WANTED—A HOME

Scores of people are coming to Floydada every week looking for a place to make their home. The Hesperian is being besieged by people who want somewhere to live in Floydada this winter.

Some of them are becoming desperate and will live most anywhere for awhile until they can get "settled" and find something to their liking. The Hesperian hates to see these people have to "move on," and announce with this week, that until the acuteness of the situation is relieved we will list any homes, rooms, or apartments, furnished or unfurnished, free of charge, and will attempt to place some of the people who are here making an effort to move to Floydada with their

In this connection we suggest that as far as possible the homes of Floydada should be opened to these newcomers until the present situation is relieved.

Still Captured Before First Cooking Off

Sheriff J. A. Grigsby and deputies Thursday afternoon arrested and brought to Floydada Duff Beavers and Homer Manley, charged with transporting materials and implements for the manufacture of liquor, the arrest being made earlier in the day on Hall Creek about 23 miles

A still was also taken at the same time, together with mash barrels and other parapharnalia, including an oil

On Saturday Julius Beavers was arrested in Dickens and the same charge

The still had been established very recently, it appeared, and very likely the "first cooking" had not been completed, officers who visited the scene of the still's location said.

Bond Record And Issue For Sewer Bonds Approved by Attorney General

What is believed to be the last tangle in the preparation of the City of Floydada for the construction of a sewer system cov-ering more than eighty blocks in the city, was unravelled the first of this week, when the Attorney General's Department wired Mayor F. P. Henry that the bond record and the issue of the bonds made by the city had been approved by that office on September 2.

The bonds should reach Floydada the latter part of this week and delivery made to the First National Bank, representatives of the bond buyers who purchased the issue. The money will then be available for the city to go forward with their contract with the engineers and construction company.

Telegraphic advices to this effect were forwarded yesterday by the city to Gantt-Baker Company, the engineers, and the Sherman Machine and Iron Works, the contractors, both of Oklahoma City. No delay is anticipated in the construction work, as soon as materials

The last difficulty which developed, and which has thus been brought to a satisfactory conclusion, was due to the failure of the bond issuing ordinance drawn to meet the approval of the attorney general. Some weeks time was thus lost.

Belief that the completion of the sewer system will be of incalculable value to the growth of Floydada and its development as a business center and desirable place of residence, is expressed on all sides by business men and citizens, and the favorable outcome of the bond issue, which was first attacked indirectly by a court proceedure down state, and later delayed by the change necessary in the ordinance, has been the feature looked upon as very auspicious for the interests of the community

BUILD—BUILD

Do you have vacant property in Floydada which you could use as a site for a cottage or two?

If so, we suggest that you can turn it into revenue bearing property by building on it this fall, and at the same time help relieve a rather distressful situation for scores of people who are here trying to make a home in Floydada.

Good rental property has not been a "drag" in Floydada in many years. At this time it is particularly in demand. You can thus assure yourself of an income beginning immediately after its construction. An unhealthy sign which is appearing in the local situation is the boosting of rent prices both for rooms and for houses. Wages have not gone up and the citizen should bear in mind that unreasonable boosts in the rental prices will be reflected in retarded development of the

ABOUT "QUITTING"

Back in the good old days it used to be quite the thing for some good person in the church to "quit" because the preacher did not handle the gospel as it should have been handled. But it was noticeable that there were always enough folk who sat steady in the boat and kept on staying with the church that its work was continued, instead of being disbanded until another preacher happened along and the good brother came in again. Which is by way of being illustrative of the situation as regards the democratic party in Texas during the past two years. Two years ago a good many dyed in the wool demo-crats "quit" when they were asked to stand by the pledge to support the nominee, the nominee it appearing, being first nominated in conclave duly called in Dallas behind closed doorsor somewhere. But a good many good steady democrats didn't quit the party because the "preacher" happened to be wrong. Again this year, a good many of the democrats who castigated their fellow partyites for their departure from the "straight' ticket, are planning to quit, or "git rid of Ferguson.'

