CONFIDENCE AND POWER
 Come to the man who carries a bank account in the Farmers National Bank.
 Confidence, because he knows two things, first that his balance enables him to face all the ordinary vicissitudes of life without humiliating experiences, and second, that if for any reason he needs additional funds, that same balance will have insured him the most favorable possible consideration of his needs by the bank.
 Power, because money is always power. It marks the difference between the man who is practically helpless and the one who has in his bank account a lever with which to raise himself in the world.
 Open an account in this strong bank and build up a balance for these two splendid purposes.

Lives at Home.
 Mr. W. E. Underwood, one of the livest farmers on Wild Horse prairie, was doing business in Haskell Thursday and paid our office a call, renewing his subscription and having the paper sent to a friend in Ellis county. In talking about farming and the financial situation Mr. Underwood hit the nail on the head when he said if the farmers would diversify more and make their farms self-sustaining these financial flurries would not bother them much. As for himself, he said, he had made an ample supply of corn, milo maize and forage stuff, plenty of sweet potatoes, of which he had three varieties, and had about thirty bushels of fall crop Irish potatoes for winter eating, had hogs in the pen and stuff to feed them on and, of course, poultry, milk, butter, etc.
 After planning the acreage of his crop so as to be sure of making enough of the above mentioned things he put the remainder of his land in cotton, seventeen acres, we think he said, from which he was getting a little over half a bale per acre.

Mr. Underwood had a fine exhibit of vegetables and farm products at the Haskell fair last year, which proved his claim of being a diversifier. He said he had fully intended to be on hand again this year with as good or better exhibit but the weather and the push of cotton picking kept him away. Mrs. Underwood has our thanks for a nice lot of two varieties of sweet potatoes sent us by Mr. Underwood.

Public School Notes.
 Progress in school depends very materially upon the condition of the pupils' mind. Unless the minds of pupils are devoted to their studies one cannot look for the results wished for. Educators and school officials everywhere realize this and remove as much as possible the student body from contact with the world outside.
 We therefore desire to call the attention of the parents to the following facts:
 1. Pupils should not be on the streets after night, but at home engaged in study.
 2. Boys and girls who are in school should not keep company with each other. The results of keeping company are very baneful. Perhaps nothing so distracts the mind and renders it unfit for diligent application.
 3. Pupils should be regular in attendance and punctual. There are some pupils in school who miss from two to three days in the week.
 We desire and earnestly request the co-operation of parents in carrying out the above regulations in a matter both mutual and philanthropic.
 Respectfully yours,
 J. S. RIVES, Supt.
 P. D. SANDERS, Pres.
 of Board Trustees.

The Abbott Pasture.
 There is an interesting story connected with the Abbott pasture 8 miles North of Haskell, which is now subdivided and placed on the market.
 Over half a century ago, Dr. James H. Green, of Chickasaw County, Mississippi, was in Austin visiting his brother Tom Green, after whom Tom Green county was named. On leaving Texas, Dr. Green was asked by his brother why he didn't buy some Texas land. He thereupon pulled out of his pocket a roll of bills and handed them to Tom Green saying, "Buy me some land with this." In those days land certificates were very cheap. The late Col. Phil Claiborne of Bastrop used to remark that in an early day a man could buy a league of land for a pair of boots but the difficulty was to get the boots.

With the roll of money handed him by Dr. Green, four land warrants were bought by Tom Green, two for a third league each and two for twelve hundred and eighty acres each. These warrants or land certificates were located in 1856 by Maj. John A. Green of Austin, another brother, who was then practicing law in partnership with Major W. M. Walton, who latter became one of the founders of Haskell and owner of the Peter Allen survey on which most of the town of Haskell is built. These lands were patented to James H. Green in 1857 and have been in his family ever since.

For many years it was a great burden to keep the taxes paid up on the land and, about 19 years ago, Dr. Green was strongly in the notion of selling it. Before selling the land, however, at a time when he could not have gotten over a dollar an acre for it, his son-in-law, Mr. B. J. Abbott, came out and looked over the lands. Mr. Abbott was so favorably impressed with the country when he came here in 1899 that, on his return to Mississippi, he dissuaded Dr. Green from selling the land and had it fenced in that year through F. P. Morgan and S. W. Scott.

This decision of Mr. Abbott to hold the land, even though it might be a burden to do so, exhibited his sound judgement and his faith in the future of Haskell county.
 Now, through the foresight of Mr. Abbott, a snug fortune will be realized by him and his wife, Mrs. Mary Green Abbott, through the sale of this land. It will be cut into small tracts and sold to the actual home maker, on long time, with every opportunity given for those buying the land to pay for it.

Three coaches, the mail, express and the second-class passenger coach, were burned. All the mail and express matter was entirely consumed. The builders, however, believe that the Mauretania will be able to capture all the records for trans-Atlantic voyages.

JUDGE LYNCH AT CAMERON.

A Negro Would-Be Rape Fiend Is Hanged by Mob.

Cameron, Texas, Nov. 5.—Alex Johnson, the negro who assaulted Miss Hailey near Maysfield last Wednesday, was hung Monday afternoon about 4 o'clock by a mob of infuriated citizens from different portions of the county. A large crowd was in town, and when the Grand Jury, which was called for the purpose of investigating the case against the negro, returned an indictment charging him with assault with intent to commit a criminal assault, and the crowd learned that under that charge no death penalty could be secured, a large body of unmasked men with sledge hammers started for the jail.

The Sheriff called in a large number of citizens to aid in protecting the negro, and they responded, but they were powerless. Like the swollen stream of a mountain, the crowd was invincible.

The doors were so battered that the locks were broken and entrance effected. The crowd rushed upstairs, led by gray-haired men, and it meant death to many good citizens to save the negro, for it was plain that these men meant to have the negro at any cost.

About 4 o'clock the negro was secured and he was led amid the shouts of 500 men, riding and walking and waving of hats, partially around the court house and to a large oak within a few feet of the building, and there he swung until he was dead. The crowd was orderly.

The negro, Johnson, had been twice sent to the penitentiary, once for an assault on a girl of his own race.

The crime that cost him his life at the hands of enraged people was an attempt to criminally assault a young girl who had gone on a visit to a neighbor's home. It was shown that the negro saw her go, waited two hours for her to return, and then attacked her, threatening her with a gun he carried. After a struggle with her assailant the girl escaped before he succeeded in the completion of his crime.

INDIANS TURBULENT

CLASH BETWEEN TROOPS AND NAVAJOS IN UTAH.

THREE INDIANS ARE KILLED

The Telegram is Brief, but it Indicates All Further Trouble is At an End.

Washington, Nov. 1.—In a battle between United States troops and Indians, which occurred in Southern Utah, several days ago, three persons were killed and a number wounded, all believed to have been Indians. The news of the occurrence was conveyed to the Indian Bureau in a telegram from Superintendent Shelton of the San Juan Agency, which, though dated Wednesday, was not received until Thursday.

The army command consisted of four officers, seventy-four men and three Indian scouts. The telegram to the Indian Bureau, which was dated at Ship Rock, N. M., follows:

"The troops have returned from Southern Utah. They arrested Byille and nine other Indians. Three others were killed while shooting at the Indians, police and soldiers. The Indians are quiet, and I do not anticipate further trouble, unless it be from the Black Mountain Indians."

This is the information received here regarding the encounter. The officials of the Indian Bureau assume that the killed and wounded were Indians.

The Indians taken into custody are part of a band of Navajos that have been making trouble on the Navajo Reservation in Northwestern New Mexico and Northwestern Arizona. For some time a number of Indians under the leadership of Byille have been creating disturbances because of their disinclination to observe the regulations of the Indian officers and their efforts to prevent others of the tribe from doing so. So pronounced have their objections become and so offensive their actions that Superintendent Shelton made a request that a body of soldiers be sent to the reservation, and, accordingly, Troops I and K of the Fifth Cavalry, under command of Captain H. O. Willard, were dispatched from Fort Wingate, N. M., to Arnetta, Utah, on the 23d instant. It was not known at the time that their presence would mean any more than a demonstration to the Indians, Mr. Shelton's idea being that the mere sight of the soldiers would have a quieting effect upon the turbulent members of the tribe.

Federal Building to Be Erected.

An appropriation of $100,000 is available for the building, which is to occupy a prominent corner.

Determined to Beat the Pen.

Houston: Strapped to the cell bars by a leather bunk strap, the dead body of E. G. McNair was found swinging in a cell of the Harris County jail at 5:30 Thursday morning. Guard Wharton, who accompanied McNair to Houston Wednesday, went to awaken him to deliver him over to the penitentiary transfer agent, Captain Bishop, and ran against his dead body in the darkness.

BURRELL OATES SENTENCED.

Forty-Eight Men Have Said He Must Die.

Dallas, Nov. 2.—For the fourth time Burrell Oates has been given the death penalty on a verdict of murder in the first degree by a Dallas County Grand Jury. It is without parallel in court annals of the county, and probably for the country for that matter.

Forty-three hours and thirty-five minutes were consumed by the jury before the verdict was rendered, the case having been given to them at 1:50 p. m., on Wednesday last. It is said that they stood nine for a death penalty and three for life imprisonment up to Thursday morning, when two of the minority came over to the side of the majority, and that the last man to hold out for a penitentiary sentence came around to the views of the others only yesterday morning.

On the night of November 29, 1904, Holly Vann and Mud McCue, two white men, and Burrell Oates, a negro, conspired to rob Sol Aronoff, the proprietor of a little grocery store on South Houston Street, near the crossings of the several railroads in that part of the city. A small purchase was made, and as Aronoff went to the cash drawer he was covered by two revolvers. He resisted and shots were fired and Aronoff fell to the floor with a bullet through his heart. The robbers made their escape, but were arrested a few days later. McCue turned State's evidence and was given his freedom. Vann was convicted and hung in the jail on May 12, 1905. Burrell Oates was tried on December 15, 1904 and was assessed the death penalty. The case was reversed by the higher court and went to trial the second time on April 15, 1905. The second reversal was secured, and the death sentence pronounced during October of 1906. The fourth jury in the same court, making a total of forty-eight men, has passed upon the case, and the same verdict has been rendered.

First Train from Oran.

Mineral Wells: Arrangements were perfected by Superintendent P. E. Bock of the Weatherford, Mineral Wells and Northwestern Railway, whereby the first passenger train ran from Oran Saturday, November 2 to Dallas, so that the excursionists attended the Dallas Fair, the round trip rate being $3 from Oran and return. This was the first passenger train ever run at Oran, as the extension of the Weatherford, Mineral Wells and Northwestern Railway has just been completed.

Big Unveiling at Rusk.

Rusk: The unveiling of the Confederate monument erected here in the courthouse square, was an event long to be remembered. The crowd was the largest ever assembled in this town for many years, approaching about 5000. Provision has been made for feeding eight or nine thousand people. The exercises began about 10 a. m., and were participated in by people from adjoining counties and from every part of Cherokee County.

Announcement is made that insanity is to be the defense of Harry K. Thaw, whose second trial for the murder of Sanford White will begin on December 2 next.

It is announced that work will commence immediately on the new $300,000 immigrant landing station at Galveston.

Several Hurt in an Explosion.

Cleburne: A serious accident occurred in the Teague shops of the Valley Short Line. While a number of men were engaged in heating a spider, which worked on the end of a piston rod, there was an explosion, and several men were hurt. Blacksmith Bentley had his arm lacerated, and a man named Deason was knocked down. Many windows in the building were broken by the explosion.

Found Dead by the Track.

Luling: About 10 o'clock Friday morning, while Dr. Francis was returning from the country, he found a dead man lying by the railroad trestle about four miles from town. The man was evidently killed by a train the previous night. The man was about sixty years old, well dressed and had $2.45 in his pocket, but nothing by which he could be identified. He was buried out there by the railroad section hands.

Bank is All Right.

