Reagan: Planned budget cuts 'dangerous'

Reagan says proposed cuts in his defense budget would be "backsliding of the most irresponsible kind," but some of his strongest supporters in Congress predict he faces a stiff fight against his military buildup. The president, speaking from his desk as snow fell outside an Oval Office window, said in a televised speech Wednesday night that because of his policies, "American strength is once again a sheltering arm for freedom in a dangerous

"Just as we are sitting down at the bargaining table with the Soviet Union, let's not throw America's trump card away," he said, noting congressional proposals to cut as much as $50 billion from his $320 billion military spending request.

This is reckless, dangerous and wrong," he said. "It's backsliding of the most irresponsible kind."

House Democratic leader Jim Wright of Texas, in his party's response to the president's address, said defense cuts are needed to reduce budget deficits that "themselves pose a danger to our national Wright's Republican counterpart, Rep. Robert Michel of Illinois, said, 'I'm going to do my best to support the president's request, but I recognize full well he is not going to get everything he is asking for.

Sen. John Warner, R-Va., an administration supporter on the Senate Armed Services Committee, said, "I am for a strong defense, but I won't commit to an exact figure at this time. I think the element of fairness has to be shown throughout our analysis of the budget, both on the defense and the non-defense side.'

Even Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, a Reagan booster who is the second-ranking Republican on the Armed Services panel, conceded, "We may not be able to get as much as the president wants." Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., noted a Congressional Budget Office report that the administration underestimated defense spending for the coming fiscal year by $12 billion to $15

"Under those circumstances, we will have no alternative but to have to get out the pruning shears and the scalpel and do the necessary cutting on the defense budget," Heinz said.

Sen. Charles Grassley of Iowa, a conservative Republican critic of what he says is wasteful government spending, declared, "It's my feeling the president's appeal will not fly. Wright said if Congress approves the boost of about 12 percent in auning Oct. 1, "We'd be spending almost four times as much on the military by the end of this decade as the nation spent during the height of the Vietnam War.

MMH board OKs 'management fee'

By RON GILMORE Staff Writer

In an effort to "protect the medi-cal community," officials of Midland Memorial Hospital's governing bodies approved a special fund aimed at warding off competition from outside medical corporations.

The fund, called a "management fee," was approved by both the Board of Directors of the Midland County Hospital District and the Midland Memorial Foundation's Board of Trustees at Wednesday's monthly meeting. The Board of Governors, which also met, did not have the quorum necessary to officially vote on the issue, but did show a vote of confidence for the fee. The governors will discuss the measure at a ■ MMH Board of Directors refuse request to help fund county-wide election

According to hospital officials, the fee will be used for various hospital activities, including paying for a feasibility study recently conducted which examined the need for an "alternative delivery system" in the

The fee, which would amount to 1 percent of gross annual revenues (about $500,000) would be transferred from MCHD to MMH and would be reviewed annually by the boards. MMH stated that monies for the special fee would not come from digent care funds, but rather from hospital operating revenues. Chairman of the Board of Trustees Tom Bruner, said that the money could be used in a variety of areas including paying MMH president Ray Branson's salary, which was pre-viously paid by the MCHD, and will partially go toward paying for the estimated $75,000 study conducted by Oakmark.

Bruner said concern over the possibility of medical corporations establishing services with reduced

Marcos loyalists arrested after weapons found

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Nine supporters of Ferdinand E. Marcos were arrested today after authorities found guns hidden in cars they were taking to visit a military leader who helped oust Marcos, Defense Ministry officials said.

Laoag City Mayor Rodolfo Farinas and eight bodyguards were taken into custody for questioning in connection with the possession of several automatic rifles and other firearms, said Ministry spokesman Silvestre Afable. He indicated illegal weapons possession charges would

The nine were going to pay a "courtesy call" on Defense Minister Juan Pone Enrile at Camp Aguinaldo, said another ministry spokesman, Jose Flores. Enrile and Gen. Fidel V. Ramos were the two top military leaders who defected to Corazon Aquino's side on Saturday, helping to hasten Marcos' fall from power Tuesday.

Flores said the nine men, from Marcos' home province of Ilocos Norte, were not authorized to carry firearms and did not say anything about wanting to take arms to the camp to surrender them, as many former Marcos supporters have

Mrs. Aquino appealed to her predecessor today to tell his loyalists still in the country not to foment violence against the new government

The president, interviewed on ABC's "Good Morning America," said, "Let me ask Mr. Marcos that if he still has any loyalists here who intend to do the Filipinos harm then Mr. Marcos do your very best.

Think of your countrymen who have already been hurt, who have already suffered so much under your regime," she said. "The time is now to make amends and so whatever you can do to discourage your loyalists from inflicting more harm on our people should be your concern.

Police said today that two alleged communist rebels were killed in an attack in Bataan province west of Manila on a police official, the first deaths involving Filipino insurgents since Mrs. Aquino became president.

The Philippine Constabulary in Pampanga said two men riding a motorcycle Wednesday followed a jeep carrying Col. Jose Andaya, the provincial police commander. When one fired a pistol, both were killed by return fire, police said.

Also today, Mrs. Aquino began releasing Filipinos jailed on political charges under Marcos. A military leader said another 400 could be freed soon.

Emotional reunions with friends and relatives occurred as at least a dozen people were taken out of detention at two camps in Manila, including poet Milagros Aguilar, 35, jailed since 1984 for "rebellion and subversion.

At an outdoor Mass in Manila, one ex-prisoner, identified as Jaime Verdan, told hundreds of worshipers, "I cannot say how happy I am. I thank people's power' and God." Special U.S. envoy Philip Habib arrived in Manila today and met with Mrs. Aquino to congratulate her on her victory, said a statement from Mrs. Aquino's office.

Habib said, "Filipinos had astonished the world with their courage,' and "pictures of nuns kneeling in the path of on-rushing tanks had deeply moved the American people and those in the highest circles of the U.S. government," according to the statement.

Habib was in the Philippines last week on what was officially called a "fact-finding mission," before the collapse of the 20-year-old Marcos government and the former ruler's flight to Hawaii via Guam.

Spokesmen for Mrs. Aquino said she also met privately with envoys of the 12-nation Common Market and with ambassadors presenting letters from their governments, many of which had refused to recognize Marcos' victory in the Feb. 7 election that Mrs. Aquino said Marcos had stolen from her by fraud and

Midland jobless rate up by almost 1 percent

By MELLA McEWEN Business/Oil Writer

Midland saw a leap in the unemployment rate of almost 1 percent during the month of January, according to figures released by the Texas Employment Commission. The rate rose from 4.6 percent in December, 1985 to 5.5 percent in January, 1986. Odessa showed an unemployment rate of 6.4 percent, up from 5.2 percent the previous month.

Midland's civilian labor force numbered 50,800, down from December's bered 50,800, down from December's 52,000. Total employment stood at 48,000, down from 49,600 a month ago, leaving 2,800 unemployed, up from 2,400 in December. For January, the state's actual unemployment rate stood at 6.9 percent, still below the national rate of 7.3 percent. Midland finished sixth lowest in the state, behind leader Austin, with 4.4 percent and second place San Angelo with 4.6 percent.

The December figures show a major revision in TEC statistics. The original figures for December, 1965 indicated a Midland labor force of 61.700. 63,700, total employment of 61,100, unemployment of 2,600, and a unemployment rate of 4.1 percent.

The TEC recently finished revising its figures for 1986, using new Census Bureau data given to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. According to Bob Burke, manager of the Midland TEC office, the unemployment percentage is closer to what it should be. "It would seem the early census projections on Midland's growth in the early 1980s were over-

The president referred only briefly to Nicaragua, citing it as one of several countries where "freedom fighters are challenging communist regimes.'

Sixteen Democratic senators and two Republicans — Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon and Lowell Weicker of Connecticut — sent Reagan a letter Wednesday asking him to withdraw his request for $100 million to help rebels fighting the leftist Nicaraguan government. Since eight Latin American nations have recently appealed for an end to outside aid for Central American combatants, they said, "This would be a particularly bad time for the United States to increase the level of conflict in Central America.'

A senior administration official, speaking on condition he not be identified, told reporters, "The reason for the speech is to kick off the debate that we recognize is going to take place this year.'

"Over the next few months, you'll be hearing this debate," Reagan said.

Reagan praises leaders' restraint

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says America's "hearts and hands" are with Corazon Aquino and her new Philippines government as she tries to solve her country's longstanding military and economic

In a nationally televised address Wednesday night, Reagan also praised "the remarkable restraint" shown by Mrs. Aquino and deposed President Ferdinand Marcos in preventing widespread bloodshed during the rapid transfer of power following the disputed Feb. 7 presidential election.

"Despite a flawed election, the Filipino people were understood," Reagan said. "They carried their message peacefully, and they were heard across their country and across the world.'

Reagan, who had urged Marcos to step down after 20 years in power, noted, "We salute the remarkable restraint, shown by both sides, to prevent bloodshed during these last tense days. "Our hearts and hands are with President Aquino and her new government as they set out to meet the challenges ahead," he said.

As Reagan saluted the new leadership, which took over after Marcos fled the country Tuesday on a U.S. military jet, the administration said it did not plan to seize or freeze Marcos' vast holdings in the United States. The administration was silent on whether it would resist legal efforts by Mrs. Aquino's government to claim his assets

Reagan delivered his remarks on the Philippines at the beginning of a speech from the Oval Office on defense issues. He did not mention Marcos by name.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan would soon speak by telephone with Mrs. Aquino. Special envoy Philip Habib was arriving in Manila for talks on "how the U.S. can help in addressing the problems of economic revival, national security," Speakes said.

Summing up the administration assessment of Mrs. Aquino's first two days in office, Speakes said: "So far,

she's done a very good job."

For years, the United States had been criticizing Marcos for failing to improve his country's faltering economy and stumbling in the war against leftist guerrillas.

With Marcos gone, the administration is now expected to put similar pressure on Mrs. Aquino, while offering her substantial help.

'She's got to deal with the growing insurgency," said Undersecretary of State Michael Armacost. "In order to do that, she's got to revive confidence in the economy.

We will be looking, in the days ahead, at the kind of policy measures they will be taking which would make additional help from us meaningful and helpful," Armacost

The Reagan administration has proposed a grant of $233 million in economic and military assistance to the Philippines in 1987, down slightly from this year's $240 million. Marcos, meanwhile, arrived in Hawaii with an entourage of 89 family members and political associates for what may be an extended stay. Pentagon spokesman Lt. Cmdr. Chris Baumann said it "would be a good, educated guess that he (Marcos) would remain in Hawaii for some time." Other officials said that although they did not know Marcos travel plans he was being welcomed to the United States because of his longstanding support for U.S. policies.

One official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said the decision to permit Marcos to come to the United States was made easier because there is no U.S.-Philippines extradition treaty. This would tend to help the Reagan administration avoid future conflicts with any future Philippine government that might want to bring Marcos to trial.

The official also said concerns about Marcos' safety were less than they would have been for Haitian President Jean Claude Duvalier, who was not permitted to come to the United States after he was deposed Rene Saguisag, a civil rights lawyer who is Mrs. Aquino's official spokesman, told reporters that the prisoner releases were being handled on "a case-to-case basis.

Ramos, the new military chief, said after the Mass at Camp Crame, headquarters of the pro-Aquino "people's power" revolt that drove Marcos into exile, that 33 people jailed on political charges were slated for immediate polygon. ed for immediate release.

Ramos said a Defense Ministry task force was "processing as expeditiously as possible" papers for the release of at least 400 more people in military custody.

The head of the Philippine human rights organization Kapatid, or Brother, said the group had given Mrs. Aquino's government a list of 560 detainees, most of whom were jailed under Marcos' Presidential Detention Act.

The act, set up as part of Marcos 1972 decree of martial law, provided imprisonment for activities that threatened national security or public order.

Mrs. Aquino's husband, opposition leader Benigno Aquino, was jailed for seven years under martial law. Freed in 1980, he left for voluntary exile in the United States and was assassinated in 1983 as he returned to Manila to challenge Marcos.

dication there would be an attempt to try bringing Marcos back to the Philippines, but she created a Commission on Good Government charged with stopping and returning any illegal outflow of wealth accumulated by Marcos' followers.

Marcos is reputed to have extensive real estate holdings in the United States, including four commercial buildings in Manhattan and a 14-acre estate on Long Island that a House subcommittee estimates have a combined value of $350 million.

A recent U.S. intelligence report estimated the wealth of Marcos and his family at $3 billion, the Wall Street Journal reported. We feel this is not in the best interest in our medical community.

"Rather than an employer being at the mercy of rising medical costs, the ADS gives him a way out," he said. 'The ultimate object is to reduce the cost of medical care.

Oakmark presented a preliminary report of its findings to the physician/hospital advisory group last Thursday

Bruner said that the fee monies could be used in other areas as well. "There are many possibilities," he said. "For example, six months ago, NASA, defense officials urge shuttle replacement WASHINGTON (AP) - Top space "would strongly urge the procure-and defense officials are urging quick replacement of the destroyed hallenger space shuttle at an estimated cost of nearly $2 billion.

"If it were up to me, I'd start this morning," said William R. Graham, acting administrator of the National Aeronautics and Administration.

Graham testified Wednesday at a hearing of the House Science and Technology subcommittee on space science and applications, along with Edward C. Aldridge, undersecretary of the Air Force, who also urged a prompt start on building a fourth shuttle orbiter Challenger, which cost $1.2 billion to build four years ago, was destroyed in an explosion 73 seconds after launch on Jan. 28. Its seven crew members were killed.

An urgent interagency review involving NASA, the Defense Department and the Office of Management and Budget is approaching "a very strong consensus" to build a new orbiter, and a recommendation is expected soon, Graham said.

President Reagan must give the order to build the craft, he said. The Pentagon, Aldridge said.

The destruction of the Challenger created "essentially a national emergency" that justifies the cost of replacement, regardless of other budget-cutting priorities, said Aldridge.

Congressional sources, declining to be named publicly, said the cost would be close to $2 billion, not counting $350 million in shuttle parts now available Building and testing a new orbiter

Suicide not discounted in cyanide poisoning

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Suicide has not been ruled out in the death of a man whose body, containing 20 times the lethal dosage of cyanide, was found with a bottle of Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules nearby, authorities said.

