Crude hits highest prices in 4½ years

U.N., Iraq delay in talks, rising demand, low stockpiles boost oil to $23.27 a barrel.

N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK — Crude oil futures soared to a 4 1/2-year high as plans for more negotiations between Iraq and the United Nations signalled stockpiles even as demand rises.

Two teens arrested and charged with arson last week were released from custody Monday after a fire investigation proved they were wrongly accused.

They are not responsible as far as we're concerned," Midland Fire Inspector/Investigator Paul Booth said in court Monday afternoon.

Bad timing and unfortunate circumstances led to the detention of Anthony "Tony" Dorland and William "Billy Bob" Hale, both 15, fire officials said.

The Thursday afternoon fire at 410 Sweetbriar Drive was called arson, but fire officials told Midland County Courtat-law Judge Al Walvoord that the wrong teens were in custody

Spring arrives on Wednesday, but Old Man Winter is hanging on to the end, it appears.

Temperatures were in the 70s over the weekend, but a cold front moved through Texas on Monday, and the National Weather Service said the strong north winds that accompanied the front would usher in colder temperatures

Readings in the 20s and 30s can be expected Tuesday night and early Wednesday, the weather service said.

Rains fell across North Texas early Monday, and there were scattered reports of hail from dime to quarter size. Average rainfall amounts were between one-fourth inch and one-half inch.

The front moved rapidly through the state and was already south of Brownsville and over the Gulf waters by afternoon.

A surface high pressure ridge over Montana plunged southeastward through Colorado and extended into the South Plains. A freeze could occur early Wednesday, meteorologists said. Skies over North Texas were partly cloudy Monday afternoon with strong northerly winds of 20 to 30 mph and gusty. At 4 p.m., temperatures ranged from 51 at Paris to 61 at Waco and Killeen. In South Texas, skies were partly cloudy to mostly cloudy, with thicker clouds along the upper and middle Texas coast. Winds were northerly at 20 to 30 mph, gusting to near 50 mph in the Galveston area. Read-

COLD: Police investigation at stalemate (From 1A)

The police have an "obligation to the victim and to the family" and to the community "to catch the person or persons responsible and bring them to justice.

"It is very frustrating," Garcia said. "All we can do is hope and pray for a break in the case.'

Mrs. Kolas, a 42-year-old mother and nurse's aide student, was slashed about the throat in the predawn hours of May 27.

Her partially clothed body was discovered by a motorist after daybreak in the alley off Powell Street between the 3000 blocks of Ohio and Michigan avenues.

At the time, Mrs. Kolas's death was Midland's fourth homicide of 1995. But, by year's end, her death waspamong 13 citywide slayings.

On the day of her death, Midland Police Chief Richard Czech deemed the circumstances of Mrs. Kolas's death "a horrendous crime" and pledged all of the Police Department's investigative resources toward solving the slay-

We are going to find the fellow or persons (responsible). We are doing everything under our power to see to it that the perpetrator is apprehended," he said

The chief solicited Midlanders help in solving the crime and asked them to report anything suspicious or any piece of plausible evidence.

Despite the killing, Czech nev-rtheless characterized the streets of Midland as safe.

highest price since Nov. 6, 1991. It was the biggest one-day jump for the contract closest to expiration since Feb. 20, when a scramble for supplies drove crude prices up about $2 a barrel. The April contract expires Wednesday. The May contract rose 65 cents to $20.73 a barrel.

"This market's just a beast," said Andrew McMillan, a trader at BZW in London, a unit of Barclays Bank Plc. Iraq and the U.N. "managed to make something negative out of the talks and now there's no oil. We're seeing fear right now.'

Soaring prices for gasoline and heating oil also boosted crude oil, their raw material. April gasoline surged 1.39 cents to 64.31 cents a gallon, the highest price May 25. April heating oil rocketed 2.41 cents to 60.28 cents a gallon, the highest in more than two weeks. Lean gasoline and heating oil inventories also helped refined product prices higher, traders

"There's a big gap between heating oil supplies and demand," partly because of lower imports. said Kenneth Werhan, manager of crude supply and product sales at LL&E Petroleum Marketing Inc. in New Orleans, a unit of Louisiana Land and Exploration Co.

shares of oil producers. Exxon Corp. rose 1 3/4 to 80 3/4, Royal Dutch/Shell Group climbed 3 5/8 to 141 3/8, British Petroleum Plc American depositary receipts in New York rose 3 3/4 to 106 1/2, and Amoco Co 1/2 Cagained 17/8 to 72

"The way crude prices have been going up indicates that there's demand for barrels across the board from both refiners and traders," said Keith Mueller, a Cleveland-based trader at British Petroleum Plc. "Supplies are low, demand is good and margins are profitable. So you can run crude and make money."

Shares of refining companies also rose, buoyed by hopes that rising gasoline and heating oil prices will boost profits. Sun Co. rose 3/8 to 29 1/2. Tosco Corp. climbed 3/8 to 46 3/8.

At the same time, if crude prices rise faster than those of the its products, profit margins could shrink, traders.

'It could take whatever margin's left in the refining business out," said James Healey, general manager of crude and refined product supply at Mapco Petroleum Inc., an oil producer and refiner based in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

U.S. oil inventories are low because refiners have been trying tribution issue.'

The surge in oil prices boosted to cut costs and free up their capital. Expectations that Iraq may sell oil according to the U.N. plan and that rising global crude production could create a surplus of supply also have kept refiners from building up inventories.

As of last week, U.S. crude stocks now total 304.5 million barrels, some 21.5 million barrels - or 6.6 percent - smaller than last year, according to the American Petroleum Institute. The week before, stocks had fallen to their lowest in 19 years.

With crude prices soaring, the strategy of paring stockpiles is coming back to haunt refiners now as they pay up for supplies.

So far, the first two rounds of Iraqi-U.N. talks haven't produced an agreement. In fact, perceptions that the same sticking points that snagged previous talks could sink the current talks are mounting. In the past, Iraq rejected Resolution 986 and similar offers partly because it claimed terms calling for distribution of food and aid in the Kurdish-dominated northern parts the country would infringe on its sovereignty.

"The fact that they want another round (of talks) sheds some light on where they really are in the talks," Saucer said. "Here we are again at the Kurdish food-dis-

Concerns that a supply glut would arise at the hands of 16-year highs in production from the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries and record output from non-OPEC producers have proven unfounded so far, too.

"We've been absorbing high levels of over-production by OPEC members month after month and stockpiles are still down," Saucer said. And with the amount of crude processed in the U.S. set to make a seasonal ascent of about 10 percent as refiners churn out gasoline for the summer, "I think we can keep doing that for a few more months.

Some analysts still think an Iraqi oil-sale is possible.

Nevertheless, "it's still a question of 'if' and after that, it's a question of 'when'," Saucer said. "Until there is new supply from somewhere, the market will remain tight.

To be sure, with U.S. crude prices soaring faster than prices in London and around the world, imports could rise, traders said. Last week, the API said U.S. crude oil imports soared almost 1 million barrels a day, leading to an unexpected rise in stockpiles. Further increases in imports could help offset the seasonal rise in refinery demand, traders said.

The scientists alleged Philip Morris built an "olfactometer" to give smokers precise amounts of nicotine and other chemicals. The machine, when combined with a computer and neurologists' equipment, recorded nicotine interacting with receptors in the brain.

It was unclear if the olfactometer was used with marketed brands or just in research.

Also, Uydess told the FDA that Philip Morris cut down young tobacco plants in the 1980s because the leaves that grew back before the regular harvest contained more nicotine. Uydess said he didn't know if any nicotine-rich leaves from this "ratooning" were put into U.S. cigarettes.

The employees' statements go on to contradict key testimony before Congress in 1994 by then-Philip Morris President William Campbell:

- Farone said that because removing the tar from cigarettes removing the tar from cigarettes lowers nicotine, low-tar brands "required cigarette manufacturers to deliberately control the levels of nicotine in their products." So they blend tobacco strains and leaves known to have naturally higher nicotine levels, he said. "By using a higher percentage of higher nicotine tobacco in their Campbell told Congress that 'we do not blend for nicotine," and said the firm never chose a tobacco leaf just because it contained more nicotine.

-Jerome Rivers, who retired as a Richmond, Va., shift manager last year, said Philip Morris employees test tobacco manufactured from stems and other plant debris hourly to ensure the nicotine meets certain levels. If it doesn't, the tobacco is processed again. If the sampling "indicated a downward trend in the nicotine content of by-products from bright (fluecured) tobacco, we might be instructed to add more burley byproducts. Burley by-products contain more nicotine," he said. Campbell told Congress that nicotine is measured only twice: before the leaves are first blended and 18 months later in the finished cigarette.

-Finally, both scientists said Philip Morris knows nicotine is addictive and that people won't keep smoking without it. "Tobac-co companies like Philip Morris learned a long time ago that it was hard to get people to stay with a

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - More than 140 peo- there was a fire, but the microphone stopped workple, including many students celebrating the end of the school year, died early Tuesday when a fire engulfed a packed disco in a Manila suburb, officials

Many bodies, so badly burned that they were unrecognizable, were piled in a corridor leading from the dance floor of the Ozone Disco Pub to the narrow entrance. Survivors said many were trampled in a

Others were crushed by a falling ceiling and wall. Fire Inspector Claro Querubin said more than 135 bodies had been taken out of the disco, and there could be another 50 still inside. Officials said it was the Philippines' worst fire ever.

Hospital officials said dozens of survivors had been brought in with third-degree burns. Hospitals had to send many to more distant facilities because of a lack

'We saw smoke and tried to run outside but were caught in a stampede," said a survivor named Rose, who was burned on her feet, face and arms. "I was stepped on, but managed to force my way out.'

She said two of her three friends were missing. Marvin Reyes, a disk jockey at the disco in suburban Quezon City, said victims were screaming as their clothes and hair caught fire.

"It was like hell," he said. "I tried to announce him, saving his life.

Firemen, overwhelmed by the ordeal of taking out bodies from the charred disco, shared shots of gin to restore their resolve.

Many used bare hands to carry out the victims, who were so badly burned that their bodies stuck to each other so that the rescuers had to be careful to avoid dismembering the remains. The fire was so intense that victims' fingernails curled and bones were visible through charred skin.

There was chaos around the building as wailing relatives searched for information about missing family members. Many wrote the names of the missing on a list kept by rescuers which reached more than 100. An estimated 350 people were inside the disco at the time of the fire.

Fire officer Moises Marcelo said the fire started around 12: 05 a.m. Tuesday (11: 05 a.m. EST Monday) and was extinguished about two hours later.

