Commissary renovation begins

by Sgt. Steve Holmes

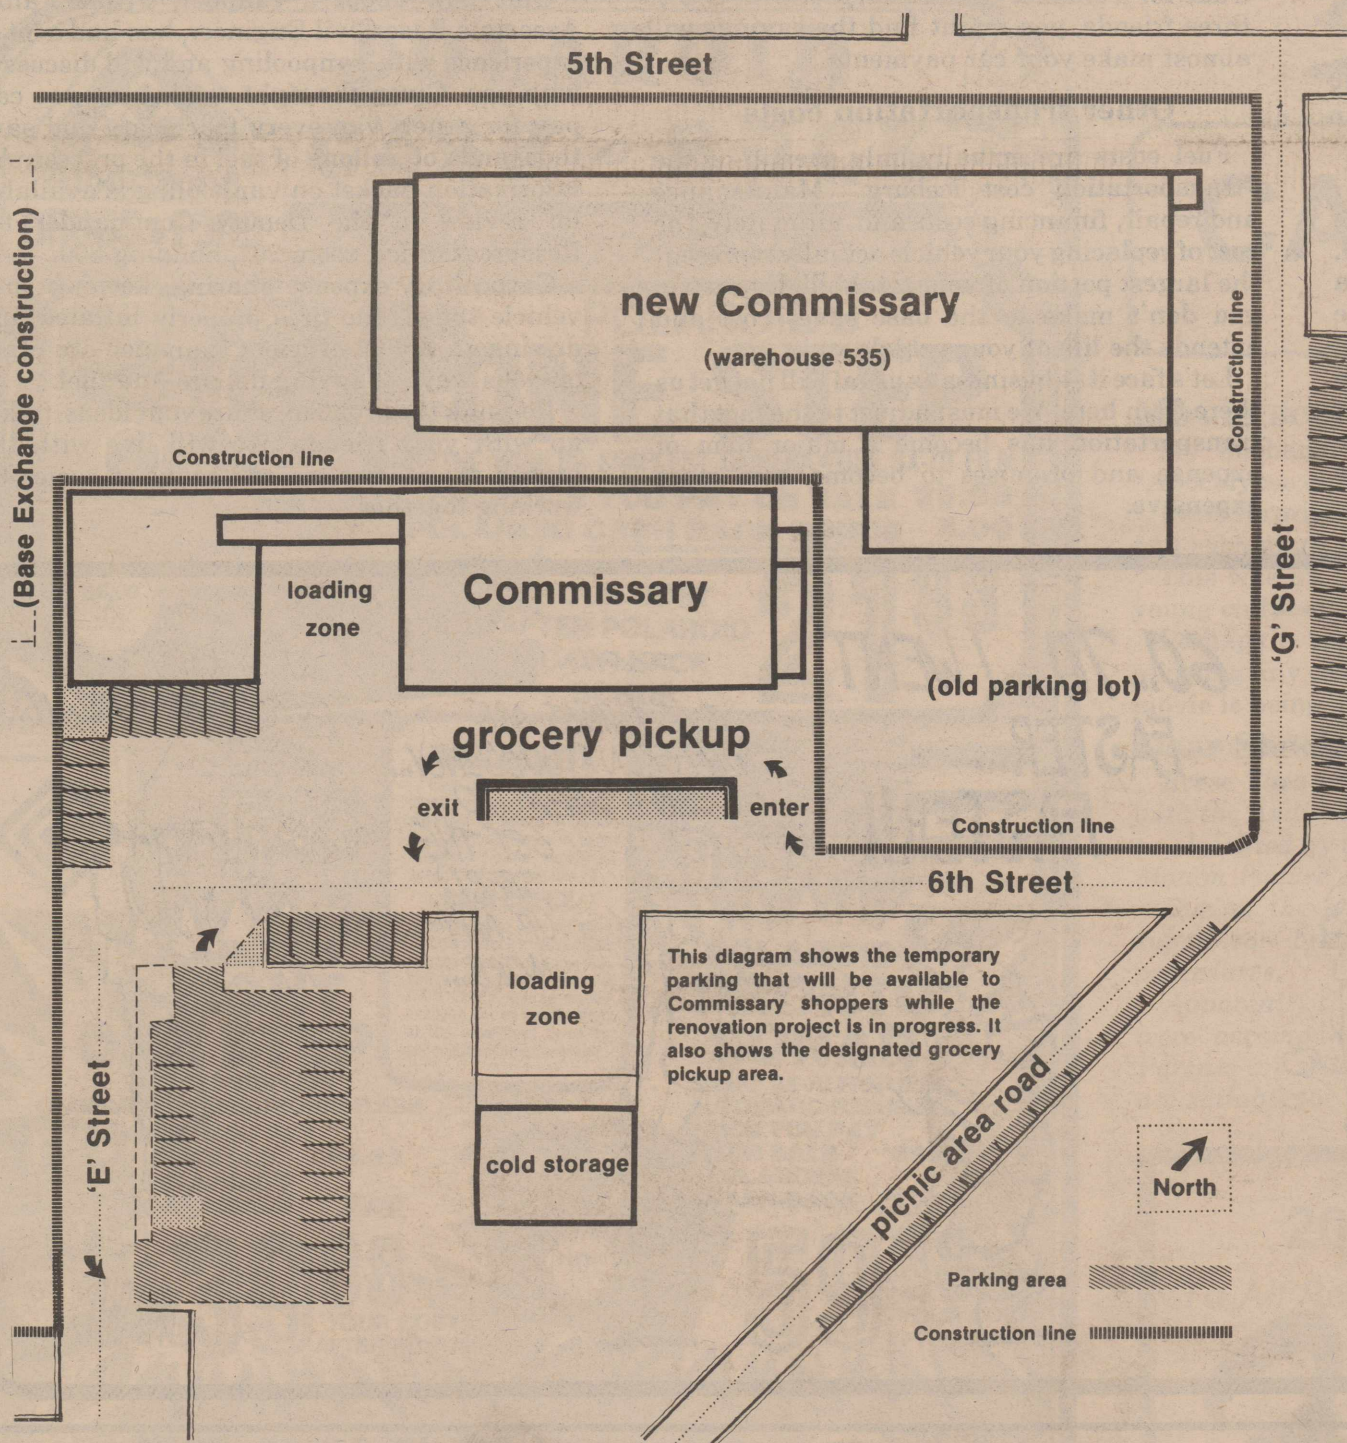

After an almost six-month delay brought about by lack of funding, construction of the new family shopping center finally began Wednesday.

According to Maj. John Harvell, chief of Services division, Reese shoppers should be able to enjoy the new facility in approximately one year. But in the meantime things are going to be a little inconvenient.

Only 33 parking spaces will be available for commissary patrons and a drive-to-the-door pick up system will be used. When the new facility, which will offer both commissary and exchange facilities in a landscaped mall, is complete adequate parking will be obtained by tearing down the old building and using the area as a new parking lot.

The multi-million dollar project (the commissary facility alone will cost $1.7 million) will offer almost double the floor space in the commissary and consolidate and expand base exchange facilities that are now widely scattered. Store space in the commissary will reach 16,000 square feet while storage and processing area will total 23,000.

Although the commissary and exchange will be combined into one shopping center, the contracts are being let by two different agencies. Commissary Service is handling the commissary project while the Army and Air Force Exchange Service is building the new exchange.

This diagram shows the temporary parking that will be available to Commissary shoppers while the renovation project is in progress. It also shows the designated grocery pickup area.

Easter bunnies and all that stuff!

by Chaplain (Lt. Col.)
Arnold G. Johnson

Many children throughout the United States will be excited about the prospect of hunting for the "special egg" that has been hidden in the field amongst all the other eggs some day this week.

