of C. Committees Reduced in Number

The standing committees of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce were reduced in number from seven to five Friday night's meeting, each committee being represented by a member of the executive committee elected at the opening of the fiscal year of the organization.

The committees and the personnell the same are: Membership and Entertainment: O. P. Rutledge, chairman; J. G. Wood, R. T. Stribling; Civic and Camp House: R. E. Fry, chairman; M. L. Kizziar, W. M. Willson, chairman; J. U. Borum, Roy L. Snodgrass.

The meeting dealt principally with the need for more work, following the naming of the standing committees. T. Scott Wilson spoke on the need for hearty backing of the boys' and girls' club work, and the boys and girls to be our greatest investments; and T. W. Scisbury called attention to the need for more systematic in the business district and in this connection.

It was reported that the program had been ordered free planting for planting residents.

A. P. McKinnon is Special District Judge

Judge A. P. McKinnon has been special judge this week in District Court. Judge R. C. Joiner has been detained at home since Sunday by the illness of himself and his wife. Attorneys present at the court Monday morning elected Judge McKinnon to act as judge during the absence of Judge Joiner.

Judge Joiner may return the middle or latter part of this week. However, a special trial judge is to fill his place by agreement and appointment of the governor on Friday in a land suit in which Judge Joiner is disqualified. G. E. Hamilton, of Matador, is to preside in the case. It will open Friday morning upon the latter's return from a business trip to Austin.

The grand jury in a report Tuesday night returned 5 felony indictments and 18 misdemeanor indictments into court.

The criminal docket is set for Monday morning of next week when a special venire of seventy men in addition to the regular jury panel will report for service.

LOCAL LEGION POST MAKING MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

The local post of the American Legion at their meeting Monday night made plans for an extensive membership campaign. The present membership was divided into two companies, the evens and the odds, and with Roy Snodgrass and John Maxwell as captains they will open their drive at the next meeting night, Monday, March 19.

Each new member will count ten points for the company that enrolls him and attendance will count five points. At the close of the drive the side having the smaller number of points will be obligated to furnish an entertainment for the winners.

An added attraction is promised for the next meeting night in the form of a boxing bout between Bob Fitzsimmons McGuire and John Jefferies Maxwell.

MRS. PHEBE K. WARNER TO GIVE GRADUATION ADDRESS

Mrs. Phebe K. Warner, of Claude, Texas, will make the graduation address for the class of 1923 of Floydada High School, it is announced by J. N. Johnston.

MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION MAKING MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The meeting Wednesday morning president and directors of the Merchants' Association plans to make for an extensive membership campaign.

It was decided that the association meet regularly once each month. The secretary has requested that the members turn in their ratings each month.

RURAL SCHOOL INSPECTOR HERE

James, secretary of the Rural Division, State Department and inspector of rural schools, will be here for the first three days of the month in company with E. C. Nelson on an inspection tour of the Rural Schools, 13 in number, in the application for state aid.

They spent Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with the schools in the respective districts.

On Friday night Mr. James declared that out of the thirteen schools inspected at that time he had not found a single school financial record yet found in his trips to the schools, indicating possibly that the schools would not be recommended for state aid because, apparently, they did not need it.

On Tuesday was spent in the districts of the west part of the county. Wednesday was spent in the east part of the county.

MRS. GARISON TO ABILENE

Mrs. Doyle Garison, who has resided two years have been residing in this city, left Saturday morning for Abilene where they plan to spend the winter.

They were here for a short time with Mrs. J. A. Blackwell, before leaving.

They left Friday night for Abilene to attend the Fat Stock

"Novelty Five" to Broadcast March 20

"The Novelty Five," Floydada orchestra organization will broadcast an hour's program from WBAP, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram on Tuesday evening, March 20th. The idea of the program to be given by this organization was fostered by local radio fans, and the expense of the trip to Fort Worth is being borne by local people.

A considerable bit of advertising for Floydada is expected to be obtained from the hour's broadcasting program by "The Novelty Five."

PEN OF FIVE REDS LAY 115 EGGS IN FEBRUARY

Mrs. E. J. Loe, of Pleasant Hill, has a pen of five Rhode Island Red hens which laid 115 eggs during the month of February.

These hens were hatched last spring, began laying the following December and have laid continuously since but no separate record of their egg production was kept until the first of February. It would be interesting to know if anyone else has hens whose egg-laying record, determined accurately, excels this.

WAYLAND COLLEGE BOARD ELECTS SCHOOL FACULTY

The Board of Regents of Wayland Baptist College met Monday of this week at the college and elected a faculty for the ensuing year. Dr. E. B. Atwood being re-chosen as president and the entire faculty re-elected. Dr. McDonald, at present head of the Mathematics Department, was elected dean of the school.

J. Pat Horton, pastor of the Baptist Church in Floydada, is a member of the board and was present at Monday's meeting.

"LAW ENFORCEMENT IN THE COMMUNITY," SERMON SUBJECT

"Law Enforcement in the Community" is the subject announced by Rev. J. Pat Horton for his sermon Sunday morning at the Baptist Church, and the officers of the county and grand jurors have been formally invited to hear the sermon.

