Duvalier flees Haiti, seeks French asylum

By ART CANDELL

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) Embattled President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier left Haiti for France today on a U.S. Air Force plane, relinquishing power over the impover-ished Caribbean nation his family had ruled for 28 years

"I have decided to pass the destiny of the nation into the hands of the military...so a bloodbath be avoided for my people," Duvalier said in a taped message broadcast on national television and radio at 7:20 am, almost four hours after he left the National television and radio said a six-member military-civilian council headed by army chief of staff Gen. Henri Namphy had taken charge of the country, the poorest in the Western Hemisphere.

The council members were greet ed by a 21-gun salute and shouts of joy when they appeared on the steps of the presidential palace Thou sands of people poured into the capital's downtown shouting. "He flew away," and "Down with the Macoutes, long live the army

In Paris, the French Foreign Ministry announced it would temporar ily accept Duvalier in order to allow a "transition" to democracy. It said no country had agreed to permanently accept Duvalier

Duvalier's flight came one week after the White House erroneously reported he had fled the country. prompting him to declare he was strong, as firm as a monkey's tail His authoritarian government had been the target of mounting protests since last November, including riots last week in which as many as 50 people were killed in Port au Prince the capital

Midlander among oil fee supporters

By PEGGY ROBERSON

Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON - Leaders of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, after a heated discussion behind closed doors, Thursday reaffirmed their stated opposition to an oil import tax.

Some Texas independent oilmen at the meeting as observers, however, remained steadfast in their support of a new fee on imported oil. Harry Spannus of Midland, executive vice president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, attended the meeting then spent the rest of the day on Capitol Hill. "Momentum is building for the tax," he reported.

President Reagan also is rethinking his opposition to an oil tax and now says he is "willing to look at it" as part of a tax overhaul bill.

The president has been told emphatically by Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and other Repub lican leaders that they must bring more money into the federal treasury if they are to cut tax rates - a key part of the president's tax reform proposal.

The president indicated he could tolerate an oil import fee if it would be used as a trade-off for lower income tax rates.

That stand immediately placed him at odds with Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., who wants to apply any new oil tax to reduce the federal deficit.

More than 25 state or regional independents' associations were invited into the IPPA executive board sessions Thursday and today. Many producers are members of both the IPPA and a regional group. The disagreement between some individual independent producers and some associations to which they belong centers on their evaluations of the likely consequences of import fee.

H.B. (Bud) Scoggins, IPPA's vice president for governmental relations, after members threshed over their position, said an oil import fee would not be in the best interest of the country or producers.

He acknowledged that some IPPA members "would personally support it," but said they agreed to stand by the association's position. "Political reality" in the official view of IPPA, is that "a domestic oil tax soon would follow an imported oil tax." Scoggins said, "Politicians want that revenue Spannus came away with the impression that IPPA will not "openly advertise" its opposition to an import fee and will not "combat any association trying to get one passed. The Permian Basin group and the North Texas Oil and Gas Association, among others, see an import fee as a means of discouraging the shipment of foreign oil into the U.S. and of placing a floor under the price of crude, selling Wednesday on world markets for a little above $16 a bar-

If there is to be an oil import tax. Spannus said he and others who favor it are pressuring Congress to pass a "clean bill," one without special rebates to the frigid, oil-hungry Northeastern United States or exemptions for Canada or Mexico or North Sea oil.

On one issue all the associations and IPPA are agreed: They want to kill the tax reform bill.

Reducing the deficit is more important than tax reform," said 'Our goal is no bill at all." said

Spannus visited six or eight Senate offices Thursday and found that staffers and senators generally gave tax reform a 50-50 chance this year. In Republican offices, however, the odds were 90-10, "mainly because the president wants-it," he said.

Scoggins.

U.S. aided Duvalier's departure to 'ease' transition

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States says it stands ready to help the estimated 6,100 Americans living in Haiti if conditions deteriorate under the military-civilian government that took power today from departed strongman Jean-Claude Duvalier.

The State Department, welcoming the change in Port-au-Prince, said "it was obvious the only way the Duvalier government could remain in power was through repression and force.

In a statement, the department said it flew Duvalier and 23 others, most of them family members, to France in order "to contribute to a less-violent transition.'

"Our main concern was to avoid further bloodshed to assure to the extent possible a smooth transition" to a new Haitian government, the statement said.

Of the 6,100 Americans, the department said, about 300 work for the U.S. Embassy, the Peace Corps and other U.S. organizations. The remaining 5,800, mostly of Haitian origin, live there on their own.

We're watching the situation carefully." State Department spokesman Gregory Lagana said. "If the sit-uation does worsen, then we'll have to take a look at it and see what needs to be done.

No American forces have been sent to Haiti to protect Americans there, Lagana said.

Department spokesman Peter Martinez said that in recent days, the department had told American Ambassador Clay McManaway to be prepared to evacuate "non-essential U.S. personnel and dependents.' But the spokesman said it was a precautionary move and that, at present, no evacuation of Americans was planned.

For the time being, Lagana noted that the capital of Port-au-Prince was "pretty calm." He said the rest of the country is "generally calm. There might be some violence, but not any significant increase or trend to more violence.

Local officials, however, estimate that about 50 people died in the two months of unreast that preced Duvalier's pre-dawn departure for France on a U.S. Air Force transport.

The United States is exploring relations with the new government,

Gen. Henri Namphy.

Martinez said officials "are consulting with the new government about its plans for the future of Haiti, and the conditions under which the U.S. would be willing to be helpful so far as the resumption of aid is concerned."

As unrest spread during the last two months, the State Department told Haitian officials that it was considering withholding $26 million of this year's $51 million in U.S. aid unless human rights conditions improved. Martinez noted that "the U.S. view is the Haitian people have a right to choose their own government.... We of course remain committed to the development of a democratic government.

Duvalier, 34, took power in 1971 after the death of his father, Francois Duvalier, who had ruled the country since 1957.

The wealth of the Duvalier family, who lived in a white palace in the center of the capital, was a sharp contrast with most of the rest of Haiti's residents.

Among the 23 persons fleeing Haiti with President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier was his wife, Michelle. They are pictured here in a 1980 file AP file photo. The party will take refuge in France until permanent asylum can be arranted.

By JANET BRAUNSTEIN MIAMI (AP) - Car horns blared, homemade Haitian flags waved, and 500 jubilant refugees chanted "No more Duvalier" today as Miami's Little Haiti celebrated the president-for-life's departure from his impoverished Caribbean nation. "The city of Miami rejoices," said Cuban-born Mayor Xavier Suarez. "We'd like to have freedom of democracy for Haiti. Indeed, we'd like to have freedom for the entire Caribbean, including Cuba.

crowd, killing a 47-year-old woman. In the disturbance that followed, five people were bitten by police dogs, one officer was shot with his own gun during a scuffle and another officer was struck in the head by a thrown object.

Mexican national now jailed in Alpine

ALPINE (AP) - Mexican authorities said they would try a man accused of rape in Texas.

But three men had other ideas and reportedly broke into the Ojinaga, Mexico, jail, brought the suspect back across the border and left him tied to a tree to be retrieved by the Brewster County sheriff, Texas officials said.

Refugio Garcia Gonzales, 22, of Jimenez, Mexico, remained in jail Thursday night in lieu of $175,000 bond on charges of rape, robbery and kidnapping, sheriff's officials

Sheriff George Jones told the San Angelo Standard-Times that Gonzales was found Jan. 22 in a roadside park 18 miles south of Alpine. Gonzales was wearing only shorts and was tied to a tree with baling wire.

Jones said he found Gonzales, who was not injured, after an anonymous caller tipped officials that a nude man was in the park. A report in El Sentinela, a newspaper in Ojinaga, said three men armed with rifles broke into the city's jail and tied up the two guards. The men then unlocked Gonzales' cell and fled with the inmate, who was only wearing his shorts, the Mexican newspaper reported.

Ojinaga, a town of about 60,000 residents, is across the Rio Grande from Presidio, Texas. The identity of the three men remains unknown, authorities said. "We don't have any idea who they are, but we're proud of them," District Attorney Phil Pollan of Alpine said Thursday.

The sheriff said he recognized Gonzales as the man who had been indicted last November on kidnapping, rape and robbery charges. Texas authorities had been trying to have Gonzales extradited to the U.S. to face trial on the charges.

Pollan said Gonzales had been held in the Ojinaga jail awaiting trial by Mexican officials. "They (Mexican police) said they were going to try him in Mexico on something that happened in Brewster County," Pollan said.

Gonzales is accused of breaking into the home of a Terlingua woman, kidnapping her at knifepoint and raping her several times while holding her hostage for eight hours. The woman said she escaped after convincing the kidnapper she could get him more money at her office. She said she jumped from her pickup truck on her way to the office and called authorities. Brewster County officers appre hended Gonzales about four miles inside Mexico after he allegedly abandoned a pickup truck at the border, but were prevented from bringing him back across the border by Mexican police.

on charges of air piracy and assaulting and intimidating flight attendants, he didn't have much to say about Wednesday night's drama,

"I'm not in a detail state," Hughes told federal Magistrate Alex H. McGlinchey.

McGlinchey, who even had trouble getting Hughes to answer questions about whether he could afford an attorney, agreed to appoint a lawyer to represent Hughes and ordered the suspect held until a detention hearing Monday.

At a news conference later Thursday at the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, the police officer who negotiated the release of the 220 passengers and the crew members said Hughes' mood during the twohour standoff varied from "very excited" to "rational."

'We feel like we know why he did it but I can't say now because of the pending case against him," said Gary Pinkston, detective sergeant of the airport police.

Pinkston, the only negotiator to speak to Hughes during the incident Wednesday night, said the man "expressed concern for his family and their safety." Hughes' brother, whom he declined to name, was waiting for Hughes at the terminal

At his arraignment, Hughes, a former Dallas resident who attended North Texas State University for two years, looked dazed 18 hours after police wrestled him to the floor of the L-1011.

The tall man with blond, curly hair and a mustache appeared list-less and subdued as McGlinchey asked him questions about his fi-nances and personal life. He told McGlinchey his last job was as a yacht hand in Florida, but that he hadn't worked for a month. He said he had $300 in cash, $200 in the bank and a boat "that nobody would want.'

The magistrate then ordered Hughes to pay $500 toward the cost of his attorney.

Flight attendant Gregory F. Puhek told police that just after the plane landed, he had ordered Hughes to sit down because the plane was still moving. But he said Hughes grabbed him, put a knife to his throat and said, "You don't understand — this is a hijacking."

Residents pick through rubble of homes

TOMBALL (AP) — Many north-west Harris County residents scav-enged through piles of rubble, all that remained of their homes after a series of tornadoes ripped through

"Right now, we're just looking for bodies under the debris, then we can bring in heavy equipment to start removing some of this," Harris County Constable Dick Moore said of damage at the Boudreaux Gardens mo-bile home park. "This is the worst I've seen in 25 years here." Only three of the estimated 40 mobile homes in the park remained standing Thursday, and each was severely damaged.

"It looked like a bomb was set off in the middle out here," Linda Birchfield, a resident at the park, said.

The twisters, which hit portions of the county that lie about 30 miles northwest of Houston Wednesday, were blamed for two deaths. Another 44 people were injured, some of them critically.

Authorities were unable to estimate how many homes and buildings were damaged or destroyed.

A Houston Lighting & Power Co. maintenance worker. Timothy Sparks, 27, was killed when his truck overturned, authorities said.

An 81-year-old woman, identified as Barbara Wilkerson, was killed when the storm struck the mobile home park. Klein Fire Department Chief Leslie McNulty said the woman's body was found outside in the McNulty said authorities were conducting the tedious search because they did know how many people lived there.

We're just going through everything," he said. Up to 50,000 people were without power at the height of the storm, but Houston Lighting & Power officials said only about 5,000 outages remained by Thursday evening. The field, where hundreds of planes remainder were expected to be back in service Friday, said HL&P spokes-

Civil Air Patrol crews went through wrecked planes to discon-nect emergency locater transmitters, which automatically send out radio signals when airplanes crash. The false signals would confuse radio operators in the event of a genu-ine plane crash, officials said.

CAP Lt. Harry Hicks said Thursday night that patrol crews had dismantled 74 emergency transmitters and believed about six remained to be dismantled.

In Tomball, tornadoes hit two apartment houses, several homes and a doctor's office. Authorities said about 90 percent of the houses in town sustained some damage.

Other areas reported golf-ball size hail and heavy winds, which toppled trees and billboards.

Man digs up road to save 'family' of peach trees

WACO (AP) - Brad Harris admits he bucked the system when he dug up a county road to drain floodwater off his land.

But he says he was desperate to save his "family" of peach trees worth more $100,000.

While McLennan County officials say Harris may have violated state laws and possibly placed nearby homes in jeopardy, Harris counters that anyone in the same situation would have done the same.

"It is a desperate situation," Harris said Thursday while a backhoe tore into the road. "If you were to relate it to people, you would say that this is my family here in a tank of water and they are going to run out of air in three days. If you were in the same situation, you would do everything you could to see that they get

The orchard, near Waco, should be drained by noon today, and Harris says he will install two 18-inch culverts and repair the road. This week's heavy rains dumped an estimated 8 to 10 inches of rain on Harris' orchard, leaving 1,500 of his 2,700 peach trees under water since

Monday, he said. Harris said Soil and Water Conservation officials told him he might lose the trees if they remained covered with water for 72 hours. Harris claims the asphalt, countymaintained road, serves as a dam adjacent to his property, preventing the water on his 70 acres from draining across the roadway and into a natural runoff drain that would carry it to the Brazos River.

Harris said he asked County Commissioner Wayne Davis to provide culverts, but got no response. He then decided to dig the ditch across the road. Harris also blocked both ends of the road without the county's permission.

Teachers' groups, administrators clash over evaluations

By STEVE LEVINE

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Representatives of tea-chers' groups and school administra-tors clashed Thursday over the role supervisors play in preparing evalua-tions of teachers' performance used to determine salary bonuses. Individual teachers, however, agreed more with the administrators than with their own groups at a public hearing before a committee of the State Board of Education. The committee heard more than three hours of testimony regarding a draft teacher appraisal system scheduled. to begin this fall in school districts across the state.

Dr. John Horn, superintendent of a suburban Dallas school system and vice president of the Texas Associa-tion of School Administrators, urged the committee to modify the draft to include supervisors' day-to-day ob-servations of teachers in the evaluation process. The draft calls for four classroom appraisals of every Texas teacher, each 30 to 45 minutes long. The supervisor prepares two of the appraisals and an outside observer usually another teacher or administrator — conducts the other two. "The key to improved classroom instruction is consistency in performance throughout the year," Horn told the panel. He proposed that the board allow "cumulative data from multiple sources" to account for 30 percent of a teacher's overall evaluation.

Nancy Sampson, president of the Texas Elementary Principals and Su-pervisors Association, echoed Horn's comments. "Observation of a teacher's performance should be like a family album rather than a snapshot," Sampson said.

But Charles Beard, a Beaumont teacher and president of the Texas State Teachers Association, said a "30-percent, undefined hodgepodge" undermines the Legislature's intent to establish a uniform, statewide appraisal process. He called Horn's plan "a design to retain the status quo."

Beard said the plan — combined with a proposal denying teachers the right to appeal the content of their evaluations — would permit principals to use personal biases against individual teachers to diminish the appraisals obtained from the strictly defined, objective criteria that make up the four classroom observations.

Dr. Lamar Hebert, assistant superintendent for instructional services at Midland Independent School District, complained that the draft plan produces evaluations which are too simplistic to help teachers improve their performance. "The classroom observation report should not be a checklist, rather it should be a narrative," Hebert said. "The system gives no incentive for improvement.

Six school districts have used the draft plan as a pilot project since September. The state board is scheduled to take a first vote on a final appraisal plan March 8, with a final vote expected in May.

SBOE told to set up career ladder

By STEVE LEVINE Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Sen. Carl Parker told the State Board of Education Thursday to establish a career ladder for teachers before the next school year begins. Parker, chairman of the Senate Education Committee and co-author of the 1984 Texas education reforms, asked to speak to the board concerning what he called "the heart and soul" of the reforms. "The important thing is that they get on with it," he said in an interview before his speech.

The board's committee on personnel heard more than three hours of public comment Thursday morning on a proposed evaluation system for teachers. The results of teachers' evaluations — in conjunction with their educational background and number of years of experience — determine their ascent up the four-step ca-reer ladder. Each rung of the career ladder provides a teacher with a maximum $2,000 annual

Overtaxed plant lets raw sewage flow into Trinity

DALLAS (AP) - Officials say millions of gallons of raw sewage are pouring into the Trinity River south of here after heavy rains flooded a sewage treatment plant.

A spokesman for the river authority said the sewage spill at the Trinity River Authority's Ten Mile Creek plant near Ferris began about 7 p.m. Wednesday and was expected to continue through at least today. The severe rainstorm Wednesday evening caused an excessive flow of wastewater into the plant, said the spokesman, John Jadrosich.

He said river authority officials had to divert almost 800,000 gallons of raw sewage per hour, or about 19 million gallons per day, directly into the creek to prevent flood damage to the plant's equipment.

Ten Mile Creek flows into the Trinity about six miles south of Seagoville.

Jadrosich said the diversion of sewage into the creek was gradually decreasing as runoff from the storm declined. He said the spill would continue "possibly for another day or

Along the Trinity downstream from the plant, residents reported no fish kills or other problems related to the sewage spill. They said the river was running high from this week's rains, meaning the sewage was being greatly diluted as it entered the Trinity.

