

New Teachers In Public School Faculty Floydada

Teachers who were elected for next school year for Floydada public schools and their assignments were announced this week by E. Patty, superintendent. The faculty will include only eight new teachers. A public school music teacher was added to the faculty and Miss Lauream Christian was elected for that place.

Concerning the new teachers Mr. Patty said: "O. K. Davis, who takes Mr. Carter's place as teacher of general science and other subjects holds an A. B. degree from Simmons University and comes to us highly recommended with seven years of successful teaching.

"Miss Mabel Mansell, who is a graduate from the University of Texas, holding both the B. A. and M. A. degrees from that institution, will take Miss Lyda Smith's place as teacher of English, Miss Smith having recently resigned to accept the head of the English department in the high school at Mart, her home town. We feel that we are fortunate in the selection of Miss Mansell who declined a much more attractive offer and accepted the place here because Floydada is to her home.

"Miss Hazel Tyson comes to us from the College of Industrial Arts where she made a fine record in college work and in her practical teaching in the Denton High school, and also as student assistant in chemistry in the college. She will take Mrs. Clement's place and declined her contract for another year.

"Miss Sue Irene Uhl comes to us with a B. S. degree from the University of Texas where she specialized in vocational Home Economics. She has 22 courses in domestic to her credit and has a fine record both as student and teacher. She will take Miss Lucille Hill's place.

"Miss Lauream Christian has been successful teacher of public school for several years, but has spent this entire year in western University in special education for her subject. She is well known to Floydada people and we are glad to have her here as an excellent teacher.

"Mrs. G. B. Schmid comes to us highly endorsed by the people of Dalhart where she has been teaching. She has had excellent training and broad experience.

"Miss Emma Lou McKinney is well and favorably known to many of the patrons as she taught here in the system very successfully for two or three years, but is now returning to us after receiving her A. B. degree from West Texas State Teachers' College.

"W. H. Scoggins will again be principal of high school and will also teach science. Other members of the faculty will be: O. T. Williams, vocational agriculture; George E. McWhirter, history; H. H. Cunningham, commercial; T. H. Jones, mathematics and athletics; O. K. Davis, general science; Miss Dorothy Beibel, English; Miss Mary Emma Rosson, Latin and English; Miss Mabel Mansell, English; Miss Pauline Keeton, Spanish; Miss Daltis Rea, history; Miss Jewell Brock, mathematics; Miss Hazel Tyson, foods; Miss Sue Irene Uhl, clothing; Miss Lena Pennington, librarian.

Assisting him will be: Richard Stovall, geography and athletics; Miss Lula Belsher, English intermediate grades; Mrs. J. H. Green, arithmetic intermediate grades; Mrs. Violet West, Sone, reading intermediate grades; Miss Judie Lee Miller, History intermediate grades; Miss Ruby Norton, spelling and writing intermediate grades; Mrs. O. T. Williams, high fourth grade; Miss Katherine Burchow fourth grade; Mrs. A. D. Cummings, third grade; Mrs. Myrtle (Continued on back page)

Refunding Bond Issue Given 2 To 1 Majority

The refunding bond issue of $158,500 voted upon by property taxpayers Tuesday, carried by a majority of slightly more than two to one, although only a light vote was cast. The vote for the issue was 72 and against 35.

The bonds to be issued will take up a similar amount of city warrants issued last year by the City Council to carry forward a program of municipal improvements that included city water and sewer extensions, additional water supply wells and equipment, city, office and fire station and the city's portion of the 1928 paving program. Geo. L. Simpson & Company were the buyers of the warrants and are taking up the bonds in pursuance of a contract made at the time the warrants were sold.

The warrants bore an interest rate of six per cent, the bonds to carry a rate of 5 1/2 per cent.

Country Club Members Enjoy Barbecue-Picnic

Members of the Floydada Country Club and their families, numbering 300 or more enjoyed a picnic barbecue at the club house Thursday evening of last week, the affair being an annual event that is looked forward to every spring.

Mutton from the club's own flock was a part of the menu for the event, coffee, soda pop, pickles, bread, cakes and other edibles being included. W. M. Windsor and J. W. Clonts, members of the committee on the feed called in the services of J. H. Shurbit in the preparation of the barbecue.

Threatening rainstorms prevented the presentation of the program the committee had outlined. However, a brief business session was held at which directors for the ensuing year were selected. Five of the last year's board were retained. They are Lon M. Davis, Dr. V. Andrews, G. C. Tubbs, B. P. Woody and R. C. Scott.

J. W. Clonts and E. S. Randerson are two new members of the board.

The new school will likely be built at South Plains, it is expected. The vote in Sunset Consolidated District was sixty-eight for and twelve against a bond issue of $16,000 to build and equip the school.

In Goodnight District Tuesday the taxpayers also voted on a question of a $10,000 bond issue to build a new school at Edgin Switch, near the present site of the school but nearer the railway. This school will be of brick also. The vote was thirty for and none against the bond issue.

Disappointment at their failure to make the scheduled good will trip to Floydada and Lubbock will not prevent an enthusiastic group of Oklahoma City business and professional men from making the delayed visit to these cities and definite information that the special all pullman train will arrive in Floydada next Monday morning at 6:16 has been received by the local Chamber of Commerce. Accompanying the delegation will be several citizens of Lawton, Snyder, Altus and Chickasha who plan to board the train as it passes through that part of Oklahoma.

The heavy rains of last week which washed out the 200 foot Quannah, Acme & Pacific bridge over Dutchman creek near Roaring Springs necessitated the postponement of the trip as originally planned, otherwise the train would have arrived in Floydada last Monday morning. Chamber of Commerce committees here had practically completed arrangements for the entertainment of the visitors and several slight changes were made necessary when it was found that the trip would be delayed, however the breakfast and overland trip to Lubbock will be carried out as first planned with the exception of a change in the hour of the breakfast from 7:00 a. m. to 6:30 a. m., according to Mrs. G. A. Linder, general chairman of the ladies committees. The breakfast will be held in the Finkner building on West California street.

Unless several who had not contemplated taking their cars to Lubbock decided to do so next Monday when the visitors go to that city from Floydada it will be necessary to call on the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce to assist in furnishing automobiles for the trip and a special effort to secure an additional number to make up the caravan being made by Roy Snodgrass, C. Tubbs and O. P. Rutledge form the transportation committee.

Leaving from West California street at 8:15 a. m. the caravan proceed to Lubbock where the tire delegation will be the guest of the Lubbock Board of City Improvement at luncheon in the Ly Hotel. A tour of the city will precede the luncheon hour. The turn trip will begin at 1:00 and the schedule calls for the departure of the visitors from Floydada at 3:00 p. m.

Keen disappointment at the failure to make the trip as scheduled was expressed in a wire from Overhulser, president of the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce to the local organization. Mr. Overhulser will have charge of the trip.

That those who plan to make trip to Lubbock should attend breakfast and be prepared to leave immediately was pointed out by B. Jenkins, president of the Chamber of Commerce. This will avoid confusion and arrangements to include this number at the breakfast has been made, it was stated.

THE DEBENTURE PLAN

The debenture plan, which was espoused especially by a number of southern and western representatives in Congress, seems without doubt to have been eliminated from the plan that will be adopted soon or later by congress and the president.

To the initiated the debenture plan, as formulated by Senator Tom Connally and ably presented in the house by Congressman Marvin Jones seems to be a sensible and workable idea. However, it is noticeable that Big Business with a capital B does not seem to like the idea. This conclusion is drawn from the fact that representatives from many of the districts where large wealth has accumulated, are unalterably opposed to the debenture plan. President Hoover, himself, is very much set against the plan, it is said. Big Business used to have many ideas inimicable to the best interests of the country. Nowadays, a very large per centage of the big business men think in terms of the country and the common welfare of all. Perhaps Big Business is right this time. Since it seems that their ideas are bound to prevail rather than the ideas of the political leaders in the agricultural states, let us hope that a plan to be worked out for Farm Relief that does not include the debenture, will be a workable one and give some actual relief.

SETTING GOOD EXAMPLES

While some of the bigger property holders apparently think that since they have and hold considerable property in Floydada and in good old days it was not thought necessary to cut weeds and keep the property in presentable condition, it ought not to be necessary more modern day. We say aptly, because it may be that just hadn't thought of it. However, we note some of the owners of property in the city limit have not waited for notices to vacant property but have promptly kept their property of weeds, both wet and dry. It certainly adds to the mess of things to see the weeds cut, and it detracts mightily as they're not cut. It is particularly noticeable that the bigger corporation the more scrupulously careful they are to keep their properties presentable. That is one tribute of bigness—to be thorough the little things as well as in the ones.

SUNDAY AT LUBBOCK

If you made a guess what would figure be for the number of persons, who, instead of joyriding around Floydada or in the adjacent country, at the Country Club, elsewhere, spent last Sunday afternoon at the talks in Lubbock? Put it up around fifty and you'll be conservative. And then count up the number of Floydada people who go every week to Lubbock, Amarillo, Abilene, Temple, Fort Worth, Dallas or elsewhere for their operations, their real examinations, etc. These two things alone—amusements and health—Floydada people are paying a heavy toll to the centers of population. The toll is high, and it will steadily mount, of course, unless developments at Floydada are such as to "hold things together" nearer to home.

