Rain Climaxes American Legion Celebration and Barbecue Saturday

Saturday's Attendance Especially Heavy with Delegations from Many Neighboring Cities

DEFENSE DAY PROGRAM HELD

Mrs. S. W. Meharg Declares 4th a Day on Which to Renew Pledge of Loyalty to Flag.

With an estimated crowd of six thousand visitors present Saturday, representing the entire surrounding territory, the climax of Floydada's two-day celebration and barbecue, sponsored by the Post American Legion, was reached with the calling of the baseball game in the afternoon of the Fourth because of a most welcome West Texas rain.

Among the hundreds of guests here for the picnic, perhaps 600, and Lockney came first with the largest delegations. Many were here from Crosbyton, Lubbock, Pecos, Silsboro, Matador, Quitaque, Lubbock, Plainview and other cities, some outside of a one-hundred mile radius were represented here Friday and Saturday.

Defense Day, observed with appropriate exercises Saturday was featured by a patriotic address delivered in the afternoon by Mrs. Emma Grigsby Meharg of Plainview, Secretary of State of Texas.

Ceremonies presided over by the Reverend Marvin Brotherton, pastor of the Floydada circuit, First Methodist Church, were conducted at three o'clock in the balcony on the north side of the county court house. The Reverend J. L. Henson, pastor of the Methodist Church, said the invocation and Jack Foley introduced Mrs. Meharg, the principal speaker of the day.

The Secretary of State, the first woman in Texas to hold the high position of honor in the Lone Star State, based her address on the main theme of patriotism.

"If we wish to commemorate July 4, as a National Independence Day, the day that our forefathers set apart as a day of rejoicing; a day of patriotic demonstrations, a day in which we should renew our pledge to our government for the protection of life and liberty, we must remember that we are American citizens—a band of soldiers protecting the Democracy that Washington, Patrick Henry, Hancock and Jefferson established," said Mrs. Meharg.

She stressed the importance to the state and nation of national education of young manhood and womanhood in the arts of good citizenship, love of country, obedience to authority and reverence for the flag and respect for the laws.

The defense program was concluded with two selections by the Ralls band, which furnished music during both days of the picnic.

Unusual interest was manifested in the parade of decorated cars held Saturday morning at eleven o'clock. Crowds lined the sidewalks around the square for an hour before the parade began.

First prize of $15 for the most attractively decorated car went to Floyd Motor Company. The car was prepared by Mrs. C. C. Wright and Mrs. R. M. Abbott.

Second place honors went to Stansell-Collins Grocery. Credit for the art work on the second prize winner

Rain "Streaks" Help Floyd County Crops

General Reports of Crop Condition Optimistic; Rain Needed in Parts of County

Slightly over eight-tenths of an inch rain has fallen in Floydada during the past six days. Intermittent showers began falling Saturday afternoon and continued Sunday and Monday.

General rains fell over the east, north, and western portions of Floyd county Saturday and Sunday. The precipitation in localities varied, in some instances as much as three inches having been reported. The moisture has been deposited in "streaks" but practically all of the county, with the probable exception of portions of the south and southeast sections, has received enough to materially aid the cotton and row crops.

Center, Lakeview, and Blanco communities report that rain is still needed in those sections.

A good rain fell west of Floydada and Lockney Sunday afternoon and night and crop conditions from that section are reported to be favorable.

Numerous farmers are plowing up their wheat because of low acreage yield, but the future promises more for the cotton farmer, for the present at least. Authorities state that unless lice or worms make inroads upon the crop, judging from the present prospects, the yield in Floyd county this year will average and perhaps surpass that of the two previous years.

Row and feed crops are only fair, reports state.

GO TO SAND HILL

These community meetings where ever held, where everybody gets together and just has a good time for awhile are mighty good places for a while to find out how fine folk his neighbors are, and incidentally to broaden and better acquaintanceship Starkey had such a meeting the other night that was attended by several Floydada people, some of whom helped to furnish the enjoyable program that was rendered as a part of the fun.

Tomorrow Sand Hill Community will have a similar affair. Ice cream will be the main feature of this meeting, which is being sponsored by that excellent community spirit building organization—the P. T. C. Society. It will afford Floydada people an opportunity to meet and talk with their good friends on their friends home grounds
You don't have to be particularly talented and on the program. It is, doubtless, a great experience to have talent and be able to entertain people But just being there and howdying about would be worth a lot, whether you have any talent.

The way to make friends with people is just to be friends.

PICNICS MEAN FELLOWSHIP

In this age of rapid transportation, automobiles, and good roads it is becoming a simple matter for a man and his family to travel fifty or a hundred miles in a very few minutes. More and more, day by day, mankind is being drawn closer into one great Brotherhood.

Floydada's American Legion celebration held here July 3 and 4, was just an example of how close people really live after all. Men living fifty miles apart are now neighbors.

The days of petty rivalry between small communities and towns should have passed and a new era accepted of co-operation, understanding and friendship.

Picnics bring folk together and aid in bringing about a feeling of fellowship. The Legionnaires are to be commended for the success they made of the big get-together here the Fourth, when people from every adjoining county gathered for two days of pleasure and of "howdying."

BUYING WATER

Reports from some sections of the state come in to the effect that the sources of water supply for many municipalities are drying with the result that the cities are having to buy the water from different sources which their citizens drink. Not only this, but farmers as well, are buying their water for drinking and for their stock. A good, big-sized water bill, as well as a feed bill, is staring these farmers in the face as a result of the

On the plains, providence has provided happily for the needs of man and beast, so that no matter if the sky be as brass overhead and the earth as iron under foot, there is always a good cool drink of water waiting for the thirsty. Once upon a time they didn't know that and they put it in the geographies that this was a good country to come to, if you wanted to starve, or failing starvation, to die for lack of water. The modern geographies ought to relate that the plains is underlaid with an ocean of water-bearing sand.

HIGHWAYS BETTER

With more travel, following the recent work completed on Floyd County's sector of Highway No. 28, the condition of the road is much improved, with a good crown and only the necessity of dragging to keep the surface from chopping up.

Floyd County people are unaware that Texas has one of the most remarkable drouths in years and years.
Down where the "heart of Texas" is—the famous black land country—and even further east—the need for rain has been long and has become so insistent that reports indicate a greatly reduced row crop yield. This is true of cotton. For the most part the feed crops down in Texas have been almost entirely neglected. It is declared that Ellis County expects the smallest cotton production in forty years, and very little feed crops. Other counties, with a few exceptions, report the same. This forecasts a demand from Floyd and its West Texas neighbors not only to help clothe the world but to help feed that part of the hemisphere right close by which insists in betting it all on cotton.