Austin: A telephone message was received from Commissioner of Insurance and Banking Love in regard to the suspension of the West Texas Bank and Trust Company in San Antonio. Mr. Love informed the Governor that in his opinion the suspension of the bank is only temporary, and that it will soon be able to resume operations. The suspension of the San Antonio bank caused no flurry here.

Grieg as a Schoolboy.

Grieg was not a pattern schoolboy. In a description of his days at school he wrote: "Knowing that by arriving late I would not be allowed to enter the class until the end of the first lesson, I used, on wet mornings, to stand under a dripping roof, until I was soaked to the skin. The master then sent me home to change my clothes, but the distance being long this was equivalent to giving me a dispensation! You may guess that I played this prank pretty often, but when at last I carried it so far as to come one day wet through, though it had hardly rained at all, they became suspicious, and kept a lookout. One fine day I was caught, and made an intimate acquaintance with the birch!"

Liquor She Floated In.

On their arrival in New Zealand, according to London Tit-Bits, a party of English people drank the health of the vessel which had brought them safely to their destination. One of the gentlemen who was asked to join in this ceremony replied: "No, I am a teetotaler, and will not drink anything but water." The ship in the liquor she floats in. A friend disappeared and returned with a glass of water. After a complimentary apostrophe to the ship, the recipient tossed the water off at once, but immediately spluttered: "Ugh—ah—oh—this is—oh—what an earth is this?" "That!" said his friend. "Why, you've drunk success to our noble ship in the identical liquor she floats in."

Terms That Seem Strange.

There are many puzzling differences between Scottish and English law terms. For instance, bankruptcy is in Scotland "an act of sequestration," a solicitor is either a "writer" or a "law agent," the argument in a case is the "debate," and assizes is the jury, a wrongdoer is a "delinquent," an idiot—in Scottish law—is "a fatuous person," and a burglar is (with true Scottish caution), "housebreaking with an aggravation." Finally, an author is, in Scotland, not a person who writes, but the vendor or seller of real property, from whom the title to it is derived.

Mutilate Art Treasures.

Authorities who have in charge some of England's ancient treasures try to discourage the habit of carving initials on these relics. A fine of $15 was recently imposed on a man who had chipped his name in letters six inches high on one of the stones in the "Druids' Circle" near Keswick. Close to the giant stone globe at Swanage a special slab is provided for the harmless reception of the names of all who are addicted to this self-advertisement. On popular Alpine summits names are left on cards in emptied wine bottles.

OUTLOOK IS BRIGHTER

HEAVY EXPORTS BRING BALANCE THIS WAY.

IMMENSE VALUE OF CROPS

The South and the West Are Now Factors in Keeping the General Level of Affairs.

New York, Oct. 30.—The enormous influence which American products are exerting in building up a credit balance abroad has been the most significant development of the financial situation today. Reports from all quarters show that the great American staples—wheat, cotton, copper, tobacco, oil and meats—are on their way to Europe, this being the season of the year when American products are marketed abroad.

The immediate effect of this shipment is to give the United States credit abroad which can be speedily converted into cash. These natural resources of the country promise to exert even greater influence than the sale of American securities abroad. The latter have to some extent suffered under recent pressure, but the intrinsic value of American staples used abroad and their colossal aggregate at this period of the year is beyond the reach of financial distrust.

The foreign sales of millions of American copper were supplemented by reports of similar heavy exports. Tuesday's shipments alone give a foreign credit of $14,000,000. The shipment of tobacco to Europe this year promises to break all records. Officials of the American Tobacco Company estimate that with the orders on hand the year's exports will exceed 50,000,000 pounds of manufactured tobacco, which is far in excess of the amount exported last year. Europe will pay over $100,000,000 for this tobacco, and much of this money will soon be available in this market, as the contracts with the European importers call for immediate payment on delivery. Shipments of tobacco to Europe will be heavy in November and December according to the officials of the American Tobacco Company. Reports from the South show the cotton crop moving toward Europe, while the West is sending grain and meat products in the same direction. The fall shipments of American products, chiefly agricultural, thus come at an opportune time in giving the country large credits abroad.

It is difficult for the foreign money market to withhold gold, even by the most drastic raising of their discount rates.

To Build Buggies and Wagons.

Dallas: On call issued by S. E. Montee of Dallas, about fifty representative hardware men of the State met Tuesday for the purpose of forming an association of dealers for the purpose of entering into the wholesale manufacture of wagons and buggies. A committee was appointed to consider the selection of a location for the manufacturing plant and headquarters. The capital is $100,000.

J. F. Keyse, a switchman, aged thirty-two years, was struck and almost instantly killed by a train just east of the Texas and Pacific station in Fort Worth Tuesday night. His head was crushed and he was otherwise badly mangled.

Unusual Cause of Death.

New Britain, Conn.: Dr. Charles Eugene Monks, a dentist, died Monday night of blood poisoning, contracted in relieving a patient's suffering. A man suffering from a badly diseased tooth was in the dentist's chair, and before he could sterilize his instruments the patient plunged the point of one of them into the palm of the dentist's hand. Blood poison developed and his death followed, after three days of intense suffering.

Orange: Mrs. W. H. Patterson was burned to death and her home reduced to ashes Monday night about 7:30 o'clock as the result of a lamp explosion. Mrs. Patterson was carrying a lighted lamp in one hand when it suddenly exploded, covering her with the burning liquid, and her clothing was completely burned off her body before help could reach her. She died about midnight from the effects of the terrible burns she received.

Hillsboro: W. T. Allison of near Woodbury, one of the best known farmers and gardeners in this county died suddenly at his home about 7 o'clock Tuesday morning from heart failure. He arose early in the morning, apparently in his usual good health and visited a neighbor living near by, returning shortly afterward and taking a seat on the front porch of his house. In a little while he was seen to fall from the porch to the ground, dead.

CYCLONE AT GALVESTON.

One Person Killed and Many Hurt, $150,000 Damage.

Galveston, Texas, Oct. 31.—A wind and rain storm struck Galveston Wednesday night and developed into cyclonic proportions shortly after midnight, with the result that one life was lost, a score or more injured and property damaged to the amount of about $150,000.

The local twister picked up houses here and there throughout the city and moved them from their blocks, and in other cases demolished the structures. The greatest damage was in the residence districts, however, and in the grade-raising area in the western portion of the city, where many houses have been raised in advance of the filling. These houses were on temporary foundations like stilts. Between fifty and sixty houses were wrecked, and many more suffered slight damage. In the business portions of the city the Mallory Dock sheds and the Galveston Dry Goods Company suffered the greatest loss.

The telephone and two telegraph companies suffered considerable damage from broken cables and wires.

The Weather Bureau's wind gauge records the highest three-minute velocity at seventy-two miles an hour from the northwest.

Five freight cars on the wharf company's tracks near the Mallory Company's sheds, were overturned and partially wrecked. A piece of tar roofing was driven clear through a box car. Near this place a heavy steel rail was torn from the track and twisted entirely out of shape. Heavy timbers were driven through buildings in the vicinity, and flying debris demolished practically every window and skylight on the west side of Avenue. The building on Strand, between Twenty-Third and Twenty-Fourth, occupied by the Galveston Dry Goods Company, suffered a loss estimated to be between $3000 and $3500.

It is estimated that forty houses are down in the south-western part of the city.

The machine shops of the Galveston, Houston and Henderson Railway were completely demolished, and three persons barely escaped with their lives. One was Engineer R. G. Murray, who had a rib broken and was otherwise injured. The other people caught under the wreckage of the falling structure were a call boy and a helper.

Russian Town Buried.

Tashand, Russian Turkestan: The little town of Karatagh, in the Hussar district of Bokhara, has been completely buried and destroyed by a landslide that followed the earthquake of October 21. The first reports of the casualties were exaggerated, the death list being placed at 15,000. Karatagh has about 3500 dwellers, and there is reason to believe that about 1500 were buried alive. Among those who survived are the Governor and his mother.

Guard Shot the Bomb Thrower.

Vyatka, Russia: As Prince Gorki, acting Governor of Vyatka, was driving from the cathedral here at noon Wednesday a bomb was hurled at his carriage but failed to explode. The perpetrator of the outrage then attempted to shoot the prince, but a Cossack guard shot and instantly killed the would-be assassin, who was an ex-student of a local high school.

Texas banks have not felt the financial flurry that has been troubling the East.

Terrible Triple Tragedy at Tulsa.

Tulsa, I. T.: Tuesday night B. E. Stockwell, a well known citizen, shot and instantly killed L. E. Campbell, a local capitalist; turned the weapon upon his own thirteen-year-old son, killing him, and then fired a shot into his own brain. Campbell was one of best known men in this section, and formerly lived in Winfield, Kansas. Stockwell has always been a highly respected citizen here.

The entire main line of the San Antonio and Aransas Pass between San Antonio and Houston, a distance of 238 miles, is to be relaid with heavy steel rails. This means a practical rebuilding of the entire line.

The Oklahoma and Southwestern Interurban line has been chartered to build 190 miles from Oklahoma City to Hollis, in Greer County, across the counties of Oklahoma, Cleveland, Comanche and Greer, at a cost of $2,000,000 per mile.

Charles H. Deere, head of the great plow works at Moline, Ill., who has been ill at Chicago for several months, died early Tuesday at the Le Kota Hotel. Mr. Deere had been ill for more than a year. He was born at Hancock, Vermont, in 1837.

Quite a number of negroes are leaving McLennan County and going into the Stamford country and into Oklahoma and the Indian Territory. They are following the cotton planting and have about exhausted that work route.

SOME WEAK POINTS

COMMERCIAL CLUBS SOMETIMES MAKE BLUNDERS.

STARTING NEW ENTERPRISES

Bonuses Often Given and Little Benefits Gained by the Towns That Give—Protecting Established Industries.

Within the past few years a commercial club organization fever has taken hold of many towns in the western country. It is a kind of good fever to have, but quite often, like other of the less harmless fevers that afflict physically, passes away and doesn't make much difference with the original town.

Town-building is much like erecting a good bridge. It is essential that a good foundation be laid. Natural conditions have much to do with it. Cities and towns spring up where there is a good cause for their existence. Artificial means may be employed for "booming" purposes, but unless there be something substantial and lasting, all the booming that can be done will not result in the accomplishment of permanent good. The average rural town receives its principal support from the business given it by the contiguous territory. The trade of a limited section of country will sustain a comparative number of business establishments. If a town possesses natural advantages, location, etc., for certain lines of manufacturing, so much the better. It would be foolish, as has been demonstrated in a number of western towns, to commence the manufacture of cottons, or silks, or furniture, when the raw material must be transported from a great distance, and also the fuel for power.

Still, if a town assume any great proportions, there must be industries to give the people occupation. The judicious investment of capital in canning factories, in paper mills, in glue works and a few other enterprises, if these enterprises are rightly conducted, might prove a valuable factor in some of the western towns.

When a commercial club is organized, generally efforts are made to secure some industry for the town that will give its people employment and which will bring new residents to the town. Quite often bonuses are offered concerns, which are located in other places to relocate. It has been the general experience of towns which have made efforts along these lines that a concern that asks very much encouragement in the way of ready cash, is hardly worth bothering with and is likely to prove a failure.

Another thing that the average commercial club does not take in consideration is that it is better to build up institutions already located than to encourage new ones of doubtful success. A manufacturing concern is only valuable to the town as a means of placing a greater amount of money in circulation. The greater the pay roll, the better for the town. But it matters not how big the amount is that is distributed among workers on a Saturday night, it results in little good to the town if it is sent to some other town for needed supplies.

Commercial club members should keep in mind that it is far better to devise means of keeping money earned by farmers and laborers from being sent to large cities for goods, than it is to have new concerns started. If there be a few hundred dollars a day sent from the place to mail-order houses, it would be far better to prevent this by devising means for having it spent in the town, than to encourage the location of a factory with a pay roll of a like amount. It should be the first duty of a commercial organization to protect its home industries, and when strangers see that this is successful they will be more likely to seek the place as suitable for the establishment of some business enterprise.