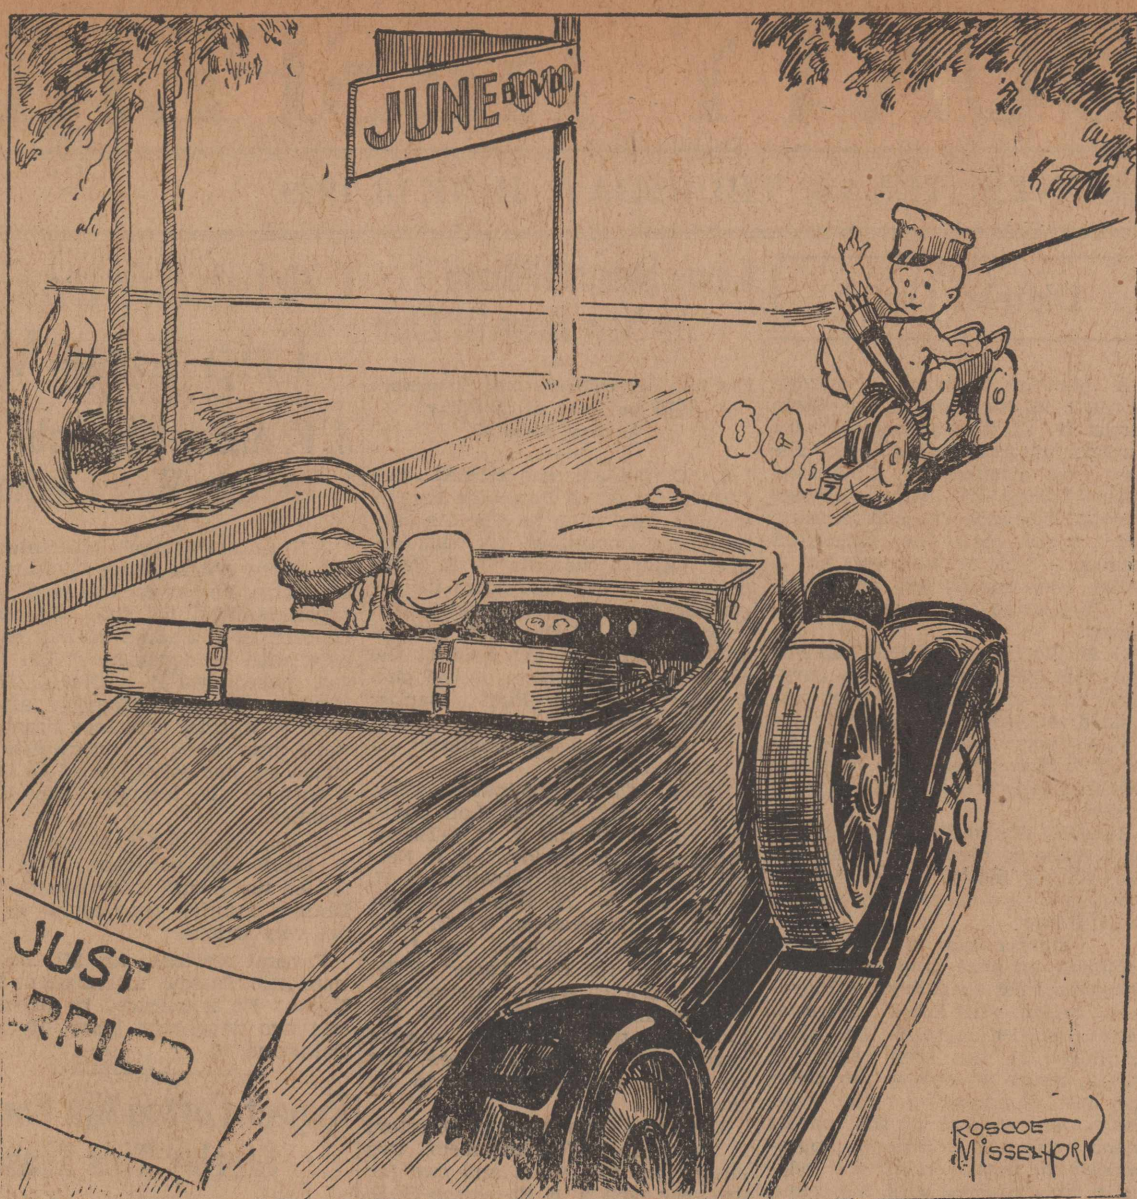

PEOPLES READ CARELESSLY

People talk about newspapers being so careless in the handling of news, and so careless, even when they have the facts, in their manner of presenting them. This is probably a well-taken position. Newspapers are too careless in the main, and will have to admit. However, newspapers are no more careless in their preparation of news matter and its presentation to the public than is the public in reception of the news. Perhaps a better illustration of this fact is found than in the average column where events of a past decade or more are re-counted. Recently, hostilities almost broke out over a "14 bars ago" item in The Hesperian. The Dallas News, in its daily fifty-five years ago" column, brands the age of the stories three different ways, and it is said a copy of that paper rarely goes on the streets that somebody doesn't call The News and want an explanation of one of the stories so plainly branded. Peculiarly enough, the folks don't seem to blame the newspaper so much for misprinting the news as they blame some unknown person who wilfully misled the news with phoney information.

WHEAT THIS SEASON?

At various stages of maturing, looking better than in the rains began to dry and some looking anticipated, with dotted yield-highs and lows and ordinaries all running along together in the same community.

Market conditions have been alternately encouraging and discouraging, what with jumps and drops, while the big dealers and manufacturers of flour wonder which way the eventual turn will be—up to a point where the farmer can realize some profit from a reasonable yield, or still further down.

A thing that usually helps the local markets is the protein content, which is unusually high through this section. Even this is questionable this season, as the wheat is maturing under exceptionally wet conditions over most of the country. Our idea has been that the high protein content develops where the crops mature under reasonably dry climatic condition.

INCREASE HIS SALARY

The salary of the governor of Texas is $4,000 "and no more," under the constitutional provisions by which our state was established but there is an amendment up to the people whereby they can remedy this matter by voting for a change in the constitution that would make the governor's salary $10,000 per year "and no more."

This change is on the basis of sound logic. Texas needs a twenty-five thousand dollar man for the job of governor, and they are certainly to be had—men worth nearly $25,000 per year than a lot of us are worth the money we draw for the work we do. $10,000 as the salary is a compromise with the penny-wise and proud foolish folk who would get a man for the job for nothing if they were not ashamed to do so. $10,000 would give a reasonably poor man with the ability an opportunity to be governor, whereas under present conditions no such thing is possible without a sacrifice that should not be asked.

Let's make it unanimous for a salary that will be more nearly in line with the worth of the type of man we need for the job.

TREMENDOUS YIELDS FURTHER NORTH

North and northwest of Floyd County, such wheat crops as are approaching maturity were almost never seen before. Yields which give promise of tremendous figures are in prospect.

The north plains and that area of the territory south of Amarillo, lying mostly west, north, and northwest of Hale County have crops of wheat that are going to be mighty big. That is the section which is going to furnish the production rated so high for the plains by the forecasters.

IMPROVING THE DAIRY HERDS

Undoubtedly the improvement in the type of dairy cattle in Floyd County the past year or two has been raised very much. The looks of the cows you see about the farm homes of the county certainly is impressive and if the productive qualities of the cows is as "typical" as the appearance, the production per cow has certainly been raised and the cost per pound of butterfat materially reduced.

Manufacturers and distributors in the cities are attempting to make money by giving their customers a better product at a lower cost, through the means of better production machinery—in other words, by reducing the cost of production, while keeping up the quality. This is not intended as a lecture, but it points its own moral. The big business man usually sets an example that the smaller business man can shoot at with profit. Better dairy cows on the farm apparently should mean lower production costs, even though the individual cow (manufacturing unit) cost more than the one she replaced. That may be just dairying on paper, but it at least sounds like common sense.

NOW, SOON CITY DELIVERY

City delivery for Floydada is put sufficiently far in the future by the department—September first—that residents will have ample time to acquaint themselves with the requirements they must meet to take advantage of this added service. Simple and inexpensive are the requirements made.

Two deliveries daily—the first in the forenoon, and the second in the afternoon—are contemplated, it is said. Parcel post deliveries will also be made. All of which will add just that much more to the convenience of living in Floydada. It is another forward step in prospect.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Miller of Trinidad were here Saturday for a short visit with Miss Marie Strange. They were enroute to Boulder, Colorado to enter school.

J. J. Davis returned home the latter part of last week from Carlsbad, New Mexico, where he had been visiting and on business for the past month.

With Old Battleaxe (Himself)

Page Mr. Ripley! Old Battleaxe and Floydada has got more "Believe-it-or-nots" than most any other place on the universe. Here's some of them:

Believe it or not—an advertisement in the Hesperian fourteen years ago carried a picture of a horse and sulky and advertised a garage.

Believe it or not—Floydada has a lake with a concrete bottom, partially surrounded by a modern depot. And plans are now under way to stock this "depot pavement lake" with gold fish.

Believe it or not—If Old Battleaxe didn't know how to swim, he would be learning pretty quick. If

The TOWN DOCTOR

(The Doctor of Towns)

SAYS

A MAN CAN APPRECIATE ONLY THAT WHICH HE KNOWS. Records show that many of the old sayings are falling by the wayside, the latest of which is the one about the impossibility of converting the hearing apparatus of a female omnivorous mammal into a silk overnight bag. A man in New York has ruined that by actually making silk of a sow's ear. But the tried and proven statement that "A man can appreciate only that which he knows" will undoubtedly outlive the span of years of the most of us.

Arthur Brisbane tells a story about a brown rat in Lincoln Park, Chicago. This rat lives happily in his hole under a tree, never doubting but that the whole park was made just for him, as some people believe the whole town in which they live was made just for them. This rat is an honest-to-god rat, he cannot understand anything that he cannot understand and prove, and as he cannot understand or prove very much, he is happy and self satisfied. He is a good rat, however, minds his own business, and keeps regular hours. He runs up and down his little path, looks with contempt at the queer animals which live up the tree, and some day he will die in his hole, with his teeth grown long, convinced that he has not missed a thing that life has to offer.

