of wolf hounds had jumped a large coyote and after more than an hour's run the animal was unable to lose his pursuers. Finally the coyote ran into a farmyard and took refuge in a hog pen. Close behind, the baying hounds surrounded the pen, barking furiously while the hogs grunted and squealed. The bedlam awakened the farmer, who grabbed a shotgun and started toward his barn thinking the dogs were after his hogs. Afraid to shoot into the pen for fear of killing his hogs, he was firing into the air and yelling lustily when the hunters rode up and sensed what had happened. As they quieted the dogs, the coyote made a break and ran into the farmer's house, where he was finally cornered behind a trunk and killed with a club.

Wolf hunters say a coyote will take refuge in a house or barn when being pursued, apparently fearing humans less than a pack of hounds.

The late A. P. Kinnison, early-day barber, always got a big kick out of telling of a newcomer's first experience with West Texas coyotes.

The newcomer, a baker by trade, had taken a job here. He'd never lived anywhere except in a big city, and wanted to get acquainted with the West.

Once, when Mr. Kinnison and several friends were getting ready for a fishing trip, the dude baker asked to accompany them.

That night, after setting out lines and having supper, they were sitting around a campfire. Soon, coyotes were heard barking, sounding like they were only a short distance away. The newcomer was intensely interested, he'd never seen a coyote but had heard lots about them.

"Are they vicious? will they attack a man?" he wanted to know. He was assured that they wouldn't unless cornered or were rabid.

About an hour later, as the group of drowsy fishermen were preparing their beds on the ground, a pack of hounds could be heard, apparently coming closer. When the newcomer asked if the barking was that of more coyotes, he was told it might be.

Then, as the baying came closer, the group of fishermen was startled when a coyote dashed through their camp, quickly followed by several hounds. A coffee pot and cooking utensils were overturned and scattered by the animals before Kinnison and his friends realized what was happening.

But the "dude" baker was taking no chances. When the excitement died down, he was located on top of his car, almost frightened to death.

Later, Mr. Kinnison learned that the hounds belonged to the late Charley Wilson and "Uncle Steve" Neathery who had camped a mile away for a wolf hunt. "If we'd had any idea that dogs would chase a coyote through our camp, we could have really loaded the big town dude," Mr. Kinnison would say.

We wish there was some sort of civic award for those persons who make contributions toward beautifying and improving our town.

The many beautiful lawns and yards, flower gardens and shrubbery are a real contribution toward making Haskell an attractive city and one which impresses visitors and tourists.

One particular spot which has been transformed from an eyesore to a beautiful expanse of grass and trees, is the small tract three blocks west of the square owned by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Parks.

Once the site of a large gravel pit, the 10 or 12 city lots were covered with weeds and rubbish when Parks bought the tract.

By dint of much hard work, the area was finally partially leveled and planted in Bermuda. Pecan trees were also set out and in a few years time the area resembled a small park.

Today, Mr. and Mrs. Parks have 40 bearing pecan trees that yield a good crop each year and for which they have a waiting list of local buyers. Although revenue from the pecan crop helps pay the cost of maintaining the tract, Mr. and Mrs. Parks' principal interest is in beautifying their surroundings. The many compliments from local people as well as passing travelers who have commented on the attractive plot, have accomplished a real feat. A mannequin room at the for use on last week and wondering about it. But the truck out. Jim Byrd Dulaney had reserved for Lumber Company. 20,000 Acres Land Under Irrigation In County

Approximately 20,000 acres of cropland is under irrigation in Haskell County, according to a survey made by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Jones County has about 1,000 acres under irrigation on 12 farms, while Kent County has 2,000 acres irrigated on 30 farms.

No report was available on irrigated cropland in Knox County, but the acreage is believed substantially more than in Haskell County.

The 20,000 acres under irrigation in Haskell County embraces 400 farms, the survey shows. Of this number, 200 use sprinklers to irrigate 8,300 acres. The other 12,000 acres are irrigated by furrows. There are 520 wells supplying water for the 20,000 acres.

Cotton was planted on 14,000 acres of irrigated land, grain sorghum on 3,500, forage sorghum on 500 acres, wheat on 2,000, and vegetables on 100 acres.

Mexican Cotton Picker Found Dead at O'Brien

A Mexican national who had been picking cotton in the O'Brien-Rochester area was found dead in a cotton trailer in a field about one mile west of O'Brien Friday afternoon.

He was Andrado Epifanio, about 25, who had been working on the T. J. Turner place, which is being farmed by Dempsey Emerson.

Epifanio had emptied his cotton sack in the trailer and was discovered slumped over in the trailer a few minutes later.

Justice of the Peace Pete Huntsman of Rochester ruled that death was by natural causes.

Rex Felker On New C-C Job In Colorado City

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Felker and son Stevia are now living in Colorado City, where Mr. Felker is manager of the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce.