Duncanville, DeSoto, Cedar Hill, Lancaster and Ferris are served by the Ten Mile Creek plant. Texas Water Commission officials said the plant's capacity has been taxed by rapid growth in those communities and it often spills sewage during heavy rains. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency ordered the Trinity River Authority to expand the plant at a cost of $4 million to $5 million to eliminate rain-related sewage spills by October Jadrosich said work on that expansion is underway.

Estranged wife says principal asked her about her marriage

LIVINGSTON (AP) - The estranged wife of a murdered junior high school football coach said that about six weeks before her husband disappeared, the school principal questioned her about the couple's failed marriage.

Lynda Fleming, the widow of coa-ch Billy Mac Fleming, testified Thursday in the trial of principal Hurley Fontenot, her husband's accused killer.

Fleming, 36, disappeared April 12, 1985, from Hull-Daisetta Woodson Junior High School in Liberty County. His body was found 10 days later near a Polk County logging road.

Prosecutors contend Fontenot, 4 shot Fleming twice in the back o. the head because he was jealous of the coach's romance with school secretary Laura Nugent.

Mrs. Fleming, 38, testified her husband of seven years filed for a divorce shortly after moving out of the couple's Hull home Jan. 11, 1985. Their divorce would have become final on April 14, 1985.

She said Fontenot stopped her in a Liberty department store Feb. 28, 1985, and asked about the Flemings' troubled marriage. Earlier that day, she said, she received the first of four anonymous letters complaining about Fleming's romance with Mrs. Nugent.

Mrs. Nugent, 36, dated Fontenot, but left him and planned to marry Fleming last summer

"He (Fleming) said, 'Lynda, have you ever known someone you thought you could trust and they turned against you and turned out not to be what you thought they were?" she testified.

"He said he heard Bill and I separated and he was quite surprised," Mrs. Fleming said. "He wanted to know why Bill left. I told him Bill left to find himself and that I had received a letter at school that made me think there was someone else." Mrs. Fleming was scheduled to

Reagan urged to 'cut the baloney,' compromise on budget

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan's top budget officials are getting blunt warnings from Congress that the president may be left behind this year unless he "cuts the baloney" and agrees to negotiate new spending priorities.

Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III and White House Budget Director James C. Miller defended the

$994 billion spending proposal before the House Appropriations Committee on Thursday, but ran into a wall of bipartisan skepticism. Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee on foreign aid, singled out the budget's proposed foreign aid increases as unrealistic in the context of heavy domestic spending cuts.

"Whoever put this budget together for foreign aid has to be out of their cotton pickin' minds," Obey said, noting the foreign package would find little support on Capitol

"There's no way on God's green earth you're going to get more than 20 percent of the members of Congress - at least in the House when you're savaging what's hap-pening for our own (programs)," he

Obey, echoing comments of other panel members, said Reagan's proposed increases in foreign aid and defense, at the expense of items such as cancer and AIDS research, will prove to be at sharp odds with the desires of most Americans.

He told Baker: "All I ask you sir, is to cut the baloney, and get to this 'Grand Compromise' - put it together now, instead of in October when we'll have to do it in such a hurry

we'll probably screw it up."
Baker, while insisting again that there is no room for budget negotiation that includes defense cuts or tax increases, tried to persuade committee members that taking Reagan's prescription this year would cure the nation's deficit ills by 1991 without further cuts.

"If we are willing to do these things the president is asking us to do, we can see this budget balanced - zero - in 1991," he said. "The president's budget represents a very balanced and reasonable approach, if we have the courage and will to make it work." Defense Secretary Caspar Wein-berger defended the increased spending asked for his department, telling the Senate Budget Committee that it is necessitated by a continuing Soviet military buildup. Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M., suggested the Pentagon "could live...with a smaller increase."

Reagan himself, asked about reports that his one-day-old budget was already dead in Congress, also maintained the hard line. "We'll give it artificial respiration," he joked.

House Minority Whip Trent Lott, R-Miss., predicted that Republicans unhappy with the White House ver-sion would draft their own budget within two weeks that gives less to defense and more to domestic programs for middle-class Americans.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., chalked up all the exchanges to normal early budget histrionics and political gamesmanship.

"I think we ought to have the rain dances for a couple of weeks and let people howl and scream," Dole said, referring to Democratic plans to take the Reagan budget on the road for five regional hearings next week. 'Nothing makes any sense that anybody says now.' An analysis of the budget proposal by the Republican-controlled Senate Budget Committee concluded that even if enacted in full, Reagan's proposal would fail to yield enough savings to meet requirements of the Gramm-Rudman deficit-cutting law.

The magnitude of policy initiatives assumed in the president's budget, many of whose savings would only be realized over several years, makes it likely Congress would have to find other savings anyway in order to meet the balanced-budget timetable, the report said. Those initiatives include sales of federal assets, user fees and management reforms.

STRATTON, Colo. (AP) - Authorities are searching a 2,880-acre ranch for a "needle in a haystack" as they seek bodies of people rumored to have died for their roles in a stolen vehicle ring or for arguing over low

What really happened at the Mc-Cormick ranch, where two human skeletons were unearthed this week?

Theories swirled about this tiny eastern Colorado town as state and local investigators planned another backhoe and shovel assault today looking for more remains at the sprawling ranch. Some say up to seven more bodies will be found.

Authorities in Denver say a probe into an alleged "chop shop" where stolen vehicles were dismantled at the ranch led to revelations about the bodies. Others say the developments confirm long-standing local rumors about mysterious disappearances of hired hands.

Undersheriff Jeff Ekberg and Chuck Clapper, who now leases most of the ranch, say Michael McCormick, son of the former owner, told authorities Tuesday that there were eight graves on the land.

His father, Thomas McCormick, 52, of Aurora, was charged this week with the 1983 murder of an Idaho trucker whose body was found 100 miles west of here, near Denver.

Michael McCormick, 29, is in custody on felony charges related to the dead trucker's stolen rig.

"We're searching for something that would prove a violent death, Kit Carson County Coroner Bob Hendricks said late Thursday. "It's like looking for a needle in a haystack. "We have proven the fact that there are two bodies buried on the ranch. They do connect with the Mc-Cormicks. What we need is conclusive evidence. Kit Carson County Sheriff Sharon

Heinz said Thursday she has not heard a motive for any violent deaths at the ranch. Unidentified FBI and Denver police sources told The Denver Post on Thursday that a years-long probe into an alleged "chop shop" at the ranch was dropped two years ago for lack of evidence. One of the leads pursued during that probe was the alleged use of skid-row workers from Denver as drivers for stolen vehicles and their subsequent disappearances, the sources told the newspaper.

Former Kit Carson County sheriff George Hubbard, in a telephone interview Thursday, said rumors of something wrong at the ranch stretch back more than a decade.

VA loan limits 'devastating'

WASHINGTON (AP) - New limits on the size and use of Veterans Administration mortgages will have "a devastating effect" on the nation's veterans, a banking industry leader says.

The VA on Thursday said new restrictions would place a $90,000 limit on home loans that the agency will insure, and allow no VA-backed refinancing of existing VA-insured loans.

They would also prevent secondtime use of the VA home loan program. Veterans who have a VAbacked loan, or who previously did, will not be allowed to use the program again, even if they have paid off their VA mortgage in full.

"These proposals will have a devastating effect on the mortgage market and on the veteran home buyer." said Warren Lasko, executive vice president of the Mortgage Bankers Association, whose member bankers make loans under the VA guarantee

"Veterans who wish to refinance high-interest rate VA loans will no longer be able to do so. Refinancing VA mortgages reduces the risk to the government by allowing a homebuyer who may be financially strapped a lower-payment mortgage," Lasko said.

The changes are being taken to comply with spending restrictions under the Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget act. Officials said the limits could also mean VA loans will be denied to thousands of qualifying veterans this year.

The VA currently does not limit the size of loans they will back, but most lenders maintain a $110,000 limit for VA loans with no down payment, with larger amounts available if a down payment is made. The VA guarantees to lenders a portion of the mortgage amount, up to $27,500.

Lasko said the $90,000 limit effectively device the VA

tively denies the VA home loan benefit to veterans living in areas of the country where housing costs are high, such as California, Alaska and Washington, D.C.

Hats in the ring

passed Monday for the party primaries in Texas this May, it was confirmed that this election year is going to be a fascinating one not only at the state level but also where county and national-level offices are concerned.

For example, incumbent Democratic Gov. Mark White and the man he ousted four years ago both have filed for the state's top political office, potentially setting up a rematch of the earlier race which White won by only 230,000 votes. In a lot of states, a victory of such proportions might be significant but in Texas it's far from a mandate.

It's definitely not a foregone conclusion that White and Republican Bill Clements will be the choice next November. A number of other candidates filed, notably Kent Hance, who formerly represented the Midland congressional district as a Democrat and now is seeking the nomination for governor as a Republican. And Tom Loeffler, who is now representing this congressional district but is vacating that position in a quest for the Governor's Mansion and a return to Texas.

Then there's the matter of the race for state attorney general, now held by Democrat Jim Mattox. He has no opponent in the Democratic primary, but several Republicans want his job, notably State Sen. "Buster" Brown of Lake Jackson who has received more than average publicity due to his attempt to get on the Brown's application was refused by State GOP Party Chairman George Strake — twice because of a provision in the state constitution which says a legislator is ineligible during the term for which he or she was elected for "any civil office ... which shall have been created or the emoluments of which may have been increased, during such term.'

Then the filing deadline salary of the state attorney by a small amount. The Texas Supreme Court ruled Brown can't run for attorney general because of the previously cited rule. He says he'll appeal the decision. Stay tuned.

With Loeffler leaving the 21st Congressional seat up for grabs, plenty of Democrats and Republicans have admitted they wouldn't mind moving to Washington, D.C. — including Midland Mayor G. Thane Akins, a Republican, and former longtime State Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson, a Democrat.

In fact with 10 candidates running in the race, it's almost enough to make one wonder whether the old adage about jumping from the frying pan into the fire doesn't still apply at least where politics is concerned.

On the local level, there's plenty of interest being shown by politicians for various county offices. In fact, both County Commissioners Win Brown and Wally Craig face opposition, although Brown's race won't materialize until the November election. County Judge Bill Ahders faces an opponent for the Republican nomination for the job, although there is no Democratic candidate. And County Treasurer Dee Thompson, a Democrat, and Justice of the Peace Robert H. Pine will face opposition in November, though none in the primaries.

The candidates named here aren't all the names that will appear on the ballot. There will, of course, be the May primary election battles - the preludes to November, which in many cases in the past have been more important than the general elections.

But it's shaping up to be an interesting and colorful election year. That's good because if man is to remain a political animal which seems the best alternative, as far as self-government is concerned - he might as well enjoy the process.

Space still belongs to young

ASHINGTON - Christa McAuliffe and her partners in space died that others might learn. She felt, friends recall, that there was so much we don't know, so much to learn, so much she wanted to teach.

As the first teacher chosen to explore space, Mrs. McAuliffe was eager to turn the space shuttle into history's most dramatic classroom. She hoped to make schoolwork less forbidding by teaching the lessons of space on location. She wanted to use the excitement of space to attract students to the tough disciplines.

I am chairman of the Young Astronaut Council, which co-sponsored the teacher-in-space launch. Fate doesn't always consult us as to the time or the place tragedy will strike. The horror in the Florida sky, as Christa McAuliffe's celestial classroom disintegrated.

devastated us. She had signed up her 8-yearold son, Scott, in the Young Astronaut Program. We brought his Young Astronaut chapter to Florida for the countdown. We also arranged with United Airlines to fly the teacher-in-space finalists, two from each state, to Florida.

These personal relationships made the space shuttle disaster so traumatic that some of our staff members became physically ill. Yet the Young Astronaut Council without trepidation has urged NASA to send another teacher to take Mrs. McAuliffe's place. For we have merely scratched the surface of knowledge so illimitable, so beyond our present understanding that we cannot be deterred by tragedy. Indeed, as the technological challenges have increased, the educational standing of young Americans has fallen. If our children continue to turn their backs on science, the future will belong to our adversaries. Here are the appalling facts:

In comparative tests, U.S. students are invariably outscored by students from other industrial nations. One review of international tests found that American school children "placed first never, placed last frequently.

The National Science Foundation reports that Japanese students far outperform Americans in math, science and problem solving. The Soviet Union produces four times as many engineers per capita. Explains Dr. Les Kaufman, noted New England educator: "Our children lose interest in science early and (we) end up with a population that does not understand basic scientific concepts

If the trend isn't dramaticalreversed, the United States could forfeit its technological leadership. Our country relies for its technology on a small scientific elite. In contrast, such rival powers as Japan, West Germany and the Soviet Union are building a broad base. From 70 percent to 90 percent of their high school graduates are proficient in science and math; just 6 percent of U.S. graduates achieve the same proficiency. There's nothing inherently wrong, mind you, with America's children. They haven't shrunk so far from their pioneer stock that they'll reject the great adventure awaiting them in space.

After the space shuttle disaster, we began a dialogue with Young Astronauts on our private electronic network, Astronet, which reaches into the schools of 500 major cities. The overwhelming majority not only want to continue space exploration but are eager to venture into space

Still, most American school children are shying away from tough subjects that are prerequi-site to tackling the challenge of space. As Earl W. Foell, editor in chief of the Christian Science Monitor, put it, "No civilization can remain great if it succumbs to a way of life that esteems business speculation, lottery fantasizing and educational shortcuts."

STATUARY LIMITATION: While Lee Iacocca and friends are confidently raising $250 million to restore the statue of an allegorical Miss Liberty, a less publicized band of patriots is having a hard time raising $50,000 for a statue of a flesh-and-blood female of similarly inspirational talent: Katharine Lee Bates, the Wellesley College professor who wrote the stirring words to "America, the Beautiful" in 1893. Inspired by a climb up Pike's Peak, she penned the poem which, set to music, came within a high C of being our national anthem. The Bates Statue Fund is in Falmouth, Mass., her birthplace and childhood

bbie Hoffman, the aging radical, came by my home newspaper recently to peddle the Sandinista line and a new book. I wouldn't meet with him.

I told my boss that since the pahad agreed to hear him, mostly out of curiosity, he was in a sense a guest of the paper and it would not be appropriate for me to be rude to him.

I told the boss I wouldn't last 5 minutes without being rude to him. After hearing him, the boss said I was right. Nobody wrote a word about the clown.

Next I declined an invitation to hear another relic of the 60s, George Carlin. I have laughed at some of Carlin's jokes when he's on TV and forced to rely on jokes instead of profanity. I stopped thinking fouretter words were funny and witty about the age of 14. Okay, so I'm a slow learner.

My purpose in telling you this is not to paint myself as a prude. I just want to suggest that the only way to raise the standards of public behavior is to stop tolerating those who don't meet them.

There seems to be great confusion, especially among intellectuals about the nature of the right to free speech. The right of expression never was and never has intended to be limitless. Slander, libel, and inciting to riot, for example, have always been forms of expression that were proscribed.

More importantly, one man's right to free expression does not impose on another any obligation to listen to him, agree with him, or approve of him. I have no desire to put Crazy Glue in Hoffman's mouth. He can say whatever he likes. I'm just not going to waste my time listening to a shill for totalitarians. Carlin can repeat his seven favorite words until he makes the Guiness Book of World Records but I'm not going to pay money to hear them. I know how to say them myself and have on occasions. I have never mistaken them

Just as some intellectuals have extended the concept of free speech to the point of absurdity, some people have extended the concept of fairness to the point of absurdity. There are two sides to most questions but usually one of them is wrong. There is a Nazi side and a humanitarian side to the question of gassing Jews but I'm not going to waste any time listening to the Nazi side because I made a judgment on that issue a long time ago. Humans progress by considering alternatives and then choosing one. If you leave every question open to debate for infinity, if you continuously refuse to make choices and moral judgments, than you never progress. You stand still and stagnate. Worse, you put yourself at the mercy of propagandists. A propagandist is a person who uses words, not as a means of communication in search of truth, but as weapons in pursuit of some other goal. Hoffman. for example, is not interested in the truth about Nicaragua. He is interested in preventing the United States from knocking out a communist government. Communication is a two-way process. Propagandists like Hoffman are like loudspeakers - they broadcast sound but do not receive it. My colleagues who met with him said that when they asked questions, he either ignored them or

There are absolute truths and there are clear-cut, easily decided moral issues. For example, sexual abuse of children is not a morally ambiguous question. It is immoral. Period. No excuses, no mitigating circumstances, no exceptions to the rule.

A nation will thrive when the people in it have the courage and the knowledge to make decisions. choices and judgments. Toleration of evil, decadence, cowardice, sloth, and treason is no virtue. It is a symptom of final decay.

dlers - of Kemp as well as Bush. Eager to corner Bush on the same platform, Kemp operatives were crowing that they had trapped the vice president by first declining and then accepting the New York invitation after Bush agreed to come.

Lee Atwater, head of Bush's political action committee, was well aware of the challenge. His solution: Ignore Kemp and instead attack Gov. Mario Cuomo for his recent venture into ethnic politics. The original draft by Clark Judge, Bush's only full-time speechwriter, did not do the trick. Fred Khedouri, who stopped crunching budget numbers for David Stockman a year ago to join Bush, rewrote it with Atwater's blessing.

