Reese slates Classic

Three days of fast-paced high school basketball action gets underway here Thursday morning as Tahoka and Olney square off in the opening game of the Sixth Annual Reese Christmas Classic.

The 10 a.m. Tahoka vs. Olney matchup is one of eight games scheduled for opening day. Also slated for first-round meetings in the Commander's Division (AAA schools) are Lubbock Christian and Childress, 1 p.m.; Denver City and Ballinger, 4 p.m. and Brownsville Villa Maria and Dimmitt, 7 p.m.

Canyon tackles Midland Lee in the first game in the tough President's Division (AAAA and AAAAA schools). That game starts at 11:30 a.m. The other three first-round matchups pit Amarillo against Andrews, 2:30 p.m.; Big Spring against Lubbock Dunbar, 5:30 p.m.; and Lubbock Coronado against El Paso Andress at 8:30 p.m.

Running Thursday through Dec. 20, the prep tourney features eight games each day. Action begins at 10 a.m. with the last game of the day scheduled to start at 8:30 p.m. The Dec. 20 championship games for the Commander's and President's Divisions are set for 7 and 8:30 p.m. respectively.

Denver City is the defending champion in the Commander's Division. Childress is the top ranked challenger in that division.

Over in the President's Division, the defending champion, Clovis, N.M., is unable to return for a title defense because of a New Mexico high school rule that permits teams to play in only one tournament each year. The Wildcats elected to stick with their own tourney.

That leaves it a wide open division with five teams expected to battle for the title. Andress is a veteran Classic team and could win its third division championship this year. Coronado, Dunbar and Midland Lee have been involved in very tight games this year. Any of the three could challenge for the title as could Andrews.

Admission into the tourney is $3 per day. Military personnel in uniform will be admitted free.

In addition to competing in the tourney, the 16 prep teams will visit various base agencies, getting an "up close and personal" look at Air Force life.

Light up

Christmas lights okay

Residents of Reese Village will be allowed to put up outside Christmas decorations this year, but; there will be a couple of "energy saving" restrictions on their use.

Base officials recently announced that Village residents may put up outdoor lights on or after Dec. 21 and keep them up through Jan. 2. The lights may be turned on from dark until midnight.

The only restriction on the type of lights that may be used is that all electrical decorations must carry the Underwriters Laboratories (UL) approval. That restriction applies to all lights, whether displayed indoors or out.

The only outdoor lights that will be permitted outside of the housing area will be those on the official base tree. One of the trees near the main gate will be decorated for the holidays.

Dormitory residents will not be able to put up any outdoor lights; however, indoor decorations will be permitted. Decorations must meet fire department standards for use on base and in Reese Village.

Base organizations are urged to get in the Christmas spirit with imaginative non-electric decorations.

Two net maintenance awards

Gary D. Williams

Fourteen Air Training Command members have been nominated to represent the command in the 1980 Air Force Outstanding Maintenance Personnel Awards, among them two Reese people.

SMSgt. Jerry A. Price, supervisor-manager, and Gary D. Williams, civilian technician, will compete in the aircraft maintenance category at Air Force. Two other categories, munitions and missile maintenance comprise the bulk of the command awards.

Williams' supervisor, Jesse A. Freeman, cited him as "the type who has a lot of initiative; doesn't require hardly any supervision." Williams

Reese: A winning team

by Col. John Rushfeldt
Deputy Commander for Maintenance

It has been my sincere pleasure to serve as the DCM at Reese for the past 18 months.

Reflecting back on this period it is interesting to note the enormous changes that have taken place in the amount of students in training, the total flying requirements and the make up of the maintenance work force.

Since July 1979, the total number of pilot trainees has increased approximately 50% with an accompanying increase in total flying. During FY 1980 we flew 99,297 hours. In the same time period poor retention rates decimated the enlisted work force.

Maintenance went from about 30% first term airmen to an average of 60%. Loss of this experience made the mission a greater challenge, but I hasten to point out that pilot training classes have always graduated on time and in the past 18 months this wing has flown only two Saturdays. I believe this is a tribute to our young men and women who are getting the job done—and done well.