Without intention of drawing any undue comparisons, the fact nevertheless remains that in every community there are residents, who, like the rat, deny what they can not understand; citizens who are contemptuous of that which is near them, and that which COULD be appreciated. Intellectually, these people are as rats—rodents to the civic life of community. These people do not KNOW but unlike the case of rats, it DOES make a difference and upon the shoulders of somebody or some group of somebodies is the responsibility of doing that which is necessary to make them appreciate.

The voters who deter the building of better schools, the paving of roads and streets, the making of play grounds, the laying of sewers, the installation of disposal plants and water filtration plants; the business people who insist on being "storekeepers" and "pooch-pooch" the idea of clerk training, yet weep and wail that chain store and capital are ruining their business; the resident to whom a stranger says: "This looks like a pretty good town," and replies: "Yeah, it's all right, if you like it;" the merchant that the community has supported but who refuses to belong to a service club or a civic organization, and who belittles, runs down and decries every attempt on the part of anyone to help the community; Mr. Average Citizen who sits back and says nothing, does nothing, with an "It's none of my affair" attitude; the ever-present percentage that go out of their way to run the community down maliciously; the resident who takes no part in the clean-up campaign, an orphan's home benefit, hospital or other charitable drive; the property owner, resident or otherwise, who refuses to eradicate visible community abominations; the man, grown old, who cares not a whit if the swimming pool of his forgotten boyhood joys is polluted with the refuse of his factory; the gossip, the civic derelict, the knocker and the fool—THESE are the rodents who must be SHOWN and taught the costliness of their ways before, and in order that they may appreciate.

Now is the time for every THINKING citizen and civic organization, every business man and every city official to awaken to the very evident fact that "What was, isn't"—that things have changed and that old fashioned ideas of community life will not stand the gaff of modern ways of doing things.

these rains continue, the floods might come up over the cap.

Believe it or not—Floydada has more city paving than any other city its size has twice as much dirt and trash as the average city has on twice this amount of paving.

A fellow from Roaring Springs died and went where all good people go. He was relating to a group of bystanders how the floods had got so bad on earth that they swamped even the higher places, when he noticed a woman who apparently did not believe his story. "You don't believe it, do you?" he asked. "Well, who are you to sneer at an enormous amount of water?" "Oh, nobody," was the answer. "I'm Mrs. Noah!"

Believe it or not—They have no insane asylums in Arabia. There are nomad people there.

Today's smile: As scarce as lights on the court house dome.

Believe it or not—Floydada will soon have six drug stores and confectionaries. Before long, it will be easy to buy a coco cola.

Believe it or not—O. B. is making a feeble attempt to grow a mustache. And co-operation? Boy howdy! That guy on California street said that he would pray for a wet summer, so that it would not sap me too much, and the Lions Club has offered to buy some fertilizer to help it's growth. Ain't it funny. When a fellow tries to do something that don't need any help, everybody wants to help. But when it comes to doing something worthwhile, like building a municipal auditorium, etc., everybody is too busy, or don't have the money. Tain't fair.

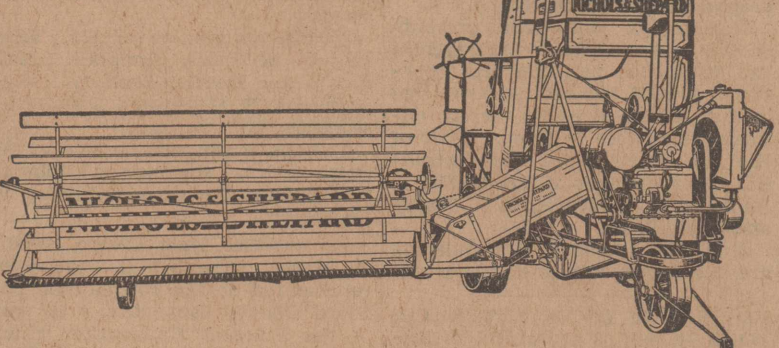

These merchants round the square get real funny sometimes. Last week, Frank Harmon wanted to sell O. B. one of his new Rip Van Winkle rugs. They have an unusually long nap.

O. B. has said so much about our court house that you may not take much stock in this story, but believe it or not? A stranger visiting in our town last week asked O. B. whether this was a good town or not and we went into detail about the advantages of "The Gateway to the Plains," about what it plans to have and what it hopes to have someday. "Well," he replied, "a person would never suspect it after looking at your run-down court house." Believe it or not!

Final believe it or not—It took O. B. not less than two hours to write this boloney, and it will take each of our six readers not more than two minutes to read it. But if they get as much kick out of reading it as we do out of writing it, they will have each spent an enjoyable hour.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Dick O'Brien, Pastor
We regret that our services were interrupted last Sunday. But do not expect it to happen again. Many have expressed themselves as having enjoyed services at other churches in town. This is as it should be.

Next Sunday we expect to have all services on the regular schedule. A childrens program will be given between the Sunday School and preaching hour. The teachers are working faithfully on this program, and it will be worth your while to be present.

The special duet which was to have been given last Sunday morning will be rendered at the morning hour next Sunday. There will also be special musical numbers at the evening services.

We were with the church at Quitaque last Sunday for their special dedication service in their new building. They are certainly to be congratulated upon the fine workshop they have erected.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

G. T. Palmer, Pastor.
Sunday school meets at 9:45 a. m. Preaching by the pastor at 11:00 a. m. There will not be any preaching at the evening hour on account of the evangelistic services being held under the city tabernacle by the Nazarene Church. We are glad to co-operate with those who are working for the salvation of the lost, and we urge our people to attend these meetings as much as possible.

The three Epworth Leagues will meet at 7:30 p. m. Our Leagues are doing splendid work, and these organizations should have the assistance of the older people of the church. The League is the training camp for the young life of the church, and is of the greatest importance.

We are grateful for those who came into the fellowship of the church last Sunday. There are many more who should come, and we are hoping that these may come at the first opportunity.

We shall be glad to have you worship with us the coming Sunday.

Sunday School Lesson

P. D. O'Brien

Theme—National Accountability to God.

Scriptures—2 Kings 25:1-12.

Golden Text—Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people. Proverbs 14:34.

The lesson for today reveals the certainty of God's judgements upon the man or nation that continues in sin. We who have been studying the lessons for the past few Sunday's can clearly see that if Israel did not repent and seek the face and favor of Jehovah that she was sure to come to some bad end. Over and over Jeremiah, the grand old man of Judah, together with other prophets had warned the people and the king that God would not always bear with their sins. One example after another had been cited to show that the long-suffering of the Lord must some day end, and that "the wages of sin is death." The people refused to hear the prophet. They even criticised him, persecuted him and cast him into prison.

"And it Came to Pass"

These are the opening words of our lesson text. The faithful men of God had earnestly pled with the people to forsake their sins in view of the certain fact that God would not always bear with their iniquities but would send suffering and sorrow upon them as a result of their continued disobedience. "And it came to pass." That is it happened even as the preachers had said it would. Jerusalem was surrounded by her enemies. A long siege followed. Finally the food was gone, the water supply was exhausted and defeat and surrender were inevitable. The king, when he saw that all was lost, tried to save himself by escape through a secret passage; but was soon overtaken and brought back. Jeremiah had said that the king should be brought to Babylon, but Ezekiel had said that he should never see Babylon. Both prophecies were fulfilled in a very interesting way. Zedekiah, the traitor king of Judah, was taken to Babylon, but before he reached the city his eyes were burned out by his enemies. Hence both prophecies were fulfilled, he did get to Babylon but he never saw the city.

Before Zedekiah had his eyes put out he was brought to witness the slaughter of his two sons, the proud haughty princes who had laughed Jeremiah to scorn and advised their father to disregard all his instructions. The weak king had given heed to their wicked council instead of that from the Lord thru Jeremiah, and now as he sees them cruelly slaughtered before his eyes, he realizes that indeed, "the way of the transgressor is hard." Then when the hot irons are pressed to the sensitive nerves of his eyes to burn the very balls out of their sockets, he must have realized that God will not always bear with those who go on in sin in the face of constant warnings from His prophets. At the same time the temple was being sacked, the rich homes burned and the walls of the mighty city wrecked by the enemy soldiers. The great temple of Solomon was stripped of its jewels and precious stones and then burned to the ground. The people, with a few exceptions, were bound and taken away to become slaves of the Babylonians. Seventy long years of lonely servitude was to follow, in which Jehovah put His people into the crucible of suffering to burn out the dross and refine the gold of their characters.

What Sins Caused it All?

In order that we as a nation might get the lesson taught here to the end that we may escape similar judgements, let us call attention to the type of sins that caused this national calamity. (1) The king and his advisers turned to ungodly men for council concerning national policies. In so doing they turned their backs upon the council of Jehovah, given thru His prophets. "Blessed is the man who walketh NOT in the council of the ungodly." Ps. 1:1 (2) They formed alliances with other nations instead of depending upon the help of God. This was a result of hearing and heeding the wrong council. (3) They forsook the worship of Jehovah, and turned to the worship of Idols. God will be Lord of all or He will not be Lord at all. He was not joking when He said, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me." (4) They neglected the Sabbath day. The trouble with this sin is that it leads to so many other sins. A rule without exception is that the individual, community or nation which has neglected to "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy," has suffered for it.

