Floyd County Third In Tri-State Exhibit

Keenest Competition of Years Features County's Fight for Honors in Agricultural Department.

Out of the fight for honors among the counties of the Panhandle and south plains at the Tri-State Fair this week Floyd County emerged third, reports from Amarillo this morning state. Judging of the counties was completed late yesterday afternoon, 23 entries being judged.

The standing of the first ten counties and their respective scores: Hale first, score 910 points; Randall, second, score 879 points; Floyd, third, 870 points; Dallam, fourth, 863; Hartley, fifth, 862; Garza, sixth, 860 points; Castro, seventh, 845; Hemphill, eighth, 836; Lubbock, ninth, 834; Hockley, tenth, 816 points.

County Agent T. Scott Wilson, who had charge of the Floyd County Exhibit at Amarillo, under the auspices of the Floyd County Farm Bureau, will return home the latter part of this week or the first of next, after packing his exhibit for shipment to Dallas for the exhibit there.

Exhibit Being Set Up For The W. F. Shows

The Floyd County Exhibit at the Texas-Oklahoma State Fair, will be completed by the latter part of this week for the opening day, Monday.

The exhibit left Floydada by express Wednesday morning and Maury Hopkins, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who will prepare the exhibit and spend a part of next week at the city to set it up.

Before he left, Mr. Hopkins asked the Hesperian to call the attention of those interested in the outcome of the exhibit being made at the various fairs from Floyd County this year, to the fact that while we are sending out a wonderful exhibit to each of the fairs—the best the county has ever had in recent years—this does not mean that Floyd County is going to lose the blue ribbon at all, for every other county in this territory—the panhandle—has had good crops and will likewise send wonderful exhibits.

While Floyd County took second place last year at Dallas, he said, it is not felt that the county will not do this year with a much better exhibit.

Chances for our winnings before this year are not any better than they have been in previous years when conditions were not so favorable.

Hopkins said. Scott Wilson, County Agent of Floyd County, will return home after the opening of the Amarillo Fair, ship his exhibit from that city to Amarillo for use in the exhibit there. The exhibit will also be shipped to Dallas for possible use at the fair to supplement the county exhibit and to use as individual entries.

Net Is Bullied By Condition Report

The condition of the cotton in the United States by the Department of Agriculture, which shows a considerably lower per centage of lint in the August 25th report than the total production remained close to the first published, gave cotton a big boost in the markets of the country and although the staple lost Wednesday the local market was buoyed up.

The net to move in appreciable quantities Tuesday and Wednesday at 21.50 to 21.75, all of about equal quality and staple.

The net was selling yesterday afternoon here.

City Tax Rate Set at $1.45 This Year

The tax rate for the City of Floydada this year will be $1.45, this figure having been set by the council at a recent meeting.

The rate set is an increase of 10 cents on the $100.00 valuation last year's rate having been $1.35. The rate set is figured by the council to include funds to meet the interest and sinking fund on the bonds voted for the sewer system, to be constructed this fall.

When the sewer bonds were voted last spring it was thought probable the tax rate would have to be increased to a figure above $1.50.

Lubbock Fair Boosters Arrive This Afternoon

An automobile caravan of Lubbock boosters, with a band, are due to arrive in Floydada this afternoon at 3:30 to tell about the South Plains Fair, according to a telephone message received yesterday afternoon by O. SANITARIUM GIRLS WANT TO NAME THIS BABY

The nurses at the Smith & Smith Sanitarium are greatly interested in the new arrival at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Austin of Pleasant Hill. Mrs. Austin served as dietician at the Sanitarium this last summer and all the nurses there naturally are manifesting a proprietary attitude toward the new baby.

They all wish a hand in the naming of the baby and have gotten up a very choice list of names which they are submitting this week to their former associate, Mrs. Austin.

The son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Austin on September 23rd.

Readings by Miss Joyce Mills and piano numbers by Mrs. Fannie Rush were enjoyed, as were several contests and games. Forty-two was played for an hour following which a dainty ice course was served.

1,000 Cotton Pickers Daily Coming West

Need For Cotton Pickers and Farm Labor Acute in Floyd County—Relief Promised.

With Floyd County, and practically every other county of the plains and panhandle, in need of hundreds of cotton pickers and general farm laborers including maize headers especially, the demand for labor has outstripped the supply and appeals to agencies down-state for men have been going out the past week in increased numbers.

According to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce relief is in sight for the plains and panhandle. The U. S. Employment Bureau at Fort Worth claims to be sending now cotton pickers into West Texas at the rate of 1,000 per day, mostly by automobile, and reports that reach Floydada indicate that farmers in neighboring counties are making trips down-state in trucks after men and are returning with them.

While all available labor in the county is at work, some growers estimate that Floyd County now needs 2,000 additional hands on the farms. With open, dry weather cotton has begun to open fast and this has increased the number of cotton growers who will need men in the harvest.

Maury Hopkins, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who wired the Employment Bureau at Fort Worth of the need of more hands in this county Wednesday received a reply from C. W. Woodman, in which the latter advised that Mexican laborers from San Antonio were being directed this way. Some objection has been raised in some quarters against laborers other than whites in the harvest fields of this section, while in other sections of this territory negroes and Mexicans are being hired freely.