Former manager of the Haskell C. of C. for about seven years, he went to Quanah in a similar capacity two years ago. He took the position in Colorado City Nov. 1.

The Felkers are liking their new home very much. However, Rex says there is a lot of work to be done, and that the Colorado C. of C. is a live and busy organization. The city has made considerable progress in recent years. The town has plenty of water, and Lake Colorado City is becoming known as the fishing and boating center of West Texas, Felker says.

O'Brien School Sponsors Cross Country Meet

O'Brien high school is sponsoring a cross-country meet on Nov. 7, beginning at 10 a. m.

The race will be 1.7 miles long, beginning at the Haskell-Knox County line on Highway 283, running south along the east side of the highway to the caution light at O'Brien, then turning east and continuing to the school building.

Points will be given like this: 1 point for the first boy to finish, 2 for the second, 3 for third, etc. The school whose first five (5) boys have the lowest total points will win a trophy. The first five (5) boys to finish will be awarded a medal. All other finishers will be awarded a certificate.

Any eligible high school boy may enter. All entries should be sent to Coach Tommy Robinson at O'Brien before Nov. 1. There will be no limit on how many a school may enter.

Hallowe'en Tip: Even Home Can Be Hazardous

Reminder to moms and dads from the National Safety Council:

The highway isn't the only hazardous spot for Halloweeners. The home and its surroundings can be just as big a boobytrap.

That tip from the Council—which feels adults have an obligation to keep the trick or treaters safe as they tramp from house to house Saturday night—served as advance warnings to parents that the annual observance of All Saints Day (Halloween, to you) is drawing near.

"Most motorists," the Council said, "know you can't count on excited youngsters to play it safe, so they exercise extra caution when driving on Halloween.

"Many homeowners, though, haven't learned their lesson quite so well.

"Homeowners have a moral responsibility to keep youngsters safe at Halloween. Furthermore, in many instances homeowners can be legally responsible if someone is injured on their property."

How can you guard against a tragedy that may mar a child's Halloween? Follow these, and similar, suggestions, the Council recommends:

1. Light your porch if there's any chance of a visit from trick-or-treaters. Saturday evening. An excited youngster is ripe for a tumble in the dark.

2. Make sure your yard isn't an obstacle course for children. Cover excavations. Tie strips of white cloth to temporary fences around shrubbery or newly seeded grass.

3. If you have a dog, keep it secured. The strange sights

In and Out the Tee Pee

BY SUZANNE LANE A heap big event is to take place in the council room of the main tee-pee next Tuesday night, Nov. 3. The Owl Club is sponsoring a book review. The book to be reviewed is "The Street of the Laughing Camel," by Ben Lucien Burman. It is the story of an American in the darkest part of Africa. Mrs. Arlos Weaver is going to review the book. All of the Indians are looking forward to the review, not only because of the points they will receive in English, but because Mrs. Weaver's reviews are always so very interesting and she describes everything so vividly that one feels as if he is the character in the book, himself.

The book review is not for students only. Adults are urged to come too. Suzanne Weaver is drawing illustrations of the book Mrs. Weaver is reviewing. Each day a different picture is posted on the door of the speech room. There are no names on the pictures. Suzanne wants the students to guess and wonder about the book. This will make the review a little more exciting.

Mrs. E. E. Buntyn was most generous to the students and library of HHS. Mrs. Buntyn donated fifty books to the library. Everyone was very thrilled and surprised, but was oh, so pleasant.

To Mrs. Buntyn, Haskell High is deeply grateful and indebted.

Local Girl Chosen Director Of Play At TWU, Denton

Ann Foster, senior speech major from Haskell, has been chosen as the director of a one-act play to be presented November 17-21 at Texas Woman's University, Denton.

Miss Foster is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wood, 102 North Avenue D. As director of "Rehearsal," a drama by Christopher Morley, she will supervise the casting, costuming and setting for the play. The play is part of a bill of one-acts which are directed by members of the directing class. Cast members were chosen from open try-outs.

Housewife Has Wide Choice In Buying Ham

Fresh, cured, smoked, canned or boned—you can find ham most any way you want at grocery stores these days. For best results read labels and information on the wrapper carefully, suggests Barbara McAnelly, county home demonstration agent. Checking the cooking methods required will help you make the choice that best suits your needs.

Here are some helpful descriptions on types of ham most generally available.

Fresh hams have not been cured or smoked. Remember one general rule applies to the cookery of all fresh pork. Cook it well done. Cook to an internal temperature of 185F or until all the pink color has disappeared, the meat is whitish tan in color and the juice is clear.