The pastor has announced that the sermon will have local rather than just a general application to this much-discussed subject.

BAKER SCHOOL PROGRAM

The Baker School gave a splendid school entertainment last Friday evening. Mrs. J. M. Parsons had charge of the program. The Baker community is now coming into its own.

The people are fortunate in having a good brick school house and Mr. and Mrs. Parsons for their teachers.

Supt. J. N. Johnston, of Floydada, addressed the audience on the advantages of a good home school for the boys and girls, and upon the future outlook for success along educational lines. He stressed the thought that a tax for schools is not a burden but an investment.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Cumberland Presbyterian Church is expecting to hold a Religious Educational Week beginning March 18th to March 25th.

There will be two services a day and we hope to have varied programs at each meeting that will be inspirational.

A full program will be announced later.

O. N. BAUCOM, Pastor.

FLOYD CO. PRODUCTS GET STOCK SHOW PRIZES

Echoes from the exhibit staged by the Floydada Chamber of Commerce at Dallas last fall are still being heard. Last fall after the fair a large part of Floyd County's exhibit was taken to Waco Cotton Palace for the All-West Texas Exhibit, and helped to win the capital prize given for regional display of products.

And a part of the exhibit was preserved for use at Fort Worth this spring at the Fat Stock Show. Tuesday's Star-Telegram carried a story of the prizes awarded at this show which included awards to Floyd County products as follows: Feterita heads, third; kafir heads, fourth; threshed red milo, first.

WHEAT LOOKING GOOD

Wheat raisers declare that wheat is looking fine and some of them say the moisture under the crop is deep enough and the roots of the grain so well set that the plants are going to do well up into the edge of April without more rain. This seems to be true particularly of early wheat, which looks better at this time of the season than it has in a number of years.

For late-planted wheat there are more qualifying aspects. If more moisture and another good freeze or two comes on late-planted wheat it is going to do good, too, according to informed wheat growers, but on the other hand much of the late-planted crop is going to have to have a freeze regardless of the moisture that falls, they say.

Grain growers generally are talking in an optimistic tone, saying that moderately favorable conditions in the late part of the season will insure at least a fair crop of small winter grain.

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. I. T. May, March 6, a daughter.

Pitzer Baker was among the Floydada people who attended the opening of the Fat Stock Show and Exposition at Fort Worth the latter part of last week.

$137,000 Real Estate Deal Closed Last Week

In a real estate deal the past week involving a total consideration of $137,000 the W. J. Franks Ranch property in East Floyd County changed hands, the present owner selling to Lanier & Ellis, of Crowell, Texas, Gamble Land & Cattle Company made the deal.

Mr. Franks will give possession at the close of the present crop year and the new owners are making preparations to cut the ranch, which consists of 3,614 acres, up into smaller tracts for farming. The place now has four sets of improvements. Five or six more sets of improvements will be added and the entire tract put into cultivation or close pasture. Several hundred acres of sod land on the ranch has already been contracted to be broke during the coming spring and summer.

TELEPHONE PLANT CHIEF MAKES LOCAL INSPECTION

M. D. Oliver, of Amarillo, district plant chief for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, spent two days last week in an inspection of the telephone exchange outside plant at Floydada.

TREES FOR TREE-PLANTING DAY ARE DELAYED

Trees for the Chamber of Commerce "Tree Planting Day" in Floydada, set for today, are delayed on account of rain, according to a telegram received by Maury Hopkins, secretary, this morning from the growers, and will be received during the earlier part of next week according to present information.

More than a hundred trees had been ordered and practically every hole for every tree ordered has been dug awaiting the receipt of the trees. The reason given for failure to make shipments is that it was too wet the first of this week to dig the trees.

ATTEND EPWORTH LEAGUE INSTITUTE AT TULIA

The Senior Epworth League of the First Methodist Church of this city sent a strong delegation to the League Institute of Plainview District held at Tulia last Saturday and Sunday. Floydada had the second largest representation at the meeting, Hereford ranking first.

The institute will be held in Floydada next year.

Tech Jubilee Great Gathering of Westerners

7,000 Visitors Spent Friday in Sweetwater—Local Delegation in Evidence

The jubilee at Sweetwater last Friday was one of the biggest gatherings of West Texans ever assembled, declare the members of the Floydada delegation present, and every town or county represented made some of the noise which went with the jubilee and made it one of the noisiest demonstrations staged in recent years.

E. C. Nelson, Sr., W. M. Massie, L. G. Mathews, A. C. Goen and J. C. Newsum made up the contingent from Floydada. All thought of a set program for the morning, which had been arranged, was abandoned when it was found that the crowds could not be brought to a stop long enough for formalities. Stunts of the many delegations, mass band playing and other features took up the entire forenoon.