There was no official report on the cause of the fire. but radio reports said it was triggered by a cooking fuel tank that exploded.

'The lights went out and there was an explosion," said Aaron Cabronera, 17, who received leg injuries. He said a door he was leaning against fell on top of

Taiwanese conduct readiness maneuvers

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — The 50 because of the bad weather. attackers came by sea in a driving rain, mounting an amphibious assault on a northern Taiwanese beach. With tanks, missiles and artillery, Taiwanese soldiers overpowered them.

the Taiwanese army, and the show was staged for foreign reporters to prove that Taiwan would be ready for a Chinese invasion. As of Monday, there was no sign that invasion might come.

China was supposed to start a new round of war games Monday only 11 miles from outlying Taiwanese islands, part of a campaign of intimidation in advance of Saturday's presidential elections.

Hundreds of islanders have fled, and a newsaper said troops have taken up defensive positions on the beach of one islet.

said Monday there was no sign of games that began last Tuesday off the new exercises, possibly China's coast, about 75 miles

Taiwan hasn't said it expects the war games to erupt into a Chinese invasion, and China hasn't said they will either. But in a show of resolve, officials owered them. invited foreign reporters to watch Actually, both sides were from as 50 soldiers defended against a mock attack by 50 others playing Chinese attackers at Huko Army

The attackers made their way onto the beach and took up position, but using missiles without warheads and live artillery aimed to miss, the troops playing Taiwanese soldiers wiped them out.

'If provoked, we will safeguard our hation, even though we have to sacrifice our lives," said Gen. Kao An-kuo. "No matter where the enemies land, we can quickly mobilize and defeat them.

The new Chinese maneuvers But Taiwan's Defense Ministry were to overlap with a set of war southwest of Taiwan. Those exercises continued Monday with a "small number" of ships and planes, the Defense Ministry said, without elaborating.

The new exercises, which are to be much closer to Taiwan, are intended to scare voters away from President Lee Teng-hui, whom China accuses of dropping the goal of reunification.

Lee has been defiant, saying Chinese leaders are afraid the example of Taiwan's blossoming democracy would undermine their own power.

China regards Taiwan, ruled by the rival Nationalists, as a renegade province to be recaptured by force if necessary. The National-ists fled the mainland after losing a civil war to the Communists in

The government refused to comment on a report by Taiwan's China Times newspaper that troops have taken up positions to repel a possible beach assault on Wuchiu, an island close to the planned new exercises.

The newspaper also said the military had heightened its alert on the Chu islands, just north of the planned exercises, and imposed a curfew on Wuchiu's 16 civilian inhabitants.

Former South Korean president testifies at trial for mutiny, treason

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - On planning an artillery attack that trial for mutiny and treason, former President Chun Doo-hwan denied Monday that he had staged a coup 16 years ago, claiming he took power only to repel "rebel" generals and a possible North Korean attack. During a seven-hour court session. Chun and prosecutors clashed over whether Chun's arrest of Army Chief of Staff Chung Seung-hwa was tantamount Chun argued that the detention was "unavoidable," and said he believed that Chung, then martiallaw commander, had aided and abetted the assassination of President Park Chung-hee in 1979.

Chun, then a major general, headed a military team that investigated the assassination of Park by the president's intelligence chief. A military tribunal found Chung guilty in the assassination. but a civilian court later acquitted

Chun said he had no choice but to order troops to put down "rebel generals" loyal to Chung who were day.

would threaten the presidential palace.

'It was certain that they were rebels. (Their attack) would have led to a civil war and given a good chance for North Korea to attack the South," Chun said. He gave an emphatic "yes" when a prosecutor asked whether he had used the troops to save the country from communist attacks.

Chun and his successor as president, Roh Tae-woo, together face charges stemming from an alleged coup in 1979 and a military crackdown that killed or wounded hundreds of pro-democracy protesters the following year.

The ex-generals ruled South Korea from 1980 to 1993, a politically turbulent period that coincided with the nation's emergence as an Asian economic tiger.

Monday's was the second session of the treason and mutiny trial, which opened a week ago with Roh defending himself. The case is being heard by three judges, who adjourned the trial until next Mon-

Leaders hope summit helps Rwandans

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) - Targeting intimidation as the chief obstacle to repatriating Rwanda's refugees, five Central African leaders announced a new crackdown Monday on thugs in the camps.

Former President Carter announced the measures, closing a summit convened to resolve Africa's most pressing crisis — the refusal of 1.7 million exiled Rwandans to return to a nation devastated by genocide in 1994.

"The goal is for all refugees who are not guilty of genocide to return to Rwanda," said Carter, who mediated three days of talks in this North African capital on the Mediterranean.

'The uncertainty is convincing the refugees that it's safe and advantageous to return," he said. "The removal of the intimidators will be another major step forward.

Extremists in refugee camps in neighboring Burundi, Tanzania, Uganda and Zaire have stirred fears that returnees risk jail, torture or even death.

Former Rwandan troops and militiamen at the camps want to preserve them as a power base for negotiations with Rwanda's new government. The exiled former fighters also benefit from the protection afforded by living among civilians, and from the humanitarian aid given the refugees.

The exodus began 2 1/2 years

A Tutsi-led government now runs Rwanda, and has urged all exiled Rwandans to return. No reprisals have been reported among the 48,000 refugees who have returned to Rwanda since October, when a similar refugee summit was held in Egypt, Carter

Carter said Rwandans who intimidate their fellow refugees will be identified and arrested, and those suspected in cross-border raids into Rwanda will be slapped with travel restraints and have their financial assets frozen.

About 100 troublemakers already have been identified in refugee camps in Tanzania, and 400 people have been arrested for But Rwandan sources contend sneaking back into Rwanda to

Benin's runoff elections are a close race

COTONOU, Benin (AP) - A former Marxist-Leninist dictator stood a fighting chance of regaining power Monday from the man who unseated him.

In a first-round vote March 3, Mathieu Kerekou did much better than expected in his bid to defeat President Nicephore Soglo, Ben-in's first democratically elected Kerekou got about 32 percent of the vote to Soglo's 31 percent. The third-place winner, former president of the National Assembly Adrien Houngbedji, obtained 18 percent of the vote and gave his support to Kerekou in the runoff.

Results in Benin's first democratic succession were not expected for several days; Benin has no exit polls. The small West African country led the African wave of democracy in 1990 when Kerekou was forced to hand power to a caretaker government .

Prison 'visit' could change young lives

intended as examples of what the 28 troubled youths from Midland and Lamesa do not want to become: Losers who are now imprisoned.

So on Saturday, the 28 youths from juveniledetention centers in Midland and Lamesa were given a tour of the Preston E. Smith Unit of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice's Institutional Division at Lamesa.

The point was simply to give them a taste of what is in store if they don't change their ways. Crime is a likely route to arrest, conviction and incarceration.

While the true impact on the youths of seeing prison life firsthand may not be known for some time, eventually the youngsters will either end up back inside a prison's walls or they'll take Warden James Black's advice and make the choice to change their lifestyles, their friends and the bad attitudes and habits

World leaders drum up support at summit

AN FRANCISCO — Three of the world leaders who gathered at Sharm el-Sheik in Egypt — Shimon Peres, Boris Yeltsin and Bill Clinton — are actively campaigning to remain in office. It is as if they were running mates on an international incumbency ticket, with each having an intense interest in helping the others win.

Can these three political musketeers bring it off together? Or will the weakness of any one of them help drag down the other two?

The calendar puts Clinton in the best position to help his global running mates. Election Day in Israel comes at the end of May, in Russia two weeks later, in the United States more than four months after that.

The U.S. president also has the greatest incentive to come to the ticket's support, because he has identified his policies with Peres', and been a rooter for Yeltsin; their failure might well contribute to his own. Therefore, to shore up Shimon Peres:

Clinton has invested heavily in identifying himself with the initiative begun by the Israeli. Despite Clinton's brief protocol appointment with the opposition leader Benjamin Netanyahu during Thursday's stop in Israel, nobody doubts that the loftily named "peacemakers' summit" and subsequent visit to ter-ror-tortured Israel is designed to stop the plummeting polls of Peres.

The ratings of Israel's prime minister will probably be blipped upward by the emergency visitation. Jews had to be somewhat reassured by the sight of Arab summiteers - notably excepting Syria, which supports the terror process — agreeing to a statement of "strong condemnation of all acts of terror ... including recent terrorist attacks in Israel.

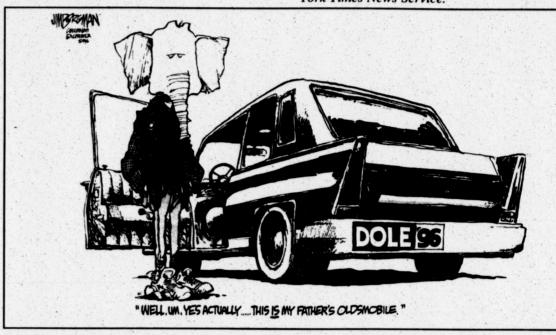

Getting Arabs to sign on to that has meaning. Credit Clinton with good arm-twisting to get that language, though it was vitiated by a promise to pay money to Arafat's organization even before he proves his ability to root out Palestinian terror with lives by subcontracting antiterrorism to Arafat, but they have to notice how Clinton stands by his South Lawn guests.

Israelis may not forgive Peres for gambling

To shore up Boris Yeltsin: Clinton has his work cut out for him there. Yeltsin's polls remain in single digits for good reasons. His promises to end the carnage in Chechnya have been broken, with a recent rebel raid embarrassing the army; he has tightened his control of state television and fired free-market economists, alienating reformers; he has failed to protect Serbian war criminals, infuriating extreme nationalists.

Woman's ex-husband caught spying on line

here have been times when I've said that home computers are overrated, that most household tasks can be done as simply with a phone, pencil and paper, a pocket calculator and a simple ledger But I have to admit that I've just been told about a home computer being used in a way that is impressive and unique.

The story was told to me by Marcia, a ·divorced woman who hives in rural Tennessee with her 11year-old son. I mention her divorce because it is essential to the story. Marcia's ex-husband is an engineer, a very smart guy, who is very proficient with computers

So one recent day, he came up with the idea of buying his son a home computer. That way his boy could get a leg up on the wonders of the technical age that will be part of his world. And it also would allow him and his son to go on-line with their modems and type father-andson chats whenever they felt like it. Of course, they could do the same thing with a telephone, but a computer has a greater mys-

Although Marcia has little regard for her ex - they split less than two years after getting hitched -- she thought the computer would be a good thing for her son. So after being assured that the boy would not be exposed to some of the creeps who prowl the Internet, she OKd the plan and her ex came over and set up their son's new machine. And sure enough, just as planned, father and son were soon exchanging e-mail or getting together for live on-line keyboard chats.