The Khedouri rewrite had two defects: First, accusing Cuomo of downgrading ethnic progress was a breakdown in logic that not even Bush's inner circle could defend; second, assailing the governor for proposing clemency to a "cop-killer" was out of character stylistically for Bush. It was pointed out to the Bush staff after the Khedouri rewrite that William F. Buckley Jr. agreed with Cuomo's clemency decision and would be in the New York audience, but the vice president's men plowed ahead anyway.

To suppose Bush would intuitively extract the trouble-making prose is more than can be expected from most politicians, including Ronald Reagan. Indeed, on a primitive political level, the speech worked. It not only tossed raw meat to the Cuomoloathing Conservatives but, as Atwater intended, reduced Kemp to a footnote that night. It capped a bad January for the congressman, during which Atwater collected all 14 political steering committee. Then came the flood of press criticism, peaking with a column by conservative George F. Will that described Bush as a "lapdog" and liar. Atwater told Republican colleagues the vice president was taking it all in his stride. But others in close contact with Bush described him to us as puzzled, hurt and upset. Will's column also upset Bush's advisers. After it appeared, coincidentally or not, they all but accepted a standing invitation for NBC's "Meet the Press" (presumably to talk about the space shuttle tragedy). On the Thursday night before the Sunday broadcast, Bush insiders assumed he would appear. Everybody agreed except George Bush. He had no desire to be thrust into the political thicket. Bush was retiring from the field of battle, having achieved Atwater's objective while sustaining wounds of undetermined seriousness. Atwater, deputy manager of the Reagan-Bush re-election campaign and one of the nation's brightest young political talents, sees the vice president collaring his own backers, regular Repubtives to foreclose Kemp and everybody else. That quest for conservatives caused Bush trouble not only in Manhattan Jan. 23 but at the William Loeb memorial dinner and in his new alliance with Jerry Falwell.

Bush in fact is acceptable to Republican right-wingers. But as his reeption at the annual Conservative Political Action Conference (CPAC) Washington last week showed, they will never love him. His CPAC speech received so-so notice, and rank-and-file activists attending clearly preferred Kemp (although a poll of conservative group members and contributors released there showed Bush comfortably in front).

Reagan eager for U.S. to cross new frontiers

Reagan, who believes America must remain a leader in conquering new frontiers, says he marvels at the strides technology has made in his lifetime.

Addressing 3,000 federal appointees Thursday, Reagan said, "America's ingenuity and technological know-how is creating tremendous new potential."

He said that potential includes the possibility of a space-based nuclear defense system and a plane that, in about 15 years, could fly from the East Coast to Tokyo in two hours.

Reagan, who outlined his vision of the future in his State of the Union address to Congress on Tuesday, planned to expand on that theme and his legislative message with a series of events this week, beginning with a visit today to Thomas Jefferson High School in suburban Fairfax County, Va.

He was to address the students at the high-tech school and tour its facilities, the White House said.

Speaking with reporters Thursday after signing his economic report in an Oval Office ceremony on his 75th birthday, Reagan said, "I'm a little amazed at our generation...that our generation has moved from the horse and buggy, to a plane that can get to Tokyo in two hours, in a single lifetime.

Laboratories in chemistry, computer-assisted drawing and design, microelectronics, optics and automa-tion are planned, Volraph said.

The school opened in August, sharing a 20-year-old building with a regular high school whose enrollment was declining. The old school will be phased out in two years. The new school draws students from three counties and three cities in Northern

The principal said Reagan was invited to speak at the dedication of the new school in October, but couldn't make it then.

In the written message to Congress on Thursday, spelling out his legislative program, Reagan said, The national security and economic success of the United States can be traced, to a large degree, to the close, constructive cooperation between government, industry and academia.

Shuttle commission closes doors to press

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential commission probing the space shuttle Challenger explosion is meeting in private for a "free ex-change of ideas" while awaiting additional information from NASA about a booster rocket where a mysterious flame erupted.

The plume of fire from the shut-tle's right-hand booster rocket and subfreezing temperatures on the morning of the launch were subjects of intense interest Thursday among commission members as they began four-month investigation with a public session

Space agency officials adamantly ruled out the cold as a contributing factor in the Jan. 28 explosion — the worst accident in space history. But even before commission members began asking questions, officials from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration volunteered that they were trying to learn more from enhanced photographs about the unusual fire.

The sworn testimony and slideshow presentations by top NASA brass lasted nearly six hours and seemed at times to have little bearing on the shuttle tragedy. Commission Chairman William P. Rogers urged witnesses to focus their remarks "a little more directly" to the Challenger.

No questions were asked about remains of the five-man, two-woman crew or the location of the crew

NASA said there was no "practical" emergency procedure that could have saved the crew as long as the twin rocket boosters were burning.

In taking the commission behind closed doors today, Rogers promised that all evidence would be made public eventually. But, he said, in order "to have a free exchange of ideas, we must meet in private session from time to time.

While the commission heard testimony in Washington, NASA crews picked up the tip of Challenger's external fuel tank and examined sonar readings that indicated parts of both boosters may have been located on the Atlantic Ocean floor off Cape Canaveral, Fla.

By their questions Thursday, com-missioners indicated they wanted to know more about the suspect rocket the ill-fated Challenger missic Judson Lovingood of the Marshall Spaceflight Center in Alabama revealed that in a number of earlier flights, leaks were detected from the inner seal of the solid-fuel booster rockets.

Jet engine cracks probed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Airlines have been told of a new potential problem with the industry's most widely used jet engine — the Pratt & Whitney JT8D — after 35 reports of serious cracks being found, including two cases in which the engines

The Federal Aviation Administration ordered new inspections of most of the engines Thursday and gave airlines a timetable under which the examinations must be made, depending on how many startups the engine has had.

The inspections can be performed without taking the engine apart or removing it from the plane, so FAA and industry officials said they do not expect a disruption of air

FAA spokesman Fred Farrar said the new directive involves the exterior sleeve of the combustion chamber and is not related to the earlier cracking problem involving the interior of the chamber.

Students' aid upped

WASHINGTON (AP) - States are boosting their grants and scholarships for needy college students by nearly 12 percent this year to $1.3 billion, according to a survey by a higher education group.

The states are helping 1.3 million college undergraduates this academic year, according to the survey by the National Association of State Scholarship and Grant Programs. They get an average of $969 apiece in

That is $138 million more aid than the states spent in 1984-85 on needbased assistance.

In addition, the states are providing $127 million in non-need based aid to 212,530 students, or $598

The survey results appeared in Wednesday's issue of The Chronicle of Higher Education. It also found a decline in the share of scholarhips going to black students. Blacks received 24 percent of the state scholarships in 1981-82, but only 15 percent this year. The survey report said, "This trend is a reflection of the dramatic and recent decrease in post-secondary education participation rates of black high school graduates throughout the nation.

Ruling favors AIDS victim

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) - A state appeals board, while saying a 14-year-old AIDS victim belongs in a regular classroom, has ruled that an order lifting a ban on Ryan White's attendance was premature.

The Education Department board overruled the order by a state hearing officer and also ruled Thursday that Ryan not return to classes at Western Middle School in Kokomo until a county health officer certifies that he is not a risk to classmates.

The board concluded, however, that "the regular classroom is the appropriate placement for White" and ordered Western School Corp. officials to have an educational program ready should the health officer make that finding

A weak front brought freezing rain to the South Plains blowing snow to the Texas Panhandle early today, and forecasters predicted accumulations of up to four inches were possible later.

An approaching upper air disturbance induced clouds, rain and snow over the high and low rolling plains. The National Weather Service said a weak front was stationary from southeastern New Mexico to near Lubbock and Childress.

The weather service posted a travelers advisory for slick roads because of subfreezing temperatures and snowfall. Easterly winds at 17 mph pushed the 30-degree reading at Amarillo to a wind chill index of 6 degrees.

Elsewhere, winds were gentle east to southeast. Readings ranged from the 30s and 40s to 50s and lower 60s in South Texas.

NATION Snow piled up in the East and West from two storms that prompted travelers' warnings in 20 states

Winter storm warnings for heavy snow were in effect in northern Ohio, all except the northwest corner of the western half of Pennsylvania, southeast Pennsylvania, southwest New Jersey, northern Maryland, northern Delaware, northeastern West Virginia and the West Virginia Panhandle.

Western Pennsylvania had up to 9 inches of snow by early today and northwest Ohio and Columbia, Mo., had up to 5 inches.

In the West, a winter storm warning was issued for the mountains of northern New Mexico and a heavy snow warning was in effect for the mountains of south central Colorado.

The western storm dumped about foot of snow in the Jemez Mountains of New Mexico; 10 inches at the Sandia ski area near Albuquerque, N.M.; and 9 inches at Cedar City,

Noah attacks 'Big Mac'

By ERIC SCHURER Sports Writer

As a last minute replacement, Yannick Noah more than filled the bill. But somewhere along the way, somebody forgot to tell the big Frenchman that it was the "John McEnroe Tennis Over America

Rather than win one set and roll over and play dead for the American superstar, Noah finished off his "Big Mac" in a quick two-setter in Thursday's exhibition at the Chaparral

Noah, ranked sixth in the world after the 1985 Grand Prix tour, broke McEnroe's service in the second and fourth games of the match, then again in the seventh game of the final set to take a 6-3, 6-4, victory. It was Noah's second win in three nights over McEnroe in this traveling court extravaganza.

Noah was appearing only because a death in the family sent scheduled opponent Mats Wilander home to Sweden for the week. The 25-yearold former French Open champion has been making the most of his fling in the American hinterlands, and making a puzzled McEnroe even more frustrated.

FALLING FROM No. 1 to No. 2 late last season, McEnroe didn't play like a man who was trying harder. Instead, he played like a man in the middle of a self-imposed vacation from the grind of the international Grand Prix tour.

He was rusty. He was out of rhythym. He was overmatched.

But for most of the night, he seemed to be having fun. And that is the main reason McEnroe brings his tour to places like Midland. And having fun is one reason he has left competitive tennis behind temporarily. Neither McEnroe or Noah were available for comment after the match, but McEnroe spoke earlier in the day about his decision to take a break from tennis.

"Everyone goes through a stage where you're tired of doing what we're doing, everybody needs breaks, we all need vacations,' McEnroe said. "Every other sport you have four to six months off a year. Nobody questions why Walter Payton isn't playing football in July, they don't question why "Magic' Johnson or Larry Bird aren't playing basketball year round.

"IF I could change one thing in this sport, I would make it a season like the other sports. People can't stay interested in a sport 12 months a year. People can't even stay interested in football 12 months a year."

While McEnroe is removing himself from the scene, Noah is prodding himself forward, hoping to regain his perch among the game's elite. A perch that seemed to be his for the asking just three short years

Thursday, Noah looked ready to reclaim his place.

Forcing errors and anticipating McEnroe's every move, Noah was in complete control, even while most of the audience sat back and waited for McEnroe to take over. The 6-foot-4 Noah proved too powerful and too fine-tuned to allow a McEnroe

But the competitive spirit has far from left the left-hander from New York. After taking his beating Thursday, McEnroe was obviously distressed. He had played poorly, with-

McENROE LOOKED as if he felt he'd let down the fans in attendance. Some fans probably were let

But McEnroe is learning his lessons now. Lesson number one very well might be, you can't please everyone all the time. Through the last four years that McEnroe has landed atop the tennis rankings, he hasn't let people down.

Sure he's ranted and raved about officiating, ball boys, photographers, the press, fans, just about anything he has come in contact. But that has become part of the McEnroe show. They come wanting tennis' bad boy to throw a fit.

So used to it is the public, and McEnroe, that in an exhibition like this, he is able to poke fun at himself, mocking his famous temper tantrums by bouncing his racquet off the ground and pretending to take his wrath out on shuffling

But now the game is letting him down. He is taking a vacation, a much-deserved one. Only his return will tell if his being No. 2 makes John McEnroe try harder.

IN AN exhibition match played before the main event, Midland College players Eric Lingg and Jos Warmoes defeated Mike Oosterveen and Emil Bijleveld 7-6, and Helene Lebeller and Sarah Swan edged Moniek Margaroli and Helen Schildknecht, 4-2

Jimmy seeks ninth victory

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - Top-seed Jimmy Connors will meet No. 8 Brad Gilbert and second-seeded Stefan Edberg will take on No. 7 Johan Kriek tonight in the quarterfinals of the $315,000 U.S. National Indoor

"I expected it to be a tight match." Edberg said after eliminating Lund-gren. "I knew if I played well, I'd beat him.

Edberg dominated the 55-minute match from the first serve, hitting 10 aces and allowing Lundgren only nine points in the first set.

Three teams in race for 4-5A glory, playoffs

By BOB BRUNDAGE Sports Writer

With three games left to play in District 45A boys basketball, the only thing that's been decided is who won't win a playoff berth.

Half the league has been eliminated: San Angelo (4-7), Abilene Cooper (3-8), Big Spring (2-9) and Odessa High (2-9). One other team. Abilene High (6-5) will be eliminated as soon as two of the three leaders win one more

Those leaders are Midland Lee, Midland High and Odessa Permian, tied at 9-2. And, there is a strong possibiliity that all three will remain atop the standings after tonight's games

Of the three, Midland Lee has the toughest encounter tonight, hosting

Abilene High at Chaparral Center. The Eagles are on the bubble and don't want it to burst.

Midland High and Permian havecomparitively easy games tonight, although both are playing on the road. The Bulldogs take on the Cooper Cougars while Permian is at San Angelo. All games are scheduled for 8 p.m. tipoffs.

"DO YOU realize they've won every game in the second half since we beat them, except against Permian," said Midland Lee coach Paul Stueckler about the AHS Eagles. "They're playing VERY, VERY good basketball right now, maybe the best in the league. They beat Midland High, don't forget that."

What is making Abilene High such a strong team down the stretch is reflected in the 4-5A shooting statistics. It's a team effort with six players capable of scoring big. Those six contribute about 64 points per game.

Five Eagles are averaging in double figures led by Jeff Jones (13.6), Roy Kiser (12.1), Devin Kampert (10.7), Pat Garrett (10.6) and Jack Lyons (10.2). David Kampert is averaging 7.5 per game.
Stueckler feels beating the Eagles depends on his team's performance on the boards, not letting AHS get two or three extra chances at

"They're the biggest team in the league," said Stueckler. "We have to do a good job on the boackboards because they are so big. The best rebounder for the Rebels has been 6-foot-6 Anthony Dickens, but Stueckler feels he isn't enough.

"We not only need Anthony rebounding, but the other guys too." said Stueckler. "We need Eddie Riley, Mark Courtney, Greg Johnson, Lee Dixon, all of them. We've got to try and get five rebounders a game." The Rebels also have a balanced scoring attack, but it is mainly limited to three players, Dixon (21.8), Dickens (18.1) and Riley (12.5).

MIDLAND HIGH coach Jack Stephenson isn't worrying beyond tonight's game with Abilene Cooper.

'All we're trying to do is play them one at a time," said Stephenson. "We play Cooper tonight and hope things work out. After that we'll come back and get ready for Permian on Tuesday and for Lee on Friday. We get ready one game at a Stephenson wants to concentrate on stopping Cooper's outside game, the strength of the Cougar attack.

'Abilene Cooper's game is so outside orienated so our concentration is to stop the outside game. They've got the (Les) Graves kid shooting well from outside, also (Terriance) Bell and (Jay) Estes. We've got to acct the outside and hope they don't get something going inside and go from there.'

Like Lee, MHS has three high-scoring players for opponents to keep an eye one, Elving Mackey (20.1), Matt Sears (18.4) and Anthony Deande

For Cooper, Bell (11.6) and Graves (10.8) are the only two players averaging in double figures.

Robinson, there isn't another one like her

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Assistant Sports Editor

Truck driving women don't even get a turn of the head anymore because it's not all that rare, but 21year-old Shawna Robinson behind the wheel of her diesel Kenworth is one of a kind. Robinson is the only female truck racer in the world and she will be showing her stuff at Twin Cities Speedway at 2:30 p.m. Sunday when she goes against 11 other competitors, including four locals still to be selected. "We brought in four extra trucks for some local drivers to try," said Robinson. "It makes it fun for the crowd, and surprisingly, we've had locals win on our tour before."

Robinson and the truck circuit she drives with is promoted and headed up by father Dick and includes brother Brr, who is the first person ever to jump a semi with a truck. They've been touring Texas for the past two months.

Truck racing is a relatively new sport, but has become very popular with race fans. The first truck race was held for the shooting of the mov-"Smokey and the Bandit.

Dick Robinson got in on the act from his home in Des Moines, Iowa, purchasing four trucks and promoting truck racing. His racing group is one of two circuits that tours the nation. There are only 35 to 40 truck racers in the country on a full-time

So how did the petite Shawna find herself behind the wheel of a racing

"You might say I got into this through boredom," says Robinson. "I graduated from high school in Des Moines in 1983 and I went to the track with my father. I didn't have any plans for college and was knocking around that summer and racing a truck looked like fun.

"I asked my father if I could try it and he almost made a dare out of it. He didn't think I would stick with it around the track. I drove the truck and did pretty well. I raced the next weekend and haven't missed many weekends since.

But being the only woman on the race circuit wasn't easy. There were drivers who didn't want her around. "I ran my first super speedway in Atlanta. I was 19 years old and all the drivers had doubts about me. Truck didn't fit the mold. I had to earn my respect," said Robinson For a woman to get respect in truck racing, it takes some good driving skills. 'I'm still earning respect from some of the drivers, but now they at least know that I'm competitive. I've won a lot of races and I usually qualify in the top five or six and place in that range," says Robinson. The toughest part, however, may be the travel and being away from home at long stretches of time.

