NOTICE

DIED.

On last Tuesday Mr. Slaughter who recently came here from Austin with his mother to join his sister Miss Arny Houston, died at the family residence after a long illness. We understand that he was the only son and brother. The deceased was a bright and promising young man and it is sad indeed that he should die so young, and it is with the deepest sympathy that we extend to the berieved our condolence.

Mr. P. G. Yoe has returned from the Confederate Reunion at Memphis Tennessee, and is very enthusiastic in his praise of the city. He said the city was wide open to the old soldiers, and their every want was supplied without cost. He enjoyed the speaking and in fact had a general good time. He said they had the largest crowd assembled im Memphis that ever assembled before at any place in the United State.

The Free Press wishes him the pleasure of attending many more reunions before the last roll is call.

Says He'll Raise $750,-000 by Saturday Night to Begin ON ALBUQUERQUE RAILROAD LINE.

LEAD.

"I will raise $750,000 for the Fort Worth & Albuquerque railroad before Saturday night."

This is the declaration of Charles Dickinson, who proposes to renew the campaign for the road and to work unceasingly until it is an accomplished fact.

"The road can be built by Fort Worth capital," declared Mr. Dickinson Wednesday morning. "I am going to make folks listen to me, and they have got to put up the money. The road will mean more to Fort Worth than any other single enterprise and I am sure I can interest the business men of this city in the proposition.

"Why, if I went to offer you a $20 bill for a $10 gold piece, you would take it, wouldn't you? and then you would ask me if I had any more propositions of the same kind. Same thing about this railroad to Albuquerque. It's a 2 to 1 proposition with nochance to lose.

At a Dutch lunch given by Mr. Dickinson at the Siebold Tuesday night 100 representative business men were present. 'S Twell' as a delegation from Graham, which wants the road to come that way and is willing to help pay for it.

Enthusiasm ran high, and $100,000 was pledged toward the $1,000,000 construction company which Mr. Dickingon proposes to organize. The list is headed by the firm of Capps & Cantey, which subscribes $20,000; George Reynolds $20,000; Judge S. D. Lary, $20,000, and Marion Sansom $25,000. Mr. Dickinson proposes that the organization of the company be effected as d a long time

The proposed line would traverse a section of country west of Fort Worth 100 miles broad and almost midway between the Texas & Pacific and the Fort Worth & Denver lines.

Mr. Dickinson points out that it would not only open up a rich agricultural section, but would bring Fort Worth into direct touch with rich, undeveloped coal mines that would insure cheap coal for Fort Worth. "And p coal means more factories,' said Mr. Dickinson.

At the luncheon ... . . ay night, Mr. Dickinson, William Chapps, Judge James W. Swayne, Clarence Ousley, Mayor W. D. Davis, T. T. D. Andrews, George T. Reynolds, President Crawford of the Graham National bank, M. K. Graham of Graham and F. M. Rogers all made talks flovoring the proposition,-Fort Worth Star Telegram.

This is the best railroad proposition ever presented to Haskell. There was a company charter 1 for this line in the 80's and the Free Press published the notice c a stockholders meeting to issue bonds to build the road at that time, but owing to the many enter rises the young city of Fort Wor had on foot, the scheme fell through and Fort Worth has buil ut few railroads for about two decades, but the men who made fort Worth are still active and those people have shown more enterprises, built more railroads than any other city in the South.

All the western county seat towns have looked to Fort Worth to do things and when she starts this enterprise, there is not a town nor an enterprise on the line from Fort Worth to Albuquerque that will not give material aid. The old charter called for Haskell and if Haskell gets a chance at this railroad we will show the bonus hunting, town booming railroad promoters that have butchered up West Texas, that a trunk line from Fort Worth to Albuquerque, through real towns and county seats is a proposition that will pay.

The remark of Mr. Bryce in his "American Commonwealth," that the founders of the constitution were men who believed firmly in original sin and left no door open they could shut, is very applicable and deserves special study just now. #### Rabbinical Wit.