Now, isn't that a pleasant story? Even a little heartwarming?

What's that you say? It's kind of mundane? No big deal. Others have done the same thing. You're right. There is more to the story. There had better be or I'll have a lot of blank space below.

One day, the son came home after visiting his dad's place. He casually mentioned: "Momma, guess what? I heard your voice through my daddy's computer.

Marcia said, "What are you talking about?" And as she tells it: "He told me there was a speaker and that somehow he could use his computer and my son's computer to spy on me.

Well, I didn't know a darn thing about computers. But I'm no fool, and I'm a fast learner. So I did some research.
"And it can be done and he was doing it

When he set up our son's computer, he put in the equipment and programs to do it. From his computer, he can dial and take control of my son's computer. Then my son's computer. picks up sounds in my house and transmits them back to his computer, where they come out of his computer.

When he set up our son's machine, he brought manuals and left them here. So I looked at them. And I found his notations in the margin for how to set this kind of stuff up

See, he's brilliant in some ways but he's an idiot in others. And leaving those manuals around shows what kind of idiot he can be.

'So I packed the whole computer, everything, and took it to a computer place and they found everything. They took out everything that made the spying possible. 'Since then, I found out that there is a divorced men's group on the Internet, and they give each other advice about how, if a man is in a custody battle for children, this is a way to get the goods on your wife.

They give information on what equipment to buy and how to set it up. See, he wants custody of our son, and that's how he found out "Of course, he denied it and demanded that the computer be put back in my house. But I wouldn't do it until I had legal safeguards that he wouldn't try something like that. And I still have the eavesdropping stuff and manuals as evidence if I ever need it.

'Actually, it's a form of stalking. What's the difference between eavesdropping like that or looking in my window? Yes, he's always stalked me, and so he found another way to do "The reason I'm telling you this is that computers can be wonderful things. But people should be aware that they can be dangerous, too. In a situation where a divorce is acrimonious, they can be an effective form of eavesdropping."

When Marcia told me all of this, I admit to having been a bit skeptical.

But then I called one of the experts at Elek-Tek, which has the sharpest personnel of all the big computer stores.

'Yes, it is definitely possible," he said. "It's potentially a very scary thing. If she has a voice-data modem on the computer, what happens is it has a duplex speaker phone on it. By accessing her computer and activating the modem and speaker phone, anything in microphone range can be picked up and the person on the end can hear it.

'And there is technology that you can buy to activate the other person's modem and speaker phone. It's expensive but it's easy to get.'

So today's advice: If you are divorced and are going to play kissy-face with a new flame, maybe you better not only pull the shades but go pull the power plug on your kid's computer. Big Daddy might be listening.

On the other hand, if O.J. had this kind of setup, maybe he would have been content to just listen in, then blow off steam by switching programs and blasting the monsters in Doom. E-Mail: mikeroyko(at)aol.com

School busing may be unnecessary

As the father of a third-grader at Bowie, I have closely followed the MISD-board's activities aimed at reducing federal court supervision. Although I am no fan of busing, I think the cluster system is one of the better ways I've seen to implement compulsory desegregation, if it is needed.

However, as you reported last November, as you reported last November, about one-quarter to one-third of our schools (Bowie, Houston, Long, Bonham, Burnet, Emerson and probably also Jones and Henderson) are, judged by Justice Department criteria, naturally integrated because of the free choice of citizens on where to live —and surely preferable to wide resolution, I hoped after reading your story that at least the students already attending integrated schools would be exempted from busing.

I have, however, been disheartened by subsequent events involving the Cluster Committee. Though I believe both sides are honorably motivated, it appears that they believe the main issue they face is how to get along with each other rather than doing the best they can for the students. Surely, if they can't agree on anything else they ought to agree that the forced busing of students from a school already integrated to desegregate other schools is wrong, nonsensical, and a waste of time, money and effort.

Parents must be heard loudly and clearly now. The parties must reappear in court on April 1, and without an agreement on this point the court will probably maintain the status quo until the final decision. We need to let everyone know there is no excuse for busing these students from integrated schools next year.

Pages from the president's election-year budget, obtained by The Associated Press, show that Clinton expects a $164.2 billion deficit in fiscal 1997, which begins Oct. 1, dropping to a $7.6 billion surplus in 2002. That would be the first year the government completed with black ink in its ledger book since Fiscal 2002 is the same year Clinton and Republicans aimed at for balancing the budget during their yearlong, inconclusive fiscal battle last year. The president's decision to retain 2002 as a target which congressional Republicans plan to do as well - reflects a desire to avoid accusations that they are letting their budget-balancing deadline slip.

As Clinton prepared to release his package, he planned to meet Wednesday with House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., Senate ing his re-election campaign that

> The president's fiscal recipe fol-lows the outline he released last month and offers he made during budget talks with Republicans. It would rely mostly on $124 billion in savings from Medicare, $59 billion from Medicaid, $40 billion from welfare, plus $297 billion from annually approved general government programs.

There would be $99.7 billion in tax cuts through 2002 - about half of what Republicans have proposed - largely for families and small businesses.

The proposal retains Clinton's tax credit for children, which would provide $500 when fully phased in, and a new tax deduction for college tuition, which would be worth $10,000 when fully put into his formula for balancing the budget is less harsh than competing Republican plans and does more to boost programs vital to economic growth such as education, environment and high technology.

Republicans, who plan to begin work on a plan of their own after Congress' two-week recess in early April, have already started criticizing Clinton's plan. The GOP plan is expected to resemble offers they made during budget talks with the administration and proposals for revamping welfare and Medicaid the nation's governors have been writing.

'His details will prove he's addicted to Washington, to Washington spending, Washington control and Washington influence, House Budget Committee Chairman John Kasich, R-Ohio, said last week. "He's a defender of the status quo.

The papers show that Clinton is counting on gaining $15.9 billion in savings in fiscal 1996, which ends Sept. 30 and is nearly half over. He also assumes there will be $3.3 billion in tax cuts this year.

For that to happen this fiscal year, the president would have to reach a pact with the GOP soon, something that has eluded the two broke down in January. Both sides have talked publicly about still hoping some sort of compromise could be reached, but there has been little indication of enough movement by either side to make it possible.

It's fair to say the savings in 1996 presume a deal before 1997, said a White House official, speaking on condition of anonymity.

The president has taken another step to protect himself from potential Republican criticism that his plan does not deliver a balanced budget as promised, according to administration and congressional officials familiar with the plan.

Clinton's budget states that if the Congressional Budget Office — Congress' official budget scorekeeper - makes new estimates in coming weeks and calculates that his plan falls short of balance, the president will cull whatever savings are needed from annually approved programs. The officials spoke on condition of anonymity.

Clinton's budget gets to balance in 2002 in part by assuming that his tax cuts will last only through the year 2000, the documents show.

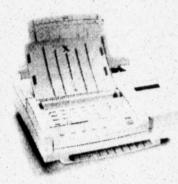

But according to administra-

The budget documents also showed:

Car-phone owners face bigger accident risk, researchers say ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) -Aaarrrggh! I'm going to have to The study indicates that a cell phone is a driver's biggest dis-

hang up, boss. I've just run into the back of a truck.

People with a cellular phone in the car run a 34 percent higher risk of having an accident, researchers said Monday. The danger mounts when they use the phone a lot or while doing something else, such as lighting a cigarette or drinking

Most often, it seems, motorists engrossed in a phone conversation run red lights and get into collisions at busy intersections. But even on the open highway, a carphone call can take people's minds off their driving.

"They kind of forget about the rest of the world," said John Violanti, a criminal justice professor at Rochester Institute of Technology. "They're not intentionally cutting somebody off, just not seeing them.

The study, which is believed to be the first of its kind, appears in the March issue of Accident Analysis and Prevention, a British jour-

The Cellular Telecommunications Industry Association dismissed it as limited and flawed.

"It has glaring research short-comings," said spokeswoman Pam Small.

The researchers, who plan a larger survey this year, countered that their findings, even though preliminary, should not be ignored at a time when cell-phone sales are booming.

Violanti and James Marshall, a professor of social and preventive medicine at the State University of New York at Buffalo, randomly selected 100 New York motorists who had been in an accident and 100 who had not.

Of those in accidents, 13.7 percent owned a cellular phone, while 10.6 percent of the accident-free drivers had a phone in the car, Violanti said. Not everyone answered the survey, he added.

Through surveys and phone records, the researchers determined that the motorists who used car phones more often than the average — 50 minutes a month were five times more likely to have an accident than those who either talked less or didn't own a car phone.

'We suspect, and it's only a suspicion, that intense business calls are more likely than personal conversations to divert attention from driving and may increase the risk of accidents," said Violanti, a former state trooper. "If you need to make an intense business call, it would be my advice to pull over in a safe place, maybe a rest area. I think people don't want to do that. They want to save time.

"Driver inattention" was listed as a factor in about 35 percent of the 700,000 traffic accidents reported in New York in 1993, according to the state Department of Motor

High court takes fresh look at abortion-clinic protests

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court dived back into the battle over anti-abortion demonstrations Monday, agreeing to clarify the 'dos" and "don'ts" of protests outside abortion clinics. At issue: When does free speech become harassment?

The court will decide whether most demonstrators at abortion facilities in the Buffalo and Rochester, N.Y., areas can be kept 15 feet away from the entrance, driveway, any patient or staff member.

Lower courts upheld the 15-foot buffer zone, challenged as a violation of demonstrators' free-speech rights.

Monday's action was something of a surprise. The justices ruled in 1994 that judges can bar even peaceful protests from getting too close to abortion clinics, and upheld a 36-foot demonstration-free zone around a Florida clinic.

Since then, the court consistently had refused to review challenges to similar limits on antiabortion demonstrations.

"We're delighted to be given another oppor-tunity to make our point," said anti-abortion lawyer Jay Sekulow. "I think it was the floating nature of this bubble zone that attracted the

The court likely will hear arguments in the ease next fall and announce a decision sometime in 1997. Its backdrop: the continuing debate over abortion and a string of violent acts at abortion clinics across the nation.

The court announced its action only hours before a jury in Dedham, Mass., convicted John C. Salvi III of murdering two women at two abortion clinics in 1994.

In other matters Monday, the court:

■ Agreed to use an Illinois dispute to clarify a key rule for determining which of the nation's half-million small businesses are covered by a federal law banning on-the-job dis-

■ Let stand former HUD official Deborah Gore Dean's convictions in the Reagan administration's housing influence-peddling scandal.

