

Bani-Sadr Receives Power Of Military

By The Associated Press
Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini was reported by Tehran Radio today to have transferred his post as commander in chief of the armed forces to President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr.

There has been speculation in the last week that Bani-Sadr wanted to move Iranian troops to the U.S. Embassy and replace the militant students who have been holding approximately 50 American hostages since Nov. 4.

The report of Bani-Sadr's increased power comes as a U.N. commission prepared to fly to Iran via Paris to investigate the regime's charges against the ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Both the U.S. and Iranian governments have agreed to the composition of the commission, and the Carter administration views the panel as one of the steps leading to release of the Americans.

In a related development, the Paris-based station Radio Luxembourg reported that Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh was believed to have met with President Carter's chief of staff Hamilton Jordan in Paris.

The broadcast said the meeting took place Monday, but gave no other details.

Jordan has been reported actively involved in the negotiations to try to free the American hostages in Tehran.

U.S. Embassy officials in Paris declined to confirm or deny the report.

"We have been put under strict instructions not to discuss anything about the negotiations at this delicate stage," one official said.

The Iranian Embassy would not give any details of Ghotbzadeh's meetings in Paris saying he was on a "private visit" and would return to Tehran Tuesday night.

Tehran Radio said Monday that Ghotbzadeh had extended his visit to Paris for talks with "unofficial personalities" related to the hostage problem.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—As the skipper of the doomed Coast Guard buoy tender Blackthorn braced himself for another day of testifying today, salvage crews raised the sunken ship off the bottom of Tampa Bay and started tugging it out of the shipping channel into shallow water.

Vance To Visit Allies

By The Associated Press
On the eve of President Carter's deadline for a Soviet withdrawal from Afghanistan, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance sets out for talks with European allies today to discuss further retaliatory measures against the Kremlin. The Soviet news agency Tass blasted the trip, saying it threatened détente.

Seeks Support In Speech

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter sought support today among American veterans for his response to the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan, declaring that "opposing voices have been raised against these necessary actions."

"It is obvious that the Soviet leaders miscalculated in Afghanistan," the president said in a speech to the annual conference of the American Legion.

Prime Rates Go To 15 3/4 %

NEW YORK (AP)—Several of the nation's largest banks boosted their prime lending rate by a half-point to 15 3/4 percent on Tuesday, returning the rate charged on loans to top-ranked business borrowers to the record level set last fall.

The move was kicked off by Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third-largest, after the Federal Reserve last Friday increased its discount rate by a full percentage point to 13 percent in a bid to control inflation.

To Pay For Abortions Of Poor

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government must begin paying for most abortions for poor women, the Supreme Court said today.

The justices, by a 6-3 vote, refused to block a federal judge's order forcing the government to pay for poor women's medically necessary abortions. The high court, however, did not rule on the merits of the case, but will review it later.

Anyone want to challenge Scurry County's claim to the title of "Basketball Capital of Texas?"

In case you haven't been keeping up with the situation, here are the credentials:

Snyder High School, Girls Team—Rose up against terrific odds and knocked off Lake View in over-time Saturday night to claim the District crown. It was not only their first district championship but the first time they had ever defeated Lake View.

Snyder High School Boys Team—Undeclared in district play and ranked No. 2 in Class AAA in the state—can win district title outright with a victory over Brownfield tonight.

Western Texas College Westerners—Riding high as No. 1 ranked junior college team in the nation since December and destined to be the favorite in regional tournament.

Western Texas College Dusters—Already clinched playoff spot in regional junior college tournament at Big Spring the first week in March.

Ira and Hermleigh Boys Teams—Both in playoffs for their district title.

There has been evidence that local fans are warming up to the situation. Crowds at the Westerner-Midland College game and at the Snyder-Lamesa boys high school game here were among the largest gatherings to be held in the local coliseum. More and more are awakening to the fact that they have the opportunity to see some of the best in the business right here at home.

Here's another definition of a small town we encountered the other day:

A small town is where you don't have to guess who your enemies are. Your friends will tell you.

The only place where people past middle age are called by their first names when they saunter down the street.

Where everybody knows everybody's car by sight and also where and when it goes.

Where, when you get a wrong number on the phone, you can talk for 15 minutes if you want to.

