Johnson & Johnson won't make capsules

Johnson & Johnson will no longer produce over-the-counter medicines in capsules because it cannot guarantee their safety, but whoever killed a woman with cyanide-laced Tylenol has not beaten the health care giant,

"What we've done is say, 'You're not going to defeat us."

The decision to stop production came nine days after a New York woman was killed by cyanide-contaminated Tylenol capsules and 31/2 years after seven people in Illinois suffered the same fate. Burke urged users of Tylenol capsules to switch to coated, oval tablets known as "caplets," and said Johnson & Johnson will replace free of Is Tyler cyanide poisoning linked to Tylenol scare?

TYLER (AP) - A 41-year-old Tyler man almost died earlier this month from cyanide poisoning, but laboratory tests have failed so far to confirm the possibility the poison was contained in Tylenol capsules, authorities said.

The Feb. 4 Tyler poisoning was reported to police on Feb. 11, one week after it occurred and three days after a New York woman died after taking a cyanide-laced dose of extra-strength Tylenol.

Tyler Police Capt. Bob Bond said authorities waited until Monday to release details of the poisoning so as to not unduly alarm the public. "Since there were no other poisoning reports and because this appeared to be just an isolated incident, we held off knowing full well that at some point we had an obligation to the local public to reveal the

The victim, whose name was not disclosed, survived the poisoning and was released from the hospital, officials said.

Welch said the only link to Tylenol has been the man's statement that he took two Tylenol capsules on the morning of Feb. 4 and two more about 3 p.m. that day. Immediately after taking the last two capsules, he told doctors, he dropped onto the floor and went into convulsions.

The remaining capsules were sent by hospital personnel to Dallas, where they were analyzed by the FDA, Bond said.

Meanwhile, investigators were still trying to determine whether the bottle whose contents killed 23-year-old Diane Elsroth on Feb. 8 and a second one that surfaced five days later were tampered with during manufacture or when they reached two Bronxville, N.Y., stores. The first bottle was manufactured in Fort Washington, Pa., and the second in Las Piedras, Puerto Rico, J&J officials have said. They were stored within two weeks of each other at a warehouse in Montgomeryville, Pa. On Monday, FBI and Westchester County, N.Y., investigators inspected the Fort Washington plant and the warehouse, but officials would not comment on the trip.

J&J suspended production of Tylenol capsules after Ms. Elsroth's death. The company decided to stop making capsules altogether afterconsumer research and a review of technology found no better way to protect consumers, Burke said.

Burke said the replacement program will cost the company between $100 million and $150 million, but he said the cost did not compare with the suffering of the family of Ms. Elsroth, of Peekskill, N.Y.

Boycott begins in Philippines

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — An opposition boycott protesting the declaration of President Ferdinand E. Marcos as winner of a special election appeared to be taking effect today as banks reported a run of withdrawals and the price of stock in a major corporation fell.

The Philippine peso suffered its biggest single day devaluation in 15 years with the peso-dollar exchange rate climbing from Monday's $19.98 to $22.04 today. A government bank source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, attributed the 10.3 percent devaluation to market nervousness over political instability.

Opposition candidate Corazon Aquino made the call for a boycott of corporations run by friends or associates of Marcos at a huge rally Sunday, shortly after the National Assembly proclaimed Marcos the winner of the Feb. 7 election.

The 20-year incumbent called the election a year early as a test of his popularity. Mrs. Aquino claims voters rejected him, and says she was cheated out of victory by widespread vote

The National Assembly, in which Marcos' New Society Movement has a 2-1 advantage, said Marcos won the election by about 1.5 million votes. Two organizations that provided early, unofficial returns - the National Movement For Free Elections, or Namfrel, and the government's election commission continued to disagree on who was ahead and announced Monday they would continue their counts.

Record-breaking rains create Western floods

Associated Press

A powerful Pacific storm pounded the West today after the heaviest rain in three decades unleashed floods that forced hundreds to flee and released mudslides and avalanches that cut off towns and swept away houses.

Waves of storms, powered by winds up to 100 mph, have left at least six people dead and three missing since striking the coast a week ago. More than 18 inches of rain and 8 feet of snow have hit some areas since the storms arrived.

They were expected to ease by this afternoon, allowing rescuers a chance to evacuate more people before another storm strikes by the end of the week, the National Weather Service

"We see the light right now at the end of the tunnel. We just hope it's not a freight train," forecaster Jim Henderson in Redwood City, Calif., told ABC's "Nightline" late Monday.

Sprayberry, 45, is accused of attempting to force former Justice Court clerk Wanda Niblett to perform a sexual act on him on April 26, 1984. The indictment also includes the lesser charge of false imprisonment.

The evidence will be fairly graphic," Special Prosecutor Andy Shuval told the jury panel as jury selection began late

If convicted of the third-degree felony, Sprayberry faces a possible penalty range of two to 10 years in prison and up to a $5,000 fine. He also faces two misdemeanor charges for allegedly harassing Ms. Niblett, 36, by telephone, and three for barratry, or improperly soliciting cases for an attorney.

The misdemeanor charges were to be tried later at the county-court level.

Sprayberry did not request a change of venue in the much-publicized case. None of the potential jurors raised a hand when asked this morning if they would have trouble being

Barbara Harris reveals candidacy for mayor

From Staff Reports

Longtime Midlander Barbara Harris filed Monday for the office of mayor, becoming the third candidate for that office.

She will oppose former councilman Carroll Thomas and current councilman Steve Davidson. Filing ends at 5 p.m. Wednesday for city positions.

In announcing her candidacy, Ms. Harris said, "I can bring color, intelligence and expertise to the council. I think it's time for the city, state and nation to recognize that we as black people have the ability to preside over government bodies.

Ms. Harris said she would like to see more industry brought to Midland. "It is needed here and would mean more employment for the people. If we keep people in one little corner they never have a chance to prove what they can do. I feel I have the ability. I can communicate with people. I am a people person."

Prince Charles to kick off Sesquicentennial

DALLAS (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles stepped regally off the Brit-ish jet that shuttled him into Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, but the real excitement is scheduled for later in the week when the prince kicks off the state's Sesquicentennial celebration.

ADVERTISEMENT Diet Pill Sweeping U.S.

"Dream Pill" New Super Lose Weight As You Sleep!

No Dieting - Eat All You Want

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. - An amazing new super "dream pill" has recently been developed and perfected that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose up to 10 pounds in 10 days. Best of all, it allows you to "eat as much as you want of your favorite foods and still lose a pound a day or more starting from the very first day until you achieve your ideal weight and figure."

This remarkable new diet pill combines two natural substances which cause adults to lose weight fast by "tricking" the body into acting like a teenager. These nutritional substances, called L-arginine and L-ornithine, stimulate the body's production of growth hormone. Dr. Robert Harris, a specialist in nutritional medicine in Stafford Springs, Connecticut, was recently quoted as explaining: "Growth Hormone may be what's responsible for allowing teenagers to down thousands of calories in hamburgers and other foods and still be thin as a rail. "Growth Hormone is present in people up through the teenage years, then slowly diminishes with age. But L-arginine and Lornithine make the body 'think' it belongs to a teenager again, allowing adults to eat as much as they want - and still be thin and wiry.

"Pill Does All The Work" According to the manufacturer, "the pill itself does all the work while you quickly lose weight with NO starvation 'diet menus' to follow, NO calorie counting, NO exercise and NO hunger pangs." The pill is not a drug! It is 100% safe consisting of natural amino acids just like those found in the foods

you cat everyday. Life Extension Authors

Sandy fell and broke her foot and started taking L-arginine because of its well-known healing qualities. Much to her amazement Sandy lost 25 pounds of fat and put on 5 pounds of firm-toned muscle in six weeks. According to Durk's calculations, the pill caused Sandy to lose 400 times as much fat as she would otherwise have lost - without dieting!

Lose Weight While You Sleep One beautiful thing about these miracle pills is the ease with which they work. You don't have to count calories and you don't have to follow special diets or eat special foods. You don't even have to exercise. The best time to take the pills is just before you go to bed at night. That way, the pounds melt away even as you sleep. You wake up every morning, slimmer, happier and feeling younger!

The super dream pill is already sweeping the country with glowing reports of easy and fast weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slim, trim, and attractive again. Extraordinary Guarantee Place your order now. If you are not completely satisfied with the thinner "new you" simply return the empty container for a full refund of your entire purchase price. No questions asked. Now

"They jumped before we arrived," Santos said. He said hundreds es-caped safely down stairways and 26 people were rescued after firemen dug a hole in an inside wall on the 11th floor of the concrete and marble-facade building.

Dr. Gilberto Masur, a fire department physician, said a third person also jumped and was killed.

It took nearly six hours to contain the flames because of low water pressure, Santos said. "We had to ask the water company to turn up the pressure, and that took about 40 minutes," he said.

Downtown streets were blocked off and firefighters used ladders to reach people stranded in the build-ing, located on busy Almirante Bar-roso Avenue in the heart of Rio's downtown business district.

About 70 reported dead in train crash

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Two crowded passenger trains carrying about 300 people slammed head-on into each other on a bridge damaged last year by a terrorist bomb, the government news service said. Radio reports said today that about 70 peo-

Initial reports indicated that 15 people had been killed, but a radio station in Valparaiso and others in the areas said today the toll had risen to about 70. They said about 200 people had been injured.

A police officer, who spoke on condition he not be identified told The Associated Press in a telephone interview that the reports of the higher death toll were accurate. An official announcement will be made later in the day, he said.

The accident occurred on a bridge where a bomb late last year damaged one of the two sets of tracks, forcing both east- and west-bound trains to use a single track, the company said.

One train, an eight-car express, was traveling east to Santiago from the coastal city of Valparaiso. The other, with seven cars, was headed west to Valparaiso from the Andean city of Los Andes.

Many of the victims were returning from their vacations in the Pacific coastal city of Vina del Mar and other resort cities in the area.

The state rail company, Ferrocarriles del Estado, reported that two of the victims were police officers who were in one of the trains to investigate the theft of electric wire. Both trains were electrically-powered.

The official news agency ORBE said that the trains were going about 60 mph when they collided. Railroad officials said rescue operations continued this morning, and the injured were being transported to hospitals in the area and to Santiago, the capital city. A rail company spokesman, Alberto Araneda, said Monday, "It seems an unfortunate human error" sent the trains on a collision course. The accident occurred at 8:10 p.m. The trains were carrying a total of about 300 passengers, the news agency said. ORBE said the cars piled up

Tests at Medical Center Hospital on the man showed he had injested some type of cyanide. Bond said the man was rushed to the hospital, where doctors used severel extreme measures to keep him alive. Welch said doctors found cyanide in a blood specimen and "so we had some inkling that something had happened to him, and he reported taking Tylenol before collapsing."

Bond said the level of poisoning "at this time is not clear," but he added that it is clear the man was definitely poisoned with cyanide. "But at this stage of the investigation, we don't know who or when or even if the cyanide was put in the capsules," he said.

Theodore Rotto, director of investigations for the Dallas branch of the FDA, refused to disclose the results of his agency's investigation, but said the Tyler poisoning appeared to be an isolated case and not believed to pose a public health threat.

Perot known for more than wealth

DALLAS (AP) - Computer magnate and billionaire H. Ross Perot, the man who receives the prestigious Churchill Award tonight from Britain's Prince Charles, is believed to be the richest man in Texas.

But history will remember him for much more than the billions he's earned as founder of a lucrative computer company.

"We think he's extraordinary," said Harold Epstein, executive director of the Winston Churchill Foundation, which is giving the award. Over the past two decades, Perot has made headlines with such escapades as his thwarted attempt in 1969 to fly into Hanoi to give American prisoners of war medical supplies and Christmas dinners and his prison. The Iranian rescue wound up as a best-selling book, "On Wings of Eagles," now being made into a televison movie in which Richard Crenna will portray Perot.

H. Ross Perot will receive the Churchill Award.

Then, there are less ambitious projects like his $1.5 million purchase last year of one of the original copies of the Magna Charta; his financing of his son's successful attempt to become the first pilot to fly around the world in a helicopter, and his $50,000 donation to financially ailing New York City in 1976 to buy new horses and saddles for its mounted police.

He has over the years donated millions of dollars to diverse causes, including schools, hospitals and a Dallas concert hall for the symphony. but has allowed nothing but a Boy Scout building in Texarkana to be named after him.

Perot is the third person and first businessman to receive the Churchill Award, which was first presented in 1981 to W. Averill Harriman, American statesman and diplomat. British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher received it in 1983.

John Loeb Jr., president of the New York-based Churchill Foundation, said the award goes to a British or American national who reflects he character and ideals Churchill.

Epstein said it was also significant that Perot is not a government person, "because we think the qualities Churchill embodies are not those of statesmen but of men in other walks of life. Born 55 years ago in East Texas. Perot says he's nothing but an ordinary guy, and he looks it with his unimposing stature, 1950s haircut and broken nose. 'A lot of what happened to me was just an accident in timing," he says. "I could have had my idea at the wrong time and I wouldn't have pulled it off.

STORMS

Crews piled sandbags to channel the Truckee River through downtown streets in Reno and Sparks, and the weather service said winds up to 100 mph blew over large trucks in western Nevada.

We've got flooding in a lot of the homes, problems with a lot of the roads — certain areas of different valleys, such as Washoe Valley, are isolated," Otis Turner, commander of the Washoe County flood control center in Reno, said today. "Certain areas such as Hidden Valley are totally isolated because of the water flow at this particular time."

In California's Sierra Nevada, where the storms dropped up to 8 feet of snow, Interstate 80 was expected to remain blocked for up to a week because of a massive rockslide, said Nevada County sheriff's Capt.

Jack Bayer. Another slide covered railroad tracks, forcing an Amtrak passenger train with about 600 people aboard to backtrack to Reno. Amtrak officials said.

An avalanche Monday cut off about 500 people at June Lake, Calif., ski resort near Yosemite National Park, said Lynn McCourtney of the Mono County Sheriff's Department. Another avalanche struck the nearby town of Twin Lakes, but no injuries were reported.

About 600 people were given shelter around Sonoma County, Calif., where flooding isolated the towns of Sebastopol, Guerneville and Monterio, said Kevin Connolly of the county's Office of Emergency Services

In Marin County, a house slid down a hill and injured four people including a woman who was "literally blown out of the house," said Dennis Brown of the county's Emergency Operations Center.

The cities of Napa and Yountville were flooded Monday and about 400 people were evacuated from mobile home parks and houses near the swollen Napa River in California's wine country, said Undersheriff Arthur Thompson.