Home Trade Idea Not New.

Day after day the people are awakening to the fact that the only way the evils of trusts can be combated is by an adherence to the home trade doctrine. It is nothing new. It was the sentiment that prompted the founders of our government to sound the clarion of Liberty from the summit of Bunker Hill. Then, it was the forcing of a people dependent on another government to pay an unjust tribute for necessities of life. Today it is one class of people of a nation, and the greatest nation on earth, to compel the other classes to pay unjust tribute in a commercial way. The wrong was righted by blood in the first case; the wrong can be righted in the present case by the people without resorting to serious trouble, by merely exercising their prerogatives and the means that lie in their power to prevent the concentration of great wealth in the big financial centers by keeping their surplus earnings at home. It is the draining the dollars from the country to the large cities that assist in building up the great combines, the great trusts, which are manipulated to the detriment of the people of the country at large. It does not require special legislation for the farmer to buy flour made in his home mill; to use other products made in his county or state, or to patronize the merchants of his home town.

Value of Good Roads.

Good roads leading to a town indicate the progressiveness of the citizens of the community. Invariably poor roads mean indifference and lack of confidence in the stability of the town.

TO THE FARMER-BOY.

His Chances Are Best in His Home Town Rather Than in the Big City.

My boy, the farm is all right. Sometimes you may feel that its environs are too narrow for you, its life too much of a humdrum, and that you would prefer to be one of the residents of the big city or town. There have been hundreds and thousands of others just like you, and with just such ideas. They have started from the farm buoyant with hope, and after years have regretted their youthful resolutions. Others have succeeded; have won laurels in the professional field, in business, in statesmanship; but the few who have succeeded thus are so small in number compared to the army of failures that there is little encouragement for the careful thinker to leave that which promises security from want and independence for a life time. The farmer is surely the most independent of all workers. He is sure to receive a greater reward for his labors, is his own manager, and if he will strive diligently can aspire to a place in the public estimate that few can attain in the large towns.

Of course there are times when you think there is almost an unbearable dullness about existence on the farm. Were you a resident of the city, there would be times when you would long for the quietness and the pleasure that the farm affords. Hours of work may be long riding the plow, or harvesting the grain, but far superior is the work than that the great majority of the city youths are compelled to follow, and how much greater the compensation? How would you like to stand behind the dry goods or grocery counter from morning to night for the small wages that the city clerk receives? Year after year the laborer lives in cheap boarding houses and rarely save sufficient to engage in business. His is a mere subsistence, and a constant struggle. The best years of life are wasted in making money for others, while the industrious farmer is working for himself, saving money year after year, and when the time for rest comes it enables him to take it.

Cities are overcrowded with clerk help. An advertisement inserted in any daily paper for a clerk to fill any position will bring hundreds of responses. The array of unemployed and those seeking to better their conditions is always large. Of late years a large element of workers from cities are looking toward the farms for employment. They realize that the farm offers more permanency of occupation and greater independence than like efforts in the city can possibly afford. Before you concentrate your attention on employment in city or town, weigh every matter well, and then act according to what reason dictates. You will be very likely to conclude that the farm is a good enough place for you, and that your own little home town is preferable to the over-crowded city. Remember that your greatest interests center in what you call your "home town." Do all you can to assist in its improvement, and make it a better business place.

OPPOSED TO LOCAL PROGRESS.

Journals That Help to Concentrate Business in Large Cities.

There are thousands of so-called agricultural papers published in the United States, all of more or less merit. Yet few are all that they should be. There is an inconsistency about them that invites careful study. While they are supposed to represent the best interests of the great class of workers whom they gain support from in the way of subscriptions, the majority of them apparently work against the progress of farming communities by becoming the mediums, a part of the machinery, which draws from country towns the support which they should have.

It is to be regretted that many of these so-called agricultural papers are merely published for the purpose of circulating the advertisements of concerns which seek to secure trade from residents of farming districts to the detriment of the home towns. These establishments take money from the rural communities to the large financial centers. The thoughtful man or woman can see how injurious it is to the interests of the farmers to take away the surplus earnings which represent the wealth of the community. It requires but little observation and study to understand that to a great extent farm values are dependent upon the importance of the nearby town, and that any system that takes away its business, will result in a decrease of farm values. Such papers as advise the farmers to patronize other than home institutions and which advocate systems that are opposed to the up-building of industries in agricultural districts are not worthy of support.

Education.

Intelligence is the distinguishing mark between the savage and civilized man. Education is one of the greatest of God's blessings, and ignorance a curse. In America there exists no valid reason why every man, woman and child of normal brain should not have an education. There is no phase of life where knowledge is not necessary. In the most progressive communities it is where the superior schools are found. Help along your town and help along education in general. By affording your children a chance for a good education, you offer them riches that cannot be destroyed; it is ready cash in hand, assets that one cannot be robbed of only by act of Providence.

FARMERS' EDUCATIONAL AND CO-OPERATIVE UNION OF AMERICA

Presidential booms may come and presidential booms may go, but the necessity for selecting good seed at the time of harvesting is always here, potentially here.

The test of manhood is the doing of manly things. Are you living up to this measure? If you are, you have in you the material for the making of a good Union man.

Has the Union been any benefit to you? If not, we wager buttons to beans that you have been of no use to the Union. The Union needs you, and you need the Union. Get close to your Union.

There are so many ways to make an open meeting a pleasant affair and the open meeting is such a good way to do missionary work that we are at a difficulty to understand why there are not more of these.

How are you fixed for winter shelter for your stock? A few planks properly placed will save a world of feed and untold suffering from cold by the helpless dumb brutes. Are you made of the right sort of stuff?

Don't fail to attend the local meeting every time, and see to it that there is something doing. These meetings ought to be the best and the most enjoyable affairs of the season. Make 'em so pleasant that none of the members will stand for an absence.

The law of nature demands that every man raise a little of all that he can profitably raise, and it goes a little further, too. It demands that every man have the land upon which to do this raising without paying tribute to any man.

There is neither sense nor decency in winking at any sort of a compromise with wrong. There are times in the lives of all of us when we are uncertain as to how to proceed, but there is no sort of question about what is right and wrong. We always know that much.

This is a period in the world's history when it is necessary for all classes to organize. If the farmers did not desire organization, they would still have to organize or go out of business. Now, that there is already a good organization in existence, all talk of its failure is the poor work of enemies.

The accumulation of lands in the hands of the speculators goes merrily on, but there is a day of reckoning coming some of these days, and the "uneared increment" will be a thing of the past, and the thing that nature intended should be done about the people's inheritance, will be done.

The amount of cotton that the dumpers have sold will keep the mills running for some time, and in the meantime we will wait and hold all that has come into the warehouses. The shortage of the crop will bring up the price a whooping, if there was nothing else to help it; but this shortage has some mighty efficient help all along the line.

The spirit of distrust and persecution of corporations is the result of ignorance and frequently runs to vice. A corporation is simply a man created person before the law, having only such rights and privileges as are provided for his creature. The regulation of trusts is simply the regulation of partnership affairs without the individual responsibility of the partners. Many of the corporations need regulation, but none of them need persecution.

It is a mighty fine day in which to fight the implement trust. Are your tools and implements all under shelter?

While the speculators are going to the wall, the diversifier is smiling and is ready for anything that comes. He is the independent man. Any one who puts all his time and labor into one crop only is in a great measure only a speculator, and deserves the same fate that eventually overtakes the man who speculates upon the products of some other person's labor.

It is altogether likely that the farmer will go slow in the future in making entangling alliances with the banks. It is a good idea to keep an eye on the fact that the money advanced on cotton must be paid back some time soon, and it is likely that the banks may be "in a position that will require immediate liquidation of the paper outstanding." Get ready for such an emergency, and next time diversify some, so that you will not have to hold the bag for the convenience of the bank.

It is not the intention of the Farmers' Union to take in hand the management or control of railroads. The individual members of the Union will, no doubt, be heard from on this line, as they, of all men, are the most interested in transportation facilities. This is an age when more, rather than fewer, railroads are needed; and it is not sensible to put up a bonus to build a line and then turn round and kill the investment of those who have put up some money to build it. Let us have some common sense about this railway business.

THE MIRACLE OF A SHEEP.

The following is an abstract from an article written by the editor of the Stock and Station Journal, Sydney, Australia:

A man was teaching a class about cattle and he said: "Now, can any boy tell me what a cow is?" I don't know, was the reply he expected, but a small boy gave him the correct answer. He said:

"Please, sir, a cow is an animal with four legs, one on each corner." That was a good answer and the boy had my sympathy. If any one were to ask me, what is a sheep? do you know what I would say? My answer would be: "A sheep is a miracle." So it is. There isn't a more marvelous animal in the world than a sheep, and at all our pastoral and agricultural gatherings we ought to toast the sheep. But we don't simply because nobody ever thinks of the source of all our wealth. We count our wool returns in millions of pounds sterling and the mutton sales are enormous, and the whole country profits by the sheep, but who ever thinks of it? Hardly anybody except from the point of view of pounds, shillings and pence. Did I ever tell you about the great Florentine Glotto, who made his mark on the sands of time? I don't think I ever did, for I know a heap of things that I haven't told you yet, although I've been telling you stories for a good many years.

One day, when Glotto was standing in the streets of Florence, telling stories and laughing, a pig ran between his legs and upset him. He got up, very angry, but when he saw the pig rushing down the street he laughed and cried: "Ah, you villain, you! And yet, look at the lot of money I have made with your bristles, and I never gave you even a glass of wine."

Good old Glotto. Look at the money some men have made out of wool, but have never thought about the miracle of sheep. That's our trouble. We hardly ever think about anything. If we did, we would find the kingdom of God on earth. As it is, we mostly find the other kingdom.

Don't get excited; don't be misled. The present flurry will cut no ice with the prosperity of this country. The prices of things are not inflated; they are simply about right. There are a few exceptions, and cotton is one of the exceptions. Cotton has had the whole gambling world combined in a fight for low prices. The bear manipulators have not hesitated to use any and all possible means to ruin the prices. They have finally played their last card, and in the scramble have lost out and have bankrupted many of their friends. This is the beginning of the bear stampede. They have sold cotton for future delivery at all sorts of low prices and the day for the delivery comes on space. What are they going to do about it? The available cotton for delivery will be bound to become exhausted soon. Then that in the warehouses will be requisitioned, and if the holders stand for the best price there is nothing under the sun to prevent their getting that price, so long as it is not a prohibitory one. Fifteen cents is not prohibitory, and it is right there the price should stick, and there it will stick till the time comes to make it higher still.

Have you given the hog pen the attention it should have? All over the South there is a continual cry for more hogs with which to supply the packeries and the local butchers. This should not be so. Nowhere else can hogs be so easily raised, and nowhere else can they be so easily prepared for the market. They have proven the best mortgage lifters the West has ever found, and they would prove even more efficient in the South and the Southwest. The demand can not be at all supplied, and this is a diversification that is so cheap that any one, even the poorest tenant, can engage in it even if it be on a small scale. Get some pigs now!

Here are some good suggestions for your kitchen: Have your shades and curtains of white muslin that can be laundered. When using your gas stove in the summer, cover the top of your coal range with newspapers, which will make a handy table. Have your rack near the stove, so that your towels will get well dried after each dish washing. A small shelf should be put up near the stove to hold your salt and pepper box. Cover the back wall of your sink with oil cloth, preferably white, and here may be hung your broom, shovel, dish mop and soap box. In a box or drawer may be kept the necessary articles for ironing. The top may be covered with oil cloth, and will give an extra table. A chest of drawers is useful and almost necessary for keeping the kitchen towels and aprons, besides many other useful articles. It is well to keep in the kitchen a bottle of linseed oil and lime water, together with a roll of old linen pieces for bandages, for use in case of burns.

The "financiers" have had their inning, and there is a good deal of cotton in the hands of the raisers yet.

