Building, Industr

If you had left Snyder at the close of the sixties and returned at the end of the seventies you probably would have been startled at what a difference a single decade can make. There were many changes, including expansions, new buildings, additional services and a continual facelifting. Involved were industrial, educational, retail business and government agency areas, and even the elements got in on the act to attract nation-wide attention a couple of times. Downtown, the biggest change involved the Scurry County Courthouse. A major remodeling project literally encased the old building within new exterior treatment, while changes and revisions were made inside to provide more space for county offices. For the first time in history, the Snyder Chamber of Commerce got a home of its own after moving hither and yon as a tenant for many years. The new building was erected on the corner of 23rd St. and Avenue R on a piece of property contributed by Roger B. Mize. The chamber also acquired an ally during the seventies when Scurry County established what is believed to be the first Board of County Development in the state. The BCD shares offices with the chamber in the new building. Two other major county building projects provided a livestock-agriculture exhibit building on the coliseum grounds and a new jail and senior center-of-fice building on the site formerly occupied by Travis Junior High School. County voters, in a special referendum in 1974, had indicated that they wanted the commissioners court to spend the county's federal revenue-sharing funds on these projects. The result is a new jail now in use a year which is one of the few meeting federal and state standards, and what has been called by outside observers as one of the best senior center facilities in the country. Closely related to these projects were building programs in Snyder Public Schools which provided space for the junior high schools to be combined and for adding the ninth grade to the senior high school. This left the former Travis Junior High property available for other use and the county acquired it from the city as the site for the jail and senior center. Elsewhere in the field of education, Western Texas College began operation in 1971 and developed its modern campus on south edge of Snyder following the contribution of a 165-acre tract by Jonisue Stiff. On the retail business front, the Varsity Square Shopping Center was built at 30th St. and College Ave., with the first stores opening in the fall of 1977. Other major retail developments included the College Heights Shopping Center, The Junction, and expansion of the Snyder (See Snyder Page 4A)

The new Year had scarcely arrived before we received mail from one Fred Weiland III of Morgantown, W. Va., who advises that he is running for president. He has an unusual platform, which he says is designed to bring the federal government under direct control of the people. This sounds like a noble cause. So, we read further. By "direct control," he means that nothing could become law, courts could not interpret law, budgets could not be set and taxes could not be levied without a vote of the people. "By bringing our government under our own direct control I mean we voters ourselves should vote on laws proposed by Congress, the only proposals by Congress that would become law would be those approved by the majority of us—we the voters." He says controls over Congress and the Supreme Court could be exercised "by some simple telephone, TV, or new electronic voting system. This could allow a period of a few weeks or months for public discussion and voting on each Congressionally proposed law or proposed re-interpretation by the Supreme Court. The yes and no vote totals could be reported daily throughout the voting period to stimulate everyone interested either way in the matter to cast his vote." To control the budget, he would have a blank for each of the "30 or so" major government agencies. The list would name and describe each agency, show the president's proposed budget in dollars and have a blank space for the taxpayer to fill in to show the percentage he wants more or less than the president. All taxpayers' desires would be averaged to become the new budget, agency-by-agency.

has already found its way to Snyder. Nationally, the program is about 15 years old. Locally, two physicians' assistants have been here for the past year and a half. Orran Franzl, 27, is a physician's assistant to Dr. John O'Banion, a Snyder surgeon, and Tim Tarkenton, 27, is a physician's assistant to Drs. David Wiman and Carl Dillaha, general practitioners. Both men are quick to point out they are not male nurses, and differ greatly from nurses in both training and methods. See Bridging, Page 11A

Pakistani Sources Report... Soviets Pour Into Afghanistan

By The Associated Press Diplomatic sources in Pakistan's capital city of Islamabad said today the number of Soviet troops in Afghanistan may be 100,000 and still climbing. Western analysts previously estimated Soviet troop strength in Afghanistan at 50,000. Soviet troops appear to control all of Afghanistan's major towns and military bases and face little more than token resistance in the populous areas, diplomatic sources in India said today.

In a flurry of worldwide reactions to the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan, President Carter halted shipments of high technology items to the Russians and imposed a partial grain embargo; the Pentagon said it was speeding up deliveries of $150 million in military hardware to neighboring Pakistan; the U.N. Security Council scheduled a debate on the Soviet intervention for today; and a spokesman for Canadian Prime Minister Joe Clark said Canada

Iranians streamed out of mosques in the capital and converged on the embassy in downtown Tehran where Moslem militants have been holding some 50 Americans hostage since seizing the U.S. complex on Nov. 4.

Officials, billed the demonstration, the largest here in more than a month, as a show of support for demands that the deposed shah be returned to Iran, and a condemnation of followers of a rival religious leader. Iran's official Pars news agency said a man was wounded outside the embassy by a shot fired accidentally by one of the guards at the complex. It said the wounded man was a driver for a top government official. No other details were immediately known. There were no reports of violence in Tehran. Other pro-Khomeini marches were reported in the cities of Yazd, Kermanshah, and Hamadan, as well as in Tabriz and Qom, where anti-Khomeini demonstrations erupted Friday.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—More than one million supporters of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini jammed the streets outside the occupied U.S. Embassy in Tehran today in a massive

BOBBY GOODWIN

Goodwin In Scurry Race For Sheriff

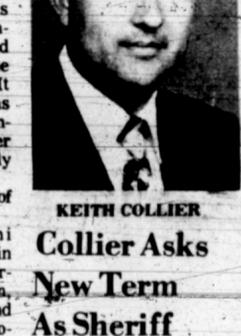

Bobby Goodwin, a veteran law enforcement officer and former Scurry County justice of the peace, today announced his candidacy for sheriff, subject to the May 3 Democratic primary. Goodwin, a native of Santa Anna in Coleman County, holds a Texas advanced certification in law enforcement. He is a 1974 graduate of Western Texas College with a major in mid-management. Presently he is employed as a salesman for Snyder Farm and Ranch Supply. Following four years in the U.S. Navy, Goodwin began his law enforcement work in Coleman and later worked as a policeman in Pecos and Dumas. He joined the Snyder police department in 1966 and was appointed chief of police in 1970, and served in that capacity until March, 1973. In 1969, he spent a brief period as chief deputy sheriff in Sweetwater. Goodwin's family includes his wife, Sue. The couple have three children. Jay is age 19, Jon is 16 and Jennifer is 11. The family attends the 37th Street Church of Christ. In 1974, Goodwin successfully ran for justice of the peace and served until Dec. 31, 1978 when he did not seek re-election but rather was a candidate for county judge. Goodwin is a member of the Snyder Rotary Club, presently on a leave of absence. "I feel qualified for the job of sheriff based on my background and desire to serve," Goodwin said.

Ezzell Candidate For Re-Election

Rep. Mike Ezzell announced today he is a candidate to succeed himself as representative of the 63rd District in the Texas Legislature. The district is comprised of Borden, Dawson, Coke, Howard, Scurry and Sterling Counties. "I have enjoyed and have gained a sense of service from the two terms in office which the people of this district have given me," he said. "It is my honest conviction that this opportunity, which I appreciate deeply, has put me in a position to do an even better job for the people of the district and the state. I believe in fiscal responsibility as well as in effective, prudent service." His terms in office, he added, have given him knowledge of the mechanics of the legislative process and how to take hold of matters; seniority and recognition of ability that have resulted in placement on key committees; a rapport with legislative leaders so that he is in a position to exercise influence in legislative matters. Rep. Ezzell is chairman of the Health Services Committee in the House which oversees mental health-mental retardation department, the health department, and health care providers; member of the Higher Education Committee; House Administration Committee; Sunset Advisory Committee (four-year term) which reviews agencies up for scrutiny and makes recommendations to the next legislature for their continuation or termination. He also is a member of the Human Resources Committee of the National Conference of State Legislatures, and is a Texas representative on the United States-Mexico Border Health Initiative project. Recently he was invited to address the National Health Science Research meeting in West Virginia.

KEITH COLLIER

Collier Asks New Term As Sheriff

Keith Collier, sheriff of Scurry County, has announced that he is a candidate for re-election, subject to the Democratic Primary election. "I want to thank the citizens of Scurry County for their good will and support throughout the years and pledge my continuing efforts to provide all with fair, effective law enforcement." Collier holds the advanced certificate in law enforcement issued by the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education. He is a 1974 graduate of Western Texas College, with an associate in applied science in law enforcement. He is immediate past president of the Sheriff's Association of Texas, which he still serves as a board member. He also is a director of the Texas Association of Counties and a Texas Advisory Council on Arson. He is a past president of the West Central Texas Law Enforcement Association, holding that post in 1972, and served as chairman of the Law Enforcement Coordinating Board of the West Central Texas Council of Governments from February of 1973 to February of 1975.

Over 93,000 Bales Go To County Gins

Scurry County's biggest cotton crop in history kept gins busy the past week, and thousands of bales remained to be processed. The total number of bales accounted for at the end of the week had reached 93,841 as the harvest edged closer to the 100,000-bale mark. Most of the crop was off the stalk, with 73,158 bales already processed by the county's nine gins, and 20,683 bales tagged and/or on the yard waiting to be ginned. The figures by gins:

GIN	GINNED	ON YARD

Ask Us

Q—With all the talk of another war that could possibly be here in the United States and also in Snyder, what procedures for safety does Scurry County have?
A—The only local procedure firmly established is the local Civil Defense organization which has a plan for operation of emergency facilities and communications in time of any type of disaster. The Snyder City Manager serves as the Civil Defense director, and the headquarters in time of a disaster would be in the police headquarters.

By this time, we thought we were the victim of a hoax, but examination of all of the material, including a color photograph of the candidate, indicated that he was serious. His proposals would result in chaos, of course, and if any saving should accrue from votes by the people it would more than be gobbled up by the expense of holding elections. Moreover, his system runs counter to what the founders of this country had in mind when they established our system of government. It would be an excellent way to get next to nothing for our tax money. This system would be the ultimate in initiative and referendum, which we regard with considerable skepticism, even on a much simpler basis. We have trouble envisioning Bill Clements proposing that a vote of stockholders be required before any decision affecting SEDCO could be made by officers of the firm. Perhaps there should be a method of redress for the people, but some safeguards and prerequisites must be included before this writer could support such a proposal. We could be inundated with elections on frivolous issues. And, we repeat, this is not the system of government founded by Thomas Jefferson, John Hancock, et al., and it is not the system that developed the greatest standard of living man has ever known.

Infant Hurt In Mishap

A three-car accident Friday evening in the 4400 block of College Ave. sent an 11-month-old infant to Cogdell Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

Police reports show the infant, Chad Justin Stewart, was a passenger in a 1978 International driven by James Stewart II. That vehicle and a 1973 Ford driven by William L. Shaw and a 1975 Chevrolet driven by Kerry Haggins collided about 6:45 p.m. Minor damages were reported to the vehicles; but the Haggins car had to be removed from the scene by a wrecker. The infant was taken to the hospital by private vehicle.

The accident was investigated by Greg Patterson. Also investigated Friday was a drug overdose. In it, a 14-year-old youth was taken to Cogdell by private vehicle. Reports indicate the overdose was accomplished on prescription medicine. The case was worked by Lt. Clay Scogin.

Rex Gard, 2907 34th St., told officers, Joe Bob Martinez he was missing $47 worth of eight-track stereo tapes. That matter was reported at 8:05 p.m.

Officers also discovered a man they arrested early Saturday morning at a local truck stop was wanted in Lea County, N.M., for aggravated assault. The 22-year-old man was picked up locally for public intoxication by officer Bill Armstrong.

Three minor traffic accidents were reported Friday. The first occurred at 11:45 a.m. in the 2100 block of 30th St. There, a 1964 Chrysler driven by Ada Marin and a 1979 Chevrolet driven by Clarence Foster collided. The wreck was investigated by officer Kerry Fritz.

