Miller Creek Project Will Solve Haskell's Water Problem

The decision to be made by Haskell voters Saturday is probably the most important issue to confront the citizenship since the town was organized, because the very future of the community as a growing city depends on the outcome of Saturday's elections.

Haskell's water needs for the future can be met by development of the Miller Creek project, along with the needs of four neighboring towns included with Haskell in the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority.

Development of the project depends on the approval Saturday of a $4,800,000 bond issue and a water purchase contract by majority vote in each of the five towns in the Authority—Haskell, Rule, Munday, Goree and Seymour.

It is estimated that 90 per cent of the cost of retiring the bonds will be met by revenues from the sale of water, with an ad valorem tax making up the remaining ten per cent.

In Haskell, this ad valorem tax would amount to about 60 per cent of the current city tax levy—a very reasonable cost for meeting the city's water needs for the next half century.

Only alternative if Haskell voters turn down the Miller Creek project is continued dependence on steadily diminishing underground water supplies, or endeavoring to work out a contract to purchase water from Stamford at their lake.

Either alternative would be extremely costly in comparison to the Miller Creek Development. Dependence on wells would be only a temporary solution for a matter of a few years. It would also involve a hazard to community health due to the declining quality of the water, a fact noted by the State Health Department.

Any contract to purchase water from Stamford would necessitate the building of pumping and filtering plants, settling basin and pipeline system, all of which would involve an expenditure roughly estimated in the neighborhood of $800,000 on the part of Haskell alone.

A city bond issue in this amount, added to the present bonded indebtedness of the city, would result in virtually doubling the city's tax rate.

Considering these facts, it would appear that the Miller Creek project is by far the most practicable and economical solution to Haskell's water supply.

It's Trite Because It's True

We can't accurately measure the extent of the tax burden by dollar volume alone. We can see it most clearly when related to our earnings.

In 1929, for instance, total federal, state and local taxes came to 10.6 per cent of the gross national product—which is the sum total value of all the goods and services we produce. In 1943, with a war on, it was 26.5 per cent. Last year it was 28.1 per cent and the trend, undoubtedly, is still upward.

Wars, hot or cold, have played an important part in this depressing onward march of the tax collector. But wars can't be given the sole blame by a long shot. We have adopted the welfare state philosophy to a much greater extent than most of us apparently realize. Wittingly or otherwise, we expect the government to do all manner of things for us that previous generations did for themselves. The solution to just about every problem that comes along is "let the government pass a law, appropriate the money, and solve it."

The enormous cost of welfarism, bad as that is, isn't the worst factor. The most destructive effect is on the character of people. Independence is lost, freedom is lost, self-reliance and self-respect are lost.

To say that this potentially bad disease won't be cured until the people rise up and demand a change of their government is to say something that has become trite from repetition. And the reason it is trite is because it is absolutely true.

PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS

By A. PATE

A news item from Weinert in last week's Free Press caught our eye. It told of a visit there by Tom McClure of Pharr, Texas, a former barber in Weinert around 1910-11. Still barbering at the age of 73, Tom recently gave 56 hair cuts in one day, the news item stated.

For an average working day, that figures seven hair cuts an hour, one every eight and one-half minutes, without splitting seconds.

Sounds like a lot of hair cutting for a barber of any age. At the risk of starting an argument, we'd say Tom's 56 hair cuts could be close to a world's mark. Anybody have the statistics on tonorial speed records?

Could be that Tom is improving with experience. In fifty years or so barbering, a man could be expected to develop a knack for speed and a few short cuts. (No pun intended.)

Another one of our longtime friends and loyal readers apparently is getting younger every day.

Word comes that Bro. W. B. Arnold who is now living in Old Glory, was recently confined in bed for a spell.

Seems like W. B., who is now a young 80, just never did get around to having the mumps in his boyhood.

Season football tickets for all home games of the HHS Indians are now on sale, and choice seats are going fast, school officials report.

Although the Indians' first home game is Sept. 19, we suggest you buy tickets now to be sure of a good seat. And for the thrifty, there's the added incentive of saving afforded in the book of season tickets over what you'd pay if tickets are bought singly.

For the next week or two, Cowboy George Riley Middleton, 8, will be grounded as a bronc buster while a fractured left wrist is in the process of mending.

During that time, however, you can bet your saddle George Riley will be concentrating on one thing—staying on board a stubborn Shetland that doesn't like to be ridden. He's vowed to ride the critter.

George Riley's mishap occurred a few days ago when his dad, Brooks, saddled the Shetland for George Riley to ride over to his grand-dad's, a short distance away.