The Golden Text "Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people." This is as true today as it ever was. If we become guilty of the same sins that wrecked the nation of Jeremiah, the same sins will wreck us. 2 Kings 17:7 says "And it was so, because the children of Israel had sinned against Jehovah their God." Sin always brings reproach. Its ghastly marks are upon individuals in the form of broken or diseased bodies, shattered intellects, or withered and seared consciences. Sin takes away health and happiness; it crowds out the sunshine of life; it destroys homes, breaks hearts, crushes hopes, destroys ambitions; leaves youth destitute of strength and beauty, and turns the laughter of children into walls of woe. "Sin is a reproach to any people."

Since its earthly beginning in Eden it has wrecked homes incited to murder, built prisons, caused wars, filled the gutters with drunkards, broken more hearts than man could number, crowded the dockets of divorce courts, and made it necessary to build an addition onto hell to take care of its millions of victims. "Sin is a reproach to any people." It is more foolish to dally with the temptation to sin than it is to put a rattlesnake in our bosom and hope that it will not bite, or if it should that we could find a remedy for the poison. A man is a fool to dally with sin. Sin always bring reproach.

Worried Night after Night as health declined

"I SUFFERED frequently from nervous headaches, and I could not sleep well," says Mrs. Cora Dover, R. F. D. 2, Hickory Grove, S. C. "I was thin and pale. I was so weak I could scarcely walk."

"I tried several remedies but nothing seemed to help me. Night after night I worried because I could see I was going down-hill. I had my children to look after, and I was afraid of what would become of them if anything happened to me."

"I began to take Cardui. It wasn't long until I was beginning to pick up. My strength gradually began to return. I rested better at night and was less nervous. I took several bottles of Cardui, and when I had finished taking it I was in fine health."

The baseball game, Dougherty vs.

Spur, played Sunday on the Dougherty grounds was a very interesting game which resulted in a score of 3 to 4 in favor of Dougherty. All indications up to the last inning were that Spur would not score. Either Dougherty weakened or Spur began to "strut their stuff." At the end of the first half of the ninth inning instead of the score of 4 to 0 there was a score of 4 to 3 in favor of Dougherty. Dougherty will play Spur in Spur next Sunday.

Breed-Rosser Wedding Is Solemnized Wednesday.

The wedding of Mr. Joe Breed, of this city, and Miss Ruth Rosser, of Abilene, was solemnized at eight o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's mother at Abilene. The impressive ring ceremony was performed by Dr. E. B. Atwood, bible teacher at the Simmons University, where the young couple attended school.

Mr. Brooks Jensen, of Barstow, attended the bridegroom as the best man. The bride was attended by her younger sister, Miss Lois Rosser, as maid of honor, and by her elder sister, Mrs. E. Douglas Carver, of White Deer, as matron of honor. Only a few close friends were present at the wedding ceremony.

A double announcement party was given last week by Miss Rosser and a college chum, Miss Marcene

Gooch, of Winters, who announced her approaching marriage to Mr. Tom McCollum, of Hereford, also on June 12. Mr. Breed and Mr. McCollum were room mates at Simmons University last year, and all four of the contracting parties are graduates of the college.

Mr. Breed has lived in Floydada since 1920 and for the past year has been an assistant cashier at the Floyd County National Bank. He attended Simmons University for four years and received his Bachelor of Arts Degree from that school in 1928.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. M. E. Rosser, of Abilene. She has resided in Abilene since 1924, coming to that city from Snyder. Her father, Judge Rosser, now deceased, was at one time a representative in the Texas Legislature. Mrs. Breed taught school during the past year in Abilene, and on June 2, received her Bachelor of Arts Degree from Simmons University. Both the bride and groom were presented with the Olson Honor Medal at their graduation exercises at Simmons. The Olson Medal is present-er each year by Dean Olson to the Senior who has made the best average for the four years course at the school. Both were also members of the Honorary Scholarship Society at the University.

Following the wedding ceremony Wednesday evening, the young couple left for a two week tour of Colorado, before returning to Floydada where they will be at home after June 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Loooper Honored On Silver Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Brown entertained at their home on South Main Friday evening, June 7, honoring Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Loooper on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage.

This was one of the out-standing social events of Floydada in the charming entertainment, appropriate program, and the beauty of the decorations. The home of the host and hostess, with its profusion of flowers resembled a bower of spring.

Orchid and silver were the colors used and streamers of these colors decorated the chairs occupied by the honored couple when they entered the reception room as their daughter, Mrs. Martin Brown, softly played Lohengrin's Wedding March.

Mrs. Loooper wore a beautiful gown of lavender and silver and carried a bride's bouquet tied with silver ribbon; the gift of her daughter, Iva.

Mrs. E. L. Angus was mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Robert Sone, in her most pleasing manner, gave "That Old Sweetheart of Mine" by James Whitcomb Riley. Miss Patty Loooper, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loooper, sweetly sang, "When You and I were Young, Maggie." Mrs. O. M. Smith of Wichita Falls, a relative of Mrs. Loooper, gave the humorous selection, "At the gate of St. Peter." This was especially appreciated by all the men and afforded an occasion for much laughter.

The toast to Mrs. Loooper was given by Mrs. Lon V. Smith who paid a beautiful tribute to Mrs. Loooper as a wife and a mother.

Mr. Robert Sone, whose father was an old friend of the groom, gave a toast to Mr. Loooper commending him for those sterling honorable qualities for which he has always stood.

Much amusement was the result of original poems dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. Loooper by Rev. Dick O'Brien. After paying a tribute of appreciation to both, he expressed the belief that if they had stood matrimony for twenty-five years, they could likely endure the remainder of the journey.

The program was concluded by the singing of that old much loved song, "Annie Laurie" by Mrs. E. L. Angus.

The honorees were then presented with a lovely white and orchid basket which contained many useful and beautiful gifts of silver accompanied by expressions of congratulations and felicitations.

A delicious three course dinner was served buffet style, and this sumptuous dinner carried one back in reality to the wedding feasts of Auld Lang Syne. The favors were miniature brides and grooms. The lavender and silver wedding cake, which was a work of art, was cut by Mrs. Loooper and enjoyed by all the guests.

All friends expressed the wish that they might have the pleasure of celebrating with Mr. and Mrs. Loooper their golden wedding.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edd Brown and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown, Dr. and Mrs. Houghton, Dr. and Mrs. V. Andrews, Dr. and Mrs. Lon V. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Methodist Orphan Home Ideal Place For Homeless Children

Mrs. Cella Ross, who is spending the summer at Waco, wrote the following article for the Hesperian describing the Methodist Orphan Home at Waco. The little girl whose picture is shown here, is Willie Mae Malone, whom the Martha Girls Sunday School Class of the Methodist church of this city are clothing. She is fourteen years of age, Mrs. Ross writes, and has been in the home four years. She is a beautiful girl with brown curly hair and brown eyes.

Mrs. Ross' letter follows. Some of my friends and myself visited the Methodist Orphan Home on Sunday afternoon and went through the different buildings. It is simply wonderful. I'll write a description of it as nearly as I can however, I cannot make it appear as nice, convenient and attractive as it really is. One just has to see it to appreciate it.

Two of the fourteen year old girls showed us through the home. Nita Merle Tackett and Willie Mae Malone. We first went into the reception hall. There were several of the larger girls and boys in there playing the piano and singing. This reception hall was in the building for the larger girls.

cottage. In this cottage they have both boys and girls but have separate sleeping apartments and bath rooms. Children under six years old stay in this cottage. This is indeed a lovely building with everything so convenient and nice.

There's a building for the larger boys, smaller boys, larger girls, smaller girls and the cottage for the babies. They have their own barber shop, laundry, dairy, printing plant, manual training room, canning rooms, school rooms, etc. They go to the public high schools here in town. They have their own bus that takes them to and from school each day. There are number of music rooms. The children are taught anything they want to take. Each one is taught any special vocation they choose.

There was a new dormitory opened on Thursday. It was the dormitory for little girls. It is furnished wonderfully and is a beautiful building. They were beginning to serve meals there the following Monday. The cards were still on each article telling by whom each piece was donated.

The dairy inspector had just been there and he said they had one of the best dairies in the south. The boys were carrying the great cans of milk to the kitchens as we went across the yards. After they had finished milking, we went out to the dairy. The cows were still fastened up in their stanchions. It was indeed an inspiration to me to see inside the dairy. I could drink dairy milk and relish it if I knew it came from that dairy. It was as sanitary as a dairy could possibly be made. Each cow knows her place and walks right to her stanchion when turned into the barn.

There is a nice large auditorium where they have services, also moving pictures and programs of different kinds. There is also a Hayne Court where they have out-door programs, operettas and such like for the public. These programs are always free. It is indeed a beautiful place. In a low sunken place there are seats dug out up the bank out in front of the elevated stage which has a dressing room on each side. The buildings are arranged around over the different parts of the grounds with play grounds in between.

There are more than 380 children in the home and 22 more are coming real soon. The children were all playing when we got there and each seemed so happy and contented. There's not an eighth of the children who have as comfortable homes and as great advantages as these children have. I can't see why anyone should have a regret from placing children who have no parents in a home like that. "They don't take them here if they have either parent living" and I don't think there's a greater work a Christian can do than to help support a home like this. Everything is done with so much system and order.

The supper bell rang while we were there. One bell for them to prepare for supper and the other for them to assemble into the dining rooms. We went thru the dining rooms and kitchens while they were preparing supper. The girls help. Each one knows just what she is to do. There's a woman who supervises each of the different kinds of work. There were great pitchers of milk on each table and also different kinds of foods. Each table having the same foods on them.

I could just write on and on, but perhaps I'd better close for fear this is too lengthy. But first let me add a few more words about the girls who showed us through the buildings. They are both lovely girls and have the nicest manners. They were so sweet and courteous to us, explaining every little detail about the different things we were so interested in.