In the afternoon Dr. P. C. Coleman, of Colorado; Judge M. E. Rosser, of Snyder; Representative Chitwood of Sweetwater; Senator Bledsoe of Lubbock; Dr. J. D. Sandifer of Abilene; and former Governor W. P. Hobby made addresses. Governor M. M. Neff made the principal address.

Pursuant to call of the governor the Board of Regents of the new school were called in their first session at this time and place, and went into permanent organization. Among G. Carter, of Fort Worth, was elected chairman of the board; R. A. Underwood, of Plainview, vice chairman; and C. W. Meadow, of Waco, permanent secretary. Silliman Evans, a newspaper reporter, was temporary secretary of the board at its first meeting.

The Floydada delegation called on the governor and talked informally with him while at the meeting.

Local Men to Develop Shallow Field Oil

The Number 1 well on the Carter tract of land located in the shallow Moran field, drilled by local interests, was brought in Thursday of last week. The pay sand was struck at a depth of about 670 feet and the estimated output is thirty barrels a day. Work will begin on well Number 2 at an early date.

The well was drilled by W. L. Jackson and Frank Tye, both of this city. Local men having interests in the well are: W. L. Jackson, C. Surginer, Sam Abston, N. A. Armstrong, Tom Warren and T. S. Stevenson.

"OLD MAIDS' CLUB" HARMONY LYCEUM NUMBER FRIDAY

"The Old Maids' Club" is the title of a play to be presented tomorrow night at Harmony School House as the second number of a six-number series of entertainments of the Harmony Home Lyceum Course.

The play is to be presented by the ladies of the community. The new staged the first entertainment. It was a minstrel show.

While sickness of the past few weeks has somewhat disarranged the planned schedule arrangements are going ahead to complete the six numbers by the latter part of May.

The Home Lyceum is developing talent of which the community was unaware, it is said, and is considered one of the most forward-looking undertakings of any community in the county in a number of years.

HANDKERCHIEF SHOWER

The members of the Number 1 Union of the Intermediate B. Y. P. gave Mrs. Doyle Garison a delightful handkerchief shower at her home on Monday evening of last week.

Mrs. Garison has been leader of this division of the Union for several months. When she resigned her place last week to leave Floydada for their new home at Abilene, Mrs. Garison said it had been a great pleasure to work with the young people of the community, who are among the finest with whom it has ever been her pleasure to associate.

Tom Deaton, of Antelope, underwent an operation this week.

Mrs. W. M. Lankston was operated on for appendicitis Monday.

to make announcement of the follow-dicated, at the City Election to be held on April 3rd, 1923:

For City Assessor, Collector and Secretary:

- E. PLEAS NELSON.

FOR MAYOR OF FLOYDADA

- F. P. HENRY
- A. L. BISHOP

An ordinance of the City of Floydada, read at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Friday night, should be kept in mind by Floydada people in making their donations to strangers who come into town with selling, soliciting or begging propositions. This ordinance requires the solicitor to call on the mayor, explain his proposition and get a permit, for which the person solicited may properly call. An instance where this ordinance protected the people occurred a few weeks ago when the mayor, upon investigation of a solicitor for a "rescue home," was finally offered a commission to give the permit. Not everyone who asks is worthy to receive. Those who are worthy can prove it, while those who are unworthy should have it proven on them. The ordinance does not prohibit local people from asking for contributions or subscriptions for local benefit organizations.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

The Federal Reserve Board, in its report to Congress last week came out flatly in the declaration that "Cooperative marketing is the one best method of relieving distress that has gripped agriculture for the past two years," and declared "It must be accomplished through relaxation of the present banking laws governing farm credits," and the suggesting to the Congress that that body has it in its power to accomplish this result by ameliorating the iron clad restrictions of the Federal Reserve act. The broad provisions of the Capper Bill, which has been widely heralded, the board says will go far toward accomplishing this result.

Acting Governor Edmund Platt, of the Reserve Board, told Congress a thing we all have suspected for sometime, namely that the farmer "has suffered the greatest loss of all classes in the country's industrial structure."

Earl B. Mayfield will be sworn in as United States Senator from Texas, with a contest for his seat in process.
If there is an extra session of congress
before next December the contest proceedings will be heard. If the congress is not called into session, which is unlikely, then the case will be heard at the opening of the session next December. Unless those in charge of the contest have more to offer than the press dispatches report, Mayfield will be seated.—Randall County News.

The Mayfield controversy in Texas newspapers is getting less than a fourth of a column per day but in Washington and New York City it is getting from four to six columns per day. It seems true that unless the claim that Mayfield expended too much money in the primary can be proven, the case will fall down and the dispatches we get do not indicate that this proof is available.