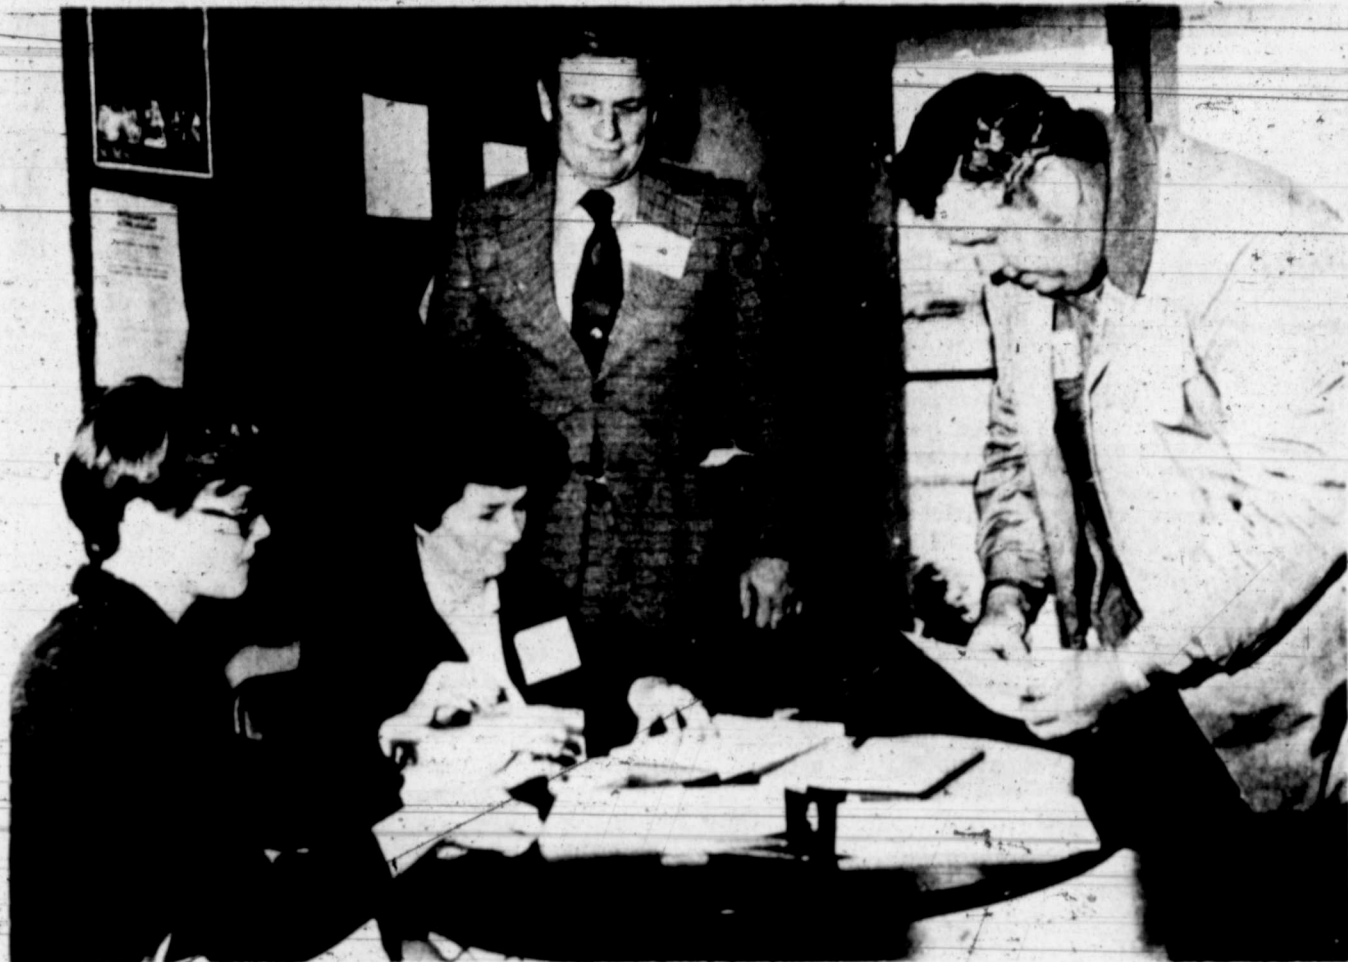

Where it is hard for anybody to walk for exercise because it takes too long to stop and explain to people in cars who stop, honk and offer you a ride.

Where everyone becomes a neighbor in time of need.

Where everyone knows all the news before it is published and they just buy the hometown newspaper to see if the editor gets it right.

WTC Summer Session Set... College Board Okays Tax Work Contracts

Scurry County Junior College District Trustees last night approved contracts for assessing and collecting of college district taxes and changed dates for the Western Texas College summer session to provide a nine-week term with classes four days each week.

Resolutions adopting contracts with the Scurry County Tax Office for collecting taxes got unanimous approval. The college district has been contracting with the county tax office for both assessing and collecting, but now that the new county-wide appraisal district has become operative, it will join other taxing jurisdictions in the county in participation.

Under the new schedule adopted last night, WTC summer school will begin with registration on May 28. First day of classes will be May 29 and the session will end on July 23. There will be classes Monday through Thursday from 7 a.m. to 8:15 a.m., from 8:20 a.m. to 9:35 a.m., from 9:40 a.m. to 10:55 a.m., and from 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Summer evening classes will be held one night each week from 6 p.m. to 10:10 p.m.

A student may earn as many as nine semester hours by attending summer day classes and/or three semester hours by attending the evening class, said Dr. Ben Brock, WTC vice president.

An order-notice of the college district's trustee election scheduled for April 5 was approved. Voting for college trustees will be conducted simultaneously with public school district elections, with voting boxes in Snyder, Hermleigh and Ira.

The board approved a revision of the college district's policy on person-

Ask Us

Q—When a candidate for county or state office gets his name on the ballot by petition, do the taxpayers have to pay his filing fee?

A—Filing fees now are set by law and when the expenses of holding primary elections are totaled up at the end of the political season, the state re-imurses the party officials for any expense above the amount provided by the filing fee. So, anyone who doesn't pay a filing fee may get a free ride at state expense, which means the answer to your question is yes.

Clayton Offered Money On Tape

AUSTIN (AP)—Speaker Bill Clayton's lawyer says federal officials have a tape recording of Clayton being offered as much as $650,000 if he would use his influence in getting an insurance contract.

Austin attorney Charles Burton said Monday night that U.S. Attorney Tony Canales, Houston, told him about the money and tapes of Clayton's conversations.

Canales has refused to talk with reporters about the case.

Burton talked to reporters after the Dallas Times-Herald, in a copyright story, quoted Justice Department sources as saying Clayton was offered $600,000 to distribute to "other sources."

Burton said while he was trying to pin Canales down on what was on the tapes Canales said "something was said about $200,000."

He also said he thought it was correct that the man offering Clayton money "had run something by about $600,000 or $650,000. He was really rolling some high figures off his tongue."

Canales also told Burton he had not transcribed all the tapes and was not sure what else was on them.

"There's some pretty bad stuff on tape," Burton quoted Canales as telling him.

Burton said if the U.S. attorney did not let Clayton's attorneys listen to the tapes he might ask for a court order forcing Canales to cooperate.

The Times-Herald said Clayton acknowledged the $600,000 figure was mentioned during his Nov. 8 meeting with a Houston labor leader and an FBI agent posing as an insurance company representative.

Beef referendum Vote Underway Today

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—U.S. cattlemen, some saying they want to build a war chest to fight those who would "remove meat from the table of the American consumer," begin voting today on a program to raise an estimated $4 million to promote the virtues of beef.

a principle objective is to promote the nutritional virtues of beef and combat "anti-meat propaganda."

Scholarships For Nurses Provided

Vocational Nursing scholarships for students at Western Texas College will be provided by an endowment given by Mrs. Evelyn McLaughlin Knox of Houston and Snyder.

Mrs. Knox has presented the $10,000 endowment in memory of her mother, the late Mrs. C.T. (Evelyn Clare) McLaughlin of Snyder. She chose to designate it for the Vocational Nursing program because of its value to the community and the state, she said, and she wished to support Western Texas College in its teaching of nursing skills.

The gift will be placed in the Western Texas College Scholarship Foundation, along with other funds received especially for scholarship use. Interest from the fund provides a continuing source of financial assistance for students at the college.

Dr. Robert L. Clinton, president of WTC, has expressed appreciation to Mrs. Knox for the gift.

Reception To Follow Band Reunion Event

A reception will be held this Thursday night following a reunion band concert, reports Sam Robertson, high school band director.

The concert will involve both the high school and junior high bands and will be held at the high school auditorium. It will start about 7:30 p.m., said Robertson, and is expected to last about an hour.

Following the concert, a reception for all former band students and band directors will be held.

patience the answer

If Mexico and the United States got along like some countries in other parts of the world, the two neighbors might have to dig a moat a quarter mile wide and fill it with alligators and barracudas.

The United States has always been blessed by good neighbors. Mexico to the South and Canada to the North. Regrettably, relations between Mexico and the U.S. have been somewhat strained in recent months. They may get worse before they get better but let us hope that they don't deteriorate to the point that armed sentries have to patrol the whole of the border between the two countries.

If both sides show a little more patience and understanding of each other's problems, they won't.

THE DECISION of Mexico not to readmit the shah raised the hackles of some people on this side of the border. The decision shouldn't have. The shah had become a political football and the U.S. acted rather rashly in admitting him in the first place. Credit the Mexicans with being a lot more realistic than the Americans on that thorny problem.

Mexican president Lopez Portillo offended some Americans who didn't think the country deserved a blast over its policy toward Iran.

Then there is the continuing case of Ixtoc I. The runaway oil well has been spewing oil into the Gulf of Mexico for some time now and some of it has been washing up on the Texas beaches.

Mexico's misplaced pride prevented it from seeking additional expert help to control the runaway oil well. Such a stance probably can be excused on grounds that Mexico, as a newly-emerging nation, needs to display its independence from us.

Mexico must understand, however, that we share the Gulf of Mexico with her, and the problems of Ixtoc I cannot help but affect us. She should not be withholding information from us. We cannot ascertain how much oil continues to escape from the well into the Gulf, nor how long it will take to cap it. As for Mexico's responsibility for assisting in the cleanup and indemnifying those damaged by its escaping oil, Mexico refuses even to discuss the subject.