MAKING HOME GROUNDS MORE ATTRACTIVE

To carry out the simple laws of landscape gardening, do the following:
Keep the lawn open and clear of plants, shrubbery or trees set indiscriminately. Bank shrubbery against the walls of the house, letting the high shrubs come at corners, between windows, and before columns. For the general mass of planting next to the wall, use the low growing, branching kind of shrubbery. Plant the low growing kinds under the windows and very low points:

The shade trees should be placed,
as a rule, to the side and to the rear of the house, and not on the lawn in front. If the grounds are large, then a few trees may be properly placed in front, but these as a rule should be located slightly to one side.

Three Desirable Coniferous Evergreens.—Oriental arbor vitae and English juniper are two excellent coniferous evergreens of the taller growing type. They grow very narrow and tall and are good as specimen plants, hedges, windbreaks, foundation plantings, etc. They usually grow 12 to 15 feet high.

Where to use Vines.—Where vines are wanted to cover walls, nothing is superior to the various varieties of ivy, Boston being the leader. Where one wishes the vine to cover an old stump, a dead tree or something of that kind, wisteria is best. The trumpet vine or bignonia is also good for this purpose.

Where one wishes to screen the porch with vines and quick results are desired, plant kudzu. It grows rapidly and is very effective for this purpose.
Another good one but a much slower grower is the clematis.

The following plants will succeed fairly well when planted in shady corners provided they are not directly under large trees: Hypericum, Japanese spurge, Mahonia aquiflora, Ma-honia japonica, the acubas, Chinese tea plant, Indian currant and snow-berry.

Japanese Privet Good for Tall Border
Planting.—One of the most useful of the privets is the Japanese privet.
In the middle and upper part of the South, it is an evergreen shrub, growing 6 or 8 feet high. In the lower South it takes on the form of a tree, growing 25 to 30 feet high. It produces white flowers in July, purple fruits in the fall, these fruits being very attractive to birds. The principal use of the Japanese privet is for hedge and screen plantings and tall border plantings.

Tall Evergreens For Low Bungalows.—
Low bungalows can be made attractive by the use of tall evergreens, such as Italian cypress, Arizona cypress, Eastern type of red cedar and English juniper. These are tall growing coniferous evergreens and give a columnar effect, and are more suitable for this type of bungal-ow than are the low growing, spreading type evergreens.

When to prune shrubbery.—As a rule, little pruning of shrubbery is needed except to cut out diseased, dying, or injured branches, to thin out, rule that absolutely must be kept in mind however in order to prune shrubbery and not injure it is to prune back only after it finishes blooming.

Cedrus Deodara Especially Attractive.—

dar, often incorrectly called the spruce pine, is one of the most decorative coniferous evergreens that we have
It is especially attractive when used

CREATING APPETITE

The sight, smell or thought of food may be very effective in making "the mouth water", in which case the result is a so-called psychological secretion. The impression is sent to the brain and in turn the brain sets the salivary glands in action.

Hesperettes

If you have any ideas about the manner in which another fellow's business should be run, it is usually an even better idea to wait until he calls on you for them.

Should some people love their neighbors as they love themselves they would certainly be crazy about their neighbors.

Rain turned the baseball game at the park Saturday into a keep-dry contest. The Ralls band played "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More," "How Dry I Am" and other similar, lively tunes.
The rain didn't stop, but the game did.

"CHINOOK WIND"

This is a name given to a strong warm wind and dry south or west wind descending the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountains into Montana and Wyoming, evaporating or melting the snow and bringing great relief in cold weather. The name was probably given it because it blew from the territory occupied by the Chinook Indians.

DO'S AND DON'TS
FOR THE CHILD

How many mothers make a careful study the habits of their children in order to eliminate the bad ones and encourage the good? Here are a few questions and suggestions furnished by government home economics specialists that will aid you in studying the habits of the little ones.

1. Does your child fret about what he eats? Perhaps you are making him take the part of an actor in a play and every child enjoys attention.
2. Do you often talk about his eating habits before other people? A child begins to feel important and desires attention.
3. Do you teach him to feed himself as soon as he is old enough? Let him spill a little food; do not punish him for it.
4. Are other members of the family setting an example in good habits for the child? A child tries to imitate older people.
5. Do you select simple, nourishing easily digested foods and cook them correctly?
6. Has your child had a taste of foods of which only adults should eat? Examples of these are tea, coffee, sweets, and pickles.
7. Do you make foods attractive to the child? A child likes color.
8. Do you serve too large quantities?
9. Is your child eating at regular times? Eating between meals overworks the stomach.
10. Does the child sleep poorly?
11. Is he irritable? Does he fear? Then the nervous system is not healthy.
12. Do you realize that a child who is angry or worried cannot digest food properly? Do not force a child to eat but try to overcome the emotion by a more healthy attitude of mind.
13. Do not create an unpleasant scene at the table.
14. Do not arouse jealousy by not giving to one child what another child has been given. If old enough, the child should know why the food is refused him.
15. Do not manifest authority by forcing child to eat because you think he should? This leads to anger and obstinacy with inability to digest food.—The Progressive Farmer.

THE "UNFORTUNATE TREATY"

The treaty of Catean-Cambrests signed in April, 1559, between England, and Spain and France is called the "unfortunate treaty" because Spain and France had to give back most of the territory they had conquered.

INEXORABLE LAW OF WORK

The law of work is the law which requires perfect obedience, without remission or abatement, so that by that law a man cannot be just, or justified, without an exact performance of every tittle.

This and That

A number of the golf fans are in-

Elton, the eight-year-old son of C. W. Beene, who served as snare drummer for the Ralls Music Makers during the advertising trip last week and the Floydada celebration Friday and stated that the lad could read music easily, play the cornet and alto, run the scale on a clarinet and play the base or snare drum.

INSIST SKULL IS HUMAN

The famous Pittdown skull, which has been pronounced prehuman by some anthropologists, is most assuredly human, according to Sir Arthur Keith, probably Britain's greatest physical anthropologist, in the latest revision of his chief work, "The Antiquity of Man." His latest computations on the skeletal fragments indicate a brain capacity for the creature of about 1,300 cubic centimeters. He holds that 1,000 cubic centimeters is the lowest human level.

GETTING RID OF GERMS

Daddy was confined to the house with influenza and mother was busy sterilizing the dishes which had come from the sick room.

"Why do you do that?" asked four-year-old Donald.

"Because, dear, poor daddy has germs, and the germs get on the dishes. I boil the dishes and that kills the germs."

Donald turned this over in his mind
for several minutes, then: "Mother, why don't you boil daddy?"

Center News

Center, July 7.—The rains almost get to Center but not hardly, at least in quantity sufficient to be beneficial. We are hoping for a real good rain before it decides to quit. Crops are looking fine but are beginning to need moisture badly.