Shortly after 3 p.m. at the intersection of 24th St. and Ave. Q a two-vehicle wreck was worked by Greg Patterson. It involved a 1977 Subaru driven by Anita Shaw and a 1979 AMC driven by Margaret Kruger.

Joe Bob Martinez worked a two-vehicle collision at 5:10 p.m. in the parking lot of Rainbow Market. Involved in it were a 1971 Chevrolet driven by Jesse Rodriguez and a 1977 Mercury driven by Callie Harper.

A fourth wreck also occurred, but it took place about 12:34 a.m. Saturday. It occurred in the 2000 block of 25th St. and was worked by Robert Harbin. Involved in it were a parked 1977 Ford driven by Linda Ann Fisk and a 1972 Capri driven by Peggy Sue Womack.

War Games Resemble Headlines

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—U.S. military strategists are completing plans for the airlift of American troops and supplies to the oil-rich country of Poland, under attack by its aggressive neighbor, Orga.

That's the $9.4 million scenario for the annual military winter games, which bear an unexpected resemblance to some of today's international headlines.

The vanguard of some 13,000 U.S. Army and Air Force active personnel and reservists has begun to arrive at Fort Drum near here for "Empire Glacier 80."

The exercise, which runs from Monday to Feb. 1 and includes a five-day battle, is meant to provide training in cold weather and deep snow.

Boone Leads A&M's Singers Since 1960

Robert L. Boone, director of the Texas A&M University Singing Cadets, has been described as professionalism personified.

He has headed the "Men in Maroon" since Sept. 1, 1960, and is the choral group's longest tenured mentor. His leadership, extensive experience in teaching, drama, voice and choir directing and radio-television broadcasting, plus his personality, are the cement and spark of the Cadets.

The Cadets will be performing in Snyder at 8 p.m. on Jan. 11 in a program sponsored by Western Texas College. The concert will be in the Snyder High School auditorium, and tickets prices at $3 for adults and $1.50 for students will be available at the door.

Boone was graduated from the University of Houston in 1951 with a bachelor of science in music. The MS in music education was added at Sam Houston State in 1957, and he is currently completing his Ph.D. at Texas A&M in administration.

Born in Baltimore, Md., Boone was doing church solos and regular radio performances before he finished high school. He was a Marine Corps medic in World War II and ended

Counseling Service Sued

BROWNSVILLE (AP)—A Harlingen woman has sued a birth control counseling service in state district court over an intrauterine device she claims led to her sterilization.

Mary Lou Pena asked for an undisclosed amount from the Cameron and Willacy counties Planned Parenthood Association.

Word of Mouth

Avoid those piping hot foods, scalding tea and coffee and heavy liquor intake. They may cause changes in your mouth that could lead to cancer. Don't forget a regular dental checkup since it's easy for your dentist to spot oral cancer. When treated very early, oral cancer is usually curable, says the American Cancer Society.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Dick

Mrs. Minnie Florence Dick, 70, died at 8:35 p.m. Friday in Big Spring. She was the sister of Mrs. Sally Blythe, Mrs. Lillian Clanton and Leo Heath, all of Snyder.

Iranian Given Choice By Judge

HOUSTON (AP)—An Iranian national has been given a choice of returning to Iran or serving 10 years in prison for possessing cocaine.

State District Judge Allen Stilley fined Traj Dagigh-Delavar, 27, $10,000 and placed him on 10 years probation on condition he leave the country by Jan. 14.

Dagigh-Delavar, who had entered a plea of guilty, testified earlier at a bond reduction hearing that he had attended Texas Southern University one semester but had been in the United States illegally the past three years.

HEALTH TIP
 from DEAN

"Eat properly, get enough rest, avoid excessive stress, and you should be able to shield yourself against cancer," says Dr. A. Rottino of St. Vincent's Hospital, N.Y. Many invaders can cause cancer: smoke, chemicals, drugs, viruses, excessive sun or X-rays. A healthy body has superior defenses that usually prevent a malignancy from developing.

John Wayne Film Used For Course

"Stagecoach," the film classic starring John Wayne, will be among the full-length films studied by students in the Masterpieces of Literature course planned for the spring semester at Western Texas College.

The course is a transferable sophomore English course, listed as English 233, with classes meeting from 6:30-9:20 p.m. on Tuesdays.

Richard Lancaster will be instructor for the course. The films to be viewed and discussed this semester will deal with what Lancaster characterizes as The Gunfighters and The Gangsters.

"We will be taking a look at agrarian and urban America through these films," Lancaster says, "with particular emphasis on the value system associated with each type. There is a different attitude toward man in the Western than in the gangster film and we will be contrasting these views."

Films to be shown during the course in addition to "Stagecoach" are "My Darling Clementine" starring Henry Fonda, "The Gunfighter" starring Gregory Peck, "Shane" starring Alan Ladd, "High Noon" starring Gary Cooper, "Scarface" starring Paul Muni, "G-Men" starring James Cagney, and "White Heat" starring Cagney.

Registration for the spring semester will be held Jan. 14-15, with classes beginning Jan. 16. Persons wishing details about the Masterpieces course are invited to contact Lancaster.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) "Lucky in the long run" is an adage which should fit you today. Hang-in-there. Expect to be a winner and you will be.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) By putting bits and pieces of information together you will be able to make very wise decisions today. Overlook no aspects, however trivial they may seem.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You should be able to see opportunity today in things others deem to be of small significance. Take advantage of your foresight.

Travel, resources, romance, luck, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your new Astro-Graph Letter which begins with your birthday. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Team effort is called for today, but be sure to associate with those who are as enthusiastic and industrious as you are, or you could feel let down.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This won't be an idle day. You're full of energy and you know exactly what you want to accomplish. However, mistakes will eventually occur if you try to do too much.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Stimulating company will give you the mental life you need today. On the other hand, persons who always feel sorry for themselves will drag you down. Avoid them.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're not being party-waist today about standing up for what you believe and your basic rights, but make sure you put in their place only those who are out of line.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you have any negotiating to do or a problem that needs to be discussed, this is an excellent day for it. Your mind is exceptionally sharp and clear today, so don't allow yourself to get sidetracked by someone who only wants to play. You have too much to lose.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Others are drawn to you today because you are in a fun mood and turn everything you do into activities of enjoyment. Keep spreading your sunshine.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Loved ones are always important to you, but today you'll make a concerted effort to show just how important by doing a lot of little things for them others wouldn't.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Several outside interests could be clamoring for your attention today. However, you won't really mind. They'll all be fun things.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Commercial matters become your primary concern today, and rightfully so. You'll deal with them adeptly and fearlessly. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Pet Finder

Works Free

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) - Seventy-year-old accepts no fee for her detective work. Each day she scouts this city for notices of found pets - and matches them up with pleas for help in finding lost animals.

Although she currently has no pets of her own, Mrs. Reindt views helping others get reunited with their wayward cats and dogs as her life task. In the last 30 years she has helped hundreds, perhaps thousands, of residents in this community of 55,000 in north-central Ohio.

Each day she reads the newspaper columns of lost and found pets, listens to radio stations that broadcast the same kind of information, and keeps an eye out for strays.

When she sees a notice of a pet that has been found and another one from an individual who appears to be the owner she gets on the telephone.

"I just call and tell them that I think their pet has been found, and that they should call such-and-such a number. Sometimes they don't understand who I am or how it happens that I call them, but they are usually just happy to have their dog or cat back," Mrs. Reindt said.

She has been offered rewards, but each time she refuses. She doesn't work for the animal shelter and doesn't get paid for her service. She helps because she feels in her heart that somebody has to do it.

Texas Tech Plans Course At WTC

An advanced graduate class in educational administration will be offered during the spring at Western Texas College and will be taught by Dr. Berlie Fallon, professor of Education at Texas Tech University.

The class will meet from 6-9 p.m. Thursdays with the first session on Jan. 10. Registration and classes will be conducted in the board room of the administration building at the Snyder institution.

The class in "Trends, Issues, and Problems in Administration," (EDAD 5192) is designed to concentrate on practical problems administrators and supervisors must deal with fulfilling their daily tasks. Consequently course topics will depend upon contemporary needs, including busing, federal funds, state and federal legislation and teacher dismissals.

The class is open to all students having graduate status. Course credit can be applied to a program of certification in administration. Persons interested in obtaining more information should attend Mary Pinkston at Western Texas College.

Theft Case Under Probe

Deputy sheriffs are investigating the theft of several items from a pickup truck owned by Harvey Waller of Snyder.

Taken, they said, were tools, a spare tire, a jack, a drop light, and motor oil collectively valued at about $175. The theft is reported to have occurred west of town while the pickup was at the intersection of Highway 180 and Farm to Market Road 1269.

The theft was reported Friday.

WEATHER MADE BIG NEWS—The flood of Aug. 13, 1972, made big news in Snyder and ranks as one of the major events of the decade. The scene above is on College Ave. in North Snyder looking south toward the courthouse square. Below is the debris at the 30th St. bridge across Deep Creek after floodwaters subsided.

Snyder Had Lots Of Newsmakers In 70s

Shopping Center
Industrial activity flourished during the decade. American Magnesium Co., after experiencing problems in its earlier years, got into full production. Ritzcraft, a maker of mobil homes, established a plant here and later merged with Wickes Homes. The plant was phased out in 1976 when demands for its products declined, but it left a huge building for the community to make available to Northern Electric Co. in 1978. Northern began operation here in March of 1979.

Meanwhile, Aileen, a manufacturer of women's sportswear, came in with a new sewing plant. It also was phased out when the parent company retrenched, but the building and equipment was promptly taken over by Walls Industries. Thus, as the seventies came to an end, American Magnesium, Northern Electric Co. and Walls were making tremendous contributions to the area's economy.

The community gained one new financial institution in the seventies when First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Big Spring established a branch here, and applications for a branch by Sweetwater Savings and Loan and for a new national bank were pending at the close of the decade.

Scurry County voters approved four major bond issues, but rejected three proposals to legalize the sale of alcoholic beverages during the seventies.

The bond issues included one for $3,250,000 in 1970 and another for $2,500,000 in 1971 for buildings at Western Texas College; one for $2,900,000 in 1972 for Snyder Public Schools, and one for $4,000,000 in 1977 for a new wing at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. The hospital construction project is underway now, while projects financed by the other bond issues were completed earlier.

Two proposals to legalize the sale of alcoholic beverages were rejected in 1972, one involving the City of Snyder only and another involving Justice Precinct No. 1 in the county. Another involving the city only was turned down in 1978.

The seventies saw two big celebrations in Snyder. A week-long event which brought thousands of visitors to town, including the Governor of Texas, was staged in October of 1973 to commemorate the production of Scurry County's billionth barrel of oil.

In 1976, a three-day event was held to celebrate the nation's Bicentennial and Scurry County's Centennial.

The elements made news of national significance on Aug. 13, 1972 when a devastating flood put much of Snyder and surrounding territory under water following rainfall of more than eight inches in the north and northwest part of the county, and again on June 16, 1978, when an earthquake gave the area an unexpected shaking. The quake, which measured about 4.75 on the Richter scale, was centered 20 miles north of Snyder and was felt for a radius of some 75 to 100 miles.

The community gained a new nursing home when Snyder Oaks Care Center was opened, and an active retired Senior Volunteer Program was established under the wing of Western Texas College.

Four major residential development projects came into being during the seventies. They include Park Place No. 4, Park View, Cedar Creek and Eastridge in the south, southwest and southeast areas of Snyder.

Thus, Snyder experienced expansion in all areas of activity during the decade of the seventies.

San Antonio Organizes To Get Industry

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A new San Antonio alliance of public, private and government groups, armed with an advertising budget of $860,000, has launched this sedate city's most extensive nationwide push to attract new industry.