The National Guard was called out to help in sandbagging and rescue efforts in Napa County and another unit was on standby in Tehama County, where the rising Sacramento River threatened communities around Red Bluff.

The Napa River at St. Helena was more than a foot above the 1955 record level of 18.2 feet, while the Russian River near Guerneville was at 45 feet — 13 feet above flood stage and 4.7 inches short of its 1955 record but still rising, Bob Diaz of the weather service at Redwood City said late

"You'd have to go back to 1955 to find the kind of values that we are seeing in the last 24 to 48 hours." Henderson said of the rain.

In Guerneville, where hundreds were forced to flee their homes during the weekend, officials used helicopters and boats Monday to carry blankets, food and medical supplies to 350 residents stranded in a shelter surrounded by floodwaters, said assistant Sonoma County administrator Mike Crystal.

Sections of U.S. 101, a major northsouth route, were closed by flooding and mudslides in Northern California and Oregon, along with other highways near the coast. In Boulder Creek, the ground was too unstable to search for a woman who was missing after a mudslide destroyed her home, said sheriff's Lt. Jim Bonar.

Midland courthouse officials have excused themselves from the case, which is being heard by District Judge James H. Clack of Andrews. John W. Smith, an Odessa attorney, is representing Sprayberry.

The trial was delayed a month after the first indictment was thrown out on a technicality. Sprayberry was re-indicted Jan. 15. The trial was expected to last most of this week.

In Sprayberry's absence, retired attorney Leonard Howell has been serving in his place, but the trial de-lay extended Howell's term beyond what he originally expected, and the temporary JP is leaving office today.

Midland County Judge William B. Ahders has said he will wait until Sprayberry's felony trial is resolved before considering another temporary appointment, since in the event of a conviction the county commissioners would need to find a permanent successor. Robert H. Pine, Midland's other

JP, has said he could handle the caseload alone for a short time if Sprayberry, a Republican, was first elected JP for place one, precinct one in 1980, and re-elected in 1984 with 94 percent of the vote after winning a three-way primary.

Five blacks die in riots in Johannesburg suburb

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - Residents of a black township set among affluent white suburbs of Johannesburg said five people were killed during a third day of rioting that began after the funerals of two blacks killed in previous protests.

Police confirmed that a mob in Alexandra burned the home of a black policeman Monday, shot and killed him, and burned his body, but said they did not have complete casualty

Confirmation of the five deaths reported by residents would increase the death toll since the Saturday funerals to eight.

Black policemen and town councilors, accused by other blacks of collaborating with the white-led government, often have been singled out as targets during the 17 months of rioting against apartheid, the racial policy that preserves privilege for South Africa's 5 million whites and denies rights to the 24 million

More than 1,100 people have been killed since the violence began, nearly all of them black.

Sinking of ship probed

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) The government began an inquiry today into the sinking of a Soviet cruise ship carrying 739 passengers and crew, and officials rejected the Soviet skipper's suggestion that map errors and a New Zealand pilot were to blame for the accident.

Meanwhile, a naval officer who was involved in rescuing passengers and crew from the Mikhail Lermontov on Sunday night said emergency equipment on board the Soviet liner was in a dangerous state of repair that might have proved fatal had the ship been farther out to sea.

The ship, on a 14-day Pacific cruise, went down in about 100 feet of water about two hours after it hit struck a reef in a channel near the northern tip of New Zealand's South Island.

Rescuers saved all of the 409 passengers and all but one of the Soviet crewmen, an engineer who is presumed to have drowned. Maritime experts said the ship probably could be salvaged.

Quake hits Puerto Rico

WASHINGTON (AP) - The island of Puerto Rico was shaken late Monday by a light earthquake, the U.S. Geological Survey said Tuesday.

The tremor was recorded at a preliminary magnitude of 4.1 on the Richter scale and occurred at 10:59 p.m. Atlantic Standard Time (9:59 p.m. EST). The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. An earthquake of 4 on the Richter sclae can cause moderate damag

Geological Survey earthquake scientists in Golden. Colo., said the tremor Monday was centered near Ponce along the southern coast of Puerto Rico, about 40 miles southwest of San Juan. It was felt throughout the island and there were reports that dishes were knocked off shelves in Ponce.

Election core of conflict

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - The crackdown on dissidents who oppose South Korea's method of selecting a president underlines the paradox of a country with a history of authoritarian rule that has staged an economic miracle and developed a prosperous middle class.

The current conflict between the government of President Chun Doohwan and dissidents has its roots in National Assembly elections held on Feb. 12, 1985, and the emergence of the opposition New Korea Democratic Party, which surprised many and alarmed some with its second-place

On the first anniversary of the elections, the party followed through on months of heated political activity by launching a campaign for revisions in the constitution the Chun government promulgated in

Ancient remains found

PEKING (AP) — Archaeologists have unearthed the remains of an ancient tribe, 107 tombs in which the skeletal remains indicate that all died before the age of 50, the Xinhua news agency reported today. It said the site also included a sacrificial altar.

The report said a three-month dig on the capital city's northern outskirts led to the discovery of the tombs and 1,000 artifacts of the Shanrong tribe, which lived near Peking 2,500 years ago.

The altar of 15 large boulders in an oval shape around a taller rock may have been used for sacrifices honor ing ancestors or neighboring mountains, the report said. It did not say what kind of sacrifices were made.

Man killed in avalanche

HOPE, British Columbia (AP) -An avalanche hit two men as they snowshoed along a highway in this town east of Vancouver, killing one of them, police said.

The second man was buried in the snow Monday, but managed to dig his way out and contacted the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Police did not release the names of

Israeli troops attack villages in Southern Lebanon

TYRE, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli troops backed by tanks, gunships and missile boats stormed southern Lebanese villages and reportedly battled hand-to-hand with Shiite Amal militiamen today, the second day of a search for two soldiers captured by Moslem guerrillas.

Beirut radio charged that the sweep was an "outright new invasion" by Israel, and said Lebanese militia fighters engaged the Israelis in several Shiite Moslem villages.

Witnesses said Israel poured hundreds of armored personnel carriers, tanks and buses filled with soldiers across the mountainous border into Lebanon at first light.

They reinforced more than 600 tank-led Israeli troops who punched north Monday from their buffer zone in southern Lebanon behind a screen of strafing helicopter

The Israelis moved into between 15 and 20 Shitte Moslem villages and advanced 12 miles north of the occupied zone, but failed to locate the two soldiers captured in an ambush inside the security zone earlier Monday.

It was the first capture of Israelis reported since Israel pulled most of its forces out of southern Lebanon fast June after three years of occupation.

In Israel, the state radio quoted Prime Minister Shimon Peres as saying during a tour of Tel Aviv that Israel will not give up the search "until we discover the tracks of the kidnappers.' Reporters waiting near the Israeli border village of Biranit heard machinegun fire rippling across the hills of southern Lebanon at midplanes in Lebanese skies.

Israeli warplanes crashed the sound barrier over the southern ports of Tyre and Sidon as well as Beirut, causing window-rattling son-

Lebanon's state radio said helicopter-borne Israeli troops landed at the Shiite village of Srifa just north of the Litani River while mechanized units stormed Kfar Dounin in the south of the river.

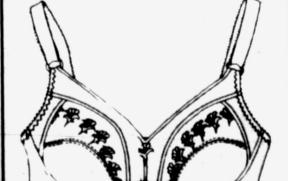

State radio said fighters of the largest Shiite militia, Amal, clashed in hand-to-hand combat with Israeli troops in and around Srifa, and that four militiamen were wounded.

The radio said Israeli troops ringed Tibnine, the command of the U.N. Interim Force in Lebanon's Irish battalion.

The opening lead has given you an extra chance—finding East with the ten of hearts. Win the ace of hearts, draw trumps and cash the ace-king of diamonds. Now lead the jack of hearts, forcing West to cover. You ruff in dummy, and trump a diamond in hand to eliminate that suit. Next lead the nine of hearts.

If West covers, you must ruff and fall back on the club suit for your contract. If he does not produce the ten, discard a club from the table. As the cards lie, East must win, but now he is indeed end played.

North felt sure his partner had to have either the ace or king of diamonds for his opening bid, so the venture was safe. Against six spades West made his normal lead of the king of hearts. Declarer's problem was to avoid losing two tricks in clubs, and the simple way to accomplish that was to try the club finesse, which had a 50 percent chance of succeeding. Today, however, was not one of those winning days.

You can improve on that line by drawing trumps and eliminating the red suits. Then you must hope that West is not at his most alert and lead

Singer Willie Nelson wants to bring Farm Aid to Fourth of July picnic

AUSTIN (AP) - Singer Willie Nelson wants the next Farm Aid concert to be held along with his annual Fourth of July picnic here if he can work out the details.

Nelson said he wants to hold the concert at Memorial Stadium on the University of Texas campus or at South Park Meadows, the outdoor concert site where his July Fourth picnics have been held for the past two years. The singer, who's a native of Texas, had said previously he wanted to follow up on

With the help of singers Neil Young and John Cougar Mellencamp, Nelson organized last year's Farm Aid concert, shown to a national television audience, to help ailing family farmers.

Viewers who phoned a toll-free number pledged $8 million to $10 million, Nelson said. He said Home Box Office later paid the benefit fund $400,000 for rights to broadcast taped segments of the show Farm Aid funds are being managed and distributed by Nelson and a committee of his business

The singer said about $4 million has been spent so far to provide legal and financial advice to farmers and on other programs. He said an endowment fund to provide scholarships for students in Future Farmers of America is being created.

About $1 million in food and direct assistance is being sent out this week, Nelson said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Paul Stewart, a veteran actor and director who made his film debut in Orson Welles' "Citizen Kane" and whose career also encompassed stage, radio and television, died Monday

Stewart died of heart failure at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, said hospital spokesman Ron Wise. The Hollywood resident had been suffering from a lengthy illness, according to Bert Freed, a friend. Stewart had hoped that his tough good looks would lead to starring roles such as those that went to Humphrey Bogart or Clark Gable. "I thought I'd have a chance," he once said. "But I mm! The Federal Reserve Board says that $136 billion, 88 percent of all the money in circulation throughout the country, is unaccounted for — out of pocket, so to speak.

The board's at a loss to explain the situation. Actually, if these money experts would really think about it, there would be no

First of all, the Fed should consider that women do most of the shopping in this country. Say they get $100 a week allowance for groceries. Do they spend it all? No way. They pocket $5, hiding it behind the ironing board or in the cookie jar each week. After awhile their little cache counts up to quite a bundle, enough for a trip to Las Vegas.

Or, for another example, take men. Perhaps they win $60 in the office football pool. Do they come home and exclaim, "Look what I won?" Are you kidding? They carefully roll it into a tight little wad and hide it behind the light switch in the bathroom or beneath the work bench in the garage. Something for a rainy

Then there are the coin collectors. In bureau drawers across this nation there are literally billions in silver dollars, dimes and quarters, in gold coins and paper bills that read "Silver Certificate.

Collectors are well aware that if they put their coins and bills in a bank, they will never see them again. So the money sits there in the dark, behind the handkerchiefs — out of sight, out of mind.

And, of course, there are children's piggy banks, jars of pennies, parking-meter change in glove compartments, change left in the coin returns of vending machines. Oh, the money's out there, scattered all over the country.

All this doesn't count up to $136 billion? Perhaps not. There's bound to be a bit more cash tucked away in mattresses and buried in back yards.

'Anniversary' plans criticized

President Reagan's austerity budget, the National Archives will no longer be able to support scholarly research on the founding of our government. Yet the president has allotted $12 million to a commission of noteworthy citizens to advise him on the celebration of the Constitution's 200th anniversary

This triumph of form over substance is perhaps best illustrated in the contrast between two proposed undertakings one that the White House wants to eliminate and one that

Jack Anderson has the enthusiastic support of the bicentennial commission staff.

The Archives budget cut would kill grants for research, including the Madison Papers Project, a definitive study of the voluminous records left by James Madison on the drafting of the Constitution. Madison was the principal architect of what is arguably the most important document in the history of democracy. The project that the bicentennial commission is pushing would construct yet another monument on the Mall in Washington, an area already sinking under the weight of marble memorials. According to internal commission documents, serious consideration is being given to a "Founding Fathers Hall/Constitution Center" that will include "a white marble wall on which the Constitution would be etched in gold letters." The hope is that the monument will be built "entirely from private contributions.' Foreign governments will be encouraged to contribute.

Ronald Mann, the commission's deputy staff director, told our associate Donald Goldberg that the mon-

ASHINGTON - Under ument would cost anywhere between $100 million and $150 million. He said the building and wall are just one of several plans being considered, including a Constitution Park and a statute of the men who adopted the Constitution in 1787. All the proposals will be submitted to the commission so a choice can be made and a finance committee set up to run the fund-raising drive.

Dr. Raymond Smock, a historian with the House of Representatives, pointed out that a monument to the Constitution already exists — right on the Mall. The National Archives, a stately neo-classical building on Constitution Avenue, houses the original Constitution, the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights and other priceless historical documents - so many, in fact, that it is bursting at the seams.

"If we build a new building, let's build a new Archives," Smock told a private gathering recently. "We don't need a separate new center of learning on the Mall, when we already have within walking distance the Library of Congress, the National Archives and the Smithsonian

The proposal to build an expensive monument to a living document strikes Smock as impractical. It also reminds the historian of two earlier attempts at anniversary pageantry that turned into fiascos.

In 1784, artist Charles Willson Peale built a four-story arch in downtown Philadelphia to celebrate the end of the Revolutionary War. But he had so many fireworks at the edifice's christening that it caught fire. Peale barely escaped with his

In 1976, the city of Baltimore created the world's biggest birthday cake to mark the Bicentennial. Floating on a barge in the harbor, the cake collapsed and sank ingloriously as thousands cheered.

Footnote: Though the Constitution gave sacred status to freedom of the press, the Constitution bicentennial commission has excluded the press from its deliberations. It has, meanwhile, proposed that Sept. 17, 1987.

be declared a one-time national holiday. That's the 200th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution. It's also the 80th birthday of the commission chairman, Chief Justice Warren

MEAT AX AT WORK: Cost-cutting measures inspired by the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing act could cost you more at the meat counter. Here's why: The Agriculture Department's Food Safety and Inspection Service will probably cut corners by furloughing inspectors and cutting back on their overtime. The effect will be less meat inspected, and a supply that falls short of demand which will bring higher prices.

UNDER THE DOME: Some members of Congress were unpleasantly surprised to learn that their office budgets are subject to Gramm-Rudman cutbacks, but Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., is unruffled. He never uses his budget allotment anyway. This year, for example, he could have spent $903,177; he used only about $500,000. Zorinsky aides note that the $871,710 their boss will get next year would even be enough for some pay raises.