About the same number of brethren are highly incensed at the "preacher" but it happens to be a different set of brethren this time.

brethren is to remember that it takes more than one preacher to make a bout in this article is the housefly or whole state-full of congregations and Musca domestica. it takes more than one candidate to fill all the offices. There is a very good reason for the splendid reputation enjoyed by CURLEE Clothes among the good dressers of the country. That reason is founded on a clearly defined policy of the manufacturer to create the very best clothes possible at the price.

An efficient manufacturing organization of large proportions with a production of enviable size makes possible the low prices at which these clothes are sold. The savings in all departments are passed on to you—the wearers.

And when low price is backed up by fine clothes and finer looking models, they offer every reason why you should visit this store and let us show you the new fall models—a style and size for every type of man. Our collection includes the newest modes, fabrics and colorings.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Solomon Binkus, veteran scout and interpreter, and his young companion, Jack Irons, passing through Horse Valley, New York, in September, 1768; to warn settlers of an Indian uprising, rescue from a band of redskins the wife and daughter of Colonel Hare of England. Jack and Margaret fall in love. On reaching Fort Stanwix Colonel Hare says both are too young to marry, but that if they are of the same mind after one year he will ask Jack to come to London. The Hare family sail for England, and the Irons family move to Albany.

CHAPTER II.—Unrest grows in the colonies because of the oppressive measures of the English government. Solomon and Jack visit Boston and wit-Solomon and Jack visit Boston and witness a fight between a mob and a squad of British soldiers led by Captain Preston, a friend of Solomon's. Later they return to Boston to testify in Preston's behalf.

CHAPTER III.—In November, 1770, Jack goes to Philadelphia and works in Benjamin Franklin's printing plant. Nearly three years later Margaret writes him from London reminding him that her youth is passing and saying she has appealed to Doctor Franklin. Binkus has received a letter from Washington to be carried across the ocean, and Jack sails with him.

CHAPTER IV.—Arriving in England, Binkus is arrested, but Jack has the letter and proceeds to London.

CHAPTER V.—Jack delivers the papers to Franklin in London. Binkus is released and joins them in the great city.

CHAPTER VI.—Jack and Margaret meet and are more in love than ever, but Colonel Hare is not eager for the marriage.

CHAPTER VII.—Franklin's efforts to obtain better treatment for the colonies are futile. He evades the attempt of the king's men to "tow him into port."

CHAPTER VIII.—General Clarke, a crotchety old man, calls the Yankees cowards in Jack's hearing. The young American demands a retraction. Lionel Clarke, the general's son, and a rival suitor for Margaret's hand, takes up the quarrel and a duel is arranged.

CHAPTER IX.—Jack and Lionel fight with pistols and the latter is wounded.

CHAPTER X.—After a secret meeting with Margaret, Jack again demands her hand from her father. Hare refuses after young Irons declines to approve and aid the plans of the king concerning the colonies.

CHAPTER XI.—Lured to Gravesend by a ruse, Jack is drugged and put aboard a ship sailing for New York.

CHAPTER XII.—Franklin, called be-fore the privy council, is convicted of conduct inconsistent with the character of a gentleman and deprived of his office as postmaster general.

CHAPTER XIII.—After Jack's return the ferment in the colonies increases and a general congress is held in Phil-adelphia. The Hares return to Amer-ica.

CHAPTER XIV.—After the battle of Lexington Jack and Binkus enlist un-der Washington, distinguish themselves in scout duty and are made colonels. Jack is captured by soldiers command-ed by Lionel Clarke.

CHAPTER XV.—In the Boston jail Jack finds Binkus, also a prisoner. After weeks of suffering they are released when the British evacuate the city.

CHAPTER XVI.—The Declaration of Independence is adopted and signed, Jack being present as aid to John Adams. In fighting against Clinton's forces Jack is badly wounded.

CHAPTER XVII.—Scouting in northern New York, Binkus and Jack rout a band of Indians who are burning a white man.

CHAPTER XVIII.—The scouts rescue the widow and little son of the mur-dered settler and take them to Oriskany.

CHAPTER XIX.—Jack and Solomon are ordered to report to General Schuyler at Albany and there witness the first Fourth of July celebration.

CHAPTER XX.—With Herkimer's regiment the scouts run into an ambush and both are wounded.