The "United San Antonio" campaign was unveiled Wednesday and got under way with a full-page advertisement in that day's editions of the Wall Street Journal.

It was the first of 20 planned ads extolling San Antonio to the national business community, said USA co-chairman Robert McDermott.

McDermott said the search for new businesses is stressing San Antonio's status as a major Sun Belt city with a good labor force, good location and climate and a fine quality of life.

The campaign marks the first time city leaders have been able to unite all of the city's factions, some of which have scared off potential new industries in the past with their political bickering, USA officials said.

Only 20% Of Grain Shipped

WASHINGTON (AP) - Less than 20 percent of the U.S. grain bought by the Soviet Union so far in 1979-80 has actually been shipped, according to the latest export figures by the Agriculture Department.

Richard J. Finkbeiner of the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said Friday that as of Dec. 23, the most recent tabulation, only about 4.2 million metric tons had been exported to the Soviet Union.

The shipments included about 1.5 million metric tons of wheat and 2.7 million of corn, he said.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat.

Meanwhile, USDA said the Soviet Union now has bought a total of almost 21.6 million metric tons of grain, including 14.9 million of corn and nearly 6.7 million of wheat for delivery through Sept. 30.

That represented a slight upward revision from about 21.4 million metric tons the department said on Thursday had been bought by the Soviets for 1979-80 delivery. Wheat and corn exports to the Soviet Union in 1978-79 totaled about 15.7 million metric tons.

Officials said the revision for this year included smaller amounts of grain sold to the Soviet Union that had not shown up in daily export reports, which involve big contracts sold to overseas customers and must be reported to USDA within 24 hours.

The United States last year gave the Soviets permission to buy up to 25 million metric tons of corn and wheat in 1979-80. Last year's Soviet harvest was sharply reduced by bad weather, while U.S. production of key crops soared.

Thus, although more than 86 percent of the maximum amount they were told was available this year has been bought by the Soviets, less than one-fifth of those purchases has been shipped.

In addition to the upward revision in grain purchases, the department said the Soviet Union bought an additional 30,000 metric tons of U.S. soybean oil for delivery this year.

Since Dec. 20 when USDA reported total wheat and corn sales stood at about 16.1 million metric tons, the Soviet Union has bought about 5.5 million. One large order - totaling 3.8 million metric tons - was reported by the department on Thursday, the largest single day's business in several years.

However, one source, who asked not to be identified, said it was "difficult to tell" whether the stepped-up grain orders were a result of possible U.S. retaliation to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

Also, the source said, department officials for some time have been predicting the Soviets would buy the full 25 million metric tons of grain authorized for 1979-80.

The sales of grain to the Soviet Union and scores of other foreign countries are made by private exporting companies. Details of those transactions, including sales prices, are not disclosed.

Storage Well Hearing Set

AUSTIN (AP) - A Jan. 24 hearing has been scheduled by the Texas Railroad Commission on an application by Dow Chemical Co. to convert two wells into storage wells in the Stratton Ridge Salt Dome, Brazoria County.

The wells would be used to store natural gas liquids, petroleum and other liquid hydrocarbons, the commission said.

Amputee Charged In Murder

HOUSTON (AP)—A double amputee has been charged with murder in another bizarre turn in the rape-slaying case of two teen-age runaways killed five years ago.

Edward Gale Crawford, 38, was charged with murder Friday in the Dec. 8, 1974 strangulation deaths of Stephanie Lee Dooley and Beverly June Cargill, both 13.

The new twist came a day after the man who originally pleaded guilty to the murders and was sentenced to 30 years in prison switched his story and claimed he is innocent.

A warrant was issued for Crawford's arrest after police talked to Willie Gene Randles, 36, who surrendered Dec. 27 to Corpus Christi police. Officers said he made statements about the killings.

Police said Crawford lost his legs in a train accident after the two girls were killed.

Randles was turned over to Houston police and is being held without bond on a charge of murder.

Police said that Randles has not mentioned the name of Isiah Thomas Jr., known as the "Downtown Rapist," in any of his statements about the double killing.

Thomas pleaded guilty to the two murders and was sentenced to 30 years in prison in 1975. Thursday, he said fire department arson investigators had pressured him into signing a confession.

"He (Thomas) is just trying to get out of everything now," said H.G. Torres, a senior arson investigator for the fire department. Torres called Thomas' statement "an absolute lie."

Drug Shaver, Assistant District Attorney, said Friday the case against Thomas would be reopened. He also said it would be difficult to convict Thomas without the statement he gave about the killings.

Firefighters found the badly burned bodies of the two girls as they sifted through the rubble of an abandoned apartment building that had burned.

An autopsy later determined both girls had been raped and strangled before their bodies were burned.

State Health Officials Discharged

AUSTIN (AP)—Deputy state health commissioner Al Joe Hunt and personnel director Frank Heijl have been discharged. Dr. Robert Bernstein, acting state commissioner, said Thursday.

Bernstein said Arthur Turner, former legislative aide to Rep. Wilhemina Delco, D-Austin, has been named director of the department's general services division.

Turner played a key role in the health department investigation that led to the demotion of Bill Stubblefield, former head of the general services division.

Stubblefield, accused of sexually harassing a female employee, was transferred to another division with a $500-a-month cut in pay.

Bernstein had informed Hunt and Heijl by letter on Dec. 18 of charges against them. Heijl refused to comment on the letter, but Hunt said eight charges were made against him including allegations he improperly released personnel files to news reporters, secretly taped staff meetings and ordered employees to document improprieties of other employees during office hours.

Hunt said he would appeal his discharge.

Snyder Cagers Prepare For Another Full Week

Snyder's ninth and eighth grade girls are scheduled for basketball action Monday night, Tuesday, the rest of the teams get going, including Western Texas College's Dusters. Snyder Black and Gold eighth grade girls' teams will vie in Seminole beginning at 4 p.m. Monday. Also in Seminole, the Feline freshman—who competed in tournament play over the weekend—will play at 5:30.

Tuesday night Coach Joe Cushing's Dusters return to action after a near month-long holiday break. The Dusters, 12-3, will take on Henderson Junior College on the road at 7:30. WTC will then head to the Lady Aggies Tournament in College Station beginning Jan. 10 and to Lubbock on the 14th before picking up Western Athletic Conference play again.

Also on tap Tuesday, closer to home, Snyder junior varsity and varsity units will play host to Lubbock Christian High School in Scurry County Coliseum.

Snyder girl's junior varsity takes the court first, followed by the boy's junior varsity, the girl's varsity and the boy's varsity. The agenda will get underway at 3 p.m. with the first varsity tilt beginning about 6:15.

For Coach George Byerly's varsity Tigers, Tuesday's opponent looms as the only team which has gotten away with beating the District 3-AAA favorite, Midland Lee, Midland

High and Odessa Permian account for three of Snyder's four losses this season while LEHS can claim the other. Snyder, however, has also won over Permian and both Midland schools this season, and can wind up 5-0 with the foursome by knocking off Lubbock Christian here Tuesday. Meanwhile, Coach Nolan Richardson's Westerners still ranked No. 1 in the nation among junior college basketball teams begins the 1980's by taking on Howard College in round one of the annual ABC Classic in Big Spring on Thursday. On Friday, ABC's round-two pits WTC against 14-0 and No. 13 ranked Midland College in a non-conference game.

Proposal Would Change UIL Playoff Systems

AUSTIN (AP)—A proposal under study by the University Interscholastic League would give a second chance to high school teams that come in second in district play. UIL Athletic Director Bill Farney said the State Athletic Committee has ordered a study of a proposal that would add district runners-up to the state playoffs in four sports.

If approved, the expanded playoff system could go into effect for the 1982 football season, Farney said Friday.

"There's a lot of interest on the coast and a lot of interest among football coaches. Anytime you say let's have five more games or let's have another chance, you'll have the coaches' interest. That's their livelihood," said Farney.

The proposed system would double the number of teams in the volleyball, football, baseball and basketball playoffs.

The idea was brought to the UIL by El Campo football Coach Buzzy Keith, according to Farney.

Additional playoff games would mean shortening the regular season by one game or starting it earlier in the year, he said. "In any event, we'd want to finish the playoffs before Christmas, as we do now," Farney said.

Tivy Stages Nightmare 10 Overtimes

KERRVILLE (AP)—David Norris scored the winning point on a free throw as Kerrville Tivy high school defeated South San West, 55-51 Friday night—in 10 overtimes.

The teams were tied at 43-43 when regulation time ended for their District 13-3A West Zone game.

Neither team was able to score in the first, second or third three-minute overtime periods.

In the fourth overtime, South San West scored a field goal with 30 seconds left, but Kerrville tied the game again on a 25-foot desperation shot at the buzzer.

In the fifth overtime period, both teams scored four points each, leaving the game tied at 49-49.

The sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth overtimes were also scoreless, but the Antlers finally broke it open with six points in the 10th overtime period, including Norris' free shot.

PETROLEUM ENGINEERS AND DRILLING PERSONNEL

Make more, save more, travel more as you work for Aramco in Saudi Arabia. Interviews here this week.

Come meet Bob Shannon to talk about the challenge and the rewards of working on the largest oil projects in the whole world.

As you probably know, Aramco is the largest oil-producing company in the world. We're also the key firm involved in developing all of Saudi Arabia's energy resources.

Many of our projects are the world's biggest. They are staggering in scope, complexity and imagination.

There's nowhere else an oilman can find as much action, as much opportunity to develop a better career.

Here are the good people we want to meet during our personal interview sessions here in West Texas and New Mexico.

Immediate openings for Petroleum Engineers

- Drilling and Workover Engineers. You'll prepare rig schedules, drilling and workover programs, make technical studies and cost analyses, provide field assistance. In addition, you'll evaluate new equipment, materials, techniques. You'll also work out best methods for drilling a variety of onshore/offshore wells, including mud and casing programs. There'll be office duties as well as field duties.
- Production Engineers. You'll handle the technical responsibility for maintaining oil production, also gas and water injection rates in all facilities. You'll also coordinate new development projects, recommend improvements in facilities, review operating performance. And you'll give guidance in these specialist areas: corrosion, desalting and dehydration, well equipment, artificial lift production control and more.
- Reservoir and Development Engineers. We're seeking good people in these four special areas: (A) Reservoir Engineers—you'll evaluate past performance, forecast future performance of some 150 reservoirs in 45 oilfields. (B) Production Systems Engineers—you'll supervise data-handling programs for production, pressures, well status, drilling statistics, reservoir simulation systems, linear programming. (C) Field Development Planning Engineers—you'll be responsible for determining size, location and design for all new facilities. (D) Well Logging Engineers—you'll coordinate development of new survey methods, new analytical techniques such as computerized log processing—you'll also work on reservoir description and on formation evaluations.

Requirements: you should have a BS in engineering—plus at least 4 years' oil-related experience.

Immediate openings for Drilling Personnel

- Supervising Rig Mechanics. You and your crew will be responsible for a single on-site land rig, drilling to about 9,000 feet. You must be able to supervise running-repairs such as direct welding, pipefitting, carpentry on this wide variety of equipment. Large and small diesel engines, draw works, fluid couplings, torque converters, compound drives, generators, brakes, pumps, clutches, catheads.
- Senior Mechanic Electrician, Marine Drilling. You'll be the troubleshooter on all the gear in a marine drilling unit. Eight 1000-hp Caterpillar engines, ten GE generators, plus all related apparatus. You must also maintain mud pumps, draw works units, shale shakers, blowout preventer controls and much, much more.
- Supervising Tool Servicemen. You'll manage the crews that handle and maintain all tools for five or more rotary drilling rigs. The inventories are big, the responsibilities are bigger. Your work includes troubleshooting, shipping, receiving, inspecting, storing.
- Tool pushers—three kinds needed. (A) Contract Workover Rig Liaison Men, Onshore and Offshore—You'll say whether the job is progressing as specified by the workover engineer and as specified by Aramco—you'll be in on all critical operations: killing the well, nipping up and testing BOP's, finishing jobs, cementing, stimulation. (B) Contract Drilling Rig Liaison Man—You'll be the foreman, our representative for the drilling of oil and water injection wells. Special work schedules (28 on and 28 off) are presently available for the above tool pusher positions. (C) Water well Maintenance Foreman—You'll supervise an Aramco crew and/or a contractor's crew in the drilling and maintenance of our water wells.

