As this Armed Forces Week nears an end, I remind each military member to reflect on their contributions to this nation. Our role as military personnel will become even more critical as the community of nations attempt to seek adjustments to new realities of a changing world.

I ask each military member to rededicate themselves to this nation and to defending the basic freedoms of its people. We must be the best - be strong and be proud!

Told what to eat

I have been eating in the dining hall recently. I have some complaints that I would like to have something done about.

I mean, not in the quality of food but we had an incident where we went into the chow hall one morning and were refused certain items on the line because of the difficulty of getting items.

I think that we should have some type of choice of what we want to eat and not be told what we are going to eat and how much of what we can eat.

Dear Chow Hound

Regulations require portion and selection controls to insure monetary and budget allowances are not exceeded. Patrons are only denied seconds on high cost meat items.

As for the quality of food served in the dining hall, Services Division is always working on new concepts, ideas and preparation methods. All food is purchased from approved DOD and GSA sources. There is very little problem procuring menu items requested.

Food Service has a monthly menu planning board which reviews menu items and makes appropriate adjustments based on patron's preferences. All base personnel are invited to attend these meetings and to offer constructive suggestions. The next meeting is scheduled for 9 a.m., May 28 in the Wing Dining Hall.

Cat problem here

I am addressing the cat problem in Base Housing. The cats walk all over everyone's cars. If you dig a flowerbed to improve the appearance of your quarters, the cats use them for litter boxes. Now I am having to pick dead birds off my back porch. I think that someone needs to address the problem and to notify cat owners that this is enough.

I have nothing against pets, I am a dog owner, but the base regulations require that pets be under the control of the owner and my dogs are. I really don't appreciate the cat problem.

I don't want to get in trouble with my neighbors who have cats but the cats are multiplying at the rate of inflation and they run loose everywhere. Cat owners should concentrate on keeping their cats under control.

Dear Pet Owner

I agree. Regulations require a pet owners to keep their animals penned or on a leash at all times.

Security Police are making every effort to solve the stray cat population problem and to identify pet owners who disregard the regulation.

Please call the Security Police with your next cat complaint and they will respond.

CBPO system proves efficient

by SSgt. Stephen D. Bernard
 NCOIC, Customer Service

Consolidated Base Personnel Office work centers have been able to do their jobs much more efficiently since the inception of the CBPO appointment system.

For those unfamiliar with the appointment system, the policy is as follows:

All active duty members must be in uniform and have an appointment with the work unit they wish to do business with before proceeding past the Customer Service Unit. The CSU is the single focal point of contact between the customer and CBPO.

Customer Service will receive and respond to queries concerning any aspect of the military personnel system. They will answer immediately all inquiries of a general nature that require minimum research. In addition, the CSU will refer, by appointment, unusual or complicated actions to the responsible CBPO work center. Finally, they will serve as the initial contact point for each CBPO customer who does not have an established appointment with another work center.

Air Force Forum 99, Personnel Inquiry, is designed to provide the customer a single point of contact with CBPO concerning any personnel problem, question, complaint or suggestion. Inquiries submitted on these forms will be answered within 48 hours.

The U.S. Air Force stands today—as always—strong and ready.

Our missiles, aircraft and weapons are only part of that strength. No military can be strong without the dedication of its people. The men and women of the Air Force have committed themselves to the defense of our country. They are supported in this cause every day by their families.

On Armed Forces Day, the American public shows its gratitude for your selfless dedication. I join them in commending you for your unswerving dedication and year-round motivation.

Hans M. Mark
 Secretary of the Air Force

Armed Forces Day honors those sworn to defend our nation.

It is a recognition of over two centuries of dedicated service and success in combat. It is an affirmation of faith in those on duty.

On this day America thanks you who are now serving for giving so much of yourselves to your country and for your determination and courage. It appears that now our nation faces a period of increasing challenge.

Members of the United States Air Force should be assured that, as you help to face the challenge, you have the support and admiration of your leaders and of a grateful nation.

Lew Allen, Jr., General, USAF
 Chief of Staff

This year Armed Forces Week began on May 11 with Saturday designated as Armed Forces Day.

