R. L. (BOB) FOOTE FARM HOME
Mystery Farm No. 10 Identified as Bob Foote Place Northwest of Town

Mystery Farm No. 10, which appeared in the Farm Page of this newspaper last week, has been correctly identified as the R. L. (Bob) Foote farm, located about two miles northwest of Haskell.

First prize, $5 in cash for identifying the farm goes to Mrs. Norris Gibson, 1493 N. Ave. G, Haskell. Second prize, $3 in cash given by Lytle Service Station, sponsor of last week's farm picture, goes to Mrs. O. W. Tooley, 1201 North Avenue F. Third prize, a year's subscription to The Free Press, goes to Wayne Waincott, 1202 North Ave. L.

The 120 acre tract, well improved and one of the best small farms in the Haskell area, has been owned by Mr. Foote since 1928. Mr. Foote does not do too much active farm work, and the place is being worked by a son, Garvin Foote.

Virtually all of the land is in cultivation, principally devoted to cotton and small grain. Some irrigation has been developed, and there are three irrigation wells on the place.

Mr. Foote also has one producing oil well on his land, brought in about two years ago. Revenue from oil production "helps a lot, especially so last year, when the grain crop was hailed out," Mr. Foote admitted.

College Students Return Home for Thanksgiving

A number of college students from Haskell were at home for the Thanksgiving holidays. A partial list includes:

From McMurry College, Abilene, Dick Sherrill.

Texas A&M College, Culver, Texas: John Gannaway, Jim Bob Bowers, Pat Henry, Walar Overton and James Norman, who was accompanied by a friend, Greg Whitehouse of Fort Monroe, Va.

N. T. S. T. C. Denton, Gayle Spain, Sandra Coburn, Bobby Sego.

Southern Methodist University, Kay Henry.

Midwestern, Wichita Falls, Nancy Fancher, Fitzhugh Williams.

Texas Tech, Lubbock, Bobby Lusk, John Rike, Tom Alvis, Squee Kimbrough.

Fort Worth Business School, Billy Norton.

Weinert students home for Thanksgiving included Sharon Caddell, Nelle Rainey, and a guest, Patsy Crowley of Mineral Wells, from John Tarleton; Bud Rainey, Durwood and Elwood Bruton, Tiffen Mayfield from Denton; Linda Dunnam, from Lubbock; Patsy King, from Draughon's, Abilene; Jerry King and David Boykin, Cisco; Christine Hutchison, Ranger; Danny Earle, from McMurry.

Over-Grazing Is Risky Practice On Rangeland

To take more than half of the grass nature produces is false economy. The half left is your operating capital. You need this reserve to keep going. Without this reserve you are rapidly eating yourself out of the livestock business, states Hinds A. McGowen, Jr. technician for the Soil Conservation Service at Haskell.

Over-grazing of our rangeland reduces ground cover and permits soil and water loss. This favors one plant or grass of less desirability over other grasses. Thus, livestock begin the practice of selective grazing with weeds replacing the more desirable plants.

Far too often people are prone to blame the poor condition of their pastures on dry weather or the sorry grass plants. Over use is the one single culprit causing the condition because food reserves in the grass roots are removed faster than they are replaced. Most of the time the plants will not regain their vigor when root reserves are low. New grass seedings must be allowed to produce a leaf growth of at least six inches to eight inches so the plants can manufacture the necessary food reserve in the root system.

Water for grass and livestock is indispensable. Ponds should be located at strategic areas where stock must travel to get to other parts of the rangeland. Location of salting areas should be away from water to insure uniformity of grazing.

Good grass McGowen concluded is fundamental to a good livestock program.

Mrs. J. C. Kainer and family of Stamford, Mrs. Bertha Freeman and children of Stamford, Mrs. Bill Bradshaw and family of Anson, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kainer, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kainer and family of Stamford and Tom Thane.

Jana Ulmer visited with Mary Whorton in Abilene Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hertel and family visited in Kansas during the Thanksgiving holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Olson.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kupatt and Kraig went to Fort Stockton last weekend to get Mrs. Bruno Kupatt who spent last week there with Mr. and Mrs. Spaw and their new daughter Shelia Renee. Mrs. Spaw is the former Patricia Kupatt.

William Reber of Rule and son Carl from Florida, visited in the homes of Albert Stremmel and August Stremmel recently.

Friends of this community were saddened by the death of Rector Nix Sheid, who had been a resident of this community for 45 years, since 1914. He passed away in the Haskell Hospital Wednesday, Nov. 25, after suffering a stroke in Sagerton Monday of the week before.

Mr. Sheid was born Oct. 30, 1885 in Arkansas. He married Ione Rogers after moving to Sagerton. Survivors include his wife; one son, M. N. of Fort Worth; two daughters, Mrs. Manley Wood and Mrs. Robert London, both of Silverton; four grandchildren; one brother, Owen of San Antonio; and two sisters, Mrs. Will Flowers of Old Glory and Mrs. Charley Fowler of Stamford. Mr. Sheid was a member of the Church of Christ.