So long as the farmer goes round with his mouth hung down as if he were ready for the last great day to come, so long will you hear of the "boys leaving the farm." There is no sense in the farmer always playing the part of the poorest man on earth. It is his privilege to be all that there is in a man, and it is his duty to "magnify his calling." The "scared cat" farmer will hardly inspire a boy that is worth his salt to stay on the farm.

Don't Use a Scarecrow

Do Drive Away the Mail Order Wolf

You can drive him out of the mail order houses' own weapon — advertising. Mail order concerns are spending thousands of dollars every week in order to get trade from the home merchants. You think for a minute you would keep it up if didn't get the bug? Don't take it for granted that every one knows what you have to sell, and what your prices are lower, but the customer has to be convinced by the up-to-date advertising of the mail order house. Buy your goods where you advertise should be described and priced. Now send us your story in an interesting way, and when you want to reach the buyers of this community use the columns of this paper.

Mr. Charles E. Varney, who is to fill the next number on the Lyceum program at the opera house on Tuesday night, Nov. 21, comes to us well recommended as an able lecturer, well qualified to both please and instruct his audiences.

Haskell continues to fill the tents of the numerous intendant "shows" with good sized audiences. Now that a lecturer of reputation and ability is booked for the night of Nov. 21, at the opera house we hope to be able to report that there are enough people in the town of Haskell who appreciate an entertainment of a high order to fill the house.

CITATION.

The State of Texas, To the Sheriff or any Constable of Haskell County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon James Lake and the unknown heirs of James Lake deceased, whose names are unknown by making publication of this Citation once in each week for eight successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in a newspaper published in the nearest county where a newspaper is published to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Haskell county, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Haskell, on the 4th Monday in November, A. D., 1907, the same being the 25th day of November, A. D., 1907, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 12th day of September, A. D., 1907, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 44, wherein Una L. Foster and S. J. Murray are plaintiffs, and James Lake and the unknown heirs of James Lake deceased, whose names are unknown, are defendants, and said petition alleging that on the first day of January, 1907, plaintiffs were lawfully seized and possessed of a certain tract of land hereinafter described situated in the county of Haskell holding the same in fee simple that on the day and year last aforesaid. Defendants, James Lake and the unknown heirs of James Lake deceased, whose names are unknown, entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiffs therefrom and wrongfully withhold from plaintiffs the possession thereof to their damages eight thousand dollars.

That the premises so entered upon and wrongfully withheld by defendants from plaintiffs are bounded and described as follows—all that certain tract or parcel of land lying and being situated in Haskell county, Texas, and being 200 acres of land known as subdivision No. 4 of the Edward W. Taylor 1250 acre survey No. 54, abstract No. 393, certificate No. 4172 and patented to Joseph Kopman assignee of said Taylor on December 5, 1857 by patent No. 403, Vol. 8, said subdivision No. 4 of said Taylor survey described by metes and bounds as follows to-wit: Beginning at S W corner of subdivision No. 3, on the S B line of said Ed. W. Taylor survey 192 3/4 vrs. West of its original S E corner for S E corner of this 200 acre tract. Thence north 1250 vrs. to a stake for N E cor. thence W. 903 1/2 vrs. to a stake for S W cor. on E B line of sub. No. 1 of the E. W. Taylor survey and S W corner of sub. No. 2. Thence south 1250 vrs. to a stake for S. W. Cor. on E. B. line of original E. W. Taylor survey and S E corner of said sub. No. 1. Thence east 903 1/2 vrs. to the place of beginning.

And plaintiffs further shows that the annual rent of said premises is of the value five hundred dollars. Wherefore, plaintiffs pray that deendants be cited to answer this petition, and that they have judgment for the restitution of the above described premises; for their damages, for costs of this suit and for general relief in the premises.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness, J. W. Meadors, Clerk of the District court of Haskell county. Given under my hand and seal of said court, at office in Haskell, Texas, this 12th day of September, A. D., 1907.

"One of our west side business men suggests that there is 3500 square feet of valuable space on the west side of the public square in Haskell, with cement floor and partly kivered over with sheet iron, that would be suitable for a wagon yard, livery stable or warehouse or general storage yard for all kinds of rubbish, such as old boxes, kegs, lasses barrels, vehicles, stoves, baled hay, etc., but which was originally built for a sidewalk at a cost of about $1500, but which the public doesn't seem to need now, so he thinks it might be leased out to any old galoot for any old purpose.

For full particulars see any merchant on west side or apply to the city marshal.

The two year course in agriculture, which was introduced this year at the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, bids fair to increase the usefulness of the collector to the agricultural interests of the state. This course is intended for those young men who, for one reason or another, cannot spend more than one or two years in preparing themselves for practical farm work. The aim of the course is to equip them so that they may go back to the farm and apply intelligently and successfully all of the more scientific methods of farming that have been worked out in recent years. The instruction given them is of an intensely practical nature, and includes in addition to the technical agricultural subjects—soil study, live stock judging, breeding and management, farm crops, dairying, and general farm operations—regular practice in English composition. This last work is made as practical as possible and correlated closely with the regular lines of work that the students are taking. Among the thirty students taking the course are representatives from nearly every agricultural section of the State, many of them fresh from actual farm experience.

AN HONEST STATEMENT.

Mr. Wilbur Acton of 212 Fourth St., Lincoln, Ill., says: "Our daughter, aged sixteen, was suffering with a severe Cough and Cold on her lungs. Common remedies seemed to afford no relief and myself and her mother feared pneumonia or consumption. She began taking Hart's Honey and Horshoed and in less than two weeks was entirely cured. We always recommend Hart's Honey and Horshoed to any one suffering with a deep-seated Cough or Cold. Sold at Terrell's Drug Store."

Mr. Martin Arend, one of our German-American farmers, who owns a fine farm some twelve mile northeast of town was in the city Wednesday and speaking of the financial situation, said that he believed the farmers themselves were in a large measure responsible for the financial stringency. He said if, when they sold their cotton they would leave the money in the banks it would help the banks to handle the cotton crop, but instead of doing that, he said, many of them are in the habit of drawing the money out on their cotton checks and sticking it down in their pockets, thus in the aggregate taking a large amount of circulation and reducing the volume of money in the banks for handling the business of the country. Mr. Arend's views are eminently correct as to the bad effect of holding money out of the banks and out of circulation. We have, however, heard different views expressed by others as to taking care of their money themselves. They are naturally suspicious persons—suspicious because they are not well posted in banking methods and the manner of handling the commerce of the country. When the present panic came on in New York the banks of the south, and especially of Texas, had a normal supply of money, plenty to handle the cotton crop. If the east had not ceased to return the sums paid out. But the Eastern vaults were locked up and could not take the cotton on hand nor respond to the call of the southern banks for more money to pay out for spot cotton. Although the southern banks had a normal supply of money, when it came to facing this situation they saw that if they continued to pay out money for cotton, with none coming back, and to pay out unlimited checks, their vaults would soon be emptied and all business brought to a standstill, hence their action in limiting the payment of money.

King, Robert W. Hunter, Amanda Hunter, John C. Hunter, Mrs. Ella Dawson and husband William Dawson by making publication of this citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the thirty-ninth Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest district to said thirty-ninth Judicial District to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Haskell County, to be held at the court house thereof, in Haskell, on the fourth Monday in November, A. D., 1907, the same being the 25th day of November, A. D., 1907, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 25th day of October, A. D., 1907, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 452, wherein Samuel Hunter, Sr., is plaintiff, and C. C. Cunningham, W. H. Price, Henry Sayles L. W. Powell, W. L. Watkins, Ed. H. Lavalie, Jean Lavalie, Carrie Lavalie, Mrs. Eula Stewart and husband Burrell W. Stewart, Mrs. Ora King and husband William H. King, Robert W. Hunter, Amanda Hunter, John C. Hunter, Mrs. Ella Dawson and husband William Dawson are defendants, and said petition alleging that on the 1st day of January, A. D., 1907, the plaintiff was lawfully seized and possessed of an undivided interest consisting of 600.48 out of the west 1019 acres of the Robert G. Watson survey, land situated in Haskell County, Texas, patented October 30th, 1874, by Letters Patent of the State of Texas, to Robert G. Watson, by Patent No. 416, Vol. 29.

That on the day and year last aforesaid, the defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected the plaintiff therefrom and now wrongfully withhold from the plaintiff the possession thereof, to his damage $5000.00.

And the plaintiff further alleges and charges that each of the above named defendants are owing and claiming an undivided interest of some kind in and to the above described 1019 acres of land and that this plaintiff and the claimants of all of said 1019 acres of land, the plaintiff himself owning 600.48 acres of the same as aforesaid. That this plaintiff does not know the extent of the claim or the amount of land owned or claimed in said 1019 acre tract by each of the above named defendants, and cannot therefore allege with any degree of certainty the share or interest which said defendants own or claim therein, but can and does allege that the plaintiff is the owner of said 600.48 acres, which he purchased from the heirs of R. G. Watson, deceased. That said land was patented to said R. G. Watson, and that the said R. G. Watson by virtue of his will and by virtue of the law of inheritance bequeathed all of said property to his heirs and this amount of land claimed and owned by the plaintiff has been acquired by him by purchase from some of the heirs of R. G. Watson, to-wit: by purchase from Eliza Williams, W. B. Watkins, Richard J. Watkins, Eliza J. Watkins, Ruth P. Hillsman, Jennie Mitchell, Chas. W. Watson, Cornelia Watson, Frank Watson, William D. Jasper, and Henry Jasper, and Mary L. Waters, and plaintiff further alleges that he is desirous of having partition of said tract of land made between him and the owners thereof.

Wherefore plaintiff prays the court for citation in terms of the law to be issued and served personally and by publication upon each of said defendants, and that upon hearing the court shall enter a decree directing the partition of said real estate, in accordance with the respective shares or interests of each party and also prays for the appointment of three or more competent and disinterested persons as commissioners to make such partition in accordance with such decree and the law.

Mr. T. J. Lemmon returned Saturday night from Kansas City, where he had go in charge of several cars of cattle for Mr. M. S. Shook. Mr. Lemmon told the FREE PRESS reporter that there was more improvement going on in Haskell, than he saw from the train an the whole trip.

There is perhaps little doubt that if all the money paid out for cotton during the early part of the season had been redeposited in the banks they would have had much larger amounts in their vaults and could have gone on handling the crop for some time, or until the New York situation returned to the normal.

Mr. A. C. Foster and family moved to Rule this week. Although they have only gone a dozen miles away, they will be missed in Haskell circles. Mr. Foster has been a citizen of Haskell almost from its beginning, where he has been engaged in the practice of the law and in the real estate business. As a moral, upright and honorable citizen no man stands higher.

On Wednesday Attorney General Davidson filed suit against the Security Oil Co. and eleven defendants for penalties aggregating $75,900,550, forfeiture of its charter and for a receivership. The Security Oil Co. is a Texas branch of the Standard Oil Co. and the suit against it is under the State anti-trust law.

The financial panic in Wall Street was brought on by wild speculation in copper mining stock and the promotion of questionable industrial schemes and not directly for the purpose of affecting the price of cotton, as some think, although it has had that result incidentally.

Our reporter inspected the new two-story brick building lately erected by Judge Hamilton and others and was favorably impressed with the provision made for fire protection. They have placed on the roof a forty-barrel tank of water, which is piped to all parts of the building, with hydrants at convenient places. It would add greatly to the safety of the town if all the buildings on the square were equipped in this manner.

The present financial situation strongly emphasizes not only the desirability but the necessity for the merchants, farmers and bankers of the South to come to a thorough understanding of their mutual relations and stand shoulder to shoulder for their mutual protection. The South annually produces the bulk of the real wealth of the country and, by a wise system of cooperation between her producing and commercial interests, she can and should control to a very large extent the money situation.

District Court, Haskell County.