"I was last home for Christmas and I do miss seeing my sisters. It helps traveling with my brother and fa-ther. I think I handle that part pretty

Chaps up win string to record 25

From Staff Reports

ROSWELL, N.M. - The final score may look onesided, 71-58, but it was a come-from-behind victory for the Midland College Chaparrals for their school season record of 25 consecutive victories.

Not only are the Chaps 25-0 on the year, but the win over New Mexico Military Institute here game them an 11-0 record in Western Junior College Athletic Conference play.

NMMI took a 44-43 lead in the middle of the second half, eliminating a 35-28 MC halftime advantage.

The Chaps received 22 of their 35 first half points from the hot hands of Lincoln Minor and Ricky Grace, MC's top two scoreres for the night with 15 points each and the only Chaps in double figures.

Minor hit on 8-of-7 shots in the first half while Grace was 5-of-7. For NMMI, Jerome Howard was the only force to be reckoned with, leading all scorers with 29 points. The Chaps have five games remaining on their schedule before Region V action in Snyder March 6-8 and have a week to prepare for their next game, Thursday's meeting with Howard College at Chap Center at

Midland pair commits to SWC teams

From Staff Reports

Midland High offensive lineman Phillip Speight and Midland Lee quarterback Tuey Rankin are the first two Tall City football players to make firm committments to accept college scholarships.

Speight, the 6-foot-4, 230-pounder, made his committment and is heading for the University of Houston. Speight played on both sides of the line for the Bulldogs but was primar-

Tuey adds to the Rankin legacy at Tech. Father Yippie played for the Red Raiders in the late '50s while David Rankin, Yippie's brother, played in the early 60s. Also Walter Rankin, father of Yippie and David. played at Tech in the late '30s.

Rankin helped lead Lee to a 10-3 record in 1985, guiding playoff vic-tories over Amarillo High and El Paso Andress. He missed three games with injuries.

Rankin rushed for 537 yards on 108 carries in 1985, averaging five yards per carry. He scored nine touchdowns.

He also completed over 50 percent of his passes, hitting on 24 of 44 attempts for 403 yards. He threw for five touchdowns.

Rankin's commitment brings the number of Red Raiders in next year's freshman class to 11. Odessa Permian's Troy Baker was another recent addition, committing on Wednesday. The rest of Tech's recruits thus far are: Mitchell Martin, Reagan County; Bill Dubose, Abernathy; Will Taylor, Fort Stockton: Andre Harrison, Fort Worth Dunbar Michael Jordan, Alief Elsik, Charles Lott, Electra, Charlie Roe, Electra; Kevin Sprinkles, Troy.

Chicago's Ditka 'elated' to see Ryan go to Eagles

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Ditka, coa-ch of the Super Bowl champion Chicago Bears, says he's glad to see the last of Buddy Ryan and accuses his former defensive coordinator of playing favorites and hogging credit for the Bears' success.

"I'm not happy he's gone, I'm ela-ted," Ditka said in an interview with The Associated Press.

"Never again in history will an assistant coach get as much credit as Buddy did," said Ditka. "I handled it well. It will be interesting to see how he handles it now that he's the head

Ryan, who put together the vaunted "46" defense that helped Chicago to an 18-1 record this season, left the Bears shortly after their 46-10 Super Bowl victory over New England to become head coach of the Philadel-

Ryan made it clear he feels Ditka was fortunate to have him.

"I should be so lucky to have a Buddy Ryan around," he said. "I'd like to have somebody around to take care of me."

But Ryan said the Bears have such weak schedule next season, they have a good shot at another NFL title. Among their games is one at Soldier Field with the Eagles, 7-9 last

Ryan came to the Bears in 1978 with head coach Neill Armstrong. He was kept on by the late George Halas, when Halas fired Armstrong after the 1981 season and hired

By most accounts, Ditka and Ryan never hit it off well, in part because of differing philosophies on defense and handling players.
Ditka said Ryan had a "buddy-buddy system" and played favorites.

"I believe in playing the best 11 players," said Ditka. "I don't believe in having favorite players. I want challenges, not preconceived situa-tions. I want everybody to have a chance to play."

He also said Ryan took more than his share of the credit. "He took a lot of bows and I let him take them," said Ditka. "But he didn't let any of his assistants take any bows. "Some people don't give credit to anyone else. Why doesn't (offensive line coach) Dick Stanfel get more credit? We led the league in rushing three years in a row," Ditka said.

"I never favored any players, I treated them all alike," said Ryan. "I'd jump on an all-Pro as quick as I'd jump on a rookie. Some you have to pat on the back, some you have to kick in the butt. I never had any buddy-buddy system."

Ditka never has been a proponent of the "46" defense, in which six or getting the most out of a player. "It seven men can rush the passer, leavseven men can rush the passer, leav-ing cornerbacks and linebackers in one-on-one coverage.

"Hell, the defense should have been great this season," said Ditka. "They were on the field 20 minutes of the game. The offense was on the field for the other 40 minutes."

But he said he backed Ryan even when they disagreed.

"I even sat back at what happened at Platteville," said Ditka, referring to the time Ryan called rookie defen-sive tackle William "The Refrigera-tor" Perry "a wasted draft choice." Perry was inserted into the starting lineup at midseason only after Ditka

Ryan indicated that denigrating Perry was just one of his tactics for

"Things like that affect the whole organization, the coaching staff, the scouting staff," said Ditka. "It's a slap at the entire organization. I backed him up but that doesn't mean I have to agree with him."

Despite their disagreements, Ditka said he and Ryan "only had one major blowup — at halftime of the Bears' only loss, a 38-24 decision in Miami.

"That was major," Ditka said. "I wanted to know what we were doing on the field on defense, how we were trying to cover three different in my mind." Of the Bears, he said, "I know the players will miss me but I'll miss them more. But Ditka said, "We'll be a better team. We had five players on de-fense in the Pro Bowl and they were all drafted through our organization and two of them (Wilber Marshall) and Otis Wilson) had to fight their way onto the field."

Ryan refused to use Marshall much in his rookie season and it took Wilson several years to learn Ryan's complicated defensive scheme.

"I've been in a lot of organizations and I know what it takes to win," said Ditka. "If (Ryan) knows how to win, then he shouldn't have any problems in Philadelphia."

Jabbar shakes down Rockets' Twin Towers

Associated Press

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar started shaking and when he had finished, Houston's Twin Towers had come tumbling down.

Jabbar scored a season-high 46 points, leading the Los Angeles Lakers to a 117-95 rout of the Houston Rockets in a National Basketball Association game Thursday night.

The victory extended the Lakers' winning streak at The Summit in Houston to 14 games, dating back to Nov. 12, 1980. And Abdul-Jabbar's performance showed who's still boss in the land of the giants.

"Kareem always plays better against (Akeem) Olajuwon," Lakers forward James Worthy said. "It's because of all the comparisons. He's been around 17 years but he still has to show the kids he's the best."

Jabbar was perfect in the first quarter, scoring 20 points on 9-for-9 shooting from the field and 2-and-2 accuracy at the foul line. He did it against the so-called Twin Towers of Olajuwon, who finished with 18 points, and Ralph Sampson, who had Utah over visiting New York. Thurl Bailey had 24 points and Karl Malone 19 as the Jazz took the lead for good in the second quarter.

The Knicks missed rookie Patrick Ewing, who was bothered by sore knees. Ewing scored nine points in limited playing time during the first half, and he sat out the second half.

76ers 111, Cavaliers 103 Charles Barkley scored 14 of his 23 points in the fourth quarter as Philadelphia sent Cleveland to its eighth straight loss. Barkley scored the 76ers' first eight points in the final quarter, giving Philadelphia an 85-74 lead. Julius Erving scored 21 points for the winners, Maurice Cheeks added 19 and Bobby Jones had 18.

After Laimbeer made his free throw, Detroit's Earl Cureton knocked away an inbounds pass and Washington never got off a final Mavericks 115, Trail Blazers 111 Mark Aguirre scored 29 points while Sam Perkins and Derek Harper had 20 apiece, leading Dallas past host Portland.

The Mavericks led by as many as 12 points in the second half before Portland closed within 107-102 on a three-point shot by rookie guard Terry Porter. But Blazers guard Jim Paxson was called for a technical foul when he argued that Porter had been fouled on the play, and Perkins then fol-lowed the foul shot with a three-point play for a 111-102 lead.

Suns 116, Clippers 104 Larry Nance tallied 29 points and Walter Davis 20, enabling Phoenix to roll to a big lead in downing the Los Angeles Clippers.

The Suns led by 20 points early in the third quarter before Marques Johnson scored eight points and Cedric Maxwell had six as Los Angeles pulled within 90-87 early in the fourth period.

Bucks 117, Bulls 97

Ricky Pierce scored 18 points, pacing a balanced attack that led Milwaukee past Chicago.

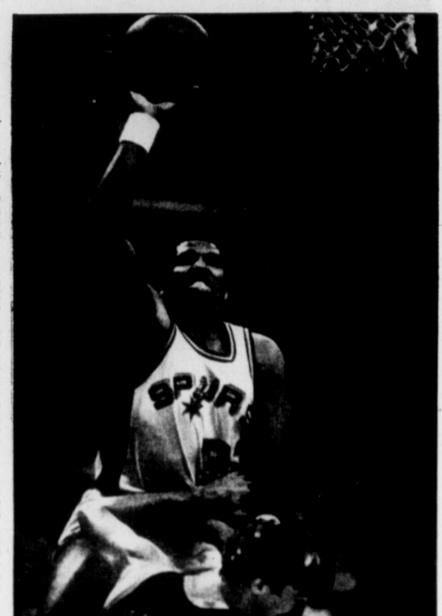

The Bucks had six players in double figures, including Sidney Moncrief, who had 17. Moncrief sat out the fourth quarter.

Nuggets 100, Spurs 95

Alex English's 23 points helped Denver beat ailing San Antonio. The losing Spurs had just eight healthy players available, and hurt

This time, the game will be in Blacksburg, Va., though, where the 15th-ranked Hokies will try to avenge an embarrassing 103-68 Metro Conference loss Thursday night to the 16th-rated Cardinals at Louisville

"Louisville was a good team tonight," Moir said, "but we made them look great . . . We've got a lot of work to do between now and Monday."

Louisville, which led by as many as 36 points late in the game, got 21 points from forward Billy Thompson and raced away from Virginia Tech early in the game.

Louisville led 47-30 at halftime, and the Cardinals broke the 100-point barrier at 101-65 on guard Chris West's layup with 26 seconds to go. The Cardinals had not scored 100 or more points since the fifth game of the 1983-84 season.

"Needless to say, we played well," Louisville Coach Denny Crum said. "That's the best we've played for 40 minutes this season . . . It was one of the few times . . . that everyone played well."

No. 2 Ga. Tech 87, N.C.-Charlotte 76 Freshman Tom Hammonds scored a career-high 24 points, and Georgia Tech ran off two second-half spurts to beat North Carolina-Charlotte in a nonconference game. The Yellow Jackets, 18-3, were coming off a onepoint, overtime loss to top-ranked North Carolina on Tuesday night, and they meet Duke on Sunday at Durham, N.C.

Tech opened the seond half with a 9-0 run that erased a 42-37 halftime deficit, then ran off a 13-2 spurt than gave it a 71-59 lead with 7:22 left. N.C.-Charlotte has lost 10 in a row.

No. 4 Duke 77, Virginia 65 Duke saw a 13-point second-half lead dwindle to five points, then held on to beat Virginia in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Johnny Dawkins and David Henderson had 20 points apiece for the Blue Devils, 21-and 8-2 in the ACC. A basket by Mark Alarie gave

Virginia Tech Coach Charlie Moir College Roundup

Duke a 58-45 lead midway through the second half. But, with 3:07 to play, Dawkins fouled out, and two free throws by Kevin Morgan cut the Duke lead to 66-61. Duke then hit nine free throws down the stretch to

No. 7 Michigan 80, Purdue 79 Michigan took advantage of a fiveminute scoring drought by Purdue, then held on to hand the Boilermakers their fourth straight Big Ten Conference loss. Roy Tarpley led the Wolverines, 20-2 and 8-2, with 18

Purdue cut the deficit to 76-75 with 34 seconds left. Antoine Joubert and Richard Rellford each hit a pair of free throws in the final half minute, however, as the Wolverines went up by five.

No. 9 UNLV 92, Pacific 73 Eldridge Hudson scored 12 of his 20 points in the first eight minutes of the second half as Nevada-Las Vegas turned a 45-42 lead into a 68-53 advantage over Pacific with 12:06 to play. Anthony Jones added 18 points for UNLV, 22-2 and 11-0 in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association. The Rebels outscored Pacific 7-2 in the final two minutes of the first half to take a 45-37 lead at intermission, but Pacific scored the first five points of the second half before Hudson got UNLV going.

No. 18 Indiana 78, Wisconsin 69 Steve Alford scored 23 points and led the Hoosiers on a second-half rally that gave Indiana its ninth straight victory over Wisconsin at Assembly Hall in Bloomington, Ind. Alford had six points in a 12-4 Hoosier run that increased their lead from three to 11 points.

ODU 74, No. 19 W. Kentucky 61 Kenny Gattison had 22 points and 12 rebounds as Old Dominion took a oig lead in the first half and never surrendered it in beating Western Kentucky in a Sun Belt Conference game. Gattison ignited an 8-0 run that gave the Monarchs a 10-2 advantage, and Old Dominion ran off to a 39-27 advantage at halftime.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TEXAS UTILITIES ELECTRIC COMPANY hereby publishes NOTICE that, pursuant to the provisions of the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the Public Utility Commission's Substantive Rule 23.23(b)(2), it filed an application on January 14, 1986, with the Public Utility Commission of Texas seeking authority to refund to its customers a prior over-recovery under its fixed fuel factors (base rate fuel component) in the amount of $78,002,807 as of November 30, 1985, including applicable interest, and to reduce its current fixed fuel factors.

Texas Utilities Electric Company has proposed that the refund be made and its fixed fuel factors be reduced effective with customers usage beginning with the billing month of March 1986. The proposed change in fixed fuel factors is expected to result in a $233,413,145, or 11.88%, decrease in fuel revenues for the twelve months ended September 30, 1985, adjusted only for customer growth. All customers and classes of customers whose electric service rates include charges for fuel cost pursuant to Texas Utilities Electric Company's Rider FC, entitled "Base Rate Fuel Component," and all territories in which Texas Utilities Electric Company provides electric service through its Dallas Power & Light Company, Texas Electric Service Company and Texas Power & Light Company divisions will be affected if the application is granted.

A complete copy of said application is on file with the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Public Utility Commission of Texas as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512)458-0223 or (512)458-0227, or (512)458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Opry stars to raise funds, honor Tubb

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Grand Ole Opry stars such as Bill Anderson, Bill Monroe and Porter Wagoner will stay up late this weekend to raise money for the American Lung Association. After the regular Opry show is broadcast Saturday night, a special roster of stars will shine in a five-hour fund-raiser in memory of Ernest Tubb, a long-time Opry regular who died of emphysema Sept. 6, 1964, at age 70.

The event begins at midnight Saturday on a show-boat on the Cumberland River. It will be broadcast on radio station WSM after the station's normal

Among the other Opry performers scheduled to appear are Tubb's son, Justin, and Little Jimmy Dickens, the Four Guys, Jack Greene, Jan Howard, Jim & Jesse, Ray Pillow, Willie Rainsford, Jeannie Seely, Billy Walker and Charlie Walker. Ernest Tubb, "the Texas Troubadour," was best known for his hit "I'm Walkin' the Floor Over You."

AUSTIN (AP) — Serious illness has been ruled out as a cause of Lady Bird Johnson's fainting spell, but she has been advised to remain hospitalized for the time being for rest, her spokeswoman said Thursday.

Mrs. Johnson, 73, entered St. David's Community Hospital for observation after she fainted at a funeral Wednesday morning, press secretary Betty Tilson said. After finding no major health problems, her doctor recommended that she get some rest, Ms. Tilson said.

The former first lady, widow of President Lyndon Johnson, also was in "some discomfort" from a knee injury suffered in a fall Tuesday, Ms. Tilson said. Mrs. Johnson fainted during the funeral of a jour-

Fenton said Breathed is expected to recover fully. The 28-year-old cartoonist suffered a compression fracture in his lower backbecause of the crash. He was operated on two days later, and doctors inserted rods into his back.

KLOSTERS, Switzerland (AP) - Prince Charles and Princess Diana of Wales are off skiing in Switzerland, accompanied by Sarah Ferguson, who is reportedly the girlfriend of Charles' younger brother Andrew.

The trio arrived Thursday at Zurich airport on a Royal Air Force plane, then traveled to this alpine resort in a four-wheel-drive vehicle and held a brief wildlife sanctuary, 900 miles south of Islamabad, in his capacity as a patron of the World Wildlife Fund.

Hameed Ahmed, an official of the Pakistan Wildlife Board, briefed the prince on the sanctuary, which has an 11-square-mile lake that is a natural habitat for nearly 250 species of migratory birds. Hunting has been banned in the sanctuary since 1973, Ahmed said.

The migratory birds fly to Haleji from as far away as Siberia, he said.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) - Former boxing champ Mu-hammad Ali will lead 50 children on a monthlong summer tour of five nations to promote peace and understanding, organizers said.