Porter A. Whaley, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, anticipating that pickers will begin flowing into this section when the demand further east is filled, writes warning that "it is necessary that these cotton pickers be held over during wet weather and not allowed to leave the country because if they do we may face a serious situation. If a bad spell of weather should come the farmers should hold the pickers and not let them go back east."

SUPERINTENDENT VISITS FLOYD

J. F. Anton, Superintendent of the Slaton Division of the Santa Fe, was here yesterday on business.

Business is good with the Santa Fe at this time, Mr. Anton says, with cotton business just coming on, and prospects for a good fall run.

Kirk & Sons Contract For New Store, Warehouse

Additional Space Will Be Afforded by Store 25x110 and Warehouse 40x50 Feet.

Kirk & Sons this week completed plans and specifications and let the contract for the construction of a building adjoining their present site on north side of the square which will be a large addition to the business district. They let the contract yesterday to H. E. Cannaday for the construction of the building.

The additional room afforded by the new building will give them more than double their present ground floor space, the contract including a 110-foot building on a front of 25 feet lying immediately west of their location, and a warehouse which will completely cover the rear of the two lots, 40x50 feet. Both warehouse and additional store building will be joined to the store they occupy with openings.

Brick and steel for the new building have been ordered out, and work of laying foundations will also begin soon.

Ample provision is made in the new store as well as in the warehouse plans for light, two large sky lights being provided in each.

Plainview Hi First F.H.S. Football Opponent

Game Tomorrow Will Test Metal of Coach Wester's Recruits on F. H. S. Football Squad.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock the Floydada High School Whirlwinds will open their football season with a game on the home grounds, which will be played in the Floydada Baseball Park, against Plainview Hi.

The team has been working hard to round out into form and this week strenuous scrimmage practice has been done every afternoon. Coach Wester said yesterday afternoon that his recruits who are making the team for the first time this season are really doing better team work than he expected, and while their performances under fire are still to be tested, he believes they will go a long way before they are stopped. Only four first-squad men from last year's brilliant team are left about whom to build a team.

Last year Plainview Hi had a light, fast team that has developed quite a bit, and Coach Wester expects them to give the Whirlwinds a hard tussle in the first fight of the season.

The probable line-up at the opening of the game tomorrow for the Green and White:

"A great country," was Mr. Jones' verdict on Floyd County before he left. He is impressed with the great future of this section and the prospect it holds for this company.

Leroy Forest, of the Amarillo office, was with Mr. Jones on his visit here.

Horse Race Card Good At The Tri-State Fair

W. H. Hilton and H. O. Pope returned Tuesday night from Amarillo, where they spent two days attending the Tri-State Fair.

The attendance is very pleasing to Amarillo people, they said.

Demonstration Clubs Will Exhibit Nov. 1st

The women and girls of the Home Demonstration Clubs of Floyd County are planning to give an exhibition of their work on November 1, here at Floydada.

Miss Mabel Faulkner, Home Demonstration Agent, wishes it to be understood that this exhibition will not take of the nature of a county fair; it is merely to be an exhibition where samples of the different phases of the home demonstration work will be placed on view. It will be a small exhibition but should prove extremely interesting to all the county, and especially to those women who are on the alert to learn the best practical and most efficient methods of doing things pertaining to the household.

The exhibition will be held in the Glad Snodgrass Building, the second door south of the Kash and Karry Grocery.

Bitten by Rattler, Motley Co. Woman Lives

From the Motley County News: Mrs. C. R. Burleson, who lives on the Finis Bourland place, right at the edge of Flomot, was bitten by what must have been a huge rattlesnake, about nine o'clock, on the morning of the 9th inst.

She was in the garden at the time, and must have stepped on the reptile, as she heard it rattle about the time it struck her, but did not see it. The fangs of the snake entered her left lower limb just above the ankle and two incisions were made, about one inch apart.

Mrs. Burleson ran toward town and was met by her husband who carried her on in, where first aid was rendered and Dr. Hamilton summoned from Matador, but it required an hour for him to get the word and make the trip, which permitted the poison to get quite a start in the circulation.

For about forty-eight hours hopes for saving the life of the victim were very slim, as her system had become quite thoroughly inoculated with the deadly poison, but heroic and unremitting efforts have so far been rewarded, and barring complications which some times arise in such cases, all danger now seems to be over and complete recovery only a question of time.

HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT ACTS AS JUDGE AT RALLS

Miss Mabel Faulkner, Home Demonstration Agent, acted as judge in the sewing and canning departments at a fair held in Ralls last Saturday for the west end of Crosby county.

The first, second and third winners in the different clubs will be awarded appropriate ribbons; and the first, second and third winners in the county will also be awarded ribbons. Miss Faulkner expects much interest to be manifested in this dress contest. The contest will be held all day Saturday at W. W. Angel's office in the new Variety Store, Lockney.

Miller, general superintendent of the fair, says the expectations are to have good crowds, fine exhibits in every department and plenty of entertainment for the crowds which will attend.

Arrangements are being made and it is hoped that announcement can be made next week of some entertainment features, Mr. Miller said, including a speaker.

Slaton Division Had All Wheat Cars Needed

The record-breaking wheat crop raised by counties on the Slaton Division of the Santa Fe was also handled in a record-breaking manner, it develops, the railway company having hung up a record on this division for other divisions and other railroads to shoot at.