An English rabbi was asked if there was any weighty reason against having a clock in the synagogue. "By no means," was the reply. "Have your clock, but put it outside the building, and then you can tell how late you come to the service." Two rabbis were passing the beautiful synagogue in which one of them officiated. "How I envy you!" said the first. "You must be in a paradise." "Hold, friend!" the second explained. "In the original paradise there was only one serpent, but in this congregation are many of them."

Help for the Artists.

The comic supplements are filled these days with pictures representing some of the foolish questions that people ask. Here is a suggestion for one:

A man was walking hastily through the rain yesterday afternoon, his umbrella raised and his head bent. An acquaintance, standing in a doorway, hailed him:

"Say," he shouted, "are you goisg to use that umbrella? If you're not, lend it to me!"

Doesn't that capture the icing?

The colonel grinned responsively. "You do it very well," said he. "Can't you let me into the game?"

"What became of the Filipino?" inquired his listener.

The colonel had not told the story quite without intention. He argued we were so sorry for him, the hotel subconsciously, that if Mercer were a good sort under all, he would have a movement of sympathy for a more cruelly wronged man than he; if not, sent presents to Phil and my mother he would drive ahead to his purpose, whatever that might be. affable young presence Birdsall approached his employer. It had been a detective. Vague instinct warned him not to touch the subject of Miss Smith: he felt in no way assured about anything else. The result had been that he had fidgeted in silence. But the accumulated flood could no longer be held.

"I've found out one thing," exploded Birdsall, puffing in the haste of his ut-"The boy is on the premterance. ises."

"I'm sure of it. Say, I overheard Mercer talking down a speaking-tube."

"What did he say?" "Talked French, damn him! But

"What's cupillo gorge?"

"Sure he wasn't talking of a carriage, or did he say je le couperai la gorge?"

"Maybe. I wouldn't swear to it. don't parlez francais a little bit." "Did you hear any other noises?

noises, and that they were down cellar. 'And, anyhow, colonel, I'm dead-torights sure those guys are giving us hot stuff to get us out of the house. I'm for getting our men in now and rushing the house. It's me for the cellar."

While the colonel was rolling Birdsall's information around in his mind, he heard the echo of steps on the flagging which preceded Mercer and the other man.

There was that in the bearing and the look of them that made the watcher, used to the signs of decision on men's faces, instantly sure that their whole course of plans and action was changed.

Mercer spoke first and fr. a low tone to the colonel.

"I have no right," said he, "to ask so much trust from you, but will you trust me enough to step aside with this young man and me for a moment only-out of earshot? I give you my word of honor I mean no lightest harm to you. I want to be frank. I will go alone if you desire."

The colonel eyed him intently for the briefest space. "I'll trust you," said he. Then: "I think you have the to this queer mix-up. At your rvice. And let your friend come, too. He is an ingenuous sort, and he amuses me.'

Birdsall looked distinctly sullen over the request to wait, intimating quite frankly that his employer was walking into a trap. "I won't stand here more than 15 minutes," he grumbled, "I've given those fellows poco tiente long

"Absolutely. You may trust him." "What's his real game, then? The

"I'd like to have you," answered the soldier. "I think you have the clew to Archie's whereabouts and don't recognize it yourself; so put me wise, as the slang goes.' Then, without preface, in brief, nervous sentences, spoken hardly with a quiver of a muscle or a wavering cadence of the voice, yet nevertheless instinct with a deadly earnestness, Mercer began to talk. He told of his struggling youth on the drained plantation, mortgaged so that after the interest was paid there was barely enough to set the meagerest living for mother and sister and little brother; of his accidental discovery of iron ore on the place; of his working as a common laborer in the steel mills; of his being "rooster," "strand-boy," "rougher," "heater," "roller," during three years while he was waiting for his chance; of his heart-draining toil; of his solitary studies.

