Officials expect skills shortage

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — The Air Force is taking steps to build experience in its most critical noncommissioned officer skills. With a planned increase of 55,000 enlisted authorizations in the next five years, a shortage in critical sortie-generating skills is expected by the end of fiscal 1982, say Air Force officials.

Some 80 percent of the shortage will be in avionics, aircraft systems, aircraft maintenance and munitions and weapons maintenance specialties.

Since the ability to generate aircraft sorties and keep the planes flying most directly affects ability to fight and win, these shortages are of utmost concern to senior Air Force officials.

While Air Force and government leaders have worked hard over the past two years to improve the military career outlook with a substantial pay increase and variable housing, for example, the experience loss of middle-to-senior NCOs is being felt and will continue to be felt over the next few years.

One initiative to improve these sortie-generating skills has been a restructuring of the grades in the skills to allow specialties to be more self-supporting, that is, to allow the specialties to "grow" the supervisors needed. In addition, although some retraining may still be required in the higher grades, most retraining will be concentrated at the staff sergeant level and below, thus allowing experience to grow along with rank in critical skills.

More attention has been focused on prior-service recruiting,

Brooke Blake, the two-year-old daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Herbert T. Blake, is too young to realize it now, but she is a walking, talking example of the old slogan that "The Air Force Takes Care of Its Own."

Brooke was born with an hereditary disease in which her liver will not process sugars. This causes impairment in growth and development of motor skills.

Very little is known about the disease, partly because it is so rare. Both parents must carry the unknown chromosome that leads to the problem, and even then children of the parents may not develop the disease. In fact, Brooke's seven-year-old brother, Brandon, and five-year-old brother, Erin, show no trace of the malady.

Since she was only seven months old, Brooke has been spending her days at the Reese child care center. Her father credits the staff of the center with aiding her development through the use of exercise, careful monitoring and diet planning.

"It makes me feel good and I appreciate the time and effort they put into helping Brooke," Blake said. "I've seen results. If it were not for their careful attention, it is possible that Brooke

IG can be friend or foe

Col. John D. Herbert

by Col. John D. Herbert deputy commander for maintenance

What are the two biggest stories told by Air Force people?

Story 1: The IG team arrives and says, "We're here to help you."

Story 2: The inspected base supervisors say, "And we're glad to have you."

In days past, this little anecdote used to evoke quite a laugh since IG teams were extremely critical and very compliance oriented. As a result, few bases or units could do well on their IG inspections.

A few years ago, however, the ATC IG began conducting Management Effectiveness Inspections (MEI), where more emphasis was placed on unit management, and its results, rather than strict regulation compliance. As a result, members of the IG team really felt they could help many units and in fact, several organizations that the IG inspected were glad they had come.

As many of you know, Reese had been notified to expect the next ATC MEI in the November-December time frame. At that time, approximately 50 officer and senior NCO technical experts, trained in management evaluation techniques, will scrutinize our operation for four days, three shifts each day. After this four-day snapshot has been taken, each evaluated unit will receive a rating of their mission support. Ratings range from a high of "Outstanding" to a low of "Unsatisfactory."

In the 30 months I traveled with the ATC IG, I found the units that did well on the inspection were glad to have us, while units that received poor ratings were not at all glad the IG had arrived.

How do you insure you will enjoy the IGs visit? The answer to that is easy. You prepare for the IG every day when you do your job as professionally as you can. Know your directives. Insure policies and procedures result in effective and efficient operation of your unit. Insure your people are trained; and finally, insure your decisions result in improving not just your unit's operation but the overall Reese operation. So, if you haven't been preparing for the IG through daily professionalism, it's time to start. In fact, you may already be too late.

Although the IG is here for only one week, their objective evaluation usually accurately reflects our day-to-day operation. So get started today to enjoy this year's IG. It will even make Christmas and the New Year a lot more fun too!

Children should "make it click" too

An Air Force sergeant strapped her 2-year-old daughter into a car seat. She then got behind the steering wheel and offered a ride to two friends for the short drive from Colorado Springs to Lowry AFB, Colo. They didn't make it.