Memphis, on the Denver, is preparing to make war against the railway which serves them. The bone of contention is a new depot to which Memphis people think themselves entitled.
At a meeting last week officials of the Denver told the Memphis people
the new depot could not now be built, and according to The Herald, would not be included in a future budget.
The Herald is advocating "war to the knife" against the railway company, recalling that back in "the old days"
the first recognition Memphis got from the railway people was by soap-ing the track and forcing the trains to stop. The Herald says "Memphis will get nothing from the Denver without 'putting the screws to them!'" While we are not in position to judge the controversy thus far away nor do we know the temper of the Denver Railroad. But we never heard a more dangerous doctrine preached by a newspaper than that of The Herald.
Thirty years ago the "public be damned" may have been the attitude of the railroad people, and the Denver may have that attitude still. We do not know, though we have a guess that is widely at variance with that idea.
What we do feel most sure of is that

Mrs. S. W. Ross

an appeal to prejudice against railroads and against large holders of property in general is the best way in the world to kill a good town. What we can't understand is why the Memphis people and the Denver people could not submit their varying ideas to a competent tribunal, if they must go that far, without "making war to the knife."

That the people of Memphis, or possibly its just the editor of The Herald, have the wrong idea in their fight upon the Denver for a new depot is indicated by an editorial in The Herald about the salaries of railroad presidents, something similar to which we've all read time and again:

"The salaries paid by railroads are often exorbitant, and still the people have to pay them, in increased freight rates. The highest salary recorded is that of Julius Kruttschmidt, chairman of the board, Southern Pacific, $100,000. Next highest is that of A. H. Smith, president New York Central, $92,580; C. H. Markham, president Illinois Central, $75,000;
William Sproule, president Southern Pacific, $75,000; E. Pennington, president, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault St. Marie, $75,000; and others range from $50,000 up."

The cheapest help the Santa Fe ever hired was E. P. Ripley, the grand old man of railroading in the west and southwest. We must admit that railroad companies, doubtless, hire men at big salaries who can't deliver the goods. But the railway usually pays the penalty for the bad judgment of its directors. The idea that all high-salaried men are paid too much and that the public pays the bill in increased freight and passenger rates is wrong. One of the best-paying investments the Santa Fe has is the money the company puts in the salary of W. B. Storey, its president.

"GOODS OF THE BETTER KIND"

The Early History of Floyd County

By Claude V. Hall

3. Movement Presaging Settlement

During the years from 1870 to 1876 events took place which foretold the early settlement of the hitherto unoccupied regions embraced in Young and Bexar Territories. The vast herds of buffaloes were being exterminated, and the hordes of marauding Indians were being driven back to their reservations. Thus this great expanse of country was ready for settlement. The Legislature of Tex. at once saw the expediency of converting Young and Bexar Territories into new counties. Besides, the present Constitution of Texas was being put into effect. All hindrances to the rapid development of Texas had fled. Fifty-five new counties were created in short order. By an act approved January 22, 1875, Crockett County was created out of the portion of Bexar which lay south of Tom Green County. The following year the last vestige of the so-called territories of Bexar and Young was removed by the act approved August 21, 1876, whereby the present counties of Lipscomb, Ochiltree, Hamford, Sherman, Dallam, Hartley, Moore, Hutchison, Roberts, Hemphill, Wheeler, Gray, Carson, Potter, Oldham, Deaf Smith, Randall, Armstrong, Donley, Hollingsworth, Childress, Hall, Briscoe, Swisher, Castro, Parmer, Cottle, Motley, Floyd, Hale, Lamb, Bailey, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, King, Stonewall, Kent, Garza, Lynn, Terry, Yoakum, Fisher, Scurry, Borden, Dawson, Gaines, Andrews, Martin, Howard, Mitchell, and Nolan. This act repealed that by which Wegfarth County was created in 1873. It made provision for the judicial and land business of the new counties thereby created. Hale, Motley, Floyd, Briscoe, Swisher, and other counties "were attached to the county of Jack for judicial, surveying, and all other purposes." The counties of Dickens and Crosby, along with other counties were attached to Young County for land and judicial purposes.

After the organization of Donley County, March 22, 1882, it was manifest that the counties in its vicinity could be benefitted by authorizing the transaction of their land business nearer home. Therefore, by an act approved April 9, 1883, the Donley Land District composed of the counties of Donley, Carson, Armstrong, Swisher, Randall, Floyd Briscoe, Hall and Childress were created. By the terms of this act, "the county surveyor of Donley County shall be the surveyor of said district; he shall keep his office at the county seat of said Donley County, and the records of all files and surveys of land in said district shall be kept in said office."

4. Significance of Bexar County

The accounts of the establishment of new counties in Western Texas usually contain the words "created from Bexar Territory". This expression is due to the Department of Bexar was an original political unit at the time Texas severed her relations with Mexico in 1836. Bexar County embraced an immense area of Western Texas. San Antonio, the county seat, was in the southeast corner of the Bexar County of that time. As a matter of fact, Bexar County has been diminished to its present size by the Legislature's carving out of Bexar County, or Bexar Territory, from year to year, the great number of counties now found on the map of Western Texas. The reduction of area and the transformation in the shape of Bexar County were wrought from 1836 to 1876, a period of forty years. Bexar County is also styled as Bexar Territory and Bexar District. These last two designations are probably the outcome of the popular conception that, since vast portions had become so far removed from the county seat and separated from that part of Bexar County primarily known as the unit of county government, these remote sections possessed few, if any, of the attributes of a municipal corporation.

