Farm Safety: A Year 'Round Job

We Americans seem to need an official "week" each year to remind us of things we really should practice every week of

There's nothing wrong with the idea-the official reminder usually proves helpful-but too often too many people will substitute one week's observance for a year's practice.

National Farm Safety Week, to be celebrated July 23-29 this year, is a perfect example of a "week" that should be considered a continual part of rural life. Especially is that true in this area, in which agriculture plays such a leading role in our economic life. It is just plain good sense to avoid the suffering and economic losses resulting from farm accidents.

Co-sponsored on the national level by the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and on the state level by the Texas Farm & Ranch Safety Council, the Texas Farm Bureau and the Extension Service, the 18th annual Farm Safety Week has as its theme, "Safety Is A Family Affair," The Free Press is glad to be among the many newspapers helping in the campaign to draw attention to the need for the year 'round observance of safety practices on the farms and ranches. Accidents in American farm homes take about 2,700 lives a year, according to the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, and some 3,400 persons are killed each year doing farm work. This is in addition to the 4.700 farm residents who dies on the highways in non-work accidents.

If we think of safe practices as a means of doing things. rather than as a set of do's and don'ts, accident prevention will become a way of life-a way of life that will preserve the lives of farm families.

Let's make every week Farm Safety Week.

Worship Together for Strength

A preacher in a Scotch village went into the home of one of his members who had declared boldly that he could find God as well in his garden, or in the fields, as he could by attending services in the village church.

The minister sat in silence with his friend before the open fireplace. The man knew that the preacher had come to take him to task for his boastful spirit. The preacher knew that he was expected to give a deserved rebuke Yet both remained

At last the preacher arose from the chair and went to the fireplace. Taking the tongs, he lifted a single embers and placed it alone upon the hearth. He waited in silence as it quickly burned into a black ash while the fire in the fireplace continued to burn brightly. Then he quietly went back to

"You need not say a word," said the man of the house, "I understand what you mean. I cannot live alone, Next Sunday I'il be in my place at church.'

This little story underlines the message of the Religion in American Life Program, which urges you to find the strength for your life by worshipping together every week some sections of town would by now resemble a wilderness As it is, weeds are bad enough on vacant lots and particularly so at street intersections where they create a traftic hazard by obstructing vision.

One man was neard to remark the other day that he wouldn't be surprised if that illusionary panther seen frequertly in this area until a month or so ago, didn't show up again Plenty of cover for the varmint could be found in some of the weed jungles around town.

Standing water and the heavy growth of grass and weeds have also made conditions favorable for mosquitoes, and despite constant operation of the city's long-billed annoyers are complained of in all parts of town. This year's crop of mosqui-toes are the big, kingsize variety, according to Ray Lusk, In fact, he says some mosquitoes buzzing around his place are large enough to cross with turkeys.

So, keep this in mind the next time you are asked to save the red strip from your cigarette package and help put a stop to a hard-to-down rumor.

On the subject of rumors, the late Presley Bryant, state editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram for many years, once told us of a bizarre yarn that "cropped up" every few years in virtually the same form. However he was never able to substantiate it as anything more than a rumor.

The yarn, in the form of a 'tip'' to the newspaper was to effect that a 3-year-old child of a farm or ranch family had been bitten by a rattle snake while playing under-neath the farm (or ranch) house. The father placed the baby in the family car to rush him to a doctor several miles away. Frightened and excited. he got the car in reverse and backed over an older child, crushing it to death. The added tragedy was too much for the man, who suffered a heart attack and died almost instant-

The veteran newsman said the "tip" always located the tragedy in a sparsely settled area such as "somewhere a-round Haskell" or "between Albany and Throckmorton."

Many Types of Mail Classified 'First Class'

Most people have heard the term "first class mail," but it is doubtful that many know exactly what type of mail this term embraces, other than or dinary letters.

According to Postmaster Harold R. Spain, "first-class mail includes letters, postal cards, air mail (not exceeding ounces, whether sealed or unsealed); all matter whether wholly or partly in writing; and matter sealed or closed a gainst inspection. Reproductions of handwriting or typewriting mailed in quantities of less than 20 identical copies are also considered first-class

Because of its importance, first-class mail is known as "preferential mail." It is regarded as having priority over the other three classes of mail. Within this preferential cate-gory are all kinds of items, from social post cards, to "top secret" material in Diplomatic pouches.

Patrons can be assured that sealed first-class mail, while in the custody of the Postal Service, is accorded absolute secrecy. This means that no post office employee, except those assigned to opening "dead mail," may break or permit the breaking of the seal without a legal warrant, even though the envelope may contain criminal or otherwise unmailable matter.

One interesting fact about first-class mail is that it is not subject to the size restrictions which apply to other classes of mail. There are weight restrictions, however, so if one plans to send anything over 20 pounds by first-class mail he should check with the Rates on first-class mail are set by the Congress. This is true also of second and thirdclass mail. Rates on fourthclass mail are set from year to year by the Postmaster General with concurrence of the Interstate Commerce Commis

Wildlife Needed For Balance In Nature's Plan

Wildlife is on the decrease. There is a great need to improve the conditions and habitats for wildlife, according to Hinds McGowen Jr. SCS, Technician, Haskell, Texas.

