Cotton Pickers Move West As Season Opens

Call of Plains Farms for Help to Gather Feed and Cotton Crop Being Answered.

Thousands of laborers have been keeping the roads hot leading from the east portion of the state to the plains counties during the past ten days and the call for laborers to harvest the Floyd County cotton and feed crop is being answered with plentiful numbers. Streets of Floydada and every other plains town have had large numbers of laborers and their families looking for cotton picking, and cotton and maize raisers have put them to work in large numbers.

All the cotton is still being handled by hand on account of the fact that frost has not fallen and machinery does not handle the crop efficiently while the stalk has green leaves. The advent of additional help into the territory is expected to give much impetus to the movement of the crop to the gins of the county. It is already being felt at gins locally and reports indicate the same is true all over the county. Fourteen gins in the county are running on practically a 24-hour day basis. Floydada gins are keeping slightly ahead of their customers on this basis.

Wonderful weather has prevailed over the county for more than ten days for gathering the cotton and feed crops, and probably half of the cotton of the county is open in the fields. With the fine weather for the maturing of the crop, turn-out and staple are better than they have been in a number of years. Good staple length is also adding to the value of the crop with the result that the raisers are realizing a better return on their ginnings than a similar market basis would give under conditions not so favorable.

Figures for the total ginnings in the county to date are not available at this office. Fourteen gins are running from half to full time and every pretty day adds very considerably to the total number. Farmers are rushing all crop gathering activities as much as possible in the belief that every added day of "open weather" is borrowed from the winter calendar.

Market conditions have not varied to any extent the past ten days. The only effect that the movement of distress cotton, and cotton that is sold as it is ginned or immediately thereafter, has had on the market, if any, has been to keep it at the same level as before. Practically all sales of the past ten days have been made on a basis of 18 cents for middling. Some cotton is showing up slightly above that grade and some slightly below.

P. T. A. To Sponsor Hallowe'en Carnival

Plans have been made by the East Ward Parent-Teachers' Association for lots of fun and a real Hallowe'en night, October 31, at one of the Montgomery buildings on the south side of the square.

There will be witches and spooks galore. Booths will be arranged for fortune telling, the fat baby, boxing, and the greatest runner of the world. All kinds of things to eat will be for sale. An admission charge of 10c will be made as an entrance fee to see all of the "Wonders" in the building.

The fun will begin at 7:30 p. m., according to announcement made this week by members of the organization.

NEW TYPE OF MAIZE MAKES GOOD SHOWING ON HIS FARM

A new type of maize, which is in the experimental stage in this immediate territory, known as Manko Maize, apparently is turning out well this season on the farm of R. B. Newman nine miles north of Lorenzo.

Mr. Newman has two acres of the variety planted as an experimental project, and he had a few heads of the crop in town Wednesday showing it. The heads shown were thirteen to fifteen inches in length, compact in formation, well filled out from top to bottom, and although he has had considerable rain on his farm this year did not show any sign of worms in the heads. The condition of the stems indicated that probably some kind of bug affected the stems slightly, possibly the chinch bug. Five heads, still somewhat sappy, weighed five and a fourth pounds.

"When mature and threshed the seed look very much like the regular red maize," Mr. Newman said. "Possibly the grain is a little larger than the regular maize grain. I have not had a chance to test the feeding of the Manko variety yet and do not know what it will do when it comes time to market it. However, it looks good and evidently is a considerably bigger producer than the regular maize."

On account of not having tried the new variety in all particulars, Mr. Newman said he was not in position to recommend it, but it is an interesting experiment and if it turns out in other respects as good as it looks, the stalk, it is his idea that it would prove a valuable addition to products of the section.

Nail Picker Gathers Iron Junk From Roads

What it is going to mean in added comfort and speed in the use of the state highways of this section to have the "nail picker" run over them is indicated by the big "haul" a magnetic machine got on its five trips over Highway No. 28 in Floyd County the past week.

The machine runs over the road at a speed of five to ten miles an hour. On the rear of the machine it is equipped with a large magnetized bar about six or eight feet long, magnetized strongly enough that it will pick up large pieces of iron or steel as well as the smaller ones. In the run of a very few miles in this county the machine is said to have picked up 200 or 300 pounds of nails, scrap iron, bolts, and junk of every kind of iron or steel, and in the forty-two miles run through the county is said to have gathered up hundreds of pounds of junk that is the continual hazard of tires and tubes.

The first of these machines were used in this section early this spring on New Mexico highways. The highly successful manner in which the machine operated and the tremendous amount of junk it gathered off the highways immediately made an impression and similar machines have been put to work in this state.

W. J. Williams Hurt In Automobile Spill

Tuesday night friends in Floydada were informed of injuries sustained by W. J. Williams, Hale County engineer, in an automobile accident a few miles out from Amarillo, when he and two other men were spilled from their car. Williams and Marvin Stiles were taken to an Amarillo hospital in an unconscious condition. The accident occurred about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

George A. Linder, engineer of this city who has been associated with Williams in numerous surveying enterprises over this section, was advised that the extent of the injuries sustained by Mr. Williams could not be determined exactly at that time. Mr. Linder went to Amarillo Wednesday afternoon, but could not be reached this morning to give further information on the condition of the Hale County men.

Mr. Williams had been at work in Floyd County for nearly six months, on a contract for establishing corners and lines on all tracts of land owned by the Howard Brothers, the work also carrying him into Briscoe and Motley Counties. He and Mr. Linder were associated on this job, the office work being handled out of Floydada.

Mr. Williams is looked upon as one of the most widely-experienced and informed land surveyors in this section, lines and corners established by him during many years of work having come to be recognized as official in numerous instances where settlement of boundaries were to be effected.

Carload Of Registered Jerseys Distributed

Last week a carload of registered Jersey cattle were received in Lockney and this week are being distributed among farmers of that section, with the Bockview Farm between that city and Plainview taking eight head and other farms from one to three head of the purebred dairy cows.

The Floyd County Jersey Club, with headquarters at Lockney, took the lead in getting pledges for the new Jersey blood in the territory, and E. W. Thomas, manager of the Lockview Farm, was commissioned to make the purchases. Most of the cows came from the vicinity of Cleburne, Mr. Thomas said Saturday. All of them are registered.

Several excellent Jersey bulls are already available in the county, following the formation of four or five bull circles last year.

Otis Murray Purchaser Of North Main Corner

Announcement was made last week of the purchase by Otis Murray, owner of the Day & Night Garage, of the northeast corner lot of Block 62 on North Main Street from Judge Arthur B. Duncan, the formalities of transfer having already been made.

No plans for the new property were given out by Mr. Murray following its acquisition. It is a corner lot and is in the new area being covered by the paving program inaugurated this summer.

DOLORES DEL RIO PLAYS IN 'NO OTHER WOMAN' AT ROYAL

Dolores Del Rio, noted Fox films player, is announced for an early appearance on the screen at the Royal Theatre in Rox Films version of "No Other Woman," Lou Tellegen's directorial venture—and successful one. It is a spectacular drama of modern life with Ben Bard and made the other angles to an fascinating triangle.

Luncheon Club Votes To Form Lions Club

Vote Is Unanimous To Ask For Affiliation With International Organization at Early Date.