MINI-EDITORIAL: A glance at Washington Dossier magazine, a haute monde monthly published in the nation's capital, reveals that when the rich complain about prices, they aren't talking about milk and bread. In what must be a tonguein-cheek takeoff on the government's cost-of-living index, Dossier maintains a "Cost of Living Well Index," which charts the montly price changes in such items as French and Italian truffles, Russian sable coats, $175 Gucci loafers and $30-per-pound Kron chocolates. Personally, as long as they don't tinker with the prices of Hush Puppies and Hershey bars, we won't complain.

CHARLEY REESE Rustbucket philosophy disastrous

HARLOTTESVILLE, VA.- I have paused just east of the Blue Ridge on my journey to the Rustbucket to collect my thoughts and meet a deadline. Without a doubt, I am part of the problem I'm going to report.

I'm driving a Toyota and I'm writing on a Radio Shack computer that was made in Japan. Those two things — imports and American capital fleeing overde-industri-alizing America. If we are going to understand what is happening to us — and I think it is as momentous as a major war — then we have to keep in mind there are two separate factors involved in de-industrialization.

One is economic. The other is human. Of the two, the economic factor is the simplest to deal with. Competition in the marketplace simply means you have to produce something people want at a price they are willing to pay. Since labor is a large part of a manufactured product's cost, one way to reduce that cost is to move where labor is cheap. Labor is cheap in Mexico, Hong Kong, Korea, Taiwan and even in Japan.

Anywhere there are more people than jobs and no safety net, people will work for what they can get and be darned glad to do it. The so-called work ethic is a euphemism for hard necessity. We have a labor surplus — about 7 million unemployed - but we also have both an extensive welfare system and labor laws that prevent our labor surplus from dramatically lowering labor costs. Labor costs are falling, but slowly.

So increasingly American manufacturing is going overseas. Industry Week magazine, which has done the best job of reporting on de-industrialization, says firm statistics on the extent of capital flight are hard to

The National Association of Manufacturers, however, reports that utilization of U.S. manufacturing capacity has dropped from 88 percent in 1973 to 81.7 percent in 1984. This drop is despite an economic recovery.

The International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers has lost 170,000 members in the last three years. You see, when a large manufacturing facility moves overseas, not only are those workers unemployed, but the small to medium businesses that supplied the manufacturer are wiped out. As manufacturing employment has declined to one of five jobs in 1980, the new jobs President Reagan likes to talk about have been generated in services. But these are generally much lower paid jobs. In 1982. for example, average weekly earnings in manufacturing were $331 but only $245 in finance, insurance and real estate, $225 in personal and business services, and $198 in wholesale and retail trade. Moving the work force from a high pay job to a low pay job means a lower standard of living. So while the corporations can solve their economic problem by moving manufacturing to cheap labor countries, the social problem remains. Money moves easily, but human beings don't.

We will have the same number of people in our country whether they are working or not working, collecting welfare or paying taxes. The Congressional Budget Office estimates that 1 percent unemployment translates into $28 billion to $35 billion cost to the federal government in lost tax revenues and increased expenditures. In short, there is no way to eliminate the federal deficit without reducing unemployment. Much of this is a result of wrong government policies. Most of our for eign competitors are competing with factories financed by American banks, direct foreign aid, and American contributions to the World Bank. With steel mills shutting down in Pennsylvania and Ohio, the U.S. government is financing steel mills in China. I have never understood why Chrysler had to beg help from the federal government while New York banks were financing the Kama River truck factory in the Soviet Union. The government has done little to protect Americans from either imports or capital flight. Forty-four percent of the output of U.S. owned but foreign-based manufacturing facilities was sold in the U.S. in 1977 and that figure is surely much higher today

The time bomb in de-industrialization, however, are the political consequences. The United States escaped a lot of the political turmoil that has plagued other countries because we always had a huge middle class. De-industrialization will destroy that middle class. We will end up with a small, very rich elite and a large proletariat. That is the traditional formula for revolution. One of things I'm going to do is take the temperature of the proletariat in the Rustbucket.

A passionate eulogy

No less great is Mr. Wheeler than his friend, for the thoughtful, compassionate eulogy given Astronaut Ellison Onizuka, victim of the tragedy of our treasured Challenger.

The truth is there is a golden thread of greatness coursing through the veins of every American, natural or adopted, connecting us all to that yoke of ecstacy called freedom.

Whether it be an astronaut, a small child shot in a foreign air terminal, a crippled man murdered in his wheelchair on a pleasure cruise, a shackled hostage in a dark room in Lebanon, an MIA in Vietnam, or an abused child, we care about our citizens.

To those who are ambitious to change our system through the muzzle of a gun, we say to them, beware the recoil.

Thank you, Thomas S. Wheeler. Tom H. Stovell Midland

Letters Policy

The Reporter-Telegram welcomes letters on various topics. We prefer typed or printed letters; handwritten letters must be legible. They should be signed and contain writer's address and telephone numbers, home and work, for possible verification.

We do not publish anonymous or open letters or copies of letters sent to others. We reserve the right to condense and correct spelling, grammar and punctuation. Letter writers ordinarily are limited to one publication per month. They may appear on any day of publication.

late harpoon from the Fed." commented a senior Republican senator, one of the few insiders let in on the closely-held matter. The harpoon was deflected by fast footwork from the White ouse and GOP senators, and two new Federal Reserve governors were confirmed by the Senate Feb. 5 But scars may linger from an incident out of keeping with the fraternal attitude traditional inside the Fed and which almost everybody in the know is eager to forget. It augments the new reality that, for the first time since his historic chairmanship began in 1979, Paul Volcker has less than total mastery over central bank operations.

Late 'harpoon' scars Fed board

The two new governors — Angell and former Treasury assistant secretary Manuel Johnson — will help form a four-member Reagan-picked majority that could conceivably outvote Volcker 4-to-3. Generally, they are more interested in economic growth than the chairman. Specifically, they may vote a discount rate drop that Volcker has resisted.

The Fed bureaucracy has poohpoohed such speculation, pointing to Senate confirmation testimony by Angell and Johnson that, not surprisingly, politely complimented Volcker. Actually, Johnson has been one of the administration's foremost supply-siders, who favors tax cuts and a monetary standard - both contrary to Volcker's precepts. Nevertheless, the Fed staffers claimed Johnson soon would be a faithful Volckerite.

They seemed a little less confident about Angell, a banker-farmer-economist sponsored for the Fed by his fellow Kansan, Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole. He has not hidden his desire to make the central bank's policy more responsive to commodity prices.

Coincidentally or not, Angell was the subject of that wholly-unexpected call from the Fed to the White House. The president's men were flabbergasted. Dole was furious. How could Angell get through the clearance process and Senate hearings without the derogatory information coming to light?

The dossier sent over by the Fed alleged no illegality, but questioned commodity investments by Angell's banks. Since that could hardly keep him off the board, why did the Fed heave the late harpoon? The answer by some insiders on Capitol Hill: to delay confirmation for Angell and Johnson long enough for them to miss last week's Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) meeting.

It did hold up Senate Banking Committee polling on both nominations temporarily. Angell was contacted on a Western trip, and pleaded his case to Sen. Jake Garn, the Banking Committee chairman. It was soon decided the whole affair was much ado about nothing. Polling of the committee resumed after a delay of only a few days, with nearly all of Washington unaware of the incident. Angell and Johnson attended last week's FOMC sessions.

Among the few who know about it, the question persists whether the harpoon was tossed by Chairman Voicker, or whether he possibly could have no knowledge of it. In a somewhat heated telephone discussion with the White House, Volcker said that was strictly the business of the general counsel's office and that he was not concerned.

While most parties would rather not talk about the incident, it is not forgotten by Dole, by the White House or by Voicker's new colleague, Wayne Angell. That is the unspoken background as the Federal Reserve Board faces a decision whether to follow Volcker's supercautious anti-inflationary stance or, instead, reduce the discount rate to take the growth path favored by the administration. Whichever course is taken, the events last month suggest the Fed governors now are less than a band of brothers.

Texas Ranger Sid Merchant said all three had been shot in the head sometime Monday, and a .22-caliber semiautomatic pistol was found. He said a heater gas valve had been turned on, possibly to confuse the

The three dead were identified as Dorothy Seedig, in her 50s; her daughter, Julie Dennis, 32, and Mrs. Dennis' daughter, Mellissa, about 3

Shackelford County sheriff's offi-cers were unavailable for comment, but Merchant said no one had been arrested in the case. Merchant said several people were being questioned, but whether they were suspects in the deaths was not known.

Two next-door neighbors said the sheriff's office was called when they found the doors to Mrs. Seedig's red brick house locked, the shutters drawn and the smell of natural gas coming from the house

One of the neighbors, Joe Malaer, said Albany Elementary School offi-cials called him when Mrs. Dennis failed to pick up her other daughter

When the call came at about 2:30 p.m., Malaer said he went to the house and found it locked. At 4 p.m., he said, school employees brought the child to his house.

Another neighbor, Cliff Hawkins, said state trooper Dan Walker kicked in the front door and they went inside to cut off the gas valve to the floor heater.

Hawkins said the gas smell was so overpowering, "we stayed in about two minutes.

Then, Walker found the bodies in the bedroom, he said.

Merchant said the gas apparently had been turned on to "sabotage" the scene. He theorized that the killings occurred some time Monday edge, who had eluded the law for almost a year, has pleaded innocent to charges of alleged securities violation and misapplication of investor funds.

Prosecutors accuse the 31-yearold Pampa native of setting up a pyramid scheme and bilking investors of more than $1 million. Etheredge is the founder of the now-defunct Bethany Trust Co. He was arraigned Monday before State District Judge Don Cain, who read a list of 18 charges against him.

Appearing in court without his lawyer, Etheredge said he was "absolutely" innocent on each of the charges.

Cain set the case for trial March 10, but Assistant District Attorney David Hamilton said that it is likely the case won't come to trial until April.

Described by some who know him as a devout Christian who grew up in Pampa and often quotes the Bible, Etheredge spent time in state prison after he was convicted on two felony counts of theft of more than $200 in Wil-

ACU professors cleared of teaching evolution

ABILENE (AP) — Trustees of Abilene Christian University voted their support of two biology professors accused of advocating evolution in their classrooms last year.

ACU President Dr. William J. Teague announced the trustees' decision and the concurrence of the cision, and the concurrence of the university's Senior Board and National Board, at the end of a Monday night session of ACU's annual Bible Lectureship.

The two professors, although they were not identified to a lectureship audience, or in a nine-page committee report that exonerated them. had been identified elsewhere as Dr. Ken Williams, professor of biology, and Dr. Archie Manis, associate professor of biology.

Abilene Christian University is a college operated by the Church of Christ.

Also during the lectureship, Dr. B.J. Humble, an ACU Bible professor, called for unity in Christendom, and called on members of the Churches of Christ to recognize that the whole "body of Christ" is not limited to those who are members of 12,000 listed congregations of the Churches of Christ.

Concerning Williams and Manis, the trustees endorsed an investigating committee report that found "no evidence" that the two sought to convince their students of the truth of organic evolution, or intended to undermine the faith of their students in the truth of the Bible.

The report rebutted accusations by Dr. Bert Thompson, an ACU graduate and microbiologist by training.

Thompson operates a publishing company, teaches at an Alabama Bible college, and travels over much of the country giving lectures attacking evolution.

Thompson, in a 200-page booklet published early in 1986, asserted that

Corporate support for Challenger fund lacking

AUSTIN (AP) - Co-chairmen of an organization seeking to raise funds to replace the space shuttle Challenger said Monday they have received offers of individual support from across the country but not from corporate America.

John Ortego and Steve Koch of the Americans for Challenger said they are "receiving inquiries and offers of support from across the country. Although bolstered by the success of our efforts, the support we hoped would be forthcoming from corporate America has not yet materialized.

"The ability to mount and maintain an expanding fund-raising activity is dependent on the support of American business."

Ortego and Koch said they had established a Challenger trust fund at Republic Bank-South Austin under the authority of the non-profit Space Foundation, which was founded in Houston by scientists in 1979.

overwhelling evidence showed that Williams and Manis were teaching organic evolution as factual.

As evidence, Thompson cited the testimony of a student — identified elsewhere as Mark Scott — and a "handout" from one of Manis' spring 1986 classes titled "Evolution Notes." In the margin of "Evolution Notes," Manis penned the words

"hymn" and "myth."

Thompson said the words, along with other materials he was sent, proved the case against the two professors "beyond any shadow of a doubt.'

"Hymn" and "myth" are terms used by "modernists" who assert that the first two chapters of Genesis are not to be taken literally, Thompson wrote in his publication, "Is Genesis Myth?"

The investigating committee accepted a Dec. 8 statement from Manis in which he defined "myth" as a "body of information essential to understanding a culture, whether the information is true or false."

In the same statement, Manis said he used the word "hymn" to denote "the brevity, grace and beauty of the Genesis account.

In his Dec. 8 statement, Manis said he used the handouts "without thinking how they would look to someone not in the class." He pledged not to use the handout again, and to annotate fully future handouts

Manis explained that his purpose in handing out "Evolution Notes" was "to warn his students to expect such things in their studies after leaving ACU, and to prepare them to deal with them."

The committee in its report said it interviewed 105 current ACU biology students, and found 101 positive to strongly positive in support of the accused professors.

A storm battered the West with heavy rain, snow and high winds today while snow, freezing drizzle and fog plagued the Northeast and severe thunderstorms rumbled through the Southeast.

The Pacific storm prompted flash flood warnings and watches for much of northern and central California and raised fears of more mudslides like ones that have forced road closures.

A winter storm warning was in effect for the Sierra Nevada range of California, the Lake Tahoe area and the mountains of central and south-west Idaho. The National Weather Service warned that heavy, wet snow posed a danger of avalanches.

Snow-prompted travelers' advisories were widespread in Washington state, Oregon, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and North Dakota.

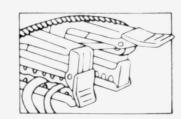

High wind warnings covered the southern Sierra Nevada, western Nevada and the San Francisco Bay re-

That plum dangling from the rafters of Chaparral Center tonight is a state Class 5A bi-district basketball playoff berth. Either Midland High or Midland Lee will take a bite

The 8 p.m. classic is the season finale for one of these teams, but to the other goes the playoff berth against Amarillo High, the District 3-5A champion. Actually, tonight's game is a District 45A playoff in itself. Both of these teams finished district play with identical 11-3 marks, thanks to Midland High's 49-47 victory over Lee Friday night.