5. Young County's Relation to West Texas

Young County figures prominently in the historical movements in Northwest Texas. The great portion of the lands now within Young County was located by the Texas Immigration and Land Company, about 1853.

Young County was created by an act approved February 2, 1856, and its organization was effected soon thereafter, as "Young County was settled some five years in advance of the surrounding country." Fort Belknap was the county seat during the early period. Fort Belknap was then something of a rendezvous for surveying and exploring parties. But with the great Civil War, together with the demoralization that attends and follows wars, as well as the proximity of hostile Indian tribes and lack of protection against Indian incursion, Young County became almost depopulated, and reorganization did not take place until April, 1874.

The act of the Legislature creating Young County in 1856 further provided that: For judicial purposes the territory north from the northeast corner of said county to Red River; thence west with said stream to the United States territory; thence south to a point west from the southern source of the Clear Fork of the Brazos; thence east to the source of said stream, and down the same to the main Brazos; and thence in a direct line to the southeast corner of said county; thence north to the place of beginning, shall be under the jurisdiction of said county; and when said county is created into a land district it shall embrace the above described territory.

But the contemplated act of the Legislature to create Young County into a land district was held in abeyance until April 28, 1874, when the three land districts of Young County, Jack County, and Palo Pinto County were created. By this act the Young Land District included the counties of Young, Throckmorton and Haskell, and all the territory within the following described limits: Beginning at the northwest corner of Haskell County, thence north along the west boundary line of the counties of Knox and Hardeman to the thirty-fourth parallel of latitude; thence west along the thirty-fourth parallel latitude to the east boundary line of New Mexico to a point due west from the southwest corner of Haskell County; thence in a straight line east to the southwest corner of Haskell County. All that section of Bexar County extending from the south line of Young Land District to a northeasterly line running from the Horse-head Crossing on the Pecos River to the southwest corner of Runnels County was, by this law, attached to Palo Pinto County for land purposes. All that section of Young and Bexar territories which includes the Panhandle of Texas; that is all the region north of the thirty-fourth parallel of latitude, was, by the same act, attached to Jack County for land purposes. In this connection, it is well to observe that the thirty-fourth parallel of latitude passed through the country which was two years later incorporated into Floyd County. Because of this condition the south portion of Floyd County at the time of its creation was in the Young Land District, and the north portion was in the Jack Land District. Thus when Floyd County was created by the act of August 21, 1876, the limits of the county were within two land districts, and the Legislature saw fit to attach Floyd County to Jack County "for judicial, surveying, and all other purposes."

6. Conditions of Settlement in Texas Contrasted.

Thus have been traced the changes made prior to 1876 in the political maps of Western Texas. While these changes were numerous as well as marked, still they do not necessarily imply fickleness and instability on the part of the State's law-makers. Most of the changes were logical and unavoidable. Unusual conditions prevailed. The pioneers of the East Texas settlements could subsist without capital and without commercial facilities. Austin's colony could get along quite well without friction matches, barbed wire, and imported household articles, but West Texas presented an entirely different environment. The scarcity of timber and surface water, the extremes of climate and temperature, and the variability of the winds and of the rainfall presented problems not encountered in other sections. Every movement of settlement westward was followed by a falling back. These forward and backward movements were concomitant with the country's development. These successive advances and retreats served as a schoolmaster unto the mastering of the Great West. As a child learns to do things by trial and success or, to put it another way, by effort and failure, so did the pioneers who converted West Texas into habitable country.

CHAPTER II

INDIAN OUTBREAKS AND CAMPAIGNS

1. Why the Indians Were a Menace to Settlers

Western Texas, together with Colorado, New Mexico, Western Kansas, and Indian Territory, constituted an Indian country up to 1874, when the United States military forces succeeded in forcing the Indians to submission and in driving them back to their reservations. During these years the settlers in the westernmost counties in Texas, along the one hundredth meridian, suffered great losses because of the incursions of marauding bands of hostile Indians. At no time did the Indians feel resigned to remain within their reservations. The unrest and growing hostility of the Indians may be accounted for as follows:

1. Life on the reservations remote from civilization was not favorable to the moral and cultural development of an inherently savage race of people. In their reservations the Indians were under no control, restraint, or influence stronger than those exercised by a single agent of the Government. This agent frequently held his position because of political influence, and he oftentimes failed to deal fairly and justly towards the Government's wards.

2. The Indians saw only the worst features of the white people's civilization. The ruffians were usually in the majority in the frontier regions, and the Indian reasoned that since honor was lacking among the whites whom he knew it was characteristic among all.

3. The Indians believed it was noble to kill and degrading to labor. They regarded the white people as their inferiors. The Indians could not respect those who lived by digging in the ground. They regard the life of the miner as that of the gopher.