Floydada Luncheon Club, a local non-affiliated luncheon organization that has been in existence for the past three years, will be merged or transformed into a Lions Club at an early date, if plans discussed and adopted at Monday's noon-day gathering of the organization are carried out as they are expected to be. The formality of changing the club into a Lions Club will be undertaken within the next few days, the club voting Monday to notify the Childress Lions Club of their desire accepting their invitation to form a Lions Club here and to have the Childress organization sponsor it.

The invitation was extended a month ago, and in the interim discussion and study of the various plans of service clubs has been one of the principal activities at club meetings.

O. P. Rutledge, Joe Breed and Clyde Davis were named as a membership committee in the formation of the new club, which it was voted, would automatically take the place of the present organization.

At the club gathering W. E. Patty, new chairman, and the other new officers officiated for the first time.

District Court To Close Five-Week Term Saturday

Last Week of Fall Term Featured by Trial of Suits on Paving Assessments.

District Court for Floyd County will close its fall term Saturday night of this week after five weeks in session during which time a very considerable docket has been disposed of, although no cases of widespread notoriety were to be tried. A feature of the term has been the trial or disposal of every case on the criminal docket, except one case in which it was determined that the defendant's wife was too ill for him to be absent from home.

This week's sessions were lived Monday and Tuesday by the trial of two civil cases arising out of the paving proposals of the city. On East Mississippi Street two owners, representing frontage of 250 feet, protested the paving assessments made against them and the cases came up for adjudication Monday. A. L. Bishop, who had an assessment of approximately $618 on a 100-foot frontage, was assessed $400 as the increment in value to the property on account of the paving in a verdict rendered by District Judge Clements, before whom both the law and evidence were submitted. Tuesday the propriety of assessments made against 150 feet of property frontage owned by Judge Arthur B. Duncan was in controversy with a jury as arbiters. The case was given to the jury late Tuesday afternoon, and the jury discharged Wednesday after being unable to agree on a verdict.

Grand Jury Report

Monday the grand jury were convened by the judge to complete their labors for the term. 8 new bills of indictment were returned by them into court.

Bailiffs who have served the court during the term are E. A. Childers, E. Ray Smith, T. B. Hill, J. W. Pitts, and J. M. Wright.

Completing their labors late yesterday afternoon the grand jury returned into court eight new indictments, six of which were on felony charges. At the same time their report and request for discharge was lodged with Judge Clements. Following are their recommendations:

"We wish to commend the sheriff's department for the diligence shown by it in the enforcement of all of our laws, and we find that they have given prompt attention to all law violations and that the law violations have been kept at the minimum.

"We find that the misdemeanor class of offenses have been handled by complaint and information through the county attorney's office and has made it unnecessary for the grand jury to spend much time investigating same.

"We wish to thank the court, the district and county attorney for the assistance they have rendered us in our deliberations and further find that the justices of the peace of the county have kept their work up, and we also thank them for their assistance in the prevention of petty offenses over the county.

"We recommend that all good citizens of the county render all reasonable aid possible to the officers in keeping them informed as to the violations of the laws of the state, as this is an obligation of citizenship.

"We have investigated as thoroughly as we know how all the violations of the law which have occurred within Floyd County and have found eighteen true bills in felony cases and two misdemeanors.

"We have spent considerable time in the investigation of the death of Joe Kitchens, who lived near Dougherty, Texas. After considerable deliberation the grand jury voted un-

'Greater Movie Week' Is Amusement Feature

Midnight Matinee Planned for Hallowe'en For Entertainment of Frolicking Crowds.

A mid-night matinee for Wednesday night of next week has been planned by J. G. Deakins, manager of the Floydada Theatre, to be given at 12:01 a. m. at the Royal Theatre. The party is especially planned for the entertainment of "Spook" parties and Hallowe'en pranksters, it was stated.

Preceding the mid-night matinee, the Royal will show Geo. K. Arthur and Karl Dane in a feature comedy picture entitled "Detectives." After the mid-night hour has passed and the "spooks and goblins" have all come out, an all-star cast will be shown in "A Thief in the Dark." Plenty of fun for everybody, has been promised by the manager, who states further that he will assure the public good conduct by the audience.

"Greater Movie Week" which has been in swing at the Royal Theatre this week has been attracting more than usual attention. Crowds in attendance have been large and have been well pleased with the pictures.

Monday and Tuesday nights, local theatre-goers saw Clara Bow in an unusually heavy part, which was in contrast to most of that star's pictures of a more humorous nature. Wednesday night and tonight, the Royal is showing Douglas Fairbanks in one of his fastest and most exciting pictures, "The Gaucho." Those that saw the picture Wednesday declare it to be one of Fairbanks' best.

"Greater Movie Week" closes Saturday night with a picture which will also be shown Friday. This big feature stars Fred Thompson and his horse, "Silver King" in a big western picture, "The Sunset Legion."

Pleased With Results Of State Fair Exhibit

Ed Bishop, secretary of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce, reached home the first of the week after spending some twenty days in Dallas in the preparation and showing of a Floyd County agricultural and industrial exhibit. Lockney and Floydada Chambers of Commerce worked together in the preparation of the exhibit and Faye Guthrie assisted in its showing for several days during the fair, being called home before the close of the fair, however, by pressing demands on his time at Lockney.

"Our exhibit was altogether non-competitive at the Fair this year. We tried to get out of the ordinary and apparently succeeded," Mr. Bishop said Tuesday. "Our exhibit portrayed as well as we could the basic industry of agriculture and also showed the railway and industrial development which our county has enjoyed in the past twelve months. Hale and Lubbock Counties had exhibits of the same nature, and the three together seemed to attract more interest than the exhibits which were competitive."

Soon after his arrival in Dallas, Mr. Bishop interviewed representatives of labor bureaus of the government in Fort Worth and Dallas, and these predicted the movement of farm labor which has set in to this section. On his return home Mr. Bishop said he counted ninety-three automobiles between Fort Worth and Wichita Falls, bearing laborers and their families westward.

Hoover Speaker Urges Support By Democrats

Declaring that Herbert Hoover is one of the nation's greatest men, and that his record and accomplishments as a citizen and official entitle him to the support and confidence of the people of America, Mrs. Alexander Thompson, of Oregon, former Democratic National Committeewoman from her state, told an audience in the District Court Room here Thursday afternoon of last week, that although she "had been rocked in a Democratic cradle and reared in that political faith," she would support Hoover for president this year.

The Republican aspirant's record as an aide to President Wilson during the years of his administration was pointed to as one of the most brilliant duties performed by a cabinet member and government worker during the trying days of the war.

Mrs. Thompson was a delegate to the national convention of the Democratic Party at Madison Square Garden in New York City in 1924, she said, and declared the lengths to which Smith supporters in that hectic fight, went to get their candidate nominated, were ridiculous. Her attack on Al Smith was based largely on his Tammany Hall affiliation and his prohibition record.

Mrs. Thompson was introduced by Rev. F. L. Davis, a strong local supporter of the Hoover candidacy. She impressed Floydada people as a real orator in the hour or slightly less that she gave to the address.

rather favorable in the main for the opening of the cotton year, although just at this time the per centage of distress cotton—cotton that is mortgaged for debts due right around this date—is heavy, with the result that the market is not showing the bouancy it should and probably would under other circumstances.

