The Indians travel to Cisco Friday night for their final non-conference game of the season, meeting the undefeated Cisco Loboes who have a 4-0 season record. The Tribe, with some regulars suffering minor injuries, are definitely un-derdogs against the strong Lobo pack.

City's Future at Stake in Saturday's Election

The approach of autumn and cooler weather, coupled with recent rains, has cut down water usage with the result that Haskell people are becoming complacent and may be prone to forget the imperative need for providing an adequate water supply for

For this reason it is imperative that every person interested in the welfare and continued progress of Haskell as a community should make it a point to vote in the bond election scheduled Saturday.

At stake is the development of the Miller Creek water project by the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority. Its development will assure a dependable and adequate supply of pure water for Haskell and three neighboring towns of Rule, Munday and Goree.

It is a well-known fact that both the quantity and quality of Haskell's underground water supply has become more and more deficient in recent years. On more than one occasion during summer months, state department of health officials have cautioned city officials about the questionable quality of Haskell

The problem of quality and quantity of our municipal water supply can be solved in development of the Miller Creek

That fact makes it imperative that every eligible voter who is genuinely interested in the welfare of Haskell should register a vote in Saturday's bond election.

The Bible—The Word of Life

The 18th annual National Bible Week will be observed during the week of October 20-26. Once again it is sponsored by an all-faiths group, the Laymen's National Committee, Inc. This year's theme is: "The Bible-The Word of Life." It is taken from the 2nd Chapter, 16th Verse of the Pillipans.

National Bible Week is dedicated by men and women of all faiths as a tribute to the world's greatest Book. By a daily reading and study of the Rible we may hope to arouse a newer and greater spiritual force-a force that is desperately needed in today's troubled world. Those who know and follow the precepts of the Bible will always fight the effort to substitute the pagan state as arbiter of what is right and wrong in our lives.

A Tip from Mark Twain

Mark Twain's lovable Pudd'nhead Wilson wrote in his diary: "October. This is a peculiarly dangerous month to speculate in. The others are July, January, September, April, November, May, March, June, December, August and February."

Pudd'nhead Wilson could write today with more telling effect about the gamble millions of Americans are now taking. For these millions are gambling with more than money. They are gambling with their lives.

Here is what we mean:

There are 300,000 Americans alive today who have had polio. Many of them are crippled for life. Some are still in iron lungs. Some will never be able to leave a wheel chair.

But since 1955, thanks to Dr. Jonas E. Salk and the March of Dimes, we have a vaccine to prevent polio paralysis. It won't cure those already crippled, but it will prevent new cases Some 65 million Americans have already had the wisdom to stop gambling with polio by taking Salk injections. But 46 million polio-susceptible persons under the age of 40 have neglected to do so. These are the foolhardy gamblers.

Any month in the calendar is a good month for starting your series of polio shots. Every month you delay is a bad month for speculating with your health. Take a tip from Pudd'nhead Wilson and protect yourself against the risk of polio crippling.

Loyalty to his home team surged up again as he advised the stranger, "Don't let yourself get too annoyed, Bud, If a play like that happens again, you ain't heard nothin' yet."

Haskell football fans are, and have every right to be mighty proud of the Indian squad and their coaches. They've reflected credit on our school and our community in every game they've played, and their 3-1-1 record is one of which every fan and supporter is proud. Now, we want to put in a plus for another very impor-

Chief of Police "Buli" Bar-nett is an accommodating fellow and a rabid football fan, but duty comes first with him. Via police radio, Highway Pa-trol Sergeant Frank Jircik comes into the picture, and the two officers check notes as two uneasy football fans check their watches against game time.

We need to find the car they were in and check it, might be loaded, the two officers decide. "Won't take long, I'll get you to the game on time," Chief assures us as search for the car starts.

Luckily, the car was soon located, and a quick investigation shows it to be clear of any contraband .With only minutes to spare, the Chief nonchalantly concedes perhaps we might drive up toward the football

O.E.S. Honors Mrs. Lucille Martin

Rule Chapter No. 989, Order of the Eastern Star, at a stated meeting Thursday even-ing. Oct. 2, honored its own member, Mrs. Lucille Martin, who this year has served as Deputy Grand Matron, District II, Section 7, Grand Chapter of Texas, with a very impressive program.

At the meeting Mrs. Leora Cox, worthy matron, and Allen Davis, worthy patron, welcom-ed visitors from chapters from over the entire section, then turned the program to Mrs. Marie Ward, Junior Past Matron, who was in charge of the clever program "An Apple Tree Greeting for Lucille."

