Roundup Time Approaching

With planning now being directed toward the Centennial celebration, another important community event is only a little more than two months away.

It is the annual Rice Springs Roundup, and although a project of the Saddle Tramps riding club, it requires full cooperation of the citizenship, which has always been generously given in the past.

Since its inception a few years ago, the Roundup has become recognized as one of the outstanding major rodeos in this section. The caliber of the event and the liberal purses offered have attracted some of the best rodeo talent in the Southwest, with many of the performers declaring the Roundup to be one of the best managed shows in which they have participated.

Roundup Week has always been a festive occasion in Haskell, one in which the entire community joins with the sponsoring organization to make it a typically Western affair.

With the added enthusiasm generated by Centennial planning, this year's Roundup could easily eclipse any former event.

Not Logical

The postal deficit will continue to run into many hundreds of millions of dollars a year unless positive corrective steps are taken. Two solutions are commonly proposed. One is for increase in letter postage. The other is a revolution in the mechanics and techniques of mail and package handling, through automation. This has been done in some European countries, as portrayed in a film shown the Rotary and Lions Clubs recently, and has been notably successful in improving service and reducing costs.

It may well be that the final solution will require both these steps—more automation and higher rates. But it is an unfortunate fact that practically all of the attention seems to be given to the mail categories—first, second and third class. Little attention is being given to the fourth class category, which is parcel post.

This is simply not logical, and for two reasons. One, parcel post does not pay its own way, and so makes a substantial contribution to the post office's taxpayer-borne annual deficits. Second, parcel post is not a basic post office function. It does not contribute to public education, enlightenment or entertainment, as does the carrying of mail, newspapers and magazines. It is, indeed, a purely commercial function, operating in direct competition with private, taxpaying carriers of packages and freight. Long before parcel post was heard of, these carriers did the job in efficient fashion. If parcel post was abolished tomorrow they'd pick up the load.

Abolished tomorrow they'd pick up the load. parcel post included.

Try This Philosophy

If you're a fellow thinking about opening a business, or if you're looking for a new philosophy for making a success of your existing enterprise, here are a few things to remember:

Nothing will run itself unless it is running downhill.
To get anywhere, it is necessary to start from where you are.
The thing to be done is more important than the method of doing it.

The water in a well cannot be purified by painting the pump.
Progress is possible only when there is mental hospitality to new ideas.

Adopt this philosophy and apply it and you have a head start to becoming a success in this old world.—Arlington Journal.

PEOPLE, PLACES, AND THINGS

BY A. PATE

Although we've been consistently plugging for a Centennial celebration of some sort this year to commemorate Haskell County's 100th anniversary, we're beginning to have some misgivings about participation in the affair.

It's a certainty now that the celebration will be staged sometime during the summer, and it's almost a certainty that full-scale participation of all Haskell citizens will not only be asked—it will be demanded.

That means beards and whiskers for the men, and long, swishy dresses, or least old-fashioned bonnets for the women. That's not official yet, because Centennial officials are keeping close-mouthed about the rules they intend to promulgate until they can stand behind the authority of an official charter.

But you might as well brace yourself for the worst, men, we may be facing a shaveless summer. Or at best, a stiff fee for a shaving permit.

On the brighter side, the whole deal would be for a good cause. And there are compensating angles, like, for instance Supt. Bob King sporting a Vm Dyke, or Judge Ben Charlie Chapman with mustache and goatee, meticulously trimmed. Or Postmaster Spain with flowing beard and interlocking sideburns. Or George Neely, or Stanley Furrh, Brooks Middleton. . . the idea has stupendous possibilities. Might not be such a bad deal, after all.

After more than 30 years, W. P. Trice is still puzzling over an incident which occurred while he was in the Knox City Hospital. After having had surgery, he awakened one night shortly after midnight in severe pain. Knowing no doctors were on duty at that hour, he hesitated to summon a nurse to call his physician. About that time he heard the doctor and nurses talking in the hallway, so he pressed the call bell.

The doctor came in, and while easing Trice's pain, related that he had just been called to a farmhouse where a young man had cut his hand severely with an axe. When Trice pressed for details, the doctor related that the man had been awakened by a commotion in his chicken house. Taking a lantern, he investigated, and discovered a large chicken snake robbing a nest of eggs. Grabbing an axe and bracing himself on a coop as he leaped in, he struck at the snake. In some manner, the axe deflected and the man slashed his braced hand badly.

"It was a bad cut, but I think he'll be all right," the doctor continued.

"Well, did he kill the snake?" Trice queried.

"I didn't bother to ask, in fact I wasn't interested in the snake," the doctor replied.