FOR 'HOOVER' DEMOCRATS

For the information of those who desire to vote a state democratic ticket but want to support the republican national ticket, the manner of voting that kind of ticket has been set out under the Texas laws by a recent statement of Attorney General Claude Pollard.
The ticket you will be presented when you go to the ballot box will have five columns under the main head of "Official Ballot." The first of these columns will read Democratic, the second Republican, the third Socialist, the fourth Communist and the fifth will be blank. Provision is made for every man of every political faith and of no political faith to express himself at the ballot box, as every man should.

The "Hoover" democrat, which is the accepted designation of one who will vote a state democratic ticket and the national republican ticket, will be confronted with the question of how to vote his sentiments. The answer is that you run a line through the electors in the first or democratic column down to the line "for United States Senator," which last line along with the rest of the Democratic ticket you leave as it is. Then in the next column you leave unscratched the names of the electors under the Republican head and scratch out those names beginning with "United States Senator." Then, of course, you mark out the other three columns, vote for or against the amendments as you see fit, and you have voted for the state democratic and national republican ticket.

We advise you not to do that, but that's the way it's done if you have your mind made up and your neck bowed.

FOR PLAIN DEMOCRATS

The woods are full of people who,
for reasons sufficient to themselves, plan to join the republican party in the support of the Republican national ticket November 6. These constitute either a substantial majority of the people of the county or a very noisy minority. They will vote for the state democratic ticket, which does not need their aid but will not support the national ticket which is in need of the vote of all good men who can to come to the aid of their party.

If, in good conscience, you can go to the polls and vote the party ticket straight, do so. If you have been careless about voting in the past at general elections, because a vote more or less did not mean anything, the situation is different now, and your vote is needed.

There are plenty of good reasons for supporting the ticket, and there is no need to be ashamed of the standard bearers and their records, and no need to apologize to any man for "voting 'er straight."

'Round The Square
BY OLD BATTLEAXE

That guy on California Street says that if ignorance is really bliss, he can't understand why there are so many pessimists round the square.

Hot dog—Floydada soon will boast of a Lions Club and a Rotary Club.
Two more organizations to help put O. B. out of business. (Our business, of course, is to pick the faults in Floydada.) These two organizations do more than pick flaws,— they go to work and remedy them.
Well, boys, what do you say we begin work the first thing on a new telephone system for Floydada?

Honest to goodness, folks, something has got to be done about our telephone service.

You know, there is many a fellow who thinks he is a big gun till he gets fired. Then he knows that he is just a pop gun.

"Don't forget those Court house lights," a woman told O. B. this week. So you see, we are not the only ones thinking of the lights on the dome of the court house. Everything around the square looks alright in the daytime, but at night, well,

"we just ain't got no court house at all."

Since the Saliva Slingers left the Post office, things sure look good there now. There's only one thing that they need. They need a "Post no Bills" sign over the front door.

"There was a man in our town,
And he was wondrous wise.
He swore, it was his policy,
He would not advertise.
But one sad day he advertised,
And thereby hangs the tale;
His ad was set in quite small type,
And headed, "Sheriff's Sale,"

No objections on Wall Street paying, and Mississippi Street to order paving this week! Man, man—Floydada is going to have more paving than any other town it's size in this section of the state. O. B. is one of those "I told you so" kind of folks.
We knew that if we ever got it started here, we could keep it up. Gee, we're glad that we live in a town like Floydada.

That girl on Wall Street says that now since we are making the streets safe for the driver, how about making the driver safe for the streets.

Gee, Old Battleaxe gets lonesome.
He sure would appreciate a letter every now and then from some of his readers, (if any). Sure enough, folks, drop us a line and tell us what you want said, and if it meets the approval of O. B., the boss, the Ramona, the office dog, we will print it. Ain't that nice?

One fellow round the square said that if Smith and Hoover knew who some of their leading boosters were, they would both resign their candidacies.

Nine-tenths of all the diseases of the American people can be traced directly to constipation, doctors say. Constipawhich taint and weaken every organ them. Prevent constipation and you will avoid nine-tenths of all diseases, with their consequent pain and fi-

It Takes Training to Be a Druggist

When you ride in an aeroplane, you ride on faith—faith that every workman who has helped to construct the plane has done his full duty. The slighting of a single bolt or screw might cause disaster.

When you have a prescription filled at one of our Floydada drug stores, you likewise order on faith—faith that the druggist knows his drugs and can mix them accurately.

The professional side of the drug business requires special training.
Every one of our local pharmacists has satisfied a state board of examiners that he is competent to meet all public requirements in dispensing drugs.

All of us can't be pharmacists.
Therefore, we're glad we have dependable representatives of this profession in our midst.

There are three good drug stores in Floydada. They serve this community both in a professional and merchandising way. There is never a time when the proprietors or clerks of these stores are not ready to answer emergency calls, day or night.

F. L. Davis, Minister.
The services last Lord's day were interesting and helpful to all present.
Instead of the regular morning sermon, those who were at the one day convention at Lubbock Friday, who were present, gave reports of the Convention. Mrs. Callie
Wolfe, Mrs. Champ Walters, Mrs.
Edd Brown and Mrs. F. L. Davis all made interesting and helpful talks, each one reporting different phases of the work. Yet, "The half has not been told" about the Convention.

From time to time the pastor will bring in reports.

Sunday was also "Victor Sunday."
The Brotherhood is building a church building adequate to the needs in Washington, D. C. The building and equipment and small endowment will amount to $1,750,000.00. Most of this was raised by private subscription and Sunday was the day for the churches to take an offering for the completion of this fund. We are glad to say that we made a creditable offering for this worthy work.
This church is always interested in every worthy cause, not only for the Brotherhood, but also for the betterment of humanity.

We were sorry our superintendent of the Sunday School, John A. Enoch, was unable to be with us last Lord's day. He had his teeth extracted Saturday and consequently was unable to be present. Bro. Ed Brown, the ever ready, acted in a fine way and we had a good Sunday school.

Next Lord's day the services will be as usual. Sunday School at 10 o'clock a. m. and preaching by the pastor both morning and evening.
The Endeavor will meet at 6:30 and night preaching service at 7:30.
Vital and interesting themes will be discussed at both services.

The public in general, and you in particular, are invited to worship with us. We are waiting to give you a hearty welcome. Come and bring your folks and friends.

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE

"I say, doctor, did you ever doctor another doctor?"
"O, yes, often."
"Well, tell me this. Does a doctor doctor a doctor the way the doctor doctor wants to be doctored, or does the doctor doing the doctoring doctor the other doctor his own way?"

WHIPPET ENDURANCE DRIVER FEELING GOOD WEDNESDAY

"I'm feeling fine now, but have an idea I won't be feeling so good at this time tomorrow." J. R. Goen, of Lubbock, who is making a 2000 mile non-stop drive over the South Plains this week-end, told a Hesperian reporter yesterday evening while in Floydada. Mr. Goen is driving a stock Whippet sedan, with crank-case sealed, and will make the entire drive himself, without eating or sleeping during the entire drive.
The endurance drive started Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock from Lubbock and a route has been followed which includes many towns in this section. Mr. Goen was in Floydada at 6:15 yesterday afternoon and again late Wednesday night. His route includes Brownfield, Seagraves, Seminole, Lamesa, Tahoka, Post, Slaton, Lorenzo, Ralls, Crosbyton, Floydada, Lockney, Plainview, Olton, Amherst and Lubbock. He will probably make the route five times, it is said. It was estimated Wednesday night that it would probably take between sixty and seventy-two hours of continuous driving to complete the test.