Ali was joined by John Travolta, Robert Blake, Jayne Kennedy and Stephen Stills at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel on Thursday to announce the planned Children's Peace Journey to the Soviet Union, Great Britain, India, China and the United States. The group also plans to meet with Pope John Paul II in Vatican City, organizer Dick Delson said. The itinerary is incomplete and it is still not known when the trip will begin, but the purpose of the trip is "to stop the nuclear arms race and work toward peace," he said.

The children traveling with Ali have not been selected, Delson said.

A black-tie dinner at the Beverly Hilton Hotel on Feb. 27 will launch the project, Delson said. Entertainment will include the Manhattan Transfer, Joe Cocker, Chaka Khan and Marilyn McCoo.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Singer Bette Midler says she's "overwhelmed" at joining 1,820 other entertainers honored with a sidewalk star in the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

"I hope you'll come and walk all over it," the Divine Miss M told the estimated 400 fans gathered on Hollywood Boulevard for the ceremony Thursday. "It really does have my name on it, but I really feel this star is the work of the fans. I am really overwhelmed and I am flabbergasted and I think this is probably the greatest thrill of my whole life."

Miss Midler's albums "Bette Midler," "The Divine Miss M" and "The Rose" earned gold records for sales of 500,000 each. She has won two Grammy Awards, and her television special "Ol' Red Hair is Back" earned her an Emmy nomination. She also received two Golden Globe Awards and an Oscar nomination for her feature film debut in "The

NEW YORK (AP) - Feminist Betty Friedan, who says a surprise party for her five years ago left her "traumatized," was given a nonsurprise party to celebrate her 65th birthday.

Among the 80 guests at the party were Alvin Toffier, Betty Rollin, Shana Alexander, Joan Whitman, Judith Rossner and Marlene Saunders.

"My friends started messing around with this months ago," said Ms. Friedan, whose birthday was Tuesday. "At first, I was reluctant because when I was 80 they gave me a surprise party and I was traumatized. But I gave in."

TOKYO (AP) - Britain's Prince Charles and Princess Diana will make their first visit to Japan, in May, newspapers reporrted today, quoting unidentified government sources.

The Daily Asahi said the couple will arrive May 8 at Osaka and visit the ancient capitals of Kyoto and Nara until May 10, when they will visit Tokyo. A Foreign Ministry official, however, said t

Yields fall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Yields on 30-year Treasury bonds fell to 9.28 percent in Thursday's auction, the lowest level since 1979. The Treasury Department sold

$7 billion in 30-year bonds, with the average yield declining from 9.93 percent at the last auction held in November.

The rate was the lowest since 30-year bonds sold for 8.91 percent at an auction on Aug. 2, 1979. The sale, which attrcted bids totaling $17.8 billion, is the third in series of auctions the government is holding this week to raise a record $23 billion in new debt financing.

The bonds sold for $996.95 for each $1,000 of face value, with a coupon interest rate of 91/4

MARKETS Offshore plan would stop some Texas Gulf leasing

By PEGGY ROBERSON Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Interior Don Hodel Thursday proposed a five-year offshore oil and gas leasing plan that would remove 15 environmentally-sensitive areas of the Outer Continental Shelf from further consideration. Among areas eliminated from leasing were the Flower Garden Banks off the Texas Gulf.

Other Gulf of Mexico deferrals were the Seagrass beds, offshore Florida, and the Florida Middle

Texas officials obtain order to stop oil 'thievery'

AUSTIN (AP) - Two Texas officials have gone to court to stop what one called attempted "thievery" of $788 million in money from a special account set up to settle an oil and gas

State Land Commissioner Garry Mauro and Attorney General Jim Mattox obtained a temporary restraining order from a federal judge in Marshall on Thursday to block any removal of funds from an escrow account.

U.S. District Judge Robert Parker also set a Feb. 14 hearing.

"The federal government was just flat trying to steal this money," Mattox said. "I'm appalled that a federal agency would resort to a direct denial of this country's judicial process.

"Luckily, because Garry Mauro was quick-on-the-draw, my office was able to get to the courthouse and stop this thievery.'

At issue is a eight-year, $6 billion dispute over offshore oil and gas revenues that are supposed to be shared by the federal government and seven states.

The law that sparked the dispute was meant to compensate states for drainage of their resources when the federal government leased its offshore lands bordering the states' off-

About $6 billion has been deposited in an escrow account while the Interior Department and Alaska, California, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida argue over what Congress meant in the 1978 law by "fair and equitable."

Mauro, who oversees state lands, said, "Nearly two years ago, Judge Parker placed the money from these disputed leases in an escrow account until a 'fair and equitable' sharing system could be decided by the courts or worked out by Congress between the federal government and the coastal states.

"But there's nothing 'fair and equitable' about trying to pick the court's pocket when the federal government thinks the state's not looking.

According to statements from Mattox and Mauro, Parker issued an order preventing Secretary of the Interior Donald Hodel or James Miller III, director of the Office of Management and Budget, or their agencies from removing any of the $788 million from the court's escrow account.

Mattox said part of that money has been awarded to Texas.

terey Bay; the area offshore Big Sur; the Santa Barbara Ecological Preserve and Buffer Zone; Channel Islands National Marine Sanctuary, and the San Nicolas Navy Operating

Hodel acted in response to a 1978 Congressional mandate that Interior develop a five-year plan for leasing offshore oil lands to meet the national energy needs in an environmentally sound way. His announcement was the second step in a two year process to prepare a plan for 1987-1991.

After a 90-day public comment period, Hodel will prepare a "proposed final program" expected to be released in early 1987.

The new leasing program would include 27 standard sales. Also included are 10 possible frontier exporation sales in low value, low industry interest planning areas.

Hodel said the proposal "has the flexibility to respond to the downward trend in oil prices (and) flexibility to respond to possible changes in economic conditions or geologic data by accelerating sales in areas of higher value and industry interest."

In 1985, for the first time in five years, Congress failed to issue a ban on offshore leasing for environmentally sensitive areas off of California members. The state's congressional delegation did succeed, however, in including language in the "continuing resolution" spending bill enacted at the end of the year that directed the Interior Department to negotiate with affected parties regarding Interior's future plans for oil and gas leasing off the California coast.

Reagan sends economic message; Dow Jones reaches record high

Associated Press

President Reagan has sent to Congress his annual economic report, predicting that faster growth will create 1.7 million new jobs this year as it continues amid moderate

The report released Thursday forecasts 4 percent growth this year. creating 1.7 million new jobs and lowering the unemployment rate from 6.9 percent in late 1985 to 6.7 percent late this year.

Meanwhile, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials crossed another symbolic level. The blue-chip indicator rose 7.57 to 1,600.69, surpassing the previous closing peak of 1,594.27 reached on Monday. The average has climbed more than 300 points since it started its almost uninterrupted advance last September.

Meanwhile, major U.S. retailers reported weak sales gains in January compared with the year before. It was a month when companies were left with lean stocks after the Christmas shopping season and debt-conscious consumers shied away from

However, retail analysts were not January is not a key month for the companies.

In other economic news Thursday: -The Federal Reserve Board reported the nation's basic money supply, M1, rose $2.7 billion to a seasonally adjusted $628.6 billion the week ended Jan. 27. M1 includes cash in circulation, deposits in checking accounts and non-bank travelers

Assets of the nation's 362 money market mutual funds fell $1.19 billion in the latest week, bringing the decline over the past two weeks to more than $1.9 billion, the Investment Company Institute said. The drop, to $211 billion in the week ended Wednesday, followed a revised $743 million decrease in the funds' assets the previous week, which had been reported as $742.5 million.

-The National Association of Realtors said its housing affordability index rose to 101 percent in December, reaching a level which the trade group said means a family earning the median income of $27,940 had enough income to qualify for a mortgage on a medianpriced home selling for $74,800.

-Several major oil companies announced another round of reductions in the contract price for supplies of domestic crude. The cuts of up to $2 a barrel by such industry giants as Exxon Corp., Texaco Inc. Shell Oil Co. and smaller companies like Phillips Petroleum Co., Marathon Oil Co., Coastal Corp. and Champlin Petroleum Co. came as open-market oil prices rose for a second straight day from the seven-year lows reached earlier this week.

Oil prices to play major role in French election

AP Laser Graphic

Los Angeles Times -Washington Post News Service

PARIS - The dollar price of oil, French economist Jacques Plassard noted with a wry smile, as if all political mysteries can be reduced to economic statistics, peaked one month before Frenchmen voted to elect their first Socialist government in over a quarter of a century.

Today, five years later, France is again in the middle of a crucial election campaign. Both oil prices and the dollar are tumbling fast. The opinion polls are predicting that the right-wing parties toppled from power in 1981 because of the economic crisis will be swept back into office. The symmetry between the hazards of political life and the state of a nation's economy is particularly striking in France, where the voters traditionally turn to the left only at moments of grave economic difficulty.

But oil-industry analysts have little doubt that the political and economic landscape of Western Europe will be significantly modified by the recent drop in oil prices, even if the precise consequences vary widely rom one nation to another.

'It's like a gift from heaven. If the fall in oil prices is maintained over the long term, ordinary people are going to find themselves better off. The governments of oil-consuming nations stand to benefit," commented Gerard Maarek, an analyst for IPECODE, an independent economic forecasting company in Paris.

According to this analysis, although the drop in oil prices may have come too late to save the French Socialists from defeat in next month's elections, it should certainly give an incoming right-wing government more room for

It should also provide a further tonic to the political fortunes of West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl, whose Christian Democrat-led coalition faces the voters next January.

Also likely to gain popularity are governments of countries like Belgium and Italy, which rely heavily on imported oil for their energy requirements and have run into serious balance-of-payments problems. The falling oil price is likely to lower inflation and to reduce public-sector deficits, as well as to cut unemployment.

The picture is more complicated for Britain, Norway and the Netherlands, which are oil producers as well as consumers. According to British government projections, Britain will benefit from lower inflation and a higher growth rate but suffer because of declining North Sea oil revenues and a trade imbalence.

Government experts in all West European countries have expressed concern that too sharp a decline in oil prices - to the level, for example, of $10 a barrel - could have severe consequences in the short

Hitachi trys to resolve Texas Instruments suit

DALLAS (AP) - Officials of Hitachi Ltd. of Japan say they will work toward a rapid settlement of Texas Instrument Inc.'s patent trade infringement suit against the Japanese chipmaker.

'It is regrettable that the suit was filed notwithstanding the fact that the parties are in the midst of negotiations relative to the renewal of a crosslicensing agreement that expired," said a Hitachi spokesman. 'We will work toward a solution after we have made a careful review of

Retailers say fiscal 1985 wasn't good year

Fiscal year 1985 wasn't a great one for the nation's major retailers, whose sales picture is not expected to improve any time soon, industry analysts say. That assessment came Thursday after the companies reported weak sales for January, the last month of their fiscal year. Analysts blamed the results on a lack of leftover Christmas merchandise to be offered at markdown and to cautious consumer spending.

Sears, Roebuck and Co., the nation's largest retailer, said its sales for the four weeks ended Feb. 1 edged up 0.9 percent from a year earlier. No. 2 K mart Corp. reported a 6.6 percent gain overall, but sales were off

1.7 percent at its stores open more than a year.

J.C. Penney Co., the third largest retailer, reported a 3.5 percent increase and Federated Department Stores Inc., No. 4, said its sales rose 9 percent. Dayton Hudson Corp., No. 5, had a 12.6 percent increase, but sales at stores open more than a year were up a more modest 7.5 percent.

"Sales have been basically sluggish, continuing the trend of the last four, five months," said Jeffrey Edelman, an analyst with the investment company Dean Witter Reynolds Inc.

"The traditional sale (markdown) period in January was not as strong as in past years primarily because there was less merchandise. Retailers cleared their inventories at the end of calendar 1985," said analyst Walter Loeb, with Morgan Stanley & Co.

In addition, Loeb said, "The consumer was overextended and wasn't willing to spend, even on sales."

For the fiscal year, sales rose 0.2 percent at Sears, 7.5 percent at K mart, 2.3 percent at Penney, 4.6 percent at Federated and 11.9 percent at Dayton

Hadson Petroleum acquires gas pipeline properties

OKLAHOMA CITY (SWN) Hadson Petroleum Corp. announced the signing of a stock purchase agreement between Hadson and HNG/InterNorth's wholly owned subsidiary, Houston Natural Gas Corporation. for the purchase by Hadson of all of the common stock of Llano, Inc., Llano CO2 Inc., Minerals, Inc. and Nmesco Fuels for an undisclosed purchase price.

Llano Inc. owns and operates a 594-mile intrastate gas pipeline system in southeastern New Mexico, with a current estimated capacity of 140 million cubic feet of gas per day. Llano is also the operator and with its affiliate Nmesco Fuels, Inc., 100 percent owner of the Grama Ridge Morrow unit natural gas storage facility. The storage facility has a capacity of 15 Bcf and is located in Lea County, New Mexico. Minerals, Inc. is engaged in oil and gas production and owns two cryrogenic gas pro-cessing plants. Llano, Inc., Nmesco Fuels, Inc. and Minerals, Inc. together own oil and gas leases totaling approximately 35,100 net undeveland northeastern New Mexico.

Llano CO2, Inc. owns and operates a 35-mile CO2 pipeline, with a current design capacity of 90 million cubic feet per day, which intercon-nects with the Cortez Pipeline Company's carbon dioxide pipeline near Tatum, New Mexico and transports carbon dioxide to the Phillips Petroleum operated East Vacuum Graburg-San Andres unit in Lea County, New Mexico. HNG/InterNorth is selling Llano,

Inc. and certain assets as a result of a Federal Trade Commission agreement consent order dated June 4, 1985. The sale of Llano is subject to various conditions, including approval of regulatory authorities. Stephen W. Houghton, president and chief executive officer of Had-son, stated that, "We are very pleased about the prospects of having the Llano Group of companies and their employees become a part of Hadson. INVESTOR'S GUIDE Major bookkeeping ahead for redeemers of mutual fund bonds

By BILL DOYLE

Q. My wife and I invested in an income mutual fund, which holds bonds, last year. This fund has check-writing privileges and we wrote 10 checks on our account in 1985. We liked that convenience until we received two Form 1099s from the fund in January. Now, we're confused about how to handle this on our income tax return.

One Form 1099 lists the dividends and capital gains distributions credited to our account last year. I know we must report these on our Form 1040, Schedule B and D. So far, so good.

But the other - Form 1099-B - lists 10 transactions, showing the dollar amounts of each check and the number of full and fractional shares involved. I'm afraid we have to report these as 10 capital gains (or losses) on Schedule D. Do we?

A. Your fears are justified. Along with a multitude of mutual fund shareholders who wrote checks on their accounts or otherwise made a number of redemptions last year, you have a major bookkeeping exercise ahead of you.

Every time you wrote a check on that account, you redeemed shares. The difference between the check amount the proceeds of a redemption - and your "basis" on the full and fractional shares redeemed was either a profit or a loss, which you're required to report on Sched-

There are a number of ways to calculate your basis. Most mutual fund shareholders use the "average cost" method.

Doing it that way, you add up all the money you invested in the fund and all your reinvested dividends and capital gains distributions, then divide by the number of shares owned. The resulting number is your "single category" average basis per

Multiply that average per share basis by the number of shares in each redemption and you know the basis of the shares you cashed in that redemption. Things get more complicated, because when you write a check you redeem full and fractional shares. Better have a good calculator.

Furthermore, you have to do this calculation for each and every check-writing or other redemption.

Hang on for more complications. You can also use the "double category" average share method. That way, you separate the shares into two groups those owned six months or longer and those held for six months or less. Although much more complex, that method allows you to differentiate between long-term capital gains, only 40 percent of which are taxable, and fully taxable short-term

Then, there's the "first in-first out" method. Under that FIFO method, the shares redeemed are considered to be those owned the longest.

Finally, there's the "specific identification" method, also called "identified share," through which you instruct the mutual fund to redeem X number of shares you acquired on such-and-such > record-keeping purposes. Suddenly, I realize I will need complete records, dating back to my original purchase, so I will be able to calculate my capital gains when I redeem my shares. What should I do?

A. Write the fund and ask for annual statements for each year. Some mutual funds provide that information, free of charge. Most don't charge for recent years' statements but levy modest fees for old records.

Q. I have a money market mutual fund, on which I write checks. Will I have to report a capital gain for each check?

A. Thankfully, no. Because money market mutual funds invest in short-term debt securities, they use accounting procedures that normally keep their share values constant - $1 a share, in most cases. As a result, there's neither a capital gain or a capital loss when you redeem shares of a money market mutual fund.

Civilian unemployment rate falls to 6.7 percent in January

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's civilian unemployment rate fell to 6.7 percent in January 885 000 improving economy created 565,000 non-farm jobs, the government said

The rolls of those officially listed as out of work fell below 8 million for the first time in Ronald Reagan's presidency, to 7,831,000 from 8,023,000 in December.

The 0.2 percentage point drop from December's 6.9 percent rate was paced by an influx of new service-related jobs that raised the number of working Americans to a record of nearly 100 million, the Labor Department said.

The civilian unemployment rate was the lowest since March 1980, when it was 6.3 percent. The total of unemployed Americans was last beAn alternate rate, combining the 116.8 million-member civilian labor force with the 1.7 million members of the Armed Services stationed in the United States, was at 6.6 percent last month, the department said.

Today's report appeared to buttress President Reagan's prediction that the average combined civilian-military unemployment rate for all of 1986 would be 6.7 percent, down from 7.2 percent in December.