State health officials banned the sale of Tylenol in capsule form Wednesday and sent the bottle and one remaining capsule for tests, but authorities said an autopsy on the body of Timothy R. Green, 32, revealed no acetaminophen, the active ingredient in the painkiller. Green's body was found Sunday night in his Nashville home, two weeks after a woman died in New York from consuming Tylenol taint Dr. Charles Harlan, the Davidson County medical examiner, said preliminary reports indicated cyanide was found in the remaining capsule,

but later he told reporters the bottle and the capsule had only the characteristic almond-like smell of cyanide "There are all different kinds of possibilities here." Harlan said. "It's possible it could have been done by the victim himself.

Assistant Police Chief Sherman Nickens said Wednesday that authorities had not ruled out suicide in Green's death. The FBI joined local authorities in the investigation. Police initially did not link the bottle of capsules to Green's death because he had recently undergone a series of operations and was not in the best of health, authorities said. He was found after several of his friends told police they had not been able to contact him for days. Nickens said officials had still not determined where Green bought the Harlan said the unopened capsule and the bottle would be shipped to a Food and Drug Administration laboratory in Cincinnati for further tests. An amount of 0.5 micrograms per milliliter of cyanide in human blood is lethal to humans, said Harlan. "He had 20 times that amount," he said of Green.

Johnson & Johnson, which manufactures Tylenol, earlier this month pulled the non-aspirin pain-reliever in capsule form off store shelves after the death of Diane Elsroth, 23, in Yonkers, N.Y., after she took an Extra-Strength Tylenol capsule containing cyanide.

Johnson & Johnson also has begun an investigation into Green's death, but Lawrence Foster, a spokesman for the New Brunswick, N.J.-based maker of Tylenol, said there were not enough details to issue a statement.

Despite Johnson & Johnson's move, the seriousness of the problem sparked Tennessee to issue its own ban on the sale and use of the painreliever in capsules, said Dr. Robert Hutcheson, the state epidemiologist. But he asked Tennesseans not to

Hawaiian Filipinos greet Marcos with mixed reactions

HONOLULU (AP) — The Filipino community, the third largest ethnic group in Hawaii, is split over whether exiled Philippines President Ferdinand E. Marcos should be granted sanctuary in the islands.

Marcos, his wife, Imelda, and other family members and close aides arrived Wednesday, although their plans are uncertain.

"We still love President Marcos, despite what has happened," Jose Lazo, who heads a pro-Marcos group here, told state senators Wednesday

The Senate Government Operations Committee took under advisement a resolution introduced by Sen. Duke Kawasaki urging that President Reagan and Congress deny Marcos sanctuary in the United Senate President Richard S.H. Wong, however, said the resolution is dead. "We can't tell the president what to do.

Kawasaki admitted the resolution. introduced before Marcos fled his country, is probably moot, but said it gave Hawaii's Filipino community. which numbers 115,000 and is smaller than the Japanese and Caucasian communities, an opportunity to express its views on the prospect of Marcos living here.

Marcos should be "extradited back to the Philippines to face charges for the atrocities of violence, murder and imprisonment of thousands of political prisoners," Maria Abadesco, a member of the Union of Democrat ic Filipinos, told the committee.

We need some safeguard so Marcos doesn't use Hawaii as a base to set up a government in exile," added Alberto Abano Sen. Joe Kuroda said. "Marcos. good or bad, was the head of the government and as the head of the government was an ally and friend to the United States. There should be some consideration for humanitar ian spirit.

Marcos opponent Helen Toribio responded that "the crimes in his 20 years of office heavily outweigh any queston of humanitarian concerns.

Dean Alegado, another longtime Marcos opponent, said he's concerned Marcos, his family and his exiled aides, including Gen. Fabian Ver. will "use his enormous wealth and power to regroup his supporters into a potential right-wing contra force using Honolulu as his base of operations.

Kuroda noted that Marcos was in poor health, but Alegado responded, We would prefer not to take a gamble. Other members of his entourage are pretty healthy. We would rather not underestimate Mrs. Marcos. She has many talents."

Soviet satellite falls over Australia

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) - A Soviet satellite burned up today as it re-entered the Earth's atmosphere over north-central Australia, U.S. air defense officials said.

No pieces of debris from Cosmos 1714 have been reported, said Kay Cormier, public affairs officer at the North America Aerospace Defense command headquarters inside Cheyenne Mountain, west of Colorado

''It's a pretty remote area anyway," she said.

The bus-sized satellite re-entered the atmosphere at 5:15 a.m. MST at a speed of about 17,000 mph, Cormier said. It burned up as a result of friction.

NORAD has been tracking Cosmos 1714 on radar screens since late December, but once it re-entered the atmosphere, NORAD's responsibility toward the craft ended, Cormier

NORAD keeps track of about 6,005 objects in space, about 4,000 of which are old rocket bodies and other "space junk," according to spokes-man Del Kindschi. About 500 miscellaneous objects fall from space every year, the vast majority burning up upon reentry. When Cosmos 1714 — the 1,714th satellite in the Cosmos series — was launched Dec. 29, Soviet authorities released a statement saying only that they had launched another satellite in a series devoted to outer-

NORAD officials did not know the Sovjet satellite's mission or its power

Marcos rests under heavy security at Hawaiian base

HONOLULU (AP) - Exiled Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos remained under heavy security at a military base today, while opponents tried to get him out of the United States, fearing he would set up a right-wing contra force."

Marcos, his wife, Imelda, former Philippines armed forces chief of staff Gen. Fabian Ver and other members of the entourage were housed at the Hickam Air Force Base officers quarters. They did not leave the area, and were reported to be resting early today.

They are in their rooms, trying to catch up on sleep," said U.S. Pacific Command spokesman Capt. David Simms. "When he (Marcos) is ready to come out in the open, that's going to be his decision.

Gov. George R. Ariyoshi and his wife, Jean, along with Gen. Robert W. Bazley, commander of the Pacific Air Force, greeted Marcos on Wednesday morning upon his arrival. Besides military and security personnel, only a contingent of news media was allowed to view the

In past visits, Marcos had been greeted by bands and groups of cheering supporters as a head of state. This time was different, Ariyoshi said.

"His son said he didn't have much clothing," Ariyoshi said. "And one daughter said she didn't have any clean clothes.

Ariyoshi said he didn't know how long Marcos would stay at the base, or where he would settle. "The fam-

Marcos was helped down the steps of a U.S. Air Force C-141 aircraft that had carried him from Guam. He was dressed in a light windbreaker and golf hat, and walked unaided to a limousine.

He has been reported to be suffering from lupus, a debilitating disease, and was reported to have been carried by stretcher aboard a U.S. plane in the Philippines when he fled his island nation.

Maj. Virginia Pribyla, spokeswoman for the U.S. Pacific Command, said she knew of no plans for Marcos to undergo medical examination at Tripler Army Medical Center, nor did she have any information that special medical equipment had been requested for the quarters where Marcos was staying.

After 20 years in power, Marcos fled the Pacific nation of 55 million people Tuesday aboard a U.S. military jet as rebel military officials took control of the country under opposition leader Corazon Aquino.

Fiedler charges dropped

LOS ANGELES (AP) — U.S. Rep. Bobbi Fiedler, elated over dismissal of political bribery charges against her and her top aide, says she now can concentrate on winning the GOP senate primary and face Democrat Sen. Alan Cranston.

But State Sen. Ed. Davis, who initiated the investigation against her, said he was shocked at the judge's decision Wednesday to dismiss the charges against Fiedler and her aide and fiance, Paul Clarke.

The two were indicted in January on charges they violated state election laws by offering Davis a $100,000 payment to retire his campaign debt if he would withdraw from the Superior Court Judge Robert Altman dismissed the case, saying there was inadequate evidence to convict Fiedler and that the charge against Clarke was based on an incorrect interpretation of the law.

Brie recall expanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nation-wide recall of French Brie cheese that may be contaminated by a potentially fatal bacteria has been expanded to new brands, and consumers are being cautioned to ask for brand names and lot numbers when buying unlabeled Brie wedges.

The Food and Drug Administration said Wednesday that Martin-Collet/Galac Clandel U.S.A., the U.S. importer, is voluntarily recalling these brands:

— Fleurs de France, codes 320 and 018, with distributors identified by the FDA as Olfisco, European Imports and Walker Foods.

— Marco, code 320, distributed by European Imports.

Martin-Collet and Meaux Martin-Collet, code 320, distributed by Olfisco and European Imports.

All may be contaminated by Listeria monocytogenes, a potentially fatal bacteria that is supposed to be killed in pasteurization.

The bacteria in the cheeses can cause listeriosis, an illness that can be life-threatening to pregnant women and their fetuses, is also dangerous to small children and frail elderly people or others with a weakened immune system.

Billig found guilty of causing patients' deaths in surgery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy surgeon Dr. Donal M. Billig faces a maximum sentence of nearly 12 years in prison for causing the deaths of patients in the operating room and for other errors in open-heart surgery at the Navy's premier hospital.

Billig awaits sentencing after a jury of nine superior officers convicted him Wednesday of involuntary manslaughter in two cases and negligent homicide in a third — all stemming from operations at Bethesda Naval Hospital outside Washington, where he was chief of heart surgery

He was acquitted in the deaths of two additional patients for which he had been charged. He was found guilty of 19 of 24 counts of dereliction of duty in varying degrees of severity for operating unsupervised at a time when his privileges were restricted.

Billig, 55, a commander, also faces

a possible fine and dismissal from the Navy.

He left the court-martial at the Washington Navy Yard without speaking, accompanied by his wife, Bonnie.

His military lawyer, Lt. Cmdr. Stephen Baker, told reporters the case turned on "the overwhelming assault on the character of Dr. Billig by the prosecution."

He is the first Navy doctor to be convicted of manslaughter, according to the Navy, and only the second ever to be charged. His case came at a time of increased scrutiny of problems in military medicine by Congress and others, and brought questions about the quality of care at Bethesda, the hospital where presidents often go for treatment.

The eight-week trial involved complex testimony on the delicate procedures of open-heart surgery, with the prosecution arguing Billig had killed five patients through clumsy and dim-sighted incompetence. Under military law, only a twoBonnie leave the Washington Navy Yard courtroom Wednesday after Billig was convicted on two counts of involuntary manslaughter and one count of negligent homicide in the deaths of patients.

Morton Thiokol faces $10 million fine if rocket motor caused shuttle explosion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The contract between NASA and Morton Thiokol Inc. would penalize the rocket maker $10 million if investigators decide the cause of the Challenger explosion lies with the company's solidfuel rocket motor, a NASA official says.

"There is no incentive to take a safety-of-flight risk," NASA's Lawrence Mulloy told presidential investigators who are concerned that Morton Thiokol managers might have felt pressure to approve the launch from Mulloy or other agency officials.

The contract between Morton Thiokol and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration calls for the company to produce the booster rockets that lift the shuttle into orbit. It also offers rewards for meeting performance standards and deadlines.

Both the penalty and reward clauses are standard in NASA agreements with all its shuttle contractors, company officials said in Brigham City, Utah.

After Wednesday's hearing, Mulloy told reporters, "If an investigating board decides that the cause lies with the solid rocket motor, the $10 million penalty will be

The contract was mentioned during the public hearing by William Rogers, the chairman of presidential commission investigating the Jan. 28 explosion that destroyed the shuttle and killed its seven-member crew The panel has been investigating a theory that safety seals failed on the right-side booster rocket, perhaps causing the explosion.

Morton Thickol engineers testified they opposed launch because they feared cold weather would impair the seals, perhaps with disastrous consequences. But after being questioned by NASA rocket engineering experts, company managers supplied a go-ahead.

On Wednesday, while questioning one NASA expert, Rogers said some company witnesses left the impres-sion they felt pressured by NASA to rescind their opposition to launch, and had noted that their contract to build the boosters was up for renewal.

Mulloy, NASA's manager of the booster rockets, said he "can't conceive that there was a pressure" on this account, since Morton Thiokol is the "sole source" of such solid-fuel rockets and would certainly have gotten the renewal unless the shuttle was totally redesigned.

Further, he said, the company would run the risk of incurring a $10 million penalty if its equipment was formally blamed for the explosion. And he later told reporters that, in addition, nine straight fully successful flights would earn the contractor a bonus of around 12 percent of the original contract.

Court upholds city-enacted rent controls

WASHINGTON (AP) - Apartment dwellers looking for help from city hall in coping with escalating rents have received encouragement from the Supreme

The court ruled 8-1 Wednesday that communities may impose rent controls without authorization from state legislatures.

The justices upheld a Berkeley, Calif., rent control law attacked by landlords as a "price-fixing conspiracy" that violates federal antitrust law.

In California, lawyers on both sides of the landlordtenant controversy said the fight may shift to the state

Myron Moskowitz, a Golden Gate University law professor in San Francisco, hailed the ruling as protection for a host of municipal regulatory functions. A contrary decision would have been "horrendous for every city in the country," he said. If the challenge to Berkeley's rent control law had succeeded, such ac tivities as zoning and building regulation, "the bread and butter of what cities do...would be vulnerable to expensive lawsuits," Moskowitz said.

Chip Nielsen, a lawyer for Berkeley landlords, said he will try to convince state lawmakers to reduce municipal power to impose rent controls. A pending bill in the legislature "is the prime focus at this point," he said.

The Supreme Court said the Berkeley ordinance is valid because it was imposed by the city government and did not involve any concerted action by owners of rental property banding together to fix prices.

In a lone dissent, Justice William J. Brennan said the court - without acknowledging it - wiped out "40 years of carefully considered precedent" limiting local

"Until today we have not held, or indeed even suggested, that government-imposed restraints on economic actions cannot constitute concerted action," Brennan

He said the decision means a city may act "to protect the public welfare" even if such action violates the Sherman Act, a major federal antitrust law passed by Congress in 1890. The law prohibits "contracts, combinations or conspiracies" in restraint of trade and also bans any attempt to monopolize markets.

Aquino asks Marcos, loyalists for peace

NEW YORK (AP) — Philippines President Corazon Aquino appealed to her predecessor Ferdinand Marcos today to tell his loyalists still in the country not to cause any violence against the new regime.