Willie Mae Malone is the girl who the Methodist church there at Floydada clothes. So of course we called for her and were very much interested in her.

Know Thy Work

The latest gospel in this world is know thy work and do it. "Know thyself," long enough has that poor "self" of mine tormented thee; thou will never get to "know" it, I believe. Think it not thy business, this of knowing thyself; thou art an unknown individual; know what thou canst work at; and work at it like a Hercules! That will be thy better plan.—Thomas Carlyle.

A Wee Bit Tune

A millionaire who wrote a rather illegible hand took a "place" in the north of Scotland. One night before retiring he sent the head keeper detailed written instructions for the morrow.

Next morning he was awakened very early by the persistent skirling of bagpipes beneath his window.

Summoning his man-servant, he asked: "What's that racket?"

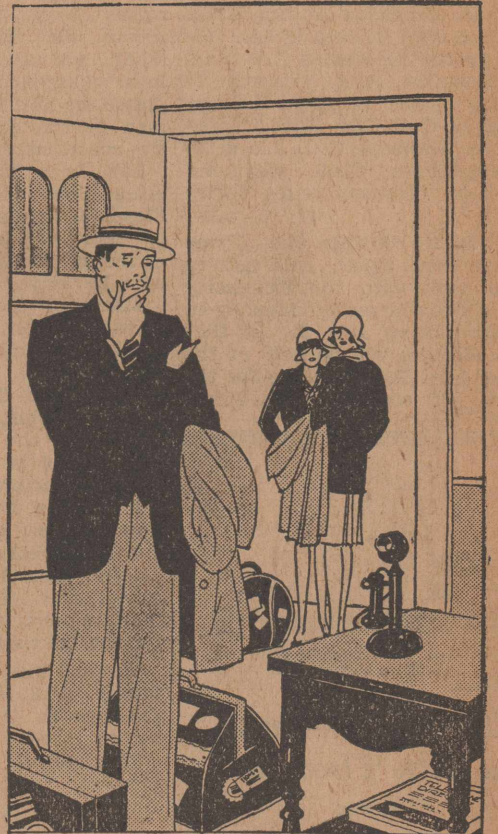

"Oh," said the man, "that's Donald, the keeper, playing that wee bit tune ye sent him last night."

put your Telephone on Half-pay during Vacation

You'll save money . . . and spare yourself inconvenience when you return.

"Something should be done about this."

The Rumseys are going vacationing. The milk's been stopped, the ice man has been called off, and the Man Who Delivers the Newspaper has been instructed to bring no more until further notice.

But the telephone will be left at home, drawing full pay in an empty house! Something should be done about this!

Vacation rates for idle telephones

One solution (provided you're planning a vacation of 30 days or more) is to place your telephone on vacation half-rates while you are away.

It's a convenient way to save money. And—this to folks who sometimes have their telephones taken out—it spares you inconvenience on your return.

That's because:

1. You pay just half the regular rate.
2. Service is reconnected quickly after you return—usually within 24 hours after you notify us.
3. You keep your present telephone number. (You'd lose it if you had your telephone removed!)
4. Your name remains in the telephone book.

If you wish, while you are away we will refer your calls to another telephone—that of relatives, for instance.

Vacation rates are available for periods of more than 30 days, but not over four months.

To obtain them, mail the coupon or telephone the business office.

Furnishing the Home—Then and Now

Pioneers of Floyd County can tell us some interesting things about home furnishings in the early days.

Comfort was not considered to any great extent. The home was provided, as a rule, with only the bare necessities.

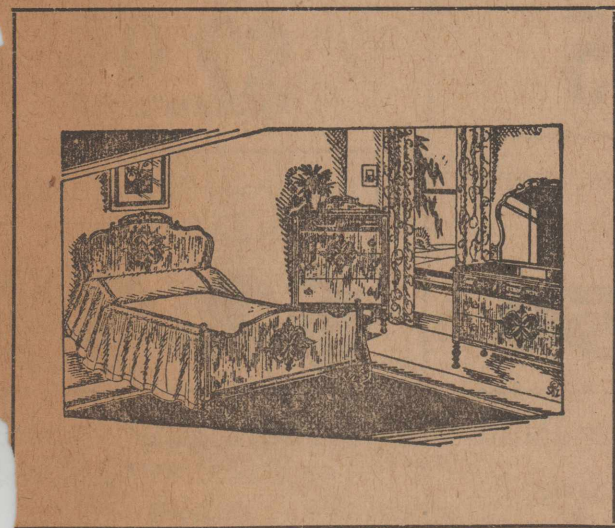

When company came, members of the family frequently sat on boxes at the table. And sometimes even the table was home-made.

Contrast these conditions with the homes today. Comfort now reigns in the average home.

Visit our furniture stores here in Floydada and see the comforts provided for us now, comforts that were as far from the public's imagination fifty years ago as the automobile or the radio.

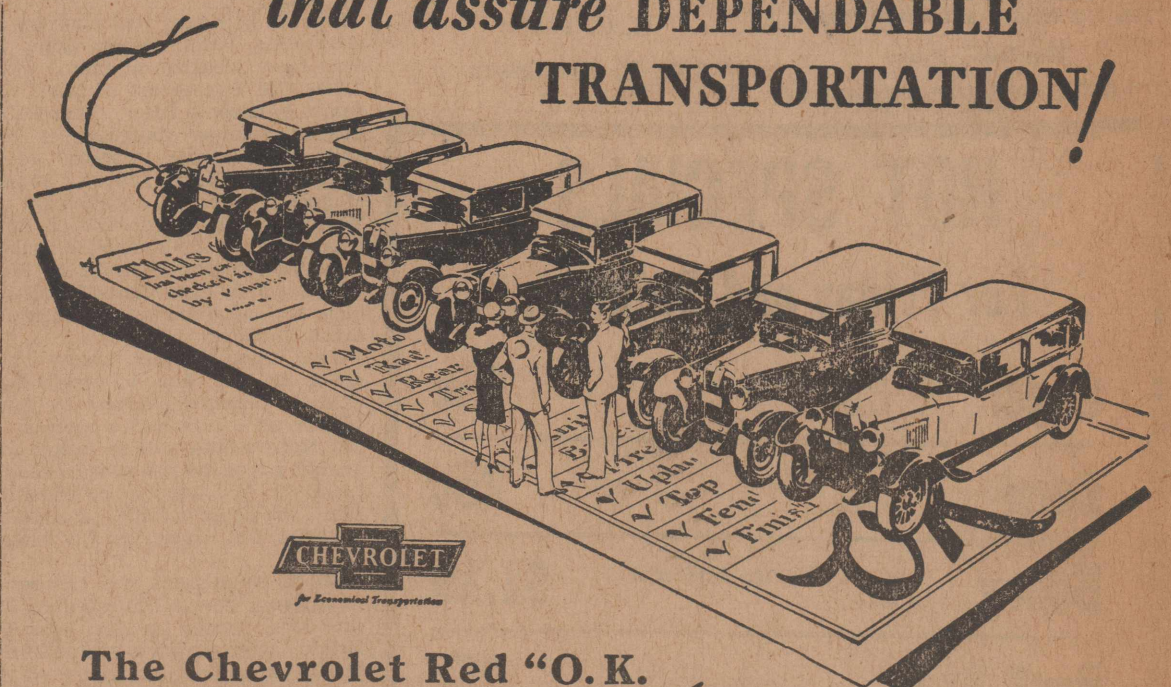

We can procure those comforts right here in Floydada. More than that, we can get from our local furniture dealers reliable suggestions and advice on home furnishings.

The home merchant is always a direct source of information. He performs a valuable service to the community by bringing to us new ideas, as well as new merchandise.

Oakland And Pontiac Sales Force Growing

Official Announcement of New Local Dealers Recounts Sizeable Increase.

The Oakland Motor car company today announces a change in its rapidly growing sales organization in the appointment of Boerner-Thagard Motor Company as Oakland-Pontiac dealers here for the smart new Pontiac Big Six and its companion car, the colorful new All-American by Oakland. Both lines of cars are displayed at the new showrooms at 125 West California Street, where the public is invited to inspect them.

The huge Oakland-Pontiac merchandising body with which the new dealers here are now identified has shown one of the most remarkable growths in the entire automotive industry. With 5,000 dealers throughout the United States, it is five times the size of the 1925 Oakland dealer organization.

A. R. Glancy, president and general manager of the Oakland Motor Car company, believes that 1929 will be the company's greatest year. The production and sales program calls for a sizable increase over the 260,000 Oakland and Pontiac Sixes built last year, which was 35 per cent greater than in 1927, the best year since Oakland first began manufacturing automobiles in 1907.

Intensification of the field organization in preparation for the year has been made under the direction of W. R. Tracy, vice-president in charge of sales, with the addition of 50 field men to the traveling force, the creation of new district offices and changes in field personnel. As a result today there are under Mr. Tracy six regional offices and 25 district offices to maintain contact between the factory and sales forces in the field in the interest of improved public service.

The two lines of cars which the new dealers are now showing have consistently set new high monthly sales figures since they came on the market, an indication of the measure of public favor which they enjoy. This is seen as an endorsement of the company's policy in pioneering new and advanced chassis and body features now widely copied throughout the industry.

Notable among the features contributing to the fame and prestige of Oakland and Pontiac Sixes are the cross-flow radiator, Duco finish, four-wheel brakes, the rubber-silenced chassis, oil and fuel filters and air cleaner, crankcase ventilation and depressible beam headlights operated by foot control. The latest All-American Six also was the first car to bring the convertible landaulet, with a soft folding top over the rear quarter section, out of the custom-built car class.

