

Snow Glaze Promotes Car Wrecks

Hazards created by a coat of hard packed snow on the highways resulted in damaged to several vehicles during Saturday when snow fell over most of the Panhandle section.

Three cars were involved in a traffic accident on U. S. Highway 54 at the eastern edge of the city limits. The three way collision which occurred about 3:15 a. m. Saturday was the result of poor visibility and one driver misjudging the speed of the cars ahead of him.

Hughie Eugene Strup of Kansas City, Missouri was driving west when he came upon the stalled car of Mr. and Mrs. Milo R. Edwards of Yuba City, California.

Strup had towed the Edwards car almost to the city limits of Stratford when he was overtaken by a car driven by Paul Leon Eaken of Port Hueneme, California. Poor visibility kept Eaken from judging the speed of the cars ahead of him. Too late, he attempted to check his speed by using his brakes on the snow covered pavement. Eaken attempted to turn to both the right and the left of the cars ahead of him but his car kept skidding straight ahead and eventually collided with the rear of the Edwards car which was being towed. The towed car in turn, rammed into the Strup car, which had been towing it. Mrs. Eaken was laying down in the front seat and was bruised about one eye when she was thrown against the dash in the collision. Mr. Eaken and their three children were not injured.

Although damaged, the Strup car was able to continue in use. The small foreign-made car belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Milo R. Edwards which was caught between the two heavier cars in the collision, was sold as a total loss.

The Eaken car is being repaired in the C & E Paint and Body Shop.

Highway Patrolman Delmer Tuggle investigated the accidents.

On his way to investigate the three-car collision at Stratford, Tuggle came upon a rather peculiar accident 1.3 miles east of Conlen. He stopped briefly, and then returned to the scene after completing his investigation of the accident at Stratford.

The only vehicle wrecked in the Conlen area was a Little Audrey tractor-trailer, loaded with California vegetables and enroute to the company headquarters at Fremont, Nebraska. It was driven by Edward Carlton Trimble of Chicago.

Trimble, going east, was following a car that suddenly began whipping back and forth on the snow-glazed highway and started to slow down. Trimble pulled to the left and

.35 Inch Of Moisture In 8 Inch Snow

Snow falling Saturday in the U. S. Weather Bureau gauge kept by Horace Sneed gave the Stratford area .35 inch of moisture in the 8 inch snow.

In the Kerrick area, the snow was reported to be heavier and ranged up to 11 inches on the level.

To the south, the snow was reported to have tapered off to 4 and 5 inches near the Moore County line.

Falling without wind, the snow is melting where it fell, and freezes over at night.

During the early hours Saturday grocery stores did a land slide business as residents rushed to secure a supply of food before the possibility of being snowed-in. Garages and filling station men worked desperately to care for the rush demand for placing snow grip tires and chains on automotive vehicles.

McMahen Furniture Co., just opening a liquidation sale in a choice stock of furniture, had to wait until this week when more desirable weather permitted buyers to start taking advantage of the savings which are offered.

Saturday night the hotel and the city's five motels were filled to capacity and a number of tourists were placed in private homes for the night. The hard packed snow on the highways and poor visibility combined with the possibility of the hazards of a blizzard caused many to remain in Stratford until the weather cleared.

A film showing methods of producing sugar beets and the processing of the beets will be shown.

The state flower of Ohio is the scarlet carnation.

Iowa Car Slides Into Snow Plow

A car driven by Katherine Sawyer of Winterset, Iowa, smashed into a highway snow-plow driven by L. S. DeBord Saturday at 6:15 p. m. at almost the same location in front of the highway barn where the three-car collision took place Saturday morning on U. S. 54. No one was injured in the accident and the Sawyer car was taken to the C & E Paint & Body Shop for repairs.

Three highway trucks, moving one behind the other at short intervals, were going eastward plowing snow from U. S. 54.

The lead truck was new and had not been equipped with flashing light signals showing it to be an emergency vehicle.

The Iowa car was moving east and had passed two of the trucks, driving at a speed of about 20 miles an hour.

L. S. DeBord, driving the front truck, said he looked in his rear-view mirror and did not see the Iowa car. Thinking the highway behind him was clear, he

Marshall Towed Vehicles Stalled On Highway 287

Bob Marshall handled stalled vehicles on U. S. 287 Saturday night with the Garrison Motor Co. wrecker.

Three semi-trailer trucks were jackknifed on the highway just south of Stratford. Pulled out on the highway, they were able to continue under their own power.