CHAPTER XXI.—Having recovered from their wounds, Jack and Binkus start for Washington's camp near Phil-adelphia. On the way Solomon soundly thrashes an officer who criticises the commander in chief because he has suf-fered severe defeats.

CHAPTER XXII.—The winter in Valley Forge is full of hardships and suffering, but Washington displays his qualities of greatness. In the spring of 1778 the general gives Jack letters to carry to Franklin in France.

CHAPTER XXIII.—Jack joins Frank-lin in Paris and finds him greatly ad-mired by the French.

"Going back to his home where in the kindness of his heart he had asked me to live, he endeavored, modestly, to explain the evidences of high regard which were being showered upon him.

"It happens that my understanding and small control of a mysterious and of rich costumes and painted scenes violent force of nature has appealed to the imaginations of these people,' he said. 'I am the only man who has nsed thunderbolts for his playthings. Then, too, I am speaking for a new world to an old one. Just at present I am the voice of Human Liberty. I represent the hunger of the spirit of man. It is very strong here. You have not traveled so far in France without seeing thousands of beggars. They are everywhere. But you do not know that | key, but away from the ladies the men when a child comes in a poor family, are often living and not playing. Mirathe father and mother go to prison pour mois de nourrice. There was a dinner that evening at Franklin's house, at which the Marquis de Mirabeau, M. Turgot, the Madame de Brillon, the Abbe Raynal and the Compte and Comptesse d' Haudetot, Colonel Irons and three other American gentlemen were present. The Madame de Brillon was first to arrive. She entered with a careless, jaunty air and ran to meet Franklin and caught his hand and gave him a double kiss on each cheek and one on his forehead and called him "papa."

"At table she sat between me and Doctor Franklin," Jack writes. "She frequently locked her hand in the doctor's and smiled sweetly as she looked into his eyes. I wonder what the poor. simple, hard-working Deborah Franklin would have thought of these familiarities. Yet here, I am told, no one thinks ill of that kind of thing. The best women of France seem to treat their favorites with like tokens of regard. Now and then she spread her arms across the backs of our chairs, as if she would have us feel that her affection was wide enough for both.

"She assured me that all the women of France were in love with le grand "Franklin, hearing the compliment, remarked: 'It is because they pity my age and infirmities. First we pity, then embrace, as the great Mr. Pope has written.

"'We think it a compliment that willing to allow itself to be, in a way, captured by the charms of women,' Madame Brillon declared.

"As the dinner proceeded the Abbe Raynal asked the doctor if it was true that there were signs of degeneracy in the average male American.

"'Let the facts before us be my answer,' said Franklin. 'There are at this table four Frenchmen and four Americans. Let these gentlemen stand

"'Those who have money seem to be very busy having fun,' I said.

"'There is no morning to their day,' he went on. 'Their dawn is nontime. Our kind of people have had longer days and have used them wisely. So we have pushed on ahead of this European caravan. Our fathers in New England made a great discovery.'

".'What was it?' I asked. "'That righteousness was not a joke; that Christianity was not a solemn plaything for one day in the week, but a real, practical, working proposition for every day in the year; that the main support of the structure is industry; that its most vital commandment is this, "six days shalt thou labor" that no amount of wealth can excuse a man from this duty. Everyone worked There was no idleness and therefore little poverty. The days were all for labor and the nights for rest. The wheels of progress were greased and

You are astonished, and this brings me to my point. Here I am with a great task on my hands. It is to enlist the sympathy and help of France. I must take things, not as I could wish them to be, but as I find them. At this court women are all powerful. It has long been a maxim here that a diplomatist must stand well with the ladies. Even though he is venerable, he must be gallant, and I do not use the word in a shady sense. The ladies are not so had as you would think them. They are playthings. To them, life is not as we know it, filled with realities. It is a beautiful drama and ingenious words, all set in the atmosphere of romance. The players only pretend to beliane each other. More Science And Less Algebra, Says Dr. Works

Head of Educational Survey Says Per Centage of Degree Teachers Should Be Increased.

Fort Worth, Texas, Aug. 30.—Texas must have better trained high school teachers, says Dr. George A. Works, director of the Texas School Survey.