The funeral was held Friday at the Church of Christ in Rule. Burial was in the Rule Cemetery.

NEWS OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Home Safety Is Theme of Study Club Program

Members of the Progressive Study Club enjoyed a very comical skit, "A Day With Mrs. Addiepatie," Thursday evening, Nov. 19.

Before the skit was presented, Mrs. Bailey Tolliver introduced Mrs. Abe Turner Jr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Crume as new members and presided during a brief business session.

Mrs. Howard Perry directed the home safety program and narrated Mrs. Addiepatie's hectic day. Mrs. Bailey Tolliver pantomimed the part of Mrs. Addiepatie, with Mrs. Hubert Bell as her daughter Ima.

Mrs. Addiepatie's day started with hanging curtains and falling from a creaky chair. At noon Ima suffered a burn while playing around a stove. By the time poor Mr. Addiepatie was due home for dinner, Mrs. Addiepatie had severely cut her finger while slicing bread and set the house on fire by putting water on flaming grease.

Mrs. Addiepatie's careless accidents and the prevention of such needless tragedy was discussed by two teams led by Mrs. William Kemp and Mrs. Bill Holden.

The speaker's table displayed a lovely fruit arrangement, and another table held a miniature pilgrim scene.

Mrs. H. V. Woodard and Mrs. Arlos Weaver served pumpkin pie and coffee to members.

THANKSGIVING GUESTS IN J. M. SLOAN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hill and children, Carl and Mickle Jo of Lubbock spent Thanksgiving in the home of Mrs. Hill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Sloan. Also visiting the Sloans on Thanksgiving were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wimberly and Ruby.

Killingsworth Family Meets In Annual Reunion

That most precious of all commodities, "Family Togetherness" came to the fore once again when the Killingsworths met at Lebanon, on the outskirts of Dallas last week. They were all there with few exceptions. Always, there are a few vacant chairs for one reason or another.

The day was ushered in with a postcard blue sky, although the Texas Norther had hit. Inside, the huge wood-fire crackled and sent its warmth to all four corners of the spacious lodge.

Some of the woods about the lovely spot were brought in for the table and mantle decorations. Never did the red-hued oak leaves and scarlet berries shine with such brilliance; never were hearts so light and carefree and never did turkey taste so delicious, despite the fact, apple sauce had been substituted for the traditional cranberries.

If all the thanks, the Killingsworths had in their hearts were placed in a book on the Thanksgiving of 1959, many pages would be filled. Truly, there are many blessings!

Another Thanksgiving, another reunion have passed from the scene but warmest memories linger on in the minds of the participants.

Elementary P-TA Meeting Re-Set For Dec. 9

Because of the two community parades this week, the meeting of the Elementary P-TA has been postponed until next Wednesday, Dec. 9.

At that time there will be an old-time Carol Singing led by Mr. Bell. Everyone is invited to the Elementary School at 3 p. m.

World Religions Program Theme of Magazine Club

Members of the Magazine Club met Friday for the second program on the study of the Religions of the World.

Mrs. C. O. Holt, president, presided for a business session. The invocation was given by Mrs. Elmer Turner.

The Club will enter a car in the Christmas Parade. They will send their annual Christmas box to the State Hospital at Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Artie Mae Burkett was program director. After Mrs. Burkett had introduced the study of Buddhism by giving the Life of Buddha, "The enlightening One" and the "Expansion of Buddhism" in the Far East, she presented Mrs. C. V. Payne, who discussed "The Philosophy and the Teaching of Buddhism."

Mrs. R. C. Couch Jr. was hostess for the afternoon. Due to the Christmas Parade at 4 p. m. Dec. 4 the Magazine Club will meet at 1:30 p. m. Dec. 4.

Mrs. C. J. Robinson will be program director. The study will be on "Confucianism."

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Henry Hong, Laos, McMurry College.

Hat-Making To Be Demonstration at Workshop Here

Would you like to make a hat to match your ensemble?

Rainbow Sewing Club Has Annual Supper

The annual Thanksgiving supper for Rainbow Sewing Club members, husbands and invited guests was held Tuesday night, Nov. 24 in the dining room of the Methodist Church.

One of the enjoyable highlights was the meeting and greeting of friends as they arrived for the special once-a-year occasion.

The long tables were draped with white table cloths, using red pyracanthias and leaves down the center of the tables, along with vases of bronze mums. Plate favors were brown and orange colored napkin holders which added to the attractiveness of the tables. They were handmade by Mrs. W. E. Johnson, the Club Mother.