Requirements: a high school diploma, plus 10 years' experience which relates directly to the specific job.

Excellent combination of benefits offered

As a Petroleum Engineer or a Drilling Foreman with Aramco, you can earn a competitive salary, plus a cost-of-living differential. In addition, you get a tax-protected premium for overseas employment which can amount to as much as 40 percent of your base salary.

Beyond that, Aramco offers you a comprehensive benefits package which includes 40 days' paid vacation every 12½ months (this gives you the opportunity to travel in Europe, Asia, Africa)—plus housing for singles and families, and American school systems for your children.

Call Bob Shannon to arrange a personal interview here.

Here is Bob's schedule—you can reach him only on days specified.

To make an appointment in advance, call Aramco in Houston, toll-free: 1-800-231-7577, ext. 4120. In Texas, call collect: (713) 651-4120.

If you can't make an interview, send your résumé in confidence to: Aramco Services Company, Department SN0106RSA, 1100 Milam Building, Houston, Texas 77002.

Weather Not A Factor, Feel Oilers...

Oilers 'Older, Wiser' This Time

By MICHAEL LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—Houston cornerback Greg Stenrick says the Oiler defense will be up against a different game plan Sunday in the American Football Conference championship game against Pittsburgh and quarterback Terry Bradshaw.

The Oilers shot down San Diego quarterback Dan Fouts, intercepting five of his passes in the AFC semifinals en route to a 17-14 upset victory but Bradshaw presents more problems.

"Bradshaw is a better all around quarterback," Stenrick said before the Oilers departed for Pittsburgh Friday. "We knew what Fouts was going to do but with Bradshaw you have to protect against the run and the pass. Oiler safety Vernon Perry was on the receiving end of four Fouts interceptions.

"I don't think Bradshaw will ignore me though because I got all those interceptions," Perry said. "We're going to have to go out and all do our jobs again, just like we did at San Diego." The game will be Chapter II of the family feud between the two American Football Conference Central division foes. Last year, the Oilers yielded six fumbles and lost to the Steelers 34-5.

Oiler Coach Bum Phillips says his team is older and wiser this time around. "It was all new to us last year," Phillips said. "We weren't used to having this many people at a news conference. The players weren't used to signing autographs for an hour. We know what to expect this time around." The Oilers again will carry the same special weather shoes they used a year ago, but Phillips doesn't regard equipment as a factor. "There was a whole lot more going on that field last year than shoes," Phillips said. "There were some other things happening out there." Oiler running back Earl Campbell, who counts himself 100 percent healed from a groin injury, added that weather would not be a factor. "Sometimes you get so involved in a game that you don't even hear a crowd until the game is over," the NFL rushing champion said. "You don't feel the cold after you start playing."

McKay On The Buccaneers...

Tampa Tries Another Hurdle

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Tampa Bay Buccaneers Coach John McKay is keeping his frequently acid sarcasm in check and letting his whimsical humor run rampant as he waits for Sunday's National Football Conference title game with the Los Angeles Rams.

The Buccaneers have displayed college-type spirit this week, with no indication they're tense being one game away from the Super Bowl.

"They've gotten over the biggest hurdle—that's winning the Central Division," McKay said. "That gave them a lot of confidence and they still have it."

"The biggest thing about our inexperience is that our players don't have a point of referral," McKay said. "I can go over to Charley Hannah (converted to offensive tackle this season) and say, 'Charley, remember how you did this last year?' And then he says, 'But coach, I was playing defense last year."

McKay said after Friday's practice he told his team, "You're so loose, you look like a goose. Just don't play like one and lose. I guess that's poetry."

McKay said he won't change his normal game weekend routine, explaining that "overcoaching is a bugaboo with a lot of coaches" in important games.

McKay was asked how he assessed his team's chances of winning the division before the season. "My original statement was, and get this for posterity, was that anybody can win the Central Division. Even somebody who's not in the division could win it if they wanted to," he replied. McKay, who has guided the Bucs to the highest point ever reached by a fourth-year franchise, said he decided to rely on the draft and young players after studying case histories of past expansion teams.

"A lot of them traded for quality players who were over-the-hill and won three or four games... When you do that you're getting players the other teams want to get rid of," he said.

McKay also talked about some of the key Bucs this season, starting with second-year quarterback Doug Williams.

"He's very very coachable, a very calm person. He listens to us."

McKay, who traded away draft rights to Earl Campbell, said he would have picked Williams, 17th player chosen in 1978, before Campbell.

Colorado City

COLORADO CITY—Coach Larry Scott's junior varsity crew downed Colorado City 55-31 here Friday as Nolan Richardson sacked 14 points and John Wilson nabbed 9.

The Tiger team was to join the varsity crew for games against Ballinger at 6:15 and 8 p.m. Saturday at Scurry County Coliseum.

Carter Threatens U.S. Boycott Of Olympics

By The Associated Press—Sports figures say they are against a boycott of the Olympic Games in Moscow in retaliation for Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan, claiming athletes and politics don't mix.

In his nationally televised address Friday night, President Carter said "although the United States would prefer not to withdraw from the Games scheduled in Moscow this summer, the Soviet Union must realize that its continued aggressive actions will endanger both the participation of athletes and the travel to Moscow by spectators who would normally wish to attend the Olympic Games."

There was no immediate reaction from Olympic officials to Carter's statement on the Games, but the question of a boycott was discussed earlier this week at an emergency meeting of NATO.

Less than 24 hours after the issue was raised, Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, opposed a boycott.

"I have always felt that at times administrators, and even the IOC, forget that athletes come first, and in no way should be prevented from competing by political, racial or religious discrimination," he said.

Sir Denis Follows, chairman of the British Olympic Association, said: "It is not for governments to meddle in matters of this kind. Sports should be above politics."

And John Thomas, former U.S. high jumper, added: "Athletics and politics don't mix. They never have, and they never will."

Politics have plagued the Games before, leading some nations to withdraw their teams and prompting protests by others.

Kings Hit Aces, Defeat Spurs

By The Associated Press—In times past, George Gervin and the San Antonio Spurs have mauled the Kansas City Kings Friday night, Gervin manhandled them—but the Kings managed to survive.

Gervin put in 36 points, but it wasn't enough. "They did own the rights to us, there's no question about that," said Kansas City Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons after a 115-106 victory over the Spurs.

The meeting was the 14th between the teams and only the third time the Kings have won.

Phil Ford and Otis Birdsong combined for 40 points to lead the Kansas City victory. The triumph moved the Kings into first place in the Midwest Division, one-half game in front of idle Milwaukee.

Ford tossed in 24 points, eight of them in the third period, when the Kings took charge with a 10-point lead over the Spurs. Birdsong finished with 16 points.

Bullets 117, Warriors 105
Elvin Hayes scored eight of Washington's last 12 points in the final period to lead the Bullets over Golden State.

SuperSonics 123, Pistons 105

Gus Williams scored 28 points and four other Sonics hit double figures as Seattle routed Detroit. Seattle's third guard, Fred Brown, tossed in 10 of his 18 points in a second-quarter rally that moved Seattle from two points off the pace into a 51-43 lead with just over a minute left in the half.

Nets 104, Rockets 101
Calvin Natt scored 27 points, including two free throws with eight seconds remaining, to clinch New Jersey's victory over Houston. Houston wasted a 39-point performance by Moses Malone. Calvin Murphy had 20 points for Houston while Ed Jordan had 18 for New Jersey.

Sure, I go to the Diet Center...

It just makes good sense. I know that I'll enjoy more in life once I lose these extra pounds I've picked up over the years. And at the Diet Center, I can do it without giving up the nutrition that my body needs. Chances are I'll live a lot longer, too!

Why don't you decide to join me?

To Discuss Sulfa Drugs Found In Pork

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department has called a public meeting here next month to discuss the problem of sulfa drug residues showing up in pork supplies.

Officials said the meeting will be Jan. 9-10 and will include reports on studies of feed mills, research and other factors that bear on the problem.

The problem of sulfa drug residues showing up in pork has been around for years, despite efforts by federal, state and industry officials to find solutions.

However, the latest information shows that significant headway has been made because of an action undertaken 18 months ago, officials said.

Sulfa often is included in swine feed as a disease preventive and to help stimulate growth. Under federal rules, no more than 0.1 part per million of sulfa can show up in carcasses after hogs are slaughtered at packing plants.

"The percent of these violations has been steadily declining since the program began," the department said. "It dropped from a high of 14 percent of all hog carcasses tested in July 1977 to a low of 4.8 percent in October 1979, the most recent month for which figures are available."

No new regulations to curb sulfa violations are being proposed at this time, the department said.

Nurses, they said, are trained in patient care whereas the physician's assistant is trained in diagnosis and treatment of illness.

"Nurses were trained to think like nurses," said Tarkenton, "and we were trained to think like doctors. There's a big difference."

As the job title implies, the physician's assistant helps the doctor. He takes histories, performs physicals, collects and screens data, and does laboratory and diagnostic work. He may also perform minor surgery. His purpose is to alleviate the doctor's workload and allow him to spend more time with his patients, and in that sense improve the quality of care each patient receives.

Education and training are a part of becoming a physician's assistant. Franzl received his bachelor of science degree in biology-pre-med from the University of San Francisco. He received practical training as an emergency medical technician with an ambulance service, and studied to be a physician's assistant at the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Tarkenton took his bachelor of science degree in zoology and chemistry from Texas Tech University, and studied to be a physician's assistant at the University of Texas Medical School at Galveston. He also has had limited experience working in hospital emergency rooms.

Franzl became interested in medicine at an early age.

"I found I enjoyed biology in high school. The more I got into it, the more the human body fascinated me. I just wanted to know more about it," he said.

For Tarkenton there was never any doubt he would enter some field of medicine.

"I was just interested in medicine," he said. "I never thought of another field to go into."

One frustration of the job, both men agreed, is they are sometimes not recognized by the patients they help treat and other medical personnel as being in anything other than a junior status.

"I'd like to see it develop into a recognized field of medicine," said Tarkenton of physician's assistant role.

Since 1946, the American Cancer Society has spent over $400 million for the support of cancer research and clinical investigation. The conquest of cancer is everyone's business. Give this year to help the researchers find better methods of diagnosis, new drugs, and new treatment procedures to help wipe out cancer in your lifetime.

Insurance Information Institute, a trade association, says local statistics show the problem is growing.

The insurance institute has put together a fact sheet on wood safety. It is available, at no charge, from the institute's New York office, 110 William St., New York, N.Y. 10038. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Before you buy and install any wood-burning stove check local building and fire codes to make sure you will be in compliance with the law.

Select a stove made of a sturdy material like cast iron or steel. Look for stoves listed by Underwriters Laboratories or other recognized testing services. If you are buying a used stove, check for cracks or other defects.

Think carefully about where you want to install the stove. Avoid putting it too close to a stairwell; you could wind up losing most of the heat to the floor above.

Leave plenty of space between the stove and any combustible wall or ceiling surface. Put a fireproof pad under the stove and make sure it extends at least 18 inches beyond the door through which ashes are removed.

Carpets and upholstered furniture should be at least 36 inches from the stove.