4. The Government sometimes failed to comply with the treaty stipulations to supply the Indians with food, shelter, and clothing. Having been removed from their natural source of supply, they were almost wholly dependent upon the allowances which were occasionally exhausted before others reached them. A half-starved condition quite naturally tended to arouse in them a spirit of unrest and dissatisfaction.

5. Railway construction and town building were to the Indians prophetic of their impending doom. Besides, along the transcontinental railways west of the Mississippi the white man destroyed the trees in the branches of which reposed the remains of their dead. This was particularly the case in Western Kansas when that country was being settled. These sepulchres were most sacred to the Indians, and the wanton destruction of their cemeteries so outraged them that they resolutely contrived the relentless murder of the whites.

6. The ruthless destruction of the buffaloes invited upon the whites the wrath of the Indians, as the Indians relied upon the buffaloes for food, raiment, and shelter.

2. The Buffalo Slaughter

The Indians strenuously opposed the slaughter of the buffaloes. The chiefs earnestly implored the Government not to permit railroad construction through what they termed their country, because railroads would drive away the buffaloes and thus leave the Indians in a state of destitution. The Indians protested that the bison belonged to them. To the wild tribes it was a hideous thought that they should become settled agriculturists. The sympathetic appeals of the Indians created a sentiment against the merciless slaughter of the buffaloes. Both whites and Indians influenced the legislatures of Kansas and Colorado to take steps to prevent the utter extinction of the buffaloes. Even the Texas Legislature under the Reconstruction regime was about to put a stop to the ruthless slaughter of buffaloes on the Staked Plains, but General Phil. Sheridan, who was at San Antonio in command of the Military Department of the Southwest, impounded the State and National Governments to encourage the buffalo hunters to continue their sport. General Sheridan said: These men (the buffalo hunters) have done more to settle the vexed Indian question than the entire regular army has done in the last thirty years. They are destroying the Indians' commissary; it is a well-known fact that an army losing its base of supplies is placed at a great disadvantage. Send them powder and lead, if you will; but for the sake of lasting peace, let them kill, skin, and sell until the buffaloes are exterminated. Then your prairies can be covered with speckled cattle, and the festive cowboy, who follows the hunter as a second forerunner of an advanced civilization.

No section of the Indian country suffered more from Indian raids in the early seventies than the frontiers of Northwest Texas. Whatever sentiments in behalf of the preservation of the buffalo herds might have been entertained, the Texas frontiersman readily waived in the hope that with their disappearance the Comanches, the Kiowas, the Apaches, the Arapahoes, and the Cheyennes would cease their plundering visits into Texas. The Texas Legislature applied the doctrine of laissez faire in this matter.

Only a few years were consumed in bringing about the utter extermination of the buffaloes, as thousands of men were rushed to the plains and made a business of killing them. Several causes contributed towards the buffalo slaughter: namely, (1) the Government's sanction, (2) the profits derived from the sale of buffalo hides, (3) the satisfaction of the spirit of adventure, and (4) the unemployment of hundreds of men because railway construction had ceased just before the panic of 1873.

Colonel Richard Irving Dodge states that in the year 1873 alone 754,339 buffalo skins, exclusive of robes, were shipped east, and that during the three years, 1872, 1873, and 1874 buffaloes to the number of 4,373,730 were killed. This enumeration takes account of only the hides shipped over the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, the Kansas and Pacific, and the Union Pacific railways. It leaves out those killed by hunters who came into the buffalo range from the frontier and transported the hides by means of wagons. In other words, most of the hunters from Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, and Indian Territory were not included in Colonel Dodge's estimation.

3. Government's Tardiness in Providing Frontier Protection

Before the buffalo slaughter had begun in its most destructive aspects the stockmen along the border counties of Western Texas suffered constant losses of cattle and horses through the stealthy, whirlwind expeditions of Indians from their reservations north of Red River. The cowman of those days on the Texas frontier led a life of privation and adventure. His cattle ran at large upon a vast range. His duties upon the range were likely at any moment to bring him into conflict with hostile Indians. He therefore had oftentimes to fight for his life. He must be a walking or riding arsenal. His was, indeed, a daily struggle for existence during the Indian days. However, he was familiar with danger and inured to elements.