Everyone enjoyed the turkey supper with all the trimmings, after which a candle-light service was conducted, directed by Mrs. F. L. Peavy and Mrs. Stella Josselet. Group singing was enjoyed.

led by Otta Johnson with Geo. Turner as piano accompanist. Prayer was given by John Larned. Mrs. Naomi Jeffries of Wichita Falls was given recognition for having come the longest distance to attend the affair.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Morgan, Mrs. F. L. Peavy, Mr. and Mrs. John Larned, Shirley and John Jr., Mrs. W. E. WHAT IS AFRICA?

(Editor's Note: Presented here is the first in a series of articles dealing with Africa, one of the world's most important mission fields. Second in the series will appear next week.)

What do you think of, when you think of Africa? "Jungle villages." "Heat and rain—or desert." "Poverty and exploitation." "Drums and dances and masks." "Mission hospitals." "Diamond mines."

Almost everyone you know will describe Africa in these or similar terms, for they are popular conceptions of this vast land half a world away from your own. But there is usually something lacking in our popular thinking about Africa. Few of us think of today's Africa—changing Africa. All the things we have enumerated are there too, of course, but the factor of change is so great that a "new" Africa is emerging.

Continental Africa with its 11½ million square miles is almost twice the size of the United States and Canada and houses 223 million people. Almost every known variety of man calls Africa home and has since the beginning of recorded time.

Many Africans derive from Caucasian stock including such dissimilar peoples as the copper-colored Fulani of Nigeria and the white-skinned Afrikaner of South Africa. The Negro people, who are probably among the very first Africans, exhibit as much diversity as the Caucasoid groups. There are several hundred true Negro tribes in Central Africa alone. Again, oblique eyes are found in parts of the continent and the vanishing bushmen are yellow-skinned. Actually centuries of internal migration, conquest, and intermarriage have produced a fusion of peoples and a confusion of languages.

Almost half of the world's two thousand languages are said to be spoken by Africans including one of the newest languages, Afrikaans. Many are formidable intricate. Kirundi, spoken by the Hutu, is considered one of the most complicated languages man yet devised. Perhaps this refinement of the spoken language is one of the reasons why Africa's people never evolved a truly indigenous script. After nearly a century of intensive effort by missionaries, and belatedly by governments, many languages have not been reduced to writing. Few languages, spoken or written, are comprehensible over wide areas. Today concerted literacy campaigns help to correct this situation, which does so much to retard African progress.

The social life of Africa is not only characterized by differences of peoples and languages, but the environment produces equally divergent human responses. The Muslim Taureg roaming the Sahara must organize this life differently than the nomadic pygmy, who lives in the jungle. The two do, however, share an interesting custom that sets them apart from their respective neighbors—both are monogamous.

Noting the differences in races, or languages, or response to environment does not, of course, reveal all of Africa's cultural diversity. Many groups are simple pastoral nomads, while others such as the Yoruba are believed to have been town dwellers for centuries. People like the Watutsi and the Masai own thousands of head of cattle which, though never killed and eaten, form the basis of a complicated, stratified economic and social life. More and more Zulus are becoming wage earners while the energetic, independent Ibo are scattered over much of West Africa as merchants and craftsmen. Land is held in common by many tribes south of the Sahara, and individual wealth is usually unrelated to social status. Kinship is a major cultural factor throughout this region, with some Central African tribes tracing lineage through the mother's family. Women are scarcely more than chattels in North Africa, but as traders and small merchants they occupy a prominent role in such West African countries as Ghana. The Swazi have a queen mother of equal authority to the paramount chiefs of other tribes.

The social organization of certain groups in the Congo and Equatorial Africa is distinguished by primitive ritual practices that probably have existed for centuries. An exception is the lip disfigurement of the Nyasa women, which is said to have originated in modern times as a tribal effort to discourage slave traders. Many of these ritual practices, like cannibalism are being abandoned, but the witch doctor is still an all-powerful force.

The greatest contrasts of all in African life have been produced by the impact of modern communication, particularly air travel. Industrialized cities and towns have sprung up all over Africa and few areas are really isolated any longer. Sophisticated urban living exists side by side with man simpler cultural patterns that have been highlighted here. In rapidly changing Africa social customs may disappear overnight or condition a people's response for the next twenty-five years. No one really can say.

Happy Christmas Greetings To All Who May Read This Letter

The little building which you see on the northwest corner of the court house lawn will be Santa Claus headquarters for this season.

It is planned to install sound equipment there and the citizens of Haskell are urged to visit there often and tell the people how they may multiply their Christmas joys by planning to make it a happy holiday for others.

We would be glad that all business and professional people in Haskell avail themselves of this opportunity to utter an expression of gratitude toward your customers and friends for their acts of patronage and goodwill toward you throughout the year.

We especially urge our "Courteous Court House Crew" to contribute a few minutes of their time to tell the "man on the street" your appreciation of Haskell.

