Weinert Student Is Killed In Traffic Mishap Sunday Night

Danny Allen Earle, 20, of Weinert, was killed instantly about 8:20 p. m. Sunday when an automobile crashed into a kiddy wagon in which he was riding while being towed behind a farm tractor.

Earle, a sophomore student at Midwestern University in Wichita Falls, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Toots Earle of Weinert.

The fatal traffic accident happened on F-M Highway 267 seven-tenths of a mile northwest of Munday.

Earle was in the child's wagon being pulled by a four-wheel field tractor operated by Richard Michels, 14, of Rhine-land, small community north of Munday.

The automobile was driven by Gifford T. Wilde, 17, of Rt. 2, Munday, who received no injuries.

Michels was carried to Knox County Hospital in Knox City for treatment of minor injuries. Two other passengers in the car, Austin Tomlinson Sr. and Austin Tomlinson Jr., were not injured.

The automobile and the tractor pulling the small wagon were traveling south on the highway. Investigating officers said the car hit the tractor and small wagon from behind.

Earle's body was thrown into a nearby ditch by the impact, and was badly mangled below the waist. Body of the victim was taken to McCauley Funeral Home in Munday and later transferred to Holden Funeral Home here.

Earle and Michels reportedly had been irrigating most of the day and were en route home at the time of the mishap.

Support Program on Milo May Hurt Small Producer

The government's support program on milo may not work out to the benefit of the small producer, grain men here said this week.

This was in agreement with an article by Harold Monroe in Sunday's Fort Worth Star-Telegram, stating that the government began dumping milo on the market two weeks ago to prevent "non-cooperators" from benefiting from its grain support program.

On the contrary, the dumping is penalizing small farmers—both co-operators and non-cooperators—and eventually will work out to the benefit of big producers, whether or not they are co-operators, grain men pointed out.

The milo is being sold "at the market" but the market price has been going down because of the pressure of government selling. Quotations in Fort Worth, basis Texas common, are down as much as 18 cents per 100 pounds since the government selling started. Most co-operating farmers have both supported milo and "free milo," the latter representing the amount they raised above their allotments. In many cases these surpluses are large because in most counties weather has been favorable.

In the areas where the maize harvest has started, small producers are selling their "free milo" now at the market, and are getting the low prices occasioned by the government dumping.

However, the big operators are not selling—they are buying. This is taken as indication that growers who are sufficiently financed are willing to go "long" on milo because they are convinced prices will go higher when the government stops selling.

However, as the maize harvest gets underway and with a big crop in prospect, grain men fear that the small producer will be forced to sell his "free milo" at prevailing market price, since he will be able to get the support price only on grain from land in the program.

Vision Program Presented At Lions Luncheon

Carrying out the project for August on "Sight Conservation", Dr. Frank Scott and Dr. B. L. Langston, presented the program at the Lions Luncheon meeting Tuesday.

One of the longtime projects of Haskell Lions has been to furnish eye glasses for some needy boy or girl, so the Vision Conservation objectives of local Lions this month is adding greatly to the overall program of serving the community.

Using slides of classrooms and homes, to help their program, Dr. Scott and Dr. Langston emphasized that in order to carry out properly, visual care for the young, our homes and classrooms must have proper lighting.

Glare and insufficient lighting in the home or schools is a problem we must try to overcome, Dr. Scott and Dr. Langston pointed out.

Dr. J. G. Vaughter, Lions information chairman, read a letter from Frank Gonzales, program coordinator, Projects Good Neighbors, Lubbock, Texas, in which was stated how Texas Lions can help combat Communism in Mexico.

In the letter Mr. Gonzales said: "It was most unfortunate to hear Radio Moscow beam in a program to Mexico saying that people in Haskell were haters of Mexicans, and that they kicked them around."

Although the information beaming out of Moscow was false, Gonzales in a short note clipped to the letter said that he "would be glad to help America in the Cold War."

Roy Davidson, associate pastor of the First Baptist Church, was introduced as a new member, and Roy Weaver of Paris, Texas, was noted as a guest at Tuesday's luncheon.