Although demands for as high as twenty-four cars a day were made by shippers from this point and numerous others on the division there was never a call, even in the peak of the season that the company did not supply the car at the time it was asked for. J. F. Anton, superintendent of the division, said in Floydada Wednesday that the conditions which made this possible were much different from the conditions which affected the carriers during the marketing of the crop of 1920, when much of the company's equipment was on other lines and could not be gotten "home."

Cotton Movement Has Started In Earnest

Movement of the cotton crop of Floyd County has started in earnest with the opening of the weather. Dry crisp days are opening the bolls fast, and the cotton raisers are starting picking in new fields every day.

More than 50 bales had been ginned here when the gins closed down last night, 20 bales being the biggest day's ginning. By Saturday gimmers are expecting 100 bales a day, if the weather continues favorable.

Pruitt Democratic Nominee For Judge

J. W. Pruitt, one of the early settlers of Floyd County, who early in the 1900's left this section, moving to Arizona, last week was nominated for superior judge by the Democratic Party in Maricopa County in which Phoenix is the leading city.

Reports indicate that he has a good chance for election at the general election in November. Superior court in Arizona is very similar to district court in the Texas judicial system.

TWO (2) COLUMNS

Easy enough for some. Hard for others.

Two columns out of an empty think tank is difficult.

If, having "saved the country" weekly for many a day, it came time to save it again, and you had the job, what would you?

The perverseness of human nature and its contrari-wise manner of manifestation has its possibilities.

High taxes and low income has furnished many a downtrodden but un-sullied pen a mighty thrust.

A general exhortation to the loyal to "come to the aid of the party" and drag these rascals away from the pie counter ought to furnish some good material.

Or, possibly, to keep off of everybody's toes and still trample them, too, the social evils of the day could be given a scorching.

But all of these and others would have only their possibilities for you, maybe. Perhaps the best would be a "pep" article, or a dissertation about how long, oh, how much longer, until the city gets to building that much-talked about sewer system, or why don't somebody get a real Tourist Camp Ground to going.

And while you have been thinking about what you'd do about it, we've got a little of the stint done without a struggle. Not a brain cell disturbed.

DON'T EXPECT TOO MUCH

Floyd County has an exhibit at Amarillo this week. Announcement of the prize winners among the counties of this section of the state may be made before this sees print.

Next week Floyd County will exhibit at Wichita Falls and shortly again at Dallas.

At all three fairs Floyd County will have a wonderful exhibit. Probably the best ever shown from this county at any fair. But the people of this county should not expect too much. All of West Texas has wonderful crops this year. Tremendous acreages of good crops. Floyd County will not be alone in showing a wonderful exhibit.

This county has been among the winners for sometime. Last year it ran second only to Hale, where a half dozen men spend weeks and weeks gathering together the best of the farm and orchard. This year 10 points may mean the difference between first and fourth or fifth place. A spoiled crate of tomatoes or a spilled sack of rye seed may spell defeat. Of such small things are exhibits made up. No telling the luck.

Rather remember, the men who are showing Floyd County products are telling the world about Floyd County—its excellent agricultural areas yet untouched by the plough—the opportunities for the worker and the thinker in Floyd County.

And if they do not get as near the top as you had hoped, remember they have tried, and the game of exhibiting at fairs is a game in which luck takes a part, the anti-luckers to the contrary notwithstanding.

EYE FOR AN EYE

Twelve years ago or thereabout a good citizen of a down-state county got into an argument with another good citizen, an officer of the county. Words led to hot words and hot words to a death struggle. The officer was killed in his office.

A plea of self-defense was made. There were no eye witnesses. The killer was acquitted.

A week or so ago the good citizen killed another man—a difference of some sort. Possibly justifiable. Possibly not. His fate will lie with a jury of his peers.

But one cannot fail to be impressed with the ways of juries. A silver-tongued orator gets hold of the imagination of some "mooning" juror and it is a hung jury or an acquittal. No question about the man being killed. No question about who killed him. But one must defend himself.

Another case on the same docket. An ignorant fellow tries an "easy way" to make a living. The dirty pipes and rods and paraphernalia attest to the vileness of the concoction made. Guilty enough. He ought to go over the road. Nobody worries about his widow and kids. Their standard of living may not be much lower with the husband gone a year or two. All in the washing.

Funny. The killer gets sympathy. The bootlegger two years. Is it a passing fancy that we hold life, which we cannot give, so lightly that a minute of passion in which death is dealt is justified in the eyes of the average man? Thou shalt not kill. Did the command go out with the passing of the old dispensation?

FAT MEN

Fat men need not feel so bad. They get mention right along in the old testament and among the authors of another day. About the only kicker we know of mentioned in the bible was a fat man.

Deut. xxxii.15: "Jeshurun waxed fat, and kicked."

Pretty good recommendation for Jeshurun. Anybody can be a floater. It takes a kicker to make the butter come, as the frog said.

So far as we know, lean men are not even mentioned in the bible.

Caesar liked fat men. "Let me have men about me that are fat," he said, "Sleek-headed men that sleep o'-nights."

He evidently intended to have fat men about him so he could do about as he pleased while they slept.

He got his wish. Brutus was a heavy weight.

BRUTUS WAS BRAVE

Speaking of Brutus: Brutus was a brave man, Plutarch says in other words.