Our own administration has been too slow to rally to Texas' side in the differences that have risen over Ixtoc I. Some State Department testimony at the congressional hearings on the oil spill was conciliatory to the point of fabrication. For our solicitude, we have recently earned another reward - a boost in the price of Mexican crude oil (85 percent of which comes to this country) from $24.60 to $32 a barrel.

THE UNITED STATES is paying for some of the sins it committed against Mexico in the past. The resentment built up in Mexico against the United States over the years is legitimate.

While that may explain Mexico's attitude, it hardly excuses Mexico's actions. Our defense umbrella has always provided protective shade for Mexico, allowing her to develop in freedom and independence.

It is our intention to continue to share our border and the Gulf of Mexico in peace and mutual respect - but neighborliness is not and cannot be a one-sided relationship.

presidential president

Walter Lippmann did have a way of "hitting the nail with his head."

It was he who said that what we want in a President is "the ability to see in the excitement of daily events what really matters."

Lippmann said the future of the republic may hinge on what a candidate thinks about "the enduring questions."

Vermont Royster says, however, that American voters tend instead to be influenced by such inconsequential as gray hair or a charming smile.

What kind of President do we want? After the political regurgitation of the 1960s many Americans imagined it would be a refreshing change to have an "outsider" running things in Washington.

As a for-instance, Carter's Georgia experience had led him to believe that the way to silence potential adversaries was to embrace them.

Thus it was that he staffed his Environmental Protection Agency with Naderites-environmentalists-many of them inclined toward socialism, overtly hostile to industry.

When President Carter was reminded recently that many of his EPA's regulations were "unreasonable," were paralyzing our nation's ability to generate more energy, the President confided that he has "lost control" of his own Environmental Protection Agency.

Further, he has been unable to exercise any substantive influence even over his own party's majority in Congress.

President Carter has proved to be a fast learner. Further, he has demonstrated poise under fire.

Yet even his own mother does not consider him in the top ranks of our nation's Presidents.

So now what do we look for?

We want a Churchill or a DeGaulle and there is none in sight.

But, remember, the leadership qualities of those men were out of sight until they occupied "the seat of power."

Somewhere among the several hopefuls now wanting to be President there may be one with latent capabilities which are not yet apparent.

So I suspect that you and I will again this year have to choose among some less-than-perfect pretenders.

In making that choice let's worry less about peripheral questions; let's ask instead where each man stands on abortion, on women's rights and medicare, on wilderness preservation-if only because these answers might be clues to his other qualities.

But the first concern of America's voters this year-if we are to follow Mr. Lippmann's counsel and consider the "enduring questions"-should be that the next President will name two or possible more justices to the presently narrowly-balanced U.S. Supreme Court.

In so doing he will alter our nation's history for the next hundred years.

There is at least one of those fellows running for President you would not want making those choices.

Nostalgia is recalling the classic autos and forgetting the high-pressure tires that blew out - three to an afternoon's drive.

The boss has announced a fire sale - if the sales department doesn't start producing, everyone gets fired.

Our secretaries use three types of shorthand - Gregg, Pittman and a third type of scribble that they can't decipher, either.

CONCORD, N.H. (NEA) - More than 800 people have filled the hotel ballroom for what appears to be a conventional campaign meeting on behalf of George Bush, rapidly emerging as the leader in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

Both Bush and the man in charge of his New Hampshire primary campaign, former state Gov. Hugh Gregg, have joined the guests for cocktails, dinner, political chatter and the inevitable post-dinner speeches - but this is no routine rally.

It is a secret, unpublished briefing session for the people who constitute one of the most elaborate and sophisticated grassroots political organizations ever assembled for a presidential primary in the Granite State.

The number of dinner participants is a tipoff to the potent force of Gregg's operation. Several other candidates in the race would be hard pressed to attract a crowd as large, even including curious gawkers, window-shoppers and others not especially committed to the quest of honor.

A similar meeting organized on behalf of former California Gov. Ronald W. Reagan and attended by the candidate the following day in nearby Hooksett, N.H., attracted only about 250 volunteer workers from cities and towns around the state.

Invitations to the Bush dinner were mailed only to dedicated campaign workers throughout New Hampshire who were committed to devoting virtually all of their spare time to promoting his candidacy in the closing weeks of the race here. Spouses were welcome - but only if they were willing to make a similar personal commitment to work for Bush. The speechmaking was devoted not to extolling the virtues of the candidate but to the nuts-and-bolts aspects of the primary contest.

A gruff, no-nonsense politician, Gregg runs a highly professional operation, but he has an authoritarian streak that has led campaign workers to refer to him, half-jokingly but half-seriously, as "Ayatollah Gregg."

Item by item, he rattled through the dozens of steps designed to maximize the Bush vote on Feb. 26, checking computer-generated voter lists, securing absentee ballots for those who will be away from home on election day and providing drivers to those without transportation to the polls.

Stressing the need to proselytize not only Republicans but also independents, Gregg predicted that "if we get enough of them, the national press will notice."

More than 800 volunteers "from all areas of the country" will swarm into the state for a massive door-to-door and telephone canvassing operation in the final weeks of the campaign, Gregg promised.

When he first convened the volunteer army of Bush New Hampshire workers six months ago, only about 150 attended the meeting. Two months ago, the number had grown to 400 - and it doubled after Bush upset Reagan in the Iowa precinct caucuses.

The momentum generated by that Midwest victory, the depth of the organization effort here and the commitment of dozens of days of the candidate's time to personally wooing New Hampshire's voters during the past two years make Bush the favorite to win the upcoming primary.

But it won't be easy. The recent disclosure that Bush accepted more than $100,000 in tainted - and apparently unreported - campaign contributions during a 1970 Senate race in Texas already may have hurt him among a small but influential group of voters.

The "good government" enthusiasts attracted earlier by Bush's candor and integrity might now shift their support to Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., or Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn.

As in Iowa's Republican race last month and New Hampshire's Democratic primary in 1976, the existence of a crowded multi-candidate field makes it likely that no contender will win the GOP contest here this year by more than a few percentage points.

Thus, even a minor misstep could cause Bush to lose momentum as quickly as he acquired it. And, as Gregg told campaign workers at the closed meeting, "mistakes are very easy to make in the final weeks of the campaign."

temptation of controls

NEW YORK (AP) - As prices rise and economic expansion fades into stagnation, the pressure on President Carter to impose wage, price and credit controls grows stronger.

The president says he does not want them. His advisers say they do not work. His anti-inflation counselor, Alfred Kahn, says he will quit rather than administer controls. But still the pressure grows.

The Producers Price Index rose 1.6 percent in January, a leap that is bound to raise the level of consumer inflation. Credit usage continues to expand, even though some analysts thought the limit was reached.

The discount rate increase by the Federal Reserve Board, to 13 percent from 12 percent, is seen as anti-inflationary. But before it reduces business activity it might actually add to price pressures.

Political pressure also exists. Sen. Edward Kennedy, seeking to unseat the president, has advocated controls, and probably gained strength by doing so. And there is the temptation of controls: Some will view them as evidence of firmness and decisiveness.