"I never was the kind of fellow to make friends," he said, in his soft, monotonous voice, "so I expect I was the fonder of my own kin. I'd a mighty good mother, sir, and sister; and there was Phil-my little brother. There is no seed to replant and if it does not put out anew. there will be little cotton in the ruined district. There is time for maize; millet, June corn and there is a good market for these grains and the situation demands that every farmer get busy. The merchants have been hard hit and the banks are going to have a heavy burden to carry. Let no man sit down and trust to luck but get up and get a move on him. If the season s late the harvest may be the best we ever had.

Ordinance Relative To Hitching Teams.

Be it ordained by the city Council of the City of Haskell; Art. 1. Introduced July 1, 1907. Passed July 1st. 1907. Approved July 2nd, 1907. A. S. Smith, Mayor of the City of Haskell. Attest: O. E. PATTERSON, City Secretary.

This ordinance will be strickly enforced after this issue.

The Quart And The Spur

By Edgar Rye.

Mr. Edgar Rye in his new book, "The Quirt and the Spur." has given the public a true record of a period in the history of have been told by some who Texas that is without parallel. have had cotton beat down by He relates in a forceful, vigerous hail before, that the plant will way reminiscences of ranch life in the early days, in the days before the railroads ventured west and before the wire fence made its appearance on the range. The scene of his book is laid in Shackelford County and the country surrouneing old Ft. Griffin. Its characters are the early settlers of this part of the country, many of whom are still living.

To these and their decendents the book will be of especial interest. The reader is entertained and charmed with anecdotes and stories that read like fiction yet are literally true. Stories of real Indians and real cowboys, and the big-hearted cattlemen, who by braving the dangers and hardships of the times, made possible the settling of the frontier. The writer's tribute to these men is very touching. He emphacizes their hospitality and their high-minded, generous natures. And the cowboy-that unique individual, that type, which is passing as did the buffalo and the Indian-to him is given all honor.

Mr. Rye will be remembered by many of the present citizens of Albany. He was for many years edior of the Albany News and was the architect who drew the plans for the Albany Court House and mill. He now leves at Wichita Falls, where he holds important official position. / His book will be read with pleasure and appreciation. - Baird Star.

placed in a real sepulcher and his real body came out of this real sepulcher. He was pronounced dead by the disinterested officials who were sent to examine him. His friends believed him dead. for some of them came with spices to embalm him. The fact of his resurrection is as well attested as the tact of his death and burial. Peter and John find the tomb empty without any evidence of robbery, for everything is in order. He showed him seslf to Mary, who at first takes him for the gardener. Then he appears to the two disciples on the way to Emmans. Again, while the doors are shut he appears in the midst of his disciples. Then more than 500 brethren see him at once. To one who accepts the Biblical record as authoritative the fact of the resurrection is proved beyond the shadow of a loubt.

The open sepulcher, in the second place, confirms the fact of the deity of Christ. If he did ont rise from he dead, he was, of course, a mere man and his death was that of a victim and not a king, and the world s benefited no more by his death han by the death of any other martyr to a noble mission. But the open sepulcher proves that all he claimed of Deity for himself and all his triends claimed tor him was true. God, with power, by the resurrection from the dead.

The open sepulcher, in the third place, is the fulfillment of prophecy. He rose from the dead according to the Scriptures. We read in Psalms thou art my Son; this day have I rought thee forth." And we learn in Acts 13:33 that these words preilet the resurrection of Jesus. The words of Hosea: "In the third day he will rise up and we shall rise in his sight," point forward to the resurrec tion of Jesus and of all his people with nim. Thus, as Peter tells us, the apirit of Christ did signify in orophecy "when it testified beforehand the sufferings of Christ and the glory that should follow."

The open sepulcher, in the fourth place, is itself a prophecy. It predicts the resurrection of all the dead. "Now Somerviller With a maniacal shrielt, is Christ risen from the dead and be-

The body of Christ came out of the sepulcher and our bodies will come out of their graves. "The hour is coming in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice and shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of judgment."-John 5:28. The Christian will come forth in his glorified body. "Sown a natural body; raised a spiritual body." "Sown in corruption." it will be "raised in incorruption." "Sown in weakness, it will be raised in power." "Sown in dishonor," it will be "raised in glory." The open sepulcher of Jesus is a prophecy that the bodies of my loved ones whom I buried beneath the sod case has been on trfal for two weaks will come forth, leaving behind them all carnality, corruption, weakness and dishonor. There has been a res titution of all things they have lost through sin.