We had expected Bro. Shannon to preach here Sunday but he failed to come. We had thought perhaps on account of rain, but we found out they had little rain beyond Lockney toward Plainview so don't know why he didn't come.

The Misses Fuqua took Sunday dinner with Miss Cecille Lightfoot. Misses Maudie Meredith and Lillian King took Sunday dinner with Miss Foy Bryant. Wesley Foster went with F. O. Bryant.

Most of us got caught in the act of starting home Saturday when the rain came on. Some came on, others waited awhile but all had a muddy time of it, a few got in so bad they were unable to get out to Sunday school Sunday.

Mr. Goughly and family visited at the Foster home while Sunday afternoon.

Center church received word last week that Bro. Balch who was to have held our meeting this summer was in the Dallas hospital for a major operation and would not be able to hold any meetings the rest of the summer, which will necessitate our getting other help. We are all very sorry for we had counted so much on Bro. Balch being with us.

We hope to attend the Workers Meeting at Lockney tomorrow. Miss Glennie Daves, a student of Wayland College, attended Sunday school here Sunday and took Sunday dinner at the Jordan home, returning to Plainview in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Spence are home from Glenrose where they have been for Mrs. Spence's health.

Mrs. C. O. Spence has two sisters from near Lubbock visiting her for a few days.

Let all singers remember next Sunday is singing day or rather afternoon here. Will welcome all who will come and sing with us.

MARKING STEEL TOOLS

To mark steel tools warm them slightly and rub the steel with wax or hard tallow, until a film gathers. Then scratch the letters on the wax cutting through to the steel. A little nitric acid poured on the writing will quickly eat out the letters. Wash off the acid and remove the wax with a hot rag, and the letters will be securely etched.

THE ETERNAL FEMININE

Two horsemen were comparing notes on their respective animals. Said one, "Well, how do you like that new mare of yours?" Said the other, "Oh, fairly well. But I wish now I'd bought a horse—she's always stopping to look at herself in the puddles."

Next Step in Cotton Marketing

J. W. L. Hall, Cotton Association Field Director, To Talk in Floydada—Lockney July 22.

Cotton co-operative marketing from all angles will be told the farmers of Floyd County at Floydada Wednesday afternoon, July 22nd, in the court house, according to J. Frank Triplett, of Hale Center, district supervisor of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association for Hale and Floyd Counties. J. W. L. Hall field service director of the Association and head of the department having direct contact with the membership, will be the principal speaker here. Mr. Hall will also make a similar address at Lockney on the same day, his schedule calling for a speech at 10 a. m. at that point.

Mr. Hall will not only discuss the organization, but will tell the farmers of Floyd County of the "next step in cotton marketing."

Steps have been taken towards bringing out a full attendance of the membership, as well as a large representation of non-member cotton growers, bankers, merchants, business men, and others who are directly interested in the welfare of the farmer. Mr. Hall is considered a foremost authority on cotton co-operative marketing, and has been connected with the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association in an official capacity since its organization.

"It is seldom we have an opportunity of hearing such an authority as this man," Mr. Triplett said while in Floydada last Thursday, "and since co-operative marketing is reaching the proportions that it is, it behooves all of us to accept every opportunity of becoming better informed on it. A special invitation is being extended the business men of Floyd County to attend the cotton co-operative marketing meeting, which will be held at Floydada."

REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT

The Commune of Paris, 1871, was a municipality proclaimed by the insurrectionist element in Paris on March 17, 1871, while the victorious German army was encamped on the heights outside the city. The Commune was an insurrection motivated by a desire for local or self-government of Paris and the Democratic expression, loose and incoherent, though it might be, of dislike for the prevalent centralization.

HEARING WITH THE TONGUE

People who are quite deaf can not enjoy wireless at the present time, but science is making such rapid strides that it seems likely that this difficulty will soon be overcome, and that those who are permanently deaf may, after practice, be able to receive wireless messages by testing them with the tongue.

At least that is what a number of scientists are aiming at just now. These scientists employ an ordinary wireless receiver containing three valves and in place of the usual headphones or loud speaker they have two suitably shaped pieces of silver or copper, which are separated from each other by means of a strip of ebonite. These are placed in the mouth of a deaf person so that they rest comfortably over the tongue.

A spark transmitting apparatus was used and each dot or dash sent out by wireless excited a strong metallic taste in the mouth of the deaf person. This is easily understandable, because, instead of the received signals being made to actuate a pair of headphones or a loud speaker, they were passed on to the insulated silver plates in the mouth of the deaf person, and each impulse of current made its presence known by means of a characteristic taste.

A 3,000-YEAR-OLD FLUTE

Notes of a musical instrument that are believed to have floated in the warm air of Egypt 3,000 years ago were reproduced at the University of Pennsylvania by Prof. Jean B. Beck, who restored a small flute found in the tomb of a noble of the time of the Pharaohs. The air enters through slits in the sides of the reeds instead of at the ends as in modern instruments. Each note and its octave are sounded equally loud at the same time, quite unlike any present day instrument.

MINERS TRAVEL BY PLANE

Recently to eliminate travel over vast desolate tracts in Alaska on the hard journey to the gold fields the airplane has been called into use, with the result that the miners have flown into the far-away regions in a few hours at the most. The experiment has been pronounced highly successful and more planes will be brought in for that work alone in the Cassiar County district of Northern British Columbia.

BETTER TO RAISE YOUR OWN COWS

It is not uncommon to hear dairymen state that they can buy cows, cheaper than they can raise them. On the other hand, the best dairy observers and authorities generally claim that it is better to raise the heifer calves from the best cows in the herd, if by a good purebred bull, to replenish and build up the herd than to buy the cows.

We cannot help feeling that the dairyman who thinks it more economical to buy than to raise his cows fails to take into consideration all the factors involved in the question. His cost accounting is too often open to the same criticisms that can generally be applied to farm accounting. In this case the value of the cows bought must be carefully compared with the value of those raised for it is never economical to either raise or buy a poor cow. In other words, the value of a good cow, as compared with a poor cow, or even with an average cow, is so much greater, that the method which secures the best producing herds is likely to be the most economical.

Again, the quality of the cows which one raises and their cost may be quite different from the value and cost of those which he might raise if he studied and practiced the best and most economical methods of raising good dairy cows. It can never be economical to raise a poor cow and, therefore, unless the calves are raised in a manner to produce good cows, it certainly will not be economical to raise them.

Notwithstanding that some dairymen do not agree with us, we think that any efficient calf raiser can better afford to raise his own cows to build up and maintain his herd than to buy them. We think this has been pretty thoroughly proved. The reasons are that he will raise better cows than he will buy and the herd will be kept more free from disease like tuberculosis, abortion, etc.—Tait Butler, in The Progressive Farmer.