An interesting series of studies of the effect of early grazing of the range have been conducted at the U. S. Sheep Experiment Station, Dubois, Idaho. In a comparison of two 80-acre pastures, the one protected from grazing in the early spring and fully grazed in the fall showed, at the end of five years, a cumulative effect of about 87 per cent more forage than the pasture that was grazed heavily in the spring and again in the fall. The average difference over the five-year period was 16 per cent in favor of protection in the spring. These figures show conclusively that the pasture protected in the spring is building up while the unprotected, over-grazed pasture is wearing out. The Forest Service is cooperating with the Bureau of Animal Industry in this work.

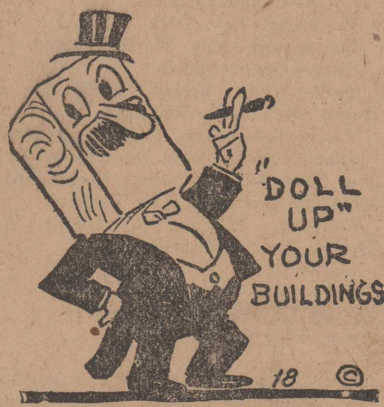

The importance of legumes in adding nitrogen to the soil is far greater than is commonly realized, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. A 2-ton crop of vetch, if turned under, will add more than 100 pounds of nitrogen to the soil. Vetch should be planted early enough so that the plants are well established and firmly rooted before winter begins. Delayed seeding is a frequent cause of failure of this crop.

Do you know Leaflet 28, "Lamb as You Like It?" It contains many suggestions on cooking lamb properly, and may be obtained for the asking from the United States Department of Agriculture.

On land on which red clover or mammoth clover will not do well, alsike clover is recommended as a satisfactory soil-improving crop. Run-down land can be brought up by alsike clover nearly as well as by red clover.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

The time is near at hand when the people of this nation will express at the ballot box their approval or disapproval of its public servants and national policy.

When the public speaks it always is portentous, significant and consequential. Whether the verdict applies to national politics, a public utility, a private business or an individual. It is an incontrovertible force in which judgment the victor or the victim must abide.

The public demands, and is entitled to service—good service and constructive service—no other kind will develop confidence and trust or perpetuate loyalty and patronage.

This sort of service forms one of the basic principles upon which the Texas Utilities Company is founded. It is with pride that we look to the thousands of satisfied customer loyal and steadfast. We like to believe a commentary to our unswerving effort industry continues to grow and that gratifying proportions.

John Carney, Grade Crossing Victim Near Slaton Last Week

John Carney, Texas Baptist itinerant minister, who for the past twenty years has traveled the length and breadth of the southwest, preaching the gospel of prohibition, died last week the victim of a grade crossing accident, and with him also died his wife, tragically closing the career of one of the most widely known preachers and prohibition workers in the state.

For twenty years or more, Carney has made this section of the state regularly from one to two times a year, always being given an opportunity to be heard in some of the local pulpits. His last visit here was during the Baptist Fifth Sunday Convention, when he was heard by messengers of a score of churches comprising the Floyd County Baptist Association.

Carney's early life, he often told his audiences, was one of riotous and unrighteous living, and apparently he was destined for a drunkard's grave. He was practically in the gutter, he declared, when he found redemption in the Salvation of Jesus Christ, and from that day began hitting as hard licks for the Master as he had formerly been doing for the devil. He described himself as "one of the vilest sinners" saved by Grace.

The story of the tragic accident which ended his career, is told by The Slaton Slatonite:

"Rev. John Carney was seriously hurt and not expected to recover, and his wife was instantly killed early Monday morning at Snyder when their car was struck by a westbound Santa Fe freight train at a crossing. The minister, about 75 years of age, was said to be hurt internally, besides having many cuts and bruises on the head and body. He was placed in a hospital at Snyder following the accident.

"The minister and his wife had started on their journey to another town Monday morning, after Rev. Carney had spoken the preceding night at the First Baptist Church in Snyder. He was known all over the state as a prohibition lecturer, and delivered an address at the First Baptist Church in Slaton about two weeks ago.

"When taking a free-will offering here at the close of his address, he said, 'Pay me in checks for I may never see you again, and I want you to have the cancelled check, showing that you helped me along the way.' He was said to have made a similar statement at Snyder the night before the crossing accident.

"The train which hit Rev. Carney's car was being piloted by C. L. Garriques, Slaton locomotive engineer on the Slaton division of the Santa Fe. The accident occurred after the minister's car had been stopped at the crossing, reports stated, but just before the train reached the crossing the car suddenly lurched forward into the train's path, according to eye-witnesses.

"Members of the train crew, after bringing the train to a quick stop, carried the injured man to a Snyder hospital for attention. It is supposed the Rev. Carney left his car in gear and unconsciously released the clutch with his foot just before the train passed."

Rev. Carney died the following day of his injuries.

Crosbyton Gridsters Face Locals Friday

Stiff Fight Predicted When F. H. S. Whirlwinds Clash With The Chiefs at Crosbyton.

After a week's lay-off from their gridiron struggles, Coach Jones' Whirlwind warriors will again enter into their season's schedule Friday when they clash with the Crosbyton High Chiefs on the Crosbyton grid. The Whirlwinds will probably be a little stiff this week because of their lay-off and are expecting a hard fight from the Chiefs.

Crosbyton has one of the strongest teams in this district, according to all reports. Their first defeat of the season came last Friday afternoon when they went down before the Post eleven. Their goal line was crossed for the first time by Post, that team winning by a 19 to 0 score. Crosbyton had won four straight games prior to their defeat last week.

"If the Whirlwinds will go into this game and the rest of the games this season with the determination to win, and with that old fighting spirit for which they are noted, we are sure to win every game in the remainder of our schedule," Coach Jones said this week. "We've got a good team this year, but the boys think that they are no good and do not really fight. If they have good side-line backing and lots of side-line pep, they will get this idea out of their heads," Coach Jones told a Hesperian reporter this week. "We know that they can do it, but the question is, 'will they?' is the way the coach put it.

"The Green Peppers," Floydada's crack pep squad of fifty girls and a large group of local fans plan to attend the game Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Blacklock of Ranger were guests Saturday and Sunday of his brother, B. L. Blacklock and family.

DEAL DEATH AND DESTRUCTION

The flea and the fly, the mosquito and the louse, All lived together in a very dirty house.

The flea spread the plague And the skeeter spread the chills— All worked together to make undertaker's bills.

The fly spread typhoid—the louse spread typhus too.

Folks in that house were a mighty sickly crew.

Along came a man who cleaned up the house.

Screened out the skeeter and swatted the louse.

The fly and the flea he pinned against the wall;

Now the people in that house are never sick at all.

If fattening hogs are "pushed" from weaning time to market, the most economical plan is to have them on good pasture with free access to shelled corn and tankage or fish meal in self feeders. Middlings or shorts of good quality, or old-process linseed meal, may be fed instead of tankage or fish meal.

"My mother told me to try Black-Draught, which I did, and after a few doses I felt much better. Now I take it as soon as I feel the least bad, and I don't get down. I certainly can say that it has done more for me than any other medicine I have ever taken.

"I never get without Black-Draught. If I go on a visit, I take a package along in my suitcase. My health is better now than it has been in years."