When the car swung wide on a curve and the driver overcorrected, it rolled two and one half times, landing on its roof.

The three adults were thrown from the car. One died, another fractured her back. The third had minor injuries.

The baby, still in the infant restraint system, was untouched.

Motor vehicle accidents are the No. 1 killer of children aged 1 and older. Each year some 8,500 children under age 5 die from car accidents. In an accident at 30 mph (48 kmph), a child's injuries are the same as those in a fall from a third-floor window.

Children under 4 years of age weighing less than 40 pounds (18 kilograms) should ride in an approved child-safety seat. They should never be held in an adult's arms. For added protection, children in safety seats and older children using seat belts should ride in the rear seat.

Safety seats don't just keep children safe during accidents, they help prevent accidents. Children allowed to stand on the seat or move around can block the driver's vision, or distract attention. Children in safety seats tend to be better behaved.

Child restraint systems can cost one-tenth the price of optional collision insurance on cars. And they protect something much more precious than the cost of a new fender. Make it click for the children, too.

Customers beware of door-to-door sales

by Capt. Richard A. McDonald office of the staff judge advocate

Sometimes it's hard to say no to a door-to-door salesperson. Many consumers find after a salesperson has departed with a signed contract that they could have bought a similar item or service at a much lower price.

Several Reese airmen have recently been approached by door-to-door salesmen who have sold them goods and services which appear to be grossly overpriced.

Under the Texas Homes Solicitation Act, a consumer who is solicited at home by someone selling goods or services that cost $25 or more, or real estate costing $100 or more, has a chance to change his or her mind by cancelling the transaction before midnight of the third business day following the day the contract was signed.

The salesperson must furnish the consumer with a copy of the contract or a fully completed receipt before leaving the premises. In it, the date of the transaction, name and address of the seller, and a notice of the right to cancel must be printed in large type near the place on the contract reserved for the buyer's signature.

In addition, the law requires that a completed notice of cancellation be attached to the contract or receipt for the consumer to use to cancel the sale. If the seller receives such a cancellation from the consumer, he or she must return any payment already made within 10 business days.

To cancel a sale, a purchaser must mail or deliver a signed, dated cancellation notice or must send a telegram to that effect to the seller no later than midnight of the third business day after the date. We recommend that you send a registered letter or telegram so you can prove the seller received the notice.

Protection under this law does not extend to purchase of insurance regulated by the state; real estate sales where the buyer is represented by his lawyer or where the transaction is made by the licensed real estate broker; or sales where the two parties had previously met and negotiated at a business office where the goods or services were offered or displayed.

Any person that believes that a violation of the Home Solicitation Act has occurred should contact the Texas Attorney General's Office for Consumer Protection in Lubbock at 747-5238, or contact the base legal office for assistance.

'Learn from my mistakes' pleads addict

An AFNS Editorial

Percy Patrick (Pat) Pilon Jr., 18, wrote a letter to help somebody.

Then he pointed a shotgun at his heart and pulled the trigger to end the life he said had been made hell by drugs.

His letter to fellow teenagers was released by his parents.

"I have used all types of drugs from hash, pot and acid to hard stuff. It's all a bad scene. The people who push it don't use it.... All you are doing is ruining your life and letting people make money through you...."

"Man, if you are on the stuff, please — for your sake — get off it.

If you can't fight it by yourself, then get help from someone. It may be rough trying to straighten yourself out, but it's never too late. Man, at least try...."

"Don't give up to problems and escape by using drugs. It only makes more," he wrote.

"If someone offers you drugs, be more of a man than I was — say no. Learn from my mistakes."

Pilon had been expelled from college for taking narcotics. At the time of his death, his parents were trying to help him re-enter school, to realize his dream of becoming a pilot.

Care Line

The CARE Line is prepared by Col. Monte Montgomery, 64th FTW commander. All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in strict confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty number so that a personnel reply may be made, however, neither are mandatory. Callers are urged to use their chain of command to air complaints or comments if possible. If not, call the CARE Line at Ext. 3273.