■ Rejected an attempt by Arkansas officials to deny Medicaid-funded abortions for women impregnated by rape or incest.

In the abortion demonstrations case, U.S. District Judge Richard J. Arcara imposed the buffer zone after abortion providers sought to head off planned demonstrations by various anti-abortion groups.

The judge compared such demonstrations to 'blockades' at which anti-abortion activists 'yell at patients, patient escorts and medical staff entering and leaving the health care facilities.

He said demonstrators "also crowd around people trying to enter the facilities in an intimidating and obstructing manner, and grab, push and shove the patients, patient escorts and staff."

A three-judge panel of the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals struck down the buffer zone and sidewalk-counselor provision as freespeech violations. But the entire appeals court voted 13-2 last September to reverse the pan-

"The First Amendment (and its guarantee of freedom of speech) does not, in any context, protect coercive or obstructionist conduct that intimidates or physically prevents individuals from going about ordinary affairs," said an opinion signed by nine judges.

Lawyers for two anti-abortion activists argued that the "new constitutional right 'not to be hassled in public' will swiftly encroach on union picket lines, gay-rights activists and all other anti-establishment protesters who 'hassle' the American people by challenging the status quo.

Anti-abortion groups such as Operation Rescue, Project Rescue Western New York and Project Life of Rochester were named as defendants in the original 1990 lawsuit. It is a long way, of course, from March to November. But as Dole looks beyond today's primaries in Michigan, Ohio, Illinois and Wisconsin to the fall contest with President Clinton, there are troubling signs for him in places like Taylor, a blue-collar bastion out-

Here, and in like-minded working class suburbs, many voters earned the nickname Reagan Democrats by crossing over to vote Republican in the 1980s. As they look ahead to November, many of these voters say they are back in the Democratic fold - and planning to support President Clin-

In two dozen weekend interviews here, and in recent conversations in other Midwestern battleground states, few blue-collar workers shared Gauvin's unbridled enthusiasm for Clinton. Indeed, many are still stung by Clinton's support of the North American Free Trade Agreement, which was vigorously opposed by organized labor.

"I think Clinton betrayed the unions," said Dean Rabe, a 30-year United Auto Workers member in Illinois. Still, faced with a Dole-Clinton choice, "I'll probably have to go with Clinton," Rabe said.

Dole will have a hard time winning the industrial Midwest battlegrounds if this sentiment carries into November. The four states with primaries today, all carried by Clinton in 1992, carry a combined 72 electoral votes - more than one quarter of the 270 needed to win the White House.

Tanker spills 4,200 barrels in Galveston

GALVESTON (AP) - A barge carrying about 714,000 gallons of oil broke open Monday just outside the Houston Ship Channel, gushing a ribbon of oil at least five miles long into Galveston Bay.

The heavy intermediate fuel oil began streaming from the Buffalo Marine Service Inc. barge into an area between Pelican Island and Bolivar Peninsula about 1 p.m., the Coast Guard said. By late evening, the current pulled the oil south along the coast.

The Coast Guard refused to speculate on what caused the barge to buckle and rupture its hull. The vessel was sunk in the middle and appeared on the verge of breaking into two pieces.

The barge was carrying 17,000 barrels, or 714,000 gallons, of No. 2 crude oil. About 4,200 barrels, or 176,400 gallons, had spilled by evening from two of the barge's 12 tanks.

Coast Guard Emdr. Dean Kutz said the rest of the tanks were intact and it appeared the spill would be restricted to 4,200 barrels.

Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro said the thick oil won't evaporate easily. He said winds up to 45 mph, rough seas and the heavy oil would complicate 'Already, it is clear that commerce, wildlife and tourism may suffer serious damage," Mauro said. "It is the worst possible combination of factors for even the best trained professionals.

No animals were immediately affect-

Crews deployed a protective boom and planned to use skimmers and other oil recovery equipment.

A ship was standing by to remove the remaining oil from the barge.

The Houston Ship Channel was closed for a short time following the incident, but was reopened by early evening.

Buffalo Marme accepted responsibility for the spill, said Daniel Buchsbaum, the company's cleanup coordinator. Buchsbaum refused to comment on the circumstances of the accident,

Almost 6,000 compete to portray Selena in upcoming motion picture

By Thelma Garza

San Antonio Express-News

SAN ANTONIO - The possibility of portraying Tejano singing sensation Selena in a movie about her life produced a tidal wave of young hopefuls this week-

Almost 6,000 young women - many clad in bustiers and spandex pants from several states and Mexico — answered the call to interview for the role of Selena Quintanilla Perez, said officials with the Liz Herrera Kiegley Co., which conducted the interviews.

A four-city search that includes San Antonio, Miami, Los Angeles and Chicago is on for two actresses to play the part of Selena as a young girl and as an 18year-old singer, filmmakers said.

Gregory Nava, the movie's director and writer, expressed disbelief at the large number of candidates who turned out for Saturday's casting call at Centro de Artes in San Antonio.

'Never, in the history of the movies. have we had such a response of candidates," said 46-year-old Nava, whose movie directing credits include "Mi Familia" and "El Norte."

'I think most of the candidates know they will not be cast, but I believe they're here to be a part of the making of Selena's life story," Nava said.

That story will center on the 23-yearold Grammy Award-winner's life and career, beginning at age 8, he said.

Nava said the movie will not detail Selena's murder, nor the trial of Yolanda Saldivar — the San Antonio woman convicted and sentenced to life in prison for the March 31 shooting at a Corpus Christi motel.

It has not been decided if a Saldivar role will be cast in the film, he said. She was the former president of the Selena 'This story is not about sensational-

It is one thing to favor the death penalty, it is quite another to be willing to cast the deciding vote in a capital murder case

Every town should have a street called "Broadway", and it should be located in the middle of downtown.

It is hard to believe that new poll that indicates only 27 percent of Texans can name the state's two U.S. senators.

Read the newspaper, people.

Gore takes Texas day tour

HOUSTON (AP) - Vice President Al Gore began a daylong swing through Texas Monday by praising a prototype service center that makes it easier for small business owners to deal with a maze of government bureaucracy.

'This store makes everyone in government look a little bit better," Gore told the staff of the U.S. General Store for Small Business. 'Your actions encourage other government employees to try new approaches also in order to give their own customers better service. That's leadership by example. The one-stop federal center, which opened last July, allows small business operators to consult with about 20 federal agencies about licenses, regulation and loans all under a single roof rather than visit individual offices scattered around Houston Later in the day, in Dallas, Gore touted the Clinton Administration's community policing program. He met with business owners and community leaders in a police storefront in a low-income section of town, talking with community crime watch members, police officers, police chief Ben Click and Mayor Ron Kirk. Also on hand were U.S. Reps. Martin Frost and Eddie Bernice Johnson, both D-Dallas.

The give-and-take discussion centered on the benefits and chal-lenges of neighborhood policing in the Oak Cliff area.

Dallas received $7 million and hired 60 police officers through a three-year grant included in the 1994 crime bill.

The Houston store is the product of the National Performance Review, a task force headed by Gore to make government more to the federal building, you know that in spite of what people do, you just feel kind of intimidated." He said the government wrote too many regulations telling employees exactly how to do their jobs and not permitting them to rely on their common sense. A big part of the problem is that we have a system that's bound up in rules and red tape. It was created on a 1930s-style, industrial-age model, and now it's trying to operate in an information age, Gore said. "Over time, as we gave government more things to do, we created more and more rules.'

He said U.S. General Store customers have benefited from other cuts in government bureaucracy. The Small Business Administration application, for example, used to be an inch thick. But when businessman Roy Owens went to fill one out, it was just one-page long. "The general store sensitizes government to the overall needs of small business," Owens said. "The sensitivity created here shows us that not only the staff, but various government agencies, care about our continued success.

North-South were playing fivecard major opening bids with a twoover-one response as a game force. As a result, North was too weak to venture two clubs, and showed the four-card spade suit instead. The rest of the auction needs no com-

Opening lead: Jack of ♡ West led the jack of hearts, and it did not take a genius to realize that there was going to be no problem unless clubs broke 4-1 or worse and the king of spades was offside. Unfortunately, there was no outside entry to dummy's clubs, so declarer had to proceed with care to assure nine tricks.

The heart opening was won in hand and declarer immediately led the queen of spades. West took the king and reverted to hearts, but declarer was in control.

The heart was taken and, after unblocking the ace of spades, declarer continued with a low club, ducked in dummy. When both defenders followed as East won the trick, the contract was safe. At best, a diamond shift could net the defenders two tricks. But declarer could win any return, come to hand with the queen of clubs to cash the remaining high heart, then lead a club to the table to score four club tricks and the jack of spades. In all. declarer reeled in two spades, three hearts and four clubs.

Let the good times roll: Prudhomme, king of Cajun cooking, going kosher

JERUSALEM - Let the bon temps tively. But the former dancer says it's rouler - oy vay! - Paul Prudhomme is going kosher. The king of Cajun cooking was one of 14 chefs from around world who created a 14-course b a n q u e t Monday for the city Jerusalem 3000 festivities.

Prudhomme's contribution to the $600-a-plate feast: a veal dish seasoned with the smoky flavors of his native Louisiana.

Prudhomme and his staff took lessons on kosher cooking before flying to Israel, but he said making the change was easier than he had imagined.

Leaving butter and cream out of recipes — Jewish dietary law prohibits mixing meat and milk — was similar to the process he went through when he wrote his low-fat cookbook "Fork in the Road," he said.

"After learning about and starting to understand kosher rules, I thought it made more sense to start from scratch, LONDON - The Sex Pistols are back, and this time it's not anarchy that drives them - it's money.

The seminal punk-rock band formed 21 years ago and released a few singles starting with "Anarchy in the U.K." before disintegrating within a few years. Its members had little solo success, and bassist Sid Vicious died of a drug overdose in 1979 while awaiting trial on charges of murdering his girlfriend. Now the original lineup plans to tour

Europe, the United States and Asia.

'We have found a common cause, and it's your money," lead singer John Lydon, again using his nom de punk of Johnny Rotten, said Monday. If the inspiration is different, the sneering attitude is the same: Rotten said the group plans no new material for the tour. and won't rehearse. Rotten also said the group won't miss Vicious. His spot will be filled by Glen Matlock, who was bumped from the band in 1976 in favor of Vicious. "Sid was nothing more than a coat hanger to fill an empty space on the stage," Rotten said. The tour begins June 21 in Finland. * *

NEW YORK — A top-rated TV series keeps Lea Thompson on her toes figura-hard to stay fit now that she doesn't spend time on her toes literally.