That's why they are playing this one again and that's why this contest is the talk of Midland. Not only is a playoff berth at stake, but this is the first time in history that these two schools have met each other four times in one season. It's special no matter how you look at it.

Even though the two teams have met three times already this year, you could make a good case that both teams own a 2-1 advantage in this year's series

MHS defeated Lee by three points in the Tall City tournament early in the season, but ended up having to forfeit that contest to Lee for playing an ineligible player.

Lee won the second game by five points, ending a six-game 4-5A streak by the Buildogs and knocking them out of sole possession of first place.

Then came Friday's two-point win by MHS, forcing another faceoff and a "Who is really better?" finish. The answer will come tonight, making half of Midland ecstatic and the other half miserable. There's no way to avoid that.

And both teams have big reasons for wanting to win this game other than the fact that it is another MHS-Lee war, which has been reason enough for a crusade even when it didn't really mean anything.

Lee wants its second consecutive playoff berth because it left the state playoffs on a sour note a year ago in an overtime loss to Amarillo Palo Duro in the infamous, "Non-Shot Heard Around West Texas." That was the game when Anthony Dickens game winning basket was finally disallowed when the game ending gun failed to fire. Lee coach Paul Stueckier still hasn't gotten over

And Midland High coach Jack Stephenson would love to have another shot at Amarillo High. In 1984, during MHS' last trip to the playoffs, the Bulldogs dropped an overtime loss to Amarillo High. In that game, Willis Ratliff tried to dunk the ball on an easy layup chance and missed it. That would have given the Bulldogs a five-point lead in the last minute of play, but instead, AHS tied the game and won it in overtime. MHS invented this way to lose long before Texas Tech used the ploy twice this year.

Either way there is a lot of incentive - a lot of "we deserve to be ther-

" thinking. In the first district game between the two teams, Lee got a combined 63 points from Lee Dixon, Dickens and Eddie Riley while MHS got 23 from Matt Sears and 21 from Elvin Mackey. The score was 70-65.

It was a game where Lee defeated the Bulldogs at their own game, running past MHS' press defense and turning transition breaks into quick

But last Friday, MHS pulled the surprise by dropping the press and forming a box-and-one defense that held Dixon, Dickens and Riley to 24 points combined. It was Greg Johnson, who scored a district high 14 points, to keep Lee in the game.

Sears had another big game for MHS with 17 points while Mackey had 11 and Anthony Deande 10.

Who will be the hero tonight? That's what will make this whole thing interesting.

Even though Sears scored 17 points Friday, his season average slipped to 19.9, the first time this season it has been below the 20-point per game mark.

Lee's Dixon was held to a mere nine points and his average slipped

And the matchup at post between Mackey and Dickens is special. Dickens held the upper hand in the first district meeting with an edge of 25-21 in scoring and 16-12 in rebounds.

Herring opts for new color Panthers 2

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Assistant Sports Editor

Ken Herring, the former defensive coordinator at Odessa Permian, told the Reporter-Telegram Monday that he has been offered the head football coaching position at Class 4A

Fort Stockton "I've been offered the job, but the Fort Stockton school board will meet Tuesday night to make it official." said Herring

If Herring's appointment is finalized today in Fort Stockton, he will replace long-time Panther coach John Blocker, who resigned the position recently after the school board had asked him to come back at that

Herring had been in the Permian system for 13 years and many thought he was the heir apparent to John Wilkins when Wilkins resigned at Permian to replace the retiring Jack Brewer as the Ector County

School District's athletic director. A few heads were turned when Wilkins' search committee went with Gary Gaines for the Permian head coaching job. Gaines, too, had supporters since he had a successful program at Monahans and had previously been in the Permian system. He was basically running the Permian scheme at Monahans.

With both coaches having a backing in Odessa, the final choice was bound to cause a stir. Herring became the odd man out and asked to be reassigned within the school system while he looked for another coaching job.

Twe been monitoring detention halls since I was reassigned," said Herring, who can now find it a little easier to crack a joke. "I guarantee you that will make you want to get out of the coaching profession in a

The Fort Stockton position will be Herring's first head coaching job.

"I'm really thrilled at the prospect of going to Fort Stockton. The main draw is the facilities they have. They have everything you could want in that area. They have a great weight program and space," he said. Herring was visiting Midland Lee Monday to take a look at Lee's offseason program.

"I can't believe the facilities that Lee has. It's got to be one of the worst I've seen in Class 5A in terms of inside space," said Herring. "It just shows you what kind of job of coaching is being done here.

Herring hasn't had much contact with his new team members, but is looking forward to getting started.

Chaps still perfect, rout FPC, 86-57

From Staff Reports

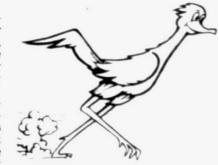

BORGER - The No. 4 ranked Midland College Chaparrals kept their unbeaten record alive Monday night, running the string to 27 consecutive games with an 86-57 Western Junior College Athletic Conference victory here over Frank Phillips College.

If the Chaps' winning ways continue, they will tie the two-season consecutive winning streak of 29 games Monday against Western Texas at Chap Center and they can break the record the following Thursday at Clarendon in the final game of the

The victory also gave the Chaps a 130 WJCAC record and, with three games left to play, they clinched no worse than a tie for first place.

On Thursday, the Chaps are on the road again when they take on the Odessa College Wranglers in 1,500seat Odessa College Student Activities Center. OC, after losing 54-52 to Howard College Monday, is on the verge of being eliminated from the Region V tournament with a 7-5 Against Frank Phillips, the Chaps got off to a slow start, trailing the Plainsmen, 104 in the early minutes. However, it wasn't to last.

MC coach Jerry Stone called a time out to reorganize his troops and his Chaps responded by running off a 16-2 spurt to take a 20-12 lead. They went on to claim a 37-25 margin at the half and FPC was never closer than 12 in the second half.

Thrills not what they once were

Once there was a time the mere mention that Meadowlark Lemon, Curly Neal and Gator Rivers were coming to town could send the tingles straight up the spine in anticipa-tion of the laughs and basketball wizardry sure to be in store for all those lucky enough to secure a ticket. The game was all show, starting long before the buzzer ever sounded and the gags never stopped. We can all remember the buckets of confetti thrown on officials, timekeepers or whoever else Meadowlark could find to pick on. Someone always lost his shorts and the Globetrotters always

And the basketball. Oh my, the basketball was unlike any these eyes

The barrage of blind, behind-the-back passes, over-the-shoulder hooks and baskets bounced in from every inconceivable angle. The Globetrot-ter theme blared in the background and basketballs spun endlessly on what seemed like every finger.

AND THEN the game would start. Neal and Rivers fired up 40-foot jumpers, the crack of the nets roaring above the cheers of the crowd. Then, just when they seemed sure to the ball would bank off the backboard and through the rim, much to our delight.

With Meadowlark running the floor like a grand master, the Globetrotters were an unbelievable show, thrilling audiences on every conti-nent, in front of millions of people. Although several years distant from his Harlem Globetrotter days, Lemon is back on the road with a new traveling troupe of hard court

And after more than 20 years of the grind, Lemon is hoping he can spread cheer through his comedic basketball talents once again. Mon-day night at the Chaparral Center, Lemon was also showing a little "middle age spread" of his own.

THE "CLOWN Prince of Basketball" led his latest troop of hard court hi-jinxers, the Shooting Stars, to the Tail City for some fun and games on the second stop of a five-city tour of the Sputhwest. Lemon brought along a handful of his Harlem Globetrotter pals as well. Curly Neal, Gator Rivers and Love Bug Venable joined Meadowlark for the evening of slapstick fun.

Never mind that some of the aging
Stars couldn't hold their own on the court with Midland College, this night was purely for fun. Forget the final score and enjoy the artistry and trickery and laugh along with

But time is catching up with Lemon and the rest of his gang.

Over-the-shoulder hooks and bounce pass baskets don't tickle the nets like they once did.

Passes bounce out of bounds unat-tended more often now. Three-point shots clang the rim and bounce away more frequently than I remember.

ONLY IN spurts could Lemon call on the old magic. Always a "cherry picker," his gait is leisurely now, more than it ever was. Most of the night he didn't even make it down to the other end of the floor. But there he was, calling out to the crowd, hassling the referee, toying with the opposition. Smiling and jok-ing the whole time.

The powerful slam dunks from earlier days were there, but the electricity wasn't. You can see dunks with more flair at any NBA game. How could any dunk compare with what Spud Webb did in the Slam Dunk contest at last week's All Star way as I looked around the crowd.

Did anyone else remember the way I remembered?

All around me children were wideeyed and laughing. The jokes were all funny and fresh. Meadowiark and Curly Neal had a toothy smile for each one of them. The trick shots all fell in for them.

I LEFT wondering just who it was setting older, myself or the smiling aces having fun down on the besetball court. I only wish the answer weren't so

Navy's course is still set on full speed ahead.

The Midshipmen, who hadn't been in The Associated Press Top Twenty since a preseason tie for 19th, celebrated its new No. 17 ranking Monday night with a 66-51 Colonial Athletic Association victory over

William & Mary.

Navy is 22-4 thanks to an eightgame winning streak and 15 of 16 and William & Mary Coach Barry Parkhill said he "thought all along that they were a Top Twenty team." Helping to convince him even more was 6-foot-11 David Robinson, who scored 19 points, grabbed 14 re-bounds and blocked eight shots.

Navy's Robinson, who entered the game rated first in the nation with an average of 6.1 blocks per game, scored five of his points during a 17-0 first-half run that turned a 14-12 squeaker into a 31-12 laugher. Joining Robinson in double figures was guard Kylor Whitaker, who scored 10 of his 16 points in the second half.

"We want the recognition now at the end of the year, and if we can maintain it until the end of the season we'll be happy," said Navy Coach Paul Evans. "It can only help us in the NCAA Tournament seedings."

Top Ten

No. 9 Syracuse 69, Pitt 62

Dwayne "Pearl" Washington Jerry Tarkanian cleared his bench scored 23 points, including six key points down the stretch as Syracuse. 23-1 over-all and 12-1 in the Big East, pulled away in the final 1:34. Trailing 55-54, Syracuse scored six straight points for a 60-55 lead with 5:35 remaining. Pitt again pulled within one point at 62-61 but Washington dribbled into the lane for an eightfooter with 1:34 to go and added two free throws at the 52-second mark to make it 66-61.

"When he wants to score, he can score," Coach Jim Boeheim said of Washington, who has averaged 28 points over his last five games. "A lot of people expect miracles from him, and sometimes he delivers. When the game is on the line, you want the ball in his hands.'

and Fullerton responded with a 20-2 spree, forcing Tarkanian to bring his starters back with three minutes left and the lead down to 86-78.

No. 16 Louisville 83, S. Miss 74 Billy Thompson scored 19 points, including eight in the decisive final minutes, as Louisville boosted its record to 19-7, including a 7-2 mark in the Metro Conference.

The Cardinals, who had a 23-10 lead in the first half, saw it chopped to one point with 6:17 left but they outscored Southern Mississippi 17-9 the rest of the way.

"Our guys did a pretty good job, but had the game been at their place, we probably wouldn't have won. We're a little tired," Coach Denny Crum said after Louisville's sixth game in 12 days.

Zedric Macklin scored 26 points and Don Mann added 23 as Murray State shot 70.8 percent in the second half to defeat Middle Tennessee 93-86 and take sole possession of first place in the Ohio Valley Conference.

Maurice Martin and Wayne Williams each scored 21 points as St. Joseph's, 21-4, extended its winning streak to seven games with a 90-75 Atlantic 10 victory over Duquesne. The Hawks made 32 of 34 free made it 84-56 with 6:49 left, Coach throws.

ENMU 89, McMurry College 78 PORTALES — Senior center R.A. Stephens scored 32 points and pulled down 15 rebounds to lead Eastern New Mexico to a win over McMurry College.

The Greyhounds moved their record to 5-20, and the Indians went to Eastern, which led 48-39 at halftime, watched McMurry come within four points with 12:33 left. James Swoopes made it 60-56 on two free throws. But the Greyhounds rallied to make it 66-56 and McMurry never got closer than eight points for the rest of the game.

Guard Rodney Young scored 16 points for Eastern and Eddie Newell added 12. McMurry was led by junior forward Jose Yebra with 22 points and Jeff Johnson with 21.

N Orleans 90, Tex-San Antonio 62 NEW ORLEANS - Ronnie Grandison scored 21 points and Mike Smith had 12 rebounds to go with his 18 points New Orleans victory over Texas-San Antonio that assured Bennie Dees of a winning season in his first season as head basketball coach of the Privateers.

UNO never lost command, with Gabe Corchiani scoring four points in a 7-0 spurt that opened the game and the Privateers finishing with a 46-27 rebounding edge. It was 39-25 at halftime and everyone played as UNO opened to a 78-42 lead on a layup by Smith with 6:31 remaining.

Kermit-Seminole join Chap Center list

From Staff Reports

Even though the Midland College Chaparral basketbalal team is on the road this week, Chap Center will be vacant only one night.

On Monday, Chap Center was the site of Meadowlark Lemon's Shooting Stars basketball show, the week opener of a long line of basketball

Tonight, Midland High and Midland Lee (tied for second in District 4-5A) will tipoff at Chap Center at 8 p.m. with the winner advancing to the bi-district playoffs and the loser

Wednesday is an off night, but action resumes again on Thursday when Kermit and Seminole play their bi-district game at the Chap at 7:30 p.m. Seminole is the District 3-3A champion with a record of 23-6 while Kermit is the 4-3A runnerup at 16-9. Both teams have a pair or more of players that can put up points. Seminole is led by Kirby Brooks' 18.4 average while Randy Jones adds 15.5. For Kermit, Bubba Jones is the top gun at 13.0 while juniors Dan Michel and Scott Higden average 10.0 each. Then, closing out the week, Chap

Center will be the site of the 1986 girls Region I 5A basketball championships with games being played both Friday and Saturday.

Dinner Hours: 5p.m.-10:30p.m.

Chap men claim second in NMS tennis invitational

From Staff Reports

LAS CRUCES, N.M. - Midland College's men's tennis team defeated Utah State, 8-1, here Sunday to finish in second place in the New Mexico State Invitational

Host NMS posted a 5-0 team record to win the tournament while MC was 41. The Chaps were at match point of winning the tournament four different times in a doubles match with NMS on Saturday.