Among other do's and don'ts: DO have a competent mason inspect the chimney.

He Doesn't Expect Any Honeymoon

SALEM, Ore. (AP)—The nuptial proposal in a Portland weekly newspaper's classified advertising section said:

"I will pay $ for avail female willing to marry me, no sex."

It's serious and all business, says Oregon State Penitentiary inmate Michael Easton, who's serving a 15-year sentence for robbery and parole violation. His reason for wanting to get married is an extra $59 a month in federal education aid.

Easton said Thursday he will pay up to $250 and offer a contract including full payment of divorce costs after three years.

Easton, a full-time student in free classes taught in the prison, qualifies for $311 a month in Veterans Administration payments for up to three years. Married students receive $370 a month.

State law allows convicts to get married while in prison. And John Vogel, Portland director of the federal agency, says, "We don't question why a man gets married."

Grandbury Lawyer Appointed DA

AUSTIN (AP)—R. Wayne Hughes Jr., Grandbury, was appointed Friday to be district attorney of the 29th Judicial District for Erath, Palo Pinto and Hood Counties, until the next general election.

He will replace Bob Glasgow of Stephenville, who resigned.

Gov. Bill Clements also announced the appointment of Mrs. Omar Harvey of Dallas to the Texas 1986 Sesquicentennial Commission for a two-year term.

Eicke, Goad Say Vows

Rita Lavelle Eicke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Seabourn Eicke and William Perry Goad Jr., son of Mrs. Fleeta Nelson and W.P. Goad Sr. of Muskogee, Okla., were united in marriage Dec. 16 at 3 p.m. at East Side Church of Christ.

The bride was attired in a gown of white sheer delight of chiffonett embroidered with scalloped Alencon lace. It featured a Renaissance neckline and tiny bodice in Alencon lace. The side to center-back belt was closed with five tiny covered buttons and loops. The sheer sleeves were fitted to the wrists with lace and six tiny covered buttons. The chapel length train, a continuation of the gown, was bordered in Alencon lace. The satin rolled, fingertip length illusion veil was two tiered. It was attached to a Camelot cap covered with Alencon lace and pearls.

The bride's bouquet was a cascade of gardenias, white carnations starburst mums, lilies of the valley, baby's breath and tulle in the Constance pattern. It was accented with long streamers of lace and long satin streamers tied in love knots. For something old she carried a petite metal evening bag that was carried by her college roommate's grandmother on her first date. It contained one German Mark and pennies given to the bride by Mrs. R.J. Rosson and minted in the years of the couple's births. Something new was the bridal gown. A gold locket was borrowed from the bride's sister and diamond ear studs were borrowed from her mother. Her blue garter was made by a cousin, Tollie Ramsey.

The front of the church building was decorated with a garden scene of lattice walls and fences entwined with English ivy and red velvet and silk roses which the bride used in high school drama productions. White wrought iron chairs and a three-foot colonial column topped by the unity candle, surrounded with ivy, completed the scene. The garden area was outlined with aisle candelabrum holding hurricane lamps. The guests and wedding party entered the garden through a gateway adorned with red roses and ivy.

A prelude of A Cappella music was given by Johannes Eicke, brother of the bride, who soloed "The Wedding Song" and a group from Oklahoma Christian College. The Messengers sang "Tintie In A Bottle". Members of the group were Peggy Griffith, Mark Crain, Dennis Driskell, Davy Carter and Steve Yeakley. They also provided a harmonious A Cappella background for all soloists.

As Arlie Eicke, the bride's brother, of Magnolia, Ark. soloed "Annie's Song," the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Liddie Justus, of Crosbyton, was ushered in on the arm of the groom. He was wearing a white on white tuxedo with tails, white lace shirt and white bow tie. The groom also ushered in the bride's mother and his mother, each carrying a lighted candle, as Arlie and Johannes sang a duet of "Sunrise, Sunset."

A devotional was led by Johannes leading the audience in "Anywhere With Jesus," Arlie delivering a brief message and Ted Norton of Abilene leading a prayer. Ted is the husband of Rita Norton, for whom the bride is named. The groom and best man, David North, of Edmond, Okla., entered as "Through the Eyes of Love" was being sung by Ricky Bowden of Abilene Christian University.

"Evergreen" was being sung as the bride's attendants were brought through the gateway and down the aisle on the arms of the groomsmen. Vicky Goad, sister of the groom, entered and stood with Danny Henderson of Oklahoma City. Jana Wesson of Snyder entered and stood with David Estes of Oklahoma City. Kim Ott of Duncan, Okla., the bride's college roommate, entered and stood with Roger Kelley of Edmond. Mrs. Arlie Eicke was matron of honor. She entered and stood with Don Leftwich of Oklahoma City.

Teka Eicke, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She entered alone and stood beside the bride. Little Amy Eicke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Eicke and niece of the bride, was flower girl. She was dressed identically to the bride's attendants in ice-green satiny knit formals topped with sheer blouses splashed with roses. Amy and the attendants carried white lace parasols, enhancing the garden setting. The groom's attendants wore forest green tuxedos and bow ties with white lace shirts. They also served as ushers.

The bride was ushered through the gateway and down the bridal aisle on the arm of her father as the Messengers sang "Flower of Beauty." She presented her mother—a bouquet of long stemmed Royalty roses and dark red silk "keep-sake" rose, as she entered.

Ralph Burcham of Oklahoma City and leader of OCC's Bible Campaigns to Germany, performed the ceremony. As her vows, the bride sang "God Has Chosen You For Me," containing several thoughts she had written into the song. The groom said vows he had written for her.

"God, A Woman and a Man" was soloed by Mark Crain. The Messengers sang "Father Hear The Prayer We Offer," and then "One Hand, One Heart" as the couple lit the unity candle. The song, "More," was sung as the recessional. The bride presented to the groom's mother a bouquet identical to her mother's during the recessional.

The mother of the bride wore a sleeveless formal of light pink pleated polyester knit with a V-neck and beaded medallion centering the bodice. The groom's mother chose a dark pink pleated polyester knit formal with a pleated cape.

Each of the two doors to the auditorium featured a registry table covered with a floor length white chocolate roses. Punch was served from a flowing gold fountain. Mints were "After-Eight" mints sent by friends in West Germany for the wedding. Serving at the groom's table were Donna Conn of South Dakota, Lisa Dennis and Jeanne McCormick. All eight young ladies serving wore identical white formals with stauy rope belts. Their corsages were a single red silk rose. Portraits of the bride in her bridal gown were displayed on the gift table.

Members of the house party wore matching white lace party aprons with a single red rose. Members were Tollie Ramsey, Dorothy Rosson, dacron knit cloth. One was overlaid with a lace cloth purchased by the bride in Germany and the other was topped with a lace cloth bought by the bride in Venice, Italy. Silver bud bases containing red silk roses and baby's breath adorned the tables. Ladonna Benson and Marca Parham served.

The reception was held in East Side's multipurpose building. The entrance featured a white bird cage on a stand holding two white doves surrounded with ivy and roses. The bride's table was covered by a white polyester lace cloth topped a floor length white skirt of dacron knit with sheer Austrian pleat border. The table was centered with a white wrought iron candelabrum containing a single white candle and an arrangement of Royalty roses and Tokay grapes in a "holgarth curve" design. The elaborate all-white four tiered wedding cake was massively covered with large roses, fluted flowers, scrolls, grapes and small flowers on stems all made of icing. It was topped with a "keep-sake" bouquet of icing flowers and a white dove. The top was made to later fit under a glass dome. A single Royalty rose lay at the base of the cake.

The sterling silver punch bowl held ice-green punch. The table sat before an Austrian panel curtain. Serving were Mrs. Karin Roberts of College Station, Mrs. Dotsey Wright and Lori Watlington.

The groom's table had an ice-green knit cloth that topped a floor length skirt of white dacron knit. The centerpiece was a large gold-compote filled with English ivy and topped with the bride's bouquet. The chocolate cake was topped with chocolate roses. Punch was served from a flowing gold fountain. Mints were "After-Eight" mints sent by friends in West Germany for the wedding. Serving at the groom's table were Donna Conn of South Dakota, Lisa Dennis and Jeanne McCormick. All eight young ladies serving wore identical white formals with stauy rope belts. BEAUTY DIGEST

Fringe benefits
If mascara clumps your lashes together, try removing the brush from the mascara container a couple of minutes before application. Stroke on one coat of mascara first on upper lashes, then on lower lashes. Let dry and repeat. Use a tiny lash comb or brush, available at most drug and dime-stores, to gently untangle any lashes stuck together.

Homemade face cleaner
You can make an excellent and inexpensive skin-cleaner at home by simply mixing together milk and oil, such as safflower or soy, in a jar and shaking vigorously. Apply mixture to the face and neck with cotton balls, change balls as they become soiled. Rinse in warm, then cool water and pat dry with a soft towel. Prepare a fresh batch of cleanser every day.

Hairsto saver
Vicki Carr told Beauty Digest magazine her secret for avoiding ruining her hairstyle while she sleeps. "Keeping a hairdo intact can be a problem. I have the solution - I sleep without a pillow. This trick has a double purpose. It keeps my hairdo in good shape and it's great for posture."

Cold nails
The colder weather dries out your nails, just like it does your hair and skin, and makes them more likely to break and peel. To combat this, use a buffer regularly and apply a rich cuticle cream every night before bedtime. Protect fragile nails with a coating of polish. When it's time to change colors, use non-drying lotion formula remover that contains conditioners.

Diet food labels
Here's the key to understanding the new and helpful labels on diet food now required by law. "Low calorie" means the food contains no more than 40 calories per serving. "Reduced calorie" means that it contains at least a third fewer calories than the ordinary product of the same type food. All diet food labels must now show the number of calories per serving.

Posey, Beard Wed In Seminole Church

Miss Janice Lynn Posey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Posey, and Ricky Neal Beard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeral Beard of Snyder, were married Dec. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Seminole. The Rev. Phil Watson, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony.

Banks of white poinsettia lined the chancel rails to form a background for a white wrought-iron arch laced with greenery and white cathedral baskets filled with greenery and matching blue bows flanked the altar.

Mrs. Jerry Hewett was at the piano to play the traditional wedding marches and to accompany Barry Owens as he sang "Devoted to You," "The Wedding Song" and "Make Us One, Father God."

Kelly Burton of Snyder was best man and Cindy King and Patti Posey, sisters of the bride, were matron of honor and maid of honor. They wore royal blue silk jersey gowns fashioned with crushed mandarin collars and full blouson bodices. The gowns were styled with slit butterfly sleeves and two-tiered A-line skirts. They wore matching blue flowers in their hair and carried nosegays of pale blue carnations tied with blue satin shower streamers.

Groomsman were Gary Greenlee and ushers were Joel Posey, brother of the bride, and Jerry Beard of Snyder, brother of the bride-groom. Phillip King, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Jennifer Beard of Snyder, niece of the bride-groom, was flower girl. She wore a blue floral print long dress with long full sleeves and lace-edged ruffle collar that featured a deep self-flounce around the hem. She carried a white basket of petals that was decorated with lace and a blue satin bow.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an ivory bridal satin gown overlaid with candlelight chiffon. Vertical bands of brocade eyelet laced with narrow satin ribbon covered the fitted bodice that featured a modified V-neck and slim candlestick sleeves that were covered by a deep bell drape of lace-edged chiffon. The inset midriff, defined by horizontal bands of brocade eyelet and satin ribbon, supported the controlled A-line skirt that swept into a chapel train. Lace outlined the hem of the skirt that swept into a chapel train. Lace outlined the hem of the skirt and train.

She wore a brocade eyelet and satin-ribbon crescent headpiece that held her finger-tip veil of imported silk illusion. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of blue and white carnations nestled in ruffles of blue net and tied with a shower of pale blue streamers.