Reese has been one of the highlights of my 30 years of Air Force service. I am proud to have had the opportunity of working with the great bunch of young people, devoted and skilled civil service folks and NCO's and officers who want to be on a winning team. There is no doubt in my mind that the team at Reese is a winner.

Putting the frosting on this tour have been all the fine people in this community who so strongly support Reese. As I depart on a new assignment I want to express my thanks to everyone for their support and for making Reese a great place to serve.

Col. John Rushfeldt

VHA tables

I am calling with regard to the VHA tables. A second lieutenant makes $1.60, and an E-1 makes $3 a day on the VHA, whereas an O-6 makes $3.08 and an E-9 makes $3.71. It bothers me that a second lieutenant is the lowest on the list whether married or single, with or without dependents. I want to know the basis for the discrimination in the different ranks and why the VHA would not be equal for all ranks. It takes as much money for me to live in the Lubbock area as everyone else.

I understand your concern about what appears to be an unfair disparity in daily VHA rates. The present rates were established for a given locality (in our case, people living in zip code area 79401 through 79490), and are based on average actual housing costs which were determined from the surveys conducted in July. Personnel who were required to complete survey questionnaires were selected by name by AFMPC.

A rather complex formula was provided for determination of the actual daily amount of VHA for each grade, but the bottom line is that 85 percent of the present BAQ, plus the VHA, equals the average housing cost for a given pay grade. This leaves an out-of-pocket expense of approximately 15 percent of your present BAQ if you are paying housing costs equivalent to the average second lieutenant. I think you will agree that is better than the 26 percent out-of-pocket expense you had before VHA.

In our particular area, a large proportion of the second lieutenants, for example, are single and are perhaps sharing an apartment with a fellow student; thus, their actual housing costs are lower than a chief master sergeant (who is probably married and has children) who has purchased a home at current prices.

Even though the present program is less than perfect, every little bit helps to ease the burdens felt by military members. Don't give up — we expect some changes in the VHA program in fiscal year 82.

Racial slurs draw stiff penalty

by Capt. William Unger
Social Actions Officer

Sticks and Stones may break my bones but names will never hurt me. Remember that old saying? Do you really believe it? Recent incidents here at Reese would show that this little poem is far from true. Some of the most harmful words used are grouped together as "racial slurs" or

"trigger words." We all know what they are, you hear them daily and it seems like a lot of us use them. They show up in jokes, friendly ribbing, stereotypes, insults, and vicious verbal assaults. The list is endless and there are several such words for each of us.

I personally find it inconceivable that anyone doesn't know these words are insulting. So, when I hear them, I usually assume there is intent to do harm. What concerns me is why we need to go around generating distrust and dislike among the people we work with. We all like to be treated with a little dignity and respect once in a while. We like to work and live in a friendly, pleasant environment. We all have enough unpleasanties to deal with without creating more. So, if you use those words, don't be surprised if some of the response is equally unpleasant for you.

There is another saying—not so old—but more accurate, when it comes to name calling. WHAT GOES AROUND, COMES AROUND.

The use of racial slurs in the Air Force is punishable under Article 117, UCMJ, Provoking Speeches or Gestures. If you use racial slurs in the presence of the person to whom they are directed and which tend to induce a breach of the peace, you could receive up to three months confinement at hard labor and forfeit two-thirds of your pay for three months. Is this depriving you of your Freedom of Speech? Not really. Your rights have always ended where someone else's begins. The disruptive potential of these words is serious, so let's seriously consider what is going to come around if we choose to use that sort of vocabulary. There are too many positive things we can do with our time, the Staff Judge Advocate's time, or your Commander's time.

Matlovich nets settlement

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—The Air Force has reached an out-of-court settlement with former TSgt. Leonard P. Matlovich, an avowed homosexual who was discharged in 1975.

Matlovich has accepted $160,000 in full settlement of all claims against the Air Force. He also agreed not to return to active duty or to seek enlistment in any of the armed forces of the United States.

Last September, a federal court here awarded Matlovich back pay and benefits and ordered the Air Force to reinstate him.