A LOST GENERATION

In the years immediately following the armistice the schoolgirls in England left a world of gossiping, game-playing children and found themselves at the age of 17 or 18 utterly bewildered by a world of strange grown-ups; young men back from the front (and they had seen no young men at all for four years) young women, hectic and sophisticated after war experiences.

The girls were lost. They had no social grace, for there were few parties or dances between 1914 and 1918 of the kind they would normally have been taken to. They were burdened with the seriousness of that public school training gives to girls—an earnestness that found itself quite out of place with their elder brothers and sisters, relaxing after four years' strain. They were shy and timid, terrified of making fools of themselves in front of these super-sophisticated young elders. They were out of touch with their parents. However, they were not conscious of what they missed. They had been told to "do their bit in the new world" often enough in school and chapel, and now they turned to work. But all the jobs were being filled to overflowing by young people back from the war. There was no "bit" for them to do.

So they picked up little jobs here and there of the more genteel variety.

You see them in pit queues chattering to girl friends, on country walks, in public libraries reading the literary weeklies. They were a race apart, an unhappy transition generation, envying, on the one hand, the wise, active 30-year-olds who worked and suffered through the war and know what they want; and, on the other hand, the younger generation, fresh from schools and universities, finely educated, keen and gay, snapping up the jobs that they themselves were not fitted to fill.—Manchester Guardian.

WORLD'S WHEAT CROP LARGEST IN HISTORY

Into the world's wheat granary the nations of the northern hemisphere, exclusive of Russia, will pour approximately 3,280,000,000 bushels this year. Of the total 1,456,000,000 is expected to come from the United States and Canada. Europe, without Russia, is adding some 1,362,000,000. On each side of the Atlantic there is more of the grain than in 1927. What amount the southern hemisphere will contribute depends on weather effects between now and December, when harvesting begins in Argentina and Australia, the two chief growing areas there. The outlook at present is that Argentina's output will be about the same as last season, 299,000,000 bushels, while Australia may have 165,000,000, an increase of 55,000,000.

The figures for the northern hemisphere are supported by sufficient harvesting data to be accepted as fairly accurate. More doubt necessarily must exist as to the outcome in the southern hemisphere. On the whole the impression is strong that the world supply of wheat from sowings to be thrashed before a new crop is ready will exceed that of last year. So the chief study of countries like the United States and Canada, which must export part of their production is concerned with the problem of where buyers can be found. On the surface the larger output in Europe might indicate less requirements from the outside. Rye or potatoes are not yielding bountifully on the continent, however. Wheat usually is the substitute depended on. The consequence may be larger purchases for that reason. A normal population increase on the earth is a factor that is not to be overlooked.

Of all agricultural commodities wheat is produced and consumed most extensively. There is never a day in which its ebb and flow in the channels of trade are not factors of the broadest import. The size of the world's loaf of bread, actually and potentially, never escapes minute observation. The loaf is big enough this year to preclude the possibility of famine anywhere, granted the existence of adequate purchasing power and efficient distribution.

The Hesperian $1.50 per Year.

CIGARETTE CONSUMPTION IN UNITED STATES IS GROWING

Cigarette smokers in the United States, at the present rate of consumption, will send up in smoke about 105,000,000,000 cigarettes in 1928, breaking all records in the history of the cigarette industry. This enormous consumption indicates an average of more than 800 cigarettes for every one of the 120,000,000 inhabitants of Uncle Sam's domain.

The cigarette industry will pour approximately $331,000,000 into the coffers of the United States treasury, of which $315,000,000 represents tax on the manufactured product and $16,000,000 duties on imported Oriental tobacco.

Approximately 300,000 pounds of leaf tobacco will be required as raw material. More than 90 per cent of the output is the blend variety of domestic and co-called Turkish tobacco, the balance being all Turkish or all domestic. The blended cigarette contains from 60 to 85 per cent of the domestic product and the balance is imported tobacco, so that approximately 45,000,000 to 50,000,000 pounds of the Oriental product will be withdrawn from the bonded warehouse for the 1928 output.

The widespread popularity of the blended cigarette in America and its tremendous growth in consumption during the past few years are due in large measure to the aroma imparted through use of the so-called Turkish tobacco. It imparts also a sweetness and burning quality not matched by the purely American leaf tobacco, due to the fact that the smaller Turkish leaf contains a larger proportion of aromatic essential oils, starch and other elements.

The classification Turkish, however, has a generic rather than geographical significance. So-called Turkish tobacco comes not only from Turkey on the borders of Aegan and Black seas, but includes all tobaccos grown in Greece in the region bearing upon the eastern Mediterranean and Aegean seas. But in this vast territory only two areas, eastern Macedonia and western Thrace, produce the more aromatic and agreeable tobacco that are in favor with American smokers.

Abdul Hamid, last of the celebrated Turkish sultans, and his numerous wives smoked in the harem cigarettes especially made from leaf tobaccos grown in these districts, which now have passed from the Turkish empire to become a part of the present Hellenic Republic. These tobaccos are the most costly, costing upwards of $1 a pound wholesale as compared with 30 to 40 cents a pound for American cigarette tobacco.

Tobacco culture in eastern Macedonia, Western Thrace and Smyrna is believed to have started soon after the leaf was brought to England from America by Sir Walter Raleigh. Because of peculiar climate and soil conditions, the Turkish tobacco plant soon developed a stunted appearance but the concentration of the aromatic oils on the smaller surface gave the dry product an improved taste and aroma.

Tobaccos from other sections also are imported into this country, especially from the islands famous in the history of ancient Greece, Samos, Chios and Mytilene. Tobaccos from Smyrna and Samsoun on the Black sea also find favor with American manufacturers of blended cigarettes.

JOLT TO HEREDITY

The theories of heredity were given quite a jolt in the presidential and vice presidential nominations.

Smith was born in the lower East Side of New York, the son of a truck driver. Hoover's father was a blacksmith, without intellectual distinction of record. Curtis, born on an Indian reservation, is the son of humble parents. Robinson, being the son of a country doctor, is the only one of the four candidates who possesses even a remote heredity to leadership. It is doubtful that the eugenics experts would cite him as the typical fulfillment of their principles.

The layman not acquainted with the ways of science is pretty likely to conclude that forecasting human greatness on a basis of parentage is still to be classed as one of the great American guessing games along with forecasting the quality of cantaloupes and predicting the severity of winter by the thickness of corn husks.—Kansas City Star.

NATURAL GAS NOW IN MIDST OF PERIOD OF GREATEST EXPANSION

Reminding his readers that not so many years ago it was heard on every side that the natural gas industry was nearing the end of its colorful career, H. J. Struth, editor of Natural Gas, points out that more than 2500 communities are now served with this product and that the industry has expanded to the point where it ranks among the foremost American enterprises.

"The natural gas industry of today is a newer and greater industry," Mr. Struth writes. "In the search of new natural gas supplies, our industry has spent untiring effort and millions of dollars. With success attending these efforts, our industry sensed the possibilities of widening its distribution facilities and inaugurated a development program, involving additional millions of dollars, that is destined to encompass an area with a combined population of thirty million.