Brook's, saddling his own horse, looked around a minute later and saw his son dusting off his levis as he got up from the ground. "What's the matter son? Get throwed?" he asked.

"Yeah, but I can ride the son-of-a-gun," came George Riley's grim reply. Bucked off again, with his wrist being broken when he hit the ground, George Riley was still determined. Told they'd have to go see a doctor about his injured arm, the young cowboy, his eyes filling with tears, said doggedly: "Maybe I can't ride that son-of-a-gun today, but I bet I do ride him some time."

A copy of the centennial edition of The Free Press which reached a former Haskell resident, Herbert Arbuckle of Corpus Christi, started "Buck" reminiscing over early-day incidents in a lengthy letter to Hill Oates.

"I wish the paper could have found room for a story on the first airplane and some of the other momentous happenings," the Corpus Christi man wrote. "Then there were a lot of incidents that wouldn't do to print but were still a part of the early days," he added.

One of these was the famed Farmers and Stockmen's Association of which sooner or later every newcomer fell victim by the initiation route.

"Buck" believes one of the biggest crowds he ever saw in Haskell gathered to see the first plane flight ever made here. He was working at the fountain in Oates, along with "Spot" Lemmon and Brevard Long. "Seemed we had a steady stream of customers all day long," he recalled.

He still recalls the sandstorms and "blue northers" that were his first introduction to Haskell and West Texas. And despite more than 40 years have passed since he lived here, he admits that no place has ever seemed so much like home to him.

Incidents and happenings of a later vintage were the topics at a recent "Haskell reunion" in miniature, held in Pittsburgh, Penn., in the home of Mrs. Richard Sherrill and sons.

Now here on a visit, she is the former Lucille Taylor. She relates that a few weeks ago she had as guests in her home in Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Wilson, who live in Philadelphia, and Cedric Sanders, of Detroit, Mich.

Gilbert, Cedric and Lucille all were reared in Haskell and graduated from Haskell High School. Cedric is an engineer with a division of Chrysler Motors, and Gilbert is sales director for Maytag Corporation in the Philadelphia division. "It seemed like being home again to all three of us," Mrs. Sherrill said. "We talked for hours about everything we could call to mind, as well as everything that had happened, especially during our school days."

Haskell County History

20 Years Ago—Aug. 26, 1938

First bale of cotton ginned in Haskell from the 1938 crop was brought in Thursday by W. P. Russell, farmer living between Weinert and Rochester. The bale was ginned at Duncan Gin and weighed 495 pounds, the net from 1900 pounds of bolls. The bale was sold to the gin for nine cents a pound, and Mr. Russell also received a $40 premium from the Chamber of Commerce.

The Herald. The Leans and the Fats played a game of baseball at the park yesterday and at the end of the game the score was 12 to 15 in favor of the Fats. Dr. A. G. Neathery umpired the contest.

Emory Menefee left Monday for Stamford where he will attend Stamford College. Judge Pete Helton has returned from a business trip to the Fort Stockton country.

Miss Fannie Lee Fitzgerald entertained a large party of girl friends a few evenings ago at the home of her parents in the east part of town.

A few days ago A. W. McGregor visited the farms of his mother and himself near Weinert and he reports that their tenants have 260 acres of fine cotton that is putting on an immense crop. He said that he went into one of the fields and counted 66 forms on the first stalk he came to, and that this was about an average.

60 Years Ago—Sept. 10, 1908

It would seem that they are to teach by precept as well as by example in our neighborhood of Benjamin. The Reporter of that place says: "Now that the teachers are under rule as well as scholars and are shut off from keeping company and correspondence we may look for more orderly times during the coming term. Should this prove to be the case the secret of past trouble would be explained."

Mr. Terrell of Ranger is here preparing to open a new drug store in Haskell.

Henry Alexander left this week for Georgetown, where he will attend Southwestern University.

Let's Finish the Job September 6, 1958 And Assure Haskell's Future for GOOD Water From Now On

