Home Talent Carnival Plan Of Civic Clubs

Rotary Club and American Legion to Co-operate With Lions Club in Fun Jubilee.

First plans and definite arrangements for a home talent carnival were made last Tuesday noon by the Floydada Lions Club in regular session, and tentative dates set for the fun jubilee. The Lions Club, working together with the Floydada Rotary Club and the McDermott Post American Legion, plan to hold the unique carnival on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, August 8, 9 and 10.

Details for the carnival have not been worked out thoroughly, but the program committee of the Lions Club and committees from both the Rotary Club and the American Legion are at work on the smaller details. Every amusement stand and concession will be home made and operated by members of the three organizations, it is planned. The jubilee will probably be held on the pavement around the court house square.

In addition to the major plans for the carnival made at the Tuesday noon meeting of the Lions Club, it was announced by Lon Davis, chairman of the program committee, that by next meeting each member would be expected to suggest some program for the club to carry out during the next six months.

Lion Boss J. C. Gilliam presided at the meeting Tuesday. Opening the program, Miss Olive Mae Liston, of Lubbock, gave an interesting reading. T. R. Webb of Abilene and formerly a resident of this city was a guest at the luncheon and gave a short talk to the club members. W. E. Patten, former Lion Boss of the club, also gave an interesting talk on his recent trip to Central and East Texas.

Attendance at the meeting this week was larger than during the past few weeks. Eighty per cent or more of the members were present.

Estimate Of Increase In Values $1,702,594

Railroads and Values in Floydada Represent Biggest Portion of New Taxables.

In his estimate of the taxable values in Floyd County to the State Comptroller made Saturday of last week by County Tax Assessor C. M. Meredith, for the use of that office in computing the tax values of the state, a total of $13,142,358 is given as the approximate figures for 1929, based on values in Floyd County. This is an increase of $1,702,594 over last year's taxable values of $11,439,764.

The figures do not include an estimated possible $35,000 worth of unknown property which has not yet been tabulated by Mr. Meredith, nor the intangible assets of the Fort Worth & Denver South Plains Lines in the county which had not been rendered at the time the report was made.

An analysis of the estimate shows that the biggest increase in values was made in the railroad, telegraph and telephone roll, where $737,859 was picked up to make a big jump in the rolls from $271,969 of last year to $1,009,828. Values in city property increased $565,765. About $400,000 of this total was picked up in Floydada and the remainder in the new towns in the county. Farm land values in the county are estimated at $71,120 greater than last year. Over $240,000 increase is shown in personal property renditions in the county.

Comparative figures for last year and this year, indicated by the report of Mr. Meredith show as follows:

Land values,	$8,001,380	$8,072,500
City values,	1,432,835	1,998,000
Personal Property,	1,645,680	1,984,500
Railroad & Tel.,	271,969	1,009,828
Banks,	87,900	76,930
Totals,	$11,439,764	$13,142,358

Dollar Wheat Speeds Floyd County Harvest

Less Than Third of Crop Harvested in Dougherty Section Elevator Men Report.

In spite of the few light showers over the county the past week, wheat harvest in this section has been speeded up considerably by the jump in price from 93c to $1.00 per bushel. Ideal dry weather conditions have prevailed in most of Floyd County this week, which has helped the harvest a great deal.

Less than one-third of the crop in Dougherty section has been harvested, according to reports from Dougherty elevators. Because of the late crops in this section, harvest did not get under way until the first of last week. Wheat in that section is making from five to twenty-five bushels to the acre, and the average is around twelve bushels, elevator men report. Showers in the Dougherty section have slowed up the harvest slightly this week.

An optimistic outlook prevails among grain men in this county this week as the total amount for the county climbs toward the two million bushel mark. A survey of the county last week showed that more than a million bushels had been harvested in this county, with half of the crop gathered. This week the total is slowly climbing towards the new record-breaker crop which is predicted by grain dealers over the county.

Skull Fracture Fatal; Enos Brown Succumbs

Body of Former Resident Returned Here For Burial Last Friday.

E. E. Brown, 46, former resident of Floydada for twenty years, but for the past year a resident of Dallas, died Wednesday night of last week from a fractured skull sustained in an accident on the 1100 Block, Corinth Street, in Dallas, the morning of Saturday, June 22, and the remains were interred in Floydada Cemetery Friday afternoon following funeral services held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Burrus, at 3:00 o'clock.

Besides the surviving wife and daughter, Pansy Mozelle, Mr. Brown is survived by his parents and a number of sisters, who were here for the funeral conducted by Rev. P. D. O'Brien, assisted by Rev. C. E. Dick, the latter pastor of the Crosbyton Baptist Church.

For the first few years of his residence here Mr. Brown was in the mercantile business, later taking up the local management of the Texas Utilities Company, and later entering the work as salesman of electrical appliances and equipment. He was engaged as city salesman in Dallas for one of the large distributors of appliances when he met his death.

Surviving relatives, all of whom were here for the funeral are: his wife and daughter, Pansy Mozelle, city; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brown, of Crosbyton; his sisters, Mrs. Chas. Cheney, of Canyon; Mrs. John Hardgroves, of Ralls, her husband and children; Mrs. P. D. Bartley, husband and children, of Cone; Mrs. Matt Hilliard, her husband and children, of Crosbyton; Mrs. R. D. English and husband, of Snyder; Mrs. Gus Collett, husband and children, of Ralls; and Mrs. Bob Gregory of Petersburg.

Struck By Automobile
When news of the accident first reached Floydada, Mrs. Brown and daughter went to be with their husband and father. His condition which was thought to be critical, apparently much improved and he was thought to be recovering following an x-ray examination of the skull which showed no fracture on the film. However, a post mortem examination revealed that the skull had been fractured and that a blood clot had formed, Bela Wilkinson, long-time friend of the Brown and McPeak families, said.

Mr. Wilkinson lives in Dallas and came out with the body for the funeral. His story of the death of the former Floydada man is that a collision of three cars occurred, the third car, as the driver tried to avoid the smash-up, swinging around and knocking Brown to the pavement from where he stood on the curb. "The district sales manager for Brown's firm told me he had a date with Brown to meet him for a demonstration of one of their machines," Mr. Wilkinson said in reference to the accident. "Brown reached the scene first and was waiting in front of the store. When the sales manager reached the place a few minutes later he waited about for a little while in front of the store, later to enter and find them working with Brown in an effort to revive him."

The body was met at the train here by a large number of relatives and former neighbors.

First Couple Weds

First Two Marriages Free Sale Is Still On

At least one Floyd County man knows a bargain when he sees it. Old Dan Cupid, that little god of love, got on the job last week and did his part in the "Marriage Bargain" offered by local citizens. Result: Last Monday afternoon, the first couple to wed since the passage of the new marriage law, took their solemn vows of matrimony.

At one thirty o'clock Monday afternoon, July 8, the marriage of Engram C. Baker and Miss Martha Grimit was solemnized in the county clerk's office. Rev. P. D. O'Brien said the simple ring ceremony. A host of friends of the young couple were present to witness the marriage. Both the contracting parties are residents of Floydada, and plan to make their home in this city.

A beautiful wedding bouquet was presented to the bride at the ceremony, compliments of the Hollums Floral House. The marriage license was presented to the couple by County Clerk Tom W. Deen, and a physical examination given the bridegroom free of all cost by Dr. V. Andrews. Rev. P. D. O'Brien performed the ceremony, with his compliments to the couple.

Here's how: Local preachers, doctors, floral houses and County Clerk Deen became alarmed at the lack of marriages since the passage of the new marriage law, effective June 12. Not one marriage was held in this county for nearly a month and those interested in Dan Cupid's progress in this county decided to offer a special bargain to the first two couples to marry under the new law. Their decision was to offer their services to the first two couples free of all cost. Their bargain sale has been fifty per cent successful so far, but there is still an opportunity for some love-smitten young man to save some fifty dollars. It can't last long.

Fair Officials Plan Unusual Amusements

Entertainment For All Ages Will Be Feature of Floyd County Fair

Having in mind a class of amusement that will entertain every one, regardless of age, the entertainment committee of the Floyd County Fair, which will be held here September 18 to 21, this week began their plans for the annual exposition. Popular demand for some entertainment will have its effect on the committee and while some of the amusement features of the past fairs will be repeated the committee expects to offer a variety of entertaining programs for the 10,000 people expected to attend the sixteenth annual Floyd County Fair.

"No effort to actually contract for the amusements will be made until after the finance committee has made its report," N. W. Williams, chairman of the committee named at the recent Chamber of Commerce meeting, stated. "Although we are making our plans now to offer the visitors a class of amusement and entertainment that will be long remembered on the South Plains."

