RESULT OF ELECTION

State and District Officers Nom-County Treasurer inated in Saturday's Primary

While only about seventy-five per cent of the vote is accounted County Surveyor for in the returns so far reported it is shown that all of the old State officers who were candidates are reelected by fairly good majorities. We think it therefore safe to say that the next administration will be: T. M. Campbell, governor.

A. B. Davidson, lieutenant governer.

R. E. Lee, 58 votes. There was one vote for J. D. Stodghill for J. P. and two votes for J. C. Brushy. Cavitt for constable. Executive Committeeman Pre. 3. J. R. Mitchell 1, W. F. Rose cash the entire stock of goods J. R. Dinsmore 2, E. L. Shy 1, 50, majority 49. C. C. Shy, 1, W. J. Medford 2.

The Moscow municipal council has decided to celebrate Tolstoi's eightieth birthday by opening a public library and giving the count's name to the school he attended in his youth.

Don't feel discouraged if none of the colleges has added any capital letters to your name during this commencement season. Next year they may remedy the unaccountable omission.

Prince Helie is not to have control over the estate of his wife, but then, with the pull he has at headquarters, he ought to do fairly well as a chairman of the advisory committee on finances.

"Well done, Johnnie! My best wishes and good luck to you," exclaimed King Edward to his equerry after the wedding. That's considerably more genial and jovial than the customary stiff royal nod.

Anarchy is a mark of disease in the view of a Memphis physician. He finds anarchistic ideas conclusive evidence of insanity, and would commit all anarchists as dangerous lunatics, thus making them harmless.

"Everything is charming, and I find the American men and women very with the beginning of the new year lovely," says an Englishwoman who is at present visiting America. The lady's use of adjectives indicates that English and American femininity are delightfully alike.

President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton declared in his baccalaureate address this year that the great need of the country is men with "moral initiative." We thought one of the troubles of the country is its excessive supply of men who initiate new and wondrous ideas in morals.

The automobile is growing in favor here and abroad. But the horse is not entirely supplanted. In some respects he is more popular than ever. As an indication of this may be cited the national exhibit now held under the supervision of the French government, at which animals have been purchased for Americans at prices ranging from $4,000 to $5,000. The horses, which are Percherons, used for draft purposes, will be sent to this cauntry with a view to improving the native stock. There are many uses to which equines can be put profitably.

dealers report that about $5 per cent of the mills in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Texas are now inoperation, that the probability is that the percentage will be increased steadily henceforth. Coal operators state that about $5 per cent of the mining forces of Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee are at work and that the output will be up to the normal within twenty or thirty days. The reopening of saw-mills and coal mines meanes the reemployment of many thousands of workmen.

China to Entertain Fleet.

Peking: The Chinese government is completing preparations for the entertainment of the officers and crew of fleet of American battleships at Amoy where the visiting men-of-war are due to arrive in the latter part of October. The sum of 400,000 taels appropriated by the Chinese for the purpose of entertainment will be augmented by another 100,000 faels.

Texas Not in Bad Shape.

Austin: The present fiscal year, as far as the state government is concerned, ends on August 31, 1908, and all appropriations made by the 30th legislature for the second of the two years, will become available. Deficiencles were created by several of the departments and state institutions to tide over the time until the new fiscal year rolls around. The state treasury will not find itself in a bad shape, so to speak, at the end of this fiscal year.

Betting on Elections.

Waco: It was with alarm that some persons viewed the amount of betting on the election just held, bets being young men and boys. Even some officers are alleged t ohave indulged openly in the practice. As this is unlawful, and it is held by many that undue influences are usually brought to bear extreme. The matter has occasioned a good deal of comment.

Reports Crop Prospects Good.

Austin: Col. R. T. Miller, commis sioner of agriculture, has returned from a tour of East Texas and other sections of the cotton belt of the state, and said that the prospects for one of the largest crops in the history of clared that if favorable weather prevails for the next twenty days, the increase in the crop over the last three or four years will be marketed. The indications are 3,000,000 bales.