The open sepulcher, in the fifth place, comforts us in apparent failures. Every appearance indicated that Jesus was a failure and that his life work would count for nothing. He had been crucified as a malefactor. His disciples were discouraged and scattered. His body, pronounced dead, was guarded by the Roman seal and Constables' Association of Texas. a band of Roman soldiers. The sun of Christianity, to be sure, had gone down in gloom, and there is no star n the sky of its night. But suddenly the angel appears, suddenly the carthquake breaks the Roman seal. suddenly the stone is rolled away and suddenly Jesus walks out of the sepulcher. It is a sunrise at midnight. Jesus is in the midst of his disciples filling them with faith and hope. The open sepulcher, in the sixth place, gives us a story to tell. The angel said: "Go quickly and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead." The disciples all believed that Christ had died, but the fact of the resurrection was -eder to give them assurance that his death was more of the death of Jesus. If he rose from

These Farmers are Building a Rural TelephoneLine

It is the most valuable thing for a community to possess. It puts the doctor, merchant, broker, depot, post office, relatives and friends all within immediate reach. It protects the home and does away with the isolation of farm life that drives the boys and girls to the big cities.

Have You a Rural Telephone? If you have not, cut out this advertisement, write your name and address on the margin and mail it to our nearest house to-day. Upon receipt of your address we will send you at once a copy of our Free Bulletin No. 105 on

"How to Build Rural Telephone Lines and their Costs"

We have sold nearly fifty thousand farmers' telephones since March 1st. The cost is very low where each sub-scriber helps build the line. Get your family doctor and merchant interested, it helps them and the whole community as well as you.

By pressing the button at any time during the night he turns on a small electric light connected under the dial, and the outlines of the numerals are reflected on the celling. The shadow of the dial is four or five feet in diameter.

Didn't Think Much of New York. A young man, twenty-three years old, was the center of an interested assembly in one of the stores in a littown in Rockland county a few days ago. He had just returned from his first visit to New York and his friends were anxious to hear all about what he had seen and experienced. He was less enthusiastic than his neighbors expected him to be, and, contrary to their expectations, saw nothing wonderful. The friend whom he had visited worked in a stable and he spent the day with him "helping around." then went to a moving picture show in the Bowery, took a walk in that part of the city, went to bed and next

In the wreck of the K. C., M. & O. Railroad train, caused by wind blowing it from the Brazos River bridge, J. E. Tex., was killed and eleven persons more or less badly hurt.

Haskell, June 14 .- Haskell was visited Thursday night by a windstorm which caused seven deaths, blew down cloud appeared to divide, a part going to each side of Haskell, Nearly every one had sought refuge in storm houses and no one was hurt in town.

The family of R. S. Middleton, three miles east of Haskill, succeeded in getting into their storm cellar, but the house was blown on the storm cellar, crushing in the top, burying Mrs. Middleton, four children, three boys, ages 6, 7 and 8, and a baby three days old, and Miss Maggle Bishop, 16, who was visiting the family; But Mr. Middleton and two of the children were standing in the doorway of the cellar and escaped. They gave the alarm and the bodles were soon recovered, but not before life was extinct. The wind w: s accompanied by a heavy rain.

Friday afternoon a dense black cloud appeared in the west and soon came up. The people again took refuge in cellars. Mrs. Brooks, an aged lady, died of fright. Rain fell in torrents for several minutes, accompanied by a severe hall and windstorm. In a few minutes several houses were blown down. At least fifty windmills

"FAITH" ALL THAT WAS LEFT

Symbols of "Hope" and "Charity" Had Got Away from Unfortunate Sunday School Scholar.