A reception immediately following the ceremony was held in the church fellowship hall. The couple was assisted in the receiving line by their parents and members of the wedding party.

The bride's table was covered by white lace over blue. A ring of greenery and blue flowers encircled the three-tiered cake which stood on Roman columns above a flowing fountain. Garlands of greenery and blue flowers were placed around the crystal punch service. Presiding at the reception table were Valerie Earl, Shirley Garner, Robbie Blount and Sherry Neves of Snyder.

After a wedding trip to Carlsbad and Cloudcroft, N.M. the couple will be at home in Snyder. The bride traveled in a rust pant suit wearing a pale blue carnation corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

She is a 1978 graduate of Seminole High School, attended Western Texas College, and is employed by West Texas State Bank in Snyder. The bride-groom, associated with McAlister Transfer and Storage Co., is a graduate of Snyder High School and attended Midwestern University.

Tomatoes Italian Style

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Sauteed tomatoes, onion and celery make an excellent side dish to accompany sliced ham or broiled chicken. Or serve it with rice for a total meal.

ITALIAN TOMATO SAUTE

- 4 medium tomatoes
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1/2 cup sliced onion
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed
- 1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper

Hold tomatoes at room temperature until fully ripe. Cut each tomato into 6 to 8 wedges. Set aside.

Melt butter in large skillet. Add celery-onion and garlic. Sauté 5 minutes.

Stir in salt, oregano and black pepper. Cook and stir for 1 minute.

Add reserved tomatoes. Stir gently over moderate heat just until tomatoes are hot, about 3 minutes.

This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 to 8 portions. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Shattering a Myth
People used to think that lung cancer was a disease for men only. Not so, the American Cancer Society reports. Because of cigarette smoking, the lung cancer death rate for women has jumped 173% since the 1950's. And the future may be grimmer because more teenage girls and young women are smoking. UNFREEZING TEENAGER-PARENT RELATIONSHIPS

Chill and distance between some parents and teenagers can prevent both from experiencing personal development. Not only does the teenager miss out on opportunities to mature and strengthen healthy habits for relating, but so do parents.

There is no one reason why or how relationships between parents and teenagers become strained. Teenage behavior often receives the blame. However, parents may need to take a long, hard, honest look at their own feelings toward teenagers.

Evaluation of the feelings parents have towards their teenager, awareness of these feelings and determination to maintain a close relationship in spite of these feelings are important.

Often, parents are reminded of their own teenage years, the risks they took and the confusion they felt. This anxiety about their own past can break down the faith and trust they have in their children.

Parents may also feel resentment toward teenagers.

This resentment may come out in comments about the way the teenagers wear their clothes, the friends they keep, how they wear their hair, how they conduct their sex lives, their choices of movies, or their attitudes about life.

Usually, the anger and resentment which parents feel toward their children is covered or hidden, but not always.

In addition to anxiety and resentment, parents are often afraid that their children will not measure up to their expectations.

This fear can lead to parents refusing to allow the teenager to do things his own way, thus, preventing the youngster from making mistakes and learning from these.

Allowing children to seek and discover their own answers to what is best for them is a real and necessary step toward maturity.

Parents can view moves toward independence, the parent is able to pursue other interests. This is an excellent time for parents to establish deeper commitments to others especially to each other.

It is also important for parents to look at their actions.

Some questions parents might ask themselves to gain insight into their actions include:

—Are we making time to do what they enjoy doing?
—Do we provide a willing ear whenever our teenager wants to talk?

—Do we tell them we are proud of them?
—Do we say we are sorry or that we made a mistake when we have goofed?

—Are we telling them and showing them that we trust them?
—Do we let our teenagers know that we think they are special?

Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Point count origin shown

By Oswald Jacoby
and Alan Sontag

In the American card game known as Pitch, you count four for the ace, three for the king, two for the queen and one for the jack. This doesn't show the value of these cards in your hand but rather the points they represent in tricks you have taken.

Back in 1915, Bryant McCampbell of St. Louis wrote his friend Milton Work suggesting that the Pitch 4-3-2-1 count be used for notrump bidding. Work wrote about it and lots of players used it.

But other writers did not. When contract came in during the late '20s, the public followed Ely Culbertson and honor tricks, which valued combinations of honors.

In 1932, Oswald Jacoby married tennis champion Mary Zita McHale. He wanted to teach her bridge in a hurry and decided it would be simpler if she gave each ace and face card a point value. It didn't take long to find that he could bid better with her than with his regular expert partners and they also started using point count.

Later on, Charles Goren added short-suit points for use in suit bidding. The count was three for a void, two for a singleton and one for a doubleton.

Here is a simple distributional point table:

- A. Each void (blank suit): three points.
- Each singleton (one-card suit): two points.
- Each doubleton (two-card suit): one point.

B. Add one point for each card over four in any suit that is so strong you don't need partner's support to establish it.

C. Subtract one point for 4-3-3-distribution. This is overlooked by other writers but is most important.

D. Count distributional points for suit bids only.

Key Numbers:
Grand slam (all 13 tricks): 37 points.

Small slam (12 tricks): 33.

Minor-suit game (11 tricks): 29.

Major-suit game (10 tricks): 26.

Notrump game (nine tricks): 26.

Point count is accurate but not perfect. As the bidding develops, you must realize that some points become worthless or nearly worthless, others increase in value.

It is impossible to make a grand slam with only five high-card points in the combined hands or to be unable to make any game with 38 high-card points.

Nation's Death Toll Exceeds Predictions
 By The Associated Press.
 Traffic accidents during the four-day New Year's weekend took 477 lives—a toll exceeding advance estimates by the National Safety Council.
 The highest toll for a New Year's weekend of the same length was 481 in 1969.
 The safety council had estimated 360 to 440 persons might die on the nation's streets and highways between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Tuesday.

Conservation District Plans Essay Contest

Entries are being accepted for the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District's annual essay and poster contests, Carl Williams, chairman of the board, announced.

The essay contest is open to all students attending schools in Borden and Scurry Counties who are 18 years of age and under.

Fracture

Blamed For

Derailment

BENNETT (AP)—A derailment that started a fire, forced evacuation of the surrounding countryside and caused an estimated $500,000 damage was caused by a "freak" fracture in a track connecting rod, according to railroad officials.

"It is kind of a freak situation," said Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. spokesman Willard Schultz. "You don't know why or how it happens but it does."

More than 30 cars and four engines of a Missouri Pacific freight train left the tracks near this western Parker County town Dec. 23, spilling toxic chemicals and starting a boxcar fire.

Residents within a mile of the wreck were evacuated as a precaution, but there were no injuries.

Schultz said a molded angle bar between two rails broke, "causing the rails not to be tied together."

The company makes weekly inspections of its tracks, but the break developed from a hairline fracture, "and of course you can't see that with the naked eye," said Schultz.

He said the tracks at the derailment site have been repaired, and work crews expect to have the remaining 15 cars cleared from the site next week.

Movie To Depict Quest For Fire

NEW YORK (AP)—A prehistoric adventure film, "Quest For Fire," is to go before the cameras for 20th Century-Fox in August.

The film is based on the novel "La Guerre du Feu," which has sold 19 million copies worldwide since 1921.

Michael Gruskoff is producing the film and Jean Jacques Annaud is directing. It is to be shot in Iceland, France and Kenya.

The poster contest is open to the students of Borden and Scurry Counties who are 12 years old and younger.

Topic for the essay contest this year is "Forty Years of Soil and Water Conservation Districts in Texas."

The essay must not exceed 300 words. It is preferred that it be typed, but that is not required.

A cover sheet should be used with the entrant's name, address, school name, and grade, along with the district number 115. The entrant's name should not appear on the essay.

In the poster contest, the poster work is to be on standard poster board cut to half size (approximately 22" x 14"). The poster topics are "Food, Fiber and Soil Conservation."

The winning entries in both contests will be sent to Temple for regional competition, where trophies will be awarded.

Certificates and ribbons will be awarded to the District winners.

These entries must be sent to the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District, P.O. Drawer 0 - Snyder 79549 by Feb. 1.

They may also be delivered to the Snyder Field Office, Soil Conservation Service, located in the Snyder Agricultural Service Center at 3423 Avenue T in Snyder. They may be submitted any time prior to the deadline date.

Just Teasing Says Robber

JUNCTION CITY, Kan. (AP)—This was a robber who could take "no" for an answer.

Junction City liquor store clerk Imogene Naylor said a man walked into her store Wednesday, pulled a gun and announced a stickup.

"Give me everything in the register," the would-be robber declared.

The clerk said she told him there was no money in the register.

"I was just kidding. There are no bullets in the gun," the man said as he fled.

Chemical Weapon Lowers Screwworm Numbers In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new chemical weapon has helped reduce screwworm attacks on livestock in the southwestern United States to their lowest level since a massive control campaign began in 1962, says the Agriculture Department.

Screwworms are the larvae of screwworm flies. The flies lay eggs in open wounds of cattle and other animals and hatch out into screwworms which then "feed on the living flesh" of the victim, officials said Thursday in an annual report.

The pests have also been known to infest humans and are frequently a problem among deer and other wildlife.

Department officials said only 86 screwworm cases were reported in the United States last year, compared to 7,230 cases in 1978 and the record of 95,642 in 1972.

Last year's cases included 39 in Arizona, 31 in Texas, 13 in New Mexico, 2 in California and 1 in Nevada.

For years, the government's main weapon against screwworms has been a program in which millions of adult male screwworm flies are sterilized and then dropped from aircraft in southern U.S. areas bordering Mexico, which also cooperates in the eradication effort.

A characteristic of the female fly is that she only mates once. Thus, the idea is to drop enough sterile male flies so that after mating with a natural female she lays eggs that do not hatch into screwworm larvae.

In addition to this method, officials said the 1979 attack included the use of the Screwworm Adult Suppression System - which they call SWASS. It involved a combination of an insecticide and bait into pellets which then were dropped from aircraft over infested areas.

An agency spokeswoman, Kathy Ellis, said the chemical used in the SWASS attack last year, was DDVP 2,2-dichlorovinyl-dimethyl-phosphate which had been approved by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Ms. Ellis said an estimated 6,000 square miles were covered by airdrops of the pelletized insecticide, about 3,000 in southern Texas and a total of 3,000 square miles in southern New Mexico and southern Arizona.

our right to work

With the arrival of the new year the sly politicians are returning to "work" in the City of Disappointments on the Potomac and later in the Marbled House of Connivance on the Colorado River in Texas. It will be Election Year, USA, and we homefolks had better look out. Some lawmakers will do anything to get a vote.

Down here in Texas we may be "sitting pretty," but a wary Texan never takes anything for granted. We are referring now to the state's fine right-to-work laws which so far have put us on the plus side in employment; that is, in job availability.

This is not a big metropolitan or major urban-area advantage. Here in the Permian Basin we can feel the influence of the right-to-work laws, and that influence is good. It is felt in the small towns as well as the large industrial communities.

Right-to-work states simply have a better job environment.

We note from statistics - available to anyone - that New York led the list of compulsory unionism losses in the last decade, with a deficit of 395,800 jobs.

That amounted to a loss of one out of every five manufacturing jobs that existed in 1968, and it is due largely to compulsory unionism and its attendant burdens.

New York, of course, was not alone in its loss of good jobs. Over the same 10-year period, workers in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and Illinois, all compulsory unionism states, suffered the loss of more than one out of every 10 manufacturing jobs.

Where did all the jobs go? They went to the right-to-work states. That is, most of them did. Some perished under the heavy boot of big labor.

While those states of heavy population and once large industrial activity lost jobs, workers in all 20 right-to-work states have enjoyed dramatic increases in manufacturing jobs.

In fact, five right-to-work states have seen job increases of more than 50 percent. And, according to the statistics, fully half of all the right-to-work states have increased manufacturing employment by more than one-third.