Many people of Texas do not know that there is a large building at the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, equipped with $25,000 worth of the best machinery, which is entirely devoted to students who wish to learn the business of cotton manufacturing. Two teachers devote their entire time to illustrating every process of converting a bale of raw cotton into various kinds of finished cotton cloth. Under the direction of these teachers the students of Textile Engineering do all steps of the work, from making the patterns to running the looms that turns out the completed fabrics. All the cotton mills in Texas are earning a good rate of interest on their investments. As they increase in number, there is certain to be a demand for young men trained to superintend and direct cotton manufacturing concerns. The wisdom of the Legislature is providing opportunities for Texas boys to train themselves for this work at home cannot be questioned. Texas will one day be filled with cotton mills backed by Texas capital, and directed and managed by young men who have obtained their technical training at College Station.

Mr. T. L. Sowell of Colorado Springs, Col., who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. J. G. Walden, left Thursday morning for his home. Mr. Sowell was well pleased with Haskell and is considering some investments here.

The Haskell Fair.

The heavy rain on Monday night and Tuesday morning of last week, preceding the opening of the Haskell Fair on Wednesday, which in turn was followed by cloudy, threatening weather throughout the week, prevented as large an attendance and as extensive a line of exhibits as would otherwise have been shown. However, the attendance was fairly good and there were some exhibits in all lines.

AGRICULTURE

The quality of the exhibits went far to make up for deficiency in number or quantity.

In the agricultural department the corn exhibited both in the ear and shelled was pronounced first-class in development of ears and weight of grain.

Several samples of wheat and oats, in half bushel lots, were shown, and these also were pronounced by good judges to be of high grade, heavy and plump grains.

Milo maize and Kaffir corn were strongly in evidence and finer heads and plumper grains were never shown in these popular feed stuffs. In the forage line fine specimen bundles of sorghum, millet, African millet, cat tail millet and Kaffir were shown.

Several exhibits of peanuts, both of the large and little Spanish, were sufficient to demonstrate the fact that the peanut is at home in Haskell soil.

There were two exhibits of broom corn. One of these consisted of several samples graded from straw 34 inches in length down to the finer grade suitable for whisk brooms.

There were several minor exhibits in the agricultural department which we can not notice in detail.

VEGETABLES

In the vegetable department there were several varieties of beets, beans and peas shown. A large bucket full of fresh, tender snap beans took first premium in that line. Turnips, tomatoes, radishes, lettuce, onion in good variety were in evidence.

Irish and sweet potatoes in three varieties were shown. Some large watermelons, cabbages, etc., were also on exhibition. These things were all good of their kind and were the best of evidence that the people of Haskell county need not forego the luxury of fall gardens.

LIVE STOCK.

In the horse and mule department some fine animals were shown in the several classes of riding, driving and all purpose horses. Some of the colts, both horse and mule, would be hard to beat in any country. The showing in this department was a distinct improvement over that made at the former fairs and showed that our people are growing more and more to appreciate the value of, and advantage in having, good stock on their farms and are taking the proper course to secure it.

CATTLE

Owing to the muddy roads and the difficulty of driving young cattle, the exhibits in this line were limited to a few head which were conveniently located. There is a lot of high-grade and full blood stock in the county and it is regrettable that more of it could not have been shown at the fair.

Hogs.

The hog department presented a much better line of exhibits. There were several pens of Poland Chinas, Durocs or Jersey Reds and O. I. C. hogs shown. There were several registered animals in the lot. The number of exhibits and the interest shown in this department presented gratifying evidence that our farmers are making rapid progress toward producing their own meat and lard.

POULTRY.

From the great variety and quality of the fowls exhibited it is evident that the people of Haskell county are taking a lively interest in the breeding of fine poultry. There were mammoth bronze turkeys, fine specimens of geese, ducks and guineas, and of chickens there were white and barred rocks, white and spangled Wyandotts, white and brown and single and double comb leghorns, Rhode Island reds, games, bantams, orpingtons and other varieties which we can not recall at this time.

The Ladies Department

We cannot think of doing justice to this department. To even enumerate all of the pretty and useful things would make a long story. There were dainty hand-made laces, embroideries of every conceivable kind and design, many of them elaborate and beautiful as a dream of fairy land, tatting, crocheted and knitted specimens and other things nameless to the writer.

Their culinary department presented a most tempting array of bread, cakes, jellies, preserves, pickles, canned fruits, marmalades, etc.

And the floral display was a thing of exceeding beauty. We never saw a finer display of roses, and there was quite a variety of chrysanthemums and annuals, and many ferns and ornamental foliage plants in pots graced the display.

In the department of painting there was quite a display of pieces in oil, pastel, water and crayon, a number of which showed decided talent, according to those competent to judge of their merits. There was also exhibited some fine specimens of hand-painted china and some large and graphical. The curio and the children's division, which were under the supervision of the ladies, attracted much attention. We regret that special mention of some of the things in the children's department, as some of them were really meritorious and showed that the little girls would soon be vieing with their mammas in their production of fancy work.

To Mrs. McConnell, manager of the ladies department, and to her assistants, is due unlimited praise and credit for their untiring labor and the artistic skill and taste displayed in arranging the exhibits and decorating the building.

We are conscious of the fact that we have given but an inadequate description of the department, but, really, it could not be pictured in type and could only be fully appreciated by those who saw it.

BIG ANNOUNCEMENT

OF A LITTLE STORE

Any town that has grown to be a city like Haskell needs a furnishing goods store for men and it gives us a great deal of pleasure to announce that THE HUB is a store of that kind.

The boys in THE HUB have had years of experience in men's goods and guarantee to give the best values in men's apparel that can be found in the county. We have been asked many times since we bought this store two weeks ago, why we made as good suits for the money as could be bought "out o' stock." We give the other fellow who keeps the stock and makes the clothing two thirds of the retail clothiers' profit. That is the reason.

OUR PROFIT IS SMALL

but we give the individual suit for everybody, and it is made better, looks better, holds up better and is better for the individual person than any stock clothing. Each suit is made for the person who buys it. DON'T FORGET that in connection with the best line of MERCHANT TAILORED clothing to be found anywhere, we have a full line of underwear, shirts, hats and caps and everything men need to "dyke" up with. The prices are right and the quality superior. The WALK OVER shoe for men is so easy your feet will laugh all night. A full line of work goods just in. Give us a trial, we want your business.

A TALENTED WRITER

Praises Peruna as a Catarrh Remedy

MRS. E. M. TINNEY

Mrs. E. M. Tinney, story writer, 325 E. Nueva St., San Antonio, Tex., writes:
 "During 1901 I suffered from nasal catarrh, which various other remedies failed to relieve.
 "Six bottles of Peruna, which I took, entirely cured me. The catarrh disappeared and never returned.
 "I therefore cheerfully recommend Peruna to all similarly afflicted."

Mrs. Ellen Nagle, 414 4th street, Green Bay, Wis., writes:
 "I have often heard Peruna praised and it is more widely known here than any other medicine, but I never knew what a splendid medicine it really was until a few weeks ago when I caught a bad cold which settled all over me.
 "The doctor wanted to prescribe, but I told him I was going to try Peruna and sent for a bottle and tried it.
 "I felt much better the next morning and within five days I had not a trace of any lameness or any cough.
 "I consider it the finest cough remedy."

PERUNA TABLETS—Some people prefer to take tablets, rather than to take medicine in a fluid form. Such people can obtain Peruna Tablets, which represent the solid medicinal ingredients of Peruna.

Weird City in the Sands

By Mrs. Washington Matthews

Wife of U. S. Major Tells of Her Visit to a Strange Indian City—Fields of Corn with Pink, Blue and Green Ears—Hideous Albino Found Among Inhabitants—A Brown City Built in Tiers—Fascinating Indian Girls—Eagles Kept for Feather Supply—Vaccinating a Whole City.

Twenty years ago Zuni was almost unknown except to the rare traveler or the Catholic priest, who once or twice a year visited the pueblo and christened a score or more of dark-skinned infants, whose parents prized the Spanish name then bestowed upon each child, but knew nothing of any other meaning to the ceremony. It was therefore an unexpected pleasure to the writer when good fortune gave her the opportunity of seeing this famous but little known spot.

An epidemic of smallpox had raged for some time among the Indians of New Mexico. The mortality was enormous, as they were wholly unprotected and most unhygienic in their mode of life. It occurred to the post surgeon that as Zuni was as yet untouched here was his chance to do a benevolent deed. He laid in a supply of vaccine virus, obtained a short leave of absence and invited a few congenial spirits to accompany him on his journey and take a glance at an Indian city.

Zuni is about 45 miles from Fort Wingate. The road runs over hill and through dale, over heights wooded with pinyon, juniper and magnificent pines and through glades whose only verdure is wry grass and low bushes of a dull green—an odd and picturesque landscape. Our party consisted of the surgeon and his wife, a young girl, a lieutenant of infantry and his wife and our most important and indispensable companion, Frank Hamilton Cushing, without whose knowledge, tact and intimacy with the Indians we would have had a commonplace visit instead of a most interesting one. Mr. Cushing was then a youth of 22 years; he had been living for some time in Zuni as an Indian among Indians. He wore their dress, spoke their language fluently and had wound his way into their inmost hearts by his desire to know their traditions, by his deep interest in their myths and by his power of interesting them in the strange things which he in turn could tell of his own people.

As we started one bright summer morning in an ambulance drawn by four mules Mr. Cushing rode gaily beside us on a diminutive pony which he managed like a consummate horseman. When he walked, as he did sometimes to ease his horse, his movements were full of elastic grace. It was due to his Indian training that he leaped so lightly from rock to rock in the deep canyons or sprang so alertly up the mountain sides, never out of breath or showing the least sign of exertion, ever ready to point out the beauty that encompassed us.

The road was rough, and the clumsy old ambulance was not a bed of down, so we were glad at luncheon time to stop beside an adobe house at Nutria. This was used by some of the Zunis as a summer home, where they lived while planting and raising their corn. This corn is amazing to the American accustomed to great stalks six feet or more in height. It grows about two feet high and often bears ears of beautiful colors, pink, yellow and blue. Moreover, he has religious uses for the particular corn. This dwarf variety by deep planting requires no irrigation, but draws its needed water in some mysterious way from the arid soil.

We found seven or eight men and one woman in the house when we accepted Mr. Cushing's invitation to enter. They gazed at us long and curiously, asking Mr. Cushing, whom they called Tenatsall (the medicine flower), innumerable questions about us all. Finally the woman, who, unlike the usually small and gentle Zuni maiden, was a huge, masculine-looking creature, rose from her seat and with every appearance of intense anger and outraged dignity left the room, flinging her scanty skirts in disdain as she passed us.

Mr. Cushing told us that our young girl had unwittingly roused her jealousy; for all the Indian men present were telling Mr. Cushing how they would like just such a pink-checked, yellow-haired maid for a wife. This Indian woman, in spite of her curiosity to know more about us, never returned to take another look; her feelings had been too deeply outraged to forgive us easily. We knew her better later on and became quite friendly with her.

There were at that time five Albinos in Zuni, the most revolting and hideous beings I have ever seen. They were as white as lepers, their hair was a light straw color, their pink eyes were half closed on account of the dazzling sunlight. To protect their weak eyes from the glare they wore their hair over their faces. This practice, with their extreme uncleanness of face and hands, combined to make them even uglier than nature intended. It was probably because these uncanny creatures are cherished by their fellow townsmen that our blonde girl created such a sensation among the Zuni men that they even followed us for a time on their ponies to get a last glimpse of their charmer.

On account of the roughness of the roads we decided to spend the night at Pescado, which consists of several houses built of stone and plastered with mud, inhabited only when the Zuni is cultivating his fields. The place was deserted when we alighted from the ambulance. After eating our evening meal, uncheered by even a cup of tea, we spread our blankets on the floors of two large rooms, the gentlemen using the outer one to protect us if necessary. Alas! They could not guard us from the hosts of crawling marauders which made night so comfortable that we were glad to resume the journey at day-break.