Dallas, July 28 .- Attorney General | as having been settled, as in fact was Davidson's majority will probably not indicated by returns yesterday morn- one county commissioner, who shall be been all to have hold his office for two years and until hold his office for two years and until exceed 20,000 votes. The returns print- ing, which showed Mr. Randell to have his successor shall be elected and quall ed this morning give him a lead of 14,219. These returns account for a vote of more than 200,000. If the total vote should turn out to be 300,. 000, as has been estimated from the beginning, then the Attorney General's majority may exceed 20,000, but if the total vote should be under that figure, likewise his majority will probably be proportionately less.

These figures result not only from additional returns received last night but from a careful revision of returns previously published, as well as a readdition of its figures to correst any errors which might have crept into its first calculations. It will be seen, therefore, that the figures printed this morning are entitled to a high degree of credit.

The account of the votes cast in the contests for Superintendent of Public Instruction, Land Commissioner, Court of Criminal Appeals and for Governor has been dropped. As for the governnorship, it is of course, only a question of majority and will of necessity wait until completed county returns are available to make this calculation. As to the other contests it is indisputable that Robinson has been non.inated for Land Commissioner, Cousins for Superintendent of Public In-Lingering in unconsciousness, he sank struction and Davidson for Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals. As to the race for comptroller the account has been kept until now, but it is evident that there will be no longer any necessity for doing so, as Mr. Stephens has gained a lead of over 10,000

Instruction. The race for Comptroller is very the final result.

The returns so far received show that Attorney General Davidson has carried Dallas, Van Zandt, Coryell, Smith, Travis, Galveston, Lamar, Starr, Hidalgo, San Saba, Jefferson, Wilson, Harris and Bexar Counties certainly, and, probably, in addition, Uvalde, Polk, Taylor, Anderson, Colorado, Navarro, Eastland and Val Verde. The counties which Col. Wynne seems to have carried beyond doubt are Tarrant, Kaufman, Montague, Duval, Rusk and Nacogdoches, and the probalities are that he also carried Madison, Grimes, Brazoria, Cass and Bowle.

The most surprising and perhaps the most notable feature of the returns is that they show a elight majority against the proposition to submit a prohibition amendment. The exact figures are: For submission, 58,290; against, 60,020. It will undoubtedly require very nearly complete returns to make it certain what

ROMANCE MORE IN THEIR LINE.

Factory Workers' Criticism of Louisa M. Alcott's Great Story.

In a conversation about books which the author of "The Long Day" had with two of her workmates at a box factory, she spoke enthusiastically of "Little Women," and told them how she had read it four times, and that she meant to read it again some day.

"Little Women" was unknown to them, but their curiosity was roused over the unheard-of thing of anybody ever wanting to read a book more than once, and they pressed her to repeat the story for them. This she did with great accuracy of statement, and with genuine pleasure to herself at being given an opportunity to introduce anybody to Meg and Jo and all the rest of that delightful March family.

When she finished, Phoebe stopped work and Mrs. Smith looked up from her label-pasting, saying: "Why, that's no story at all."

"Why, no," echoed Phoebe, "that's no story-that's just everyday happenings. I don't see what's the use putting things like that in books. I'll bet any money that lady what wrote it knew all them boys and girls. They just sound like real, live people; and when you was telling about them I could see them as plain as plain could be-couldn't you, Gwendolyn?"

"Yep," yawned Gwendolyn, undisguisedly bored.

"But I suppose farmer folks likes them kind of stories," Phoebe generously suggested. "They ain't used to the same styles of anything that us city folks are."-Youth's Companion. ------

JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS SUCCEEDED BY HIS SON

When early in this month the death of Joel Chandler Harris was announced from his home in Atlanta, Ga., the people of the South and especially those who feel an interest and pride in Southern literature of the highest class, felt that the South had sustained a distinct loss in his death. Mr. Harris was a versitile and forceful writer, always kindly and generous in his expressions. But he perhaps achieved his widest notoriety and popularity through his "Uncle Remus" stories for children, which were founded study he was perhaps bester qualified to portray than any other person.