Interviewed on ABC's "Good Morning America," Mrs. Aquino said, "Let me ask Mr. Marcos that if he still has any loyalists here who intend to do the Filipinos harm...whatever you can do to discourage your loyalists from inflicting more harm on our people should be your concern.'

"Think of our country," she said. "Think of your countrymen who have already been hurt, who have already suffered so much under your regime. The time is now to make amends.

Mrs. Aquino, who was also interviewed in taped interviews on CBS and NBC, said she has begun releasing political prisoners, one of her campaign pledges, and would release communists who pledge to renounce violence and be loyal to her

She also said her government would try to prosecute former officials guilty of harming the Filipino people and to recover the "hidden wealth" reportedly taken from government coffers by Marcos and his

Engineering building named for McNair

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) - North Carolina A&T State University's new $8.5 million engineering building will be named for astronaut Ronald E. McNair, who died when the space shuttle Challenger exploded last month

The school's trustees passed a resolution Wednesday to honor McNair. a 1971 physics graduate from the Greensboro university

The 94,400-square-foot, six-story building is under construction and expected to be completed in September

We think it is timely and appropriate to name this building af ter McNair who made an outstand ing contribution to the state and the nation," said William C. Parker chairman of the board McNair, a native of Lake City, S.C. was one of seven astronauts killed Jan 28 when the space shuttle exploded.

In January, for example, 131,500 illegal aliens were apprehended coming across the Mexican border, compared to 86,200 in the same month a year ago. And for every one apprehended, at least two others make it across without detection, according to immigration officials.

Commissioner Alan C. Nelson of the Immigration and Naturalization Service says the United States expects to stop 1.8 million illegal aliens on its southern border this year. He predicts ever increasing numbers because of the tragic earthquakes and widespread poverty and unemployment in Mexico and Central America. The problem only worsens with each passing year.

Not that the American people would support a total cutoff of migration to this country. America always has been and always will be a nation of immigrants, but with unrestricted immigration the problems stemming from the influx compounded.

Dangerous fruit given EPA nod

7 ASHINGTON — Like the pointy-headed bureaucrats Gov. George Wallace used to deride for being unable to park their bicycles straight, the State Department's global thinkers sometimes can't get their priorities straight. They're willing to risk American consumers' health to keep from upsetting a few mango growers in Mexico, Haiti and Belize.

The easiest way to keep fruit flies from spoiling the $20 million worth mangoes imported into the United States each year is to dust the yellow-red tropical fruit

cause cancer in humans

Describing the chemical as an "extremely high" cancer risk, the Environmental Protection Agency banned the use of EDB domestically effective Sept. 1, 1984. It gave Caribbean mango growers a one-year break to find another way to combat the fruit flies. Instead, the nations got their friends in Foggy Bottom to ask for an extension on their EDB exemption. Incredibly, the combined clout of the mango and cookie pushers succeeded in battering the EPA into submission. The agency now intends to let American consumers eat poison-dusted mangoes for up to two more years. At first the agency held firm on its decision to ban EDB-treated fruit on Sept. 1, 1985. On Aug. 28, an internal EPA memo said: "Since the risks for U.S. consumers of treated mangoes are not changed from EPA's 1984 estimates, which found one year of further exposure to be the limit of acceptable continued exposure, the agency feels that additional exposure to EDB in the diet is not in the term exposure." The two-year extenpublic interest.

Then, on Sept. 21, the mango growers brought up their heavy artillery: Deputy Secretary of State John C. Whitehead. He wrote to EPA Administrator Lee Thomas, expressed "concern" about the EDB ban, and asked the agency to "take another look at this issue

Laying it on with a spreader, Whitehead almost seemed to say it was a patriotic duty to eat EDB-laden mangoes. Deprived of the pesticide, Caribbean mango growers would wither and go broke, with apparently calamitous effects on their countries' economies - and on U.S. regional strategy.

These countries are of great strategic interest to the U.S.," Whitehead explained. "Our interests in Mexico are enormous. ... We also have major strategic and economic interests in the Caribbean Basin."

Acting Assistant Secretary of State James Michel chimed in with the dubious claim that "360,000 peasant producers" in Haiti alone depend on the mango crop for survival. He added that the American ambassador in Belize had warned the State Department that the EDB ban would "significantly harm the delicate econo-

How all these supposed thousands of Caribbean mango growers subsist on roughly $20 million worth of total exports a year is not clear. What soon became clear was that the EPA succumbed to the pressure.

EPA officials drafted new rules that completely contradicted their previous expressions of concern about EDB. It held out hope that an extension for EDB dusting would lead to development of an alternative method of thwarting the fruit flies. Just three months earlier, the agency reported it "found no assurance that given two more years of EDB use, acceptable alternatives would be fully available. Incredibly, the EPA even concluded that the risks of eating EDB-tainted mangoes are "acceptable." An agency official told our associate Corky Johnson this applied to "short-sion is considered "short-term." The EPA argued that EDB residue on new mango imports would be lower than the tolerance level of 30 parts per billion the agency set for the first extension.

But just a few weeks before that, the agency said that EDB was a killer at almost any level. And spot checks by the Food and Drug Administration last year showed that mangoes from Mexico and Haiti had EDB levels 10 times higher than the EPA's new limit.

ART BUCHWALD Pothole miracles still occur

he Pothole Man is happy to report the mailbox has been overflowing with letters. Thanks to a cold and wet winter, potholes are now flowering in neighborhoods that have never seen them before. Unfortunately there is still a lot of ignorance about the and care feeding of potholes and that's where The Pothole Man comes in. Our first letter from Laurie

Kramer who

"I have a beautiful pothole in front of my house measuring two feet by two feet, and one-and-a-half feet deep. What would you advise me to plant in it? Dear Laurie: What you plant in your pothole depends on whether you want to use it for show or eat from it. Since I assume it will be run over at least 200 times a day, I would plant something low to the ground, such as petunias for show or dwarf pear trees for food. Make sure you have a good drainage system in your pothole, or it will fill with water and become a breeding ground for malaria mosquitoes.

The second letter, from Connie Coopersmith, asks us to discuss pothole ownership:

"We bought a home last month with an art deco pothole that the previous owner insisted was at least 50 years old. Actually, we bought the house for the hole. Now it turns out we do not own the pothole — the city does. Can we still fertilize it and treat it as our own?' Dear Connie: It is interesting that the city would claim ownership of a pothole on your street. Municipal authorities, when called, not only deny they own the pothole, but attempt to prove your street is not even within the city limits. Consider the street hole your own.

A letter from Joey Fontana deals with fixing up potholes: 'My hobby is finding run-down potholes in the neighborhood and improving them so they look almost brand-new. I drive a cement truck so I think I do as good a job as anyone. The other day at Cathedral and 44th Street, I made a beaut — I mean a Greyhound bus could disappear in and never be heard from again.

"Well, this guy Charlie Guggenheim, who owns a house right there, said I was getting too close to his pothole. He told me to fill it in or take it somewhere else. I'm not taking it anywhere. Am I right?' Dear Joey: You certainly are. Guggenheim should be pleased with having your pothole in front of his house. If he had any class he'd fill it up with humus and plant some tulips. Recently the courts have ruled that a pothole belongs to all the people. Our founding fathers wanted America's potholes to be shared by everyone - from sea to shining sea. By enlarging and widening the pothole in front of Guggenheim's house you enhanced all the real estate values in the area.

Dana Williams wrote one of the most interesting letters: There was this pothole at the end of the block and it kept getting larger and larger. Every time a car went 'kerplunk,' an axle broke. Then one day a neighbor planted a bush in it so people could see it. The following Friday, for no reason at all, the bush caught on fire and burned. The next morning a city repair truck came by and filled in the hole. My question:

Was the burning bush a miracle?" Dear Dana: I'm not sure about the burning bush, but the city truck showing up to repair the pothole sure as heck was.

Lights, Big It has something like the cachet "Catcher in the Rye" had in the golden age of college youth (meaning when I was in college). Indeed, a crit-ic says "Bright Lights" is "the 'Catcher in the Rye' of the MBA set." From the royalties, McInerney bought a BMW, naturally. He has perfect pitch for the inner music of upscale young professionals networking on the fast track. His novel is the Michelob beer commercial re-invented as literature. It chronicles one picaresque week in the life of a 1980s Holden Caulfield who is failing life as a factchecker at a magazine as full of itself as the New Yorker. The novel's prefatory quotation is from "The Sun

"How did you go bankrupt?" Bill and then suddenly. The novel appeals to people mightily concerned about money, consumption and other sources of derivative identity. It suggests the state of mind (well, state of something) that has been called Transcendental acquisition, spelled R-O-L-E-X. Something bad is "too New Jersey for words." A grating voice sounds like "the New Jersey state anthem." Tacky girls have "an outer-borough look." What is good? Bloomingdale's, and a "J. Press torso," and Twining's breakfast tea. And, always, croissants.

The protagonist is a downwardly mobile young man with a bad habit of "hoovering" cocaine and a tedious habit of wondering who he is. The novel begins: "You are not the kind of guy who would be at a place like this at this time of morning." What other kind of guy isn't he? When in a disreputable night club: "Your presence here is only ... reminding yourself of what you aren't." Yet again: "You see yourself as the kind of guy who appreciates a quiet night at home with a good book. A little Mozart on the speakers" "You see vourself as the kind of guy who wakes up early on Sunday morning and steps out to cop the Times and croissants. Who might take a cue from the Arts and Leisure section ...

Style and substance merge in the use of the second-person pronoun, the tone of voice of the self-absorbed. It is the voice of those Michelob commercials swarming with baby-boomers merrily gentrifying brownstones: "You have a style in your life You're on the way to the You've always known just who you are." McInerney's protagonist hasn't a clue who he is.

The kind of guy who .

In McInerney's second novel, "Ransome," the protagonist of that name is a Beverly Hills boy disgusted with dad who is - vuck! - in television. Ransome goes to earth in Japan and converts (it is a demi-semi-religion for him) to karate, the practice of which "conveyed an extraordinary sense of self-possession." Here we go again, more "selfs" being shopped for and possessed

In a sense, McInerney is traditional to the point of being hidebound. Nothing is more traditional than the theme of alienated youth, especially youth alienated from vulgar dad. McInerney makes that theme into a medley with the tested theme of flight abroad into strange lands and self-discovery. "He felt that the discipline would tone all of his being. It was his way of knowing himself."

McInerney at his worst is nine yards better than another hot new author, Bret Easton Ellis, whose Less Than Zero" is the worst novel since the invention of movable type. It is about yet another alienated Beverly Hills boy who likes cocaine about as much as he dislikes dad, who is in television. Alienated? The book begins: "People are afraid to merge on freeways in Los Angeles."

McInerney's keen ear for trendybabble does make him very funny in life as well as in fiction. When he went to Hollywood to sell "Bright Lights," he says, "They told me they were putting me up at Chateau Mar-mont and I said, 'Is that good?' And they said, 'Is it good? John Belushi died there!" We have not heard the last, or the best, from a man with an ear for stuff like that.

Jurors in Chagra trial recess without verdict about 71/2 hours, jurors in Elizabeth Chagra's retrial on murder conspiracy charges in the 1979 death of a federal judge went home without reaching a verdict.

The overnight recess was called Wednesday night after the eight men and four women asked to hear again about three hours of testimony offered during the trial that began Feb. 5.

Mrs. Chagra, 32, is charged with murder conspiracy, accused of delivering a $250,000 payoff for the 1979 assassination of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr.

She was convicted in 1982, but an appeals court overturned the conviction because of improper jury

Wood, known as "Maximum John" for the stiff sentences he dealt drug offenders, was shot in the back by a sniper as he left his San Antonio condominium

At the time of his death, he was scheduled to hear a case involving Jamiel "Jimmy" Chagra, who was accused of making up to $10 million a year smuggling boatloads of marijuana into Florida.

Jurors' reasonable doubt acquits principal football coach Billy Mac Fleming may never be found, said the lawyer for a principal who was accused of murdering the coach because of an alleged love triangle.

The trail is so cold now I don't think we'll ever know who killed Billy Fleming," said Dick DeGuerin, the attorney for Hurley Fontenot.

Jurors acquitted the former junior high school principal of murder charges he killed Fleming over the affections of a school secretary, but some jurors still had their doubts.

Larry Renfro, the foreman of the 10-woman, two-man jury that found Fontenot innocent Wednesday said that although Fontenot was cleared of the charges, "that doesn't mean some of us still don't think he did it, it was just not proven beyond a reasonable doubt.

Fontenot, 48, former principal of Hull-Daisetta Woodson Junior High School, had been charged with murder in the April 12 shooting death of Fleming, 36, who also taught math and science at the school.

"It was a very tough decision to make but we had to go with the law. We can't speculate," Renfro said. We could only base our decision on the evidence that was presented to

Prosecutors claimed during the six-week trial that Fontenot shot Fleming because both men were rivals for the love of 36-year-old school secretary Laura Nugent. Mrs. Nugent dated Fontenot until late 1984 before she started seeing Fleming. She and Fleming planned to marry last summer

Defense attorneys claimed Liberty County investigators were trying to not commit, and contended they discarded or ignored evidence that pointed to other suspects.

By ignoring other evidence, investigators probably allowed the real killer to go free, DeGuerin said.

The standing room-only crowd at the Polk County Courthouse cheered at the reading of the verdict, reached in 121/2 hours over two days. A subdued Fontenot, hugged De-Guerin, and then his wife, Geneva, and daughter, Vanessa.

"I have always been innocent, and now my innocence has been proved," he said.

Faye Fleming, mother of the slain coach, left the courtroom sobbing but not before she grabbed Fonten-ot's arm and said, "You killed my son and I don't doubt it for one single, solitary second.

Prosecutors David Walker and Peter Speers said the verdict disappointed them.

"I feel, and have always feit, that Hurley Fontenot killed Bill Fleming. but 12 people made a decision that he did not, so he is free to go home, Walker said.

"I accept the verdict, I don't like it.
I'm not happy with it, but I accept it," Speers added.

The jury early Wednesday had asked to rehear testimony from a Liberty County sheriff's investigator about a receipt from a Crosby-area motel where Fleming spent the night with Mrs. Nugent.