Rev. Chick To Lead Revival at Roberts Church

"Bro. Chick needs no introduction to our people here," Rev. Hammer said, "having helped us the last two summers and now returning for his third engagement. He led us in two good meetings, and we hope this one shall be even better. We need your prayers and above all, your attendance will help greatly. Bro. Chick is a mighty gospel preacher and soul-winner."

There will be prayer groups for men and women, and a junior choir. Rev. Hammer said. Everyone is welcome.

Haskell County officers, joined by lawmen in neighboring counties along with State Rangers are working around the clock in an intensive search for the persons or persons responsible for the brutal slaying and robbery of P. J. White, 68, well-known Haskell man who was shot and fatally beaten last Thursday night.

White, former salesman here a number of years ago for International Harvester farm equipment had been employed in recent months as manager of a liquor store between Rule and Sagerton, about 14 miles southwest of Haskell.

He died around midnight last Thursday after being found fatally wounded in the small store, his assailants presumably having shot their way into the establishment shortly after it had closed for the night.

Sheriff Garth Garrett said Wednesday morning that an intensive investigation was underway and that a number of persons had been questioned. Sheriff Garrett and other local officers are being assisted by State Rangers Byron Currin of Wichita Falls and J. P. Lynch of Mineral Wells.

Discovery of the fatal shooting and robbery came about because a Rule Negro man, his wife and another Negro woman became suspicious when they noticed that lights in the liquor store were out but that the door of the small store was standing open.

The Negro man, Charlie Shaw, stopped his car and went to the door of the store and called out to see if the proprietor was inside.

Hearing a feeble answer, he went inside to find Mr. White lying on the floor unconscious, his hands and feet bound with small rope.

After untying the victim's hands and feet, the frightened Negroes drove hurriedly to Rule and reported the matter to Constable Raymond Denison.

The Rule officer, accompanied by the Negro man, returned to the liquor store, placed the victim in Constable Denison's car and brought him to the Rule Clinic. In the meantime Denison had radioed for a doctor to meet him at the Clinic and also radioed Sheriff Garth Garrett.

At the Rule Clinic the critically injured man was placed in a Pinkard Funeral Home ambulance and rushed to the Haskell Hospital. Death occurred at 11:45 p. m. Thursday, less than two hours from the time White was believed to have been attacked.

While in the ambulance bringing him to the hospital, the victim rallied partially under questioning and apparently tried to tell them his assailants were white men.

Sheriff Garrett and Constable Denison were joined by Deputies Pete Mercer and Jack Harvey, Police Chief Bull Barnett, Highway Patrol Sergeant Frank Jirick and Patrolmen Jesse Priest and Tommy Wood and they immediately arranged for setting up road blocks on all highways in the immediate area, with the cooperation of neighboring officers.

State Ranger Byron Currin of Wichita Falls was called in on the case and he came to Haskell early Friday morning to join in the investigation.

Checking the liquor store and vicinity officers theorized that the robbery and brutal attack occurred around 10:00 p. m. Thursday, normal closing time for the store.

The liquor store, owned by T. C. Tubbs, is located about six miles south of Rule on Highway 283, and is at least one-half mile distant from any farmhouse.

Investigating officers said the bullet which struck White had been fired at close range, the assailant firing through the screen door and shattering the glass panel of the main door. Particles and slivers of glass were imbedded in the victim's shirt and undershirt. White also was beaten severely about the head and left bound, his hands tied behind his back and his ankles also bound with what appeared to be light cotton rope or sash cord.

Fluorescent ceiling lights in the store were broken by the hijackers, pieces of the shattered bulbs falling on a small counter.

The store's receipts, estimated at something like $400, officers said, were taken from the cash register. Also, Mr. White's billfold was missing. It possibly contained several hundred dollars, as he was known to carry a substantial sum of money with him most of the time, relatives said.

Because of the store's isolated location, officers theorized that White's assailants had secreted themselves in a field of Johnson grass and sorghum alum directly across the highway. From that point they might have watched until White prepared to close the store before they moved in to rob the establishment.