It may mean a free pass to the movies . . . or a five dollar bill donated by some thoughtful gentlemen to spread good cheer . . . or it may mean that the prize may be put up on a shelf to be cherished for years to come. Think of the glory of it . . . finding the golden egg at the annual Easter Egg Hunt?!!

Main event?

Unfortunately, from the Christian perspective, all too many children . . . and adults, think the egg hunt is the main event for the Easter Season. Or, the emphasis for some folks is upon the new stylish outfit that has been added to the wardrobe for the occasion.

Easter, like Christmas, can become the victim of the commercial world that only wants to make money at the expense of the Christian holiday. In a way, the tarnished tinsel from the Christmas past can be seen in the background of the decorations for the Easter displays.

Now, every reader must remember that I write today from the point of view of the Christian Pastor . . . especially when I say that the only reason for the Easter celebration today is to first bring the reminder to all the world that "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son." That's the message . . . God's Son who was born into the world . . . beaten and crucified by the world . . . was raised from the dead in order that all who believed in Him might be returned unto God in victory.

No misunderstanding

Secondly, people all over the world will come together in churches to give thanks and sing praise to God. In spite of the many different denominations and many different understandings of the practical nature of Christianity, there is no misunderstanding of this central, crucial element to Easter! Jesus Christ, who was killed by the mob who rejected Him, was raised from the dead . . . and as He promised . . . all who believe in Him as the raised victor will join with Him in that victory over death . . . for eternity.

So, forgive me if I shouldn't get too excited about the egg hunts . . . or the latest Easter fashions. You see, I have something infinitely more important on my mind. What I share with you lasts for an eternity . . . not just until the next household cleaning, or change in fashion.

Say a Hosanna with me on Easter Sunday won't you, and share the real meaning of Easter.

Chaplain Johnson

Carpooling makes 'cents' for you.

by Maj. Roy Markle

How far do you live from Reese — 10, 15, 20 or even 30 miles? Are you finding it more difficult each month to pay off that oil company credit card bill?

Transportation, if you hadn't already noticed, has become a major item of expense in most households.

Numbers tell story

In response to skyrocketing expenses, carpooling and expense sharing have become a way of life for most of us. The numbers tell the story. If your car gets 12 miles per gallon, fuel alone will cost you $40 to $80 per month. You might trade for a smaller, more fuel efficient automobile and reduce your fuel costs to $25 to $60 per month, but will the savings pay for the car before it is ready for the junk heap?

Simple arithmetic will tell you that by trading rides with a friend, you can cut your fuel costs in half and keep your present car. Of course, if you trade for a smaller car and carpool with two or three friends, you might find the savings will almost make your car payments.

Other transportation costs

Fuel costs are actually only the tip of the "transportation cost iceberg." Maintenance and repair, financing costs and, ultimately, the cost of replacing your vehicle actually represent the largest portion of your total bill. Every trip you don't make to the base saves cost and extends the life of your vehicle.

Let's face it — business as usual will not get us there from here. We must adjust to the fact that transportation has become a major item of expense and promises to become even more expensive.