Zuni came at last into view, so unobtrusive and brown we hardly knew that it was there. The houses are so close together and piled so high that the effect is of a natural mound. The brown background served as a fitting setting to the gay blankets of the Indian weavers, who, full of excitement at seeing us in Mr. Cushing's company, crowded around the ambulance to inspect us, our clothes commanding the women's deepest interest. We were shown into the house of the cleanest woman of the pueblo, who vacated it in our favor. She thought herself well paid when upon our departure she received for rent two silver dollars and two packages of needles. The rooms were low, but very pretty in color. The floors had been covered with a thick paste of some earthy substance, which glittered with specks of mica and was of a warm mauve hue. Upon this, while it was soft, the Indian housekeeper had drawn with a stick patterns in artistic waves and ridges. Our thick shoes, sad to tell, soon spoiled the pretty design, but the moccasin does not injure it, and it therefore lasts a long time.

Before we had time to look about us visitors began to pour in. All the women of Zuni are attractive, especially the young ones. They are slender and graceful, and wear a charming dress woven by themselves; it is always dark blue, embroidered in a broad band around the lower edge of light blue in a kind of Kensington stitch. They wear red sashes, and the effect of the costume is harmonious and pleasing to the eye. We named one little woman, Maggie Mitchell, after the popular actress. I never saw anything more graceful than her attitude as she piled us with endless questions. Singling out the almost as tiny southerner, our lieutenant's wife, she bounded to her side and with pretty gestures measured heights and compared one little foot with another, until, her vanity satisfied, she gave a joyous laugh and melted away into the crowd.

We had a large following when we went out to see the people at work. Everything is carried on out of doors. Pottery, made without a wheel, is painted and baked in the open air. The latter process is very odd; the great jars are set on the ground and over them is built a mound of dried cow manure, which looks like a beehive through whose openings one can see the glowing red of the pottery as it slowly bakes and reaches perfection. We saw the weaving of blankets, the making of silver ornaments, blue, green and dark red, the kneading of bread and the feeding of the pet eagles, which are kept in cages built against the houses. Once a year the unfortunate birds' tail feathers are plucked to be worn on Zuni head-dresses.

We returned to our rooms for dinner, which we took by daylight. It was already dusk indoors because the little windows, made of squares of gypsum, admitted scant light, and we could not inspect our guests as closely as we wished. The most important one was Palowatiwa, governor of the pueblo, a handsome man of great dignity of men, with a profile strikingly like that of Dante. Seated flat on the floor for dinner, we were in full view of a number of spectators, among whom was the governor's wife—a hard-faced, shrewish creature, whom we called Xantippe—a well-deserved name, for she scolded her husband in a high-pitched voice during the entire meal. Mr. Cushing interpreted all she said. The governor, like many Indians, hated pork. Having no cook with us, we had arranged to eat canned food, boiled ham, bread and cake, using a fire only to heat the soups or boil water for tea and coffee. We were relieved to find that the unhappy expression on Palowatiwa was due to no other serious cause than the fear of being obliged to eat ham for the sake of politeness. "Must I eat the accursed pig?" he asked. His manners were wonderfully good. Although he had never used a fork, he watched us closely and did the best he could with the unknown implement. His mind was evidently relieved when, dinner over, a council was called to determine when and where the vaccination should take place.

When we again went out to observe the odd human beehive we were visiting a sound from on high made us turn in surprise. Far above our heads, on the top of the seventh story of the city, stood an Indian silhouette against the sky. In a most musical voice, in accents like those of a cathedral priest intoning the service, this muezzin of the desert told his people that a medicine man had come to protect them from the sad disease they knew so well. On the morrow they must come to the great square to be treated. I have never, before nor since, listened to more beautiful intonation, nor looked upon anything more poetic than that draped figure so sharply defined against the background of the evening sky. After this we went to bed weary and dreaming of Indian girls brushing their lovers' hair to show their affection, of jealous wives scolding majestic husbands, and of men who wanted to steal fair-haired girls.

We rose early next day and strolled through the narrow streets before the city was awake. Every door stood open, not a creature was stirring within, and we could see the natives, looking like chrysalises, as, rolled in their blankets they lay on the floor apparently wherever sleep had overtaken them.

Later, attended by five great men of the pueblo, virtually the lawmakers of the place, we were shown the old mission church, now deserted. Like most buildings of this character, it was fine in form, a vision of beauty when seen by moonlight. We then went to the topmost story, still preceded by the dignified elders, and, mounting from ladder to ladder, reached the little room that was the apex of the city. From there we gazed enraptured at Toyolani mountain, girt with a band of varied color. From its summit, it is said, Zuni women, no doubt as small and gentle as those of our own times, poured from great ollas boiling water on the heads of Spanish soldiers centuries ago. Turning to leave, I noticed a common white china plate imbedded in the adobe wall of the room. Mr. Cushing explained to us that one of the most important religious ceremonies the Indians observed occurred at the summer solstice. The day was carefully watched for by the elders, who knew that the time for it had come when they saw a beam of light fall on the plate at sunrise through a narrow opening opposite.

We left our lofty perch with regret, and spent the afternoon watching the vaccination, which proved a work of time. Many belated ones who thought, with Indian lethargy, that any time would do, pursued us on the morrow as the ambulance drove away, wildly gesticulating and pointing at their arms.

Swiftly passed the hours, and all too soon we turned away from Zuni—as it chanced, forever. Adieu, strange city of the desert, we never shall see thee quite the same again. The sewing machine, the kerosene lamp, the chair and tables of civilization, have invaded thee and changed thy ancient ways!

Three of the mirthful party who laughed those summer days away and found the hours too short have passed to the great beyond. The slender, graceful southerner went first, soon followed by her gallant husband, who fell at the head of his regiment on San Juan hill. Tenatsall, so full of life and hope, has left us, too. His spirit years since set out on the lonely trail to the shadow land of Zuni.

JUST WHAT HE WANTED.

Surely Here Were Musical Tastes Enough to Suit Anybody.

A gentleman of the most cultivated musical tastes, wishing to change his residence, advertised for rooms in a private family "fond of music." The next mail brought him the following reply:

"Dear Sir: I think we could accommodate you with rooms, and as for music one of my daughters plays the parlor organ and guitar; another one plays the accordion and banjo; I play the cornet and fiddle; by wife plays the harmonica and my son the flute. We all sing and if you are good at tenor singing you would fit right in when we get to singing gospel hymns evenings, for none of us sings tenor. Or if you play the base viol we have one right here in the house. If you want music as well as rooms and board we could accommodate you and there would be no extra charge for it. Lippincott's.

FAMILY'S SKIN TROUBLES.

Eczema, Heat Rash, and Scalp Affections Afflict Different Members, But Cuticura Cures Them.

"My wife had eczema for five or six years. It was on her face and would come and go. We thought we would give the Cuticura Remedies a trial. We did so and she has never had a sign of eczema for four years. I myself used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment some time ago for falling hair. I now have a very heavy head of hair. We used Cuticura Remedies for our baby, who was nearly bald when young. She has very nice hair now. She is very fleshy, and we had so much trouble with heat that we would bathe her with Cuticura Soap and then apply Cuticura Ointment. It would dry the heat up so much quicker than anything else. Mr. H. B. Springfield, 323 So. Capital Street, Iowa City, Ia., July 16, 1905, and Sept. 16, 1906."

 Lindale, Texas, Feby. 16, 1907.

Mr. T. J. Burrow, Troupe, Texas.
 Dear Sir:—Yours of even date received, and in reply will say that I have just returned from a trip to San Antonio, and the Dr. Simmons ranch, where I spent four days riding over the property, and I must say that Dr. Simmons in his prospectus has not misrepresented or overdrawn anything. I not only found everything as good as represented, but really the half has not been told.

The railroad question is no longer an uncertainty, and the land is as rich as can be found in the state. I have investigated every phase of the Simmons proposition, and I am willing to say that his proposition is perfectly fair, honorable and legal, and the property is now worth more than the price asked for it, but in not more than two years cannot be bought for four times the price he offers to take.

With regards, I beg to remain,
 Yours very truly,

POUNTRYMEN

Poultrymen should draw the line between warm and cold seasons. This is the summer season, and the hens are not compelled to combat with the snow and cold of winter. They do not require food to warm their bodies to the point of resistance to cold, and the materials necessary to be converted into animal food in winter are easily saved now.

Don't let money go down in drink or up in smoke. Better keep it about the pocket level.—American Cultivator.

Go carefully when you begin to feed new oats or barley. Any sudden change of feed is liable to cause colic when horses are exerting themselves to the limit.

Thorough preparation is half the cultivation. Our farm readers will realize this in the growth of crops next season.

A Cure That Has Held Good for Four Years.

Mrs. Mary Crumlish of 1130 West Third Street, Wilmington, Del., says:

"Some years ago I began to feel weak and miserable and one day awoke from a nap with a piercing pain in my back that made me scream. For two days I could not move and after that I had backache and dizzy spells all the time. My ankles swelled and I ran down dreadfully. I was nervous and had awful headaches. I wonder that any medicine could do what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for me. They cured me four years ago and I have been well ever since."

Finance.
"Sammy," said a Germantown mother recently to her youngest-born, "When you divided those seven pieces of candy with your brother did you give him four?"

A Slight Misapprehension.
"Your party just now is rather in an acrophalous condition, isn't it?"
"Not at all—not at all. It only wants a leader."

So Impolite.
"Oh!" gasped Caesar, as he felt the thrust of Brutus' dagger. "How rude of you to cut an old friend!"

It's a fortunate thing that babies can't say what they think of the baby talk women hand them.

HER "BEST FRIEND."
A Woman Thus Speaks of Postum.

We usually consider our best friends those who treat us best.
Some persons think coffee a real friend, but watch it carefully awhile and observe that it is one of the meanest of all enemies for it stabs one while professing friendship.
Coffee contains a poisonous drug—caffeine—which injures the delicate nervous system and frequently sets up disease in one or more organs of the body, if its use is persisted in.

"I had heart palpitation and nervousness for four years and the doctor told me the trouble was caused by coffee. He advised me to leave it off, but I thought I could not," writes a Wis. lady.

"On the advice of a friend I tried Postum Food Coffee and it so satisfied me that I did not care for coffee after a few days' trial of Postum."

"As weeks went by and I continued to use Postum my weight increased from 98 to 118 pounds, and the heart trouble left me. I have used it a year now, and am stronger than I ever was. I can hustle up stairs without any heart palpitation, and I am cured of nervousness."

"My children are very fond of Postum and it agrees with them. My sister liked it when she drank it at my house, but not when she made it at her own home. Now she has learned to make it right, boil it according to directions, and has become very fond of it. You may use my name if you wish, as I am not ashamed of praising my best friend—Postum."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

She Did Not Fear Death.

An old lady on her seventy-third birthday once said, "I do not mind getting old, and I do not fear death, but I live in constant fear of paralysis."

"For some time I have been wanting to tell you of the great good your wonderful Sican's Liniment is doing here," writes Mr. James F. Abernethy, of Rutherford College, N. C. "In fact, all your remedies are doing noble work, but your Liniment beats all. In my eight years' experience with medicine I find none to go ahead of it, having tried it in very many cases. I know of one young man, a brick-mason, who suffered from a partial, yes, almost complete, paralysis of one arm. I got him to use your Liniment, and now he can do as much work as ever, and he sings your praise every day. I get all to use it I possibly can and know there is great virtue in it. I have helped the sale of your noble remedies about here greatly, and expect to cause many more to buy them, as I know they can't be beat."

The Duty of the Hour.

"How were you impressed by our distinguished visitors' speech?" asked one prominent citizen.
"I hadn't thought about forming impressions," replied the other. "As I understand such an occasion, we were not there to criticize, but to give three cheers and to sing 'The Star-Spangled Banner.'"

A Household Necessity.

I would almost as soon think of running my farm without implements as without Hunt's Lightning Oil. Of all the liniments I have ever used, for both man and beast, it is the quickest in action and richest in results. For burns and fresh cuts it is absolutely wonderful. I regard it as a household necessity. Yours truly, S. HARRISON, Kosciusko, Miss.