The Tubbs Store is one of 10 or 12 beer and liquor stores now operating in the Sagerton Justice Precinct, and this is the first hijacking of any of the establishments, officers said.

Officers also described the slaying of White as one of the most brutal murders committed in the county in years. Some compared the incident to the killing of an elderly O'Brien woman in the late 1930s, who was found fatally beaten in her home and died without regaining consciousness.

Rites for Victim

Funeral service for Mr. White was held at 3 p. m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church, with the pastor, Rev. M. D. Rexrode, officiating.

Burial was in Willow Cemetery under direction of Holden Funeral Home.

Mr. White was a member of the First Christian Church.

Mr. White was a resident of Haskell for a number of years in the 30's, and was employed with a local implement concern. He lived in Abilene, and moved back to Haskell about a year ago and had been making his home with a daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Redwine, who live southwest of town.

Immediate survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Redwine of this city, and Mrs. Gaylon Head of Big Spring; a grandchild, Curtis Head of Big Spring; three granddaughters, Mrs. Bobby Henshaw of Odessa, Charlotte and Suzz Redwine of Haskell; two great-grandsons, Scott and Brady Henshaw of Odessa; a sister, Mrs. Ben Watson of Houston; and two brothers, Percy White of Houston and Bill White of Abilene.

Cemetery Working and Vacant Lot Clean-Up Is Scheduled August 16

A community beautification project which will include cutting weeds on vacant lots and a clean-up of Willow Cemetery has been scheduled for Wednesday, August 16, sponsored by the Rotary Club.

The cooperation of all other civic clubs and organizations as well as interested citizens has been invited and will be needed to make the project a success, Rotary Club President R. A. Lane said today.

Members of the club have volunteered the use of six tractors and six shredders to be used in cutting weeds on vacant lots, Lane said. He asked that persons desiring lots cleared of weeds notify him, Carl Anderson, or any member of the Rotary Club, in order that the work may be efficiently organized. Lots will be cleared of weeds only, and must be free of wires, trash or other rubbish in order for the shredders to be used.

At the cemetery, workers with hoes and rakes will be needed, and everyone willing to help is asked to report Wednesday morning. "This is a job for everyone interested in our cemetery, and we hope that a large number of volunteers will turn out," Lane said.

In connection with the cemetery clean-up, it has been announced that women of the community will serve dinner at Rice Springs Park at noon for all persons helping in the clean-up projects. Women who will help with the dinner are asked to bring a covered dish.

Snags 52-Pound Yellow Cat On Trot Line

A. L. (Loyd) Conner, who rates among the top builders and contractors in this section, is also skilled in other fields, he demonstrated this week.

Fishing at Lake Stamford Monday night, Conner hooked a 52-pound yellow catfish on a trotline. Running the line early Tuesday, Conner had quite a tussle with the big fish but managed to land him.

He exhibited his catch downtown Tuesday morning. The yellow cat is believed to be among, if not the largest, caught in the lake. Conner said he was baiting with shad.

Punishment Should Fit the Crime

The following statement by J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, is reprinted from the August issue of the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin:

Nothing discourages and disheartens law enforcement officers more than the knowledge that their efforts in apprehending criminals are too often more than useless expenditures of time and money—useless because unwarranted leniency in the form of suspended sentences, parole, or probation so frequently makes a mockery of good police work.

Assuredly, we must continually strive to rehabilitate those persons who have strayed from lawful ways. On the other hand, consideration must be given to protecting society by isolating depraved individuals who have no respect for law and order or the rights of others. The scales of justice must be balanced.

Certainly, the principles of parole, probation, and other rehabilitative measures are good, but maladministration can nullify their worthwhile aspects. Conscientious, hard-working parole and probation officers, frequently underpaid and seldom able to discharge the heavy burdens placed upon them by the archaic clemency systems still existing in some areas, are just not equipped to cope with ever-expanding caseloads. Adding to their dilemma are some misinformed and misguided jurists and an apathetic citizenry who cause and condone the release of hardened criminals who glottingly accept society's softness and repay it in the coin of treachery.