Copies of the receipt were mailed with several anonymous letters that prosecutors said were "very derogatory" about the relationship between Mrs. Nugent and Fleming.

Yields hit low

WASHINGTON (AP) - Yields on five-year Treasury notes fell to 8.12 percent in an auction Wednesday, the lowest level in almost eight years.

The Treasury Department said the average yield declined by a full percentage point from the 9.12 percent at the last auction of five-year notes on Nov. 27.

It was the lowest yield since five-year notes brought 7.94 percent on March 28, 1978.

Bids totaled $19.16 billion, with the government selling $7.52 billion in notes, which will bear an interest rate of 8½ percent with a $10,000 note selling for $9,996.00.

LONDON (AP) - The U.S. dollar fell against most major currencies in early trading today, de pressed by U.S. Federal Reserve acceptance of a further decline. dealers said Gold prices tumbled back in line with Wednesday's falls in New York

Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker's remarks Wednesday to the House of Representatives Budget Committee suggesting he does not oppose an orderly decline had pushed down the dollar in New York, and European markets followed suit after they opened, dealers said

tive Vice President, Harry Spannaus, said recent comments by the administration reflected a fully understanding of the implications of falling oil prices.

Said Bolger: "PBPA needs to communicate a reminder to those in authority that dependency on imported oil and gas does not benefit the nation in the long run; could cause a repeat of severe shortages and long A critical resolution aimed at the lines of 1973 and 1979 when shortadministration and signed by PBPA ages were brought on by the discouragement of domestic production and the encouragement of imported imported foreign oil.'

Spannaus said there was not a record of a government policy toward energy since Harry Truman: "We would like for the government to boldly state their position toward domestic energy. Do they want to let the domestic oil industry fall by the way side and rely on foreign crude, saving America's crude for military use only. Or, do they want to try and maintain a domestic industry. We would like to know what we are working against.

Bolger said it appeared from recent administration statements about the benefits of low cost energy that there was little concern for a domestic petroleum industry, except for the maintenance of a few major oil companies: "If that's the policy, and it appears that it is the policy, maybe all the independent should just sell out to a major oil company.

Bolger said it was essential that the nation have a clear national energy policy: "For too many years whatever the consumer wants or whatever is politically expedient for the short term has been our national energy policy. We need a consistent, long range policy that allows the establishment of long term priorities.

Spannaus said one of the biggest problems facing the nation was a lack of a comprehensive federal energy policy. Said Spannaus: "We need to carry on an independent foreign policy that doesn't make American interests dependent on foreign crude from unstable governments and sponsors of world terrorism.'

FDIC names three interim managers

From Staff Reports

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. has named three interim managers to head the Midland office until a permanent replacement for former Managing Liquidator Stanley A. Clark Jr. is named.

Assistant Managing Liquidator Richard Heiar announced Tuesday that Bill Roelle, FDIC managing liquidtor in Knoxville, Tenn., Edd Hull, Costa Mesa, Calif. assistant managing liquidator, and Steve Black, San Francisco regional manager, would be the interim managers, with Roelle heading the team.

It is not known how long the team will manage the office, or whether Black and Hull would remain in Midland after a permanent manager is named. Roelle will divide his time between Midland and Knoxville, according to Alan Whitney, corporate communications office for the FDIC in Washington.

The three will provide interim direction for the office while the agency goes through the process of mak ing permanent appointments.

Whitney commented Clark, who resigned Feb. 14 to become president of a bank in Arkansas, replaced Tom Procopio in November, 1984. Procopio had come to Midland as liquidator-in-charge shortly after the First National Bank of Midland failed, and was later transferred to Atlanta

Midland Plaza, Mervyns officially opened in ceremonies

By JOHN PAUL PITTS

Business/Oil Editor Mervyns and Midland Park Plaza

were officially opened with a round ceremonies today and Wednesday

Sheriff Gary Painter, assisted by Midland Chamber of Commerce M-Squad, officially cut the ribbon for Mervyns today, as local officials were given a tour of the 75,000 square foot store. The store was also officially welcomed by Chamber spokesman, Charles Spence, who told the gathering that Midland was expecting great things from its newest corporate citizen.

Larry Dushane, marketing representative for Mervyns, lost little time in demonstrating the firm's commitment to corporate citizenship by presenting the United Way a check for $1,800 for fiscal 1985, and a check for $5,000 to Museum of the Southwest to be used for a children's summer art festival. The firm annually gives five percent of its net pretax earnings to charity within the community, according to Dushane.

We have heard a lot about why we are here in Midland, during this downturn," said Dushane, "but I can tell you we are excited to be here. We know this is a town with its ups and downs and we are prepared to take the downs with the ups."

He said that the Odessa Mervyns had been doing great business and he expected the same for the Midland store which is 157 in the naion's fastest growing chain. Over 1,200 individuals were interviewed for positions in the new store and 240 were eventually hired Mervyns is the first store to open in Midland Plaza. Service Merchandise, a 50,000 foot specialty store and second anchor in the complex will open in April followed by the shopping center strip in June.

Said Russ Beckner, vice president Dean A. Beck Associates of Los Angeles, developers of Midland Plaza: We are very pleased to be a part of this project. We expect this area of Midkiff and Loop 250 to be the retail focus of Midland for decades to

He said that it was not the intention of his firm to try to play "hop scotch" with local retailers by merely moving them around in the community, but would seek to bring in outside retailers. Dode Harvey of Midland will represent the firm in the regional trade area, while Wilke Co. of Dallas will attempt to bring in national and state retailers to the

202,000 square foot complex. Beckner said sales of $25 million had been projected for the two anchor stores in the shopping center. with $15 million designated for Mervyns and $10 million for Service Merchandise. "That equals about $200 per square foot of floor space," he said. "At $25 per average purchase six-year trend of striking less often and with fewer workers, reflecting an emphasis on saving jobs rather than using work stoppages to win wage gains or fight concession demands from employers.

Unions last year conducted 54 major strikes, eight less than in 1984 and the lowest number of work stoppages in the 39 years the government has been keeping figures on labor strife, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported Wednesday. The all-time high for major strikes was 470 in 1952. The number of workers involved in major strikes also declined from a previous low of 376,000 in 1984 to 324,000 last year, the Bureau said. The government defines a major work stoppage as any strike involving more than 1,000 workers and lasting at least a day. The statistics also showed that for the labor force as a whole, strikes idled workers only three days for every 10,000 days worked in 1985, compared with the previous lows in 1982 and 1984 of four days per 10,000 days worked. A total of 7,079,000 work days were lost to strikes last year, compared with 8,499,000 work days lost in 1984, the bureau said. "All three measures reflect the continuing decline in work stoppage activity that has occurred since 1980, the bureau said, "except for 1983" when a 22-day strike against AT&T involved 660,000 workers at its peak. In 1979, the last time there was an increase in major work stoppages from the previous year, there were 235 strikes involving 1,021,000 workers and 20.4 million lost

The report noted that several new collective bargaining agreements were reached last year without strikes, including new three-year contracts with General Electric Co., Westinghouse Corp. and other electrical equipment manufacturers covering more than 121,000

It also cited strike-avoiding settlements in the textile and apparel industries covering more than 175,000 workers represented by the Ladies Garment Workers and the Clothing and Textile Workers unions.

In addition, the report noted that the United Rubber Workers union last year negotiated new contracts with Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., the B.F. Goodrich Co., Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. and Uniroyal Inc. for 40.000 workers.

The report said the nation's railroads also operated without a strike last year as contract amendment talks that opened in 1984 extended into 1986 for most of the 12 unions representing railway workers.

Conoco reviews size, may cut 25 local jobs

From Staff Reports

Conoco, Inc. management is reviewing the company's organization, with regards to size and structure, in light of the current economic situation, according to David Schieck, division manager of exploration for the firm's Midland office.

Schieck said that, by the time the new organization is in place, around April 1, about 25 to 30 people in the Midland office will either be transferred or the jobs eliminated. He said that this will leave a Conoco work force of about 125 people.

"To optimize our exploration efforts, we'll be centering our technical and scientific support in two areas · Denver and Houston," Schieck said. He added that not all the Midland employees offered transfers will be moved to the two cities. "They could be moved to Hobbs or Oklahoma City, for example," he said. He stated that the company plans to keep a small contingency of exploration employees in smaller regions like Midland.

Conoco expects oil prices to undergo a moderate recovery, but won't rebound in the near term to prices that could sustain exploration efforts similar to recent levels, Schieck said.

Volcker urges Congress to resist trade protectionism

Associated Press

Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker has made a fresh appeal to Congress to resist protectionist trade legislation.

While petroleum prices remain weak and the dollar continues to lose value against other major currencies, passage of protectionist measures could lead to a "recession on a worldwide basis," Volcker told the House Rudget Committee

Also Wednesday, Dun & Brad-street Corp. said new business incorporations reached a record level for the third consecutive year, increasing 5.3 percent to 668,904 in 1985 from 634,991 in 1984. Joseph Duncan, corporate economist and chief statistician for the business information company, said the record reflects the high level of entrepreneurial activity that spurred the current U.S.

By a 321-86 vote, the House approved $5 billion to keep the Commodity Credit Corp. from running out of money just before the start of sign-up for this year's crop programs. The action, which still needs Senate ratification, is aimed at making sure money will be available for advance income subsidy payments when farmers begin registering for commodity programs on Monday, and to carry out other provisions of Volcker has in the past expressed opposition to legislation aimed at restricting imports.

But he told the budget committee Wednesday that such moves would be even more dangerous now that the value of the dollar has fallen by about a third against some major foreign currencies and oil prices have dropped from more than $25 a barrel to around $15.

Island prospect in the Beaufort Sea of Alaska. Shell Western said that the presence of oil and gas has been confirmed by production tests of two separate intervals in the Sadlerochit formation in the OCS-Y-370 No. 1 well, the first from Sandpiper Island. During these tests, the well flowed 40 degree to 52 degree gravity liquids through chokes varying from 30/64 inch to two inches at stabilized rates ranging from approximately 500 to 2500 barrels per day from depths below 11,910 feet, as measured in the well bore. Some water was produced from the deeper of the intervals. Flow of natural gas up to 18.5 million cubic feet per day was also tested. Drilling was conducted from September 2 to mid-December 1985, reaching a depth of 12,575 feet. Seven-inch casing was set at total depth and testing of the Sadlerochit commenced on January 6, 1986. Sandpiper Island is a man-made gravel island located in the Beaufort Sea 20 miles northwest of Prudhoe Bay field and 11 miles northwest of Seal Island, where an oil discovery by Shell Western and its partners was announced in January 1984.

DENVER (SWN) Ensource Inc. recently announced operating results for the year ended Dec. 31, 1985 which included a substantial writedown of net capitalized costs of oil and gas assets largely attributable to recent declines in oil and gas pricing Without certain unusual charges, net income and cash flow from operations would have been relatively similar to that of the previous year.

Following an after-tax writedown of $35.2 million due primarily to hydrocarbon price declines subsequent to year end, net loss for the year was $35.0 million or a loss of $1.03 per common share on revenues of $52.1 million compared to net income of $3.1 million or 9 cents per common share on revenues of $51.0 million in

After the effect oertain non-recurring charges, cash flow from operations during the year amounted to $20.4 million or 60 cents per common share compared to $28.2 million or 75 cents per common share in 1984.

For the fourth quarter of 1985, net loss after unusual charges was $37.4 million ($1.10 per common share) and revenues were $13.5 million compared to net income of $1.0 million (3 cents per common share) on revenues of $14.0 million for the fourth quarter of 1984 Proved oil and gas reserves at Dec.

prices in effect at Dec. 31, 1985, were $216 million compared to $247 million at year-end 1984 with the decline in value being largely attributable to reduced prices in 1985.

Since year-end, average prices, especially for oil have declined substantially. Using average prices of $17 per barrel for oil and $3 per MCF for gas (comparel to $28 for oil and $3.60 for gas at Dec. 31, 1984), the company currently estimates discounted future net revenues have further decreased to $165 million and reserves have been reduced to 5.1 million barrels of oil and 122.8 BCF of gas.

The company's board of directors has approved a 1986 capital budget of $22 to $25 million, which is dependent on future oil and gas price trends and funds generated by the disposal of the company's interests in over 1,000 marginal wells. This budget has been allocated approximately 50 percent to exploration and development and 50 percent to the acquisition of oil and gas reserves since the company believes acquisition opportunities will In order to improve operating efficiency and reduce costs, the compa-

If you are considering mov-ing your account to a institution that has no annual fee, but also doesn't have a grade period, three banks in Texas operate that way. They are National Bank of Fort Worth, Sam Houston in San Antonio and RepublicBank in Dallas and Texas American in Fort Worth.

The question now is which is better, no annual fee and no grace period, or an annual fee and a grace period. Let's use Re-publicBank as an example. It charges your account on the date it receives the charge slip from the merchant. You can rack up interest charges on a purchase of as long as 25 days before receiving a bill. If you carry an average balance of $125 per month, you would end up paying about $18 a year in interest. That's equal to some annual fees. But, you can also deduct a portion in respect to your tax bracket. If you were in the 33 percent, the net cost would be $12 per year.

Pet cures

One of the greatest hazards of driving is the danger of being "too late awake," according to reports from Saab-Scania of America.

By "too late awake" is meant driving just a bit longer because you want to make those last 10 miles, or that next truck stop or motel. "But trying to stretch you alertness is one of the most dangerous things to do," said Robert J. Sinclair, president of Saab-Scania of America.

Most drivers will say they know when they get too drowsy to drive. And when they reach this point, they have pet cures to keep awake.

Popular among these are singing aloud, turning the radio up full blast, looking to the right and left frequently, stopping for a cup of coffee or soft drink, said Sinclair.

But, he said the best thing to do is pull into a motel and rest.

Airlines announce new spring discounts

NEW YORK (AP) — Two airlines have announced spring-season discounts that provide up to 75 percent savings on some routes and extend an industrywide fare war, but the sales carry more restrictions than previously offered.