A young Philadelphia Sunday school teacher tells this story of the result of an attempted application of the principles of economics:

For some time she had endeavored to impress upon the minds of one of her charges the names of the three qualities, faith, hope, and charity. One Sunday she presented the pupil of the poor memory with three new shining coins, a penny, a five-cent piece, and a dime.

"The penny," she said, "represents faith, the five-cent piece hope, and the dime charity. Keep these coins and every time you look at them think of what they stand for."

The Sunday following the teacher reviewed the lesson of the week before, and called upon the holder of the coins to produce them and give their names in proper sequence. The youngster shuffled from one leg to the other, stammered, blushed and seemed altogether overcome with mortification. Finally he burst out with:

"Please, Miss Fanny, I ain't got nuthin' left but faith. Baby swallered hope, and mamma took charity and bought ten cents' worth of meat

AGONIZING ITCHING.

Eczema for a Year-Got No Relief Even at Skin Hospital-In Despair

Until Cuticura Cured Him.

"I was troubled with a severe itching and dry, scrufy skin on my ankles, feet, arms and scalp. Scratching made it worse. Thousands of small red pimples formed and these caused intense itching. I was advised to go to the hospital for diseases of the skin. I did so, the chief surgeon saying: "I never saw such a bad case of eczema." But I got little or no relief. Then I tried many so-called remedies, but I became so bad that I almost gave up in despair. After suffering agonies for twelve months, I was relieved of the almost unbearable itching after two or three applications of Cuticura Ointment. I continued its use, combined with Cuticura Soap and Pills, and I was completely cured. Henry Searle, Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 8 and 10, 1907." Fotter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston.

and the window lights on the west side of every house in town were wrecked and the roofs of many buildings were beaten to pieces by the large hallstones. Broken window lights and damaged roofs allowed the rain to pour in.

The rain fell in such quantities that the town was soon practically flooded. The water was from one to four feet deep all over town, running into many houses, but the damage to the contents had already been done by the falling torrents pouring through damaged roofs and broken window lights. At least 75 per cent of the flues were blown off. Not a building escaped damage.

Crops and vegitation were greately damaged.

Many were brused and injured and the doctors are buisy. The water has been so high that no exact estimate of the damage could be gotten. Telephone lines are down and reports cannot be had from the country.

Sees Final Victory Over Tuberculosis. Dr. William Osler says: "Whether tuberculosis will be finally eradicated is an open question. It is a foe that is very deeply intrenched in the human race. Very hard it will be to eradicate completely, but when we think of what has been done in one generation, how the mortality in many places has been reduced more than 50 per cent .- indeed, in some places 100 per cent .-- it is a battle of hope, and so long as we are fighting with hope, the victory is in sight."

"I was so pleased with it, that after the meal was over, I bought a package to carry home with me, and had wife prepare some for the next meal. The whole family were so well pleased with it, that we discontinued coffee and used Postum entirely.

"I had really been at times very anxious concerning my mother's condition, but we noticed that after using Postum for a short time, she felt so much better than she did prior to its use, and had little trouble with her heart and no sick stomach; that the headaches were not so frequent, and her general condition much improved. This continued until she was as well and hearty as the rest of us.

"I know Postum has benefited myself and the other members of the family, but not in so marked a degree as in the case of my mother, as she was a victim of long standing." Read, "The Road to Wellville," in paga. "There's a Reason."

The third annual meeting of the Central West Texas Association of Commercial Clubs was held in Abilene on Tuesday, June 15th. The meeting was largely attended and was a great success. The principal speakers of the occasion were Hon. Hatten W. Summers of Dallas, Profs. C. E. Evans, General Agent for the Conference for Education in Texas, and Dr. H. H. Harrington, director of Experimental stations. All of these gentlemen made very able and pointed addresses.

Resolutions were adopted urging closer relations between the town man and the farmers and urging the necessity of better educational facilities for Central West Texas. The people of this section were urged to vote for the constitutional amendment to be submitted on August 3rd, for

The following officers were elected: W. T. Potter, Merkel, Trammell. Martin, Roby and W. M. Webb.