The campus community, which originates many campaign ideas, may be adding to pressures. In the past few weeks, several academic economists almost apologetically have advocated controls, saying they find them personally distasteful and not to be continued long.

The American experience with controls is widely thought to be adverse, even by Gardner Ackley, who administered them under President Lyndon Johnson and who admits he suffers to think of them.

But influential professors such as Robert Solow of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Francis Bator of Harvard are among those who feel temporary controls might be needed and could be effective.

The decision is up to Carter and Congress. The power to adopt economic controls already is in the hands of the president under the Credit Control Act of 1969. For wage-price controls he would need authority from Congress. And Congress, often blamed for loose spending that leads to inflation, is under the same pressures as the president.

Serious political losses could occur. Business and labor are opposed to controls, considering them arbitrary, unfair, and eventually ineffective. Experience shows that even if they tolerate them at first, they challenge and even ignore them in the long run.

But why be concerned when, after all, the president repeatedly has said he will not seek the power to control. Because pressures of both prices and politics might force him into doing so.

With an election coming up, and with no existing administration policy likely to reduce prices or interest rates very much, controls could provide the illusion of a no-nonsense economic policy.

It matters little how often the president has restated his dislike of controls. President Nixon did the same.

And the economic and business chaos - and the big administrative bills - that could result from controls might even be delayed until after the election.

The rule is, if you want to figure out where something is going, look where it has been. Television is no exception.

I gleaned the following information out of a new publication called Panorama. It is sort of like a trade magazine except it is not for those in the TV industry but, pardon the pun, for those who are keen observers of films and the scene in TV land.

I would call this column "Looking Back" but that title has already been taken so I'll just call it, "Was there life on the Tube Before Saturday Night Live?"

25 YEARS AGO

There are 32,500,000 TV sets in America. They sit in the living rooms of 64.5 percent of the homes. Color TV is still in its infancy. News broadcasts are 15 minutes long, the cold war is raging. Elvis Presley is corrupting the youth of America with that wild new sound, rock 'n' roll.

The top ten shows in the Nielsen ratings for the month of February are: I Love Lucy, Bob Hope, Jackie Gleason, Disneyland, Academy Award Nominations, Ed Sullivan, Dragnet, You Bet Your Life, Jack Benny, Milton Berle.

10 YEARS AGO

Television is now in 95 percent of the homes, and color is in 39 percent of them. Going strong are the Beverly Hills, Petticoat Junction, Green Acres, Get Smart, Hogan's Heroes and The Flying Nun.

There are still a few westerns on the air none more popular than the old standards, Gunsmoke and Bonanza.

The zaniest show around is Laugh In. The success of Sesame Street is revolutionizing kiddie TV.

Mary Tyler Moore is preparing to launch a new show about a woman who takes a job in a Minneapolis television station.

Cops and private eyes are swarming all over the tube. The only way to tell them apart is by their gimmicks. Kojak is bald, Cannon is fat, Columbo is a slob, McCloud is a clod, Barnaby Jones is old, Baretta has a bird and Police Woman shows cleavage. The only regular guys in the whole bunch are Jim Rockford, Harry O and Joe Mannix.

But while the detectives were solving every crime in sight, it was comedy that was stealing the ratings. CBS was even breeding its winners. All in The Family gave birth to Maude and The Jeffersons. From Mary Tyler Moore came Rhoda and Phyllis.

This brings us up to the present. The evolution of a quarter of century of television has taken us from I Love Lucy to Laverne and Shirley. Did you ever get the feeling that before every new season they should announce, Dragnet style: The stories you are about to see are the same. Only the names have been changed.

Adolf Hitler became commander-in-chief of the German Army in 1941, after ousting Field Marshal Von Brauchitsch. Hitler took over after Nazi forces had suffered setbacks in the Caucasus and the failure of the assault on Moscow had denied his promise of a "gigantic operation" that would smash the Soviet Union. His decision was also intended to boost the morale of the German people on the entry of the United States into World War II.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag
It is much more difficult for a defender to count tricks than it is for declarer, but there are some occasions when a defender has no real excuse for not making correct discards.

South won the first heart in dummy and promptly led a trump. East showed out and South rose with the ace and continued with the queen.

West took his king and continued hearts with South ruffing as soon as he could. Then South started to lead out his trumps.

West should have made things easy for his partner by signalling club strength, but West had not bothered to count declarer's tricks. If West had taken the trouble to do this he would have seen that South had six trumps, a heart and two diamonds as starters and that if South held even one club he would be able to lead toward dummy's king and make his contract.

Still West's wool-gathering did not give South his contract. It was just as easy for East to see that the only way the defense could gather in four tricks would be if West held the doubleton queen-jack of diamonds and South had been dealt four little diamonds and no clubs.

So somewhere along the way East chucked a diamond and South was able to set up his eight-spot of diamonds and fulfill his contract.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

February 20, 1980
This coming year you are likely to be luckier than usual in your partnership arrangements. Allies you develop will not only prove loyal, they'll be helpful in your long-range plans as well.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Because you are willing to see another's point of view today, he or she will see yours. Use this gift to work out any problems. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Today and tomorrow concentrate on situations that could mean something to you materially. Your possibilities for gain are promising.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Devote as much time as you can schedule today to your new projects. Something big for which you are hoping can become a reality.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
The harder you try today, the luckier you are likely to become. Don't let challenges intimidate you if you are aiming for worthy rewards.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Your intuition should serve as an accurate gauge of public opinion today. You'll know how to deal effectively with others, individually or in a group.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Be alert for both career and financial opportunities today. Interesting situations that are also extremely beneficial could develop.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
You should be very lucky at gaining the allies and supporters you need to advance your self-interests today. Ask for assistance if conditions warrant it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Things you do today where you use your efforts and expertise to aid another will produce benefits you'd least expect. Be a good samaritan.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
When it comes to doing a little more horse trading today, it will be hard to find your equal. You'll be as fair to others as you'll be to yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
You will take pride in your achievements today because your basic motives are unselfish. Looking out for loved ones will be your prime concern.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
This is a good day to get in touch with friends you haven't seen much of lately. If they're close, give them a call. If they're far away, write them a note.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
You may at this time have more than one situation that could prove profitable if brought to a head. Do something today, while the aspects favor you.

Losing 51 pounds brought Debbie Hamilton out of hiding.

Extra pounds can be a heavy weight on your personality. Debbie Hamilton knows. When she weighed 180 pounds, she found herself avoiding her friends out of sheer embarrassment.

"I was so self-conscious," she says, "that I began to hide in the corner at parties, dread conversation because I just knew someone would make a remark about my weight."

Yet she couldn't seem to do much about dieting. Strict diets were too difficult. Even her doctor's warning that she had to lose weight to lower her blood pressure didn't push her to succeed at reducing. Then something exciting happened.

The Pat Walker's program: a real discovery

By chance, Debbie Hamilton took a job at a Pat Walker's Salon. It was her introduction to the unique Pat Walker's program of sensible diet combined with effective passive exercise.

Before long, she was a part of the program, too. Learning to eat the right amounts and combinations of foods. Spending a relaxing half hour or so 2 or 3 times a week on the Symmetricon passive exercise unit, as it toned and tightened flabby areas.