Serving with Mr. Williams on the committee are the following business men: W. H. Henderson, Burl Bedford, E. L. Norman, H. L. Crow, J. C. Gilliam and T. P. Collins. Of this group several have had previous experience in contracting amusements for picnics and fairs and Chamber of Commerce officials believe that this committee is one of the best named of the several selected at the fair meeting held recently.

Popular demand for fireworks will mean that this type of entertainment will be one of the outstanding attractions of the fair. The display held here last year was the first to be held in Floydada and the reception given the display by the fair crowd was such that it was immediately considered as one of the attractions this year. A bigger and better display has been promised for the 1929 fair.

Other amusements being considered by the committee are carnival attractions, football games, a square dance, fiddlers contest, foot races, and free acts.

BIG IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM AT A. H. HAYNES GIN PLANT

An improvement program at the A. H. Haynes' Gin Company's plant that will run $7,000 or more is under way this week, a crew of men having the work of installing new burr-out machines, new burr crushers and new cleaning cylinders, as well as cotton seed weighing and dumping scales, that Mr. Haynes feels sure will make his plant one of the most modern in the plains area.

The work was begun several days ago and will consume more time before its completion.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Barker and Maury Hopkins were among those from Plainview who attended the funeral services for E. C. Henry.

Will Build On North Side Of Square Soon

Contract Let Monday by B. B. King for 50x100 Brick Business House.

Contract was let Monday for the construction of a modern brick and tile business house, 50x100 feet, on the north side of the square, by B. B. King to Stephenson & Thurmon, local contractors. The new building will be located on the twenty-five foot lot now occupied by the frame building housing the B. B. King Furniture Store, together with twenty-five feet immediately west of the frame building.

Construction on the new structure will begin within the next ten days or two weeks, or as soon as the frame building can be removed. It is probable the frame building will be torn down.

Approximately $12,000 will be spent in constructing the new building, according to contractors. It will be unusual in structure, in the fact that the walls and foundation will be strong enough to uphold two or more stories which may be added in the future. It will have a sixteen foot ceiling, with solid columns through the center. An entirely different plan of store fronts and show windows is being planned.

Mr. King plans to occupy one half of the building with his furniture business, and rent the remainder. With the construction of this building, only one hundred front feet on the north side of the square will remain unoccupied by brick buildings.

Mr. King will also build a new home in Floydada, he said this week. Plans are now being made for a brick veneer residence at the corner of California and White Streets on a site recently purchased from E. R. Borum. It is expected to cost between $8,000 and $10,000 and Mr. King said work would start on it as soon as final details can be worked out and the contract let.

D. P. Carter Appointed Dealer For Nash Cars

New Line of Nash Cars on Display In Showroom on South Side Square

D. P. Carter, manager of the Carter Music Store, made the announcement this week of his appointment as dealer for the Nash automobiles in Floydada. Associated with Mr. Carter in the new company is L. E. Fagan, former grocerman in this city.

Several new models of the Nash "400" line are now on display on the showroom floors in the rear of the Carter Music Store on the South Side of the Square.

The new firm will be known as the Carter Nash Company. Plans are to have all models of the cars on display at the company's showrooms on the South Side of the Square.

Must Have Mail Boxes Installed By Aug. 15

Those who desire free delivery of mail in Floydada must have regulation mail boxes installed at their homes not later than August 15, is the message being sent out this week by Postmaster J. D. Starks. Unless eighty five per cent of the houses on the routes designated have boxes by this date, it will be impossible to establish free mail delivery in this city, it was pointed out.

A map of the territory the proposed free delivery routes will cover is at the post office, where information may be obtained by those interested. A similar map is also on display at the Chamber of Commerce office, where information may be obtained. Residents of the city, especially those in the west and south portions, are urged to learn definitely whether they are in the delivery zone and make arrangements to place their boxes at once.

NEW AIRPLANE SERVICE TO SPEED UP MAILS TO NORTH

A new mail service by airplane that will speed up mail consignments to northern points by twelve hours from points in this section was announced this week at the Floydada Post Office.

The new service comes of the form of a daylight plane from Ft. Worth and Oklahoma to Chicago that picks up letters from this section which go out on the Q. A. & P. or the Denver. Thus a letter mailed in Floydada to leave on the 6 o'clock Quannah train in the afternoon, reaching Oklahoma City or Fort Worth the next morning, would go thence by airmail to Chicago and connections east. The new airmail schedule is in addition to the service formerly given.

Airmail postal rates are five cents for the first ounce and ten cents for each additional ounce.

E. C. Henry's Death Marks Passing Of Man Prominent In Pioneer Days

Moody's Proclamation Clears Addition Titles

A proclamation by Governor Dan Moody, issued last week, has cleared the cloud from titles to property in the Bartley Heights, South Side and Bartley Additions to Floydada, it was disclosed by the records in the office of County Clerk Tom W. Deen.

Titles in the additions, made up of land lying in a 160-acre tract, now occupied by many residents in the southern portion of the city, had been passed by many attorneys for the past two or three months attorneys of loan companies had called attention to two outstanding judgments in bond forfeitures against the late John B. Bartley, former county attorney of Floyd County, who had gone on bail bonds for persons held under charges by the state. These forfeitures occurred when defendants had failed to make appearance at the terms of court.

Interest in the status of the cases had long since been lost, and the governor was prevailed upon by Judge L. G. Mathews, local attorney, to issue his proclamation releasing the property from any liability to the state for the bond forfeitures. The work of obtaining the proclamation from the governor as well as the recording, done by County Clerk Tom W. Deen, were done without cost to the numerous holders of the property involved.

Stock and fixtures of the Helpy-Selfy Grocery at Lockney were completely destroyed by fire of an unknown origin at about four o'clock Wednesday morning, according to reports reaching this city. Work of the Lockney Fire Department prevented the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings on the east side of Main Street, although the fire was discovered too late to save any of the stock and fixtures. The building occupied by the store was badly damaged but not destroyed, reports state.

The Helpy-Selfy store was located next door to the Hill Bakery, which suffered two fires of unknown origin recently. The exact amount of damage and the amount of insurance carried by the firm was not learned by citizens here.

Former Sheriff Victim of Heart Affection, Buried Sunday.

E. C. Henry, resident of Floyd County since 1890, for ten years sheriff and tax collector of Floyd County, and prominent in the history of the county's business and political affairs since its early days, succumbed to heart trouble Saturday night at 12:15, at the age of 66 and was buried in Floydada Cemetery late Sunday afternoon.

Funeral services were held at the home of the deceased in northwest Floydada, where Rev. J. E. Stephens, pastor of the Methodist Church of Lockney and friend of the deceased of long standing conducted the service assisted by Rev. G. T. Palmer, pastor of the Methodist Church in Floydada. Rites of the Masonic Lodge were observed in the burial ceremony by Floyd City Lodge, of which the deceased had been a member since the early days in this section. Many friends of the family from over Floyd and adjoining counties were here for the funeral.

Born in Montevallo, Missouri, February 28, 1863, and reared in northwest Arkansas, E. C. Henry was married at Cane Hill, Arkansas, to Miss Belle Ross, in 1886 and moved to Wilbarger County, Texas, the same year. In 1890 the young couple moved to Floyd County and have made their home here ever since. They first settled four miles north of old Della Plains. Upon his election to the office of sheriff and tax collector in the fall of 1896, the family moved to Floydada. He was sheriff and tax collector until 1906, when he retired from office to his farm northwest of Floydada two miles. For the past three years of his life, Mr. Henry has been assessor and collector of Floydada Independent School District, a position he was appointed to by the school board in recognition of his long and valuable service of former years as school trustee and trustee of the school education.

He is survived by his children, five brothers and sisters. The children are Mrs. V. Smith, Ross Henry and Henry of this city; Mrs. A. Baker, of Lockney, and Mrs. C. P. Ker of Weineit. L. Henry, Fayetteville, Arkansas; P. E. Henry, Denver, Colorado; W. B. Henry, Tulsa, Oklahoma. Surviving sisters are Mrs. M. E. Crawford, of Little Rock, Arkansas, and Mrs. C. W. Ball, Lincoln, Arkansas.

The heart affection which caused the death of the deceased first began to give serious concern more than a year ago. In recent weeks had remained in bed at the insistence of physicians, in the hope that rest would furnish a cure.