JOHN ALDEN HOME RICH IN HISTORIC INTEREST

New England is still rich in the old landmarks and homes of pioneer settlers. One does not have to go far from New York to come across these ancient monuments and habitations. Situated close to the South Shore tracks and a short walk from the Duxbury station stands the house that was the home of the girl for whom the big Fall River steamer Priscilla was named and of her husband, John Alden.

"Leaving the Duxbury station going toward Plymouth," says the New York Times, "The house is on the left hand side of the train and can be plainly seen from the car windows. It is undoubtedly one of the most historic houses in America. While it is very properly called the John Alden house, it was actually built by his son, Jonathan Alden, in 1653.

"The old house is well worth a visit. Entering at the front door, the 'great room' is on the right and the parlor on the left. The great room and, in fact, all the rooms are filled with fine and rare old-fashioned furniture. Across the ceiling of the great room can be seen the immense beams used in the construction of early colonial houses and the wrought-iron 'HL' hinges to the closet doors. In the great room also are two rare engravings by John Jones, London, valued at $500 each.

"There is also a punch bowl 225 years old, some rare and beautiful glassware and some Lowestoft ware, including a rare helmet pitcher, a beautiful secretary with a secret drawer also adorns this room, as well as a small table actually used by John Alden and Priscilla. In the kitchen is the huge open fireplace with a capacity for four-foot logs; also a brick oven and the usual assortment of utensils in connection therewith; sets of wooden and pewter ware and much rare china. Off the kitchen is a small room in which both John Alden and Priscilla died.

PORT OF SHANGHAI

Shanghai, in point of arrivals and clearances of ships, has become the second greatest port in the world, declares Capt. Robert Dollar, president of the Dollar Steamship Company, who recently completed a 30,000 mile trip around the globe. New York, of course is the worlds first port.

EXALTED COURAGE

True courage is cool and calm. The bravest of men have the least of a brutal, bullying insolence; and in the very time of danger are found the most serene and free. Rage, we know, can make a coward forget himself and fight. But what is done in fury or anger can never be placed to the account of bravery.

Birds Reward Protection Says the Department

One of Man's Best Friends Eternally Warred Upon by Wanton Hunters.

The economic value of birds, especially insectivorous birds in farm districts, can not be too strongly emphasized, in the opinion of the Biological Survey of the United States. Department of Agriculture. For this reason the bureau is interested not only in the protection of migratory game birds, which is one of its important functions, but also in the conservation of all beneficial bird life.

Hardly an agricultural pest exists but has numerous effective bird enemies. For instance, 25 kinds of birds are known to feed upon the clover weevil, and a like number upon the potato beetle, 66 on the codling moth, 47 on the gipsy moth, 49 on horseflies, 67 on billbugs, 85 on clover-root borers, 98 on cutworms, 120 on leaf hoppers, and 168 on wireworms.

Birds benefit the farmer also by eating quantities of weed seeds. It has been estimated that a single species of sparrow in a single State—Iowa—consumed annually 875 tons of weed seeds. Birds, do not of course, especially single out the noxious seeds or an insect pest for food; but eating indiscriminately and voraciously, the most abundant food is taken first, and this is likely to be the moving caterpillar or adult insect, or the seeds of the plant or on the ground, where they have been carried by the wind.

Many species of birds perform another important service to man thru their feeding habits, since they act as scavengers. In districts where the disposal of waste is not completely taken care of by community and individual effort birds make a valuable contribution to public health.

Next to man himself, wantonly using his gun, the worst enemy of farm birds is the domestic cat. Storms also destroy a great many birds by eating off their food supply. Protection against the elements can not often be provided for birds except where refuges or sanctuaries are maintained for them, but a protective public sentiment, supported by effective laws, will lessen the damage done by man and domestic animals. Birds may be still further encouraged and increased by the provision of food trees, such as the mulberry, which will serve the double purpose of attracting them away from cherry or other fruit trees and supplying them with suitable food.

CANDLE LIGHT OBSOLETE

In the days of lamp and candle light a city ordinance was passed in Joplin, Mo., prohibiting the holding of auction sales at night. This was intended to prevent buyers from being taken advantage of by reason of the darkness of the auction room. This ordinance, however, has now been repealed by the city commission because auction rooms are all well lighted by electricity and the purchasers can see what they are buying.

AIR SERVICE IN SWEDEN

Regular air services were operated in Sweden for the first time during 1924. All of these were on a summer schedule, and include services between Malmo and Hamburg, Stockholm and Helsingfors, and Malmo and Copenhagen. Although regular schedules were followed on all three lines, most of the traffic was on the Copenhagen route, over which 246 trips were made and 2528 passengers carried. The fact that on January 1, 1925, there were 293 private individuals in Sweden in possession of licenses for operation of airplanes is an indication of the interest that has been aroused in civilian air services.

He knows it because it is identical with the number of his house, the number of his postoffice box and his telephone number. He lives at 646 South Sixth street and it took him years to achieve the simplification of numbers.

RAREST BEAR IN THE WORLD

How the capture of a young bear cub settled a scientific dispute of long standing is told by Francis Dickie in American Forests and Forest Life (Washington, D. C.) It seems that for twenty years scientists have been at odds as to whether a very rare white bear found only on two small islands near Prince Rupert on the coast of British Columbia was a distinct species or simply an albino. If the former it would be the rarest bear in the world. If the latter, it was simply a polar bear altogether lacking in pigment.

Early last September two Indians landed on the wild shores of one of these two islands in search of game and came upon a mother bear with two cubs, one of which they succeeded in capturing alive. This bear finally reached Francis Kermode, director of the Museum at Victoria, B. C.

When the cub was received the very first thing the director did was to lift the head of the friendly little animal to the sunlight. When he looked into its eyes he knew the cub was far from being an albino specimen of the polar bear. Its eyes were distinctly brown. Thus, it was a new species. The bear has been named Ursus Kermodei, for the director.

For many years the skins of these white bears have been brought to the world's fur markets. It was long ago noted by Dr. W. T. Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological Park, that certain characteristics of the skins showed they were not those of the common polar bear.

Yet, in order to base a new species, more evidence than this was necessary. This evidence in the form of the live cub recently captured now establishes the new species, which is far smaller than the polar bear and even much smaller than the common black bear. The teeth differ greatly from those of the polar bear, while the ears are smaller.

REMBRANDT'S FAMOUS LIGHT

The famous silver shaft of light which characterizes many of Rembrandt's paintings was not a light of the imagination in any sense, for the famous artist, when he began his work as a youth, used his father's mill as a studio and all from a tiny window high up in one wall. The stream of light was allowed to fall just across his easel and became an inspiration instead of a handicap to him. No other artist has been able to accomplish as much with a similar lighting effect.