That prediction, however, is based on the economy growing at an annual rate of 4 percent this year instead of the 2.4 percent rate the Commerce Department reported for the fourth quarter of 1985. In a separate report, the department said the number of "discouraged" workers, those listed as out of work more than six months and not looking for employment, fell to 1.1 million, the lowest level in more than four years. Discouraged workers are not counted on the official themselves the best to be seen to be unemployment rolls because they are not considered part of the labor

The commissioner of labor statis-tics, Janet L. Norwood, said total employment tapered off much less from December to January than would be normally expected because of cold weather and the end of the holiday buying season.

She said in testimony before the congressional Joint Economic Committee that the seasonally adjusted increase of 205,000 retail jobs over the month "probably resulted from the fact that fewer workers were hired during the holiday season and, therefore, fewer were laid off in January.

Without the adjustment process, designed to account for predictable, periodic fluctuations in employment patterns, retail employment actually fell from 18.3 million to 17.7 million

Other service-related jobs increased by 115,000 in January while manufacturing employment climbed 8,000, its fourth straight monthly increase. At 19.5 million, manufacturing employment, however, was 135,000 under the level of a year ago.

The 6.7 percent civilian unemployment rate last month was 4 percentage points below the 10.7 percent peak registered at the depth of the recession in November 1982.

At that time, the rolls of the unemployed totaled more than 12 million. Since then, 9.8 million jobs have been created. In the last year alone, according to a business payroll survey not used in the unemployment rate calculation, some 3.1 million jobs have been created. Last month, mild weather and strength in the housing industry kept construction employment from taking its normal mid-winter dip. Such jobs, seasonally adjusted, rose 155,000 to 4.9 million.

The civilian labor force grew by 557,000, out-pacing the growth of 400,000 new jobs as measured in a survey of 60,000 households from which the unemployment rate is derived.

For specific groups of workers, the unemployment fell sharply for teenagers to 18.4 percent from 18.8

Other rates last month were:
—Adult men, 5.7, down 0.2 percentage point.

-Adult women, 6.1, down 0.1.
-Whites, 5.7, down 0.2.
-Blacks, 14.4, down 0.5.

Hispanics, 10.1, down 0.3. -Black teenagers, 42.4, up 0.1.

Before today's report came out, Lawrence Chimerine, president of Chase Econometrics, a forecasting firm in Bala Cynwyd, Pa., said the jobless rate is unlikely to change more than a few tenths of a percentage point up or down over the coming months.

"Unemployment has been essentially stable for more than a year," he said Thursday. "The economy just hasn't been growing too fast.

The world's financial markets would be disrupted by the inability of oil-exporting countries to meet their debt repayments and even major oil consumers like France would find it difficult to adapt quickly to different patterns of energy use.

The experience of the past 15 years has shown that Europe above all needs an oil price which is not too high and not too low." Nicholas Mosar, the European Community's energy commissioner, told a press conference in Brussels last week.

One of the beneficial effects of the oil price shocks of the 1970s, according to Mosar, is that Europe is no longer dependent on imported oil. In 1973, 60 percent of the European Community's energy needs were met by oil imports. Today the figure is only 30 percent. Europe as a whole is using no more energy than at the beginning of the '70s, even though its economic activity has increased by 25 percent.

The economic boost to Western Europe of declining oil prices is likely to be magnified by the declining dollar, since oil sales are traditionally conducted in the U.S. currency.

The rise in the dollar in the early '80s amounted to a third oil-price shock for many West European countries already reeling from the increases of 1973-76 and 1979-81.

Thus, while the dollar price for oil peaked in April 1981, the French franc price peaked last spring, when the dollar went through the 10-franc barrier for the first time.

The dollar has since lost up to a quarter of its value against most West European currencies. In French-franc terms, the oil price has dropped by more than 40 percent over the past year.

According to Maarek of IPECODE, a permanent reduction in oil prices to $20 a barrel is likely to add an average of about 0.4 percentage points to France's economic-growth rate this year and 1:4 percentage points by 1989.

The country's $8 billion trade deficit last year would be wiped out. Up to one percentage point would be cut off the French inflation rate which ran just under 4 percent last

Such an optimistic scenario could modify the French political scene after the elections, which is likely to be dominated by a trial of strength between an incoming right-wing government and Socialist President Francois Mitterrand, who still has two years of his seven-year mandate left to run.

Before the oil-price fall, it seemed as if the right would be forced to pursue the same kind of unpopular economic-austerity policies as the left. This in turn raised the prospect of a swing back to the Socialists in two years' time, should Mitterrand decide to hold elections then.

These calculations, which seemed to underpin Mitterrand's political strategy, may now have to be revised. By providing a future government with greater room for maneuver, the oil-price fall also buys time for reforms in the management of the economy that the right has pledged to introduce.

A different kind of political effect is expected in the Netherlands, where the Christian Democrat-led coalition government also faces elections this year. Although the country is not a large oil producer, it does have substantial reserves of natural gas, the price of which is tied to oil.

Explaining that falling gas revenues could force the Dutch government to impose unpopular austerity measures, Foreign Trade Minister Fritz Bolkestein said, "If our treasury gets hurt, that will create the need for further economizing, which will be unpopular."

Wire service to move offices to Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) - United Press International, reorganizing for its impending sale, is moving some corporate business offices from Brentwood, Tenn., to its world headquarters in Washington and to nearby Virginia, a spokesman said Thursday.

Jack Kenney, UPI's senior vice president and treasurer, said through a spokesman that the offices moving to Washington include accounting, personnel, purchasing and financial and support services. The move will not affect UPI's newsgathering offices in Tennessee, which will remain in Nashville, said spokesman Bill Adler. Most of the UPI business offices located in Tennessee were moved there from New York in 1984 after the 1982 purchase of the news agency by the Brentwood-based Media News Corp. from the E.W. Scripps

Several business office department heads and key personnel have moved to Washington over the past year, said Adler.

Jury denies prisoner's $4.5-million suit

A federal court jury in Midland not only summarily denied a prison-er a cent of the $4.5 million he was seeking in a lawsuit against Midland County but asked the federal judge if the county could be compensated for its inconvenience.

"Can the jury award the county compensatory court costs for the expense to the county of conducting this trial?" Glen Cox, jury foreman, said in a note to U.S. District Court Judge Lucius D. Bunton, who presided over the trial. The jury reached its verdict within 10 minutes.

Bunton said any awards to the county would be "a question of law" to be decided by the court.

The inmate, Ronald Francis Miller,

44, had sought a $4.5 million judgment for alleged violation of his constitutional rights while he was an inmate in the Midland County Jail in December 1983. Miller, who said he suffers from a heart condition called "unstable angina" and suffers intense chest pains if he is not administered medication, alleged he was denied necessary medication while in the County Jail.

The five-man, one-woman jury found that he was not denied necessary medication and that he suffered no damages.

"He (Miller) said he didn't expect to get it (the $4.5 million)," said Mid-land County Attorney Mark Dettman. "So, I guess he wasn't shocked when he didn't." Dettman and Paul Williams, assistant county attorney. defended the county in the suit. Miller was his own counsel.

Further, Miller denied that he was examined and treated by a nurse and physician while he was in the County Jail for revocation of a 10year probated sentence for indecen-cy with a child. Miller claimed he was merely taking a shower when a boy saw him and supposedly was offended. Judge Vann Culp of the 238th State District Court for Midland County sentenced Miller to an eight-year term in the Texas Department of Corrections. Contrary to Miller's allegations, Dr. Patrick Leung, the county physician, and former County Nurse Tammy Halfmann testified that they had attended Miller

Leung testified that Miller's chest pains could be "psychosomatic" or could be "caused by a lot of things," Dettman noted.

Miller, a cigarette smoker who complained of chest pains, was taken by a deputy in a patrol car to Mid-land Memorial Hospital for examination. He was examined by Dr. Robert A. Vogel. Miller was hospitalized for tests and then returned to the jail.

"The pain became so intense that I was having trouble breathing and begged them to (let Miller) see a doctor," Miller claimed. He said a guard replied, "OK, but you better not be morphine to "kill the pain."

Further, Miller had complained that he, while handcuffed and shackled, walked to a patrol car by which he was transported to the hospital. He was not carried by stretcher. In addition, he complained that he was not transported by ambulance.

Dettman noted that hospital tests earlier in Lubbock and then in Midland indicated that Miller's blood enzymes, which can indicate heart damage, and results of electrocardiograph testing were "normal." Further, Dettman said Miller never was in distress and "never sweated" when he complained of the pains; his blood pressure also was normal. Sweating and distress are indicative of angina, Dettman said.

Medical evidence indicated that Miller had suffered "no heart attack, no heart damage,...and "no maifunc-tion of the heart," Dettman said.

He said Miller, once an emergency medical technician in Chicago and a former bowling-alley mechanic in Midland, had a history of arrests from fraud to grand theft and was prone to complain of chest pains and to seek hospitalization shortly after he was arrested and jailed.

Dettman said Miller's suit against the county was "just an example of the ever-spiraling abuse of our justice system by convicted criminals.

"Some of them think they've really been wronged," he said. "It's an excellent form of harassment."

The Midland attorney appointed to serve as justice of the peace during Charlie Sprayberry's leave of absence has resigned, but County Judge William B. Ahders has no immediate plans to appoint another temporary replacement for the embattled magistrate.

Man teaches defensive dog-handling tips

Temporary JP to step down Feb. 18

By RAMONA NYE Staff Writer

It took a close brush with tragedy two years ago to get Aubrey Linne interested in defensive handling of

Now he's trying to teach other people tips which could have helped his daughter.

Linne's daughter, 11-year-old Brandi, was severely mauled in 1984 by a friend's dog after she stared at it directly. She required two hours of surgery, 150 stitches and spent four days in the hospital.

Linne doesn't want other parents and their children to learn the hard way as he did, so for the past year he has voluntarily conducted defensive dog-handling seminars for Midland schools and community organizations. When he is not teaching defensive handling of dogs, Linne operates a printing company.

Linne says his seminars have become very popular after Sunday's death of a 6-year-old Longview boy, who had been mauled by a pack of

Most people don't know how to deal with dogs, Linne said.

"Dogs are like furniture. They become part of the commonplace until they do something bad," he said. While a lot of people don't know how to handle dogs, those most affected are children 12 years and younger, he said. Animal bites are the leading cause of sickness and illness in this age group, according to the Disease Control Center in Atlanta. Linne says.

More than one million bites are said. Most of the bites and deaths about 30 bites are reported every month, and probably one-third of all not separating fighting dogs, not

Many defensive handling tips are common sense, but others shed light on dog-handling myths.

Staring at a dog to show him you are not scared, is one myth, Linne's daughter learned was wrong. Eye control is used to train dogs, but when you are confronting a strange dog, this technique may backfire.

Some dogs back away when stared at directly, but others, like the Australian shepherd that attacked Linne's daughter, may fight back against domination, he said.

Woman gives class on rules for local elections

secretary at Missouri City 13 years ago, she had to run a local election with very little knowledge of the

Today, she knows the code frontwards, backwards and upside down. The woman from the Houston suburb gave an update on the state's Election Code to the West Texas chapter of the Association of City Clerks/Secretaries of Texas. About 40 persons attended the Thursday session at Midland City Hall, which was hosted by City Secretary Bill

Mrs. Church said when she held that first election she wished there things that have to be done. If you're new in the office, you have to know it," she said. And for those who aren't new,

There are a whole lot of picky

there are still numerous changes in the Election Code which must be followed for the April 5 elections.

Three major changes came out of the last session of the state Legislature, said Ms. Church. One is a switch in filing dates, the second is an approved petition form and the last is certification of city clerks/secretaries.

The statewide association of city clerks/secretaries had been lobbying in the code, she said. The Election Code first was written by the Legislature in 1951 from the viewpoint of county clerk.

But other groups, such as water districts and city governments, have to hold elections and what applies to one group didn't to another, she said.

Previously, city candidates had un-til 30 days before an election to file. But that didn't give the city secretaries time to verify each person before setting up the absentee ballot. This year, the last day to file is 45 days efore an election, she said.

Additionally, no time limit had been set for filing on that last day and some city secretaries were keeping their office open until midnight. The state set the time at 5 p.m. Also required now is an absentee ballot board, something which small towns lacked before the changes, according to Ms. Church. This should be a separate group of people who meet that Saturday of the election to count absentee totals. Another change is that the absentee ballots can't be totaled until after 7 p.m. election day to give the elections administrator time to check the mailbox after the polls close.

Before last year, cities didn't have standard forms for petitions, and one was approved.

Changes in the Election Code came after a strong lobbying effort last year by the Association of City Clerks and Secretaries, said Ms. Church. And next time the Legislature meets, among the lobbying group will be Clanton, who recently was appointed to that committee.

Retired Midland teacher wins statewide TCTA award

From Staff Reports

The Texas Classroom Teachers Association will present the 1986 Retiree of the Year Award to Blanche Plunkett of Midland. The award recognizes an exceptional career teacher who is retiring after many years of service to education, students, the community and TCTA.

To be nominated for retiree of the year a classroom teacher must officially retire during the preceding year and, before that, must have been an active TCTA member. In reviewing nominees, the public relations committee also takes into account the years of service to to the field, service to local CTAs and to TCTA, educational background, and other honors and activities.

Ms. Plunkett has served 47 years as teacher and librarian in Midland and Overton. She has taught fourth graders, fifth graders, language learning disability students and li-brary science. Her love of books and students has let her to stay on at the Midland Elementary School following her retirement as a full-time volunteer librarian.

Ms. Plunkett also does volunteer work for her church library, contributes time, food and supplies to the needy, and assists disabled people in town with their shopping and living

Hunger task force visiting state

AUSTIN (AP) - A Harvard-based physician task force on hunger identified 150 counties across the United States, many of them in Texas, where there are large numbers of Americans without enough to eat. Members of the task force have been in Texas since Wednesday on planned visits to Brazos, Caldwell, Hays, Walker and San Saba "hunger

They scheduled a public meeting today to hear from State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower and at least two legislators.

In its January report, the physicians said, "Not only is hunger in-creasing as a problem, but federal food programs designed to feed the hungry have been weakened. In 1981, the federal government initiated changes in these programs in order to target them to the 'truly needy.' The theory was that by cutting services to the near-poor, the most destitute would be more adequately served.

'As of 1985, however, participation by the poor in the food stamp program had declined."

Victim advocacy center dedicated

FORT WORTH (AP) - With an occasional trace of fury, the son and daughter of comatose Sunny von Bulow dedicated a national center Thursday designed to aid and educate the victims of violent crimes in

Von Auersperg, who will serve as president and chairman of the board, was described as the major spokesperson for the center. His sister, a board member, will lend "her experience in film and documentary production" to the center staff. Executive Director E. Gene Patterson of Fort Worth said the center will "promote responsiveness of the judicial system to the rights and needs of crime victims and implement programs to heighten America's consciousness concerning the plight of victims." He listed three primary goals:

1. To serve as a national resource center for victims and their advocates, helping to organize local selfhelp groups and incorporating them into a national coalition.

2. To develop education programs and other self-help opportunities to help victims strengthen their skills and resources.

3. To encourage and promote research concerning crime victims and to further the victims' movement through establishment of a national data bank and resource library.

George Morris Gurley, an official of the Chemical Bank of New York, said the center's first three years of operation will be funded in part by $1.7 million from the Annie-Laurie Aitken Charitable Trust, of which he is a trustee The trust bears the name of Sunny

Gurley and others said Fort Worth was chosen as headquarters for the center because of the tremendous response and support of the community and its leaders and because of its central location.

Indeed, Mayor Bob Bolen told the assemblage that Fort Worth was committed to the program and that 'we're going to make it work.'

In citing the need for such a center, officials quoted government figures estimating that one out of three American families will be victims of a vicious crime this year. They said nearly 6 million violent crimes were committed in 1984 and that every 26 seconds a U.S. citizen is victimized by such violence.

Fertilize fruit trees in spring

As spring approaches it is time to fertilize fruit trees growing in our landscape. Our longstanding rule of thumb has been to apply 1 pound of a 13-13-13, or similar, fertilizer per year of age. As with all generalities, several precautions are needed. First, if dwarf trees are being grown, the rule should be changed to inch of trunk diameter to adjust for the smaller tree size. If the tree has made excessive growth and is not fruiting well, reduce the amount by 25 percent.

In those areas where iron deficiencies are a severe problem, homeowners are probably better off using 21-0-0 at the rate of ½ pound per year of age. Also, pruning should be reduced in trees with a history of se-vere iron deficiency. Pruning should contaminated plants. be continued to encourage new growth and fruiting, but large cuts should not be made.

When applying fertilizers, they should be spread evenly under the drip line of the tree, never in piles, or against the tree itself. If the area under the tree is not kept weed and grass free, it may be necessary to fertilize in April, if poor growth is being experienced.

Homeowners and gardeners should make sure they are getting healthy plants anytime they make purchases

Gardens and landscapes often become infested with disease-causing

It's important to check plants for any abnormalities and to particularly look at root systems for decay and abnormal swellings. Plants with unhealthy root systems should be discarded since removing the infected tissue will not likely remove the source of the infection.

One particular thing to look for is the presence of root-knot nematodes. Root-knot nematodes cause knotting or galling of the root sys-tem that can be detected easily by the eye. Plants with this symptom should never be transplanted because nematodes are difficult to eliminate once they have become

Care should be used when bringing soil in from other areas. Soil can be contaminated with disease organisms that can affect garden and landscape plants. It's usually better to improve the fertility and tilth of present soil than to bring in soil with an uncertain history.