New Currency Received By Banks Of Floydada

Samples of the new currency, so long discussed in public print, have been received by the banks of Floydada, the distribution of the smaller bills being started this week by the Federal Reserve Banks. Bills received here include the dollar, two-dollar, five-dollar, ten-dollar and twenty-dollar denominations.

The complete distribution of the new money will not be made at once, these first shipments received by the banks here along with the other banks of the country, being more in the form of "samples" to acquaint the public with their size and appearance. Old currency will be retired as it is worn out and some of the old money is likely to be in circulation for many months.

In addition to big savings expected to be made by using the smaller currency, its make-up and design is expected to reduce likelihood of counterfeiting and give greater ease in detecting currency frauds as well as greater convenience to the public.

THINK ABOUT THIS

"Judge this, rather, that no man put a stumbling block in his brother's way, or an occasion of falling."—Famous Roman Author.

THE SALMON AND THE WHALE

Trying to bring home to business men the fact that they are ignorant, very ignorant, in many instances of Business Administration as applied to their enterprises, an idea-ful writer in a house organ recently said that the average business man is as innocent of business principles as the Chinaman, who lives in China but had never heard of China and did not know he was a Chinaman. Another instance was that of the whale who met a salmon.

"Gee, you ought to live in fresh water awhile," said the salmon to the whale.

"What fresh water?" asked the whale.

"It's free from salt."

"Salt? What's salt?"

"It's what the ocean is full of," quoth the salmon.

"What's the ocean?"

The whale, you see, had no means of comparison, because he had never been anywhere. He didn't even know he was a whale.

COTTON CROP LOOKS GOOD

At the present writing the prospects for cotton are good. Although the crop—the major part of it is just first to tenth planting it has had a fine growing season to date, and has almost caught up with the average for May-planting cotton in the ordinary year. Then, of course, there are a few fields which are May-planted and these sure enough look good. There's a good chance that we shall go right on through this month with good seasonal conditions. And if we do—the cotton grower is going to be sitting good.

Checking up on the hail damage to the row crops, it seems that the extent of the damage was not nearly so great as at first thought probable and that section of the county visited by the rain Saturday afternoon, is good for another thirty days of fine growth on the stalks. Of course, quite a bit of fruit, stuffs continue to grow good.

The feed crop makes, which usually all the time, its such assurance that it takes the a lot of other income that are missed through cotton or failures.

THE OLD TIMERS PASS

The old-timers in Floyd County, those who got here early enough to experience the grasshopper days and those other days when less tenacious persons or more timid souls would have gone to some other location—they are fast passing.

In truth, there were not a many of them, now that we get on it. But there was a brotherhood amongst them, a kind-feeding, that has been carried over to this late date, and we are deeply impressed, more poignantly reminded of the passage of time and the passing of the good old days, with their going than with the going of some of the others of us more recently here.

It was only yesterday that E. C. Henry was sheriff of Floyd County and now he is a memory; it was only yesterday that the trail led across the prairie with no fences between Floydada and three or four railroad points that served us, and now the trails are only seen by the eye of the old-timer—trails that are mostly memories.

And so could be recalled so many of the things of another day, all wrapped up in the lives that have been lived by those sterling characters whose ranks are so fast thinning out. We have builded an empire—it is still in the building, indeed, and well can we be proud of the men who laid the foundations.

Candy And Ice Cream Bill Of U. S. More Than For Current

The candy and ice cream bill of the American people during 1927 was more than a billion dollars, according to the Census Bureau figures, and the money spent for marshmallows and hard candies was greater than that spent for power by all the interurban and street railways of the country.

Out of the family dollar, statisticians have figured, only 4c is spent for electric lights, cooking gas, street railway transportation and telephones. But when bill paying time comes around, a lot of folks act as if those conveniences are the heaviest expenditures in the family budget.

Oil drained from the crank case of the family automobile isn't any more used to the auto, but it can be used to combat mites in the poultry house. The undersides of the roosts and bottom of the nests should be painted with the oil drawings. Mites breed in cracks and crevices of wood, and such places should be thoroughly treated.

A Crying Need

Oh, where is there a shady tree, a really shady tree, where I can hide from all this sun, the whole scorched length of me? Oh, where is there a sunless spot, a really sunless spot, where I shall not find everything uncomfortable and hot? Oh, where is there a swimming hole, where one can swim and prance without the formal nuisance of a pair of swimming pants?—E. A. in Farm & Fireside.

The TOWN DOCTOR
(The Doctor of Towns)
SAYS

If I were President of a Service Club or a Chamber of Commerce in a town of from two to two hundred thousand population, I would, one week, invite all of the gasoline station attendants to luncheon, the next week, all of the hotel clerks, the next the soda fountain and drug store clerks, and the next week, I'd have an evening meeting and invite all the waitresses, waiters and restaurant owners.

At these meetings I'd have some well-liked and popular man who had a lot of humor, snap and pep in his make up, give a booster talk on our town. Not a lot of undue praise, nor an oration on "Our Home Town," but straight from the shoulder calling a spade a spade. I'd sell those men and women on why they should sell everybody with whom they come in contact on what the town offered, what it needed and I'd show them why they should do it for their own pocketbooks, as well as the town in general.

I'd see to it that facts and figures were placed in their minds and hands that would make it possible for them to put up a real sales talk. Among other things, this would include the growth of the town in the last five years and why, population of trade zone and the income derived from the trade zone, historical facts, high lights of interest, and industries. If the town had anything that no other town had, I'd see that these people had all the details.

In other words, I'd start right now to place in the hands of those who come in contact with the potential customers of the town, sales ammunition to SELL the town.

These people are the logical people to start with and through them thousands of dollars can be made for every merchant.

Every day there is a constant flow of gold dollars going through your city, but no town can expect to get an even break unless they ask for it. "You can't sell 'em, if you don't tell 'em," is as true in Town Selling as it is in the promotion of any product.

With Old Battleaxe (Himself)

Well, folks, that guy on California Street liked to have passed out of the picture last week. He rang the telephone, picked up the receiver and in less than two minutes Central wanted to know what number he wanted. Yes sir, in less than two minutes! Our telephone service around is sure getting to be wonderful.

But during this modern age of electricity, we must expect our telephone service to be by far in advance of the city. Why, it has only been thirteen years since Floydada had a completely new telephone exchange.

And most cities the size of Floydada still have the old signal or dial system of phones.

O. B. sure has got a good joke on Central. Last week he was told that the line was busy before he gave her his number. "That's a yoke on Yonnie" said the Sweed as he dropped the fresh egg in his lap.

If all the elbow grease which has been used to crank telephones in Floyd County during the past six months was used during the next three days to cut weeds, by Saturday there would not be a weed in Floyd County. Even all of the Q. A. & P. Depot forest would be wiped out.

But folks, don't blame the local telephone girls for our rotten service. Goodness knows the poor girls must have a nap ever hour or so. One operator says that they have to have two hour shifts to cool off from the bawling out they get because of the poor exchange. But honestly, folks, it's not their fault. They give you the best service they have got—such as it is.

Speaking of electricity—which we wasn't—at last O. B. has found a satisfactory definition for electricity. Electricity, so we are told, is something that starts the Lord knows where and ends in the same place. It is 1-36 of a second faster than its nearest competitor, backyard gossip, and when turned loose in Europe will get to the United States five hours before it started. Nobody knows exactly what it is because it has never stood still long enough.

Electricity is sometimes known as science gone crazy with the heat, and if you can understand its manoeuvres you can do anything with it except open a can of peanut butter at a picnic or write an editorial column.

Electricity was locked up in ignorance for centuries until Ben Franklin let it out with a pass key, and since then it has been pulling off more new stunts than the Saliva Slingers ever thought of.

With it you can start a conversation or stop one permanently, cook dinner, curl your hair, press your trousers, blow up a battleship, run an automobile, signal Mars, or build a telephone exchange.

Electricity makes a newspaper possible. Newspapers make editorial columns possible and thereby this column of hot air.

Don't put hot foods in the refrigerator. Cool them first to the room temperature. Don't use ice to cool such things as the tops of carrots, the outside leaves of lettuce or thick paper on parcels from the market. Don't waste ice storing vegetables for a short time if you are going to use them immediately. Opening and closing the door frequently raises the temperature of the air in the refrigerator, so that more ice is required to cool it.

Worried Night after Night as health declined

"I SUFFERED frequently from nervous headaches, and I could not sleep well," says Mrs. Cora Dover, R. F. D. 2, Hickory Grove, S. C. "I was thin and pale. I was so weak I could scarcely walk."

"I tried several remedies but nothing seemed to help me. Night after night I worried because I could see I was going downhill. I had my children to look after, and I was afraid of what would become of them if anything happened to me."