Sunday morning, an Arizona woman whose name was not learned, lost control of her car which left the highway and came to a stop after it had gone under a four-wire fence and changed directions in a wheat field near Kerrick. Marshall said the lady suffered only minor injuries, but all evidence indicated that the car turned over about four times and came to rest on all four wheels.

started turning to the left preparatory to going back on the highway with his snow plow. The Sawyer car was unable to stop and slid into the truck. Damage to the truck was estimated at $140.00.

World Day Of Prayer Service February 17

The 75th World Day of Prayer anniversary service will be held at the First Methodist Church Friday, February 17. The program will open at 9:45 a. m. and a covered dish luncheon will be served in Fellowship Hall at the close of the service.

Goals of the 75th World Day of Prayer are to double the attendance by enlisting the cooperation of every church in the community, to double the number of services by helping neighboring communities organize for a World Day of Prayer, and to double the offering, $750,000 for the 1961 World Day of Prayer.

History is not written in dollars. But dollars are one measure of devotion and they tell a story. From $70 in 1920, the World Day of Prayer offerings grew to $1,000 in 1934, to $445,807 in 1959. These dollars have been transformed into lives taking Christian leadership in Asia and Africa, in North America and in South America, on the islands and the continents of the earth.

Seventy-five to millions of people in 1961 means the multiplied faith and devotion of countless women, men and children over three quarters of a century. For 1961 is the seventy-fifth anniversary of the World Day of Prayer.

It all started with a humble, consecrated woman who wasn't afraid of a vision or of work. In 1887 Mrs. Darwin James, a Presbyterian, called for a national day of prayer for home missions. This came from the concerns of Christian women of that day especially for the newcomers arriving by the thousands from Europe and the Orient seeking work and opportunity in the young country of America.

These same women who so boldly pioneered in the early days of the World Day of Prayer saw also the need for Christian literature. It was they who started the Committee for Christian Literature for Women and Children. Today, three quarters of a century later, we see the overwhelming need for books and magazines for the millions of people who are learning to read. The heart of one of the thrilling new projects for the 75th is to help develop the nationals who can write these books.

Boy Friend Wants Things His Way

By C. D. Smith

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am a girl of sixteen and like a boy, nineteen, who also likes me. I have three problems. My first: Whenever we walk down the street together he says "hi" to every girl that goes by and looks back at them. What can I do to stop him from doing this? He also thinks he's so cute he just has to snap his fingers and the girls come running. In my opinion and the opinion of my friends he isn't especially cute. Second: he thinks I should do everything he says and if I don't he says he'll go up to this town where he can get a steady job and stay and I'll never see him again. How can I stop him from doing this? My third problem: he loves to make up big stories and gets me all upset by them. One is where he said he was giving me up to marry another girl cause he was tired of waiting for me to reach nineteen so we could get married. What can I do? I love him very much.

OUR ANSWER: Get wise, young lady, get wise. In the first instance, fight fire with fire, so to speak. Say "hi" to all the boys who pass and let him "hi" all the girls he wants to. In the second instance: Courtship, like marriage, should be a 50-50 proposition. Nobody can be the "boss" all the way. In courtship one usually puts the best foot forward. The individual, boy or girl, who "gives in" or "gives up" for the sake of peace and harmony is just buying future trouble. If someone is "bossy" and demanding during courtship, that individual will become even more so after marriage. In the third instance: If you know they are "big stories" why worry about them? Why get upset? Keep a level head and try to show him how foolish it is to make them up.

And we add: Courtship is the time for couples to learn the "give" and "take" that is essential to the success of any marriage. We don't say that a marriage won't last if one partner is "boss" all the way; but we don't believe that it will be the happy partnership that is so ideal.

Rep. Buchanan Summarizes The Legislature

(By James L. Bass Jr.)

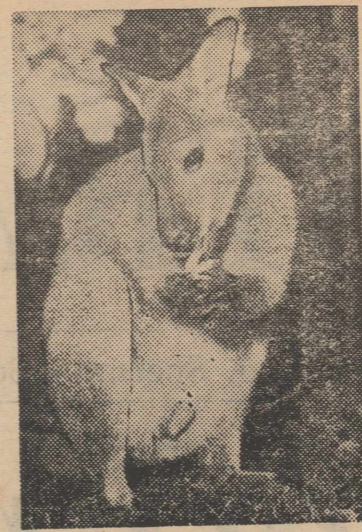

The Texas Legislature House of Representatives, faced with the biggest tax bill in Texas history, got into high gear last week after Speaker James Turman named the committees. These committees have been diligently working since that time on the more than 390 bills which have already been referred to them.