Personal attention and complete privacy

Debbie found that every Pat Walker's patron is given the individual attention she wants and deserves. There are no classes of a dozen women sweating through rigorous exercises or listening to cheerless pep talks. Trained professional counselors help you keep track of every step of your personal program—encouraging you, guiding you.

At Pat Walker's, privacy is your privilege. Each exercise unit is in a private room, and you don't have to wear a leotard to use it. Street clothes are fine. (Isn't the thought of no-sweat exercise refreshing?)

Debbie Hamilton thrived on her new lifestyle. The pounds disappeared at an average rate of one a week. From a tight size 14, her dress size slipped to a chic 8. Fifty-one pounds and 61 inches later, her weight was delightfully right for her 5 feet 8 inches.

"I even had to buy new shoes," she laughs. "My feet were a whole size smaller!"

Pat Walker's works for you

Debbie Hamilton has come a long way with Pat Walker's. In fact, Pat Walker's is her career now. She sees success stories like hers every day, and she's happy to tell newcomers her own story. "Using the Pat Walker's principles, I've maintained my new figure... and you wouldn't believe the energy I have. Now, when I go to a party, I'm in the middle of things. No more corners for me!"

You don't have to work at Pat Walker's to have the program work for you. Let a Pat Walker's consultant explain how you can turn your own weight problems into a success story.

We'll treat you like the special person you are, in the privacy of our luxurious salons.

Call today to reserve a time for your complimentary treatment and figure analysis. There's no obligation.

Girl Says Nay, He Goes Astray

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend of two years (I'll call him Al) has been seeing a divorced woman for the last six months (sleeping with her) on a regular basis.

When I found out about it, I confronted him with it and he admitted it. I should tell you that he and I have never been intimate because I have moral convictions concerning premarital sex.

He sees me about three nights a week, and we have a very enjoyable, lovable relationship.

What bothers me the most is that he was dishonest with me all along. He says he loves me and not her, which I believe. He told me he would like to marry me some day, and the liaison with this other woman is only temporary.

Do you think he could really love me and sleep with her? I value your opinion.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Yes it's possible that Al has been enjoying a physical (non-love) relationship with the other woman, which is all right with me provided it's all right with her. She's filling one of his needs, and he's obviously filling one of hers. I'm not asking you to condone it—just understand it.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law wonders why she and her husband aren't invited to our home more often. We would love to have them for two hours, but when they come, they stay from four to six hours!

And as if that weren't enough, they hardly ever come alone; they usually have from two to 10 "surprise guests" whom "Mom" has invited. She greets me with her famous one-liner: "Don't worry about cooking, we brought the food."

Well, Abby, there is more to serving a decent meal than putting a casserole and a pie on the table. When my husband and I want dinner guests, we invite whom we want and we serve our own menu. We don't appreciate being told whom and when we will entertain and what we will serve.

The next time Mom pulls this stunt, she may be serving her guests on the sidewalk.

STEAMED IN PENN.

DEAR STEAMED: Wouldn't it simplify matters, and avert an ugly confrontation, if you and your husband were to direct your complaints to the offending party? Your irritation is justified, but your proposed "cure" would be worse than the disease.

DEAR ABBY: You said, "Parents who smoke pot in front of their small children are guilty of child abuse."

Well, how about parents who smoke cigarettes in front of children?

Every time an adult lights up in the presence of a child, the child is forced to breathe whatever the adult is smoking. The smaller the body weight of the child, the greater the threat—especially to the lungs. While the child's body is in the process of developing, his lungs are especially vulnerable.

We now know that there is twice as much respiratory disease among children whose parents smoke cigarettes in the home.

The decision to smoke anything is no longer only the business of the smoker since his smoking does damage to those who must breathe the second-hand smoke.

CAROLE IN MAINE

DEAR CAROLE: Right on! That message is told clearly and in greater detail in a booklet, "Second-Hand Smoke." It's available (without charge) through your local Lung Association.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NEEDS TO KNOW IN COLORADO SPRINGS": If a man has gonorrhea, the chance of his partner contracting it is about 50 percent. If the woman is on the Pill, the chance of her contracting the disease is 100 percent.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Rogers Retires Gambling Attire To Hall Of Fame

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Like a gambler who should "know when to fold 'em," singer Kenny Rogers retired his gambling clothes to the Country Music Hall of Fame.

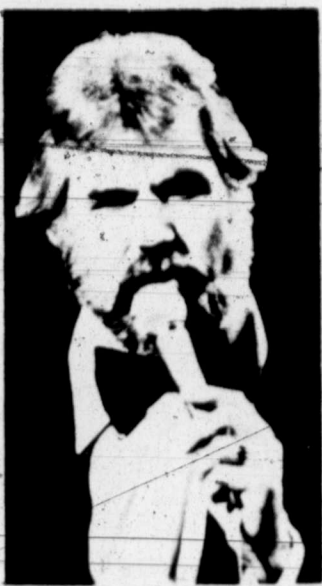

Rogers wore the costume during his acting debut in the made-for-television movie "Kenny Rogers as the Gambler," which is to be shown this spring. The movie is based on his hit single and album, "The Gambler."

"I wanted to give something identifiable," Rogers said at a news conference Monday. "My song 'The Gambler' is about the most identifiable thing I've had lately."

"But I could have sent something like a cowboy," he said with a chuckle. He was referring to his current hit song, "Cowboy of the Country."

The costume includes a cane, gray sports jacket, gray pants, brown hat, cream overcoat and cream vest with gray dots. It is to be placed in a glass case and be displayed with a black suit donated by Johnny Cash, a pink and green dress with a bonnet and price tag donated by Minnie Pearl and other costumes.

Rogers was not giving or taking odds that he will someday be inducted into the shrine.

"I've not thought about it," he said. "It would be an honor and a goal to work toward. I'll find out what the other guys in here did and do it myself."

Rogers is a former rock 'n' roll star with the First Edition and his singing style is not considered traditional country music. But hall of fame officials were honored with the gift nonetheless.

Infants Found Shot To Death

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Police were searching for the mother of two young boys whose pajama-clad bodies were found lying face down on a desolate stretch of beach along the Atlantic Ocean.

The youngsters, ages 3 and 5 months, identified as sons of a prominent Jacksonville businessman, had been shot to death late Monday, police said.

"It makes you sick," said St. Johns County Sheriff Capt. R.M. Williams. "Anybody who would do something like this has got to be sick."

Investigators said they were searching for the mother, identified as 32-year-old Nancy Bauer Jackson, who had left a note at the family home in Jacksonville that led authorities to the bodies.

"She left a note. That's how they knew how to look for the bodies. She told them where they were going to be," said Elizabeth Butler, a communications supervisor with the Duval County Sheriff's Department.

"My understanding is that the father came home and found the note. He called the police," she added.

COLLEGE BOARD OKS CONTRACTS

Also approved was the transfer of scholarship funds at WTC to the WTC Scholarship Foundation, which was organized several months ago. This will enable the foundation to invest the funds at best rates available to provide money for scholarships.

Gay Hickman, business manager, said that bids had been asked for construction of 30 golf cart sheds at the WTC golf course. Fifteen of these already have been reserved and the others are expected to go quickly. Rentals are expected to pay for the facilities in a relatively short time. Meanwhile, Dr. Robert L. Clinton, WTC president, reported that memberships offered in connection with a proposal to construct additional handball courts will be accepted until March 1. A decision on implementing the project will be made on the basis of memberships, which would finance the project.