Cured and smoked hams, with or without the bone, have been subjected to a curing process that improves keeping quality and develops a distinctive flavor and color. Smoking adds flavor and has some preservative effects. High temperature used when smoking is the method that is used to tenderize a ham. This means less cooking is needed at home. Cook to an internal temperature of 160 to 170F or 18 to 22 minutes per pound.

Cooked or ready-to-eat hams have been fully cooked and are sold with the bone in or boneless. They are plainly marked "cooked" on the package. Serve cold or reheat at 325F for 12 or 15 minutes per pound.

If hams are cut, they usually are divided into these standard pieces: Shank portion that contains leg bone and skin; center ham slices that contain small round bone; and butt portion that contains the pelvic bone and skin. Center slices cost considerably more per pound than whole ham, butt or shank ends; shank ends, because of the per cent of bone and fat, cost less than the butt end.

Choose ham according to use and size of group to be served. For 6 or more people, a whole ham is a good buy. With bone in, allow 3/4 to 1 pound per serving; boned, 1/2 pound per serving. A center slice, butt or shank end is the best buy for less than 6 people. A center cut of ham slice serves 2 to 3 people, and one pound of ham with a large bone, such as the shank and butt, serves 1 to 2 people.

Whatever your choice, pork is a rich source of the highest quality protein. It furnishes phosphorus and iron in generous amounts and is an excellent energy producing food. Lean pork is one of the best sources of the vitamin B complex factors.

U.S. Must Reduce Debt, Rep. Ikard Tells Lion and Rotary Club Members

The United States must begin reduction of its huge national debt, Congressman Frank Ikard of Wichita Falls told a joint Rotary-Lions meeting here Thursday at noon in the Highway Drive Inn.

Congressman Ikard, who spent the day in Haskell visiting friends, was introduced by Rotarian Bill Ratliff, Haskell lawyer.

Ikard summarized developments in the last Congress and discussed several pressing problems, one of the most important being the national debt.

He said America "must manage this indebtedness, now approaching $300 billion." He said Congress at its next session should plan to budget at least 1 per cent of this total annually to begin paying off the indebtedness.

Ikard said the recent Congress made a start toward economy by reducing appropriations from what had been requested. "Our budget, as of Sept. 24, the last report I have, was in balance. It's true that it is a precarious balance, but I hope by next July, at the end of this fiscal year we will have seen the end of deficit financing," he said.

The lawmaker said important hearings were coming up in Washington Nov. 16, dealing with possible tax reforms. He said income taxes in this country had gotten out of balance. "In 1926 the Internal Revenue Code contained 104 pages. It was a book you could put in your coat pocket and carry around with you. In 1954, when the last changes were made in the code, it contained 2,100 pages," Ikard said in pleading for a broader-based tax.

Ikard said the nation's income runs close to $380 billion annually and yet about $210 billion is never taxed. "If we could bring in even 25 per cent of this $210 billion, we could reduce all income taxes as much as 25 per cent," he said. He said America's population was "exploding under our feet" and that 20 million new jobs must be found by 1975. "We must find these jobs under our free enterprise system and not provide them through government expenditure," he said.

Concerning America's competition with Russia in scientific fields, Ikard said Russia is probably ahead of us in space projects. "We have too many agencies in competition, too little coordination of our efforts," he said.

Of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's recent visit to the United States Ikard said, "I think it marked a turning point in Russia's attitude toward the western world." He said he believed there would be less sword rattling by Russia and an intensification of the economic war. "That may prove even more dangerous to us. We must continually keep on our guard to combat these economic attacks," he said.

Juniors Working On Magazine Sales Campaign

Students of Haskell Junior High School are in the midst of their annual magazine sales campaign.

Each year the students raise money for some worthy project by selling Curtis Publications. This year the money will be used to buy microscopes for the Haskell Junior High science department.

Any seventh, eighth or ninth grade student will sell a new subscription, renew an old one, or take an order for a gift subscription.

In addition to individual prizes for high salesmen, the room with the highest sales will get a one-day trip to Abilene.

If the school quota of $1,200 is reached, the room with the highest sales from the seventh, eighth and ninth grades will get a one-day trip to Abilene. A great deal of enthusiasm is being shown by the students and it is hoped the school quota of $1,200 will be reached by November 5.

Plan Canvass for Relief Fund

Saturday morning, Oct. 31, the youth of the Methodist Church will be ringing the door bells of the Methodist families for "Trick or Treat for UNICEF." This is being sponsored locally by the Methodist Youth Fellowship, and nationally by the U. S. committee for UNICEF in some 10,000 other communities. Last year more than two million Americans youngster participated in the biggest project ever carried out by youth to help children.

Each penny collected by the Trick or Treaters wearing the UNICEF black and orange tag on Saturday can mean five glasses of milk for a needy child overseas, or the BCG vaccine to protect him from tuberculosis. A nickel's worth of UNICEF penicillin will cure a child of yaws, a crippling tropical disease.