MC is still 41 on the season and will head to Laredo's Border Olympics tournament Friday where they

Chap Eddie Frazier had a blazing night on both ends of the court. The 6-foot-61/2 sophomore paced the scoring attack with 17 points - two via slam dunk - and contributed seven blocked shots and five rebounds in a game where nearly every Chap was hauling in rebounds and blocking

The Chaps also got double-figure efforts from Lincoln Minor, 14:

Ricky Grace, 13, and Mookie Blay-

For Frank Phillips, Rob McAllmon led the way with 15 while Rex Young scored 10. Also for FPC, former Midland High player Willis Ratliff

"I really don't know what kind of talent we have at Fort Stockton,

said Herring. "I talked with Coach

Blocker and he said there were some good linemen coming back, but that it might be a little thin in the skill positions. We'll just have to look things over when we get together

Doubles: Lingg-Warmoes lost to Green-Wolfgramm

while Emil Bijleveld is 3-0.

Work has already begun on securing a site for the bi-district game with Amarillo High, but nothing will be known until officials from both schools meet after tonight's game.

Lee prefers a Friday date in Levelland while Midland High is seeking a home-and-home contest as first choice Friday or Saturday.

Stueckler won the toss Monday morning for home team honors and has asked that Lee fans sit on the side of his team bench at Chaparral Center. The visiting MHS fans will sit on the opposite side of the court.

Canadiens' OT troubles continue, 3-2

MONTREAL (AP) — The secret of beating the Montreal Canadiens this play for overtime.

"We can't go into overtime anymore," Coach Jean Perron said after the Canadiens were 24 overtime tie, but lost 3-2 NHL seconds away from an to the Los Angeles Kings Monday night on Bryan Erickson's goal. "It is just awful."

"There is no way we should have lost. But what can I say?"

With a 165 overtime record, the third-worst in the league, Perron said his players simply panicked against the Kings.

"Something that could be an easy play all of a sudden becomes a tough play," he said. "The guys have to clear it up in their minds and forget about overtime. It is as simple as Kings' Coach Pat Quinn said the Canadiens appeared overconfident because they were playing a team with the fourth-worst record in the league.

"The Canadiens might have taken us for granted," said Quinn. "Maybe they thought all they had to do was put their sweaters on to win.

"We knew about their overtime record.'

Flyers 8, Jets 4 In Philadelphia, rookie Pelle Eklund's goal at 16:25 of the second period, when he came from behind the Winnipeg net and stuffed the puck past goaltender Brian Hayward, proved to be the winner.

The Flyers completed their scoring in the third period after Winnipeg had closed to 5-3 on a goal by Dave Ellett. Ron Sutter scored twice in 15 seconds and Rick Tocchet contributed the final goal. Dave Poulin, Brian Propp, Tim Kerr, and Brad McCrimmon also scored for the Dale Hawerchuk had a goal and an assist for Winnipeg. Randy Carlyle and Ray Neufeld were the other Jet scorers.

County pays off courthouse indebtedness

By ED TODD Staff Writer

After 15 years and 29 payments, Midland County has paid off its $1.95 million indebtedness incurred in the renovation of the 1930s-vintage courthouse and the building of fifthfloor courthouse jail in the early

The semi-annual payments, paid by the county from 1972 until 1986, included $1.95 million in principal and $810,455 in interest paid to the First National Bank of Midland and, publicBank First National Midland, which bought certain FNB assets. FNB had purchased the $1.95 million

Interest ranged from a high of $86,322.50 in 1972 to a low of $4,750 amount of the last payment this year. The principal started out at $30,000 in 1972 and increased to a peak of $200,000 in 1986. Interest ranged from 4 percent to 6 percent. The indebtedness was paid off through tax revenue.

'When you sell your bonds," said County Auditor Floyd Jarnagin, "it is automatically assumed that the good faith and accountability of the county is on the line. You pay your bonds before you pay the payroll. It has top priority.

The county incurred the indebtedness after voters on Dec. 8, 1970, approved the general-obligation bond issue 4,409 to 3,272 in the wake of a community-wide campaign to build a new jail and to renovate the

"The Midland County Jail does not meet the minimum standards with regard to security and safety," reported a Midland County Grand Jury sub-committee which studied the jail issues in 1970.

"...The people of Midland County cannot, in good conscience, ignore the alarming inadequacies of our present jail facilities from the standpoint of security as well as suitability," noted the committee's report. "It is absolutely imperative that enlarged and improved jail facilities be constructed to meet the present needs and to prepare for an ever greater need...in the future."

rejected a $1.1 million bond issue for the "construction of improvement and repairs to the courthouse and jail" and also turned aside a $2.5 million proposal to build a coliseum.

And 20 years after that, in 1983. voters resoundingly rejected an $11.69 million bond issue to build a new jail adjoining the courthouse and to renovate the courthouse.

Two years later, in 1985, voters turned down a $9.9 million bond proposal to construct an $8.4 million jail apart from the courthouse but opted included funds for renovating the jail, which stands on 39 pillars as the the fifth floor of the courthouse.

The $3 million in bonds were purchased by Finser Investments Co. of San Antonio in association with Clay-Desta National Bank of Midland. The money is costing the taxpayers $701,243.75 over a five-year period. Effective interest rate is 6.3778

Boat heavily damaged in deliberately set fire

From Staff Reports

A boat parked next to a fence near 4415 Monty was heavily damaged Monday by a fire which was deliberately set, according to Midland Fire Department reports.

The boat, a 10-foot stretch of fence and some lumber were heavily damaged about 7:25 p.m. before the fire was extinguished, reports said. Fire officials had been unable to determine the boat's owner by this morning.

A spark from a welder's torch touched off a fire in a large Dumpster full of scrap lumber Monday at Kelview Baptist Church, 402 W. Scharbauer, reports said. The fire, reported at 10:08 a.m., required about 1,000 gallons of water to put out, but no damage was reported.

In other reports, a bank bag containing about $1,000 in checks and currency was reported stolen by Chaparral Car Wash, 2300 N. Big Spring. The theft occurred Monday, Crystal S. Johnson, 504 S. Carver, reported a Monday burglary in which a $500 microwave oven was taken, reports said.

Boots worth almost $1,000 were reported stolen by Cowtown Boots, 4400 N. Big Spring. Taken Monday were three lizard-skin boots worth a total of $750, and one snakeskin boot valued at $236, reports said. Permian Basin Court Reporters, 105 W. Wall, reported the loss of two videocassette recorders worth $395 and $299, respectively. The burgiary occurred sometime between Friday and Monday, reports said.

A $300 clarinet was reported stolen by Sue Tasha Jobe, 1408 S. Jefferson. The instrument was taken from her 1975 Datsun while it was parked at her home, sometime between Saturday and Monday, reports said.

Two Odessa men injured in a Saturday traffic accident remained in the intensive-care unit at Odessa's Medical Center Hospital this morning. Richard Thatcher was still listed in critical condition, a hospital spokeswoman said, and Calvin Jenkins remained in stable condition.

Upgraded to satisfactory condition in MCH were Larry Robert York of Midland, injured in a separate traffic accident Saturday in Odessa; and Cariton Pierce of Crane, who was injured a week ago in a Crane school-

Abilene man behind sesquicentennial project

By LARRY LAWRENCE

ABILENE (AP) - The Texas Historical Foundation didn't have to look far to find a project for the 1986 Sesquicentennial its vice president, Wright Jr. of Abilene filled the bill. The Abilene businessman, recently elected chairman of the Texas Committee for the Humanities, recalled the success of a photographic history of Abilene in which he had been involved. That project had been put together and printed by the University of Texas Press for the city's centennial. The volume was a success, so why shouldn't a photographic history of Texas go over big? Wright became involved in the foundation's sesquicentennial project during a conversation in 1982 with John Ben Sheppard, another longtime board member and former Texas attorney general.

"He asked me to think about a project," Wright said. That conversation led to a two-volume photo history of Texas. The first volume covers the years from 1850 to 1980, and the second from 1980 to

"We felt there should be volume of Texas history and one of contemporary times," Wright said. The "Historic Texas" volume includes photographs selected from among thousands collected throughout the state. They date from the earliest days to the start of the 1980s and cover many facets of early Tex-

"The 'Contemporary Texas' volume is the work of 16 world-class photographers selected to show the Texas of today," said Wright, himself a keen amateur photographer.

Many months were spent planning, securing financial support and editing material before printing by Texas Monthly Press

Initial funding of $105,000 for the editorial budget came from Dupont and Conoco, Wright said.

As director of the project, Wright put together an editorial team that included Martha A. Sandweiss, curator of photographs for Fort Worth's Amon Carter Museum, general editor; Roy Flukinger, curator of the photography collection at the Harry Ransom Humanities Research Center at the University of Texas at Austin, associate editor; and Anne W. Tucker, curator of the Gus and Lyndall Wortham collection Houston Museum of Fine Arts, contributing Each editor was asked to select five photographers to work on the contemporary volume," Wright said. In addition, the editors invited author William A. Owens to write the essay for the historic volume, and Stephen Harrigan, senior editor of "Texas Monthly," to do an essay for the contemporary volume. Both accepted, and their essays add much to the books. Wright said.

"We also were able to get Richard Pearce-Moses to work full time in locating photo collections," Wright "He visited archives, and looked over private and corporate collections. There were literally thousands of photographs viewed from which the final selections were made.

Pearce-Moses has extensive experience both as a working photographer and as a photographic archivist.

During the course of the project additional funds were granted by the Texas Commission on the Arts through the Amon Carter Museum, Wright said.

In addition to a boxed limited edition the books are available unboxed and can be purchased as a set or by single volumes. The historic volume is $29.95 and the contemporary volume $35 at bookstores throughout

Profits will go to the Texas Historical Foundation — one half to aid the Capitol restoration and the other half for the foundation's project of identifying and cataloging the historical photography collections in

Each photographer agreed to donate one set of prints to the Humanities Research Center, and one set to exhibit to be shown in Texas

"My compliments go to the photographers," Wright said. "They really were only paid a pittance for the amount of work done. They saw it as personal contributions to the sesquicentennial.

The photographers involved are either photographers working in Texas or ones with Texas backgrounds and connectons. They are Jime Bones, Paul Hester, Frederick C. Baldwin, Wendy V. Watriss, Marv Peck, Michael Allen Murphy, Carol Cohen Burton, Rick Williams, Peter Helms Feresten, Stuart D. Klipper, George Krause, Ave Bonar, Frank Gohike, Frank Armstrong, Gay Block and Skeet McAuley. "I think we had an outstanding photographic team," Wright said.

"Texas Monthly Press had some good ideas and gave us a fine printing job on good paper," he said. "It was well worth my time in being able to work with the large number of people dedicated to the project.

State's major tourist sites being spruced up

AUSTIN (AP) — Some of the state's major tourist attractions are undergoing restoration projects aimed at undoing damage

GARY OTT

Aristocratic etiquette often can be a royal pain

In case you haven't heard, Prince Charles is in Dallas this week to present H. Ross Perot with the Winston Churchill Award in honor of the Texan's work in the arts.

The visit created quite a stir in society-conscious Big D and The Dailas Morning News published several articles on the subject in its Sunday edition, donating much of the space to the "dos and don'ts" when meeting the royal family.

This is very important, so pay attention. As Midland continues to climb the ladder of importance we just might see the day when a prince or duchess visits here. And, you don't want to do what Jimmy Carter did a few years ago and kiss one of them when he or she doesn't want to be kissed and, as a result, come across as a backwoods buffoon.

Members of the royal family are very picky when it comes to being kissed and, apparently, being president of the United States doesn't qualify you to lay a big juicy one on the queen mother. That means you

Of course, if you've caught a glimpse of the family members recently you probably wouldn't want to kiss them, anyway. Great lookers they are not. Carter isn't the only president to commit a major faux pas in the presence of royalty. Ronald Reagan, himself, toasted "Printess David" during a recent state dinner in Washington. No one knows for sure who the president was thinking of when he said "Princess David," but all of England was appalled, nonetheless.

To make sure this sort of unfortunate behavior doesn't repeat itself, newspapers are offering hints on how to act when you suddenly find yourself face-to-face with Prince

First of all, and this is crucial, never actually say the words "Prince Charles." That would be terribly tacky, indeed. What you do say, at least on first reference, is, "your royal highness." On subsequent occasions you can get away with merely saying, "sir."

The other two "never" rules are: Never speak until spoken to;
 Never touch unless touched (which, of course, includes kissing.)
 In other words, get the heck out of the way. You are there to be seen and not heard.

The Morning News also listed several things you should avoid at all costs saying to his royal highness if you happen to be one of the lucky few who gets to open your mouth in

Here are some samples:

— "My husband has large ears, and I'm crazy about him."

— "So do you think your mother will live long?"

- "Maybe Diana is domineering because she's so tall."

- "Are you any good at polo or do they just let you play because you're a prince?"

Granted, those remarks probably Granted, those remarks probably are out of line. But if the prince ever pops into Midland I have a few questions I'd like to ask and I don't care if they cause the Queen Mum to get her nose bent out of shape or not. They are legitimate questions that deserve answers. Here goes:

— "Hey, Chuck, where do you get off on this royal stuff, anyway? In case you forgot, we won the war. Loosen up."

about you tax-supported wealth

starving in your country?"

— "Do you carry cash? If not, what do you do on those occasions when you're in a pub and it's your turn to pick up the tab? You're not one of those varmints who hides in the restroom when the check is delivered,

are you?"
— "Do you feel like giggling out

suit filed in December by a group of diagruntled Baptists.

Robert and Julia Crowder of Bir-mingham, Ala., and Henry C. Cooper of Windsor, Mo., contend that South-ern Baptist President Charles Stan-

They claim the rights of the dele-

slate of officers.
The lawsuit is the latest move by moderates to voice their opposition to what they said was the stacking of the denomination's administrative bodies with people they call heresy-hunting fundamentalists.

A similar suit, filed last month in an Atlanta Superior Court by churches in Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina, Texas and Ken-tucky, asks for an injunction that would force church officials to adhere to convention bylaws and seeks to have the vote on the church offi-

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - Gov. Mark White today will reveal his plans to offset a predicted $1.3 billion budget shortfall by asking state agencies, colleges and universities to trim their expenses by 13 percent.

Janis Monger, White's assistant press secretary, said the governor will tell agency heads to cut back on "non-essential programs." Because the two-year budget period only has 18 months remaining, Monger added, the 13-percent overall reduction translates into a 17-percent cut.

White is also requesting agencies to implement a hiring freeze, sources say, but will not look for layoffs. The governor met Monday afternoon with top officials from the state's largest agencies to brief them on his plan.

Blaming falling oil prices and reductions in federal aid, Comptroller Bob Bullock Thursday reduced his revenue estimate for the 1986-87 budget period by $1.3 billion. White said then that he would produce a plan this week that would permit state government to continue operating until the Legislature convenes in regular session in January.