Copies of a faculty inflation study were presented to the board for its study.

R.C. Patton, board president, presided over the meeting. Other board members attending were Howard Sterling, Edwin Parks, Dr. Robert Hargrove, Bill Jones and Cecil McNair. The next meeting of the board is set for March 10.

Pick the fuels electricity can be made from:

- coal
- natural gas
- oil
- uranium
- all of the above

"All of the above" is right. But these days two of those fuels—coal and uranium—cost less and are more plentiful than the others.

At one time, we used natural gas and some oil to generate all your electricity. And we still have to use a lot of those fuels. But today, we're making almost half your electricity with lignite coal. And we're building a plant to make electricity with uranium.

That's good. Because at the end of this year our biggest contract for low-cost natural gas expires. The new gas and oil we'll have to buy will be much more expensive.

This means the cost of electricity will go up. But not nearly as much as it would if we still used nothing but gas and oil. Our use of lignite coal and our planned use of uranium are ways we're helping minimize the increases in your electric bills.

By conserving, you can help save on your bills. To learn effective conservation measures, attend one of our free Operation Tighten-Up workshops. Call us for information on a workshop in your neighborhood.

Gasohol Major Theme Of AAM Convention

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Agriculture Movement planned to officially open its first national convention here today, with gasohol a major theme.

But that does not mean the AAM is overlooking other basic issues, namely Carter administration farm policies the organization's leaders have fiercely criticized in earlier Washington appearances.

A year ago, for example, long lines of tractors and thousands of angry farmers tried in vain to convince the administration to boost federal prices supports and change its program in other ways to help them.

Last week Marvin Meek, national AAM chairman, said this year's visit would be more orderly. Meek, of Plainview, Texas, said that just because farmers plan to refrain from disruptive demonstrations this year does not mean they are any more satisfied by the administration's farm policy.

"We'll have farmers up here through the month of February, a few of them, to work on the Hill probably through March, too," Meek said.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, who refused to budge on making major changes in farm programs a year ago, was asked last week by reporters on the eve of AAM's arrival if he was prepared for the farmers' campaign this time.

"Well, I'm as ready as I'll ever be," Bergland said. "They've been quoted as saying they're going to leave us (the Agriculture Department) alone because I'm a hopeless case."

But AAM might take some interest in Bergland's change of mind about gasohol, the blend of 10 percent alcohol and 90 percent gasoline advocated by the farmers who want grain to be the main feedstock.

A year ago Bergland was adamantly opposed to massive use of corn—the most abundant U.S. grain—for gasohol, mainly because he believed the benefits did not outweigh the costs.

Bergland has shifted his thinking significantly for two basic reasons: crude oil prices have continued to rise sharply, forcing up costs of gasoline and other energy sources. And new technologies have come along so that grain-based alcohol for gasohol is much more economically realistic.

Still 5 More Years Of Experiments...

New Process Of Recovering Oil

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Petroleum researchers think they have devised a process that could bring 100 billion barrels of underground oil to the surface, but say it will be another five years before they complete their experiments.

The Southwest Research Institute said the technique could result in profitable recovery of oil from chalk and limestone fields in Central and South Texas—fields currently considered unproductive because of the expense involved in drilling.

But further research is needed to refine the recovery method before it can be used practically, a SWRI spokesman said Monday.

The method involves injecting a mixture of oxygen and explosive gases deep into the oil-bearing formations. The mixture is then detonated, fracturing the formation and freeing the oil for easy extraction.

The technique could help recover oil from reserves that now cannot be tapped profitably. Texas Railroad Commission Chairman John Poerner estimates the state has 100 billion barrels of such deposits, in the Austin Chalk and Buda Limestone formations in South and Central Texas.

The technique is a variation of a recovery method that requires the use of a solid explosive to loosen the deposits, said

Dr. H. Norman Abramson, vice president of SWRI's engineering and sciences division.

The gaseous fracture technique came after about eight years of research financed by the institute and a private sponsor. Initial test results were encouraging.

"After we completed most of the laboratory research, however, and got ready to move into the more expensive field test stage, the sponsor dropped out," Abramson said.

Awaiting another sponsor, the institute has done only cursory research on the technique since 1977.

Abramson said a budget of about $250,000 and perhaps two years of additional research are needed before the technique can be tested in oil fields, followed by another three years of field work to refine the method.

Air Getting Cleaner; Water Another Story

By Martin Crutsinger
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The air Americans breathe is getting cleaner, but the water they drink is threatened by a variety of pollution problems, a White House advisory panel reported today.

The Council on Environmental Quality, in its annual report to Congress on the fight against pollution, labeled problems with the quality and quantity of the nation's water supplies as a "par amount issue for the nation as we enter the 1980s."

"From a variety of perspectives, the nation's water and the resources associated with it are in trouble," said Gus Speth, the council chairman. "Just as we can no longer assume that cheap energy will always be available to us at the flip of a switch, we cannot expect an endless supply of cheap, clean water at the twist of a faucet."

While citing "impressive progress" by industry in eliminating much of the raw waste once dumped into the nation's lakes and streams, the report said other pollution sources were proving much more difficult to control.

Those sources were listed as chemical waste dumps polluting underground water supplies, sewer overflows and run-off from pesticides and agricultural fertilizers.

The report said underground water supplies, which provide drinking water to half the country—are being endangered by the increasing use of chemical dumps and ponds to store hazardous wastes. The report found that only 10 percent of hazardous chemicals are stored properly, greatly increasing the danger of chemicals seeping into underground water supplies and polluting them for "centuries."

Surface water pollution has forced the closing of 4 million of the 14.6 million acres of commercial shellfish waters in the United States, according to the report. In the Chesapeake Bay alone, 400 miles of shorelines were listed as critically eroding, primarily because of overdevelopment.

Another water problem cited is the growing threat from acid rain. The report said the acidity of rainfall—blamed on sulfur dioxide pollution—had increased 50-fold in the last 25 years in the eastern half of the country, killing fish in thousands of lakes in the northeastern United States and in Canada.

The report said municipal sewage wastes are "still years away from being totally controlled," and for half of 44 cities surveyed, at least one type of downstream pollution had worsened over a 10-year span.

On Aug. 6, 1961, Russia's second cosmonaut, Gherman Titov, landed safely after 25 hours, 18 minutes in orbit.

Too poor for proteins?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—How many grams of protein are necessary every day for an adult of 60 years of age with gout and arthritis?

I'm overweight and cannot afford to purchase meat and I would like to eliminate eggs and still get sufficient protein from the better protein foods if possible. I'd appreciate any suggestions.

DEAR READER—I'm always distressed when someone writes and says he can't afford to buy the kind of food he needs to eat. Fortunately, there are good quality proteins in a variety of foods that are not quite as expensive as meat. Poultry is just as good a source of protein as the red meats. Fish is also a good source but is relatively expensive, too.

Milk contains good quality protein as do most of the products made from milk. If you're trying to lose weight, of course, you ought to use fortified skim milk and uncreamed cottage cheese.

You don't need as much protein as you might think. For adults, 56 grams of protein a day is adequate except for pregnant or lactating women and I guess you're not worried about that.