"I began to take Cardui. It wasn't long until I was beginning to pick up. My strength gradually began to return. I rested better at night and was less nervous. I took several bottles of Cardui, and when I had finished taking it I was in fine health."

EXTERIOR SCENES USED IN "TRIAL OF MARY DUGGAN"

When "The Trial of Mary Duggan" comes to the screen of the Palace Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, July 22 and 23, with Norma Shearer heading a big special cast of notables, audiences will see a departure from the original stage version.

Bayard Veiller, author of the famous murder drama, personally directed it for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. He altered the action of his play so as to incorporate a number of exterior scenes that will run as a prologue to the thrilling courtroom sequences.

"For the purpose of condensing the trial dialogue I told part of the story outside the courtroom," Veiller said. "This did not deviate from the established plot but eliminated considerable preliminary testimony and made the witness chair dialogue more dramatic and intense."

With Miss Shearer in the huge cast are H. B. Warner, Raymond Hackett, Lewis Stone and many other famous stage and screen personages.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Dick O'Brien, Pastor
All regular services will be held at the church next Sunday. A little later in the month the pastor will be away for some revival work that will keep him away for two Sundays. Our program is holding up exceedingly well considering the season of hot weather and vacation seekers. Our Sunday School lacked only five reaching the 300 mark last Sunday. We are expecting 350 next Sunday.
We want to thank the ones who have volunteered to teach classes during the summer months, as substitutes for the regular teachers who will be away part of the time. This is the spirit that will win. There is growing up a very fine spirit of loyalty to the church organization which is heartening indeed.
There was a fine increase in the B. Y. P. U. attendance Sunday evening. Three of our ten unions have reached the A-1 Standard, and others are on the borderland of success. More than 150 attended the Training Service last Sunday evening. We are just as anxious for the success of this service as we are the Sunday School, or any other organization in the church.
To our friends of the other churches we desire to say that this is the reason we found it all but impossible to dismiss our evening services to worship with you at the tabernacle. We miss your fellowship, love you, pray for you and wish you every success in your programs, but we feared that to break the evening service half in two would do irreparable harm to our training program. We rejoice in the spirit of fellowship among the churches and hope to contribute to its growth at every opportunity.

We have set the last two weeks in August for a revival campaign. Fuller announcement will be made later.

Voters To Decide July 16 On Amending Constitution

Floyd County voters, together with other qualified voters of Texas, on July 16, will pass on two amendments to the state constitution in portions which have been unaltered since the document was first pinned. On this date the voters will pass on the propositions of raising the salary of the governor from $4000 to $10,000 annually and increasing the membership of the Supreme Court from three to nine.

A previous effort to amend the constitution in order to pay the governor more money was defeated. In fact, until lately, Texans had an aversion to amending the constitution, and it was a difficult task to get authorized an alteration.

"If the old document was good enough for my father and grandfather it is good enough for me," is an expression frequently heard when the matter of amending the constitution is broached.

But, the fact that the "old document" provides for a $4000 salary for the governor indicates that times have changed considerably since it was adopted, advocates of alternatives argue.

In the event the amendment increasing the governor's salary is adopted it will not become effective until January, 1931, at the end of Governor Moody's term.

The present occupant of the executive mansion has repeatedly declared that he would not approve any resolution calling for advancing the amount of remuneration received by the governor unless it was provided it would not take effect until the term for which he had been elected had expired.

Many lawyers are advocating the amendment increasing the membership on the supreme court to nine. The present court consists of three members, a supreme justice and two associates. But in addition there are two commissions of appeals, consisting of three judges each. These commissions were created in recent years to take from the overworked court a part of the official load. To the commissioners are referred cases by the court and after the commission works out a case and files its findings the court reviews the opinion and either approves or disapproves.

Five members of the court would constitute a quorum and it would require the assent of at least five members of the court to establish a decision.

The term of the members would be for six years.

WE WANT REALITY

UTILITY ADVERTISING PROMOTES SALES, SAYS N. E. L. A. PRESIDENT

That the public utilities have just as much need for advertising to increase their business as any other industry, is the contention of P. S. Arkwright, President of the National Electric Light Association, and President of the Georgia Power Company. "Advertising," says Mr. Arkwright, "is not for the purpose of controlling the editorial or news policies of the papers, but solely to increase consumption, which ultimately results in less cost of the article itself, and is of direct benefit to the consumer."

"We are a business institution," says Mr. Arkwright, "we are competitors with other producers of power. There is a great deal of missionary work yet to be done in making even the domestic use of electricity universal. Our problems and motives are the same as those of other advertisers. We desire to sell more electricity, and advertising is one way to help do it. The electric light and power companies manufacture a commodity, which, in recent years at least, is on a mass production basis, with all that that connotes. Advertising by central station by manufacturers of electrical apparatus, by the financial house that handles our securities, and, yes, by our customers, has helped to place it there.

"We have no right to throw our money away or waste it. We are justified in spending our money only for business reasons, within our own judgment of course. For every dollar spent on advertising our customers get manifold returns, for it helps us to increase the consumption of electricity and thereby reduces the cost of production and distribution, which in turn is reflected in lower rates. If it did not do that it would not be justified. That is the basis on which we, and everybody else, advertise."

What 20 Years Have Wrought

The startling progress in the United States of industry, wages, luxuries and conveniences is secured by comparing some of the outstanding factors of today and 20 years ago.

Twenty years ago the average working week was sixty hours, the average family income $800, the average saving of ten million savings depositors $700. Today the average working week of most workmen is forty-four hours, the average savings bank deposits of 20 million persons $1,000.

Twenty years ago there were 312,000 automobiles; today there are 24,000,000. Twenty years ago there were no radios; today there are 8,000,000 sets. Twenty years ago there were 8,000,000 telephones; today there are 17,000,000. What is the answer? Surely that America has learned to use power in place of muscle. Twenty years ago the average wage earner was a horse-power. Today he is assisted by seven horse-power, although the population of the country has increased only one-third in twenty years. No other nation can compare with the United States in the productive capacity, and power is the answer.

Her husband's sweetheart

A gripping story of a blind girl's fight to hold her husband's love

At last Christine knew the truth. Gone was the sweet dream of love which her marriage to Relio had brought her—since that other woman, Nina, had come into their home. His "sister," Relio had called her. But he seemed to change somehow. Often there clung to him the odor of lilacs—Nina's perfume.

"You needn't lie," Christine once told him sadly. "I know you love Nina. But you needed money. So you married me, a blind girl, and brought Nina here as your 'sister,' thinking to hide from me the truth. The hurt to my heart doesn't matter. I can never repay you for the happiness—you have given me, for having sold yourself to a blind girl, even for a time."

Of course he had denied, protested, pleaded—had almost convinced her that she had been wrong. Then came this fragrant summer's night when suspicion became certainty—when she had knocked at Nina's door—and Nina had screamed.

"I shall wait for you, Relio, in my own room," Christine had called through the door.

And so now she waited, white-lipped, dry-eyed, gripped by emotions that seemed to rend her very soul. Read her dramatic revelation, "Out of Her World of Darkness," in August True Story.

Beef In Small Packages

The present-day consumer wants his beef in a small, attractive package. To raise blocky, smooth animals for such trade many farmers have adopted the system of full-feeding grain to beef calves during the suckling period. By this plan grain-finished beef is produced with a minimum use of grain, and the farmer is able to make a more rapid turnover of operating capital. The relative costs of feed necessary to produce equal gains in calves, year-

Mental Back Seat Driving Is Greatest Burden, Says Writer

Mental back seat driving, fretting and piling up imaginary troubles, is life's greatest burden, according to Anne Bryan McCall, in an article in Woman's Home Companion.

"Life in its normal course gives us quite enough to carry," she says, "but generally speaking, life's burdens are fairly well fitted to the back that carries them." Miss McCall relates the story of a strong young farmer boy who was walking home happily one evening, carrying his bundle over his shoulder, when he met an old witch who said to him: "You are strong, I am old and feeble; besides I am as light as a feather. Pray let me sit on top of your bundle and carry me on your shoulder."

The farmer boy picked her up. Sure enough, she weighed no more than a feather, so he placed her on his bundle and trudged on. Though the witch laid no weight on him, she constantly whispered in his ear: "Look out for that puddle. You'll fall and break your neck. Can't you see there might be many thieves in that thicket?" and other warnings. The boy arrived home completely exhausted and ever afterward refused to carry the witch. "It is when we begin adding burdens of our own—fretfulness, envy, hate, irritability or too great absorption in our own affairs, that the burden of life becomes too heavy," concludes Miss McCall.