A man who was graduated from Yale in 1884 is now a bachelor. He lives in a very old house on upper Broadway, says the New York Sun. The few attentions his house receives come from a charwoman of great age and little activity. Hence there are rats on the premises. They are remarkable rats, and when you are told of their achievements by their landlord you are inclined to be incredulous. Yet you can't deny the evidences of their intelligence

In the kitchen is a large cupboard. On its broad shelf rests a rather heavy tin breadbox. Generally it contains bread

For a long time the tin cover kept rats out. Then the rats held a council of war, appointed a committee on ways and means and lived on potato peelings until the report came in. The committee did its work well.

It decided that as rats were poorly equipped to cope with tin breadboxes push it off the cupboard and allow the well known laws of gravitation to do the rest.

The plan was a success. Morning after morning when the owner of the breadbox came into his kitchen he crumb.

Successive falls dented the poor old box out of shape, and while the owner is a mild mannered person he can't afford new bread boxes every week. So he drove two large staples into his cupboard, fastening them against the box. Since then the rats have had no bread.

Another feat the rodents accomp lish handily is even more remarkable, The owner of the house keps his flour in a large cylindrical can. The top fastens on snugly.

The industrious rats have succeed ed in removing the top from the can on a dozen different occasions. The opened can is tipped over and the flour is consumed, presumably with great rejoicing.

It requires quite a bit of strength to remove this cover with the fingers, and how the rats succeed, using their tough little noses and paws, is beyond were there and the Yale bachelor is an honest man.

The spider seldom bites or stings, but should anyone try to catch him bite he will, and, though not venomous, his jaws are as powerful as a bird's beak. The bodies of these spiders are very handsomely decorated, being bright gold or scarlet underneath, while the upper part is covered with the most delicate slate colored fur. So strong are the webs that birds the size of larks are frequently caught therein, and even the small but powerful scalp lizard falls a victim. A writer says that he has often sat and watched the yellow monster-measuring, when waiting for his prey, with his legs stretched out, fully six inches-striding across the middle of the net, and noted the rapid manner in which he winds his stout threads round the unfortunate captive. He usually throws the coils about the head until the wretched victim is first blinded and then choked. ### BORAX! NATURE'S DISINFECTANT. CLEANSER AND PURIFIER

Everybody realizes the necessity of some method of purification of sinks, drains and utensils in which may lurk the germ of a dreaded disease.

Health is a question of cleanliness and prevention.

Most people are familiar with the use of disinfectants in their ordinary sense-all of which are unpleasantly associated with disagreeable odors, on which are depended to kill the contagion (which disinfectants must of necessity be of a more or less dangerous character) and must be used for this purpose and for no other, and in consequence kept from children and careless handling.

There is, however, within the reach of all our readers a simple, safe and economical article that will not only answer for every disinfecting purpose -but can also be used for a multitude of domestic cleansing and purifying purposes-Boraz.

Borax is a pure, white harmless powder coming direct from Nature's laboratory; in fact Borax has often been called "Nature's Cleanser and Disinfectant."

Two tablespoonfuls of Borax in a pailful of hot water poured down the grease-choked pipes of a sink, or fushed through a disease-laden drain. cleanses and purifies it, leaving it clean and sweet.

Bed clothing and clothes used in a sick room can be made hygienically clean and snowy-white, if washed in a hot solution of Boraz water.

Kitchen and eating utensils, used during illness will be kept from all possibility of contagion if Borax is used when washing them. Pure as snow and harmless as salt, and because it can be used for almost every domestic and medical purpose, Borax must be considered the one great household necessity.

Pigeon Joins Recessional.

A little fellow who sings in the choir of a Long Island village church is the happy possessor of tame pigeons. One of them follows him to the pretty vine covered place of worship and during the sermon coos and flutters among the crimson ramblers at the open window. One recent Sunday when the recessional began the bird flew in and circled about the little fellow's head until he reached the choir room door. It then flew out and walted to escort its small owner home.

at a machine-made article which can be duplicated in any one of a dozen stores. And the fascination of fashioning things with the hands, especially essentials of the household or articles that add a refining touch to a commonplace service, has led many women to abandon china painting and fancy work for the more active work of the loom.

To own a rug, a table cover or a curtain on which the maker has expended his ideas and personality is a pleasure quite distinct from gazing

in the industry.