Home Demonstration Club News

FAIRVIEW H. D. CLUB

Our reporter has missed two meetings, so our work was not reported and we will have to go back and give a brief review.

On June 5, we met with Mrs. Hoffman. The subject at this meeting was "Health habits for the home." Not many were present, but it was a very interesting meeting.

Our next meeting was with Mrs. Snodgrass on June 19, with Mrs. Bruner as leader. The subject was "cold desserts and beverages." Miss Faulkner met with us this time and gave some helpful demonstrations.

July 3, we met with Mrs. Knierim, and the subject was "canning fruits and vegetables." Miss Faulkner gave a lecture and demonstration on selection, preparation, and canning of fruits and vegetables, spending most of the time on vegetables, as they are harder to can satisfactorily than fruits. There were fifteen present.

We voted to raise our portion of the money to send our county contestants to the A. & M. short course at College Station the latter part of this month. We want every lady who will to have her donation at the next meeting, which is the last time before time to go. The meeting will be held July 17, with Mrs. Cozby. The subject will be "miscellaneous affairs of interest to the club."

Perhaps we will finish plans for our club project, which was started about the first of the year. Our project is the lighting of the school house auditorium, and repairing the Victrola.

Part of the lights have been secured but we decided we needed more; also, parts have been ordered for the Victrola.

Our meetings have been very interesting and helpful, and we hope more ladies will join us from time to time.

FATHER OF MEDICINE

The foundation of medical science are laid in the early part of the first story by Cnidus Galen. Galen was born at Pergamum, in Asia Minor. He spent some years at an academy, where he wrote a work on anatomy and even performed dissections upon animals.

He considered that disease was largely based upon the four humors—man—bile, blood, phlegm and black bile—which were regarded as related (but not identical with) the four elements—fire, air, earth and water—being supposed to have characters to these.

Thus to bile, as to fire, were attributed the properties of heat and dryness; to blood and air those of heat and moisture, and finally black bile, like earth, was said to be cold and dry.

Galen supposed that an alteration in the due proportion of these humors of man—bile, blood, phlegm though he did not consider this to be its only cause. Thus cancer, it was thought, might result from an excess of black bile and rheumatism from an excess of phlegm.

He regarded old age as resulting from a diminution of the fiery and aqueous elements. Hence the necessity of keeping old people warm and giving them hot liquids to consume.

GIRL'S STRANGE MENTALITY

Scientists are trying to find out what actuates a girl named Thea Alba. Until lately she had shown nothing specially strange about her actions, except the habit of writing with her left hand as well as her right. One day, however, she told her folks that she was continually thinking of two or three things at the same time, and very soon she began to do things that seemed to prove it. She wrote at first, two different words at the same time, one with each hand. Being a good drawer and pianist, she trained herself so that she can paint and draw with both hands at once. She can play the piano with one hand, and at the same time write or draw with the other. At an examination before doctors she drew a portrait with each hand in twenty seconds. She can also write with three pieces of chalk at the same time. Just how or why—nobody yet knows.—Family Herald.

HOUSES BUILT IN DAY

Modern four-room dwellings, built of nonburning materials covered with a thin veneer of metal, are being erected completely in 24 hours by builders of Budapest, Hungary. Although the houses are inexpensive, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, it is claimed they have the advantage of being protected against fire and will last over a long period of time without the need of repair. The parts of the structures are all designed and prepared before construction is started so that the pieces may be quickly slipped into place and fastened without further fitting or cutting. The method is reported to have been copied from that employed in the manufacture of toy houses made from sheet metal.

We had a very interesting program. Canning is one thing we all are interested in more or less. Our club is growing fast in the interest of steam pressure cookers and sealers. We have six now and more are going to order soon.

We took as our project the building of new side walks on the school grounds. We want to say by way of encouragement to other clubs, don't be afraid to undertake something that is good for your community. We have our walks all paid for and didn't have to ask for any help to do it.

They cost us $42 and we are very thankful to everyone who contributed. We held July 15, with Mrs. W. E. Miller as hostess. The program arranged is as follows: Roll call; Value of pickling, brining and drying of fruits and vegetables will be the subject for discussion; demonstrations by club members; adjournment. Mrs. G. C. Collins will be leader at the meeting. "An acre of performance is worth a whole world of promises."

FLOCKING TO AUSTRALIA

Since the United States began restricting immigration, southern Europe has turned covetous eyes on Australia, and there has been a great influx of Slavs, Greeks, Italians, Maltese and other peoples. The latest advice is that the steamer Cephee will arrive there in a few weeks with 1,200 Yugo-Slavs.

Sir George Fuller, premier of New South Wales, has written the federal government suggesting that the commonwealth institute a quota system on the American lines, or adopt other means to limit foreign immigration.

Official government statements declare that while the need for population in Australia is urgent some substantial reason must be advanced before the door be shut against white Europeans. Nevertheless, the government is watching the situation carefully.

CORRECT NOSE BLOWING

Rudimentary education in the aged practice of blowing the nose is needed in Chicago in the present epidemic of severe colds, accompanied by disorders of the ears, is to be halted, according to Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Commissioner of Health.

More than half the sufferers from the present epidemic have complained of nosebleed and ear complications, he says. "These are due to nothing else than improper blowing of the nose. Both nostrils of the nose should never be blown at the same time. When both nostrils are blown at the same time, especially when the mouth is closed, the mucus is blown into the ear passages."

A FEW ODD FACTS

No edible fish is found at a greater depth of the sea than 600 feet. Coconuts take ten years after planting before they begin to give a paying crop.

Of the world's cotton crop, the United States grows more than two-thirds. If anyone cuts down forest trees in Denmark, he must plant an equal area with new trees.

Earth-worms can produce musical sounds, according to a German scientist. He even claims to have discovered rhythm in this strange melody.

In a buried city in Southern Nevada, which is reputed to be 10,000 years old, there are stated to be indications that women ranked higher than men in authority.

Miners are stated to head the list of large families, while at the other end of the scale some professional workers, whose families are 29 per cent below the average.

SMALL WRITING FEAT

Wesley Taylor, a graduate student at Columbia University, claims the world's small writing championship. Mr. Taylor said that he had excelled the microscopic writing feat of Prof. Nicola Durso of Italy, who inscribed the history of Montenegro on the back of a postcard and sent it to Queen Elena. He succeeded in crowding a total of 11,000 words on the postcard.

STORE WITHIN STORE

A remarkable feat of engineering has been accomplished in the construction of an addition to a Philadelphia department store. A fourteen-story structure has been erected inside the original building in the space originally devoted to a rotunda. The addition was built entirely through an eight-foot door, which was the only opening used for the introduction of steel beams, machinery and all the other material used.