On Tuesday, February 7, the Conservation and Reclamation Committee will hear H. B. 8 and H. B. 54, sponsored by Representative J. W. Buchanan, chairman of said committee. Both measures would broaden the powers of the Texas Water Development Board. The bills would allow the board to invest funds in U. S. securities and would raise the loan limit to local governments for water development from $5 million to $15 million.

Of course, the big problem for the House is finding a solution to the tax problem, since all tax legislation must originate here. The estimated $90,000,000 tax increase made in 1959 has proved inadequate. Observers generally believe this Legislature will try to raise between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000 a year more money to pay off a deficit and meet the rising demand for state services.

Several tax measures have been introduced in the House, including three sales tax bills. One calls for a 2 percent general levy, another for a 2 percent tax on items costing more than $50.00, and the third a 3 percent tax on utility, telephone

ACROSS the DESK

IDEAS FROM OTHER EDITORS

From the Desert Journal, Joshua Tree, California: Are we so-called moderns in agreement on anything but to certain of getting enough money to meet the next installment payment? Being in agreement should mean working toward some goal important enough to tear us away from even our favorite TV program.

Men have worked and suffered and died for causes to which we have become indifferent in a world of too-complex problems. We lack a singleness of purpose which has guided men in the past. Survival may supply that purpose now, if we recognize the proper means for achieving it.

We need to seek a covenant, or a point of agreement upon the value of a freedom we are threatened with losing. A covenant is defined as an agreement reached between persons or parties.

Thru-out history we meet up with covenants. Each held to a high ideal formed to meet a practical necessity. Magna Charter strove to break arbitrary royal control in England. The Mayflower Compact linked a group of our forefathers to an agreement on mutual benefit controls. Our Bill of Rights defined the terms on which our Constitution was based. The Covenant of the league of Nations in 1919 aimed at curing the ills resulting from World War One.

Compromises born of stubbornly selfish interests, or just pure human cussedness, have caused the full pursuit of these high ideals to be altered, bringing about a loss of faith in many of these covenants conceived as guarantees of liberty. But in the practical use of these guarantees there can be no compromise with forces like communism which limit human liberties instead of working to aid them.

Laff Of The Week

"I don't care if you have been on a liquid diet—it was very naughty of you to eat your mustard plaster!"

I REMEMBER BY The Old Timers

From Florence Mitchell Berry, Oildale, California: Woodson County, my childhood home, is in the blue-stem grass belt of Kansas. This region is now recognized as fine range land; in the nineties it was an area populated by small farmers coaxing a living from the limestone soil which was alternately flood-cursed by the waters of the Neosho river and drought-ridden by a cloudless sky. It was even then definitely not dairy country and a cream separator was simply unheard of.

That did not scare my experimenter father. We studied catalogs; agents visited us. The De Laval machine seemed for a while to fit our need. My small brother called it the Dilly Dally, a touch that vastly titillated our bucolic humor. For some particular reason, I don't remember what, we bought an Empire for $107 cash.

The floor of the smokehouse was reinforced, the machine set up in it. Tales of a separator that had exploded had been relayed to us. I recollect, that first morning, the terror that made us children stay yards away when those cylinders began to hum.

That cream separator was a wonder to us. The settings we found in its insides after the milk was out (no washing of udders then), the unnatural thinness of the skim milk, the thick light foam which topped it, the smooth lovely cream.

It was a marvel to others also. Neighbors came, and strangers from far away, to see the novelty, first in that section. Our prestige grew and our sophistication was fed by naive comments. Several thought we poured the milk into the big can at the top to have it come out butter.

The WORLD OUTDOORS

SOMETIMES in the quiet of a frosty morn, or with the rhythmic beat of boots on a crusty field, it's easy to turn back the long, long years and be a boy again.

The smell of Christmas was so different then... Pine and holly and mistletoe, oranges and apples and candy sticks... the cold chill of the bare floor before the embers are rekindled to make a warming fire.

The Christmas tree stands tall and straight in the corner of the room, surrounded by gaily-colored packages of assorted sizes and shapes. There, in the middle of everything, with only a small ribbon and card as decoration, is the shiniest object in the entire room, enough to send a boy's heart soaring with joy. Then, breakfast gulped, church-attended, a boy is off to the fields on feet as light as snowflakes, this shiny object clutched tightly as if it might get away at the slightest opportunity.

Over the hills and through the woods, eyes alert and ears tuned for the rustle of the rabbit scurrying through the berry bush or the whirring wings of Bob White startled into the air; this is a fond memory.