The reason for this observance, as stated by our government each year, is to give American citizens the opportunity to publicly show their appreciation to the men and women serving in the armed forces.

But it also serves to reinforce public awareness of the fact that only manifest military strength and readiness will deter any potential enemies from challenging us as they might be tempted to do if they felt we were weak.

As we accept the plaudits of our fellow citizens during this Armed Forces Week, we who wear Air Force blue can take quiet pride in the knowledge that we stand fully prepared to do our part in defending our country from attack.

Davis talks retention

(Editor's note: During a recent visit to Reese Gen. Bennie L. Davis, commander of Air training Command, held a press conference which was attended by local press and radio and television stations, in addition to a Roundup reporter. Following are selected statements from the general's answers).

When asked about recruitment and retention of pilots, General Davis responded, "(Although) recruitment of pilots is one of our easier programs, we still have a three or four-to-one ratio of applicants for every vacancy in pilot training, retention of those pilots has certainly become a problem, particularly over the last three years.

"We lose about 40 percent at the end of the sixth year, which is about what we are programmed to lose. Our problem comes with that group between six and eleven years. The reason that's a problem is because that's the very heart of our experience level.

Employable people

"One of the principal (causes) has been the hue and cry over pay and compensation. (The pilots who leave the Air Force) are very employable people. A lot of them are engineers and, of course, all of them have baccalaureate degrees and at least 40 percent of them have master's degrees. They literally feel they cannot afford to serve the Air Force."

Funding played a key part in nearly all of the general's remarks to the local media. For instance, when asked if the number of people in uniform is dangerously low, he replied, "No. We have about 2.01 million in uniform . . . That force is adequate to provide for our defense. What it needs in addition to pay and compensation is more operational maintenance dollars. We've been terribly underfunded for the last five years . . . I think the force is adequate and the readiness is adequate, but in order to sustain yourself over the long term, additional dollars need to be spent."

Further, when questioned about the effect of the world situation on recruiting, General Davis remarked, "I don't see it stimulating recruiting. I see it helping somewhat with retention. There has been, over the last year, a recognition in the national press of the effect that successive pay caps have had. I'll give you one concrete example. An E-6, technical sergeant, crew chief on an F-15, makes $300 less a month than a unionized grocery clerk in California.

"The significant step that we must take to increase retention is pay. Our people don't expect to make a million dollars, they just want an adequate standard of living."

responding to a Roundup question concerning the Nunn-Warner amendment, a package of benefits now under consideration by Congress.

"The Nunn-Warner is the brightest package of compensation reforms on the horizon at this time. It consists basically of . . . a variable housing allowance, which gives those living in high cost . . . areas additional compensation for housing. It increases flying pay by 25 percent. It increases travel allowances from (approximately) 11 to 12 cents a mile to around 18 and gives a 10 percent increase for subsistence

. . . That package has been passed by the Senate and is now being considered by the House. I am very confident that it will be passed by the House and by the full Congress. Then it will be up to the President to accept that increase or veto it.

Reese carpools receive reserved parking slots

Reese carpools will soon have reserved parking spaces.

According to Capt. Bob Blankenship, reserved parking spaces will be designated to bring Reese into compliance with Department of Defense regulations still in draft.

"Although the regulations are still in draft," explained Captain Blankenship. "Reese is going ahead with the parking program as are all other Air Force units."

To determine where and how many parking spaces will be reserved for carpools a questionnaire has been sent to all unit orderly rooms. To qualify for a parking slot, each carpool must designate one of its members as the carpool chief. The chief must pick up one of the questionnaires, complete it and return it to 3500 RMS/CC Stop 17 by June 15.

Once processed, carpool chiefs will be instructed to go to Pass and Registration to pick up their official Reese carpool parking sign. This sign, which should be displayed in the front windshield, will let Security Police know that the vehicle is authorized to park in a carpool slot. People without carpool signs will be ticketed by the Security Police.

Captain Blankenship noted that it may be mid to late summer before the program gets running. He also said that carpool chiefs are responsible for reporting any changes in the carpool membership and for passing the carpool chief duties on to other members if reassigned.