"The rapid strides made by the natural gas industry in recent years have placed it among the foremost of American industrial enterprises. Hundreds of millions of dollars are expended annually in the development of natural gas properties, the laying of transmission lines, and the placing of this great service at the disposal of the public. Included in this huge annual expenditure is also a large sum comprising the cost of labor and supplies entailed in the operation and maintenance of its multifarious operations. Thus, it is evident that the natural gas industry is really a giant among American industries—a giant possessing a framework that suggests stupendous future physical development."

Old Timers Marvel
Mr. Struth then goes on to say that "old timers" in the natural gas industry marvel at the accomplishments of the present era. Formerly, natural gas was piped 40 or 50 miles, he says, but now it is transported more than 600 miles.

Mr. Struth then adds, "With the new natural gas industry nothing is impossible of accomplishment. The availability of new sources of supply, combined with a composite human force, possessing brains, ability, financial resources, and the courage of its convictions, furnishes a combination that is unrivalled by any other industry in the world. Its product, natural gas, represents supremacy in the field of household and industrial fuels. Its market is limited only by the supply, stored away in the bowels of the earth. Its unusually high heating value, cleanliness, ease with which it can be controlled, and its relative low cost to the consumer, places natural gas in a class of its own among all other competitive American fuels."

BEAUTIFUL WORDS

What makes a word beautiful—sound or association? Somebody once said that the most beautiful word in the language was "pavement" and it has, of course, concentrated some of the pleasantest vowels and consonants. But it has no overwhelming association to reinforce its pleasant sounds; the best beauty it can call up is wet London asphalt, pewter black with golden dapples of light. Because it is a town word its associations damn it.

Now, such a word as "nightingale" is almost as lovely in sound and by association how much more beautiful than pavement, even although you admit the fascination of the grave and tender "eve," combined with the "ent" sound, like the sound of a violin string plucked by the finger. But "celandine," "Ivory" or "complain" seem to me to contain just as beautiful sounds as pavement, and "Avalon" beats it hollow. Anyway, the perfect word, you'll admit, must have an I in it.

And yet sometimes an ugly sounding little word, like "love," "sun," "gold" or "god," will beat all the beautiful sounding words in its effect upon the reader, just because of the overwhelming beauty of its meaning and associations. Such a word is "country," though only when used in a special sense. It is a harsh, grunting, dull-voiced lump of a word when you are speaking of countries of Europe; but talk of "the country," "living in the country," "go into the country," "a day in the country," or "the English countryside," and how that ugly word grows and glows and is transformed into a word that Adam and Eve might have used.—Clemence Dane in Good Housekeeping.

ONE-HEADLIGHT NUISANCE

We are opposed to the practice of quite a number of drivers operating their cars with but one headlight. In this stand we have the undivided support of a majority of lawabiding motorists, who make frequent complaint as to the practice.

We would not, however, have the city authorities inaugurate an intensive campaign to abate this nuisance, but would have them serve notice on the offenders requiring them to appear at police headquarters within a limited time, showing that the additional headlight had been installed.

We hardly think it fair to allow this practice to obtain for an indefinite period and then clamp on the lid suddenly, without warning, thus giving an opportunity for the charge that the "city needs the money." We feel that the city authorities are willing to co-operate with us in this attitude; in fact, the leniency exhibited is a good omen for our belief. In the meantime let those who, through sheer carelessness, have neglected this important duty, attend to it at once.—West St. Paul Booster.

Scientists have under observation 19-year-old twin girls at Oshawa (Ontario), who were reared apart to determine whether heredity or environment plays the greater part in moulding the individual.

ALWAYS THE IMPROVIDENT

The races and Nations of mankind are not and never have been equally intelligent and resourceful in devising and adopting those institutions and customs which enable the populations in some measure to avoid widespread poverty. There are parts of the world whose peoples are improvident and irresponsible, and the pressure of want against their ineffectual resistance is a danger to the defenses of those peoples that have for the time successfully repelled the common enemy.—T. N. Carver in "This Economic World."

The most profitable pig is one that never stops growing and makes good gains from the time it is farrowed until it is ready for market.

HE PECKS THE POLES

The little red-headed woodpecker cost the Bell system in the State of Iowa alone last year the sum of $13,000. Because of his ravenous appetite, the woodpecker often feasts on telephone poles, and on 737 miles of line inspected in Iowa, 589 poles were condemned for replacement because woodpecker holes had weakened the poles below standard strength. The increased use of crested pine poles however, is gradually reducing the damage done by woodpeckers.—Telephone News.

To Myrtice Meador

Myrtice Meador, "chic" and gay,
With many plans a-making,
Announces now her new birthday,
And has the ladies baking.

They're baking cakes and pies and bread,

And other things as tasty;
And, some complain they're almost dead
From cooking thus so hasty.

But, after all is said and done,
And all the nerves are quieted
Each friend has had a lot of fun
And no one has been slighted.

So, Myrtice, now, all happy and gay,
With friends your pleasure sharing,
We hope your birthdays yet to come
Will find you never caring.

To Mrs. L. B. Fawver

We're glad to see our birthdays come
When we are young and tender;
But doubtless now Mrs. Fawver has Birthdays that offend her.

Here's hoping this one bears no dread
And that it brings her pleasure;
For, after all, the well spent years
Are life's most precious treasure.

So, wishing future's richest gift
To you in sweet contentment,
We hope your life will care-free be
As is this—our presentment.

Delicious cake and hot chocolate were served to: Mesdames E. C. Nelson, F. L. Davis, Champ Walters, W. E. Brown, J. B. Jenkins, W. M. Houghton, C. T. Stevens, M. L. Probasco, R. Fred Brown, Callie V. Wolfe, L. B. Fawver, W. C. Hanna,

'THE LITTLE WOMAN'

"All that I am I owe to her," is an inscription on an advertising card received at this desk. If that's all he is, we'd be willing to hypothecate the pay check at the customary odds on the proposition that he isn't much.

But, just as a matter of contradiction, we set up the case of Mel Groton, who is the most prominent and successful citizen of his town. Mr. Groton started with less than nothing thirty years ago. He had neither education nor resources. He is now rich, successful, popular and very well educated. He accomplished all this despite the fact that he has been married to an extravagant, foolish, nagging, disagreeable wife for twenty-seven years.

It is even possible to get along without any sort of wife. We did about as well during our bachelor days as we've done since.—Jay E. House in New York Evening Post.

THREE KANSAS MUSKETEERS

To think of Kansas is to think of Henry J. Allen, William Allen White and Arthur Capper. And to think of either of these gentlemen of the press is to think of Kansas. For two decades or more they have been looked upon by the country as the voice of Kansas. Through them the field of journalism in Kansas has been extraordinarily influential in shaping public affairs. Now Mr. Allen is relinquishing his leadership in Kansas. He has sold the controlling interest in the Wichita Beacon to Max Levand of St. Joseph, Mo., and will become publisher of the Omaha Bee-News, a newspaper recently purchased by William Handolph Hearst.

Thus will the trio of distinguished Kansas editors and publishers be separated. Mr. Allen for twenty years a power in Kansas political life, served as Governor from 1919 to 1921, during which time in connection with troubles over a strike in the coal fields, and his difficulties with William Allen White, his close friend and colleague in the publishing field, who defied the Governor's orders in discussing phases of the strike. The former Wichita publisher will continue as publicity director for the Republican National Committee, from which, it is to be inferred, he has no intention of retiring from politics, though he has gone to another newspaper field.—Houston Post-Dispatch.

Would You Know One If You Saw It?