There are many things in life a man must remember; his first date or his first girl; his first job; his first automobile, and many others. But, for the hunter, the outdoorsman, the first gun, his very own, represented an achievement that had been long awaited.

Jobs and cars and guns—a man may know how many in the span of a lifetime. But, like the girl that he will take "for better or worse" that very first gun will always outshine them all. None could ever be so true, so highly prized, so trusted, and so reliable... and time only seems to make these things more true.

"What the man who has everything needs is help with the payments." — Maurice Seitter.

ALL SEASONS ENDED

All major game hunting seasons on wild game in Texas are now closed, according to the Game and Fish Commission. There can be no more hunting on deer, turkey, dove, quail, ducks or geese until new seasons are set. Squirrel and javelina hunting is still legal in a few counties, but you'd better check with your game warden.

Mr. Boothby's Room

(By Dolly Mehner)
Mrs. Garrison, Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Keener and Mrs. Mehner are the room mothers for our Valentine party which will be February 14 at 2:30 p. m.

Dallas Foreman and Dolly Mehner served cupcakes and lemonade to the room Friday, thus honoring Mr. Boothby and Mr. Bateman on their birthdays.

In geography, we have been outlining Germany. In art we drew and colored pictures of flowers. After this we painted with black tempera, the effect was good. We displayed these on our bulletin board.

Mrs. Riggs' 7th Grade

(By Nancy Lollis and Donna Judd)

We have been quite busy the past week. Wednesday, we had a class election. The officers elected were: President, Myrna Hester; Vice President, Lynn Stephenson; Secretary and Treasurer, Danny Brannan; Reporters, Nancy Lollis and Donna Judd. We are proud of all of them.

We have had several basketball games lately. Our 7th grade boys had a game Thursday. They lost to Sunray with a score of 10 to 12. The girls had a game scheduled for Saturday with Dalhart but it was postponed.

In science, we are studying rocks, minerals, fossils and petrified wood. It is very interesting.

We are learning how to make better and more interesting paragraphs in English class.

In math, we are trying to learn more about percentage. After about three weeks,

The Rewards of Research

Few of us stop to think of the rewards that research has given us in the past 50 years. We tend to take them for granted. Perhaps we can afford to be complacent about such benefits as air conditioning, television, jet flying, 40-horsepower automobiles and other comforts and conveniences produced by industrial research. But we cannot afford to be complacent about medical research in controlling the heart diseases which are the nation's Number 1 killer.

Health authorities agree that more progress in controlling the heart and blood vessel diseases has been made in the past 30 years through research than in the preceding 30 centuries. These are some of the advances that Heart Association research, aided by 50 million Heart Fund dollars, helped to achieve:

- Rheumatic fever, forerunner of rheumatic heart disease, can now be prevented.
- Most victims of heart attack survive. Of those who do, 3 out of 4 go back to work.
- Strokes are no longer hopeless. Invalidism can often be reduced or prevented.
- High blood pressure can be lowered through new drugs and surgery.
- The development of the heart-lung machine makes possible life-saving surgery inside the heart to correct in-born defects. Surgeons also can repair damaged heart valves and replace damaged arteries.
- Improved diagnostic tools, some involving advanced electronic developments, can detect cardiovascular disorders more readily and with greater certainty. Thus physicians can begin treatment more quickly and establish controls more effectively.

• New drugs can retard blood clotting and heart attacks. Despite these advances, we have a long way to go before the battle against the heart diseases is won. We have not yet discovered, for example, the underlying causes of hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure which account for 90% of all heart disease and which are the chief targets of medical scientists. We must discover these causes before we can prevent heart attacks and strokes.

This goal can be reached during the life time of many of us if research is continued and expanded, health authorities say. Therefore, whether or not we make real progress against the heart diseases may depend on our gifts to the Heart Fund. The decision is ours alone.

we are finally catching on.

Room Seven

(By Jean Anne Ross)

This week in art we drew a picture of a flower with crayons and then painted over them with black paint. They made a very pretty effect.

Friday we had a class meeting. We chose the room mothers. They are: Mrs. Green, Mrs. Ford, Mrs. Lopez, Mrs. Jacobs, and the chairman is Mrs. J. E. Brannan. They are room mothers for our Valentine party to be held from 2:30 to 3:30 on Tuesday, February 14.

We have been studying Germany in geography and about the war. It is so interesting. We also compared families of today and our mothers and fathers families and found that our parents on the average had more children in the family than the families of today. The average that we came up with was 3.7 children in today's family.

State Capital Highlights

(By Vern Sanford)

A proposal that would take the money off the backs of the legislators who campaigned on a no-sales-tax, no-income-tax platform has been made by one of the State Capitol correspondents.