To the frontiersmen of Texas the Government seemed tardy and indifferent about their protection against Indian raids from the reservations north of Red River. Following the Civil War the problem of dealing with the South as a "conquered province" seemed uppermost in the minds of the Radicals then in power. The following comment appearing in The Flea, a small periodical published by H. H. McConnell of the Sixth Cavalry and printed at Weatherford through a series of six issues during 1869, well illustrates the feeling that existed on the frontier of Texas relative to the Government's apparent neglect: "The fact that this is a frontier does not seen to be known by the authorities at Washington or elsewhere. In 1867, when the blazing dwellings of the pioneers of Texas lighted up the sky from Red River to the Rio Grande; when desolated homes, murdered women and captured children were every-day occurrences along our whole frontier, General Sheridan in a report stated that "no Indian difficulties of any importance had occurred in his department; that the Red River was a sort of dead-line over which neither Indian nor Texan dared to cross, owing to the hostility of one to the other;" and, in fact, intimating that the Texas frontiersman was generally aggressor; this, too, at a time when the garrison at Buffalo Springs was being besieged for days by five hundred Indians, and when appeal after appeal had been sent to General Sheridan for arms and ammunition. From 1865 to 1869 the Fourth and Sixth Cavalries were doing on the Texas frontier "more scouting, more fighting, more arduous services than any other troops in the army"; and the writer adds, "no credit is given, no one knows of their services"; but they were not strong enough to make any material improvement in frontier conditions. In this connection it is interesting to note that in the autumn of 1870 occurred Colonel Mackenzie's pursuit of the Quahadas, tribes under the leadership of the noted Quanah Parker, and the formation of Mackenzie's Trail, which courses from Fort Griffin, through Crosby and Floyd Counties. An interesting combination of circumstances brought about this expedition.

THE "DIRTY DOZEN" AT FLOYDADA HIGH SCHOOL

The faculty at F. H. S. has made and put into execution, twelve set rules for "do" and "don't" to keep the students in the straight and narrow path of perfect deportment. For each rule there is a penalty of a specified number of points to be automatically subtracted from the student's deportment each time that the rule is broken by the student.

The students have applied the name of "Dirty Dozen" to the twelve rules and several amusing articles have appeared in The Tatler, the high school paper, giving their viewpoints on the matter.

The deportment grades had a very wide range the past month, showing immediate results from the application of the rulings.

A number of students failed to have a single mark placed by their names and as a result emerged at the end of the month with the figures 100 looming up in the deportment column. Those carrying off a perfect deportment record for the month of February were:

- 11: Tommie Lee Awtrey, Minnie Clendennin, Margaret Grigsby, Ethel Houghton and B. Marshall;
- 8L: Veda Wooten, Etel Rhoades, Effie Noland, Ina Copprell and Ruth Brown;
- 8S: Lendon Frizzell, Calvin Gollerher, Fae Moore, Ora McNeal, Bertha Roberts, Fay Ruddick and Bonnerea Stephens;

MUSIC MEMORY NOW BEING TAUGHT AT FLOYDADA HIGH

Twenty-nine new records for the Victrola at the High School were received last week and work has begun on the Music Memory tests. Floydada, High is planning to put out a strong team to enter the Music Memory Contest which will be included in the Interscholastic League contests this year.

The new records were purchased with funds obtained by a contest between the eligible classes sponsored by the Parent-Teachers' Association.

A great deal of interest is being taken in the new study. The last period in the afternoon has been set aside for the study of music and the composers. Only music of the highest class is considered and the study is made in order to develop in the student a love for music of this kind. They are studying the works of such composers as Schubert, Chopin, Handel, Wagner, Mendelssohn and Beethoven.

Mr. Clark in Another Statement on Refunding Debts

Mr. Editor:
 Referring to the statements and suggestions made by Mr. Earl Rainer as published in the Hesperian of March 1st, I beg to submit the following for the benefit of Mr. Rainer, and any others who may desire to know the full facts of the subject matter of my former article on the Expense of the Refunding Transaction of our commissioners' court.

Since Jan. 1st, I have frequently discussed this matter with citizens who were deeply interested in the same. Mr. Rainer seems to want the controversy stopped, and suggested a plan to accomplish this. But his suggested plan is useless, for he and I could never agree to any report that did not harmonize with our present ideas. We have been trying to agree for the last 18 months.

As to my statement being "in error a total of $24,518.10, and my having the "county's indebtedness figured that much too much." I wish to say that I was not figuring the county's indebtedness, just showing the extra added cost occasioned by the refunding scheme. It did not affect any but the second class and third class funds.

I am trying to make this statement so plain that any one who wants to know the facts in the matter can find them, and by making the simple addition and subtraction after reading the records, will know the truth for himself, and will not need the report of any committee that Mr. Rainer and I might agree upon.

These figures are taken from the County Treasurer's Claim Register, giving book and page where found.

Spend Less And Save More

WHAT A GOOD SLOGAN THAT WOULD BE FOR THE COMING YEAR.

There has probably never been a time in the history of this country when the matter of thrift and economy was receiving more serious consideration than now.

People who made no effort to save during the times of abnormal prosperity, are now earnestly and regularly saving at least a portion of their incomes.

We stand ready to help you in every way we can.

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

Big Hogs

The time has been extended from March 1st to March 15th for entering the ton litter club according to word received from the secretary of the club. This will give a few more breeders one more opportunity to enter this contest. The litters do not have to be born till March 15th so you may get in the ton club and then if you have a good sized litter farrowed before that time you will be ahead that much. If you want to join do not wait to see if you get a large litter. The nomination fee is only 25 cents. Floyd County might get this gold medal and the $300.00 cash prize. The big hogs of Texas are in this country. So we already have an advantage of the fellows down east. If they have a hog which weighs 500 pounds they have a big hog.