DELUXE CHECK BOOKS TO MATCH LADY'S GOWN

The Kansas City Star:

The time of this story is 1930. The place is the lobby of a bank. The girl is standing at the "new account" desk.

Says the girl: "I would like to open a checking account in this bank."

Says the bank officer, smiling: "Yes, Madam, we shall be delighted to have you."

Says the girl: "But before I do so, I would like to know what kind of a check book you will give me."

Says the bank officer: "Well madam we have a wide assortment from which you may make a selection. Here is one we call our 'ensemble special'. It consists, as you will observe, of the latest Japanese silk paper fastened together with platinum staples and carefully bound in white seal leather. It has in addition, of course, a jacket made of the very finest ermine."

Says the girl: "It is very pretty but I would like to see some others. A friend of mine has a beautiful one she obtained at the bank across the street. It has a mirror inside the back cover, a powder puff in a dear little pocket inside the front cover, and a lip-stick fastened to it with a little gold chain."

Says the bank officer: "Oh yes, you mean the Vanity Check-Compact. Here is one of them. You will note that ours not only has the accessories you mentioned, but that each check has been daintily scented with an individual perfume of its own. In this way each check is self-identifying. In case you should wish to stop payment on a certain check, you merely phone the teller and ask him to keep his nose open for a lavender or rose scented check, as the case may be. We have these check-compacts in all shades and colors, so that our women customers may carry a bank outfit in harmony with the gown they wish to wear. Our evening check books, I might add, have the customer's name printed in radium ink, so that they are luminous at night."

Says the girl: "I believe I will take one of the plum colored check books to start with. May I exchange it tomorrow if I find it doesn't match my new slippers?"

Says the bank officer: "Oh yes, indeed, you may change it at any time. Do you wish to take it with you or shall we deliver it?"

Says the girl: "Why, the very ideal! Deliver it, of course. Yes—just charge it, please."

Of course the forgoing conversation has not yet taken place. But, at the rate the banks of the country are traveling at present, it may easily occur in the not far distant future, writes George Woodruff, vice chairman of the National Bank of Republic, Chicago, in the Banker's Monthly.

It is because of this tendency to give fancy check books that I found upon investigation, that 90 per cent of the bankers I have interviewed on the subject of "banking abuses" regard this problem among the most important confronting the banks of America today.

And it is a problem. If you doubt it, figure up how much you make on your average checking account and then decide for yourself whether or not your bank can afford to give away expensive check books just for the sake of obtaining this kind of business.

There was a time when a bank was considered pretty liberal if it furnished its depositors with ordinary check books free of charge. But that time has long since passed. Today the public expects to be given not only ordinary check books, but fancy, richly embellished check books. Many of these are bound in the finest leather and the checks are printed on the most expensive kind of paper. Yet, because of the intense competition now existing in the field of banking, they are given away with little thought of the expense involved.

In some communities, but not many, an effort has been made to do away with this practice. In New Orleans, for example, the banks have attacked this problem in earnest. At one time the banks in that city had check books lithographed for their customers, but this proved so burdensome an agreement was entered into whereby the banks would not furnish special check books but would limit themselves to checks of the ordinary kind.

In case a customer wishes a special check book, his bank simply allows him the amount which it would have to pay if the checks were on the standard form, the customer paying the difference in cost himself. The result of this move has been that the deluxe check book evil has practically disappeared in New Orleans.

Closely akin to the giving of expensive check books is the almost equally costly practice of imprinting the names of customers on the checks themselves. In a great majority of cases this is done without any charge whatever, while in others a small but wholly inadequate fee is asked for this service.

Some banks have a rule whereby they collect the cost of a check book printing from all depositors, especially those whose balances average less than $1,000.

QUICK—OR DEAD

Is your child quick—or dead? This is the rather pertinent inquiry or a warning issued in connection with National Safety Week.

The reason for it is: Of 19,000 persons killed by automobile in the United States in 1924, 5,700 were children. The assumption then is that the child that is not quick and on the alert every moment of the time spent on the streets, is a few years on earth.

Reckless autoists take this terrible toll of child life, and since they are not being curbed very rapidly, it behooves parents to use the greatest precautions in guarding their children against such an untimely death.

A study of statistics regarding this phase of automobile fatalities shows that the overwhelming majority of youngsters are killed while running errands or going to and from school. The loss of life among children playing in the streets is comparatively small.

No community escapes the blight of this ever present menace. Though accidents are less numerous in small towns, they are no less in proportion to population than in the large cities.

Though speeding, reckless automobile drivers may be punished, the vengeance of the law will not bring back the little life that might have been spared, had more care been exercised.

FIRST GIRL OPERATOR ON THE TELEPHONE

The honor of being the first girl telephone operator probably belongs to Emma M. Nutt, who on September 1, 1878, became an operator in the Boston exchange, says the Texas Public Service Information Bureau. She remained in the service for nearly forty years. New York's first public exchange girl telephone operator was Miss Mary Beatrice Kennedy, who entered the service on September 21, 1878. She took the place of a boy who had been discharged for swearing at a subscriber.

Another pioneer among telephone operators was Mrs. Margery M. Gray, widow of August Gray, who died last year at her home in Torrington, Conn. She began service as an operator in Bridgeport in March, 1879, and is said to have been the first telephone operator in the state of Connecticut. Also in March 1879, Mrs. Beauregard Morrison commenced her duties as an operator at Little Rock, Ark., while in October of the same year Miss Mary Mallory became an operator at Muskegon, Mich., the first girl operator in the state, it is claimed.

CYANIDE PROCESS GROWING

Of the three well-known processes of separating gold and silver from their ores, the cyaniding process is now used for the production of about one-third of the world's annual production of precious metals. The other two methods are smelting and amalgamation. In the cyaniding process the ores are crushed finely and mixed with water containing cyanide in solution. The gold and silver are dissolved, the solution filtered and the gold or silver then precipitated by the addition of zinc dust or shavings which replaces gold or silver in solution.

LIFE IS A FUNNY PROPOSITION AFTER ALL.

Did you ever sit and wonder—sit and ponder—sit and think Why we are here and what this life is all about.

It's a funny problem that has driven many a man to drink. It's a horrid thing to try to think it out. About a thousand different theories the scientists can show. But never yet has proved a reason why—

With all we talk and all we're taught and all we seem to know— We are born, we live, and then we die.

Life is a very funny proposition after all— Imagination, jealousy, hypocrisy, and gall, Three meals a day, a whole lot to say, But when you haven't got the coin you're always in the way.

Everybody's fighting to win their way along; Every fellow claims the other fellow's in the wrong.

Hurried and worried until we are buried, there is no sudden fall— Life is a funny proposition after all. When things are coming easy and luck is with a man, Then life to him is sunshine everywhere.