The two-year state budget, which calls for spending of about $37 million, ends Aug. 31, 1987. Sources close to the governor say his proposal calls for reductions in expenses only from the state's general reve-

The Mediators turn ideas into images of award winning quality

The Mediators, an award winning, Midland-based multi-media production service company, is set up to serve area companies, including advertising agencies.

Katie Kidd and Bryan Wheeler combine their skills and years of experience to provide a wide variety of services, including production services and advertising assistance.

For years, even before starting her own company, Katie was busy working on productions with nationally-known experts such as Lofaro. EUE Screen Gems Ltd. and Peter man Dektor of Hollywood, Calif. She has also worked with national advertising agencies on promotions. Bryan has an art degree and businessmanagement background to complement Katie's skills.

Saturday night at the annual Addy Awards banquet of the area Ad Club, The Mediators, in conjunction with KMID, received a merit award for the production of a television spot for the Permian Basin Center for Battered Women and Their Children. The commercial portrayed the plight of a woman and her family in a violent situation and the difference the PBCBWTC can make.

Now, Midland companies can benefit from the expertise of these professionals by calling on The Mediators.

They can give your advertising campaign the special spark it needs. Art services, copy writing, print advertising design, brochures and radio and television ads can all be produced by The Mediators.

Bryan explains that they can handle anything from providing a crew or script to coordinating a complete media campaign. Whether a company has only a very vague idea of what they want or a detailed plan, The Mediators can help make TV and radio production go smoothly. while accurately reflecting the company's desired image.

Video presentations can be designed for company training, for explaining benefit packages, for orientation or safety programs. The Mediators can design in-house films for just about any purpose.

Just as The Mediators provides national companies with the support they need in West Texas, Katie and Bryan also seek out the best crews and equipment for each local customer. Bryan explains that they can coordinate the entire production and give personal service. We view our relationship with clients as that of a partnership," Katie said. The team work turns ideas into images.

The Mediators bring many assets to the team. Art services, audio visual equipment, which is available for rental, audio visual technicians, market research, media services, production services and coordination of safety programs are all a part of the line up.

Security Lock Systems is the key to solving your lock problems

Security Lock Systems, Inc. is a professional, security-conscious lock-smith company. Locksmith Ricky Hunt and Vice-President Peggy Omohundro said they felt like Midland consumers were not getting a fair deal on top quality locksmith services. That's why they decided to accept the challenge of providing Midlanders with quality 24-hourlocksmith services at fair rates.

Though their business office, located in Suite 110 of the Western Building, has regular hours of Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Security Lock Systems provides service 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

By maintaining an office and a fully equipped mobile unit instead of a store, Security Lock Systems keeps their overhead down. For customers that means savings, without a cut in quality.

Hunt has over eight years experience as a locksmith and is ready to assist Midlanders with just about any kind of lock they may need. He can install locks of all types, rekey existing locks, repair locks, change combinations on safes, sell and install safes (including floor safes), install window locks and sliding door

Security Lock Systems specializes in master key systems. These incredible systems allow people to use the same key at home and the office. Yet, employee access can be limited just to the office or even just certain parts of the office.

Many contractors call on Security Lock Systems to install door hardware. Door closers, exit alarms and panic alarms can all be provided and/or installed by Hunt.

Ms. Omohundro said that their company is committed to meeting the unique needs of each customer. That's why Security Lock Systems rather than offering just one line. Security Lock Systems keeps a variety of locks on hand, in order to be able to provide fast service. However. Hunt has access to and can explain the advantages of many types of locks, in order to meet the needs of his customers

Hunt will help his customers select the locks that best meet their needs and provide security. "The harder you make it for an intruder to get inside, the greater the chance is that he'll pass by your home," Hunt said. Security Lock Systems goal is to help you accomplish this land High School auditorium, Stea-matic of the Permian Basin took on the job of cleaning, sealing and de-odorizing the fire damaged building. Since then, thousands of city residents have been through the building for various programs and con-certs and enjoyed them in a clean and odor-free environment. "We have had no complaints and school officials are satisfied," so Steamatic of the Permian Basin Owner Greg Perez feels confident in calling the job a big success

The job really proved how fast and efficient Steamatic of the Permian Basin is. The wide scope of the job posed no problem for the experts of Steamatic. Perez said, "Even though we are all cross-trained and experienced in each others jobs, Ruben Contreras specializes in solving heating, ventilation and air conditioning problems. It is no easy task in itself, and it also includes dealing with all false air spaces which few people ever see. Ruben has worked several national-level catastrophic

Ralph Contreras, an expert in all the unenviable job of dry-cleaning all the upholstered auditorium seats and the sizeable amount of draperies.

Roy Contreras, also an experienced technician, who is studying landscape architecture at Texas Tech, came and assisted in the structural cleaning and deodorization.

Perez said, "Due to the size of the job and the technical expertise required, I did request additional personnel from Blackon-Mooring Steamatic of Lubbock, and they responded, as always, with their best." Steamatic wiped out all evidence of smoke damage from top to bottom, while the experts of Rod Stephenson's Construction Company were busy with the demolition of the projection booth, repairing damaged walls and ceilings, sealing and painting, electrical work and overall remodeling. "This was a combined and coordinated effort," Perez said.

All false air spaces were deodorized using Steamatic's "Lin-Aire liquid" which is atomized and applied as a fog throughout. Lin-Aire is a chemical that is exclusive to Steamatract, absorb and eliminate smoke odor. The four large air handling units were cleaned and deodorized and all ductwork was deodorized then sealed using Steamatic's "Lin-Set D" which gives ductwork the properties of new air ducts. Several blocks of Lin-Aire solid were placed in the return air plenum of each unit to continue the elimination of any remaining odor for 60-90 days after the job was complete.

"Smoke odor is a gas," Perez said, "and our Lin-Aire solid blocks counter act these gases as they flow through the recirculating air and pass over the exposed surfaces of these blocks.'

Scaffolding was used to facilitate cleaning of the high ceilings and walls using dry-cleaning chemically treated sponges which absorb smoke residue with a magnetic effect. Steanestick with a magnetic effect. matic's exclusive "Lambrite" dry cleaning equipment was used to clean the upholstered portions of all 1118 seats on the main floor and the stage drapery.

This was a large order considering the amount and the size of the material to be cleaned," Perez said.

All carpeting was "Steamatically cleaned" with their very own unique and patented controlled heat cleaning system. It was quite a job, but Steamatic experts got to work quickly and completed the work in just seven days.

"The school district has our lifetime guarantee against smoke odor," Perez said. We will continue to monitor the air flow over the next few months to insure the complete and final elimination of odor.

There is quite a demand for our services in fire restoration at the residential level as well," Perez said. 'We react with the same fast, top quality service. Nothing is automatic or pre-planned in our business. Each job is different and we are flexible enough to mold our services specifically to the needs of our customers.'

There is no charge for advice or estimates," Perez said, "and I invite anyone needing assistance to call Steamatic at 686-0833."

and designs, along with plants. They are located at 1402 Loop 250 West.

Lanham's offers expertise and variety of landscape supplies

Lanham's Nursery and Landscape trees, which they are ready to install Supply, located at 1402 Loop 250 West just south of Andrews Highway, is now open and ready to offer Midlanders complete landscape supplies and expert consultation.

Owners Bob and Nancy Lanham say they have been wanting to open such a shop for a long time. Bob is a registered landscape architect with a degree from Texas Tech and eight years of experience. Now, Nancy says, "We can have a complete service in one place.

One thing that makes Lanham's different from many nurseries is that it does have a complete stock of landscape supplies including rock, railroad ties and boulders. Even PVC parts are kept in stock so if you have a problem with your sprinkler system on Saturday or Sunday, you don't have to wait until Monday to get the needed parts.

Of course, Lanham's maintains a stock of quality plants at reasonable prices. You'll find trees, shrubs, grass, fertilizer, insecticides and even indoor plants, potting soil and pots. They have everything from small trees to large oak and pecan for their customers. (Flower and vegetable seeds are also available at Lanham's.)

Lanham's Nursery and Landscape Supply guarantees every plant, of any size, for one year. If the plant dies within a year, you can count on them to replace it at half cost.

"Everything we carry will be adapted to West Texas," Bob said. Bob, Nancy and the manager, Curtis Sehmid, want customers to enjoy the plants around their home. That's why they take special care to stock and recommend plants that will thrive in this West Texas environment. What kills a lot of plants that are

Fashion Cleaners continues 49 year tradition of quality services

Fashion Cleaners, 801 W. Wall, has served Midlanders for 49 years and has become well known for quality service and convenience for those who work in downtown Midland. Now, Owner James McCain announces that Fashion Cleaners is taking that same quality service to a second location at ClayDesta Plaza. The new location is scheduled to open March 3.

In celebration of their 49 years in Midland and in appreciation of their many customers, McCain says every customer is enjoying a ten percent discount on their dry cleaning during the month of February.

Fashion Cleaners plans to continue the tradition of maintaining quality facilities. This tradition won Fashion Cleaners the acclaim of being one of the "Top Ten" in the most recent annual plant design award program, sponsored by the American Dry Cleaners Association. McCain was impressed with the fact that three of the top ten awards went to Texas plants. His plant was in the category of remodeled plants.

At its fine facilities, Fashion Cleaners is able to offer fur storage, cleaning, glazing and alterations as well as reweaving. Of course, all of this is in addition to the fine dry cleaning for which Fashion Cleaners is famous. They have keepsake heirloom service for special items like wedding

They've always done a fine job on cleaing draperies. And, if you want complete drapery service, including taking them down and rehanging them, McCain says their Eldon Drapery franchise will take care of the tob.

Fashion can also handle your laundry. In fact, McCain is excited to announce that they will soon be installing their own laundry equipment.

Their are many little extras you will discover at Fashion Cleaners. Pickup and delivery service is available.

This week, take your laundry to Fashion Cleaners, 801 W. Wall, where 49 years of quality work assures you of the service you and your clothes deserve.

Fashion Cleaners will be opening a second location in ClayDesta Plaza on March 3.

MARKETS Saudis back off?

From Staff Reports

Saudi Arabia has publicly backed off attempts to lower prices by flood-ing the market with its oil, due to accelerating price cuts by competing producers, according to news sources. The move was apparently brought about by the collapse of the oil market.

Senior oil industry executives and Senior oil industry executives and traders who are among some 2,000 industry officials arriving in London for an annual industry gathering this week said OPEC production has slipped below 16 million barrels a day, down by more than two million barrels a day from December. In addition, these sources said exports of dition, these sources said exports of oil from Egypt and Mexico - neither is an OPEC member - are down about 800,000 barrels a day as customers deserted both countries before they cut their prices last week, according to the Wall Street Journal.

Sources say the Saudis are now opting for a lower profile, hoping to avoid any blame for forcing oil prices down and the resulting economic chaos. Shiek Ahmad Zaki Yamani has also been trying to put to rest talk about oil price wars, and has told oil ministers of other exporting countries that Saudi Arabia will

4.3 million barrels. The Middle East Economic Survey, a publication often used to convey Saudi views, said that Saudi oil pro-duction fell below four million barreis a day as a deliberate sign of "Saudi restraint." But oil executives of Aramco deny the report, saying the Saudis are still producing 4.6 million barrels a day in a determined effort to keep oil prices down and

Some OPEC members have argued that Saudi Arabia should drastically lower their oil output immediately to prop prices back up to the $28-abarrel level, but the Saudis say they are unwilling for the moment to do

Commenting on the latest round of price cuts by oil exporting countries including Mexico, one British oil executive commented: "The market has no structure supporting it. The hardest hit oil producers will soon be posting discount signs ontheir doors. We have a very bumpy road ahead of us in the next couple of years.

The suddeness of the price cuts has caught many oil traders by surprise, causing at least four to default on contrcts worth about $400 million.

GM unveils new four-cylinder engine

Engine to be installed in Oldsmobiles, Buicks

New York Times News Service

DETROIT — The General Motors Corp. Monday and nounced that it has developed an advanced technology four-cylinder engine with performance exceeding most of the V-8 engines in use today. The new engine, called the "Quad Four," will be installed in some Oldsmobile and Buick models starting with 1988 models.

In developing the engine, which will produce 150 horsepower while still getting over 30 miles per gallon of gasoline, G.M. is acknowledging the growing importance of small, high-performance engines. Many automotive imports, including Mercedes-Benz, Saab, Toyota and Honda have improved the performance of their small cars by increasing the number of valves per cylinder from the standard two, to four each. Additional valves allow air and fuel to be mixed more quickly in a cylinder, increasing power.

The Quad Four follows this trend, although G.M. officials said this is the first engine designed from the beginning for four-valve technology. "Most of the fourvalve engines out there now were something else before they got four-valve heads," said T.N. Louckes, chief engineer for Oldsmobile division, which developed the engine. "This is the next generation.

G.M. executives said the company was lagging behind its European and Japanese competitors in small high performance engines because of the need to redesign all of the corporation's engines for greater fuel economy. "We had to take our place in the queue,"

Turbocharging, which increases the pressure on the air-gas mixture going into the combustion chamber, has been favored by some manufacturers to increase the power of small engines. But turbochargers are complicated and expensive and some buyers object to the lag in performance while the turbochargers build up

Among the features of the Quad Four is the complete elimination of spark plug wires. Twin ignition coils mounted in the space between the double overhead cams on the top of the engine are connected directly to the spark plugs.

G.M. engineers said they are studying using the engine in cars with four-wheel drive and four-wheel steering, technologies also being pressed hard by European and Japanese auto companies in an effort to present their cars as more advanced than competitors. No production decisions on these applications have been made as yet, they said.

Using smaller engines for high performance helps shield auto companies from the danger of being caught with unsuitable models if the price of gasoline shoots up again as it did in 1973 and 1979. With a smaller engine, a company can shift emphasis quickly away from performance to greater economy, without having

Gramm-Rudman could create opportunity for consultants

Los Angeles Times — Washington Post News Service

WASHINGTON - The words "Gramm-Rudman" have stricken terror in the hearts of most of official Washington, but the labyrinthine new budget-balancing law is yielding a bonanza to one small minority: the handful of people who claim to understand it well enough to be able to explain it to everybody else.

"I couldn't have picked a better time," said M. Wendell Belew Jr., the former chief counsel of the House Budget Committee who struck out on his own last month as a partner in a budget consulting company and is having no trouble finding wellheeled clients. Belew's schedule is rapidly filling up with seminars and speeches, he said one day last week as he dashed from lunch with one Wall Street brokerage firm to a midafternoon meeting with another.