If you ever came face to face with a germ, would you recognize it? Of course it is not likely that you ever will see a germ, unless you own a tremendously powerful microscope, for you would have to magnify one over a thousand times to make it as big as a pin head. But you should recognize the fact that these tiny germs can get into your blood streams through the smallest cut, and give you typhoid fever, tuberculosis, lockjaw, blood poisoning, and many more dangerous and perhaps fatal diseases. There is one sure safeguard against these dangers—washing every cut, no matter how small, thoroughly with Liquid Borozone, the safe antiseptic. You can get Liquid Borozone at Floydada Drug Co.

New Line Of Oaklands On Display Here Soon

Car Expected to Make an Outstanding Attraction on American Roads.

An entire new line of Oakland All-American Sixes, embodying exclusive style and performance features consistent with the pioneering achievements of the Oakland Motor Car Company, will go on display in the very near future, Kight Dickey of the Scoggin-Dickey Motor Company, announced today.

While no details will be disclosed until the public showing, the new Oakland is distinctively original and different from any car now on the market, Mr. Dickey stated.

"Popular features of the first All-American Six will be combined, in this latest offering, with a host of refinements in performance and body design that will make the car an outstanding attraction on the highways and boulevards of America during the coming months," he said.

"The new car represents the cumulative experience of more than twenty years of successful automobile building on the part of the Oakland Motor Car Company, plus the vast facilities of General Motors.

"Into its development have gone the pooled resources, creative ingenuity and experimental facilities of Oakland and General Motors engineers, General Motors Research Laboratories, General Motors Proving Grounds and craftsmen of the Fisher Body organization.

"Particular interest attaches to the new All-American because of the record of the Oakland company for having introduced into the automotive field more new features than any other manufacturer. Among the Oakland-pioneered advances are four-wheel brakes, Duco finish, the harmonic balancer, the G-M-R cylinder head, foot-controlled head lights, oil filter, air cleaner and fuel pump.

"While the new car retains the name All-American Six, it does not necessarily bear more than a slight resemblance to its famous predecessor—the first All-American Oakland Six introduced a little more than a year ago.

"This is the first new Oakland model, it was pointed out, to be built in the new recently opened Oakland factory—the most modern and best equipped in the industry.

"A complete description of the new line will be available in the near future when the model will go on display in our showrooms."

DISTRIBUTING DISEASE

Impure air is now recognized as one of the greatest agencies for causing and distributing disease. In breathing it one not only runs the risk of introducing germs into his system, but he cannot fail to weaken the resistance power which his system offers to disease. It is this power which prevents the healthy person from being a victim to tuberculosis or some other dread affliction.

Wont you try to impress upon young people three important elements which build up resistance? Wont you say over and over to yourself, "Pure Water," "Pure Food," "Plenty of Sleep," "Fresh Air." Remember the last named—Fresh Air—is the first in importance.

Children do not ordinarily "catch cold" from exposure going to and from school, but rather inside the school room from the impure air, and from being subjected to varying temperatures.

The evils of the common drinking cup are coming to be fairly well understood. Public Opinion saw, believed and helped abolish it, also the common roller towel is well under the ban.

These few points to ponder upon and to remember all the time, that the conservation of human beings is more important than the conservation of streams, forests or money.

Senator J. D. Parnell Speaks At Demo. Rally

Judge L. S. Kinder, of Plainview, Also Addresses Democrats In Support of National Ticket.

"Do not think for one moment that the United States is safe from all inter-corruption. It is as always facing the gravest of party dangers. This nation cannot possibly be truly a Democratic government without a Democratic Party. And this Democratic party must be preserved, despite petty issues," Senator J. D. Parnell, of Wichita Falls, told a large crowd of Floyd County voters last Friday evening in a Democratic Rally at the district court room.

Senator Parnell gave the main address of the evening and his speech brought hearty applause from the listeners. County Judge Wm. McGehee acted as chairman at the rally and introduced the speakers. Rev. H. E. Smith, a personal friend of Senator Parnell since the Senator's early boyhood, said the benediction. The Floydada Municipal Band entertained prior to the Rally and the Al Smith song, "On the Side Walks of New York," was loudly applauded.

Judge L. S. Kinder, of Plainview, who gave the first address of the rally expressed in strong terms, his belief in the Democratic party and the Democratic presidential nominee. Judge Kinder said, in part, "Prohibition is not an issue in this campaign. As the old timers here know, I am an extreme prohibitionist. It is my belief that Smith and our Democratic nominees will enforce the Eighteenth Amendment. Our real issue is farm relief, and only Democratic rule will bring about the best form of relief," he said.

Judge L. G. Mathews, of this city, introduced the principal speaker of the evening, and also gave a very interesting talk on the importance of a solid Democratic vote.

Parnell has held a seat in the Texas Legislature for two terms; once in the House of Representatives and once in the Senate. He pointed out the merits of Smith and the faults of Hoover, all with regard for the feelings of all present.

One of the points stressed by Parnell was the prohibition question. "Al Smith could not repeal nor alter the Volstead act nor the Eighteenth Amendment," he said. "Smith is frank in his belief and states that he will enforce the law, while Hoover will not enter the discussion," he stated.

"Religion should not enter into the question at all, for when the nation votes because of religious feeling, we have torn up the religious freedom of the constitution." The Senator told the audience. Among the other points touched by the speaker were the questions of patriotism, chain stores, farm relief, the Tea Pot Dome question, and the negro equality question.

In conclusion, Senator Parnell stated that "if you will weigh the facts and balance every phase the Democratic Party has the best program outlined for present and future generations."

Nature Thought
Everything

Nature thought of everything when the human body was made. When the body is about to become ill, nature planned danger signals to warn us. Thus, if our children grind their teeth when they sleep, or lack appetite, or suffer from abdominal pains, or itch about the nose and fingers, we should know that they may have contracted worms. Then, if we are wise, we buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and safely and surely expel the worms. Thus we avoid the danger of very serious trouble. White's Cream Vermifuge costs only 35c a bottle, and can be bought from Floydada Drug Co.

W. Miss. St. Hearing Friday Debating Club

Hearing on the proposal and assessments for the paving of West Mississippi Street Friday morning of last week, resolved itself into a general debating club at the city hall, with catch as catch can rules, no holds barred, and all hands invited. The morning session lasted some two hours and the hearing was resumed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. It was closed after hearing all interested parties by the passage of an order for the laying of the paving on the street.
 Some of the property owners protesting the paving on the street were represented by attorneys and will contest the assessments.
 Two property owners protested the South Main Street program as revised, although the hearing on that street was a side show to the main event put on by the pros and cons on West Mississippi.

DIAGNOSIS

Wisconsin Octopus: "You are very brave to want to marry me. Do you know that the first man that married me died shortly afterward?"
 "Honest?"
 And the second one committed suicide?"
 "Really?"
 "And the third one is in an insane asylum?"
 "Is that so?"
 "Now don't you think I am a very seductive woman?"
 "Lady, you ain't no woman—you're a plague."

NORTH CAROLINA ROADS

It has been said that people do not build good roads when they are prosperous, but that they prosper when they built good roads. This seems to be true of North Carolina, which undertook an intensive road building campaign a few years ago. That State, with a population about the same as Minnesota's has 2,026 miles of concrete, or more than twice as much as Minnesota. Besides paving, North Carolina has surfaced many thousands of miles of other State and local roads.