IT WAS A long wait, but attending the grand opening of our new commissary Tuesday morning was well worth it. What a commissary it is! I won't go into a lot of detail here, see page eight for that. Suffice it to say that shopping can now be a pleasure instead of a drudgery. Of course, we'll still have to deal with the parking problem for awhile; at least till the old building is torn down, but things are sure looking better for shoppers at Reese.

CUTTING THE RIBBON at Tuesday's ceremony was A1C Francine D. Tennison, the wing airman of the month for July. Thanks for the assist, Francine, and congratulations on your selection. More on our outstanding airman can be found on page four.

CONGRATULATIONS ARE also due for our superintendent of aircraft maintenance, SMSgt. Jerry A. Price. He has been chosen to receive the Air Force Association Citation of Honor, one of its highest awards.

The citation will be awarded during the AFA national convention, scheduled for Sept. 14-17 in Washington. Keep up the good work, Jerry.

EVERYBODY NEEDS TO be sure and notice the change of hours posted at the top of page one. We go back to the winter schedule of 8 a.m. - 4:45 p.m. beginning Tuesday. Enjoy that extra half-hour of sleep, but be sure and adjust your afternoon schedule accordingly.

THERE HAS BEEN a recent rash of complaints concerning food in the dining facility. We do our best to prepare the finest food for Reese and we have a new quality assurance evaluator; he's TSgt. Robert Betz and you can reach him at Ext. 3495 or in building 124.

Since his assignment here, he has made some changes. We now have chef salads, cold cut plates, a better salad bar, as well as steak and eggs for breakfast on the weekends. We don't plan to stop making improvements until Reese has one of the best dining facilities in the Air Force. If you have any suggestions, that will help improve things, don't hesitate to give Sergeant Betz a call.

WE HAD A CALL recently from a mother concerned about the heat and humidity in the child care center. Apparently the conditions were contributing to her child's diaper rash problem. Unfortunately, the evaporative air conditioners at the center do not operate well during days of high humidity. Obviously the humidity for the last month has been abnormally high for this area.

There is also a problem with minor breakdowns and scheduled maintenance of the coolers which necessitate shutting them down occasionally. There is good news for the future. A nonappropriated funds project for Fiscal Year 1982 has been established to install central refrigerated air conditioning in that facility.

I am sorry that the problems we have experienced have contributed to your child's rash and, in the future, maintenance will be scheduled during times when the center is not too busy.

GETTING BACK TO food, we also received a call from someone complaining about having to eat box lunches when the flight line is too busy for lunch breaks.

It is the supervisor's responsibility to insure, if at all possible, that his personnel are relieved for meals. If that is not possible, someone from the section should go to the dining hall and obtain hot meals will be made available for carryout. If this isn't working in your section, call us again.

I LIKE TO see prompt action on CARE Line complaints, but I must admit this one surprised me. When someone called in to complain about the lack of adequate lighting along the road by the youth center, I contacted Weldon Gilley from the electrical section to check it out.

Gilley tells me new lighting is already being installed along the road, with newer, higher intensity lamps. How's that for service?

could suffer a shortage of blood sugar and have a seizure."

A physical education major himself, Blake realizes the importance of the physical therapy provided both at the center and by an organization funded through the Lubbock Independent School System called Developmental Education Birth Through Two. Although Brooke was slow to walk, due to her impaired motor skills, she is now getting around as an active toddler.

"At other places, Brooke may not have received the personal attention she needs. My other kids have also benefitted." Blake's two sons have been regular visitors to the facility since they were much younger.

The long term diagnosis? Brooke will always have a problem with weight, she will be susceptible to hepatitis, muscle problems and heart problems. She will also be very restricted in her physical activity.

But the Blakes feel very lucky. Other forms of the same disease cause infant death or total invalidism. That will not be Brooke's case. Early diagnosis and therapy allow her to lead a relatively normal life. Maybe "The Air Force Takes Care of Its Own" is not just an old slogan after all.