ANALYSIS

Congressional Quarterly magazine, which had expected about 75 people at its $145 half-day seminar on Gramm-Rudman last month, got 640 instead, and now it is quickly putting together other seminars throughout the country. Never mind that a federal court last week declared Gramm-Rudman's automatic spending cuts unconstitutional; the rest of the law's Rube Goldberg-like mechanism will go ahead, and a lot of people are going to pay top dollar to find out if how much that matters.

The stampede to cash in on Gramm-Rudman, which threatens practically every government program with periodic cutbacks until the deficit is wrestled to zero, represents an extreme example of one of Washington's time-tested axioms: that every new law breeds opportunity for lobbyists and consultants.

In the early 1970s it was a host of new environmental laws and the creation of the Environmental Protection Agency that spawned a lucrative industry for specialists who previously had been unable to get the attention of profit-minded corporations. A few years later, a web of complicated oil-price regulations provided work for those select few who could navigate their way through them.

Budget experts were in demand briefly in 1981, when Congress enacted President Reagan's first sweeping spending cuts. "Take that and multiply it by a hundred" to gauge the present scramble, said Stanley E. Collender, one of those who has capitalized best on the budget boom.

Just a year ago, Collender was following the federal budget process in relative obscurity for the Washing- as much as $2,000 to hear him talk ton office of Touche Ross, the giant accounting firm. "Everyone was either sick or bored with the old budget process," he said. "Now, everybody's concerned about it."

As a result, he is scheduling midnight flights from coast to coast so that he can keep all his speaking engagements. Groups are willing to pay about how to cope with the new law He is a star attraction at one-day Touche Ross seminars, where participants pay about $300 to hear his views. He says that his $245-a-year biweekly newsletter - soon to be met by competition from Belew's "Gramm-Rudman Report" - is bringing in about three new subscriptions a day.

Cactus to cut back operations

Cactus Drilling Co. has scaled down operations to reflect current market conditions, company president Art Dumont has announced.

He said since rig activity levels are not expected to improve in the near future, staff reductions have been implemented, in line with the current outlook for drilling activity. According to Steve Todt, vice president of finance for the driller,

"from an administrative standpoint, we're looking at cutting seven cleri-

In addition to staff reductions, the company will be reducing the number of rigs it will actively market, operating its best, most cost-efficient rigs, Todt said. "There's no set number yet, but we'll probably stack about half our rigs.

The Platinum Crisis (Video) Jeopardizing This Nation's Oil Industry

Last year the South African government warned that if the U.S. were to place an economic sanction against the Kruggerand, South Africa would stop selling platinum to the U.S. Without platinum, the U.S. refining process will come to a stand-still. Platinum is required in the processing of unleaded gasoline, aviation fuel and other refinery products, medicine

On Tuesday, October 2, President Reagan banned importation of the Krugerrand and loans from South Africa.

South Africa is the world's largest producer of platinum. 95% of the platinum used in the U.S. is imported from South Africa. The only other supplier is the U.S.B.R. We predict that platinum prices (currently at $300 per ounce will reach between $430 up to the 1980 level of $1,100 per ounce in 1986.

INVESTOR'S GUIDE

Don't plunge IRA into stock market;

instead put cautious toe in water

By BILL DOYLE

Q. My wife and I are both 63 and recently retired. Together, we have $100,000 from our companies' retirement plans to put into rollover individual retirement accounts within 60 days. I favor having our IRAs in the stock market. From all indications, stock prices will remain high for at least six months to a year lim not high for at least six months to a year. I'm not interested in stock growth, just good dividends to supplement our Social Security benefits. Our bank offers a discount brokerage service, but I'm not sure about it being OK with Uncle Sam. How do we buy stocks and stay within IRA guidelines? A. By establishing what's called a "self-directed" IRA. In investments.

You can set up a self-directed IRA at almost any securities brokerage firm, including discount brokerages. Your bank's discount brokerage service probably can handle it for you. If not, you can go to a different brokerage.

that type of IRA, you can buy and sell stocks, bonds and a wide variety of other

Just be sure you do open your rollover IRAs within 60 days after receiving the lump-sum distributions from the retirement plans. That will keep the $100,000 sheltered from federal income tax.

Now, for a note of warning. You will take on risk, if you put all that money into stocks. The "indications" you cite about stock prices remaining high might not pan out. Stock prices can fall, as well as rise. No one knows, for sure. Most folks shouldn't have their entire retirement nest eggs in stocks. Typically, seniors should seek the safety of such things as certificates of deposit.

If you're determined to have stocks in your IRAs, my advice is put a cautious toe in the water; don't plunge in. Keep most of your money in bonds and/or a money market mutual fund, which you can have in self-directed IRAs.

I suspect you'll be disappointed with the dividends on stocks. Although some stocks pay reasonably high dividends, many don't. The average dividend yield on the 30 stocks in the Dow Jones Industrial Average is now only 4.16 percent.

sum distribution from a qualified retirement plan can put all or part of that money into a rollover individual retirement account "and do anything you like with the rest." You added, "You will, of course, have to pay income tax on the money you don't place in that IRA."

Can't I put part of such a lump-sum in an IRA and use 10-year averaging on the rest?

A. Nope. You must use the 10-year forward averaging on the rest.

aging tax treatment on the entire proceeds of a lump-sum retirement distribution. That works out well for many people because the money involved is taxed as if it was received over 10 years and the tax bite usually is reduced.

However, the rules prevent you from putting part of such a lump-sum distribution into a rollover IRA, thereby deferring tax on that portion, and using 10-year forward averaging on the part of the distribution you don't tuck into the rollover

Another fly might land in this ointment. The major tax revision bill laboriously wending its way through Congress might kill 10-year averaging, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1986.

Q. I retired in 1984 at age 62 and received a lump-sum pension settlement. My tax was prepared by an accountant, who considered using three-year income averaging but said it was not advantageous.

Is the 10-year averaging you mentioned something new for 1985, or could I have used it? A. It's not new. You could have used it and, most likely, should have done so — unless you preferred to put that lump-sum pension settlement into a rollover individual retirement account.

The three-year income averaging is an entirely different thing. That tactic can save tax dollars for anyone whose income — from any source — rises

Three-year income averaging could also bite the dust, if the federal tax revision bill is enacted into

Company unites business contacts in 'networking' breakfast meetings

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK - To sales people on the make, working the network means keeping in touch with individuals or groups of people who can provide recommendations and leads that might produce

As practiced by millions of business people, it is an unstructured and even casual pursuit. Some good sales people, in fact, never consider that what they do is networking. To them it is simply com-

It made so much sense to John Weikert, entrepreneur and onetime Xerox Corp. marketing vice president, that he founded American Business Associates to put networking on a formal, profession al and even more goal-directed basis

In groups of 30, representatives of small and medium-size businesses meet at breakfast twice a month to exchange leads and general marketing information, such as the names of new purchasing agents and their particular needs.

While they share the same markets, the members, selected by Weikert and his staff, aren't competitive with each other. Each is expected to contribute, which means, says Weikert, that each has 29 other sales people helping. We want the shakers and movers in their disciplines and in the community," says Weikert, who founded, developed and then sold a successful photo-finishing business after leaving Xerox.

Information interchange is the key, and if members fail to attend meetings or contribute they might be asked to leave. Without contributions. the network is endangered. With it, each member multiplies his effort.

As he sees it, the associations fill a vast void for smaller businesses. Xerox is large enough to have a variety of contacts, enough people to interchange ideas, and the money to support sales calls "Small business doesn't have that luxury," says

Weikert. Citing McGraw-Hill figures, he reasons that if a sales call costs $205, and it takes five calls to make a sale, his members cover their $895 annual membership cost with one sale

Some members say they do better. Michael Finaldi, president of Tele-Solutions, a New Jersey telephone connector company, attributes about $200,000 of new business to "fellow members or leads provided by members."

Members sometimes sell to each other, but more often they discover that a company they call on needs the services of a fellow member. By recommending that member they sometimes solidify their own relationship with the client.

Telephone interconnectors, such as Finaldi, especially welcome as members, since they have an opening to new businesses in town. Real estate people and lawyers often make good members. And purchasing personnel too. Each council - there are now nine - meets between 8:30 and 10 a.m. every other week, led by an American Business Associates staffer, the better to keep the agenda moving. Discipline and formal structure are needed, says Weikert. "We need efficient input in order to take the rewards out,

While Weikert calls his councils unique, networking groups exist in other parts of the country. Almost all, however, are less structured and disciplined than ABA, which has headquarters in

The nine councils now operate in New Jersey New York and Connecticut, but Weikert says he has approval of the Federal Trade Commission to franchise the councils throughout the country.

'We're going national," he says. "We have the blueprint," and he contends that it can be effective in almost any sizeable community of businesss people interested in improving sales efforts.

Many Americans lack technological literacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty percent or more of Americans believe flying saucers are real, that rockets change the weather and certain numbers bring good luck, says a new poll whose author suggests the results show a technologically confused society.

Those survey results and others indicate that while some of the American public is somewhat informed on technological issues, "a substantial portion is not well informed in these areas," Jon D. Miller, director of the Public Opinion Laboratory at Northern Illinois University, said Thursday. For example, he said his poll, sponsored by the National Science Foundation, found 95 percent of Americans agreeing with the statement that "smoking causes serious health problems" — a contention the medical profession strongly supports However, 75 percent also agreed with a state ment that "there are good ways of treating sick ness that medical science does not recognize.' Of the second finding, Miller said in a telephone interview, "It is not clear whether this result is an endorsement of folk medicine...or a vote of no confidence in the medical profession. Whatever its origins, it appears inconsistent with the idea of technological literacy.

Such literacy - or perhaps illiteracy in some cases — was the focus of a weekend conference in

A conference announcement said, "Evidence abounds that we are graduating students who are unprepared and unable to grasp even day-to-day issues — the technical content of issues ranging from the safety of contraceptive devices or nutrition to robotics, gene-splicing or the recent explosion of the space shuttle Challenger Eighty-two percent said they had a clear or general understanding of radiation, 67 percent felt they had such understanding of how a telephone works, 57 percent of computer software and 49 percent of economic gross national product. The rest said they had little understanding of the one of the most popular and profit-able faihion labels in the country was in Washington recently and said some remarkably undesignerlike things about herself and her clothes.

 She doesn't claim to have invented anything in fashion: "We are not leaders; I make no pretention about that. We are followers."

· She's not sure how big her business is: Maybe $400 million wholesale, she says. ("My partners tease me that I have a little trouble with the zeros.") In fact, the business is more than $500 million wholesale and generating more than a billion dollars in retail sales.

• She shares the company's success record with others: "The business relies totally on the cooperation of four people who are all, well, experts in their fields." After listing textiles, production and marketing, the last thing she mentions is her expertise,

· She takes no credit for any of the current designs: She says she "edits" the sketches of nine designers creating for all the Liz Claiborne divisions. In fact, she says, she sometimes has trouble selling her own ideas to her design team.

LAST SEASON, for example, she felt strongly there should be a running suit under the Liz Claiborne label. None of the Claiborne designers agreed, so Claiborne, for the first time in a year, picked up a pencil and made a sketch of the outfit she wanted. The Claiborne showroom kept referring to it as "Liz's outfit." and Claiborne was clearly nervous about how it would sell.

The buyers liked it and so did the customers. "In fact, it was fabulous ... Thank God," she adds with a big

The grin, the helmet of black hair, the oversized glasses are Claiborne signatures, easily spotted by the enthusiastic crowd at a spanking new downtown department store before a show of her latest designs. Claiborne is wearing a white silk shirt with epaulets and white twill jodhpurs, a cut apart from the admiring crowd, many in silk dresses. This is her crowd, though, the women who buy her clothes.

While her dress collection may be one of the fastest growing segments of her business, her label is most popular in sportswear separates.

That makes good sense, Claiborne says, for both the designer and the customer. A woman can put an outfit together in an individual way not only in terms of the total look but also "sizewise. She may be an 8 on top and a 10 bottom — and some are lucky and are vice versa but you lucky and are vice versa, but you can pick your sizes and fit yourself better without alterations. Nobody wants to bother with that anymore.

CERTAIN STYLES in each collections she 'pegs "everybodies," things that just about everyone can relate to. Then there are variations on the newer styles, introduced simply, in a few colors, that nudge women to experiment. But, the "everybodies" far outsell the others.

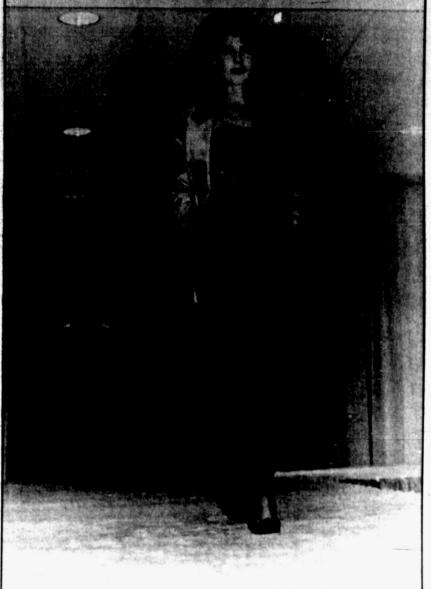

She listens to what store buyers say their customers want and keeps 12 women traveling to speak to customers directly. And she watches closely what other designers are doing — particularly those in Paris to sense and generally re-interpret the avant-garde trends.

She's a bit nervous about the current pet trend of big Paris designers like Azzedine Alaia and Thierry Mugler that includes super-skinny, short skirts. "We're certainly not going to do an Azzedine or Mugler jersey dress that shows off every curve," says Claiborne, but concedes, "You can get the same message across that clothes are getting closer to the body in other ways." Like the Donna Karan bodysuit that Claiborne says she has tried on herself: "It is cut beautifully and doesn't reveal all that much.

She's pleased that the working woman is making more adventuresome choices. "I'm amazed that in the last year women are getting less conservative. It's fabulous. Even in Washington." Sales, she says, show women venturing away from the expected navy blue or gray flannel suits and even wearing dresses to

"I think they have a great deal more self-confidence, and they don't mind looking like women. Five years ago, you know what they wanted to look like. They walked into a board room and wanted to fade into whatever else was sitting around." Now, because of their success in business, they are willing to look more

BUT SHE'S CONCERNED that some of the new clothes have gotten too sexy — even some of her own are simply not right for the office. "Fashionwise, the paper-on-the-wall, glued-on clothing can be a little coarse and inappropriate for the office. Primarily, we make clothes to go to work in and then to relax in.' But she won't be quick to give up the look of padded shoulders now slipping out of favor in Paris and elsewhere. "Our customers have just gotten into them, and they feel good

And she's trying to persuade women to wear short skirts again, but so far, without much success. "American women have a love affair with long skirts, and so it's going to be difficult to get them out of that look." There was a "flirtation" with short skirts last summer, but what is selling, for the moment at least, is long skirts, she says. Short skirts may return next spring, but not in the same way as in decades past, insists Claiborne. Women don't want to be looked at in the same way anymore.