Though there are many amateurs in Massachusetts who make no attempt to market their wares a good many have found weaving an attractive commercial proposition. Many of these have enrolled themselves in the Arts and Crafts assoclation. For them, rag carpet weaving provides the most direct method of securing remuneration for their work. Rugs of this sort are always in demand, and there is ample room for the exercise of taste in developing simple patterns and in the variation of colors.

Most of the rugs are woven with a grayish background. For the plazza and the summer home there are lighter patterns, soft blends which will absorb the sunshine or brighten up the tedium of a drizzly day. For these it is necessary to use white new rags in the warp and alternating cords of pink or blue.

The simplicity of these floor coverings affects one with a strange sense of relief which may be inexplicable at first. It is the sense of contrast with intricate machine-made designs which are often as confusing as the rattle of the steel tentacled machines that made them.

Some of these rugs are made in Boston, but most of them come from outside towns. Deerfield, Marblehead, Hingham and Lynn are regular stations of supply. In Central square, Cambridge, the Massachusetts commission for the blind has an established factory where men weave rugs.

in 1904 the experiment of blind weavers was first tried. They have proved in less than four years that their work can rank with that done by anyone. Without prejudice, buyers are agreed to this, and in many cases they insist that the work is not only as good, but superior. Of course the rugs are made under the supervision of seeing people, who select colors and distribute the materials.

An expert supervisor with the use of his eyes first teaches the mechanism to the blind pupil, who memorizes everything by a numerical system. After he has mastered all the movemients, he soon can acquire the technicalities of pattern weaving.

By "numerical system" is meant the numbering of each thread, as well as the arrangement of the materials near the loom, so that once the position is memorized no sight aid is required to locate any color. From triangles and circles progress is made to the more intricate patterns. For some of these a raised proof of the design is hung above the loom. By touching it with the fingers the pattern is reproduced on the cloth.

The proficiency shown by the sightless weavers has eliminated the question of their ability to execute the work. The question remains: Where shall they market their wares?

This problem is solving itself, for the number of people who buy band-wrought articles is rapidly increasing. When Charles F. Campbell, superintendent of the industrial department of the Massachusetts commission for the blind, was asked where the department disposed of their output, he turned up the label of the package he was tying. It was addressed to Detroit, Mich.

We have shipped stuff to Duluth and San Francisco," he added; "so you see the folks out west aren't going to be distanced in this new twist

Rug weaving was a secondary development with the blind school. In July, 1904, they first started a girl weaving art fabrics. In October of the same year one of the men was tried on a rug.

lected. The design is rather intricate, repre-

dians paddling their ca-

In the mechanical part of the task the workers became as adroit as if they had the use of their eyes. In conscientiousness they excel. Some of the operatives have become so ambitious that they conceive patterns which they wish to work on and are absorbed in the discussion of the shades of color which they feel they are blending.

The looms are much the same that grandmother's mother knew. The size has been somewhat reduced, but the principle has not altered any. In fact, looms in all countries as far back as they can be traced, have the same mechanical devices that are ingeniously elaborated to-day in the high power carpet factories.

Weaving, no doubt, originated when some primeval creature plaited his or her hair, and then tried crossing three strands of heavy grass one over the other. From mats and baskets came the idea of interlacing wool threads, and so cloth was invented. Weaving, in some form or other, is one of the earliest signs of civilization.

It might be argued that weaving is not an evidence of the advancement of intellectuality. The wonderful shawls which come from the far east. and which we are quite unable to imitate, are made by a peasant populace. And whoever has turned over pictures illustrating the manufacture of Turkish and Persian rugs is as much impressed by the uncouthness of the makers as by the symmetry and imagination of the designs.

Crossing the Great Divide of this continent, the Navajo and Moji Indians and the Mexican blanket weavers to the south, are not leaders of intellectual thought, though they have established blanket weaving as an industrial art. The old squaws are more wrinkled than winsome. This isn't the fault of the weaving, however, and there is no gainsaying that rugs and tapestries and draperies and all the other products of the loom into which individuality is woven, have a reactionary effect on daily life.