Commenting on the settlement, Secretary of the Air Force Hans Mark stated, "The Air Force agreed to the settlement because we continue to regard homosexuality as fundamentally inconsistent with military service and wanted to avoid returning Matlovich to active duty. The appeal process would have been lengthy, and if we had not settled, we would have been forced to take Matlovich back by Dec. 5 under the court's order. We were unable to postpone or avoid compliance with the order which would have remained in effect until the appeal was decided."

Air Force officials said Air Force's policy of discharging homosexuals is similar to the Navy's policy, which was upheld last month by a Federal Appeals Court in San Francisco. The Air Force believes the settlement with Matlovich leaves its policy intact.

The case is not expected to have any effect on the discharges of other service members who were separated for homosexuality.

Hospital offers sitters course

Dependents of active duty and retired military personnel will have a chance to improve and update their babysitting skills as the hospital offers a free course of instruction during the school Christmas break.

Tentative scheduled for either Dec. 23 or 30 between 1 and 5 p.m., the course will be a four-hour lecture on four different subjects. A Security Police representative will speak on safety procedures, the fire department will offer information on fire prevention, the hospital's pediatric department will speak on child care and Capt. (Dr.) Lillis Lloyd, psychologist, will speak on personal responsibility.

A certificate will be awarded to graduates of the class for reference purposes. A minimum of 10 responses are needed to schedule the class, and a final date will be set when that many people have called. Reservations may be made by contacting either Capt. Roger Emmick or MSgt. John Gordon at Ext. 3515/3285.

Group welcomes new commander

First Lt. Probyn Thompson III took over as 64th Air Base Group squadron commander in November, upon the retirement of Lt. Col. Kenneth L. Leonard.

Lieutenant Thompson was born in New York City of Army parents, but his attraction to flying led him to the Reserve Officer Training Corps program while attending the University of Miami, Florida. He graduated and was commissioned a second lieutenant in June 1977 and went active duty to his first assignment in October of that year.

He served as commander of the Avionics student squadron from October 1977 till November 1980, when he was reassigned to Reese. Almost concurrent with his orders came the notification that he had been accepted for pilot training, also at Reese. Lieutenant Thompson will hold the job of squadron commander until his training begins in May.

Until then, the lieutenant believes strongly in spending every moment as an effective squadron commander. "I am looking towards bringing the members of Air Base Group closer together, to improve communication overall, with emphasis toward supervisor and individual relations in order to improve self-satisfaction in the job and create more interest in the troops so they will feel a part of and gain pride in the organization."

When he is not working, Lieutenant Thompson enjoys snow skiing, scuba diving, sky diving and racquetball.

He summed up his comments by expanding on his reasons for joining the Air Force: "Besides being attracted to flying I was also impressed with the professional attitude of the people; besides, blue is my favorite color."

Two gain new eagles

Lt. Cols. Leslie A. Hobgood, assistant deputy commander for operations, and Arnold G. Johnson, installation chaplain, are two of 576 selected Air Force-wide for promotion to colonel by the 1980 Central Temporary Colonel Board, which met recently at Randolph AFB, Texas.

The figure represents 55 percent of all eligible lieutenant colonels.

In the primary zone, 484 were selected, and another 82 in the secondary zone. The selectees included 526 line officers, 11 judge advocates, 11 chaplains, 10 nurses, 10 medical services officers and eight biomedical science officers.

Of the 957 line officers eligible for the first time in the primary zone, 393, or 41 percent, were selected. Overall, 16 percent, or 447 of 2,807, eligible line officers were selected in the primary zone.

Of those selected, 119 were also nominated to attend a senior service school.

For the primary zone, the board considered lieutenant colonels with Oct. 31 1976 dates of rank or earlier — the basic 1960 year group — who had Jan. 26, 1981, or later separation dates and on active duty since April 27, 1960 or earlier. Secondary zone consideration included those with dates of rank between Nov. 1, 1976 and Dec. 31, 1978 — the basic 1961 and 1962 year group.

The next temporary colonel board is scheduled for June 22. The promotion opportunity rate is expected to remain at 55 percent.

NEGLECT CAN KILL, TOO. IT JUST TAKES A LITTLE LONGER.