Brutus stabbed his friend and fellow-triumvir Caesar. But that was in a day about like 1924 when a life more or less didn't mean much as against the ambitions of a man.

Anthony got busy with the speech that Shakespeare made up for him a few hundred years later and Brutus escaped to Asia Minor where he led the Roman minions against another set of barbarians, still a fighter as he was born.

But the proof of Brutus' bravery came when he had the inward fight as he lay on his tented couch on the plains. Oracles and visitors were real in those days. "I'll get you" is street jargon for what the ghostly visitor said, as it stood by his bed and foretold the disasters of tomorrow's battle. And while beads broke out on the brows of his bodyguards, Brutus replied, "Very well, you'll get me, then," and went to sleep.

The little men about him quaked. The leader slept so he could have strength to fight impending doom.

OLD SAYINGS

A free advertisement for the lightningrod agent.

Publius Syrus said it is vain to look for a defense against lightning, but the more modern U. S. Department of Agriculture says that lightning rods applied to homes add to the safety of the occupants for the obvious reason that the rods furnish a conductor for the electricity in the air—an easier and more accessible conductor than the house itself.

Many new homes are being built in Floyd County. We notice none of them are equipped with lightning rods, or very few of them.

Is it because too many lightningrod agents a few years ago took all the profit out of the business? Or, because the neighbors laughed about it? Surely no modern, up-to-date person has read any of Syrus' old stuff—so old that "Syr" spelled it with an S instead of a C.

FASHION

The cry that goes up against fashions is but the same in other words that has gone up since the first recorded history. Once everybody aped the Italians because they had been in the habit both in speech and in wearing apparel for centuries. The Italians set the pace long after the Caesar's had returned to dust.

Somewhere in one of his plays, Shakespeare has a character—probably in Richard II—rave about "our apish nation limps after in base imitation," speaking about the English following Italian styles.

So as fashions come and fashions go, we may assume it will ever be thus.

But if we kick against the idea of balloon trousers we must remember that not to wear balloons will be to be laughed at, and the ordinary herd of us will be wearing 'em so they won't touch us anywhere after live wires have gone back to tights again. And we'll be foaming about the skin tight breeches affected by our young college men. So with bobbed hair and long skirts or short—whichever.

It might be well to keep up with the parade. "As good be out of the world as out of fashion."

VIRTUE'S REWARD

If you've done a lot for your family, your community or your church. If you've worked hard and paid your bills as best you could. And paid your taxes and kept pounding away for years.

And then the world turns sour and nobody appreciates your efforts, it's you, not the world.

Every day, it is demonstrated in the life of every community that virtue must be its own reward.

All of us seek rewards of one kind or another. But we fail to get the philosophy of life when we expect our good deeds to be blazened and our bad ones to be covered with the sweet mantle of charity. When they begin to do away they figure you're done for—a dead one. Don't stop to hear the things your neighbors say about you. You're probably all right. What you did yesterday was fair enough for a day's work. But today is another day. It has a job for you.

"Glory of Virtue, to fight, to struggle, to right the wrong—Nay but she aimed not at glory, no lover of glory she: Give her the glory of going on, and still to be."

THERE'S REAL PLEASURE IN SEWING

MOST all women are sewing today. They find real joy in making their own clothes. They have more at less cost and get the exact colors and styles that suit their individual tastes.

While a woman is sewing she is creating new ideas for different kinds of dresses. She continually discovers new methods of cutting, sewing, fitting and feels she is really accomplishing something other than just a financial saving on her wardrobe.

The best materials in the newest colors and designs are an incentive to good sewing. The attractive assortment we have makes a woman want to be her own dressmaker.

Come in today and see our advance showing of La Porte Fabrics for Fall and Winter. They're right up to the minute in every detail. You'll begin sewing right away when you see them. There are patterns you can't resist.

Parent-Teachers Assn. Holds First Meeting

Floydada Parent-Teachers' Association held its first meeting of the year on Friday of last week at the High School Auditorium, with Mrs. Wilson Kimble presiding.

Not satisfied with the present membership of 43, the association is planning to hold a membership campaign and Mrs. E. C. Henry and Mrs. M. F. Husky have been chosen leaders to carry the campaign on to success. With so many new families moving to town in the past few months association officials think many new members can be added in the campaign.

The association voted to provide the Senior and Junior High School girls with basket balls. Miss Ida Mae Jarvis is the coach of the girls' teams in high school.

New members added to the roll at Friday's meeting included Mrs. R. E. Fry and Mrs. E. B. Massie.

Mrs. M. F. Husky was chosen as delegate to the county federation meeting to be held at Lockney on September 27th, with Mrs. R. E. Fry as alternate.

After the business session was concluded J. C. Wester principal of the High School, conducted the members through the new household economics rooms.

The next meeting will be on October 11th. Miss Ida Mae Jarvis, Miss Vera Carver and Mrs. Lattimore were named on a committee to prepare the program for that meeting.

This Community

Hundreds of Electric companies in Texas are studying how to assist the growth and development of the cities they serve.

Thousands of employees and officials of these companies are behind the effort to make the service of Electricity as good as it can be made.

This attitude is natural. The Electric service is an essential service. The object of it is to aid its users in their daily work and avocations, their business and their pleasure.

This city can not make progress—nor even hold its own—without good Electric service. Of course, this company can not "get anywhere" without progress on the part of the community.