Confederate AF plans local show

World War II planes will fly again on Aug. 29th over Brownfield, Texas, as colonels of the Confederate Air Force take to the air in a display of various fly-bys and maneuvers.

Types of historic combat aircraft included in the display are trainers, bombers and fighter planes.

The Panhandle Squadron of Brownfield is sponsoring this event and invitations have been extended to colonels throughout the Texas and New Mexico area to participate.

Gates will open at the Terry County Airport five miles east of Brownfield at 10:00 A.M., and the aircraft will be on display to the public until airshow time at 2:00 P.M. Admission is $4 per person, with children under 12 admitted free. Concession stands will be available, along with a mobile PX with various WWII memorabilia.

Harley Wilke, Airshow Chairman, anticipates a great deal of interest in this area and estimates a large crowd will enjoy a "close up" look at the historic aircraft as well as the excitement of seeing them in action.

The colonels participating in the show are members of the Confederate Air Force, an organization dedicated to the preservation of the combat aircraft of World War II, to be maintained in flying condition.

Behind the Mission

Award winner

SMSgt. Jerry A. Price, superintendent of maintenance, goes over paperwork for the squadron, one of many jobs he performs. NCO garners AFA citation SMSgt. Jerry A. Price, 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, will be presented the Citation of Honor, one of the highest awards given by the Air Force Association. The award will be given to Price in Washington during a luncheon Sept. 16.

The AFA national convention will be held from Sept. 14-17, which Price and his family will attend.

Price is the superintendent of aircraft maintenance and is indirectly in charge of 441 personnel, 71 percent of whom are first term airmen.

According to Price, all the personnel who work with him are the ones who should be recognized for helping him win the award.

"I didn't expect to win this award, I was surprised and pleased. All the people who work with me helped make it happen," said Price.

MSgt. Michael Custy, first sergeant of OMS, said, "Price is the cream of the crop; he makes maintenance go."

Price is being recognized for his ability for teaching and developing maintenance management techniques by creating effective training in management knowledge to his first line supervisors.

He was cited for his ability to assume a position, immediately analyze critical production shortfalls, and institute new policies that generate increased production.

Price is also a Master Mason, active in the Masonic Lodge in Lubbock, has volunteered his time for special events and is a member of the Non-commissioned Officers Academy Graduates Association.

Supreme Court rules on retiree pay issue by Capt. Richard A. McDonald office of the staff judge advocate

The United States Supreme Court, in the case of McCarty v. McCarty, recently ruled that a state court cannot divide military retired pay under community property laws.

Prior to this ruling, courts in states like Texas and California with such laws often ordered a military member or retiree to split his or her retirement pay with a divorced spouse as part of a divorce settlement.

The court said that the military retirement system confers no entitlement to retired pay upon the retired service member's spouse. Therefore, although a court can order the division of other property, it cannot order division of the retirement pay.

It is very important to understand that this decision does not automatically affect prior divorce decrees. No one should take action on the basis of this decision without contacting his or her civilian attorney for additional advice.

Other questions about this decision should be directed to the base legal office at Ext. 3505.

Big moment

Maj. Gen. Charles E. Woods, A1C Francine Tennison and Col. Monte Montgomery joined forces to cut the ribbon that allowed opening ceremony spectators to enter the new commissary for the first time.

Open at last!

Commissary completes complex

On June 12, the lead story on the front page of the Roundup read something like this:

"It's almost over. The months of parking problems, dust clouds, the noise of machinery and the influx of heavy equipment will all pay off . . . when the new Reese base exchange opens its doors for the first time."

Now, barring the portion about parking problems being over, that same magic story has come true again as hundreds of Reese people and area retirees, along with some distinguished guests, turned out for the grand opening of the new commissary.

According to the best projections available at this early date, parking problems will not be alleviated until sometime in late April of next year. But once shoppers enter the new facility, parking difficulties will seem to disappear. There is now a greatly expanded produce area, a bakery, a delicatessen, a large meat counter with carcass orders and wide, two-way aisles.

In addition, there are more checkout registers, fully computerized, that will end what seemed like an eternal wait in line at the old facility.