American Airlines announced a "Spring For Less" sale Wednesday, good from April 1 to May 22 on flights to the 100 U.S. mainland cities it serves Republic Airlines announced a similar sale for its routes to more than 100 cities in 38 states American's discount offers savings of $20-$40 more than the carrier's popular "Ultimate Super Saver" fares. They are structured on a peak-off peak basis, similar to the system of no-frills carrier People Express. Passengers must reserve seats at least 30 days in advance, buy the tickets within 14 days of making a reservation, stay over a Saturday night and pay a 50 percent cancellation fee for off-peak tickets and a 25 percent fee for peak tickets, American said. Republic's cancellation fee is a flat 25 percent.

Peak days for both offers are Thursday, Friday, Sunday and Monday, and off-peak days are Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday. Neither Republic nor American said how many discount seats are available under the discounts

Other airlines did not immediately match the fares. Northwest Airlines spokesman Matthew Gonring said the airline would stay competitive.

Industry analysts said the new discounts were designed to attract vacationers who can plan trips well in advance, while preventing indiscriminate fare erosion in the business-travel market. "I think what we're seeing now is a mass transition into sophisticated pricing rather than out-and-out fare wars," said Lee Howard, executive vice president of Airline Economics Inc., a Washington-based consultant. The mere fact that you see all those restrictions and a difference between peak and off- peak indicates it's part of a very well-thought-out pricing program.' Several airlines have reported sharply lower earnings because of fare discounting and a few, such as Eastern Airlines and Trans World Airlines, face potentially catastrophic financial problems because they have not been able to compensate with lower costs.

Merchandise managers of the nation's top 100 drug store chains and top 12 wholesalers have voted a first place award to Quaker State Oil Refining Corp. for introducing plastic motor oil bottles.

The award, in the automotive/hardware category, was for product innovation that created new marketing opportunities for chain drug stores.

The vote was conducted by Drug Store News as part of its 985 Retail Excellence Market Maker Awards program.

In 1985, Quaker State converted all its motor oil packaging from composite cans to modern plastic bottles, leading the industry to the more consumer oriented change.

INVESTOR'S GUIDE Capital losses can be used to offset gains

By BILL DOYLE

Q. In May of 1982, I purchased 200 shares of stock at $17.25. This was for dividend income, as I am retired. The company has been having problems and has stopped paying dividends. According to its stockholder reports, no dividends can be expected for a few years. The stock dropped below $6 and is now around $7.75.

I don't know what to do with this stock. The broker says to sell and reinvest the proceeds. But my accountant says, since I have no capital gains to offset the loss, I would save only about $300 in tax. He says he wouldn't take a such a big loss for such a small tax saving. What is your

A. Your accountant, no doubt, was explaining that only half of the long-term capital loss you would realize by selling that stock can be used to offset your "ordinary" income and reduce your income tax.

Under our present federal tax code, all capital losses can be used to offset capital gains. And short-term capital losses from the sale of stocks and other capital assets held for six months or less can be used to offset ordinary income, up to $3,000 a year, if you have no capital gains. But, under this crazy quilt arrangement, it takes $2 of long-term capital loss to offset $1 of ordinary income. It would be nice to think this will change, if Congress ever finishes fiddling around with proposed tax "reform." But don't bet on it. Based on your numbers, you would have a $1,900 long-term capital loss by selling that stock. Half of that is $950. Your accountant knows your overall finances and must have calculated that, by reducing your taxable income by $950, you would cut your income tax bill by $300. Because you're retired and looking for income. my inclination is to go along with the broker. Besides saving some tax dollars, you then can put the $1,550 you'll get from the sale into an investment paying dividends or interest.

Q. I have 30-month certificates of deposit, from which I have never drawn any money out. However, I am told I have to pay income tax on the interest credited to my CDs. Why?

I can understand having to pay tax on interest when I draw it out. But I cannot understand why I should pay tax on interest I do not

A. The Internal Revenue Code requires you to report and pay tax on interest from any CD or similar arrangement with a maturity of more than 12 months when you file your income tax return for the year in which the interest is credited to the

A. You must have purchased a zero-coupon bond, a zero-coupon CD or some other security initially sold at a big discount from its face value last year. Interest builds up on a "zero" each year. but is not available to you until you cash or sell that bond or CD.

OID means a security was issued well below face value and interest accumulates on it until maturity.

MMH rejects request for election funds

By RON GILMORE Staff Writer

Trustees and directors turned down a request by Midland County Judge William Ahders to help foot county-wide election costs, gave mixed reviews to a proposal for construction of new building for county tax collectors and made changes in their bylaws during Wednesday's County Hospital District and Midland Memorial Foundation.

At the MCHD meeting, directors heeded advice by counsel Ted Kerr who suggested that they not sign the county agreement mailed to them in late January. Ahders had requested that MCHD and other taxing entities in Midland County take on a larger share of election costs.

"Although Midland County is monthly meeting of the Midland aware that its responsibility is to register voters by law, we feel that the School District pay the remainder. conducting elections for all governmental units should be shared on a more equitable basis," said Ahders.

The Midland County judge suggested that the county pay for 50 percent of all election costs while Midland County Hospital District, Midland Independent School Dis-

Midland man gets five year sentence in indecency case

By MARK LEWIS Staff Writer

A 27-year-old Midland man was sentenced to five years in state prison Wednesday for sexually molesting a 7-year-old girl.

Eddie Marquez, a former City of Midland employee, had been convicted Tuesday by a 238th District Court jury which had viewed a taped interview with the victim before hearing her testify from the witness

She testified that Marquez had touched her "in a not-OK place" on July 4, 1985, and had exposed himself and made her touch him. Marquez told the jury he never touched the girl and didn't know why she was accusing him.

He was convicted of indecency with a child by sexual contact, a second-degree felony with a penalty range of two to 20 years in prison. Marquez was eligible for probation. but Assistant Midland County District Attorney Jack Connors told the jury that probation was inappropriate for this offense.

"It indicates that the Midland community is not going to tolerate the sexual abuse of children," Connors, favor said after the jury came back with a five-year sentence.

The taped interview with Sheriff's Sgt. Buzz Cupp was admitted into evidence under a new state law which allows videotaped testimony from children 12 years old and younger. After Judge Vann Culp pronounced sentence, defense attorney Allen Mc-Fall said Marquez plans to appeal his conviction on the grounds that the law is unconstitutional. Other challenges to that law are currently being considered by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, according to Connors and McFall.

"It's going to be a balancing test" between the right of the defendant to a fair trial and the right of the state to protect young witnesses from psychological distress, Connors said after the trial. "I think that it's a legitimate state and national interest to protect the rights and the privacy of our minor children," and that interest "may outweigh the right to cross-examina-

McFall said denying the defendant his traditional right to be present when evidence against him is given and to cross-examine his accuser gives the state an unfair advantage.

"There's no way it can be overcome." McFall said. "The state has the opportunity to prepare and direct a witness and in essence produce a TV drama fashioned in their

Congressional candidates sending out campaign updates

From Staff Reports

As the 21st District congressional race gets a little farther down the road toward the May finish line, candidates not living in Midland are sending out updates as to their movements in the area and opinions on various issues.

Seeking the Democratic nomination are Pete Snelson and Terry Lowry, both of Midland, and David Hunsicker of San Antonio. In the Republican primary are G. Thane Akins of Midland, Henry Gandy of Kerrville and Van Archer, Lamar Smith and Jeff Wentworth, all of San Antonio

According to Wentworth's news release, he is spending this week flying to rural areas of the district. Today, he was to visit Sanderson. Ozona, Eldorado and Sonora, Friday he will go to Llano and Menard, end ing the day with a fund-raising dinner in Fredericksburg

This is part of the fulfillment of my pledge to campaign all over the district in person so that I can visit with the people, talk with them about their problems and pledge to them that I will fairly represent every area of the district regardless of the size of the population or the vote," said Wentworth.

In Smith's latest release he called for Gov. Mark White to implement the Immigration and Naturalization Service's Operation SAVE program This System of Alien Verification to Entitlements program is designed to keep illegal aliens from receiving benefits that they are not entitled to by verifying applicants for unemployment benefits through Texas Employment Commission computer

This program not only helps enforce current immigration law but will save an estimated $12-15 million of taxpayers' money in Texas alone,' he said. Smith noted that three of the 130 TEC offices have used it and have saved Texas more than $110,000 in two months. Archer has announced his endorsement by Gun Owners of America and is continuing his stand against an oil import fee.

A national organization based in California, Gun Owners of America executive director Larry Pratt stated the group is supporting Archer based on your proven leadership that you have shown during your tenure on the San Antonio City

In explaining his stand against the proposed oil import fee, Archer noted the United States gets about 9 percent of its oil from Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. The remaining imports come from Mexico. Venezuela, Canada and Great Britain and these countries would be hit the hardest with an oil import fee, OPEC countries, Archer said, would offset the loss of revenue by producing more and flooding the declining prices for domestic crude oil and natural gas, our energy industry is not making any profits and, therefore, the federal revenues generated by this tax have been minimal," Gandy said in his news release.

He added the tax has confiscated the needed capital these businesses depend upon to finance the exploration and development of new oil and gas wells.

In another news release, Gandy criticized Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., for wanting to add $200 billion in new taxes over the next several years as a means to erase the federal budget Please see CANDIDATES, Page 2D

Eight file for local spots on 'silver-haired' body

By RAMONA NYE Staff Writer

Eight candidates have filed for four positions open in the Permian Basin for the state's first Silver Haired Legislature.

The Legislature, running from Sept. 28 to Oct. 1 in Austin, will identify five key issues affecting the state's elderly and formulate the issues into bills. The 1987 Texas Legislature will consider adopting the five bills.

"Since this is the first go-round, we were hopeful that we would have at least two candidates in every area. We have that in every area except Ector County," said W.E. Smith, with the Permian Basin Area Agency on Aging.

The candidates as of this morning include David Norton and Dallas Willis of Midland for positions in Midland County's District

Odessa chamber forms Prison Study Task Force

By FRANK TROMBLEY Staff Writer

ODESSA - A Prison Study Task Force has been created by the Greater Odessa Chamber of Commerce.

In announcing formation of the task force Wednesday, chamber president John Landgraf said purpose of the task force will be to accumulate information concerning location of a prison in the area and to determine community attitudes about a prison in the area.

Landgraf noted the chamber learned too late last year "that the Department of Corrections was looking for a new prison site and this entire community was caught

He expressed the belief TDC will be looking for another site in about two years and said, "We intend to determine, as best we can, whether or not a majority of our citizens want the chamber of commerce to attempt to get it here."

The 10-member task force will be chaired by Odessa attorney Cynthia Clack, who said the group will explore opinion and fact, attempting to answer such questions as: What does the general population think of the idea? What do residents of other Texas towns that already have prison facilities think about it? What are the social/family aspects of a nearby prison? Would it create an "image problem" for Odessa? Mattox calls insurance firms' crisis 'put-up deal'

DALLAS (AP) — Insurance companies are conspiring to pump their rates artificially high under the bogus claim of "a tort system in crisis," Attorney General Jim Mattox says.

Mattox, who likened the companies to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, said Wednesday he has asked them to open their books to his office's antitrust division.

"We don't see justification for rates going up like they have been," he said, adding that recent rate increases are "a put-up deal that is the result of collusion.

Insurance companies have launched a media blitz to convince people that the legal system is harming the firms by awarding massive judgments, said Mattox, who is running for re-election this year.

"We cannot find the crisis that they say exists," Mattox said. "The profits insurance companies are making do not show an insurance situation out of control."

He said he has requested the State Board of Insurance to ask the companies to prove there is a problem in the tort system, and that the anti-trust division will investigate whether collusion exists.

Mattox said small cities and counties — as well as day care centers, ministers and charitable organizations — are having trouble finding coverage at any price, and other companies and organizations are see-ing huge increases in premiums.

Birthdays cause of both distress, celebration

Birthdays have a duality that is both startling and amazing.

Here's the deal: No. 1: They're somewhat distressful. For every birthday I have, I know that there is one less to celebrate. Whenever I hear the word lay, I know that the next really Big Event down the path of life is Death as surely as I'm living.

No. 2 Birthdays are a cause to celebrate the gift of life. It's a gift however you behold it: by lot, chance, fate or the meant-to-be theology. Just think of the countless number of possible people who never will be. They will never know this marvelous gift of life.

Is it best to be born no matter what our station or circumstance in life than not to be born at all?

I cannot realistically answer that question for anyone but me. And I'm not certain that I have the wisdom or right even to do that. Admittedly.

there have been times when I didn't feel up to the challenge or didn't muster up to a task and have mur-mured: "Were that I were never

Those times came most often when I was a child confronted with a seemingly difficult school assignment or confronted with a mischievous deed which I had perpetrated and was not particularly willing to suffer the consequences of my

Of course, I did suffer through the consequences; those are unavoidable. But did I accept the responsibility? That's a tough one. Having somewhat of a martyr complex, I managed to take on the guilt and to managed to take on the guist and to suffer through those pangs. But I'm trying to get rid of that nonsense; it's insufferable and uncomfortable.

One knack for enjoying life, since it's here right now, is to be grateful for its gift. More than not, I forget to be thankful. Were I really an ingrate, would I not curse God or whatever Powers that gave me life and sustains it and promptly jump into oblivion from the ends of the Earth?

Or, am I too much of a coward and want to put off Death's Adventure for a bit longer?

Actually, I'm really curious about life and what's happening to the Earth and in the lower heavens and in the sees and to the creatures which abound. I want to stick around for as long as reasonably Mostly, I suppose, as a selfish creature am really curious about what fate has in store for me and for those whose lives I'm privileged to touch. Put another way, if I am to be responsible for my own actions, I'm curious about what I might become a birthday at a time.

own building. Although approval is not needed from the different tax entities in Midland County, the presentation was viewed as a "diplomatic procedure." Reaction from the directors was mixed.

"The very idea of a tax collection authority going out to build a new building is really poor judgment in my opinion," said Director Gene Abbott. "I don't think the overall savings is that significant to the taxpayers.

Roland Wilkinson, chief appraiser and Gil Tompson, chairman, told directors of their plans to construct a permanent home for the tax collection agency on county land, which would be paid off in ten years. The time, according to Wilkinson, is ripe.

"It seems as good a time as any," he said. "Interest rates and construction costs are down and land cost is Tompson added that the project would "not cost the taxpayers one extra dime.

Funds for the project would come from money saved when the agency acquired a new computer system, an unfilled position and an adjusted budget, Wilkinson said.