To most minds, child abuse equals battered children. But the awful fact is that thousands of parents are abusing their children by leaving them alone. It's called neglect, and it can mean a lack of love, food, clothing or shelter. And just as in the other forms of child abuse—physical, sexual and emotional—it can and often does result in death. Each year one million children feel the needless pain of child abuse. It can be prevented if you help.

Abused children are helpless. Unless you help.

Best model

Fintel wins top award

Air Training Command captured first place in the 1980 Air Force Photography Contest held Nov. 18-19 at Peterson AFB, Colo., and at the forefront of the effort was Reese's own Capt. David Fintel.

Captain Fintel, an anesthetist at the base hospital and sometime amateur photographer, captured first place at Air Force level in the general category of color transparencies. The only other individual from ATC garnering a first place was Amn. Thomas Nevin, Chanute AFB, Ill., who won in the people division of color prints.

In a Roundup interview at his home, the captain expressed both pleasure and surprise to have done so well in the competition. "My highest award to date is an honorable mention at command level, this will be the top award I've ever gotten."

Captain Fintel began his interest in photography while stationed in Vietnam, an enlisted corpsman (he spent twelve years enlisted time before receiving his commission) far from his family and with no tangible ties to them. He wrote home and asked his mother-in-law to send some photos of his wife. "It was the only thing I had to keep my sanity over there."

Realizing that a number of his comrades were in the same position, he vowed to not only get some good photos of his wife upon his return, but to see to it that his contemporaries received pictures of their spouses and girlfriends. "That evolved from taking a few pictures every now and then to taking a tremendous amount."

Although he has received no formal photography training ("All my training has been OJT."), he has attended seminars in both Arizona and New Mexico, learning advanced techniques in portrait photography, his first interest but, ironically, not the category he received the Air Force award in.

most of his success to an interchange of ideas with local photographers. "You very seldom find a group of photographers that get together and are not willing to share their knowledge and ideas," he stated.

Captain Fintel's wife, Kay, and their two children, Larry and Laura share his interest in the hobby, and hope to make it a profession upon his retirement. He stresses, however, that it is just a hobby now. "There is no room for conflict with my profession and my hobby. They are so widely divergent that I never have to worry about one overriding the other, though each helps to balance the other. I'd hate to think about giving up either one." On the way to the Air Force contest, Captain Fintel netted 16 base-level awards and a total of six awards at command level. He took fifth and sixth place in the General category, second, third and fifth in the People category and second in Experimental.

ATC edged Strategic Air Command and the Air Force Academy in the contest, which tied for second place, and third place winner Pacific Air Forces in the 1980 Chief of Staff Championship Awards competition.

Awards were presented in twelve separate categories of competition. In addition to the two first place awards, ATC took three second place, two third place and four honorable mention awards.

Other ATC winners included: — Capt. Jeff Fisher, Columbus AFB, Miss., second place in color transparencies general.

— 1st Lt. Mark Weiler, Randolph AFB, Texas, second place in color prints experimental.

— MSgt. Perry McCutcheon, Randolph AFB, second place in color prints general.

— TSgt. Buster Kellum, Randolph AFB, third place in monochrome experimental and honorable mention in color prints experimental.

— A1C George McGee, Columbus AFB, third place and honorable mention in color prints general.

— TSgt. Dick Chaney, Chanute AFB, honorable mention in monochrome experimental.

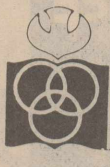

— SSgt. Alfred Folaron, Lowry AFB, Colo., honorable mention in monochrome prints general.

The winning Air Force entries were forwarded to compete at the Interservice Photography Contest at Fort Meade, Md.

Street Talk

Health Evaluation and Risk Tabulation is a program run at selected bases throughout the Air Force to determine the causes and deterrents to heart disease in Air Force people.

With the evaluation phase of the program about to close out at Reese and 2,030 people evaluated, Street Talk went to find out how many people have changed their lifestyle upon learning the results of their evaluation.

According to program director Evelyn Bricker, 11 per cent of those evaluated fall into the high risk category, indicating a need for significant change in lifestyle. Our results correlated those of the program, with one of nine people interviewed answering yes to the question, "Did the results of the HEART program screening bring about a significant change in your living habits?"

We were going to ask if these changes had taken them out of circulation, but we didn't have the heart.