On hand at the opening ceremonies was Maj. Gen. Charles E. Woods, director of the Air Force Commissary Service, who gave the keynote address and assisted Col. Monte Montgomery, wing commander, and A1C Francine D. Tennison, wing airman of the month, with the ribbon cutting chore.

Once inside, shoppers were treated to several grand opening specials, door prizes and free gifts provided by commissary vendors. Commissary officials remind shoppers that specials will continue to run through the month of September in observance of the grand opening.

Getting ready

Produce manager Richard Esparza makes last-minute adjustments prior to the influx of customers on the first day of business in the new facility.

Good choice

Air Force tests new handgun

EGLIN AFB, Fla.—A 9mm handgun is being tested here by the Air Force Armament Laboratory to replace the .38- and .45-caliber handgun as the standard military sidearm. The testing is part of a Department of Defense program to make the 9mm the first common-purpose handgun of the military.

It would be the first major change in U.S. military handguns in more than 50 years. A contract award for 84,000 handguns is expected by spring 1982. Initial delivery is expected in 1983. It will take about five years to phase in the 9mm handgun in the Air Force. The switch to the 9mm would improve joint operations with NATO, which uses the 9mm as its standard handgun. The weapon's advantages include reduced weight, improved safety and reliability and reduced recoil. Also, it has a higher hit probability, rapid reload capability and needs less training for operations.

AFMPC announces join-spouse cutback

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (AFNS)— To ensure military couples are aware of the expected decline in the approval rate for join-spouse assignment requests, the Air Force Manpower and Personnel Center will soon be mailing a fact sheet to military couples through their base personnel office.

AFMPC officials said they will continue efforts to keep military couples assigned together, but Air Force requirements are the basis for all assignment actions.

As the numbers of couples increase and they attain higher grades, available positions decrease, which lessen the possibilities for a join-spouse assignment.

The fact sheet explains the reasons why the current 95-percent approval rate cannot be maintained, and what military couples can do to insure that they are considered for a join-spouse assignment.

"We're concerned that military couples are under the impression that a joint assignment is guaranteed," said Capt. Robert

A. Hooper at AFMPC's Special Assignment Policy and Control section.

"Many couples make career and family decisions believing that they will always be assigned to the same location," Captain Hooper said. "But with the number of military couples doubling over the last five years, joint assignments are becoming more and more difficult to make."

The number of military couples has increased to more than 20,000. As these couples attain higher grades, matching skill and grade requirements for both at the same location becomes more difficult.

"We're not expecting the bottom to fall out," Captain Hooper said, "and we'll continue to do our best to assign couples together."

"However," he continued, "military couples should consider the increased potential for assignments away from their spouse in the future."

Additional fact sheets and information are available from customer service centers at CBPOs.

Officials anticipate shortage

 especially in the critically short skills. An increase in the selective re-enlistment bonus and the selective continuation of career NCOs in the aircraft generation skills will also help. Another area that is being worked is the return of qualified NCOs from other, better-manned skills back into maintenance skills.
 These initiatives have been successful in helping improve the skill balance, but further initiatives are being reviewed.
 More bonus money will be offered to re-enlist in fiscal 1982. A total of $153 million is planned; $50 million to 39 of the 42 maintenance skills. Fiscal 1980's maintenance career field bonus payments were $1.6 million.

Officials also say that experience levels will be improved as the Air Force selects 700 volunteers to continue beyond mandatory retirement. Some 400 of these selectees will be in the critical specialties.

The retraining program is getting a boost in 1982, again focusing on critical-shortage skills. Palace Balance II, a portion of the program, will increase to 2,000 retrainees. Under Palace Balance II, volunteers will be retrained first. If more people are needed to meet the goal of 2,000, then non-volunteers will be selected.

Prior-service enlistment goals will increase from 2,000 in fiscal 1980 to 7,000 in fiscal 1982, with the shortage fields getting the lion's share again.

More will be done to improve these critical skills, and other initiatives are being considered to recruit, build and retain the experience needed in these key areas, officials said.