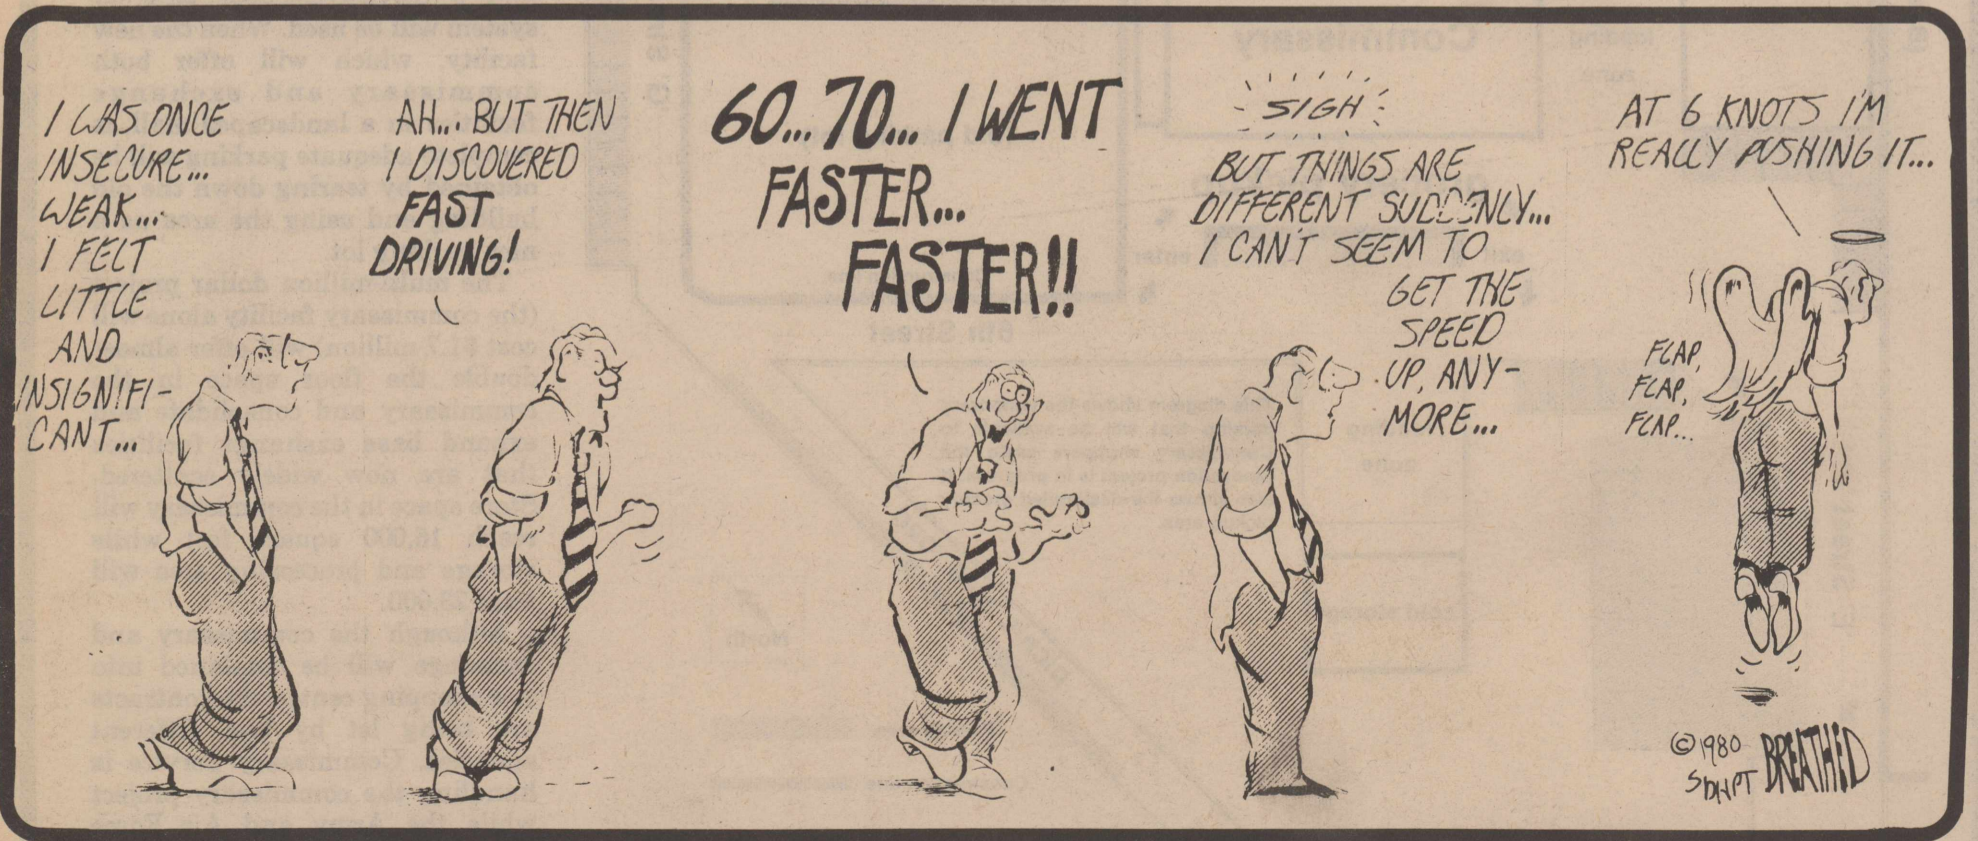

Cost saving suggestions

Here are a few suggestions to start you thinking about things we might do.

One, how about a vanpool? Frank Falbo, Associate Base Civil Engineer, has had a lot of experience with vanpooling and will discuss it with you. Given the right conditions, you can pay for a new van every four years and save thousands of gallons of fuel in the process. An information packet on vanpooling is available for review in the Deputy Commander for Resources office, room 207, building 800.

Carpooling, expense sharing, keeping your vehicle tuned, the tires properly inflated and driving in a fuel efficient manager are other obvious ways of saving dollars and fuel.

Re-think the problem, share your ideas, talk it up with your friends. We will live with the higher prices, but we can make it easier by working together.

The worst government . . .

Keeping track of the schedules of the 1980 primaries leading to the Nov. 4 general elections would seem to bear out the gloomy observation of Sir Winston Churchill.

"It has been said that democracy," the British World War II leader noted, "is the worst form of government, except all those other forms that have been tried . . ."

Dates for primary elections in the United States and its possessions cover a crazy-quilt pattern throughout the year.

The primary season is underway. Pennsylvania will hold its primary April 22 and 10 other states will hold primaries in May. There will be 12 in June, seven in August, and 23 in September.

Offices at stake in the November elections will include the president of the United States, a third of the members of the Senate, all members of the House of Representatives, numerous governors, state legislators and local officials.

Each eligible Air Force member is urged to vote — military, civilian, family member.