To this day, Trice will tell you the Knox City physician was one of the finest he ever knew, but a mighty poor hand at getting details.

The young lady working at the other desk tells this one: "But mother, I don't want to go to Europe," protested the little girl.

"Shut up," replied the stern mother, "and keep swimming."

The annual Indian Boosters banquet Thursday night was a fitting tribute to those it honored—the football and basketball teams and coaches of Haskell High School. It can be truly said that every person present was proud of the accomplishments of Haskell youth in the field of athletics, and appreciative of the opportunity to demonstrate their pride in these young people. Although signal honors went to three youths, these awards were made possible by the teamwork and cooperation of every member of the basketball and football teams. To the extent that each player worked and gave his best to the team, to him is secure a share of the honor and recognition represented in the individual awards.

If German marks of the vintage 1923 are worth anything at all, Jim Darden of this city is a wealthy man, since he is the owner of several hundred thousand reichmarks.

Jim was displaying two of the "Reichsbanknotes" Friday, one in the denomination of 100,000 marks and the other for a paltry 20,000 marks. Both bore the date of February, 1923, and were issued by a Berlin bank which is still in existence. Mrs. Tom Paul Barnett, shown in the notes, said they were from the "Reichshauptstadt" a banking house in what is now West Berlin.

The following rhyme entitled "Retribution" is from the pen of G. W. (Farmer) Schaeffer "The Bard of the Golden Spread" Canyon, Texas, and is reprinted from the Tulsa Herald.

A busted farmer, just an old has-been,
I took it for years right square on the chin.
I have thought a lot of the days gone by,
Those good old days when I rode so high.

But now I'm bragging
Benson's bragging
He told me I'd man.
They said I would with less,
It's got me this
of a mess,
Bankers are howling
in the red,
My shirt-tail is a shred.
That shiny Cadillac
years ago,
Has gone to the good things go
I just sit waiting
ment day,
Wondering what will say,
It's all over now
sigh.
Oh, I still like know why.

Rule Masons, O.E.S. Members in Joint Dinner Meeting

BY FAYE DUNNAM

Members of Rule Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, and the Rule Masonic Lodge, together with their families and invited guests, enjoyed a delightful dinner meeting Thursday evening in the Rule High School cafeteria. The affair was planned as a special George Washington observance by both groups. Receiving guests were Mrs. George P. Ward, Aspermont, worthy matron of the Eastern Star chapter, Joe Mathis, Worshipful Master of the Rule Lodge.

Tables for the steak dinner were arranged in an E shape and were covered with white. Down the center of each was a runner of blue. Place favors, made by Mrs. Ward, were small-scale emblems of Masonry, done in gold and glitter and stationed in gumdrops bases. Program covers, also handmade by the worthy matron, featured the five-color emblematic star of the Eastern Star and miniature Masonic aprons bearing a seal and being tied in blue.

Mrs. Ward presided as mistress of ceremonies and introduced Mrs. Mordant McKinney who led the group in a sing-song of favorite tunes. The Joy Notes, a quartet of Rule High School girls, Jan Ousley, Audrey Smith, Jackie Estes and Fern Ross, accompanied by Mrs. N. S. Ousley, sang three popular song hits.

Presented as a grand officer of the Eastern Star group was Mrs. Lonnie Martin of the Rule chapter, who this year has the grand appointment of Deputy Grand Matron, District 2, Section 7, Grand Chapter of Texas, Order of the Eastern Star. Musical Operetta Is Presented by Harmony Club

The Haskell Harmony Club presented the musical operetta, "My Fair Lady," at the Homemakers Cottage Thursday, Feb. 27.

Mrs. Tommie B. Hawkins, as hostess, had a musical motif for wall decorations. A musical treble clef score in wrought iron was hung between two large urns of artificial spring flowers. For the table, a centerpiece of flowers and greenery was accented with lovely Dresden china figurines of colonial design, reflecting the mode of the London 1912 season of the operetta.

Mrs. A. C. Foster presided at the business meeting. The club collect and the club song, Texas, Our Texas, were given by club members. Twelve answered roll call.

Mrs. J. F. Cadenhead Sr., was director and narrator of the operetta. She stated that few musical comedies in recent years have been as eagerly awaited as "My Fair Lady," the hit of the 1935-36 season.

The music brilliantly enhances the fable of the cockney flower-girl Eliza who becomes a lady by mending her diction, scattering patter songs, ballads and cheerful choruses about in lavish fashion. The songs have a humor of romance preserving the flavor of London, 1912.