Area communities have gained industry because of the healthful employee-employer climate existing here. One can look back over the past decade and count numerous new industries that have come to this area. It is not likely that this area - or any Texas area - would have attracted those industries if there had been the compulsory-unionism laws that are in force in so many other states. And as a result, there would not have been made available the lucrative jobs that have been such a boost to the local economy.

In short: right-to-work laws are good for the economy, compulsory unionism legislation is bad for the economy. The arithmetic is just that simple.

One can determine the significance of the impact of the right-to-work laws by further observation of the worker, industry and job statistics. The Bureau of Census figures reflect that in unprecedented numbers, working men and women are moving to right-to-work states because more new jobs are available there.

In compulsory unionism states, sky-high taxes, soaring unemployment and high living costs are more than commonplace. But in the right-to-work states, a net population gain of more than three million Americans between 1970 and 1977 was posted, according to the Bureau of the Census.

Those figures bear an explicit message which is: compulsory unionism is bad, and all Texans should be on the alert lest, in the coming election year the politicians, for the sake of gaining an extra vote from the big labor unions, try to sneak in legislation that will hamper one of the Texan's greatest freedoms, the right to work without belonging to a union.

politics and hunger

How can anybody play politics with hunger?

The very idea that any nation would allow people to starve in order to accomplish diplomatic objectives!

Well, now, wait a minute.

The recent situation in Iran has brought into sharp focus our lopsided disadvantage if we aid and comfort our enemies in the name of "humanity." While they are willing even to kill people in the name of religion.

Historically, our country has been disinclined to withhold food from anybody who's hungry.

Recently, frequently, our generosity has been misused by dictators who diverted our shipments to their own profit - but we accepted that calculated risk in the hope that at least some of our gift-grain would filter down to starving babies.

Then came the tremendous grass-roots response to the song CHEAPER CRUDE OR NO MORE FOOD! Then came the sobering situation in Iran.

Then - President Allan Grant of the American Farm Bureau reversed his long-standing opposition to playing international politics with food. He said we are fools to strengthen the captors, of our own people!

Then - American longshoremen's unions refused to load grain shipments bound for Iran.

It was then that President Carter quietly allowed an undeclared embargo on food for Iran.

The hordes who populate Iranian cities have depended on imports for half of what they eat and 80 percent of those imports have been supplied by U.S. farmers.

Our Agriculture Department (USDA) had earlier rejected the idea of "cheaper crude or no more food." Agriculture Secretary Bergland called the notion "impractical."

Now, after you and the longshoremen and the Farm Bureau and others got riled up, suddenly the Department of Agriculture has reversed itself.

Now the USDA's Midwest expert, Michael Kurtzig, says a cutoff in shipments of American feed grains to Iran will create shortages there almost immediately.

Indeed, while the oil-drunk Ayatollah Khomeini has been urging his followers to arm themselves and prepare to use guns against the United States, Iranian merchants have been trying desperately to purchase 30,000 tons of Louisiana rice.

There are always mercenaries willing to try to complete such a deal through intermediaries but some of us are watching.

The Iranians have been trying to purchase grain elsewhere. They tried to order 60,000 tons of barley from Canada; were refused.

Will this punish our farmers, depress grain prices, add more red ink to our trade imbalance? It will not hurt us anything like as much as it will hurt them.

And it will benefit us if it motivates us to accelerate the conversion of surplus grain to alcohol fuel. (c) 1980, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

The feller on Deep Creek says, "It's a lot easier to be a character than to have it."

One thing that has always made West Texans unique has been their desire and ability to work. Texans have never been afraid of work and they have taken pride in the fact that their productivity is among the highest in the nation.

Generally, Texans feel that they should put in a day's work for a day's wages, and for that reason many firms have relocated to the state in the past few years.

Although we hear about unemployment and concede that it must exist somewhere, we have always been amazed by the number of jobs offered in the classified sections of almost any newspaper.

Snyder has a low unemployment rate, according to the Texas Employment Commission. This figure reflects those who actually have filed for unemployment compensation and other benefits. While the national averages have been above 10 percent, the rate locally has been in the two percent range. We also must remember that 1.5 percent of those probably wouldn't work even if a job was offered.

In the last decade, there also has been a trend for women to enter the work force and therefore two-income families have permitted those families to have the little extras.

Inflation has pushed others into the work force in order to make those monthly essentials available for the family.

In Snyder, if someone wants to go to work, there are plenty of jobs available. The oilfield service industry is picking up steam once again, and we know there are jobs available in the oil patch.

Recently, Walls Industries announced its desire to add to the work force. Another major industry, American Magnesium, has eyes on potential employees from time to time.

Snyder's newest industry, Northern Electric, sometime next month will produce its millionth electric blanket. Again, this fine firm would like to add additional employees in order to increase production.

The recent increase in federal minimum wages has caused a general adjustment in wages, and at Northern the beginning pay scale was recently increased by 11.9 percent.

The heart of the Northern work force is women, and those pay checks total roughly $100,000 per month. That's been a big boost to the Snyder economy.

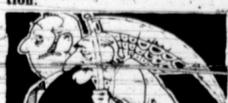

In March, Northern will have been in Snyder two years, and the firm, along with all our industries and employers, have helped make Snyder a bright spot in the area.

it's possible

For years our family has had the custom of staying home on Saturday evenings. We have a quiet meal in a quiet home and a very quiet and relaxed evening. We pray together as a family following dinner, and then later in the evening come soothing baths.

The mind goes to bed on this night of the week relaxed, prepared to experience a spending of this relaxation through the spirit during a night of calm sleep.

In the morning the mind is conditioned for the unique day of the week. This day is for worship and the family - for rest and peace and gladness.

The clothing we put on is distinctive. It will be clothing that will harmonize with the highest emotions of self-esteem and self-dignity.

The place to which we go is distinctive - the house of worship. The people we gather together with are distinctive. They are seekers after peace, love, faith and hope.

The sounds, sights, smells are distinctive - rhythms of light fragrances of flowers, tempo and harmonies. The intensity of sounds are distinctive - to contribute to peace and joy and gladness.

Tension-producing profanity which we must tolerate in public, in print and through other media through the week is replaced by "different words." And words are emotional baths - Sunday is an exposure to words that cleanse, relax, and heal the spirit.

We leave this experience of worship having had a two-sided therapeutic treatment. We have - in worship - drained out negative emotions and tensions that inevitably collect every six days. And we have filled our lives at a deep level with a positive emotion-experience. As the oil of an engine is drained out to carry with it the collected irritants that would silently but cancerously corrode the power center, so we have given ourselves a "spiritual oil change."

We return from the house of worship to an environment that is emotionally harmonious with the scene set the night before and enhanced by the fresh Sunday morning experience.

So if we take Sunday dinner in a restaurant it will be a very special, distinctive place characterized by an emotional environment conducive to the continuation of the worship experience. The rain that has fallen must be given a chance to soak into the soil.

The restaurant must be quiet, with cloth napkins, soft voices and gentle sounds, so the mood of the morning should not be rudely interrupted before the tranquilizing experience has a chance to seep to the deepest levels and farthest corners of the mind.

No single discipline is more relevant to American culture today than this principle from God: One day in seven is to be kept holy. We cannot expect God to speak to us until we are quiet, calm and relaxed. Tranquility is Conditioning for Communication.

Carve out your own 24-hour quiet zone and hold it for a treatment today.

Prudhoe Bay Field At Peak Production Rate

By MAX SKELTON
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP)—Alaska's prolific Prudhoe Bay field is expected to account for about 18 percent of domestic crude oil production this year.

But Alton W. Whitehouse says Prudhoe Bay, on the short term, cannot be counted on for any further help in halting the continuing decline in U.S. production.

Whitehouse is chairman of Standard Oil Co. Ohio, which benefits from nearly half the production from the field on Alaska's North Slope.

No further help in reversing the downward trend for domestic output can be expected from Prudhoe Bay, Whitehouse said, because "we have now reached the maximum efficient recovery rate of the field."

At that maximum rate, Whitehouse expects Prudhoe Bay to average about 1,500,000 barrels a day this year, some 250,000 above the 1979 level.

Prudhoe Bay was discovered in 1968 but the field was without a market outlet until the 1977 opening of the Trans-Alaska pipeline.

During that long delay, crude production in the lower 48 states rose from 9,096,000 barrels a day in 1968 to an all-time high of 9,637,000 a day in 1970.

Six years of decline then set in, with output dropping to a low of 8,132,000 barrels a day in 1976.

The reversal trend resulting from Prudhoe Bay output lasted only two years, with 1977 domestic production averaging 8,245,000 barrels a day and 1978 output averaging 8,701,000.

Final 1979 figures are not available but the American Petroleum Institute estimated the January-November average at 8,502,000 barrels a day, some 2.4 percent below the year earlier level.

Whitehouse, in a year-end statement, said 1980 domestic production will about equal 1979 output because of the higher Prudhoe Bay level.

"Production from all other major U.S. oil fields is declining at the rate of about 3 percent per year," he said.

"Even though prices of domestic crude oil are gradually being decontrolled, the expected imposition of a federal excise tax, popularly but incorrectly tagged the 'windfall profits tax,' will do nothing to stimulate the discovery and development of new oil reserves the nation needs to offset future production declines in older oil fields."

Whitehouse said crude production outside the United States is uncertain because of the Iranian situation and announced production cutbacks by other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

"On the other hand, a step-up in production is expected from some non-OPEC sources such as the North Sea and Mexico," Whitehouse said.

"Because the United States cannot rely on OPEC countries to make up any shortfall, it is imperative we increase conservation efforts and remove all unnecessary roadblocks to boosting domestic supply of all energy sources."

Also in a year-end statement, another executive, Fred L. Hartley, chairman and president of Union Oil Co. of California, termed 1979 "as the year of price and political chaos in the oil industry and the economies of the western world."

"Never have so few affected the lives of so many as they doubled and even tripled the price of oil from $13 to $26 per barrel on the contract market and to $39 per barrel or higher on the spot market," Hartley said.

Hartley said oil importing nations have suffered severe economic shock as they watched, during the same period, the price of gold climb from $200 to more than $500 an ounce.

And amazingly during this period, he added, there was no really severe supply shortage as long as the demanded oil prices were met.

"Obviously then a truly free competitive market has been purposely thwarted by those nations who establish their export prices in argumentative gatherings which nevertheless result in an extremely effective price fixing scheme," Hartley said.

Japanese Women Satisfied Single

TOKYO (AP)—A government poll of unmarried Japanese women found 25 percent are not anxious to marry.

The report, released Thursday, said the number of women not seeking marriage was up 11 percent from 1973, when the last survey was taken.

It also found 56 percent of those surveyed said they would defy tradition and choose their own companions, a 10 percent increase, while 28 percent said they would seek the counsel of parents and friends—a 10 percent decrease.

Singers Widen Careers

By YARDENA ARAR
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Love is still keeping them together — and together they're still on the record charts — but Toni Tennille and Daryl Dragon are embarked on an all-out effort to widen their individual careers beyond the narrow confines of the Top 40.

"I just think the record business is too damn fickle," says Miss Tennille. "Mrs. Dragon, if you prefer."

"I'm telling you, if you don't pop those hit records out like hotcakes, if you don't have one for six or seven months."

"Good-bye," interjects the laconic Dragon. "nobody knows your name," finishes Miss Tennille.

Such grouching usually comes from people who haven't been enjoying much success, but this is hardly the case with the Captain & Tennille, as the Dragons are known to millions.

Their latest release, "Do That To Me One More Time," was in the Top 10 and still climbing when they were interviewed recently at their rambling Pacific Palisades home — she in running shorts and a sweatshirt, he in his usual nautical cap.