It is the feeling of many persons in Austin as well as over the state that the public is ready for a definite, long-time tax program, whether it be a sales tax, an income tax or the Governor's proposed payroll tax.

They are convinced that the state has to take some drastic financing steps. And they are ready to foot the bill. Many legislators realized this fact.

Trouble is that a goodly number of them campaigned on a no-sales-tax, no-income-tax platform. Many legislators felt at the time that such was a popular campaign theme; that the public did not want either type of tax; that their resentment to either would be bitter.

It is the opinion of a number of the legislators that the people are far ahead of the lawmakers in this type of thinking; that they understand the problem better than the legislators realize; and that they are willing to face the facts.

But the legislators as a whole are hesitant. They are not sure the people are ready. They are fearful that they will get all the blame.

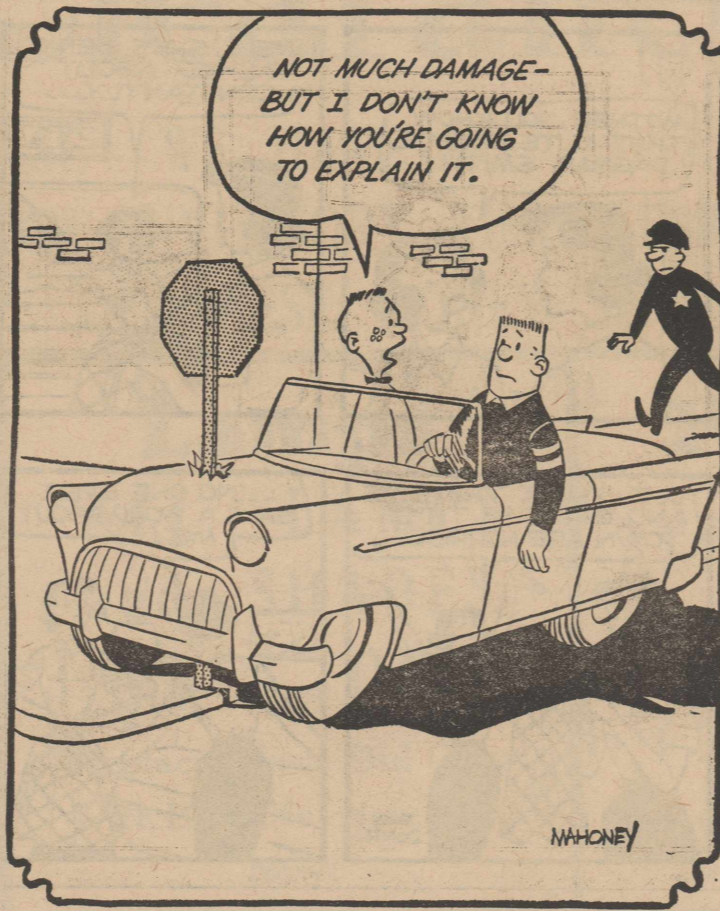

Richard Morehead of the Austin bureau of the Dallas News suggests that legislators feel the public pulse by ordering a referendum on the April 4 ballot. Voters will be going to the polls anyway to vote for a new U. S. Senator.

Moorehead's proposed referendum would point out the state's need for at least $100,000,000 a year in new revenue. Each voter would be asked to check which of the three tax proposals he preferred — a payroll tax to be paid equally by employer and employee, a general sales tax, or an income tax.

Such a referendum would give the voters a voice in the tax program — an opportunity to express their own preference in the matter. And at the same time it would lift the problem off the shoulders of the legislators.

As Morehead points out, there are other ways to raise money but informed people generally agree that some variation or combination of the three methods outlined herein is going to be passed by the legislature. And by April 4 the voters will have heard many sides of all proposals.

Other Tax Plans Advocated
Lawmakers have proposed numerous methods for raising additional tax money.

Rep. W. W. Glass of Jacksonville suggests a constitutional amendment authorizing a one per cent levy on the gross income of all businesses. He estimated it would bring in $100,000,000 a year.

A 10 per cent tax on the gross receipts of trading stamp firms was suggested by Rep. Henry A. Fletcher of Luling.

A graduated levy on gross income at the wholesale level and on income from personal services — for an estimated $300,000,000 yearly — was put forward by Rep. Lloyd Guffel of El Campo.

Rep. Marshall O. Bell of San Antonio took the opposite approach by proposing a constitutional amendment that would prohibit either a state income or payroll tax.