To give you more complete information about proteins I am sending you two issues of The Health Letter, numbers 3-5 and 3-6. Proteins, Part I and Part II. Other readers who want these two issues can send 75 cents for EACH with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You'll get close to 50 grams of protein in a half pound of the raw flesh weight only of poultry or fish or red meat, and you'll get about 40 grams of good protein in a quart of low-fat milk with 2 percent non-fat milk solids added.

You'll get the same amount in fortified skim milk.

I would strongly suggest that you try to meet a major portion of your protein requirements by using a quart of fortified skim milk a day. That will help you control your calories and it will also provide you with the amount of calcium that a woman in your age group should be getting on a daily basis.

You may notice if you've looked at many of the diet plans that some of the successful ones that have lasted for a long period of time include a reasonable amount of fortified skim milk in the diet. That's because it provides good quality protein and calcium without overloading the body with an excess amount of calories.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I'm 15 years old and have had my last period 10 weeks ago. Can something be wrong? My sisters didn't have any troubles with their periods when they first got theirs. I'm not pregnant.

DEAR READER—It's not particularly uncommon for a young girl to be irregular when she first starts having menstrual periods. The whole system is so complex that the amazing thing is the degree of regularity that does occur.

There are many factors that affect regularity, one being recurrent unwise fad diets. Young girls often do this to lose weight and it can affect their normal endocrine system and cause irregularity or even total absence of menstrual periods.

Why don't you relax about it and if you don't return to normal cycles within a few months, you might want to talk to your doctor about it. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Tigers Looking For 3-3A Title Tonight

BROWNFIELD -- Coach George Bylerly's Tigers can secure Snyder High School's second district championship in a four-day period with a victory over the Brownfield Cubs here tonight.

Saturday, the Snyder girl's team defeated San Angelo Lake View in playoff action to notch a conference title. The girls are playing for bi-district in Abilene this evening, against Mineral Wells.

Games here tonight tip-off at 6:15 with the respective junior varsity groups vying. At 8 the varsity teams play. Tickets are $1.50 for adults and .75 for students.

The boys, ranked No. 2 in the state and 24-4 on the season, remain as the only unbeaten 3-AAA team in second-half loop play. A victory either tonight or Friday against Sweetwater would earn at least a tie for the Tigers. By virtue of a 4-0 first-round record, the team would automatically be awarded the district crown.

Brownfield goes into the game 12-14 on the season and 3-4 in overall district play. Snyder defeated the Cubs 79-55 in an earlier meeting this season. Other action tonight was to pit Mineral Wells against Wichita Falls Hirschi in a District 4-3A game. A Wichita victory would sew up the championship for Hirschi. Should Mineral Wells win, the Rams would meet Weatherford to decide the title.

The eventual 4-3A champion will meet the 3-3A title holder, presumably Snyder, in bi-district play next week.

Andrews, the 2-3A champion, will face Borger, the 1-3A victor, next week in another bi-district meeting.

Bi-district champions will vie in regional play at a later date. Snyder is currently No. 2 in the state in class AAA, while Borger is No. 7. Andrews, No. 6 last week, dropped out.

SMU Upsets Arkansas

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist Coach Sonny Allen needed Monday night's shocking 62-58 upset over Arkansas almost as much as Texas A&M coach Shelby Metcalf, but for a different reason.

The loss knocked the Razorbacks out of a share of the Southwest Conference basketball leadership with the Aggies, who play Texas Christian tonight at home.

The Aggies are 12-2 in the league with a road game at Houston also on the schedule.

The Razorbacks dropped to 12-3 and host Texas Tech Saturday afternoon in a regionally televised game.

CARDS 'N' DOGS—Hermleigh and Ira met here last night in a 10-B playoff, with Ira taking the victory by a scant 44-41. Dogs, Lions Victorious; Meet In Bout Thursday Ira's Bulldogs and the Lions of Roby advance to the championship game of the 10-B boys' Tournament, to be held at Snyder High School Gym, 7 p.m. Thursday.

An earlier report, which indicated the title game would be held Friday, was incorrect.

In a pair of close ones last night, Ira nipped Hermleigh 44-41 and Roby edged Westbrook 42-40 to set up Thursday's playoff here.

Keith Bryant and R.D. Phillips paced the Bulldogs with 14 and 12 points respectively. Ira's leading scorer for the season, 6-7 Robert Mitchell, was suffering from an ankle injury which limited him severely. After scoring only two points in the first half, he punched in six in the third quarter to help out. Wade Pierson also got eight, and Scott Sharp added two.

Chip Roemisch, who has quarterbacked Hermleigh on the football field and basketball court for the past several years, led the Cardinals with a game-high 15 points. John Williamson garnered nine points between pulling down some key first-half rebounds, while Kenny Riley scored seven, Ascension Fuentes and Andrew Rodriguez got five apiece.

Yogi Berra won pennants as a manager in both the American and National Leagues and in the same city, with the New York Yankees in 1964 and the New York Mets in 1973.

Midland Falls; Wranglers Too

Western Texas College received some unexpected breathing room atop the Western JC Athletic Conference ladder as the biggest upsets of the season were recorded last night.

Midland College, ranked No. 8 in the National Junior College Athletic Association poll and riding a 23-2 record, was an upset victim to Frank Phillips College in Borger, 65-63. In another important WJCAC contest, Odessa College fell to Howard Community College in Big Spring, 70-60.

The twist of fate gives Western Texas College's Westerners, 27-0, a two-win lead over Midland's Chaparrals, and puts them three ahead of the Wranglers from Odessa.

Felines Face Mineral Wells

ABILENE—Snyder's Felines will have to overcome height and playoff experience to be crowned bi-district champions here tonight.

The Felines take on a veteran Mineral Wells team which holds a 3½ inch height advantage per player over the Snyder bunch.

The Ramettes, 22-2 on the season, boast height in 6-1 Marlea Simonton, 6-0 Regina Kimbrough, and 6-0 Cora Moore. Snyder's tallest starters are a pair of sophomores, 5-8 Tracey O'Day and 5-7 Brenda Anderson.

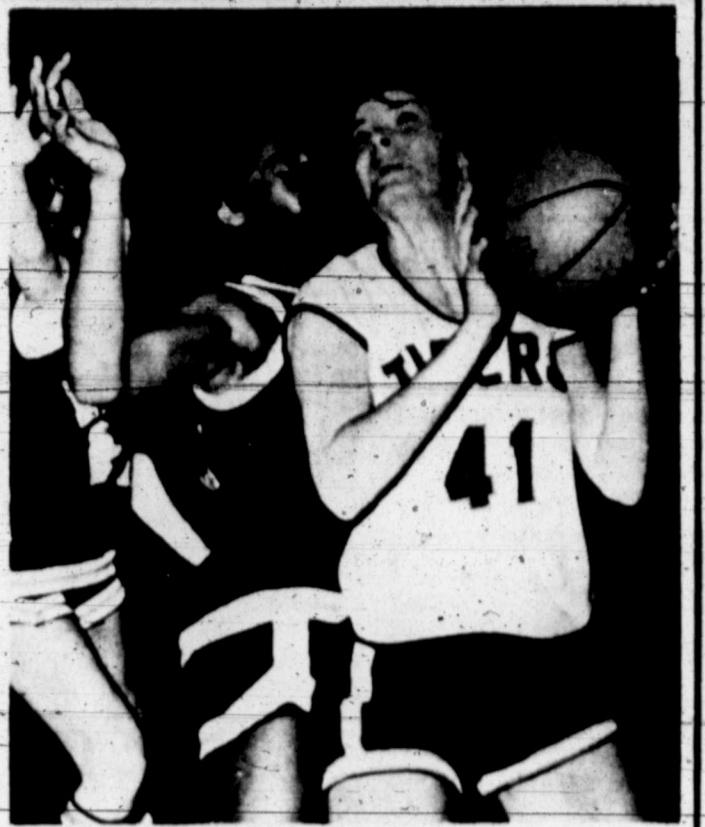

"Hopefully we'll be a little quicker than them," said Coach Ken Housden, who takes his Felines against the Ramettes at 7:30 in Abilene High Gym. "Maybe we can find an advantage that way. We're going to have to do well on the boards (rebounding), somehow. We'll use our press if we can, and hopefully force some turnovers."