"That was a whole era and you never go back the same way. People who try to bring it back the same way are people making a mistake, because it doesn't look right. Even the yum-yums who can get away with it in the summer with tan legs, even they are not into that really thigh-high-vou-can-barely-sit-on-it (look in a skirt). They'd rather wear

Of course, some things never go away. Like jeans and denim, she says. "Call them jeans, dungarees, 501s — it's a healthy reminder that we, in the United States, will never again give up casual American clothes. It's part of our American heritage, and we do it better than anybody. Sometimes we just need the stamp of approval from Paris to bring it back.

"WHEN YOU LIKE to draw and love to sew — well, what else do you do but become a designer," laughs Claiborne. "I always knew I would be a designer.

She was born in Brussels. Her parents were from New Orleans but lived in Europe during Liz Claibor-ne's childhood, then came back to New Orleans, New Jersey, Baltimore. "We traveled a lot."

Being raised in Europe made a huge difference. "You get a different exposure and a different upbringing. Even though both my parents were from New Orleans, as I said, they really had a European attitude. We were taught to notice how things look. My father loved painting. You care about everything. About what's brought to the table. The look of things is as important as their function.

There were strict rules for personal appearance as well. Explains Claiborne, "You were also told, very clearly, what you wear and what you don't wear, what colors look well on you. You may disagree with what they thought, but they made those decisions.

Her short hair is a reaction to all that, she says. "One of the things my parents were adamant about was long hair." Her hair was waist-length when she applied for her first job. Once hired, as a strike for independence, she cut it off. She discovered the designer had hired her as much to model as to assist in design and loved her long hair. "She made me wear a bun at the back of my head," Claiborne adds with a Cheshire grin.

Claiborne's father was a banker. her mother, "an ordinary housewife" who sewed beautifully "and still does." It was her mother, Claiborne says, who taught her to sew at an early age.

SHE STUDIED fine arts because her father frowned on her going into business or fashion and "really had hopes of my becoming a painter. which I knew I was not going to be. But I went along. I'm glad I had that training, too, because it taught me to see; it taught me color, proportion and many other things that I don't think I would have learned in design school. I then crammed and took pattern-making courses at night."

Her first job was at Tina Leser as a sketcher and model. It was a good place to launch a fashion career, she says. "She (Leser) was always a person with so much imagination and so unconventional in the clothing business. She had very definite ideas about how you constructed clothes and ruled with an iron fist, but she recognized talent and was fun to work with. Then I went around trying to find out what I really liked. My next job was with a very highpriced firm on Seventh Avenue.

Then she moved around. From Ben Rieg, who made beautifully tailored clothes, she became Omar Kiam's assistant, not during his Hollywood period, but while he designed on Seventh Avenue. There was a stint doing jewelry design, then classic, preppy "Peter Pan col-lars and so on" in the early '60s. By that time she decided that sportswear was what she wanted to design "but something snappier than the ordinary." She signed on with a junior-sportswear company. "I was in the backroom, you know, hidden (as) the second designer.

She moved on to Youthguild, but it was only after 15 years in the back room there that she started to grumble that it might be nice to see her name on the label. "I was never that interested in seeing my name," she confesses. Now she sees her name everywhere.

THE LABEL, Liz Claiborne that's her maiden name - started 10 years ago this January as a partnership with her husband, Arthur Ortenberg plus marketing pro Jerry Chazen and production expert Leonard Boxer. The usual designer ego never quite developed.

"It was a second marriage for both Art and me, with children from both marriages," says Claiborne, and "I needed the work ... we had a family to support. But really I loved what I was doing. Oh, I had friends who were designers and much more publicity-minded, egocentric, and I enjoyed them, but they lived an entirely different life than I did.

Today, she can live any life she wants. She and her husband have a house on Fire Island, N.Y., a new home in St. Barts. "We like to travel, but we don't have enough time. We certainly enjoy being able to help our children, doing things like that, but we really hope to get time to travel ... I want to see Africa, New Zealand. I want to climb the Tibetan

Rekindled romance sparks trouble

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 30-year-old divorcee. I married Larry (not his real name) when I was 16 and left him (like a fool) for another man when I was 18. I never realized what a jewel Larry was until it was too

Larry got married and now he has three children. In the meantime, I've been living with this other guy, "Barney," for six years. We have a child but we're not married yet. We plan to make it legal in the near future.

I have always regretted leaving Larry and have prayed for a reconciliation, but after all these years I never thought I had a chance. Well, I ran into him two weeks ago in a parking lot, and it was like our very first meeting all over again! We have seen each other a couple of times since and now he wants to leave his wife and marry me. Should I leave Barney and go back to Larry? Let me know soon. Barney and I are booked on a cruise, and we'll lose our deposit if we don't can-

DEAR LIBBY: Slow down. If Larry isn't thinking about his family obligations, he should be. You also have a child to consider as well as a six-year relationship. Don't do anything without considering the consequences very, very carefully. Go on the cruise you've planned with Barney and try to get your head straight before you go off the deep end.

DEAR ABBY: I have seen many letters in your column complaining about snoring bed partners. Your stock answer: "See an ear-nose doctor for a possible minor surgical solution." I have a better idea.

My husband was the champion snorer of them all. Then one day we figured out his snoring might be caused by breathing through his mouth, so we bought some paper "tape" 1 inch wide, and he began taping his mouth closed every night before going to sleep. (He would say, "No more talking, I am going to tape up now.") Then he would press his lips together and tape them shut. After sleeping quietly all night long, he would peel off the tape in the morning. (It peels off easily.)

This worked for 20 years. I have told others. Some say this will stop their breathing. Not so. - MRS. L.P.

DEAR MRS. L.P.: It sounds too good to be true, but I wouldn't recommend it for others without suggesting that they run it by their doctor to make sure it's safe for them. Another suggestion: Buy one of those machines that drones on endlessly to drown out street noises, snoring and other disturbing sounds that interfere with sleeping. They are available at sleep shops, hardware stores and listed in most gadget catalogs. If you try either of these suggestions, please let me know if it works for you. Pleasant dreams.

DEAR ABBY: You asked "Forgotten Parents," who had never seen a dime of the $10,000 their son had borrowed from them 10 years ago, if they had a promissory note. This reminded me that years ago, we fool-

Detergent firm designs contest

CINCINNATI (AP) — Proctor & Gamble, the makers of All-Temperature Cheer, has found a way to promote its product: a contest for young design students.

The "Cheer Leaders Awards for Design Excellence" competition challenges students from Otis Art Institute in Los Angeles, Fashion Institute of Technology in New York and Ray College of Design in Chicago to make outfits that can be washed in hot, warm and cold water.

In keeping with their temperate zones, the West Coast design students will be asked to design clothes that can be washed in hot water, the East Coast students warm and those

House Speaker Tip O'Neill, left, chats with AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland at the group's winter meeting. In his address to the dent Reagan's budget.

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. is challenging President Reagan to back tax increases to help trim budget deficits or watch his military buildup come to an end.

The time has come for the president to face the facts," O'Neill, D-Mass., told the AFL-CIO executive council meeting Monday in Bal Harbour, Fla. "Unless he moves on revenues his defense buildup is

The speaker's remarks were the latest shots in this year's budget struggle that continued away from Capitol Hill for the past week while Congress took time off to observe the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington.

Action was resuming in Congress today with the House and Senate budget committees considering the fiscal 1987 spending plan Reagan submitted on Feb. 5. The non-partisan Congressional Budget Office was presenting the Senate committee with its analysis of the president's budget.

A private analysis released Monday said cuts of 25 to 50 percent will be required in most domestic federal programs by the new budget-balancing law, with even larger cuts possible in certain law enforcement areas.

The study by Management Information Services Inc. and the Center for Defense Information said the impact of the law would be far more severe than previously believed. It said deep cuts will occur even if Congress raises taxes and slashes defense spending.

Management Information Services Inc. is a consulting firm that makes private economic analyses for a wide range of private and governmental clients. The Center for Defense Information is a private, non-profit organization that studies military issues and is a frequent critic of Reagan administration defense policies. Both are based in Washington.

O'Neill's remarks Monday capped a week-long, cross-country effort by House Democrats to focus attention on the president's budget and specifically his proposal for a military spending increase while cutting or eliminating scores of domestic spending programs.

The president's budget, O'Neill said, "makes sure that the hungry will be hungrier, the poorly housed will be homeless and that the welfare recipient struggling for a job will give up the

In five cities, elected officials and civic leaders voiced similar sentiments about the president's spending priorities is sessions organized by the Democratic-controlled House Budget Committee. Republicans on the committee said it was a partisan publicity stunt and stayed away.

Back in Washington, five GOP members of the panel invited reporters in Monday to watch a strategy meeting with White House budget director James C. Miller III.

Rep. Lynn Martin, R-Ill., said she hoped Republicans and Democrats could agree soon on an "end to the dog-and-pony shows" and begin "trying to do some real work" instead.

The budget debate has been complicated this year by a new law aimed at forcing a balanced budget by 1991. Although a federal court has ruled against a key provision mandating automatic spending cuts to meet interim deficit targets, the presence of those targets has increased pressure or deficit-reduction action.

Reagan argues that the deficit targets can be met primarily with domestic spending cuts and no general tax increase. At the same time, the president is pressing for continued increases in military spending.

Last week, during a nationally broadcast news conference, Reagan reiterated his stand on revenues saying any tax increase that reaches his desk will be "VOA — vetoed on arrival."

O'Neill said on Monday, however, "The time for threatening to veto deficit reduction bills has passed. The time to balance revenues with expenditures is at hand."

But, echoing past remarks of Democrats and Republicans alike, O'Neill declared, "The president must lead the way to new taxes. We Democrats in the House are not about to lead with our chin on increased revenues.

Legislators argue that it is politically impossible to pass legislation increasing taxes so long as Reagan maintains his oppostion to such a move.

O'Neill said that if the president refuses to budge on taxes, a deficit-conscious Congress likely will end Reagan's costly Pentagon buildup as part of the search for savings.

Commission to brief senators on findings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The investigation into the Challenger space shuttle explosion shifts to Congress today as members of the presidential panel investigating the accident and top NASA officials brief senators on their findings.

During the long holiday weekend, the commission made clear it has deep concerns about the decision by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to go ahead with the country's 25th shuttle launch Jan. 28 even though questions had been raised about the performance of sealing rings on the rocket boosters in subfreezing temperatures.

William Rogers, commission chairman, in a statement Saturday suggested that the decisionmaking process that led to a launch go-ahead "may have been flawed." The panel also asked that no NASA officials involved in the decision to launch continue to be involved in the space agency's investigation of the accident.

Documents released last week by the commission detail a history of concern among NASA and its contractors about the vulnerability of the rings. pounds and to increase the power of their motors. The alterations, made so the shuttles could lift

He said Challenger's fuel tank, holding nearly 500,000 there were six instances of ring problems in the next 17 flights that preceded Challenger's demise. Mulloy said the new motor's higher temperature

SAN DIEGO - Rep. Jack Kemp, R.N.Y., said Monday he expects Congress to become closely involved with developments in the Philippines and to try to "buy time" for reform policies to take root

"I imagine Congress will look with great skepticism on the so-called Marcos victory," the conservative Republican said.

President Ferdinand Marcos' re-election defeat of challenger Corazon Aquino has been widely criticized because of reported vote fraud. Kemp predicted that when Congress returns to Washington next week, it "will have a lot to say about how (foreign aid) money is spent in the Philippines. We need to buy time," Kemp said. He cited the "a terrible dilemma," however, Kemp said the figure if the economy is improving.

The Philippines, home to Subic Bay Naval Base and Clark Field Air Base, is considered a vital link in U.S. strategy in the Pacific. Kemp said steps must be taken to maintain those facilities.

The Philippines is essential geostrategically to the West," he said. "In my view there's no alternative that could make up for the loss of Subic Bay or the Philippines. If the bases were lost, he said, Japan and other bers of Congress are widely split on the future course of U.S. relations with the Philippines and that no immediate U.S. action should be anticipated. "This thing has yet to be worked out here, much less in the Philippines," he said.

He also spoke out Monday against the Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget act, which requires a budget-deficit limit of $144 billion next year. Kemp, who voted against the measure, said it is not economically sound to have to meet an inflexible

"I think the idea of getting deficits down is good but to hold yourself hostage to a rigid, artificial, arbitrary target to me is nonsense, mindless," he said. "There's nothing sacrosanct about a $144 billion deficit in 1987. If the economy is operating on an upward path...I'd be willing to accept $150 billion or a $160 billion deficit.

Kemp, who is considered to be among the most

The cause of the fire, which broke out shortly before midnight Monday, was under investigation.

Tanker spills chemical into river

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A tanker truck ran off Interstate 70 and into a river Monday, spilling about 2,000 gallons of a poisonous chemical and forcing as many as 200 people to be evacuated from their homes for most of the day, authorities

The residents, who lived downstream from the accident site in the Stillwater River, were allowed to return to their homes 11 hours after the early-morning accident. But they were warned not to drink or wash in water from their wells until state environmental crews could test their water for possible contamination. A three-mile stretch of I-70 was closed in both directions for six hours. Westbound lanes opened at mid-morning, but efforts to pump the remaining chemical out of the truck kept eastund lanes closed into the night.

The driver and a passenger were treated and released, the Highway Patrol said, and no other injuries were reported. Randolph Township Fire Chief David P. Evans said he ordered the evacuation for a half-mile downstream after authorities discovered the tanker contained poisonous methylene diphenylene di-isocyanate. Guide books say the chemical is poisonous if swallowed or if its dust is inhaled.

Officials estimated that 2,000 gallons spilled, leaving 100 gallons in the tanker.

As many as 200 people were evacuated, said Edwin R. Kovar, director of the Miami Valley Disaster Services Authority.

The chemical, called MDI, is used to make plastics and was being shipped by DSI Transports from Louisiana to Livonia, Mich., said Allan D. Franks, Ohio Environmental Protection Agency spokesman.

Evans said that when firefighters arrived, there was, milky

G. Robert Overman, one of those evacuated to three shelters, said he bought a house in the area 13 years ago because of its isolation and beauty.

"Now we've got a taste of the real world," he said.

Residents said the stretch of highway, which has the first major hill coming into the area from the west, has been the scene of other accidents. And during the recovery operation Monday morning, two semis collided in the westbound lanes; no one was seriously hurt, authorities said.