So the situation implies mutual responsibility, singleness of purpose, and progress together.

These are the things that will make the city grow and develop.

This company wants to do its full share in the work.

SHOOT THE MINISTER

If the minister's hair is white, he is too old. If he is a young man, he hasn't any experience. If he has ten children, he has too many. If he has none, he should have, and isn't setting a good example. If his wife sings in the choir, she is presuming. If she doesn't she dislikes her husband's work. If a minister reads his notes, he is a bore; if he speaks extemporaneously, he isn't deep enough. If he stays at home in his study, he doesn't mix with the people. If he is seen around the streets, he ought to be at home getting up a good sermon. If he calls on a poor family, he is playing to the grandstand. If he calls at the homes of the rich, he is an aristocrat. Whatever he does, someone could have told him to do it better.—Exchange.

Radio Supplements Wires But May Not Supplant Them

Radio will not become a substitute for telephonic communication by wire, according to expert opinion. Secretary of Commerce Hoover appointed a board of specialists to make an exhaustive study of radio. Following the board's reports to the Secretary Mr. Hoover said:

"I think it will be agreed at the outset that the use of the radio telephone for communication between single individuals as in the case of the ordinary telephone is a perfectly hopeless notion. Obviously if 10,000,000 telephone subscribers are crying through the air for their mates they will never make a junction; the ether will be filled with frantic chaos, with communication of any kind impossible."

As a source of entertainment and comfort to millions all over the world's surface, the radio is proving a remarkable boom to mankind. The consensus of the scientists, however, is that in the science of communication there is no possibility of radio ever supplanting wires for the transmission of millions of messages simultaneously in motion across this country every day serving the nation's telephone subscribers, which number more than 14,000,000.

The ultimate system which is to provide the communication of the world will consist of both wire and radio, each supplementing the other in proportions to its capabilities. Authoritative estimates place the number of telephone calls in the United States during 1923 at close to 15,000,000,000.

THE WAY YOU LOOK AT IT

Have you ever noticed the sneer that sometimes passes over the countenance of a resident citizen when he peruses his weekly newspaper? He comments on the lack of news, of the proper arrangement of the matter that does appear in its columns, and at last he lays it down, saying, "Oh well there's nothing in it."

But let that same man locate somewhere else—in a city, if you please. Let him read the big dailies, the various periodicals of excellent worth and the best literature extant. He will become weary of it all, and then you see him grasp the little sheet that comes to him from his old home town. He holds it tight, he smiles, he reads the same article twice and thrice, he reads all the local news, then the advertisements, he wants to see the name of those he knows in print. After he has read and reread all there is in it, he folds it up tenderly and puts it either in his pocket or some place where he can again find it for another reading before the next issue is due. If he misses one copy, the next mail will carry the inquiry to the country editor why this is thus or so. "Don't fail to send me a copy of last week's issue," is often underscored. Then don't complain about your home paper; encourage it all you can; subscribe for it; give us all the interesting news you may know, and always speak a kind word for the paper that tries to do the best it can. Don't scorn it.—Chillicothe Valley News.

According to a statistician of Munich, Germany, every thirteenth inhabitant of the world lives in a city of more than 100,000 population. In Europe alone the proportion is even greater than for the whole world, for every seventh person on European soil lives in as large a city.

Of 293,488 houses destroyed in the earthquake in Japan last September 144,797 have been restored.

Almost every imaginable business depends in some way on the weather. A sheep raiser was ready to send a flock of rams to the range lands, but having previously suffered losses at lambing time, inquired of the local Weather Bureau station of the United States Department of Agriculture for weather conditions on his range 144 days from the date of the arrival of the rams. The weather could not be predicted so far in advance; but curves showing mean daily minimum temperatures and latest spring killing frosts indicated a period of relative safety beginning shortly after May 20. His lambs were dated prior to May 15, as had been warranted on another range. Since that inquiry, two successful seasons have followed in those herds, the lambs being brought in late May or early June, as suggested by the weather records.

CHAPTER XXIX

Solomon's Last Fight.

Meanwhile, Margaret and her mother had come up the river in a barge with General and Mrs. Arnold to the house of the latter. Jack had gone out on a tour of inspection. He had left headquarters after the noon meal with a curious message in his pocket and a feeling of great relief. The message had been delivered to him by the mother of a captain in one of the regiments. She said that it had been given to her by a man whom she did not know. Jack had been busy when it came and did not open it until she had gone away. It was an astonishing and most welcome message in the flowing script of a rapid penman, but clearly legible. It was without date and very brief. These were the cheering words in it:

"My dear friend: I have good news from down the river. The danger is passed. HENRY THORNEILL."

Jack being out of camp, Margaret had found Solomon. Toward the day's end he had gone out on the south road with the young lady and her mother and Mrs. Arnold.

Jack was riding into camp from an outpost of the army. The day was in its twilight. He had been riding fast. He pulled up his horse as he approached a sentry post. Three figures were standing in the dusky road.

"Halt! Who comes there?" one of them sang out.

It was the voice of Margaret. Its challenge was more like a phrase of music than a demand. He dismounted.

"I am one of the great army of lovers," said he.

"Advance and give the countersign," she commanded.

A moment he held her in his embrace and whispered: "I love you."