The captain added that the carpooling spaces will be reserved as close to the duty sections of carpool members as possible.

For more information about the program contact Captain Blankenship at Ext. 3617.

President's program calls for gasoline cut

President Jimmy Carter has unveiled a new national energy conservation program, hoping to reduce gasoline use by 12.5 percent during the spring and summer.

Secretary of Commerce Phillip M. Klutznick appealed to motorists to join the president's program. "Each weekday about 73 million Americans commute to work in some type of vehicle, public or private. About 50 million Americans drive to work alone, carrying with them more than 150 million empty seats."

Secretary Klutznick praised last year's 5 percent reduction in gasoline consumption but noted there is still room for improvement. "Privately-owned motor vehicles consume more than five million barrels of oil a day in this country — an amount equal to more than half of our nation's daily oil imports."

He pointed out, "If each person who commutes to work by car were to carry one additional passenger who now drives to work alone, we could save 500,000 barrels of oil a day." This would more than meet the president's goal of saving 400,000 barrels daily. (AFNS)

Capt. Jerry D. Hudson, an instructor pilot in the 35th Flying Training Squadron, talks with Mrs. O.C. Thomas of Lubbock about one of the instrument displays at the South Plains Mall this week. The exhibit is one of many in the mall as part of Armed Forces week activities. (U.S. Air Force photo)

Mall display

AFW observance wraps up Saturday

Armed Forces Week observances are scheduled to end Saturday. Since Monday, several activities designed to inform the community about the mission and status of the Armed Forces have been held throughout the area.

The main thrust of the observance is the display of Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force equipment at the South Plains Mall. Base units participating in the mall exhibit include the Fire Department, Security Police, the 35th and 54th Flying Training Squadrons, the 64th Student Squadron and Disaster Preparedness. Others are the Hospital, Field and Organizational Maintenance Squadrons and Weather.

Carrying the Armed Forces Week message directly to the public is a special intraservice speaking team. The five-man unit gives local organizations and school groups mission briefings on all four services.

Project officers for the weeklong event are Capt. Douglas Knutzen and 2nd Lt. Daniel Caulkins.

Talk shows feature five Reese personnel

Local radio and television stations will celebrate Armed Forces Day Saturday as they sponsor Reese personnel who will be interviewed about various aspects of Air Force Life.

At 8:30 a.m., KRLB radio, 580 on the AM dial, will feature Morris Wilkes as he interviews SMSgt. John Wilson and SSgt. Stephen Whitsel on the program "KRLB Reports." They will be discussing the cooperative programs that exist between the Reese Security Polic Division and local law enforcement agencies.

Dave Walker will feature Col. Richard Ingram on KCBD TV's noon program, "Eleven Questions." They will be discussing the status of Reese in particular and the U.S. Air Force in general.

At 1 p.m. Melinda Thompson will talk with Capt. Art Nickell and 2nd Lt. Linda Evans on KLBK TV's "Inquiry" program.

Dependent gets NCOWC scholarship

Reese's NCO Wives Club has made getting a college education a little bit easier for a Frenship High School senior.

Kimberly Johnson, 18-year-old daughter of Margaret Davis, has been selected to receive the NCOWC $500 scholarship.

"Getting this scholarship means a lot to me," said Johnson after being told of her selection. "It will pay the first year's tuition for me."

Johnson, an honor student at Frenship, plans to attend Texas Tech this fall, majoring in education.

A member of the Future Teachers and Future Homemakers of America, Johnson maintained a 90.78 grade point average her senior year.

MAST sponsors rollerskating party

Married Airmen Sharing Together is sponsoring a roller skating party and picnic Sunday for all married E-4s and below.

From noon until 2 p.m. MAST has rented the roller rink in Carlisle and couples may skate free of charge.

After the roller skating there will be a picnic on the base picnic grounds. MAST will provide the hamburgers and hot dogs while members will provide side dishes. Bringing a side dish is not a condition to attend, however.

On Thursday at 7:30 p.m., MAST is having a Mexican pot luck dinner open to all members and newcomers at building 39. Again, MAST will provide the main fare but welcomes side dishes.