Raciest suggestion came from Rep. V. E. (Red) Berry of San Antonio who, as he promised in his campaign, introduced a bill to legalize horse racing and parimutual betting and to levy a tax on the track proceeds.

As bills dropped into the hopper, State Treasurer Jesse

James announced that the general revenue fund deficit has risen to $95,381,122.

Savings Sought
Legislature is also considering proposals aimed at cutting expenses.

Texas Research League, reporting on a study made at the request of the Legislature, made 19 recommendations for reducing the cost of collecting taxes.

Rep. Dick Cory of Victoria has proposed a bill that would set up a commission to study the agencies of state government with a view of eliminating duplication and bringing about maximum economy and efficiency. It has been dubbed the "Little Hoover Commission."

Loan Controls Urged
Drive to enact loan company regulations got new push when the State Supreme Court made final its ruling that the "certificate plan" for loans is not legal.

Under this plan a borrower had to buy an investment certificate from the loan firm and pay for the certificate as well as pay off the loan.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said it is urgent that the Legislature set up a guide by which loan companies can operate legitimately. Several lawmakers have announced plans to sponsor such bills. One would allow for total charges (interest plus other charges) of 3 per and telegraph sales. Governor Price Daniel has urged law makers to enact a 1 percent payroll-earnings tax. With regard to this needed taxation, Representative Wesley Roberts of Seminole announced plans to push for early passage of his bill to give voters a choice of broad-based taxes at a referendum on April 4, when the state will hold a special U. S. Senate election. The West Texas wants the taxpayers to tell law makers whether they prefer to pay a payroll tax, a general sales tax or a state income tax.

Already on notice is what is expected to be the most colorful hearing of the season. The House committee on constitutional amendments is set for a hearing February 14, on H. J. R. 4, a proposed amendment to the Constitution which would allow horse racing in Texas. This bill calls for local option horse racing in certain counties. If the amendment clears the Legislature and is adopted by the voters in the next general election, horse racing would be permitted in those counties only after a vote of the residents of the counties. Representative V. E. Berry of San Antonio, sponsor of the bill, estimated the state would take in $11 million in taxes for the general revenue fund the first year racing was adopted.

A controversial bill authorizing Social Security coverage for legislators won final passage Monday, with more than the necessary 100 votes to put it into effect immediately. Bills must receive 100 votes in the House to go into immediate effect after the signature of the Governor is obtained. This particular bill was passed last week 76-64, thus making it go into effect 90 days after the cent per month on the unpaid balance of the loan.

regular session ends on May 29, 1961. However, the House approved a resolution recalling the bill for further consideration, and on Monday, February 6, it was passed with more than the necessary number of votes for it to take immediate effect.

Snapshots: A Roaring Waterfall!

There is something poetic about a waterfall, whether it be a natural wonder or an effort by man to control some mighty stream and turn cascading water into power that can serve in many ways. In the scene above, Spokane Falls is framed by the arches of Monroe Street Bridge at Spokane, Washington. At high water the cascading waters of the river generate a roar that is audible at many points in the downtown area of Spokane.

Does This Girl Have Problems?

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I have a problem of two boys I like very much. One is Ralph, the other Bill. Ralph is popular, very cute and fun to be with. He is 16. Bill is fun to be with, but he acts too funny sometimes. He tries to be too nice. He is 15. Some people tell me to like Ralph. Others tell me to like Bill. I am only 13, but mature, and have a lot of good dates. The boys all seem to go for me, and don't mind my age. And I am not boy crazy. I'm big for my age. People say I look like—and who's the most fun to be with? If you like them both, consider yourself lucky. Some girls can't even find one boy they like—or one boy to like them. They are the ones who have a problem—not a girl who likes two boys and has "a lot of good dates."

Sometimes we can put too much store in what our friends say about some of our other friends. When we go out to eat, we wouldn't think of letting our friends order for us. We look over the menu and order the things that we like. Why then, would we allow some of our friends to tell us which people are best for us to choose as friends, or which of two boys would be more "fun" to be with?

Surely this is something a girl can decide for herself. If she enjoys being with them both, she should consider herself fortunate. Lots of other girls would like to have the same kind of "problem."

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

FISHERMEN, water skiers, and boating enthusiasts don't have to be told that recreational boating had some growing pains in 1960. It was obvious to anyone who spent any time at all on a stream, lake or ocean.

Just how big boating has become is evidenced in a year-end report on the boating industry issued by the Outboard Boating Club of America and the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers. These folks, who should know, report that Americans spent $2,525,000,000 at retail for new and used boats, motors, accessories and safety equipment, fuel, boat shelters, docking and maintenance. Purchases of new outboard boats, motors and boat trailers alone amounted to $442,000,000.