The two men have presented the idea to various taxing jurisdictions and said that "it was their general consensus we go ahead."

Tompson added that although the MCAD did not need the approval of any of the tax entities, it actively sought it because "we didn't feel it was up to us."

"We're merely an 'arm' of the taxing units," he said. "We decided it was up to them and we did go ahead and acquire the land on the basis of those approvals."

Wilkinson added that the new building "was very political and opposed bitterly by some." Abbott, however, urged the two to continue leasing from Dellwood

"They're taxpayers too and going through difficult times. You're timing is terrible," he said. Director Pat Estes voiced approval. however, of the measure. Both directors and trustees examined and approved changes in the foundation's bylaws and approved revisions to the management agreement between MCHD and MMH.

Arson suspected in Wendy's fire

From Staff Reports

The fire which destroyed a Wendy's Restaurant at 2501 N. Big Spring Wednesday morning may have been deliberately set by burglars, according to reports from the Midland police and fire departments.

The fire, which was reported at 4:40 a m., is still under investigation, but arson is suspected, according to Fire Marshal Jerry Petree.

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Republican Railroad Commission candidates say the gov-ernor's proposal to tax imported oil to stabilize prices and boost domestic drilling has too many loopholes and won't work.

Gov. Mark White said Friday that he sent a letter to President Ronald Reagan urging the administration to oil import fee. Canada, Mexico and low-income residents in the northeast should receive exemptions, White suggested.

Railroad Commission candidate and state Rep. Ed Emmett said White's proposal is vague and tries to accomplish social purposes that complicate the import fee. "The proposal made by Mark White doesn't make sense," said Emmett, a Housthese exemptions it becomes a bureaucratic nightmare."

State Rep. Milton Fox of Houston said he will support an oil import fee that serves "as a tool to negotiate" with foreign nations that dump cheap oil on the market. Partly because Texas still sends out cheap natural gas but must buy more expensive gas, the fee shouldn't exempt northerners, Fox said.

Emmett said he reluctantly supports an oil import fee bill Congress currently is considering. Fox tends to oppose any oil import fee, he said, because it's anti-free trade, and thinks people should wait until oil prices stabilize before considering an import fee.

John Thomas Henderson, who barely lost in 1984 to Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace and is running again, strongly opposes any im-chaser and passed on to the American consumer as a refining cost."

Emmett said leaders may find White's import fee an attractive way to raise revenue and make the temporary tax permanent. "A temporary fee tends to become permanent, like the windfall profits tax," Emmett said.

The other Republican running for retiring commissioner Buddy Tem-ple's seat is Ralph Hoelscher, a farmer from Miles, and could not be reached for comment.

Parents told to 'lock up weapons' after rash of shootings dental shootings involving Houston youths has prompted city officials to urge parents to "lock up their weapons" to curtail such incidents.

A dozen children and teen-agers have been shot during the past three months, five of them fatally.

"What we are asking for is everyone - every citizen, everyone who owns weapon on the city, in the state to take some immediate action," Police Chief Lee Brown said. "That is to lock up weapons to ensure that they are not accessible to young people.'

Police and officials from the Houston Independent School District are meeting this week with area doctors to see what can be done to curb the problem.

UTPB research funds jump 97 percent in fiscal 1985

By GARY RASP Reporter-Telegram

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - The University of Texas of the Permian Basin spent a whopping 97 percent more on organized research in fiscal 1985 than it did the year before, the Texas College and University System has reported. Overall, Texas colleges and universities spent 16 percent more on research for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1985, than they did in the previous year.

UTPB spent $77,514 on research in fiscal 1985 compared to $39,201 in fiscal 1984, a 97.7 percent increase

The university spent $28,228 on psychology research, $23,637 on intergovernmental research. $21,649 on business administration and $4,000 on anthropology

Most of those funds came from public sources. State government contributed $15,288 toward research, while UTPB chipped in

The federal government did not finance any research programs during fiscal 1984 or 1985, the report indicates.

Private sources contributed a total of $21,649 to UTPB's research during fiscal 1985.

The state's two flagship universities, Texas A&M and the University of Texas at Austin, continued to receive the largest increases in research funds.

Texas A&M received $145 million in research funds for fiscal 1985, compared to $119.5 in fiscal 1984, a 21.3 percent increase. UT Austin received $8.4 million more in fiscal 1985 than it did in 1984, a 10.1 percent jump.

You can't plan the play of a hand unless you realize where the danger lurks! As this hand proves, it is not always easy to spot where the perils lie

Note South's jump to four spades over the opening two no trump bid. Besides a pass, that is the weakest bid he can make. With a strong hand, he would start either with a Stayman sequence or by simply bidding three spades and then bidding again after opener's rebid. West led a diamond, and a cursory analysis of the position would have led declarer to believe that. outside of the trump ace, his only possible losers were two clubs and a heart. And he could avoid a loser in the latter suit by taking a heart discard on a high diamond.

On deeper examination, however, a more potent threat looms. Unless a defender has a singleton club honor, or club shortness and a singleton trump, the defenders can maneuver a club ruff. Declarer does better to take away the club ruff by banking on the heart finesse succeeding Correct technique is to win the king of diamonds at trick one and then discard a club on the ace of diamonds! Now declarer comes to hand with a diamond ruff and takes the heart finesse by leading the ten. When that wins, declarer repeats the heart finesse and then discards another club on the ace of hearts.

With his groundwork completed. declarer can start on trumps. The defenders cannot get more than two club tricks and the ace of trumps

Note that had declarer discarded a heart on the high diamond he would have been defeated. West can win the ace of trumps and shift to the king of clubs and another. He will get a club ruff for a one-trick

Writers 'PEN' their approval of Koch

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Koch, best-selling author and mayor of New York, was snubbed last month by PEN, the international writers' group, but is now officially a member.

Koch was denied membership last month, less than a week before he threw a party for foreign delegates to the 48th International PEN Congress in New York. Authors Gay Talese and Kurt Vonnegut had proposed Koch for membership and resubmitted his name Wednesday at the membership committee meeting and members approved, said Betty Fussell, the chairwoman.

Koch's 1984 memoir "Mayor" was on the New York Times bestseller list for 21 weeks. His second book, "Politics" was published last year.

Mutiny by security forces sparks unrest in Cairo

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Diplomats and residents said rebellious security forces clashed with army troops early today on the city's northern fringe, but the rest of the capital remained generally calm after a violent mutiny by members of the paramilitary

Sources said scores may have been killed and hundreds wounded in the violence that broke out Tuesday night, spreading to civilians and security garrisons in other cities.

A curfew ordered Wednesday to control the rampaging Central Security Force troops was suspended for three hours today to allow Cairo's 12 million people buy food and essential supplies. Food shops throughout the capital were jammed.
Soldiers in battle dress patrolled

Cairo's largely deserted streets in tanks, armored personnel carriers and armored cars. White-helmeted military police manned roadblocks at key intersections in the heart of The city was reported generally quiet, but residents of at least three neighborhoods reported hearing sporadic shooting as tanks, armored personnel carriers and armored cars patrolled the deserted streets. Western diplomats, speaking on condition they not be identified, said gangs of renegade troops exchanged gunfire before dawn with army troops in the Shubra District of northern Cairo. Residents of the mixed Moslem-

Christian neighborhood, reached by telephone, confirmed hearing heavy bursts of automatic fire through the night, but said the firing ended by dawn.

Armored personnel carriers blocked roads leading into parts of Shubra early today, and soldiers prevented reporters from entering the worst hit areas.

Residents of the southern suburb of Maadi, where many American and other foreign diplomats live, reported hearing sporadic gunfire through the night to the east of Tourah Prison, which mutinous security troops stormed Wednesday to release prisoners, including Islamic extremists.

Spokesmen for the Defense and Interior Ministries said they had not yet compiled a list of casualties from the rioting. But unofficial sources close to the government, who refused to be identified, said authorities feared the death toll could run into "scores," with hundreds injured.

The injured included three French citizens who were hurt trying to escape the fire at the Swissowned Jolie Ville Hotel, according to a French Embassy source who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Rioters burned three luxury hotels and several nightclubs near the Great Pyramids, attacked cars and police stations, and stormed the EgyptAir, the national carrier, announced plans to evacuate by special charter flights to Europe today about 700 foreign tourists caught up in the clashes.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Ed Bernier said about 120 Americans were staying in hotels near the fighting, but none was reported injured. He described the Americans as "stunned, shaken and fearful" after their brush with the latest Middle East violence.

Cairo's leading newspaper, govern-ment-owned al-Ahram, said the army had sealed off most Security Force camps around the capital and were searching for some mutineers who managed to escape. President Hosni Mubarak, in a nationally broadcast speech Wednesday, blamed the unrest on "deviationist elements" and said an undisclosed number of guards at hotels, nightclubs and shops in the riot area had been slain by mobs. The rioting was the worst outbreak of violence in Cairo since the 1977 riots against food price increases, and presented Mubarak with his most serious domestic challenge since he took office in 1981 after the assassination of President

Anwar Sadat. Mubarak said "large numbers" of the mutineers had been arrested, and that clashes also had taken place in the cities of Assiut, Sohag and Is-

However, Information Minister Safway el-Sherif denied there had been trouble in Ismailia and said Mubarak was referring to clashes at a camp on the Cairo-Ismailia highway near the capital.

In an interview with Cairo Radio, el-Sherif said there had been several disturbances after the curfew went into effect at 4 p.m. Wednesday, but the army would deal with any breach of law and order "with the utmost firmness and severity."

The largely conscript Central Security Force, which numbers 120,000, is responsible for guarding embassies and key government and military installations and curbing street demonstrations.

Thousands of the conscripts, angered by rumors their enlistments were being extended, stormed out of a garrison Tuesday night in the shadow of the Great Pyramids and went

Dusk-to-dawn curfew imposed in Haiti in wake of demonstrations

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — A dusk-to-dawn curfew went into effect throughout Haiti after a renewed round of looting and demonstrations broke out to protest the attempted flight of a hated former

The 7 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew was proclaimed in an interior ministry communique broadcast Wednesday over Haitian radio and television stations. There was no indication how long it would remain in effect. Radio Metropole linked the cur-few to the Tuesday protest by 5,000

Haitians aimed at preventing Luc Desir from fleeing the country. Desir was the secret police chief under the late Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier who ruled Haiti from 1967 to 1971.

A more stringent 16-hour curfew had been ordered by Haiti's new military-civilian ruling council immediately after Duvalier's son and successor, Jean-Claude, fled to France on Feb. 7, but it was progressively shortened.

A government spokeswoman on Wednesday confirmed Desir had been arrested and would be tried.

However, she did not specify the Protestant leaders urge strike to protest accord

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - Protestant leaders called for a one-day strike next Monday to protest a British-Irish accord that gives Dublin a voice in Northern Ireland's James Molyneaux and the Rev. Ian Paisley, leaders of the two main Protestant parties — the Official Unionist Party and the Democratic Unionist Party — announced the strike on Wednesday.

They called for a shutdown of stores, offices, factories, bus services, trains, airports, seaports and schools. Key workers at the main power stations have already agreed to stop work, the said.

Molyneaux said the strike call was being issued in an effort to get Britain to scrap the Nov. 15 accord.

The agreement gives the overwhelmingly Roman Catholic Republic of Ireland an advisory say in the administration of Northern Ireland, where Protestants outnumber Catholics by a three-to-two margin.

Laundry washed in protest

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) - A group of women brought washboards and metal wash tubs to the grounds of the state administration building in this northern capital city and did their laundry there to protest the lack of water in their neighborhood

The half dozen women hung shirts, pants and dresses on the chain link fence surrounding the government buildings in the new Grand Plaza area of downtown Monterrey on Tuesday.

The women from the Independence neighborhood said they have been without running water in their homes for more than two months.

We want them to connect our water because we already paid the city for it and we have the receipts to prove it," one woman told the daily Monterrey newspaper El Porvenir.

Monterrey, the capital of Nuevo Leon state in northeastern Mexico, is cause of an extended drought and lack of water in area reservoirs

Tent fire kills six people

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - Fire raced through a crowded tent dur-ing a child's birthday party, killing six people and injuring about 90, fire officials said today

Many of the injuries occurred when guests stampeded to escape through the single 6-foot-wide exit, chief fire brigade officer S.K. Dehri

About 600 people were crowded into the 100-square-foot cotton tent to celebrate the first birthday of Ankur Bhagi, adopted son of a local businessman

Guests said the fire broke out shortly after the birthday cake had been cut, engulfing the tent within minutes and sending the 20-foot-high canopy crashing down.

Ancient tub unearthed

ROME (AP) - A nearly 2,000-yearold terracotta bathtub has been found at an archeological dig at a village on the outskirts of Rome.

Lt. Valerio Contrafatto of the Italian Customs Police said Wednesday the tub was discovered Feb. 10 during a recovery of objects from the site at Santa Maria di Sacrofano, about 20 miles from Rome.

He told The Associated Press it was part of a preventative operation to suppress illicit trafficking of archeological material.

An Italian archeological inspector, Gianfranco Gazzetti, confirmed the authenticity of the bathtub, which has been dated between 50 A.D. and 200 A.D., he added.

The dun-colored tub, surprisingly modern in shape, is in perfect condition and still bears the inscription of the artist and donor: "Stat Marcus Stator fecit" (Marcus gave it, Stator

Search continues for victims

Frozen canned foods not always safe to consume

By SONJA HEINZE

Q. I'm afraid some of my commercially canned foods may have gotten frozen when they were left in the camper. Are they safe to eat? - Marjorie Hogarth, Colorado Springs,

A. A government bulletin concerning canned foods states that a slight breakdown of texture may occur in a few products, but otherwise a single freezing and thawing will not affect canned foods adversely. Some creamy foods may curdle and separate upon freezing, but heating usurestores the original consistency

Some caution should be observed, however. "During freezing," the bulletin states, "the contents of a can expand, put a strain on the can seams and cause the ends to bulge.