The chapter room was beautifully decorated with lovely arrangements of fall flowers in shades of pink and orchid. A soft green drape covering the east bore the words "Lucille, dear, you are the apple of our eye." In front of the dias was a silvered mesquite fashioned into a tree holding myriads of shining red apples that were interspersed with bows of green tulle. The base of the tree was surrounded with greenery and red zinnias.

Programs done from red oil cloth were fashioned in apple shape. Favors were miniature apples inscribed "An Apple for Lucille." Guests registered in the honoree's book that also had a cover designed to carry out the chosen theme.

Mmes. Cox and Davis, to-gether with Mmes. Gladys Mathis, Kewpie Duncan, Leatha Fuller, Nanck Sims, Shirley Smith and Madelyn McKinney paid tribute to Mrs. Martin and to her husband, Lonnie C. Martin. Gifts from the chapter were presented to the honor-school, my little first grade folks read a Mother Goose rhyme about a man, and it said in part, "the rats and the mice, they led him such a life, that he had to to go to London, and get himself a wife." Now, I don't know just what that good wife did, but our community could use a good somebody like her, or like that man who played his pipe for the people of Hamelin and led all the rats and mice to the river where they all jumped in. This community is about to be carried away with rats, mice and rabbits and lately there have been scads of possums and skunks around. Everybody put out poison and sets traps, and still we hardly miss any of them. I guess we have so much grain and grass seed for them, and there is so much cover for their protection in the fields and barrow ditches that they are just growing fat and sassy.

Labor-Saving Tips On Handling Poultry

Hatchery flockowners can make the hard job of blood testing much easier by following a few labor-saving tips. says Bill Cawley, Department of Poultry Science, Texas A. & M. College.

Be ready to start the testing operation when the hatchery crew arrives, advises Cawley. Have the house divided and all birds at one end. Make sure the partition which divides the house is chicken proof so tested and non-tested birds can't get mixed.

Carl H. Fischer Returns from 5,200 Mile Trip through Pacific Northwest

Returning to his home in the Paint Creek Community last week after a vacation trip of more than 5,000 miles through 14 States, Carl H. Fischer found the Paint Creek section "the wettest, swampiest area" he had encountered on his two weeks of travel.

made it a practice to make a major fishing or hunting trip each year, and has gone as far as Canada on some of his fo--

He was unable to make his extended tour to the Pacific Northwest, he declared.

His first destination was Oregon, where he went salmon fishing on the coast, the Rogue River and Winchester Bay. His largest catch was a 25-pound salmon, "Landing that 25-pounder was the hardest fishing I've ever done," Corl declared. He learned that 40 or 50 pound salmon are caught occasionally and commented that it would take an "expert" to land a salmon of that size.

He also did some trout fishing in the Columbia River with two cousins, Henry Fischer of Portland, Ore., and Otto Fischer of St. Helen, Ore. Most of his time was spent sightseeing, Fischer said. He visited the Grand Coulee Dam on the Columbia River, and then traveled through apple growing country of Wenatchee and Yakima where some of the largest apple orchards in the world are located.

He visited the redwood forests in Western Oregon, and saw some of the large sawmills in that area.

More huge forests were encountered in Northern California, and it was there the Paint Creek man saw his largest tree. It was a giant redwood measuring 33 feet in diameter at its trunk and towered 250 feet into the air. At a height of 150 feet, the huge tree was eight feet in diameter.

Fischer traveled through the irrigated area in the Sacramento Valley, his first trip to that section, and then visited Lake Tahoe in California. From that point he went to Reno, Nev. and then on to Salt Lake City Utah, where he visited many

At nearby Fort Sum-than made up for it with this ner, N. M., the Haskell man visited several sightseeing points, including the grave of Billy the Kid.

A close observer of farming conditions, the Paint Creek man stated that as a general rule, the crops of all kinds looked better in all the country he visited than he had ever seen them before.

He ran into quite a bit of wet weather on his trip, but it was mostly light rains and drizzles, he reported, until he neared iome. He made the entire trip in his pick-up truck, traveling total of 5,200 miles in 15 days.

Plymouth Offers New '59 Line of Luxury Models

New bumper-to-bumper and road-to-roof styling, new power plants with unprecedented traffic agility which operates 10 per cent more economically, and a new top-of the line series of luxury models head the list of innovations for the 1959 Plymouth. The cars will go on display in dealer showrooms

The 29 models offered include the new Sport Fury series which for the first time in the low price field provides swivel front seats as standard equipment. The swivel seats are optional on four other models. In addition to the Sport Fury in the revised model line up Plymouth also offers the Fury, the Belvedere, and the Savoy series. For the first time, Plymouth has two convertibles, one in each the Sport Fury and the Belvedere line.