The general membership meeting originally scheduled for May 25 has been changed to June 1 to 2 p.m. at the MAST building.

OWC helps four students

For full details, applicants should contact Lisa Batton at 792-8352. Letters should be mailed to Batton at 604 North Dover, Lubbock, Texas 79416.

Reese plans family picnic

Reese's Memorial Day weekend family picnic will have a definite "country" atmosphere.

According to Morale Welfare and Recreation officials, sponsors of the holiday event, two country music groups will perform at the free outdoor show.

Leading of the entertainment at 8:30 p.m. will be the "Golden Years of Country Music." The band, a group of music students from South Plains College, puts on one of the top country music shows around, say MWR officials.

Following the nationally recognized Golden Years of Country Music will be the 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. show of "Brush Fire," an up-tempo country group.

The picnic begins at 4 p.m. May 24 at the base picnic grounds. Several food concessions will be open and the MWR T-shirt Shop will also be in operation.

Rebuilding Rattlers sparkle

With only four starters returning from last year's powerhouse squad, Reese soccer coach Craig Ford could be excused for having a pessimistic outlook on the 1980 season. But, after his team's scrimmage performance Sunday, Ford is hardly singing the blues.

In their first outing of the season the Rattlers scored an impressive 3-1 scrimmage victory over The Styng, one of the Club Division teams in the South Plains Soccer Association. The Club Division is the top division in the league.

"I was honestly surprised at how well the team played," said Ford after the game. "This is a rebuilding year for us and I didn't expect us to play this well together — especially this early in the season."

But don't get the idea that Ford thinks his team walks on water. He doesn't.

"We will have to improve a lot to challenge for the division crown," warned Ford. "We looked pretty good Sunday, but, it was just a scrimmage game. It'll get much tougher when league play opens June 8."

And when Ford talks about tough competition he is thinking about the league's top seeded team — Mello Yellow. The preseason favorite is comprised of active Texas Tech players. To illustrate how good that makes Mello Yello, consider that Tech recently lost to Southern Methodist University in a Southwest Conference spring game by a lone goal, 2-1, SMU is ranked among the top five college squads in the country.

Returners for the Rattler squad are Nyron Noble, Greg Lopez, Jeff Hollinger and Ford. Gone are: goalie Greg Schultz (a former all American at the Air Force Academy) high scoring Cecilio Young, defensive ace Karl Olsen, Craig Kemnitz, Bruce Schaffer, Tom Twohig and Brian O'dell.

"One thing about a young team," said Ford. "You never know how it is going to play. We may look great one game and like crud the next."

The Rattlers will be in action again Sunday against another Club Division squad, The Friends. The game starts at 1 p.m. on the base soccer field.

Bases loaded walk hands Rattlers win

Off to a 2-0 start in league play, the Rattler fast-pitch softball team is showing the ability to come from behind.

Tom Hern drew a bases loaded walk in the bottom of the sixth inning last week to give the Rattlers their second straight come-from-behind win. The RBI walk capped a three-run rally, lifting the base squad to a 6-5 win over the Lubbock Rangers.

"Coming from behind in the late innings does two things for the team," said coach A.G. Johnson. "It gives the players confidence and the coach grey hair."

The Rattlers got out of the blocks quickly against the Rangers and took a 3-0 lead through two innings. Then the Rangers, with a roster laden with Stockton Packers players, brought in their ace pitcher Doc Carlen.

The Rangers got a solo home run in the third and erupted for four in the fourth to take a 5-3 lead. The Lubbock nine threatened to put the game out of reach in the fifth with two men in scoring position, but; outfielder Roy Emerson made a game saving catch of a sinking line drive to get Reese safely out of the inning.

In Reese's half of the fifth the Rattlers pushed two runs across to draw even with the Rangers at 5-5. Carlen was injured running the bases, forcing the Rangers to bring the starting pitcher back in from first base. Suffering from control problems the Ranger hurler walked four straight batters, including Hern, to post the loss.

Standouts for Reese included Coy Jackson, who was two-for-three at the plate and Roy Johnson who helped himself to a win in relief with a two RBI day at the plate.

The Rattlers will be in action again Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Stubbs Field.
