On April 18, 1949, Eire became the Free Republic of Ireland, cutting last ties with Britain.

Let's face this fact: Saving regularly takes strength of character, determination - and sometimes even sacrifice.

It's much easier to spend all you earn -- as fast as you earn it. BUT If you earned $1, $5 or $10 less every month, you'd still manage to get by, wouldn't you? Thats why you can save $1, $5 or $10 regularly.

Managing to increase your bank deposit regularly grows easier with the passing of time, and earns the reward of a feeling of security.

Keeping personal and family finances sound is an individual problem - the solution to which takes strength of character, determination and sometimes even sacrifice.

The Pronger land holdings grew as the quality of the Pronger herd became famed throughout the cattle industry. In 1916, Pronger Bros. were among the first cattlemen to consign stock to the original Panhandle Hereford Breeders sale.

Mr. Pronger lived on his ranch southwest of Stratford until 1947 when he moved to town.

Throughout the years, the Prongers supported the Amarillo Fat Stock Show, and the cattle show held in connection with the Tri-State Fair. For many years they have given the Pronger Bros. Junior Herdsman Award to winners in a contest for 4-H and FFA boys at the stock show.

Mr. Pronger was married in Henrietta in 1905.

Survivors include his wife, Ivie, of Stratford; three daughters, Mrs. Elmer Summerour of Dalhart, Mrs. Harold Bennett and Mrs. Roscoe Dyess, both of Stratford; two sons, Alfred Edward Pronger Jr., and Percy Pronger Jr., both of Stratford; a sister, Mrs. Ethyl Nichol of San Pedro, California; a brother, P. SENATOR WILLIAM A. BLAKLEY, left, gained the support of one of his opponents when Blakley visited Austin, State Senator Wesley Roberts of Seminole, right, one of the best known of the lesser candidates in the big field, withdrew from the race in Blakley's favor. Then the West Texas legislator called on Blakley to congratulate him on the campaign and his record in the Senate.

Senator Blakley favors retaining and strengthening the Connally Amendment. He opposes turning over U. S. affairs to jurisdiction of a world court.

Strong indications that Texas Democrats are "closing ranks behind Bill Blakley" were reported as Senator Blakley prepared to wind up his elective-term campaign with appearances in East Texas and Houston.

James H. Blundell, Blakley's state campaign manager, declares: "A tremendous swing to Blakley is taking place throughout the state. Democrats are uniting behind Senator Blakley and when Texas Democrats do that they are unbeatable."

In Austin, Governor Price Daniel congratulated Blakley on the race he is making and declared himself highly pleased with his performance as U. S. Senator. Blakley paid courtesy visits to both Governor Daniel and former Governor Allan Shivers, each of whom appointed Blakley to Senate tenures — Shivers in 1957 and Daniel in January, 1961.

Blakley emphasized legislation he has introduced to finance Texas schools without federal interference and to raise the ceilings on earnings of Social Security recipients. Under a Blakley bill, individuals could earn a maximum of $1,800 a year without suffering deductions from their benefits.

Blakley also requested Senate committee hearings on a Texas request for additional sugar beet acreage — 'a request that was quickly approved by Chairman Harry F. Byrd of the Senate Finance Committee. If the acreage were increased, Blakley said a valuable new industry could be established in the High Plains area.