Fates grow rather breezy, they quite upset our plans— Then we cry that life's burden is hard to bear.

Today may be a day of smiles, tomorrow— Still in doubt—what brings you joy my bring you care and woe.

We're born to die, we don't know why, or what's it all about. The more we learn the less we know; life is a funny proposition you can bet;

No one has ever solved the problem as yet— Young for a day—then old and gray; Like the rose that buds and blooms and fades and falls away;

Losing health in search of wealth, as thru the stream we tour; Everything's a guess—nothing absolutely sure. Battles exciting, fates we are fighting until the curtain falls— Life is a very funny proposition after all.

RAILROAD BUSES

Britain is following the American example of running buses on branch railroad lines where full trains are not profitable. The Northeastern Railway Company is now furnishing a rail motor service from York, England, to several small stations along its lines.

DOG AS A TEACHER

A Portland (Maine) woman says that she has been trying for nearly twenty years to teach her husband to hang up his hat, but she thinks the new puppy the family has recently acquired will do it in the space of a very few weeks.

COMMON HAZARD HINTS

Do you use kerosene lamps? Fill them only by daylight and keep them clean.

Use only an electric flashlight when exploring the closet or other places where inflammable materials are kept. Candles and matches are dangerous.

Poorly built chimneys and flues and burned out stove pipes cause a fire somewhere every day.

A stove is a receptacle for fire, and should not be neglected; adjacent woodwork and the floor under it should be protected. Clothes hung too close to dry are easily ignited.

An open fireplace should always be protected by a firescreen. Many children are burned to death by their clothing igniting at open fires.

Gas and oil stoves should be kept clean and free from leaks. Never leave electric flat irons with the current on.

The commercial storage handling and use of explosives, inflammable and combustibles, ought to be regulated by public authority in the interest of the common safety.

Gasoline, naphtha and similar volatiles for domestic cleaning should be used always in the open air and by daylight only, and never near any open flame.

Burn your oily rags or waste after polishing furniture or woodwork about the house. Some oils ignite spontaneously and fires from that source are numerous.

Fire waste is not paid for by the insurance companies—they only collect and distribute the fire tax, and you contribute even though you insure no property, for the cost of fire insurance is added by manufacturers and merchants to the price of their goods, and whoever buys any article of trade pays it.

There is no great mystery about fire prevention. It is not a science—fire prevention is just common sense. Be careful.

LIGHTS FOR COWS

Cows will wear tail lights in Nebraska if a bill that has been introduced in the Legislature passes. It provides that all live stock, whether driven in herds or singly at night on public roads be required to wear marning lights, to be displayed both in the front and the rear to warn motorists.

SOMEBODY IN FLOYDADA LOST A DOG AT CROSBYTON

Has somebody who lives at Floydada lost a young tan and white spotted dog, which looks like it is a bird dog? Mrs. T. H. Ballowe, of Crosbyton, has such a dog at her place and would like for the owner to come and get him. In a letter to The Hesperian, which was dated July 1st, but was evidently delayed, Mrs. Ballowe says: "Someone has a young tan and white spotted dog—looks to be a bird dog of some good—is used to riding in a car—has a tag and collar labelled 'Floydada'. Owner will do me a favor to come and get him at my home in Crosbyton. I will care for him for a reasonable length of time. I appreciate a good dog." Since the delay of several days, the owner should hurry about going after his dog, as ten days is a "reasonable time" to keep somebody else's dog and Mrs. Ballowe might decide the owner does not care enough about the dog to come after him.

RESTORED TO BEAUTY

Experiments carried out by an architect have restored to light long covered beauties in London's oldest buildings, many of which have become sad specimens in their drab coverings of stucco or plaster. Lincoln's Inn hall was stripped of its sheath of dirty gray stucco by an architect who was seeking a new method of exterior adornment. To his delight the architect found the warm red brickwork underneath as fresh and colorful as it was hundreds of years ago. The same method was adopted with the famous old gale house of Lambeth palace, believed by antiquaries to be the oldest specimen of red brick in London. Its rich color had been hidden for more than 300 years under a thick covering of plaster, which, when removed, left the gate as it was designed by Archbishop Morton in 1490.

FACTS ABOUT COMPASS

The angle between the true north and the magnetic north is called the "magnetic variation" and has to be allowed for navigation. Thus, when the some say "True as a compass to the star," it is talking nonsense because although the star is fixed, the compass is not. Nevertheless, its variations are well known, so that the compass remains the seaman's most valuable possession.

Canning

Canning of non-acid vegetables, for which the pressure cooker is recommended by A. & M. College and other authorities, is the subject of this week's "recipe" column. Last week the canning of acid fruits and vegetables, together with a time table recommended by Miss Mable Faulkner, County Home Demonstration Agent, was given.

General Suggestions

Pack vegetables as near boiling hot as possible, using additional boiling water, if necessary. Place as soon as filled in hot canner. Add 1 teaspoonful salt to quart of vegetables; and one-half teaspoonful sugar, if desired, to pint of corn and peas. Lima beans, asparagus, corn and peas should always be canned in No. 2 tin cans or pint jars.

Asparagus: Tie in even bundles, place in saucepan with boiling water over lower portion, cover tightly and boil 4 or 5 minutes. Or cut in one-half inch lengths bring to boil in water to cover and pack into jars (use only pint or No. 2 cans). Process 40 minutes at 10 lbs. pressure or 240 degrees F.

Beans, string: Blanch, dip in cold water, pack in jars, add 1 teaspoon salt to quart, pour boiling water over beans until jar is full. Process 50 minutes at 10 pounds pressure, or 240 degrees F.

Corn: Cut off without pre-cooking. Add boiling water to cover and cook until liquid thickens (Use only No. 2 cans or pint jars.) Process 60 minutes at 15 pounds pressure, or 250 degrees F.

Greens: Including spinach. Steam or heat in covered vessel until completely wilted, using just enough water to prevent burning. Pack hot in jars, taking care that the material is not packed too solidly and there is juice to cover. Process (for quarts or No. 3 cans) 90 minutes at 10 pounds pressure, or 240 degrees F.

Okra: Can only young tender pods. Cover with water and bring to boil. Pack hot in jars. Process (for quarts or No. 3 cans) 40 minutes at 10 pounds pressure or 240 degrees F.

Peas: Use only tender, young peas. Bring to boil with water to cover. (Use No. 2 or pint jars only.) Process 50 minutes at 10 pounds pressure or 240 degrees F.

Sweet Potatoes: Boil or steam for 10 or 15 minutes, until skins slip off readily. Peel quickly and pack hot. Process (for quarts or No. 3 cans) 60 minutes at 10 pounds pressure or 240 degrees F.