Moral: Use Hunt's Cure, one box of which is absolutely and unqualifiedly guaranteed to cure any form of skin trouble. Any kind of itching known is relieved at once and one box cures."

Slightly Mixed.

"How did Henry get along when he had to testify in court, Mrs. Mixer?"
"He got along good enough till the lawyer tangled him all up with one of them air long hyperdemic questions."

RHEUMATISM CAN NOT BE RUBBED AWAY

It is perfectly natural to rub the spot that hurts, and when the muscles, nerves, joints and bones are throbbing and twitching with the pains of Rheumatism the sufferer is apt to turn to the liniment bottle, or some other external application, in an effort to get relief from the disease, by producing counter-irritation on the flesh. Such treatment will quiet the pain temporarily, but can have no direct curative effect on the real disease because it does not reach the blood, where the cause is located. Rheumatism is more than skin deep—it is rooted and grounded in the blood and can only be reached by constitutional treatment—IT CANNOT BE RUBBED AWAY. Rheumatism is due to an excess of uric acid in the blood, brought about by the accumulation in the system of refuse matter which the natural avenues of bodily waste, the Bowels and Kidneys, have failed to carry off. This refuse matter, coming in contact with the different acids of the body, forms uric acid which is absorbed into the blood and distributed to all parts of the body, and Rheumatism gets possession of the system. The aches and pains are only symptoms, and though they may be scattered or relieved for a time by surface treatment, they will reappear at the first exposure to cold or dampness, or after an attack of indigestion or other irregularity. Rheumatism can never be permanently cured while the circulation remains saturated with irritating, pain-producing uric acid poison. The disease will shift from muscle to muscle or joint to joint, settling on the nerves, causing inflammation and swelling and such terrible pains that the nervous system is often shattered, the health undermined, and perhaps the patient becomes deformed and crippled for life. S. S. S. thoroughly cleanses the blood and renovates the circulation by neutralizing the acids and expelling all foreign matter from the system. It warms and invigorates the blood so that instead of a weak, sour stream, constantly depositing acid and corrosive matter in the muscles, nerves, joints and bones, the body is fed and nourished by rich, health-sustaining blood which completely and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. is composed of both purifying and tonic properties—just what is needed in every case of Rheumatism. It contains no potash, alkali or other mineral ingredient, but is made entirely of purifying, healing extracts and juices of roots, herbs and barks. If you are suffering from Rheumatism do not waste valuable time trying to rub a blood disease away, but begin the use of S. S. S. and write us about your case and our physicians will give you any information or advice desired free of charge and will send our special treatise on Rheumatism.

West Texas Clubs Meeting.

To the Financial, Commercial and Agricultural interests of West Texas:

GENTLEMEN:—

The Association of Central West Texas Commercial Clubs is steadily growing in membership while each succeeding monthly meeting shows an increased attendance, interest and enthusiasm.

It now appears to be an accepted fact that this movement promises more of real benefit and assistance toward legitimate agricultural development and industrial progress for our great section than any movement ever before attempted. Our next meeting will be held in Cisco, Texas, on Tuesday Dec. 17th, 1907, for which occasion special rates have been secured on all railroads traversing this part of Texas.

It is the earnest desire of the Association that every town and city in this part of Texas be represented in the coming convention, that the people as a whole may more forcibly realize the full character and scope of the work intended.

The Dallas News, Ft. Worth Record, Star and Telegram, as well as a number of the Central West Texas Newspapers will each have special representatives in attendance on the meeting, and you are invited to come prepared to say a good word for the country as a whole and especially something good for your own particular locality.

President.

Not Necessary to Delay. Will Continue Right Through Christmas Holidays

Owing to the large number of students in attendance, many coming from so great a distance that they could not afford to go home for the Holidays, the Tyler Commercial College of Tyler, Texas, will continue school right thru the Holidays, with the exception of Xmas Day, for those who do not care to be absent on Xmas week. This arrangement also enables new students to enroll at any day during December, take up the work to the very best advantage, and continue without interruption during the holidays.

Any student who wants to enter at once, but is hindered from getting the ready cash, owing to the temporary financial flurry, may come right on to school, bringing such money as he has at his command, in the form of money or currency, and make satisfactory arrangement for balance.

Miss Tommie Boone returned the early part of the week from a visit to relatives at McKinney. Miss Tommie gave us a subscription to the FREE PRESS to be sent to her Uncle in Collin county.

Judge C. P. Woodruff of Sweetwater, at one time judge of this judicial district, attended district court here this week.

For Haskell's Consideration.

Having just examined a report made by Mr. W. F. Sterley, General Freight Agent of the Ft. Worth Denver & Wichita Valley Railroads, I find that he makes a statement that Haskell has received thirty-five immigrant cars in the last three or four months, leading far ahead of any town on the Wichita Valley line.

Anson follows with sixteen cars, and Seymour with fifteen. Haskell stands third in the list of all the towns along any portion of the Denver System through the Western part of the state. This advantage in immigration has been brought about by the advertising through our local real estate firms and by the individual efforts of some of our citizens that are zealous enough to keep working and talking for Haskell and Haskell county.

This proves the necessity of Haskell having a Local Club that will send out good literature to those desiring to change their locations. If we can receive this amount of immigration during the dull summer months, it can be readily seen that by sending out good literature for the next three months, just at the time people are making changes for the new year, we can double and triple this amount of immigration for this county.

The Central West Texas Association of Commercial Clubs has established an office and employed a man to distribute literature for each Local Club that will furnish him with literature, and also in distributing this literature, to talk with those who are thinking of changing their location and try, if possible, to steer them to this country, also to report their names and addresses to the secretary of the association. He in turn reports their names to the secretaries of the Local Clubs, and the secretary of the Local Clubs shall hand a copy of these names to any business man who is a member of the Local Club and send to their addresses literature direct from the Local Club.

In fact Haskell is helping to pay for this man and the support of his office established at Ft. Worth and hasn't a single piece of literature to place in his hands. It is easy to see that Haskell should get busy. This is not all: The secretary of the Association has sent me one hundred and twenty-seven names of prospectors and business men who desire new locations, and not a scrap of literature have I to send them, to tell them about Haskell and its great advantage,—and the "Half has not yet been told" of what Haskell is losing by not having some good literature to send out to the world. Let us figure a little.

Suppose by spending two or three hundred dollars in literature we could induce one hundred farmers to come to Haskell county; they would, on an average, spend during the year $300.00 each for supplies, or a total of $30,000. They would make investments in real estate etc., on an average of $1000, or $100,000 in all. They would spend on an average of $200 each for lumber, hardware, and other building materials for making improvements, total $20,000 for these items, or a total expenditure during the year of $150,000.00. This amount of money dumped into our county during the next twelve months, with the money to come out of our good crops, would place Haskell county where she would not know anything about a Financial Panic, besides it would be the best paying advertisement for our local merchants in the way of dollars and cents, they could possibly get.

The question will naturally be asked by some, "Can we do this?" I say "Yes." The report above referred to by the General Freight Agent of the Denver system stating that we had received thirty-five immigrant cars during the dull summer months, without any advertising, without any systematic effort being made to secure immigration, shows conclusively that now, at this time of the year, when people naturally are making changes and looking for new locations, if we will have a systematic method of advertising Haskell county, and telling of its wonderful advantages, we can easily swell this number within the next three or four months so that the General Freight Agent can, in his next report, state that the town of Haskell has received one hundred cars instead of thirty-five.

Another thing I wish to call your attention to, is that Haskell is not the only railroad point in Haskell county. We have the town of Weinert on the Wichita Valley, and on the Orient Railroad, we have Carney, Rochester, Rule and Sagerton that are receiving their share of immigration, which would swell the number that we have reported, and that we could report in the future, so let every man in Haskell get busy and join the Club and swell the treasury so that we can do these things.

Do not consider it a donation when you are subscribing to the Club, but remember you are only making the greatest investment that the same amount of money could possibly make for you.

The more people, the more money. The more money, the more investment. The more investment, the more building; and the more building, the more jobs for laborers. The more jobs for laborers, the more merchandise of every character to be sold, and so on until every avocation, no matter how insignificant, is benefited by the result.

Yours for a greater Haskell and Haskell county
T. E. MATTHEWS,
Sec.

Judge Jim Cunningham of Abilene, who attended our district court this week, in talking with the FREE PRESS reporter in regards to the financial flurry said that soon after the situation developed the lawyers of Abilene, twenty-six in number, met and adopted a resolution not to file any suits for thirty days. The resolution, he said, was published in the local papers and proved to be a great relief to many persons. He said that the thirty days expired on Dec. 2 and all of the lawyers had lived up to the terms of the agreement.

Mr. W. T. Hudson came around the other day and paid for his advertisement of Jersey cows for sale and said that besides the local business that had brought him he had received several letters from a distance, from persons who said they saw his ad in the FREE PRESS. One of these letters was from a party on the plains who wanted a carload of Jerseys and another was from a party in Oklahoma who also wanted a carload. Moral: When you wanted to sell anything advertise it in the FREE PRESS.

CONTAGION A QUESTION OF PREVENTION

Sinks, drains, eating and cooking utensils, sick room linen and clothing frequently carry the dreaded disease-germ unnoticed by the household.

Thorough and hygienic cleansing is the best safeguard against infection, and such a safeguard is found in the universal household necessity—Borax.

This simple preventive carries in itself, disinfecting qualities which enter the fabric or act upon the article to be cleansed in a hygienic manner, eliminating every unwholesome property, rendering it contagion-proof, while at the same time Borax is of itself as harmless as salt.

Unlike most disinfectants which depend upon their strength of odor or harmful-to-the-system qualities, to arrest or prevent contagion, Borax is Nature's remedy, being easy to obtain and easy to apply, a simple solution in hot water being all the application necessary and requiring no prescription, it can be obtained from any grocer or druggist in convenient, economical household packages.

In addition to its disinfecting qualities, Borax is especially a household necessity, and can be used for softening water, cleansing and whitening clothes, clearing the skin, whitening hands, makes an excellent dandruff remover and can be used on the finest faces or most delicate fabrics without injury, while as an adjunct to the bath it removes all odor of perspiration and leaves the skin soft and velvety.

HIS TURN TO CRITICISE.

Youngster Felt Called on to Manifest Disapproval of Prayer.

Little John, who, at the mature age of four, has learned the Lord's Prayer, is often criticised by his sister, two years older, for slight mistakes which he cannot always avoid in offering the petition. A few Sundays ago he was taken to church for the first time. When the moment for the prayer arrived and the congregation bowed their heads John's mother took the precaution to whisper to him that he must be very quiet. "Listen," she said, "and you will hear the minister pray." This interested John at once, and his little face took on a look of serious attention, but his mother, watching him covertly, saw his expression change presently to one of surprise and disapproval. A few minutes more, and he could stand it no longer. What could this man be saying? Not a word of the prayer did he recognize as the only formula he had ever heard called by that name.

"Why, mother," he exclaimed, in a tone audible over nearly half the church, "do you hear? He isn't saying it right at all!"

Going to Be Fined.

When George Ade was a newspaper reporter he was sent to "write up" an Irish laborer who had fallen from a building. When Mr. Ade arrived on the scene, several officers and others were helping the injured man into the ambulance. Mr. Ade pulled out his pad and pencil. "What's his name?" he asked one of the policemen.

The injured man, who had heard Ade and who mistook him for the timekeeper employed by the contractor, rolled his eyes in a disgusted way.

"What d'ye think o' that?" he muttered. "I'm goin' to be docked for the few minutes I lose goin' to the hospital!"—Success.

Just His Luck.

"Well, old fellow, I hear that your aunt is dead."

"Yes, she died yesterday," replied the old fellow somewhat sadly.

"It is the way of the world. We must all die some time, and the old lady was well advanced in years. She left a last will and testament, of course? I understood she was wealthy."