The number of people using the waterways more than twice for pleasure boating jumped 1,125,000 over 1959, the report shows. Total number of boats used for recreation rose to 8,025,000, of which 4,982,000 are motorboats.

The nation's recreational fleet consumed 547,000,000 gallons of gasoline and 25,200,000 gallons of lubricating oil.

In the U.S. today, there are more than 1,150 yacht clubs and boat clubs with waterfront stations, and approximately 4,000 marinas and boat yards. Recreational boating enthusiasts formed a major market for producers of sheet plywood, fiberglass and aluminum.

THE AMERICAN GUN, a new, luxury magazine for American sportsmen and gun enthusiasts, is a quarterly publication in the hard-cover publication field. Colorfully illustrated, it features articles on hunting, shooting and on the role of guns in American war history. First edition, 96 pages, has as its theme the Civil War.

By the time holiday's roll around, Mother may have lost all her spirit, if she doesn't schedule a break for herself in the program. Here's what she can do in planning her calendar now:

Plan to spend at least one or one-half day of the holiday week away from home to break the busy routine. Lunch? Movies? Concert? No shopping, please unless it's to buy a special bauble for herself, just for fun!

See that all the parties aren't at your house. If you're a constant hostess you can't relax.

Juggle the gift budget so you can buy at least one small item

Helen's Favorite:

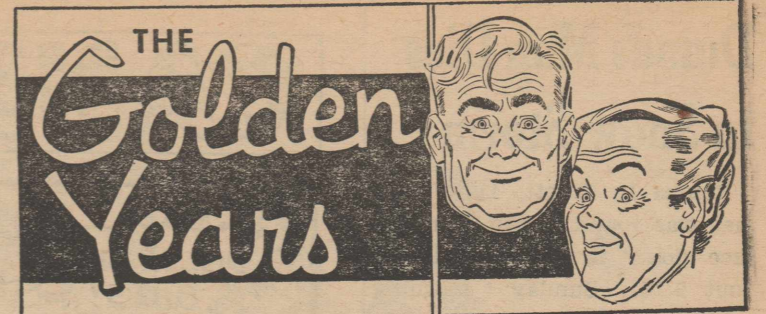

Holiday Peaches (Serves 6)
 1 No. 2 can cling peach halves
 ¼ cup brown sugar
 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 ½ cup cranberry juice
 1 3-inch stick cinnamon
 Drain peaches, reserving ¼ cup syrup. To this syrup add sugar, lemon juice, cranberry juice and cinnamon. Boil slowly 10 minutes. Add peach halves and cook 5 minutes longer. Allow to stand overnight or at least several hours before serving.

for yourself, something that you know won't be given you.

Shop alone. It's too much of a job to take the children along and get a lot done. Plan a shopping day for them so they can get to bob around all the Christmas spirit in the stores, including that visit to Santa.

Keep everything on a simple scale so as not to lose the spirit. This is, after all, a heartwarming, intimate holiday not a production.

Do some of the shopping sitting down. You can read ads, order by phone or by mail.

Moving when you retire? Plan some activity, too

HERE is a firsthand report on how retirement usually begins for the couple that move to the sunshine when the pension comes.

The town is in one of the well-known retirement areas of the country. It is a pleasant and fairly typical place.

The report does not seek to prove anything. It intends only to lay out what things are like... without any trimmings, so you can decide what you want to do.

The couple (call them Mr. and Mrs. Smith) arrive in the town without much real knowledge about it. They don't know its history, where its sewage goes or what specialized taxes will hit them.

A former neighbor or business friend who now lives here lured them down. Or possibly they heard or read somewhere that this town was a friendly and comfortable place for a pension. Maybe they've visited here before. The odds are that they know somebody, for few retired couples like to move into a town full of strangers.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith drive into the town in their car. They register at a motel, contact their former friend, go to the local Chamber of Commerce, and in a couple of days wind up at a real estate office.

People like this are known in most real estate offices in retirement country as gold-plated prospects. They probably have already sold their home back in the North, and have enough cash money to buy a new one for retirement. They are easy to sell if the real estate office has a house that fits their resources and affords some friendly neighbors.

They also are a quick sell because the couple want to get out from under the bill they are running up at the motel, and have to get their furniture out of the house up north.

The Smiths are gold-plated prospects not only to the realtor but to the town as a whole. They have no small children who will further crowd the local schools. They're not agitators (at their age they are not about to worry the police.)