Q. I have a friend who is crippled in one leg because of a severe attack of trichinosis many years ago. Her problem was traced back to a diner where she ate a hamburger that was mixed with pork and was undercooked. She once confessed to me that her body still contains live worms as a result of this disease. I haven't got the courage to ask her, but could they be catching? — J.H. Stabiner

A. Referring to material supplied by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, at one point in your friend's illness her system defended itself by attacking the worms that had invad-Check the container carefully after ed her body. In a manner of speaking, the threadlike worms were put in jail — that is, the body enclosed them in protective capsules, or cysts. And there they remain, curled up, alive, but unable to be free to do

Strong acids, such as those found in one's stomach, could melt the capsules and free the worms. The only way you could "catch" them would be to turn into a cannibal and eat her flesh, an unlikely prospect.

Severe cases of trichinosis are rare, but it is thought that there are many mild attacks of the disease that go unreported. Consumers are cautioned again to always cook pork thoroughly, so that the meat is no longer pink.

Q. Please send any information you may have on brands that contain estrogen. — Lori Nobles, Redding,

A. Estrogen, a female hormone, is available either in prescription drugs or over-the-counter as an ingredient in cosmetics, mainly creams and lotions.

Cosmetics are not regulated, so nobody knows how many estrogen-laden products are on the market. According to the Harvard Medical School Health Letter (Oct. 1985): "Estrogen rubbed on the skin is estrogen absorbed into the body. Beware of cosmetics that contain 'hormones' in the list of ingredients.

The Health Letter states: "Reports in the last couple of years make it clear that with prolonged use, these preparations can affect much more than the skin.

"Among the reported side-effects: breast enlargement of a 10-monthold girl on whom a hair cream had been used; the same effect in a 5year-old boy on whom a different hair product had been used regularly for six months; vaginal bleeding in women of 66, 76 and 82 years and breast development and decreased sexual drive in men of 48 and 54 who were using hair lotions laced with "Human cosmetics aren't the only source: An 8-month-old girl whose diaper rash was treated with a veterinary salve began to develop breasts and pubic hair. Q. I bought a lovely old cherry wood bedroom set from an elderly lady two years ago. But it has an odor — a mixture of old perfumes, etc. I've tried washing the insides of the drawers, airing them outside and using sprays. The odor remains. Any suggestions? — Isabel Barbetto, Egg Harbor City, N.J.

A. It seems that eventually wood will absorb the odors of its environment. I bought a maple hutch 10 years ago that had been stored in a musty, closed-up barn for many years and to this day have been unable to get rid of the smell of the barn. I tried all kinds of furniture oils in addition to washing, airing and sprays.

Any reader with a solution to this problem, please write.

Cream cheese spreads too thin

By LINDA ANDERSON

Ever feel in the instant-party mood and wish there was a way of throwing an impromptu gathering without any kind of fuss at all?

Kraft Inc. is trying to help these hurried hosts by marketing Cremerie by Philadelphia Brand, a kind of cream cheese that can be used as an instant cracker spread.

Available in various flavors, the usual taste-testers sampled the French onion variety for taste, price and advertising accuracy. Not that we were having a party, we just like cream cheese and we like French onion dip.

Cremerie, marketed in the supermarket refrigerated section along with all the other cheeses, comes in 4-ounce containers and is priced at $1.39. (Price listed is from a local supermarket. Price at other locations

Ingredients listed on the label are pasteurized milk, cream, skim milk, dehydrated onion, salt, cheese culture, dehydrated green onion and carrageenan

Label advertising invited consumers to "Experience the deliciously different taste of Cremerie triplecreme Cream Cheese with French Onion. You'll delight in bits of savory onion blanketed in a smooth, rich bed of triple-creme Cream Cheese. The delicate blend of natural ingredients in Cremerie, with French Onion, affords a sumptuous, unique flavor you'll come back to again and again.

"For any type of entertaining, Cremerie Cheese is sensational smoothed on crusty french bread, on crisp cocktail crackers or fresh breadsticks. The silky triple-creme richness of Cremerie is the perfect garnish for plump cherry tomatoes and crisp celery sticks."

The company has enough class to include a toll-free telephone number for customers with questions: 1-800323-0768, ext. 1112.

After all that sumptuous, unique and sensational claimed in the advertising, we couldn't wait to try the product. Sounded almost too good to be true.

Which is what it was. As with many other products, this one proved to be less than its advertising would lead us to believe. It isn't all that smooth or rich or silky - or even all that creamy. It appears to be a small amount of cream cheese with bits of toasted onion, whipped up with a whole lot of air.

It didn't taste bad or anything like that - the product was, indeed, very tasty when spread on crackers, etc. It just seemed like too much money to pay for too little "triple-creme" cream cheese.

Nutritious diet good source of iron

By MARIAN FARR

Getting enough iron in your diet is not simply a matter of eating ironrich foods. Iron intake is determined both by the amount of iron-rich foods eaten and how well the iron is absorbed into your body.

Generally, iron added to foods or taken in the form of supplements is not absorbed as well as that which comes from natural food.

Since many factors influence the absorption of iron from foods and additives, taking an iron supplement does not automatically insure you're getting an adequate amount.

To maximize your body's absorption of iron, the following is re-

■ Eat red meats regularly. They are the best source of iron and also facilitate iron absorption when eaten with other foods. Select lean cuts and remove the visible fat before

■ Eat fruits and vegetables rich in vitamin C, such as citrus fruits and tuices, tomatoes and dark green vegetables. Vitamin C-rich foods will substantially increase the absorption of iron from other foods.

 Look for enriched processed foods. White bread, rolls, crackers and cereals are enriched with iron. Check the nutrition labels on these and other refined grain foods to make sure you are getting an enriched product.

■ When you cook acid foods, such as tomato sauce, use an iron pan Significant amounts of iron can leach from the pan into the foods.

■ Don't drink coffee and tea at meals. Coffee can decrease iron absorption by as much as 39 percent and tea, by 87 percent, when consumed with a meal. There is some research to show you can counter the effect by eating a food high in vitamin C along with these beverages at a meal.

■ Don't go overboard on fiber. Bran and other high-fiber foods can interfere with iron absorption. However, you're only likely to run into problems if your diet is already low in iron and you regularly eat large amounts of high-fiber foods or bran supplements.

Children protest couple's marriage

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I'm a very attractive woman for my age, I'm told. I've lost two husbands; one is in the cemetery and the other one is in New Jersey. I recently renewed an acquaintance with an old boyfriend -I'll call him Danny. His wife died four months ago after a long illness. We hit it off as though we were a couple of kids. We want to get married. Danny is very well-to-do, but this is truly a love match.

Now the problem: Danny's children think that out of respect for their mother, their father should wait a full year before marrying. This means waiting for eight more months! Abby, I'm 68 and Danny is 72, and we could both be dead in eight months.

We are old-fashioned and don't believe in living together before marriage, and we want to get married as soon as possible. We'd like your opin-- YOUNG AT HEART

DEAR ABBY: I submit my tale of woe as a warning to others. I am 73 years old, have driven a car for over 50 years and never had an accident, but this time I really blew it.

I had had several drinks at home when a friend phoned and asked me to pick him up, so without thinking, I did. I hit a low center divider, damaging the underside of my car and putting it out of commission. The police arrived on the scene, gave me a sobriety test, handcuffed me and took me in for a blood test. I spent the night in jail. I was ready to plead not guilty in court until I saw the results of the blood alcohol test, which showed 2.48 — three times the legal limit for driving! (I pleaded "no contest.") I was fined $410. Now I have to spend another 36 hours in jail and DEAR YOUNG: The only opinions attend four sessions at a drug and

DEAR ABBY: I telephoned a local florist and ordered an evergreen plant in a ceramic dish to be used as a centerpiece for a round dining room table that seats six people. This was to be a housewarming present for my parents who had just retired

When I slit open the envelope, a photocopy of a check for $5 fell out. The note with it was simple and direct, "I made this from my poem entitled, 'Youth.' Thanks for encouraging me.

Five bucks! What can you buy with $5 these days? A pint of designer ice cream? One rose? A home furnishings magazine? A pair of pantyhose? Four gallons of gas?

If you're Sarah, who lives in Louisiana, it can buy euphoria, with side orders of pride, hope and self-esteem and the discovery someone was willing to put a price on your talent.

There's a lot of Sarahs out there ... women who keep their dreams in a private little box hidden from the rest of the world. Occasionally, they take the lid off and look at it just to know it's still there and then get on with their business of living.

It takes a lot of courage to show your dream to someone else. They might laugh. They might not understand. Worse, they might take it out of the box and drop it and where would you get another one? Dreams are fragile, you know.

Some people, in desperation, give up on dreams. They clean house one day and decide, "This is ridiculous! I'm acting like a small child who refuses to give up a favorite toy." So, they toss out the contents of the box the short story, the idea for a business, the college degree, the job they would love to have, the child they want, the trip they would love to

Then there are a few, like Sarah, who are willing to take a risk. They take the dream out of the box, put it on and start living it. They lay bare their ego to discover if they are equal to the dream or if they are equal only to the fantasy.

Dreams have only one owner at a time. That's why dreamers are lonely. No one can help them with the struggle. No one can ease the pain of failure. There are some things they have to do themselves.

I understand the fears and apprehensions of the closet dreamers, but oh how I admire the Mother Teresas, the Geraldine Ferraros, the Samantha Smiths, the Christa McAuliffes, the Helen Kellers and, yes, the Sarahs who write poetry on the kitchen table at night. Are they winners? Winning is not what they're all about. Neither are the rewards.

What is special about them is they're dreamers who put it on the line. They had the courage to admit that what they wanted was just beyond their reach, but if they wanted it badly enough... anything was

They gambled. And for the risk, they were all rewarded with a legacy for others to follow. For some it was a trail that was blazed, an attitude that was changed, a place in history, a thought, a life that was touched.

Tech crunches TCU, 62-52

Loss drops Frogs into tie for SWC first

LUBBOCK (AP) - Guard Tony Benford scored 14 of his career-high 25 points in the last five minutes Wednesday night to lift the Texas Tech Red Raiders to a 62-52 victory over Texas Christian and knocked the Horned Frogs back into a tie with Texas for the Southwest Conference leadership.

TCU, which could have clinched at least a tie for the title, fell to 12-3 along with the Longhorns. The Horned Frogs are 20-6 overall. Texas Tech is 13-13 and 8-7 in the SWC.

Benford made 11 of 12 free throws, including three technical foul shots as the frustrated Frogs came apart after tying the game 48-

Carven Holcombe, Gregg Grissom and Norman Anderson were all slapped with technicals, and Anderson was ejected for cursing referee Mike Tanco.

Benford scored seven straight points after the Horned Frogs tied the game and hit seven of eight free throws down the stretch.

Rebs' Dickens Player of Year

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Assistant Sports Editor

Midland Lee's 6-5 senior post Anthony Dickens was recently named Player of the Year in District 4-5A basketball, heading a 12player All-District team picked by the league coaches.

The runnerup Rebels also placed 6-1 senior Lee Dixon and 6-3 senior Eddie Riley on the elite team, giving the Rebels three of the top 12 choices which was not matched by any other team in the Midland High's third place Bulldogs placed 6-2 senior Anthony Deande and 6-5 senior Elvin Mackey on the first team, giving the Tall City five of the top 12 choices.

League champion Odessa Permian placed Curly Alford and Jimmie Davis, both seniors, on the first team and Permian coach Charles Pattillo was named as Coach of

Other first teamers were league leading scorer Brian Mayfield of Big Spring, a sophomore, Terriance Bell of Abilene Cooper, Paul Chavez of Odessa High, Roy Kiser of Abilene High and Chris Lowrey of San Angelo.

Dickens was the fifth leading scorer in district play with a 19.0 per game average, but he is also believed to have led the league in rebounding although no accurate league statistics were kept in that Dickens was a three-year starter for the Rebeis. Big Spring's Mayfield also has a chance to be a three-year starter, but not in 4-5A since the Steers will drop into Class 4A next year. Midland High's Mackey was the league's second leading scorer at 20.6 and San Angelo's Lowry followed at 20.1.

Lee's Dixon recorded a 19.7 district average while Deande had a 16.4 average. Riley averaged 12.4 per district game.

One glaring omission to the team appears to be Midland High's Matt Sears, who was given honorable mention status after ranking sixth in league scoring with an 18.1 average. Many thought Sears was the backbone of the MHS squad. Sears was the only player among the league's Top 10 scorers who didn't earn a

Chaps seek 30th straight win, perfect regular season

From Staff Reports

The final game of the regular season for the Midland College Chaparrals is against the Clarendon College Bulldogs at Clarendon Thursday night at 8 p.m.

The Chaparrals can close out a perfect regular season with a victory over Clarendon after they battled Western Texas at Chap Center Monday and came out with a 101-90 decision. That victory was the 29th without a loss this season and tied the alltime winning streak for the Chapar-rals. The 1982 NJCAA championship team won 24 in a row and the 1982-83 squad started out with five wins before losing. In their 11 years of competition, the Chaparrals have never had an undefeated regular season. Nor have they had an undefeated conference season. They posted 17-1 marks in 1981-82 and 1982-83.

In fact, no team has had an undefeated conference season since the 1980 Western Texas team under Nolan Richardson went undefeated enroute to the NJCAA title (and took the NIT title the next year as Richardson took most of the WTC team to Tulsa University).

But looming ahead for the Chaps is the Region V Tournament March 6-8 in Snyder, when Midland College begins its quest for another trip to the national tournament in Hutchinson, Kansas,

'It was great to win Monday night and we want to keep the streak going," said MC coach Jerry Stone, But what we really want is that regional title. That's what we've been pointing toward since we knew we had a lock on the conference last

The Region V tourney matches the top four teams in the Western Conference against the best four in the Eastern Conference. The Chaps open the tournament against the fourth place team from the east. "We need to be careful against Clarendon," Stone cautioned, "They lost to Odessa in Odessa Monday by just ten points and they'd love to knock us off in the last game of the season." In their first meeting, the Chaps won 95-59 in Midland. A win Thursday night would give the Chaps their fifth 30-win season in the past six years. They posted their first 30-win mark in 1980-81 with a 30mark; it was 344 in 1981-82; 314 in 1982-83; and 31-6 last year when they finished fourth in the NJCAA.

The remaining three teams from the Western conference for the regional event still haven't been decided. South Plains lost to Odessa last

South Plains and Western Texas appear to be in the field, but the winner of the Odessa-New Mexico Junior College game in Hobbs Thursday night will take fourth place.