"I have to work on my saddlebags more than ever before," she said in Fitness magazine's April issue. "I get crazy over them because as a dancer I never had to think about that.'

The star of NBC's "Caroline in the City" gained 55 pounds while pregnant with her second child, Zoey, who is now a year old. She shed the excess with aerobics, sensible eating and patience.

To stay trim and cope with the demands of two children and a show in the Top 5, she walks a mile and a half, three times a week, while pushing 25-pound Zoey in her stroller.

"It's a killer walk," Thompson said. 'That's how I really stay fit, because it's up and down hills."

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. — One hand in a bandage still left Paul Newman with another hand to lend to the needy.

Paul Newman has one good hand to lend to the needy.

Newman joined about 20 Habitat Humanity volunteers Monday on a house-building project in a rundown neighborhood Newman, who broke a bone in his left hand in a car accident last month, used his right hand to wield a saw.

"I'm kind of limited in what I can do," he said. Nevertheless,

NEW YORK - Patty Hearst's life has been stranger than fiction, and now it's inspiring some.

The heiress-hostage-actress has been cast by quirky filmmaker John Waters in his next movie, the two told the Daily News recently.

Waters, a self-described trial junkie, attended Hearst's trial on charges of robbing a bank while a hostage of the Symbionese Liberation Army and has said he has a shelf full of books about her. He gave her a small part in his film "Serial Mom" as an unseasonably shod

The new movie is about a filmmaker from Baltimore - like Waters - who kidnaps his leading lady.

Men continue to hold top positions, earn largest salaries at colleges

HOUSTON (AP) — The gender gap has closed somewhat among the ranks of Texas college administrators, but men continue to command most top jobs and nearly all the highest salaries, the Houston Chronicle reported Sun-

Female administrators at public-supported Texas schools occupy only three of the 50 highest-paid jobs and earn an average annual salary of $82,609, far below the average salary of $102,604 earned by men, the newspaper found.

Those salary averages were skewed by the fact that no woman holds the position of chancellor within Texas' college districts and university systems. Few women have been named vice chancellors. Chancellors and vice chancellors. while few in number, are among the highest paid.

All 12 Texas university and college chancellors are men. Of the 120 individual community colleges and state universities, only 13 have female presidents.

"We used to say you could fit us all in a phone booth" said Ruth Person, vice president for academic affairs at Angelo State University. "But I think there are a few more of us than that now. Actually, there are 105 women working as top administrators. but that's still only 20 percent of all jobs in the institutions studied.

Information Act, examined the The Chronicle, using data salaries of 525 administrators with obtained under the Texas Public the rank of at least vice president.

This team is capable of going as far as they want to," Esikhati said. "It's a very balanced team offensively, defensively and in the midfield."

The Bulldogs play Sherman today in an area round playoff at 5 p.m. at the Lee Soccer Complex in Abilene.

Sherman should not pose a problem for Midland High. The Bearcats lost their first eight games of the year before finishing third in District 7 with a 5-3-2 mark. They placed behind Wichita Falls Rider and Wichita Falls High. Their coach, Chico Aleman, did not immediately return calls last week.

"As far as I know he has only four seniors on his team," Esikhati said.

■ Midland Lee girls seek first ever soccer playoff victory against Wichita Falls Rider.

By Stewart Doreen Sports Writer

When all is said and done, the Midland Lee girls playoff game versus Wichita Falls Rider might be the most important soccer game ever for the Lady Rebels.

If for nothing else today's area game at 5 p.m. on the Lee Athletic Complex fields in Abilene will be an indication of how far the Lady Rebels' soccer program has progressed as it goes for its first-ever playoff win and takes on a program that is traditionally one of the region's best.

Lee, 15-5, makes its return to the playoffs after its absence in 1995. The Lady Rebels finished the 1996 season as a trichampion of District 5 and was the first Lee team to win 15 games in one season. That was good, but a win today would be

The more they claim to be unconcerned with anyone else's opinion, the more they seem to have memorized every perceived slight. ### Odessa faces Midland teams in 4-5A race

By Sean Wallace

Sports Writer

Preseason predictions from coaches are, well, usually predictable. Every team is good, no one is terrible and any team can beat any other team on any given day. Then one team runs through the district like Sherman through Atlanta.

This year, the District 4-5A baseball race might be just as advertised.

Both Midland Lee and Midland High are coming off losses as they battle Odessa High and Odessa Permian today, respectively, in games which could go a long way in shaping the district's play-off race. In the district's only other game today, Abilene Cooper travels to San Angelo. Abilene High is off.

Lee (9-9-1 overall, 1-1 in district) takes on Odessa High (7-8, 0-2) at 4 p.m. at Ernie Johnson Field in a game the Rebels cannot afford to lose after dropping a 5-4 decision to Abilene High on Saturday. Lee hasn't lost two straight district games since 1992 and get the Bronchos and their sub-.500 record at the right

"It (the loss to Abilene High) was a heartbreaker, but we have to come back and play like we know we can play," Lee coach Jesse Benavidez said after the game. "We got our eight hits but they got 10 and beat us.

After a 7-6 pre-district schedule. Odessa High has fallen flat in district play. The Bronchos have been outscored 26-2 in losses to Permian and San Angelo and now face a Lee team with a .297 team batting average.

Free throws blunt Lady Horns' rally

Associated Press LAWRENCE, Kan. - Angie Halbleib and Charisse Sampson hit pressure free throws in the final minute to blunt a Texas rally and give Kansas a 77-70 victory Monday night in the second round of the NCAA East Regional.

The Lady Jayhawks (22-9), playing on their home court, never trailed and appeared in good shape after Jennifer Trapp scored five straight points to put them ahead 66-52 lead with 5:10

But after Kansas missed the front end of three straight 1-and-1s, the Longhorns (21-9) drew to 72-64 on three free throws by Erica Routt and Kim Lummus' 3-pointer. Sampson, with 55 seconds left, sank two free throws for the fourthseeded Lady Jayhawks, but Lummus

Halbleib fouled deliberately, then made two final free throws for the final margin, sending the Lady Jayhawks to the pext round in Charlottesville, Va.

Texas, trailing 42-27 at halftime, cut the lead to 61-52 with 6: 52 remaining on Lummus' 3-pointer and a free throw from Smith.

A moment later Trapp rebounded her own miss off a free throw and hit a 6-footer. Following a turnover by Texas' Danielle Viglione, Trapp took a good feed from Tamecka Dixon on the break and drove for a layup. Fouled by Angela Jackson, she sank the free throw to put the Lady Jayhawks on top 66-52.

Viglione, who hit seven of eight 3pointers and scored 25 points in Texas' first-round victory over Southwest Missouri State, tried only one shot in the first half and wound up with nine points on 3-of-8 shooting.

Dixon, who hit her first six shots and missed her next six, led Kansas with 18 points while Sampson and Halbleib each had 14 and Trapp 13. SFA 93, No. 14 Clemson 88

NBA suspends Rodman for six games, $200,000

By John F. Bonfatti Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Dennis Rodman's latest tirade will cost him six games and more than $200,000. It could cost the Chicago Bulls a chance to become the first NBA team to win 70 games.

Rodman, the league's leading rebounder and most volatile character, got a six-game suspension without pay and $20,000 fine Monday for head-butting a referee and other outbursts after being ejected from Saturday night's game.

'Physical assaults on referees cannot and will not be tolerated under any circumstances," NBA vice president Rod Thorn said.

Rodman's suspension was the third longest levied by the NBA. Kermit Washington was suspended for 26 games in 1977 for punching Rudy Tomjanovich, and Vernon Maxwell got a 10-game suspension last year for going into the stands and hitting a fan.

"You can see it built slowly because the referees are paying so much attention to him," Bulls center Bill Wennington said at the team hotel before Monday night's game against Philadelphia. "You know with his personality something's going to happen eventually."

Along with his $20,000 fine and an automatic $1,000 fine for his ejection, Rodman will lose about $34,500 in salary for each game he is suspended. That means the incident will cost him a total of $228,000.

It could also prove costly for the Bulls, who are on pace to break the record of 69 victories in a season by the 1971-72 Los Angeles Lakers. Without Rodman and ailing All-Star Scottie Pippen, who is expected to be sidelined for another week, Chicago (57-7) could be vulnerable as it plays three games in the next four

The Bulls must win 13 of their last 18 ames to set the record, beginning with Monday night's game.

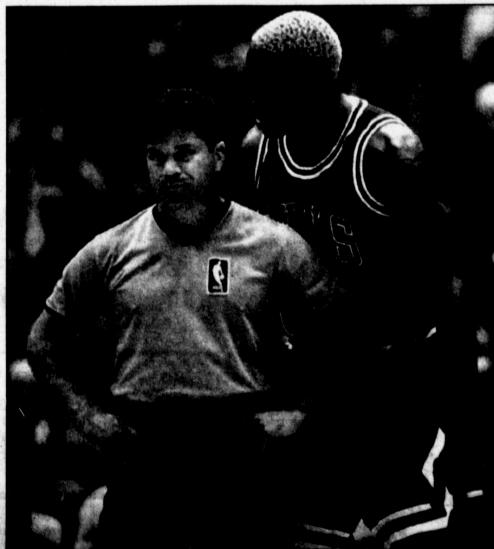

"As far as winning 70 it may hurt us," Bulls said center Luc Longley said at the team hotel. "But as far as down the stretch it may not be a bad thing."
After being ejected during the first quarter of a win over New Jersey, Rodman head-butted ref Ted Bernhardt, knocked over a water cooler, stripped off his jersey and shouted obscenities before leaving the court.

The suspension and fine reflect not only the head-butting, but the totality of his actions on the court," said Thorn, who was at the game and saw the tirade in

After the game, Bulls star Michael Jordan sáid he was concerned about Rodman's behavior.

"If he happens to get suspended, maybe this is the opening he needs to get himself back on line and focus on the game, and not the way he's being per-ceived," Jordan said.

Chicago Bull Dennis Rodman has been suspended by the NBA for six gar this altercation with referee Ted Bernhardt Sunday. Rodman was ejected after nical fouls in the first quarter against the New Jersey Nets.

Lady Bulldogs shoot for first place tie in 4-5A softball

By Stewart Doreen

Sports Writer

The Midland High softball team hasn't exactly played its best softball throughout the year, but it certainly has picked the best places to do so

If the Lady Bulldogs once again prove to be oppor-tunistic against San Angelo today at 4:30 p.m. at the Bill Williams Softball Complex, the result will be a share of the District 4-5A lead.