Eliza the flower girl is taken in hand by Henry Higgins, professor in phonetics and through training in speech and deportment is passed off as a duchess at a court reception. And in the finale it indicates she is likely to become the professor's wife. This musical comedy has been acclaimed one of the greatest comedies since "South Pacific."

Moving surely through the songs and dances, Rex Harrison offers one of his most polished performances, and Julie Andrews presents one of her most winning portraits imaginable. She brings Eliza the flower girl to vibrant life in songs, dances and heart warming scenes.

Mrs. A. C. Foster skillfully played the overture of the musical as the opening number.

The song, "I Could Have Danced All Night" was well given by Mrs. Floyd Cook with Mrs. Helber as piano accompanist. Mrs. O. E. Patterson brought to life the court scenes in playing the Embassy Waltz.

Other numbers from the operetta were played as a recording which explained further the gist of the great musical, which was an entertaining feature.

Those who attended were Mesdames A. C. Foster, O. E. Patterson, Floyd Cook, J. F. Cadenhead, M. E. Halber, Mart Clifton, C. L. Lewis, Tommy Hawkins, Tannye Squyres, Guy Harris, Misses Beryle Boone, Martha Meadors.

Much Criticism of Schools Unjust, Speaker Tells Haskell Audience

"Much criticism of American schools which has been rampant in recent months is unjust because the critics do not always have all the facts," declared Jennings H. Flathers, Amarillo educator, in addressing a large audience Friday night in the Elementary School cafeteria.

Haskell Classroom teachers presented Mr. Flathers as guest speaker at the initial program ushering in the observance of Public School Week in Haskell. The Amarillo man is regional director of the South Central division, and past president of Texas Classroom Teachers Association.

Taking as his subject "Problems of American Education," the speaker stressed the point that American education does need improvement and that educators had been well aware of the situation but it seems the public did not realize the needs. He said that educators could not do the job alone, it would take the cooperation of the lay people to help solve these problems.

Some critics cry for a housecleaning throughout the educational system, Flathers said. He warned that we should not be too hasty to reject all of the old things in the educational system. In alluding to the furor over the teaching of math and science he had much to say. He emphasized, as many practical thinkers have, that science and math would not be good for all students, that America would be foolish to try to pour all of our students into one mold.

The Russians have done just that, and the result they have literally killed all of the finest cultural phases of education, the speaker declared. Their thinking is purely "one-sided," he commented. "There are no great novelists, musicians or artists coming out of Russia today," he pointed out. The American form of education is more humanitarian in aspect, he added.

The speaker told of the contacts with the foreign exchange students, and in each case those whom he was privileged to teach, he felt their training was inferior to American students.

Another outstanding problem facing American Education is the recruitment of teachers. Flathers said that educators know the needs of young people in the teaching field but it would be wishful thinking to expect young people to come into the profession unless the salary is increased equivalent to that of industry. The shocking fact that Elvis Presley made more in one year than the combined faculty of an outstanding American university is proof enough that something needs to be done, otherwise the youth of our nation are being cheated.

Another point brought out as to why we are having such a struggle to secure teachers is the lack of proper respect accorded teachers by the public, the speaker said. He cited the occasion when visiting dignitaries came to the U. S., President Eisenhower invited important people of industry to meet the Queen of England. Not one educator was asked. Then when King Saud came over to visit, only one scientist was invited to meet him. These are just two instances where educators have been ignored, in a place where they would have made the best showing for the United States.

In summing up his talk, the speaker tried to make it clear as to what parents could do to help solve some of the difficult problems. First on his list was discipline, and he urged parents to assume this responsibility which is rightfully and dutifully theirs. The school is willing to continue where the parents leave off, but it is impossible to carry through all the way. He said the laxity in the home concerning the use of cars, uncontrolled television, too much money and too much free time were definitely the cause of many student problems of an unpleasant nature. He said that the public should not expect the school to plan its curriculum around all sorts of activities that actually robbed the student of hundreds of school hours per year.

Livestock Trade Strong Monday At Ft. Worth

By TED GOULDY

FORT WORTH—Cattle and calves moved in a very active trade at Fort Worth Monday as both slaughter and stocker buyers pressed for a share of the supplies. Again the supply of mature fed cattle was very small. The excellent grazing prospects developing all over the Southwest put added zest into the stocker trade, although high quality kinds were virtually lacking in the offering.

Good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings cashed at $24 to $27.50, and medium and low grades sold from $16 to $23.50. Fat cows cashed at $16.50 to $19, and canners and cutters drew $10 to $17. Bulls were reported from $14.50 to $20.50.