"The countersign is correct, but before I let you pass, give me one more look into your heart."

"As many as you like—but—why?"

"So I may be sure that you do not blame England for the folly of her king."

"I swear it."

"Then I shall enlist with you against the tyrant. He has never been my king."

Lady Hare stood with Mrs. Arnold near the lovers.

"I too demand the countersign," said the latter.

"And much goes with it," said the young man as he kissed her, and then he embraced the mother of his sweetheart and added:

"I hope that you are also to enlist with us."

"No, I am to leave my little rebel with you and return to New York."

"Will you give me a ride?" Margaret asked her lover. "I'll get on behind you."

Solomon took off the saddle and tightened the blanket girth.

"Thar, 'tain't over clean, but now ye kin both ride," said he.

Soon the two were riding, she in front, as they had ridden long before through the shady, mallowd bush in Tryon county.

They dismounted at Arnold's door.

"For a time I shall have much to do, but soon I hope for great promotion and more leisure," he said.

"Tell me the good news," she urged.

"I expect to be the happiest man in the army, and the master of this house and your husband."

"And you and I shall be as one," she answered. "God speed the day when that may be true also of your people and my people."

He kissed her and bade her good-night and returned to his many tasks. He had visited the forts and batteries. He had communicated with every outpost. His plan was complete. About midnight, when he and Solomon were lying down to rest, two horsemen came up the road at a gallop and stopped at his door. They were aides of Washington. They reported that the general was spending the night at the house of Henry Jasper, near the ferry, and would reach camp about noon next day.

"Thank God for that news," said the young man. "Solomon, I think that we can sleep better tonight."

Jack was awake for an hour thinking of the great happiness which had fallen in the midst of his troubles and of Thornhill and his message. He heard the two aides going to their quarters. Then a deep silence fell upon the camp, broken only by the rumble of distant thunder in the mountains and the feet of someone pacing up and down between his hut and the house of the general. He put on his long coat and slippers and went out of doors.

"Who's there?" he demanded.

"Arnold," was the answer. "Taking a little walk before I turn in."

There was a weary, pathetic note of trouble in that voice, long remembered by the young man, who immediately returned to his bed. He knew not that those restless feet of Arnold were walking in the flames of hell.

Had some premonition of what had been going on down the river come up to him? Could he hear the feet of that horse, now galloping northward through the valleys and over the hills toward him with evil tidings? No more for this man was the comfort of restful sleep or the joys of home and friendship and affection. Now the touch of his wife's hand, the sympathetic look in her eyes and all her babble about the coming marriage were torture to him. He could not endure it. Worst of all, he was in a way where there is no turning. He must go on. He had begun to know that he was suspected. The conduct of the scout, Solomon Binkus, had suggested that he knew what was passing. Arnold had seen the aides of Washington as they came in. The chief could not be far behind them. He dreaded to stand before him. Compared to the torture now beginning for this man, the fate of Bill Scott on Rock creek in the wilderness, had been a mercy.

CHAPTER XXVII.—Jack again warns Washington about Arnold and is made a latter's aide with rank of brigadier general. A British ship comes up the river with a flag of truce and the Arnolds plan to get Washington there for the wedding of Jack and Margaret.

CHAPTER XXVIII

As an Army With Banners.

The American army had been sold Arnold. The noble ideal it had dashed, the blood it had given, the hardships it had suffered—torment in the wilderness, famine in the plains, long marches of half-starved men in mid-winter, massacres in Wyoming and Cherry Valley—all had been bartered away, like a blood of turnips, to satisfy the greed of one man. Again thirty pieces of silver! Was a nation to walk the way to its Calvary? Major Andre, the adjutant general of Sir Henry Clinton's large force in New York, was with the traitor when he came from the ship to the west shore of Hudson and went into the bush under the observation of Solomon with his spy-glass. Arnold was to receive a command and large pay in the British army. The consideration had been the delivery of maps showing the positions of Washington's men and the plans of his forts and other bases, especially those of Fort Mifflin and Clinton and Battery Mifflin. Much other information was in the hands of the British officer, including the prospective movements of the commander in chief. He was to be taken in the house of the man he had befriended. Andre had to reach New York with his wife and Arnold to hold the command of his chief for a few days before the leaves had fallen, the end. The American army's master mind would be at the hands of Sir Henry Clinton.

Andre would have reached New York at night if The Vulture had held her position on account of the fire from the battery below. For that, credit must be given to the good scout Solomon. The ship was not in sight and two men came out in their boats from the west shore of the river. The night was falling. Arnold saw the shot and now that the traitor had heared that his treach-ery was suspected. "I may want to get away in that boat myself," he suggested to Andre. "She will not return until she gets orders from you or me," the Britisher assured him. "I wonder what has become of her," said Arnold. "She has probably dropped down the river for some reason," Andre answered. "What am I to do?" "I'll take you to the house of a man I know who lives near the river and send you to New York by horse with passports in the morning. You can reach the British lines tomorrow." "I would like that," Andre exclaimed. "It would afford me a welcome survey of the terrain." "Smith will give you a suit of clothes that will fit you well enough," said the traitor. "You and he are about of a size. It will be better for you to be in citizen's dress."