Pure-Bred Sire Campaign

Some of the hog breeders held a meeting at Lockney last Saturday and discussed plans for the pure bred sire campaign. There is a cash prize of $1000.00 up for the county which replaces the largest percent of scrub boars with pure bred boars. Every farmer who has hogs should use a pure bred sire even if his sows are not pure bred because by this means one can get as far toward improving his herd by using a pure bred by two crosses as by five crosses with a grade sire. There are very few grade boars being used in the county and it will be appreciated if those who know of one will report it to the county agent or to C. R. Wofford, or C. D. Merrick. The fact that we have very few in the county will make it easy for us to take a high place in the contest.

Another Meeting Swine Breeders Saturday the 17th

Some of the breeders met last week and decided to call another meeting at Lockney National Bank Saturday, March 17th. Every hog breeder is invited to attend this meeting. Plans for financing the pig club will be discussed. This matter was held over till the next meeting. Three breeders are planning to put the pig club on a good basis. Plans are being made for at least $200.00 in premiums for the club show next fall. Every breeder who will have some good pigs for sale or who wants to take part in these activities is urged to attend the next meeting. The hog business is not dead by a great deal. It will be more lively this fall than ever before. Good hogs will be scarce this fall and if we make a good feed crop and we must, you had better keep plenty of breeding stock to supply the demand when it comes. Those who have faith enough to hold over plenty of sows and gilts this time will be the leaders next fall. There is too much to be done to let the hog business drag. Let us have a good crowd at the next meeting and make plans for the year. Those who go out of business when the price is low in any one commodity will always lose. This is the time to begin in the hog business. There is already a scarcity of hogs. The price is sure to be high next fall.

Stock Feeders Meeting at Spur

W. D. Newell and J. C. Bolding accompanied T. Scott Wilson the county agent, in attendance at the feeders meeting at Spur last Thursday. This meeting was well worth while and it is hoped that more of the farmers from Floyd County will attend this meeting next year. There was a fair attendance and good interest was manifested. When the farmers and stockmen find time and take interest to attend such meetings and visit these experiments and study the great work

Small Accounts

FREQUENTLY prospective customers hesitate to open commercial accounts, because they deem a small account may not be acceptable to the bank.

THE Success of this bank, and the growth of its customers' accounts, we believe to be largely based upon the care and attention we have given to small accounts started here.

that is being done there they will get more out of their work and will enjoy it more. When the farmers take more time to think and less time to worry about whether it is going to rain and other unavoidable inconveniences they will enjoy life more and will prosper a great deal more. The time has come when every one must think more and make more use of what knowledge is obtained from these experiments. By attending these meetings you will learn in a few minutes from seeing these animals in the pens which are being fed than you could be reading the bulletins. These experiments are being conducted in a good common sense way.

Mr. T. O. Walton, director of the extension service, Mr. H. H. Williamson, state agent, extension service, Prof. Jones, and Prof. Slush of the A. & M. College and Mayor Spencer of Crosbyton were the principal speakers. A good part of the day session was spent in weighing and inspecting and giving out of the results of the feeding experiments. At the night session there were several good speeches and music.

In the cattle feeding experiments one year old and two year old steers (Herefords) were compared with yearlings crossed Herefords and Brahma. Two pens of two year old Herefords were used to compare feeds. One pen was fed cotton seed meal and hulls and the other pen was fed meal and hulls with corn chops added. It was found that the steers which were fed corn chops did better than others and that it is not economical to leave out corn chops even at the high price of corn. Those which were fed meal and hulls without corn chops were fed at a loss after 105 days. The yearling pens were treated and fed just alike with the idea of comparing Brahma cattle with Herefords. The Brahma pen made a little more rapid gain than did the Herefords at first but after 90 days the Brahmas were fed at a loss. Thus these steers should be marketed at that time. The Herefords made a little less rapid gain but kept on gaining at a profit to the end of the 120 day period.

For about four years Mr. Dickson, superintendent of the Spur Sub Station, has been conducting experiments in lamb feeding, comparing corn with grain sorghums. These lamb feeding experiments were conducted over a period of 90 days, using corn chops, milo, kafir, feterita, cotton seed meal and alfalfa hay. These grain sorghums were fed in different forms, in head, in ground heads, and ground grain. It was found that those fed on the chopped grain did best. Those fed on corn chops did not make a great deal better gain than those fed on grain sorghums. Those fed on ground kafir grain did a little better than on other grain sorghums. On account of the price of grain sorghums being a little bit more expensive this year than corn it was found that feeding corn chops was a little more economical but during other years experiments when plenty of grain sorghums were available these grains were more economical than corn. Milo heads showed more net profit than corn and other feeds. The net profit per lamb fed on corn chops was $2.00, Milo $2.13.