Midland High is coming into the game with a threegame district winning streak and wins last week over Odessa High and Abilene High. The win over Abilene High, like Odessa Permian two weeks ago, was one that contradicted results in early season tournaments.

Against AHS and Permian, Midland High is 3-5 for the season. In district, MHS is 2-0.

■ District 4-5A Softball

"That (game being a district game) has something to do with it," said MHS coach Ricci Woodard. "We are definitely a district team and not a tournament

The wins were also more than confidence builders. MHS showed progression with its work in the field. Woodard still hopes the bats will come to the plate.

Beating Abilene High was important. We were ready to play and we played the best defensively we have all year," said Woodard. "I still don't feel we are swinging the bats as well as we are capable of."

Midland High (16-7 for the year and 4-1 in 4-5A) hosts San Angelo (8-11 and 1-4) in the teams' first half finale. Midland High comes into this game as favorites and that is fine with Woodard. The thought of her team looking past the Lady Bobcats to Saturday's potential first place war with the cross town rival Midland Lee does not even cross her mind. "This is a game we are not going to look past," said Woodard. "I won't let them. We already tried looking past (Abilene) Cooper. Hopefully, we learned our

"There is not a game that you can go out for and not be prepared. You better show up every game." The main thing this weekend's play could produce is a three-way tie at the top of the top of the standings with MHS, Lee and Cooper. All three teams would be at 5-1 with six district games to go and make them in control of their own destinies for the playoffs. Woodard, however, would not be satisfied with just a playoff spot. Her focus, and the team's focus, is in on the district title, and this week will be a factor.

"I think it is good for the kids that they are capable of first place," said Woodard. "They know they should be 6-0. We are looking for nothing less than

Lee (16-3 and 5-1) has the open date on the district schedule. The Lady Rebels, who have won five straight in district and 10 straight overall, will play at Andrews today at 5: 30 p.m.

Abilene Cooper (10-6 and 4-1) will also try to grab a share of the district's top spot when it hosts Odessa Permian (13-4 and 3-2. A loss for Cooper will drop it into a tie for third with Permian.

SEC keeps all 4 teams in tourney

Associated Press

If this keeps up, the Final Four might look like another Southeastern Conference tournament.

While more publicized basketball leagues like the Big Ten have been major flops in the NCAA tour-nament, the SEC — a group more known for football — has placed all four of its teams in the round of 16.

No other conference has done as well. Not the Big East, generally conceded to be the best basketball league in the country. Not the Atlantic Coast Conference, where the sport is a second religion along Tobacco Road. And certainly not the Big Ten, which saw all five of its teams lose in the first two Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson, whose 12th-seeded team advanced to the East Regional semifinals with a pair of upsets, said television plays a big role in how conferences are perceived.

"The Big East is just the greatest conference, that's all you hear," he said. "They hardly ever say anything about the Southeastern Conference. Why? Because ... Florida is playing football, Alabama is playing football.'

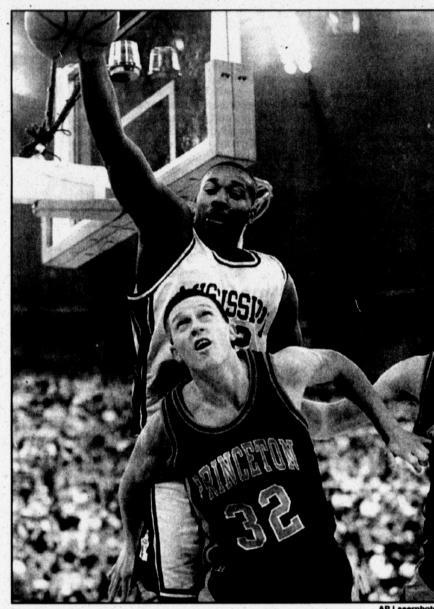

SEC coaches, after complaining all year there's more to their league than Kentucky, are loving every minute of the post-season

"I guess we just had some lucky bounces in this tournament," said Mississippi State coach Richard Williams, sarcasm dripping from every word after his Bulldogs advanced to the Southeast Regional semifinals. "Our league is so weak with Kentucky and the 11

Arkansas and Mississippi State are joined in the round of 16 by Kentucky, top seed in the Midwest, and Georgia, eighth seed in the West. No other conference has more than three teams still vying for a national championship. Kentucky was expected to make it this far after becoming the first SEC team in 40 years to go perfect in league play (16-0). The Wildcats were so dominating, in fact, that people assumed the other conference teams were pushovers.

"We've said all along we've got outstanding basketball league." Williams said, "but I five starters from last year's so dominant, it makes the rest of us look bad.

Mississippi State forward Tyrone Washington, back, is one of the reasons the SEC has all four teams in the round of the Sweet 16.

Still, there was evidence heading into the NCAA tournament that the SEC was more than a one-team phenomenon.

Mississippi State (24-7) was probably the best No. 5 seed in the field. The Bulldogs won the SEC tournament with an upset of Kentucky and have three star-quality players in Erick Dampier, Darryl Wilson and Dontae' Jones.

Georgia (21-9) was the most experienced team in the NCAA tournament with five senior starters. And its coach, Tubby Smith, has a knack of pushing teams to unexpected heights. He guided Tulsa to the regional semi-. finals the past two years.

No one, though, could have expected Arkansas (20-12) to get this far. The Razorbacks lost all think when you have a team like national runner-up team and were Kentucky in your league that's just a borderline pick even to receive a tournament bid.

Once they got in, though, it seemed like old times for Richardson and his lineup, which includes four freshmen. Arkansas upset fifth-seeded Penn State - one of two SEC victories in head-to-head match-ups with the Big Ten — and No. 4 Marquette to make the regional semifinals for the fourth year in a row.

The SEC's brilliant run in the tournament likely will come to an end this week. Next up for Arkansas is top-ranked Massachusetts (33-1), while Mississippi State gets Big East champion Connecticut (32-2). Georgia would probably have to get by Kansas (28-4) in the West finals to earn a trip to the Meadowlands. For now, though, they can still

But Ham said his team won so easily because it knew how well it could play, rather than discovered how well it could play when it won so easily.

"It was a huge statement for (the media)," Ham said. "But we already knew we were a quality ballclub. The guys were loose at breakfast and I could just tell we were going to play big. We weren't tight when we went through the pre-game warm-ups. We were loose and energetic, ready for the big-time.

And with Ham's spectacular dunk and the rout that followed, Tech moved from the last champion of the Southwest Conference to prime time.

The Red Raiders might have even done enough to draw attention in Lubbock worthy of the city's beloved Lady Raiders, who helped make Texas Tech one of only four schools — with Georgia, Connecticut and Kansas, who faced the Texas women's team Monday — to emerge from the weekend with its men's and wom-en's teams still playing.

But the now bright national spotight that focused on the Red Raiders as soon as Ham gave every Sunday evening sports broadcast the highlight it craves will continue to grow with a signature moment to sell, and a matchup with Georgetown and its celebrated and equally photogenic star, Allen Iverson.

But as they have throughout this greatest season ever for Tech, the Red Raiders insist they are ready for that, too.

'Going to the Sweet 16 and playing Georgetown and (coach) John Thompson is a great accomplishment for our program," Tech guard Cory Carr said. "This is

But as soon as he said that, he added the Red Raiders would not be any more in awe of the Hoyas than they were of North Carolina.

"When you go out and play, you're not playing the jersey or the tradition," he said as if such a failing was not possible. "You're playing the five guys on the court, our five against their five.'

Georgetown's five, backed by more than one team's share of reinforcements of almost equal ability, would seem a step up in weight class from Northern Illinois, whom Tech struggled to beat

Carolina team.

For perhaps the first time this season, Tech will face a team as muscular up front, especially when the 6-9, 270 Jahidi White joins the lineup with Othella Har-rington and Jerome Williams. Iverson, a first-team All American, likely will be the best player the Red Raiders have faced.

Like North Carolina, Georgetown likely will start the game in a zone to test Tech's outside shooting, spectacular Sunday but inconsistent the past several weeks. "They're a big, strong, physical basketball team," Tech coach James Dickey said "They wear you down. And they have a great player in Iverson who can beat you in so many ways. They play excellent defense, can pressure you and keep running a lot of people.'

But no less an authority on this time of year than North Carolina coach Dean Smith, who had just

Friday, and a rebuilding North failed to bring a team to this stage of the Tournament for the second time in 16 years, eschewed talk of Ham's dunk and Tech's 3-point shooting to marvel at its defense.

"I prefer to talk about the defense of a senior team," he said. 'This is their fourth year (Tech starts four seniors, though only two, Sasser and Koy Smith have been at Tech for four seasons) and they know what they want.

'Georgetown better watch out." For a coach who openly said he had his team dare Sasser and point guard Jason Martin to shoot outside, and who said he didn't think Martin could handle his point guard, Jeff McInnis, the statement was revealing.

And it did not sound as if he was merely being polite to the team that had just so soundly beaten his, given his long friendship with Thompson.

It sounded more like another doubter that had been converted.

Wherever you go, keep kids close with KidTrack

There are moments when you can't hold your children close enough. Those are precious.

Much of life, however, demands parents and children to be apart; kids at school, day care, the ball field, while Mom and Dad are at work, the store or an important meeting. How can they reach you if you're between sales calls or in a meeting away from the phone?

If you had a pager, it would be easy to keep in touch. That's why AirTouch Paging introduces KidTrack, which they call the original pager for parents.

For a monthly cost of just $11.95 (plus pager ownership and a small activation fee) KidTrack gives you the peace of mind that you're no more than a phone call away from handling any need that may arise. Whether it's the school nurse calling about a child's sudden illness, or simply a change in the schedule for an after school practice, you'll know immediately and can react accordingly.

KidTrack is special because you also get a voice mailbox, called AirTalk. With AirTalk, the caller hears your personal greeting and instructions to either punch in a return phone number or leave a voice message, which you can retrieve and act on without necessarily having to call them back.

When you receive a voice message, your pager will alert you to call your pager number. When you do, you'll enter your personal security code, and retrieve your message.

You might hear, "Mr. Everett, this is the school nurse. I'm afraid Billy has come down with a fever. Can you come take him home?" Or "Hey, Mom, this is Sara. I forgot to tell you, soccer practice lasts

The range is approximately a 30 mile radius, allowing you to keep in touch as you roam the area.

Will Russell, Branch Manager for AirTouch Paging, recommends giving your pager number to anyone who has charge of your children at any time. "This includes teachers, nurses, coaches, daycare workers, anyone who might need to contact you about your child at any time you can't be there," he says.