"Oh, yes, she left a will and testament," still more sadly.

"You were always a favorite of hers. Your name was mentioned, of course?"

"Yes," he replied, "my name was mentioned. I'm to have the Testament."

BEGAN YOUNG.

Had "Coffee Nerves" from Youth.

"When very young I began using coffee and continued up to the past six months," writes a Texas girl. "I had been exceedingly nervous, thin and very yellow. After quitting coffee and drinking Postum Food Coffee about a month my nervousness disappeared and has never returned. This is the more remarkable as I am a primary teacher and have kept right on with my work."

"My complexion now is clear and rosy, my skin soft and smooth. As a good complexion was something I had greatly desired, I feel amply repaid even tho this were the only benefit derived from drinking Postum."

"Before beginning its use I had suffered greatly from indigestion and headache; these troubles are now unknown."

"Best of all, I changed from coffee to Postum without the slightest inconvenience, did not even have a headache. Have known coffee drinkers who were visiting me, to use Postum a week without being aware that they were not drinking coffee."

"I have known several to begin the use of Postum and drop it because they did not boil it properly. After explaining how it should be prepared they have tried it again and pronounced it delicious."

A southern pulpit orator, one Sunday morning, was describing the experience of the prodigal son. In his endeavor to impress his hearers with the shame and remorse that this young man felt and his desire to cast away his wicked doings, he spoke thus:

"Dis young man got to thinking about his meanness and his misery, and he tuk off his coat and frowed it away. And den he tuk off his vest and frowed dat away. And den he tuk off his shirt and frowed dat away too. And den he come to hisself."

Several of my friends became interested and wanted me to go and look at the ranch, and I have just returned from an investigation of it. I spent two nights and one day on the ranch, and went over as much of it as we could while there, and I am entirely satisfied with my purchase. I found the land as good as recommended. The State of Texas, To the Sheriff or any Constable of Haskell County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon L. W. Powell, W. L. Watkins, Ed. H. Lavalle, Jean Lavalle, Carrie Lavalle, Mrs. Eula Stewart and husband Burrell W. Stewart, Mrs. Ora King and husband William H. King, Robert W. Hunter, Amanda Hunter, John C. Hunter, Mrs. Ella Dawson and husband William Dawson by making publication of this citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the thirty-ninth Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest district to said thirty-ninth Judicial District to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Haskell County, to be held at the court house thereof, in Haskell, on the fourth Monday in November, A. D., 1907, the same being the 25th day of November, A. D., 1907, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 25th day of October, A. D., 1907, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 452, wherein Samuel Hunter, Sr., is plaintiff, and C. C. Cunningham, W. H. Price, Henry Sayles L. W. Powell, W. L. Watkins, Ed. H. Lavalle, Jean Lavalle, Carrie Lavalle, Mrs. Eula Stewart and husband Burrell W. Stewart, Mrs. Ora King and husband William H. King, Robert W. Hunter, Amanda Hunter, John C. Hunter, Mrs. Ella Dawson and husband William Dawson are defendants, and said petition alleging that on the 1st day of January, A. D., 1907, the plaintiff was lawfully seized and possessed of an undivided interest consisting of 600.48 out of the west 1019 acres of the Robert G. Watson survey, land situated in Haskell County, Texas, patented October 30th, 1874, by Letters Patent of the State of Texas, to Robert G. Watson, by Patent No. 416, Vol. 20.

That on the day and year last aforesaid, the defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected the plaintiff therefrom and now wrongfully withhold from the plaintiff the possession thereof, to his damage $5000.00.

And the plaintiff further alleges and charges that each of the above named defendants are owning and claiming an undivided interest of some kind in and to the above described 1019 acres of land and that this plaintiff and the said defendants are jointly the owners and claimants of all said 1019 acres of land, the plaintiff himself owning 600.48 acres of the same as aforesaid.

That this plaintiff does not know the extent of the claim or the amount of land owned or claimed in said 1019 acre tract by each of the above named defendants, and cannot therefore allege with any degree of certainty the share or interest which said defendants own or claim therein, but can and does allege that the plaintiff is the owner of said 600.48 acres, which he purchased from the heirs of R. G. Watson, deceased. That said land was patented to said R. G. Watson, and that the said R. G. Watson by virtue of his will and by virtue of the law of inheritance bequeathed all of said property to his heirs and this amount of land claimed and owned by the plaintiff has been acquired by him by purchase from some of the heirs of R. G. Watson, to-wit: by purchase from Eliza Williams, W. B. Watkins, Richard J. Watkins, Eliza J. Watkins, Ruth P. Hillsman, Jennie Mitchell, Chas. W. Watson, Cornelia Watson, Frank Watson, William D. Watson, H. W. Watson, Sallie C. Watson, Adene Cook Keller, Laura A. Cook, D. J. Keller, W. B. Watson, S. P. Hunter and wife Lelia W. Hunter, Amanda Wilson and George Wilson, Lewis A. Phillips, Mary B. Deloney, A. D. Deloney, Lotie D. Paxton, W. T. Paxton, William G. Watson, Gertrude Smith, Sidney R. Smith, Gertrude W. Watson, Sallie C. Watson, Sarah Watkins, Laura K. Jasper, and Henry Jasper, and Mary L. Waters, and plaintiff further alleges that he is desirous of having partition of said tract of land made between him and the others thereof.

Wherefore plaintiff prays the court for citation in terms of the law to be issued and served personally and by publication upon each of said defendants, and that upon hearing the court shall enter a decree directing the partition of said real estate, in accordance with the respective shares or interests of each party, and also prays for the appointment of three or more competent and disinterested persons as commissioners to make such partition in accordance with such decree and the law.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness, J. W. Meadors, Clerk of the District Court of Haskell County. Given Under My Hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Haskell, this the 24th day of October, A. D. 1907.

To the Business men of Haskell County:

GENTLEMEN:—The farmers are making the greatest struggle in their history for a right-ought and just price for their cotton.

The scheming class of speculators, backed by the great aggregation of wealth that they have wrestled from us in the years passed, are moving every financial power in their control and broad-casting the land with false-hood and fraudulent scheme to defeat us. In their reckless fury in the fight to maintain the old gambling system by which in the years past they have filched uncounted millions from this fair southland, they do not hesitate to put in jeopardy every legitimate business in the whole land. To gain their ends and defeat the farmers in their present struggle they would willingly see every bank and every other legitimate business institution go to pieces.

Knowing the above statement to be true, and believing the business men with whom we have to deal know it to be true, and that they also know that prosperity for the farmers bring prosperity to all lines of legitimate business, we respectfully request you to join us in this great struggle for a fair price for the south's great staple crop. Think of it. What will it mean to this county for cotton to bring ten cents per pound? Surely Haskell county will make ten thousand bales. Ten cents would mean $500,000, while 15c would make the same crop bring $750,000 or fifty per cent more to our county. Think of an extra $250,000 thrown into the business channels of Haskell county. Is it not worth your while to make an effort to get it? Wouldn't you think it better to have it left here with direct selling to the spinners than for it to be taken away by a set of gambling speculators and you never get a dollar's worth of it in your business?

If the farmers win out it will be left here and every dollar of it will circulate through the veins of Haskell county's business enterprise. That illegitimate crowd of frenzied financiers have tied up the money and we do not know what the outcome will be but we all know the spinners must have cotton or close their mills. We also know that with the present demand for goods and the remunerative prices at which they are taken they are not going to close their mills. Besides they are now selling their goods on a basis of 15 cent cotton or higher. The spinners expect to have to pay 15 cents, or more, for cotton and they must soon have the cotton, so why should we be frightened by the present movement of the bears to overthrow all cotton interests in the South? It only shows their desperation in trying to obtain cotton already sold that they never owned, cotton that they have contracted low in spite of the farmers plain and reasonable demand. If they had cared to conduct their business along legitimate line their troubles might have interested us. If a man sells property produced by himself but under mortgage he goes to the pen. But if the cotton gambler sells cotton he does not own, thereby impoverishing a nation, it is called good business by some. We class both operators together. The cotton bear is now retreating, or perhaps is on his last ditch. He has tied up the banks and called off the buyers and declared the market dead. We know that statement is false. They have simply put it to sleep, and it will soon awaken with renewed life and energy if we but stand firm.

When the power of this bear element is once broken the farmers will be able to get their price and then they will be able to pay all their obligations and your business will bound forward as it has never done before.

Gentlemen, can't you encourage him to stand firm? Can you not see it to your interest to join hands with him in this struggle?

Think what it means to lose.

Think what it means to win. If we lose this fight it means the loss of a billion dollars annually to the business interest to the extent of your share in that billion dollars worth of business.

Fifteen cents a pound for cotton is now a most reasonable price. If the farmers had adopted the methods of most other lines of business and adhered to them strictly they would have placed the price much higher but they realized it would be too great a shock to the business world to put its full value in one season, based on cash of production plus a reasonable profit, or a profit on the same ratio of other lines of business.

Now, we know the business men in this county are our friends. We also know that without the farmer there would be no business here of importance.

Gentlemen, look around you at your prosperous towns and all the live enterprises that are building up and flourishing on every hand. What has made all this prosperity possible? For answer, look at the broad fields of cotton, corn, maize and other products that flourish in Haskell county as no where else. Yes, there you have the answer. Every dollar's worth of these products have been put into the channels of your business and are making you rich.

This business has enabled you to build and beautify your towns till they blossom like the rose, yet the farmers are toiling and struggling under a load of debt as galling as it is unjust, trying to pay for this very soil to secure homes and comfort for their loved ones.

Still they are hoping, still they are standing firm for a just price for their cotton. You can encourage, you can help. Will you withhold your assistance?

We are striving for a common cause. Join us and help to bring prosperity to our common county.

We are pledged for the finish.
J. A. PARRISH,
County President.

FOR LEASE OR RENT.

One of our west side business men suggests that there is 3600 square feet of valuable space on the west side of the public square in Haskell, with cement floor and partly kivered over with sheet iron, that would be suitable for a wagon yard, livery stable or warehouse or general storage yard for all kinds of rubbish, such as old boxes, kegs, lasses barrels, vehicles, stoves, baled hay, etc., but which was originally built for a side walk at a cost of about $1500, but which the public doesn't seem to need now, so he thinks it might be leased out to any old galoot for any old purpose.

For full particulars see any merchant on west side or apply to the city marshal.

Local Business Situation.

Owing to the impression which seems to prevail with a good many people to the effect that they cannot buy goods on a cash basis or settle accounts with merchants because they cannot withdraw money from the banks during the existing financial condition, the business men of Haskell have prepared a statement to the public, which will be found in this issue of the FREE PRESS, explaining how the general business of the country can be carried on. Only a small amount of money can be drawn from the banks daily, but the arrangement made by the business men and the banks is such that any depositor can give checks, to the full amount of his deposit if he desires, in payment for goods purchased or in settlement of accounts now due, and these checks will be accepted by the business men and the banks.

It is also arranged that checks received for cotton sold may be deposited in the banks and the person depositing such checks may then use the amount by checking it out as above—just the same as if he had deposited money.

With this arrangement in force there is really very little need for handling the actual money and it is probable that the small amount that can be drawn daily, ($10.00 at this time), will cover all the needs for pocket change and minor cash transactions. This, it would appear, ought to put local business very nearly, if not entirely, back on a normal basis.

Reports from Eastern financial centers indicate a rapid improvement of the situation and that money is beginning to move out to the West and South, and it is the opinion of the FREE PRESS that the entire situation will be cleared up in a very short time.

Meantime we feel absolutely certain that no bank depositor in this section, or in all Texas for that matter, need feel any apprehension of loss. The bank resources generally were at high-water mark when this situation set in in the East and they still have their usual resources and the normal amount of money on hand and their action in limiting withdrawals was merely a matter of precaution to protect both themselves and their depositors against possible runs that might have been induced by an unnecessary scare and against the withdrawal of money from the state by Eastern banks.