This new body type also is incorporated in the latest Pontiac six. Both makes of cars have seven body types in the line, the fourteen models offering distinctive styles and performance at a price range of from $745 to $1375 f. o. b. the factory.

Features common to both lines in the smart Fisher bodies are the adjustable driver's seat which may easily and quickly be set to accommodate the height of any driver; ebony finish instrument panel with instruments symmetrically grouped and directly lighted; harmonic balancer and counterweighted crankshaft to provide for easy, vibrationless performance; larger, fleetier and more powerful engines; new Oakland-developed weather-proof internal expanding four-wheel brakes, and Hotchkiss drive. Both cars also are equipped with four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers and fitted spring covers packed with lubricant to insure freedom from squeaks and ease of riding for many miles. A slight extra charge for the covers and shock absorbers is made with the new Pontiac Big Six. Front bumpers and rear "tailor made" fender guards and special equipment consisting of six wire wheels and trunk rack also are available at extra cost with both cars.

'DUTCH' BREWSTER BUYS BUSY BEE CAFE SATURDAY

"Dutch" Brewster, formerly of Knox City and for the past eight months chief cook at the Curley Cafe, completed the purchase of the Busy Bee Cafe last Saturday from Joe and Frank Umberson. He took charge of the business Saturday. The Busy Bee Cafe is located on West California Street.

Mr. Brewster has been in the cafe business for a number of years, having been in the business in Knox City before coming to Floydada.

Joe Umberson plans to leave next week for Hot Springs where he will make his home. Frank Umberson has not announced his plans for the future.

WEAVER AND WARREN BUY MOTOR INN FROM CRAWFORD

Roy H. Crawford, for the past month proprietor of the Motor Inn, filling station at the corner of Main and Mississippi Streets, completed a trade Wednesday of last week whereby he sold the filling station back to its former proprietors, J. O. Warren and D. L. Weaver.

Weaver and Warren took charge Wednesday. Mr. Crawford is now employed with the Finkner Motor Company, Whippet and Willys-Knight dealers as salesman.

Miss Alice Green, of Lockney, spent last week-end here visiting with friends.

Frank Montague, who is now making his home in Tucumcari, spent last week here visiting with relatives and friends.

First Serious Twister Takes Two Lives Toll

Heavy Rain and Hail Fall in Week-End Storm Period Over Panhandle.

The first serious twister ever to strike the Panhandle Country took a toll of two lives, injured many and destroyed houses and out-buildings, and ruined several hundred acres of wheat, in a strip of land five miles wide at the intersection of Castro, Hale and Lamb counties last Thursday night.

R. A. Cassidy, 57 years old, of Flag, and J. S. Snipes, 45 years old, of the Runningwater community, met instant deaths when their homes were struck by the storm.

Heavy rain and hail accompanied the tornado over most of the devastated region, although at Olton where nearly a dozen houses were damaged, there was only a heavy wind without rain.

Plainview reported no damage of consequence, although what was believed to be the tail end of the tornado was felt there. Most of the damage reported was in a few miles radius of that city, where hail damaged wheat considerably.

Floods, which began with heavy rains Wednesday night, continued unchecked Thursday night and early Friday morning at Roaring Springs, 30 miles east of Floydada. Rain Thursday night sent the total damage done by the flood, well over the $50,000 mark, according to unofficial estimates.

One man caught in the rise of Dutchman creek was washed through the town for several blocks, escaping with minor injuries. Transportation facilities were halted when the rising waters wiped out the Quanah, Acme and Pacific railroad bridge. Until the bridge was repaired, transfers were made at the dump and services were continued over the line.

NEW WHIPPET DE LUXE ROADSTER IS POPULAR

Although the new Whippet six de luxe roadster has enjoyed a wide acceptance since its introduction a few months ago, Willys-Overland dealers throughout the country report that with the coming of the warmer days of Spring the demand for this striking model has been of such a volume that would indicate one of the most popular types ever built by the Toledo manufacturer.

Its general body designs with graceful sweeping lines from the radiator to the rear is different from any previous Whippet roadster model, and it is equally as smart with the collapsible top up or down. It requires but a moment to convert this model from a closed type to an open one.

The bright color scheme of the body rounds out the smartness of the model while the interior upholstery of brown leather gives an added touch of luxury.

The rear deck contains a rumble seat with a high padded back and providing more leg-room than is usually found in a car of this type. This assures utmost riding comfort for the passengers in the rear compartment. When the rear section is not used for passengers it has plenty of space to carry large sized pieces of luggage.

The speed, power and smoothness of the Whippet six roadster, with an engine equipped with a seven-bearing crankshaft, also has been an important factor in the widespread demand for this model, its performance being superior to former Whippet six models.

Factory officials declare that the volume of orders placed with the factory for immediate delivery of this model are far beyond the production schedule, necessitating an increased daily output to meet the demand. This volume indicates that the Whippet six de luxe roadster will prove the most sought for low priced sixroadster ever produced in the company's history.

John Edwards, who has been attending Baylor University at Waco, spent last week at home visiting with relatives. He returned this week to Waco to continue his work with the Fire Department through the summer.

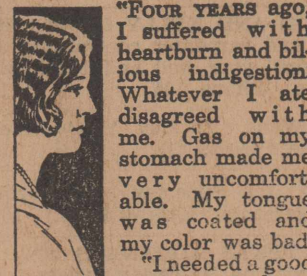

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Eubank and son, Delbert, left Sunday for Corpus Christi where they will spend ten days or two weeks visiting with their son, Orville Eubank.

FELT BAD AFTER EATING

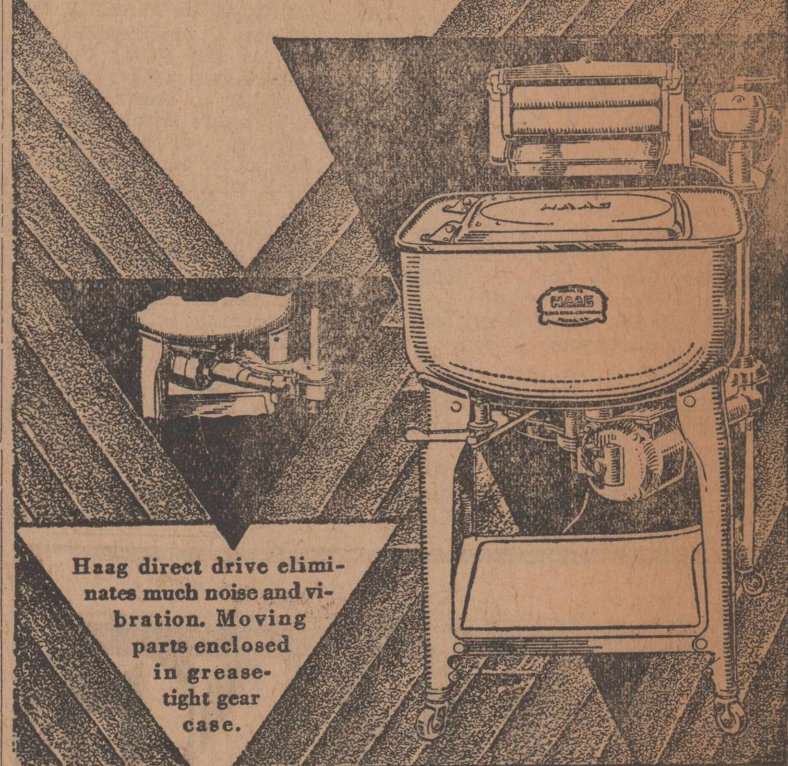

"FOUR YEARS ago, I suffered with heartburn and bilious indigestion. Whatever I ate disagreed with me. Gas on my stomach made me very uncomfortable. My tongue was coated and my color was bad. I needed a good laxative, and so my mother-in-law gave me some Black-Draught and told me to take it. I found it helped me very much, so I bought it for myself. Seems it was the very thing I needed. It is a fine family remedy, and I use it when I need something for constipation. I also give Black-Draught to my children whenever they need something for colds or upset stomachs. Our whole family takes Black-Draught." —Mrs. G. C. Leary, 103 North Alston Ave., Durham, N. C.

TARZAN THE MIGHTY

Novelized by ARTHUR B. REEVE,
From an original Serial produced by UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION, by special arrangement with
EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS
Author of TARZAN OF THE APES, THE CAVE GIRL, etc.

Through babyhood and childhood the foster-child of Toka grew. And, though he was the little friend of all the jungle world, yet the jungle knew he was different. Gradually as he grew to manhood in the life of the jungle, gleaning the rudiments of his own language from picture books left in the effects of his parents in the cabin, heir to the wonderful carved hunting knife of the dead sportsman, his father, gradually the jungle people came to realize that he was their king in brain and cunning, accepted the overlordship of Tarzan, the Mighty, foster-child of Toka, the she-ape.

It was not often now that his power was questioned, except by Numa, who seemed to retain a hereditary enmity. That was why as Tarzan faced Taug, protecting Teeka, Tarzan laughed.

"Taug has chosen and there is none in the jungle to stay him!" Quickly Tarzan's laughter changed to rage. Here was a defiance of his mandate to rule that he could not afford to pass.

Tarzan hit Taug a staggering blow. A moment and Taug was back at him. Again Tarzan hit him. Taug crumpled. In an instant Tarzan was over him, his Greystoke hunting knife unsheathed.

He felt his arm stayed. It was Teeka, pleading, for Taug. Slowly he returned the knife to its sheath, rose from the prostrate Taug and turned away. Again, as so often since he had reached the estate of manhood, swept over him the realization that neither the ape people nor the other beasts were his real kin.