The realm of vice, which is the breeding ground for crimes of greater violence, is winked at in far too many instances. A recent preliminary survey on courts in a large city revealed, for example, that of almost 30,000 individuals arrested for lottery, numbers rackets, gambling, bookmaking, prostitution, and operating a disorderly house, 73 percent were discharged by magistrates. Out of well over 800 gamblers who pleaded guilty, only 12 percent ever went to jail! Fifty-eight percent were ordered to pay fines or costs—which have been correctly described as nothing more than license fees for gamblers. Two hundred and fifty others were given suspended sentences or placed on probation.

When vice, the very fountainhead of crime, is treated lightly, it is not difficult to understand why criminals do not fear the "wrath" of some of this Nation's courts. Inevitably criminals who prey on honest men and still escape punishment are encouraged in their disdain for law and go on to commit depredations of even more heinous crimes.

America is not a vengeful land, it is not a cruel land; but certainly something must be done to make it an internally peaceful land. Crime in 1960 rose 12 percent over the previous year, and in the first quarter of 1961 our country appears headed for a new all-time high annual record. The first part of this year shows an increase of 10 percent in crime in American cities, with a 9 percent jump in murders, a 2 percent rise in forcible rapes, and a 3 percent increase in aggravated assaults.

Between March 1950 and June 1961, there have been 154 individuals on the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives" list. Of this number, 130 previously received either suspended sentences, parole, or probation. The leniency granted these vicious criminals resulted in untold suffering by their innocent victims.

For a peaceful and wholesome society, it is imperative that the rights of law-abiding citizens be given at least the same respect and consideration as the rights of lawbreakers. We can never hope to see crime abate until the perpetrators of evil deeds are taught the full meaning of the old adage, "Crime doesn't pay." Such a lesson cannot be taught by words alone; only stern action in our courts, involving a philosophy of making the punishment fit the crime, and realistic administration of rehabilitative measures can force back the criminal plague.

People, Places & Things

A big community "Thank You" is due Roy (Buck) Everett and Wallace Stark for their untiring work and outstanding achievement in guiding Haskell's Little League All Stars to the district finals recently.

Also due thanks and praise for an excellent job in carrying out the entire summer program are Little League officials, "Dude" Mercer, president; Bill Ratliff, vice president; Desmond Dulaney, secretary and treasurer; Mary Wiseman, official scorer, and Bert Kregger, player agent.

Due a large share of credit also are the various team managers and assistants, the umpires, and above all the loyal mothers and dads of the future American and National League players.

The saying that "All's fair in love and war" might also be applied to summer softball teams, particularly in the heat of final play-off games, observes Tom Watson.

In some of the teams organized here in the summers immediately after the War, the players would do anything they could get by with in order to win.

He told of an instance when two players on his team "lead-ed" a bat in order to give them more power in batting. A hole was drilled in the end of the bat, filled with lead and then a wooden plug was inserted.

When it came time for one of the players to bat, he took the doctored bat, waited for a hard, outside fast pitch and knocked the ball a country mile when he caught it on the tip of his bat.

As the ball sailed away, almost disappearing from sight in a near-orbit the manager of the opposing team smelled a mouse and made a run for the bat.

But he was too late, the batter's companion had already grabbed the bat and took off for his car outside the ball park, where he locked the bat in the rear compartment of his car.

Demand of the opposing manager that he be permitted to examine the bat were met with polite refusals and the explanation that "the bat isn't ours, and we were not supposed to use it."

Last Sunday's Feature Magazine in the Wichita Falls Times carried a story about pigeons becoming a nuisance in that city. A flock of pigeons was pictured on the front page of the magazine, reminiscent of the hundreds of feathered creatures to be seen daily around the old courthouse here a number of years ago.

Before the courthouse was remodeled in 1931, the loft between the third floor ceiling and the clock tower of the building provided an ideal haven for pigeons.

Since almost every boy in town (and some grown ups) owned a flock of pigeons back in the early days of the century when the courthouse was built, it didn't take the stray pigeons long to find their section of the courthouse.

In the story in the Wichita Falls newspaper it was stated that no satisfactory method had been found to deal with the pigeon problem.