The key to registration and voting for members assigned away from home is the Federal Post Card Application for absentee ballot. Information on use of the FPCA and specific dates and requirements for primary election registration is available from unit voting officers.

See your unit voting officer today.

FPCAs are no good if not used.

And not voting can create the worst form of government of all. (AFNS editorial)

Movie scene

My husband and I went to the base theater to see "Apocalypse Now."

I was surprised to see so many children under the age of 17 and even more shocked at the number under the age of 10.

This was an "R" rated movie. Does the base not protect young children against seeing such objectionable material?

Perhaps a base rating system could be established not allowing any child into the base theater any time an R rated movie is being shown.

Dear Shocked

Reese Theater personnel make every effort in complying with the Audience-Suitability Ratings scheduled by AAFES as classified by the Code and Rating Administration of the Motion Picture Association of America.

During the showing of "Apocalypse Now" the theater supervisor briefed his personnel and enforced correct procedures.

Apparently the children you observed under the age of 17 were accompanied by their parents or adult guardian. Parents are still responsible for determining which movies are suitable for viewing by their dependents.

Fund drive succeeds!

Final results of the annual Air Force Assistance Fund campaign show that Reese people dug deep in order to put the base over the top with $14,460.44, 155 percent of their goal.

According to Capt. Roger Hollowell, AFAF project officer, small amounts of money are still expected to trickle in, but the campaign officially ended Monday.

Although one squadron did not quite reach their total, three units exceeded 200 percent of their goal. The 3500th Resource Management Squadron led the race with an impressive 239 percent for a total of $601. Organizational Maintenance followed closely on the heels of the leader with 214 percent of their goal for a total of $1,955.44.