Also, anyone with elderly parents or grandparents, especially if they're living alone, is bound to be concerned about their health and safety. KidTrack can help them reach you when you're away from a phone.

Does your office restrict incoming personal calls? KidTrack can be the answer, allowing you to return calls or get messages during break or lunch time.

In business in Midland for 40 years, the folks at AirTouch Paging realize that your KidTrack pager is a vital link between you and your family. That's why they employ state-of-the-art hardware and software, with complete backup systems for parts and power, so that this vital link is not broken.

KidTrack costs less per day than a cup of coffee. Isn't it worth that much to know your kids can reach you when they need you?

AirTouch Paging, in West Texas for 40 years, is part of a global company with offices in Midland, Odessa, Big Spring and all over the United States, Europe and Asia. In addition to KidTrack, they offer other programs and a wide assortment of pagers to meet your communication needs. Call them at 570-5151. They are located at 710 W. Washington, across from the County Tax Assessor's office.

Wherever you are, KidTrack from AirTouch Paging keeps you in touch with your children or other family members. As this mom says, "They're why I bought a pager."

The body shop features state of the art equipment and training in the hands of two "old pros," who between them have 45 years' experience in various aspects of paint and body work.

Body shop manager Ruben Leal says of his 25 years in body work, "It's all I've ever done. My dad was also in the body shop business." Painter Manny Olivas has seen paint methods change and improve greatly in his 20 years of painting. Whether your vehicle is old or new, he'll know how to handle the painting.

Leal, Olivas and crew can handle any size job from minor dings to complete restorations. They can add sparkle to a vehicle with pin striping or window tinting. Their detail work can make a vehicle shine.

Save energy costs, add beauty and value to your home

You have windows in order to let some things in: sunshine, fresh air or the music of songbirds. Other things that come in are not so welcome: dust, extreme heat or cold, the barking of a neighbor's dog. In fact, dust and temperature extremes are not only a nuisance, they can cost you money.

Neil Letkeman of Lifetime Siding offers cost-effective solutions in the form of double-glass insulated storm windows, as well as storm doors. These windows and doors put you back in control of what comes into your home.

"Seventy percent of energy loss from a home goes out through doors and windows," he said. "Insulated storm windows and doors can greatly reduce this loss.'

You'll also save money on maintenance, because these windows and doors come in aluminum or vinyl frames that never need painting.

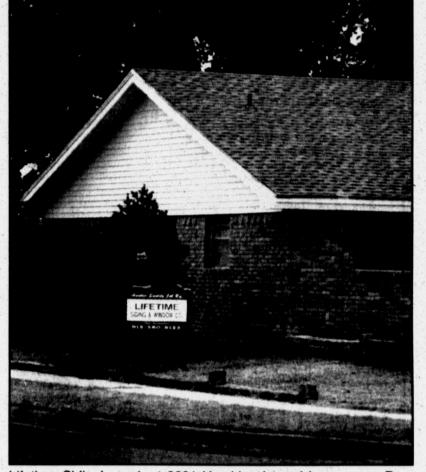

Lifetime has insulated storm windows starting as low as $150.

If you have an older home with wooden sashes that are either stuck or painted shut, window replacement becomes a safety factor: in case of fire or other emergency, storm windows allow you a sure escape route.

New windows also add to a home's appearance, and therefore to its value. As Letkeman points out, "Windows are the one improvement that helps a home's appearance inside and outside at e same time.

Hate to clean windows? Have some upstairs windows you can't get to without endangering life and limb? Lifetime can install windows that allow you to tilt-in the pane so you can reach and clean both sides of the glass from inside your house.

Astro hurler a real jewel

KISSIMMEE, Fla. (AP) — Some major-league players wear garish gold chains, flashy pendants or other jewelry during games. John Hudek has taken that custom to a new level.

The Houston Astros reliever, who had a rib removed last year to allow better circulation in his pitching arm, has fashioned a necklace out of the detached bone. The rib, about three inches long, hangs on a chain.

"I've had two sides of opinion," Hudek said. "One side says, 'That's the most disgusting thing I've ever seen,' and the other side thinks it's kind of cool. I like it and I plan on wearing it.

Hudek has shown an unusual attachment to the bone since it was surgically removed last July 18. At first, he carried it around in a jar. Later, he decided to keep it even closer.

"I wanted to see it every day to remind me what I went through and how close my career came to being over," he said. Hudek has been doing the unexpected since taking over as the Astros' closer in 1994, when he became the fifth player in majorleague history to make the All-Star team in the same season he was promoted from the minors.

He had 16 saves in 42 appearances, a 2.97 ERA and finished second to Raul Mondesi of the Dodgers in voting for rookie of the Hudek started last season with nine consecutive scoreless appearances over 10.1 innings. He notched two wins and six saves through June 3 but struggled over his next seven appearances, allowing 11 earned runs. His earned-run average jumped from 0.68 to 5.40.

That's when Hudek's problem was traced to the uppermost rib on his right side. Doctors said the bone was squeezing a vein and had to come out.

The surgery corrected the circulation problem, and Hudek started spring training well. He has been sidelined since Thursday, however, with a pulled muscle on the left side of his chest, leaving his opening-day availability in ques-

General manager Gerry Hunsicker is at least pleased that Hudek's arm is sound.

"The thing that was encouraging to me about Hudek is that this wasn't an arm injury," Hunsicker said. "It's not like they went in there to fix a rotator cuff or some other part of the shoulder.

was still laid off eight months, and that's just as severe as an arm injury because my muscles aren't as strong as they were," Hudek said. "I may have more dead-arm periods than usual.

He insists he won't try to rush back too soon.

"I don't want to go out there and not be ready," he said. "I would miss the first two weeks of the season to make sure I could finish the season healthy, rather than start the season and hurt myself.'

Beam collapses at Olympic site

ATLANTA (AP) - A steel beam designed to support the temporary roof over part of the Georgia Tech Aquatic Center to be used in the Summer Olympics collapsed Monday shortly after it was installed.

No one was hurt, and Olympic officials began an investigation of the failure.

The temporary roof is being constructed over an area where bleachers for 11,000 will be installed. Another 4,000 seats exist under the permanent roof.

president John Helmark O'Brien said it was too early to tell why the two steel pieces that make up the long-span truss girder collapsed about 6 p.m.

There was little wind at the time and "it collapsed under its own weight," O'Brien said. "We used our standard procedure and it fell down. Thank God nobody got hurt.' After preliminary reviews, officials of the Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games said the col-lapse should not pose a problem for the Games. 'This might put us a few days later than we thought, but it will be open for the Games," said A.D.

construction. Federal safety investigators found that a fatal accident last year at the 85,000-seat main Olympic Stadium was caused by a major mathematical error by an engineer. An ironworker was killed when a light tower col-

GM, UAW continue talks to end strike

By N.Y. Times News Service

Dayton, Ohio — General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers continued marathon negotiations aimed at ending a strike that's taking a mounting toll on GM and its suppliers — and has GM competitors poised to steal business from the automaker.

The biggest UAW action against GM since 1970 pushed its layoffs to 150,050 workers, as the company announced the closing of its 25th North American assembly plant, leaving it with just one plant making passenger vehicles.

The world's largest automaker headed into the strike with enough vehicles to withstand up to a month of limited production, analysts said. But as the strike enters its third week today, spot short-ages could start sending some buyers to Chrysler Corp. and Ford Motor Co. deal-

"There's going to be a lull in produc-tion that Ford and Chrysler could take advantage of," said Steve Kosowski, manager of market analysis at Auto Pacific Inc. in Santa Ana, California. Chrysler today reported it will boost second-quarter production by 25 percent from a year ago, an increase analysts attributed partly to the GM strike.

Still, any gains by other automakers at GM's expense won't last long, said David Cole, director of the University of Michigan's Office for the Study of Automotive

If GM comes out of this strike with the ability to control more of its pricing, which is what it wants, then competitors stand to lose." Cole said.

GM typically makes a third of all pas-senger vehicles produced in the U.S. With GM production virtually halted, an increasing number of suppliers and their employees also are feeling the impact. Caterpillar Inc. said Monday it will close an engine assembly line and lay off 115 workers at a plant in Mossville, Illinois, starting next Monday. The plant supplies engines for GM Kodiak and GMC TopKick medium-duty trucks. In addition, steel producers said GM the largest buyer of U.S. steel, had begun to ask them to stop shipping steel.

The costs are rising for GM too. The lost car and truck production, probably about 93,000 units through last weekend, has cost the automaker $260 million in profit, said Burnham Securities analyst David Healy.

Delays in resuming production once the strike is settled could cost GM another $300 million, Healy estimated.

"If settled fairly quickly, it might take $550 million or $560 million out of first-quarter earnings, some of which they could make up in the second quarter," Healy said.

Many investors seemed to switch 180 degrees from last week's upbeat assessment of the economy, concluding the outlook isn't so robust.

'It's the biggest mystery since the murder on the Orient Express," said Larry Wachtel, a market analyst at Prudential Securities in New York.

Stocks and bonds benefit from the sense that the economy is moderating, because it suggests that the Federal Reserve still has room to lower interest rates, if not next week at the Federal Reserve's upcoming policy meeting, then sometime soon.

Investors made that conclusion even after the National Association of Home Builders, a private group, said its monthly gauge of home sales shot up in March, a suggestion of strength and inflationary Advancing issues led decliners by 7 to 3 on the New York Stock Exchange. Big Board volume was moderately heavy after last week's record highs, with a revised 436.64 million shares having changed hands.

Broad market indexes, while they all rose, closed short of record highs.

The NYSE's composite index rose 5.39 to 348.78. The Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 11.22 to 652.65.

The Nasdag composite index rose 14.83 to 1,114.42, while the American Stock Exchange's market value index rose 3.27 to 564.78.

Stocks got help from bonds. The 30-year benchmark Treasury bond was up 13-32 point late in the day, pushing its yield, which moves opposite the price, down to 6.70 percent from 6.73 percent late Fri-

Bonds rose amid mounting consensus that recent economic data, including last Friday's release of a surge in industrial production and a big gain in new jobs announced March 8, were a falsely enthusiastic reading on the strength of the economy. Those reports had sent bond prices tumbling and dragged stocks down with them.

But on Monday, economists were allowing that "it's not as black and white as has been painted with the recent backup in yields," Wachtel said. "Some very savvy people are saying hey it's time to buy the bonds."

The magazine also named the 1996 Mercedes E-Class midsized sedan, below, the best vehicle, regardless of price, of the year. Hightech features have helped narrow the differences between car brands, but Japanese automakers still hold the edge in average reliability, the magazine said Monday in its annual auto issue.