Perhaps most important of all the Smiths, if they can be happily settled in the town, will start writing letters to every 65-year-old couple they ever knew, extolling its virtues. They become a more effective advertising agency than the Chamber of Commerce.

For two months or so they find they are treated as celebrities of sorts. Delightful strangers call at their home to introduce themselves as friends, to give them welcoming gifts from the local merchants and to invite them to church, club meetings or what have you.

They are the prime topic of conversation in their immediate neighborhood and as a rule can be assured of at least half a dozen invitations to dinner that is if they are nice people with friendly reactions.

Dumas Man Dies In Snow Storm

Remus H. Elliott, 49, of Dumas was found frozen to death face down in a snowbank about 2:15 Sunday morning northwest of Dumas by a National Guard unit.

Elliott and his brother-in-law, Finis J. Moody, were feeding Moody's cattle Saturday afternoon during the snow storm when the pickup in which they were riding stalled at 4:30. Elliott went for help while Moody stayed with the pickup.

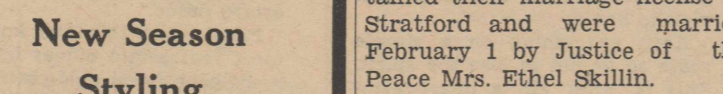

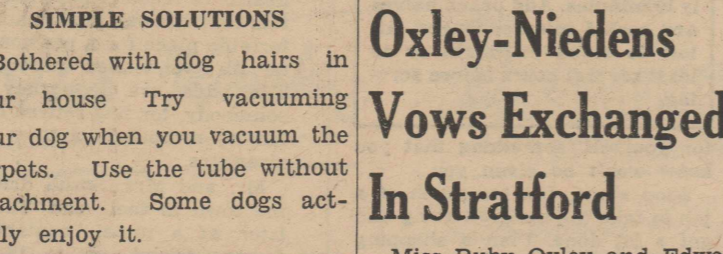

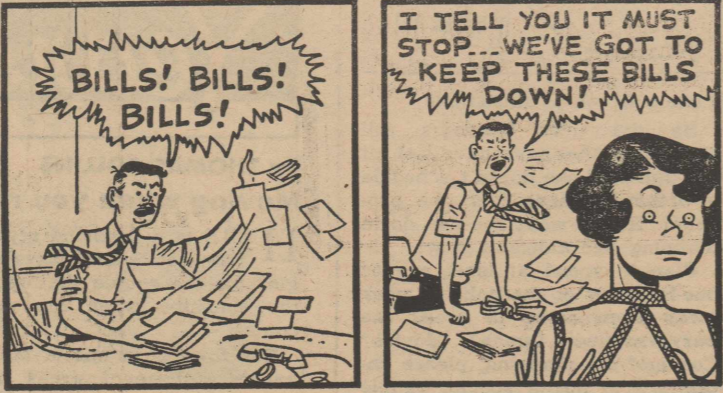

About 7:00 p. m. a farmer picked up Moody and took him to Dumas, and when he found that Elliott had not arrived Moody notified officers and a search started.

Elliott's body was located about two and a half miles from the stalled pickup. It was three miles south and two and a half miles west of Etter, and only 200 yards from the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Terrell.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon in the First Baptist Church at Dumas with the pastor, Edward Rogers, officiating. Burial was made in the Dumas cemetery.

Survivors include his wife, Lillian of Dumas, a step-son, a step-daughter, his parents, a sister and three brothers.

THE HANDY FAMILY

BY LLOYD BIRMINGHAM

• Snow Glaze

had just gotten around the car when in the white cloud of blowing snow ahead of him he saw tell-tale smoke that he realized was coming from a diesel-burning truck. He thought he was about to meet the truck head-on and pulled sharply to the right.

Then visibility momentarily cleared and he saw that he was behind another car and that the diesel-burning truck had just gone around it, both of them also headed east.

The sharp pull to the right had started Trimble's tractor-trailer to skidding. Unable to control it any other way, he touched the brakes, but that caused the cab to veer to the right into mud and snow at the edge of the pavement.

The trailer did not follow the tractor's rightward skid, but plowed straight ahead with enough force to shear off what is called the fifth wheel, which is a flat disk under the front of the trailer by which the tractor is attached.

As the trailer moved straight ahead it rolled over the rear of the tractor, and at the same time pushed it eastward so that when the tractor-trailer stopped the tractor was headed west and the trailer east, and their right sides were together. Part of the tractor was caught under the trailer so firmly it couldn't pull itself loose. Neither Trimble or a man in the sleeping compartment of the tractor were injured. Estimated damage was about $3,500.