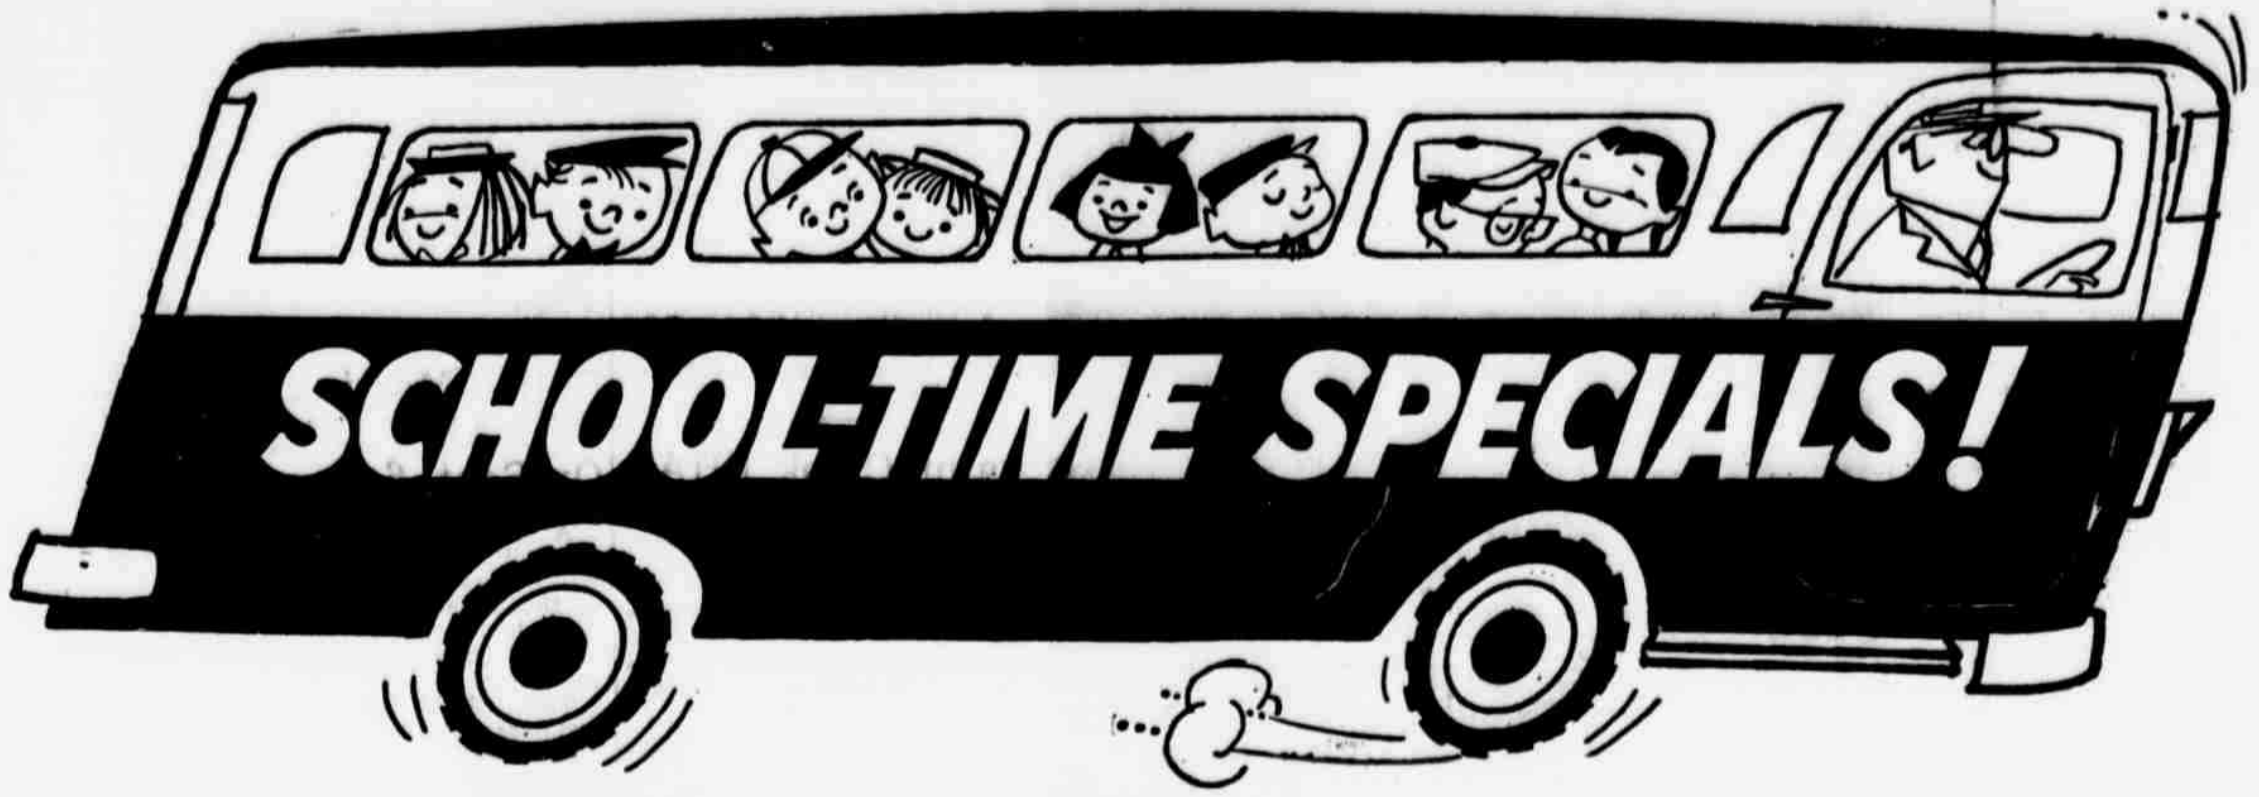

Vote FOR the Water Contract and FOR the Water Bonds

We have had a critical water shortage for two or three years and all that has saved us has been good rains this year and last. We are not able to get our overhead storage more than half full at night and it is empty by noon next day.

This seriously hampers our ability to fight fires and if we should have serious fires it would be reflected in increased fire insurance rates.

We urgently ask you to vote for the water contract and the water bonds September 6, 1958

- IRA HESTER - Mayor
R. A. LANE - Fire Marshall
MYRON BIARD - President Chamber of Commerce
JIM BYRD - Water Commissioner

LETTERS... To The Editor

PADS NEEDED FOR HOSPITAL BEDS
 After spending two weeks in the Haskell Hospital, I know from experience that the hospital needs some pads on the beds for the comfort of the patients.
 They have the mattresses covered with plastic for sanitary purposes, which makes it terribly hot for the sick patients.
 They need 35 pads anyhow, which would cost around $5.00 each. I intend to see that this is done. If you care to help in buying these please mail or bring your contribution to me.
 Please do this as soon as possible, as the hospital is pretty full most of the time. If you are fortunate enough to have good health, then be thankful and help those to be more comfortable that are sick.
 Thanking you in advance,
 Mrs. Frank Spencer

CARD OF THANKS
 We are sincerely grateful to our many friends and neighbors for their many kind acts during our recent loss of our loved one who has gone on to rest. Also, we want to say thanks to the doctors and nurses for their kindnesses. We appreciated the food and beautiful flowers more than we can ever express.
 God bless each of you.

Speaker Tells of Children's Camp At Kerrville

Members of the Lions Club and guests heard an interesting description of the work being done at the Camp for Crippled Children at Kerrville, Texas, at the weekly meeting and luncheon Tuesday at noon in the Texas Cafe.

An informative talk on work of the Lions Club was also given by Lion Guy Harris.