Japanese cars still have edge on reliability

DETROIT (AP) — Japanese cars still hold the edge in reliability, but computers on American vehicles are narrowing the gap, Consumer Reports said Monday.

Acura and Infiniti, the luxury lines of Honda and Nissan, were the brands with the fewest problems reported by owners. General Motors' Saturn and Geo were best among American brands. Volvo and BMW were the most reliable Euro-

"The high-tech-ness creates a performance level that's pretty comparable across the board," said Bob Knoll, who runs the magazine's auto testing program. "We used to rate something called 'drivability' — cars used to stumble, stall, have trouble starting. Today's cars are running extremely well.

The coughing, sputtering, surging and slow starting that once plagued some cars and trucks have nearly disappeared from today's new vehicles, thanks to onboard computers aimed at reducing pol-

Brakes are another area where technology has evened out the competition. Knoll said anti-lock brakes work so well 'it has made our brake testing even more routine than ever before.

Consumers Reports' auto issue, which goes on sale March 26, analyzes problems owners have had with hundreds of car and truck models and combines the data with results of Consumer Reports tests. Problems can range from a dashboard that rattles to an engine that doesn't run. For the 1995 model year, the magazine

 Average reliability, measured by owner reports of problems, was 28 problems per 100 cars, about one problem for every four owners.

■ Japanese brands averaged about 17 problems per 100 cars, about one problem for every five owners. ■ The Big Three domestic automakers, GM, Ford and Chrysler, average about 33 problems per 100 cars - one for every three owners - and were comparable to each other in overall quality. ■ As a group, European automakers were about the same as their American competitors in terms of reliability. In 1980, Consumer Reports surveys found that buyers of American cars reported 70-plus problems per 100 cars, while buyers of Japanese cars reported fewer than 50 Consumers Reports testers also keep track of the problems they find in the American cars they buy to test. Fifteen years ago, it was not uncommon for a new vehicle to have 20, 30 or 40 defects, Knoll said. "Now, it's two or three," he Automakers pay attention to what Consumer Reports says about their products because for some consumers, the annual auto issue is the buyer's bible.

'There are people who come into dealerships and carry a copy of Consumer Reports," said William J. O'Neill, director of product public relations for General Motors in North America. "If you have a 'recommended' rating from Consumer Reports, it has a favorable effect on sales of your vehicle."

Move annuity when withdrawal penalty hits zero

By Bill Doyle

Q: One of my individual retirement accounts is in an annuity, which has a declining withdrawal penalty. The penalty will reach zero in three more years. Should I leave this term investments and retirement nest eggs, because of the commission costs involved in such moves, yours is an example of the type of situation in which I say go ahead and switch - when that penalty hits the zero mark.

You apparently have an annuity on which no commission was charged at the time you purchased it. Instead, a withdrawal penalty is levied if you cash out within a specified period. The typical "back-end load" starts at 6 percent to 8 percent and declines 1 percentage point a year until it disap-

Although your letter doesn't specifically say so, we'll assume you would get hit with a penalty equal to 3 percent of the annuity's value by cashing out now. That's too stiff so stick it out.

After the penalty disappears, move that IRA through a trustee-to-trustee transfer to some organization where you won't be clobbered with large fees. A true no-load mutual fund would be a good choice.

You never should have put that annuity in your IRA, which is a tax-deferred investment. An annuity also is taxdeferred. There's no good reason to fund your tax-deferred IRA with anoth-

Q: I need help as to the best move on an IRA certificate of deposit that matures next month. It has been at a bank, at 8 percent, for eight years.

A: If you want the rock-solid Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. coverage or the equally safe protection of the National Credit Union Share Insurance Fund, which back deposits in each bank, savings and loan association and credit union up to $100,000 per deposi-tor, you have to stick with banks, S&Ls and credit unions with FDIC or NCUSIF membership.

Just don't expect to get 8 percent on your money. Interest rates are down. As a general rule of thumb, the longer the CD's maturity, the higher its interest rate. But there are exceptions; it pays to shop around

Q: I will reach age 59 1/2 this year, which means I can make withdrawals from my IRA without tax penalty. What would the tax consequences be if I withdraw $100,000 from my IRA this

A: First off, there is no 38 percent federal income tax bracket. Those brackets — technically known as 'marginal tax rates' - are 15, 28, 31,

36 and 39.6 percent That's the rate at which you pay federal income tax on your highest dollar amount of taxable income — after all deductions, exemptions, exclusions and

Under present law, with combined salaries of $137,000, and a reasonable amount of deductions, etc., on a joint return, you two most hield are in the 31 percent bracket. A $100,000 IRA withdrawal undoubtedly would put you in the 36 percent bracket — increasing the amount you owe the Internal Revenue Service by $36,000

The $100,000 increase in your taxable income would be partly offset by the fact that you no longer will be collecting a $57,000 salary.

I won't even try to guess how much the Internal Revenue would nick you for if you hold off on IRA withdrawals until you retire. With no information about your other finances and not knowing the exact changes that will be made in the Internal Revenue Code by the year 1999, I can say only that you likely will be able to relax and retire in comfort.

WOMEN: Lady Vols swamp Ohio State in second round

(From 1C)

Regional.

The Ladyjacks (27-3), the 11th seed, next face second-seeded Georgia on their home court in Nacogdoches, Texas, site of the regional finals.

It didn't look like they would get that chance when Clemson's Amy Geren hit a go-ahead 3-pointer and two free throws to give the Tigers an 82-78 lead in the final minute of regulation.

Then Price took a pass near center court, dribbled right and stuck her third 3-pointer of the game. She took the opening overtime tap in for a layup and followed that with a steal for another basket and an 87-83 lead.

Geren, who finished with 28 points, had a chance to tie with 17 seconds left in overtime, but her 3pointer glanced off the right side of the basket.

It was the first time the Lady-jacks had won two NCAA games in their 11 tournament appearances. Tennessee 97, Ohio St. 65

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. - Latina Davis scored a career-high 25 points and top-seeded Tennessee shot 59 percent from the floor to pound Ohio State.

The Lady Vols (28-4) ran their record in NCAA games in Knoxville to 28-0 and advanced to the regional semifinals in Charlottesville, Va., on Saturday against either Kansas or Texas. The Lady Vols now have reached at least the round of 16 in all 15 NCAA tournaments.

Ohio State (21-13), the region's ninth seed, was led by Katie Smith with 29 points and Adrienne John-Davis hit 12 of 17 shots and added five rebounds and an assist as the Lady Vols outrebounded Ohio State 39-32 and forced Ohio State into 18 turnovers.

Freshman Chamique Holdsclaw hit 8-of-11 from the floor and scored 20 points for Tennessee. Old Dominion 72, Toledo 66 NORFOLK, Va. — A key steal by Ticha Penicheiro with 2 1/2 minutes to play and a followup basket by Esther Benjamin stifled a late Toledo rally and Old Dominion held on for an NCAA East Regional second-round victory.

The victory puts the sixth-ranked Lady Monarchs (29-2) into a quarterfinal match Saturday gainst 11th-ranked Virginia in charlottesville.

Before Penicheiro's steal, the Rockets (25-6) had cut a 21-point deficit to single digits in the final 10 minutes behind Kim D'Angelo and Heather Smith, who led an eight-point Toledo run.

The Rockets pulled close again in the final half-minute, but free throws by Benjamin, a senior reserve playing her final game at the Old Dominion Field House, kept the Lady Monarchs in front.

Benjamin and Clarisse Machanguana each scored 16 points for Old Dominion, and Penicheiro added 15. Benjamin led in rebounding with 10.

Raiders are veterans of playoff competition having lost to Arlington Martin three years in a row and 3-0 in the 1995 regional semifinals. This season, Rider went to the Metroplex area to beef up on its non-district schedule. Games against Top 10 programs in the Dallas-Fort Worth area like Ursuline, Highland Park, Carrollton Newman Smith, Allen and Plano gave the Lady Raiders the competition they feel will help them in this season's playoffs. Its record against those teams was 0-2-3.

"We are hoping to get in that position to face Martin," said Rider coach Carl Wiersema. "They have put us out three years in a loaded with offensive power. Lee's Christi Johnson was the district's second leading goal scorer (16) and Angie Boyd has eight goals and a Rider had a big hole to fill when made up for her loss, led by Lynette Osborne (19) and Teresa Vise (13). With the talent that both teams have, that means controlling the play of the game will be a key.

"Their best player is in the midfield and we have a good midfield," said Angie Boyd. "Our midfield can compare to anyone else's in the district.

Lee's defense, which has given up .9 goals a game, will have to be up to the task.

The games our midfield has dominated are games we con-trolled," said Gravitt. "Defensively, we have to make sure we have no mental breakdowns. You can't spot anything to a team like this."

Wierson says his team do not depend on any one facet of the game, but goes at the other team's

"We have a lot of speed and everybody plays hard," said Wiersema. "We read what a team will give us and we will try to attack its weaknesses."

Considering the difference in playoff experience between the two teams, getting on the board first could be a huge advantage. That will not be easy. Rider has not given up a goal in two years of district play and posted eight shutouts this season.

Another aspect of this game is that no District 5 team has ever beaten a Wichita Falls school in the playoffs. Last season Abilene Cooper fell to Rider 1-0 in an overtime sectional bout. That would make a win over Rider even bigger

"We also want to play Cooper last season's scorer Nicole Shook again," said Boyd. "They (Cooper) graduated and took her game to think we are going to lose and they

Furious Serbs loot district before leaving

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) - In new scenes of anarchy and terror, furious Serbs tossed grenades and set more buildings ablaze Monday before fleeing a Sarajevo suburb. NATO-led troops seized arsonists and a policeman who tried to rape a woman, but Serb police freed them immediately.

International soldiers and police monitors ducked in and out of burning buildings in Grbavica, helping to rescue residents intent on staying in Sarajevo's last Serb district to be handed over to Muslim-Croat control.

Fearful residents barricaded themselves in their homes, hoping to avoid arsonists and looters before the handover at 6 a.m. Tuesday, when Sarajevo will be unified for the first time since April 1992.

Fires forced others into the streets. "This is hell!" shouted one elderly woman as she ran out of her blazing apart-

Groups of thugs drove around in vehicles and threw hand grenades, according to international police monitors. One exploded close to a safe house set up by the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, where 21 people sought shelter Monday night.

'There's a lot of burning and people are terrified," said Dr. Reinkard Hecker, a doctor with the U.N. agency. By evening more than a dozen houses and buildings - including parts of the police academy were ablaze.