Good and choice slaughter calves sold from $24 to $27.50 and medium and lower grades sold from $14 to $23. Stocker calves brought $22 to $28, and heifer calves yearling drew $27 down. A few stocker cows sold from $14 to $20.

Butcher hogs opened on a very strong footing at Fort Worth Monday as choice butchers scored $22 and $22.25. Medium to good hogs sold from $18 to $21.50, sows cashed at $17 to $19.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means to express our sincere heartfelt thanks for the many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy which was extended in our behalf since the death of our loved one. We thank all of you who sent food, and those who served in our home, for the beautiful floral offering, and all others who helped in any way to lighten our burden. We pray that you will have the same true friends should sorrow come your way.

Internal Revenue Offers Help for Taxpayers

"Taxpayers can save money for themselves and the federal government by doing three things," C. B. Dixon, Administrative Officer of the Wichita Falls office of Internal Revenue said today. Dixon listed the money-savers in this order. First, taxpayers are urged to prepare their own 1957 returns. By using information that comes with tax forms and with other available booklets, "the average taxpayer can do his own return."
The Revenue representative revealed that last filing period the Service made a substantial saving on the cost of assisting individual taxpayers. Those who strike impassable roadblocks may take advantage of Revenue's Taxpayer Assistance Day—every Monday morning from 8:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. Or perhaps a telephone call to Revenue will solve the problem. Revenue's telephone number is 322-3165.
Second way to help yourself and Uncle Sam save money is by checking and re-checking your 1957 return before dropping it in the mail box. Be certain that both husband and wife have signed, if it's a joint return, and by attaching a W-2 form for each job the taxpayer held during the taxable year. You can save money and perhaps, "hurry that refund check—if you have one coming."
Third, money saving suggestion by Dixon is to "file that return for '77 just as soon as possible after January 1, 1958. It's our experience that last minute (April 15) filers are more apt to make costly errors."

Federal Land Bank Interest Rate Reduced

A reduction in the interest rate on Federal Land Bank loans was reported this week by Joe Harper, following his return from Houston where he represented the National Farm Loan Association of Haskell at the annual stockholders meeting of the Federal Land Bank of Houston.
Harper, manager of the local association, said one of the purposes of the meeting was to get a report on the condition and operations of the bank. He was impressed by the strong financial condition of the bank, and pleased with the progress which it and national farm loan associations in Texas have made in cutting operating expenses. Some changes were necessary to offset the increased cost of money which the bank has had to pay on the bonds which it sells to secure the funds to make loans.
Of special interest to national farm loan association members, Harper said, as well as all farm and ranch owners, was an announcement which Sterling C. Evans, president of the land bank, made at the Houston meeting. It was that the bank had reduced the interest rate to 5 per cent for new loans, and voluntarily cut the interest to 5 per cent on loans which were closed at a higher rate. Also it will now close additional loans. This is a new practice and enables a borrower with a 4 per cent land bank loan of $1,000 or more to get an additional loan at 5 per cent on the new money and leave his old 4 per cent loan undisturbed.
Officers and directors of the local association, other than Harper, are O. G. Lewis, Olen Carothers, W. E. Penick, E. H. Burnett, John R. Watson Sr.

North Texas Lake "Turn Over" Due As Water Warms

Soon, lakes in northern Texas will start their mysterious action of "turning over," to be followed in late summer by lakes throughout the rest of Texas. This curious shifting of lake waters, which causes odors noticed by all neighbors and visitors to the lake, is explained by Biologist Kenneth Jurgens in the February issue of Texas Game and Fish, the official publication of the Texas Game and Fish Commission.
"Why Do Lakes Turn Over?" launches its answers with winter and early spring season when the most lake water has even temperature and good circulation, then traces the lake's changes through the rest of the year.
For fishermen who have bloated fish floating on top of the lake in summer, Jurgens explains the stagnated "biological desert" of the lower layer. He says that these fish are so overcome with poisonous gases trapped near the lake bottom that they shoot uncontrollably to the surface and die. The "turnover" when layers begin to blend and change position, occurs as cooler weather begins in late summer and early fall to chill the surface water. Then the fish, as well as the water, enjoy free movement again.
Winter stagnation, another oxygen-starved period for North Texas lakes, is now coming to an end. North Texas lakes, Jurgens points out, have two turnovers, but other Texas lakes have only the one following summer stagnation.
Jurgens' article provides helpful background for fishermen who need to know when to fish and where, as well as the answer to the often asked "why" of the lake's behavior.

President George Washington declared an embargo against England and France on March 28, 1794, as economic reprisal against those countries for aggressive actions against U. S. shipping.
Canada and the U. S. are separated by the longest international boundary in the world without fortification.