Says Bootlegger Can Work More Openly Than Preacher

"The modern bootlegger can work more openly than the rural preacher who must do outside work to eke out his salary," according to Harry S. Wood, whose first church paid him $8.33 a week.

"I am glad I do not look like a preacher," he says in an article in Farm & Fireside. "It gives me a chance to see people as they really are. You may not know it but you act entirely different when your pastor is around. If you swear you

Wood, on his small salary, is obliged to do automobile repairing and assemble his own car from the discarded parts of those of his parishioners. "They give their discarded tires, which usually are more holey than righteous," he relates. "One morning on my way to church I fixed six blow-outs. at Court Of Honor Friday In Court Room

Three Eagle Scouts in Troop No. 44 Within One Year; Executive Commends Council.

The Eighth Court of Honor for Floydada Boy Scouts since January 1 was a special session held in the county court room Friday afternoon for Reeves Scott and Fred Porterfield of Troop No. 44, who have completed all of the work necessary for the Eagle Badge the highest honor award that can be earned in scouting. The badges will be awarded through the national Court of Honor by the National Scout Commissioner, Daniel Carter Beard and the presentation of the badges will be made direct to the boys at a meeting of the Executive Board of this Council later in the summer.

This is three Eagle badges to be earned in this council in the past year. R. L. Stovall also of Troop 44 received his badge at the annual meeting of the Council held in February of this year. Verne Eastridge has only to complete his test for life saving before qualifying for an Eagle Scout. E. L. Roberts, scout executive of the Central Plains Area Council, who was in attendance at the Court of Honor announced that, Powell Miller, of troop No. 7 of Silvertown would complete the Eagle Scout work soon.

Other boys who passed tests were: Chester Higgins, troop No. 44, first class; George Palmer and Don T. Shaw of Troop No. 44, second class; Dont T. Shaw, Eugene Beard, Chester Higgins and Fred Porterfield of Troop No. 44 and Elwood Patty of Troop No. 43, merit badges.

E. L. Roberts, scout executive of the Central Plains Area says of the Floydada Council: "The work in Floydada is most gratifying to me and the two troops there are doing the nicest piece of Scout work in the way of advancement of any of the twenty-one groups in the Central Plains Council; this can be attributed to their leadership under Mr. W. A. Gound, Scoutmaster of Troop No. 44 and E. C. Eastridge, assistant Scoutmaster of Troop No. 43.

"Both troops 43 and 44 are registering this month for another year. Troop 44 is dividing and from it two troops are being formed, one to still bear the old troop number 44 and the other will be assigned a new number, a leader for the new troop has not yet been decided upon.

"Camp is the topic of the day with the boys. The area camp will be held this year near Silvertown, a ten day period August 20th to August 30th. Scouts from all the troops in the area will be there, we expect something like 150 boys for that camp which will be the best camp ever put on by this Council. I will be camp director and I have had several years experience in this capacity, there will be special features each day. Sunday will be visitors day and a special program of entertainment for them will be arranged. A big swimming pool will supply the water for two swims each day. Arrangements are being made to have a resident physician to be at camp all the time. The last day of camp a "Rally" will be held consisting of inter-troop activities in First Aid, Swimming events, Fire by friction, etc."

OLYMPIC DAMAGED BY FIRE; TO BE CLOSED FOR REPAIR

Ignited from burning rubbish in the alley, the rear of the Olympic Theatre was considerably damaged by fire last Wednesday afternoon, and operation of the show stopped for two or three weeks.

Screen and other equipment were ablaze when the fire department was called and the fire extinguished. An estimated damage of $1400 was reported by J. G. Deakins, manager, but insurance covered the loss, he said.

Damages are being repaired and the house will be opened again as soon as possible, Mr. Deakins said.

A number of Crosby County friends of the E. E. and J. R. Brown families were here last Friday to attend the funeral of E. E. Brown. Among these were Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Scott, of Crosbyton.

NEW YORK SONS OF WEALTH PICK UNSUAL OCCUPATION

New York.—Some of New York's sons of wealth have sown their dollars in fields far removed from Wall street.

Turning their backs to idle life, they are generally shaping careers along new lines of business or benefaction, while their brothers are busy in the world of finance.

Adventure is the chosen lot of William Douglas Burden, naturalist-explorer, son of James A. Burden. For him coupon clipping has been supplanted by the more romantic snaring of strange creatures. He is associate benefactor of the Museum of Natural History and, with his wife, headed the expedition to the Island of Komodo in the Dutch East Indies, where two "dragon lizards" were captured.

Jazz and Politics. Music at the other extreme from that of which his father is patron rewards Roger Wolfe Kahn with more than mere diversion from the cares of society. He has been successful in organizing and directing jazz orchestras and now has his own night club. He also expects to become a composer.

While Harry P. Davidson became a banker, like his father, Henry P. Davidson, his brother F. Trubee Davidson, chose a political career and is Assistant Secretary of War in charge of aviation. Aeronautics attracted another son of wealthy parents, Grover C. Loening.

Shipping was a natural pursuit of John Franklin, son of P. A. S. Franklin, head of the International Mercantile Marine. Philip A. S. Franklin Jr., however, is a banker. John Franklin after gaining experience in his father's organization, formed his own steamship company about five years ago.

Work Attracts Women Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. became a newspaper publisher and Cornelius Vanderbilt (Sonny) Whitney, son of Harry Payne Whitney, is reported to be directing one of his father's mines. Devereux Milburn, prominent polo player, is a lawyer, as is his father, John G. Milburn. Amory L. Haskell, son of J. Amory Haskell, is a manufacturer, having resigned from the General Motors Corporation, with which his father was connected, to make a "safety glass."

Scions of wealthy families who are engaged in handling money are George F. Baker, Junius and Henry Morgan, Harry Cushing III, and Frank Gould. Baker and the Morgans are bankers, the two sons of J. P. Morgan being members of their father's firm. Cushing is a broker and Gould a capitalist.

At least four daughters of the rich have taken up gainful occupations. They are Miss Isabel T. Pell and Miss Cornelia Van Rensselaer Delafield, whose business is real estate, and Miss Rosamond Pinchot and Mrs. Julia Robbins Hoyt actresses.

PERFECT CHILD DEFINED

Since perfection is what everyone is striving for, and since Dr. George E. Vincent, in his medical review in the Forum Magazine is emphasizing such perfection in children, it is timely that that magazine can offer a few definitions in an effort to set a standard for the perfect child. Here are some of the winning definitions that endeavor to solve the problem:

1. Perfection is completeness; a child is incomplete. Our ideal child must be he who gives best promise of making an ideal man. He must be sound and vigorous in body, inquisitive about everything, a nuisance, as was the boy Abraham Lincoln, by his disposition to insist on precise accuracy in all statements, quick to see how things seem to other people, ready in decision regarding action, brave, kind, persistent and a stickler for justice to everybody. He must be learning self-restraint, but not achieve it till his maturity.—Steven T. Byington, Ballard Vale, Mass.

2. Perfection being the fruit of perfect love completely expressed the child most fully revealing the dynamic forces of love is nearest perfect. These values are, (1- character, spiritual strength; (2- intelligence and health, which make beauty; (3) originality, creative force, resulting in joyousness of self-expression, gayety and humor, making for artistic gifts, genius; (4- morals, born of reverence for soul and body, fostered by cleanliness and love for the Creator; (5- manners, the flowering of love in consideration and kindness; (6- racial differences, which should count only as they fall below our highest interpretation of human virtues and powers, and the alien race's conception of them.—Elizabeth Young George, Cecilville, Cal.

3. The perfect child should have fused in his personality those qualities that cause him to stand out pre-eminently above his associates. (1) physical grace and endurance; (2) mental proficiency and initiative; (3) moral discrimination and integrity; (4) spiritual poise and graciousness. Added to the above attributes the fates should bestow upon their favorites that shining virtue of a sense of humor to cast its beneficent glow over the shadows of life.—Ethel V. Moyer, Norris town, Pa.

4. Eugenically born, hygienically bred, With a frame of tempered steel and a Binet test-proof head, And a heart of finest gold and a countenance divine, "Behold," the perfect parent cries, "the perfect child is mine!" —George H. Mather, Saskatchewan, Canada.

HORSE RACING OLD SPORT

Horse racing has been called the "sport of kings" because it has been one of their amusements since the earliest days of civilization. Thothmes I of the Eighteenth Egyptian dynasty left a papyrus letter telling of his conquest of Mesopotamia and priding himself upon the acquisition of the racing horse (the Arab), and being the first to introduce him in Africa. Somewhat later the records tell of King Solomon buying horses from Egypt and paying as much as $3,000 for some of them. Among the Greeks horse racing was introduced into the Olympic games in the thirty-third Olympiad (648 B. C.)