The Ramettes are the defending bi-district champions, coming off of a 27-5 season last year, which took them to a regional playoff before they lost to Dumas 68-66 in double overtime.

Snyder's Felines will be playing in their first bi-district contest ever, having defeated San Angelo Lake View 46-44 in overtime Saturday to earn the trip. It was the first time in five years Snyder had defeated the Lake View Maids, who have dominated girl's 3-AAA basketball until this year.

The Felines come into the game with a 19-9 record, which includes wins over Midland High, Lubbock High, Odessa Ector, Odessa High, Vernon and others.

Tickets for tonight's playoff are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Demonettes Slap Monahans Ladies

LUBBOCK—The Dumas Demonettes throttled Monahans 78-49 here last night to clinch a regional playoff berth.

Led by Trish Fortenberry's 40-point spree, the Demonettes led 14-6 at the first quarter, 34-25 at halftime and 51-30 going into the final quarter.

Dumas girls, 28-2 on the season, will play the winner of tonight's Snyder-Mineral Wells game at a later date for the regional title.

Richardson Praises Team...

Westerners Out-Gun Amarillo

AMARILLO -- Western Texas College Coach Nolan Richardson didn't have a lot to say about his Westerner's 96-89 victory over Amarillo College here last night. But he did have a lot to say about his players.

"They say your team is as strong as its weakest player. In our case our weakest may turn out to be the strongest. Not on the court maybe, but... as a team player, a man, a person.

"When the game is over and here comes up to you a kid that maybe sat on the bench the whole game or didn't get to play much, and he says 'Great game Coach,' and he means it, well, it just shows what kind of caliber these kids are. For the first time in 15 years, I walked over to the corner of the dressing room after a game and shed a few tears. I said 'I want to thank you, Lord.' I could never have made them that way."

He added, "I want them to know I definitely appreciated all of them and their efforts. The community of Snyder is lucky to have... guys like this on its ball club. WTC is very fortunate to have a group like this on its campus, and I must thank the Lord each night that he has assembled this group under my direction."

The victory was Western Texas' 27th straight, and leaves them atop the conference ladder with a 15-0 record. Amarillo fell to 7-8 in WJCAC play.

Behind by 11 points at one time, Western Texas kicked into overdrive when Freddie Davis came off the bench to score three straight buckets. Amarillo still led by 49-47 at halftime, but using those patented surges, Western Texas eventually caught and passed the Badgers, taking the lead for keeps mid-way through the first half.

Richardson had enough praise to fill a novelle on the individual performance of his players. His guards brought in 36 of the points, and nine players figures in the scoring. Greg Stewart led with 25, followed by Phil Spradling with 14. Bill Patterson with 13, Paul Pressey with 12 and David Brown with 10.

The coach also had plenty of praise for Amarillo's Bradley, who scored 32 points for the Badgers in a great individual effort. WTC held the conference's No. 2 leading scorer, Victor Mitchell, to 15.

Liechtenstein Can Enter Record Book

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP)—The medals race has turned into a two-nation tug of war between East Germany and the Soviet Union, but tiny Liechtenstein, a dot on the world globe, had a chance to write some Winter Olympic history of its own today.

When Andreas Wenzel, leader after the first heat of the men's giant slalom, went after his medal today, it gave Liechtenstein, a Western European country with a population of 20,000, a shot at its second medal of these Games. The first, a silver in the women's downhill, belongs to Andreas' older sister, Hanni.

Never before in Olympic history have a brother and sister both taken Alpine medals home.

Barbara Petzold's victory in Monday's only medal event, the women's 10-kilometer cross country ski race, gave East Germany its 12th medal of these Games, one more than the Soviet Union. Three Russians lead in gold 6-3. Austria, the United States and Finland are next in the medal standings with four each.

Two of the American medals are golds, both won by speed skater Eric Heiden.

Dusters On Track! Stop Badgers 76-73

AMARILLO --Western Texas College's Dusters, who appeared to be in a slump just two weeks ago, looked like jack-benjamin here last night, leaping over Amarillo College's Badgers 76-73 in an important WJCAC contest.

The win ties the Dusters for the most wins in a season record at WTC - 23 - and put them in second place along with Odessa College in the conference standings.

"It was probably the greatest win we've had this season for several reasons," said an elated Coach Joe Cushing. "We had our backs to the wall going into the game; we were playing Amarillo on their home floor; and we had been in a slump. We came out of it last night. "It really did our team a tremendous amount of good. They played super ball game. It was a great, great team effort from everybody involved."

The contest was a close one all the way. WTC built up a nine point half-time lead, 43-34, only to see Amarillo tie it up with the aid of four straight baskets early in the second period.

"A lesser team would have lost their composure then, I think," said Cushing. "Our girls played real well under pressure."

The teams then exchanged leads a number of times before WTC went up by four points with six minutes left. Amarillo had some late chances at the free throw stripe which might have put them back in the game, but only hit two of six.

Throwing a new look at the Lady Badgers, the Dusters used a 1-3-1 zone defense throughout the game, which they had incorporated only a week ago. "It was very effective, I think," said the coach. "We did a good job of it, forcing their guards into shooting the ball, which they aren't used to doing as much."

The Dusters utilized a patient 1-4 offense, which led to 58 percent shooting in the first half. Individually, Linda Holube had 20 points; Katie Fisher had 17 points (7 of 10 from the field), seven rebounds, three steals and a blocked shot; Shari Teal had 17 points, 13 rebounds and two blocked shots; Joyce Plagens had 8 points, 11 rebounds, five assists and four steals; and Bonnie Bludworth had 10 points and a blocked shot.

Olivia Jones led Amarillo with 26 points. Pam Cobb and Kim Arterburn added 14 apiece.

Amarillo falls to 6-4 in conference play. WTC is 7-3, and 23-9 on the season.

Are you worried about the high cost of heating?

The Kero-Sun Radiant 10 operates on clean burning, safe kerosene. Amazingly efficient, the Radiant 10 burns over 30 hours on less than 2 gallons of fuel, producing a remarkable 9,400 BTU/hr (heating as much as 3,000 cu. ft.). This portable per hour heating method brings welcome relief from today's cost of heating (1/3 to 1/2 cost of equivalent electric heat). So stop shivering, start shopping for a Kero-Sun Radiant 10 heater.