That seemed to have prevailed here until progress stepped in, the courthouse was remodeled, and the roosting and nesting place of the pigeons was removed.

Persons now considered "oldtimers" will recall that one of their best friends in boyhood days was the late "Uncle Bob" Hollis, who was janitor at the courthouse.

Although the Commissioners Court had rules against boys being permitted to climb around the loft of the building, and on its roof, "Uncle Bob" would conveniently leave the stairway door leading into the loft unlocked sometimes when he went up to wind the large clock in the courthouse steeple.

When that happened, a half dozen or more young boys would raid the hundreds of nests in the loft, sacking up squabs and almost-grown pigeons by the score.

These raids were frequent, but hardly made a dent in the pigeon population. On several occasions, "shoots" were organized, with hunters gathering in the early morning hours to completely surround the courthouse. Ammunition used was the smallest shotgun pellets available, and at a given signal the hunters would blast off at the pigeons roosting around the eaves of the building. Then for several minutes the frightened birds would swirl around the building until literally hundreds were slaughtered.

This method came nearer than anything else to eliminating the pigeon menace, but public disapproval soon banned the practice.

On the subject of pigeons, Brooks Middleton tells the following which should qualify for the world's corniest:

"Either learn to fly today," said the mother pigeon angrily, "or I'll tie a cord on you and tow you around!"

"But mother," cried the little pigeon, "I don't want to be pigeon-towed!"

The feat of two Haskell men in bringing back a brown bear they killed in Colorado recently, brings to mind stories told by old-timers to the effect that a few bears were killed in the breaks of the Double Mountain Fork of the Brazos back around the '30's.

Although deer and antelope were the most common big game, a bear was seen occasionally in the rough country around Kiowa Peak near the northwest corner of the county. However, they were never common to this country, and the few reported killed were believed to have been strays drifting north from the Big Bend country.

We've never been over the route, but we have often wondered if the old Haskell-Albany wagon road could be traced out today and followed between the two towns.

A part of it, no doubt, was flooded when the Stamford Lake was built but aside from that detour the rest of the route should be passable today.

If Haskell's riding Dr. Bob Middleton's recent horseback jaunt to Parker County has the effect of stimulating interest of riding club members in "trail rides" they might consider a re-ride of the Haskell-Albany road as a project.

There are possibly some old-timers here who could pick out the general route of the old road.

All travel would necessarily have to be horseback, because not even a jeep could negotiate the route today which once was traveled daily by stagecoach between the two towns.

One early-day settler here, who later became a prominent landowner and leading citizen, didn't believe in squandering money for the luxury of stagecoach travel, especially when he wasn't in a hurry.

Arriving in Albany, nearest railroad point to Haskell, he began asking questions about the distance to his destination. Being referred to the stagecoach driver at a nearby livery stable, the newcomer asked the fare to Haskell. Told that the one-way fare was $1.50, he inquired about the distance, and learned it was about 35 miles.

Not being in a hurry, he figured an extra day getting to Haskell wouldn't matter so he decided to save the $1.50.

After spending 20 cents for food, which included a box of soda crackers, cheese and other "grub" he took out on foot. He spent the night at the crossing on the Clear Fork of the Brazos, and late the next afternoon trudged into Haskell.

Telling of the walk in later years, he claimed that he had a better look at the country by traveling on foot. He also pointed out that some of the first land he bought was southeast of Haskell along the route of his journey here on foot.

FOR SUDEX... "the only answer"

This is the Servis Gyro-84 with windrow attachment really doing right by a field of ten-foot Sudex.

It belongs to Paul H. Fischer, Route #3, Haskell, Texas. Here's what he has to say:

"This unit is the only answer for the cutting and windrowing of Sudex and similar crops for baling. Required time for curing is cut in half, and it makes for easier handling by the baler."

The heavy-duty Gyro sails through growth that breaks down a sickle bar mower. And there is no need for raking (even if your rake would handle this heavy mat the inexpensive little attachment rear throws up a neat, loose windrow right for quick drying, easy baling. Curing time is cut drastically. Bec Gyro breaks up the stalk, drying — ready for the baler in about instead of the 15 to 20 normally. As Mr. Fischer says, this is the the only answer—if you want to and similar crops. For further demonstration contact your Servis right away.