Morose and moody Tarzan proceeded through the jungle. Now more than ever before he felt alone—all alone. These friends of the jungle were not his own people. Who were his own people?

Mechanically his course took him to the hut. Except for the ravages of time and the weather it was the same hut he remembered from earliest childhood. Something was vaguely stirring within him now as he entered. He picked up a child's picture book, glanced through it. It did not satisfy. On the table was a Bible, very worn and old. He opened it. There was a picture of a woman. It stirred some recollections within him, indefinite, formless. Then, too, there was the picture of a man.

These were his people. For a long time he turned it over in his mind. Dead! Yes; without a doubt. But were there no others?

He closed the book, put it back on the table. Somehow now he was more alone than even he had been before. He felt he must get back into the jungle. At least there were his friends, Tantor, and the apes. Suddenly Tarzan paused. What was that strange new sound in the jungle? It was a voice—but the voice of no animal he knew and he knew them all.

There was something silvery, bell-like, about this voice. Nor was it mere repetition, like the calls of animals. It was always the same, yes—but it was always different. He stood a moment spellbound. He felt as if something were tugging at his heart. That voice! Why did it arouse such feelings within him? Other unfamiliar sounds aroused fear, wariness. But this, this seemed to fascinate, to lead him.

It came from close at hand, down the glen, down by the drinking pool. He took a step, then checked himself warily. Instead he swung himself upward by his grass rope into the tallest of the trees. From the top he could look over the edge, down into the pool.

Tarzan gripped the branch of the trees just in time to catch himself. Such a sight his eyes had never before looked upon. Never even in his wildest dreams had he ever conceived anything so lovely, anything even remotely like it.

Standing stark, unclad, her lithe body poised just an instant on the edge of the pool that reflected back her gleaming white beauty stood Mary. Her dance completed she had fled from the stockade, thrown off her crude garments, prepared to plunge into the cooling waters as it were to wash from her the contamination of contact with Black John and his crew.

In the exuberance of her freedom she was trilling to herself some silvery ditty that recalled the civilization from which disaster had so rudely snatched her. It was this song of a human feminine voice that was new and sweet to the ear of Tarzan.

An instant and she slithered into the depth of the water of the pool striking out with a graceful crawl that left Tarzan speechless in admiration.

Suddenly his sharp eyes from his lofty perch caught a sight as from an airplane an observer might see a murderous submarine headed toward a graceful liner. Other eyes than Tarzan's had seen the girl. A huge crocodile was shooting straight from a dark eddy scenting a dainty morsel.

Tarzan uttered a cry, the cry with which he struck terror into the denizens of the jungle. Mary heard it, looked in time, saw the ferocious crocodile shooting with sea-plane speed at her, turned and headed for the shore.

At the same instant Tarzan leaped through the air in a high dive such as would have turned green with envy any stunt circus performer. Down—down—down he shot like a human projectile, plunged, turned upward, and grappled with the prince of the crocodiles just at the moment when those murderous jaws were within inches of snapping this queen of Tarzan's own kind, first he had ever seen in his marvelous winning of the jungle.

Over and over the man and the infuriated crocodile rolled in the water as Tarzan vainly struggled to grasp his knife from its sheath at some moment when the animal at home in his own element might be off guard. For Tarzan being off-guard for an instant meant the loss of one of his own superbly developed limbs, perhaps of his life.

Mary, headed for safety and shore, looked back just in time to see a dozen or more of the crocodile tribe thrashing after her so closely that it was scarcely an even break whether she could reach the shore first—and even then must she depend on a miraculous toughness of the slender tropical tangle of vines to pull herself well clear of those voracious, cruel jaws. She grasped the tangle and it parted in her hands as she screamed in frantic terror at the snapping jaws only a few inches behind her.

Chapter III

BLACK JOHN PLOTS
Frantically, desperately, Mary clutched at the tangle of vines again. This time it gave a little but it held and she pulled herself safely up the bank just missing the ravenous jaws of the foremost of the crocodiles by inches.

Still a-tremble like an aspen leaf in the wind she ran through the brush and with shaking fingers donned her scant garment of leopard skin, fastening it as she peered through the tangle at the handsome and heroic figure of a man as he struggled, waited his chance, then overcame the infuriated leader of the crocodiles, flung him back and with powerful strokes made the edge of the pool and drew his powerful form glistening with the water up to safety also.

He stood looking about for her, caught a glimpse of her as she drew back in the shadows. She started to run in sudden fear as he advanced toward her. He stopped, raised his hand and called.

"Fear not! Tarzan will not harm you."

Mary hesitated. There was something at once commanding and reassuring in the tone. A smile, half-frightened, flitted over her face. She was tempted to wait, then her fears overwhelmed her. She waved her hand at him—and ran on toward the stockade.

Tarzan checked himself. A long time he gazed after her with a wondering, entranced expression on his face, then turned back again to his jungle—but not the same Tarzan he had been a scant half hour ago. A new purpose had come into his life.

Mary, too, at the entrance to the stockade paused to look back, with a smile at the memory of Tarzan. Perhaps she should have stayed. But then there was Bobbie. She turned.

Black John was glaring at her suspiciously. "You've been outside the stockade again! Haven't I warned you enough of this Tarzan beast that's roaming around?"

Mary hid a sudden start at the uncanny mention of Tarzan. But she could not check the peculiar smile on her lips nor the shrug of her defiant shoulders even by her non-committal answer.

A gloating smile spread over the face of Black John. "This Tarzan ape is no match for Black John!" he boasted. "Even now I am waiting for word that he has been caught!"

Mary repressed a reply and hastened to the hut and to Bobbie. Deep in the jungle two of the cleverest of the natives had finished placing a trap and lay hidden in the brush watching it. They crouched entirely hidden as they heard the approach of something.

It was Taug making his way through, cautiously after his defeat by Tarzan in his attempt to gain the title of king of the jungle. Taug paused and stared curiously. Just before him he caught sight of a tempting bunch of jungle fruit, left unguarded by someone.

He moved forward for it, reached out to grasp it—and the door of the trap sprang shut as the ape lashed his way back and forth in futile effort now to free himself.

Instantly the two natives were on their feet. "Tarzan is caught!" cried one. "The Witch Doctor is mightier than Tarzan the Mighty! Run and tell him while I guard the trap!"

From a far now Tarzan himself could hear the raging of Taug. Something was wrong,—was it with this interloper or with some new claimant for the title of jungle king? Quickly Tarzan swung himself along in the direction of the cries.

Soon he was peering down from his eyrie in a tree whence he had swung himself by his grass rope. Below he could see the native in a dance of triumph about the cage-trap. A cunning expression overspread Tarzan's features as he set himself for a long swing.

As though from the sky above Tarzan swung down upon the native guarding the trap. A look of frantic fear came to the natives' face. It was as if by a miracle the supposed captive was free. In desperation he closed with Tarzan. But it was an unequal fight. A moment and Tarzan had picked him up bodily and flung him toward the cage.

The native lay there, still. Tarzan darted to the cage and peered in. It was Taug. "So," he muttered as he tore at the trap, "you would be king of the jungle!" Tarzan smiled. "Yet Tarzan is glad to help Taug."

Tarzan at last laid his hand on the catch of the trap. He unfastened the door, lifted it, and Taug sprang out.

It was no longer the sullen Taug. "Taug will fight Tarzan no more!" he chattered. "Tarzan is Tarzan, the Mighty, mightier than Taug!" Tarzan was an easy master. "Come!" he ordered. "When our enemies come they shall not find their trap empty!"

He picked up the unconscious native, carried him to the door of the trap, flung him in and closed it. He motioned to Taug to disappear, then Tarzan himself swung back by his grass rope up into the crotch of the tree and settled himself, unseemly, to watch.

Into the stockade of the Lost Village dashed the breathless native runner calling at the top of his voice.

"Tarzan—Tarzan, the Mighty, is caught!"

Instantly the village was in an uproar. Within the hut Mary and Bobby heard. Mary drew Bobby close to her as they peered out at the excitement.

There was Black John surrounded by the admiring villagers. "Come on!" he harangued. "We will get this Tarzan who has been leading the beasts of the jungle against us! You shall see that I am mightier than this Tarzan the Mighty!" "Tarzan!" whispered Bobby. "Why, Mary that's the one saved you from the crocodile, isn't it?"

Heading the natives Black John was leading off the rabble.

"Yes, Bobbie. Let us go, too." Mary was worried. They overtook the crowd just as Black John rushed up to the trap. Black John started to open it, posting the others ready to attack, capture and kill Tarzan. But it was only a moment before Black John's triumph changed to cries of baffled rage. No one came out. Black John reached in, dragging out now only the half-conscious native.

"Why, it's one of the tribe!" exclaimed Bobby in surprise. Mary was unable to restrain the relief she felt after her anxiety.

"It—it was Tarzan—with the strength of a million devils!" chattered the frightened native. Black John hurled him away from himself and glared at the superstitious natives. He turned suddenly and an ugly scowl spread over his face as he caught the smile of Mary and Bobby's grin. Her smile changed quickly to alarm. Bobby shrank by her side.

"Laugh, will you?" Black John gripped Mary's wrist, glaring at her. "Mark this—no wild beast of the jungle can trick Black John!" In terror Mary shrank away. Would the arch villain vent his rage on her and her little brother? What could she do? There was no one to whom to appeal—none.

None? A protector was closer than either she or Black John realized. High overhead hid Tarzan himself in the leafy screen of the trees. He saw; also he saw the tribe, too many for him. But Tarzan, king of the jungle, was never defeated, not in his own jungle. His face was suddenly convulsed with rage at the indignity to the fair white queen. He raised his head and uttered a loud roar. It was human yet like nothing human. It was the battle cry of the king of the jungle calling upon his followers.