Beans, Lima: Can only young and tender beans, using method suggested for peas. Process (use only No. 2 cans or pints) 60 minutes at 10 pounds pressure, or 240 degrees F.

Carrots: Use only young and tender carrots about one to one-half inches in diameter. Wash, scrape carefully, and cook until three-fourths done. Pack whole, or slice and arrange in jars. Add boiling water to cover and one-half teaspoon salt to a No. 2 can. Process at 10 pounds pressure, 45 minutes, or 240 degrees F. for 45 minutes.

WITH THE CHURCHES

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Last Lord's Day was rather an off-day in attendance but not in the interest and spirit of the service. The morning service was interesting and helpful to those attending, but at night we were rained out, that is it looked like it would rain any minute and we went home before it hardly started. It did not rain much after all. Guess most of the folks had too much fourth to get out to the service. I presume some felt like "the morning after."

Don't fail to be present next Lord's Day. Services as follows: Morning worship will begin at 10 o'clock with the study period followed at 10:50 with the sermon. The subject of the sermon will be "Our Talents." The night service will begin at 8:30 and the subject will be "Bibbed Hair." You will be interested in both these messages. Come hear them. Come to the little church with a big welcome.

Sunday afternoon the pastor will preach at Mayview at 4 o'clock. This is his regular appointment and we hope there will be a large attendance present to hear the message. Those living in the community urged to be present.

F. L. Davis, Pastor.

FLOYDADA DEFEATS RALLS IN SLOW GAME FRIDAY 9-1

Everything was going "Lefty's" way Friday of last week and Floydada won easily with a 9-1 score from Ralls in a slow game featured only by heavy hitting by the local team.

Floydada gathered nine hits while the visitors could only muster two. Ralls used three hurlers, Stephens, Acock, and Pass, but were unable to stop the rampage of the Floydada sluggers.

"Lefty" Holmes won his game almost alone. He poled out a homer and crossed the plate for two other runners.

Both teams gave an exhibition of a good class of fielding seldom seen in amateur games.

The box score:

QUITAQUE TIES SCORE WITH FLOYDADA IN CALLED GAME

With Floydada leading 6 to 5 at the opening of the fifth inning, the Quitaque Tigers clawed their way to a tied score in their half of the frame just before Umpire Curry called the game Saturday on account of rain. Floydada did not get their half of the fifth, which was required to make the game an official one.

One of the largest crowds that has witnessed a baseball game in Floydada this season filled the grandstand to overflowing. Hundreds of spectators sat in their cars inside the park.

The game promised to be a good one, probably interspersed here and there with a little too much free hitting, but a promise was all, for a muddy field made it impossible to continue after the rain ceased.

The score by innings:

Quitaque	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Quitaque	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0

HIGH SILK HAT LOOKS FOR ITS 100TH BIRTHDAY

LONDON.—Is this the hundredth anniversary of the high silk hat? English hatters believe it is, but they are worried about it because the historical evidence is conflicting.

They are agreed that the silk hat is the supreme emblem of republicanism. The tall, silk hat is not—as people carelessly assume—the mark of the sartorial snob.

On the contrary, it is a red republican headpiece. What happened, it appears, is this:

The Puritans, simplifying their dress, adopted that tall, peculiar crowned hat which you see shading the austere features of Cromwell. This tall hat they took to America, where you see it crowning the Bradfords, Standishes and those relatives of yours "who came over, etc." Then Benjamin Franklin took it to France where he was sent as envoy, and beneath its brim stalked the streets of Paris and the green aisles of Versailles. Franklin made a big hit with his big hat. Everybody exclaimed: "How republican!"

Presently France went republican herself pretty violently; then she turned Napoleonic for a spell, though with great republican ferment inside. It was along about 1825—so the savants say—that she evolved the tall silk hat as an expression of this equalitarian spirit.

To this very day the crown of the French silk hat—as everybody knows—is smaller than the base at the brim; this is solely because it still clings conservatively to the peculiar shape of the American Colonial republican headpiece.

On the other hand, the English silk topper—as though in revolt against republicanism—is of greater circumference at the top than it is at the base.

DOG SAVES CAT

Almost everybody loves a dog because of his friendliness and almost human intelligence. I have always been fond of dogs, but after a little incident I witnessed the other day my respect for them has increased fourfold.

I was walking home from school thinking over the incident of the day, and consequently not paying much attention to the happenings around me. Suddenly something shot past me, just rubbing my legs as it went. I stopped and looked about, wondering what had dashed past. My eyes discovered a large, rough-looking dog holding a tiny kitten in its mouth as he crept quietly from between the wheels of a wagon. He walked to the opposite curb, placed the kitten gently upon the sidewalk, and then ran off, wagging his short, stumpy tail as if nothing had happened.

From what I had seen I gathered that the kitten had been in danger of being crushed by the wheels of the wagon when the dog saw it and went to its rescue. I wonder whether the human mind would have acted as quickly?—Hattie Goodsell, a student in the Maxwell Training School for Teachers, Brooklyn, N. Y., in the National Humane Review.

AIRMEN GRATEFUL TO CITIES THAT TELL THEIR NAMES

Washington.—Advertising for the benefit of those who ride in the air is seen by army air service officers as a possibility.

Thus far this branch of "letting the world know", is confined to cities that blazon their names literally from the house tops. This is coming to be recognized as a vital factor in flying, enabling the aviator readily to discern his whereabouts simply by looking over his cockpit to where giant white letters, painted on the roof of a large building, gaze up at him. The number of communities that are thus setting forth their names is substantially on the increase, army airmen say.

Large cities have their own landmarks, the Washington Monument and the dome of the capitol being two of the best anywhere.

While in some cases the name of the community is painted on the roof of the railroad station, officers said they believed that transportation branch slow in favoring that method sensing probable competition from the airplane in the future.

Now, on your approbation of this declaration I shall make preparation to remove my situation to a more convenient station to profess my admiration and if such obligation is worthy of observation and I obtain commiseration, it will be in aggrandizement beyond all calculation of the joy and exultation of—

UNITED STATES NAVY A GREAT TRADE SCHOOL

Gone are the days of the "Jack of all trades and master of none," of "wooden ships and iron men." The United States Navy of today is made up of a corps of trained specialists in both the commissioned and enlisted personnel. Thousands of dollars are spent annually in training these specialists. Fundamentals of the 22 trades taught in the Navy are the same as corresponding trades in civil life. If the man trained in one of the 36 schools conducted by the Navy decides to reenlist at the expiration of his enlistment, he finds advancement waiting for him as he qualifies for more important work in his trade. If he does not reenlist, he has learned the fundamentals of his trade and can readily adapt himself to the specialties of civil life.—School Life

"Once a Florsheim, always a Florsheim."