The 54th Student Squadron collected $4,292 for 209 percent of their goal.

Other final standings include the 1958th Communications Squadron, 188 percent ($378); 64th Supply, 163 percent ($562.50); Air Base Group, 145 percent ($1,308.50); 54th Flying Training Squadron, 140 percent ($1,520); Hospital, 135 percent ($1,008); 35th Flying Training Squadron, 127 percent ($1,356).

Rounding out the figures were Wing Staff, 122 percent ($113); Deputy Commander for Operations Staff, 108 percent ($637) and Field Maintenance, 89 percent ($1,107).

In reporting the final figures to the Roundup, Captain Hollowell stated, "I'd like to give a great big 'thank you' from the Air Force Assistance Fund and myself for the support Reese people have shown."

AF official calls for commitment

A top Air Force official told senators that the Air Force believes a long-term plan and commitment to adequate military compensation are required to solve retention problems.

Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for manpower, Reserve Affairs and Installations Joseph C. Zengerle told the Senate Armed Services subcommittee on Manpower and Personnel that pay is an essential ingredient of retention.

Recruiting shortfall

"Although there are many interrelated factors that are contributing to our serious pilot exodus, the decline in enlisted retention and our first recruiting shortfall since the advent of the all-volunteer force have made it increasingly clear that the adequacy of military compensation is a pivotal issue," he said.

"In this regard, we fully support and believe we need to restore the relative pay comparability levels which existed in 1972.

"Clearly we cannot correct all of the pay inadequacies — estimated by the Secretary of Defense pay study to require as much as $5.5 billion in increased military pay in a single year's initiative.

Long-term plan

"Therefore, we believe a long-term plan and commitment for additive funds to solve this problem over the next two to five years is needed."

Secretary Zengerle told the senators the Air Force's most pressing personnel problems are pilot retention and second-term and career enlisted retention.

Badly needed programs

"However, it is our firm conviction that the following compensation programs are also badly needed this year to help abate serious recruiting and retention problems."

Among the compensation programs he listed were:

- Trailer allowance.
- Cost of living allowance for single members.
- Family separation allowance.
- Permanent change of station reimbursement.

Courts-martial dominate
Legal actions in March

Legal actions in March were dominated by three courts-martial involving two captains and staff sergeant.

Conviction of one captain for attempted murder with premeditation and assault resulted in his dismissal from the service and confinement at hard labor for 18 years. He also forfeits all pay and allowances.

Another general court-martial found a captain charged with five counts of willful disobedience and absent without leave. The captain attended college under a military scholarship program and, upon graduation, refused to fulfill his service commitment. His conviction cost him a $10,000 fine, dismissal from the service and confinement for six months at hard labor, during which time he is forced to forfeit $1,200 per month.

A special court-martial was convened to try a staff sergeant charged with signing false official documents, larceny and writing worthless checks with intent to defraud. He received a bad conduct discharge and was fined $80.

Article 15 actions

Three airmen were charged with either failure to go or absent for duty under Article 86 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice. Article 15s given these airmen reduced each in grade, although one received a suspended reduction and 30 days extra duty. A fourth airman basic charged with two violations of Article 86 received 15 days extra duty and a suspended forfeiture of $100 for two months.

Article 92 figured into non-judicial punishment given to five Reese people. A total of 28 days extra duty, $1,360 in fines and four reductions in grade were handed out. Article 92 covers failure to obey and dereliction of duty.

Violations of Article 134 were most common last month with seven Article 15s handed out as a result. Crimes ranged from disorderly on station to transfer of hashish. Fines totaling $1,800 were levied against the offenders with other penalties from reduction in grade and extra duty to base restriction added to some judgements.

A violation of Article 128, unlawfully striking a person, cost a staff sergeant $400, 30 days extra duty and a suspended reduction to sergeant. Willfully disobeying an order resulted in an airman first class paying $200 and serving 14 days extra duty, in addition to a suspended reduction in grade.