However, the Dragons did experience what they — as Los Angeles Dodger fans — would acknowledge as a hitless streak in the last couple of years.

After taking the music industry by storm with their rollicking 1975 rendition of Neil Sedaka's "Love Will Keep Us Together," the Captain & Tennille were slated to become the next Sonny & Cher on an NBC variety series.

The series did respectably well and made their faces familiar — perhaps too familiar. By mutual agreement, it did not continue beyond one season. They felt they were overexposed on television.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Medicine stopped too soon?

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR LAMB — I'm writing you about my husband, Charley. We live in Florida. Charley had diarrhea for two months. He went to a gastroenterologist and X-rays were taken and a sigmoidoscopy done. The doc said Charley had ulcerative colitis. He gave him Azulfidine (sulfasalazine). Charley was feeling good — no more diarrhea.

We moved to another state and Charley went to another gastroenterologist. He did a colon scope and said Charley did not have ulcerative colitis. He told Charley to stop taking Azulfidine and started Charley on another medicine. A few days later Charley started bleeding. At first it was just a few drops and we called the doc. He said it might be hemorrhoids. The bleeding got worse. We called again. This time the doc did another colon scope test and this time Doc said Charley had ulcerative colitis.

He put Charley on Azulfidine again. Would there have been scar tissue from Charley's first bout of ulcerative colitis and would it show? Would Charley have had bleeding if he had not stopped Azulfidine? What are the signs when an attack is coming on? Should Charley be taking calcium since he longer drinks milk?

DEAR READER — Charley has a difficult disease and is hard for doctors to manage. Not only that, it can go into remissions on its own and cause no symptoms at all for a period of time and then strike again. That's why doctors sometimes have trouble knowing whether their medicine is working or whether another nature is just going through the cycle for ulcerative colitis.

For the benefit of other readers, ulcerative colitis is best described as its name implies. It produces ulcerations in the colon. This is often associated with diarrhea and the ulcers are penetrating in the right area, they can cause bleeding.

To answer your questions specifically, Charley may not have had the disease long enough to have produced scar formation and in that case, there wouldn't have been anything to see on the X rays or other studies from his previous bout of ulcerative colitis. Long-standing ulcerative colitis often does cause changes in the colon that persist even between attacks. It's difficult to know whether Charley would have bled or not because of the unpredictable course of the disease with remissions and new attacks. So no one can really say that Charley would have bled if the Azulfidine had not been stopped.

The best evidence of an attack coming on really is the onset of pain and diarrhea. Of course, if there's bleeding there can be a sign. Sometimes there can be a rather major loss of blood to the point that transfusions are required.

Yes, Charley should probably be getting calcium supplements and you should talk to his doctor about this.

The nature of the disease and its treatment varies widely. There are certain aspects of it, though, that are similar to the problems of diarrhea so I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-8, What You Need To Know About Diarrhea. This issue covers many of the causes of diarrhea and what can be done about the common forms of it. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. 'Ripper' Continues To Elude Yorkshire Police

EDITOR'S NOTE — The infamous 19th-century Jack the Ripper has a 20th-century counterpart, it seems. The modern mass murderer, with 12 deaths on his hands, has taunted police and thus far eluded them. But, British detectives vow they will catch him.

By ED-BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Every Saturday, the tough punk soccer fans of England's northern industrial cities taunt police patrolling big league games with a blood-chilling chant: "Ripper 12, Police 0."

The Yorkshire Ripper has slashed 12 women to death in four years, attacked at least four others, and evaded the biggest and costliest murder dragnet in British police history.

The knife-wielding psychopath first struck more than four years ago, Oct. 30, 1975. He butchered a prostitute named Wilma McCann, a 28-year-old divorced mother of four in the red-light Chapeltown district of the textile city of Leeds.

Since then he has struck again and again at random with no discernible motive or pattern beyond an apparent pathological hatred of prostitutes, even though three of his victims were respectable women.

He always leaves a trademark — a special knife wound.

Police refuse to describe it for fear of copycat killings.

Detectives in Yorkshire admit they're stymied: In November Chief Constable Ronald Gregory called one of Scotland Yard's top sleuths, 51-year-old Cmdr. Jim Nevill, a hard-nosed veteran who headed the Yard's anti-terrorist squad.

Detectives say all they can do is wait until the Ripper strikes again and hope he makes a mistake. But if he doesn't, they fear it's possible he may never be caught despite some tantalizing clues like his blood group — obtained through analyzing saliva on the stamp on a letter he sent detectives — his footprint and his voice on tape.

A detective who has seen some of the Ripper's victims says: "We're after an animal. But I bet he looks like you or me, an ordinary bloke. That's just one of our problems."

The elusive killer takes his name from Jack, the Ripper, who stalked the cobbled streets of London's Whitechapel district in 1888, slaying at least five prostitutes.

The Yorkshire Ripper is Britain's most notorious mass murderer and, like his Victorian namesake, Son of Sam and the Boston Strangler, he has slipped into folklore and become a macabre public bogeyman.

After the last known ripper slaying Sept. 4, police launched an unprecedented publicity campaign in a desperate bid to dig up clues to flush the killer out.

The core of the campaign is an edited version of a tape-recorded message the police are convinced came from the Ripper.

Detectives say the 3-minute, 38-second tape must be genuine because it contains unpublicized details of the slayings that only the killer would know.

"Why all the fuss? When Lincoln was president, there were Russian troops in ALASKA!"

Houston Loses Cotton Spot Market Status

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says it has removed Houston from a list of "bona fide spot cotton markets" because its volume of trading was too small.

Officials said Thursday that under the U.S. Cotton Futures Act a bona fide spot cotton market "must trade in enough volume to establish spot price quotations." Houston, they said, "failed to meet this criterion, reporting a volume of less than 1,500 bales for the past year."

Removal of Houston leaves nine designated spot cotton markets, at: Montgomery, Ala.; Phoenix, Ariz.; Greenwood, Miss.; Greenville, S.C.; Memphis, Tenn.; Dallas and Lubbock; Augusta, Ga.; and Fresno, Calif.

Spot-market quotations issued by Greenville, S.C., will replace the Houston figures in establishing price differentials for short-staple cotton traded on Futures Contract No. 1, officials said.

Squeeze Hurts Single Family Housing Most

NEW YORK (AP) — The housing squeeze prompted by federal money controls is having its greatest effect on single family homes, according to a recent study.

The study issued Thursday by the F.W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Co. reported a decline of 21 percent in the value of all U.S. new home constructions from October to November, with most of the drop "concentrated in one-family homes."

The value of housing construction for those months fell from $5.97 billion to $4.71 billion.

Economists attributed the drop to the scarcity of available mortgages. Mortgages became more difficult to obtain after the Federal Reserve Board raised discount rates in early October and made mortgage investments unprofitable at rates limited by state usury laws.

Pollution Plagues Athens

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Athens, one of the most densely populated capitals in the world, also is considered one of the most heavily polluted.

The pollution problem recently became acute when a huge noxious cloud hung over the capital due to windless, humid weather conditions with unusually high 93F° temperatures for that time of year.

Article 24 of the Greek Constitution states that "it is the right of every Greek subject to live and work in a clean and healthy environment." Many Greeks, especially in the capital, believe that they are being deprived of this right.

The recent cloud, characterized as "the cloud of death" in local press reports, has, according to a private center of environmental studies here, caused illness and death from respiratory diseases and heart attacks.

The government, on the other hand, said that no problem has been caused to the health of the public by the cloud. It has, however, turned public attention yet again to the problem of pollution in this once pristine area of Attica, encompassing the Greek capital.

Samples from the cloud taken by the Panhellenic Center for Environmental Studies showed that it contained four times the normal amount of smoke, 10 times the internationally accepted level of ozone and three times the permissible level of sulphur dioxide.

The atmospheric pollution is primarily caused by industry and the increasingly large number of cars in circulation. This year more than 820,000 cars are officially registered, and they are augmented by 150,000 tourist vehicles.

Tangible proof of pollution damage to ancient monuments is scaring authorities into dismantling one of the temples on the Acropolis hill and taking in the museum the six statues known as the Caryatid maidens which have stood there for 25 centuries. Their carved faces are almost featureless and the surface of the marble is pitted and worn.

Finance Minister Athanasios Canellopoulos recently gave an estimate of 10 percent of the GNP or 200 billion drachman 555 million as the amount necessary by the year 2000 to clean up the environment in Greece. He said that every month dust weighing 100 tons falls on each square mile of the capital, while a daily 350,000 cubic meters of raw sewage is pumped out into the nearby Saronic Gulf.

Paper's Error Is Dead Issue

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1980 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My mother recently passed away after a brief illness. In the obituary published in our local newspaper, they gave her age as 89.

Abby, mother was only 80, so it was apparently a typographical error.

Now this may not seem very important to some people, but mother was a very vain and prideful woman who would never tell her age.

Because of this typographical error in her obituary, everyone will think she is nine years older than she actually was.

Should we ask the newspaper editor to publish a correction? I say we should. The rest of the family says to skip it.

OUTVOTED IN OHIO

DEAR OUTVOTED: Sometimes it's better to leave bad enough alone. In support of my advice, I offer the following from the California Newspaper Publishers Association. It is an example of a typographical error in the classified section of a small town newspaper, and the subsequent disastrous attempts to correct it:

"(Monday) FOR SALE—R.D. Jones has one sewing machine for sale. Phone 948-0707 after 7 p.m. and ask for Mrs. Kelly who lives with him cheap.

"(Tuesday) NOTICE—We regret having erred in R.D. Jones' ad yesterday. It should have read: 'One sewing machine for sale. Cheap. Phone 948-0707 and ask for Mrs. Kelly who lives with him after 7 p.m.'

"(Wednesday) NOTICE—R.D. Jones has informed us that he has received several annoying telephone calls because of the error we made in his classified ad yesterday. His ad stands correct as follows: FOR SALE—R.D. Jones has one sewing machine for sale. Cheap. Phone 948-0707 p.m. and ask for Mrs. Kelly who loves with him.

"(Thursday) NOTICE—I, R.D. Jones, have NO sewing machine for sale. I SMASHED IT. Don't call 948-0707, as the telephone has been out. I have NOT been carrying on with Mrs. Kelly. Until yesterday she was my housekeeper, but she quit.

DEAR ABBY: My problem may not seem important to you, but it's ruining our marriage. My husband's feet smell! This is no joke, Abby. His feet smell like rotten eggs.

When he comes home from work, the first thing he does is take off his shoes. I have to leave the room to keep from gagging. When I try to talk to him about it, he says, 'I can't help it. Get off my back!'

I've even refused to sleep in the same room with him, but that doesn't bother him. I wonder if something couldn't be wrong with his sense of smell? I don't know how HE can stand it. I know his socks can't be dirty because he changes them every day.

If it weren't for his smelly feet we would have a wonderful marriage because he is one terrific guy. I've even considered leaving him. Please help me.

ALL SMELLED OUT IN R.I.

DEAR SMELLED OUT: Most physicians—and certainly all podiatrists and endocrinologists—are familiar with this disorder, which is usually caused by excessive perspiration. Urge your terrific guy to see a doctor. Smelly feet are nothing to sniff at.

DEAR ABBY: Some years ago I, like DOG TIRED, was troubled by a neighbor's barking dog. My appeals to the owner had no effect, so I solved the problem myself by training the dog.

I borrowed a public address system from a friend, affixed the microphone and speaker to the top of my fence, facing the neighbor's house where the dog lived, then I turned the volume up as loud as I could.

Every time the dog barked (or even whined), the sound was amplified and the public address system would roar back at the dog! After two days, the dog never uttered a sound!

VERNON ORR: COSTA MESA

DEAR VERNON: Thanks for the tip. If anyone out there tries the "Orr Maneuver" and it works, send thanks to Costa Mesa.