Healthy planting stock is generally produced by using disease-free cuttings or seed in sterilized soil and keeping it away from contaminated soil. Buying from a producer who uses these methods will improve the chances of getting healthy planting

USDA considers way to allocate cuts

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON - Some hard decisions will be made soon on how the Gramm-Rudman budget cuts will be applied to 1986 farm programs, according to Agriculture Department officials

President Reagan's budget proposal sent to Congress Wednesday gave some indication as to how the Gramm-Rudman law, which would force a gradually declining deficit, applies to the USDA. It did not, however, spell out how the spending cuts will be carried out.

The proposed budget submitted by Reagan is for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1. The Gramm-Rudman formula orders a 4.3 percent reduction in USDA spending for the current fiscal year to help trim the federal deficit by $11.7 billion.

Food stamps and child nutrition programs, including school lunches, are exempt from the Gramm-Rudman reductions

AGRICULTURE

One way of carrying out the spending cuts is to simply deduct 4.3 percent from all payments made to farmers, including price support loans and deficiency payments on 1986 crops. That idea has some strong support in the USDA and on Capitol Hill.

According to USDA Budget Director Stephen B. Dewhurst, the department's share of the $11.7 billion spending reduction is almost $1.3 billion. About $823 million will come out of Commodity Credit Corp. operations, which includes price support programs for crops and dairy.

The remainder will be sliced from other USDA agencies and programs. Although the CCC's share will be spread over two fiscal years because of the nature of the crop programs, it is this portion that is providing some of the biggest problems. Dewhurst said that there are two ways to carry out the mandated reductions in the commodity programs. One way would be to virtually rewrite the programs for 1986 crops. That could lead to changing support levels, target prices and other details that already have been announced.

Another way would be to keep all 1986 loan rates and target prices as they have been announced, and to discount all USDA checks by 4.3 percent when they are made out to

"That's the option we've talked most about, the option that seems to be favored," Dewhurst said. "It's easy for producers to understand. It's equitable, in the sense that every producer of every crop gets treated

But there are some big questions, he said. Lawyers are being asked whether long-term contracts such as the new conservation reserve for taking marginal land from crop production are exempt. Another question is the "whole-herd buyout" program to begin April 1 in which dairy farmers will be subsidized to sell off surplus herds.

If the USDA goes along with the 4.3 percent discount on price support loans and payments to comply with Gramm-Rudman, farmers will see effectively lower loan rates and deficiency payments for 1986 crops.

If Congress goes along with President Reagan's proposed federal budget for 1987, the Agriculture Department also would lose more than 10,000 employees, nearly half of them working for the Soil Conservation Service.

Under the budget plan sent to Capitol Hill, the department's work force, equivalent to 108,750 employees, would be reduced to 98,500.

Trees, shrubs should be checked for scale

Dormant deciduous trees and its juices. shrubs in West Texas should be checked for scale insect infestations before applying dormant oil applications. Dormant oil sprays are used to control most scale insects; certain aphids on deciduous trees and shrubs. A dormant oil application would be of little benefit if the treated deciduous tree or shrub was not harboring a moderate to heavy scale insect infestation.

Scale insects are among the most harmful of plant-feeding insects. Most scale insects are very small and have a hard, waxy, scalelike covering over their bodies. They often appear in large numbers and may weaken or kill a plant by sucking out

A dormant oil may be used anytime in the dormant season. Best results are obtained when it is used in late winter or early spring just before the buds break and begin to grow. If applied after the buds break, foliage burn may occur. Where trees have already broken bud or evergreens such as live oak, use of a summer oil instead of a dormant oil is suggested to prevent foliage damage.

Dormant oil should be applied when the temperature is between 40 and 65 degrees Fahrenheit (4 and 18 degrees Centigrade). Freezing weather should be avoided within 12 hours after applying dormant oils. Avoid getting oil on tree roots. fails to emulsify in water it sh Dormant oil sprays of about 4 percent strength may be used on deciduous trees in late winter for control of scale insects. Check the label on a dormant oil container for specific instructions on mixing and applying dormant oil spray. Oils are increasingly effective as the temperatures become warmer in the spring and insect metabolism resumes more

Since oil and water do not mix naturally, an emulsifier is dissolved in the oil concentrate to make it mixable with water. Before spraying, each batch of spray should be checked for mixability. The spray should be a milky color. If any oil not be used.

When mixing and applying dormant oils, extreme care should be taken to use only the recommended amount listed on the label of the dormant oil container. Check the label for plants that are sensitive to oil sprays. Good spray coverage of treated plants is essential, but avoid excessive spray applications.

Check deciduous trees and shrubs for scale insect infestations before applying dormant oils.

Farmers faced with foreclosure fall victim to swindlers' scams

By SHARON COHEN

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) - Once they worked the dusty back roads of rural America, extracting a buck or two from gullible farmers with promises of wonder crops and miracle fertilizers.

They roamed about in rusty wagons with limping nags and were called hucksters, swindlers or con artists. Today, they wear tailored pinstripes, fire off telex messages and travel in chartered jets. The style is new. The game is not.

Confidence games are finding new success in the nation's heartland, victimizing farmers faced with foreclosures and creditors at their doors.

"As people become more and more desperate looking for answers to economic problems...they are much more vulnerable," said Missouri Attorney General William Webster. "People it rural America are victims because of their situation.

Swindlers are promising extraordinary crops and chemicals as well as cheap animals and sturdy equipment. Usually the animals are sick, the machinery defective, the wonder-working chemicals only tanks of

Most often, though, the lure is the promise of money — billions of dol-lars in low-interest loans to farmers already backed into a financial corner.

It sounds too good to be true. It is. Farmers have been bilked out of tens of millions of dollars in recent years, officials say. That is a guess; by one estimate, as much as 98 percent of fraud may go unreported by embarrassed victims.

Scams range from simple deceits that net $200 or so from a few farmers to complex operations that snare as many as 150 victims at a time with individual losses in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

"More money is lost by people sit-ting down and writing a check at the kitchen table to a con than there is lost in theft of grain, equipment, chemicals and livestock, all com-

the Iowa attorney general's farm division.

Farmers today are biting at scams for different reasons than did their parents and grandparents. "The frauds we are seeing now...are not for a golden future, but survival of that family farm," Ormiston said.

Midwestern officials are concerned. Iowa has enacted tougher restrictions on loan brokers. Prosecutors in Iowa and Illinois have hit the lecture circuit to warn farmers. The Ag-Alert network, founded in 1983 by Ormiston as a clearinghouse for farm fraud cases, also enables prosecutors to trade information. About 15 Midwestern states are

Courts and juries, too, are cracking down:

- In South Dakota last year, juries convicted four men in a $460,000 loan scheme that involved a phony letter of commitment from a man described to farmers as a British noble with access to $2 billion. Three others pleaded guilty. Thirty-five victims, most of them farmers from Iowa, Minnesota and South Dakota, each put up advances of $20,000 for $1 million in loans that never came through, said Robert Mandel, assistant U.S. attorney for South Dakota.

— In Illinois, four people, including a minister whose flock offered to post his church as bail, were convicted in February 1985 in a $1.25 million scheme involving advance fees for low-interest loans. Individual losses were as high as $220,000, said Keith Syfert, assistant U.S. attorney. In Kansas, a $175,200 default judgment was entered last year against Nasib Ed Kalliel, a 59-year-old North Dakota native, and his company, First Financial Guaranty Corp. of Texas, and he was barred from doing business in the state, said Jeff Southard, deputy attorney

Authorities contend Kalliel preyed on desperate farmers, promising First Financial would act as guarantor for $50,000 potes. The farmers, bined," said Tam Ormiston, head of however, would receive only a fraction while Kalliel would take the rest, Southard asserted.

Fifty farmers from Kansas, Texas, Colorado, Mississippi and elsewhere were steered to the tiny Rexford State Bank in Kansas, where they signed for $2.5 million in notes. The bank collapsed when neither the farmers nor First Financial repaid the loans, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. has sued Kalliel and the farmers, Southard said.

Several individuals and the state of Iowa have also sued Kalliel. The Iowa suit alleges at least 18 Iowans paid Kalliel up to $72,500 each for phony loan-finding services.

It also charges Kalliel misrepresented himself as a trade counselor with diplomatic ties to Mexico, Jordan and Saudia Arabia. One farmer says a Kalliel aide told him Kalliel's wife was the sister of Jordan's King Melodee Hanes, Kalliel's attorney in Des Moines, declined comment. Iowa court papers say Kalliel is a resident of Texas, with offices in Houston and Dallas, but repeated calls to First Financial and a number listed to Kalliel in Houston went unanswered. Dallas has no listing for Kalliel or First Financial.

A common ploy is to charge an advance finders fee for a non-existent loan. The scheme is based on what Mandel calls "the Wimpy principle — I'll gladly give a quarter to-morrow for a hamburger today. For (an advance fee of) $20,000...we will loan you $1 million that you'll get six to eight weeks from now.

In another variation, a swindler tells his victim a U.S. corporation wants to borrow money in London, wants to borrow money in London, Zurich or Hong Kong but can't do so directly. The farmer is guiled into borrowing up to 50 times what he needs with the promise that the corporation will pay off the whole loan.

Women's movement helping men form closer friendships

New York Times News Service

NEW YORK — Fishing trips. The golf course (and locker room). The men's club. Drinks at a neighborhood bar. These are some of the tra-ditional settings for relationships among men. But how deep are those friendships, and how much of their feelings do men reveal to each

"When you look at what men give each other, it isn't enough to dispel loneliness," said Letty Cottin Pogrebin, whose book "Among Friends: Who We Like, Why We Like Them and What We Do About It," will be published by McGraw-Hill in the fall.

But a "sea change" may be taking place in the way younger men view friendship with other men. "The intimacy quotient seems to be somewhat changed among younger men," Pogrebin said, based on her research. "I don't think the demands of masculinity testing are quite as rigorous as they have been in other eras. There are young men who know a lot about each other - they are more open with each other." She and others think the women's movement has had an effect. "For men who live willingly with an active feminist - myself included - the tendency is to be more open to closer male friendships," said Jon Christian Suggs, a 45-yearold professor of literature at the John Jay College of Criminal Justice in New York. "The ones I know the best and consider close friends are married to or live with feminists. It tends to validate what women are doing - I'm amazed at the depth and complexity of their relationships.

How men often deal with that awkwardness was described by Scott Swain, a sociologist and researcher at the Wellesley College Research Center on Women. Fenchel agrees that the women's movement may have caused "more male bonding, particularly among younger men." But he added that the concept of bonding need not be confined to relationships between men - or women, for that matter. Woman wants changes made

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that in Hollywood if an actress is good for a part but needs a few alterations (physically), they can fix just about anything? I read somewhere that if a woman is skinny or has bony parts, she can be filled in with silicone. Like in that song from "A Chorus Line," "T and A Is Where It's At." Well, I have plenty of "T" and "A," but the calves of my legs are very thin and my knees are bony. The rest of me is just fine, but my legs are so shapeless I hate to show them.

Plastic surgeons can perform miracles with a face-lift, so why should giving a woman shapely calves be so difficult? Where can I find a doctor who does this kind of work? I have the funds to handle it, so that's no problem.

Please don't give me any lectures about how I should be satisfied with what I've got. I've heard plenty of those. At 39, I'm old enough to know what I want. — NO NAME OR TOWN, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Now that you've rejected my intuitive advice, here's my next choice. Consult with three of the top plastic surgeons in your area. (If you don't know who they are, contact your county association of plastic and reconstructive surgeons, and request referrals.) Discuss your desires with all three of these doctors, then make your

"Don't worry, I'll take the responsibility" — I don't know what I'll do.
What I'd really like to do is slap them upside the head and maybe knock some sense into them! If they realized what the penalties are for serving minors, they'd never ask me

Are they willing to serve my possible jail term, or pay up to $2,000 for my possible fine? Would they be willing to reimburse the restaurantlounge for the money it would lose if its liquor license were suspended?

Abby, please tell parents who allow their underage children to drink, to do it in their own homes and not expect the cooperation of a bartender or waitress. Thanks. By printing this you may have saved my job and my sanity. — HAD IT IN FLORIDA

DEAR HAD IT: When you're asked to serve someone who appears to be underage, ask to see his/her identification. If an adult offers to accept the responsibility, say, "The responsibility is not transferable ... it's mine." Period.

DEAR ABBY: I'm so glad you told that man who had fallen in love with a young lady's voice over the telephone to go ahead and meet her. I would just like to say that you can never tell where a phone call will

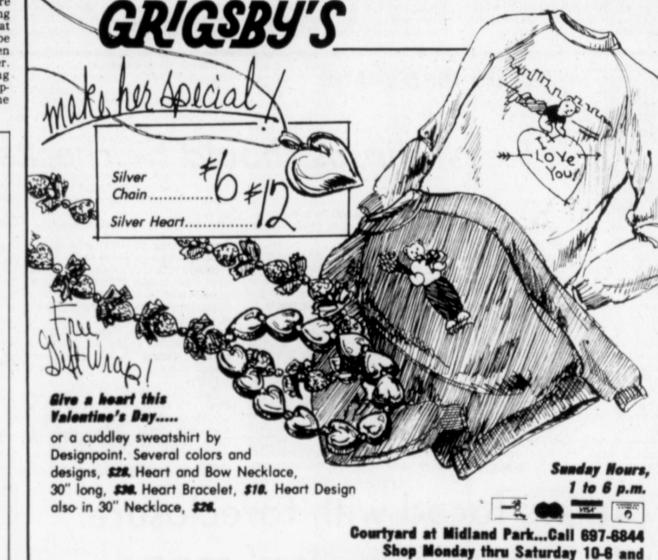

A good friend of mine from high school attended the U.S. Air Force Academy where I'd call him occasionally to see how things were going. As cadets do not have phones in their rooms, my calls were answered at the squadron desk by the cadet working there; one cadet in particular began to recognize my voice, and I liked his. Halley's Comet visits museum's Auction '86 benefit

By ELIZABETH EDWIN Lifestyle Writer

Upon arriving at the Holiday Inn Country Villa Convention Center for last night's Museum of the Southwest's Auction '86, it seemed like a typical West Texas evening.

There were four Brangus cattle, three heifers and one bull, donated by I. David Porras, penned at the front door.

But upon entering the center, the atmosphere changed to encounters of a "Star-Studded" kind featuring a Halley's Comet theme. Approximately 400 Midlanders attended the $200 per-couple black-tie affair, which occurs only once every three years to raise funds for the museum.

Meeting guests at the door were an entourage of assistants for Victoria Hentrich Inc. of Austin, the catering company for the gala. Two ladies painted space-inspired designs with "comet-dusted glitter" on the faces of willing subjects while auction-goers were greeted by Mitchell Kell-dorf and Bruce Sutka of Sutka-Kell-dorf Productions of New York and given Punk style sun glasses or glowing "liquid light" glasses by two women dressed as "Halley's Comet Stewardesses."

Sutka-Kelldorf Productions was hired by Victoria Hentrich to design the auction's decorations. Tables were adorned with silver lame cloths and tent-shaped white tubes supporting elaborate pyramids of tubing and colorful liquid lights. Acrylic and silver stars and silk flowers floated from the tubing. The ceiling was covered with projected starshaped lights and Mylar paper accented the tables and walls. The chairs were covered in a white spandex material.

"WE REALLY didn't know what we had to work with until we got here," Sutka said, "but we have done several parties with Victoria and really enjoy working with her."

Ms. Hentrich was in charge of all catering functions for the party. The buffet included star and moon shaped croissants (in keeping with the Halley's Comet theme), fried shrimp, home-made pastas, beef tenderloin, beef flambe', various breads, cheeses, specialty crackers, Chinese stir-fried chicken or beef with vegetables and an array of desserts.

In the center of the buffet tables was a table of strawberries and other fruit with a large ice sculpture of — that's right — Halley's Comet.

George Bush Jr. served as master of ceremonies for the auction. He explained that his mother, Barbara Bush who was honorary chairman of the event, could not be present saying, "Mom wanted to be here tonight but she had an important birthday party to attend," in reference to President Ronald Reagan's 75th birthday.

The evening's live auction bidding began with a "Close Encounter" trip to Fort Davis and the McDonald Observatory to view Halley's Comet, which went for $1,100.

Another live auction item was a "Bunny Bonanza" Easter Egg Hunt party for thirty children. The party, including of an Easter Bunny, invitations, paper goods, ice cream, Easter eggs and $50 gift certificate prizes, went for $2,000.

SOME OF the more unusual items sold at Auction '86 were a "Burger Blast" for $4,250 — represented on the runway by a woman wearing a hamburger costume — and "A Jug of Wine and a Loaf of Bread..." for $6,500 — represented by a woman dressed as a bunch of grapes.

The cattle that had greeted guests outside the front door were auctioned for $3,100.

A few of the other live auction items and their winning bids were a trip for two to London to attend Wimbledon for $2,250, a trip for two to the Academy Awards in Hollywood for $3,250, deluxe box seating in Texas Stadium for 16 to see a Dallas Cowboy game for $6,500 and a Willa Shalit 22-karat gold life mask for $1,400.

A bit of confusion arose over the bidding for an eight-week-old AKC registered English Bulldog. When the bidding closed, two bidders thought they had won; Chris Scharbauer and Bill and Nancy White. After a short period of time the problem was resolved and the Whites took "Lymie" home to meet their other pets.