Clean the Granary

Meal worms cause much havoc if they get into stores of flour or meal, but periodic clean-ups of refuse in mills, warehouses, and granaries will prevent their becoming established, says the U. S. department of Agriculture. They are found in large numbers in accumulations of refuse meal, grain, and sweepings in mills and under the litter of chicken houses. In commercial plants infested material can be treated with heavier-than-air gases or by subjecting it to a temperature of 130 degrees F. for an hour or longer. Often meal worms are reared and used as food for birds, fishes, and small animals.

A New Independence

—There are several kinds of freedom of which this country can boast—freedom of speech, freedom of the press, religious freedom.

—There is still another kind of freedom which we of this modern age enjoy—Freedom from the slavery of drudgery, disease and discontent. This new freedom is the result of years of experimenting with that great discovery—ELECTRICITY.

—By reason of its cheap and abundant supply, life has ceased to become a struggle merely to exist. The sweat shop has faded like a bad dream in the fog of time. Anaemic, spindle-legged children have given away to a race of sturdy, red-blooded youngsters. Disease, to a great extent, has fled before the development of modern science.

—Through the extension of its facilities, industry is moving to the country. The vermin of the tenement has been eradicated by bright electric lights. The electric washing machine and iron, vacuum cleaner and similar labor-saving devices has swept drudgery to the forgotten past.

We are proud of the fact that this company has a part in spreading this new freedom to many prosperous cities, towns, and communities.

TARZAN THE MIGHTY

Novelized by ARTHUR E. REEVE,
From an original Serial produced by UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION, by special arrangement with
EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS
Author of TARZAN OF THE APES, THE CAVE GIRL, etc.

Black John was glaring at Mary, the personification of evil triumph. "You're coming back to the village with me and if you make any outcry—" His hand dropped significantly from Mary's mouth to the hilt of his knife.

Mary's hand clutched at her bosom. Black John thought it was fear. But it was the thought of the papers so precious to Tarzan which she had hidden.

"This time," he sneered, "I'll put you where your ape lover will never find you." Black John cast apprehensive glances about in fear of the return of Tarzan, still comforting with his swaggering tone. He caught Mary's arm. "Come along—and look alive!"

Mary's terror of the man mounted when she found that it was neither to the cabin nor the hut in the stockade that he was dragging her. Instead it was to the opening of a passage in the hill that led to a cave. Mary had never explored it, in fact had kept away from it for the reason that she learned that here were the underground ceremonial chambers of the Lost Tribe where high priests held constant vigil. She had heard vague rumors of their sacriligious rites.

Half dragging, half thrusting her Black John penetrated into the shadows of the cave until he came to a wall to which leg and arm chains were fastened. The antechambers had been guarded by two of the high priests, weird, outlandish, grotesque in their native religious robes and headgear, the terrifying effect of which was heightened by the fitful light of torches which penetrated the gloom of the cave only enough to reveal to one of exultation.

Black John grunted some guttural gibberish to the priests. She knew he was talking about her and she made a desperate attempt to break away from him. With a leer he literally cast her at the feet of the priests.

As he did so the precious papers which she had been clutching in her bosom fell to the floor. Black John saw them and snapped an order to the priests to hold her as he made a sudden move to get them. Futilely she struggled to recover them but Black John merely laughed as he picked them up and ran his eye over them in the murky light. His laugh of contempt turned quickly to one of exultation.

"With these papers, little one, I can return to England and claim the title and the estate of Lord Greystoke." With a leering grin he took a step towards her as the priests held her. And you—you shall return with me as my wife—Lady Greystoke!

All at once Mary's fear crystallized into desperate courage. "Never!" she cried defiantly. "I'll die first!" A malevolent assurance spread over his features. "Either that," he ground out, "or you will die—in the fiery pit!"

Mary continued her defiance in spite of her bewilderment. But Black John merely laughed again in his malevolent assumption of power. "Show her the fiery pit," he ordered the priests contemptuously. "That may change her mind!"

They pulled her along roughly as Black John smiled in malicious triumph and followed into the even darker recesses of the cave. Suddenly one of the priests reached down and threw open a trap. Mary drew back with a scream as long tongues of flames leaped out of the fiery furnace. Black John aware of what to expect was already standing aside, although even the floor was not exactly comfortable place upon which to stand here. The glare of the flames marked his face with an even more sinister look.

"Which shall it be—marriage with me or—? He did not finish; he did not need to finish. All that was necessary was to point to the fiery pit.

"Not that!" Mary shrank back as far as the iron grasp of the two priests would permit. "Not that!" "Then your answer is yes?" he demanded.

Mary bowed her head in the glare and heat. Black John interpreted it as assent. He motioned quickly to the priests to close the trap of the pit and take her away.

If Mary had any illusions about her freedom they were quickly dispelled when the priests chained her by each arm and leg to the wall while Black John stood by. "And now," he said, "I shall make arrangements for the ceremony to take place at once."

Their eyes met. Mary's did not waver. "I warn you—Tarzan will kill you!"

Black John's dark face broke into a sneer as his lip curled. "If Tarzan appears in the village, my men will sound the alarm. That," he added impressively, "will be the signal for your death!" He turned his head ominously toward the fiery pit. Then his harsh look softened but it was evil softness, the condensation of wickedness, as he leaned toward her. "You are mine! No one else shall have you! Remember that. Even though Tarzan should escape my men by a miracle, he cannot get here in time to save you! There is only one way in which you can live!"

Mary shook back against the cold dank wall, helpless. The full horror of the man having her all but overwhelmed the delicate, high-strung girl. Without another word Black John turned, motioned to the priests to follow him and they were swallowed up in the gloom of the cave leaving the horror-stricken Mary alone.

In the tunnel that led into the ceremonial cave Black John posted one of the priests on guard near the entrance then went on with the other, posting him just inside the door. Within the chamber itself Mary was straining at her chains and crying out. She might as well have tried to move the mountain itself or call for help in the middle of the ocean.

Black John strode across the enclosure until he found the chief drummer. "Ah! Sound the wedding tom-toms!" he thundered. Instantly the native dived into his hut and a moment later reappeared with the tom-tom.

At once he began the beating of it. And at once the village was alive as the news spread.

"Black John is marrying the White Queen!" Someone else besides the native drummer had heard the order, too. It was Bobby, minus his spear now, and no sooner did he hear it than he set out on a run that gave wings to his young feet. He knew only that this meant danger to Mary.

Scattering the panic-stricken natives before him in precipitate flight Tarzan had gone further than he had intended, through the sheer joy of seeing them run. Thus it was that he had met up with Bobby lunging through the jungle with his spear. Tarzan smiled. "Bobby—brave man-child, bad spirits run before him!" he complimented as he swung the boy on his shoulder and they started back to Mary at the hut.

But Mary was gone. Tarzan called; Bobby called. There was no answer. Bobby was first to voice Tarzan's fears. "Black John has carried her away!"

Tarzan swung Bobby under his arm and crashed through the jungle in the direction of the stockade and the village.

He would have torn his way ruthlessly through the stockade had it not been for Bobby's quick wit. "Tarzan," he cautioned, "not that way! If Black John knew you were here he would harm Mary."

There was a brief argument which ended in Bobby winning his point. Tarzan looped his rope over the stockade, set Bobby down on the inside, then retired outside himself to wait.

Thus it was that Bobby got his first look when he found Mary was not in the cabin, nor in any of the huts. He got his first clue when he saw Black John issuing from the mouth of the cave. As he followed him, hiding, he overheard the orders to their drummer of the tom-toms. That was enough. Tarzan's rage swelled as Bobby reported what had happened to Mary and he heard the tom-toms and the gathering of the natives. Quickly Tarzan and Bobby made their plans.

As Bobby appeared before the priest on guard at the cave entrance, tricking his attention, suddenly from behind the powerful hands of Tarzan clenched the guard and strangled him. Again they played the trick with the second priest.

THE CASE-OSBORNE Corn Binder has long been known for light draft and steady running. It is so well balanced that a tongue truck is not needed. Both wheels are of the same diameter which means steadier running over rough ground. This binder is specially built with the main drive chain on the left or outside of the drive wheel instead of inside. This balances the other working parts on the right and practically eliminates sidedraft. The Case-Osborne binders are built for tall and short corn. The frame is ruggedly built of strong angle and bar steel. Wheels are suspension type—very strong and durable. Binding mechanism has wide range and ties tight bundles. Packers spaced correctly to avoid knocking off ears. Knotter shafts turn in replaceable bronze bushings. Many other distinctive features that cannot be mentioned here are included. Come in and see it and look over our other money-saving equipment, too.