In twelve years North Carolina's output of all products has increased 263 per cent against an increase of 158 per cent for the Nation. Registration of automobiles, which is one evidence of prosperity, increased 190 per cent from 1921 to 1927. In the same period it increased 121 per cent in the whole United States. Registration in 1927 was 11.8 per cent higher than in 1926, the largest percentage of increase in any State in the Union.

Highway improvements were made largely by borrowed funds. North Carolina has $115,000,000 of State highway bonds outstanding but gasoline and auto taxes bring in double the amount required for sinking fund and interest every year.

North Carolina is third in the list of States in school transportation, 2,317 busses carrying children to and from the consolidated schools which have been built in large numbers since road improvement began. Good roads have also stimulated diversified farming, increasing and stabilizing the prosperity of the farmers. —Minnesota Highway News.

LAUDER FOUND LAUGHS

Sir Harry Lauder in Saturday Evening Post: Tom Valance (the writer's brother-in-law), himself went down from Richmond, Va., to fix up a flying matinee in a little town forty or fifty miles away. The arrangements were completed satisfactorily and Tom thought he might as well give the dressing rooms the once-over. He found the accommodation consisted of one large room underneath the stage.

"But what about the lady artists?" asked Tom. "You know we have several women performers. How do you keep them apart from the gentlemen?"

"Apart?" said the other in a puzzled way. "Why—don't they speak? Are they not friends?"

It was at Richmond, by the way, that I laughed heartily at a notice stuck up near the stage door. It read: "To Artists: Don't send out your washing until the management sees you act." At a theatre in Rochester, N. Y., I saw posted up above the mail rack this frank notice: "If there's no mail here for you, don't ask. You have been forgotten by everybody who ever knew you."

When I first went to Butte, Mont., the principal means of transport from the station to the town, about a mile away, was an old cab driven by an aged negro. There may have been other vehicles, but at all events this aged jehu drove us both to and from the town. On the return journey I asked him irritably why it was they had built the station so far from town.

"I don't jes know, boss," he replied, "unless it was to have the depot near the railroad." And if you can beat that as a smart answer to a stupid question you have my full permission.

ANOTHER CANAL

No, you're wrong, the above caption does not relate to the Nicaragua route from Atlantic to Pacific, much as that route is and lately has been in public discussion. The other ditch between the two oceans would be neither there nor along the third or San Blas route that also has been suggested, nor indeed is it on or near the Panamanian isthmus. If you will glance at your map of South America, well toward the southern end, you will discover San Jorge (maybe it will be called St. George) Gulf, into which flows a considerable stream not far from the town of Rivadavia, named, by the way, for the first President of the actual Argentine Republic 102 years ago.

This place is some 500 miles or a little more north of the Straits of Magellan and it will be observed that the plain behind the coast extends at very slight elevation to the foothills of the Andes at or near the Chilean border. On the plain are several large lakes, the longest being Lake Buenos Aires that is approximately 100 miles in its east and west direction. Beyond that lake it is but a short distance to the heads of several fjords or narrow water passages that worm eastward out of the Pacific Ocean. Measurement shows that a route at this point joining the two oceans would have to be roughly of about 300 miles. From the Atlantic to the lake 600 feet appears to be the extreme elevation and beyond that the crest seems to be 1,500 feet. Whether a survey will show lesser elevations over the best route remains to be seen, or to be made public by the engineers.

Now the construction of a canal at this section would shorten the water route between the big east coast ports of Argentina, Uruguay and Brazil to those of the west coast Chile and Peru, by upward of a thousand miles and would eliminate the dangers of the ice and fogs of the Horn and of the inner passage via the straits.

Recent reports state that engineers (American engineers they are called) are making a thorough study of the canal route, preliminary estimates having placed its cost in round figures at $500,000,000. The canal project doubtless will have the vigorous antagonism of the Trans-Andean Railway.—New Orleans Picayune.

Small articles of wood on the farm, such as fence posts, poles, and hog and chicken houses, that are exposed to much dampness and consequent rot, may be made more durable by preservative treatment with coal-tar creosote. Good results can be obtained by heating the wood in the creosote oil in an open tank and allowing the wood and oil to cool together. This treatment will enable wood to last 3 to 5 times as long as untreated wood.

QUALITY IN EGGS BEGINS ON THE FARM

Practically all eggs are of good quality when first laid. But if they are to retain their quality and reach the market in good condition they must be properly handled and cared for on the farm. There is no process in marketing which can improve an egg of poor quality. All that can be done is to preserve the original quality. First of all it is necessary to have good poultry stock of a standard variety in order to produce eggs of uniform size and color. The flock must be well housed, fed, and cared for in order to increase productivity. As soon as the hatching season is over, all male birds should be disposed of, or separated from the flock so that infertile eggs of superior keeping quality will be produced. Nests, clean and sufficient in number, must be provided in order that the largest possible percentage of eggs may be kept clean. Dirty eggs should never be washed unless they are to go into channels of immediate consumption. Washing reduces the keeping quality and results in losses, especially if the eggs are to be placed in storage. Eggs must be gathered frequently, at least once a day. During very hot or very cold weather it is preferable to gather them twice a day to prevent heating or freezing injury. They should be kept in a cool, moderately dry place to maintain their quality and to prevent mold development.

BITTER FEEDS AND WEEDS—BITTER MILK

Abnormal flavors and odors in milk are objectionable to consumers and dealers and such milk is often rejected. Losses can be largely prevented by proper attention to the several factors responsible for objectionable flavors and odors. They result mainly from the physical condition of the cow, from feeding of highly flavored feeds and weeds, from the absorption of barn odors by the milk after it is drawn, and from biological changes in the milk. Feed flavors and odors are most frequently caused by succulent feeds. Silage made from corn, alfalfa, sweet clover, or soybeans, as well as such feeds as green alfalfa, cabbage, turnips, rape, and kale seriously affect the flavor and odor of the milk drawn even an hour after feeding. Therefore it is advisable to feed such highly flavored feeds immediately after milking, never just before. Where weeds in the pasture are responsible for off flavors in the milk, they must be eradicated or the cows removed from the pasture for several hours before milking. Barns must be kept clean and well ventilated to prevent absorption of odors by the milk. Finally, prompt cooling and storing of the milk at a low temperature will retard the development of flavors and odors from biological action.

There are no household methods setting the color in a dyed fabric. The use of salt, vinegar, and other substances have been found to do absolutely no good. Dyes, however, are so much better now than they used to be, that it is usually satisfactory to try a sample of the goods you think of buying, and if it does not run when you wash it, or fade too much when exposed to sunlight, it may be considered reasonably fast in color.

GALLANTRY

Men should be fair with women, and not gallant. Gallantry is always somewhat villainy. When we men bow and scrape to the ladies, do the ladies know we mean half of it? I suspect they do, from the prompt manner they have always had in rejecting my gallantry when it is too strong.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

MAY BE SOME LEFT

Women of Winnetka, Ill., used the list of electric light users to get out the vote, says the Woman's Home Companion. "Well," commented the confirmed doubter, "when I lived there I knew a nice old lady voter who used nothing but candles."

Squash, as well as pumpkin, can be used for pie filling. As these pies contain eggs and milk, they must be cooked in a moderate oven. To prevent the crust from becoming soggy, prebake it until it is delicately colored, but not brown, before putting in the filling.