Mother nature at one time had all things in balance. Every form of life, microscopic and physical were working together for the benefit of all. Then man came along and upset nature's

Each individual farm and anch should be a community of various forms of life which receive their sustenance from the soil, according to Mc-Gowen. The proper balance is obtained only if each form of ife is working together for the good of the entire community. When good grass cover decreases, the soil will cease to take up and hold moisture. The soil may begin to erode away losing its ability to produce grain or livestock and human conimption as well as wildlife.

When the wild food source of redatory animals decreases, bey turn to poultry and in exreme cases to livestock. This s costly to the farmer.

We can have more of the deirable forms of wildlife in our locality by applying soil and protection. Quail nest in tall water as well as wildlife conservation practices, McGowen points out. This choice is strict stock. Their choice of cover up to you, Mr. John Q. Farmer. The decision of proper land use can mean the difference between scarcity or abundance of quail and dove, McGowen said. Fence corners, abandoned ads, rocky spots or land cut off by creeks or gullies can provide good cover and food for quail and dove if properly head protection such as grow managed. The main needs of game birds are cover, food and water. The lack of natural habitat has made it difficult for wild life to survive in many areas. McGowen stated.

O'Brien Dedicates School Annual to Mrs. Haymes

The O'Brien School Annual staff dedicated its 1961 year book to Mrs. Lee Haymes, second grade teacher in the school. This dedication was kept secret until the arrival of the annuals on July 7.

Mrs. Haymes has taught 4 years in the school at O'Brien, three of these as English and speech instructor in high school. Though teaching the second grade this year, she di-rected the one-act play cast to second place in district competition and helped three declamation winners.

Mrs. Haymes taught earlier at Munday, where she lives with her husband, a retired postmaster. Also, she taught at Stamford, Baird and Putnam. where she was a primary teacher for 18 years.

The yearbooks, with Royce Cox as editor and Jerry Rowan as business manager, contains 72 pages. Summer delivery by Taylor Publishing Company enabled the inclusion of the district literary meet results, entire track season and naming of honor graduates of both elementary and high school.

An unusual feature was the inclusion of Lieutenant Shepard, America's first astronaut, as a member of the sophomore

Five Rural Traffic Accidents In County Result in $1,525 Damage

igated five accidents on Rural Highways in Haskell County during the month of June, according to Sgt. Frank Jircik. Highway Patrol Supervisor of These wrecks accounted for a property damage of $1,575.00. The rural traffic accident summary for Haskell County during January through June of 1961 shows a total of 21 accidents. As a result of these crashes there were 12 persons injured and one person killed. The estimated property damage amounted to $10.520.00. This compares with the first six months of 1960's total of 19 rural crashes injuring six people, killing no persons and causing an estimated property damage of $8,090.00.

The Sergeant advised that the summer Slow Down and Live campaigs emphasizes the need for motorists to control their driving speed. Speed control is vital to safety, because of the overcrowded conditions of the highways caused by thousands and thousands of

Senator Moffett Cites Reasons For More Taxes

By Senator George Moffett Texas is not the only state which has financial troubles. Twenty four other states have already passed new tax laws this year and 12 others probably will do so before the year's end.

Among the reasons for new taxes in Texas are the growth of state services and the fallng off in oil tax revenue. Oil wells are only allowed to produce 9 days per month at this time. Not many years ago they could produce 30 days a month.

The record breaking increase in the state's population is the principal reason why more taxes are necessary. Each year there is an increase of nearly 100,000 students in the public school system and also a heavy increase in college en rollment, It costs about $275 per year per pupil to operate 180, M. L. Cook 177. the public schools. Thus the High individual. nearly 100,000 pupil increase per year calls for 27 million dollars more each year for the state's public school system, of which the state pays 81%. It costs about $700 per student per year to operate the colleges, of which a student provides a little over $100. These figures do not include the $810 per year salary raise for teach ers which is now pending in the Legislature.

The 23 state hospitals and eleemnosynary institutions are becoming more crowded each year. New buildings, more em ployees, doctors and attendants must be provided for them. The penitentiary now has more inmates than ever before—due to population and crime increase.

The price of all supplies food medicine, etc., bought by the state constantly creeps upward. These figures call for more tax revenue each year. Old age assistance payments plus aid to the blind and total ly disabled persons now total 47 million dollars per year from state funds. Twenty years ago this figure was approxi mately 18 million dollars.

Texas is now one of the few states that has neither a state income tax nor a wide-based general sales tax. Since revenue from oil and some other sources is falling off, it is obvious that new sources of rev Wilson Motor 2400, C&B Store enue must be found. This is 2304. M-System, Haskell 2265. ther or not a year was as profitable as it could have been.

G. O. Hoffman, extension range specialist, says there are sev eral practices that should be which will provide benefits for the rest of the year.

One of the recommended practices is deferred grazing.

On a pasture that has just re ceived a rain, deferring allows native grasses to make rapid growth. Grasses can made seed carried out this summer, but fore wise to make profitable use of every bit of moisture available. One way to do this is to construct diversion ter races, known as "throw outs," to divert the run-off water from roadside ditches onto the pasure. The added water will grow lots of grass, says the special ist. Another way is to control brush growing in the draws, reek bottoms and overflow areas. These productive range sites will produce good grass when the brush is taken off.

Something else to watch for this summer is poisonous plants. These pests should be controlled so as to keep live stock losses to a minimum.

Hoffman says that under present conditions, ranchmen should carry out only those range practices which require very little cash outlay. He also recommends using the cost-sharing programs to help carry out the ranch improvement Weinert. program.