Intent to defraud under Article 123A caused the reduction of a senior airman to airman first and also cost him $285 for two months. He also received 45 days extra duty and was restricted to base for the same period.

Closing out the March legal actions was a violation of Article 121, stealing property,

Signing agreement

Hurschel D. Roberts, president of American Federation of Government Employees Local 1810, and Col. Richard Ingram, 64th FTW commander, sign a labor management agreement between Local 1810 and Reese. Pending approval by Air Training Command, the agreement will outline labor management policies here for three years. (U.S. Air Force photo)

Ingram backs ROA membership campaign

Col. Richard A. Ingram, 64th Flying Training Wing commander, stated in a recent letter, "I think . . . that the Reserve Officers' Association is one of the most effective voices the Air Force officer has in Congress."

Now involved in its membership drive, the ROA actively supports or aggressively opposes Department of Defense policy or legislative initiatives stemming from the administration, DoD, the services or Congress that will affect the military forces, according to its charter.

The ROA is also chartered by Congress to advise them on national security, the basic objective of the organization. It provides an opportunity and an avenue for participation in the legislative process and is a means by which to keep informed about current issues.

Already 115,000 members strong, membership is open to all officers in all services for an annual fee of $12. Second lieutenants may join for only $6. Benefits offered by the organization include group life insurance, health insurance, group travel programs and discounts on car rentals.

Those interested may contact 2nd Lt. Debra Hagan at Ext. 3284.

Proposed 1981 budget includes base projects

Proposed in the President's fiscal 1981 defense budget request is a military construction that could provide Air Training Command with $32 million for base improvements. Included in that figure are funds for two projects at Reese.

Command engineering and construction officials are optimistic yet cautious in saying what bases will get until the $46.3 billion Air Force budget is examined by both houses of Congress and signed into law by the President.

The two projects requested for Reese are a consolidated aircraft support system and a new refueling vehicle maintenance facility.

Fellowship meeting

Reese's Christian Fellowship has scheduled its monthly luncheon for noon Tuesday at the base Chapel.

William Barclay, a noted theologian, will be the featured speaker.

"Barclay is a warm, witty and wonderfully human individual who will stimulate your minds and hearts," said Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Arnold G. Johnson, installation chaplain.

UNC enrollment

University of Northern Colorado enrollment deadlines have been extended to Aug. 31. Students enrolling before the cutoff will be entitled to finish the program. For further information contact Jane Walker at Ext. 3469/3634.

Testing hours

Because of a reduction in scheduled testing, the Education Office will be limiting testing hours. Beginning Monday, testing will be available during the hours of 12:30-4:30 p.m. only. Appointments are necessary for all tests (College Level Examination Program, Extension Course Institute, etc.) and may be made by calling Ext. 3469/3634/3768.

Volunteers needed

A Prime Beef deployment going temporary duty to the Truk District, Trust Territories of the Pacific Islands, is looking for volunteers. Those selected will be given credit for a remote tour of duty. The tour will last 240 days.

A captain or first lieutenant is needed in Air Force Specialty Code 5525C, an E-8/9 in AFSC 55x9x or 54x9x and E-6/7 in AFSCs 55171, 47271, 54272 and 90270.

Weight control

With an Inspector General visit imminent, SSgt. Walter Sidler, NCOIC of special actions, warns that one item of command interest is weight control. The IG team will be looking for the military image, according to Sidler.

In addition, overweight airmen who would like to attend NCO leadership school, NCO academy or receive a special duty assignment may be turned down on the basis of their weight.

Census due

The deadline for return of completed census forms has passed. Those who have not yet returned their forms should do so immediately. Those needing help with their forms may contact the Census Bureau at the number provided on their form.

Voluntary recall

Creative Playthings has announced that it has voluntarily initiated an exchange or repair program on its "Indoor Gym House." A potential hazard exists that a child's head may become wedged between the top step and platform of the slide that forms part of the unit.