So it happened that in the darkness of the September evening Smith and Andre, the latter riding the blazed-face mare, set out for King's Ferry, where they were taken across the river. They rode a few miles south of the landing to the shore of Crom pond and spent the night with a friend of Smith. In the morning the latter went on with Andre until they had passed Pine's bridge on the Croton river. Then he turned back.

Now Andre fared along down the road alone on the back of the mare Nancy. He came to an outpost of the Highland army and presented his pass. It was examined and endorsed and he went on his way. He met transport wagons, a squad of cavalry and later, a regiment of militia coming up from western Connecticut, but no one stopped him. In the faded hat and coat and trousers of Reuben Smith, this man, who called himself John Anderson, was not much unlike the farmer folk who were riding hither and thither in the neutral territory, on their petit errands. His face was different. It was the well-kept face of an English aristocrat with handsome dark eyes and hair beginning to turn gray.

A little out of Tarrytown on the highway the horseman traveled, a group of three men were hidden in the bush—ragged, reckless, unlettered country lads waiting for cows to come down out of the wild land to be milked. They were "skimmers" in the patriot militia, some have said; some that they were farmers' sons not in the army. However that may have been, they were undoubtedly rough, hard-fisted fellows full of the lawless spirit bred by five years of desperate warfare. They were looking for Tories as well as for cattle. Tories were their richest prey, for the latter would give high rewards to be excused from the oath of allegiance.

They came out upon Andre and challenged him. The latter knew that he had passed the American outposts and thought that he was near the British lines. He was not familiar with the geography of the upper east shore. He knew that the so-called neutral territory was overrun by two parties—the British being called the "Lower" and the Yankees the "Upper." "What party do you belong to?" Andre demanded.

"The Lower," said one of the Yankees.

It was, no doubt, a deliberate lie calculated to inspire frankness in a possible Tory. That was the moment for Andre to have produced his passports, which would have opened the road for him. Instead he committed a fatal error, the like of which it would be hard to find in all the records of human action. "I am a British officer," he declared. "Please take me to your post." They were keen-minded men who quickly surrounded him. A British officer! Why was he in the dress of a Yankee farmer? The pass could not save him now from these rough, strong handed fellows. The die was cast. They demanded the right of search. He saw his error and changed his plea.

"I am only a citizen of New York returning from family business in the country," he said.

He drew his gold watch from his pocket—that unfailing sign of the gentleman of fortune—and looked at its dial.

"You can see I am no common fellow," he added. "Let me go on about my business."

They firmly insisted on their right to search him. He began to be frightened. He offered them his watch and a purse full of gold and any amount of British goods to be allowed to go on his way.

Now here is the wonder and the mystery in this remarkable proceeding. These men were seeking plunder and here was a handsome prospect. Why did they not make the most of it and be content? The "skimmers" were plunderers, but first of all and above all they were patriots. The spirit brooding over the highlands of the Hudson and the hills of New England had entered their hearts. The man who called himself John Anderson was compelled to dismount and empty his pockets and take off his boots, in one of which was the damning evidence of Arnold's perfidy. A fortune was then within the reach of these three hard-working men of the hills, but straightway they took their prisoner and the papers, found in his boot, to the outpost commanded by Colonel Jameson.

Mrs. W. F. Hinkle Died Suddenly Last Friday

Campbell Community was shocked to learn of the death of Mrs. Rosie Sanders Hinkle, who died very suddenly last Thursday at her home one-half mile north of Campbell Schoolhouse. Mrs. Hinkle was born Oct. 10, 1884 in Fannin County, Texas and was married to W. F. Hinkle in 1902. Mrs. Hinkle is survived by her husband and six children.

About 8 months ago the Hinkle family moved into the Campbell District.

Mrs. Hinkle has been in rather delicate health for the past four months and on Thursday evening when she went into the garden to attend to some things, the children became alarmed over her prolonged absence and went out to look for their mother. They found her lying unconscious in a dying condition. The doctor was sent for immediately but before he could arrive Mrs. Hinkle had passed away. Death was due to apoplexy.

Funeral services were held at 10 a. m. Friday by Rev. G. W. Tubbs at the Floydada cemetery. Several friends from Seymour attended the funeral, and also Mrs. Hinkle's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wiggins.

Her sister, Miss Gertie Hurd from Vera, her step brother, W. H. Wiggins with his family from Vera, and step sister, Mrs. Willie Hamilton and her family from Vera, all attended the services.

The Rev. Hamilton of Seymour an old family friend, also spoke a few words at the services.

Mrs. Hinkle is survived by her husband and six children.

D. W. Fyffe has returned from the Rio Grande Valley to spend the fall gathering the crops on his farms southwest of Floydada. Mrs. Fyffe and the children are located at McAllen for the winter.

Have you seen this new car? —It is a closed-open car!

A WEEK ago the new Studebaker Special Six DUPLEX-PHAETON was first announced.

Today, countless thousands of people are talking about this entirely new type of car.

One moment it is a closed car—in five seconds it can be transformed into a delightful, airy, open car. But it is always the closed car in deep soft cushions, beautiful fittings and finish and luxurious riding comforts.

When you see it and ride in it you will know why it has made so profound a sensation—you will realize then that it gives you more than the finest open car can ever give you, plus the comfort and protection of the closed car.

And all at the price of an open car!

And this is the new DUPLEX BODY on the famous Special Six Chassis.

Hundreds of thousands of owners all over this country and abroad have given the Studebaker Special Six a name for value, dependability and performance second to no other automobile.