The second phase of the HEART program will begin Jan. 6.

Command advisors slate conference

CMSgt. Coy Martin, Reese senior enlisted advisor, will attend an Air Training Command senior enlisted advisors workshop, to be held at Lackland AFB, Texas, Tuesday-Thursday.

CMSgt. Emory Walker, ATC senior enlisted advisor, will host his counterparts from each of the ATC wings and centers as well as senior enlisted advisors from the Reserve Officers' Training Corps and Civil Air Patrol at Maxwell AFB, Ala.

Opening remarks for the three-day workshop will be given by Maj. Gen. William P. Acker, commander, Air Force Military Training Center. He will be followed by selected representatives from various ATC staff activities and the Air Force Manpower and Personnel Center.

The purpose of the workshop, Chief Walker emphasized, is to discuss and work personnel problems and other matters requiring command or Air Force-wide attention. He added that one item which will receive attention is the new Stripes for Exceptional Performers program.

Gen. B.L. Davis, ATC commander, will attend the workshop wrap-up and give closing remarks to the command's top enlisted advisors.

Weather turns cold

by A1C David L. Haines
Weather Observer

Many climatologists claim Earth is on the verge of another Ice Age—and with November's record-shattering 21 inches of snowfall, most South Plains residents are no doubt in full agreement.

The most snow Reese has ever received in a single winter was 44½ inches in 1957-58; we are almost halfway to that mark with the entire winter still to go!

December 21 marks the official arrival of winter, with only 9 hours and 55 minutes of daylight on that date. December's average high temperature is 55 degrees Fahrenheit, with a mean low of 29°. However, the mercury has dipped as low as 3° in previous years and soared as high as 80°.

Reese averages only two days of precipitation in December, with a normal rainfall of only 0.3 inch. The average snowfall is 1.7 inches (remember, it takes about 10 inches of snow to produce an equivalent one inch of water)—but then again, November's average is only 1.6 inches!

President honors Wrights

Seventy-seven years ago this Wednesday, the Wright brothers launched a 12-second flight from the Kitty Hawk, N.C. sand dunes that would eventually put men on the moon. In honor of the event, Dec. 17 has been proclaimed Wright Brothers Day. In a proclamation President Carter said, "In the three generations since that historic flight in 1903, aviation has grown to become one of America's greatest enterprises; one of its largest employers; a fundamental ingredient in the national economy; a mighty deterrent against aggression and a prime defender of peace.

"Our air transportation system is the greatest in the world and the primary public carrier in the United States. Moreover, some 85 percent of the aircraft in use throughout the world are of U.S. manufacture, and the free world's largest airlines are U.S. flag carriers."

Good work

The Management and the staff of the Officers' Club want all club members to know that the Christmas decorations in the club were provided by the Officers' Wives Club. Congratulations on a job well done!

Goodfellows need help

Reese personnel interested in lending a helping hand to the Goodfellows' annual Christmas program for disadvantaged children should contact 2nd Lt. Jeff Sturmthal at Ext. 3520.

Volunteers are needed to help stuff sacks with toys and assorted goodies on Dec. 19 at the county fairgrounds. A bus will leave for the fairgrounds from building 800 at 8:30 a.m. that day. Several volunteers are needed to help prepare the gift packages for an estimated 9,000 area children.

Volunteers are also needed to help deliver the gifts on Christmas morning. To volunteer for that job call the Avalanche Journal at 762-8844, Ext. 112. For more information about the Goodfellows program contact Lieutenant Sturmthal.

Burglars nab $12,000 worth

A burglary of the Student Squadron this weekend cost the government approximately $12,000, according to Don Stuttsman, commander of Office of Special Investigation, Detachment 1117.

Merchandise missing includes video recorders and playback machines, TV monitors, cassette recorders, contractor's property including tools and a compressor, a portable radio, a microwave and six flags.

The burglar or burglars apparently entered the building through an open window and gained access to individual offices through the acoustical ceiling tiles. Investigators conclude a truck, van or station wagon was used in the crime, considering the bulk of the items taken.