Free repair kits are available from Creative Playthings, P.O. Box 306-Rt. 147, Herndon, Pa. 17830.

Mess dress

Undergraduate Pilot Training students are advised to stop by Military Clothing Sales and verify their special orders for Mess Dress uniforms, according to assistant retail manager Robert Grimm. Grimm says a change in management makes the check advisable.

MAST sponsors 'budget' service

A computer program designed to help families discover and correct possible problems in their budgets is being sponsored here April 11 by Married Airmen Sharing Together.

The program, a special project of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, uses computer technology to help families set up working budgets.

SrA David Anderson, MAST president, explained that the computer service, called Dollar Watch, will cost base personnel just $1. He said that a local bank and trust is helping to offset the cost of bringing the program here.

"Dollar Watch is open to everybody at Reese," stressed Airman Anderson. "The service will be available from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the Mast facility (building 39)."

Anderson noted that it only takes a few minutes to fill out the short questionnaire used in the program. That information is matched against existing budget plans. A financial counselor will go over the computer plan with each family. All information will be kept confidential.

Sunrise service set here

Reese's Protestant congregation and chaplains will hold an Easter Sunrise Service on April 6.

The service will begin at 6:30 a.m. in the area between the Base Chapel parking lot and the tennis courts. Bleachers will be provided for worshippers.

The Easter message will be presented by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Arnold G. Johnson and Chaplain (Capt.) Curtis C. Cadenhead in a dialogue sermon as they discuss the "forces of darkness and light and the theme of the resurrection."

In case of inclement weather, the service will take place in the chapel.

Breakfast will be served by members of the Protestant Parish Council following the worship service.

Other services will be as normally scheduled.

Youth league slates tryouts

Tryouts for the youth baseball program here are scheduled for April 12.

According to Youth Center director, Don Hutchins, registration for league play is underway at the center and will continue through April 11. The league is open to 8-to-12-year-old youth from Reese and the immediate community.

Registration fees are $10 for Youth Center members and $12.50 for other military dependents. Civilian youth may register for $15 per player.

Tryouts are scheduled from 1 to 3 p.m. at the field across from the Youth Center.

For children five to seven years old, there will be a Tee-ball League. Registration for the league is underway now and also ends on April 11.

A booster meeting is scheduled for Wednesday at the center. All considering working with the summer ball programs should attend. The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m.

For more information about the baseball programs contact Hutchins at Ext. 3820.

Squads seek IM tourney berths

Six teams will fight through a double-elimination tournament here next week to decide the intramural volleyball championship.

In the year, odds are the Medics will capture the final slot in the post-season classic.

Tournament action is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. Tuesday. The 54th and Sturon, last year's finalists, are favored to reach the finals again.

The standings in the intramural volleyball league, as of Monday, were:

Team	W	L
54th	7	0
Sturon	5	0
CE	6	2
FMS	5	2
Supply	5	4
Medics	4	4
35th	4	4
Comm.	2	6
Varsity	2	5
OMS	1	7
RMS	1	8

Barring a major upset in the final regular season games, four teams seem assured of reaching the tournament. The 54th Flying Training Squadron and Sturon, 7-0 and 5-0 respectively, head the list. The Civil Engineers, 6-2, and Field Maintenance, 5-2, should also make the tourney.

Supply, the Medics and the 35th each have four losses on the year. However, Supply with five wins in the bag has the inside track on one of the two remaining berths. Since the Medics defeated the 35th earlier

The Air Force team, coached by Osmar Alaniz, will be in competition at the Interservice meet next week. Many of the fighters competing there are expected to compete in the Reese tourney.

Golden Gloves fighters from throughout West Texas will box for the local squad. Team officials are hopeful that Robin Blake, a nationally ranked welterweight from Levelland, Texas, will be able to fight here.

Proceeds from the fight will be split by Morale Welfare and Recreation and the West Texas Golden Gloves, co-sponsors of the event.