Sunday School Lesson

Ezekiel Teaches Personal Responsibility.

Lesson: Ezekiel 18:1-32:1-20.

Golden Text: Each of us shall give account of himself to God.—Romans 14:12.

Unto Ezekiel and his people in Babylon there came the news of their own fate which had come to Jerusalem. The city had fallen, and the hopes of God's chosen people seemed to be blasted forever. It was a dark and tragic hour. It was a time of testing for even the bravest of hearts. No doubt many serious questions came into the minds of the people. And it was true then as it is true now that there was an effort to shift the responsibility, and to place the blame upon other lives. Human nature has not changed with the passing of the centuries and today we are found trying to evade personal responsibility. It was during this time of calamity for the exiles that Ezekiel brought his message of warning, and set forth the importance of personal responsibility.

A Watchman

Ezekiel spoke in a language which the people were able to understand. Watchtowers were built at the borders of the country and a watchman stationed there to give warning of the approach of an enemy. If he saw the enemy coming it was his duty to blow the trumpet and to give the alarm. So the prophet was a watchman to warn his own people of approaching danger. We cannot afford to minimize the importance of the watchman in the life of the nation. Our own lives are protected and our interests guarded because thousands of the watchmen are at the post of duty by day and by night.

Many calamities have been averted because the watchman gave the alarm and the warning was heeded. It is necessary that the watchman possess courage and perseverance. He must not go to sleep while at the post of duty, and his message of warning must be clear and definite. It is no easy task that of being a watchman. Now in sense at least, God has called one of us to be a watchman. We are faced with the fact that we are our brother's keeper. Parents and teachers are appointed to look over children, and to keep them in the right way. The statesman must safeguard the rights of the nation. The preacher must not be afraid to speak out in no uncertain manner regarding the evil he sees approaching. If the man fails his people are deceived and he himself suffers the consequences. It is his duty there to do his duty there with mercy. This is as it should be for the protection and preservation of humanity.

The Responsibility of Those Who Hear

All of the responsibility however does not belong to the one who gives the warning. There is an obligation resting upon the person who is warned. Suppose the warning is given and is understood what then? Disregarding the warning means death for the person who is so reckless and thoughtless. It is the duty of the parent, the teacher, the statesman, the preacher, to deliver his message of warning and then it is the obligation of the one who has heard the warning to turn from his evil way and live. What is the duty of those who hear and understand the message of warning? Clearly it is that he should turn from his evil ways and live. Turning is something all of us can do. At the time of the great Johnstown flood several years ago when it was certain that the dam was going to give way several men rode up and down the valley warning the people of the impending danger. Some of them took the warning seriously and rushed to the hills thereby saving their lives. Others treated the warning lightly and paid no attention and made no effort to escape, and as a result all of those paid for their folly with their lives. During the awful flood at Corpus Christi a few years ago hundreds of people lost their lives because they set aside the warnings which they received from the government—that a great storm was coming and that they should go to the hills for protection. Not one life was lost among those who took the warning seriously and moved out of the lowlands to the hills above the city. The preacher comes with his message of warning to human hearts but his message is treated with indifference or with scorn. Why do men not heed the Gospel warnings? Many excuses are given: One does not like the trumpet; another does not like the one who blows the trumpet; still another says he is too busy, and still another says there is plenty of time. Heeding not he shall perish and his blood shall be upon his own head. The trivial excuses which men give for failing to heed will not stand in the white light of the judgment.

Lesson of the Golden Text

Life is invested with tremendous significance because of personal accountability. No individual lives unto himself. Our interests are bound up one with the other. Each individual must give an account of himself to God. At the last great day each individual shall give an account of himself to God. A man shall give an account of his rejection of Jesus Christ. He shall give an account of wasted opportunities, of wasted talents, and of a wasted life. The watchman shall give an account of his failure to deliver his message of warning, and the one who heard the warning shall give an account of his failure to heed the warning. Then it is imperative that here and now each one of us discharge our personal responsibility to God and man.

Should Disbud Dahlias Now To Grow Beautiful Blooms

The following is taken from an article by Mary H. Phifer in The Sunday Citizen, of Asheville, N. C.:

The dahlias are probably needing some attention now that they are growing at such a pace. Left alone they will give you a world of bloom but if you wish to astound your neighbors (though this particular striving is not to be cultivated) with huge blooms you must begin now to tend your plants. From now on a little attention every day will be necessary. First the plants must be kept well tied up and nothing will do this job quite so well as old rags—but please have them dark green. The stalks must not be allowed to sag down to the ground. The ground must be kept cultivated but very lightly so the top roots will not be injured. The plants must not suffer for water, but water well once a week rather than constant sprinkling.

The plant has, of course, been kept to one stalk. When the buds begin to appear you can begin to give the plant extra meals—they get ravenously hungry. A scant tablespoonful of nitrate of soda to a gallon of water applied after a good rain or a thorough watering will be relished. About the first of August rake in a little lime around each plant and do this again in September. This will stiffen the stems. If any insect pests appear spray with nicotine (Black-Leaf 40). This should control the white fly that sometimes is troublesome. The borer, which wilts the tops of the plants, must be fished out by hand with the help of a wire. If the plant is still small cut off the stalk as another will promptly shoot up.

How To Disbud

Now for disbudding. If you want handsome dahlias you disbud. Leave one flower head to a stem, pinning out the side buds. In cutting your blooms do so early in the morning and plunge them immediately into a deep bucket of luke warm water, up to the base of the flowers. Leave in a cool place for several hours before arranging them in the house. Strip off the bottom leaves and cut the flowers with as long stems as possible. One thing to remember. Never cut half open buds but always cut dahlias in full bloom.

NEW WOMAN REALLY NEW

The "new woman" who is neither young nor old, neither a girl nor a married woman, neither a bud nor a spinster, is something new under the sun.—Woman's Home Companion.

TEST OF BEAUTY

It's easy to fix one's self up for a party and look nice. The really clever woman, however, is the one who looks well on the picnic or over the kitchen stove.—Farm & Fireside.

For Poison Ivy

After exposure to poison ivy or the skin surface with strong kitchen or laundry soap having an excess of alkali, is a good precaution. Lather well, and rinse several times in running water. Pay special attention to the finger nails and tender skin between the fingers. This treatment if carefully done may be tried even after inflammation has developed, to lessen the area affected, and the intensity of the poisoning. As a preventative a solution of 1 part of iron sulphate in 5 parts of water has been recommended. This solution should be freely applied to the parts likely to come in contact with the ivy and allowed to dry. By this means some measure of protection may be afforded to persons who are engaged in work that makes it difficult to avoid contact with the plant. A 5 per cent solution of potassium permanganate applied locally is reported to be a very good remedy. The brown stain caused by this solution will gradually wash off or it may be removed more rapidly with lemon juice. Solutions of cooking soda or Epsom salt are ordinarily as helpful as any local applications. In the early stages ointments are not recommended.

Twelve 'Rules Of The Road' For Motorists

Observance Would Be Greatest Contribution To Safety On Highways, Says Ford.

As a contribution towards greater safety and more pleasant driving conditions on the highways of the country this summer, the Ford Motor Company has listed twelve rules as suggestions to motorists and has distributed them to dealers over the country.

Announcement of the suggestions were made today by B. K. Barker, Ford dealer in this city, who will display the list prominently in his place of business.

"These rules," said Mr. Barker, "are merely common sense applied to automobile driving. Every experienced motorist knows all of them. It is our hope, however, that by stating them concisely and posting them where they will come to the attention of a great many motorists, we can so emphasize them as to make a real contribution towards greater highway safety."

The twelve rules are:

1. Courtesy comes first. Consider the rights and privileges of others.
2. Keep your mind on your driving, and anticipate sudden emergencies.
3. Learn the "feel" of having your car under control.
4. Obey all traffic and parking regulations.
5. Keep to the right, and comply with road markings and signs.
6. Signal for stops and turns—Watch the car ahead.
7. Slow down at crossings, schools dangerous places.
8. Never pass cars on hills, curves, crossings.
9. Adapt your driving to road conditions—rain, ice, soft spots and ruts.
10. It doesn't pay to take the "right of way" too seriously.
11. When you drive, remember the times when you're a pedestrian.
12. Know the law. It was passed for your protection.