The new Studebaker Special Six retains all the qualities which make great reputation—to these have been added every real improvement which science and owner-service could suggest.

Even aside from the sensational new DUPLEX BODY—the Studebaker Special Six has no superior in value in any car yet built. It was the conscientious intention of Studebaker in planning and designing the new Special Six to make it just such a leader—to that end every resource of the great Studebaker organization has been concentrated.

Even if we had the space we could not begin to tell you of the very many new and unusual features which indicate its superiority.

Certainly no words could do justice to its distinctive beauty.

In appearance it is unlike any other American car—yet its long, low, broad, sweeping lines are conservative, crisply stylish and in beautifully good taste.

Think of the new Studebaker Special Six Duplex-Phaeton as the ultimate in value and performance in a five-passenger car—think of it as a car matchless in practical convenience and desirability.

But to appreciate the sparkling beauty of its totally new lines you must see it. To know its perfection of operation and performance you must ride in it and drive it.

If you have not seen this NEW type car—come today!

VACATION TRIP SHORT

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Tinnin of the Tourist Hotel were forced to shorten their month's vacation trip on account of their baby's condition, and returned to Floydada last Friday night, after spending three weeks in Oklahoma and various points in Texas.

While visiting a syrup mill at Coalgate, Oklahoma, little Norris Edwin wandered off from his parents into a fire nearby and burned the soles of his feet. He recovered sufficiently for the party to continue on their trip, but after spending three weeks visiting relatives at Ft. Worth, Dallas, Ellis County and Electra, his condition became serious enough that his parents deemed it best to shorten their trip and return to Floydada.

They had originally planned to include Galveston in their itinerary.

On account of rain our Home Demonstration Club did not get to meet Wednesday, the 17th, but at a meeting called this afternoon, Monday, the 22nd, to attend to some business and arrange for the dress contest next Saturday, the 27th, which is to be held at Lockney, we were greatly enthused over the interest taken for entering the dress contest. We are also preparing for a community fair at Sand Hill which will be held October 10.

Our club is growing in interest and we know if we only attend each of the meetings we will learn more and more. We will report in the near future some of the work we have done since we organized our club.

Our next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. C. Clubb, Wednesday afternoon, October 1. Everyone is cordially invited to come. The program will be the same as was announced for the last meeting. Miss Faulkner will give us some very much needed help on the subject of "Preparing the Right Kind of Lunch for the School children."

FEED 'EM SAWDUST

A cheap grasshopper bait has been devised by research workers at the Wisconsin experiment station. Their formula substitutes sawdust for bran, which has for some years been used as the base of grasshopper poisons. Thorough tests indicate that the substitution of sawdust for bran does not interfere with the effectiveness of the poison, while it decreases the cost very materially. It is estimated that an acre may be treated with the Wisconsin formula at a cost of 10 to 15 cents. The formula as now used is as follows:

- Sawdust, 85 pounds.
- White arsenic, 5 pounds.
- Salt, 5 pounds.
- Water to moisten.
- Shorts, 15 pounds.

The sawdust, arsenic and salt are mixed dry; than water is added and the shorts are later mixed in well. This amount should be sufficient to treat ten to twelve acres.

The Wisconsin investigators have tested many materials for effectiveness as bait for the hoppers. Among the substances tried out were amyloacetate, common salt, calcium chloride, molasses, soap, apple oil, lemons and shorts. Of these, common salt was found to be the best, and is considered essential to the sawdust bait. The various other materials tested seemed to give results in some cases, but were not sufficiently effective to warrant the expense.—Wallace's Farmer.

THE UNIVERSITIES ARE NOT FOR THIS

A sporting writer predicts that most of the "boxing" champions of the future will be college men. Another one informs us that the University of Virginia has a "boxer" who would easily hold his own with the best men of his weight in the country, and that the Naval Academy has another. In the Philadelphia North American we find a dispatch saying that a student of Washington and Jefferson may become a professional "boxer".

We agree with these sport writers that the present athletic policy at some of our institutions is leading straight to this disgraceful result. Probably so-called "boxing" which is not remotely connected with the real science of boxing will soon offer us a champion who secured his first training at an institution supposed to produce gentlemen and probably "boxing" will not receive its death blow until the country is startled by just such a result.

There is no reason why the young men in our colleges should not be taught to box. There is no reason why they should not box. There is every reason why inter-collegiate boxing should not be permitted. This prize fight graft has a certain course to run before it becomes discredited and is suppressed. Let us hope that before it runs its course it is not permitted to fix a permanent disgrace upon some heretofore educational institution.

KANSAS CITY MARKET

Kansas City Stock Yards, Sept. 22.—Though cattle receipts were liberal the market held steady at last week's decline. Less dullness was evident in the trade and judging from the number of country buyers here there will be a better demand for stockers and feeders this week. Fed cattle were scarce and found a ready outlet. Hog prices were quoted up 10 to 15 cents, and with the strength late last week the market is 20 to 25 cents above last week's low point. Sheep receipts were the largest of the season.

Receipts today were 46,000 cattle, 7,000 hogs, and 21,000 sheep, compared with 48,000 cattle, 75,000 hogs, and 18,000 sheep a week ago, and 42,700 cattle, 28,500 hogs, and 11,450 sheep a year ago.