Good Dove Season Will Depend Upon Weather, Weeds

With fewer than 30 days until the opening of the mourning dove season in the North Zone, Sept. 1, there is still a great deal of speculation as to how plentiful this year's crop will be. According to Howard Dodgen, executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission, some hot, dry weather is needed to ripen feed seed, and darken considerably the green effect of the present abundance of foliage.

In parts of West Texas where there hasn't been too much rain, weed seeds are now ripening, according to information received in Austin. In these cases, the doves seem to be plentiful at the present time. However, the abundance of rain in Central Texas has vegetation very lush, and weed seeds are not yet ripening. Since water holes have been filled completely, this will tend to scatter late evening dove shooting around the water holes.

So, according to the executive secretary, it is anybody's guess as to how good the dove season will be. On the other hand, the quail crop right now looks to be in top condition. There are still a few nesting birds, but for the most part there have been heavy hatches in practically every part of the state. As a result, a big crop of birds is reported in areas where there were practically no birds last year.

Under the general laws, the quail season will open Dec. 1. The Game Commission will set the quail season in regulatory counties at its quarterly meeting early in October.

In 1960 Texas traffic, one person was killed every three hours and 43 minutes; one was injured every hour and 35 minutes; a traffic crash was recorded every 100 seconds.

Christmas Season Will Feature New Look In Parade, Decorations

The 1961 Christmas Season in Haskell will open on Friday, Dec. 1, with a downtown parade at 4 p. m., according to announcement of Harold Spain, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Christmas planning committee.

New Christmas decorations will be installed around the courthouse square to provide a "new look" for the business section.

The committee has also adopted new plans relative to the annual parade entries. Instead of building floats, as in the past, this year merchants will sponsor an entry in a Children's Parade.

Under the new plans, the 1961 Christmas Parade will be a Children's Parade. All children in Haskell County will be eligible to participate up to Junior High School students.

The Rotary Club will again sponsor a Kiddie's Pet Parade, as a special section of the main parade.

Merchants sponsoring entries will provide or furnish all material used in the entry. Nursery rhymes or any theme relative to the Christmas Season, will be used.

$150 in Cash Prizes All merchant's entries must carry a placard identifying the sponsor. All entries must be listed with the Chamber of Commerce on or before Nov. 27.

The parade will be in two divisions, with a total of $150 in cash prizes to be awarded, $75 in the Children's Division and $75 in the Clubs and Organizations Division.

Prize money will be in three awards in each division, as follows: First Prize, $35.00; Second Prize $25.00; Third Prize, $15.

OUR DAILY BLESSINGS

We plow the fields and scatter
 The good seed on the land,
 But it is fed and watered
 By God's Almighty hand;
 He sends the snow in winter,
 The warmth to swell the grain,
 The breezes and the sunshine,
 And soft refreshing rain.

He only is the Maker
 Of all things near and far;
 He paints the wayside flower,
 He lights the evening star;
 The winds and waves obey Him,
 By Him the birds are fed;
 Much more to us, His children,
 He gives our daily bread.

—Matthias Claudius

The sponsors of this church page urge church support and attendance, thereby bringing about a better understanding of the extraordinary part our religious ideals have contributed toward making our American way of life the greatest in the world.

We realize the laudable part our Churches play in community life . . . their contribution in both a spiritual and material sense toward community welfare and common good. These Churches, their teachings and their membership exert a tremendous influence that touches every home and every business. This function they have in common with our schools, civic bodies and other organizations. All of whom through various methods perform services for the good and benefit of all . . . In recognition of the splendid ideals and achievements of the Haskell churches, we urge everyone to attend Church services.

POGUE'S 113 NORTH AVENUE E

The above sketch shows one of the most thrilling of rodeo sports, roping a wild buffalo, a contest that will be presented here Aug. 19. It will be one of the events staged by Hackberry Johnson in his Buffalo Rodeo, sponsored by the Haskell County Sheriff's Posse. Only one performance will be given, at 8 p. m., Aug. 19, in Rice Springs Rodeo arena.