Regulation change alters maternity leave length

(ATCNS)—Expectant mothers who are also active duty Air Force members should now expect no more than four weeks of convalescent leave following childbirth.

Previously, women could be granted four to six weeks of convalescent maternity leave, and doctors generally prescribed the full six weeks under most circumstances.

However, a recent change to Air Force Regulation 160-12, which governs medical policies and procedures, limits the period of convalescent leave to no more than four weeks.

According to Lt. Col. (Dr.) John Sandru, chief of clinical medicine in the ATC surgeon's office, physicians are now limiting convalescent leaves to four weeks unless the mother's medical condition warrants more time.

"The decision has always been made by the mother's attending physician," Sandru explained. "But in the past, six week convalescent leaves were virtually automatic."

Lt. Col. (Dr.) John Hauth, chairman of the obstetrics and gynecology department at Wilford Hall Medical Center, Lackland AFB, Texas, confirmed that the new policy is already in effect for patients at his facility.

"We now grant four weeks in about 95 percent of the cases," said Hauth, who is also the obstetrical consultant to the Air Force surgeon general.

He added that in most cases there is no medical reason for a woman to remain away from duty for more than four weeks after a normal delivery and that the new policy thus more accurately reflects actual medical requirements.

It also conforms more closely to practices in the civilian employment sector, Hauth said. He explained that most employers who have postpartum leave policies require women to return to work without four weeks after delivery.

Freedoms Foundation plans contest

(ATCNS)—“America’s Armed Forces: Foundations of Freedom” is the topic in the armed forces category of this year’s Freedoms Foundation essay contest.

Sponsored each year by the Valley Forge, Pa., based foundation, the contest is designed to recognize outstanding literary efforts that deal with the subject of freedom.

Contest entries should address the unique freedoms enjoyed by Americans and the obligation all citizens—particularly those serving in the armed services—have in maintaining and protecting those freedoms.

Entries may be in essay or poetry form, and should be between 100 and 500 words in length. Persons entering should include their name, rank, Social Security number, branch of service and complete unit address, along with home address and zip code on the entry and mail it to Freedoms Foundation, Valley Forge, PA 19481.

All entries must be received by

Oct. 1, 1981. Winners will be notified in writing by mid-February 1982.

First prize is an encased George Washington Honor Medal and a $100 U.S. savings bond. Additional prizes of $50 savings bonds, honor medals and Valley Forge Honor Certificates will also be awarded.

Any member of an active duty, National Guard, Reserve, ROTC or Junior ROTC component of the U.S. armed forces is eligible to enter.

SNCOA announces overseas criteria

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (AFNS) — Senior NCO Academy selectees with 16 to 36 months of duty remaining overseas will not be returned for training unless they volunteer and have approval from the unit commander, major air command and the Air Force Manpower and Personnel Center.

These selectees also must have at least one year overseas retainability upon graduation. The new policy was announced by AFMPC officials as a part of efforts to reduce travel costs and family turbulence overseas. Those with more than 36 months of duty remaining may be returned for training if they have at least 120 days in-theater retainability after graduation.

The current practice of not returning NCOs serving short tours of 15 months or less will continue. Generally, overseas-based NCOs will be deferred from attending the academy until reassigned to the continental United States.

Wednesday: "FEAR NO EVIL." Stefan Arngim, a rotten seed born to horrified parents, grows into a menacing 17-year-old consumed by the power to destroy. He summons the undead and tangles with an old woman with the power of God. (R), adults $1.50, children $.75.

Thursday: "EYES OF A STRANGER." A terrifying suspense chiller of a female newscaster who uncovers the identity of a brutal killer who is committing gruesome murders in a quiet marina community. (R), adults $1.50, children $.75.

Reese enters raft competition

KSEL radio station is challenging Reese personnel to a raft building contest and race on Sept. 7 during the great Yellowhouse Canyon Raft Race.

Five of the radio personalities want to compete against Reese personnel; building a raft from materials that will be provided, but no one competing will have a chance to see what they have to use until the contest begins! After the raft is built, teams have to carry it down to the lake and stay afloat for at least two minutes.