In Hingham, ardent handicraftsmen not long ago discovered an old colonial loom lurking in the recesses of a garret. It was dragged forth and restrung, and now it is back at work again.

Here, too, Swedish linen weaving is done, for at Hingham the industrial arts flourish. Linens for dresses, toweling, sheeting and table covers are woven on the Swedish loom.

The process of preparation requires almost as much time and skill as the weaving itself. To warp the skeins of linen is the first step. This is done by arranging all the threads in even lengths on a device somewhat like a turnstile. which spins around, carrying them from top to bottom and back again. Thus the threads are measured off accurately, while, by means of pegs, they are twisted into a figure eight shape. With this device as many threads as 1,000 to a yard wide material may be kept from tangling. A frame with teeth in it, like a big wooden comb.

response to a local condition. Pupils attend the school whose homes are in remote parts of the mountains. During the winter time, it is impossible for women living in these districts to penetrate to any towns. Isolated as they are, it is essential that they have some rather active occupation, and, rug weaving having survived among the mountain whites, it was accepted as the happy solution.

Already some of these rugs have found their way to Boston, and the industry promises to become popular through the Tennessee mountains. In the mountain, fastnesses they are still making those wonderful old bed spreads and table covers which are prized as heirlooms in a few New England homes.

The colonial atmosphere which permeates the town of Deerfield fosters the zeal of the laborers, who devote themselves to the simple industries of earlier days. From Deerfield come specially attractive blue and white woven rugs and exquisite needle work. Here, also, they dye their own materials in indigo, madder and fustic shades. Journeying down one of the honeysuckle lanes one may hear through the workroom window the whack, whack sound of the reed as it presses the weaving firmly down.

QUEER IDEAS ABOUT FOOD.

Slowly but surely modern enlightenment is rele gating to oblivion the foolish and often costly superstitions which have been passed down from century to century. Of those, however, that linger is the superstition about the spilling of salt and the sure coming of ill luck-the result of the painting of a celebrated picture which showed that Judas, at the Last Supper, sat before an overturned salt cellar. Then there is the idea against thirteen at table because there were Christ and his twelve apostles around that board in the upper room at the supper which was followed so soon by our Lord's death, and that of Judas, too.

In some European countries ill luck is said to follow the person who stirs any liquid in a pan from east to west. In Scotland persons when baking outcakes break a piece off and throw it in the fire to appease evil agencies. Still another custom in that land is to make a birthday cake with nine knobs, then of nine of the assembled company, when the cake comes hot out of the oven, each breaks one knob off, and throwing it behind him says: "This I give to Thee, Fox, Eagle, Wolf," etc.

In some countries it is considered unlucky to give mince pie to a guest-it should be asked for. Likewise, a mince pie should never be cut with a knife, but held whole with the fingers and eaten that way. Also to eat as many mince pies as possible at as many different houses before Christmas, it is believed, will insure so many happy months for the eater.

SAVAGE FLING AT AUDIENCE.

Inebriated Orator Resented Dilapproval of His Condition.

"Like many a statesman of the past," said Senator Beveridge, "he drank too much. And one Fourth of July morning, on a platform hung with flags and flowers before the courthouse of a country town, facing an audience of farmers and their familles that had come from miles around. the statesman arose to deliver the Independence day oration in a slightly intoxicated state.

"He was not incapable of an oration, but his unsteady gait, his flushed face and disordered attire spoke ill of him, and the audience hissed.

"He held up his hand. They were silent. Then he laughed scornfully and said:

"'Ladies and gentlemen, when a statesman of my prominence consents to appear in such a little, one-horse town as this, he must be either drunk or crazy. I prefer to be considered an inebriate."--Washington Star.

More chewers are learning every day that STAR, considered from the standpoint of true merit, has no competitor, and is the one best chew.

For a long time there was a prejudice (which probably still exists) among certain chewers against the use of what is generally termed "Navy Tobacco," because of the impression that all tobacco of that character is too sweet.

It is true that some brandsof tobacco, similar in appearance to STAR. are too sweet to please chewers accustomed to the use of tobacco manufactured in thin plugs, but we know that STAR is right in every way.

You use tobacco for the pleasure it gives increase your pleasure by chewing STAR!