The many changes in styling and engineering and the addition of the new models result from Playmouth's marketing philosophy, according to Harry E. Chesebrough, general manager of Plymouth.

"We are convinced that the American economy is at a point where value is the most important single factor in the purchase of a new car," he said. "Everything we have done to our 1959 line of cars reflect this belief."

Among the "value" features are several which contribute to a total of some 10 per cent greater economy of operation. There is a new 3-stage carburetor, standard on all V-8s, which with new manifolding reduces gas consumption in the middle speed range, where most driving is done. A new rear axle gear ratio of 2.93:1 is available at no extra cost with the Torque-Flite transmission. Exhaustive tests of cars with this gear ratio resulted in gasoline savings as high as six per cent. Oil consumption in the Powerflow six engine is reduced with new tappet chamber baffles.

Although the improvements have reduced operatings costs, they have at the same time increased performance.

The new Golden Commando 395 V-8 engine, with 305 horsepower, has been increased in displacement from 350 to 361 cubic inches, and in tests has shown exceptional "getaway" ability in traffic. It is an optional engine for all Plymouth models. Additional torque in normal driving ranges is a feature of all engines.

The Free Press, founded in 1886, is Haskell County's oldest business institution.

Lt. Donald Smith Finishes Special Army Course

Fort Sam Houston, Texas (AHTNC)—First Lt. Donald D. Smith, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jason W. Smith, Haskell, recently completed a military orientation course for newly commissioned medical service officers at Brooke Army Medical Center, Fort Sam Houston. Lt. Smith, a member of X. Psi Phi fraternity, was graduated from Haskell High School in 1951, attended North Texas ed chapter sweetheart. She is State College for three years and was graduated from the John Estes. She, the president University of Texas Dental School in 1958.

BY F. W. MARTIN

County Agent In an unprecedented move a major meat packer has announced payment of up to $1 per head to cattlemen for the cost of treating their cattle with systemic grub killers. This innovation, which becomes an important factor in a national effort to rid cattle of grubs and to eliminate the annual grub-fly problem, was announ-Entomologist Earl Raun at Iowa State College. Three other packers are reported to be considering similar offers.

Tests conducted by Iowa State College and others with the newly developed systemic livestock insecticides, showed cattle treated with these grub killers gained 1-10 to 1-4 pound more per day than untreated cattle on the same feed. They return $1.23 to $6.42 more per head when they were mark-

The new packer offer is to stimulate use of these systemic grub killers and to permit general improvement of beef carcasses. The packer will pay up to $1 per head on the cost of systemic insecticide treat ment to any owner who delivers cattle whose carcasses contain less than five grubs per animal between Dec. 1, 1958 and May 1, 1959.

Two types of systemic insecticides are available. One is called Co-Ral and is simply sprayed on cattle. It is equally effective in controlling screw worms, hornflies, ticks and lice. The other insecticide is called Trolene and is administered as a bolus (pill) by use of a balling gun. Experiments with the new insecticides show they will kill 95 to 100 per cent of the grubs in cattle.

Cattlemen who wish to collect the packer's payment for successful systemic grub treat-mit this, along with their own statement that they have treated the cattle, when they bring the cattle in for sale.

Cattle grubs start as heel fly eggs, laid on the hair of the lower legs and flanks. Small larvae then emerge from these eggs and burrow into the flesh of the animal. grub maggots migrate through the connective tissue, spend considerable time either in the gullet or spine, and finally appear in the back. Eventually they cut through the hide.

The livestock industry's loss es from cattle grubs each year amounts to $155 million in hide damage, meat trim and loss of weight due to heel fly annoyance. Millions of additional dollars in losses are caused annually by screw worms, hornflies, lice and

Cotton Quota Voting Set For

The Agriculture Department at Washington announced Monday that grower referendum would be held Dec. 15 on the question of extending federal marketing quotas to the 1959 crop of upland cotton.

Approval by at least two-thirds of the growers voting will be required to extend the program.

Quotas on this year's crop were approved by 92.9 per cent of those voting in a similar referendum a year ago.

The marketing control program has been in effect on cotton since 1954. It is designed to help prevent overproduction.

Wettest year on record in Haskell County was 1941, when 48.20 inches of rain was measured here. Driest year was 1956, when total precipitation was 9.49 inches.

Cattle Prices Uneven, Cows 25c To 50c Lower

BY TED GOULDY

Fort Worth, Oct. 6-Cattle prices were uneven. Hogs showed the first strength in more than a week. Sheep and goats were steady at Ft. Worth Monday.