"HACKBERRY" WASN'T FORGOTTEN

AFTER 40 YEARS, MANY RECALL WHEN WILD BUFFALO BROKE LOOSE IN WEINERT

Although 40 years have passed, the episode of the "wild buffalo in Weinert" is still vivid in the memory of several Haskell people, former residents of that community when it was a booming, zooming trading center for a large territory in Haskell and Knox counties.

The return of a veteran rodeo producer, "Hackberry" Slim Johnson, who has booked a rodeo show here for Aug. 19, recalled the wild buffalo incident which took place when he staged his first rodeo in Weinert exactly 40 years ago. "Hackberry" breezed into Weinert in the Spring of 1914.

His chief attraction aside from the usual string of untamed broncs, was a wild buffalo bull called "Tecumseh's Graveyard" and described as a man-killer that few cowboys had ever ridden.

Stanley Furrh, local insurance man, real estate dealer and owner of the Texas Cafe, recalls that he, Myron Baird, Haskell cleaning plant operator, "Scotch" Coggins, local insurance broker, all ex-Weinert natives, were willing helpers in assisting "Hackberry" getting set up for the big rodeo. Also, there were Manuel Medley, Lee (Peggy) Lucas, Hoyt Gilbreath, and others.

Rodeo pens were built just south of the R. B. Spencer lumber yard in Weinert, where several vacant lots provided ideal space for the show, which was booked for two nights, Friday and Saturday.

The whole town buzzed with excitement the entire week as preparations for the big rodeo went ahead, and business in all lines boomed. Furrh, working for the late Pete Rich in his meat market, put in 10 hours daily, and Coggins, barber shop owner, was kept busy from early to late "slicking up" the natives with 15-cent shaves and haircuts as they "splurged" for the big event.

Friday night finally rolled around and the first rodeo performance got under way. After a session of bronc riding and bull dogging, the feature event was announced—an attempt would be made to ride "Tecumseh's Graveyard."

The buffalo bull was maneuvered into a chute, where Furrh, Baird, Gilbreath and a few other daredevils volunteered to get a surcingle on the brute.

At first attempt, the buffalo bellowed a couple of times, lowered his head and charged out of the chute. Pausing in the middle of the arena momentarily he then headed for the arena fence as the crowd scattered. He crashed through the inner wooden fence sending timbers flying, and bawling still louder, hit the outside wire fence and dragged wire and posts with him as he headed for freedom.

In the meantime the crowd had scattered pell-mell for safety, fearful that the man-killing buffalo might return.

That broke up the rodeo, as "Hackberry" and a few—very few—cowboys he recruited made a faint-hearted attempt to run down and capture "Tecumseh."

Next day, however, "Tecumseh" was located browsing on the prairie and meekly allowed himself to be driven back to the rodeo corral.

And that night (it being Saturday, the boys had a little more vim) Furrh, Baird and the other helpers strapped a surcingle on the buffalo. The rider, Manuel Medley, now a Santa Rosa, N. M., businessman, and quite a bronc rider in his younger days, managed to stay on "Tecumseh" for three or four jumps, sufficient to qualify for a $5 award offered anyone who would attempt the feat.

Despite the fact that many Weinert residents were terrified by the thought of a wild buffalo bull being loose in the community, this did not hurt attendance at the Saturday performance when they were rewarded by seeing the fearsome-looking beast ridden.

Does "Hackberry" remember the incident? It was the first thing he mentioned after running into Furrh this week, the first time he had seen him in a number of years.

SPEND VACATION IN RUIDOSA, N. M.

CARD OF THANKS

Jesus' Promise: I am the Resurrection, and the Life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. (St. John 11:25). Therefore we are always confident, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord (for we walk by faith, not by sight). We are confident, I say, and willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord. (II. Cor. 5:6-8). To Rev. I. A. Burns, the First Assembly of God Church, host of neighbors, friends and relatives, Thank You for the many ways in which you helped us during our recent bereavement. We deeply appreciate your prayers and deeds of kindness. —The E. G. Graham Family.