According to Stuttsman, a number of leads have yet to be followed up, but the agent expressed confidence that the crime would be solved. He solicited aid from the base population, asking that anybody with information that may have a bearing on the case contact him at Ext. 3666.

AF studies conversion

The United States Air Force recently announced plans to study converting selected functions to civilian contract at Reese and 82 other bases throughout the United States.

These proposed conversions supplement other fiscal year 1981 conversion studies. In the case of each new study, in-service versus contract cost will be compared, and conversion to contract will take place if the results of the cost studies indicate it to be the most cost effective alternative.

Conversion will come about only if detailed investigations indicate the contractor can satisfactorily perform the functions and if savings of tax dollars can be achieved. If studies confirm these criteria are met, the resulting contracts would begin in late fiscal year 81 and carry over into FY 82.

Listings of the additional conversion studies and deferred or cancelled studies and a fact sheet on policy activities are available through the Secretary of the Air Force Office of Public Affairs, Media Relations, Washington, D.C., telephone 697-5175.

Air Force activities to be studied in Texas and New Mexico for possible conversion to private contract during fiscal year 1981 are as follows:

therance of national policy regarding the acquisition of certain products and services by the government and prescribe the conditions and circumstances under which commercial or industrial activities are to be performed by in-service manpower resources or by contract services.

This policy is also in compliance with the sense of the congress, which is to have the Department of Defense use the least costly form of manpower consistent with the military requirements and other needs of the Department.

A revision to the OMB guidance document, circular A-76, was published in March 1979. The revision reaffirms the government's general policy of reliance on competitive private enterprise to supply the products and services it needs, while recognizing that governmental functions must be performed by government personnel, and that proper attention must be given to relative cost.

Definitive guidelines are provided to ensure consistency and equity to all parties in implementation of the circular. All Air Force FY 1981 cost comparison initiatives are being conducted in accordance with the provisions of the revised circular.

direct or indirect combat support, continental United States overseas rotation, and career progression requirements. Additionally, positions which must be manned by Air Force civilians because of the inherent management responsibilities of the positions or to comply with applicable Civil Service laws and Office of Personnel Management regulations are identified. Accordingly, military and Air Force civilians, as appropriate, are used to perform these workloads, and contracting is not a consideration.

For the remaining workloads, the determination is made that contracting is feasible and can be justified only if cost studies made on a case-by-case basis at each installation, show that contracting is more economical than in-service performance. The reliability, responsiveness, and overall dependability of a potential contractor are thoroughly examined before the beginning of final negotiations. Those not meeting Air Force standards are not considered for Air Force contract awards.

Sensitive to impact

The Air Force is sensitive to the personal impact these studies have on the military and civilian members when the economics of the situation dictate contracting out to be the most cost effective method of accomplishing a given function. In most cases, established reassignment policies will satisfactorily accommodate the military member. Civilian employees affected by conversions to contract are offered maximum employment assistance.

Contracts awarded as a result of reviews conducted under the revised circular A-76 include provisions, consistent with government post-employment conflict of interest standards, that the contractor will give federal employees, displaced as a result of the conversion to contract performance, the right of first refusal for employment openings on the contract in positions for which they are qualified. In addition, all eligible employees who so desire are registered in the defense-wide computerized referral programs and afforded placements rights to vacancies arising throughout the Department for which they are qualified and available.

Eligible career employees may also be registered in the Office of Personnel Management displaced employee program for referral and consideration by other federal departments and agencies.

When employees relocate in order to continue their federal employment, their transportation and moving expenses are paid to the extent authorized under current directives. Other assistance includes maintaining close liaison with the Department of Labor, state employment offices, and private industry to help employees desiring placement assistance or retraining to obtain positions in the private sector.

The use of contract services to perform non-military essential support-type functions in the Air Force is determined on a case-by-case basis in accordance with criteria established by the Office of Management and Budget. These criteria were issued in fur-

Determination

Determinations are made as to workloads that must be performed by military personnel based on the military essentiality of the positions. Criteria for military essentiality include combat, Family plan.

Why not surprise your family at dinner with a feast from Whataburger? Like our bigger, better Whataburgers, piled high with fresh lettuce, tomatoes, onions and pickles. They're practically a meal in themselves. And Whataburger Jr.'s that are just right for the kids. They all go great with our crispy, golden brown fries. Our hot, delicious onion rings. Thick shakes or ice cold, frosty drinks. With the Whataburger family plan, there's one thing you can always plan on. No leftovers.