"It is estimated that 20,000,000 persons will tour on American highways this summer," Mr. Barker continued. "Recognition of the rights of others will be essential. Many unpleasant accidents will be avoided if motorists, at times of close situations, will recall these rules and act accordingly. They are the recommendations of the Ford Motor Company offered to give greater peace of mind to those who travel by automobile."

Thrilling Drama In 'The Pagan' At Palace

Ramon Novarro Makes His First Appearance Here in Sound Pictures Monday.

Tropic scenes of wonderful beauty, thrills such as a battle under water with a deep sea shark, and other vivid details of life in the tropics, embellish a romantic love story, in "The Pagan," Ramon Novarro's latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, which comes Monday and Tuesday to the Palace Theatre as a sound synchronized film with singing sequences which introduce Novarro's rich tenor voice to the motion picture public. He gives several renditions of "Pagan Love Song," theme song of the production.

"The Pagan," adapted from the famous novel by John Russell, was directed by W. S. Van Dyke, who directed "White Shadows in the South Seas." The cast includes Renee Adoree, Donald Crisp, Dorothy Janis, and others of note, and the picture was made in its entirety in the islands. The company passed weeks in Tahiti and in the jungles to film this dramatic romance of tropical life.

Novarro plays a young half-caste islander, heir to a fortune and practically chief of a tribe, who is pitted against an itinerant trader in a struggle for the love of a native sweetheart. She, in turn, is the rival of a white adventuress on the island for the love of the youth. The white woman, "Madge," is played by Miss Adoree, while Janis plays the native charmer.

Novarro's sensational swimming through a shark-filled lagoon and his battle with one of the "tigers of the sea," the thrilling trek of hero and heroine into the primeval jungles, and other dramatic details surround a charming love story in the new picture. Historic spots on the island, and locals mentioned by the author, are used as settings for the new picture. Among them is the famous old church where the first missionaries Christianized the natives, and the queer little colony established on the shore near Tahiti by Zane Grey, the novelist.

Theatre Fans Pleased With First All-Talkie

Singing, dancing, talking,—all summed up in the one word—Melody—and one has a description of "Broadway Melody," shown at the new Palace Theatre last Wednesday and Thursday nights, the first all talking picture to be shown in Floydada, pleasing theatre goers as in other places shown.

The story is of the adventure of two sisters who set out to win a place for themselves in the city of Bright-lights—not so much in the story itself, but the ever interesting background of exotic "back stage" life combined with good acting made a production that could not soon be forgotten.

Bessie Love takes the part of the older sister who acts as business manager and furnishes the brains for their projects, while her sister, portrayed by Anita Page, furnishes the looks for the family. They are encouraged to come to New York by a popular song writer and dance man, Charles King. The older girl is engaged to him, her sister marries him.

After a tryout they fall to "take" with the producer, and they are obliged to give up their act. The manager, after futile attempts to make a go, gets another partner and takes a booking on the road, leaving the coast clear for her sister and the husband she has taken from her.

Musical comedy parts for theatre scenes were accompanied by special musical numbers. The most beautiful scene in the entire production was an act called "The Wedding of the Painted Doll" in which technicolor was used, making the scene so realistic one could hardly believe it was not.

Harry Beaumont directed the picture, the cast of which includes Kenneth Thompson, Mary Doran, Eddie Kane, Edward Dillon and other featured dancers, singers and actors.

Although many have voiced doubts concerning the success of synchronized pictures, one need only to see "Broadway Melody" to know that if it is a fair example, then their success is assured.

Farm Storage Of Wheat Is Urged On Growers

A nationwide program in which wheat growers are being urged to increase their facilities for storing grain on farms in order to distribute marketing throughout the season to prevent gluts and to secure the premiums for high protein content is being launched by the Bureau of Agriculture Economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

Recent surveys by the bureau in the hard-red-winter and hard-red-spring wheat areas have shown that a larger proportion of the crop each year is being marketed during the early months of the new crop. The result is that the facilities of the country elevators and the railroads are taxed to the limit, and it becomes physically impossible during this rush period to handle the wheat according to its protein content.

Farm storage for grain, declare bureau officials, will make possible a system of more orderly marketing, reduce car shortage, make it possible to handle the crop with less hired help, make it possible to clean grain on the farm and at country elevators, prevent the need of piling the newly threshed grain on the ground, make it possible to condition damp grain before selling it on the market, and enable farmers to sell wheat on a protein basis.

Farm storage is especially advantageous, is pointed out, in years of large crops in which is also a large carry-over of grain from previous crops in store in elevators, in preventing market gluts which may cause price declines, giving farmers an opportunity to study supply and demand conditions, and enabling them to sell their grain on what they consider to be the most favorable market.

To prevent car shortages or embargoes at terminal markets, farmers are urged to place at least a part of each new crop in properly constructed farm storage bins so as to enable the railroads and the country and terminal elevator operators to better handle and move the marketed grain. It is pointed out that on farms located at some distance from local markets, less help will be required to move the grain from the combine or threshing machine to the farm bin than is required to haul direct to market. Grain placed in storage on the farms at threshing time can be hauled later to local markets by farmers themselves.

Farm storage in areas in which grain contains a high percentage of dockage or other foreign materials permits the cleaning of grain on the farm; the clean grain brings a better price, and the dockage is used for feed. Storing part of each new crop on the farm lengthens the marketing period and gives the country elevator operator an opportunity to clean any grain that is received from farmers in an uncleaned condition. This saves freight on the dockage.

The bureau's survey has shown that when the country elevators and the railroads, and sometimes the terminal elevators, can not handle and move grain as fast as it is received from farms, farmers who are not equipped with farm storage facilities frequently are compelled to pile their threshed grain on the ground. This grain often becomes spoiled by rain and trash is mixed with it, with the result that the grain must be sold at a lower grade and for a lower price on account of high moisture or the excess of foreign material.

Damp grain can usually be avoided, it is pointed out, by delaying to harvest with the combine or thresh until grain is dry, and by immediately removing any damp weed seeds or other foreign matter that may be present in the threshed grain. In some cases it is not possible to delay "combining" or threshing until the grain is thoroughly dry, and if farm storage equipped grain-elevating machinery is available, the damp grain can be dried to a considerable extent by frequently transferring the grain from one bin to another during dry weather. Grain that contains only a slight excess of moisture can be dried in the bins by the use of ventilators.

Discussing protein premiums, economists of the Department of Agriculture declare that the payment of premiums for hard wheats of high protein content has become a common practice at many of the interior terminal markets. Protein premiums are now also being paid direct to farmers at many country elevators in the hard-red-winter and hard-red-spring wheat areas. During the harvesting period in any grain area, however, country elevator operators often have difficulty handling grain on a protein basis and usually must bin the wheat without reference to its protein content. This situation may be overcome by putting a part of the wheat into farm storage at time of threshing, testing for protein content and marketing at a later date.

Grain storages recommended by the department may be portable or stationary, and of either temporary or permanent construction. Complete working drawings for the structures may be obtained from the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. All farm grain bins, it is pointed out, should be ventilated unless the equipment is such that damp grain can be transferred from one bin to another to prevent heating in storage. A printed leaflet which discusses fully the advantage of farm storage of grain will be issued soon. Copies may be obtained free by addressing the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and asking for Leaflet 46, Farm Grain Storage.

NO SNAKES IN GREEN ISLE

The biological survey says that there are no snakes native to Ireland and never have been, so far as there are authentic records. This is due to its geographical position. Isolated as it is from the region in which vertebrates originated and which they now occupy. A few attempts have been made to introduce harmless species, but as yet its records show none established on the island. This may be due to a lack of proper environment, climatic disease or other abnormal condition. The slow-worm or lag-worm, a legless lizard which superficially looks very much like a snake, is native of Ireland, and may account for some of the snakes record of that country.

FARM WOMAN TAKES TRIP IN HER GUEST BEDROOM

A two weeks' vacation spent in a spare bedroom is the unique experience related by Ellen A. Hamilton, a farm woman, in Farm & Fireside. Mrs. Hamilton's funds were too low to take a New England trip that she had long planned, but her health being delicate, she felt that she must have a rest. First she bought two new dresses and stocked the house with food that required little cooking, then packed a suitcase as for a trip, gathered up a package of books on New England travel and moved into the guest room which had never been occupied.

"Each afternoon I took a leisurely bath," Mrs. Hamilton writes, "and poked as much as I pleased with my dressing. There was time for reading but there was no sock darning, you can bet. At the end of two weeks felt like a different person and that vacation cost us little except a few extra dollars on the grocery bill."