Offerings of cattle and calves were near the 10,000 below a week earlier around the major market circle. Hogs at 12 major markets were 16,000 below a week earlier. Sheep num-bers were up 2,500 around the circuit.

Cattle and calves were slow. The receipts included a big percentage of mixed grade and classes and one factor in the slow movement early in the day was the extensive sorting that was necessary. Fed beeves were scarce and about steady. Cows faced lower offers from slaughter interests from the opening gong and averaged 25 to mostly 50c lower by the time a clearance was completed. Bulls were steady. Slaughter classes ruled steady. Stocker and feeder classes were unevenly fully steady to somewhat lower. There was very strong demand from farmers of the area on types suitable for winter pasture operations but buyers with northern connections were talk-last week. High grade stockers were relatively scarce. Good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings cashed at $24 to $28, the higher figure for some baby beef type heavy calves of light yearling weights. Medium and lower grades sold

ing lower prices following the

$1 lower close in the north late

from $23.50 down. Fat cows sold mostly from $18.50 to $22 and canners and cutters drew $14 to $19. Bulls sold from $18 to $22.75

Good and choice slaughter calves sold mostly from $24 to $28, with a few heavies higher. Cull, common and medium calves sold from $16 to $24.

Good to choice stocker calves cashed at $29 to $33 and heifer calves ranged from $30 downward. Stocker steer yearlings sold from $31.50 downward, with heavier yearlings $27.50 downward, Stocker cows sold from $18 to $21.50 Some weighty feeder steers sold from $22 to $25.50.

Last week hog prices took a drubbing all over the country, and as they dropped from the $22 range to the $20 range, they lost a total of $2 to $2.50 in just three days of last week. However, at Fort Worth Monday, the trend was up for the

Tech Conniving Future Trouble For Insects

Insects which outnumber all other living creatures on earth, are due to have more opponents when Texas Tech entomology graduates begin reaching "fields of combat."

A formal major in entomology at Tech has been approved by the Texas Commission on Higher Education.

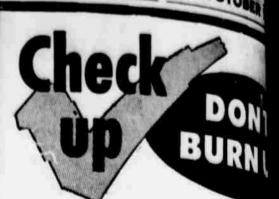

This makes Tech the second Texas institution to offer a complete sequence of courses leading to a degree in the important field of insects and insect control.

The new option-major will continue to be offered through combined efforts of the Agriculture School's horticulture and park management department and the biology depart-ment in Arts and Sciences. Approval of the option by the commission was announced by Dr. G. E. Giesecke, academic vice president at Tech. It culminates several years of work to establish a course sequence and arrange for qualified faculty members to educate students in insect identification, insect control and the many ways insects affect civilization.

"As the new tools and instruments of science find their place in our modern world, we find increasingly important contacts with the insect world. says Dr. Donald Ashdown, entomology professor in the Agriculture School.

This week marks the fourth week of the "Open Bible Crusade" which is to continue to Nov. 23. Brother Harris is preaching a series of sermons for the Sunday morning services which are to acquaint the congregation on what the Bible teaches about important subjects as 'God, Man, the Cross, the Church, etc' The evening messages are a series of important chapters of the Bible. For the evening service this coming Lord's Day the message will be a study of Isaiah chapter 53. The morning will be, "What the Bible Teaches About the Cross.' The overall attendance during this special crusade has shown a substantial increase. especially the evening service which has shown a 38 per cent increase. The morning service has shown an increase of 7 per cent. Brother Harris states that as the crusade continues the increase in attendance should be even more noticeable. The above averages are based on attendance from the first of the year 1958.

Last Lord's Day evening was "Ladies Night." The ladies "Ladies Night." The ladies really did a fine job in turning out and inviting and bringing Haskell others, Mrs. Dennis Ratliff had $123,080.

Insurance Rates Set By Drivers, Kotarians Told

Your friend or neighbor who has an accident in his car is responsible for the rate you pay for liability and casualty insurance," members of the Rotary Club were told Thursday by Gene Vores, with Archie Baker Claim Service, Abilene.

Vores, guest speaker at the meeting and luncheon in the Texas Cafe dining room, talked on "Why Auto Insurance Rates Keep Going Up." Insurance rates, he explained, are based on the ratio of premiums collected to losses paid.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Eastland damage or personal injury results, most people are prone to believe there is no harm in making an exorbitant claim "Because the insurance of Because the insurance of the surance of the suran When an accident occurs and pany will have to pay it, Old Joe, (or whoever the driver might be), won't be out anything." Vores explained that insurance companies had to collect premiums sufficient to pay losses, and when losses became excessive, a rise in insurance premiums was inevi-

"Automobile owners and drivers themselves determine what the insurance rates are going to be from year to year. Rates drop when accident costs decrease; rates must rise when accident costs increase," Vores pointed out.