Announcement was made of a joint meeting of the Lions and Rotary Clubs Thursday, Sept. 25, when Senator George (Cotton) Moffett of Chillicothe will address the gatherings. He will discuss the proposed amendments to be voted upon Nov. 4.

Lion J. F. Cadenhead called attention to the need for a traffic sign or signal at the intersection of North First St. and Avenue H. This is a heavily traveled route of school children going to and from Elementary School, Dr. Cadenhead pointed out.

Program Chairman Harold Spain introduced Martha Ann Currie of Haskell, who discussed the activities of the Crippled Children's Camp maintained by Lions Clubs of Texas.

The camp conducts six sessions each summer, she explained, accommodating 120 children at each session. The camp staff includes 53 persons who serve as counselors, instructors, and administrators. The staff includes a blind psychologist who gives aid to children handicapped by blindness.

A regular schedule is followed each day, with counselors assigned to small groups. Different age groups are taken at the camp each two weeks, she explained. One session will be for ages 7 to 13 years, and the following session will be for ages 13 to 16 years.

Guests at the meeting and luncheon were Mrs. Clara Biard and Mrs. Wix Currie.

DRIVE WITH CAUTION

THE LIFE YOU SAVE MAY BE A CHILD'S!
SLOW DOWN . . . AND LIVE!

School bells are ringing, and our streets and roads are filled with children going to school! This means that you as a driver must be extra careful, extra alert! Drive slowly for the sake of the children—YOUR CHILDREN! Remember, they're young, eager, sometimes unpredictable . . . they MAY see you . . . BE SURE you see them! Is a child's life worth five minutes? . . . then remember now to always drive slowly! Is a child's life worth a little attention? . . . then remember now to always drive carefully! From here on in watch out for school busses and give them every courtesy. Watch out for children walking to and from school, children waiting for the bus at corners, children at play . . . for they may dart into the street after a ball! It's your responsibility to drive slowly, carefully and be alert to every possible emergency! SAVE A CHILD'S LIFE!