And second place will go to South Plains if it beats Western Texas Thursday in Levelland.

"It'll be nice to see another team for a change," Stone said of the Chaps' first round game in regional, "We've played Odessa four times, and Western Texas and South Plains three times each, and might have play one or two of them again in regionals."

Baylor gets happy ending

WACO (AP) - Eric Johnson canned a 16-foot jump shot with just 34 seconds left to lift Baylor to a 65-64 victory over Arkansas Wednesday night in a Southwest Conference game.

Baylor, now 11-16 on the season and 3-13 in the SWC, finishes its regular season and will not play in the league tournament next month because of NCAA probation.

Arkansas, which lost its leading scorer to suspension earlier Wednesday, fell to 12-14 and 4-11.

The Bears scored the last eight points of the contest to defeat Arkansas for the first time since the 1982 season. Baylor, which came into the game shooting only 64 percent from the free throw line in league play, hit on 6 of 7 from the stripe during the last three minutes.

Eric Poerschke was good on and 18-foot jumper to give the Razor-backs a 64-57 lead with 3:20 left. Baylor then rattled off the last eight to Johnson was next with 12, followed by Frank Williams' 11 and Michael Williams' 10.

Kevin Rehl came off the bench to score a game-high 14 for Arkansas, and Poersche followed with 12. Andrew Lang also had 12, while Byron Irvin rounded out the double-figure scoring with 10.

Baylor shot 44 percent from the field, while the Razorbacks hit 43 percent.

The Bears held a 34-31 lead at halftime with Johnson and Robert McLemore providing the scoring for the Bears. With the game tied at 27-27 with 4:19 left in the first half, the Bears went on a 148 run to grab the three-point halftime lead.

"I thought this was an excellent way to end the season," said Coach Gene Iba, who ended his first season at Baylor. "It was a hard-fought game. Both teams have had lots of adversity this season, and this was that kind of game."

Arkansas' Nolan Richardson said, "Baylor got very aggressive and physical on defense in the last three

The St. John's basketball team gave it the old "High Five." In this case, it meant the number of players the Redmen used in their Big East showdown against Syracuse, not the popular basketball handslap.

'I don't think their five players did anything wrong in the second half," said Syracuse Coach Jim Boeheim after his sixth-ranked team lost 86-79 to eighth-ranked St. John's Wednesday night in a game that featured an iron-man performance by the Redmen's starting five.

St. John's used only five players the entire second half to turn back Syracuse and climb into a first-place tie with the Orangemen in the Big East race, both with 13-2 conference

'All five guys contributed," said St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca, referring to Walter Berry, Willie Glass, Shelton Jones, Ron Rowan and Mark

Berry led the Redmen with 27 points and Glass contributed 19 Both Berry and Glass pulled down 12 rebounds each. We were picked for fourth (in the Big East)," said Berry, "but we showed people we are better than they thought. In the second half, we all crashed the boards.

Tripucka's 30 carries Pistons by Cavs, 111-104

Associated Press

The Detroit Pistons know they are playing well when they can have an off-game and still win.

Tonight, we were a little flat and we didn't play our best basketball," said Pistons forward Kelly Tripucka, who scored NBA 30 points in Detroit's 111-

104 NBA victory over the Los Angeles Clippers Wednesday night. "The bottom line is winning and playing well." Winning is what the Pistons have done a lot of lately. The latest victory was their ninth straight, tying a franchise record set in 1970, and extended their home winning streak to a record 13. But despite injuries to Los Angeles veterans Marques Johnson, Junior Bridgeman and Cedric Maxwell, the Pistons didn't clinch the victory until Isiah Thomas and Tripucka made consecutive field goals that gave them a 101-93 lead with 2:03 to play

Thomas scored 22 points while rookie center Benoit Benjamin led the Clippers with 20. The Pistons may have been look ing past the Clippers to Friday night's game with Central Division rival Atlanta at the Silverdome. The Pistons and Hawks, separated by only percentage points, are battling for home-court advantage in the opening round of the playoffs.

Lakers 119, Mavericks 116 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 25 points and Earvin "Magic" Johnson and Byron Scott added 21 each in Los Angeles' victory over Dallas.

The Mavericks, who have lost five straight, trailed by nine points mid-way through the fourth quarter, but a 166 streak gave them a 113-112 lead with 2:51 left. Baskets by Michael Cooper and Scott gave the Lakers the lead again, and a 24-second violation and a steal by Scott in the last minute sealed the victory.

Celties 120, Spurs 100 The Celtics won their 15th consecutive game at home in their first appearance at Boston Garden since Feb. 5, with Robert Parish scoring a season-high 27 points against San Parish scored 11 points during a 17-6 Boston spurt late in the second quarter that extended a 44-37 advantage to 61-43. After trailing 71-51 early in the third quarter, the Spurs moved no closer than 15 points.

Top Ten The Redmen's victory came despite a 35-point performance by Syracuse guard Dwayne "Pearl" Washington, who continued his hot streak over the last seven games. "No matter how great Dwayne plays," Boeheim said, "he can't carry us. We need the other players contributing. The Redmen trailed 35-33 at halftime as they were outrebounded, especially on the offensive boards. But St. John's bounced back in the second half with a 13-0 run for a 48-41 lead. Syracuse came back with a 12-3 run of its own, with Washington driving for three straight baskets for a 53-51 advantage. But the 6-foot-8 Berry tied it with two foul shots, and he and the 6-5 Glass then took charge as Syracuse continued to have foul trouble. Said Carnesecca: "The Pearl had his day, but we still did a good defensive job ... We played as good as you can against Syracuse with all their

The Blue Devils, 28-2, moved out to substantial leads over Clemson three times in the game only to see the scrappy Tigers battle back. Duke now has an 11-2 ACC record with a critical game against North Carolina

North Carolina 85, Virginia 79 Jeff Lebo scored 17 points — all in the second half - and Brad Daugherty added 16 to lead North Carolina over Virginia

The victory snapped a two-game losing streak for the Tar Heels, 26-3 and 10-3 in the ACC, and exacted some revenge for the loss to the Cavaliers earlier this season when North Carolina was undefeated and topranked

Center Olden Polynice, Virginia's main offensive force, was hampered by three fouls in the first half and played the final 12 minutes with four fouls. Polynice led the Cavaliers with 24 points.

Michigan 97, Wisconsin 74

Roy Tarpley scored 24 points, while Butch Wade and Gary Grant added 14 each as Michigan romped over Wisconsin. The Wolverines dominated their Big Ten opponents most of the game as they improved their record to 244 overall, 114 in the conference. The Badgers led briefly in the first half, but the Wolverines, using fullcourt pressure to force turnovers and easy baskets, took a 43-34 halftime lead. Rick Olson led Wisconsin with 20 points. Wisconsin Coach Steve Yoder conceded his squad was overmatched

"We played well for a half and that's about it," Yoder said. "They wore us down in the second half. They got a lot of transition baskets, beating us down the floor ... I think they're the best all-round team in the Big Ten.

Hey big-timers, shape up or...

By SCOTT OSTLER

Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service

Yo, all you big-time athletes out

If you want to win my love and respect — and I know you do — here are a few suggestions:

Don't be ashamed to cry, especially about money. We all have money worries, but yours are a lot bigger because you have a lot more of it to worry about. When Kirk Gibson was negotiating with the Detroit Tigers, and they of-only $1 million per year, Kirk said that if he were to sign it, "I think I would vomit." When he finally signed a threeyear contract for $4.1 million, Kirk fered him a three-year contract for said, "I got a sour taste." That shows that Kirk not only has money problems, he also has gastrointestinal problems. I wouldn't want to sit next to him in the dugout.

Don't take no guff. Let's say you're playing in a big tennis tournament. Let's say it becomes apparent that the chief umpire or a linesman has been bribed by your opponent, or by the Mafia, or is suffering from hallucinations that limit his ability to tell which planet he's on, let alone whether or not your last serve ticked the net. Get the hell out. What's a lousy $20,000 fine when your feelings are

You owe it to the integrity of the sport to pick up your rackets and towels and mineral water and walk off the court. No. don't walk, storm. What about the fans who paid to see you play? What about the TV audience, and the TV sponsors, and the little kids who want to be just like you?

The hell with 'em. Pace yourself. Halfway through the season, start moaning about the dog days, the time when the end of the season seems so far off, and the game is so boring, and life seems so meaningless. Shoot, they give you $500,000, want you to work six months, nights even, and they want you to play hard and be enthusiastic every game, too. Well, nobody ever said life was fair.

Be honest. You're playing in a golf tournament and you're having trouble putting. Let your fans know why. The stupid greens are lumpy as a waffle iron! You're lucky you can find your ball on the green, let alone putt it.

Then you've got noisy galleries, photographers with shutters louder than .357 magnums, and grass that sometimes hasn't been cut and clipped in two or three hours. It's hell playing under conditions like

We can all relate, believe me.

What you're playing is almost as bad as real-life golf. I, for instance, have wild swing didn't buzz the next foursome with dangerous drives. Fortunately, I've yet to skull anyone.

Be involved.

Attend your salary arbitration hearing. Even though you have hired an agent to handle those matters, you should be there just to hear what team management really thinks of you. Listen to them magnify all your faults and bad-mouth everything from your haircut to your batting stance. It will do wonders for your attitude and your confidence.

Share your joy and sorrow. This is similar to the first item, but it's something that can't be stressed too much. The general public is worried sick about your financial situation. We understand. When Orel Hershiser heard he won his arbitration case, good for a million-dollar salary in '86, he said, 'It was a big relief. I hadn't been sleeping too well. You can see the bags under my eyes."

Money bags? Orel's fans hadn't been sleeping too well, either, worrying about how this young man was going to scrape through the next six months on only

Demand your rights. If your manager or general manager is insensitive enough to hint that you might have to fight for your job this season, threaten to quit, file a union grievance, sulk or jump off a

The Dodger brass indicated that Greg Brock will have to earn the starting job at first base this spring, despite his obvious brilliance in seasons past. That puts undue pressure and stress on Brock, who should be concentrating exclusively on honing the deadly stroke that struck fear into the hearts of all left-handed opposing pitchers last season. Hire a sharp agent. Wade Boggs lost his arbitration case, so he'll have to settle for $1.35 million this season.

"This is a tragedy," Boggs' agent said. An agent with such a refreshing perspective on life and the real attitude and image. Be strong. If you have a problem with something like drugs, have the courage to place the blame where it belongs.

Hot Penguins freeze Sabres

The surging Pittsburgh Penguins are starting to shake one New York team ... and put the squeeze on another in the NHL's Patrick Division race. Continuing to play their best hockey of the year, the Penguins defeated the Buffalo Sabres 5-2

Wednesday night to ex-tend their current streak to 8-1-1 in the last 10 games. The victory not only gave Pittsburgh a five-point lead over the New York Rangers for the fourth and last playoff spot in the Patrick, but also moved the Penguins within one point of the third-place New York Islanders, 7-2 losers to New Jersey on Wednesday.

The Penguins could do even more damage to the Rangers' playoff chances in their game tonight at New York's Madison Square Garden.

"We would like to put as much distance between us and the Rangers as possible," said Pittsburgh wing Terry Ruskowski. "We have to be at the top of our game and play as well as we can against

"It seems like every time we sneak up on the Islanders, they wind up jumping away from us," Pittsburgh Coach Bob Berry said. "(But tonight's game against the Rangers) obviously is a big game.

We've had some success in there."

Mario Lemieux led Pittsburgh over Buffalo, scoring two goals to extend his point-scoring streak to 20 games. The Penguin second-year center has 40 goals and 116 points this season and has had at least two points in 11 consecutive games.

Lemieux scored at 9:39 of the first period, beating Tom Barrasso from a sharp angle with a shot from along the boards. His second goal came on a power play at 1:38 of the second period when he came from behind the net to wrist a 10-foot shot past Barrasso.

Pittsburgh goaltender Roberto Romano lost his shutout at 4:22 of the third period when Dave Andreychuk scored his 28th to cut the Penguins'

"Romano was the difference tonight," Buffalo Coach Scotty Bowman said. "He seemed to make the big stops at the right time."

Devils 7, Islanders 2

Doug Sulliman snapped a second-period tie and Mel Bridgman added two third-period goals as New Jersey ripped New York. The victory was the Devils' first in four games with the Islanders this season and their first against a fellow Patrick Division team in 14 games.

Sulliman gave the Devils the lead for good at 3-2. when he tipped a shot from the point by defenseman Ken Daneyko past Islanders goalie Billy Smith at 13:26 of the second period.

Pat Verbeek stretched the margin to 42 a little more than three minutes later, firing a 55-footer slapshot past Smith. Bridgman put the game out of reach, scoring twice in the first 8:22 of the final

Mike Bossy had a hand in both Islanders goals. He set up a power-play goal by Tomas Jonsson in the first period and scored his 44th of the season in the second period, beating Glenn Resch with a 20foot shot from the slot that tied the game 2-2.

The goal by Bossy was the 518th of his career, tying him for ninth place on the all-time NHL goalscoring list with Guy Lafleur of the Montreal Canadiens.

Stars 5, Whalers 2

Goalie Don Beaupre stopped 43 shots and right wing Dino Ciccarelli collected his sixth two-goal game of the season to spark Minnesota past Hartford. Ciccarelli scored twice in the opening period as the North Stars took control early by scoring three times in a 2:21 span en route to a 4-1 lead. Brian Lawton, Kent Nilsson and Dennis Maruk also scored for the North Stars, who have reached net with 43 seconds left.

PUBLIC NOTICE $1,000,000 LIQUIDATION SALE

Thank you Permian Basin for the tremendous response to our liquidation sale last week. Because of all the calls, we received ODESSA NISSAN-BMW-ALFA this week ROMERO, E. Hwy. 80 at Loop 338, Odessa, Tx. will have the sale one more time. Friday, February 28 and Saturday, March 1. The sale price will still be posted on the window of each vehicle, and our bankers will be standing by to give immediate credit approval. Don't be concerned about all the low interest rates you are seeing around town, as we are going to save you enough money on the purchase price of a new vehicle to compensate for our slightly higher interest rates. Get the payoff to your present car or bring your title and what money down you can and let us save you hundreds up to thousands of dollars on the purchase of a new vehicle.