The natives heard and they knew it. They fled in panic. Black John followed. Was he not their leader? In terror, too, Mary and Bobby fled.

Far and wide through his jungle kingdom the call was heard. Tantor heard and started, trumpeting. Tarzan swung himself down before Mary and Bobby, stood before them in awed admiration. Mary did not know whether to run or stay. Bobby stared in wide-eyed fear and admiration.

"Fear not! Tarzan will never allow that Black John to harm the White Angel!"

Mary shivered at the thought of Black John. "You are good—good as you are brave. But Black John has many men—and you are alone."

Just then Tantor broke through the jungle. Tarzan smiled. "Tarzan is not alone! The beasts of the jungle are his friends! See!" Mary shrank back and Bobby cried out in fear. "Don't be afraid of Tantor. He is Tarzan's friend and will help the White Angel, even as Tarzan once helped him. Once when I was a very little boy, with my knife I cut him loose from a trap."

Quickly in his curious English Tarzan told the story. "And now," he added to Mary, "learn this bird call. If Tarzan hears the bird call, he will know the White Angel is in danger and will come."

Mary repeated the call until she got it perfect. But she was nervous. Her absence from the village would be noticed. She thanked Tarzan, turned toward the village, while Tarzan was swung up on his back by Tantor who started off, also.

In the thicket the jealous, scowling, scheming eyes of Black John missed none of this meeting. Through his tortuous brain was evolving a dark scheme. He would use Tantor to capture Tarzan and nip this friendship in the bud.

No sooner did Black John have an idea than he put it in execution. In the fastness of the Jungle he set the tribe to work digging a pit. In the bottom of the pit he placed rows of long, sharp-pointed stakes. Over the pit they laid a flimsy false floor of jungle foliage.

It was impossible to keep secret such a plot in the village. The moment Mary learned it her first thought was to warn Tarzan. She stole cautiously to the door of the hut and looked out. There on guard a burly native blocked her exit. She was a prisoner.

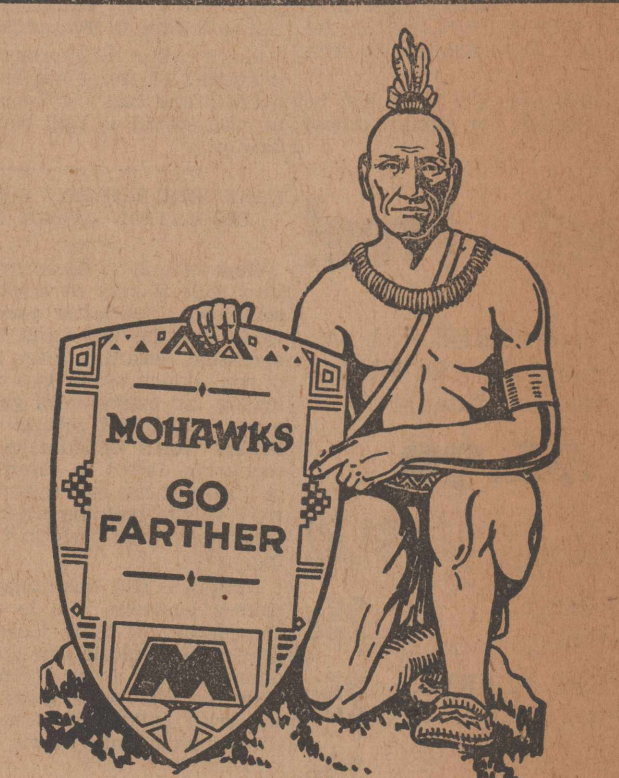

Somehow she must convey the warning to Tarzan. She looked helplessly at Bobby. Suddenly an idea flashed into her mind.

"They'll never suspect you, Bobby. Go—give the bird call. Tarzan will hear it and come to you. Warn him!"

There was not much time to act. Already the natives had been posted through the jungle, first to scare up and worry Tantor, then to drive him down the trail that passed over the pit.

BRING YOUR WRECK DIRECT TO THE DOCTOR

When you have a wreck, as seems almost inevitable more or less these days, why not bring the "boat" direct to the automobile body and fender doctor, and let him pass on your needs. Lots of times you can possibly save a fender, door or other part that you'd buy instead of having the part repaired and put back in the kind of condition like it was before the damage was done.

FATHER OF MRS. HOUSE DIES AT LAWTON, OKLA. HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Noble House returned home Tuesday night from Lawton, Oklahoma, where they were called Friday night by the serious illness of Mrs. House's father, J. H. Stricklin, whose death occurred Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.
 Funeral services for Mr. Stricklin were held at Lawton Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.
 He is survived by his wife and four children, three of whom James a son, and Ethel and Eula, daughters, reside at home, and Mrs. House resides in Floydada.
 Mr. Stricklin was formerly superintendent of the Plainview Cotton Oil Mill and had also been engaged in the cotton oil mill business at Lawton.

Culvert Of Four Feet Diameter At Crossing

A culvert nearly 120 feet long, and having a diameter of four feet, will be put in place on the big fill on the Ralls Crossing of Blanco Canyon six miles south of Floydada at an early date, Commissioner E. W. Henderson of Precinct No. One said, although it may be several days before the work is undertaken, dependent on the question of obtaining labor.
 The culvert will be placed in the bottom of the fill and will take the place of a smaller one of shorter length further toward the top of the fill that failed to carry away the flood waters in the May rains. Nearly 1,000 cubic feet of dirt in the fill was washed away when the weight of the water that rushed in following a little waterspout, carried out the approximate center of the long dump. Mr. Henderson said he felt reasonably sure, from calculations made, the new larger culvert would care for any amount of water that would come off the water shed into the little arroyo the fill crosses.
 When the dump is put into service as a part of the Ralls-Floydada Highway it will reduce the maximum climb to seven per cent and the maximum curvature to four per cent, a great improvement over the present route up the north side of Blanco Canyon.
 Completion of the work, which will include a concrete culvert or a bridge at the foot of the dump, has been awaiting advices from the Highway Department relative to some engineering problems connected with it.
 The new culvert to be installed has been placed on the ground already. It came in four sections with three joints to make a total length of nearly 120 feet. Each section of the culvert weighs nearly a ton.

Floyd County's First Town Was Legal Dry Spot

A town that was deeded to the people of Floyd County but which was to revert back to its owner should the land ever be used for the sale or manufacture of intoxicating liquors is today but a level stretch of land used for farming purposes. Not a business structure remains to mark the founding of the first town in Floyd County which was given to the people with the above restriction.
 The story was brought out by R. E. L. Muncy at the Old Pioneers day here recently. He referred to Della Plains which was the first town in Floyd County and up to the organization of the County was one of the strongest of the young towns on the Plains. Following the organization and the election of Floydada as the County seat Della Plains was abandoned.

EAST SIDE BAKERY BACK IN OPERATION AFTER REPAIRS

Repairs and replacements to the East Side Bakery at Lockney were completed the latter part of last week and the plant put back into operation Saturday after being out of commission nearly two weeks following an explosion of gas in the oven, which did several hundred dollars worth of damage but miraculously failed to injure seriously either of the two operatives who were in the building when the explosion occurred early in the morning.

BANKS HAVE SAMPLES OF NEW SERIES GREENBACKS

Samples of the new series of greenback bills are on display at the two Floydada banks this week, although they will not be put into circulation until about July 10.
 The new bills are about one third smaller than the old government certificates which have been in use, which makes them less expensive to manufacture, easier to conserve space and more durable.
 The one dollar bills are silver certificates, the two dollar bills are U. S. currency and all above that denomination are Federal Reserve notes. Each denomination of bills ranging from one dollar to $10,000 bears the portrait of a different famous American.
 W. H. Freeman, of Sentinel, Oklahoma, came down Saturday to be here until after wheat harvest on his farms in this county.

What's Doing In West Texas Today

MOBETTIE is growing a new town within the radius of the old since the new railroad has been secured. Lots were recently sold at a hitherto unheard of price. Plans are made and foundations are being laid for buildings which are to make the town a bigger and better place to live.
 MEMPHIS sold a lot of 98 Jerseys in auction last week. They were auctioned by W. A. Nash who lectured on the value and recent progress of dairying in the South Plains. A great number of the cattle were graded, some registered, and all good producers.
 MIDLAND has a farmer who makes $750.00 an acre on his garden. Noah Kinnemore has been growing peas under mulch paper, and sells his entire supply to consumers who drive to his truck patch. His dewberries and strawberries, are bringing $500.00 an acre. He intends growing sweet potatoes this year. The paper lasts three years.
 LUBBOCK'S young Texas Tech Chamber of Commerce has for some of its objectives the molding of the traditions of the College while it is still young, welcoming visiting teams to the campus, co-operating with local civic clubs and the offering of a prize for a school song.
 DENTON'S annual Field Day at the experiment station showed what progress was made in the experiments on wheat, oats, grain, sorghums, sweet clover, corn, alfalfa, peas and other legumes. Crop rotation and the value of good seed was given attention. Some pure bred sorghum seed was given to those present.
 The ROSWELL-CARLSBAD, N. M. road is being put into good shape for the summer travel. The road is being graded up and a gravel trench cut preparatory to the surfacing treatment. At the same time the new weed destroyer is having a try-out on the road. Traffic is not interfered with.
 The PORTALES, N. M., Canning Company is now signing up tomatoes for the coming season, and has already secured the output of 300 acres. In 1927 the company canned 31 carloads, and shipped 15 carloads of fresh tomatoes. The average for 1927 and 1928 was 500 acres