We beg the City Council, the School Board, the Chamber of Commerce, Jaycees and all Civic Clubs of our community to use this method of publicizing your plans for making this "A Better Christmas."

We would encourage all school teachers, Sunday School teachers and officers, all church officers and pastors to do your bit through this medium "To Keep Christ In Christmas." Also visitors in our town are urged to extend greetings through this medium at any time.

We especially solicit all mothers. When you feel yourself bubbling over with the joys of your own brood you will please arrange to come to this station and "Bubble" for the good of the people.

Keep mindful that the small children are all for Santa Claus. Teach them their Christmas songs, verses and stories. Bring them often, share their faith with them. Know the truth that "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he."

Let's make Santa real to every one in Haskell this Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Crawford.

Rainfall Almost Non-Existent In November

Rainfall in Haskell and immediate vicinity was scant in November with only .09 of an inch recorded at the Government observation station maintained by Sam Herren.

This light moisture was distributed over a three day period, .01 on Nov. 1, a similar amount Nov. 3, and .07 on Nov. 4.

Normal for the month of November is 1.27 inch.

Rainfall to date this year has amounted to 21.87 inches, compared to normal rainfall for the 11 months of the year of 22.37 inches.

Lowest temperature during November was 17 degrees on Nov. 17, with a high of 78 degrees recorded Nov. 3, 12, and 25.

Cub Scout Pack Meeting Held Monday Night

Regular meeting of Cub Scout Pack 36 was held Monday night, Nov. 30 at the Elementary School, with 89 Cub Scouts, parents, and visitors present.

Although Den 6 had 100 per cent attendance, the Cubby award for the month went to Den 5, with visitors tipping the scales in the attendance count.

Den 6, Mrs. Dude Mercer, Den Mother, gave the skit for the evening's program.

Plans were made for the Pack's float in the Christmas parade, and awards were presented Cub Scouts completing their tests. Also, Bob Cat Pins were given six new Cub Scouts, Richard Buerger, Riley Pace, Lee Pippin, Robert Pitts, Jim Smith and Harold Spain.

Pack 36 now has seven Dens, and is seeking a Den Mother for new Den 8, which already has two Cubs enrolled.

Because of the Christmas holidays, no Pack meeting will be held in December, with the next regular meeting to be in January, when Den 5 will present the skit.

Ed Smartt is Cub Master, with Dude Mercer, assistant.

HERE FROM WAXAHACHIE

Eugene Williams of Waxahachie, a former resident here prior to the 20's, stopped over during the weekend for a visit with friends here. He was returning home after visiting a daughter in Wichita Falls, and a brother, R. E. (Peck) Williams in Lubbock.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Dr. Arthur A. Edwards desire to express their thanks, appreciation and love to all of the friends and neighbors for the many things they did during his prolonged illness and recent death. To each of the good doctors who worked so hard to make him well, to the blood donors, to the nurses at the hospital who gave him every care, the special nurses and everyone on the hospital staff who helped, we are sincerely grateful. We are also deeply grateful to Bro. Rexrode for his many visits and encouragement. Also to the many friends throughout this area for their visits, beautiful flowers, cards, telegrams, food, and many other kind deeds that helped cheer him Edwards desires to express through his illness. Also for the lovely lunch served by the church to the friends and relatives of the family, and to the Mens Bible Class for their acts of kindness. May God's richest blessings be on each and all of you.—Mrs. Arthur Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Arnold and children. 49p

Visit in Kansas City During Thanksgiving

Mrs. Al C. Williams of this city was joined at Dallas Wednesday of last week by her daughter Gail, a senior at the University of Texas, and they went by rail from that city to Kansas City where they visited a son and brother, Guy Williams and family.

On the afternoon of Thanksgiving Day, the entire group toured Kansas City to see the spectacular Christmas lighting installations. In the Plaza section of the city, where Spanish architecture prevails, the entire area was blazing with lights. Massed choirs from schools and churches sang in various parts of the city. One of the more spectacular sights was a 96-foot Christmas tree made entirely of lights, erected by Macy's department store.

Mrs. Williams and Gail returned home Saturday night, and Miss Williams returned to Austin Sunday to resume her studies at the University.

SPEND THANKSGIVING WITH PARENTS

Mrs. Doris Harrell and children Belinda and David of Abilene, and Bill Taylor of Amarillo were guests in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Taylor during the Thanksgiving holidays.

HASKELL VISITOR

H. E. (Elmer) Wall of Knox City was a business visitor in Haskell Monday. A former resident here, he was in the dry goods business here for a number of years before moving away around 1915.

CARD OF THANKS

I want to express my sincere thanks to my many friends for your visits, words of encouragement, cards, letters and flowers while I was confined in the Haskell Hospital. You will never know how much you meant to me and how much I enjoyed your thoughtfulness. May God bless you.—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Howeth. 49p