GIVING A HOLIDAY PARTY?

Be a friend first . . . then a host or hostess.

Provide non-alcoholic drinks for your guests who may not want alcohol.

Offer coffee or soft drinks for the "one for the road."

Plan to "close the bar" at least one hour before the end of the party.

Never force drinks on your guests. If they say "no," don't insist.

Never let a guest drive away from your party under the influence. Ask someone to drive him or her home, or call a cab.

Texas Tech's David Reynolds reaches out for a rebound during last weekend's 50-49 Tech win over the Air Force Academy in the Lubbock Coliseum. Bubba Jennings, a freshman from Clovis, New Mexico and the MVP of last year's Reese Christmas Classic, spoiled the Falcons upset hopes when he hit a 15-foot jump shot with two seconds left on the clock. The Falcons had taken a one-point edge with 10 seconds left (scoreboard inset) but couldn't stop Jennings's last second heroics. (U.S. Air Force photos)

Oh so close

54th FTS falls

Five IM squads unbeaten

Only five teams remain unbeaten as the intramural basketball league heads into its second week of action.

After five nights of play, only Air Base Group, Supply, Field Maintenance, Organizational Maintenance and the Hospital have yet to lose.

Among the early casualties is the 54th Flying Training Squadron. Last year's intramural champ has already lost two games, falling to OMS, 33-31, and to FMS, 35-30.

Tied at the top of the league ladder with 3-0 records are Group, Supply and FMS.

Group beat Resource Management, 64-32; the 35th FTS, 56-31 and picked up an early 2-0 forfeit from the 1958th Communications Squadron.

Supply posted an opening night win over Sturon and then went on to down the Civil Engineers, 51-17 and Sturon, 76-29. The 76 points were the most scored so far this year.

FMS grabbed a share of the league lead by adding a 67-31 win over RM and a 61-47 victory over Sturon to its defeat of the 54th.

In other loop action, OMS picked up a forfeit from Comm. 2-0; the 54th stopped the 35th, 41-33; and the Hospital beat CE, 30-24.

Three intramural cagers broke the 20-point mark last week. Christobal Stevenson and Brian Wilkeson scored 27 and 25 points respectively in Supply's big win over Sturon while Chedrick Henderson led Group past the 35th with 21 points.

City teams beat Rattlers

Last minute rescheduling pitted the Reese Rattlers against two of the Lubbock City League's top teams last weekend. Both squads showed the Rattlers that they deserved their lofty rankings.

Shallow Waterbeds beat the Reese squad 113-97 Saturday night and E-Z, a team loaded with former Texas Tech players, topped the Rattlers, 104-97.

Reese scheduled the games against the two city powers after their expected series with William Beaumont Army Hospital was cancelled late last week.

Christobal Stevenson paced the Rattlers in defeat. He scored 26 points against Shallow Waterbeds and canned 22 counters against E-Z. Terrance Wilson scored 41 points over the two game series while Willie Hayes and Paul Caviel each scored 26.

Larry Lawrence headed the Shallow Waterbeds scoring with 26. Joe Baxter paced E-Z with 35 points while his former Texas Tech teammates Kent Williams and Tech all-conference guard Mike Edwards, each netted 28 points.

Varsity women

Reese will be the site of the Air Training Command Central Region Women's Basketball Championships here Jan. 21. Any military women wanting to play on the Reese team should contact a member of the gym staff.

Fencing arrives

Reese will hold an organizational meeting for a base fencing program Saturday at 10 a.m. in the base gym.

Gym officials are gathering several sets of fencing equipment. Instruction will be available.

Anyone interested in fencing should contact Robert Fiano at Ext. 3783.

Clear lockers

Reese personnel maintaining a locker in the base gym must have that locker cleared by closing today. The lockers must be cleared so that they can be used by the prep teams competing in the Christmas Classic next week.

Bicycles available

The base gym has bicycles available for checkout. The bikes are available for one-hour at a time and are offered as an exercise device.