There were also sealed and posted bid auctions. Sealed bid items included a week of tennis for two at John Gardiner's Tennis Ranch, a natural silver fox boa from Szor-Diener Furs, the opportunity to fly the bidders' flag of choice over ClayDesta Center Downtown (infamous for flying Aggie Clayton Williams Jr.'s Texas A&M flag) for one week, two nights at the Royal Orleans Hotel in New Orleans' French Quarter, three Texas Sesquicentennial prints and a set of Tiffany & Co. earrings and necklace.

Some of the top posted items and their winning bids were a week at the Greenhouse spa in Dallas for $3,600, a ranch mink jacket from Swartz for $2,850, a 20-couple barn dance at H and H Barn for $2,500, an earring and ring set of 18-karat gold by David Webb of New York for $2,300 and two days at Vermejo Park, N.M., for $2,250.

"THE PEOPLE here tonight were so generous," said Louan Rogers, cochairman for publicity, "at what seems like the worst of times with oil going down. Everyone is here helping us out."

By the end of the live auction, Ms. Rogers said she had heard estimates of $116,000 for the live auction. Bids for the posted and sealed auctions were still being tallied.

"At an early preliminary count, we estimate that the profit will be in excess of $200,000," said Bill Brown, of RepublicBank First National's Trust Department and one of the bankers for Auction '86."We think it will be more than that" after expenses.

The overall chairman for Auction 86 was Suzy Boldrick. Other chairmen were Ruthann Baumgardner, secretary; Jeannine Donnelly, treasurer; Brown and Jeff Scribner, bankers; Mary Jane Young, catalog; Jean Nichols and Phyllis Short, display; Kitty Lawson, entry; Camille Leifeste, food and beverage; Susan Gau, Joanie Holt, Judy Martin and Terry Wilkinson, gifts; and Bettye Jones and Polly Davis, invitations.

Also serving as chairmen were Jon Short, light and sound; Ms. Boldrick, music; Emily and Kevin Blonkvist, pages; Andrea and Richard Cantania, posted bids; Ms. Rogers and Betty Sumner, publicity; Charlene Waddill, raffle; Sue Harris, runway presentation; and Sally Salners and Shari Koziol, sealed bids.

In charge of sponsors were Jamie Anderson for corporate, Rhonda Durham for individual, and Sandra Landua for acknowledgments. Sponsor adviser was Rosalind Grover.

"I feel so good about the auction. Oilmen have got to be some of the most generous people there are," Ms. Rogers said.

The Easter Bunny himself, above left, joined auctioneer Larry Wooten at the Museum of the Southwest's Auction '86 to encourage bidders to purchase the "Bunny Bonanza," an Easter Egg hunt for thirty children.

Guests were greeted by Shonna Miller and Mary Jo Clark, both of Midland, dressed as Halley's Comet Stewardesses, top right.

The decorations included liquid light tubes and acrylic and silver stars adorning the tables covered by silver lame tablecloths. Tables were surrounded by "Star Trek"-like spandex-covered chairs.

U.S. vetoes U.N. move to condemn Israel for intercepting jet

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States vetoed a Security Council resolution that would have condemned Israel's interception of a Libyan civilian plane, but said that it deplored the Israeli action.

Ten of the 15 U.N. council members supported the resolution and bers supported the resolution and four U.S. allies — Britain, France, Denmark and Australia — abstained in Thursday's vote that came after three days of often heated debate on a Syrian-Libyan complaint.

The Libyan executive jet intercepted by Israeli warplanes over the Mediterranean on Tuesday and held in Israel for five hours turned out to be carrying nine Syrian and Leba-nese politicians and not, as Israel suspected, Palestinian guerrilla leaders,

U.S. Ambassador Vernon A. Walters told Security Council delegates before casting the veto that "although the United States opposes Israel's action in this case," it rejected the resolution because it failed to take into account that interception of a plane might be justified in some

In October, U.S. warplanes intercepted an Egyptian airliner carrying the hijackers of the Italian cruise liner Achille Lauro.

The resolution, Walters said, "does not take into sufficient account the need to address practically and appropriately the overriding issue: terrorism."

While supporting the principle of safeguarding civil aviation, "we believe that there may arise exceptional circumstances in which an interception may be justified," Walters said.

"We believe a state should intercept a civilian aircraft only on the basis of the strongest and clearest evidence that terrorists are on board. We do not believe that Israel this rigorous and necessary standard and therefore we deplore that action," he said.

While admitting that the interception was an "intelligence error," Israeli officials offered no apology.

Israel's U.N. ambassador, Benjamin Netanyahu, said during the debate the plane had been used in the past as a "terrorist ferrying vehicle."

He also told delegates before the vote that "to pass this resolution is to encourage terrorism" for "the states that are pushing for this resolution are states that are sponsoring terrorism." He singled out Syria and Libya.

Zehdi Labib Terzi, U.N. observer of the Palestine Liberation Organization, said in anticipating the negative vote that the U.S. delegation repeatedly "abused and misused" its veto power to protect Israel. Invited to address the council as an interested party, Terzi denounced both the ed party, Terzi denounced both the U.S. and Israeli aerial interceptions

South African foreign minister foresees black rule, protection of white minority

Los Angeles Times-

Washington Post News Service

CAPE TOWN, South Africa - Foreign Minister Roelof F. "Pik" Botha, defending the South African government's proposed political reforms, said Thursday that his country could be governed in the future by a black president provided there is an agreement protecting the rights of the white minority.

Botha, going further than any Cab-inet minister has dared to go before, said he saw a black-led government as the "inevitable result in the future" if President Pieter W. Botha's new proposals on power-sharing are accepted by South Africa's black majority and become the basis for a new constitutional system.

As for himself, Foreign Minister Botha told foreign correspondents, he would have "no objection whatsoever" to serving under a black president. "If it is in terms of structures jointly agreed, how can I be opposed?" he asked.

Other Cabinet ministers and President Botha himself have emphasized the far-reaching nature of the new proposals, put before the South Afri-can Parliament here last week. But until the foreign minister spoke up Thursday, none had been willing to accept that this country, ruled by whites for three centuries, could have a black-majority government. "As long as we can agree in a suitable way on the protection of minority rights without a racial sting," the foreign minister said, "then it would possibly become unavoidable that in the future you might have a black president of this country. If blacks share in the power of this country, that to me becomes the inevitable result in the future, as long as the minorities feel safe."

What his government opposes, he continued, is any system, especially one-man, one-vote in a unitary state where blacks outnumber whites five to one, that does not include "full protection of minorities.'

This would include preservation of their residential areas, school systems and other cultural facilities, all presumably racially segregated, and constitutional guarantee ensuring that the majority would not overrule their agreed political rights.

"The object is to remove the racial stigma of apartheid, the humiliation of it," Foreign Minister Botha said, defending the proposed reforms against criticsm that they mask a form of neo-apartheid. "But the idea is not to stamp out all cultural

Although President Botha, who is not related to the foreign minister, has yet to elaborate in detail his grand design for South Africa when its system of racial separation and minority white rule has been ended, he appears to favor a complex form of federalism based on ethnic and geographic units that manage their own affairs but come together on matters of common interest.

Foreign Minister Botha said that the president's proposal last week of a new national council in which black leaders would sit with whites to deliberate on new legislation, and ultimately perhaps draft a new constitution, represents a bold step toward sharing power.

So far, however, only Chief Mangosuthu Gatsha Buthelezi, the Zulu leader, has publicly expressed any interest in the reforms, Chile and NASA are planning a $9 million extension of an airstrip on Chile's Easter Island for space shuttle emergency landings. However, the plan has upset the island's population.

Muscle may solve Easter Island mystery

HANGA ROA, Easter Island -Researchers have puzzled for decades over how this tiny South Pacific island could have sustained a population large enough to move the huge, enigmatic stone statues for which it has become world-famous. Archaeologists and Thor Heyerdahl, the ethnologist who visited Easter Island in 1955 during his celebrated voyage across the Pacific in a reed boat, believe they have discovered the answer.

Using just ropes and muscle, 20 Polynesian men were able to nudge and tilt a 13-foot, 8-ton figure across its ancient altar.

Archaeologists who supervised Wednesday's experiment said it proved the 500 or so "moai" sculptures could have been moved from their quarry with far less manpower than previously

The largest sculpture weighs 84 tons and is as big as a boxcar.

Heyerdahl has been on Easter Island since Jan. 22 to re-examine the stone sculptures and dig for new artifacts to test his theory that the earliest Polynesians sailed west from ancient Peru, rather than east from Asia.

The 71-year-old Norwegian whose book, "Kon Tiki," describes his Pacific crossing, said Wednesday's experiment would end "all those crazy theories about people landing here from outer space" to move the gargantuan statues.

Heyerdahl had originally theorized the statues were dragged on their backs. In an earlier experiment, he needed 180 men with ropes to pull a reclining 12-ton statue atop rolling logs. The new experiment was proposed to him by a Czechoslovak engineer, Pavel Pavel, who accompanied Heyerdahl to set it up.

On Wednesday, after the dawn sacrifice of a pig, 20 men tied four long ropes around one of the statues, extending two lines from each side of its head and two from each side of its wide belly near the base

As one gang pulling on the head tilted the statue as far as 30 degrees to the right, the other gang pulled the raised left side of the base forward several inches. Then they switched ropes and stepped the right side forward.

The idol advanced six yards in less than an hour.

"This shows the huge task of transporting all those statues did not require thousands of people, but simply a bit of intelligence and ingenuity," said Sergio Rapu, governor and native archaeologist of the remote Chilean province.

The island, with about 2,060 residents, is also the site of a controversial project to build an emergency airstrip for U.S. space shuttles. In March, soon after Heyerdahl is scheduled to leave, a construction crew is to begin dynamiting a hillside for landfill to lengthen the island's airstrip by

Pope: Open door for India's homeless

TRICHUR, India (AP) — Pope John Paul II today symbolically handed a key to a new home to one of 4,000 homeless people who now live in a park, and told a giant crowd massed in India's Roman Catholic heartland that society should ensure them "the basic necessities of life. The pope, visiting this city in southern India's Kerala state, also blessed 200 newly married Catholic

"The blessing from the pope is a blessing from God. This is the happiest moment of my life," said A.B. Joseph, 26, a newly married grocery store owner. He said he and the other couples were wed at a stadium this morning in a mass wedding performed by the local bishop.

Speaking before 250,000 people, the 65-year-old pontiff warned of a breakdown in family values.

"I am aware that family life in India has traditionally enjoyed the highest esteem and care. Yet today, the family is often beset by many difficulties of various kinds," the

Germans plan flight

BERLIN (AP) - The West German government will go ahead with its plan to charter a 1988 U.S. space shuttle flight despite last month's shuttle disaster, Research Minister Heinz Riesenhuber said.

He told reporters Thursday in Berlin that the government would continue to prepare its Spacelab, a laboratory designed to help astronauts conduct experiments in space, for the 1968 trip. Last year, West Germany sent Spacelab aboard a U.S. shuttle flight in the first NASA flight ever chartered by a foreign government.

But Riesenhuber warned that the Bonn government's plans are dependent on conclusions from an investigation into the Jan. 28 Challenger disaster. Seven U.S. astronauts were killed when the shuttle exploded seconds after takeoff.

Britian reports radiation leak LONDON (AP) - Small amounts of radiation escaped into the atmosphere during a leak at the world's largest nuclear reprocessing plant, a government minister told the House of Commons Thursday. Alastair Goodlad, junior energy minister, described the leak Wednesday at the Sellafield plant in northwest England as "very small." Immediately after the accident, officials had said no radiation leaked outside the plant. The plant extracts uranium and plutonium for reuse from spent nuclear fuel shipped to it from British and foreign power stations.

British Nuclear Fuels Ltd., the operator, said 50 microcuries of plutonium nitrate leaked from a faulty pump. No increase in radioactivity was detected by a permanent monitoring unit on the Cumbrian coast, the company said.

A plant official who would not identify himself said 50 microcuries, if inhaled, "would amount to one fifth of the dose of radiation we all receive normally every day. Company spokesmen stressed there had been no danger to the As the minister spoke, 800 construction workers at the plant were on a half-day strike in protest at not being told about the "amber alert" the previous day. Complaints also came from Northern Ireland, and from environmental groups.

News blackout won't end South African unrest, Koppel says

By FRED ROTHENBERG

NEW YORK (AP) - Let's take an age-old riddle — "If a tree falls in the forest and nobody is there to hear it, does it make a sound?" — and give it a contemporary twist:

If demonstrations against apartheid in South Africa are not recorded by cameras and microphones, will they be heard?

Ted Koppel, anchor of ABC's "Nightline," says yes, emphatically.
"Precisely because (the violence) has been hidden from view, when it boils over — and it will — there will be an even greater sense of shock," he said.

The South African restrictions, against video and audio coverage of demonstrations and violence in areas of unrest, were established Nov. 2. Government officials said the presence of reporters at demonstrations contributed to the violence. They said stories about unrest, and particularly film images from the black townships, helped destroy external financial confidence in South Africa's stability.

Of course, the government also knew the restrictions would keep such violent images off international

Koppel said the strategy is working "in the short-term, but not in the long-term...There is a misconception that because they took the story off the screen, it will go away. But the problems won't go away. They're in South Africa's backyard and they're festering." He said the banking community understands the current situation in South Africa, whether or not it's on TV. Clearly, limiting the coverage of violence has reduced the number of South African stories on the networks' nightly newscasts. According to the networks, ABC, CBS and NBC had 150 stories from South Africa on their weeknight newscasts in August, September and October, but 91 since the ban, in November, December and January.

Kaplan, "Nightline's" executive producer.
"If South Africa had waited and allowed the American media to cover to its heart's content, a certain amount of boredom would have set in," said Koppel. "Let's face it. The story is 8,000 miles away; it's not a backyard issue."

Except that "Nightline," with five extraordinary broadcasts from South Africa last March, had made it more understandable and important to Americans. It also produced more dialogue inside South Africa and even inspired the South Africa. Broadcasting Corp. to start a "Night-

The danger, he said, is when newscasts let the pic-tures become "the tail wagging the

'Thinking man's rock star' back in limelight with new album

By G. BROWN.

Los Angeles Times

Washington Post News Service

To his fans, Al Stewart is considered "the thinking man's rock star," an eclectic singer from Scotland whose songs are based on such atypical subjects as literature, art, cinema and wine.

Stewart's reputation took root in America with 1974's "Past, Present and Future" LP, a concept album about European history that fea-tured the epic "Nostradamus," which focused on the 16th-century

Provencal prophet.

Despite the outside nature of his material, Stewart cracked the Top 5 in 1976 with "Year of the Cat," which was followed by several other chart-ing singles — "Time Passages," "Song on the Radio," "Midnight Rocks." But Stewart then seemed to drop out of commercial favor as quickly as he had been discovered. "I wasn't a very good pop star," Stewart admitted recently while explaining his five-year hiatus from the charts. "If you look at my entire 20-year existence as a performer, it all goes in a straight line — except for 'Year of the Cat.' Since my other they must have been the normality, and 'Year of the Cat' must have been the aberration. It took a while for Stewart to fig-ure that out. "I went from playing to 500 people to 5,000. Stewart was uncomfortable with his sudden fame.

"It all seemed kinda dumb, so I sat down and thought about it. The net result was that I ended up firing just about everybody, plus it took me four years to get out of my recording contract. I tell you, if I had one piece of advice to give to the world, it would be: No matter what you do, nine albums didn't do nearly as well, don't go near a lawyer. One of the they must have been the normality, new songs I've written is 'License to Steal,' which is about exactly that."

A sample verse: "We've got 600,000 attorneys-at-law-And nobody can tell me what we need them all for-We ought to boil them in oil, chastise them and rebuke them-And if that doesn't work, we ought to take them out and nuke them.

So Stewart has spent the past few years rebuilding his career out of Los Angeles, where he has lived since the "Year of the Cat" tour in 1976. But he has forged a lifestyle in his rural canyon home that has little to do with Los Angeles chic.

The revisions of the industrial ceases. The revisions of the industrial waste management program made as a result of the reorganization and remaining of the TDWR do not fall within the ambit of 40 CFR 271.21 (c). This section states that whenever there is a transfer of all or part of a program from an approved State agency to another State agency, the new agency is not authorized to administer the program until approved by EPA under 40 CFR 271.21 (b). EPA does not view the reorganization of the TDWR into the TWC with the attendant savings clause of Section 10.004 (f) of Senate Bill 249 as a transfer within the purview of 40 CFR 271.21 (c). Thus, the authorized industrial hazardous waste program industrial hazardous waste program will continue in the State of Texas without interruption. EPA does consider the transfer of the municipal hazardous waste program for the TDH to the TWC to fall within the meaning of 40 CFR 271.21 (c). Since the TDH authority cassed and the TWC authority for municipal hazardous water is not auunicipal hazardous water is not au-orized until approved by EPA, there municipal hazardous water is not authorized until approved by EPA, there has been a lapse in authority to operote a RCRA program for municipal hazardous waste in Texas until the, TWC is authorized by EPA for this program. The TWC did not issue the RCRA permits to municipal hazardous waste management facilities during this period. In order to minimize any significant impact this lapse of authority had on the program, EPA and the State committed to an aggressive plan of action to keep the lapse time ds' short as possible. This plan included submitting a draft of the program revision to EPA in mid-August, a final program revision in mid-September, and a