Club President Tom Barfield announced the pending visit of District Governor Ira Kersnick on Oct. 9, and als ogave the report on the Club's budget for the current year calling for expenditures of $1,569.60.

Robt, R. King substituted as song leader in the absence of Tom Roberson, with Mrs. Ruby Withers as pianist. A visitor at the meeting and luncheon was K. K. Francis, Stamford Rotarian.

Soon the haunting call of wild geese will be heard high in the sky, as ragged strings of honkers fly across the moon.
Every hunter's pulse quickens with the thought of the fun
that's to come.

Few thrills can equal that tense moment when a flock of Canadas sight your decoys and start down to join them. Sud-denly the geese are above your head-so close it seems you can almost touch them. Then a big honker hits the ground with a solid thump. Man, that's goose hunting!

But to realize such exciting one of the hardest there is to are skilled goose hunters. They study geese and goose habits.

Texas hunters can well take a leaf from their book. These river hunters, in the old days before the Federal game laws prohibited, trained live birds, usually geese previously wounded and tamed, to honk and flap their wings when wild flocks approached. The hunters would stake out several of these wild

Cotton Classing Office Opened At Munday

A new cotton classing office was opened at Munday Oct. 6 to receive samples for classification under the Smith-Doxey leased, grounds that are good. Act. Announcement of opening the new office was made by John L. McCollum, area cotton pit that is at least 6' longx4 division manager for the Agricultural Marketing Service,

The office, located at Main Otherwise, geese will avoid and Fifth Street in Munday, will serve gins, warehouses Knox and Baylor counties. It are better-and don't bunch will be open during the main them. Place two here, three or part of the harvest season. P. K. Barry, member of the Dallas classing office, will be officer-in-charge.

Construction of the office was financed through efforts of interested persons in the three counties. The building is equipped with the most modern classing lights and has airconditioning and controlled humanism.

With the opening of the Mun-day classing office, area cotton farmers can take their samples there instead of sending them to Abilene.

Farmers and businessmen of this section are invited to attend open house in the Munday office, from 3 to 5 p. m. Sunday, Oct. 12. Refreshments will be served.

among their artificial geese. And these tame Judases did such a bang-up job the Federal boys had to step in quickly to stop the slaughter. Today, even though these Mississippi River hunters must limit themselves to the use of dummy birds, they almost always bring in their bag limit. Yet there are hunters who will tell you that any old thing can decoy geese-rags, paper, or what-not That is so sometimes. But to bring birds down from the sky, consistently, your decoys should resemble the living birds as closely as pos-

These same "wise" hunters, moments takes planning. The the ones who use rags and bags, wild goose is a wily bird. He's will also claim it is foolish to waste effort digging pits, or even monkey around with grass bring within gun range. To even monkey around with grass score a hit you must outsmart blinds above ground. They will allow that corn shocks make Sportsmen who hunt along good cover, or just grass is the Mississippi River sand bars enough to fool any goose. Don't listen to them. These hunters may bring down a few geese. for there are foolish birds, just as there are unwary people, but most honkers won't be fooled easily. Texas' great rice, corn and wheat felds compare favorably with the miles-long Mississippi sand bars. Wild geese come to them to feed and rest, just as they do on the bars. So why not follow the example of expert goose hunters and hunt their way? Many experienced Texas sportsmen already do. For those who don't, and for beginners new to the game, a few tips might be helpful.

Be sure the site you select is a field, or bar, that has something to attract geese-grain green grass, or a strategically located near a popular flyway (geese rest often on their way to distant points). Local peopple can help you find a good spot. The chamber of com-merce can guide you to free, or Get to your chosen location well before daylight and dig a widex4' deep (if two are hunting), Scatter, or camouflage, all excavated dirt or sand.

Next, stake out your decoys. and compresses in Haskell, Use about a dozen-two dozen goose hunter standby. But they were heavy and hard to carry. In recent years these clumsy dummies have been replaced by decoys printed in natural colors on stiff, waxed cardboard. They come folded flat. and are light-weight, take little space to carry, and are three-dimensional when set up.

Also very effective are the new inflated rubber birds, and the plastic jobs. Both of these. however, are more expensive.

Once your decoys are staked out around the pit (over an area of about 20'x30') you are ready for business. Nothing else for you to do but sit and wait for daylight.