All base personnel and families interested in participating in the contest must be 12 years or older, wear U.S. Coast Guard approved life jackets, and provide their own innertubes, canoes or homemade rafts; no motors, sails, props or oars with oar locks. The event is sponsored by Reese's morale, welfare and recreation, KSEL and Lubbock's Parks and Recreation Department.

For more information on the raft race against KSEL or contest rules and how to enter, call Erna Boggess at Ext. 3412. Pick up entry forms at the recreation center and have all entries turned in by 8 a.m. on the day of competition.

Squadrons ready to kickoff For intramural flag football

Flag Football is underway as squadron teams begin practicing for the first games of the season which opens with the 54th Flying Training Squadron and 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron at 5:30 p.m. on Sept. 8.

At 6:30 p.m. 64th Air Base Group and 64th Civil Engineering will match powers. Both games will be played at the War Highway field adjacent to the youth center.

Last year Sturon upset the previously undefeated 54th FTW capturing the intramural flag football championship with the final game score 22-21.

The win gave the title to Sturon although both teams ended the season with identical 10-1 records.

The sturon victory not only stopped the 54th's three-year grip on the intramural crown, but prevented the squadron from claiming all four of the major team sports last year. The 54th captured intramural basketball, volleyball and softball titles.

All who plan on playing flag football are required to wear mouth pieces, which can be obtained at the dental clinic by making an appointment, call Ext. 3711. Also, tennis shoes or multi-purpose shoes must be worn and pants below the knees are required.

The season will end Oct. 20. Two weeks later 13 base personnel will represent Reese in the Air Training Command flag football tournament at Laughlin AFB, Texas.

The following personnel are contacts for all who want to participate in flag football; 54th Flying Training Squadron; 1st Lt. Bruce Conard, Ext. 3883; Supply Squadron, TSgt. Larry Bushers or 1st Lt. Bret Woolf, Ext. 3256; 64th Air Base Group, 2nd Lt. Weldon Shofner, Ext. 3643, or SSgt. Earl Johnson, Ext. 3505; 35th Flying Training Squadron, 1st Lt. Bob Lewis, Ext. 3845, or Capt. Rick Dalton, Ext. 3387; 64th Field Maintenance Squadron, SrA. Patrick Citta, Ext. 3489; 64th Student Squadron, 1st Lt. Gary Dyson, Ext. 3740; 1958th Communications Squadron, SrA. Keith Blake, Ext. 3557; and 64th civil Engineering, MSgt. Thomas Bell, Ext. 3483 or TSgt. Jack Scheffel, Ext. 3484.

Bicycles

The base gym has bicycles available for checkout. The bikes are available for one-hour at a time and are offered as an exercise device.

Tennis

The Reese Open Tennis tournament will be held Sept. 11-13. There will be an $11 fee which covers a buffet at the officer's club, T-shirt, and entry fee. The tournament is tentatively scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. The four categories, men's and women's open and men's and women's over 35, are open to the public. For more information contact 2nd Lt. Weldon Shofner at Ext. 3643.

Coaches needed

Coaches are still needed for men's varsity basketball. For more information contact Earl Hutchins at Ext. 3784.

Judo team

Reese's judo team is currently looking for anyone 18 and up to join the team. Classes are held on Tuesdays and Fridays from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Anyone interested in watching or joining the team should bring sweat suits to the base gym or contact SSgt. Robert Brownlee, team coordinator, at Ext. 3641. All classes are free.

Power lifting

Sheppard AFB, Texas will be sponsoring a power lifting and development meet Sept. 5 and 6. Personnel interested in entering the competition can call Sgt. Jackson, Autovon 736-2949 or Sgt. Powers, Autovon 736-6276.

Youth bowling

Signups for league bowling will be held Aug. 29. For more information contact the youth center at Ext. 3820.

Golf tournaments

The following is a schedule of upcoming golf events: Four-man best ball, Aug. 22 and 23; Reese fall open, Sept. 6 and 7; Fall scramble, Oct. 17; and Turkey shoot, Nov. 14.
